Absentee ballots not recounted

By CRAIG PIECHURA

The Wayne County Board of Canvassers refused to recount the paper absentee ballots in Canton Township's Precinct 10 Tuesday because 15 pollworkers at the precinct voted on the same voting machines used to tally absentee ballot totals.

The four-member county board said, in an explanation accompanying their unanimous decision, they were in a legal bind since one portion of the law states that township election workers may vote in the precinct at which they work, but another law states that there can't be a recount if the number of total paper ballots doesn't correspond to the certified total in the poll book.

There are only 1,308 paper ballots, according to Canton Clerk John Flodin and county election officials. Fifteen pollworkers at the absentee precinct did not vote on an absentee ballot, but voted straight on the machine, leaving officials nothing to check their vote against in the event of a recount. The machine totals in the absentee precinct indicate that there were 1,323 people who voted.

Joe Martina, Wayne County director of elections, said that before the election he told Canton Clerk John Flodin that the law allows township pollworkers to vote in the precinct at which they work. But the problem he did not forsee is that in the absentee precinct they would be mixing machine votes with paper votes and no way to separate the two in event of a recount. A precise recount of each candidate's vote total would be impossible, because a pollworker error in transposing a vote from paper to machine could not be detected since the pollworkers' own votes were not recorded on paper ballots.

"It may very well be a deficiency in the law," Martina said.

TWO CANDIDATES for the office of supervisor who requested the recount—Peter Bundarin and Robert Greenstein—said Tuesday night that they would start a joint lawsuit against the county board of canvassers if trustee candidate James Poole joins them. Poole lost to Eugene Daley by 11 votes in the race for one of two trustee seats.

Poole said Tuesday he would study the election laws before making his decision.

Precinct 10, the absentee precinct was specifically singled out by all three candidates as source of possible pollworker error when the three unsuccessful candidates filed for a recount.

In the absentee precinct all paper ballots were entered on voting machines by pollworkers. Although candidate's challengers kept an eye on the pollworkers, the candidates claim that because of the volume and long hours the margin for error was high.

Many absentee ballots have votes on them that were challenged and disallowed in a recount because people didn't mark a proper 'X' next to the candidate's name, for example, or they voted for more than one candidate for one office.

On Monday, Bill McIntyre, corporation counsel for Wayne County, originally halted the recount procedure in Precinct 10 because the number of paper ballots did not match the number on the machines. In addition, he said, bags which were found inside locked, sealed vote cannisters had not been sealed with a protective county clamp.

Flodin explained that the reason the bags inside the sealed containers were not sealed also was that he had more ballots than could easily fit inside the container. So, Flodin said, he crammed the paper ballots inside the protectively-sealed cannisters without sealing the bags and with "just enough room."

But McIntyre ruled on the unsealed bags and "missing" ballots Monday afternoon. Tuesday morning was a whole new predicament.

LYING IN BED early Tuesday morning, Flodin said, he realized that the 15 ballots which were said to be missing were votes cast by 15 Precinct 10 pollworkers who did their own voting on the absentee ballot machines.

So, Tuesday at 9 a.m., one of the county recount teams prepared to count absentee ballots—until they heard a new opinion from McIntyre and his superior, George Cross of the county's legal department.

Tuesday at 11 a.m. McIntyre said: "We're now dealing with 15 non-written absentee ballots. There are procedures for paper ballot precincts, and there are procedures for machine precincts. This is a mixed precinct, and there is no provision for precincts containing both paper ballots and machine ballots.

"Understand that the board of canvassers operates on a statutory basis. If it isn't in the statute, then they can't make a judgment regarding recountability."

Denzil Hammond, the Republican chairman of the county canvassers, showed up with the other three board members on Monday and Tuesday to rule on challenges

Hoben garners pact, debate snags tenure

The Board of Education voted Monday to approve three central administration contracts, all reflecting increases in salary. The only disagreement was over how long a contract should be offered to Supt. John M. Hoben.

Contracts for Norm Kee and Ray Hoedel were approved with no debate. Kee was promoted from administrative assistant for personnel to assistant superintendent for employee relations and given an approximately 25 per cent increase in salary.

Hoedel kept his classification of assistant superintendent for business and was awarded an approximately 14 per cent increase in salary. Both men now receive annual salaries of $33,633.

According to Supt. Hoben, these raises place the men's salaries at the median of salaries paid to top administrators in school districts of more than 13,000 students.

HOBEN, HIMSELF, was given an approximately 17 per cent increase in salary retroactive to July of this year. He now has an annual wage of $42,000.

Hoben, a disagreement took place about how long it should run. The recommendation to the board was for a three-year continuing contract which would be renewed annually.

Trustee Marcia Borowski said that she thought three years was too long. She said that since some of the board members would not be there in that length of time, a contract of that duration would commit future school boards to honor what they had no part in deciding. She argued that a one-year contract would be more appropriate.

Trustee Flossie Tonda responded to Ms. Borowski, saying that she didn't see how the board could expect Hoben to oversee the education of 14,000 students and have to come before the board for a new contract every year.

The board eventually voted 4-2 to accept a compromise proposal by Trustee George Lawton to approved Hoben's contract until July 1978. Trustees Borowski and Richard Arlen voted no. Board Pres. Joe Gray was absent and did not vote.

The new contract sets the salary range for the position of superintendent at a minimum of $39,500 and a maximum of $45,200. Hoben's adjustment places him in the middle of the range.

The contract for the assistant superintendents sets the salary range at a low of $30,906 and a high of $36,360. Both Hoedel and Kee now are at the mid-point of that scale.

Board could dump ZBA, says attorney

By DARLENE STINSON

Members of the Canton Board of Trustees Tuesday deflated of former Supervisor Robert Greenstein's political fears when they unanimously agreed to refer a proposed amendment to the township's zoning ordinance to the township attorney.

Greenstein, a member of the Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA), had feared board members would amend the ordinance, which provides for a three-member ZBA, and unseat the five ZBA members who were appointed at his recommendation.

Township officials had taken the action last September to comply with a new state law, which requires municipalities to appoint five members to the ZBA.

A letter from township attoney William Sempliner, dated Dec. 7, invoked Greenstein's worse fears—that township officials would unseat him and the four other ZBA members.

Enclosed with Sempliner's letter was a proposed amendment to the zoning ordinance, which would expand the ZBA from three to five members.

"Although the question may be open to dispute, it is my interpretation of the (state) act that the new (ZBA) will supersede the old and that the five-member board need not necessarily include any of the members of the former," Sempliner wrote.

Greenstein interpreted the letter, with the township board's packet of information, and the presence of the proposed ZBA amendment on the board's agenda as evidence of the board's intention to unseat him and the four other ZBA members.

Amid protests from Trustees Robert Myers, Jim Poole and Brian Schwall last September, board members had appointed Greenstein, Joyce Willis, Jim Donahue, Tom Quinn and Bob Miller to the zoning board by a 4-3 vote. Mrs. Willis was a member of Greenstein's political slate in the Nov. 2 election, while Donahue and Quinn were known Greenstein supporters. Miller, chairman of the township planning commission, is automatically a ZBA member.

Greenstein contends that the board's action complies with the five-member ZBA provision of the new state law. The state act, he says, supercedes the township ordinance and negates the necessity of passing a new township law.

"Stein just wants to put his own people in," maintained Greenstein, before the agenda item came up for discussion. "But Sempliner's opinion is wrong. You don't need a new ordinance. If you want to pass it, that's fine. But you can't take the five people off who we already appointed."

Greenstein was ready when the agenda item came up for discussion. He immediately left his seat in the audience and took his stand in front of the microphone, placed before the board table for purposes of citizen input.

But township Supervisor Harold Stein surprised the former supervisor, when he immediately recommended referral of the matter to the township attorney. "Insufficient evidence," Stein maintained, necessitated tabling of the matter.

Greenstein questioned the new supervisor about Sempliner's contention that present ZBA members could be replaced.

"That's one of the reasons I want to table this," Stein responded.

After the meeting, Stein added, "I don't agree with the attorney's opinion. I think we have to discuss it more. They (Greenstein and his supporters) were trying to say something that we never said. The only matter before us was an amendment to the township ordinance."

Stein said township officials will submit the ZBA matter to Sempliner for re-examination and "as many other attorneys as it takes."

School title stays on

By PATRICK TOUHEY

A proposal to change the name of the school district to include Canton Township was defeated Monday after heated debate by members of the board of education.

Voting no on the proposal were Trustees George Lawton and E.J. McClendon. Trustees Flossie Tonda, Tom Yack, and Richard Arlen voted yes. Trustee Marcia Borowski abstained. Board President Joe Gray was absent from the meeting.

THE QUESTION OF, whether to include Canton in the school district name was again put before the board when Yack made a motion to "untable" the issue. It had been tabled at the meeting of Nov. 8 in order to give the board more time to gauge the community's reaction to the proposed change.

Prior to the Nov. 8 meeting, the board held a public hearing to get information from interested citizens about the change. However, only a few people came forth with comments and questions, and board members felt the discussion had been inconclusive. So the issue was put to one side.

At Monday's meeting, the same lack of definite information from the public prevented the board from taking a unanimous stance and caused opinions to vary widely.

After the proposal was untabled, Mrs. Tonda made a motion to amend the name change proposal from Plymouth-Canton Community School District to Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Lawton told the board that he had heard no compelling comment from the community about the change. "In fact," he said, "I have received no comment at all." He said if Canton was going to be included in the name, Salem, Northville, and Superior Townships should also be given recognition.

He said that Plymouth was still the incorporated government, and that it might be a good idea to hold off the decision until compelling evidence was given.

Mrs. Tonda answered that the federal government had recognized Canton by granting it a post office, and that Canton students comprise a higher percentage than any other area in the district.

Ms. Borowski commented that the proposal had originally been tabled because there had been no input from the community. She said that as far as she was concerned there was still none.

"The biggest outpouring of sentiment will come when the deed is done," she remarked.

Yack asked how data could be obtained. He said a public hearing had been held and the community had been polled. He wanted to know what more could be done.

"We have tried," he stated. "I would be in favor of getting more information if you can think of a way." He added that there is a time when elected officials had to go out on a limb.

"We have been overwhelmed by apathy," said Arlen. "Canton is the largest. Let's bite the bullet and do it now."

LAWTON CHANGED his track and argued that more information should be given out by the administration about what implementation of the name change would mean.

Yack asked Lawton what kind of information the administration should publish. He said that he had seen a similar change in Wayne-Westland work out very well. Lawton then suggested Superintendent John Hoben address himself to the question.

Hoben stated that the idea had come out of a board workshop in July, and that it was a standard community practice to combine names to represent student population. He said that the change had been explored on the surface, and there was a great deal of apathy. "But," he remarked, "we have not explored the total ramifications."

McClendon, who chaired the meeting in Gray's absence, said that because a tenure meeting was scheduled for later in the evening he was going to call the question.

Because a majority of four votes is required to pass any proposal, Gray's absence and Ms. Borowski's abstention were factors in the defeat.

18 named to land, police study

Two committees, charged with studying Canton's land use and police issues, received their first breaths of life Tuesday night when township board members uanimously approved appointments to the groups.

According to the board's resolution, the police study committee is charged with evaluating all police protection available to the township, including the Michigan State Police, the Wayne County Sheriff's Deparment and the Canton Police Department.

The land use committee, chaired by planning commission member Bart Berg, will study the feasibility of retaining agricultural land in the township, identify the land best suited for agricultural use and study financial arrangements needed to retain agricultural land. The committee will report its findings to township board members in March.

Appointed to the police study committee were George J. Rose, 6340 Wedgewood, as chairman; Francis D. McGee, 7400 Provincial; and Paul Menegueezo, 39500 Warren. Rose is a retired Detroit police officer; McGee is a retired Detroit police officer and current security manager for Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan. Menegueezo is a detective sergeant with the Michigan State Police.

Appointed to the land use committee were Pat Malone, 6671 Brookshire; Ralph Alloway, 6699 Haggerty; Gary Sands, 254 Selkirk; Catherine Prince, 44154 Leeann; Richard Humberger, 228 Meadowlake; Carrie Young, 44844 Michigan Ave.; Ed and Mary Hauk, 2015 Canton Center; Suzanne Barrie, 7244 Hedgerow Ct.; William Gilmore, 6205 Ridge; Robert Padget, 48236 Geddes; Stan Gill, 1500 Ridge; Alfred Lobbestael, 51354 Geddes; and Ross and Lillian Hauk, 831 Ridge.

Berg, who accepted the chairmanship of the land use committee at the township board's last meeting, recommended appointment of the 15 residents, after receiving their resumes through the mail.

A vocal opponent of the controversial land use plan supported by the former Robert Greenstein administration, Berg said residents appointed to the study group represent all areas of the township and range in age from 18 to 70.

Additional members will probably join the land use and police committees, once the groups start to function. Berg hopes to limit membership of his group to 20.

Firefighters' checklist for holidays

The Christmas season normally is a time of fun and cheer but many homes have burned to the ground as a result of carelessness in using holiday decorations. Lights, trees, trimmings and candles are all potential fire hazards that should be treated with caution.

The Plymouth Township Fire Department offers an Underwriters Laboratories safety guide to residents wishing information on avoiding any hazards in homes. The booklet offers the following tips:

•Use only Christmas tree lights that have been tested for safety.

•Check each set of lights for broken or cracked sockets, frayed or bare wires, and loose connections. Discard any unsafe equipment.

•Check labels of lights to be used outdoors to see that they are suitable for outdoor use. Fasten outdoor lights securely to trees, walls or other firm supports to protect them from wind damage.

•Use no more than three sets of lights per single extension. Read manufacturer's instructions; do not use more than the recommended number of lights in one circuit.

•Always turn off lights on trees and other decorations before sleeping of leaving home. A short circuit in the equipment could cause a fire.

•Never use regular electric lights on a metallic tree. Damaged insulation in lighting on a metallic tree could cause the entire tree to be charged with electricity. To avoid this danger, use colored spotlights above or beside a metal tree, never fastened to it.

•Keep children away from light sets and electrical decorations. All lights present the problem of shock and casuality hazards for curious kids.

THE OPENING of Christmas is everyone's favorite pasttime during the holidays, but families should take precautions when disposing of the wrappings.

•Always dispose of wrappings immediately after opening gifts.

•Place trash in a metal container. Don't burn wrappings in the fireplace; they may ignite suddenly and cause a flash fire.

Do not rely on chemical coatings or sprays to make your live evergreen tree flame-resistant. A fresh tree will stay green longer and be less of a fire hazard than a dry tree. To check for freshness:

•Check for color and scent. A fresh tree is a deep green in color and has a strong scent of pine.

•Be sure that the needles are not easily falling from the tree.

•The trunk butt of a fresh tree should be sticky with sap.

WHEN CHOOSING the finishing touches for the tree, purchase tinsel or artificial icicles of a nonleaded material. Leaded materials may be hazardous if eaten by children or pets.

If youngsters are a part of your family, take special care to:

•Avoid any decorations that tend to break easily or have sharp edges.

•Keep tree trimmings that are small or have removable parts out of the reach of your child. These pieces may be swallowed.

•Don't purchase ornaments that resemble candy or food. A small child may try to eat them.

Keep fire department, police, ambulance, doctor and other emergency service numbers posted near the telephone.

Students lead three school dedications

Three identical, "bicentennial" schools in the Plymouth Community School District were officially dedicated at three separate ceremonies Sunday afternoon.

Students at each school conducted much of the program, leading the assemblies in the benedictions and songs such as "This Land is Your Land" and "It's Beginning to Look a Lot Like Christmas."

The ceremonies were staggered an hour apart from each other to allow people to attend dedications at Esther and Kenneth Hulsing Elementary, Ruth Eriksson Elementary and Mildred Field Elementary.

Hulsing is located at 8055 Fleet; Eriksson at 1275 Haggerty and Field at 1000 S. Haggerty. All three schools are located in Canton Township.

Ms. Field and Mr. and Mrs. Eriksson were present at the dedication ceremonies; Al Eriksson, brother of Ruth, accepted the award in behalf of his sister who was unable to attend.

School Supt. John Hoben introduced the guests at all three dedications. At Hulsing he was joined by school principal Kathryn Otto in welcoming visitors and the honored guests, Mr. and Mrs. Hulsing.

Both served long and distinguished terms on the board of education. Mrs. Hulsing sat on the board of the Plymouth Community School district for a total of 18 years (1947-72) and held the title of board president six of those years.

Her husband, Kenneth, served on the school board from 1947-53. He was president of the board one of those years.

Student Michelle Evans welcomed the Hulsings and the crowd to the school.

At 2 p.m. the guests and dignitaries arrived at Eriksson Elementary School to present a picture to Al Eriksson, brothe of Mrs. Eriksson. Additional members of the Eriksson family were at the ceremony to acknowledge the honor.

Miss Eriksson came to teach in Plymouth in 1939 after teaching 11 years in northern Michigan. A sixth grade teacher at Central Elementary School, Miss Eriksson was remembered for bringing materials from her personal library to help her students. School officials said school didn't end on Friday afternoon with Miss Eriksson, who took her students by streetcar to the Detroit Institute of Art on Saturdays.

In 1950 Miss Eriksson was selected principal of Smith School. She held that position for 21 years.

IN HONORING Miss Eriksson it was noted that four members of her staff at Smith went on to become principals.

It was the consensus of many observers that Mildred Field beamed the brighest smile of the day when Field Elementary was dedicated in her honor at the school's auditorium.

Ms. Field devoted 45 years of life to education as a classroom teacher, a visiting teacher and principal. Before retiring she logged 19 years as principal of Plymouth's Starkweather School.

Many of Ms. Field's former students, now in their teens or older, showed up Sunday to cheer her. A school spokesman said Ms. Field's career "was a history of personal concerns with the variety of needs and goals in each child, his or her teachers and family."

In the brochures which went out to the assembly, the words to "Mildred's Creed" were printed:

"I want to do one kindly deed each day to help someone to find a better way. I want to lend a hand to one in need or find some lonely stray that I may free. To give him courage when the road is long. If just one smile of mine can lighten the pain, then I shall feel I have not lived in pain."

Each of the three schools is a one-story structure with round portholes at the end of modules. A long, straight corridor extends through the 44,500 square foot buildings.

According to the administration, each building cost a total of $1,873,000 to build. Tarapata MacMahon Paulsen Associates were the architects, engineers and planners. Felker Construction Co. was the general contractor of the project.

The three schools opened in September.

Mildred Field beams as she displays a scroll designed by the students of Field Elementary School, which was named in her honor.

George Kushman and his daughter Dawn turned out to take part in the dedication of Eriksson Elementary School. Dawn, who is 15 months old, looks more interested in her bottle than in the ceremony.

