intellect was correct."

Robert Greenstein and Peter Bundarin, unsuccessful candidates for the office of supervisor, have both paid the $50 fee to the township clerk demanding a recount of votes in all 10 Canton Township precincts.

Greenstein filed his request Tuesday morning and Bundarin got his in the afternoon. Oddly enough, both Greenstein and Bundarin hope the recount will uncover more write-in votes. But, for Bundarin, that would only be the first step in a complicated post-election strategy in which he hopes to unseat Harold Stein, the apparent winner.

Just before the deadline, Trustee James Poole filed for a recount in precincts four and 10. Voters in precinct 10 told Poole that when they pulled the Republican lever, no x was recorded by his name.

Poole lost to Democratic candidate Eugene Dalley by 11 votes.

Bundarin hopes a recount shows that Greenstein has a majority with the writein stickers. If that happens, Bundarin said he will challenge all write-in sticker votes, because people did not mark an 'X' next to the names on the write-in stickers. If his argument holds up. Bundarin said the township would have to schedule a new

Greenstein had hinted previously that he would probably file for a recount, but Bundarin's request came as a surprise. "We're going into this recount hoping to find more write-in votes," Bundarin said. "If we find more and then are successful in throwing them out, then that will effectively invalidate the election. The courts will order a new election where election results will change because of improper prostate election law with a lawyer employed by the 15th District Republican Party and they both feel the write-in votes were not done properly.

CITING MICHIGAN COMBINED Laws Annotated (MCLA) section 168.805, subsection 11. Bundarin said no votes shall be counted unless a cross is marked at the straight party designation or at the place next to a candidate's name.

"The stickers which were counted didn't have crosses next to them," Bundarin said. "Attorney General Frank Kellev delivered a 1968 opinion which said that even with write-in stickers, there must be a place to mark a cross. You can't even have stickers printed up with the cross already on it. According to Kelley, the voter must place the cross or 'X' on the sticker himself.

"So, in essence, when people put a sticker on the machine, they are putting the candidate's name on the ballot, but are not voting for him.

Bundarin was asked why he said after the election he would accept his defeat and become active in Canton's politics.

"I said that I was not really defeated but that my day of victory had merely been delayed," Bundarin explained. "I didn't think there was anything I could do about the results of the election.

"Then people in the community started to come up to me and say that the will of the people was not really met in the election." Bundarin said. "Stein's 37 per cent does not reflect the will of the majority. My original assessment of the write-in was correct. I said it would split the sub-

IF NOTHING ELSE is accomplished, Bundarin said he would like to end the rumorts and "discourage write-in campaigns

"You have a right to a write-in when you cannot get on the ballot by some procedural difficulty," Bundarin said. "Writeins are not meant to be used where a candidate was on the ballot in the primary and lost. All the Canton write-in did was bring chaos to the election process."

Both Bundarin's and Greenstein's recount requests ask the county board of canvassers to examine the machines in all 10 precincts. In Greenstein's letter, he requests that the canvassers start at Precinct 10 and work their way down to Precint 1. Only supervisor votes will be looked at even though in the trustee race, James Poole lost to Eugene Daley by only 11

Precinct 10 and 9 have been pinpointed by supporters of the write-in effort, who claim they were "shortchanged" by pollworkers at both precincts.

Jim Donahue, co-chairman of the Committee To Re-elect the Greenstein Team, said that in Precinct 10 pollworkers could have missed write-in stickers on ballots that were marked straight ticket. In Precinct 9. Donahue claims write-in stickers that were damaged or wrinkled in the machine were not counted if less than half of the sticker was unreadable. Donahue said "a crinkled sticker shows intent and legal grounds for attempting to throw out absentee ballots because voters did not mark an "X" next to the sticker name.

"I haven't researched the law in this matter," said Greenstein. "When I first heard about it from him I said it didn't seem to me possible that these people who voted write-in could be cheated out of their

Here's local official tally

When the county board of canvassers conducts the recount of 10 Canton Township precincts, which could be in late December, they will confirm or change the following certified election totals.

According to the official, locally certified vote totals Harold Stein won five precincts: 2, 3, 5, 6 and 9. Stein came out on top of the heap with 3,808 votes.

Write-in candidate Robert Greenstein won four precincts: 1, 7, 8 and 10, with Precinct 4 is the only precinct where Republican candidate Peter Bundarin came out on top. His tally was 3,014 votes.

Broken down by precinct, Stein received 451 votes in precinct 1 (Fire Station No. 1); Greenstein won with 451 votes, and Bundarin received 345 votes.

In Precinct 2 (Recreation Building) Stein won with 554 votes compared to Bundarin's 201 votes and Greenstein's 168. In Precinct 3 (Gallimore School), Stein picked up 547 votes. Bundarin received 396 and Greenstein got 204 votes.

Precinct 4 (Miller School) voters gave Bundarin 510 votes: 383 people voted for Greenstein and 381 voted for Stein

Precinct 5 (Sheldon School) voters gave Stein an edge with 597 votes, compared to Bundarin's 304 and Greenstein's 289

Holiday Park Mobile Home residents vote in Precinct 6. Some 194 people in Precinct 6 voted for Stein; Bundarin got 88 votes and Greenstein received 50 votes.

Precinct 7 and 8 are located in Plymouth Canton High School. Greenstein came out on top in 7 with 426 votes. Bundarin received 369 votes in second place and 219 people voted for Stein. Precinct 8 voters chose Greenstein with 268 votes; Stein picked up 216 and Bundarin received 180.

Precinct 9 and 10 have been the target of criticism from members of the write-in team who feel election procedures shortchanged the sticker campaign. In Precinct 9. Stein received 445 votes; Bundarin took 422 and Greenstein had 371

THE 10TH PRECINCT, where 1,323 of Canton's 10,637 voters cast their ballot, was won overwhelmingly by Greenstein. The write-in committee pushed absentee ballots as an admitted campaign tactic. Greenstein received 735 votes; Stein received 303 votes and Bundarin got 199.

We take mobility for granted

By PATRICK TOUHEY

How many times a day do you get in and out of your car? Go up steps? Cross

Chances are you never think about it But for those with physical handicaps, the simple, everyday activities can be, and often are, major obstacles.

In an effort to increase community awareness of the difficulties that face the physically handicapped, the Kiwanis Club of Colonial Plymouth sponsored a presentation on the Mobility Awareness Team on Thursday at the Mayflower Hotel. The speaker was Angie Corrieri, a Canton resident who was paralyzed from the waist down in an automobile accident five "After I had my accident," Ms. Corrieri said, "I wanted to get to where I could live the way everyone else did, but I can't.

because then there would be no changes

Ms. Corrieri is a member of the Mobility Awareness Team, a group of people who get involved in community activities to promote knowledge of the handicapped and recognize achievement by the handi-

There are no formal rules of membership involved in being on the Mobility Team and no hard and fast responsibilities. The main requirement is the desire to work for social and legal change to allow the handicapped to live lives that are as full and productive as possible.

THE MAJOR PART of Ms. Corrieri's presentation was a film which graphically demonstrated that our society pays little or no heed to the particular problems of the handicapped.

The film opened with a woman in a wheelchair leaving a rehabilitation center and followed her through her efforts to find a job, locate an apartment, and use public facilities Although for the normal person these activities take little or no concentration, for those with less than full mobility it is a dif-When the woman stops at a roadside public phone to make a call about a vacant apartment, she finds the booth is too small for her wheelchair. She cannot get inside. Next we see the woman at apartment complex after apartment complex as she tries to locate one without numerous flights of stairs, or one that has a ramp in addition to the stairs. In applying for jobs, the situation is the same. She is unable to gain entrance to buildings, because of stairs and curbs with no ramp cuts We see her as she tries to use a restroom in a public building. She cannot comb her hair because the mirror is too high; she cannot use the facilities because the stalls are too narrow.

"We just don't know what they go through, do we?" said John L. Miller, second vice president of the Kiwanis and this year's program chairman.

AFTER THE FILM Ms. Corrieri discussed the Ms. Wheelchair Michigan Pageant, which she helped to organize and which she won in 1972.

"The pageant is not a beauty contest per se," said Ms. Corrieri. "We are interested in recognizing individual skill and achievement on the part of the participants." She added that the annual contest gives handicapped people a chance to get together for informal talks and to share ideas and information Ms. Corrieri said the major emphasis of the Mobility Team was keeping current on legislation affecting the handicapped, and through community activities, letting people know that there is a need for more legislation.

Although the hayride season traditionally begins in September and ends at Christmas, owners of two recreational farms in Canton say their facilities offer havrides the year round.

City asks Detroit to halt its billing

The City of Plymouth has asked the Detroit Water and Sewerage Department to stop sending bills to industrial and commercial firms in the city for a $50 fee for monitoring sanitary sewer flow.

City Manager Fred Yockey sent the letter Monday, notifying the water board that lacked the legal authority to mail the bills and expect payment. Yockey also told the water board he was advising all industries to ignore the billing and refuse to pay

The owners of Hendry Convalescent Center, a nursing home at 105 Haggerty. Plymouth, are seeking state approval from the Michigan Department of Public Health to expand the facility's size

An application for a certificate of need for the project now is on file with the division of health facility planning and construction of the State Health Department

The proposed plan calls for the construction of a three-story addition to the present building and the conversion of the existing bookkeeping office into a two-bed patient room. The change in utilization of the bookkeeping room would increase the facility's total bed capacity to 127 beds.

The confusion arises over a governmental jurisdictional dispute between the Detroit Water Board Sewer Division and Wayne County over which unit will conduct surveillance of industrial and commercial sanitary sewers, as required by federal anti-pollution laws.

The City of Plymouth has always relied on Wayne County for the surveillance and had not requested Detroit to perform the

Thus, Yockey was suprised when he learned that the water board in October had sent a bill to various industries and businesses in Plymouth directing them to pay a $50 industrial surveillance fee.

Yockey informed the water board that the city "does not consider that the City of Detroit has any legal right to pass an ordinance affecting property owners within another municipality. We are so informing all industries who make contact with the City of Plymouth and advising them to ignore your request.

