Canton trustee censured

CANTON-The township board Tuesday censured Trustee Brian Schwall for "reckless, ill-thought accusations" against other township officials over hirings from federal funds. The vote was 5-1. Schwall himself abstained, and trustee James Poole voted against censure. Supporting it were Supervisor Robert Greenstein, Clerk John Flodin, Treasurer Carl Parsell an Trustees Gerald Cheske and Robert Myers.

Schwall made his charges in connection with the township's receipt of funds under the federal Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA). Schwall's seat on the board and right to vote are unaffected.

THE CENSURE motion was made by Myers. It followed Greenstein's criticism of Schwall and the trustee's response that he would appeal a federal ruling handed down last Friday that supported the other township officials' position.

Schwall had filed a formal complaint with the Wayne County Office of Manpower. He contends the hiring of Bruce Phillips as an ordinance officer constitutes a violation of the nepotism section of CETA because Phillips' wife is the township supervisor's secretary and either participated in the hiring of CETA employes or supervised them.

The county agency rejected both Schwall's complaint and a second by Mrs. E.A. Hamann that charged the hiring was a violation of the political affiliation section of CETA.

The reply said Phillips' hiring was legal and the charges unsubstantiated, The letter said, "An individual should not be denied an opportunity for employment based solely on their having either a political or a personal relationship with any party involved in a political process.

It added that "it was unfortunate for Phillips' sake that the circumstances offer an illusion of impropriety although no overt violations of the nepotism or political patronage sections exist."

The county office's letter said officials at the manpower center and corporate counsel for Wayne County agreed with township attorney William Sempliner's opinion that Phillips' hiring was legal.

GREENSTEIN READ the letter to the public at the end of Tuesday's board meeting and called Schwall's allegations "criminal in nature, inflammatory and unsubstantiated."

Schwall replied, "A cursory reading of the letter shows irregularities in the conducting of the investigation. On the basis of those irregularities I will appeal this to the proper authorities.

He added, "An appeal is certain- it will not be to this board. The attorney's opinion is ill-informed at best. It shows only one side."

Parsell replied that the township officers had done everything possible to get the hirings done under a deadline and that Schwall had been offered the opportunity to participate in the hiring procedure. "If he had spent as much time working on the hiring as he has on substantiating his complaint, we all would be much better off," Parsell said.

Following Schwall's declaration that he would appeal the CETA decision, Myers made the motion for censure commenting, "I have been sitting here for the past two weeks watching

Schools set July start for year around program

By MIKE ARNHOLT

PLYMOUTH-After sitting dormant for nearly eight months, plans for a year-around school program in Plymouth have been brought back to life.

Voting unanimously, school board members have agreed to begin a oneyear pilot of the "45-15" program at Miller School beginning in July.

Originally scheduled to begin in June of last year, the program was scrapped at the last minute when teachers refused to begin the program before a contract with the Plymouth Education Association had been negotiated and ratified.

When first presented to parents in the Miller School area last year, a majority favored the plan which will sions each year to get in the required 180 days of school.

BOARD SECRETARY Marcia Borowski said that when surveyed last year, only 40 students "opted out" of the plan in the Miller attendance area which she said includes approximately 900 students.

Not all of those students are currently attending Miller. Some are currently being bused, because the school can hold a maximum of approximately 675.

"I'd like to be the last to say that it's going to be a smashing success," commented trustee George Lawton, "but I'm completely in favor of it.

"We were sold last year and I think it's an extraordinarily fine program.

Students would attend four 45-day ses- end it, but if it works, we will have three new elementary schools which we could add to the program at that time," Lawton said.

> LAWTON'S CHIEF praise of the "45-15" program came from its ability to "accommodate 25 per cent more students " Students will be assigned to one of four "tracks" with each track starting three weeks after the preceding track. By the time the first track has completed nine weeks of school (45 days) and leaves school for three weeks of vacation, the fourth track will begin. When the first track returns, the second track will leave school for its three weeks off.

> In this way, one-fourth of the total number of students will be on vacation at all times while three-fourths an excellent program. I'm strongly in favor of it.

He said he had some concerns over teacher reaction to he program befroe the plan was scrapped last year and the current contract with the PEA binds the teachers in the "45-15" program to an additional year after the contract expires in June 1976, to prevent a disruption in the program.

ACCORDING TO Assistant Supt. for Business Ray Hoedel, the plan will involve added costs to the district for prep time for the teachers' involved in the shift as one class leaves for vacation while another reenters school. The current contract with the PEA calls for an added five days pay for teachers in the "45-15" program to

Joy Rd. bridge lights surveyed

CANTON-Who'll pay for the lights on the Joy Road bridge over I-275 assuming they are installed? That is a question that Canton Township officers have been grappling with for the past several months.

The bridge has been at the heart of a three-year controversy first started by members of Holiday park subdivision when they realized the bridge might cause traffic hazards.

Residents of the subdivision, located just east of the bridge, and supported by the Canton Township administration, filed suit against the State Department of Highways and the Wayne County Road Commission in the fall of 1973.

They presented 13 specific complaints to Circuit Court Judge John O'Hair, primarily dealing with potential safety problems.

AMONG THEIR suggestions were a traffic light on the east side of the bridge and street lights on the bridge. judge O'Hair signed a judgment after the matter had been negotiated out of court. The ruling provided that both Plymouth and Canton Townships would pay for the overhead lights on the bridge (because Joy Road divides both townships).

The judge also ruled that following a traffic survey by Wayne County, a traffic light would be crected on the east side of the bridge.

Following the court judgment, a light was erected at the corner of Joy and Deer Creek drive at the entrance of the apartment complex adjacent to Holiday Park.

In the last two months, however, the matter has been complicated by several actions.

In January, Canton officials were informed by Detroit Edison Co. that it would not foot the bill for the construction of the seven lights on the bridge (at $2,000 apiece).

On Jan. 14, The Plymouth Township Board voted not to pay for any portion of the lighting costs for the bridge.

Canton officials have been investigating alternate methods of constructing the lights and paying for them since then.

FRIDAY, Trustee Gerald ON

Cheske and County Commissioner Royce Smith escorted engineers from both the county and the state to the bridge site. They discussed theproblem at length, and Cheske feels there is a feasible solution.

"There's no question they need the lights," commented the trustee. "It is hard to see on that bridge at night. But there are cheaper ways of doing it . We could construct a light at the west side of the bridge and replace the one on the east side with a sodium bulb which is more than two times brighter.

Cheske added that the cost of the conversion of the one light and the erection of the other would be between $500 and $700. "That's a good deal cheaper than $14,000," he added. On Tuesday, following Cheske's talk with the engineers, Supervisor Greenstein was informed by the township attorney William Sempliner that Plymouth Township must pay for at least a portion of the lighting costs.

The supervisor said, "According to his finding, if they failed to cooperate we could take them to court, but I am sure we can reach a decision without that happening. I think their decision was based on past policy, and perhaps with this new information they would be willing to review the matter."

PLYMOUTH SUPERVISOR J.D. commented, "We have no position on that right now. We have instructed our attorney. Don Morgan, to look into the matter.When he reports back, we will arrive at a decision."

He added, "Our previous policy was not pay for lights on state and county roads. I was not aware that it was our responsibility. I thought it was the obligation of the state. But we may learn differently."

Another issue concerning the bridge has yet to be resolved. According to Cheske, residents of Holiday Park subdivision would also like a traffic light at the intersection of Joy and Holly Drive.

He said, "They want a light that would be synchronized with the one at Deer Creek Drive."

According to the trustee, the county will conduct another traffic volume study to see if it is merited.

McIntyre Manor-will get sewers

CANTON- If all goes according to stein explained that the board's resewers by mid-October.

That was the word a group of more than 50 residents received from the Canton Township Board last week. The board voted 6-0 to approve engineering plans and proceed with the project that affects 77 homes in the Ford and Sheldon roads area.

"If they put the sewers in this week. I'll make plans to tap in next week. That's how bad I need it," commented one resident just prior to the vote

Residents of McIntyre have been living with a septic problem for a number of years which has left backyards filled with water during spring, summer and fall.

Sitting in a flood plain with a high water table, the area has a stench from the waste water above the ground which has forced residents to keep their windows closed throughout the year.

The addition of city water several years ago, only served to worsen the problem because the already taxed septic fields were given additional water to hold.

RESIDENTS WERE given hope of relief last year, when the previous township board told them establisment of the Canton-Van Buren Sewer and Water Authority would mean sewers for the McIntyre area. Under plans considered by that board, a $2 million bond issue was to be floated, $600,000 of which would finance the McIntyre project to cover the entire subdivision.

The alternate plan, adopted by the board last week, will cost approximately $224,000 and will only serve current residents of the subdivsion. Township Supervisor Robert Green-plan, residents of McIntyre Manor sponsibility was to provide sewers for Subdivision could have sanitary the current residents because of the health hazard in the subdivision. Noting that the area lies in a flood plain area and that it was unlikely further development would take place in the near future because of the problem, the board decided to serve only portions of the subdivision where residents live.

> MANY RESIDENTS argued with the board on the recent hike in the front foot charges from $3 to $9 a foot. Greenstein explained that the previous board had refused to raise the charge in the past and that the $9 fee was closer to the actual cost for laying pipe. In addition to front foot charges, residents will have to pay a $325 fee for a capital charge which covers a portion of the cost of main lines into which residential sewer lines flow. Another $250 will be charged as a connection fee, and $15 will cover the cost of inspection. Those payments will bring the sewer to a resident's property line where he will have to contract for the hookup to his home or do the work himslef. Greenstein explained that residential fees collected would only cover about $100,000 of the cost. The remainder will be paid by residents of the township at large.

