The Canton Connection

QUITE A SPELL: Holly Quick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Quick of Provincetown Lane, Plymouth, and a sixth grader at Central Middle School, is the 1986 spelling bee champion of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. Sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth graders competed throughout the district and then the building winners vied to determine the eight semifinalists.

Holly received her award recently from Richard Egli, administrative assistant for community relations, during a live telecast of the final contest at the Omnicom studios.

ANTIQUES AUCTIONED: Angelo DiPonio, prominent Detroit contractor, will hold a public auction June 22 to liquidate a portion of his vast collection of horse-drawn vehicles and farm machinery. Among the items to go on the block will be a fully restored Borden milk wagon, an oak open buggy, a reconditioned grain wagon and a hotel wagon. Many of the conveyances once belonged to Greenfield Village and were later used at the Saddle Ridge Club, founded by the late Harry Bennett of Ford Motor Co. DiPonio also will sell a large quantity of antique horse-drawn farm implements, all in working condition, plows, planters, hay rakes, and a pair of Belgium draft horses. The auction will begin at 1 p.m. Sunday, June 22, at 5697 Curtis between N. Territorial and Ann Arbor Road in Salem Township. The Whalen Auction Service of Plymouth will conduct the auction.

ARRANGING FLOWERS: Canton Public Library invites residents to attend a free demonstration of flower arranging at 7 p.m. Thursday, June 19. Michele Sigmon will describe shape, color, wiring and taping by assembling an arrangement, which will be given away at the end of the evening. Sign up to attend by stopping at the library, which is on the third floor of the Township Administration Building on Canton Center Road or by calling the library at 397-0999.

Plaza battle at boiling point

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Mayfair Village subdivision resident Dave Thomas approaches his neighbor, Ada Roser, with a petition opposing Coventry Commons East shopping plaza.

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Mayfair Village homeowners — who started the drive to stop the development of Coventry Commons East shopping center — have been joined by residents from Plymouth Township and other Canton subdivisions.

They showed support at a meeting last week where they voiced concerns about increased traffic and an addition to the "glut of strip shopping malls" they say would result from the 114,000-square-foot development on the southeast corner of Morton Taylor and Joy. A&P, Arbor Drugs and ACO are proposed anchor stores.

A group of Mayfair residents organized the meeting to formulate opposition plans.

Petitions protesting the mall are circulating and are expected to be returned before the Canton Township Board of Trustee special meeting 7 p.m. Tuesday. The board is scheduled to consider amending a 1975 Wayne Circuit Court consent judgment. An amendment to the consent judgment would allow the center.

A MAJOR ISSUE, residents say, is that developers Nelson/Ross didn't post signs announcing the rezoning 20 days before public hearings, as required by Canton's zoning ordinances. The point was raised at the meeting by Mayfair resident Beth Dowd. The sign ordinance also requires a permit and bond.

"We've always done whatever steps we were supposed to follow as told to us by the township," said developer David Nelson in an interview last week.

"We've gone out of our way to proceed properly and the township to my knowledge has acted appropriately," Nelson said. "People act like we're doing this in the dead of the night.

"I feel like I've been harassed. Tenants have been called up and spoken to in a manner not appropriate. A cadre of people are dead-set against this. But I don't know that they represent all the people in that area."

Nelson said residents must know about the project from "numerous" public hearing announcements, legal publications, newspaper coverage, cable telecasts and neighborhood campaigning.

"Should the township choose not to comply with the Charter Township of Canton Zoning Ordinance, we are prepared to file for an injunction from the Circuit Court of Wayne County on June 18, 1986," Joseph Michelin, Mayfair ad hoc committee member, wrote in a letter to Canton Supervisor James Poole.

"We feel we must take further action to slow the project down and to make the board follow their own zoning ordinances," Michelin said. "What really bothers us is that they are being selective in this development because there are development sites all over the township with signs."

Canton's attorney David Berry said the township has followed notification requirements by mailing announcements of the hearing to residents within 300 feet of the site.

Community and Economic Development Director David Nicholson said the township has "gone above and beyond what was requried" to notify residents of public hearings. And he said his office has followed advice of attorneys.

Nicholson also noted that Canton's Master Plan has designated the site for commercial zoning since Canton's 1980 Master Plan.

"The township is confident, as I am confident, that everyone who wanted to object had an opportunity to object — particularly Mr. Michelin who was the first to speak at the public hearing," Berry said. "This is really a fight between the developer and the homeowners."

If the homeowners had rights, Berry added, the township wanted to cooperate in every way.

OPPONENTS want to delay construction in hopes of stopping the project.

Commissioner quits; cites conflict with staff

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Richard Anderson has quit the Canton Township Planning Commission after voting "his conscience" on two controversial issues that bucked staff recommendations.

He voted against rezoning a parcel on Haggerty between Ford and Cherry Hill to allow apartments. In another case, he voted against allowing the proposed shopping center on Morton Taylor and Joy. Both were recommended for approval by staff, but strongly opposed by residents near each site.

"I formed my opinion on both of these issues based on the facts presented to us by the staff, the developers and the citizens of Canton," Anderson wrote in his resignation letter dated June 3 to Supervisor James Poole.

"I voted the 'wrong way' on both of these issues, and according to Dave Nicholson (Canton's community and economic development director), I 'let the staff down.' "

Anderson was named to the commission in January and before that served for about four years on the Canton Zoning Board of Appeals. He said his resignation is firm but he planned to work on another Canton board or commission.

"After the close of the commission meeting of May 30, I objected to Mr. Nicholson's statement that the planning commission let the staff down with regard to the multiple family proposal on Haggerty Road."

IN ORDER OF priority, Anderson said, he is responsible to the township, the affected residents and developers.

Charge filed after molestation near school

By Diane Gale
staff writer

A Dearborn man has been charged with molesting an 11-year-old Canton girl near Hulsing Elementary School after allegedly confessing to two incidents involving school children in Livonia.

Livonia Police said they suspected Paul Brian Hurin, 21, was involved in the Livonia cases and linked him as a possible suspect in Canton. Hurin voluntarily turned himself into Livonia Police and admitted to the Canton and two Livonia cases, said Canton Police Detective Robert Sidor.

Hurin said he had a problem and wanted professional help, Sidor wrote in a police report.

The Canton girl told police she was walking with two friends to school on a wooded footpath to Hulsing Elementary School. A man ran out, held out his arms and blocked the pathway. She said he grabbed her from behind and fondled her.

Police are still investigating the Livonia cases that took place in May and June near Washington Elementary School and Hoover Elementary School, according to Livonia Police Sgt. Ann Dempsey.

A PARENT whose child attends Washington said a composite of the Canton attacker that ran in the Observer fit the description a Livonia victim gave, Dempsey said.

Police said Hurin admitted to the two Livonia incidents under questioning from Livonia Officer James Pardo. He also told officers he developed "this problem about six months ago," according to a Canton police report.

"Livonia police played a really big part in this, as well as the use of the identification kit," Sidor said. "When you've got a face instead of just a description it's a lot better. We also got a lot of tips and help from people in the public."

Hurin was arraigned last week in 35th District Court before Judge John MacDonald on one count of second-degree criminal sexual conduct in connection with the Canton case. Second-degree CSC is a felony and carries a maximum 15 years in prison.

A plea of not guilty was entered. Hurin's father posted 10 percent of a $15,000 bond. He is scheduled to appear Monday, June 23, in 35th District Court for a preliminary examination to determine if there is enough evidence to hold a trial.

As a result of the Canton incident parents raised concerns about the wooded pathway near Hulsing.

"The Canton DPW will still clear the path back not only at Hulsing but they will check all school areas and take similar measures to remove brush," said Canton Police Chief John Santomauro.

Morale booster urges a yearn to live

By Christine Rizk

He's a man who's touched hundreds with his personal crusade to convince teenagers that they need not turn to suicide as an answer to their problems.

Earlier this month, Canton resident Jim Tuman spoke before a substantially smaller audience. It was plain to see, though, that his words work wonders even in smaller circles.

Tuman, an advocate of developing self-esteem in teens as a method of reducing the increasing suicide rate among high school students, spoke before a crowd of 23 parents and teens June 5 in the Canton Public Library.

THE EFFECT was typical for Tuman's forums.

"Who's the most important person you know?" Tuman asked the crowd.

The crowd hedged. Few raised their hands. Even fewer wanted to say what they knew Tuman was expecting.

"Why is that so difficult to say?" he asked, responding to one audience member's answer that she was most important. "We are so busy working off of other people's standards that we can't see our own value."

As a promoter of three national programs aimed at women, children and Vietnam veterans, and as a nationwide speaker on teens, Tuman says he has had a lot of time to examine his own values.

He told the audience of a personal experience which led to his renewed conviction that adults and teens must set priorities in their lives and stick with them.

"I met this man in a restaurant when he sat down beside me. At first I acted disinterested but he kept talking to me. He told me he had leukemia and that he had sold everything he owned, including his business, and was traveling the

Bob Evans is robbed

An armed robber stole about $100 from Bob Evans restaurant in Canton Saturday.

At about 3:36 p.m. a man approached the cash register counter and asked for a pack of fruit-flavored candy. When the hostess opened the drawer the man leaned over the counter and said: "I have a gun. Give me the money." He also warned her not to "alarm anyone."

The 15-year-old hostess said she thought she saw a gun in the man's pocket.

The man left the restaurant and ran across the parking lot to a blue 1985 or 1986 Ford Escort where another man waited.

The hostess immediately notified her manager who watched the subject run through the parking lot. The men were last seen driving east on Ford Road.

The manager copied a license plate number, which is one of several leads being followed by Canton Police.

Report given on Allen virus

Investigators trying to determine the cause of the viral outbreak at Allen Elementary School April 21 that affected more than 150 students and staff say that while the virus has been identified, "we will probably never know" the exact source of the contamination.

Dr. Donald Lawrenchuk, medical director of the Wayne County Department of Health, reported that following tests and attack-rate studies, investigators believe "that water or food items prepared using water may have contributed to the outbreak."

However, Lawrenchuk said this can't be confirmed because when his department first gathered samples April 23 at the school, both water and food were found free of contamination.

Investigators report they are satisfied that the virus was a Norwalk-type virus, which typically causes stomach ailments and diarrhea — symptoms reported by those becoming ill at Allen School following contamination.

Church designated historical site

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Cherry Hill United Methodist Church, with an active membership for more than 150 years, will be designated a state historic site.

Canton Township observed the kickoff of the Michigan Sesquicentennial with the dedication of Cherry Hill United Methodist Church as a state historic site.

A state marker was erected following the morning Sunday service on June 15.

The historic Cherry Hill Village church has had an active membership for more than 150 years. Many of the current members are direct descendants of the founders.

THROUGH THE efforts of the Canton Historic Society, the church was listed on the State Register of Historic Sites in 1977.

According to Dorothy West, local historian and member of the church for 62 years, the church was part of a Methodist circuit for 92 years, sharing ministers with other congregations. It wasn't until 1974 that a parsonage was built and the Rev. Leonard Ritzler became the first fulltime pastor.

In 1977, the Rev. Bert Hoskings replaced Ritzler.

Hoskings' final service at the church, before his retirement, will take place Sunday, prior to the dedication ceremony.

According to the history of the Cherry Hill Church, compiled by Madelyn Bastian of Canton, the church was established in 1834 and was first served by circuit rider Marcus Swift.

THE CONGREGATION met in farm houses until 1848, when $600 was raised to build the first frame church.

Although the building weathered well, by the 1880s the membership was ready for a "proper" church. A fundraising effort yielded $2,500 for construction of a new church. The little red brick gothic church served the community of Cherry Hill for more than 100 years.

In addition to being an historic site, the church also is a key feature of the historic Cherry Hill Village, at Cherry Hill and Ridge roads in western Canton.

The village was established in the early 1830s and was important as a service center for the surrounding agricultural region. It once contained a mill, blacksmith shop, general store, inn, and school, as well as the church.

In the early 1940s Henry Ford selected the Cherry Hill Village as the site of a village industry. He built a small factory and employed disabled World War II veterans at the site.

Ford also refurbished a creamery building as a dormitory to house the veterans. Both the factory and the dormitory, along with several other original buildings, still are in use at the village.

Yearn to live urged by speaker country before he died.

"I had this sudden sense of urgency to see and talk to him, he affected me that much.

"Everyone of you in the room has the power to influence thousands."

TUMAN IS NOT new to the realm of influencing people.

In what has become a typical reaction to his speeches, teens routinely gather around each other, confessing their problems, embracing or simply crying.

Emotions were equally high in the smaller crowd as parents and teenagers wiped their eyes. Two teenagers, veterans of Tuman's earlier talks, testified to his effective approach to teen problems.

Mark Hackett and Tracy Reardon, both 15 and students at Lowell Middle School in Westland, are victims of increasing peer pressure and loss of self-esteem.

Both have attempted suicide. Both admit now that it was Tuman who helped them gain back the confidence they had lost to continue living.

Tuman's talks have "a big effect on everybody," said Hackett. "Students really get into it."

"It lasts long after he leaves," Reardon agreed, adding that she has much closer friends now than before.

"He just senses things," Hackett said, describing Tuman as succinctly as he could.

"Kids today are overwhelmed by everything," said Tuman. "We have to realize that put-downs hurt. It means that we've stopped looking at each other's needs."

Tuman said that school curriculums are " . . . so curriculum centered that teachers don't look at feelings issues."

He advocated instituting support programs from "the time we begin to see the pain" in teenagers.

"Somehow we've missed the boat . . . nobody can really identify where they fit in."

AT ONE POINT, in an effort to emphasize the misplaced importance of money in today's society, he reached out into the audience and tore up a dollar bill offered by a young girl.

