Full high school day option is restored

THE CONTRACTOR OF THE PROPERTY AND THE PROPERTY OF THE PROPERT

The Plymouth Board of Education voted Monday night to set the tax rate request at 4.75 mills for the Sept. 2 special election.

After agreeing on seeking 4.75 mills ($4.75 per $1,000 state equalized valuation) for operation expenses over a five-year period, the board took related actions involving budget cuts necessary if the millage fails.

One related matter was changing board policy to now require that children won't be bused if they live within 11/2 miles of school. This is a change from an earlier policy which allowed pupils from grades K-2 to be bused if they lived a mile or more from their school

The board also approved an expenditure of $7,000 which would make provisions for high school students to have a full class schedule if the millage is approved Sept. 2. Earlier the cost to provide this option was $20,000 but that was trimmed by a proposal to use some 25 volunteers on a grash program to get students on a full schedule f the millage is approved.

THE MOTION to set the millage request at 4.75 was made by E.J. McClendon, supported by Marcia Borowski, and passed 6-0 with George Lawton absent.

Board president Joe Gray commented that some recommendations of the Cifizens

Tax set at 4.75

Advisory Council (CAC), when and if implemented, could result in financial savings. If the financial savings are significant enough to make full levy of the 4.75 mills unnecessary, Gray added, the full amount won't be collected. "I'm sure the board will levy only that portion of the 4.75 mills which is absolutely necessary. Right now it all appears necessary, but if CAC recommendations are implemented and result in significant money being saved, maybe we can levy less than 4.75." Ray Hoedell, administrative assistant for business, reported that the board has tax levy for the 1976-77 school year. SUPT. JOHN M. HOBEN reported to the board that principals at the high schools had met with central administration and until its Sept. 13 meeting to set the total came up with a procedure to attempt to obtain a full schedule at the Centennial Educational Park should the millage pass.

The board Monday night voted 6-0 to approve an expenditure of $7,000 to place the high school class schedules in a standby mode so a concerted effort can be made to set up a full schedule if the millage passes.

The budget without the 4.75 mills calls for limiting high school students to 5-51/2 hours, instead of 6-61/2, a school day-55 minutes shorter than in the 1975-76 school

Originally the cost to run a dual schedule through the computer to provide the option of a full class schedule if the millage passes would have cost $20,000.

That cost was trimmed to $7,000 by plan in which administrators and area coordinators, counselors and students from the National Honor Society will volunteer for a crash program from Sept. 2-9 to put together a new class schedule if voters approve the 4.75 mills.

If the millage does pass, some 40 per cent of the students at Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton will have to be contacted before a full schedule of classes can be implemented, said Hoben.

Campaign heats up, 'dirty tricks' charged

By DARLENE STINSON

Charges and counter-charges of political wrong-doings are heaping up in Canton this election year. One of those charges, leveled by Brian Foust, recording secretary of the township's Citizens Advisory Council (CAC) and a teacher at Allen Elementary School. accuses township Supervisor Robert Greenstein of screening recommended members to the CAC before submitting applicants' names to the township board.

Foust believes those charges against the supervisor may explain the alleged rash of threatening phone calls and harrassment Foust says he has encountered the past two weeks.

Greenstein, seeking the Democratic nomination to the supervisor post next Tuesday, calls Foust's charges unjustified and attributes the resident's harrassment to the supervisor's apparent political foes, who, he says are trying to make him look "like some kind of a nut." ACCORDING TO FOUST, the first of three threatening phone calls occurred about two weeks ago, after the CAC member accused Greenstein of witholding the names of CAC applicants from members of the township board. One of the functions of the CAC, formed to study township issues and submit recommendations to the township board, is the study of areas in the township not represented on the CAC and the submission of recommended members by names to township officials. Foust says Greenstein failed to submit the names of three residents, submitted originally by CAC vice chairman Dick Kirchgatter as possible CAC members, to other township officials. According to Foust, Greenstein told committee members at a CAC meeting that township board members had vetoed the residents' membership on the CAC because of the areas in which they lived

But Foust says Greenstein never submitted the names to the township board. After the CAC member accused Greenstein of withholding the names, Greenstein, wrote a letter to Foust, saying his statements at the CAC meeting were only his personal point of view.

"NOT ONLY WOULD I not presume to speak for the board," Greenstein wrote. but I often do not like even to be associated with some of the board members long enough to speak for them."

Greenstein says Foust's charges are unjustified and that Kirchgatter's recommendations were not recommendations of the

"The CAC has not recommended any names," he maintains. "The names were a recommendation of Kirchgatter and a personal thing between him and me.

But Foust disagrees. "I feet that the CAC is supposed to a citizens group," he said. "I think it's time the community know that it's not being run for and by citizens but by chairman Greenstein.

In addition, Foust attributes an alleged rash of threatening phone calls and harrassment to members of the Greenstein

According to the CAC member. Foust received an anonymous phone call about two weeks ago, warning him "to lay off Greenstein, if you know what's good for you."

The Canton resident received another phone call Sunday at the local church where he works part-time during summer months. A woman threatened the life of Foust's dogs, told Foust's wife "to cool it," and ordered Foust "to leave Greenstein and his slate alone."

When the CAC member left for work Tuesday morning, he was allegedly greeted with four deflated automobile tires. Foust said he pumped air into the deflated tires and drove to a nearby credit union. When he emerged from the office, his tires were deflated again.

At work he received another phone call "A gal said, 'Ha, ha, I heard you had some flat tires today," "Faust recalled. Said the CAC member, "I am very concerned for my family and personal belongings. I'm six-foot-four and weigh 210 pounds, and I can take care of myself. But I do worry about about my wife and dogs. "I think it takes a sick person to follow me around. I don't want to believe it's someone related to government," he added, "but, after Watergate, you can believe any-

FOUST, AN OUTSPOKEN opponent of Greenstein, believes supporters of the supervisor are behind the threats.

"The whole thing is leading me to believe it's someone from his damp. But then again, I'm anti-Greenstein and could be biased," Foust admits. "1 really don't know what to think. I just think it's a sick. demented person who's doing this.

This bicentennial garden plot is an eyecatcher for passers-by on Joy just west of Main Street. The 30-by-56 foot American flag contains more than 1,400 petunias-red and white Cascades plus Malibu Blue blooms. The idea was conceived by Rita Thompson, daughter of Mildred Foege of Canton and the jobs bill Ford also vetoed earlier this year. That bill, a $6.1 billion measure, was passed by both houses of Congress in January, but Senate backers were unable to muster a two-thirds override. Ford vetoed the measure calling it inflationary. The reduced version passed by a wide margin in both houses, but the president vetoed it as well, citing the same problem,

The smaller package will provide some $2 billion in public works grants, $700 million for waste treatment plants, and about $1.3 billion in special aid to areas where unemployment exceeds six per cent.

It is the $2 billion in public works monies that Supervisor Robert Greenstein hopes to get a piece of

"As soon as they overrode the veto, we resubmitted our applications," the supervisor explained. "We reprepared our applications and sent them right out."

IN ANTICIPATION of an override of the original $6.1 billion package, Greenstein had prepared a list of applications for federal aid. Those were submitted before the Senate was unable to overturn Ford's veto

The applications total almost $5 million worth of construction. Greenstein asked

•$475,000 for sanitary sewer relief on the Sheldon-Cherry Hill sewer. •$770,000 for commercial and industrial

•$200,000 for a sanitary sewer in McIntyre Manor subdivision. •$275,000 for a water main extension in areas of low water pressure. •$50,000 for water meter pit renovation.

•$1.3 million for work on five drains. Truesdell, Deer Creek, Travis, Bradner and Hannan.

•$135,000 for 27,000 feet of bicycle paths at the township park and along the Detroit Edison easement. •$91,000 for pavement of parking lots at the township firehall and recreation build-

The township also applied for an additional $400,000 to expand the second fire station and for $2 million for a new township office complex.

The supervisor said all the projects seemed to fit the intent of the act and would provide jobs for the unemployed in Wayne County and in Canton.

The county is currently registering double digit unemployment figures, although the jobless rate in Canton is lower.

'Imposters' turn out to be sheriff

By DARLENE STINSON

Canton Supervisor Robert Greenstein's accusations of dirty campaign politics, based on an incident involving two police officers and a garage sale sign, has focused on the Wayne County Sheriff's De-Greenstein had earlier charged that two apparent political opponents were involved in the incident, posing as police officers to anger residents and dirty his name. According to Inspector Robert Sullivan of the Sheriff's Department, however, two deputies were involved. The deputies last week responded to a complaint of a Windsor Park Subdivision resident over the placement of a garage sale sign at the intersection of Arlington and Sheldon.

After receiving the complaint at 11:30 p.m. last Thursday, the deputies awakened John and Pyllis Evans of Arlington, who had placed the sign at the intersection, and asked the couple to remove the sign as soon as possible, according to the Sheriff's report. The deputies cited Canton's sign ordinance, which prohibits the placement of signs on the public rights-of-way.

Greenstein said the township does not enforce its sign ordinance in relation to garage sale signs. Greenstein said he believed the move was a ploy by his opponents. Mrs. Evans strenghthened the supervisor's belief, when she said the officers failed to identify themselves and cited Greenstein's name when asking her to remove the sign.

ACCORDING TO Greenstein, underheriff Loren Pittman outlined the Sheriff's Department's procedures in answering complaints, and cited deputies' instructions to leave investigation of routine complaints for the day shift. Pittman, according to Greenstein, said deputies are not supposed to wake citizens for minor complaints or use a local official's name as a source of their authority. Although Pittman was not available for comment, Sullivan believed the garage sale sign incident does not constitute a dirty political trick. "When a car gets a call, he damned better go on that run," Sullivan said. "We're not selective about answering calls. As far as I'm concerned, this is a neighborhood Sullivan said waking residents to solv. a complaint is left to the discretion of the of-

"It would call for a little thought on the officer's part," Sullivan admits, "but these officers didn't know this was going to be a serial. We're making a federal case about waking a person.

SULLIVAN SAYS he does not believe

Mrs. Evans' claim the officers used Green-stein's name as a source of their authority. "I would deny that vehemently-especially these two officers," he said. But Greenstein disagreed. The Sheriff's deputy union has endorsed the slate of Harold Stein, Greenstein's opponent for the supervisor post in the Aug. 3 primary elec-"It was just such a bizarre way for a police officer to conduct himself," the supervisor said. "These officers just decided

County commissioner candidates talk issues

THE REPORT OF THE REPORT OF THE PROPERTY OF TH

(To aid voters in making their selection for Wayne County Commissionefrom the 27th district, the Observer & Eccentric requested the candidates answer a seven question survey—Editor) Four men, Democrats Royce Smith, the incumbent, Walter Hink, and Republicans Owen Arrowsmith and Coleman Flaskamp were asked to respond.

The questions they were asked are: 1. How should the county handle its finances in view of the fact it is facing gargantuan deficits? Should it be done by budgeting, cutting programs, or is there another solution? 2. What part of county government is most important in terms of the services it delivers? 3. How should county employee groups be dealt with?

4. What facilities should the county pro-"yide western Wayne County with" * 5. Should the sheriff's services be continued in the outcounty regions at no further

cost to the townships

6. What concerns do you think are most important to the voters of the 27th district in terms of county government?

7. State any other concerns you consider

WALTER HINK 30, a Belleville resident. s an attorney for the Campbell Develcopment Co. in Detroit. A University of De-Proit Law School graduate, he majored in business at Wayne State University as an

1. Wayne County can operate within its present budget of $335 million. What is needed is budgetary efficiency on the part of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners. At the present time $190 million or 57 per cent of the county budget is spent on health and welfare. I feel that waste should be put to work in essential services such as law enforcement.

2. All departments of county government are important because each provides essential services to the people of Wayne County. The county board of commissioners is responsible for a multitude of county agencies and departments from the judicial system to civil defense.

3. County employees should be dealt with fairly in collective bargaining.

4.In western Wayne Coutny there is a real need for increased law enforcement in terms of manpower from the Wayne County Sheriff's office and this can only be accomplished by eliminating the waste withing the county budget. I also believe that the county roads should be paved and improved with the same priority.

5. The sheriff's office is working with an allocation of $28 million or approximately eight per cent of the total county budget. If we can stop the cheating in the welfare programs and reduce the present health and welfare allocation form 57 per cent to an efficient level, outcounty regions will not have to spend additional monies for increased police protection.

6. I believe that people today are concerned about the honesty of their elected officials. No longer can the people be taken for granted. What is needed is government morality and integrity. Government is responsible to the public and not to a few special interest groups.

7. Government must begin to run as efficiently as private enterprise. With our cities in bankruptcy, government must take on the responsibility of providing public services within the financial means of the taxpayers. No longer can "wholesale cheating" within the welfare system be tolerated. Government officials have the responsibility of making the system work. I have a degree in business finance and law and if elected I will fight to see that these goals are accomplished

ROYCE SMITH a Belleville resident is 60. He served 16 years as mayor of Belleville and was on the old Board of Supervisors for five years. He is finishing his first term as county commissioner and is presently serving as vice chairman of the Ways and Means Committee of the county. and vice chairman of the labor board. He is chairman of the mappower advisory council for the county.

1. Although Wayne County faces a deficit, it is nowhere near the magnitude of the deficits facing the City of Detroit and many other cities. Belt-tightening and tighter budgeting controls can and should be utilized for sound fiscal policy, regardless of whether or not a deficit is projected. Reducing and cutting programs is, of course, a primary method of reducing expen?itures. However, another important resource is to finance county programs and services by direct federal and state grant funding.

2.Law enforcement programs and the criminal justice system in general are the greatest concerns to me and to the citizens of the westernWayne County communities I represent. Priorities must continue to change in terms of providing more than just adequate law enforcement services for our communities. As county commissioner during this past term. I have continually stressed these important facts. Increases have been made in this area both in terms of percentages and total dollars appropriated, however, much more needs to be accomplished.

3. County employee groups should be dealt with fairly and firmly. Government employees are no different than private or business sector workers, and should therefore have equity. However, as vice-chairman of the Wayne County Labor Relations Board, I have consistently applied the old adage "an honest day's work for an honest day's wage" in negotiating firm and fair agreements with the various labor groups.

4.I personally favor a better management of existing recreational programs and public parks, rather than just adding unneeded facilitiesI would like to see outcounty circuit courts and probate courts forhandling the tremendous two-three year backlog of cases that now exists; and I'm now working toward this end.

I am also working hard in attempting to bring to western Wayne County a newe federal solar research center, which would provide 1,500-2,000 high paying jobs.

5. Absolutely yes-the sheriff's services should be continued in the outcounty regions at no further cost to the townships. This has always been my position. All townships and cities are entitled by state statutes to law enforcement protection from both the state and county. Although most cities choose not to use the road patrol service, the crime-lab services and metro narcotics squad services are widely used by all. I have actively and vehemently opposed the county phasing out road patrol services.

6.1 believe the primary concern to voters in my district of western Wayne County is the inadequate return of services in proportion to the taxes paid. The outcounty total equalized assessments for 1975-76 represent approximately 60 per cent of the total county assessments, and yet outcounty realizes only 48 per cent of total county serv-

7.Other vital services that need expansion include programs involvingjobs for the unemployed, senior citizens' programs, community development programs, to name just a few. As chairman of the manpower council. I have been gratified in succeeding to provide many jobs for the unemployed and underemployed citizens of this

Many millions of dollars have been obtained from the federal government under the Manpower Act-this past week $9 million more was obtained. Also this past week, congress enacted the Public Works Act which provides an additional $4.5 million for jobs in Wayne County. I would like to continue the important work that I have pursued as a fulltime working commissioner, and therefore ask for voter support to accomplish these goals.

