Principal puts hex on Halloween

We've all heard about political correctness at colleges. Well, in Plymouth and Canton it's hitting the grade school level. One school canceled its Halloween celebration and substituted a Harvest Festival. School officials consider Halloween too violent.

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

Does Halloween promote violence?

Well, the folks at Fiegel Elementary School on Joy in Plymouth Township think so. So, this year the school is planning a politically correct Harvest Festival instead of celebrating Halloween.

That means the kids won't be able to dress up as spooks and goblins and ask for candy.

"There are so many destructive and violent aspects of Halloween," principal Barbara Young said. "I thought we could do better for the children."

In a newsletter sent to the school's staff, Young wrote:

"Costumes promoting violence and sometimes vulgarity, Devil's Night, the rising popularity of Beavis and Butthead with their glorification of underachievement, fire starting, torture of animals and paint thinner sniffing all call for a response from educators and the school community about the values and standards we hold for our children."

She added that the harvest festival "reflects our mission to promote quality behavior and attitudes through a peacekeeping focus."

The festival will feature each classroom displaying a PTO-provided cornstalk scarecrow they have planned and decorated. Two all-school assemblies will be held in the afternoon featuring "Dr. Zeemo and the Science of Spinning" where he will demonstrate the physics of revolution using tops, Frisbees and hoops.

So far, she said, only two people have called to "challenge what we're trying to do," Young said.

Century Novelty in Livonia, which supplies most of the area schools with Halloween decorations, finds nothing wrong with the holiday.

Critters creep to class

Students at Hoben Elementary School in Canton were treated Wednesday to a live animal display by the Species Survival Center of Milan.

Steve Marsh, director and president of the center, brought several endangered species to third-grade classrooms. Among them were a two-toed sloth, spurred tortoise, an African ridgeback frog, European hedgehog, green-wing macaw, eagle owl, ball python and blue-tongue skink.

"Our mission is to preserve species, primarily through hands-on, instructional programs in schools," said Marsh. "We also do teacher training in biology and the life sciences." The center also breeds animals.

Marsh said often his most intelligent questions come from students. Wednesday was no exception. Joseph Ramirez asked how pollution affects the animals.

David Roose noticed that the two-toed sloth, a rain forest monkey-like animal that hangs upside down all of its life, "looks like a koala bear because of its face."

The exotic animal program fit in with the students' study of how animals adapt to their habitats.

Teachers who coordinated the Survival Center visit included Jennifer Cousino, Kathy Harenda, Maureen Visser and Don Reifert.

Project moving forward

Some items would have to be worked out, but Wayne County officials are looking optimistically at a request to designate 3.25 miles of roads in western Canton as natural beauty roads.

"I really commend what you have done. And I think we would like to help you," Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara told northwest Canton homeowners who have requested the designation. Homeowners presented their case to McNamara and two county public services officials Wednesday afternoon.

■ ROADWAYS

The homeowners, primarily members of the Northwest Canton Homeowners Association, will officially present their request to Wayne County following a hoped-for resolution of support from Plymouth Township Tuesday.

The area targeted for designation includes Napier Road, from Ann Arbor Road south to Warren; Joy from Ann Arbor Road to Ridge; Ridge from Joy toward Warren; and Gyde going east from Ridge. Plymouth Township shares Joy Road. Superior Township, from which homeowners have already received support, shares the Napier Road boundary. Canton Township also has given its blessings to the effort.

"This is what we see every day," said Mike Olin, Northwest association president, following a slide presentation of the vegetation, terrain and wildlife in the area. "They (residents) don't take this for granted. They recognize this could be lost."

The primary intent of natural beauty road designation is to preserve the native vegetation and scenic beauty.

McNamara told the homeowners that the only concern he could see is the question of liability. Wayne

Hunting hearing

The state Department of Natural Resources has scheduled a public hearing 7-10 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 28, in the Canton Township administration building, 1150 S. Canton Center Road, to hear comments about the proposed closing of certain sections of the township to hunting and firearm use.

Canton officials requested closing two areas: north of Cherry Hill Road and west of Canton Center Road to the northern and western borders of the township, and south of Palmer and east of Beck to the southern and eastern borders. All areas east of Canton Center Road are already closed to hunting and firearm use.

If the state DNR approves the closure, the township will be required to post and maintain signs along the major thoroughfares.

Romance novelist Joan Avery will be at the Canton Public Library, 1200 S. Canton Center Road, at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 27, to discuss her book, "Angel of Passage," and romance novels in general.

Study finds teen substance abuse widespread

By M.B. Dillon
Staff Writer

Twelfth-graders attending Plymouth-Canton Community Schools exceed national norms in every category of alcohol and drug use examined in a federally funded Western Michigan University study.

Data shows use in Plymouth-Canton is comparable to that in similar communities in suburban Detroit.

Conducted last year, the study randomly surveyed 1,349 eighth-, 10th-, and 12th-graders. Some questionnaires were eliminated after computer checks found logical inconsistencies or obvious exaggerations in students' answers.

WMU's Kercher Center for Social Research cautioned that "the drug problem is one which, more than most others, seems to lead to a lot of finger pointing and blaming of others. The fact is that no one social institution causes the drug abuse problem and no one institution is capable of solving it. If your school system does not have an alcohol and drug problem, it is probably the only such system in the country."

Among the findings:

■ Asked whether they've used any illicit drug, 27 percent of Plymouth-Canton eighth-graders said they had. Yeses totaled 40 percent among 10th-graders and 51 percent among 12th-graders. The national average for 12th-graders is 44 percent. Almost across the board, drug use was higher among males. The one exception was among local eighth-graders, where illicit drug use among girls was slightly (.2 percent) higher than it was among males.

■ 45 percent of 12th-graders said they've consumed alcohol or drugs in the last 12 months, compared to 29 percent nationally. Thirty-five percent of 10th-graders said they'd used drugs or alcohol in the previous year, as did 19 percent of eighth-graders.

Asked whether they'd had five or more drinks in a row in the past two weeks, 36 percent of 12-graders said they had, compared to 30 percent of 12th-graders nationally. Twenty-five percent of 10th-graders said they'd had five or more drinks, as did 14 percent of eighth-graders.

■ Drug use is higher across the board among non-college-bound students. Differences were most drastic at the eighth-grade level, where 64 percent of non-college-bound students said they'd used illicit drugs, compared with 16 percent of college-bound students. Forty-four percent of college-bound students reported using illicit drugs, compared with 52 percent of non-college-bound students. Both college- and non-college-bound youth in Plymouth-Canton exceeded national norms.

■ Students were asked at what grade level they first used illegal substances. Twelve percent said they used inhalants in fifth grade or earlier. Twenty-one percent said they first used alcohol by fifth grade, and 16 percent reported smoking their first cigarette by fifth grade.

■ Asked how difficult it would be for them to obtain marijuana, 55 percent of eighth-graders said it would be easy. Eighty-nine percent of 10th-graders said it would be easy to obtain, as did 95 percent of 12th-graders. Ninety percent of eighth-graders said it's easy to obtain alcohol. The figure for 10th-graders was 95 percent, and it was 98 percent for 12th-graders.

■ Thirteen percent of 12th-graders said they had, the last two weeks, driven after drinking. The national percentage for 12th-graders was 9 percent.

■ Asked where they'd turn for help if they were hooked on drugs, most students replied they'd seek out friends or family members. Last on the list were school counselors and teachers.

Plymouth-Canton 10th- and 12th-graders didn't believe marijuana, alcohol and amphetamine use was as risky as those in the normative group.

The study was developed under the sponsorship of the Michigan Department of Education along with the Michigan Office of Substance Abuse Services. Funding to local districts is allocated via the federal Drug-Free Schools Community Act.

Police, schools have role to play in fighting drug use

By M.B. Dillon
Staff Writer

Plymouth Township police Chief Carl Berry is among those excited by the Plymouth-Canton community's prospects in its fight against substance abuse among young people.

Berry, a member of the Community Council on Substance Abuse Prevention, and a group of school officials presented to the school board results of a substance abuse study and their plan to combat illicit drug use.

Using the $70,000 Drug-Free Schools Grant, CCSAP and the school district plan to work on prevention, strengthen programs already in place, provide training for parents and community members, correlate school discipline programs for repeat offenders to dovetail with community programs, and study programs that have worked elsewhere.

Part of the plan calls for a part-time staff person to coordinate the plan.

"One of the dangers of this survey is that people are going to go out and try to affix blame. People will say schools are at fault. Schools only see the results of what's taking place," said Berry.

"That's why we are working as a group. We're saying to the community, don't blame the schools, and you don't have to blame yourself. If we work as a team, maybe we can solve it.

"What we have here today isn't unique, but it's something that's needed to happen for a long time; schools, law enforcement and the community working together. We what parents to know what's going on and think this survey is an excellent tool."

Nic Cooper, a West Middle School counselor working to implement the action plan, said "We want to do something about this, not have people ashamed into submission. It's important that people have an honest read and that we do something responsive."

Cooper was instrumental in the district's anti-substance abuse efforts in the 1980s when the district was nationally recognized for its progress in fighting substance abuse among youth.

Lee Harrison, assistant Central Middle School principal, also is working on the program, as is Patrick O'Donnell, executive director of instruction.

"The media portrays alcohol and drug use as being glamorous. We need to make a real coordinated effort. It's not a community issue; it's an everybody issue. To the extent we can mobilize everyone to take a piece of the action, we can effect norms."

O'Donnell said expulsions in Plymouth-Canton "tend to be more for drug use than for consistent disobedience." Plymouth-Canton compares with other districts in the area of substance abuse, "but it doesn't mean we don't have anything to be concerned about," said O'Donnell.

Working together: A cooperative effort involving law enforcement, the schools and others from the community is needed to fight substance abuse, according to Plymouth Township police Chief Carl Berry.

Community Foundation recognized

The Canton Community Foundation will celebrate Foundation Day Wednesday, Oct. 27.

The Canton Township Board of Trustees has designated this day in recognition of the work the foundation performs on behalf of Canton residents. On Wednesday, a number of area businesses will make donations for every customer that comes in. Those signing up to participate include:

■ Amoco gas stations at Joy and Sheldon; Warren and Lilley; Ford and Haggerty; and Canton Center and Cherry Hill; will donate a nickel for every gallon of gas sold that day.

■ Pizza One at Lilley and Warren will donate 50 cents for every pizza sold.

■ Jack Demmer Ford at Michigan at Newburgh will donate $25 for every car sold to a Canton resident during October.

■ Fantastic Sam's at the Ann Arbor Road and Ford Road locations will donate $1 for every haircut performed on Wednesday.

■ Easy Rider Bike Shop on Sheldon Road is donating $1 for every bike sold in October.

Additional retailers are making a cash contribution based on their business on Oct. 27:

■ Mobil gas station at Warren and Sheldon roads.

■ Feed Rite Pet, 42432 Ford Road.

■ Canton Party Store, 43431 Michigan Ave.

■ H and R Maintenance, 48457 Ford Road.

■ Regal Construction, 39890 Ford Road.

■ Realty World, 43271 Ford Road.

Farmer, florist work to aid flood victims

Chris Rea, president of Thrifty Florist, and Duane Bordine, owner of Bordine's Farm Market in Canton, have teamed up to raise money for Iowa flood victims whose houses and businesses were devastated by the disaster this past summer.

Rea, who operates eight Thrifty Florist shops in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties, met Bordine recently when buying pumpkins for his stores.

"I was inquiring about Duane's giant 200-pound pumpkins when he told me that he gives one away every year to the person that guesses the weight of the giant pumpkin. This year he decided to add another dimension to the giveaway, selling raffle tickets and giving the money to the Salvation Army," Rea said.

The fund-raising effort appealed to him because it was helping other Americans in need especially since recent media attention has shifted overseeas, forgetting about people here at home, Rea said.

Bordine, who is 50, was born and raised in Canton and has been farming all his life. "My parents were farmers, and my brother and I are still at it," he said. Bordine said he has a farmer friend in Iowa who lost everything to the flood and that is why he feels very close to the cause.

Bill would reduce penalties for employers

Michigan employers could benefit from reduced unemployment insurance penalties under legislation approved by the state House.

The bill, backed by Rep. Deborah Whyman, R-Canton Township, would alter the state's disciplinary system for employers delinquent on their quarterly wage reports. Under current law, employers who fail to file are automatically assessed the maximum 10 percent unemployment tax on all payroll for the entire fiscal year.

Whyman said her proposal establishes a more fair and effective punishment scale that does not charge businesses with exorbitant and unequal penalties.

"Our current system is marred by inequity, and it's too harsh on job providers who rarely miss a filing deadline and simply cannot afford the maximum tax rate," said Whyman, a member of the House Taxation Committee.

"This legislation removes an outdated and arbitrary method of discipline and creates incentives to file wage reports on time."

In addition to an employer's current unemployment tax rate, Whyman's proposals would:

■ impose only a 3 percent penalty on employers who file at least once during the year.

■ assess the maximum tax rate on employers who never file during the fiscal year and add a 3 percent penalty.

■ charge no penalty on employers who file missing reports within 30 days of the rate determination.

■ impose no penalty on employers who file missing reports after 30 days, but within one year, and show "good reason" why they were not turned in on time. Those who do not have a proven reason for not filing will be levied a 2 percent penalty.

■ charge only a 3 percent penalty on businesses that file missing reports after one year, but not after two years.

■ levy a 4 percent penalty on employers who file missing reports after two years.

"This legislation fosters accountability without a negative impact on labor," Whyman said. "It also demonstrates the Michigan Employment Security Commission's willingness to work with employers, and that they understand there are circumstances that hinder a timely filing."

Whyman said she introduced the bill after being asked by a constituent to examine the penalty system.

Would-be Canton home buyer criticizes building inspections

By Joanne Maliszewski
Staff Writer

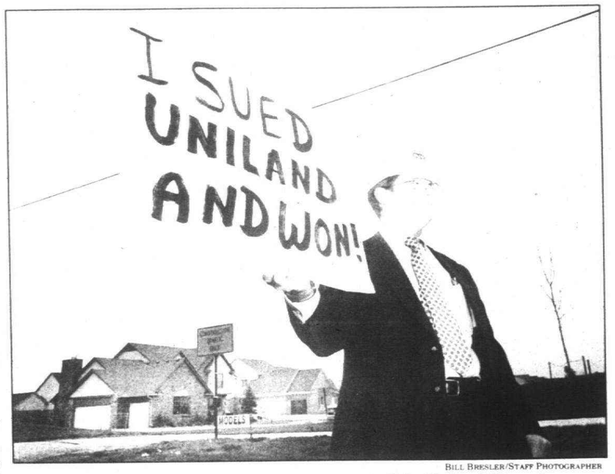
A would-be home buyer who won a lawsuit against his builder is condemning Canton Township building inspection services for failing to acknowledge what he contends are defects in the house.

"I've become the house buyer from hell," Jim Miles of Georgia told the Canton Homeowners Advisory Council and the Canton Township board of trustees at a joint meeting Oct. 19.

Despite winning his suit against Uniland Homes Inc., for breach of contract and violation of the Michigan Consumer Protection Act, Miles remains angry with Canton building inspectors who testified as defense witnesses during a seven-day trial in Wayne County Circuit Court in April.

Miles told trustees and advisory council officers that Canton inspectors should not be allowed to conduct inspections if township officials ever plan to institute the controversial mandatory pre-sale house inspections.

"This is just my opinion, if you're going to let people who inspected my house inspect other people's houses, you might as well let these people go and let an orangutan do it," Miles said.



Bill Bresler/Staff Photographer

Picketing: Jim Miles of Georgia pickets near homes built by Uniland Homes Inc. in the Glengarry subdivision, off Canton Center Road. Miles, who won a lawsuit against the builder, is chastising township inspection services.

Survey prompted

Miles' comments, as well as those from some advisory council officers about similar complaints on building inspections, have prompted township officials to begin devising a survey for new construction homeowners, particularly in the Brookside Village subdivision where some complaints have surfaced. The survey, which may be extended to other new construction areas, would specifically ask about building inspections.

Enforcement of the ones (building requirements) we currently have," said Judy Linna, advisory council secretary, as opposed to establishing mandatory pre-sale house inspections to ensure repairs are completed.

Advisory council officers told township trustees that residents are opposed to mandatory pre-sale inspections, particularly of new houses. "Don't tell me five years later I have to fix something that should have been done by the builder," advisory council vice president Nancy Spencer said, relating comments from homeowners.

Contract with Uniland

Miles contracted with Uniland to build a house — based on the Uniland model in the River Park subdivision. "I wanted the same thing as was across the street (the stick-built model)," Miles said.

What Miles got was not what he wanted, nor, he contends, what he was told he would get. His new $125,00 two-story colonial had prefabricated walls, and he believes, was rife with structural problems. "I was never told it was prefabricated. The model wasn't," said Miles, who claims he spent $60,000, including an $8,000 down payment.

Uniland's attorney, Andra Richardson of Bloomfield Hills, and developer Richard Rosenhaus, Uniland owner, did not return the Observer's calls.

Uniland has filed a defamation-type lawsuit against Miles. The builder apparently claims that Miles' picketing in front of Uniland models in the Glengarry subdivision off Canton Center Road caused difficulty in selling homes in the subdivision, according to Miles' attorney, Joseph Larkin of Livonia.

"They are trying to use that as a bargaining chip," Larkin said, referring to a November settlement conference. On the other hand, Larkin admitted that his bargaining chip is a claim of fraud even though Wayne County Circuit Judge John Kirwan threw out that claim.

"The judge said there was insufficient evidence," Larkin said, adding he nonetheless argued the house is defective, made of inferior materials and with inferior workmanship.

The CSX employee, who refused to accept the house Uniland built for him, objected to the use of wood I-beam girders, what he believes is a poorly attached basement staircase constructed of particle board, and improperly built floor joists. Miles said plans for the house included steel I-beams, properly built floor joists and a wood basement staircase.

Inspector approval

When the house was inspected by township inspector Mark Lewis, he found nothing wrong. Miles disagreed and filed a complaint about the house with the state Department of Licensing and Operations, which required another inspection by a local inspector. Lewis was sent out again.

"I asked that Mark Lewis not come out. He just put that my complaints were unjustified so the state dropped it," Miles said. "What could Mr. Lewis say about his own work except that he did it right in the first place and my complaints were unjustified? Case closed." At the time, Lewis was the only inspector at the township, according to township officials.

Both Lewis and his supervisor John Weyer, township building official, testified during the trial. "They are supposed to be representing the citizens," Miles said.

But Weyer said it is not uncommon for inspectors to testify as to the facts of an inspection. "We are frequently involved as keepers of the record," he said.

No township help

Miles told township trustees and advisory council officers he did not get any help from the township, despite showing them the reported defects, such as the floor joists. "When I showed Mark Lewis the photographs, he didn't know me from Adam then. But you know what? He knew where that house was," Miles said.

At Canton Supervisor Tom Yack's request, Weyer defended his department. Prefabricated walls are used in Canton. "Both materials are accepted by code (used in stick-built houses or prefabricated)," Weyer said.

Weyer, who also inspected Miles' house, said Rosenhaus got a structural engineer to look at the house. The engineer said the materials used complied with building codes. The structural analysis, he said, required correction of one of the floor joists where a gap between two pieces needed filling.

Miles' expert witness, an independent building inspector, reported that the basement stairs would collapse with normal use. The witness also was critical of the floor joists. Miles told township officials that he was told that the floor could not withstand the weight of a piano on the first floor.

"I never heard about the stairs issue except that it was a different material," Weyer said. Other Canton homes also have wood, rather than steel I-beams.

"The whole issue is a difference of materials," Weyer said. "He (Miles) just wasn't used to seeing the building components."

Weyer also defended Lewis. "Everything was as the engineering analysis or code will allow for. Nothing got overlooked," he said.

■ Uniland has filed a defamation-type lawsuit against Miles. The builder apparently claims that Miles' picketing in front of Uniland models in the Glengarry subdivision off Canton Center Road caused difficulty in selling homes in the subdivision, according to Miles' attorney, Joseph Larkin of Livonia. 'They are trying to use that as a bargaining chip,' Larkin said, referring to a November settlement conference.

Local support: Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara told members of the Canton Economic Club that he supports Dennis Archer in his bid to be the next Detroit mayor.

McNamara favors Archer in Detroit's mayoral race

Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara told Canton and Plymouth residents he is supporting Dennis Archer in the race for mayor in Detroit.

Although McNamara hasn't endorsed a candidate, as has Oakland County Executive L. Brooks Patterson, he let it out of the bag when he spoke to the Canton Economic Club on Wednesday at St. John Neumann Catholic Church in Canton.

"I hope nobody from the press is listening, but I hope it's Archer (who wins)," he said. One of McNamara's assistant county executives, Freeman Hendricks, is Archer's campaign manager.

McNamara went on to talk about the multi-million-dollar expansion of Metro Airport, calling Metro "extremely important" to the economy of Wayne County. "We know exactly how that airport should ultimately appear," he said. "It will be the greatest job generator southeast Michigan has ever had."