Yockey also informed the water board that the Plymouth City Commission on Nov. 1 passed a resolution authorizing Wayne County to provide the required industrial surveillance Marvin A. Miller holds up an artist's over-all view of the S.S. Kresge Distribution Center where he is general manager. The drawing shows the network of computerized conveyers that span the mammoth plant.

Sophisticated computers know in what sequence the packages are traveling. The key punch operator at the sortation center has already indicated which ramp the goods should enter. Angled rollers pop up when they're supposed to to deflect the package down the proper loading ramps at 17 different "switch tracks." The rollers drop back down without a split second to spare to allow the next package to pass over it on its way to another chute farther down the line.

5 miles of conveyers in plant!

Marvin A. Miller makes it very clear right off the bat that he is general manager of a product distribution center, not a (shudder) warehouse.

The S.S. Kresge Distribution Center at 41425 Joy Road surely doesn't fit most people's image of a dark, cramped ware-

Logically, the group started out viewing the first steps in the process and ended up at the 17 loading docks.

A number of train cars, parked inside the building, were being unloaded by hand by the workers. Up to 20 rail cars a day can be unloaded at the distribution center.

The cases of stock are first entered on the computerized conveyer system at the individual "order-picking modules." Packages as big as 24 inches deep and 24 inches wide will fit on the conveyer if they weigh 85 pounds or less.

One person works in each narrow module line setting boxes which carry all-important coded labels. The person does not leave the module with a load of goods piled on a hi-lo bound for the loading docks. He sets the proper orders on a conveyer belt at the beginning of a long ride.

From there, the packages travel up to the mezzanine to a "merge control" station which narrows the nine lanes from the order modules into three lanes. Rollers are regulated to make sure that each package merges into the three busy lanes without colliding with a case of glassware. The merging process caused a couple of the people on the tour to wince expecting a pile-up. But each package follows the other without a split-second to spare.

After the merge control trauma, the packages pass through a human-operated verted to their proper destination with checkpoint at the sortation area.

Here the person operating the computer key-punch machine punches out the number on the package which tells in which truck the package should be loaded.

As the case of canned nuts speeds down the feeder lane, a row of rollers pops up at a 45-degree angle to the traffic and switches the nuts to the number five conveyer

The curb bill made it mandatory for sidwalks to be accessible to the handicapped; the license plate bill provided special symbols on car plates to allow parking privileges for handicapped motorists

She particularly called attention to an ordinance passed in Canton which provides a fine of $100 for anyone who parks illegally in parking spaces for the handicapped

SHE SAID the two broad areas of legislation still lacking were civil rights and public transportation for the handicapped.

'We originally wanted to get in on the first civil rights ammendment." she said. "but we didn't, and now there is a new one being proposed.

"As far as public transportation is concerned, we don't know yet. There are a number of governmental bodies working toward a definition of what per cent of public transportation has to be available to the handicapped

The civil rights bill, if passed, would prohibit discrimination against the handi-

Commission debates propriety of releasing names of applicants

Forest City Dillon is being asked to allow two City of Plymouth officials to audit the applications for senior citizen housing in an attempt to validate the need of local residents for elderly housing.

The request was made by the Plymouth City Commission Monday night following a Jengthy debate on whether such action was proper or necessary, and how such an audit should be done.

Commissioner Jack Moehle originally made the request to inspect the appications prior to the Nov. 2 city referendum on tax abatement for Forest City Dillon's proposed senior citizen apartments.

Moehle had made the request to City Manager Fred Yockey first who informed him there was no list of names as such but a stack of applications which belonged to Forest City Dillon. Moehle then asked Bernard Haar of Forest City if he could look at a list of applicants to validate residency claims and was told by Haar's attorney that the request couldn't be granted at that time.

At the Nov. 1 commission meeting, on the eve of election, Moehle introduced a formal resolution asking Forest City Dillon to allow the city commission to inspect the list of applicants. That motion was tabled until Nov. 15

MONDAY NIGHT some commissioners argued that the applications were confidential and shouldn't be disclosed to the public or to any individual commissioner.

After much debate, the commission voted 7-0 to have Mayor Joe Bida appoint the city clerk and one other city official to inspect the applications—if Forest City Dillon agrees—and report back by Dec. 6 on the actual number of city residents applying and whether they qualified.

Moehle's Nov 1 resolution, which was supported by Commissioner Beverly McAninch, stated that the list of applicants would be useful to the city in identifying those of the applicants who may need additional city assistance.

The resolution also argued for release of the names because "the subject of the list has been a major justification advanced for the project's need to the public and, therefore, by its reference is a quasi-public document."

The formal request in the Nov 1 motion was for the city commission to ask Forest City Dillon for a copy of all applicants anames and their addresses and telephone numbers.

In asking for the motion to be removed from the table Monday night. Mrs. McAninch said access to the list of names was needed to determine what was the number of residents in need of housing as-

When Commissioner Thomas Turner asked if Forest City Dillon could legally release the names without violating the applicants' rights to privacy. Mrs. McAninch answered: "It's unlikely there is any real legal problems or other cities wouldn't get the list of names, as did happen in Ypsilanti where some commissioners were shown the names."

Mayor Bida said Forest City has the responsibility of protecting applicants from being harrassed. "Some senior citizens in town were harrassed when their names appeared in newspaper advertising supporting the project. And there were some who didn't sign affadavits that their names could be released because they didn't want their landlords to know they were contemplating moving."

McAninch agreed the names shouldn't be made public, but said it was a different matter for the city commission to be shown the list of names.

Moehle then accused City Manager Yockey of unprofessional conduct prior to the election. "The list was used by the city manager and others to justify need for the senior citizen housing, and it's unprofessional to quote such data if you don't have the data at hand—if you haven't seen the actual list.

"If you want the list, write Forest City and ask for it," snapped Bida, "I have no need for the list because I am under the assumption commissioners Moehle and McAninch and their group are going to come up with alternatives for senior citizen housing."

"We are talking about my concern of persons making quotes justifying the need for housing when they don't have the data at hand," Moehle snapped back.

COMMISSIONER Norb Battermann then pressed Moehle to explain the need for the list and what use he planned to make of it.

Moehle answered that the list would be

Moehle answered that the list would be useful in identifying those senior citizens who may be in need of additional services from the car in addition to just housing. "We really haven't taken a survey of senior citizens and their needs—that's one good reason.

"Also, don't say we have a list of 400 applicants—I haven't seen it and you haven't seen it, and people who speak of numbers should know something about it!"

Battermann asked if he understood Moehle's reasons as being that he wanted to help senior citizens, and that he doubted the validity of the need. Moehle reacted: "If you believe in the numbers, why are you so concerned about asking for the list? We should know the number of residents and whether they qualify." Battermann answered that someone would have to inspect the financial data on the applications before it could be decided if applicants qualified.

"There are 138 names on the waiting list to get into Tonquish Creek Manor and there's never been any talk about helping these people," added Battermann. "Commissioner Moehle, you have not asked about the names on the Tonquish Creek list and so I cannot believe your real concern is the needs of senior citizens or you'd be asking about these needs. Since helping senior citizens doesn't appear to be the reason for the request. I can only assume the names are wanted for purposes of harrassment.

"If we have a need to inspect the Forest City applications, then the audit should be done by a limited number of city officials. The names should never be released to the city commission or to the public."

Moehle added: "There is no real value served by us continuing on in an adversary role on this issue, but I trust that the data used by the city to endorse the housing will be carefully checked out before we use the data again in the future. You have five votes on this commission to defeat my motion, but remember that two-thirds of the voters in the city had concerns about the validity of the data."

Commissioner Mary Childs said that claim was unfair because there was no way Moehle could determine the reason why residents voted "no" on the referendum

CONTRACTOR OF THE PROPERTY OF A STATE OF THE PROPERTY OF A STATE OF THE PROPERTY OF THE PROPER

Moehle's tabled motion was then voted upon and defeated 5-2 with only Moehle and Mrs. McAninch voting in favor.

A motion was then made by Battermann, supported by Scott Dodge, that the city clerk and one other city official review the applications to verify the numbers and check the validity of the applicants from city residents. That motion passed 7-0.

Battermann told Moehle that this method should provide answers on the validity of the numbers. "I think what it is. Jack, is that you don't want to believe the numbers are true."

Turner added: "The developer never would have been willing to go ahead with this project if he didn't have valid applications. It is incrediable to believe otherwise."

Moehle suggested that city commissioners should have the choice of whether they wanted to inspect the applications. Turner quickly objected: "Why do we have city administrators if we can't trust them?"

to Chamberlain because of a series of institutional ads running at the time. However, more importantly, he felt that the real estate profession held a future far more promising than the one in a tool & die shop. His prediction proved to be truer than he could have ever imagined!

After starting with Chamberlain he listed and sold the very tool & die shop that he left 12 months earlier! In 1975, he was appointed manager of the Westland/Garden City Office. As manager he oversaw that office's first monthly sales over $1,000,000.

Then, in early 1976, he was appointed Regional Vice President for the Western Region. In addition, he is currently managing Chamberlain's Livonia/Farmington Office.

We, at Chamberlain, are proud of Peter and, of course, we are looking for more people like him. Peter's success is a fact; yours can be too! Give us a call and let us help you on your way to a new future.

New township officers look to future

By PATRICK TOUHEY

When the Plymouth Township Board of Trustees meets on Nov. 23, there will be three new name plates on the table, those of Trustees Weyona Lee Fidge and Maurice Breen and Supervisor Tom Notebaert.

They are replacing departing board members Russell Ash and Gerald Burke and retiring supervisor J.D. McLaren, who will complete their tenure as public servants officially on Nov. 20 at noon.

Both Notebaert and Mrs. Fidge will be holding public office for the first time. while Breen has a long and varied history in township politics

NOTEBAERT has lived in Plymouth Township for 30 years and has worked in automobile and real estate sales.

According to Notebaert, his interest in local government started as a result of appraisal and rezoning work that he did for

As a real estate agent, I have worked with the board for a number of years, and I had hoped I would one day find the time to become more actively and directly involved." he said "And it looks like that time is here Although Notebaert said he felt the board was doing a reasonably good job, he was concerned about the course of development in the township

I want our growth and development to take place in an orderly fashion," Notebaert stated "Now that we are going to have a new network of expressways, developers will come to us, and we won't turn them away

We must not destroy the atmosphere we have here, which I see as pleasant and rural. It will be a big job, but I hope we. can get landowners and developers to see things our way.

Notebaert said that with increased growth, police protection would be an issue "I don't know how soon, but the time is not too far off when we will have

"I was very disappointed when the voters turned it down the last time, because it is my feeling that there is a real need, and it won't go away.

He said he was looking forward to the job of supervisor. "I see it as a fulltime job," Notebaert said. "And I will devote full time to it with complete devotion.

"I see no great adjustment difficulties, and I anticipate a close and agreeable working relationship with the other members of the board.

MRS. FIDGE, a township resident of 12 years and mother of three, has been interested in township politics since she came to the area.

'I am a registered nurse by profession,' Mrs. Fidge said, "and when we first were moving to the area, the northeast corner of N. Territorial and Ridge was being zoned for a nursing home.

"I went to all the board meetings, and since that time I have maintained my interest in what is happening in the town-

Like other board members, Mrs. Fidge sees growth and development as a major issue that will be confronting the board for the next several years. "I am particularly concernd about the western section of the township," she said "I am talking about the whole area from Beck to Napier. We can either have boom development or controlled development. but we can't have both.

"If we don't watch this area closely, it could develop so fast that the township would be unable to provide services such as road clearance and police protection.

'As it stands right now," she continued. people moving into the township are surprised that there are no garbage pick-up or snow removal services. We are going to have to take this into consideration."

Mrs. Fidge said more cooperation among neighboring units of government was high on her list of priorities.

'We need to have more consideration of neighboring communities working together, particularly on their zoning ordinances," she commented. "In the case of Canton for example, our boundaries touch in many places. If we zone one side of the street residential, and they zone the other side commercial, it just won't work. "We can't operate alone. There is a definite need for the left hand to know what the right hand is doing.

She also pledged full dedication to the office of trustee. "I am not going to miss a single meeting," she stated, "and with my other responsibilities. I've figured out that I'll have every other Monday and a Friday

BREEN, a local attorney, has been politically inactive for the last four years, but he is a familiar name in township govern-

In the mid 60's, he was chairman of the planning commission, from 1968 to 1970, he served as a trustee; in 1970 he was elected supervisor. In 1972 he again ran for supervisor but was defeated by J.D. McLaren. Since then he has not held public office.

He said he decided to run again because the "political bug" got him again. He also cited lack of progress is some key areas.

Issues that were in front of the board in 1968 are still around,"Breen said. "As far as I can see, a lot of things have been put on the back burner.

"There has been a failure by the township as a whole to confront problems. I don't know what the solutions are. I just feel that whatever we do should be done for the benefit of the whole township. Breen said one major responsibility the board had to face was setting policy. "In my opinion, there has been too much reliance on professional consultants for guidelines. Now a consultant can give you a method for doing something, but the board should set the over-all goals and policies.'

He also expressed concern about cooperation with other nearbymunicipalities and providing adequate services for township residents. He added he was specifically worried about future development.

"I am not anti-growth," remarked Breen, "but I do want thoughtful growth. We have a lot of land that is now zoned agricultural, and if we don't make a large decision about what we want to do with it, we'll wind up with piecemeal zoning, which is not good.

"I see the major problem facing the board as proper zoning foresight. We have to decide now what we want to be in the Board Vice Chairperson Rosma Ray mond favored a minimum of 12 but not 15. Trustee Mark McQuesten, the only former student on the Schoolcraft board, expressed fear that certain liberal arts courses-specifically ethics and some speech classes-would be lost. He urged the board to "proceed cautiously" before raising class sizes.

Asked by board Treasurer Nancie Blatt what happens when a course size is consistently small, Fred Stefanski, dean of arts and sciences, said it would be offered only once a year.

The second of the second of lege trustees are contemplating raising the minimum sizes on classes to 12 or even 15 students. Current minimum size is 10. Some trustees have mixed emotions about the idea, which is due to be acted on before the end of the year Everyone has the idea we're running 31 or 32 to a class," said Trustee Leroy C Bennett, who is strongly in favor of raising minimum sizes. Small classes are not very cost-effective. THE COMMUNITY college offers 873 sections of courses this fall.

President C. Nelson Grote said 38 of those sections had less than 12 students. but only six would have been canceled had a new rule been in effect.

The remaining 32 would have been permitted to continue because of at the necessity for students to complete programs and needing specific courses, b) only section of a particular course, c) course offered only one time a year and d) no seats available in other sections or the class was a sophomore course

National press honors earned the state of the s

First place for the best editorial of the year has been awarded to Tim Richard of Observer & Eccentric Newspapers in the annual journalistic competition sponsored by Suburban Newspapers of America, with the O&E also being presented certificates of excellence in two other categories.

Sharing honors with Richard, who is editorial page director for the 12 O&E papers, were Shirlee Iden, suburban life editor of the Southfield Eccentric whose award came in the best news story category, and photographer Craig Newman for his photojournalism-spot news entry

Newman, now a sophomore at the University of Arizona, was working for O&E Southfield and Farmington editions when the devestating tornado struck the West Bloomfield area last spring

His prize-winning photo, which appeared in several of the six O&E Oakland County papers, showed a woman praying in the wreckage left by the storm

Ms Iden's winning story was headlined Prison doctor is found slain in Southfield" and was published July 22, 1976. It was the first in a series of stories about Dr. Cynthia Miller, Detroit House of Correction physician who was shot to death in Southfield Ordinarily not a hard news writer, Ms Iden used for the core of her article comments from co-workers and members of the family and the statement from Dr. Miller's grandfather that he was too broken-hearted to attend the funeral "to write about her as a person.

"WHO WANTS super sewer?" was the heading over the May editorial which brought Richard the foremost honor among the editorial writers of the more than 700 newspapers which are published by members of the national trade association known as Suburban Newspapers of

After listening to many hours of testimony at public hearings on the issue of building one gigantic sewer line and Lake Erie treatment plant for southeastern Michigan, and reading numerous engineering reports. Richard concluded that the only real advocate of the project was the Wayne County Road Commission.

In a finely tuned editorial in which the theme was restated "rondo" style, Richand emphasized that the non-elected road commission, unaccountable to the voters, had proposed a sewerage plan "with incredible land use planning implications." Challenging the economic and social questions of the need for a super sewer in western Wayne County, he labeled the super sewer as a "super wasteful idea.

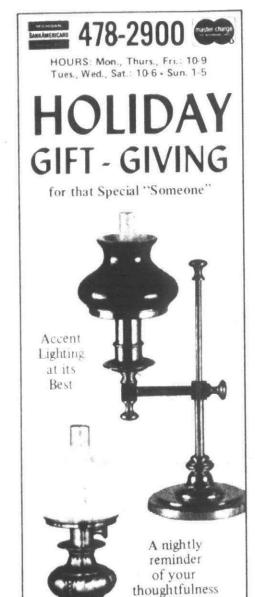

Ultimately the Michigan Water Resources Commission agreed and rejected the basic notion of the super sewer idea.

THE SNA AWARDS were presented at a banquet Nov 11 at Pittsburgh, highlighting a three-day national editorial seminar Foremost examples of suburban journalism were judged in nine categories by a panel of deans and professors representing leading university nchools of journalism across the country

Co-publisher Philip Power and Executive Editor John Reddy represented Observer & Eccentric newspapers at the seminar and banquet

Richard. Ms. Iden and Newman have been frequent winners of journalistic awards in the past for the excellence of their work, and the latest honors only keep alive a long chain of tributes that have come to many members of the merged Observer and Eccentric staffs over the years.

Another certificate of excellence recipient this year was William C. Sliger of the Northville Record in the best column category. Also a frequent awards winner in professional circles. Sliger recently sold his group of four weekly publications in Northville, Novi, South Lyon and Brighton to Suburban Communications Corp. which, under Power's ownership, is the parent entity of Observer & Eccentric News-

LAMPCRAFT Globe charges CUSTOM SHADE MAKING Globe charges misuse of fund

By FRANK BENSON

A disagreement has emerged at Schoolcraft College over a student fee charge of 50 cents per semester hour that is required of all students.

The Campus Globe, the college's student weekly newspaper charged in an editorial that the student activities budget has been improperly used to fund programs not in the students interest.

The more than 7.800 students of the college pay for programs under the heading of student services at a cost of nearly $143,000 annually

The Globe's two biggest complaints are the Cultural and Public Affairs series, which they feel is not of interest to Schoolcraft students, and an annual spaghetti dinner, which the Globe feels should be funded by the college relations office.

THE CULTURAL AND PUBLIC Affairs committee promotes and presents to the Schoolcraft community speakers, bands concerts and other events. Speakers scheduled for this academic year include author Judson Jerome on "Communes and the new anarchism" as well as author Caroline Bird on her new book, "The Two Paycheck Marriage." Admission to these lectures is $2 for the general public, and free for Schoolcraft students. 1/4 The bands of Count Basie and Tommy Dorsey are also scheduled, at a price of $6 for the general public and $5 for Schoolcraft students.

The Campus Globe said in a recent editorial. "The Cultural and Public Affairs Committee appeals primarily to the adult community of the Schoolcraft College area. Unfortunately, there is little apppeal for the average college student.

VICE PRESIDENT for Student Affairs Edward McNally with Patrick Newman, counselor in charge of student activities, structures the student activies budget. McNally disagrees with the Globe.

"The Cultural and Public Affairs series has been presented with great sucess for many years. Schoolcraft has many adult students, and I feel the series is of great interest to them.

The spaghetti dinners are presented annually for graduating high school students who are considering enrolling at the college. The dinners are free to prospective students, but cost present students $3,000

The Campus Globe said the dinner should be funded by the school's college relations office.

"We believe that it's time for the college relations office to take the ball and if not sponser the dinners itself, to budget funds for the student activities office to run the show for them."

COLLEGE RELATIONS Director David Heinzman agrees with the Globe and sees many holes in the student activities budg-

McNally defends the spaghetti dinner. 'Many area high school counselors feel that the dinner is a great program for this college," and he told of a student telling him that the dinner was a big reason he chose Schoolcraft.

The Schoolcraft Student Activities budget breaks down into eight seperate pro-

1) The All Campus Student Programming Board takes 21 per cent of the budget and provides movies and lecturers. 2) The Cultural and Public Affairs Com-

Book Fairs end Friday

The annual Book Fairs will end tomorrow (Friday) at six elementary schools in the Plymouth Community School District. Among the themes being used this year are Fonzie, football teams, and world records The Book Fairs offer fun, excitement, a chance to choose from a variety of books. games, puzzles, posters and other enrichment materials, explains Bea Green, director of libraries for the school district.

"This is a good chance for students to acquire their own books," she adds, "or for parents to buy books for gift-giving." The price range and format offer choice to any brospective buyer. The students are the ultimate beneficiaries-both in what they buy for themselves, and what is purchased with the profits.

All the book fairs, which started earlier this week, will continue today and end Friday. The event at Gallimore is being sponosred by the library and PTO with some 15 parents helping. Profits are shared for the school and library needs.

Special this year at Gallimore are "Fonzie coloring books" and a life-size Fonz. plus large posters of favorite football teams The Book Fair at Isbister is co-sponsored by the library and PTO with more than 30 parents helping. There will be book awards and five prizes for students At Smith, the affair also is sponsored by the library and PTO with 30 parents helpbrary needs. One activity is a contest among third graders for the best poster promoting the event Hulsing, sponsored by library and PTO with some 25 parents helping, also has a contest with students guessing the number of books in the library. The prize will be a 1977 edition of the Guinness Book of Re-

Accountability at SC for administrators

Schoolcraft College administrators get report cards, too! And/if they get good marks, they get paid more

In the first year of # "performance apprasial system" (PAS), 27 middle-level managers got these marks from top admin-

Three were rated outstanding and will receive awards of $1,800 each; 16 were ranked excellent and will receive $1,500 each; three were ranked satisfactory-plus and will receive $900; and five were ranked satisfactory and will receive $750.

The middle-level administrators are members of Schoolcraft College Association of Adminstrators and Professinals (SCAAPP). These are members of the administration below deans, such as the director of college relations and the director of admissions.

THE BOARD of trustees must decide by the end of the year whether to continue the PAS, which cost $36,000 in the first year. Trustees, who received a preliminary report Nov. 10 from Vice President Kenneth Lindner had mixed reactions about PAS. There should be other methods than monetary awards," remarked Trustee Mark McQuesten Board Vice-Chairwoman Rosina Raymond was more adamant: "The more I hear about it (evaluations), the less I like it. I can see the maverick getting slashed down money-wise. It is very bad for morale. Gerald Cox agreed, "Internally measuring performances by dollar amount should be confidential. If they want to share it, it's their business. I hope we never stifle the maverick administrator.

In response to complaints by these board members that some evaluations were in-consistent Linker said, "Consistency only applies with procedures. Improving skills and two way communication are expected. The system is to be based on trust, Conbe built; it has to make the

The board heard a similar report on evalnations of top executive administators not represented by SCAAPP, such as the president of the college.

Think again on teachers

Editor, (38 parents)

I am not the teacher who asked to be treated as a factory worker but I can appreciate that person's point of view. I would appreciate it if you would continue with your research of comparisons.

I do not agree that the average teacher works only five actual contact hours a day. Our contracted day is from 8:15 a m to 3.45 p.m. I would gladly punch a time clock for everyday a teacher works during lunch hour, comes early and leaves late. Let us also punch a clock for every bit of paperwork we take home each week (about 15 hours). Please clock every PTO meeting, non-contracted parent conferences, grade level open houses, plays and programs we attend and put on.

We also are required to take classes which again account for two-four hours a

I think George Bradley should get his facts straight before opening his mouth. Mr. Bradley's false allegation concerning "a person named Bruce Summers" couldn't be more absurd.

I was in the same voting line, a few people ahead of Mr. Bradley. How did I miss all the talking and sticker passing? I must learn to be more observant.

As Mr. Summers is my neighbor, I did speak to him. We briefly chatted about how glad we are that building on our court had resumed. Mr. Summers did ask me if I was familiar with this type of voting booth and I said "yes". The lady standing behind me said she was not familiar with these booths as she was from Detroit and their booths are different.

Mr. Summers' exact words were 'When it's your turn, if you'll ask one of the pollworkers they will be glad to help you." At that moment George Bradley came up and verbally attacked Mr. Summers. One can imagine the embarrass-

That is the way Barbara Jean Eckles and William Baumgartner appraise a very special group of Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts they work with at two local facilities for the mentally handicapped.

"Scouting offers something for all youngsters," explains Mrs. Eckles, who is also a speech therapist at Our Lady of Providence School. "It presents new experiences and helps them fulfill all of their potential.

The girls in Mrs. Eckles troop have been involved in a variety of craft and service projects. They have made dried flower arrangements for shut-ins and apple turkey centerpieces for the Hendry Convalescent Home. They sewed banners for troop celebrations and built birdfeeders to be used by themselves and their friends.

Bundarin's recount try shows crybaby politics

It was no surprise when second place finisher Robert Greenstein submitted his request for a recount this week in the Canton Township supervisor's race, as his ardent followers had hoped.

But out of left field came third-place finisher Peter Bundarin, a man who managed to sidestep the mudslinging and avoid campaign hysteria, asking for recount and sliding head first into the

Bundarin stated earlier this week he hopes enough votes will change in a recount so that Greenstein will find a majority with his write-in

If you still follow the logic, Bundarin says he will challenge every write-in vote that does not have an 'X' or cross next to the name of Robert Greenstein. That takes in about 99 per cent of the write-in vote. If his challenge is upheld, Bundarin said Canton will then be forced to schedule another election where he would have a second chance.

A CLEARER EXAMPLE of crybaby politics would be hard to find.

Bundarin is sore that he lost votes to Greenstein in subdivision-heavy precincts because both he and Greenstein called for "growth control."

Bundarin suggests that if the recount does nothing else, it might discourage future "divisive write-in attempts.

None of these is a good reason for requesting a recount. And who is Bundarin to criticize "divisive" actions of the write-in group when he is a part of move to continue to divide the township after the voters have spoken and chosen?

We're not enthralled at the prospect of Harold Stein as supervisor. But these last-ditch, desperate attempts to avoid reality won't help Canton proceed in a progressive manner.

THE DAY AFTER the election, Bundarin begrudgingly said he'd accept his defeat and keep an eye on the board and a hand in in an advisory capacity. That attitude was to be applauded.

So what happened to change his mind? It could have something to do with the fact that

Freeway means social change

In the late 1960s, the State Highway Department, as it was then called, was talking about 1972 as the completion date for the I-96 freeway in the Schoolcraft and Haggerty roads corridors. As of the end of 1976, we have about nine miles of freeway in the Haggerty Road corridor from I-96 in Novi down to Ford Road with an outside chance for more by the end of the year. It will be the end of 1977 by the time most of the system is completed and 1978 before it is all done.

To most folks already living in these suburbs, the freeway will be a convenience-a faster way to get from here to there. What we haven't thought about, however, is the profound social impact the freeway will have.

The number of persons who live in these suburbs and commute to Detroit will undoubtedly increase. The number of Detroiters commuting to the suburbs will also rise.

Freeways serve good people, and they also serve crooks. Ask the police in Farmington Hills. and Southfield if they don't think criminals take advantage of freeways to rob and run.

the 15th Congressional District Republican Party is providing legal assistance to Bundarin while they search law books for technicalities to overturn the write-in votes.

Bundarin could be letting his arm be twisted by party hard-liners who fear the two-party system is suffering from damaging cracks. We heard similiar complaints from people in the Democratic party who wanted to crush the perfectly legal, but "inefficient and bothersome," write-in campaigns.

We didn't approve with the write-in effort, but we'll fight for their right to conduct a write-in campaign. And Bundarin has no business attempting to dissuade anyone from exercising that right.

The most transparent argument offered by Bundarin is that the will of the majority was not met in the last election since Harold Stein only received 37 per cent of the electorate. Granted, that's not a heavy vote of confidence but it does represent a plurality-pending the recount.

CERTAINLY IF Peter Bundarin had managed to round up 37 per cent of the vote to win, he would not be complaining that he did not represent the community's will.

Some 3,808 voters in Canton Township chose Harold Stein to be their new supervisor. If Bundarin is concerned that Stein doesn't reflect the mainstream, he should become a township watch-

Another 3,354 voters took the time and trouble to write in Robert Greenstein's name for supervisor. Bundarin should drop any move that attempts to disenfranchise these voters who knew what they were doing when they placed their sticker votes on the machine for Greenstein.

Murder ties the region together

Shock waves set off by the horrible murder of Farmington Hills business executive David Jones are still rattling around the entire metropolitan area nearly two weeks after he was shot in an unlighted parking lot at Olympia Stadium in Detroit.

A great deal of finger-pointing is going on in Detroit, which is struggling to make the suburbanites on whom the city depends for its economic survival feel it is safe to come downtown. The attendants at the parking lot who evidently went home early are being reviewed and probably will be disciplined, perhaps fired. The Detroit parking lot authority is looking into overall questions of lighting, guarding and safety at lots throughout the city

Detroit Mayor Coleman Young and the Common Council continue to make positive-sounding statements about the improvement in safety in the big city, while simultaneously squabbling over procedure and recommendations forthcoming from a business-labor anti-crime task force

Here in the suburbs, people hunker down just a little more (if that's possible), turn on the TV and scan the entertainment pages of their local newspapers to find something to do in the suburbs at night.

MEANWHILE, work continues slowly but with creepy inevitability on the Jeffries Freeway (I-96), which will directly connect the suburbs of Observation Point western Wayne County with Detroit in the same way that 1-75 links Oakland County communities with the core city

The Good Lord only knows just when they'll finally get the big ditch done, but it will come some day not too far in the future. And merely the sight of bulldozers and earth movers steadily grinding away at the site proves that the core city and the suburbs are necessarily connected in a life and death grip.

Those of us living in the suburbs, frankly, are pretty worried about going downtown these days. This is nothing new, nor will nice words from Detroit officials convince us it's safe to go to a concert or a hockey game in the near future.

But as any local police officer knows, even if suburbanites are not going to downtown Detroit. criminals from the core city are quite capable of using those nice, expensive, efficient freeways to drive out to the suburbs. The recent shooting spree in the middle of a holdup at Eight Mile and Lahser Road offers easy example of the point.

WHAT OUGHT to be clear to everybody is that as long as we have expressways and cars and people with criminally aggressive instincts with access to guns, there will be murders and robberies and rapes, regardless of whether they take place in downtown Detroit or in peaceful suburbs

Crime is our common enemy, whether we are city dwellers or suburbanites. And the sooner we recognize this simple fact, the better off we all

The divisions between Detroit and the suburbs are harsh and deep; almost certainly, they will not be healed easily or quickly. But equally certainly, the obvious binding link available to knit the suburbs together with the core city is their common abhorrence of criminals and fear of

Some day, soon I hope, some regional statesman is going to propose a grand alliance between the City of Detroit and the suburbs to begin a collective fight against crime. And when that happens, it might be come to be known as a monument to the life of a gentle, thoughtful suburbanite whose life was snuffed out for a few bucks

There was a great big Congress bear with a great big voice, a middle-sized conservative Court bear with a middle-sized voice, and a wee little administrative bureaucracy bear with a wee little

One morning the three bears had porridge for breakfast, and one of the bears said, "This porridge is too hot to eat now. Let us go to the woods for a walk while the porridge cools.'

So the three bears went for a walk in the woods

NOW WHILE THEY were gone, along came a southern gentleman named Goldilocks who never spent much time in this part of the jungle. When he saw the little house, he wondered who lived

So he knocked on the door. No one answered, so he knocked again. Still no one answered, so Goldilocks opened the door and walked in.

There before him in the little room, he saw a table set for three. There was a big bowl of porridge, a middle-sized bowl of porridge and a little wee bowl of porridge. He tasted the great big bowl of porridge and said, "While this is a little lumpy, it's all right." And so he ate it up. Then he tasted the middle-sized bowl and said,

"This is awfully chilly." Then he tasted the wee little bowl of porridge and almost choked. It was hard and brittle.

HE THEN WENT into another room, and there he saw three chairs. There was a great big chair. a middle-sized chair and a little wee chair. Goldilocks sat down in the middle-sized chair and said, "This is too hard."

Then he sat down in the great big chair and found it was so big that there was no form or definition to the chair.

Then he sat in the wee little chair and said, "This is just right. I'll change the cushions a little, and it will be perfect.

As he sat down in the wee little chair, the bottom fell out, and he fell to the ground, hitting his head on the fireplace.

HE PICKED HIMSELF up just as the three bears were returning to their house. When he saw them, he was very scared.

He tried to run, but the big Congress bear stopped him and patted him on the head.

The middle-sized conservative Court bear knocked him down. But the wee little administrative bureaucracy bear tried to eat him up.

Teachers aim to collect

The big city mayors got all the attention with their national meeting and how they expect all kinds of money to flow from the friendly Carter administration after Jan. 20.

But there's another group standing in line to collect on the debts they think are owed them by President-elect Carter and the new Congress. To hear the National Education Association tell it. "Teacher Power" won it for the Carter-Mondale ticket and a host of congressmen, mostly Demo-

NEA has as many statistics as the University of Michigan football publicists, and they all show teachers have made it as a major political power.

THERE IS NO FALSE modesty in the NEA. "Energy, dedication, money, time, creative minds"-that's the opening line of NEA's postelection handout describing how and why teachers were so effective.

NEA's political action committee endorsed 349 candidates-323 for the house and 26 for the senate, in addition to the Carter-Mondale ticket. It spent $597,000, or about $2,100 per race where it plunked down money, and claims a record success rate of 84 per cent.

NEA collected all sorts of quotes from candidates about how helpful teachers were. Virginia Democrat Herbert Harris gave them one of the best: "It struck me so many times during this campaign that teachers have a natural ability to mobilize people and a tremendous ability to get others to work in a campaign."

Indeed, there are so many quotes from successful candidates that it's quite apparent NEA intends to remind them of all they owe organized

Some NEA affiliate unions had negotiated contracts which allow teachers one day of "civil leave" a year. Many teachers took election day.

WHAT PRICE do the teachers intend to extract from Carter and the new Congress: General federal aid to education seems to be form, written with great teacher input, sets 33 per cent of local school districts' budgets as the goal for federal aid. At present, schools around here are getting around two per cent of the budgets from the federal government and rarely more than five per cent, mostly for specialized programs such as remedial reading and vocational Hmmmm, 33 per cent federal funding. That will pay for a lot of yummy salary increases!

While general social problems of the cities such as crime and housing get the most public attention, the Carter administration and Congress will almost certainly be reminded that the Detroit school district, among others, is in extremely rough shape after losing two straight requests for a property tax increase.

ALMOST THE ONLY thing that can hurt teachers is that NEA leaders backed the wrong candidate in the primaries. The teachers found U.S. Rep. Morris Udall (D-Arizona) more to their liking, and Michigan sent a giant wad of teachers to the national convention as Udall delegates. Whether Carter will hold that against them remains to be seen. If Carter can pardon draft resisters, he can probably forgive the organized teachers for backing Udall in the primaries.

To be sure not all teachers are militantly political and in favor of federal funding of education. But the leadership thinks that way, and the leadership calls the shots. And the leadership is after

Pursell win margin's solidified

*State Sen. Carl Pursell is moving closer becoming the official winner in the 2d Congressional district race by a 337-vote

The Plymouth Republican, whose senate district includes Livonia and Redford Township, had Wayne and Monroe counties canvassing boards formally certify the Nov. 2 election results.

But there is a delay in the Washtenaw County election workers and canvassing board finalizing their tallies for the congressional race. The Washtenaw clerk's office said

Wednesday morning it is still working on election totals.

If there is no change in election results. Pursell, 43, will succeed Rep. Marvin Esch, who represented the district for 10 years before running and losing a U.S. Senate campaign.

Lawyers for Democrat Ed Pierce, Ann Arbor physician, refused to comment whether they will seek a recount of the Nov. 2 vote.

Orville Tungate, Wayne County deputy clerk, told The Observer that the law or House rules allows for a recount in a congressional general election and he concluded that Pierce was a narrow loser in

But Pursell said, "I believe I will be the next congressman for the 2d Ditrict. I intend to pursue all appropriate preparations toward assuming office, such as policy and operational briefings for new members of

The senator said that he feels there will be no changes in the election outcome when the tallies are completed.

"All indications are that our margin is solid," Pursell said.

"Everything reported to me suggests this was one of the most technically sound and procedurally clean elections we've ever had. I have seen nothing that could give anyone legitimate cause to challenge the outcome.

Pierce had filed a civil suit after the election to force the Wayne County clerk to allow him to see the unofficial tallies before they are formally certified by the board of canvassers. He was granted that right but there were no change in the elec-

Pursell said he has no objection to "the parties involved observing the canvass procedures, as long as everyone has equal standing and no undue efort is made to interfere with or influence the canvassing

Pursell expressed confidence that the election figures in the three counties will stand up to any objective analysis.

THANKSGIVING DINNER menus are uppermost in many minds these days as families plan traditional get-togethers.

Thanksgiving seems to inspire a search for old, rather than new recipes. Thinking along these lines, we couldn't resist asking our neighbor across the "Deciphering the manuscripts and handwritten directions was half the battle," he said. "Then, there were never any true measurements. It was a pinch of or a handful. Nutmeg seemed to be the most available spice, although they suggested rosemary sometimes to take away the wild taint from the meat.

Domestic violence aired at Schoolcraft forum

By SHERRY KAHAN

From January through May 1974 in Washtenaw County wives were attacked with an electric sander, a shotgun, a leather belt with a brass buckle, a hunting knife, a hand axe, a car and a telephone. announced Bonnie Jordan, a member of the NOW Domestic Violence Project of Washtenaw County

She presented this grizzly piece of news at a forum sponsored by the women's resource center at Schoolcraft College.

It was hard for the women in the audience to believe that almost 10 years after the beginning of the well publicized fight for women rights, women are still having their eyes blackened and their bodies broken by their loved ones.

But the records of the Washtenaw County Sheriff indicate that the situation is even worse than they had believed. Then the speaker gave then further food for thought.

"WIFE BEATING is considered the most under reported crime." declared Mrs. Jordan, who is a social worker. "What is reported to the police is only the tip of the iceberg.

Fortunately, more of the iceberg is slowing coming to the surface. Just as child abusers are coming out of the nursery into the light in order to be able to solve their problems, abused wives are deciding to admit their problem in the hope of receiving aid. At least in Ann Arbor. In that city there is a sanctuary for them at 1917 Washtenaw, where a helping handawaits them. The NOW Domestic Violence Committee. an outgrowth of a task force of the National Organization of Women but no longer affiliated with it, can be reached 24 hours a

Since July 1975 it has offered battered womenn counseling to help and them make up their minds about what they want

If necessary, they can be referred to a lawyer if they want to get a divorce or to legal officials if they wish to prosecute the man who knocked them around

Even more importantly, the domestic violence committee has established a number of emergency homes offered by volunteers in which the injured wife and her children can find temporary refuge.

Because the shadow of violence could fall over this home, the women must sign a contract promising not to reveal her whereabouts.

Aware that the Ann Arbor group is breaking new ground, the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration has bankrolled the project to $130,000.

The Comprehensive Employment Training Act is paying for two fulltime employees, including an emergency housing coordinator and a supervisor of peer coun-

What turned on the Feds is the project's goal to deliver crisis intervention for rape victims and battered women. The organization also has 57 volunteers.

TRYING TO DRAW a composite picture of the battered wife is difficult. Victims are rich and poor and come from every race, religion, ethnic background and educational level Typically these women have little self confidence," observed Mrs. Jordan. "Their self-esteem is low. They are usually alienated, isolated individuals. Often they have had their problem so long their friends and relatives are tired of them. In many cases they married young, before developing the skills to make an independent income. According to Mrs. Jordan many of them need assertiveness training to protect their right not to be injured. Not all of these women think assertively," she said. "Unless they are brought up in a certain way, they might assume they do not have the right to freedom from She disagreed with the assumption made by some that battered wives are masochistic and get their jollies by being slammed into the floor. None of the women she has worked fit this sterotype. "People wonder why these women stay with their men." Mrs. Jordan said. "Society often blames the victim. It happens in rape cases. The idea is that she must have deserved it or like it.

The frequency and severity of the beating is also generally involved in her decision to stay or go.

"If not too frequent or too severe, she will stay." indicated the speaker. "She balances two black eyes with an ADC check and decides to stay home where she will have an income.

Women tend to believe their men again and again when they come on strong with apologies and promises.

"But if violence occurs in the first year of the marriage, it is likely to occur again and will get worse and increase in frequency, "said Mrs. Jordan. "Yet, until they are beaten for years, they delude themselves into thinking it will stop.

IF THEY WERE beaten by their own parents or saw their mother beaten, they are more likely to stay in a violent situa-

"When you talk to them you find their expectations of marraige is such that they aye not surprised they are beaten," commented Mrs. Jordan. "They saw it happen to their mom and they think it's their lot in life. If you think that is what you must expect, then you don't think much of yourself as a person

Alcohol is involved in about 60 per cent of assualt cases but Mrs Jordan discounted drink as a cause of wife-beating "It is a disinhibitor," she claimed

Women say that if only he wouldn't drink, he wouldn't abuse them. But I am not convinced it would stop. He uses drink as an excuse. He pretends to lose control

Even under the influence of alcohol he seems to be able to define boundaries. He might beat her but not stab her with a knife. But some place he draws a line as to what is acceptable behavior.

Saturday night at the Canton Recreation Hall the dice were rolling and the wheel of fortune was spinning as more than 100 members and guests of the Canton Newcomers tried their luck Las Vegas style.

The Newcomers millionaires party was off to a good start at 8 p.m. and continued until 1 a.m. Each ticket holder received a packet of $5 million as they entered the 'casino." Everyone had a ball trying to turn that money into much more. There was no second chance for anyone because once their money was lost there was no more to be found (or bought) anywhere.

The food for this affair was highlighted by two six-foot submarine sandwiches and one three-foot sub. They must have been good since not a crumb was left.

Big winners for the night were Joni and Ted Jarvis, who had more than doubled their original money. A $25 gift certificate purchased from Napoleon's Restaurant was their prize.

Other prizes were auctioned off to the highest bidder. Ted Jarvis, who is a professional auctioneer, donated his talents for

Jeannie and Steve Churchill won a $15 certificate from the Quo Vadis entertainment center. Teri Cohen won a wine gift

At the end of the evening, all losers, those with no money, had one last chance to win. Each losing couple picked from a deck of cards. High card won the booby prize. It took four times before finally Chris and Tom Skarka walked away with a $2 milk chocolate super kiss.

It has been reported that each girl placed a rock on the grave to insure them of good luck.

'No place is safe,' warns fraud expert

By JEAN DAY

Getting a "bug" is as simple as sending $14.95 to an ad in Playboy magazine. That's what fraud expert Robert Farr told a packed Northville Town Hall audience, adding that it's equally easy to "take a paper trip" to get new identities.

Stating that there are hundreds of thousands of people who have a second, or false identity today, the former Scripps-Howard science writer said that for $7.04 each he obtained one true and two completely false identification cards at a photo office in Grand Central Station in New

With such identification, the speaker continued, it is possible to use the name, gleaned from old newspaper files, of someone who was born and died shortly thereafter, to get a copy of that person's birth certificate.

With the birth certificate, a passport, bank account or driver's license can be ob-

All this is possible, he pointed out, because there is no cross check of birth and death records in the United States.

THE BIG BUSINESS today, however, is in electronic devices which have come into use within the past 10 years and have a volume of business in the two billion dollar category in the United States yearly, Farr told the women gathered in the Plymouth-

"A cockroach or an ant can set off an alarm system," Farr declared. He showed his audience a $26 pick gun with which any 10-cylinder lock, he said, could be opened as fast as with its key.

"There isn't much protection anywhere for us these days," Farr continued. He has written four books on his specialty, including "The Electronic Criminals.

"The most important thing you can do to protect your home," he stressed, "is to make friends with your neighbours so that they will watch your house while you watch theirs.

Writer lists strategies to keep Jewish identity salute to the past.

BY SHERRY KAHAN

The age-old problem of Jewish identity was taken up by author Irving Howe in a speech during the 25th annual Jewish book fair in the Jewish Community Center of Metropolitan Detroit in West Bloomfield.

Howe is writer of "World of Our Fathers," the story of the Jewish immigrants who came to the U.S. The book was on the New York Times list of best sellers for 33

Also professor of English at the graduate center of City University of New York and at Hunter College, Howe is the author of many books and book reviews.

"A Jew is he who is called a Jew by non-Jews," began Howe quoting Jean Paul Sartre. But, he felt, this was only a partial definition.

Jews can now choose whether or not they wish to be Jews, he noted, "so the mere fact of having been born Jewish does not settle the question of their Jewishness

With religious Jews there has never been a problem of identity, he said, but "with flights into alien culture" the problem has arisen among secular Jews.

ETHICAL VALUES are means by which Jews keep alive their Jewishness. "For many American Jews, these values

They have by and large retained their liberal outlook, the speaker believed, adding that "conservativism would be a great shame for American Jews, who have maintained their liberal sympathies even though rising on the economic scale."

He attributed these ideals about man and his relation to his community to the romanticism of the 19th century when new ideas slowly penetrated the minds of younger Jews on nationhood, relations between the sexes and the expectation of what might come on this earth.

Zionism is permeated with assumptions of romanticisms that still color Jewish life. Howe maintained. Yet he felt that "being Jewish should not be reduced to social ideals, and I'm not saying Jews should be devoted to liberalism just to solve the problem of Jewish "Whatever commitments we make in pol-

"UNDENOMINATIONAL?"

Why not? Memorial Church of Christ feels it is more important to proclaim a Person than to blindly follow a program handed down by a denominational headquarters somewhere. Thus Memorial is a free, undenominational church, having no creed but Christ, no book but the Bible and wearing no name but Christian. The church revealed in the New Testament had no earthly headquarters. Today there are over 5000 free undenominational Christian churches. Memorial is one of them. Visit us Sunday!

Director strikes adventurous note

Wayne Dunlap's hallmark as musical director of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra is that at least half the works in any season have never been performed previously for local audiences.

The job becomes harder when an orchestra hits the 30-year mark, but Dunlap has still managed to program 80 per cent "new" material for the concert this Sunday at 4 p.m. in Plymouth Salem High School, Joy west of Canton Center roads.

The musical director has often said it would be easy to select crowd pleasers like the "1812 Overture," but the performers would tire of it and audiences would learn nothing.

On the other hand, new music must be familiar enough in style so that listeners will comprehend and not so unfamiliar that it's beyond the average listener.

HEADLINE ATTRACTION will be Keum Ja Kim, the diminutive coloratura soprano from Korea and the University of Michigan.

Miss Kim's big voice will get a stiff test

Revue bows in

Actor/director Nicholas Pennell has returned to Ann Arbor for a third season'as guest artist-in-residence for The University of Michigan Professional Theatre Program (PTP).

Pennell will direct the PTP Guest Artist Series musical "Oh, What a Lovely War," a British music hall revue that will bow in the Power Center for the Performing Arts on Nov. 23, with subsequent performances on Nov. 24, 26, 27, at 8 p.m. and Nov. 28 at 2 and 8 p.m.

Penwell returns to U-M again from the Stratford Festival Theatre of Canada where he performed in their 1976 season productions of "The Tempest" as Areil, "The Importance of Being Earnest" as Jack Worthing, and, to enthusiastic reviews, in the title role of "Hamlet." In previous season in Ann Arbor, Pennell has appeared in the title role of "Pericles" and, last fall, directed "As You Like It."

Joining Pennell on "Oh, What a Lovely War" in the role of musical director is PTP Guest Artist Mardy K Medders. Ms. Medders was musical director of the PTP Guest Artist Series production of "Purlie."

Musical choreographer for "Lovely War" is U-M student Jeffrey Guyton. In previous Guest Artist Series productions, Guyton has appeared, under Pennell's direction, as Orlando in "As You Like It" and did the choreography for "Camino Real."

Members of the "Oh, What a Lovely War company include, besides Jeffrey Guyton, Kathy Eaker Badgerow, Thomas J. Badgerow, Art Cohan, Gregory Fiedler, Jim Freeman, Benita Hofstetter, Jody Hiatt, Joe D. Lauck, Calvin MacLean, John McCarthy, Mary Liz MacNamara, Steve Meigs, Mark A. Mikulski, Gregory Miller, Rodney Saulsberry and Mary Lou Zuelch.

Tickets for "Oh, What a Lovely War" are available at the PTP Ticket Office in the Jobby of the Mendelssohn Theatre, Monday-Friday, 10 a.m.-1 p.m. and 2-5 p.m. Tickets are also available at all Hudson's Ticket Outlets and Central Travel and Ticket in Toledo.

Special group and school rates are ava#able for groups of 20 or more by calling Ms. Jean Galan at (313) 763-5213. For ticket information call (313) 764-in Mozart's Scena for Soprano, an aria or scene intended to be performed on the concert stage rather than as part of an opera.

It is a miniature concerto for voice rather than for a solo interest. This particular Scena was written about the time of Mozart's opera "Don Giovanni," when he was at the peak of his powers.

In the second half of the program, Miss Kim will be heard in another work new to Plymouth audiences-four songs by Richard Strauss, composed in the last year of that broad-gauged (1948) master's life. The orchestration is particularly vivid.

ERIC COATES' "London Suite" will open the program. A new work to Plymouth, it was composed in 1933.

Despite its unfamiliarity, Dunlap believes the local audience will find this light, effectively orchestrated work easily under-

Sir Edward Elgar, best known to casual listeners for "Pomp and Circumstance" at graduations and his cello concerto, will be represented on the program with "Variations on an Original Theme ('Enigma')."

It is a set of 14 variations on an original theme, each dedicated with initials to a

The program will close with a work by nearly everyone—the waltzes from "Der Rosenkavalier" by Richard Strauss. The original opera is light in mood, set in 18th century Austria, and an old-fashioned crowd pleaser.

The concert is funded in part by a grant from the Michigan State Council for the Arts, a donation from Ford Motor Co.'s Sheldon Road plant and the Plymouth Symphony League. The impact is to hold ticket prices to a modest $3.50 (half-price for senior citizens, free for K-12 students).

Dunlap's adventurous programming may not quite fit Plymouth's image as a stolid puritanical community of burghers, but it makes for mind-expanding listening

Area cross country teams-paced by Livonia Stevenson, Livonia Churchill, Garden City East and Westland John Glenn, all league champions or co-championsgenerally compiled fine records during the recently-concluded campaign.

As one might expect, runners from the four championship teams caught the eye of area coaches when they met last week to select the all-Observer & Eccentric cross country team.

The majority of the selections were unanimous choices, a tribute to their dedication, training and talent.

VIC WIETECHA, senior, Livonia Churchill. Perhaps the finest runner in the area this fall. Wietecha was regional champion, Western Six League champion and champion of the Redford Union Invitational. He placed third in the state Class A finals. Wietecha finished first in five dual meets and ran the three-mile course at Cass Benton Park in under 16 minutes in all but one race. He holds the Churchill record at Cass Benton (16:29) and the Western Six record (15:39) at another course. The senior also finished second in the Livonia City Meet, third at the Wayne Invitational and sixth at the Schoolcraft In-

TOBIN JONES, junior, Livonia Churchill. Jones frequently was a shadow of Wietecha this season, staying with his teammate stride for stride in several meets. His ability to keep pace enabled him to record many good finishes and earn a position on the all-O & E team. Jones placed second in the Western Six League Meet, third at the Livonia City Meet, ninth in the regionals and sixth at the Class A state finals.

The junior finished fifth at the Wayne Invitational, sixth at the Redford Union Invitational and 14th at the Schoolcraft In-

JIM DYDO, senior, Garden City East. East coach Ron Clifton said that the leadership and performance of Dydo were keys to the Panthers' best season in more than a decade The senior placed first in seven dual meets and second in the Northwest Suburban League Meet. A co-captain of the team. Dydo finished third at the Western Wayne and the Crestwood Invitationals, 11th at the RU Invitational, 12th at the regionals, 16th at the Schoolcraft Invitational and 32d at the Class A finals. Dydo has compiled a 4.0 grade point average and plans to attend the University of Michigan next year.

MARK BOYD, senior, Garden City West. Boyd, who placed first in seven of nine dual meets this season, holds the West home course record (Hines Park) with a clocking of 16:03.

The senior bested the field at the West Invitational, placed third in the Tri-River League Meet, fourth at the Wayne Invitational, fifth at the RU Invitational, seventh at the West Bloomfield Invitational and 12th at the Schoolcraft Invitational.

Boyd finished 17th at the regionals, running the final two miles with only one shoe after being spiked. Ironically, he missed qualifying for the state finals by one place.

SCOTT KLEAM, junior, Plymouth

Salem. Kleam, who finished first in every Suburban Eight League dual or tri meet in which he competed this season, also won the league meet with a time of 15:52. He placed second in the Wayne County

14:51, 15th at the regionals and eighth at the state meet. Kleam, a three-year runner, has qual-

TED UNOLD, senior, Westland John Glenn. Also a three-year competitor, Unold gallopped to an impressive trio of championships this fall.

The senior placed first in the Northwest Suburban League Meet, the Schoolcraft Invitational and the Wayne Invitational Unold finished 19th at the regionals, just missing the cut-off point for the state

BILL WILKIN, senior, Livonia Stevenson. The Spartans' top finisher all season, Wilkin placed first in five of six dual meets and first in the Livonia City Meet and the Milford Lakeland Invitational. Wilkin placed second in the Inter-Lakes League Meet, second at the regionals, a half-second behind Wietecha, and led the Spartans to a fifth-place team standing in the state meet. The two-year letterman holds the Stevenson record at Cass Benton Park with the time of 15:35.

BRIAN MURPHY, senior, Plymouth Canton. "He (Murphy) started out slowly, but gained momentum with the season," said Canton coach Dick Goepp, who termed Murphy owns the Canton school record of 16:11 at Cass Benton Park. He placed eighth at the Western Six League Meet and 18th at the regionals this season.

East, Perrine, like Murphy, improved tremendously during the course of the season. Perrine placed sixth at the Northwest-Suburban League Meet, tourth at the Western Wayne and the Crestwood Invitationals, 14th at the régionals, 18th at the Schoolcraft Invitational and 22d at the RU Invitational. The number two harrier on the team. Perrine is a B-plus student at East

TIM THIESEN, senior, Redford Bishop Borgess. A four-year runner and co-cap tain of this year's squad. Thiesen placed third in the Catholic League Meet and carned all-central division and all-Catholic League accolades.

He holds the school record of 15:05 at Rouge Park. Thiesen finished eighth at the gionals, 13th at the Schoolcraft Invitational and 19th at the Wayne County Meet.

Salem sophomore quarterback Rich Hewlett finds the running rough on this play, as three Harrison defenders swarm in for the tackle. Canton destroys Hawks in season finale, 63-14

The Plymouth Canton girls basketball team ended its regular season in style Tuesday night with a 63-14 smothering of Farmington Harrison at the Plymouth

The victory gives the Chiefs a 13-5 overall record and a 7-3 final mark in the Western Six League. The Canton girls finished second in the conference to Walled Lake Western for the second season in a row.

The Chiefs next action will probably come against Western in district action this Saturday night. The conference champs must first beat lowly Northville tonight to earn the right to play the Chiefs in semifinal action beginning at 8:30 p.m. on Western's court.

The happy trouncing of the Hawks enabled coach Mike McCauley to use all his players in the home finale. And all the girls that played reached the scoring col-with a superb performance that included 24 points and five steals. Sophomore Kathy Peck followed Sochacki with 10 points and led the team in assists with four. Sue Rekuc and Laura Butler each pumped in nine points. Butler led the squad in steals Sophomore Kelly Heaton and Rekuc led the team in rebounds. The Chiefs played an excellent defensive game, limiting Harrison to a meager seven points through three quarters. Canton jumped out to a 10-2 lead after the first quarter and increased that margin to 23-7 at halftime.

The Chiefs wiped out Harrison in the third quarter with an unbelievavle 24-0 advantage that put the game away. "We played a good hustling game but we fouled a little too much," said McCauley. "The extra fouls were caused by our aggressive play."

Other Canton players to reach the scoring column were Ellen Doran and Dawn Malek with three each, Kim Zoladz and Evie Pasek with two each and Heaton with Commenting on regular season play, McCauley said, "We have a long way to go, we're still a young team.'

Cagers vie for district title

By DENNIS O'CONNOR Sports Editor

For the boys, it's called March Madness, but for the girls you can call it Thanksgiving Madness.

But whatever you call it, state tournament basketball proves to be the most exciting part of any cage season.

And in the Walled Lake Western district, where both Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton participate this Saturday, many questions that are now formulating in the minds of fans, players and coaches will be answered Tuesday night.

The biggest question is whether Plymouth Salem, the favored team with a 17-0 record, can maintain that perfect mark and move to regional competition in Farmington.

Another question is whether the host team, Walled Lake Western, who sports only one setback on the year, can avenge that loss which the Salem Rocks gave to them way back at the first game of the season in a 52-51 overtime thriller.

And the final question is whether Plymouth Canton, 12-5 on the year, and the definite darkhorse candidate to win the crown, can upend that menacing Western squad that has beaten them on two occasions earlier in the season. And if Canton can get by Western, how would the squad do against its sister school from Salem.

It's the general agreement of both Salem coach Debbie Hatcher and Canton coach Mike McCauley that the Rocks are expected to reach the finals easily because of the weaker side of the bracket.

TOURNAMENT ACTION BEGINS tonight when Walled Lake Central and Detroit Kettering tangle at 7 p.m. with the winner playing Salem on Saturday also at

"We've lost two close games to them and we should have won the first time at our court," McCauley said. "We are going to have to get our offense going and we are going to have to be fired up. "If we aren't fired up we won't win, it's as simple as that."

As far as the possibility of playing sister-school Salem in the championship game on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m., McCauley said, "They must have an awfully good team because they are undefeated

Plymouth Salem co-captain Dave Champion headed the list of Rock football players who received special recognition at the club's season-ending banquet held Tuesday night at the Plymouth Elks Club.

Hewlett gained close to 700 yards rushing for the season and completed close to 45 per cent of his passes, but strangely enough, was overlooked as an all-league selection. He gained an honorable mention all-Sub-8 for his efforts.

Rock JV loses finale

By THOMAS ZAIBEK

The Plymouth Salem junior varsity football team ended the season on a losing note to a powerful, undefeated Bloomfield Hills Andover team, 28-6, last week.

Despite this three touchdown margin, the Rocks were in the contest all the way. trailing 14-6 with nine minutes left in the Andover scored first in the opening period for a 7-0 lead. The game turned into a defensive struggle until the third quarter when Plymouth fumbled on its own 35yard line. This was one of five Rock fumbles in the game, which resulted in Andover crossing the goal line for a 14-0 lead.

Dave Wilcox accounted for the only Salem points early in the fourth period, when he picked off an Andover fumble in midair and raced 40 yards for the touch-

But Andover ran the ball back for a touchdown on the ensuing kickoff to eliminate a possible Rock upset. The final Andover score resulted from a Salem fumble late in the game.

"You can't make mistakes against a team like that and expect to win," said coach Dick Barr.

Rob Lytle

That's the name being shouted around the University of Michigan campus these days as the Wolverines await their showdown game with Ohio State on Saturday at Seldom before in this keen rivalry has one player carried the hopes of his team more than Lytle will be doing on Saturday with the Big Ten title and a bid to the Rose Bowl at stake.

The burden of carrying the Wolverines was heightened last Saturday when the blond back established a new rushing record for the school when he reached the 3,085-yard mark during his advance on the Illinois defense

So astute an analylist of the game as Wally Weber, a ledgendary figure and a member of the famous Yost team of 1925, summed up Michigan's chances against Ohio State by saying-

"Lytle could make the difference. If Rob is on his game, he could bring us a most cherished victory

Sitting close by, two other legendary figures. Bennie OOsterbaan, the three time All-American, and Cliff Keen, the famed wrestling coach, echoed Wally's words.

Not alone was this trio, convinced that Rob Lytle would be the key figure in the game, coach Bo Schembechler admitted that Rob was the man to watch

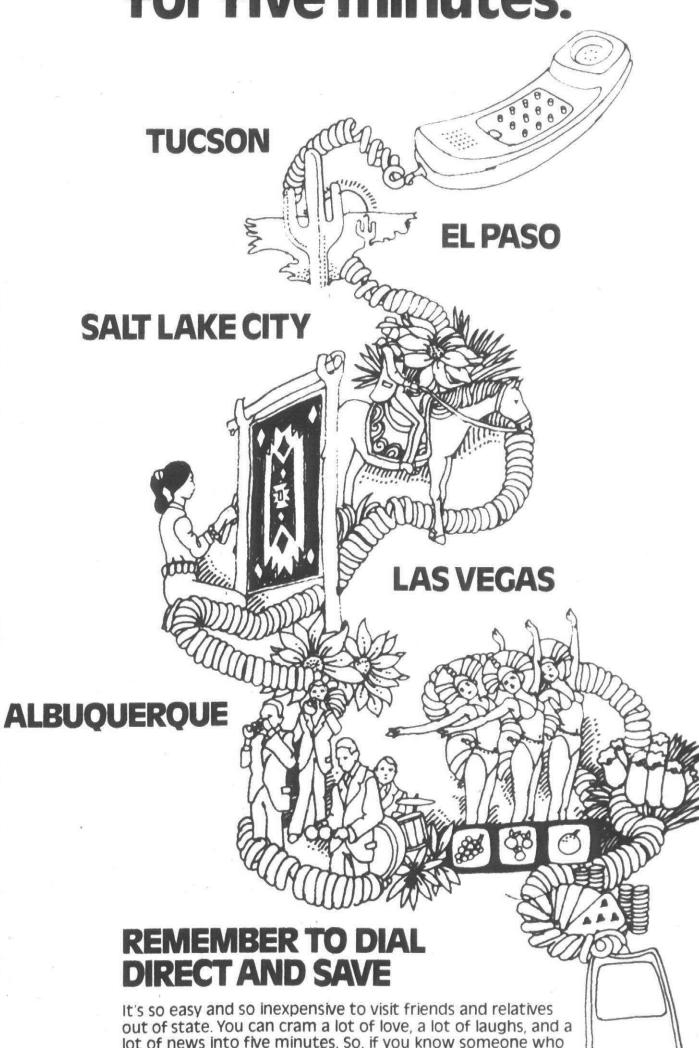

Rob is one of the most versatile of all Michigan backs. He can operate from the fullback or tail backpositions and is a speedy runner and a good blocker. You seldom see these talents in one player.

To be sure, the Ohio defense will have to be opened up. Rick Leach can do that with his southpaw passes to Jim Smith, his favorite receiver. But once the Buckeye de-

Basketball tournament action for both Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton girls begins Saturday night at Walled Lake Western with semifinal games.

Canton coach Mike McCauley said, 'I hope we can beat Western so we play Salem in the finals." That about sums up my sentiments

The undefeated Rocks are definitely in the easier of the two brackets as they face the Walled Lake Central-Detroit Kettering winner in the first semifinal contest.

Central should handle Kettering in that priliminary round but is not strong enough to stop the Salem win string of 17.

Canton is in the tough end of the bracket, playing Western in the other semifinal game Western, 17-1, easily will handle lowly Northville in its preliminary

The possiblities of an all-Plymouth championship game for the district crown depends heavily on the Chiefs' performance against Western. Canton finished second to Western in conference play, losing two close games to the Warriors. The Chiefs should have won the first meeting of the two squads when they played at home

The winner of this regional advances to the Farmington regional, where perennial tourney powerhouse Mercy High School should wipe out all tourney hopes any other team might entertain.

We missed a whole lot of easy shots in the first half, but made them in the second," said Churchill coach Jim Newman.

"I think when we went from a zone to a man-to-man defense we turned the game around. The straight man-to-man was our most successful defense." Newman added.

The Chargers held a 6-4 first quarter advantage, the score was tied at 18 at the intermission and Churchill pulled out to a 36-24 lead after three periods.

Karen Kowalski and Linda Mix accounted for 15 and 12 points, respectively, for Churchill, while Daun Muller led Franklin with 15 points.

Churchill concluded the regular season portion of its schedule with an 11-9 record in what Newman termed a rebuilding come and gone, and it's time to evaluate Doc's performance in the prediction arena. At the beginning of the season, I said Plymouth Canton would finish the season with a 2-7 record, and contrary to popular belief, that's exactly what happened. The only Canton games I missedwere the Chiefs' loss to Walled Lake Western and surprise winover Garden City East. DOC'S SUCCESS WITH Plymouth Salem each week was marginal. I said the Rocks would finish no worse than 7-2 on the year.

but they ended with a 54 record. I was wrong on four different games this season; when Salem lost to Belleville, Edsel Ford and Harrison, but beat Trenton. I also thought Salem would lose by a wide margin to Dearborn, but it turned out to be one of the finest Rock performances of the season.

Well, better luck next year-wouldn't it be nice if the good doctor could predict 9-0 campaigns for both our squads and not miss a single pick

The front porch has been expanded to 12' x 12' (almost a patio) and the foyer entry has been enlarged and lightened. Also, provision has been made for a full bath in the basement, making this area easily

CENTER WIDE CHOICE OF SHOPPING AND DIVERSIONAL ACTIVITIES AREA RESIDENTS AT FAIRLANE TOWN TO WELCOME

Center opened in Dearborn on Tuesday, March 2, as a one-of-a-kind retail center in the Wayne County enclosed Fairlane controlled, the area bounded by Michigan Avenue, Hubbard Drive, and Evergreen Road, the 1.5 million square foot structure will have six major stores including (Sears, JC Penney, Lord and Taylor and J.L. Hudson) and approximately 200 specialty shops and services within easy access from dozens of surrounding communities.

A balanced tenant mix, combining well-known retailers with firms new to the area, offers area residents unparalleled convenience and comparison shopping opportunities along with new dimensions in recreational, entertainment, and cultural pursuits. market area.

Located just west of the Southfield Freeway in

TENANT SHOPS AND SERVICES

Carefully selected mall merchants give Fairlane Town Center depth in men's, women's and children's clothing, shoes and accessories. Home entertainment, beauty and gourmet specialty shops are represented in addition to five movie theaters and many restaurants selected to match diverse dining needs.

ICE ARENA

Scheduled for year-round operation, a competition-sized ice arena is open to the public for recreational and instructional skating daily. The arena extends its hours of operation on weekends and set special hours for family skating on Sunday. Skates, ranging from a child's size 6 to a man's size 14, are available for rental and lockers will be provided.

EXTERIOR DESIGN AND LANDSCAPING

Fairlane Town Center is designed for optimum land use and customer convenience. Peripheral road systems and landscaped approach walkways leading to the Center provide pleasant and clear separation of pedestrian and vehicular traffic flow. Special racks for bicycles are located near major mall entrances

The long, low exterior roofline of the Fairlane Town Center blends harmoniously into the land-scaped terrain. Parking for 11,000 vehicles and mall entries are set on dual levels to add to the pleasing appearance and balance visitor ingress into the Center.

The warm building facade of earth-toned brick is strongly complemented by an ambitious land-scaping program which includes hardwood trees, low-lying shrubs and ground cover. Grade separation slopes were mass-planted with shrubs and trees and separated by curving lawn areas to provide textural and color relief in the transition from auto-oriented to pedestrian spaces.

INTERIOR DESIGN

Spaces within Fairlane Town Center provide balanced customer traffic flow within visually exciting walking distances. With five ramped levels easily accessible by escalators, stairways and glass enclosed elevators, the Center adds to its feel of spaciousness and continuity with all levels designed to permit broad views of activities on other levels. Generous use of large hexagonal skylights allows natural light to stream through to planted areas and sharpen the visual identification of retail shops.

Floors of marble aggregate terrazzo tile, that emphasize the Center's use of rich earth tones, and carpeting of deep warm colors contribute to shopper comfort underfoot.

AMENITIES

Spacious court areas separated from main pedestrian traffic patterns feature carpeted and upholstered seating. These intimate court areas create quiet environments for visiting, resting or people-watching. The areas are depressed behind attractive garden planters of ground cover and flowering foliage which will be changed for colorful displays each season.

Monumentally scaled works of museum-quality sculpture, created by internationally famed artists, grace four of the Fairlane Town Center court areas. An unusual fountain features a waterfall cascading into pool areas. A permanent exhibit stage overlooks a carpeted amphitheater for easy viewing of events and activities.

Standing ready to aid visitors are the "Fairlane Townettes," a specially trained corps of distinctively dressed information guides fully versed in every aspect of the Center. Lockers are available for storage purposes and strollers are on hand for mothers accompanied by small children.

COMMUNITY ROOM

A community meeting room, which can be arranged for either banquet or auditorium style seating, is complete with a stage for use by local clubs. With a capacity of more than 200 persons, the room also can be utilized for such other community activities as lectures, demonstrations, fashions shows and dramatic presentations.
