Cops out campaigning—for police mills

By CRAIG PIECHURA

Many people don't know that the Aug. 27 special election in Canton involves more than just a recall question. And the Canton Police Officers Association (CPOA) is out to change that notion.

Officers Kathy Petres and Dan Antieau visited a number of local businesses Friday morning and afternoon trying to drum up support for the two-mill maximum police protection assessment district which includes all of Canton Township. They were dressed in civilian clothes and said they were "not too proud" to accept donations.

Canton board members decided to include the police millage on the recall ballot after hearing residents complain of slow response time in police runs by the Wayne County Sheriff deputies and Michigan State Police troopers.

Canton has been operating a part-time, half-reserve, half-certified police force since last August.

Police officers work an average of about one night per week at the present time, according to Ptl. Petres.

"If we go full-time, seven-days-a-week, we'll know what happened the night before and we'll be on top of things a little better," said Officer Petres. "As it is now, we work once a week, if that, and everything's new to you each week. There's no continuity."

MRS. PETRES and Antieau say they're campaigning for the police millage assessment because they believe Canton has grown too big to be adequately patrolled by the county-dispatched deputies or the Northville-based state police.

But there's another reason Petres and Antieau are out stumping to expand the police department—they could use full-time jobs. While most of the Canton officers also hold down day jobs, Antieau, Petres and a few other officers such as Ken Winkler have no other place of employment.

Not surprisingly, the CPOA organization recently voted to actively support the millage proposal. The CPOA bylaws permit union organizing, but there has been no move to seek collective bargaining for the officers.

At present, officers who have completed reserve officer training school receive minimum wage—$2.30 an hour. Patrol officers who have completed the fully-accredited police certification school are paid $3.83 an hour. Uncertified sergeants are paid $4 an hour and certified officers receive $4.25 an hour, which is also the wage Police Commander Carl Silvers receives.

A POLICE CHIEF is expected to be hired by the Canton Township Board within a month. Six people are still in the running for the job.The Michigan Municipal League—which tested the applicants—is expected to submit test results and recommendations to Canton officials this week.

Antieau and Petres say that some of the dissension in the ranks concerning lines of authority will be eliminated when the police chief takes over. But both were quick to give credit to Commander Silvers.

"Silvers is doing the best he can with what he's got," Antieau said. "Money-wise, personnel-wise and equipment-wise, he's doing the job."

The two officers said they don't plan to use scare tactics to promote the police millage.

"We're not going to tell them how unsafe Canton is or anything like that," Antieau said. "People are aware of the problem with the response time on police runs—and that's no slam against the sheriff's deputies. The county sheriff can only do so much and be in so many places. If we have a full-time department, they'll know we're not far away when they need us."

The fledgling police organization plans to spend money to buy bumper stickers, posters, informational flyers and newspaper ads to promote the millage.

The bumper stickers will read: "Support Police Protection, Vote Yes Aug. 27," Antieau said.

Acknowledging that some officers actively campaigned for candidates during the November general election, Petres emphasized that the CPOA will take no political stand regarding the recall issue.

"We're non-political, non-political," she said. "Underline that.

"Our support of the millage has nothing to do with this recall crap."

Strict sign, berm law is re-affirmed by panel

Canton's strict ordinance which requires landscaped berms to hide business parking lots and prohibits large, garish business signs should be simplified, according to a citizen's committee, but its intent should be retained.

The four-member Sign and Berm Committee—consisting of Marcus Mack Jr., Michael Malone, Mary Perna and Elizabeth Vance—said they tried to make sure that their recommendations were not "influenced by any pressure from various factions (such as) residential, commercial or political."

Originally given the charge to draw up a new sign and berm ordinance, study group members said they found themselves without the legal knowledge to accomplish the task. Instead, the citizen's committee urged that Canton Township hire a design firm to develop "a carefully structured document easily read and interpreted by legal (persons) and laymen."

"Basically, we recommended exactly what the existing ordinance seeks to do," said Malone, a member of the committee. "Myself, I don't want to see a lot of signs cluttering up Ford Road like they've got in Westland along Ford and Wayne Road.

"We don't want to see a lot of signs built but it's almost as important to us to see the present ordinance rewritten. A layman couldn't read it, it's a book. And its full of legal gobbledygook. That's why we recommended that professionals review and rewrite the ordinance that's on the books now."