"I know people who have compromised themselves for this," Tuman said, pointing to the ripped bill on the floor. "If this is the only reason you get up everyday then there will never be enough of it.

"How do you know you don't have only six months to live? There are no guarantees. So if you're waiting for time to put priorities on the people in your life, then there may not be enough time."

Looking to the adults in the audience, Tuman said that the problems don't stop in school. "The older we get, it's just a different set of toys."

Tuman, whose talks have been captured on local television stations, showed video tapes of recent school meetings. Audience members witnessed a roller coaster of emotions as hundreds of teens at a local high school clung to each other as Tuman admonished parents and teachers for failing to reach students.

How does Tuman know he's reaching kids? He pointed to the videotape and to the look on the faces of his audience.

In what perhaps could be considered the best testimonial to his success in reaching out were Hackett's final remarks.

"I just don't feel like I have to take my own life to feel better now."

Anderson resigns

He stressed during an interview last week that his resignation is "not a personal attack" on Nicholson. He also emphasized that he is not an advocate for Mayfair Village residents who have adamantly opposed the Coventry Commons East development on Morton Taylor and Joy.

Anderson said he was requested by Dr. Richard Kirchgatter, planning commission chairman, to "re-evaluate" his role on the commission.

"It is apparent to me that my philosophy of service on the commission is not in concert with the remaining members of the commission. I am especially disturbed by some members of the commission who make a point of not being influenced by speakers at the public hearings."

However, the "vast majority of time" he voted in accordance with other commission members. On some occasions the planning commission has been responsive to residents' concerns, he added.

"But some individuals and some actions of the staff tend to indicate a lack of sensitivity to the residents.

"Emotion and great multitudes of citizens spouting gibberish do not influence me. What does influence me are the logical and well-thought-out statements by concerned citizens on how the proposed development is going to affect their lives.

"To routinely tune out the speakers at a public hearing, so you won't be swayed by their arguments makes a sham out of the public hearing process.

"I believe it is also a way of saying, 'Don't confuse me with the facts, my mind is made up and besides I know what is good for you.'"

ANDERSON, a geo-technical engineer, wrote that he is a "fatal flaw in the eyes of staff" because he is sensitive to residents.

"Because I cannot and will not abdicate what I believe to be my responsibilities to the other residents of this township, and I choose not to be an obstructionist on the commission, I hereby resign."

The planning commission makes recommendations to the Canton Township Board of Trustees. Commission members are recommended by the supervisor and appointed with board approval.

The planning commission meets the second and fourth Mondays of the month, and commissioners are paid $40 a meeting, according to Canton Clerk Linda Chuhran.

Plaza sparks debate

"This may not change the outcome but it gives us time," said Lynn Kocan, Mayfair resident. "Maybe the stores that expected to be in there in August will drop out."

Mayfair residents argue that as property owners they are party to the 1975 consent judgment and have a say on how the land will be used. The consent judgment says the land is to be used for "entertainment and leisure" activities.

Last March Mayfair Village Homeowners Association and eight Mayfair residents filed a lawsuit claiming the development violated the consent judgment. Residents argued that the township failed to properly notify them of the mall before major development steps were taken. Wayne Circuit Judge Louis Simmons issued a restraining order stopping the development.

Nelson Ross threatened to file a counter lawsuit against the plaintiffs to cover money losses if the case was pursued. The plaintiffs agreed to sign-off and agreed not to attempt to delay the development.

"We made an agreement with people we thought represented all the people, and now they're saying they represented only four people," Nelson said.

Representatives from the Plymouth Community Family YMCA were at the meeting suggesting a YMCA site follows the 1975 land use plan. The representatives stressed, however, they weren't in a financial "position to just walk in" and the community "would have to show its support."

Bob Paszko, another Mayfair resident in the ad hoc group, asked residents to attend and "bring a friend" to the special board meeting.

Senators urge JOA gets public hearing

By Teri Banas
staff writer

A former Detroit Free Press executive editor, speaking before a state Senate panel in Detroit last week, compared a merger between his former employer and the Detroit News to a media monopoly not unlike "a 600-pound gorilla — free of almost any restraint."

Birmingham resident Kurt Luedtke, who's been an outspoken critic of the proposed Joint Operating Agreement between The Detroit Free Press and the Detroit News, predicted the papers could become a "formidable adversary" to suburban newspapers competing for advertising dollars.

"The public hasn't been told enough of what the policies (of the dailies) would be under a JOA," he said when asked to assess a merger's effect on suburban newspaper business.

ROYAL OAK Tribune publisher Jeanne Towar testified Thursday about concerns of "predatory practices" by the Detroit papers if the merger is approved.

When asked by Sen. John Kelly, D-Detroit, if she feared practices might "wipe all independents out of business," she responded: "I do see that as a possibility."

Kelly said the combined dailies could offer a Sunday circulation of 1.3 million based on current circulation figures, providing a more attractive market for regional advertisers.

Towar said that while regional advertising makes up just 15 percent of her local paper's advertising revenue, with "mom and pop-type" businesses accounting for the majority, loss of regional advertising could "very well put us in a downward spiral."

TOWAR, THE only newspaper publisher to testify last week, was among eight witnesses who appeared before the state Senate Judiciary Committee, which is considering a bill, offered by Kelly, to ask for federal public hearings on the JOA.

Kelly said he planned this week to introduce a resolution that would have the state Legislature request federal hearings on the merger. Approval of the JOA rests with U.S. Attorney General Edwin Meese.

Kelly's proposed legislation originally set up veto powers to be used by the Michigan Attorney General's Office over the JOA. But last week a Wayne State University law professor, Stephen Calkins, dissuaded him from pursuing that course when he testified that would be unconstitutional.

Detroit-area retailer Norman Rosenfeld, owner of the 37-store Sibley shoe chain, said he was concerned that "advertising prices will go up" under a merger. Noting that 85 percent of his advertising expense is in newspapers, he laid out a scenario that, starting with excessive advertising costs, could cause his business to stop expanding and "adding jobs to the state of Michigan.

"Competition is great, and we should try and keep it," he said.

METROPOLITAN DETROIT Magazine editor Kirk Cheyfitz, another former Free Press employee, echoed Luedtke's comments by calling The Detroit Free Press "the most successful failing newspaper in America."

Under the Newspaper Preservation Act of 1970, two papers cannot merge unless one is shown to be "failing." The dailies have reported that since 1980 they have lost a combined $63 million.

Luedtke said he doesn't believe that criterion is being met in the Free Press' case, however, pointing to its decisions to add 70 editorial positions in recent years, building a riverfront printing plant in Detroit, opening national and international bureaus "as if it's a thriving, money-making newspaper."

He further criticized both papers for keeping their newstand prices far below national standards. (The Detroit Free Press sells at 20 cents and The Detroit News at 20 cents).

"A simple five-cent hike would equal $6 million. That's not any small amount of money," he said.

Area reps vote to keep urban grant funds

Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll-call votes during the week ending June 6.

HOUSE

UDAG MONEY — By a vote of 93 for and 289 against, the House rejected an amendment to kill the Urban Development Action Grant (UDAG) program by denying it fiscal 1987 funding.

This rebuffed President Reagan, who wants to eliminate the politically popular program. UDAG grants, the majority of which have benefited depressed areas of northern cities, provide federal seed money for private projects such as hotels and shopping centers.

Fiscal 1987's UDAG funding level is estimated at $280 million, down from this year's $316 million.

The vote came during debate on a multi-year authorization measure (HR 1) that extends some 50 major housing and community development programs. The bill, carrying a fiscal 1986 price tag of $14.3 billion, remained under debate.

Amendment sponsor John Hiler, R-Ind., said UDAG was not "in the national interest" because it has a regional bias that favors a limited number of states and congressional districts.

Nancy Johnson, R-Conn., who opposed the amendment, praised UDAG for uniting government and private sectors in a constructive effort against urban blight.

Members voting yes wanted to kill the UDAG program.

Voting no: Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, Dennis Hertel, D-Harper Woods, William Ford, D-Taylor, Sander Levin, D-Southfield, William Broomfield, R-Birmingham.

PUBLIC HOUSING — The House passed, 223 for and 180 against, an amendment to block virtually all new public housing construction, by diverting money for that purpose to the repair of existing units.

The vote occurred during debate on HR 1 (above), which had earmarked about $860 million for new projects in fiscal 1986. It marked a major shift in House policy toward public housing, because in previous years it almost always voted money for new units. The Senate also is moving to block an enlargement of the public housing stock.

Sponsors said America's public housing inventory is dilapidated, with more than a third of the 1.2 million units needing repairs of $5,000 or more. They said the $860 million would fix 64,000 units but build only 4,600 new units.

Members voting yes supported a policy shift that emphasizes the repair of existing public housing rather than the construction of new units.

Voting yes: Republicans Pursell, Broomfield.

Voting no: Democrats Hertel, Ford and Levin.

HOMELESS SHELTER — By a vote of 242 for and 116 against, the House passed and sent to the Senate a bill on behalf of community activist Mitch Snyder's shelter for homeless people in the District of Columbia.

Snyder, the subject of a recent television movie, has become prominent by fasting to persuade President Reagan to release federal money to shelter Washington's homeless.

The measure (HR 4784) speeds up the planned renovation of a three-story federal property near Capitol Hill that Snyder's group operates for several hundred street people. It gives the D.C. government jurisdiction over the shelter, a precondition of the $5 million renovation, which the city wants to complete before cold weather returns.

Members voting yes wanted to expedite the renovation of the homeless shelter near Capitol Hill.

Voting yes: Hertel, Ford, Levin.
Not voting: Pursell, Broomfield.

THE 'DRY SOCKET' AS A CAUSE OF JOINT PAIN

You may have heard someone complain that their hip or knee pain felt like: "dry socket," and express the opinion that the best treatment was to "put a little lubrication into the joint."

What is really happening in such cases is that the cartilage that covers the bones has worn down, and the bones that form the joint are rubbing against each other.

Usually when bone is grinding against bone, debris is released which acts as an irritant to cells lining the joint capsule. The lining cells react by producing increased amounts of joint fluid. The presence of extra fluid, while making walking difficult, acts like a liquid wedge between bones and slows the process of bone rubbing against bone.

At other times, for reasons that are not clear, the lining cells do not produce any extra joint fluid. The result is the feeling of having "a dry socket."

Treatment in such cases focuses on providing pain relief, and keeping the individual active until surgery is necessary. Aspirin is useful because of its effect in stopping pain, and injections are undertaken to dampen the intensity of local inflammation.

GOP seeks to gain McCollough seat

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Republicans intend to add two more state Senate seats to their 20-18 majority Nov. 4.

Senate Majority Leader John Engler, R-Mount Pleasant, said GOP targets are the seat being vacated by Democrat Patrick McCollough of Dearborn and Sen. Jerome Hart, D-Saginaw.

State Rep. William Runco, R-Dearborn, who is seeking McCollough's slot, served notice last week he'll make senior citizen property tax relief a key issue. Tackling the House leadership, Runco tried unsuccessfully to force a Republican bill out of committee for a floor vote.

ENGLER, in a news conference, called Runco, 32, "outstanding," noting that McCollough, 44, "chose to retire rather than face Runco. He's well organized and off to a good start," Engler said.

Other possible targets, the GOP leader said, are Democratic Sens. Jack Faxon of Farmington Hills, Lana Pollack of Ann Arbor and Mitch Irwin of Sault Ste. Marie.

(Democratic State Chairman Rick Wiener earlier laughed at the suggestion Faxon could be beaten. Wiener said his party would target Republican Sens. Rudy Nichols of Waterford and Kirby Holmes of Utica.

(Nichols and Holmes won special 1984 elections after Democratic senators were recalled over the 1983 income tax increase.)

MINUTES AFTER Engler's news conference, Runco took the House floor to ask that the Taxation Committee be forced to report out a Senate-passed bill cutting senior citizens' homestead property taxes.

His motion failed in a 29-66 vote.

Supporting Runco were all area Republicans except Judith Miller of Birmingham, who voted no, and Lyn Bankes of Livonia, who didn't vote.

All Democrats voted against him.

"The bill had strong bipartisan support in the Senate," said Runco. "Seniors are especially hurt by the property tax. While they live on fixed incomes, their property taxes keep rising with their valuations."

The bill would apply to persons age 65 or older with homesteads assessed for $65,000 or less. The state would pay the school operating portions of their property taxes, a cost Runco put at $13 million a year.

"It can be paid out of the state surplus," he added.

HOUSE SPEAKER Gary Owen, D-Ypsilanti, in a rare floor speech, attacked Runco as a politician "who votes yes on spending, no on raising revenue, and hopes more responsible members will figure out how to balance the budget."

"Runco will add his yes votes to the K-12 school aid and community college appropriations, and he'll go back to Dearborn and tell what a great job he's doing," Owen said.

Runco won his House seat in a 1982 upset when he ended the long career of Rep. Lucille McCollough, the senator's mother.

campaign notebook

Legg cancels county bid

Michael Legg, the Republican chairman of the 2nd Congressional District, has had the shortest run for county executive, yet.

Proclaiming that he would not be a "sacrificial lamb" for the party, but rather a viable candidate, Legg, a Northville resident, signed up to become a candidate for county executive on the filing deadline recently. Then, three days later he apparently had a change of heart and withdrew from the race on Friday.

The only other GOP on the ballot will be Bob Murphy, a Detroit businessman who is not considered a serious candidate.

Hertel wins Tiger's vote

County exec candidate John Hertel received a well-publicized endorsement recently — this one from Tiger right-fielder Kirk Gibson, now returned from the injured list. Gibson, it seems, lives in county commissioner Hertel's eastside district. His mug can be seen in two larger-than-life billboards located on the eastside and downriver. In this area, the Hertel campaign has fixed its political advertising on area bus stop benches in recent weeks.

