Police appointments approved by board

By RICHARD GOLD

It was standing room only at township meeting hall Tuesday as the Canton Township Board of Trustees voted 4-3 to approve 26 appointments to the hotly contested township reserve police force

In essence, the vote established the controversial force, despite approval in November 1975 of an ordinance providing for their creation.

The vote came in the wake of an emotional meeting a week ago Wednesday in which the appointments were effectively tabled when proponents of the reserve force were unable to muster a majority.

Trustee Jerry Cheske was "unavoidably absent" at that meeting but his presence Tuesday insured victory for Supervisor Robert Greenstein's forces, who have so actively supported establishment of the reserves

AS ON WEDNESDAY, it was a block of three trustees. Bob Myers, Jim Poole and Brian Schwall voting no.

Greenstein was joined by Treasurer Carl Parsell, Cheske and Clerk John Flodin in approving the appointments.

The vote followed almost two hours of citizen debate, with most residents talking in favor of the reserves and citing rising crime as a critical problem in the township.

Spokespersons for several subdivisions said the reserves were desperately needed.

Bob Miller, a Greenstein appointment to the planning commission and his wife spoke strongly in favor the reserves.

Miller said their visibility might prevent the burglaries and vandalism prevalent in the northwest sector of the township.

Tom Carman, Fellows Creek spokesman, said his subdivision, which has recently been plagued by vandalism, could no long er continue its own citizens patrol because of the lack of back up support without the reserves.

Others spoke of the long response time of the sheriff, complaining of a 45-minute

While the vote insures there will be a reserve force at least until November, it is unclear when the reserves will begin their nightly duties.

A bid for liability insurance was approved by the board at an annual cost of about $2,700, but until the policy is paid for, the reserves will not be allowed to begin work.

"I'm ready to go," said a smiling Carl Silvers, commander of the force, "I've had the schedules ready for two weeks now."

"THIS NEVER SHOULD have been a political issue." Greenstein said, "and whoever takes over this office in November is free to do what they want with the reserves. But now let's allow them to go on the street, be useful, and do a sincere and worthwhile job. Give them a chance to prove themselves."

Greenstein agreed with one audience member, unsuccessful trustee candidate Noel Culbert, who said Canton needed a full time force of its own.

He suggested the board attempt a millage drive on the next ballot.

Greenstein agreed a fulltime force was needed and admitted the reserves were an interim measure.

But he said the board was bound by the will of the people.

"Twice 1½ mills was defeated by the voters and until the residents of this township are willing to pay for a fulltime force we should try for the next best thing.

"This is only a stop gap measure, but the people have spoken and we have to listen. The reserves are not a fulltime force, but they are better than nothing."

Cheske said the board had to make a choice between a millage effort for a second fire station and a police force, "and we felt the fire station was the first priority."

MYERS, IN voting no listed 11 reasons against the reserves as presently constituted, citing economic reasons, lack of political safeguards, and the fact that it "was against the will of the people."

Poole said he saw a potential conflict of interest with the supervisor serving as police chief.

He said the reserves had gone from a traffic control device to a fully authorized police force. He applauded the dedication of the reserves, but said he had searched his conscience and couldn't vote for them.

Timbario signed letter, investigation continues

By RICHARD GOLD

Planning commissioner Tom Timbario laid to rest any questions about who signed a letter distributed late in the primary campaign alleging that Supervisor Robert Greenstein referred to mobile home owners as "trailer trash."

On Tuesday night, a tight lipped Timbario issued the press a seven-point statement explaining why he signed the letter and how he had become disenchanted with Greenstein.

Timbario, a former supporter of Greenstein, was appointed to the planning commission at Greenstein's request.

Despite Timbario's admission of signature, the Wayne County Prosecutors office is investigating the incident, alleged by Greenstein to be one of many dirty tricks used against him in his unsuccessful campaign for re-election.

Greenstein, who said after Timbario admitted signing the letter that "nothing surprises me about this campaign," had earlier maintained the letter was fraudulent and forged.

He went Monday to the prosecutor's office seeking an investigation into the matter. He said the letter was "a pack of lies" and constituted an unlawful act, because it improperly influenced the Aug. 3 election.

Greenstein said while the letter was not forged—in light of Timbario's statement,—it was still illegal because it was "completely untrue."

For reasons unclear at press time, the State Police, Plymouth Subpost were investigating the matter, although they had not been asked to by the prosecutor's office or the state elections committee.

A spokesman said Wednesday they had dropped the matter and that it had been turned over in full to the prosecutor's office

IN HIS TWO page statement, Timbario said Greenstein had pressured him to sign an affadavit "indicating I did not sign the letter.
"I refused to sign his affadavit spite of his attempt to intimidate and pressure, because it would not have been truthful.

Timbario reiterated his statement that the letter was "true and factual."

'Earlier, he had refused to say whether or not he signed the letter although commenting he had nothing to do with its distribution.

Trustee Robert Myers admitted he was behind the distribution of the letter and added that he had personally paid for dupli-

In his final volley. Timbario charged that Greenstein failed to "keep complete openness" in his administration.

"Bob Greenstein believes what he does is right, and takes whatever steps are necessary to implement those beliefs." Timbario said. "I hope that this experience proves to be a lesson for all who are elected in the future. If this is the real world of politics, then the public deserves to know about it."

Greenstein said everything in Timbario's statement was "absolutely false" and he intended to continue his efforts to get criminal charges filed in the letter incident.

The status quo of the Centennial Educational Park's (CEP) physical education requirements was supported Monday night when school board members failed to muster a quorum of votes needed to carry two resolutions regarding the CEP's secondyear gym requirements.

purpose township-owned vehicles.

Defeated was a motion by Trustee Marcia Borowski to eliminate the second-year physical education requirement as well as a motion by Treasurer Richard Arlen to refer the matter to the district's Curriculum Coordinating Committee (CCC).

With board President Joe Gray, Secretary Flossie Tonda and Trustee George Lawton absent from Monday's meeting, the remaining four board members needed a unanimous vote to take action on the proposed elimination of the second-year re-

THE LACK OF four votes also stymied payment of the bills, when trustees Marcia Borowski and Tom Yack cast "no" votes. The trustees objected to the administration's failure to answer Mrs. Borowski's questions on two of the bills.

The physical education issue was placed on Monday's agenda at the request of Mrs. Borowski who favors shaving the CEP's gym requirements from two to one year in light of a possible millage defeat in September and a reduced, 5½-hour day at the CEP.

Mrs. Borowski, arguing that the CCC

Supervisor Robert Greenstein demonstrates how the new magnetic signs will be used on dual-will not meet until September to discuss the CEP's physical education requirements, cast the one fatal, dissenting vote against Arlen's motion to refer the matter to the CCC.

"We have cut out all physical education requirements for elementary kids without referring to the CCC," said Mrs. Borowski, referring to one of the board's recent budget cuts. "We're now moaning and groaning over this.

"If physical education is so important, it's just as important for elementary kids—probably more so. I just think you're becoming illogical.

"If students are going to be limited to five hours at the park," she continued, "I only hope physical education will just be required for one year."

BUT KENT BUIKEMA, principal of Plymouth Canton High School, told board members he favors continuation of the two-year gym requirement. Elimination of the second-year requirement at this time, he added, would create enormous rescheduling problems. "We have done considerable work in the physical education curriculum to involve students in life-time sports and prepare students for the greater amount of leisure time they will encounter," Buikema said.

"We feel the two-year requirement is a minimal requirement rather than a burdensome-type of requirement."

According to school Supt. John M. Hoben, a four-year physical education requirement once influenced high school schedules in the Plymouth School District. The requirements were later reduced to three years and then to two.

Currently, students must take physical education courses in ninth grade and an additional one year of gym in their sophomore, junior or senior year.

ALTHOUGH ARLEN supported Mrs. Borowski's motion to eliminate the secondyear physical education requirement at the CEP, he moved to amend Mrs. Borowski's motion to implement the change during the CEP's second semester rather than the start of the school year.

With no support of Arlen's amended motion, board members voted 3-1 against Mrs. Borowski's motion and took no action on the physical education matter. In other board action, Mrs. Borowski and Yack vetoed payment of the bills.

On Monday afternoon, Mrs. Borowski had requested the administration explain two bills—a rent payment for the CASTLES building and a uniform bill for the band's Rifle Squad.

But when the answers were not forthcoming at Monday night's board meeting, Mrs. Borowski 'cast her vote against payment of the bills.

"I have questions on two items that aren't answered," she said, "so none of the bills will be paid."

Correction

In the Monday, Aug. 9 edition of the Canton Observer & Eccentric, Harold Stein, Democratic candidate for township supervisor, was quoted as saying if elected he would disarm the reserve and take away their uniforms.

Stein said he will disarm the reserve, but he said he will not take away their uniforms.

Communicators wanted

Persons interested in becoming a link between their neighborhoods and the Plymouth Community School system are being welcomed by school administrators.

The school officials are looking for "school communicators" to help the twoway flow of information about schools in the district.

Each week, Superintendent John M. Hoben. Deputy Superintendent Earl Hogan, and Florence Beier, Adminstrative Assistant for Community Relations are sharing a sandwich lunch with the school communicators.

A different group of about eight school communicators have an informal discussion with the administrators every Thursday,

School communicators are encouraged to contact the school administration directly with questions. An informal network is being set up for a communication channel in addition to the traditional systems, such as meetings, newspapers and newsletters.

When problems arise in the community, school communicators can alert the school administration to the need for responses or action.

The school staff has already suggested the names of some school communicators. Anyone who would like to be part of the school communicator network or would like to suggest someone for it, may contact Florence Beier, at the Plymouth Community School District administration building, 454 S. Harvey, in the City of Plymouth.

Election day means hard work at precincts

THE STREET OF THE PROPERTY OF

Running for office may take its toll on active candidates, but there's another group of people for whom elections mean work-and plenty of it.

They are the precinct workers and on election days, like Aug. 3, they put in long hours at the polls. Election day starts early, at 6:30 a.m., and if everything goes smoothly, some 15 hours later around 10 p.m. after tabulating the vote, they can expect to go home.

During those 15 hours, pollworkers are instructed not to leave the polling placeand that means either a brown-bagged lunch, or a sprint by family members to the local burger palace for a cheese bur-

WOMEN WHO staffed the polls at Canton's Precinct No. 3 said their main task voters face once they pull the curtains "The most common problem was that a lot of voters didn't realize they couldn't split the ticket in the primary election, Kathleen Byrd explained.

"When they found out they couldn't cross party lines, some people became very disturbed. They wanted to know why and 'Who made up that rule?' We politely explained that those where the rules concerning primary elections. You get your chance to split your ticket in November."

Another common problem was the fact that many people in Canton vote in one place for school elections and another in township elections. That caused confusion and resentment from many voters, according to poll workers. The staff at the nine precincts were equipped with a map which outlined precinct boundaries.

"But I think some people who went to the wrong place got disgusted or didn't have time and just went home," Mrs. Byrd said.

The workers at Precinct 3 said courtesy was their main concern.

"IF SOMEONE has a problem, it's important not to treat them like they're some kind of jerk for asking a question," said Mrs. Jean Sheppard.

