Tax abatement

Yazaki EDS Engineering has asked for a 50 percent tax abatement for a new plant on Market Street in Canton Township.

The new plant is an extension of the firm's plant at Haggerty and Warren roads that was built in 1985.

The Canton Township Board will look at the request at its Oct. 22 meeting. Yazaki is looking for a seven-year abatement. The maximum abatement is 12 years.

Drug program

Col. Michael Robinson, director of the Michigan State Police, will speak at the Plymouth Canton Community Substance Task Force leadership dinner at 6 p.m. on Tuesday, Oct. 29, at Fellows Creek Golf Club in Canton Township.

The task force was organized in 1986 and has the goal of creating a drug-free community.

Robinson was appointed state police director in January 1991 by Gov. John Engler, replacing Col. R.T. Davis who retired.

Robinson was first assigned to the Bridgeport state police post in 1968 and eventually served in Benton Harbor, East Lansing and Detroit. He is a Grand Rapids native and holds a degree in criminal justice from Madonna University in Livonia.

Prospective members and parents are invited to an information meeting at 6:45 p.m. Monday, Oct. 21, at the Salem High School cafeteria. For more information, call John Wrobel at 455-8329 from 5-9 p.m.

Honorees were Doris Maiert, Anne Hackman, Yvonne Falkner, Sally Ball, Eileen Emery, Nancy Freeman, Dorothy Paxton, Joan Pillon, Lila Vincent and Shirley Thom.

School opens

The Plymouth-Canton Montessori School announces two events to coincide with the opening of a new building at 45245 Joy Road in Canton. Anthonita Porta will speak to parents on "What is Montessori All About" at 7 p.m. Tuesday. An open house is scheduled from 1-4 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 27, featuring tours, videos and refreshments. Both events are at the new school.

Hit-run victim's mom finds no solace

By Brian Lysaght
staff writer

The saga that began last year after a hit-and-run driver killed a Canton teen could end Nov. 1 when a Recorder's Court judge sentences the teen's former neighbor, 39-year-old Joseph Ryan.

JUDGE MICHAEL F. SAPALA accepted an agreement between Ryan and the county prosecutor that recommends probation, community service and fines for the defendant in exchange for Ryan's guilty plea to leaving the scene of a personal injury accident. The felony charge carries a penalty up to five years in jail and $5,000 fine.

During his arraignment Thursday before Sapala, Ryan gave for the first time in court his version of the accident at Ford and Lilley roads that killed 14-year-old Melissa Chisholm, a friend of Ryan's children.

Afterwards, Chisholm's parents, Joseph and Debbie Chisholm, tearfully accused Ryan of avoiding responsibility in the case.

"If he's as good a Christian as he claims, he knows there will be another judgment," said Debbie Chisholm. "When he gets there, I hope Melissa is there."

Ryan admitted his involvement to police 15 months after the accident, when a neighbor tipped police of his involvement.

"Him, his attorney or nobody else will convince me that he was not doing something negligent that night," said Debbie Chisholm. She said she was disappointed with, but understood the reasons for the plea agreement that would keep Ryan, a General Motors salaried worker, out of jail.

"There isn't going to be any satisfaction. Nothing is going to bring my daughter back."

Thomas' confirmation hearing hits home

By Brian Lysaght

It happened miles away in Washington, D.C., but last week's Senate hearing on law professor Anita Hill's sexual harassment charges against Supreme Court nominee Clarence Thomas dominated conversations in Canton and Plymouth restaurants, grocery stores, offices and homes.

As Thomas offered a statement and Hill detailed her complaints before the the Senate Judiciary Committee, folks at Bode's Coffee House had this to say: "I think it's a shame it became public. It's going to hurt the reputation of everyone involved," said Jim Koppin of Westland.

"I THINK IT should have been disclosed earlier to the Senate committee, if possible, and dealt with before the whole thing became public," Koppin continued. "If there's reason to suspect he's guilty, he shouldn't be nominated. If not, I don't see how he will put it behind him, even if it is false."

> 'I think he's guilty. Maybe I'm wrong, but there's just something about him.'
> — Janice Howitz, Plymouth

Janice Howitz of Plymouth said: "I think he's guilty. Maybe I'm wrong, but there's just something about him."

Bode's patron Bob McCormick of Novi was unsure about the charges. "I don't know if it's true. If it is, he can't go (to the Supreme Court). But it's the old, You're innocent until proven guilty."

Mike of Plymouth, who asked that his last name not be used, wondered why it took 10 years for Hill to bring it up. "Personally, I think it's just a bunch of garbage," he said.

John Gordon of Farmington Hills chalked Hill's allegation up to politics.

"They're just trying to dig up some dirt. It's the usual politics, that's my opinion. From what I've heard, that's what I'm getting," Gordon said.

"From what I've heard, I think they are over-reacting," said Dillon. "Too many times, political people have been cornered by things that happened previously that have no bearing on what they'll be asked to do. I think he is being treated unfairly."

"I think it makes interesting reading and watching on TV," said Whitsitt.

Sexual harassment: you can fight back

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

While the majority of sexual harassment victims are women, the Office of Women and Work receives complaints from men sexually harassed by women; women sexually harassed by women; and men sexually harassed by men.

"AS A WORKING definition, we have always used continuous, unwanted and unreciprocal things of a sexual nature that make you think if you don't respond, that some part of your job is going to be held hostage," said Patricia Curran, director of the Office of Women and Work, a unit of the Michigan Department of Labor.

"That can be everything from, 'Sleep with me and you can have a job,' to 'You can't have the vacation that you requested,' or 'You're in line for next typewriter, but not unless you're nice to me.'"

To pursue a sexual harassment charge, victims need to do a couple of things before they leave their place of employment, said Curran.

"They need to tell the harasser no. They need to say it in 'I's,' not 'you's. For example, 'I would prefer not to hear those jokes, or not to be touched.'"

The offender should be told often, and incidents recorded, added Curran.

"People need — when they start feeling uncomfortable — to keep a diary. Answer the questions: Who

Ways sought to help poor

Canton officials are still considering options to increase human services to poor people.

Supervisor Tom Yack met last week with representatives of the Plymouth Community United Way, and Canton Community Foundation is funding a new weekly support group for women at Field Elementary School. The foundation may also fund a Plymouth Family Services individual counseling service for Canton residents.

The Plymouth Canton School district, meanwhile, is considering a request to allow the community foundation to circulate pledge cards to school employees.

THE PROBLEM, according to Canton officials, is that the township lacks adequate and convenient social services for Canton residents. Yack said the township is addressing the problem, and the options, he said, are:

> The problem is that the township lacks adequate and convenient social services.
> — Canton officials

- Continue Canton's association with the United Way of Southeastern Michigan. The problem is that Canton residents must travel to Livonia or Dearborn for counseling services.
- Create its own separate agency. This would offer more control but would be expensive.
- Expand the Canton Community Foundation. The fund this year will spend $15,000 on human services for Canton residents, but executive director Bill Joyner suggested the organization is a bridge to be used until a more permanent structure is in place.

Take steps to end sexual harassment

Who did what to you? Where did it happen? How come it happened? and How did you feel about that? Describe who was around, and the people who witnessed the incident.

"Keep a record. If it's not your supervisor (the perpetrator) then go to that person's superior and complain. Take your diary of what's been happening to you, and say, 'I feel I am a victim of sexual harassment, and would like to have it stopped.'

"I ALWAYS SUGGEST that the person then write the boss a letter after that meeting, saying, 'Dear So-and-so: Thank you for our conversation of Oct. 11 about my discomfort about the way in which So-and-so treats me. We agreed that . . . Thank you.'

"Make a copy, and give a copy of the letter to your boss."

Putting it in writing prevents employers from later saying they'd have done something if only they'd realized what was happening, Curran said.

"That's what we heard and saw initially with the Senate Judiciary Committee (at the Thomas hearing) — that it wasn't really important," Curran said. "They knew about it, and didn't think it was important. Nor did they investigate it any further than what the FBI gave them. That's the way a lot of bosses deal with sexual harassment."

If a victim of sexual harassment finds working conditions intolerable, he or she can quit, and still receive unemployment benefits. "Tell your boss personally you are quitting, and that the reason is sexual harassment. Then you can apply for unemployment, if you are otherwise eligible for unemployment," said Curran.

"In this state, a worker doesn't have to stay at a place where there is sexual harassment."

THAT ISN'T WIDELY known, and for that reason, employees often give false excuses for leaving. That creates a problem, she said. "The employer then has a paper from you, saying you quit to take care of your dying mother. It becomes your word against the boss's."

Employees have until 180 days after the incident to file a charge with the Department of Civil Rights. Curran suggests that victims call the office to make an appointment. The Detroit branch is at Sixth and Howard in the State Office Plaza. The phone number is (313) 256-2643.

The goal is to resolve the situation quickly by discussing the matter with the employer, she said.

"A lot of times, that is all it takes. The supervisor or boss says, 'Oh my gosh, we didn't know she was really serious. We are so upset. We didn't know. Oh dear. They do in fact, stop whatever the behavior was.

"Other times, they say, 'This woman is stark, raving mad. This couldn't have happened.' At that point, if the employer refuses to talk, the case gets routed for a full-fledged investigation. The Civil Rights Commission would then make a finding.

"If either side doesn't like what's said, it can be appealed in court. The civil rights department really wants to make certain that the law is followed. So there's not a lot of penalties. There can be back pay; the person can be ordered to get his or her job back; or receive a good reference.

"You don't find great, big, huge judgments. They want you to exhaust internal and administrative remedies before you go to court," Curran said.

Myrtle Rogers of Plymouth said: "I think she's telling the truth."

been discussing the Thomas nomination and issue of sexual harassment with a customer and other restaurant employees.

"I think he's getting a bum rap. . .We don't know the whole story," Myatt said. He added that the way the charges came out at the last minute made him suspicious of the charges.

Another manager at the restaurant, Charlie Johnson, 34, sounded a bit cynical.

"They'll be having Teddy Kennedy judging him. Come on," Johnson said. He also joked about the plushness of federal prisons, though Thomas isn't facing any criminal charges that would land him in jail.

Glenda Teeter, of Ethel, Mo., said she was suspicious of the way the charges have come out. "I just think they should have come out a lot sooner," Teeter said.

She said if the charges turned out to be true, she would be less likely to support Thomas for the high court seat.

Grocery shoppers at Danny's in Plymouth offered these opinions:

"I think he did it. I just do," said Keashia Matthews of Detroit.

"I think he did it too. The woman wouldn't lie," said Matthews' friend, Emma Braggs of Detroit.

Myrtle Rogers of Plymouth agreed.

"I think she is telling the truth," said Rogers. "I don't think she would come up and lie on something like that. I just don't think she would."

Labor department defines harassment

Exactly what is sexual harassment? According to the law, it is: "Unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors and other verbal or physical conduct or communication of a sexual nature when:

- Submission to such conduct or communication is made a term or condition, either explicitly or implicitly, to obtain employment, public accommodations or public services, education or housing.
- Submission to or rejection of such conduct or communication by an individual is used as a factor in decisions affecting such individual's employment, public accommodations or public services, education or housing, or creating an intimidating, hostile or offensive employment, public accommodations, public services, education or housing environment."
- Such conduct or communication has the purpose or effect of substantially interfering with an individual's employment, public accommodations or public services, education or housing.

Homecoming an overtime thriller for the Chiefs

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

The senior class won the float contest with its roasting pigskin.

A Hollywood pot boiler

A screen writer couldn't have come up with a better plot, characters or weather for the Plymouth Canton homecoming on Friday.

The weather was crisp, the homecoming queen was blonde and pretty, and there was an overtime win by the Canton Chiefs over Livonia Churchill. When the overtime period started the score was 7-7 and when it was over, the scoreboard said 20-17.

THE WIN PUT Canton's overall recrod at 2-4 and 1-3 in the Western Lakes Activites Association.

But the win didn't come easy. It took three overtime periods before the Chiefs could celebrate.

The win came when Churchill missed a field goal.

But all the action didn't come in overtime. April Billings was crowed Homecoming Queen at halftime, the band played and there was a float contest.

And when it was all over, everybody was a winner.

Mother still grieves

zieski said police lacked evidence to win a trial. "We had no case and could not issue a warrant."

The accident occurred about 10 p.m. May 14, 1990. Witnesses said Melissa was crossing Ford Road on a red light when she was struck. Her sister, Amy, crossed ahead of her. The girls were on their way to a store to buy school supplies, having just eaten dinner with their parents at Johnson's Restaurant.

In his testimony, Ryan said he was surprised to see a figure run past his car to the curb, apparently referring to Amy, 13 at the time.

"Next was a kind of flash in the front windshield. I didn't know I had struck someone," said Ryan, his voice cracking. "But I know now that I fled, and some miles away on the Jeffries Freeway I noticed the windshield was broken."

The next day his family was crying about Melissa's death, and Ryan said he learned of his involvement in the accident that killed her.

Debbie Chisholm's sobs could be heard as Ryan spoke. She and her husband sat in the front row of the downtown Detroit courtroom during the brief hearing.

"He is incredibly remorseful," said Ryan's attorney, Howard Wallach "It's been hell on him and his family."

Asked why his client took time to admit his guilt. "Obviously, some panic is involved in something like that. Then it became very difficult because of fear of his involvement with what had happened. . ."

IT IS UNLIKELY Ryan would have been charged or ticketed had he stopped. He told an office secretary that vandals had damaged his car. He had a lengthy record of driving violations before the crash.

Soon after the accident, Melissa's friends, exasperated that the driver had not been found, carried signs at the intersection seeking information about the mystery car.

Debbie Chisholm remembers being in Ryan's house after the accident, and before he was charged. He has since moved to Plymouth Township. The families had lived around the corner in Nottingham Forest subdivision.

Comments Ryan's wife made to neighbors led police to question Ryan more closely, authorities said, but those comments could not be used in court.

Debbie Chisholm was bitter when discussing her former neighbor after the hearing. "Joseph Ryan wants this brushed under the carpet. He doesn't want this to affect his life," she said, adding he had shown little regard for Melissa or her family.

"I can't believe he is as remorseful as he appeared in court today," she said.

Canton seeks way to help poor

Joyner said the Canton Community Foundation is willing to "fill a void" until a permanent solution is found.

JOYNER SAID A $5,000 grant from the foundation is paying for the women's support group that meets at Field Monday evenings and is moderated by a therapist from Plymouth Family Services.

Parents demand safe walk to school for their children

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

Because Sheldon Road traffic passes close to a sidewalk used by school kids, a group of parents is seeking changes to encourage safety.

About 200 parents have signed a petition urging improvements along the Plymouth Township-Plymouth border.

"Although the overpass eliminates the need to cross the road, the dangers for children walking along Sheldon cannot be denied," wrote Mary Templeton of Plymouth in a letter to the city commission.

"The possibility of a fatal accident is strong. A child could easily trip or be pushed into the street, cars could easily jump the curb especially when it is icy, and there is little reaction time for drivers traveling at 40 mph," she said.

THE PARENTS are seeking guard rails along Sheldon near the overpass and posted school speed zones.

"Other schools in this area, such as Smith School for Main Street and Allen Elementary for Haggerty Road, have posted school speed zones.

"We have the unanimous support of the parent teachers organization and enormous support from the parents in the Bird School district. We would like a resolution from the city to support us in our endeavors," Templeton continued.

The parents plan to meet Oct. 30 with the state department of transportation, Templeton said. "We would like to be able to inform them that the city will fully support us, realizing of course that Sheldon is a county road and that our focus will need to be in that direction."

City commissioners delayed making the recommendation at their Oct. 7 meeting, saying they were awaiting a traffic review by the township police for that section of Sheldon.

SPARKED BY THE parents' concerns, both the Plymouth and Plymouth Township police departments have reviewed traffic violations along that section of Sheldon.

"We've written a lot of tickets, there's some accident activity out there," said township Police Chief Carl Berry, adding the traffic review would be submitted to township trustees.

Berry said he recalled no incidents of cars jumping the curb.

Plymouth acting Chief Robert Scoggins said in a report to the city manager that "data does indicate a number of speeding infractions on Sheldon Road," adding that speed was cited in tickets written after several accidents on Sheldon.

To prevent crime in Tucson, police use sensitive, highly sophisticated surveillance equipment: Tim, Rose, Gert, Anthony, Yvonne, and Ramon.

Citizen participation is critical to police effectiveness. Do you care about your neighborhood enough to help protect it?

The Case of The Tucson Tip-off.