Local groups pick Ficano

A Livonia city employees group has announced its backing of Sheriff Robert Ficano in the Wayne County executive's race.

The Livonia Firefighters Association will be supporting Ficano's candidacy, and plans to lobby other Wayne County firefighters' associations behind the sheriff, said Livonia firefighters president Vern Beach.

Beach said "ground work" has been made in other county locals and "the response has been excellent."

Ficano has other labor support, including the Westland Police Officers Association, the American Postal Worker's Union, the Seafarer's International Union, an AFSME local and two UAW locals. Major union groups in the Detroit area have decided among themselves to withhold endorsements in this race.

Other recent endorsements have included Garden City School Board members Timothy Sutton, Ronald Tsykiewicz and Charles Neslund.

A number of downriver Democratic clubs pledged their support, including clubs in Lincoln Park, Allen Park, Riverview and Trenton, and the 16th Congressional Democratic District.

Name mix-up is his concern

The Wayne County Elections Commission last week denied circuit court candidate John A. Murphy's request to print the title of judge before his name on the Aug. 5 county ballot. The other 16 candidates had protested that using the designation would be an unfair advantage.

John Murphy, it seems, wanted to ensure that his name was distinguished from fellow candidate Michael Murphy from Taylor. John Murphy is a Detroit resident and currently serves as a judge in the 35th District Court.

Training is offered for punch card voting

Demonstrations of the new punch card system of voting will be held by the Canton Township clerk's office.

The Aug. 5, 1986, primary election will be the first time Canton voters will use the new voting system.

"Canton voters may not be aware of the differences in the Shoup Machine method and the punch card system," said Clerk Linda Chuhran. "Even though a demo unit and an extra election worker will be provided for educational purposes at each precinct on the days of both the primary and general election, classes may still prove to be of great assistance to our residents."

Following are the demonstration sites, dates and times:

- Canton Township Hall, 1150 S. Canton Center Road, 3-5 p.m. Thursday, July 10, 2-5 p.m. Wednesday, July 16, and 1-3 p.m. Saturday, July 19.
- Fire Station Number Two, 41500 Warren, 1-3 p.m. Saturday, July 26.
- Fire Station Number One, 128 S. Canton Center, 6-9 p.m. Thursday, July 24.

The election will be handled generally the same in all other aspects, Chuhran said. However, some of the precinct boundaries and polling places have been changed, which has affected 6,000 voters.

Voters who have been sent letters explaining that their signature is illegible should try to visit the clerk's office to correct the problem, she said. The signature is important for verifying signatures on petitions and identifying voters.

Applications are being accepted from residents who are interested in becoming precinct workers in the primary and general elections. Workers will be needed before the election to help prepare absentee ballots for mailing and to work in the clerk's office the night of the election.

"Because of this and the additional need in the precinct we need to expand our list of workers," Chuhran said. "We anticipate the actual hours spent in the precincts following the polls closing will be significantly shortened by the punch card system."

People who wish to work on the election must be willing to spend a full day at the precinct, be registered voters and residents of Canton unless an exception is made by the clerk.

Additional questions may be answered by calling the election hotline at 397-8151.

Also, seniors 60 years and older will be receiving a letter of application for an absentee ballot.

How Eddie Edgar happened to come to Michigan

past and present

Sam Hudson

(Part I)

The Stroller, whose column used to run on the same page as mine, is no longer with us. He strolled off to greener pastures one day last month. I miss him, especially on Fridays.

Friday is the day the Plymouth Rotary Club meets. I would drop in at the Observer office on that day to chat with Eddie before we both went upstairs in the Mayflower Meeting House for the weekly Rotary meeting.

Eddie would be at his desk, typing with two fingers, under the framed picture of the turtle with the punchline: "Consider the turtle; he makes no progress until he sticks his neck out." When I entered he would say, "Sit down a minute, I have something to tell you."

Eddie had a never-ending fund of stories of his experiences with great sports figures of the past; of the years he spent in Detroit trying to gain prestige for bowling; of his early days as a reporter in Pennsylvania. I enjoyed every one of them, and may well have been one of Eddie's best listeners.

I learned that he was born Wilson William Edgar in Catasauqua, Pa., in 1897. He was of Pennsylvania-Dutch and Scotch-Irish descent. His father, William Edgar, managed the town's baseball team and owned Catasaqua's only pool room. Baseball averages were posted on the wall. There was an adjoining six-stool seafood bar. Every morning, young Eddie had to sweep the floor, shuck the oysters, and wash the clams needed for the day's business. His mother did the cooking. I learned about the pies she used to bake, and that you could buy a whole pie from her for less than a little sliver costs today.

HIS FATHER TAUGHT him how to use a pool cue.

At the tender age of 9, Eddie, who had to stand on a box to reach the table, was taking on all comers at pool. At 12, he won the Lehigh Valley pool championship.

Then, when Eddie was 13, his father died of TB. His mother tried to carry on the business but had to give up after two years. Eddie had to quit school after three months of his freshman year to help support his mother and sisters.

His mother told him he should learn a trade. He became an apprentice machinist in the Atlas Portland Cement Co. at Northampton, Pa., at 55 cents a day, of which he had to pay 10 cents for carfare. After finishing four years apprenticeship, he became a master mechanic at Bethlehem Steel Works during World War I.

Later, he became night superintendent at the Lehigh Car Wheel and Axle Works. But he was not happy in his work. After one particularly trying day, he wrote out his resignation, packed his tool chest, opened a plant window and pitched it into the Lehigh River. He said he never stepped into a machine shop again.

Eddie happened to be in the office of a weekly newspaper one day when a police car whizzed past. The editor asked him to follow it, to see what happened. There had been an accident and Eddie came back and reported the facts. He had found his career — and it had something to do with printer's ink and bylines.

When that same editor was asked to organize a new paper in Allentown, four miles away, Eddie was one of seven he hired. There was no lack of stories to cover as New York was only 96 miles away, Philadelphia 52 miles.

Eddie began to write byline stories on championship events at Madison Square Garden, cover some of the East's top-flight football games, and meet outstanding luminaries in the Golden Age of Sports.

He got his first big story in 1919 with an impromptu interview with William Jennings Bryan. Eddie met the silver-tongued orator on a railroad platform. Bryan said he never gave interviews because he was too often misquoted. Always persistent, Eddie said he might lose his job if he didn't get a story. Bryan took pity on the young man and wrote a three-page statement in long hand for him, saying that it had to be printed verbatim. Eddie rushed back to the paper and the story covered the front page.

EDDIE GOT HIS second break a few week's later during the 1920 presidential campaign.

Sent to interview Boise Penrose, the Mr. GOP of his time, Eddie was alone with the powerful politician in an Allentown Hospital room when Penrose placed the phone call that made Warren Harding president of the United States. "Better hurry back to your office," Penrose told Eddie. "Harding will be nominated before your paper goes to press."

Eddie's move to Michigan from the Allentown Record came about because he happened to meet Edgar Guest. The poet of the Detroit Free Press was booked to lecture in Allentown. Eddie attended and spoke to Guest afterward. Guest was impressed and told him a metropolitan daily would be interested in his services. Encouraged, Eddie applied to the Free Press for a job.

When his mother heard that her son was contemplating a move to the big city she exacted a promise from him. He was never to drink hard liquor. He made the promise — and kept it for the rest of his life.

On Guest's recommendation, Harry Bullion, the paper's sports editor, gave Eddie a job as sportswriter at what Eddie throught was a huge salary, $2,500 a year. But it was on a two-weeks trial basis. A quarter of a century later, when Eddie was leaving the Free Press, John S. Knight asked him why he was quitting. Eddie quipped: 'I've been waiting for someone to tell me my two weeks are up." His real reason will come out later.

Little demons invading sanctity of the home

Nancy Walls Smith

"They're ba-ack . . ."

No, not those demons from "Poltergeist." I'm referring to those little demons who go to school five days a week. Their daily departures give those of us left at home time for blessed peace and enables us to regroup our sanity.

Ah, but not for long — once again summer vacation is breathing down our necks and I, for one, am not at all thrilled about it.

Ever since my two sons, ages 10 and 11, have taken up their relatively new hobby of despising each other, they're not exactly a joy to be around.

They walk in the door from school arguing and seldom stop until slumber mercifully shuts them up late into the evening. They argue over friends, possessions, territories — you name it! One says, "It's black!" The other says, "It's white," and then kicks him.

It must be a phase. They used to get along so well. But, as with most of their juvenile phases, I'm finding this one particularly hard to survive.

SOMEWHERE STAMPED on my forehead must be the word "mediator," or perhaps "referee." Why else would they feel so obliged to demand that I make the decisions as to who is right or who has been woefully wronged about every 10 or 15 minutes.

Aside from the fact that the debates make relatively little sense to me in the first place, I have also explained to them both quite plainly that I just don't care.

I don't care whose Matchbox car that is, or if they did trade it back in December of '85. I don't care if he wrinkled your paper or called you a name.

I don't need these news updates on their sibling tragedies.

I have my own problems to worry about. Like the fact that summer has arrived and I've just put on a pair of shorts, looked down at myself, and saw two white whales. They are my legs. Now that's something to get upset about.

STALE BREAD will clean greasy fingerprints from wallpaper. Use soft stale bread and rub in even vertical strokes. If you are going to have a garage or basement sale, use an Observer & Eccentric Classified ad for maximum results.

TO RESTORE rancid butter, melt butter and skim it. Put a piece of fresh toast in it t absorb odor. Works great! Have something you no longer use? Sell it with an Observer & Eccentric Classified Ad.

SWEETS FOR THE HEART

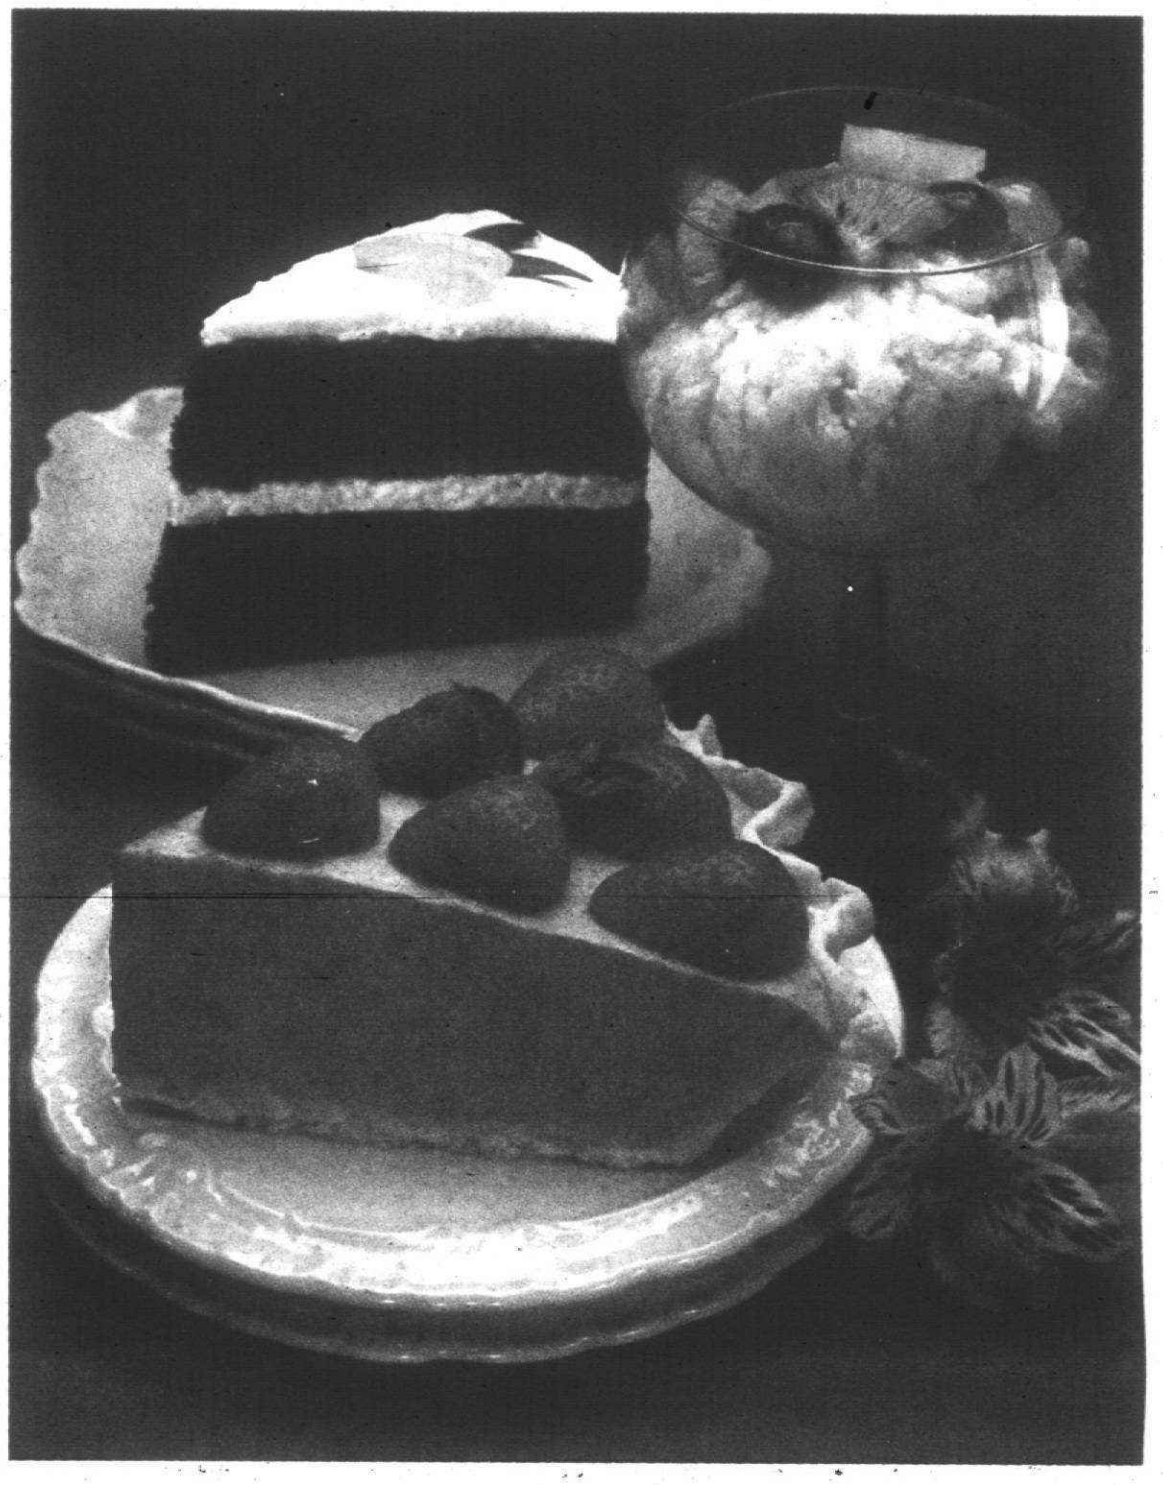
Safflower Oil Helps Cut Cholesterol, Calories In Favorite Desserts



Luscious ice cream, cakes and pies don't have to be off limits if you're on a heart-healthy diet. A variety of sweet treats that are truly rich and delicious tasting can be made simply by substituting healthful ingredients for harmful ones.