"For many of the people, this was the irst time they'd voted in Canton Township and the first time they'd used that type of voting machine. I remember how scared I was the first time I voted. So we've done our job if we can put them at ease."

While many of the poll workers have strong personal views about the candidates and issues, Mrs. Byrd says the polling place is no place to express them-regardless of good intentions.

"When we are in that polling area we are not to express an opinion, even among ourselves, regarding politics," Mrs. Byrd

"The same thing applies to school elections. I remember one year I was working at the polls and the precinct chairman said to the poll workers that everyone should be voting in favor of the millage. "I was so angry that she expressed her opinion in a polling area," Mrs. Byrd said.

ONE OF THE reasons the poll workers signed up for election work is that they believe voting is important.

"I talked to some people and asked them if they voted and they said they never found time for it," explained Mrs. Byrd. "Then, when someone gets in office who they don't like, who's to blame?" Mrs. Sheppard said there is no better exis important than the June 14 defeat of the school millage by one vote. Aside from civic responsibility. Mrs. Sheppard admitted that "the extra money ample of the fact that each person's vote comes in handy. "The pay I received from working at the polls last Tuesday paid for the food for a family get-together for my daughter's birthday," she said, laughing.

"It was done in jest, as comic relief after he said he wanted to move his mobile home next door to me. There's was nothing malicious about it, it was a joke. But I never called mobile home owners trailer 'trash'.

He added, "It was just another one of the lies and filth that has been spread in this campaign and it was a complete misrepresentation.

Myers said the statement in the letter' was completely true and that he had fired Greenstein from his position as attorney for the mobile home owners in 1970 because "he wanted the people to come to him instead of him going to the people."

Company to leave

The Anchor Coupling Co. Inc. that has been doing business in Plymouth area for the past 60 years, is considering closing the plant on Amelia Street in the Plymouth and moving to a location with more suitable facilities.

The decision was announced by James Elgin, general manager of the plant, who stated that the move is expected to be made within the next month or so.

The possibility of relocating, according to Elgin, is attributed to various factors that make the present facility inadequate for the company's growing operations. Engaged in the production of hose assemblies for the automobile industry, the company has approximately 300 employees. Most of the employees are residents of Plymouth or the surrounding areas.

The proposed move already has been made known to the employees and union representatives. Meetings with the union are scheduled to

The Stroller

Carnival tricks nothing new

By W.W. EDGAR

A sure sign that we were entering the fall season and the time when the county fairs become the most popular of all events came the other day when State Attorney General Frank Kelley announced in the public prints that he was considering investgating the games that appear on the midways of these annual functions when the farmers and the agricultural leaders hold sway

He said he wanted to find out if the games were conducted honestly-whether there was a good reason why the ball didn't stay in the basket when you threw it. And he wants to know if the wheels at the baby doll stands are controlled by the man at the counter.

Well, take it from a fellow who knows. the man running the baby doll booth knows who is going to win. And the man with the bushel basket can make the ball pop out-anytime he wants to save one of the prizes on display.

Reading about the attorney general's plans reminded The Stroller of the day he was 'educated' in the intricacies of the 'con' games when he innocently accepted an offer to work for one of the "pitch" men at the Lehigh County Fair back

TO HELP out a neighbor who owned and operated a food concession, The Stroller, a mere youth, was serving a sauerkraut dinner to a man from one of the concessions.

"How would you like to come over and work with me?" he asked. "You can do it along with your job here-and I'll pay you one dollar a day.

It sounded interesting, especially when he told me that he had the baby doll stand and all I had to do was come in and play when he called me.

"All I want you to do," he said, "is to drop by when you are answering a call from Mother Nature and you are on the way to get relief.

'You stand in the back of the crowd at the stand until you hear me shout, 'Please come in and try it for a dime.' Then you come in and play. When you win I'll give you the choice of the doll or a dollar. You take the dollar. That will be yours."

That sounded simple and more so when five other 'pitch' men extended the same invitation. The Stroller still remembers the thrill of earning six dollars a trip just walking to the comfort station.

Then came the first trip. Standing at the rear of the gathering at the stand he finally heard the plea, "Please come in and try it for a dime." Heeding the call he worked his way to the counter where he placed a dime on a number and waited for the wheel to spin.

ANXIOUSLY, The Stroller placed his dime on a number. Sure enough, when the wheel stopped it was on his number. A great cheer went up when the gathering saw "the kid" win. Given the choice of the doll or the dollar he followed instructions and took the dollar that was pushed to him along with his original dime.

By the time he had returned to the sauerkraut stand, The Stroller had made six stops and had "earned" six dollars. He had visions of making a lot of money-just imagine six dollars every time he heeded Nature's call. But what an education he got later in the

At the first stop he waited again for the " Please come in and try it for a plea dime." This time when he placed his dime on a number he didn't win. "Try it again," the 'con' man said. So, he placed another dime on another number-and lost. That's the way it went until he got to his 10th dime With the last dime of the original dollar the 'con' man smiled.

This time the wheel stopped at the chosen number and the young helper walked away with a dollar.

Can you imagine that, he thought, that fellow at the counter must control that wheel. He must know where it will stop.

Or he can stop it where he wishes. His education became complete when he experienced the same treatment at the other five stations.

IT WAS QUITE an experience for a young fellow, but he learned that all is not gold that glitters. And he learned that the games are just a "come on" to the farm-

So, Mr. Kelley, you don't have to go very far in your planned investigation. Just walk along the midway at the fair where the games are being played, and wait for the 'pitch' man to plea, "Come in and try it for a dime.

Then watch what happens. Maybe you will learn the lesson just as The Stroller did a half century ago.

Vitamin C helps fish

Scientists have known for yuear that fish use vitamin C. for proper bone growth and to increase their tolerance to invironemental stresses. Yet they never knew exactly how this occurred. Now they do, and the discovery may help biologists in combating the efffects of pollution on fish, the Department of the Interior an-

Biologists at the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service's Fish Pesticide Laboratory in Columbia, Mo., first learned of the mechanism while studying catfish that were affected by the insecticide toxaphene. This pesticide is widely used on cotton crops in the South where channel catfish are also commercially raised. About six years ago biolgists notices that the channel catish grown on fish farms in that area were developing a curvature of the spine that, in extreme cases, broke the fish's back and stunted growth as much as one-third. Last year, Fish and Wildlife scientists linked this syndrome to toxaphene residues in the water.Concentrations as low as 37 parts per trillion in the water were found to have serious long-term effects on catfish. Earlier this year, they documented for the first time the specific role vitamin C plays in this process, and the implications of fish in the wild, the discovery of its importance in fish metabolism has been quite beneficial to the multi-million dollar fish farming business of the South, where up to five per cent of pond-cultured catfish showed the symptom. Vitamin C is now included in many commercially prepared fish foods, and its inclusion in the diet of farmed catfish is helping to eliminate the

However, the discovery of vitamin C's importance in fish metabolism is equally beneficial to biologists studying the chronic effects of pollutants. ### State to aid the innocent

Innocent victims of crime who have uncompensated medical bills, lost wages or earning power will be entitled to be repaid by the state up to $15,000.

A new state law will allow victims of crimes occuring on for after Oct. 1, 1977 to submit claims to the state for review.

"The victims of crime-often the poor and the elderly-are, in a sense, persons who have been denied protection of the law." said Gov. William Milliken when signing the law. "This progressive new law is designed to aid those citizens most in need of the state's assistance. It could help restore citizen faith in government and I sincerely hope it will encourage citizens to report crime and cooperate more fully with the police and law enforcement

The law creates a commission to review claims from victims or survivors. A threemember Crimes Victims Compensation Board will be appointed by the governor. subject to senate confirmation. The board will hold hearings on claims, direct medical examinations and make awards for the true costs of eligible losses. Board decisions may be appealed to the court of appeals. No total award may exceed $15,000 for any case.

Officials estimate the program will cost the state about $1.5 million in the first year of operation.

Nancy Dickerson, prominent national correspondent, reports for Detroit Edison:

"Here are some air-conditioning tips that will keep you from getting hot under the collar this summer."

Detroit Edison is a concerned participant in America's crusade for conservation. The wise use of energy plays one of the most important roles in that effort. But it requires a working partnership between those who supply energy and those who use it. Here are some ways you can help conserve energy and save yourself some money the rest of this summer.

You can dial up and hold your costs down.

Don't overcool your home. That's a wasteful use of energy. And expensive. For the most comfort and the most efficiency, set your thermostat no lower than about 10 degrees below the outside temperature. If it's 85 degrees outside, then set your thermostat at about 75 degrees. Otherwise your air conditioner has to work extra hard and your costs go up and up. In a typical house, you can save about 5 percent in operating costs for every degree you move the thermostat up. So, if your house is going to be empty for a few hours, move your thermostat up 5 more degrees and pocket the savings.

Staying comfortable this summer can be a breeze.

When the sun beats down, the heat in your attic builds up and it can be like living under an oven. An attic exhaust fan will get the hot air out and let the cooler night air in, and take the strain off your air conditioner. Good attic insulation works wonders at keeping your home cooler in summer and it will pay off again by saving on heating costs next winter. And don't forget lightcolored shingles reflect heat. Whatever you do to keep heat out of your house saves money in air conditioning. Window fans work, too.

Shades of the past.

Before you had air conditioning, there were things you did to keep comfortable, like pulling down the window shades and closing the draperies on the sunny side of the house. That's smart. Because a bare window lets in as much as 35 times more heat than an insulated wall.

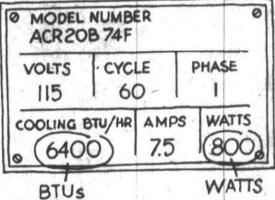

So do the same now and you can reduce your air-conditioning costs by as much as 12 percent. Shade your windows from the outside with ventilated awnings or trees and save even more-up to 22 percent of your air-conditioning operating costs.

Maintain your cool.

If you want your air conditioner to take good care of you, keep it clean. This means changing or washing the air filters often. Also, vacuum the inside coils and keep outside coils free of debris. Clean registers and return ducts regularly on central air-conditioning systems, and keep the cooling drain open for free condensate flow. And don't block air flow with furniture or draperies. Your owner's manual lists other maintenance tips. Follow them and keep cool all summer.

Buying a new air conditioner? Maybe the most important numbers aren't on the price tag.