OWEN ARROWSMITH, Republican, 4902 S. 1. Finances: I feel an outside audit is necessary now and regularly. Sundown reform should be brought to county programs and agencies. Budget review is a must to establish priorities in service and

2. Health is one of our prime concerns. The county health department touches all our lives in some way: environmental protection, disease control, health services for young and old. and the facilities of the Wayne County General Hospital.

3. I would recommend that the county be represented at contract talks by the best professional negotiators it can obtain. Existing contracts, state laws, and court decisions have already established the ground rules in Michigan. The union representatives are experienced; the county should be as well advised professionally.

4. A court and an overnight only jail facility should be considered for western Wayne County. Savings of thousands of dollars would result to each community as well as more police protection remaining at home-not wasting countless, often fruitless hours going to Detroit. Bring service back to the communities!

5. Sheriff's service: This question needs a thorough review. All communities are entitled to service. With township growth increase, it seems to be more of a local decision as to the amount of police protection they require. Parks or county tax-free facilities should be adequately protected irrespective of location.

6. Concerns: More taxes are expected with less outward return. Inequity of service, adequate police protection, and general disenchantment with county government concerns everyone.

7. How can the county be made more responsible to the people? This is my main concern. The key is communication. I would hold open meetings on a regular basis, in the district. I intend to write a monthly article for the local newspapers. briefing upcoming Grograms, votes being taken including how commissioners voted. and specific opinions on what effect decisions will have on this district

COLEMAN F. FLASKAMP II, Republican. Belleville.

1. I believe the county should handle its finances by budgeting. I feel that there is little that can be cut in the way of programs and to do so would hurt someone vi tally affected by that particular program.

2. County government is most important in terms of services it delivers to those who are the disadvantaged. With high unemployment more citizens than ever have had contact with the county by feason of seeking assistance for themselves and their families. 3. County employee groups should be dealt with in a fair and understanding manner. They need a fair wage and benefits so qualified employees will be attracted and remain with the county. County employees also need to be given a sense of dignity and worth that at times is lacking now. 4. Western Wayne County should be provided with the facility of a hospital that is considered excellent in health care so that both the average citizen and those who are unable to afford the best may find it at Wayne County General. If feasible branch offices of county offices maintained.

5. The Sheriff's services should be continued in the out-county regions at no further cost to the townships. Inspite of the Appeals Court ruling. I feel that the intent of the law is for the county to provide this service within unincorporated areas.

6. I feel that efficient use of tax monies are of concern to 27th District voters. The average citizen has minimal contact with the county and therefore is concerned as to where their taxes are going.

7. The residents of the 27th District need support in their efforts to stop the unfair collection of the drain tax, by the drain commissioner when for years absolutely nothing has been done to keep the drains clear. This particular issue points out why people are cynical about their government and it should be made highly visable to them that their elected representatives oppose this type of action.

Principals reassigned

A shifting of principals at the elemer tary level was approved Monday night by the Plymouth Board of Education.

In a move related to the principal reassignments, the board also approved the transfer of some 80 pupils from Lake-Pointe Village in Plymouth Township from Tanger to Farrand. Also approved was changing the duties of Deputy Supt. Earl Hogan to assistant administrator in charge of instruction

EARL GIBSON, principal at Tanger Elementary, has been reassigned as principal

Joe Gray, board president, said it was a possibility. "There will be a lot of decisions we will have to make if the millage passes. Do we want to spend money for principals or a curriculum director, for instance. We will have to face those decisions after the millage passes, if it does." The board voted 5-1, with Ms. Borowski voting no, to reassign Dr. Hogan's duties to assistant superintendent in charge of instruction. "The deputy has performed a tremendous variety of roles for the district," commented E.J. McClendon. "One of the most critical things in any school district is its instructional program-more critical, in my mind, than business or personnel assistants is leadership for instruc-

William Rivard of Amber Ct. asked what the major reason for the transfer was, and was the primary factor the need for money to pay for a crossing guard. He asked if students were being bused to Farrand from any other section of the district and, if so, from where. Hoben said that money for crossing guards was a factor but not the primary reason for the shift of pupils. He said a primary reason for the shift was to have all students from LakePointe attend Farrand and to balance the classroom use for both Farrand and Tanger.

Hoben added that the attendance areas of Tanger and Farrand are experiencing declining enrollment and would be underutilized except for an overload of student population in the southeast section of the district (Canton) from were students are bused in to make full use of both buildings. There are four to five different attendance areas which attend Tanger now, Hoben added, including an area of about 11/2 square miles in Northville Township. About 85 students from Canton are bused to Tanger, primarily from Deer Creek and Stoneybrook apartments. The superintendent added that there is the possibility of a development in Northville Township involving some 400 residen-tial units which would increase the enrollment very substantially at Tanger in the "pushing our kids out of Tanger to bring

KEVIN CUMMINGS of LakePointe said Tanger should serve students who live closest to it with a lower priority being given to those who live further away and have to be bused in. "We purchased our home because Tanger was just one block away." Upon questioning from the board, Cummings said Farrand was seven blocks

McClendon commented that 10 years ago, as a citizen, he appeared before the board as a parent to complain that his children were being transfered from Farrand to Tanger and he purchased his home expecting his children would attend Farrand. which was originally built to service the LakePointe area. "These are natural and human concerns you are expressing. But Farrand meets the criteria for your children that exists for other elementaries in the district-it is in the center of a subdivision and Farrand is much closer to where you live than many other elementary schools are to subdivisions."

(D-Detroit) and Senior Inspector Richard M. Novak of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department.

Crackdown planned for park

Seven police chiefs, a township supervisor, state police representatives and an inspector from the Wayne County Sheriff's Department have met with three county commissioners to discuss increasing vandalism, drug and alcohol abuse in Hines

They pinpointed drug dealing, alcoholism among young people, harassment of law abiding citizens, vandalism and litter as the offenses most prevalent and difficult to enforce.

"As we continue to improve facilities, more people flock to our parks. With increased usage, unfortunately a bad element has crept in, causing problems for law abiding citizens," explained Commissioner Mary Dumas (R-Livohia).

"WE MUST maintain our strict enforcement of park rules and regulations," Richard M. Novak, senior inspector from the Wayne County Sheriff's Department emphasized. "Our parks have become a haven for dope pushers preying on our children. There is constant harassment of people who use the parks properly.

"We have had a startling rise in citizen complaints along with assaults on officers," he said. 'It is a highly volatile situation. A single policeman cannot operate safely when there are gangs of kids tossing bottles, shouting obscenifies. We simply must have more manpower to keep the peace, to protect legitimate citizens."

County Commissioner Richard Manning (R-Redford Township), an attorney; surveyed the situation: "The park system is gradually being destroyed by dope pushers plying their trade, making it impossible for parents to allow their children to use the parks without personal supervision.

"Our parklands are so extensive, it's difficult for the police to patrol them closely enough to be effective, in view of the shortage of available manpower as required by local communities.

"We have asked the county corporation counsel to prepare a definitive statement on the power of sheriff's department officials and local police departments to disperse and remove disorderly persons from park property when it is apparent they are endangering the safety and morals of people making lawful use of parks," he ex-

COMMISSIONER ROYCE E. Smith commented: "I feel there is a definite need for more law enforcement. Lt. Novak has asked for 18 additional sheriff's partrol people. I support this request.

"If someone could figure out how we could put these kids to work who are creating the problem. I would like to hear about it," Smith said. "The offenders should be required to clean up our parks and make them safe for the residents desiring fun and wholesome entertainment.

Northville Township Chief of Police Roland L. Nisun spoke of the "Beer Hill" section of Cass-Benton Woods: "At times there have been as many as 500 kids causing problems on Beer Hill. It backs up to a housing development of 450 homes. This caused a most unpleasant environment for people living there. They moved into an area that was supposed to provide them with a lovely, natural enviornment, but for some it has been a nightmare.

"This has become a well-known gathering spot for drug dealers. Many of them come from out of state. It is not our local people who are causing the problems," he explained. "We simply don't have the manpower to patrol the 21/2 miles of park under our jurisdiction. We rely on the sheriff's department to handle it."

"AS A RESULT of this meeting, we have asked the county legal staff to study current park rules with the intent of updating and strengthening them." Mrs. Dumas stated. "We are considering preparing a park manual to be distributed to local police departments and the sheriff's department personnel. This will define not only park rules but set down the legal powers and responsibilities regarding search and seizure, crowd dispersal, parking restrictions and use of alcoholic beverages in parks.

In addition to Commissioners Dumas. Manning and Smith, Inspector Novak and Chief Nisun, attending were a number of police chiefs: Edwin J. Gleaza of Redford Township, William L. Rechling of Westland, Donald R. Loose of Dearborn Heights, Terry S. Williams of Sumpter Township and Donald J. Harrison of Tren-

Betty M. Lennox, supervisor of Northville Township, was present as were Michigan State Police Sgt. Reuben R. Johnson and Trooper David A. Sass.

The law enforcement personnel present requested that a follow-up meeting be held which would include representatives of the Wayne County Road Commission Parks Division, state department of natural resources, county corporation counsel, prosecutor's office, the district and court bench-

A STATE OF THE PROPERTY OF THE

DNR director promises swans for Wilcox Lake

By W.W. EDGAR

Don't be surprised one of these mornings if you should see a group of white swans gliding majestically on Wilcox Lake.

For several years the possibility of having swans adding to the beauty of the lake has been discussed. But the idea never came to fruition.

Now help is coming from another source.

DURING HIS short stay in Plymouth last week Dr. Howard Tanner, director of the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) let it be known that having these eye catchers paddling on the lake was not a remote possibility.

If you folks were talking of a whole flock of them like they have at Traverse City." he saids "that may be difficult. But one or two pair is another matter. They should not be difficult to obtain. I will do all I can to help you.

The DNR director is the first of the top state officials to lend any support to the program. And when he departed the city he called. "I won't forget the swans." While on the subject of adding beauty to the lake, the DNR director gave his approval to several other ideas that have been discussed from time to time. Among these was the towering fountain that was proposed for the island in the center of the lake. It was proposed several years ago to act as a beacon for the folks travelling on the new freeways-M-14 and I-275-to let them know that a place like Plymouth existed

PROPONENTS of the plan suggested that the fountain be built to shoot water at least 300 feet in the air and that colored lights be played on it at night. They pointed out that millions of people travel miles to see "Old Faithful" in Yellowstone National Park and it would be a tourist attraction for Plymouth. At the time. City Fire Chief George Schoenneman promised a nozzle that would do the, trick and the Plymouth Rotary Club was considering taking it on as a

That certainly would be a fine thing. Tanner commented. "Our department never would be opposed to anything like

DR. HOWARD TANNER

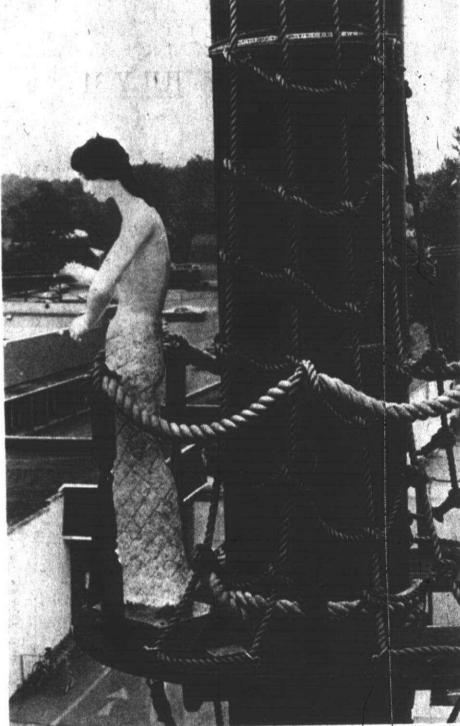

Before he departed, Dr. Tanner also put his blessings on another proposal. This one had to do with establishment of a "Show Boat" on the lake, much like those that have been so popular through the years at Chesaning and Lowell in outstate, Mich-

"You have a great setting for it," he said, "with that bank helping to form an amphitheater. It could hardle a goodly

All that is required to prepare for the 'Show Boat" is to clear the bank of the wild bushes and shrubbery. It is a "natural" and to add to the attractiveness is the fact that there is plenty of parking avail-

So Dr. Tanner passed along his views and promised that he would do all in his power to help them along if the projects get started.

That's why it wouldn't be too surprising to see one or two pair of white swan gliding majestically along one of these mornings on Wilcox Lake.

Mermaid returns

The mermaid is back in place atop the loft of the Mayflower Hotel. She was temporarily placed in dry dock last month when vandals attempted to remove the mermaid in an unsuccessful maid-napping attempt. After receiving medical treatment, however, she returned to sentry duty to guard over the Wiedman Lot and make sure everyone drops coins into meters while parking. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Contested

In the League of Women Voters Guide published July 26 in the Canton Observer & Eccentric, photos were used of those candidates being contested in the Aug. 3 primary. The photo of Mrs. Lynne Goldsmith was inadvertently omitted. Mrs. Goldsmith is a candidate for trustee on the Democratic side of the ballot, a race which is contested. The omission is regretted.

UNDER THE PLAN four or five satellite courts will be set up in existing courthouses at various out-county locations. Under consideration are: the downriver cerridor (probably Trenton); western Wayne County (probably Livonia); midwestern Wayne County (perhaps both Westland and Dearborn); Hamtramck; Highland Park; and the Grosse Pointe-Harper Woods area.

A recent $10.1 million federal grant will allow the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority to purchase 153 new airconditioned buses and other significant improvements for both SEMTA and Detroit Department of Transportation facilities.

In addition to the buses, the grant, approved by the Urban Mass Transportation Administration, will assist in buying 69 bus stop shelters; 3,200 bus stop signs; 22 new supervisory vehicles; 128 bus destination quired from previously private suburban companies.

"The infusion of more than $10 million into the SEMTA region's transit services will significantly upgrade the quality of those services and should encourage more travelers to use our improved public transporation facilities," said Clarence Generette. SEMTA general manager.

CB'ers lend hand in police program

The program involves 25 state police patrol cars and base stations along the I-94 and I-96 freeway corridors. Patrol cars monitor CB channel 19 and base stations stay tuned to channel 9 (the national emergency channel) for passing motorist's reports that range from assistance calls to spotting murder suspects. In fact, one Oakland County CB'er spotted a vehicle driven by a murder suspect and relayed it to police, while another CB-relayed call enabled a trooper to provide first aid to a motorist heart attack victim. Two other CB reports led to drug case

According to the program's supervisor, Lt. Roderick LaMore, head of the selective enforcement section of the traffic division, the state police made 1,004 contacts with CB radio operators since the program began during Memorial Day weekend.

LaMore said 290 of those contacts were law violation reports and 714 were reports concerning dangerous conditions or assistance calls. Of the viplation-type reports by CB'ers, 128 involved speeding vehicles. Of those cases the state police issued 72 traffic law violation tickets and nine verbal warnings. Another 83 reports concerned suspected drunk driving, with the police making 23 traffic arrests and six other arrests. Warnings were given in four cases.

In addition there were 37 non-traffic calls, including 26 misdemeanor cases and 11 felony cases.

Of the 714 dangerous condition and assistance calls, 173 concerned traffic accidents, another 30 involved car fires, 233 were for stranded motorists, and 18 involved sick persons

Other calls dealt with parked vehicles. objects on the road, attempts to locate and requests for direction. Of the 714 calls, state police handled 514 cases, other police 136. There were 58 "not located" cases and six "out of position."