McNamara said that the condition of the city should concern everyone around it because "the image of Detroit is the image of the city you live in, and you aren't going to escape it."

He supports a new stadium to replace Tiger Stadium, adding that the old ballpark has "all kinds of problems" and should not be preserved. With so many obstructed-view seats and no luxury boxes, he added, Tiger Stadium could never compete in an economic sense with modern stadiums. "It's extremely important that we have a new ballpark downtown. It should go across from the Fox Theatre."

A new stadium, McNamara said, would be a "great catalyst to the development of Detroit."

McNamara proposed paying for the new stadium with taxes on hotel rooms, rental cars and Indian gambling casinos.

On Gov. John Engler's school finance plan, McNamara said aspects of it are "excellent," but the part about taking the state subsidies away from counties, cities, townships and villages is bad.

The subsidies should remain, McNamara said, because local government provides the basic services such as police and fire protection that everyone needs.

Halloween offers happy haunting

Children can get an early start on Halloween by attending "A Haunting We Will Go!" a three-event package of sights, sounds and spooky delights for parents and children.

Presented by the Plymouth Community Arts Council, the event begins at 10 a.m. on Saturday, Oct. 30, at the Plymouth Historical Museum.

The fun starts by visiting the museum's Baby Boomer Toy Collection. Then at 10:30 a.m., a big purple dinosaur will lead the crowd to the "dungeon" of the museum, where Tom Rice and Craig Roney will entertain with an hour of silly, scary stories and magical music.

Rice and Roney are local favorites and have brought their special brand of song and storytelling to previous PCAC performances. Roney, who is a specialist in children's literature and storytelling, currently chairs the committee on storytelling of the National Council of Teachers of English.

Following the concert, the Plymouth-Canton Jaycees open the doors of their haunted house to ticket holders for a special children's haunting, suggested for fifth graders and younger. The haunted house is on Main Street directly behind Plymouth Landing.

The event is sponsored by American Speedy Printing of Plymouth and the Plymouth Landing restaurant. Following the event, Plymouth Landing will offer a specially priced Halloween children's lunch with the purchase of an adult entree.

Tickets for the event — which includes museum admission, the concert, and the haunted house — are $5 for children and adults are free. Advance tickets are available at the PCAC office at 332 S. Main St. or at the museum on the day of the event. For more information, call the PCAC at 455-5260.

Other Halloween events in the Plymouth and Canton areas are:

Canton haunting

A haunted house is being operated in Canton at the Canton Landing shopping center, 44958 Ford, behind McDonald's. The hours are 6-9:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and 5-10:30 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday. The admission for children is $5, and adults may enter free if accompanied by a child. The house is being operated by the Canton Community Foundation. For more information, contact the foundation at 454-5427.

Plymouth haunting

The Plymouth-Canton Jaycees haunted house is open 7:30-10:30 p.m. Sunday through Thursday and 7:30 p.m. to midnight Friday and Saturday through Oct. 31 at 340 N. Main St., directly behind the Plymouth Landing. A Friendly Ghost hour will be 6-7 p.m. Friday for the smaller kids. Jaycee Hotline, 453-8407.

YMCA haunting

The Plymouth Community Family YMCA will sponsor a haunted house 6-10 p.m. Friday and Saturday at the Grange Building, 273 S. Union, Plymouth. The event is geared to children ages 6-15, but adults are welcome. Children under age 9 must be accompanied by an adult. Call 453-2904 for more information.

Scary stories

The Plymouth Poets present the first annual Halloween Festival of scary stories and gothic poetry 7-10 p.m. Friday at the Gathering, across from Kellogg Park, downtown Plymouth. Featured from 8-9 p.m. are Oral Magic with Ruth Burr and R.W. Lowe, Rod Reinhart, Renee Skoglund and Steve Marsh. Open-microphone performers may read for five minutes from 7-8 p.m. and 9-10 p.m. Dress warmly and bring folding chairs. For more information, call 459-7319.

Pumpkin caper

Trick or treating in downtown Plymouth at the local merchants is 5-6:30 p.m. Saturday. Costume contest is 5-6:30 p.m. at the Kellogg Park bandshell. This event is made possible through First of America Bank, Downtown Merchants, Plymouth Rotary Club and Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce. For more information, call 453-1540.

Children's party

Canton Parks and Recreation Services is sponsoring its annual Halloween costume party for Canton children ages 12 and under on Saturday. Party for ages 7 and under is 9:30-10:30 a.m.; ages 12 and under, 10:45-11:45 a.m. at the Recreation Center on Michigan Avenue at Sheldon Road. Party includes games, movie, refreshments, prizes and more. Advance reservations, 397-5110.

County has paid out millions of dollars in lawsuits because of serious traffic accidents in the area, particularly on Napier Road.

"Hopefully, we can work around that," McNamara said. "That would be the only objection I can think of."

Wayne County Commissioner Bryan Amann, who arranged the meeting between McNamara and homeowners, told the county executive that natural beauty designation doesn't prevent maintenance of the roads.

"This proposal, if adopted, doesn't prevent us from doing what we need to. This adds a little sensitivity," Amann said.

Olin reminded county officials that in many areas telephone poles sit as close to the roads as do trees in the area requested for designation.

While optimistic about the proposal, Ed Seimart, Wayne County chief engineer, and Russ Groenevelt, assistant county executive for public services, pointed out some hurdles. Those include speed limits on the roadways, as well as the fact that the state law limits designation to local roads. Joy Road is a designated primary road.

But Seimart told homeowners Joy Road can be undesignated. "It's been done before," Amann said.

Speed limits may prove a more difficult matter. "The biggest thing I see is modification of speed limits down to a 25-35 designation," Groenevelt said. "When there are accidents and litigation, the designation of speed limits and enforcement have an impact."

Wayne County has 30 days after receipt of the homeowners' request to schedule a public hearing and up to six months after the hearing to review the issue and offer a decision, Amann said.

But up until now folks who wanted to let man's best friend participate in Halloween have had to be content dressing them as best as possible.

That's all changing. Specialty Pet Supplies of Plymouth is stocking costumes for dogs that range from Dallas Cowboys cheerleaders outfits for the females to cowboy outfits for the males.

"We really started doing it because of requests from customers," said Terri Bennett, store owner. "We have one customer who is getting married and he wanted his dog at the wedding. And of course they needed a tux for it."

Another customer is a disc jockey who wanted a dog costume for entertainment events.

"After hearing their questions, I went to a trade show and saw all these costumes for dogs," said Bennett.

To promote the sale and rental of the costumes, Bennett has her two Airedales and a mutt, Bubbles, dressed in various outfits.

On a recent day, Luc was dressed in a tux and Greta as a clown. Bubbles had to be content wearing a Dallas Cowboys cheerleader outfit. The three dogs spend their days in the store with their owner.

The costumes run from $25 and up. The tuxedos are the most popular, said Bennett.

"We've even got grass skirts," she said.

But when it comes to cats, Bennett said she has no costumes for them. "They just resist keeping them on."

And that just may be why dogs are known as man's best friend.

"It's a booming business for us," said assistant manager Kathy Swan. She has two children and encourages them to celebrate the holiday.

Young said getting mixed messages at school and at home won't confuse the children.

"The activities that we are trying to promote are those that do not promote violence," she said.

"We're really working with the focus of the school, which is to promote less violence and peace keeping."

HOUSEMAID'S KNEE

The body includes sacs called bursa. These bursa sit between a tendon and a hard structure such as bone or the undersurface of a deep layer of skin. The purpose of a bursa is to allow the tendon to glide without friction and so prevent a rupture of the tendon's fibers.

Housemaid knee refers to inflammation of the bursa between the knee cap tendon and the skin overlying it. The term is outdated but the problem remains. Now the usual cause is prolonged kneeling in association with repairing a car, laying a floor, or gardening intently without regard to time or stamina.

The look of a bursitis is worse than its impairment. The knee takes on an angry red appearance that raises the concern of infection. The color is not the result of inflammation but occurs because the bursa lies close to skin and brings blood vessels of the surrounding area to the surface. In most instances the individual has little problem walking and is free of fever.

When a doctor sees the knee swelling, he first confirms that the problem is not arthritis but results from housemaid's knee. Anti-inflammatory drugs won't work as the bursitis is not arising from such irritation. If the possibility arises of infection from a sliver, the physician may choose to aspirate the bursa fluid for analysis and culture.

Usually nothing needs be done, just be patient and allow time to act as healer.

Try being a grilled-cheese sandwich, expert says

When Bob Haven thinks of how many purple dinosaurs he'll see Oct. 31, he shudders. As a costume shop supervisor for University Productions at the University of Michigan School of Music, Haven views store bought costumes based on licensed characters with disdain.

"You can have a lot more fun by exercising some imagination in creating a costume," said Haven, who taught junior high school and operated a children's theater before joining U-M, where he lectures in theater and drama in addition to his costume shop duties.

To Haven, the best part of Halloween is the chance to put together one of a kind costumes in ways that aren't immediately apparent to nonprofessionals.

"Sometimes it helps to think of a thing or a concept, not a specific person you want to be," said Haven. "You could be a grilled cheese sandwich by painting two foam pieces to look like bread and dressing entirely in yellow-orange clothes. Or you could dress in white sweats, then pin on a bar code to become a generic person."

Here, from Haven and associate draper Vicky Sadler, are some additional Halloween tips:

■ Don't use lipstick on your cheeks or other parts of your skin. Lipstick stains and you'll go around with red blotches showing for days.

■ Never use glitter makeup around your eyes. It's made of ground glass.

■ For a makeup base that's tasty as well as safe and inexpensive, slather corn syrup on your face, let it dry enough to be sticky to the touch, then pull apart two-ply, plain white facial tissues and apply them.

"It looks quite disgusting," said Haven. "And makes wonderfully textured skin for monsters. You can also pat cornmeal on the syrup, or pull cotton balls on and off to get a nice, moldy look."

■ Don't restrict vision or mobility, particularly with small children. Use makeup instead of masks whenever possible and make sure dresses, skirts and trousers aren't long enough to trip on.

■ To create bruises, black eyes, scars or 5 o'clock shadow, dapple on, then lightly blend cream based makeup using a stiff paint brush and cotton tipped swabs.

■ Extend makeup beyond your jaw line, or you'll look like your head is separate from your body. And be sure to blend makeup into your hairline, especially near your ears. Above all, don't put it on too thick.

And as thoughts turn to Halloween, Sinai Hospital has compiled a safety precaution list for children, parents, drivers and homeowners.

As far as costumes go, wear flame retardant materials, avoid billowy costumes, wear white or light colored costumes, avoid wigs (they can burst into flames), avoid over size shoes, props such as magic wands and swords should be cardboard, not metal or wood, carry a flashlight and avoid dogs — even your own, who might be frightened by a costume.

Walkers should stay on the sidewalk or grass. If you must walk on the street, walk on the left side facing traffic. Cross the street only from corners and crosswalks. Never dart between parked vehicles. Observe all traffic signals. Look both ways before crossing the street. Watch for cars turning at intersections or into driveways.

Parents should set rules such as boundaries and curfews and enforce them. Young children should be accompanied by a parent or responsible adult. Older children not accompanied by an adult should be with friends. Stay in your own neighborhood and go only to homes of family or friends. Go only to homes that are well lit. Do not go inside a home or building to accept treats. Have parents check treats before eating. Don't eat anything before it's examined. Some hospitals will X-ray treats. Have an adult cut all fruit and candy into sections before eating.

For drivers and homeowners, clean your windshield and headlights before driving. Be alert for children darting into the street. Be prepared to give trick or treaters right of way. Park your car in the driveway or in the garage to prevent vandalism. Keep pets indoors. Keep your home illuminated. Be sure walkways are free of obstructions. Don't leave lighted pumpkins where a child's costume could be ignited. Greet trick or treaters at the door. Wrap treats that are loose or homemade. Put your name and phone number on treats so parents will know where they came from.

And finally, when trick or treaters come home with more candy than they know what to do with, there's the candy lady of Oak Park. Joy Landau, along with husband, Lou, have for many years collected left over Halloween candy at their home, checked each piece, then sent it to the Maxey Boys Training Center in Whitmore Lake.

About 750 boys who otherwise wouldn't have candy are the happy beneficiaries of the sweets.

This would also be a good project for your PTA, scouts, schools, clubs or neighborhoods.

The Landaus live at 24231 Gardner, between Coolidge and Greenfield, south of 10 Mile Road. Please bring the goods by Nov. 18.

Schoolcraft offers diverse November lineup

Schoolcraft College is accepting registrations for several special classes and workshops in November.

Antique furniture will be the topic of a course taught by Frank H. Boos, owner of the Frank H. Boos Gallery in Bloomfield Hills, from 6 to 8 p.m. Nov. 3. His lecture will touch on subjects of auctions for buyers and sellers, appraisals, authenticating pieces and what's available on the market. The fee is $21.

Boos will also share his expertise in the area of selecting art and prints in a workshop offered 6-8 p.m. Nov. 10. The fee is $21.

A six-week course will provide information about Lotus skills. The class will meet from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. Fridays beginning Nov. 5. The fee for the class is $127.

The ASSET preparation workshop will help students as they get ready to take the ASSET placement examination in mathematics. The one-day workshop will be offered from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Nov. 6 and costs $20.

Students preparing for the College-Level Examination Program may want to participate in a special one-day workshop which covers test-taking confidence and a review of study materials. The workshop will be from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Nov. 6 in preparation for the Nov. 13 exam. The fee is $55.

To register for any of these classes and for further information, call 462-4448.

Market on tap for Stroh's site

The brick facade to offices fronting the old Stroh's warehouse at Ann Arbor and Lilley roads came down last week, as a group of developers is turning the remaining building into a varied market complex.

Besides removing the front of the building, plans call for creating 79 parking spaces in front of and behind the remaining building.

The plan approved by the city planning commission in March called for fresh produce, fruit, meats and seafood to be sold at the market, as well as flowers and baked goods.

City engineer Ken West said plans call for the project to be completed by April.

Activity to develop the warehouse, which has been vacant in recent years, comes as both the city and Plymouth Township planning commissions have been discussing what to do to boost the Ann Arbor Road business corridor.

Architect and city planning commission chairman David Schaff, who worked on plans for the development in its early stages, said earlier this year, "Their idea seems to fit well with plans for that corridor."

School committee open to community

Parents and citizens are invited to participate in the Plymouth-Canton Community School District's Elementary Parent Awareness Committee.

The purpose of the Elementary Parent Awareness Committee is to support the efforts of teachers and other school district personnel in creating an awareness among parents of the need for students to gain interpersonal skills and other eventual employability skills. The committee is open to anyone interested in working with school district personnel to create a greater awareness of the need for a good social and emotional foundation in elementary school children.

The committee will be chaired by Superintendent John M. Hoben and Larry Miller, principal of Field Elementary School. Two or three meetings will be held each year. The first meeting date for this year has not yet been decided.

For more information, interested persons should call Betty Bloch, Business-Education Partnership Program coordinator, at 451-6276.

Garden City Police

Two uniformed police officers are on foot patrol in a park when a young boy runs up and says that a man has grabbed his friend. As the officers confront the man, his hold on the boy loosens and the child slips away.

In the few seconds that follow, the officers are asking the man for identification when he reaches into his back pocket. The officers' lives may depend on how quickly they can determine whether the man is reaching for a wallet or a gun.

In real life, either situation might occur and the laser disc Firearms Training System, FATS for short, helps officers hone their skills on when to shoot at suspects.

"We have over 100 different scenarios and we are getting one for shotguns. We can control the endings," said Wayne County Sheriff's Department Lt. John Monge, who runs the FATS training at Schoolcraft College-Radcliff.

Officers from departments in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties have participated in the training session.

The system, used by police academy cadets and for in-service training by police officers, is set up like a mini movie theater with a screen at the end of a darkened room. The officers respond to on-screen scenarios that force them to quickly decide whether to shoot or not shoot.

"In the 1970s the training was not to shoot. The officers are just as liable for not shooting as they are for shooting," Monge said. "We try to give general rules so they can make an appropriate instant decision. The courts will argue for years but an officer may have a fraction of second to decide."

Real handguns are used in the FATS training. The barrels have been blocked so ammunition can't be fired. A laser has been built into the barrel of the weapon with a micro switch just before the trigger that sets off the laser.

"The screen picks up the hit (gunshot) and the time of the hit," said Monge. "We don't use it too much for accuracy. There is another program that has a silhouette that we can use to track accuracy. This is for decision making."

After an officer has gone through a scenario, Monge and another instructor Garden City police Sgt. Larry Jackson critique the performance, repeating the scenario noting lethal head and body hits, non-lethal hits and misses, then offering suggestions or tips.

"Usually you can tell if someone is going for weapon. If they are pulling a weapon out of a holster or their waistband, they will shift their weight forward," said Jackson. "When you take out your wallet, you stand flat footed. To pull out a weapon the shoulder comes up more than with a wallet."

In one scenario, officers approach an apparently intoxicated or sleeping man laying on a bench. The man leaps up and attacks the on-screen officer with a knife.

Even though the officer training on FATS reacted quickly and shot the knife-wielding man, there was still enough time for him to stab an officer.

"Even if you blow someone's heart out, they still have four seconds," said Jackson. "You may have shot him but if he stabs you, did you win?"

Time is especially important when officers confront armed suspects, Monge said since the suspects, having already decided on their course of action, will be 2-3 seconds ahead of the officers.

"The officer could move to the side (of the assailant) that brings a second or two," said Monge, who heads the sheriff department SWAT team. "We had a drunk at the airport and checked him out before we woke him up. He had a Glock in his belt."

Glock is a powerful semiautomatic handgun.

The FATS training, offered through Schoolcraft College Continuing Education, is underwritten by a state grant and cost area police departments $10 per officer.

"We've had nothing but positive responses to the training. Most of the officers do real well," Monge said. "We had a couple we suggested have some additional training. If they don't do well at first we'll work with them."

Set magic moods with candlelights

Illuminate the season with the romance of candlelight. The flickering glow of a candle adds to the ambience of the fireplace hearth, the dining room table, the nightstand, even the bath.

Turn-of-the-century lyricist Rupert Brooke, in his poem "The Great Lover," pondered life's everyday delights and deemed many of them worthy of "love's magnificence." Among those comforts to which he paid tribute, were gleaming white china, fresh flowers, cool sheets, shining stars and mesmerizing candles. "All these have been my loves," he mused.

If "love is a flame," then perhaps during this season of family appreciation and thankfulness you'll want to savor the soft glow of candlelight or give the gift of light to someone you love.

The following examples typify some of the most magnificent or unique tapers and candlesticks from our mall and mainstreet shops. Though Santa's image may not spark romance, it does bring a smile, and these whimsical candles from Nature Nook Florist at Fairlane and Lakeside Malls are sure to enliven your holiday decor. Each collectible sculpture is a one-of-a-kind, hand-made and signed by the artists at Northern Lights Candles ($15.99-$24.99). Candleman in the Summit Place Mall is your one-stop candle destination. Owner Lynnette Zigo carries all manner of tapers, including Treasure Candles, Yankee country kitchen candles, handcrafted animal figures and ever-popular dragons. You'll also find gorgeous wedding candles here for your centerpiece or ceremony. The new Bath & Body Elements shop at Laurel Park Place in Livonia offers over 175 fragrances, including scented candle cakes and Aroma Glo candles in terracotta pots. Among the unusual essences are tequila sunrise, pumpkin, powder puff and bubble bath. Also, check out their hand-dipped incense. "This shop smells heavenly," said browser Mary Davidson of Farmington.

Warm glows

The Store for the Home in Jacobson's at Laurel Park Place features a delightful mix of harvest-hued table settings and festive Christmas decor. I was captivated by the original etched candles from Bullfrog Light Company in Charlevoix. These ball-shaped candles glow from within, illuminating the silhouettes of deer in the snow ($15).

The innovative candlestick collection at Ilona and Gallery, 6385 Orchard Lake Road in the Orchard Mall, includes art glass bear claw candle holders by Berni in pie or triangular shapes ($84-$88) and RPM's votive candle dish, colored in green, red or purple. We picture one of the unusual glass sculptures ($138). Also pictured are colorful ceramic candlesticks by Fiasco ($56-$60). Another of my favorites is the gold-trimmed cut glass votive holder by Isis. The free-form dish is both striking and ethereal ($36-$50).

The Sandra Collins Gallery, 470 North Woodward in Birmingham, features candelabra by artists from around the world. Some standouts — Kerry Rippon's art deco etched green glass designs ($120-$175) and Gary Magakis' contemporary brass and bronze candlesticks ($215). Hermann Holstein crafts a series of eight forged steel floor torches. The smallest is 10 inches and the largest, six feet. Collins describes them as "architectonic." The piece de resistance is artist Elaine Kozar of Birmingham's hand-finished copper candelabra sculpture called "Tailspin," part of her oceanography series of lifelike fish designs ($10,000). Linda Bachrack is a Birmingham resident. You can leave her column ideas at 953-2047, or fax them to her at 644-1314.