Eliminating butter, heavy cream, whole eggs and milk from desserts can virtually remove cholesterol and saturated fat while cutting calories significantly. The use of safflower oil is another stratagem. Its high polyunsaturate content helps reduce cholesterol and in comparison to shortening, it reduces calories in the chocolate-orange cake and in the pie crust. For body and flavor the cake uses egg whites and cocoa instead of fat-filled butter and chocolate. The "creaminess" in the strawberry pie and vanilla ice cream comes from nonfat dry milk rather than heavy cream.

Next time you're aching for a sweet that's rich and forbidden, try one of these ideas. It will do your heart good!

CHOCOLATE-ORANGE CAKE

1-1/2 cups sugar
1/4 cup safflower oil
4 egg whites
1 teaspoon grated orange peel
2 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
1/2 cup unsweetened cocoa powder
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt (optional)
1 cup orange juice
1/2 cup water
Orange Whipped Topping (recipe follows)

Preheat oven to 350°F. Oil two 9-inch round cake pans; line with wax paper and oil again; set aside.

In a large bowl combine sugar, safflower oil, egg whites and orange peel; mix well; set aside. In a medium bowl mix together flour, cocoa, baking powder, baking soda and salt. In a measuring cup combine orange juice and water. Alternately add dry ingredients with orange juice and water to egg mixture; beat until blended. Pour into prepared pans. Bake until a cake tester inserted in the center of the cakes comes out clean, 25 to 30 minutes. Cool for 5 minutes in pans. Turn out of pans onto wire racks. Cool completely. Spread one layer with half of the Orange Whipped Topping. Top with second layer; spread with remaining topping. Garnish with small fresh leaves and an orange twist, if desired.
YIELD: 12 portions

Per portion (Chocolate-Orange Cake with Orange Whipped Topping): 293 calories, less than 1 mg cholesterol.

ORANGE WHIPPED TOPPING

3/4 cup chilled orange juice, divided
2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup nonfat dry milk
1/8 teaspoon almond extract
3 tablespoons safflower oil

Chill the small bowl and beaters of an electric mixer. Meanwhile, in a small saucepan combine 1/4 cup of the orange juice and sugar; sprinkle with gelatin. Soften for 1 minute. Stir over medium heat until sugar and gelatin are dissolved. Cool to room temperature. Place nonfat dry milk, almond extract and remaining 1/2 cup orange juice in the chilled bowl. Beat at high speed until soft peaks form. Slowly add gelatin mixture; beat until smooth, about 2 minutes. Slowly beat in safflower oil. Cover and refrigerate until ready to use, stirring just before using.
YIELD: 3 cups

Per 1/4 cup portion: 56 calories, less than 1 mg cholesterol.

STRAWBERRY "CREAM" PIE

Whole Wheat Pastry (recipe follows)
1 pint fresh strawberries, divided
1-1/4 cups chilled orange juice, divided
2 tablespoons sugar
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup nonfat dry milk
2 teaspoons grated orange peel
3 tablespoons safflower oil

Roll Whole Wheat Pastry between 2 sheets of wax paper into an 11- or 12-inch circle. Peel off top sheet of paper; invert pastry into an 8- or 9-inch pie pan; peel off remaining paper. Fit into pan. Flute edges and prick with fork tines. Refrigerate for 1 hour. Preheat oven to 400°F. Place a 12-inch square of aluminum foil on pastry; fill with dried beans or rice. Bake for 10 minutes. Remove foil and beans. Bake until firm, about 5 minutes. Set aside to cool. Hull strawberries. Place in the container of an electric blender. Whirl until smooth, stopping blender and scraping down sides of container if needed (makes 1-1/4 cups); set aside. Chill the small bowl and beaters of an electric mixer. Meanwhile, in a small saucepan combine 3/4 cup of the orange juice and sugar; sprinkle with gelatin. Soften for 1 minute. Stir over medium heat until sugar and gelatin are dissolved. Cool to room temperature. Place nonfat dry milk and remaining 1/2 cup orange juice in the chilled bowl. Beat at high speed until soft peaks form. Slowly add gelatin mixture and orange peel; beat until smooth, about 2 minutes. Slowly beat in safflower oil. Fold in pureed strawberries. Refrigerate until mixture mounds on a spoon. Turn into baked pie shell. Refrigerate until firm. Garnish with strawberry halves and mint leaves, if desired. (Strawberry "Cream" filling can be spooned into dessert glasses instead of a pie shell.)
YIELD: 8 portions

Per portion (Strawberry "Cream" with Whole Wheat Pastry): 202 calories, less than 1 mg cholesterol.

Per portion (Strawberry "Cream" without Whole Wheat Pastry): 103 calories, less than 1 mg cholesterol.

WHOLE WHEAT PASTRY

1/2 cup unsifted whole wheat flour
1/2 cup unsifted all-purpose flour
1/8 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons safflower oil
3-1/2 tablespoons warm water
1 tablespoon lemon juice

In a medium bowl mix whole wheat and all-purpose flours and salt. Make a well. Combine safflower oil, water and lemon juice. Pour into well. Stir just until flour is moistened, adding more water if needed. Form into a ball.
YIELD: Pastry for 8- or 9-inch pie shell

Per portion (one-eighth recipe): 99 calories, 0 cholesterol.

VANILLA ICE "CREAM"

1 cup water
3/4 cup nonfat dry milk
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 cup safflower oil
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
1/16 teaspoon salt (optional)

In a large bowl combine water, nonfat dry milk, sugar, safflower oil, vanilla and salt. Beat with an electric mixer at medium speed until milk dissolves and mixture is thick and foamy. Pour into a shallow baking pan; freeze until almost firm, stirring occasionally. Spoon into a medium bowl; beat with an electric mixer until smooth. Pack into a plastic container. Cover and freeze until firm. Serve garnished with fruit such as sliced kiwi, grapes and orange sections, if desired.
YIELD: 8 portions
1 quart

Variation: To make Chocolate Swirl Ice "Cream" combine in a small saucepan 3 tablespoons each unsweetened cocoa and sugar, 2 tablespoons water and 1 tablespoon safflower oil. Cook and stir until sugar dissolves, about 2 minutes. Cool. Stir into firm Vanilla Ice "Cream"; swirl with a spoon to marbleize. Freeze until firm.
Vanilla Ice "Cream"
Per 1/2 cup portion: 109 calories, 1 mg cholesterol.
Chocolate Swirl Ice "Cream"
Per 1/2 cup portion: 147 calories, 1 mg cholesterol.

Upside down cake gets thumbs up for flavor

Traditional upside down cake is a homestyle dessert prepared by arranging fruit in the bottom of a pan, then spooning cake batter over the top before baking. As soon as the cake is removed from the oven and cooled, it is turned upside down so the moist sweet filling becomes the top of the dessert.

The fruit mixture and juice in the filling form a glaze with the other ingredients and keep the cake especially moist.

The first mention of upside down cake in print appeared in the 1930s, although culinary authorities suggest versions of the recipe have been around much longer.

According to food history books tracing the earliest cake crumbs of this tasty dessert, the very first upside down cakes were probably prepared by the early settlers. Called "skillet" cakes, these upside down cakes or desserts were "baked" in covered skillets over the open fire since many homes did not have ovens.

SUPPOSEDLY, THE cooking technique used for making upside down cakes resembled the method for preparing main dish "cakes" — ground beef mixtures prepared in a skillet with a cornbread filling.

A simplified version of the traditional upside down dessert is Pineapple Upside Down Coffeecake. Since the recipe calls for refrigerated biscuits and just three other ingredients, you can enjoy the taste of upside down cake without all the work.

This attractive coffeecake is a perfect way to add warmth to a leisurely weekend breakfast or brunch.

To prepare this lovely coffeecake, pineapple slices and cherries are attractively arranged in the bottom of a cake pan, then covered with separated refrigerated biscuits. A heated brown sugar and pineapple juice mixture is then spooned over the biscuit layer before baking.

This fruit-topped coffeecake is inverted before serving to show off the lovely pinwheel pattern created by the pineapple slices and cherries. Pineapple Upside Down Coffee Cake is delightful served either warm or cold.

PINEAPPLE UPSIDE DOWN COFFEECAKE

8 1/2 oz. can pineapple slices, well-drained and halved (reserve liquid)
8 maraschino cherries
1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar
2 Tbsp. reserved pineapple liquid
7.5 oz. can refrigerated buttermilk biscuits

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Arrange pineapple slices and cherries in ungreased 8- or 9-inch round pan. In small saucepan, heat brown sugar and pineapple liquid to boiling, stirring constantly. Remove from heat.

Separate dough into 10 biscuits; place over pineapple slices. Pour brown sugar mixture over biscuits in pan. Bake at 375 degrees for 17 to 25 minutes or until golden brown. Cool 10 minutes in pan. Invert onto serving plate. Serve warm or cool. 8 servings.

Tip: To reheat, wrap loosely in foil; heat at 350 degrees for 8 to 10 minutes.

Snap up cookouts

Some grill-side go-alongs are so much a part of the cookout scene that they'd be sorely missed if they weren't among the offerings. One all-time favorite is bean salad, with nearly every cook's recipe boasting a special "secret" ingredient addition.

Snappy Bean Salad will complement all your cookout fare.

SNAPPY BEAN SALAD

1 16-oz. can kidney beans, drained, rinsed
1 16-oz. can great Northern or pinto beans, drained rinsed
1/2 cup mayonnaise-type salad dressing
1/2 cup celery slices
1/2 cup onion rings
4 crisply cooked bacon slices, crumbled
2 Tbsp. chopped pimiento
1/2 tsp. salt
Dash of pepper
Few drops hot pepper sauce

Combine ingredients; mix lightly. Chill. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Salmon fixes in less than 30 minutes

Skillet entrees that are quick to prepare are a popular choice with couples when both work outside the home. Designed for two, Salmon Skillet Supper is a great all-in-one entree that is table-ready in less than 30 minutes.

For this tasty and nourishing main-meal entree, the vegetables and Alaska salmon steak are cooked in the same skillet. The salmon should be ready to serve after cooking about 10 minutes per inch of thickness, measured at the thickest part.

The icy waters off the coast of Alaska produce an excellent supply of salmon and it is now readily available throughout the country. Individual steaks or fillets are ideal for one- and two-member households. For large gatherings, Alaska salmon can also be puchased whole or cut into roasts.

This succulent seafood is an excellent choice for today's busy generation because it cooks quickly by baking, broiling, poaching, frying, steaming, barbecuing or microwaving.

SALMON SKILLET SUPPER

2 boiling potatoes, sliced
1 onion, thinly sliced
3 Tbsp. vegetable oil
Salt and pepper
1 1/2 cups French-cut green beans or zucchini strips
2 (about 6 oz. each) Alaska salmon steaks, thawed if necessary
1/4 tsp. dill weed
2 Tbsp. dry white wine or water
Lemon or lime wedges

Saute potatoes and onion in oil 2 minutes. Add 1/4 teaspoon each salt and pepper. Cover and cook over medium heat 5 minutes; add green beans and cook 5 minutes longer or until potatoes are partially tender. Season salmon with salt and pepper; add to skillet with dill weed and wine. Cover and cook 10 minutes per inch of thickness of salmon or until salmon flakes when tested with a fork and vegetables are tender. Squeeze lemon juice over salmon before serving. Makes 2 servings.

Seafood for sandwiches

Sandwiches certainly can be mundane and dull — but they needn't be.

For a change of pace and variety in your sandwich planning, try Pierside Sandwiches. This unique recipe lets you choose the seafood you desire and the bread base you like best. This recipe can be different each time you make it.

A simple but savory mixture of seafood of your choice, sharp Cheddar cheese, creamy mayonnaise flavored with dill and accented with sliced black olives tops mellow avocado slices.

This flavorful combination can be stuffed into pita bread rounds or spread on thick slices of buttered French bread before popping in the oven to heat and melt the cheese.