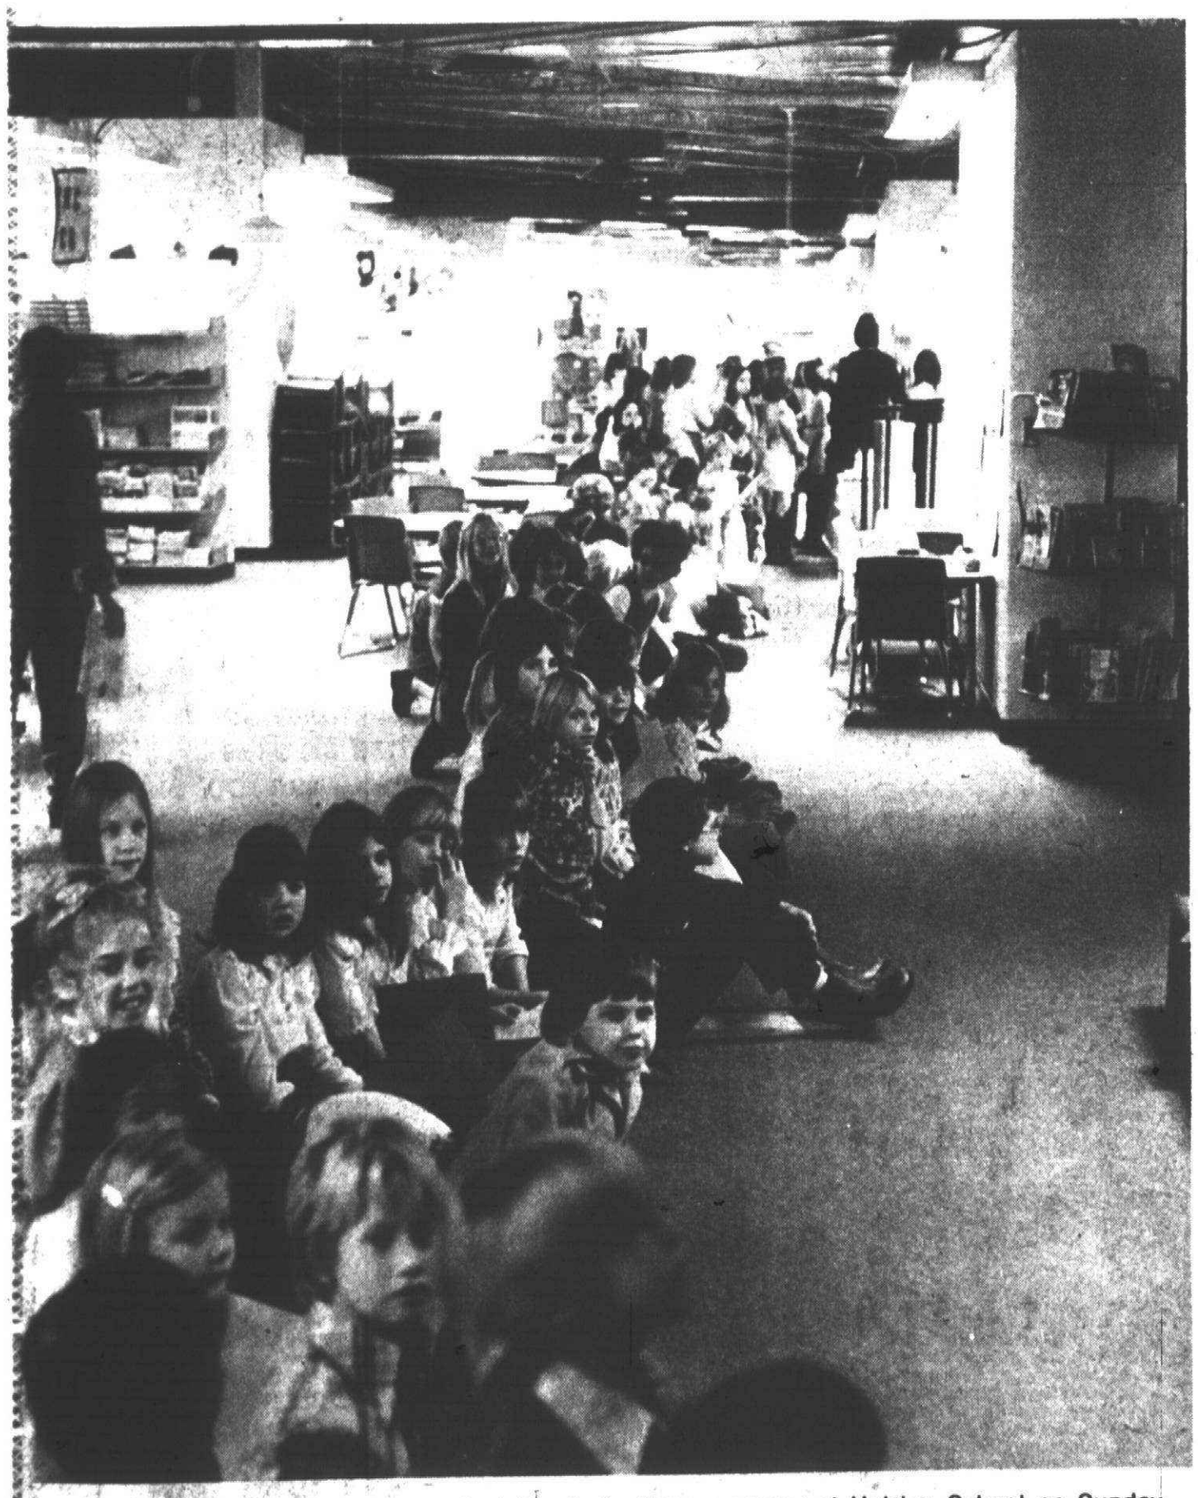
Ken and Ester Hulsing smile proudly and accept a round of applause at the dedication of Hulsing Elementary School.



Entertainment was part-and-parcel of the dedication ceremony at Hulsing School on Sunday. (Above) Eager, young members of the school chorus anxiously await their turn to take part in the festivities.

Members of the county board of canvassers seated behind the table decided twice that the absentee precinct could not be recounted. of the county's decisions during the day and the absentee opinions of McIntyre were upheld unanimously both times.

Hammond said in 12 years he had never seen a similiar situation as the dilemma that exists in Canton's Precinct 10.

The other Republican member of the board of canvassers is Bertha Chatterson. The two Democrats on the board are Virginia Bauman and Preston Harris.

The board of canvassers was asked why the recount in Precinct 10 couldn't be conducted under protest to see how many errors inspectors could find. If 15 votes wouldn't make a difference either way, the candidates argued, then the matter would be settled.

Other arguments brought up by the unsuccessful candidates were that pollworkers had committed no legal error and the vote total really wasn't incorrect; it was just complicated by the lack of 15 paper ballots.

"They should have conducted the recount in Precinct 10 under protest from (newly seated Supervisor Harold) Stein," said former Supervisor Greenstein. "After 100 absentee ballots were counted, before they were ordered to stop, eight major discrepenties were found. I don't presume that there would have been enough to elect me, but that certainly would have aided Mr. Poole."

The county board of canvassers said they could not subtract or add 15 votes after recounting all the paper ballots because in doing so they would be "disenfranchising the voters." This point was hotly contested by Bundarin and Greenstein.

"By not conducting a recount they are disenfranchising 1,308 people who voted on paper absentee ballots," Bundarin said. "I don't buy that disenfranchisement business. Every time they make a decision to allow or not to allow a name that's misspelled or a sticker on an absentee ballot without an X, then they're disenfranchising a voter who intended to vote."

Bundarin also maintains that just because the law doesn't deal with Canton's specific dilemma, "that doesn't mean we can't have our legal right to a recount."

Greenstein huddled with Bundarin at the Tuesday night board of canvassers meeting to discuss their position. Both men are lawyers. Bundarin said he argued legality and Greenstein argued morality.

"Everybody followed the law," Greenstein said. "The law doesn't say the pollworkers have to vote by absentee ballot, too. State law says if there is no discrepencies then there will be a recount. Laws are designed to operate against the the least innocent.

"The only people who conceivably did something wrong, and not through any fault of their own, are the pollworkers.

Greenstein was asked what he felt the board of canvassers should have done with no spercific law to direct them in this case.

"I said they themselves (the county board of canvassers) should go to circuit court and ask for a declaratory judgment. Then their hands are clean."

APART FROM Precinct 10, all other nine Canton precincts were recounted Monday and Tuesday. The total number of votes that changed was not released at press time, but neither candidate seemed interested in the outcome.

"As far as I'm concerned there was no recount," Greenstein said.

Poole said he was disappointed because he felt the four members of the board of canvassers "had their minds made up before we presented our arguments."

"If there is no recount in Precinct 10 this is going to leave a bad taste in many peoples' mouth. I don't feel people who were elected are to blame for one damn thing. They were innocent and so were we—so we take the rap for the county's mistake in not informing pollworkers about the law.

"I don't really expect to win in the recount," Poole said. "I'd probably pick up some votes here and lose others there. But this will cast a cloud of doubt over the whole election, and that's unfortunate. Gene Daley was elected, and God bless him. My supporters bugged me to do the recount, and I respected that. But this will cast suspicion on the whole election. That's what's unfortunate."

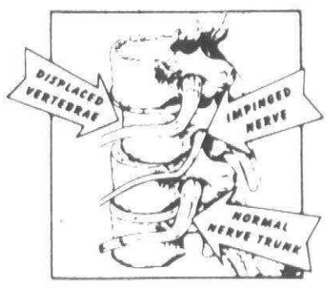
CHIROPRACTIC CAN HELP YOU!
Good nerve supply, the key to health. Your brain is the coordinator of all functions in your body. Your brain controls the production and repair of all body tissue. In other words, without your brain no part of your body will function.
The nerves of your body are like telephone lines; their job is to carry messages from the brain to all body parts. It's very simple to understand that if the nerve to your kidneys, for example, is cut, it will cease to function and die. This fact is known and understood by everyone, but what few people know is if a small amount of pressure is placed on a nerve that it will alter the signal from the brain to the body part (kidney) the result is disfunction of the organ; sickness and disease are soon to follow.
THE CORRECTION OF THE CAUSE OF DISEASE
The spine is the only place where under normal circumstances, this interference between brain and body can exist. The bones of the spine twist, placing pressure on the nerves. This twisting is caused from some accidental force on the spine (i.e. - car accident, fall, etc.) They can exist without you being aware of them.



THE "SILENT KILLER"
This is what a twisted vertebra looks like. These twistings are the cause of many diseases. The chiropractor removes them. The result is the return of health. Now's the time to stop feeding drugs to your body to treat symptoms rather than the cause.
Chiropractic offers a logical natural way to be well. Chiropractic is the largest drugless healing profession in the world. It will continue to grow because of the results obtained by those who receive chiropractic care.

Towing service operators gang up, refuse to honor AAA memberships

By JOSEPH MCCAULEY

Towing service operators are threatening to carry statewide their refusal to honor Automobile Club of Michigan (AAA) membership cards.

The Downriver Towing Association with 42 garages and 200 wreckers began refusing to honor AAA membership cards or make service calls for anything but cash from members last Friday, according to Bob Groat, a member of the association board.

The refusal to honor AAA cards has affected the downriver area, Livonia, Garden City, Southfield, Wayne, Westland, Redford and Plymouth, according to Groat, who says AAA was notified 10 days before the refusals began.

"All I've heard from Robert Smith of the Dearborn office is that we have no right to organize and that they won't recognise any association," said Groat.

One association demand is already being met by AAA with operators who work only when the regular contracted stations are swamped with calls, he added.

PRESENTLY, GARAGE owners who have contracts with AAA receive $4.50 for a "won't start." Other overload stations get $7, according to Groat.

"These stations are being paid what we're asking for. Right now, there's no way in hell we can operate at our present rates," said Groat.

"For example, if I hire someone to work for $3.50 for ten hours, he gets $35 a day. If I only get $45 for service calls that leaves me $10 for gas, wrecker upkeep, insurance and employee taxes in withholding," said Groat.

Robert Smith, manager of road service at the Dearborn AAA office, said he doesn't see any problem.

"Frankly, I'm baffled by what this is all about. We'll meet with these individual businessmen, but we won't meet with them as a group. As far as I know, there hasn't been a breakdown in service and there hasn't been a problem with customer service," said Smith.

Smith noted that if these operators break their affiliation with AAA, the motor club will appoint other operators to service its customers. He said he doubts the association's claim of having 200 trucks and 42 garages refusing to accept AAA membership cards.

"I don't negotiate rates," said Smith. "I render nothing more than service," he said.

AAA members who contact a service station or garage, which doesn't get AAA calls now, can still receive service for $7 and be reimbursed through AAA by turning in a receipt, according to Groat.

"We don't want to be hassling with people. We're not a violent or radical group. We just want to negotiate and settle our differences with AAA," said Groat.

The association apparently is contesting rates and towing policies.

"Members can only get their cars towed to a point of service, and we'd like to change that to point of safety," said Groat.

"If a member gets his car towed to a garage and can't come up with the money right away to get his car fixed, the garage owner generally doesn't have room to keep the car. The member can't get the car towed to his home or to a friend's home where he can get it fixed or stored. We'd like to change that," said Groat.

"We'd also like to get a per cent or a flat rate for dead runs," said Groat. "Dead runs are calls where a member calls for a wrecker, and before the wrecker gets there the member has started his car and left. We could spend 15 to 20 minutes looking for this member and then get nothing for the call," said Groat.

The Downriver Towing Association would also like to increase the money for regular runs.

"When there's an overflow, junkyards and places which have wreckers are getting $7 to $10 for 'can't starts,'" said Ralph Burkhardt a Garden City garage owner and association sypathizer.

Groat added that AAA pays its B affiliates $4.50 for a standard "can't start".

"WE WOULD like to have the rates changed from $4.50 to $7 within a five-mile radius from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. and to $9 from 9 p.m. to 7 a.m. for regular 'can't starts'," said Groat.

"For towing, we suggest $12 for regular daytime hours, 7 a.m. to 9 p.m., and $14 from 9 p.m. to 7 a.m. All of these requests are open for negotiation," said Groat.

Walter Gilstrap, who owns his own towing service, tried to increase his rates by 50 cents two years ago and AAA turned him down.

"I COULDN'T afford to run at the present rates then. AAA wouldn't budge so I stopped working for them," said Gilstrap.

Gilstrap has worked as a standby since he dropped his contract with AAA and has earned what he had asked for while he was affiliated with AAA.

Both the association and AAA seem firm in their positions, and only the next real cold spell or big snowfall will decide if AAA will negotiate with the association, according to Groat.

Meanwhile, Smith of AAA says the association's claims of people waiting three to five hours for service are ridiculous.

Groat thinks his members are lucky that they can continue to sell gas, tow AAA members for cash and service cars in their garages while refusing to honor AAA memberships cards.

AN INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT ACCOUNT AT SURETY FEDERAL SAVINGS WILL

SAVE TAX MONEY ON YOUR 1976 FEDERAL INCOME

An (IRA) Individual Retirement Account is a tax sheltered savings plan for those not covered by a pension or profit sharing program. You can deposit up to 15% or $1500 annually of earned income, whichever is less, in a savings account. The amount of your deposit is then deductible from your gross earnings when computing your Federal Income Tax. Annual interest on the account is likewise tax deferred until you close out the account.

Your IRA passbook account can earn a passbook annual interest of 5¼%, on certificate accounts up to 7¾%. Use this new plan now to increase your retirement income and save on Federal taxes. You must act before December 31, 1976.

We will be pleased to give you full details; just stop in now to save 1976 income tax dollars.

Your account compounded quarterly. Insured to $40,000. Member F.S.L.I.C.

Federal Regulations require a substantial loss of interest penalty for early withdrawals of Certificate Accounts.

The Stroller:
His mother's voice, plus Evan Williams

By W. W. EDGAR

Meandering through one of our larger department stores the other day, The Stroller came upon two women who were looking at gloves and scarfs and he couldn't help overhearing their conversation.

As one of them held up a scarf, she asked the other a most unusual question. With an admiring eye on the scarf, she asked:

"Do you remember the first the first meaningful gift you ever purchased?"

What a question to ask in the midst of Christmas shopping. But it set The Stroller to wondering what he would have answered had he been asked the question.

Letting the question roll around in his mind for a moment, he finally recalled one of the most pleasant Christmas mornings he enjoyed as a youth.

It was a Christmas morning long ago when The Stroller and his sisters decided, in their youthful minds, that it was time we gave Mother a nice surprise on Christmas morning.

For years, she had been a widow and kept struggling along trying to keep our family together. But Christmas always was a tough time.

By saving and scrimping along the line, Mother always managed to have a few things to put in our stocking along with the box of candy and orange that we always received at Christmas Eve services in church. But there seldom was anything for her—save for a hankie or a small plant.

This particular year, we decided we should do something more than that. It became a question of just what we could do. We decided to walk downtown, look around, and then try to make a choice.

Now, in our little town, no trip downtown was complete unless you stopped into Lawall's Drug Store for a soda. This was one of those old-fashioned apothecary shops that displayed the red and blue bottles in the window, and the last place you would expect to find a substantial gift for Mother.

But a great change had taken place. The staid old druggists, in what was considered a drastic move at the time, decided to take on a side line and became a distributor for one of the music stores in the city.

When The Stroller and his sisters walked inside the drug store, the first thing that struck their eye was a display of Victrolas.

These were the new-fangled talking machines that replaced the old cylinder with the big horn. These Victrolas played the flat records and had an enclosed sound box.

As we looked at them, and then at each other, we had the same thought—that would be a great gift for Mom . . . if we could afford it. These new talking machines came in two sizes—one with a record cabinet and one with just the sound box to set on the table.

As we stood there, the younger of the Lawalls, who owned the store, approached us and we told him what was on our mind. We told him we'd like to surprise our Mother—if the price was right.

"We'll make it all right," he said. "Your Mother deserves a nice gift and this could be it."

Quickly, we held a meeting. The Stroller, through deductions in his meager pay in the machine shops, had two Liberty Bonds. He figured it would be okay if we used them as a down payment and took time to pay the rest.

Mr. Lawall agreed. And there were no happier youths in our town as we carried the box home and hid it to await Christmas Eve.

We agreed that one of us would awaken during the night, sneak down and place the Victrola on a small living room table; all ready to play.

Finally, came Christmas Eve and we were an eager bunch as we turned in for the night. And everything worked as we had expected.

We had a rule in our home that no one could look at gifts on Christmas morning until after breakfast. This morning, however, one of the girls got up from the table, thinking she heard someone at the door.

In a moment or two, the room was filled with the strains of Evan Williams, the famous Welsh tenor, singing Christmas carols.

When Mother got up to look, we all shouted 'Merry Christmas.'

She slumped in a chair an cried. They were tears of happiness. And all that Christmas Day Evan Williams, Enrico Caruso, and John McCormick, filled the air with their outstanding voices.

It was not only the first substantial gift we bought, but it was the happiest Christmas of The Stroller's youth.

So, this year, remember Mother, and it will be a day that, you too, may never forget.

Post office bulges

Yuletide mail volume is up 15%

By W.W. EDGAR

There'd be a big, broad smile on Santa's face these days if he chanced to take a look at the line-up of his helpers at the downtown post office.

From early morning until closing time they are lined up in record numbers helping to spread the Christmas spirit, not only from coast to coast, but to foreign countries as well.

"Our mail volume is up about 15 per cent over last year. " Postmaster John Mulligan stated, " and there seems to be no letup. "

The postmaster said that the volume increase so far during the holiday season is about one million pieces a month.

"In normal times we handle about two million pieces a month. Now, at the holiday rate, we handle about 100,000 pieces a day. And when you handle that volume there is every reason to be crowded as we are."

"One of the big reasons for the rush as Christmas Day nears is the fact United Parcel, which handles a considerable number of packages has been on strike in the East. As a result the people are turning to the postal service.

At the moment the Plymouth office has 106 employees serving 40 regular routes and four rural routes.

"And we make about 22,000 deliveries daily, " Mulligan pointed out. "This goes on six days a week. We serve about 22,000 families.

"Our biggest one-spot delivery is at the Deer Creek apartments, but with new subdivisions being developed our deliveries will take another jump."

Asked to estimate the number of persons who move in and out of the downtown office, Mulligan admitted that it was difficult to name a figure but that he guessed it would be on the average of 1,000 daily.

"It would be greater than that and the lines would be longer if it weren't for the station at Meijer's Thrifty Acres. This station takes a lot of pressure from our office in the city.

Santa would have reason to smile when he looks at the piles of packages that soar ceilingward each day. He'd smile "because of the greater care that is being taken in wrapping the packages this year," Mulligan said.

Careful handling has come about, according to the postmaster, because of the adverse publicity given the damaging of packages in the machines at the Detroit office a year ago. Many of those packages were damaged beyond repair and many others never rached their destination.

"Look at the packaages this year, " the postmaster urged, "and you'll see that in many cases are they heavier than other years and they are wrapped more securely.

" As a result we have had fewer claims this year than ever before and there is little likelihood of a rush of complaints."

All of this action has made this the busiest season of all time at the post office.

Ordinarily there are only three windows open at the Penniman office. For the past three weeks a fourth has been added and on some days there are five windows going full speed.

No wonder Old St. Nick would be smiling if he chanced to look in.

Toys for Tots has three area branch offices

The "Toys for Tots" program has been expanded this year in Plymouth because of its success last year and now three drop-off locations will be open through Dec. 23.

The three branches are at National Bank of Detroit offices in the Plymouth area: 980 Ann Arbor Road (near Harvey); 306 S. Main (at Penniman) and 235 Sheldon (at North Territorial).

A good portion of the toys will be donated to the Goodfellows who will distribute them to needy families.

Contributors are asked to place the toys under the Christmas trees which will be provided at each location. If the toys are wrapped. please identify the sex and age the toy is suited for on the outside of the package.

Notice of Nondiscriminatory Policy as to Students

Old newsboys never die

The money collected from the sale of Goodfellows newspapers, which is used to give needy kids a Christmas, was down this year. People who missed buying their copy on Saturday morning can still obtain one at city hall. Bob Fitzner (above) hawked papers from his customary spot on the corner of Main Street and Ann Arbor Trail. McKeon set for music trip

Karen McKeon, daughter of former Plymouth mayor James McKeon, will participate in the Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp's eighth annual goodwill tour of Europe this summer.

Students were chosen from past Blue Lake campers to be members in the international band, choir, youth symphony orchestra and for the first time, a jazz band. The 28-day tour will include visits to Denmark, Norway, Sweden and Germany.

Karen plays in the percussion section of the orchestra.

Since the inception of the international program in 1969, 1,170 students have traveled to Europe, enjoying the opportunity of staying in homes with host families.

Brown race cost $1,615

When State Rep. Thomas H. Brown (D-Westland) won his fourth term in the Michigan House of Representatives, he also raised and spent more money than did Republican challenger Brian C. Kidston of Plymouth.

In expense statements filed with the Wayne County elections office, the 37th House District incumbent listed his total expenditures at $1,609 and his total in campaign contributions at $1,615.

Those contributing more than $100 included: Consumers Individuals for Political Action Committee—$100; Michigan Merchants for Political Action Committee—$100; Real Estate Political Action Committee, of Lansing—$500; and Michigan Throughbred Owner and Trainers of Brighton—$200.

Kidston spent $135 on the campaign and received only one campaign contribution, $100 from his brother, Roger C. Kidston of Kalamazoo County.

Marking time

Long lines at railroad crossings are becoming a familiar sight since a slow-down order went into effect last week. North and southbound trains that used to go through Plymouth at 40 miles per hour are now traveling at 10 miles per hour. The reduced speed is the result of the trains having to cross temporary bridges which were built to accommodate construction work on the new M-14 expressway.

