

Schools field more 45-15 complaints

PLYMOUTH—While progress toward implementing the 45-15 year round school program at Miller Elementary on July 14 is moving "ahead of schedule," opposition by a group of residents in the Miller area continues.

Many residents in opposition were in attendance at the April 28 school board meeting once again, to voice their dislike of the 45-15 program.

Opponents of the plan claim their numbers are picking up with the recent notification of parents of the track scheduling for students.

UNDER THE 45-15 plan, students are assigned to one of four tracks, which stagger in starting time throughout the year. The plan calls for each student to have 45 days of classes followed by 15 days of vacation.

But because of the two-week Christmas shutdown of the schools, students in the first track will receive 38 days of vacation from Dec. 12 to Jan. 19.

Six of the seven residents who spoke to the board about 45-15, were opposed to the plan.

Speaking in defense of the plan,

Nancy Moore presented a petition signed by 119 residents of the district.

According to Ms. Moore, 84 residents were from the Miller attendance area, with the remaining signers from other areas of the district.

THE LETTER attached to the petitions was read to the board and said in part, "Board members, you have made your decision—twice. It was not made quickly or taken lightly. Every alternative was considered.

"Though many may be less than enthusiastic about it from a purely personal standpoint, a substantial number of silent taxpayers accept that decision as the best solution for the school district as a whole. We are not apathetic."

The bulk of the residents in opposition to the plan live in the Olde Plymouth Subdivision. That group of students has been scheduled in the first track, beginning July 14.

Those parents are scheduled to meet at Miller tonight (Thursday) at 8:30 p.m. to discuss their opposition. Assistant Supt. Jim Leary reported to the board that an expected 779 students will be in the Miller attendance area by this fall. Current enrollment at the school is 743 and parents of approximately 80 students have "opted out" of the 45-15 program, preferring the pupils be bused to either Fiegel, Allen or East elementaries.

Opposing residents disagreed with board projections of close to 900 students living within the Miller area by the end of the 1975-76 school year and urged the board again to consider alternatives, such as portables.

A RESIDENT of Olde Plymouth,

Gary Pace, said he felt that his subdivision was being treated unfairly.

"Olde Plymouth kids were bused for 1½ years. Since we have been here the longest, this should be considered."

Pace said his main objection was the holiday scheduling. "We've had our turn, now let someone else do it."

Another opposing resident, Patricia Hindt, said the number of students who have opted out do not reflect the number of parents opposed to 45-15. She claimed there are "well over 250 against 45-15 at Miller."

LIKE ROBINS, litterers' dirty work appears in the spring along Canton's thoroughfares as the camouflage provided by winter snows melts away. The township's May cleanup effort will help remove some of the rubbish in the township, but this particular pile of garbage, located along Hawthorn Road, will eventually be handled by county road crews.

Airport meeting tonight

PLYMOUTH—Citizen input on a proposed general aviation airport is being sought tonight (Thursday) at 8 p.m. at Plymouth City Hall.

Representatives of the Federal Aviation Administration, Wayne County Road Commission, and Michigan Department of Highways will be present to hear arguments on the proposed facility to be located somewhere in either northwestern Wayne County, northeastern Washtenaw County or southwestern Oakland County.

The results of the hearing could decide the fate of an FAA decision to fund an airport study, under the auspices of the Wayne County Road Commission.

Opposition to the airport proposal has been very vocal with Plymouth Township and an intergovernmental group representing the Plymouth Community Schools, Canton, Salem, Superior and Plymouth townships and the City of Plymouth sending letters opposed to the airport.

The City of Plymouth's stand, while joining in the intergovernmental group's opposition, has been "noncommittal."

A representative of the Michigan Aeronautics Commission, William Gehman, has said that if enough units of local government oppose the study, the study would likely be dropped.

REP. ROBERT Geake (R-Northville) initiated the motion for the audit by the state auditor general after the committee failed to get the information it wanted from the water department.

The four suburban committee members, Bennett, Geake, Rep. John Kelsey (D-Warren) and Rep. Ruth McNamee (R-Birmingham) supported the motion for the audit.

Opposed was Rep. Josephine Hunsinger (D-Detroit) who said she would carry her fight to the floor of the House.

Two committee members, one from Detroit and one from Taylor, were absent.

After the vote, the committee heard from several western Wayne County officials the need for outside control or supervision of the department.

MAYOR EDWARD McNamara of Livonia, who in late February sparked the opposition to the proposed rate hikes and organized forces to continue the battle, suggested that the State Public Service Commission oversee the department.

The PSC currently regulates rates for the telephone, gas and electrical utilities.

McNamara strongly suggested that an outside audit be done of the department since all cities are subject to outside audits.

The mayor said his law department was ready to go to court to fight the approved 30 per cent rate hike to challenge the "arbitrary" increase, rescinded three days later.

McNamara said the increase was approved last week about a month after the water board of commissioners approved a budget containing a 1.6 million surplus and no rate hike.

He showed the committee the department's voluminous budget and two books of "explanatory notes" but said there were still conflicts in information.

STRONGLY OPPOSED to Detroit dominance of the water board which has 95 other cities as customers was Supervisor Robert Greenstein of Canton Township.

"I can't tell if the suburbs are getting ripped off but I must have the cost breakdown (of water) to tell if the rates are equitable," he said.

Greenstein said Detroit "has its fat hand out for suburban money," citing federal programs like Comprehensive Employment Training Act for jobless persons and block grants under the new Housing and Community Development Act.

"No one is asking for charity except Detroit," he added. "The suburbs are willing to pay our share."

Greenstein suggested five requirements for water department control if it isn't placed under the PSC, which a committee member and witness felt wouldn't control future rate increases.

The supervisor said the water department should provide "clear breakdown of costs," a "clear and fast budget," equal board representation for the suburbs; credit to the suburbs for their contribution to the water system; and an annual independent audit of the department, which Greenstein said is "absolutely essential."

The supervisor said Canton has managed to hold off any rate increase for its water customers in the past 10 years but a boost may be proposed soon.

GEAKE, IN defending his motion for a state audit, said the "Legislature and particularly this committee need factual, objective information on the true costs of the water department."

He said the suburbs "must be protected from arbitrary and unreasonable rate hikes."

His comments, made after the hearing in the Livonia Senior Citizens' Activities Center, included a slap at the PSC, which recently approved major rate increases for other utilities.

"I don't have any more confidence in the PSC than I do in the Detroit water board when it comes to protecting the suburban consumer," he said.

"I believe that the suburban communities who use Detroit water should have direct representation on the board with control over the rate setting process. It appears that the suburbs are subsidizing the low rates paid by Detroit residents," he concluded.

Viet orphan comes to Canton

"WHAT LOOKS GOOD?" wonders 9-year-old Hanh Marie Prince, the recently-adopted Vietnamese daughter of Alan and Judy Prince

By DARLENE STINSON

CANTON—It must be a strange new world for nine-year-old Hanh Marie Prince.

The people all wear funny clothes, and they eat funny things with strange silver utensils. Cars whiz all over the place, and people sing, dance and say funny things in a box in the living room!

But Hanh, the newly-adopted Vietnamese daughter of Alan and Judy Prince, is taking it all in stride.

"We've had absolutely no adjustment problems with her," said Mrs. Prince, as Hanh leaped across the living room and playfully tugged at her new adoptive brother's hair. "She's adjusted 100 per cent. She's very energetic, and she's super happy. I think."

"SHE'S AWED over everything," Mrs. Prince said with a big smile. "She had a riot in the supermarket, and she just can't get over the television set. She loves riding in the car and just stares out the window."

"I thought food would be a problem," Mrs. Prince added, as Hanh carried a bowl of rice from the kitchen. "But she's eating everything we do. She went crazy over pizza we had the other night."

Hanh arrived at a Warren foster home from an orphanage in Saigon a few weeks ago. The Prince family, which includes the couple's own five and seven-year-old sons, had been awaiting an adoptive child for months and took Hanh to their home at 6745 Foxthorn with open arms on Saturday.

The Prince family does not know much about Hanh's background. Judging from her appearance, they speculate she is pure Vietnamese, and they know she has spent her life in Saigon orphanages.

Mediator called in on hospital strike

By DENNY COFFMAN

WESTLAND—A federal mediator is expected to meet this week with management and union negotiators in an attempt to bring a two-week strike of the Metropolitan Hospital group to an end.

Metro-West in Westland, Metropolitan Hospital in Detroit and four clinics are being picketed by office, accounting, dietary housekeeping, medical records and medical attendant personnel, all members of Local 42, Office and Professional Employees International Union (OPEIU).

Although the legality of the strike is clouded, Metro members of Local 42 re-affirmed an April 17 strike vote on April 25 by a vote of 201-128.

JOHN BATEMAN, president of the hospital's board of directors, believes the strike will be a long one.

A Livonia resident, Bateman claims the hospital has been losing money in recent years and cannot afford to improve on cost-of-living and fringe benefit package offered April 13.

He says the hospital is still willing to submit the dispute to binding arbitration, but strikers will not accept a third party settlement.

"They were just bound and determined to strike this hospital," says Bateman.

He claims the hospital is not performing the jobs of striking workers, except to "maintain cleanliness."

"A strike at a hospital is unthinkable," says Bateman. "There is a considerable difference if a plant worker walks out and if a hospital worker leaves patients."

NOT ONLY is the office worker union displeased with the April 13 offer, union leaders claim the administration has prevented the union from conducting its activities on hospital premises.

Bateman, the UAW auditor, claims the union has engaged in "political" activities beyond the scope of normal union activities, such as disseminating literature against the Vietnam War.

Along with Bateman, six of the hospital's 16 directors are UAW officials, including Emil Mazey, UAW secretary-treasurer, and Ken Bannon, UAW vice president.

The legality of Local 42's strike remains uncertain.

Carolyn Dembinski, a member of the union's strike committee, says the strike has been authorized by the local's executive board.

Mabel Holleran, Local 42 president, has refused to comment on the legality of the strike.

According to Carol Hollman, another strike committee member, Howard Coughlin, OPEIU national president, initially authorized the strike but later withdrew that permission. She added that he has not taken injunctive action or placed the union in receivership, steps that could be taken to reprimand strikers.

LABORATORY technicians at the main hospital in Detroit have joined the picket line after working hours, according to Miss Dembinski. She also says $300 from non-striking hospital employees has been contributed to Local 42's strike fund.

The fund, expected to last two weeks, will be dry this week.

Additional funds from the local are being sought, Miss Dembinski said, to maintain a "strike kitchen" at 12166 Twelfth, Detroit.

Cahalan's plan up for new vote

WAYNE COUNTY—County commissioners will reconsider at 2 p.m. today (Thursday), May 1, a plan to establish a prosecutor's major violators unit.

The plan, funded by $576,040 in federal money and matched by the county with $65,005, would focus an augmented prosecutor's staff on more effective legal action against hard-core criminals.

It would identify career criminals and follow them through investigation, trial, conviction and sentence.

According to Prosecutor William Cahalan: "It would provide better prosecution because there would be better communication between the police officers and the prosecutor, and between witnesses and the prosecutor. More importantly, the prosecutor in charge of the case would know the case inside out."

THE PLAN narrowly met defeat April 15 when the board of commissioners failed by three votes to get the 14—a majority of the board—required for passage. The vote was 11-5 with one abstention.

Commissioners John Barr (D-Deerborn Heights), whose district includes part of Westland, and Tom Taylor (D-Westland), whose district includes Garden City, opposed the project; Commissioner Mary Dumas (R-Livonia) voted in favor.

Commissioners Richard Manning (D-Redford), whose district includes part of Livonia, and Royce Smith (D-Belleville), who represents Plymouth and Canton Township, were absent.

"IN THE INTEREST of consistency, it seems to me to be rash to consider new programs regardless of their value in light of the economy," Taylor said, referring to the county's projected $6.7 million deficit this year.

Taylor said he questioned whether the county should consider any new programs, conceding the prosecutor's plan has "some value."

He added the program looked especially enticing because of the federal funds "held out like a carrot" which do not legally obligate the county to continue the project beyond its initial funding.

"The time has come to say no to even one-tenth of the program costs (the county's share). This looks like a favorable program, in a time of need for law and order, but it is expensive," said Barr, vice-chairman of the board.

OTHER MATTERS on the board's agenda are:

- Continuation of the sheriff's road patrol for 90 days in the townships.

- Concurrence in the arbitration award between the county and the sheriff's union, Local 502.

- Approval of the county corporation counsel's recommendation for intervention in Detroit Edison Co.'s $177 million annual rate increase request.

- Approval of renovation of a Wayne County General Hospital building to provide facilities for probate court mental health commitment hearings. The court's Mental Division now is housed on the 12th floor of the City-County Building.

- Approval of Ron M. Linton as the county's Washington, D.C. representative from Dec. 1, 1974 to Nov. 30, 1975 at a cost of $28,000 in fees and $3,000 in expenses.

A special meeting has been scheduled for 9:30 a.m. May 2 to discuss the status of the county's 1974-75 budget, which last week projected a deficit of $6.7 million, and recommendations to minimize the deficit.

Hockey program approved

PLYMOUTH—High school hockey has won board approval in Plymouth.

Voting 5-1, the Plymouth Community School board has approved a varsity hockey program for the fall, which will include two teams, one from Plymouth Canton and one from Plymouth Salem high school.

But along with the hockey program the board also approved interscholastic girls gymnastic and golf teams, an intramural program in grades K-12, and a developmental physical education program in the elementary schools which would be integrated into the academic program.

PROJECTED COSTS for all four times approved by the board are estimated at $36,000 with provisions that the cost of the high school programs cannot be greater than the amount allocated to the intramural and elementary physical education programs.

The approval by the board marked a reversal on the hockey issue which went down to defeat on two occasions in March.

The change in opinions on the hockey program came after the compromise solution was reached by board members at a meeting on Sunday, April 27 with State Sen. Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth).

Pursell had originally requested the board add high school hockey at a meeting on March 10.

THE LONE dissenting vote on the additions to the physical education program was board treasurer Tom Yack who said "although it may be politically expedient, I find I have to maintain my earlier position and vote no."

Yack had opposed the idea when presented in the past because he felt there were other items of "higher priority" which the board should consider first.

Agreement on the physical education package also prompted an apology from board trustee Gary Mirto to board secretary Marcia Borowski and vice president Marda Benson. Earlier discussions on hockey found Ms. Borowski in opposition and at the March 24 meeting, Mirto leveled an attack aimed at Ms. Borowski, Ms. Benson, and Yack.

In noting her approval Ms. Benson said the program "includes more than just a hockey program. I think it addresses itself to the needs of all the students in the district. There is also language in the program which pertains to the special education child and his needs."

SEN. PURSELL commended the board for its action and said "I think the intramural program will prove more important than the hockey program itself and I commend the Plymouth school board for their late hours of work on this issue."

Cost estimates on all four programs are currently being drafted by Athletic Director John Sandmann. "We're going to try to get as much involvement in these programs as possible," he said.

Sandmann said that no decision has been made on who will coordinate the intramural or the elementary physical education programs, but said he was pleased that they are part of the board's package. "Anything that produces greater involvement by the students adds to the overall program."

Sandmann said that the choice of coaches will be made after the positions are posted. He said the choice will come from teachers within the district for the hockey, gymnastics, and golf programs. "We have people in the system that are capable of handling the coaching duties," Sandmann said.

Rezoning signs now required

CANTON—Public awareness of rezoning applications will be higher in the coming months as the result of a resolution the township board passed last week forcing property owners to post signs on land they want rezoned.

Land owners who apply to the township board or planning commission for a rezoning will have to post a four by eight foot sign "in full public view" along road frontage at least 30 days before a public hearing.

Property up for rezoning with frontage on two roads would have to have one sign for each road.

THE SIGNS will include information on who owns the property, what the land is currently zoned, and changes are requested.

It will also indicate proposed use of the land if rezoned and date and place of the public hearing on the rezoning.

The township, however, is exempt from the new rezoning procedure. Any rezonings requested by the township will not have to include posting of the information on a sign.

TOWNSHIP SUPERVISOR Robert Greenstein comments:

"I think residents should be informed of any attempts to rezone property. This sign resolution will force public awareness by the use of a four by eight foot sign so anyone who lives nearby or drives by the property will have direct notice of the proposed rezoning."

The supervisor said the township was exempt from the new procedure because it had no economic interest in rezoning.

"Any time a builder wants land rezoned, it is to increase the value. When the township asks, it is usually to downgrade the zoning (make it more restrictive) or to conform to the master land use plan."

"When the township asks for a rezoning, it is to protect residents or to rectify a previous error. There is a public hearing and a notice in the paper anyway."

The supervisor said the paperwork and money involved in erecting signs could become a sizeable problem for the township if it were forced to erect signs when it wanted land rezoned.

"With the master land use plan nearing completion, we might want hundreds of parcels rezoned and the cost might be enormous."

"If it were a very controversial issue, however, we might erect a sign anyway."

Civil defense job sits vacant

CANTON—"We don't need some guy running around here in a helmet yelling 'run for the fallout shelters,'" said Trustee Jim Poole. "But what we do need, is someone to take care of coordination in case of a disaster or emergency."

Poole, who recently resigned the post of township civil defense coordinator, said no contingency plans exist in Canton in the event of a tornado, fire, chemical spill, or similar disaster.

"The job title should be disaster or emergency officer, and he should be in charge of coordinating an effort when there is an emergency situation in the township," said the trustee. Poole was appointed civil defense coordinator several months ago and resigned the position at the last township board meeting.

"IT TAKES too much work not to be a paid position, at least in the beginning, and I don't think an elected official of the township should receive money from the township in another capacity," he commented. While acting as civil defense coordinator, Poole attended several meetings sponsored by the Wayne County Office of Civil Defense. He said those meetings made him aware of the need for a coordinator willing to take the necessary steps to establish viable contingency plans in the township.

Although much of the civil defense program is devoted to fallout and radiation emergency plans, according to Poole other aspects of the program are worthwhile.

"We don't have anybody to coordinate in the event of a bomb threat. What happens if a plane crashes in Canton, or a tornado hits?" asked the trustee.

According to Poole, there are no designated public shelters in Canton. "We should be able to tell people where to go in the event of a disaster, and those places should be able to take care of them. I think a logical place would be the fire station."

THE WAYNE COUNTY Civil Defense Office, suggests the community civil defense coordinator should:

Determine extent and amount of damage and advise government officials of the disaster.