PIERSIDE SANDWICHES

1/2 lb. crab meat, shrimp or tuna
1/2 lb. grated Cheddar cheese
2/3 cup mayonnaise
1 tsp. dill weed
1 cup pitted black olives, sliced
1 avocado, thinly sliced
Pita bread halves
or French bread slices

Combine seafood, cheese, mayonnaise, dill weed and olives; spoon into pita bread halves or top thick slices of buttered French bread along with avocado slices. Wrap pita bread in foil; bake until hot. Broil French bread sandwiches until bubbly. Makes 8 servings.

Festival of Light barbecue heralds summer

Few of us need an excuse for a party, but summer provides the perfect reason to invite friends and family for a backyard barbecue bash.

Just as Memorial Day heralds the beginning of summer in this country, the Festival of Light was a celebration of summer's lengthening days in ancient China. The holiday was observed with fireworks, brightly lit lanterns paraded through the streets, and, of course, good food.

For your Festival of Light celebration, try Special Teriyaki Ribs marinated in a mixture of teriyaki sauce, sherry, ginger and sesame oil with a touch of sugar. The marinade also is used as a basting sauce as the ribs grill to perfection.

Barbecued chicken takes on the flavor of Peking duck when brushed with a blend of plum sauce, soy sauce, butter and a touch of garlic. The same sauce should be passed at the table to serve with the Plum Good BBQ Chicken.

Round out your menu with Patio Rice Salad, a side dish befitting an emperor. Rice, bean sprouts and other vegetables are tossed in a rice vinegar dressing flavored with soy sauce and Chinese hot mustard.

PATIO RICE SALAD

1/3 cup vegetable oil
1/3 cup rice vinegar
2 Tbsp. soy sauce
1 Tbsp. sugar
1 tsp. Chinese hot mustard
1/2 tsp. garlic powder
1/4 tsp. pepper
4 cups cooked rice, chilled
1 (14-oz.) can bean sprouts, drained
1 1/2 cups sliced celery
1 cup sliced radishes
1/2 cup chopped green onions

In large bowl, whisk together oil, vinegar, soy sauce, sugar, mustard, garlic and pepper. Add remaining ingredients to dressing and toss to coat. Refrigerate until ready to serve. Top with additional soy sauce, if desired. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

PLUM GOOD BBQ CHICKEN

1 cup plum sauce
1/4 cup butter, melted
2 Tbsp. soy sauce
1/2 tsp. garlic powder
1 (2 to 3 lb.) chicken, cut into pieces

In small bowl, blend together plum sauce, butter, soy sauce and garlic; remove 1/4 cup sauce; set aside. Cook chicken pieces on grill over medium-low heat 30 to 40 minutes, turning occasionally. Continue cooking chicken 30 minutes longer, basting frequently with remaining 1 cup sauce. Adjust heat as needed to prevent flaming or burning. When chicken is done, top with reserved 1/4 cup sauce, remove from heat and serve immediately. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

SPECIAL TERIYAKI RIBS

3/4 cup teriyaki sauce
3 Tbsp. sherry wine or water
2 Tbsp. oil
2 cloves garlic, crushed
2 tsp. brown sugar
1/2 tsp. minced ginger root
1/4 tsp. sesame oil
3 to 4 lbs. pork ribs

In large baking pan, combine all ingredients except ribs; mix well. Add ribs to marinade and coat thoroughly. Refrigerate 2 to 4 hours, spooning marinade over occasionally. Barbecue ribs over medium-low heat 1 hour. Turn frequently and baste with remaining marinade. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Heart's delight

Chinese appetizers are pleasing

Appetizer parties are one of the more popular forms of entertaining, particularly in summer when eating light is preferred. Whatever the setting — city parlor, the garden, at poolside, or on a terrace — as long as there's a choice of cool, refreshing drinks and an array of palate-provoking appetizers, this style of entertaining is perfect for friends and business associates.

Try a dim sum party in honor of the Festival of Light, an ancient holiday celebrating the longer days of spring and summer. Dim sum means "heart's delight" or "touch the heart" because, say the Chinese, these treats are meant to be enjoyed "whenever your heart desires."

Traditionally, dim sum dumplings and other snack treats are served in Canton tea houses as a light lunch. Bite-size, they're the perfect pick-up food choice for an appetizer party.

Tea house choices which adapt well to a Festival of Light appetizer party are Turkey Shao Mai and Fried Dumplings. Adapted for American kitchens, these dim sum tidbits should be kept warm in a chafing dish or on a warming tray, though guests will probably gobble them up before they have a chance to get cold!

FRIED DUMPLINGS

2 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
2/3 cup boiling water
1/3 cup cold water
1 lb. ground pork
1 (8-oz.) can bamboo shoots, drained and chopped
1/4 cup each chopped mushrooms and green onions
2 Tbsp. soy sauce
1 Tbsp. sesame oil
1 tsp. minced ginger root

Place flour in large bowl; add boiling water and mix well. Add cold water and knead dough with hand until thoroughly mixed. Cover and let stand 15 minutes. In large bowl, mix together remaining ingredients until thoroughly blended. Turn dough onto floured board and knead again until smooth (approximately 10 times). Using your hands roll dough into cylinder about 1 1/4 inches wide. Cut into about 30 pieces 1/2-inch thick. Roll each piece out then to a 3-inch pancake. Place 1 tablespoon filling in center of each pancake and fold into half circle to enclose. Pinch edges of dumpling together to seal. Heat 2 tablespoons oil in large fry pan. Arrange dumplings in single layer on bottom. Fry over medium-high heat until golden brown on bottom. Add 2/3 cup water, cover pan, and cook until water has been absorbed, about 15 minutes. Serve hot with sauces. Makes 30 dumplings.

TURKEY SHAO MAI

1 lb. ground turkey or other ground meat
1 (8-oz.) can sliced water chestnuts, drained and chopped
1/4 cup each chopped mushrooms and green onions
2 Tbsp. soy sauce
1 Tbsp. sesame oil
1/2 tsp. Chinese hot mustard
1/2 tsp. garlic powder
1/4 tsp. black pepper
1 (12-oz.) pkg. won ton wrappers

In medium bowl, mix all ingredients, except won ton wrappers, until well blended. Cover won ton wrappers with damp towel to keep moist. Place about 1 tablespoon filling in center of each won ton wrapper. Press and pleat sides of skin up around filling. Wrap your finger and thumb around dumpling just below pleats and flatten top and bottom to secure. Keep moist if not cooking immediately. Brush steamer with a little oil. Place Shao Mai in steamer allowing enough room around sides for steam to circulate. Cover and steam 10 minutes or until meat is cooked. Serve hot with plum sauce, sweet & sour sauce, soy sauce or hot mustard. Makes approximately 40.

Salsa perks up burgers

One of the most popular regional cooking styles is the cooking of the American Southwest. In fact, it sometimes appears that we are having a love affair with the chili pepper.

But not everyone enjoys extremely spicy foods. Some of us prefer just a hint of hotness gentled by other flavors. The Hamburgers with Salsa suggested here are a quick, easy way to savor Southwestern-style cooking. And because they are made with a Salt alternative, they are low in sodium.

HAMBURGERS WITH SALSA

6 plum tomatoes, peeled (about 12 oz.)
or 1 can (16 oz.) plum tomatoes, halved and well drained
4 sprigs fresh cilantro or flat leaf parsley
3 scallions, chopped
1 1/2 Tbsp. fresh lemon or lime juice
1/4 tsp. salt alternative
1/4 tsp. pepper
4 dashes hot pepper sauce, optional
Chili Burgers (directions follow)

In food processor, combine first 7 ingredients. Process until chunky, not smooth; set aside. Cook burgers as desired, about 5 minutes per side for rare. Serve salsa with burgers. Makes 4 servings.

CHILI BURGERS: Thoroughly combine 1 1/2 pounds ground beef, 1/2 teaspoon chili powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt alternative and 1/4 teaspoon pepper. Shape into burgers and cook as desired.

Pie has Southern charm

Southern hospitality begins at breakfast. The region is justly known for its fine food, served with style.

To give your table a bit of Dixie charm, make an Orange-Oatmeal Breakfast Pie and watch the appreciative smiles.

Orange juice, oatmeal, milk and eggs combine to make a pie that is light in texture while robust enough to see you through the morning.

This Southern charmer rates four stars for taste, nutrition and attractiveness. For family and friends, it's a breakfast treat.

ORANGE-OATMEAL BREAKFAST PIE

1 unbaked 9-inch pastry crust
3 large eggs, lightly beaten
3/4 cup evaporated milk
1/2 cup orange juice
1/2 cup uncooked oatmeal, quick-cooking or old-fashioned
6 Tbsp. sugar
1/4 cup butter or margarine, melted
1 tsp. grated orange peel
1/4 tsp. salt

Prepare pastry crust according to favorite recipe, or use a frozen 9-inch pie shell, defrosted. In medium mixing bowl combine remaining ingredients. Pour into unbaked pastry shell. Bake in a 375 oven 35 to 40 minutes until brown and set. Garnish with orange slices and bacon curls, if desired. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Schooldays good for laughs this summer

the movies
Dan Greenberg

Ferris Bueller (Matthew Broderick) connives to escape while Thorton Melon (Rodney Dangerfield) buys his way "Back to School" (PG-13). "Ferris Bueller's Day Off" (also PG-13) wouldn't have been necessary if only Ferris enjoyed school a la Dangerfield.

If Dangerfield "U" were open to all undergraduates, there would be no drop-outs. On the other hand, if skipping school were as much fun as Ferris and his friends had, truancy would be the nation's number one problem.

In both cases, audiences benefit as Hollywood's vacation films turn their attention back to school days, with two well done vehicles packed with good humor and pleasant characters.

"Ferris Bueller's Day Off" opens as he fools his parents, Katie (Cindy Pickett) and Tom Bueller (Lyman Ward). They fall for his fake illness. Not only is Ferris a great con artist, but they're both preoccupied with their own affairs — Katie is about to close a real-estate deal while Tom is selling a major ad campaign. Only sister Jeanie (Jennifer Grey) realizes Ferris is malingering.

High school dean of students Ed Rooney (Jeffrey Jones) suspects, but can't prove, Ferris is skipping school. Jones screws up his face to propel his determined but whacky chase of Ferris the Truant.

The dean is aided and abetted by his nutty secretary (Edie McClurg) whose innocent, round pixie face belies the devilish glee that lurks in her heart. Her softly muttered comments, in counterpoint to Rooney's resolute air and firm attitude, are extremely funny.

MCCLURG ALSO appears as Rodney Dangerfield's secretary, although in a much abbreviated role. In "Ferris Bueller" she shines with seemingly innocent comments about Ed Rooney's attempts to catch Ferris. Excellent supporting roles by McClurg, and others, greatly enrich both films.

While Rooney is self-destructing in his obsessive and very funny pursuit of Ferris, our hero cons his hypochondriacal buddy, Cameron Frye (Alan Ruck), into a madcap day driving the classic Ferrari that Cameron's dad had lovingly restored.

Ferris and Cameron finesse Rooney who excuses Ferris' girl, Sloane Peterson (Mia Sara), to attend her grandmother's funeral. She joins the boys in an exciting day on the town.

As they tour the city, we're treated to interesting aerial views of Chicago's Loop, a viewpoint seldom seen. The upper levels of skyscrapers are hidden from the streets but those buildings have intriguing architectural features. Panoramic views of the contrasts between old and new buildings reinforce the film's age/youth theme and the film's quality is enhanced by this expensive footage of unusual scenery.

Ferris, Sloane and Cameron have an exciting day, certainly more enjoyable than boring classes. The film works well and amuses us all because the satire of adults/teachers/authority so common in "youth films" today is done realistically and pleasantly.

Let's face it, there are boring teachers and preoccupied, overly indulgent parents, as well as indifferent ones. The best satire makes us laugh and helps us understand our foibles. In other words, have a good laugh at your own expense and learn what it means to be human.

The satire is cleverly drawn without ridicule and focuses on teenagers as well as adults. Sister Jeanie is as obsessed with her brother and his high jinks as is Dean Rooney. With great comic style, the dean is defeated and Jeanie meets a druggie, neatly portrayed by Charlie Sheen, who "cures" her addictive brother-hate.

"BACK TO SCHOOL" features Rodney Dangerfield as millionaire entrepreneur Thornton Melon, who never went to college, is widowed, divorced and faced with a troubled son, Jason (Keith Gordon). Jason attends college but is not a great athlete, has no social life, is doing poorly in class but writes great "Freshman-Fiction" letters.

