Parents continue attack on 45-15

By DARLENE STINSON

CANTON—About 60 parents, most of whom live within the Miller Elementary School attendance area, stormed the Plymouth Community School Board Tuesday night with objections over implementation of the 45-15 program, earmarked to begin at Miller on July 14.

With implementation proceedings already underway, the board gave no indication it would change its decision to launch the year-round school program this summer.

The administration has set July 14 as the program's starting date, School Supt. John Hoben told parents and board members. Children enrolled in the 45-15 program will be scheduled on one of four tracks, and parents will be informed of schedules by April 25.

But, at the brink of the program's implementation, parents continued dissent on the 45-15 concept, and one toted a dissenting placard to the board's meeting room.

ACCORDING TO Miller Principal Shirley Spaniel, post cards were sent to all residents in the school's attendance area.

A note asked parents to return the cards, if they wished to opt out of the 45-15 program and bus their children to Fiegel, Allen or East elementary schools.

As a result, 758 children will attend Miller's 45-15 program, Mrs. Spaniel said, and 54 will be bused to other schools.

But, according to one resident,

Elton Thomas, a survey conducted by residents showed 253 persons against the 45-15 program and only 78 in favor.

"People actually signed the cards saying they'd send their children to 45-15, because they didn't want their children bused," said Thomas.

"The people resent this and feel the only way they can express themselves is to vote against millage and bond issues," Thomas said to a round of applause.

Another resident won a low sound of grumbling from parents.

"I'M AFRAID Mr. Thomas' survey may not be representative of all parents," he told board members. "It was not brought west of Sheldon, and our children also walk to the school."

"I do very strongly support the concept of 45-15," he said. "I think there are many, many educational positives. I support it wholeheartedly."

Trustee Gary Mirto asked: "Will your children still attend Miller after the new elementary schools are constructed? I'm a bit concerned. People who have a temporary stake in something are always a bit more willing to experiment."

"Are we not implementing a program that's only increasing the capacity of the building?" Mirto asked board members. "There are an infinite number of possibilities to which we can adjust people's schedules and vacations."

Vice president Marda Benson responded: "In the two years we've been discussing 45-15, I don't recall Mirto opposing it. On March 15, when we could have really used his comments, he wasn't there."

Board President E.J. McClendon refused to recognize some residents, who shouted remarks against 45-15 from their seats. They had not earlier placed their names on the agenda.

According to Ms. Benson, many of the persons opposed to 45-15 at Tuesday's meeting were opposed to the program last year.

Mrs. Spaniel supported her observation.

"Most of the 54 people who want to bus their children to other schools are the same group that would have opted out last year," she said. "I noticed that, when I was looking over the cards."

Mrs. Spaniel said she will assign children to tracks, according to the neighborhoods in which they live. Children living in established neighborhoods will be scheduled to the first tracks, while those living in growing subdivisions will be scheduled to later ones.

Planner wants west rezoning

CANTON—At the request of township planner Mike Manore, the planning commission will consider the rezoning of more than 400 acres in the western half of the township.

Manore asked the planners to consider the rezoning Tuesday at a planning commission meeting.

Four separate parcels of land would be affected by the rezoning. All would be "down graded" from their present classification, meaning they would be changed to a more restrictive zoning category.

The properties are:

- An 8.3-acre parcel of land at the corner of Ridge and Ford currently zoned C-2 or general business. Manore suggests it be changed to AG of agricultural, which is five acre lots.

- A 226-acre parcel of land divided by Beck Road between Geddes and Proctor. It is currently zoned R-IBC and R-IC.80- and 60-foot lots. Manore thinks it should be changed to R-IB east of Beck (100 foot lots) and agricultural west of Beck.

- An 80-acre parcel at the southwest corner of Geddes and Beck currently zoned R-IC. The planner thinks it should be changed to agricultural.

- A 46-acre parcel of land on the north side of Geddes between Beck and Canton Center. Manore wants it rezoned from R-IC to R-IB.

He said, "What we are trying to do is to insure that the Geddes Road corridor doesn't get developed prematurely. We don't want to see anything happen to it until we are sure what we want for it."

All these properties had been rezoned previously by past township boards. Manore said they had been following the old master land use plan.

The planner commented, "These changes will probably be in line with the new master land use plan, and we want to go on record now as in favor of these changes."

"We want to notify developers right now that we are considering rezoning these properties."

The planning commission will consider scheduling a public hearing in June at its next meeting. The public hearing will involve the four properties in the west part of the township and another parcel between Canton Center and Sheldon, and Cherry Hill and Palmer.

Manore said, "All we want to do right now is get the rezoning procedures started. Rezoning takes three months and the sooner we get started the less time builders will have to use the land in a way that would be contrary to the new master land use plan."

The planner said the master land use plan would probably be ready in June.

He added, "We're shooting for June right now. But the land use plan is only a document used to guide policy. Since the zoning ordinance that accompanies the new plan won't be ready until September or October, we'd like to get these rezonings started."

VENDING MACHINES provide quick between-class snacks for students at Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton high schools,

Vending machine use grows in high schools

CANTON—Clink goes the quarter and out comes the soda pop.

Grabbing quick refreshments via quarters and dimes and the vending machines, this food has become a way of life at Plymouth Salem and Canton high schools, where ice cream, pop, potato chips and candy tantalize students from behind glass enclosures.

Students have fed more than $7,500 into the machines, owned by United Vending Co. of Farmington, since last July 1, according to Salem Principal Bill Brown.

They grab quick snacks to avoid long cafeteria lines, where pupils wait from 7:45 a.m. to 1 p.m. for state-supported meals and a la carte goodies, and between-class refreshments after the cafeteria is closed.

Eight vending machines, serving candy, ice cream, pastry, cold drinks, potato chips, pretzels, coffee, hot chocolate and sandwiches, sit in Salem's cafeteria for the students' enjoyment, while two, offering candy and pop, serve students in Canton.

ALTHOUGH SCHOOL officials admit some of the food lacks nutritional value, they strongly endorse the vending machine concept.

"I think kids have to make up their own minds on what they want to eat," said Canton Principal Kent Buikema. "I think we have a responsibility to talk about balanced diets in class. But I don't think we have a responsibility to take these things away from them. If we don't supply it, they'll get it somewhere else."

Brown had similar words for vending machines at Salem.

"If we haven't taught some kind of selection at this point, I think we're in trouble," Brown said. "Vending machines have become a way of life."

Vending machine hostess Mary Broome, an employee of United Vending Co. who services machines in Salem fulltime, says cheeseburgers, submarine sandwiches, orange drink, pop, candy and potato chips are the hot-selling items.

"The only real junk food is candy," Mrs. Broome said. "But I don't think the kids eat it too much, compared to other things. They eat a lot of sandwiches and warm them in the microwave oven after the cafeteria closes."

"We did have apples last year," Mrs. Broome said. "But were selling them for a quarter a piece, and still weren't making money."

STUDENTS MAY still purchase fruit and juice in the high schools' a la carte cafeteria lines, according to Marjorie Monteith, cafeteria manager at Salem, where soup, hamburgers,

Tommy: A fierce loyalty to the public good

R. T. (TOMMY) THOMPSON
A fierce loyalty

Richard T. (Tommy) Thompson, until recently executive editor of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and a 48-year veteran of the newspaper business, died Monday, April 14. He was 65.

He was dead on arrival at St. Mary Hospital, Livonia. He suffered a massive heart attack during an editorial board meeting at the Observer & Eccentric office in Livonia.

Funeral services were held Wednesday evening in the Harry J. Will Funeral Home, Redford Township. An old friend, Rev. John Rozak of SS. Cyril and Methodius Seminary, Orchard Lake, officiated. Burial was in Warren, Ohio, the steel town where he grew up.

Memorial contributions may be sent to St. Mary Hospital of Livonia, one of his strongest interests.

In his profession, Thompson was noted for his fierce loyalty to his newspaper and its staff which, in turn, won him a loyalty and respect equally as strong.

A BIG MAN, jovial in nature, Thompson frequently adopted a gruff front to shield a softness of heart recognized with affection by all who knew him well.

While sports was far and away his first interest from his teen years on, Thompson's enthusiasm reached out in a multitude of directions. Moreover, he threw himself wholeheartedly behind projects he found worthy.

One of these was establishment of Schoolcraft College which he backed with all-out effort. After its founding, he continued covering board meetings and editorializing on its affairs.

"Tommy had an abiding interest in education in this region," said Schoolcraft President Emeritus Eric Bradner. "He was the key man in the media favoring the establishment of Schoolcraft, and his fight to get Redford to join the district was a valiant one. He always attended board and committee meetings and was in constant touch with us. He was always willing to say what was on his mind and his interest in the college was always productive and constructive, and not destructive. His loss to this area is a great one."

THOMPSON ALSO served on the silver anniversary and cultural affairs committees at Madonna College and was a member of the committee for the study of co-education there. He was a guest speaker at journalism staff conferences and workshops and worked with the college's journalism students who completed their co-op education at Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

"Madonna is a better institution for having known Richard Thompson," said Sister Mary Danatha, president. "It is a stronger college for having shared his wisdom and a richer community of persons for having been befriended by the man who affectionately termed the religious staff 'my girls'."

Sister Mary Lauriana, dean of Madonna, called Thompson "a man for our times, alert and alive, generous and understanding. We will dearly miss him," she added.

Thompson was recognized among his colleagues as a newspaperman of the "old school."

A FAMILIAR city room sight was Thompson seated at his desk, his hat pushed to the back of his head, and "Tommy" pounding at the typewriter with two fingers. (Until his 1972 heart attack, there also would have been a cigar smoldering in an ash tray.)

Philip H. Power, co-publisher of Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, termed Thompson's death "a deep personal loss."

"Tommy Thompson was an outstanding newsman who, more than any one person, developed the editorial staff and policies of our newspapers," he said. He was at once ferocious and caring; gruff and kind; most of all, he cared.

"His passing will be greatly felt by Observer & Eccentric employees who came to love and admire him through the years," Power added.

He was so prolific a writer that he used two pseudonyms for his columns, "Doc Minard" and "Artee", as well as his own name. The "Doc Minard" tag was a joking reference to a horse liniment he used to ease arthritic pains.

THOMPSON WAS firm in his opinions and never hesitated to make his feelings clear.

Once, to emphasize a point, he

Metropolitan-West Hospital strike temporarily averted

By DENNY COFFMAN

WESTLAND—Federal mediators helped to head off a strike by a labor union against a hospital run by a labor union Tuesday.

Local 42 of the Office and Professional Employees International Union (AFL-CIO) temporarily called off a strike that was set to take place noon Tuesday against Metropolitan Hospital of 1800 Tuxedo in Detroit and Metropolitan Hospital-West of 26303 Joy, Westland.

Both sides had met with the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service late Monday night and early Tuesday morning in a last-minute attempt to resolve differences over a proposed new contract between OPEI and the hospital.

THE UNION employees have been working without a new contract since Feb. 1 of this year. They will vote on the hospital's latest proposals at a meeting scheduled for 7:30 p.m. today.

Membership includes office staff, accounting personnel, dietary aides, housekeeping personnel, medical records clerks and medical attendants. Of the union's 450 members, 80 are employed at Metro-West.

Carol Hollman, Metro-West employee and a member of the union's strike committee, refers to the new set of proposals as a "take-away contract," meaning that the hospital is taking away more than it is giving.

According to Mrs. Hollman, chances for approval of the contract by union membership appear slim.

Hospital management is offering a cost-of-living increase of 26 cents an hour, but offered 33 cents an hour last year, according to Mrs. Hollman.

Management's latest offer also included a change in sick and accident benefits that would provide an employee with $100 a week after he has been out of work for 60 days because of sickness or an accident.

The employee must have attained at least a year's seniority to qualify. The hospital also has proposed that in future contract negotiations, both sides submit to binding arbitration, and that the contract be effective for three years rather than two as it is now.

WHAT BROUGHT the two parties to the brink of a strike were the kinds of issues the UAW had fought to acquire for its members as long ago as the '30s.

OPEI wants the right to hold union meetings and distribute union literature on hospital premises and the right to strike over alleged understaffing and "speed-ups."

The union wants the UAW-run hospital to bring wages, the cost-of-living allowance, pensions, supplemental unemployment benefits and sickness-accident benefits up to what OPEI suggests are "UAW standards."

Many of the provisions, OPEI contends, are those which the UAW has been demanding for its own membership in contract talks with auto companies.

The union also charges the hospital has hired strike-breakers and security guards to threaten its members.

The hospital management, claims OPEI, has turned the facilities into a "virtual armed camp."

The union's bargaining committee contends the hospital made "elaborate and expensive preparations, as if for a seige, using the age-old anti-union excuse of fearing violence."

OPEI claims the hospital has made "attempts to intimidate peaceful pickets with armed security guards" and says attempts have been made to recruit strike-breakers from the ranks of OPEI employees at the hospital.

Metropolitan Hospital management refused to comment.

METROPOLITAN HOSPITAL had been a project of Walter Reuther to provide medical care to UAW members on a pre-paid basis through group health insurance included in auto workers' contracts.

Its board of directors includes Ken Bannon, UAW vice-president and Emil Mazey, a UAW executive board member. John Bateman, UAW auditor, is president of the hospital's board of directors.

Operating revenue is obtained from health insurance coverages, such as Metro Health Plan (formerly Community Health Association) and Blue Cross and Medicaid.

OPEI claims the hospital can finance employee wage increases out of its alleged "artificially inflated prices."

According to Mrs. Hollman, the hospital workload has doubled in the last year but only a handful of workers have been employed to compensate.

"And," says Mrs. Hollman, "we still are not allowed to hold union meetings. I'm not even allowed to talk to you now."

SC students to assist those who will transfer

By DENNY COFFMAN

LIVONIA—To many community college students, the prospect of leaving their friendly, neighborhood two-year college for an impersonal, distant four-year school is like jumping the Great Wall of China.

From relatively small classes with easily accessible instructors, they transfer to schools with enormous lecture classes.

It's a big step from Garden City, Westland, Redford, Livonia or Plymouth to Ann Arbor, Lansing, Kalamazoo or Mt. Pleasant.

BUT TWO Schoolcraft College (SC) students have been trying to learn how to make the transition less painful for themselves and their fellow students.

Kathy Wilson of 16504 Wayne, and Kent Lawless of 16876 Woodside, both of Livonia, recently attended a conference at the University of Michigan (U-M) aimed at helping community college students talk over their mutual problems.