Request outside help if necessary and begin immediate action to save lives and avoid further property damage.

Advise Red Cross and other relief agencies of the disaster.

Inform the public precisely and accurately and instruct people on procedures to follow and actions to take.

Maintain communication with other governmental bodies to see that all action is coordinated.

Aid in the development of disaster assistance centers.

Help supply disaster victims with temporary housing and food.

"The coordinator also would know how to apply for federal disaster aid. The floods in Lansing are a perfect example of that," said Poole.

Poole said he had been told at the Wayne County meetings that the Detroit area is the third highest tornado activity center in the entire country. "They also told us wind speeds have been increasing in the last several years and tornado activity is on the rise."

THE RETIRED Air Force major, added, "I think we have to decide whether or not we want a coordinator and then pass a resolution at the township board level."

"We could get a guy and have him set up all the contingency plans. After that, he wouldn't have to be paid unless there was a disaster."

Poole said volunteers for the job might be available. "If we get a former military man, a lot of the training might not be necessary," he commented.

According to Poole, entry into the civil defense program would provide additional benefits to the township, because Canton would be eligible to apply for surplus Army machinery which it could buy or borrow at a bargain price.

SUPERVISOR Robert Greenstein commented, "I don't have any position on this right now. It'll be up to the board."

"Really, it's a question of money and priority. Our resources aren't unlimited and we have to try and figure how to best spend them. If we spend the money on a coordinator and there is no disaster, then we feel as if we've wasted the money."

"If we don't, and there is a crisis, then we certainly will think we should have spent the money."

The supervisor added, "It's a question of judgment and one the board will have to decide."

Patrol vote today

Residents in Plymouth and Canton Townships should know today whether to breathe a sigh of relief over police protection.

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners will vote this afternoon (Thursday) on extending the funds for the Sheriff's Road Patrol.

The proposed extension is for 90 days and will keep the road patrol operational until the end of July.

Current funding for the road patrol expired yesterday, April 30.

The proposed funding extension was approved by the county Ways and Means Committee, a committee of the whole, last Thursday, April 24, on recommendation of the Public Safety and Judiciary committee.

The county was relieved of its obligation to fund the patrol March 27 when Wayne Circuit Judge Thomas J. Foley dismissed the townships' request for a declaratory judgment ordering the county to fund the patrol.

An appeal of that ruling has been filed, although no final disposition is expected for another three months at the earliest. Currently, the road patrol employs 28 men who cover 200 square miles including Plymouth, Canton, Northville, Brownstown, Van Buren, Huron, and Sumpter townships.

Dog owners beware

Heartworm season nears

By CRAIG PIECHURA

WESTLAND—It comes from a mosquito bite and can clot up and stop your dog's right ventricle with a fistful of white sluggish strands. The disease is called heartworms.

Uninfected dogs can be protected from heartworms if they take a preventative pill-a-day for the entire mosquito season. The dose varies according to the weight of the dog.

But unlike pills for dogs with intestinal worms, heartworm pills won't cure a dog with heartworms. In fact, an infected dog stands a good chance of having an adverse reaction to the medication if given preventative pills.

Area veterinarians say dogs should be given a blood test early in the spring to determine whether immature forms of heartworm are present in the blood.

If the blood test is negative and no heartworm larvae is found in the blood sample, the veterinarian will sell the dog's owner 200 pills—mosquito season supply of pills. The price of the pills depends on the weight of the dog. Preventative pills for chihuahuas would cost his master $6 while protection for a St. Bernard could run about $36.

EARLY SYMPTOMS of heartworm are rarely suspected by the dog owner and sometimes there aren't any obvious signs that something is wrong.

Short hacking cough is the most frequent symptom. This is most obvious in hunting dogs, who might be winded after a short run. An infected house pet might look tired, have a dull coat and suffer a sudden weight loss. But some dogs show none of the outward signs until the infection reaches the critical stage.

"If the infection is detected early, most dogs can be successfully treated," said Steve Leininger, D.V.M. in Plymouth. "Our procedure has been to run profile tests on dogs using blood, urine and x-ray tests. This is to find out if the dog has complications such as hepatitis or intestinal worms on top of the heartworms."

"The treatment involves an intravenous organic arsenical compound, providing The dog is given four injections over a 48-hour period. The dog is hospitalized for almost a week for the process. When we release the dog he must not have any excessive exercise for four to six weeks. The heartworms must be enzymatically broken down during that time."

Leininger says many persons mistakenly believe children might contract heartworm disease after playing with a dog who has the disease.

"There have been a few, very rare instances of immature forms of heartworm discovered in humans, but it has never caused a problem," said Leininger. "It is also seldom found in cats. However it has been found in foxes, coyotes, wolves and other carnivores."

"It cannot be transmitted from one infected dog to a healthy dog or a human. It comes from a mosquito bite."

THE PARASITIC HEARTWORM moves very slowly in a whipping, backslashing motion. It takes about five months for the microfilariae to mature into infective larvae. It is nearly impossible to detect the heartworm in this infant stage.

The maturing heartworm forms a uterus which looks like a brown stripe and dumps more harmful microfilariae into the dog's stream. The worm migrates to the animal's vital organs.

It usually causes trouble in the right ventricle of the heart by blocking blood flow in this pumping chamber. The heartworm can live there for as long as five years providing the host survives.

Although it is called heartworm, the parasite can be found in the kidney, liver and main arteries of an infected animal.

Heartworm is primarily a tropical disease. Up until about five years ago Michigan veterinarians rarely tested dogs for the disease. But due to the increased mobility of persons and their animals, heartworm is even turning up in northern Ontario.

Leininger said he has discovered 60 instances of the infection in his practice. Sustained temperatures below 60 degrees usually kill the disease causing agents stored in the mosquito's "stinger."

Orchestra to hold annual pop concert

Musical selections from "show biz" will highlight the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra's annual pop concert, scheduled for Saturday, May 10, at 9 p.m. in the Westland Center Concourse.

Directed by Wayne Dunlap, the orchestra will perform selections from: Leonard Bernstein's "Candide," Victor Herbert's "Naughty Marietta,"

Verdi's "The Anvil Chorus" from "Il Trovatore," television's "The Victory at Sea," music from the movie "Camelot," "The Entertainer" from the movie "The Sting," and the finale from Tchaikovsky's Sixth Symphony.

A sing-along will conclude the concert.

Baritone Dale Schriemer will be the soloist for the evening. A graduate of Michigan State University, Schriemer has performed several leading roles with the Opera Association of Western Michigan.

Tickets, priced at $3 for adults and $1.50 for students, include refreshments. Tickets are available at the Bed 'N Stead in the Forest Place Mall in downtown Plymouth.

Members of the Allegro group of the Plymouth Symphony League are planning the evening under the chairmanship of Marge O'Day. Ticket and program chairpersons are Mary Weed and Sarah Chance. Doris Chatterley and Betty Laird are handling decorations.

can standards. Hanh closely matches the size of the Prince's five-year-old son and walks with a limp.

"The doctor thought it was something serious at first," Mrs. Prince said of her new daughter's leg, "but Hanh told an interpreter she had had a bad fall. We're going to the University of Michigan Medical Center for an orthopedic examination, and I think it can be corrected."

Unless Hanh requires surgery, she will begin the 45-15 program in Miller Elementary School on Aug. 4. School personnel have agreed to test Hanh, Mrs. Prince explained, to determine the grade in which to place her.

"I imagine she'll start in kindergarten or first grade," Mrs. Prince said, "but I can't foresee any problems, because she's so small. Once she gets started, she'll catch up quickly. I'm sure. We know she's had some education, because she can count in Vietnamese."

The English language is the largest obstacle Hanh will have to surmount. But, according to Mrs. Prince's beliefs, Hanh has already learned some English from the American soldiers who walked Saigon streets.

"SHE'S GOING to speak English really quickly," Mrs. Prince maintains. "I think she's heard enough English that she understands it, but we just have to get her to say the words."

"I wanted a baby bottle for one of the kids in the day care center I run, and Hanh went over and picked it up. Last night, I said I wanted to set the table, and she opened the silverware drawer."

So far, Mrs. Prince says, there have been no communication problems.

"If she wants a drink of water, she points to the faucet. If she's mad at the kids, she just chatters away in Vietnamese, and they know what she's talking about."

Mrs. Prince hopes to obtain the services of an Eastern Michigan University interpreter to uncover any fears Hanh is unable to communicate.

But, so far, the family has experienced no difficulty with Hanh, who shows love toward everyone.

"She's been told, through an interpreter, that we want her as a daughter and we love her," Mrs. Prince said. "She's really excited about the whole thing."

THE PRINCE couple, ages 27 and 29, hope to adopt another child after Hanh adjusts to her new home. They have launched a campaign to quicken Michigan's slow-moving adoption process and hope to form an organization to help parents who are seeking adoptive children.

"As long as no financial disaster occurs, we want to add to our family again," Mrs. Prince said.

But, in the meantime, the Princes will devote all their attention to their own two sons and Hanh.

paid by Detroit residents," he concluded.

The board has four members from Detroit and three from the suburbs. McNamara is a board member representing western Wayne County.

It was noted during the hearing that the new Detroit city charter requires that at least four members be Detroiters.

MRS. HUNSINGER argued that Geake's motion to have an audit of the water department was out of order since the committee is charged only with holding hearings and reporting back to the Legislature.

The committee isn't supposed to take action during the hearing, she said.

Bennett disagreed, saying that the action is part of the committee's fact-finding responsibilities.

Mrs. Hunsinger urged that the motion be delayed until the full committee is present.

She said that "this has never been done at a hearing before and I will report it to the Legislature."

Ernest Cedroni, water department director, told the committee that Detroit has the lowest water rates in the nation.

HE SAID that he would have a breakdown of the water rates in an easy to understand explanation for the committee.

Cedroni said he has no objection to an outside audit, adding that he asked the Detroit city administration for one but hasn't received an answer.

Under the Detroit charter, the department is audited by the administration annually with an independent audit made every five years.

Registration still open at SC

Late registration for spring session classes at Schoolcraft College(SC) will remain open through May 5. Sign-up for classes taught on campus and in the Garden City instructional center is being held in the auxiliary gym on the main campus through May 1. After that, it will be held in the student affairs office. Hours are 8:30-11:30 a.m., 1-3:30 p.m. and 6:30-8:30 p.m. Fulltime students who register late are charged a $10 fee; part-time students pay $2.50 per class. Further information about late registration is available by calling the SC admissions office.

ROBERT W. CADOTTE

Cadotte running for S'craft board

Robert W. Cadotte has announced his candidacy for the board of trustees of Schoolcraft College, Livonia, in the June 9 election. Cadotte, 49, of 30125 Grandon, Livonia, is vice president of Manufacturers National Corporation — holding company for Manufacturers Bank of Livonia.

CADOTTE is governor and second vice president of the Schoolcraft College Foundation — an organization formed to raise scholarship funds for Schoolcraft students — and has been a member of the foundation for several years.

He is a parishioner of St. Damian Catholic Parish in Westland and a member of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul.

"I firmly believe that Schoolcraft College has become one of the most vital and necessary parts of our community, assisting as it does in the preparation of our high school graduates for completion of their education in four-year institutions," says the candidate who has a daughter attending Schoolcraft.

"Moreover, Schoolcraft provides career opportunity programs to prepare students for livelihood in the increasingly technical and demanding world they face today.

"Schoolcraft also is reaching out to all parts of the community through its community affairs programs, programs for senior citizens, persons interested in the arts, physical fitness and many other activities."

AS AN OFFICER and governor of the Foundation, Cadotte says: "I have been actively interested in the good of Schoolcraft and its community.

"As trustee, I will be able to work more directly with the school and in the community to provide active support for its endeavors.

"As an example, I heartily support the efforts to obtain a fine arts instructional and presentation building at Schoolcraft. It is a facility greatly needed by the school and the community."

Cadotte, born in Detroit and a continuous resident of Michigan since 1955, received a law degree from University of Detroit School of Law in 1951, attended the American Institute of Banking, and graduated from the Graduate School of Banking, University of Wisconsin, in 1966. He has been an instructor in commercial law and negotiable instruments for the American Institute of Banking.

He is a member of the American Institute of Banking, Michigan, Livonia and Detroit bar associations, and Wolverine Club of Michigan.

Local pharmacists answer

What about generic drugs?

By MARILYN FITCHETT

To go with generics or to stick with name brands — that's the question facing Michigan consumers following a state law which says consumers may ask their pharmacists to fill prescriptions with cheaper, but equivalent drugs.

The law permits pharmacists to fill prescriptions with lower-priced drugs which are chemically identical with brand name drugs. The substitution cannot be made if the customer does not request it, or if the physician specifies only a particular brand can be used.

While most persons in the pharmacy industry will not argue that generic drugs can lead to savings on medicine for the consumer, the generic controversy centers on whether generic drugs will do the same job as the more expensive name brands.

ACCORDING TO Ronald Seldon, Arnold Drug Stores executive, generic drugs are alike in chemical composition as the name brand with all having the same chemical name and all passing U.S. government standards. "Generics aren't really new," Seldon said. "Many widely used medications including penicillin, thyroid and digitalis are routinely prescribed by generic name."

But Dr. Dale J. Chodos, an Upjohn research manager, questions the equivalency of drugs.

"The study or how drugs are absorbed, bioavailability, has frequently demonstrated that drugs having the same chemical characteristics do not always have equal treatment results," Chodos said.

"Don't play the substitution game. It could be dangerous."

WHILE MANY druggists in the area believed generics in some cases will fill the bill, they are not welcoming the generic drug law with open arms.

"A professional pharmacist is more concerned with quality than with price," John Wiltse of Wiltse's Community Pharmacy in Plymouth said.

"Most pharmacists have already been trying to give customers the cheapest of quality medicines from reputable firms like Upjohn and Parke-Davis.

"I would rather use their drugs than some fly by night outfit's."

"Where we're sure a generic drug is safe and if the customer asks for it, we'll use it."

"The main thing is that we give the best medication we can. If we can save customers money, fine. But if we can't give a drug that will work as well as a brand name, then it is not worth it. A professional pharmacist isn't going to lay his reputation on the line to save 50 cents."

HENRY CROLL of Cook's Pharmacy in Redford Township went so far as to call the generic drug law "unequivocal."

"The law allows the druggist to use any kind of junk he wants," and that's what I'm talking about — junk and there's a lot of it around."

Max Kreitman of Westland's Drug Mart questions whether generic drugs are "worthwhile."

"Take Darvon 65, for instance," Kreitman said. "Lily is the only company that can make it without it burning your stomach. I'm just not sure of the quality of generic merchandise."

Kreitman said he will stick with name brands for his family.

"The trusted companies can check each capsule or tablet. I'm not sure that other companies bother to do this."

WHILE FOR some drugs there are no generic equivalents, Seldon of the Arnold chain believes there are now generic equivalents for more than 200 of the most commonly prescribed drugs.

Seldon said the generic law is expected to have its greatest impact on the cost of maintenance drugs — medications used on a daily or almost daily basis by sufferers from chronic diseases such as heart trouble, diabetes and circulatory disorders.

But Chuck McKellar of Burke Drugs in Garden City discounts the Arnold contention.

"There are probably a lot of older persons who would be interested in less expensive drugs, but I wouldn't trust some brands."

Kreitman of Drug Mart said he would hesitate giving generic drugs to heart patients.

"Off-brand drugs could result in toxicity leading to an overdose in heart patients," Kreitman said.

QUALITY ASIDE, some pharmacists argue generic drugs are not that much cheaper than brand names.

Some, they say, result in a savings of only a penny per capsule. Others, however, will cut the cost of the prescription by close to half.

As the law stands now, the pharmacist seems to be the middleman between a doctor who may specify no generic drugs are to be used in a prescription and the consumer who has the option of seeking out cheaper drugs.

Consumers stick with brand drugs

Whether it's a lack of awareness about the new generic drug law or a distrust of off-brand drugs, consumers in western Wayne County seem to be sticking with name brand drugs.

Although consumers have been able since April 1 to ask their pharmacist to prescribe cheaper but equivalent drugs, few appear to be doing so.

Most pharmacists in the area have reported only a smattering of requests for generics and most said the requests were made the first week the law went into effect.

Chuck McKellar, Burke Drugs pharmacist in Garden City, said he was surprised by the lack of requests for generic drugs.

"We haven't had very many requests," McKellar said. "In fact, customers have told us they don't want cheaper brand names. Evidently they generally distrust generic drugs."

Lack of awareness and a lack of trust aside, a Livonia druggist points to another reason why consumers are avoiding generic drugs.

"Why should a person ask for a cheap drug when Blue Cross will pay the bulk of any prescription, including those for expensive drugs," Khamis Ziadeh of B & B Drugs asked.

"The first day the law went into effect two or three persons asked for generics. Since then I think everyone has forgotten about the law."

Another factor which may be responsible for pharmacists filling few generic prescriptions is the greater frequency with which doctors are writing "DAW (dispense as written)" on their prescriptions.

On such prescriptions, a pharmacist may not substitute generic drugs even if the consumer asks.

"Are doctors writing DAW more often on their prescriptions? You bet they are," Henry Croll, druggist at Cook's Pharmacy in Redford Township said.

"They write DAW on the prescription because they know what they want and what they want is quality."

While pharmacists have reported few persons taking advantage of the generic drug law, most said they would begin to stock more generic brands if consumers begin to demand them.

3 from Schoolcraft are named outstanding educators

A history instructor, biology instructor and a dean at Schoolcraft College have been named "Outstanding Educators of America" for 1975. Those honored are Thad E. Diebel, dean of applied sciences, Harold B. Fortney, history, and Roger A. Sutherland, biology. They were nominated by Schoolcraft President C. Nelson Grote. The outstanding educators awards program honors persons for exceptional service, achievements and leadership in the field of education.

WITH THE COLLEGE since 1973, Dean Diebel is a long-time Michigan educator in the field of vocational-technical education.

Early in his career, he taught with the Muskegon School District where he became assistant director of vocational education. He also taught mechanical drafting at Ferris State College for three years before becoming assistant dean of the trade and industrial division there.

He left Michigan in 1965 to become director of vocational education for the state of Montana. In 1966 he headed a party of the United States Agency for International Development at the Dunwoody Industrial Institute in Kartoum, Sudan.