In a particular neighborhood in Tucson, Arizona, folks were having a real problem with burglaries and break-ins. They started talking to each other about what they could do. They got fed up. About 400 people went to the police for advice. They learned about surveillance. They got to know their beat officers. Citizens and police became partners in crime prevention. In just three weeks, 17 arrests were made, and burglaries went down 30%. And Tucson is only one case where people successfully worked to beat crime. To find out more, write: The McGruff Files, 1 Prevention Way, Washington, D.C. 20539-0001. You can make a difference. You can help...

Legislators say voters should decide stadium tax

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara pitched his Tiger Stadium financing plan in Lansing last week and while local legislators have concerns, they generally agreed to let the executive keep pitching.

Several local legislators said they were cool to public stadium financing, but they said they supported letting county voters decide the issue for themselves.

"I imagine the restaurant and hotel people out here aren't going to be for it because they don't benefit from Tiger Stadium," state Rep. Georgina Goss, R-Northville Township, said of the proposed one percent restaurant/hotel and 2 percent car rental tax. "If there's to be a tax, I'd rather see it end at the city (of Detroit) limits. But I have no objection to letting the voters decide."

Goss represents Plymouth, Plymouth Township and a section of Canton, among other communities.

Fellow legislator John Bennett, D-Redford, said he hadn't made up his mind on the issue.

"I'D LIKE to learn more about it," said Bennett, whose district also includes a section of Livonia.

"The tax concerns me, but I do favor keeping the Tigers in Michigan," he said. "The Tigers are important to this region economically."

Lyn Bankes, R-Livonia, opposed the idea of a tax increase, but said she had no qualms about putting it on the ballot.

"The people should decide," she said.

But whether the tax would pass is another question.

State Sen. R. Robert Geake, R-Northville, said he sensed a lack of public support for a stadium tax in his district.

"I'd say the people here don't support a tax for stadium financing," said Geake, whose district includes Livonia, Redford, Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton Township.

Earlier, Senate Minority Leader Arthur Miller, D-Warren, said he would oppose statewide financing of the stadium.

"I'm not listening to anything that would cost the rest of the state money," Miller said.

McNamara, however, indicated as long ago as last spring that the county wouldn't seek state or regional taxes to pay for stadium construction bonds.

Deputy county executive Michael Duggan said the executvie received the support he needed during last week's sessions.

"We feel our meetings were very productive," he said. "We feel the legislators know where we're coming from."

In related news, the Wayne County Taxpayers Associaton said it would oppose any ballot issue that sought to raise taxes for stadium construction.

"McNamara and our state legislators better understand that we need a tax cut, not a tax increase collected by food handlers and hotel desk clerks," association chairwoman Rose Bogaert said in a prepared statement.

The Associated Press contributed to this story.

The forum invites speakers from all perspectives to share views on topics ranging from affirmative action, cultural relativisim, standards of excellence and academic freedom.

Additional information on the conference is available by calling 936-1257 or 763-2479.

LIVING ALONE WITH ARTHRITIS
If you live alone, likely you already take measures to protect your wellbeing: a phone number of someone who can help if you are suddenly severely ill, an alarm system that responds to intruders or fire, or a connection to a hospital hot line that you can reach if you have a stroke or heart attack and have only partial movement.
However, if you have arthritis you should take further measures for your welfare. Such include ridding your home of any hazards. Throw rugs must go, stairs need be well lighted and at least 12 inches wide with banisters. You need lights between you and your bathroom, so the path is clear at all times.
Your bathroom should have hand rails, particularly by the commode so you are able to use the toilet facilities readily at all times.
You need a handyman to put screens, storm doors and sticky drawers in place. You need step stools, several of them, so you can reach for towels, cups and stored clothes without risk.
You should have a "buddy" system: give or get a call every day, so someone can check that you are still living independently.
If the above recommendations are impossible, then consider living with someone, or leaving your present residence for one where protection and a network with others is available.

You can't read and you need medicine. What do you do?

Twenty million Americans are functionally illiterate.

This means that they cannot read or understand the printed word. They cannot fill in a form, write a check, or figure out a map or street sign. And medicine bottles—"take two every day, may cause drowsiness"—these instructions and warnings are useless. Dangerous.

Imagine yourself in this situation. Perhaps someone would read the prescription for you. Or perhaps you'd rely on your memory after questioning the physician or pharmacist. But they think you can read, so they may not give you all the instructions.

Pretty scary, isn't it?

How can you help?

If you know someone who cannot read, contact one of the agencies below and give them the opportunity to open up their world.

Retiring faculty guided SC in its formative years

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Ask Midge Ellis, Luther Kleckner and Russell Bogarin what they'll miss the most about Schoolcraft College and the answer is unanimous: the people.

"There's a real sense of community here, as if the staff and faculty were your family," Ellis said.

The three are retiring from Schoolcraft this year, ending a combined 70 years of service to the Livonia-based community college.

Ellis, a Livonia resident, is coordinator of college special events. Kleckner of Northville is a political science professor. Bogarin, an Ypsilanti resident, is college registrar.

ALL THREE will soon be honored by the college for their years of service.

Of the three, Ellis is perhaps the best known outside the Schoolcraft community.

She has been active in the Livonia Arts Commission and was a member of the commission that helped bring cable television to the city. Ellis was also active in the Livonia and Clarenceville public schools, helping start preschool programs in both districts. She also helped found the Clarenceville Jazz Series, bringing big-name musicians to area audiences.

After joining Schoolcraft in 1974, Ellis worked in the community services and students activities office. She was also coordinator of special activities and conferences and assistant to the director of college relations. In her most recent post, she has supervised the college's popular holiday madrigal dinners and Mardi Gras celebration, as well as heading the Schoolcraft College Speakers Bureau.

Earlier this year, she served on the college re-accreditation committee. She received the college Presidential Recognition Award in 1989.

KLECKNER CAME to Schoolcraft in 1964. "I was here before there were any students," he said. "I can't say Schoolcraft developed exactly as I envisioned, but that's true of education in general."

His 27 years at Schoolcraft included terms as president and vice president of the Schoolcraft College Faculty Forum — the union that represents college professors and instructors.

Kleckner is a member of the American Political Science Association, American Academy of Social Science and Michgian Center for Education in Politics.

BOGARIN JOINED Schoolcraft as a counselor in 1965 and spent four years as director of financial aid and placement before becoming registrar in 1972.

In that post, he helped implement two major computerized programs. He was also chairman of the Michigan Association for Collegiate Registration and Admissions Officers, helping create a statewide handbook on admission, financial aid and counseling.

Bogarin has received the college's Outstanding Educator Award and its 1988 Presidential Recognition Award.

The college's growth, both in programming and size, is what Bogarin will remember most.

"We may have been a little isolated at first," he said. "But we're really at the center of things now."

Medical insurance costs drive doctors from state

By Susan Buck
staff writer

Skyrocketing medical liability insurance premiums are driving young doctors out of the state, Dr. Peter Duhamel told a state Senate panel investigating the costs Friday.

"Most young doctors are not going to stay in Michigan," Duhamel, a physician at Crittendon Hospital in Rochester, said. "Medical malpractice has an effect both on the practice and on the people who need care."

Duhamel prepared his statements for testimony before a public hearing of the state medical liability subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee at the Troy Civic Center. The hearing, which was attended by 60 people, was co-chaired by Sen. Michael Bouchard of Birmingham.

OBSTETRICS AS well as specialty fields such as neurosurgery are significantly affected by malpractice claims, Duhamel said, telling the panel that now he must refer more patients to major hospitals. When he began practicing 25 years ago, his insurance premiums were $169 a year compared to $50,000 a year "for less coverage now," he said.

"The number of our (obstetrical) deliveries has dropped way down. The AMA (American Medical Association) estimates that 15 to 20 percent of all the money spent is on defensive medicine."

That fact, Duhamel and others say, translates into doctors ordering unnecessary tests in order to adequately cover themselves.

"Every patient is a potential suit," said Dr. Robert Levine, of Bloomfield Hills. "I order extra tests and X-rays to make sure I have protection in case there is a complication. I require patients to come for excessively close follow-up to make sure that nothing unforeseen happens, even when the unforeseen is impossible."

LEVINE SAID he is luckier than most when it comes to insurance. "One of the hospitals which I am on (staff) has arranged insurance for me at about 50 percent of the normal rate for an orthopedic surgeon practicing in the tri-county area — (at a cost of) only $50,000 per year for $200,000-$600,000 coverage."

The real losers of malpractice are patients, Levine said, because the cost of insurance is passed to them.

"Not all fractures need X-rays after a cast is applied, but they all get one," Levine said.

But lawyers who represent victims see the situation differently, although they are also caught up in the numbers game.

KEN STERN, a Southfield lawyer, said the number of new malpractice cases is actually down. "A Harvard study states that only one of 16 victims ever receives compensation," Stern said. "I can't afford to see every patient."

Stern said he concentrates mostly on the most meritorious, most catastrophic cases. These require lengthy investigations causing him to go out of state to obtain expert witnesses.

"There's a conspiracy of silence among Michigan doctors," Stern said, explaining why he seeks qualified witnesses out of state.

He recently won a $200,000 case for a 42-year-old woman whose breast cancer diagnoses was delayed three years. When she was finally diagnosed correctly, the cancer had spread to her lymph nodes. Her life expectancy is now seriously reduced, the lawyer said.

IRONICALLY, THE doctor who allegedly misdiagnosed her serious condition initially was in a hurry that day to attend a tort-reform hearing in Lansing, Stern said.

The subcommittee conducted the hearings on two proposed laws aimed at making affordable health care available for everyone in the state by checking the rising cost of medical liability insurance.

Michigan's medical liability costs are among the nation's highest and are expected to double to more than $1 billion by the end of the decade.

A recent study found that in Michigan, just 37 cents of every medical liability dollar spent goes to patients. Forty-nine cents covers court and legal costs.

Another study found the average liability award paid by a Michigan hospital has shot up a staggering 173 percent (from $51,000 to nearly $140,000) since 1986, the year the Legislature adopted a series of so-called solutions to the liability crisis.

Reforms proposed in Senate bills 248 and 249 are expected to enable medical providers to shift millions of dollars from insurance and legal costs to what they should do best: delivering health care services, Bouchard said.

Term limitation group confident of spot on '92 ballot

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Glenn Steil is confident voters will see the proposal to Limit Politicians Terms on Michigan's 1992 ballot.

"Any place we solicit" is producing signatures. "Our biggest problem is the line of people signing," said Steil, president of Compatico, a Kentwood office furniture parts firm and chief fund-raiser.

Metro Detroit suburbs, the Grand Rapids, Muskegon and the Flint-Saginaw-Lansing triangle are producing the most initiative signatures, he said.

THE GROUP has a Royal Oak headquarters at 3309 Rochester Road, but co-director Tim Purdy was unavailable to talk about the southeastern Michigan effort. Volunteers can obtain petitions to circulate by calling toll-free 1-800-272-1011.

"What Congress is doing now is playing into our hands," said Steil, referring to the flap over bounced congressional checks and Congress' role in the savings and loan crisis.

The conservative group needs nearly 257,000 signatures to put its proposed amendment to the state constitution on the ballot.

As of last week, Steil said they had raised "closer to 200,000. We have until the end of November. We're going to try for 400,000. We don't want these politicians trying to throw it out.

"We're adding about 18,000 a week," he said.

The group has $10,000 from Amway co-founder Rich DeVos and $2,000 from Meijer, Inc., the retail giant. Meijer also is allowing the group's paid and volunteer circulators to gather signatures on store properties.

IF IT GETS on the ballot and is approved by voters, the amendment would limit:

- U.S. senators to two six-year terms in a 24-year period.
- U.S. representatives to three two-year terms in a 12-year period.
- Michigan's governor and three other top executives to two four-year terms.
- State senators to two four-year terms.
- State representatives to three two-year terms.

State and national polls show the plan as at least 2-1 support among all voter groups. Nationally, term limitation ranks as the biggest wave since the anti-tax movement of the late 1970s.

Michigan's Democratic delegation would be a loser under the term-limitation amendment. Rep. William D. Ford of Taylor (14 terms) heads the Education and Labor Committee. Rep. John Dingell (18 terms) of Trenton heads both the Energy and Commerce and the Oversight and Investigations subcommittees. Rep. David Bonior (eight terms) of Mt. Clemens is the House whip (No.3 rank). Sen. Donald Riegle (three terms) chairs the Banking Committee.

Republicans hold good ranking minority member slots.

Mickey magic: 'World' turns 20

By Iris Sanderson Jones
special writer

WALT DISNEY WORLD — Standing in line always irritates me a little, but it's hard not to smile as I inch toward Jim Henson's Muppet Vision 3D in the Disney-MGM Studios Theme Park.

The "How Long is the Wait" sign is "Another timely service of the Muppets Lab Department of Wild Guesses." Part of the Muppets Division of Line-Engineering, of course.

It's those little touches of whimsy in the middle of all these technological wonders that keeps me coming back to Walt Disney World, which celebrates its 20th birthday this month. The Muppets are my choice for the best new attraction in the World, followed by the new SpectroMagic light parade in the Magic Kingdom.

I wish I'd been there twenty-some years ago when Dick Nunis, now Chairman of Walt Disney Attractions, was first driven into the 27,400 acres of pine groves and swampland that Walt had bought in central Florida.

"We drove in a four-wheel drive over rutted trails for what seemed like hours until we stopped in the middle of nowhere," Nunis said. " 'The driver said, 'this is where we'll build the gate.'

" 'You've gotta be kidding,' I told him. I wouldn't even get out of the car!"

That swamp now holds a $3 billion dollar complex with three theme parks, 18 hotels, three golf courses, water parks, campgrounds.

If Nunis could take you aboard the gigantic Cinderella Castle balloon launched Oct. 1, and practice a little of that famous Mickey magic, you could see the 43 square miles of the World light up at dusk in time sequence over the years.

That swamp now holds a $3 billion dollar complex with three theme parks, 18 hotels, three golf courses, water parks, campgrounds.

The Cinderella Castle skyline of Magic Kingdom and a few hotels, Walt Disney Village in 1975, EPCOT in 1982. Eleven years later, an explosion of new lights with Disney-MGM Studios Theme Park and new hotels all over the property.

Soar high enough and you might see west to Tokyo Disneyland and east to Eurodisney, which opens at 9:01 a.m. April 12, 1992, in France.

Disney has sprinkled its pixie dust on several new projects this year. Hollywood's Pretty Woman, Dinosaurs Live, Honey I Shrunk the Kids Adventureland, Teen-age Mutant Ninja Turtles, Muppet Vision 3D and a new Mickey Mouse Club are already open at the Studios. Stage shows based on movies Beauty and the Beast and The Little Mermaid premiere November and January respectively.

There are two new golf courses, Fazio's Osprey Ridge and Dye's Eagle Pines; two new luxury hotels, Disney's Yacht and Beach Club Resorts; two new moderate hotels, the Port Orleans Resort and the Dixie Landings Resort which follows in January; time-share Vacation Club condos opening in December.

All that technology, plus Minnie Moo and Grandma Duck's Farm, where a cow born with Mickey's trademark black ear marking on his white coat resides in the Magic Kingdom.

I was greatly concerned when I heard that the Main Street Electrical Parade was moving to Eurodisney. It has lighted the Magic Kingdom at night since 1977 and is one of everybody's favorite attractions.

I needn't have worried. As I stood on the street in the Kingdom at 10 p.m. one recent night, with the lights turned down and the crowd hushed, the first float came around the corner light a great ship of light, bearing life-sized characters with lighted hair.

They danced in light on rolling balls. There were dancing bass fiddles and dancing pianos, dancing peacocks and gliding fish, following be a whole procession of Cinderella's carriage changing from color to white light and back.

It was just a bigger and better electrical parade, and it was wonderful.

Spending hot days and nights in a theme park isn't everybody's idea of fun, but whenever I hesitate about going to Mickey country I remember the whimsy that is so much a part of the World.

The cow with Mickey ears, the Department of Line Engineering, the little blonde girl, with that delighted look on her face, doing an impromptu dance on the curb of the Magic Kingdom with Minnie Mouse, and Jiminy Cricket on the back of the last float of SpectroMagic shouting: "Bye now. Take care. Hope you had fun."

2 area performers picked for Disney's chosen few crossroads

Iris Jones

You've seen A Chorus Line so you know the drill. More than 300 aspiring performers walk into the audition and about 25 of them walk out with a job.

In the case of Jason Bendler of Troy, Walt Disney World auditioned 1,500 instrumental players across the nation and picked 90 for the All American College Orchestra.

Dancer Michael Serapiglia of Troy had an even slimmer chance; they picked 12 dancers nationwide to perform in the Best of Disney show last year.