From talking with students who have made the transition from community college to U-M, some of what they learned was encouraging.

"I found that none of the U-M students looked down on SC students, and that those who had gone to a community college before attending U-M were glad they did," says Kathy.

BUT SOME of what they learned was less encouraging.

"We were told that U-M was hard, which we already knew," says Kathy. "And we were told to expect our grades to go down, too."

"Just finding out where everything is located is a major undertaking," says Kathy. "You're really on your own at U-M. It's not like Schoolcraft, where there is more assistance from teachers and counselors."

Kent, who is taking a "step out"—a year off—before going on to a four-year school, agrees.

9 students make Adrian's dean's list

Nine western Wayne County students were among the 292 Adrian College students named to the dean's list for the 1974-75 fall semester.

To achieve the honor a student must maintain a B+ average while taking at least 14 credit hours of study.

Livonia students on the list include: Lisa Denison, Deborah Jackson, Susan Rupp and Anne Shaffer.

Others are: Dave Hees, Daniel Hees and Judy West, all of Plymouth; David Krause of Redford Township; and Karen Sanders of Westland.

"At Schoolcraft, classes average about 30 or so students. At U-M, it's more like 200 to 300," Kent says.

"It's more like holding a job when you attend Schoolcraft," says Kent. "It's a lot different at U-M, where there are more student activities."

KATHY AND KENT, both 19, advise prospective transfer students to check out what may be false information.

"I was kind of worried about having to take a language at U-M because I had heard that an exam was given to determine if a student's high school language preparation was sufficient," Kathy says.

She had tried to take as many high school language classes as she could, but was concerned about having to take the special exam.

"When I checked, I found out that I didn't have to take the test. So it pays to check out rumors," she says.

KATHY AND KENT, both of whom attended Livonia Stevenson High, have high praise for Schoolcraft College counselors, but feel that high school counseling leaves something to be desired.

Both had good high school academic preparation for community college, but concede they "had worked pretty hard."

They feel sorry for students who "just got through."

Both are trying to form an association of students who intend to go on to a four-year school from Schoolcraft.

"PHASING IN" to a four-year college is often difficult, says John Webber, director of counseling at Schoolcraft.

Although U-M has 53 students from Schoolcraft enrolled, it is not the most popular choice for SC students. Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti is the favorite.

Kathy, is faced with a declining demand for graduates in her field, but intends to stay with it.

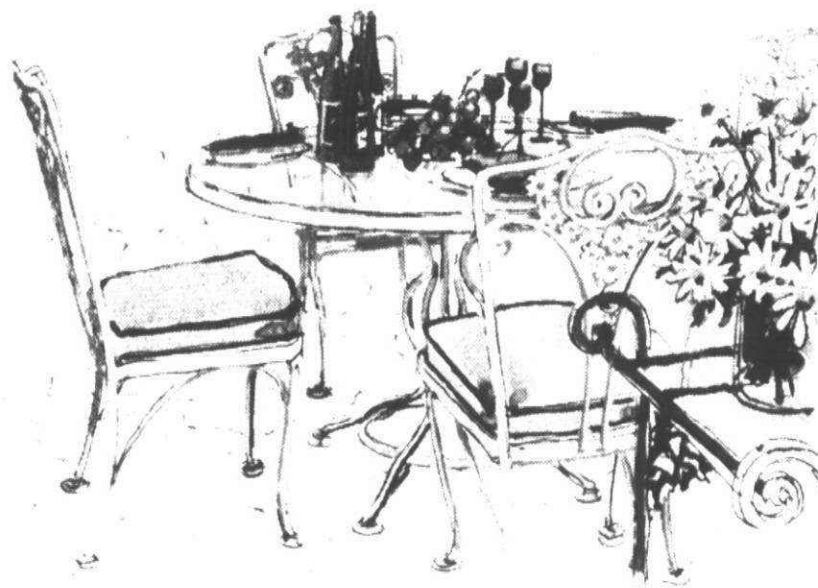

An elementary education major, she concedes her field is "one of the tightest" but plans to continue with it for two more years.

Webber suggests students go ahead with studies in a field they like, even if employment is not promising in that area.

"If a student likes a certain type of work, he ought to go ahead with it, rather than withdraw because he hears they are not hiring in that area," says Webber.

"Take Kathy, for example. I know Kathy will get a job. This girl won't have any trouble," he says.

THE IRREPRESSIBLE Figaro, played by Allan Glassman (left), and Fiorello, the count's servant played by Roman Terleckyj, meet.

Symphony joins MOT

'Barber' blends comedy, drama

Some 65 members of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra are sharpening their musical abilities in preparation for their joint performance with the Michigan Opera Theater (MOT) in "The Barber of Seville," Saturday, April 26.

The orchestra, directed by Wayne Dunlap has been rehearsing for nearly two months, perfecting the light, lively and complex arias, and the intricate recitatives.

Rossini's comic opera will be sung by an enthusiastic and accomplished MOT cast which includes, Rockwell Blake as Count Almaviva, Davis Gloff as Dr. Bartolo, Nancy Fox Hoover as Rosina, and Allan Glassman as the ingenious Figaro the barber.

Also Johnathan Prescott as Basilio, Roman Terleckyj as Fiorello (the musician) and Karen Ruczynski as Berta.

and Sue Rosiek

AS THE OPERA begins the handsome Count Almaviva is in love with Rosina, whose guardian is the mean and suspicious Dr. Bartolo. Almaviva, with the help of Fiorello, comes to serenade his lady, but she fails to answer his song. Then, Almaviva hears someone coming and hides.

Figaro, the town barber and jack-of-all-trades, bounds in boasting of his busy life and many talents, in particular those which involve intrigue.

Almaviva seeks Figaro's talents and the barber agrees to help him win Rosina.

In the meantime, Dr. Bartolo also plans to marry Rosina and inherit her large dowry.

The opera is filled with rich humor and dialog. It is through the shrewd scamp, Figaro, that the young lovers are finally paired.

The opera, which is done in English, is an "All's well that end's well," type of story with just the right blend of humor and drama. It is totally enjoyable even to the novice opera-goer.

JOINING THE MOT and the Plymouth symphony are 17 members of the all male chorus from the Plymouth community.

Singing in the chorus are Don Tripp, John Gaffield, Bob Cooper, Keith Burton, Rod Feld, R. Wideman, Paul Bedford and Dale Miller.

Also Bill Upton, Stewart Delaney, Bob Webber, Chuck Heidt, Earl Gibson, Stan Hone, Gary Temple, John Thompson and Bill Bartlett.

The "Barber" is about a 2½ hour production.

"The movements are slow but segments are decorated and length is no problem because of the visual attraction and use of words," says Dunlap. "The recitatives move the action forward and the arias let the audience savor the moment."

The musical accompaniment, explains Dunlap, will feature more strings than anything else. Also winds in pairs.

It takes a developed skill to accompany opera and Dunlap feels his group will meet the task. "My job is to make this orchestra sing," he adds.

DUNLAP HAS a solid background in opera conducting. He conducted for the University of Michigan opera, the Norfolk Civic Opera, Norfolk, Va., and most recently the Opera Association of Western Michigan in Grand Rapids, which staged "Barber" three years ago.

The MOT and symphony presentation will culminate a week-long program of opera workshops and demonstrations by the MOT in-residence company in the PLYmouth schools.

Bringing the opera to the Plymouth area has been a cooperative effort by the Plymouth Community Arts Council (PCAC) and the Plymouth Symphony Society.

Tickets are $5.50 in advance and $6 at the door. The opera will be at 8 p.m. in the Plymouth Salem High School Auditorium, Joy west of Canton Center Road.

TICKETS ARE available in the PCAC box office in the Edison office, Main Street and Ann Arbor Trail in Plymouth, Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

MOT and the symphony will play a dress rehearsal Friday, April 25 at 8 p.m. in the high school. Tickets are $1 for students and senior citizens, and $3 for adults accompanied by a student.

BASSOONIST William Hulsker practices his part of the opera accompaniment.

NANCY FOX HOOVER, soprano, is Rosina, ward of Dr. Bartolo.

WAITING FOR their cues are (front) Paul Miller and Earl Bunge.

Tommy: A fierce loyalty

smashed his fist on a desk so hard he broke the little finger.

"During the many years I knew Tommy — as a veteran newspaperman, editor and friend — I was most impressed by his integrity," commented Sam Hudson, chief historian of the City of Plymouth and former Schoolcraft College trustee.

"One always knew where he stood on important civic issues. Tommy was forthright, never equivocal. He was an extremely competent news executive who will be missed by his many friends and readers," Hudson said.

"He was the traditional, old time newspaperman — as traditional as the Benjamin Franklin press," declared Mrs. Myra Chandler, whose late husband, Paul, brought Thompson to the Observer newspapers when he owned the Plymouth Observer in 1962. "They're not making newspapermen like Tommy any more," she said.

WHILE THOMPSON'S interests extended to all sports, he was known primarily as an authority on harness racing and was a regular contributor to national harness racing publications.

He visited the harness racing tracks a couple of times a week but rarely placed a bet.

"He just loved racing itself," said Dick Frederick, long-time track public relations officer and a close friend. "I've been around the track for 20 years myself, and I never knew the things Tommy did. He knew the drivers and all about their families and their kids and everything about them. He was really interested."

"He was involved in all sports and read the sports pages from top to bottom," Frederick continued. "And he remembered all of it."

Thompson became managing editor of Observer Newspapers in June, 1965, when Power purchased the group, and he was named executive editor in October 1969. Upon the merger of Observer Newspapers and Synercom, Inc. (which published the Eccentric Newspapers) in December, 1974, Thompson was named executive editor of the new group. He retired from this position in January 1975 to assume the managing editorship of the Plymouth and Canton Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

UNTIL 1962, he was employed at the Detroit Free Press where he advanced to an executive in the sports department.

"Tommy worked for us for years in the sports department and was top editor in charge of laying out the pages, makeup and editing and, in a sense, was executive of the department," said Frank Angelo, associate executive editor of the Free Press.

"One of the things I always remember about Tommy was that he was an extraordinarily loyal guy, responsible and committed to trying to produce a top quality product to the best of his ability."

Thompson was born Jan. 15, 1910 at New Kensington, Pa., the oldest of 10 children, all of whom have remained close over the years.

The family moved to Warren, Ohio, where Thompson attended high school and his father joined the police force. His mother died in 1930, leaving several small children.

TOMMY WAS 16 years old when an accident during a sandlot football game eliminated any chance of his own playing in the sports he loved. He made a flying tackle, his head hit a tree root and he suffered a fractured skull and deafness in one ear which plagued him the rest of his life.

Even though banned from play himself, Thompson joined the high school Officials Club which enabled him to officiate at games.

After graduation from high school, Thompson attended Ohio State University and worked summers covering sports for the Youngstown Vindicator and general news for the Warren Tribune Chronicle. He wound up as sports editor of the Warren paper.

Thompson tried out for freshman football at Ohio State and made the squad over his doctor's vigorous objections, but was prevented from playing when the university learned of his physical disabilities.

AFTER 13 YEARS as sports editor in Warren, Thompson joined the Chicago Tribune sports staff and remained there through World War II before transferring to the Detroit Free Press.

While in Warren, Thompson also married his wife, Evelyn, whom he had met while she was still in high school in nearby Brookfield, Ohio.

"He was a lucky man," observed his brother, Sam. "Sports have been his life and he found his niche in life early. Some of us have to wait many years for that."

Survivors besides his wife and Sam are three other brothers, William B., Jack W., and Kenneth M., all of Warren, Ohio; four sisters, Mrs. Hazel Lilloth of Enrico, Calif., Mrs. Alice Slagle of Warren, Ohio, Mrs. Frances Evans of Tallmadge, Ohio, and Mrs. June Sverling, also of Warren, and 19 nieces and nephews.

Greenleaf seeks Schoolcraft seat

Harry G. Greenleaf has announced his candidacy for election to the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees in the district's June 9 election.

Greenleaf, active in Wayne County Republican politics, has lived in Livonia at 35936 Pinetree since 1964.

HE HAS SERVED in various personnel assignments with Ford Motor Co. since 1958.

This professional background, Greenleaf says, "will be of assistance in reviewing proposed policies and programs of Schoolcraft Community College aimed at the increasing needs of the area it serves in occupational skills oriented education, and for preparing students planning transfers to four-year colleges."

"I have also developed knowledge of budgeting practices both from preparation and control perspectives. Prior experience and academic preparation in engineering provides a technical base for viewing questions which may come before the board in this area."

HARRY G. GREENLEAF

Kids' fishing derby June 7 at Newburgh

Young fishermen should circle Saturday, June 7, on their calendars. That's the day of the annual Tom Sawyer-Becky Thatcher fishing derby on Newburgh Lake.

It will be open for boys and girls age 6-16 who must register that morning and use only natural baits.

Co-sponsors are the Western Wayne County Conservation Association and the recreation departments of cities and townships along the Middle Rouge River.

Last year 3,264 fish were entered although many others were caught by youngsters who didn't enter them. Prizes are awarded for the largest of many species of fish as well as for numbers of fish. Fishing and other outdoor recreation equipment will be awarded.

Nearly 400 young anglers took part last year, said Hank Chruscial, derby chairman for the conservation group, and the number grows by 100 each year.

Newburgh Lake stretches along the E.N. Hines Parkway west of Newburgh Road. Most frequently caught species include bluegills, sunfish, crappie and goldfish with an occasional black bass and northern pike showing up.

New rep named

Kurt Frischman of Livonia has been named industrial chemical representative for the Harshaw Chemical Company of Cleveland. His Detroit sales office is at 16141 Eight Mile.

He will represent Harshaw in parts of Michigan, Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky for chemicals including fluorides, metal salts, antimony oxide and sodium methylate.

He has served as an evening instructor in personnel management at Henry Ford Community College, taught technical courses in New York State at Hudson Valley Community College, and was an instructor in apprenticeship programs offered by the Albany Public Schools in New York.

GREENLEAF CURRENTLY serves as chairman of the Wayne 2nd Congressional District Republican Committee, which includes Livonia, Plymouth and Northville. He is on the ad hoc public safety study commission in Livonia.

He has a bachelor of management engineering degree from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. In 1970, he was appointed by the president of Rensselaer to a committee to determine goals and shape direction for the college through 1985.

