Planners reject 'gas and go' station

But several commissioners interpreted the court reporter's presence as either an attempt to intimidate them or preparation for a court case.

arrangement would cause unnecessary traffic problems in the future.

The evening started poorly for Boron and went downhill from there. Planning Commission Chairman Joseph Kinnick said at the start of the hour long debate that he saw no reason to discuss the matter at all. "Mike has met with their traffic consultant and no progress has been made. I see no need for discussion.'

But Boron attorney Marvin Kramer persisted and asked to present his case. Unfortunately, he also persisted in calling planning chairman Mr. Minnick, rather than Kinnick. The dialogue that ensued was like a court intrigue with vigorous examination and cross examination of "witnesses."

Boron presented a traffic consultant and marketing experts to explain the benefits of the "gas and go" type oper-

Members of the planning commission countered that such operations were not desirable because they were of limited service to township residents. Kinnick mentioned a similar situation in Southfield and he said that the city was now seeking to outlaw "gas and go" operations.

Kramer, however, kept asking whether or not the proposed station met the township ordinances. He thought so. 'This has boiled down now to amatter of subjection opinion, and I don't think the commission can find what's wrong with our plan.

Kramer's insistence irritated planning commisioner Carl Parsell enough to say, "Look, are we here to work out a compromise and get the station or are you here gathering depositions for a court dase? If you are here to work out problems, let's do it in a friendly manner, but if you are here preparing for a court case, I don't think that's proper. Let's quit playing this game of 20 questions.'

Kramer said that he was "willing to call him off' (the court reporter) if the commission "would work in earnest with Boron officials.'

Kramer persisted, however. He said that the issue was not the site plan but rather that the township was against "gas and go" operations. As a result, he claimed, there was nothing in the site plan that didn't meet the zoning specifications. He implied the commission was making a contrived effort to stop the station.

But his arguments were to no avail and the commission voted 6-0 to recommend denial of the station as presented in the site plan.

Early deadline for holidays

Observer & Eccentric Newspapers will continue to publish each Monday and Thursday during the year-end holidays. But because of our shortened work week, some deadlines have been changed.

For the edition of Thursday, Dec. 26, general news and community calendar items must reach us by the morning of Monday, Dec. 23. Suburban Life ("women's") and church items must be submitted no later than tomorrow - Friday, Dec. 20.

For the edition of Monday, Dec. 30, general news and calendar items must reach us by the mail delivery of Thursday, Dec. 26.

Retail and classified advertising deadlines for all editions through Thursday, Jan. 2, are moved up 24 hours. For specific section and proof deadlines, please call the advertising department.

The promise came out of a discusson and inspection tour of the Schoolcraft corridor from Inkster Road to Newburgh Road by State Sen. Carl Pursell (r-Plymouth), Paul Riley, district traffic engineer for the

Commissioners urge end to tax-title buying

A resolution urging the Legislature to abolish tax-title buying in Michigan has been adopted by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

County commissioners acted as a result of recent cases in which professional tax title buyers have gained liens on the property of elderly homeowners who had failed to pay property taxes. The buyers then demanded large payments in order for the owners to redeem their property.

Tax title buying is permitted under Michigan's complex property tax laws. The purpose is to enforce payment of property taxes. Sales are conducted annually in May by county treasurers, acting as agents of the COUNTY COMMISSIONER Samuel A. Turner (D-Detroit), who introduced the resolution, described tax title buying as "an archiac device that victimizes the elderly in particu-

He explained that the average property owner has nothing to worry about because his taxes are included in his monthly mortgage payment.

However, persons who own their property free and clear must pay their own taxes, Turner noted, as is the case with many elderly home-

"There are cases in which elderly persons simply forget or become confused by the various notices or simply feel they cannot afford to pay their taxes from meager pensions," Turner

"Suddenly, after making payments all their lives, they find themselves threatened with loss of their property. Any set-up that falls most harshly upon the elderly obviously is in need of change."

UNDER THE present law, a tax buyer can acquire a lien on property at the annual tax sale after taxes have been delinquent for at least 26

The taxpayer then has one year in which to redeem his property in the office of the county treasurer by paying the back taxes plus interest, a collection fee and an expense-of-sale fee.

If the property is not redeemed during the one-year period, the tax-title buyer may then request payment from the owner for the amount hepayed, plus 50 percent, plus $5 and costs. He must file proof that he served notice on the property owner.

If the owner does not redeem from the tax-title buyer within six months after the proof of service has been filed, the tax-title holder becomes owner of the property and can charge the previous owner any amount he chooses in rent or to repurchase the property.

TURNER'S RESOLUTION urges that the property tax laws be amended to eliminate tax-title buying, with the state taking the lien on delinquent property.

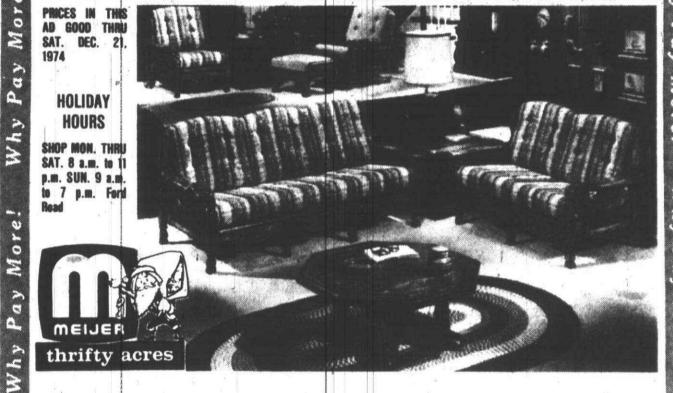

The owner would still have 38 months in which to redeem his property and individual municipalities could extend that period another six months by adopting resolutions to withhold local property from state auction

Deputy County Treasurer Clark G. Finley told the county board's General Government Committee that the Turner solution was similar to one proposed by Treasurer Louis H. Funk a few years ago. Finley said the State would be "more lenient" than tax buyers.

"If you abolish the individual tax buyer, we think that would eliminate most of the problems we have now," Finley said.

Turner is chairman of the General Government Committee which recommended adoption of his resolution by the full Board of Commissioners. Richard E. Manning (D-Redford) is vice chairman of the General Government Committee. Brian G. Arrowsmith (D-Canton Township) is a member.

The Detroit Common Council recently asked the Wayne County Organized Crime Task Force to investigate the methods by which property can be acquired for back taxes.

it Housing Authority (PNHA).

With commission approval on Monday night, the group has another six months to attempt to complete arrangements for either federal or state financingi or forfeit the city's backing on the three-year- old senior citizens housing project.

Currently the city is the owner of record of several parcels of land at Ann Arbor Trail hear Hamilton, which the PNHA would like to develop into a 200-unit high-rise apartment complex for senior citizens: Pilgrim Towers.

A fire at one of the parcels may have saved the fate of the project, according to Yockey, as the insurance settlement on the damages totaled more than $14,000.

THAT SUM was used to repay the city's more than $8,000 investment in the interest payments to this point, and will insure that sufficient funds are available to meet interest payments on the loan for the next six

The project has been rejected on two occasions. The first rejection came in December of last year, when federal HUD officials said the project did not fall under new federal programs and that the project would have to be submitted to a state or local housing authority.

Submitting the proposal to the state achieved another rejection, with Michaign State Housing Development Authority officials noting that the proposed site was too close to a railroad (the site is bounded by the C&O railroad on one side) and being too close to an industrial area.

THE PNHA was told to search for an alternative site. A search was made, but according to Yockey no other site could be found. The proposal has been resubmitted since that time and the MSHDA has yet to rule on the appeal

In the absence of commissioners Robert Sincock and John Moehle, the commission voted 4-1 to continue the arrangement with the PNHA with objection voiced by Mayor Beverly McAninch, who has consistently voted against the proposal each time it has been reviewed by the commission.

"This has been going on far too long," the mayor noted. "It's not the city's business to be in the property owning business. No matter how I might feel about the worthiness of this project, I will have to vote against it."

Remaining funds from the insurance settlement have been placed in an escrow account which requires commission approval along with PNHA approval before disbursements can be made.

The oohs and aahs were directed toward an Arp synthesizer, producing a rainbow of electronic tones and sounds in the front of the room.

Ms. Wallace offered the sonic treat to her two seventh grade music classes as a finale to a unit on electronic music. The students had studied electronic music through tape recorders. and the synthesizer demonstration added a realistic, first-hand touch to the course.

JOHN WILLIAMS, a salesman at Arnoldt Williams Music Store in Canton Township who volunteered to present the demonstration, pulled a lever here, connected a wire there and hammered at the keyboard, bringing forth the woodsy sound of oboes, the reedy sound of clarinets and the rat-tat-tat of drums.

Williams pointed to the maze of levers and knobs located above the keyboard.

A synthesizer like this one is basically made up of a bunch of modules." Williams told the students. "Each one has its own purpose. Depending on how we hook up these different modules, we get different

A small electronic screen next to the synthesizer depicts sound waves in pictorial form, Williams explained as he transformed the green lines from waves to dashes to wiggly zigzag figures. Different wave patterns are characteristic of various types of musical instruments and sounds.

"It's all these subtle differences that allow you to get any type of sound you want," said Williams as he produced the mellow sound of a "triangular" | wave pattern.

THE ROAR of an ocean, the rustling of the wind and the surreal gonging of bells next filled the room.

"These things might sound stupid to you," Williams told the students, "but they're really very useful. There are a lot of songs being written that use them, because they don't have a melody line as such. Synthesizers were not really made to duplicate other sounds, but to create new sounds and tone colors."

Williams pulled out another electronic unit, hooked it to the synthesizer and hammered out a melody on the synthesizer's keyboard. The unit played back a modified version of the melody, as Williams pulled and adjusted levers.

"While that's going, you can go over to the piano or something and play along with it," he explained. "That's what performers do."

One student asked for the sound of a piano, another asked for an echo, and a third called for the sound of a motorcycle accident.

"YOU COULD get these sounds," Williams told the students, "but it would take a long time. It takes a long time to get certain sounds and other sounds are easy."

One student asked if the synthesizer could produce the sound of a human Williams swung around and began tampering with the machine.

"I've had it say, 'oh, boy' and 'man,' " he said, "but it takes a long time to get it to say that. Once you know what the knobs do, then it's your own experimentation. You think of a sound, and you try to create it."

Ms. Wallace called the demonstrations a success. The seventh graders. who are studying electronic music, were well prepared for the demonstra-

"I have one student in this last class who's not very motivated." Ms. Wallace said. "He insists he never learns anything. He was looking at the synthesizer after class, and I asked him if he learned anything today. He said yes."

Students said they were impressed. "It's pretty peculiar," seventh grader Dwayne Bundy said of the synthesizer. "It can make pretty neat sounds. I wish I had one. I'd sit up in my room and make motorcycle sounds. I love motorcycles."

KATHY Davenport, another seventh' grader, added, "I never really heard anything like it before, I'd like to get one sometime when I get older. I wasn't expecting it to be like that.'

Seventh grader Debbie Thompson shook her head in agreement.

"I thought it looked like fun," shesaid. "Golly, I'd like to do it. I'd like it a lot.

Mom and Dad might turn down requests for synthesizers this Christmas, however. The price tag of the unit shown to the classes reads $3,000.

Health care scrutinized

The quality and quantity of U.S. medical care are the envy of the world, or high priced, inadequate, and inhibited in their development by the American Medical Association

Both views are discussed in "The U.S. Medical Care Industry: The Economist's Point of View," a collection of six papers published by the Division of Research in The University of Michigan Graduate School of Business Administration (132 pp., $5.50).

Edited by Joseph C. Morreale as No. 60 in the Michigan Business Papers Series, the six chapters were originally presented at Western Michigan University as lectures on the economics of the U.S. medical care sys-

The authors are Paul Feldstein, professor of hospital administration in the U-M School of Public Health; Reuben A. Kessel, professor of business economics at University of Chicago: Herbert E. Klarman, professor of economics at New York University; Gerald Rosenthal, director of the Bureau of Health Services Research, Washington, D.C.; Harry Schwartz, distinguished professor at State University of New York and editorial board member of the New York Times: and Donald E. Yett, director of the Human Resources Research Center at University of Southern California.

SCHWARTZ IN "The Case for American Medicine" refutes major criticisms of american medicine-that it is of poor quality and therefore deficient, that there is a drastic shortage of physicians, and that medical care is terribly expensive.

When one compares the U.S. with equivalent nations (such as the Soviet Union), Schwartz maintains, the U.S. population is found to be healthier.

He describes "tremendous technological advancement" in U.S. medical care which has made it "the envy of the world." He also argues the U.S. is increasing its supply of physicians at a rate faster than that of population growth and that with existing hospital insurance and a future national health insurance plan to be enacted, the problem of the high cost of medical care will be alleviated

He says the AMA has also imposed a rigid, high-cost medical curriculum on medical schools that inhibits innovation, and has opposed any experimentation with the delivery of medical services which might differ from the fee-for-service system.

ROSENTHAL IN "Health Service Research, Health Policy, and the Real World" holds that in the trade-off between high quality medical services and the availability of services, the former usually overrides the latter.