WHILE AGREEING to proceed with the McIntyre project, the board has yet to agree on how residents will be charged for front footage. Most homes are on 40-foot lots, and many residents own more than one lot. No decision was reached on whether residents who owned vacant property would be assessed front footage on portions of the sewer line that passed their properties.

The board told residents it would take at least two months to determine the charges for residents on the McIntyre project and to complete plans on seven other sewer projects that will be included in a bond issue to finance the construction. Following that point in time, township engineer Glen Roberts estimated it would take another four to six months for financing to be approved by the Municipal Finance Commission. Roberts said actual construction of the sewers would take another one or two months after approval by the MFC.

Citizens draft plans for Advisery Council

By RICHARD GOLD

CANTON-Interested citizens again met to discuss the role, purpose and responsibilities of the township's second citizens advisory council-and they arrived at a final draft to present to the township board.

The new council has not been formed yet, and ideas have been discussed for several months on what direction and form the council should take.

On Feb. 20, several of the approximately 15 residents actively involved in the project showed up at the meeting with a proposal that was accepted by the others present.

The rough draft (which has been presented to the board) says the purpose of the new council will be "to act as a medium of communication between the local unit of government and the citizens of the community."

Its responsibilities will be to survey the community attitudes, evaluate them, and report on the findings.

Ly in Goldsmith, one resident prese'i., suggested the best use of the iniorination collected from a survey. would be to influence budget allocations, sic a ree data to " ... enct it in priorities family subdivisions. are in Catton.

Commented Township Planning Consultant Mike Manore, who has chaired the meetings, "The best way for citizens to influence government and accomplish anything is through the budg-

RESIDENTS also felt the advisory council should act on specific requests received from citizens-at-large in the township. They suggested subcommittees be established when necessary "to study and advise the township board on specific matters."

The biggest problem faced by citizens trying to form the advisory body has concerned selection procedures for the members of the new body.

At an earlier meeting, Manore suggested that "representatives from the large number of organizations that exist in the township today should be enlisted." He suggested a list that included the League of Women Voters, chamber of commerce, the board and planning commission and and 13 homeowner organizations representing mo-issue survey bile homes, condominiums and single

Each one of these groups would nominate several persons to serve as representatives to the council, and the board would select one from each group.

WHEN THE COMMITTEE to establish the advisory council met last Thursday they suggested that the council be composed of 20-25 people, selected on a per capita basis from the eight voting precincts in Canton. Other representatives from special interest groups would also be added.

They asked that the board either veto or accept the representatives they select. According to their proposal, the board would not be allowed. to pick between several nominees for each spot on the council.

If the board approves those guidelines for the new council, it is possible that the new advisory council could be formed in time to draw up an attitudinal survey that could be incorporated in the upcoming census as an optional segment.

THE OBSERVER & ECCENTRIC Thursday, February 27, 1975 Binding arbitration, loss of pay in new teacher bill

A compromise teacher bargaining the third Friday in June and that all bill, reported out of committee Monday, is sure to face strong opposition from teachers unions and school boards, according to Rep. William Keith (D-Garden City), head of the special committee which drafted the

Keith said Tuesday the bill "offers numerous incentives for both sides to come to an agreement. and it protects the negotiations process."

What is sure to irk both bargaining parties is the loss of income for each day of strike. Teachers would lose one day of pay and school boards would lose one day of state school aid.

IN THE PAST, in most cases, teachers and boards were able to skirt a pay loss by adding additional days to the end of the school year to total up to the state-mandated 180 days per year.

Under the compromise bill, however, the 18'-day rule would be lifted when a legal strike was undertaken and a strict school calendar imposed. Keith said the new calendar would provide that school end no later than bargaining units is imposition of binding arbitration under certain conditions. Specifically when an arbitrator makes his award, if either party agrees, the terms are binding upon the other party.

THE BILL would provide a timetable for negotiations:

·Should the two parties be unable to agree to terms, mediation would begin.

· Mediation would include public disclosure of both parties' positions.

. The mediator would be able to reveal to the public if either party is not bargaining in good faith, in his estimation. he may also tell his own version of the discussions.

·Should the impasse solidify, the teachers' previous would be renewed. and arbitration would be undertaken.

•The arbitrator's award would be binding on both parties if either one accepts it. If neither party accepts, 10 more days of negotiations would begin.

•If all else fails, the right to strike prohibition and the 180-day rule would be lifted. Both parties would suffer Another provision sure to provoke "the loss of one day of income for each day of the strike.

> WHILE KEITH maintains the bill would preserve local control of the negotiating process, teachers, school boards and parents are sure to ques-. tion it.

> Parents are apt to wonder why the loss of days of school for their children is considered to be equitable.

> Keith says it will be up to the courts to determine what constitutes irreparable harm to children-whether it be 5, 10, 20 or more days.

> The teacher bargaining bill has a two-year expiration date at which time, if it is approved initially, it would be reconsidered.

> Further steps in the Legislature include assigning it to committee once it has been introduced on the House floor; the committee's decision to report it out and votes in both the House and Senate.

> Keith, whose committee missed its deadline to draw up a bill by nine days, said he feels like he has undergone "a nine-month pregnancy in six weeks."

> "It's an honest and sincere effort to avoid prolongef strikes." he said.

Greenstein was elected last week to chair the advisory council that will. control the disbursement of funds. The council is composed of 15 people, with 10 representatives from the 20 municipalities, four county commissioners and a county auditor. Among the 10 representing the non-vested is Beverly McAninch, mayor of the City of Plymouth.

According to Greenstein, the money is divided into three categories Some will be awarded to the municipalities given to the county, the rest of the directly on a population basis while other money will be go to specific pro-cipalities. Another portion will go to the county.

Greenstein explained that originally, the county wanted one-third of the money for various surveys. But the 20 municipalities overruled county representatives and Greenstein now expects the county will receive about 10 per cent of the money for a housing study and to cover the adminstrative cost of applying for the for the $750,000.

Cheske prefaced his seconding of the motion by saying, "I can't believe this thing has been blown this far out of proportion—it's gotten to the point where I wish I had never heard of CETA."

Schwall replied, "As elected officials of this township, we are at all times responsible and accountable to those people who have entrusted us with this position.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ZONING BOARD OF APPEALS

CITY OF PLYMOUTH, MICHIGAN

At a meeting of the Zoning Board of Appeals to be held in the Commission Chamber of the City Hall on Thursday March 6, 1975, at 7:30 P.M., a public hearing will be held to consider the following:

APPEAL NO 75-3-ERICK & PATRICIA CARNE, 383 Starkweather Avenue, Plymouth, requesting the waiver of a masonry wall on the lot line adjacent the object of vindictive personal attack for exercising that responsibility and accountability, I am willing to pay this price, and will continue to stand up, question, speak against what I consider to be improper. To do less would be an abdication of my legal and moral responsibilities."

Trustee Poole added, "We might as well draw up censure forms and fill in the blanks."

Myers replied, "I am not against dissent or criticism, but I do not condone rash and reckless accusations. If he's going to school, let him do his homework."

Greenstein added, "The real losers in this thing are the people of Canton Township and the taxpayers. We have spent two weeks trying to iron this out when we could have been knocking heads with builders and taking care of the business of Canton." The supervisor also commented that because of the complaint, all CETA money would be held in escrow and that future funding coud be jeopardized.

ART LEWIS, director of the office of manpower for the county, says the appeal will affect only the money paid to Phillips, and even that will not be affected until an appeal decision is reached.

While Schwall refused to say where he would appeal, Lewis thought the action would go to the Federal Department of Labor regional office in Chicago, the office that funds Wayne County.

He commented, "I hope they act quickly to clear the matter up. We don't like to see our grants jeopardized. The investigation could have been more complete, but based on the allegations and materials we recieved, the work we did was sufficient.

Program to help deaf developed by Madonna

Madonna College in Livonia and Demunication: American Sign Language in hopes of promoting better under- the third most commonly used lanstanding with the deaf.

Students at Madonna are discovering the world of the deaf through a new course in American Sign Language (Amesian), the language of the deaf. offered for the first time this term AMESLAN is one of eight forms of sign language used by the deaf. explains Robert Ingram, instructor and a consultant for Detroit Hearing and Speech.

Although not taught in schools for of sign language through interaction troit Hearing and Speech Clinic are the deaf, many deaf learn Ameslan or with the instructor and deaf guest co-sponsoring a course in manual com- another form of the sign language from their deaf friends. Ameslan is guage in the U.S., says Ingram.

Ingram adds that sign language is nothing new. "We all use signs and always have."

None of the students now enrolled in the introductory course have hearing problems, nor have families with hearing problems.

'Most are here because they are interested in the language. There are three nursing students enrolled who hope to use Ameslan in their work."

STUDENTS will learn the symbols speakers.

Beside learning the signs, students are also assigned a project related to their major field of study.

"If a student is in law enforcement, he may do a study of the legal rights of the deaf. or in psychology, he may want to study counseling of the deaf." Other areas discussed are history of

Suburbs to meet on new water rates

Wayne County city and township officials will meet in Livonia Friday afternoon, Feb. 28, to discuss proposed water rate increases recommended by the Metropolitan Detroit Water Department staff.