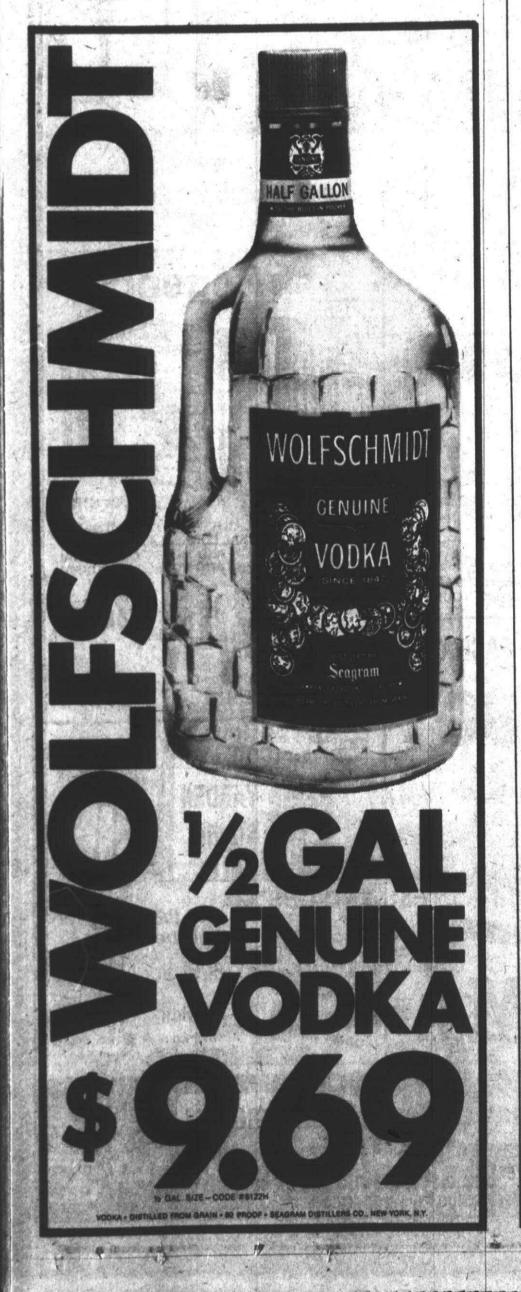

First of all, it's important that you get the right size unit (BTU's). Your salesman can help on this if you tell him the length and width of the area you want to cool. Another number that's important is the EER number. This stands for Energy Efficiency Rating.

You can figure this out yourself. Just divide the BTU number by the number of watts. For example, a unit that delivers 6400 BTU's with 800 watts has an EER rating of 8. (800 goes into 6400 8 times.) The recommended EER number for any air conditioner is 8 or more. You may pay a little more, but you'll save on energy costs in the long run.

Detroit Edison has a folder, "How to stretch your air-conditioning operating dollar." Pick one up at any customer office and start saving, or write to: Customer Relations, Detroit Edison 2000 Second, Detroit, Michigan 48226

Save energy for all it's worth. THE POWER IS IN YOUR HANDS.

By ELMER E. WHITE

You're getting older. Your sight isn't as good as it used to be. You can't get around too well. You'd like more than anything to spend the rest of your life in your own home. But you can't make it by yourself.

An institution may be the solution. But must it be?

State Senate Majority Leader William Fitzgerald (D-Detroit) and others think there are alternatives.

"Upwards of 25 per cent of those in nursing homes right now do not need that kind of care." Fitzgerald said in a speech before the Michigan Hopsital Association.

"And if you ask the elderly they will more often than not say they want to stay . in their homes. Day care nurses are one answer.

"There is a need," Fitzgerald said. "to expand the availability of home health care and other less expensive alternatives to institutional long-term care by expanding Medicaid reimbursement options."

Such action could cut the Medicaid budget while it also helps older folks who don't want to be institutionalized.

Fitzgerald pointed out that the five per cent of Medicaid recipients in nursing homes account for almost one-third of the program budget. And, he said, "the size of the elderly population in this state is expected to increase by at least one-third in the next 20 years.

CONCERN GROWS in some state government circles over the proposed constitutional amendment to cap the amount of taxes Michigan can levy on its citizens.

Supporters of the amendment-in effect. a spending limitation aimed at forcing lawmakers to reorder priorities and keep a tighter rein on the state pursestrings-recently turned in petition signatures to put the question on the November ballot.

And opponents fear that a sufficient number of valid signatures could be disastrous.

Chances are, some say, that if the question is on the ballot, it will pass. Taxpayers United, the group behind the petition drive, wants to write into the Constitution a limit on the amoung of money lawmakers can work with each yer-8.3 per cent of the personal income of Michigan reported for the previous fiscal year or the average of personal income of Michigan for the previous five calendar years, whichever is greater.

Such a system. supporters say, would give taxpayers a handle on spending and help ease the constant increase in taxes.

The state of the s

But those against the limitation warn of complicated fiscal problems that would result from the 8.3 per cent lid. What about years when the state needs more money to take care of serious, unexpected problems? What about the talked-of proprety tax reduction ideas? How would that be affected by a tax and spending cap?

Don't tie the hands that handle the money, opponents seem to say.

They may have a hard time convincing the taxpayers who themselves live on limited funds.

And it certainly won't help when some amendment backers start reminding voters about the payhike-deserved or not-that legislative leaders have mentioned in recent weeks.

ADDING 40 more birds to the total population doesn't seem like much. But when it's Kirtland's warblers you're counting. that's a different story.

Michigan-the summer nesting ground of the endangered bird-reports the latest beak count at 199 nesting pairs, 20 pairs more than last summer's estimate.

This upturn may not seem very significant at a glance, but we are encouraged by it." says John Byelich, a wildlife biologist with the department of natural resources. "In face of the fact there are less than 400 of these birds left in the world. every one of them counts preciously in our efforts to save this species.'

The Kirtland's warbler winters in the Bahamas, then moves to northern lower Michigan for the summer.

Nesting grounds, in area posted against trespassing through Aug. 15, can be found in Crawford, Oscoda, Roscommon, Ogemaw. Kalkaska and Wexford counties.

Medical aide training set

A new osteopathic medical assistant inservice training program will be offered at Schoolcraft College beginning Sept. 12. A series of nine courses, it will run on Sundays through May 15, 1977.

Cosponsored by Schoolcraft and the Michigan Osteopathic Medical Assistants' Association (MOMAA), the series can be used to earn up to 18 units toward MOMAA certification. Two MOMAA units will be awarded for each of the nine eight-hour courses scheduled.

To qualify for MOMAA certification, medical assistans must be employed by an osteopathic physician or hospital, be a member of the association, accumulate 50 units, complete its certification examination and accumulate 25 additional units nually after certification. Pre-registration for each session is essential since enrollment is limited. MOMAA members pay $20 per session, and nonmembers pay $25. Fees include luncheon, morning and afternoon coffee and program materials. Pre-registration information and materials will be available monthly prior to each scheduled program.

Requests for registration and programming information should be directed to Barbara Gruenwald, 28101 Kendallwood Drive, Farmington-Hills, or telephone 476-

Dillon heard testimony from several persons who allegedly witnessed the shooting incident; one of them was the victim's mother, Mrs. June Janes.

CANTON OKS RESERVES

By the slimmest of margins, 4-3, the Canton Township Board of Trustees established a reserve police force Tuesday. The rerserve force had been one of the hottest issues in the township during the primary campaign, as candidates argued the merits and pitfalls of the force. Supporters of the force were defeated in the primary. The reserves will take to the street as soon as liability insurance is paid.

Politicians' best-laid plans upset by voters

An extraordinarily unusual thing happened at the polls Aug. 3 when no one was paying much at-

Wayne County voters nominated a man to countywide office who hadn't first been appointed to the office and who hadn't been groomed for it by the previous officeholder. What's more, he hadn't even been endorsed by the AFL-CIO.

Raymond J. Wojtowicz, a one-time mayor of Hamtramck, was nominated for county treasurer on the Democratic ticket. For a candidate to come from nowhere, figuratively, and beat the machine is an extreme rarity.

WOJTOWICZ, whoever he is and whatever his other qualifications, defeated Clark G. Finley of Plymouth.

Finley had been deputy to the late Louis Funk, who as you recall pulled a fast one a couple of weeks before his death. Funk filed for re-election; so did deputy Finley, which seemed strange because a deputy rarely runs against his boss. At the last moment, Funk withdrew. Later he died.

The effect of Funk's maneuverings was to set up his deputy to succeed him, and it almost worked. Finley presented, on paper, as good a set of credentials as one could hope for. He is, at the moment and for the next few months, the man running the treasurer's office.

Enter Raymond J. Wojtowicz, hardly a household word and even less likely to become one. Despite Finley's near-incumbency status, and despite the labor federation's endorsement of Finley, Wojtowicz beat him in the Democratic primary.

THE USUAL PATTERN is for a Wayne County officeholder to die or resign, to have his deputy take over, and to have the deputy win election next time out.

The last three or four sheriffs have come in through appointment; ditto with the registers of deed (the current incumbent got the job when his 72-year-old father resigned in the middle of a four-year term); ditto with clerks and prosecutors and drain commissioners.

Until the entry of Raymond J Wojtowicz on the county scenel no relative outsider had got a countywide job other than through the appointment route in many, many years. And so the Aug. 3 primary for Wayne County treasurer qualifies as an extraordinarily unusual thing.

THE REAL QUESTION, however, is why the ballot needs to be cluttered with such posts as county treasurer, county clerk, county drain commissioner, county prosecutor, county sheriff and especially county auditors.

Essentially these are persons who don't make laws or policies or rules. They simply carry out legal duties.

Most voters can't name three-fourths of their countywide officholders, let alone tell you anything about them. Even less do the voters have a method of telling whether those officeholders are doing a good job under the circumstances.

But let anyone suggest this array of 19th century elective posts be eliminated and replaced by (say) a county executive or manager-or better yet, a home rule charter-and the county officeholders are first in line, sometimes howling publicly, sometimes maneuvering behind the scenes, to put a stop to such reforms.

The whole system of electing county administrators is a gigantic farce. It ought to be abolish-

Candidates, issues, media failed to arouse the voters

Last week's primary election is now history. The winners have grinned in their victories, the losers have frowned in defeat, and the air is full of the sounds of the political pundits noisily sucking their prognosticating thumbs.

The big story of the election is not who won and who lost, but rather with the voters themselves, It all reminds me of the old radio commercial for Pepsodent: I wonder where the voters went. Voter turnout was not merely light; it floated into the sky, lighter than air.

Statewide, unofficially less than one-quarter of the registered voters bothered to go to the polls, a record low for an August primary election.

THINGS WERE little better in these suburbs. Only 19 per cent of the registered voters in Avon Township turned out, leading Clerk Thelma Spencer to say, "I can't remember when a turn-out has been this poor."

Farmington Hills registered a 19.5 per cent turnout (versus 42.7 per cent for the May primary), while the City of Farmington weighed in with 26 per cent (versus 49.2 per cent in May); both figures were the worst in history for both cities.

Livonia voters, despite the presence on the ticket of home towner Marvin Stempien in the 2d District congressional race, only turned out at a 22 per cent clip, fully 10 points under City Clerk Addison Bacon's prediction. Garden City (18 per cent), Southfield (27 per cent), and the City of Plymouth (25 per cent) also contributed uninspiring voter performance.

NOT SURPRISINGLY voter turnout was highest in those suburbs where a hot contest seized the minds of the people.

In Canton Township, where incumbent Supervisor Robert Greenstein lost his primary bid to Howard Stein in a hotly (and dirtily) contested campaign, voters turned out at a 35 per cent clip.

Politics in Redford Township, always volatile, produced a big race over the township clerk office. Incumbent Ruth Sullivan survived bitter attacks from challengers Earl Patchett and Louise Laurila. Voters responded with a 32 per cent turn-

Plymouth Township has a new favorite for supervisor, local Realtor Tom Notebaert; the race drew out 37 per cent of the registered voters.