All have been serving on a study committee to improve out-county circuit court services. Canham said

"This program has to be flexible," Canham said. "We'll be asking other judges to serve and intend to work closely with those communities which lend us their courtrooms so that we don't interfere with local court activities.'

Also, because judges cannot wear two hats, he said they would have to serve outside their own districts when performing circuit court duties.

KASUNIC SAID the $95,000 grant went into effect July 1 and covers a 15-month period. It will be matched by $5,000 from both

Base stations involved in the program are located at Benton Harbor, Paw Paw,

Battle Creek, Jackson, Ypsilanti, Pontiac,

"The first three months is for gearingup," he said. "We're using this time to get recommendations from local mayors, police chiefs and commissioners as to existing court space, dockets and the availabilty of judges," Kasunic explainjed.

"But we expect to be in full swing by October," he promised.

COUNTY COMMISSIONRE Royce Smith (D-Belleville) said the program would mark the first time in the history of cirucit court that service would be brought directly into suburban communities.

"Suburban police officers involved in criminal cases now lose precious hours that could be devoted to police work because they've got to drive downtown and babysit a prisoner, often for an entire day. while he goes through the pretial process,

"This new program will put policemen back on the streets faster and take them out of the babysitting and chaufeuring business," Smith said.

THIS "NEIGHBORHOOD court" concept means that a policeman could perform his court duties and be back on patrol in five or 10 minutes, according to Commissionr Mary Dumas (R-Livonia).

Youngblood denies irregularities

By RICHARD GOLD

Charges by an Ypsilanti daily newspaper that a state audit of Wayne County Drain Commissioner Charles N. Youngblood's office revealing fiscal improprieties was being withheld until after the Aug. 3 primary election have been attacked by Youngblood and an official of the state treasury department.

The paper, in an article that appeared Monday said have charges of fiscal irre-gularities lodge said into the drain commis-sioner's office by anton Township and five other area cities and townships in a lawsuit had been saidstantiated by a state

Citing unnamed sources in the state treasury department and two other government sources in Lansing, the paper said "misuse of funds and other charges of irre-gularities have been unfolded in audits of Youngblood's office by the Michigan Department of Treasury

YOUNGBLOOD told the Observer & Eccentric "he had nothing to hide. Someone's in trouble and the facts had better be checked. There's nothing irregular in this office and someone is making false state-

The drain commissioner, who is contested in the primary next Tuesday, said all his records were in order. "It's all in black and white in my office if you'd care to take a look."

He said all work was documented but declined further comment, saying, "I don't conduct my business over the phone."

The Ypsilanti paper also said the treasury department had been accused of playing politics by not releasing the findings of Youngblood's opponent in the primary, former state senator Terry Troutt (D-Romulus) said, "My sources in Lansing indicated the audit is not favorable and the state treasurer's office is holding back their findings until after the primary elec-

The paper said Chief Deputy State Treasurer Carrol C. Newton admitted to irregularities discovered in the audit, but then backtracked. "His attempts to yeil the audit results were feeble at best, if not farcical," the paper reported. The paper said other sources indicated the irregularities were substantial and that the misuse of funds amounted to thousands of dollars Terming the commissioner's books "a confused mess," one Lansing source told the paper that "tax dollars from one communtiy were being used to finance projects and investments in other commu-

NEWTON TOLD the Observer & Eccentric the treasury department was not "sitting on the audits" and that no substantial irregul arities have been uncovered. We've completed audits of 22 drains and there were some accounting errors found. It's not unusual and we often help people make correcting entries.

"The errors we found were not of any magnitude. Newton said the department had nothing to hide and said he would give copies of the audits to the newspapers to look at. "We're continuing to work on these audits, but there are about 150 drains that need to be audited over a long period of time-it's quite time consuming." Newton said the audit dame at the request of the Wayne County Drainage Board, and not at State Senator William Faust's as the Ypsilanti paper reported.

"They had a shortage, an employee was fired and we were asked to check the books. There's no supposition that anything is wrong." PRIOR TO helping start the lawsuit earlier this month, Canton supervisor Robert Greenstein repeatedly charged the township had been assessed for work never done by the drain commissioner's office. He charged that bills amounting to more than $20,000 had been paid to the drain commissioner for work never done. Presently, the township has unpaid bills amounting to "at least $2,000 or $3,000," the supervisor said.

After an extensive investigation with reference to Canton, I could not possibly authorize payment of one dime of the township's money until the whole matter has been cleared up by state auditors and the lawsuit brought by the six cities and townships settled.

The state of the s

"The present drain commissioner is the kind of public officer whichthis country cannot afford. He won't respond to letters. he won't answer phone calls, he won't work with Canton, he won't work with any-

"IT SEEMS HE thinks he was appointed by the good lord, not elected by the people of this county," Greenstein said.

The lawsuit, filed in Wayne County Circuit Court early this month alleges that special assessments have been improperly levied and used to pay for work that should be paid for out of the county gener-

The suit asks for a return of those monies, for a permanent injunctionagainst further bills, and that until the matter is resolved, money owed to the drain commissioner's office be put in escrow. Five other communities, the cities of Romulus and Riverview, and Van Buren, Huron and Brownstown township are party

According to Greenstein, several of those communities have been billed much more than Canton, and in some instances special assessments have been levied against private property owners, instead of the municipality.

Schools seek 2d shot at millage

Dick Arlen said he supported the intent of the motion because it gave the board an option to pursue, and the $7,000 cost was much different than the $20,000 expense. "But this in no way precludes that there are other ways things can be done at the high schools," Arlen stressed. "such as enforcement of all attendance policies, and applying athletic programs evenly between the two high schools and between men and women as well as broadening participation beyond an elite few

"I would like the board to re-evaluate what has become a proliferation of courses at the high schools. Serious effort should be made to eliminate superfluous classes and to make sure the courses we do offer have some real substance

Hoben commented that it would be helpful if the board held another study workshop to discuss the implementation of recommendations from the CAC. Gray pointed out that, under the modular scheduling system, students could carry more than 51/2 hours by taking advantage of independent study time even if the millage is defeated. Kent Buikema. principal of Plymouth Canton High, agreed this was true but said it would be more difficuit for teachers to have time to work with students on independent study if the millage went down and high school teachers were laid off.

CONFUSED?

Tom Yack said he believed the administration was sensitive to the need to work toward continuing improvement in modular scheduling. "The option on offering a full class schedule at the high schools like Miller action, and unlike action taken on athletics, keeps all our options open on millage. So, if it's successful, we can restore as much of a full program as possible "

THE CHANGE in transportation policy was approved by a 6-0 vote of the board. Last year the district would but pupils in grades K-2 if they lived a mile or more from school. The change means that pupils school before they will be bused. The district will still make exceptions to policy, as done in past years, when hazardous conditions or special safety problems warrent students within 11/2 miles from a

K-2 must live 11/2 miles or more from their school being bused. McClendon pointed out that state law allows for busing students who live 11/2 miles or more from a school, but it had been a tradition to bus K-2 students living a mile or more from school. The state doesn't reimburse us for students bused who live less than 11/2 miles from school. In fact, we are financially penalized for every student we bus who lives less than 11/2 miles from school. Flossie Tonda, board secretary, commented that the four areas which will be effected most by the change in busing policy are the Bird, Halstead, Fiegel and Miller elementary attendance areas. She added that often a bus driver's time must be paid for just to bus 15 or fewer students K-2 who had met requirements of the former mile or more policy. IN OTHER ACTION related to the operating budget which will be in effect if the millage fails, the board approved shorter school days for the high school, middle they'd get involved in politics while in uniform which, I think, is worse than if it had been an ordinary citizen," he added, referring to earlier beliefs that police "imposters" had approached the Evans' home.

The last time officers got involved in politics was in Nazi Germany.

Greenstein says opponents of his administration's stance on the master land use plan and other issues have posed as the supervisor or supporters of his policy in efforts "to make me look like some kind of"

Greenstein said those opponents have gathered behind Stein.

"I don't say all this is going on behind his back, and he doesn't know what's going on," Greenstein maintained. "He knows what's happenning." Stein denied all charges of political wrongdoing. "I have nothing to hide," the Democratic candidate said. "I would gladly take a lie detector test and sign a sworn affidavit that we're not involved in so-called punk

"We are running a very clean campaign, but I don't believe the opposition is. We're not going to stoop to those tactics."

Stein accused Greenstein of misrepresenting the Democratic challenger's platform. The supervisor, Stein says, has published information alleging Stein's commitment to a contractual agreement for police protection with the Wayne County Sheriff's Department.

"I have never said that," Stein said. Why would he continually print things on flyers, if they're not the truth? Why is he resorting to these tactics? If his record is so great, why doesn't he rely on that?"

Principals switched

transfer of the 80 pupils to Farrand was unwise. "The attendance and boundary committee wrestled with this problem and its recommendation was for the pupils to remain at Tanger. The major reasons for them remaining was for stability of student population and to maintain a good socio-economic mix.

She answered the comment about apartment dwellers being rentals: "Apartment residents also pay taxes, usually more than their fair share in relation to the value of their homes. But apartment dwellers do tend to be transient and to have a stable population at Tanger the attendance committee recommended leaving the Lake-Pointe students at Tanger McClendon commented that Farrand was originally built to serve LakePointe and the transfer will bring all LakePointe pupils into a single building which will become a center for neighborhood activities. This represents a return to our original projections to have attendance boundaries follow reador roads."

Hober commented: "The defeat of the millage in June requires us to have one principal for Tanger and Starkweather schools and we are recommending changes to make that situation manageable by balancing use of classrooms between Farrand and Tanger.

Mrs. Tonda stated that safety was a cause of concern for her and she felt the transfer of the pupils to Farrand was good from that standpoint.

Arlen pressed the superintendent for an answer on what was the single critical reason for the move of pupils and was told it was to balance use of classrooms between the two schools

The motion to approve the transfer of pupils passed 4-2 with Arlen and Ms. Borowski voting no.

IN OTHER ACTION, the board authorized Hoedell to negotiate a lease for New Morning School to use the Truesdell School in Canton for the 1976-77 school year. Truesdell, used this past year for kindergarteners, won't be used now that the new elementaries are opening

The board also voted to notify the Canton Township Planning Commission of its intent to look for a school site in the general area between Cherry Hill and Proctor roads east of Sheldon. The district is considering the need for a new school to serve the area east of Sheldon between Palmer and Cherry Hill.

Pursell gets EPA awards

State Sen. Carl D. Pursell of Plymouth will be among the select recipents of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's highest award for individuals.

Along with six other Michigan citizens, and the Grand River Watershed Council based at Lansing, Pursell will be presented with EPA's 1976 Environmental Quality Award on July 9.

Pursell was cited for spearheading legislative efforts creating Michigan's newest environmental protection program, the Resource Recovery Act, which lays the foundation to encourage development of solid waste recycling systems and to provide for a statewide solid waste management and resource recovery program.

Farmers Have Been Refused Fair & Equitable Consideration

On June 16th the Wayne County Planning Commission approved the proposed Master Land Use Plan only after an amendment was added to the motion that the plan should be implemented only after some way has been established to protect the equity of owners.

On July 13th a group of farm land owners presented a request for a motion to the township board, recommending that fair and equitable compensation be made - based on land values as they were prior to the disclosure of the new Master Land Use Plan.

This motion was defeated by a 4 to 2 vote, thus indicating that fair equity to land owners is not intended.

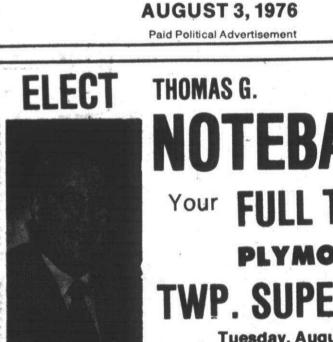

One trustee stated, "I intend to be fair whenever possible. " (At what point can exceptions be made to fairness?)

We, the tillers and owners of the farm land in Canton, urge our good friends and neighbors east of Canton Center Rd. who are in the position to vote the destiny of Canton Township to break up the present "team" which controls the township board by voting August 3rd for any candidate who is NOT A MEMBER OF THE "PACT TEAM".

We offer no candidate endorsements.

You will have another opportunity in the Nov. 2nd election to select township officers who will administrate the affairs of the township - fairly and equitably for all the citizens of Canton thus eliminating the "MASON DIXON LINE" that divides us.

Stempien wins union support

Marvin Stempien, Livonia attorney running for the Democratic 2d Congressional District nomination in Tuesday's primary. has won additional union support.

He announced that the Michigan Teamsters Joint Council 43 and Council 77 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes recently added their political support to his candidacy.

Stempien said he now has nine major labor union endorsements for his primary

He said that he is both "pleased and appreciative" of the support and added that he hoped working persons "remember to cast their vote on Aug. 3 to ensure that the Democratic nominee be a member of the mainstream Democratic Party, who will represent their interests.

Because a sneeze is an involuntary act over which we have little or no control, many superstitions have grown up around

The early Greeks and Romans believed a sneeze to be a signal from the soul that evil influences were near.

In Aristotle's time, it was taken as the first sign of recovery for a person who was gravely ill. Even today in England, it is said that sneezers will enjoy long life.

To the contrary, sneezing during a meal is supposed to be a sure sign of the impending death of someone near you.

Some say that Pope Gregory the Great started the custom of blessing sneezes in the sixth century when the great plague swept Europe. The sneeze was one of the early symptoms of the plague, and it become customary to say "God bless you" when someone sneezed or for the sneezer to cry out, "God help me."

Michigan Supreme Court Chief Justice Thomas G. Kavanagh urged an end to 'legal pollution" and stressed the need for 'quality legal aid at reasonable costs" in a recent commencement address to graduates of the Detroit College of Law.

Nancy C. Cook of Livionia received the Burton Memorial Scholarship Award for proficiency in law of real property at the conclusion of commencement exercises. Kavanagh defined legal pollution as the overuse of the court system by attorneys and their clients in settling problems which could be better handled elsewhere. Kavanagh also told the 245 DCL graduates that a growing concern of thoughtful lawyers is the responsibility of the legal profession to provide quality legal assistance to all who need it at a reasonable "Our profession exists to meet needsof people for legal assistance, not to provide an income for lawyers. The public has a legitimate expectation of high standards of justice." he said. Abuse of the court system could be halted by finding quicker and less expensive ways of legal settlement, then counseling and educating clients to use those alternative methods, said Kavanagh.

"You must also pay attention to reducing the actual cost of providing legal services. The survival of the profession depends on attention to availability, cost and competence of legal aid."

Referring to the graduates as the "bicentennial class of '76," Kavanagh reminded them that the nation's founding fathers devised the nation's judicial system for a total citizenry which today equals onefourth the population of the state of Mich-

There have been some changes since, but perhaps the system now needs a drastic overhaul.

Kavanagh commented that the real thrust of the current legal controversy over specialization isthat until valid standards of specialization can be set, lawyers will continue to be disciplined on their moral rather than professional lapses.

The 83d annual commencement of Detroit's oldest law school was held at the Masonic Temple. G. Cameron Buchanan, president of DCL, presided, and handed out diplomas with John S. Abbott, dean of the college.

An honorary Doctor of Laws degree was presented to Chief Justice Kavanagh.

Grote's contract OK'd

The president of Schoolcraft College, C. Nelson Grote, can look forward to at least another four years in that position, but he won't know if he's going to get a raise until this fall.

Grote, a resident of Livonia, had his contract extended through June 30, 1980 at a special meeting held by the college's board of trustees. Discussion on a pay increase to go with the extended contract must wait until a collective bargaining contract for the college is written.