The meeting, expected to start at 2 p.m. in the Senior Citizens' Activities Center, 15200 Farmington Road, was McNamara, one of three suburban members of the water board. McNamara said the water department's staff recommended a 35 per cent boost in the wholesale rate which would translate into a $1 per month increase for homeowners.

McNamara, recently appointed to the board by Detroit Mayor Young said he is "extremely concerned by the indication of the water department staff that water and sewer rates must be increased this year.'

McNamara feels the raise may not be necessary, based on his own review of the water department budget. He invited officials from cities and called by Livonia Mayor Edward townships in the county to "review the request and determine what action is appropriate to protect our water and sewer rate payers in our respective areas.' The water board has seven members, three from the suburbs and four from Detroit.

Board of Commissioners recently told police from 25 departments that he fully agrees Sheriff's road patrol services should be continued in out-county townships.

Roscoe Bobo's remarks - coming at a time when some county commissioners have been pressing for curtailment - drew an ovation from his audience of some 100 members of the Wayne County Police Lieutenants, Sergeants and Corporals Association.

HIS PERSONAL commitment drew an enthusiastic response from outcounty officers who most would feel the additional burden if the road patrol were withdrawn from their areas.

Bobo said the biggest problem facing police today is re-earning the respect of the community. "Give us commissioners your ideas and we'll help you meet that challenge. We can implement your suggestions with proper organizational support and available funding."

Bobo, vice-chairman of the Detroit-Wayne County Criminal Justice Coordinating Council and a former deputy police chief, was later presented a citation of achievement by the police association.

commissioners had just returned from Lansing where they met with majority and minority leaders in an effort to obtain a $30 million loan to build a new jail.

"We plan to repay the loan through sale of the county water plant to the City of Detroit.'

Asked if there might be an alternate means of acquiring funds for a jail. Bobo said, "If we find ourselves really boxed in, we believe there is

New way to win $1 million

There is a new way to win $1 million in the Michigan Lottery beginning with the Feb. 27 weekly drawing for winning tickets purchased this week dated Feb. 18.

The new 50-cent ticket features a six-digit million dollar number atop the ticket. Matching it means automatic entry into a subsequent million dollar drawing.

Beginning with 50-cent tickets dated Feb. 27, winners of weekly $25 prizes can collect cash from the bureau's 8,000 sales agents statewide.

WINNERS of the "check-a-month" bonus (drawing dates March 6, 14) will compete for prizes in a special drawing Feb. 28 at 2 p.m. in Cunningham Drug Store's newest facility at Plymouth and Middle Belt Roads across from Wonderland Center in Li-

One dreaty afternoon when news was scarce and The Stroller, then a young editor, was pacing the floor wondering what he could use for the main story on the front page, the managing editor called him aside and said:

"Don't worry about it. Human nature being what it is. something will happen."

Sure enough, it did. Within a short time we had a major fire, and a young co-ed was murdered.

Ever since then. The Stroller has come to believe in human nature and places it in the same category as American ingenuity that always comes up with the right thing at the right time—even when things seem the darkest.

style-conscious persons interested in having their clothes restyled or altered. Personal fittings on both men's and women's clothing in our modern tailoring shop, regardless of where purchased. Phone: 349-3677 LAPHAM'S MEN'S SHOP 120 E. Main Downtown Northville THE LATEST EXAMPLE came the other day when a band of learned researchers released a statement at the Massachussetts Institute of Technology claiming that with a few adjustments to the engines used in our ~ present automobiles. gas mileage could be increased at least 50 per cent. And they added that the adjustments would not be costly either. Imagine that! At a time when the country is caught in an energy crisis and one of the major priorities is the conservation of fuel. If the researchers are correct, this would mean we would not use as much fuel as we are now when travelling the same distances. That could be a real breakthrough and another example of American ingenuity coming through at the right time.

MENTION OF THIS possibility was made to an official of the State Highway Department over the past weekend, and he not only thought it possible but added:

"Don't be too surprised if we find a substitute for oil in the next 20 years. By that time oil will be used only for ubrication and not for fuel." Maybe so—but it seems beyond the realm of possibility. "Well," he countered. "American ingenuity found a substitute for rubber when things were in bad shape some years ago, and we're now using fiberglass and plastics for automobile bodies when we were led to believe that nothing ever would replace the steel body of an automobile. And don't forget, we used to laugh at the thought of using aluminum. But it is being used now, even for bumpers. So don't count out the possibility of a substitute for oil."

American ingenuity has done some wonderful things and helped make possible many things we never thought possible—not too long ago.

IN THE EARLY DAYS of the automobile, when you had to use a American ingenuity. in the person of Charles Kettering, one of General Motors chief engineers, came up with the self-starter. It was one of the things that helped build the automobile industry.

Another fine example, in later years, is the automatic pinsetters in our bowling establishments. Back in the mid-40's the game of bowling was on the verge of fading from the scene for lack of pinsetters. Then along came an elderly gent named Charlie Schmidt from upper New York with a machine that met all the rigid requirements of the American Bowling Congress, and the game not only was saved, but now is the greatest participant sport in the country.

Look around and you'll see many other examples of American ingenuity coming through at the right time. When the old-fashioned saloon keeper got into trouble with his bartenders pouring too much whiskey for a drink, the automatic bartender came into being. Now the machine pours the proper amount every time. Both money and whiskey are saved.

And who ever thought the day would come when football and baseball no longer would have to be played on muddy fields. But we now have synthetic grass—all due to American ingenuity.

Women are wearing synthetic furs, and we have all manner of "impossible" things. Why, we even have synthetic milk and coffee cream!

We have beef gravy sold in plastic bags and good soup made from the ingredients purchased in a tiny paper sack.

So don't laugh off the possibility of having a substitute for oil to solve the fuel crisis.

American ingenuity has accomplished some unbelievable things.

Would city inspections break the color line?

The United Northwestern Realty Association (UNRA) recently appeared before Detroit Common Council to object to a proposed ordinance requiring city certification of all one or two-family dwellings sold within the city.

Jerry Rozema of Livonia, president of UNRA, made a number of specific arguments against the ordinance which he predicted would "turn equities into liabilities in older homes and force increased abandonment."

I know Rozema must be aware most suburban governments presently require local inspections before a new or used house is sold and occupied. Yet, UNRA has never objected to city certification in the suburbs.

INDEED, many real estate salesmen go out of their way to point out to property owners that a city inspection is required before a sale can be consummated.

The local inspection requirement makes a house more "saleable" because certain improvements are made at the expense of the seller — an obvious plus for the buyer.

This is particularly important in the suburbs where higher percentages of house sales are financed by mortgage assumption or conventional financing. In Detroit, on the other hand, a larger proportion are FHA- and VA- financed transactions.

In Garden City, for instance, if a homeowner sells by assumption, the only inspection is by the city. This is good because it protects the buyer. But it is also good for potential buyers in Detroit.

If our metropolitan goal is to stop the white flight from Detroit, and encourage young couples to move into the city, then it is appropriate to offer the same protection to buyers of used homes in Detroit that is afforded suburban buyers.

AN UNSOUND argument UNRA presented to Detroit Common Council was that "Sellers with low equity would abandon their homes rather than take a substantial loss from making major repairs."

If the ordinance doesn't pass, are we to assume a real estate salesman can wave a magic wand, sell that same house, and the buyer can somehow protect his low equity without making costly major repairs? How many buyers are attracted to a house which requires costly major repairs?

Many arguments against city certification for Detroit could be used (but weren't) to protest local city inspections in the suburbs. Such as:

• The burden of extra maintenance and repairs would fall on persons least able to afford it and erode built-up equity.

• Owners would be forced to update older homes that comply with former health and safety codes to meet rules required in newer structures. (On this point, suburbs use certification to "retroactively enforce" building codes.)

• No provision is offered for appealing or contesting a repair requirement, and sellers would bear the costs of a second inspection along with costs of added repairs. (Most suburbs charge an inspection fee which includes the expense of the second visit by the inspector.)

• Buyers with small or no down payments usually purchase homes with FHA- or VA- approved mortgages for which inspections are already required. (The same applies to Redford Township, Westland and Garden City which have substantial FHA and VA sales).

THE MOTIVES of UNRA's opposition to Detroit's proposal are unclear to me, just as it is unclear why UNRA never complained about certification ordinances in the suburbs.

I almost would suspect the foes might prefer current conditions in Detroit with many mortgages being foreclosed and purchased at auction at bargain prices by real estate brokers. But an honorable profession certainly wouldn't entertain that motive, would it?

I do suspect, however, that brokers would like to promote "black containment" within Detroit and thereby assure "property values" in the suburbs. Without certification, houses in Detroit may remain lower priced than those in the suburbs and more economically attractive to blacks.

With certification, Detroit houses might become comparably priced to those in the suburbs. giving blacks "a choice." Unthinkable!

Instead of opposing ordinances intended to raise the quality of used houses in Detroit. UNRA might better devote its energies to stabilizing prices of used houses in all areas by objecting to artificial mechanisms used by governments to make suburban houses more "valuable" than those in Detroit.

If UNRA is not so moved, at least it can level objections throughout suburbia so real estate owners aren't forced to undergo the same "hardships" UNRA says Detroiters will.

It can't possibly happen --never!