IN LIGHT of these generally poor voter participation figures, lots of weighty generalizations are being thrown out as explanations. Watergate. Suspicion of government generally. Alienation of the electorate.

The Detroit daily newspapers called it a dull campaign, conveniently forgetting that it was their own coverage that made it that way. The local television stations went the same way. On the other hand, most candidates I talked to said they were having a terrible time getting news

by PHILIP H. POWER

Where it all ends up, I suspect, is that a lot of people did stay at home because they saw no reason to go out and vote. In some cases, campaigns were dull because the issue was never in doubt; in other cases, candidates failed to get their issues across to the voters; in some cases, the media did a poor job.

But where the campaigns were alive and where the issues were salient, the voters turned out. This is the way it always has been, and I suspect this is the way things are likely to be in the fu-

American democracy is not dead in these suburbs; it's there, just as it always has been. All it needs is good candidates, debating the issues frankly, with adequate coverage from the media.

I just hope all three elements will perform bet-

WE HAVE SOME GOOD NEWS AND SOME BAD NEWS... THIS IS THE BAD NEWS:

Zoo news: More trash, but suburban groups help

There are a couple of things new at the Detroit Zoological Park, which, as every one knows, isn't in Detroit at all but two miles north in Oakland

One is that the litter explosion has hit the beloved zoo. Some say the zoo's maintenance has gone to pot, but I'm more inclined to think it's part of the trend toward trashing that has infected public facilities everywhere in the past

The management has placed no-littering signs everywhere, but the situation is deteriorating. Although the ostrich is a dumb-looking bird, it was pathetic to see one try to shed the Styrofoam coffee cup it had stuck its beak through.

The monkeys are smarter and ignore the corn chips and junk foods people toss them.

THE OTHER new thing is the overwhelming numbers of suburban schools and groups which are "adopting" animals by raising the cost of feeding them for a year.

Not all the persons making contributions are identified by community, but where identifications are possible, it seems that suburban groups are lining up to support the zoo by a margin of 7-1 compared to Detroiters.

Bloomfield Hills Junior High and Gallimore school of Plymouth have adopted giraffes. Botsford school of the Clarenceville district, the WHW Club of Inkster and groups from Huntington Woods, Utica and Richmond have adopted aoudad Redford Union High School is supporting Jim-Jim the Gorilla; Channel 7 in Southfield has adopted another gorilla.

Detroit Diesel Engineering-which everyone knows is in Redford Township, not Detroit-and the Dearborn Holiday Inn are the food supplies for monkeys.

Llamas have been adopted by Volney Smith school of Redford Towrship, Franklin school of Birmingham, Plymouth Cao Pack 860 and such non-metropolitan groups as Pinckney High, Owosso High and Brownie Troop 151 of Saline.

Oh, there were Detroit organizations represented-Lingeman school for a crane, Region 7 Middle School for a bushbuck, Greenfield Park Elementary for Jo Mendi II and Roosevelt school

Tim Richard

BUT THE OVERWHELMING impression was that it was groups and businesses from all oversoutheast Michigan, and not Detroit groups and businesses, that were kicking in funds to help feed and preserve the animals.

Our auto licenses are issued at random, so it's impossible now to do a random plate survey to see where zoo patrons hail from.

An enlightened but unfortunately unaggressive group called Regional Citizens did a member survey on the institutions of southeast Michigan which should be considered for some kind of regional or state funding. The zoo came in second only to the Institute of Arts and ahead of the historical museums, the Detroit Symphony, Channel 56, the Science Center, Belle Isle, the Freedom Festival and suchlike.

The zoo's official history, "The First Fifty Years," published in 1974, gave this breakdown of revenues: Refectory (food stand) sales, 38 per cent; admissions, 12 per cent; taxes (no break. down), 28 per cent; parking, the railroad and miscellaneous fees, 22 per cent.

IT'S PRETTY CLEAR suburbanites and outstaters are being smeared with a burn rap when certain politicians profess to see a "hate-Detroit" attitude here.

And it's also clear suburbanites endorse, at least implicitly, the notion that they have a responsibility to help support the zoo. For even when they're paying to feed animals, suburbanites are easing the pressure on Detroit's city budget and enabling the city to divert money into wages, which make up 68 per cent of the zoo's

Now if only Detroit abandon its vicious policy of hiring "residents only" . . .

How local folks saw Chappaquiddick

Last weekend, while we were sailing in the east, we were fogbound for a day on Martha's Vineyard. With nothing else to do, we decided to take the short, one-mile hike from the Edgartown ferry to that famous bridge on Chappaquiddick.

The short, one-mile hike is in fact more like three miles. And the bridge is not easy to find. But there were a couple of things about the physical characteristics of the place that helped us understand better what had happened.

It is not really possible for a person to mistake the ferry road for the bridge road, as has been claimed. If you are driving along the ferry road, which is paved and banked, in order to get on the bridge road, which is not paved, you have to make almost a U-turn.

ON THE OTHER HAND, it is very easy, once you are on the bridge road, to miss the bridge and drive off the road.

The bridge road is two lanes wide, and the bridge itself is only a single-lane, plank bridge set at an angle, so even a sober driver in broad daylight would have trouble negotiating it. There are no guardrails, so that anyone coming from the bridge at any rate of speed could end up in the drink.

What was more interesting were the comments of the natives of Chappaquiddick Island. They have their own theory about what happened on that fateful night of the Edgartown Regatta.

They claim that Teddy Kennedy was driving down the road with a girl. Later, another woman's purse was found in the car.

THEY SURMISE that Mary Jo Kopechne had fallen asleep in the back seat of the car, and neither Teddy nor the lady with him was aware of her presence. They also surmise that when his car left the road and hit the water, he did, in fact, get his companion out of the car and the two walked back two miles to the cottage where their party had been going on.

Within 50 yards of the scene of the accident, there is a cottage which, that night, had its lights on. The local people feel that no human being-no matter how ambitious for further public office-would walk away from a situation where a person could be dying and bypass the opportunity to get They then surmise that the whole group attending the party realized Mary Jo was missing and they went, en masse, back to the scene to see if she was in the submerged car. When they were either unable to find her or get her out, they went their separate ways, not know ing what was in store for them the next morning.

This is much more logical because the story, as told over and over again by the people involved makes the senator from Massachusetts appear to be a cold-blooded, ambitious and callous individ-

PEOPLE SAY that if the events of Chappaquiddick were to happen today, the echoes of Watergate would force complete disclosure.

There are certainly elements of coverup by the local district attorney and the friends of Teday

Kennedy. But besides the loss of the life of a young woman, a tragedy of Chappaquiddick is that if someone in public office had been willing to tell the truth, in time the public would probably have forgiven him.

The fact that he used the influence of his office and of his family's name actually blew the situation out of proportion, damaging him far more than the actual events indicated he deserved.

However, Chappaquiddick has not hurt Teddy Kennedy in Massachusetts. He will probably be re-elected to office this fall with the biggest majority he has ever had.

One day, she looked in the mirror and realized that she had changed from the pretty young woman she once was to a middle-aged frump with a contaut Hown. Scowl wrinkles deepi, suched in her face made her look much older than her 45 years, and she suddenly felt that her life was hardly worth living.

Instead of realizing that she had done these things to herself, and taking steps to begin changing them, Leslie blamed her husband's first wife. She felt this ex-wife had cast a spell on her years ago to keep her from ever being happy and to make her sick, old and ugly.

Americak's juvenile corrections facilities are clogged with kids who can't get along with their parents-who skipped school, broke curfew or ran away from home.

More than one-third of the 1,837 youth in correctional programs sampled by the National Assessment of Juvenile Corrections (NAJC) were "status offenders," including nearly one-third of those in closed institutions. Many are confined side-by-side with youth who have committed arson, assault or armed robbery. A status offense is one that would not be considered a crime if committed by an adult.,

For girls, who typically commit the less serious offenses, the percentage is even greater, according to University of Michigan social work Prof. Robert D. Vinter, co-director of the U-M-based study.

"In addition, minority youth-especially blacks-are assigned to correctional programs far out of proportion to their numbers in the general population. Minority persons and females are underrepresented however." he added, "among administrators and program staff."

The latest NAJC report, "Time Out." A National Study of Juvenile Correctional Programs." edited by Vinter with Theodore M. Newcomb and Rhea K. Kish, outlines the disparities in programs and policies within and among the states. Newcomb is U-M professor emeritus of sociology and psychology, and Kish is NAJC administrative associate.

THE NAJC PROJECT, begun in 1971 under a grant from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration of the U.S. Department of Justice, is the first comprehensive collection of national data on juvenile correctional programs.

Analyzing a wide range of institutions, group homes and non-residential treatment centers, the current report focuses on the youth, the staff, and their view of the existing programs.

'The typical NAJC youth is likely to be a male, non-white, about 16 years of age and lower class," the authors stated. "He is no angel-he readily admits to drinking. using drugs and skipping school, but neither is he a hardened criminal.

"He has probably committed a minor property crime, (although if female, it was likely a status offense). Male or female, the typical youth in the study has had considerable prior contact with the juvenile justice system.

THE U-M RESEARCHERS found little similarity among the youth grouped in a specific program, however. In most cases they varied in age, race, and the nature of

"The institutions, considered the most severe corrections alternative contained the largest proportion of serious offenders, the NAJC found. "But nearly a third of their populations were status offenderspersons whose conduct would not be considered a crime if committed by an adult

"On the other hand, we were encouraged to find persons with serious offense histories being successfully handled by the more open and flexible group homes and day treatment centers, without any marked concerns about misconduct or maintenance of order. While the NAJC was not charged to evaluate the programs it surveyed, it evinces a strong preference for group home and day treatment alternatives. Highly structured. isolated and costly to operate, the institutions tend to exert more control overtheir charges, the U-M researchers found. Three-fourths of the institutions sampled has a discipline unit or access to one, compared with only one-third of the group homes or day treatment centers.

THE STAFF MEMBERS NAJC interviewed in each of the three types of programs were very similar: they tended to be in their early 30's, with 75 per cent white, and 60 per cent male. About half have a college degree and more than five years of experience with children. Institutional staff range among the oldest. less educated and most experienced in the Different staff groups placed different emphasis on such objectives as "having a close relationship with the youth," providing remedial education" and "maintaining discipline." But staff and executives of all programs ranked "treatment" above "custody." "community interaction" and other objectives as their preferred goal.

Some 1,300 institutional youth were also questioned in the study, and their responses offered some striking comparisons be-'tween "newcomers" who had entered the program within the past four months and "veterans" who had been confined a year

The percentage reporting offenses such as fighting, stealing or hitting a staff member increased steadily with the length of stay in the institution. Only 20 per cent of the newcomers, but 46 per cent of the veterans, say that since their arrival they have learned "many ways" to break the law. "Being a veteran in a predominately veteran program is the most detrimental combination of circumstances," the NAJC concluded. "The more 'hardened' a youth becomes after entering, the longer he or she is likely to stay. Our data suggest that the cause of this vicious circle is not the facility or, its staff, but the youths' influence upon one another."