Greenleaf's previous experience includes: Republican precinct delegate and delegate to Republican State Conventions since 1970; chairman, Livonia Republican Party 1972-74; Boy Scouts and Jaycees in Troy, N.Y. He received the community service plaque from Ford Motor Co. in 1973.

"THROUGH VARIOUS civic, political, and church-related activities, I have come to know the community Schoolcraft serves and through these involvements sense the deep commitment the residents of these communities have toward educational programs that are based on excellence and supported by sound administrative management of tax dollars."

"Schoolcraft has enjoyed a solid reputation in both regards. My goal is to help maintain the positive pace previous Schoolcraft boards have set over the years for the college's development, particularly as the student body continues its shift to a major portion of students in evening programs off the main campus to locations in the various communities."

"This development promises even greater opportunity for individuals to avail themselves of educational programs but must be continually and carefully assessed from a cost-benefit aspect and from a quality of education received."

Two positions will be filled in the June 9 election. Eligible to vote are residents of the college district which is composed of the local school districts of Livonia, Plymouth, Clarenceville, Garden City and Northville.

You Can Play the Baldwin FUN MACHINE the First Time You Try

You don't have to take lessons or know how to read music to play the FunMachine. It's a musical instrument you can play even if you've never played before.

With one finger on your left hand you can play any one of seventeen different rhythm sections. Push a key down and you start a marching band marching. A swing band swinging. You can choose anything from a country to a soul rock band.

With one finger on your right hand, carry the melody. There're over a dozen solo instruments to choose from — a banjo, flute, accordion, trumpet, vibra harp, guitar, piano or harpsichord, rinky tink piano, Hawaiian guitar or you create your own. Select them yourself or let FunMachine do it automatically at the touch of a single button.

Put both hands together and you're making all kinds of music, the very first time you try!

JOHN L. McCLOUD of Redford Township has been promoted to assistant cashier in the operations division of City National Bank of Detroit (CNB). He joined the bank in 1966 as manager of the distribution department and was transferred to the adjustment department in 1970. The next year he was named manager of that department responsible for collection of any monetary errors that may occur. He is a member of the American Legion and is parents' chairman of the U.S. Twirling Association. CNB is a member of Northern States Bank Corporation, Benjamin H. Paddock III, president, which recently opened the First National Bank of Plymouth.

SC will sponsor journalism contest

Schoolcraft College will sponsor its first annual high school journalism contest this spring for public and parochial schools within the college district and adjoining areas.

Organized by the college's office of student affairs, the contest will honor the best newspaper writing through recognition of individual writers and school newspapers as well.

The contest is open to students and high schools in the Clarenceville, Farmington, Garden City, Livonia, Northville, Novi, Plymouth, Redford Union, South Redford, Southfield, South Lyon, and Wayne-Westland school districts. Entries will be reviewed by a panel of judges selected from the media.

FIVE CATEGORIES of competition have been designated for the contest: best newspaper, news writing, feature writing, opinion writing, and sports. Cash awards and honorable mentions will be awarded for each category.

Participants are encouraged to mail entries to Schoolcraft College, 18600 Haggerty Road, Livonia 48151, marked attention: high school journalism contest.

Entries should be postmarked no later than April 21 but may, however, be delivered in person to the student activities office in the Waterman Campus Center until 8 p.m. April 23.

FOR THE BEST newspaper category, the college asks that two consecutive editions from 1974-75 be submitted.

Because this is the first year of the contest, all individual articles written and published during the past two school years will be accepted. Students may enter as many individual articles as they wish in each category.

A luncheon has been scheduled for May 2. Awards and winners along with details of a special one-year tuition grant award to Schoolcraft College will be announced at the banquet.

Reservation details for the banquet, which will be held in the Waterman Center, will be sent to participants immediately after the contest deadline passes.

Esch, Ford to address Armenians

U.S. Reps. Marvin L. Esch (R-Arbor) and William D. Ford (D-Taylor) will be amongst the speakers at a commemorative memorial marking the 60th year since Turkey's attempt to exterminate the Armenian people.

More than 3,000 Detroit area American Armenians will rally for a "call to justice assembly" at 3 p.m. Sunday, April 30, in the Fairlane Manor in Dearborn on Hubbard Drive west of the Southfield Expressway.

Esch represents the 2nd District which includes Livonia and Plymouth and Ford represents the 15th District which includes Westland, Garden City and Canton Township.

Another speaker will be U.S. Rep. Lucien Nedzi (D-Detroit), who was one of 40 congressmen cosponsoring a House resolution marking the commemoration of the genocide of 1½-million Armenians in the Turkish-held Armenia during World War I. That resolution is now awaiting Senate confirmation and designation of a day of remembrance by President Ford.

The Detroit area American Armenian community numbers more than 50,000 while nationally Armenians number more than 500,000. In that part of historical Armenia, now part of Turkey, less than 20,000 Armenians still live. In the Armenian Soviet Republic, the population is now estimated to be nearing three million persons.

Redford substitute teacher continues to fight against inequities in state law

By CORINNE ABATT

Since last January two substitute teachers, Mrs. Mary Cassidy of Redford Township and Mrs. Frances Courtade of Southfield, have been waging a two woman battle in Lansing. They are protesting state legislation which makes them eligible for unemployment compensation. Subs quality if they teach 12 hours a week for 14 weeks in a 52 week year and earn at least $25 per week. School districts, already hard-pressed financially, get around paying unemployment compensation by limiting subs to 13 or fewer weeks per year or fewer than 12 hours a week. The effects of this dodge, are apparent. Subs formerly called for 100 or more teaching days a year are called once every two or three weeks. Instead of one sub taking a class and staying with it during an extended teacher absence, students may have a whole procession of subs. Continuity is lost and the classroom schedule interrupted with leadership changes, the women contend.

So how do you change law already on the books? Well, if you are Mary Cassidy, you get yourself on television to give your viewpoint and you make a lot of phone calls to legislators—and in this case, the Michigan Education Association (MEA).

So far, the women have spotted one little light at the end of the tunnel. There is Senate Bill No. 18 authored by Senator William Huffman which contains a clause "A substitute teacher employed on an occasional or non-contractual basis, by a school district or community college district, is not eligible to accrue credit weeks for unemployment benefits...."

This bill, which Mrs. Cassidy and Mrs. Courtade favor, is now before the Senate Labor Committee.

At a committee hearing on the bill April 9, Mrs. Cassidy endorsed the proposal.

At one point in she said, "Good substitute teachers would rather teach than stand in an unemployment line."

She listed four problem areas:

- What happens to the students and the educational continuity in a classroom or school visited by a succession of unfamiliar substitutes?
- What happens to the regular teachers who have come to depend on good substitutes to keep the educational process moving when needed?
- What happens to a substitute with a provisional certificate who must teach 540 days within five years of receiving his degree to qualify for a permanent certificate?
- What happens to the substitutes who must work for several school districts where the students, administrators, regular teachers, text books, teaching methods and even building locations are completely strange.

She summed up her presentation "...Fran (Mrs. Courtade) and I want to say that passing Senate Bill No. 18 will correct a law that hurts a lot of kids in this state—to provide a minimal benefit that substitute teachers don't need or want—at the expense of the local school boards and taxpayers who can't afford to pay."

GERALD DUNN, executive secretary of the Metropolitan Association for Improved School Legislation, says of the bill, "I'm pretty positive about the bill coming out of committee."

The three members of the committee who conducted the hearing, Sen. David Plawecki (D-Dearborn Heights), chairman, Sen. Jack Faxon (D-Detroit) and Sen. Gary Corbin (D-Genesee County) "acted on a positive note" toward the Cassidy-Courtade presentation.

The women are not as optimistic about the bill's future—partly because the MEA hasn't taken a position on the proposed change.

Corbin, vice-chairman of the labor committee, said he doesn't know when the bill will come out of committee.

"I am undecided on it right now and am still listening to both sides," Corbin said.

IN THE PAST, MEA officials told Mrs. Courtade and Mrs. Cassidy they wanted time to look over the terminology.

Corbin, Mrs. Cassidy said, told her he thought the role of the substitute teacher should be more clearly defined.

This was some hope to the women. The sub has always been at the bottom of the school structure, they said, and is considered by many to be a "warm body" who babysits in the classroom when the regular teacher is absent.

Nature walks to be Sunday

Guided nature walks for the public will begin at 8 a.m. Sunday, April 20, at Kensington Metropark near Milford and at Stony Creek Metropark near Utica.

The walks are designed for individuals and families, and persons should meet at the nature center building. A park naturalist will explain highlights of spring along the nature trails. Walks usually take 1-1½ hours.

Labor committee chairman Plawecki said SB 18 is "currently going through language and reference changes." The bill will come up for a final vote in two to three weeks.

The problem, he explained, is to word the bill so all substitutes are not excluded from qualifying for unemployment benefits.

"THE PROBLEM is to prevent subs from being considered fulltime teachers and preventing school boards from using subs as permanent substitute teachers."

He explained some boards could use a sub as a permanent teacher to save money. Subs generally are paid less than permanent teachers and don't qualify for benefits.

Plawecki said the MEA decided it would take the proposal to its executive board for a decision.

The inequities of the present bill entitling subs to unemployment compensation after they meet the qualifying time are all too obvious to Mrs. Courtade.

In the 1973-74 school year she taught 98 days in the Redford Union school district. So far this year she has answered all requests and taught 38 days. If the demand for her services continues at the present rate, she will have taught 45 days by the end of the school year.

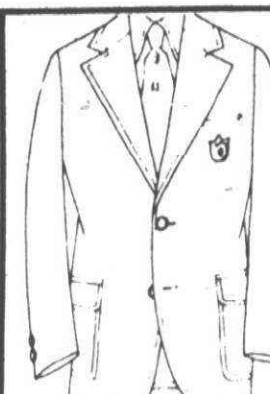

SHE SAID SHE was called recently for one day's work with special ed children. She was the third sub in a week to have the children in gym class, and sub had never taught that course before, she said.

Police policy to protect juveniles left muddled by high court ruling

By JACKIE KLEIN
A 1970 Southfield case prompted a Michigan Supreme Court ruling that local police can't refuse to identify young offenders by applying a state law that limits access to juvenile court records.

In a landmark decision last week, the court unanimously said that Aetna Life and Casualty and two other insurance companies be allowed to examine police records to help recover a share of $18,000 damages done by juvenile vandals.

Police refused to disclose names of minors involved in an Oct. 21, 1970, fire in the Eleven Mile Road office of Dr. Burton Simon.

Under the state parental responsibility act, parents are liable up to $1,500 for acts of vandalism by their minor children. Aetna was unable to bring suit under the act because of inability to pin down responsibility, according to Southfield City Attorney Sigmund Beras.

"We have always taken the position that records of investigative processes of the police department don't have to be revealed to the general public," said Beras.

"When the investigation is concluded and the charge is confirmed or dropped, the results are part of the public record. When juveniles were involved, however, their records were protected."

"WE HELD that the police department isn't encompassed within the meaning of the statute that protects juvenile court records," the April 8 supreme court ruling states.

"The insurance companies hadn't demonstrated an inability to pursue their legal remedy when they tried to obtain names of children who cause extensive damage to other peoples' property."

Investigation of the 1970 office fire in Southfield disclosed suspicion of arson and the names of two juveniles involved, said Beras. Their records were marked "confidential," he said.

"Aetna paid fire damages and sought to take advantage of the parental responsibility act," Beras said. "Southfield police refused to reveal the names of the juveniles or their parents, invoking the state statute that protects the records of minor offenders."

In 1971, Aetna brought suit against the Southfield Police Department in Oakland County Circuit Court. The insurance company asked the judge to order police to disclose the information in the records.

"I ADVISED our police officers that the records be turned over to probate court which has jurisdiction over juveniles," Beras said. "The records were released to Oakland County Probate Court by order of the circuit court. The lawsuit against Southfield police was dismissed."

Aetna started a lawsuit against Oakland Probate Judges Norman Barnard, Eugene Moore and Donald Adams, who refused the plaintiff access to juvenile court files of children who had committed certain described offenses. Two other insurance companies joined in the litigation.

The decision of the probate court was affirmed in circuit court but was reversed by the Michigan Court of Appeals.

"THE APPELLATE court ruled information was needed to provide a remedy for the plaintiffs and probate judges were ordered to release the records," Beras said. "But access to the records was limited to the identities of the children and their parents."

"The probate judges appealed the ruling to the Michigan Supreme Court. Their decisions asserting the secrecy rule were vacated by the supreme court."

Beras said he interpreted the ruling to indicate police are subject to litigation if they fail to comply. He has written his opinion to Police Lt. Richard Overmeyer, head of the youth division.

However, he said the city will decide whether to divulge information on juveniles on a case by case basis.

"We will continue to exercise discretion in juvenile cases. The question of who has a legitimate interest in records of minor offenders hasn't been answered by the high court," Beras said.

"It only state access is limited to the identity of the alleged vandal and his parents."

Tommy's craft: Words are short, loyalty long

Tommy Thompson is dead.

He died Monday morning, coming out of an editorial board meeting to be suddenly struck down by a massive heart attack. He died with his boots on, which is as he would have wanted it.

From the time of the old Observer Newspapers group and then after the merger with the Eccentric Newspapers, Tommy more than any other man guided and shaped and prodded the news staff and the editorial content of these papers to the point that they became recognized as perhaps the best suburban newspaper group in the country.

And now that he has passed on, what is there to say in the rushing vacuum of grief and regret, and the sharp sense of fierce jerking pride and loyalty?

There is this, which is what he taught us all.

NEWSPAPERING, when it's right, is a stubborn, human-sized, old-fashioned craft.

It is not a fancy profession like law or medicine, filled with frills and phrases; the words are short in the newspaper business, and the guts and loyalty are long.

To call newspapering a craft is not to say that it is easy. Observing accurately, thinking clearly and writing well — especially under the surge of an onrushing deadline — are among the hardest things men and women can do.

Tommy had all these tools of his craft, and more. And he combined with them his own personality to give him a stature quite extraordinary in this business.

OUTRAGE. Always quick to anger and quicker to cool down, Tommy particularly was a crusader for people, and his capacity for rage at the stupid or petty or just plain dumb was never more than a few seconds away.

A few months ago, the son of one of our pressmen was horribly maimed in an automobile accident which would never have happened if safety barriers had been placed alongside the expressway excavation on Schoolcraft Road.