MANY BUSINESSMEN complain that berms are nothing more than ugly mounds and that sign restrictions hurt business identification.

"Low-profile" ground and business signs should be permitted in commercial areas, according to the report. And the existing berm requirement should be dropped "in favor of a landscape ordinance.

"Berms may be included in landscaping if it is incorporated into the entire area concept. However, well-maintained bushes, trees, and grassy areas would be a more attractive buffer between streets and parking lots."

Until a new sign and berm ordinance is adopted, the committee urges "strong enforcement of the existing ordinance."

"Restrictive" requirements pertaining to billboards should be written into a new ordinance, says the report, to discourage their placement in Canton.

Although no specifications are outlined by the study group, the report states that "limits should be placed on height and size of signs as well as on distances between them."

Signs should be judged on the basis of the entire picture, "the aesthetic plan for that area," says the report. "Special consideration should be given to large business centers which front on two major streets. In this instance an additional ground sign should be permitted."

Malone said that committee members thought that perhaps a business strip along Michigan Avenue might be allowed to have a sign "that couldn't be built, say, on Ford Road.

"But we didn't have the professional skills to write that in a recommendation that would stand up in court."

6 killed Saturday after leaving bar

By EMORY DANIELS and PATRICK TOUHEY

Six high school students—five from Plymouth—were killed early Saturday morning when the car they were riding in skidded out of control on a Dexter Township gravel road and slammed into a tree. A seventh youth is listed in "fair" condition at University Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputies say the youths—all but two under 18 years of age—had stamp marks on the backs of their hands which would indicate they had been patrons of the near-by Anchor Inn bar.

Dead are: Doug McGregor, Brad Wilson, Bill Cook, Brian Stout, all seniors at Plymouth Salem High School; Steve Radgens, who graduated from Salem last year; and Erik Corey, a resident of Arkansas, formerly of Plymouth.

Don Gulau, also a Plymouth Salem senior, was the sole survivor of the area's largest multiple-fatality accident.

Police reports say the youths were traveling southbound on Dexter-Pinckney Road at at high rate of speed when the driver lost control of the car on a curve at the intersection of Wiley Road and careened into a tree at about 1:30 a.m. Police refused to which of the occupants was the driver.

The six youths were pronounced dead on the scene. Gulau was taken to University Hospital where he underwent emergency surgery.

Although most of the next-of-kin were notifed within hours of the accident, Radgen's parents were out of town and could not be located immediately.

FUNERAL SERVICES WILL were scheduled for Wilson, 16, today at 2 p.m. in St. John Episcopal Church in Plymouth. He will lay in state from 1-2 p.m.

A memorial service for Corey, 17, was scheduled at 10:30 a.m. today at First United Methodist Church of Plymouth. He will be buried in Fort Smith, Ark.

Funeral services for McGregor, 17, were scheduled at 9 a.m. today at Schrader Funeral Home in Plymouth.