The 'Mr. Millers' restore our faith in mankind

Maybe I'm getting old-fashioned as the years advance, but a letter I received Monday from Robert C. Maxwell, of Livonia, made an enormous impression.

His letter was prompted by an experience he had last week, in which a good Samaritan helped him out.

"Driving west on Six Mile in the brief, but blinding, snowstorm last Tuesday evening," Mr. Maxwell writes, "my old car coughed, gasped and quit. I managed to coax the car to coast onto a residential side street. There I made all the mechanical and electrical checks possible and completely drained the battery trying to re-start the car.

"As I was about to slam the hood and unleash the anger and disgust most of us experience when things mechanical fail us, a man's voice interrupted:

"'HAVING PROBLEMS?' The voice belonged to Mr. Donald Miller whose home is on Westbrook in Livonia.

"Mr. Miller left the comfort of his family room and whatever he might have been doing with his leisure hours to help start my car. He connected jumpers to his car, checked ignition spark, gas flow, the whole shot. Turned out that Mr. Miller is an automotive engineer and obviously knew much more about the 'problems' than I did.

"Twenty minutes, a half-inch of snowfall and four frozen hands later, even Mr. Miller's expertise could not restore life to my old car. But after thanking him and telling him I'd call a tow truck, Mr. Miller asked where I was headed. (I was driving my son to his Little League basketball game at Dickinson Junior High.) 'Jump in my car,' offered Mr. Miller, 'your boy's missed a bit of the game, but we can get him there for most of it.'"

"Considering that I would have been reluctant to have asked Mr. Miller to use his phone because he would have had every reason to slam the door in my face in light of all the ruses used by the growing criminal element to catch people off guard, Mr. Miller's good Samaritan act was indeed a refreshing reprise of past times when we had no reasons not to extend a helping hand to someone in need.

"Despite massive evidence to the contrary, I suggest that there are more 'Mr. Millers' among us than we ever hear about.

"Thank you again, Mr. Miller."

AND THANK YOU, Mr. Maxwell.

Thank you not only for writing me about an act of kindness that certainly deserves notice but also for suggesting that in these days of bad news and surly people, there are many more good Samaritans around than we think.

At this newspaper, we agree. We are very interested in hearing from any of our readers about the small but terribly important acts of human kindness that take place from time to time and which give us renewed faith in each other and in decency and thoughtfulness.

As far as we're concerned, we don't have to run bad or dreary news to sell newspapers. In fact, we'd like to run lots of stories and letters about the many "Mr. Millers" of this world.

If you have experience with a good Samaritan, please drop me a letter about it; try to in-

We need more time, light at the end of a hard day

It's the silly season again in Michigan. As of last Sunday, practically all of the nation went on daylight saving time, but Michigan won't go on it until late in April.

The reason for the discrepancy is that last year, when the nation went on daylight saving time, supposedly for an entire year to save energy, the Michigan legislature exempted the state from full participation because children were being hurt when they had to go to school in the dark during the short days of December and January.

The nation, as a whole, recognized this and went to a modified daylight saving schedule, but the Michigan legislature did not see fit to put us on the national schedule.

It is said that the outdoor movie people were able to get together with the farmers to convince the legislature that it shouldn't rush into making our state conform to the rest of the states.

DAYLIGHT SAVING time has been described in an old Indian adage as cutting off one end of a blanket and sewing it on the other end to make the blanket longer.

In reality, this is not what daylight saving does. It takes an hour of daylight that is wasted while we are in bed in the morning and puts it at the other end of the day when the people can use it.

It saves energy because the most active time in a home is in the early evening and that extra hour means that lights and other utilities will not have to be turned on as long.

More important, the fact that most of the nation has gone on a schedule and to have our state exclude itself only leads to problems in commerce.

If you are going to travel anywhere, all of the airline schedules are changed because we will be in the Chicago time belt for two and months instead of the New York belt.

TELEVISION STATIONS have to go to the expense of taping network programs and then replay them at their proper non-daylight time so that Michigan will miss most national live telecasts.

The stock market will still function on New York time. Companies with plants in many states will be handicapped in their operations because of the temporary change in the operating hours of their.plants.

Unless you have small children who go to bed very early and don't like to go to bed in the daylight, there seems to be very little reason for us not to be on daylight saving time with the rest of the nation.

The inconvenience to drive-in movie owners and those farmers who have to rise an hour earlier by the clock (but actually at the same sun time) does not outweigh the advantages for the larger number of individuals affected by Michigan's non-conforming time.

The minority will continue to rule in this matter until the people speak.

I was appalled when I read in last Thursday's edition of your newspaper carrier's evaluation may be put into' effect in western Wayne County. The evaluation, called Letter Carrier Route Evaluation System (LCRES), would measure by com-, puters every step of the way. I agree with Dwight White, president of Branch 4010 of the National Association of Letter Carriers, that it is "dehumanizing," While I agree that there is the possibility of some carriers not doing their share, the idea of lowering the human being to the mechanics of a machine is incomprehensible. Rather than try to that a controversial method of letter scut costs in this manner, a spot check of carriers, periodically, would be beneficial. Also, ways should be found to speed things in the Post Office itself.

It's Bentley-Canton in tourney tonight

A strong second half comeback which accounted for a 63-53 victory over Farmington carried Livonia Bentley into the semifinals of the district basketball tourney at Southfield High School, a battle which pits the Bulldogs against Plymouth Canton at 7 p.m. tonight (Thursday)

The winner in that one will return to the same court at 7 p.m. Saturday to meet the winner of Wednesday night's Plymouth Salem- Northville game for the district championship and the right to advance into next week's regional at Livonia Franklin.

After winning only two previous road games, the Bulldogs played the first half against Farmington as though they actually believed they couldn't win away from home. They were behind at the half, 29-24.

The turnaround came when Bentley switched to a zone defense for the second half and developed aggressiveness in its board game. The Bulldogs had a 16-8 advantage in the third period, limiting the Falcons to four field goals, and came on strong for a 23-16 edge in the final period.

"If we play against Canton like we did in the first half against Farmington, we'll be in trouble," said Bulldog coach Larry Jackson who admitted to a pre-game fear of meeting Farmington for a third time.

In earlier games this season, the Bulldogs had beaten the Falcons 70-48, and 55-48, but Jackson pointed out that Bentley never had beaten any team three times in one campaign. That jinx is now broken.

Jim Rhodes and Tim Weiss led the Livonians' second half scoring surge. Rhodes getting 14 of his 18 points in that span and Weiss 11 of his night's total of .15.

With Farmington ahead 35-34 in the third period, it was Rhodes who, came up with two quick baskets to put the Bulldogs in front 38-35. From there they built a lead that eventually reached 12 points:

Top scorers for the Falcons, who finished the season 5-16, were Mitch Thomas. 15: Randy Meier. 13, and Dave Tyler. 10. Bentley will take a 12-9 mark into the game with Canton, which is 10-10.

In all cases the matmen who are advancing to the regionals won that right by placing among the top four in their weight divisions in last weekend's district competition.

Westland John Glenn has a fiveman contingent in the regionals: Argan Vasha, 105: Don Cicotte, 112: Bill Ficyk, 119; Fred Shoemaker, 138. and Mark Grabowski, 167.

Garden City West qualified these four-Brian Kimball, 112; Dan Holmes. 138; Dave Rochon, 145, and Scott Renner, 155.

Plymouth Salem will be represented by Les Hassen, 98, and Jerry Brink, ,138: Livonia' Stevenson by Jim Treharne, 126, and Doug Stein, heavyweight, and Redford Union by Dave Lindberg, 132, and Dave Jann, 185. Single representatives will include Jim O'Shea, 105, Livonia Franklin; Jeff Mathini, 126, Thurston, and Jim Tucker, heavyweight, Garden City East.

This boy and this girl are missing out on a lot of things they could be having as carriers for the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers. They could be earning such things as money, merchandise prizes and tickets to special events.

But earning pocket money and winning special prizes are just two of the nice things that can happen to carriers. There are bigger advantages. A carrier goes into business for himself. At an parly age, he or she tearns how to get along with people. They do a bit of bookkeeping. They learn responsibility. They gain additional confidence

Is your child missing out on these things? If one of your children is 12 years old or more, we suggest you get in touch with us, and hear about our carrier program.

Thurston wins in overtime, 66-63

It took an overtime period to do it, but Thurston High School survived the first round of the state basketball tournament with a 66-63 victory over Dearborn Heights Annapolis in the district at Southfield Lathrup.

The win sent Thurston against Dearborn Heights Crestwood in Wednesday night's semi-finals and established the Eagles as likely contenders for the championship Friday night.

Eagles were on the short end of a 46-43 count after three periods and then came back with an 18-15 advantage in the final stanza.

With Annapolis leading 61-59 in the final minute, Thurston's Dave Beebe stole the ball to score the basket that sent it into overtime at 61-all. Baskets by Beebe and Fazzini, plus a free throw from Dave Polidori, gave the Eagles a 5-2 edge in the extr: session and their 66-63 victory.

Unless the American Totalisator Co. and members of Local 1501 of the IBEW (International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers) reach an agreement in Baltimore in the next 24 hours, race tracks throughout the United States and those in Canada serviced by the 'Tote' company will come to a complete halt Friday at midnight.

All of which means neither Northville Downs nor Windsor Raceway would operate Saturday and would remain dark until the strike is settled.