THESE FINDINGS further support the NAJC's call for the removal of status offenders from juvenile institutions. In face, the U-M researchers strongly urged "major cutbacks in the numbers and sizes of closed institutions in almost every state.

Fourteen-year-old Lori Lahnala and 19year-old Sherry Joy Michalski walked away from the "Model of the Year" pageant with titles, trophies, new crowns and a host of prizes.

Lori, one of the youngest in the competition, took the title in the junior pageant, facing 25 others in the 14-17 age division. The young miss will be entering the ninth grade in Garden City's Burger Junior High School next fall.

Sherry Joy, of 11449 Aspen, in Plymouth, won over 68 other contenders in the senior division before a capacity crowd in Southfield's Raleigh House this week.

The pageant, now in its sixth year, is sponsored by Louise Burns Wright, Tops 'N' Talent Agency and Pamela Roberts. It is open to all girls, with or without modeling experience, and regardless of marit-

Master of ceremonies for the event was WXYZ's Jack McCarthy while a panel of 12 judges tallied up the girls' scores.

Lori won a scholarship to the Barbizon School of Modeling, which she is sure she is going to use, and a scholarship to the Michigan School of Beauty she's not too sure about, "because I'm not really into that."

She will have a composite of pictures taken of her by Tom McKenny. She owns a new watch, perfume, cosmetics, will have her hair done by Leon of Grosse Pointe, and is waiting for a new wardrobe from

Dittos, "now that they have my size."

THE YOUNG MISS already holds a diploma from the National Modeling Agency, in Huntington Woods, and has done fashion modeling in the Detroit area through Gail and Rice agency.

A great deal of her on-stage experience she credits to her mother, Rose, who is president of the Suburban Chorale, based in Clarenceville.

"It's fun to get up on a stage and do something. If they (the chorale) needed someone for a young role, I was it. I sang someone for a young role, I was it. I sang with them and I helped backstage," the petite blond said.

She's been studying dance, ballet, tap and Hawaiian, since the age of five, and hopes to be a photographer's model and do

SHERRY JOY, with brown hair, blue eyes and a size seven figure, answered a very definite 'yes' when asked if she would use her $700 scholarship to the Mannequin School of Modeling.

The 1975 graduate of Plymouth Canton High School took home a new fox fur fling, a year's membership to Vic Tanny Health Spa, and a batch of gift certificates. She will also be given a composite of her pictures from Tom McKenney.

She's spent the last year attending the Continental Dancing School in Dearborn, teaching belly dancing for the Plymouth and Wayne Parks and Recreation Departments, modeling odd jobs, and working part time at a Bill Knapps restaurant.

One of her most recent modeling jobs was for the Dearborn Historical Museum. "They have some beautiful antique dresses there," she explained, "but they were falling apart from age. I was asked to pose in them for pictures before they completely disintegrated."

Susan Taranowski, a Westland contender, divised her own costume and wrote a commercial on how to avoid rough, dry hands.

Gundella doesn't find ghosts in graveyards

By TIM RICHARD

"Detroit's just as spooky as London or New Orleans," said Gundella the witch, who has a love affair with the metropolitan area.

There's a connection: What makes ghosts is people. And what makes metropolitan Detroit fascinating is people, said the witch from Garden City.

Gundella makes her case in her new book, "The Werewolf of Grosse Pointe and Other Stories," which is scheduled to be in bookstores any day. "Werewolf" ($1.95 in paperback, Earsight Productions, 120 pages) contains 25 stories and myths, all of a nature at least slightly spooky.

ONE STORY takes place in a church yard in Farmington. It was related to Gundella by a local resident because it actually happened to him. That story first appeared in her column in Observer & Eccentic.

"Some go back to Indian legends, like the snake goddess of Belle Isle," said Gundella, bubbling.

"Another is the Red Dwarf-Nain Rouge," she said. "The most recent sighting of the dwarf was March 1 of this year by a Detroit Edison lineman."

Other stories occur at Peche Isle in the Detroit River, the Sister Islands in Lake Erie, the site of the Renaissance Center in downtown Detroit, L'Anse Creuse (now St. Clair Shores). Mount Clemens, Lincoln Park, the Rosedale Park section of northwest Detroit, Ann Arbor, Ypsilanti and River Rouse.

River Rouge.

The characters range from Indians to modern artists. French ribbon farmers to just plain homeowners.

THEY DON'T occur in graveyards.

"That's the least likely place to find a ghost." Gundella said, eyes glowing. "If I ghost haunts, it's because he wants to communicate, and who's it going to communicate with in a graveyard."

"If anyone sees a ghost and it isn't a fig-ment of their imagination, it's because the ghost wants to communicate or doesn't know it's dead."

"Werewolf" is Gundella's first book of this sort, although in her 22 years as a school teacher, she has written children's books and teacher manuals.

Sociologist Marcello Truzzi, Eastern

Michigan University specialist in the study of witchcraft, wrote the book's introduction. He calls it "an important contribution to regional and urban folklore."

"THE WAY I happened to write the book." Gundella said, "is that I've always been interested in folklore. The story about idols at the Renaissance Center—that was in my history book in third grade in Tawas."

Roman Babiak, head of Earsight Productions, once suggested that Gundella lead a ghost tour of New Orleans and lamented it was too bad there couldn't be such a tour of the Detroit area.

of the Detroit area.

"I said I could write a book!" Gundella responded. "He said, 'Do it,' and I had it done in two months."

She had collected the material over the years. Some tales were from letters in response to her columns; others were scattered in history books; others she had learned from interviewing the elderly in the days when she was a social worker.

WHAT MAKES the Detroit area a tremendous place for ghost stories, she said, is not only the people but the rivers and lakes. "Many of these stories occur on' the banks of the river. The Detroit River is a transportation link with the world. It's also a link with the spirit world." Her hands rolled through the air like fog.

With such assets. Detroit is in the same ballpark with London and New Orleans as a scene for ghost stories.

Her love affair with Detroit—Gundella uses the name loosely to designate the tricounty metropolitan area—began on her high school senior trip to the city at the age of 16.

In 1948, she arrived here as a fledgling teacher in the downriver area and, except for one spell of a few months, has lived in the area ever since.

Her love of writing and ability to handle the English language date back to when she was a 35-cents-an-hour "printer's devil" (you should pardon the jargon of the trade) for a little old lady who owned the Iosco County weekly paper.

"And I admired an English teacher at Central Michigan University. He sang folk songs and got an idea for a folk song story tour." Gundella said.

went on. "I'd like to do one on the ghosts of Michigan."

That won't be a two-months project, however, because it will mean some story col-

"IF THIS BOOK is successful," she lecting from scratch.

Gundella has one suggestion for reading her book:

"Read it not just to yourself but aloud at their own stories.

"Pretty soon you'll find the person you least expect will come up with the most

YW takes clubs to communities

Many women go to the YWCA for assorted activities and social occasions. But for some this presents problems, so more and more the YWCA is going to the women.

It's that kind of service that Melinda Finger, a program director for the YW of Western Wayne County, is making a top priority this summer.

She is ready to organize women's clubs in where women have less mobilityplaces like apartment complexes where there are many young mothers and convalescent homes where you find a number of older women.

"We're trying to get to isolated women," Mrs. Finger said. "We would like to see the YW program brought into their activity area and tailored to fit their needs."

Such clubs, she said, could be geared to whatever most interests the members. One, organized last year in the Willow Creek Apartments in Westland, has, as members, a number of young mothers. and craft projects and speakers on homemaking and child-rearing are the mainstay their programs, Mrs. Finger said. Another, the Emmaus Club, meets in a

Even Personal Membrane Itching

Now you can get fast, long-lasting relief from the tortures of itching, chafing, rashes, dry skin eczema, even embarrassing membrane itch (vaginal and rectal) with LANACANE Medicated Creme. Any itch causes scratching, causes more itching. That's the misery of what Doctors recognize as the "itch-scratch-itch cycle." LANACANE works because it breaks this cycle... relieves itching fast, quiets the urge to scratch, checks bacteria growth, speeds healing. Soothing, greaseless.

And now Lanacane brings you new Lanacane Spray — specially medicated to relieve skin in pain due to sunburn, itching, everyday cuts and scrapes. Brings prompt, temporary relief without stinging even on irritated surface tissue. Helps prevent infection as it promotes healing. Amazing Lanacane — Famous Creme, New Spray.

Plymouth woman knows car parts

By LORAINE McCLISH

A young woman who says she was "driving something with a motor and four wheels since the time I was 6" is now one of the few female car parts managers in Michigan. She works for Bob Saks Olds handling a $200,000 monthly inventory.

Nancy Smith, who grew up in the country north of Battle Creek, marks the beginnings of her career at 17 when she couldn't get a job after high school graduation.

She was offered a free course in foreign car repair and took it to "fill up the time." That led to her first job as a car mechanic. That was in 1966, before the advent of "The Feminine Mystique," Women's liberation and NOW.

"It took a lot of nerve for him (the owner) to give me that chance. The same kind of daring it must have taken for Mr. Saks when he moved me from assistant manager to manager," she said.

Of her boss, she says, "He's a good guy to work for. He lets the managers man-

INTERIM JOBS found her driving courtesy cars, working as a service writer, working as a pit mechanic and singing in a rock and roll band.

Mrs. Smith earned her living for two years as a singer, which she refers to as "a competitive art form and not the most secure business in the world."

Bringing four people together to render a creative offering is a far cry from bringing many times that many together to render a specific service, she explained.

She has hired the majority of her own crew of seven who work out of the Farmington dealer's lot on Grand River.
"My crew is young, but they perform and that's all that counts." she said.

Her young crew and Saks' daring apparantly paid off because last February Mrs.

Smith was named manager of the month stemming from a high in sales of $91,000.

about $30,000 higher than could be expected for a February.

HER FEELINGS about this is that she is selling a service, and parts are but a by-product of that service. She followed up this feeling by rattling off a string of instances where members of her crew would be sent to as far away as Howell or Lansing in order to give one-day service.

"If a part is tying up a car for someone, we'll do it. We do it constantly. We're going to be her next year and for years after that. It doesn't make much sense not to do a good job for our customers," she

She suspects she works an average of 11 hours a day, often takes work home with her "but that is necessary to do the job. It comes with the territory," she says.

The service she renders, she believes, goes hand in hand with that of the service mechanic, whom she calls a trained technician.

"We don't have a heavy turnover at all of the men who service the cars and they are constantly being sent out to the GM Tech Center just to keep up. A tune-up used to be a simple operation, but cars are getting so complicated now, all part of our complicated society. I guess. Basic inventory is just not what it used to be," she said.

"A dealership just keeps playing catchup with supply and demand and it seems everybody wants all the goodies they can load onto a car. Selling a basic car is practically unheard of. Most of the cars sold here are sold fully loaded and that means more switches and nuts and bolts for me."

Keeping all of the switches and nuts and bolts in their proper place comes easy for her because "I like things in order. I like things to be where they're supposed to be," she said.

English Synod sets up shop in Livonia

By MARGARET MILLER

The new English Synod, a Lutheran organization that may eventually include many congregations across the country that have found themselves in conflict with the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, curently is a home in Livonia.

The building housing the denomination is the former parsonage next door to Faith Lutheran Church, 30000 Five Mile.

And when the Rev. Harold Hecht and his secretary moved in last month, deserting their former headquarters at 23001 Grand River in Detroit, it marked one more step in the long dispute over doctrine that has rocked the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod in recent years.

A final step, said Mr. Hecht, who had just come from a convention at River Forest. Ill., in which the English District of the synod had voted to begin dissolution of its ties with the parent organization and revert to the independent synod status it had known before 1911.

"I feel the battling is over and we can get on with our work," he said in the vacated parsonage that will house the splitoff organization for now.

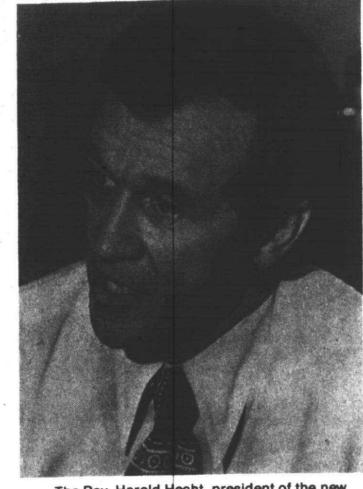

"Now." he added. "it becomes the great concern of every congregation to come to grips with the issue and decided on its future affiliation.

THE MOVE TO LIVONIA, he said, came at the invitation of the board of trustees of Faith Church, one of three Livonia congregations that had moved earlier this year to leave the Michigan district of the LCMS and affiliate with the more liberal English district.

The parsonage was available because Faith's associate pastor was leaving. The invitation, said Mr. Hecht, "made me feel God really provides.

"I had gone to the convention knowing I would have to resign," explained the clergyman. He had been president and executive officer of the English district but was removed from office April 2 in a dispute over ordinations.

"I really didn't know where the office was going to go. The vote to seek independent status was 296 to 75, and electing to stay with the Missouri Synod were one vice-president and one member of the board of directors, so the district is contin-

"Other are taking over in our office in Detroit, but we can begin the work of the new synod from here.

THE FIRST STEP, said Mr. Hecht, who for the present is serving without salary . will be determining which of the 227 Lutheran congregations that had comprised the English District will become part of the new English Synod. "Some will not," Mr. Hecht said, "either through inertia or because they prefer the more conservative doctrine that has dominated the Missouri Synod under its current president, Dr. J. A. O. Preus.

"But delegates from three congregations indicated at the time of the convention they had made the decision to separate ho matter what happened at that meeting. and we expect many more will' do the same.'

The Rev. Roger Schleef, pastor of Faith in Livonia, said his congregation would meet early in the fall to make a decision on its future affiliation.

"We had a strong majority when we voted to affiliate with the English District, and our board voted unanimously to rent the parsonage to the English Synod," he said, "so that may well be indicative of the feeling at Faith."

FOLLOWING the convention, Mr. Hecht said, a booklet was prepared by the English Synod, outlining the reasons for the decision to leave the Missouri Synod and the steps for congregations to follow in involving themselves with the new group. This booklet is now being distributed, he

It explains reasons for the action of convention, going into the dispute that has involved the firing of a president of Concordia College in St. Louis, Mo., because he was accused of approving the teaching of false doctrine, and the subsequent formation of a Seminary in Exile, or Semi-

It was the matter of ordaining graduates of Seminex that led to the removal from office of Mr. Hecht and several other district presidents

Also included in the book is a history of the group of churches that in 1911 was known as the English Synod, different from Missouri Synod churches in that they used the English language rather than Ger-

These churches tended to have a somewhat more liberal view from a doctinal standpoint, even after becoming part of the Missouri Synod 75 years ago.

It was this difference that made the synod a central part of the doctrinary dispute that began after Preus took office. and in the last couple of years it has received a number of congregations formerly in geographical districts, including three in Livonia-Faith, Holy Trinity and

THE DISPUTE in the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod is a doctrinary one, Mr. Hecht said

"I've heard the comment that we are Bible-doubters and that the dispute is over such matters as whether one should believe literally that Jonah lived inside that whale," he said

"I've never known a Bible-doubter. There would not be a split over a small matter like the story of Jonah.

"The point worth splitting over is our belief that the word of God is supreme. The Bible needs interpretation and the individual must find his own understanding of the

"We cannot accept limiting interpretation and understanding with Dr. Preus' 'Statement of Scriptural and Confessional Principles' and directives from the Missouri Synod.

He pointed to a paragraph in the new English Synod book listing as one of the reasons for separation the fact that "the theology of 'A Statement of Scriptural and Confessional Principles' continues to dominate the Missouri Synod."

The book states that the statement "is non-Lutheran and borders on non-Christian because it established criteria other than faith in Christ for salvation-dangerously close to suggesting that faith in the Bible is essential for salvation."

MR. HECHT said the new synod probably will stay in the Detroit area, where he owns a home, and will concentrate membership development in the Great Lakes area and Canada, while also welcoming English District congregations from all over the country and congregations from the Michigan and other geographical districts.

"An important part of our program," he added, "will be seeking to be in fellowship with other Lutheran churches, those in the American Lutheran Church and the Lutheran Church in America.

'We'll have a convention later this year and, unlike recent Missouri Synod conventions, it will be a joyful one. There will be a small amount of business and then celebration. We have a lot to celebrate."

Family life is changing

Maintaining the "Biblical" family in an age when such a unit is becoming a "defunct institution" in America can be one way of preventing further erosion of American society, says a Michigan State University professor.

"We're at a crossroads in America." curriculum research specialist Ted Ward feels. "U.S. political events have demonstrated our potential for becoming a nation of slippery values, and we can keep slipping or recognize the alternatives of Biblical values.

The professor of education explained that a Biblical family, valued by Christians, consists of parents who regard marriage as a lifelong bond and who regard children as a responsibility not a nuisance.

"Research has suggested that this kind of unit plays a vital part in teaching moral values." he noted. "The family is the building block of society, and even one family can make a difference. I see no effective substitute for the family as the center of moral development for the child."

DR. WARD OBSERVED that American secular society is moving more toward

"fluid marriages" not expected to last a lifetime with less parental responsibility for childrearing.

"Our society is providing more and more elaborate ways to make the schools responsible for providing for children's health and nutrition, determining what kind of learning is vital and defining their goals and values." he said.

When the schools take over responsibilities that were formerly family responsibilities, it's unlikely the family will resume them again." he added.

SC board ups tax levy

Taxpayers in the Schoolcraft College District will be paying an additional 0.36 mill tax despite voter defeat of a 0.53 mill levy on June 14.

The college's board of trustees June 28 unanimously passed a resolution levying the additional tax which will mean that property owners will pay $2.13 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation instead of the

The board was able to levy the additional millage without voter approval because of the Michigan Community College Act of 1966, which allows colleges to levy taxes in excess of any limit or voted authorization if necessay to pay debt service on bonds.

Trustee Archibald Vallier, who has opposed the move since it was first discussed by the board in April, was absent when the vote was taken

One summer, on one of what he called his "vacation stunts." Evans and Austin Bernent, head of a Detroit advertising agency, drove a car over Carroll Summit, Nevada, where the grade was so steep, the wheels of the auto had to be locked and the car slid down the hill.

It was more than a lark. The Lincoln Highway, which Evans was promoting, later followed the same route westward.

In the summer of 1924, again with Bement, Evans took off on the first automobile trip ever made from Winnipeg, Manitoba, to Victoria, B.C.

No trick today, of course, but in 1924, there was no highway to drive over.

AT ONE POINT, they could go no further because of a 1,000 foot gorge along the Frazier River Canyon. A single track of the Canadian National Railroad passed along the edge of the canyon through 19 tunnels and over 15 tressels.

Evans drove the auto through all of the tunnels and over all of the tressels. Before he did, however, he commissioned a blacksmith to transfer steel-flanged wheels from a railroad hand car to his automoestablishing a new record. Wells cabled the newspapers at each step of the flight and later wrote a book about the exploit. Not much in the way of literature,

"Around the World in Twenty Eight Days" received mixed reviews. The critic for the New York Times said it was " a thrilling book, and the feat it describes was of no little consequence." The Herald Tribune book critic, less charitably, called it "a very journalistic account of a publicity stunt." The book is primarily of interest because it shows the hardships Evans was willing to endure in his quest for adventure and to demonstrate an idea-in this case his faith in the airplane as a reliable carrier.

CROSSING THE Atlantic on the Acquitania, Evans and Wells flew over Europe and Asia in open cockpit planes even more primitive than the one made immortal by another Detroiter, Charles Lindbergh, who made his non-stop flight over the Atlantic in the following spring.

Their shivers in the open plane were partly from the cold and partly from fear that they might not find their destination during night flights, which were unusual in

The Russians even drained the gas tanks and took soundings to determine whether there was any contraband aboard.

Before the 2,000-mile flight from Moscow to Omsk, they had to abandon their parachutes to reduce weight in the plane. In the subsequent flight over the Ural

Sutherland reflects on youth

DON SUTHERLAND

By W.W. EDGAR

Standing at the intersection of Ann Arbor Road and Main Street, Don Sutherland, the Plymouth CPA, pointed to the area now occupied by Daly's Restaurant and said: "Would you believe that I once cut asparagus on that corner?"

No one loves to stroll down Memory Lane more than Don, a Plymouth High graduate who remained in his home town to make good. So he was in a good mood when he racalled the days of his youth on .

STRANGELY, HIS building and his CPA office is now only a spit and a holler (as the farmers say) from the farm land he he helped work until young manhood.

"I was only four years old when my dad bought the 90 acres back in 1909 and I was his helper through the years until we finally went into the business of having a greenhouse and flowers. In fact, at one time I was in partnership with my dad in the greenhouse, but it is the farm that I like to recall on these trips down Memory Lane.

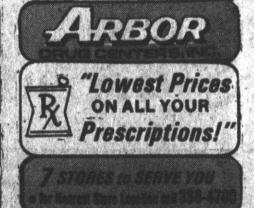

As Don tells the story his father used the 90 acres as a truck farm, raising all sorts of vegetables, but specializing in cabbage, tomatoes, asparagus and sugar

"Our home and barn were located just about where the National Bank of Detroit "Dad used to farm until late in October.

Then, for the winter months he would take a job at Daisy Air Rifle, working for CJ. Hamilton: He did this, as he often said, to keep food on the table.'

All the while Don worked the farm, and he proudly tells you that at one time they had about 15 cows. So, it was quite a

"With all the land available," Don ex-plained, "Dad invited his sister, Elizabeth, come join us and raise onions."

Here Don smiled as he emphasized, "And she sure raised plenty of onions."

IT IS A LONG way from cutting asparagus as a boy on the family farm to becoming a leading Certified Public Accountant, but Sutherland quickly explained his

"After graduating from Plymouth High School," he said, I entered Michigan State Normal College (now Eastern Michigan University) and graduated from there. It was then that dad had quit farming and had a greenhouse. I joined him and in 1928 when I joined Rotary and I was admitted to membership under the florist classifica-

Evidently, Don had other ideas for a career, so in 1939 he accepted a position as a teacher in the Lapeer School District. Three years of that was enoug- so it was back to Plymouth and the greenhouse that was attached to the old home on Ann Arbor Road.

"I started my own business as a CPA," he confided, and opened an office across from the Post Office on Penniman Avenue. 'That was in 1948 and when that building burned down I built our present building and have been there ever since, only a short way from the old farm as I knew as

Bookstore profits go in special fund

Now that Schoolcraft College's bookstore has become more than self-supporting, the board of trustees is faced with the problem of what to do with the store's profits.

But a recommendation offered by the college administration, that $25,000 of the $35,088 total profit be placed in a special contingency fund to improve and expand services to the college community, didn't seem to be quite what the board had in mind, although the resolution was eventually passed. The special fund, which will be a meted out primarily for cultural and public affairs programs, drew the critisism of Trustee Mark McQuesten. "I have questions about the use of the money and reservations that the contingency fund stemming from bookstore profits might create the desire to maintain the fund at the same level," he said at Wednesday's board meeting.

"I suggest that we get the profits back to the students, or spend it on a place the students use the most, like the Waterman Center." he added.

Trustee Archibald Vallier was quick to agree: "The profit should be returned back. I don't think a majority of the students should be paying for things like an athletic travel fund (one of the suggested uses for the money)

Vallier later added that he was not happy with the recommended sum of money to be placed in the fund and sided with Trustee Leroy Bennett's stand that the money should go into the general operating fund rather than a special one.

"I don't like these little niche holes for money," he said.

"Our general fund needs money. By putting the profits in a special budget, we're restricting the use of the money. If it can justify its existence in public affairs, it will find its way there," Bennett said.

Trustee Rosina Raymond made a motion that provided for consultation on the use of the money with the Student Senate, which has been assuming a greater share of the cost of various student programs because of the strained condition of the general operating fund.

The motion was defeated by a 6-2 roll call vote.

After a number of assorted motions and votes all failed to alter the original resolution for the special fund, the board voted 5-3 for the establishment of the $25,000 contingency fund. Trustees McQuesten, Raymond and Vallier registered the three no votes against the proposition.

Old songs return newly listenable

Some surprising new sounds are coming out of popular spots in metropolitan Detroit. What's new is the old songs being revived, even discovered for the first time by young entertainers who play and sing them.

At the Top O' The Pontch, the group Fancy Music has returned. Between sets, Tom Elias, its leader from Laurel, Miss., explained in a gentle drawl, that he'd never heard Jolson before. Elias has also discovered Judy Garland.

If you still have Al Jolson and Garland albums around, you well know how they sound- truly great. But it's nice to hear Elias and his group give all they've got, and Elias said he and the drummer are always soaked in sweat at the end of a show. Elias wishes they'd dim the lights, to focus attention more on the stage.

The circular room doesn't lend itself entirely to showtime, but if you're in view of the stage, Elias will probably be coming your way as he sings.

IN A CHANGE of vocal pace, he sang songs about love, beginning with "You Made Me Love You." He also turned to "The Fantasticks" and the favorite "Try to Remember.' Giving Elias good backup are group members Gene Houston on drums, Lowery Hicks on bass, Stewart Redd on lead guitar and keyboardist Paul Kepple.

During the early "show set" Elias generated audience enthusiasm as the group kicked out their legs in a strut to "Waiting for the Robert E. Lee."

At the midnight show, the group really puts on a show, coming out dressed in tails, he said. Fancy Music is a relatively new group, and Elias said most of them are from Laurel, where they first got to-

The curly-haired leader and the rest of Fancy Music, with their ruffled shirt fronts, are playing a month-long engagement at the ToP O' The Pontch. They appear Tuesdays through Saturdays from 7:30 p.m. to 1 a.m.

THIS IS a return engagement for the group which has created a lot of interest and fans. You've got to give Elias credit for trying something new-er, old.

Ole Christenson, who runs the Pontchartrain, and executive chef Bob Bossio are trying out shark on the menu. These are fillets from baby sharks, cut and served in medallions.

It's a different entree, even if you like fish, since most people are unfamiliar. even leery, of shark. For someone who was too scared to see "Jaws," eating shark was no problem. The meat tasted quite flavorful, but other opinions at the table ranged all the way to "bland," although everyone agreed the shark has a good texture and is tasty.

Shark comes from New Orleans, where it is popular with diners; and if it goes over here, it may be a mainstay on the Chuck Muer seafood menu.

YESTERDAYS, where crowds including lots of singles gather in the Sheraton-Southfield, has brought in the musical group Expo 77. As you may guess by its name, this is something new.

The group has actually been together two years and opened last summer in this area at the Michigan Inn. They're three guys and a gal vocalist. All the fellows are from Brooklyn, and the girl is from California, but now she lives in Brooklyn, too.

Marilyn O'Day is a stunning, tall strawberry-blond. She said the group used to be four guys, who called themselves Brass Expo, and switched the name at the time she joined the group.

Ford Field to host tournament

Because Livonians have been so receptive to Adray League baseball, a regional qualifying tournament of the All-American Amateur Baseball Association championships will be contested this weekend at the city's Ford Field.

Three out-of-state teams will join Adray Photo, a squad consisting mainly of Eastern Michigan University players, in the double-elimination tournament which begins tomorrow (Friday) at 5:30 p.m.

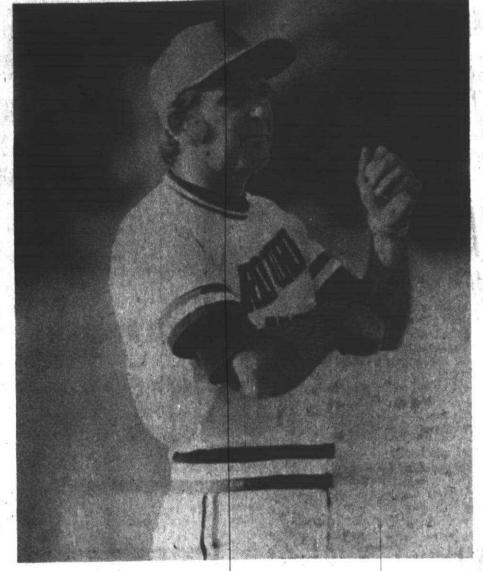

New Orleans, La. takes on Schenectedy, N.Y. at that time and Adray Photo will battle New York City at 8:30 p.m. The following day (Saturday), Friday's losers will meet at 1:30 p.m., Friday's winners at 5:30 p.m. and the winner of Saturday's first game will challenge the loser of Saturday's second game at 8:30 p.m.

The championship game is slated for 1 p.m. Sunday, with a second game following immediately, if necessary.

Additional bleachers have been installed at Ford Field to accommodate the expected large turnout, said Maurie Moorawnick, Adray League secretary. Admission and programs are free.

"Two years ago, a regional tournament was also held at Ford Field and Mike Adray was pleased with the facilities, the recreation department and attendance," Moorawnick said, explaining the decision to return to Livonia this season. "Mike was extremely happy everything went off fine."

The survivor of the weekend tournament earns a spot in the national finals next week in Johnstown, Pa.

Redford Adray manager John Colley looks worried here as he flashes a sign to his batter, but that expression turned to one of satisfaction when his charges dumped Ann Arbor twice last weekend to advance to the AABA national finals. (Photo by Fred Hopkins)

Berry bounced, 9-1

Roughed up for nine runs on 11 hits by a Lincoln Park Adray all-star contingent, Berry Appliance (Red) last weekend was ousted from the state Connie Mack League baseball playoffs by a 9-1 count.

Coach Roger Frayer and his young band of diarnondmen, champion of Livonia's Connie Mack National Division, split their four games in the double-elimination playoffs

Berry defeated Grosse Pointe and was awarded a forfeit decision over Detroit Stit and lost to Detroit PAL and to Lincoln Park, the host team of the playoffs. Berry finished its summer campaign with an overall record of 16-5.

Bill Parson, who pitched the first five innings against Lincoln Park, took the loss. Bill Bardwell relieved in the sixth frame. The two were touched for 11 hits.

Berry collected only five hits, scored its only run in the second inning. Parson and Steve Morman singled, both moved up a base on a sacrifice bunt by Dennis Slater and Parson crossed the plate on a passed ball

Parson punched two of Berry's five hits.
Frayer had mixed feelings following his team's elimination. "If we could have got a hit at the right time ..." Frayer said, his voice trailing off. "The kids, quite frankly, were overmatched."

The Berry manager added that he was pleased with the season as a whole. "I'm proud of the kids. They did a nice job and needed the experience." Frayer stated.

"Five of the last six years we have won a Connie Mack division title."

Snyder's continues title drive

By compiling a mark of 43-5, Redford Snyder's Softball Club finished with the best regular-season record in the history of the Major Metro Travel League.

However, the 1975 world champions will have to do it all over again in the playoffs if they're to win their first league title.

In the first round of a best-of-three series starting tonight (Thursday), Snyder's must face the same Detroit PUSH team that knocked it out of the playoffs in the first round last season.

The game will be played at 7 p.m. at Ford Rotunda Field in Dearborn. Snyder's recovered from the upset to Snyder's recovered from the upset to win the U.S. Slo-Pitch Softball Association World Series. However, manager Jim Snyder said it still rankles him that in five years of play, he has never been able to win his own league.

If it survives PUSH, Snyder's probable opponent in the best division finals would be Little Caesars. That confrontation, if it were to come about, would be no easy task for Snyder's.

While the Redford contingent finished 8½ games in front of Caesars in the West Division, it managed to split only eight games in head-to-head competition. Four of Snyder's five league losses came at the hands of Little Caesars.

hands of Little Caesars.

The two arch-rivals split yet another doubleheader last week in the final games of regular-season play. Snyder's won the first game, 8-3, thanks to a six-run rally in the sixth inning, then blew a lead to lose the nightcap, 11-9, in eight innings.

Rah, rah Glenn!

Cheerleaders from Westland John Glenn captured the two most prestigious awards at a recent camp conducted in Pocono, Pa. The girls received a plaque for overall performance during the clinic and a megaphone for being voted the squad that contributed most to the camp.

The cheerleaders also won a spirit stick, four blue ribbons and a red ribbon.

The squad consists of Theresa Westfall, Mary Ruthig, Kaye Gietzen, Lori Logan, Karen Bozzi, Kris Grabowski, Jamie Clark and Becky McLeod.

CROWE-BERRY BLUE

Scoring five runs in the fifth inning and two runs in the sixth inning the Crowe baseball team won the Connie Mack City title over Berry Blue 8-6.

Berry started the scoring in the first on a single by Thorsby. Pollard and a double Crowe came back to tie the game in the bottom of the inning when Pat O'Connor singled and stole second base, he was knocked in when Brian Butcher drilled a single to right.

In the second inning Berry scored two runs on a walk, an error and RBI singles by Scarpace and and Thorsby.

Pollard collected his second hit of the game when he drilled a two run triple in the fourth inning to give Berry Blue a 5-1

Crowe stormed back in the bottom of the fifth inning when Russ Hodges and Steve McDerment singled with two outs. Pat O'Connor singled to load the bases. Dan Dinsmore walked for one run, Brian Butcher singled in another. On a full count pitch Mike Robbins drilled a single to rightfield. The fielder missed the ball and three runs scored to give Crowe the lead.