Tommy got sore. He discovered that the rules required such barriers and learned that the Highway Department and the contractors had simply failed to follow them. He wrote stories and editorials, and in short order the barriers began to go up, certainly to save others from injury or death.

BLUNTNESS. Tommy, more than any newspaperman I ever knew, called a spade a spade.

If Tommy thought some public official or government act was dumb or silly, he called it dumb or silly in print. Period. No fancy footwork.

And then when we would tease him about another of his subtle editorials about official silliness, he'd look up, grin, and grump. "Well, it IS silly."

Observation Point

by PHILIP H. POWER

ness, he'd look up, grin, and grump. "Well, it IS silly."

LOYALTY. In Tommy loyalty to his friends and his staff was raised to nearly a ferocity, going well beyond kindness even to a kind of tenderness.

This was unexpected, since on the outside he looked and sounded like the classic, gruff, old-time city editor in the movies. And I am sure he scared his share of green reporters, but he then reached out to them with kindness and compassion and concern which won their loyalty in return.

PROFESSIONALISM. Tommy was, first and last, an old pro.

He knew that his first obligation was to get the paper out, and there was no man alive who could turn out more copy on deadline or clear more pages for the press than Tommy Thompson.

Back in 1967, when Detroit burned with riots, we were typesetting and printing the papers in a plant right in the middle of the worst area downtown. We put together a volunteer crew to go down on Tuesday to get the paper out.

Tommy, obviously, wanted to go in the worst way. But he knew that the real key to the situation was back at the office, where the suburban news angles were breaking and where the writing had to take place. So he stayed. And wrote. And the paper came out on time, and it was a good paper.

And when we got back, he came out the door and looked at us and held his head high. And he grinned.

AND SO now that he is gone, there is a hole in our news room — a hole which had been filled by an old pro, who sat hunched over his typewriter, hat pushed back on his forehead, a cigarette hanging from his lips, with two fingers on an old typewriter, hammering out the news. It will not be filled, for they don't make them like Tommy any more.

*Do not go gentle into that good night, cellent occupational and vocational programs — some which cannot be taken at any other college in the region, such as the medical technology program.
Old age should burn and rave at close of day;
Rage, rage against the dying of the light.*

RECENTLY, Schoolcraft President C. Nelson Grote spoke of the commitment the college has to get closer to the community and use existing buildings in the afternoons and evenings.

The first move was establishment of a satellite campus in Florence Elementary School, Garden City; that building was closed two years ago because of declining elementary enrollment. The college plans to establish a second center in Garden City, probably at Harrison Intermediate School. Although the college planned for an enrollment of 250, the satellite was so popular that it opened with 1,000 students.

Schoolcraft is also planning to lease the Wayne County Child Development Center in cooperation with Wayne State University.

Schoolcraft is having financial difficulty, but the administration and board of trustees deserve praise for the growth made and the excellent service member communities.

I once wondered why community colleges devoted so much attention to academic courses and so little to an occupational curriculum.

I also have wondered how "community" could be used as part of the institution's description when the college restricted its activities within the confines of the campus.

I no longer wonder about either question.

SCHOOLCRAFT COLLEGE in Livonia has, to its credit, expanded both its occupational curriculum and its outreach into the community.

In recent years, corporations have added the fringe benefit of paying tuition for apprenticeships and other job-related training programs.

Another development has been the return of many Vietnam-era military veterans eligible for benefits under the GI Bill. Other veterans in our communities have also chosen Schoolcraft as a place in which to invest their GI educational benefits.

As a result, the student body at Schoolcraft in recent years has shifted from a daytime to evening population. Now half the students are 25 and older, working full-time and attending classes part-time.

The college has responded to this shift with a revised curriculum which contains a number of ex-

Only hungry lions will hunt

There were many cries of anguish this week and there will be many more in the weeks to come in our fair metropolitan city as the funds for the Supplemental Unemployment Benefits (SUB) run out.

For the average worker the state provides up to half pay for up to 26 weeks if he is laid off after taxing employers to supply the funds.

Under the auto workers' contract the automobile companies supply another sum, which together with the regular unemployment compensation gives a laid off auto worker 95 per cent of his usual take home pay, as long as the fund lasts.

OBVIOUSLY NEITHER the regular nor the SUB funds were designed for more than temporary help to get laid off people over a short lay-off or help them find a new job.

It was never intended to be a welfare program in times of economic disaster.

But disaster has struck and the SUB well is running dry leaving workers to live on the regular benefits until they run out.

While this might seem like a tragedy, it could possibly be the best thing that has happened to Detroit.

Over the past years because of increased efficiency through automation, there are fewer jobs available in the automobile industry.

AS A RESULT even in normal times there is a pool of permanently laid off workers drawing either unemployment compensation or welfare benefits.

These workers were mobile and hungry enough to migrate to Detroit when there were plenty of jobs available, but the social welfare benefits have been good enough so they don't want to take a chance and migrate to some other area that might have permanent jobs available when things have slowed down here.

It took a world war to get us out of the Great Depression of the Thirties because the massive government programs took care of enough people that free enterprise had difficulty operating.

IF LAID OFF workers get 95 per cent of their take home pay, there is little impetus to leave the area and look for a new job.

There are places in America looking for the type of semi-skilled worker we have produced in Detroit but they can't find them.

When the unemployment compensation level drops to 50 per cent or less of take home maybe some of these people will look elsewhere for solving their own immediate problems and some of Detroit's long range problems.

It may sound rather insensitive, but a lion doesn't go out hunting until he's hungry.

Just like colors

Fragrances can affect emotions

Almost everyone knows that colors affect us psychologically. Some colors have a cooling, calming effect; others are warm and stimulating.

Interior decorators use this knowledge to make certain rooms conducive to study, others more stimulating and better suited for lively conversation and entertaining, and still others more restful for sleep and relaxation.

But what many people have not yet learned is that fragrances may also be used this way. There is nothing wrong with using a certain incense in your home simply because you like it, just as there is nothing wrong with choosing a certain color scheme because it is pleasing to your eye. However, if you are also aware of the influence certain fragrances have on the emotions, you can employ them to your advantage in many situations.

HERE ARE SOME of the more common fragrances available in incense and their uses if properly employed.

Pine—increases ambition and energy; is often used in money spells.

Job's Mixture—burned for patience. High John and Lavender—burned to stimulate love and affection.

Wisteria—burned for peace, tranquility, and relaxation.

Rose—a stimulating incense, burned for fast luck.

Sandlewood—for romance. Oriental Mixture—for passion.

Jasmine—inspires dreams. Cinnamon—promotes domesticity; puts a man in the mood to propose.

Bergamot—counteracts evil or bad vibes.

Frankincense—burned to aid in meditation and spiritual enlightenment.

Frankincense blended with Bergamot—for intellectual growth and concentration; helps one study well.

Most people are familiar with pressed incense sold in little blocks or cones, or on sticks, but incense is also available in other interesting forms with which you might like to experiment.

Liquid incense is fun to use, inexpensive, and can be very decorative as well as fragrant. I like to burn it in unusual containers such as champagne glasses, brandy snifters, rose bowls, etc.

This is done by filling the container at least three-quarters full with plain water to which you have added a few drops of liquid food coloring of a color that will contrast and compliment the color of the incense. Then pour in the incense, and it will float on top of the water.

Place a stiff candle wick with a weight on the bottom in the center of the container, and light it for a beautiful, fragrant decoration. Candle wick may be purchased in hobby shops or wherever candle wax is sold. Or, you can make it yourself by coating cotton cord with melted paraffin.

POWDERED INCENSE, which comes in many different strengths and qualities, is used by sprinkling it over burning charcoal. If you use this method, be sure you have a raised incense burner that does not rest flat on the table, shelf, or floor, because it can get very hot.

I like to place the charcoal (I use the one-inch, self-starting kind) in the soil in one of my large plant containers. This is much safer, and there is no mess to clean up because the ashes blend nicely with the soil.

Take care to keep the hot coal far enough from the stems and leaves of the plant so that the heat causes it no damage, and you'll have no trouble. I've used this method for years, and my plants are still flourishing.

The most expensive incense is that in crystal form. It may be burned by itself, or in a special container, or sprinkled over the charcoal like the powdered form.

SCENTED CANDLES are very popular, but their fragrance is seldom as strong as that of incense.

In Europe, scented oils are placed in special ring-like containers that circle electric light bulbs, and the heat from the bulb releases their fragrance. These rings can not be obtained in the United States, but the same effect can be had by rubbing a tiny bit of essential oil on a cold bulb so that it heats slowly when the light is turned on.

Whatever method you use, fragrance should be subtle rather than overpowering. When using the stronger forms of incense, such as pressed, powdered, or crystalized, burn it when you are not using the room. The fragrance will hang in the air and cling to the drapes and furnishings, giving the desired effect, often without people being consciously aware of it.

When the fragrance is too strong, it can defeat the purpose by making people uncomfortable.

Cockrel to appear in lecture series

Detroit attorney Kenneth V. Cockrel will appear in the Wayne County Community College Lecture Series, Tuesday, April 22, at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of the college's Rosary Center, 8551 Greenfield near Joy Road.

Cockrel is the third speaker to appear this year in the lecture series sponsored by the WCCC District 3 Student Activities Board.

There will be a $1 admission charge to the general public. Students with current ID cards will be admitted free.

A partner in a Detroit law firm, Cockrel has been an active member and leader of several human rights organizations. He has been a defense counsel in numerous successful criminal defenses of "controversial" clients.

As former chairman of the State of Emergency Committee, he headed the anti-STRESS coalition formed in the black community in September 1971, in response to the shooting deaths of black youth at the hands of Detroit Police Department STRESS officers.

He is a graduate of Wayne State University Law School and was admitted to the Michigan State Bar in 1968. He is presently a member of the board of directors of the Inner-City Business Improvement Forum (ICBIF).

1975 Special Olympics applications available

Applications to enter contestants in the 1975 Michigan Special Olympics are now available. The olympics is a program of athletic competition and training for the mentally retarded.

Eric Pfeiffer, of Cambridge Junior High, 28901 Cambridge Ave., Garden City 48135, is the area director who has applications for groups or individuals who want to enter the olympics' local, area and state competitions.

The applications are free and must be complete in duplicate. One copy is required for area competition and a second is sent to the olympics' state headquarters at Central Michigan University.

Local competitions will begin throughout Michigan in April, with top entrants advancing to area games in late May and the state finals at CMU on June 6-7.

CMU also will host the International Special Olympics games on Aug. 7-11.

Officials expect more than 12,000 applicants to participate in the Michigan games which will offer competition in track and field, swimming, gymnastics, bowling, volleyball, floor hockey, ice skating and basketball for mentally handicapped ages 8 and above.

Participants compete according to age and ability groupings at local, area and state competition levels.

Persons interested in applications may contact Pfeiffer, or the Michigan Special Olympics, Warriner Hall 103, Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant, 48859.

Youth marks All-Area basketball team

Young, big and talented — those are the words to describe the 1975 Observer & Eccentric All-Area basketball team.

Three juniors won placings on the first team which averages more than 6-5 in height. And there's no question about the ability of the members of that team. The two seniors, Plymouth Salem's Eric Agardy and Westland John Glenn's Terry Johnson, both have college recruiters standing in line.

The three juniors all figure to be "blue-chip" prospects when the 1975-76 season is history.

The top player in the area this year was Salem's Eric Agardy.

The 6-10 center paced the Rocks to a berth in the state Class A semi-finals. Agardy averaged 19.1 points per game, while hitting 52 per cent from the floor. His 256 rebounds were also high for the Rocks.

"Eric is extremely strong and he intimidated the opposition. He can run all day long and he is unstoppable underneath," said Salem coach Fred Thomann.

Salem, which finished 22-3 for the year, also landed 6-7 junior forward Jim Ellinghausen on the first team.

Ellinghausen consistently took pressure off of Agardy, hitting from long range, driving to the hoop and helping out underneath.

Ellinghausen hit for a 16 point per game average and shot 75 per cent from the foul line. The big junior also blocked a team-high 84 shots.

"ELLINGHAUSEN IS AN exceptionally fine outside shooter — probably the best pure shooter I've ever coached," Thomann said.

"And he has a real knack for blocking shots."

Terry Johnson was the driving force behind Glenn's 17-5 season and co-championship in the Northwest Suburban League.

The senior forward could both score and hit the boards as is indicated by his 16 points and 10.2 rebounds per game averages.

Johnson is a three-year letterman and no slouch in the classroom where he carries a 3.3 grade point average. He hit on 55 per cent of his shots this year.

"Terry played at both ends of the floor. He was a team leader and top defensive player," said Rocket coach Gordie Davis.

GARDEN CITY EAST, which shared the Northwest Suburban crown with Glenn, was led by junior Greg Emery.

Emery averaged 18.6 points and was one of the area's top clutch players, hitting shots twice during the season in the final three seconds which won games.

The junior left-hander was plagued with an arm injury early in the season and wore a brace for five games.

But he proved his scoring capability against Glenn in the league championship game, hitting for 32 clutch points.

At 6-4, David Niles of Garden City

West was one of the area's tallest guards. But his height did not hamper his ball-handling or passing ability. The junior racked up 153 assists this year while averaging 18.6 points per game.

Niles gave a typical performance in a game against Taylor Kennedy. He hit a shot with two seconds remaining in the third quarter to keep West in the game. He hit a shot with four seconds remaining in regulation time to send the game into overtime. Then he hit a shot with two seconds to go in overtime to give the Tigers a 62-60 victory.

And all of the shots were from around the 20-foot mark.

"Niles is potentially the best basketball player I've ever coached," said West coach Chris Babler.

"He is a completely dedicated player who never gives less than 100 per cent in games and in practice."

THE OBSERVER & ECCENTRIC All-Area second team features four of the area's best guards and another young, big center.

Jim Gilland ran the offense all year for Inter-Lakes champion Livonia Stevenson. He was a stalwart on defense, led the team in steals and was impressive in feeding the ball to open teammates. Gilland will probably attend Ferris State next year.

At 6-1, Don Kegley shifted between guard and forward for Livonia Bentley. He led the team in both scoring and rebounding, getting high above the rim for an average of eight caroms per game. A senior, Kegley shot 72 per cent from the line and 53 per cent from the floor.

Dan Moore paced Salem in the assist category and was right behind Agardy and Ellinghausen in rebounds. He consistently guarded the opposition's toughest man. "Nobody on this team worked harder than Dan Moore," said Salem coach Thomann.