Yule trees are family affair

Many Michigan families have come to associate the rasping of hand saws and the resinous scent of the woods with Christmas—families, of course, who enjoy cutting their own Christmas trees.

The holidays don't only mean gifts, good meals and football games to these families, who find the upcoming season a time for doing things together, like cutting their own snow-dusted evergreen.

The Automobile Club of Michigan has prepared a guide to 82 choose-and-cut tree farms geared to family involvement. Wagon or sleigh rides, snacks, Yule fires, free treats for children and visits by Snata Claus on weekends are offered by many.

One farm even sells early American-style Christmas toys, while another lists entertainment on weekends.

MICHIGAN'S FARMS sells several types of trees priced from $1 for Scotch pines, to $20 for blue spruce, and up to $35 for flocked (painted) trees.

Eleven sell by the foot, varying from 75 cents to $2 for trees four feet and over.

Several farms offer trees from eight to 30 feet tall for churches, businesses and other groups.

Trees are machine-cleaned of dead needles and snow at seven farms and tree wrapping—binding branches tightly for easy cartop transport—is offered at 31 operations. Most farms have pre-cut trees as well.

In addition, some offer living Christmas trees, evergreens which can be dug up, potted for Christmas display inside and planted outside later.

IF PLANNING to cut your own tree this Christmas, here are some tips:

- Bring a hand saw if you're going to a tree farm on a weekend to avoid any delays. Although 73 farms lend saws, they may all be in use upon arrival. Axes are not allowed on most farms.
- Select a tree to fit needs—and your living room—and saw close to the ground. Most pines and Douglas Firs hold needles, while balsams and spruces lose them if not sufficiently watered.
- Many farms provide twine to tie trees to cars, but bring some rope. Tie the tree's base at the front of the car to prevent broken branches when putting it on the roof.
- When storing, place trees in a bucket of water in a cool area, but don't let water freeze.
- Trees will absorb more water if an inch or two of the base is removed before placing it in the stand. Cutting at an angle also helps absorption.
- Fill the stand with water daily.
- Avoid placing trees near heating ducts or open flames.

Remember too, that before decorating any tree, the lights must be checked for frayed wires and to be sure electrical outlets aren't overloaded.

Daniels Den

By EMORY DANIELS

When we were married, my wife brought two pieces of property into our new household—a car and a stereo.

The car has long since been retired and, this year, the stereo has played its last tune. Son Lyle broke the arm which holds the records in place, and a visiting child took care of the needle.

So we are now thinking about purchasing a new stereo. And those thoughts have led to what now seems to be an endless pursuit.

OUR FIRST thoughts were to buy a stereo FM receiver, tape deck and turntable combined into one unit.

The tape deck seems to be the thing of the future, if not of the present. In fact, my own guess is that records are very close to becoming obsolete. Another thing about tape units which I found out is that you can buy microphones fairly cheap and record the kids, without having to buy a separate tape recorder.

Well, we almost had a decision made on which unit to purchase when a cousin, whose advice I highly cherish, recommended that the last thing we should do is buy the package deal. If something goes wrong with the receiver or tape deck or turntable, then the whole unit has to go in for repair and we'd be out of luck. Also, he explained, you just cannot get the same quality of sound from a combined unit as you can from buying components.

COMPONENTS?

Now that was a new word for me who isn't exactly what you'd call a sound buff. After a few questions, I soon understood that what he felt was best to do was to buy a separate turntable, receiver, deck, speakers, amplifier, etc.

But when he got done talking about what was considered good equipment, the price of going the component route was so high that I almost decided the best thing was to repair the old stereo.

Then, some other friends came up with what sounded like pretty good advice. "Don't spend top money for the components. After all, you've got young children in the house who might be rough on good equipment. And, if you just enjoy music, but aren't deep into it, you don't need the expensive components.

"The thing to do is buy inexpensive components. Then, later, you can replace an individual unit with a more expensive one if you wish, and, over the years, can have any quality of equipment you desire. It's like if you don't know anything about cars, buy a Vega and work your way up to an Impala."

I CHECKED BACK with my cousin who agreed this was a wise approach to take. He then suggested some brand names which produced good equipment, and steered me towards stores where good buys could be found.

I thought I was confused until the comparison shopping trips began. Wow, that's a trip. There are some tape decks with which you can record directly off a receiver, others that don't; some decks which you can plug mikes into, others that you cannot; some decks which take eight-track, others that take cassettes.

Then I got into some discussions with salesmen about the differences between receivers and speaker systems, and why amplifiers are desirable. They were very helpful, or at least tried to be, but their lingo was a foreign language which didn't mean a thing to me.

My friends attempt to help out by explaining the pros and cons of eight-track versus cassettes. I understood at the time, but now have completely forgotten and, frankly, don't really care.

This comparison shopping has been somewhat fun and somewhat educational, despite the frustrations, but it has to stop. One of these days we will make up our mind to purchase something and that's exactly what we will do. Whatever strikes our fancy on that particular day is what it will be—no hesitation, no doubts, and no regrets.

READERS' FORUM

DPW passes buck, consumer stuck

Editor:

I just wanted the citizens of Plymouth to know how unconcerned our Department of Public Works really is.

On Dec. 4, we had a sewer back-up in our basement. At 9 p.m., the DPW supervisor finally called us to find out what happened. He informed us that the city lines were backed up and that it was from material from other nearby duplexes.

We were also informed that our septic lines were clear, but because our lines lay lower than most others, we catch all the overflow. This happens to be the fourth time our basement has flooded in the four years we have lived here.

WHAT UPSETS us most is the fact that no one will correct this problem or help compensate us for everything we've lost or even assist with clean up. We are expected to forfeit all of our items that have been soaked, in addition to putting out the time and expenses to clean cement floors and walls.

We were told that all items that had been in this sewer water would have to be thrown out or we would risk the chance of catching hepatitis. I do not feel very safe about throwing out or cleaning up this mess myself as I am pregnant.

Also, my husband and I both work so we really do not have the extra time to spend cleaning. Worse yet, it seems to hit harder when we have to put forth the extra expense before Christmas.

I ALSO FEEL sorry for our neighbors. They have two children, who lost most of their games and toys in the water. How can you explain to children 3- and 4-years old why you are throwing out their toys?

I feel something should be done to correct this problem. It is ridiculous to have to go through this at least two times a year. I would think the DPW would at least take the time to investigate and correct this problem instead of coming down and checking our lines and saying "yes, it's a sewer back-up every six months or so."

They don't have the time to keep coming and we don't have the time to keep cleaning or the money to keep replacing items.

It's back to the same old story again—pass the buck until the comsumer gets stuck.

Nurses thank helpers for swine flu clinic

Editor:

We would like to use this means to thank the many members of the Plymouth-Canton community who cooperated with us in making the swine flu immunization clinic at Salem High School on Nov. 29 a success. We immunized 3,693 persons.

Special thanks for assistance should go to the Plymouth Registered Nurses Association, Dr. Teresa Klucka, the Vivians (women's division of the Elks), Canton Fire Department, Michigan State Police, Wayne County Sheriff Department and the Canton Township police.

Working every day as we do with the children in the Plymouth Community Schools, we are especially aware of the importance of health to the entire population of our area. We are glad that we could do our part through sponsoring this swine flu prevention clinic.

Smith manages realty district

Bill Smith, formerly a Real Estate One group vice president in Macomb County, has been reassigned to a newly-created Real Estate One district, including Plymouth, Canton, Westland, Dearborn Heights and Ann Arbor.

Smith will manage of the firm's Plymouth office.

"I am excited about living and working in the Northville-Plymouth-Canton area," says Smith. "This new district offers a big challenge. I anticipate that there is a growing real estate market here that will double and triple in the years to come."

Smith, who lives with his wife, Judy, and two sons in Northville, has worked for Real Estate One since 1971. He holds RAM and GRI real estate certificates.

Ms. Young urges lobby reform

Editor:

Politics is usually thought of in the United States as a dirty, corrupt, unsavory business practiced by rather vulgar, dishonest and self-interest schemers. And this cynical conception of our governmental process is not all surprising, as all units of the media are continuously exposing blatantly raw political scandals.

One such recent scandal that sticks out like a politically sore thumb is the Sourth Korean scandal in which various South Korean businessmen are in the midst of being investigated of charges that the South Koreans attempted to corrupt U.S. officials. Several U.S. politicians have admitted receiving money from the Koreans. Hence, any affirmative votes in favor the Korean government have and will be perceived as highly suspect— if not downright incriminating!

With events such as the above described, it is understanding that the word "lobbying" has a derogatory ring. Moreover, the ring is becoming more shrill and intense with each passing legislative session on Capitol Hill. Furthermore, we must make a mental notation that unless changes are enacted to reform the current law regulating lobbying, we, the populace will feel compelled to don intangible "defense earmuffs" to mute the elevating ring of disrepute!

Understand, that the de facto law has not been revised since 1946, and the act created no special enforcement agency to investigate compliance nor to punish fraudulent statements. The searchlight of publicity was given an incredibly "feeble" light bulb by permitting the details of lobbying efforts to remain hidden.

So, in an effort to increase the light bulb wattage, Common Cause has been the primary orgganization working for a new lobby disclosure law for the past five years.

However, Common Cause's much needed reform attempts have been thwarted by lobbyists of various special interest groups who despise a stronger wattage, because the light bulb would be shining on their activities! Among some of the lobbyists who defeated a lobby disclosure bill in the 94th Congress are representatives of Ford Motor Co., Mobil Oil and the Business Roundtable. In addition, stall tactics were observed, ironically enough, by the House Ethics Committee. In theory, the Ethics Committee should be playing the leading role in the play for lobbying disclosure. But, in reality, this is the committee that cast its vote for delaying the bill in full knowledge that, as the sand in the hour glass fell towards the session's end, delay would mean the expiration of the bill! These special interests illustration of their powers to successfully stall the legislative reform have demonstrated the real need for a revised, strenghtenend lobbying act.

As we approach the 95th Congress, we must realize the necessity of a strong lobby reform law. We need one that closes the gapping loopholes in the old law, one that requires organizations that lobby extensively to report their spending and log their communications with Congress and the executive branch alike.

Yes, we despeartely need to replace that 1946 faint light bulb with a luminous sparkling 1977 bulb, one that shines the light on special interests. Who can instigate the change? You and I!

We must initiate the loosening process of the old bulb and the tightening up of a new one. To do this, we must commuicate with our congressmen, either by letters, phone calls or letters to the editor, and impress upon them our desire to bring government out into the open, so the "special interests of America" will not continue to call the "shots" on all the major problems of this country.

Sunflower sub starts organization

The newly-formed Sunflower Subdivision Home Owners Association has picked three interim members for its an executive board. Their first order of business is to nominate regular officers for the organization.

A.L. McEwen holds the title of chairman; Lynn LaBell is secretary, and Al Allman is treasurer for the interim period.

McEwen said that the executive board will be picking seven candidates for regular office at a Jan. 10 meeting in Room 128 of Plymouth Canton High School at 8 p.m.

"At that meeting, we will open up the floor to the homeowners to receive additional nominations. We invite all Sunflower homeowners."

Officers will be chosen by the newly elected regular board members, McEwen said.

He added that although the subdivision is relatively new, iterest in the new organization is high, judging from the turnout at the first membership meeting.

"I want to stress that our homeowner group will stay completely out of politics," McEwen said. "We won't campaign for any candidates or support any. If a member of the association decided to run for political office, then he or she would be doing so on his own.

"We're concerned citizens trying to protect our interests."

Walt White qualifies

Walt White, 17, senior at Plymouth Salem High School, qualified for the 1977 Boston Marathon with his finish in the Maryland Marathon held last weekend.

White ran the 26-mile Maryland course in less than three hours to qualify for the Boston classic.

Whit was 95th in the field of 1,200 runners at the 20-mile mark before fading with the rest of the pack. He had to walk the last three-fourths of a mile holding his legs.

White has been a member of the Rocks' cross country and track teams for the past four years.

Plymouth Canton cross country coach Mike Spitz went to Maryland with White and ran 23 miles before bowing out of the race.

The first tax shelter for the little guy.
If you're not now in an employer-sponsored pension or profit sharing plan where you work, act fast and you can save yourself a lot of tax dollars this year.
You can postpone paying Federal income taxes on 15% of what you earn this year, up to a maximum of $1500.*
By opening an Individual Retirement Account (IRA) at National Bank of Detroit by Dec. 31.
How it works.
An IRA is your own personal pension fund.
The money you put into the IRA, and the interest that money earns, are exempt from federal income taxes until the money is withdrawn.
At retirement age, when you begin to withdraw money, you're likely to be in a lower tax bracket, which means an additional tax reduction.
We'll help you set it up.

Joint efforts needed for progress

The time is ripe for the Plymouth-Canton community to take a close look at the need for intergovernmental cooperation and how it can be realized.

Unfortunately, for various reasons, the Intergovernmental Committee has slipped into a state of inactivity and hasn't met since last spring. Although a number of factors were involved, a key reason is that individual governmental leaders weren't concerned enough about cooperative efforts to keep the committee active.

Maybe the committee should be re-activated, or another group or mechanism started. But it is clear that, somehow, the City of Plymouth, Canton and Plymouth Townships need to explore joint efforts in those areas which greatly affect the lives of citizens.

ONE CONDITION which begs for governmental coordination is the impact of residential growth in Canton Township on the Plymouth Community School District.

In 1976 the school district opened three new elementaries in Canton and already the school board is up against the wall trying to keep pace with continued residential growth in Canton.

During the time this population boom is impacting so hard on the school district, there has been very little meaningful discussions between township and school officials.

This is a prime area for intergovernmental discussions because it is the citizen who is caught in the middle and must pay the piper. On the one hand, Canton will receive additional tax revenue over the short haul as the new subidivisions are added to its tax rolls. As services are required, though, Canton will find its expenses being greater than the revenue produced.

But the issue is far greater than Canton accepting growth now for tax enrichment and buying time until municipal services are demanded by its residents. Because those same residents of Canton who receive some benefits from increased tax base also pay school taxes and must dish out more if funds are needed to build new schools.

The point is that Canton residents will pay more in school taxes than the township receives in increased tax base, if the residential boom is allowed to continue unchecked. For the sake of Canton and Plymouth residents, some exploration should begin into logical and equitable ways to slow residential growth so that new schools won't have to be built now and abandoned later.

The answer isn't a "no-growth" policy. That would be a gross disservice to Canton residents. But it should be possible to limit the number of new residential units to be built each year in such a way as to minimize the demand for new classroom units. The advantages of such a trade-off is so obivious that it's hard to understand why Canton and school officials haven't already begun such discussions.

ANOTHER AREA of a timely nature which needs intergovernmental cooperation is that of providing senior citizen housing.

The City of Plymouth's unsuccessful effort in November did demonstrate one thing, if nothing else—that problems of housing for the elderly go beyond the city limits and stretch into the townships. Especially evident was the existing need for elderly housing in Plymouth Township, but there also were sufficient applications from Canton to suggest the three governments ought to get together on this service need.

Another obvious area where cooperation could be beneficial is that of police protection. Canton has made an effort with a police auxiliary but still is far away from a full-time department with all the services needed. Plymouth Township is still looking for a beginning. Joint cooperation on police protection could be fruitful.

Political leaders thus far have taken the easy route with each governmental unit pursuing its parochial interests. Solving problems, though, is never easy. Maybe it's time for citizens to ask their leaders to make serious attempts to explore more creative avenues of finding solutions through intergovernmental cooperation.

Blumenthal at Treasury

Extraordinary man tackles the economy

Reaction to the selection of W. Michael Blumenthal to be secretary of the treasury should go well beyond pride in the accomplishments of a local man.

President-elect Jimmy Carter, to put it simply, has made an outstanding appointment in choosing the board chairman of the Southfield-based Bendix Corp. to fill the sensitive and demanding Department of the Treasury post.

As Gov. Carter put it in Tuesday's press conference: "It's obvious that the economic circumstances of our country are much worse than we had anticipated six months ago or even three months ago . . . I think no matter what the definition is, the economic problems are very severe."

Unemployment remains high; growth in the economy remains sluggish; massive federal deficits are nearly certain; the spectre of renewed double-digit inflation skulks throughout the land.

Mike Blumenthal is extraordinarily well qualified by training, experience and skill to cope with what surely is our major national problem.

A REFUGEE from the horrors of Nazi Germany, Blumenthal arrived in America after World War II with no money, no job, no education and dim prospects.

In short order, he was earning money from a series of jobs (including one as a shill in a gambling casino). He compiled a dazzling academic record, leading to a PhD in economics from Princeton University.

He was asked in the early 1960s to lead our negotiating group in the complex bargaining that set the pattern for international trade patterns for the next decade.

And he wound up as chairman and chief executive officer of Bendix Corp., currently ranked 70th in the Fortune list of the 500 largest companies in America and regarded as one of the best managed corporations in the world.

Observation Point

by PHILIP H. POWER

It's a blazing record that Blumenthal has written. It should yet again affirm that for people of talent, America is indeed the land of opportunity.

BUT THERE'S MORE to Mike Blumenthal than just a dazzling record.

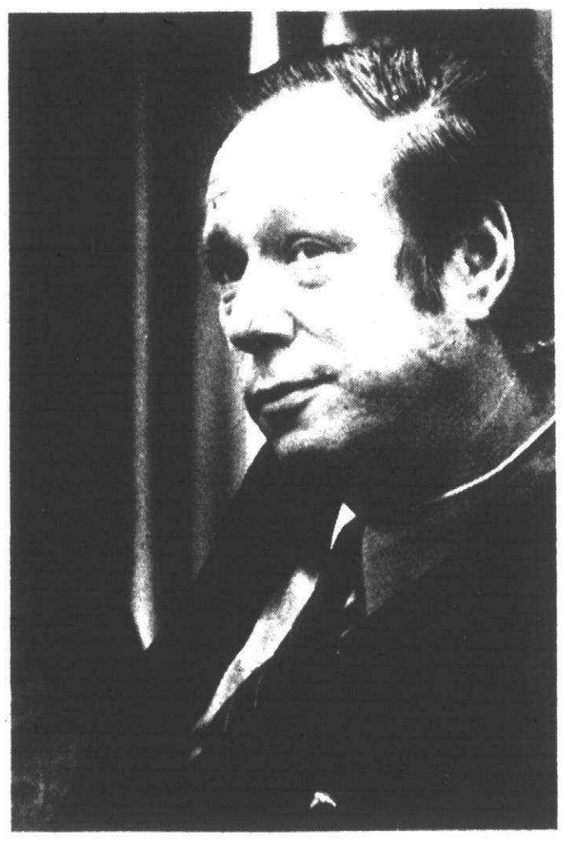
I had the great privilege of serving with him when he was selected chairman of the Michigan Economic Action Council, a broadly-based group asked in 1975 by Gov. Milliken and the Michigan Legislature to make recommendations to improve the state's economic climate.

Leading a group that included representatives of every conflicting sector of our state's life was no bed of roses. And to wind up with a final report that was both imaginative and far-reaching—and which was enthusiastically endorsed by both the UAW's Doug Fraser and GM's Thomas Murphy—speaks volumes for Blumenthal's intelligence, persistence and skill with people.

Blumenthal is very, very bright without being an egghead. He is tough-minded and demanding without being abrasive. He is a successful businessman who is deeply concerned with the human problems of our society and with business' responsibility to help solve them.

And he is transcendently concerned with the central role which the highest ethics must play in any business or governmental activity.

It is a superb appointment, and anyone who has had anything to do with Mike Blumenthal knows it. Everyone on this level wishes him well in his new assignment.



W. MICHAEL BLUMENTHAL
A successful human being

Strong economy must be built in private sector

The economists are death-wishing us again.

Many of them are lining up, trying to be the first to forecast gloom and doom for 1977. Then, if it happens, they can say, "I told you so." If it doesn't happen, no one will notice.

There is no question that nationally the rate of growth of the economy has been slowing down after a great first quarter this year. But the fact that the growth rate of the economy is slowing down doesn't mean that the economy is not growing in fact.

In Michigan, we are doing well because the auto industry is doing well. The auto people expect 1977 to be a good year (but not a vintage year) so Michigan will move along.

The Survey Research Center of the University of Michigan still says there is consumer confidence in the economy. This is a bellwether to see if people are willing to buy.

THE NEW ADMINISTRATION in Washington has to come up with a strategy in January. Do they want a big turn around or slow and consistent growth?

There is no question that a government-created big turn around will mean deficit spending and create more inflation. More inflation means the value of the dollar goes down and you get less for it.

The present thinking revolves around a tax rebate early in the year to put dollars in people's pockets. Seventy per cent of this will go to low-income families who will spend it on food and shelter which won't boost the economy that much, or that broadly, or for that long. It would be a three-month pump-priming.

ANOTHER SUGGESTION is public works jobs. This area always bothers me because it doesn't build anything permanent. It puts people on a payroll for a given period of time, but when it is over, no permanent jobs have been created for these people.

Worse than that, it has become a device of not creating new jobs but switching payrolls. Mayors love it because it allows them to lay off police and firefighters and rehire them on the federal payroll. Under this plan, a lot of new jobs aren't created. And, when the program is over, the city has a real budget problem trying to switch them back to local payrolls.

Unemployment can only be solved in the long run in the private sector unless we are prepared to have everyone work for the government forever. If this happens, I'm not too sure who will pay their salaries.