Both performers were picked by recruiters like Bob Radock, who knows what it's like to be one of the chosen few. Bob was a music student at the University of Michigan when he was chosen for the All American College Band and spent a summer playing his trombone at Disneyland.

Radock directed the band for two years at Troy High school and was in his second year as admissions director for Interlochen Arts Academy when the phone rang one day:

"We're looking for a music festival coordinator to book guest entertainers into Disneyland," the voice said.

"From the north woods to Anaheim," Bob says. He moved on to Walt Disney World in Florida as the coordinator of international festival entertainers when EPCOT opened in 1982. Now he is manager of Educational Programs for the division of Creative Entertainment at Walt Disney World.

At Disney he has stage managed major musical shows, such as the Count Basie Orchestra, booked international talent, helped to bring educators and work professionals together, and pursued one of his favorite goals: widening the horizons of students who come to Disney World.

Students like Michael Serapiglia and Jason Bendler.

Michael didn't start dancing until his senior year at Shrine High School in Troy. He went into the theater program at Wayne State University, took dancing lessons from Annette and Company School of Dance in West Bloomfield and started looking toward Broadway.

"I auditioned for Disney's All American College Show last February at Marygrove College, along with 175 other contenders.

"Two and half months later they called. I spent three and half months doing five shows a day in the Magic Kingdom. I loved it."

Singers and dancers audition again Feb. 1, 1992, at Marygrove, and Michael will be there.

"It was the first job in my field and I learned a lot, including work discipline and how to work with others during 378 shows."

His advice for others who want to audition: "Be prepared with a few different songs. Be as professional as possible. Have fun. Disney wants fun people. Disney is a fun place and they want you to have fun."

Jason Bendler has been having fun with his violin since the 6th grade. "The violin chose me!" he says. As a sophomore at Western Michigan University, Bendler pays his way through school by performing for symphony orchestras in Kalamazoo, Lansing and Battle Creek. "It beats flipping burgers."

"I auditioned in Chicago last winter and won a place on the All American College Orchestra. I spent the summer at Walt Disney World and the Orchestra was called back to play for the 20th anniversary celebrations this month.

"We performed three times a night during the week and with guest stars like John Davidson on the weekend."

Disney will audition for the orchestra, marching band and show band Feb. 1 at Northwestern University in Evanston, Illinois, and Feb. 2 at DePaul University School of Music in Chicago.

Cap could benefit rich taxpayers

Tim Richard

LAWYERS LICK their lips in hunger when you get them talking about "capping" property tax assessments.

It sounds dull, but there could be easy fees for them — and big savings for us homeowners who are smart enough to hire them.

This is speculation and, so far, hasn't been researched by any lawyer. The speculations are based on chats with lawyer-legislators.

They believe that if people can find a way to beat taxes, they will.

ONE PLAN already on the 1992 ballot would "cap" assessment increases at 5 percent or the rate of consumer, price inflation, whichever is less. The "Cut & Cap" plan of Gov. John Engler and Republicans would cap assessments at 3 percent.

Suppose the GOP plan passes. What would it mean, 10 years down the road, to neighboring owners of two $100,000 houses with state equalized valuations of $50,000?

Let's say real estate inflation is 10 percent compounded. In 10 years with no cap, the SEV would be nearly $130,000.

But with a 3-percent cap, the SEV would be just $67,000. In a school district levying 34 mills (state average), these homeowners would save $2,100 a year in school property taxes.

BUT WHAT IF Owner A sells at the end of 10 years? The house is reassessed to half the true market value — $130,000. The new owner pays the additional $2,100 in property taxes.

Young and mobile families will be socked more than those who stay put.

Owner B, meanwhile, sees his friendly lawyer and sets up the M.Y. Corp. to own his house. Instead of selling his house at the end of 10 years, he sells only his shares of stock.

M.Y. Corp. is still owner of the house, so the assessment stays capped at $67,000.

IT'S NOT a pure savings of $2,100 in property taxes, because Owner B must pay the lawyer and hold an annual meeting. But he's still ahead by incorporating.

Or by putting his house in a trust and transferring it to his kids.

Or by renting it and keeping title in his own name — assuming he wants to be a landlord.

You get the picture: "Capping" assessments will create an enormous incentive for homeowners to beat the system at moving time.

Owner B can get a better price for his house — er, shares of stock — because the buyer is getting more house and less taxes for his limited money.

I'M TROUBLED, however, by the potential schemes to beat property taxes by using corporations or trusts.

First, the sophisticated homeowner would have a considerable advantage over Joe Six-Pack. It violates the notion of fairness.

Second, the money for schools will come from someplace. It will come from the state treasury — schools would be reimbursed for taxes lost due to the "cap." The state would pay big bucks to districts with sophisticated white-collar residents who hire lawyers and not to Joe Six-Pack's district.

Affluent voters beat the long lines in presidential elections by voting absentee, while Joe Six-Pack queues up for an hour. Don't be surprised if the same thing happens with property tax "caps."

CORRECTION: In a recent column deploring broadcasters' noncoverage of state education issues, I made a serious omission in the short list of good guys: Michigan Public Radio. You can catch it at 4:30 p.m. on WUOM-FM or 4:45 on other university stations such as WDET-FM.

Tim Richard reports on the local implications of state and regional events.

Gays are after big bucks, not rights

Jeff Counts

DOES IT REALLY matter if you're homosexual or a lesbian? To most of us, it doesn't. People have a right to privacy. But to the gays and lesbians it does. The reason is money, not rights.

Gays and lesbians want to be classified as a minority so they can cash in. They want to be treated like blacks, women, Hispanics and Asians. They're seeking special treatment.

And we in the media are blind, stupid fools who in our quest to find new causes to back, give up our objectivity and think with our hearts, not our heads.

We've accepted the idea that gays and lesbians don't have the same civil rights as the rest of us. We don't question it. We should.

We're not talking about AIDS. The government should spend more money on the dreaded disease. But at the same time we have to admire President Bush's comment to gays that they should stop doing what they're doing and then they wouldn't have to worry about AIDS.

NOBODY WANTS to see homosexuals or lesbians be beat up or discriminated against just because of their sexual preference. However, who's going to know what that preference is unless they make an issue of it?

That's happening at the Cracker-Barrel restaurant chain. Homosexuals are claiming the company discriminates against them. If they didn't make an issue out of it, how would the company even know they were gay?

The thing here is that it gives homosexuals a platform to fight their battle for special treatment. It's not equal treatment. They have all the rights the rest of us have. They just want more.

And that means more bucks. If homosexuals and lesbians are successful in their quest to become a minority, we're all in for some major changes in our lives and tax bills.

Eventually there would be a quota system for homosexuals and lesbians at universities and other institutions. I suspect it would eventually be argued that there should be a homosexual or lesbian seat on the U.S. Supreme Court.

Things would be a mess. Just imagine what would happen at a local high school if a college or university would offer scholarships to lesbians or homosexuals.

SOME PARENTS would be angry that our society was trying to make kids sexually active before their time. And other parents would be looking to take advantage of free government money for education by telling their kids to claim they are a homosexual or lesbian just to receive a scholarship.

For years people have tried to get government out of their bedrooms, claiming we all have a right to privacy. And now homosexuals and lesbians are trying to put government back in that private room.

It's pretty obvious who is black, Hispanic or a woman. But sexual preference is another thing. It's pretty hard to prove either way. In court it would be tough.

Just imagine a kid trying to get a scholarship because he or she is a homosexual or a lesbian. How would they prove it to a university?

There's another move to have colleges allow gays or lesbian couples to move into married student housing. This is tax-supported stuff.

THEN THERE'S the move to allow gays and lesbians to marry. This means they would be able to rip off the Social Security system along with the pension systems of America.

That's big bucks. And it's open to every scam that a con man or woman can come up with.

The question is: Can we afford to create another minority group based on sexual preference?

We can't. We should spend our money on helping poor families with education, health and housing, not on special programs based on sexual preference.

Let's start thinking with our heads and watching our pocket books.

Columbus defended

To the editor:

Your "point of view" in the above referenced article appealed to me considerably. The appeal came from the positive aspects: Honoring Native Americans.

As a first generation American born, I have become an avid reader of the history of native peoples in this hemisphere — not only those indigenous to the 48 states, but also from the southern tip of South America up to western areas of Canada and Alaska. The species are many — their histories rich.

But to condemn Columbus for all the atrocities, and to scrap the holiday, is like gilding the lily ashen grey, for the sake of the rose. All that followed Columbus was not bad. Let us light one candle and concentrate on the benefits.

I have been to the Native American towns in the mountains of northeast Arizona, and have seen their galleries of history, put up not only for non-native tourists, but also for their own posterity. I have been equally awed at the large comprehensive native display in the Museum of Natural History on Vancouver Island in British Columbia. The only "attraction" I have seen in Michigan is the gambling operation at the Soo.

I am tired of reading complaints in "points of view" and feature articles, without any offer of a solution.

I challenge you to start an effort to memorialize your ancestors and the Native Americans of western Wayne County — I'll be there at your side.

If you should choose to follow up on my suggestion, please feel free to call me — I'm listed in the Westland phone directory. I'd be glad to help getting things started.

Mr. Counts — (it seems) you're the only one that put in print the true reality of our own — "Great American holocaust." Maybe the sins of our past are catching up with us.

House sends jobless benefits bill to Bush

Here's how Observer & Eccentric area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes in the week ending Oct. 4:

Roll Call Report

HOUSE

TO PASS JOBLESS BILL — By a vote of 300 for and 118 against, the House sent President Bush the conference report on a bill (S 1722) providing an additional 7, 13 or 20 weeks of unemployment checks to people who exhausted their initial allotment between March 1, 1991, and July 4, 1992. The bill's estimated $6.4 billion one-time cost would be added to the deficit.

A yes vote was for additional jobless benefits.

Area representatives voting yes were Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, Dennis Hertel, D-Harper Woods, William Ford, D-Taylor, and Sander Levin, D-Southfield.

Congressman William Broomfield, R-Birmingham, voted no.

PORK BARREL DISPUTE — By a vote of 300 for and 111 against, the House approved a $48 million expenditure to upgrade the FBI's fingerprint examination laboratory and move it from Washington to Clarksburg, W. Va. Chairman Robert Byrd, D-W. Va., of the Senate Appropriations Committee, is orchestrating the transfer. The vote occurred during debate on an appropriations bill (HR 2608).

Supporter Alan Mollohan, D-W.Va., said: "This isn't pork at all. This money goes to a crying need. If we are going to fight crime effectively in this country, we need a modern identification system."

Opponent Dan Burton, R-Ind., said: "This is one of the famous pork barrel projects" that Byrd is securing for West Virginia, at the cost of worsening the deficit.

A yes vote supported the expenditure.

Area congressmen voting yes were Pursell, Hertel, Levin and Broomfield.

Congressman Ford didn't vote.

THE MOSCOW EMBASSY — The House refused, 175 for and 231 against, to mandate construction of a third U.S. diplomatic facility in Moscow, in addition to the existing embassy and a new structure that remains unoccupied because of Soviet bugging. The vote occurred during debate on a State Department appropriations bill (HR 2608). By non-record vote, the House later approved $100 million for open-ended plans to expand embassy space in Moscow.

Supporter Neal Smith, D-Iowa, said U.S. officials in Moscow need secure and ample work space "at this crucial time in history."

Opponent Olympia Snowe, R-Maine, said that with the Soviet Union breaking apart, America needs less of a presence in Moscow and more involvement in the republics.

A yes vote was to mandate construction of a third embassy building in Moscow.

Congressman William Ford voted yes.

Voting no were Pursell, Hertel, Levin and Broomfield.

TO PROBE CHECK BOUNCING — By a vote of 390 for and 8 against, the House approved a resolution (H Res 236) closing its bank by the end of the year. The measure also opened an Ethics Committee probe of General Accounting Office findings that many members have repeatedly abused the facility by bouncing large-sum checks and paying no penalty.

"It is a scandal for members of Congress to abuse their office in this way," said Melton Hancock, R-Mo., in earlier floor proceedings. No member spoke against the measure.

A yes vote supported the resolution.

Voting yes were Pursell, Hertel, William Ford, Levin and Broomfield.

SENATE

TO PASS FAMILY LEAVE BILL — The Senate voted 65 for and 32 against to require employers to provide up to 12 weeks of unpaid leave for childbirth and other medical circumstances affecting the employee or a close family member. Workers would retain health benefits during the leave. The bill (S 5) was sent to the House. It applies to employers of at least 50 workers but exempts the 10 percent of a workforce that is highest paid.

Supporter Harry Reid, D-Nev., said "all of the United States' major (economic) competitors have leave policies similar to this legislation."

Opponent Larry Craig, R-Idaho, said he supports family leave but not as a federal mandate that will diminish private sector productivity.

A yes vote supported the family leave measure.

Senators Carl Levin and Donald Riegle, both Democrats, voted yes.

JOBLESS BENEFITS — By a vote of 65 for and 35 against, the Senate approved the conference report on legislation (S 1722) providing up to 20 weeks of additional jobless checks to workers who have exhausted their first 26 or so weeks of benefits.

A yes vote supported the bill.

Levin and Riegle voted yes.

Engler axes arts aid, hints deals

By Tim Richard
staff writer

State funds to cities with racetracks, to local symphony orchestras and to Friends of the Rouge were vetoed by Gov. John Engler.

But the Republican governor held out hope that some line items he axed would be restored at reduced levels. And in the case of arts groups, he said he preferred to appropriate a lump sum from which the new Michigan Council for Arts and Cultural Affairs could make grants.

"Michigan is the only state in the nation," Engler said, "to balance the budget and increase funding for education (by 4 percent) without raising taxes."

His vetoes cut the general fund budget for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1 to $7.58 billion, the amount of projected revenue.

CONSTITUTIONALLY, Engler had to veto an entire line item but indicated willingness to compromise on some programs.

For example, he vetoed $2.8 million for standardbred horse programs (harness racing) but offered to deal at $2.1 million.

But Engler seeks to zero out aid to Livonia, Northville and Hazel Park. Each had been getting up to $900,000 annually for 20 years for costs associated with policing horse race tracks. Engler offered no deal.

Rep. Lyn Bankes, R-Livonia, said her city received a triple hit this year — loss of the race track money, a freeze on assessments and a major loss through state-ordered sharing of local school property taxes.

Mike Duggan, deputy Wayne County executive, said the "County-care" health program for indigents was vetoed and is not funded as of now. "But we do plan to meet with the governor to discuss it," Duggan said. "We support Sen. Robert Geake's efforts" — a supplemental appropriations bill that would restore at least part of that aid.

FRIENDS OF the Rouge, Keep Michigan Beautiful and several other community programs lost their entire appropriations.

So did Nankin Mills Nature Center, the Holocaust Center in West Bloomfield and the Women's Hall of Fame.

Engler whacked all the nearly $1 million appropriated for science museums, including $96,000 for Cranbrook, $260,000 for the Detroit Science Center and $300,000 for Greenfield Village's Innovation Center.

S'craft biomed program attracts foreign students

Six Indonesian medical professionals are attending Schoolcraft College this fall as part of an international training session coordinated through the college and Indonesian government.

Students are members of the Pusdiknakes Fellowship Training Program. The program is financed by the Indonesian government and the World Bank.

The training program is designed to increase the skill of medical professionals in Indonesia, the most densely populated nation in the world.

The Schoolcraft College Biomedical Technology program is the key U.S. training facility for the Indonesian students. Lambton (Ontario) College is coordinating the international program.

The students will also receive training through area hospitals. The hospital training program was coordinated through Schoolcraft biomedical technology professor Larry Scharmen.

Students will learn to operate and repair medical equipment, as well as gaining exposure to American culture and the U.S. medical system, during their 10-week internships.

Housing, food, transportation and Islamic religious activities were organized on the students' behalf.

Predators maintain balance in nature

nature

Timothy Nowicki

As we watch the birds come to our feeder, it is easy to identify one species from another. On the other hand, it is very difficult, if not impossible to separate one individual of a species from another. Most birds of a particular species and sex look like all the others.

Looking at a museum collection of several hundred specimens would illustrate that they do not all look exactly alike, but for all practical purposes in the field they look alike. The differences noticeable in the museum are subtle and do not interfere with the survival of that individual.

If noticeable differences do occur, such as extensive white spotting, the individual often does not survive. In white spotting, sections of feathers are white instead of their normal color. A normally brown bird is brown so that it can hide from predators. White feathers make it more visible, and thus vulnerable.

THROUGH the years, the color, sex, shape of the bill, and other features have been adapted for the species and the individuals survival. When an individual had the wrong combination of features it often died, for one reason or another.