Later Diebel went to Northern Montana College where he worked until joining the Schoolcraft staff.

Diebel, who lives at 10381 Wayne Road, Livonia, has a bachelor's degree from Michigan State University and master's degree in vocational education and administration from the University of Michigan.

He is vice-chairman of the National Occupational Competency Testing Institute (NOCTI) which certifies and recognizes equivalency credit at the undergraduate level.

FORTNEY, 33575 Cindy Avenue, Livonia, has been an instructor at Schoolcraft since it opened in 1964 and teaches both history and political science.

Besides teaching at the college, Fortney is an active member in various educational and civic organizations such as the Schoolcraft College Foundation, the Athletic Board of Control, American Historical Association, Historical Society of Michigan and Society of American Archivists.

He earned his bachelor's in education from Fairmont State College and master's from West Virginia University. He has done additional graduate work at the University of Wisconsin and Ohio State University.

This fall, Fortney will be teaching a new history course entitled "History of Michigan and the Great Lakes."

SUTHERLAND, 5488 Warren Road, Ann Arbor, is also an original member of the faculty at Schoolcraft.

He holds a degree in biology and chemistry from Bowling Green State University and another in physical therapy from Case Western Reserve University. He has master degrees in biology and education from the University of Michigan and has done additional graduate work at Central Michigan University.

Before working at Schoolcraft, Sutherland taught biology in Allen Park. During that time, and after coming to the college, he worked summers as a physical therapist at University Hospital, Ann Arbor.

At Schoolcraft Sutherland was instrumental in developing curriculum in his department and in the nursing program. He also helped develop the general biology audio-tutorial program.

He recently was elected to the board of directors of the Michigan Audubon Society. His memberships include the American Physical Therapy Association, Association of College Biology Educators, American Institute of Biological Science, Washtenaw and National Audubon Societies, and Michigan Botanical Society.

Biographical sketches of the three educators will appear in the national awards volume — "Outstanding Educators of America."

Symphony will award scholarships

PLYMOUTH—Members of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra will get a wrap-up of the orchestra's 29th season at the annual meeting, Monday, May 5.

A potluck dinner in the cafeteria of Central Middle School at 6:30 p.m. will precede the nomination of board members and committee reports.

Highlight of the evening will be the presentation by Conductor Wayne Dunlap of scholarships awarded annually to area students to further their education in music.

The Plymouth Symphony League will be in charge of dinner arrangements. Jan Gerish, league president, asks those attending to provide a dish to pass and their own place setting.

Members of the society will have an opportunity to meet musicians in the orchestra at the dinner. After the business meeting, during orchestra rehearsal, they can hear a preview of the "Show Biz" tunes which are programmed for the May 10 pop concert.

"I hope representatives of the many organizations and the 270 'family' members who support the orchestra will attend this annual dinner meeting," said Dr. Jane K. Moehle president of the symphony society. Families lies of scholarship winners also are invited to attend.

Those persons presenting annual reports will include: Dunlap, conductor of the orchestra; Peggy Bunge, orchestra personnel; Ann Taylor, treasurer; Jan Gerish, symphony league; and Annette Heindryckx, membership chairman. Dr. Charles Wells Jr. is secretary of the symphony society.

FOR THE WOMAN ON HER OWN: NO-STRINGS-ATTACHED ABSOLUTELY FREE CHECKING.

"WHY CAN'T BANKS UNDERSTAND THAT I CAN BE THE HEAD OF A HOUSEHOLD, TOO?"
We understand how it is. Being a woman and the head of a household isn't all that easy, yet. You have to watch every nickel, and the money you do save has to work hard for you.
Well, we're here to tell you that we not only understand. We can help.
So we're introducing No-Strings-Attached, Absolutely Free Checking as just one way we'd like to help. You don't need any minimum checking balance. No minimum savings balance, either. No fees of any kind except, of course, the slight charge for personalizing checks. And if you're the average family, you can save $26 a year with it. Maybe even more.
Overdraft protection, too. just in case you need it. Bouncing a check can happen to anyone. And so can the embarrassment and extra costs it usually causes. But now, just as soon as you qualify, every check you write is covered up to your credit limit in full. And overdraft protection doesn't cost you a penny until you use it.
To our existing customers: Please apply at your branch for conversion to No-Strings-Attached, Absolutely Free Checking.
Just when you really need it.

Road bids approved

LANSING — Bids for road construction in Livonia and Plymouth Township were approved recently by the Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation.

The Tony Angelo Cement Construction Co. of Detroit was the lowest of 11 bidders at $938,431 for a project to widen from two to five lanes nine-tenths of a mile of Inkster Road from I-96 Freeway (under construction) and Five Mile Road in Livonia. The work is to be completed in September 1975.

John Carlo Inc. of Mt. Clemens was the lowest of 17 bidders at $424,834 to widen from two to five lanes all four legs of the intersection of Haggerty and Five Mile Roads just west of Livonia in Plymouth and Northville township.

This project is designed to handle future traffic from the I-275 and I-96 interchange, now under construction. This is the point where the Jeffries and Haggerty freeways will meet. Completion date is scheduled for September 1975.

Esch sponsors bill to help control floods

U.S. Rep. Marvin L. Esch (R-Ann Arbor) has introduced legislation to help control Great Lakes shoreline flooding.

The bill, co-sponsored by Esch whose 2nd District includes Livonia and Plymouth, would help alleviate high water levels in the Great Lakes by discharging water from Lake Michigan through the Illinois Waterway at Chicago.

"This year will mark the fourth consecutive year of high water levels on the Great Lakes," says Esch. "The residents of Monroe County are certainly aware of the shoreline damage and flooding these high water levels have caused."

"While I will continue to push the Army Corps of Engineers to construct permanent diking along Lake Erie at the earliest possible time, the passage of this bill would serve as a more immediate if not complete solution to the flooding problem."

Esch noted a maximum of 10,000 cubic feet per second could be diverted from Lake Michigan into the Illinois Waterway when Lake Michigan and Huron are above their average water level, and when more water can be introduced into the Illinois Waterway without the danger of consequential flooding in the Mississippi River Valley.

WILLIAM SCHANCK, manager of pricing and general accounting for Anchor Coupling Company of Plymouth, is a member of the second graduating class of the middle management development program at Eastern Michigan University. He resides at 30535 Grandon, Livonia.

MoTech offers RV course

A five-week course on routine maintenance and repairs of recreational vehicles will be conducted in Chrysler Corp.'s MoTech Automotive Education Center, 35155 Industrial Drive, Livonia, beginning May 7.

Class will begin at 7 p.m. and run for three hours one night a week for five weeks. The class will be limited to 16 students on a first-come basis.

Lawton K. Smith, MoTech's manager of evening schedules, said if there is sufficient demand, a second class would be formed to begin Thursday, May 8.

The course will cover maintenance and repair of brakes and electrical systems, plumbing and interior appliances, auxiliary power supplies.

Young's power grab has a purpose

The Detroit Metropolitan Water Board controls the supply and price of water for virtually every suburban community in this part of the state. Nearly half of Michigan's residents buy Detroit water, and the system which provides it is supported by 96 separate communities.

Economic theory says that centralizing such common, necessary services as water under one regional authority is cheaper and more efficient for local water users than if each suburban community maintained its own wells, purification plants, pipes, valves and so forth.

But the lesson of last week's astonishing hassle over the price of water is that economic theory and political fact do not mix, especially when the latter is set by an unusual combination of arrogance and incompetence.

THE DETROIT Water Board consists of seven members, four from Detroit and three representing the suburbs. The board is the creation of the Detroit city charter, answerable only to the mayor of Detroit and to the Detroit Common Council.

The absurdity and unfairness of this situation was demonstrated by the chain of events which climaxed last week.

More than a month ago, the water board, with the support of Detroit Mayor Coleman Young, assured customers no water rate increase would be necessary during the coming fiscal year. After that meeting, Young ordered Ernest Cedroni, director of the Detroit Water Department, to reconsider the proposed rate increase. That appeared to be that.

But at last Monday's meeting of the water board, with the three suburban representatives absent, the four Detroit members rammed through a 35 per cent rate increase. The agenda for the meeting failed to mention anything about a water rate increase, and it later emerged that Detroit members of the board had met privately before the meeting with some of Mayor Young's aides.

Last Thursday, confronted with an enraged group of suburban members and a lot of publicity in the news media, the water board rescinded the increase.

SOME CONCLUSIONS are obvious in the aftermath.

First, Cedroni either should be discharged for incompetence or bypassed entirely for information.

Observation Point

by PHILIP H. POWER

Question: "At the Monday morning meeting with Young, was the rate increase discussed?"

Cedroni: "Yes."

Question: "Then why were the suburban commissioners not given that information before our meeting Monday at 2:30 p.m.?"

Cedroni: "I don't know."

Question: "Your records show an $8.8 million surplus, don't they?"

Cedroni: "The sewage fund is in trouble, and the water fund is in trouble. We need revenues this year, or we are actually broke."

Cedroni succeeded Gerald Remus, who ran the water department with a will of iron for years. It's too bad Remus was replaced, for it will be nearly impossible for anyone to have any further confidence in Cedroni after his performance last week.

SECOND CONCLUSION is that if the Detroit water board is going to use the argument that it is solely responsible to Mayor Young and the Detroit Common Council as an excuse for ripping off the suburbs without warning or representation, then the water board had better be controlled by someone else.

Obvious candidates are the state Public Service Commission or the regional authority, SEMCOG, which at least have some procedures established to prevent the perpetration of petty power plays by one interest against another.

Some observers have seen the water caper as merely another episode in an unfolding strategy of Detroit control masterminded by Mayor Young.

These sources point to the Detroit mayor's insistence in getting five Detroit delegates on the Southeastern Michigan Transit Authority board, with five more coming from SEMCOG and three appointed by the governor -- with veto power for the mayor. They also cite rumors that the mayor is presently wangling to get a Detroit majority on the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Park Authority board, which controls most of the parks in this area.

IS IT ALL a deep, sinister plot by Detroit and Mayor Young to dominate the area?

The evidence is still out, but don't think that a man of Young's political competence isn't capable of putting such a plan into action.

However, my guess, pending further information, is that Young isn't trying that game.

His problem is enormous -- to run a nearly unmanageable, almost bankrupt city. His method is by now clear; he intends by all possible means to put his supporters and loyalists into every nook and cranny of the city, so he can count on people actually doing what he wants.

We've seen the method work in other cities; Chicago under Mayor Daley comes most immediately to mind.

And don't knock it. Young's method, I reckon, is about what's needed if the city is to survive.

I suspect what really happened with the water board hassle is that Young and his staff tried to use the tactics they need for Detroit on an issue that also involves the suburbs.

Young knows perfectly well that Detroit needs the suburbs, just as much as the suburbs need Detroit.

And I suspect that as astute a politician as Coleman Young is not about to get himself trapped into a city-suburb confrontation in which everybody would be the loser.

The case for the primary

The Chairman of the Michigan House Elections Committee announced last week that he would propose legislation either to eliminate the presidential primary or combine it with the regular state primary next year.

He said the reason for his proposal is that the presidential primary election costs the state $3 million.

The Wallace-for-President forces felt there was another reason behind the proposal. In the last presidential primary George Wallace won 15 per cent of the Democratic vote. The Wallace people feel that the elimination of the presidential primary is an attempt to counteract the Wallace influence in the state.

MICHIGAN IS unlike most states. Registered voters are not forced to announce their party in advance, so that when a primary election comes up they can vote Democratic or Republican, as they desire. Thus, the independent voter can vote in the primary without committing himself to one party.

The Michigan presidential primary is held in the spring so that delegates can be selected in time for the national party conventions. The rest of the state primary is held in August, prior to the November election, so that the presidential primary is an election for only one purpose.

THE NON-WALLACE Democrats claim that in 1972 Wallace got such a strong showing in Michigan because there was no contest in the Republican National Primary and many Republicans crossed over and voted for Wallace because they felt he might be easier for Nixon to defeat.

The proposed bill to either eliminate the presidential primary or combine it with the regular state primary raises a couple of questions that have to be answered.

Eccentricities

by HANK HOGAN

The first, of course, is that you can't combine it with the regular state primary because that is held too late to select delegates to the national conventions. To hold the regular primary earlier is to extend the already too-long campaign period.

TO ELIMINATE the state presidential primary is to take seven steps backward in political reform and leave the selection of the president entirely in the hands of the politicians at the national conventions.

If we have learned anything from Watergate, it is that for government to operate honestly and efficiently it must operate in the spotlight of public observation.

On many occasions this column has pleaded for the elimination of national political conventions and the election of the president entirely through a popular referendum. This would require a constitutional amendment. Such an amendment has been floundering around the country since 1968, with little whole-hearted support.

IF WE ARE GOING to prevent the people from popularly electing their president let's not go back and turn it entirely to political leaders in back-room conventions, by eliminating primaries.

The only way we can have government of the people, by the people and for the people is for people to vote. The Michigan presidential primary is not perfect, but the alternative is to take the voice from the people.

An honorary hail to the chef

Schoolcraft College trustees can be relied upon to give recognition to worthy citizens when it comes time to grant honorary degrees at commencement, and this year they get high marks for originality.

Naturally, the board awarded an honorary degree to commencement speaker Sarah Goddard Power, a University of Michigan regent, as well as to Charles Kirkpatrick, Philip Ogilvie and Miriam King, all of whom contributed to the formation of this distinguished two-year college.

And we were proud to see recognition, albeit posthumously, for our beloved colleague, R.T. (Tommy) Thompson, who never held an official position at Schoolcraft but was largely responsible for getting its message across when other media ignored or opposed it.

But the most originality came when the board honored an active member of its own faculty, Robert L. Breithaupt, one of the nation's best and most famous chefs.

The old school says that competence in any field—mechanics, philosophy, musical performance, scientific attainment, political leadership—should be recognized. Europeans give status to excellent chefs far more than do Americans, although we've never heard of a European college awarding a chef an honorary degree.

We applaud the college board for its originality, Bob Breithaupt for his new honor, and competence wherever we can find it.

Victim's mother finds juvenile laws too weak

Editor:

I would like to thank the Garden City rescue squad for its efforts to keep my son, Jeff Baker, alive and all the police and auxiliary police of the Garden City department for their efforts. The doctors on staff at Wayne County General Hospital and all our friends and neighbors who came and helped at this time.

And the story the Observer & Eccentric ran on him was a very good story. But I would like you to see if you can do anything to help wake up the people and tell them to write to their congressmen and get some action on the juvenile laws.

They are trying to pass a bill now that they cannot prosecute them at 17 and they will have to be 18 to be tried as adults. They should be punished for the crimes they commit.

A boy at 16 can leave home and a parent cannot force him home, but they are responsible if he gets into any trouble.

A boy at 18 can vote and drink, but now the court wants them tried as juveniles. This is crazy.

I think somebody should sit down with these juvenile courts and set some rules and stick to them. A crime is a crime. Murder is murder, and if he was 16, 17 or 18 he is still as guilty.

The laws have to change, give punishment and no fooling around. This is why our kids are feeling like they do. They laugh at the double-talk they hear. If they knew that when they did a crime and would be punished—and I mean punished—I think that they may have second thoughts about doing some of these things.

JEAN MOORE, Garden City

EDITOR'S NOTE: Jeff Baker died March 26 of bullet wounds. A boy who was 16 at the time has been charged. Juvenile court has authority to waive jurisdiction over 15- and 16-year-olds so that they can be tried as adults in circuit court. A juvenile court judge is presently studying whether to waive jurisdiction in the case of the boy charged with killing Jeff.

Counselors defended

Editor:

Too often, it seems, the news only deals with the unpleasant things of life rather than the achievements that are being made. For example, in a recent Observer & Eccentric article entitled, "SC students to assist those who will transfer," it was suggested by a student that high school counseling needed improvement.

This is not necessarily true. There are some very interested and concerned counselors as well as teachers, who are very capable of helping students prepare for college, at Stevenson High School.

Gerald Goode is an example of an involved counselor at Stevenson. He said that too often the accomplishments students make are ignored.

Thus, it is definitely time for people to realize the achievements that have been made by students at Schoolcraft Community College, after receiving their high school education at Stevenson.

To begin with, the highest scholastic position a student can achieve at a community college is to belong to Phi Theta Kappa, the honor society for junior colleges. It is very interesting to note that the president, Kathy Wilson; vice president, Kent Lawless; and the treasurer, Nancy Rose; of this group are all Stevenson alumni.

Also, this group of students succeeded in bringing about the largest initiation of new members into Phi Theta Kappa ever recorded at Schoolcraft College. On top of this, the newly elected president for next year, David Atiyeh, is from Stevenson.

Another important function at Schoolcraft is the Student Senate. The president of the Senate for the past semester has been Norm Hajjar. Finally, it should be noted that the editor last semester of the Schoolcraft paper was Susan Schramm. Both Norm and Susan are members of Phi Theta Kappa and graduates of Stevenson.

These alumni students are only examples of future generations of students that will graduate from a fine school like Stevenson to move onto higher achievements.

Federal funds pay off here

Editor:

My wife and I have finally seen some good results of federal spending. In Redford Township and Dearborn Heights, there is a federal fund set up to finance a crime prevention bureau which consists of two officers that will come to your home and make suggestions to correct possible ways of avoiding break-ins.

It is well worth your time because these police officers have attended special classes in crime prevention.

ALFRED W. ISMOND, Redford

Nuclear power unclean, unsafe

Editor:

With great concern I read the account of remarks made before Livonia Republicans recently by physicist Wayne Jens of Detroit Edison Co. concerning nuclear power.

As a pro-nuclear industry spokesman, Jens' statements reflect the type of one-sided propaganda which the utility monopoly has been handing Americans for years. Nuclear power has been foisted upon the public as "clean, safe, cheap" energy, but skepticism to that rhetoric has been increasing.

Dr. Jens argues that nuclear power results in little radioactive releases to the environment and that the chances of accident are slight.

However, the danger of nuclear power lies not in an atomic explosion, as most uninformed people fear, but in the more subtle accumulation of radiation which "leaks" from various aspects of the nuclear process. Consider:

•The Atomic Energy Commission (AEC), the federal agency responsible for not only promoting nuclear power but regulating its usage, has officially stated that exposure to 170 milli-rems of radiation is permissible and safe.