If we are to have federal pump-priming, let it be used to encourage the private sector to expand and hire more people by giving incentives to purchase new plants and equipment.

If we are worried about unemployment, let's use the funds to retrain workers because there are jobs available.

Once these retrained people are hired in the private sector, they are off the public doles and not a problem again when the federal funds run out.

IF WE WANT a healthy economy in 1977, we can't scare people out of buying, predicting what could happen if such and such doesn't happen.

If we want a strong economy to last longer than 1977, it can't be done by federal government manipulations. We have seen over the last three years what happens when the government manages.

To make 1977 a great year requires everyone's confidence that it will be a great year.

Suburbs ignore SEMCOG at peril

Local officials in suburbia had better begin taking the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments more seriously or they will continue to get their ears pinned back, as they did again last week.

SEMCOG's executive committee rejected the amended annual program of the Wayne County Road Commission—a disapproval that may make it impossible for the road commission to get federal funding.

Detroit delegates complained that too much of the road commission's program was benefitting the western suburbs and not enough was going to Detroit and the eastside suburbs.

THE CRITICAL point was that the SEMCOG executive committee has 36 members, and the rejection vote was 9-8. Thus, only 25 per cent of the executive committee was able to stymie a long list of road projects.

If the suburbs—not only Wayne County but other counties—had had their votes out, it wouldn't have happened.

It wasn't the first time poor attendance has hurt the interests of the western Wayne suburbs. Earlier this year, there was a split within the SEMCOG general assembly over whom to appoint to a seat on the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA). Less than half the local delegation bothered to attend the meeting, and so western Wayne was shut out from membership on the SEMTA board.

Thus, an area with 1.2 million souls has no one on the SEMTA board, while Detroit, with 1.3 million, has three seats and Oakland County, with barely a million, has two seats.

FOR THE RECORD, some elemental facts:

•Jerry Raymond, the Livonia councilman, and Patrick McDonald, the Redford Township supervisor, are members of the executive committee and did attend.

•Garden City is still not a member of SEMCOG. Meanwhile, city officials are in a hassle with SEMTA officials over the site of a bus depot and probably wonder why they have so little political clout.

•Regional planning is here to stay. When you don't take part in the regional planning process, it goes on without you. SEMCOG is this region's regional planning agency.

•Every vote counts. Every vote.

The student-athletes

When you hear the term "student-athlete," the emphasis is usually on "athlete"—unfortunately. After all, school is where you learn, and the status of sports is as an extracurricular activity.

But we were struck by the large proportion of young ladies recently selected for the Observer's all-area girls basketball team who have also been successful in their studies.

Many had grade point averages higher than 3.0 (B), belonged to the National Honor Society and were involved in other scholarly pursuits.

These are the classical kinds of student-athletes, worthy of recognition, congratulations and support.

Seuss tale pantomimed at Tanger

More than 200 students at Tanger Elementary School participated in the Dr. Seuss Christmas classic, "How the Grinch Stole Christmas."

Under the direction of Eleanor Burton, musical director; Mary Orwin, assistant musical director; Sandy Catherman, stage assistant; and Marilyn Dwyer, art director; the actors mouthed the words and acted. Choruses sang the story lines.

Billy Matthews was the Grinch. Adam Aldrin was Max the Dog and Heather Bolton had the role of Little Cindy Lou Who.

The play opened with a choral reading by the Tanger School Choir. Students from Mrs. Moshimer's, Mrs. Allen's and Mrs. Skinley's classes sang "Deck the Halls," and Mrs. Lovernick's students sang "Noisy Toys."

Also participating were Mrs. Morris' class, "Chefs;" Mrs. Chapman's, Mrs. Randall's, and Mrs. Wells' classes in "Here We Come A Caroling." Mrs. House's students joined two other groups for "Joy to the World."

The choir returned for the grand finale, "We Wish You a Merry Christmas."

Little malls— look of future

The recent building boom of large regional shopping centers is coming to an end, and construction trends will turn toward smaller neighborhood and community centers.

So predicts Lee D. Corbin, president of Space Management Corp. and a partner of Property Management Associates in Sacramento, Calif.

During the next five years, Corbin predicts a construction boom of community shopping centers, occupying 20 acres or less, as well as conversions of downtown areas into enclosed regional-type centers and the rehabilitation of older centers.

"The super-regional center provides major planning problems for some cities," Corbin says. "Access is critical, and existing streets are inadequate to handle the thousands of cars that jam an ever-widening sea of asphalt.

"Air bollution from traffic jams and slow-moving automobilies in large parking areas makes adjacent residential areas less desirable, and, in some instances, has been a factor in influencing better housing growth to move still further into suburbia."

Corbin's remarks are contained in a featured article in the "Journal of Property Management." For a free copy of the article, write the Institute of Real Estate Management, 430 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Christmas toys should provide long-lasting happiness, interest

A Christmas toy or game should do more than please the eye of a child on Christmas morning.

Dr. June Slobodian, chairperson of the education and psychology department of Madonna College in Livonia, suggests they should stimulate other senses as well.

Toys and games are fun for children and in using them they may not be aware that their eyes are being trained, tiny fingers are being strengthened, ears are being called upon to distinguish important sounds and new words, and the mind is pushed into activity.

Dr. Slobodian feels that parents should be aware of this, so that on Christmas morning when presents are opened, the toys will provide more than a wind-up kind of happiness.

"Early cave men noticed that children played at acting like adults," reported Dr. Slobodian at a recent games workshop at Madonna. "The games they created were replays of what they perceived the adults in their society doing."

OUR ANCESTORS began to structure these activities, and from this structure eventually came our schools.

"However, in the structuring we frequently lost the 'play,' and the good feeling that goes with play," said Dr. Slobodian, who uses the play theory in classes she and her husband, Dmitri, teach for children with learning disabilities.

Manufacturers began to capitalize on the desire for organized play activities and developed games, she said.

"They soon found this was a lucrative business, even at the adult level," she said. "Today we are bombarded with a variety of offerings in terms of games for children.

"But once purchased, interests wane. Some games are not long lasting in their appeal. Pieces are lost and the game is thrown in the trash can."

According to Dr. Slobodian a child's mind sorts out information.

"A child must receive information or stimuli to do something," said Dr. Slobodian. "The more ways he receives it, the more he will be able to with it, and the more details he will have. He receives information through his senses — eyes, ears, fingers, toes, nose and total atmosphere."

Through games a child can recognize that information is something he should sort, she said. The games catch his attention and offer him reenforcement when he uses them correctly.

"He will feel good about what he has done with the information, and see it as useful," she said "He will be able to retrieve the information he has fed into a slot, and have some need for retrieving it.

"A game should provide something to see, something to handle.It should provide movement, some process for responding, some feedback as to the player's correctness and some reward for it.

"It should offer some need for the memory to operate and a crutch to reinforce memory."

TO ESTABLISH a climate for enjoying the game experience, Dr. Slobian suggested the addition of good friends and soft drinks, and the avoidance of discipline during the game.

"Limit the playing time," she added. "Provide a prize, the reward can be simply a hug. Also hug those who do not win the total game, but whom make good contributions. Point out what is luck and encourage everyone."

To aid purchasers of games, Dr. Slobodian has a handy check-list that can fit into pocket or pocketbook. It can be used to evaluate a game, and is based on a point system.

For example, if the game has a playing board or other visual apparatus, it will earn one point. Other factors that will earn it a point are whether it has pieces to move, cards or other things to touch, calls for insertion of a peg into a slot or other fine motor movement.

Also earning a point will be a game that requires writing, thinking out of moves, talking or speech, has a playing sequence that takes longer than 10 minutes, and provides a winner only at the termination of the game.

EARNING HIGHER points is a game that has dice or some other operation which calls for movement, spinning and so forth. On the Slobodian scale this would register two points.

Earning three points is a game that requires spelling. Five point games include basic math operations, have words to be read with pictures, require correct spelling and provide feedback and call for remembering pictures or moves.

Also winning five points are games that ask for thinking out of moves and which give ideas on how to do this in order to win. If a playing sequence can be completed in 10 minutes, give the game five points, also if a winner can occur after small segments, rather than just at the end.

Highest in points on the Slobodian list is a game requiring speech in explanation of moves. This earns 10 points.

Add up the points and if the game you are thinking of buying earns 30 points, Dr. Slobodian would call it an excellent buy. Twenty points would make it a good buy.

"If it gets 10 points or less, think about it twice," she said.

AARP meets Dec. 22 to elect officers

The Plymouth-Northville American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) will have its last meeting of the year Dec. 22 featuring a Christmas sing-a-long and installation of 1977 officers and directors.

The meeting will begin with a sack lunch at noon at the Plymouth Presbyterian Church. Bell ringers from the Northville Methodist Church will perform Christmas tunes at the meeting.

Visitors, 55 years or older, are welcome to attend. Fred Gorst of Plymouth will be inducted as chapter president; Clara Eastland of Plymouth will be named first vice-president. Lenda Hammond of Northville is second vice-president in 1977; Blythe Schmidlein will be treasurer. Fred Bradley is the recording secretary and Marion Coon is corresponding secretary.

Morin finishes recruit training

Navy Seaman Recruit Mark T. Morin, son of Robert L. Morin of 40555 Pine Tree, Plymouth, has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

Among the subjects Morin studied were seamanship, close-order drill, Naval history and first aid.

He joined the Navy in August, 1976.

The VIEW from 461 SOUTH MAIN

by ELLIE GRAHAM

CAN'T HELP BUT ENVY those folks who head south for the winter months.

But Roger Turpening overdid it. He kept right on going until he landed in Antarctica.

Turpening is a geophysicist. He is down in the McMurdo Sound area as a member of a scientific expedition. He left Michigan Dec. 1 and will be there for a month, doing soundings.

His wife Margo will meet him in New Zealand and they will travel home together. The Turpenings live in Hartland now but are former Plymouth residents. Margo worked in the city clerk's office in Plymouth City Hall.

A check with Beth Simescu at the Dunning-Hough Library revealed some statistics on temperatures in Antarctica. The average is below zero.

Coldest temperature on record was in 1960 when the thermometer dipped to 126.9 degrees below zero. In summer, it has gone above 32 degrees.

An old World Almanac in the office had further information. The McMurdo Oasis is so dry that there is no snow cover, and sand dunes are more than 100 feet high.

Some lakes in the valleys are 20 feet deep, and the warm, salty bottom water reaches a temperature of 70 degrees in the summer months.

SUE AND SCOTT DODGE hosted an open house Dec. 12 in Port to Port Travel Company, newest travel service in town.

The party was planned for the hours between 2 and 6 p.m., but the last guests departed at 11:30 p.m.

The Dodges bought the old Bennett house on the corner of Main and Union streets late last summer. It was built in 1901 and contains four living units. One of these was converted to an office suite.

Among the guests was Margaret Bennett Bowen who was born in the house built by her father and her uncle.

Eleanore DeLorme, manager of Port to Port helped as hostess, passing hors d'oeuvres and tea sandwiches, and pouring champagne.

More than 300 persons attended. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. George Bowles, Chuck Heidt, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Bradburn, Mr. and Mrs. James Cooper, Dr. and Mrs. John Stathakis, Jack Wilcox, and Mr. and Mrs. Perry Richwine.

Also The Erick Carnes, the Robert Bakes, the Robert Bevers, the Tom Turners, the Eric Childs, the Harold Guenthers and tthe Win Schraders.

Red and white are predominant colors in the office suite. Red and blue plaid carpeting was used in one room—solid red and solid blue in others. Red and blue wallpaper was hung in the kitchen. This was after weeks of scraping paint, removing two walls and refurbishing floors and woodwork.

MICHAEL DAVIS, the Amahl in Sunday's performance of "Amahl and the Night Visitors" with the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra, is a 12-year-old from Hamilton, Ont.

After four weeks on the road, he was hoping to stop at home for a brief visit on the way to Syracuse, N.Y.

The cast planned to drive through to Buffalo Sunday night.

"We'll catch about five hours sleep there and go on to Syracuse in the morning," said David Aiken, producer and director of the one-act opera.

The four adult members of the cast seem to assume a group parent role for their young star.

"I wish I drank coffee so I would stay awake," said Michael. "If I go to sleep, they'll drive right on and not stop."

One of the highlights of his professional career was playing Oliver to Vincent Price's Fagan in the musical, "Oliver."

ROSEMARY KULHMANN had sung the role of Amahl's mother so many times, she couldn't recall all her Amahls.

She was in the first NBC television production in 1951. She appeared on Christmas cards made by Hallmark, the program's sponsor.

"My hair was bright red on the cards," she said. "I don't know why. It really was dark brown."

Mrs. Kulhmann chuckled about all the youngsters who had played Amahl. "Sometimes I imagine a sort of 'This is Your Life.' All the Amahls come back—some very old men. Of course," she laughed, "I'm young and beautiful and not a year older than when we started."

THERE WERE THREE prize winners at last weekend's Christmas show and sale of the works by the Three Cities Art Club.

Dorothy Chandler won first prize—a watercolor by Tyler McCutcheon, president of the club.

Lydia Gleng received an oil painting by Audrey Paul, vice-president of the group; and Lucille Hascelo's gift was a coffee painting by Betty Manthey, exhibit chairperson.

CORPORATION PAPERS have been filed for a new song publishing and booking agency in Canton Township.

Attorney Noel Culbert, who was a candidate for trustee in the Canton primaries, will head Muzacan, the company which will handle the talents of singers, bands, groups and song writers.

HERE'S GRAM KEITH'S Carrot Pudding recipe for those who asked for it.

1½ c. flour
1 c. sugar
1 c. ground suet
1 c. raisins
1 c. currants
1 c. grated raw carrots
1 c. grated raw potatoes
1 t. soda
½ t. cinnamon
¼ t. cloves
pinch allspice and nutmeg
¾ c. mixed peel
½ c. nutmeats
pinch of salt

Work all together with hands. Turn into well-buttered can or mold which can be sealed. Steam for three hours. Serve with caramel or hard sauce.

Mrs. Eldon Behr, Michigan DAR state regent, was greeted by Mrs. Hugh Lafferty, regent of the Sarah Ann Cochrane chapter.

Luncheon marks golden anniversary

Members of the Sarah Ann Cochrane Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution celebrated their 50th anniversary Monday at a birthday luncheon in Hillside Inn.

Mrs. Eldon Behr, Michigan DAR state regent, was the guest speaker. Regents from nine other area chapters were on hand to offer their birthday greetings.

Mrs. Behr's subject was "Immigrant Tide—A Landmark Migration."

Mrs. Hugh C. Lafferty, chapter regent, presented a history of the Sarah Ann Cochrane chapter, "Then and Now."

It was at a luncheon Dec. 13, 1926 in the home of Mrs. Frederick A. Lendrum that eight DAR members-at-large met with six other women to organize a new DAR chapter in Plymouth.

Mrs. Lendrum, who had been the organizing regent, was asked to become the first regent and served until 1928.

The members decided in February 1927 to invite the women of Northville who were eligible for membership to join the chapter. When the charter was granted March 8, 1928, there were 24 members.

THE NEWLY organized chapter was named for Sarah Ann Cochrane, a daughter of a pioneering Michigan family and a direct descendant of five revolutionary soldiers.

Sarah came to Northville with her family in 1843 when her father, the Rev. Sylvester Cochrane, was asked to preach in the new Presbyterian Church in the village. Two years later, he founded the Northville Academy.

Sarah and her brother, Lyman who became a judge in Detroit, helped their father teach in the school. After the deaths of her parents and her brother, she became associated with the Detroit Public Library.

It was under her supervision that the Dewey Decimal System was used in the library.

She and her family are buried in Northville.

The Cochranes were the first people in Northville to own a kerosene lamp. The Northville Historical Society has custody of that lamp.

CHARTER MEMBERS of the chapter were: T. Glenadine Hall Baker, recording secretary; Hattie A. Marshall Baker, chaplain; Louise Thayer Bryan; Maud Sherwood Cooper, historian; Fanny Spicer Judson Doerr; Mary Kezia Starkweather Hillmer; Rose Hillmer Holstein: Gertrude Hillmer Hubbard; Dorothy McCorkle McKinnon; Jessie Chaffee McCurtry; and Fern L. Crum Michelin.

Also Ada Smith Murray, treasurer; Anna M. Nichol, corresponding secretary; Myrtle Peck Randall, vice-regent; Mary Fairman Bradner Root; Sarah Miner Lobell Ross; Ada W. Safford; Ruth M. Shattuck; Mabel Irene Spicer; Alice Vincent Strong, past recording secretary; Bertha Warner; Mary Chaffee Warner and Harriet Hill Wilcox.

At the time of its 50th anniversary, the chapter has 100 members. Among them is Ruth Shattuck Garlett, who was a teenager when she joined the charter group.

Mrs. Garlett received her 50-year pin, badge and a flower arrangement at the luncheon.

MRS. ALBERT HEINDRYCKX, vice-regent, said, "Our chapter has worked consistently to achieve national objectives of the DAR (historic preservation, promotion of education and patriotic endeavor) during its 50 years.

"Our fund-raising projects have gone to help the American Indians, sponsor DAR good citizens, help support DAR schools in South Carolina and Alabama, do volunteer service in VA hospitals, furnish and teach respect for the American flag, furnish information for National defense, and sponsor an essay contest during American History Month in elementary and middle schools.

"Our bicentennial projects included: cataloging geneological records for the Plymouth Historiacl Museum, donation for Plymouth Fife and Drum Corps uniforms, donation to Northville Historical Society for furniture in one of the homes in Mill Race Historical Village, and a gift to the Livonia Historical Commission for Greenmead, the historical farm.

THOSE RESPONSIBLE for the anniversary luncheon were Mrs. Donald Stobbe of Livonia, displays; Mrs. William Porter, Mrs. R.J. Greenler and Mrs. Robert N. Rosbolt, all of Plymouth, decorations; Mrs. Louis Hopping of Northville, dessert hostess; and Mrs. Theodore Kampf of Northville, Mrs. Heindryckx and Mrs. Robert D. Willoughby, both of Plymouth, hostesses.

Other chapter officers for 1976-77 are the Rev. Elizabeth Etz, chaplain; Mrs. D.H. Baumhart, recording secretary; Mrs. Gregory W. Dean, corresponding secretary; Mrs. William Porter, treasurer; Mrs. Norman Saunders, registrar; Mrs. Donald Stobbe, historian; Mrs. Warren Bain, historian; and Mrs. John W. Armstrong, Mrs. William Bake, Mrs. David Christensen and Mrs. Arlie Fairman, directors.

Ruth Shattuck Garlett received her 50-year pin and badge. She was a charter member of the Sarah Ann Cochrane Chapter.

The 50th anniversary had a special meaning for Mrs. Robert S. Greenler, newest member of the chapter.

Canton chatter

By SHARON STARON 455-5322

The dedication of our three new elementary schools was held last sunday. The ceremonies were all well attended and many of the children took an active part in the festivities.

At Hulsing the program was enhanced by song selections from the choir drected by Judy Closser. First grader Stacy Owens wrote her own speech on what Hulsing means to her along with third grader Matthew Markiewicz. fourth graders. Mary Kay Brian Callahan.

The Eriksson students were just as involved with their program.

The benediction was delivered by Billy Mannion, and the invocation was by Cathy Furtak. The pledge of allegiance was led by Amy Westerkamp, Tripi Kataria, Jenny Yochum, Diane Szymoniak, Doug Warner, Jim Stephens and Lisa Nail. Speeches were given by first grader Cara Soper third grader Cathleen Colasinski and fifth grader LeAnn Huston.

The picture presentation was by Jeanette Measel and Denise Morrow and the chorus was directed by Linda Long.

At Field the invocation was given by Yvette Dowdy, and the plaque inscription was read by Steve Socie. Deborah Grejczyk, Susan Piper and Mike Brylinski gave speeches. The Field Ensemble entertained with singing and the Cub Scouts and Girl Scouts led the Pledge of Allegiance.

SATURDAY EVENING Margaret Chime-lewski, who holds the title of Ms. Wheelchair Michigan, was the honored guest at a surprise dinner party given by Bill and Mary Naples. Husband Jim was in on the secret making this special birthday a real thrill for Margie.

Family members were in attendance including Joseph and Barbara Kakaley, Carl and Cathy Kakaley, Joseph and Theresa Tucker, Thomas and Mary Ann Makowski and Margie's mother Mary Kakaley.

The Naples also were entertaining Bills parents from Youngstown Ohio Mr. and Mrs. William Naples this week-end.

Grandma and grandpa were here Sunday to see granddaughter Ginny, age 7, who is part of a troupe of dancers from the Julienmarie studio, Northville, perform for the Armenian Home and.

This is a special Christmas present from the children to the people who are sometimes forgotten. The seniors loved it.

THE GALLIMORE and Hulsing Cub Scouts held their Christmas pack meeting last week. The boys made decorations for their Christmas tree and donated it, fully decorated, to the office at Gallimore.

All the den mothers were presented with a beautiful yellow chrysanthemum plant from their dens and webelo leader, Andy Ealovego, received a pen and pencil set.

In the days left before Christmas each den will be entertaining at area convalescent homes with carols.

This group is selling candy to raise funds for itsir blue and gold dinner that is coming up in February. So far the sale has been sucessful but they hope they can still do better.

