State gives up on public airport here

By EMORY DANIELS

Chances of a public airport in this area have ended.

The Michigan Aeronautics Association (MAA), after speaking to the Intergovernmental Council Wednesday night, has given up on locating a public airport in this area and will begin to look elsewhere.

"The whole thing is now dead, and I won't pursue it any further. I'm sorry I couldn't convince you," said Les Andrews, chief engineer for the MAA—a division of the Michigan Department of Highways and Transportation.

That declaration immediately followed a 4-0 vote, with two units of government abstaining, against studying whether an airport should be located in this area.

Area governments voting against conducting the study were Canton, Plymouth and Salem Townships and Plymouth Community School District. Abstaining were the City of Plymouth and Superior Township.

THE MAA was invited to address governmental leaders on why a public-owned airport is needed in western Wayne County.

The Intergovernmental Council earlier had sent a letter stating its opposition to a study, and the MAA wanted the chance to make a full presentation on the need.

"There are only four public airports in this six-county area—all the rest are privately owned," Andrews said. "In this area, Mettetal in Canton Township and National Airport in Westland will be out of business soon, and the area won't have any airport facilities."

Private airports are going out of business throughout Michigan, he added, because rising land values boost taxes to the point where they cannot operate profitably.

"But there are a lot of private planes and aviation activity in this area which must be taken care of. Public officials here in the short future will be severely criticized by their own constituents for not planning properly for the future."

"There's bound to be repercussions regardless of what you decide. The question is do you wish to take the risk to make a study."

RICHARD GORNICK, Plymouth Township trustee, challenged the need: "We have been in government around here for a number of years and nobody, until now, has ever approached us to say there's a need for a public airport."

Gornick added that industry can use Willow Run or Detroit Metropolitan airports, the railroads, trucks or Great Lakes shipping.

"We are not talking about landing large aircraft with freight but small one or two-engine planes for businessmen's use in travel," Andrews answered. There are 1,300 registered aircraft at public airports and 1,300 registered at private airports in the metropolitan Detroit area, he added.

--Robert Greenstein

Gornick said he had serious reservations about the propriety of spending public money to serve only a small portion—about one per cent—of the populace who are licensed to fly.

Andrews said that of those who do fly, 60 per cent fly for business purposes.

Gornick noted Wayne County's population will decline over the next two decades. "I cannot see the need now for an expanded airport. And with a declining population in Wayne County, how can we be expected to believe a larger airport facility will be needed in the future?"

The trustee was told that the airport envisioned would serve pilots from perhaps four counties, at least the corners of Washtenaw, Oakland counties and northwest Wayne County.

HELEN RICHARDSON, Plymouth Township clerk, asked how much the study would cost and who would pay for it.

Andrews said he had no idea what the cost would be, but the Wayne County Road Commission as willing make the study and pay for it with profits from aviation uses at Metropolitan Airport.

Thomas Yack, Plymouth school board member, commented: "I am very uncomfortable with governmental agencies making studies when they already have a vested interest," referring to the road commission's control over Metropolitan Airport.

"The road commission has only agreed to make the study," said Andrews. "I can bet you that when it comes to developing a project, the road commission will back out and the local governmental units will pick up the project."

ROBERT GREENSTEIN, Canton supervisor, commented: "I'm a pilot myself but will never go along with the one group I distrust the most—the Wayne County Road Commission."

He suggested the $100,000 to $300,000 which might be spent on a complete master plan study for a public airport would be better invested if it were handed over to Mettetal to allow it to keep operating another five to 10 years.

Gornick asked if the airport would pay for itself. Andrews said the number of aircraft (about 250) expected to use the facility would be sufficient to pay for the operation and might pay part of the local share for capital improvements.

Andrews said a public airport was more financially feasible because it would be eligible for state and federal funds for capital investment.

An airport would require between 600 to 1,000 acres, he added, based on unmet needs once Mettetal and National airports close down.

"That's 600 to 1,000 acres that will be taken off the tax rolls which could be developed industrial or commercial," Greenstein quickly responded.

"Let's talk about preserving Mettetal or National airports, but don't try to take 1,000 acres from Canton or Plymouth townships because you'll have some trouble on your hands. For that reason I'm opposed to the study."

Gornick observed that residents see airports as a bad thing for the community. "Two dispersed airports may be better than a larger airport. You want to put more of a bad thing in a concentrated area."

Andrews admitted that Mettetal doesn't meet state standards and is unsafe from the standpoint of approaches.

"We represent our citizens who don't want an airport," said Mrs. Richardson. "The only ones who seem to want an airport expanded are the pilots, and at our hearings only three were from Plymouth, Plymouth Township or Canton Township."

GREENSTEIN said Mettetal could have been expanded in 1968, before any subdivisions were built in the immediate area, if the state had wanted.

"But it's too late now. There's too many people out here now. I suggest a better spot is Spencer Airport in Wixom where right now there are no subdivisions nearby."

Andrews said that if the study were denied the MAA would probably look at the Wixom area next.

County Commissioner Royce Smith, whose district includes Plymouth and Canton, suggested the state spend its money for a study in an area where people want an airport.

Road commissioners get flak from area officials

The Wayne County Road Commission took it on the chin when the Intergovernmental Council met in Plymouth to hear a presentation from the state on the need for a public airport in this area.

Plymouth and Canton officials expressed the opinion that an airport in this area might have been suitable in years past, but was unacceptable now that the area is developed.

For the past quarter century, the Michigan Aeronautics Association (MAA) has been considering the needs for airport facilities in Wayne County, but the Wayne County Road Commission—which controls and operates Detroit Metropolitan Airport in Romulus—has always opposed state efforts to conduct studies.

The road commission was the prime objector in years past to forming an airport authority, but now is willing to sponsor a study because it wants to get rid of the smaller aircraft at Metropolitan Airport.

Governmental officials were told Wednesday night that the road commission wants to get rid of the smaller aircraft at Metro because they are hard to intermingle with the large airplanes.

LES ANDREWS, chief engineer for the MAA, confirmed the road commission is willing to sponsor the study and, if it did, would decide which planning firm would do the work.

After Andrews said the road commission would only make the study but would not develop the project, Canton Supervisor Robert Greenstein snapped:

"That's nonsense. The local units of government here don't have the money to finance such a project, and the road commission in its entire life has never given up control of anything."

"The road commission, as always, has a selfish motive. Now that this area has built up, the road commission in its majesty has reversed itself on the need for an airport and will undertake a study, then pull out and let the communities take over. Never!"

"If any criticism is leveled in this area about poor planning, it must be directed towards the Wayne County Road Commission and not the small units of government that will never have the money to go into this type of project."

"Maybe the road commission is afraid that someday it will be called before its Great Maker, whoever that might be," quipped Greenstein, "and have to explain its past actions. I for one won't go along with the road commission—the one group I distrust the most—conducting the study."

Greenstein asked why the MAA didn't tell the road commission 10 years ago to get behind an effort to locate a public airport, and Andrews admitted:

"Nobody had the guts to do it then."

"Is it possible now that a study is being asked only because the road commission has given its blessing?" asked Greenstein.

THE CANTON supervisor admitted there is a need for an airport in this general area.

"But the ones with the obligations—the state and road commission—haven't done their job in this area." He later laid the blame entirely on the road commission.

A Superior Township official complained about how obstinate the road commission had been about having its own way on an improvement project in that community, and other officials joined in to complain about the road commission's independence and arrogance.

Wayne County Commissioner Royce Smith, whose district includes Plymouth and Canton, commented that the county board's only control over the road commission is to approve its annual budgets and any bond issues.

Students will help tape area's history

PLYMOUTH—Memories of Main Street and schools and the Plymouth-Canton community "way back when" may soon be recorded on tape for future generations to study and enjoy.

Staff members of the Dunning-Hough Library and four volunteer students from the Centennial Educational Park are ready to kick off an oral history project to celebrate the bicentennial.

THE GROUP hopes to tap the memories of 25 or 30 older persons in the Plymouth-Canton community and preserve those memories on tape.

"A history of a community isn't just comprised of the written word," said head librarian Beth Simescu. "So much of the cultural traits of a community just can't be written down. We're not talking about dates. We're talking about the culture, the background and what people remember from their lives."

"People are rich in that kind of information but how many people sit down and write a book?"

Mrs. Simescu, children's librarian Patricia Thomas and high school students Barb Yockey, Dan Goepf, Gary Sieber and Mike Macocha soon will begin "writing those books" on tapes. The project, is endorsed by the Community Bicentennial Commission.

Original tapes will become property of Plymouth's historical museum, while one set of copies will remain in the library. Mrs. Simescu plans to give another set of tapes to the Centennial Educational Park.

MRS. SIMESCU and other library staff members have already begun compiling lists of persons with historical knowledge of the community.

Hopefully, the tapes will contain memories of many aspects of the community, including its government, schools, churches, farms, businesses and medical practices.

Volunteer high school students will conduct taped interviews, after Mrs. Simescu makes the initial contacts. The interviews will take place in interviewees' homes.

Mrs. Simescu expects the interview portion of the project to take all summer. Students will probably complete the project next fall, after completing editing tasks.