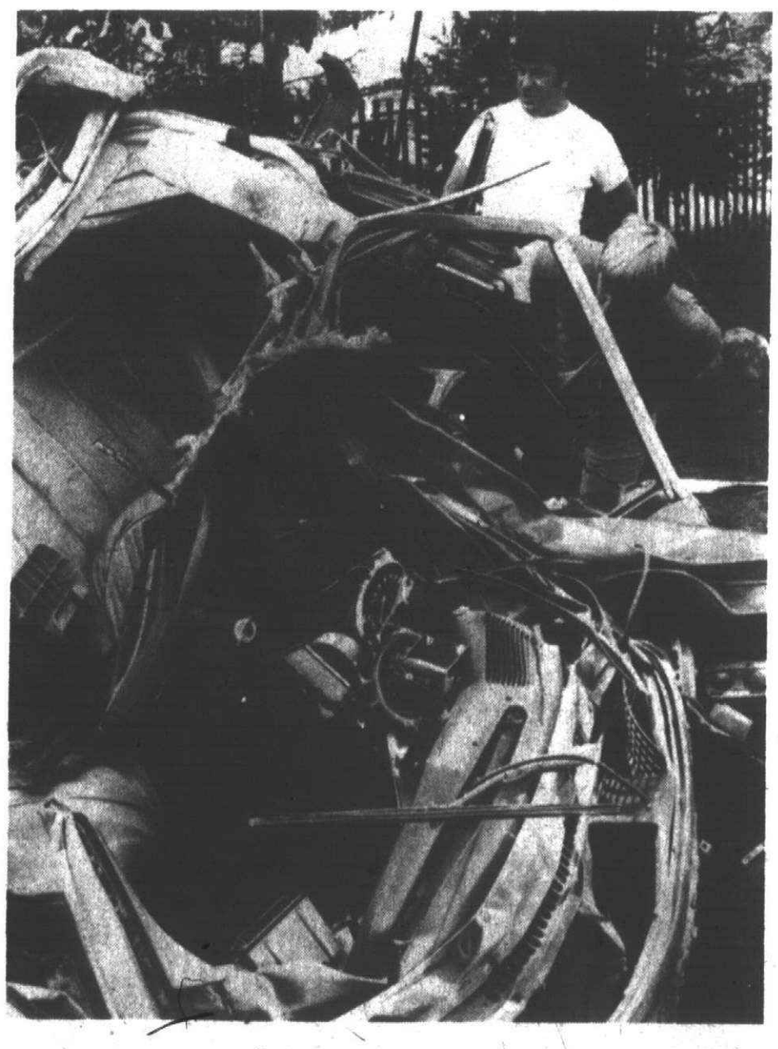

Services for Cook, 17, will be held at 10 a.m. tomorrow at Schrader's.

Services for Stout, 17, will be held at 1 p.m. tomorrow at Schrader's.

Funeral arrangements for Radgens, 19, had not been finalized at press time.

Evans takes busman's holiday

By PATRICK TOUHEY

What does a Welsh newspaperman do on his vacation to the United States? He checks out the newspapers, of course.

John Evans, who is a news editor on the Western Telegraph in southern Wales, is on brief "holiday" in this part of Michigan. He is staying with the Oliver Wagner family in Plymouth Township.

Holly Wagner stayed with his aunt last year when she was on tour in Europe with the Musical Youth International, a singing group comprised of youngsters from all over the country.

Now the family has a chance to return the hospitality.

John flew into Toronto last Saturday and then took a flight to Metropolitan Airport. Since he's been in this country a number of things besides the newspapers have caught his attention.

"This area reminds me very much of home," he said. "It's very neat and tidy. Really much cleaner than I had anticipated. You sort of expect to see litter lying about and all,"

Wednesday he was taken on the obligatory tour of the Henry Ford Museum in Greenfield Village. One of the "exhibits" gave him quite a surprise.

"There was an old steam locomotive built in 1916 on display. My dad is running one just like it back home in Wales and it runs just fine. I'm sure he'd be surprised to see that it's a museum piece over here."

John also has had the opportunity to taste some culinary delights for the first time. One night the Wagner family served him some corn on the cob. "Of course we have it at home, but not on the cob like that. It's so fresh and sweet. Quite good."

As a visiting newsman, John was interested in the volume and style of news in America. He confessed that he didn't understand the length of the evening television newscasts. "They are awfully long, aren't they? And there is quite a bit of repetition." He felt that the style of presentation was more informal than in Great Britan.

"Our fellows usually are formal and distant. They give the news in the Queen's English. It's a little more entertaining here."

He did think, however, that reporters in the United States had the advantage over their counterparts in Europe with their freedom to investigate.

"Our laws are very strict. We can't cover crime stories as well as the American press. Our access to government is also limited. Let's just say we couldn't have uncovered a Watergate."

After a few more days, John will head back across the border into Canada to visit relatives. Before he leaves the States, though he wants to see downtown Detroit and particularly the Renaissance Center.

"I saw a couple of advertisements on TV for the City of Detroit. We don't do that kind of thing at home. But I think it's a good idea to encourage people to go into the city.

"In Wales, we tend to sweep the problems cities have under the rug. You're more open about it here."

As for the rest of the country, John said it would just have to wait until his second visit.

While in Plymouth, John stopped in for a visit with the news staff of the Plymouth and Canton Observer editions, and then took a tour of the Observer's printing facilities. "You are a few years ahead of us in technology. It's exciting to see how you do things because it's like a preview of how things will be in Wales in the future."

Afterwards, John visited the Plymouth Press Club in the Box Bar and was made an honorary member. "This is one of the highlights of my visit," he commented when the visit ended, "It's been great to share stories with fellow newsmen. We really have a lot in common, don't we?"