•Dr. K.Z. Morgan, chairman of the department of genetics, Stanford Medical School, has stated that exposure to the entire population of the 170 m-rem level would result in up to 81,000 extra genetics deaths and 16,000 extra cancer deaths per year.

Pro-nuclear apologists are quick to argue that the 170 m-rem figure will not be reached. Unfortunately, if the country becomes blanketed with new nuclear plants, which require increased supporting operations as well, the danger of radiation leaks increases accordingly. Then, too, the effects of radiation are cumulative, and we will pay the corresponding price in human suffering.

Fortunately, we are not without alternatives in these energy-short times. Sen. Mike Gravel (D-Alaska), argues that if a substantial fraction of the government subsidy which goes each year to develop nuclear power would be channeled into research and development of geothermal, solar, wind and trash power, as well as intensifying efforts in developing oil producing tar sands and shales, truly safe energy sources could be found.

Avoid turtle dove entrapment to get lover, advises Gundella

Dear Gundella:

How can I get a turtle's tongue or a dove's tongue? Someone told me that if you put a turtle's tongue or a dove's tongue in your mouth and kiss your lover, he would love and marry you. Please give me more information.

JOAN W.

Dear Joan:

This ancient spell calls for the tongue of a turtle dove, a kind of bird. I would not recommend it. What man is going to kiss you again if, the first time he tries it, he finds you have a stinking tongue (usually sold preserved in formaldehyde) of a dead bird in your mouth? Better to use a Certs and work the hair-of-the-head spell published April 2.

Dear Gundella: I have some dirty socks from the man I love. My sister said you could tell me what to do with them to get him to love me.

Please, Gundella, tell me what a witch would do with her sweetheart's soiled socks.

MARGARET

Dear Margaret: I can't speak for other witches, but this witch would wash them.

Blessed be!

Dear Gundella:

I am a woman 72 years old, and I am not interested in romance or marriage at this time. There is a very nice gentleman, also 72, whom I do not want to hurt, but he will not stop pestering me. Can you send me a spell to discourage him?

ANN G.

Dear Ann:

I get many letters from women who would love to have your trouble, but I know that an unwanted suitor can be a real problem.

Those who are planning to cast love spells should give this some thought and be sure they really want the man they are after.

Believe me, it's much easier to get a man that it is to get rid of one. You might like to try the rubber egg spell.

RUBBER EGG SPELL

Soak a raw egg from a black hen in vinegar for 36 hours, then remove it from the vinegar. Wash it in water from a mountain spring. The shell will rub off, leaving a brown, rubber-like egg.

Name this egg with the name of the person you wish to discourage, place it in a small jar of water and carry it with you for three days.

Then remove it from the water and say, "Billy (or whatever the name of the person is), I am tired of having you with me."

Hold the egg two inches from the table top and drop it lightly. It will bounce. Say "Don't bounce back."

Roll it across the floor, saying, "Don't roll with the punches. I have tired of you."

Go to the door and throw this egg out as far from you as you can, making sure it doesn't bounce back on your property. He will bother you no more.

Dear Gundella:

Do you practice white or black magic?

JOHN L.

Dear John:

There is no such thing as "black" or "white" magic. Magic is a tool; it is neither black nor white. Neither is it good nor bad, which I assume is what you really mean.

Magic is like a knife: In the hands of a surgeon, a knife can be used to save a life, but in the hands of a criminal that knife may be used to take a life.

You would not hold the knife up and say, "This is a moral knife" or "This is an immoral knife." A tool is a tool. It is the person who uses it that is moral or immoral.

You may write to Gundella at Box 434, Garden City, Mi. 48135. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mercy summer classes to begin

Registration will begin the week of May 5 for evening and day courses toward a baccalaureate degree in eight majors during the Mercy College of Detroit summer session.

The registrar's office will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily and from 6-8 p.m. Friday, May 9.

Evening courses will be offered in business, English, psychology, history, political science, sociology, social sciences and law enforcement and protection. There will be 133 credit courses including 29 new ones.

Mercy College, 8200 W. Outer Drive, conducts three summer sessions — the five-week and 11-week sessions begin May 12 and the second five-week session begins June 23.

3 receive college Merit scholarships

Two Livonia and one Westland resident were among 1,424 nationwide winners of college-sponsored four-year Merit Scholarships.

They are Cindy J. Barrie of 29525 Robert Drive and David M. Katz of 16008 Oak Drive, both of Livonia, and Kevin P. Boland of 8697 Donna, Westland.

Each award is renewable for up to four years of undergraduate study at the institution financing the scholarship and is not transferrable.

Each winner was selected by officials of the college who also computed the financial need and set the amount of the winner's annual stipend.

Stipends can range from a minimum of $100 to a maximum of $1,500 per year — between $400 and $6,000 for the four years of college. The average total value of a college-sponsored Merit Scholarship awarded in 1975 was about $2,500.

MISS BARRIE, a senior at Livonia Franklin High, received her scholarship from Michigan State University which now has about 500 Merit scholars attending.

She plans on studying pre-veterinary medicine. She received a Michigan Competitive Scholarship and her honors at Franklin include the Concours National de Francais and Certificat de Merite.

KATZ, a senior at Livonia Bentley High, also received an MSU sponsored scholarship where he plans to study computer science.

He was named an outstanding student in chemistry and electronics at Bentley in 1974, was a participant in the National Science Foundation summer honors science program, in the top 100 in state math competition, helped initiate independent study computer use, helped run computerized school elections, and was voted "most intelligent" in his class.

BOLAND, a senior at Divine Child High in Dearborn, earned a scholarship from Leigh University in Bethlehem, Pa., where he plans to study business administration.

At Divine Child, he was debate team captain, two-time National Catholic Debate qualifier, two-time state

Workshop explores grant management

A one-day workshop in the Dearborn Inn May 7 to assist governments in managing federal grant funds will be sponsored by the Southeast Council of Governments (SEMCOG).

It will run from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Dearborn Inn which is on Oakwood Boulevard in Dearborn.

The program will also explain to local governments the implementation guidelines involved in receiving grant money under the Housing and Community Development Act (CDA) of 1974.

Fifth running Saturday

Stevenson rated favorite in O&E relays

By TOM SCHRAM
Sports Editor

The cream of the crop of northwest suburban thinclads will be on hand Saturday for the fifth annual Observer & Eccentric Relays to be held at Hilbert Junior High School in Redford Township.

The meet will bring together top athletes from 16 high schools in Livonia, Redford Township, Plymouth, Garden City, Northville, Farmington and Southfield for a crack at meet records.

Four records were broken at the fourth running of the relays last year and all indications point toward a repeat of that performance Saturday.

Field event finals will begin at 4 p.m. and running events are slated to begin at 7 p.m.

Two special exhibition events will also highlight the action as girls track teams, which are gaining a following in their own right, will run two events—the 440 yard relay and the 880 yard relay.

THE O&E RELAYS defending champion, Livonia Churchill, will be on hand to defend its title. No team has ever won more than two outright team titles although Churchill also shared the title with Livonia Stevenson in 1973.

Other past champions include Farmington (1971) and Redford Union (1972).

This year, Livonia Stevenson will go into the meet as the solid favorite. The Spartans highlight several top athletes including top area middle distance runner Steve Brown whose 1:56.9 in the 880 yard run and 4:23.1 in the middle are fastest by far in the area. The Lokar brothers, Paul and John, are also standouts at several events for Stevenson.

The top challenger to the Spartans in the meet figures to be Bishop Borgess. Borgess boasts one of the state's top hurdlers in junior Gary Hicks and the best all around depth of any team.

Other teams with outside shots at the team title include Livonia Churchill and Redford Union.

These top athletes will include Spartan and Mansfield Relay champion shot-putter Bill Reardon of Livonia Churchill, speedster Matt Whitehead and field event standout Derryl Koyz of Thurston, distance runners Art Kitz and Brian Sweazey of Garden City East and state-ranked quarter miler Mark DeMerrit from Plymouth Salem.

Hilbert Junior High School is located on Puritan between Five and Six Mile.

Farmington, Plymouth Salem, Bishop Borgess, Thurston, Farmington, Garden City West, Farmington Harrison, Plymouth Canton, Garden City East and Southfield Lathrup.

Schedule of Events:

Field events: (beginning at 4 p.m.)—shot put relay, long jump relay, high jump relay, pole vault relay.

Running events: (beginning at 7 p.m.)—girls 880 relay (exhibition), four mile relay, 880 relay, two mile relay, distance medley relay, girls 440 relay (exhibition), sprint medley relay, shuttle hurdle relay, 440 relay, mile relay.

Canton edges RU as Anders tournament action begins

Plymouth Canton stormed back from a four run deficit to oust previously unbeaten Redford Union 6-5 in extra innings Saturday in preliminary round action in the 11th annual Les Anders baseball tournament.

Matt Wiley hit a clean single to right center field with two out in the bottom of the eighth and Keith Randazzo scored all the way from first base when the RU outfield misplayed the ball for the winning run of the game played at Cass Benton field.

In other action in the Livonia Rotary sponsored tournament on Saturday, Livonia Franklin bounced Farmington 7-1. Garden City West was nipped by Farmington Harrison 3-2. Clarenceville edged Wayne 4-3. Livonia Bentley blanked Livonia Churchill 1-0 and Bishop Borgess beat Plymouth Salem 5-1.

These winners, along with Garden City East and Westland John Glenn which won their preliminary games earlier in the week, advance to the quarterfinal round of the one-game knockout tournament next Saturday.

Wiley almost never got a chance for his extra inning heroics against Redford Union.

Canton trailed all the way and was down 4-0 in the fourth and 5-1 in the fifth.

Andres tournament will be Plymouth Canton.

CLARENCEVILLE — WAYNE

Junior outfielder Jim Hill slapped a base hit with two men out in the seventh inning to score teammate Mark McCammon and give Clarenceville a 4-3 victory over Wayne in the Les Anders tournament Saturday.

McCammon had been hit by a pitch and advanced on Chris Curtis' two out single. Hill went three-for-four for the day. Curtis picked up two hits and an RBI.

Tim Laird picked up the victory for the Trojans and helped his own cause with a two run single in the fourth.

Clarenceville next plays Garden City East in the tournament.

BORGESS — SALEM

Rick Cwiek walked and moved to second on Jim Williamson's single. With two out, Randy Temple hit a slow roller to third and when the throw got by the first baseman, both runs scored.

Harrison, who got six hits in the game, tied the score in the fifth when Craig Valassis walked, took second on Collins single and later scored on a slow bouncer to second base.

Doug Kallgren's double, a wild pitch and sacrifice fly to center scored the winning Harrison run in the top of the seventh.

West, which had men on second base almost every inning, put the first two men on in the seventh, but the man on second was picked off after a missed sacrifice bunt attempt. The batter then struck out and Collins also fanned the last man to record the win.

Bradley allowed six hits, walked four and fanned three while Collins was touched for eight safeties, struck out four and walked five.

Greg Wood got the Panthers started in the top of the third with a bases-loaded two-run single. First baseman George Willard followed with a single to drive in two more.

Chris Martucci countered for Canton in the bottom of the fourth with his fourth home run of the year. Batting second in the inning, Martucci banged a Dan Bushart pitch 320 feet over the left field fence.

But RU got that run right back in the top of the fifth when Canton pitcher Bill Parson walked two and hit another Panther and Bushart followed with an RBI single.

The Chiefs got one back in the bottom of the sixth when Randazzo doubled with two outs to score Mark Perkins who had walked.

REDFORD UNION FAILED to score in its half of the seventh and Canton came to bat two runs down with three outs remaining.

Sam Pink singled for the Chiefs with one out and Martucci advanced him with a two out base hit. Mike Verduce followed and worked the count to 3-2 before popping to the right side. The ball fell out of play, however, just outside of Willard's reach and Verduce had a second life.

This time he responded with a solid double and Pink and Martucci rounded the bases to knot things at 5-5.

That sequence set up Biley's winning basehit.

"In any other park, Verduce's pop-up would have been caught by our first baseman and we would have won the game," said Redford Union coach Bob Atkins of the seventh inning Canton rally.

"But they deserved to win. They are a fine ballclub and they came back at us after we were up four runs. I've coached a lot of baseball and I know that in this game it's only a matter of time until you lose," he said.

Canton coach Fred Crissey said that he was displeased with his team's early inning play but that the final outcome suited him just fine.

"In the first few innings we just stood around and watched the other team play," he said.

Canton will play Livonia Franklin on Saturday in a 10:30 a.m. game at Cass Benton.

FRANKLIN — FARMINGTON

Nelson Yanick and Jerry Pollard each came up with two-for-four days and two runs batted in to lead Franklin to a 7-1 victory over Farmington.

Farmington got seven hits in the game but Patriot pitcher Chuck White had his stuff when it counted and held the Falcons to a single fifth inning tally.

White struck out four while walking only two as the Franklin defense played nearly errorless ball behind him.

The big hit of the game for the Patriots was Pollard's two-run double in the fourth after brother Jerry had walked and Tim Hollandsworth had singled.

Farmington's next opponent in the Bishop Borgess scored all its runs in the first two innings and went on to take a 5-1 victory over Plymouth Salem Saturday.

The Rocks continued their poor offensive showing as Dale Paige and Mark Gergel combined for the Spartans to limit Salem to three hits. Gergel picked up the win in relief after Paige lost his control in the third.

Borgess got to Plymouth starter and loser Bill DenHouter early.

With one out, Jim Pearce walked and Greg Heimbuch followed with a single. John Wedeski drove in the first Borgess run with a basehit. Kevin Makie then walked and Bill Shaheen drove in two. Gary Mulka's ensuing hit made it 4-0 and the Rocks never came back.

Batteries: Borgess — Paige, GERGEL and Heimbuch. Salem — B. DENHOUTER, J. DenHouter and Nagel.

BORGESS 410 000 0 - 5-7-1
SALEM 001 000 0 - 1-3-0
CHURCHILL — BENTLEY

Doug Murphy set down defending state Class A baseball champion Livonia Churchill on two hits Saturday and Livonia Bentley went on to take an extra inning 1-0 victory to advance in the Les Anders tournament.

Bentley scored the game's only run in the eighth inning. With one out, Tim Oakley, pinch hitting for winning Bulldog pitcher Doug Murphy, walked. Dan Dinsmore followed with a double to right to put runners on second and third.

Junior catcher Russ Hodges then hit a shot to left-scoring Oakley.

Murphy struck out two and walked only one. Dan Bobowski pitched a strong game for the Chargers, recording five strike outs and a one walk while taking the loss.

Batteries: Bentley — MURPHY and Hodges. Churchill — BOBOWSKI and Nelson.

BENTLEY 000 000 01 - 1-5-1
CHURCHILL 000 000 00 - 0-2-0

G.C. WEST — HARRISON

Garden City West banged out eight hits but left 14 runners stranded in losing, 3-2, Saturday to Farmington Harrison in an opening round game of the Les Anders Tournament.

West's Terry Bradley and Harrison's Kelly Collins hooked up in a tight pitcher's duel going into the scoreless fourth inning. Bradley, who hadn't given up a hit so far, hit Paul Rogind to open the inning. Rogind moved to second and came home on Ed Zarb's single to right with two out.

West rebounded with two unearned runs in the bottom of the fourth when

West diamondmen split Tri-River pair

Garden City West's Tigers know when to win a ball game. Bob Dropp's crew has a 4-4 season record, but three of the wins have come in Tri-River League play to give West a 3-1 mark.

Melvindale leads with 4-0, followed by West, Taylor Kennedy and Southgate with 3-1 records.

West split a pair of league games, edging Crestwood, 3-2, on Friday and losing to Kennedy, 3-1, Tuesday.

Southpaw Tom Poole upped his record to 2-1 as he scattered eight hits, including several infield rollers, and fanned six. Pacing the Tigers' seven-hit attack were Rick Owiek and Jeff Summers with two hits apiece.

Crestwood, led by Mark Wiertella and Bob Armstrong with two singles each, led 1-0 after four innings. But Summers singled and later scored on Mark Sutherland's single to tie the score. Terry Bradley was hit by a pitch to open the sixth and scored in front of three walks.

West scored the winning run in the top of the seventh when Matt Shinsky singled, was sacrificed to second by Owiek and rode home on Bradley's double over the right fielder's head.

Kennedy's all-league pitching ace, Jim Lincoln, set the Tigers down on five scattered hits and fanned seven in beating West, 3-1. Mark Sutherland gave up eight hits and walked none to even his record at 2-2. Sutherland drove in the only West run in the last inning, scoring Jim Williamson with a two-out double.

G. C. EAST — FRANKLIN Sparkling defensive play marked East's 1-0 victory over Franklin in Northwest Suburban League play. Bob Hudson handcuffed the Pats with three hits for the win while Mark Waterstradt, Franklin's hurler, permitted only one run and five hits.

East scored in the sixth when Gary Hudson helped his brother out with a single. Jeff Edgar ran for him, took third on Tod Kleinbrook's double and came home on Wally Krol's timely single. Nelson Yanick, Patriot left fielder, fired a perfect throw to cut down Kleinbrook at the plate.

You don't expect a sportscar with a worldwide reputation for performance to be economical. But it's true. The mid-engine Porsche 914 2.0 gets an incredible 30 miles* to the gallon, uses regular gas, and gets enough mileage from one tankful to take you over 490 miles. So, on top of unique Porsche handling, superb engineering, and roomy comfort, you can add economy. The Porsche 914 2.0. It will always be more than you expect.

READERS' FORUM

New airport facility isn't needed

Editor:

Residents of Plymouth and Northville townships should be concerned about the airport proposal advanced recently by the Bureau of Aeronautics of the State Highway Department. I urge you to attend a meeting on Thursday, May 1, at the Plymouth City Hall, to give the public an opportunity to express your opinions about the merits of the construction of a new airport in the western portion of Wayne County.

The proposed site includes land in the western portions of Northville and Plymouth townships.

In an evaluation of the arguments, in this case, we must question the need for this facility. When the freeway is completed, it will be approximately 30 minutes from either the Pontiac or Willow Run Airports, which are both utilized under capacity.

Energy consumption by additional airplanes results in an extra strain upon our supply of fuel, while at the same time our government is urging citizens to consume less energy.

Noise and air pollution could cause considerable discomfort for the residents of this area and could adversely affect our environment. Another factor is that a major airport could present major dangers to the safety of homeowners. How many parents desire airplanes buzzing around near our rooftops?