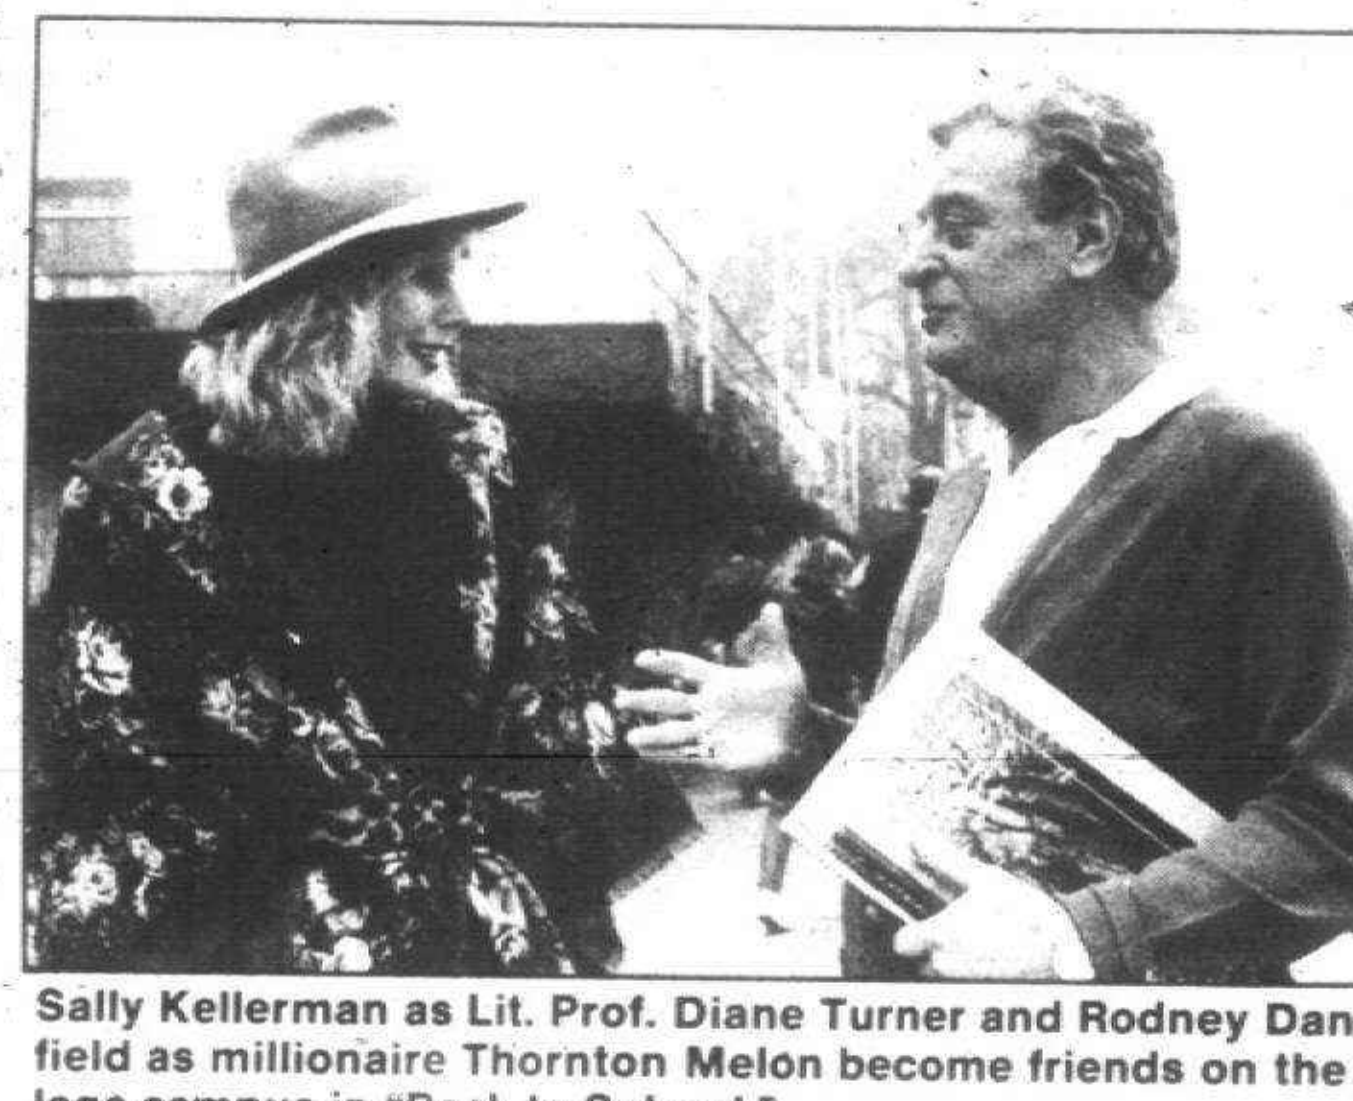
Thornton decides to attend college and buoy up his son's spirits and records. Thornton has no high school transcript, just lots of money, so the dean (Ned Beatty) figures a new Bus-Ad School is the appropriate price of admission.

The business school dean, Philip Barbay (Paxton Whitehead), a gentleman with a marvelous sneer, a facial expression fixed in place from smelling sour fruit, has other ideas. His discomfiture is heightened when his paramour, literature professor Diane Turner (Sally Kellerman), takes a liking to Thornton.

Jason is also uncomfortable as his father spends money left and right, thus making college an entirely new experience. Jason's only friend is a clever satire of freshman Marxism, Derek (Robert Downey Jr.), complete with punk hair and a firm belief that Karl Marx wrote "Communist Chicks in Bondage."

Burt Young plays Thornton's chauffer/bodyguard, Lou, with the same uncouth appeal that characterized his role as Rocky's brother-in-law. In fact, "Back to School" is filled with a number of nifty characterizations that offset the Rodney Dangerfield persona, which only occasionally overwhelms the good-spirited proceedings. As long as Dangerfield plays Melon, he gets my respect. Only when Dangerfield surfaces do things get sticky.

There's a little bit of kid in every adult, and vice versa, so these two well-done, realistic satires ought to please every audience with their good humor, pleasant entertainment and mild swipes at all our foibles.



Sally Kellerman as Lit. Prof. Diane Turner and Rodney Dangerfield as millionaire Thornton Melon become friends on the college campus in "Back to School."

Matthew Broderick (at wheel) as Ferris Bueller, Mia Sara as Sloane Peterson and Alan Ruck as Cameron Frye tool around town in his dad's Ferrari in "Ferris Bueller's Day Off," when they skip high school classes.

You'll play BETTER GOLF
with custom-fitted clubs.
For only $620.

Perfect Match is what you always wanted: a custom-fitted set of 3 woods and 8 irons at considerably less than a "custom" price. (Only $80/wood and $47.50.) Just compare prices!

In only 15 working days, these woods and irons by Bob Toski can be made just for you, to help you improve your game by an average of 4.22 strokes. In fact, some players who own Bob Toski custom clubs report they've cut up to 10 strokes off their handicap.

Shooting lower scores comes from playing clubs built precisely to your swing. The lie, loft, shaft, grip, swing weight and other variables are determined by your unique measurements. You can choose investment cast or forged irons. And your woods are crafted from handpicked American persimmon with your choice of two different finishes.

Ask yourself: "Why am I paying for clubs made for the "average" golfer when—for the same price or less—I can have clubs custom made for me in just 15 working days by Bob Toski?"

Fathers
They deserve their own day

By Julie Brown
staff writer

AT LEAST one group of local dads can count on a special Father's Day celebration this year.

The preschoolers in the Kreatives class, offered by the Plymouth Community Family YMCA, agreed that their dads deserve a special day of their own.

The youngsters took some time Friday morning to discuss their plans for Father's Day. Bonnie Graham, the preschool teacher, got things started during the session at the First United Methodist Church in Plymouth.

"Sunday is what day? Does anybody know what day it is?" The teacher's questions drew a quick response from the youngsters gathered around the piano bench.

The preschoolers pointed out that dads sometimes have to be tough guys in handing out disciplinary measures. Graham reminded them that those measures aren't always unreasonable ones.

"Sometimes you children deserve for your dads to be mad, right?"

ON A MORE upbeat note, the gifts the youngsters thought would be right for Father's Day were varied. Brandon Callop, 3, thought his dad could use some wheels.

"I'd buy a car for Father's Day," Brandon told the others. "A little one."

Although the car would be a small one, it would nevertheless run just fine.

"A real one," Brandon said of the car. "My dad's got a real one already."

Allison Mills, who is 3½, said she had bought a hammock for her dad. She wasn't sure whether he should share the hammock with the rest of the family or keep it all to himself.

Clothing was also one possible gift item for Father's Day.

"I think I should get him some pajamas, cause he never has none," said C.J. Hill, who is 4.

Kimberly Burns, 3, wasn't quite sure what her dad would like. She opted for the kitchen items she was using while working with Play Dough — a toy mixer and a rolling pin.

During the Friday session at the First United Methodist Church, youngsters in the YMCA class also made Father's Day cards for their dads.

The cards, with a balloon design all set for coloring, carried the message "Thank you bunches."

THE CHILDREN cut out appropriate pictures and printed messages from catalogs and magazines, and then glued them to the cards to add a special touch.

Becky Schneider, who is 3½, concentrated on making her colorful card just perfect for Father's Day. She signed the card with her first name, and then copied the word "love," following the teacher's printed example from a newspaper covering the work table.

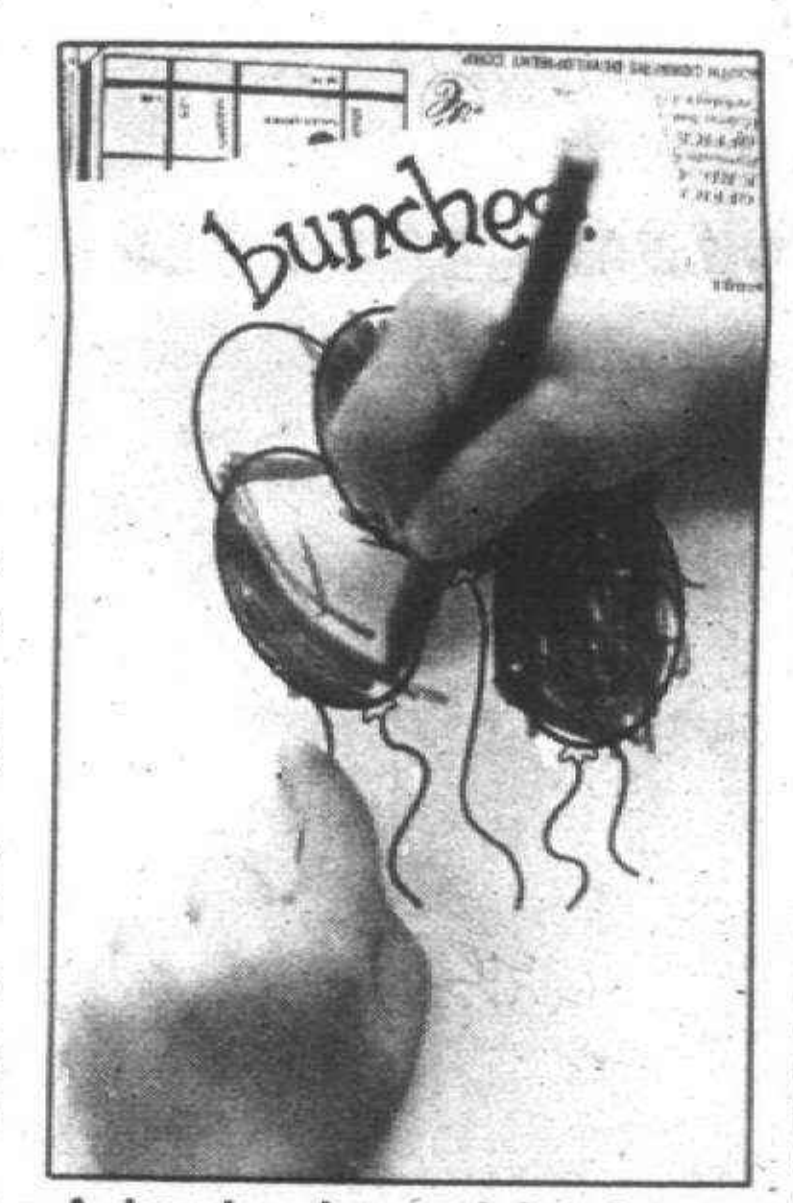
"That spells love," Graham, the teacher, told Becky. "And your dad's going to know you wrote the whole thing yourself."

Becky hadn't made any major plans for Father's Day.

"No, because I'm going on vacation today, to my grandma's."

Becky was, however, looking forward to giving her "Thank you bunches" card to her dad.

"I'm going to give it to him when he comes home from work."



A handmade card is also a super gift for Father's Day.

A hammock's the ideal Father's Day gift, according to Allison Mills.

Kimberly Burns makes sure her card is a colorful one. Kimberly and the other youngsters in the Plymouth Community Family YMCA program spent part of Friday morning preparing for Father's Day.

Talent, work are honored

The Plymouth Community Arts Council has awarded several scholarships to outstanding students.

The winner of this year's Margaret E. Wilson Scholarship for the Performing Arts was Andrew Dahlke, a Plymouth Canton High School senior who was honored for his saxophone performance. Dahlke has been accepted at the University of Michigan where he will study music.

The Margaret E. Wilson Scholarship was established in 1983 by her friends in honor of her contributions to the community. The $500 award is given to an individual who wishes to pursue a career in the performing arts.

Applicants were judged on the basis of talent rather than need. Members of the Margaret E. Wilson Scholarship committee were: Carol Davis, chairwoman, Joanne Hulce, Gae McCord and Judy Slade.

The Joanne Winkelman Hulce Award, which was established to honor the founder of the Plymouth Community Arts Council, also went to Andrew Dahlke.

Competition for the $750 award was open to graduating seniors who have displayed exceptional ability in an artistic field.

COMMITTEE MEMBERS for the Joanne Winkelman Hulce Award were Brenda Krachenberg, chairwoman, and Mary E. Smith, co-chairwoman.

The Jeanet M. Allison Memorial Scholarship for Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp had a total of $1,000 available this year. The money is for the use of students in grades seven through 12 who will attend the Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp.

The scholarship fund was established in memory of Jeanet M. Allison, a member and patron of the Plymouth Community Arts Council. A total of $500 was contributed by the Plymouth Community Arts Council and was matched by Blue Lake.

The scholarships were offered in art, dance, music and theater. Applicants were judged on the basis of talent, interest and neatness.

Winners of the award were: Ian Riley, Jim Gross, Nina Riley, Eileen Meath, Lawrence Hebert, Danielle Walquist, Ann Gilmore, Jennifer Hunter, Karen Underwood and Jennifer Harris. Honorable mention went to Holly Ciofani and Christina Trout.

Doris Chatterley was chairwoman for the Jeanet M. Allison Memorial Scholarship. Judges for the Hulce and Allison awards were: Barbara Bray, Chris Hoeprich, Brenda Krachenberg, Mark Thrasher, Michelle Wolf, Joan Claeys and Mary E. Smith.