Car runs into haulaway; Padget in intensive care

Craig Padget, 17, of Canton was still listed in critical condition this weekend following a Thursday morning accident on Michigan near Lilley in which Padget's car slammed into a parked haulaway car carrier.

The accident occurred at 8:28 a.m. Thursday as Padget was returning home from his newly-acquired job at the Ford Computer Center in Dearborn on the midnight shift.

Padget's father, Robert, who is chairman of the township planning commission, said Friday "it looks like he's going to make it." The elder Padget explained that although his son is still in the intensive care unit at Wayne County General Hospital "he's doing real well."

The impact of clipping the rear corner of the haulaway broke Padget's collarbone and sent his car spinning into the side of the car carrier. An approaching car in the right lane was struck by Padget's car, according to Michigan State Police Trooper Norm Maxwell, leaving Padget pinned inside. After a few minutes, police and fire officials freed Padget by removing him from the passenger side of the car.

In the hospital, Padget underwent surgery for internal injuries to the abdomen, chest and lung. His father said doctors had to remove half of one lung.

No ribs or limbs were broken in the crash.

Trooper Maxwell said the parked truck "wasn't completely off the roadway" and that the improper parking contributed to the accident.

The driver of the truck, David Martin of Westland, was ticketed by the state police for improper parking. State Police said additional citations may be issed later.

"I talked to the doctors a little while ago and they said he's doing well," said Padget. "They said the injuries inside his chest are unusual in that there were no broken ribs at all. He's a strong, muscular boy and that should help his recovery along."

TODAY REDFORD, TOMORROW, THE OLYMPICS?

Skateboarding is no longer confined to those cautious runs down the driveway and into the street or the ruts along edged sidewalks. It's developing into a sport, and the Wayne County area can boast the state's only skateboarding runs. For the story, see Page 3A.

Air base closing gives increased hope to jail foes

Residents concerned with the proposed location of a state prison in nearby Northville Township are hoping the jail will be located instead in Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

Opponents fighting the jail at the former Wayne County Child Development Center at Five Mile and Northville Road have been urging the state to abandon those plans and locate the prison at the former Kincheloe Air Force Base.

But whether use of the air base for prison purposes will replace the state's proposal for a prison in Northville Township remains to be seen.

MICHIGAN'S TWO U.S. senators last week joined forces to introduce legislation to ease the burdens on communities hard hit by the closure of a military installation, such as Kincheloe.

Condemning the federal assistance now available as "inadequate" Sens. Robert P. Griffin and Donald W. Riegle Jr., proposed the Defense Economic Development and Recover Act. The legislation would require that 10 per cent of the estimated 10-year "savings" gained by a base closure be set aside to aid those communities directly affected.

The money would be earmarked to create new jobs and to improve opportunities for new business and industry. In the case of Kincheloe, some $28 million would be made available over the next 10 years. Kincheloe AFB, near Sault Ste. Marie, is one of five air bases scheduled for closure this year.

With the $28 million in aid proposed, Northville jail opponents point to estimates that it would cost about $24 million to construct prison facilities from ground up. Because Kincheloe already has many of the required facilities, however, a prison could be located there for about $8 million.

STATE REP. ROBERT LAW (R-Livonia) last week released a report on guidelines for the development of Kincheloe as an alternative site for a new state prison.

Law noted that his report included proposals to convert the base into a minimum security detention center as well as additional proposals to develop part of the base as a residential requirement.

"The closing of Kincheloe Air Force Base raises the prospect of a severe economic depression for the eastern Upper Peninsula," says Law. "At the same time, the opportunity exists, with proper planning and management, to turn a potential crisis into an advantage that not only would maintain the economic stability brought to the area by the base, but also improve upon it."

"As in the Kincheloe AFB closing, already underway, and other anticipated closings," notes Riegle, "the government has a clear, moral responsibility to help the people directly affected by its decisions."

"It is far better for the government to help create jobs and to improve the local economy—which will have long-term benefits—than to face indefinitely substantially greater costs in unemployment and welfare payments," says Griffin.

With the closing of Kincheloe, one of every four persons presently working in the tri-county area of Chippewa, Luce and Mackinac will be left unemployed. In Chippewa County, where the base is located, the figures will be one in three. The net result is unemployment will soar to at least 40 per cent. It also will mean the loss of the base payroll of $36 million which represents 23 per cent of the personal income in the area.