One argument in favor of a new airport is that it might provide transportation for the business and commercial interests in western Wayne County. However, what about the majority of citizens who might be worried about the dangers, noise, and air pollution?

Probably the most persuasive argument against this proposal is the fact that several homes would be condemned, and taken by the state, in order to construct this airport. It would mean a minimum of a ½ by 1 mile area to accommodate hangars and office buildings for a 5,500-foot runway construction.

Young man's help praised

Editor:

This is to publicly thank a young gentleman for coming to our aid when we had car trouble.

With all the negative publicity devoted to our young adults, the following account is testimony that all is not lost and our society is in good hands.

One evening last week I was driving with a friend on Northville Road. When I reached Six Mile Road my car was steaming. I pulled onto the shoulder, my friend raised the hood, and we found a ruptured water hose.

There was no service station in the immediate vicinity. Traffic flowed in all directions. We stood there with trouble lights blinking for about 15 or 20 minutes, but nobody stopped to offer assistance.

Then a car pulled up and a young man came over and offered to help. He was on his way to Plymouth, while we were headed for Novi. He brought out his tool kit and offered to remove the damaged water hose, take it to the nearest service station, get a new one, and install it.

In a very short time he returned and installed a new water hose. He was very expert and efficient, and we were on our way.

Thanks a million, Greg Leslie! I am sure there are many more like you.

Bicentennial ideas needed

Editor:

"What is being done in Plymouth to celebrate the bicentennial?" "When does the 'official' celebration begin?"

These kind of questions are being asked from time to time at local gatherings of various sorts, and we are glad that you asked.

At the present time, the Bicentennial Commission is as busy as can be planning a birthday party. As with most birthday parties, someone has to make the necessary arrangements, then the birthday is commemorated with appropriate festivities—and afterwards someone has to do the dishes.

Not only can the bicentennial celebration be lots of fun, but it can also provide an opportunity for each of us to contribute our very special gift, and together we might accomplish some of the things that we have hoped would happen in the community, if you would like to get in on the planning stage of the celebration, come and bring your thoughts and ideas to a meeting that has been scheduled for May 1, at 7:30 p.m. in the multi-purpose room of West Middle School, 44401 W. Ann Arbor Trail.

Several weeks ago, the commission mailed letters to many civic organizations inviting representatives to this meeting. If we overlooked your organization, our apologies. Everyone is invited. Come and share your ideas.

By W.W. EDGAR

Now that we are coming to the close of the highly competitive league season in bowling, signs are springing up in all areas that forecast a summer of fun in the tenpin centers.

Since the introduction of air conditioning that permits the centers to remain open, any number of unusual tournaments have been designed for fun instead of the keen chase for the rich prize lists.

The late Edwardina "Eddie" Coy started it at the Whittier Recreation some years ago when she introduced the '3-6-9' tournament. This was unusual in that the bowler was given a strike in each of these frames. The event proved popular for years.

The Bowling Proprietors added to the fun by staging a Champion of Champions event designed to produce the city's league champion. This event was limited to the top three teams in each league.

It wasn't long until someone then introduced the 'Cellar Dwellers' tournament, limited to the bottom four teams in the league standings.

Now along comes word that Merri-Bowl will sponsor a "Best ball" doubles. In this event the best frame of each bowler is used for the official score.

WITH THESE FUN EVENTS will be such things as a 'no tap' tournament, in which you get a strike if you get only nine pins on your first ball, and Scotch Doubles when the two members of the team bowl only alternate frames, and, in some cases, alternate turns in the same frame, much after the fashion of the Scotch Doubles in golf.

Meanwhile, the biggest major event of the summer will be the Ladies Singles Classic at Eastland Bowl where more than 1,000 more women are expected to enter.

So, from all sides, it looks like a summer of fun on the lanes.

DEBBIE EDNEY, of Livonia, was the only bowler in the northwest suburban area to land among the top prize winners in the bowlers annual charity tournament that ended last weekend at Saginaw.

She finished in 11th place with a handicap count of 661, while Salvatore Pizzour, of Detroit, won the top prize with 690.

The annual event drew an entry of 79,000 bowlers and netted $50,000 for charity.

THE JUNIORS CONTINUE to cut a wide swath through the bowling ranks and the latest to gain attention is Mike Madaras who fashioned a 668 series at Wonderland Lanes.

He opened with a 227 and followed with a 277 before stumbling to a 164 finish. At that, his total was the best score of the season for the juniors at Wonderland.

IT'S GETTING TO BE a habit at Wonderland Lanes that each week two more members are admitted to the 700 club.

This week Steve Miller gained entry by linking games of 233, 241 and 237 for a 711. A few lanes away Bob Boss also qualified with games of 190, 279 and 235 for 704.

The "Thirsty Ducks" turned in the best team performance with counts of 1063, 1157 and 1023 for a 3233 series.

THE TEAMS from Livonia Lanes and Woodland Lanes shared honors in the final roll-offs of the Parks and Recreation League at Clover Lanes.

In the Teen division the Livonia team of Cindy Sarko, Brad Felici, Dawn Muller, John Wickens and Glen Gariepy paced the field.

In the Prep division Ted Williamson, Brian Collins, Ray Michuta, Bill Cameron and Tim Rose, teamed it to give Woodland Lanes the title.

A NEW NAME POPPED up in the Garden Lanes Ladies Classic when Nancy Bartlett registered a 621 to beat out Kay Burton with 613 and Pat Lisowski with 600.

In the Good Hope league Don Winkelman was high with a 657. Behind him came William Rann with 638 and Bill McNeil with 618.

CAROLINE NIEDERKORN waited until the second to last week of the season to register her first victory in the Livonia Ladies Classic.

She posted a three game total of 501 and her 108 pin spot gave her a 609 series.

Delores won the first game, 188-37-

225, while Lois took the second with 211-24-235 and Loretta Moersch landed on top in the third with 187-30-217.

BILLY MULL always will have fond memories of Lanes 15 and 16 at Livonia Lanes.

Bowling with the Redford team in the Traveling League, he put together games of 265, 277 and 212 for 754. It was one of the highest series of the year in the league--and the house.

State chief justice speaks to Madonna's largest class

HAVING JOURNEYED FROM JAPAN to watch her daughter graduate, Mrs. Eiko Furutha adjusts Hitomi's cap before the ceremonies. (Staff photos by Doug Johnson)

"I know that if Justice Thomas M. Kavanagh were here today, he would have asked you to guard your integrity with your very lives," said the chief justice of the Michigan Supreme Court at the 28th commencement of Madonna College.

Filling in as commencement speaker for the recently deceased chief justice, his successor Thomas G. Kavanagh eulogized his friend Sunday before an audience of 188 graduates, their families and friends.

"Justice Kavanagh's concern for law and our system of justice was an encompassing one," said the new chief justice. "His concern was not only with the administration of justice in our court system. He believed that justice must be found in our daily lives."

"He would have told you, 'Blessed are those who hunger and thirst after justice for they shall be satisfied.'"

Hearing these words of tribute was Mrs. Doris Closser of Garden City, daughter of the late justice. She attended the ceremonies as a graduate about to receive a bachelor of science in nursing degree, with honors.

IN THE LARGEST graduation in Madonna's history, 56 students received bachelor degrees in science; 46 in arts and 59 in nursing.

Associate degrees were awarded to 27 students who completed two years of work in the sciences and arts. Certificates of achievement indicating completion of one year of work were given to two students.

Sister Mary Lauriana, dean of the college, presented the candidates for degrees. Sister Mary Danatha, college president, conferred the degrees, aided by the Most Rev. Joseph Imesch, bishop of the Archdiocese of Detroit and pastor of Our Lady of Sorrows Catholic Church in Farmington.

Bishop Imesch also delivered a congratulatory message to the graduates. David Couture, college trustee, was master of ceremonies.

To the strains of music provided by the Oakway Symphony Brass Ensemble under the direction of Francesco di Blasi, graduates, faculty, staff and speakers entered the activities building in a colorful procession.

The black of their academic gowns contrasted with the gold, scarlett, green, purple and blue hoods each wore, the colors indicating the wearer's college and degree.

The graduates carried their gold-edged hoods on their arms, donning them later as they stepped up to receive their degrees.

OF THE WOMEN graduates—60 per cent were—Mrs. Pat Sanford of Westland was greeted by her three children, John, Cecilia and Margaret, after graduating with high honors with a BA in journalism.

A widow, Mrs. Sanford attended four years of college while working part-time. She received the College Service Award, the Apostle of the Word award, the Lumen Award and was elected to Kappa Gamma Pi, honorary scholastic and leadership society for women in Catholic colleges.

Another graduates received a special welcome. Mrs. Eiko Furuta journeyed from Yokohama, Japan to attend her daughter Hitomi's graduation.

Livonia Police Officers' Association president Carl Varner received a BS degree, along with Alan E. Eichman, a retired inspector of the Detroit Police Department, who now directs the Madonna criminal justice curriculum.

Arthur R. Lenaghan, a Livonia Fire Department assistant driver, also received a BS degree.

THE REV. PAUL DESCH, OFM, teacher and superior of religious community at Dun Scotus College, was the featured speaker at the spring convocation held Saturday night in honor of graduates receiving special awards.

Other speakers were class valedictorian Rosalind M. Peters of Wyandotte and salutatorian Shirley E. Meiners of Milford.

The Apostle of the Word Ward for distinguished service in the area of communications went to Mrs. Sanford, Dianne C. Smith of Livonia, and Rita C. Vano of Southfield.

The Lumen award for Christian spirit, scholarship, commitment and loyalty to the school went to Edward Abair, Daniel Bojalad of Detroit, Suzanne Dzierwa of Dearborn Heights, Mrs. Sanford and Ms. Vano.

Among those receiving the College Service Award were Linda Lahti of Livonia, Mrs. Sanford and Ms. Vano.

Those named to "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges" were Patricia Cybulski, Sister M. Victoria Indyk of Livonia, Eichman, Ms. Vano and Mrs. Sanford.

Ms. Lahti and Sharon Nowak of Detroit shared the Crisco Award presented to outstanding home economics graduates.

Justice speaks to grads

Belleville Lake boat patrols to be increased

An expected increase in state financial aid has ensured adequate boat safety patrols on Belleville Lake this summer, announces Wayne County Commissioner Royce E. Smith (D-Belleville) whose district includes Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton Township.

The Department of Natural Resources (DNR) will recommend the increase to the Natural Resources Commission in May, says Smith.

Smith met recently with Robert W. Dyke, chief of the DNR Marine and Recreational Vehicle Section, Sen. William Faust (D-Westland), whose district includes Garden City and Canton Township, and Sen. Carl D. Pursell (R-Plymouth) whose district includes Redford and Plymouth townships and the cities of Plymouth and Livonia.

It is expected the Sheriff's Marine Patrol will be funded for $101,355.

"The increase will enable us to restore two positions which we were forced to eliminate in this season's budget," says Sheriff William Lucas. "This will put us back to last year's level of five boats and nine officers."

Lucas said two boats will operate on Belleville Lake this season as was the case last year. He said a reduction was under consideration if the additional funds weren't obtained.

The sheriff added it also would have been necessary to reduce coverage on the Detroit River and Wayne County portions of Lake Erie and Lake St. Clair.

A RETIRED INSPECTOR of the Detroit Police Department, Alan Eichman, congratulates Livonia fireman Arthur R. Lenaghan and Livonia Police Officers' Association President, Carl Varner on graduation.

SC honors high school grad seniors

Schoolcraft College students will be visiting area high schools in the college district to invite graduating seniors to the annual spaghetti dinner in their honor.

Invitations have gone out for Monday, May 5, to Livonia Stevenson and Northville high school seniors. On May 6, the guests will be from Livonia Bentley, Garden City East, Ladywood and Clarenceville.

Wednesday, May 7, has been reserved for Livonia Churchill and Livonia Franklin, with May 8 for Plymouth Salem, Plymouth Canton and Garden City West. On the final night, May 9, the college will host all other students who were unable to attend the other dinners and new students who will be attending Schoolcraft this spring.

Dinner tickets, on a first-come-basis, will be available at the counseling offices in each school this week.

"The dinners are in recognition of the graduating seniors. Whether these seniors are planning to come here, or some place else, or not planning to attend college at all, they will enjoy a visit to our campus as much as we will enjoy having them," said Edward V. McNally, vice-president for student affairs.

Schoolcraft students visiting the schools include: Mary Ziegler, Art Pepin, May Morley and Larry Nelson of Livonia; Julie Butler of Plymouth; Chris Sweany of Northville; and Tim O'Neill of Garden City.

Staff and students involved in planning the dinners include: Patrick M. Newman, counselor in charge of student activities; Midge Ellis, programming assistant for student activities; Shirley Lepler of Detroit and Susan Mikkelsen, Kevin Anderson and Roseann Turk of Livonia.

Following dinner in the Waterman Campus Center, entertainment will be provided by the Schoolcraft Jazz Ensemble, guest vocalist Ursula Walker and comedian ventriloquist Bill Hart.

CALCULATING CALVIN'S CORNER.

World Travel is flying high. Hi, ya. It's your super-snooper friend, Calculating Calvin, with more facts and figures about Triple-A. This week's topic: World Travel. Did you know Triple-A's World Travel Department is the number one world travel organization in Michigan? Last year it sent 266,000 people scampering happily all over the globe. And 75,428 people bought their airline tickets through their nearby Triple-A office.

Free travelers checks. Triple-A started selling "no service charge" travelers checks to its members June 1. By the end of 1974, total membership savings added up to a whopping $80,000. But get this: In 1975, expected membership savings should amount to (oh, wow!) over $200 thousand!

Latest on the world front. Interesting. World Travel reports European travel down 30% last year. Due probably to spiraling inflation on that continent. Hawaiian tours, however, up a dramatic 45%—Caribbean island trips and cruises up 20%. More expensive travel packages have given way to lower price charter and group tours. (Did you know Triple-A World Travel is the only travel agency in Michigan that can arrange an international driver's license for you?)

Up and coming. A weekend trip by train to Toronto arranged by Triple-A World Travel. Comradeship and carousing there and back. Also includes lodging for three nights all from only $89. Choo-choos leave every week. All aboard! Call your Triple-A office for details.

Super-snooper snoops out the best. I think the best thing about Triple-A's World Travel Department is a real, honest-to-goodness, warm-hearted concern for helping people—the kind of concern you're simply not going to be able to find someplace else. They're really top professionals who sure know how to save you money and grief on such things as foreign currency exchange.

That's all for now, folks.
Calculating Calvin, signing off.
Hope you'll join us soon.

Fatima letter lecture topic

Portions of the Fatima letter, a secret document for nearly half a century, will be read during a free lecture scheduled Saturday, May 10 at 8 p.m. in J Building on the Orchard Ridge campus of Oakland Community College.

The speaker will be the Rev. Denis Philomena, director of the Fatima Crusade.

The letter, according to Catholic church authorities, was written by a young portugese girl in 1917 after she and two younger children were visited by the Virgin Mary three times in their village of Fatima.

According to the tradition, the girl was instructed to write certain revelations and send her letter to the Pope. The letter remained unopened until 1960, and there was no word on its contents until portions were published by a German newspaper in 1963.

That account, according to Don Craney of Phenix, regional director of the crusade, said the letter predicted "strife and disorder in the world and in the Catholic Church in the second half of this century."

Judaism league meets

The Michigan Branch of the Women's League for Conservative Judaism will hold its spring conference Tuesday and Wednesday, May 13 and 14 in Ahavas Israel Synagogue in Grand Rapids.

The theme is "A New Heart and a New Spirit," and Mrs. Irving Rogoff of Wantagh, N.Y., will be the main speaker. Mrs. Seymour Ungar of Southfield is chairman.

St. Andrew sale

ORGANIZATIONS TO AID INDIANS in North America are among the groups to will benefit from sales in the 12th annual antique show and sale in St. Andrew Episcopal Church of Livonia May 2 and 3, so Indian-made items get special attention from chairmen Chris Baker (left) and Jean Dow. The sale, featuring a plant shop, a tea room and a patchwork shop as well as the wares of exhibitors from four states, will be open from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday and from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday. St. Andrew is located at 16360 Hubbard. (Staff photo by Bob Woodring)

CHURCH BULETIN

MEMORIAL CHURCH OF CHRIST, 35475 Five Mile, Livonia, will welcome Leonard G. Wymore, director of the North American Christian Convention, to its pulpit Sunday, May 4, at 10:45 a.m.

Wymore will talk about the book of Acts, drawing parallels between the events of that time and those scheduled July 8 to 11 when the 36th annual North American Christian Convention is held at Cobo Hall. That gathering, with the theme "Thy Kingdom Come," will draw Christians from all over the country.

Before assuming his present post, Wymore was pastor to churches in Kansas and Indiana.

LEONARD G. WYMORE
(Memorial speaker)

ST. MICHAEL CATHOLIC CHURCH AND ROSEDALE GARDENS PRESBYTERIAN, two of the oldest churches in Livonia, will join in celebrating a Festival of Handbells and Banners and Choirs, beginning at 4 p.m. Sunday, May 4.

Members of both congregations will gather at St. Michael, located at Hubbard and Plymouth Road, and join in a march to the Presbyterian church, at Hubbard and West Chicago.

The church's 5 p.m. service will feature the Rev. Roy Oshiro and his family, missionaries from Okinawa, showing slides and performing special music.

Also performing will be a harp and vocal ensemble, composed of three harps and 35 girls and directed by Velma Froude.

A reception will follow the concert.

WARD UNITED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, 17000 Farmington Road, Livonia, will present its teen drama group, the Ward Players, in a play titled "Are You Ready?" Sunday, May 4 at 7 p.m.

The drama was written by the players and their director, Mrs. Carolyn Papierski. The cast includes Don Andres, Jim Roberts, Shirley Lee, Don Range, Char Hardy, Laura Sinclair, Bill Akey and Kevin Parkyn, all Ward members.

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH, 43065 Joy, Plymouth, will present the radio staff of Children's Bible Hour, broadcast regularly in Grand Rapids, in a special program Sunday, May 4 at 6 p.m.

RICE MEMORIAL UNITED METHODIST CHURCH, 20601 Beech Daly, Redford Township, will host a special "Neighborhood Watch" program by the Redford Township police department in its fellowship hall Wednesday, May 7 at 8 p.m.