If the 'tote' workers decide to walk out (and there is every indication they will), it will mark the first time a strike has been called against American Totalisator Co.

The union blames the inability to reach an agreement to the fact that the company was taken over a couple of years ago by General Instrument Co. It charges the new management has not lived up to verbal agreements made at the time of the takeover and has tried to reduce the work force by making the track management furnish electricians. It seems that previously was part of the union contract... all workers on the 'tote' machines were members of the union.

A UNION spokesman here, who prefers to remain unidentified, reports the local will have the support of Local 73, of the Service Employes International Union which includes all of the mutuel department workers, Local 58 of the Electrical Workers Union, the Teamsters and other unions connected with the race tracks.

"If this strike becomes effective Saturday, and we know it will," he said, "then every race track will be dark. There's no way the mutuel machines can operate without our members present.

"We don 't believe it will be a long strike because of the loss of revenue to all states involved, but we know it is going to be an effective walkout. Think of the millions lost in taxes if the tracks are dark."

We have to agree with him. The mutuel machines are so complicated that only a trained person can fix one when it goes bad. Believe us we have seen many machines shut down for repairs and fixed almost immediately by efficient 'tote' trained persons.

All of which leads one to wonder if the current deadlock between the Detroit Racing Association and the Mutuel Clerks Union will be resolved when the "tote" strikes end.

CIRCUIT COURT JUDGE Tom Foley settled one of the issues of the day earlier in the week when he handed down a ruling clearing Racing Commissioner Leo Shirley of charges of capricious actions in allocating racing dates for 1975.

The commissioner had been charged by Northville Downs Executive Director John Carlo of acting capriciously in taking all summer dates from his track and awarding back-to-back meetings to Hazel Park and Wolverine during the lucrative summer season.

Judge Foley, in a 45-minute decision, ruled that Shirley did have the right to allot dates as he saw fit under the provisions of the Michigan Racing Act. Foley went further and told horsemen, who had testifed that back-toback summer meetings for the two big tracks would put them out of business, to go out and buy better horses so they could be competitive.

He criticized the manner in which the attorney for Carlo presented his case, repeating his admonitions for the same reasons during the trial. What happens now rests with Carlo who has indicated he will study the ruling before deciding whether he will appeal to a higher court.

ALTHOUGH talks broke down earlier in the week, we are looking for the DRA and the union teams to resume negotiations quickly once the "tote" strike ends.

There doesn't seem much sense in trying to reach a contract and try to start the 1975 thoroughbred season in Michigan if the mutuel machines aren't working.

One gathers from conversations with DRA officials that the track will open just as soon as a contract is signed "We have no reason not to operate the 33 days of the early meeting," said Vice President and General Manager Dick Wilson.

"There are some 800 horses on the grounds and we could open within three or four days after reaching an agreement. Right now we aren't that close." We made the union an offer which was turned down.

"On the other hand the union also offered some plans to us which we didn't think appropriate. So we're still stymied and far from an agreement.

"That shouldn't be taken to mean that we are at a point where none can budge. Who knows, maybe at the next session some offer will come up that we can all accept."

JOHNNY CARLO, of Northville Downs, may be complaining about the lack of summer dates but his winter operation continues at a near record pace.

The Downs handled $511,000 Friday and then went $502,000 Saturday for the first million dollar weekend of the year. It probably is the first for the halfmile plant during a winter meeting and once again shows people do have money for the races even though the economy is lagging.

It appeared as if Northville would have an all-time high wagering total Saturday when the figures indicated that after six races. But then some fog drifted over the track and the plant, which already had been soaked by a night-long rain. That's when folks began to take off for home.

Most probably thought the area was going to get hit with one of those heavy fogs and decided to avoid driving in it if possible.

Would you believe the fog lifted, within a half-hour and driving was clear after the last race.

However, the wagering dropped drastically in the final three races and a chance for a record vanished with the fog.

There 's still plenty of time for records with seven weeks of racing remaining on the Northville season.

Theater superb in Miller's 'Salesman'

By SUE ROSIEK

The Theater Guild of Livonia-Redford has proved itself as adept at staging drama as comedies and musicals.

The group's current production. "Death of a Salesman," is a sensitive, deeply-moving rendition of Arthur Miller's play about an aging salesman who has wasted his life being something he never intended to be.

Miller's Pulitzer Prize-winning drama is enhanced by the guild's fine theatrical talents.

"Salesman" analyzes the aura of American success and what impact it can have on a person's life, in particular the life of Willy Loman.

AFTER 35 YEARS of faithful service to the same company, Loman loses his salary and is forced to eke out a living from commissions. However, the 60-year-old man no longer has the strength or ability to withstand long trips and sales pressures required to earn the commissions. "He barely gets his valises in the car before he's tired." says his devoted wife, Linda, played by Louise Martin.

Howard Egan is Loman, the doomed salesman whose only failure in life is his surrender to the false ideas of success. It's Loman's other troubles with money and his sons that help him recognize his basic mistake. Egan's portrayal of the troubled, old man is tremendous. He is in complete control of an extremely difficult role throughout the entire play.

Mrs. Martin's performance as his dutiful, concerned wife is equally outstanding. She does her best to shield her fading husband from the truth. and tries to make him as comfortable as she possibly can.

Not only is Loman's physical stamina ebbing away but his mind also is fatigued. Success has eluded him and the picture looks bleak. His sanity slips, and he starts reverting to the past, reliving the more pleasant moments and constantly searching for an answer to "just what I did wrong."

LOMAN'S SONS, Bif, played by Charles Elliot, and Happy, played by Dennis Bumpus, are another source of consternation.

Bif, a drifter and former high school athlete, is troubled by an incident in his father's past. He has long lost all respect for the man. At 34. Bif has had numerous jobs, spent time in jail, and says he's still "looking for myself."

Elliot does an able job as the burned-out athlete still reeling from his emotional scares. Bumpus also turns in a fine supporting role as a would-be swinging bachelor, who builds himself up to more than what he is or ever will be.

Faced with mortgage and refrigerator payments and with no hope of help from his sons. Loman turns to his friend and neighbor, Charley. Despite the insults Loman hurls at his friend, Charley sees through Loman and tries to help the frustrated old man. Leonard Bradley, as Charley lends a sympathetic and likeable performance in this role. Loman's failure with his boys is further stressed in Charley's son, Bernard, played by Kevin McGee.

Bernard adored Bif as a youngster. Bif was everything the delicate, unathletic Bernard admired Later in life, however, Bernard bids Loman farewell as he leaves for Washington to argue a case before the Supreme Court. Academics proved to be Bernard's success. McGee d es a good job portraying the young and old Bernard.

ALSO DESERVING praise are Marion Tournaud as "the woman," and Max Wolf as Uncle Ben, Loman's brother who became a financial success, something Loman could never understand. John Faitel delivers a brief but excellent performance as the waiter.

The final performances of "Death of a Salesman" will be Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m. in the playhouse, 15138 Beech Daly, just south of Five Mile Road in Redford Township. Tickets are $3 general admission and $2 for students.

Seating is limited and reservations are advised. For tickets call Mrs. Gregory G. Nelson, 30742 Ann Arbor Trail, Westland, or Mrs. C. Foster. 16772 Country Club Drive, Livonia.

'Plaza Suite' in Westland

The Wayne-Westland Civic Theater will present Neil Simon's "Plaza Suite," Friday and Saturday, Feb. 28 and March 1 at 8:30 p.m. in John Glenn High School, Westland.

The three-act comedy is directed by Jacquie Guernsey. It concerns the hilarious antics that take place in Suite 719 of the Plaza Hotel in New York City

Tickets are $2.50 for adults and $1.25 for senior citizens and students. Tickets will be available at the door.

The theater group recently won three awards at the 1975 Furay Community Theater Festival in Detroit. The players staged a one-act cutting from Neil Simon's "Prisoner On Second Avenue." Awards were presented to Lois Tobin for best directing and best lighting and Ginnie Tadlock for best supporting actress. Miss Tadlock will be featured in "Plaza Suite. Auditions for the group's April production of "The Gazebo" will be Friday and Saturday. March 7 and 8. at 7:30 p.m. in St. John Episcopal Church, 555 S. Wayne, Westland. The play will be April 25 and 26. The director is Carolyn Kaump

Casting call

The Theater Guild of Livonia-Redford will audition for its April production, "Twigs" Sunday, March 2, at 2 p.m. and Tuesday, March 4, at 8 p.m.

The Theater offers 'Godspell'

The fourth season at The Theater of the University of Detroit Marygrove College continues with its production of "GodspeH."

Created by John-Michael Tebelak and music and new lyrics by Stephen Schwartz, "Godspell," opens Friday, March 7, for a three- weekend run.

Performances are scheduled March

Variety highlights symphony concert

The feelings of the Mardi gras. Lent, Palm Sunday and Good Friday will be expressed in the Plymouth Symphony Qrchestra's next concert. Wayne Dunlap, musical director and creative programmer, will step on the podium at 4 p.m., Sunday, March 2 in the Plymouth Salem High School Auditorium, Joy west of Canton Center Roads.

B. CLARACIACSCO INTERNO

On the program are ballet music by Francis Poulenc, four meditations on "The Ascension" by Oliver Messiaen and Tchaikovsky's symphonic masterpiece. the "Pathetique." The first two works have never before been performed in Plymouth, Dunlap points out, and even an all-orchestra program is different.