The cubs are going to be busy from now until January getting ready for the pine wood derby race. Each boy received his kit as his Christmas present. They are each allowed to have a pit crew, their parents, to help them shape their block of wood into a speedy vehicle. Winners will be announced as the results come in.

THERE'S A NEW Cub Scout pack getting started in our town. Bob Prebus is the scouting coordinator putting this group together. It will be Pack 855 and its charter partner is the PTO of Field Elementary.

There are 50 boys already signed up and Bob expects to have 20 more by January. So far they have six cub dens and two webelo dens.

The committee chairman is Tim Graskiwicz, cub master is Al Eichenberg, and wife Pat is the den mother coach. Webelo leader is Allen Vanderburg.

Their pack meeting will be held the last Friday of every month starting Jan. 28. Sure we'll be hearing more from this group.

Tomorrow evening they will be holding a bake sale before and after Field School's Christmas sing along, which begins at 7 and everyone is welcomed.

THE CANTON Newcomers dining out group went to the Hillside Inn at the beginning of the month. Carol and Bob Kielsel, Tom and Chris Pilz, Mike and Ginny Koon and Donna and Chip Glover all celebrated Chip's birthday.

EIGHT COUPLES from Canterbury Woods II subdivision had their second annual Christmas progressive dinner Saturday evening.

The hor d'oeuvres were served at Bob and Kathy Spencer's. Next on to Linda and Mike Becker's for salad. The main course featuring saurbrauten was served at Hank and Sandy Naasko's, and deserts at Diane and Bill Soule's. The other four couples were Mike and Ginny Koon, Dean and Melanie Bell, Tom and Elaine Lavander and Frank and Alma Pabircis.

Be of good cheer! Bank of the Commonwealth wants to make this one of your brightest holiday seasons ever.
So we're having a Christmas Loan Sale. And here's how it works. Come in to any branch of Bank of the Commonwealth or a participating dealer and take out an installment loan for $2,000 or more. And we'll turn around and give you back a rebate of $50. That would make a great little addition to your Christmas stocking, wouldn't it.
There's another little something we're offering at Commonwealth, too. A warm friendly, "thank you," every time you come see us. A little thing—sure. But it's one way to show you that we really appreciate your business.
Our "thank you's" extend all year round. But the $50 loan rebate is good for a limited time only. So come in soon. Thank you very much.

PARASOLS & Galoshes

By GAE McCORD

When Jean Schultheiss and Ellie Graham entertain night visitors, they entertain the Night Visitors, and Amahl, too! Following the Plymouth Symphony's third concert of the season Sunday afternoon, Jean and Ellie invited the cast and several friends to join them for a buffet supper at Jean's home in Woodgate.

Gathered around the fireplace and sipping champaigne, Eugene Bayless, Wayne Dunlap, and Jo Hulce enjoyed a rehash of the afternoon's performance while they sampled cheese, vegetables, and Ellie's tasty new spinach dip. Rosemary Kuhlmann and David Aiken, who were in the original cast for the NBC world premier performance of Amahl, and Charles and Fran Lang basked in the lovely candlelit atmosphere and admired the holly and ivy theme which decorated the room. The buffet table, set with gold banded heirloom dishes, gold rimmed goblets of assorted sizes holding white candles and gold flatware, was centered with a gold rimmed gravey boat filled with holly, ivy and miniature jonquils was the focal point of the lovely setting. Jackie and Harv Troutman, Gail Schultheiss, Eugene Bayless, and Michael Davis completed the guest list of the fortunate people who shared an exciting afternoon and a very special evening.

THAT SAME SUNDAY over at Betty and George Hudsons, a group of friends and neighbors gathered at 7 p.m. to bid a fond adieu to Lou and Clyde Egan, who, along with the three young Egans, will be leaving next week to find a new home in Florida.

Don and Dorothy Burleson and Clarence and Lu Moore and son Dick, were there to chat and admire Betty's Christmas decorations. (Aren't the decorations that have been acculmulated over the years and have a special meaning really the most fun?) Bob and Bertha Baxter returned from Texas just in time to make the festivities, and to greet the Roland Schmidts, and the Charles Hartels.

Martha and Sam Detrich, Don and Sue Watkins, and Skip and Muriel Henderson were on hand to say goodbye and to toast Mary Ellen and Pat McKersher who recently moved into the neighborhood. The McKerchers and their children hail from Rhode Island, and Pat teaches pharmacy at Wayne State University. You can bet that after the Hudsons' great party, they're patting themselves on the backs for having chosen the right neighborhood.

DEE MORGAN also entertained on Sunday . . . at not just one, but three open houses. Among about 300 invited guests who browsed through her three antique stores in Old Village on Liberty Street were Norbert and Marie Batterman, Jerry Harb, Bob and Mickey Beyer, and Bob Delaney. Geneva and Harold Guenther, always on the look out for something either heart-shaped or red, nibbled cookies and had a cup of coffee while they searched. Tom and June Turner and Margaret Wilson and her mother sampled hot hors d'oeuvres and admired Dee's decorations of holly and fresh greens. Bill Reilly, Mr. and Mrs. Don Severance, and Cliff Hill and his lovely new bride all came from Northville to partake of champagne and hospitality and enjoy the rare ambience of Plymouth's Old Village.

A TILT of the lace parasol to Peter Kenny, who has just passed his bar exams and has entered business with his father in Dearborn. Peter and Lynn are now living in new quarters in Garden City, and are typical of so many of our young people who are willing to work long hard years to reach their goals.

You walk to Christmas at Rosedale church

By MARGARET MILLER

Families in Rosedale Gardens United Presbyterian Church will take a walk Sunday, hopefully toward a fresher understanding of the Christmas message.

On the walk they will visit seven stations in various parts of the big church building. These stations, manned by assorted groups in the church, are designed to give young and old a feeling of the first Christmas.

"The idea is to step back and experience the Christmas story, using as many senses as we can," said the Rev. Don Elly, associate pastor.

The story will be told through skits, music, dance, a puppet show and a peep show, and at each station the visitors will be able to carry away a reminder of the experience.

"It's a way in which all groups in the church can come together for a Christmas experience," Mr. Elly explained, "and it's planned to give varied approaches to the story so all can appreciate it."

The program will begin at 7 p.m. in the sanctuary of the church located at Hubbard and West Chicago in Livonia. The Rev. Robert Taylor, senior minister, will lead it off with a talk in the sanctuary on the symbols of Christmas as displayed on the Chrismon tree there.

TO CONCLUDE the program, there will be refreshments, fellowship and carol singing in the church hall.

In between, shepherds will guide groups of 20 to 30 persons along the seven-station walk, explaining as they go what is going on at each one. The shepherds are a specially-selected group of adults in the church, and all have had some training for their role.i

Everyone will start off with a paper bag to hold the souvenirs from the various stations.

A song sheet will be the first item into the bag, received when the chancel choir offers music and scripture to convey expectancy at Station One—the Prophecy.

THGe second station will depict the Annunciation and will feature a dance in which Lori Murray, as Mary, expresses the joy of motherhood and being chosen as mother of the Messiah. Small stickers will be the souvenir from that station.

Walkers then will see a puppet show on the journey of Mary and Joseph, put on by seventh and eighth graders in the church school and junior high youth group. They will take with qhem from that station small shepherd crooks.

Tableaus of the scene at the in will be put on by the couples' club for the next station. A choral reading will be performed, and shortbread squares will be given out.

UNITED PRESBYTERIAN Women will set up a manger scene in the church's small courtyard, and from that station bits of straw may be taken along.

The final stations include a peep show with a view of the shepherds, put on by the 40-Plus Club and headed by Irving Benson, and a visit to the wise men, depicted by the youth fellowship and the Priscilla circle.

Gold coins and spices will be the offerings for the brown bags in this final stop.

Mr. Elly said the program started with an idea picked up from the First United Presbyterian Church of Birmingham "and we added the scripture and some of our own touches."

"We have the mustard seed this year," he added. "Next year we want to make some additions and make it grow."

CHURCH BULLETIN

ST. JOHN EPISCOPAL CHURCH, 555 South Wayne, Westland, will mark its 75th anniversary with a Diamond Jubilee service of thanksgiving at 10:30 a.m. Sunday, Dec. 19.

The Rev. G. Alexander Miller, who recently retired after 25 years as rector of Christ Church in Flint, will be guest speaker for the occasion. Canon Miller is well known in Episcopal circles and as chaplain of the University of Michigan marching band.

St. John was founded as a mission church in 1901 and became a full-fledged parish in 1943. During its early history, it was located in downtown Wayne, moving to its present location in 1956.

The church now serves more than 350 families and is led by the Rev. Thomas S. Wilson, rector, with Harry Adams and Robert Chartrand heading the vestry as senior and junior wardens.

Persons who would like transportation to the jubilee service may call the church office, 721-5023.

ST.ANDREW EPISCOPAL CHURCH, 16360 Hubbard, Livonia, will welcome the Right Rev. William Jones Gordon Jr., assistant bishop of the diocese of Michigan, to its services at 11 a.m. Sunday, Dec. 19.

Bishop Gordon will confirm a large class of children and adults as well as consecrating and dedicating two doorways and 12 windows that have been given as tokens of thanksgiving as as memorials for the lives of a number of St. Andrew members and former members.

GOOD SHEPHERD REFORMED CHURCH, 6500 N. Wayne, Westland, will combine its choir with that of the Riverford Heights Reformed Church in Detroit for a presentation of the John Peterson Christmas cantata, "The Night the Angels Sang," at 7 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 19, in the Good Shepherd sanctuary.

Mrs. Lafern Porter of Westland, Riverford organist and choir director, will direct the cantata, with Good Shepherd Jean Adams of Livonia at the organ.

Robert Hutchinson will do the narration, and the soloists will include the Rev. Kelvin Kronemeyer, Jane Lage, Gerald Dahlen and Irene Hogenboom.

Mr. Kronemeyer, Good Shepherd pastor, will share pastoral duties for the program with the Rev. Kermit Hogenboom of Riverford, and the service also will include songs by the Good Shepherd men's chorus and organ music by Michele Donohue of Garden City.

Refreshments will follow the program.

LIVONIA CHRISTIAN CHURCH, (Disciples of Christ), 36075 Seven Mile, will present its chancel choir in a Fred Holton cantata titled "The Music of Bethlehem,, at 7 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 19.

Mary Lou Bark will direct the program and Gwen Jackman will be organist. Following the service, there will be a fellowship hour with refreshments prepared by the women of the church.

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH, 43065 Joy, Plymouth, plans two presentations of its 70-voice concert choir in a Christmas musical, "Ring the Bells!", by Don Wyrtzen and Harry Bolback, at 5 and 7:30 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 19.

Tom Hovermale will direct, and there will be accompaniment by piano, organ and percussion.

CALVARY MISSIONARY CHURCH, 29850 Six Mile, Livonia, will present its choir in John W. Peterson's cantata, "The Wonder of Christmas," at 11 a.m. Sunday.

ST. MATTHEW LUTHERAN CHURCH, 5885 Venoy, Westland, will hold its annual Christmas choir concert at 7 p.m. Sunday.

Featured will be the church's four choirs, instrumentalists and a massed choir selection.

CHURCH OF THE SAVIOR, 38100 Five Mile, Livonia, will present its choir, directed by Beth Van Wagoner and accompanied by Nancy Smith, in a Christmas cantata, "Ring the Bells," by Harry Bollback and Don Wyrtzen, at 10:30 a.m. Sunday.

Soloists will be Cindy Bishop, Jess Meseroll and Don Bohnwagner.

The church also plans its annual Sunday school program at 7 p.m. Feature will be a life-sized animated Christmas card and gifts for later distribution by the Nardin Park Reformed Church in its inner city food program.

GRAND RIVER BAPTIST CHURCH, 34500 Six Mile, Livonia, will welcome the Dearborn Youth Symphony Orchestra, directed by Charles Brickel, to join the church's chancel choir in a presentation of the cantata "Alleluia," at 7 p.m. Sunday.

At the 10:45 a.m. service, the choir will have special Christmas music and the Rev. Wilbert D. Gough will preach on "Keepers of Christmas."

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH OF PLYMOUTH, 45000 N. Territorial, will present its five choirs in a Christmas Eve concert beginning at 7 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 19.

Mrs. Richard Kay, director of music, is in charge of the program, which will include a cantata, "The Shepherd's Christmas Eve," sung by a youth choir led by Mrs. Charlene Dibble. Mrs. Rosetta Maddicks and Mrs. Tara McCormic will lead the other choirs involved.

UNITED ASSEMBLY OF GOD, 42021 E. Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth, will present "King of Kings," a cantata by John Peterson, at 8 p.m. Friday, Dec. 17, and at 6:30 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 19.

The sanctuary choir singing the work will be directed by William Abbott and accompanied by 15 instrumentalists from communities in this area.

BISHOP WILLIAM GORDON
Visiting St. Andrew

Dancers at St. Paul

Christmas in music and dance will be featured at 7 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 19, in St. Paul United Presbyterian Church, 27475 Five Mile, Livonia. The annual Christmas concert will begin with Vivaldi's "Gloria," to be performed by the chancel choir, under the direction of Dr. John Redmon, St. Paul music director, with soloists Gladys Budd, Judie Gorden and Barbara Gordon, with members of the Oakway Symphony and organist Walter Cory providing accompaniment. Then the dance choir, directed by Ann Webster, will present the carol "Bring a Torch, Jeanette, Isabella," and four youth choirs, directed by Dr. Redmon and Patricia Hutchinson, will sing. Danceres pictured are (from left) Kathy Jerolamon, Kathy Murphy, Jeff Velis, Laura Olthouse, Karen Murphy and Penny Edwards.

Fathers take active role in Troop 201's projects

There's nothing like a boy scout to enliven proceedings at a girl scout meeting.

In the case of Girl Scout Troop 201 which meets in Allen Elementary School, it's a former boy scout who is adding interest to the troop's projects.

Jack Andersen of 40547 Orangelawn in Plymouth Township is a design engineer at Ford Motor Co., Engineering and Research Center in Dearborn. He is in his second year of girl scouting and is co-leader of Troop 201.

"He was a boy scout and enjoyed his own experiences so much that he always hoped to relive them by working in boy scouting with his son," said his wife, Marcia.

"After the birth of his second daughter, he decided girl scouting would be the organization in which to be active. He has never regretted his decision. In fact, the girls admire him so much, he is glad he's a girl scout leader instaed of a boy scout leader."

"WE ARE VERY FORTUNATE to have several fathers who hav given their time to teach our scouts new skills," said Donna Drossart, troop leader.

"It's great having father participation at our meetings. Fathers sometimes have a stronger impact on teaching new skills to their daughters. So many fathers have jobs that keep them away from their daughters' activities. This reinforces that fact that fathers do exist and do care."

Andersen has been assisting the girls with a Christmas project which will earn them a new badge and brighten the holiday season for some children at the Plymouth Center for Human Development.

Under his supervision, the junior scouts have been sanding, cleaning, painting and sewing toys which they brought from home.

Tricycles have been refurbished with bright new paint. Stuffed toys have been cleaned and restitched. Wooden toys have been sanded and painted, and dolls have been repaired and dressed to the point where they look brand new.

EACH ONE WILL be gift wrapped before it is delivered to the center on Sheldon Road.

Another father, Dave Reeves, has been helping in the endeavor which will qualify the scouts for for their Toymaker badges.

Parents Ed and Carol Smith have collaborated in another Christmas project. Each scout is making a wall plaque for a gift.

Ed Smith cut and routed the pieces of wood for the plaques. He sanded and stained them then attached the metal hangers.

Mrs. Smith attended the troop meeting and supervised the final arrangement of pine cones and fruit on each.

ANDERSEN HAS taught them kite-making, kite-flying, how to catch and clean fish, and first aid. A meeting on knot-tying is scheduled and the troop is planning an outing just for fathers and daughters.

He is hoping to work his hobbies of sailing and physical fitness into the troop program next year.

He has assisted on campouts, hikes, service troop projects and outings.

"It' salso nice to have that extra sense of security on campout and trips when you have the fathers along," said Mrs. Drossart.

Ratcliff-Driscoll

Kelly Ann Driscoll and U.S. Army Capt. Johnnie Nathan Ratcliff exchanged wedding vows in St. Paul of the Cross Monastery in Detroit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Francis Cusak.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Terrence C. Driscoll of Marc Trail in Plymouth. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ratcliff of Pikeville, Ky. are parents of the bridegroom who is an instructor at the Military Police Training School, Fort McClellan, Ala. He is a graduate of Moorehead State University in Kentucky. The bride graduated from Plymouth Salem High School and attended Schoolcraft College before serving in the military police for two years with 14 months in the Canal Zone.

The bride's gown was opaque polyester with cluny lace and seed pearl trim. She wore a matching seed pearl headpiece with elbow-length lace veil. Her bouquet was tea roses, baby's breath and stephanotis. Her attendants wore pale blue satin gowns trimmed with lace and carried red and blue carnations. They were Kathleen Driscoll, maid of honor; Joyce and Katie Jobe, junior bridesmaids; and Maureen Driscoll, Chris Erickson, Irene Isakson, Karen McDonnell, Jane Coleman, Debbie Robinson, and Kim Thorpe.

Kevin Driscoll was best man. Ushers were Patrick Driscoll, James Isakson, Timothy Isakson, Gary Jobe, Robert Creighton, Daniel Isakson, Lt. Ian Chapman, Terrance McDonnell, and Billy Coleman.

After a reception in the Plymouth Hilton Inn, the couple honeymooned in the South. They will live in Weaver, Ala.

Rocks, Chiefs pound Patriots

Wrestlers roar

Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton wrestling teams hosted a double dual meet Tuesday night at the Salem High School gym as Clarenceville and Livonia Franklin traveled to compete against the Rocks and Chiefs.

Salem and Clarenceville squared off in the best match of the night, finishing in a deadlocked match, 26-26. Salem had previously set a new school record with its first shutout in the school's history—a 64-0 whitewash of Franklin.

Canton likewise had an easy time with Franklin, demolishing the lowly Patriots 64-6. The Chiefs opened the night losing to Clarenceville 39-28.

Salem and Canton didn't face each other while Franklin and Clarenceville failed to go head on.

Rock coach Ron Krueger was pleased with his team's performance but felt that the Clarenceville match should have gone to his team.

"I thought we had it won going into the last two matches but Clarenceville is a very, very tough team," Krueger said. "I have a lot of respect for them. I think they are a very good team and I like facing good teams."

The Rocks meet league rival Edsel Ford tonight in their biggest dual meet so far this season.

Chiefs lose another close one

Losing the close games has been the story of Plymouth Canton basketball so far this season, and the same thing happened Tuesday night at Southfield Lathrup where the Chiefs lost in overtime 64-62.

It marked the second time this year that Canton has lost in overtime. The Chiefs are 1-4 for the season and have yet to play a game that has had more than a four point margin as its outcome.

But Canton's performance against Lathrup surprised a lot of people who thought that the Chiefs wouldn't come close to the Southfield squad.

Even so, the Chiefs had their chances to pull off the upset.

"We are disappointed, naturally," coach Casey Cavell said. "We get there but we just don't make it.

"We had good team defense and had good shot selection on offense. "We played a heck of a game."

Southfield Lathrup held a 16-12 lead after the first quarter but the Chiefs rebounded to knot things at 26-26 at halftime. Lathrup surged ahead in the third quarter but the Chiefs quickly struck back to make it close in the final minutes.

Canton had a 52-50 lead with 1:30 left in the game but a costly missed outside shot resulted in Lathrup getting the rebound and scoring the equalizing basket.

Salem tankers edged

Despite placing first and second in the final relay event, the Plymouth Salem swim team saw its rally fall short by one point as non-league rival Northville won 42-41 Tuesday night.

"We should have won this one," said coacc Byron Williams. "It could have gone either way.

"I knew if we could have stayed close we would pull it out at the end. We just fell too far behind early (in the meet). We were behind all the way."

Williams said before the meet that his team didn't have the depth to compete with Northville in a dual meet, but he felt optimistic about swimming at the Mustang's five-lane pool. This limited the number of entries in each event helping the Rocks almost pull off a win.

This was the first non-league loss the Rocks have suffered in two years. The last time Salem lost was in the same Northville pool in 1974.

Five pool records were set in this meet, two of which were by Salem's potential all-stater Ron Finley. The senior tanker won both the 200 yard individual medley and 100 backstroke in record times of 2:07.7 and :55.7 respectively.

Freshman Jeff Stella finished third in the individual medley at 2:14.9.

Finley's younger brother, Craig, broke a Salem freshman record with a victory in the 500 freestyle. His time was 5:17.2 which topped his older brother's mark as a freshman. Senior Tim Ying placed third in that 500 free race.

The Rocks lost the 200 medley relay to a tough Northville combination. Salem's Ron Finley, Stella, Rob Kuebler and Mike Etienne swam a 1:48.7 for second place.

The fastest 400 free relay times was swum by Bruce Lazarus, Barry Lee, Craig Finley and Etienne at 3:39.9. The Rocks' second place combination was Kuebler, Dave Schroeder, Ying and Tom Rubadue at 3:40.5.

Rubadue won the 200 freestyle race with a respectable 1:56.9. Ying placed fourth.