The program is designed to help residents protect their homes by learning security measures to take against break-ins and the kind of information police need. The meeting is open to all in the area.

ADF leaders

JOSEPH ARBINI (left) of St. Theodore Catholic Church in Westland and the Rev. Raymond Skoney of St. Anthony Catholic Church, Belleville, have been named coordinators for the 1975 Archdiocesan Development Fund (ADF) appeal beginning May 4. Funds raised through the appeals begun in 1943 are used for a variety of programs, and this year's special emphasis will be spiritual growth and enrichment of young people.

St. Agatha setting for Bouckaert vows

Barbara M. Michelini, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter A. Michelini of Inkster Road, Redford Township, exchanged nuptial vows with Craig T. Bouckaert in a recent ceremony in St. Agatha Catholic Church, Redford Township.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Bouckaert of Walled Lake. Officiating for the afternoon ceremony was the Rev. Joseph Romano. The bridal couple wrote their own wedding mass, lighting candles from those carried to the altar by their parents. Lighting of a nuptial candle also was part of the ceremony.

The bride wore a lace and taffeta gown with square neckline and long sleeves and an elbow-length veil that fell from a lace headpiece. She carried a cascade of white and turquoise carnations and baby's breath.

Angeline Michelini, the bride's sister, was maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Marilyn Chardonnet and Toni Tourre of Muskegon and Trish Kozloff of Bloomfield Hills.

Their dresses were blue dotted swiss and they carried carnations and baby's breath in colonial bouquets.

Kirk Bouckaert was best man for his brother. The guests were seated by Dan Emeott, Len Wendell and Dave Schoenert, all students at Michigan Tech in Houghton.

The couple greeted 150 guests at a reception in the American Legion Post 271, Redford Township following the ceremony.

They will make their home at Walled Lake. The new Mrs. Bouckaert is a graduate of St. Agatha High School and employed by Kmart Enterprises as a keypuncher. Her husband graduated from Walled Lake Western High School and is a shipping clerk employed by Uniflow Corp.

Area women are honored

Mrs. Wallace Murdoch of Livonia is the first member of Our Lady of Providence League to earn a pin for 5,000 hours of service at Providence Hospital in Southfield.

A pin denoting 1,000 hours of volunteer work went to Mrs. Raymond Alyea of Livonia, and Antonia Georgias of Plymouth earned one for 500 hours.

'The Gazebo' is third comedy slated in season

By SUE ROSIEK

The Wayne-Westland Civic Theater has proved it can produce an acceptable comedy. Now it would be interesting if it would try some other type of theater for a change of pace.

The group's recent production was a mystery-comedy, "The Gazebo" written by Myra and Alec Coppel, and directed by Carolyn Kaump. It was entertaining and showed signs of hard work, both on stage and behind the scenes.

The cast included Bob Weibel as Elliot Nash, a television murder-mystery writer, planning the "perfect crime" in order to get rid of a blackmailer, who is supposedly going to smear his wife's good name.

WEIBEL, a community theater veteran, does a good job as the bumbling, comical writer. Jean Garringer portrayed his wife, Nell an actress. Mrs. Garringer seemed comfortable as an actress playing an actress.

Mrs. Garringer earned a degree in drama at UCLA, and has been in several WWCT productions, as well as directing them.

Floyd Guernsey, another seasoned actor, played Elliot's friend, neighbor and local district attorney, Harlow Edison. Guernsey has turned in many fine performances in WWCT shows and "Gazebo" is another to his credit.

Others who turned in comical performances included Isobel Barrett as Mrs. Chandler, a real estate agent trying to sell the Nash home, and Bobbie Jo Blank, as Matilda, the Nash's maid.

MRS. BARRETT was a member of the Wayne-Westland theater cast "Prisoner of Second Avenue," which took third place in the Community Theater Association of Michigan one-act festival held recently in Saginaw.

Other cast members with small parts appeared tense, and uneasy. Their one-liners were not as comical as they were probably meant to be.

The Wayne-Westland group deserves praise for making live entertainment available to Westland and surrounding community audiences.

Also for making itself available to new local talent and veterans that have a lot to offer.

The theater's final show of the 1974-75 season will be June 20 and 21 in St. John Episcopal Church.

Area skaters in ice show

The Novi Ice Arena will presents its second annual ice show "Out Of This World" May 10 and 11.

Using outer space as its theme, the show will display skating skills of arena students ranging from preschoolers to adults. The skaters are from Livonia, Farmington, Southfield, Northville and Novi.

Performances will be at 1 and 8 p.m. Saturday and 7 p.m. Sunday. Special group rates of $1.50 are available for groups of 20 or more. Tickets are $1.25 in advance and $2 at the door. For tickets call the Novi Ice Arena, 42250 W. Eleven Mile Road, Novi.

Guest artists highlight Oakway concert

A variety of local music celebrities will highlight the Oakway Symphony Orchestra's second annual cabaret concert, Saturday, May 10 at 6:30 p.m. in the Sheraton Southfield Hotel (formerly the Shiawassee), 17017 W. Nine Mile.

Performing with the orchestra will be Rosemary Jackson, soprano soloist, "Fat Bob" Taylor, the Singing Plumber, and Ernest A. Jones, guest conductor.

Francesco Di Blasi, conductor of the Oakway, will direct the musicians in a pops concert. Also Taylor will narrate "Peter and the Commissar" written and composed by Allan Sherman and based on Prokofiev's "Peter and the Wolf."

TAYLOR, who lives in Ann Arbor, has appeared on a number of local television and radio program as well as guest appearances on nationally televised programs. He started singing while in the military. Afterwards he began a stint of nightclub appearances with the D'Arcy Carte Opera Company for a short time. But singing jobs were hard to come by so he joined his father-in-law's plumbing firm.

Taylor auditioned and was offered a scholarship with the Metropolitan Opera in New York. He turned the scholarship down, because with a family he was unable to make ends meet on the Met's stipend.

MISS JACKSON has a strong, true, lyric soprano voice and has a distinguished list of musical triumphs to her credit.

She has performed with opera theaters, summer open-air theaters, oratorio roles, and as a guest soloist throughout the Midwest and Michigan.

In New York, Miss Jackson was a finalist in the Metropolitan Opera and the American Opera auditions. She also has made numerous television and radio appearances. She is presently on the voice faculty at Schoolcraft College.

In her Oakway performance Miss Jackson will sing "Jewel Song" from Faust by Gounod and several other selections.

The orchestra will combine its talents with Miss Jackson and Taylor singing selections from Rodgers and Hammerstein's "South Pacific" and Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess."

JONES, chairman of the board of D'Arcy, Mac Manus and Masius, Inc., a major world-wide advertising organization, will be guest conductor.

While a student at the University of Michigan, Jones played first trumpet in the band and in dance groups. He continued music interest brought him recognition as a conductor.

He has led the University of Michigan Band in University Stadium, the University Symphony Band in Carnegie Hall, and in the Royal College of Music in London.

Tickets are $15 per person and available at Hudson's and Grinnell's. Persons reserving a table for eight before May 10 will receive two bottles of champagne compliments of the Oakway Symphony Society.

Madonna offers children's play

The Southfield Repertory Theater will present a new version of "Hansel and Gretel" by Moses Goldbery on Saturday, May 10 at 1 and 3 p.m. in the Madonna College Activities Center, 36600 Schoolcraft, Livonia.

The cast is headed by George Kapetan from Wayne, as Hansel. Kapetan has acted professionally with the Theater Company of Ann Arbor and has appeared in productions at Eastern Michigan University. Nancy Keel, as Gretel, has performed in local coffee houses and at Mercy College. She lives in northwest Detroit.

Other cast members also from Detroit are Don Calamia as the Witch and Nick Kober as Kiko. Cathy Cylkowski of Southfield will play the mother and Tony Vaillancourt of Howell will portray the father.

Direction is by Ralph Valatka with Mark Choinski as scenic and lighting designer and Kathy Thompson as costume designer.

The Southfield Repertory Theater's children's season is sponsored this year by the City of Southfield Parks and Recreation Department.

Tickets at $1 are available in advance in the Madonna College bookstore. For ticket information call the theater office, 20151 Derby, Detroit, 48203.

Antiques lecture series closes May 9

Dr. Donald A. Shelley, president of Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum, is the final speaker in the 23rd annual Henry Ford Museum Antiques Lecture Series. His illustrated lecture "The Furniture Collection: A Survey," will be at 8:30 p.m. Friday, May 9 in the Museum Theater.

Dr. Shelley's presentation is the last in the current series of seven talks centering on the theme "American Collection in Greenfield Village." These lectures by museum staff members are designed to examine, in depth, specialized areas of the world-renowned collections displayed here.

Dr. Shelley's lecture will focus on outstanding examples of American furniture from the 17th century William and Mary period through the federal and succeeding 19th century styles. He also will discuss furniture construction, its decoration, upholstery, function and period character, highlighting many of the key masterpieces in the collection.

Dr. Shelley has served as president of the village and museum since 1968. He also is a member of the board of trustees of the Edison Institute which administers the indoor-outdoor museum complex. He joined the village and museum staff in 1952 as curator of fine arts.

A graduate of Pennsylvania State College, he received his masters degree in art from Harvard University and his PhD in American art from New York University. He has lectured widely on American painting, American orative arts and Pennsylvania German arts and crafts in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the National Gallery of Art in Washington, the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston and at the Colonial Williamsburg Antiques Forum.

Tickets for the May 9 lecture are $2 each and will be available in the Museum Theater box office the night of the talk. The Henry Ford Museum Decorative Arts Galleries will be open so that those attending may tour them before the lecture begins. Refreshments will be served.

Local dancer to perform

Ann Marie Piana, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Piana of Livonia, will dance in the Marjorie Hassard School of Ballet spring recital in McAuley Auditorium on the Mercy College campus, Sunday, May 4.

Ann is a grade 4 cecchetti student at the Hassard School and has studied ballet since she was four. She also is a member of the Detroit City Ballet Apprentice Company.

A Happy Meeting Place

Spend a spring holiday in a different world.

A world where our American heritage comes alive through the homes, shops and stores of long ago. Also see memory-provoking museum exhibits.

Edison's original Menlo Park Laboratory

Preserved to the smallest details, this historic structure with the other buildings in the complex, is the highlight for many Village visitors.

Homes of famous Americans

Noah Webster, Stephen Foster, Wright Birthplace, Henry Ford. Plus charming homes of other great Americans along the nostalgic lanes.

Ride into the Past

Through the old covered bridge on a carriage, down quiet streets in a Model T. Or take a fascinating ride to Suwanee Park and around the Village behind a century-old steam engine.

Craftsmen, too

Demonstrations of old-time crafts, ranging from simple homemaking arts to trade skills, many dating back to Colonial times.

Abe Lincoln's Courthouse

The Courthouse from Logan County, Illinois, where this great President honed his concepts of social conscience. Now facing the Village Green.

Colonial Agriculture

Beginning April 11, through June 2, a special Museum exhibit will tell the story of how the earliest Americans tilled the soil to put food on their tables, clothes on their backs.

A Variety of Shops

Fine quality souvenirs, enchanting books, Henry Ford Museum reproductions. In some you can buy handmade objects of our craftsmen.

The Wright Cycle Shop

Here the famous Wright Brothers built the struts, spars, and parts for the famous Kitty Hawk flight.

Airplanes

The original planes which made famous "firsts" in aviation, and recorded global records.

The Bicentennial Is Now

And the history of our nation is in the Museum and the Village. Your family will come away with a far greater appreciation of America's 200th birthday observance.

The "Inn" Place in Farmington

MOT, symphony delight area audience

By SUE ROSIEK

The Plymouth Symphony Society and the Plymouth Community Arts Council deserve a pat on the back for their joint presentation of the Michigan Opera Theater in "The Barber of Seville."

Arts group plans show

Applications are now being accepted for a spring art exhibition May 18-31 in the Livonia City Hall, Five Mile and Farmington Roads. The exhibit-sale is sponsored by the Livonia Arts Commission.

Categories will include oil, acrylic, watercolor, mixed media and drawing. Deadline for entry applications is May 8. Applications are available in the Livonia Arts Commission office, Pierson Center, 32625 Seven Mile, east of Farmington Road. Entry fee is $2. Artists are limited to two entries.

The exhibition is open to anyone who lives, works or attends school in Livonia.

A reception will be held Sunday, May 18 from 2 to 4 p.m. in city hall. Art works will be judged by Lorraine Chambers McCarty of Royal Oak. Ribbons will be awarded to first, second and third place winners and honorable mentions in each category.

In other arts activities the Livonia commission will hold an all-city arts coordinating meeting Thursday, May 15 at 8 p.m. in Pierson Center.

"The purpose of the new association is to implement and initiate arts activities throughout Livonia," says Wynne Garlow, chairman of the arts commission.

The 12-member board will include representatives from eight of the organized clubs in the city. There are four openings for representatives from independent artists in the area.

"Many artists in Livonia whether drama, dance or painting are not members of an organized committee but should have some voice," adds Ms. Garlow.

Arts groups represented include Palette Guild, Livonia Artists Club, Madonna College, Schoolcraft Community College, Livonia Fine Arts Council, Senior Citizens, Livonia Family Y, and Livonia Parks and Recreation.

All interested persons are welcome to attend the May 15 session, in which a name will be selected for the new group.

The Plymouth Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Wayne Dunlap, provided excellent accompaniment, and the MOT cast was delightful. It was altogether an entertaining evening of opera, and a fine introduction to the art form.

If it is any comfort to the two sponsoring groups the show was a cultural success, if not a financial one.

The stage setting was simple but effective and it's difficult to select any one outstanding singer because they all performed well in their individual roles.

THE CHORUS, directed by William Grimmer, comprised of male members of the Plymouth community also was enjoyable.

Saturday's performance of "Barber" culminated a week-long series of workshops and demonstrations in Plymouth Schools. The entire concept of an opera touring company educating both school children and the adult members of the community is aesthetically pleasing, and hopefully will be repeated in this area soon.

The MOT, besides performing four operas in the 1974-75 season, also toured eight cities conducting opera sessions in schools then closing with a full-fledged show.

The MOT production had a few other pluses. It was in English and could be easily understood. It was a comedy and the music was light and lively.

THE 65 MEMBERS of the symphony showed weeks of preparation does pay off. The music was for the most part flawless. Dunlap trimmed his usual 90-member group because such a large orchestra isn't necessary for in the opera. Also, not to dominate the singing parts. His strategy worked, except in a few instances, in which the singers were muffled by the orchestra tones.

Rossini's opera is an "all's well that ends well" type of story and so it is with the MOT and the Plymouth symphony which delivered a first rate show.

SC presents Erick Hawkins Dancers

Schoolcraft College, in cooperation with the Michigan Council for the Arts, will present the Erick Hawkins Dance Company at 8 p.m. May 8 and 9 in Plymouth Salem High School Auditorium, 46181 Joy Road, west of Canton Center Road.

The company will perform "Black Lake," "Greek Dreams," and "Early Floating."

Hawkins, who is concerned with subjects of nature like snow, sky, butterflies, and vegetables, creates dances of varied but clear moods with straight forward simplicity. His dancers are trained to use natural movement, not strained, and they always move in his "free flow" technique, not gliding but floating seemingly without effort.

It is the Hawkins theory that "tight muscles don't feel," and his dancers' movements express emotion or a psychological state, never conflict, depicted by a body language view in modern dance.

An example is "Greek Dreams" in which Hawkins enacts the ritual of death and resurrection with the gestural overtones of magic and religion that are associated with the birth of Greek drama. The subject is the artist, as identified with nature.

Tickets at $3.50 are available in the Schoolcraft College bookstore Monday through Thursday from 8:15 a.m. to 7 p.m. and until 3:15 p.m. on Friday. For mail orders, make check of money order payable to Schoolcraft College and mail to the Schoolcraft bookstore, 18600 Haggerty Road, Livonia, 48151. Specify which date is preferred and enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope. A group rate of $2.50 each for groups of 20 or more is available. Phone Midge Ellis in the Student Activities Office for group information.

Local rape centers scuttled in favor of inner-city location

BY SHERRY KAHAN

Rebuffed in her efforts to establish a program to aid rape victims in Wayne County suburbs, Mary Dumas of Livonia still is hoping to obtain funding.

"I am disappointed that the county did not win approval of its plan after we involved all the county agencies in almost a year of studying and planning," said the Wayne County commissioner.

She was referring to a vote taken recently by the Detroit-Wayne County Criminal Justice System Coordinating Council, the group which must pass on a city-county sexual assault program before it can qualify for federal funding.

The council turned its thumbs down on a program prepared for the Wayne County Commission by a Rape Task Force Committee, opting instead for a plan introduced by the city of Detroit.

UNDER THIS PLAN, a center to deal with sexual assault would be established in the city, either in the Downtown Branch YWCA or the Detroit General Hospital. It would be run by members of the Detroit Police Department.

Mrs. Dumas and the task force had backed use of the many crisis centers in the county, a 24-hour rape crisis telephone and the resources of the Wayne County General Hospital.

"THE CRIMINAL justice council took the best parts of our program and then wrote the county out of the program," said an indignant Mrs. Dumas.

She added: "The county program was built around giving assistance and support to the victim. Its purpose was to increase the reporting and successful prosecution of rape. At present only about 10 per cent of rapes are reported.

"We had commitments from county agencies offering space and manpower beyond what the proposal pays for. They would have handled certain functions without any extra cost."

MRS. DUMAS, who formed the rape task force committee a year ago, observed that in 1974 there were 4,079 rapes reported in Detroit, and 1,196 in the out-county area.

"The plan we submitted was designed for county areas where smaller police forces have to cover widespread territories.

"We don't feel the city can tell us how to run an out-county program. What they planned will probably serve the city, but our plan would have served the needs of the out-county area."

"When we could have pushed our plan, the council held meetings at times when the county commissioners were tied up."

A SPOKESMAN for the Detroit-Wayne County Criminal Justice System Coordinating Council explained that limited funds lay behind the council's decision.

"We thought we would concentrate on Detroit," said Mrs. Nancy Hall, criminal justice planner. "We could fund only one plan. If approved, the sexual assault program is scheduled to begin this July. But perhaps by July of 1976 we could have a county program."

The cost of the new program is $110,000.

"Counseling will be offered the rape victim at the time she first notifies the assault center," said Mrs. Hall. "A paid assistant will do this."