"POULENC WROTE this ballet music in 1924 for the Ballet Russe." explains Dunlap. "Its title is 'Les Biches, which means literally 'The Does' of 'The Deer,' but the usual translation is 'House Party." You could say this symbolizes the Mardi gras festival before Lent. "We're going to perform a suite from it-Rondeau, Adagietto, Rag-Mazurka. Andantino and Finale."

"Messiaen originally wrote 'The Ascension' for organ in 1933 and did the orchestra version in '35," says Dunlap. Among the "symphonic meditations." as Messiaen called them. are: "The Majesty of Christ Beseeching the Glory of His Father"; "Serene Alleluias of a Spirit Wishing to Ascend to Heaven'': "Alleulias" for trumpet and for cymbals; and "Prayer of Christ Rising to His Father."

PETER ILICH TCHAIKOWSKY wrote his sixth symphony, subtitled "Pathetique." just prior to his death in 1893 in a cholera epidemic, and shortly after finishing the sckre of "The Nutcracker." The composer himself remained a national hero despite changes in Russian regimes, and "Pathetique" is among his most popular works, even penetrating into soap

While the listener is free to read into its four movements any thought he wishes, Dunlap sees possibilities of religious interpretation in the lenten season

In the third movement, which for most composers is a frothy scherzo. Tchaikovsky substituted a soaring march, symbolic of the Palm Sunday triumphal entry into Jerusalem. The fourth movement, scored "adagio lamentoso." begins with a mournful whimper and ends on a heartbeat, symbolic of Good Friday.

Tchaikovsky, besides plumbing the emotions and creating memorable melodies, was also a brilliant orchestrator. Dunlap feels the entire program-and "Pathetique" in particular-will challenge the orchestra and show off its skills.

Tickets at $3 for adults and $1.50 for senior citizens will be available at the box office. Students kindergarten through 12th grade will be admitted free

Observer & Eccentric Schools take practical approach

By MARILYN FITCHETT

New math or old?

In the mathematics battle, traditional math apparently has scored a technical knockout over modern math. A survey of area school districts shows educators abandoning such modern math practices as set theory and (returning to more practical or consumer mathematics.

(P-8B)*9B

Chief criticism of modern math, which was adopted in 1965, is that it tends to deal in theory and shies away from aritmetic skills. It stresses concepts about numbers before teaching what to do with them.

CHARLES ZOET, a math and science coordinator for Livonia School District, feels modern math is still being taught but "it is appearing in a different set of clothes.'

"We're now looking at modern math theory as enrichment courses for gifted students.," Zoet says.

"Over the past few years, modern math has been clarified for younger students; stressing application and not abstraction because the students didn't really pick up the ideas of modern math.

"The abstractions were presented in isolation, and so the children had problems with application.

"There's now an increased recognition that kids need to be able to add and must memorize multiplication tables."

Central to the Livonia math program is what Zoet calls consumer math.

"A student should be able to figure out interest, discounts and installment payments, and it takes the four basic functions of math to be able to do this."

RONALD GRANT, a Garden City School District curriculum assistant, has no objection to modern math per se, but he says it's too time consuming for the average student.

"I think everyone's begun to realize that modern math, in itself, didn't meet the needs of the bulk of the students," Grant says.

"We still feel our students need the basics-they need know percentages and fractions.

"Such things as set theory and concept as opposed to basic math com-

ACCORDING to Dr. Jan Jacobs, assistant superintendent of South Redford schools, the failure of modern math lies in its inability to recognize individual differences in students.

"Modern math appealed to the student who was able to conceptualize and deal in the abstract," he says. "It - homework. created problems for students who couldn't'.

'By modifying modern math and adding concrete math exercises such as multiplying and adding, we can satisfy the needs of the individual students.

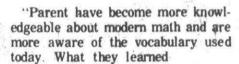

DR. KENNETH ERICKSON of Redford Union schools, says the problem with the new math is that it was developed by mathematicians instead of educators.

'Mathematicians felt there wasn't enough of a theoretical basis for total math systems. But a total modern math program neglected computational skills," Erickson says.

'Modern math is excellent for students well-versed in math to begin with and who want to make a career of it. For those who aren't, we should, in abstracts but poor in calculations. be concerned that they will able to balance checkbooks and figure out mortgages.

WHILE math consultant Sally Ross of Wayne-Westland schools agreed that modeern math downplayed arithmetic skills, she feels the philosophy of the new math has not been dropped.

'To an extent we're still working with set theory and students are handling concepts as well as skills."

She also feels that with a return of arithmetic, parents will feel more at home helping their children with their "Parents have become more knowledgeable about modern math and are more aware of the vocabularyb used today. What they learned as 'borrowing' is called 'renaming' today, but the process is the same."

CARL TAYLOR principal of East Middle School in Plymouth, recently sat on a committee which outlined Plymouth's math goals.

"When the new math was adopted schools had three choices," Taylor says. "They could choose the far-out, abstract approach of modern math. a. middle-of-the-road approach or they could continue with the traditional math.

'We chose the middle of the road and as a result, transition has been easy

"We found modern math was great What we did was sort through and keep what we thought was functional. Modern math tended to get away from the basics.

Since the introduction of modern math, Taylor says "set theory has gone by the wayside." But other new math concepts, such as the cummulative and distributive laws, "are still being pushed."

Most educators feel that the controversy between new math and traditional math has been placed on a won't become extinct.

stand-by basis until textbook pubfishers finish producing metric editions.

ANOTHER ISSUE which is "mude" dying the waters" is the use of the pocket calculators by elementary school students.

Livohia's Zoet questions how skilled children will need to be in addition and multiplication, with calculators so readily available.

"No one really knows what today's students will need by the time they be-" come adults," he says.

"Calculators can do arithmetic" more effectively than people can do it. in their heads.

"I think you'll see a shifting emphasis on what addition is all about, when to push the right button and how to check an answer on a calculator."

PLYMOUTH'S TAYLOR opposes the use of calculators in classrooms.

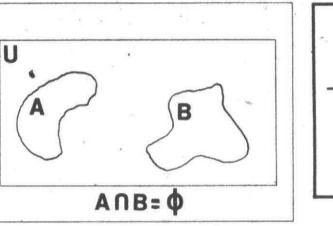

"I don't believe they belong in a classroom until a student gets to be a junior or a senior in high schools, Taylor says.

'There's enough basic work up to the eighth grade to keep students busy

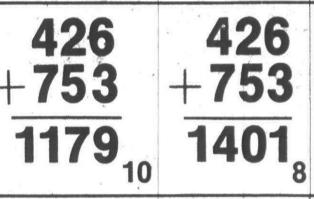

"They're a good tool for whole numbers but that's not where children are weak. They need to work on fractions and percentages.

As one educator said, "Ever since the beginning of time we've had to know how to add, multiply, subtract and divide.

With the swing back to more traditional math, these skills apparently

Another Hiroshima? U-M prof predicts decade of disasters

For perhaps the first time in history, society has caught up to technological advances and may have even exceeded them, and according to one biophysicist, the result may be an oil war, famine and nuclear terrorism.

In a recent lecture at the University of Michigan-Dearborn, John Platt, professor of biophysics and associate director of the Mental Health Research at the university's Ann Arbor campus, believes we have reached a "technological plateau."

Describing the changes of the past few decades as comparable to "10 industrial revolutions and protestant reformations all rolled into one," Platt says we have reached the "saturation point" in most technological areas.

"WE NOW HAVE weapons amounting to 15 tons per person," Platt says. "You can't be deader than dead, so it doesn't matter if we have 15 or 15,000 tons of weapons.'

He describes the United States as being at the "shock iront," which can be measured by what he calls watersheds, or reversals of social norms.

Using New York Times headlines as his watershed index. Platt has identified 40 areas of social reversal in the past six years.

These include new laws such as nofault divorce and no-fault auto insurance which replaced laws "which never should have been on the books in the first place.'

On the international scene, Platt points to such changes as detente, use of an international monetary system and the blocking of the supersonic transport system.

"THESE TURNAROUNDS are easy to accomplish in a land where there are a lot of televisions and good systems of education. The difficulty comes in getting 150 nations to agree to the changes," he says.

And because we will not be able to resolve this difficulty, Platt is predicting a decade of disasters.

"We're likely to have mega-famine or a series of them in which one million people will die because of our inability to ship and stockpile enough food," he says.

"An oil war looks less likely now but both Syria and Israel have talked about war in May."

NUCLEAR TERRORISM may also be in our future.

"Six countries have openly announced they have nuclear weapons. In the next few years 20 countries will probably have them.

"This will pave the way for someone to steal, pass under the table or give nuclear secrets to terrorists who will use them as a grenade in a crowded pub for the purpose of newspaper publicity."

Platt is predicting another Hiroshima for the end of the '70s.

"This is likely to occur in Tel Aviv or New York and would serve as a kind of Pearl Harbor for the worldthat we have to do something about justice for countries which have been excluded from jobs, food and hope."

Revolutions, similar to the Maoist revolution, should be cropping up in Asia, Africa and South America, according to Platt.

"YOU'LL BE SEEING a revolution of land reform and agricultural communes-something to lift these nations up by the bootstraps and out of the reach of poverty."

Platt sees the world as in a race between construction and destruction and adds that if impending crises are viewed as being catalysts for solution of world problems, then survival is still a possibility.