He advocates a "floor of health care" be established as a step toward revealing the population's medical

He finds that (1) the subsidy policy has had small effect and (2) the subsidy policy itself is not designed to: provide actual incentives toward thegoal it is intended to support, but (3) nevertheless the shortage of active. nurses has not developed.

His explanation is that enactment of Medicare-Medicaid so increased demand for nurses that the market-especially its wage aspect-for nurses: corrected itself, reattracting nurses who had been inactive. He urges that the subsidy policy be re-examined not only in terms of need but also in . terms_of effective demand.

Jail screening continues

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners has authorized $587,738 to continue operation of the reception and diagnostic center at the Wayne County Jail.

The expenditure was approved Dec. 5 as a cash match for the renewal of a federal and state Law Enforcement. Assistance and Administration grant (LEAA) which expired last month.

The funds were set aside in the 1974-75 budget and will finance the program for another year ending Nov.

The center, in its second year, is an intake service which screens inmates to identify psychiatric, medical, dietary and other problems which might require special treatment or isolation of prisoners. ## Bargaining may ease racial problems

Methods which have brought success to labor unions-challenge, confrontation, and collective bargainingmay help solve the nation's racial problems, former University of Michigan researcher W. Ellison Chalmers

His new book titled "Radial Negotiations: Potentials and Limitations," published by the Institute of Labor and Industrial Relations of the U-M and Wayne State University, centers on the study of 16 cases involving racial confrontations and subsequent negotiations.

THE CASES occurred in different parts of the country between 1968 and 1970 and involved six sectors: public employment, universities (Michigan, Duke, and San Francisco State College), school systems, welfare agencies, the construction industry. and nonprofit organizations. Details of conflict issues, leadership, strategies, and final results are included.

The author, whose research was supported by the Ford Foundation, concludes that racial conflict, both in real and perceptual terms, continues to exist in America, and that blacks must take the initiative in forcing changes in white-controlled institutions.

Chalmers says his data support the hypothesis that a negotiating process can be used by white and black sides Special under some circumstances to resolve basic conflicts.

He adds, however, that only minimal progress has thus far been achieved in such negotiations.

CHALMERS NOTES that "many of the most immediate and pervasive experiences of black Americans come from their client or participant relationships to specific establishments.

"In a society whose functions and decisions are decentralized, these establishments are the units where service decisions are made and where power is focused."

Such establishments, the author says, "tend to justify their policies and actions by insisting that they are designed to provide equal treatment for all citizens. Conflicts of interest are admitted, but these are described in economic and social terms as conflicts between the 'haves' and the 'have nots,' and the machinery for the adjustment of conflict is based on that description.

"For black protest leaders, however, these conflicts mirror racist views of white establishments toward a depressed black minority; they are have nots primarily because they are black. Indeed, many blacks perceive the attempts by whites to define conflict in non-racial terms as merely another form of racism and as a device used by whites to conceal their racism from themselves.

"We are dealing, then, with conflicts that are racial and functional. The differing perceptions of white executives and black protesters provide their own reality and their own truth.

"Black perceptions lead to the objectives of the redress of black grievances, black recognition, black dignity and black control...For black protesters recognition includes acknowledgement of the moral rightness of their grievances by whites, the correction of wrongs, and the recognition of their right to designate their own spokesmen and to set up some of the rules by which negotiations will occur. These, in effect, become the nonnegotiable demands that are frequently mentioned."

DESPITE THE depth and intensity of racial conflict. Chalmers suggests negotiations could be a way to achieve step-by-step changes in establishment practices toward black equal-

"The case data indicate two sets of variables that are fundamental in determining the degree to which the negotiating process will be used: (1) the degree to which white executives of specific establishments recognize the racist characteristics of their functioning and seek ways to realign their policies toward equal performance for blacks, and (2) the degree of readiness of black leaders and their potential constituencies to take their destiny in their own hards and use specific black complaints and generalized black anger as a basis for requiring establishment change.'

In support of his contention that little progress has been made in negotiations, the author writes:

"No great movement exists among whites to reform the institutions for which they are responsible. Perhaps the clearest indication of the weakness of reformist pressures is the inability of so many whites to even identify their racist characteristics."

between four and 10 hours a day, mostly on the weekends.

This is the first year the Canton Goodfellows have sold newspapers, and according to Davison the response has been remarkable. "The last couple of years we collected between $1,100 and $1,200 but with the papers we got just about $3,000."

The families to be helped are chosen by the Goodfellow investigating committee who interview the prospective recipients of their good cheer.

Says Davison, "We go out and talk to the folks and if they really need help we'll try and give it to them. But sometimes a girlfriend or someone will call in and say so and so needs help, and we go out there and they have a Corvette in the driveway and nice clothes and furniture. We don't rive them money

But to those who do have Christmas brightened by the volunteers there is no question-they are Goodfellows.

'It passed a bill to place public members on the boards of residential builders and community planners; it approved regulation of collection agencies; it passed a bill to allow students on university governing boards and passed a bill to stimulate housing sales.'

The latter would remove a technical barrier in the Michigan usury statute which now prevents Michigan citizens from taking advantage of $135 million in federal below-market-rate mortgage money.

Milliken added: "It is my sincere hope that we can solve the economic problems that now confront us and that we can, in 1975, identify and meet the needs of the people who gave us their mandate last month."

WSU offers courses at libraries

Beginning in January Wayne State University will offer a program leading to a Bachelor of General Studies degree at the 10 largest branches of the Detroit Public Library.

Offered in cooperation with the library system, the Veterans Administration and the Michigan Employment Security Commission, the program is open to veterans and non-veterans while working full time or while drawing SUB and unemployment benefits. providing they are available for and seeking suitable full time employment as required by the Michigan Employment Security Act.

A full time student under the new program will take three courses-one 312 hour class meeting once a week, a second class available in the home on television and a third course involving intensive weekend study experience.

IN ANNOUNCING the expanded offerings WSU President George E. Gullen Jr. said: "There's been a lot of gloom and doom talk concerning the economy lately and we at WSU felt we should do something about it.

"It seemed to make sense to give veterans and non-veterans an opportunity to make the best of a bad situation by getting a college education and thus prepare themselves for a broader stake in the job market.

"We realized that traveling to the main campus could pose a problem. especially with higher gas prices, so we decided to make it easier for them by taking the university to their neighborhoods through branch libraries."

GULLEN pointed out that under the amended Veterans' Benefit Bill any eligible veteran who served after Jan. 31, 1955, based on the number of dependents, is entitled to draw tax free benefits up to $4,000 for full time enrollment for a nine-month academic Cooperating libraries in the new program are the Chaney Branch; Butzel Branch: Parkman Branch; Sherwood Forest Branch; Douglass Branch; Edison Branch; Monteith Branch; Conley Branch; Chase Branch and Chandler Park Branch.

Holders of high school diplomas or General Education Development certifications are eligible to apply for admission to the new program. Registration continues through Dec. 21.

Transit plan pegs auto future

By DENNY COFFMAN

LIVONIA-Western Wayne County government officials and civic leaders Tuesday took a peek at what the area's transportation system will be like in the year 1990, and one thing was perfectly clear: The automobile will still be the main mode of travel, and gasoline will be the major source

Representatives of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) and the Southeast Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA) presented a proposed plan for a mass transit system to local leaders at a "transportation seminar" held at Schoolcraft College.

The most innovative feature of the plan is an isolated bus corridor, free from other forms of vehicular traffic, to be constructed as an integral part of future freeways, beginning with the Jeffries Freeway, parts of which are scheduled for opening in mid-1975. Though the plan is subject to amendments, refinements, and deletions before approval by the SEMCOG assembly, it provides a good indication of what the mass transit system of the future will be like.

"THE PLAN will combine our highway and transit facilities into a single system," said Gary Krause, director of planning for SEMCOG.

"This is not a rigid plan, but (it) is a starting point. We have a complete freeway program and there is no need to tear it up to implement a mass transit system.'

Krause went on to describe a threetiered 1990 transportation plan that assumed: (1) there will be more older persons in the system (2) there will be a shortage of energy supplies and (3) the automobile will be around for a long time.

Dependence upon the automobile was a repetitive thread running through the fabric of the proposed transportation system.

THE TRANSPORTATION plan, as outlined by Krause, will include three

One is an extention of local and feeder systems; these will be bus systems, such as the DSR in Detroit, or more sophisticated "people movers," running on electrified rails within a relatively small area.

The feeder system would bring persons to the intermediate level, which will be 186 miles of regional major roads with bus-only express lanes. The Southfield Freeway, Telegraph, I-96. Eight Mile. Merriman-Inkster are the types of major roads, portions of which would be used for intermediate level (bus-lane) transit.

Third, would be a proposed 62 miles of high level transit, high ridership arteries that would be extended and improved to handle heavy automobile

High level transit corridors would include lines such as Woodward, Gratiot, Grand River, Michigan, and Mound: and improvement of Penn Central and Grand Trunk rails. The system also will include 65 miles of new freeway construction, called "regional majors, which would include new freeway sections on M-59, M-275, M-53, the Davison, and the Davison-Mound freeways.

IN THE western Wayne County area, Ford and Middlebelt roads would be improved.

"By upgrading roads and providing car pool lanes, we will have a truly regional network of travel," concluded

According to Krause, the Airport Freeway (I-75) and the Jeffries Freeway (I-96) are 'critical' to the plan.

"The Jeffries Freeway reserve bus lane is absolutely essential to the system," he said.

WITH THE recent defeat of the transportation bond issue, financing the plan would likely require earmarking a percentage of gasoline taxes. The total cost of the system is projected at $6.2 billion.

The cost assumes a rate of inflation for capital expenditures of nine per cent; operating costs, seven per cent; and fare increases of five per cent.

Although the plan proposes extended service on two rail lines-the Penn Central and the Grand Trunk-Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara objected to omitting the Chesapeake and Ohio system which currently provides important service to industries in Li-

MCNAMARA, along with several other representatives of local governments in the Western Wayne County area, felt that the plan does not offer adequate rapid transit, especially for persons commuting to area industries.

McAninch was one of those who felt that her area was neglected by the "We're one of the most rapidly growing communities in the area,"

Plymouth Mayor Beverly

she said, "but because we don't have any congested superhighways, we're only getting limited highway construc-

"I also feel that the C & O Railroad has been neglected. In Plymouth, Garden City, Westland and Northville, many people have two cars which they don't need to have. An intermediate level of service for this area is not enough. We need good service

Richard H. Wernette, former mayor of Plymouth, agreed that the C & O ought to be given more consideration.

"You could go to downtown Detroit from Plymouth in less than a half hour," said Wernette, "and have two or three commuter trains in the morning and afternoon. The Jeffries will become too congested."

JACOB PROBE, Livonia, a member of Regional Citizens, asked: "What happens if we run dut of fossil fuels?'

One SEMCOG official responded: "If we run out of gas, we're in a big bag of trouble. This area is married to the automobile!

Jane S. Watts, of the Plymouth-Northville League of Women Voters, urged that more effort and time be used to promote a future proposed bond issue for public transportation.

Leroy Bennett, $choolcraft College trustee, thought that the plan's inflationary allowandes were conserva-

"There is no emphasis on electrical power in the plan," contended Bennett. "The plan's use of fuel bothers me, because we could be moving thousands of persons to work and still be conserving fuel (with another type of Sen. Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth), summed up the seminar by saying: "Twenty-four per cent of the people in southeast Michigan can't drive cars. We have to get an efficient mass transit system.'

REDFORD-Every time Robert Anderson goes to work, it's a disaster. Anderson, 16152 Ryland, is an evidence photographer and his job requires that he take pictures of burn victims, fall victims, automobile accidents, collapsed tunnels, burned buildings, exploded boilers and a sordid assortment of other aftermaths.

Anderson's expertise often is the deciding factor in cases involving millions of dollars.

His most ambitious assignment was a tunnel explosion which killed 21 workers in a six-mile water tunnel near Port Huron and involved a settlement of more than $17 million.

The tunnel, under construction since 1970, was a link in Detroit's water supply, until the explosion occurred Dec

Survivors' benefits were held back until the cause of the explosion was determined.

AND THIS is where Anderson came

The difficulties of photographing wreckage and debris located in a tunnel six miles offshore and 280 feet below water were monumental.

Anderson's associate, Paul Nissen, walked six miles offshore through the tunnel, and six miles back again, in order to prepare a photo portfolio depicting the after-effects. Nissen trod through two to 18 inches of water, which sometimes became mud.

He had to walk slowly, so that the mud would not be stirred up and prevent taking clear photographs of objects submerged in water.

To make matters worse, the 18-foot wide tunnel was almost totally dark.

Nissen obtained 300 photographs, spending 56 hours in the tunnel.

ANDERSON, too, knows all about tight situations.

He started in the business of evidence photography with a company that used air pressure for drilling. Anderson had to pass through an airlock, and become pressurized and depressurized.

"I had to give up the job," says Anderson, "because I kept getting headaches and nosebleeds.'

Anderson, 56, has taken photographs from below ground, from helicopters,

He even had to photograph a toilet to be used as evidence, when a woman started a fire by smoking a cigarette while seated on the toilet.

At issue was the flamability of the seat, and Anderson's pictures had to show the charred toliet.