The Rocks fell victim to Northville's top sprinter Mark Yanoselk in the 50 and 100 free races. Etienne grabbed second in the 50 free with a :24.3 time. Rubadue was second in the 100 free with a :52.7 clocking.

The Rocks took second and third in the diving competition. Doug Hunter was second and Jim LaRiche grabbed third. The event was won with the lowly total of 135 points.

Salem also took second and third in the 100 butterfly thanks to Kuebler and Albert. Jeff Stella was third in the breaststr0ke.

Ypsi tips Canton

The Plymouth Canton swim team lost a non-league meet to Ypsilanti 95-75 Tuesday night at the Plymouth pool. This was the home opener for the Chiefs.

"We swam a pretty good meet," said coach Bill Faunce. "We had some good points and some bad points.

"We swam much better tonight, improving 80-90 per cent of our times. Last year we lost to Ypsilanti 102-51."

The Chiefs won five of the 11 events but fell victim to Ypsilanti's overall depth.

The 200 medley relay for the Chiefs started the meet in fine fashion with first and third place finishes. The combination of Bob Cline, Terry Sullivan, Steve Wood and Kevin Harris swam a 1:53.2 for the winning time. This clocking was three seconds faster than the previous meet.

Canton's hope for a closer match fell to the wayside in the 200 freestyle competition. The Chiefs were disqualified twice when two swimmers were guilty of false starts.

"I thought we could take a second, third and fourth in this event but the disqualifications hurt us," Faunce said.

But the Chiefs still managed a second place with their third swimmer as sophomore Dave Tanner came up with a gutty performance in recording a 2:02.0 time.

Tanner has been out of action since the beginning of the season with 12 outer stitches and more internal stitches in his foot. He is still not allowed to walk on his feet but the doctor gave him an okay for swimming.

Tanner approached the starting board on crutches and with the foot heavily taped proceeded to swim his best time ever in this event.

Tanner also grabbed another second place finish in the 100 yard butterfly at 1:03.2 and raced the starting length in the 400 free relay.

Canton grabbed second and third place in the 200 individual medley where Mark Retting and Cline swam.

Canton dominated the sprint races where its best swimmer, Harris, and Jamie Greenwood placed first and second in the 50 and 100 freestyle. Harris swam his best time in the 50 free at :23.3 which is only two-tenths of a second slower than the school record.

The Chiefs' Scott Wales compiled 207 points in the diving competition but that was only good enough for third place behind two of the top divers in the state.

Steve Wood won the 100 butterfly ahead of Tanner with a 1:00.1, his best time of the young season.

Cline and Retting dominated the 100 backstroke with best times of 1:03.9 and 1:07.1 respectively.

The Chiefs showed weakness in the 500 freestyle and the 100 breaststroke where they could only get third place finishes from Tom Simrak and Sullivan.

Tanner, Wood, Mike Gaab and Greenwood swam a respectable 3:39.2 but it was only good enough for second place in that final event.

Lumber state

Michigan experienced a thriving, raucous lumbering era in the mid-1800s. There were 500 sawmills operating in the state by 1840 and in 1888 production reached its peak when nearly 4.3 trillion board feet of lumber were harvested.

Lumber is still one of Michigan's major commodities. It has been estimated that by the year 2000 Michigan forests will be required to produce some 46 million board feet of saw logs and at least one million cords of pulpwood annually, according to the Travel Bureau, Michigan Department of Commerce.

In The Pocket

By W.W. EDGAR

There's a good chance that two bowlers well known in Detroit circles will be named to the American Bowling Congress Hall of Fame.

They are Harry Smith, one time member of the Stroh and E&B teams, and Bob Strampe, another former member of the All-Star teams who still is competing in the top brackets.

The reason chances are good that this pair will be honored is the fact that none of the candidates on the ABC list received the required 75 per cent of the votes in the first balloting.

Under these conditions, the ABC takes the top three in the voting. So it happened that Smith and Strampe, along with Carmen Salvino were the top three. A special election is now being determined to see who will go to the Hall.

Both Strampe and Smith were highly rated a decade ago when Strampe won the All-Star in Dallas, Tex., and Smith took the crown on one of his many appearances in the last round of the top flight competition. Harry also was worked as an instructor for the late Jim Tropea at Mt. Elliott Recreation. He now is a resident of New York State.

THIS IS the season of the year when the bowlers come up with a wild assortment of excuses for not hitting high scores.

As the half-way mark approaches in the winter season, the bowlers claim the lanes are being re-conditioned and any number of things happen.

"Too much oil" is the most popular excuse. The bowlers claim that due to the poor distribution of oil they can't find their 'track" and are in trouble.. Others claim lanes have been made "too stiff" and their ball doesn't hook as it should.

The strange thing is that none of the bowlers figure that they are fault— and not the lanes. But it is this way every December so the bowlers' rantings are nothing new.

THE YOUNG bowlers continue to turn in some amazing performances.

This week, Bill Peterson, an 11-year-old, fired a 226 game in a 502 series at Garden Lanes. And, over at Farmington Lanes, Lou Galorneau paced the prep classic with a 224 in 548.

DON FLYNN stirred up a lot of interest in the Civic League at Farmington Lanes when he started a long string of strikes. He finally settled for a 279— the highest game of the night— to share honors with Gene Derrick, who had a 246 in 624 for high series.

In the Thursday Classic, Irene Blum posted a 244, while Carl Hunt had a 625 and Lee Hibes landed next with 610. In the Ladies Friday classic, Dottie Romecki had a 224 in 620.

IT DOESN'T HAPPEN often, but Betty Moeller won two of the three games and the series in the Livonia Ladies Classic. After Dorzthy Goryca took the opener with 197-26--223, Betty took charge.

She won the second game with 193-43--236 and the third with 189-43--232. These two victories gave her the series 505-129--634.

SCORES WERE below average in the Garden Lanes Classic, as Leo Vinclenitz set the pace with a 640. Behind him came Rich Setlock with 625, and Dick Maciag with 609 tied with Rich Risner.

In the ladies classic, Marlene Luech nosed out Mary Mohaxsi by two pins when she posted a 596. And in the Misfits League, Gene Ferrell was tops with a 622.

THE PACEMAKER'S role in the senior house league at Westland Bowl went to Bob Jawor, who linked counts of 213, 209 and 231 for 653. Close behind him came Ed Marzka with games of 254 and 223 in 647, while Bob O'Brien landed third with 639.

THE SPLIT CONVERSION club at Mayflower Lanes inducted three new members this week. Chris Skog qualified by toppling the 5-8-10. Dolly Wood earner her entry by spilling the 3-6-7-10 and Jim Martineau knocked over the 4-6.

Meanwhile, in the women's competition, Mary Lou Wesman had a 200 game in 595 and Mary Krause inserted a 205 in 526.

MIKE MOCERI furnished one of the week's features when he registered games of 175, 234 and 235 for 664. Not bad for a fellow with a 165 average.

IN THE LADIES classic at Plymouth Bowl, Mary Lou Schneider showed the way with games of 214, 201 and 192 for 607.

Rock JV wins 4th

Holding Redford Union to one point in the final quarter, the Plymouth Salem junior varsity basketball team won its fourth consecutive game this season 44-27.

The Rock JV is undefeated going into tomorrow's battle at Trenton.

A tight Panther defense kept the game close through three periods, with the Rocks holding a 34-26 advantage.

But Salem added 10 points in the fourth period to put the game away. Both teams had trouble finding the basket all night.

Redford Union's one point quarter marked the second time this year that the Rock defense held its opponent to two or less points in a single period.

Salem's Kevin Kelliher, Greg Tallmen, Bill Thimm, Barry Owens, Rob Neu, Tom Sonnenberg and Paul Dillon were the stalwarts in the defensive battle. Kelliher led all scorers with 10 points.

Wrestling coaches shout encouragement

Rock wrestlers grab 2d

Playing the role of rude host to seven other wrestling squads, Redford Thurston last weekend claimed victories in seven of the 13 weight classes to easily earn the championship of the inaugural Thurston Invitational.

The Eagles compiled 162½ points, 36 more than runner-up Plymouth Salem. Livonia Churchill placed third with 115½ points.

"It was an outstanding team effort," said Thurston coach Jim Urick. "Every boy contributed so much. Even the boys that didn't wrestle worked hard in practice to prepare for the meet."

Thurston advanced seven grapplers through the preliminaries to the finals and all seven eventually emerged victorious on decisions.

Jim Boyer won at 98 pounds, Buddy Ault at 105 pounds, Matt Wyman at 119 pounds, Brian Poma at 132 pounds, Mike Whear at 155 pounds, Bob Cutsing.. ..t 165 pounds and Dave Kapaun at 178 pounds.

"I thought that Ault did an excellent job," Urick said. "He's only a sophomore, but he beat two excellent wrestlers to get into the finals, then he won there.

"We were only nine points up on Salem going into the finals, but every one of our seven finalists won," Urick continued.

"This was our first invitational, and the kids really wanted to win. We were really fired up. I was really pleased with them."

Urick said that his Eagles have now accomplished one of their three goals this season by placing first in the invitational.

The other two goals, the Thurston coach said, may be more formidable—to wrestle the league championship from perennial power Westland John Glenn and to place as many grapplers as possible into the state regionals and finals

"We're really starting to turn things around," said Urick, who in this his second season has already equalled the Eagles' win production of last year—four. "The kids are really enthused and I'm very pleased."

While the Eagles pretty much took a hammerlock on individual titles, several other area wrestlers managed to claw to victory.

George Zentz, 145 pounds, and Mark Dewitt, heavyweight, both from Livonia Churchill, won their weight classes on decisions.

PLYMOUTH SALEM and Plymouth Canton each finished the meet with nine medalists.

The Rocks top finishers, besides Dasher, were Dave Champion, Randy Vipperman and Jeff Fidge with second place medals. Jim Ross, Carl McNulty and Matt Wilkens placed third while Rene Leist and Jerry Ottenhoff were fourth.

The Chiefs didn't win any event but had four grapplers place second by losing in the championship round.

Bill Heedum, Scott Collins, Scott Caudwell and Craig Lee placed second. Kyle Heaton and Mart Bartlett were third and Jeff Rey, Terry Cliffton, and Chuck Walker were fourth.

RESULTS

Team Standings—1) Redford Thurston, 162½; 2) Plymouth Salem, 126½; 3) Livonia Churchill, 115½; 4) Plymouth Canton, 110½; 5) Dearborn Heights Crestwood, 90; 6) Livonia Bentley, 67½; 7) Redford Bishop Borgess, 40½; 8) Redford Union, 34½.

Tourneys galore

While most athletic teams will take an extended holiday break following competition this weekend, a handful of area basketball squads and all four Livonia hockey teams will carry their colors into Christmas tournaments next week.

Action peaks in a hurry Monday evening with the opening rounds of the Livonia Churchill Holiday Basketball Tournament, the Redford Union Christmas Basketball Tournament and the George Gee Hockey Tournament.

Redford Thurston and Livonia Stevenson battle at 7 p.m. Monday at the Churchill tourney, with co-hosts Churchill and Plymouth Salem butting heads at 8:45 p.m. in the second game.

The consolation contest, featuring the losers of Monday's games, will tip off at 7 p.m. Tuesday, and the final will get underway at 8:45 p.m. Salem is defending champion.

Tickets, at $1 for everyone, will be available at the door of the Churchill gym, which is located at 8900 Newburgh.

Meanwhile, a few miles north, Redford Union will be hosting Farmington, Farmington Harrison and North Farmington in the traditional holiday four-way get-together.

Farmington meets Harrison at 7 p.m. Monday, and RU clashes with North Farmington at 8:30 p.m.

Losers face each other at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the consolation tilt, and the winners square off at 8:30 p.m. for the championship.

Admission both nights is $1 for students and $1.50 for adults. RU is located at 17711 Kinloch. Tickets will be available at the door.

Livonia's four prep hockey teams—Bentley, Franklin, Stevenson and Churchill—break away from Suburban Hockey League action to go at each other for the unofficial city championship in the George Gee Tournament.

Bentley meets Stevenson at 6 p.m. Monday, and Franklin clashes with Churchill at 8 p.m. Monday. The consolation match will begin at 6 p.m. Tuesday and the final at 8 p.m.

All games will be played at Livonia's Ford Arena, 33841 Lyndon. Tickets are priced at $1.50 per game both nights and will be available at the door. Franklin is defending champ.

A little later next week—Wednesday and Thursday—Westland John Glenn will participate in the Western Wayne Invitational Basketball Tournament at Belleville High, 501 West Columbia.

First-round play has Glenn jousting with Inkster Cherry Hill at 6:3 p.m. Wednesday and Wayne duelling defending champion Belleville at 8 p.m. The consolation and final games are at the same times Thursday.

Ducats will be available at the door at $1 for students and $1.50 for adults.

Stanwood honored

Junior Marion Stanwood of Plymouth Salem has been selected a member of the 1976 All-State girls swim team.

Stanwood led the Rocks to a Suburban Eight League championship season this past fall. She finished the year with the lowest area times in the 200 and 500 yard freestyles and is a member of the Rocks' 400 yard free relay combination.

Stanwood's school record time of 1:58.23 in the 200 was third best in the state. The relay she participated on finished 16th.

Stanwood is a Sub 8 champion in both the 200 and 500 freestyle races.

The Christmas season is upon us and with it comes the joys of the sixth-annual Holiday Basketball Tournament to be played next Monday and Tueday, Dec. 20 and 21, at the Livonia Churchill gym.

Plymouth Salem and Livonia Churchill co-host this event that includes cage squads from Livonia Stevenson and Redford Thurston.

The Rocks have been extremely succesful in the previous five years of competition, winning four times including the last two seasons. The only time Plymouth failed to win was in 1974 when Churchill grabbed the title.

Last season, the Rocks beat Stevenson in the finals, 77-71, at Plymouth.

THIS YEAR'S tournament includes perhaps the best balance of the four squads, and Plymouth's goal to continue its dominance will meet a rugged test. All four squads have a reasonsble chance to win the title. The chances for another Salem victory are good, but a win won't be as easy as they've been in the past.

Thurston faces Stevenson in the first game Monday at 7 p.m. Plymouth faces host Churchill in the second contest at 8:45 p.m.

The losers of these two opening rounds will battle for third place in the consolation game Tuesday at 7 p.m.. THe championship match follows at 8:45 p.m.

THE OPENING CONTEST pits the Thurston offense against the Stevenson defense. I expect Thurston to beat the Spartans, but it will be an extemely close game.

Going into last Tuesday night's games, Thurston held a 2-1 record scoring 90, 71 and 56 points in each contest. Stevenson holds a 3-1 record allowing its opponents only 31, 42, 58 and 41 points.

The Plymouth-Churchill battle shouldn't be as close, with the Rocks winning by at least 10. The Chargers have that important home court advantage, but I don't think they can handle the Rock's quickness.

Plymouth is still undefeated with a 4-0 record going into tomorrow night's battle at Trenton. Churchill lost its first two games, one in triple overtime, but has rebounded with victories over Garden City West and Northville.

The Chargers lost to Dearborn by 15 points in the second game of the year. That's the same Dearborn squad that the Rocks rallied to beat in overtime.

In the championship game, the Rocks' defense will have a tough test against Thurston, but it should prevail in a close result.

Stevenson will beat Churchill in the consolation game.

Glenn wins; Trojans trampled

JOHN GLENN—SOUTHGATE

General Wellington would have been proud Tuesday night of the defensive stand, almost like a British square at Waterloo, and the quick offense that by the Westland John Glenn basketball team exhibied.

The Rockets battled Southgate to a standstill then ripped them open with an offensive attack, taking the win in style, 70-41.

The first quarter of play saw Glenn go out in front using an aggressive offense and a man-to-man defense that held Southgate to just six points.

But the Rockets let up in the second quarter and were lucky that their defense was so strong. In the quarter, Southgate outscored Glenn 12 -10. The score at the half was 32-18.

Again the defense came through for the Rockets in the third quarter as Glenn just devastated the Southgate team. The attack was so strong that Glenn emptied its bench.

The final quarter was a continuation of the third as the Rocket offense rolled on.

"Our defense played well; they were the key," said Glenn coach Gordon Davis who also felt that the Rocket running game helped in the win.

Leading the Glenn offensive attack were Daran Armstrong with 16 points and Tom Jurewicz and Ed Bates each with 12 points.

"Again our defense came through with flying colors," concluded Davis.

CLARENCEVILLE—RIVERSIDE

It was like a long, 400-page novel, which waits until the final chapter before presenting the reader with action. Tuesday night, when the Clarenceville basketball team took on Dearborn Riverside.

The outcome of the contest came right down to the last five minutes with Riverside finally pulling away and winning, 62-49.

The first half of play saw both teams struggling to take the lead with the Trojans plagued by turnovers. At the end of the half, the score was 32-25, Riverside.

But the Trojans wouldn't give up and fought back in the second half. The third quarter was a dead heat with both teams scoring 13 points.

Toward the end, mistakes caught up with the Trojans as they tried to fiht back in the final quarter.

With four and a half minutes remaining in the game, the Clarenceville offense fell to pieces. Turnovers came left and right, as Riverside broke away for good.

"We just had too many errors," said Clarenceville coach Bob Wolf. We had to play catch up ball the entire game."

Leading the Clarenceville offense was Bill Peterson with 21 points and 15 rebounds. Jim Beyer had 14 points.

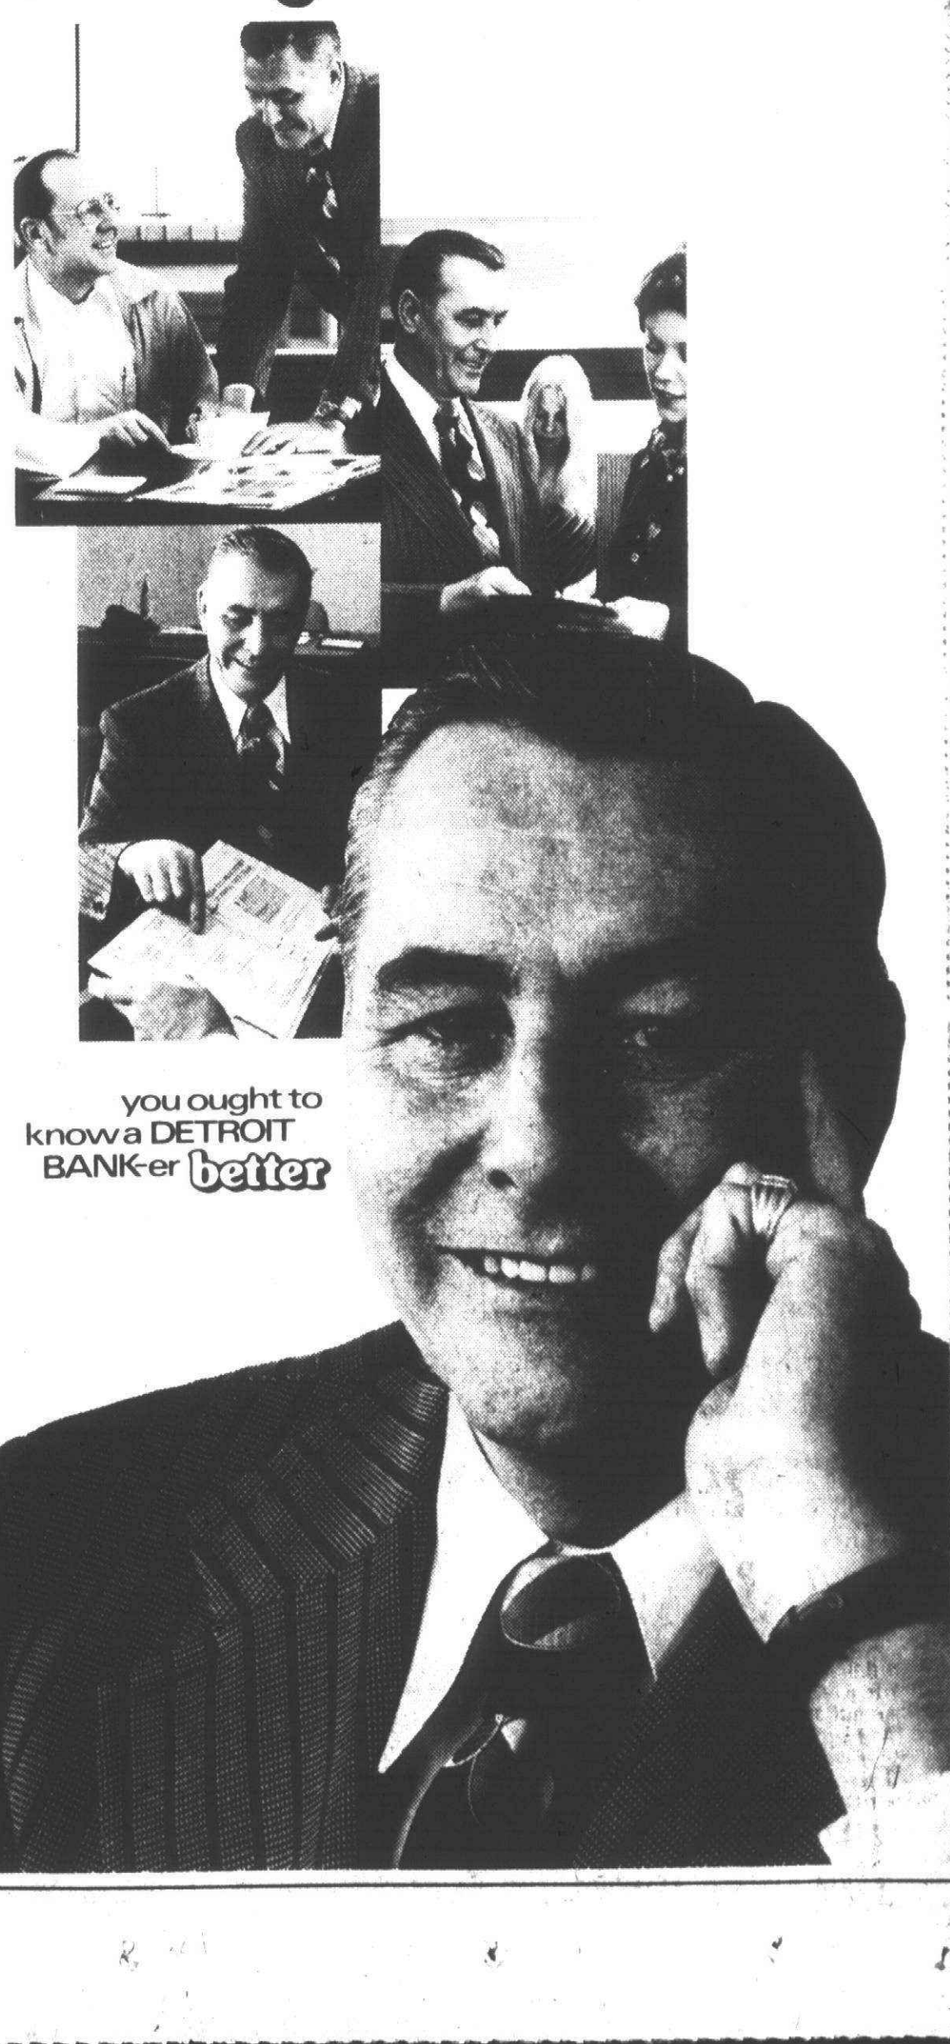
What's better than no-charge checking?