That is why today, we often do not see an animal that is not like all the others. When we do see one that is abnormal, it immediately draws our attention.

This summer I saw a young woodchuck having difficulty walking. It looked as though it were drunk. Whenever it came to a light bump on the ground, it would fall on it's side. I suspect it was a birth defect of some nature. While nursing in the protection of the den, this young woodchuck was able to survive. Even when it was out feeding on its own it was able to move enough to find food.

I was surprised that it survived for about three weeks after I first noticed it, but after that time it disappeared. It's sad to think about the fox that probably caught this woodchuck, but it is the fox that keeps it so we see healthy animal. Fox and other predators cull individuals that do not fit the norm, and that is one of the reasons why all the animals look alike to us.

Tim Nowicki is a naturalist at Independence Oaks County Park in Oakland County. He lives in Livonia.

Chiefs mark homecoming with OT win

By Darren A. Nichols
staff writer

Plymouth Canton won't forget its 1991 homecoming for years to come.

A missed field goal by Livonia Churchill allowed the Chiefs to escape with a narrow 20-17 win in three overtimes Friday.

"It was a wild game to the end," Canton coach Bob Khoenle said. "A bad snap and the little things decided the game tonight. Neither team did too much on offense.

"I was glad to see it end the way it did — with us winning. We needed a win, too. It was tough, and we were lucky and fortunate enough to win."

The win raised Canton's record to 2-4 overall and 1-3 in the Western Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Churchill dropped to 0-6 and 0-4.

REGULATION PLAY ended in a 7-7 tie after Canton kicker Jeff Nafe missed a 34-yard field-goal attempt with no time left on the clock.

On the first play of the first overtime, running back Steve Hohl took a handoff and scampered 10 yards for a touchdown. The conversion by Nafe put Canton ahead 14-7.

After a Churchill run was stopped for a loss on first down and two pass plays were unsuccessful, most fans thought the game was over. But on fourth-and-11, Churchill quarterback Mike Johnson took the snap, rolled right and dove into the end zone under two defenders for a touchdown. A successful conversion by Paul Martus sent the game into a second overtime.

With the score tied 14-14, Churchill gained 5 yards on the first two downs. Johnson threw an incomplete pass on third down, and Martus hit a 14-yard field goal to put the Chargers ahead 17-14.

Canton took the ball and gained 5 yards on three running plays before tying the score on a 10-yard field goal by Nafe to send the game into a third overtime at 17-17.

In the third overtime, Canton threw three straight incomplete passes before Nafe kicked the game-winner.

CHURCHILL TOOK the ball and gained 5 yards on a quarterback keeper by Johnson. On second down, Darryl Cook caught a pass from Johnson for 2 more yards.

After an incomplete pass, Churchill set up for the game-tying field goal on fourth down. The snap on the kick was high, and holder Craig Shepley rolled left and threw an incomplete pass to end the game.

Churchill coach Herb Osterland was pleased with the way his Chargers played Friday night.

"It was a very tough game, and we felt we had a chance to win," he said. "We came to play and we played well in the first half. We just had a bad snap at the end.

"We were very pleased with how we played. Quarterback Mike Johnson kept his head in the game, and the defense played outstanding tonight. You always want to win, but I am very proud of the effort we gave tonight.

Khoenle said his kicking game and the defense came to play Friday night.

"The kicking game was good tonight," he said. "Nafe is a very consistent kicker, even though he missed the one at the end of regulation. He's done a pretty good job. The defense did a good job tonight. The offense has something to be desired.

"I WASN'T surprised that it was a tough game. Even though they've been down a while and losing, Churchill always plays hard. Herb (Osterland) always does a good job with them."

Canton scored first in regulation with 1:23 left in the first half on a 25-yard pass to John Wright from Kevin Shankie. The Chiefs led 7-0 at halftime.

Churchill tied the score at 5:34 in the third quarter when Martus capped a 4½-minute, 10-play drive with a 1-yard run then added the extra point.

Hister, Salem sink Spartans

Senior running back Leon Hister had another big game for Plymouth Salem as the Rocks defeated host Livonia Stevenson and won their third straight football game, 28-7.

Hister rushed for 196 yards on 16 carries and staked Salem to a 13-0 halftime lead with touchdown runs of 54 and 74 yards.

"He's a great back," Stevenson coach Jack Reardon said. "He has great speed. He broke those two long ones, and that just killed us."

Hister had gained big yards in previous games on pitchouts, so the Spartans made an effort to contain him at the corners. They were successful at that, but Hister found a seam on several runs up the middle, according to Reardon.

The victory puts Salem at 3-1 in the Lakes Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association and 4-2 overall. Stevenson is 1-3 and 3-3.

Fullbacks Dan Burke and Rob Shepley scored second-half TDs on runs of 13 and 3 yards to give Salem a 28-0 lead late in the fourth quarter. The Spartans scored with seven seconds remaining when Chuck Favor caught a 25-yard pass from Ryan Furkas.

Shepley rushed for 51 yards and Burke 39 as the Rocks outrushed Stevenson 287-74. Furkas completed nine of 29 passes for 130 yards, and Jason Dreyer had five receptions for 75 yards. Salem had 27 yards through the air.

Senior defensive back Ed Gundry, playing in his first game since being injured in the second week of the season, had the first of three Salem interceptions in the first quarter. Hister ran for his first TD on second down.

The Rocks needed only three plays to score again after they blocked a Stevenson field goal at the Salem 19-yard line with 2:25 left in the first half.

Burke's scoring run capped a 45-yard, 11-play drive late in the third quarter. Salem linebacker Agron Ujkaj's second interception set up the last TD with 1:55 remaining in the game.

Andy Szydlowski had eight tackles and a fumble recovery to lead the Salem defense. Coach Tom Moshimer had praise for his defensive front that included Tim Galda (4½ tackles), Allen August, Bob Smith, Alfonso Hysko and Hugh Blake-Thomas.

Lineman Sam Mitchell had eight solo tackles and linebacker Chad Meyers four solos for the Spartans.

Salem travels to Walled Lake Central on Friday night, and Stevenson visits division-leading North Farmington on Saturday afternoon.

Salem quarterback Pete Zantop makes his first decision in the triple-option offense — a possible handoff to fullback Rob Shepley — against Stevenson Friday night. Shepley scored a touchdown in the 28-7 WLAA victory.

CC overcomes turnovers to beat Rice

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

With Birmingham Brother Rice trailing 21-7 and trying to rally in the fourth quarter of Sunday's Boys Bowl, Redford Catholic Central defensive back Brett Walter did what came naturally on this day.

He took the ball away.

Walter intercepted a pass intended for Rice's sophomore tight end Mike Polick at the CC 12-yard line with 2:38 remaining at Pontiac's Wisner Stadium. The interception ended any hopes Rice might have had and set up Jeff Tibaldi's 85-yard touchdown run which came three plays later.

The Shamrocks overcame five turnovers and won, 35-7, making this their sixth Boys Bowl victory over Rice in the last seven years. The two teams combined for eight turnovers so it's no wonder a turnover helped decide the outcome.

"We were in a man-to-man defense, I was in his back pocket and we both kind of caught the ball and I just wrestled it away," said Walter, describing his interception.

After Tibaldi's long run and Kerry Zavagnin's fourth straight extra point gave CC a 28-7 lead, Walter finished the scoring by taking advantage of, what else, another turnover. Rice's Marcus Harvey lost the handle of a kickoff and Walter plucked the ball out of the air and returned it about 20 yards for CC's last points.

"I saw the guy (Harvey) cut back, Joe Lopez hit him, the ball popped up and I was just in the right place at the right time," Walter said. "I never ended a game like that."

The Shamrocks outgained the Warriors, 387-149, in total yardage but coach Tom Mach was amazed his players were able to overcome all those turnovers and still win. CC's defense provided Mach with some answers, allowing Rice only 21 net yards on the ground in 21 carries.

Defensive linemen Dan Kelly and Joe Suhajda combined to sack Rice's Steve Merchant once and hurry the senior quarterback on several other pass attempts. The win improved CC to 6-0 overall and 2-0 in the Catholic League's Central Divsion. Rice is 3-3, 1-1.

"I'm just dumbfounded," Mach said. "But the credit goes to our defense's mental toughness. We had a lot of mistakes in the first and second half and down the road we have to eliminate those."

Tibaldi, a senior tailback, lost three of four fumbles but still finished with a career-high 230 yards on 25 carries. After losing a fumble on CC's opening series, Tibaldi scored from eight yards out with 7:33 remaining in the first quarter to give CC a 7-0 lead.

Tibaldi fumbled only once in five previous games so he was as surprised as anyone else about his butterfingers.

"I think they were getting some helmets on the ball," he said.

CC defensive end Jason Krueger recovered a Rice fumble at the Warriors' 39 to set up CC's second score, which came with 5:40 remaining in the first half.

CC quarterback Chris Barbara, who completed three of four passes for 56 yards, capped the seven-play drive with a quarterback sneak and Zavagnin's extra point made the score 14-0. Fullback Dan Gusoff, who finished with 67 yards on 19 carries, amassed 27 of those yards on five attempts during CC's second scoring drive.

Kelly blocked a Rice punt near the end of the second quarter, and Tibaldi scored five plays later on a nine-yard run to put the Shamrocks ahead, 21-0, at halftime.

Canton cagers prevail

Plymouth Canton dominated in the middle of the game Thursday and swept over host Walled Lake Western 49-31 in girls basketball.

The Chiefs, who are 5-0 in the Western Lakes Activities Association and have a seven-game winning streak, outscored Western 27-11 in the second and third quarters combined.

"Our defense in the middle quarters was real good," Canton coach Bob Blohm said. "We got a little more pressure on the ball, contested the entry pass and got some turnovers.

"We played with a little more intensity, and we rebounded the ball exceptionally well in those quarters."

Junior center Stephanie Gray scored 13 points and had 12 rebounds to lead Canton (9-2). Sophomore Lisa Nicastri, who took her injured sister's place on the varsity this week, was a major contributor to the victo-

Darcie Miller, getting some instruction from coach Fred Thomann, scored 28 points Thursday while leading Salem to victory.

Miller's 28 points help Salem girls defeat WLC

By Neal Zipser
staff writer

The Detroit Pistons lost their "microwave" in the off-season, but Plymouth Salem's Darcie Miller put on a performance Tuesday that would make all Vinnie Johson fans proud.

Miller began the game missing her first six shots as visiting Walled Lake Central remained neck-and-neck with the defending Western Lakes Activities Association champion.

With just over two minutes left in the first quarter, Miller nailed four consecutive points to give the Rocks a 16-14 lead. The senior center had three more such spurts during the game and led her team to a 60-46 victory over the Vikings.

Salem, which won its sixth straight game and moved closer to capturing its eighth consecutive division title, improved to 7-4 overall and 5-0 in the division. Central fell to 4-6 overall.

"WE HAVE had a hard time getting going early in games," said Miller, who finished with 28 points and 11 rebounds. "We usually start slow and see what the other team is like. But then we get cooking."

"Darcie played an awesome game on both sides, offensively and defensively," Salem coach Fred Thomann said. "She was the force of the game. She got some good scoring opportunities and rebounded strong for us."

The Rocks jumped to a 4-0 lead, but Central fought back to go ahead 12-8. Miller scored her first points after senior Allison Fyke fed her for an easy layup.

After Central's Bridgette Norris hit a short jumper, Miller made three straight layups to give the Rocks a two-point lead entering the second quarter.

However, Jenny Czach got the lead back for the Vikings with two baskets. With 4:47 left before halftime, Norris hit a layup to give Central its last lead of the game at 20-18. The Vikings did not score another point until the third quarter.

MILLER GOT reheated and scored five straight Salem points. Her teammates also got hot as guards Leslie Gotts and Christy Parimucha hit three-pointers to give the Rocks a 30-20 halftime lead.

"I'm extremely happy our perimeter game is improving. A lot of the pieces of our game are coming together now," Thomann said.

The Rocks have been playing without senior point guard Kelly Austin, who re-injured a knee in the second game. Her status is uncertain for the rest of the season.

After a free throw by senior Emily Giuliani gave Salem a 31-22 lead, Miller scored the Rocks' next nine points, highlighted by a three-point play off a fast break.

The Vikings later went on a 11-0 run, but the Rocks answered that with a 10-0 run of their own and never were threatened again.

Norris, a junior forward, tallied 18 points for the Vikings. Giuliani and Gotts added 10 and seven points, respectively, for Salem.

The Rocks won despite shooting only 37 percent (24-64) from the field and 41 percent (10-24) from the free-throw line. Central shot 30 percent (18-60) from the field.

Zavagnin leads CC rout of Pilots

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

A dim picture had suddenly grown darker.

Bedford Catholic Central's soccer team was trying to put an end to a few stubborn streaks. The Shamrocks hadn't beaten Warren DeLaSalle, their opponent Friday at Redford's Bell Creek Park, in two years, going 0-for-4 in that span. They had lost at DeLaSalle earlier this season, 3-1.

CC wasn't the only victim chewed up by the Pilots during that time. It had been 39 games since DeLaSalle — the defending Class A champion — had tasted defeat.

Adding more pressure to the situation, CC not only had to beat DeLaSalle, but the Shamrocks had to win by at least two goals to tie for the Catholic League's Central Division regular-season title.

So what happens? A minute after Kerry Zavagnin put CC on top 1-0, rocketing in a rebound 29 minutes into the match, defender Adam Borchert was red-carded for violent play — forcing CC to play the rest of the match short one player.

HARDLY AN ideal situation against one of the state's best teams. But the Shamrocks proved their mettle, taking complete control in the second half and routing DeLaSalle 4-0.

The win, by a four-goal advantage, means CC will have homefield advantage throughout the Catholic League playoffs, which begin Thursday. CC is 13-1 overall; DeLaSalle is 13-1-1. Both finish 7-1 in the league.

Zavagnin, a team co-captain, deserves a large portion of the credit. The senior midfielder scored twice more in the second half on direct kicks, slapping two hard drives over the Pilots' wall into the upper right corner of the net.

The first came nine minutes into the second half; the direct kick was called after Rich Walos was tripped 25 yards from the DeLaSalle goal, on the left side of the field. Zavagnin pumped his shot over Pilot keeper Karl Bunker into the far corner, putting CC up 2-0.

HE GOT his third goal of the game three minutes later, after Anthony Verino was tripped just outside the penalty area. Zavagnin again went to the right corner and hit it.

Mario Sciciuna got the final Shamrock goal with 21 minutes gone, pouncing on a ball that slipped through Bunker and knocking it into the net.

"We had beaten them four-straight, and the reason was we shut down their top player, Zavagnin," said DeLaSalle coach Thair Mukhtar. "Today, we didn't.

"The difference was, their top player came to play. Ours (Marcus Cudnik) was shut down."

One very good reason Cudnik was contained, according to CC coach Phil LaJoy, was the marking of Matt McIntosh. "He did a great job," gushed LaJoy, adding, "They all did a great job. They were focused all the way through."

ZAVAGNIN'S OFFENSIVE skills made the biggest impact. "He's just got a great shot," said LaJoy. Mukhtar agreed: "You're looking at the most dangerous player (taking restarts) on the field. I told my team not to commit a foul anywhere near the (penalty area) because of him."

Mukhtar couldn't explain why, with a man advantage and trailing just 1-0, his team folded. "Realistically, they outplayed us," he said. "Even when they were short a man, it looked like they had the advantage. I could almost see the writing on the wall. We've been flat the last two games.

"I don't mind losing, if we play well. We just didn't play well."

CC did. After Borchert's ejection, the game turned — but in the Shamrocks' favor. "That kind of fired us up," said LaJoy of the ejection.

And, it might be added, it came when a fire was needed most.

Truskowski paces Salem victory

Senior John Truskowski scored two goals and had two assists Wednesday, leading Plymouth Salem past host Walled Lake Western 5-0 in soccer.

The Rocks finished 6-2-2 in the Western Lakes Activities Association and stand 11-3-2 overall.

Salem and Plymouth Canton will play at 7 p.m. Wednesday for third place in the WLAA.

Tom Baker, who suffered a bruised knee and didn't play in the second half, scored the first goal with an assist from Truskowski. Salem led 1-0 at halftime after a late goal was disallowed because time had expired.

The Rocks broke loose in the second half and took a three-goal lead on consecutive scores by Truskowski. Matt Cook and Joe Perron were credited with assists.

A cross from Rich Andrusiak set up a goal by Jason Oberhelman, and Perron finished the scoring as Truskowski got his second assist.

Truskowski has 15 goals and 16 assists for a team-leading 46 points. Baker has nine and nine (27), Perron 10 and four (24) and Andrusiak nine and three (21).