APPARENTLY THE ability of people to find catastrophe is unlimit-

Anderson photographed a workman upon whom a brick wall toppled. In another case, a plumber and a painter were working side by side in the basement of a new building. The plumber lighted an acetylene torch, forgetting that the painter had left explosive materials in the area. The result was a fire and a court case to determine negligence, with Anderson obtaining the evidence through pictures.

"We have to depict conditions exactly as they are," says Anderson, "and because we do, we have built a reputation respected by both sides of litigation. We rarely have a hassle over the credibility of our evidence and rarely are required to appear personally in court

HIS WORK is often used to disclaim or substantiate the reliability of a witness, who says he saw something which, in fact, it was not physically possible to see.

Anderson's camera doesn't lie, and it is objectivity that brings Robert Anderson and Co. into the picture.

Sometimes he dr one of his photographers arrives at the scene before the police get there. They are on call 24 hours a day and a call in the early morning small hours isn't uncommon.

Boat explosions are not unusual, but Anderson recently photographed a boat's horn, because one of the crew claimed the signal device had caused hearing damage

When a man's shoe heel fell off, the man sought damages from the manufacturer for injuries caused by the defect, and proof was needed in the form of a photograph.

And Anderson was there after aplane crashed on the roof of a super-

And when a woman tripped on a crack in a sidewalk, a picture of the cracked sidewalk was required.

Poor lighting conditions at the scene of an accident have to be substantiated with visual evidence of the kind supplied by Anderson. When a man in his 20s was crippled, Anderson's movies showing the change in the man's lifestyle were used in court. Anderson, the only qualified evidence photographer in Michigan recognized by the Professional Photogra-

"I got tired of doing illustration work. Though legal photography is perhaps less creative, I think it's more interesting and takes more in-tellect. Instead of just aiming a cam-era, this work takes some thinking."

He was a stringer for perhaps the best of all picture magazines-Life.

But if you want to snap a picture of Anderson, you'll have to use fast film and a fast shutter speed because he manages to keep active in the Redford Township Chamber of Commerce, Optimists, Lions, Boys' Club, and Zoning Board of Appeals. He also had been a township trustee for four

Except for those extracurricular activities, for Anderson it's been one disaster after another.

State wakes up to Schoolcraft Road danger

Take heart, folks. Thanks to the concerted efforts of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, State Sen. Carl Pursell, State Rep. Robert Geake and the cooperation of the State Highway Department, Schoolcraft Road from Telegraph to Newburgh will be much safer for driving within a month.

We are referring to that area now under construction for the new Schoolcraft freeway, a corridor which has many dangerous spots due to exca-

For the past several weeks, the Observer & Eccentric has written a series of articles pointing out the dangers of Schoolcraft Road with a warning that fatal accidents or serious mishaps will take place unless corrections are made at once.

FOR A TIME it appeared as if the editorials were a waste of time, but they were brought to the attention of the highway department officials and did reach home.

For that we can thank Sen. Pursell and Rep. Geake for applying a bit of pressure at the proper places in Lansing and for letters from such groups as the Livonia Traffic Commission to state officials

Paul Riley, district traffic engineer of the State Highway Department in charge of the metropolitan district which includes Wayne, Oakland, Macomb and St. Clair counties, has promised action within three weeks to a month.

That promise includes guardrails at all danger spots, and we might say there are quite a few starting at Telegraph Road and going out to Newburgh Road, on both east and westbound lanes.

We feel it's time the State Highway Department stepped into this situation. There are numerous places along Schoolcraft where if a car went into a skid, it would slide over the edge and down a deep embankment.

THIS IS WHAT we attempted to get across to all who would listen. We tried to get the message home that it would be better to improve conditions now before some driver was killed in a skid down the deep excavation. We pointed out that it was better to take precautions before and not be sorry than to wait until something happened.

R. T. Thompson writes

But the warnings went unheeded until a young man in his early 20s did run off the road and did skid down the deep embankment while enroute to his Livonia home from work shortly after midnight. That young man is still in the hospital and probably will be for a long period of time with serious spinal injuries.

Thus, the thing did happen that we predicted. It. isn't that we wanted it that way, but we saw drivers sliding all over Schoolcraft last winter on icy roads, and we felt that there would be many accidents unless safety measures were taken.

The promise is that guardrails will be erected all along the danger spots. Apparently contracts for the freeway call for temporary barriers of some nature but we have seen some of the "chicken wire" rails put up in some places, and we emphasize that isn't enough. That kind of a barrier would hardly stop a youngster skidding off the road on a bicycle let alone a heavy car with all the additional speed.

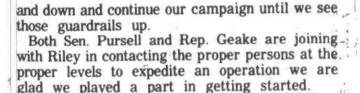

WE WILL BE watching the project closely to see that the promise is fulfilled and that Schoolcraft Road once again will become a road to drive on without fear.

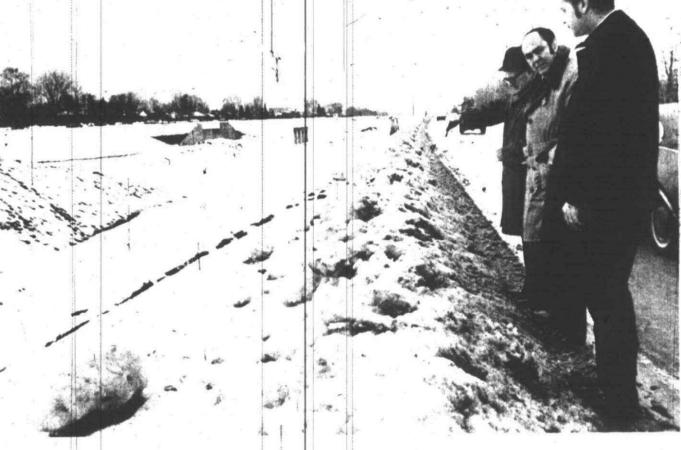

For instance, there is a long stretch of unguarded highway directly in front of Thurston High in Redford. Just a bit of a tip or a brush of two cars, and one will careen off the road and down the deep excavation. This section spreads across the entire width of the high school. Just think of the hundreds of youngsters driving in and out of the grounds daily. We wouldn't want anything to happen to a single one.

Then there's that treacherous area east and westbound between Middle Belt and Merriman Roads where the embankment starts within a few feet of the road.

editorial opinion

Brutal language can't halt crime

L. Brooks Patterson is the tough Oakland County prosecutor who has bright flair for PR dramatics and an opalescent ambition for higher office.

His remarkable ability to do just the right thing in the worst possible way was demonstrated earlier this week. The right thing was his new policy to forbid his assistants from allowing defendants in concealed weapons cases to be tried under anything less than the full charge. By ruling out the common practice of "plea bargaining," in which prosecutors offer defendants a lesser charge if they will plead guilty and avoid trial, Patterson began the long-overdue process of clamping down on gun misuse that has contributed mightily to the spiraling homicide rate in the metropolitan area.

The worst possible way to do it was the language he used in discussing the policy change: "Detroit is an armed camp," he said. "I am not going to tolerate the spillover from Detroit into Oakland County.

Although Patterson realizes Eight Mile Road is not about to become an international frontier, he added, "I assume if we charted it, we could establish that we have more trouble from outside people than we do from Oakland. But it's not like you are going into East Berlin. You can't put up a border guard. But you have to put up an invisible

PATTERSON is probably right that there are a lot of illegal guns floating around in Detroit, just as he is probably equally correct that problems in Oakland County (and other suburban communities, for that matter) are very often caused by outsiders.

But to suggest that the solution is to make Eight Mile into a frontier against Detroiters is as silly as it is transparently political.

The only way to cut down on gun misuse is to have a tough statewide program to attack it. Ending plea bargaining on weapons charges is one good route, as are minimum jail sentences for persons convicted of a felony while carrying a gun.

A patchwork of laws and policies, varying from one isolated community or county to another, is simply not going to do the job. Nor is the suggestion, contained in Patterson's remark that only people from Detroit are troublemakers, going to resolve anything.

Which gets to the politics of his statements. Most people in the suburbs of Oakland County (and elsewhere) are frightened that "outsiders from Detroit" (a code phrase meaning black people) are going to come out and shoot and burgle and assault. Rising crime statistics in the suburbs provide some basis for this fear.

What better way of making political advantage from this fear than to make inflammatory and impractical remarks about making Eight Mile into a barrier against people from Detroit?

ALTHOUGH IT may be difficult for people with political ambitions to admit it, the fact is that we who live in the metropolitan area the suburbs and in the center city - are inextricably bound together.

the metropolitan district of the State Highway

To seek to make little fortified enclaves out of the suburbs is the surest way to disaster, for the problems of violence and social decay slop over county or city lines as easily as the wind blows And unless all citizens of the area join together to resolve these problems, we all will surely be swamped by them.

Mulling over Patterson's remarks set me to thinking about the distinguished columnist Walter Lippmann, who died earlier this week. Two of his observations seem unusually appropriate

"The springs of greatness in a public man lie finally in the conviction that he must serve the truth and not opinion, that he must do what is right whether or not he is sure to succeed... This is the only way to greatness." Please note, Mr. Patterson.

"From what source come these unmanly fears that prevail among us?... It is the doubt whether there exists among the people that trust in each other which is the first condition of intelligent leadership. That is the root of the matter." Please note, everybody.

Christmas cards need that handwritten, family touch

Every year at this time, the problem of sending out Christmas cards plagues me.

Usually well after Thanksgiving, our family is still deeply mired in card catalogs without having made a selection.

At the last minute, somebody has to call the card manufacturer for a rush order, the cards finally arrive right in the middle of Christmas shopping time, and it is rush, rush, rush getting them

Since our yearly Christmas card is the only way some of our out-of-town friends know we are still alive, it could be a wonderful opportunity to jot a note and truly express our personal greetings of the season.

SO OFTEN, SO much effort is expended in addressing, stuffing and stamping and is done under the pressure of time, the true feeling behind the card never gets past the thinking stage.

As some of you may remember, last year I vowed that changes would be made in the Hogan family. We hoped to include a picture of the family because these are the cards we keep long after the colorful pieces of cardboard with people's names printed across the bottom have found their way into the wastebasket.

-by HANK HOGAN

I vowed that we would send out our Christmas cards at Thanksgiving time because we receive so many beautiful cards in the last two weeks of December that we don't fully enjoy because they arrive all at once and at a time when we are hustling about with little time to enjoy any-

I also vowed to do away with printed signa-

A printed name makes life easier because one can always have a secretary address, stuff and mail one's cards without really becoming involved in the project. But if this is the case, isn't it a waste of time to send out cards at all?

THIS YEAR we won't include a picture of our family in our card because the big snow prevented our son's taking the picture with his new timing device on his camera, but each card is being written and signed personally, with spedific thoughts for each recipient.

It is the first time in our family that the message in the Christmas card is truly reflective of the personal feelings we have toward the recipient at Christmas time.

Since it is impossible to send a card to all of the people who read this column, may I say that I extend to you my best wishes at Christmas time and hope that the New Year will be one of your happiest yet.

I THINK IT WOULD be better, and you might: agree, if President Ford ordered the printing of rationing stamps and limited the gallons of petrol. we burn regardless of our income. Rationing is far more equitable because we all:

dent is asking all of us to sacrifice.

are asked to sacrifice. Then you and I cannot; choose whether to pay more because we might be: able to afford it. We would all use less, and I: think that's more equitable.

An additional problem with the 10 cent bounty; is that regressive taxes, once imposed, are seldom removed. Look at the cigaret tax levied in: Michigan to pay bonuses for World War I vets. It: is still being collected, but the state is now bor-; rowing money to finance bonuses for Vietnam era!

I can almost hear an announcement in a couple years from the president that the 10 cent hike is being reduced to six or seven cents. This would be camouflaged as a "tax reduction."

If you share my thoughts, spend 10 cents wisely. by sending a letter to Washington. Livonia and Plymouth residents should write Rep. Marvin L. Esch. Westland, Garden City and Canton Township residents should write Rep. William D. Ford, and Redford Township residents should write Rep. Martha Griffiths. For each, address cards or letters to the House Office Building, Washington,

If you want to give the little czar an extra boot, write Senators Philip A. Hart and Robert P. Griff fin, Senate Office Building, Washington, DC 20510.

shortly after Halloween and takes kids' orders. He's paid by the store to get folks to shop there. Some people will always believe in that Santa Claus, but growing numbers are becoming disillusioned with him. The other kind of Santa Claus quietly leaves you presents on Christmas Eve and shovels the snow from your grandmother's driveway. This Santa Claus wants us to be more than good - he wants us to be decent to all kinds of people with all kinds of nationalities and religions and lifestyles. This Santa helps poor people, some-times with individual and organized acts of charity, sometimes with acts of Congress. This Santa's current top priority project is not halting inflation or bolstering the economy, but reducing the harsh shouting between nations, between political groups, belabor and management, between neighbors, between kids. This Santa will give a person who has made a mistake a chance to start over, and even add a smile and a pat on the back. Our editors, who range in age from the 20s to the 70s, all believe in this second kind of Santa Claus. We find increasing numbers of people believe in the Santa of quiet kindness and decency. Now that you're able to make up your own mind, John, we hope you will believe in this kind of Santa Claus, too.

Justice tough

on youngsters

Justice may be blind, but in some instances she is deaf, dumb and virtually absent when 17 and 18-year-old drivers are involved. They are literally devoid of all rights except in juvenile court, and stand guilty and alone before the court until proven innocent.