Tax increase worries retailers

Buyers and sellers are split over a proposed 50-percent increase in Michigan's sales tax, from 4 to 6 percent of every dollar spent. Money from the tax increase would help pay for schooling. Shoppers were more blase than retailers about a sales tax increase.

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

Retailers are nervous about a proposed 2-cent sales tax increase to help pay the education bill, but shoppers said they would take the increase in stride, especially since their property taxes were cut recently.

Interviews with people on each side of the cash register last week revealed a hesitancy to approve a sales tax increase, but "going from 4 cents to 6 cents won't break me," according to one shopper.

The phrase was repeated many times.

If the Michigan legislature accepts Gov. John Engler's new plan to pay for education, residents will be asked to up the sales tax rate in February. Voters turned a sales tax increase down last June when it surfaced as Proposal A, but this time around, in light of the legislature's July vote to eliminate property taxes that pay for education, a sales tax increase to pay for schools could pass.

According to Engler, the 50-percent increase in the retail sales would generate $1.8 billion for schools. Seven billion dollars was eliminated from the education budget when the legislature voted to cut property taxes. Engler has a mixed bag of other tax proposals to come up with the remaining $5 billion deficit.

"I won't mind a 2-cent sales tax increase," said Elena Dvorin of Oakland Township. "I've been paying very high property taxes, and these will hopefully be less. I can deal with two additional cents on my shopping dollars."

Thomas Hirth of Bloomfield Hills agreed.

"If I have to pay $106 instead of $104 for a radio, it wouldn't make much difference to me," he said. "I wouldn't change my mind about the purchase. Since my property taxes will be cut, I'll pay out less and I can transfer that savings over to my spending. I'll control my taxes because I'll control my spending."

John Benson of Livonia said he didn't like the idea of approving new taxes, but he couldn't think of a better way to pay for schools.

"Theoretically, voting for more taxes is absurd," he said. "But since the state is eliminating some property tax, I see it as a tax shift not a tax hike."

Shopper sentiment supports the beliefs of several important retailers who say a 50-percent sales tax increase won't hurt sales.

"My suspicion is that a small sales tax increase is not likely to affect sales figures," said Charles Coleman, vice president of Tiffany & Co. "People know it's coming. They'll take it as a matter of course."

Dennis Toffolo, president of Hudson's, said while a 50-percent sales tax increase may cause shoppers to hesitate over purchases at first, as time goes by it won't affect business. He likened it to the gasoline tax. People still buy gas because they need it, new tax or not.

"People want and need the merchandise, so they'll pay the price," he said.

Stephen Epstein of the Detroit accounting firm Coopers & Lybrand is a member of their national retail team. He suggested that the effects of a sales tax increase could be subjective, based on whether or not a consumer feels he is paying more or saving some because his property taxes were decreased.

"How it will all shake out, well frankly, I just don't know," he said. "The governor insists his plan is actually a tax decrease when all the features of the proposal are factored in.

Spooks and spirits, boys and girls,
Your shopping center has planned some thrills!
It's all about having Halloween fun,
the giggles won't end until it's done.
There will be arts and crafts,
magic and stories,
some will be silly, some will be gory.
Make sure you bring your favorite camera,
to capture all the glee and glamoura.
When trick or treating from store to store,
you can yell and holler "Help the poor!"
So read on about all the events, or you'll miss the action, ladies and gents!

Tel-Twelve Mall: A Dracula Magician dazzles and amazes on Saturday, Oct. 30 at 11 a.m. in center court. At noon, a scary witch will tell a horrific Halloween tale. Children will make a craft to take home at 12:30 p.m. The Mask Puppet Theatre of Ann Arbor presents "Halloween Mischief" at 1:30 p.m. The fun ends with a costume contest and parade at 2 p.m. Prizes will be given for the scariest, cutest and funniest costumes. The mall is at 12 Mile and Telegraph in Southfield.

Wonderland Mall: A Nightmare Castle sets the stage for an illusion and magic show, center court. On Oct. 30 performance times are 11:30 a.m., 2:30 and 6:30 p.m. On Oct. 31 performances are at 1, 2:30 and 4 p.m. Wonderland Mall is at Plymouth and Middlebelt in Livonia.

What other states pay...

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

If Michigan residents approve a 2-percent increase in their sales tax they would join the ranks of 15 other states with a 6-percent tax rate. Some of these states have cities and counties that compound the 6-percent rate with additional local sales taxes to increase the sales tax as high as 10 percent.

For example, in Illinois, residents pay 6¼ percent, but Chicago shoppers end up paying a 10-percent sales tax when local duties are added.

According to Thomas Hoatlin, Michigan's revenue commissioner, these states pay a 6-percent sales tax: Connecticut, West Virginia, New Jersey, Maine and Kentucky. Those with 6-percent plus locals include: California, Washington, Florida, Illinois, Minnesota, Texas, Tennessee, Pennsylvannia, Nevada and Washington D.C.

The states with the highest sales taxes are Rhode Island at 7 percent, and Mississippi at 7 percent plus locals.

Residents of Alaska, Delaware, Montana, New Hampshire and Oregon have no sales taxes.

Children in costume will have their picture taken, compliments of the mall. Treats will be passed out. Fairlane Town Center is at Michgan Avenue and Hubbard Drive in Dearborn.

But anytime the cost of an article goes up, there will be some reluctance and pressure on the part of the consumer. It has a negative effect on purchasing. But if a shopper can translate the increase into the savings on his property tax, it becomes subjective. How does he feel about the deal?"

B. L. Davis, vice-president of operations at Shifrin Jewelers, based in Oak Park, blasted any sales tax increase.

"An increase in sales tax will absolutely affect sales. No question about it," he said. "Anytime you impose a larger cost to the consumer especially in the jewelry industry where we are not selling bread-and-butter items, you are going to hurt sales. The bottom line will be affected because the retailer will have to give deeper discounts to off-set new charges.

Larry Meyers, CEO of the Michigan Retailers Association said a survey of members taken last summer revealed that 57 percent were in favor of the sales tax increase.

"We believe the sales tax to be fairer and more equitable than other taxes that might be used to fund education, specifically the property tax," he said. "With an increase there may be some small, ever-so-slight declines in net sales of high ticket retail items but just for a very short period of time — one to two months at the most."

Westland Mall marketing director Claudia Frederick said the bottom line will definitely be affected at her shopping center if the sales tax goes up.

"Consumers are already cautious," she pointed out. "They're looking for sales and discounts in the marketplace. They keep an eye on their pocketbook. I think a tax increase will affect their spending habits."

Phil Morosco, manager of Twelve Oaks Mall was more optimistic.

"My guess is that a two-cent sales tax increase won't have a dramatic effect on business," he said. "People realize it's part of a larger tax package. If nothing else was happening it would have a greater impact. But property tax cuts help."

High school teams play real brand of football

The Michigan-Michigan State game was nice to watch if you like to see a bunch of freaks of nature who can't even run on real grass. As for the pros, these guys don't even play outdoors.

When it comes to football, give me high school games played on grass and mud, in the rain and snow. You know you've been someplace when you've sat in the stands in November.

The action on the field can't be matched in the pros or in college. There are the flubbed passes, missed blocks and the coach's dream, the screen pass. It rarely works in high school football, but it sure looks good when the coach is pulling the strings on the Xs and Os on the blackboard in front of the players.

The linemen weigh all of about 175 pounds, about half that of their counterparts in the Big Ten.

But that's what makes it interesting. Even the punts and and kickoffs are intense.

In the pros and in college, unless you're a Lions or Northwestern fan, a punt looks looks almost mechanical. The receiver holds his hand up for a fair catch and everybody stands around watching.

At a recent Livonia Franklin High School game, the crowd watched in horror as the ball bounced off the receiver's chest and into the arms of a stunned would-be tackler.

But the joy of the incident came later. The kid, Aaron Smith of Livonia, wasn't embarrassed. He was smiling after the game. There were no comments like you hear from the pros or college players about "rededicating themselves to the game." Aaron went on to the other part of his life, training his bird dog, Casey.

JEFF COUNTS

Aaron has football in perspective. Part of that comes from his coaches. My own kid, John, plays on the same team and when I ask him questions, he tells me I played football in the Dark Ages.

"No, the coaches don't yell at us and call us stupid if we mess up," he said.

Also, he was horrified when I told him my high school football coach put us in a cage to practice. It was about two feet high. The idea was to keep us blocking and tackling low, not high.

John has given me as many anxious moments as has Aaron. There was that first pass he caught. He hesitated. My fear was that he would run the wrong way. He didn't. And that meant I had bragging rights in the stands.

Chances are most of these kids won't play in college, much less the pros. But they remember, like my oldest son, Chris. I noticed the other day he was wearing the T-shirt sent to him by now-Michigan State player Mill Coleman.

Coleman was a top quarterback at Farmington Harrison a couple of years back, and he's now a wide receiver at Michigan State.

My kid's hoping that Coleman makes it to the pros. It'll give that T-shirt a lot more value.

Jeff Counts is the editor of the Plymouth and Canton Observer newspapers and was a slower-than-slow tackle when he played high school football. He can be reached at 459-2700.

Quality districts don't need charter schools

QUESTION: Charter Schools are being touted as one answer for the problems of education. How are they structured and how successful have they been? What advantage do they have over our present system?

ANSWER: The first charter school opened in St. Paul, Minnesota in September 1992 (called the City Academy) for 35 inner-city high school "drop-outs." The program was very successful. Some politicians around the country are using this very successful model as the trumpet to demonstrate how well charter schools do and how poor public education is.

Oh, by the way . . . there were four full-time teachers, one teacher aide, volunteer parents, a full-time clerical aide and a part-time psychologist for 35 students in the St. Paul, Minn. Charter School. Lets see now . . . that's a class size of about 8.5 students per teacher with a psychologist, clerical and volunteer support. Not bad!

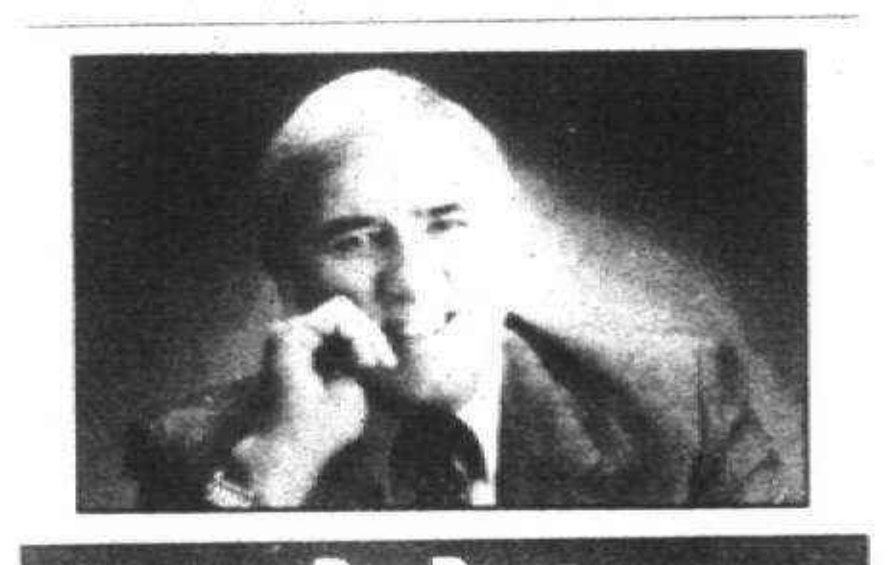
We've got class sizes of over 35 kids in many of this newspaper's readership area. Give me a school district with a class size of 8-1 and I'll come out of retirement.

'At risk' kids

Most of the charter schools, to this point, have focused on "at risk" kids, often inner-city children who desperately need a highly intensified program with support services. All charter schools seem to have a specific focus. In Minnesota, the birth place of the concept, there are, to name a few, the Metro Deaf School, the New Heights "at risk student" program, in which teachers are paid on a merit system (no contract).

The first question I have is do quality, high performing school districts really need to break off into a charter system? Many are doing fine, thank you. The focus in regard to charter schools, with its built-in accountability factor (perform or we take the money away from you), seems to have initially been on those districts which have a multitude of racial, violent, social, emotional and learning problems.

Wayne State University has a charter school which, I must say, is a plus for Michigan. Operating through a nationally known quality university with a fine education department is a plus.



DOC DOYLE

But if a local school district goes for a charter school and their classrooms are filled to capacity, who is going to pay the rent for an ancillary building . . . for bringing it up to code . . . for refurbishing. Districts can't offer much, if money has to be used for buildings, money local school districts get from bond issues. Does the local district have to go back to the voters?

Wayne State University or a local school district running a program is fine, but opening up charter schools to the private sector for entrepreneurs to run could take some watching.

Charter school scams

Back in the Kennedy/Johnson era, huge federal grants were given to private sector "people" who guaranteed they would raise children's test scores. It was called Performance Contracting. They came into the school, and supposedly would train teachers into performing miracles with children, i.e. raising test scores by up to 40 percentile points within a school year. The scams that came out of that private sector fiasco in money that went directly into their pockets and not into educational programming were legend.

There are many questions!

■ In some states, charter schools can reject and send back those students who do not behave. We are now talking about a private school funded by the state. And guess which school, in this case, will have the higher test scores?

Certification

■ Will non-certified teachers, such as an auto engineer (out of work because he couldn't take the pay cut), turn a high school math program around? Possibly. But because some engineer can design a headlight doesn't make is still an art.

■ Will the private sector run schools more business-like? Sometimes business decisions are not the best decisions for children. Schools aren't driven by a profit motive by the very fact some children require more, such as special education, etc.

Every choice option, every gimmick I've seen over the years that tries to repair education without addressing the core problems, which are societal, has failed. Adding a few charter schools is not going to do it.

But let's give it a try, recognizing that 20 plus or minus charter schools in Michigan are not going to save education. And let's be honest. All these latter day salvation-of-education concepts have, besides hoping to improve education, one major purpose . . . neutralize, right or wrong, the power base of the Michigan Education Association and the National Education Association.

Vultures

Visiting Michigan on way south

BY TIMOTHY NOWICKI
STAFF WRITER

A couple weeks ago I was driving north on I-75 near the Palace and spotted something that was reminiscent of I-75 in Florida. Several turkey vultures were perched on the large branches of a dead tree. This is a fairly common sight in Florida, but not here in Michigan.

Mid October is when most turkey vultures migrate south on their way to southern states. They migrated north in March, nested throughout the state and now are heading south where carrion is easier to feed on.

The vultures I saw in the tree were still grounded after their nighttime rest. Large birds like the vulture rely on rising air currents in order to take to the air. Those cold mornings we had a couple weeks ago did not result in warm rising air before I spotted the birds.

In preparation for flight, birds often expose themselves to the warming sun to dry their feathers from the morning dew. As the sun rises and warms the ground, air currents begin to rise. When conditions are right, the birds take flight. They flap fly to gain their initial altitude, but then rely on the rising air currents to lift them high into the sky.

Vultures are masters of the air currents. Once they are air borne they seldom flap, that is one way to identify them. They also hold their wings in a flattened V shape. Most other large birds of prey hold their wings out flat as they soar. Turkey vultures are also very black when viewed from below. Hawks are not that black, unless it happens to be an unusual dark phase bird.

Riding the rising air currents conserves a great deal of energy. Flapping large wings constantly can drain the energy reserves of a bird that size very quickly. Broad, long wings are designed to use those air currents as efficiently as possible.

Other large migrating birds must also rest on land during the night because there are no air currents to ride. On Sept. 18, 1993, over 60,000 broad-winged hawks passed by the southeastern part of Michigan. These birds rely on those rising air currents also and must rest during the night in forests along the way. They do not all go to one area, but during their migration more people find dead or injured ones on their property.

During mid October, keep an eye to the sky during the day and see how many vultures you can spot.

Area commissioners have small staffs

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

An Oct. 21 Observer article about the staffs of the Wayne County commissioners failed to mention the staffs of commissioners Bryan Amann, D-Wayne; Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia; and Michelle Plawecki, D-Dearborn Heights.

Amann had five people on his payroll in 1992, paying them $52,000. By May 23 this year he had three people on his 1993 payroll, all of whom also appeared on his 1992 payroll.

McCotter and Plawecki didn't join the commission until January 1993, so there are no 1992 office-budget figures for them. According to the 1993 figures McCotter is on track to spend $39,000 on three staff members.

Plawecki proves to be the most frugal county commissioner in 1993 when it comes to staff. She gets by with one staffer, a secretary who is on track to earn about $27,000 this year.

Also, commission Vice Chairwoman Kay Beard, D-Westland, wants it known that only one of her two staff members is paid entirely out of her office budget ($26,000 in 1992). The other staff member is paid about $34,000 a year, but only $10,000 of that is paid with Beard's office budget.

County pols to lose cars, eventually

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

The next Wayne County executive will have to drive his own car on county business thanks to a new ordinance passed Thursday, Oct. 21, by the county commission.

Written by commissioner Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, the ordinance forbids county elected officials and their staffs from using county cars. But current officials who drive county cars may keep the vehicles as long as they stay in their current jobs. (McCotter also represents Plymouth and Plymouth Township.)

Other provisions of the ordinance are:

- The elimination of flat rate mileage reimbursements, some totaling $350 per month, to county officials.
- The prohibition of the personal use of county vehicles.
- The requirement that the county purchase the most economical vehicles. (Example: Don't buy a big Cadillac when a small Chevy will do.)
- The establishment of annual record keeping and purchase requests, with reports going to the county commission.

The ordinance was co-sponsored by several other commissioners and passed by unanimous vote. "This ordinance will promote accountability and economy within the county's vehicle fleet," said McCotter in a press release. "While short-term savings will be realized, its true benefit to taxpayers will be the realization of long-term savings. Finally, Wayne County will know what vehicles it has and, most importantly, what vehicles it needs."

Commission vice chairwoman Kay Beard, D-Westland, who also represents Garden City, praised McCotter. "I think we're all much better off driving our own cars," she said. "McCotter is very good. He has a lot of good ideas and really works hard at being a good commissioner."

Commissioner Bryan Amann, D-Wayne, who also represents Canton, said McCotter "really deserves a lot of credit for having done it. He has seasoned tremendously."

Commissioner Michelle Plawecki, D-Dearborn Heights, who also represents Redford, issued a written statement: "Most people drive to work each day at their own expense. Therefore, I do not think that it is unreasonable to expect the same from your elected officials."

The car ordinance is the result of an audit released June 14 by the county's auditor general, Ramona Henderson. McCotter was assigned to write the ordinance by audit committee chairwoman Susan Hubbard, D-Dearborn.

The audit said that management of the county fleet of 447 vehicles is decentralized and sloppy, which opens the door for abuse of county vehicle privileges.

Executive Edward McNamara criticized the audit report initially, claiming the auditor general's office is "a political arm of the county commission," but McNamara ultimately worked with McCotter in drafting the ordinance.

In his press release, McCotter lauded the cooperation between branches of county government. For help in drafting the ordinance, McCotter credited Hubbard, McNamara's man Dave Katz, Department of Public Services director of administration Bob Biga, Kathleen Micallef from the sheriff's department and the auditor general Ramona Henderson.

"This ordinance is proof that all branches of county government can cooperate and put aside personal politics to constructively change public policy," McCotter wrote. "It isn't easy; but it's necessary. And everyone involved deserves credit for this accomplishment."

Bake great cookies with love in your heart

This column will certainly appeal to you if - you have children in school; you are a room parent; you have grand children; you plan on sending a goody box for the holidays; or you love cookies.

Anyone who enjoys cookies will certainly appreciate the following information on cookie baking. If you have ever experienced the thrill of having to send three dozen cookies with your child to school for the class party, this information will probably save you from having to experience the all-night check-out at Meijer's.

For the best tasting cookies, I offer the following tips:

The amount of air incorporated into the creaming process is directly related to the volume of the finished baked goods. In basic terms, when the recipe says cream the fat with the sugar, cream it and cream it again. The mixture should be light and fluffy. How long is till "light and fluffy?"

I made three batches of cookies and creamed for 1, 2 and 4 minutes respectively. There was a difference, and the cookies creamed for almost 4 minutes were noticeably lighter.

Avoid whipped butters and spreads, and for the best tasting cookies, combine equal parts of shortening with butter.

Dry cookies

Dry cookies can be traced to two factors, either you added too much flour or baked them too long. Use dry measuring cups when measuring. Never pat or thump the flour into the cup, simply level with the straight edge of a knife or spatula.

Always set the timer for 1-2 minutes shorter than the time called for in the recipe. Oven temperatures vary. You can always cook for another minute, but you can never take it away.

For optimum results, use baking powder and baking soda within one year of purchase. If you need a new box of soda, freshen the drain with the old box and get a new one. Baking powder should be stored in an air-tight container and generally looses it's strength to leaven after 12 months.