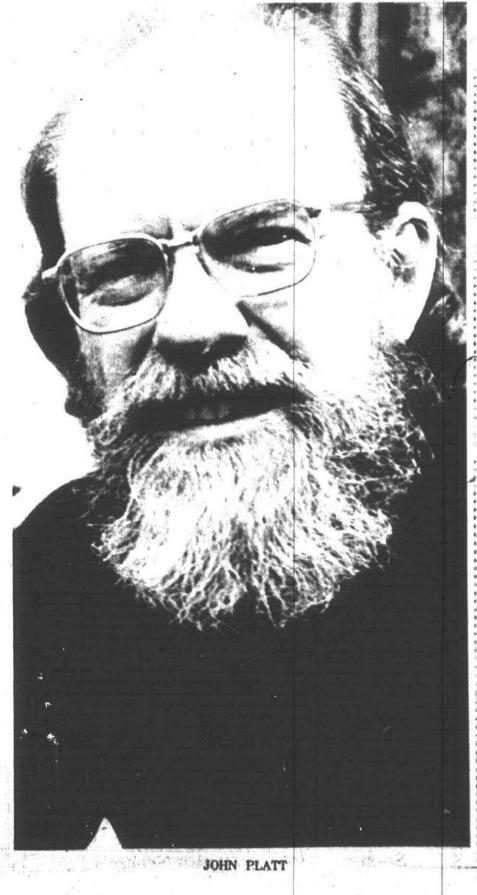

"If disasters can be postponed, we could have the beginnings of an energy program, an ocean management program and the beginnings of world food stockpiles and peace-keeping methods.'

THE FUTURE beyond the year 2000 is impossible to predict, Platt says, but he is optimistic.

"For the first time in history we've been able to think about the possibility of existing in the next century," he says. "What we need are catalytic crises which are big enough to demand attention but not totally destructive. We must begin thinking about possible crises and see what we can do to avert them."

Platt has authored articles on world future which have appeared in "Harper's," "Science," "Saturday Review" and "The New Republic." He is a former Guggenheim Fellow at the University of London and a former fel- in the Behavioral Sciences at Stanford low at the Center for Advanced Study University.

Dems give blood in local effort

Members of the Wayne 2nd District Democratic Party recently donated 33 pints of blood to the American Red Cross. They participated in a blood drive in Faith Lutheran Church, 30000 Five Mile, Livonia.

'There was a feeling among some Democrats that because we've 'spilled' so much blood at the polls the past few years, that we certainly could give some blood to the Red Cross," quipped Alan Helmkamp, bloodbank chairman.

Donors included district chairman Marvin Stempien; Livonia Councilman Jerry Raymond; Schoolcraft College trustees Nancy Blatt, Rosina Raymond: and Bernie Ryan, of the State Democratic Party.

Part of the group's community efforts are plans to establish a "Help-Your-Neighbor" hotline to assist people in emergencies, and senior citizen and handicapped programs.

Esch named arts trustee

U.S. Rep. Marvin L. Esch (R-Ann Arbor) has been appointed to the board of trustees of the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, DC. by House Speaker Carl Albert

Esch, whose 2nd District includes Livonia and Plymouth, will assume his duties, which include responsibility for oversight of the center's cultural activities, immediately.

The appointment comes in recognition of Esch's years of support and interest in the arts and humanities, says Albert, and for his work in rewriting and expanding the work of the National Endowment for the Arts and Humanities which annually contributes millions of dollars to cultural activities in the U.S.

Esch. in accepting the appointment, expressed appreciation for the high standard of excellence in the performing arts which the Kennedy complex has provided. Recently the center hosted the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and the Wayne State University Choir.

THOMAS L. SMITH of Livonia is an original. He's the first person in the country to receive a double rebate from the Ford Motor Co. The checks Smith received were among the first 50 delivered in the country, the first in the metropolitan area and the first in Livonia. Smith (right) recently purchased two Mavericks from Barney Johnson (left) at Bill Brown Ford in Livonia. The Ford rebate program was scheduled to continue through Feb. 28.

For thousands laid off from jobs, stretching small funds presents a big problem

SHIRLEY JERDEN checks through Observer & Eccentric want ads in her search for a job. She has been laid off a month. (Staff photo by Art Emanuel)

MARGARET MILLER Bv

"My house is clean-all the cupboards and closets too. And here I sit."

The speaker is Westland divorcee

She had been on sick leave following surgery in the summer, and then there was two-week layoff at Christmas time, so she had plenty of time to get her house well cleaned.

During the holiday "vacation"

"I think probably there was a directive to lay off some in each department.'L

SHE STILL IS LISTED as being on temporary layoff, Mrs. Jerden said, "and I've had a terrific letter from the company-it wanted all employes to know it's doing all it can to get us back."

years for Bob Leland Manufacturing in Redford Township.

"I really liked that job," she said. "I had the chance to do quite a bit of the actual purchasing. But the company went bankrupt.

ation. The number of claims for benefits in Redford and Plymouth MESC offices is running in the thousands, and nearly every one carries its hardship and heartache.

There are men, for instance, like Earl Konkel od Livonia, who lost his job as a salesman in the food business the end of October. His problems were complicated by the fact that he purchased an individual Blue Cross hospitalization policy after the layoff and learned too late it would not cover the hospitalizatoon his wife has needed.

dustry," he said. Connie Vatca, Li vonian laid off Jan. 10 from her job at General Motors Corp. Fisher Body plant in Livonia, had gone two years since the last time off work.

Susan Purdy of Westland was gr

Shirley Jerden. And while she sits, with her subdivision ranch home indeed in apple-pie order, she does a lot of checking through help-wanted columns of any newspaper she can find.

On Jan. 24, Mrs. Jerden was laid off from a job she had held for three years. She has now picked up her first check from the Michigan Employment Security Commission office in P ymouth, and she's afraid the $77 she gets every two weeks won't go very far toward meeting the bills for herself and her high school sophomore son, Mitchell.

"There's the house payment," she said, counting off the places the money must go, "and the gas and the electricity and the telephone. And then you have to eat."

SHIRLEY JERDEN has been working as a secretary in the purchasing department of Milford Farbicating Co. in Detroit, a subsidiary of the Budd Co and Mitch and another son, William, who has nearly completed a self-financed four years at Northern Michigan University, were offered a ride south, so they visited Mrs. Jerden's mother and sister in North Carolina. She came back with spring housecleaning done early and ready for some steady work. But it didn't quite work out that way.

"I'VE BEEN LIVING on my savings so far," she said, "and last week my state income tax refund came and I had to cash that to keep going. There had been some layoffs in the plant but not the office, Mrs. Jerden said, "and we rather thought another was coming, but you can't spend all your time worrying about it, so I didn't."

When pink slips went out the last week in January, though, this secretary with three years' seniority was one of the recipients.

"There are people with less service than I who are still there," she said.

"But I can't just sit here and wait," she added.

She has signed up at three employment agencies and sent out resumes to a lot of firms. She also pores over the want-ads (mostly employment agency ads there now, she says) and is making inquiries with everyone she knows.

Mitchell, at 15, hasn't had much luck with any kind of part-time work, but he did do a stand-in for his mother in the MESC lines on the first visit there.

"I have trouble with my feet when I stand too long," Mrs. Jerden said, "so I had to take him out of school for a day to help me wait in line."

THIS IS NOT the first encounter with unemployment for this Westland resident of 19 years.

After her divorce, she worked five

It took her two months then to lo-,cate a new job," she said, "and that was in good times."

It is because her former husband also has been laid off since September and hasn't been able to make support payments that her unemployment check is at its $77 level, Mrs. Jerden said.

MRS. JERDEN said she was amazed to see the huge crowds in the Plymouth MESC office.

"Until the, I guess I hadn't realized how bad it is," she said. Besides the financial worries, Mrs. Jerden has found being unemployed a boring proposition.

"You can't read all the time," she said, "and you can't go out much because you've no money to go places, and the car eats up gasoline.

"A friend took me to a YW craft class recently, and that was really fun to have someone different to talk to.'

SHIRLEY JERDEN, of course, has plenty of company in her present situ-

"It's bad enough making the house payment without a big hospital bill hanging over you," he said as he stood in line to collect his check in Plymouth.

How is he managing?

"Well, you starve a little and you sponge a little," he said, ruefully.

DIE-MAKER Stanley Mostowy, also of Livonia, hasn't worked at his Chrysler Corp. job since December. "It's still called temporary layoff, though," he said.

Plymouth carpenter Dave Gutuskey has been off work since October. "Just no starts in the housing inful her husband still was on the job. "We're all right unless he gets laid off," she said.

IN THE REDFORD MESC office, Mark Snider and his wife, Terri, stood togeher to collect his benefit check. He was laid off by Nempco in Plymouth, Mrs. Snider wore a waitress uniform; she'd been able to find a job to tide them over.

Cheryl Watson of Redford Township, who has been collecting for nearly a year after losing a job as manager of a clothing store, reported that "I was in Florida, and they aren't hiring there, even in the tourist season.'

One woman in the Redford office line found her position there quite normal.

"I work for an amusement park," she said. "I work seven days a week for six months and collect unemployment the other six. I've been doing it for years."

Lines, statistics paint unemployment picture

You know unemployment has increased tremendously in this area even before you look at the long lines in branch offices of the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

Or try to drive into their autoclogged parking lots.

recent months

But all these things serve to outline sharply the total picture-one that shows more people are out of work than have been in a long time.