No-charge checking plus a Detroit Bank-er.

There's a big difference between services and service. All banks offer pretty much the same services, but the special kind of service you get from a DETROIT BANK-er can make the real difference in banking for you.

For example, most banks offer no-charge personal checking accounts in one form or another. Detroit Bank & Trust offers no-charge checking three ways:

- First, maintain a minimum balance of at least $500 in any savings account, or
- Second, maintain a minimum balance of at least $175 in your checking account, or
- Third, maintain a monthly average balance of at least $500 in your checking account.

Either way, you can write all the checks you want and never have to pay a penny in service charges.

And if your monthly average balance should fall below the minimums it's no cause for alarm. You are only charged 10¢ per check and 75¢ for the statement for that month.

And with no-charge checking at Detroit Bank & Trust, you get an extra—your DETROIT BANK-er. Whether it be your branch manager or teller, your DETROIT BANK-er is trained to serve you and your account in a friendly, competent manner. They can suggest ways to turn your checking account into a personal loan office, or make your checks "bounce-proof," or how to get more interest from your savings.

Your DETROIT BANK-er is always ready to serve you. Feel free to come in any time and talk about your account and your financial needs. The better you know your DETROIT BANK-ers, the better they can serve you.

Trenton wins RU Relays

Salem swimmers take 3d

By placing first in three events during last weekend's 14th annual Redford Union Invitational Relays, Livonia Franklin boys' swimming team managed to finish in a third place tie with Plymouth Salem, the highest of area contestants.

"I think that was a successful meet for us," commented Franklin coach Larry Teahan. "We had more first place finishers than everyone except for Trenton."

The Patriots also managed to shatter the record in the crescendo with a time of 4:33.0, which broke the old mark of 4:37.5. "I think we could have finished higher in the team standings, but a couple of our relay teams wound up in seventh place," said Teahan.

The four Franklin swimmers who broke the record in the crescendo were Mike Balnaves, Tom Wright, Ken Stigleman and Steve Christie.

The Suburban Eight League played a dominant part in the meet, by having three teams finishing in the top five places of the final standings. Trenton finished in first place, Salem tied for third and Allen Park came in fifth.

PLYMOUTH SALEM'S tie for third place with Franklin established the Rocks as one of the top teams in Observerland. Salem won the relays last year.

"This is where our (lack of) depth hurt us," said Salem coach Byron Williams. "We'll be okay yet. We just have a lot of people to replace and it takes time."

The Rocks placed in sixth of the 10 events, winning the 200 yard medley relay. Ron Finley, Jeff Stella, Rob Kuebler and Tom Rubadue combined for a 1:46.5 time in this event.

The Rocks' 400 yard medley combination of Ron Finley, Stella, Kuebler and Etienne finished second at 3:56.9.

"That was the third fastest time ever in the Redford pool," Williams said. Unfortunately, Northville set a record that day."

Two freshman, one sophomore and one junior combined for a second place finish in the 400 individual medley relay. Salem's Kirk Albert, Craig Finley, Barry Lee and Dave Schroeder swam a runners-up time of 4:28.2.

PLYMOUTH CANTON tankers grabbed one third place finish and two fourths.

The Chiefs' best effort was in the crescendo relay of staggered distances.

"This is the event that everybody stacked for," said coach Bill Faunce. "We did the same."

The Chiefs' time of 4:42.5 was swum by Kevin Harris (200), Bob Cline (150), Steve Wood (100) and Jamie Greenwood (50).

Two freshmen and two sophomores placed fourth in the 200 back relay. Joe Simrak, Jeff Seiple, Greg Straton and Rich Ostroski combined for a 2:14.6.

The 200 free relay recorded a 1:42.5 time with the help of Tom Simrak, Mike Gaab, Doug Hetu and Scott Gray.

Both the Rocksand the Chiefs compete in the Ypsilanti invitational Saturday.

Franklin whips West

FRANKLIN—GC WEST

Livonia Franklin Tuesday night was the latest team to feast on a rebuilding Garden City West basketball contingent, as the Patriots breezed past the Tigers in a non-league cage encounter, 69-47.

The game was close for only the first quarter. Franklin led 18-12 after the first eight minutes, 40-23 at the half, 54-33 after three periods and 69-47 at the final buzzer.

Franklin guards Ken Scarpace and Jeff Phillips paced the scoring onslaught with 18 and 12 points, respectively. West's top point producers were John Mullet and Jerry Tatro, who each notched eight.

"We're still not shooting real well," noted West coach Chris Babler. "You can't shoot from the floor like that (36 per cent) and win. Defensively (3-2 zone), we didn't play as well as we hoped."

Franklin, on the other hand, was as hot from the field as the Tigers were cold.

"We took good shots and hit 62 per cent," said Robert Visser, coach of the Patriots, "We took good percentage shots and when you control the boards and shoot well, things happen."

Visser said that he was also pleased with his team's effort at the defensive end of the court. "We played hard-nosed man-to-man," he described. "Things are starting to jell," Visser said of his second consecutive victory.

The Tigers lost their seventh in a row in what is developing into a very long season.

What's the difference between "rustproofing" and Ziebart rustproofing?
All the difference in the world. To begin with, our tools are so different they're patented. Our sealant is unique. It's attracted to metal, and actively creeps into welded seams.
And our process is so thorough we can guarantee your new car against rust-through for 5 years or 50,000 miles. Or your money back.
There are other improtant differences, too. And you should check them all out. Call us.

Tar/Taste Theory Exploded.

Taste-science breakthrough gives low tar MERIT the flavor of cigarettes having 60% more tar.

By locating certain flavor-rich ingredients in cigarette smoke, ingredients that deliver taste way out of proportion to tar, researchers at Philip Morris have disproven the theory that cigarette flavor depends on the amount of tar that goes with it.

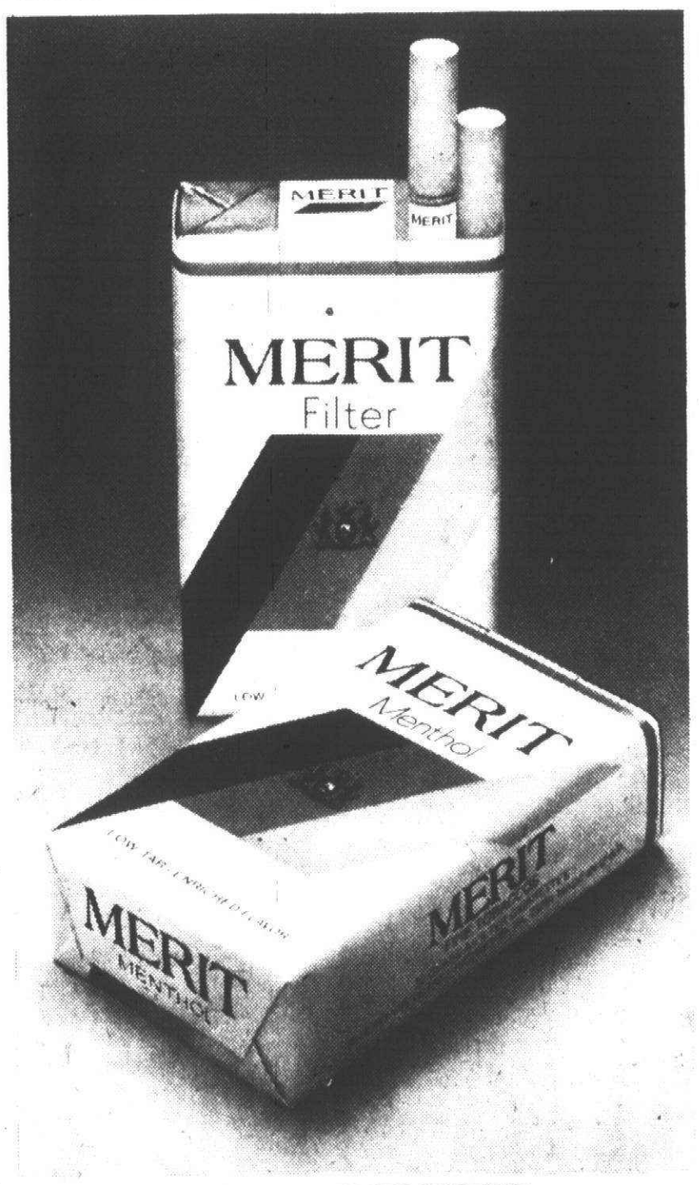
They've discovered how to pack flavor—unprecedented flavor—into a cigarette that delivers one of the lowest tar levels in smoking today.

The discovery is called 'Enriched Flavor.'™ It's extra flavor, natural flavor, and only MERIT has it.

© Philip Morris Inc. 1976

9 mg. "tar," 0.7 mg. nicotine av. per cigarette by FTC Method.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.



MERIT and MERIT MENTHOL

Tests Verify Taste

In taste tests involving thousands of cigarette smokers like yourself, MERIT was reported to deliver as much—or more—taste than current low tar leaders.

What's really startling is that these brands have up to 60% more tar than MERIT.

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough.

Now smoke the cigarette.

MERIT. Incredible smoking satisfaction at only 9 mg. tar.

Crestwood trips Eagles

The effects of a rough-and-tumble basketball battle last weekend with Livonia Franklin apparently still lingered over the Redford Thurston camp Tuesday evening.

Playing without Mike Nagle, a starting guard who was out with an injury, the Eagles lost a non-league affair to Dearborn Heights Crestwood 60-56.

"Things just didn't happen for us," said Thurston coach Bill Croteau, who watched his charges remain in striking range all the way but never come up with the key basket.

"We just couldn't get ourselves together," Croteau added. "We weren't executing properly on offense and we weren't getting our usual good hustle on the press.

"We were very inconsistent from the free throw line again (6-15) and we didn't rebound as well as we should have," the coach continued. "They zoned us all the way and we just didn't take the ball inside enough."

Croteau noted that Nagle's absence affected the team-play concept of his starting five. "I'm sure it (absence) made a difference," the Eagles' mentor stated.

Thurston trailed 12-10 after the first period, but rallied to take a slim 30-29 halftime advantage. Crestwood outpointed the Eagles during the third quarter, 18-13, and that turned out to be the difference, even though Thurston held a 15-13 fourth-period scoring edge.

Thurston's Dave Beebe led all shooters with 24 points. Three Crestwood players—Bill Vopinsky, Steve Popp and Craig Bonza—combined for 48 points.

"I thought some of our bench people did a nice job," Croteau concluded, singling out the play of Greg May.

Turnover troubles torture Borgess

A rash of turnovers in the final minutes spelled disaster for the Bishop Borgess basketball team Tuesday night when it played Dearborn Divine Child and lost 57-54.

The contest was a close battle until late in the game when everything fell apart for Borgess.

In the first half, the game was an offensive contest, with both teams getting the feel of the game. But at the half the Borgess team held a slim 30-26 lead.

The game came down to the wire as Divine Child slowly closed the gap, capitalizing on Spartan turnovers in the final quarter. With 39 seconds left in the game, Dave Priebe of Borgess hit on a free throw to put the Spart ns ahead by a single point.

In the end, Divine Child captured the win when Borgess turned the ball over and the Falcolns broke down the court to sink the winning bucket.

High scorers for Borgess were Dan DeCoster with 18 points and Dave Priebe with 16 points.

Glenn gains triple win

The Rockets trampled all three of their foes—Trenton, 55-6, Huron, 59-9, and Farmington Harrison, 46-20.

The three wins were just the tonic that Glenn needed after dropping a tight 33-26 decision to Wayne earlier in the week.

Barclay, 98 pounds, Paciocco, 132 pounds, Collin, 138 pounds, and Doyle, 165 pounds, all recorded two pins and a win by decision.

Grabowski, 191 pounds, pinned two opponents and was awarded a win by default, and Robinson, heavyweight, pinned one foe and decisioned two others.

Jerry Hensley won both of his matches. Terry O'Neill, Jay Snapp, Greg Hamel and John Mervin also recorded a pair of victories.

"I'm pleased with the effort we're getting out of the kids," said Glenn coach Bob Lusk. "Even the one's that weren't winning (at the triple dual) worked very hard at keeping the score down."

Lusk singled out all six of his triple winners for special praise, as well as some of the other Rockets who gave their best in spite of defeat.

Area athletes gain fame, honors

It's not prestigious titles or an obsessive desire for winning that keeps golfer Tom Draper allied to the sport, but, rather, it's the friendship that results from his many years of participation.

Ever since Draper, a Troy resident who owns more championship trophies than a sporting goods store, banged his first fairway drive 53 years ago, golf has been a source of unending enjoyment. This enjoyment, coupled with his natural playing ability, recently netted him a spot in the Michigan Amateur Hall of Fame.

In formal ceremonies conducted at the Warren Chateau Hall, Draper, an outgoing man of dignified stature, was among 11 men inducted. The Missouri-raised golfer will now be associated with such amateur athletes as Terry McDermott of speed skating fame, Graham Steenhoven, a pioneer in table tennis, and Bonnie Jones, a well-known figure in fast-pitch softball.

Draper owns a pragmatic philosophy about the sport. He begins with the idea that golf is fun, and part of this delight includes vehicles for companionship, friendly competition among all ages, exercise for physical stability and an unceasing adventuresome spirit.

"Enthusiasm is the prime characteristic for youth," explained the 62-year-old linksman. "When you connect with a sweet one it gives you a good feeling all over, and that feeling is what keeps the enthusiasm for the sport.

"Golf is an enchanting game because it doesn't necessarily cater to the quickest or the strongest individuals like some sports do. It's a combination of different skills and philosophy that makes golf a great game.

"You know, one of the goood things is to play golf and win, and the next best thing is to play golf and lose," he said. "But, the unthinkable thing is not to play golf at all."

THE AVERAGE AGE of the 106-member Amateur Hall of Fame is 60, and the average amount of experience in a sport before recognition is 35 years. Draper has figures exceeding both.

Draper has been associated with the sport for the past 53 years—ever since his dad introduced him to the game at the tender age of 7. He grew up and learned the game near the mighty Mississippi in St. Louis.

While studying at Harvard, where he obtained his degree, Draper was the golf team captain. He was a pioneer in the women's liberation movement before it became a popular cause as he invited a woman to compete in one of the tournaments—a move that solicitated quick calls from the school's dean, athletic director and chancellor.

He also found time to play golf with professional Sam Snead at least three times a week.

One of Draper's firsts in a long list of individual achievements occurred in Great Britan on Aug. 16, 1928, when he shot a hole-in-one. His personal accomplishments blossomed after that.

AMONG THE HIGHLIGHTS of Draper's career include the North-South championship at Pinehurst South Carolina when he was 50 years old, and the United States Golf Association (USGA) National Seniors title in 1971, besting 150 other golfers and claiming status as the best senior golfer in the country.

Draper won the Michigan Amateur title in 1949, and in 1956, became the oldest player (42) to take the Michigan Golf Association title. The talented linksman repeated the performance in 1960 and again in 1974—a day before his 60th birthday.

He qualified for match play in the U.S. Amateur a remarkable 15 times; has been on the Golf Association of Michigan Honor Roll 17 times; was runner-up in the 1962 Canadian Amateur; and was a semi-finalist in the 1966 French Amateur.

"He is the type of guy who plays better when the competition is really strong," said Charles Kocsis, who was inducted into the Hall of Fame in 1974 and belongs to the same club as Draper—the Red Run Golf Course in Royal Oak.

"Tom is a good,steady player, not long on drives but long enough to keep up with his competitors. The outstanding part of his game is that he is as good a chipper and putter as anyone on the pro tour today.

"He enjoys the game and shows a lot of enthusiasm," he said. "He can handle almost any situation and is definitely an ambassador for the game."

MICHIGAN'S AMATEUR HALL of Fame, not to be confused with the Michigan Hall of Fame for professional athletes that honors its member with plaques at Detroit's Cobo Hall, was organized in 1973. The purpose is to provide a medium to recognize outstanding amateur athletes in a field of 46 different sports.

It is registered and incorporated on a non-profit basis, with Larry Weiss, one of the original founders, president of the board. The first and second vice-presidents are both Farmington Hills residents, John Walter and Benjamin Bagdade.

Other athletes voted into the Hall of Fame last week included, from hardball, Phillip Frakes and Ronald McMinn; former national champion Nancy Baranet from bicycling; Thomas Dick, a competitive lawn bowler; and Marion Ladewing, an all-star bowler.

West nips East, 32-27

GC WEST—GC EAST

As might have been expected, the non-league wrestling meet Tuesday night between Garden City West and Garden City East was contested with an intensity befitting Tigers and Panthers.

West, by winning seven of the 13 weight classes, came away with a tight 32-27 decision, its third victory in four outings this season.

The outcome was not decided until West's Keith Gramke pinned Bret Shady in the 191-pound weight class, the next-to-last division to be contested.

"We looked real good," said a happy West coach Rick Osier. "The kids stayed right in and gave 100 per cent—nobody gave up."

The key to victory, according to Osier, was the performance of his grapplers in the lighter weight classes.

Inn provides old fashioned hospitality

The warmth and hospitality of America's early inns were probably never more keenly appreciated by the tired traveler than during the long winter months.

From now through May, the historic Dearborn Inn is providing an Americana Panorama Weekerld, combining gracious dining and lodging with the opportunity to relive the nation's past at nearby Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum.

The weekend includes Friday and Saturday lodging in one of the inn's 180 rooms. Guests may choose from the traditional inn rooms or from one of 33 rooms in five replica colonial homes—the homes of Patrick Henry, Walt Whitman, Edgar Allan Poe, Barbara Fritchie and Oliver Wolcott. These are located behind the inn in a village setting.

Before turning in on Friday, however, dinner in the form of a Seafood Fantasy buffet awaits in the Early American room. Or, if prefetred, more traditional fare is available in the Ten Dyck Coffee Shop. Both serve until 1 p.m. The Golden Eagle Lounge offers live piano music and cocktails from 5 p.m.-1 a.m.

A HEARTY breakfast prepares weekend guests for Saturday's plunge into America's history at Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum, located a few hundren yards from the inn. The village and museum form the world's largest indoor-outdoor collection of Americana.

Everything is there: from Model T's, presidential limousines and race cars to priceless antique furniture and decorative arts in the 14-acre museum; from operating crafts shops and Henry Ford's birthplace to horse-drawn carriages and sleighs in the 100-building village.

Saturday evening is open for dining at leisure. Reservations may be made in one of the Dearborn Inn dining rooms. The Golden Eagle Lounge again offers entertainment from 5 p.m.-1 a.m.

Sunday is geared for both the early nd not-so-early risers. Breakfast is served in the Ten Eyck Coffee Shop or guests can linger a bit longer in their colonial bedchambers and savor the famous abundance of the Dearborn Inn Sunday brunch in the Early Americna Room.

The per-person price for the Americana Panorama Weekend includes tips on all meals and taxes. Children under receive the same package for half price.

Income from the Dearborn Inn supports the educational programs of Greenfield Village and Henry Ford museum.

County metroparks open for winter

Winter's snow and ice brings a new playground to the Huron-Clinton Metroparks serving the citizens of the counties of Oakland, Wayne, Livingston, Macomb and Washtenaw in southeastern Michigan.