In order to get the leaveners working properly, and to avoid thin cookies, always preheat the oven at least 10 minutes before baking cookies.

Proper equipment

Contrary to popular belief, cookie sheets do make a difference. The best cookies are made on shiny aluminum pans and cookie sheets. Shiny pans brown lightly and evenly. Dark sheets may absorb heat and cause over browning on the bottom.

Chef's secret: if you're using those new insulated cookie sheets remember that cookies may not brown as much on the bottom, and they may take slightly longer to bake. For professional results, I recommend covering the sheet with parchment paper; cookies slide off, it's reusable, and the pans are a breeze to clean.

If you grease the pans before baking, always use shortening as butter tends to brown quickly and spray-on coatings sometimes cause sticking.

When you have a recipe that makes 4 dozen cookies, it's difficult to bake cookies one sheet at a time. For optimum results, one sheet in the center rack works best, however, you can place racks on the top and bottom thirds of the your oven.

Halfway between baking times, rotate the pans, and you'll still achieve good results. Another secret, use only cool cookie sheets. Dough dropped onto hot cookie sheets will melt and spread before baking.

We never had this problem when baking cookies with momma because we ate them as fast as they came out of the oven. The best cookies are allowed to rest for at least one minute on the sheet after baking, and then transferred to a wire rack for complete cooling. Steam from cooling cookies needs to evaporate, this prevents them from becoming soggy.

Cookies are done when they are firmly set and browned according to the recipe directions. When you touch them lightly with your finger, almost no imprint should remain.

It would be a cruel joke to send a copy of this article to Aunt Mabel in Tallahassee knowing darn well her cookies double as snowman eyes and buttons, but baking cookies is an art in itself, and whenever you bake, always do it with love in your heart. Trust me, it does make a difference.

CHILIES

FIRE UP THE FLAVOR

BY JOAN BORAM
SPECIAL WRITER

In his search for a new route to the spice-laden Indies, Christopher Columbus had a different pepper in mind than what he found in the New World. When he returned to Spain, he described his find as "pepper more pungent than that of the Caucasus." Spice-hungry Europeans quickly adopted the new vegetable, which quickly spread to Asia and Africa. The world's cuisines were never the same!

Americans have developed an enthusiasm for spicy foods in the past few years - just witness the proliferation of Thai restaurants - and spicy means hot peppers.

It's inevitable that cooks would want to serve spicy dishes at home, and produce departments, which only a year or so ago were stocking a few jalapenos, are now offering a representative choice of chiles, ranging from mild to masochistic.

According to Fabritio Cassini, produce buyer and merchandiser for Shopping Center Markets, "Sales are growing steadily, but gradually. We carry about 15 kinds of chilies, fresh and dried, and customers are beginning to experiment with the hotter ones.

"Really, chilies are fairly new on the market. A few years ago, they weren't generally available, except in certain ethnic markets. But now that they're on the market, we're seeing new varieties. Recently, we got two kinds of habaneras, yellow and red, from California. They're very hot. We also got a new mild chile, called Tequila, from Mexico. All Shopping Center Markets' chilies are prewrapped and labeled as to degree of heat."

Ken Horgan's fellow Livonia firefighters are also fire eaters, if Horgan's prize-winning chili is any indication of their tolerance for heat. Most recently, Horgan took first prize at the Michigan State Fair, but he's entered his fiery concoction in 12 other chili cook-offs and walked off with several awards.

Horgan makes his firehouse chili with fresh jalapeno, habanero and cayenne chilies, because "The guys like to break out in a sweat when they eat it.

"But it's not really that hot," said Horgan, "I cut the chilies in small pieces, and they cook down, so you could never identify the peppers, or take a bite of one."

Horgan said he started by adding small amounts, but the amount increased as the guys became accustomed to heat.

See CHILIES, 2B

FIRE-EATER'S TIPS

Fabrito Cassini of Shopping Center Markets, offers the following tips for using chilies:

The heat in chilies is not contained in the seeds, although they may have some heat. Some 89 percent of the capsaicin, responsible for the heat, is located in the interior ribs of the pepper. There are uneven spots throughout pepper, but this is the main hot spot.

Every single chile has a different bite, even those that come from the same plant. Add peppers to a dish a little at a time, to control heat.

Sample hot peppers before deciding how to use them. Halve the pepper (don't forget rubber gloves!) and taste a sample from the section that doesn't have ribs. You can control the heat in a dish by discarding the seeds and cutting off the ribs.

If you ever overestimate your (or your guests') capacity for spiciness, don't try to put out the fire with soda or water or beer. Offer dairy products, starchy foods, such as bread, plain table sugar, or hard candy.

Switch to low-fat one product at a time

LAURA LETOBAR

JoAnn Jones of West Bloomfield is in a very common predicament. She knows that she and her husband Doug would benefit healthwise if she decreases their daily fat intake. But, like most of us, JoAnn has had a few bad experiences with fat-free and low-fat products.

When "fat-free" products first became available, many companies rushed to have their products on the shelves first. Unfortunately, taste sometimes was sacrificed. But, once food companies noticed that consumers were not continuing to buy their products, they realized that the benefits of low-fat did not compensate for a decrease in flavor.

JoAnn has decided to give low-fat products another try. She wants to learn how to shop wisely, and overhaul their eating habits. Like many of us, she feels she tends to be sporadic in her low-fat choices.

Instead of trying new low-fat substitutes, JoAnn tends not to try new products. This probably is due to the few bad experiences she has had in the past. It can be frustrating and expensive to try a new product, and be disappointed with the flavor or texture.

But remember, food companies are competing for the "fat-free market." They must make their products taste as close to the real thing as possible to remain competitive. The days of fat-free cheeses that never melted, and tasted like plastic are over!

JoAnn's recipe for Brunch Quiche was a challenge. I knew that it had to be close to the original in taste if I was going to make a believer out of her. So, instead of using all fat-free cheese I mixed low-fat and fat-free cheese in equal proportions.

RECIPE MAKE OVER

GRAMS OF FAT PER SERVING: 21.7

Brunch Quiche
Original Recipe

1/2 of a 1-pound package elbow noodles, uncooked
6 to 8 slices bacon, chopped
2 cups shredded American cheese
2 cups chredded Monterey Jack cheese
2 cups soft bread cubes
1 medium onion, finely chopped
1 small green bell pepper, finely chopped
4 eggs, separated
2 cups milk
1 teaspoon salt
6 to 8 drops bottled hot pepper sauce
Red salsa (optional)

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Prepare noodles according to package directions; drain. In medium bowl, combine macaroni, bacon, cheeses, bread cubes, onion and green pepper. In medium bowl, beat together egg yolks, milk, salt and hot pepper sauce. Add to macaroni mixture; mix well. In large bowl, beat egg whites until stiff. Fold into macaroni mixture. Pour into buttered 12-inch quiche dish or 13 by 9-inch baking dish. Place a shallow baking dish with 1 to 2 inches water on lowest rack of oven. Place quiche on center rack. Bake until set and knife inserted in center comes out clean, about 1 hour. Let stand 5 minutes before cutting. Garnish as desired. Serve with salsa. Refrigerate leftovers. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

GRAMS OF FAT PER SERVING: 3.9

Brunch Quiche
Reduced-Fat Recipe

1/2 of a 1-pound package elbow noodles, uncooked
2 Tablespoons BacO's imitation bacon bits
2 cups Kraft Healthy Favorites shredded cheddar cheese
2 cups Healthy Choice fat free shredded cheddar cheese
2 cups fat-free bread cubes (cut from 2 slices of fat-free bread)
1 medium onion, finely chopped
1 small green bell pepper, finely chopped
Egg Beaters egg substitute equal to 4 eggs
2 cups skim milk
6 to 8 drops bottled hot pepper sauce
Red salsa (optional)

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Prepare pasta according to directions on package; drain. In a large bowl, combine macaroni, bacon bits, cheeses, bread cubes, onion and green pepper. In a medium bowl, beat together Egg Beaters, milk and hot pepper sauce. Add to macaroni mixture; mix well. Pour into 13 by 9-inch non-stick baking pan and cover with foil. Place a shallow baking dish with 1 to 2 inches of water on lowest rack of oven. Place quiche on center rack. Bake until set and knife inserted in center comes out clean, about 1 hour. Let stand 5 minutes before serving to allow excess liquid to evaporate. Serve with salsa. Makes 10 servings.

"The chilies perk up the flavor of almost every type of food," he said. "I add them to almost everything."

Mary Lore, owner of McFarland's Greenhouse and Nursery in Farmington Hills, not only makes and cans her own spaghetti sauce, but she even grows the herbs and chilies that she uses to flavor it.

"I love hot foods," said Lore, "and our customers' taste for chilies is developing; I can tell because they've requested that we get transplants for hotter varieties next spring."

Lore says that peppers, sweet or hot, are among the easiest plants to grow, but that, like tomatoes, they need steadily warm temperatures.

"Fruit sets in a limited range of night temperatures. The blossoms drop when night temperatures fall much below 60 degrees, so it's best to be patient and not put them in much before Memorial Day."

If you don't have a lot of room to grow things, consider planting peppers in containers.

"I especially recommend that hot peppers be grown in containers where they can be kept out of the reach of small children," said Lore. "Peppers are attractive, and a child could easily grab one and take a bite before anyone could intervene. It would be an extremely painful experience for the child, and very stressful for everyone else!"

Lore says that sweet peppers can be picked at any state of their development, but if you leave fully ripe peppers on the plant their presence will reduce subsequent yield.

Hot peppers, however, should be allowed to achieve full growth and flavor before harvesting. They will keep well if you string a thread through them and hang them indoors.

You can dry both sweet and hot peppers for winter use. In Mexico, the dried peppers are ground daily in a mortar to make chili powder.

"A pinch of this powder will add flavor, if not fire, to any dish," said Lore.

You must take precautions when working with hot peppers, then wash your hands thoroughly when through. Never rub your eyes or touch your face. Wash the cutting board thoroughly with salt and cold water, and clean knives and dishes or pans thoroughly.

If you're wearing rubber gloves, it's easy to forget the danger and answer the telephone or clean your glasses while wearing them. If you do, you're laying a booby trap for yourself or someone else by leaving oil from the chiles on the phone or on your glasses. You (or someone) could be very, very uncomfortable!

This results in a better flavor, and still drastically cuts fat. The original recipe called for separating the eggs. I found Egg Beaters worked just as well. They hold the macaroni together nicely, yet it is not mushy or runny. I recommend using the salsa on top of the quiche. It gives it a little extra moisture and lots of flavor.

The simplest suggestion for reducing fat is to use a non-stick pan. Aside from being an easy way to lower the fat content, it will reduce cleanup time. JoAnn also said she would like to learn how to read and understand labels on packages. She feels part of the problem is that the labels are misleading. By learning what everything means she would be able to make better choices.

I suggested she buy one new product each time she grocery shops, and read the label. Compare it to its high fat version. This makes it less time consuming and overwhelming.

CHOCOLATE CHIP COOKIES

¾ cup firmly packed brown sugar
½ cup granulated sugar
½ cup butter or margarine, softened
½ cup shortening
1½ teaspoons vanilla
1 egg
1¾ cups all purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup chocolate chips
½ cup chopped nuts (optional)

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. In a large bowl, combine brown sugar, sugar, margarine and shortening; beat until light and fluffy. Add vanilla and egg; blend well. Stir in flour, baking soda and salt; mix well. Stir in chocolate chips and nuts, if desired.

Drop dough by teaspoonfuls 2 inches apart, onto an ungreased cookie sheet. Bake at 375 degrees for 8 to 10 minutes or until light golden brown. Cool 1 minute; remove from cookie sheets. Makes 4 dozen cookies.

LOW-FAT OATMEAL RAISIN COOKIES

⅔ cup pitted prunes
¾ cup flour
½ cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
2 egg whites
¼ cup honey
1¼ cups rolled oats
¼ cup raisins

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. In a food processor or blender, puree prunes until smooth. In a large bowl, stir together flour, brown sugar, cinnamon, baking soda and salt. Add prune puree, egg whites and honey.

Beat with an electric mixer on medium speed until well blended, scraping down the sides of the bowl frequently with a rubber spatula. Fold in oatmeal and raisins. Drop by heaping teaspoonfuls 2 inches apart onto lightly greased cookie sheets.

Bake 10-12 minutes or until golden brown. Allow to cool 2 minutes, tehn transfer to a rack to cool completely. Makes about 42.

PECAN PUFFS

½ cup butter
2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup pecan meats, ground
1 cup cake flour
Powdered sugar

Preheat oven to 300 degrees. In a large bowl, beat butter until soft. Add sugar and cream to mix well. Stir in vanilla and mix well. Stir in nuts and flour into the butter mixture and mix until blended. Roll the dough into small balls. Place balls on a greased cookie sheet and bake for 30 minutes.

Remove from the oven and while hot, roll in powdered sugar. Cool and serve. Makes 40 cookies 1½ inch balls.

GINGER-SPICED PICKLED PEPPERS

1 each red, green, and yellow bell pepper, quartered lengthwise and thinly sliced crosswise
1 jalapeno, halved, seeded, and thinly sliced lengthwise (Fire-eaters can change the proportion of bells to jalapeno, or even use a hotter pepper, such as Poblano.)
1 two-inch piece of fresh ginger, peeled and cut into thin matchsticks
1 cup rice vinegar
2 tablespoons sugar
1½ teaspoons salt

In a wide, shallow, non-aluminum dish, toss the red, green and yellow bell peppers with the jalapeno and ginger. In a bowl, combine the vinegar, sugar, and salt with 1 cup of water, stirring to dissolve. Pour over the peppers, cover and refrigerate overnight.

Pack the peppers into a 1-quart (or two 1-pint) canning jars and pour the liquid over to cover. Store in refrigerator for least 1 day before using, and up to 1 month.

Allow time to make these pickles ahead so that their flavor fully develops. Serve at room temperature or heated.

SPAGHETTI SQUASH WITH TOMATO-CHILI SAUCE

One 2-pound spaghetti squash
4 tablespoons full-flavored olive oil
1 teaspoon minced garlic
1 or 2 jalapeno chili-peppers, seeded and minced (you may use hotter peppers, if your taste desires)
1½ pounds very ripe plum tomatoes, peeled, seeded, and coarsely diced
½ teaspoon salt
1-2 teaspoons balsamic vinegar
Pepper to taste
3 tablespoons chopped cilantro

Bake spaghetti squash: Prick the squash throgh with a sharp knife or fork in 2-3 places. Place in a pan in a 350-degree oven and bake about 45 minutes to an hour, until it's easily depressed by your finger.

Remove from oven and halve at once, Let cool briefly, then scoop out and discard seeds. With fork, "comb" strands from each half until only the shell remains.

While squash is cooking, heat 3 tablespoons oil: add garlic and jalapeno. Stir for a minute over moderate heat. Add tomatoes and cook for 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. It will thicken slightly. Add salt and balsamic venegar to taste.

Prepare squash, and toss with the remaining tablespoon oil. Salt and pepper to taste. Spoon the tomato mixture over the squash, then sprinkle with the colantro. Toss gently at the table.

CRANBERRY-JALAPENO RELISH

1 orange
1 cup whole, fresh cranberries
2 teaspoons grated fresh ginger
2 teaspoons chopped fresh cilantro
2 teaspoons seeded and chopped jalapeno pepper
Maple syrup to taste (about 1½ tablespoons)

Grate the zest from the orange and set aside. Remove the white pith and seeds and cut the orange into sections.

Place the orange zest, sections, cranberries, ginger, cilantro and jalapeno in a food chopper or blender and process until cranberries are coarse. Stir in maple syrup. Cover and let stand at leaest 30 mintes before serving.

MEXICAN VEGETABLE SAUTE

2 tablespoons vegetable oil
½ cup chopped onions
1 or 2 cloves elephant garlic, peeled and thinly sliced
1 jalapeno pepper, seeded and cut into thin strips
1½ cups cooked diced potatoes or sweet potatoes
1½ cups diced zucchini or other squash
½ cup whole kernel corn (if frozen, thaw)
1 tablespoon cilantro, chopped
salt and pepper to taste

Heat oil in a large skillet. Saute onion, elephant garlic and pepper over medium-low heat for 3 to 5 minutes, or until garlic is tender. (do not allow vegetables to burn). Add potatoes and squash.

You may vary the squash-type vegetables in this recipe, according to availability.

Take the fat out of classic dishes

AP — We're always looking for ways to cut the fat from classic dishes, even ethnic classics. Piccata (pih-CAH-tuh), a piquant Italian dish, is one favorite recently revamped.

Traditionally, piccata means that the meat is coated with flour, sauteed in butter and served in a sauce of fatty pan drippings and lemon juice. For the low-fat version, we skipped the flour coating (which tends to absorb fat during cooking), and cooked the meat with cooking spray. The sauce, made with butter-flavored sprinkles, delivers the rich taste you expect. The result? A mouthwatering dish our tasters said they would make next time they wanted a classic.

PICATTA-STYLE PORK

6 ounces pasta (such as cut ziti, linguine, or angel hair)
¾ pound thinly sliced pork for scaloppine or pork tenderloin
Non-stick spray coating
2 tablespoons beef or chicken broth
¼ cup lemon juice
1½-ounce envelope butter-flavored sprinkles (8 teaspoons)
1 teaspoon Dijon-style mustard
⅛ teaspoon pepper
Lemon slice (optional)

Cook pasta according to package directions. Drain; keep warm.

Preheat broiler. If using pork tenderloin, slice meat ½ inch thick. Place tenderloin slices between two pieces of plastic wrap; pound with the flat side of a meat mallet to ⅛ inch thickness.

Spray the cold rack of a broiler pan generously with non-stick coating. Arrange the pork scaloppine or pounded pork tenderloin slices on the broiler pan; brush generously with broth. Broil for 2 to 3 minutes on each side or until done, brushing frequently with broth to keep pork moist.

Meanwhile, in a small saucepan stir together lemon juice, butter-flavored sprinkles, mustard and pepper. Heat through over low heat.

To serve, pour half of the sauce over hot pasta; toss to coat. Divide pasta and pork among four dinner plates. Spoon remaining sauce over meat. Garnish with a lemon slice, if desired. Makes 4 servings.

Lowly bean's full of nutrition

LOIS THIELEKE

Beans are back! Beans are a powerhouse of nutritional value. They are loaded with protein, fiber, vitamins and minerals and low in fat. Recent research has found that water soluble fiber like that found in beans can lower blood cholesterol and possibly decrease the risk of heat disease. Beans help control diabetes by slowing the amount of glucose (sugar) that is absorbed in the bloodstream. Eating a serving of beans for dinner may stave off the hunger for late night snacks.

A cup of pinto or black beans has 16 grams of fiber. You'd have to eat eight slices of whole wheat bread, or four cups of corn, or five bananas or 4½ baked potatoes to get an equal amount of fiber. A cup of any cooked beans will provide at least half of the recommended amount of folic acid and B vitamins.

Beans also contain magnesium, potassium, zinc, and phosphorus. Beans are a plant food so contain no cholesterol and contain only 224 calories per cup, less calories than three ounces of cooked meat.

If you are new to eating beans, start with a small amount and increase gradually or you may have problems with gas. Eating cabbage or brussel sprouts with beans can also add to your stomach discomfort. Lentils, black-eyed peas, lima beans, chickpeas and white beans are thought to be less gassy. Don't cook the beans in the same water in which you have soaked them. That water contains the sugar from the beans. Cook the beans thoroughly, that will make the starches more digestible.

Dry edible beans have been a staple in man's diet since the Bronze Age. In the 17th century it was thought that beans possessed magical powers and were used to cure everything from colds to baldness. Michigan is the largest bean producing state, growing about 40 percent of the total United States bean crop. Michigan produces navy, black turtles, cranberry, great northern, kidney, pinto and yellow eye beans.

Navy beans, are small white ovals and used in soups, stew, Boston baked beans and make a great puree. Black turtles are a medium black-skinned oval used in Mexican and Latin American foods.

Cranberry beans are medium ovals mottled pinkish red or beige and used in soups, stews and salads. Great Northern are large ovals and added to soups, stews and baked beans. Kidney beans are a distinctive kidney shape and are most often used in chili.

Pinto beans are medium ovals mottled light brown or beige and most often used in Mexican bean dishes, especially refried beans. Yellow eyes are medium white ovals with a dark yellow "eye" used most often in salads for color.

Dry beans

Dry beans need to be soaked before cooking. There are two methods — overnight and quick soak. To soak overnight, use six cups cold water and two teaspoons of salt for every pound of beans. Cover and let stand overnight. Beans soaked overnight keep their shape better than quick soak.

For a quick soak, bring one pound of beans and six cups water to a boil, cook two minutes, remove from heat, cover and let stand one hour. No matter which method you use, they will need to be simmered about two hours or until tender. Simmer beans gently to prevent the skins from bursting. Do not boil beans.