Yet as effects of the turned-down economy linger in these suburbs, there seemed some not-so-grim features in the offices where people get jobless benefits.

Recently the Redford MESC office, located at 24444 W. Seven Mile, added a subsidiary office to cut the lines and processing time. This week the Plymouth branch has been able to follow suif.

These moves, coupled with increased efficiency of newly-hired claim processors have eased the situation.

"I THINK WE'RE over the hump." said George West, manager of the Redford branch.

West compared the number of claims filed-by residents of Redford Township, Livonia, Farmington; Farmington Hills-in single weeks of November, December, January and February last year and this year.

All showed sharp increases. There were 3.076 claims filed the week of Nov. 15, 1973, and 5,041 in the com-parable week of 1974. For the second 1973 and 7,659 in 1975.

The difference of a year in the second week of January raised the totals from 5,930 in 1974 to 10,857, nearly double, in 1975. February figures show a jump from 8,637 for a week in 1974 Or check statistics of claims filed in to 12,011 in a very recent week.

> COMPARISONS MADE in a different way for claims processed in the Plymouth branch -drawing people from Plymouth, Westland, Livoniashowed the same, not-surprising pattern.

> That branch, in the four months from November of 1972 to February of 1973, processed 19,696 claims. A year later, for the same four months, the total was 34,364.

> But in the four months just completed, incomplete records make it clear the claim load tops 53,000. There are ups and downs in the weekly figures, particularly in the Plymouth office, that have to do with automobile plants in this area opening one week and closing the next. Louis Belanger, Plymouth branch. manager, said the new facilities would shorten lines and make claim

> BUT EVEN while long lines wound around the desks in the two-MESC branches, the general atmosphere was one of patience and rueful cheer on the part of those in line and helpfulness from the workers behind the processing quicker.

"Our staff has about doubled now," said Burns in the Redford office. He added that some of the new workers files of those seeking jobs."

ANOTHER MESC office, this one located at 33274 W. Six Mile in Livonia, available for the particular worker also plays a role in today's job picture who registers there. in this area

"This is the job placement officewe deal with employment rather than unemployment," said manager Tim Burns.

Opened six months ago, it keeps a ago, Burns said, and he hesitates to week of December, it was 4,223 in in the branch office "came from our complete file of all kinds of job open- admit that "February has been a lousy month-only 12 placements." BUT BURNS FEELS the outlook is generally more positive than that.

"There are jobs available," he said. "and it's our job to contact employers and find out where the work is. I feel things are working upward, slowly." Applications in the placement office are accepted from all, and the hours

Burns added one more sidelight to the area's somewhat dark employment picture.

"I don't have figures to back this up," he said, "but it seems to me that three or four years ago, when I was helping newly-returned veterans find work there were less listings than there are now.

"There wasn't as much publicity about it, but it seems to me things were tougher then. There are jobs now-I'm generally optimistic.

MORE ARE out of work; more are filling jobless claims. Staff photographer Bob Woodking snapped this scene in the Plymouth office of the MESC.

CHURCH BULLETIN

OUR LADY OF GOOD COUNSEL CATHOLIC CHURCH, 1160 Penniman, Plymouth, will conduct its annual St. Anne's Day devotions Wednesday, March 5, at 7:30 p.m.

The Rev. Eugene Lefebvre of the Canadian Shrine of St. Anne de Beaupre will conduct the solemn devotions, including a mass, homily and candlelight procession.

Special emphasis is placed each year by those participating in the OLGC devotions on prayers for the sick and afflicted and for peace.

KENWOOD CHURCH OF CHRIST, 20200 Merriman, Livonia, will welcome evangelist Hondel Adams for weekend revival services Friday Feb. 28, Saturday, March 1 and Sunday, March 2.

Services are scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Friday and 6:30 p.m. Saturday. Adams, minister of the Latonia Christian Church in Covington, Ky., also will speak for an 8 a.m. Saturday men's prayer breakfast and for morning and evening services Sunday.

The visiting evangelist uses huge murals in natural color to create a setting for his sermon series, dealing with the life of Christ visualized.

Presbyterians pick moderator

Walter R. Greene, vice president and director of urban affairs at the National Bank of Detroit, has been elected moderator for the 11 Presbyterian churches which comprise the Presbytery of Detroit.

As moderator, Greene serves as head of the 78,000-member presbytery, which includes churches extending from the Port Huron area to west and south of Ann Arbor.

He will also preside over the presbytery council, which is the coordinating body for the presbytery, and serve as lay spiritual leader for 1975.

Greene has served the church as a member of its general assembly committee on nominations, and is a member of the board of McCormick Theological Seminary, Chicago, and of Alma College, Alma.

Greene participated in the assembly of the World Council of Churches held in Sweden in 1968. During the administration of Roman S. Gribbs, he was deputy mayor of Detroit.

He has a wife and two children.

UNITED ASSEMBLY OF GOD, 42021 Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth, is offering a series of services conducted by David Lee Hill Jr., Bible teacher, continuing through Sunday, March 2. The series began Wednesday.

Hill, a member of the Billy Graham team, is speaking each evening at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Saturday night's service will be designed especially for young people, and there will be nursery care available at all services.

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH, 43065 Joy, Plymouth, will present the singing group, "The Renaissance," in a sacret concert Sunday, March 2, at 6 p.m.

WARD UNITED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, 17000 Farmington Road, Livonia, will view a multi-media presentation by Larry Warnemuende, pilot and mechanic working under the Mission Aviation Fellowship, on Sunday, March 2 at 7 p.m.

The depiction of the work of the MAF will be done on a 20-inch screen, using four slide projectors running simultaneously. The speaker plans to leave soon with his wife and two young sons to assist mission and church outreach work in Zaire, Africa.

The March 2 service also will honor those working in Ward Christian education programs. Those to be honored will be invited to a buffet dinner be-

JOHN BOSCO CATHOLIC CHURCH, 12170 Beech Daly, Redford Township, will be the scene of a "Shamrock and Shillelagh' card party Wednesday, March 5, at 7:30 p.m. Sponsored by the St. John Moms Club, the gala will be held in the church hall and tickets, priced at $1.75, will include dessert and prizes.

NANKIN MILLS BAPTIST CHURCH, 32430 Ann Arbor Trail, Westland, will continue its School of Missions Sunday, March 2, at 6 p.m. with a talk by Mrs. George Pickering of Detroit.

Mrs. Pickering, who has visited several American Baptist Church missions, will show slides of mission work in India. The school also includes an adult class led by Mrs. Emanuel Igrisan, former missionary, a youth class studying under the direction of Mrs. Ann Hall and classes for children with Mrs. Rose Lahnala and Mrs. Lillian Crowder. The mission school will hold its final session March 9.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH OF WAYNE, 36125 Glenwood, Wayne, will present the 46-voice choir of Bryan College of Dayton, Tenn., in a varied program of sacred music Tuesday, March 4, at 7:30 p.m.

The program, directed by Dr. J. James Breasby, also will include music by the Bryan College Madrigal Singers.

Church council picks woman

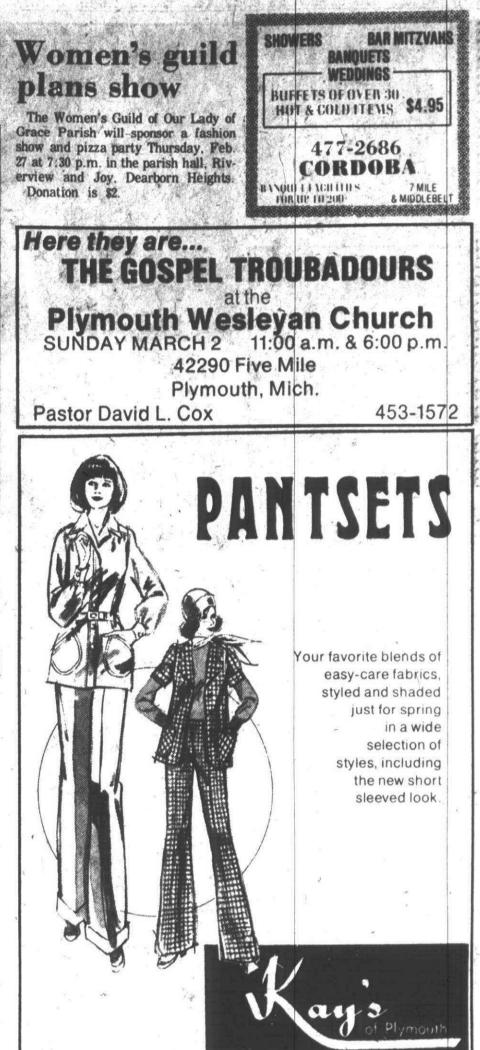

For the first time in its 55-year history, the Metropolitan Council of Churches has chosen a woman as its president.

Elizabeth Redecker, prominent United Methodist lay person from Royal Oak, was recently selected to be the 29th president of the council.

Her main job will be to give leadership to the board of directors, to the annual assemblies of representatives from about 1,000 churches in the area, and to program units through which the council serves its constituency and community.

Mrs. Redecker has long been active in Church Women United and in the Metropolitan Council of Churches as a delegate from the United Methodist Church.

She has also been a representative from her denomination to the Michigan Council of Churches and to the Detroit Conference of United Methodist Women.