I say "alone" because summonses read that if a lawyer and witnesses are to be present, the court must know in advance. It doesn't say andor lawyer and witnesses. Naturally, the naive first offender rushes out to corral witnesses to be with him.

Instead he finds himself — at least my son did in Westland 18th District Court - alone and trying desperately to explain that on the night of the infraction, he was asleep in bed,

At another juncture of the trial, he politely asks the judge how the officer could make a positive identification from the distance of a football field away, from inside his house at 11:45 at night.

He was completely ignored, but not by the prosecutor, who said "the streets should be cleared of such drivers."

The crowning glory was the kid, still alone and muted before a 45-yearold judge, a 30-year-old prosecutor and a 35-year-old policeman - who has hated the kid for 10 years being told sarcastically by the judge that he, the judge, didn't care to hear any more of his alibis."

Observer Eccentric SUBURBAN LIFE

Community 'spruces up' for Christmas

Livonia shines this Christmas season with dozens of lovingly decorated municipal Christmas trees. And all over town, children can point to a particular evergreen and say "That's the one we trimmed."

The "Spruce up Livonia" decorating project was spearheaded by the Livonia Federated Garden Club, and a total of 145 groups—Cub Scouts, Girl Scouts, Family Y groups—joined in the fun.

The trees decorated are those already growing around the city at Ford Field, near the Devonshire skating rink, at fire houses and near McNamara Towers where the community's senior citizens live.

Natural or recycled materials were used. Ornaments were made at meetings of the youth group, and then everyone trekked out to the designated trees to put them in place.

The result is a community full of Yule trees that have a very special meaning to a few hundred youngsters. And, when the holiday is over, all the participating organizations are going to be responsible for removing their own ornaments. That's part of beautification, too.

(A detailed story on the tree-trimming project can be found inside this section.)

LAURA COPLANDE, 10, climbed high and reached far out to help her girl scout troop decorate its tree.

Staff photos by Mitchell Booth Art Emanuel Bob Woodring

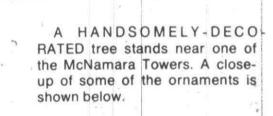

BROWNIES Kelly Fairbanks (left) and Maureen Bresnahan painted styrofoam cups to make bells to decorate their troop's tree. The cups were recycled-they recently had held juice for the day's snack.

ANN DESKIN helped put strings of popcorn on a tree designed for the enjoyment of the birds and residents of McNamara Towers.

LORRIE GAGE (left) and Mary Pulick were among the garden club members who went around to the youth group meetings to suggest possible ornaments for the project:

BY MARGARET MILLER

Many cities at this time of year have a community Christmas tree. Livonia in December 1974, has between 70 and 75 community Christmas trees. Many communities have an officially-designated committee to supply decorations. Livonia has 145 of them. It's all part of a "Spruce Up Livonia" project, dreamed up by the Livonia Federated Garden Club and translated into reality by the club group helpers. Mary Pulick, who served as chairman, explained how an idea turned into more than 70 ecologically-decorated evergreens for Livonia's Christ-

"ONE OF OUR garden club members. Dolores Bresnahan, read about a project like this in another city,"

"We thought at first about using cut trees, and thenrealized that we had plenty evergreens growing in variousparts of the city. So we decided to use

Letters went out some weeks ago to Cub Scout, Girl $cout, Indian Maidens and Indian Guides groups.

In them, the garden club explained that the groups could be assigned trees near their home bases to decorate, using natural or recycled mate-

"WE SUGGESTED that they use natural materials, like pine cones rolled in peanut butter for the birds, or popcorn or corn or acorns on strings," Mrs Pulick said.

"Or another idea was to use recycled materials-plastic jugs, foil pans, meat trays, colored detergent bottles, egg cartons, or the paper plates or cups they might use for a snack at their meetings."

So that everyone interested would have an abundance of know-how, Mrs. Pulick and Mrs. Lorrie Gage started visiting meetings of the youth groups, taking along samples of ornaments that would be simple to make and impervious to the elements of Michigan

GARDEN CLUB MEMBERS then toured the area and picked suitable trees, most of them on municipal prop-members and a large corps of youth erty. Included were evergreens by Ford Field, the Devon-aire skating rink, McNamara Towers and Livonia fire houses.

The trees designated were marked with numbers, and then the numbers were assigned to one or several

"We tried to assign trees that would be close to the children's homes." Mrs. Pulick said. "We wanted each child who took part to be able to point out his tree and the ornament he made to his family and friends."

Fairly large trees were assigned to groups of Senior Girl Scouts. A tiny one near the Livonia Family Y became the special project for the youngsters enrolled in the Kiddle Play School at the Y, youngest decoraters to participate.

THE ORIGINAL PLAN was to have most of the decorating done early in December. The big snow delayed things, but by last weekend the project was pretty well completed.

A couple of the senior scout troops worked on ornaments especially designed to attract birds, and these went on the trees at McNamara Towers, where the senior citizen residents enjoy watching feathered

The girls did a bit of Christmas caroling for the seniors while they were putting up the decorations.

A few trees that hadn't been marked with numbers got decorated anyway. "It was a matter of a group having extra ornaments, so the leaders just picked a nearby tree," Mrs. Pulick said.

The decorations that can be seen driving through the city are ingenious and, of course, ecologically-oriented.

"Our idea," Mrs. Pulick explained, "was not just to decorate a lot of

'We've been doing this for six years now," said Edward F. Pinardi, chairman of the social and community welfare committee of the Elks Club. "Our group has put on Thanksgiving parties for two years and Christmas parties for four years."

TO MARELYN KNAGGS it wouldn't be Christmas unless she helped at this party. "Just the looks on their faces makes it all worthwhile," she said.

"When I first came to one of these parties five years ago I was a little unsure," reported Mary Glomski. "But by the time I left I felt so much better. I felt as though I had really done something. I can't explain it.

Plymouth hit hard by depression

Today's headlines about decline and indemployment are reminiscent of those during the time when the nation had the granddaddy of all business slumps—the catastrophic depression of the 1930s.

The Four Horsemen of Hard Times-unemployment, welfare, soup kitchens and bank failure-played no favorites in the Thirties. They rode ruthlessly over rural communities and congested cities alike. Villages the size of Plymouth, whose population was then barely 4,500, were hit almost as hard as those in the major metropolitan areas. Between 1929 and 1933, the nation's unemployment rate rose from 3.2 per cent to almost 25 per cent. In Michigan the figure for nonagricultural workers in 1932 reached 43 per cent!

City manager Adolph J. Koenig's 1330 annual report gave first official irdication that "unsettled economic conditions" had reached Plymouth.

"As a means of providing employment for local labor." the report read, "all sewer construction of the past season was performed by the De-partment of Public Works. In the same year, the city commission "deemed it prudent to follow a policy

A group of five students from Centennial Educational Park has been selected to represent Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton High schools as candidates for the Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation Leadership Seminar on the Economy to be held in New York in April.

A committee of high school student groups, counselors and faculty members has selected sophomores Michael Hees, Jeffrey Fidge, Diane Miller, Michael Hamlin, and Matthew Norris as possible participants.

The Canton Township Jaygees and high school administrators will select the high school representatives who will compete in state finals to determine the leadership seminar partici-

Plymouth man gets electronic repair training

PLYMOUTH-Airman Donald L. Willson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Galon L. Willson of 40617 Newport Drive, Plymouth, has graduated from the U.S. Air Force electronic equipment training course at Keesler AFB, Miss. and is being assigned to Offutt AFB, Neb., for duty with the Strategic Air Command.

Airman Willson graduated in 1972 from Redford High School.

of cautious spending" because of the economic paralysis.

PLYMOUTH BECAME a Home Rule City on May 20, 1932. That year was the first in which the city had to handle welfare problems. For the first time, city commissioners had to cope with questions of rent, fuel for indigent families, a public commissary and a work-wage plan. Administration of welfare, the annual report noted, was requiring a substantial portion of the city manager's time.

Early in 1932, those on welfare had to find their own fuel. Later the commission decided to establish a city wood vard where welfare recipients could obtain stove and furnace wood.

City officials were between Scylla and Charybdis. On the one hand, welfare costs were rapidly rising; on the other, there was mounting pressure to cut the budget and reduce taxes. The $8,000 appropriated for relief purposes in the 1932-33 budget (which totalled was ever appropriated by the township (of which the village had been a part until it went on its own as a city). But the case load was greater than ever before and new cases were being added daily.

THE PRESSURE to reduce taxes is apparent in reports issued by L. P.

Cookingham, who was city manager from 1931 to Jan. 1, 1936, when he left to become city manager of Saginaw. In his report for 1931-32, Cookingham wrote that, at the time he was hired, "it was understood that the primary object of the administration was to reduce taxes with as little curtailment of services as possible." During that fiscal year, the budget adopted was almost 25 per cent below the previous year, and the tax rate was reduced from $13.50 to $12.50. This reduction was achieved by various economies, including reducing personnel and increasing hours of work in the police department, eliminating one-half of the community's street lights, and operating the city on a cash basis. By Aug. 1, 1933, however, Cookingham was cautioning the commission that this "policy of strict economy" could not be continued indefinitely without impairing the development of the community.

Near the end of 1932, the city commissioners tried to reduce relief costs by establishing a commissary where foods could be picked up by the

"The groceries, vegetables and meats were purchased at wholesale and dispersed twice a week," explained the annual report for 1932-33. "The plan reduced the cost of relief, but was considered a very improper method of handling it. The commissary remained in operation until May 27, 1933, after receipt of funds from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. The state and federal governments did not approve this method of relief and urged the adoption of work-wage programs with the payment for services in cash.

THE WORK-WAGE plan began July 1, 1933. Employable heads of families on relief were permitted to "work out their relief budgets" at $2. per day, paid in cash. For this amount they labored in the cemetery, in the parks and, with the Department of Public Works crews, they cleaned streets and did maintenance work. Although $2. a day obviously went much further in 1933 than it does during these days of "stagflation," the andual report makes clear, perhaps for the benefit of the taxpayers, that those on the work-wage plan were not exactly living off the fat of the land. "The standards at the end of the year, although much above the level of the year previous," Cookingham wrote, "were still not any above the bare requirements of a mere exist-

In spite of this recognition that welfare workers were being paid only existence wages, Cookingham found it necessary to add that "the higher rates of pay allowed by the newer plan also discourages the recipient from taking lower paid private work with longer hours, especially the ordinary farm work, which is available during certain periods of the year."

"Caution should be used in this problem," he went on, "lest the independence, ambition and personal pride of a great number of people be destroyed and dependence upon government as a means of livelihood be increased to such an extent that the burden of cost will be too great to assume.'

(Part II will cover the 1933 banking crisis and WPA projects in Plymouth, including the moving of "Plymouth

Livonian files complaint naming consumer group

Michael F. Esparza, 14425 Stonehouse, Livonia, is seeking to recover $386.82 paid as a membership fee in the Livonia- based Detroit Consumer Association.

He said he changed his mind about dining the association, which has headquarters at 29200 Vassar and is headed by Jerry Amster.

However, he alleged, when he tried to cancel the agreement five days after signing the contract Oct. 17, he was told by the association office that the membership fee would not be refunded and that "if you don't like it you can sue."

He also claimed his findings indicated the association could not delivet on savings promised.

Esparza said he had researched Michigan law and was certain that the contract he signed with the association was in direct violation of PA 227 on a buyer's right to cancel.

He said he had pointed out this violation to the Better Business Bureau in Detroit, "but it has now been a month and so far the Detroit Consumer's Association has refused to answer inquiries.'

reports a membership of 3,800 families in the Detroit metropolitan area. Amster said it provides service for these families by obtaining for them a wide variety of goods at discount

However, it has been described by Esther K. Shapiro, Detroit director of consumer affairs, as a "private business" with a membership fee that "can rarely be made up by savings through discounts."

The "association was found guilty several years ago in Detroit Recorder's Court of violating the Michigan Retail Installment Sales Act.

ESPARZA ALLEGES THAT the association violated PA 227 by failing to print on its contract the act's provision that a buyer wishing to cancel an agreement solicited at his residence could do so by notifying the seller before midnight of the third business day following the signing.

The Livonia resident added that he attempted to cancel five days after the agreement was signed, but would have acted sooner had he known about that provision.

The contract he signed did not men-DETROIT CONSUMER Association tion the provision, he said, although the law stipulates specifically that it be printed in hold type.

The provision is applicable in his case, he alleged, because "On Oct. 17, 1974, Jerry Amster and Lynn Wilson (association office manager) came to my house to solicite the sale of the purchase agreement."

HE ADDED in his letter to the Better Business Bureau:

"At this time Jerry Amster stated we would save $200 on a new van we were planning on purchasing and more on a hind quarter of beef and a number of other things. He said we would have our original investment back within a year.

"After listening to his presentation, I said I would like to keep the contract, go over it and take some time to think about it. He insisted on staying and continued to solicit the sale, stating I would save approximately $80 if I would sign the 'Cooperative Service Bond and Agreement' and give him a check for $386.82. He said this would eliminate the installment agreement and all finance charges.

"I finally agreed to sign the Cooperative Service Bond and Agreement.