Senior goalkeeper Jeff Little played most of the game since freshman regular Paul Dood sat out with a pulled groin muscle. Cook, the keeper in emergency situations, played the last 10 minutes and got some work in goal, too.

PLYMOUTH CANTON outplayed visiting Ann Arbor Pioneer but couldn't outscore the Pioneers in scocer Wednesday, losing 2-1.

The Chiefs attempted 21 shots at the Pioneer goal. Ironically, the winners had only five — none in the second half.

All the scoring occurred in the first half. The Pioneers stunned Canton (10-5-1) with a goal in the first 20 seconds, but Craig Miller tied it midway in the half. Pioneer scored the winning goal off a restart with eight minutes remaining.

"We played very, very well," Canton coach Don Smith said, "but they scrapped and held us off. We had plenty of good chances. We moved the ball as well as we could."

Jim Bradley played the entire game in goal. Fellow goalkeeper Ryan Henkel suffered a knee injury in the Livonia Stevenson game and will be out for the rest of the season.

PLYMOUTH CHRISTIAN Academy and Warren Bethesda battled through two overtimes Tuesday and ended up tied 1-1 at Hines Park.

Freshman Andy Roose gave the Eagles a 1-0 lead in the first half. Bethesda scored with just two minutes left in regulation time.

Matt Cronan played an exceptional game in goal for PCA, stopping 32 shots, including a penalty kick. The Eagles (7-4-2) had eight shots at the Bethesda goal.

S'craft women hammer Olivet

The gap between women's soccer programs among state colleges was well displayed Thursday at Schoolcraft College. The Lady Ocelots, playing with just nine players (among the missing — top scorer Shannon Meath), was still far more than Olivet College could handle; SC clubbed the Comets 7-0.

It was 3-0 at the half, with Nikki Johnson, Sarah Hayes and Jennifer Whitfield finding the goal for SC. Hayes and Whitfield both scored again in the second half; Colleen O'Connor and Beth Hebestreit also netted goals.

Johnson added three assists and Carol Pietila had two.

Even though Olivet had at least a two-player advantage throughout the match — late in the second half, Hayes was hurt and had to leave, leaving SC with just eight players — the Comets mounted very little in way of an attack. Kim Owczarzak, the Ocelot keeper, was rarely involved in the play, which hardly ever left Olivet's end of the field.

The competition will be different this weekend at the Schoolcraft College Invitational Tournament. The Ocelots, now 4-4-2 overall, will play Florissant Valley CC (from St. Louis) at 1 p.m., Saturday and Meramec CC (St. Louis) at 1 p.m. Sunday. Both are ranked among the top six in the NJCAA.

Dome still possible World Cup site

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

Of all the major sports stories making local headlines earlier this month, the one least read here might have been the most read worldwide.

We're talking about the Pontiac Silverdome selected Thursday as one of 17 sites still in the running to host the 1994 World Cup. No World Cup soccer game has ever been played indoors and the fact that the Silverdome and New Orleans Superdome are among the 17 remaining made headlines across the world.

After reviewing the 17 sites later this year, the Federation International de Football Association is expected to finalize the selection process in early 1992 by naming either eight or 12 sites.

ROGER FAULKNER, chairman of the Michigan World Cup Bid Committee, gains more confidence each day about the Silverdome's chances.

"I was talking today at the Detroit Athletic Club and told the crowd, 'Of all the sports stories that took place last week, including the Tiger Stadium issue, Earnie (Harwell) and Paul (Carey) leaving the Tigers and the Lions (surprising start), the biggest story globally, by far, was the inclusion of the two indoor sites,'" Faulkner said Tuesday night. "They're talking about it all over the world and the more they talk about it, the more likely FIFA will pick us.

"It's been a long process with a lot of ups-and-downs, but since March there's been a lot of ups. We're into rhythm now. It's a question of just executing our plan."

SINCE ALL World Cup games must be played on a grass surface, the biggest question about using the Silverdome as a site was whether grass could grow indoors.

That question was answered in early August when a study proved grass could stay green for a three-week span inside the Superdome.

Jim Duggan, executive director of the Michigan World Cup Bid Committee, believes FIFA would like to have some of the games played indoors because "it would make the (U.S. World) Cup unique, one that would set it apart from others."

Duggan said the Bid Committee's goal is to raise $1.3 million in pledges before the end of the year to help convert the Silverdome and pay for Host Committee costs. So far, more than $400,000 has been raised, with Shamrock Ford, Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. pledging $100,000 each.

LOCAL YOUTH soccer clubs have combined to raise $100,000 in pledges, Duggan said.

If the Silverdome is selected as a site, Duggan said as much as $100 million would be pumped into the area's economy during the period games would be played.

"It's not the best of times to be asking corporations for money," said Duggan, "but the flip side of that is if you asked the state to pay $1 million and in return get $100 million in economic impact and millions more in worldwide television exposure, they'd say it's a good deal."

Rock runners triumph

Plymouth Salem stayed unbeaten and took a step closer to another division title in boys cross country Thursday.

The Rocks whipped Livonia Stevenson 21-39 at Cass Benton Park, improving to 4-0 in the Lakes Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association with one dual meet remaining. Salem is 5-0 overall.

Derek Cudini paced the Rocks, who had three of the top four runners and seven in the top 10, with a winning time of 17:04.

Salem teammates Steve Boudreau (17:25) and Jon Mickevicius (17:32) finished third and fourth, respectively. Jayson McDonald (17:52) and Matt Cifaldi (18:24) also figured in the team scoring, finishing sixth and seventh.

Jamie Miller (18:26) and Justin Richardson (18:38) assisted the cause by serving as blockers and pushing the Nos. 3 and 4 Stevenson runners farther back in the pack. Miller was eighth and Richardson 10th.

Matt Rowe was second (17:14), Scott Creehan fifth (17:33) and Mike Bencik (18:36) ninth for the Spartans.

Stevenson coach John Gores protested the meet, because Salem's seven varsity runners wore white uniforms and the remaining JV runners blue uniforms, according to Salem coach Geoff Baker. Both meets are run simultaneously.

Baker interpreted the state rule to mean all runners on either the varsity or JV teams must have like uniforms. Gores believed it meant all runners from the same school. Baker added the same situation existed last year without any protest from the Stevenson side.

The Rocks can clinch their third consecutive Lakes title with a victory Thursday at Walled Lake Central.

"Our times today were better," Baker said. "We are working through to the league and regional meets. We are going to be in the best shape we can be."

PLYMOUTH CANTON won its third straight dual in the Western Division of the WLAA, defeating Livonia Churchill 21-39 at Cass Benton Thursday.

The Chiefs are 3-1 in the division and 3-2 overall, Churchill 1-3 and 3-3.

Jeff Martus captured first place for the Chargers with a 17:12 time, but Canton filled the next four positions and all but won the meet.

Casey Moothart (17:23), Chris Burns (17:34), Dave Yack (17:41) and Tim Czerniawski (17:50) combined to score 14 points for the Chiefs, who clinched the victory when Paul Chudyk came in sixth (18:02).

Canton also put Shawn McNamara (18:08) and Dave Washenko (18:30) in the Nos. 8 and 10 positions.

The Chiefs end the dual season Thursday against defending WLAA champion and No. 3-ranked (Class A) Walled Lake Western at Cass Benton.

Chargers stun Canton

Livonia Churchill stunned perennial Western Division champ Plymouth Canton in girls cross country Thursday, winning 22-36 at Cass Benton Park.

The Chiefs, who have won their division in the Western Lakes Activities Association for the last five years, and Churchill are 3-1 in the Western.

Canton had the top runner in Lana Boroditsch (20:12) but only one other in the top eight.

Kris Brazin (20:57), Amy Jo Paszek (21:19) and Jennette Swartout (21:22) took the next three places for Churchill. The Chargers clinched the win with Melissa Johnson (22:00), Tracey Parker (22:13) and Stacey Rokicsak (22:16) taking the Nos. 6-8 places.

Also scoring for Canton were Anne Dibble, fifth (21:31); Laura McWilliams, ninth (22:23); and Kathleen Landelius, 10th (22:32).

Canton is 3-2 overall with a division dual meet remaining Thursday against Walled Lake Western at Cass. Churchill is 5-1 overall.

PLYMOUTH SALEM dropped to 1-3 in the Lakes Division of the WLAA and 2-3 overall Thursday after absorbing a 19-38 defeat from division leader Livonia Stevensyan at Cass Benton.

A.J. Koritnik paced the Spartans (4-0 and 5-0) with a first-place time of 19:29. Stacy Prais was second, (20:43); Bridget Mackinnon, third (20:45); Gail Grewe, fifth (20:59); and Kelly Prais, eighth (21:23).

Salem runners in the top 10 were Emily Farrell, fourth (20:51); Stacy Witthoff, sixth (21:04); Stacy Moore, seventh (21:08); and Kelly Morante, 10th (22:18).

Chiefs 4-0 in swimming

Plymouth Canton maintained its unbeaten dual-meet record in girls swimming Thursday with a 119-67 win over visiting Farmington Hills Harrison.

Jill Mellis and Katie McWhirter were individual double winners for the Chiefs, 4-0.

Mellis won the 200-yard individual medley (2:21.7) and the butterfly (1:03.6); McWhirter won the 200 and 500 freestyles with respective times of 2:08.98 and 5:45.13.

Mellis had four first places in all, helping Canton win the 200 medley and 400 freestyle relays.

Janet Roberts, Sara Larson, Mellis and Beth Berger went 2:09.91 in the former while Susan Pritchard, Jeni Cooper, Mellis and Roberts swam the latter in 3:58.02.

Berger and Cooper also were on the winning 200 freestyle relay team with April Billins and Julie Daoust. The Chiefs had a 1:49.9 time.

Pam Pritchard was an individual winner in the 100 freestyle (1:01.13), and Amy Kodrik's 219.15 points earned her first place in diving.

Hawks remain tennis champs

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Strength is in numbers, just ask coach Bernie Goldstein and his Farmington Harrison girls tennis team.

The Hawks, who reached at least the semifinal round in all seven flights, repeated Wednesday as Western Lakes Activities Association champs by edging host Livonia Stevenson by one point, 19-18. North Farmington and Walled Lake Central were a distant third with 11 points each in the two-day tourney, which start Tuesday. See statistical summary.

"Eight of our 10 girls are back from last year and I think we're getting a little better every year," said Goldstein, whose team won the coveted title for the fourth time since the 12-team league was formed. "Depth was a factor all the way across and it was just a matter of the luck of the draw, too."

It was no accident that Harrison won the crown.

The Hawks went through the WLAA dual meet season with an 11-0 record.

"Harrison has only two seniors and we have seven so we had hoped this would be our year," said Stevenson coach George Croll, whose team went 10-1 in the WLAA, losing 5-2 in a dual against Harrison. "Harrison is very good and there's no question they're the champs. My hat's off to them."

BECAUSE THE dual meet season and league meet are weighed equally (50-50) in the overall final standings, Stevenson had to win last week's tournament outright.

"Tying was not good enough to be co-champs," Croll said.

Harrison won only one flight, number 3 singles, where junior Lisa Tomle avenged a regular season defeat to Stevenson's Laura DiBasio, the top seed, 6-2, 6-1.

"It was a team effort, but Lisa's match was the deciding one," Goldstein said. "That was a key match. Going in we just tried to inspire her.

"We told her the whole tourney depended on her match. We pumped her up."

Harrison reached the finals in three other flights — Julie Heist, number 2 singles; Jill Barringer, number 3 singles, and Melissa Prendergast and Barb Utterback, number 3 doubles. All four are juniors.

The Hawks also picked up two points each at number 1 singles (Stephanie Schwalm), number 1 doubles (Kristi Cornwell and Jodie Whitehead) and number 2 doubles (Alisa Bambanek and Amy Tobe).

Stevenson, meanwhile, dominated the doubles bracket, capturing all three flights.

THIRD SEEDS Laura Perry and Cortney Richa, both seniors, won the No. 1 doubles with a 7-5, 6-4 win over Northville's upstart duo of Sandy Bosscher and Stacy Green.

Stevenson's number 2 doubles tandem, the Bailey sisters, lived up to their top seeding. Karen, a junior, and Lori, a senior, breezed to a 6-1, 6-1 win over unseeded Kelli Woodsum and Jodi Buttigieg, also of Northville.

Seniors Tanya Karlinger and Erin Phillips, Stevenson's top seeds at number 3 doubles, defeated Prendergast and Utterback, 6-3, 6-1, for the Spartans' third title.

"Stevenson has always been good in doubles," Goldstein said. "It's something George (Croll) emphasizes a little more than we do."

The other WLAA champions included Livonia Franklin's Tanya Berner (see related story) of Livonia Franklin at number 1 singles and Plymouth Canton's Ellen Gaston at number 4.

Gaston helped Canton to a fifth place finish in the team standings by defeating Barringer, 3-6, 6-3, 6-1, in the final.

Marlins upset Marian

By Dan O'Mears
staff writer

The real Farmington Hills Mercy basketball team was on the floor Thursday night, coach Larry Baker declared after the Marlins claimed their biggest win of the season.

It was neither the team that suffered an embarrassing loss two days earlier nor a collection of pretenders, he said after the Marlins toppled rival Birmingham Marian 45-43.

Laure DeMattia's basket with seven seconds left gave host Mercy the victory and a share of the Central Division lead in the Catholic League. Mercy, Marian and Harper Woods Regina are tied for first place at 3-1.

It was a remarkable comeback for seventh-ranked Mercy, which had lost 71-42 on Tuesday to Regina, which had previously been beaten by No. 5 Marian.

"It certainly goes into Mercy lore," Baker said. "Unfortunately, the tail-kicking we got at Regina is part of the story."

THE STRONG showing was more typical of a Mercy performance. In other games, the Marlins rallied to beat Western Lakes Activities Association powers Canton and Salem and nearly toppled No. 2 Saginaw.

"If you saw us earlier in close games, you know this was the mark of our team," Baker said. "This team finishes games real hard."

Sure, this was the Marian game; it was big and we got the monkey off our backs. But it was certainly representative of this team's season and not some kind of fluke or Cinderella thing."

The renewal of the Mercy-Marian rivalry had a more positive beginning than any meeting last season when the Marlins lost all four games.

"The nightmare of last year's games is that we became cautious and played not to lose," Baker said. "We certainly were not cautious tonight. I loved the way we finished the game."

Mercy (8-3) led from the middle of the first quarter until Stephanie Storen, who had a game-high 18 points, gave the Mustangs a 41-39 lead with a baseline jumper midway in the last period.

Kathleen Berrigan converted a Marian (9-2) turnover to tie. After an exchange of baskets, the Marlins missed a free throw and the ensuing putback with 1:10 remaining.

THE MUSTANGS had planned to take the last shot, but Mercy got the ball again on a turnover with 20 left. Marian guard Jennifer Jalaba tried to thread a pass through the lane to Storen, but Marshelle Brooks deflected it and Katie Heffernan scooped it up.

DeMattia, a senior center who led Mercy with 16 points, pivoted into the lane and dropped in a scooping left-handed layup.

"It's something we work on real hard in practice and she executed it," Baker said. "We were there at all positions (for other options), and I believe if we had missed, Mary Bieniewicz was open and would have scored."

The game ended with a short-lived controversy after Jalaba made a layup against a relaxed Mercy defense, but the officials ruled the horn had already sounded in the noisy gym.

"I couldn't hear the buzzer," Marian coach Mary Lillie-Ciccerone said. "You try for everything you can get. But we didn't do the job at that (defensive) end of the floor. I thought DeMattia traveled."

Forward Michele Coughlin added 12 points and center Tara Walsh nine for the Mustangs, who played without forward Judy Stuart, who suffered a broken arm earlier in the week.

"JUDY AVERAGES nine points, but it affects our chemistry and continuity. It's not there," Lillie-Ciccerone said. "If you had seen us play the last two games, it would have been a different team."

It was difficult for Lillie-Ciccerone to say if Stewart would have made a difference, but Mercy dominated the boards, 35-16. Bieniewicz, who got the Marlins started with her outside shooting in the first quarter and scored 12 points, had 13 rebounds and DeMattia 10.

"Mercy outhustled us and beat us," Lillie-Ciccerone said. "For the way we played, we stayed in the game but I don't know how. They got every loose ball."

Mercy's rebounding and rotation of rested defenders on Storen helped offset a three-quarter-court press and trapping defense that bothered the Marlins throughout the game. Mercy had 30 turnovers.

Baker alternated Valire Jones, Natalie Cichonski, Brooks and Zendre Simmons defensively against Storen, who had one second-half field goal and eight points on free throws.