SOME OF THE valuable resources of the base, reports Law, include:

- Eleven office buildings ranging from 1,500 to 24,200 square feet.
- Twelve hangars ranging from 6,200 to 39,000 square feet.
- Ten warehouses from 1,900 to 73,400 square feet.
- A runway 12,000 feet long, 300 feet wide.
- A 50-bed hospital.
- A large central heating plant, water system, and sewage treatment plant capable of treating a daily flow in excess of one million gallons.
- Some 995 split level Capehart units of two to four bedrooms, all with basements.
- Almost 200 relocatable housing units with three bedrooms each.
- About 190 military construction program units, which are two storied apartments of two or three bedrooms—all having refrigerators and forced air heat.
- A 125-space trailer park.
- Ten dormitories with a total capacity of 1,126—each with TV gamerooms, washers, dryers, and public telephones.
- Five bachelor quarters with a total capacity of 57.
- Two elementary schools and a range of recreational facilities including gymnasiums and youth centers.

IN SUGGESTING USE of Kincheloe as a prison, Law notes that by the end of this year the state's inmate prison population will swell to more than 14,000—almost double what it was in 1973 and almost 2,500 more than present facilities are equipped to handle.

"We are faced with a need to find a solution to the overcrowded prison problem which is both immediate and economical to the taxpayers of this state."

Kincheloe could be converted to a prison at about one-third the cost of building a new facility, Law notes, because of the above facilities already being present. Land acquisition also wouldn't be a problem.

"The base already has 10 standing barracks, five of which are cinder block and consequently quite suitable for immediate occupancy by inmates. These five barracks could easily accommodate 700 inmates."

Law added that portions of the base are ideally suited to serve as a drug rehabilitation center for inmates.

"A 700-man prison could mean as many as 300 jobs produced directly and indirectly in the area. A larger facility obviously would produce still more. It is true that the net job increased produced by this one facility is relatively small compared to the number of jobs lost by the base closing. It is, nevertheless, a significant and immediate step toward economic recovery of the area."

ANOTHER PROPOSAL made in Law's report is to develop the base residential houses into a retirement community.

The base contains more than 1,300 housing units, 995 of which are permanent.

"These houses could easily serve as a retirement community," notes Law, "as they would be a reasonable distance away from the prison. Additionally, they are located close to a nine-hole golf course.

State's first and only skateboard park offers thrilling adventures

By M.B. DILLON

If you'd like to experience a thrilling ride and prove your prowess at the same time, head down to Michigan's first skateboard park on Beech Daly between Six and Seven Mile in Redford Township.

The only difference you'll discover between skateboarding and a roller coaster ride is that on a skateboard you are free to create your own destiny.

For $2 per hour, you can careen down any of four 128-foot runs which are all engineered for the ultimate in challenge.Each run is composed of bowls, banks and curves of creamy smooth concrete.

Six-feet inclines can propel daring skateboarders to speeds up to 15 miles per hour over 23,000 square feet of runs.

Since its grand opening last month, the skateboard park has received as many as 300 visitors per day. While the majority of them are township residents, skateboard maniacs have arrived from Detroit, Flat Rock, Monroe, Lansing and Flint.

A jeep-load of Ann Arborities arrived recently and was having a great time until one of them suffered a cut chin. The injured skateboarder recruited a friend to take him to the hospital. There he recievd two stitches and quickly rejoined his buddies at the park. Big Bill Kandilian, the man in charge of the park, gave the athlete a free ride as well as a free T-shirt.

"I FIGURED the guy was already a veteran," said Big Bill.

Parents worried their kids will come home looking like skinned tomatoes will be happy to learn the park is supervised by three rangers at peak periods. They control the traffic pattern and flow.

"It's a safety oriented park," says Paul Sinelli, who designed and built the facility along with Big Bill, Thomas Sinelli and James Gravedoni.

"We require that the kids wear helmets, elbow and kneepads. We provide the skateboards, but if a kids wants to use his own, we must first approve its quality," says Sinelli.

Injuries on th runs have been few. "The major injury on a skateboard park is a sprained right wrist. That's really the only way a kid can get hurt," explains Sinelli.

Sinelli and Big Bill feel that skateboarding will develop into a competitive sport and is not just a fanciful fad.

Beginning July 1, tournaments will be conducted on a regular basis at the park. They are open to the public free of charge with trophies awarded to the winners.

Although the owners are not sure exactly how much they have invested up to this point, Sinelli estimates that costs could approach $100,000.