Cooked beans can be served alone, in soups, dips, with meats, in salads or puree and add to cakes, cookies or tones. Make lentil or black bean soup by combining them with chopped celery, carrots and other vegetables and season with paprika, fresh chopped coriander, parsley and ground cardamon. Fill flour tortillas with black beans, tomato chunks, chopped lettuce and feta cheese and roll for a burrito. Hummus is a blend of garbanzo beans, garlic, lemon juice, cumin, red pepper and sesame seed paste. That is a delicious Middle Eastern dip.

A pound of beans equals about two cups. Beans triple in volume when soaked and cooked so, a cup of dry beans yields three cups cooked. Dry beans will keep indefinitely if stored in a tightly sealed container or the original package. Cooked beans should be covered, and can be refrigerated up to four to five days.

Cooked beans and bean dishes can be frozen for up to six months.

Pumpkins: More than jack-o'- lantern material

LITE SUCCESS

FLORINE MARK

The only time most of us think of pumpkin is when we're carving jack-o'-Lanterns or waiting to dig into a piece of pumpkin pie at Thanksgiving dinner. What many of us don't realize is that pumpkin is a nutritious vegetable that's high in beta-carotene, Vitamin A and potassium. So, if you love pumpkin as much as I do, you'll be happy to know there are many wonderful ways to enjoy the taste of pumpkin — even if it's not Thanksgiving.

Ever tried pumpkin pancakes? If you haven't, you're in for a delicious surprise. Haitian Pumpkin Pancakes will bring an international flair to your Sunday morning brunch. Top with reduced-calorie maple syrup or serve with a fruit spread.

If you're interested in entertaining, remember that appearance and presentation is so important. If a dish looks appetizing, it will be appetizing to your guests. Be creative with your pumpkin presentations.

Take miniature pumpkins, carve out the inside and use the pumpkin shell as a soup bowl for delicious Pumpkin Soup. Or, chill the pumpkin shells and use them as serving bowls for Pumpkin Pudding, an appetizing alternative to fattening pumpkin pie.

Although you can't beat the taste of fresh pumpkin, you can still enjoy these recipes even when it's not in season. Canned pumpkin puree is always available at your grocery store and offers the same nutritional value as fresh pumpkin.

PUMPKIN SOUP

2 teaspoons reduced-calorie tub margarine
¼ cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons chopped green bell pepper
1 tablespoon all-purpose flour
1 cup skim milk
1 cup canned pumpkin puree
1 teaspoon low-sodium instant chicken broth mix
⅛ teaspoon dried thyme
Chopped parsley for garnish

In small saucepan, melt margarine. Add onion and pepper; cook until soft but not brown, 4 to 5 minutes.

Whisk in flour; stir in milk, pumpkin, 1 cup water, broth mix, and thyme. Cook over medium-high heat, stirring occasionally, until slightly thickened and just boiling. Garnish with parsley, if desired. Makes 1 Serving.

Each serving provides: 1 Milk, 1 Fat, 2¾ Vegetables, 40 Optional Calories. Per serving: 262 calories, 5 g fat

PUMPKIN PUDDING

1 cup reduced-calorie nonfat vanilla yogurt
½ cup canned pumpkin puree
Granulated sugar substitute to equal 1 teaspoon sugar
⅛ teaspoon pumpkin pie spice
2 tablespoons reduced-calorie whipped topping (8 calories per tablespoon)
Ground cinnamon for garnish

In small bowl, combine all ingredients, except whipped topping and cinnamon, until blended. Spoon into 2 dessert dishes. Cover and refrigerate, or serve immediately.

To serve, place 1 tablespoon whipped topping on each pudding. Garnish with cinnamon. Makes 2 Servings.

Each serving provides: ½ Milk, ½ Vegetable, 10 Optional Calories. Per Serving: 80 calories, 1 g fat.

Bake a crunchy apple loaf

Fall is the time to revel in crisp weather, crunchy sweet apples and fragrant breads, still warm from the oven. Apple breakfast loaf is a wholesome bread, made with whole-bran cereal and chopped apples. Be sure to use a yeast that requires only one rising.

To help ensure bread-making success, the home economists at Fleischmann's Yeast offer the following tips:

■ Use a thermometer to make sure liquids are the right temperature.

■ To let dough rise, cover and set it on a wire rack on top of a large pan filled two-thirds with hot water.

■ To test for doneness, after turning bread out of the pan, tap the bottom and sides of the loaf. If it sounds hollow, the bread is done. The overall crust color should be golden brown.

■ To cool, remove bread from the pan and place on a wire rack to keep crust crisp.

■ To store bread, wrap airtight and store at room temperature. Freeze for longer storage. Thaw at room temperature or use the low or defrost setting of your microwave oven.

APPLE BREAKFAST LOAF

1 ¾ cups water
1 cup whole-bran cereal
¼ cup butter or margarine
5 ½ to 6 cups all-purpose flour
⅓ cup firmly packed light brown sugar
2 packages rapid rise yeast (yeast that requires only one rising)
1 ½ teaspoons salt
¾ teaspoon ground nutmeg
2 cups finely chopped apples (about 2 apples)
One recipe icing (recipe below)

Heat water, bran and butter until very warm, 125 degrees F to 130 degrees F; let stand 5 minutes. Meanwhile, in a large bowl, combine 1 cup of the flour, the sugar, undissolved yeast, salt and nutmeg. Stir bran mixture into dry ingredients. Stir in apple and enough remaining flour to make soft dough. Knead on lightly floured surface until smooth and elastic, about 6 to 8 minutes. Cover, let rest 10 minutes.

Divide dough in half. On lightly floured surface, roll each half to a 12- by 7-inch rectangle. Roll each up tightly from short end as for a jellyroll. Pinch seams and ends to seal. Place each loaf, seam side down, in greased 8½ by 4-inch pan. Let rise in warm, draft-free place until doubled in size, about 30 to 45 minutes.

Bake in a 375-degree F oven for 40 minutes or until done. Remove from pans; cool on wire rack. Drizzle with icing.

For the icing:

Combine 1 cup confectioners' sugar and 1 to 2 tablespoons apple juice concentrate or lemon juice. Beat until smooth.

Try our turkey stuffing contest

We want to know what's — "The Stuff Good Stuffing Is Made Of" for Thanksgiving. Enter our stuffing contest and you could win one of three prizes — a 20-25 pound fresh turkey from Roperti Turkey Farms in Livonia, a $25 gift certificate from Kitchen Glamor, or the newly published "365 Ways to Prepare For Christmas" by David E. Monn.

What will you stuff your turkey with on Thanksgiving Day? We're on the lookout for the best stuffing recipe to share with our readers on Nov. 22.

All recipes must be original in nature. All entries must be submitted in typed or hand-written form and be postmarked no later than 5 p.m. Monday, Nov. 8, for entry into the contest. Include a day time phone number with your entry, and a brief history of the stuffing recipe — it was grandma's recipe, it's been a family favorite for years — you get the idea.

Three finalists will be chosen from all the entries selected. Chef Larry Janes will choose the finalists based on recipe creativity, ingredients, and ease of preparation. The three finalists will be notified no later than 5 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 9.

Finalists will be asked to prepare a single recipe of their stuffing for the judges to Taste.

Send recipes to: Keely Wygonik, Taste/Entertainment Editor, Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, Inc., 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, MI 48150 or fax recipes to 591-7279. If you have any questions, please don't hesitate to call Wygonik, 953-2105 or Chef Larry Janes, 953-2045, mail box 1886.

Cook hamburgers thoroughly, safely

"It is very important to make sure that hamburger or any other meat your family eats is thoroughly cooked," said Sylvia Treitman, home economist for the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service.

It should not be pink inside. The reason for the concern is the recent outbreak of E-Coli poisoning in the western states.

The easiest way to protect against this strain of E-Coli is cooking food thoroughly.

For other questions call the Food and Nutrition Hotline Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. at 858-0904.

Wheat germ boosts nutritional value

Vitamin E and its antioxidant partners, vitamin C and beta carotene, are being dubbed "cardio-nutrients" by some health professionals due to increasing evidence of their ability to protect against heart disease.

How does this new research translate into a daily diet? While vitamin C and beta carotene are more easily obtained from the foods we eat, vitamin E is present only in relatively small amounts. Furthermore, national food consumption data show that most adults do not get the recommended amounts of vitamin E, especially as they grow older.

Good food sources of vitamin E include wheat germ, fortified breakfast cereals, shellfish, sunflower seeds and leafy green vegetables. According to the latest FDA regulations, in order for a serving to be considered a good source it must provide 10 to 19 percent of the Daily Value (U.S. RDA).

Of all the good food sources of vitamin E, wheat germ is the most versatile. And wheat germ is easy to add to meals and snacks. It can be sprinkled on hot and cold breakfast cereal, fruit, salads, casseroles; used as a coating for poultry, fish and vegetables; and added to lean ground meat when making meatloaf, meatballs and burgers.

Here are some recipes from Kretschmer wheat germ to try.

WHOLE WHEAT VEGETABLE PIZZA

½ cup sliced mushrooms
⅓ cup each: red, yellow, green bell pepper strips
¼ cup sliced onion
½ cup tomato sauce
2 teaspoons Parmesan cheese
½ teaspoon Italian seasoning
¾ cup all-purpose flour
⅓ cup wheat germ
½ teaspoon baking powder
⅓ cup skim milk
1 tablespoon vegetable oil

Heat oven to 425. Lightly spray baking sheet with no-stick cooking spray; set aside. Place vegetables in small microwaveable container; cover loosely. Microwave at (HIGH) 1 minute 30 seconds or until crisp-tender; set aside.

Combine tomato sauce, Parmesan cheese and Italian seasoning; set aside. Combine flour, wheat germ and baking powder. Stir in milk and oil; mix well.

With lightly oiled fingers, pat dough onto baking sheet shaping into 8 to 9-inch circle with ¼-inch rim. Bake 5 minutes. Spread sauce over crust. Top with vegetables.

Bake an additional 10 to 12 minutes or until crust is golden brown. Serves 2.

FROSTY FRUIT SMOOTHIE

1 carton (8 ounce) vanilla low-fat yogurt
1 cup sliced peaches (canned or fresh)
1 medium ripe banana
¼ cup wheat germ
¼ cup orange juice
1 cup ice cubes

Place all ingredients in blender container or food processor bowl; cover. Blend about 1 minute or until smooth. Serve immediately. Garnish with fresh fruit and additional wheat germ if desired. Serves 2.

SOUTHWESTERN CHICKEN

½ cup wheat germ
1 teaspoon chili powder
1 teaspoon ground cumin
1 teaspoon instant minced onion
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
¼ teaspoon salt (optional)
⅛ teaspoon cayenne pepper
1 tablespoon water
1 egg white
2 skinless, boneless chicken breast halves
Fresh prepared salsa, optional

Heat oven to 400 degrees. Lightly spray 8-inch square baking dish with no-stick cooking spray.

Combine wheat germ and seasonings; set aside. Beat water and egg white until frothy. Dip chicken into egg white mixture then into wheat germ mixture. Dip and coat chicken again in remaining egg white and wheat germ mixtures, coating chicken thoroughly. Place chicken in prepared pan. Bake 20 to 22 minutes or until done. Serve with salsa. Serves 2.

Pineapple livens up favorite desserts

If the question is how does one round off a meal with unusual, easy-to-prepare dessert sensations that have family and friends cheering for more, the answer is with fresh cut Hawaiian pineapple. You can find it in the fresh produce aisle of your local supermarket.

Spectacular in combination with a wide variety of desserts, which can be effortlessly prepared either before dinner or just prior to serving, fresh cut pineapple adds appeal to even the most mundane of desserts. So, if you want a perfect pastry, a faultless flambe or an unbeatable upside down cake, fresh cut pineapple offers an easy solution.

For example, try livening up a pound cake by cutting it into slices and placing wedges of fresh cut pineapple on it, topped with whipped cream. Or, purchase ready-made tart shells, fill them with wedges of fresh cut pineapple and crown them with your favorite topping.

Pineapple upside-down cake, a favorite in in any American homes, becomes an even more delicious confectionery creation when baked with sweet and juicy fresh cut pineapple. Simply and easily prepared, just arrange fresh cut pineapple in two nine-inch layer cake pans (or any other pans as directed on the cake mix package). Pour melted butter or margarine into the pan and sprinkle with brown sugar. Prepare cake mix as directed and pour batter into pans. Bake as directed. Allow to stand for five minutes after removing from the oven before turning onto a serving plate.

CREAMY FRESH PINEAPPLE PIE

Two 16-ounce bags of fresh cut Hawaiian Pineapple, reserve juice and cut chunks in half
¼ cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
1 egg yolk, beaten
One 9-inch pie crust, baked and cooled
½ cup flaked coconut, toasted

Combine juice, sugar, cornstarch and egg yolk in saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring until clear.

Remove from heat and stir in pineapple. Spoon into crust.

Chill at least 2 hours, until firm. Sprinkle with coconut just before serving. (Makes one 9-inch pie — 8 servings)

Nutrition Information per slice: 253.71 calories, 11.4 g fat, 28.8 mg cholesterol, 36.92 g carbohydrates, 147.94 mg sodium.

PINEAPPLE CHEESECAKE CUPS

12 gingersnap cookies
Two 8-ounce packages cream cheese, at room temperature
¼ cup sugar
2 eggs
¼ cup pineapple juice from bag
One 12-ounce bag of fresh cut Hawaiian Pineapple

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Place cookies in cupcake liners.

Beat cream cheese until smooth. Beat in sugar, eggs and juice until blended; spoon into liners.

Bake 25 minutes until set. Cool on wire rack; chill.

Top with pineapple chunks just before serving. (Makes one dozen)

Nutrition information per one cheesecake using light cream cheese: 174.85 calories, 9.42 g fat, 53.5 mg cholesterol, 17.66 g carbohydrate, 283.38 mg sodium

Using the last green tomatoes

"What can I do with all those green tomatoes still in my garden?" is becoming a common question these days at the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Food Hot-line, said home economist Sylvia Treitman.

Home gardeners are finding themselves knee-deep in a crop of green tomatoes and unsure of what, if anything, to do with them.

"Green tomatoes lend themselves to a variety of tasty relishes and side dishes, and they can be safely canned as long as they are not from dead or frost killed vines," said Treitman. Solid unblemished tomatoes which have not been frost-bitten can be safely canned, if proper processing procedures are followed.

The Ball Blue book, 32nd edition, is a reliable source. If your tomatoes are hit by a frost they still can ripen satisfactorily if they are wrapped in paper and kept at room temperature or a bit cooler. However, tomatoes hit by a hard frost need to be used up at once. They will deteriorate rapidly and will not ripen and should not be canned.

Green tomatoes can also be served in an interesting way by slicing them and frying them. They can also be frozen for frying later. Call the Food and Nutrition Hotline for food questions, Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. at 858-0904.

Preserve fruits in different conserves

Fall Pear Conserve is a jamlike recipe made with fall fruits and nuts. Apple Conserve is filled with light raisins and flavored with a hint of nutmeg. Pectin, an ingredient that is naturally present in some fruits, is essential for the gelling process.

Commercial pectin is available in both liquid and powdered forms. These two products are not interchangeable, so be sure to use the liquid pectin called for in the recipe for Fall Pear Conserve and the powdered pectin called for in the recipe for Apple Conserve.

Do not try to double these recipes or your conserves may not be the right consistency. If you want to make a larger quantity for gifts, repeat the recipes as instructed.

FALL PEAR CONSERVE

6½ cups sugar
1 cup cranberries
½ cup water
1½ to 2 pounds pears, cored, peeled and very finely chopped (3 cups
¾ cup finely chopped walnuts or pecans
2 teaspoons finely shredded lemon peel
6-ounce package (2 foil pouches) liquid fruit pectin
⅓ cup lemon juice

In a 3-quart saucepan combine sugar, cranberries and water. Bring to boiling, stirring frequently until sugar is dissolved. Remove from heat. Add chopped pears, nuts and lemon peel. Let stand for 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Combine the pectin and lemon juice; add to pear mixture. Stir for 3 minutes.

Ladle at once into clean half pint jars or freezer containers, leaving a ½-inch headspace. Seal and label. Let stand for several hours or until conserve is set. Store up to 3 weeks in the refrigerator or 1 year in the freezer. Thaw frozen conserve in the refrigerator. Makes 8 half pints.

Nutrition information per tablespoon: 47 cal. 0 g fat, 0 mg chol., 11 g carbo., 0 g pro., 0 mg sodium, 0 g fiber.

APPLE CONSERVE

5 cups chopped and peeled apples
1 cup water
⅓ cup lemon juice
1 ¾-ounce package powdered fruit pectin
4 cups sugar
1 cup light raisins
½ teaspoon ground nutmeg

In a 6- or 8-quart Dutch oven combine the chopped apples, water and lemon juice. Bring to boiling; reduce heat. Simmer, covered, for 10 minutes.

Stir in powdered pectin and bring to a full rolling boil, stirring constantly. Stir in sugar and raisins. Return to a full boil. Boil hard for 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat.

Stir in nutmeg. Ladle at once into hot, sterilized half-pint jars, leaving a ¼-inch headspace. Adjust lids. Process in boiling-water canner for 5 minutes. Start timing after water boils. Makes 6 half pints.

Nutrition information per tablespoon: 43 cal. 0 g fat, 0 mg chol., 11 g carbo., 0 g pro., 1 mg sodium, 0 g fiber.

Melting chocolate in the microwave

Using your microwave oven to make candy is a simple matter of melting and stirring, with one added bonus: Foods don't scorch and burn as readily as they do in range-top cooking, so cleanup is easier.

Try melting some chocolate for dipping strawberries or caramel for coating apples. Set the time on the microwave oven by referring to the chart below; then check the candy after the first time listed.

Remember, in microwave cooking, chocolate and caramels retain their shape. That means they don't look melted even when they are. Because you can't tell if they're hot enough by just looking through the oven door, you'll have to open the door and stir. When the chocolate pieces or caramels are soft enough to stir smooth, they're melted and ready for candy making. To see how easy it is, try making the two candies below.

Chocolate Caramel Snappers: Arrange 1 ½ cups toasted pecan halves in clusters of three on a greased, foil-lined baking sheet. Melt half of a 14-ounce package of vanilla caramels with 1 tablespoon each milk and butter or margarine. Spoon some of the caramel mixture over each pecan cluster. Let stand for 20 minutes. Melt ⅓ cup semisweet chocolate pieces and 2 teaspoons shortening; spoon over caramel. Cover and chill until firm.

Chocolate Clusters: Melt 1 cup semisweet chocolate pieces and 1 tablespoon shortening. Stir in 1 ¼ cups nuts, chow mein noodles or tiny marshmallows (or a combination of these). Drop from a spoon onto a baking sheet lined with waxed paper. Cover and chill until firm.

To melt caramels and chocolate, place the unwrapped caramels or chocolate squares or pieces in the size measuring cup specified below. Cook, uncovered, on 100 percent power (high), stirring every minute, for the time shown below or until the caramels or chocolate pieces are soft enough to stir smooth.

Caramels

■ Place 14 caramels in a 1-cup measure and cook on high for 30 to 60 seconds.

■ Place half of a 14-ounce package of caramels in a 2-cup measure and cook on high for 1 to 2 minutes.

■ Place 14-ounce package in a 4-cup measure and cook on high for 2 ½ to 3 minutes.

Chocolate squares

■ Place 1 ounce (1 square) of chocolate in a 1-cup measure and cook on high for 1 to 2 minutes.

■ Place 2 ounces (2 squares) of chocolate in a 1-cup measure and cook on high for 1 ½ to 2 minutes.

Chocolate pieces

■ Place ½ cup chocolate pieces in a 1-cup measure and cook on high for 1 ½ to 2 minutes.

■ Place a 6-ounce package (1 cup) chocolate pieces in a 2-cup measure and cook on high for 2 to 2 ½ minutes.

■ Place a 12-ounce package (2 cups) in a 4-cup measure and cook on high for 2 ½ to 3 minutes.

CHEAP EATS

Lisa Rudy takes a gastronomical journey through metropolitan Detroit, looking for good food, good atmosphere and a meal for two for under $25.

BY LISA RUDY
SPECIAL WRITER

Whether it's 2 a.m. or 5 p.m., Piper's Restaurant guarantees they'll satisfy your every desire, as long as it's in the kitchen. Open 24 hours a day, seven days a week, this versatile eatery has been serving up everything from pot pies to primavera for more than 25 years.

Piper's is famous for being comfortable, with its homey-type atmosphere, complete with several oversized puffy booths and diner-like dinner counter. No unnecessary frills here — the walls reflect color schemes familiar to the average chain restaurant and even the curtains and blinds tend to blend into the nondescript background. No occasion to fret, however, because Piper's saves all its energies and decorating dollars to ensure that when their patrons leave, they leave with full stomachs and sporting hefty carryout bags.