"It was a great team effort," Baker said. "It was 32 minutes of down and dirty defense. We went out and won it. In fact, we almost gave it to them with our poor free throw shooting (missed three front ends) in the fourth quarter."

With DeMattia and Storen on the bench with two early fouls, Mercy jumped in front 16-7 in the first quarter and led 24-19 at halftime.

Storen tied it (29-29) in the third, but the Marlins scored the next eight points and led 38-31 at the end. Mercy went 5-04 without a field goal in the fourth period, and Marian made eight straight free throws (four by Storen) to tie again (39-39) with 4:42 to play.

ry with 12 points and seven rebounds.

Kelly Holmes and Christie Saffron added eight points apiece. Holmes also hauled in eight rebounds.

Small films attract large audiences

First-time directors Richard Linklater and Jennie Livingston wanted to set the record straight on two very different groups of people. In their respective films, "Slacker" and "Paris Is Burning," they provide insightful and humorous looks at characters on the fringes of society.

"You'd think that everyone in their 20s is striving for a BMW and trying to retire at 30," said Linklater, in town recently to publicize "Slacker," which screens this weekend at the Detroit Film Theatre. "The people I've filmed you don't see much in the movies."

Slackers, according to Linklater, are a new generation of young people, primarily centered around college campuses, that reject the values of the generation before them, but haven't come up with anything much better. The film could easily take place in Ann Arbor instead of Austin, Texas.

Linklater, 28, has never considered himself among the ranks, but has hung around Austin's thriving slacker scene enough to pick up on details for his film.

Narratively, Linklater has latched onto a clever gimmick. The story peeks into the lives of more than 100 people in 97 minutes. Just when you think one person's story will be completed, the camera veers off with a passerby, and then moves on to someone else.

NOT SURPRISINGLY, some scenes work better than others. One crazy woman tries to sell anyone who will listen to her a jar that she swears contains a Madonna Pap smear. Another runs over his mother, walks back into the house, then starts projecting home movies into a tiny cardboard shrine.

"There have been a lot of misconceptions about how this all came together," Linklater commented. "No part of the movie was the result of eavesdropping on conversations. I have a real good memory and sometimes never bothered to write situations down . . . a lot of the best stuff came from the actors."

Although some of his cast members are professional actors, Linklater has employed friends, family and members of Austin's art and music scene. With the success of the film, which has received major distribution from Orion Classics, Linklater is actually able to pay them for their efforts.

It took Jennie Livingston more than three years to film her documentary about the black and Latino gay men who compete in Harlem drag balls. The result, "Paris Is Burning," looks behind the closed doors of the Manhattan Elks Lodges where these events are staged.

The film has found an audience. Released by Prestige Pictures (a division of highly successful Miramax), this oddball documentary is playing locally at both the Star John R and the AMC Maple Theatres.

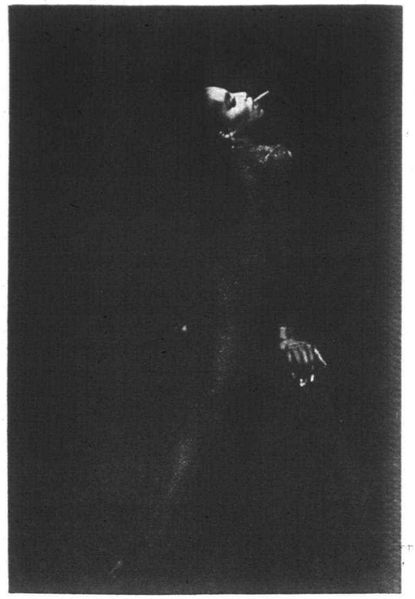
AMONG OTHER things, "Paris Is Burning" defines and demonstrates the proper art of Voguing, the dance that combines runway fashion modeling with acrobatics. Participants belong to houses, what they call "gay street gangs" where violence is replaced by competing at the ball.

For the participants, a ball is a way for a gay to fit into the straight world. Some dress like businessmen or street punks and are judged for reality, just like the men who want so desperately to appear like women. Venus Xtravaganza, a petite blonde transvestite, dreams of a sex change so she can be "a spoiled white rich girl."

And in many cases you will have trouble telling real women from simulated ones. At a shopping center fashion show, a transvestite mingles with the models. The straight world doesn't look with half the scrutiny of judges at the balls, where the slightest flaw can blow a model's chances of winning.

"Paris Is Burning" is full of desperation, hope and imagination. Some of the stories — with the threat of AIDS, homelessness, homophobia and random violence constantly overhead — don't always end up pretty. Fantasy becomes the key to happiness.

"The ball," as one participant notes, "is like crossing through the looking glass. It's Wonderland."



Octavia Saint Laurent demonstrates the proper art of Voguing, the dance that combines runway fashion modeling with acrobatics in Jennie Livingston's "Paris Is Burning."

"Slacker" (USA — 1990), 7 and 9:30 p.m. Oct. 18-19 and 5 and 7 p.m. Oct. 20. In the college town of Austin, Texas, the camera may follow one subject for awhile and then pick up on the life of a random passerby. Richard Linklater, in his feature debut, writes and directs with a cunning eye for detail.

HENRY FORD CENTENNIAL LIBRARY, 13671 Michigan Ave., Dearborn. Call 943-2330 for more information. (Free)

"Persona" (Sweden — 1965), 7 p.m. Oct. 14. A young nurse (Bibi Andersson) is given the responsibility of attending a famous actress (Liv Ullman) who has totally withdrawn from the world. As the two women spend the summer together, their personalities begin to switch. Directed by Ingmar Bergman.

"A Streetcar Named Desire" (USA — 1951), 10 a.m. Oct. 15. "Taxi Driver" (USA — 1976), 8 p.m. Oct. 15. New York cabbie Travis Bickle turns vigilante to clean the "scum off the streets." Director Martin Scorsese and writer Paul Schrader fashioned familiar "film noir" themes of alienation, violence and fate into a unique and startling film. With a knockout score by Bernard Herrmann. Concluding the "Twisted Film Series."

Finally, at 9:20 p.m., the best Robin of all, Eroll Flynn stars in the 1938 Warner Brothers actioner "The Adventures of Robin Hood," with colorful scenery and an outstanding score by Erich Wolfgang Korngold.

To prevent crime in Tucson, police use sensitive, highly sophisticated surveillance equipment: Tim, Rose, Gert, Anthony, Yvonne, and Ramon.

Citizen participation is critical to police effectiveness. Do you care about your neighborhood enough to help protect it?

The Case of The Tucson Tip-off.

In a particular neighborhood in Tucson, Arizona, folks were having a real problem with burglaries and break-ins.

They started talking to each other about what they could do. They got fed up. About 400 people went to the police for advice. They learned about surveillance. They got to know their beat officers. Citizens and police became partners in crime prevention.

In just three weeks, 17 arrests were made and burglaries went down 30%.

And Tucson is only one case where people successfully worked to beat crime.

The Civilians are evolving musically as is evident by their new release, "Detonate to Explode," a seven-song effort touching on all the universal themes of these times — love, money and loneliness.

Civilians make music as a team

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Can't smell any liniment. No crumbled balls of sticky athletic tape adorn the floor.

So why does this informal gathering of Civilian members seem like the Pittsburgh Steelers' before the gridiron equivalent of Armageddon?

Maybe it's Jim Hebler's proclamation that he's a "linebacker on acid" on stage. Or perhaps it's all the little buzz phrases and football analogies punted about . . . like "well-oiled machine" and "this is a team"

A team prayer could be in order, but judging by the one particular four-letter word constantly spewing from Hebler in his gleeful description of the band, Billy Graham won't be showing up.

"We're self-critical," said lead singer Hebler, hardly taking his eye off the cartoons on the TV in his living room. "You can't bulls--t yourself."

The Civilians have a new release out, "Detonate to Explode" on Mang Records. Seven songs here, touching on all the universal themes of these dire times — love, money and loneliness.

Sorry, but since post-game cliches are the M.O. here. The band comes to play and gives 110 percent.

More to the point, the Civilians are evolving musically. At least compared to their hastily put-together first release, "Living on the Edge," which could be classified as a pedestrian effort.

THE CIVILIANS further enhance their reputation as an outfit on the upward spiral, fastening the divergent rhythms of rock, funk and soul into a whirlwind mix of musical expression.

Lyrics scrape the depths of the subconscious and bring forth all its recipes of desperation, isolation and outright paranoia.

"We try to tackle human, people issues, things that affect everyone and look at things with a creative bend," said Hebler, a freelance writer. "We're a running talk radio show with a powerful band behind us."

The Civilian lineup has been through a process of addition and subtraction in their four years together. Along with Hebler, the band features bassist Sidi Henderson, guitarist Dave Galens, harmonica player Dino Petrucci and newly added drummer Tommy Berlin, who is from Dusseldorf, Germany.

Each member contributes, leading to the seemingly improvisational nature of the music.

"You're going to limit your appeal pop-wise," said guitarist Dave Galens, a former member of the local outfit Babylon Hotel. "But if you get a core audience who appreciate what you're doing . . . that's what it's all about."

In four years of existence, the Civilians have more than a smattering of followers at their beck and call. Passionate, driving live performances have earned the band a reputation as one of top local outfits.

THE BAND'S fortunes have been buoyed by high-profile gigs such as opening up for Eric Burdon at Hart Plaza and a showcase at CBGB's in New York. Also, keeping consistent with their politics, the Civilians are involved in the annual Old Newsboy Goodfellows Rock Benefit.

Behind the Civilians, though, is aggressive management. Mang Productions, more precisely Don MacLeod, is promoting the band with unfettered zeal. Unlike band managers who can be pushy and damn right rude, MacLeod is rather polite about it.

And, yes, securing a record deal is at the top of his agenda.

Things look promising. The Civilians have planned an extensive tour of the East Coast and Midwest and have European distribution in places like Poland and Czechoslovakia.

But all the business management and distribution isn't worth a rube unless there's a key ingredient involved. Hebler said that is already there.

"Whether you love us or hate us, you're going to react to us."

REVIEWS

THE THUNDERING HERD — THE BEST OF THE GOLDEN PALOMINOS — The Golden Palominos

The Golden Palominos are more a band of rotating top-notch musicians than a band — personnel tend to vary from cut to cut, with only founder and drummer Anton Fier omnipresent.

But the fact the band's sound varies from song to song is a plus, because, almost without exception, the songs — and, needless to say, the performances — are 24 karat.

While it many seem a bit premature for a band with only four albums under its belt to release a greatest hits package — and a double one at that — one must take into consideration the LPs came out over a period of nine years.

Add the fact that musicians include such artists of the highest caliber like REM's Michael Stipe, Fred Frith, Jody Harris, last of the Raybeats, one of the best surf bands of modern times, Top-popster Chris Stamey, Jack Bruce, T-Bone Burnett and Peter Blegvad.

And the thing is, the list goes on and on. Carla Bley adds her eclectic jazziness, while Syd Straw's vocals are nothing short of incredible, whatever the genre the band happens to be playing in at the time.

Straw is the most visible member of the band, appearing on more cuts than anyone but Fier.

In my mind, the group is at its best when it falls into the pop mode which is, thankfully, where they're most often found.

Stipe's hard-hitting vocals open the double retrospective on "Clustering Train," one of the hardest-rocking cuts on the release. Other highlights include an incredible version of the Moby Grape classic, "Omaha," "Strong, Simple and Silent," with Burnette on lead vocals, "Faithless Heart," which was co-written by Don Dixon, who adds lead vocals and some guitar.

But the highlight of "Thundering Herd" is "Diamond," written by exdB Peter Holsapple, who writes the best hooks in pop'n'roll . . . Straw's vocal is magnificent, while the blend of Harris and Blegvad's makes the song soar, but in the end, it's Holsapple's melodic sense and lyrics that are irresistible.

The release may be eclectic, and while it's very likely everything here isn't for every taste, I think it's fair to say most will come away more than satisfied.

— Steve O'Leary

Indian cuisine hot trend

Frequently, I get asked, "What's the hottest food trend to hit the metropolitan area?" Last year, it was Thai and Vietnamese cuisine. The year before that, Tex-Mex and Dim Sum were the hot properties. So what's the latest rage coming into 1992? Indian cuisine!

The basic art of Indian cuisine lies in the careful blending of different spices to yield subtle variations in flavors. Curries form the maintstay of the Indian cuisine.

A curry is basically a casserole of fish, shellfish, poultry or vegetables cooked in a sauce, the flavor of which is created by the combination of flavors of the spices added during the cooking.

The origin of curries can be traced back many centuries. When there was no means of keeping perishable foods fresh, meat, fish and poultry rapidly acquired an unpleasant taint in the hot, humid Indian climate. Spices were added to disguise the distasteful flavor of the main ingredient.

Generally the hotter the local climate, the greater problem of food preservation, and the hotter the curry.

BEFORE WE go any further, if you don't already know, there is no one spice called curry. It is a blend of various ingredients that together form the flavor of "curry" as we northerners know it today.

Regional differences in religion, culture and local produce have also influenced eating habits, yielding an intriguing diversity of exotic, tasty dishes.

The hottest curries come from southern India. Most of the inhabitants of this part of the country are Hindus, who never eat beef but sometimes eat other meat and fish. Vegetable dishes often form the main course of their meals and many of the spicy vegetable curries and recipes for stuffed aubergines and samosas originate from this region.

Traditionally, the cooler north is associated with colder curries. The Muslim community is found mainly in the north and also around Bombay. Muslims will generally eat beef and lamb but never pork. Meat dishes such as keema pimento, kofta curry, seekh kababs, and roghan gosht orignally came from northern India.

WHEN SERVING an Indian meal, aim to select a variety of dishes that complement each other in texture and flavor. Samosas and prawn puffs may be served as appetizers. Main course dishes should be served with a selection of sambals or side dishes.

For entertaining, choose several main-course dishes based on a variety of main ingredients, and with different amounts and combinations of spices. Freshly cooked chappatis, purris and pappadoms are delicious accompaniments.

Complete the meal with a refreshingly cool finale such as gulab jamon or jelabis. The creams and cardamoms used in desserts and in some main courses actually have a cooling effect on the sometimes incendiary flavor of the curry.

Most curry bought in stores and spice racks tend to lack the true complimentary flavors of both intense heat and sweetness.

SHOULD YOU want to make a curry that brings tears, increase the amount of chili pepper seeds. For a sweeter flavor, the addition of coriander or garma masala (found in most import spice stores) will surely improve the brew.

Cream and plain yogurt are frequently used in major curry dishes, not just to counteract the intensity of the heat from the curry but to add a subtle sweetness as well as thickness.

Let's talk tailgating

Planning a pregame parking lot party

By Jennifer Hill
special writer

SATURDAY IS Sweetest Day, but if your honey's idea of togetherness is going to a football game, don't cry foul — get in the spirit with a tailgate picnic.

Romance will be in the air Saturday as Michigan State University and the University of Michigan celebrate their homecomings.

Visiting alumni will stroll down memory lane, reminiscing about college days and attend special events like the Spartan Spectacular, 7:30 p.m., Oct. 19 at the Breslin Student Events Center (call 1-800-968-BRES for information) and the "Go Blue" brunch at the University of Michigan Ann Arbor (call 763-9738 for information).

HELEN DYKE, of Farmington Hills, president of the Oakland County Alumni Club, doesn't wait for homecoming to reminisce. Every weekend, they tailgate with eight couples, all of them college roommates, who stuck together.

"It's fun to tailgate, it's part of our routine," said Dyke. "We all bring a different dish. It's like a buffet. Someone brings a meat dish, salad, the wine, dessert, etc. We have a table that's covered with cloth, sometimes we even have flowers."

To make it a truly Spartan event, Dyke said they go to the Michigan State University dairy store on campus, which is open Saturdays, and buy cheese and ice cream that's made by students. Occasionally, the Michigan State Alumni band will surprise the tailgaters, adding to the festive atmosphere.

When the game is over, Dyke and her friends "hit the bookstores" and munch on leftovers while waiting for the traffic to clear.

THE HUSBANDS in Jeanette Schumacher's U. of M. tailgate group, buy the women mum corsages for the homecoming game. This year, because it's homecoming, and Sweetest Day, the men are going the whole nine yards — corsages with yellow baby sweetheart roses and blue ribbons.

"For the last eight years, we've been tailgating with a group of 14, that grows to 20 or 26," said Schumacher of Westland, who is director of alumni relations at the University of Michigan-Dearborn.

"For homecoming, we are making stuffed turkeys. We'll bring them to the picnic hot, someone will bring a potato dish, vegetable, dessert, etc. After the game, we'll have turkey sandwiches."