"I was very pleased when the board indicated that they wished to extend my contract," Grote said.

He added, "I am also pleased that last year the board made my contract a fouryear one instead of the three-year contract I held previously."

GROTE FORESEES a difficult job ahead of him over the next few years. "The millage loss creates a host of administrative problems like the financial limitations we are facing at Schoolcraft. In fact, higher education throughout America is facing limited resources," he said.

Grote commented wryly on the college's financial situation by saying, "It makes the job more interesting."

The recent defeat by voters of the college's request of about one-half mill for operating costs may have another impact on Grote. When the collective bargaining contract for faculty negotiations is written, the question of whether to give the president a salary increase will be raised. "I would anticipate a salary increase, Grote said, "but I would think any increase would be affected by the millage defeat." Any raise will be retroactive to July 1.

THE PRESIDENT'S long-range plans for the college include focusing on having a new instructional center in Canton Township. "Canton Township is one part of the community that is growing rapidly. I think that area has, in the most part, been ignored by the college. I hope to see us better serve Plymouth and Canton in the future," he said.

Grote also thinks the college's greatest growth will be in the areas of community services and adult programs. "We at Schoolcraft are still growing and our projections show us that we are continuing to grow. I see 1977 as a much brighter year," he said.

Grote said he plans to stay at Schoolcraft at least for the next five years. "My first objective personally is to obtain a vested interest in the Michigan Teachers' Retirement System. I plan to stay here another five years, since I have five years active membership in the MTRS and need five more before I can receive benifits." he said.

The college president has also considered teaching again before he retires. "I might want to consider going back in the class room at some institute for higher learning-say, the University of Michigan," he added.

PLYMOUTH-PAST AND PRESENT Sam Hudson

(Part V) Fred Yockey, Plymouth's 11th city manager since 1918 when the community hired its first village manager, believes that consolidation of the city and township into one governmental unit is inevitable. I asked him when this consolidation would take place. Yockey smiled and tilted his 5-9, 195pound frame back into the chair behind the neat, uncluttered desk in the small but pleasant office at the northeast corner of the municipal building. "I won't predict," he said, but it will happen. It usually takes place when costs between the two units begin to equalize. That's when it becomes obvious to taxpayers in both units that there is a better way to get the job done. The township now has less government than it will have when it begins to provide the city-type of services which increasing population will demand. When population reaches a density of about 1,500 people per square mile, residents in a township usually begin asking for city-type services."

WHAT IS THE ideal minimum population for a city?

"Ideally, a city should have at least 30,000 people in order to be able to provide the amenities and services that most people would like to have. If the city and the township were together, the combined governmental unit could afford, among other things, to have a city planner on its

FRED L. YOCKEY

Is there an optimum size beyond which a city ceases to function at its best? "I used to think it was about 100,000," Yockey responded "but now I'm beginning to think that it may be as high as 200,000. If a city gets too big, it begins to have problems New York and Detroit are having now.

What other problems are down the road for the City of Plymouth?

"The city has no room for growth, and little possibility for increased valuation. Because of that we will be faced with new methods of taxation.

"Plymouth has an identity that many suburban communities do not have. We have, for example, a definite downtown area unlike Livonia and Westland. We also have a small-town atmosphere which many people prefer.

"We have a clean, non-partisan type of government in which politics are kept at a minimum. When I was hired for this job, I was not asked what my political leanings are, or what my religion is. Since I have been here, I have had nothing but excellent cooperation from everyone on the city commission.

What effect will the opening of the two new expressways have on the City of Plymouth?

Well, for one thing, it will accelerate the growth of the area, and that should be beneficial to local business and employ-

Austin charges must be viewed in context

The race producing by far the most controversy for next Tuesday's primary election is that for the Democratic nomination to fill retiring U.S.Senator Philip A. Hart's seat.

Four candidates are running, with the biggest rumpus having been stirred up by Birmingham attorney James Ellsman's charges that his opponent, Secretary of State Richard Austin, has been financing his campaign by kick backs from branch office managers.

Given Austin's previous excellent record for integrity abd decency, these are serious charges.

BUT THEY must be understood in context if they are to be properly, evaluated.

1) The practice of making Secretary of State branch managerships patronage appointments with kickbacks paid to whichever political party controlled the office is as old as the hills. When former Secretary of State, Democrat James Hare, took over the office from the Republican incumbents, he found the patronage system already in place; he developed and refined it.

2) When Austin was elected Secretary of State in 1970, he started eliminating the patronage system for branch managers. Although the agreement that eventually all branch managers should be under civil service was bi-partisan, Austin worked diligently to implement it. In addition, after Ellsman made his charges. Austin unilaterally announced that henceforth he would operate all branch offices on the merit system and that he would not solicit campaign contributions from branch managers

3) The custom of branch managers giving their boss gifts was also established when Austin entered office in 1970. Evidently, he accepted the gift for only one year and thereafter stopped the practice. In addition, it appears that the size of the gift-around $2,000-is not particularly large when compared with the approximately $700,000 in political contributions that Austin raised for himself and his party from branch managers during his tenure.

THE POIN's of all this is not to minimize the issue raised about Richard Austin's fitness to hold office in the Senate. Rather, it is to try to place

by PHILIP H. POWER

the charges in a context and to try to insure that a fine man's reputation is not unfairly smudged. Each voter will have to make up his or her minds about the charges on Tuesday

One important factor in this evaluation is whether the charges of financial impropriety, which inhere in the patronage system surrounding the Secretary of Stateship rather than in Richard Austin personally, are really relevant to the Senate race.

There are a number of important differences onthe issues and in qualifications between Austin and his major opponents. Reps. James O'Hara (D-Mt. Clemens) and Donald Riegle (D-Flint).

I happen to prefer O'Hara, on the basis that he has 18 years of experience in Washington, has been thinking hard about national issues for those 18 years, and has a solid record as a productive, sensible legislator.

Austin has been an excellent Secretary of State, humanizing the office and running it with efficiency. He is a person of decency, humanity, and a remarkable concern for people. He is somewhat more liberal than O'Hara on issues such as busing and abortion, and for voters who prefer a liberal he would be an excellent choice.

Riegle's campaign so far has been characterized by a bewildering use of supposed poll results to prove he is leading; two weeks ago, his press secretary resigned from the campaign, charging that Riegle was misrepresenting his polls.

The point of all of this is that while the charges against Austin are serious, they must be evaluated in a context. Given that context, there is then a real question about whether they are relevant to the important issue in the senatorial primary: Whether the man will make a good successor for Phil Hart.

the office of clerk is uncontested on the Democratic side.

FOR TOWNSHIP supervisor, we endorse incumbent Robert Greenstein on the basis of his administration's accomplishments of the past two

While we have taken him to task on many issues in the last two years and disagree with his stands on taping, meeting rules of order, his handling of the police reserves and the citizen's advisory council, overall, on the basis of his administrative skills, we feel he is the best choice for Democratic candidate for supervisor.

The mid-decade census, Canton's success in getting supplemental block grant, funds, and the township's own ZIP codes are but a few indications of Greenstein's administrative preparedness

Innovative thinking in the area of using the Edison corridor as a recreation site is a progressive

Passage of a special assessment district to construct and staff a sorely needed second fire station is also a feather in the Greenstein adminis-

IN THE RACE for trustee, one candidate far outdistances the field. She is Lynne Goldsmith and she has shown, in the past, her interest and concern in her community.

An independent, she would be a welcome voice on the board, unencumbered by any slate or team

Her position that meetings should be taped and that rules of order are needed for township meetings are solid, and she has done her homework on the master land use plan.

She has shown her willingness to be involved in the past, contributing much time to the League of Women Voters, and to a committee to form a citizen's advisory council

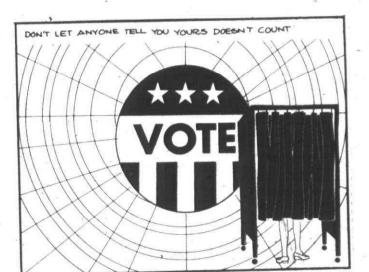

In the race for the second trustee position, we favor Gene Daley. A longtime township resident, he offers a knowledgeable viewpoint and appears to be an independent thinker.

Well-voiced on the issues, his interest in the township is evidenced by his record of attendance at township board meetings-one that equals that of almost any of the present board members.

Incumbent Jerry Cheske is qualified and has proven a hard worker, but has shown few signs of independent thinking, voting almost all the time with the Greenstein slate.

Also qualified is Joyce Willis, but she, like Cheske, may be too slate-minded.

No time like now for Europe

The Hogans have just returned from a trip to Europe. We took the children, ages 19, 16 and 13 to England, France and Italy.

We had to find the magic time to go, when the youngest was old enough to understand and enjoy the trip and the oldest wasn't so old that she was about to get married or have a permanent job that wouldn't permit her to take the time off.

A trip to Europe with kids is a different type of trip than when the old folks go by themselves. It takes a great deal more planning because children's tolerance level for churches and museums is lower than their adult counterparts'. Yet, their energy levels are much higher.

FROM PAST EXPERIENCE, we have found that you never have trouble with children traveling as long as they don't get bored. But boredness can came from too much activity if it is not something they enjoy.

Some of the things we did to make it a smoothsailing trip were to avoid planning sightseeing tours for more than half of any day. We also tried to arrange ahead of time to be near swimming pools or amusement areas so each day the kids could get rid of some of their surplus energy.

We tried to stay at truly European hotels, since part of the flavor and culture of the countries is lost at Holiday Inns or Hilton Hotels. We also tried to rent cars as often as possible so we could travel at our own pace, rather than that of the bus

WITH THE NUMBER of tours that are available, it is almost cheaper to take your family overseas than to take them on a comparable vacation to Florida. Many people put off taking such a trip for fear of the cost until they have waited too long to be able to enjoy it. This is a great year to visit both England and Italy because of the value of the dollar against the pound or the lire. Everything is much cheaper in those two countries, with the knits and leathers in Italy selling at less than half the price of goods purchased in America.

To help the children become acquainted with foreign currency, we had each child pay the bills in different countries. Our 13-year-old became an expert in pounds. Our 16-year-old became an expert in francs and our 19-year-old had charge of the lire. This not only taught them the value of the foreign currency, but it forced them to communicate with waiters and cab drivers in a language that was not their own.

OF THE COUNTRIES we visited, only in France were the prices exorbitant. The prices in Paris are substantially higher than the prices in the United States, and this would be a good year to avoid that country.

Martha Mahan was a true woman of

She was a gutsy lady, unafraid to tackle the struggle and laugh in its face. Martha was a topnotch newspaper reporter, a real pro, pecking away with two fingers on her typewriter and breaking the shell of the toughest "clam" to get a story-and a damn good one. She had a rendevous with death, but with her unconquerable spirit, she postboned that meeting for more years than even her doctors believed possible. She refused to fold her hands and acquiesce. "LET THE surgeons and the chemotherapists worry about my cancer," she would say with a laugh that rang with Mar-Tha's courage and determination. "I'll worry about staying alive.' And stay alive she did, through pain and suffering and deterioration and long days and nights in hospitals where she was poked and probed and cut and treated with powerful drugs to prolong the battle. Always smiling, she would say, "I feel just fine. I can't wait to get back to work." Martha clung to life with superhuman power. She had goals to fight for and they all revolved around her family. One was to see her eldest daughter, "little Martha," happily married and settled.

The mother of the bride plunged into preparations for the wedding in defiance of her weariness after putting in an eighthour day on the Observer Newspaper. Martha walked down the aisle with pride and a special feeling of gratitude. And she hung in there to see "little Martha" attend law school, an accomplishment she couldn't help boasting about.

MARTHA INSISTED her younger daughter. Joyce, go away to college and begin to cut the apron strings in preparation for the inevitable. That was another goal she lived to see fulfilled. She encouraged her girls to make their own lives and become selfreliant women instead of keeping them too close though she needed their help. Martha used to work for the Associated Press and so did her husband. Pete, who retired a few years ago because of illness. Martha fought with all her strength to share her indomitable heart and soul with Pete and leave him a legacy of courage. Martha drank deeply of life. She was a

In the many hospital rooms she lay in, more and more towards the end, a pair of boxing gloves hung over the bed. A fellow newspaperman gave them to her for luck, a symbol of the tough fighter she was. The gloves were there until the end. But Martha's luck ran out and the fight was over.

In her weakness, she said, "I never thought I'd be a quitter. I never wanted to give up and I don't want to leave Pete and the girls. But I can't live like this." That was the first time I saw her cry. And then she uttered a typical Marthaism about how crappy life can be. And we both laughed.

THE BOTTLE BILL was brought to the ballot bottle bill went to court attempting to halt the effort. They attacked the title on the petitions and the time frame in which the petition signatures were collected. Recently, they lost. The enemies were the litter lobby (they call themselves "convenience packagers"), the AFL-CIO (representing the unions involved) and the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce. Their court arguments rang falsely. They weren't concerned with legal niceties. They make money out of producing litter-that's the long and the short of it. The role of the state chamber in helping the litter lobby was particularly disturbing. We had expected a higher level of environmental concern from the chamber because a clean environment is, after all, very good business. HAVING LOST its effort to keep the bottle bill off the ballot, the litter lobby can now be relied upon to conduct an expensive, rough campaign laden with bad statistics to con voters into rejecting the ballot proposal. We base this judgment on the way the litter lobby behaved when arguing its case in front of the State Resource Recovery Commission. First,

Let's defeat litter lobby

the litter lobby demanded time to argue the matter. Then it bawled out the Resource Recovery Commission for "wasting" so much time considering the matter.

That is colossal arrogance. That is the way the litter lobby operates. The going may get unpleasant before the votes are counted.

THE ESSENCE of the litter lobby campaign, we have seen it, is that the bottle bill won't really solve the problem; that pop and beer bottles and cans are only a small portion of the litter prolem; and that the solution is "education."

You can test those arguments for yourself in the coming months:

· If you see beverage bottles and cans as the most prevalent kind of nondegradable litter in shopping center parking lotsolf you walk a mile of county or state road and count the pieces of litter you see, and calculate what proportion are bevarage containers that would be banned by the bottle bill-

•If you visit a park on a Sunday afternoon and see what has been left on the ground-

You will convince yourself that the litter lobby is, in fact, responsible for the mess. You will also no doubt conclude that the vast amounts of education about litter have failed, and that the only course is to vote for the bottle bill and try to ban the junk.

Reserves are welcome here

It is my belief that the article in the July 5 edition of the Canton Observer & Eccentric entitled "Union chief rips reserves" exemplifies irresponsible journalism at its worst.

It was very inappropriate of Mr. Gold to ask the sheriff's deputies' union chief for his opinion of our reserve officers.

As a union leader he had to "rip" our reserves-and this is why: The concept of our reserves violates several representation rooted, longstanding union principals which are as

1. Never encourage giving up work normally done by union members. 2. Always enlarge areas of responsibility and membership. 3. Above all, condemn, ridicule and damn any efforts to establish a voluntary effort or a group willing to work for less money. Having been a union member for many years and having also been a union leader,

I Armly believe the union chief had to "rip" our reserves if he ever wanted to be reelected. Mr. Gold should have known

I strongly resent a non-resident reporter and a non-resident union chief jeopardizing the safety of my home and family as well as the other Canton residents.

We have a serious police shortage problem in Canton to which our present administration is responding diligently. Crime is rapidly increasing in our township, especially burglaries

These are the types of crimes which must be prevented, because and vandalism, after-the-fact they are very diffi-

I would welcome and appreciate any help at all, even an old lady with a mean look on her face.