Harry Polovino ran the offense for Glenn and in the process picked up a school record of 146 assists. The senior guard also managed to pump in 13.2 points per game and was the top defensive performer for the Rockets. A second year starter, Polovino carries a 3.4 grade point average.

Mike Susko of West hit on 56 per cent of his shots from the field while averaging 17.1 points per game. Susko picked off 256 rebounds while blocking 47 shots this year. "He is an outstanding inside man — a fine shooter and rebounder," said West coach Babler. Susko carries a 3.8 grade point average in the classroom.

THREE JUNIORS and two seniors comprise the All-Area third team.

Dave Edwards led Plymouth Canton in both scoring and rebounding while John Jesson averaged 15.9 points per game and hit more than 50 per cent of his shots for John Glenn.

Dave Haberman scored 251 points for Livonia Stevenson although he missed several games with a concussion. Matt Foster will return to Livonia Churchill next year as the leading scorer and rebounder from this year's team. Jim Riley was the "quarterback" for Garden City East on offense while handling the opposition's toughest forward at the other end of the floor.

Double disqualification costs Borgess track win

Bishop Borgess couldn't walk away with a non-league dual track meet last week and ended up on the short end of a 61-57 score against Livonia Churchill.

The winning four point margin for the Chargers could have been made up by Borgess in the 880 yard relay after Churchill had incurred a lane infraction and disqualified itself.

The Borgess team, needing only to finish the event legally to take the five-point first place prize, slowed the speed of the event but incurred a lane infraction of its own, thus disqualifying both teams.

Churchill's depth won the meet as the Chargers took nine third places to only three for Borgess. Churchill also took eight firsts compared to six for the Spartans.

East's Bob Hudson records second no-hit performance

Sometime this baseball season, a batter will step in against Garden City East junior righthander Bob Hudson and crack a clean single to left-field. Or it may be a double or triple up the alley or a long, towering home run.

But through the first two games in which Hudson has had mound duties for the Panthers this year, that has not happen.

In an abbreviated appearance in the West opener, Hudson threw no-hit ball for four innings. In his latest outing Monday against cross-town rival Garden City West, Hudson went the whole distance without giving up a safety to run his string of hitless frames to 11.

Hudson is not concerned about running the string any longer, however. "I don't care how many hits they get off of me. Just so we win the game," he said.

East didn't have too much trouble doing just that against West. Panther coach Billy Joe Young's crew scored five runs in the first three innings and eventually took a 7-0 victory.

Surprisingly, the closest West came to a hit was when lead-off batter Mark Sutherland smacked a sharp drive down the third base line. Panther third baseman Lew Willoughby handled the cleanly, however, and Hudson was on his way.

"He seemed to get stronger as the game went on. He struck out three batters in the fifth and sixth inning," said Young.

In the seventh, Hudson got the first two batters to hit routine grounders and the last man to hit a tapper back to the box.

Hudson handled the ball cleanly but almost threw the ball away.

"I was a little nervous on that last putout," Hudson said.

Hudson's batterymate, Britt Ponte, went two-for-two and collected three RBI's. Willoughby went two-for-three for the Panthers.

Batteries: East -- HUDSON and Ponte. West -- SUTHERLAND and Zoccolli.

Salem pitching falters, RU takes opener

Plymouth Salem saw its highly-touted pitching staff blown away like so many blades of grass in a strong spring breeze and dropped a 10-1 baseball decision to Redford Union.

Neither of the Rock aces, Tom Willette or Bill DenHouter, could hold down Bob Atkins' Redford club and the Salem record fell to 1-1.

"We just couldn't find the plate," lamented Salem coach Wayne Sparkman.

RU started out by scoring five runs in the first inning on two hits and four walks. RU added two more runs in the second, one in the third and two more in the fifth.

Willette started and suffered the loss for Salem.

"I'm very disappointed. Willette is a great pitcher, but he certainly wasn't great tonight," Sparkman said.

Dan Rushard went the distance for Redford Union, handcuffing Salem on three hits.

Rightfielder Gregg Wood had two doubles and two RBIs for RU. Third baseman Bob Miller picked up three runs batted in on his first inning triple.

Redford Union is now 1-0.

East splits pair as girls' track season opens

The Garden City East girls track team has been doing things "right" lately and the result has been a split of its first two meets.

Junior Gwen Wright has been the force behind the Panthers' success, taking three firsts in each of the two meets.

"Right now she's the best athlete we have," said East coach Jan Moore.

The Panthers lost to Churchill 57-47 and it wouldn't have been that close had not Wright taken firsts in the 220 dash, the hurdles and as anchor for the 440 relay.

Against Riverview, in a meet which East won 71-34, Wright took the 100 and 220 yard dashes and the hurdles.

BENTLEY-REDFORD UNION

The Bentley-Redford Union girls track team met last week was marked by one of the most unusual races of the year as Cindy Nair of Bentley and Linda Crippen of RU battled to a dead heat in the mile.

It was too close to call and both stop watches had the race in an even 6:10 and so the points were split between both teams.

Redford Union won the meet, 62-42.

Crippen went to the top immediately in the mile and pulled out to a 12 yard lead. Nair caught her with two laps to go and the lead switched hands frequently for the final two go-arounds which culminated in a neck-and-neck stretch battle and the dead heat finish.

Results:

Long Jump -- 1. Dreyer (B) 2. Kosovac (RU) 3. Mull (B) Distance: 15-5

STEVENSON -- FORDSON

Lois LeFevre raced home in 63.3 in the 440 yard run and also anchored the victorious mile relay team for Livonia Stevenson as the Spartans took a 69-36 girls track victory over Fordson Monday.

"I'm looking for real good things from Lois," said Stevenson coach Liz Embree of the junior speedster.

Sharon Solack was another standout for the Spartans. As a sophomore, Solack took the state championship in the hurdles. Now a senior, she won that event and also took a first in the shot put as a surprise entry.

"I put her in in hopes of getting a third place in the event and she won it," said Embree.

Stevenson is now 1-0.

Results:

Long Jump -- 1. Plasterer (S) 2. Scott (F) 3. Gartland (F) Distance: 15-3½

Spartan grad swims for WMU

Colleen Donovan, a 1974 graduate of Livonia Stevenson High School, was a member of Western Michigan University's women's swim team.

The Bronco gals compiled a 10-3 record and established 11 team records.

Miss Donovan specialized in free-style and was also a member of the record-setting 200 yard and 400 yard medley rela teams.

Miss Donovan is majoring in social work at Western and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Donovan, 16471 Surrey Drive, Livonia.

Spartan flyer

Freshman swimmer Bernadine Kenny, a Franklin High graduate, took the best time in the 100-yard butterfly this year for the Michigan State University women's swim team, posting a 1:03.61 clocking for a fourth place finish in the Big Ten Conference meet.

Stevenson downs Thurston in Anders opener

By TOM SCHRAM
Sports Editor

The 1975 Les Anders baseball tournament got off to a shortened and aupicious beginning Monday when Livonia Stevenson defeated Thurston 8-0 in a game shortened by one inning when the tournament mercy rule was imposed against Thurston.

The rule, which states that any team trailing by six or more runs at the end of the fifth or sixth inning will be the loser and the game will stop at that point, was employed when Stevenson scored five runs in a sixth inning rally.

"Things kind of got out of hand in the sixth inning," Thurston coach Emil Majeski.

The sixth inning rally started when Jim Synder singled cleanly for the Spartans. Randy Besh then struck out and returned to the bench but moved from the bench to first base when it was determined that Thurston catcher Dave Beebe had not caught the third strike cleanly.

IN A DISPUTED PLAY, Besh was awarded the base and Synder moved to second.

"To me, Beebe fielded the ball cleanly. But the umpire ruled otherwise," Majeski said.

After Ron Colone was safe on a fielder's choice, Dave Tell loaded the bases when Thurston pitcher Al Brincat committed an error on his tapper back to the box.

Stevenson outfielder Paul Schmidt then delivered the big hit of the inning when he tripled to left. Rob Rose drove in two more runs for the Spartans when he doubled following a walk to John Kolis.

Stevenson scored two runs in the second inning on two walks, two wild pitches by Thurston hurler Dave Hoflich and an error.

The other Spartan run came in the third inning when Rose walked and Snyder and Besh both singled. John Kolas went all the way for Stevenson, picking up the win. Hoflich, who got relief help from Brincat in the sixth, suffered the loss for Thurston.

"The mercy rule is good for tournaments like this because you have to get the games in," Majeski said. "It was our wild pitches and our errors that killed us today," he added.

Stevenson will now advance to the quarterfinal round of the tournament, which is sponsored by the Livonia Rotary Club.

The Spartans will meet Westland John Glenn Saturday at 10:30 a.m. in a game at Nankin Mills field.

Here's the complete schedule for Saturday's opening round:

At Perrin Field: FARMINGTON versus LIVONIA FRANKLIN, 10:30 a.m.; PLYMOUTH CANTON versus REDFORD UNION, 12:30 p.m.

At Nankin Mills: STEVENSON versus WESTLAND JOHN GLENN, 10:30 a.m.; FARMINGTON HARRISON versus GARDEN CITY WEST, 12:30 p.m.

At Haggerty Field: SOUTHFIELD-LATHRUP — WAYNE winner versus

CLARENCEVILLE, 12:30 p.m.; LIVONIA CHURCHILL versus LIVONIA BENTLEY, 2:30 p.m.

At Cass Benton: NORTH FARM-

INGTON versus GARDEN CITY EAST, 10:30 a.m.; BISHOP BORGESS versus PLYMOUTH SALEM, 12:30 p.m.

WAYNE JONES SAYS:

If your offspring think that fresh fruit comes from the supermarket, now is the time to set the record straight. April and May is an excellent time to plant fruit trees. Visiting our nursery and selecting trees can be a fun outing for the entire family—and an enlightening experience for the youngsters.

By W.W. EDGAR

The doors to the Detroit Bowling Hall of Fame will open Friday night in Cobo Hall to admit three new members.

Those to be honored in what is the biggest event of the year in bowling will be Ethel Hanna, one of the original members of the Ladies Major Leagues; Paul Cito, one of the country's leading instructors for the past 40 years, and the late Herb Case, former secretary of the Greater Detroit Bowling Association.

Among the others to be honored is John Walter of Farmington Hills, who recently retired as a Detroit News sports writer after serving for 46 years.

To round out a big weekend, the men's association opens its annual tournament Saturday evening at Ford Lanes. Impressive ceremonies are planned for the opening at 6:30 p.m.

BOB CHAMBERLAIN went crashing into the 700 club at Westland Bowl, when he paced the Classic with a 735 series. The big total came on games of 256, 215 and 264.

Trailing Bob by 40 pins with a 675, Dick Beattie took the runner-up spot and Hal Jolley completed the Top Three with 663.

of high scoring at Bel-Aire, none of the sharpshooters broke the 700 barrier. The closest anyone came was Bob Boss, who finished with a 289 to pace the Classic with a 691. Behind him came Jim Shelp with 684 and Jerry Smith with 662.

In the senior house league it was Danny Faur who lead the parade with a 664 while Bill Trachsel had a 637 and Ron Enders flashed a 628.

Aron Lipsky returned to the pacemakers circle in the business men's league with a 657 that gave him a 45 pin margin over Stan Lenski with Doug Hayes finishing third with 608.

To top off the high scoring, Sue Mansky showed the way to the ladies with a 632.

THERE SEEMS no stopping Mary Mojacsi who is having one of her good seasons. This time it was at Garden Lanes where she fired a 596 to pace the women's classic. Her closest rival was Jan Dimmer with a 576.

In the Livonia men's league, Doug Bradley was high man with a 659, Mike Bradley trailed by only four pins while Charles Otto landed third with 650. In the St. Linus league, George Priebe set the pace with 618.

THERE WAS A TIE for high honors in the top leagues at Merri-Bowl. Bob Woods, of the Goddard and Goddard circuit, rolled a top game of 267 and it was matched by Tom Manosky, bowling in the Plymouth classic.

AMONG THE OTHER good performances were Don Kippola's 664 at Plaza Bowl that came on games of 218, 232, 214 and Mike Jugon's 625 in the Saturday Majors at Country Lanes.

THE SPLIT CONVERSION CLUB took in five new members this week at Mayflower Lanes.

Carol Westcott entered with the 4-7-10; Dot Maruska topped the 7-8-10; Elaine Palis made the 6-7-10; Elaine Thompson knocked over the 4-7-10 and Mike Possert converted the 3-6-7-10.

Meanwhile, Irene Olander paced the women scorers with a 563, Eleanor Miller added a 541 and Sharon Montette had a 522.

ELLIE WILKINS established a new high game mark for the season in the Livonia Ladies Classic when she rolled a 242. With a 19 pin handicap, she won the first game with a 261.

She had to yield series honors to Janice Gale who posted a 526-87-613 that included a single game victory with 225-29-254.

The other game went to Lillian Beaty with 180-35-215.

When John Watkins, a member of the J.W. Jackson team in the Wonderland Classic, rolled an 800 series early in the season he commented he had an unusual record.

"I've had plenty of 600 series and now an 800," he said, "But I still haven't had a 700-and that's what I was shooting for."

He's a member of the 700 club now. He broke the barrier Tuesday when he put together games of 226,191 and 289 for a 706. But for a few bad breaks along the way he would have closed with a perfect game.

ONE OF THE HAPPIEST bowlers in the area is Dan McInerney, of Livonia-- and for a very good reason.

As a member of the Public Heating team, of Redford, he made the pilgrimage to the ABC tournament in Dayton, O., and reached the goal of all bowlers-- a double century average for the nine games in the big show.

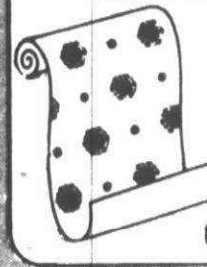

Carrying a 195 average, he fired an opening 637 and followed with 638 and closed with a 563 for 1838. His showing helped the team record a 2862 with a 1083 game.

The performance is set for 7:30 p.m. April 28, at Plymouth Saelm Auditorium, Joy Road, east of Canton Center.

Alma mime troupe to visit Plymouth

PLYMOUTH—An exciting adventure both for students in the Plymouth schools and area residents has been scheduled by the Plymouth Community Arts Council.

The Alma College Mime Troupe will include Plymouth in its tour of 21 cities in Michigan by appearing April 28.