"After thinking ft over, my wife and I decided we had made a mistake and wanted to cancel the agreement. We then decided to check on the statement of savings previously made by Jerry Amster.'

RESULT OF THIS research, Esparza added, was that savings on the van would be $75 rather than $200, that meat from the local butcher would cost $16 less for the hind quarter, and that the auto parts store where the discount was offered was too far away for practicality.

Esparza said that Amster, when confronted with his research on PA227, insisted it applied only to installment payment. He added that his renewed request for a refund was "rudely re-

Esparza said that if he is not successful in redovering his $386.82 through the Better Business Bureau, he planned to seek legal redress.

New era seen with the election of Catholic liberal

ひかんちゅうない かんない シアケイ & 生かる きょうこう

By LESTER KINSOLVING All but the archconservatives among the nation's 48 million Catholics have cause to rejoice in the results of the November meeting of the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops in

For as the new president of the Bishop's Conference and of the national headquarters (U.S. Catholic Conference), the bishops, by overwhelming majority, elected Cincinnati's liberal Archbishop Joseph Bernardin.

Election of this thoroughly congenial and considerably able young prelate-by almost twice the vote he got in the last election (when he lost to Philadelphia's strongly conservative John Cardinal Krol) - produced an immediate and electrifying effect.

THE BISHOPS, at long last, voted to go on record against capital punishment. The debate on this controversial issue lingered on somewhat painfully for parts of three days, due primarily to what might be termed "Krol's last stand," a masterful display of parliamentary maneuvering.

When at one point dozens of the bishops called (shouted) for the question, the tall, smiling Polish prelate at the podium, instead of recognizing this undebatable motion, cooed into the micorphone: "Did you have your hand up. Cardinal Carberry?"

Krol's fellow conservative, the archbishop of St. Louis, cited a number of horrible murders and a reported increase in homicide since the nation's last execution in 1967. Bishop Christopher Weldon of Springfield, Mass., while announcing himself as being opposed to the death penalty, reminded the bishops that the condemned prisoner "has an advantage over other persons because he knows the time of his

BUT BISHOP Ernest Unterkoefler of Charleston, S.C., a former Virginia prison chaplain, described the experience of "having to watch men fried to death in the electric chair."

Seattle's Archbishop Thomas Connolly then announced: "The Supreme Court has spoken. That should be

This evoked gasps from the gallery. especially from the conservative Catholic press, which has been charging the High Court with sanctioning murder - on the abortion issue - for nearly two years.

But there was a subsequent development which, along with the results of recent elections, may mean that the bishops have called off their verbal war on the Supreme Court, For in the November election, defenders of the court's decision, such as Rep. Don Edwards (D-Calif), Sen. James Symington (D-Mo.), and Sen. Birch Bayh (D-Ind) won reelection, despite strong anti-abortion pressure. But anti-abortion congressmen such as Harold Foehlich (R-Wisc.), Lawrence Hogan (R-Md.) and Angelo Roncallo (R-N.Y.) are all lame ducks.

THE BISHOPS, during the only executive (secret) session of their sixday meeting, voted - with the rumored objection of 40 per cent of their number - to send a letter to Congress asking that Nelson Rockefeller be interrogated "to ascertain that he will not use the office of the vice president to promote a personal viewpoint on permissive abortion."

Why "permissive abortion" rather than simply "abortion?"

"I asked that same question," replied Cardinal Krol, during a press briefing, "and we were told that Gov. Rockefeller had supported abortion even beyond that which is allowed under the Supreme Court's decision. As an official, he has to adhere to the law of the land, although we think that is a very bad law.'

THIS IMPORTANT distinction between what Cardinal Krol defines as "permissive abortion" and "the law of the land" may explain why the bishops have declined to endorse any of the anti-abortion constitutional amendments proposed in Congress.

It may also be the reason why they have not disciplined national headquarters staffer Msgr. George Higgins who told a meeting of the Catholic

"The church gets nowhere by calling pro-abortionists murderers.'

PLYMOUTH-Midshipmen Daniel W. Kabel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton R. Kabel of Plymouth has been made a member of the United States Merchant Marine Academy Band.

The band consists of more than 80midshipmen from 27 different states and plays at all regimental functions as well as such events as the National Horse $how in Madison Square Garden and the Maritime Day Ceremony at the Port of New York.

A graduate of Plymouth-Salem High School, Midshipmen Kabel is a member of the class of 1977 at the adademy. Upon graduation he will receive a U.S. Coast Guard license as a third assistant engineer, a fully accrediled bachelor of science degree and a commission as ensign in the naval reserve.

Tool and Die Local 157 last week rejected a contract offer from the company by a 242-15 vote, according to Frank Ruddy, vice president of the Ruddy said the offer failed to provide for cost of living adjustments and an improved pension plan. The union is seeking a 30-and-out pension arrangement.

A date has not been set for resumption of talks. Ruddy said.

Company officials were unavailable for comment by press time Tuesday. Production at Whitman and Barnes, a manufacturer of drills and other tools, has ceased, since the 315 union members took to the picket lines on Oct. 3, Ruddy said.

MIDGE ELLIS

By SUE ROSIEK

For the last seven years Midge Ellis of Livonia has been the jazz musicians' "best friend" in the metropolitan area. Last Sunday more than 400 friends, relatives and musicians turned out to publicly say thanks at a tribute concert in Clarenceville High School Auditorium.

Guest artists included the Austin-Moro Band, Brookside Jazz Ensemble, vocalist Ursula Walker and others. Special guest artist Count Bassie flew in from New York for the oc-

"IT WAS GREAT," smiles Ms. Ellis, founder of the Clarenceville Jazz Series and currently assistant programming director for the Cultural and public affairs series at Schoolcraft College. "It was one of the best things that's ever happened to me. I'll have remorties of it for the rest of my life

Proceeds from the concert were donated to the Detroit Federation of Musicians for the promotion of jazz and to help send jazz artists into school districts that can't afford to start a big band series.

special tribute was presented to

Ms. Ellis by State Sen. Carl Pursell on behalf of the State of Michigan. The tribute, signed by Gov. William Milliken, acknowledges Ms. Ellis' "exemplary effort and distinctive achievement creatively contributing to society for the worthy progress of the people in Michigan.'

THE TRIBUTE traced her liking for jazz as a child to her efforts as a jazz promoter and organizer in Clarenceville

"I grew up with jazz," says Ms. Ellis. "My dad was a jazz buff and my brother played in a band. It was all around me. I grew up with jazz bands jamming in the living room."

A native of Kentucky, she came to Michigan in 1960 after living in Mississippi for a short while. In Mississippi she was entertainment chairman for several country clubs and had her first taste as a booking agent for big bands.

In Livonia Ms. Ellis was a member of the Clarenceville School District's citizen's committee to recruit entertainment for the cultural enrichment of residents.

When the Louis Schmidt Auditorium was opened to the public the school board suggested it he used for cultural activities as well as school activi-

Ms. Ellis volunteered her time to starting a children's entertainment series and later suggested the group try big bands.

Gala honors 'Lady of Jazz'

"I wanted to bring jazz back, but I knew it would have to be at a reasonable price," explains Ms. Ellis. "Another problem was that most of the big bands had split up and there wern't too many bands still traveling together."

THE FIRST jazz entertainment offered was the Buddy Rich Band.

"Besides being reasonable I thought it would have to be a band that everyone knew, and could identify as a jazz band.

"I called a New York agent and cried about how just because we were located in an outlying area, we shouldn't be culturally deprived. "The next thing I knew he called me back saying Buddy Rich thought it was a great idea and he agreed to do the show.'

That first concert in December 1969 was an instant success and laid the groundwork for a host of other "big name" jazz entertainers.

"The shows were presented strictly as a community service project," recalls Ms. Ellis. "Any money that we made was directed back into the fund for children's shows."

SINCE THE jazz series was, initiated it has offered a variety of big bands including Count Bassie, Stan Kenton, Maynard Ferguson, Harry James, Woody Herman, Super Sax, and the Four Freshman.

Besides enjoying the shows Ms. Ellis says she also has learned the finer points of scheduling bands and bargaining with agents on prices.

"I've learned by doing, and sort of stumbling into things. I also found that people who I thought were very inaccessible often were accessible and very eager to help, that includes entertainers and members of the press. Ms. Ellis was appointed to the

Schoolcraft position last July, but had worked on many programming committees in an advisory capacity prior to her new assignment. "My work is a labor of love," she adds in her slight southern drawl. "I almost feel guilty getting paid for something I enjoy so much."

Ms. Ellis jazz series idea has been widely emulated. Since the first Cla-

Gift ideas for art lovers

By SUE ROSIEK

With about five shopping days left till Christmas, many are still going around in circles to come up with an unusual and fitting gift for someone special.

For the music or theater enthusiast, try giving tickets to a future performance, or purchase a membership for them in the local symphony or community theater group.

It's interesting and can cost as little as $3. It also is the type of present that might not be used till after the holidays when other gifts have been used up or worn out.

Gifts are usually tax deductible and often include several special benefits.

HERE ARE SOME groups in the Observer & Eccentric area that will offer gift memberships or tickets for future events:

• Five classes of membership are avialable in the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra. Three include two season tickets. A senior citizen membership is $5. Others start at $15. Individual tickets are also available for the symphony's three remaining concerts which include a family concert Jan. 26; March 2 performance and "The Barber of Seville." by Rossini, which will feature the symphony and the Michigan Opera Theater. For tickets contact Mrs. Albert Heindryckx, 46000 Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth, 48170.

. Theater Guild of Livonia-Redford, 15138 Beech Daly Road will offer subscription tickets at reduced rates. Individual tickets are available for the group's presentation of "Death of a Salesman" and "Twigs" later this season. Tickets for individual shows are $3 per person. A children's show also will be presented in the spring. For tickets or season subscriptions call Mrs. C. Foster, 16772 Country Club Drive, Livonia, 48152.

•The Plymouth Community Arts Council will present "Fiesta Folklorico" on Feb. 8 in Plymouth-Salemn High School Auditorium. Tickets are $4, $5, and $6 and will make a colorful Christmas gift. "Fiesta Folklorico" is the National Ballet Company of Mexico and features some 50 dancers and three bands. It's Mexico's largest cultural export. For tickets call Mrs. Robert P. Cooper, 13928 Ridgewood. Plymouth, 48170.

• The Oakway Symphony has season tickets available at reduced rates. Memberships also are available starting at $25. The Oakway has two remaining subscription concerts on Jan. 26 featuring violinist Ani Kavafian and March 22, Rossini's "Barber of Seville." There are three non-subscription concerts left including Feb. 16 at Madonna College, May 9 the Cabaret Concert featuring Rosemary Jackson and Fat Bob Taylor at the Shiawassee Hotel, and a "Pops" concert in May. Tickets for the Cabaret Concert will include the symphony, a buffet supper and dancing. For tickets call Mrs. Nelda DiBlasi, 16901 Fairfield, Livonia, 48154.

·Schoolcraft Cultural and Public Affairs Series has tickets available at $3 and $3.50. Future guests include Ani Kavafian, Erick Hawkins, Oscar Ghiglia, Igor Kipnis, Russ Burgess and Dr. Mary Calderone. For more information contact Midge Ellis at Schoolcraft College, 18600 Haggerty Road, Livonia.

•The Wayne-Westland Civic Theater has season tickets available at reduced rates. Individual tickets are also available for the group's three remaining shows this season. For tickets contact Fred Guernsey, 5402 Woodward. Wayne, 48184.

• The Plymouth Theater Guild will offer tickets for its two remaining shows "All My Sons," and "Goodbye are available from Mrs. Leonard Pavia, 11527 Brownell, Plymouth:

• The Redford Township Music Society has memberships available from $5 to $25. The society uses the funds to award music scholarships to students in Redford Township schools. The group's concerts are free For memberships, contact Winston Churchill, 17142 Garfield, Detroit, 48240.

• The Clarenceville Entertainment Series has tickets at $4 for future shows. Performers will include Buddy Rich, Super Sax and Count Bassie. Concert dates are undecided. For more information contact Bonnie Garrison, 20135 Rensellor, Livonia, 48152.

· Membership in the Redford Township Friends of the Library is $1. Check with the library for details.

• Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum, Dearborn, 48121 have friends and single memberships available at $15 and family at $30. The price includes free entrance to museum and village, 10 per cent discount on gift items, use of library, quarterly publication and advance class registra-

Schoolcraft receives opera collection

Schoolcraft College has received a collection of 29 opera records featuring outstanding artists in their most noted performances.

The collection was donated by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Sprader of Livonia. It will be housed in the Fine Arts Music Library.

The records originally belonged to the late Arthur M. Taylor of Detroit and were acquired by the Spraders through a relative. They have been designated as the "Taylor-Sprader Collection" by Richard T. Suanders, director of fine a:ts.

Saunders said it is the second significant donation of opera works received by Schoolcraft. In 1970, Raymond Warner of Livonia gave the college a collection of all the standard opera repertory ever recorded to that date.

Students and staff have access to the collections for use on campus and for borrowing, much like checking out books of the library. Other persons may also use the records by contacting Saunders at the college.

Schoolcraft welcomes other gifts of equipment or materials which may be used in instructional and training programs. Persons having items they feel may be appropriate for donating. to the College are asked to contact the College Relations Office, 18600 Haggerty, Livonia.