In Canton's case, an ounce of prevention would be worth a pound of cure. Detroit decreased its crime rate in some areas by having citizens patrol the street. For these types of crimes, we don't need the "highpriced cops."

Voters duped on fire millage

On May 18, 1976, the voters were asked to approve a fire millage which they did. It would seem reasonable that any intelligent, fair-minded, elected government body would have had estimates of the cost of building and equipping a fire station prior to a request to the electorate for fund-

The millage approval ballot should have reflected the actual costs of the station as needed.

Alas!- Not so under the direction of the Canton supervisor with his team. (Note, a well-trained team responds to the driver.)

Requests at prior board meetings by residents to put on the ballot only that exact cost which was needed were completely ig-

"team" and driver balked. One might as well have discussed the requirements with an educated fool as with the present controlled board team (excluding Poole, Myers, and Schwall).

The team apparently searched the statutes to find a law which would legally allow a millage limit far in excess of that which was needed. Behold! We have found one PA33 which allowed assessment up to 10 mills for 10 years on all property in the fire district. Over the expressed objections of some of the residents at the township board meeting, the supervisor-controlled team had a rushed-through ballot put up before the voters. This recently approved ballot permits the board of trustees to assess up to 10 mills for 10 years. According to the citizen's advisory council, which conducted a study of the millage requirements of the second fire station, the requirements were as follows; approximately one to 11/2 mills for the first year for construction and equipping the first year, and declining to zero for the third year for construction and equipping a second fire station. Extra fire trucks were available at the first station.

The controlled team adminstration bulldozed right over any objections, consequently the voters were duped.

Now we have a situation wherein up to 10 mills can be levied for 10 years. Perhaps it won't matter if some of our homes go on the auction block.

How much do you voters have to lose before you believe what can happen and vote out the supervisor and his "team"?

Now is your chance at the primaries—to rid yourselves of the runaway team.

Talking horse sense

Giddy-ap-gee-whoa-backup-haw eassy-whoa-backup-steadddy- easssy

The above language is familiar to oldtimers, but younger residents may wonder about such gibberish.

First, we would describe a "team." To a farmer, a team usually meant a pair or more of horses or mules harnessed and used to perform tasks requiring power on farms, ranches, in lumbering-etc.

Two to five horse teams were used for power on farms in this area before the introduction of the farm tractor.

The signals from a team driver were usually as follows: giddy-ap or gidap, an order to go ahead; whoa or whoo, an order to stop; gee, an order to veer right; haw, an order to veer left; or backup, an order

It should be noted that a team of twothree-four or more horses was invariably orders to the team.

However, the driver also held a pair of reins, which were securely fastened to a "bit" in each horse's mouth.

Tough-mouthed horses were fitted with "pinch" bits in their mouth. If the team did not respond to verbal command, a tug on the reins by the driver sharply pinched the bit on the horse's tongue to remind him to do what the driver ordered.

We farmers thought that during these days when so much self-credit is usurped by a "team" it would be well to let those unfamiliar with teams know that a team is always under direction and order from one driver (even football teams).

A team is under the ultimate control of one man by means of reins (or strings) and the string or rein controlled team is not allowed freedom of action.

In conclusion, we urge all voters to vote for candidates who are not a team with strings or reins attached who must respond to the driver.

The American nation was founded by men of independent minds working together to achieve fair and equitable treatment

Over the years he has been in many tight spots. Somehow or other, he always has been able to squirm out of them. But now he is in trouble and there seems to be no way out of his predicament. He has tried all the methods he knows-or has been told-to no avail. He now must admit failure, and all because the red beet and carrot seeds he planted in the spring have decided to remain under ground. Almost from the time The Stroller planted them, he had visions of some delicious, home grown red beets and carrots. While not too fond of carrots, he was looking forward to the red beets and not for the beets

When the eggs had properly cooled, she would pour the red beet juice into the jar and set the jars aside for hours. When she finally opened the jar, the eggs had a reddish color and a most delightful taste. In fact, the red beet eggs became a treat.

Marvin Stempien, a Democratic candidate for Congress, has urged that there be "no more crime without punishment." Stempien discussed the need for new crime control measures at a Superior Township Democratic Club meeting. "It is said that a person born in urban America today stands a greater risk of being murdered than he would have faced in combat in World War II," Stempien "We can't counter crime with law and order slogans. We must translate our new overall approach to crime prevention. "Greater emphasis should be placed on giving law enforcement departments the manpower and equipment they need to prevent crime and apprehend those who commit it," Stempien said.

He endorsed the need to reduce congestion in the courts by making them more efficient, and by increasing the number of judges and prosecutors.

"Mandatory sentences, especially for violent crimes," he said, "must be imposed quickly or the deterrent effect may be lost.' Stempien has also called for reform of penal laws, by reducing good time parole provisions that allow still dangerous crimihals to be released prematurely into sos-

NOW SEVERAL months have passed, and nary a seed has broken through the garden plot he had prepared so carefully. His visions of red beet eggs are now gone and he mourns their passing each time he sees home grown beets on the market shelves.

5 generations help celebrate 83rd birthday

By MARGARET MILLER

Estella Binnie isn't likely to forget soon her 83rd birthday.

Nor will 50 or so members of her family who joined her in a reunion cemebration that included five generations.

And especially the memory will linger for her granddaughter, Karen Burman, whose family appreciation provided the spark that got the whole thing going.

The birthday party took place July 10, centering around the Westland home of Mrs. Grace Wheeler, Stella's daughter and Karen's mother, and the Church of Christ of Plymouth. About 30 family members sons and daughters, in-laws, grandchildren, greatgrandchildren and one great-great-grandson-traveled from six states to join those in the clan who live in this area. Mrs. Binnie enjoyed it all, particularly her first meeting with her first greatgreat-grandchild, Robbie Macy of La-

BUT, IN A WAY, the story of the reunion starts several years ago, when Karen Burman was a junior at Plymouth High School. An American history class required a project, and Karen, whose grandmotehr was living with her family at the time, chose to research her family tree.

She talked to Mrs. Binnie and listed the various family members and their progeny. She became so interested in the project that the next summer her mother offered her a trip to Bolivar, Pa., where Mrs. Birinie grew up and where a number of relatives still lived. Karen worked on the geneology some through the next year. But then after graduation she went to Schoolcraft College and then married Kenneth Burman and then they lived in several parts of the country as the Army moved them around, and somehow the notebook filled with family history got pushed aside.

THEN SEVERAL THINGS started turning her her thoughts, and those of others in the clan, back to family history.

The Burmans had a daughter, Kristen Ann, and, as Karen put it, "that got me thinking about family ties."

And then, earlier this year, the first member of the fifth generation in Estella Binnie's family was born.

"She really wanted to see that baby." Karen said. "And we started talking about how the family had scattered, and how there were grandchildren and great-grand children she never had seen.

"We're a close family, not in distance but in the fact that we care about each

INVITATIONS went out with Christmas cards, and plans were under way for the

Then Karen started serious work on a special feature for the occasion, a scrapbook full of memories for her grandmother and a completely documented family tree for each of the eight children and 18 grand-children of Estella Binnie. Sheree Macy, mother of small Robbie, was the only one of 23 great-grandchild to get a copy-Karen figures the younger ones can get them from their parents as they grow

Her grandmother's scrapbook was compiled from many sources, long conversations with Mrs. Binnie about the days in Pennsylvania before she moved her to take a sales job in Detroit, reading books on geneology to learn how to set up the record, correspondence with relatives, especially Grace Binnie Foster, a teacher who is the last member of the Binnie family. "I had a really interesting correspondence with her," Karen laughed. "She even corrected my spelling."

She had help from several sources. One was her brother, James Harold Wheeler, who lives in Panama and couldn't make the reunion, but made some copies of old tintype photos to put in the scrapbook.

WITH THE BINNIE scrapbook completed and the family reunion a happy memory, Karen is making plans to research the Shaffer family in the Bolivar area, the clan Mrs. Binnie came from.

And she'd like to know more about the geneology of the Wheelers, her father's family, and the Burmans, her husband's. "I want a complete family history to give our daughter," she explained. Compiling the information has been a real enjoyment to her, she said although "I'm afraid I've talked everyone's ear off-when I get a new piece of information I get so excited."

AS FOR GRANDMA Binnie, she'll keep on doing what she's been doing for years, helping out members of her family.

Mrs. Binnie moved here from Pensylvania after the death of her husband, William Oscar, to join a daughter who had come earlier.

She found a job selling infant's and children's wear in Klopecky's on Fort Street in Detroit.

Gets her money back

Determined Debbie refuses to be taken by travel firm

BY SHERRY KAHAN

Your are about to be introduced to a young woman who wouldn't allow herself to be ripped off.

Meet Debbie Raeppa, a resident of Livonia, who began her own consumer protection fight more than two years ago. After much patient persistence, she finally won her battle.

"I'd do it again," declared Miss Rzeppa, who received the $237 for which she sued plus an additional $12.50 for her costs. Unfortunately, she received no compensation for the hours spent preparing and fighting her case, except unless you count a useful store of legal and financial information in case she should ever decide to hang out a shingle as a lawyer. "If more people sued, companies would be less likely to do these things, especially if the judges were behind the people," she

Miss Rzeppa found our legal system confusing.

"There should be some better way people can get their money back from companies which are not ethical," she continued. "It took almost a year from the decision of the judge to the time I cashed the check paid to me.'

Despite her new legal information she has not been drawn toward the legal profession as a career. Instead, she hopes to take up occupational therapy, her interest prodded recently because of the foster child with cerebral palsy living in her parents home.

MISS RZEPPA became involved in her fight in 1973 while a senior at Stevenson High School. Class members planned a trip to Acapulce, a destination that was changed to the Bahamas when the travel company selling the trip went bankrupt. Claiming they were doing it out of the goodness of their heart, another company picked up the students' trip. "But they were the same people we were dealing with before," claimed Miss Rzeppa. Close to departure time, the company, Campus International Travel Corp., announced it was having trouble locating a plane and would have to use an airship smaller the originally planned. Therefore, only those who had paid their full $229 plus an additional $20 could go.

Miss Rzeppa had paid in full but didn't have check stutis to prove it, so was side-lived. The course want to France without lined. The group went to Freeport without

More than 200 bucks is important to everyone, and especially important to a teen-ager, so she naturally wondered about her money.

A letter from the Ann Arbor firm told her that if she would cancel the agree-ment, they would send her $100. ABOUT THEN our heroine moved into that physio-psychological state known as getting her dander up. She wanted justice. She wanted her money.

Filing complaints with the Better Business Bureau and the Consumer Protection

Agency in Lansing were the initial steps

"Next I went to the free law day on May 1 put on by the Livonia Bar Association, she said, referring to a time set aside by area lawyers in honor of national law observance day on which they will advise members of the public on general legal questions and the more simple matters that can be handled easily. "As a result, on my way home I stopped in at the 16th district court in Livonia and picked up the papers I would need to take the company to court," continued Miss Rzeppa. "I filled them out and returned them by evening.' Court day was about a month later. "I was very nervous," she laughed. "My knees were shaking when I went before Judge James R. McCann came through for her and awarded a judgement in her

"I waited a month and didn't get the money." she said.

BACK TO COURT went the plaintiff to find out what to do next. She filled out a paper which would enable the court to obtain property from the company and sell it for the complainant.

But that didn't work. Back she went to sign further documents of this kind, a second time, a third time.

"I kept going every Friday to the court house to see if the money had come in and to find out what progress was being made," she explained.

But the key of the matter lay in the firm's bank account, and after it was discovered what bank this was in, she signed a garnishment on the account. "I waited 30 days to see if they paid, then another 30 days," she said. "After that they sent the money through the

THE SCHOOLCRAFT College graduate who now attends Eastern Michigan University, said she felt relieved when she pocketed her cash because she had spent so much time on it. "I was bound and determined they were not going to do this to me," she maintained. "At times I felt like giving up, it was so discouraging. The money kept me going. I wasn't working, and whenever I needed money I thought about that check." Miss Rzeppa believes that there were quite a few in the Stevenson group who lost more than $100 on the ill-fated venture, "But as far as I know no one else tried to sue.' She added that she finally got her trip to the Bahamas with a different company. Will the experience make her a more careful consumer?

"In something that large I would be more careful," she stated. "With a small sum of money probably not. But it pays to be careful with a large amount.

However, she apparantly feels strongly as ever about standing up for her consumer rights.

"The company which arranged our trip said. "When they didn't give it, we comto the Bahamas promised us a party," she plained, and then got it.

Catholic Social Services opens branch office

By MARGARET MILLER

A new source of help for needs ranging from family counseling to adoption home studies is on hand in this area with the opening of a Livonia office of Catholic Social Services of Wayne County.

Two social workers and a secretary began operations last week in a suite of offices at 17316 Farmington Road, just south of St. Aidan Catholic Church.

The agency, which elected to locate its third office in the northwest suburbs because of many requests, will hold open house from 4-6 p.m. Friday, July 30, to show its new facilities to the public.

Catholic Services, emphasized assistant director Bernard Kazyak, is not a denominal social agency. Rather, he said, it draws the major portion of its support from the United Foundation and is open to all who wish to avail themselves of its services.

"WE RECEIVED about 20 calls in the first few days we were open and started immediately to set up appointments," Kazyak said.

"We are starting with marital and family adjustment counseling, and will soon be offering a full range of services, including

Problem pregnancy counseling will be included in the agency's services, he added, and it will be concerned with alternatives to abortion

"We follow the Catholic Church's position on that matter," Kazyak stated.

KAZYAK AND Mrs. Margaret Meyers a Westland social worker who will work with Karen Dorjath in staffing the new branch, indicated the range of requests for service here are pretty similar to those received in the first two offices, one located on Hamilton Street in Detroit and the other in Taylor.

"People are seeking help on all kinds of relationship problems," said Mrs. Meyers, who has done psychiatric social work at Wayne County General Hospital.

There seem to be many who need help on marital problems, and also requests for working out difficulties with teen children and in employment situations.

More men are seeking counseling, and that's good. They seem to be more willing than formerly to come in with their partners, and they are making the initial call more often."

COSTS FOR COUNSELING at the agency are in the area of $35 an hour with adjustments possible based on individual ability to pay, Mrs. Meyers said. "And we don't refuse service to anyone," she

There also is a ceiling on the number of hours of paid counseling, so that in cases of long-term needs the United Foundation money picks up the payments. Mrs. Meyers and Miss Dorjath both have the degress of Master of Social Work. THE AGENCY newly locating here represents a merger of several help groups with histories going back to 1870. At that time the Daughters of Charity and Providence Hospital both began service to unmarried mothers, and that led to functioning as an adoption agency. St. Vincent de Paul was founded in 1912 as a foster care service for children who for various reasons could not stay in their own homes, and in 1946 the Catholic Family Services began to offer a full range of family counseling services. 4In 1957 came the merger of the Daughters of Charity, St. Vincent de Paul and the Catholic Family Services into the Catholic Social Services of Wayne County as it is known today.

Orchard Lake Schools to host national meeting

The Orchard Lake Schools will be the scene of an all-day national conference Aug. 12, involving 19 members of the Catholic hierarchy from Poland and leaders of the Polish American community.

The special meeting will begin at 9:30 a.m. last until 3 p.m. with a break for lunch at noon on the schools' campus northwest of Detroit An invitation is extended to all Polish American priests and religious, both men and women; to Polonia's leaders, especially the national officers of the Polish American fraternals and other important organizations; and to Polish Americans generally who are interested.

More detailed information may be obtained from the office of the president-rector of Orchard Lake Schools.