"We are interested in having assaults reported so that we can get prosecutions of rapists. Often rapists are repeaters, so if we can apprehend one, it could prevent a number of other rapes."

MRS. DUMAS is similarly interested in bringing rapists to justice through getting the victim to report the attack.

"The plan the council agreed on is entirely under the control of the Detroit Police Department," she said. "We feel that a better relationship could be established with the rape victim if she was not immediately involved with the police department. Our plan made provision for the initial contact to be with someone other than the police."

"The plan drawn up by our Rape Task Force called for access by a rape victim to police, hospital emergency rooms, to a rape crisis telephone and to area crisis centers."

"If the victim didn't wish to report the assault to the police she could call a 24-hour crisis line and talk to specially trained people," she said.

"They would send support people to her wherever she is, in the hospital, her home or the police station."

DR. JUDY PAGANO of Wayne County General Hospital, who was a member of the task force preparing the proposal, had contacted all emergency hospitals in the county.

They had verbally committed their employees to cooperate with the county plan. In addition, social workers at the county hospital had agreed to counsel daytime rape victims, said Mrs. Dumas.

"By providing immediate moral and emotional help to the victim through victim support assistants, specially-trained volunteers from crisis centers or professional follow-up counselors we would help the victim handle the immediate and delayed trauma from this severe violation of her person," she added.

David Frost headlines Northville Town Hall

David Frost, one of the most popular British imports on the U.S. television scene, will lead off the Northville Town Hall's 15th anniversary program for the 1975-76 season.

Frost will speak Thursday, Oct. 9, in the Plymouth-Hilton Inn, new setting for the four-lecture series and the celebrity luncheons to follow each talk.

Other speakers scheduled are Dr. Richard Straith, famed plastic surgeon who heads Straith Memorial Hospital in Southfield, slated to appear Nov. 13; psychologist and writer Sonya K. Friedman, March 11; and Will Rogers Jr., April 8.

All lectures will begin Thursdays at 11 a.m. Tickets cost $12 for the season, and that is the only way they will be sold. They may be ordered by writing to Northville Town Hall, Box 93, Northville, or calling Mrs. William Tucker, ticket chairman, 21147 Chigwidden, Northville.

Celebrity luncheons, to be served at the inn following each talk, will cost $5.25 per person and may be pre-paid for the season at $21 or ordered by the Friday before each lecture. They too may be reserved through the Box 93 address or ordered from the luncheon chairman, Mrs. Frank Schokalkuk of Northville.

ROSEMARY POLARCHIO, new chairman of the Northville Town Hall organization, and Florence Booms, taking over as vice chairman, report good early sales as the series moves its location back to the former Thunderbird Inn.

The inn, located at 14707 Northville Road in Plymouth, hosted the series during the 1973-74 season before it moved to the Madonna College auditorium for a year.

Brochure mailings already have brought in a number of reservations, the leaders reported.

HEADLINER FROST has in a little more than a decade of television exposure become one of the screen's best known figures.

Coming before the American public in the satirical "That Was the Week That Was" during the '60s, he began starring in shows over both BBC in London and NBC in New York, accomplishing this by becoming a trans-Atlantic commuter.

His "David Frost Show," launched in 1969, has won many awards, including two Emmys. It has included interviews with such figures as Golda Meir, Spiro Agnew, Stokeley Carmichael and Jack Benny, and gone into varied subjects like the Attica riots, birth control and military justice.

Frost, now 34, was born in Kent, England, and is the son of a minister.

He starred at soccer, taught school and then went to Cambridge on a scholarship that enabled him to develop his journalistic and dramatic talents.

He is co-author of the best-seller "The English."

DR. STRAITH is the son of Dr. Claire L. Straith, a pioneer in the field of plastic and aesthetic surgery.

He has continued to develop new techniques and procedures and has practiced as a plastic surgeon in this area for over 25 years. He also is well known as a lecturer in that field.

His new 46-bed facility in Southfield has five operating rooms and specializes in plastic, reconstructive and aesthetic surgery.

SONJA FRIEDMAN has become known in this area through frequent television appearances and a column, "Speaking of You," that formerly appeared in the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

Now in private practice in Troy, she has served as speech and hearing therapist in public schools in Des Moines and Pontiac and as school psychologist in the Rochester school district.

Dr. Friedman has a master's degree and a doctorate from Wayne State University and has done post graduate study at the Institute of Reality Therapy in Los Angeles and the University of Chicago.

She has appeared regularly on several television shows including AM-New York and AM Detroit, and has been a guest on the Mike Douglas show and the Lou Gordon show. She is author of "I've Had It, You've Had It, and is collaborating on a book titled "The Divorced Family."

WILL ROGERS JR., who bears a striking resemblance to his famous father, has been during his colorful career a newspaper publisher, foreign correspondent, U.S. congressman, tank commander in Europe during World War II, government administrator in California and Washington, movie actor, lecturer and television host and commentator.

Currently he sells real estate in Beverly Hills, has a ranch in Arizona and maintains an active interest in Indian affairs, lecturing often on that subject. He also is honorary chairman of Arrow, a national organization for Indian welfare and is working on a book on the films of Will Rogers Sr.

Could vending machines sub for kitchens?

By MARGARET MILLER

The vending machine as it stands in the school cafeteria has picked up a bad reputation among nutritionists even as it had gathered friends among the kids.

To the one group it looks like a purveyor of junk food; the other sees it as a dispenser of goodies.

But the bad name isn't necessary, say those who are in the vending machine business. They are bringing in the machines as increased kitchen costs lead administrators to look at new methods.

"The machine itself is not the culprit for bad nutrition," said Philip Toth, vice president of North-American Interstate, a vending machine firm based in Southfield.

"It's the operator who places the junk in it.

"The machine has proved itself as a means of cutting the costs of food distribution in many places."

TOTH'S FIRM, currently negotiating with several schools in this area but not established in any, operates differently from most distributors of food-vending machines.

"We sell, lease or rent the machines themselves to the schools or businesses that use them."

"The actual products are selected by the institution—that way they can control both what goes in and the price to be charged."

Toth said it's even possible to "put a Type A lunch into a vending machine."

His firm, he added, is working with one school district to do just that. Such a lunch would, he pointed out, have to conform to the federal standards regarding its contents in protein and fruit or vegetable.

THIS BUSINESSMAN said his two-year-old firm has worked with many kinds of clients besides schools and was invited last weekend to participate in a meeting of the Michigan Food Services Administration in Saginaw.

He said he tries to offer the machines as "a viable alternative" to the expensive equipment needed to provide hot lunches on a large scale.

His firm, he said, have been placed in some schools to make it possible for students—many of them adults who take evening classes—to get food at an hour when it is not feasible to keep a cafeteria open.

He said he also works with those who rent the machines to find nutritious products to put inside—for instance, a bar with a protein-base chocolate substitute and plenty of nuts and raisins, or toasted sesame sticks.

"We like to work directly with the food service people in each district because we feel the program we offer responds closely to their needs."

"And during vacation times we keep the machines serviced."

JIM HAMILTON of United Vending Company of Farmington offers a different kind of service and says he prefers dealings to be with principals on a school-to-school basis.

"We find the principal takes a closer interest in the immediate situation and sees that the kids treat the equipment the way they should."

Hamilton's firm supplies machine, service and products and is the one that tends the machines in Plymouth Salem High as well as the candy dispensers in several Livonia schools.

When sandwiches are vended by machine, as in Plymouth, Hamilton said they rank right behind candy as the popular item. After that comes cold drinks and potato chips, according to his figures.

"Our records show that in schools

'The vending machine has proved itself as a means of cutting costs of food distribution in many places.'

where our candy machines were operating the candy sales average out to purchases of one and a half bars per student per week."

The profit for a firm like United Vending, Hamilton added, comes in the candy rather than the sandwich items. "We do include fruit in our sales, too."

WAYNE MEMORIAL HIGH in the Wayne-Westland School District is one of the schools that has been built with limited kitchen facilities and thus uses a la carte items from vending machines operated by Michigan Automatic Food Co. of Wayne.

The sandwiches, soups, tacos, pizza and hamburgers are delivered each evening for the next school day, and Mrs. Pat Richardson, secretary to firm president Pat Norton, said government standards are followed closely in the fare offered.

"Each of these burgers has one and a half ounces of meat," she said. "We had to raise our prices a little this fall, but at the most it has been five cents an item. I think our food is a very good buy."

The same machines that vend candy and chips obviously can fill a need by dispensing simple lunch fare.

They are one answer as to how to feed a large number of students at a busy lunchtime.

(Future possibilities for the school cafeteria.)

Young authors talk shop at Oakland U conference

By SHELLEY EICHENHORN

Titles like "Lollipop Mountain" and "The Green Ape" may not be on the best seller list, but they are on the list of works composed by distinguished young authors.

More than 1,000 budding writers grades 1-6 met at Oakland University Friday to talk shop and pick up a few pointers. Three hundred instructors led the sixth-annual young authors conference, "My Writing is Me."

Authors from more than 100 school districts were chosen by fellow students as delegates to the conference. In some schools, students favorite authors are fellow classmates whose books can be found in the library.

Discussion groups were held in Varner, Dodge, and South Foundation halls. Although occasionally a few tearful authors got lost, most everyone seemed right at home on the big university campus.

Among the many Livonia authors attending were: Natalie Zywickie and Linda Sisson of Taylor Elementary; Deneen Clark, Lisa Aratari and Kevin Daane of Madison Elementary; and Cindy Davis, Sherri Strach and Michelle Bockart of McKinley Elementary.

The authors had a wide range of activities to choose from all designed to spur creativity. There was almost no limit to the kinds of writing experiences provided.

IN ONE workshop, authors experimented with an incredible air tunnel made with large plastic bags. Students climbed inside, wiggled around in the huge tube and tumbled out.

"Poke it, punch it, find out what this thing is," said instructor Warren Norlund. Authors decided "the thing" was a spaceship, lung, snowless igloo and the inside of an animal's stomach. Next, Young authors were given crayons to decorate the air tunnel.

"The authors create their own environment and when they finish, they'll write about the experience," Norlund said.

And there were many experiences to write about as Karen Moncreiff of Rochester's Brookland's Elementary School found out. She took part in activities led by Englishman Malcolm McDonald, director of in-service training in Plymouth.

AFTER McDONALD read a spooky story, he turned off the lights and played a zany tape recording while students listened stretched out on the floor. Then authors furiously wrote what they thought was happening. Stories were read out loud and discussed.

"I really enjoyed the tape and I really enjoy writing," said Karen, a fifth grader and author of "The April Fool" and "Harry."

"I got inspiration from reading the books other kids brought to share."

Davidson-Simpson

Mr. and Mrs. Josef Bruell of Auburndale Avenue, Livonia, announce the engagement of their daughter, Melanie, to Jack Marx, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Marx of Northbrook, Ill. The bride-elect is a 1973 graduate of Bentley High School and a student at Eastern Michigan University. Her fiancé will graduate in May from the University of Michigan. Their wedding date is Aug. 10.

Nancy Davidson and Alan Simpson, both of East Lansing, are announcing their engagement and plans for a Sept. 13 wedding. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Davidson of Middleboro Avenue, Livonia. A 1973 graduate of Michigan State University, she is a registered nurse employed by Sparrow Hospital in Lansing. Her fiancé, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Simpson of Mason, is employed by the Lansing board of water and light.

Proving something you already knew.

Chatham prices are lower.

THE TEST

In a recent 8 weeks test, an independent survey team compared prices on over 150 items you buy most, such as meat, eggs, milk, cheese, canned goods, fresh vegetables, cereal, detergents, juices, paper products, coffee, frozen foods ... and others.

Each week, they shopped prices in major supermarket chains in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties.

THE RESULTS

Chatham prices were lower. Maybe not on every item, but the survey proved that by shopping at Chatham, your family could save significantly on your total average weekly food bill. And we have the figures to prove it.

THE MORAL

Week in, week out, your total food bill should be less at Chatham.

Youth Center job program lacks employers

PLYMOUTH—Pounding the pavement in search of a job and a little cash is not much fun for anyone. But, if you're of high school age, a trip to Youth, Inc., 271 S. Main, may prevent some sore feet and headaches this spring and summer.

The Youth Center is reimplementing last fall's job referral program in attempts to bring hard-to-place youth and prospective employers together.

"It's obvious there is the need," said Dale Yagiela, director of Youth, Inc. "We always have people coming in talking about looking for jobs."

"THE IDEA behind the job referral program is to provide temporary and part-time work for young people," he explained. "Young people are part of a surplus supply of labor, and there are a lot of legal restrictions that keep them from getting a job. In any community, there are never enough jobs for young people, and the economy is going to make it rough all the way around."

Yagiela termed last fall's job referral program a success. About 35 of the 40 young persons who applied were placed in jobs performing yard work, house cleaning tasks, window washing, baby sitting, repair work and sale work in stores.

Most of the persons who sought and found jobs were in the 14 to 16-year-old age bracket, he said. Most earned $1.50 to $3 an hour.

"We placed them as fast as they came in," Yagiela said. "I have no doubt that there will be a response to the program this year."

BUT ONE OBSTACLE stands in the way of the success of the program this spring and summer - the lack of employers.

Yagiela said the Youth Center's list of employers now stands blank. But, he added, many persons do not yet know of the program's existence.

Area businessmen and residents who could employ young persons in their businesses or households are urged to contact Youth, Inc. between 7 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. on Monday through Friday.

Young persons seeking employment should fill out applications at the center from 2:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. during the week. The applications will indicate what types of jobs they are seeking and their experience.

"Young people need the money," Yagiela emphasized, "and they need the experience."

NORTH HILLS

A Luxurious Community of fine homes in the Northville/Novi Area

Take your pick of these new 3 and 4 bedroom colonial and ranch models designed and built in the true tradition of Greenspan quality construction that has been the trademark of excellence for nearly half a century.

See all our furnished models now... Your next move will be to NORTH HILLS. Priced from $56,000.00

Some models available in 30 to 60 days.

The early pioneer life around Northville and Novi is still a charming part of life. And you're also conveniently located - you're almost a neighbor of Ann Arbor, Birmingham and Detroit via I-96, I-696 and other freeways. And the new I-275 freeway is already under construction. Residents of NORTH HILLS can look ahead and be certain that this is a most desirable area; a secure, young and growing area to live. And the longer you live in this area, the more reasons you'll find not to leave it.

All homes in North Hills include underground wiring for all utilities, Detroit water, City sanitary and storm sewer system and are on curved paved streets.

WHODUNIT?

The sofa, the chair, the stove and the dresses . . . all sold in a single day. Who could have gotten away with it? It's really not such a mystery. Every clue points to the Observer & Eccentric Classifieds: the quick response, the number of calls, and most important, the results-SALES.

Consider the opportunity . . . the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers are read twice each week by more than 155,500 families in Wayne and Oakland Counties --families next door to you and in neighboring communities.

Consider the motive . . . the Observer & Eccentric Want Ad Department has a strong desire to satisfy your needs, whether you're selling a couch or looking for a job.

Consider the weapon . . . the Observer & Eccentric Family Want Ads have a double edge because they're placed in two consecutive issues (Monday/Thursday or Thursday/Monday) and are seen each time by more than 155,500 witnesses. And these Family Want Ads (no changes in copy, no cancellations) cost only $6 --that's a savings to you of $2 off the regular cost of placing an ad in two issues.

It's a modus operandi that is well known and makes the solution to this case elementary.

in this area, "Planning and Res-modeling Kitchens." Local resi-dent Patrick J. Galvin's "Book for Successful Kitchens" (Structures) is also an excellent remodeling guide. Even more particularly, Robert P. Stevenson's "How to Build and Buy Cabinets for the Modern Kitchen" zeros in on one of the most common problem areas in kitchen design.

Those figuring on spending a lot of time in the back yard will be interested in George Daniels's "Decks, Porches and Patios" (Creative home) and Stanley Schuler's "The Complete Terrace Book" (Colliers) which tells you how to design, build, furnish and landscape various outdoor living areas.

For the homes that just need a screw tightened here and there in the course of spring cleaning, Jim Webb's popular "You Don't Need a Man to Fix It Book" (Doubleday) is just what the leaky pipes ordered. Alvin Ubell's "Recipes for Home Repair" (Quadrangle) is another excellent fix-it guide.

To avoid having to fix it all, you ought to read Hubbard Cobb's "Preventive Maintenance for Your House or Apartment" (Random House) — a new money-saving guide on how to spot approaching trouble and get it cured before it happens.

Some interesting new furniture books on the shelves include Diane Cleaver's "The Box Book — The World's Cheapest Way to Build Furniture" (McKay), "How to Make Children's Furniture and Play Equipment" by Mario Dal Fabbro (McGraw) and the second volume of James Hennessey's "Nomadic Furniture" (Pantheon).

Making the yard presentable is always a big job once the snow melts and reveals all the gouges. "The Gardener's Catalogue" (Morrow) is an oversize paperback that answers any and all questions on lawn and garden care.

If you dread the yearly tug-of-war with the recalcitrant lawn mower, arm yourself with Tom Cathbertson's "My Lawn Mower Hates Me" (Ten Speed Press), which is an original manual for hand and power mowers.

For those weary gardeners in tree-covered areas who have thrown down their trowel in de-

Sociological savants and economists in the know are all predicting that people will be spending more time than ever around their respective homesteads this summer.

That means this spring will be a good time to tackle those home improvement projects and plant that often-planned special garden because you'll have more time to enjoy them this year.

The shaping-up projects needn't involve a phalanx of high-priced professional gardeners and interior decorators. With the aid of the dozens of new home and garden books available at local bookstores and libraries any enthusiastic amateur can perform miracles with a minimum of expenditure of time and money.

If you are thinking of tackling a large-scale redecoration project and are looking for inspiration, you might check Alain Demachy's "Interior Architecture and Decoration" (William Morrow and Company). Demachy has exercised his talent for modern interior design in the homes of des Rothschilds, the Grand Duke of Luxembourg and Brigitte Bardot. So if posh is what you're after, his large color photographs will help you secure the proper "ambiance."

New York Times columnist Rita Reif's new book, "Home: It Takes More than Money" (New York Times), puts posh within reaching distance with chapters detailing "Big Designs with Little Cash," "France in Westchester County" and "What Others Put Out in the Trash."