During the day, students will conduct individual classroom workshops in a number of schools. At 7:30 p.m., the troupe will perform its formal show, "Contradiction: An Evening of Mime" in Plymouth Salem High School Auditorium.

The performance consists of solo and ensemble pieces created by the artists themselves, ranging from slapstick to tragedy.

The performance will be cosponsored by the Salem High Drama Club. Tickets are priced at $1 for adults and 50 cents for students and senior citizens. Tickets are available through drama students, PCAC members or at the PCAC box office, located at Detroit Edison, Main and Ann Arbor Trail.

YMCA will organize Indian Maidens

A mother-daughter program, the Indian Maidens, is now being organized by the Canton-Plymouth-Northville YMCA.

Branching from the successful "Y" Indian Guide program, the Indian Maidens is designed for girls aged six to nine and their mothers.

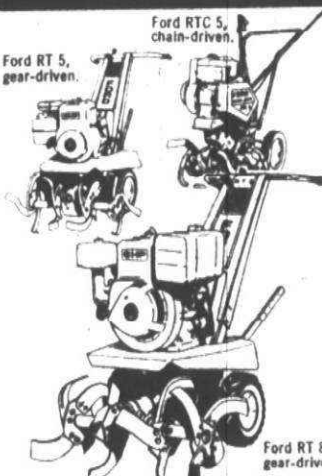

Tribes of six or eight girls will meet every two weeks to enjoy group companionship and learn Indian lore. The purpose of the program is to improve parent-child relationships.

Indian Maiden Pow Wows will be held April 22 and April 23 to furnish information and set up tribes for those who are interested.

Plymouth and Canton mothers and daughters are invited to West Middle School from 7 to 8:30 p.m. on April 23, while Northville residents can attend a meeting on April 22 at the Main Street Elementary School from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

voters to approve, in the June 9 election, the sale of $28 million worth of bonds for a massive renovation of the district's physical facilities.
Supt. Timothy Dyer asked the board of education to approve the bonding question after a resident study which outlined the district's needs. The average homeowner will pay an additional $9.10 a year in taxes, according to Dyer.
If approved, the bonds would pay for improvements in special education, elementary and secondary facilities and junior and senior high schools. A new administration building would be constructed as well as improvement of vocational educational facilities at Glenn High School.

"The need for additional bonding money is paramount and crucial," says Dyer. "It is essential that the physical facilities be repaired in order to protect the millions of dollars already invested in our buildings."
Roof repairs alone will cost the district an estimated $2.5 million, he says.

BECAUSE OF A special School Bond Loan Fund provided for by the State of Michigan, district taxpayers will be required to pay 0.7 mills, with the state picking up the remaining 90 per cent of the tab, says Dyer.

The city already is at its maximum tax limit for debt retirement (7 mills) so is eligible to dip into the state funds. While termed as a loan, Dyer says the state money is a virtual give away because the district would be unable to back all it has borrowed from the fund over the years.

"This particular program is tailor-made for the Wayne-Westland School District. It will allow monies that the local taxpayers pay the state to be returned to the district for its local needs," he says.

It was determined by the board to build a new administration building because renovation of the present building would cost $1 million. The building is 50 years old.

The district would allow $3 million for the improvement and construction of service buildings, which would include the administration facility.

"The board of education agrees that for safety and health reason necessary expansions and repairs are required at service buildings," said a board statement. "Therefore we will provide enlarged gasoline storage and improved bus cleaning equipment. Proper ventilating and flammable storage space will be provided at all secondary sites."

THE NEW BOARD OFFICE would house the curriculum resource center, district printing facilities, and an in-service center for staff development, central administration offices and a senior citizens' center.

Conserving energy also has been a problem at central the heating system has two positions, on and off, says Dyer.

Vocational education improvements would receive $5.1 million.

"Nearly 70 per cent of the students in this district don't go on to higher education, thus the district must expand vocational education facilities at John Glenn High School to provide these students with the facilities that will give them entry skills into the business, industrial and commercial world," says Dyer.

The board recommended that a building of 28,000 square feet for vocational education be built at Glenn. This, the board says, will make the facilities comparable to those at Wayne Memorial. Necessary repairs and additions to the home economics and business education departments at Glenn will bring them up to the physical plant standards of Wayne Memorial, the board says.

Special education would be granted $2 million. The bond issue will call for additions and renovations to provide orthopedic facilities at Nankin Mills Junior High School and John Glenn. The physical plant changes are necessary, say administration officials, to provide a quality educational program for orthopedic students.

Recreation facilities would receive a $7.5 million shot in the arm. The advent of women's sports and an increasing demand by the community for the use of school facilities requires the expansion of the athletic, intramural and recreational facilities, says Dyer.

Elementary and secondary educational facilities will receive $10 million for improvements.

AMONG IMPROVEMENTS to be made on the elementary level are roof replacement and repair, upgrading of ventilating, heating, plumbing, lighting and electrical systems to meet code standards. Old, unsafe windows would be replaced, also.

Walker Elementary School would receive additional classrooms, while walls would be removed to accommodate more flexible instruction, says Dyer.

Several elementary schools would have instructional material centers expanded to meet the standards of the rest of the district. Trash compactors would be installed at all elementary schools to improve health standards for the district.

Storage facilities would be constructed on all school sites with state fire regulations for storing flammable products. Six of the elementary schools would have locker room facilities constructed.

Sheriff's patrols extended 90 days for 7 townships

The Wayne County Sheriff's township patrols may be extended for 90 days beyond April 30, although a judge has ruled the county board can discontinue the service.

The public safety and judiciary committee of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners has recommended the 90-day extension. The committee has formed a three-member subcommittee to negotiate for township participation in financing the $467,000 annual cost of the patrols.

Past efforts to negotiate with the townships failed because the townships then maintained the county was legally required to provide the service. Receiving the patrol service are Plymouth, Canton, Northville, Huron, Brownstown, Sumpter and Van Buren townships.

WHEN THE board of commissioners threatened to curtail the patrols, the seven townships joined in filing suit in Wayne County Circuit Court.

The suit was dismissed March 27 by Judge Thomas J. Foley who ruled there is no mandatory requirement to provide the patrols and declared the county commissioners are "free to exercise their discretion" in the matter.

Officials of the seven townships then switched to another law firm — Travis, Warren, Nayer and Burgoyne of Detroit — and announced they would appeal the Foley decision to the Michigan Court of Appeals.

The subcommittee named to attempt negotiations with the township includes Commissioners Lee E. Flowers (D-Detroit), George Hart (D-Dearborn), William G. Suzore (D-Livonia) and Sheriff William Lucas.

"Nobody wants to deprive the townships of adequate police protection," says Commissioner Edward Michalski (D-Detroit), chairman of the public safety and judiciary committee. "But there is a feeling that city taxpayers are being taxed double because they are taxed locally for their own police departments while part of their county taxes are being used to provide local police protection elsewhere."

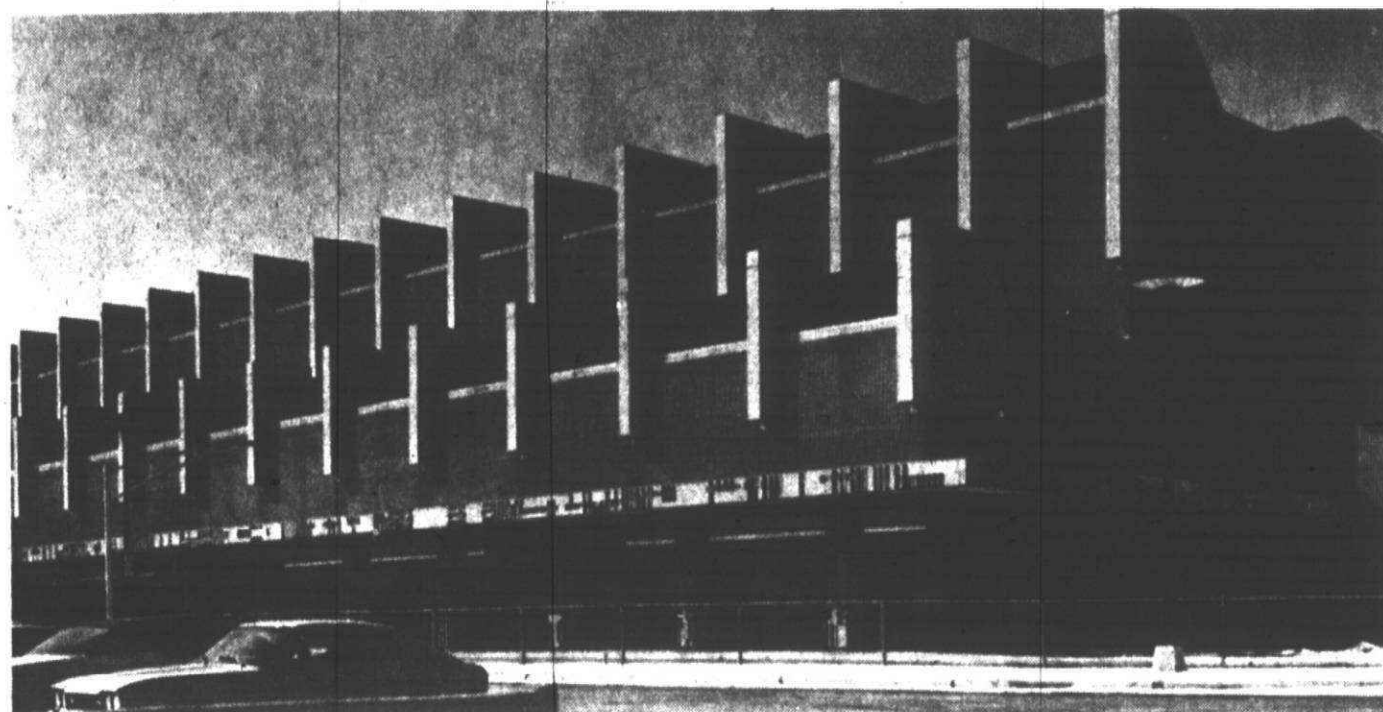

Commissioner Royce E. Smith (D-Belle Isle), whose district includes the City of Plymouth, Canton and Plymouth townships, contends the townships had public safety millage issues turned down and cannot afford to pay for sheriff's services. He argues that county taxes paid in townships help to finance services in cities as well.

THERE ARE 33 cities and 11 townships in Wayne County. All cities have their own police departments except Romulus which pays for services from the sheriff.

The township patrol consists of 28 deputies, with three patrol cars operating around the clock seven days a week.

The county board allocated only $350,000 for the township patrols for the present fiscal year which began last Dec. 1. The board has since, however, appropriated additional sums twice to maintain the patrols at present strength — with the latest extension going to April 30.

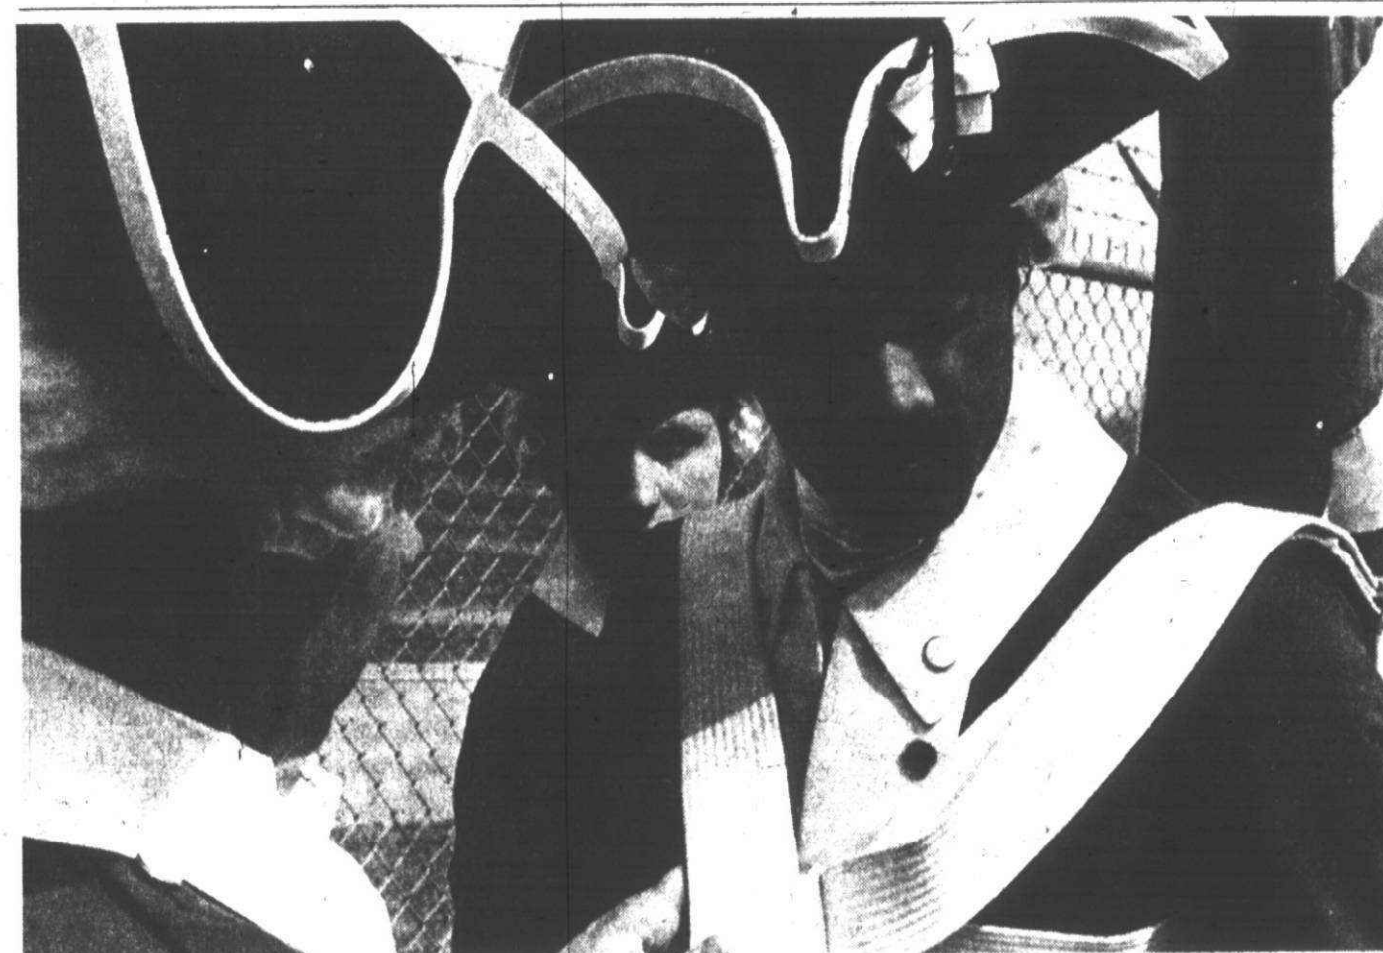

The recommended 90-day extension needs approval by the Ways and Means Committee, which consists of all 27 commissioners and will meet next April 24, and then at a formal board meeting.