LED BY CARDINAL Karol Wojtyla, of Krakow, the Polish bishops will be at Orchard Lake Aug. 11-12-13 after spending a week at the 41st International Eucharistic Congress in Philadelphia

The conference at Orchard Lake fulfills one of Cardinal Wojtyla's main wishes for coming to America, to have the bishops meet with as many important idividuals of the American Polonia as possible.

"Cardinal Wojtyla repeatedly has asked us to provide an opportunity to meet with Polish American community leaders," Fr. Walter J. Ziemba, president-rector of the Orchard Lake Schools, said. "We at Orchard Lake have agreed to act as hosts for this special conference.' Cardinal Wojtyla will open the conference with introductory remarks on the church in Poland today.

Other bishops will speak on topics including the clergy and vocations, the laity and their organizations, pastoral care of the faithful, liturgy; religious education of vouth and children, building of churches. mass media, education and culture in Poland, and dangers and hopes for the fu-

A discussion and question-and-answer period will follow WHILE AT ORCHARD LAKE, the bishops will experience the same busy schedule that will mark their entire six-week visit to the United States.

After the conference, the bishops will be the concelebrants at a mass in Polish at & p.m. at St. Albertus Church in Detroit and, after the mass, the guests of honor at a reception at the Warren Chateau in Warren. Tickets are available by contacting Orchard Lake. The bishops now are beginning to arrive in America. During the week of Aug. 1-8 they will be in Philadelphia for the Eucharistic Congress. Cardinal John Krol will be their host. A "side trip" to Doylestown, Pa., is also planned.

After the Congress, the bishops will spend two days in Washington, hosted by Archbishop Joseph Bernardin, chairman of the United States Bishops Conference, and Bishop James Rausch, secretary of the conference.

From Orchard Lake, the bishops will go their separate ways to visit the following dioceses of Boston, Buffalo, New York, Brooklyn Scranton, Cleveland, Syracuse: Milwaukee, Hartford, Detroit, Toledo, Gary, Wilmington, Omaha, Pittsburght Miami, Providence, and Trenton.

Historic church map available

A new picture-map entitled "Detroit's Historic Churches" is available free from the Detroit Historical Museum, the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce or St. Joseph Catholic Church.

The map shows the locations of 32 sites within the Grand Boulevard, Detroit River area which have housed congregations of various ethnic backgrounds over the last

The work developed from an idea suggested in the monthly meeting of the Downtown Vicariate of the Catholic Archdiocese of Detroit, headed by the Rev. Thomas Bresnahan. It was prepared through the research of Al Treppa, a high school teacher whose hobby is Detroit history.

LWV congressional voters guide

How do the 2d Congressional District candidates view the solutions to the unemployment problem, inflation and energy

The League of Women Voters surveyed the two Republicans and five Democrats seeking their party's nomination in next

The candidates' answers to three questions and their resumes were supplied to the Observer & Eccentric to help voters make up their minds

The two Republican candidates are State Sen. Carl Pursell of Plymouth and Ronald Trowbridge, an Ann Arbor City Councilman.

The five Democrats are Delbert Hoffman, Monroe County commissioner; Dr. Edward Pierce of Ann Arbor, who came within 81 votes of winning the congressional nomination in 1974; Miss Mary Robek, Eastern Michigan University professor of administrative services and business education; John Spillson, unemployed Monroe resident who formerly worked for Monroe Auto Equipment Co., and Marvin Stempien, Livonia attorney and former state

Pursell, 43. of 46200 N. Territorial Rd., Plymouth, has his BA and MA from Eastern Michigan University, is a former businessman and teacher. Plymouth Chamber of Commerce president; former county commissioner, and member of the state Senate for six years. He won the federal government's Environmental Protection Agency award for Michigan for his work in environmental issues.

Trowbridge, 38, is an associate professor of English at Eastern Michigan and has been on the Ann Arbor City Council for 18 months, has a BA, MA, and Ph.D. from the University of Michigan. He is editor of the Michigan Academician of the Michigan Academy of Science, Arts and Letters.

Hoffman, 31, of Monroe is a plant security man at Ford Motor Co. in Monroe and has been a township supervisor, county commissioner, Kiwanis Club member, dep-

Pierce, 46, of Ann Arbor, is a physician who founded the Summit Medical Center in Ann Arbor in 1968 for low-income families, and a former Ann Arbor City Councilman. He is a past member of the executive committee of St. Joseph Mercy Hospi-

Miss Robek, 49, of Ypsilanti, previously worked in the U.S. Office of Price Administration: Maritime Commission and the Manpower Training and Development program. She has a BEd from the University of Wisconsin, MA from Northwestern University, and a PH.D. from University of Spillson, 27, of Monroe attended Cleary College, Eastern Michigan and Monroe Community College. He previously worked for an auto equipment company and was a siene and shrimp fisherman in Florida.

Stempien, 42. of 14322 Cranston, Livonia. served three terms in the state House of Representatives and was formerly House Majority Leader. He is an attorney with offices in Livonia and was the Democratic nominee for Congress in 1972. Stempien is also active in St. Michael Catholic Church Parish Council in Livonia.

List two ways Congress can help ease high unemployment.

Pursell: Congress must exercise fiscal discipline to control inflation. This would allow our economy to expand at a rate of six to seven per cent, thus new private jobs would be created. I do not support government being our "full time employer." Government can help in "emergency

Trowbridge: I would motivate private enterprise to create jobs through capital investment via the jobs creation act. I would reduce deficit spending and subsequent government borrowing so as to free up capital loans from lending institutions to pri-

Hoffman: I would private an incentive program for business to create jobs of a permanent nature. People, physically and mentally capable, on programs like welfare should be required to work for the betterment of their community, like drain improvements, cleanup projects on rivers, parks, roadways and public grounds.

Pierce: Our unemployed must be put back to work, a job the current administration has not taken seriously. The federal government must provide tax incentives to private industry to diversify job opportunities in hard-hit areas like southeastern Michigan and when necessary become the employer of last resort.

Robek: I would cut taxes for industry so that it can use the money saved to replace obsolete plans and machinery and build new plants in order to be more competitive world-wide. For unskilled persons the government should be the employer of Spillson: Unemployment is part of the overall economic problem. The solution to the problem is inexpensive energy. Laser fusion is the answer. Laser fusion, coupled with the full strength of the Humphrey-Hawkins Bill, would provide the necessary means of attaining full employment.

Stempien: This should be the task of the private sector. Congress must limit the federal reserves' ability to restrict money supply which would reduce interest rates and allow the private sector to expand. Tax credits can also encourage private job creation. Government should assume the role of "employer of last report."

List two ways you would like to see Congress ease the high inflation rate.

Pursell: Congress and the President must say NO to excessive spending demands. Wasteful spending must be stopped. I do not support government establishing price and wage controls, however, there must be reasonable restraint price and wage demands.

Trowbridge: I would cut spending growth so as to reduce heavy government borrowing that bids up inflationary interest rates. I would balance the budget so as to reduce the liberal printing of new, inflationary money

Hoffman: There should be a people-oriented federal investigation, like into food pricing, drugs and the like. The costs and savings should be passed onto the consumer. Large chains should have been able to sell it (soda pop) cheaper than a small store rather than higher.

Dear Fellow Citizen,

My campaign is based on my earnings as County Commissioner and support from the general public. I am not obligated to any organization or individual. If you choose to send me as your Representative to Washington, I will spend most of my time there doing the job you elected me to do.

I am 31 years old, married and have 3 children. I am currently working at Ford Motor Co. in Monroe and serving as County Commissioner in the 2nd District. I am a member of the National Plant Protection Association, Kiwanis Club, St. Mary's Parish and Ushers Club. I am an associate member of the National Association of Criminal Justice Planning Directors. Graduate of Catholic Central High. Served in the U.S. Air Force, Deputy Sheriff in Monroe County, worked at Chrysler Engine in Trenton and Ford Motor Co. in Monroe (UAW Locals 372 & 723). Previous member of AFL-CIO Local 876. I served as Frenchtown Township Supervisor.

As County Commissioner in the 2nd District, I am representing Exeter, Raisinville and the Western portion of Frenchtown Townships. My current assignments are Liaison to the State Legislature, several committees in the Criminal Justice and Law Enforcement segment in Michigan Association of Counties, Southeast Regional Criminal Justice Training Center in Ann Arbor, and the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments. I also serve on several other committees of SEMCOG and the Monroe County Board of Commissioners.

ECONOMY-Provide an incentive program through which private business would create jobs of a permanent nature.

CROSS DISTRICT BUSSING—This should not be a racial issue because the primary consideration should be the quality of education. Rather than buying busses and hiring bus drivers; emphasis should be on hiring teachers and upgrading the schools that are in need.

WELFARE AND ADC-Those people, not physically or mentally impaired, should be required to perform a function for the betterment of their community before receiving

DEFENSE—I believe in a strong National Defense system. ENERGY-I believe in the development of Solar, Wind, Hyrogen and other sources of non-oil origin. GUN OWNERSHIP-I will defend our rights as law-abiding citizens as to ownership of guns for protection of our families, properties and as sportspersons. RECYCLING-Emphasize recycling of our nation's sewage and solid waste.

SENIOR CITIZENS-Decrease the tax burdens on our elderly who are on fixed incomes so that they can maintain a UNIT PRICING CODE-The price should remain attached to the item being purchased.

FEDERAL REVENUE SHARING—I support continued Federal Revenue Sharing.

ABORTION—I oppose abortion other than to save the

DRUGS-I believe in equalizing the penalties of users and support an all-out effort in busting the peddlers. CAPITAL PUNISHMENT-I am in favor of capital punish-MANDATORY REGIONAL GOVERNMENT-I oppose this Robek: I would cut all unnecessary federal spending and eliminate obsolete programs, and balance the budget.

Spillson: Inflation, same as unemployment, is part of the overall economic problem. The solution to it is contingent to inexpensive energy. Unless the demand-pull and cost-push inflation is checked, people will be unable to afford anything. An inexpensive source of energy such as laser fusion would take the stress off of commodities thus easing inflation.

League urges 'no' vote on the charter

Voters in the proposed City of Plymouth Heigists (all of Plymouth Township east of McClumpha Road) will vote Aug. 3 whether to adopt a charter which would create the new municipality.

The League of Women Voters of Northville, Plymouth, Cariton, Novi is opposed to the adoption of the charter for the City of P mouth Heights because it is opposed to the formation of that city.

In 1959 the City of Plymouth Heights was originated to avoid annexation, and the residents of that portion of Plymouth Township affected have not really had an opportunity since 1959 to indicate by vote whether they want a separate city, only a chance to accept or reject the charter.

There is no accounting for new community members and population increase.

The plan for a City of Plymouth Heights leaves a problem of equitable division of liabilities and assets between the proposed city and the remainder of Plymouth Township. The remaining portion of the town, ship would have no real tax base. This fragmentation of integovernmental units (i.e., City of Plymouth, City of Plymouth Heights and Plymouth Township) would lead to competition and not cooperation among the governmental units, blocking orderly growth and development of the community.

Hoffman: Yes. Recycling should be of major importance along with energy research. The 1975 budget has $4 billion for pollution control and abatement, $1.5 billion for energy research and development. Of the $1.5 billion, about $1 billion was for nuclear energy. There is much promise in solar, wind, hydrogen and other sources which can be of a lesser polluting nature.

Whatever happened to the idea of going to Hines Drive Park to take advantage of a little bit of green grass, picnic areas and swings?

The area across from Wilcox was dredged last year to make a larger, smoother ice skating pond. Now we are to destroy the last area to which the ducks could flee from the crowds of people we already have attracted to Plymouth. We are building a walkway to their island, for another smoother skating pond.

Two years ago I used to go to the park with neighborhood children to regularly feed the ducks and a Canadian goose. They are gone now and the few remaining ducks don't come close to shore anymore because of the way people have abused and even killed them.

The fountain and the boat ideas for Wilcox Lake died a natural death. The people in this area did not want to exploit the lake at the risk of destroying the last bit of close-at-hand nature we had available. Now the county and state are doing that for us. Those who want to ski can go to one of the many ski sites which are in the area. Hines Drive should not be a recreation site but a park where we can go for a moment's peaceful enjoyment of outdoors.

McCracken should get together with the group from Beer Hill. They both are out to destroy the area, a little different motive and method, but the same end results.

wasted. There is not enough use of mass urban transit! Airplanes are flying halffull. We are using more petroleum products now than we were in the energy crisis of 1973. We are still at the mercy of the OPEC countries.

Spillson: I consider energy conservation important until a new source of energy

Stempien: Yes. Tough conservation of present energy sources is necessary, because new alternative sources take time to develop. Congress must immediately develop a national energy policy of public and private research to develop solar, geothermal, nuclear and other alternatives to fossil fuels.

August's American tradition:

County fairs top events calendar

The country fair-like apple pie and baseball-is an American tradition, and Michigan's calendar of events for August lists more than 43 fairs, according to the Travel Bureau of the Michigan Department of Commerce.

Included in the number are the Jackson County Fair and Petunia Festival at Jackson, Aug. 1-7: Ingham County Fair, Aug. 2-7. Mason: the Iona Fair-largest free fair of its kind- Aug 6-15, Ionia; the Northern Michigan Fair at Cheboygan and the West-ern Michigan Fair, Ludington, Aug. 15-21; Upper Peninsula State Fair, Escanaba, Aug. 17-22; Northwestern Michigan Fair, Traverse City. Aug. 30-Sept. 5; and the Eastern Michigan Fair, Imlay City, Aug.

America's first State Fair and one of Michgan's biggest events, the Michigan State Fair, opens Aug. 27 for its annual 11day spectacular engagement at the State Fairgrounds, Detroit. Among the names appearing on this year's star-studded entertainment roster are the favorite son of TV's "Good Times," "J.J." Jimmy Walker, Boots Randolph, Freddie Fender and The Little Angels of Korea.

The complete list of fair dates is included in the Michigan Calendar of Travel Events available on request from the Travel Beureau. Michigan Department of Commerce. Lansing 48913.

On the ethnic scene, a Polish Festival at Yack Arena, Wyandotte, Aug. 6-8. Detroit's ethnic festival site on the fiverfront near Cobo Hall will have the Arab World Festival in residence Aug. 6-8; the Polish Festival. Aug. 13-15; Scandanavian, Aug. 20-22, and East Indian Festival, Aug. 27-29. A fairy tale parade, tennis and slo-ball tournamnets, strolling bands, food and refreshments are a few of the things that will attract visitors to the 12th annual Danish Festival at Greenville, Aug. 20-22. Regular and working displays will be included in the Upper Peninsula Gem and Mineral Show in Lakeview Arena. Marquette, Aug. 6-8. Home cooking, dancing and an "Islanders vs. Mainlanders" baseball game will highlight Welcome Day and Homecoming on Beaver Island, Aug.

The days when copper was king are the motivation for the Coppertown USA Festival. Aug. 8-15, at Calumet, thriving center of Michigan's copper boom.

Some things will be taking place on the waters around the state that should provide both entertainment and some excitement. At Lewiston, you'll see water skiing expertise at the annual Water Ski Show on East Twin Lake, Aug. 7-8. On Aug. 22, the Au Sable Longboat Regatta goes floating down the river from the I-75 bus loop bridge at Grayling. In addition to the parade of long, narrow, flat bottom boats, there will be a fishing contest with prizes for the largest brown and brook trout

More boats of a different variety will be afloat on the Grand River at Grand Haven in tha city's annual Venetian Parade, Aug.

One of the "north country's" favorite legendary characters, and by far the greatest lumber jack of them all, inspires the Paul Bunyan Festival, Aug. 12-15, at Oscoda.