Appetizers offered are pretty much the norm — battered and deep fried veggies and the like make up most of the list. Breakfast is served night and day, with the cajun omelette and raisin french toast scoring high as all time favorites.

Piper's entrees are versatile enough to cater to just about anyone's taste. Pasta, seafood, sandwiches, steaks, ribs and chicken are all prepared with familiar ingredients in familiar ways, minus a few Mexican dishes that are pumped with a little secret pizzazz.

Daily specials are featured that patrons have gone wild over every Monday night for years. Huge homemade chicken and turkey pot pies are also a big hit and Piper's veteran diners admit that they haven't seen anyone finish one yet.

Dessert is the main event at this place. Most every confection is made from scratch and done up in a big way. The All-American Chocolate Cake is Piper's pride and joy, layered about 12 inches high and covering an entire dinner plate (and then some). No one should leave without at least sharing a piece of this unbelievable fudge monster. Cheesecakes, fruit pies and sandaes are also offered and Piper's outdoes itself with a delicious orange nut bread accompanied by raisin orange maple butter.

One of the most refreshing things about Piper's is that its philosophy about comfort and comfort food is totally unpretentious. Like one old-time diner told me, "It's just a comfortable, warm place to have coffee and cake, or breakfast, or dinner — anytime you feel like going, it's always there. Can't say that about too many things."

If you're looking to make a gastronomic pilgrimage and are tired of the same old same old, Union Street on Woodward in Detroit is a great destination to head for.

Impervious to trends, yet always in style, Union Street carries on a fine culinary tradition while making a whole new one by throwing a curve ball at conventional cooking wisdom, boldly blending old favorites with a bite of spice.

A dimly lit generous sized dining room, heavily accented with beautifully crafted dark woodwork about covers it as far as decorum goes. However, Union Street pulls off this attempt at understated elegance quite well, and the booming business adds just about the right noise level to make you feel like you could really be at home.

A full daily-rotated menu is available, with items offered according to the chef's whim, and an old stand by menu is always on hand, featuring items both unique and adventurous. It's a good idea to keep the menu at your table all through dinner, if possible, because this place is fearless in its presentation of unusual combinations and you might tend to forget just what's in this, anyway.

LOOKING AHEAD

What to watch for in Street Scene next week:

■ Christina Fuoco's report on the "See the Light" tour that's coming to Industry in Pontiac.
■ What's happen behind the music scene in Music Notes.
■ John Monaghan's look at the latest in alternative movies.
■ Some good Street Sense from Barbara Schiff.

The The finds dawn of success

■ When Matt Johnson visited the Metro Musicafe in Royal Oak last week he may well have cemented the future for his band, The The. At the least he left his handprints in the "Walk of Fame."

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

Enter Matt Johnson's hotel room and you're immediately filled with the smell of incense. He's sitting at his portable computer, somberly trying to send a fax. Johnson finishes, folds up his computer and begins chatting about his band, The The, currently on the road with Depeche Mode.

He rarely looks people in the eye and calmly sits back and discusses his often heart-wrenching emotional lyrics.

Awareness: Earlier this year, The The's song "Love Is Stronger Than Death" was used in a soundtrack for an AIDS awareness video by Vanderpool Films. The band is led by Matt Johnson.

■ STREET BEATS

Finally, 45 minutes later, Johnson cracks a smile. He's pleased that his solo album, "Burning Blue Soul," released in the early 1980s has finally joined the The The family.

"That was my idea," he said with a grin. Earlier this year the album was re-released under the name The The.

"I wanted it racked with 'Soul Mining' and the other albums. It was lonely there stuck out on its own. No one could ever find it. It was pining for its younger brothers," said Johnson Thursday at the Hilton Suites in Auburn Hills.

Johnson and Depeche Mode were in town early for their two-night stand at The Palace of Auburn Hills Oct. 22-23. Along with doing interviews on his day off, Johnson put his hands in cement at the Metro Musicafe in Royal Oak for the "Walk of Fame." Later, Industry in Pontiac was swamped with fans after a radio station announced that Johnson, along with Alan Wilder and Martin Gore of Depeche Mode were going to be hanging out at the club.

Events like this and nearly sold-out headlining shows, hint that The The is starting its upward climb toward fame in the United States. Although Johnson feels his latest album, "Dusk," is marginally one of The The's most popular in the United States, he still has yet to feel the full effects.

"It's marginally one of the most successful. It's still not getting a great amount of radio play. MTV only plays it (the videos) on Sundays (during '120 Minutes')."

However, throughout his two U.S. tours, Detroit's been one of the most receptive audiences.

"Detroit's always been good for me. Last time, we did three nights in Detroit (the Royal Oak Music Theatre). Local radio has always supported us," he said. "Detroit, Boston, Chicago, and Atlanta have been stronger areas for us than, say, New York or Los Angeles."

Johnson is known for his often painfully emotional lyrics. However, danceable, upbeat songs like "Infected" and "Dogs of Lust" has captured more ears. It doesn't faze Johnson that perhaps some of his best work is being overlooked.

"No, I'm not bothered; I'm not really aware of it," he said. "I try not to worry about what's being said. I think it's unhealthy."

Often, Johnson said, he's criticized for singing about subjects close to his heart — politics and relationships. Blues artists, he said, were never chided for that yea. ...20. He considers his style a lost artform.

"Things always go in cycles. At the moment ... attitude is more important than the pursuit of truth."

He doesn't relate to that, nor the "alternative music" label that's frequently tacked onto his band.

"It's (alternative music) just a '90s version of progressive rock ... I've never felt any kinship with any other alternative artist," he said.

He does feel "kinship" with blues and country and western singers. For his next project, he's going to do a Hank Williams Jr. album. Johnson admits it will be a challenge.

"It means I'll have to really experiment with my voice," he said.

It'll be part of a reoccuring series of albums covering other people's work. Johnson's excited about doing it. It'll be close to a vacation for him.

"It takes the pressure off. With writing, singing and producing, you tend to overanalyze. I'm not a very prolific songwriter."

It goes to prove that quality, not quantity, certainly applies to Johnson.

Reggae's 'boom time' has Xpression

Yah, man: Universal Xpression blends its true Caribbean roots with a danceable reggae beat in its music.

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

Spring break trips have boosted profits of hotels, restaurants, bars and other tourist fare in southern states.

Detroiter Richard Parris has experienced another consequence of the annual flings — popularity of reggae bands like his, Universal Xpression.

"It's (reggae) boomin' compared to when I got here first," said Parris, a native of St. Thomas. "It has a lot to do with the fact that more people travel. Based on college crowd, when they graduate they're still keeping with the reggae flavor."

Universal Xpression keeps the "reggae flavor" going long after its shows with its recent release "Xpression!" distribution by its own UXP records.

The tape chronicles the band's many influences — Lover's Rock, Dance Hall, Hip Hop, Mellow and Conscious Reggae, Soca, Dance Hall Soca, Zouk, House Soca and Calypso. For example, "Rite Man," fuses Dance Hall and Hip Hop, while "Can't Stand It," could be a reggaeop 40 crossover.

"That's the marketing tool I've developed. When a person listens to the tape or a show, there's always something they will enjoy," said Parris, the band's keyboardist, manager and vocalist.

The marketing has apparently worked. The band has auditioned for the nationally televised "Star Search," and has shared the stage with some of the top Caribbean groups, including The Mighty Sparrow, Arrow, Shabba Ranks, Yellow Man, Burning Spear, Shaka Demus, Maxi Priest and Third World. Playing with such established bands has been educational for Universal Xpression.

"It's a growing experience on our part. We know what we're up against," he said.

Universal Xpression has also appeared on cable and television

Altman's 'Cuts;' Linklater's 'Dazed'

By John Monaghan
Special Writer

I thought I was over it. The Detroit Film Theatre's revival of 1975's "Nashville" and the recent release of "The Player" finally had me convinced that maverick director Robert Altmann is indeed a genius.

"Short Cuts," Altman's latest, reminds me all over again why I disliked his films in the first place. Pretentious long-winded and relentlessly complex, the movie nevertheless remains one of the year's most fascinating efforts.

The credit sequence uses brief vignettes to introduce all of the main characters, mostly couples. And there are plenty of them, including waitress Lily Tomlin and alcoholic limo driver Tom Waits; philandering L.A. cop Tim Robbins and suspicious wife Madeleine Stowe; Yuppie newscaster Bruce Davidson and catalog-loving Andie McDowell; fishing fanatic Fred Ward and professional clown Anne Archer.

The movie is a tour de force of editing and acting (who else aside from Woody Allen can assemble casts like these), serving up more three-dimensional characters than in a whole season of Hollywood movies. But when you get right down to it, only a few of these people are all that interesting in the first place.

You could easily excise the boozy nightclub singer Annie Ross and her cello-playing daughter Lori Singer. Other bits go absolutely nowhere, like Lili Taylor and Robert Downey Jr. apartment-sitting for neighbors they know very little about. Peter Gallagher makes an appropriately slimy helicopter pilot, but why is he taking a chainsaw to his ex-wife's furniture?

Any dullness in the three hours of "Short Cuts" can be attributed to Altman's love of realism. Many of the female characters speak with private parts exposed, which would probably be called sexist, if we didn't have a shot of Huey Lewis unzipping his fly and urinating into his favorite trout stream.

"Short Cuts," playing exclusively the Main Art Theatre, will be hailed as an Altman masterpiece. For me, this is far from "Nashville" and more akin to ambitious Altman misfires like "H.E.A.L.T.H." and "A Wedding."

When I interviewed the young director of "Slacker" last year, he cited Robert Altman as a primary influence: So it's not surprising that Richard Linklater's new film "Dazed and Confused" uses such a meandering style for its affectionate and often cynical look back at teenagers circa 1976.

It's the last day of school as students put finishing touches on projects in wood shop, including pot-smoking paraphernalia and thick paddles they'll use to whack incoming freshmen. The last bell rings and the kids, backed by the Alice Cooper anthem "School's Out," throw papers and folders down stairwells on their way out for summer.

Randy "Pink" Floyd (Jason London), ready to enter his senior year, looks forward to playing king of the school. He's handsome, clever and, as starting quarterback on the football team, a babe magnet. But when the coach asks him to sign a pledge to abstain from drinking and drugs, he's not sure he wants to play ball.

This slim plot is the springboard for the no-name cast of aimless football players, nerds and stoners who drive around in search of beer busts and house parties.

Instead of simply lampooning the tacky styles and fads of the 1970s, the young writer/director uses the bell bottoms and platform shoes as a realistic backdrop for these kids. While he paints an often appealing picture of the carefree past, Linklater also shows these kids biding time in their small Texas town, looking forward to, pathetically enough, the '80s.

"If I ever start calling these the best years of my life," says Randy, "remind me to kill myself."

The soundtrack plays a major role here, recalling the familiar sounds of Frampton and Nazareth (who have never really left Detroit radio) and trashy, little-heard gems like "I Wanna Rock and Roll all Night" and "Fox on the Run."

"Dazed and Confused" is required viewing for anyone between 25 and 35, but may leave others just as the title suggests. Conservative groups have already protested the movie's casual drug use. There hasn't been this much pot on screen since the days of Cheech and Chong.

More importantly, the sophomore jinx has kindly skipped Linklater. Like Altman, and Linklater's own teenage protagonist, he's well on the way to working solely on his own terms.

Humanists believe in value of self

STREET SENSE

BARBARA SCHIFF

Voice mail message:

Barbara,

I have recently come in contact with some people who are into Humanism. I do not know how to evaluate what they believe in. I am calling, asking for help for my confusion.

In Farmington Hills, there is a Jewish place of worship called The Birmingham Temple. They say they do not believe in God, but represent the "humanist" position in the Jewish religion. Also, there is a school in Detroit, called The Center for Humanistic Studies. Does it have anything to do with The Birmingham Temple?

In one of my friend's son's classes, the teacher said she was a "humanistic" educator. This caused a lot of controversy and another mother even threatened to change her daughter's classroom because the humanistic teacher does not believe in God.

Do you know what it means to be into "humanism?" Is that a religion in which there is no God? Do you know about these programs?

Dear Caller,

I am familiar with the institutions about which you inquire. Humanism is a philosophy that can influence many areas of our lives, including religion, psychology and education. Humanists take on that title because they think about life in certain, similar, fundamental ways.

Humanism is based on independent thinking; the rejection of certainty. Humanism encourages continual questioning of all ideas. Humanism says one must investigate even the most sacredly held views. Humanists believe foremost in the value of the self and in self-direction.

Humanists do not neccessarily agree on the content of a thought, for example, yes, there is, or no, there is not a God. They do agree on the open ended search each humanistically oriented person uses to find an answer to that question. Humanists value and fight for each person's right to decide for himself.

The rabbinic intern at The Birmingham Temple says, "The question is not whether God exists but what is the source of power. For humanistic Jews, power comes from the self and from relationships." The congregants celebrate man within the context of cultural and historical Judaism.

Clark Moustakas, the director of The Center for Humanistic Studies, says the school teaches "inquiry, which may take the person toward God, or away from God, we accept either point of view." The Center for Humanistic Studies is a Detroit college which confers master's and specialist degrees in psychology. It teaches psychology based on the philosophy described in this article.

The teacher who said she was a humanist was saying that she believes children have the right to question all beliefs, even those of the church and those of their parents. Many institutions and parents think such inquiry is dangerous and oppose it.

Humanistic philosophy is sometimes distorted into "doing your own thing." This distortion engenders suspicion and a lack of respect for the movement. As humanists were associated with the "let it all hang out" '60s, the movement was popularized, but received less respect.

If you want further information, write to American Humanist Association, 7 Harwood Dr., P.O. Box 146, Amherst, N.Y. 14226-0146, or call (716) 839-5080.

shows including "Gospel Telethon," and have won best new band, best band, top reggae/calypso, most versatile band and top Carnival Road march band awards.

"I Can't Stand It" from their "World Groove" record was on regular rotation on local commercial radio, with "Come Falla Mi" from the same album making the No. 14 spot on the College Music Journal charts.

Like Parris, other members of the band hail from the Caribbean, more specifically Nevis, Jamaica, Dominica, and the Bahamas, creating what he calls a native sound.

"The fact that what we are about is more than a band selling Caribbean music. Universal Xpression means we're not confined to any one style of Caribbean music."

Universal Xpression performs Tuesday, Oct. 26, at the Metro Musicafe, 326 W. Fourth St., (at Lafayette) Royal Oak. For more information, call 542-1990. The group will also perform: Saturday, Oct. 30, at Sierra Afrique, 19325 Plymouth Road, Detroit, (838-3833); Saturday, Nov. 6, at Serbian Hall, 19940 Van Dyke (at Outer Drive), Detroit. (366-9668); and Wednesday, Nov. 17, with Sugar Minott and Dread Flimstone at Industry, 15 S. Saginaw, Pontiac (334-1999). Universal Xpression's release is available at Sam's Jams in Ferndale, Off the Record in Royal Oak and Caribbean Market at Eight Mile Road and I-75.

STREET BEATS

Motown music came full circle Thursday at The Palace of Auburn Hills. With "Tears of a Clown" by Smokey Robinson and the Miracles echoing throughout the arena, 19,000 people jumped to their feet to greet Motown's most flamboyant star — Madonna.

Numerous costume changes including clown outfits, pin-striped suits and tropical island gear (no cone bras) highlighted the 1½-hour show.

The nine-piece band and eight-member dance troupe performed house music versions of 16 of Madonna's hits from "Holiday" to "Rain" on a two-story stage that took 17 hours to build.

Mid-show, Madonna performed a 1930s-style rendition of "Like A Virgin" dressed in top hat and tails.

At one point, Madonna, clad in military garb, scolded a dancer who appeared topless during the show. Embarrassed(!) for her father who was in the audience, she made the dancer do push-ups.

Madonna, more personable and funny than she appears, acknowledged her Michigan roots several times during the show. She questioned the audience, "Not bad for a girl from Michigan, huh?"

Seeing the multi-million dollar "Girlie Show," that's an understatement.

— Christina Fuoco

Appetizers are creative, colorful and absolutely delicious. "Dragon's Eggs" are a good way to start off and Union Street has a warning on the menu that they're not for the sqeamish. Boneless chicken breast is stuffed with bleu cheese, rolled in tempura batter and tossed in Jamacain Hellfire sauce, and a very tasty mushroom medley, featuring sauteed portabello, oysters and shitake mushrooms in marsala wine sauce, are a few of the offerings on this very diverse and visually appealing list of appetizer.

Entrees — this place layers, contrasts and juxtaposees colors, textures and tastes in a truly unforgettable way. Italian, cajun, Mexican, French, Mom's kitchen — Union Street does it all, and it's all unbelievably authentic.

Main courses are stylish enough to intrigue sophisticates, yet sprinkled with enough local ingredients to appeal to less-traveled palates.

Apricot chicken strudel, consisting of chicken breast, spinach and portabello mushrooms, is wrapped in phyllo and topped with a chardonay apricot sauce. Barbecued pork sandwiches are covered with "Inner Beauty" enhanced barbecue sauce, and even lasagna takes a turn toward mecca as it's infused with ratatouille and topped off with marinara and mornay.

Beers from around the world, an extensive wine list and an impressive array of desserts are also available. There's virtually nothing here that's not tempting.

Union Street is a truly unforgettable dining hot spot. It's menu reads like a gastronomic love story, the atmosphere is elegant, yet comfortable, and the patrons are as creative and colorful as the food.

Vorva, educator clash

(AP) — An educator's criticism of Gov. John Engler's school plan, plus his suggestion that the Legislature was only tinkering with the issue, triggered a hot response Oct. 14 from a local lawmaker.

"Sir, you are the south end of a horse running north," Rep. Jerry Vorva, R-Plymouth, told Richard Wilson, the executive director of the In-Formula School District Caucus.

Vorva took exception to Wilson's statement that the charter schools proposed by Engler would let "ill-prepared, incompetent and narrow-agenda adults" teach by loosening state certification standards.

Vorva said he graduated from college with honors, worked 10 years as a police officer and six more as a production scheduler for a major corporation, sold real estate and served on the Plymouth City Commission before coming to the legislature.

Despite that experience, Vorva said Wilson wouldn't find him qualified to teach in a charter school and apparently doesn't believe he and other lawmakers should be changing the school system.

"We're not going to listen to people like you who say things won't get better unless we get more and more and more and more money and then it's not adequate," Vorva said. "Quite frankly, I think this change is not going to destroy what's there."

Wilson held his ground, telling Vorva that despite all the credentials he or other lawmakers had, "it doesn't necessarily qualify you to be an expert in how schools operate."

"You are dealing with the future of the children of this state," Wilson said. "Do we throw out the whole structure of our public schools? That's what this proposes."

Earlier, Wilson told the House Education Committee that educators welcome change, but it "must be in the best interest of all of our children and youth, not those that are offered for political reasons, narrow agendas or out of desire to dabble.

■ 'Sir, you are the south end of a horse running north.'

Rep. Jerry Vorva

"In their current form, these proposals are leaky canoes in Lake Superior in late November."

Vorva said later that he was fed up with educators portraying themselves as the only school experts and being at the center of the system. The focus should be on children and their parents and making sure they place the highest priority on education, he said.

The clash came as the House Education Committee began its second day of work on the education plan put forward recently by Engler.

Halloween parades scheduled

Two holiday parades will be held on Friday, Oct. 29, at Gallimore Elementary School and Smith Elementary School.

■ Dressed as Dalmatians from the book, "101 Dalmatians," the staff of Gallimore Elementary School will march with students in the school-wide Halloween parade at 1:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 29. The group will be led by principal Larry Cole, who will be dressed as Cruella DeVille, a character from this children's book. Lasting approximately 45 minutes, the group will begin at the school and march through the Forest Trails subdivision.

For more information, contact Barbara Kogut at 451-6530.

■ Students from Gay Swallow's first- and second-grade split class at Smith Elementary School will dress up as the characters from Roger Hargreave's children's books during the school-wide Halloween parade beginning at 1:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 29. During the month of October, the students have been reading Hargreave's books, which emphasize good manners and appropriate behavior. Swallow and the students are making their own costumes for the event.

For more information, call Gay Swallow or Pat Vaughn at 451-6550.

DARE program at new site

The Plymouth-Canton Drug Abuse Resistance Education program has moved to Plymouth Township.

The office, at 42350 Ann Arbor Road, provides a more central location to all Plymouth and Canton schools. It will be overseen by Plymouth Township Police Chief Carl Berry and David Farquharson, assistant principal of East Middle School.

The DARE program provides a 17-week course to all Plymouth and Canton schools fifth graders. The program has added an office manager, an extra Canton police officer and visitations with kindergarten through fourth grade and middle school students.

There are four police officers from the three communities teaching the DARE program in classrooms.

For more information or to volunteer for the program, call Shirley Macy, DARE office manager, at 453-3840, Ext. 265.

Chiefs win swim meet

Plymouth Canton took a step closer to winning the Western Division title in girls swimming Thursday with a 123-60 victory over visiting Farmington Hills Harrison.