Terminal open house

ARCHITECTS' SUNDAY on April 27 from 1-3 p.m. will feature The Michael Berry International Terminal designed by Louis G. Redstone Associates, Inc., Detroit. Open to the public for tours, the terminal is the first major building to greet visitors entering the Detroit Metropolitan Airport which is owned and operated by the Wayne County Road Commission. Parking will be available at the terminal parking lot and shuttle bus service will operate between the terminal and all airport parking lots * there is a fee to park at the airport and it is posted. Members of Louis G. Redstone Associates will act as guides for visitors. Architects' Sunday is part of a monthly series sponsored by the Detroit Chapter, American Institute of Architects.

Meeting slated on horse trails in state parks

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) will hold a public forum Thursday, Apr. 24, to listen to views on the need for horse trails in state parks.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Northville Township Hall on Sheldon Road 1/2-mile north of Five Mile Road. It will be the second of four hearings scheduled by the DNR on the subject of facilities for horses in state parks.

The session is an outgrowth of activities of 4-H leaders and clubs in this area for horse trails and facilities at the new Maybury State Park in Northville Township.

The Maybury Park has an extensive network of horse trails through the woods, over trees and water. The 4-H leaders and others interested in horse-riding have scheduled a work day Saturday, April 26, to clean up the trails.

Court asked to stop wage law violations

The regional solicitor of the U.S. Department of Labor has asked the Federal District Court in Michigan to issue a permanent injunction to stop alleged violations of the Fair Labor Standards Act, the federal wage-hour law.

The defendant in the complaint is Great Lakes Recreation Co., of 20450 Greenfield, Detroit, which operates several bowling alleys in seven cities including Cloverland in Livonia.

The complaint alleged violations of the overtime pay, minimum wage, child labor and recordkeeping provisions of the act. The court was asked to award back pay as found to be due, for distribution among the employees involved. If amounts were specified in the complaint.

Legal action flowed an investigation of the firm by the Labor Department's waghaur area office at 14740 Plymouth Road, Detroit.

The Fair Labor Standards Act requires payment of minimum rates, time and a half pay for overtime hours unless a specific exemption applies, equal pay for equal work for both sexes, keeping of adequate records of employees wages and hours, and restrictions against the employment of child labor.

'We're not in the nursing home business.'*

Gordon Dougherty makes no apologies for that statement.

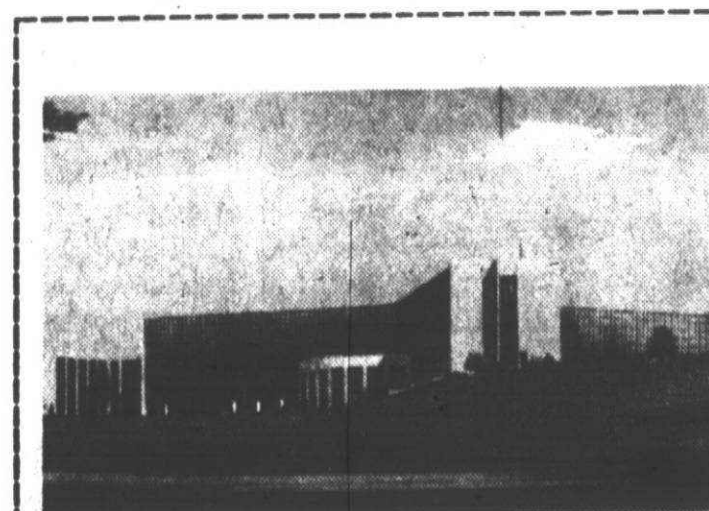

Nor should he. Gordon is in the business of retirement — he's resident counselor at Burcham Hills Retirement Center in East Lansing.

There, retirees 65 and over — many of them former professional members of the Michigan State community — continue life in their own style with independence and privacy.

The new five-story Center is located on a beautiful hilly 60-acre site in the northeast part of East Lansing convenient to town and campus and all that makes the university community an interesting place to live at any age. (Although many Burcham Hills residents maintain their own autos, the Center provides its own regularly scheduled bus service to downtown.)

Twenty-one different size apartments are available ranging in size from 286 sq. ft. to 728 sq. ft. — an indication of the key to life at Burcham Hills: Flexibility.

*Although we do provide excellent health care, too.

Moreover, the facilities available in the beautifully appointed Center surpass those of even the most complete home. For example:

- The library which includes several publications printed in over-size type.
- A den (including a pool table) and the music room (complete with organ).
- A hobby room (your own equipment is welcome).
- Beauty and barbershops.
- Automated commissary with everything from soup to ice.
- Laundry room with dryers and ironing equipment.

In addition, each living level contains its own lounge, storage lockers are provided with each apartment, and the Center also houses its own post office and gift shop.

Two sittings are scheduled for all three meals to insure maximum flexibility, plus private dining rooms may be reserved when you wish to entertain family or friends at a luncheon or dinner.

The Life Lease provides residents with guaranteed lifetime care — even in case of illness. The Center contains a fully equipped health care facility (including dental equipment), and a professionally trained nursing staff is on duty 24 hours a day.

No, Burcham Hills isn't in the nursing home business. But if retirement planning is a reality for you, consider the independence and privacy of life at Burcham Hills... plus the interesting friends and stimulating ideas you've always enjoyed in the university community of East Lansing.

For complete details, send for our free packet of information about Burcham Hills. Included is a full-color brochure, detailed floor and apartment plans and the answers to 50 questions about the Center. ## Sex education talk set at Schoolcraft

Dr. Mary Calderone, sex education crusader, will lecture at Schoolcraft College in the Waterman Campus Center, Tuesday, April 22 at 8 p.m.

The controversial Dr. Calderone has been described by Playboy Magazine as "the outspoken and embattled first lady of sex education."

Dr. Gordon Drake in an article in Christian Crusade accused her of political subversion, pornography and atheism.

She has been hailed by educators as a crusader in helping individuals toward the responsible assimilation of sex into their life patterns as a creative and re-creative force.

The Ladies Home Journal named her one of "America's Most Important Women," and she won the woman of conscience awards from the National Council of Women.

Dr. Calderone, now over 70, is married to Dr. Frank A. Calderone, formerly deputy commissioner of health in New York City. They have three daughters and two grandsons.

DR. MARY CALDERONE

Tickets at $2 may be purchased at the college bookstore and at the door on the night of the lecture. For further information contact the student activities office at Schoolcraft.

Role reversal in comedy 'What the Butler Saw'

the bellboy; J. Craig Collicott as Sgt. Match, a policeman, and Errol Fortin as Dr. Prentice.

The Theater Guild of Livonia-Redford presents its final show of the 1974-75 season Friday, April 18.

"What the Butler Saw" is set in a private psychiatric clinic run by the shifty Dr. Prentice. The Prentices are by no means an ordinary couple. The doctor believes that the best way to interview a young woman for a secretarial position is to seduce her.

The glibbed Geraldine does her unwitting best to comply, but nothing works smoothly in this house. She has just removed her clothes when the doctor's wife arrives.

Mrs. Prentice, who has been seduced by a bellhop in a hotel, or vice versa, brings home her reluctant bellhop just when an inspector from the ministry of health decides to pay a visit.

Dr. Prentice tries to pass Geraldine off as a patient, whereupon the clinic turns into a real nuthouse, with most of the cast exchanging clothes and hiding from the inspector who certifies anyone he sees as insane.

Playwright Joe Orton has created a comedy of manners which follows a formula of simple reversal. Winston Churchill is a national idol; so, his statue is uniquely disfigured.

Psychiatrists are the custodians of sanity; so, they are shown as mad.

The characters are socially respectable; so, they are credited with every imaginable moral deviation.

According to one critic, "It is a wonderfully verbal play, toying with words as if they were firecrackers, and sentences as if they were bombs."

For instance, Mrs. Prentice, confronted with the threat of pornographic pictures taken of her by the bellboy, announces grandly, "When I gave myself to you, the contract did not provide for cinematic rights."

Performances of "What the Butler Saw" are April 18, 19, 25, 26, 27 and May 2 and 3 in the playhouse, 15138 Beech Daly, just south of Five Mile in Redford Township. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays and 7:30 p.m. on Sundays.

Seating is limited and reservations are advisable. For tickets call Mrs. Gregory G. Nelson, 30742 Ann Arbor Trail, Westland, or Mrs. C. Foster, 16772 Country Club Drive, Livonia.

Count Basie at C'ville

The Clarenceville Entertainment Series will present Count Basie and his orchestra in concert, at 8 p.m. Wednesday, April 30 in Clarenceville High School Auditorium, 20155 Middle Belt, Livonia.

Clarenceville High School Jazz Ensemble will play the warm up at 7:30 p.m.

William "Count" Basie made his first public appearance at 14, playing piano for silent movies in his home town of Red Bank, N. J. The manager hired him to play, when the regular piano player failed to show one evening. Young Basie filled in and received $1 for both the afternoon and evening show.

Tickets for the concert are priced at $5 for reserved seats and $4 for unreserved seats. Tickets are available in the auditorium box office Thursdays and Fridays from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. and at Hammell Music, 15630 Middle Belt, Livonia.

Mail orders will be accepted by Mrs. Bonnie Garrison, 20135 Rensselaer, Livonia, 48152. In ordering, enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope.

Writing program offered

The Interlochen Arts Academy will offer a new creative writing program for students 13 to 17-years-old beginning in September, announced Interlochen President Roger E. Jacobi.

The program is being funded by a $120,000 grant from the Ford Foundation.

The program is an expansion of courses in creative writing which have been taught in the academy for several years. Students will be accepted at either major, minor or apprentice levels, determined by talent, experience and interest. They will receive practical experience in the three major categories of writing, fictional prose, non-fiction prose, and poetry.

Student will participate in formal classes informal evaluative sessions, independent student projects and oral presentations.

To receive the widest possible opportunity for enlarging his experience and view of life, each student majoring in creative writing will be encouraged to pursue one other fine art as a minor. Each student will undertake an individual course of study devised through consultation with writing instructors and art teachers.

A journal will be published featuring the writing of academy students and other high school writers in Michigan. Prominent poets and fiction writers will visit the academy for lectures, workshops and symposia.

Extensive scholarships are available. Students interested in developing their writing talents are invited to contact the Interlochen admissions office, Interlochen, Mich., 49634, for information and application forms.

Loretta Sharp, instructor of English and creative writing at Interlochen, will head the new literary arts division. Ms. Sharp received her bachelor's and master's degrees from Brigham Young University, where she was graduated with high honors from the honors program for gifted students and as valedictorian of the humanities college.

Mercy sponsors Europe trip

Artists and nurses and those interested in art and medicine are invited to join Mercy College of Detroit faculty on a four-week European trip from June 25 through July 22.

'Zorba' star

MARK MILLIKEN of Redford Township plays Pavli in the Dearborn Civic Theater musical production "Zorba." Mark, a three year veteran with the group, won the theater's "Kenny" award last year for his role in "Applause." Zorba will be April 19, 20, 25, 26 and 27 in Dearborn High School, Cherry Hill at Outer Drive.

Weather class in Bentley

The Mudstompers Chapter 177 of the National Campers and Hikers Association will sponsor a weather class tonight (Thursday, April 17) at 7:30 p.m. in Bentley High School Auditorium, 15100 Hubbard in Livonia.

C.R. Snyder, chief meteorologist at Detroit's Metropolitan Airport, will present slides, films and a lecture on what action to take in case of severe weather.

The lecture also will include information on disaster assistance. Admission is free.

Players stage 'The Gazebo'

The Wayne-Westland Civic Theater presents "The Gazebo," a mystery-comedy by Alec Coppel, Friday and Saturday, April 25 and 26.

Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. in John Glenn High School Auditorium, 36105 Marquette between Ford Road and Cherry Hill in Westland.

Tickets at $2.50 for adults and $1.25 for students and senior citizens will be available at the door.

GROW STRAWBERRIES BY THE BARRELFUL

We've got the Barrels!

Strawberries are just about everybody's favorite small fruit, yet if you want the real mouth-watering strawberry flavor and true fragrance you must grow your own. Because only fully ripened strawberries are the real thing. This doesn't mean you need a large garden patch or even several 20-foot rows in order to produce a harvest — you can grow a respectable crop in a very small area. And, as a matter of fact, you can grow them in a barrel or wooden tub. There is nothing really new about these methods — people have been growing strawberries in barrels for ages in Europe and, to some extent, here.

You can even grow a crop on a small apartment terrace, provided you have plenty of sun and water and feed your plants regularly. Early spring is the best time to set in a crop of strawberry plants. There are some fine new varieties of repeat-cropping strawberries that give more than one harvest a season. Strawberries are perennial plants, so they will last for years. And you can root baby plants that dangle from runners, using them to replace the parents when fruiting declines in a few years. Further, even between harvests, strawberry planters are decorative assets to your garden.

Barrels and Tubs: A wooden barrel is best, for a metal one is likely to heat up too much in summer's sun, and this is bad for plant roots. You can use an old barrel except one that contained pickles, vinegar or sauerkraut. Old barrels are obtainable in a hardware store or shop catering to home-made wine hobbyists, such as American Hardware. Before you use an old one, scrub out the interior with a stiff scrubbing brush and two or three washings of strong detergent, then rinse well. (Salt or other materials might have been in it that will kill plant roots.) Bore a row of 1 1/2 inch holes 6 inches up from the bottom, spacing them 6 to 8 inches apart. Measure first and make a mark where the center of each hole will be, so they will be evenly spaced, for the barrel circumference changes on each row. Make a second row about 6 inches above the first, then a third row, and so on till you reach 4 to 6 inches from the top. Stagger each row of holes so that they center between those of the row below.