Schumacher's group often does themed tailgate picnics — lasagna for an Italian tailgate, stuffed cabbage for Polish, bratwurst for German.

"WE ALWAYS have one tailgate party with stone soup. Someone brings a pot of beef or chicken stock, everyone brings something to add to the broth to make it soup like different kinds of vegetables," said Schumacher.

A tailgate picnic can be as elegant or simple as you want it to be. Mary Jo LaBeau tailgated at U-M when her husband, Ray, attended night school to earn a degree in business administration.

"We had a van with a refrigerator," said LaBeau. "It's crazy, everyone has school flags on their cars. A lot of people bring little barbecues and cook out."

Tailgate pros recommend submarine sandwiches, carryout chicken, or salads like Giardiniera, an Italian-style vegetable salad available at grocery stores. For a simple tailgate, fill a wicker basket with fruit, cheese, a crusty loaf of French bread, and nice bottle of wine.

Everything should be ready to pack the morning of the game. Cider can be mulled with cinnamon sticks, cloves and lemon zest with a touch of brown sugar and poured in a thermos just before leaving.

No matter what you are serving, whether it is simple fare or elaborate, presentation is what makes tailgate picnics special.

NO MATTER what you are serving, whether it is simple fare or elaborate, presentation is what makes tailgate picnics special. Colored leaves, gourds and pumpkins on a white table cloth add fall flair to any picnic.

Some vegetables make perfect serving dishes. Mini pumpkins, seeded and prebaked for 20 minutes at 350 degrees, are wonderful bowls to serve soups or salads in.

Stuff hollowed tomatoes or green peppers, cut in half and seeded with a salad you make, or buy from a gourmet take-out shop like the Market Place at J.L. Hudson's, Merchant of Vino in Birmingham and Troy, or Joe's Italian Bakery & Deli in Livonia.

Tie ribbons in your team's colors around napkins. Use a tablecloth in your team's color, with paper plates to match — maize tablecloth and blue plates for U. of M. fans, green tablecloth and white paper plates for MSU fans. Carnations and candles in team colors complete the setting.

Planning to surprise your sweetie with a gift? If her colors are U-M's blue and gold, she'll love jewelry with blue sapphires and diamonds. If she's an MSU alumna, green emeralds and diamonds will be treasured. Wrap gifts in team colors.

Delivering baskets of sweet treats is his Specialty!

By Keely Wygonik
staff writer

It sounds old fashioned, but according to Al Glasby of bakery baskets by Specialty!, the quickest way to a man's heart is through his stomach.

Glasby, an Ortonville resident, started Specialty! after receiving flowers from his wife at work.

"I was pleased she thought of me, but it was weird. I got teased," he said.

After thinking about it for a while, Glasby said he realized there were a lot of women looking for something special to send to men and businesses looking for ways to thank clients.

A music major at Wayne State University and father of three, Glasby, 30, said he was looking for something he could do part-time.

His goal is to be an instrumental music teacher. He also plays electric bass and has been in a lot of bands.

"I come up with so many ideas my wife, Kim, doesn't want to hear about them anymore," he said.

Al Glasby delivers sweet treats with a message.

JIM RIDER staff photographer

Kim listened to this idea and even agreed to take phone orders. Specialty!, founded in February 1991 on Valentine's Day, has been bringing smiles to people ever since.

EACH WICKER basket is filled with an assortment of goodies — a small cake with a personalized message, double-size brownies, king-sized muffins, big chocolate chip and peanut butter cookies that are baked fresh daily at Hershel's Deli & Hot Bakery in Troy.

"The small message on the cake makes it personal, but a man can share the basket with his co-workers, and not be embarrassed. I dress the cakes up for all occasions — Sweetest Day, Mother's Day, Father's Day and Birthdays. We've sent a lot of baskets to colleges during final exam week."

One of the more unusual messages requested for a cake was — "I love you signed your moose face." Glasby said some women have sent baskets to their husbands to let them know they're going to be a father.

Tim Cripsey, who lives in Rochester and works in Farmington Hills, received a basket from his fiancee.

"It was a good idea, I certainly liked it. I enjoyed the basket," said Cripsey.

BASKETS ARE hand delivered in the morning anywhere within 200 miles of Troy. Cost ranges from $29.95 for a minibasket consisting of a cake, one brownie, one muffin and two cookies, to $94.99 for a large basket. The regular basket with a cake, two brownies, two muffins, cinnamon bun, two chocolate chip cookies, three peanut butter cookies, and an assortment of other cookies costs $39.95.

Prices include delivery and special requests can be accommodated. To place an order call 1-800-822-5683, which translates to 1-800-822-LOVE, anytime.

Glasby said business has been good, and he's been getting repeat orders. "We've been really busy, especially the last couple of weeks," said Kim.

"When you deliver a basket and see their face and how happy they are, it makes you happy," added Glasby.

HUDSON VALLEY APPLE CRUMB BARS

(From: John Hadamuscin's "Special Occasions: Holiday Entertaining All Year Round."
Crust
⅔ cup (1⅓ sticks) butter
1 3-ounce package cream cheese, softened
¼ cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
1 large egg
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
2 cups all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon salt
Filling
½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
¼ teaspoon grated nutmeg
8 cups thinly sliced tart baked apples
Topping
1 cup all-purpose flour
¾ cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
1 tablespoon ground cinnamon
⅓ cup (1 Stick) cold butter

1. Preheat the oven to 375 degrees. Lightly grease a jelly roll pan (approximately 10½ x 15 inches).

2. For the crust, cream the butter, cream cheese, and brown sugar together in a mixing bowl, then beat in the egg and the vanilla. Stir in the flour and salt until just blended in. Using your fingers, press the dough into the pan in an even layer.

3. For the filling, mix the sugar, flour, and spices in a small bowl and toss this mixture with the apples. Arrange the apples in an even layer over the dough.

4. For the toping, combine the flour, brown sugar, and cinnamon in a small mixing bowl. Cut in the butter until coarse crumbs are formed. Sprinkle the crumbs evenly over the apples.

5. Place the pan in the oven and bake for about 40 minutes, or until the apples are tender and the topping is nicely browned. Cool in the pan on a wire rack and cut into 2-inch square bars.

Makes about 3 dozen.

SAVORY ITALIAN PIE CRUST:
2 large eggs, lightly beaten
3 tablespoons milk
2¾ cups all-purpose flour
1 cup cold butter or margarine
¼ teaspoon salt
Filling:
2 medium leeks, thinly sliced
2 medium onions, thinly sliced
Olive oil for sauteing
1-10 ounce package frozen chopped spinach, thawed, squeeze off excess liquid
¼ cup Parmesan cheese
1 cup Ricotta
1 cup shredded Mozzarella cheese
1 egg, lightly beaten
6 ounces ham, coarsely chopped
6 ounces salami, coarsely chopped
⅓ cup Sundried Tomato Pesto
1 egg, lightly beaten
For the crust:

Combine eggs and milk. Set aside. In a large mixing bowl, combine flour, salt and butter. Cut in butter 'til mixture resembles coarse meal. Add egg mixture, mix with a spoon just until dough begins to gether into a ball. Wrap the dough in plastic wrap and refrigerate one hour.
For the filling:

In a skillet saute leeks and onions in about 2 tablespoons hot olive oil until tender. Set aside. In a mixing bowl stir together Ricotta, Parmesan cheese, Mozzarella and egg. Stir in spinach. Assemble:

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Roll out two-thirds of the dough into a 12-inch circle on a well-floured surface. Place dough in a 9½ inch springform pan (the dough will go about 2 inches up the sides). Line the bottom of the crust with onion mixture. Layer with pesto, ham, cheese mixture, then salami.

Roll out remaining dough and place it on top of the pie. Crimp edges of top and bottom crust to seal. Make a few slits in the top to let steam escape while baking. Brush the remaining egg over the top of the pie with a pastry brush. Bake in oven until golden brown, about 50 minutes. Let cool 10 to 15 minutes. Remove sides of pan.

To serve for tailgate picnic, wrap room temperature pie, in foil and place in refrigerator overnight. Before leaving for the game, place wrapped pie in 350 degree oven for 1 hour. Wrap foil package in a heavy towel to transport.

Makes 10-12 servings.

SUN-DRIED TOMATO PESTO

2 teaspoons dried basil
3 ounces sun-dried tomatoes in oil, drained, reserving 2 tablespoons of the oil
1 garlic clove, minced
¼ cup Parmesan cheese
2 tablespoons coarsely chopped walnuts
Salt and pepper

In a food processor, puree all ingredients, except salt and pepper, until the mixture is smooth. Add salt and pepper to taste.

Makes ½ cup.

Chili champ faces world cookoff

tidbits
Keely Wygonik

Wish Paul Huyck of Farmington Hills good luck. The winner of the 13th Annual Michigan Chili Cookoff is headed for the World Cookoff to be held Sunday, Oct. 20 at the abandoned Tropico Gold Mine in California's Mojave Desert.

"I've been working every weekend to get ready for it," said Huyck. "There will be 86 cooks from around the world competing, some from as far away as Australia and Europe. No one from Michigan has ever placed in the top five. I'm going to try to place in the top five, and hopefully, win."

The Winner Dinner recipe ran a little long in last week's paper, and Bella Makarenko's recipe for fruit compote was cut. Here it is:

FRUIT COMPOTE

Cut into slices whatever fruit you have on hand: apples, plums, peaches, frozen raspberries, etc.

Place the fruit in a sauce pan and add ⅔ cup water. Sprinkle enough sugar to taste and simmer on low heat, stirring frequently, until the fruit is tender and the water has cooked down.

Looking for a good raspberry patch close to home? Shirley Downs of Garden City said the picking is good at Burt's Berry Patch, at Hannan and Pennsylvania in the southwest corner of Romulus. Call 941-1037 for more information.

What do you do with green tomatoes? Phyllis Marks of Farmington Hills wants to know. She has about six tomato plants, and about 25 green tomatoes. We called home economist Lois Thieleke home economist for the Cooperative Extension Service in Oakland County.

Thieleke said tomatoes don't ripen in the sunlight. To ripen green tomatoes, wrap them in tissue or paper towel and put them in the basement on a cookie sheet. Be patient, it takes awhile for them to ripen. You could have some as late as Thanksgiving.

For those who can't wait, green tomatoes are delicious fried with onions, or in relish. Piccalilli is a sweet/sour relish made with green tomatoes that tastes great on hot dogs, sausage, and burgers.

PICCALILLI
4 quarts green tomatoes, (about 32 medium) peeled, chopped and cored
2 quarts chopped cabbage (1 large head)
2 cups chopped green pepper (about 4 small)
1 cup chopped onion (1 medium)
1½ cups brown sugar
k ½ cup salt
2 tablespoons mustard seed
1 tablespoon celery seed
1 tablespoon horseradish
4½ cups cider vinegar

Sprinkle salt over vegetables, mix thoroughly and let stand 3 to 4 hours on the kitchen counter. Drain thoroughly, squeeze to remove excess liquid. In a large Dutch oven or soup pot add sugar, spices and horseradish to vinegar simmer 15 minutes. Add vegetables bring to a boil and pack into hot jars. Leave ¼-inch headspace. Adjust caps, process 10 minutes in a boiling water bath.

Yields about 7 pints.

Fascination with inconsistency leads to excellence

focus on wine
Eleanor and Ray Heald

Once grapes are harvested, winemakers may choose one of two directions in producing wine. They can force their will on the grapes, the sledgehammer theory of winemaking, or they can work with the specific, regional vineyard site and complement the grapes with their craft to make a wine with bright, expressive fruit.

Personally, we prefer wines made under the latter regime. So does ophthalmologist turned vinter Robert Sinskey. His preference is reflected in the wines of Robert Sinskey Vineyards.

Sinskey contends that he has always been fascinated with wine growing. In the past, he has been perplexed by the inconsistent quality of California pinot noir. To enter the solution side of his bewilderment, he became a partner in Acacia Winery in 1980.

He quickly learned that good pinot noir could be grown in California if it was planted in the proper location, such as the Los Caneros region.

In 1983 Sinskey purchased property in Carneros and planted pinot noir, merlot and chardonnay — varietals appropriately suited to the region.

In 1988 winery construction on the Napa property was completed. Five acres of the winery site are planted to cabernet sauvignon, cabernet franc and merlot.

Today, the winery produces pinot noir, merlot, chardonnay and the new, first release 1988 Robert Sinskey Vineyards Carneros Claret. In very limited quantity, it is a Bordeau-style blend consisting of 59 percent merlot, 22 percent cabernet sauvignon and 19 percent cabernet franc.

Sinskey continues his medical practice in Santa Monica, Calif., while son Rob manages the winery. Winemaking is in the capable hands of Acacia's former winemaker Joe Cafaro.

"The winery plan is to make two Estate Proprietary wines from two appellations," Rob said. "In the 1988 harvest, we crushed merlot from our original Carneros parcel. Additionally, we sourced merlot, cabernet sauvignon and cabernet franc from Tony Truchard's renowned Los Carneros vineyard. These wines were blended to produce the winery's proprietary blend 'Carneros Claret.'

"Within the next few years, we will follow up with a counterpoise proprietary wine from the Stags Leap District," said Rob. "It will be a cabernet sauvignon-based wine blended with cabernet franc and merlot.

"We are producing Bordeaux-style blends, but it is not our intention to imitate the French. WE remain inspired by them, but our winemaking practice will always focus on showcasing the California origin of the fruit."

Rob contends that his father's passion remains pinot noir. "For him, it is the Holy Grail," he said. "Pinot noir is a fickle wine variety. It reflects both the vineyard and the slightest winery manipulation."

Robert Sinskey Vineyards produces a small quantity of chardonnay. "We make it the way we like it, not the way the market dictates," said Rob. "We structure the wine to be food complementary."

Additionally, chardonnay, merlot and pinot noir are produced under the Aries label. "We do this for two reasons," said Rob. "First, we want to provide consumers with a good-value wine. Second, we can maintain the highest standards for our primary and reserve wines."

Aries wines are made from young wines, experimental lots or wines that don't fit into the stylistic elements of the primary Robert Sinskey Vineyards label.

WINE SELECTIONS OF THE WEEK

Ariers Carneros Chardonnay, ($10) it's loaded with tropical fruit flavors and integrated oak. Full, luscious and smooth, it's a dynamite mouthful.

Robert Sinskey Vineyards Carneros Chardonnay, (17.50) is a contrast to its little brother, the Aries Chardonnay. Finessful and elegant, it is designed for food and further aging.

1989 Aries Carneros Pinot Noir, ($10) produced by Robert Sinskey Vineyards showcases delicious dark cherry fruit and a peppery finish

1988 Robert Sinskey Vineyards Carneros Pinot Noir, ($18) will make believers out of any who still think California can't produce a world-class pinot. The wine has depthful, rich black cherry aromas that are mirrored on the palate with the addition of toasty, spicy nuances.

WINE BULLETIN BOARD

The Red Wagon Wine shop will hold its annual fall tasting of 50 wines at Birmingham's Townsend Hotel, 7-9 p.m. Monday, Oct. 21. Cost is $20 in advance (435-0719) or $24 at the door.

At 6:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 24, Anthony Bell, vice president and general manager of Napa Valley's Beaulieu Vineyard, will present nine wines with a multi-course meal at the Golden Mushroom Restaurant. Cost $90 per person, call 559-4230.

On Tuesday, Oct. 29, at Pike Street Restaurant in downtown Pontiac, nine of Bordeaux's premier producers will conduct a tasting of 30 wines from the 1988 and 1989 vintages. Taffy pull kitchen witch

Gundella

You are tired of television and rented movies. It's cold outdoors. You would like to invite a few friends over, but then what?

You've already hosted a "Create your own pizza" party. Your crowd isn't into card playing, and your house is too small for dancing.

Besides all that, money is tight right now, and whatever you do, it has to be cheap.

Well, why not have an old-fashioned taffy pull? Corny, you say. Don't you believe it.

Nearly everyone has heard of taffy pulls, but very few people today have actually attended one. That's too bad, because they really can be lots of fun for people of all ages.

A taffy pull is a great idea for a family activity some night, or for a Cub Scout or Brownie troop meeting. But a mixed party of teens, or even adults, can also enjoy the fun and novelty of doing something a little out of the ordinary.

A lot of flirting and getting better acquainted has taken place at taffy pulls.

In addition to the ingredients you will need for making the candy, you will also need: butter or margarine enough to keep all hands well greased; buttered plates on which to cool the taffy; kitchen shears to cut the taffy after it is pulled; waxed paper for wrapping it (plastic wrap or aluminum foil won't work as well). A candy thermometer is also helpful, but not necessary. Beginners often enjoy testing the candy for doneness by dropping it into cold water.