The Chiefs are 3-0-1 in the division and 7-2-1 overall.

Canton individual winners were Sara Larson in the IM (2:26.14), Brooke Larson, diving (192.20); Beth Berger, 50 freestyle (27.58); Susan Pritchard, 100 freestyle (1:00.19); and Jill Mellis, backstroke (1:04.52).

Mellis and Berger combined with Sara Christopher and Suzan Daoust to win the medley relay in 2:03.28.

Pritchard and Daoust were on the winning 200 freestyle relay team along with Jessica Orleman and Katie McWhiter. The Chiefs won the 400 freestyle relay (4:00.98) with the team of McWhirter, Pritchard, Daoust and Mellis.

Canton coach Hooker Wellman also noted Larson's second-place time of 1:14.34 in the breaststroke.

"We're in the middle between hard work and full taper," Wellman said, noting times were generally slow. "We have to back off a bit and try to make their bodies feel good. But they don't feel good yet; they still feel tired."

Harrison's Dana Dizon won the 200 freestyle (2:14.55) and the breaststroke (1:14.19). Patti Dizon took first place in the butterfly (1:09.69) and Jenny Domino in the 500 freestyle (5:53.11).

Rocks rally again to win

For the second time this year, Plymouth Salem rallied to defeat Livonia Franklin in boys soccer Wednesday, 6-4.

In a see-saw Western Lakes Activities Association crossover contest, the Rocks trailed 2-1 at halftime and 4-3 in the second half.

Scott Buczek had two goals and one assist for the Rocks, Ronny Mashni two goals, Mark MacInnis one goal and two assists, Doug Herriman one goal and Matt Simons two assists. Tony Cosenza was in goal for Salem.

Victor Rodopoulos scored two goals for the Patriots, and Jason Buelow converted a penalty kick to give Franklin a 2-1 halftime lead.

The Rocks finished third in the WLAA with an 8-2-1 record, and they carry a 9-6-2 overall mark into district play this week.

"The kids are confident and looking forward to meeting Churchill on Wednesday," Salem coach Ken Johnson said. "I think we're ready for a good district. We've lost some close games, so the ability is there."

Canton, WLC deadlocked

Plymouth Canton dominated most of the action, but the Chiefs had to settle for a 0-0 tie with host Walled Lake Central in a Western Lakes crossover soccer game Wednesday.

The Chiefs, 6-2-2 in the league and 8-8-2 overall, took 17 shots and the Vikings eight.

Shaun Conway and George Tomasso split time in the Canton goal, while Central keeper Rory Pawl blanked the Chiefs.

"The wet, muddy field didn't help us," Canton coach Don Smith said. "We could have played better. Walled Lake Central played well, though. They wanted to prove they could play with us."

The Chiefs begin district tournament play today at North Farmington, which lost 1-0 to Canton in the regular season.

Hawks capture WAGS

The Michigan Hawks captured the Washington D.C. Area Girls Soccer Cup in the under-17 division (Oct. 9-11) with five straight victories and a 13-1 goal differential.

Members of the Hawks include Michele Fatute, Marie Spaccarotella, Laura Fedrigo and Aimee Cousino, all of Livonia; Mari Hoff, Jenny Bazzarelli and Kelly Lukasik, all of Plymouth; Sarah Green, Farmington; Kathryn Sobrero, Birmingham; Laura Monticillo, Troy; Jessica Jones and Katie Kohl, Northville; Kelly Hamann, Milford; Muthoni Muiruri, East Lansing; Jill Mikoleizik, Saginaw; and Amber Berendowsky, Brighton.

The Hawks, reigning state cup and under-16 regional champs, are coached by Paul Scicluna and Ken Hamann. The team is managed by Chuck and Debbie Fatute.

Ayre enters Hall of Fame

Mike Ayre of Canton Township was a member of the 25th class to be inducted into the Adrian College Athletic Hall of Fame this fall.

Ayre, who was named the school's outstanding senior athlete in 1982, earned seven varsity letters at Adrian — three in football and four in baseball.

He was a first-team, All-Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Conference defensive back in 1980 and '81. Ayre helped the Bulldogs achieve a 9-0 record in 1980 and was captain of the 1981 team.

On the baseball diamond, Ayre batted over .300 during four seasons at Adrian and was selected the most valuable player in 1981 and '82. He was an All-MIAA honorable mention in 1980 and '82.

Ayre, a former three-sport athlete at Flint Holy Rosary High School (1974-78) is the regional human resources director for Advo Incorporated. He and his wife, Therese M. Caldwell-Ayre, have two sons.

Chiefs double winners in cross country

Team effort carries boys to 1st place

By Brad Emons
Staff Writer

It was a team effort that carried Plymouth Canton to the Western Lakes Activities Association boys cross country championship Friday at Cass Benton Park.

Just ask coach Mike Spitz, whose team survived a strong challenge from Farmington to win the 12-school meet. Canton scored 55 points, 11 ahead of the Falcons, who finished with 66. See statistical summary.

"I'm real proud," said the second-year coach. "I really am because we were second to Walled Lake Western last year by four points, but we trained hard throughout the year, and it was something they had set in their minds that it was something they would like to accomplish, and they did."

North Farmington's Brian Rajdl was the individual winner in 16 minutes, 41.35 seconds, but Canton seniors Casey Moothart and Matt Demey, a first-year runner and refugee from the football team, took second and third, respectively, in 16:50.68 and 16:52.12.

Rounding out the Canton contingent was senior Jeff Keith, 13th (17:15.13); Ian Bedford, 18th (17:21.8); Todd Smith, 19th (17:26.19); and Brian Crocket, 25th (17:39.07).

"When expectations are high the pressure is on you a little more and each guy has to carry a little more weight," said Spitz, whose team was rated 10th in Class A. "I was proud that we were able to step up and meet the challenge."

Spitz and his team, faced with the possibility of not having a season because of a school budget crisis, were glad to see the fruits of their labor pay off.

WLAA best: Canton senior Lana Boroditsch was the individual winner in the girls race.

Boroditsch top runner in girls race

By Brad Emons
Staff Writer

Lana Boroditsch was all smiles Friday.

In fact, the whole Plymouth Canton girls cross country team beamed radiantly following their conquest of the 12-school Western Lakes Activities Association meet held at Cass Benton Park.

Boroditsch, a senior, pulled off a mild upset by winning the 5,000-meter girls race in 18 minutes, 54.56 seconds. She overhauled runner-up Bridget MacKinnon, who had won the previous two meetings between the two. MacKinnon's time was 19:05.82.

"Bridget likes to go out fast and I wasn't used to that," Boroditsch said. "But this is my favorite course and I felt if I could just last, I could get her at the end.

"This is my senior year and the last time on this course. I worked a long time for this. It's really hard, but when you're done, you get such a rush. There are so many hills. I just love the way it rolls. It's the best."

Canton, the state's top-ranked team in Class A, also proved it was the best team by placing four runners in the top 10 — Boroditsch, Laura McWilliams, fourth (19:38.72); Kathleen Landelius, fifth (19:53.51); and Becky Wolfrom, seventh (20:06.86). The team's fifth runner, Beth Knight, took 18th in 20:50.61 for a total of 35 points.

Plymouth Salem edged Lakes Division dual meet champion North Farmington for second place, 80-82. Livonia Stevenson was fourth with 119 followed by Walled Lake Central (177) and defending champion Walled Lake Western (180).See statistical summary.

Stage set for Canton-Stevenson battle

Plymouth Canton used its 67-43 victory Thursday over host Walled Lake Western as a tuneup for its showdown between state-ranked teams with Livonia Stevenson.

The Chiefs, who are ranked No. 3 among Class A girls basketball teams, will play host to unbeaten and No. 9-rated Stevenson on Tuesday.

Both teams are 9-0 and tied for first place in the Western Lakes Activities Association. The Spartans are 14-0 overall, the Chiefs 14-1.

"It should be a great matchup," Canton coach Bob Blohm said. "They play an active zone and put pressure on you. They have a premier point guard (Mo Drabicki), and the other players around her are playing well.

"It will be a good test for us. We're coming down the stretch, and we need to have good, solid games like this now."

Britta Anderson scored 20 points in the win over Western. Alyson Noune made four triples and finished with 14. Erica Anderson led Canton with nine rebounds and added seven points. Britta Anderson grabbed seven rebounds.

The Chiefs jumped in front 20-8 in the first quarter but slowed down in the second to lead 33-20 at halftime. Canton outscored the Warriors 17-4 in the third period to put the game out of reach.

Erin Vicary scored 16 points and Stacey Neirynck 11 for Western, which started 5-0 in the WLAA but has lost three of its past four and dropped to 6-3. The Warriors are 7-7 overall.

Canton made 15 of 22 free throws, Western 17 of 21.

BASKETBALL

SALEM 53, CENTRAL 36: The Rocks outscored visiting Walled Lake Central 16-4 in the fourth quarter Thursday to win going away in girls basketball.

Both teams are 6-3 in the WLAA. Salem improved to 8-7 overall, and the Vikings slipped to 9-6.

The Rocks led 15-11 after one quarter, 27-22 at halftime and 37-32 entering in the final period.

"It was a good, hard-fought game until the fourth quarter," Salem coach Fred Thomann said. "We did a nice job of spreading the court and finishing the game."

Senior guard Lisa Craven continued to lead the Rocks in scoring with a game-high 16 points. Kelly Lukasik's passes netted her 11 assists.

Liz Erickson, Shellye Sills and Karen Gundry finished with 10 points apiece and Andrea Ramsay added six. Sills pulled down 10 rebounds and Erickson eight.

Kerri Kobus, Jessica Regentin and Jackie Pickiewicz scored eight points each for the Vikings.

LADYWOOD 68, REGINA 36:The No. 3-ranked Blazers took a surprisingly easy victory from visiting Harper Woods Regina Thursday, improving to 7-0 in the Central Division and 12-1 overall.

Junior forward Tara Overaitis scored 23 points and sophomore guard Kerry Duggan 10 to lead Ladywood. Regina's Maria Kady finished with 12.

The Blazers led 19-5 after one quarter, 30-18 at halftime and 47-26 at the end of three. Ladywood finished with a 21-10 advantage in the fourth period.

"We had our best defensive effort of the season," Ladywood coach Ed Kavanaugh said. "It was a good team performance. Eleven of 12 players scored."

The Blazers finish division play Tuesday at No. 8 Birmingham Marian.

Rocks fall in 2 OTs; Chiefs prevail 11-6

Two tries from the 1-yard line produced a touchdown and a double-overtime victory Friday night for Walled Lake Western, which edged Plymouth Salem 23-20 at Salem.

The Rocks, now 4-4, had taken a 20-17 lead on Mike Kley's 22-yard field goal to start the second overtime. But Western drove to Salem's 1 on two plays, then gave the ball to Alex Gillert. Gillert was stopped short on third down, but he got into the end zone on fourth for the game-winning points.

Gillert finished with 116 rushing yards on 21 carries, and he scored all three Warrior touchdowns.

Western, also 4-4, scored first late in the opening quarter on Gillert's 5-yard dash and John Gibson's extra-point kick.

But Salem surged ahead in the third quarter. Andy Coburn got the Rocks rolling when he took the second-half kickoff back 98 yards for a touchdown. Kley's kick tied the game at 7-7.

Salem's Rich Giddings pounced on a Warrior fumble at the Rocks' 40 to set the stage for the go-ahead points. Salem drove to the Western 12 before stalling, but Kley connected on a 22-yard field goal to put the Rocks up 10-7.

Western tied it with 3:56 left in the game on Gibson's 23-yard field goal.

The Warriors opened the first overtime with a 1-yard plunge by Gillert, again on fourth down. Gibson's placement put them ahead 17-10.

Salem tied it on Brad Lear's 13-yard pass to Coburn on second down and Kley's kick.

Rob Shepley paced the Rocks with 42 rushing yards on nine carries. Coburn caught two passes for 26 yards and a TD; those were the only pass completions of the night for Salem. Western connected on just 2-of-4 passes for 48 yards.

FOOTBALL

CANTON 11, CENTRAL 6: Walled Lake Central certainly had its chances to win Friday's game against Plymouth Canton. The Vikings had a first-quarter touchdown called back, had a couple turnovers and committed a few key penalties and still lost by just five points.

"We threatened a few times," said Central coach Darrell Harper. "We probably had over 100 yards in the first quarter. But it was the same old thing. We made a too many mistakes and penalties hurt us.

"The kids played very hard, but it was still a tough game to lose," he said. "I have to give (Canton) credit. They're a good team."

Canton's Jeff Fliss opened the scoring with a 23-yard second-quarter field goal. The Chiefs made it 11-0 in the third quarter on a 1-yard run by Lenny Gardner and a two-point conversion pass from Scott Valimont to Ryan Ostach.

Central scored its only touchdown in the third quarter on a 38-yard pass from Ken Schillar to Randy Buchan.

Central, 3-5 for the season, finished with 246 total yards, 216 passing and 30 rushing. Buchan caught seven passes for 153 yards.

Canton, now 5-3, had 273 total yards.

Canton leader: Casey Moothart was second overall and first for Canton, leading the Chiefs to a first-place finish.

"Winning this was a lot of work, but we got a lot of help from not only the kids, but the parents, teachers and folks at the school," he said. "It helps when the administration backs you, too. It was a group effort to make this happen, and I just hope it's important to the community as well because they played a big part in this."

Spitz also thanked former Canton boys coach Jim Hayes, who has since retired to Florida.

"I sent him a letter recently; we keep in touch," Spitz said. "He's the one who laid a strong foundation. He got the kids interested and they thoroughly enjoyed it. I can't thank him enough."

Farmington, the Lakes champion, finished a strong second led by Jason Jackson and Tom May, who took fourth and fifth, respectively.

"Our guys ran great," Farmington coach Chip Bridges said. "They ran their hearts out. As a coach I can't ask for anything more, and they can't ask any more of themselves. We've shown improvement the last week or so. All five guys came together at the same time."

North's Rajdl, only a sophomore, also put it together at the right moment.

"I'm very surprised; it's hard to believe," said Rajdl, a longtime age-group swimmer who is only in his second year of cross country. "I felt good coming in, but it hurt.

"I just had to go out hard, run the heck out the middle and kick like a (bleep) at the end. That's our coach's motto.

"It was a good day to run. The wind was a pain, but it wasn't too hot or too cold."

"Our kids all ran their fastest times ever," Canton coach George Przygodski said. "And we knew this was a meet where everybody takes a step up.

"We just had to keep our heads, run smart and do what we've been doing all year long. We've been in a lot of big meets and that's prepared us for the end of the year. But by no means this is the end of the road."

The regional is next for Przygodski and the Lady Chiefs, who know the competition doesn't get any easier.

"Plymouth Salem and North Farmington are tremendous teams," Przygodski said. "Any other year they'd be league champs.

"We just happen to have some talented kids. They're very business-like. There are no egos. They're just a bunch of nice girls to coach."

It was a happy group of Canton girls to say the least.

United fares well in tourney

The LYSC United, an under-17 girls soccer team, reached the semifinals of the 19th Annual WAGS Tournament in Washington, D.C.

With only 13 players, United defeated teams from Georgia, New Jersey and Texas before losing in double overtime to the Potomac Pros from Maryland.

The team members participating were Julie Buczek and Jaime Marinos of Canton; Kate Gardner and Julie Majewski of Plymouth; Michelle Block, Beth Dwyer, Misty Heath and Melissa Jacobs of Livonia; Susan McQuaid, Jennifer Sheehan and Kristen Wasalaski of Northville; Sandi Poniatowski of Milford; and Nicole Tenpas of Whitmore Lake. The team is coached by Pierre and Frantz Lamarre.

Ocelots celebrate with 9-0 win

They came up a bit short (about 41 goals, to be precise), but it was still quite a birthday salute to their coach: a 9-0 victory for Schoolcraft College's men's soccer team Wednesday at Delta College.

It pleased Van Dimitriou, their half-century coach, who wouldn't have allowed a goal-a-year tribute. Indeed, he played the final 20 minutes of the match with just 10 players, trying to even things up.

Dimitriou wasn't nearly so happy in SC's 4-0 win over Columbus State the previous Saturday.

"I think there was a bit of a letdown there after our Macomb match," he said, referring to the win that assured the Region 12 title. "I told them (after Columbus State) if that's the kind of soccer they're going to play, they can expect to leave early from Chicago."

At the Inter-regional, which will be played Nov. 6-7 at McHenry County College in Crystal Lake, Ill., north of Chicago, SC will face the Minnesota region representative in the semifinals — probably Bethany Lutheran of Minneapolis. That match will be at 1 p.m. (CST) Nov. 6.

The NJCAA Tournament is Nov. 18-21 in Trenton, N.J.

A win against Delta was never in doubt, and SC made certain of it by scoring five goals in the first 24 minutes. Fadi Bazzi and Matt Lividini each scored two in that streak; Bazzi completed his hat trick before the half was over, getting another at the 40-minute mark. Adam Carriere, who scored the game's second goal, assisted on all three of Bazzi's.

Lividini completed his three-goal day 10 minutes into the second half, with Joe Perron drawing the first of his two assists. Those three scores gave Lividini 17 for the season; Bazzi has 23 and Vince Troiani 14 after getting a goal to give SC an 8-0 lead. Armando Andoni capped the scoring in the 70th minute.

Gordie Collins started and went all the way in goal for SC, which improved its record to 15-0-1.

SC women snap skid

The six-match winless streak that had plagued SC's women's soccer team came to an abrupt halt Wednesday with a 3-0 victory at Eastern Michigan.

The last time the Lady Ocelots had won was Sept. 22 — against EMU.

Kara Kramer put SC ahead with a goal in the 35th minute, assisted by Tara Shook. Danielle Priebe made it 2-0 10 minutes into the second half out of a scramble in front of the EMU net.

The final goal was scored by Kelly Greaves off a corner kick by Jodi Grabowski.

Stephanie Sutton was in goal for the shutout.

SC, now 3-6-3 with one regular-season match remaining, still has hope for a trip to the NJCAA Tournament. If the Lady Ocelots beat the Kansas region representative in a playoff Nov. 6 at SC, they will make the trip.

Butch bowls 'em over in area league

TEN-PIN ALLEY

AL HARRISON

They call him "Butch" and he bowls in the University Men's League at Farmington's Country Lanes.

It was a couple weeks ago that Butch Lucas rolled up an incredible series of 812 with games of 269-300-243. This is certainly a feat that any bowler would be happy with.

Now for the rest of the story.

Butch Lucas has only been bowling for about three years. There are a lot of great bowlers in the area who have spent a lifetime on the lanes and have not hit 800, or enjoyed a 300 game.

It's truly amazing for someone to have accomplished both honor scores in so short of a timespan. My question is, "What to do for an encore?"

■ The pro bowlers are in town now for the "Greater Detroit Open" at Taylor Lanes. Anyone who would like to watch the greatest bowlers in the world competing for the $140,000 in prize money can run down to Taylor and take in all of the action.

Qualifying rounds are held from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Monday. There will be eight games of match play 6:15-9:45 p.m. Monday and eight games of match play from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Tuesday. The field will be cut to five after eight games of match play 6:45-9:45 p.m. Tuesday.

The finals, which will be televiside live by ESPN, are held 7:30-9 p.m. Wednesday.

Tickets are available for all of sessions. Admission is $6 on Monday morning and $8 Monday night. The Tuesday morning session costs $8 and the night session is $10. The finals also cost $10.

Hawks win title, 200th for coach

By Dan O'Meara
Staff Writer

FOOTBALL

Farmington Hills Harrison achieved its season-long goal and a career milestone for veteran football coach John Herrington Friday night.

The Hawks reclaimed the Western Lakes Activities Association title and gave Herrington his 200th victory with a 7-6, upset of host Westland John Glenn in two overtimes.

Harrison, which won its ninth WLAA championship in 12 years, began the season with a mission to regain the title it held from 1988 to 1991. Glenn had beaten the Hawks 24-19 in the regular season. Both teams are 7-1 overall.

"I'm so happy for coach," Harrison senior quarterback Joe Pesci said. "We didn't talk a lot about getting the 200th win, just getting the championship back. But it's nice to have that to go with it. I think he's one of the greatest ever in Michigan."

Herrington, who has a 200-48-1 record in 24 seasons as the only varsity coach at Harrison, downplayed the significance of the 200th win.

"It didn't mean a whole lot particularly," he said. "We never said anything about winning 200, because we wanted to focus on the championship and getting it back after last year.

"It shows a lot of character for our kids. We're still not a very big team, but we're a tough team. They were tough tonight."

The defenses dominated the game, with each taking turns rising to stop the other offense, and the teams went to overtime tied at 0-0.

Harrison won the toss, chose defense first and stopped Glenn on four downs. The Hawks fumbled the ball away on second down, however.

In the second overtime, Pesci rolled left and threw a 9-yard pass against the flow to upback Nick Williams for a touchdown. Brock Gove kicked the extra point for a 7-0 lead.