Musicians win scholarships

Winners of the 1986 String Scholarships were announced at the annual potluck dinner meeting of the Plymouth Symphony Society. The total amount awarded was $725.

The Rotary Foundation of Plymouth joined in by contributing $100 to the fund, which was split between the top two winners.

Eligible students are in grades six through 12. They must be from the Plymouth-Canton Community School district or the Plymouth-Canton community. Those who play in or have parents who play in the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra also are eligible.

Violinist Debby Butler received $100 for the Russell Isbister Scholarship and $50 from the Plymouth Rotary Club. Butler is a seventh grader at Novi Middle School South.

Cellist Alicia Rowe received $100 for the Frances Lang Scholarship and $50 from the Plymouth Rotary Club. Rowe is an eighth grader at Southfield Christian School.

Other students who were honored were: Matthew Butler, cellist, $75; Pamela Butler, violinist, $75; Teresa Min, violinist, $75; Leslie Capozzoli, violinist, $75; and Daniel Stacey, violinist, $50; Danielle Walquist, violinist, $25; Jim Gross, violinist, $25; and Frances Chang, violinist, $25.

New members may attend. The club is for women interested in being a part of cultural events, group discussion and recreational activities. The club is co-sponsored by the YWCA of Western Wayne County. For additional information, call area program director Cynthia Nichols, 561-4110.

Winners selected

Winners have been chosen in the "monster egg" treasure hunt, held recently to promote the Peter Rockwell play sculpture project in local schools.

The activity was sponsored by the Play Sculpture Foundation. Names of the winners were chosen from among those of finalists during a "Family Day" program Saturday, May 31, at Plymouth Township Park.

Jane Darby won the first prize, a monster egg created by Peter Rockwell. The runners-up were Jason Secord, Andy Newland, Patrick Newland, Heather Pelley and John Murray.

In the treasure hunt, Plymouth-Canton children looked for "monster eggs" hidden in local store windows.

DR. DESMOND JOHNSON OF SLOAN KETTERING CANCER INSTITUTE REPORTS:

"Vertebral Subluxations cause changes in normal body function."

A Vertebral Subluxation is a spinal vertebrae that is twisted out of alignment. This then pinches spinal nerve bundles which exit between the vertebrae (see picture below). Because of this, nerve signals from the brain are blocked; this blockage causes abnormal function of cells, tissues and organs. Abnormal function eventually leads to disease, sickness and many other symptoms.

Vertebral Subluxations are eliminated by chiropractic adjustments. Modern diagnosis, instrumentation & light adjusting methods are always used to eliminate the cause (the vertebral subluxation) of the problem as quickly as possible.

It's important to take care of cause not symptom. Treatment of symptoms mask disease & sickness, allowing them to continue undetected until surgery is required or death ensues.

Chiropractic uses no drugs, when our people are well, there has been a true correction and a return to natural health. Everyday the world is realizing the negative impact of chemical pollution. On our planet, the environment is in a delicate balance. We must follow the laws of nature if we are to survive. Don't be another victim of pollution, if medications really cured, instead of covering pain and sickness, no one would die of any disease because there is a medication for almost everything known to man.

The correction of vertebral subluxations has given millions just like you the chance to live a normal, healthy long life.

Do you really think after 91 years Chiropractic would still be around if it didn't work?

If you have the ability to accept factual new ideas call for an Appointment Now.

'I love it'

Lectka's no-hitter wins title for Franklin

STEVE FECHT/staff photographer

Tracy Lectka gets a victory ride from the Franklin faithful and a tug from teammate Maria Vasseliou following the Patriots' victory in the Class A state finale Saturday.

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

It's time to update the big sign that stands above the entrance to Livonia Franklin High School — you know, the one that proclaims Franklin as the winner of the 1975 state Class A football championship.

The new sign should say: "Livonia Franklin: Home of the 1986 Class A girls softball champions." And somewhere on the sign should be a picture of Tracy Lectka.

The Patriots earned the new distinction Saturday at Lansing's Ranney Park, beating Waterford Kettering 1-0. Earlier Saturday, the Pats closed out a 20-inning marathon semifinal session with South Lyon, winning 2-0.

It took 'em 27 innings, but the title belongs to the Pats.

Now, what's all this about Tracy Lectka? Was she a one-girl show, or what?

Not entirely — the Franklin squad played superlative defense — but close.

HERE'S WHAT Lectka accomplished in the state tournament. She tossed a no-hitter at Kettering. The only Kettering runner reached base on a sixth inning error. This was just hours after wrapping up 20 scoreless innings against South Lyon. In that game, she allowed just eight hits, six of which came between the 11th and 17th innings Friday night. Only two runners reached third base, she struck out nine, walked only one, and made 14 assists on ground balls back to the mound.

Impressed?

There's more.

Going back to the district tournament, Lectka tossed 44 consecutive scoreless innings. The last run scored off the senior came in the fourth inning of the district finale against Farmington Hills Mercy.

Her performance in the state championship game provided a story-book ending to Lectka's softball career. Next year, Lectka will play basketball at Wayne State, not softball.

"We just played awesome," said a teary-eyed Lectka. "I love it. This is it."

SAID FRANKLIN coach Joe Epstein: "The girls were just something else. But it's like I've said all year, if we can score three runs, Tracy will win it. She got fired up early this morning when I told the news that she made first team all-state. And we fielded very well behind her."

The only run Franklin needed against Kettering came in the first inning. Kris Roman led off with a single, Lectka sacrificed her to second and Cherie Mascarello moved her to third with a ground out.

Maria Vasseliou, a very much unsung hero for the Patriots, slapped a single to center to score what would become the winning run.

Vasseliou hit the ball hard throughout the tournament and was near-perfect at shortstop. She handled seven of her eight chances in the title game, most of which were balls solidly hit.

"I always felt this team had the talent," Epstein said. "I had a great shortstop, a great pitcher and a great outfield. I always believed in them. I think they finally started believing in themselves. There was a feeling on this team from day one that we'd be back here (state finals) this year."

Franklin, which finishes with a 31-5 record, lost in the state finals last year.

IT WAS Vasseliou's red-hot bat that finally brought an end to the historic semifinal game with South Lyon.

After 20 innings, after more than four hours of intense play over two days, that game was decided by, of all things, a misplayed fly ball.

History isn't always pretty. But the Pats aren't complaining.

According to tournament officials, Franklin's 2-0 win was the longest game ever played in the state softball tournament.

The game began innocently enough at 5:30 p.m. Friday. At 8:30 p.m., in the 17th inning of a scoreless game, the umpires decided to suspend the game until Saturday morning.

At 11 a.m. Saturday, in the top of the 20th inning, Vasseliou lofted what seemed to be a routine two-out fly ball to center field.

While teammates Kim Godfrey and Cherie Mascarello circled the bases, South Lyon's center fielder misjudged the fly ball. When the ball landed, Vasseliou was standing on third, two runs were in and Franklin was in the state finals.

DESPITE THE run shortage, the game produced high drama. South Lyon loaded the bases with two outs in the bottom of the 12th. The Lions put together back-to-back hits in the 13th, but the lead runner was thrown out at third. They put a runner on third with two out in the 19th — but the plate remained untouched.

Franklin had its chances, too. The Pats put together three hits in the fifth, but a potential run was tagged out at third. They put runners on first and third in both the fifth and 17th and came away empty.

"When a game gets to that point, you know it's going to take a break to decide it," Epstein said.

All the breaks went the way of the Patriots Saturday.

Now, do something about that sign.

Rice ousts Glenn, 1-0

By Brad Emons
staff writer

The old baseball adage "it only takes one" was enough for Birmingham Brother Rice Friday in the state Class A baseball semifinals at Western Michigan University's Hyames Field.

The Warriors scratched together a double by Tom Giroux, who moved to third on a Steve Irwin wild pitch. That set the stage for Chris Alexander's game-winning single, a bleeder through the left side of the infield.

The run came in the second inning and it was all Warriors needed to beat Westland John Glenn in a tense pitchers duel, 1-0.

Rice right-hander Steve Schutz outdueled Irwin, the Glenn ace, who suffered his first loss of the year.

Schutz, who raised his record to 11-2, allowed only four hits and walked four. He was able to survive a last-ditch Glenn rally in the seventh, getting Chuck Hammontree on a bounce-out to short with two runners aboard to end the game.

"I TRY TO KEEP the ball outside and when the better hitters are up I want to jam them inside," said Schutz, the gritty Rice junior. "This game ranks right up there as one of my best.

"I'm basically a fastball pitcher. When I get behind, I like battling by throwing strikes."

It's Ypsi

Ypsilanti, who swiped six bases and took advantage of four costly Birmingham Brother Rice errors, captured their first ever Class A title with a 6-5 triumph late Saturday evening at Western Michigan University.

Ypsilanti overcame a 4-0 first inning deficit to beat the Warriors, who finished the season with a 23-14 record.

Rice outhit Ypsilanti eight to six.

When Glenn's Jim Kenyon opened the seventh with an infield single and Mike Wells walked, Schutz was paid a visit to the mound by Rice coach Ron Kalczynski.

"I had no real instructions for Steve other than to settle him down," Kalczynski said. "He's just a great competitor and had the adrenaline flowing. He was just overthrowing a bit. He was a little too pumped up."

SCHUTZ, despite being behind on the count to Tom Rogala, made the Glenn left fielder whiff on a swinging third strike before getting the dangerous Hammontree on a ground out.

"I thought that with our pitcher that the score would be the other way around," said Glenn coach Norm Hoenes, whose team bowed out with a 26-3 record. "But their kid (Schutz) did a great job. When he got behind he kept coming back.

"I'm pretty disappointed, but we played well. We just didn't hit the ball. We might have swung at a few bad pitches. That may have hurt us."

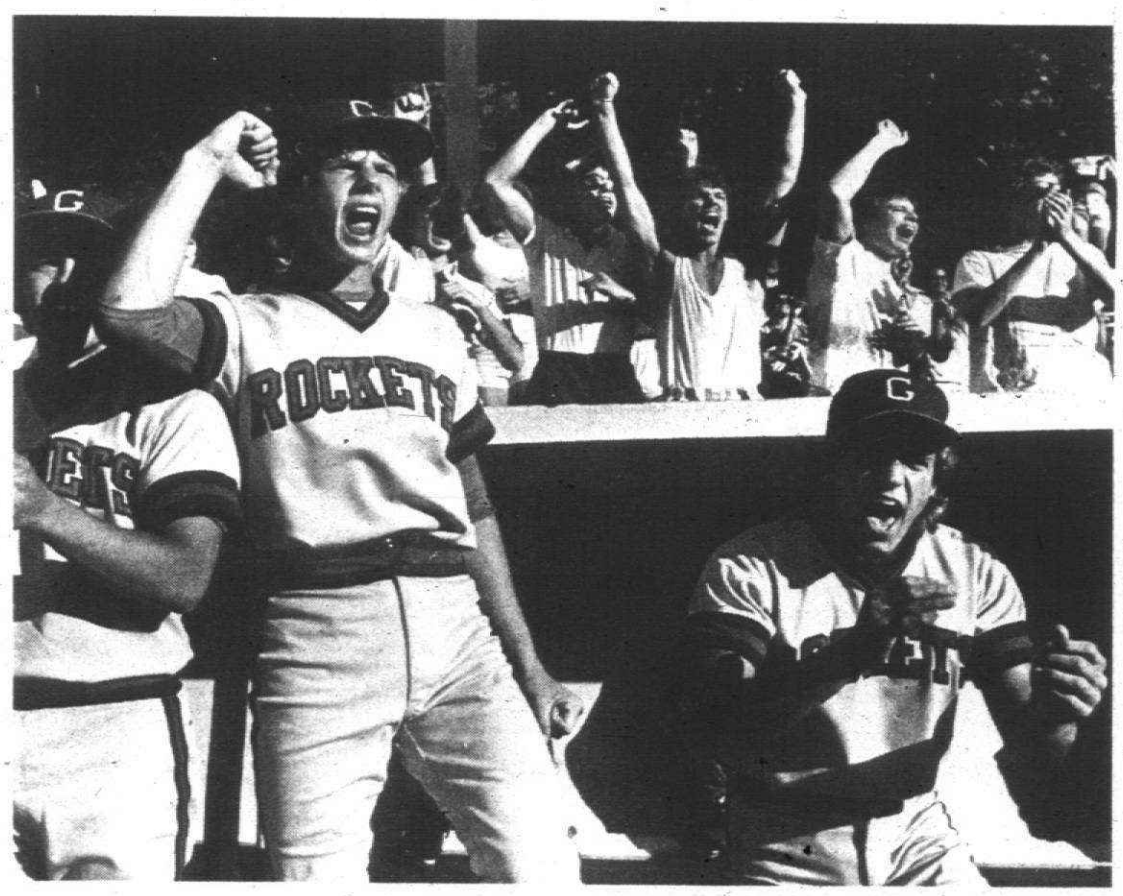
Irwin, the hard-throwing righthander with a sweeping curve ball and a deadly slider, allowed just four hits, two walks and fanned 10. (As a batter, he collected two of Glenn's four hits. Kenyon had the other two.)

"WE WENT 26-3 and had a great season," said Hoenes. "I can't complain. We were one base hit away from winning it."

Not only was Schutz tough when he had to be, the Rice defense was equal to the task.

The Warriors turned a double play in the third after thwarting Glenn earlier in the inning on a sacrifice bunt attempt.

"Before the end of the season, we had 73 errors (as a team)," Kalczynski said. "But in the last 10 games, we've been playing the way I know we can. Today we went head to head with one of the best pitchers in the state and won. But we have one of the best around, too."



GARY CASKEY/staff photographer

When the laughter died Friday night, as it did soon after Tom Walker (left), Kurt Golemo, and Pat Pettit cheered a short-lived seventh inning rally, Glenn bowed out of the state title chase.

