Future of new cops is uncertain

By CRAIG PIECHURA

Fourteen Canton Townnship police reserves became fully-certified regular police officers Friday night at a time when the future of their fledgling department and police chief was undeniably uncertain.

Graduating at the top of the 24-member class at the Criminal Justic Institute (CJI) was Robert Greenstein, Canton's defeated supervisor and police chief.

In marksmanship competition, Greenstein scored 236 points out of a possible 250 which classifies him as "expert" and earned him a trophy. Greenstein received another trophy for attaining the top score of 89 per cent in academics.

The graduation ceremonies on Cass Ave. in Detroit were held 14 hours before Canton's new administration was sworn-in.

The new Canton supervisor, Harold Stein, spent much of his campaign opposing "unprofessionalism" in the police reserve unit. Stein has also stated previously that Greenstein was ethically, if not legally, guilty of a conflict of interest holding the two jobs of supervisor and police chief.

Stein would not say if he would dump Greenstein as chief, explaining that was a decision of the entire board.

On Monday, prior to last night's Canton Township board meeting, Stein said he would work to make the Canton police department the "eyes and ears of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department, as originally intended, not the foundation of a regular police department."

At this point Greenstein and Stein are at odds.

Greenstein believes that a local department comprised of part-time certified officers who work with reserve police volunteers is the most economical way to provide community police protection. Stein said Monday that all possibilities for protection have not been explored but will be studied by a citizen's commitee before he makes his decision.

"I never took issue with the concept of a reserve department," said Stein, "only the way it was implemented. It's just been going and growing too fast. We have to look into all avenues should the sheriff's road patrol services be cut off."

After the CJI graduation ceremony Friday night, Greenstein said the fact that 13 men and one woman from Canton are now certified shows a conscious attempt to upgrade the professionalism of the department.

Asked if he felt he was due for a demotion from his position as police chief, Greenstein said "I hope there won't be a problem."

"As long as I'm chief of police, I'll support his (Stein's) administration and I'll run the department in a non-political manner."

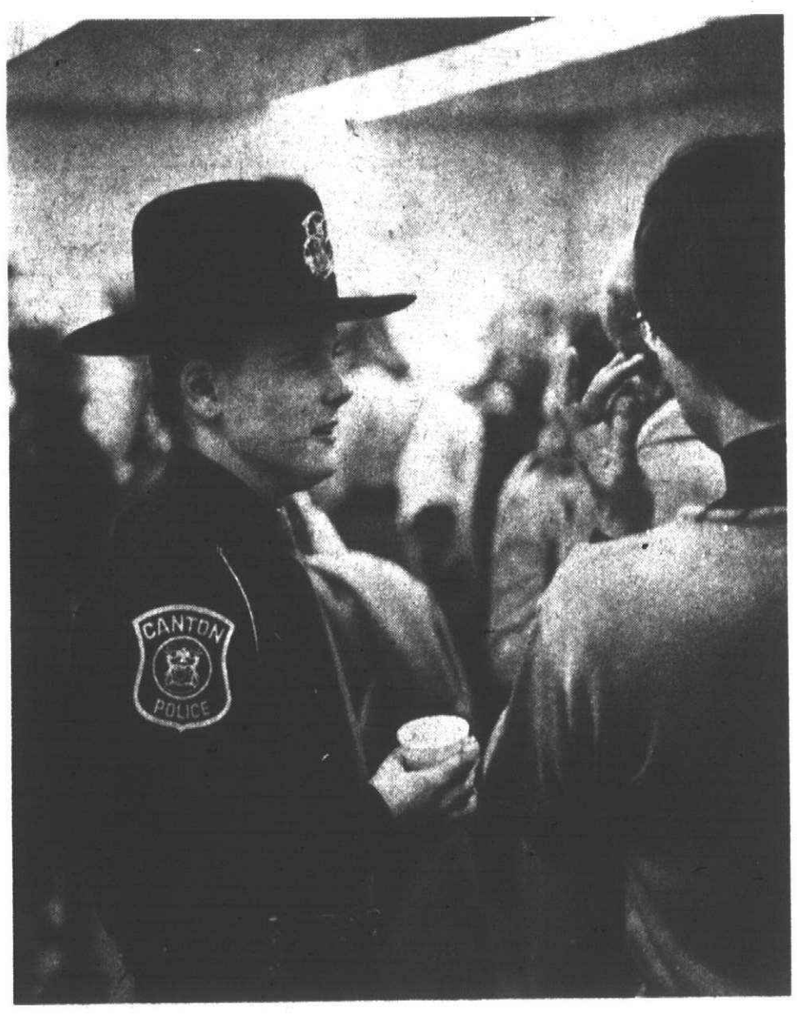

"I would hope the question of firing won't come up," Greenstein said. "Unless I've done something unforgivably wrong, I should be kept on just like the fire chief and the head of the DPW."

Greenstein said he holds "no animosity" toward Stein but said if Stein sincerely wants to bring the various factions of the community together, he should keep Greenstein as police chief.

"It would help to smooth things over if he did not fire me for political reasons," Greenstein said. I can't hamper Stein, I can only help. If things go wrong, I get the blame. If things go right, he can take the credit.

"Until I hear otherwise, I plan to stay on."

When pressed for alternatives, Greenstein said he would stay on as a regular policeman if that was his fate.

Kathy Petres was the only woman in the 24-member graduating class at the Criminal Justice Institute. Her husband is already a policeman. For additional photos of the first Canton certified police officers, turn to Page 3A. (Photo by Ray Smith)

WHILE GREENSTEIN'S graduation received the most talk and attention, there were 13 other Canton people who became police officers Friday night.

Dan Antieau of Canton received second place honors in marksmanship behind Greenstein.

"Bob scored a 236 expert and I scored 233 expert out of a possible 250 points. I shot my best score and he beat me," Greenstein said.

Antieau served as a reserve in Wayne before joining the Canton police reserves. He was asked how certification status will affect the reserve's authority and patrol functions.

"Nobody's really sure where we stand right now," Antieau said. "We have the power to write out tickets, make arrests and do anything any police officer of the state of Michigan is able to do but we need directions first from our superiors before we know if we'll be allowed to do those things. Before I say anything more, you'd better talk to my chief."

In addition to Antieau and Greenstein, others from Canton receiving diplomas were Leonard Bush, Robin Cripe, Kurt Johnston, Davey LeBlanc, John MacDiarmid, Roger Pearsall, Kathy Petres, Bruce Roderick, George C. Sharp, Eddie Lynn Tanner, Robert C. Van Lith and Kenneth L. Winkler, Jr.

Canton's contingent included the only woman in the 24-member class. She is Kathy Petres. She was beaming Friday night after receiving her certification diploma. But she too, said the future is uncertain for the police reserves.

"Hopefully, if and when we ever have a full-time police department, the certification will help in landing a job," she said.

Canton Ptl. Van Lith was picked to recite the police officers' code of ethics for the class which included new officers from Mercy College, the Detroit Fire Department, Taylor, and Hamtramck.

Before the largely-Canton crowd, Van Lith recited, in part:

"I will keep my private life unsullied as an example to all; maintain courageous calm in the face of danger, scorn or ridicule; develop self-restraint; and be constantly mindful of the welfare of others. Honest in thought and deed in both my personal and official life, I will be exemplary in obeying the laws of the land and the regulations of my department."

Continuing Clerk John Flodin and defeated Treasurer Carl Parsell formally participated in the ceremonies and informally congratulated the recruits afterward. Flodin swore in Canton's officers and Parsell helped in handing out diplomas and badges.

"I went to this academy 30 years ago," said Parsell, a former Detroit policeman and present executive director of the Police Officers Association of Michigan (POAM). "The institute wasn't located here when I graduated. I retired when my son graduated from here.

"What pleases me most is the fact that not many people get the opportunity to help found the first police department in their community. I've done that and I welcome these men and women."

Flodin ribbed Greenstein about his "hardest sacrifice" in the seven-week rigorous police training—the mandatory haircuts.

THE PLYMOUTH COMMUNITY BAND was invited to play at the graduation ceremonies. After the benediction at the close of the evening, Conductor Robert Burr led the group in a rousing march titled "Galop."

The graduating recruits marched solemnly out the back door until the rounded the corner out-of-sight and let out appropriate "Wa-hoos."

Stein enters his office and hunts for coffee pot

By DARLENE STINSON

Leaning back in the supervisor's office at Canton Township Hall, newly-inaugurated Supervisor Harold Stein leafed through a stack of papers on his desk and snuffed out a Carleton cigarette.

Out in the front office, at a desk reserved for the supervisor's secretary, Rose Bretzlaff organized office supplies at the desk where Pam Phillips, secretary to former Supervisor Robert Greenstein, had sat until Monday.

Monday was the new supervisor's first day on the job, and Stein was adjusting to his new surroundings.

"I'm just taking things as they come," said a relaxed and smiling Stein, as he sat at the supervisor's desk in a wallpapered-enclave of golden trees—decor created to meet Greenstein's tastes. "I'm just hoping to get things organized and acquaint myself with procedure."

Although most of Stein's first day in office was spent sifting through organizational tasks, the township's new top administrator lost little time dismissing Mrs. Phillips and replacing her with Mrs. Bretzlaff, one of Stein's campaign workers.

"I relieved her of her duties this morning," Stein said of Greenstein's former secretary. "It was nothing personal, and there were no hard feelings. It was just that I wanted my own secretary.

"It was a hard thing for me to do," Stein admitted, "but she (Mrs. Phillips) expected it. "She had served Greenstein loyally all along, and I think it would be hard for me to expect her to do the same with me."

Stein said he had considered transferring Mrs. Phillips to another position within township hall, but had dismissed the thought, "not knowing the needs of the office yet."

MRS. PHILLIPS AND her husband, Bruce, the township's ordinance officer, were avid Greenstein supporters. Phillips was appointed to the ordinance officer's post at Greenstein's recommendation.

Stein said he has not yet considered Phillips' future with the township.

"I don't have any other plans right now," Stein said of Phillips' job. "I can't solve all the problems the first day in office. The question is whether there's enough work for a separate ordinance department. If not, maybe it should fall under the building department, and people qualified to be building inspectors should serve."

Both Pam and Bruce Phillips declined to comment on the dismissal notice or Phillip's uncertain future with the township.

Stein said he has no immediate plans for other personnel changes. On election night, the newly-elected supervisor said he would consider cutting excess labor fat from township hall.

"I'm not going to upset a good thing, if everything is functioning properly," Stein said Monday. "From all appearances on the first day in office, it appears that everything is functioning properly. I think we have some excellent people working here, but I am going to watch costs very closely."

STEIN HOPES HIS administration can cure the political rifts that have divided township residents during the election campaign.

The new supervisor admits some feelings of annoyance toward announcements of Greenstein and Peter Bundarin, defeated supervisor candidates, to seek a recount of the Nov. 2 election results.

"If the candidates feel compelled to do this, they should," he said. "But I've put it out of my mind. If I worried about it, I couldn't do my job as supervisor.

"I feel it's time we forget the election campaign. I would hope that Greenstein and Bundarin supporters would feel the same way. It's time to unite for common goals. After all, there will be another election in two years."

A prime objective of the Stein administration, the new supervisor continued, will be increased citizen input on such issues as land use, the sign and berm ordinances, industry, police and the Citizens Advisory Council.

"I don't think you can make decisions that will affect every person in the community without citizen input," he said.

But, unable to find all the answers to the township's problems his first day in office, Stein Monday turned his attention to small matters—such as organizing the supervisor's office and locating township hall's coffee pot.

One matter of business already taken care of involves a request of Greenstein to purchase the supervisor's desk for $654—the price the township paid to purchase and refinish the huge wooden desk.

"I told him I had no objection," Stein said, "as long as he reimbursed the township. I have no attachment to it. All I need is a place to stack my junk."

Santa's workshop opens this Friday

Internationally-known celebrity Santa Claus will arrive by helicopter at the Canton Recreation Field at 1 p.m. Friday, Nov. 26.

The recreation field is located north of Cherry Hill on the east side of Canton Center Road.

S. Claus, or Phil Woods, as he's known to his mother, will be taken by convertible to the Harvard Square Shopping Center after landing.

People who are at the field for the touch down of the jolly old fellow are invited to sample coffee and doughnuts at the Canton Township Fire Hall No. 1, adjacent to the recreation field. The Fire Fighter's Ladies Auxiliary unit is providing the refreshments.

SANTA'S WORKSHOP was built over the past weekend by members of the Canton Chamber of Commerce, who are sponsoring the affair, and the Canton Jaycees.

Chamber President Al Daly worked on workshop construction with Al Daly, Frank McMurray, Jake Dingeldey, Mike Pinion and Bobby Ewald. Jaycees involved in the hammering, nailing and hauling were Andrew Rentz, Bruce Roth, Frank Hlavin, Paul Wilson, Dave Dickie, Earle Humphries and Don Schilling.

Two deer will be kept in a pen next to the workshop for children to pet and feed. Pictures of children with Santa can be obtained from photographer Bob Stark who will be on hand during weekends.

Mary Dingeldey, who is in charge of the Chamber office, was forced into active duty. She worked last weekend stitching an appropriate-sized suit for the 6 foot-5 inch Santa.

Santa will be housed at Harvard Square from Nov. 26 to Dec. 19.

THE WORKSHOP is open Fridays from noon to 9 p.m.; Saturdays 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Sundays from noon to 6 p.m.

Originally, the chamber planned to provide a van for Santa to ride around in and visit various shopping centers. This plan was dropped, according to Mrs. Dingledey, when some of the merchants declined to help pay advertising costs.

Greenstein ousted as chief of police

By CRAIG PIECHURA

Former supervisor Robert Greenstein unanimously was ousted as police chief last night by the new Canton Township board, before a capacity crowd and a television crew.

Greenstein will be allowed to stay on the force as a police officer. Current police Cmdr. Carl Silvers will serve as interim police chief while a task force works to study various methods of police protection.

"There is no intention by this board or myself to disband the police reserve unit," said new Supervisor Harold Stein.

Camera lights clicked on when Greenstein got up to deliver a last-minute appeal to the board to keep him on as chief at least until the fact-finders make their report on police options.

"I think you must realize as I do," Greenstein said, "that the vast majority of people in the community like and respect and want the police department left as it is.

"IN THE INTERESTS of peace and harmony, leave the police department alone. Allow it to function under the present supervision. I've built it and I've been able to defend it and run it without problems."

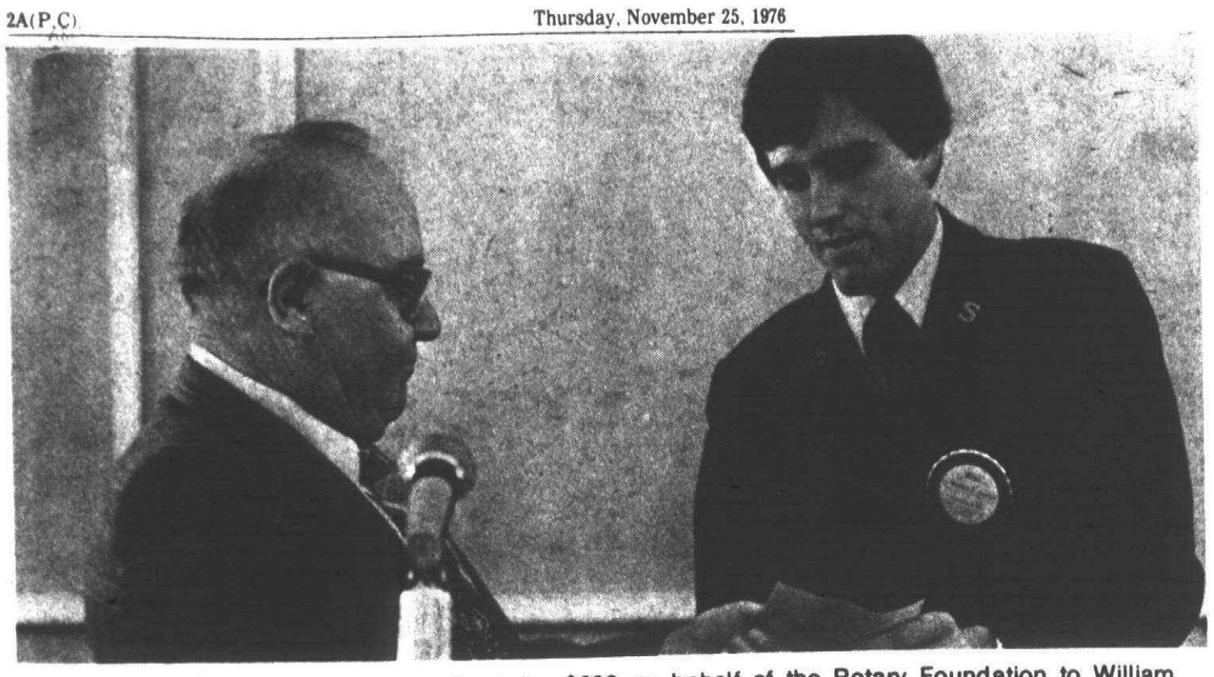

Greenstein pledged that as long as he wore the police chief uniform, he would "have no political involvement" and would honor the wishes of the supervisor and board.

"But to arbitrarily remove me for political reasons is intolerable," Greenstein said. "You can't heal wounds and then take an axe and hemorrhage that wound."

Greenstein's closing remarks brought applause from almost half the audience and some of his supporters gave him a standing ovation. His opponents also spoke up, saying it was time for a change. Other said that they doubted that Greenstein was capable of divorcing himself from his political power base.

A second motion to name Silvers as interim police chief was approved 5-2. New board members Lynne Goldsmith and Treasurer Anne Bradley voted against the motion. Goldsmith said she opposed the interim appointment because she had not had enough time to evaluate Silvers or interview other candidates for the top cop job.

"First we have to determine exactly what our police needs are and then determine who we need to fill them," said Ms. Goldsmith.

Use your head for safety

Moderation and common sense can help rid the 102-hour Thanksgiving holiday of its reputation as one of the most dangerous periods in Michigan for auto travel.

Sixteen persons were killed on Michigan roads last Thanksgiving holiday compared with 26 in 1974 and an average of 24 each of the last four years.

Last Thanksgiving, according to the Auto Club of Michigan, alcohol was a known or suspected factor in eight of 14 traffic accidents in which 16 persons died.

To reduce the death toll this Thanksgiving, Auto Club cautioned motorists driving near home to avoid alcohol; 75 per cent of all holiday traffic deaths occur within 25 miles of home.

The holiday, which runs from 6 p.m. Wednesday to midnight Sunday, traditionally is family-oriented.

The Auto Club makes these recommendations for hosts and holiday travelers to make this Thanksgiving holiday the safest ever.

•Restrict one-day, round-trips by car to no more than 200 miles and plan to be home by dusk.

•If driving, remember the "One for One" rule. It takes one hour for the average person to assimilate one ounce of alcohol. Two ounces of alcohol in an hour double chances of a fatal accident.

•Hosts should stop serving alcohol an hour before guests depart and serve a meal or snacks.

Auto Club's "Fuel Gauge" survey shows 69 per cent of the stations checked along main state highways will be open daylight hours Thanksgiving Day. After 9 p.m., 41 per cent will be open, and after midnight, 12 per cent will pump fuel.

The one-hour parade will draw an estimated 500,000 persons.

A sellout crowd of 80,000 is expected for the 12:30 p.m. football clash between the Detroit Lions and the Buffalo Bills at Pontiac's Silverdome Thanksgiving Day. Motorists not attending the contest should avoid stadium-area highways one hour before and after the game, which should end about 3:30 p.m.

If planning a trip by air, many carriers report flights filled at peak travel times on Wednesday and Thursday and Friday and Sunday. Most popular destinations include Las Vegas, New York, Los Angeles, and several Florida cities. Hotel or motel accomodations at deluxe facilities will be difficult to find in those locations.

Air travlers avoiding Nov. 24, 25, 26, and 28 should encounter fewer travel problems.

Politicians sworn in

In comparison to the swearing-in ceremony for Canton officials in 1974, the ceremony on Saturday morning at Fire Station No. 1 was decidedly low-key.

Two years ago when members of the Greenstein slate officailly took their oaths of office, it was done with some pomp and circumstance. A private hall was rented, about 150 people were invited, and food was provided by a caterer. As one guest commented, "It was a real ocassion, almost a mini-inauguration."

In contrast, Saturday's administration of the oath of office was done quietly, quickly, and in high seriousness. Judge Dunbar Davis, the presiding official, spoke briefly to the small group assembled for the service. He mentioned the complexity of modern politics and congratulated the new group on winning their offices.

THE FIRST officers sworn in were Constables Irene Murphy, Robert Edwards and James Murphy. Next was Treasurer Ann Bradley followed by Clerk John Flodin, Supervisor Harold Stein and Trustees Lynn Goldsmith and Gene Daley.

After administering each oath, Davis asked the new officials if they had anything to say to the audience.

Most echoed Ann Bradley who said, "Everything I have to say has already been said.

Stein's remarks to the audience were brief. "Now is the time for all Canton residents to pull together forthe benefit of Canton," he said.

Cut Your 1976 Federal Income Tax Now...

With a Tax Sheltered Retirement Savings Account at Standard Federal Savings!

Individual Retirement Accounts

An individual Retirement Account (IRA) is a personal tax-sheltered retirement savings plan for people who are not covered by a pension or profit sharing plan. The IRA plan allows you to deposit up to $1,500 annually, or 15% of your earned income, whichever is less, in a tax-sheltered savings account. Your annual deposit is deductible from your gross income when computing your Federal Income Tax and your IRA savings account interest is tax-deferred until you redeem your account.

Any wage earner who is not a participant in a retirement plan may set up an IRA. This includes:

- individuals working for firms that do not have pension or profit sharing plans.
- "new" employees who do not qualify for a pension plan at their place of employment.
- self-employed persons who prefer an IRA to a Keogh plan.
- employees leaving a pension or profit sharing plan can rollover into an IRA account.

The chart assumes wage earner is in the 25% tax bracket and wants to save $1500 annually with a deposit in each calendar year. With IRA the full $1500 (no tax payable) is deposited and the interest accumulates tax sheltered until retirement. Without IRA, the $1500 pre-tax dollars would be reduced by taxes to a net deposit of $1125 and all interest accumulations would be taxed during the current tax period.

Keogh Plan

The Keogh plan allows self-employed persons to set aside tax-sheltered dollars up to $7,500 each year, or 15% of your earned income, whichever is less. The amount you set aside is tax deductible and the interest earned is tax-deferred until you retire. Income taxes on both principal and interest are payable only when benefits are withdrawn from your account.

Workshops slated on Canton growth

The problems caused by growth in Canton Township, particularly projected increases in student population, will be tackled by the Plymouth Board of Education within the next couple months.

Most of the scheduled workshops in December, and others remaining yet to be scheduled, deal either with problems related to future student growth or growth in recent years.

Monday, Nov. 29, for instance the school board will hold a workshop session devoted to evaluation of the 45-15 (year-round school) program at Miller Elementary in Canton. Because of community interest in 45-15, the board hopes to meet in the cafetorium of Plymouth Canton High to accomodate a larger audience.

A workshop on Dec. 13 will be devoted to recommendations on changes at the Centennial Educational Park, with many of these suggestions also related in part to growth at Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton high schools.

Options taken on just these two topics—the CEP and 45-15— could require additional staffing and additional building space. Because of this link between possible 45-15 and CEP changes and staffing and school building requirements, the discussions will be linked closely to growth projection studies and the short-range need for building construction.

The school board presently is looking at growth projections which may lead the board to schedule a school construction bond issue election in the spring.

Growth demands which are especially critical have been spurred by new housing starts in the Sunflower project on Canton Center between Warren and Joy, new homes in the Sheldon-Warren area and single family construction in the general area of Lilley and Palmer Roads.

The school board also wants to hold a workshop study session on use of Canton Phase III—the music and physical education wing to Canton High expected to be finished by mid-January. Related to this opening are Trustees Marcia Borowski's concerns about placing more emphasis on intramural sports versus varsity sports.

Trustee Flossie Tonda points out that the board must make decisions on matters such as 45-15 and the spring bond issue soon and and cannot afford to wait until March to decide.