Chorus sings Yule concert

The Orpheus Club of Detroit will present its 74th annual holiday concert Friday, Dec. 20 at 8:30 p.m. inthe Scottish Rite Auditorium of Des. troit Masonic Temple.

The program will feature four groups, with selections from classie works of Bach, Handel and Schumann. to examples of Italian, English and French traditional Christmas hymns as well as familiar carols. Victor Herbert's "March of the Toys" and Torme's "Christmas Song" also will ! be performed.

The Orpheus Club, an all-male chorus, is directed by Blaine Ballard,** head of Eastern Michigan Univer sity's voice and choral departments. Tickets are available at the door.

Ballet, Oakway at Music Hall

MELISSA MITCHELL is the Sugar Plum Fairy in the Michigan Ballet's performance of "The Nutcracker."

Dining And Entertainment

The full length performance of the whimsical holiday ballet "The Nutcracker," by Tchaikovsky, will be presented by the Michigan Ballet Theater accompanied by the Oakway Symphony Friday, Dec. 20 at 8 p.m. in the Detroit Music Hall for the Performing Arts.

Rebecca Wright and Gregory Huff-man, principal dancers with the Joffrey Ballet in New York, will join the Michigan ballet group performing leading roles.

The Michigan Ballet Theater, under the direction of Evelyn Kreason, is headquartered in Farmington Hills. The dance troupe, designated as a performing company by the Mid-States Ragional Ballet Association in 1972, is now in its sixth year.

The company has a repertoire of some 15 ballets and has staged ballet concerts each year since it was formed.

Age range of company dancers is 12 to 20.

As a performing company, it gives young dancers experience in the formal workings of a ballet company. Dancers come from Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties. Besides their local training many members of the dance company have studied at the American Ballet Theater School, Joffrey School and other internationally known dance schools.

The Michigan group is dedicated to the enrichment of the community's cultural environment and youth participation in dance and related arts. The Michigan ballet performs with the support of the Michigan Council for the Arts. The Oakway Symphony, under the direction of Francesco DiBlasi, will join the dancers in the holiday per-Tickets may be purchased at the Music Hall box office the night of the performance.

Retirees meet

The Livonia Chapter No. 1109 of the American Association of Retired Persons will meet Dec. 27 at 11 a.m. in St. Matthew United Methodist Church, 30900 Six Mile Road.

A social hour will begin at 11 a.m. with a potluck dinner at noon. Bring a table service and a favorite Christmas dish to pass. Election of officers will be at 1 p.m.

Lloyd Wolcott from the department of state license bureau will speak at 1:45 on the Senior Citizens License

'Wizard of Oz' at Marygrove

Aggie cagers win first for new coach

GOING UP FOR TWO POINTS is St. Agatha's Mike Campo (43) with team mate Mark Clor (53) looking on. (Staff photo)

'We are coming !" bellowed first year varsity coach Jim George after witnessing what has become a rare sight around St. Agatha territory

The Aggies won an athletic contest and to make it even brighter, it was on the basketball court

After winning only four and losing 34 under Frank Turk the past two years, George stepped in and promptly dropped games by 11, 26, 13 and seven points.

Game No. 5 proved the charm as St. Agatha roared off to a 20-10 first quarter lead over Immaculate Conception, upped it to 43-21 at the half and coasted in with a 75-65 win.

"We just blew them out the first half," added George, whose Aggres now go up against a 4-1 St. Florian club tomorrow (Friday) at St. Flo-

"The kids deserved to win this one. It was just an all-around super performance.

"Our key had to be the fast break and our crowd support. The fans have been sticking with us and we finally gave them something to cheer about." Pat Ruvolo's 10 points in the opening quarter accounted for half of th Aggies' output that exploded to a 20-10 lead. Second quarter play saw Nick Mondi pop in eight and Gary Beyrand nine to make it a 22 point margin at Both clubs wound up shooting 40 per cent. St. Agatha hit on 31 of 77 and Immaculate Conception, 23 of 57. Beyrand and Ruvolo provided the one-two Aggie punch with Beyrand coming up with 20 points and Ruvolo 18.

Beyrand also paced the Aggies in the rebound department with 10 as St. Agatha won the boards, 41-31.

Rocks thump Fordson, 51-48

By FRED DeLANO

For the second time in four days Plymouth Salem knocked an opponent from the ranks of basketball's unbeaten when the Rocks defeated Dearborn Fordson Tuesday night, 51-48, after blasting Belleville Saturday, 73-57.

Although the Belleville victory restored Plymouth to the role of favorite for a second straight Suburban Eight title, the non-league decision over Fordson on the Tractors' own court probably did more to help the Rocks' metropolitan prestige.

It was only the second time in three years the defending Great Lakes Conference champs had been beaten in their own gym and they were 4-0 for the present season going into this game. Pollsters are inclined each year to consider Fordson among the state's top teams and after this win Plymouth may creep into their vision.

In boosting their overall record to 4-1 as they go against Livonia Stevenson in Saturday night's opening round of the Churchill Holiday Tournament. the Rocks did it the hard way-spotting the Tractors an 11-point lead at 23-12 for the first quarter and a half.

Then two buckets each by Eric Agardy, Jim Ellinghausen and John Maloney for 12 points in the next three minutes put Plymouth ahead 24-23, establishing the pattern for the rest of the evening as two very fine high school basketball teams fought it out eyeball to eyeball.

Even though Fordson squeaked into a 27-26 halftime edge, the Rocks took the lead for good on the first score of the third quarter—a two-pointer by Agardy which contributed to his game-leading total of 25-and were never headed from there to the wire. Plymouth's biggest lead was eight points at 43-35 with 3:30 left in the fourth quarter.

Once the Rocks got accustomed to the pressure as applied by the excellent ball handling, quick handed Tractors who started as though it would be a romp, they did the job-particularly on defense where Ellinghausen was the leader as he blocked six shots to go with 16 rebounds.

"Defensively and on the boards he was flying," said Rock Coach Fred Thomann after the game. "These kids beat one hell of a fine ball club out there tonight

The Tractors, who like to aim for 80 points on the scoreboard, were led in the point column by John Gajor's 24, but the net put up by such taller troops as Agardy, Ellinghausen, Bill Den Houter, Maloney. Dan Moore, Tim Dillon et al kept Fordson outside after the first 12 minutes and that was the ball game.

Belleville was unbeaten after four starts going into its game on the Plymouth court last Saturday and until there was 2:30 left in the third quarter the Tigers thought they were going to notch victory No. 5.

After all, the jumping jacks from the south had permitted Plymouth to lead only 2-0 and 12-11 in the first quarter and had come from a 40-34 deficit after a Rock rally at the start of the third period to lead again at 44-

Then the Rocks blew it wide open with their best eight minutes of the season, playing nigh onto perfect basketball as they demolished the Tigers for that single stretch 29-3 to move in

The surge began mildly enough with a free throw from John Maloney and then Agardy went high from under the bucket for the two-pointer that put Plymouth ahead 45-44. Before the hot streak ended Agardy had scored eight more points, Moore six, Dillon two, Ellinghausen four and Brian Wolcott six.

As usual, the 6-8 Ellinghausen and 6-10 Agardy led the rebounding with 13 and 10 grabs respectively as Plymouth led in that department 38-31. From the floor the Rocks were 28 of 73 for 39 per cent (including 18 of 40 in the second half) while Belleville. which started out hot to trot, finally simmered down to 22 of 64 for 34 per Agardy led the Rocks with 21 points, Ellinghausen supporting with 18, and Moore adding 10. The Easley brothers, Dennis and Walter, paced the Tigers with 19 points. Belleville Coach Tom Niemi, who used to be an assistant at Livonia Franklin, showed the big crowd a well disciplined, quick basketball club that in the end fell prey to a Plymouth hot hand and superior height.

Tournament and other non-league action will occupy Sub 8 teams until after the holidays and they go into Christmas vacation with the standings reading: Dearborn, 3-0; Plymouth Salem, Livonia Bentley and Belleville all 2-1; Redford Union, Allen Park and Trenton at 1-2, and Dearborn Edsel Ford 0-3:

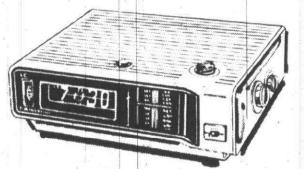

BELLEVILLE (57) - D. Abraham 1, 1-1, 3; M. Abraham 4, 0-1, 8; Birk 0, 24, 2; D. Easley 7, 5-6, 19; Cohen 1, 0-0, 2; W. Easley 7, 1-4, 15; Hoeman 1, 0-0, 2; Leach 0, 0-1, 0; Patterson 0, 1-2, 1; Thompkins 0, 3-4, 3; Thompkins 1, 0-1, 2. Wayne 0, 0-2, 0. Totals: 22, 13-26, 57.

PLYMOUTH SALEM: Moore 5, 0-1, 10; Dillon 2, 2-2, 6; Wolcott 2, 2-2, 6; Inch 0, 0-1, 0; Primeau 0, 1-2, 1; Den-Houter 2, 5-5, 9; Ellinghausen 9, 0-0, 18; Maloney 0, 1-2, 1; Manthey 0, 1-2, 1; Agardy 8, 5-7, 21. Totals: 28, 17-23,

John Glenn Rockets blast Southgate Sabers, 82-50

By JIM BRADLEY

One quality John Glenn's basketball team has is balance and it's that factor that could help Gordie Davis' *Rockets walk a tightrope to the Northwest Suburban League title this year.

Glenn had four scorers in double figures Tuesday night in demolishing visiting Southgate, 82-50, in a non-league massacre.

It was the same story in their previous game as a trio of Rockets scored high in twin columns.

However, it took all of that balanced attack to fight off a determined. Saber squad and barely lead, 37-32, at intermission. Glenn ripped the cords the first eight minutes to lead, 23-12, but Southgate did a little "Saber-rattling" of its own in outscoring Glenn, 20-14, in the second stanza and trailed only by five after 16 minutes. But then the Rockets went on the attack and blitzed the Sabers, 45-18. with third and fourth period margins of 22-10 and 23-8. And it was guard Harry Polovino and teammates John Jesson, Terry Johnson and Mark Thweatt who mainly carried on the bombing mission.

Polovino, who had 24 points last game, hit seven baskets and four free throws for 18 points. Forwards Jesson and Thweatt rammed in 17 and 13, respectively, and center Johnson added 16 markers.

"I'm very pleased with our balanced scoring," said coach Davis "When four players after the game are putting the ball in the hoop with consistency, the opposition can't concentrate on any one man.

But defense is the name of the game and that is where Davis lights

"How about us only giving up 18 points in the second half?" he asked rhetorically. "Just say that I'm proud of our defensive work.

"Southgate hit extremely well in the second quarter and outscored us 20-14, but we got more aggressive in the third quarter and forced them out of their patterns, Davis said.

The Rockets riddled the nets with 33 baskets in 60 tries for 55 per cent and made good on 18 of 31 free throw attempts. The visitors connected 23 times from the floor and hit four of seven from the line.

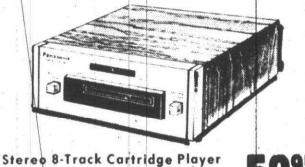

In addition to their scoring prowess, Johnson pulled down 10 rebounds and Jesson grabbed seven.

Now Glenn heads for Oak Park in an effort to win its third Northwest Suburban League game without a loss. Although the Rockets enter the game highly favored, Davis assumes the "usual coach's role.

Although not paired in the opening round of the tournament on Friday. Dec. 27th, which has Tech matched Yale and Michigan with Harvard, the two clubs could meet in the finale on the 28th.

"We simply played bad basketball," was the first comment from Coach Bob Wolf after his Clarenceville cagers dropped their fifth straight contest in the 1974-75 campaign.

"For some reason, the kids were down," he added after the narrow 67-65 non-league loss to the Rebels of Riv-

"This was a Class B school and we simply blew it."

Now with losses of 12, nine, 36, 11 and two points behind them the Trojans travel to Clarkston tomorrow (Friday) and then play host to St. Agatha on Dec. 27.

Clarenceville showed signs early of an all-out press possibly carrying the Trojans into the win column. But a 20-13 first quarter lead proved to be just a passing hint as Riverside went on to take the second quarter, 23-12.

Both clubs popped in 15 points in the third quarter and Clarenceville won the final eight minutes, 18-16, but wound up two shy of the mark at the

GC West Tigers dump Franklin, 77-52

He hopes Santa leaves a gift of four strong quarters from his team in his Christmas stocking.

The Tigers finally shook loose from a determined Livonia Franklin team Tuesday night in the third quarter and raced to a convincing 77-52 victory at

But the junior-oriented Patriots came back from a 15-8 first period deficit to outscore their hosts, 21-19. and trail only 34-29 at halftime.

"It was one of the finest quarters our boys have played this year." Franklin coach Bob Visser said. "West is a very good club with experience and good size and I'm sure our inexperienced club will mature with the season and we'll come on strong."

The inexperience Visser referred to, coupled with West's aggressiveness. spelled the difference as the Tigers roared to a 27-12 third quarter edge and 16-11 final period margin.

Smooth Dave Niles, a fanciful 6foot-4 guard, glided in for 13 points and 6-5 center Mike Susko added 10 in carving out the slim halftime edge.