"We want people to do this as a really important part of heritage and the bicentennial," Mrs. Simescu said. "So many people have really seen the community and know about it. It would be a crime to let these people pass away without putting their memories on tape."

Mrs. Simescu expects cost of the project to total $250. That amount will cover the costs of tapes and photographs of each interviewed person. Persons willing to donate financial contributions toward the project should contact the library.

"We really think this is something that's needed. We've wanted to do something like this for years. It's a natural for the bicentennial."

Meijer's gets gasoline station

CAFTON—Supervisor Robert Greenstein is calling Meijer Thrifty Acres' plans to build an attended gasoline station a victory for the township.

Meijer originally had planned to build a self-service gasoline station in front of its hyper-market at Ford and Canton Center. But with pressure from the township's administration and a new ordinance banning the self-service concept, Meijer has changed its original plans.

"We were able to convince them not to build a self-service gas station," said Greenstein. "One of the reasons for passing our ordinance was to discourage them from building it."

The board of trustees had approved the ordinance as an "emergency measure" with immediate effect at its May 27 meeting. Under provisions of the ordinance, all persons who pump gasoline at a location where 1,000 gallons of fuel or more are stored must obtain a license from the township after taking an examination of proficiency and knowledge of appropriate safety measures.

The ordinance destroys the economic feasibility of self-service stations because all customers would have to hold licenses.

Before the ordinance, the township had fought Meijer's self-service plans with the position that Meijer's building permit had expired.

A previous planning commission and township board of trustees had approved the Meijer station site plan.

Although the township will not require a new site plan for the service station, Greenstein said Meijer has conceded to other township demands, including the construction a four-foot berm along Ford and Canton Center roads and the planting of shrubbery along the fence at the rear of the store.

"The only time you can get developers to do something is when they come in for something new," Greenstein said.

According to the supervisor, Meijer construction crews soon will begin building the new station.

SC increases tax slightly to help pay debts

By SUE ROSIEK

Residents in the Schoolcraft College district, which includes Clarenceville, Plymouth, Livonia, Garden City and Northville school districts, will experience an increase in their 1975-76 tax bills.

The Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees at a special meeting Wednesday voted 9-0 to levy 0.36 mills in addition to the district's 1.77 voted millage, to meet the college's debt retirement payments for 1975-76.

The district's tax levy, including debt retirement, will be $2.13 per $1,000 of State Equalized Valuation (SEV).

BEFORE ADOPTING the tax levy, the board held a public hearing and voted unanimously to accept the $9 million 1975-76 budget.

The new budget, a $1 million increase over last year, includes several full-time faculty positions and an office of research and development.

Taxes will yield nearly $4 million for the college. Of that, the 1.77 voted millage will produce $3.3 million to be used for special maintenance and special equipment funds, and for operating purposes.

The 0.36 mills, up over last year's 0.225 mills, will generate 1966 and 1968 debt retirement funds, according to Dr. C. Nelson Grote, Schoolcraft president.

According to state law, the board may levy in excess of voted millage only as much as is needed to meet its debt retirement payments for the year. Schoolcraft presently has an outstanding debt of $6.7 million.

The increased millage for debt retirement funds was criticized by several trustees, but the decision was unanimous.

"This increase bothers me," said Trustee Arch Vallier, "but I'll vote for it this time. If it happens again we'd better be darn sure we get the vote of the people."

"Why can't we leave the excess millage at 0.225?" questioned Trustee Rosina Raymond.

"It was clear last year it would have to be higher in 1975-76," answered Trustee Lee Bennett.

"As the bonds come due the debt retirement fluctuates," explained Fred Petersen, manager of business services. "The additional millage is necessary because of an increase in the 1975-76 bond debt retirement. It will be lower next year."

"We aren't doing anything illegal or unethical," explained Trustee Paul Kadish. "The increase is necessary to protect the peoples' investment in Schoolcraft College."

"It was obvious we couldn't get all the facts together for a straight-forward budget presentation this year," said Vallier.

Vallier referred to a long-range financial study, recently complete by the college, which the board is slated to review at its regular board meeting, Wednesday, June 25.

The study, conducted by Milt Powers, assistant to the president for special projects, examines the Schoolcraft demographic area, program planning, facility utilization, and culminates in a five-year financial projection.

The SEV of the Schoolcraft district is $1.850 billion, which is apportioned among Wayne, Oakland and Washtenaw counties.

The American way

SIX FINNISH ROTARIANS recently toured the Observer & Eccentric offices and plant on Schoolcraft and Levan as part of a Rotary Council 640 program to acquaint them with America. Philip H. Power (center), Observer & Eccentric co-publisher, holds an offset camera page negative while explaining the newspaper's production process. The visitors—

Accompanying the visitors was Gerald M. Conley (second from right). That's plate room supervisor Ray Williams on the far right.

7 students earn health scholarships

Seven area students recently received medical scholarships from the Metropolitan Detroit Chapter March of Dimes during ceremonies in the Detroit Press Club.

The grants to high school seniors pursuing education in health careers totalled $8,075 and included 14 health career scholarships of $400 each and 11 secondary scholarships of $225 each.

Earning $400 grants were Mary Anne Kuras of Wayne Memorial High, Laura L. Heather of Garden City West High, Colleen M. Watson of Redford Union High, and Laura J. Clements, a Plymouth high school senior.

Earning $225 grants were Mary Beth Williams of Ladywood Catholic High in Livonia, Linda M. Haggerty of Livonia Bentley High and Janet Lynn Mason of Garden City East High.

THE AWARD winners were chosen on the basis of need and scholastic ability. Each applicant was required to be a senior and accepted to enter a regionally accredited higher learning institution as a fulltime student in the fall of 1975.

Miss Kuras is enrolled in Washtenaw Community College and plans to study inhalation therapy. Her father, Joseph Kuras, works for Scott Paper Company.

Miss Heather plans to attend Eastern Michigan University to study occupational therapy. Her mother, Lucille Heather, is a secretary for the Garden City School District.

Miss Watson is enrolled in University of Michigan and plans to enter physical therapy as her health field. Her father, Herman Watson, is self-employed.

Miss Clements will attend Eastern Michigan University to study speech pathology-audiology. Her father, Charles P. Clements, works for Consumers Power in Livonia.

Miss Williams will attend Madonna College in Livonia on a nursing curriculum. Her father, Leon Williams, works for Manley, Bennett & McDonald.

Miss Haggerty plans to enter Mercy College in Detroit to study nursing. Her father, Connel F. Haggerty, is employed by the State of Michigan.

Miss Mason will attend the University of Michigan to study nursing. Her mother, Christine Mason, is currently unemployed.

THE SCHOLARSHIPS given by the March of Dimes have increased over the past five years from six to 25 and from a total of $1,800 to $8,000.

"More and more persons are needed every day in the all important fields of health care service," says Richard T. Kelly, chairman of the Wayne County Board of Auditors and chairman of the Metropolitan Detroit Chapter March of Dimes.

"The areas in which we've awarded the scholarships are directly related to the March of Dimes which is the major voluntary health organization in the country leading the on-going battle against birth defects and assuring proper care and medical assistance to those children already afflicted."

Information on the scholarships and the applications are sent to high school counseling departments in November of the previous year. The scholarships are awarded annually.

GETTING STUDENTS TO do a little dancing on their own was the job of Pam Carlson, who volunteered for close to 20 separate sessions for elementary classes throughout the district.

Recreation signup starts

PLYMOUTH — Registrations are now being taken for a variety of classes in the Cultural Center, 525 Farmer, offered by the Plymouth Department of Parks and Recreation.

The courses are open to residents of the city, Plymouth and Canton townships.

Children's classes include crocheting for youngsters 10 years and up; dramatics for pre-school through junior high; cheerleading for 8-15-year-olds; arts and crafts, 4-12-year-olds; golf, age 13 and under, and dance classes including tap, ballet, jazz and Hawaiian for all ages including some courses for pre-school.

Evening classes in guitar, judo and Karate are open to all ages.

Classes for upper teens and adults include daytime ladies' classes in golf, ballet, tap, jazz, Hawaiian dancing, and dried plant arranging. The dried plant arranging class is also offered from 7-9:30 Thursday evenings beginning July 17.

A one-session course for a button necklace is being offered from 2-4 p.m. July 16 for a fee of $3 which includes materials and instruction. This class is open to adults and children 12 and older.

PLYMOUTH—Everything from the story of "Jerome the Frog" to a string trio from the Plymouth Symphony has been placed at the fingertips of students within the Plymouth Schools during the past school year.

It's been done through the energetic efforts of the Plymouth Community Arts Council (PCAC).

MORE THAN 200 classrooms from first through 12 grades have enjoyed one or more of the 11 amateur programs offered through the PCAC.

Begun four years ago under the guidance of Janita Hauk, the program provides a greater appreciation of the performing arts to almost half of the 13,000 students within the district. Dance, music, story-telling, and a social history discussion filled the program bill for this year. The most popular among teachers were the social history talks by Marjorie Mitchell, a Plymouth area housewife.

Close to 100 classes have heard enriching talks on the early colonial days, Williamsburg, American Indians, Michigan Indians, and traditional Oriental culture.

Mrs. Mitchell has incorporated the use of dolls and toys from the past to reconstruct the period for her listeners, ranging from first graders through high school students.

DANCE WAS also an important part of the PCAC's program with an appreciation session offered by University of Michigan students, actual dance participation led by Pam Carlson, and performances offered by the Polonaise Society Dancers.

Allen School Principal Thomas Workman, who made use of many of the PCAC programs throughout the past school year, notes:

"We are extremely pleased with the variety and quality of programs available to our children on such an easily arranged schedule. The programs most certainly broaden the experience of the youngsters, without long bus trips outside the school."

THE BULK of the programs are offered free to the schools with a lot of flexibility built in so either a large assembly or small group can take advantage of the programs.

Mrs. Hauk noted the program has continued to grow each of the four years it has been in existence, with more volunteers offering their talents for the students to enjoy.

The program got a great boost two years ago when the amateur program was joined by four musical programs offered through the Plymouth Symphony Society under the guidance of Jean Braun.

The addition of the Symphony programs brings in a brass ensemble, a horn demonstration featuring everything from a tuba to a French horn, a high school woodwind quintet, and a string trio featuring Mrs. Hauk, Mrs. Braun, and Janet Holt.

While Mrs. Hauk handles the "bookings" for the amateur programs, Mrs. Braun coordinates the "bookings" for the symphony programs.

An added musical treat offered through the PCAC's side of the program includes a performing arts ensemble featuring ballet accompanied by a string quartet and a harp. The program is provided through the courtesy of the group's director, Frank Henderson.

SOMETHING WHICH may give an even greater boost to the program and create a larger demand for programs in the coming year is the beginning of a humanities program within the elementary schools throughout the Plymouth School District.

After bringing in a storytelling program of "Super Pickle," "Jerome the Frog," and "Old Black Witch" by Eastern Michigan University drama student Diane Eason, Starkweather Elementary humanities teacher Jacquelyn Miksa noted:

"The humanities program initiated in February in the Plymouth schools has been most successful. My aim is to integrate the arts.

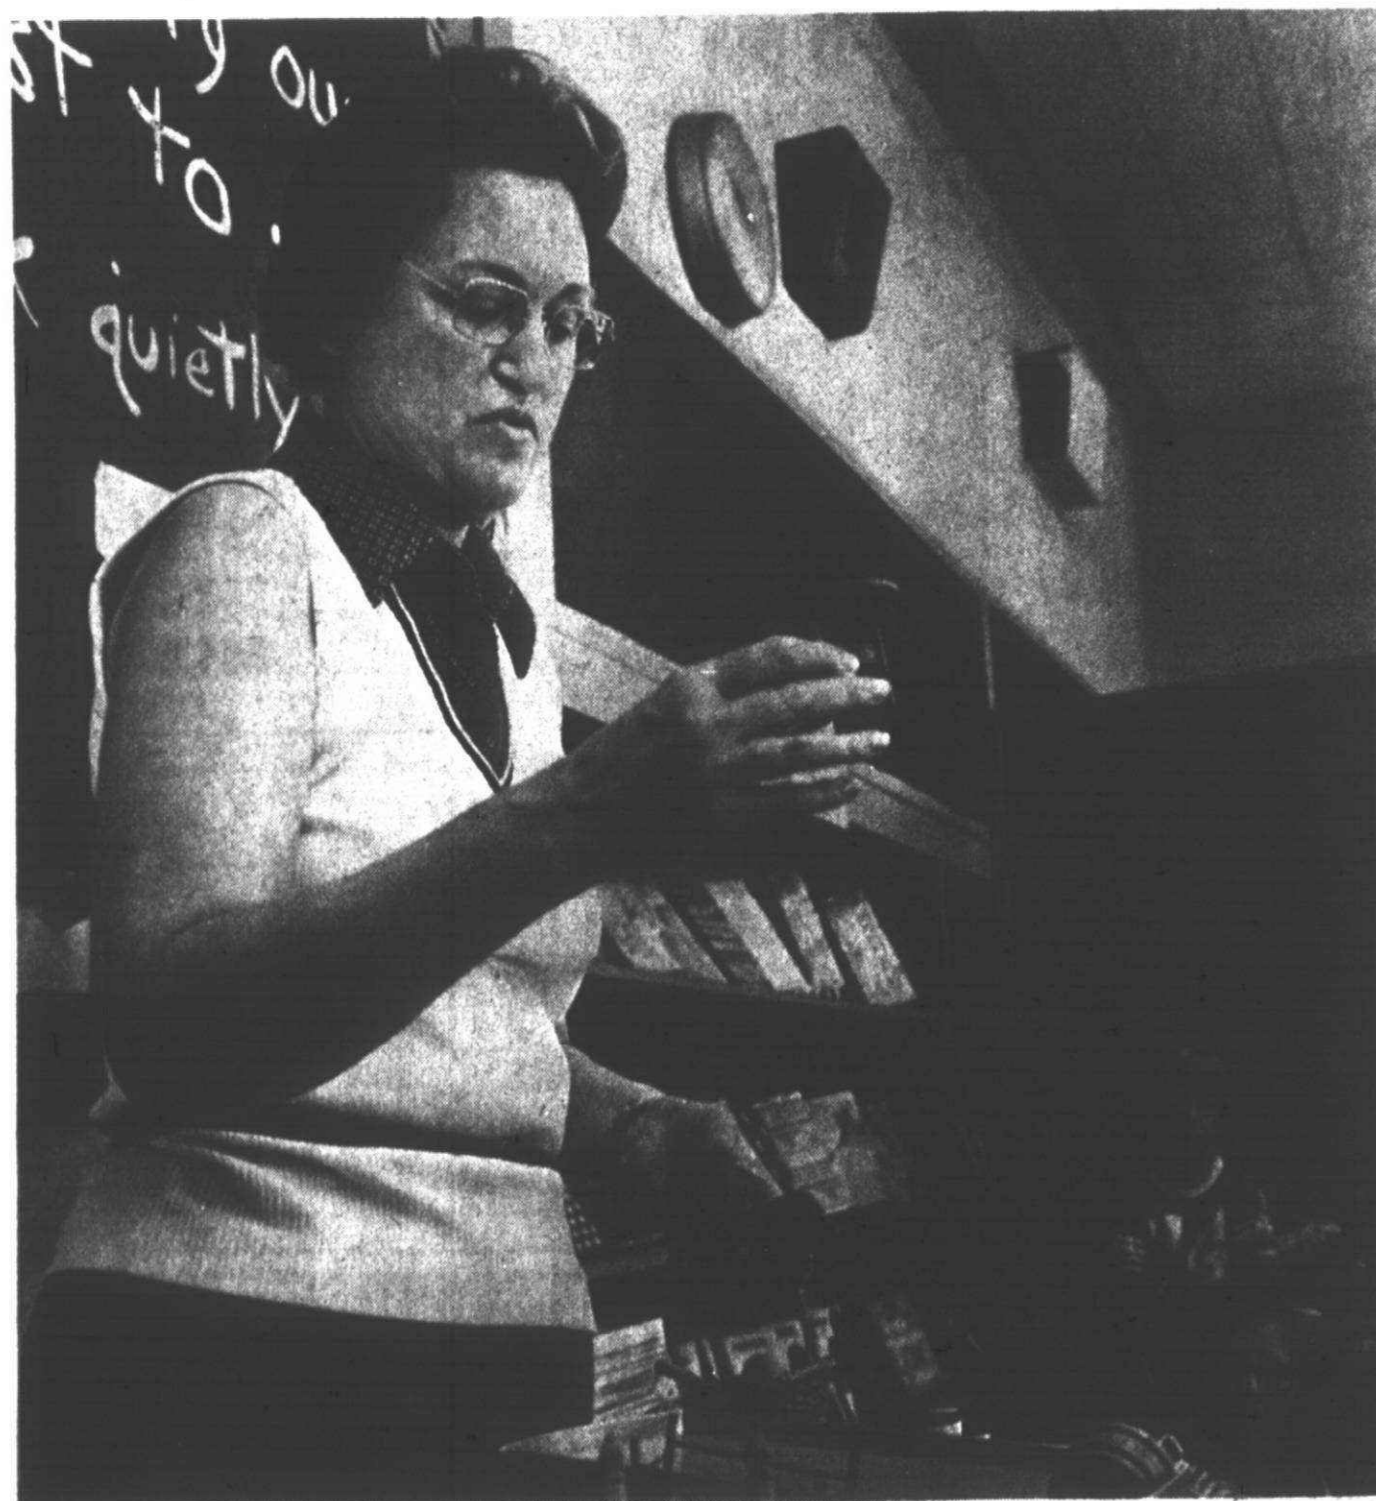

"Children find they can communicate through creative art forms, and we have experienced many forms of self-expression including dance, drama, and story telling.

"The PCAC amateur programs have enriched this program for me."

WHILE Mrs. Hauk states she is pleased with growth of the program and the demand for the arts in the schools, she would like to encourage more local talent to participate and volunteer their talents for the students to enjoy.

The amateur program of the PCAC in cooperation with the Plymouth Symphony represents about half of the work done in the schools by the arts council.

Other ongoing programs include the "Picture Ladies" who bring in reproductions of fine art for demonstration, and the professional performing arts program which includes items like this winter's "Opera Week" in the schools.

PERHAPS ONE OF THE best known features of the PCAC schools amateur program is the social history talks given by Marjorie Mitchell. Here she talks with a group of students from Central Elementary, one of close to 100 classes she met with during the last school year. (Staff photos by Bob Woodring)

Expansion proposed for center

CANTON—Township residents may soon have more stores in which to shop.

The township planning commission last week unanimously agreed to recommend site plan approval of the Harvard Square Shopping Center's second development phase to the board of trustees.

The proposed development would add 23,500 square feet and 15 or 20 additional retail stores to the existing shopping center at Ford and Sheldon Roads.

A representative of the shopping center said construction work would probably begin in August, if site plan approval is granted. The project is scheduled for completion by the end of the year.

Township Planner Michael Manore recommended site plan approval to planning commission members. Building plans, he noted, show more parking spaces than the number required by the township zoning ordinance, a six-foot masonry screen on the northern border of the site, and a four-foot berm along Sheldon.

Area rail routes included in plan

Southeast Michigan Council of Government officials clarified an apparent oversight in the 1990 transportation plan for the seven-county region during a June 18 meeting with suburban officials.

The meeting was called by Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara, who expressed concern that the plan failed to mention the development of the Chesapeake & Ohio or the Baltimore & Ohio railroads, now extending from Detroit to Plymouth, as rapid transit lines.

Other concerned officials who attended the meeting were Beverly McAninch, Plymouth mayor; Lawrence Wright, Northville Township supervisor; and Eugene McKinney, Westland mayor.

According to Michael Tako, transportation program manager for SEMCOG, McNamara's concern was justfied, because a summary of the SEMCOG transportation plan omitted the C&O and B&O lines on maps in its June 1975 publication of the plan.

However, the publication did mention development of the lines, which cross through Livonia and Plymouth.

TAKE SOAD the rail lines would be improved if the plan is adopted at SEMCOG's General Assembly meeting June 26.

The railroads would be "regional commuter rail" systems and would be flanked by two other major rail routes, one from Detroit to Pontiac, the other from Romulus to Ann Arbor.

Though the Detroit-to-Plymouth line is still under study, CORD (Committee on Regional Development) has approved the transportation plan, including the rail routes.

IMPROVEMENT OF Ford and Middle Belt also will affect western Wayne County communities. Ross Childs, SEMTA (Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority) general manager, said additional lanes would be added to those roads to handle heavier traffic anticipated in the area.

Special bus and commuter lanes are being considered for the Jeffries Freeway, sections of which are to be opened in the fall, according to Childs.

Childs described the transportation plan as a "super bus service," which he said would not be all bad if "the state of the art" of buses is good when the plan is implemented.

"If we fail to build a transit network, then the highway network must be redesigned to meet needs."

CHILDS CALLED the SEMTA plan "an overall effort to find and meet the needs of the people. This is the first regional network in the nation—or in the Northern Hemisphere, for that matter. It covers 4,500 square miles.

The Toronto mass transit system was used as a model for the SEMTA plan, he said.

Commuter rails are expected to handle an increasing number of commuters, from the present several hundred now using rails from Detroit to Ann Arbor, for example, to several thousand passengers daily by 1978.

He said the C&O line has good signalization, but the roadbed needs repair, and the C&O now is primarily interested in its freight, rather than passenger, business.

Y to emphasize home pool safety

A child's life could be spared because of a program to be sponsored for the 10th year by the Livonia Family Y.

To prevent tragic drownings in swimming areas, particularly backyard swimming pools, the Y will offer classes on water safety to youngsters three years old and up. Registration is open now.

Classes will be given in 29 neighborhood pools by qualified, certified instructors and aides. The 45-minute lessons will involve exposing the child to water and teaching him respect for it, with emphasis on avoiding panic.

"Our principal aim is to make the youngsters in the community a little more water-safe than they were before we came in contact with them," said Shirley Ritter, assistant physical education director at the Y, who is in charge of the program.

"If you drive through the neighborhoods, you will find that backyard pools are becoming common — Michigan has more of them than California.

"Then when you look at the fact that there were 18 drownings in Michigan over the Memorial weekend, you will see that there is a definite need for this kind of instruction.

Instruction is at two levels, beginner and advanced beginner. Six lessons will be given in each two-week session. The sessions will run from June 24-July 4, from July 8-July 18, from July 22 through Aug. 1 and Aug. 5-15.

Cost is $12 per child. The Y will provide all floatation and teaching aids. Parents may observe the first and last lesson only. Classes will be held on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursdays. Lessons missed because of rain will be made up on Monday or Friday.

It is not necessary to be a member of the Family Y to participate.

ROBERT L. ISRAEL of Livonia has been appointed president and director of Michigan National Bank-Dearborn. Prior to his appointment, Israel was senior vice president and director of Michigan National Bank-West Metro in Livonia. He will continue to sit on the board of the Livonia bank. Israel is a graduate of Western Michigan University and had been a national bank examiner with the Comptroller of the Currency's Department before joining Michigan National Banks in 1971.

Ford Hospital promotes Sal

Dennis Sal of Livonia has been appointed administrator for operations at Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit. Sal, who joined the hospital in 1971, as financial administrator, will be responsible for hospital support department management as well as continuing his financial responsibilities. A former senior management consultant with Touche Ross and Co., Sal holds a BA in industrial management and a MBA in finance from the University of Detroit.

Flag burning is planned

Residents with unusable flags may take them to American Legion Wayne Post 111 at 4422 S. Wayne Road to be burned in a special ceremony.

Milton S. Kolarov of the post says a ritual has been prescribed by the Legion's flag committee for the destruction of unusable flags.

The ritual is expected to take place on Veterans Plaza, directly behind the newly dedicated Peace Memorial. The public will be invited to the ceremony with details to be announced later.

YMCA to offer biking, hiking, canoeing

WILDERNESS ADVENTURE participants will get a chance to make a 400-mile trek around the eastern portion of the state, following the Lake Huron shoreline. Closer to home, younger members of the community can participate in daily hiking and biking excursions offered by the 'Y.' (Staff photo)

PLYMOUTH—A wide variety of physical fitness programs for kids and adults are planned to begin June 30 at the Canton-Northville-Plymouth YMCA.

Adults and young adults can take advantage of a "Run for Your Life" jogging club, an AAU track club, golf, tennis, and women's fitness.

Programs for the younger set include daily hiking and biking excursions, and a summer day camp program. Other offerings include drawing classes, magic, guitar, and Hawaiian dance.

For those who like to venture a little farther from home, the 'Y' will offer four Wilderness Adventures, designed for rugged individuals 16 years and older.

A BACKPACKING trip to Beaver Island is the first adventure scheduled for July 6-18. The trip will include a day of rock climbing at Grand Ledge.

The second excursion is designed for canoe enthusiasts with a 63-mile trip down the Tahquamenon River. Set for July 20-Aug. 1, the two-week trip will feature lots of canoeing, fishing, and rock climbing.

Avid cyclists can participate in the 'Y's' third wilderness adventure with a 400-mile Lake Huron bicycle trip from Aug. 3-15. The trip includes camping in the Huron National Forest and on-the-road bicycle repairs.

The final trip in the wilderness series is Aug. 17-29 and will feature exploration of Ontario's Algonquin Park by hiking and canoeing.

All four trips will offer wild plant identification, map and compass reading, first aid, and a solo survival experience.

DAILY HIKING and biking experiences for the younger set will be offered to boys and girls age nine through 13. The four two-week sessions will begin each day at 9:30 and run to 3:30 p.m.

Hikers will pack a lunch and explore local recreational areas with an emphasis on hiking and biking instruction and safety.

For kids in kindergarten through fifth grade, the 'Y' will offer day camp programs at four schools within the area. Supervised by trained teachers, the two-week sessions will include games, arts and crafts, field trips and other activities.

SCHOOL SITES for the day camp programs include Tanger, Allen, Starkweather, and Bird. Staggered sessions begin on June 30 and run in two-week blocks through Aug. 15.

Costs for the day camp program are set at $30 per person with a 'Y' membership and $35 for non-members. For families with more than one child attending the cost is $25 per person.

Campers from the first session will march with the 'Y' float in the July 4 parade.

For information on all Canton-Northville-Plymouth YMCA programs, and to pre-register for summer programs, contact Janet Luce at the 'Y' office, 271 S. Main, Plymouth.

Nature trails lead to outdoor learning

By ETHEL SIMMONS
and SUE ROSIEK

Let's take a walk.

Anytime is a good time to explore nature, but in the summer you've got sunny weekends (mostly) to venture in the out-of-doors.

Getting back to nature is becoming increasingly popular. State and regional park systems offer walks along their nature trails. Environmental centers are springing up or expanding, with nature hikes available in addition to indoor programs.

The Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority's Metroparks system offers Sunday morning guided nature walks for you and your family. These begin at 8 a.m. on scheduled dates at Kensington Metropark near Milford and at Stony Creek Metropark near Utica/Rochester.

THOMAS H. SMITH, chief naturalist for the system, explains, "The naturalist takes advantage of the season of the year and what's available. If you were to go on every walk, theoretically, you would see something different. This time of year, the naturalists deal a lot with insects—mosquitoes—and plant life of the area."

Kensington's trails have been open since the park was built around the 1950s; Stony Creek's trails opened in 1964.

"You can see dried-up stems of plants from last year and new ones just starting to come up, such as the wild cucumber vine," Smith adds.

UPCOMING DATES for walks along Kensington's four trails are July 13 and 27 and, tentatively, Aug. 10 and 24 and Sept. 14 and 28.

The three Stony Creek trails can be hiked during the next months on July 13, Aug. 10, Sept. 14 and 28.

In addition to the two-hour Sunday walks for individuals or families, Kensington and Stony Creek offer group field trips by appointment Tuesday through Sunday.

At Kensington, a toll booth leads to the Nature Center. Only charge is $5 annual fee for a car to enter the park, or $1 a day. At Stony Creek, there is no toll booth to the Nature Center.

FOR DO-IT-YOURSELFERS, maps are available at the Nature Center, or you can trek the trails alone.

"The trails are well marked," Smith says. "You can't get lost." He adds, "They are open seven days a week, from 8 a.m. to dusk."

To get to Kensington, take I-96 to the Kensington Road exit. Stony Creek is reached by taking the Twenty-Six Mile Road exit off the Van Dyke Freeway and following the directional signs to the Nature Center.

Smith explains the booming interest in nature. "With increased populations, industrialization and urbanization of our land, people are reaching out to regain an understanding and appreciation of what a good, clean, healthy environment is. Certainly more leisure time is available to enjoy the out-of-doors."

THE DRAYTON Plains Nature Center for Environmental Education is privately owned, by its membership. Douglas Covert, director and naturalist, and naturalist Kathleen Dougherty alternate conducting Sunday morning walks for one to a dozen persons.

Walks leave at 9 a.m. sharp from the Interpretive Center, 2125 Denby Road, Drayton Plains (take Dixie Highway to Hatchery Road, to Edmore Street, to Denby).

Walks are open to members, but prospective members are invited to join in, according to Covert. Individual membership is $7.50 yearly, $15 for a family.

Covert is proud of the 137-acre sanctuary and its programs of environmental education. The center has been open since 1967, and its nature walks began this January.

WOODS, HARDWOODS, conifer forest, marshes, ponds and rivers are featured on the walks.

"Wear your hiking shoes," Covert cautions. "Some nature trails might just as well be a city park. Ours are real nature trails through the real woods."

He suggests, "Bring insect repellent, too. I'm sure we don't have any exclusive on mosquitos."

Covert says the discovery hikes are ready to go whatever the weather, rain or shine. A walk lasts two to three hours, returning "when we feel like returning, depending on the mood of the group."

ford, offers 17 miles of trail system.

Hartley Thornton, park naturalist, says most of these walks are self guided. Guided group walks are by special request, a month in advance, by mail or phone.

"Three trails are marked in color," he says. "These are through swamp, climax forest of beech maple, cedar swamp, rolling hills and lakeshore."

A special one-mile trail, related to the environmental education program, covers five basic nature resources: Life, climate, water, land use, and minerals or geology.

There are also riding trails on horseback.

ANOTHER ATTRACTION is a man-made ecologically balanced pond community, with turtles, salamanders, frogs and snakes.

The environmental center is located at Edsel Ford's former country retreat, Haven Hill Farm, or Lodge. The property became part of the 5,402-acre Highland State Recreation Area in 1943, and the lodge was opened as a conference center in 1949.

The one-mile nature trail opened along with the environmental center in February of this year. So far, 5,635 persons have visited the nature center and walked its trails.

Thornton says, "The trails are open seven days a week, all the time, even in the winter. In bad weather, we have an inside program."

THE NANKIN MILLS Nature Center at 33175 Ann Arbor Trail in Westland is located in the Middle Rouge Parkway, Wayne County.

The William P. Holiday forest and wildlife preserve is adjacent to the nature center and has about 12 miles of trails. Guided nature walks are available by reservation for groups only, of 20 persons or more.

There is no admission charge to the nature center, which is open all year Tuesdays through Sundays from 1 to 5 p.m. Visitors can observe natural features of the area, see a variety of native birds and wildlife animals and enjoy more than 2,000 acres of parkland.

The historic Nankin Mills building was built before the Civil War. It served the community for many years as a gristmill and was used as a stop for the underground railroad.

REMODELED BY Henry Ford in the 1920s, it again became useful to the people of the area as a factory and a source of electricity.

With its flowing millrace, turbine and hand-hewn beams reminiscent of the past, the mill now serves the community as a natural history museum.

Nankin Mills naturalist Mary Ellsworth is available during center hours for questions on wildlife and artifacts found in the center and museum.

For more information and reservations, write the Wayne County Road Commission Parks Division, 415 Clifford at Bagley, Detroit 48226.

THE CRANBROOK Institute of Science, 500 Lone Pine Road, Bloomfield Hills, has opened its nature center to the public on weekends for the summer.

Naturalist David Radcliffe or volunteers from local Audubon and botanical organizations lead nature hikes from 1 to 4:30 p.m. Saturdays and 1 to 5 p.m. Sundays. Hikers can expect to see mushrooms, nesting birds and blooming Jack-in-the-pulpit flowers in July.

The center covers three acres of natural land at the Cranbrook Educational Community. Nature activities are free with museum admission.

The debate on band is matter of priority

The discussion on whether Centennial Educational Park should have two marching bands is a healthy one for the entire community. The debate centers on an issue which ought to be discussed. Even if there is no immediate resolution, at least residents can join school officials in coming to grips with an age-old question. The current debate about Plymouth-Canton High having its own marching band will certainly be resolved some day. The issue most likely, however, will remain with us for some time.

BESIDES THE question of a separate band for Canton High, there is the issue of whether only the "excellent" musicians should be allowed in bands or if the bands are a learning experience which should be open for more.

Similar arguments are made about whether school sports programs should be limited to varsity sports for a select few, open to all students with only intramural competition, or a mixture. Each resident must answer for himself whether money spent on the bands is best invested in building and maintaining excellence, or in providing a learning experience and appreciation for music.

THE EXCELLENCE of the marching band — or any other high school bands, for that matter — certainly cannot be questioned.

The music program has given the community a source for great pride. Everyone can enjoy the fine talent in the bands when they perform evenings in Kellogg Park. Plymouth is better known throughout the nation and state with the bands travelling to the Orange Bowl and Rose Bowl, and for Gov. Milliken's inaugural. You can't argue with success, and this is one big success story.

But neither can you seriously argue that the main function of any school program should be to provide a learning experience for its students. Being a member of a band not only helps a student learn to play an instrument, but gives him an appreciation for music which will make him a better adult.

Because of the costs of instruments, uniforms and sheet music, bands may never be open to all who wish to join. In this regard, the band program is not the same as an "open door" policy for English, social studies, chess, drama or other extracurricular activities.

But the desire for excellence should never be given higher priority than the need to educate. That is the priority the community must wrestle with and someday find the middle ground.

From our readers

Both schools have many bands

Editor:

One band or two? Having been a band parent for the past few years, I always read with interest any letters pertaining to the band.

Just two short years ago, voters defeated a millage issue that left our schools faced with the prospect of eliminating, among other things, athletics and band. At that time, students and parents went knocking on doors to get enough signatures to have the special election which restored the needed money to run our schools the way we wanted them.

THE FOLLOWING June a bonding issue was passed that included the completion of Canton High. When completed, Canton will have a music department which will need a music library, instruments, uniforms, and a director.

This takes money. Even though the voters just renewed a millage issue at the June 9 election, inflation is taking its toll, and the school board is having to find ways to cut expenses.

Reading letters to the editor, one gets the impression that Plymouth Centennial Educational Park music department has one band — the marching band. We have one director, who is doing a outstanding job, in charge of the two volunteer bands — the concert and symphony bands. Any student willing to work can be in a band.

PARENTS WHO say "Let my child march even if he is out of tune, out of step, and out of uniform" are being very unrealistic. Band members work many hours after school not just learning music, but learning to become part of a unit where every member is responsible to every other member, and they pride themselves in a job well done.

Who wants 2 bands?

Editor:

I am a student at Plymouth Salem High and have talked to some of the band members, and none that I have talked to wants two bands.

They know that they have a great band, and that if they split the band, then Canton will get the worst end. The kids from the band that go to Canton know this.

From what I hear, the 75 kids that didn't make the band don't practice and aren't very good. I think the Canton students that are now in the band would be embarrassed to play with them.

Pause we have a great band and a great band director, let's keep it like it is and save the embarrassment of your kids.

Plymouth library arrivals

William E. Barrett, "Lady of the Lotus." Yasodhara. Her name means Companion to Fame, and it is apt, for she was the wife of Prince Siddharta Gautama, who was to become the Buddha, the Perfectly Enlightened One. To veteran novelist William Barrett, Yasodhara's was one of the great untold stories of the world, one which took him decades to write. "There have been at least one thousand books written about Siddharta," he writes, "and not a single book on the life of Yasodhara, who married him.

Theirs is one of the great romances of world history, a love story unlike any other." In doing research for "Lady of the Lotus," Barrett built a personal library of hundreds of volumes. He talked to many Buddhist scholars, Buddhist monks, and missionaries of other faiths in Buddhist countries. He walked the footsteps of Siddharta. It is, Barrett says, "a story that I know well in lands that I know. I have built many intuitive bridges but I believe that the bridges are sound, that this is the story as it was."

PCAC withdraws sculpture offer

Editor:

The Plymouth Community Arts Council was founded with a desire to bring pleasure and joy into the lives of the Plymouth residents. It was our intent that a gift of a sculpture to the city would do just that. It was also our intent, after city commission approval of such a gift, to present the design of the sculpture to the community in a public meeting where a fair description of the work, its idea, and materials could be presented for reaction and questions. After plans were final as to location and design of the sculpture, a presentation to the Bicentennial Commission was the next step.

Unfortunately the drawing, which was rendered only for a group meeting, was sent to the newspaper and has caused great concern in the pub-

2 friends of retarded could win national honors

By MARGARET MILLER

Clifford Page, a man whose name in this area has come to mean friend of the retarded, soon may be known nationally for his compassion and skill in that kind of special education.

Page, principal of two schools housing programs for the retarded and handicapped of six school districts, has been named Educator of the Year by the Michigan Association for Retarded Citizens and will be considered by the National Association of Retarded Citizens (NARC) for its highest honor.

At the same time, Mrs. Kathleen Uhlig, a member of Page's faculty, is in the running for National Teacher of the Year in the area of retardation.

Both were nominated by the Northwest Communities Association for Retarded Citizens, which has members from Livonia, Garden City, Plymouth, Redford Union, South Redford and Northville, and both were selected by the Michigan association to represent the state.

National winners will be announced in August.

THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION specifies in its criteria for top awards that those named must have furthered NARC goals of "full educational opportunities for all mentally retarded persons" and also must have prompted awareness of these goals among parents and in the community.

Page's qualifications in this regard were stated in letters from many who had worked closely with him.

"Mr. Page's personal philosophy of treating every individual, regardless of his handicap, as a first class citizen, and providing the maximum educational opportunities for him is widely known by educators and parents alike," wrote Gus Kaselemis, Redford Union district director of special education.

"This message is carried over into the communities where he serves on various committees and speaks at many functions."

"He has never felt that the children must fit our program," wrote Mrs. Leonora LaPyrne, teacher aide in the trainable program at Harrison School. "but rather that the program fit the needs and capabilities of the children."

CHARLOTTE NICHOLS, who has worked under Page in the newly-developed Northwest Wayne Skill Center, providing vocational training for the educationally handicapped, told in her letter of his leadership in gradual development of a wide range of services for the retarded and handicapped.

"Mr. Page," she wrote, "has consistently worked toward this goal: to provide for every special education child from birth through adulthood the opportunity to learn according to ability and potential, becoming

Don Grabowski, special education director in South Redford, said Page "has always been willing to go an extra step, beyond the call of duty, to assist a handicapped child or his family."

Barbara Moore, past president of the Northwest Communities Association, pointed to his "steadfast and kindly work with parents to encourage them to let their child become an adult and not overprotect at home."

"I have found that he is very fair and will go to whatever lengths necessary to see that every child in his program is given every opportunity to succeed," wrote Mrs. Sylvia Kloc, newsletter editor for the Northwest Communities association.

COMMENDATIONS also came from leaders of related programs in which Page has played a vital role.

Jan Plas, president of Community Opportunity Center, told of Page's assistance in establishing first a sheltered workshop and recently a group home for retarded adults in Plymouth and said in the latter project he had provided "invaluable background as to the needs and future expectations for each potential resident."

Delora Yori, president of the board of the Northwestern Guidance Clinic for retarded citizens, said he had had "great impact" in developing clinic programs. Judge James E. Mies of 16th District Court reported Page "willingly undertook another role—that of a volunteer probation officer working with mentally handicapped probationers."

One other facet of his impact on special education was mentioned by Nancy Gould, a teacher in the Harrison trainable program, who said he has "done much to attract and prepare teachers for careers in special education by his willingness to talk to others about the rewards of such a career."

PAGE, A GRADUATE of Drake University in Des Moines, taught first in Greenfield, Iowa, and then went to Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., where he began special education work.

He came to Livonia in 1957 to teach an experimental program with the trainable mentally-retarded, the first in Wayne County. It involved with 22 retarded persons who met in St. Andrew Episcopal Church.

That program ended in 1959 and Page, while teaching the educable retarded in the Livonia district and earning a master's degree in retardation at Wayne State University, helped the Livonia Association for the Retarded organize a school for the trainable.

In 1963 the Michigan Legislature passed an act making it permissible, but not mandatory, for a school district to operate a trainable program, and the Livonia district took over the Clifford Page School. The following year the program went regional to include Redford, Garden City, Plymouth and Northville retardates.

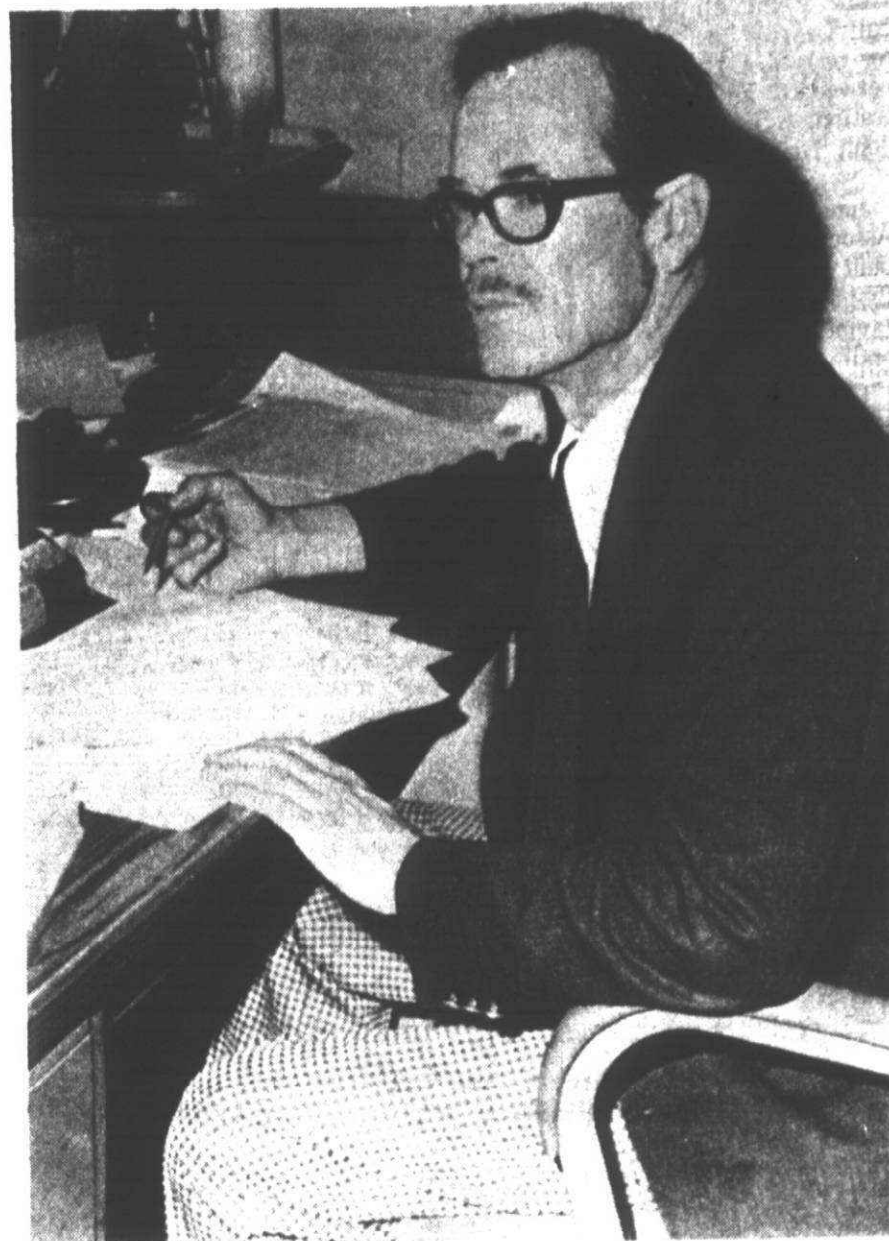

LATER CAME development of a day care center, sheltered workshops, work activities centers and finally today's trainable program and skills center. Page has been a leader throughout the developments.

He also has been active in church work, currently teaching a bible class, and in Great Books groups. He and his family make their home in South Lyon.

He has said his one great ambition is "to live long enough to see this nation a nation where special laws and grants are not needed to ensure the retarded, the lame, the blind, the poor and the helpless the right to live in dignity anywhere, to work anywhere where qualified, to have access to all public recreational activities as a right, not out of pity."

KATHLEEN UHLIG, a teacher in Livonia's special education program for seven years, currently is doing "early intervention" work as part of the Harrison staff.

This involves going into homes of young retarded children to help their parents learn to live with their problem, making referrals for further assistance where necessary.

Her work also extends into all the districts covered by the trainable program.

"I receive referrals from teachers, neighbors, members of the Northwest Communities Association, sometimes from the parents themselves," she said. "The number of visits I make varies with the family, but it is, in all cases, a continuing program."

Mrs. Uhlig also has taught a pre-school program for children three and four years old at Harrison, but a next year will expand the early intervention program and devote her full time to it.

A graduate of State College of New York at Potsdam, she also has a master's in special education of the mentally retarded from Buffalo State Teachers College.

She taught in New York State, Pennsylvania and Baltimore before coming to Livonia.

'Don't abuse wilderness'

It's the attitude that counts in backpacking

By MARILYN FITCHETT

Prospective campers in the Livonia Family Y backpacking class are getting a lesson in something they probably never thought about—attitude.

While teaching camping and survival techniques, instructor Bill Halvangis stresses that having the correct attitude is as important as having adequate equipment.

"It's terrible to get out on a trail with all kinds of garbage and areas where there is complete abuse of wilderness," Halvangis said.

"People can learn to pack their own garbage and watch where they're walking.

"Instead of woodcraft and tearing down the environment, I teach people to make just a small firecircle. Then, the place will look good in just a couple of weeks after they've left."

ANOTHER THORN in Halvangis' side is the number of beer cans he finds on wilderness trails.

"There's nothing worse than to have really worked for four or five hours to get to your destination, only to find a ton of beer cans.

"How they get that far out into the country I don't know. And why they come this far to drink that much beer I don't know."

Halvangis has several years of camping experience. He is a graduate of Outward Bound, a camping survival program in Colorado, where he survived temperatures of 18 degrees below zero with only a poncho, steel and flint, jackknife, a whistle and a compass and map.

A social group worker with Brightmoor Community Center, Halvangis said backpacking has become popular for many reasons.

"I THINK IT'S the solitude and the escape," he said. "It's a totally different environment that's so much more simple than the highway and concrete environment we see every day.

"It's also a sport that everyone can do. One time when I was out, I ran into a family of seven. The youngest child was about six, and she was carrying a tiny daypack.

"They were at the end of their second week of camping. They were careful to map out their route near resupply points."

HALVANGIS DEBUNKED the myth that backpacking must be expensive.

"You can find a lot of the stuff you'll need in the house. Of course, you can buy a tent for $180 or you can buy sheets of plastic or a poncho and use that for a tent. It's more of a hassle, but you'll probably save $175.

"Where you have to pay the extra price is in terms of carrying the extra weight.

"Freeze-dried foods are expensive, but they're light and compact. What you can do is try a combination of maybe freeze-dried hamburger and a box of hamburger helper.

"The supermarkets carry a pretty wide range of dried foods that you can get along with."

Does the backpacker have to be in top physical shape?

"Being in shape helps. But all you have to do is go according to what you can take. At the Colorado survival trip, there was a tiny, frail woman who didn't look like she could do much, but by the end, she was carrying a killer pack of 55-60 pounds.

"You toughen up as you go along."

IS IT WORTH IT to backpack in Michigan?

"There are some fine areas near Pinckney and Holly. But for the most part, this area is flat with shrubs for greenery. It's good for day hikes.

"You have to go north of Clare before you get into a change of scenery—rolling hills and pines.

"The Manistique forest area is really nice, and I like the Traverse City area for backpacking."

Do novices have to know much survival technique?

"You don't need to know a lot of the particulars. The best thing to know is precaution. You don't take chances. If you're walking along ledges or overhangs, you're inviting danger."

RU's John MacKenzie O&E track and field coach of year

After 13 years as head track coach, it takes a lot to get Redford Union High School's John MacKenzie excited.

During nip and tuck dual meet finishes or down-to-the-last-event drama in the big meets, the 39-year-old MacKenzie remains unflappable and cool, eyes on the ever-present stopwatch, taking victory or defeat as part of the continuous string of events that makes up high school track and field.

But one thing that will get the veteran coach going every time is talking about the group of kids he is coaching at any particular time.

"THIS YEAR'S GROUP was a fine bunch of kids. They were good, loyal and hard working. It was a very satisfying year," MacKenzie said.

Satisfying for MacKenzie not only because his team finished with a fine 7-4 dual meet record while competing in the tough Suburban Eight Conference, but also because his team won both the Observer & Eccentric Relays and the state regional title.

For his fine showing this year, MacKenzie has been named Observer & Eccentric track coach of the year.

MacKenzie, who has coached some great teams in his career including the 1969 RU team which won the state championship, has developed a philosophy of coaching which is not dependent upon winning.

"In the end, whether you win or lose really doesn't affect the season that much. It's what you do out there every day and the effort you put forth that's important," he said.

Redford Union's secret to success in the big meets was its depth. With a large group of talented athletes such as captain and shot-putter Brad Ross, and seniors Doug Milne, Mike Hasty, Joe Austin, Jack Helzer, Dane Eschamcher and Ron Pawlack, the Panthers had point-getters in virtually every event.

And in junior Jim Lalonde, the team not only had an athlete who will be among the best in the state next year, but also an inspiration. Lalonde recovered from a case of scarlet fever early in the year to come on as a top-flight quarter miler toward the end of the year.

LALONDE'S TEAMMATES VOTED the potential state champion captain of next year's squad.

But because of the numerous talented seniors who will be lost via graduation, MacKenzie realizes that the prospects of repeating as Observer & Eccentric Relays and state regional champions next year are not bright in spite of the return of Lalonde - a fact which doesn't particularly bother him.

"As I sit here rocking in my chair, I would say we won't be as good next year as we were this year. And again this was a very satisfying year but not necessarily in comparison to last year. You have to take each year as it comes. I really don't dwell on the past. This year was nice, but I'm always looking ahead," he said.

JOHN MACKENZIE of Redford Union

Churchill's Cheadle, Spartan duo are area prep tennis standouts

For Livonia Churchill's Mark Cheadle and Livonia Stevenson's Jeff Johnson and Kip Nickel, early defeat in the state tournament could not affect what was otherwise a fine season for the area's top prep tennis players.

And though both the best singles player and doubles team in the area suffered the first round defeats in state tournament held at Kalamazoo two weeks ago, the potential that they showed throughout the season makes them good prospects to help out their college teams.

The senior Cheadle won the regional title last month with a convincing 7-5, 6-3 victory over Canton's Steve Preuter.

THROUGHOUT REGIONAL PLAY Cheadle was never taken to three sets as he advanced through five rounds.

Cheadle went through the regular season with a 12-1 record and led the Chargers to an identical record and a Western Six championship.

"Mark was very coachable. I don't think that he received the quality of competition I would have liked to see this year, however," said John Jason, the Churchill coach.

Jason pointed out that the player Cheadle lost to in the first round of the state tournament, Tom Hackenberg of Kalamazoo Loy Norrix, advanced to the semifinals of state competition before bowing out of the tournament.

"Mark played well in the tournament considering the strange environment and the opponent," Jason said.

Cheadle lost in the tournament 6-1, 7-5.

He will attend Henry Ford Community College and hopes to become a part of its tennis program.

THE AREA'S TOP DOUBLES combination of Jeff Johnson and Kip Nickel qualified for the state championship by finishing second in the regional at Northville.

The Spartan pair, both of whom are seniors, advanced to the regional finals by winning four preliminary matches.

Johnson and Nickel showed that they could remain cool under pressure during the preliminaries as the last three matches went to three sets and the duo won those three sets by 6-4, 6-4 and 7-5 margins.

Nickel was voted most valuable player on the Stevenson team this year by his teammates and Johnson was the captain of the Spartans.

Johnson and Nickel alternated between first and second singles and first doubles throughout the season in which Stevenson went 10-4.

As a doubles team, they were untouchable during the regular season. Their only losses while playing together were to Northville in the regional final and to Edsel Ford in the opening round of the state finals.

Nickel will attend Michigan Tech and Johnson will enroll at Hillsdale College this fall.

Avis top CMU gymnast

During his freshman year in college, Ken Avis took a gymnastics course as a requirement for physical education credit. Now he has gone on to win the Doc Sweeney Award, Central Michigan University's top gymnastics award.

Team captain Avis, a junior who prepped at Livonia Stevenson High School, recently was presented the award which signifies outstanding ability in athletics, academics and leadership.

Never competing in gymnastics until his freshman year at Schoolcraft College, he finished 12th in the nation in all-around competition and sixth on the horizontal bars at the Junior College Nationals his sophomore year.

His first year at CMU he finished the season with the top team scores in three categories: parallel bars, horizontal bars and all-around.

Avis was among nine team members who were awarded varsity letters for the 1974-75 season in which CMU finished sixth in the Lake Erie League and was 3-5 on the year.

LIVONIA CHURCHILL'S Bill Reardon was voted track and field athlete of the year recently by area coaches. The senior Reardon, who competed in the shot put, won the Mansfield Relays, the biggest pre-season meet in the midwest, and the Spartan Relays, the largest indoor meet in Michigan, and finished third in the state high school Class A meet. Reardon narrowly beat out Plymouth Salem's Mark DeMerit in the balloting. Other athletes nominated included Garden City East's Doug Sweazey, Livonia Stevenson's Ken Brown and Paul Lokar and Westland, John Glenn's Tom Jakubowski.

Wrong name

The June 19 Observer & Eccentric incorrectly listed Paul Lokar of Livonia Stevenson as the third member of the All-Area track and field team in the 220-yard dash event.

The third member in that event, as selected by area coaches, was Stevenson's Paul Pongor.

New courts, title lift West

By JIM BRADLEY

Tennis coach George Hanosh looked out over the new surface being applied to Garden City West's courts Friday and exclaimed, "It's beautiful!"

The fresh green courts with reddish-brown borders gleamed in the bright sunlight. "It will add much to the appearance of all our buildings," he added.

Beautiful also was the gleaming new championship trophy the West tennis team had won with a glittering 12-0 Tri-River League record. Hanosh's racket squad won 16 consecutive matches this season, dropping its opener and the concluding one.

The 16-2 mark, coupled with last year's 16-3 record, gave this group of tennis players a combined total of 32 wins and only five setbacks.

"Our overall strength and depth made this a real good team, one of the best we've had in my 10 years here," Hanosh pointed out.

After finishing second to Crestwood last year with a 9-3 Tri-River record, the Tigers put it together, knocking over Chrry Hill, their competitor, 6-1 and 4-3, to win this year. The Spartans didn't lose another match as they finished with a 10-2 mark, followed in order by Schafer (7-5), Riverside (5-7), Kennedy and Crestwood (both 4-8) and Southgate with 0-12.

Pacing Hanosh's court crew were junior Rick Gwizdz with a 17-1 record and senior Rick Novak with 13-4. Both made all-league as did West's number no. 1 doubles team of seniors Mark Strobel and Dave Taylor who defeated 15 of 18 opponents.

The championship, Hanosh's fourth in 10 years and the first since 1972, was helped along by the inspirational play of senior Fred Bennett who is partially paralyzed on his entire right side.

The courageous courtman practiced faithfully in his sophomore and junior years to overcome his handicap but never played in a varsity match.

His great desire paid off this year as he finished with an outstanding 13-5 record and won the 'Most Improved' player award on West's championship tennis squad.

Adray, MNB stay perfect in Berry

Adray Appliance swept four games last week to remain undefeated and in command of the Livonia Berry League Connie Mack National Division.

Howard Copeland struck out eight and walked five to lead Appliance to a 13-5 pasting of Berry Blue.

Blue started with two runs in the first on Bill Longeway's single and a double error by Appliance. Appliance committed four errors in that game.

The league leaders got one run back in the first on George Willard's sacrifice fly and tallied four times in the second to put the game away.

Greg Wood singled to start the second inning rally and with two out, Tom Jones and Howard Copeland both walked.

Gary Stafford then delivered a grand slam home run to left-center field to settle the matter.

The Appliance rightfielder had two hits and five RBIs for the day. Rich Campbell also had three hits and 2 RBIs.

APPLIANCE — FISCHETTI

Appliance scored four runs in the fourth inning and went on to top Fischetti Floors 7-3 last Saturday.

Dan Bushart and Howard Copeland combined for the win, striking out eight and walking four.

John Gazley started the fourth inning rally with a triple and Bushart knocked him in with a base hit. Following a Fischetti error, Gary Stafford slammed a two-RBI triple and scored on another Fischetti error.

Fischetti rallied for three runs in the fifth to send Bushart to the showers but Copeland came on to strike out Jim Hill and end the rally.

APPLIANCE — RED

Roger Frayer's Berry Red team committed five errors and Appliance took full advantage to win 5-1 Tuesday in a rain shortened game.

Ron Jess went the distance for Appliance to pick up the victory. Appliance scored twice in the first inning to give Jess all the cushion he would need. That rally was highlighted by a pair of double steals and two single thefts as well as three walks and two Red errors.

Two Appliance runners were thrown out at the plate while attempting to score on passed balls in the third but Appliance managed to score once that inning on Jess' RBI single.

Jess picked up another RBI in the fifth on a sacrifice fly.

Red scored its only run in the sixth when shortstop B.J. LaJoie drilled a Jess pitch to left-centerfield for a home run.

MICHIGAN NATIONAL — RED

Michigan National Bank put together three of its four hits for the day in a two-run third inning and Greg Sipus shut off Berry Red on three hits as MNB advanced its record to 3-0 in National League competition Thursday.

In a pitcher's duel between Sipus and Red's Bill Bardwell, only seven hits were recorded in a game that lasted less than an hour and one-half.

In the critical third inning, Pat Ruvolo started MNB with a one-out single. Ruvolo stole second and came home on Tim Murphy's single to right. Rob Rose followed with a double to right-center to bring home Murphy with the game's second, and final, run.

Red threatened in the fourth when Dennis Slater doubled and Matt Foster singled. But Sipus walked the next batter and then bore down to end the Red threat.

Sipus struck out four and walked five while Bardwell recorded two strikeouts and one walk.

PANTHERS—REEF

The Redford Panthers advanced their Berry League American Division record to 3-1 with a 9-1 pasting of Northville Reef Thursday.

Brian Macek came on in the third inning in relief of Craig Barrowcliff to hold Reef hitless for the final five innings and record the victory.

Mark Ward started the Panthers in the first inning with a 350 foot home run to left field and the Redford team added a pair in the second when A.J. Baker walked, Jeff Sheeran and Bruce Stadler singled and Jerry Thom doubled.

The Panthers tallied five times in the seventh to put the game away when Thom, Jim Grimwade and Mike Walton all singled and Mike Walker tripled off the leftfield fence. Walker later scored on a fielder's choice.

ADRAY APPLIANCE — THURSTON

Adray Appliance topped Thurston 1-0 in eightinnings in National Division Berry League play Thursday.

Ted Ackerman went the distance for Adray, striking out eight and walking three for the win. Randy Rodriguez held off Adray most of the way but wilted in the eighth and took the loss for Thurston while striking out nine and walking two. Adray scored its run in the eighth when Joe Rucinski singled and Gary Stafford walked.

Ted Ackerman then advanced both runners with a sacrifice bunt and Dan Bushart ended things with a solid single to left.

Thurston had two runners on base in the first, second and fifth innings but could never get a runner beyond second.

Snyders splits, leads division by one game

Snyder's Softball Club of Redford had its worst week of the season, managing only a split in a doubleheader against Q & Q Printing of Roseville last week. As a result, Snyder's West Division lead in the Major Metro Travel League was cut to one game over Little Caesars of Southgate.

Playing on its home field, Q & Q Printing won the opener, 13-5, breaking open a close game with five runs in the fifth inning and four more in the sixth. Snyder's recovered to win the nightcap, 16-3, as Jim Mitchell batted out a home run and batted home four runs and Dave Rhodes homered and accounted for three RBI.

On Tuesday night, Snyder's returns to action at Claude Allison Field in Redford, meeting All Pro of Oak Park in two games. All Pro has the worst record in the league, with a mere two victories in 26 games.

MEIJER AWARDS

Mrs. Gezina Meijer, Fred Meijer, and Roland VanValkenburg. Mrs. Meijer and Mr. Van presented Fred with his 40-year award.

AT THE ANNUAL Awards Banquet this year, over 900 Meijer employees and retirees were honored. In Grand Rapids, the Banquet was held at the Civic Auditorium where awards were presented to those on the Western side of the state. There were 609 employees receiving five year awards, 124 receiving ten year awards, 27 receiving fifteen year awards, 11 receiving twenty year awards, and five receiving twenty-five year awards. Mrs. Gezina Meijer, Chairman of the Board Emerita, and Mr. Roland Van Valkenburg, Vice President of Meat Operations Emeritus, presented Fred Meijer with his 40 year award. Also recognized were 60 retirees. In Lansing, the banquet was held at Long's Banquet Center for the Eastern side of the state. There were 209 employees receiving five year awards, and nine employees receiving ten year awards. Also recognized were 11 retirees.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Moody attended the banquet in Lansing. Bob who received his five year pin this year, works as the Meat Manager in the South Pennsylvania Meijer Thrifty Acres in Lansing.

MANY MEIJER employees have chosen to stay with us for a long time. We're proud of that fact, and we're proud of them! Our "old-timers" form the backbone of the company. With their experience, they help in the diversified fields necessary to keep the company going. With their creativity, they help us grow. We hope that, as the years roll on, many, many more Meijer employees are added to the rolls of five or more years of service.

TRUCK DRIVERS, cashiers, managers, meat cutters, grocery stockers, and many other Meijer employees received awards. At Meijer, we have always believed in the dignity of each person's work. All jobs in our company are necessary and, therefore, all are important. We feel it isn't what you do, it's how you do it! With a mutual respect, it's a better place for you, the customer, to shop and it's a better place for us to work.

CONGRATULATIONS and thank you to all Meijer employee Awards Winners!