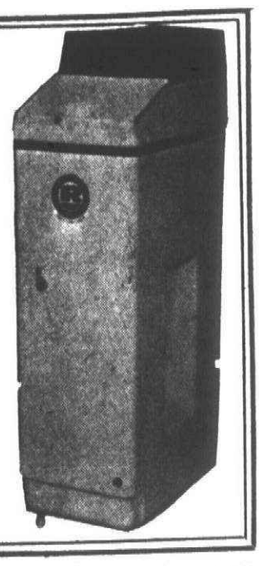

Because of the multitude of issues related to growth which have to be discussed, the board hopes to schedule some workshop discussions immediately following regular board meetings on the second and fourth Mondays of each month, through January.

Joe Gray, school board president, also stresses workshops are needed on the bond issue question and to discuss use of Canton Phase III—items which could be interwoven in the 45-15 and CEP sessions or scheduled as seperate sessions following the second and fourth regular meetings.

Treat mom tomorrow and eat out

By GLENN BUNTING

Every year when Thanksgiving rolls around, thoughts of an overloaded table packed with delicious foods prance in the heads of every family member. But what if mom revolts and resists being locked up in the kitchen Wednesday night and most of Thursday, while preparing a 20-course meal?

Well, local restaurant owners are offering a tempting alternative.

The Mayflower Hotel and Meeting House will entertain nearly 4,000 persons in downtown Plymouth on Turkey Day, including an actual re-creation of the first Thanksgiving Day dinner with authentic costumes.

Manager Kirk Lorenz said the elaborate, multiple-course meal at $10 a plate is already completely booked for 2,000 hungry eaters, as it was the past two years. In the hotel, another 2,000 regular family dinners ranging from $8-$10 also is completely sold out.

There are, however, available places to eat on Thursday. The Hillside Inn will be serving its traditional Tom Turkey, featuring an individual sit-down dinner with a dozen items at $6-$8.

NAPOLEON'S IS offering a $5 dinner or all the turkey, beef and side dishes one can eat. Football buffs won't have to sacrifice watching their gridiron heroes as Napoleon's giant TV screen will provide all the action. Owner Joe Nahra is expecting to serve 500-600 dinners from noon to 9 p.m.

Not to be outdone, the Plymouth Hilton is offering two specials. A sit-down buffet in the ballroom with four entrees—turkey, beef, roast and pork— highlights a packed menu costing $8-$10. The ballroom will be open from noon to 6 p.m.

The Hilton's Jolly Miller Restaurant is cooking up turkey, roast, prime rib and seafood for its customers, in addition to some roast duck. The Miller will be open from 1-9 p.m. and dinners range from $8-$11.

The Palace in both Plymouth and Canton will be open all day for breakfast or late meals, as will The Clock. Canton residents might want to take advantage of the Cyprus Gardens' Turkey Day special.

Whatever the place, if mom wants a break and the relatives failed to invite you over, do something different for Thanksgiving. And don't forget the pumpkin pie!

The Stroller . . .

Paging Mr. Newman

By W. W. EDGAR

In the public prints the other morning Ed Newman, one of the nation's top TV commentators, made a plea for return to the use of basic English. True, he was "shilling" for his new book on the subject, but his comments caused The Stroller to wonder what the TV star would have done had he lived through the era of the first- and second generation of the Pennsylvania Dutch.

In his plea for the use of basic English, Newman claimed he was just a bit irritated by the use of such phrases as "the sanitary engineer" when referring to the janitor. And he would have shrieked had he heard the garbage man referred to as "the purveyor of culinary by-products" Yet, these are the terms being used in our modern every day life.

True, they are high sounding, but it was just the opposite with the Pennsylvania Dutch, whose expressions even cause no end of smiling.

The Stroller well recalls the first time he took the lady of the house back home. She had never been east and never had been close to any of the real "Dutch".

When we arrived at the old home which was part of a row complex we climbed the steps to the front porch. She noticed a small sign on the house next door and almost screamed.

"Look at that note, she said, "I don't know what they mean."

The Stroller looked and laughed. There on the printed card was this advice " Bump, the bell don't make. "

All that means, The Stroller explained, is that the bell is out of order and that the callers should knock on the door.

Later, during our visit we were sitting on the porch during the display of fireworks on the Fourth of July. The porch was close enough to the pavement that conversations among the pedestrians could be heard.

During the course of the display, one of those loud bombs was exploded high in the air. At that moment two ladies walked by and looked skyward when they heard the explosion. There were no sparks or stars—just a loud crack.

As the women looked up, one of them was heard to say, "That one made more noise than it showed anything "

The lady from our house just looked across the porch at The Stroller and laughed. She was getting a real example of the fractured English spoken by the Pennsylvania Dutch.

And well The Stroller recalls one morning during his school days when the youngster in the next aisle who lived out on a nearby farm, had his head in his hands and his elbows on the desk. He was in deep thought. It was a penmanship class and he wasn't writing when the teacher came along.

" Are you having trouble?" she asked.

The young farm lad looked up and asked: "Does it belong an "e" behind before?"

It was a simple problem. All he was seeking was to know if the word "before" ended with an "e"

And the recollection of that morning still causes The Stroller to chuckle and wonder what the TV commentator would have said about that remark.

On another occassion a friend of The Stroller who had come east to play football at Muhlenberg College, walked into the first restaurant he found after leaving the railroad station.

Scanning the menu he selected an order of pork chops. The waitress took the order and was gone for quite some time. Then she returned, wearing a sort of frown, and calmly said, "The pork chops is all and the new ain't yet."

What she mant was meant was that they were out of pork chops and that the new order had not arrived.

Then there was the morning when one of our neighbors who had listened in on a neighbhrhood verbal battle over the fence said to the victim of the blast, " If she woulda given it to me like she gave it to you, I woulda given it to her."

What a colorful group— those Pennsylvania Dutch. Mr. Newman would have enjoyed them.

CORP calls housing forum

A meeting to discuss senior citizen housing and services within the Plymouth community has been called by CORP (Citizens for Open and Responsible Planning).

All interested persons are urged to attend the open meeting Dec. 2, which will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth, 701 W. Church Street.

Various organizations and clubs have been notified of the meeting and CORP hopes constructive ideas will result from the meeting.

The meeting is being held four days before the Dec. 6 session of the Plymouth City Commission which, on that date, hopes to receive suggestions on viable housing alternatives for senior citizens during its committee-of-the-whole meeting.

SEMCOG suffers a power setback

By TIM RICHARD

The Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) suffered "a major setback" when it lost much of its appointment power over the restructured board of the regional transportation agency.

That warning was issued by SEMCOG Executive Director Michael Glusac and agreed to by local officials from suburban Oakland and Wayne counties.

"The new structure for SEMTA (Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority) not only reduces the role of SEMCOG, but it reduces the input and role of cities and townships," Glusac said.

He said the new SEMTA structure will "generate political struggles that . . . may enhance a parochial point of view at the expense of a regional one."

Glusac, addressing SEMCOG delegates at a Nov. 18 general assembly meeting in Dearborn, warned local officials to ask themselves whether the loss of influence in SEMTA might "foretell a decline in SEMCOG's influence."

MICHAEL GLUSAC
'A major setback'

THE NEW SEMTA structure, approved in September by the Michigan Legislature and Gov. William G. Milliken, sets up a 15-member board with only three persons appointed by SEMCOG. The City of Detroit and county boards of commissioners will become the major appointing power when the new law takes effect April 1.

From its birth in 1967 until next March 31, SEMTA has been governed by a nine-member board, six selected by SEMCOG's general assembly and three by the governor.

Through SEMCOG membership, cities, townships, villages, counties and even school districts had a voice in SEMTA board policy.

SEMCOG had opposed any SEMTA restructuring that would reduce SEMCOG's role to anything less than majority appointing power. But the SEMCOG viewpoint was crushed in the intense politicking that preceeded passage of the new transit act.

LOCAL DELEGATES agreed SEMCOG had taken "a step backward" but doubted there would be a long-range decline in the seven-county voluntary planning agency's influence.

Prompted by Oakland County Commissioner Larry Pernick of Southfield, the general assembly instructed its legislative committee to seek changes in the SEMTA act that would give local units a role.

"In the heat of trying to get a bill passed (to finance a rapid transit system), some of our state representatives who are usually supportive of regionalism gave up more than they probably had to," Pernick said.

"Our legislators must realize that transportation is a regional problem and needs a regional board that can look at local government's problems."

JERRY RAYMOND, Livonia councilman and probable candidate for a state senate vacancy, said he would be "a strong voice" in the legislature for giving local elected officials a role in SEMTA.

"Only through the organization of SEMCOG can local officials have a voice," said Raymond.

Scott Dodge, Plymouth city commissioner, said it was "too bad SEMCOG's role was so drastically reduced. . . . I as an individual feel I have such little input into things."

Westland Council President Justine Barns said she had already talked to State Rep. Tom Brown (D-Westland) about what changes can be made.

"Wayne County wouldn't look so objectively at regional problems as a whole as SEMCOG does," Mrs. Barns said. She noted that SEMCOG's continued existence as a voluntary group was strengthened by the prospect of appointing SEMTA board members.

John Marcosky, Southfield councilman, said local governments know transportation problems far better than counties, which become major SEMTA board powers under the new law.

"We're not going to accept defeat," Marcosky said, adding that cities could work through the Michigan Municipal League to regain their voice in SEMTA appointments.

GLUSAC NOTED that control of SEMTA is particularly critical as the regional transportation agency embarks on a billion-dollar rapid transit system with a pledge of $600 million from the federal government.

Woman of year is being sought

The Plymouth Jaycettes are looking for the woman of the year for 1976.

The Jaycee auxiliary had sent out letters inviting organizations and individuals to nominate candidates for the honor.

This week the Jaycettes announced the deadline is being extended until midnight Dec. 6 to allow ample opportunity for all candidates to be considered.

To be eligible for the honor, the nominee must be between 18 and 35 years of age, a resident of the City of Plymouth or Plymouth Township or be employed in either community. A nominee also will be considered if most of her community service work is done in the Plymouth area.

Jaycee Auxiliary members are not eligible for the award.

Nomination forms are available from the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce, 878 Wing Street, Suite 6A, or can be obtained by calling Tony Jarmol at 453-8377.

Individuals can be nominated by either a service club or by another individual. The woman of the year award is being held in conjunction with the Jaycees Distinguished Service Award (DSA) to honor an outstanding young man in the Plymouth community.

The woman of the year and DSA winners will be announced and honored at a banquet to be held in January.

The Mackinac Bridge (which connects the upper and lower peninsulas of Michigan) was completed in 1957 after four years of labor by 10,000 men.

The four-lane span stretches for five miles over the Straits of Mackinac and is considered to be the longest suspension bridge of its type in the world, according to the Travel Bureau, Michigan Department of Commerce.

Don't like classes? Try inventing own

If you don't like any of the courses offered at Schoolcarft College, invent your own. The two year old Independent Human Studies program at Schoolcraft, under the guidance of director Sue Kaplan and Gordon Wilson has provided an alternative education for 15-20 students a semester.

"Students design their own projects, which cross disciplinary lines, and develop their work with minimal guidance from faculty consultants in the academic areas of their interest," said Ms. Kaplan. At the same time, they focus on the learning process itself, both as a general guide and as each individual adapts it to serve his or her own needs."

Students are selected by a screening process that includes an hour long interview, and self motivation is particulaly important. The class topics may be unorthodox and only of interest to a particular student. An outline is drawn up, and the student meets twice a week with the teacher and once a week with other students taking the course.

Some past projects include: construction of a wind generator (physics and composition credit), a study of the changing man in our society, as seen through the experiences of a recently divorced man in his 40s (composition and psychology credit); a series of poems and stories portraying actual people and life in a Pennsylvania coal mining town in the 1920s (creative writing and anthropology credit), and a public relations campaign including the writing of press releases, designing of brochures and posters, delivering speeches before community groups (design and composition credit).

A student is required to work on only the Independent Human Studies course. No other courses can be taken during that semester. Credits gained from the program are applicable to an associate degree from Schoolcraft and are transferable for credit at other schools.

Ms. Kaplan noticed a few trends after two years. "The courses selected by the students so far have been heavily into the social sciences, including sociology and psychology."

She also noted a number of older students taking the courses. Many students are adults who have come back to college, and the age ratio is from 17 to past 50.

The setting for the program is Cooke Center, Northville. The center was picked because it is "as non-institutional as we could find." An open house will be held there on Nov. 30 at 7 p.m.

"We have had good, positive feedback on the program," said Ms. Kaplan. "One former student has transfered to the University of Michigan, another has found a job with the Southeast Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA). One student, although recieving a failing grade, found the program changed her life. She was going to move but remained here to tackle an issue."

Ms. Kaplan feels the program goes beyond the subjects covered by the student.

"They focus on the learning process itself, both as a general guide and as each individual adapts it to suit to his or her needs. This program is a chance to be more than a digit, more than a serial number in a mass of serial numbers; it is a reaction against the production-line theory of modern education for a living."

Dear Kids,

It's holiday time again, and that means it's time for the annual Observer & Eccentric Holiday Art Contest! If you're a boy or girl in any grade between 1 and 6, and if you live in our newspaper circulation area, then you can enter our Holiday Art Contest and maybe win a prize!! Show us in any form you like: drawing, painting, collage, sculpture, mixed media, even 3-dimensional creations. But — there is a size limitation. 2-dimensional (basically flat) works can be as big as 11"x14", and 3-dimensional works can be as large as 16"x16"x16".

PRIZES!!

First prize artists in each category (grade 1-3 and grade 4-6) will win a bicycle. Second prize winners in each category will receive a $25.00 U.S. Savings Bond. All of these prizes will be awarded on the basis of originality, imagination and interpretation. The decisions of the judges are final.

Madonna launches fundraising drive

Madonna College in Livonia has launched a development campaign among businesses and friends to raise $135,000 in new, direct financial aid in the next year.

Phase one will be a week-long effort beginning Dec. 1 to reach businesses in Livonia. Thereafter, businesses in Redford Township, Plymouth, Northville, and Novi will be contacted by 10 teams of two persons—one businessman and one Madonna staff member.

Business fund goal is $100,000.

The drive was announced by Sister Mary Francilene, president of the 2,000-student college at Schoolcraft and Levan.

Co-chairmen are Peter Ventura, Livonia councilman and head of a construction firm, and Donald DiComo, Northville resident who is a partner in a Livonia architectural firm. Honorary chairman is Livonia Mayor Edward H. McNamara.

THE DRIVE was launched at a dinner honoring 130 "Friends of Madonna," persons who had contributed $100 or more during the last year.

Special recognition, in the form of plaques, went to DiComo and to Thomas G. Bosco, Bloomfield Hills resident and retired president of a food brokerage firm.

Madonna is a coeducational, four-year college operated by the Felician Sisters, a Catholic order. The college is in its 30th year.

Sister Francilene said Madonna will continue to profess "Christian humanistic values" and is "typical of smaller colleges which provide a choice for students who seek closer faculty relationships and who can ask the 'why' questions as well as the 'how to.'"

INCREASED OPERATING costs have made it more difficult to operate without a deficit, Sr. Francilene said.

Sister Mary Lauriana, vice-president for planning and development, said the operating budget currently is about $3.2 million and comes from these major sources:

- Tuition and fees, $2 million or about 67 per cent. Tuition is $35 a credit hour, lower than any other independent college in the state.
- Federal grants, $240,000 or eight per cent. This helps such programs as emergency medical training, nursing, gerontology and artistic interpretation for deaf persons. It does not include federal aid to students.
- State grants, $150,000 or about five per cent. These help such programs as teacher education, child care and senior citizens programs.
- "Other" income, $450,000 or 10 per cent. This miscellany includes interest on the endowment fund, room and board for resident students, college activities and the card shop.
- Private gifts and grants, $287,000 or 10 per cent. This is the area Madonna is seeking to beef up.

THE FELICIAN Sisters themselves have been contributing $200,000 annually to that fund. But the order in 1975 decided to put the money into a restricted capital fund, not into the operating budget, Sr. Francilene said.

The Archdiocese of Detroit, which covers eight counties, contributes to parish schools at the K-12 level but not to colleges like Madonna.

Contributions from business and friends will go in part to help the operating budget, Sr. Lauriana said, but the college board also wishes to pump some into the endowment fund, where it could earn interest.

Currently, the endowment fund is $900,000. Madonna's goal is to increase it to $10 million.

ENROLLMENT has tripled in the last seven years, and a levelling off point is in the near future.

The 2,091 men and women add up to 1,400 full-time equated students. The goal, said Sr. Lauriana, is 2,000 full-time equated students.

Why the northwest wind blows so cold this year

When Hiawatha left the land of living men, he sailed westward to Ponemah, the land of the hereafter, where he ruled over the northwest wind. So it was written in the tales collected in Michigan by Schoolcraft the Indian agent and popularized by Longfellow the poet.

Hiawatha's people had accepted the faith of the Black-Robes, and the great teacher of the Chippewa had approved, for the new faith had a clearer idea of Gitchee Manito the one god.

There had been changes in the lands near the big sea water. Red men and white still cherished the beaches inhabited by the gull, still fished for the pike and the yellow perch, still feasted on Mondamin the corn. But fewer now used thunder-sticks to hunt Wawa the goose because they preferred a domesticated, more succulent fowl, the tur-ki.

BUT HIAWATHA was troubled by some changes as, each autumn, he sent the northwest wind to announce the harvest and the time to prepare for the icy winter.

"I am troubled at what has befallen my people, the Chippewa, O Mudjekeewis," said Hiawatha to his father the west wind. "While they have followed the faith of the Black-Robes, my people's lot has been less than happy, for oft are they maltreated by the new inhabitants. In our ancestral grounds, now called the Soo, my people are confined to poor lodges in the poorest section of the village."

"Mmmm, there is truth in your words," answered Mudjekeewis the west wind, "yet there are persons in the white tribe's civil rights division who have strong medicine and heed Hiawatha's words. There is awareness, and there is hope."

"You give me much comfort," said Hiawatha, "but I am even more troubled at the lack of honor given the Feast of Mondamin the corn. Three days did I wrestle Mondamin. After burial, his body brought forth corn, and at the harvest I began a feast of thanksgiving.

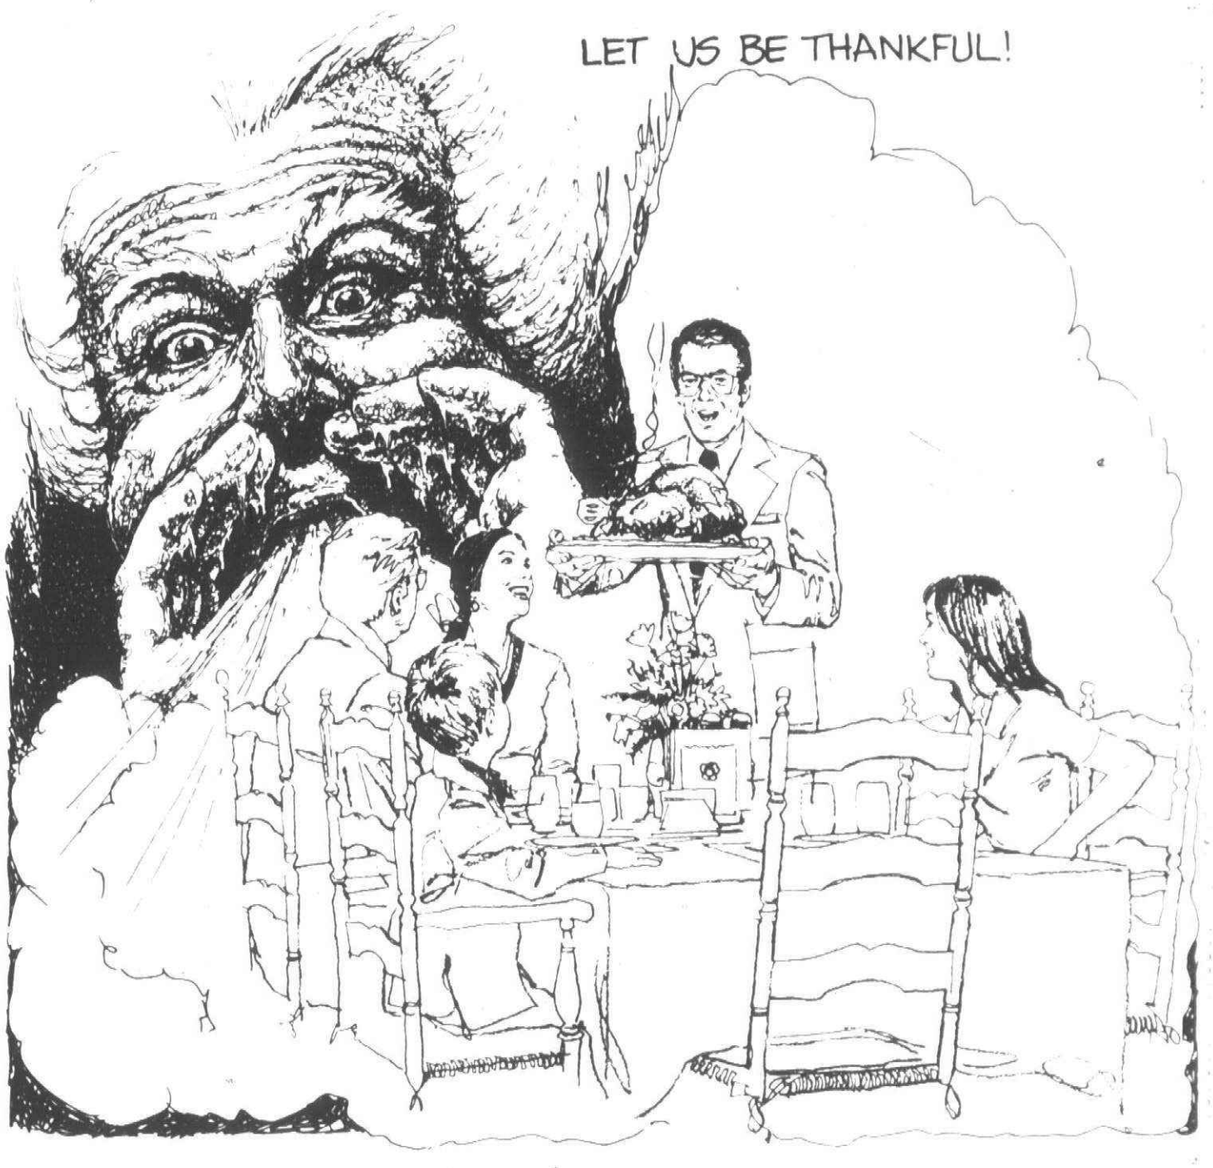

"I see now this feast of thanksgiving only marks the beginning of a trading spree. Braves and squaws think of nothing but wampum. The trading posts are gaudy with neon and plastic during the solemn season the Black-Robes called Advent. People demand more and ever more from their big chiefs in Washington, but they do not give proper thanks to Gitchee Manito the one god."

"LOOK CLOSER, O Hiawatha," said an old voice. It was Nokomis, Hiawatha's grandmother. "You are blinded by the coated baubles in the trading posts. Though I be a wrinkled crone, yet am I woman enough to be able to look into the hearts of our people.

"While the trading posts have slighted the Mondamin thanksgiving and cheapened the Christmas, many of our people still give thanks. Some worship. Many a mother have I heard singing a song of praise as she roasts the tur-ki. The children in school are taught how you in Michigan and your blood-brother Squanto in Massa-chusetts taught red men and white the ways of getting food and the need to give thanks. Many proud fathers, as they sit with their papooses at the table, quietly raise their eyes to Gitchee Manito the one god to give thanks for protecting their families."

Hiawatha hearkened to the words of Nokomis his grandmother. "I am still not pleased at the people's devotion," he said at length, "and I will make the northwest wind blow very sharply this winter. It will make red men and white appreciate the warm growing season and repent the selfishness of their ways. At the next harvest, they will be wiser and humbler as they give thanks."

It is said that Hiawatha never spoke falsely.

editorial opinion

Fact-finders necessary to judge police options

A big bravo is certainly in order for the 13 men and one woman in Canton Township who recently received police certification diplomas after undergoing seven grueling weeks of physical and academic training.

BRAVO! The diploma can benefit them and their community.

But before we lose our heads over the good news, we must evaluate our present police system and, after doing that, determine the direction we should be heading for adequate police protection at the most economical price.

Former Supervisor Robert Greenstein is a newly-graduated policeman who firmly believes that the existing police reserve force, accompanied by certified members of the department, is the most economical way to provide protection for township citizens.

This argument is not the only one which merits consideration, as Greenstein would like us to believe.

For example, when the reserve idea was first brought up by Greenstein, he told the audience that the reserves and command officers would be paid minimum wage ($2.25 per hour) and said that many would decline their wages. There was no rebate rush.

Now, the certified officers will earn $3.82 while two command offers receive $5.01. Reserves continue to earn $2.25. While we're not arguing that those are high wages, we are saying that the costs are increasing.

None of the voters of Canton has had anything to say about the establishment of a police department.

THIS TIME WE agree with new Supervisor Harold Stein when he says that a citizen advisory committee should study and assess the various approaches to police patrol. The committee must be comprised of all segments and factions of the township and report on the cost and coverage of the various approaches.

It is the taxpayers who will pay, whether we have a Canton Police Department, sign a contract with the Wayne County Sheriff's Department or establish a multi-community police department. These three different approaches were touted by the three supervisor candidates during the election.

Why limit ourselves to just those three? It is very likely that some of Canton's self-described "concerned citizens" would have new ideas and analyses that would help in securing a consensus opinion from a study committee.

A police millage or advisory question is needed in the near future. These same voters should have input before any proposition lands on the ballot.

THIS IS WRITTEN the day before the Tuesday Canton board meeting where the new administration will contemplate the fate of Police Chief Greenstein. On only the second day of office, Stein and the rest of the board could be asked to vote on a very controversial and emotional matter.

The Observer recognizes the talents of Greenstein but maintains that the board has no choice but to remove him from the post post of police chief.

Stein cannot afford to leave a man as police chief with previous, current or future political involvement as police chief. Greenstein said in one breath last week that as chief he'd pledge loyalty to Stein's administration. In the next breath he said if Stein attempted to remove him as police chief "he'd be on Stein's back forever."

Greenstein's political differences with Stein and vice-versa would seriously hamper effective government.

Carl Silvers, presently serving as commander, at the recommendation of Greenstein, is our choice for police chief.

Silvers is a man with 25 years experience in the Detroit Police Department. That in itself should satisfy Stein's demand for experience and professionalism.

Due to Greenstein's excellent academic performance at the Criminal Justice Institute, and his experience in administrative capacity, we believe Greenstein should stay on as a command officer.

Greenstein could answer directly to Silvers. But Silvers would answer to the township board and administration.

It would put a damper on the graduation honors to see Greenstein bickering about board action to remove him as police chief. The board giveth and the board taketh away. Self-serving complaints will only gum up progress for the sake of ego.

The only cure

Citizens fighting crime

Observation Point

by PHILIP H. POWER

This column brings with it a Thanksgiving blessing to the citizens of Bloomfield Township and Westland, two local communities which are engaged in experimental programs to fight crime and vandalism.

Both programs are based on two important realizations: 1)The very fact that our society is the most mobile in the history of mankind contributes enormously to crime; 2)the only real way to stop crime and vandalism is to get individual members of the community directly involved, rather than leaving it entirely to the police.

CONSIDER Westland, a growing community with increasing concerns about crime and, it just so happens, a high concentration of CB radio users.

Around five months ago, at the suggestion of Mayor Tom Taylor, the Westland Police Department passed the word to some local CB operators that a corps of civilian volunteers to help patrol the streets might be useful in fighting crime.

Today, the 28 persons who are members of the Westland Community Radio Watch literally double police patrols on Friday and Saturday nights. The volunteers, who are all CBers and who drive the streets in pairs, are carefully screened before being admitted into the program. They have no authority to make arrests, nor are they encouraged to get directly involved with suspicious characters or troublesome crowds.

But their reports of what's going on in the streets funnel into the dispatcher at the police department, who can then assign regular police personnel to investigate.

Preliminary evidence indicates that police response time to problem situations has been cut, patrolling is much more thorough, and wandering cars up to no good are checked out. Police reaction to the program has been uniformly positive.

A SIMILAR exercise in citizen involvement has been under way in Bloomfield Township, where the Citizens Watch program has turned out to be a highly effective deterrent to crime and vandalism.

The Watch began last July, just after three local subdivisions suffered from a sudden outbreak of burglaries and instances of vandalism. Supervisor Homer Case and the township police then organized a volunteer group of some 300 citizens to patrol their subdivisions in CB-equipped cars and report any suspicious activity.

The results of the program, now over a year old, are outstanding. Burglaries and attempted burglaries, larcenies and other crime categories decreased substantially. The amount of suspicious activity reported to police, enabling officers to investigate and deter potential criminals, has increased enormously.

The cost to the taxpayers? Very little: only $1,657 for gas for volunteers' cars.

OTHER SUBURBS in this area are thinking along similar lines.

The keys to their efforts are to find ways to increase citizen involvement in the prevention of crime. It's always been clear to every policeman that the single most important weapon against crime and vandalism is full-blown citizen involvement. The criminal, even the mobile one with a fast car, cannot commit crime if he or she is constantly under observation.

The two programs now under way in Bloomfield Township and Westland may prove to be the first in a series of imaginative new efforts to cut crime. On this Thanksgiving Day, the officials and citizen volunteers of these communities deserve our thanks.

How the consumer revolts against bad service, tipping

Eccentricities

by HENRY M. HOGAN, JR.

Webster's Dictionary defines "tip" as "a small gift of money; esp., a gratuity, as to a waiter." "Gratuity" is further defined as "a voluntary return for a favor or for service."

This is another example that the times are far ahead of the dictionary revisors. Have you noticed that a tip is no longer a reward for services well performed but is now a cost of eating or doing, irrespective of the quality of the work performed?

On a recent radio interview with the head of a local waiters union, the interviewer asked him what a proper tip was. The answer was that in a good restaurant, 15 to 20 per cent was considered proper.

HE WAS THEN asked what should one tip if the service is bad. He hemmed and hawed and said society would still tip the waiter something to show its displeasure.

The reasoning apparently is to reward the waiter only slightly so he knows he has not done a good job.

It seems to me that other purveyors of services are lucky to be paid the value of their goods or services if they do a bad job, much less be rewarded with only a little something extra.

Tipping today has not only outstripped its purpose, it has led to several revolutions.

WHY HAS THE MOTEL business boomed? Some say because motels represent newer facilities than the older hotels; yet look at the number of new hotels that have been constructed in the past few years.

Many experts will tell you that people prefer motels because there is not a doorman, bellhop or cleaning girl to tip.

Airlines won many people away from railroads not only because they were faster, but also because there were no porter, waiter or redcap to tip. (This is changing now that you have to pay for curbside bag check-in.)

Maybe Webster's will define tip in future years as a "bribe" or "social blackmail." There are still nightclubs that line up people in the lobby until they cross the headwaiter's palm with paper. Then he can squeeze you into a practically empty dining room.

ONCE INSIDE, YOU still have to take care of the captain, if you want a table up front.

And don't forget, while you're there, the doorman, hatcheck girl, cigarette girl, photographer, waiter and anyone else who has his hand extended with its palm flat, facing upward.

The tip, in many establishments, doesn't really go to the person intended. If it does go to that person, the chances are that management is paying him or her a proportionately lower wage.

In most cases, it goes into a pool and is divided among all the staff, or in some cases (such as hat-check girls) it goes completely to the concessionaire.

Wouldn't it be nicer just to raise prices a little and forget about the farce?

Canton Observer
Suburban Life
Thursday, November 25, 1976 (C)1B

The VIEW from 461 SOUTH MAIN

SAVE THOSE STAMPS on your Christmas mail and brighten the world of a youngster in the Shriners' Crippled Children's Hospitals.

The West Suburban Stamp Club of Plymouth collects stamps and other related philatelic material each year for the rehabilitation program in the Shriners hospitals.

"The club is again asking your help in this project," said Philip Czekaj of the stamp club.

Stamps can be sent to: West Suburban Stamp Club Shrine Project, PO Box 643, Plymouth, Mich. 48170. They also can be delivered in person to the West Suburban Stamp Club which meets the first Friday and the third Thursday of each month at 7:30 p.m. in the Plymouth Community Federal Credit Union, 500 S. Harvey Street, Plymouth. Next month's meeting are scheduled for Dec. 3 and 17.

NANCY AUSTIN who is in charge of publicity for the local TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) group was invited to be a guest on a radio talk show Monday afternoon.

She participated in "Among Other Things" with Jennifer Harp and Maurie Carlson at 2 p.m. on WWJ.

The TOPS club meets in the Plymouth Grange Building on Union Street. They are planning a bazaar from 7:30 to 8:30 Dec. 1 in the Grange Hall.

It will be open to the public and craft items will be for sale.

"There'll be no baked goods, no goodies," warned Mrs. Austin.

by ELLIE GRAHAM

SUE SELINE AND CARL Peters were top scorers at last Thursday's party bridge game in the Plymouth Cultural Center.

Reservations for the Christmas buffet luncheon Dec. 9 should be in by Dec. 2. The food will be catered and the bridge game will follow the buffet. Reservations at $3.90 can be made by calling Margaret Swartz, 459-0887.

CONGRATULATIONS to Mary and Lloyd Fillmore.

The Fillmores will celebrate their 59th wedding anniversary next Monday.

Mary Powell and Lloyd Fillmore were married Nov. 29, 1917, in the home of her parents in Plymouth. Next year, on their 60th, we'll publish a picture of the happy couple.

GREAT EXCITEMENT as three young people practically burst into the Observer office—all talking at once.

"Todd got a letter from Martin Klein!"

"And a poster of the Loch Ness monster and a book."

"It said, 'Dear Todd and Tyler, Thank you for your letter,'" said Todd Mitchell, son of Lois and Ed Mitchell of Ann Street.

They had to explain: Martin Klein is a sonar expert who has been investigating the Loch Ness monster. Todd and Tyler Heaven had been preparing an exhibit on the monster. They read an article about Klein and wrote to him.

"He lives in New Hampshire," said Todd.

"On the poster, he has four flippers and a long neck."

"I believe he's half pollywog and half dinosaur," said Alicia Yokum.

"His stomach is as long as this room," added Todd.

"You believe in him?" asked one member of the staff.

The children believed. Klein had been able to get a sonar picture of the monster.

"I believe there have been generations of them," said 8-year-old Todd.

The youngsters are students at New Morning School which is housed this year in the old Truesdell school on Haggerty Road.

Tyler, who lives in Canton Township, and Todd decided they had a fine addition to their museum display for Tuesday evening.

THE PLYMOUTH CULTURAL Center was a busy place over the weekend.

Beer can collectors from Michigan, Illinois, Ohio and Indiana met Sunday for a trade session.

More than 70 collectors, more with than 3,000 cans in their collections, were at the center.

"We never sell—just trade," said Anna Hagopian, president of the Stroh FireBrew Chapter and chairman of the meet.

THERE WAS OTHER (undercover) activity at the center on Sunday.

Recreation Director Chuck Skene has gained the reputation of being one of the stauncher Michigan State University supporters in Plymouth.

He has never evinced great affection for the University of Michigan and the Wolverines. In fact, he let it be known they didn't have much chance of winning Saturday's game in Columbus.

Sometime Sunday night, Chuck's U-M friends decided to redecorate his office.

When he opened the door Monday morning, he was overwhelmed by maize and blue.

"I expected the rose," he said shaking his head, "but not all this."

Beside a glass vase holding a single red rosebud was a sqaure cake covered with yellow frosting and decorated with a blue block M in the center and red roses on each of the four corners.

The ceiling was festooned with loops of blue and yellow crepe paper. It also was used to make a giant 22-0 on one wall and GO BLUE on another. There was a message, purportedly from Bo Schembechler, on another wall.

"We'll cut the cake at four o'clock," said Chuck. "Then, it's all coming down."

MEMBERS OF the Plymouth-Canton Chapter Parents Without Partners will meet at 1:30 p.m. Nov. 28 in the parking lot of the American Legion Hall on Sheldon Road at Goldsmith.

They plan to visit the Plymouth Historical Museum as a group.

The chapter meets the first and third Thursdays of each month in the Legion Hall. Those wishing further information can call 453-9167, 453-1873, or 459-2182.

Thanksgiving service

The way it used to be

The congregation and Sunday school youngsters of Plymouth Church of the Nazarene turned back the clock at Thanksgiving services last Sunday.

In spite of the modern church building on Ann Arbor Trail and the arrival of its people by automobile and bus, the mood was old-fashioned 19th century.

Many of the women wore long skirts. Some wore poke bonnets. The choir and parishioners sang the hymns to the accompaniment of an old pump organ.

A country kitchen had been set up in a corner of the back lobby. There was an iron cook range, cabinets and table.

JOINING IN THE SPIRIT of the times, Pastor Carl Allen planned to arrive—circuit rider fashion—on horseback, with his Bible tucked under his arm.

As the worship hour drew near, the pastor's horse did not put in an appearance. Finally there was a telephone call from Northville. The word was: The circuit rider's steed would be late.

He was so frisky, his handlers couldn't get him loaded in the trailer.

It was decided to continue with the church service as scheduled. Instead of arriving on horseback, the pastor would depart in the saddle.

Texas, a 9-year-old chestnut, was waiting in front of the church before noon.

As the worshipers filed out after the morning service, the young pastor approached his mount.

"Let me hold your Bible until you get on," admonished one of his flock.

In the saddle and Bible in hand, Pastor Allen headed for the rear of the church where he was greeted by a throng of youngsters who accompanied him down the hill and across the parking lot.

The children received repeated warnings, "Don't touch his tail," and "Don't stand behind him."

Texas behaved as if he had been going to church every Sunday of his life.

There were no casualties.

The beaming faces of children and adults gave the impression that the old-fashioned Thanksgiving service was a pleasing and memorable occasion.

Children of the church were enthusiatic about Pastor Carl Allen's role of circuit rider for the day.

Diane Witt and Renee Welton, Sunday school teachers at the Plymouth Church of the Nazarene, joined in the reenactment of an oldtime Thanksgiving service. (Story and pictures by Elinor Graham)

Here's your real scoop on Washington

By SHERRY KAHAN

Boy, do we have an earful for you.

It is not often that this newspaper can dish out the latest tidbits from the Washington social scene. But we have just heard it all from Sally Quinn, a writer for the Washington Post, who says she's "absoutely riveted by Washington."

Filling in for her best friend Barbara Howar at the Livonia Town Hall lecture series, Miss Quinn laid it all out—the hustle, the hostesses, the quest for position—in a manner, forthright, frank and funny.

Occasionally, she couldn't help laughing at it all right along with her audience. You would have loved it.

But knowing you can wait no longer, we'll get right to it.

In the first place the big Washington hostesses are absoltuely out of their minds with worry about the changes the new Carter administration might bring to the nation's capital. Don't you love it?

"Lavish parties are out," said Miss Quinn. "People are embarrassed about spending all that money."

She has heard that Shirley Temple Black did a good job in Ghana, that Jackie Onassis will never be ambassador to Greece and that both Happy Rockefeller and Nancy Kissinger will be ecstatic to have their husbands out of Washington.

There is more, but who has the time?

According to Miss Quinn, Washington is "one big hustle."

"It's not a bad word there," she maintained. "The president hustles the press, the press hustles the president, and all of the hustling takes place in the evening."

"Washington is very different in that parties are not for fun but for working. When you see Roger Mudd, Ben Bradlee and Henry Kissinger off in a corner at a party, you know they are all husding each other for information."

"Who makes it in Washington? The best

Gala reception has excitement of first nighter

Members of the Plymouth Historical Society attended a reception Saturday evening at the Historical Museum on Main Street.

They were given first look at the museum in its first Christmas finery.

"Those wonderful people," said Margaret Dunning who provided the building for the museum. "They've done more than I ever dreamed was possible. I had hoped there would be community involvement, but this is breath-taking.

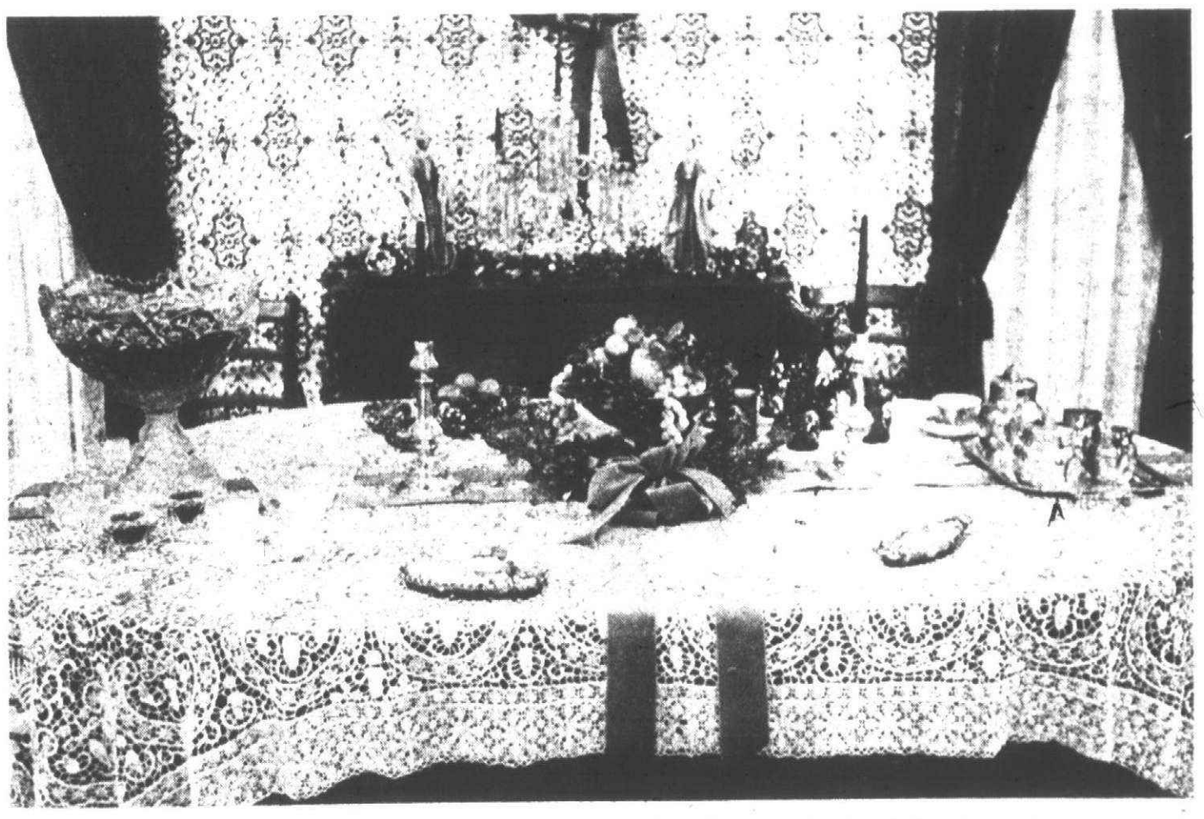

"I don't deserve a bit of credit for this. I didn't do a thing. It was Pat Scott and her group and Pat Whitesell and her crew who deserve all the credit. And Archie, they have all worked so hard."

She was referring to Archie Stobie, director of the museum.

And all the hard-working ladies were there in gala attire, giving the impression they had never climbed a step-ladder, carried tons of decorations, moved furniture and papered walls.

"Now I have the spirit of Christmas," was heard over and over as the guests strolled down the street of shops, marveled at the Victorian rooms, the religious artifacts and other displays.

The museum will be open to the public from now until Christmas Thursdays, Saturdays and Sundays from 1-4 p.m.

The dining room in the Victorian annex deserved to be photographed in full color to bring out the full beauty of the arrangements.

Lauren Buerhle, Gloria Kinsel and Stephanie LaGosh attended the reception. Only the day before they were part of the crew of volunteers who made the whole thing possible. (Staff photos)

Among those who took their turn serving punch and pouring tea and coffee at the reception was Kathy Gornick, wife of Historical Society president, Richard Gornick.

Canton chatter

Saturday evening John and Marsha Safran, of Pickwick Drive, hosted a party for the parents of the boys from the mite hockey team that John coaches.

Marsha was in charge of entertainment for the evening.

Claude Tunison amazed everyone, including wife Janice, with his powers of ESP.

Dale and Karen Darkowski held up both of the relay lines since neither of them could pass the apple to their neighbor from chin to chin.

Lynn Cole standing on the telephone book trying to pick up pennies with her partner Claude, was sure that the trick of the game was "all in the knees." Her husband Walt proved her wrong when he won the game with partner Karen, and he didn't bend his knees once.

Jerry and Nora Cathey showed everyone how the Madison was done while Jan and Bob Tiplandy danced to more of todays tunes.

Everyone enjoyed the scumptious buffet served at midnight.

Seen munching on all the goodies were Ann and Con Krankel, Jackie and Pat Connell and Bob Goleniak.

It was an evening of good conversation, good food, and good company.

SPEAKING OF hockey. The Canton Jaycees are sponsoring a squirt hockey team this year. The team of course skates for Plymouth.

The coaches are David Felig and Mike Eudis. Team mother is Pam Eudis.

This year the Plymouth Hockey association joined its house teams with other cites so that they would have more teams to compete with. They play against Garden City, Dearborn Heights, and Wayne.

JUICY ROASTED TURKEY, Mashed potatoes with gravy, sweet poatoes, cranberry sauce and everything else that goes along with a Thanksgiving dinner, including pumpkin pie, was served today at noon at the Canton Recreation Hall for the seniors hot lunch program.

The seniors are planning a Christmas dinner in the same fashion as their Thanksgiving dinner the second week of December.

Marie Napier is hoping to serve between 80 and 100 people for this occasion.

She would appreciate if anyone planning to attend this hot lunch that day to call the Rec Hall the first week of December so that she may order enough food for everyone. The cost is still 50 cents.

CELEBRATING HER 86th birthday last week was Elizabeth DeBacker. Beatrice Korte was also celebrating her 58th birthday.

The ladies were treated to dinner at Knapps Restraurant by the Canton Seniors.

The Canton Seniors will miss one of their very spcial members, Jeanne Hayden passed away a week ago Sunday. Their sympathies are extended to her husband Mike.

THE BROWNIE troops of Hulsing school would like to thank Chris Brooks for the lovely cake she made for their investiture and rededication ceremonies last week. Beautiful to look at and good enough to eat, which they did.

FOR THE last four weeks the fourth and fifth graders from Hulsing Elementary went up to the Super Bowl on Wednesday mornings to bowl a couple games.

They had to keep their own scores and figure out their own averages.

Mr. Smith, the gym teacher, went along with the other teachers to help out. Moms and Dads, as well as a few Grandpas drove the kids and stayed with them to teach a few tricks of the game.

As well as being great fun for everyone it was a grand lesson in mathamatics for

Here's real scoop

hustler."

The one who makes it as a hostess has to have persistence, a thick skin and 0 flair for entertaining,she said. Anyone in with the Carter group will have a leg up as the hostess with the mostest.

Miss Quinn had several interesting tales to add to Washington hostess lore, including a sad one about a hostess who had a nervous breakdown because she couldn't get the people she wanted to come to her party.

Having just returned from an assignment in Plains, Ga., Miss Quinn explained that the Carter staffers are "ordinary, nice people."

She added: "They are frank, honest, not snobby and are not involved in the social world."

She indicated that an authority on how social affairs are managed had come down from Washington to help the Carters plan the inauguration. The news people, she said, call this woman the director of couth.

"Carter will be a working president, and Rosalynn will be a working president's wife," said the speaker. "They will do their jobs as they always have. I was impressed by them. They may add an element of sanity to Washington."

The Kennedys, Miss Quinn's audience learned, are fading, fading from the Washington picture.

"Ted Kennedy offered to nominate Carter at the Democratic convention and was turned down," she said, adding that at the convention Ethel Kennedy was asked to move from the number one VIP seats to the number two seats. And if you care, Jackie O. is disappearing from the front pages of movie magazines.

Miss Quinn was not certain that Elizabeth Taylor would actually tie the knot with John Warner and claimed that Warner had indicated two reasons he planned to marry her: she would be an asset to his campaign and he wanted a mother for his children.

Another woman told Miss Quinn she planned to give a party for the Walter Mondales, who the speaker said enjoy attending block parties with their neighbors.

"The hostess said she wouldn't have the Mondales decide on the guest list because they might want to bring in all those neighbors," laughed Miss Quinn, who emphasized frequently that while she is fascinated by the Washington scene she is only an observer.

"If I were taken by it I couldn't write realistically about it," she said.

At one point she called the city a zoo where "never have I seen such a naked, raw, clawing search for power as now." She added her opinion of Capitol Hill: "a bastion of corruption."

Her entrance into Washington journalism took place more than seven years ago, when with no experience, she was asked by editor Ben Bradlee to cover parties for the Washington Post.

Women's lib had hit the paper's women's department, and its members wanted to dig into matters other than parties.

Miss Quinn made her name on the paper by writing what really happened at parties.

So when someone fell flat on his face on top of a waiter carrying a platter, ' I wrote about that."

Other writers also began to remove their kid gloves.

She continued: "When Princess Anne came to Washington and behaved badly, we wrote about that. When Frank Sinatra came to the Jockey Club, Maxine Cheshire went up to him and asked a question. He began to scream at her, and we wrote about that."

She still covers the social scene, but has also participated in important political events. For example, during Watergate she wrote profiles on the participants.

"Wategate turned the town upsidedown," she said. "It had an enormous effect, socially and politically. It was a very exciting time to work for the Washington Post. It was the most exhilerating time in journalism.

"Now there is a problem at the Post called post-partum blues. They'll never have story like that again."

But she indicated she is not living in the past. She talked about an article she is writing about Greg Schneiders Jimmy Carter's closest confidant.

"He's 29-years-old and ran a bar which failed," she said "He got on the campaign as Carter's baggage carrier. He tells Carter the truth all the time even when Carter doesn't want to hear it."

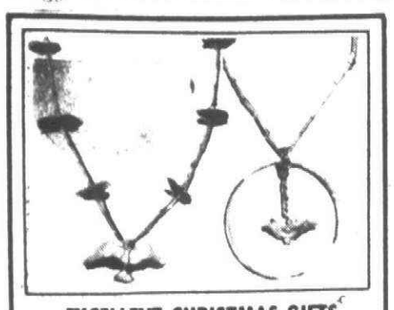

She saw Schneiders slotted in the important role of appointment secretary.

In response to questions about people from Carter country asked during the celebrity luncheon at the Mayflower Meeting House in Plymouth, Miss Quinn said, "I think these people are not going to change.

"I don't think Billy Carter will give up the gas station. Miss Lillian is having a fantastic time. She is queen of Plains . She often sits in a rocking chair by the stove in the depot and talks to people. She has a few spots on her dress and dog hairs, and as she talks she scratches the dog at her feet. It's a wonderful scene. I don't know why she'd want to leave that and come to Washington.

"They are simple people who live the way they want to live."

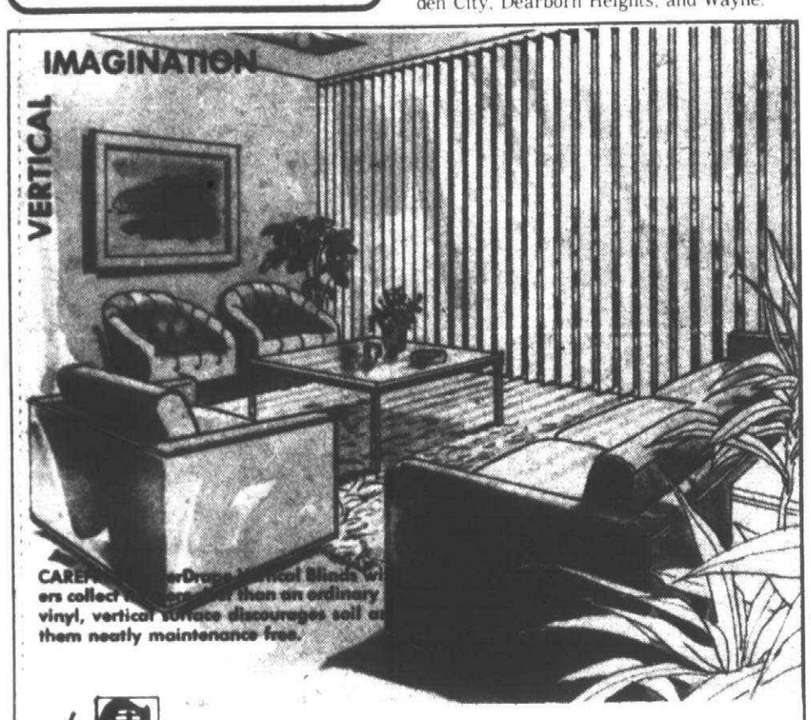

Rosalynn Carter, she sees as unusual woman with a sense of herself. "She is a self-contained person, who has got it all together," said Miss Quinn. "She does her own hair and on the campaign washed her own clothes out at night."

Faith offers Saturday class

Special kids learn about God

Chris Welty shows Mark and Billy some of the religious education materials she uses in the class for the mentally-handicapped she teaches at Faith Lutheran Church of Livonia.

Active play goes right along with Christian instruction in the Faith class conducted Saturday mornings. Miss Welty is giving Billy the signal to run with his ball.

By MARGARET MILLER

"Our boy is learning to pray, and he's praying for people with whom he's had a little trouble. He seems to know what's going on."

"My son enjoys it so much, and he's learning a lot about Jesus."

The comments come from two Livonia mothers with mentally handicapped sons who until recently have had no opportunity for religious training.

Now they go to Faith Lutheran Church, 30000 Five Mile, each Saturday morning where their class is the newest addition to a Christian Education day school program now in its sixth year. In the class, several youngsters, all classified as as trainable handicapped, have several hours of religious training with Chris Welty, a young woman who is working on a master's degree in special education and teaches kidergarten in Detroit.

Their morning includes active play, stories and projects with a religious tilt.

"We began this program as a pilot project last spring," said Arnold Witt, director of the Christian Education Day School at Faith.

"We had seen a need for some kind of Christian school for the mentally handicapped. Not many churches have such programs, and for those that do the number of youngsters who need the service is so small that it tends to lock them into a specific Sunday worship program.

"This program on Saturday mornings is open to all, as is our day school."

WITT SAID Faith had been ready to go on the program for some time but was not able to locate a teacher immediately. Miss Welty, after directing the pilot sessions in the spring, agreed enthusiastically to continue.

"She does very well with them, and it's a beautiful thing to see the kids and the spirit and enthusiasm they have," Witt said.

"The class now numbers six," he said, "and we'd like to increase it.

"We do not have enough children in our congregation to make up a class like this, but we know there are enough out in the community to make it a matter of concern."

The youngsters, most of whom attend Harrison School Monday through Friday, go to the church school 9-11 a.m. Saturdays.

The cost is $10 a year, for those who are able to pay, Witt said. "That covers the cost of materials," he explained, "and our congregation underwrites the teacher's salary, as it does for the rest of the day school."

BARBARA KREBS, whose son is an enthusiastic participant in Miss Welty's group, said before the Faith class was started she and her husband used to take him to a Detroit church for Christian education Thursday evenings.

"That was really a drag," she said, "and so we're most grateful to have this one started. He loves it.

"We're hoping now that this can lead to confirmation and the taking of holy communion. We're Lutherans, and that's what we want for our son."

Phyllis McCaffrey's son is another class member, and she's equally pleased, although she does not have a formal religious affiliation.

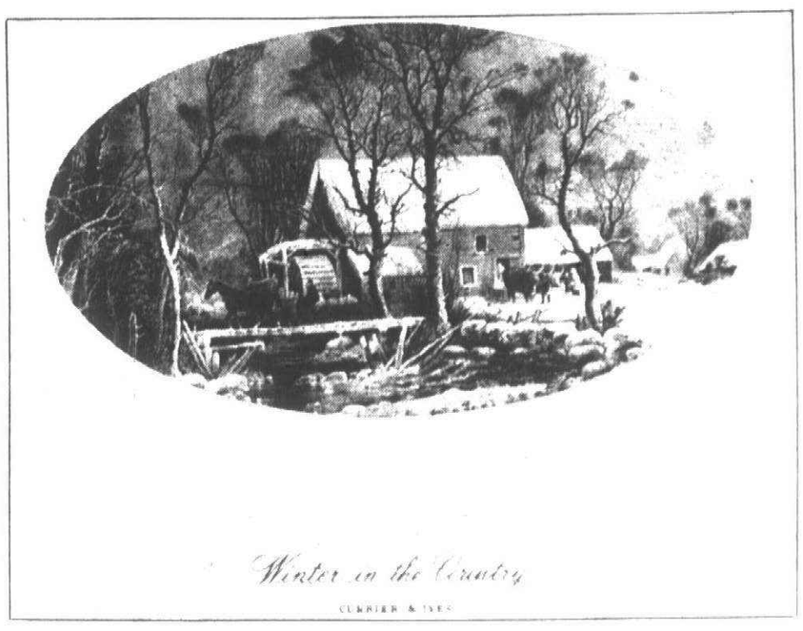

"We live near Faith Church," she said, "and my nieghbor and good friend, who is a member, told me about the class.

"I think it's terrific. He enjoys it a great deal, and last summer he had a fine camp experience he's still talking about."

THE SPECIAL CLASS for these special children is just one facet of a program that has made great strides in the years since the Faith congregation decided to close its full time school and substitute one that meets regularly in the after-school hours.

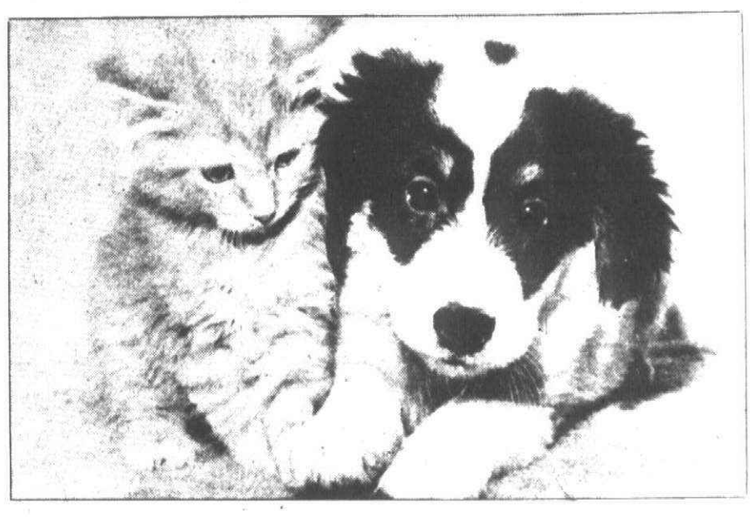

The first year after the change about 60 per cent of the eigible youngsters first grade through high school were attending.

"Now it's 90 per cent," Witt said. "Enrollment starts at about 175 each year, and about this time of year, after football and marching band seasons are over, it goes up to 200."

The visiting evangelist began his present work nine years ago after serving as a pastor in Indiana and Ohio.

They will leave for Africa in January.

The Rev. Philip Rodgers Magee, senior pastor, will preach on "Andrew, the introducer," and as a special feature bagpiper John Goodnough will pipe the choir in and out of the sanctuary at both services.

The ceremony of the blessing of the tartans also will be observed.

COVENANT COMMUNITY CHURCH, 25800 Student, Redford Township, will present the Wheaton College Symphony Orchestra in its sanctuary at 7:30 p.m., Saturday.

The 75-piece musical group, whose members are from both its conservatory of music and its liberal arts college, will perform works of Beethoven, Jacob, Mendelssohn and Brahms under the baton of Arthur Katterjohn.

No admission will be charged for the concert; a free will offering will be received.

The talk is part of the St. Edith HELP (Help Everyone Love People) series and is free to the public.

The talk by Fr. Kosnik is planned, said Sister Barbara Celesky, pastoral minister of education, "to assist parents as they prepare their children for the sacrament of reconciliation."

"The formation of conscience is not complete," she added, "until the individual's responsibilities include the welfare of others; our relationship to God must include our relationship to our neighbors."

MacDonnell is named for Round Table award

W. D. MacDonnell, chairman and chief executive officer of Kelsy-Hayes Co. will receive the 1976 National Human Relations Award from the Greater Detroit Round Table of the National Conference of Christians and Jews Dec. 9 at Cobo Hall.

Thomas A. Murphy, chairman of General Motors Corp., is chairman of the 1976 Brotherhood Dinner at which MacDonnell will be honored.

Alfred A. May, president of the NCCJ Round Table, said MacDonnell is being honored "for his commitment as an industrial leader to help industry fulfill its essential role as a partner to the community in the solution of social and economic problems."

More than 1,000 business and community leaders from throughout southeastern Michigan are expected to attend the dinner, which marks the 48th anniversary of the NCCJ educational program to build interreligious and interracial understanding and cooperation.

HIGHLIGHTS of the local and state NCCJ program include the Detroit city wide citizen-police council, in which citizen-police groups seek cooperative methods to cope with local crime and community relations problems; the monthly interreligious dialogue of religious leadership on community issues; the Border Cities Conferences on Rearing Children of Good Will; the Michigan College Conference on Human Relations; the "After Breakfast Dialogue" for management, union and community representatives on equal employment opportunity; the intergroup dialogue of the Women's Division of the Round Table; and the brotherhood scholarship program for specialized education in human relations for teachers, school administrators, community leaders and police.

MacDonnell began his career with Bethlehem Steel Co. in Lackawanna, N.Y., following graduation from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology with a degree in metallurgy. He joined Great Lakes Steel, a division of National Steel Corp. in 1957 and later became president and chief executive officer.

Brookside Jazz group comes to Novi Dec. 6

The Brookside Jazz Ensemble, long known for it dedication to the fine performance of the contemporary "Big Band" sound, will appear at Novi High School Dec. 6. The Ensemble will be presented by the Novi Foundation for the Performing Arts.

The jazz band, which consists of 21 professional musicians, will perform selections by Maynard Ferguson, Stan Kenton, Buddy Rich, Woody Herman, Thad Jones-Mel Lewis, as well as original compositions done for the band by various arrangers including the co-leader and music director, Craig Strain.

Sell-out performances are not unusual for this band. The Ensemble has built a fine reputation from its performances each summer at the Pontchartrain Hotel in a jazz series known as P-Jazz. Crowds at the Pontch have numbered 1,700 and more to hear the Ensemble's sound. The group also plays four times a year at Cranbrook Academy. These concerts, like the Pontch concerts, are sell-outs. The band is directed by co-leaders Curt Newman III and Strain. Newman plays baritone sax and handles the organization, while Strain takes care of the musical aspects such as running rehearsals, writing charts and fronting the band as well as playing trumpet and flugelhorn.

The concert will be in Novi High School, Taft Road, between Grand River and 10 Mile at 7:30 p.m. Tickets will be available at the door for $3.50.

Jazz-rock music set

Glimpse, a new jazz-rock group led by former Frijid Pink member Gary Thompson, will premiere at the University of Michigan—Dearborn at 9 p.m. Dec. 3.

Tickets are available at the door of the Recreation Organization Center or in advance in Room 216 ROC.

"The music of Glimpse is an energetic fusion of rock and jazz that defies further classification," says Kathy Poutinen, director of UM-D's Office of Student Life. "We would like to give the local community the opportunity to hear this extremely progressive group."

Guitarist Gary Thomson was former lead guitarist with the Frijid Pink. He has toured world-wide and recorded three albums and 12 singles. He has earned gold record awards for the album "Finjid Pink" and the single "House of the Rising Sun."

Other group members include Jerry Skol and Jerome Williams on bass; Tim McCoy on keyboards; Ken Jellen on sax, percussion and vocals; Gerald Hollins on sax; Joe Parisi on percussion; and Skeeto Gibbs on drums.

A ch. 56 special

Singer Cleo Laine will appear on the Channel 56's "In Performance at Wolf Trap" at 4 p.m. Dec. 5. Singer Laine, joined by her husband John Dankworth and his ensemble, sings a mixed bag of jazz, blues and pop tunes. The concert was taped at Wolf Trap Park near Washington, D.C.

Your paycheck big in nation's economy

By MARGARET MILLER

Money does indeed buy happiness, and the women who earn it should recognize its worth and theirs.

This inversion of the old adage was the message brought to the Schoolcraft College campus by writer Caroline Bird and heard there by women who work, women who study to work later, women who study and work and women interested in understanding more about their changing place in the scheme of things.

Talking to women during a reception in the women's resources center and lecturing later in the Waterman Center, the author of "The Two-Paycheck Marriage" pounded away at the theme that society needs to play catch-up with the role women already are filling in its work force.

"All our institutions—like social security and tax laws—are based on the nuclear family unit, with a husband who provides the paycheck, a wife who provides services only and children living at home," she said.

"But now only 34 per cent of our people live in that situation, and the rest are governed by a system that does now fit the way they live.

"This is the real reason we need the Equal Rights Amendment.

"As things are now, social security taks monet from working women to pay the pensions of housewives, and it is cruelest of all to housewives whose services are not counted at all if they divorce."

AN "UNEASININESS" among women that Ms. Bird has noted in traveling around the country is the underlying reason behind a new magazine, Working Women, which she has a share in publishing.

"We're trying to make it a publication of real service to women who aren't fully sure yet how to handle their roles ," she said.

"We're not dealing with rhetorical questions. We want to talk about things like dealing with discrimination on the job, working for promotions and dealing with family problems that may be connected with the fact that Mother works."

She said she thinks such a publication is meeded because of a number of attitudes she's found programmed into women who hold jobs.

These, she said, include the notions that women work for satisfaction and the money isn't really important, that their paychecks are far less important than those of their husbands and that they should be able to handle the home front, too, if they want to hold a job.

"Eli Ginsberg of the federal manpower commission has admitted, Ms. Bird said, "that the unemployment picture in this country now would be a lot grimmer were it not for the paychecks of working wives.

"Their bolstering their husbands' incomes often holds the family together."

To support her money-buys-happiness arguments, Ms. Bird suggested that "a marriage with nagging problems, like the husband not wanting to pick up his clothes, might be saved if there is enough money to hire someone else to pick up those clothes."

And she insisted that there must be changes in home roles of working women and their husbands. "Both have been programmed to accept traditional roles," she explained, "and the wife must convince her husband to pitch in and share the housework and child care."

ASSERTIVENESS for women and the field in which that second paycheck is earned were topics Ms. Bird played up in discussions with leaders of the Schoolcraft community services program.

"She had the answer to almost any question you could ask in the matter of being assertive without being aggressive," said Midge Ellis, special events programmer at the Livonia college.

Jean Christiansen, women's services coordinator, said her discussions with Ms. Bird indicated the visiting writer agreed "with what we've found—that women just aren't choosing the non-traditional careers because there are not enough role models."

"She also told us she felt affirmative action is making some changes," Mrs. Christiansen said. "She said that slow as they are, we must persist in pushing them."

THE VISITING WRITER, also author of "The Invisible Scar," "Born Female," and "Enterprising Women," said she now is working on a book based on a survey made by the magazine Family Circle on the attitudes of men and women toward jobs for mothers.

"Some of the results were rather surprising to the magazine, editors," she said. "For instance, there was a question about what time a mother should go to work, whether it should be when the baby is a few weeks old, when he starts school, when he starts high school or never.

"The biggest percentage said it was reasonable when the child started school, but apparently a larger vote had been expected for staying at home entirely."

Other parts of the questionnaire, she said, dealt with the use that should be made of the wife's paycheck and the amount of help at home the husband should or did give.

"Most husbands and wives felt the wife's pay should be used for special family purposes, like vacations or college," she naid, "but many agreed that what happened was that it went into the family pot.

"Hardly anyone thought it should be pin money for the wife."

On the matter of help, she went on, "all the husbands figured they helped some, but the wives' answers indicated the husbands' contribution tended to be things like watching the kids while they were asleep."

THE QUESTION of part-time work for women also came up in the survey, Ms Bird said.

"The women who worked part-time and participated indicated they felt they had the best of both worlds," she related. "But other answers they gave indicated they found their lot really not that good, because they tended to have the crummier jobs and be more at the mercy of their employers.

"The picture that emerged was that part-time work may well be the worst of both worlds."

She also said it seemed likely that in the future there will be more part-time work for both men and women and more shared family responsibility.

"Ginsberg thinks working hours will have to come down as more women work," she added.

A TUB BATH USES ABOUT TWICE AS MUCH HOT WATER AS A SHOWER

A normal tub bath uses about twice as much hot water as a three to four-minute shower. So, save natural gas and money, switch to short showers instead of tub baths. Another needless waste is letting the hot water run while shaving or when hand-washing dishes. Avoid this waste by using sink stoppers and dishpans. And in the laundry, save by using cold water at every opportunity. Remember, as the cost of natural gas continues to rise, reducing wasteful use becomes more important to your budget. Salem playmaker Kathy Dillon pops in two points from the corner in district semifinal action against Walled Lake Central Saturday night. The Rocks won this contest 62-47. (Staff photos by Gary Caskey)

Rocks bumped in district finale

Salem girls suffer 1st setback

By DENNIS O'CONNOR

The perfect record for the Plymouth Salem girls' basketball team was blemished last night when the Rocks lost its first and last game of the season.

Plymouth advanced to the district finale against the host team,Walled Lake Western, which Salem had beaten before. The result was an avenging 63-57 win for the Warriors.

The Rocks went into this ball game the only undefeated team in the area with a spotless 18-0 record. Western had lost only one game in the regular season, to Salem in the opening game of the year.

But in the game that counted, it was the Western Six League champions who came through and now advance to the Farmington regional next week.

The contest was nip-and-tuck all the way with neither team able to break away from the other.

Only a late rally by the Warriors in the final two minutes of action spelled defeat for Salem.

The difference in the ballgame? Salem coach Debbie Hatcher felt that experience proved to be the key—especially in those final two minutes.

"It came down to those seniors," said the teary-eyed Hatcher. "They (Western) have all their players back and it shows. They've been playing together for four years and have tournament experience."

THE ROCKS HELD the upper hand in the first period, 14-11, behind the eight-point performance of sophomore Diane Goodrich.

But the Salem lead dwindled in the second period as Goodrich committed her third foul late in the quarter. The Warriors took advantage of Goodrich's absence to score the final six points of the period for a 29-24 half-time lead.

Goodrich played extremely well in that first half, but had her hands full defensing Western's star center Sue Riemer, who ended the game with 24 points. Goodrich committed her fourth foul early in the third quarter.

It was senior Peggy Moore who led the scrappy Rocks' comeback that found them down 41-40 going into the final period.

Moore came alive in that quarter to sink 10 of Salem's 16 points.

Fourth quarter action continued to see-saw until those final two minutes. With the score tied at 52-52 with only 2:15 remaining the Warriors made four free throws to grab the lead for good.

Western was aided by a technical foul on Moore, who slammed the ball on the court in frustration at an officials' call.

After the techical and three foul shots were converted, Western retained possession of the ball and breezed to the victory.

Chiefs' year ends early; cagers bow to Western

By DENNIS O'CONNOR
Sports Editor

It was an unhappy birthday celebration for coach Mike McCauley Saturday night, as his Plymouth Canton girls' cage team was eliminated from state tournament action by that old nemesis--Walled Lake Western.

It was semifinal district action at the Western gym, but the result of the game didn't change when the Warriors throttled the Chiefs 58-45.

This marked the third time this season that Western has gotten the best of the Chiefs. The three setbacks Canton has suffered to the Warriors accounts for half of the Chief defeats this season.

Western finished the regular season as Western Six League champs one notch ahead of the second place Chiefs. The Warriors lost only one game this fall, the season opener to Plymouth Salem.

Both Western and the Rocks met last night for the district title.

Western earned the right to play Canton in the semifinals after demolishing Northville 84-33. The Chiefs drew a bye in the opening round.

Western got off to a quick start, scoring the first eight points of the game. The Chiefs never could overcome this margin although a last minute rally in the fourth period brought them within five points, 48-43, with only 1:47 remaining.

"In the last three minutes, we played like we should have the whole game," McCauley said.

THE CONTEST FEATURED heavy physical contact on both sides as defense caused both squads to commit an unusual amount of turnovers.

"We didn't deserve to win," McCauley said. "They (Western) played terrible, and we were worse.

"Maybe it's because we're young. I hope we will learn by this."

Canton went to the championship round of district play last season before bowing to Mercy.

Canton led, 12-10, early in the second quarter, but a Warrior rally of seven straight points increased the margin back to nine.

Western held a seven-point advantage, 24-17, at halftime.

THE WARRIORS EXTENDED their lead early in the third period, outscoring the Chiefs 13-8 for a 12-point cushion.

Canton found themselves 14 points behind, 43-27, with six minutes left in the game when a rally of 16 points to only five for the Warriors brought Canton within five of a tie.

But Western countered with 10 of the last 12 points scored to ice the game.

One of the main objectives McCauley had before the game was to keep Western's big center, Sue Riemer, away from the basket to prevent her scoring and rebounding.

The Chiefs did a good job against Riemer, limiting her to only eight points and one field goal.

"We stopped Riemer, but our ballhandling was terrible. We made to many mistakes," McCauley said.

"They are a good team and they were better than us tonight."

FOUL TROUBLE PLAGUED Canton throughout the evening, as sophomore guard Kathy Peck was forced to sit out the entire third period and committed her fifth foul early in the fourth quarter.

Sophomore Kelly Heaton, along with junior Sue Rekuc, also left the game with too many fouls.

Senior Kathy Sochacki led the Chiefs balanced scoring attack with 10 points. Rekuc followed with eight and Evie Pasek added six.

Kim Zoladz, Heaton, Ellen Doran, and Dawn Malek chipped in with four each.

The Warriors also staged a balanced offensive attack which was led by the sharp shooting of Sally Smith who finished with 14.

Sister Sarah Smith followed with 13 and Ann Rush popped in 12.

Canton ends the season with a 13-6 over all record and a 7-3 mark in conference play.

Sloppy semifinal

Sluggish Rocks rip Central

It was one of the most lastluster performances the Plymouth Salem girl cagers staged so far this season.

But despite a sluggish effort, the results were the same—another victory for the unbeaten Rocks who extended their record to 18-0 with a district semifinal victory over Walled Lake Central 62-47.

This Saturday night triumph sent Salem into the district championship game against the host team, Walled Lake Western, who beat Plymouth Canton in its semifinal battle.

As for an explanation for the below average performance of her cagers, coach Debbie Hatcher mentioned that this was only the second tournament game in two years for these girls.

"We haven't won a district game since I've been here coaching," Hatcher said. "And last year was down right embarrassing (a 60-point loss to Mercy High School).

"The girls were nervous. This is a young team with only one senior, and that senior played the best game.

"Part of our play was attributable to nerves because we are inexperienced in tournament play. It's no excuse, it's an explanation.

"The girls know what's at stake. Central is a little team with nothing to lose, and we are undefeated with everthing to lose."

SENIOR CO-CAPTAIN Peggy Moore was the bright spot in the Rock play, contributing 15 points and 15 rebounds. Kathy Dillon pumped in 12, and Erin Moore added 10.

Donna Goodrich had a great floor game, adding eight points and many assists. Debbie Pitera came off the bench and chipped in seven. Sophomore starting center Diane Goodrich was held scoreless the entire night.

The Rocks held a slim 12-11 lead over the Vikings after the first period. An opening second quarter spurt of nine points led to Salem outscoring Central 23-10 in the next period to take a 35-21 lead into the locker room at halftime.

The closest the Vikins came to Salem in the second half was a seven-point difference, 43-36, with 52 seconds left in the third quarter.

Central outscored the Rocks 15-10 in the third stanza, but never seriously threatened the winners.

The foul-prone Rocks committed 27 personals in the game, as their normal aggressive defense turned into a sloppy display of guarding.

Central earned the right to play Salem with an opening-round victory over Detroit Kettering, 54-49.

Observerland picks 4 Rock gridders

By DOUG FUNKE

Area coaches met recently to select the 1976 edition of the all-Observer & Eccentric football team. With so many teams having fine seasons, especially Livonia Stevenson, Westland John Glenn and Livonia Franklin, the task proved difficult.

Players who saw action both ways were limited on the all-area teams to either an offensive or defensive position, but not both.

FIRST TEAM
Offense

Jim Dolmetsch, quarterback, Livonia Stevenson. The 6-1, 190-pound senior completed 76 of 112 passes this season for 1,126 yards and 14 touchdowns. Dolmetsch, who averaged almost 15 yards per completion, holds five Spartan passing records.

Stevenson coach Jack Reardon described Dolmetsch as "an outstanding passer—the best I've coached in 20 years."

Dolmetsch is also active in basketball and track.

Tim McCamant, running back, Clarenceville. The versatile junior did it all for the Trojans this season—ran the ball, caught passes and returned kickoffs and punts.

McCamant ran for 1,332 yards, gained 627 yards on pass receptions and returned two kickoffs and a pair of punts fortouchdowns.

"Tim is an outstanding leader, very coachable and a B-plus student," said Clarenceville coach Ralph Weddle.

Jeff Preston, running back, Westland John Glenn. The unanimous choice as the outstanding back in the Northwest Suburban League for 1976, Preston rambled for 916 yards on 183 carries.

The 916 yards established a new school record for the 6-0, 175 pound senior as did his 15 touchdowns.

A bull-type runner, Preston would just as soon run over potential tacklers this season as around them

Chuck Demarco, running back, Livonia Stevenson. Demarco, a three-year starter for the Spartans, cracked for 544 yards on 105 carries this season to complement Dolmetsch's passing arm.

The 5-11, 185 pound senior mostly carried the pigskin right through the middle of the line. "He's a fine blocker and a strong in side runner," Reardon said.

Kevin McKee, end, Redford Bishop Borgess. A co-captain of the Spartans this campaign, the big tight end grabbed 15 passes for 219 yards.

The 5-11, 185-pound senior was perhaps more valuable to the team in a blocking capacity, frequently clearing the way for the Spartans' premier runner, Pat Kelly. "McKee's a strong blocker," asserted Borgess' coach Fred Mushinski.

Ron Colone, end, Livonia Stevenson. One of the best all-around athletes in the area, Colone repeats this season as an honored member of the all-O & E squad.

A two-way performer, the 5-11, 160-pound senior caught 27 passes for 548 yards and 10 touchdowns this season. A three-year starter, Colone holds or shares seven Stevenson football records. He never comes off the field, playing offense, defense and on all the specialty teams.

"Ron has great hands and is a fine position blocker," Reardon said.

Bob Dasher, center, Plymouth Salem. A two-year starter for the Rocks, Dasher compiled the best grading percentage of all Salem linemen this year with a rating of 80.

The 6-1, 210-pound junior is a major college prospect, said Salem coach Tom Moshimer.

"He's an excellent blocker, has an excellent attitude, understands all of our interior blocking assignments and has been a leader both on and off the field," Moshimer stated.

Bob Bird, interior lineman, Westland John Glenn. A tri-captain of the Rockets and a unanimous all-Northwest Suburban League choice, Bird averaged 85 per cent on blocking efficiency this season, according to the Glenn rating system.

Also a starting linebacker on defense, the 5-10, 175-pound senior was a key cog in Glenn's undefeated season.

"He has excellent quickness off the ball and is a great pass blocker," summarized Glenn coach Jerry Lutri.

Bill Gardner, interior lineman, Livonia Stevenson. The 6-1, 180-pound senior was described by Reardon as "the strongest player on the team."

Gardner was a vital piston in the Spartans' offensive point machine and also saw spot duty on Stevenson's crushing defense.

Reid Albert, interior lineman, Plymouth Salem. The 6-0, 195-pound Albert was the brain behind the Rocks' offense; he made the blocking calls.

Albert, who ran the 40-yard dash in 4.8 seconds, was a two-year starter for Salem and second only to Dasher this season in blocking efficiency.

"We went to his (Albert's) side in tough situations," said Moshimer.

Cliff Smith, interior lineman, Livonia Churchill. The top Charger lineman in blocking efficiency, the 6-0, 185-pounder was also named to the all-Western Six League team.

"He's an excellent pass blocker," stated Churchill coach Ken Kaestner. "Most of our plays were run at his lineman position."

Smith is a senior.

FIRST TEAM
Defense

Jim Spala, defensive back, Livonia Stevenson. Spala, a two-year starter at safety, was the Spartans' outstanding defensive player of the 1976 campaign.

The 5-11, 170-pound junior had 45 first hits this season and 29 assists. He also intercepted two passes and scored six touchdowns as a tailback.

Spala, who also plays basketball and runs track, was described by Reardon as "a vicious tackler."

Pat Kelly, defensive back, Redford Bishop Borgess. Not very big at 5-8, 155-pounds, Kelly, nevertheless made 26 solo tackles this season and assisted on 43 others. Also a slashing running back, Kelly has 4.6 second speed in the 40-yard dash.

"He was an inspiration to our team," Mushinsky said of the junior. "He is an intense competitor."

Cliff Williamson, defensive back, Westland John Glenn. A unanimous all-Northwest Suburban League choice in the defensive backfield, Williamson intercepted three passes this year and returned them for a total of 46 yards.

Agnew, Dasher picked

Juniors Doug Agnew and Bob Dasher were selected as next year's co-captains of the 1977 Plymouth Salem football team at the Rocks' banquet held last Tuesday at the Plymouth Elks Club.

Agnew and Dasher were also chosen on the first-team All-Observerland grid squad for their play this past fall.

Agnew, an All-Suburban Eight League selection at linebacker, has been a Rock varsity starter for the past two years. He is a member of this season's Salem basketball team.

Dasher began his varsity action as a sophomore from the center position. He also competes on the Rock wrestling team.

By DENNIS O'CONNOR
Sports Editor

We've been talking all football season about how tough that Plymouth Salem wishbone option offense has been .

But let me share with you a conversation I had with a Farmington Harrison fan at last Saturday's semifinal playoff game.

The Hawks, which beat the Rocks at their last regular season game, boosting its gridders into the Class A playoffs, had just beaten Madison Heights Lamphere 21-0 at Wisner Stadium in Pontiac.

That victory advanced the Hawks to the state championship game played Saturday at the Pontiac Silverdome.

After the contest, I was on the field finishing my post-game interview of Harrison coach John Herrington when a lady ran up to me and asked if I knew who had won the other semifinal game.

That contest was in Lansing and the latest score I had heard was Lincoln Park ahead of Midland Dow, 14-6 at halftime.

"That's great," the Hawk fan exclaimed when I told her the score. "Dow runs a wishbone and I don't want to face them. It gave us enough trouble last week (against Salem)."

Herrington's feelings were very similar to this fan's thoughts—although his were not so evident.

After the game, the Hawk coach stood with the members of the media in an office under Wisner Stadium. One of the stadium officials called Lansing and relayed a message that Lincoln Park had beaten Dow, 34-27.

At that moment a huge grin crossed Herrington's face. His smile had the same meaning as the fan's remarks: "Thank heavens we don't have to face another wishbone."

AS IT TURNED OUT the transmission from Lansing to Pontiac was misinterpreted and Midland Dow actually won the game, 34-27.

So Herrington's troops will have to face another wishbone after all—the same kind of offense that gave them trouble when Salem invaded the Farmington field.

Harrison's entire squad was so impressed with the play of the Salem wishbone that it named sophomore quarterback Rich Hewlett the "toughest individual player " it had faced all season.

It has to be a compliment to the Rocks that they nearly doubled the rushing total of Harrison in their showdown. Three costly turnovers by Salem resulted in Harrison's 28-14 victory.

The Rocks had outplayed a team that could possibly be crowned the Class A state champions with a victory this Saturday.

FOR THE SEASON, that offense gained a team total of 2,260 net yards, a school record. That figures to be over 250 yards per game.

The Rocks also gained more than 300 yards in their last four games but lost two of them.

And yet, despite this offensive surge, doesn't it seem odd that this squad finished with a 5-4 overall record and placed only one player on the top 22 selected for the All-Suburban Eight League team?

The 5-10, 150-pound senior also served as a punt return specialist the past two seasons. This year, he ran back 11 punts for for 295 yards and eight kickoffs for 163 yards.

Williamson also played wide receiver on offense.

Doug Agnew, linebacker, Plymouth Salem. The solid 6-1, 170- pound junior made 63 solo tackles, assisted on 52 others, intercepted two passes and recovered a fumble to compile a total of 189 rating points, more than any other defensive player in Salem history.

"He reads keys exceptionally well, is a hard hitter who gets to the football and is extremely coachable," Moshimer stated.

Tim Curran, linebacker, Livonia Churchill. Captain of the Chargers and a unanimous all-Western Six League selection, Curran was responsible for 58 first hits and assisted on 71 other tackles.

The 6-2, 185-pound junior led the Chargers' hitting chart for all nine games.

"Curran ranks with Andy Fabian as the best linebacker ever to play for Churchill," said Kaestner. "Curran's an excellent college prospect."

Mike Holton, linebacker, Westland John Glenn. A tri-captain of the Rockets this season, Holton, the leading tackler in Glenn history, was a unanimous pick as a linebacker on the all-Northwest Suburban League team.

The 6-0, 205-pound senior can bench press 350 pounds and his strength is his forte.

"He's a great hitter," said Lutri. "He reads keys exceptionally well and covers the pass as well as any we have seen."

Steve Taylor, defensive end, Livonia Stevenson. At 5-11, 180-pounds, Taylor, a senior, also played offensive guard.

"He's very strong on defense," Reardon said. "He closes the tackle hole and is a good pass rusher and a good hitter."

Craig Fuelling, defensive end, Livonia Bentley. A two-way performer at end, Fuelling caught 12 passes for an average of 22.9 yards per reception. He caught four for touchdowns.

The 6-3, 190-pound senior also averaged 34 yards per punt for the Bulldogs this season.

"Craig is an enthusiastic and dedicated ball player," complimented Bentley coach Glenn Goode.

Mark Grabowski, defensive lineman, Westland John Glenn. The unanimous choice as outstanding lineman in the Northwest Suburban League for 1976, Grabowski averaged seven solo tackles and six assists per game.

The 6-1, 205-pound senior was a two-year starter at noseguard on defense and also started at tight end on offense this year.

"He has excellent quickness and pursues well," Lutri said. "He's a great pass rusher."

Grabowski, also a wrestler, carries a 3.8 grade average.

Dave Champion, defensive lineman, Plymouth Salem. A two-year all-Suburban Eight League tackle, Champion collected 34 solo stops and 52 assists this season and recovered two fumbles to total 125 defensive points, an extremely good total for a defensive lineman.

The 6-1, 210-pound senior and co-captain of the Rocks played both ways this year. "He's our best defensive lineman and a definite college prospect," Moshimer said.

Paul Gries, defensive lineman, Redford Bishop Borgess. A 6-2, 225-pound junior, Gries was credited with 17 solo tackles, 27 assists and six big hits for the Spartans this season.

"He's an excellent pass rusher," noted Mushinsky.

Winter comes for outdoor lovers

By LEM MESEE
Outdoors writer

When it's too cold for picnics and fishing but there's not enough ice on the lakes for angling, what can you do outdoors?

There are downhill skiing, cross-country skiing and muzzle-loaderrs' deer season, among other things.

MT. BRIGHTON became the first southeast Michigan to open its slopes for the season a couple of weeks ago.

Co-owner Gene Hill said the three-place chair lift and associated run, as well as the beginner slope with five rope tows, are in operation.

"We have been preparing all summer for a super season," said Hill. "We have improved our lower lodge. We've also added 500 new ski rentals, bringing our total to 1,700."

Slopes will have a good base, said Hill, because of the usual fine grooming and the resort's immense capacity for making snow.

Other spots to keep your eyes on are Mt. Holly, Alpine Valley, Mt. Grampian, Pine Knob, Irish Hills, Black Forest and Teeple Hill.

CROSS-COUNTRY skiing is growing in popularity. Not only does the skiier get to see more open country, but the costs are much cheaper.

If you haven't tried it yet and don't know whether you want to invest in equipment, try renting at one of two spots—Kensington Metropark south of Brighton and Stoney Creek Metropark near Rochester.

If you're equipped already, try any of the other metroparks, the state parks or state recreation areas once the deer hunters have cleared out of the latter spots.

At Kensington, the ski touring center is at the golf course starter building on the west side of the metropark (use Kensington Road exit from I-96). It's open daily from 9 a.m. to sunset, snow conditions permitting.

You can rent a full set of equipment for $4.50 a half-day plus insurance and a returnable damage deposit. Raupp Campfitters operates the service.

Skiing lessons are also available at $3 an hour.

At Stony Creek Metropark, the ski center is at the Eastwood Beach site and is open Thursday through Sunday from 8 a.m. to sunset, snow permitting.

Prices are the same as at Kensington.

In winter, admission to the nine Huron-Clinton metroparks is free.

Soccer rolls

The Livonia Thistle soccer team of the narrow 2-1 victory over Livonia Arsenal to win the Talbot Cup.

Thistle took the lead in the first quarter when Jim Eaton charged through the Arsenal defense and put the ball into the net.

But Arsenal fought back to tie the game when Dan Duggan scored. He out ran a Thistle defensemen and blasted the ball in the net.

The second half was a typical soccer defensive battle. The teams ended the game in deadlock and were forced into overtime.

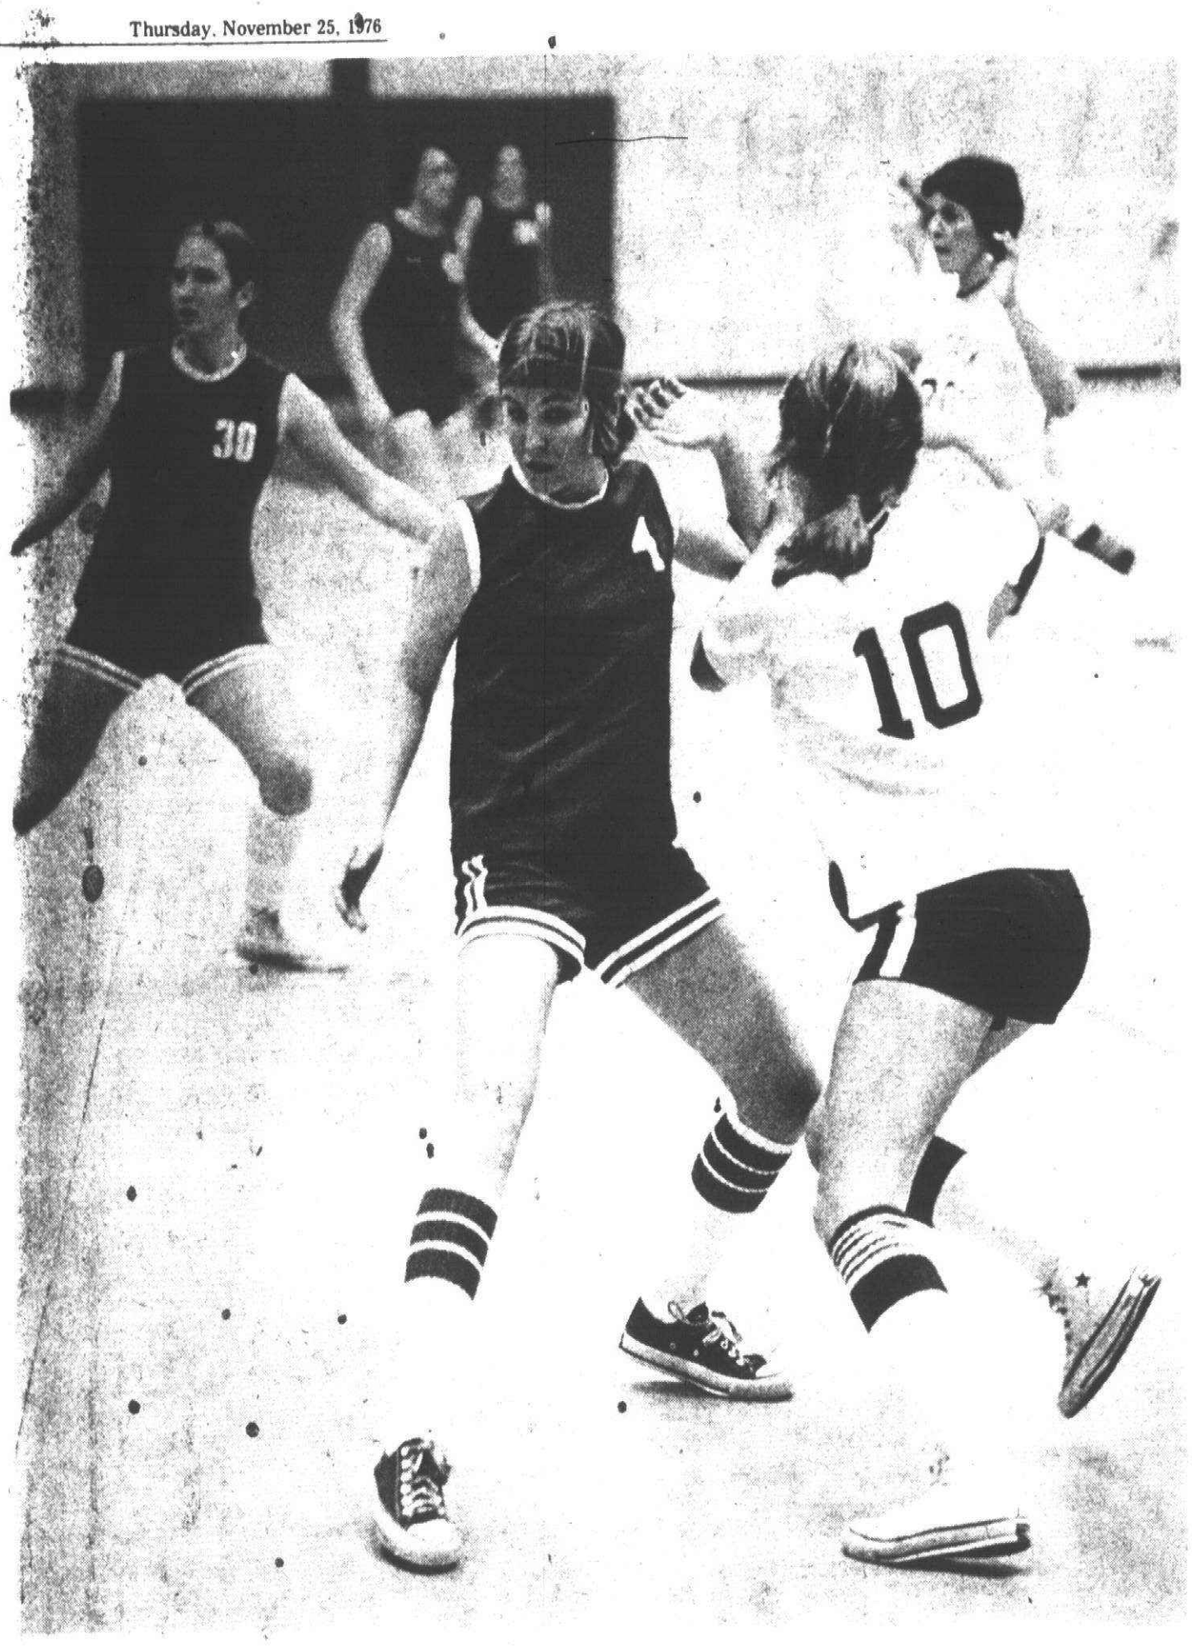

Thistle took the game with just 10 minutes left in the extra time when Matt Davis smashed a penalty kick past the Arsenal goal keeper.

The Thistle team completed an unbeaten season having won the Western Suburban Championship two weeks ago in a game against Northville.

Pioneer

Another perfect season for Pioneer Middle School's eighth grade football team was recorded two weeks ago, as the Panthers finished their year with a 6-0 record. The Pioneer seventh grade also had the best record among the community's middle school grid squads.

Central finished second in the eighth grade race with a 4-2 record and West ended at 2-4.

NSL cage battle looms

The time has come for high schools teams in the area to hang up the football spikes and put on the tennis shoes, for the start of another boys' basketball season.

Redford Thurston, Livonia Franklin, Livonia Stevenson, Redford Union, Bishop Borgess and Westland John Glenn are already looking ahead and trying to become the state champions.

"The Northwest Suburban League is going to be very competitive this year," commented Thurston coach Bill Croteau. Thurston Franklin and John Glenn, along with Garden City East and North Farmington, are the teams that will battle for the league title.

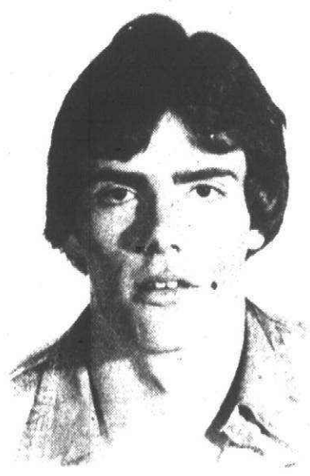

"No one team is going to run away with the championship in our league," explained Franklin coach, Bob Visser. "The league is too well balanced for anyone to do that."

Stevenson will again be going at it in the Inter-Lakes league. Coach George Van Waggoner thinks the Spartans have a good chance to lead their league. "Pontiac Northern and Farmington will be tough but we feel we can beat both of them."

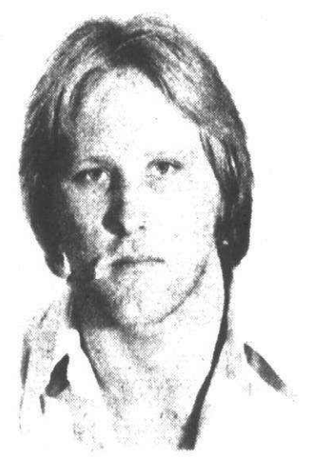

"In the Suburban Eight League, Trenton is going to be awfully hard to beat, and Plymouth Salem is always tough," stated RU coach Carl Andrews. "We are going to have a young and inexperienced team, so I don't know how good we will be this year."

Borgess is in the same league as the defending state champion, Catholic Central. "Central is the team to beat, because they are the state champs," said Borgess coach Ron Gutkowski. "Brother Rice and Notre Dame, along with us, will all have respectable teams in the Central Division of the Detroit

In The Pocket

By W.W. EDGAR

It was bound to happen sooner or later.

The American Bowling Congress, which guards the great game of toppling tenpins, has approved the installation of synthetic lanes following a series of experiments over the past two years.

The synthetic coverings can be laid over the present wooden lanes and can be laid in sections. They will be manufactured to look like wood and will even carry all the markers to guard the bowlers toward the pocket.

No date has been set for an installation in the metropolitan Detroit area.

THE 700 TRADITION has been broken at Wonderland Lanes. For more than a month, the classic bowlers have registered one 700 series a week.

This week, however, that trend was broken when Kerry Reetz needed only a 677 to take top honors. He rolled a progressive series, starting with a 200 and following with games of 222 and 255.

IT WAS A different story at Cherry Hill Lanes, where the sharp shooters posted two 700 series on the same shift. Mike Lang showed the way with a 751, and Bill Todd had a 709. Rick Capaldi missed the barrier by a single pin with a 699, and Jerry Gasina followed with 690.

GORDY CANTWELL joined the 700 club at Garden Lanes when he linked counts of 227, 246 and 232 for a 705 to pace the classic. It was the first 700 series rolled in the house this season.

His closest rival for top honors was Rick Cronowski with 670. Roger Helle landed third with 656.

Meanwhile, Don Mc Hugh topped the Moose League with a 639, and Jan Dimmer showed the way to the ladies with a 591.

LARRY PRATT was the big gun in the Westland Junior House League as he posted a 276 game in a 659 series. Trailing him were Randy Oncza with 620 and Bill Simmons with a 633.

THERE WAS another close finish in the Bel Aire Classic, and Nick Colucci landed on top with a 685 and earned a 13 edge on Mario Russo. Roger Luoma finished third with a 669.

Among the better performances of the week, Bill Wood had a 276 in 638. Sharon Dees paced the women with 579, four pins more than Bertha Simonsen. But the star of the week among the ladies was Katji Marulla, a 157 average bowler who came through with games of 204, 190 and 218 for 612. Joining with her in the star row was Connie Pyne of the Swingers, with a 216 game in a 548 series.

THE GIRLS had another good week at Merri-Bowl, and Audrey Shell, a 155 bowler, showed the way with a 263 game in a 596 series. The top series went to Bunnie Guerro, who finisoed with a 217 for 607.

The best series of the week at Merri-Bowl was produced by John Staricha, who had games of 244, 200 and 243 for 687 in the Fatner and Son League. Ed Williams took high game with a 260 in a 602 count.

DOROTHY LUTZ got her name on the Honor Roll at Country Lanes with her best game of the season. A 144 average bowler, she posted a 242 to go 98 pins over.

AFTER A SLOW START, Ron Van Marter contributed the best series of the week in the Northville Commons League at Plymouth Bowl. He opened with a 150, but followed with counts of 265 and 222 for 647.

In the Plymouth Ladies loop, Tam Lowry moved to the head of the parade with a 574 that included a 223 opener.

DENNIS SEEMAN was the best shot at Plaza Bowl. Carrying a 182 average, he registered games of 212, 191 and 153 for a 656. In the men's league, Bob Schmidt went 119 pins over with a 265 game, and Frank Byanda went 101 over with a 253.

Among the outstanding players on Alma College's 1976 Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association (MIAA) championship women's field hockey team were Marti Rosbolt (left) from Livonia Stevenson and Sue Finley from Plymouth Salem. The Scots had a 7-1 record for the regular season.

Nancy Dickerson, prominent national correspondent, reports for Detroit Edison:

"November is Energy Month ...but energy conservation is a year-round job."

November is "Energy Month" in Michigan.

Governor William Milliken has officially dedicated November to promoting energy conservation through increased public awareness of energy problems.

Throughout "Energy Month" everyone is encouraged to find and share new ways to conserve energy.

This is an important time. Many of the fuels used to supply our energy are becoming scarce and expensive.

So energy conservation directly concerns us all...during "Energy Month" and every month of the year.

Each of us, as energy users, is responsible for using energy wisely. The job begins right at home. Here are just a few things you can do to be wise, and be dollars ahead on energy costs.

Insulate exterior walls, floors, heating and cooling ducts, attics, and crawl spaces with the correct amount and proper type of insulating materials.

Regulate your heating and cooling loads by dialing your thermostat down in winter and up in summer, especially at night or when your house is empty. Lower water heater and furnace fan settings, too.

Ventilate with an attic exhaust fan in hot weather to lower your air-conditioning load and operating costs.

Control heat loss through glass areas in winter with storm windows and doors. Check weatherstripping and caulking. Drapes and shades also help; they control heat gain and air-conditioner strain in summer.

Maintain your furnace and air conditioner with regular service checks. Replace filters often. Repair faulty appliances because they could be wasting energy... and costing you extra money.

And Plan Ahead when buying a new air conditioner. Make sure it's the right size (BTUs) with an Energy Efficiency Rating of 8 or more (EER = BTUs/watts). Building a new home? Consider installing a heat pump...the most energy efficient way to heat, cool, filter, and dehumidify electrically...delivering over 1½ units of heat for every unit of electricity it uses.

As an energy supplier, Detroit Edison is an active and concerned participant in America's crusade for conservation.

So, even though the people at Detroit Edison cannot control the use of energy, other than their own, they are continually working to produce and supply electricity as efficiently as possible, both to conserve our non-renewable natural resources and to give you the most for your energy dollar.

Here's what Detroit Edison is doing:

- salvaging and recycling paper, wire, lines hardware, poles, street lighting equipment, transformers, capacitors... even oil, again saving limited resources and over $8 million in 1975
- using compact service vehicles for more efficient and economical operation and gas mileage
- pioneering time-of-day rates and remote-controlled air conditioning and water heating to save millions of investment dollars and reduce energy consumption and waste
- continuing research into alternative energy sources such as solar, nuclear, wind and refuse in order to conserve scarce fossil fuels.

America's crusade for conservation requires a working relationship between those who supply energy and those who use it.

Detroit Edison is working hard to do its part. But the success of this crusade depends on all of us...every day, every month, all year round.

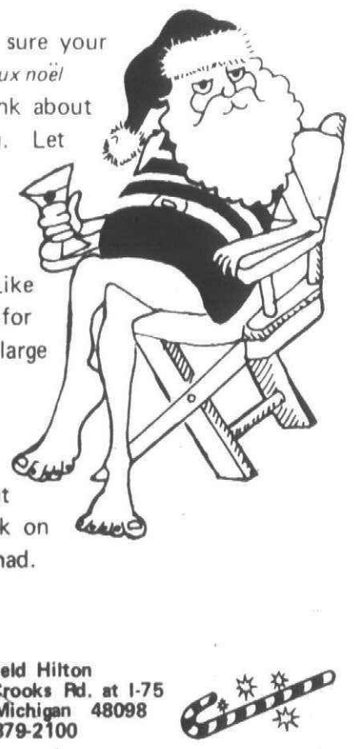

Save energy for all it's worth.

THE POWER IS IN YOUR HANDS.

Cagers ready for season

Now that the 1976 football season has run its course soon it will be the basketball teams'turn to take the fore-front of the sports news. The line-ups on each team may have changed this year, but it should still prove to be an exciting season.

Starting with the squad that had probably the best record of any area team last year,which was, of course Garden City West, 20-0, one look at the teams shows that all are hopeful and in some way confident of a good season.

West, under the coaching eye of Chris Babler, is under great pressure to repeat its showing of last year. But, according to Babler, the team is in a rebuilding year.

"We are weak in experience," Babler said. "The season hinges on how quick the players gain experience."

The team has three starters returning from last season: Craig Bradley, at forward, Allan Bracket, at forward, and Dave Tatro, at guard.

Coming up from the junior varsity will be Bill Geddes, who was the leading scorer for the J.V. last year. Also John Mullet and Craig Markell, both are guards.

As to the league race, Babler said that three teams will be tough—Southgate Schafer, Inkster Cherry Hill and Melvindale.

The team's strong points, said Babler, are enthusiasm, desire and hard work. But once again it is truely a rebuilding year for the West team.

Livonia Churchill, on the other hand, is looking for another good season, with such players as Tommy Bay, Paul Eberly and John Jamson being keys to that good year.

Also on the team are Larry Davis and Dave Sipes who were on the varsity last year but didn't see much action.

Coming up from the junior varsity are Ralph Jarnot, Ray Progar, Dave Abee, Dave Kielty and Craig Hanton.

"We are strong up front and adequate in the backcourt," said Charger coach Pat Montagano who nevertheless feels that the team's guards need experience.

As for the league, Montagano said that it would be tough but that hopefully Churchill will be in the running.

Moving on to Garden City East, under the coaching of Billy Joe Young, the outlook is again hopeful.

Returning starters for the East team, are Dan Loacano, who is in fact the only returning full-time starter. Also on the varsity last year and coming back are Bob Davis, Phil Emery and Greg McComas.

Coming up from the junior varsity will be Jim Dziekan, Steve Topalian, Joe Emery, Brain Slaven and Dave McCall.

As for strength, Young said that the team is big, physically, but lacks real height.

"Anybody could win the league," said Young of the Northwest Suburban circuit. He also feels that North Farmington is the team to beat.

Then there's Livonia Bentley, which had a poor 7-14 record last year but, according to Bulldog coach Larry Jackson, has improved greatly over last year.

"I think we've improved in both our defense and offense," said Jackson who is also looking for an excellent performance from one player in particular.

Florian Homm is his name and he is a German foreign exchange student at Bentley. Jackson said that he thought Homm was a fine player.

Other key players on the team are, Ed Snow, a forward, Rick Ehrstin, a guard and Ken Duckworth, who is a three-year lettermen in basketball.

Woodview Moved Them.

A community called Woodview is changing most of the ideas people have had about condominiums.

People think condominiums are cramped and small. At Woodview they're spacious and well planned.

People think most condominium developments are unsightly. But Woodview is built around reflecting pools, large trees and shrubs.

And Woodview is exciting . . .

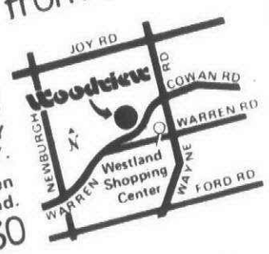

Amenities include a swimming pool, a tennis court and a huge clubhouse. (Tennis court complete by Dec. 1976)

For these reasons, Woodview has already attracted a unique group of residents. Like Mr. & Mrs. Chalfonte, who previously lived in a single family home.

Woodview moved them.

See for yourself.

Disappointed gift-getter says 'tis better to give

I have concluded that the debate regarding whether it's better to give than receive depends entirely on who's giving what to whom.

Personally, I prefer to give . . . primarily because I've been the recipient of many gifts where it was the thought that counted.

I don't mean to be snide or snobby here. I have simply developed an aversion to gifts that are preceded with "Oh, it's something you'd never buy for yourself."

Usually, they are right—I'd never buy some of the things I've been given.

Of course, the same thing has probably passed through the minds of people who received gifts I gave. And if it was all added up I would guess that I've given as many rotten presents as I've gotten.

When you are a kid you really aren't aware that you don't like something. The important facet of Christmas was that Santa Claus did, in fact, come, and left a present instead of coal.

That was always a relief to me on Christmas morning, to find out that I made it through the year without really miffing the old guy up north.

As I grew older, however, I realized that a lot of what Santa Claus brought wasn't exactly what I had in mind.

I could never remember asking for 12 new pairs of cotton Carter underwear or a snowsuit, though I was sure I had expressed a strong desire for the latest Tiny Tears doll.

For a while, I thought Santa didn't like the cookies, and then I figured it out.

With that revelation—who Santa Claus really was—came a more suspecting mind along with less than award-winning "Oh I love it" performances.

The first time I remember really hating a present was the year my dear old sweet aunt gave me a purse.

There's nothing wrong with getting a purse, I've gotten many and I've given many (sometimes the ones I got), but this purse was not to be believed.

I think I was about 8 years old—if not, it was at least a period in my life when having the "in" thing was crucial.

This purse was not in—then, now or ever.

It was instead, a very strange shade of orange, shaped like a box and just as hard, and bedecked with the tiniest brown plastic handle.

Inside its orange plastic frame was black fabric with a little pocket," That's for your comb"said my aunt. And there was naturally a mirror glued onto the top.

It was about the ugliest thing I'd ever seen in what was then my young life. The passing years haven't changed its status.

Out of respect for my aunt, my mother made me carry that purse, even when my friends were ever so chic with their marshmallow flip flops. Not only was I mortified, but I also had bruises on my leg since the purse was constantly banging against my body.

Since then, I have learned, I hope, how to be gracious, no matter what was under the pretty wrapping. I have expressed delight over articles that would make even the tackiest cringe, and I have proudly displayed said articles, when and if the giver visited.

With my family, I have taken the more direct approach.

My mother has been informed that I no longer wear pajamas with feet in them or undershirts. (Though I think she bought them more out of habit than not knowing).

My sister has been told that I don't want any more leftovers from her beginning pottery class. It's embarassing when friends ask if my 5-year-old nephew made that piece and I have to say, "No, it was done by my 30-year-old sister." She has also given me a drawerful of sterling silver initialed brushes. I have told her not to give me anymore, unless she can find one that has my initials on it.

Over the years, my other sister has been pretty good. Only once have I had to mention that though I liked the dress she gave me and though I appreciated it was a bargain, I never have been a size six.

Before I cast any more stones, I should reveal some of the rotten presents I have bestowed upon friends and family.

I remember the year when one magazine invited me to "Make Great Gifts From Old Glasses." I scoured my mother's cupboards, gathering up all the glasses that were never used, or so I thought.

Then, according to directions, I pasted on ribbon after ribbon.

As I recall, they had to be just about the tackiest things I have ever made. At the time, however, I was delighted with my transformation of plain everyday drinking glasses into plain everyday drinking glasses with ribbons pasted on them.

I never did figure out what they were supposed to be, and my family drank out of paper cups for about a week—the length of time it took my mother to soak off the well-glued ribbons.

My friends have also been the recipients of less-than-welcome presents.

One year, I decided to give a girlfriend and her husband a joint present, one they could both use. I decided on an entertainment book, the kind filled with coupons allowing two people to get almost anything for the price of one.

It was a bomb . . . but then how was I to know they were getting a divorce?

Someone once said that the safest way to give a Christmas present is to make sure everything is returnable or don't give anything at all, except cash.

I don't agree with either. It's not the dollar value or the object itself that makes a present fun. It is, instead, the love that goes with it.

And you know, I did love that orange purse.

—CHRISTINE WALDEN

Christmas visits cheer the forgotten

It's Christmas Eve, and no matter how blase or sophisticated one tries to be, the heart beats a trifle faster and the cheeks flush with excitement.

These are the anxious moments of "Whom did I forget?" and "Did I remember to put that special card inside his/her package?" and "I hope everything will be right."

This should also be the time to remember those less fortunate friends in the hospital, friends who have recently lost a loved one, friends who are going through a trying period.

Would Charlie buy himself this?

What makes a good gift? Something you like or an item you think would appeal to the recipient?

It's a subconscious question Christmas shoppers ponder every year as they wade through aisles of merchandise trying to locate that elusive "perfect" gift for someone on their list.

Often they arrive at the wrong answer, judging by an informal survey of local merchants.

They offer as supporting evidence the fact that millions of dollars worth of gifts are exchanged annually in the harried days following Christmas.

Often the gifts are returned not because they're the wrong size or the recipient already has the item, but because the beneficiary simply doesn't like the gift and would rather have something else instead.

The gift-giver, oblivious to the wants or needs of the recipient, usually never realizes that the gift he spent so much time and energy pursuing has been exchanged.

The gift-receiver, embarrassed to admit the item has been exchanged, will often lie when asked about it.

The solution to this annual dilemma is to understand the psychology of gift buying and receiving.

First, the answer to the question posed at the onset of this story must be: Try to find a gift that will appeal to the person receiving it.

That may seem obvious and overly simplistic, but its a basic premise many shoppers ignore or forget when embarking on their purchasing excursions.

The proprietor of a fasionable local men's shop put it this way: "It's the same way every year. People come in and agonize over what gift to buy. They're relieved when they finally think they've made the rigth choice. But a few days after Christmas the same item is returned or exchanged for something else."

The trouble is that the person buying the gift was really shopping for himself, not the person for whom the gift was intended.

"People should learn to reverse roles," the proprietor advised. "They should pretend they're the person the gift is intended for and he or she has gone shopping to buy something for themselves."

In other words, before plunking down the charge card or opening up the wallet or checkbook, take a moment to consider the following question: Would the recipient purchase the gift you're about to buy, if he were shopping for himself?"

If the answer to that question is affirmative, then chances are you've made a wise selection. If the answer is "Probably not," or "I really don't know," then you might want to reconsider the selection.

The subconscious tendency when gift buying to please oneself rather than the gift recipient is what has to be overcome.

Personal taste has to be put aside to prevent it from interfering with the selection process.

Some tips may be helpful:

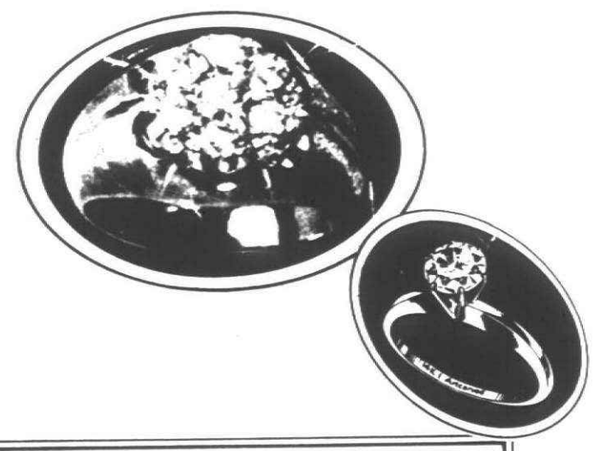

- Avoid, when possible, buying gifts that you need or want. That bulky sweater that looks so appealing to you may be the last thing in the world the recipient wants.
- When uncertain, seek the advice of someone familiar with the tastes of the person you are shopping for. A quick phone call to a friend or relative may save needless wasting of time and effort milling through seemingly countless stores.
- Avoid last-minute shopping. When pressed for time you're more likely to be drawn to something that appeals to you because it's the first thing that comes to mind.
- Spend a few minutes at home, away from the frantic atmosphere of the stores, to think about the person you will be shopping for. Consider his tastes, interests, hobbies and lifestyle. If a certain item of clothing pops into mind, make sure it would fit in with the recipient's wardrobe and that it's not merely something that would complement the last outfit you bought.
- Above all, avoid items that you would like to receive or ones you received in recent years that especially pleased you. Chances are you'd be shopping for yourself or reinforcing your own preferences.

Volunteers ready holiday packages for those who might otherwise be without at Christmas time.

take puzzles or craft kits involving needlepoint, macrame or painting.

If they are collectors, it might be possible to come up with a interesting coin or stamp. If they are tired of candy, try gifting them with nuts or fruitcake, with their doctor's permission, of course.

Institutions such as Northville State Hospital and the Plymouth Center for Human Development have a number of suggestions for organizations which like to share their Christmas joy with others.

If your organization wants to donate gifts, Peter Schweitzer of the Plymouth center suggests grooming items for men and women, as well as purses, billfolds, tote bags and comb and brush sets.

For children, crayons, balls, finger painting sets, small cars, dolls, wooden puzzles and educational toys would be just the thing. Wagons, Krazy Cars, Big Wheels are popular among the youger patients, who can ride these vehicles in the hospital play area.

For the mental patients at the Northville facility or any other such institution, Jean Batcheldor advised stretch gloves, scarfs, homemade cookies, candy or cupcakes.

Decorative items would also be appreciated by most institutions to brighten up halls and rooms in the Yule season.

Cheers! Give the

The best present is your presence

People who live in institutions believe in Christmas, just like everyone else. Whether they are living in a nursing home, a hospital or another kind of institution, they love being remembered with gifts.

Convalescent home residents, for example, can use all kinds of clothing and toilet articles. High on their lists for Santa also are small lap-robes made of knitted or crocheted material that is machine washable. Their knees often need warming.

A director of one of these homes suggested that residents would respond favorably to individually wrapped scented soap, talcum powder, perfume, hand cream, deodorant or tooth paste. Jewelry is also very popular, she added, especially beads.

"Men like dark stretch socks and shaving lotion," she said. "Candy and cookies are always popular with everyone, and diabetics enjoy fresh fruit. Slippers and heavy knee socks also go over big."

Spokesmen for several nursing homes said that groups wishing to add something to the quality of life to patients might consider donating small prizes that could be used at bingo games.

For the relative or friend who must spend his holidays in a hospital bed, your presence would doubtless be of greater value than any purchased presents.

But to cheer up these people try a book, crossword puzzles, games, magazine subscriptions, or stationery. To keep hands busy

Cash: There's a size and color for everyone

If you hate Christmas shopping, the gift for you to give is cash. It solves the confused gift-giver's problems as well as proving itself to be a liquid asset.

The only reason most people avoid giving cash is because of its lack of novelty. No one gets as excited over a $10 bill as they might with an antique hair clip. And let's face it, we want to see the receivers of our gifts happy with our offerings. That's why it would be nice to disguise the money we give.

One way to give cash is in the form of gift certificates. Not only do major department stores give these token gift receipts, but restaurants are now accepting money for such things as fancy lobster dinnners. If you don't have $20 burning a hole in your pocket, you might want to spend 50 cents. That will buy a certificate that can be traded for a pile of French fries at the local hamburger stand.

If your friend or relative hates food or is trying to slim down those bulges, try giving tickets to an athletic event. That's one way to make sure you have someone with sit with during ball games.

Another way to disguise cash is to buy two tickets to the best concerts scheduled for January. If you have friends who can't sit still, you may want to prepay for a weekend of sight-seeing in Toledo. If you're one of those who has an unlimited budget, try giving one airline ticket to Las Vegas. Do this single fare to avoid complications with spouses or girlfriends.

If you don't know what sports are favored or can't decide which concert your friend might want to see, there are other ways to give cash.

Try giving a carton of cigarettes that contain money in every package. Or tuck something away in a stuffed animal. Take out the stomach lining and replace it with crisp new bills. Nothing will disappoint a 50-year-old more than seeing a stuffed animal for Christmas. Think of the mood elevator it will be when he counts that money you hid.

If you think that the traditional green bill will excite your friend the most, give him the standard cash card. He will be able to easily locate the cash in the pocket.

Buy 40-carat gifts for over-40 friends

As everyone knows (or will someday), life begins at 40.

It is also a time when life can begin again, when men and women take stock and decide it is time to get out of old ruts and into new hobbies, new sports and new directions.

Keep this in mind when considering Christmas presents for the over-40 set.

A new tennis racquet may net a return to a long-ago enjoyed game. Jogging togs may set the pace to enjoy the feel of exercise and make strides to prolonging life. A golf putter may just get the over-40 couple in the swing and out onto the fairway.

And, of course, you don't have to tell them, but unstrenuous activities learned now will easily carry over into retirement. A camera, oil paints, knitting needles or carpentry tools can be a gentle nudge in the right direction.

Did the bicentennial bug bite your friend? There's a large variety of books on the Revoluntionary War and the Civil War—enough to merit sincere appreciation.

For the 40-ish femme fatale who sees life as one big strategy, there are some gorgeous chess sets. If her strategy, however, is to have her husband take over the cooking after he retires, do her a favor by gifting him with one of those big aprons with the saucy sayings.

A new wok just might carry him over the edge forever. Voila, he's started on a new interest, and you're sure of a long list of gourmet gift ideas for years to come.

Of course, over-40 friends are as interested in clothing as anyone else. But to reassure them that age is not advancing in martial strength, be sure you buy them apparel that is bright and attractive—after all, they are starting a new life.

Making a list chops shopping time

Chanukah is 23 days away, Christmas is 31. Plenty of time to get ready with the cleaning, cooking, baking and gift wrapping.

You can avoid becoming a bundle of nerves, spending money on items which are too expensive and not really what you want to buy, if you start planning your gift shopping now.

Here are a few suggestions to make shopping easier.

To begin, make a list of everyone you want to give a gift. Plan on how much you want to spend on each person.

After thinking about individual likes and dislikes, decide on a few items suitable for each person. By having a choice of gifts to buy, shopping will be easier if you don't have to hunt for one item.

Thumbing through magazines may help you with gift ideas. The November issues of Consumer Reports magazine lists and describes 10 "best buy gifts" compiled from past issues.

When your list is completed, it's time to do research and comparison shopping.

If you are purchasing costly gifts, Consumer Reports can be a guide to what brands to buy. You may discover you don't have to spend $200 on a camera when an off-brand camera for $125 may offer the same features.

Many people overlook store brands in favor of purchasing national brand merchandise. Store brands are often of equal quality but lower priced. They are worth considering for holiday purchases.

Comparison shopping can be conducted by reading newspaper advertisements and by using the Yellow Pages.

By calling stores that carry merchandise you want to buy, you can discover prices, who will repair the gift if defective, and return policies.

Many stores will not take back a gift without a receipt. Some will exchange it for cash, others for due bills. Which stores do which may influence where you want to buy gifts.

Lastly, shop early to avoid last-minute buying panics. By shopping now, you can take advantage of sales, promotions and well-stocked stores.

If you are planning on charging your gift purchases, try to buy early in your billing month. This gives you extra time to get money to pay the account in full, avoiding interest charges.

For instance, if your closing date is the 15th of the month and you make your purchases on the 16th, you will have til the 15th of the next month plus another 25 days after that before you have to pay your bill.

Buy yourself a gift by putting the money for the gifts in a savings account to draw interest until you have to pay the charge account. Use the interest you earned to buy yourself a holiday treat.

An antique brass stirrup door stop may not fit into the decor of your thoroughly modern home. What to do with such a gift?

Dust-catchers adorn basements

Everyone has anxiously run to the tree Christmas morning eager to unwrap a fantastic array of "just-what-I-wanted" gifts, only to find a third pair of green slippers, a fourth electric can opener or an acrylic magazine rack for an overwise rustic home.

While your heart sinks, your muscles tighten as you try to keep that "oh, how lovely" expression on your face.

But after the tinsel is returned to the attic, just what are you expected to do with those gifts you really have no use for?

According to Emily Post's "Etiquette," "One type of gift to avoid is the dust-catching ornament."

Few persons intentionally select gifts to further adorn the recipient's attic or basement. But the gift-giver is not always in a position to know exactly what the recipient needs, wants or can use.

Relatives who have never met Nephew John's new wife feel obligated to send a Christmas gift even though they haven't the fogginess notion of her tastes or needs.

Sales contacts exchange holiday tokens with persons they know only as the president of Firm X or marketing agent of Firm Y.

It is, therefore, expected that every gift will not please its recipient.

It is also expected that most thoughtful gift-givers would prefer you exchange the gift for something you will actually use and enjoy rather than storing it in mothballs along with the letter sweaters and bronzed baby shoes.

If the gift is returnable and you know the store from which it came, or if another store agrees to a swap, make an exchange.

The important thing to remember, however, is not to be deceptive. If the person who gave the gift is a good friend or relative who sees or visits you often and is likely to ask "Why don't you ever wear those green slippers?" be frank. Explain, preferably ahead of time, that you have similar ones and would like to exchange the gift for a new robe that you really need.

What gift-giver would not be pleased knowing you now have something you really need, want and enjoy?

The only exception, however, is in dealing with overly sensitive persons. Perhaps Aunt Ginny simply would not understand why you don't adore the gold lame cigarette case even though you don't smoke.

In such instances, make room for the item and be sure to display it whenever she visits.

Happy hunting - here are gift ideas for sports

Christmas is a time for watching snow fall, for roasting marshmallows or if your inclined to be a little more athletic, for challenging the winter or your wits in the spirit of sports.

For those trying to find a gift for the athlete the choice of possible sports gifts is limitless. But to reap the full gain that is possible, you have to know the field.

There is a wide variety of indoor sports games. They come in all sizes, from cheap and easy to play to expensive and challenging. From table tennis on a screen to air hockey on the floor, any sports fan can enjoy the simple pleasure gained from knowing that, even if a blizzard is blowing outside, he can still be in tune with sports.

Of course, there is always the perfect present for the winter professional sports fan, tickets to one of the events.

For the smallest sports fans in your house why not stock up on all types of sports equipment from baseball bats to a new basketball.

If the humdrum activities of the indoors are paling, there is no better place to journey than the great outdoors. With all its beauty and challenges, the real sportsman will find the outdoors a new breath in a dying wind.

But to challenge the world of winter sports a wide variety of equipment and clothing is needed. If your sportsman is a back-to-nature type why not buy him some equipment not already in his locker?

Start with skis, skates and sleds and move up to even greater challenges with hiking boots, backpacks, clothing and tents.

For the really rugged, the best gift on Christmas morning will be a 90 per cent goose down sleeping bag, good for 40 degrees below.

Down jackets, pants and footwarmers which can be slipped on after a hard day's hiking will also be appreciated.

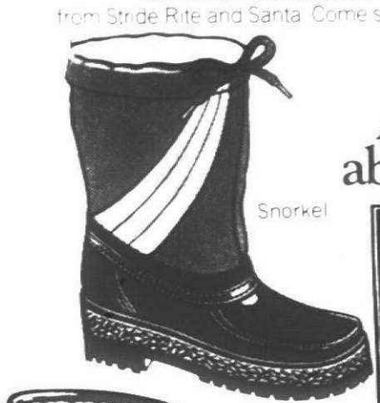

While the traditional range of gifts for the hunter and fisherman includes more guns, shells, sights, lures and reels, there's a gift that's highly unusual—a hunting bow set.

Beat get-lag by buying gift for yourself

You've just gotten home from the mall, your arms are tired from carrying packages, you're sick of trying to figure out what to get your niece, nephew, grandpa and aunt. You hope they like what you finally settled on, but your feet tell you not to care.

Then you go to your wallet, where you've been so many times, and find, folded neatly in a hidden compartment, an extra $40. It's like discovering the bank made a $100 error in your favor.

If you're compulsive, you'll want to spend it. If you aren't compulsive, spend it anyway—this time, on yourself.

Buy yourself a savings bond. For about $18 you can end up with $25 if you can hold onto it long enough.

If you're in a mood for more direct spending, buy something you've never bought before.

For example, if you're a costume jewelry collector, put a down payment on a solid gold bracelet or sterling silver earrings.

If you've always bought manufactured serving dishes, search instead for a great piece of pottery with colors you like and a shape that suits you.

Of course, you may not feel like buying something you've never had before.

If so, then buy something you've long been meaning to.

How about framing that print you've always like but that's still sitting in your closet.

Or pay a bill . . . there's always a flood of relief that comes with that.

Perhaps you're oriented more toward physical fitness. Invest your $40 in a recreational item. That $40 will buy a half-year membership at the YMCA and it might put a dent in the fees at the racquet court. Buy yourself some tennis lessons, or at least the racquet to take those lessons with.

Lazier folks may decide on something more personal: Something others might not get you, but something you really need—like underwear.

Underwear is the last thing anyone gives (except husbands to wives and vice versa). If you don't fall into the parentheses, get yourself a new set and wear it on Christmas.

Same goes for men.

Or women can splurge on cosmetics. Instead of buying one thing at a time, like eye shadow one time and lipstick another, buy the whole schmear and redo yourself overnight.

Men could also get cosmetics (they are available) but a better investment might be a trip to the local hair stylist. If you're still wearing the wet look, you have plenty of time to dry off before Christmas.

If two of you end up with extra change, share it. Plan an evening out, a nice supper, a play, perhaps both at a dinner theater.

Get yourselves a membership in the Detroit Institute of Arts Founders Society.

Subscribe to that magazine you've always wanted.

Wish yourself a Merry Christmas.

—CHRISTINE WALDEN

Tighten gift budget rather than cut list

The old adage that it's better to give than to receive has a follow-up: It's not the gift that counts but the thought behind it—or words to that effect.

But what happens if the budget runs short (if there is a budget to start with) and just won't stretch for everyone on your gift list? Who goes without a gift and how do you accomplish cutting the list without hurting feelings?

If it's great-aunt Tillie out west, you could always protest that the package was lost in the mail when there really wasn't a package put in the mail. But that's not the Christmas spirit, so that isn't the solution.

The problem, however, might be resolved by asking: Why cut the list unless it is a mutual decision between two people?

Cut back, don't cut out completely. Spend a little less for everyone. Set a limit and stick to it. Just because you have your heart set on that $19.95 book your best friend has been talking about for weeks doesn't mean that a book lover won't be happy with another book . . . say for $15 or even $10.

But if even trimming the price of each gift won't do the trick, try being creative.

Make something. Everyone can make something. If you can't sew, bake. If you can't bake, paint. If you can't paint, promise. Offer to babysit for a young friend. Take a senior citizen shopping or out to lunch.

Take a dessert to someone you know who is entertaining out-of-town guests. The ideas are endless and the recipient of a gift of any kind, however large or small, expensive or inexpensive, won't feel left out. The personal effort you put into your giving will be remembered much longer than it takes to open a prettily wrapped package on Christmas morning.

Fan the flames—give magazines

With politics becoming an ever more volatile subject, political magazines are selling like hotcakes these days.

They come in all political persuasions, and gift subscriptions are bound to satisfy any friend, no matter where he falls on the spectrum.

Forget the ususal run of the mill news magazines. There are plenty of politically oriented publications which do a much better job of reinforcing your friend's particular bent.

For that left winger in your life, Commentary is an excellent gift. It is well written, informative and opinionated enough to satisfy any modern day liberal.

For that friend in the crowd who still believes the world would be a better place if Barry Goldwater had been elected president and is constantly warning you about the evils of the Social Security system, Fact is a dandy publication.

Just do yourself a favor, and make sure you don't get your friends' subscriptions mixed up. They may never speak to you again.

For the younger political activists, Rolling Stone is a sure bet. It is the only magazine in which Hunter Thompson and John Dean find peaceful coexistence.

Actually, it's a pretty good publication that mixes a young person's interest in politics and music.

For those who always thought being secretary of state would be great and who are sure they could do a better job than Henry Kissinger, Foreign Affairs is just the thing. It is a quarterly publication full of highbrow, deep-thinking articles written by experts in the field. It probes beneath the news on page one of your newspaper.

Punch magazine, a British publication, is good for a giggle at what goes on in the political world.

It is full of quality political satire, matching the wit of Jonathon Swift. Its cartoons are irrepressible.

Printed in the United Kingdom, it is popular in the United States, and subscriptions can be ordered just about anywhere.

For your friends who live north of the border or who once lived in the Maple Leaf country, McLeans is just right. It's Canada's version of Time or Newsweek. It is the only magazine around which dares to surmise whether Pierre Trudeau and the Province of Quebec will remain friends through the week.

Harpers and Atlantic are good choices for friends who aren't quite sure where they stand on political issues but know they stand somewhere. Both publications sway from left to right by inviting authors of diverse opinion to grace their pages.

The nice thing about these two publications is that they balance politics with other topics—a little something for everyone who likes their style.

Last, but certainly not least, is the magazine for the person who is fed up with the whole political mess and wants to take a little assertive action.

Soldier of Fortune tells how to really get involved. It gives tips on what kind of equipment to pack when you take off for the next revolution or civil war. There even is a classified section telling the reader who to contact if he wants to become a mercenary.

Rabid activist or armchair philosopher, there's a political periodical for everyone.

Money's no object?

If money's no object when you go to buy holiday gifts, then here's a little help to please the object of your affections.

If you'd have a hard time mustering even a down payment on some of these gifts, they're at least fun to think about.

For a $5,000 or $10,000 check or money order, you can unearth a number of gifts meant to please a variety of tastes.

For example, if its the quiet, contemplative type you're trying to suit, Stalker and Boos in Birmingham has an item to liven your friend's reveries.

For $5,500 you can pick up a colored etching by Renoir which was exhibited in 1972 at the Detroit Institute of Arts. The etching is a portrait of Renoir's wife and son and is from the collection of Kurt Michel.

"It's not only a great Christmas present," comments Frank Boos, "It's a great investment."

For the traditionalist on your gift list, you can always try a Rolls Royce. It's hard to go wrong with this one.

Don't worry about a lot of special ordering. Standard equipment on the Rolls includes lambs wool carpeting, specially selected wood trim and English leather upholstry.

"Only one in 500 hides makes it," said George Gilligan, general manager of Falvey Motors of Troy, about the leather seats. "The rest become very nice hand bags."

Customizing a Rolls Royce interior for your loved one isn't possible in the U.S. since federal safety standards took affect in 1968.

"There are no more picnic tables with cut crystal or built in liquor cabinets," Gilligan said.

But there are touches which make up for it.

With the push of a button behind the wheel, the gas cap is automatically released (helps avoid finger prints). An eight-track quadraphonic sterio is standard equipment.

This gift, excluding any wrapping and bows, is available from $40,000 to $90,000.

If you really can't stand the thought of putting a friend or relative behind the wheel of a car in all the holiday traffic, why not send them away from it all.

For less than $1,000, you can send your favorite couple on their way to seven nights in Tahaiti. There 'll be a flower lei greeting when they land and a cocktail party waiting at the hotel.

For a bit more, Bloomfield Travel Service in Bloomfield Hills says you can toss in side trips to Circle Island (including lunch) a glass bottom boat tour , and an overnight stay in Bora Bora.

As a Christmas stocking stuffer, surprise the couple with a "travel pepper mill" to get them off to a good start. Abercrombie & Fitch at Somerset Mall in Troy has this $15.75 trinket.

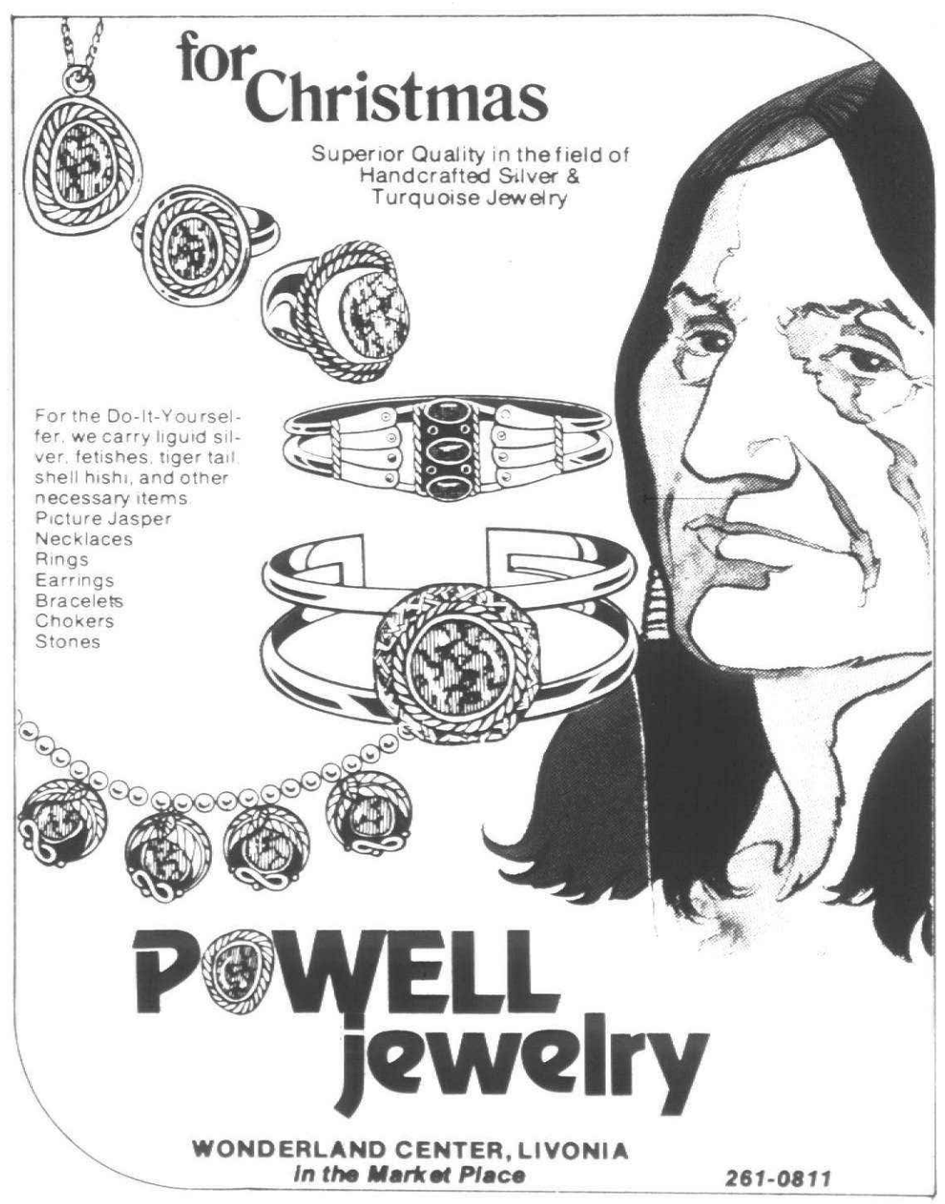

Explains manager Tom Olszewski, "If you get a salad on the airplane, you can reach in your pocket and pull out your pepper mill."

Closer to home, you can rent the penthouse of the Somerset Inn, Troy, for a weekend at $325. That includes meals but champagne is extra. Don't try to book Christmas or New Year's . . . they're already spoken for.

Don't give up if the people on your list take Dramamine before

Toys can be eye-lighters

A kid in a toy shop conjures up visions of row upon row of toys, stretching as far as the eye can see. Problems come in making a selection however. What would your child choose if he could have just one thing?

To find out, imagine yourself as a child. Remember?

Think of the bright colors and unusual shapes that dazzled you then. Remember the spinning tops which whirled a maze of colors matched by a colorful tune.

The toy market may be more sophisticated now, but kids still have the same interests, which, coupled with an active imagination, can make Christmas shopping a nostalgic return to days filled with excitement and anticipation.

Kids have an active, go-get-'em attitude that needs to be matched with durable gifts, providing an energy outlet. Tricycles, bicycles, scooters and a variety of vehicles which use pedal power are now on the market to fill this need.

But for those quiet moments, toy shops hold endless possibilities. Building sets that snap together are traditional favorites for both boys and girls. Don't forget tool sets, some of which are complete with hammer, saw, drill, ruler and level.

Be sure to check the garage for wood scraps and unused building supplies that will take form under a youngster's hands.

There are many other gifts besides the usual doctor's and nurses kits including cooking and house cleaning equipment, television characters, craft items, plant sets, books, records and clothes.

Although candle making is not as popular as it once was, other craft items still in vogue are macrame, papier tole and tin projects.

Plant sets can help make science a part of a child's repository of knowledge. Other sets go beyond just chemistry to the how-does-it-work biology projects now on the market.

Books about Indians, folklore and hobbies, as well as coins, stamps and historical persons, can fill those final moments before a child settles into deep slumber.

Other possibilities include tickets to the Youtheatre at the Detroit Institute of Arts or to Young People's Concerts at Ford Auditorium.

For stocking stuffers, consider novelty belts, tube socks, mittens and scarves, bubbles, sugarless gum, nuts and unusual fruits such as pomegranates.

Whether a child or a kid at heart, Christmas morning can bring delight and appreciation with a little imagination.

Buy a Rolls

riding a bike and prefer their own pillows to those in hotels. There are plenty of gifts for those who find their fun closer to their own backyards.

For $175 you can put your hands on a massage table at Abercrombie & Fitch (excluding the masseuse).

Or if your friends are the type who enjoy parties, there is a $70, 14-caret gold swizzlestick just waiting to be grabbed up at Jacobson's, Birmingham.

Explains Phyllis Morrison of the store, "You can use it to take the bubbles out of your champagne or mix your drink."

Don't worry about the etiquette of carrying your own swizzlestick to a party. The hostess is not likely to think you gauche since the stick is a gold bauble worn on a neck chain.

For a multi-faceted man (or maybe a swinger who has little time to get to work after all-night parties), Wachler & Sons Jewelers, Southfield, can lend a hand.

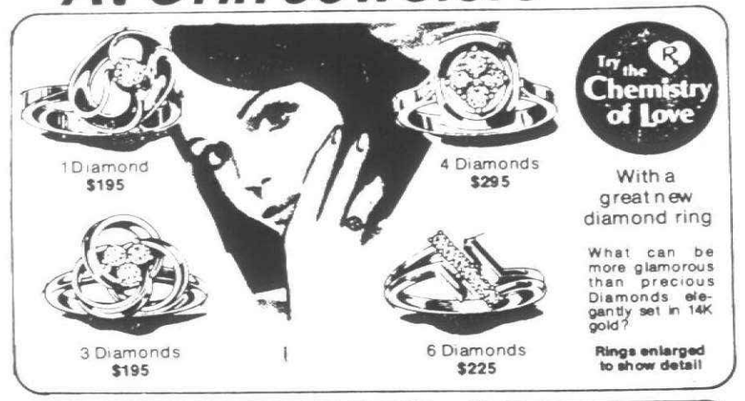

Here you will find a dual-purpose ring with a "flip top."

By day, the ring is tailored with his initials monogrammed in 18-carat gold. At night, the top revolves to reveal a cluster of diamonds. The ring retails for $1,500.

If you stop by Wachler & Sons, you can also keep your eye out for the 18-carat gold diamond ankle bracelet in art nouveau style. Tiny diamonds dazzle and glisten with every footfall. This might be just the gift for the woman you know who hates to wear shoes around the house but feels unkempt when unexpected guests arrive and see her barefooted.

Use your wiles to find time-filling presents for retirees on Yule list

Good health is usually the first thing asked for by senior citizens at Christmas or any other time.

But for a gift list, they include items that reflect their way of life as retirees. No longer employed, they have more time for cards, reading, travel and hobbies, and make their Yule choices accordingly.

A decided interest in looking their best is also revealed by their gift selections.

"I'd really like a mink coat," giggled Thelma Box, who quickly added that she was only kidding.

But she thought that gloves would be lovely and scarves, a good choice.

"A blouse would be nice, but they'd have to know the size," she said. "A good book is always appreciated."

Mrs. Box observed that she would also enjoy receiving a box of candy.

George Eckenswiller noted, "I can always use socks, stretch socks half way to the knee," and added, "I play cards about three times a week so I usually need a deck of cards."

Edith Robb hopes to do some traveling now that she has retired from teaching school, so she expressed an interest in lightweight luggage and a travel clock.

She thought that anyone interested in gardening would appreciate a garden tool in his stocking or under the tree if it happened to be a rake or shovel.

She also made a suggestion that plant sellers ought to offer, namely gift certificates for plant lovers. A reader, she likes history books, and believes a magazine subscription would be popular with many senior citizens.

"I think many would be pleased to receive stationery," she added.

Richard Bowdle would appreciate many of the items already mentioned, but he is big on picking out his own belongings. So his opinion of what would make a good holiday was not the usual gift.

"More than anything else I'd like to get a Christmas card with a note in it from a friend or relative I haven't seen for a long time," he stated.

A wristwatch was high on the list of Marlena Schanz. "I need one," she pointed out.

She would also be receptive to pinochle cards, as that game is popular with her. She indicated that flowers and plants would add a decorative note to her home and jewelry to herself.

"I like long necklaces and earings for pierced ears," she said. It seems like she is planning an active social year because an evening coat was on her list.

Arthur Harrett thought that a sports jacket would be happily received by most male retirees. In it he would like to pop a good ballpoint pen. "I run through several a year," he remarked.

As president of the Over 50 Club at St. Theodore Church, Westland, he recently went with club members to visit a bird sanctuary. This reminded him that a camera might be just the thing to fill the hours of retired citizens. A couple of rolls of film, perhaps some of the pre-paid mailer variety, would be appreciated.

Shirts, ties and socks seemed a good idea, and as a bowler he applauded the idea of gift certificates for this popular senior activity.

Vice-president of the same club, Gertrude Burrows shares the current interest in plants. New plants, small tools for working on them and special foods to keep them bright and alert would also be on her list.

"Teflon baking and frying pans would be acceptable," she said. "Also hosiery, underwear and hair spray. Jewelry is always nice, especially pendants and pins."

She thought that many older people would be thankful for lap robes and socks.

Bazaar-hopping can score good gift for young adult

Who says Christmas is just for kids?

Their early Christmas recollections of Santa Claus may be dim but young adults between 18 and 25 are too youthful to entirely lose holiday enchantment. Like their younger sisters and brothers they eagerly anticipate the day when their special Christmas wishes are answered with a gift.

Not all gifts for the young adult need to be store bought. Create a personalized gift from your home workshop. Craftsmen can construct an etagere, bookcases or sandlewood plant ladder. A needlepoint pillow, crocheted afghan, macrame planter, decoupage box, tailored shirt—products of your handcrafted artistry—provide cherished gifts.

But if you're not up to making presents, imaginative gifts can be discovered browsing through antique galleries, specialty shops, boutiques and the imported gift sections of major department stores. Don't forget charity bazaars and art shows as sources of unusual presents.

An original art print framed in shells or wood, handcrafted pottery, Oriental motif-lacquered boxes and miniature stained glass windows embedded with pressed wildflowers are collectibles this holiday season.

The range of sporting equipment has expanded to involve just about everyone. Pup tents, backpacks, and other camping gear are ideal for outdoor enthusiasts. Smaller gifts such as packets of freeze-dried food and socks for hiking will be appreciated. Even a sled or toboggan can fit under the Christmas tree, helping to make a heavy snowfall a welcome event.

Warmest Christmas wishes can be sent along with a long wool muffler which has pockets to tuck those hands in on chilly winter evenings.

For the more traditional gift, jewelry is a sure hit. That first piece of better jewelry might be in the form of semi-precious stones such as jade, opal or tiger's eye. Or stick to more simple and elegant 14-and 18-carat gold. Consider an initialed bracelet or necklace, Indian jewelry, or a jewelry line offering replicas of art deco designs.

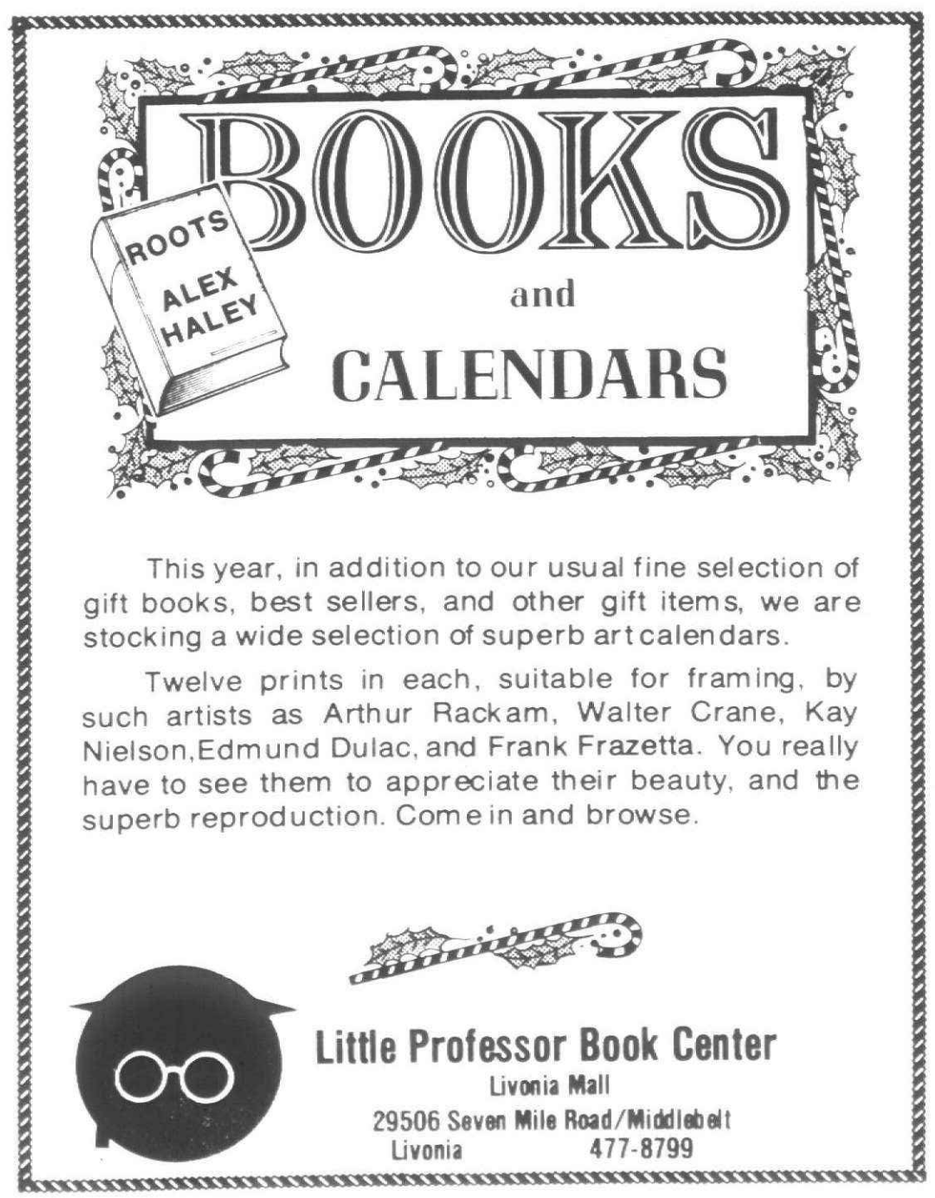

A stationery portfolio with elegant sealed waxes and the Nightwriter, battery-powered pen which lights in the evening hours will inspire the lazy letter writer.

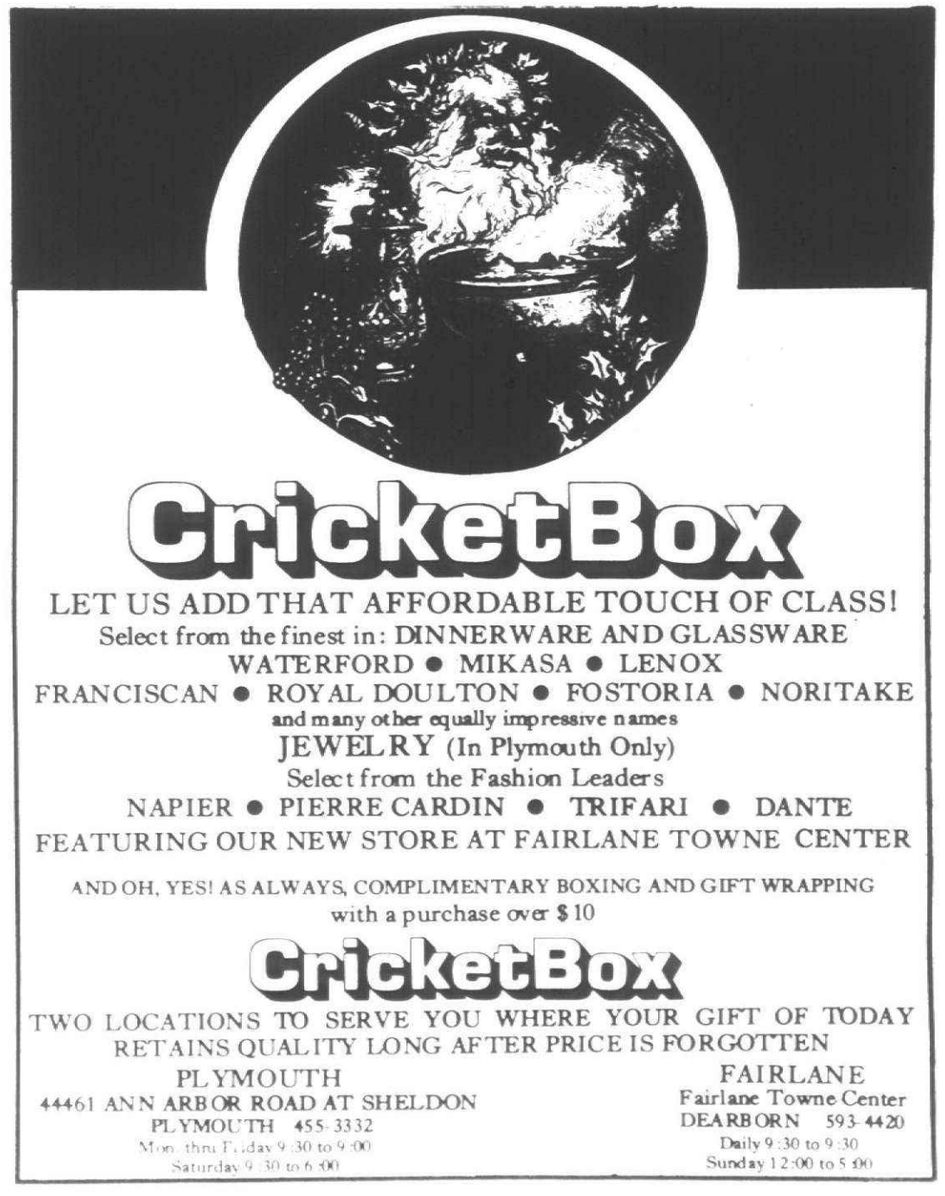

An inexpensive expression of your thoughtfulness could be a plant. Accessories for your living gift might be brightly patterned tin cans, china pots, Lucite and wooden planters and woven baskets. Add nifty little tools and plant care books for the indoor gardener.

Stocking stuffers which are practical and fun might include paperback books, puzzles, coffee mug, magazine subscription, and dainty satin underclothes. Other novelty items which can fit into your stocking are T-shirts, bath items, an ounce of favorite scent, homemade fudge brownies or soft molasses cookies stuffed in a patterned tin canister that can be used again.

The wrap-up story for young adults this season is as imaginative and creative as your gifts. Select fabric to bundle your little treasures and tie them with velvet or grograin ribbon and rickrack. Old time newsprint and silver cording, decoupage boxes in yuletide colors are other festive wraps.

Give women a break

You can be the best kind of Santa Claus to the working woman in your life by giving her a day off, a break from the usual routine, time away for herself.

We suggest some time spent at a local beauty spa, a night on the town, or a Kelly Girl to hold down her fort while she does as she pleases.

You can help her to feel lovely and appealing with one of the most unusual personal gift certificates we've found that is offered.

You give, and she chooses, a facial, body massage, or a make-up application. She could choose to have her eyebrows re-shaped, or have a sun lamp treatment, or zero in on learning about skin care.

Whatever her choice, it will come with a consultation with an esthetician, a beauty expert who is as much a teacher as she is a skin specialist, using up-to-date methods and the newest biological products to help her maintain and heighten her beauty.

Relaxation is the key word here, to counter the normal stress and pressures on the working woman, which in turn proves invigorating after a body massage or a facial.

And the break in her daily routine that brings relaxation, together with proper treatment, bolsters her well being and ultimately reflects back on you.

Time off to relax and counter the normal stress and pressures of the working woman.

With a new look on life, and a new beauty program to follow, consider a night out with tickets for "Bubbling Brown Sugar," the Broadway hit at the Fisher Theatre. Call 963-7680.

Or, if you like to go the gift certificate route, Olympia Stadium has them ready to be filled out for your choice of Red Wings games by calling 895-7000. The hockey team will be playing here Dec. 23, 26, 27, and on New Year's Eve.

No charge to show off the new you at Cobo Arena's Chirstmas Carnival. It runs until Dec. 23, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily.

The Detroit Symphony's Christmas Festival includes five programs, and there will be a complete schedule with dates, times and prices mailed to you immediately if you call 961-0700.

The festival gets under way with "Sleeping Beauty" on Dec. 11 for the month's Young Peoples' Concerts. Evening and afternoon concerts are offered for the annual "Christmas Pops" and Tchaikovsky's "Nutcracker" ballet.

Other offerings are performances of Handel's "Messiah" and that includes a singalong; and the symphony's Chamber Orchestra playing seasonal music.

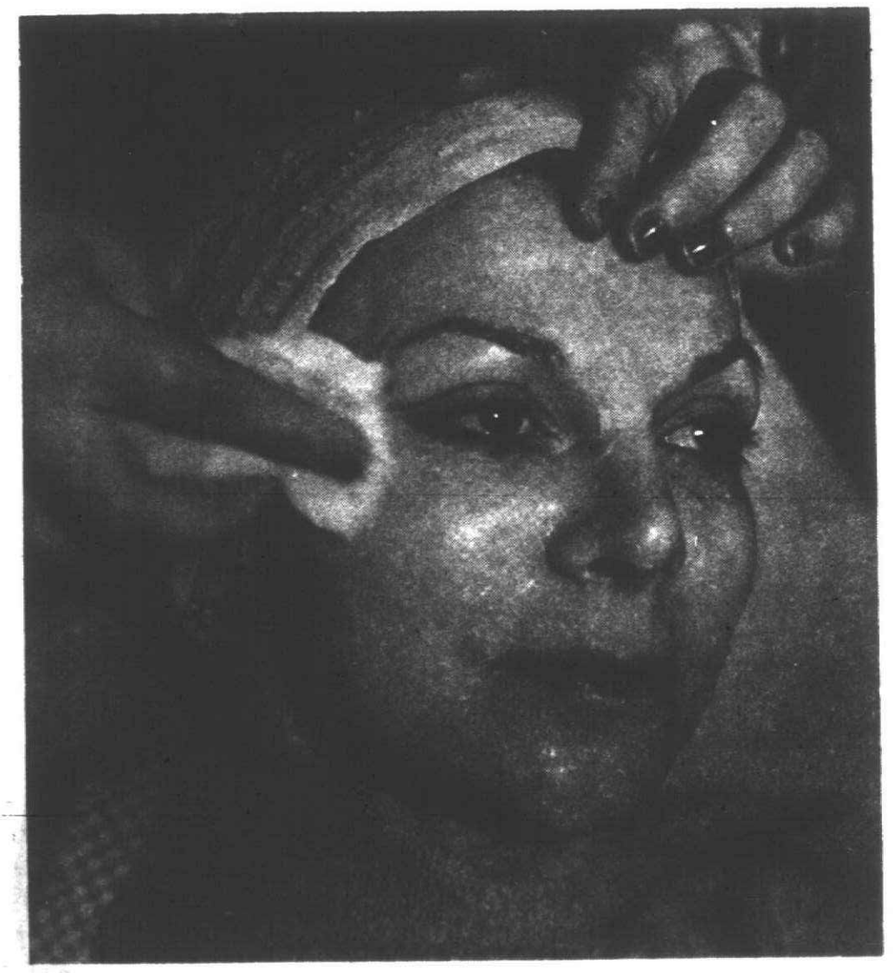

Kelly Girls will sit in for your working woman "generally on a day's notice," said Mary Estelle Klinck, branch manager for Kelly Services at 23777 Greenfield, in Southfield.

"The person we send you will be tailor-made to your indivudal needs," she said while showing a list of 40 descriptions of personnel offered who specialize in as many office skills.

The list includes just about anything you can think of, running from one who will answer the phone, through statistical typists or bookkeepers, for a day, or even half a day.

Further, you get a 100 per cent guarantee with your order. If anybody concerned is not completely satisfied with the service you don't pay a cent for it.

Bop the blues

Give go-go fun for Christmas

Not only are Americans doers, they are also goers and joiners.

If you keep this in mind as you make out your holiday gift lists, your problems could be solved in record time.

Some of the things we are about to suggest could run to large amounts of money, others will barely edge out the price of two pounds of coffee.

As in all gift giving, the challenge here is to choose something the person would truly enjoy. In this tennis and racquetball-oriented society, club memberships, or some of the special lessons series, may engender warm responses.

While there are tennis and racquetball clubs in all of the suburban areas, a check with one, the Square Lake Racquet Club in Bloomfield Hills, will give an idea of costs involved. Family memberships there are $225 a year, individual ones $95 and junior memberships for 18 and under, $35.

If there are skiers in your family the go-and-do gifts are almost limitless. Ski week or weekend packages often include accomodations, meals, lifts and lessons.

For instance, there's hot promotion right now by the Ski East people. This is a five-member mountain complex located an hour east of Montreal straddling the Quebec-Vermont border—Bromont, Mont Orford, Owl's Heat and Mont Sutton in Quebec and Jay Peak in Vermont.

Five-day ski weeks there for about $150 include accomodations, meals, lifts and ski lessons—lift tickets are valid on all lifts in the complex.

There's plenty of good skiing closer to home if time is a factor and you are a 'boost Michigan' fan. In such case, check out the local and Boyne-area packages.

Since cross-country skiing is catching on like all outdoors, many local organizations are offering lesson packages for this sport. You can call your local Y or recreation department to find if they have cross country.

The Cranbrook Educational Community, that great complex on Lone Pine Road in Bloomfield Hills, has excellent response to its tidy cross-country package. The orientation session (indoors) and two lessons in the snow costs $12 for a single and $20 for two. Skis are available to rent through the instructor, giving you a chance to decide if this rigorous sport is really for you.

No age limit for cross-country skiers, it's as popular with seniors as it is with the youngsters.

Indoor sports will welcome tickets to their favorite team events—Red Wings, Pistons. Those whose favorite outdoor activity is walking slowly through sand bordered by surf, would welcome a delightful remembrance like a couple of tickets for a long weekend in Jamaica, Bermuda, or any of the lovely Caribbean islands.

If you perfer, by dint of either time or wallet, to fly armchair, the Community House of Birmingham travel series continues after the first of the year with six films. They are: Jan. 21-22, "Angola—A Different Africa;" Feb. 4-5, "Germany;" Feb. 18-19, "Winter in Mexico;" March 4-5, "A New Norway;" March 18-19, "In Search of Singapore;" and April 8-9, "Lumberjack in Alaska."

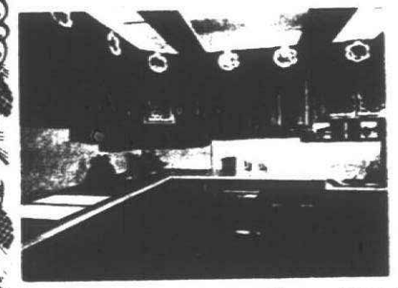

There is also an excellent travel series at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

And if your gift recipients are of a scientific turn of mind—even if they just enjoy—a membership to the Cranbrook Institute of Science is something to consider. Student memberships to this are $10 a year, individual adult memberships are $15 and family, $25.

Your gifts to your go-and-do friends and relatives may be enclosed in very small, flat packages—just keep in mind the old adage about "good things come in small packages" and enjoy the enthusiastic response your tailored to personality gifts will evoke.

Holiday hubbub is too much for pets

You might like to find him under the Christmas tree, but he probably wouldn't.

What could be more charming, more loving, more special than opening up a basket on Christmas morning to discover a cute little puppy or kitten all decked out in ribbons, right? Wrong!

The idea is truly delightful, yes, and would surely be the dream come true of almost any child. But the truth is that there is probably nothing so cruel and shattering to a young animal than to be thrust into the midst of a hustling, noisy, excited family group!

Just imagine picture bulbs flashing mercilessly into frightened little eyes, everyone grabbing to be the next to hold the adorable new arrival. You would never do it to a new-born baby so why should a defenseless little pet be any different?

Your pet needs time to slowly and gently adjust to his new surroundings. Even though you may buy him already housebroken or paper-trained, he needs some time to get used to his new schedule.

This matter is even further complicated by the fact that many pet shops, unfortunately, sell pups and kittens before they are really ready to be taken from their mother. The little babies find themselves prematurely weaned and surrounded by huge human creatures who mean well but may do more harm than good.

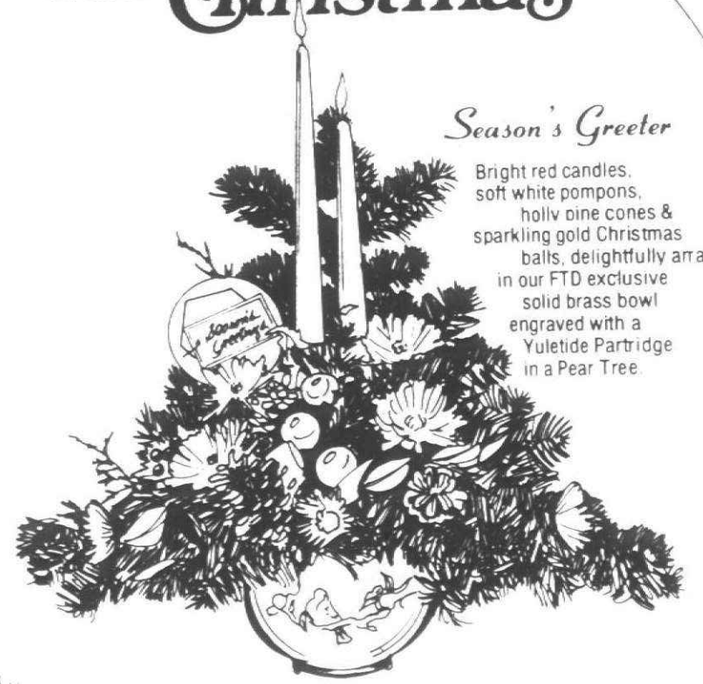

A pet is probably the best gift anyone can give to a growing child. As they grow together, the child learns the meaning of responsibility, of giving love, of kindness and the importance of gentleness. But these are lessons which the child must learn through patient practice.

If you are planning to give your children a pet for Christmas, bring it home a few days before Christmas. The tremendous thrill of having a new member of the household will not be diminished even if it does arrive a little ahead of Santa's other presents.

This way, your pet will have time to quietly and lovingly adjust to his new home-his new feeding habits, his new sleeping place, his new friends-without all of the clamor that comes with Christmas.

Remember the true Christmas spirit of love, and think of your new little pet with all of the gentle consideration he deserves. It will make for a merrier Christmas for all!

Gift can bring together whole family

Why not give a Christmas gift this holiday season that can pull your family together the whole year through?

Ideas for gifts your entire family will enjoy are limited only by your own imagination, your family's size, income and interest.

While some families set aside a small amount of their Christmas budget for a gift from and for all members of the family, others forego the individual gifts for each member and spend their entire holiday budget on one large family gift.

High on the list of inexpensive gifts the entire family can enjoy are games that challenge the imagination and skills of children and adults.

Mike O'Brien, manager of the toy department at the Livonia Mall Sears store, says a host of new games for children and adults are on the market this holiday season.

If yours is a family that enjoys playing games together, O'Brien recommends "Pay Day" by Parker Bros.; "Bermuda Triangle" by Milton-Bradley; "Guiness Game of Records" by Parker Bros.; "CIA" from House of Games; "Air Trix" by Milton-Bradley; and old-time favorites, such as "Monopoly" and "Aggravation."

For game-type families with a higher budget, there are air hockey, pin ball and the electronic games that hook to television sets. Family members of all age groups would enjoy hours of fun from a new Ping Pong or pool table, a shuffleboard or dart set.

If your family enjoys the out-of-doors, how about fishing, skiing or golf equipment that all family members can use and enjoy together during the coming months?

Backyard swimming pools, although relatively expensive and seldom purchased as Christmas gifts, are often sold at reduced prices during the off-season and would bring hours of enjoyment during the hot summer months.

Bicycles, hiking and camping equipment could provide the key to increased family togetherness when the weather warms up.

Candle making, rug making or other craft kits would make the perfect gift for families touched with the creative urge. A group craft-making project is a perfect way to bring family members together.

If your family likes music or a good sports event, season tickets for all family members could make the ideal gift. Season tickets are available for metropolitan Detroit athletic teams and musical and dramatic performances as well as those for local groups.

Roxanne Lowe, Paula Loud and Debbie Vernon of Plymouth Travel Consultants say many of their clients forego individual gifts for members of their family and plan a vacation trip as a family-wide gift.

While trips to warmer climates during Christmas week must be planned at least six months in advance, there's still time to plan ski trips,a vacation in a more northerly clime or a trip over Easter break.

Many families, the travel agents say, check into a local hotel over holiday week to enjoy the indoor swimming pool and the away-from-home stay.

For the more stay-at-home types, a new pet beneath the Christmas tree could prove the perfect gift and addition to the family.

Breeders of purebred pets advertise in local newspapers, while mixed-breed puppies, dogs, cats and kittens can usually be purchased for a low price at municipal animal shelters or the Michigan Humane Society.

But, if you plan to search through Humane Society cages for that new family pet, come early, warns JoAnne Boomer of the society's Kindness Center in Westland. Many of the cages are empty by Christmas Eve.

The list of gift ideas for and from the entire family can go on and on and on. It all depends on your budget and what you like to do.