Jo Jo Scarpace banged home four straight jumpers from outside and 6foot-7 Dennis Wesley added three more underneath in the second quar-

But Randy Shelly and Terry Bradley came off the West bench to trigger the Tiger's 27-point output in the third stanza. Bradley scored six while Shelly and starter Ken Chavis each chipped in five and West had an insurmountable 20-point, 61-41 lead going down the homestretch.

Babler and Visser emptied their benches in the final minutes and West coasted in.

"We made adjustments at halftime after Franklin played so well offen-'sively in the second quarter." explained Babler, whose Tigers ran their overall record to 4-2 in the non-league

Niles led a trio of West players in double figures with 19 while Susko added 14 and Gary Hutnik 12.

Franklin didn't have one player in double figures. Guard Jim Gleason had nine to top Patriot scorers, one more than Scarpace. Dan Pederson and Dennis Wesley who each scored

Despite the win. Babler is still looking for a consistent four periods from his squad and feels the holiday break will give him the much-needed practice they missed during the recent teacher strike.

"I'm eagerly looking forward to the days ahead where we'll not only have our home court to practice on regularly, but also extra time to develop a smooth-working offense," the diminutive Babler pointed out.

"Scarpace played very well Tuesday night and so did some of the other boys." pointed out the Franklin mentor whose Patriots meet Garden City East in a Northwest Suburban League game Friday night.

Trenton nips GC East

Billy Joe Young's Garden City East Panthers came out on the short end of a disheartening 45-43 score to Trenton Tuesday night.

And it was mainly because they came out on the short end of the tape measure

The taller Trenton team, sporting a front line averaging close to 6-feet-6, outboarded the smaller Panthers in grabbing the last-minute non-league victory. "Our lack of size really hurts us this year." explained the veteran East cage coach. "Trenton had boys up front that went something like 6-8. 6-5 and 6-4, compared to our 6-3 center. Greg Emery, and 6-2 Jim Riley.

match, 31-21. Results:

"It's tough to overcome that height disadvantage." Young said.

Still, as the adage goes, good things come in small packages. And East made that come true as the Panthers led their taller visitors almost the en-tire way before losing in the final eight seconds.

The blue-clad Panthers, playing their first home game, carved out leads of 12-9 and 25-23 at the first two buzzers. That two-point halftime lead was shaved in half as Trenton outscored East 8-7 in a low-scoring third with just eight ticks left on the clock. Coach Young's scrappy cagers, who include a 5-10 forward and guards that rise only 5-7 and 5-5, clung desperately to a 32-31 lead after three quar-

But then the height advantage of Trenton made the difference.

The Trojans methodically moved in front, 43-40, with slightly more than two minutes remaining but one free throw by Emery and two by Riley knotted the game 43-43, with 1:20 left.

Then while East players and fans watched helplessly. Trenton stalled until just eight seconds remained. Steve Deller, the Trojan 6-5 forward who pumped in a game-high 22 points, was chosen to fire the last shot.

Dellar was stellar as he pumped in a six-foot jumper to ice the game.

"It was a very disappointing game to lose." a disconsolate Billy Joe Young confided afterward. "I feel we should have won the game but it was the size difference that we couldn't overcome.'

Emery topped Panther scorers with six baskets and two free throws followed closely by Riley's 11 markers. Now East, whose record dropped to 2-3 overall, prepares to return to Northwest Suburban League action against a rangy Livonia Franklin team Friday.

Although 2-0 in the league and tied for the top spot with John Glenn, the shorter East squad must rely on speed to win.

But with several taller teams on the Panthers' schedule, there's nowhere to look but up.

Ms. Nanette Slavin Rakieten, president and general manager of the Jackson Raceway operations which include the current Jackson-Northville meeting, has announced a drivers' championship trophy in memory of her late father, Leon A. Slavin. He died last September after guiding the Jackson operations for 26 years.

Nanette is offering a permanent trophy to the driver of the current meeting who has the highest Universal Driving System rating. The driver will not receive the trophy but rather his name will be engraved on it and it will be displayed in a prominent place, at Jackson Raceway during the meeting there and at the campaign at Northville Downs.

The champion driver, on the UD$ percentage basis, will receive an en-

"We want the drivers and trainers always to remember my father," said Nanette. "That's why we are presenting the Leon A. Slavin Memorial trophy. Charley, born with crippled legs, is undergoing a series of operations to straighten his legs. Reports from the barn area are that one leg has been corrected and now Charley will go back to the hospital again in another two weeks to correct the other.

One could see from Saturday's race that Charley is anxious to get back again. He had his pacer, Sweet Baby Sue, out in front on the first turn and didn't quit trying, finally winding up

WILLARD NILES, one of the wellknown Niles family of Northville, is following in the footsteps of his brother Howard. He has brought a small spread in South Lyon and is devoting most of his time to working there rather than at the race track.

Willard has handled some great pacers in the past few years for Red Eggers including the immortal Rusty Range, rated one of the greatest of all Michiganbreds.

JEAN DILWORTH, who started in the harness racing business years ago in Adrian with her ex-spouse Duane, saw her entire stable burned out in a disastrous fire in Clayton, Mich.

Perhaps the best of Jean's string was A Horse, a better than average trotter who was good for a check most every time it raced. It appears that Jean will be out of business for the winter but may be able to get a public stable going in the spring.

FROM ROOSEVELT Raceway in New York City comes word that Plymouth's Stu Oldford has had a fabulous offer for his Kool King, one of Michigan's fastest and best trotters.

The deal is still pending but Stu hopes to have an announcement of some kind within a few days.

From that same raceway comes rumors that Count Kef, the brilliant Michigan four-year-old pacer, brought around $60,000 when sold there several weeks ago. Of course this is strictly a rumor and may be far from the truth. We'll know better when Merrit Dokey comes back to Michigan next spring for the start of the Northville

FINDING IT impossible to clear the track of the sloppy mud that developed last Friday, Jackson-Northville races on Saturday were back to the old two tier, six in the front, two in the back starts. It didn't seem to bother fans, horses or drivers,

The scheduled opening of thoroughbred racing at the Detroit Race Course is still more than two months away but stables are checking in already for winter training. Our information is that more than 200 horses arrived from Hazel Park over the weekend. The 1975 opener is slated for Feb. 21.

ACTUAL SCORES improved in the Livonia Ladies Classic as Lillian Beattie won the series with a 522-108--632 along with a high single of 190-36--226. In the other singles Sally Toomey won the opener with a 190-49--239 and Madelyn Donehue took the final with 189-41-230

THE LE VOURDAIS had a big week at Farmington Lanes. Jack paced the classic with a 246 in 616 and Dianne had a 231 game in the ladies section that was paced by Jan Vanderwill with a 581.

Among the juniors Ray Smith had a 234 in 557 and Darcy Flynn a 204 in 545 in the Teen Classic. Sandy Stinnett showed the way in the prep girls class and Ted Fitzpatrick was high for the junior boys with a 162 in 456. Not bad for a lad with a 119 average.

WHILE NO ONE broke the 700 barrier at Bel-Aire Lanes. Joe Foster came the closest. He rolled a 689 in the Classic. This was eight pins better than Jet Perelli, while Bob Voss was third with 661 and Jerry Smith landed fourth with 658.

In the other usually high scoring circuits Gil Shornhorst was top man in the senior house league with 673. His closest rivals were George Somers with 661 and Bob Mertz with 648.

In the businessmen's circuit Doug Hayes beat Leon Berger by a single pin with 662 and Ed Moler landed third with 625.

Joining the leaders was Bill Barnes who was tops in the Farmington High league with a 614.

At Country Lanes, Joanne Recker moved into the spotlight, when she rolled games of 177. 211 and 195 for a 583, which is 133 pins over her aver-

The Chiefs' victory dance simply an out of warpaint.

After getting off to a shakey 1-2 start into the 1974-75 basketball campaign. Plymouth Canton scored decisive wins over Riverside and Waterford Mott by 15 and 17 points.

But a Pioneer in the form of Dearborn High took the victory right out of the Chieftan dance.

It was Dearborn 65-43 over Plymouth Canton in a non-league contest, win No. 5 for Dearborn. Canton now stands at 3-3 and hosts the Hawks of Farmington Harrison tomorrow (Friday) in a Western Six loop battle.

First quarter play saw Dearborn slip away to a 15-11 lead with the second stanza all but deciding the fate of the Chiefs.

"We died that second quarter," commented Canton Coach Casey

Canton hit on only three of 15 from the floor the second quarter and was outscored, 17-8, to trail at 32-19, half a ball game remaining.

The Chiefs couldn't get untracked in the third quarter as a three for 14 showing from the field increased the Dearborn bulge to 42-26.

"We were getting the good inside shots all night," said Cavell. "I have never seen so many five-foot shots missed."

"It was just an all-around bad night," added Cavell."The bus had a flat tire en route to Dearborn and we wound up waiting 45 minutes to catch a ride with the pep bus."

Bowling is filled with odd incidents and humorous happenings, but few equal the experience of Walter Crawford in the Suburban Traveling League.

When he arrived at Redford Lanes for his weekly appearance he suddealy realized he had mistakingly taken his wife's bowling bag that contained her ball and shoes.

What to do? He quickly called his friend, Bob Goike Jr., who raced over to the lanes with a ball and a pair of rental shoes. You might guess what happened. Walt fired a 656 series—the highest of the year in the league. Then there was the case of Jack Gagnon, who carries a 182 average in the Livonia Lanes Junior House Much to his surprise and that of his teammates, Jack put together games of 238. 233 and 236 for a 707. It was the highest of his career.

Having one of his better nights, with a smile or two from the fickle lady, Dave piled up 11 strikes in a row and figured he was only a few seconds away from a perfect game and a place on the Honor Roll.

But in these brief seconds the smile was changed to a frown when Ted left up the baby split — the 3-10 — on his final ball and had to be content with a 298 and a 682 series.

The oddity of all oddities happened some years ago in the Detroit All-Star Classic, when the late Harold Allen, who had never bowled a 300 game, piled up 11 strikes in a row. Then when the league stopped bowling to watch him roll the final ball all hands were amazed when one of the pins split down the middle, one half going into the pits and the other half stand-

Harold hollered loud and long to be credited with a perfect game, but the officials never heard him. In the books he was crredited with 2991/2.

This was only three pins better than Wally Wadysz posted in the Monday morning men's league, and Wally had a 246 single game.

On the ladies side Pam Carpenter showed the way with a 215 in 543.

JACK Mc DERMOTT was the man of the hour in the mixed league at Garden Lanes— and for a good reason. He paced the entire field with a

Others joining him in pacemaking roles were Doug Brady with 627 in the Good Shepherd league; Bill Elliott in the kings and queens with 621 and Sue Padavich who took top place in the ladies classic.

TWO NEW NAMES popped up among the leaders at Plymouth Bowl during the past week when Lou Miller paced the seniors with a 239 game and Carol Zirberink, a 151 average bowler, had a 236 in 536.

The real leader, though, was Jerry Szostik, of the Newcomers, who linked games of 242, 224 and 201 for a

Imagination sparks winners in art contest

Several hundred young artists swamped the Observer and Eccentric office with a wide variety of art work in the newspapers' annual holiday art contest.

Limited to boys and girls in grades 1-6, prizes were awarded in two categories. A first and second prize were awarded winners in grades 1-3, as well as for students in grades 4-6.

Winner of a 10-speed bicycle for first place in the grades 1-3 group is Jimi Rumon, 8, of 37550 Jamison, Livonia, a third grade student at Webster Elementary Taking second place and winner of a $25 U.S. savings bond, is Jeffrey White, 8, of 9820 Arden, Livonia. A third grader at Rosedale School.

The 10-speed bike for first place in the grades 4-6 group goes to Charon Mellas, 9, of 28620 Krauter, Garden

City, a fourth grader at Harrison School. Second place in the grades 4-6 group goes to Sheila McKay, 10, of 36039 Whitcomb, Livonia, who receives a $25 savings bond. She is in the fifth grade at Henry Clay

RULES OF the contest stated students had to create their own work of art on a holiday theme.

The art work could be in any form: a drawing, painting, collage, sculpture, mixed media or a three-dimen-

There was a size limitation with flat work confined to 11 by 14 inches and three-dimensional works restricted to 16 by 16 by 16 inches.

Jimi's first place work was a drawing of his living

Charon's work was three-dimensional, depicting "Christmas Eve on the Moon." Her project included a ing out a window. All the characters were constructed to look like "outer space persons."

THE JUDGES, Keith LaRochelle, art director for the Observer and Eccentric Newspapers; Susan Price, visual arts coordinator, Wayne-Westland schools and Glenny Merillat, an artist with the newspapers, based their decisions on originality, imagination and interpretation.

A special exhibit of the winning art work will be held in the lobby of the newspaper office at Levan and School-

Parents of children who entered the contest may pick up their child's art at the newspaper office.