Observer kick stars hope to keep streak alive

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

Think depth isn't important when all-star teams meet?

Think again. Both the Observer girls soccer stars and their counterparts from the Eccentric area will be without key performers for the fourth annual O&E All-Star Classic. The game will be at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday at West Bloomfield High School.

That's where depth comes in. The deeper the talent runs, the better a team will be able to overcome the loss of a key player.

As it's shaping up right now, it's the Observer team's depth that will be tested the most. Three first-team all-Observer players — Jenny Huegli, Amy Weber and Jenny Sawicki, all from Livonia Churchill — will miss the game because Wednesday is Churchill's graduation.

FOR THE ECCENTRIC team, first-team selection Carrie Bree of Bloomfield Hills Andover will not be available because she'll be out of town.

That favors the Eccentrics. So does another very important factor: incentive.

The Eccentrics have never won this game. They tied the Observers 4-4 last year after losing the first two meetings, 7-1 (1983) and 5-2 (1984).

On paper, the Observers still rate as the favorite, a designation Eccentric coach Terry Dilworth of Birmingham Marian is only too happy to heap upon them.

"They're obviously the favorites," said Dilworth of the Observers. "We have a lot to worry about with them. But we match up really well. It could come down to who wants it more."

That could aid the Eccentrics immensely.

"Katie Andreae would sure like to win this game," said Dilworth. "She's really pumped up for it."

She should be. This will be Andreae's third appearance in the O&E Classic, without a win.

BOTH TEAMS are planning to utilize an aggressive, attacking style of play, which should make the game that much more interesting.

"We plan on going offensively against them," said Ed Dudek, the Observer coach from state Class A champion Churchill. "People enjoy a wide open offensive attack, with a lot of goals."

WHAT: The 4th annual Observer & Eccentric Girls High School Soccer Classic.

WHERE: West Bloomfield High School (4925 Orchard Lake Road, north of Maple Road).

WHEN: 6:30 p.m., Wednesday, June 18.

WHO: Eccentric All-Area Girls Soccer Team vs. Observer All-Area Girls Soccer Team.

WHY: To showcase the best high school players in the area, if not the state.

ADMISSION: Tickets, priced at $1, are available at the gate before the game.

PAST SCORES: The Observer team won the first two games, 7-1 in 1983 and 5-2 in 1984. The teams tied in last year's battle, 4-4.

HISTORY: The first two games, at Livonia Stevenson High School, were lopsided affairs in favor of the Observer squad. Mary Kay Hussey of Stevenson scored three goals in the first game and holds the record for most goals scored in the series' history by one player with five. In the second game, Churchill's Jennifer Flowers scored two goals to pace the Observer offense. Last year the Eccentric team roared to a 3-0 halftime lead on goals by Cindy Wass of Athens, Liz Suttie of Troy and Betsy Clement of Marian. However, the Observer team scored three straight goals to tie the game. Suttie scored another goal to give the Eccentric a 4-3 lead, but Annette Ruggiero scored the eventual game-tying goal.

MOST VALUABLE PLAYERS: 1983: Mary Kay Hussey (Stevenson); 1984: Annette Ruggiero (Farmington Mercy); 1985: (tie) Katy Andreae (Seaholm), Lisa Broccardo (Stevenson).

But there was another reason for Dudek's strategy. "We only have three fullbacks," he said, "so we want to play as much offense as possible.

"Of course," he added, "I'm saying this now, but we could change."

The Eccentrics' strength should be its scoring ability. Forwards Cindy Wass (of Troy Athens) and Kate Ferguson (Birmingham Marian) totaled more than 95 goals this season between them, and Andreae (Birmingham Seaholm) has demonstrated her ability to put the ball in the net from her midfield post.

"WE'RE GOING to try to put a little more pressure on the Observer defense than they're used to," said Dilworth. "I know we're a lot quicker than I thought we were. (Wings) Dana Nessell (West Bloomfield), Emily Riemer (Troy) and Kara Denyer (Rochester) are all extremely quick.

"I'm hoping their skill and speed will open things up in the middle."

Patty Boyle (Marian) adds more speed and depth to an already well-stocked area for the Eccentrics.

The Observers, too, are skilled on the forward line, despite the loss of Huegli (35 goals) and Weber (20). Jill Estey and Julie Tortora of Plymouth Salem, Lori Green and Mary Pelloni of Livonia Stevenson, and Laurie Dingle of Farmington will alternate.

"We'll try to put a line of Stevenson players together up front as a group, then a line of Salem players, to let them play with people they're used to," Dudek said.

BUT THE KEY battle could be waged at midfield. Both coaches think that is the area where they are strongest.

"Our defense is strong," said Dilworth, "but our midfield is just fabulous. With Andreae, Jacqie Silagyi (Athens) and Betsy Clement (Marian) we have some really talented players there. I've got an idea we'll control the midfield."

Dilworth will have Kathleen Guzinski (Athens) and Margaret Kopmeyer (Bloomfield Hills Lahser) to strengthen his claim to midfield superiority.

Dudek merely said, "We are very strong at midfield" with players like Kim Paterson (Stevenson), Jamie Kubacki (Churchill), Leslie Martin (Farmington), Kristi McMinn (North Farmington) and Amy Stock (Farmington Hills Mercy).

A MISCUE at midfield will result in a difficult task for the defense, considering the offensive talents each team possesses. Both coaches figure their defenses will be severely tested.

Dudek will call on Margaret DeMattia (Mercy), Jean Anzlovar (North Farmington), Marcie Jamrog (Stevenson) and Shari Acitelli (Churchill) on the Observers' defense. On the back line for the Eccentrics will be Heather Lawler (Troy), Kelly Fitzgerald (Athens), Michelle House (Troy), Caroline Johnston (Seaholm) and Angel Capaldi (Marian).

Liz Monroe (Churchill) will start in goal for the Observers. Lynn Eckhout (Athens) and Brooke Gillespie (Troy) are the Eccentric goalkeepers.

"I'm kind of worried about them," admitted Dudek of the Eccentric team. "I know they have some good offensive players, so I know they can score goals. I think it'll be a pretty competitive game."

It's certainly shaping up that way, anyhow.

6 All-Staters featured on talented soccer squad

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Six all-state players headline yet another talented all-Observer girls soccer team for 1986.

State champion Livonia Churchill leads the way with four first-team all-area selections.

Players from state-ranked Livonia Stevenson and Plymouth Salem are also represented.

Many of the players listed below will also play for the Observer all-stars in the annual O&E Girls Soccer Classic, Wednesday, June 18, at West Bloomfield High School.

This year's all-area squad, covering a 12-school area, may be unmatched.

FIRST TEAM

Liz Monroe, goalie, Livonia Churchill: A junior transfer from Livonia Bentley, Monroe yielded a total of seven goals all season for the state champion Chargers.

She recorded 13 shutouts en route to all-Western Division honors in the Western Lakes Soccer League (WLSL).

"Liz has very good coordination," said Churchill coach Ed Dudek. "She is an excellent athlete and had a willingness to learn more about goaltending. She should be a standout again next year."

Margaret DeMattia, defense, Farmington Mercy: A first-team all-state choice, DeMattia, a junior, scored 12 goals and added 18 assists from her backline position.

The all-Catholic League pick "was our strongest and most accurate kicker on our team," according to coach Gene Fogel.

"Margaret is a strong defender with the speed and stamina necessary to go an entire game at full throttle," said the Mercy coach.

Jean Anzlovar, defense, North Farmington: A junior who made second team all-state, Anzlovar scored 20 goals and added 20 assists for the Raiders. She has 47 career goals.

The three-year team MVP was also voted to the all-Western Lakes squad.

"Jean has speed, endurance and is hard to beat in a sprint situation," said North coach Cathy Cole. "She always played with a flair and the intelligence needed to be an excellent athlete and leader."

Marci Jamrog, defense, Livonia Stevenson: The Spartans' co-captain claimed a series of honors this season including first-team all-state, first-team all-WLSL and team MVP.

Stevenson coach Norene Divens said of her talented senior: "Great speed, very quick, extremely consistent, excellent ball control, hard worker, tough, coachable and smart.

"Marci knows her ability and the right time to pass, send and clear the ball," said the Stevenson coach. "She has a 3.8 grade-point average and will definitely play college soccer."

Jenny Sawicky, defense, Livonia Churchill: The stingy fullback was a four-year player, capping her senior by gaining all-Western Lakes and all-area honors.

Sawicky spearheaded a Churchill defense that allowed only two goals in league play and blanked such strong teams as Northville (twice), Salem and Stevenson.

"Jenny fights forwards extremely well in the air," said the Churchill coach. "She will give you a 100 percent effort at all times."

Kim Paterson, midfield, Livonia Stevenson: Another Bentley transfer, Paterson helped stabilize the Spartans' midfield and forward line.

She scored 14 goals and added 11 assists en route to first-team all-state honors.

The all-league pick tallied 90 goals and added 14 assists during her outstanding four-year career.

"Kim was a definite asset to our team," said the Stevenson coach. "She had excellent skills and control the middle of the field.

"She also had a very strong foot and was good at heading the ball into the net.

"Paterson is headed for Kalamazoo College."

Jamie Kubacki, midfield, Livonia Churchill: Made first-team all-state as a junior, Kubacki turned out to be a pleasant surprise for the state champion Chargers after transferring from Bentley.

She scored a pair of goals in a 3-2 state championship win over Troy Athens. For the season, Kubacki scored 13 goals and added 11 assists.

Said coach Ed Dudek of the all-Western Lakes pick: "Jamie works very hard at practices and wants to do well. She has an excellent attitude and is a coaches delight. She uses the whole field very well."

Leslie Martin, midfield, Farmington: A three-year starter, the Falcon junior scored seven goals and notched 24 assists from her center-halfback spot.

A two-team all-Western Lakes choice, Martin was the Falcons' co-captain was the team sparkplug.

"Leslie is the hardest working player on the team," said Farmington coach Ed Bartram. "She always gives 110 percent and has great ball control — a real asset to anyone's team."

Jennifer Huegli, forward, Livonia Churchill: One of Observerland's all-time best, Huegli tallied a school record 35 goals and 25 assists for the state Class A champions.

She also holds the Churchill school record with 87 career goals.

The two-time all-stater was dangerous any time she touched the ball.

"Jennifer is great on the wing because of her strong foot," Dudek said. "She possesses great skills and is a fierce competitor — giving her all to win.

"Her records at Churchill will be hard to beat."

Amy Weber, forward, Livonia Churchill: Another two-time all-area pick, Weber came over from Bentley last season and helped form one of the state's most dangerous 1-2 scoring punches along with Huegli.

This season, Weber scored 20 goals and added 15 assists en route to all-Western Lakes honors. She was an honorable mention all-stater.

"Amy is a fierce competitor and will give whatever it takes to win," said the Churchill coach. "She has great speed and endurance. She scored key goals in games leading to the state finals. She has the determination necessary in a forward."

Laurie Dingle, forward, Farmington: A four-year starter, Dingle led the Falcons with 33 goals and seved assists this season. Her career totals are 51 and 14, respectively.

Dingle was an all-Western Lakes and honorable mention all-stater. She was also the team's MVP two straight seasons.

She has also claimed numerous academic honors: National Honor Society, Madame Curie Award, Academic Hall of Fame and Class Valedictorian.

"Laurie has a great desire to do well in everything she tries," said the Farmington coach. "She's the quickest girl on breakaways we've seen this year. Laurie's a real team leader and we'll miss her."

Julie Tortora, forward, Plymouth Salem: The senior striker scored 15 goals and 10 assists this season, bringing her career totals to 61 goals and 37 assists.

Tortora was named all-Western Lakes twice and was voted team MVP this year.

Tortora will continue her soccer career at Kalamazoo College.

"Julie has great leadership qualities and is very dedicated to fitness," said Salem coach Ken Johnson. "She was like a second coach on the field. Her leadership will be missed at Salem."

MHSAA director named

The representative council of the Michigan High School Athletic Association announced the selection Wednesday of Jack Roberts to the post of executive director of the MHSAA.

Roberts begins his new duties Aug. 1. He is replacing Vern Norris, who retired in June.

The 37-year-old Roberts attended Dartmouth College and is currently executive vice president of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes in Kansas City, Mo.

He formerly served as chief executive officer for the Ruedinger Companies (1980-81) and was assistant director to the National Federation of State High School Associations (1973-80).

Roberts has also taught and been a coach at the secondary school level.

HE HAS BEEN a frequent speaker before athletes, coaches, school administrators and civic organizations throughout the country.

He is the editor of Sharing the Victory magazine and former editor of the Interscholastic Athletic Administration and National Federation Press publications.

Roberts, who is married and has two sons, ages 10 and 7, was selected by the search and executive committees of the 19-member representative council of the MHSAA.

Little Caesars

JUNE 17 IS YOUR DAY FOR CAREER ADVANCEMENT

Career Open House

Southfield Civic Center
Parks and Recreation Building, lower level
10 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Look to Little Caesars for a rewarding future as a manager, assistant manager or franchise representative. Because we are seeking leaders for tremendous personal success in the pizza carry-out business. We've already grown to over 1000 units, and by the end of 1986 over 1300 Little Caesars locations will be in operation.

Let's talk about you!

If you have restaurant experience or a college degree, we'd like to meet you. What's more, we'd like to know all about you — your career goals, leadership skills, past talents, everything that's important in becoming a successful restaurant professional.

If you have good potential, we'll offer you extensive management training with pay, a very competitive starting salary, comprehensive benefits and a fast track to challenging responsibility.

So mark June 17th on your calendar as a day of career opportunities at Little Caesars. If you are unable to attend, send your resume to:
