School trustee resigns, cites health

GARY MIRTO

By ELINOR GRAHAM

"I would have dearly loved to complete my term," said Plymouth School Trustee Gary Mirto after announcing his resignation at Monday night's school board meeting.

Mirto was elected to a four-year term on the board in June 1972 when he and Marda Benson, now board president, were top vote-getters.

"As I am painfully aware," Mirto said, "my attendance has been poor." He added that personal health problems had brought about the decision and necessitated the reduction of his activities both within and outside his job.

He said he had decided to make a clean break with the board without giving several weeks' notice of his intentions.

He cited the example of John Graves' announced resignation when, in his estimation, more time was spent considering Graves' replacement than on regular board business.

"On a seven-man board, one vote is very important," Mirto added with the hope of an immediate appointment to fill out his term of office.

"You can't vote off the top of your head. You have to read the background information—do your homework," he said, referring to the number of board meetings he had been unable to attend.

"After 3½ years on the board, there is still a lot to be done."

BOARD secretary George Lawton was president of the board when Mirto was elected.

Lawton said: "I enjoyed having him on the board. He has been interesting to work with."

School Supt. John M. Hoben said: "Gary made a significant contribution to the board of education. His openness and dedication to tasks was exceptional.

"He represented the citizens of the district well in the sense he often challenged and evaluated procedures and programs, always seeking a better approach of getting the job done. We'll miss him. He presented a constructive challenge to the administration in getting the job done for the school district."

Mirto's ability to express himself made him one of the most-quoted members of the board. When his way with words was extended to a series of memos to fellow trustees and the administration some controversy resulted.

Trustee Carl Berry, appointed in June 1972 to fill the seat vacated by John Hanskat's resignation, claimed Mirto's memos "put the cap" on his decision not to seek re-election.

A series of the memos was printed in this newspaper at Mirto's request to refute Berry's claim that there was dissension among the board members.

Mirto said, "Since July 10 this board has had 206 votes. Of those, all but three were unanimous.

A July 19, 1972 memo from Mirto to his fellow board members said:

"It is my position, and it always will be, that I have an obligation to be protective of and helpful to your (board members) respective positions. You are my colleagues and I owe a loyalty to that relationship.

"If all of us do not share that same conviction with respect to one another, we run the very real risk of becoming isolated from one another and reducing our influence as individuals and a board."

Earl Hogan, assistant superintendent of Plymouth Community School District, said: "Gary is a very bright, articulate young man who has contributed much to the school district by his almost four years on the board.

"He will be difficult to replace."

Time to apply for board seat

Applications for the position on the Plymouth Board of Education left vacant by the resignation of Trustee Gary Mirto will be accepted until 4 p.m. Monday, Jan. 12, at the Board of Education office.

Persons interested in being appointed to the board should write a letter addressed to Board President Marda Benson, 454 S. Harvey, Plymouth 48170.

The letter should list the applicant's qualifications for the school board, indicate an understanding of the role of the a school board trustee, and explain why the applicant is interested.

All applications will be reviewed by the board, starting Jan. 12. Every applicant will be interviewed by board members, with times set up as soon as possible after Jan. 12.

The person appointed to the board will only hold office until the June, 1976, school election.

Appointment of a new trustee will be made at the regular board meeting on Jan. 26. According to Michigan School Law, vacancies on school boards must be filled within 20 days after the vacancy occurs.

If the appointment isn't made within that 20 days, the vacancy will be filled by appointment of the superintendent of the Wayne County Intermediate School District.

The names of all those who apply for the school board position will be made public after Jan. 12, says Ms. Benson, but the contents of the application and the interview will be confidential.

Detroit Edison agrees on subdivision street lights

Canton officials have reason to suspect the holiday spirit may have infected Detroit Edison.

The last week of 1975, Edison's director of customer and marketing services, Ralph Mertz, sent Clerk John Flodin a letter informing him that Edison would once again begin installing subdivision street lights.

Mertz said, "After a review of our company's current finances, we have determined that we should suspend the requirement for construction advances for street lighting orders and proceed to install lights again on a normal basis."

Edison had originally requested that all municipalities asking for street lights put up the money for installation in advance.

Edison had then planned to reimburse the municipality over a period of years until the lights were paid for.

"I DON'T FOR the life of me understand the change," said Flodin, "but I sure am pleased. I've worked for two years on this and done everything under the sun."

Subdivisions affected by the change in Edison's policy include Carriage Hills 4, 5 and 6, Windsor Park 4, 5, and 6; Pickwick, Cherry Hill Pines, and Willow Creek 3 and 4.

Mertz said, "We will install pending lights as quickly as possible in line with our present backlog of street lighting orders and other construction commitments.

"We can proceed with orders for overhead lights very quickly and start construction on underground lights when frost and ground conditions permit, probably about the first of April."

Mertz added, "Although we are resuming construction of street lighting on a normal basis under our present rules, there is pending before the Michigan Public Service Commission a revision to rule 3.3-Line Extension Policy that may affect future construction."

FLODIN SAID, "It's kind of a wishy-washy letter. They say they'll put the lights in, but the inference is there that if the Public Service Commission rules in Edison's favor, they won't.

"It's too vague."

Edison had requested the Public Service Commission to change the financial arrangement for certain construction projects where the cost of construction was greater than the first-year income from the project.

In those situations, the company was asking that the party benefitted from the construction pay part of the cost.

A ruling was expected at the end of 1975, and Flodin said a decision could be handed down anytime.

But Mertz said he didn't know if a decision would affect street lighting in subdivisions.

He commented, "The most important thing to note is that our financial picture has improved and we can resume street light construction without asking anyone to front the money."

Finally!

After months of hassling by Canton officials, the Wayne County Road Commission agreed to install a traffic signal to replace the yellow blinker at Canton Center and Cherry Hill across from the fire station. The new light, installed Monday, can be operated from inside the fire station in case of emergency runs. Sergeant Ken Witt demonstrates how.

Mishap kills shop owner

Carl Lehrke, Jr., 39-year-old church leader, was killed instantly and his wife, Eleanor, seriously injured in an auto crash near Oscoda, Mich. on New Year's Day.

Both are extremely active members of Ward United Presbyterian Church in Livonia, where he was an elder and served on the missions committee.

The couple had moved to Canton Twp. early last year after many years as Livonia residents. They are the owners of the Alpha Book Store on Plymouth Rd. in Livonia. A second book store was opened in the Total Shopping Center on Ford Rd., near Canton Center Rd., over a year ago.

An accountant with the Detroit Edison Co., Lehrke was active in a Junior Achievement group sponsored by the utility company.

But his first love, according to friends, was in carrying out the missionary work of his church. For the past three years, the couple taught mission class to Ward bible school youngsters. He also helped organize a trip to El Salvador for Ward teenagers several years ago and personally visited mission fields in Equador. He was also active in the ministry at the New Life Mission, serving the needs of Detroit's inner-city.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at Ward church with the Reverends Dr. L. Bartlett Hess, L. Edward Davis and David Owen officiating. Interment was in Oakland Hills Cemetery, Novi.

Mrs. Lehrke is hospitalized in the intensive care unit in St. Luke Hospital, Saginaw, but is expected to be brought to an area hospital as soon as her condition permits.

According to the family, the couple had left their Canton Twp. home at 1 p.m. New Years's Day for a two-day vacation. The accident occurred at 5 p.m. as Lehrke reportedly was making a left turn off U.S.23 into a restaurant parking lot.

In addition to his wife, he leaves four children: Sheryl, 15; Mark, 14; Jeffery, 11; and Robert, 5; his mother, Mrs. Catherine Lehrke; three sisters, Mrs. Madelyn Kendall, Mrs. Catherine Cox and Mrs. Marion Tyler.

Tax help needed

Volunteers are needed if Canton Township is going to continue its tax assistance program for senior citizens.

That's the word from township hall. Supervisor Robert Greenstein said, "We're determined to keep our program going this year, but we desperately need assistance from concerned residents of Canton."

The program consists of volunteers who are trained by professionals recruited from the State Treasury Department to complete tax rebate forms.

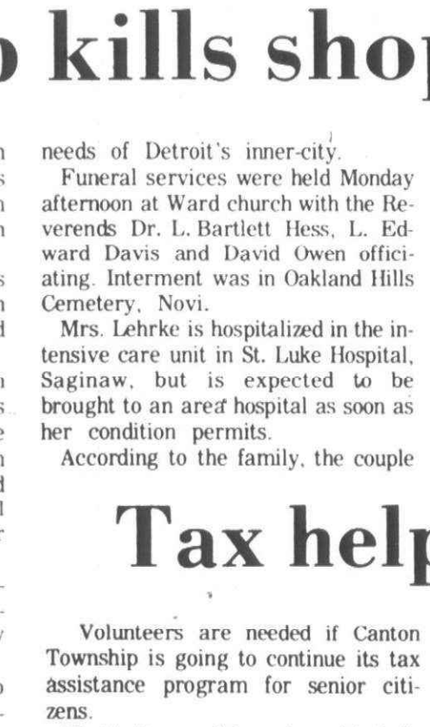

Residents enrolling in the program will be asked to come to the training session, a two-hour course, and then donate a few hours a week from Jan. 19 through Feb. 27.

No special previous training is needed, explained Greenstein, "just the desire to help our seniors."

Anyone interested in the program should contact Pam Phillips at township offices, 44508 Geddes Road.

New Canton editor named by O&E

RICHARD GOLD

Richard Gold has been appointed community editor of the Canton Observer & Eccentric, effective immediately.

Gold, named to fill the position held by Emory Daniels, returns to Canton after a six month stint as sports editor of the Rochester Observer & Eccentric.

Daniels will continue as Plymouth Community Editor, but will relinquish his responsibilities in Canton. Both will cover the schools, while Gold will handle Canton news, and Daniels, Plymouth and Plymouth Township news.

"The idea behind the move," explained Executive Editor John Reddy, "was to free up more of Emory's time for covering Plymouth and Plymouth Township, while giving Canton its own fulltime editor.

"Rich knows the community because he covered it as a reporter before he went to Rochester."

Gold, a graduate in economics and journalism in 1974 from the University of Michigan, is entering his second year with the Observer & Eccentric newspapers.

Shortly after being hired by the Observer & Eccentric, Gold was assigned to cover Canton as a reporter in October 1974 when the O & E started the Canton edition. After working in that capacity for seven months, he went to Rochester.

"Rich's knowledge of Canton, its problems and specifics, and his background in sports should help the Canton paper meet the needs of the community," explained Philip Power, co-publisher of the Observer & Eccentric.

"His knowledge of sports should help us bring the best local coverage of athletics to the Plymouth and Canton communities."

Gold, 24, is married to the former Anne Beebe of Dearborn. They live in South Lyon.

"I'm glad to be back covering Canton," said Gold, "and I look forward to the challenge of being editor of the Canton paper.

"It is an exciting fast-growing community, and yet it retains much of its rural history and charm. It is inter-

Officials attend twp. convention

Officers and trustees from Plymouth and Canton townships will be getting a refresher course in their responsibilities this week at the 23rd annual Michigan Townships Convention in Grand Rapids.

Treasurer Joe West will be representing Plymouth Township, and most, if not all, of the members of the Canton Board of Trustees are expected to attend the four-day convention.

The convention, which sponsors workshops, explains legal issues, and offers solutions to a number of common problems faced by township officials, will also serve as a training program for township officers.

"This is a learning session and a place where we can share problems and learn how to do a better job," explained Canton Treasurer Carl Parsell.

"It's a time when we can re-learn our responsibilities and it's a time when we can ask questions without there seeming to be some political motivation.

"All the officers have their own sessions, and we'll all be involved in different seminars and workshops."

LAST YEAR proved most profitable for Canton officials, according to Parsell. "We learned that we could license all businesses in the township and we learned about better methods of tax collection.

"In fact, the computer tax-collection system we're using right now is a result of last year's convention."

West said he was looking forward to the various displays of office equipment. "I like to see what's new on the market ," the Plymouth Township treasurer said. "It gives us a chance to look at the different supplies available. It doesn't mean we'll buy anything, but at least we know what's available."

West said the seminars would be helpful. "I'm looking forward to the work sessions regarding financing, labor relations, fire and police organizing, and delinquent taxes. They should be educational and helpful. They run a sound program."

Plymouth Township Planner Norm Dietrich will also sit in on the planning sessions.

PARSELL SAID three areas particularly appealed to him. "We're going to take a close look at what they have to say about federal and state grants; labor relations; organization of a police department; and ordinance officers.

"We'll compare notes with others. The labor relations should be particularly interesting because we have contracts pending with the DPW, the firemen, and the building department."

Parsell said Canton officials would also be taking notes on recreation programs. "Right now we all have our own programs, and it seems like Plymouth Township, Plymouth, and Canton are all competing instead of cooperating. We're anxious for some accord and more cooperation instead of competition."

The convention is scheduled to end Friday, and township officials are expected back Saturday afternoon.

Senior citizens can volunteer

Senior citizens can volunteer to help handicapped and institutionalized children through the Foster Grandparent Program.

They work four hours a day, five days a week giving two hours a day to each child assigned. The volunteer might feed and dress the child or play games and read stories. Volunteers will be trained and supervised by a child-care team. They also receive $32 a week, plus transportation money.

For other kinds of volunteer opportunities for seniors, send for a free copy of "Volunteer Opportunities for Older American." Write Consumer Information, Dept. 67, Pueblo, Colo.

Canton pilot survives Bermuda air crash

By DENNY COFFMAN

Two veteran aircraft pilots—one from Garden City and the other from Canton Township—are living proof of the old adage "the best laid plans go oft astray."

What began as a carefully planned one-month vacation for Dennis Mitchell, 25, of Canton, and Don Shanks, 24, of Garden City, flight instructors at National Flying School in Westland, ended right in the middle of the infamous Bermuda triangle.

After their Cherokee 160 airplane mysteriously lost altitude 88 miles southeast of Nassau, in the heart of a triangle stretching from Florida to Bermuda to Puerto Rico, Shanks and Mitchell crash landed on Little San Salvador Island, about 300 miles southeast of Miami.

Although Shanks and Mitchell discount stories about the triangle, where many ships and planes have apparently disappeared without a trace during the last several years, they admitted that their own crash occurred under strange circumstances.

For one thing, the men say they don't really know what caused their plane to lose altitude New Year's Day about 3:30 p.m..

"WE CAN only guess," said Mitchell, "at what caused the mechanical failure. In this case, it might have been a faulty cylinder."

But the reason for the plane's failure lies buried under sand in the waist-high water off Little San Salvador Island.

"We had plenty of gas—nearly a full tank," said Shanks, who said the Cherokee was in good operating condition before the pair began their flight.

The plane was well known to western Wayne County apprentice flyers, who had gotten their first taste of flying for $3 where the plane had been hangared—the Westland Flying School on Ford near Newburgh—before Mitchell purchased the craft and left for the West Indies with Shanks.

Coincidentally, the two flyers' destination had been San Salvador, a larger island east of Little San Salvador.

There was another coincidence, too. The two flyers were logging their 13th hour of air time during their stay in the Nassau area when the incident occurred.

"BUT EVEN before that, we'd noticed some fluctuations in our compass, by as much as 25 degrees," said Shanks. He said the fluctuation had taken place as the pair were flying back to Nassau—after leaving the Bermuda triangle.

"It's kind of eerie flying over the triangle area," said Shanks, who with Mitchell had flown over the area several times before.

"We were fascinated flying over it," said Shanks. "It has a strange climate; everything's kind of hazy and there seem to be shadows around the clouds."

"We're not personally pushing the Bermuda triangle thing, mind you," said Mitchell. "But we're still wondering about it," said Shanks.

Mitchell was flying the plane as it began to lose altitude approaching Little San Salvador.

He made a perfect landing, gliding the powerless plane onto a coral reef 30 yards from the island itself.

"The plane was in excellent condition after we came down," said Shanks. "The only damage was a small dent."

"But," said Mitchell, "the surf soon broke the plane to pieces."

Mitchell and Shanks waded to shore after removing survival gear from the plane and cut away a sheltered area with a machete. They went back to the plane and drained its fuel supply but the plane had become a lost cause.

"Luckily, we'd just bought about $1,000 worth of survival gear," said Shanks, "including an inflatable raft and water purifier." But Mitchell said the men would have had only a 50-50 chance of surviving had they not reached the island. The life raft had no oars.

"But we were never worried that we would not be saved," said Mitchell. "We saw large oil tankers passing in the night. But we didn't want to waste our flares on them, because they were too far out to spot us."

THE PAIR also heard planes fly overhead and they could discern another island, about 30 miles away. They would not have been able to reach the other island, though, unless they made oars for the raft. Even so, they said they thought the island was uninhabited.

Little San Salvador also is uninhabited and has very dense foliage; so thick, in fact, that Mitchell and Shanks decided to stay near the beach area rather than try to slash farther into the jungle.

"We had plenty of rations, probably enough to last for many weeks," said Shanks. "But it was our water supply that would have run out first," said Mitchell. "We had about three gallons.

He said they could have searched for a fresh water spring, common on such islands, but luckily they were repaired a radio transmitter and broadcast a distress call.

A Coast Guard cutter from St. Petersburg, Fla., came to their rescue Saturday (Jan. 3) and they were taken to Opa-Locka Airport, and returned to Garden City and Canton Township Monday.

To Mitchell, who is chief flight instructor, and Shanks, who is a flight instructor, giving landing instructions to new pilots at National Flying School will take on added meaning. It will seem like a cakewalk after the their experience in the triangle.

"WE CAME back a little sandy and a little sunburned," said Shanks, "but outside of that, we're in excellent condition; neither of us was injured. But we did suffer a little ego damage."

If the pair had been forced to remain on Little San Salvador longer, they said the Robinson Crusoe life might not have turned out too bad, after all.

"There was a lagoon on the other side of the island," said Mitchell, "that looked just like paradise must look."

He said they could have survived on reptiles and mangoes if it were necessary.

Would they ever return to the Bermuda triangle?

"We are what you would call firm non-believers in the Bermuda triangle business," said Mitchell. "We'd consider it a challenge to fly it again," he said.

Hoben recounts Soviet tour

By EMORY DANIELS

Flying back to New York City aboard Scandanavian Airlines, Supt. John M. Hoben of Plymouth Community School District had a lot of time to reflect about his 10-day tour of the Soviet Union.

While collecting his impressions about Soviet education and the Russian people, Hoben would glance out the airplane window and watch the sun rise—a view he watched all the way from Stockholm to New York City.

"It was 10 a.m. when we left Stockholm and 11 a.m. when the plane landed in New York City. The sun was rising upon departure and stayed in the same position all the way home. That was quite a sight."

HOBEN MADE the trip with about 195 educators through the American Association of Curriculum Directors. Some 900 had applied for the tour and Hoben was among the 195 selected. The AACD gave him a $200 stripend for expenses and Hoben dipped into his personal funds to meet the rest of the expense.

"I left the United States on Dec. 24 and was in the Soviet Union on Christmas Day. The Russians don't celebrate Christmas, but they do have a type of Santa who they call 'Father Frost.' Father Frost presides over the winter carnival at Ismalia Park. The carnival involved tobogganing, relay races and a ride through the forest."

Hoben spent five days in Leningrad and then took an eight-hour train trip to Moscow where he spent another five days before leaving Jan. 5 for a return flight to America.

"I was sure glad to get back. It was a wonderful trip, and I learned so much, but there were a number of inconveniences and it was great to be back in Plymouth."

THERE WAS quite a mixture of persons on the tour, Hoben said. Many were curriculum directors, high school principals, college professors, superintendents, and retired educators. The partner Hoben was paired with for the tour was a county superintendent of schools in California.

"In Leningrad, one of the most impressive things was our visit to the Hermitage Museum. That was the winter palace of the czars and is filled with hundreds of rooms; it's a lot like our Smithsonian Institute.

"You can see from going through the museum that a lot of the wealth during that era fell into the hands of the czars. There were items of clothing decorated with gold and rubies worth millions of dollars each. It was breath-taking to see the crown jewels of the different czars. There was just millions and millions of dollars that went to the leaders.

"And while I was there the Russian people talked almost exclusively about the czars. They didn't talk about any of the modern leaders of the Soviet Union, like Stalin, Kruschev or Molotov."

The tour also made a stop in Kirvo Valley, the summer palace of the czars, and Hoben had similar impressions about the great wealth those leaders had accumulated.

HOBEN RECALLS a visit to the Bolshi Theatre to see a four-hour performance of "War and Peace." "It was an overpowering performance."

The superintendent also learned a bit about geography, after making a few mistakes which upset the citizens there. "The Soviet Union has 15 provinces, of which one is Russia. People got upset if you referred to the nation as Russia. Moscow is the capital of the Province of Russia and headquarters for the Communist Party, but you don't speak of a Russian unless you mean a resident of that province.

"I also was struck by how much of a ruling minority the communists are. There are 255 million people in the Soviet Union—7½ million in Moscow, 11½ million counting the suburbs—but the Communist Party only has 15 million members. That's quite a minority.

"It's a state-controlled society with the state owning everything. But, you know what I discovered. Did you know the word 'red' is Russian for 'beautiful.' So the name the Red Square means the beautiful square. And a red lady is a beautiful lady. I associated red with the communists, but it doesn't mean that at all.

"The food was plentiful but very limited in variety. There were large amounts of potatoes, cabbage, reindeer and horse meat. They eat lots of fish—raw fish, smoked salmon and carp. I sure got tired of eating fish.

"The sugar is very coarse...probably comes from Havanna. Milk is scarce and fruit is almost non-existent—some apples and bananas. The pastry is coarse.

"They served a lot of black bread and cheese. The coffee was quite poor but the tea was excellent. They served beer at every meal, including breakfast. Russian beer was kind of flat, but the Finnish beer was good. The vodka was really good. Wine is starting to be popular in the Soviet Union, and it's pretty good. Champagne was very good."

HOBEN COULDN'T spend much time aboard, of course, without asking about education in the Soviet Union.

Before 1917, he noted, 73 per cent of the Russians were illiterate but today 100 per cent are literate. "Children start attending school when they are seven years old. Ages three to seven go to preschool, and sometimes youngsters one-year-old do.

"Throughout the country, school starts Sept. 1 and ends May 24. At age seven, the schools guarantees everyone can read by December of that first year in school.

"Students attend six days a week, and teachers instruct five days. On the sixth day, students do research and some get tutoring. There are 4½ classes a day—from 7:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. for grades one, two and three, and from 7:30 to 3:30 for the secondary grades of 4-10.

"At the end of the eighth grade the students are channeled to vocational schools, schools of the arts, or academic schools. At the end of the 10th year, exams are given for college entrance. Only 22 per cent go on to college.

"Teachers get paid 100 to 125 rubles a week, which is about $125 to $150 in American money. When they are first hired, it's five years before teachers get their first raise."

ONE RECOLLECTION Hoben has is the great national pride of the Soviet citizens.

"They are also very family-oriented. They walk around together as members of a family, and after 6 p.m. the streets empty and everybody goes home. There's not much of a night life in Moscow. The people are warmly dressed, but there wasn't much variety in style or color of their clothes.

"They take quite good care of their elderly too. Almost all of them work. In the Hermitage Museum, with some 2,000 rooms, each room had an elderly woman serving as a matron.

"They are generally hard-working, very serious-minded people. The kids are very warm and open. They smile and wave. But the adults are more reserved and you would have to force a discussion before they'd open up much."

While speaking of the pride the Soviets have in their national heritage, Hoben told of his visit to the summer palace of the czars in Leningrad. "They took us to the line where the Nazi Army made its big advance. Leningrad was in a siege for 900 days and of the four million living there, one million died. There's hardly a family there today who hasn't been affected by it."

Maybe one of the fondest memories for the superintendent is the visit to the elementary schools where the pupils, wanting to demonstrate their knowledge of the English lanaguage, put on a skit from "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and "Hansel and Gretel" in English.

"In all, it was quite an experience and some day I wouldn't mind going back. Not next year, though; maybe in five years. Right now I'm glad to be home and will stay here awhile."

Schools get more tax money

The Plymouth Community School District received a big boost from Plymouth Township this week in the form of a check for $1.4 million.

The check, signed Jan. 6 by Township Treasurer Joe West, was the school district's share of local property tax money collected to date by the township.

West said a check for $400,000 was sent on Jan. 2 to the school district by the township for a total of $1.8 million in tax funds distributed as of Jan. 6.

The large payment was made possible, West explained, because last month's tax collections were much higher than the previous year. The December 1975 tax collections in Plymouth Township were 65 per cent higher than December 1974, West said.

Those first two transfers to tax funds to the school district account for almost one-third of the total taxes Plymouth Township will collect for the school district.

On Jan. 2 Canton Township had forwarded some $500,000 to the school district with Treasurer Carl Parsell giving assurances that distributions would be scheduled every two weeks.

West had earlier planned on making the first distribution after Jan. 10 but was able to forward the $1.8 million ahead of schedule because collections were much higher in December.

The check from Plymouth Township will be a big assist for the school district which has a total payroll to meet of about $600,000 every two weeks. At the end of December, the district had to delay payment of bills because of a cash flow problem.

Of the total local property taxes collected by the district, Plymouth Township collects $6.2 million (45 per cent), Canton Township $4.5 million (33 per cent), and the City of Plymouth $2.5 million (18 per cent).

West hand-delivered the check Tuesday afternoon to Ray Hoedel, assistant superintendent for business, and it was immediately deposited in the bank.

"It appears Plymouth Township is going to be more cooperative than we had cause to belive earlier," Hoedel commented. "Every year we rely more and more on local financial support, and when local tax money dwindles in it kind of scares you.

"Canton Township and the City of Plymouth will pass on their school tax collections every two weeks, and the check from Plymouth Township is certainly welcomed and appreciated."

Monday's deadline to apply for CAC

Monday, Jan. 12, is the deadline for interested residents to apply to be named on one of 12 Citizens Advisory Committee (CAC) work groups being formed by the Plymouth Community School District.

Monday night, the Plymouth Board of Education approved a revised list of topics for the work groups. The change added a work group on general curriculum and combined a media services work group with one that will study special programs.

Each of the 12 work groups will have 12 members who will meet for 12 weeks through April 7. Residents applying should be willing to make a time commitment to allocate each Wednesday evening for 12 weeks for CAC work.

Applications are available from the office of community relations, Plymouth Community School District, 454 S. Harvey, Plymouth.

The work groups are: preschool education; scheduling (calendar, day); classroom organization (open, team, cross-age, teacher aides); maintenance-operations-facilities special programs—reading, humanities, art, music, physical education, media services; extra-curricular activities; legislation-communication; vocational-career education; community education; general curriculum—mathematics, science, social studies, language arts; exceptional children—gifted, learning disabled; and inservice training—CASTLES.

Florence Beier, community relations director, is hopeful of receiving a large response to make possible a committee with a balance in backgrounds and viewpoints.

Applicants who aren't selected will be notified that their names will be placed in a pool for possible committees to be established in the future, she adds.

A pinch of salt well placed banishes evil and brings luck

"Ought ye not to know that the Lord God of Israel gave the kingdom over Israel to David forever, even to him and his sons by a covenant of salt."
2 Chronicles 13:5

Because of its ability to preserve foods, salt became the symbolic enemy of decay and evil.

It is referred to again and again in mythology as well as European folk and fairy tales.

A Christian symbol of perfect understanding and divine wisdom, salt is also an element of the holy water used in blessings and exorcisms.

Salt has always played an important role in customs associated with birth, marriage and death. A pinch of salt is still sometimes placed in a newborn baby's bed to protect it from evil until it receives the protection of baptism. And many churches use salt in their baptism or christening rituals.

PEOPLE USED to immerse extracted teeth in salt before disposing of them so that if those teeth ever fell into the hands of enemies, they could not be used against them.

You may remember that in the tales of the Arabian Nights, the chief of the tribe of thieves refused to eat salt in the home of Ali Baba because it would establish a bond between them.

Salt plays its part in the rites of death, protecting the newly departed from evil spirits. The ancient Irish placed a plate of salt on the corpse, and in early America salt was placed in the room in which someone had died to "purge the sins of the deceased, and ease the journey of the soul." Salt placed in a coffin symbolizes the soul's survival, incorruptability and eternity.

The sexual symbolism of salt was once of great importance. It has been said that cavemen first discovered the joys of kissing by licking the salty perspiration from the skins of their mates.

IT IS STILL considered good luck for the mother of a bride to give a gift of salt to the newlyweds.

You must work hard to be "worth your salt," and what better compliment can you give a man than to call him "the salt of the earth"?

It is a very bad omen to spill salt. If you are unfortunate enough to do so, pick up some with your right hand quickly, before anyone steps in it, and toss it over your left shoulder to break the jinx.

Now's the time to assist seniors

In the past week, letters have been sent to more than 200 community leaders from Supervisor Robert Greenstein asking for help.

More volunteers are needed in the township's senior citizen tax assistance program—a useful project.

The supervisor writes, "It was a horrible realization last year when I first set up the tax assistance program, to find that the great majority of our seniors receive only $90 a month to live on.

"In their day, they did not have the employment pension and retirement funds we rely on today. Further, most of our seniors have been Canton farmers all their lives—not having any so-called employer except the all-taking land.

"What is the most unfortunate fact, and even today's biggest misconception, is that people were led to believe that social security is a retirement fund program. They were never schooled in the fact that social security was set up only as an additional income basis and not to be used as the sole retirement income."

Greenstein continues, "I'm asking you for help with the tax assistance program. All this consists of is giving up a few more hours of your already taxed schedule to visit the township business offices so that seniors can come in for assistance in completing their tax forms.

"TOO MANY seniors do not receive the monies due them from the government because the forms are not correctly filled out or the seniors do not understand what information is asked of them."

According to the supervisor, only three volunteers have stepped forward to participate in the tax assistance program. Many more are needed.

On Tuesday, Jan. 13, representatives from the State Treasury Department will be on hand at the township offices at 9:30 a.m. to instruct volunteers on how to complete the senior citizen and disabled veteran tax forms.

The supervisor hopes the township can begin to schedule volunteers the following day.

Some will be needed for assistance at the township offices. Others will be asked to visit seniors who are unable to leave their homes.

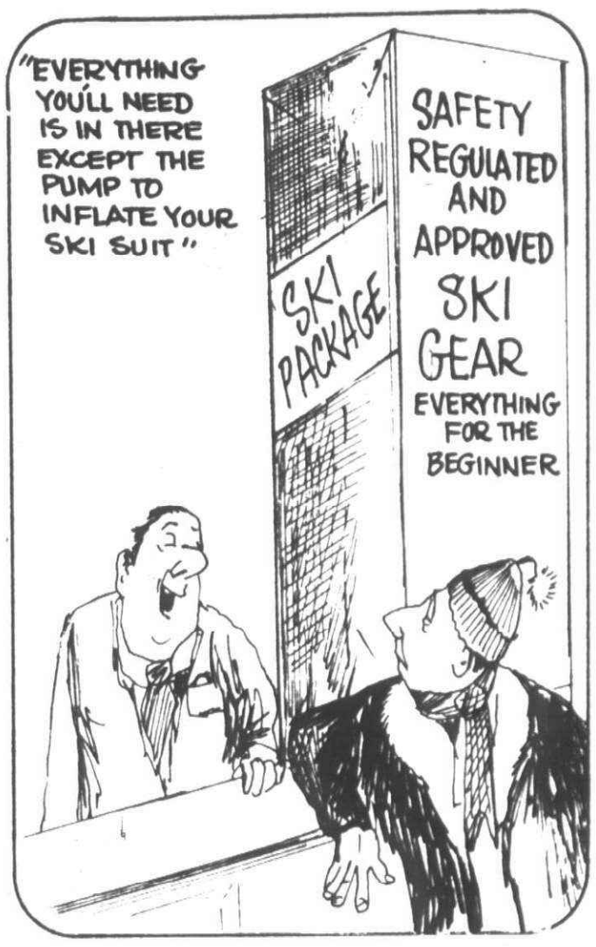

The program will run through April 15, and each volunteer will be asked to donate a few hours a week.

WE GIVE our full support to the supervisor and the township in continuing and expanding the tax assistance program.

This is the bicentennial year—the year to remember our history and our heritage.

We can think of no better way than to help our senior citizens by donating a few hours a week to the township tax assistance program.

OBSERVER & ECCENTRIC

Where folks can get individual attention

Observation Point

by PHILIP H. POWER

Via the Rev. Robert Marshall, some of these suburbs made their way into the world record book over the weekend.

Marshall, who is minister of the Birmingham Unitarian Church in Bloomfield Hills, broke into the Guiness Book of World Records last Saturday at 12:32 p.m. when he stepped down from the lecturn after 61 hours of nonstop preaching.

Our reporter who covered the event noted that even at the end of his ordeal, Marshall seemed in good shape, energetically giving quotes to the media people who flocked around; at 55, he must be one of the very few world record holders who had penetrated into the ranks of advanced middle age at the time their record was set.

In addition, it appears that Marshall overshot his goal by 10 hours. A typographical error in a (non-local) newspaper had given the previous world preaching mark as 60 hours 25 minutes, when in fact it was 50 hours 25 minutes.

All in all, it was a remarkable performance by a remarkable man.

I REMEMBER Bob Marshall from my childhood days, when he ran a place called Bob Marshall's Book Shop on State Street in Ann Arbor.

For about 20 years, it was far and away the best book store in a town filled with good ones. It had a broad and diverse stock, solid both in scholarly volumes and best sellers, together with prints and other arts material.

But most important, the shop was a friendly place, where you felt like an individual rather than a walking invoice. There was a wood fire in the fireplace during the cold months, and there were easy chairs scattered around and a chess board or two. There was a sign on the wall: "Browsers Welcome."

And there was Bob, wandering around, treating his customers like people, being helpful and friendly.

THINKING ABOUT Bob and his new record leads to musing about people and their motivations.

After it was all over, Marshall said it was pleasant to get the event into the record book, but that was "lesser than the really great satisfaction of rapport, relationship and revival" developed among his congregation during the preaching.

Fair enough, as long as priorities are being assigned and values weighted.

But certainly no individual is going to stay up for more than 60 hours, much less preach during that time, without the goal of attaining thereby some particular signification. In the case of Marshall, that signification extended from him to his congregation and in turn was the means by which the "rapport, relationship and revival" that the minister noted were achieved.

And it is that signification or individuation—the carving out of a particular set of singularities attached to an individual, a family, or even a community—that is so much needed in today's ever-growing, over-populated world.

Today, the Birmingham Unitarian Church has a little more individuation than it had last week, as a result of Marshall's feat, just as does the Birmingham-Bloomfield community.

IT IS IN this context that the real importance of continuing to have separate, free-standing suburban communities within this metropolitan area takes on great meaning.

BOB MARSHALL
Suburbia's Individual

It is argued, powerfully and plausibly, that what we need is a regional government; it would reduce duplication, cost less, be more efficient, enable intelligent planning, and generally produce rational decisions.

All this is probably true. But people in the suburbs don't want it.

And they don't want it not because of bigotry.

Rather it's because a regional government threatens to swallow up the individuation of each suburban community, thereby threatening to hack away yet another chunk of each resident's own singularity.

In an important and complex way, we relate ourselves to the community in which we live. We take pride in its accomplishments, snort at its failures, cast our daily lives around its peculiarities. And in so doing, we gain a sense of our own roots and define ourselves a little more clearly from the mass around us.

And in a real and important way, the Rev. Robert Marshall was contributing to that process as he broke the record last week.

Congratulations, Bob, and enjoy your good night's sleep.

College, school tears need to be taken with salt

There's no question about it: The recession has hurt nearly everyone; those who say they're suffering are probably telling the truth.

The point, however, is that we're all in the same boat. It's hard to shed more tears for one special interest than another. It is wise to take with several grains of salt the complaint of anyone who says he's facing significantly more hardship than somebody else.

School people, in particular, are adept at voluble lamentations. Two recent cases come to mind.

THE SOUTHEAST Michigan Community College Presidents group called a show at the Detroit Press Club to say that state aid cuts to their programs were "grossly inequitable as compared to other segments" of education.

But Schoolcraft President C. Nelson Grote, the chairman, and Oakland Community College VP Wally Nikkels and their brethren (there were no sisters) were guilty of some statistical sleight-of-hand as they attempted to prove they were gashed more than the four-year colleges.

By counting money the Legislature never voted them, they came to the conclusion that they had suffered a 7.5 per cent cut compared to only two per cent for the four-year colleges. Television newsmen, basically handsome idiots, fell for that line and broadcast the misstatement as photographed.

What the community college folks didn't say is that they were comparing apples and oranges. The cuts were in state aid, which amounts to only 34 to 39 per cent of their total revenues. You have to remember that community colleges have a stable base of property taxes that the four-year colleges lack.

A four-year college such as the University of Michigan gets something like 61 per cent of its general fund operating revenues from the state. Therefore, any state aid cut of one per cent is more drastic with the four year schools than with the community colleges.

WHEN YOU GET through all the financial machinations, it turns out that the community colleges suffered only a 2.5 per cent total revenue cut—not the 7.5 per cent figure that was so carelessly thrown around.

Now, 2.5 per cent hurts, but it's not the end of the world.

What Gov. Milliken attempted to do was cut total budgets about the same everywhere. Thus, some institutions got bigger state aid cuts than others. It doesn't follow that community colleges were treated unfairly—quite the opposite.

AS THIS IS written, school officials from 40 districts, including some from this area, are meeting to decide what to do about an attorney general's opinion they didn't like.

It seems the Hon. Frank Kelley upheld the governor's budget cuts of categorical aid—the kind of aid that pays for special state-ordered programs.

The school officials are looking for legal flaws and are reportedly (yawn) considering a lawsuit.

They would be much better off if they started paring their budgets, the sooner the better. Sure, they're hurting. Sure, it's too bad the state orders special programs and then has to cut their funding.

The point, to repeat, is that everyone is hurting in this recession. It's hard to work up an extra flowage of tears for any one group. Our community college and school folks should cut out the crying contests and get on with business on whatever money they've got.

Some movement on public transit

The vacancy was open one day short of a year, but Gov. Milliken finally filled the opening on the board of the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority.

The SEMTA post will go to Thomas B. Adams, of Bloomfield Hills. A native of Detroit and graduate of Wayne State University, Adams is chairman of the board of Campbell-Ewald Co. in Detroit. He served on the WSU board and earned several impressive medals as a naval aviator.

The post had been vacant since the AFL-CIO's Bill Marshall resigned at the beginning of 1975.

While Adams is a good choice—with both a Detroit and suburban background—it's true the SEMTA board has been heavy with the Detroit and Birmingham-area points of view. Western Wayne County has been left out of SEMTA's public transportation policymaking apparatus.

This could be rectified by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG), which makes a total of six appointments to the SEMTA board compared to the governor's three.

Unfortunately, SEMCOG's general assembly isn't scheduled to meet until mid-March to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Prof. Allan Hyman of Southfield. SEMCOG leaders should consider calling a special meeting of the general assembly to make the appointment.

Why the rush? The SEMTA board needs leadership. It needs to campaign for legislative enactment of a tax source to build rapid transit facilities. It needs political leadership to remedy the erroneous notion that Detroit's Mayor Coleman Young is in charge of public transportation in this region.

Congratulations to Tom Adams on his newest opportunity for public service. As a hustling ad man, he may provide the kind of aggressive prodding the cause of public transportation needs.

If OSHA boys got to skiing...

I started fantasizing the other day about what would happen to skiers if the same guys who have been writing the safety regulations for the auto industry and the OSHA boys who are writing the safety regulations for factories got together to take the risk out of the downhill sport.

The skier now has safety straps to keep his skis from leaving his body and recklessly going down the hill without him in case he falls, and safety bindings which supposedly unhinge when he falls down, but he is not insulated at all from the impact of touching the ground at a high rate of speed.

The safety boys would have to design some sort of air cushioned ski suit to absorb the impact when the skier has trouble standing up as he is going down.

THE SKIER HIMSELF would have to be outfitted with a horn so that he could warn other skiers of his presence. But, of course, the horn could not be so loud as to force the skier to wear ear muffs.

To protect the health of the skier, ski boots and mittens would have to be heated to prevent frostbite and special masks designed to protect the face in the event that the skier fell down.

The skier would also have to wear some sort of football-type helmet to protect the back of his head and some sort of leather jacket and kidney belt to minimize damage when falling.

SKI BOOTS would have to be redesigned because a high ankle support has a tendency to make a fracture worse if a skier has trouble, yet a low boot would not give the support necessary. Possibly the new ski boot would have to be designed to go above the knees to eliminate the risk of damage.

Ski goggles would have to be made with safety glass because the present plastic lenses could split and damage the eye.

Ski outfits would have to be designed in a uniform safety color so that they are easily visible on the hill. Ski equipment itself would have to be redesigned. There is no way the skiers would be allowed to use ski poles with pointed ends. The hand strap on ski poles would have to be of the break- away variety, in case they ever caught on tows.

THE POINTS would have to be eliminated from skis, and some sort of energy-absorbing bumper would have to be designed to go across the front.

Signs would have to be posted on the top of each hill, warning skiers about trees and other objects on the downhill course.

I can picture the ski lift. Several things would have to be changed. First, seat belts would have to be installed on chair lifts and safety netting would have to be installed under each chair lift in case a person fell out of the chair.

All chairs would have to be padded in such a way that if they came in contact with a skier going less than five miles an hour there would be no injury to either the skier or the chair.

Of course, adequate fences would have to be installed to guard against people coming in contact with the chair lift.

THEY WOULD HAVE to eliminate rope tows because those are moving straps, which under OSHA rules, would have to be completely guarded.

T-bars would have to be outlawed because they could cause irreparable damage to an individual if the skier happened to place the bar in the wrong place. J-bars would be even more unlawful.

Bright yellow stripes would have to be painted on the hills to keep thje skiers away from prominent objects such as trees and buildings and bushes, rocks and othr skiers.

The ski patrol would not be permitted to use toboggans to pick up injured skiers because they lack a separate braking system.

When it was all over, I wouldn't be surprised to find that skiing, itself, would become outlawed because of the inherent safety hazards.

Consumer bill was bent, broken

Sometimes it looks as if a bill slides easily through the Michigan Legislature. But behind final passage are a lot of amendments and maneuvers.

So it was last month as the State House of Representatives gave 65 to 29 approval to a consumer protection bill aimed at prohibiting unfair and deceptive business practices.

Of Observer & Eccentric area representatives, only James Defebaugh (R-Birmingham) was opposed to final passage, and Roy Smith (R-Ypsilanti) was absent. The other 10, Republicans and Democrats alike, favored it.

"I VOTED FOR it because I believe it contains important provisions to guard consumers against fraudulent and misleading advertising as well as shoddy products and workmanship," said Rep. Robert Geake (R-Northville).

"I voted for the bill," said Rep. Joseph Forbes (D-Oak Park). "The bill (SB 1) makes deceptive, unfair and unconscionable trade practices unlawful and specifically lists a series of illegal activities . . . false advertising, misrepresentation of goods and use of coercion in collecting a debt, misrepresenting credit terms, charging a price for a product grossly in excess of prices elsewhere for similar products.

"The bill would enable the attorney general to obtain a temporary or permanent court injunction to stop unlawful acts," Forbes said.

"It also permits class action lawsuits for victims of illegal business practices as well as individual court actions. The suits could ask for compensation for actual losses, the completion of a transaction according to customer's understanding, or a change in a business' practices."

BUT THE LOCAL lawmakers split when it came time to giving the bill immediate effect, which meant that it could have become law Jan. 1 instead of next April 1.

The vote for immediate effect was 55 to 39, or one shy of the required 56.

Supporting immediate effect besides Forbes were John Bennett (D-Redford), W.V. Brotherton (R-Farmington), Tom Brown (D-Westland), William Keith (D-Garden City), Mel Larsen (R-Oxford), John Markes (D-Livonia) and Sal Rocca (D-Sterling Heights).

Opposing immediate effect were Defebaugh (R-Birmingham), Geake and Ruth McNamee (R-Birmingham). Geake said opponents said it would take until April 1 to set up the regulatory machinery.

ANOTHER PROVISION splitting local lawmakers was an attempt to terminate the act in five years unless it is extended by the Legislature.

Geake called that "a conservative amendment." Backing it were himself, Brotherton and Defebaugh, all Republicans.

All other area representatives joined forces to vote down the five-year amendment (except the absent Smith). The vote was 29 to 63.

Mrs. McNamee later offered an amendment—which failed, 48 to 46—to allow the act to expire July 1, 1980.

Backing it were Brotherton, Brown, Defebaugh, Geake, Keith, Larsen and Mrs. McNamee, a cross-section of parties and philosophies.

Opposing it were Bennett, Forbes, Markes and Rocca, all Democrats.

Geake said the purpose of limiting the life of the act was that "government bureaucracies tend to outrun legislative intent, interfering with the public's freedom to buy and adding to the costs of goods through unneeded regulation." Limiting the law's life would force a re-evaluation—the same philosophy as "zero budgeting," he said.

CONSUMER ADVOCATES called the bill a major victory.

But the victory was short-lived.

It takes both houses of the Legislature to pass a bill. Although the bill had passed the Senate earlier, it had to go back to the Senate for concurrence in the House's amendments.

But the Senate didn't concur. A day after House passage, the Senate rejected the measure, 25 to 4.

Voting against SB 1 were area senators Donald Bishop (R-Rochester), Daniel Cooper (D-Oak Park) and Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth). Absent were Bill Huffman (D-Madison Heights and William Faust (D-Westland).

A new banner is hung to identify the information center of the Western Wayne unit of the Michigan Heart Association in the Westland Senior Citizen Center. Participating in the event to open the center were, from left, Beatrice Scalise, Westland senior citizen activities director; Melvin Bailey, Westland parks and recreation director, and Pat Melville of Livonia, head of the heart unit center. New heart unit offers services, opportunities

By MARGARET MILLER

In matters of the heart, residents of western Wayne County are pretty lucky.

The statement has nothing to do with anyone's romantic situation, but rather with the fast growth of a new Western Wayne unit of the Michigan Heart Assocation.

The unit, which less than a year ago "spun off" from the Wyandotte-based southern Wayne unit, now has an office and information center, a full schedule of classes to train volunteers in cardio-pulmonary resuscitation, regular hypertension screening (blood pressure testing), and plans for a program of informational meetings for persons who have suffered heart attacks.

"We've found there is enough need in this area for a heart unit," said Jim Gignac, Plymouth Township fire chief and one of the leaders in establishing the new program of services. "There has been great response and acceptance."

THE CENTER is in the Westland Senior Citizens' Building, formerly the Cooper School, at Middle Belt and Ann Arbor Trail. It opened Dec. 12 after two sets of negotiations and a lot of contributions in time and furnishings.

It's staffed now from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday, and has on hand literature and information as well as once-a-week hypertension testing.

Screening work also has begun in the Plymouth-Canton area, where a special week of testing is planned Feb. 9 to 14 in several locations.

Regular classes in the techniques of mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and heart massage are going on through efforts of the new unit, and a little farther down the road is a program, headed by Mollie Evans of Redford Township and Joan Valente of Westland, to help those who have suffered heart attacks understand their situations and learn how to get back to health.

PAT MELVILLE of Livonia, who is in charge of the new center and serves on the board of the Western Wayne heart unit, explained how the programs have evolved.

"Originally," she said, "the Michigan Heart Association in this area had two divisions, one for the City of Detroit and the other for the rest of Wayne County.

"But the nearest office for western Wayne was in Wyandotte, and that was a long way to go for the CPR training, so, with the blessings of that unit, we broke away and formed a unit in this location, strictly for CPR training."

"We started to teach more classes, in fire stations, senior citizen buildings and for organizations, and that meant we needed more equipment—like the practice dummy Resusic-Annie."

HER KITCHEN was a little small for all the things that had to be stored, Mrs. Melville went on, and others connected with the group had suggestions for more activities.

In Plymouth, Chief Gignac and George Schoenneman, fire chief for the City of Plymouth, learned about a free clinic for testing blood pressure that had been conducted with good results in Salt Lake City, and wanted to bring the idea to this area.

Registered nurses Evans and Valente, both on critical care staffs at Botsford Hospital, took the CPR course to improve their understanding of the whole heart disease picture.

They became interested in bringing to persons in their communities the kind of course that has been conducted at Botsford, to help persons who have suffered heart attacks to understand physical and psychological reactions and to get a better knowledge of how the heart heals.

WITH A NUMBER of new activities starting, Mrs. Melville said, the group decided to organize and find a home base.

The room that finally became home was negotiated first with the Livonia School District while the building housed the Northwest Skills Center, and later was renegotiated with the City of Westland after the skills center moved and the building was converted to senior citizen use.

Mrs. Melville, moving in with table and file cabinet, received first a chair from the building janitor and then more furnishings through the courtesy of Blue Cross-Blue Shield.

By Dec. 12, the Western Wayne unit was ready to put up a banner marking the room. Shelly Rader, from the Michigan Heart Association headquarters in Southfield, visited for the opening day.

IN ITS FIRST months of existance, Mrs. Melville said, the Western Wayne unit increased rapidly its schedule of cardio-pulmonary resuscitation classes.

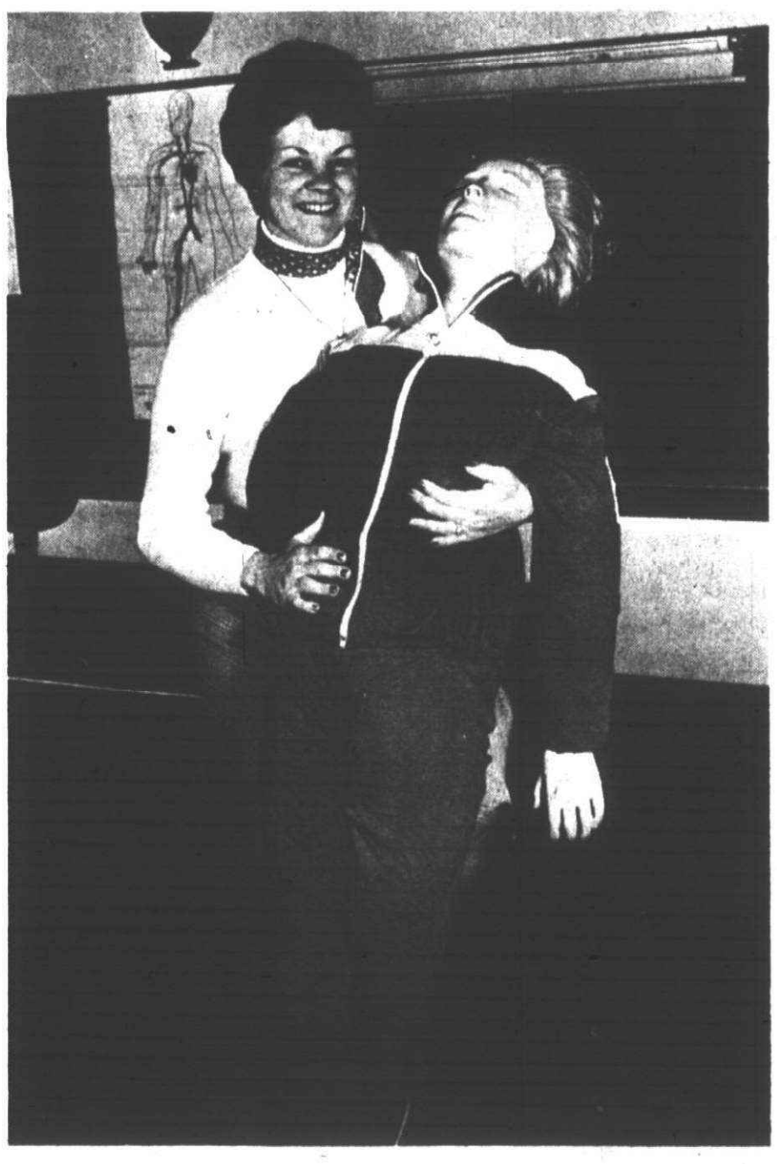

"In November, we had 24 classes," she said. "That's as many as the southern Wayne unit, which had been operating a lot longer.."

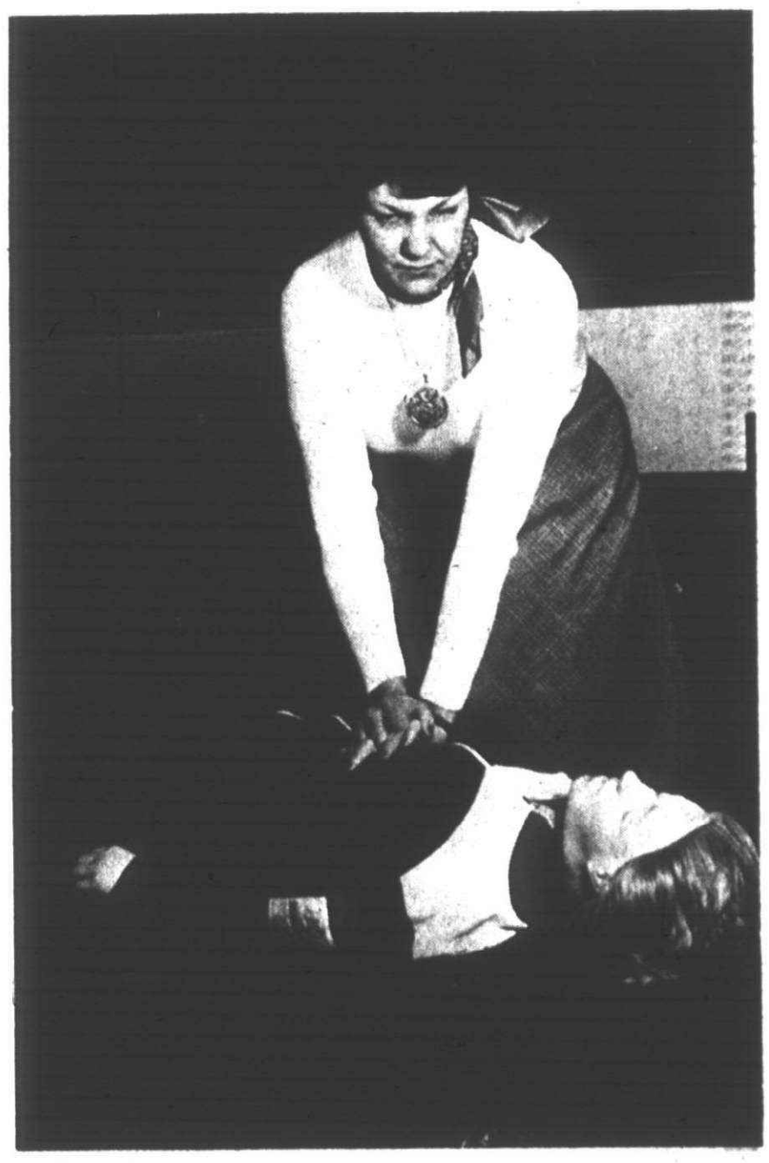

Officers of the unit are Dr. Lester Eisenberg, medical director of Garden City Osteopathic Hospital, president; Dale Walley, Livonia fireman, vice president, Sandy Burgis of Livonia, secretary, and Mrs. Melville and Keith McLachlan of Dearborn Heights, delegates.

The new unit's aim is an ambitious one—to have everyone in this area able to do CPR in an emergency. All interested are urged to visit the new center and make an appointment to take the training.

Ernie Honke, Plymouth Township fire department sergeant, carries out another part of the new heart unit's diversified program by giving a blood pressure test to Marilyn Massingill. (Photo by Maurie Walker)

Helen Cepato, a volunteer in the heart center, introduces Resusci-Annie, the dummy used in the MHA cardio-pulmonary resuscitation classes.

Mrs. Cepato then demonstrates the resuscitation technique she learned in classes conducted by the new Western Wayne heart unit. (Staff photos by Art Emanuel)

NOW to hear of 'displaced homemakers'

"Displaced homemakers" will be the topic for discussion at the meeting of the Mid-Western Wayne County chapter of the National Organization for Women, scheduled Saturday, Jan. 10 in the Western Wayne YWCA.

The speaker will be Rosalie Sullivan, charter member of the Detroit area branch of the Alliance for Displaced Homemakers, and she will deal especially with financial problems of older women.

The organization has described displaced homemakers as "women divorced or widowed or with grown children, too young for Social Security and too old and too unskilled for well-paying jobs."

Ms. Sullivan said the alliance is working toward getting laws to provide such women with counseling, training and services necessary so they can become gainfully employed.

The NOW chapter covers the areas of Westland, Garden City, Canton, Dearborn, Inkster, Wayne, Romulus and Belleville, and women interested in membership may write to Janet Aniline, 5118 Kenilworth, Dearborn.

The Western Wayne YW is located on Michigan between Beech-Daly and John Daly in Inkster.

One of my favorite Christmas gifts bore a tag that read, "From your pressing problem."

That's because it was presented by the daughter who is supposed to do our ironing and has to be constantly nagged (oops, gently reminded) into getting it done.

Anyway, the package contained a decorative signboard that is going up in our kitchen (as soon as I can find the proper hanger) to increase efficiency for the coming year.

I TOOK IT to this newspaper's office and had several requests that it be posted there. These I had to refuse, feeling the need was greater on the home front.

But, as a public service, I offer the list as a convenience for other households and offices where excuses (oops, explanations) for actions and inactions run rampant.

THE SIGNBOARD begins with the request "To save time, please give excuses by the number." Then it lists them.

1—That's not my department.
2—I didn't know you were in a hurry.
3—No one told me to go ahead.
4—I'm waiting for an OK.
5—I forgot.
6—I didn't think it was important.
7—I've been too busy.
8—I thought I told you.
9—I wasn't hired to do that.
10—Wait for the boss and ask him.
11—We've always done it that way.
12—That's his job, not mine.

ONCE WE GET everything down pat and memorized, you should hear a lot of 2s, 5s, 7s and 8s in our family conversations.

Personally, when it comes to doing the jobs not completed because of 2, 5, 7 and 8, I think I'll stick with number 9. And if I get any more argument, just watch me come back with number 10.

Local Witnesses protest 'atrocities'

Members of local congregations of Jehovah's Witnesses are protesting what they call persecution of others in their sect in the East African country of Malawi.

Donald Borgula, presiding overseer of the West Livonia congregation, said leaders of the sect are anxious to have the world know of events in Malawi where, he said, "atrocities" have been committed against members of the sect because they refused to buy the cards of the political party in power there.

These people refused to buy the cards, Borgula added, because they are following "Jesus' example of political neutrality.

"Thousands of Christians are now under brutal persecution in Malawi," Borgula stated.

Those involved, he went on, are some 34,000 Jehovah's Witnesses who left the country three years ago and fled to neighboring Mozambique because of political policies there.

Recently, he said, he had received a report from N.H. Knorr at the Brooklyn headquarters of Jehovah's Witnesses. Knorr told him, he added, that mony of those who fled were now being forced to return to Malawi, and when they arrived were being informed that "the Malawi Congress Party is still in power in this country, so go back to your home villages and cooperate with the party officials."

Borgula said that some Witnesses had reentered their home villages, but soon were asked to buy political cards and refused. "Immediately beatings, rapings and other atrocities began again, and many were driven from their homes," he stated.

He said members of Witnesses congregations had been expatriated from Mozambique and Zambia and then were mistreated in Malawi.

"Because no one will accept them, many Witnesses have been forced to wander in the cities by day, sleeping in nearby forests at night," he went on.

Borgula added that local members of the sect are publicizing the current situation in Malawi in the hope that other Christians may join in the protest.

Gift of an eagle

A plaque with the white eagle, national symbol of Poland, was presented recently to the Rev. Leonard Makulski (center), pastor of St. Dunstan Catholic Church in Garden City, by the White Eagle Post 166, Polish Legion of American Veterans, in gratitude for his help with the post's first Wigilia, a traditional Christmas Eve service. With the priest are Bud Gaikowski (left) of Livonia, sergent at arms, and commander Robert Korzeniewski of Garden City. The post has headquarters at 8600 Haller, Westland, and invites war veterans of Polish descent to join. Write to Livonia PO Box 2471 for information.

Old Testament course

DR. J.HAROLD ELLENS

A new course that gives an overview of the Old Testament will be taught by Dr. J. Harold Ellens in Redford Baptist Church, Grand River and Seven Mile, beginning Tuesday, Jan. 13 from 7 to 9:40 p.m.

The course is offered, either for credit or on an audit basis, through John Wesley College, 26705 Farmington Road, Farmington Hills. Call Nancy Bates at the college for registration information.

Dr. Ellens is pastor of University Hills Church of Farmington Hills, professor of speech communications at Oakland University and lecturer at John Wesley, Calvin College and Wayne State University.

He has degrees from Calvin and Princeton Theological Seminary, a doctorate from WSU and also holds the rank of lieutenant colonel in the U.S. Army Reserve.

He has lived in Europe and traveled extensively in Asia, India and North America. He also has participated in a study tour of South Africa.

Long study of Greek, Hebrew, Chaldean, German and Dutch has given Dr. Ellens working knowledge for insight into the Old Testament.

His course, he said, will help students understand the role of Moses in the founding of Judaism, the writings of the prophets such as Jeremiah and the nature of God's first covenent with his children.

'Time to Run' film scheduled

"Time to Run," a film produced by World Wide Pictures, will be shown in three area churches Sunday, Jan. 11.

Families are invited to attend the film together.

Produced on location in southern California, "Time to Run" stars Ed Nelson, Randall Carver, Barbara Sigel, Joan Winmill and Gordon Rigsby. It depicts conflicts between husband and wife and father and son as well as showing the influence of spiritual ideas in the life of a young man.

Prayer service

Women of the First United Methodist Church of Plymouth, North Territorial west of Sheldon, will meet Monday, Jan. 12 at 7 p.m. for an annual service titled the "Call to Prayer and Self-Denial."

Parking idea delayed

The Plymouth City Commission delayed making a decision Monday night on approving the concept for a multi-tier parking structure proposed for the Wiedman parking lot, adjacent to the Mayflower Hotel.

The consensus of the commission seemed to be that a decision on approving the concept of a parking structure should wait until the commission can assess all the needs of the central business district and decide which have higher priority.

Mayor Joe Bida asked that action not be taken Monday night because the commission should look at the entire business district. He promised to present some of his ideas for downtown at the next committee-of-the-whole meeting of the commission.

Commissioners Beverly McAninch, Thomas Turner and Jack Moehle also expressed reservations about the proposal for a structure on the Wiedman lot.

A PRESENTATION was made to the commission by City Manager Fred Yockey and architect John Culotta.

The present idea for a multi-tier structure began when Culotta appeared before the city planning commission with a proposal for a single-deck, 40-space structure to be used by employes of the Mayflower—thus freeing more space in the lot for customer parking. At that point, Culotta was retained by Ralph Lorenz to design a proposed structure for his employes at the rear of the Wiedman lot.

Under that proposal, the city would finance construction of the one-deck, 40-space structure with Lorenz leasing the 40 stalls and paying for the structure over a period of time.

The planning commission referred the proposal to the city adminstration and planning consultants for study. The administration, planning consultant, and planning commission advised against the first proposal and asked Culotta to design a multi-tier structure.

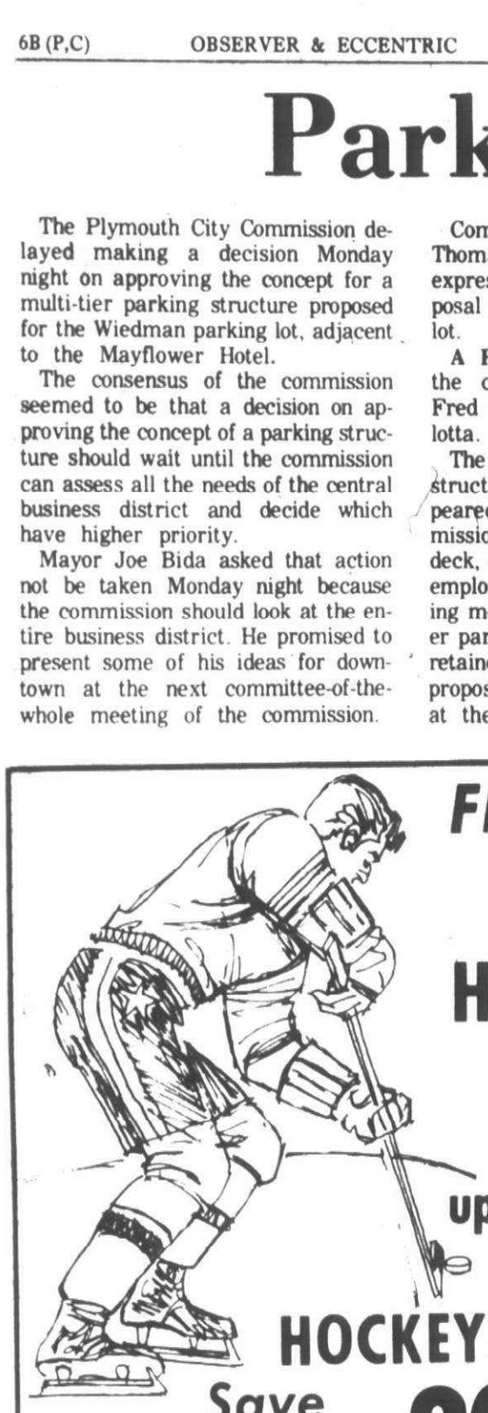

CULOTTA'S FIRST design called for three tiers—grade level plus two decks.

He developed other plans which include one for two tiers—grade level and a deck above—with provisions for the addition of a third deck later if needed.

If the double-deck plan is adopted, there would be 96 parking spaces on the grade level compared to 99 spaces that are now present. Preliminary plans indicate a total of 300 spaces could be provided for with three layers of parking.

Yockey said it was possible, based early estimates, for the city to finance two-tier parking—grade level plus one deck.

Yockey's cost estimate was based on 10-hour usage from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. and upon there being a charge for parking during the evening hours at Wiedman. If parking fees were 10 cents an hour, and 50 per cent of the structure could be occupied 10 hours a day, the city could almost finance the entire cost with a bond issue at seven per cent interest over 20 years.

Nomads flying high in club's 11th year

The Nomads, one of the country's oldest and most successful air travel clubs, got off to a bright new year, with members basking in the sun on trips to Clearwater, Fla., and Los Angeles.

Both the Nomads Lockeed Electra, a four-engine prop-jet, and its new Convair 990, a four-engine fan-jet added to the fleet by Thanksgiving, took off without any problems Dec. 26.

Nomads President Joe Benich said, "We were on Channel 4 News. We were among the few airplanes moving (from Metropolitan Airport) that day of the big snowstorm."

Starting its 11th year, the club has flown more than one million aircraft miles in perfect safety, with more than 90 million passenger miles.

ITS MEMBERSHIP is basically from the metropolitan area and totals nearly 2,000. Members keep a log book on their own air miles.

Benich, who is also the club's full-time general manager, said the Convair 990 is the fastest airplane flying today. The Convair has a 640 mph crusing speed, 134 seats and a crew of six.

The Convair's first Nomads flight was for the Thanksgiving trip to the Bahamas. The Lockeed Electra, which seats 90, also flew the same trip. Two hundred twenty-four Nomads spent Thanksgiving at Cape Eleuthera.

In December, the club celebrated its 10th anniversary dinner with a big party attended by more than 700 members. The event was a semi-formal dinner dance at the Fairlane Manor in Dearborn.

"THE NOMADS has flown 291 trips, from dinner flights to around the world," Benich said. "With the new airplane we have increased seats and the schedule by 150 per cent."

The Nomads' next meeting will be at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Ramada Inn in Southfield. It is open to prospective members. Films on Yugoslavia will be shown, and passport photos of members will be taken, as a service.

The club's two biggest trips coming up this year are a South Pacific Encore, from April 16 through May 9, and an Around-the-World trip, to the backside—New Delhi, Bangkok, Singapore, Tokyo and Taipei, in September.

This summer the Nomads' first trip to Eastern Europe will fly to Yugoslavia and Hungary, in July.

Benich described the club members as "Michigan envoys known around the world." He added, "Nomads is America's only around-the-world air travel club."

Besides its travel and monthly meeting schedule, the Nomads presents an annual Ladies Day luncheon and fashion show in November. This year's event was at Pine Lake Country Club. A special activity this fall was an open house for the new Convair 990 jet aircraft at the Executive Terminal of Detroit Metropolitan Airport in Romulus.

Flurry of winter activity

When the world turns white, Michigan "turns on" with a frosty flurry of activity, according to Michigan's January Calendar of Travel Events compiled by the Travel Bureau of the Michigan Department of Commerce.

One of the main centers of attraction and action will be on the snowmobile tracks and trails, leading off with the Mosse Jaw Safari, Saturday, in Harbor Springs. On the same day, spectators and participants will be gathering at the County Fair Grounds at Cheboygan for the Cheboygan Bicentennial 200.

This is the 200-mile endurance kick-off race of the Michigan International Snowmobile Association. On January 10-11, the Motor State Snowmobile Classic will be run at Imlay City.

Then comes the first facet in Michigan's Triple Crown of Snowmobile Races, the Thunder Bay 250, Jan. 17, at Alpena. The race is restricted to the 35 fastest qualifiers. Following on Jan. 24, is the TC-250 at Traverse City. This race is run on a specially constructed, three-quarter mile banked course for 250 miles.

THE THIRD star in the "Crown" falls on Feb. 7 with the running of the I-500 at Sault Ste. Marie. All three races are sanctioned by the Michigan International Snowmobile Association.

Ice skating events and meets are also prominent throughout January. First on the schedule is the Chemical City Skating Classic, Saturday and Sunday at Midland. Next comes the Central Michigan Speed Skating Championships at Bay City, Jan 17; the Diamond Derby Speed Skating Meet at Saginaw, Jan. 18; Midwest Speed Skating Championships, Farwell Field, Detroit, Jan. 24-25; and the Alpine Open Speed Skating Meet at Baldwin, Jan. 31 to Feb. 1.

"Snob rope," "point pair," "wheel dogs," "all right" or a loud, clear "hike" are familiar terms to a musher. To the layman, they are part of the jargon of a sled dog team driver.

Sled dog racing is a popular wintertime sport in Michigan for spectators and participants alike. Scheduled are Sled Dog Races at Ranch Rudolf, near Traverse City, Saturday and Sunday and the Michigan Double Header Sled Dog Races, Jan. 31 to Feb. 1, at Golden Arrow Ranch, Oscoda.

FAMILY FUN, entertainment, fishing and prizes describes Tip-Up-Town U.S.A., Jan. 17-18, at Houghton Lake.

Ailey dancers perform

Music Hall Center has no chance to break the larger New York City Center record for the biggest box office advance sale in history. But it does have as first event in 1976, the group that set that record: The Alvin Ailey American Dance Theatre appearing through Jan. 10.

Understandably, the Ailey company is now part of the New York City Center.

This 26-member, multi-racial dance company starring the statuesque beauty, Judith Jamison — recently featured on the cover of New York magazine's special issue on Dance — has come a long way since its' 1958 debut in an obucure New York concert hall.

Judith Samison heads troupe.

Last season many people were turned away from Ailey's three sell-out performances at Music Hall. This year's engagement has been extended to six performances.

Ailey himself is a late-comer to his art, picking it up while studying at UCLA. Today, he is a choreographer of major stature commissioned and performed by the American, Joffrey and Harkness ballets, the New York Metropolitan Opera, and others in Europe.

It was Alvin Ailey who coreographed the premier of Leonard Bernstein's "MASS" at Washington's Kennedy Center. His "Revelations" is considered by some the greatest contemporary American work of its kind.

In addition to "Revelations," the following will be included on the Ailey programs: "Night Creature," "Cry," "After Eden," "Carmina Burana," "Lark Ascending," "Hidden Rites," "Echoes in Blue," "Song for You," "Liberian Suite," and "Reflections."

The Alvin Ailey Company will perform on the Music Hall stage evenings at 8:30 p.m., Saturday matinee at 2 p.m. For additional information, call 963-7680.

Pianists in ragtime

Two of the top ragtime piano players in the country have been signed by the new Clamdiggers restaurant at 30555 Grand River, Farmington Hills, owner Chuck Muer has announced.

Bob Seeley and Bob Milne, both formerly with Chuck Muer restaurants, are back and playing for the first time at the same restaurant. Seeley played for three years at Muer's Charley's Crab at Pine Lake before it burned last February. Milne played for two years at the Sundog before Muer sold it last spring.

Both men specialize in ragtime, boogie and stride, with the emphasis on ragtime, as exemplified by such Scott Joplin compositions as "Maple Leaf Rag" and "Easy Winners."

Seeley plays in the Clamdiggers' four-sided piano bar from 4 to 7 p.m. Monday through Friday. Milne plays from 7:30 p.m. to midnight, Monday through Saturday.

Seeley's forte is the classic style and technique with which he delivers the standard compositions of ragtime, boogie and stride. His left hand is often a blur, and the pace is physically exhausting.

Milne's talent lies in composing as well as playing the three classic styles and in improvising on the themes.

Milne studied at Eastman School of Music in Rochester, N.Y., and Peabody Institute in Baltimore, Maryland. He has played French horn with the Rochester Philharmonic orchestra and the Baltimore Symphony. He and his wife, Ann, have two daughters, and live in Rochester, Mich.

Seeley grew up in Detroit and studied with local teachers and at Detroit Institute of Musical Art at University of Detroit. He also is proud of having received some "pointers" from Meade "Lux" Lewis, one of the all-time greats of boogie.

Seeley lives in Novi.

Performers being sought

The Suburban Chorale, sponsored by Livonia Parks and Recreation, is seeking singers and dancers for its annual spring show "I Hear America Singing," May 21 and 22.

Anyone wishing to attend rehearsals may do so at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at Clarenceville High School, 20155 Middle Belt. Chorale director is Bruce Graden.

For additional information, call membership chairman Pat Selix at 425-8581. Theresa Fuss, business manager, may be contacted by individuals who want to engage the chorale.

Civic theater sets auditions for play

Auditions for "Arsenic and Old Lace" will be held by the Wayne-Westland Civic Theater at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday at the St. John Episcopal Church, 555 S. Wayne Road.

The production, set for Feb. 20-21, needs 10-12 men and three women.

Musical premiering

The premiere performance of a new and dramatically stylized musical offering titled "The Spirit of '76," produced and directed by Dr. Leonard B. Smith to spark metropolitan Detroit's official observance of the American Revolution Bicentennial 1776-1976, will be presented at 8:20 p.m. Jan. 17 in the main auditorium of Detroit's Masonic Temple.

The program, featuring the 60-member Detroit Concert Band in historical settings, will be narrated by WJR's Jimmy Launce, a West Bloomfield resident. Mezzo soprano Elsie Inselman and trombonist William E. Lane will provide solo highlights.

Dramatic sequences of "Spirit of '76" reveal the band dipping into its ready repertoire of more than 1,200 different compositions—beaming on such classical giants as Franz Liszt, W.A. Mozart and Jean Sibelius.

Sponsored by Detroit Commandery No. 1, K.T., tickets are available at Detroit's Masonic Temple Ticket Office (832-6648).

In the First Century, Christians fell prey to honest-to-goodness lions. And a box-score for a Sunday back then might well have read: "Lions 3....Christians 0." Nineteen centuries later, things haven't changed much. Christians are still falling prey to lions...and bears...and colts...and rams...and many other kinds of ferocious animals anymore. They're football teams. And they're not killing the Christians; they're enchanting them. "I can't go to church on Sunday! I mean, the Rams are playing the Vikings!!!" We understand. Football is exciting. But do you know what? God's Word is exciting too. And so is the fellowship of God's people. The football season is over. We invite you to Memorial Church of Christ where we know no season...and it's as good in January as it is in November.

Tests spot learning problems

Children who are performing poorly in school will have an opportunity for free educational testing at Madonna College.

Offered by the education and psychology department, the testing will take place as part of a classroom laboratory of upper level teacher education students.

Supervision will be provided by Dr. June J. Slobodian, department chairman, Robert O. Stattler, and George Graham, instructors in the education-psychology department.

"Testing will reveal why children are having problems with language, reading, remembering or finishing assignments," Stattler said.

Madonna students, most of whom are studying for specialization in learning disabilities, will then prescribe remedial techniques which parents or teachers may employ to assist the child.

Children selected for testing should be in either the fourth, fifth or sixth grades. They will be expected to attend six sessions at Madonna, 36600 Schoolcraft, Livonia, on alternate Saturdays from 10:30 to noon, beginning Feb. 1.

"Madonna students will benefit from their direct contact with children of varying capabilities," said Sr. Mary Martina, director of the college's psycho-education center, "and children and parents will benefit from a thoroughly supervised professional diagnosis."

Remedial techniques which may assist the child will be recommended to the parents, but there will be no official communication between the college and the child's teacher, she added.

Parents who would like their children to participate in the testing should call the education department at Madonna College for a pre-registration form. There will be a minimum fee to cover cost of materials. Twenty children will be accepted for testing.

The event will be in the fashion fabric department, and will be commented by Simplicity stylist, Marlene Lockwood Roney.

The show is a follow-up to Simplicity's invitational breakfast for home economics teachers held the same day. It is open to all young persons, whether or not they are currently enrolled in a school sewing class.

New Ford clinic plans open house

Guests will be able to talk with physicians and technicians about their specialities, learn what is behind the mystery of the x-ray, get a preview of the ambulatory surgery unit due to open in March.

The $6.2 million diagnotistic treatment center is backed by the supportive services of Henry Ford Hospital's 33 medical specialty clinics. These specialties include allergy, dentistry, dermatology, internal medicine, general surgery and gynecology-obstetrics.

Other specialties are opthalmology, orthopedic surgery, otolarnygology, audiology, pediatrics and urology.

Special community services such as alcoholism counseling and therapy and ambulatory surgery have been developed in relationship to general community needs.

Other services include clinical laboratories, diabetic radiology, executive and school health programs, kidney dialysis, physical therapy, psychological treatment and travelers' immunization.

The center is located at 19401 Hubbard, between Evergreen and Southfield, Dearborn. It has a capacity for 136,000 outpatient visits annually.

Technologists offered retraining

Retraining workshops for medical technologists will be offered at Mercy College of Detroit starting in February, with a registration deadline of Friday, Jan. 16.

There are 27 sessions offered in the full program Tuesday and Thursday evenings beginning Feb. 5. Participants must either be registered or eligible for registry with the American Society of Clinical Pathologists.

"Candidates may apply for all 27 sessions or for any topical groups of sessions but priority, with a limitation of 20 persons per session, will be given to those enrolling for the full session," said David C. Ballinger, director, Mercy's center for allied health education.

The sessions include urinanalysis, hematology, serology, immunohematology (blood bank), coagulation, chemistry and microbiology. The heaviest concentration is in chemistry and microbiology with seven sessions for each.

Dr. Lorraine A. Reknowski directs the medical technology program. Carole A. Deyer is coordinator for the workshops.

Chiefs take it on the chin, fall to Franklin, 90-59

By BILL COLLINS

In the eyes of Plymouth Canton, Tuesday night was a golden opportunity to gain its second win of the season against the previously un-victorious Livonia Franklin Patriots.

Instead, Canton was lambasted by Franklin 90-59 as the Patriots chalked up their initial win of 1976.

Franklin was consistently able to drive inside for layups in the opening quarter, and controlled the boards in the offensive end to dominate play when they had the ball.

The Patriots raced to a 12-5 advantage in the first three minutes while applying a man-to-man press to keep the heat on Canton. Plymouth saw its defense balloon to 23-8 at then end of the first quarter.

The Chiefs found the comeback trail in the opening moments of the second period, when guard Tom Close picked up the slack with some buckets from the perimeter.

Canton was behind 26-8 with 7:17 left in the half.

Close hit four field goals and connected on four free throws to cut the deficit to 33-23, with four minutes to go in the half.

Franklin rebounded with some timely scoring from forwards Sam Williams and John Elmore to move further ahead of the Chiefs. Franklin took command once again in the closing moments to restore its lead at halftime, 47-27.

Canton committed 14 turnovers in the first half as a result of errant passes, and could hit on only 10 of 33 field goal attempts.

Part of the reason Canton's offense was offtrack was because it was without the services of starting guard Keith Osborne, the team's leading scorer.

Franklin was obviously not content with the lead it held during the first half, as the Patriots increased the gap to make the contest more lopsided during the second half.

Guards Dan Pederson and Dave Wilson of Franklin led the third-quarter scoring for Franklin, while Tom Close, Rob Mandle and Steve Salyer were the only Chiefs to score during the third quarter.

With a safe 63-37 lead at the end of the third quarter, Livonia Franklin coach Frank Visser, assured of his team's first victory, substituted freely, as did Canton mentor Casey Cavell.

Franklin continued to build its lead, while Canton played close to even during most of the the fourth period.

Junior forward Mike Wendland entered the game with four minutes gone in the quarter and contributed eight points for the Chiefs in his best performance of the year.

Franklin capped its offensive show, scoring five points in the final eight seconds to reach the 90-point plateau for a satisfying victory, even though it was a long time in coming.

"We didn't play strong defense, and when you don't play good defense, it's hard to win," said coach Cavell after the game.

Perhaps the underlying factor in all the Canton setbacks is the Chief's poor shooting.

Against Franklin they shot a meager 32 percent from the floor. During the year the defense has averaged a 62 point yield per game, while the offense has averaged under 50 points per game.

Hopefully Canton will find a solution to its abysmal ahooting in time for tomorrow's game with Waterford Mott at home, beginning at 8 p.m.

Glenn tankers bone up in Florida

While most area swimmers trudged through the snow over the holiday break to get to their daily workouts, the Westland John Glenn tankers combined a working-vacation on the beaches and in the pools at Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

The team, several parents, and coach Al Wachtel made the long trek south by car, leaving the brisk state weather Dec. 17 and returning New Year's Eve. The entourage camped while at Ft. Lauderdale in an effort to cut down expenses.

The purpose of the trip, according to Wachtel, was to enable the Rockets to attend the National Swimming Camp in the Sunshine State and, as a corollary, to escape from the drab routine of a cold winter in the north.

Wachtel and diving coach Dave Downs, who first attended the camp when they were teammates at Kent State University, kicked around the idea of a repeat excursion with the Rockets, and by late August, preliminary planning was under way.

The tankers raised all the necessary $1,900 for the trip by holding a pancake breakfast and ice scraper and record sales.

The sojourn in the sun was a combination of work and play. The team attended three two-hour clinics at the camp during its stay and the swimmers worked out four to five hours per day.

"Among the most important parts of the trip were the kids getting a chance to swim in a long-course 50 meter pool (most area pools are under 25 meters) and the opportunity to meet swimmers and coaches from all over the country," Wachtel said.

In addition to attending the formal clinics on the fundementals—strokes and conditioning-the Rockets also went through the same daily paces they would have gone through had they been practicing in their own pool.

All was not work, however, as the tankers spent much of their free time swimming, soaking and body surfing in the ocean. Wachtel said he believes frolicking in the salt water was the most memorable part of the trip for most people.

Additionally, the Rockets travelled to Miami Beach, Seaquarium in Coral Gables and two fast days at Disney World in Orlando.

"I think the kids were just overwhelmed," Wachtel said of the experience. "I think they worked extremely hard and had a good time. The trip was worth it from conditioning and psychological standpoints."

The Rockets' mentor had nothing but praise for the conduct of his charges while in Florida, stating, "I have no reservations about taking these kids anywhere. The help of the parents was also super."

Would Wachtel like to return next year and perhaps on an annual basis? "I'd do it in a minute," he laughed.

Whether or not the experience will benefit the Rockets' swim fortunes the remainder of this season remains to be seen. Glenn, with a victory over Dundee and a loss to Inkster Cherry Hill, hosts Dearborn Heights Annapolis at 7 p.m. tonight (Thursday).

JV Chief cagers win 4th

The Plymouth Canton Chiefs junior varsity basketball crew breezed past Livonia Franklin Tuesday night with a second quarter surge for their fourth victory this season, 62-53.

Canton trailed 11-3 early in the first quarter when Franklin sank five of its first seven shots from the field.

The Patriots controlled the boards in the opening stanza and held a 19-10 lead after the first quarter.

The Chiefs launched its comeback in the second period by scoring 17 unanswered points.

With little more than five minutes remaining in the half Keith Fuelling tied the score at 19 on a rebound shot.

Randy Rienas, who led all scorers with 22 points, put the Chiefs in the lead to stay stealing the ensuing inbound pass and scoring on a layup.

Franklin was held scoreless for five and a half minutes during the second quarter, and could only muster nine points as Canton led at halftime, 34-28.

The closest the Patriots came in the second half was during the fourth quarter.

After Randy Rienas and Keith Fuelling fouled out, the Canton margin was sliced to five, 51-46, with 6:30 left in the game.

Franklin's press was not effective and the Chiefs rebuilt their lead en route to a 62-53 triumph.

Canton is now 4-2 and faces Waterford Mott tomorrow evening at the Centennial Park with tipoff slated for 6:30 p.m.

Churchill socks Southfield

Outscoring the visiting Blue Jays 20-10 in what turned out to be a pivotal third quarter, Livonia Churchill went on to defeat Southfield Tuesday 68-59 in nonleague basketball play.

The key to the game, from Churchill coach Pat Montagano's point of view, was the Chargers' ability to penetrate Southfield's zone defense during the third period.

Churchill's Mike Streicher connected on four consecutive shots from the corner and Dave Clare added three buckets from close range when the Blue Jays opened up their defense to forge the Chargers to a comfortable 47-34 third quarter advantage.

However, as Mantagano was quick to point out, things were not always as comfortable for the Chargers during the game.

Southfield, which has employed a full-court press much of the season, started out in a zone against Churchill and jumped out to a 14-13 first period lead. The Chargers fought back, though, and carried a 27-24 lead off the floor at halftime.

The Blue Jays stayed in their zone defense almost the entire third quarter, finally changing to a man to man defense when Churchill began to pull away.

Southfield outscored the Chargers 25-21 during the final period, but it was not enough as coach Don Kaump's Blue Jays fell to a 3-4 overall season's mark with the loss. The victory upped Churchill's record to 5-3.

The Chargers utilized a man to man defense through most of the first half in an effort to shut down the Southfield running attack and alternated between the man to man and zone throughout the second half.

The taller Chargers held a decisive rebounding edge over the Blue Jays, collecting 35 to Southfield's 23.

Montagano, looking forward to to tomorrow's (Friday) key clash with Farmington Harrison for the first place in the Western Six League, indicated that he was generally satisfied with his team's performance against the Blue Jays.

"I was pleased with the kids' play coming off a two-week layoff and I always appreciate a good win," the veteran mentor stated.

Montagano also praised the work of the Southfield quintet, stating, "It's a scrappy ball club which runs and shoots well."

Streicher and Clare shared scoring honors for the game, each coming up with 14 points. Tom Bay and Matt Foster added 13 and 11 points respectively to the Churchill cause.

Jon Vigi scored 13 points for the Blue Jays, while teammates Marvin Miles, Paul Wilkie and Jeff Schubiner all contributed 10.

By W.W. EDGAR

The cold blasts out of the north during the past week brought with them the greatest wave of high scoring for the entire season.

In this scoring spree, five bowlers broke the 700 barrier and two others posted perfect games to make it the best scoring week in many a moon.

It was an unusual week in that the contributors of the perfect games were fathers bowling with their sons in the Father & Son leagues at Merri-Bowl and Bel-Aire Lanes. In each case, the father was trying to set an example for his son.

Both of them came last Sunday morning when Andy Neeley had his perfecto in a 729 series at Merri-Bowl and, precisely at the same time, Larry Worder put his name on the honor roll at Bel-Aire Lanes with a 300 between games of 194 and 202 for a 696 series.

THE NEW MEMBERS of the 700 club include Tony Pryztulski, who posted an even 700 at Merri-Bowl; Steve Laine with a 712 at Country Lanes; Jerry Cole with a 766 at Westland Bowl and Bob Garrett, who had a 736 in the Senior House League at Westland.

Cole's big series, that came on games of 245, 267 and 254, was not only high for the league this season but was the best series shot in the house. Garrett, too, was well on his way with a start of 255 and 248, but dipped to 233 in the final for 736.

ONE OF THE MOST pleasing of the 700 series was that rolled by Steve Laine at Country Lanes. He is a 188 average bowler who has come up through the junior ranks. He opened with a 245, followed with 221 and closed with a 246.

Right behind him for the week's honors was Chuck Roam, another 188 average bowler who linked games of 243, 235 and 214 for 692.

SCORING WAS HIGH again at Bel-Aire, aside from Larry Worder's big series. Bill Cooper topped the Senior House with a 693 and was followed by Gil Scharwhorst with 689 and George Oldfield with 655.

AT FARMINGTON LANES, Jill Hornsby took top honors in the Teen Classic with a 217 in 541—not bad for a 140 average bowler. In the Junior High Girls circuit, it was Linda Hamlin with a 208 in 488 who took top honors.

Jan Elliott had her name posted on the honor roll at Merri-Bowl with a 233 in 629 to pace the ladies leagues.

GERRY ZANDE got away to a good start in the New Year in the Livonia Ladies Classic.

She took high series with 521-126—647 that included a high game of 215-42—257.

ONE OF THE PROUDEST bowlers in the area was Don Morrison at Plaza Lanes.

Carrying a 161 average, he linked games of 181, 237 and 223 for 641 to go 158 pins over average.

Borgess upended

Bishop Borgess coach Mike Guza has found solace in small things.

"We're a much better team than we were last year," Gouza said following his team's defeat at the hands of University of Detroit High School.

The loss dropped the Spartans to 2-4 on the year but the 53-44 loss at the hands of the powerful Cubs forbodes better things to come for the Redford Township team that was 2-19 last season.

"We were only two points down at the half but we started to throw the ball away in the third quarter and that hurt us," said Guza. As a result, the Spartans were down by eight entering the final period and could never catch U-D.

Noticable by their absense were three Borgess players. Guza did not choose to comment on the reason for their absense.

John Bialowicz paced the Spartans with a career high of 15 points while Dave Priebe added 14.

"We haven't been a good shooting team all year and tonight was not an exception," Guza lamented.

Terry O'Brian, starting his first game in the place of one of the missing Spartans, was impressive despite the fact that he scored only four points.

"O'Brian played a good all around game," Guza said.

Next on the agenda for Borgess is a match-up with powerful Birmingham Brother Rice, 1974 state champions at Bishop Borgess Friday night.

Stevenson wins

Trojans top Pinckney

Livonia Clarenceville had four players in double figures of the scoring column Tuesday en route to a 60-56 victory over Pinckney. The win was the Trojans' second in six outings.

The final score was closer than most of the contest, as Clarenceville lead by as many as 14 points just before the halftime intermission, and played without the services of center George Scholes through all of the third quarter.

The big pivotman had accumulated four personal fouls at the two minute mark of the second period.

"We played good defense, especially in the first half," said Clarenceville coach Bob Wolf. "Our floor play on offense also was pretty good. We had a lot of open people, but then we had a lot of turnovers too."

Nail Sheena paced the Trojans' scoring attack with 19 points, while Scholes added 12, Bill Peterson 11 and Brad Rowens 10. Clarencevifle next takes to the court this Saturday, hosting Detroit Lutheran West. Jayvee play begins at 6:30 p.m.

Livonia Stevenson-Dearborn

The Spartans warmed up for their showdown with Pontiac Northern tomorrow (Friday) by demolishing Dearborn in basketball action Tuesday 72-38. Everyone on the Stevenson roster got into the ballgame and everyone scored.

The man to man defense employed by the Spartans all but shut down the Dearborn offensive thrust. "We played good defense at times," evaluated George Van Wagoner, the Spartans' mentor, "but I thought it could have been better."

The Stevenson coach added that it appeared that his charges had the superior talent against Dearborn and showed that they wanted to taste victory more than the visiting Pioneers.

Leading the Spartans' scoring attack were Rob Rose with 17 points, Ron Colone, 14, Dave Haberman, 9, and Dzve Gilland, 8. Bill Mullally, a substitute, drew Van Wagoner's praise for coming off the bench and turning in "a good job defensively and on the boards."

People who buy and people who sell get together in the Observer&Eccentric Newspapers

Buyers and sellers are "strange" people. Strange to each other, that is. People with lots of different needs and wants, people who need to get together. They need to get together in the quickest, least expensive and most effective way possible—the Observer & Eccentric Want Ads.

Say you need a buyer for a bunch of baby basset hounds, or a really good home for a litter of antiques...How do you meet those unknown admirers with an eye for your special goods? How do you keep track of sellers with garage sales, and owners of autos and pets to trade? It's easy -- when you know where buyers and sellers get together best—the Observer & Eccentric Classifieds.

It's easy to get double buying and selling results, too. Double-Action Ads bring people together from all over Wayne and Oakland Counties. These suburban communities include: Birmingham, Bloomfield, West Bloomfield, Farmington, Farmington Hills, Rochester, Avon Twp., Southfield and Troy in Oakland County; Livonia, Garden City, Plymouth, Plymouth Twp., Canton Twp., Redford Twp., and Westland in Wayne County. Smart buyers and sellers place a Double Action Family Want Ad (non business) of 15 words or less in two consecutive issues, with no changes in copy and no cancellations -- and they pay only $6. That's a savings of $2.00 off the regular cost of placing an ad in two issues.

When you have something to sell...when you have something to buy...you've got a lot in common in the Observer & Eccentric Classified Want Ads.

Claymoor:
It's everything you deserve,

and it's ready.
You're partial to the better things in life. You take a swimming pool and tennis courts for granted. You like a valet to park your car and a doorman to welcome you 24 hours a day. You appreciate a sauna and an occasional massage. As for maid service, that goes without saying.
That's why we built Claymoor, a full-service apartment.
And it's waiting for you.
Should you need no more than 1400 square feet, our 2-bedroom, 2-bath apartments are ideal. But should you require 2000 to 3000 square feet, we'll custom design a dazzling suite for you quicker than you can say, "Voluptuous elegance."
Claymoor: It's for people who like to be spoiled . . . and deserve to be.

WHODUNIT?

The sofa, the chair, the stove and the dresses . . . all sold in a single day. Who could have gotten away with it? It's really not such a mystery. Every clue points to the Observer & Eccentric Classifieds: the quick response, the number of calls, and most important, the results-SALES.

Consider the opportunity . . . the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers are read twice each week by more than 155,500 families in Wayne and Oakland Counties --families next door to you and in neighboring communities.

Consider the motive . . . the Observer & Eccentric Want Ad Department has a strong desire to satisfy your needs, whether you're selling a couch or looking for a job.

Consider the weapon . . . the Observer & Eccentric Family Want Ads have a double edge because they're placed in two consecutive issues (Monday/Thursday or Thursday/Monday) and are seen each time by more than 155,500 witnesses. And these Family Want Ads (no changes in copy, no cancellations) cost only $6 --that's a savings to you of $2 off the regular cost of placing an ad in two issues.

It's a modus operandi that is well known and makes the solution to this case elementary.

how to focus

You may notice that some cars glare at you more than others, even though their headlights have been aligned. This is because different manufacturers recommend slight variations in their alignment specs and the general two-inch dimension may not apply in some localities.

When checking and adjusting your car's headlights, ideally the gas tank should be half full, somebody should be in the driver's seat and right-front passenger seat, recommended air pressure should be in the trunk, except for the spare tire and normal tools.

If you have a headlight that is burned out, make sure you know which type of replacement lamp is needed, especially if the car has four lamps. The inner lights are the high beams for reaching down the highway. They each have a single filament for that high-intensity beam. The two outer sealed-beamed lights have both a low beam and a high beam. Identifying numbers are molded into the glass and there are large offset lugs at different angles so that you cannot confuse the lamps.

If you notice that your headlights are not giving off their full candle power, check your battery terminal for corrosion or the alternator belt for slipping action.

If your headlights short-out when you switch to the high beam, chances are the dimmer switch is shorting on high beam. It's not the lamps themselves or the wiring or the lighting swtich, which almost every motorist who is confronted with this problem suspects the trouble to be.

If the headlights go off and then on again repeatedly without the switch being snapped, it's not a short circuit blowing a fuse. There's no fuse for the headlights. It's the circuit breaker at the lighting switch alternately breaking the current flow and momentarily closing the circuit again.

And speaking of lights, make sure your stop and turn signals are working properly. Keep in mind that a No. 1157 bulb for the rear lights has a common filament for the stop and turn lights. The other filament is for the taillight.

If one of the rear turn lights doesn't work and the stop light does, the trouble IS NOT with the bulb. If the indicator lights burn steadily or flash unusually fast when signalling for a turn, one of the bulbs has burned out.

It's good to carry a trouble light, spare headlamps, bulbs and a flare in your car at all times. Other drivers depend on your car being properly lighted both day and night.

Ford division's 1976 Thunderbird will include three new, colorful, luxury groups creme and gold, Bordeaux and lipstick. Other new options are a power lumbar seat and an AM-FM quadrasonic, eight-track tape player.

Facts of light—

Half the cars on the road today have headlights that are badly out of adjustment and need to be corrected. This condition represents loss of efficiency and contributes to hazardous driving.

Does your car fit into this category? If it does, give yourself and other motorists a break by learning the facts of light and getting your headlights on the beam.

You can properly align the headlights yourself. All you need is a garage wall or a light-colored door to serve as a screen on which to protect your headlights. The approach, however, on which you drive your car to the screen must be level.

Stop the car about 25 feet from the screen. You need two horizontal and three vertical lines to check the alignment.

The upper horizontal line should be the same distance from the ground as the centers of the headlamps. The lower horizontal line (the aiming line) should run parallel to and two inches below the upper line.

As for the three vertical lines, one should correspond with the center line of your car while the other two with the center line of each headlamp.

Use a stick to measure the distance between the center of the headlamps and the ground. Simply transfer that measurement to the screen.

To establish your vertical center line, move the car closer to the screen for accuracy. Sight with a narrow strip of masking tape the center line of the car's rear window and a small object placed at the center of the hood.

To check the alignment of dual lamps, cover the two outer lights and press the floor button for high beam. Each of the two inner lights should throw a light pattern so that the center is focused on the intersection of the headlamp center line and the horizontal line of adjustment.

Now uncover the outer lights and switch to low beam. The projected pattern should be below the top horizontal line and to the right of the vertical center line of the outer lamps.

If they don't line up this way, you'll have to make some adjustments. Simply remove the lamp doors and turn the top or bottom screw for vertical adjustment and the side screw for horizontal adjustment. When the low beam of the outer light is adjusted properly, the high beam is automatically aimed correctly.

Preview proceeds go to charity

Happy to be part of the 1976 Detroit Auto Show Charity Preview set for Jan. 9 in Cobo Hall are show co-chairmen Jerry Bielfield (far left) and Hugh McVeigh, Easter Seal poster child Kerrie Hines (right center) and Erica Stark, recipient of services from the Easter Seal Society. Proceeds from the preview will go to the society for crippled children, Boys' Clubs of Metropolitan Detroit and the Northeast Guidance Center. The preview is sponsored by "big four" automotive company presidents and their wives. Honorary sponsors are Gov. and Mrs. William G. Milliken.

Today's hits, yesterday's dreams

Cars are stars of '76 auto show

By DENNY COFFMAN

There will be something for everyone at this year's Detroit Auto Show, Jan. 10-18 in Cobo Hall.

The thrill of an auction and lottery; a beauty contest; and some exotic old cars, including the first Bugatti ever built, will all be part of Detroit's 60th show.

But the main attraction is 250 domestic and imported cars, plus recreational vehicles housed in Halls A, B, and C and occupying an area the size of eight football fields.

The first event will be the Miss Detroit Beauty Contest Jan. 6, followed by a Charity Night Jan. 9, from 7-9 p.m. Proceeds from the $25-per-couple benefit will go to the Boys' Clubs of Metropolitan Detroit; the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children; and the Northeast Guidance Center.

Last year's show was the most successful ever in terms of attendance. About 325,000 persons came to see the 1975s during a time when auto sales plummeted to a yearly low.

Jerry Bielfield, co-chairing this year's show with Hugh McVeigh, expects 400,000 persons to attend the show. Bielfield says that the recent upturn in auto sales, plus the apparent acceptance by customers of higher auto prices and new styles, will account for the record attendance.

The Michigan Lottery, too, according to Bielfield, has been an important factor in spurring attendance at the show.

The Million Dollar Drawing will be held in Hall C on Jan. 12, and there will be a special daily drawing every day except. Each daily winner will receive a new car certificate worth $5,000 to be applied toward the purchase of a new domesteic car of any make the winner selects.

On Jan. 14, the winner of the daily drawing will be able to select a car from among the domestic models on display. The show management will contribute up to $10,000 toward the price of any model the winner chooses.

Cars from the Harrah Automobile Collection, Reno, Nev., will be on display in a special theme center area. Harrah's collection is considered one of the most definitive in the world, and contains 1,500 automobiles at the Nevada 13-building complex.

Harrah cars appearing at the Auto Show are the first Bugatti (1908) ever built; the 1937 Airomobile; the 1938 Phantom Corsair; and the 1925 Julian Sport Coupe.

The Harrah Collection was begun in 1948, when Bill Harrah acquired a 1911 Maxwell and a 1911 Ford; it was opened to the public in 1962, and only 60 more models (some of which, unfortunately, no longer exist) are needed to make the collection complete.

It's been estimated that more than 5,000 makes of automobiles have been produced in the U.S., some of them one or two of a kind "promotional" models.

Each Harrah Collection automobile is mechanically and aesthetically perfect—no better and no worse than the day it rolled out of the factory.

The Airomobile Sedan on display at the auto show was the only one ever produced. It was intended to be a low-priced, mass-produced car, but lacked financial backing.

The Airomobile featured three-wheel, front drive and was built by the Franklin Automobile Co.

The Phantom Corsair and Julian Sport Coupe are also one of a kind. Designed by Rust Heinz (of the "57 Variety" family), the Corsair featured aerodynamic engineering and airplane cockpit instrumentation, including an altimeter, barometer and compass.

The Julian, with its center positioned driver's seat, rear-mounted radial air-cooled engine and swing-axle suspension, had an all aluminum body and English tapestry upholstery.

Also on display in the show's theme center is a five-by-12 foot epic painting depicting the history of the American auto industry.

The painting, the work of artist Robert Thom, will be unveiled Jan. 10.

But the really big show consists of the 250 1976 cars, notably smaller and lighter than their predecessors. Each manufacturer will highlight its car models with live models and exhibits.

Together with the recreation vehicle display and old cars, this year's show is as lively as ever.

But adding even more life is the popular new car auction, in which visitors can take part in give-and-take competitive bidding for five new cars, Jan. 13-17.

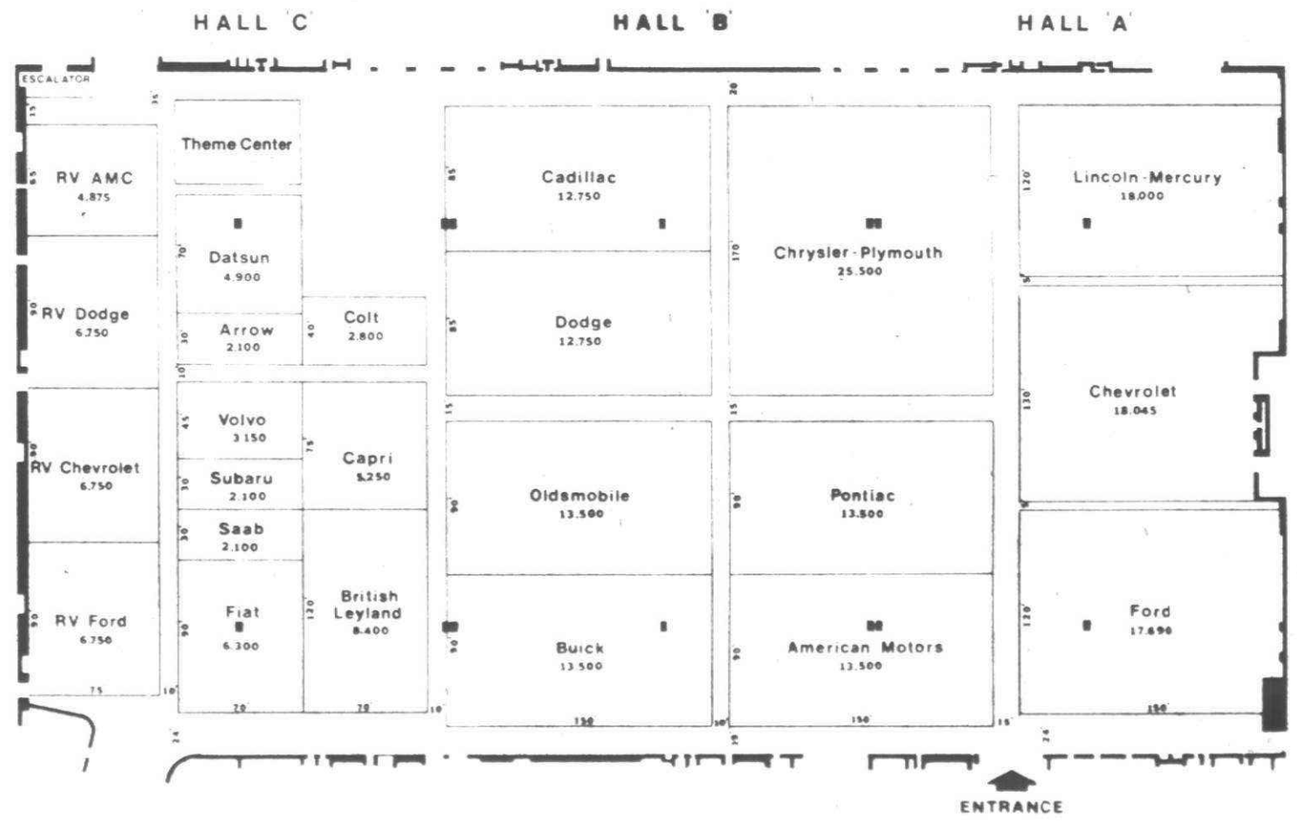

Cars to be auctioned off this year include a Chevrolet Chevette, Plymouth Volare, Mustang II Stallion, American Motors Pacer and a Triumph TR-7.

Auto Show ticket prices are $2.50 for adults and 50 cents for children under 12; senior citizens (65 and over) will be admitted free, Monday through Friday.

Many metropolitan area banks and auto dealerships are giving away free discount certificates, worth $1.25 toward the price of a ticket.

Show hours are noon to 11 p.m. Saturday and Sunday (Jan. 10-11); 2-10 p.m. Monday through Thursday Jan 12-15); 2-11 p.m. Friday (Jan. 16); and noon to 11 p.m. Saturday and Sunday (Jan. 17-18).

The Detroit Auto Dealers Association, sponsor of the show, includes 259 new car dealers in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties. Its Auto Show is the oldest show of its kind in the world, under the same management.

The Whatchamacallit Loan

The Whatchamacallit happens not to exist. Yet. But if it did, we at Triple-A would be happy to lend you the money to buy it.

In the meantime, we'll lend you the money to buy any of the things it represents—a new or used car, motor home, camper, boat, snowmobile or all-terrain-vehicle.

And, we'll give you a better interest rate than most banks or dealers. We urge you to do some comparison pricing if you don't believe it.

Call Triple-A about a Whatchamacallit loan (a Triple-A MemberLoan as we call it). Especially in these times when a quick, low-cost loan seems as hard to find as a Whatchamacallit.

Light trucks mix looks, toughness

Chevrolet light-duty trucks for 1976 combine toughness, new gains in working style and important advances including a sporty new Blazer design and corrosion prevention.

A major development for 1976 is the new body design for the popular Blazer featuring a new steel cab with a roll bar, formerly separate and now being built into the steel front compartment roof and lock pillar structures. There is a shorter removable plastic roof for the rear compartment.

Other significant 1976 Chevrolet light-duty improvements are:

- Improved braking performance with new brake lining materials and wheel cylinder changes.
- A new quick-release feature for Sportvan rear seats for easier removal and installation.
- A total of 111 exterior two-tone color combinations for two-door Fleetside pickup models, and an expansion of two-tone color combinations for the Suburban, the award-winning tow vehicle.

The Blazer, a pace-setter in the recreational vehicle field, enhances its standing with the new body design featuring integral steel roof and full doors for the front compartment with resulting gains in water tightness and structural rigidity.

The shorter rear roof is removed more easily because of its lighter weight and fewer retaining bolts. The tailgate, with manually operated roll-down window, is retained for 1976.

The new Blazer cab roof features double-wall construction with integral drip gutters. Blazer Cheyenne models have a choice of new all-vinyl or basket weave pattern cloth seat trim.

A soft ride suspension is now standard equipment on Blazer four-wheel drive models. Caster angles have been increased on these models to improve road stability.

Chevrolet continues to make advances in anti-corrosion protection.

For 1976 conventional truck models, these include applying zinc-rich primer to key areas of front fender inner and outer panels before assembly and final prime, as well as the use of pre-coated steel for front door outer panels and doorhandle reinforcements for better prime coverage of inner surfaces.

Keeping that clunker going

If you've decided to keep the old family clunker a little longer, here are some helpful tips (many you can do yourself) that make good economic sense, put extra dollars in your pocketbook, and keep your car running efficiently:

• Check the radiator hoses for cracks and softness. Engine coolant these days is $5 a gallon in most places, not to mention the road call if one of those hoses should suddenly burst some hot day.

• That engine coolant that's been in your car for two years is still good if it's clean. You must drain it and flush the cooling system, add a can of rust and corrosion inhibitor to the old coolant to restore its protective qualities, and then test it to make sure the mixture is 50-50 coolant and water.

• Test the radiator cap to make sure it will keep its proper pressure. Your engine could boil if the cap is faulty.

• The outside surface of the radiator should be cleaned of all debris.

• Have your thermostat checked to make sure it's operating properly.

• Listen for noises and look for leaks from the water pump. It's best to have your mechanic check these things.

• If you have air conditioning in your car, have it charged with Freon 12 gas which operates the unit. And if your coolant overflows on a hot day (that's normal) and you don't have an expansion tank to collect the fluid, it would pay you to invest in one to save the coolant you would otherwise have to replace.

• Your battery needs frequent attention, even during the warmer weather. Check the fluid levels in the cells more frequently than once a month or every 2,000 miles.

• Make sure your battery is free of cracks and that it's able to pass a hydrometer test that measures the strength in each cell.

• Keep the battery terminals and the cable clamps that fit on them clean and tight at all times. Coat with petroleum jelly or some other protective substance.

• Check the battery cables to make sure they are free of corrosion at their grounding point or at the starter.

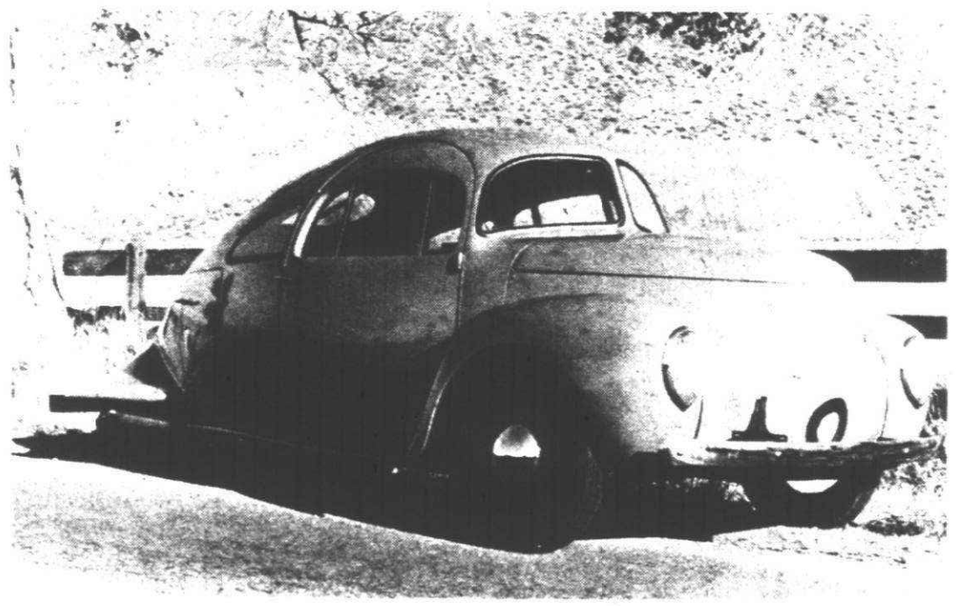

• Say you need a new battery. Don't economize too much and buy a cheap one. And there's no sense in buying a lifetime one either. Your best bet is one guaranteed for three years. You probably won't be keeping "Old Nellie" that long.

• Get a good tune-up. It will mean three or four more miles a gallon, and that's even the price for repairs these days.

• Look at the old spark plugs the mechanic takes out of your car. If the electrodes—the parts that protrude into the engine—are black and oily, ask him to put in plugs with a hotter heat range to help eliminate the oil fouling. If the electrodes are nearly burned away and there are signs of blistering, ask for a colder plug. Either way, you'll get far greater gas mileage because a plug that misfires wastes gallons of gas in a short period of time.

• Unless you're a do-it-yourselfer, it pays to have your spark plugs replaced rather than having them cleaned and reused.

• When changing the contact points, it's not necessary to have the condenser, rotor and distributor cap replaced, too. Only those parts that are worn or faulty need changing. Ask your mechanic to show you these parts. Could save you dollars.

On display at the 1976 Detroit Auto Show from Jan. 10-18 in Cobo Hall, the 1937 Airomobile sedan features a technically successful, three-wheel front drive design. The Franklin Automobile Company, car builders, failed to get financial backing for the car, which was intended to be low-priced and mass-produced.

Experiments become best sellers

Two famous experimental show cars of the 1960s—the 1962 Mustang I and the 1963 Mustang II—have been donated by Ford Motor Company to two Detroit-area museums for display at special exhibits.

The Mustang I and a supply of spare parts was donated to the Edison Institute, independent of Ford Motor Co., for display in the Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn. The Mustang II—no relation to the present Mustang II production car—was donated to the Detroit Historical Society for Detroit Historical Museum exhibits.

The Mustang I, a completely operational two-seat sports car, is powered by a 91.4 cubic-inch V-4 engine developed for the Ford of Germany car of the 1960s. It delivers 109 horsepower and has a top speed of 117 m.p.h. The engine is located behind the cockpit but forward of the rear axle and uses a four-speed manual transmission.

THE CAR HAS an extremely low silhouette—only 28.8 inches high at the peak of the hood and 39.4 inches at the top of its airfoil roll bar. Mustang I's wheelbase is 90 inches and the overall length is 154 inches. The body is made of aluminum and the car weighs only 1,500 pounds.

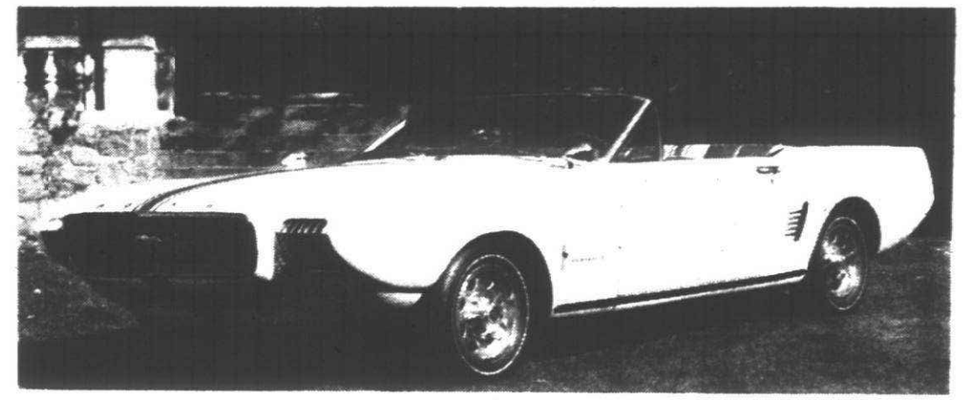

The accelerator, brake and clutch pedals are adjustable four inches, permitting the seat structure for both driver and passenger to be a fixed part of the body, rather than movable as in conventional cars. The steering column features a three-inch adjustment for individual driving comfort.

The Mustang I show car was designed and built at the Ford Research and Engineering Center in Dearborn and was unveiled Oct. 7, 1962, at the Watkins Glen, N.Y., auto races. Later it was displayed at major auto shows, college campuses and engineering society meetings.

The little car provided its name, sporty image and some appearance features—but no mechanical components—to the production-1965 model Mustang destined to go on public sale April 17, 1964.

By contrast, the 1963-vintage Mustang II was a highly stylized and little-disguised prototype of the production model, and was displayed by the company to test public reaction to the forthcoming 1965 Mustang.

THE MUSTANG II show car has a conventionally front-mounted, 289-cubic-inch, high-performance V-8 engine with a four-speed manual transmission. It is 186.6 inches long, 68.2 inches wide and 48.4 inches high, with a 108-inch wheelbase. The production-1965 model Mustang had similar dimensions, except it was five inches shorter overall and almost three inches higher.

Two famous experimental show cars of the 1960s, the Mustang I (above) and the Mustang II, have been donated by Ford Motor Company to two Detroit-area museums. The production-1965 model Mustang was introduced in April 1964. First year sales were more than 400,000 the highest for any new car introduced by FoMoCo.

The four-passenger Mustang II show car also has a detachable hardtop roof similar to those on the original 1955-57 Thunderbird models.

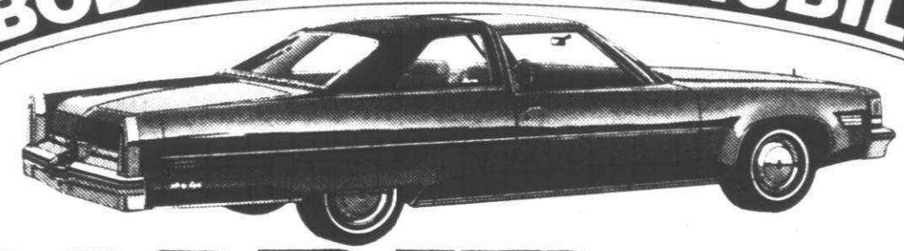

When this car was unveiled at Watkins Glen in October 1963—one year after introduction of the Mustang I show car—Lee A. Iacocca, then Ford vice president and Ford Division general manager and now Ford Motor Company president, told newsmen: "The Mustang II was designed to test the market appeal of a car of this type that might sell for less than $3,000."

Six months later the 1965-model Mustang was introduced with a suggested retail price of $2,345. First-year sales were 418,812—the highest for any new car introduced by Ford Motor Company.

Plymouth introduces new small car line

Three new small cars in the Chrysler-Plymouth line will make their first auto show appearance at the Detroit Auto Show at Cobo Hall Jan. 10-18.

The new models are the subcompact Plymouth Arrow, the Volare and the Feather Duster. It will be the first public showing, anywhere, for the Arrow. All three price classes of the new 92-inch-wheelbase subcompact Plymouth Arrow, a sporty two-door hatchback featuring fastback styling and many standard items, will be shown.

It will also be the first auto show appearance for the complete Volare line...the 108.5-inch-wheelbase sedan and station wagon with a cargo area approaching that of intermediate and standard-size wagons.

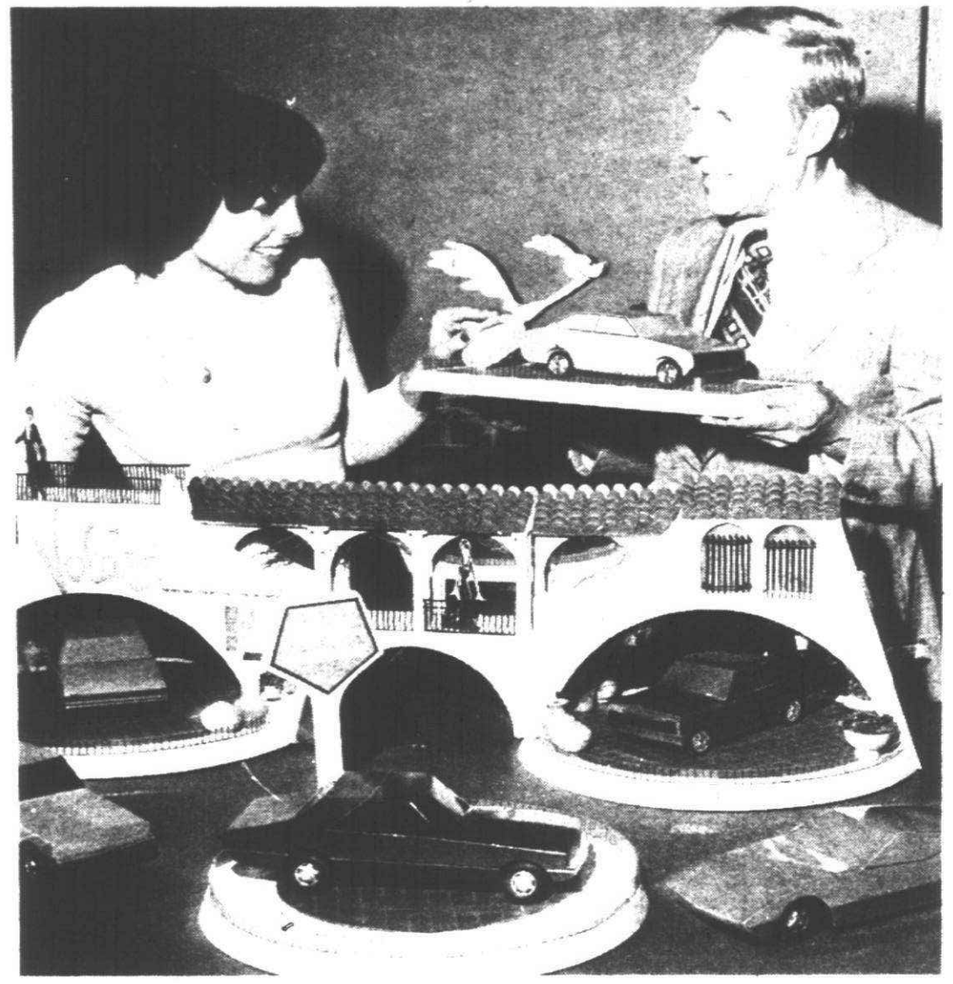

There will be a special display for the Volare Road Runner, which will be shown beneath a large animated figure of the cartoon character bird for which the car is named.

The setting for displaying the Volare line will be simulated Italian villa, with a stucco exterior, tiled roof, and balconies with iron grill work. Throughout the show, magician Mark Sweet will perform on the main balcony, demonstrating levitation and other feats. At each end of the villa, Volare models will be displayed on turntables.

Another special display will demonstrate the operation of the new Volare front suspension, which utilizes an advanced integral torsion bar spring-strut system.

Among the 37 cars in the Chrysler-Plymouth line on display, the following will be featured on special displays: the Volare wagon, coupe and sedan, Plymouth Road Runner, the Plymouth Arrow GT, the economical but roomy compact Feather Duster, the Fury Sport, Chrysler New Yorker Brougham and Cordoba, and the Plymouth Gran Fury Brougham coupe.

Mediterranean colors will dominate the exhibit: the Volare villa will be in white, and the exterior exhibit will be carpeted in three shades of brown and orange.

R.S. Cook, shows and meetings manager for Chrysler-Plymouth division, checks the model of the Chrysler-Plymouth exhibit for the Detroit Auto Show with Kathy Petty.

Mercury introduces new option group

Bobcat and Monarch, two of Lincoln-Mercury's popular small cars, will be available in January with the sporty "S" option group previously announced on Capri II, the division's European import.

Featuring a special paint-tape treatment, styled steel wheels and beefed-up suspension components, the "S" option group was introduced several months ago in Europe and now is available to U.S. Capri II buyers.

"The 'S' option group adds a sporty and youthful look to Capri II, Monarch and Bobcat," said Walter S. Walla, Ford Motor Company vice-president and division general manager.

"Monarch is our best-selling car line and this new option should give it an even broader appeal. The 'S' option on the Bobcat and Capri II ought to make them especially attractive to younger buyers."

The Bobcat "S" is available in white, black and dark brown metallic. Gold tape accents highlight the bodyside, deck, hood and taillamp area. Windshield wipers, windshield moldings and drip and window frame moldings are blacked out. Unique gold-painted styled steel wheels and dual remote control racing mirrors are standard.

The option also includes a handling suspension with front stabilizer bar, and unique spring rates and shock-absorber valving.

The Monarch "S", available in standard two-door models only, features black, white or dark brown metallic exterior paint, a Landau vinyl roof and unique bodyside, hood and deck lid paint-tape stripes and rocker-panel moldings.

Dual remote control color-keyed racing mirrors, styled steel wheels with trim rings and gold paint highlights are standard.

The interior features bucket seats and deluxe door trim with unique vinyl inserts, a leather-wrapped deluxe steering wheel and a floor-mounted shift lever.

Monarch "S" also has a heavy-duty suspension which includes revised front and rear shock-absorber valving, increased front spring rates and an increased rear spring rate with isoclmaps.

The Capri II "S", announced in September, is characterized by its all-black or all-white paint treatment and gold tape accents on the bodyside, deck, hood and grille border. They are matched by special gold and black styled steel wheels. Normally bright trim is blacked-out.

Gold cloth seat inserts highlight the all-black interior which features reclining bucket seats and full instrumentation with tachometer, ammeter and oil pressure, fuel and temperature gauges.

Oldsmobile 1976.

An Olds for everybody. And good mileage in every size.

Take a look at the beautiful new 1976 Oldsmobiles in your dealer's showroom. They're impressive.

Then take a look at the 1976 EPA Mileage Guide test figures for Oldsmobile. They're impressive, too.

They show that good gas mileage runs in our family. Remember these mileage figures are estimates. Naturally the actual mileage you get will vary depending on the type of driving you do, your driving habits, your car's condition, and available equipment. From sporty Starfire supercoupes to full-size, front-wheel drive Toronados, there's good gas mileage in every size Olds.

That's quite a feat considering the array of sizes and models that Olds is offering this year. With this kind of selection, there's bound to be an Olds to fit your lifestyle and pocketbook. And every Olds, whether small, mid-size or full-size is built to be right for the times.

If you own a 1974 or earlier car, you can expect every 1976 Olds to save you money through reduced recommended maintenance schedules ... up to 7,500 miles between oil changes, up to 22,500 miles before changing spark plugs.

And this year Oldsmobile is offering an available five-speed overdrive transmission on Starfire models. (You may be used to thinking of five-speed as strictly a performance feature, but the fifth gear gives you overdrive efficiency.)

We invite you to make a total comparison. Good gas mileage, traditional Oldsmobile engineering, construction, dependability and solid comfort. You'll find each Olds packed with value because it's built with the care and attention to detail that's a tradition at Oldsmobile. Can we build one for you?

Electrical expert Doug Vander Hoff gives the signal to connect the circuitry during an electrical maintenance class at the Kawasaki Midwest Service Training Center in Grand Rapids. The school offers training in advanced motorcycle technology to Kawasaki mechanics through use of "hands on" and video educational systems.

State center trains 'cycle mechanics

National motorcycle ownership now approaches the 10 million mark, and paralleling this growth is the need for a more efficient and profitable system of keeping the machines on the road.

Grand Rapids-based Kawasaki Midwest (KMW), a distributor of Kawasaki motorcycles in Michigan, Ohio, Tennessee, Kentucky and Indiana, has designed a service training center to meet the increasing need for more efficiently trained service technicians. Ron Robbins technical services manager in charge of the training center, believes there will soon be a major motorcycle industry campaign toward more comprehensive training facilities. "At this time, only Kawasaki and one other major motorcycle manufacurer are conducting technician training programs in a serious manner," said Robbins, who originated the KMW program.

KMW subsidizes the entire operation and offers the training courses to benefit their dealerships. Courses are open to Kawasaki dealerships and technicians in the above five-state region. Nearly 1,000 Kawasaki technicians have attended the training center since it began in 1972.

This turnout is attributed by Robbins to "training programs and instructors accepted to be the best anywhere."

To insure one-to-one personal attention for better educational communication, classes are limited to 10 students per session and are divided into five two-man teams. Teams are supplied with a complete set of tools, engines and test equipment so that "hands on," practical work experience can be stimulated.

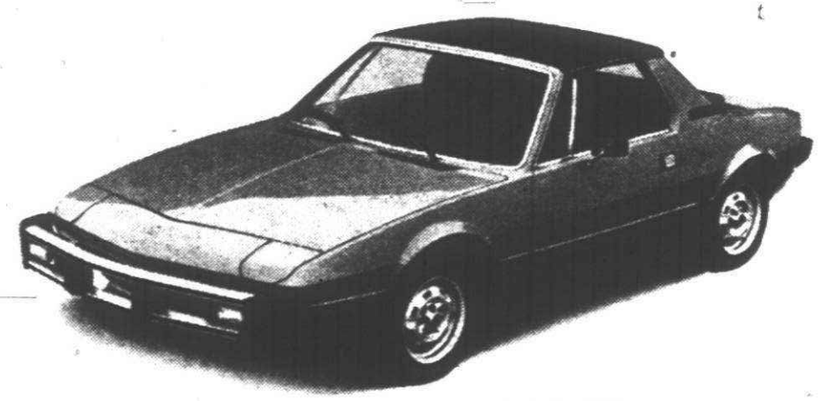

Classroom activities use videotape, film, 35mm slide and sound cassettes and component mock-ups.

KMW class schedules are constantly modified to keep pace with the latest technology. Classes are currently offered in a basic and advanced format in three areas—general, engine and electric systems maintenance.

The total program now covers about six weeks of training and soon will expand into operations and administration.

According to Robbins, KMW classes teach not only the fundamentals of motorcycle servicing, but also an awareness of their positions. "We try to make the Kawasaki technician feel proud of his work, and instill in him the desire to learn everything he can about motorcycles," he explained.

Cadillac broadens line

Cadillacs for 1976 emphasize a broadened product lineup combined with subtle styling and engineering improvements.

"Dimensionally, this year's full-size models are identical to 1975 Cadillacs," noted Edward C. Kennard, general manager of the Cadillac Motor Car Division and vice president of General Motors. "The new international size 1976 Cadillac Seville stands on a 114.3 inch wheelbase, is 204 inches long, 71.8 inches wide, 54.7 inches high and wighs about 4,340 pounds."

The Cadillac executive said by comparison, the Seville is 27 inches shorter, eight inches narrower, almost identical in ehight and about 1,000 pounds lighter than a 1976 Cadillac Sedan de Ville.

Kennard also pointed out that the 1976 Fleetwood Eldorado convertible is the only domestically-produced convertible.

PERSONALIZED STYLING is evident in several new elements for 1976 full-size Cadillacs.

Wheel discs on the front-wheel-drive Eldorados are new, featuring a black center hub area. Optional wheel discs for other 1976 models include turbine disc and wire-wheel types.

All vinyl roofs, except the Seville and Fleetwood 75 series sedan and limousine, utilize the integral padded elk grain material. A cross-grain padded vinyl roof is standard on the Seville and optional on the Fleetwood 75 series cars. Additionally, a new vinyl roof design for Calais and De Ville coupes is highlighted by the extension of the top molding as a continuation of the door "belt" molding.

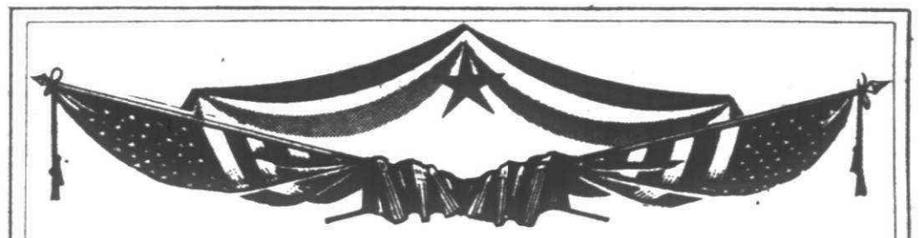

New trims for full-size cars include sporty plaids, plush velours, knits and 11 distinctive, genuine leather selections.

Full-size 1976 models are powered by a 500 CID V-8 engine. The optional Cadillac electronic fuel injected engine is offered on all full-size cars, except the Fleetwood 75 series. The Seville is equipped with a standard 350 CID electronic fuel injected engine.

Full-size Cadillacs have received an EPA federal fuel economy certification of 12 mpg in the city and 16 mpg on the highway. The Seville's EPA certification is 16 mpg in the city and 21 on the highway.

ADDITIONAL VALUE benefits for 1976 have been incorporated with the convenience and security of the owner in mind.

Cadillac electronic fuel injected engines are designed to precisely meter and control the fuel delivery process. Each utilizes a precision laser beam trimmed computer "brain" to operate the system, Kennard said. "These engines are designed to offer quick response, fast starting, consistent performance, smooth engine idle, luxury car fuel economy and few scheduled maintenance operations."

There's a new set of values at this year's Auto Show.

At a time when many people are reevaluating their transportation needs, Chevrolet offers more value than ever.

For example there's Chevette, Chevrolet's new kind of American car. It is international in design and heritage, incorporating engineering concepts proved around the world.

Designed for efficiency of space, its wheelbase is about the same as VW Rabbit's. Its turning circle is one of the shortest in the world, and it carries cargo up to four feet wide.

Chevette is a 2-door hatchback coupe with a standard 1.4-litre engine. It's also available in Sport, Rally and Woody versions and as a 2-seat Scooter model.

Then there's Vega, built to take it. For '76 there's an extensive anti-corrosion program, a new torque-arm rear suspension, and new hydraulic valve lifters for quieter engine performance. And be sure to check Vega's Dura-Built 140-cu.-in. 4-cyl. engine guarantee at your Chevy dealer's.

This year's version of America's favorite compact car makes more sense than the 3 million Novas preceding it.

The 1976 Chevelle is enough car for just about anything. It offers room for six at a sensible price. This year, more than ever, its deft blending of mid-size economies, plus room for a family, makes Chevelle a size whose time has come.

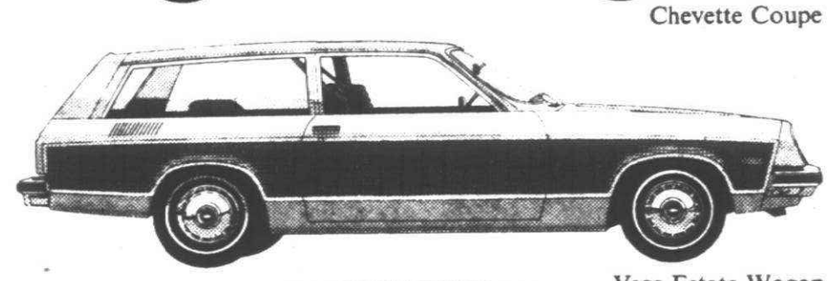

Impala is one of America's most popular full-size cars. That's the result of giving America good value for the dollar. This year the Impala series includes the new value of the thrifty Impala S—Chevrolet's lowest priced full-size car.

Of course there's much more Chevrolet value to be seen at the show and at your Chevrolet dealer's. Check out Caprice, Monza, Monte Carlo, Camaro and Corvette, Chevrolet wagons and trucks. Chevrolet has value for everyone in 1976.

Olds says

Catalytic converter helps gas mileage

Oldsmobile continues to make further gains in fuel economy for 1976 with the introduction of several engineering advancements, the continued use of the catalytic converter and high energy ignition system (HEI).

Among the fuel-saving engineering improvements are the following:

• Five-speed overdrive transmission: This new lightweight floor mounted manual transmission is optional on the Starfire, and with the 260 V-8 engine on the Omegas, Cutlass S, Cutlass Supreme, Cutlass Salon and Cutlass Supreme Brougham.

This transmission has a high-ratio first gear permitting axle ratio to be reduced while maintaining good performance. This, combined with a .80 overdrive fifth gear, provides for a significant improvement in highway fuel economy.

• 2.41-to-1 axle ratio: This optional 98 axle ratio helps to provide improved fuel economy for drivers who spend considerable time at constant highway speeds.

• 260 V-8 engine improved: Oldsmobile engineers have recalibrated the spark timing of this small V-8 to make further fuel economy gains for 1976. This includes the addition of a spark switching valve which better matches spark advance characteristics to engine speed and load.

• 7½-inch axle: This new lighter weight rear axle helps contribute to improved fuel economy. Standard on all Omegas, it is 26 pounds lighter than the 8½-inch axle formerly used.

• Toronado improvements: The carburetor, ignition and exhaust gas recirculation (EGR) systems have been recalibrated to further improve the driveability and fuel economy of the 1976 Toronado.

In addition, the General Motors developed catalytic converter, which was responsible for much of the improvement in fuel economy in 1975, will again be standard on all 1976 Oldsmobiles built for sale in the United States.

The underfloor converter is an emission control device added to the exhaust system to reduce the hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide in the exhaust gas stream.

It contains one-eighth inch diameter beads coated with a platinum-paladium catalyst which accelerates the oxidizing process and reduces nearly all of the unburned hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide to water vapor and carbon dioxide gas.

The catalytic converter system continues to include a stainless steel exhaust crossover pipe giving the system a 50,000-mile life. Unleaded gasoline is used to prevent lead contamination of the catalyst, which can reduce or destroy conversion efficiency.

A side benefit of unleaded fuel in combination with the continued use of the high energy ignition (HEI) system is the extended maintenance interval. The HEI, which will be standard on all Oldsmobiles for the second consecutive year, helps maintain good fuel economy by keeping the ignition system in tune.

Oldsmobiles for 1976 can go up to 22,500 miles between plug changes. Ignition points and condensor have been eliminated. This ignition system also provides up to 35,000 volts for improved starting and cold weather performance.

Other 1976 engineering developments include the following:

• A moisture minder in the refrigeration system simplifies diagnosis for faster service. Standard on all air conditioning systems except Starfire and Omega, this is a ceramic cylinder with a sight glass that shows blue if the system is okay or pink if moisture is in the system.

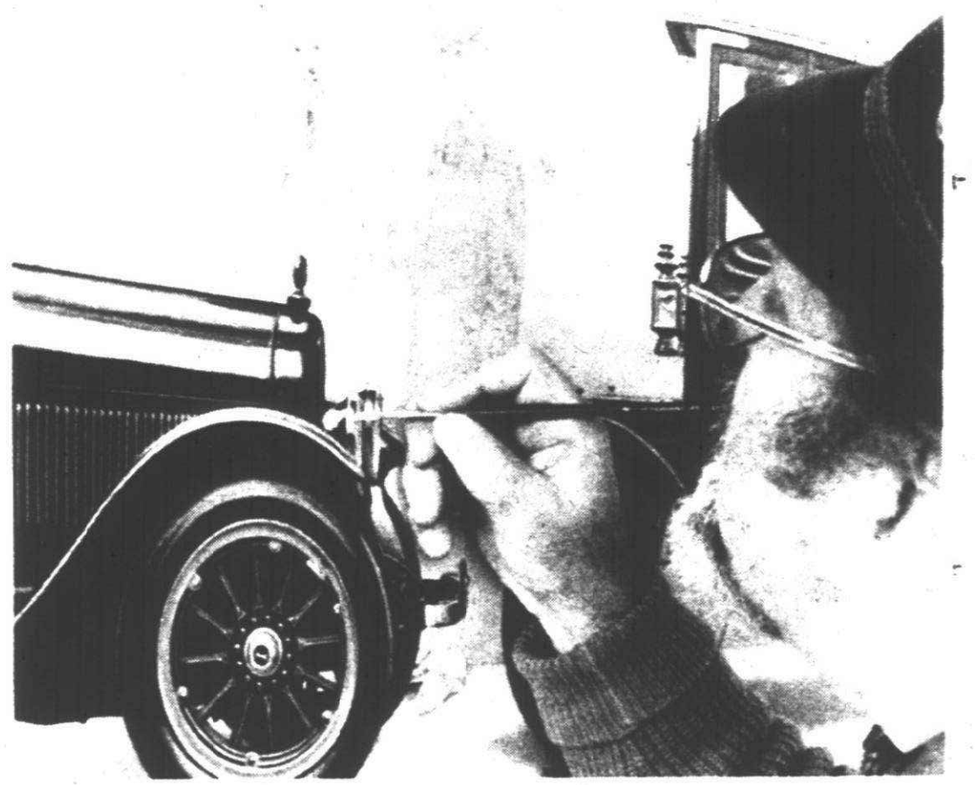

• A driver-controlled load-leveling system is optional on all intermediates and full-size models. This system has a control on the instrument panel allowing the driver to adjust the level of the car by raising the rear end. The system includes a vacuum-powered air pump with tubing linked to the special rear shock absorbers with integral air cylinders. The control can be set so the level of the car is normal when running with a load.

• An optional twilight sentinel automatically turns on the car's lights at dusk and off at dawn when the car is in operation on all 1976 intermediate and full-size Oldsmobiles. With the twilight sentinel, the driver also can set his lights to go off after leaving the car. The car's lights still can be operated by the regular light switch.

• A heavy-duty cast aluminum fan clutch has a finned front cover for increased capacity. To be used with trailer hauling packages on intermediate and full-size cars, this new fan clutch also uses more viscous silicone fluid for increased fan speed resulting in improved engine cooling.

• The 88 and 98 chassis components have been retuned for 1976 to provide a pleasing soft ride with good road isolation feel.

• All Oldsmobiles have new brake linings for improved braking.

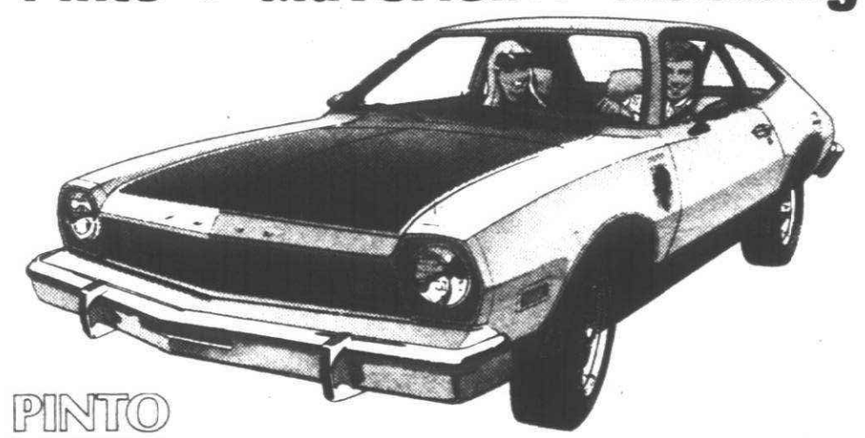

The epic auto history painting, measuring five by 12 feet, will feature both American cars and American automotive personalities who have contributed significantly to the automobile industry. Robert Thom was commissioned by the Detroit Auto Dealers Association to create the painting in honor of the bicentennial celebration. Thom is known for his original oil paintings in the series "A History of Pharmacy" and "The History of Medicine."

Buick 1976: To the Free Spirit.

SKYHAWK. Aerodynamic. Gutsy. Nimble. The most free-spirited Buick of all. Small. Smooth underway. With 2-plus-2 seating. Hatch in back. And set in motion by Buick's own V-6 engine. Skyhawk - it's a ball to drive. Try one.

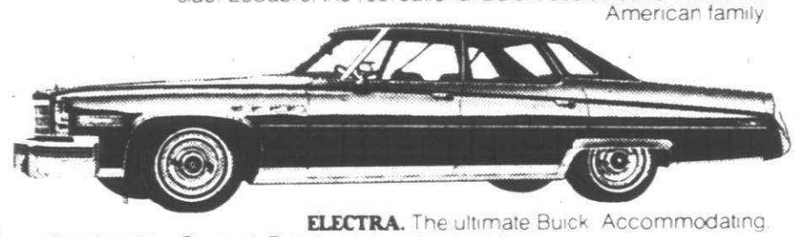

SKYLARK S/R. Built to the discipline that a practical car doesn't have to be bland. Its small size and Buick V-6 engine make it practical; its cockpit makes it dashing. With high-rise, ribbed velour bucket seats (the passenger side reclines), console-mounted shift lever, etc. Skylark S/R – practicality with flair.

RIVIERA. Pictured above is a car that has fostered more than one person's love of car. Obviously, its classic look does much to stir the soul. As does the opulent Buick interior (power windows and tilt steering wheel are a few standard items). But underway, in motion, is where Riviera thrives. And where you'll fall in love with one. You owe yourself this one. It won't be a brief fling – it'll be a long, happy relationship. Drive one, you'll see.

LeSABRE. Here is a car that occupies a unique position. It is the only six-passenger, full-size car in the world that you can order with a V-6 engine. It's just another in a series of progressive steps that Buick engineers have taken to improve the timeliness of our cars. But LeSabre is more than timely. As long as there are Little Leagues and car pools and vacations, families will need LeSabre's six-passenger room and large trunk. And because LeSabre is a Buick, the brood will travel in comfort, heck, in luxury. It's nice to have a car with real talent on your side. LeSabre, the recreational Buick, dedicated to the active American family.

ELECTRA. The ultimate Buick. Accommodating. Comfortable. Opulent. But decidedly not ostentatious. Buick Electra is more than transportation. It's a vehicle of real character. A source of genuine satisfaction. We think you'll find it most enjoyable. Electra and all the new Buicks are at your Buick dealer now.

REGAL AND CENTURY. A lot of bright, free-spirited people are going to take their first real look at Buick this year. And these new, mid-size Buicks are why. Buick luxury, comfort and ride, concentrated in a package that's a foot shorter and over a thousand pounds lighter than most full-size cars. Best of all, Regal and Century are the only American mid-size cars powered by a V-6 engine. The Buick V-6, naturally. Which means they span time and distance very effectively. There are nine Regal and Century models in all. Any one of which is a nice way to enter the House of Buick.

BUICK V-6. The only V-6 designed and built in America. The Buick V-6 shares many design features with its Buick V-8 brethren. Which means when you step on the accelerator, it responds with authority. It also is sparked by our High-Energy Ignition system which sends 35 percent more voltage to the spark plugs than a conventional ignition system, eliminates the points and ignition condenser and helps produce impressive overall operating economy. And, because there are 25 percent fewer cylinders to feed, you get the practicality of a six. All this makes for a very spunky, very enjoyable little engine.

GM introduces new bus system

The nation's first completely new production transit bus design since 1959 has many improved riding, driving and passenger comfort features.

Alex C. Mair, a GM vice president and general manager of GMC Truck & Coach, said the sleek bus, which incorporates recent advancements in materials and manufacturing technologies, will be in full production within 10 months.

Designated "RTS" for Rapid Transit Series, features of the new bus include a new suspension system and automatic transmission for smoother ride and handling and improved performance, better sound and heat insulation, automatically-controlled air conditioning and heating, expansive window area, soft fluorescent interior lighting and imrpoved seat designs.

MAIR ANNOUNCED that nearly $50 million has been committed for facilities, equipment and tooling to produce the RTS.

"Throughout the RTS development program," Mair explained, "a design incorporating material and manufacturing improvements to assist transit systems in attaining significant maintenance and repair economies was a paramount ogjective."

Another prime RTS design criterion was a completely new appearance and passenger comfort features to attract more bus riders, he added.

"Significant and relatively recent advancements in steel and fiberglass formulation and new manufacturing processes and equipment helped meet those objectives, and made the new RTS design feasible for production," Mair reported.

He said an extremely durable and corrosion resistant stainless steel alloy, developed for GM automobiles and light truck catalytic converters, is utilized extensively for inner and outer RTS structure.

"In addition, newly-developed fabrication and assembly equipment and processes permit wide use of corrosion and damage resistant fiberglass in critical RTS areas," he pointed out.

IN A COMPLETELY new manufacturing process, the 40-foot long RTS body will be formed by welding together eight separate five-foot-long modules to be built at GMC Truck & Coach.

Newly-designed automatic and manual welding installations—most with computerized controls for quality assurance—will be utilized for module fabrication and body assembly.

Mair said the more than 9,000 rivets currently required for each bus will be reduced to about 1,400 with the new RTS welding process. "This will substantially diminish in-plant riveting noise, as well as permitting a smooth exterior vehicle appearance and easier maintenance and repair."

Other RTS features cited by Mair as "having a high potential for attaining significant maintenance and repair savings" include:

- Fewer RTS parts than the current transit bus and greatly increased parts interchangeability.
- Substantially reduced time required for removal of body panels if replacement or repair is required.
- Anti-corrosion fiberglass panels extremely resilient compared with the conventional steel and aluminum panels currently used, significantly reducing damage and repairs.
- Anti-vandalism features such as break-resistant acrylic windows and scratch-resistant fiberglass. Graffiti, which plagues bus operations, will be relatively easily removed from the acrylic-coated fiberglass lower side panels.
- Additional corrosion protection for the body understructure with immersion in a 50-foot long tank containing corrosion-resisting liquefied wax during production.
- New electrical system designs for greater durability, reduced maintenance requirements, and easier repair and replacement.

RTS operating features include:

A new, air-sprung, independent front suspension system provides for improved ride and handling. An available "kneeling" system lowers the side of RTS about five inches at the front entrance and three inches at the rear door for easier boarding and exit.

The new Allison three-speed automatic transmission gives smooth acceleration in all types of operation. The V-730 transmission coupled with Detroit Diesel's current 8V-71 engine provides better performance on freeways, hills and in congested traffic.

MAIR SAID the RTS was designed to accommodate Detroit Diesel Allison Division's gas turbine engine currently under development.

A new rear engine compartment design has better sound and heat insulation.

An automatically controlled air conditioning and heating system has been improved.

Expanded tinted glass is used for a "picture window" effect.

AMC line emphasizes economy

Engineering and mechanical refinements in all American Motors passenger cars for 1976 provide improved economy and efficiency of operation.

Additional changes contribute to better driveability, comfort and convenience in the new Gremlin, Pacer, Hornet and Matador models.

Highlights of these improvements are:

- Electric choke on six-cylinder engines with manual shift, and on 360 CID 4-barrel V-8, for lower emissions and quicker warm-up.
- Carburetor revisions in V-6s that improve fuel/air mixture for better combustion.

A new thermostat design that gets the 232 CID and 258 CID V-6s to normal operating temperatures faster.

- Optional axle ratios for better gasoline mileage and to match individual driving requirements.
- Fuel systems that incorporate revised vent lines with a new check valve, a new fuel return line and a modified carburetor venting system to prevent fuel loss in a collision.
- Forged 14"x6" styled aluminum road wheels offered on all 1976 AMC cars.
- Choice of 20 optional appearance, luxury and performance packages: Six for Gremlin, five each for Hornet and Pacer and four for Matador.

Other features in 1976 American Motors cars include speedometers with new symbols and new treatment of speed divisions, optional radial tires, availability of front disc brakes for all models, improved interior dome lighting, standard warning lights for parking brake and seat belts, warning buzzer for the ignition key switch, overdrive for six-cylinder Gremlin, Pacer and Hornet models with manual transmissions, and choice of three-speed automatic or fully-synchronized manual transmissions on any model.

NINE MODELS in five body styles are offered by American Motors for 1976: The subcompact Gremlin sedan with rear liftgate, the compact Hornet line with four body styles, the intermediate Matador series with three body styles, and wide, small car that spans most market segments—the two-door Pacer.

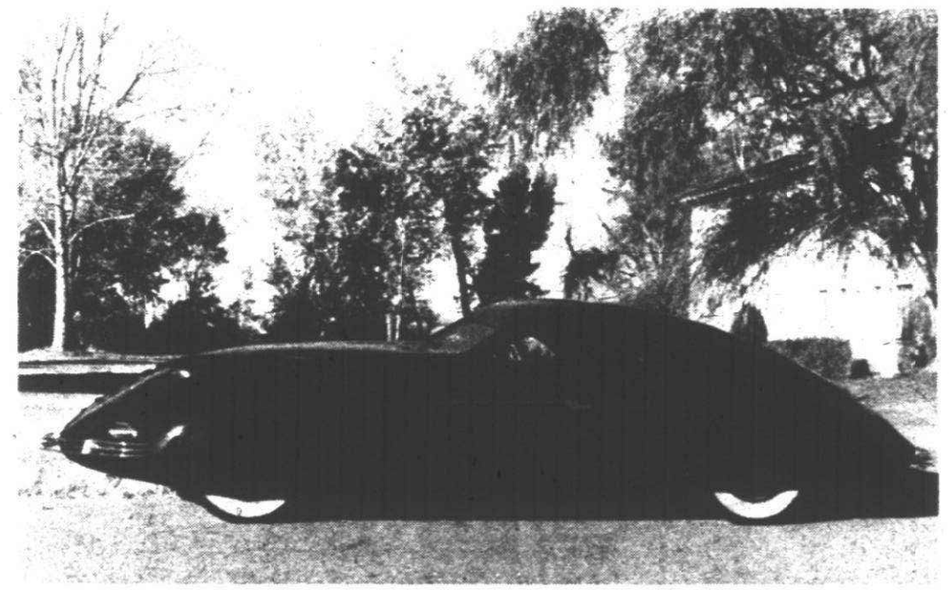

Appearance changes have been held to a minimum on all new models; however, both Gremlin and the Matador couple feature new grilles. Other AMC cars incorporate trim and ornamentation refinements.

Engine sizes for the passenger car lineup remain unchanged in 1976. All are designed to use non-leaded gasoline.

Standard engine for Gremlin, Pacer and Hornet is a 232 CID six. Matador has a 258 CID six, except for the station wagon which has the 304 CID V-8.

Optional for Gremlin and Hornet are the 258 CID six and the 304 CID V-8. Pacer offers an optional single-barrel or new two-barrel version of the 258 CID six. Matador options include the 304 CID V-8, and two or four-barrel 360 CID V-8s.

ALL 1976 American Motors cars feature a solid-state, breakerless, electronic ignition system as standard equipment. It serves as a further aid to vehicle economy, improved engine efficiency and reduced emissions. The maintenance-free system delivers higher starting voltage and precise control of ignition timing so engines fire cleaner and burn fuel more thoroughly.

The 1938 Phantom Corsair, designed by "57 Varieties" heir Rust Heinz, will be on display at the 1976 Detroit Auto Show, Jan. 10-18 in Cobo Hall. This one-of-a-kind model features aerodynamic engineering and airplane cockpit instrumentation including an altimeter, barometer and compass. The car seats four in the front and two in the back facing the rear.