The art will be kept through Friday, Jan. 3. Work not picked up by that date will be discarded. Honorable mention awards were given to 20 young art-

Those in the grades 1-3 group receiving honorable mentions for their work included:

Jacqueline Dougher, 8, of McKee school; Karen Golm, 8, Buchanan; Christ Aldrich, 8, Douglas School; Maurice Stebila, 7, Edison; Susan Baranski, 7, Damian; Debbie Davis, 7, Nankin Mills Elementary; Leanne Bradley, 7, Randolph; George Bokos, 6, Cass; Matthew O'Bryan, 6; Christine Lynn Anderson, 6, MacGowan; and Gretchen Marie Kramp, 6; St. Edith's.

HONORABLE Mention in the grades 4-6 group in-

Trudy Wint, 11, Grant School; Lynda Ryder, 11, Pioneer; Kim Nordquist, 11, Lathers; David Wynne, 11, Adams Elementary; Buffy Besngatte, 10, Henry Clay;

Also Jennifer Niles Stefanou, 10, Eisenhower School; Christine Hassinger, 10, Cooper Elementary; and Kevin

Kris Moore has been selected coordinator of the 2nd Congressional District chapter of Common Cause of Michigan (CC) by the district steering committee. She succeeds John Hath-

Bruce Wallace, an attorney, will be co-coordinator.

Others taking office include Marty Reineman, who will head the local National Issues Committee, replacing Bernie Klein; and Paul Metz, now in charge of the media committee.

Ms. Moore, a doctoral candidate in sociology at the University of Michigan, said the group will further the national organization's ideals on national issues and, on the state and local level, will try to attract new members and progress on the CC initiative petition drive for political reforms.

convened its first meeting in the Wayne County section of the 2nd Congressional District, which includes Northville, Plymouth and Livonia.

Once its organizational machinery is running smoothly, it plans to join with other Michigan branches of Common Cause to circulate petitions designed to reform political campaigning in this state.

"We have given our legislators a chance to do something as far as election reform goes and they failed," said William Joyner, who was recently defeated as a Democrat in a race for the state House of Representatives, and who convened the meeting.

"Now it is time for citizens to circuate petitions and enact reform legislaon themselves."

COMMON CAUSE aims to obtain a alf-million signatures on its petitions by June 1976 in order to have the sue placed on the ballot the following November.

Joyner observed that Michigan politicians should take note of the vote on this question in California, where, despite opposition by many legislators, companies and labor unions, a referendum to reform elections was successfully passed.

The wording of the Michigan referendum has not been settled, but it is expected to include such matters as limitations on individual and corporate election contributions, disclosure by politicians of contributions over a designated amount and

Joyner said there are already 175 members of Common Cause in Livonia. New members can gain a vote by paying a $5 state membership fee and a $15 fee to the national organiza-

"We welcome activity and input from everyone," said Joyner. "But to vote a person would have to pay the membership fees."

ANNUAL YIELD

It may seem strange to most folks, but even Christmas customs and traditions have changed with the passing

And if The Stroller was asked what he wanted most for Christmas, he wouldn't hesitate to answer, "The return of the Christmas putz from the limbo of forgotten things."

You never heard of one! Well, a putz is a platform abou three feet high that is built in the liv ing room of the old homes to serve as a foundation for the Christmas decora-

Usually, the fresh cut tree is placed on a standard in the corner, and the remainder of the platform is used to emulate the landscape—as it was in the Bible days-and provide the paths leading to the scene of the Nativity.

In many cases, the platform, through the use of one's imagination, provides a replica of the hills and lakes travelled by the three wise men

18 residents to receive U-M degrees

PLYMOUTH-A total of 18 Plymouth residents are candidates who expect to receive degrees at the University of Michigan commencement ceremony Dec. 15.

Degree candidates for bachelor of arts degrees are Amanda D. Bailey of 50350 Hanford and George L. Hastings of 346 N. Evergreen. Master of arts andidates are Robert D. Armstrong of 43717 Brandywine, Suzanne W. Coker of 41935 Sunderland Drive, Jane Lynne Michel of 15573 Northville Forest. Pauline C. Rudder of 7956 Alton and Eleanor W. Seewald of 8850 S.

Master of business admisinistration degree candidates are Thomas K. Billings of 505 Byron St., Ronald G. Bush of 41816 Ladywood and Terry M. Lurtz of 1432 Hartsough.

Doctor of philosophy candidates are John K. Bates of 1199 S. Sheldon, Robert J. Sundstrom of 51325 Murray Hill, William F. Weber of 12825 Dunn Court and Dee Richard Wernette of 387 Adams.

Cathie P. Moorehead of 40755 Greenbriar Lane is a bachelor of general studies degree candidate. Donald B. Nagy of 12899 Heritage Drive is a degree candidate for master of science in engineering. Kim W. Sprengel of 1770 Beck is a candidate for a bachelor of science degree and Edward H. Terry of 7025 Napier is a degree candidate for a master of architecture deto visit Mary and the Christ child.

DOWN IN THE DUTCH country of Pennsylvania and the area around the Moravian settlement in Bethlehem, Pa., the people work for weeks, yes for months, to prepare the putz. In many areas preparing the putz breeds a friendly rivalry to see which household attracts the most attention.

The big seasonal show takes place during the two weeks before the Christmas holiday, and most homes are open to the public, much after the fashion of gardens during the summer

It is not surprising to walk along any of the street and see signs on the front porches saving 'Putz open!" In the shops and in the offices, the word is passed along regarding the outstanding exhibits. And people come from miles around to see the handi-

One of the most historic of the Christmas putz installations was in the basement of the Moravian Church. Here, in an exhibit about 30 feet wide, the scene was a replica of the wise men travelling toward the star of Bethlehem. And the shepherds were shown tending their flocks. All the while, Christmas music was played softly, as if in a distance. It was always a sight to behold.

THE MOST FASCINATING putz The Stroller ever saw was in the living room of a modest home near the old Moravian church.

It was a platform little more than three feet high and covered most of the living room area. Instead of the traditional evergreen tree, the designer used the top of a sassafras tree that still had the sticky bark.

He wired that for lights and then covered the entire tree with soft white cotton to portray snow. Following that, he placed three medium sized mirrors flat on the platform along with several pillows. Then he covered the pillows with white bed sheets and the entire platform with imitation

When he turned on blue lights on the white tree, and the synthetic hills and dales. It was a sight that no one ever could forget. And when the age old Christmas music started, one felt the real meaning of Christmas.

It was these putz displays that inspired one of the finest Christmas decorations. The Stroller ever has seen merce sponsored a drive to have the advertisers on the billboards about town replace the ad with a Christmas scene. Then the residents were asked to draw their shades at night and have a candelabrum lighted in each window of the house from the basement to the attic.

You can imagine what a wonderful sight that was, especially on the darkened streets.

That was the Christmas spirit at its fullest. And it all came about because of the old fashioned Christmas putz. Is it any wonder The Stroller longsfor their return?

HARDBOARD PANELING with the rich look of hand-stained wood is used horizontally and vertically in this comfortable recreation room.

Ideal for any room setting, the paneling, by Masonite, features warm natural coloring.

Static electricity can be startling

You slide across the car seat, grab the door handle-and get a shock. You walk across the carpet and switch on a light-and get a shock. Often you can see the momentary leap of a spark as it happens.

It's called static electricity, and it won't hurt you. But it can be annoying especially if it happens again, and again.

Static electricity is a feature of dryness in the air, according to the Airconditioning and Refrigeration Institute. Electric charges are present constantly in the air around you. When the relative humidity is high enough, water vapor in the air draws these charges away and dissipates

When the air is dry-which is often the case in heated homes in winterthere is not enough moisture in the air to take care of the electric charges which are present.

FRICTION-such as walking over a carpet or sliding across a car seatcauses these charges to build up in your body. You become slightly charged with electricity.

If you touch something which conducts electricity poorly-wood, plaster, or brick for example-the charge will leave your body so slowly that you won't be aware of it.

If, however, you touch something that conducts electricity well—a metal plate or a doorknob-the charge leaves you, in a rush, causing a spark to jump and giving you a mild shock.

The ARI says that static electricity is one reason to consider purchasing a central system home humidifier. If the indoor humidity is maintained at a proper level during the winter heating months, static electricity shocks are eliminated.

Your local building contractor can show you data on individual humid-

Old pots need sterilizing

If you're going to repot your house plants, don't worry about selecting a brand new clay or plastic pot. Old pots can be used if you sterilize them.

All pots can be soaked and scrubbed in hot soap and water. Commercial growers use steam at 180 degrees for 30 minutes for clay pots. Steam melts plastic pots. Or you can soak pots (both clay and plastic) for 30 minutes in a solution of bousehold bleach diluted at rate of one to nine parts of water. The bleach is rapidly inactivated, so the solution should be reconstituted often.

For plastic pots, a third treatment in a three-minute soak in 160 degrees F water is effective. Above 160 degrees, the plastic is apt to melt or soften. One of our readers scrubs her clay pots (old ones) and puts them in dishwater, along with the dishes. They come out clean, sterilized and brand spanking new.

While on the subject of house plants, does it pay to save rainwater for your plants? Yes. If you can collect it easily, rainwater is good for house plants. It can also improve insecticide efficiency. Why? Because municipal water supplies are generally alkaline and reduce the effectiveness of many pesticides, according to a Texas' agricultural entomologist.

Did you know that rainfall contributes an average of 6.47 pounds of nitrogen per acre per year in an area where annual precipitation is about 30 inches?

CARROTS AGAIN: A reader tells us he leaves his carrots in the ground over winter, covering them leaves, straw and wire. When he wants a few carrots he goes out and digs them up. This works fine, but is a nuisance in bad weather. We like the idea of storing carrots in a plastic bag in a large garbage can.

A layer of carrots is placed on a layer of leaves, then more leaves, and more carrots, until the container is full. The leaves should surround the carrots so that each does not touch one another. The top of the bag is left' loose. The container is left in a cold garage and the carrots keep beautiful-

Home gardeners who have poor luck storing carrots in dry sand (the worst material there is for carrots) should try the plastic bag idea.

GREEN THUMB CLINIC: "Does any one ever use latex paint for covering the glass on greenhouse? I've tried it and it works line."

Answer: Yes, some commercial growers use latex paint, one gallon to eight gallons of water. It's the least expensive paint that can be purchased for your greenhouse. Spray it on, or use a paint roller attached to a long

Plush fabrics have their pros and cons

Tempted by the soft richness of plush fabrics for drapes or uphol-

Before you buy, it's a good idea to bone up on both the advantages and the drawbacks of plush fabrics.

"Plush fabrics, like corduroy, are very popular in home furnishings." says Margaret Boschetti, extension home specialist at Michigan State University "Corduroy is durable, rich looking but inexpensive, comfortable and versatile. It usually doesn't require extra special care-most corduroy can be either washed or dry clean-

On the other side of the coin, you may have to clean corduroy upholstery more often than other fabrics. Miss Boschetti points out. Most corduroy is 100 per cent cotton, and cotton is a very absorbent fiber.

Unless treated with a stain-resistant finish, corduroy and similar plush fabrics are very susceptible to staining.

"A STAIN-RESISTANT finish is a must if a plush fabric is to be practical for home furnishings," the specialist says.

Another drawback of plush fabrics is that they attract lint. On dark colored fabric, the little fuzzies and threads that collect can quickly become unsightly.

Crushed pile and shading are problems when plush fabrics are used for upholstery, Miss Boschetti says. Crushing is not a factor, of course, when the fabrics are to be used for draperies.

Minor disrepair distracts buyers

Home&Garden

By MICHAEL D. SAMONEK. Executive Vice President United Northwestern Realty Association

A continuing question posed to real estate agents is whether costs of proposed remodeling will be recovered when a home is placed on the market. While there is no standard answer.

there are some reasonable guidelines. First, don't hesitate to put your home in good working order. Cracked windows. leaky faucets. stuck doors and other minor items suggest a home has not been given proper care and will distract prospective buyers. These items generally can be repaired at minimum costs and will greatly enhance the saleability of your home.

But you can not expect a dollar-fordollar return on every improvement you make. Some major improvements have a high percentage of cost recovery; others have only nominal resale

IT ALSO SHOULD be borne in mind that it is possible to over-improve property in terms of the value of neighboring homes. If your improvement means that the home is worth far more than surrounding fromes. it would be difficult to recover the extra

One guide, indicated by a recent survey, shows that a dollar spent on remodeling adds about 50 cents to the resale value. Some improvements add. nothing at all.

Of course, if you are going to live in the house for some months before placing it on the market, you may feel the added enjoyment from some remodeling is worth the non-recoverable cost. The home improvement industry is certainly booming with business expected to rise 20 per cent this year over the 1973 mark of $18.9 billion, a Department of Commerce

Doing the work yourselves, rather than hiring professionals, can cut costs anywhere from 30 to 60 per cent, according to some authorities, thereby lowering your cash outlay and increasing the percentage of recoverable value.

BEFORE REMODELING, decide what repairs are imperative and what improvements are desirable. Keep in mind that what may seem necessary to you may not seem so to the family who might one day offer to buy the turn in resale value. Outdoor improvement, such as adding a patio or extensive landscaping, tend to be risky investments. Exterior improvementsnew storm windows, aluminum siding, new shingles-also generally offer little return.

The quality of the neighborhood remains a prime factor in the sale price of a home. If the average home priced in your neighborhood is $35,000 and your home is now worth $30,000. you may recover most of the cost of a $5,000 remodeling project. But a $10,000 improvement venture may price you out of the market in your neighborhood.