Nothing is impossible during the days of the annual Magic Get-Together in Colon. This year's assembly of the world's most talented magicians and aspiring amateurs will be held Aug. 18-21.

On the "crafty" side of things an Art Fair in Fremon City Park, Aug. 7; the Tawas Bay Waterfront Arts and Crafts Festival, Aug. 7-8. Tawas City; Soo Arts Festival. Aug. 10-11, Saulte Ste. Marie; a Craft Show at White Cloud, Aug. 13-14; Art On The Asphalt, Aug. 19, Ishpeming, and the Arts and Crafts Fair in Richardi Park, Bellaire, Aug. 21.

For those who enjoy yesterday's treasures, try the Antique Auto Show and Swap at Charlton Park near Hastings, or the Antique Show in Grand Haven, Aug. 19-21.

Historically speaking, the best place to get the biggest helping of Americana, anytime, is Greenfield Village and the Henry Ford Museum, in Dearborn. This month, the annual Colonial Military Muster reenacts 18th century military maneuvers with costumed militiamen and authentic weapons of the Revolution, Aug. 28-29.

In addition, there will be parades, fife and drum music and displays of Colonial crafts. Continuing bicentennial "specials" include 'The Struggle and the Glory," Industrial Heritage USA." and "History of Political Parties in the U.S." exhibits, the Menlo Park Centennial and the Greenfield Village Players presentation of "Our American Cousin" every Friday and Saturday evening at 8:30 p.m.

Baseball, softball, thoroughbred and harness racing and fishing are also on the August agenda. To keep up on all that's going on in Michigan in August, and every month of the year, write for a free copy of the Michigan Calendar of Travel Events. available from the Travel Bureau, Michigan Department of Commerce. ### Greenfield Village accredited

The Accreditation Commission of the American Association of Museums has announced that Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn have been granted full AAM accreditation.

The award was made on the basis of committee studies of operations including management, staff, finances, collections, exhibits, educational programs and future

AAM accreditation signifies that the village and museum have, in the opinion of trained museum professionals who comprise the commission, "demonstrated a preofessional level of museum operation in accordance with the standards of excellence prescribed by the American Association of Museums.

Established in 1970, the accreditation procedure was designed to help develop public confidence in historic institutions by certifying that professional standards have

Pulitzer drama premiers

The 1975 Pulitzer Prize winning drama "Seascape" by Edward Albee, opened its Detroit premiere at the Hilberry Studio Theater on July 28.

Also opening at the Wayne State University Summer Theatre Festival in the Hilberry, on July 30, is the Neil Simon-Anton Chekhov comedy "The Good Doctor:"

Performances for both plays continues at 8:30 p.m. Wednesdays through Saturdays through Aug. 14.

Winner of both Pulitzer and Tony awards. "Seascape" confronts a middleaged couple picknicking on an isolated Atlantic Beach with another couple-mansized lizards, not people. Although it sounds like a thriller, the play actually is a comedy probing the process of living.

Simon's stage adaptation of stories by Chekhov, with music by Peter Link, portrays nine vignettes ranging in mood from farcical to poignant.

Reserved seats are on sale at the Wayne State University theater box office at the Hilberry, Cass and Hancock in Detroit. For telephone reservations, call 577-2972.

Conversations series sponsored for dancers

The Detroit Metropolitan Dance Project, with the cooperation of dance departments at Oakland University, University of Detroit/Marygrove College and Wayne State University, is sponsoring a series, called Conversations, with internationally known dance artists teaching in the Detroit area this summer.

The series consists of one to three artists jointly and informally discussing their work and themselves with interested members of the Detroit area arts and dance community

Conversations will feature Paul Sanasardo and Company at 1 p.m. Sunday in the Music Hall Center for the Performing

Recognized as one of today's leading exponents of modern dance, Sanasardo will be guest artist at Marygrove College through Aug. 6. He is director of the Paul Sanasardo Dance Company and often has performed as guest artist with the Pearl Lang Dance Company. The final conversation, 4:30 p.m. Aug. 15 in the club house on the Oakland University campus, will feature Lar Lubovitch, artistic director of the Lar Lubovitch Dance Company. Lubovitch, a choreographer, will be in residence at Oakland University Aug. 12-18.

Conversations is sponsored, in part, by the Detroit Bicentennial Commission.

man, Dorothy Rockburne, Robert Ryman and Cy Twombly.

ALL BUT ONE of the 15 artists work in New York City or California; 10 of them are exhibiting in Detroit for the first time. 'This summer exhibition will be a visual report on modern art and a challenge to all the senses as visitors encounter a provocative array of paintings, sculpture, drawings, environmental and information pieces-most of them conceived specifically for this exhibition," said Dr. John Hallmark Neff, curator of modern art.

Detroit has the distinction of being the first locale of the show; later it will travel to the Fort Worth (Texas) Art Museum.

"AMERICAN ARTISTS: A New Decade" was organized by Barbara Haskell, curator at the Whitney Museum of American ARt, for Fort Worth's guest curator program, which provides viewpoints on contemporary art other than those of the

In Detroit the exhibition was made possible by the support of the museum's Founders Society and a special grant from the Michigan Council for the Arts.

The exhibit will be open through Sept. 19 during regular museum hours, 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday, and 1-9 p.m. Fridays.

Detroit Film Theater will launch its sixth season on the big screen at the Detroit Institute of Arts auditorium July 30 through Aug. 1, adding regular Sunday attractions to its established Friday and Saturday evening schedule.

A total of 61 films from 11 countries will be screened in 35 mm prints through the end of the season Dec. 18.

DFT program director Elliot Wilhelm will open the season with Jean Renior's lost masterpiece, "La Chienne," at 7 and 9:30 p.m. July 30, Robert Altman's "Nashville" at 7 and 10 p.m. July 31, and Josef von Sternberg's "Shanghai Express" at 7 and 9:30 p.m. Aug. 1.

Friday evening screenings will continue the policy of showing new films or those which have had minimal commercial exposure in this area, including "Who's That Knocking at My Door," Martin Scorsese's first feature film, and the controversial "Grey Gardens," documentary of Edith Bouvier Beale and her daughter in their decaying East Hampton mansion.

Proven cinema masterpieces are on Saturday's schedule-among them "The Godfather," parts I and II, Luis Bunuel's "The Exterminating Angel" (Mexico, 1962) and Truffaut's "Stolen Kisses" (France, 1969).

DFT Sunday programming will bring "A Tribute to the Great Hollywood Camerman," eight new 35mm prints of Hollywood classics and 10 recent 35mm films from USSR never seen in Detroit before. For information on discount ticket books and season brochures, call 832-2730.

Ginger Rogers (above) will bring her show to Music Hall Center in Detroit on Nov. 16-21. The film star will appear with a company of singers and dancers as one of the attractions in the. Music Hall's theater series of five major productions. (Above right) Dance Theater of Harlem, coming Dec. 10-11, is on the weekend dance series of six companies. The world's first black classic ballet company is directed by former New York City Ballet star Arthur Mitchell. These are part of the 1976-77 season offerings for the nonprofit center's recently announced fourth season. Also scheduled are a Sunday "world" series of family oriented entertainment (five shows) and a "WIID World" international series of six events. Season ticket information is available at the box office, phone

Paray conducts with vitality

By PATRICIA BEACH SMITH

Thursday, July 29, 1976

The music for Thursday's (July 22) Meadow Brook Music Festival concert was well chosen. All of it needed a fulltime conductor - one who was on his toes to lead an orchestra that could respond to his direction.

The conductor who filled the bill was one of the Detroit area's favorites, Paul Paray. The orchestra, which in almost every case responded accordingly, was the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

The music was strictly gallic and full of rests, ritards and accelerandos. Paray, at a ripe 90 years of age, seems to be an ever-vital conductor despite the failing in his legs. His arms and expressions do not seem to belong to those legs which failed him slightly Thursday causing gasps from the audience.

From the playing of the emotional French national anthem through the Lalo, Berlioz, Bizet and Ravel, it was strictly a night for Francophiles.

PARAY CONDUCTED the Berlioz Overture to "Benvenuto Cellini" with great emotion. He took full advantage of every dramatic moment written into this music, although it proved to be far less interesting than the Chausson Symphony in B-flat which followed.

The first movement of the Chausson was sluggish, but pretty despite its repetitiousness. The second movement was more dramatic, but the third for this movement and it made the whole piece come together.

The rendering of the Lalo Overture to "Le Roi D'Ys" afforded the oboe and clarinet players a well deserved bow. Brian Schweickhardt, clarinet, played very sensitively and beautifully in this piece as did his fellow woodwind player, oboist Robert Sorton.

ITALO BABINI, the DSO's first cellist, also played well in a sumptuous Lalo cello solo.

The woodwinds again triumphed in the playing of the Bizet "Carmen" suite. Ervin Monroe, Paul Schaller and Donald Baker got a chance to really show off in this work. But overall the work was conducted too slowly.

One of the most eloquent pieces of music Ravel ever wrote is the Pavane for a dead infant and it was no less than that Thursday evening. However, the tempo was disastrously slow in the beginning, finally picking up toward the end.

The brass section appeared to be out of tune for part of the playing, too. The phrasing seemed less well defined than possible, but the effect was interesting in the end.

Paray's intention with this work was to keep it dramatic, so perhaps the slowness in the beginning only helped to make it more so when the tempo picked up.

It was clear from the audience's reception of Paray's conducting that he'll be a welcome guest on Detroit stages for as long as he wishes to conduct. An unsteady moment or two was not enough to quell the enthusiasm which is inherent in this man's musical soul.

BERRY APPLIANCE-YANKEES

Behind the strong pitching arm of Bill Bardwell, undefeated in seven Connie Mack League baseball decisions, Berry Appliance (Red) last week clipped the Yankees, 2-0, to win the championship of the circuit's National Division.

Bardwell scattered four hits, struck out 11 and did not walk a batter. Mike Greis, who hurled a fine game for the Yankees, was the loser. He allowed only five hits, walked two and fanned eight.

Berry scored both of its runs in the top of the sixth inning.

Dave Colley and Mark Galasso singled. Successive fielder's choice plays left Berry runners at second and third bases with two out. Dennis Slater then singled to center field to drive in the only runs of the con-

REDFORD ADRAY-GRIFFIN

Coming up with a pair of runs in the sixth inning-and not a moment too soon-Redford Adray last week tied Griffin Sport Shop, 5-5, in the final regularly-scheduled Adray League game for both teams.

The contest was terminated after six innings of play due to the league's 10:30 p.m. curfew stipulation. Griffin out-hit Adray, 10-6, but both team's had the same figure in what ultimately is the statistic that really counts-

Adray notched a single run in the third inning on a walk to Art Mezigian, a stolen base and a double by Randy Rodriguez. A single by Ted Ackerman, a three-base error and a single by Tedd Musto enabled Adray to puch two more runs across in the

Burger King drew first blood in the second inning when Jim McCaffery was safe on a fielding miscue, moved to second on a bunt single by Gary Beyrand and preceeded Beyrand across the plate on a double by Mike Tresik.

Burger King extended its lead to 3-0 in the top of the fifth. Tresik and Larry Clark singled. Jerry Pollard walked and Ken Robinson was hit by a pitch.

A couple of errors and a pair of extra base hits propelled Adray into a 4-3 advantage in its half of the fifth inning. Dennis Kuschel doubled and went to third when the Burger King outfielder mishandled the ball. Art Mezigian walked, then promptly pilfered second. Ted Ackerman was safe at first on an error which enabled both Kuschel and Mezigian to score. Randy Rodriguez walked and scored along with Ackerman on a double by Mike Donahue.

Adray added another run in the sixth inning on a single by Kuschel, a stolen base and a single by Mezigian. Adray almost cut its own throat in the seventh inning, allowing Mike Longeway. who had singled, to score on a pair of errors. Adray, though, managed to hang tight the rest of the way to send Burger King to the loser's bracket of the doubleelimination playoff.

From that point on, though, Griffin took charge of the proceedings.

A double by Rob Rose and singles by Dale Mason and Tom Schulz accounted for a pair of Griffin runs in the fourth inning. Larry Lipa hit an opposite-field triple to left center to ignite another two-run Griffin rally the very next inning. Gary Condon then walked and, on a suicide squeeze bunt by Russ Hodges, Lipa scored, Condon moved to second and Hodges was safe at first on an error.

Condon eventually came in when the Ann Arbor catcher threw the ball into center field on a double steal attempt.

A clutch pinch-hit home run by Jim Snyder after a walk to Jo Jo Scarpace knotted the score at six after six innings.

Griffin counted the winning run in the seventh when Rob Rose singled and went all the way to third when the ball scooted through the right fielder's legs. Rose scored on a single by Mason.

Warren Wallis, who pitched the final two innings for Griffin, picked up the victory. Bill Parson and Don Nalepka also saw action on the mound for the winners.

AS HAS BEEN the case for the past several years, there will be several outstanding classics on the western suburban area bowling front.

And if present plans materialize, there will be keen competition among the various establishments to boast the best of the circuits.

"We will be as strong as last year." George Bashara, proprietor of Wonderland Lanes , commented. " We will have four new teams and I still am on the lookout for several top flight bowlers.

" All of our top average men of last season, including Jerry Heilstedt, who topped the averageas with a 207 will be back. he continued. " so we will be able to hold up the prestige of the Classic. Over at Westland Bowl, where they departed from the Classic idea a year ago and concentrated on a senior house league, they are going back to the Classic format with the stringest lineups available. This is the circuit that bowls on Friday nights and has produced such outstanding stars as Ted Baketselos, Dick Beattie and a host of others.

AT BEL-AIRE LANES they are going to follow the lines of a year ago with three good circuits-the Classic, the Senior House and the Businessmen's League. These leagues have produced some of the best competition in the area.

At Garden Lanes, the story is the same. With the new pinsetters installed, the bowlers will have ideal conditions and the Classic again will be strong.

These classics all are the outgrowth of the old Detroit Times Classic that had its inception 40 years ago. At that time it was designed to build up spectator interest in the game and the league travelled to different houses each week.

With the passing of the Times, the Classic took on a different look, and soon had competition. It is now the Bonanza All-Star

THE NEW BOWLING YEAR starts on Sunday, Aug. 1

That's the day all new officers take their positions and the race opens for scoring honors. It also marks the beginning of a new membership drive.

Unlike other competitions, there will be no celebrations of the new year. The opening usually is celebrated with the John Gavie Sweepstakes that will be held later in the month.

WOMEN ARE more than holding their own in the Mixed Doubles All-Star League.

The latest example earne last Wednesday night when Jan Marcinlak, one of the younger of the female set, paced the entire circuit at Mt. Elliott Recreation with a 247 game. This was one pin higher than Dave Diomedi rolled on the men's side.

It was Fed Baketselos who turned in the high series of the night with a 600. The circuit has three more weeks to bowl and next Wednesday will be at Merri-Bowl in Livonia.

THE FIRST of the all-star leagues will hold its organizational meeting when the Ladies Major representatives gather at Luxury Lanes, their new home for the 1976-77 season

IN ORDER that the league secretaries can get off to a good start for the coming season, the Greater Detroit Bowling Association has scheduled five meetings throughout the metropolitan area to discuss rules and distribute all the literature needed for sanctions and high score applications.

THERE IS A great deal of unrest among many of the proprietors and bowling supply houses over the stock of "soft shell" balls still on their shelves.