If it's not the Ritz you're after, Barty Phillips's "How to Decorate Your Home Without Going Broke" (Doubleday) explains in full color how to choose the right carpet, create extra storage space and light a room effectively.

Bill Baker's "House of Ideas" is a how-to manual that anyone can follow. It starts at the entryway and takes you to the backyard with 275 pages of pictures and plans for new home safety and convenience features.

Most home projects are more limited in scope. One room that seems to wear out more quickly than others is the kitchen. Sunset has come out with a new manual

Soften corners

If you live in a tract house you're probably wondering why those corners seem so square in every room. They're easier to build, that's why.

Architectural details are generally a thing of the past, but there are ways to soften corners and create alcoves without moving, rebuilding or building new walls.

An actress dressing behind the proverbial dressing room screen for privacy while manager Herbie discusses the night's performance, conjures up all sorts of movie memories, but the screen is much, much more.

It is portable, inexpensive, easy to store when you get tired of looking at it, easy to make and definitely an asset in a decorating scheme.

Screens can be as wide and tall as you need them (from three to six panels) and as colorful or decorative as you will. They can be a place to display small, flat artworks, they can add texture and pattern or they'll add a small alcove to a larger room.

Screens run the gamut from the elegant — and costly — Coramandel inlaid ones from the Orient — to old doors hinged together and covered with burlap. Any way you screen it, you create a new area or help define an old one.

A small dining area, or office can hide behind a screen. So can a dressing room or sewing alcove in a guest bedroom. Never underestimate the power of a screen — it does its job, but silently.

to build, but, for greater interest, angled, circular or free-form shapes are possibilities. The shape should be related to the house form and existing or planned yard landscaping.

Solid or partially open roofs may be added to decks for weather protection and shade. Solid roofs include plywood or wood planks, translucent corrugated plastic and canvas. Many interesting filtered shade effects can be obtained with space lath, 1 x 2's or woven reed supported by exposed beams or rafters.

Most decks require concrete footings usually in the form of piers spaced to support the posts holding up the deck structure. Piers can be formed with wood boxes about 12 inches square or 10 to 16 inch diameter metal duct. The bottom of the piers should rest on firm soil below the frost line. Check your local building department for requirements.

The basic framework of the deck can be framed with dimension lumber such as 4 x 4's for posts and 2 x 6's to 2 x 12's for beams and joists. Posts should be firmly anchored to footings.

Make your deck more attractive and useful with Built-in seating, planters, night lighting, barbecue, storage units and privacy screening can also help to make a deck more attractive and useful.

Decks make a hit

It's a good time to make plans for building a wood deck for outdoor living enjoyment. Here are some suggestions to help decide where, what and how.

Design factors to consider include intended use; orientation for sun, view, breeze and privacy; relationship to interior rooms and exterior areas; and type of construction.

A logical place for a deck is outside the dining area and kitchen for family use and informal entertaining. Or a location near the living or family room may be preferred. A deck off the master bedroom is another possibility.

A deck facing the south and protected from cold winds can be used earlier in the spring and later in the fall. If the deck is on the west side of the house, it may require shielding from the heat and glare of late afternoon sun.

Wherever the location, consideration should be given to opening the interior to the exterior with a single door and windows, pair of French doors, and better yet, a sliding glass door. Deck furnishing and landscaping can provide a pleasant view from inside the house.

On a relatively flat lot, a wood deck at first floor level, just off the ground makes sense. A wood floor is cooler to the touch under a hot sun than concrete and spaces between boards allow circulation of air.

Any wood members in contact with the ground should be treated with a preservative. Grass and weeds can be prevented from growing beneath the deck by covering the ground with a plastic sheet, or by spraying with a chemical.

With a sloping lot, a deck on columns can be placed any height above ground level. Decks high in the trees have a dramatic effect. Railings should be solidly built and designed to prevent small children from climbing through.

The variety of sizes and shapes of decks is unlimited. Rectangular shapes are common and simple

Vegetable gardens

If you are of the millions of Americans who will plant vegetables this year to help reduce the food bill, you should know that the weeks ahead can be crucial in assuring a bountiful harvest.

Unlike flowers, vegetables seldom fully recover if their growth is checked. The successful gardener gives his plot continual loving care and attention because the moment a vegetable plant stops growing, it is in serious trouble.

Should your vegetable garden appear to slow down, consider these tips to see if you are following through on some basic fundamentals.

Watering

Be certain this is done gently, thoroughly, and at regular intervals. Vegetables won't grow well without plenty of moisture. As an aid in judging watering, place an empty tin can in the garden and turn on the water. Let it run until the can contains about one inch of water — that's the sign the dousing has been adequate.

The best time to water vegetables is late in the afternoon or early evening. The foliage should have time to dry before dark to prevent fungus growth.

During days of excessive heat, you can help your vegetables resist high temperatures by lightly spreading peat moss or green lawn clippings along the rows. The mulch will retain moisture.

Fighting insects

With vegetables, some kind of insect invasion is almost a sure thing. Protect your plants with frequent spraying or dusting. A multipurpose garden insecticide such as Fruit and Vegetable Insect Spray or Tomato and Vegetable Dust will provide excellent insect control and is safe to use on vegetables when applied according to directions.

You will need more than a single application for full protection. In fact, you should continue to spray, even when plants are

Clever conversion

The ultimate in projects for the springtime may be this conversion of a garage. Two cylindrical drums painted a bright color are the hubs of activity for the 22' x 10'7" room. They contain an AM/FM stereo radio and tape deck, a slide projector, a remote-controlled color TV and a movie projector. Mounted on swivel casters, they can be turned to face any part of the room. To avoid the square feeling that the garage originally had, the floor was painted and a curvy banquette was added to one wall. Lighting also helps define the space and can easily be redirected to change the mood.

INTRODUCING THE UN-FABRIC DRAPERY

Louver-Drape

"The purpose of a window is to admit light and allow view, but the light and it's accompanying glare and heat must be controlled by a window covering. Louver drape vertical blinds can be rotated to the exact position which best blocks direct sunlight, and still offers a maximum in light and view."

well-established. A good practice is to spray or dust about every 10 days. Allow, of course, for the proper interval between the last preventive application and the picking of the crop for eating.

Take note that only certain chemicals can be used on certain vegetables and such products have been cleared for use by the Food and Drug Administration as laboratory and field tests conducted by the manufacturer.

Fertilizing

Most home gardeners neglect to fertilize their vegetable patch. Sometimes you can get by without fertilization in a first-year garden, but it is best to plan on providing light and frequent feeding. Some of the popular plant foods come in easy-to-handle pellet or liquified form. If you prefer to place manure or solid fertilizer in your garden, dig a shallow furrow a few inches from the vegetable rows. Cover and tamp down so the fertilizer won't run off as you water.

Your garden will produce a better crop if you give your plants a good feeding when they are about a third grown.

Weeding

Hoe regularly and use a mulch to keep the weeds down. Weeds take nutrients and water away from your vegetable plants and should be eliminated as soon as they appear.

If you have a large garden, a chemical herbicide will help you reduce the weeding chore. Study the directions and apply with care as a carelessly applied herbicide will damage plants.

If you follow sound and proven practices in watering, insect and weed control, and fertilize regularly, your vegetable garden will be a worthwhile support for the family budget. Besides, growing vegetables can be fun for the entire family.

And what tastes better than a home-grown vegetable?

Code books thick

People keep telling us "no man is an island." Probably the largest single exercise which teaches us this is building inside or outside-our homes.

Even if it's not visible, as in the cases of electrical or heating and plumbing work, the city or township wants to know about it. There are these things called codes — and the books which contain them are giants.

If you are contemplating building an addition to your home, adding to an existing structure, putting up a fence or installing an air conditioner to the furnace, you'll need a building permit.

Generally, the rule of thumb on fix-up paint-up jobs is the price of the job. About $100 is the amount the building inspectors will allow you to spend without their knowledge. From that point on, they'll want to know what's going on. Building permit fees vary according to the job, but a general minimum is $10.

If the plans for home improvement are extensive, it is a good idea to have a couple of extra sets of them to show the building department in your respective community government offices.

Having them will ease having to explain something which is better visualized and it will probably even save trips to those offices.

After building work is complete, the building department will also appreciate hearing from the homeowner so that an inspection can be made.

Initially, building codes may sound like terrible infringements on one's private domain, they do provide security for the homeowner in the long run by maintaining local standards.

They also serve to protect homeowners from unscrupulous

Spur new growth with good pruning

The National Arborist Association recommends that shrubs be "thinned" by removing about one-third of the old stems each year, allowing new stems to take their place.

All too often shrubs are merely sheared at some convenient level. Unfortunately, this produces what all "heading does" does, a bushy topped shrub with bare lower branches. Since many shrubs are grown mainly for their beauty in flower, the time of pruning should be immediately after flowering.

This will allow time for the setting of flower buds for next season's bloom.

Spring flowering shrubs should be pruned in the spring when flowering is completed, and fall flowering shrubs similarly in the fall. However, the pruning of the fall varieties may be delayed until the dormant season, if necessary.

Evergreens are best pruned in late winter or early spring. Branches which are to be shortened in the needed varieties such as pine, spruce, fir and sequoia should be pruned back to a side branch of bud if one is present, or removed entirely if neither exists.

In general these species do not respond well to shearing unless it is done in mid to late spring while the plant is actively growing.

During this period new growth may be cut or sheared without seriously damaging the shrub. Cutting the new growth, or candle as it is often called, while it is soft and succulent will encourage the growth of new buds and thus new branches.

Flowering evergreens such as azalea, rhododendron and laurel should be pruned immediately after the blossoms have dried up. Pruning before will eliminate this year's flowers and pruning too late will reduce flowering next year.

The panicle varieties such as arbutus, cryptomeria, hemlock, juniper, cedar and yew may be pruned or sheared at any time. However, best results are obtained if pruning is done in late winter or early spring since new growth in the spring will soon cover the pruning wounds.

Sculptured evergreen shrubs shaped into balls, cubes, animals, birds or other forms have a charm when grouped together in the topiary garden of an aboretum but look strange and out of place in the home garden.

Bear in mind that the greater part of topiary work is done by wiring, and by a full-time staff of professional gardeners.

Hedges are maintained to provide a more or less formal appearance. The more formal the hedge, the more care it requires. Informal hedges may only need pruning once a year but formal hedges respond best to frequent shearing which removes very little growth each time.

Pruning must be started when the hedge is only six to ten inches high. Heading is the correct procedure for hedges since it causes considerable branching and the dense growth so desirable.

After the initial heading, the next branches should be headed at six to eight inch intervals until the desired height is reached.

Then, shearing should be back to one lateral branch of the previous year's growth.

A mistake commonly seen in hedges is the shearing to a shape resembling an inverted pyramid or trapezoid. Sheared in this way, not enough light reaches the lower branches and they become weakened and die, leaving a bare base which defeats the purpose of the hedge.

A better approach is to prune so that the top is slightly narrower than the base.

Shrubs are valued for their natural look and the application of these simple pruning rules should keep them characteristically beautiful and happily growing within bounds for many years.

A new home is probably the most important purchase you will ever make. Chances are it will cost more than anything else you ever buy and will influence your lifestyle for years to come.

But buying the right home isn't easy. Unless you are an expert, it can be difficult to evaluate construction and design — and even more difficult to judge the qualities of the community and the location of the house you are looking at.

The best advice is to avoid buying on impulse. Even if you are sure you have found your dream home, go back and check the less obvious details that affect durability and liveability of your new home.

To get the most from your homebuying dollar first study the overall town or neighborhood, then the immediate community before zeroing in on the house itself.

Find out as much as you can about the area in which you wish to live. A tour of the neighborhood or development shows whether other houses in the area are attractive and well kept.

Have trees and open spaces been preserved to create a good environment? Does local zoning or community master plan assure that this environment will be maintained?

Househunters should also consider the recreational facilities provided. Are there safe pedestrian paths for children to walk to school or bicycle on. Narrow, curving streets are often more attractive as well as safer in that traffic moves slower.

It is also important to find out what the local tax rate is since property or real estate taxes are a large portion of a homeowner's expense.

Whether you have school-age children or not, the quality of the school system is an important consideration since a large share of the local tax dollar goes for schools.

To help evaluate the school system ask the local school superintendent about the per capita pupil expenditure, teacher/pupil ratio and teacher salary range.

Also find out how long it will take to get to work and what transportation facilities exist. The best way to answer this question is a trial run during rush hours. Other items to check into are shopping facilities and community services. The local chamber of commerce can be a valuable source of information.

The old saying — there's more to it than meets the eye — is especially meaningful in looking at houses. That is not to underestimate the importance of the appearance of the house. Whether traditional or contemporary, an attractive well-designed home is the first thing every buyer looks for.

But too many househunters search only for appearance. Consider certain areas and value points that will help determine the comfort and durability of the house.

Most foundation floors and walls are made of poured concrete. Check the basement to see if the concrete is even. If it is uneven or has broken corners, it may indicate faulty workmanship.

If the foundation is cement block or stone, use a pocketknife to pick at the mortar. If it crumbles easily, it may be poor quality. If you have doubts about the foundation after inspection, call in an expert.

A relatively new development in foundations is the use of all-wood foundation systems combining pressure treated lumber and plywood that resists decay and insect attack. First developed in 1960, this advanced system has been used in many successful applications.

Wood foundations provide a number of construction advantages for builders. For homeowners, it offers a moisture-free basement, improved insulation and better year-round comfort. The wood-foundation basement is also more attractive and easier to convert to a finished room.

Much attention is given to the exterior and interior walls of the house, but framing and sheathing inside those walls make up basic structure.

Wood framing has been basic to home construction since colonial times. Many wood frame houses are still in perfect condition after a century or more.

Due to its strength and durability wood framing and sheathing are still the predominant

Something needed to be done to this dull bathroom and the answer was a zowie wallcovering, new window treatment, fresh paint and new lighting

Prettiest privacy

A casual look bath in redwood

A bathroom is a very private place and it can be a best or worst friend. It is the first place you're seen in the morning and like a good friend you can arrive looking like almost anything, it won't care.

But you should care what it looks like all the time. If it's getting you off to work in the morning in a bad mood, it could be the lighting which is putting you off, or the general mood of the area.

While you're doing the magic makeover job on yourself, consider what it would be like in a different environment. There are lots of ways to skin a cat.

If you like to be a bit Narcissistic, add more mirrors. If you don't like the morning you, or the late at night you, save the mirrors except for hair combing or shaving convenience.

If you don't like to be blasted in the morning or late at night after a few too many orange juices, stick to the subtle side when decorating.

If you need that slap in the choice of quality builders. The flexibility and resilience of this natural material has enabled wood houses to withstand the lashings of hurricanes.

As a natural insulator, wood is six times more effective than brick, 15 times more than concrete and at least 1,000 times more than aluminum.

A recent university-conducted fuel consumption test showed that in two identical houses, one built with wood used 26.2 percent less fuel than one built of masonry.

A wood framed home also makes it easier to accommodate additional insulation materials between walls and ceilings.

Choice of exterior siding is largely a matter of personal preference — wood, brick, stucco, metal. Buyers should select siding on the basis of appearance, maintenance and cost of the material

Brick or stucco requires little maintenance. But many wood sidings available today blend low maintenance with natural beauty in a variety of styles — shingles, shakes, clapboard, rough-sawn, random-width boards, panels, board and batten.

Today, many wood sidings can be installed without finishing to weather naturally. Or they can be stained to bring out the natural grain and texture. Others can be painted with acrylic or latex finishes that stay fresh for years.

There are two basic types of roof covering: asphalt and wood. Choose on the basis of cost, appearance and long-range performance.

Cedar shingles or shakes are usually first choice on the basis of appearance. The slightly higher cost of wood roofing is usually outweighed by its appearance, durability and insulating value.

Flooring choice is usually between hardwood, carpeting and tile. Remember that hardwood is a permanent floor. Therefore even if you want wall-to-wall carpeting, you might want to install it over hardwood.

If you are installing tile or carpeting directly over the subfloor, be sure it is a subfloor material called underlayment, which is made from plywood, hardboard or particle-board.

Panels should be made specifically for underlayment and so stamped, otherwise they may not give proper strength to the floor.

As with exterior siding, roofing and floors, all materials for the interior should be selected on the basis of cost, appearance and performance.

Find a layout that works best for your family. Be sure the house has enough room — as well as room to grow if necessary. Sleeping areas should be separated from family areas.

Check storage space. Try to find a house that accommodates the interests and activities of all members of the family.

For many families, outdoor living facilities are a must. These can be greatly enhanced by the way the house is placed on the land. Is it situated to give you privacy or does it face into someone else's backyard? Decks and patio areas can extend the living area of your home, especially when they lead from living and dining areas.

An important question in today's age of appliances is how much electrical power is available — or how many amperes. Many older houses were wired for 60 amps. Check this with your builder.

Having some solid ideas about what you want and what to look for can help make your dream house come true. A recent survey of 800 homebuying families found that those who told their builder their material preferences most often got what they wanted.

When shopping for a house, it is important to think of it as a long-time purchase. Don't sacrifice quality for short-term savings. You could spend more in the long run.

Not only birds can live under eaves

The world economic situation may have precluded plans to buy a new house this year. But you say you still need more room?

Solve a few of those space problems by using space you didn't think you had. Out of the way places can sometimes be turned into small goldmines for storage or activity.

Tucked under old fashioned eaves can be the most marvelous kinds of rooms, full of visual surprises.

Despite its bad reputation, under the staircase lies an alcove that a person might not have room for otherwise.

These seeming faults of an older home may be turned into assets with some careful planning.

A multi-purpose room under the eaves could answer a lot of growing family's space needs. outfitted with an extra sleeping area, a day bed or convertible couch will do that trick, it becomes an extra guest room.

Add some sewing equipment, a large tailor's mirror and storage space for fabrics and an ironing area and the room becomes a seamstress' dream world.

Attic rooms make good artists studios also.

Because of the shape of most attic rooms, you can have fun decorating them to make them attractive. Try different colors on different wall surfaces.

Sound deadening carpet run up the walls will convert such a room for music buffs.

What could be considered lost space can be reclaimed under the stairs for a clever homemaker.

A charming area can be created with a desk, a small filing cabinet or chest of drawers and a small scale chair.

Add a lamp for illumination and some art for diversion from busy work and you have an office in space which once may have been crossed off the list.