Glenn responded with Brian Morrison tossing a TD pass to tight end Mike Bint on first down. But the Rockets chose to go for the two points, and tailback Derek Besco was run out of bounds by Kevin Bryant and Brendan Cotter a half-yard shy of the goal line.

"The last kick had been blocked, so that was certainly on my mind," said Glenn coach Chuck Gordon of his decision. "We came here to win a championship, so we decided to go for it right then and there."

"I wasn't surprised because they needed it to win, but we came up and made the big play," said Bryant, who also had an interception and caught three passes for 77 yards.

"We were keying on (Besco) the whole time. It was either going to be a pass or a pitch. I was kind worried but we came through."

Harrison outgained Glenn 173-94, controlling the clock and moving the ball most effectively in the first half. The Hawks had a 110-40 advantage and six first downs to Glenn's one in the first half.

The Hawks had the ball for the first 5½ minutes after Glenn lost a fumble on the first punt of the game. But the Rockets intercepted two Pesci passes in the end zone, and Gove just missed on a 27-yard field goal in the first half.

"When you move the ball that much and don't score, you usually lose, so we feel fortunate," Herrington said. "Usually, the other team comes back and gets one on you and that's it, but coach (Bob) Sutter kept stopping them."

"I thought our defense was outstanding," Gordon said. "They answered challenge after challenge the best they could. That was as fine a defensive effort as I've seen in a long, long time."

Glenn didn't have a first down in the third quarter but stopped two Harrison drives. Gove was wide on a 40-yard attempt to end the second.

But field position in the fourth quarter gave Glenn its best scoring chances. The Rockets drove the Harrison 15 and 28; however, Steve Hewer missed a 40-yard field goal and Glenn gave the ball up on downs later.

"You don't get a lot of chances against Harrison, and we didn't take advantage of the ones we had," Gordon said.

"When you play Harrison, you're not going to just knock them out of there, and anybody who thinks they can do that just doesn't understand much about the way they play football."

Besco gained 46 of Glenn's 85 rushing yards on 14 carries, and Morrison completed three of 15 passes for 9 yards.

"That's as good defense as I remember us playing," Herrington said. "Sutter had great schemes and they hardly did anything against us. As small as we are, it's amazing we can stick them like that."

Glenn limited Harrison tailback Jason Granger to 23 yards on 11 carries, but Williams gained 64 on 18. Pesci completed seven of 22 passes for 84 yards.

"Joe Pesci threw the ball well, and we came up with the big catches, Nick Williams with the big runs and the line with the big blocks," Bryant said. "We just came through and played as a team."

"We were underdogs and it's definitely the biggest win all year," Harrison tight end Nick Burgess said.

COLLEGE SPORTS

■ UDM GOALKEEPERS

University of Detroit-Mercy's soccer teams have been rolling, thanks in part to a pair of exceptional freshman keepers.

For the men, Kal Kaliszewski (Livonia Churchill) has been exceptional in a 8-0-2 streak entering the weekend. The Titans' 1-0 win over Western Michigan was his seventh shutout, a season and career best for UDM.

For the women, the entire season has been a surprise. Picked to finish last in the Midwestern Collegiate Conference's pre-season poll, the Lady Titans are vying for a top-three finish. Jori Welchans (Plymouth Canton) stepped in for injured starter Nikki Thomas and recorded three-straight wins, including a 1-0 shutout of Northern Illinois and a 2-1 win over Evansville.

Of course, there's plenty of local talent on the field as well as in the nets. Freshmen Jeff Thomas (Livonia Stevenson) and John Truskowski (Plymouth Salem) each scored a goal in UDM's 6-1 win over Eastern Michigan Wednesday, which raised the Titans' overall record to 12-2-2.

■ BRONCO STAR

WMU's volleyball team may be struggling right now — the Broncos were 5-12 overall, 3-6 in the MAC entering play last week — but the future looks bright. One reason: Liz Gunn, a freshman outside hitter from Livonia (Ladywood).

Gunn had 15 kills with a .323 kill percentage in a five-game loss to Akron Oct. 16, and contributed 11 kills in a three-game sweep of Kent State Oct. 15. For the season, Gunn ranks second on the team in kills (181, 2.78 per game) and digs (2.11 per game); she's hitting .227.

■ SOCCER STANDOUTS

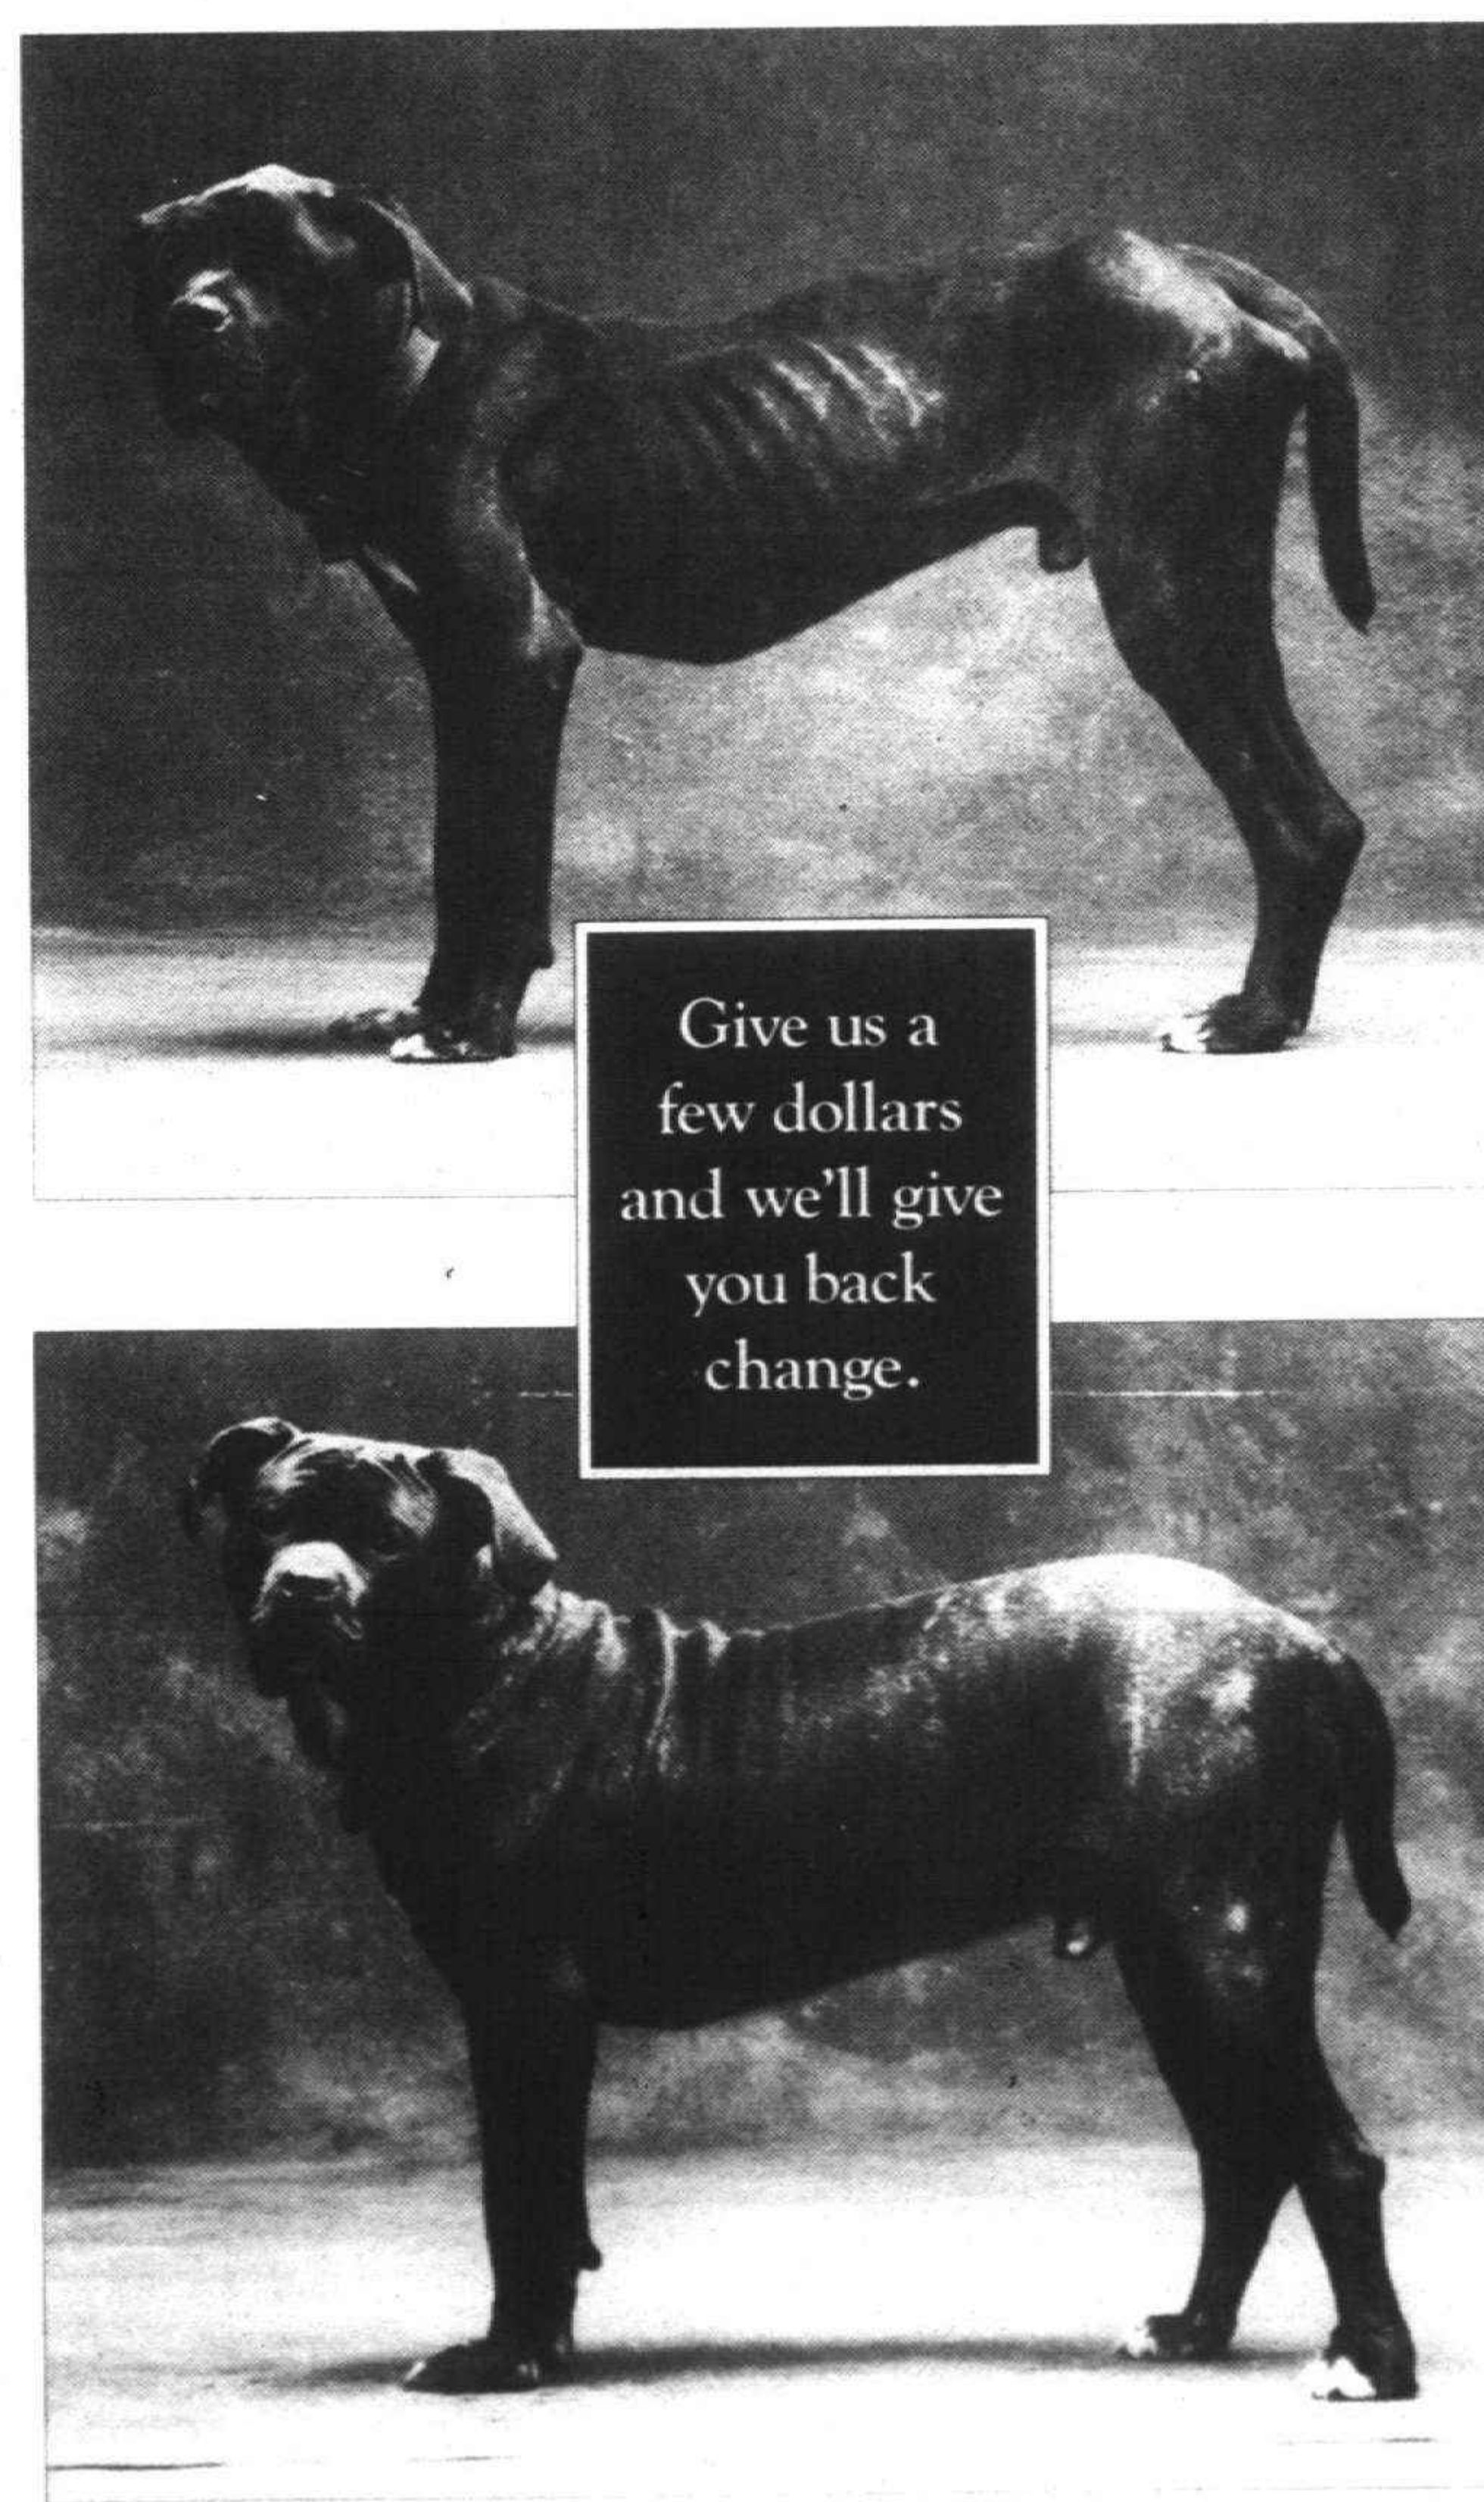
Junior Jason Ries, a defender from Livonia (Redford Catholic Central), scored a goal on a penalty kick that helped Western Michigan defeat Central Michigan 4-2 Oct. 17. It was Ries' first goal of the season; he has four points.



When we found him, Bear was chained to a fence – too weak to stand and weighing half of what he should. Today he's a different dog – a picture of health with a loving new home. 'Double, Double' gives Leachman two roles for Halloween

By JOHN CROOK

Cloris Leachman is fending off an asthma attack on an October afternoon, but her spirits lift as she talks about her upcoming dual roles in a Halloween special. The multi-award-winning actress plays both a wicked witch, and her sweet sister in "Double, Double, Toil and Trouble," an ABC TV movie airing Saturday, Oct. 30.

Mary-Kate and Ashley Olsen ("Full House") star as twins Lynn and Kelly Farmer, who discover that their Aunt Agatha (Leachman) is a black-hearted witch. In the course of trying to help their financially troubled parents, they learn that Agatha has placed her own twin, Sophia, under an evil spell. Unless the girls can save Sophia by midnight on Halloween, their kindly aunt will remain trapped in a magic mirror forever.

Helping them in their mission is a small circle of unlikely friends headed by Mr. Nofziger (Meshach Taylor of "Dave's World"), a homeless eccentric. But Agatha is an evil force to be reckoned with.

"She's the best witch ever," Leachman says with relish. "When you first see my character, I'm studying deeply from a big tome on my desk. And it's obvious I'm muttering in Latin. Now, children won't know what I'm saying, but I'm going" (she drops her voice into a deeper, spookier register). "Per diem. Ad nauseam." She laughs at the memory. "That's the kind of thing I do to amuse myself."

The six-time Emmy winner, who also holds an Oscar and a Golden Globe, is well known for her prodigious knack for inventing memorable bits of business—"doing things under the story," she calls it—and she says she was delighted with the way her producers and directors, Stuart Margolin, gave her more or less free rein to work her inspired brand of lunacy.

She happily shares a catalog of the rich silliness she invented for the TV movie. For example, the producers wanted her to have gray hair during most of the movie, but black hair when she attends the witches' ball. What to do?

"I said, 'I have an idea. I'll shine my witch's boots and I'll have a strand of hair hanging over my eye, and finally, I just push it back with my hand—and (the polish) will get on my hair. Then I catch myself in the mirror and get the idea: Oh! So I do a couple of more strokes, then (there's) a quick cut to me all ready."

Leachman says she found the Olsen twins "amazing...very normal, responsive children," although their presence did require some adjustments in the acting process.

"These kids, of course, couldn't read. Well, they're just learning. So their coach stands off-camera and says a line, and they just parrot it after her. So you wait for that. It's like skiing, where you're traversing down a slope...and as you do the turn, you lift your ski a little bit, you 'unweight' it. So it was like that. You unweight your ski while they say (their lines), then you keep sliding along in the snow, then on another line you do another traverse—and it just slides right along."

Leachman says she hopes "Double, Double" becomes an annual Halloween staple, pointing out elements of "The Wizard of Oz" in the story of misfit companions trying to help a child, or children, on a dangerous mission.

"I think it's a marvelous, wonderful achievement. I haven't seen such care, such detail, going into something. We were like little kids," she laughs. "It's the most fun I've ever had for Halloween. And I think being on the night before Halloween, you could have...parties around this, use this as a centerpiece.

"It's scary. Very scary! These things I've been talking about, these are just my little-heh heh heh," she chuckles softly, still very much in character.

HOROSCOPE

By C. C. Clark

Aries (March 21 - April 19)
You should seek counsel from a wise and helpful man. This man may be good at hiding his emotions, but he truly wants to help you.

Taurus (April 20 - May 20)
You must try to leave the past behind you. If you hang on to the past, you will lose new opportunities that are on the way.

Gemini (May 21 - June 20)
Success is yours, Gemini, if you keep trying. There is a possibility of travel in your future. Direct your efforts toward the arts and sciences.

Cancer (June 21 - July 20)
There is a strong person who is in a position to help you more than you know. Show compassion to those less fortunate.

Leo (July 21 - Aug. 21)
You must persevere and have the courage to succeed. There could be a new business venture on the horizon for you. Check details carefully.

Virgo (Aug. 22 - Sept. 22)
You will go through a difficult period for a while, but you will be stronger after the ordeal. Someone will help defend your actions.

Libra (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)
It may seem difficult to keep up with the many demands of life, but in fact you are doing quite well. Do not take things at face value.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 - Nov. 22)
A sensitive and caring woman may help you see a situation in a different way. You will begin to see the success of your labor.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 - Dec. 20)
Change is inevitable, and never has it been more evident than now. You must revise your old way of thinking and garner new ideas about the world.

Capricorn (Dec. 21 - Jan. 19)
You must take a moment to step back and take stock of things. There may have been some irreparable damage done, but you will see things clearly.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)
There could be some surprises with finances, but it will be for the better. Do not put on false pretenses – others will find you out.

Pisces (Feb. 19 - March 20)
You must stick to your guns and not be influenced by a persuasive person. It may not feel like it, but you have made the correct decision.