Tom McKay, executive secretary of the Bowling Association and an ABC director. claims he doesn't expect too much trouble and that, perhaps, a new paper on the recent ruling will be distributed before the

Redford stars participate in tournament

An all-star contingent representing the best of Redford's Bronco Baseball League is in Joilet, Ill. this weekend to compete in the regional round of Boys' Baseball Inc. world championship.

Redford qualified for the second step of the title chase by sweeping its double elimination sectional bracket. Redford stopped Garden City Nationals, 7-2, and bested the Garden City Americans in two straight games, 6-4 and 5-0.

The winner of this weekend's four-team regional advances next week to divisional play at Lafayette, Ind. and from there, to the championship round in Pennsylvania.

A Redford Bronco team, consisting of boys 12 years of age, has advanced to outof-state tournament play every season since 1971.

In Thorobred League action night, Garden City West rapped Redford North, 9-2, to capture the metro championship and advance to a national regional bracket this weekend at Lincoln Ill. Boys 17-20 participate in the Thorobred

B&G, McNish top league foes

League-leading Brian & Gregory, surprised and defeated the previous week, turned things around last weekend and blasted Garden City Invitational Class A Baseball League rival Neal's Safety Sewer, 10-0. McNish-Dennehy also got back on the winning track by edging Mic Mac, 3-2. B & G pecked away at Neal's pitching for at least one run in every inning except the second to gradually build its command-

After the first two B & G batters were retired in the first frame. Bob Cross singled and Pat Lourdes followed with a fly ball which cleared the center field fence for a home run.

In the third inning, Cross hit a line shot over the left field fence to put B & G up by a 3-0 count. The fourth frame was the most productive of the contest for the winners. B & G totalled three runs on only

Mike Harrison started the rally with a single, stole second and moved to third on a wild pitch. Tony Datillio walked and stole second, then Jim Loughren drew a base on balls to load the bases.

Rick Yuskowatz singled to right to send Harrison home and walks to Jim Kaleniecki and Kev Coffman enabled Datillio and Loughren to score.

B & G added a single run in the fifth inning when Harrison walked, Datillio was safe on an error. Loughren forced Datillio at second and Gary Carmichael singled.

Following a walk to Lourdes in the sixth frame, Harrison homered to increase his team's advantage to 9-0. B & G continued its scoring parade through its last time at bat in the seventh inning.

Loughren safely reached first on a bunt single, advanced to second on a wild pitch and scored on a single by Carmichael Frank Hanson went the distance or the hill for B & G. He struck out 12, gave up only three hits and walked three. Neal's Stew Anderson was rapped for the loss The second contest-McNish-Dennehy's 3-2 win over Mic Mac-could probably best be described as a game of missed opportunities. The winners stranded 10 runners on base during the seven-inning affair, while Mic Mac was one worse.

Mike Kovachevich and Dan Davis combined to limit Mic Mac to one hit, a single by Dave Abdo in the fourth inning. However, seven walks and four McNish errors enabled Mic Mac to threaten time and Mic Mac dented the scoring column first with a run in the second inning without a hit. Mike Gregory was safe on an error, went to second and third on a couple of wild pitches and scored on a sacrifide fly off the bat of Abdo.

TcNish claimed the lead in the third stanza when Ken Sadek pounded a solo home run over the center field fence, Scott Ryder singled, stole second and came home on two passed balls.

A single by Dave Wojtanowski, a stolen base and an error in the fourth erabled what eventually proved to be the winning run to cross the plate.

Mic Mac counted its final run in the same inning when Pete Lazar was safe on an error, Abdo singled, Steve Norville was hit by a pitch and Phil Norville walked.

MIKE MORGAN

Morgan, a DRC jockey, to test his skills at rodeo

Jockey Mike Morgan first saw the Detroit Race Course and Livonia in 1973 when he was a 19-year-old apprentice. His experience that first day in town compared with a nightmare.

Kentucky owner D.E. Harris held young Morgan's contract at the time. Harris wanted to send a 10-horse contingent from his large stable to Detroit to race but he had no assistant trainers available to accompany the horses on the 400-mile van

Harris trusted Morgan to take charge of the shipment and the young rider dutifully boarded the van and headed for the Motor

Unfortunately, when the huge van pulled up to the Middlebelt Road gate at the DRC, a security guard informed the driver that no horses were allowed on the grounds for another week until preparations were made for the new meet. Morgan tells the story:

"Here I was, 19-years-old and in charge of 10 thoroughbreds with no place to put them and hardly any money in my pocket. I didn't panic. For some reason, I just walked across the street to Forest City. went into a phone booth and looked in the Yellow Pages for horse farms in the area.

"I found one not too far away, called the man and explained that I'd have to pay him later but that the horses' owner (Harris) was good for it and he let me bring that van load to his place and even found me a place to stay.

It's cool thinking like that which has made Morgan one of Detroit's better jockey's. He's extremely competitive on the racetrack as evidenced by his vigorous rid-

The team of Larson and Soave top the Ever 7 Golf League with 1401/2 points, while the pair of Murray and Mike Smykowski are close behind with 137 points. Murray leads the First Flight with 74 points, while Gregory is second with 701/2

Govt. agencies studying channelization

Two Federal agencies, often at odds over the controversial issue of stream channelization, have put their representatives to work to develop joint nationwide guidelines on that subject for their deci-

A drafting committee has been formed by the Interior Department's U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the Agriculture Department's Soil Conservation Service to arrive at a final set of rules by year's end if possible. Assisting the committee are the Environmental Protection Agency and the Council on Environmental Quality.

The group was formed as a result of issues which have developed between the two federal agencies which have competing interests in streams. The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is interested in keeping the modification of streams to a minimum because of the potential damage which may result to fish and wildlife habitat. The Soil Conservation Service uses stream modification as one method to reduce flood damages or to alleviate drainage problems on lands adjacent to streams.

Both agencies recognize the needs and concerns of the other, and they have signed a memorandum obligating themselves to attempt to resolve this issue. Further. they have set a tentative deadline for the end of the year to arrive at a final set of guidelines that can be used nationwide by both agencies.

The basic design of the guidelines will concentrate on the process of reaching a decision to change or not to change a stream channel. The guidelines will necessarily address more than the technical as-

Morgan, foolishly some say, will realize a boyhood dream. Morgan never thought of becoming a jockey . . . he wanted to be a rodeo cowboy.

Morgan will attempt to ride a bull and will also compete in the bareback bronc competition at the fourth annual Farm ington Founders Festival Rodeo sponsored by the Jaycees and sanctioned by the International Rodeo Association. The rodeo will be held at the southwest corner of Twelve Mile Road and Farmington Road. There also will be shows at 2 and 8 p.m. Saturday. "I went to my first rodeo when I was two-years-old and I've always wanted to do it." Morgan said.

"This is the first time I've been able to shrug off the hassles of owners and trainers and my agent telling the not to do it for fear of injury ... but I'll never hit the ground any harder than I did last Friday when that horse threw me in the middle of

At 110 pounds, Morgan will probably feel like a feather on the back of the 1,500 pound-bull, but maybe that will help him to be thrown that much farther away to safety from the naturally ornery animal. Saturday's (July 31) feature race at

DRC will present some of the top local sprinters in the $15,000 Free State Handicap to be contested at six furlongs.

The Canton Township Slow-Pitch Softball League will hold two all-star games this year, one for each division, with the games to be played Aug. 1.

On Sunday the "B" Division All-Stars will face division champion Little Caesar at 1 p.m. and at 2:30 p.m. "A" Division champs, McMurray Insurance, will meet the all-stars from that division. The games will be played at the field at Cherry Hill and Canton Center roads.

The following players were selected as all-stars by the players on their teams:

'A' DIVISION

'M' DIVISION

Roger Pollack, Rick Paulun. Clark Block; Dan Divito, Bob Ashton, Dearborn Fabricating; Bob Shaw, Doug Ryan, Star Furniture; Paul Hebel, Dan Krol, Deer Creek; Ron Stepek, Joe Shanabrook, Meijer's; Ken Wolfe, Jim Walsh, Kmart; Mary Holly, Brad Truax, Strock; and Larry Brown, Russ Scott, Good's Nursery. "Trophies will be awarded to each member of the all-star teams and patches to the championship teams at the games.

CANTON'S POST-SEASON tournament began with a bang last week as "A" and "B" teams faced each other for the first time this year. The tournament is a 12-feam, double elimination set-up, and, going into the second round, there are three "B" teams and only one "A" team remaining undefeated. The first night produced no surprises as Perlongo outclassed Latin Quarter 14-5. Plymouth Equipment struggled past lastplace Good's Nursery 12-8, Massey squeaked past Kmart 14-13, and Deer Creek beat Meijer's, 10-9. But upsets were the name of the game the following night, as Perlongo knocked off Smith Realty 7-6. Dearborn Fabricating beat Plymouth Equipment 19-18. Star Furniture edged Massey 10-9, and Deer Creek bombed Clark Block, 19-5.

PERLONGO jumbed ahead of Smith Realty 3-1 in the second and held on for a 7-6 victory. Jon Lash reached second on an error by Bufe at first, Doyle Gates singled to drive him in. Lynn Mida singled Gates home, and Robin Williams drove in Mida with a single.

Larry Lebo hit a solo homer in the third

In the seventh, Tom Yack, now known for his bat, hit a grand-slam homerun for Smith after Ron LaPorte, Greg Fryling and Findlayson each singled to load the bases. But the next two men made easy outs to preserve Perlongo's victory.

Star Furniture jumped in front of Massey 3-1 in the first on a solo homerun by Tom Davis, single by Doug Ryan, and tworun homer by Bob Slusarski.

It was a see-saw battle with the lead changing hands many times. Mike Hanlon hit a three-run homer in the fifth, but Star tied it in the bottom half when Slusarski singled in Bill Warren, who had singled.

Star went ahead 10-7 in the seventh, and it looked like Massey would catch them in the bottom half when Sandy Black reached base on an error, and Mark DeRoche drove him in with a homerun to make it 10-9. But that was all Massey could manage as they now move to the losers'

Dearborn Fabricating and Plymouth Equipment had a real see-saw battle. Plymouth banged out six runs on only five hits in the bottom of the sixth to go ahead 16-11, but Fab picked up eight more in the seventh to make it 19-16, and held on for Sluggers for Fab included Bob Ashton with four safeties, including two doubles. Dan Divito with two homers, Bill Nelkin and Joe Perko with one homerun apiece. Pete Curvin had four singles for the losers.

Deer Creek had an easy time with Clark Block, 19-5, as Clark hadn't recovered from their 34-3 slaughter meted out by Little Caesar two nights earlier. Paul Hebel and Kevin Shaw each homered for Deer Creek.

Deer Creek, Dearborn Fab., Star Furniture and Perlongo remain undefeated and will battle it out in the winners' bracket this week. But the losers' bracket may produce the winner of it all with teams like Smith Realty, Massey and Plymouth Equipment. The final game is slated for 6:15 p.m. Friday, July 30.

THE REGULAR SEASON ended with Little Caesar dominating Clark Block, 34-3, to capture the Division B title with a 12-4

The victory also gives Little Caesar a berth in the Inter-City Tournment in Allen Park on Aug. 23.

Mobil Lounge and Moeller finished in a tie for first place in the Canton Women's Slow Pitch League last week with Mobil winning the playoff game, 12-6. The playoff began Tuesday night in the rain and Moeller appeared to have an easy victory, leading 10-2 in the fourth inning when the rains came harder and washed out the game. The next evening Moeller came out stong again in the first with five runs, highlighted by a two-run homer by Brenda Pollack.

But Mobil picked up one in the second. with a single by Donna Ramsey and double by Kathy Hibler. Then in the fourth. Mobil struck with five runs to tie

Township form better - Frank

Most residents seem be believe that the township form of government is better for Plymouth Township, reports Nathan Frank Jr., a candidate for Plymouth Township Board of Trustees.

"As I campaigned door to door the last few months, I talked to several hundred homeowners and voters. I found that most homeowners and voters are proud in live in Plymouth Township and have no real complaints about the township.

"They want to stay as a township and they even feel the taxes are much better than in some other communities. A lot of people are concerned about the police protection and asked what they could do to decide if we need a new police department or should we stay with the Wayne County Sheriff Department. Most seem very happy with the job the sheriff is doing, but are concerned about what will happen if the sheriff department cancels out its coverage with the township and what will be the cost for a new police department,'

"Many of the people are concerned about the friction between the school board and township board on who is to pay for crossing guards. They feel they pay a lot of taxes and their children should be protected. They don't care who pays for the crossing guards, but feel the school board should meet at once with the affected governments, make a final decision at once on a policy, and stick with it."

Residents are satisfied with the fire department, Frank added, but don't want large apartment buildings and industrial buildings to go up. "I found most residents to be quite like me and my family-homeowners with large mortgage payments, a car payment, job with security, lots of bills, but living better than ever."

Frank, 32, is married with a three-yearold child, served four years in the U.S. Army, and has been a Wayne County Sheriff deputy for the past five years. He graduated from Garden City High and attended Ferris State College. He is a member of Our Lady of Good Counsel parish, Knights of Columbus, Plymouth Elks and has lived in Plymouth Township eight years.

TOWNSHIP OF PLYMOUTH ANNUAL REPORT APRIL 1, 1975 to MARCH 31, 1976

To The Plymouth Township Board Plymouth, Michigan

We have examined the accompanying balance sheets of the various funds of the Township of Plymouth as of March 31, 1976, and the related statements of fund balance and revenues and expenditures for the year then ended. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures, including those prescribed by the State Treasurer, as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion the financial statements mentioned above present fairly the financial position of the various funds of the Township of Plymouth as of March 31, 1976, and the results of their operations for the year then ended in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles applied on a basis consistent with that of

The accompanying report does not include the operation of the Plymouth Township Water and Sewer Fund which has a fiscal year ending March 31. The accounting records of this enterprise are kept entirely separate from other Township records. A separate audit is conducted of this Fund.

The financial statements referred to in the foregoing opinion are identified in the contents of this report. Our examination was made primarily for the purpose of rendering an opinion on these basic financial statements, taken as a whole. The supplementary financial data identified in the contents, although not considered necessary for a fair presentation of financial position and results of operations, are presented primarily for supplemental analysis purposes. This additional information has been subjected to the audit procedures applied in the examination of the basic financial statements and, in our opinion, is fairly stated in all material respects in relation to the basic financial statements taken as a whole.

Our report of comments and recommendations dated June 2, 1976, has been submitted under separate cover.

Respectfully. POST, SMYTHE, LUTZ and ZIEL Certified Public Accountants

OVER DEALER COST!

THE LONG ... AND ... THE SHORT

If you've got a big load on your mind, get a load of what Toyota's got for you. More small trucks to choose from with more power and more standard equipment than anybody in the business.

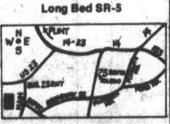

Take our 'k Ton. It's our lowest priced. Yet you still get a big 22 liter engine, 4 speed syncromests, power disc front brakes with 9 int, booster, radiator with reserve tank and cargot ite-down hooks. Not to mention things like whitewalls.

aror with _eserve tark and cargo tie-down hooks. Not to mention things like whitewalls, mudguards and power-boosted flow-thru ventilation. All standard. For bigger loads, our Long Bed gives you almost a foot and a half longer cargo space, a longer wheelbase and bigger gas tank. And if you're a sportsman, we've got two sporting propositions, our SR-5 Spert Trucks. Choose either '4-ton or long bed and you get gasaving, engine-saving 5-speed overdrive fransmission, AM radio, wide gradiats, high back bucket seats, racing stripse and a lot of other extras. All standard equipment no charge. More, it's getting an outfit that fits your needs, outfitted the way you want for outfitted the way you want