I have found that it works best to have one person in charge of the actual cooking of the candy mixture until it is ready to be pulled. From there on, it is best to work in pairs. You may choose, appoint, or draw for partners.

Each couple must pull their share of the candy. It must be pulled and stretched, and pulled some more. Pull, pull, pull, until it is light and creamy in color, and firm enough to hold its shape. The more it is pulled, the lighter and better it will be.

When it is ready, the candy should be stretched into a long rope, twisted slightly, and cut with scissors into bite-size pieces.

Wrap each piece separately in a small square of waxed paper, twisting the paper together at each end. Everybody will have something good to take home.

It might also be fun to make some for Christmas gifts, or to sell at the school bake sale or church bazaar.

Warning: Don't ever try to make taffy with just one or two people. The more working it the better.

PULLED TAFFY

2 cups sugar
¾ cups white Karo syrup
1 tablespoon vinegar
2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 pinch of baking soda

Boil the first four ingredients together until a few drops drizzled into a bowl of ice water form a hard ball (or until it reaches 270 degrees fahrenheit on a candy thermometer).

Do not overcook.

Remove from heat, and add soda and vanilla.

Pour onto buttered plates, and stir with a fork until it is cool enough to handle. (Note: when it is first removed from the stove, the candy mixture is very hot, and extreme care should be taken so no one gets burned.)

Butter your hands well, and when it is cool enough to handle, begin pulling. Pull and pull, and pull.

When the candy holds its shape, and is creamy in color, stretch it out, twist it slightly, and cut it into bite-sized pieces.

This recipe can be divided, and different colorings and flavor oils (not extracts), can be added at the time you add the soda and vanilla.

MOLASSES TAFFY

1 cup molasses
2 tablespoons vinegar
¾ cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon soda
2 tablespoons butter
½ teaspoon salt

Boil molasses, vinegar, and sugar to 270 degrees fahrenheit, or until a hard ball forms when you drizzle a few drops into cold water.

Remove from heat, and add butter, soda, and salt. Blend mixture well, and cool on buttered plates. When it is cool enough to handle, butter your hands and pull until firm and light colored. Cut and wrap candy pieces.

You may find that you might have to experiment a little with the first batch or so, to get the right color, flavor, and consistency. But in no time at all, your group will become accomplished taffy-pullers.

Snacking is in for those who'd like to be thin

The good news is out. Snacking is in, especially for those on a diet or simply watching their weight.

Many dietitians, in fact, are now recommending eating three to six times daily. Healthy snacking between meals is a way to prevent overeating. And, when traditional meals lose out to busy schedules, sensible snacks can provide energy and nutrients.

The trick to smart snacking is to steer clear of excess fats and sugar and to seek out good tasting foods rich in complex carbohydrates. Nutritious snacks planned ahead and readily available in quantity, like pre-cut vegetables or ready-to-eat cereals, can help prevent grabbing high calories goodies on the run.

Easy, quick and delicious, Cinnamon Crunch Snack Mix combines brown sugar, orange juice, cinnamon and raisins with puffed wheat or rice cereal for a truly unique snack that's also a great choice for kids.

Tex Mex Nibbles combines cumin, chili powder and garlic salt with puffed wheat or rice cereal for a flavorful snack choice. This zesty mix is a sensible substitute for higher-fat nacho-flavored tortilla chips. One serving of tortilla chips (about 1 ounce) provides a helfty 140 calories compared to one cup of this south-of-the-border snack for only 40 calories. For a delicious twist, sprinkle Tex Mex Nibbles over salads instead of croutons.

To save time, each snack mix can be prepared in the microwave in less than 5 minutes. Once the snack mix is made, it can be stored in an airtight container or packed in individual resealable bags or containers for snacking later.

CINNAMON CRUNCH SNACK MIX

2 tablespoons diet margarine
2 tablespoons firmly packed brown sugar
1 tablespoon frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed
1-½ teaspoons ground cinnamon
6 cups puffed wheat or puffed rice cereal
⅓ cups raisins

Add margaine to large microwaveable bowl. Microwave at High 20 to 30 seconds or until melted. Stir in brown sugar, orange juice concentrate and cinnamon; mix well. Add cereal, stirring until evenly coated. Microwave at high 1 minute 30 seconds; stir. Microwave an additional 1 minute to 1 minute 30 seconds or until cereal no longer appears wet. While warm, stir in raisins. Serve warm or let cool. Store tightly covered.

Conventional Oven Directions: Melt margarine in 13 x 9-inch pan in preheated 250 degree F. oven. Stir in brown sugar, orange juice concentrate and cinnamon; mix well. Stir in cereal. Bake 20 minutes, stirring once after 10 minutes. Stir in raisins. Serving: 6 cups.

1 tablespoon chili powder
1 teaspoon ground cumin
½ teaspoon garlic salt
2 teaspoons lemon juice
6 cups puffed wheat or puffed rice cereal

Add margarine to large microwaveable bowl. Microwave at High 20 to 30 seconds or until melted. Stir in chili powder, cumin, garlic salt and lemon juice; mix well. Add cereal, stirring until evenly coated. Microwave at High 1 minute 30 seconds; stir. Microwave an additional 1 minute to 1 minute 30 seconds, or until cereal no longer appears wet. If desired, sprinkle with salt. Serve warm or let cool. Store tightly covered.

Handle seafood with care

Lois Thieleke
home economist, Cooperative Extension Service

Seafood: nutritious, wholesome, tender, easy to prepare and digest. The increased emphasis on healthier lifestyle and eating habits, has made seafood even more popular. With this increase, safe handling practices are a "must" to help prevent any food borne illness relating to fish.

Ben Franklin once said, "fish and house guests begin to smell after three days," but he should have said fish should not be kept unfrozen more than two days for safety reasons. (You decide about the house guests!)

To tell if a fish is fresh, look into it's eyes. The eyes should be clear and bulge a little. Only a few fish, such as walleye pike have naturally cloudy eyes. Look for firm and shiny flesh. If you press the fish with a finger and there is no indentations it's not fresh. Dull flesh may also mean the fish is old. As a last resort ask to have it rinsed under cold water and then smell it. Fresh fish should not have a fishy or ammonia smell.

The shells of fresh hard clams, mussels or oysters should be closed or should close when their shells are tapped. The necks of steamed clams should twitch when their shells are also tapped. Crabs should move when touched and lobsters tails should curl under their bodies when picked up. Store live oysters, clams and mussels in the refrigerator. Keep damp by covering with a clean damp cloth or moist paper towels. Do not place on ice or allow fresh water to come in contact with them and never place in an airtight container because it will kill them.

It is very important to refrigerate fish at home as soon as possible. Store at 32 to 37 degrees. If you intend to keep fish more than two days, freeze it immediately. Wrap lightly in plastic and then aluminum foil before freezing. Plan to use the frozen fish as soon as possible for best quality. Always thaw frozen fish and seafood in the refrigerator.

When buying frozen fish, select packages that are not torn or crushed on the edges. Do not buy packages that are above the frost line in the stores freezer. If the package has a see thru cover look for signs of frost or ice crystals.

The crystals could mean that the fish has either been stored for a long period or thawed and refrozen. Do not choose packages that have white or dark spots, discloration or fading of the flesh of the fish.

Don't buy cooked seafood such as shrimp, crabs or smoked fish if displayed in the same case as raw fish. They could become good candidates for cross-contamination and make you ill. It is estimated that half of all seafood problems could be eliminated by better handling and preparation at home, restaurants or other food service places. Always practice good sanitation when handling fish or any food product.

People that are following a low cholesterol diet should be aware that certain varities of shellfish are higher in cholesterol. Someone on a low cholesterol diet could have an occasional serving of boiled shrimp (with about 165 mg. of cholesterol per three ounce serving) if the rest of the days menus were planned to be low i-

Seafood is generally low in fat and a source of Omega3 fatty acid. This is the kind of polyunsaturated fatty acid that is thought to have a beneficial effect on the reduction of the trigycleride levels and possibly cholesterol levels in the blood. Seafood that is more strongly flavored, salmon, halibut and sardines have higher amounts of Omega3 fatty acids than the milder sole, ocean pearch or haddock. Scientist are still investigating all of these claims.

Use the "10-Minute Rule" when cooking finfish to perfect doneness and best flavor. Cook fish 10 minutes per inch of thickness when measured at the thickest spot. That means a one-half inch fillet will be done in five minutes. This rule does not apply to microwaving. When microwaving, cover the fish and cook on high for three minutes per pound. Rotate the dish and remove the fish when the edges are firm and opaque, and center is slightly translucent. Sufficient cooking is very important when it comes to seafood safety. Fish is done when it is no longer translucent and when it flakes easily with a fork.

People who eat sport-caught fish should check specific fish advisory listings and recommended methods of preparation printed in the Michigan Fishing Guide. Contact Michigan Department of Public Health toll free at 1-800-648-6942 for the Fish Advisory Guide.

Your financial sector is looking much better, and you will be able to plan for future ventures. Check investment options carefully.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19)
A tasteless comment could cause big problems with loved ones, especially a mate. Laughing at your own mistakes is important.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)
Friends and family think you are wonderful and want to prove it to you. Accept their kindness and reciprocate whenever possible.

Camp's in session: 'Dynasty' returns to ABC

Evans and Collins duke it out once more

By Steven Ala McGaw

Susan Sontag wrote her seminal essay "Notes on Camp" many years prior to the advent of ABC's "Dynasty." Prime-time television, however, has offered few series or specials that better exemplify that distinctive style than the high-gloss, high-dudgeon, high-wind adventures of the Carrington clan and its associates.

Now, two years after its cancellation as a series, "Dynasty" returns in a four-hour miniseries airing Sunday, Oct. 20, and Tuesday, Oct. 22, on ABC. John Forsythe is back as Blake, the suave patriarch of the Carringtons. Linda Evans reprises her role as Krystle, while Joan Collins stomps and snarls once more as venomous Alexis, Blake's first wife. John James and Emma Samms return as Jeff and Fallon. Steven Carrington will be portrayed by the actor who created the role, Al Corley (Jack Coleman played the part in later years), and newcomer Robin Sachs plays Adam, a character originated by actor Gordon Thomson.

When "Dynasty" left the air after nine seasons, viewers were left hanging. Could Blake's empire weather a constant barrage of threats, frequently from Alexis? Could love, for anyone, at anytime, survive the continual tumult? Worst of all, when last seen, Krystle was in a coma. There were, clearly, questions to be answered.

Appearing before reporters last July, the "Dynasty" folks (including creators Esther Shapiro and Aaron Spelling) made it clear those questions will not be so much answered as abandoned. Evans described Krystle's unseen, but complete, recovery from the coma as "a miracle." Fallon's infamous abduction by aliens will go unmentioned, as will the fact that Steven looks, well, like his old self again. (The Corley-to-Coleman change was originally explained by a disfiguring accident in Indonesia.)

"Dynasty: The Miniseries" aims simply to offer a second helping of the high-dollar histrionics and matchless glitz that made the original a Wednesday-night staple for millions of viewers. Designer Nolan Miller spoke at length of the many costume changes. Spelling recalled 91 shooting locations, and newcomer Jeroen Krabbe was touted highly as Collins' love interest in the show.

And what would a trip to "Dynasty"-land be without a fight between Krystle and Alexis? Evans said this one has a cat fight royal. "They gave her (Collins) all the great dialogue, and I got all the good punches," the actress reported gleefully.

Summarizing their efforts, Shapiro said the show was designed to be lighthearted and fun. She also maintained the show "should be available to a person who's never seen 'Dynasty'. They should be able to see this, understand what went on and still have a full show."

ABC's hopes for "Dynasty: The Miniseries" are high; the network especially wishes to draw a large female audience opposite the World Series on CBS.

Given sufficient ratings, Spelling and Shapiro speculated that the "Dynasty" denizens could be visited again, perhaps in yearly movies or miniseries. Spelling was particularly optimistic, saying, "'Dynasty' will never die." Neither, it seems, will camp.

STAR NOTES

Superboy strives for real strength

by Lisa Otoupal

Most people know Superman came from Krypton, was adopted by the Kents and after college moved to Metropolis. The years between had never really been examined until The Adventures of Superboy followed young Clark Kent through a work/study program at the Bureau for Extranormal Matters in Central City, Fla.

Playing the title role in the series is Gerard Christopher. Born in New York City in the Bronx, Christopher is the ninth of 12 children. He studied at Juilliard and then moved to Los Angeles to attend UCLA, where he majored in economics and business.

In order to finance his education, Christopher did some modeling and appeared in more than 60 television commercials. Keeping his model looks is no easy task — the actor works out and runs every day. He has participated in triathlons and other sporting events and maintains a strict diet.

Christopher was featured in the films Dangerously Close and Tomboy. He appeared in the television series Murphy's Law and True Confessions and in the pilot Welcome to Paradise. The Adventures of Superboy is his first regular television series.

In addition to his acting duties, Christopher co-produces the series. He has also written two scripts for the show, one that received critical acclaim last season, and one that will air this season.

LET'S TALK

Denzel Washington's the 'Glory' winner who took home Oscar

By Taylor Michaels

Q: Tell me about Matthew Broderick, one of my favorite actors. Did he win an Oscar for his performance in Glory? I've noticed that in most of his movies he talks to his audience. Is there any reason for this, do you think? —Cynthia Rizh, Portland, Ore.

A: Broderick was born Aug. 21, 1962, in New York City. His movies include Max Dugan Returns, War-Games, Ladyhawke, 1918, Ferris Bueller's Day Off, Biloxi Blues, The Freshman, Family Business and Glory. A few years back he was involved with Jennifer Grey (the star of Dirty Dancing and Broadway-star Joel Grey's daughter), but now he is involved with actress Helen Hunt, whom he met while filming Project X four years ago.

As for talking to his audience, Broderick used that device in Ferris Bueller's Day Off and Biloxi Blues, and he talked to himself in Ladyhawke. In all cases it was probably because the scripts called for it.

Broderick did not win an Oscar for Glory, but his co-star, Denzel Washington, did win the award for best supporting actor.

Q: I'm a big fan of the adult-film star Marilyn Chambers. I would like to know her history and how she got her start in adult films. —Mark Tucholski, Kihei, Hawaii.

A: Ironically, Chambers was once the Ivory Snow baby. Years later she met the Mitchell brothers, producers of pornographic movies, who felt having the Ivory Snow girl in one of their movies would be fantastic.

Chambers' first adult film, Behind the Green Door, was such a popular success that its producers tried to get it nominated for an Academy Award.

In 1977, Chambers made her first mainstream film, Rabid, with director David Cronenberg (Dead Ringers, The Fly).

Q: I'm writing about something that has bothered me for a long time. As a Christian, I'm aware certain things must be fulfilled and times change. Fornication is accepted in this day and age, and cursing is commonplace. However, what are we telling our young people? How can they grow up with a good sense of what's right and wrong with all the mixed messages out there? Do all television shows have to show unmarried couples living together as though it's accepted and moral? Nudity and profanity are so common in movies that a lot of people are used to it and are no longer shocked by it. —Connie Nolen, a grandmother, Morristown, Tenn.

A: Fornication, profanity and nudity existed long before television. Children learn what's right and wrong from their families, not from network executives. And by the way, a nude body can be the basis of great art, as in the case of Michelangelo's David. Maybe it's time to turn off the television and take your grandchildren to the museum where they can learn to appreciate the beautiful things in life.

Q: About two years ago, Martin Mull published a humorous book titled The History of White People in America. I have tried a number of bookstores in Ohio, and none of them has a copy. I would appreciate an address for Martin Mull so I can inquire about his book. —James Hargus, Norwalk, Ohio.

A: I called a local bookstore on this one. The History of White People in America is published by Putnam Press. Go back to your bookstore with this information and ask them to order it for you.

Q: Since Julia Roberts has been on the big screen, I have enjoyed her freshness. I have written to a few production companies for an address so I might be able to let Miss Roberts know this, but have had no luck. Please help! —M. Wilhelm, Red Wing, Minn.

A: You can write the actress c/o ICM, 8899 Beverly Boulevard, Los Angeles, Calif., 90048.

Bits And Pieces

What ever happened to those lost tapes of Eddie and the Cruisers? They're now being released, that's what. A new album, Eddie and the Cruisers: The Unreleased Tapes, includes songs written and recorded for the Eddie and the Cruisers films that never appeared on any LP. Performed by John Cafferty and the Beaver Brown Band, the first two movie soundtracks sold well over 3 million copies.

Rock 'n' roll fans can look forward to new tracks on the album title "Fool and His Money," "Heat of the Night" and "When the World Was Young."