Berry came back to tie the game when Longeway was safe on an error, went to third on a double by Rotter and scored on a sacrifice fly by Reeter.

In the sixth inning Hodges walked, Tim Oakley singled and Cross was safe on an error to load the bases. Pat O'Connor then laid down a perfect sacrifice bunt which4

Don Nalepka was the winning pitcher for Crowe while Wilkins suffered the defeat for Berry Blue.

"Nalepka did a heck of a good job," said coach Dick Devries. "I'm am most proud of the team effort that we had all year."

MICHIGAN NATIONAL BANK-DETROIT WOODS JANITORIAL

Michigan National Bank bowed out of the Connie Mack District Tournament last week in Pontiac when they lost to Detroit Woods 6-3.

MNB fell behind in the top of the first inning when John Dillard walked and advanced to second on a ground out. He then scored on a triple to right by Dewey Dil-

MNB tied the game in their half of the inning when Jim Snyder drilled a two out single, he then stole second base. Brian Butcher walked and Rob Rose laid down a bunt single to load the bases, Randy Besh then walked to force in Snyder.

Woods scored four runs in the second when Bob Boyd singled, Dillard was safe on an error. Both runner moved up on a ground ball. With two out Dillon ripped a single to rightfield that went by the rightfielder allowing two runs to score. John Garcia was then safe on on error allowing one run to score. Tony Martin also was safe on an error allowing another run to MNB scored one run in the bottom of the second when Gary Beyrand walked. Al Casterdale was safe on a fielder's choice and Beyrand scored when John Kolis was safe on an error.

Woods scored its final run of the game in the fourth inning when Tim Murphy singled. John Vital walked and Boyd ripped an RBI single for one run.

MNB came back in the fifth inning when Snyder singled, but was tagged out on the first controversial play of the inning when the umpire ruled he had made a move for second when the ball got by the first baseman.

Brian Butcher then walked, as did Besh and Pelli. Gary Beyrand, on a full count pitch, hit what appeared to be a game tying double down the third baseline. However the umpire ruled that the ball was foul. Beyrand then walked to force in MNB's final run.

MNB threatened in the final inning when Dave Pellie hit a one out double, Beyrand walked as did Tom Pacion to load the bases. John Kolis then hit a hard smash back to the pitcher who saved two runs by spearing the grounder and turning it into a home to first doubleplay.

On to Johnstown

Redford wins regional

By DOUG FUNKE Sports Editor

Redford Adray next week will make its 11th journey to the All- American Amateur Baseball Association championships in Johnstown, Pa.

First-year manager John Colley and his crew earned a spot in the 16-team national finals by sweeping Belleville last weekend in a best-of-three regional series at Eastern Michigan University, 9-0 and 8-1.

Pitching carried the Redford aggregation into the finals, Colley admitted, as Steve Perry limited Belleville to three hits in the regional finals and Brian McMahon held Belleville to a like number of hits in the semi-finals.

Perry struck out 10 and did not walk a batter during his nine innings of work, while McMahon was just as good. He fanned 13 and issued only one free pass.

"I knew we had three kids back from last year's team that went to Johnstown, but I never expected it this year," an elated Colley said after the double triumphs.

Redford scored early and spread around its production of runs in very similar manners during both contests.

The regional champion notched one run in the second inning of the deciding game on a walk to Scott Anderson, a stolen base, a passed ball and a fielder's choice. Bruce Robertson was credited with the RBI.

Redford collected three more runs in the fourth on walks to Ted Musto, Dennis Kuschel and Art Mezigian, a two-run single by Ted Ackerman and a wild pitch.

A single by George Willard, a groundout and an error accounted for another Redford run in the fifth frame. Kuschel walked to start a two-run rally in the sixth. He stole second and scored on a Mezigian single. Mezigian stole second and scored himself on a single by Ackerman.

Walks to Ackerman, Randy Rodriguez and Willard preceded a single by Robertson in the eighth inning for the final two runs of the game.

The story of the first regional contest was almost the same as the second—all Redford.

The locals struck for two runs in the opening inning and never trailed from that point.

Mezigian and Ackerman walked and Rodriguez singled to load the bases. Anderson sent Mezigian home with a single and Ackerman walked and Rodriguez singled to load the bases.

erman scored on a fielder's choice, with Robertson credited with the RBI.

Redford added two more runs in the second inning. Musto singled, Kuschel was hit by a pitch and Mezigian singled to load the bases.

Ackerman forced Musto at the plate, but Kuschel scored on a fielder's choice and Mezigian crossed the plate on a passed ball. Rodriguez hit the ground ball which enabled Kuschel to score.

Redford reaped two more runs in the third when Kuschel walked with the sacks loaded and Mezigian laid down a good bunt on the squeeze play.

The bases had been loaded prior to that when Willard was safe on an erro. Mike Donahue was hit by a pitch and Musto singled.

Rodriguez singled to start another Redford scoring thrust in the fourth frame, stole second and came home on a single by Robertson.

Redford tallied its final run in the sixth on a single by Anderson, a wild pick-off attempt and a groundout. Willard was credited with the RBI that inning.

Redford, which advanced all the way to the semi-finals of last year's AAABA championships before falling to eventual titlist. Little Caesars, will arrive in Johnstown next Tuesday for the week-long double-elimination tourney.

B&G locks up lst place finish

Rallying for the tying and winning runs in the fifth inning, Brian & Gregory last weekend tripped cellar-dweller Mic Mac, 4-3, to claim outright the regular-season championship of the Garden City Class A Invitational baseball League.

Mic Mac could punch only two hits during the contest, but five B & G errors kept Mic Mac within threatening range.

The winners scored first in the opening inning when Pat Lourdes and Mike Harrison were safe on errors, Bob Cross walked and Frank Canasi grounded out, with Lourdes crossing the plate on the play.

B & G added another run in the second frame. Jim Loughren walked, stole second, moved to third on a groundout and scored on a line- drive single by Lourdes.

Mic Mac counted all three of its runs in the fourth inning. Bob Kupras beat out an infield roller for a single, then advanced to second when the ball was thrown away in an attempt to toss him out at first. Walks to Mark Waterstradt and Pete Lazar filled the bases.

Rick Colby brought Kupras home with a sacrifice bunt and the other two runs were scored on an error.

Lourdes singled in the fifth inning for B & G, and after a couple of fielder's choice plays, Cross scored the equalizing run on a Mic Mac error. Frank Hanson notched the winning RBI with a ground-rule double over the center field fence at Garden City Park.

Both pitchers went all the way. Tom Huerth struck out nine and walked five for B & G, while Dwayne Manning fanned six, gave up four hits and issued three walks for the losers.

A big 10-run first inning carried McNish-Dennehy past Neal's Safety Sewer last week in the loop's other duel, 15-3. The game was terminated after five innings due to the mercy rule.

McNish teed-off for eight hits in the opening frame. Gary LaGuire started things off when he was hit by a pitch. Ken Sadek forced LaGuire at second, but then preceded Jim Bazzy across the plate when the latter blasted a home run over the left field fence.

Mike Kovachevich was hit by a pitch.

and Joe Ballard singled. Both moved up a base on a wild pitch and Kovachevich scored on a double by Rick Steffen to right field.

Mark Wojciechowski walked to load the Mark Hankins with a three-run double into the left field corner. Hankins moved to third on a wild pitch and LaGuire followed with a walk.

Sadek, Bazzy, Kovachevich and Ballard all followed with RBI- singles.

McNish scored its other five runs in the fourth, as a three-run homer by Ballard was the key blow of the rally.

Ed Collins knocked-in Neal's first two runs with a first-inning single and Norm Dugener was credited with sending home. Neal's other run with an RBI-groundout in the second starza.

Born March 29, 1941 in Hartford Conn., Manganello began his career in New England, working under contract for two full vears muckings stalls and galloping horses before nationally prominent trainer Odie Cleiland would allow him to ride in a race.

That first race came in November of 1959 at Narragansett Park in Rhode Island, but his first winner didn't come until March 3, 1960, at the Fair Grounds in New Orleans on a two-year-old first time starter named Will Step.

but after I lost the bug (five-pound weight allowance) I had a tough time," Manganello said. "I ended up in Ohio and got rolling again and became the leading rider at the Cleveland area tracks almost every year until the late 60's.

"Then I got into the regular Kentucky racing circuit. Keeneland in the spring and the fall and Churchill Downs in the late spring and November, in fact my home is in Lexington. My wife and six kids stav there all year round."

Manganello has no problem with his weight. He is slightly more than five feet tall, but has the muscular upper torso that is so important to a jockey who must control the 1,000 pound, high strung thorough-

After 16 years of riding and going to the post more than 14,5000 times, Manganello doesn't play the role of the crusty old veteran as he remains one of the most cheerful personalities in the jockey quarters.

"I try to get along with everybody and I'm always there to help any young rider who comes to me for advice," he said.

His many years of experience make Manganello a good source for opinions on the present state of thoroughbred racing.

"Nowadays they are taking better care of the track's condition and they have make improvements for the people living on the backside (barn area) with recreational centers and other things," he said.

"Everybody seems to be getting a fair shake now, but in the old days the big outfits got their way with everything, but now the track managements are giving breaks to the little man, too."

On the modern horse medication laws (phenylbutazone, a pain killing drug, was allowed for the first time in Michigan last year following the leads of other states) Managanello said: "Bute is good in some cases...but like everything else it's abused. Trainers use it just to get through the entry box and out on the track, but they're not the majority."

After the first couple of weeks at the DRC meet, Manganello has shown Detroit racing fans the ability that has won those 2,300 plus career victories. The lessons came in surprise fashion for the bettors.

Two of Manganello's early winners returned mutual payoffs of $106.40 and $86.20 for a $2 bet. "I guess when you don't start off winning a lot of races on the first couple of days they get to overlook you and bet on some other jockey that's hot at the time," Manganello rationalized. Detroit fans will have the opportunity to see Manganello in action until October when he returns to Keeneland in Lexing-

THE LONG ...

If you've got a big load on your mind, get a load of what Toyota's got for you. More small trucks to choose from with more power and more standard equipment than any-body in the business. Take our ½ Ton. It's our lowest priced. Yet you still get a big 22 liter engine, 4 speed syncromesh, power disc front brakes with 9 in. booster, radibrakes with 9 in booster, radi-ator with reserve tank and cargo tie-down hooks. Not to mention things like whitewalls, mudguards and power-boost-ed flow-thru ventilation. All standard. For bigger loads, our Long Bed gives you al-most a foot and a half longer carno space, a longer wheelmost a toot and a nail longer cargo space, a longer wheelbase and bigger gas tank. And if you're a sportsman, we've got two sporting propositions, our SR-5 Sport Trucks. Choose either 1/2-ton or long bed and you get gasaving. or long bed and you get gas-saving, engine-saving 5-speed overdrive transmission, AM radio wide radiels, high back bucket seats, racing stripes and a lot of other ex-tras. All standard equipment no charge. More, it's getting an outlit that fits your needs, outlitted the way you want for less.