For snow and ice conditions contact the Metropark of your choice. Here is a summary of facilities:

Metro Beach Metropark on Lake St. Clair near Mt. Clemens—The boat basins, canals, black Creek and Lake St. Clair are good sites for ice fishing, plus cross-country skiing, ice skating or hockey. Food service is available on the weekends. Park hours are 8 a.m.-10 p.m. Phone 963-3022 (Detroit line) or 463-4581 (Mt. Clemens).

Kensington Metropark near Brighton/Milford—Is one of southeastern Michigan's most popular winter playgrounds, featuring rinks for general skating and hockey, ice fishing on Kent Lake, several hills for sledding and tobogganing, specially developed runs for tobogganing, a winter sports shelter at the hill site, many trails for cross-country skiing and food service and a warming area at the ice skating rinks.

Cross-country ski rental service is available daily. Park hours are 6 a.m.-10 p.m. Phone 685-1561 (Milford).

LOWER HURON metropark near Belleville—Features cross-country skiing, sledding and tobogganing on moderate slopes and ice skating on three ponds which provide rinks for hockey or general skating. Park hours are daylight to 10 p.m. Phone 697-9181 (c/o Lower Huron Metropark, Belleville).

Hudson Mills Metropark northwest of Ann Arbor near Dexter—Cross-country skiing is the primary winter attraction, with some very moderate slopes for sledding. Park hours are 8 a.m. to dusk. Phone 426-8211 (Dexter).

For a map of the Huron-Clinton Metroparks, send your name, address and 13 cents in postage to Metropark Map, Dept. W, Huron-Clinton Metroparks, 3050 Penobscot Building, Detroit 48226.

SC concert scheduled

The Schoolcraft College spring quartet and wind ensemble will present a combined winter concert at 8 p.m. Dec. 16 in the Waterman Campus Center. The public is invited to the free concert.

Becki Fairman will direct the program consisting of two movements from Dvoak's Quartet Opus 6 and Kanon Und Gigue by Pachelbel to be performed by the string quartet.

The wind ensemble's portion of the program is a set of variations on the song "America," by contemporary composer Charles Ives, "Second Suite," by Gustav Holst, "Meditation," from "Thais," featuring the flute section and harp, and selections from the musical "Oliver!"

Wassail at museum

For nearly 1,800 people, the holidays begin with an evening in the Court of Elizabeth I, at the Detroit Institute of Arts Wassail feast.

Now a Detroit tradition, wassail is in its fifth year and is being celebrated through Saturday in the museum's Romnesque Gallery and the candle-lit, ribbon- and wreath-festooned Great Hall.

While this year's Wassail feast has been completely sold out since mid-April, reservations are now being placed for Wassail '77 at $35 and $40 per person, with close to 25 per cent already sold. The dates for Wassail '77 are Dec. 13-17. For further information, call the Art Institute at 832-2730.

Last year, the museum's Wassail Feast received a Michigan State Senate Resolution for its contribution to the good will and vitality of the City of Detroit.

Wassail's traditional menu includes mutton-barley soup, prime rib and Yorkshire pudding, roasted chicken, pork and leek pie, flaming figgy pudding and an updated version of the ancient Wassail Cup.

Punctuating the dining are performances of a renaissance orchestra, madrigal singers, festival dancers, an illusionist, acrobats, a seer, court jester, strolling minstrel and the Master of the Revels presiding over the festivities.

Irish heritage and Tinkers Dam

With his black hair and beard and pale blue eyes, Marty Burke of Beverly Hills looks every bit the Irishman he claims he is. Burke, leader of the folk group Tinkers Dam, says his Irish heritage goes back 1,000 years.

The Tinkers Dam started out as a traditional Irish group.

Most of the year, the group tours the country, but right now Burke is back home with his wife Pat and their two sons, Kevin, 8, and Sean, 3, for the holidays.

Another member of Tinkers Dam, Dan Taggart, also is an area resident, who lives in Birmingham. Roger Redmond of Westland and David Heffner of Philadelphia complete the musical foursome.

Burke puffed on a cigarette, sipped from a mug of coffee during the interview around the kitchen table at home, where he was relaxing in a household he included a half dozen kids playing downstairs.

CANDID, he said several times that there were comments he was making that wouldn't look too good in the paper, but then he went right ahead and said them.

For example, he declared, "Detroit is a terribly provincial city. It's hard to get someone to give you a chance to show what you can do with an audience. We have to make a living elsewhere."

According to Burke, "We've always gone over very well, every single place we've played. A lot of place we set records that are still unbroken, like in Pittsburgh, where we got our first Variety write-up."

Tinkers Dam played a guest set this summer at the Wagon Wheel Saloon in Troy and returned for its first engagement there two days at Thanksgiving.

Burke was pleased about appearing around home, in part because it enables him to be with his family at the holiday season. Tinkers Dam isn't traveling over Christmas and New Year's either.

"MUSICIANS IN Detroit are playing for peanuts," he said, explaining one reason why the group performs mostly in other cities throughout the country.

He added that a strictly local group can afford to work for less, but because of their travels his group has high overhead. On the road, Burke lives in a motor home, occasionally a hotel room.

"It's like supporting two households," he said.

Sometimes wife Pat comes along with the children, in the summer. She's stuck watching the kids, he said, when they can't get a babysitter, and he's out performing.

Being on the road can definitely lose its charm. "I'm getting sick of it," he admitted. "Sometimes you wake up and don't know what city you're in."

Burke said that in Detroit the only people who seem to be using the acoustic instruments—as opposed to the electric—are in the smaller rooms that can't afford his group.

"In the last year or so we've performed more in Pennsylvania and New England than anyplace else. We're moving south gradually, to Florida and Texas."

ORIGINALLY from Grosse Pointe, Marty Burke went to Austin Prep School, the University of Michigan and Wayne State University graduate school, majoring in psychology.

The interest in psychology stemmed from his background in the theater. Burke said he has been acting since he was eight years old and performed with the Grosse Pointe Children's Theatre and later with the Players in Detroit.

"It's an addiction," he said of his acting, and although he doesn't have time to appear with any theatrical groups now ("My favorite is doing Shakespeare."), he incorporates dramatics on stage when he gets a chance.

"In bars, there's a lot of noise," he said. Burke likes to tell stories to his audiences, which range from lounges to hotels and concerts.

He tells Irish stories and stories from the coast of Maine, where people are like the Irish, with dry humor. He also likes languages and gets into accents.

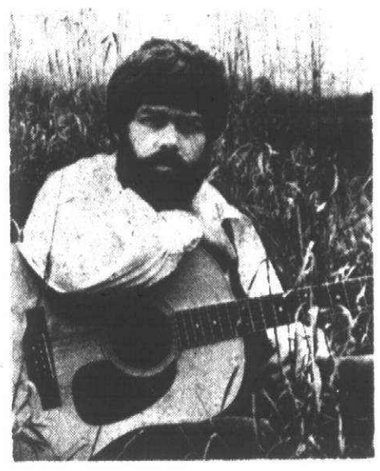
Burke said he started out singing, before college, and swore he'd be a single act but wound up organizing the Tinkers Dam playing the Tipperary, an Irish pub in northwest Detroit.

Roger Redmond is a member of the original group formed in 1971. Dan Taggert joined Tinkers Dam last February, and David Heffner has been with them for the last two months.

"OUR SOUND is basically a New England group," Burke said. They've been compared to the Kingston Trio and the Irish Rovers, "although we don't sound like either one."

The Tinkers Dam does more harmonies and is heavy on vocals. All four have good voices, he said. Besides bass, banjo and guitar, instruments are likely to include almost anything else, say an Irish whistle or a recorder.

Burke said two of the finest music stores anywhere, great on folk, are Strings N Things in Birmingham and Pick & Strum in Southfield. All the group's instruments have come from there except for a banjo from the Rochester Folk Workshop.



MARTY BURKE

The Tinkers Dam has a repertoire of thousands of songs from all over the world. They've got the sound they want, but their material is always changing, and they're doing more original things.

"We try to put on a good show. We do an awful lot of comedy," he added.

Tinkers Dam has recorded two albums for Kevin Records, Burke's own company, and has two more albums awaiting release on the International Folklore label. Burke said he would be happy with one hit single.

Make a Christmas present of Christmas past.

Make the joy and beauty of yesterday's Yuletides at Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum one of your family's gifts this year. Now through January 2.

Crafts at Christmas
Watch craftsmen fashion authentic items along the Museum's Street of Shops, in the Village Crafts Center and elsewhere. Take home some tasty Christmas cookies, too. Remember, you don't go on that diet till after the Holidays.

"Babes in Toyland"
On the Museum Theater stage, the Greenfield Village Players present Victor Herbert's enchanting, fantastical operetta for kids of all ages.

Decorated Homes
Candles, holly, ornaments—all festoon many Village homes and shops just as they would have on bygone Christmases.

Old-Time Carriage, Sleigh and Train Rides
Yours to enjoy, depending on weather.

Joyous Yuletide Music
Carolers and choirs around Village and Museum capture the holiday spirit in song. And don't miss the concerts played on antique instruments from the Museum's collections.

Free Hot Spiced Cider and Cookies
Served 10-4 in the Town Hall on the Village Green.

Unique Gifts for Christmas
Hand-crafted pieces, souvenirs and Museum reproductions are available in the Museum and at Village shops.

Holiday Hours
Village—9-5 daily
Museum—9-5 weekdays, 9-6 weekends. Special Evening Hours (Museum Only) till 8:30 p.m., Dec. 26-31
Closed Christmas and New Year's Days. Tickets available at the doors or AAA offices throughout Michigan.

Pasticke group in DIA recital

The Pastiche Wind Quintet will be presented in a recital by the Kolego Concert Series in Detroit Institute of Arts Recital Hall at 3 p.m. Sunday.

Pastiche, which means a mixture or hodgepodge, refers to the wide variety of music the quintet performs, which includes everthing from pre-Baroque to Modern. The program will include "The Chimney of King Rene," by Darius Milhaud, "Pastorale," by Stravinsky, and "Quintet," by Carl Nielsen.

The group performs in many different settings, and is best known for its appearances in metropolitan-area restaurants including the Benchmark in the Michigan Inn and Pardigm in Birmingham. Pastiche also will perform in the Brunch with Bach series at the DIA.

The recital is the second of the 1976-77 Kolego Concert Series. The Series is supported in part by the Michigan council for the Arts, and was established to provide a stage for local musicians who would otherwise have very little chance to perform in a recital situation. Tickets for the Pastiche Wind Quintet concert are $5 general admission and $2.50 for students, and are available at the Detroit Institute of Arts, Orchestra Hall, all J.L. Hudson stores, or by calling 832-2730.

The next concert in the Kolego Concert Series will be a solo recital by flutist Susan Ivers Barna at 3 p.m. Jan. 23 in the DIA Recital Hall.

Top of the Flame open New Year's

Stouffer's Top of the Flame at One Woodward in downtown Detroit will be open for dinner from 5 p.m.-12:30 a.m. New Year's Eve. The menu price range is $6.50 to $13.95.

The Henry Van Steeden Duo will entertain from 8 p.m.-1 a.m. Cocktails will be served until 2 a.m., and there will be dancing, hats and noisemakers.

The Pastiche Wind Quintet (from left), Susan Barna, Joel Warren, Elizabeth Watson, Gary Caperton, and Kathy Ceasar, will be performing at the Detroit Institute of Arts at 3 p.m. Sunday in the second concert of the Kolego Concert Series.

Film lectures scheduled

A series of five film lectures by James L. Limbacher will begin at 7 p.m. Jan. 7 in Henry Ford Centennial Library Auditorium in Dearborn.

Limbacher, a nationally-known film expert, will show clips from famous films and comment on various phases of filmmaking, including special effects, editing, film music, cinematography, art design, and film comedy. A question-and-answer period will follow each lecture.

Film excerpts tentatively scheduled include scenes from "Citizen Kane," "Elephant Boy," "Farrebique," "Foreign Correspondent," "The Body Snatchers," "Hollywood Revue of 1929," "Nanook of the North," "One Million B.C.," "The Blob," "Stagecoach," "Treausre of the Sierra Madre" and "Mr. Hulot's Holiday."

For further information, call the Audio-Visual Division of the library at 271-1000, ext. 26 or 53. High school and college film classes are asked to call in advance. The free series will continue the first Friday evening of each month through May.

Cynically engrossing

NETWORK

The Movies

LOUISE SNIDER

Future shock is here! "Network," Paddy Chayefsky's scathing expose of the boob tube, is so cynically engrossing, so malevolently funny, you laugh your way through it, and then walk out in a state of shock—like someone who just witnessed his own lobotomy.

It's the story of a fictional (one hopes) network, UBS, that literally stops at nothing to increase its share of the viewing audience and, thereby, its advertising revenue.

Think of the most far out, bizarre show you could put on television, and you're thinking like a UBS executive. For example, "The Mao Tse-tung Hour" features a different act of terrorism each week. A real terrorist gang under contract to UBS films its own activities and delivers the footage to an intermediary. Between jobs the revolutionaries argue about distribution rights and ratings like everyone else.

And wait until you see the evening news. No prissy, dulcet-toned newscasters articulating at you. UBS has Peter Finch as a messianic, hellfire and brimstone newsman-preacher. This anchorman doesn't bring you the news, he reveals The Word. He doesn't need wire services; he has a direct hook-up with the energy of the universe.

With whom can he chat? Barb Walters? Hardly. His colleagues on the news are an equally engrossing assemblage of freaks. There's Sybil the Soothsayer and Mata Hari with her closet full of skeletons.

If only all the heavies were with the network, one could smile smugly. But the network folks explain that they're just doing their jobs—entertaining us, giving us what we want. H. L. Mencken once said that you can't underestimate the vulgarity of the American public. Television must be the proof.

The movie depicts the TV audience as an insatiable monster that devours every piece of garbage thrown at it and demands more. More coarseness, more vulgarity, more brutishness, more stimulation of its dulled senses.

Aren't there any good guys left?, you ask. Yes, one. William Holden is the head of the news division at UBS, a dissident who's still concerned about standards, ethics and people. He represents an endangered species, the liberal voice, that will soon be extinct.

Robert Duvall gives a solid performance as the corporation heavy who axes Holden. The ex-newsman then drifts about until he finds solace in an unlikely place. He leaves his wife of 20-some years to try to meet the sexual performance standards of the ambitious femme who screwed him out of his job.

That's Faye Dunaway, perfect as the icy, success-driven head of programming who takes over the news division and turns it into a cross between something by Billy Graham and Sonny and Cher. What does she see in Holden with his lined face, soft voice and mushy sentimentiments? Just that. He's her last link with a feeling, thinking person in a world where humans are rapidly becoming humanoids.

You can recognize humanoids by their language. They talk in jargon, cliches and obscenities because that substitutes for real thought. The language in "Network" is right out of the gutter—of the sales meeting. A camel would blush. You may be offended. You won't be bored.

Many will criticize this movie as exploiting that which it is condemning, mass media generally and television specifically. But "Network" is right on target, even if it's a psychedelic target. Throughout this film, moviegoers will experience the dubious thrill of recognition, recognition of ourselves, our attitudes and our concerns.

The kinds of things going on in the movie presume the events we hear and read about now: The tug-of-war between networks and affiliates over-extending network news to one hour and changing the format; the ominous threat of control and censorship in a new third-world news agency; contracts for publication and movie rights to the serio-comic charade occuring in Utah.

"Network" is so prescient, it's frightening. The only flab is some dopey dialogue springing from Holden's romantic triangle. But this is a minor flaw in an otherwise brilliant, diamond-bright movie. "Network" cuts straight to the heart of society and implants a disco pacemaker.

Filmmaker honored for runaway film

Detroit filmmaker Bill Pace has received top honors in two major filmmaking competitions. The bronze medal at the 19th International Film and TV Festival of New York and the silver medallion at the Festival of the Americas in the U.S. Virgin Islands have been awarded to "Walkin's Too Slow," a film about young runaways.

The film, produced and directed by Bill Pace, was selected for one of the top three awards, from a field of more than 100 documentaries entered, in the Virgin Islands festival.

"WTS" features six runaways who reveal their personal experiences in crisis centers, juvenile court, youth homes and on the streets of America.

The television premiere of the film will be at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 28 on WXYZ-TV Channel 7 and will be shown again at 8 p.m. Jan. 6 on Channel 56.

GLIMPSES

NEW RELEASES

BUGSY MALONE (G). Gangster-musical starring all-kid cast. They sing, they dance, they act like toughs and showgirls, and their average age is 12. A novel idea some people find amusing.

CAR WASH (PG). A day in the life of a car wash with a spirited cast, a disco beat and anal jokes. The large ensemble includes Richard Pryor, the Pointer Sisters and George Carlin.

CARRIE. Sissy Spacek plays Carrie, a teenage girl with the power of telekinesis—the ability to move objects by psychic power. She exacts a terrifying revenge on those who offend her.

COUSIN, COUSINE (R). A delightful romantic comedy enacted by a relatively unknown but sparkling cast. The mature lovers conduct their romance against a lively background of family action.

FROM NOON TILL THREE (PG). A different kind of role for Charles Bronson as a not-too-bright but not-too-dumb outlaw who'd rather cozy up with a widow than get shot up with his gang. Jill Ireland is the widow. Some funny twists in this tongue-in-cheek western.

MARATHON MAN (R). A spy thriller which overwhelms a terrific cast with a surfeit of blood and violence. Laurence Olivier, Dustin Hoffman, William Devane and Roy Scheider give it their best.

THE NEXT MAN (R). A suspense thriller of political intrigue with Sean Connery as an Arab diplomat and Cornelia Sharpe as a jetsetter. Assassins are after Connery and he's after Cornelia.

SMALL CHANGE (PG). French director Francois Truffaut celebrates childhood in this uncommonly good movie about children and the special quality of their lives. "Small Change" makes sense.

THE SONG REMAINS THE SAME (PG). Film of the 1973 Led Zeppelin Madison Square Garden concert in stereophonic sound. Includes scenes of band members' antics, fantasies and personal lives.

STAY HUNGRY (R). Jeff Bridges, trying to get his head together, meets others just trying to get ahead in the world of body building and real estate deals. Disjointed but interesting movie.

TWO-MINUTE WARNING (R). All the action isn't at the line of scrimmage when a mad sniper starts picking off the crowd at a packed football stadium. Charlton Heston, natch, takes command.

606 Legal Notices

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

Notice is hereby given that a Public Hearing will be held by the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority, Wednesday, December 29, 1976, at 7:30 p.m. at the City Offices, 6000 Middlebelt Road, Garden City, Michigan, for the purpose of considering a project for which financial assistance is being sought from the Urban Mass Transportation Administration, pursuant to the Mass Transportation Act of 1964, as Amended, generally described as follows:

A. Description of Project:

(1) Project consists of purchase of property in Garden City Michigan comprising approximately 8.5 acres of land and the construction of approximately 80,000 square feet bus storage and light maintenance garage facility.

(2) The storage and maintenance facility will be located at the southeast corner of Block and Hubbard streets in Garden City, Michigan and used by the SEMTA, Metro Division for their daily operation.

(3) The estimated net project cost is $4,000,000 of which the Federal share shall be four fifths and the local share one fifth. The local share shall come from the Michigan Transportation Fund.

B. Relocation: One residence and one business will be displaced by this project.

C. Environment: The environmental impact of the facility will be minimal, especially since its location will be in an established light industrial district.

D. Comprehensive Planning: This project is in conformance with comprehensive land use and transportation planning in this area.

E. Elderly and Handicapped: The construction of a storage and maintenance facility will have no special benefit for elderly and handicapped. It will, however, be of benefit to the general public in terms of cleaner and more reliable buses.

At the hearings, SEMTA will afford an opportunity for interested persons or agencies to be heard with respect to the social, economic and environmental aspects of the project. Interested persons may submit orally or in writing evidence and recommendations with respect to said project. A copy of the application for a Federal grant for the proposed project, together with a fixed facilities analysis, SEMTA's Maintenance Facility Plan and the Transit Development Plan for the area are currently available for public inspection at SEMTA business offices.

WHY PEOPLE WHO OWN A BMW ENJOY DRIVING MORE THAN YOU DO.

If there is one thing all BMW owners have in common, it is the unabashed enthusiasm each has for his car. An enthusiasm that, contrary to expectations, does not diminish as the years and miles roll by. What causes this rare relationship between man and machine is the caliber of the machine. Rather than a mere collection of gears, axles and random parts, a BMW is a finely tuned, evolutionary car. One so singularly enjoyable to drive that, in Germany, a land of legendary driving machines, BMW sells more high-performance cars than any other manufacturer. A surprising fact? Only to those who have never driven a BMW. If you are tired of owning conventional, boring transportation, call us and we'll arrange a thorough test drive of a BMW.

322 Condominiums For Sale

Woodview Moved Them.

A community called Woodview is changing most of the ideas people have had about condominiums.

People think condominiums are cramped and small. At Woodview they're spacious and well planned.

People think most condominium developments are unsightly. But Woodview is built around reflecting pools, large trees and shrubs.

And Woodview is exciting.

Amenities include a swimming pool, a tennis court and a huge clubhouse. (Tennis court complete by Dec. 1976)

For these reasons, Woodview has already attracted a unique group of residents. Like Mr. & Mrs. Chalfonte, who previously lived in a single family home. Woodview moved them.

See for yourself.

1&2 bedroom condominiums from $23,990