In the bottom, bore 1/2 inch holes for drainage — eight to 16, according to the size of the barrel or tub. Then roll the barrel to its permanent site and set it up on three, or four bricks to keep it off the ground. Filled with soil, barrels get too heavy to move easily.

Cover the bottom with a layer of coarse gravel 3 inches deep. On top of the gravel center a tall 1-pound coffee can with top and bottom removed and fill it with gravel or sand. Then fill the space around it with soil, gravel or sand. Then fill the space around it with soil, packing it down till it reaches about the center of the first row of holes. Trim the roots of the strawberry plants (see sketch) and remove all dead or yellowed leaves, leaving three to six healthy ones. Working from inside the barrel, plant one strawberry plant in each hole till the junction of roots and crown barely reaches the inside of the barrel. Place each plant near the top of its hole to allow for settling of the soil. Spread roots fan-wise; pack soil over them till the hole is covered.

When the whole row is planted, water the soil gently with a fine spray till it is soaked. Let it settle for a few minutes, then with a gentle, twisting motion, lift the coffee can until its bottom nearly reaches the level of the soil. Refill the can with sand or gravel, then pack soil around it as before. Plant a row of strawberry plants in the holes at that level. Proceed with planting one row at a time, lifting the can and filling it. When the can top is level with the barrel top, leave the can in place and do not fill the top 4 to 6 inches with gravel.

The sketch of the cut-out barrel shows the column of gravel that has been created through the center of the soil. This will be a place for watering, a kind of "watering column." If you like, you can plant a colorful annual plant in a pot that fits into the can, removing it when watering is needed. Plant a row of strawberries 8 inches apart in the top of the barrel.

New look for spring

Newcomers get make-overs

By MARGARET MILLER

In the spring a young woman's fancy may well turn to a bright new look, and for several members of the Plymouth Newcomers Club that look now is reality.

They served as models for the group's April meeting and came away with brand new hairdos and know-how on bringing out their best features through the right use of makeup.

Their styles were created by the House of Glamour in Plymouth. Five Newcomers had complete "make-overs," from new permanents to the latest in eyelashes, all done prior to the meeting at Meadowbrook Country Club.

Then, at the luncheon gathering, several others from the audience were chosen to receive a quick permanent or a frosting or perhaps a makeup application to demonstrate a new technique.

FOR THE OTHERS attending, there was plenty of action to watch as experts from the Plymouth salon and model Erica Rylands kept demonstrations going.

"I jumped at the chance to take part in this program because I felt I really needed a change," said Sue Hoffman, who has worn her brown hair straight all her life and in a short bob for the last few years.

Stylist Connie Toreson gave her that change. Her fine hair was shaped and permanented to the new curly look, with hair just slightly lighter framing her face.

"It gives a softer look that is right for her," Ms. Toreson said.

To the new hair style, Pat Hann added softer makeup, carefully applied to make Sue's eyes appear larger and to add softening shadows to camouflage a slightly-large nose.

Sue reports everyone is enthusiastic about her new look, and her nine-month-old son just loves to run his hands through Mommy's curly hair.

FOR JUDY TAYLOR, the prospect of getting false eyelashes was the most appealing part of the proposed new look.

"I've always wanted to try wearing them," she said, "and I thought the whole thing sounded like fun."

Mrs. Hann provided the lashes, a new kind that stay put for as long as six weeks because they are put on individually.

"You don't need mascara with these," she told the women, "and the sharp eyeliner isn't being used much any more." Instead she showed Judy how to apply eye shadow for a softer appearance.

Judy was delighted with the new appearance, and even more pleased when the saleswoman she met on her next shopping trip commented on the lovely lashes. She also likes the short, curly hair style created for her by stylist Mr. Dennis.

THE DEMONSTRATION, Mrs. Hann said, was aimed at making the point that both hair-styling and makeup are extremely important for a woman's total look.

"Makeup should be used to enhance beauty," she said. "In the classes we give in the salon, we teach women tricks to emphasize their good features. We show them how to get a soft, natural look."

"And, of course, we teach care of the skin, because unless the skin is healthy makeup won't help much."

Besides Mrs. Hoffman and Mrs. Taylor, new looks also are being sported by Newcomers members Sue Church, Nancy Gallagher and Nancy Soho.

Cooperative nursery schools listed for area

Open house programs for cooperative nursery schools can be counted on to turn up regularly this time of year, just like crocuses and tulips. Registration for the fall term generally takes place in the spring, so parents turn up at an open house with their pre-schoolers to check out the school and decide if they want to go the cooperative way.

If they send their child to a cooperative nursery, they will find it is cheaper. However, they will have to contribute some time and energy to the running of the school.

Parents are required to work at the school for one or two sessions a month, to attend monthly meetings and take an active part in decisions.

At a recent open house held by the Redford Township Nursery, mothers came with their children to find out what was what. The event took place in the Jefferson Elementary School, where the nursery school is held.

Mrs. Linda Care wanted to find out what activities would be offered her son, Billy. He was more interested in checking out the trucks and farm animals.

Chris Brandoline banged with both hands on two cash registers maybe to see if they were a safe place for his money.

His mother, Maria Brandoline, meanwhile, was putting questions to nursery school board members on hand to help out.

"I want to know what he will learn, not just what recreation he will have," she said. "I would like nursery school to be a learning experience for him."

Mrs. Mary Byrnes, who brought her daughter, Lisa, likes the cooperative principle. "I think my taking part is a big factor in my choosing this school," she said.

"It will help me know what is going on, so that I don't have to depend entirely on what Lisa tells me. Having parents participate also cuts down on costs."

Proximity to a particular school may be the reason a parent chooses that school for his child. The cost or the hours that school is open may be another factor.

To help parents make a decision, the Observer & Eccentric offers a list of cooperative nursery schools located in Plymouth, Canton Township, Livonia, Westland, Garden City and Redford Township.

The list also includes information on schedules and costs.

AFB chapel is setting for vows

Michael L. Roszak, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Roszak of Livonia, claimed Vera Ann Rousseau as his bride in a recent double-ring ceremony in the chapel of the Wurtsmith Air Force Base near Oscoda.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Rousseau of Oscoda. The Rev. John Scallion performed the noon ceremony.

A reception followed in the Lake-wood Shores Golf and Country Club.

The bride wore a white organza gown with empire bodice, high mandarin neckline and long sleeves. Her cathedral veil was edged in lace and held by a camelot cap.

She carried a white bible with an antique rosary and a single red rose.

Judy Carol Rousseau, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a mint-green crepe gown and a matching headpiece of tulle, velvet ribbon and seed pearls.

The bridesmaids, also in mint green, were Debrale Williams of Glennie, Mich., and Nancy Ann Bailey of Bay City. All the attendants carried yellow mums and carnations.

Bruce Tangowski was best man and the ushers were Coy Owen and Robert Haley. All the men in the wedding party wore forest green tuxedos with ruffled embroidered shirts and white carnation boutonnieres.

After a Miami Beach honeymoon, the couple will live at Wurtsmith AFB.

New building, annual festival for orthodox congregation

All in the same month, the newly-organized Greek Orthodox Community Church has acquired a new home and is preparing for its annual fund-raiser.

The church, comprising about 100 families, will benefit from the annual festival members will stage Saturday and Sunday, April 19 and 20, in the Livonia Mall.

Just two weeks ago the congregation began worshipping in its new church home at 39851 Five Mile, at the corner of Haggerty in Plymouth.

Men of the congregation did extensive remodeling work to provide the three doors and altar traditional to Orthodox rites in the building that formerly housed St. Luke United Methodist Church.

The down payment on the property was made just days before the first services were held April 6.

Families in the congregation come mainly from the Greek Orthodox church in Detroit, Sts. Constantine and Helen.

Now living in the western suburbs, they have been meeting in the Seventh-Day Adventist church of Livonia for three years.

THEIR THIRD FESTIVAL, to be held in front of Keros Koney Island in the mall from 12 noon to 9 p.m. each day this weekend, will provide funds toward more improvement of the property and, eventually, a new church building.

Women of the congregation have been cooking all week for the sale of Greek delicacies that will continue throughout the festival. Among the specialties to be offered will be spanakopita, or spinach pie, and baklava.

Special events Saturday will be dances by the Holy Cross Greek Orthodox Dance Group of Windsor, at 6 p.m., the Maids of Athena, at 7 p.m.

Sunday's program will be cooking of shish-kebab all afternoon, dances by the Hellenic Society for the Performing Arts at 4 p.m. and belly dancer Soreya at 6 p.m.

Kathy Petrides is chairman of the festival.

THE NEW CHURCH completed its organization Sunday, April 13, with the Very Rev. Efstathios Metallinos as pastor and Nick Kopanakis of Farmington Hills as president.

Other officers include John Vardouniotis of Farmington Hills, vice president; Gus Photos of Livonia, treasurer; John Ioannou of Livonia, recording secretary; George Bilson of Livonia, corresponding secretary and Andrew Perakis of Livonia, controller.

Directors include Alex Bageris, Nick Eliades, Savas Georgiou, Anthony Keros, Chris Nicosis and Frank Varlamos, all of Livonia, George Mollasis of Redford Township and John Stathakos of Plymouth.

Others are Nick Nickas, Luky Phsy-chogios and Larry Stasinos, all of Westland, Chris Kontos and Dr. Alex Petridis of Northville and Steve Moustakas of Dearborn Heights.

New building, annual festival for orthodox congregation

All in the same month, the newly-organized Greek Orthodox Community Church has acquired a new home and is preparing for its annual fund-raiser.

The church, comprising about 100 families, will benefit from the annual festival members will stage Saturday and Sunday, April 19 and 20, in the Livonia Mall.

Just two weeks ago the congregation began worshipping in its new church home at 39851 Five Mile, at the corner of Haggerty in Plymouth.

Men of the congregation did extensive remodeling work to provide the three doors and altar traditional to Orthodox rites in the building that formerly housed St. Luke United Methodist Church.

The down payment on the property was made just days before the first services were held April 6.

Families in the congregation come mainly from the Greek Orthodox church in Detroit, Sts. Constantine and Helen.

Now living in the western suburbs, they have been meeting in the Seventh-Day Adventist church of Livonia for three years.

THEIR THIRD FESTIVAL, to be held in front of Keros Koney Island in the mall from 12 noon to 9 p.m. each day this weekend, will provide funds toward more improvement of the property and, eventually, a new church building.

Women of the congregation have been cooking all week for the sale of Greek delicacies that will continue throughout the festival. Among the specialties to be offered will be spanakopita, or spinach pie, and baklava.

Special events Saturday will be dances by the Holy Cross Greek Orthodox Dance Group of Windsor, at 6 p.m., the Maids of Athena, at 7 p.m.

Sunday's program will be cooking of shish-kebab all afternoon, dances by the Hellenic Society for the Performing Arts at 4 p.m. and belly dancer Soreya at 6 p.m.

Kathy Petrides is chairman of the festival.

THE NEW CHURCH completed its organization Sunday, April 13, with the Very Rev. Efstathios Metallinos as pastor and Nick Kopanakis of Farmington Hills as president.

Other officers include John Vardouniotis of Farmington Hills, vice president; Gus Photos of Livonia, treasurer; John Ioannou of Livonia, recording secretary; George Bilson of Livonia, corresponding secretary and Andrew Perakis of Livonia, controller.

Directors include Alex Bageris, Nick Eliades, Savas Georgiou, Anthony Keros, Chris Nicozisis and Frank Varlamos, all of Livonia, George Mollasis of Redford Township and John Stathakis of Plymouth.

Others are Nick Nickas, Luky Phychogios and Larry Stasinios, all of Westland, Chris Kontos and Dr. Alex Petridis of Northville and Steve Moustakas of Dearborn Heights.

Dear Neighbor:

We're new here in Livonia but actually, Rollie Barrett, Inc., is the oldest Chrysler-Plymouth dealer in the Detroit area, having just moved to the former B. J. Ratigan facilities on Plymouth Road.

I represent the second generation of Chrysler-Plymouth dealers in the Barrett family, and I know that the success Rollie Barrett Chrysler-Plymouth has enjoyed is because of our down-to-earth way of doing business.

We'd like to welcome you to visit us, browse around and Inspect our facilities, meet our friendly sales and service personnel.

I look forward to meeting you personally and hope you will stop in soon.

Sincerely,

Don Barrett
 President

P.S. We also lease all makes of cars

Quality New Homes

1. INDEPENDENCE COMMONS

FARMINGTON HILLS

Three new model homes are open for viewing in prestigious Independence Commons including 1975 Award Winning Home, the Heritage II, a four bedroom, 2 1/2 bath American classic colonial, with large foyer-open stairway with mirrored back wall, artistically lit for special effect. Den, library, or fifth bedroom is separate from main living area and can be a "mother-in-law" suite. Two other homes on model row are: The Franklin II and the Potomac. A variety of colonial elevations and ranch plans are available. Prices start at $65,000. Three homes in Independence Commons qualify for the U.S. tax credit plan. 48 acres of "commons areas" wind through the community, divided into five park-like areas, with hike and bike trails, sheltered picnic ground, children's play modules, lighted tennis courts, all for the exclusive use of residents. Children attend the Farmington school district, or one of several outstanding parochial schools. Independence Commons is located just north of old Grand River and west of Drake Road in Farmington Hills. Information office phone is, 477-8135.

2. Northville Commons

Two new models are open for viewing in Northville Commons, including another 1975 Award Winning Home, the Yorkshire II, a four bedroom, 2 1/2 bath, pillared colonial. A return to the basic warmth and elegance of wood is featured throughout this home. Wood crown moldings in many rooms, wood cased door arches, two wood hand rails, cedar molding in kitchen, wood panelling, beamed ceiling, and peg flooring in family room. The second model home is the Charleston II, an elegant colonial. A variety of colonial and ranch elevations and plans are available and nine homes qualify for the U.S. tax credit plan. Prices start at $65,000. Nature is preserved in Northville Commons too, as 30 acres of "commons areas" wind through the community, divided into park-like areas, with hike and bike trails, sheltered picnic pavilion, children's play modules, lighted tennis courts, all for the exclusive use of residents. Children attend the Northville School district. Northville Commons is located on Six Mile Road, 1 1/2 miles west of Haggerty in Northville. The community is just minutes from the quaint shops and early American beauty of downtown Northville. The phone number at the information office is 478-4848.

MODELS HOURS: Daily 1-8 P.M., Sat. 12-5 P.M. Sun. 12-7 P.M., Closed Thurs.