A couple of reckless runs have also cost Sinelli and Big Bill in the pride department.

"I wiped out yesterday and my back feels it today," Big Bill admitted.

"It looks worse than it is. For the first five feet I was shakey, but at the end I was impressed with the ride. The younger you are, the better you are at this. You should see some of these kids. They're terrific."

It's double the fun (above) when you double-up two-on-two and challenge one of the high banked curves at the Redford Skateboard Park. Elmer Clark (below) proves that it's easy to be an acrobat on a skateboard. Dick Lovett (far left) laughs off a spill and says he'll do it again—but maybe next time without bouncing off the concrete so hard.

Plymouth Twp. too cautious on sewer says Stein

Despite the reluctance of the board of trustees, Plymouth Township Supervisor Thomas Notebaert is moving ahead slowly with plans to join the newly-established Huron Valley Sewer Authority.

This week he will go to Washington, D.C. to meet with local legislators and representatives of the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to find out if the authority is eligible for $2 million in grant money.

The Huron Valley Authority is comprised of 18 communities in Wayne County. Their intent is to build and finance a separate sewer treatment facility for the suburbs of Detroit.

The move to break away from the Rouge River Intercept Sewer System was in response to a threat from the City of Detroit to increase the cost of waste water treatment for the suburbs.

At the time the rate increase was announced, local officials immediately labeled it a political move. They claimed the city was going to bleed the suburbs dry to pay for improvements to its own sewer system.

CANTON TOWNSHIP Supervisor Harold Stein has been one of the prime movers in breaking away from the Rouge Intercept, and has had the responsibility for organizing the municipalities into an authority.

The task was completed last week when those communities wishing to participate officially incorporated the proposed authority.

Notebaert was in attendance at the meeting but was unable to pledge Plymouth Township's financial support. The board of trustees had decided just two days prior to the incorporation to hold off joining the authority until more was known about it.

"I'm all for joining," said Notebaert, "but the board members are a little reluctant. They feel there is no hurry."

Foremost among the board's concerns is the current contract for sewage treatment with Wayne County. Several trustees fear that the township will be committed to spending large sums of money for the construction of the new treatment facility and still have to pay for using the Rouge system.

Trustee Maurice Breen, an attorney, has been the most vocal in voicing his objections to joining the Huron Valley Authority until the board can positively determine the current contractual obligations.

HOWEVER, PLYMOUTH Township's attorney, Donald Morgan, told Notebaert that the decision on whether to join the authority was a political rather than legal one. But Notebaert said he did not give an opinion on the possibility of the county holding the township to the present contract.

"We haven't refused to join anyway," Notebaert commented. "I'm sure that once some of the questions get answered, we'll be right in there with the rest of them."

Stein, though, is a bit peeved at Plymouth Township for sitting on the fence. "Sixteen out of the 18 communities have joined the authority. As far as I'm concerned Plymouth Township is dragging its feet.

"The time to get on the bandwagon is now. This wait-and-see attitude they have is going to cost them money. I know Tom Notebaert is all for it. I just think his board should give him some support."

Saccharin ban prompts many queries

The proposed saccharin ban brings questions from W. R. Blake, of Birmingham.

In the Canadian study cited by the FDA, rats were fed doses hundreds of times higher than the saccharin a person could reasonably consume. How can these tests be used to determine hazards to humans?

Many people are asking this very question. The FDA acted when the study showed that rats, and more particularly their offspring, having been fed large amounts of saccharin, developed bladder tumors.

Were the results really that bad?

One hundred rats, 50 males and 50 females, were fed a diet of seven per cent saccarin. Three developed tumors. A more sobering consideration is that 15 per cent of the rats whose mothers were fed high doses of saccharin during pregnancy and which themselves ate saccharin, developed bladder cancer at some time in their lives.

How does the amount of saccharin fed to those rats compare with the normal consumption of humans?

The FDA says that a human would have to drink 800 12-ounce diet sodas a day for a lifetime.

That would seem an impossibility! Why do they test this way?

The test followed a standard methodology which is used by scientists everywhere. Obviously, we cannot run tests on humans for ethical reasons. Small animals, such as rats, are used because it is cheaper and faster to use them than larger animals which take more space, eat more, and live longer. Even then, the cost of testing a single compound varies between $150,000 to $200,000 and takes about three years to complete.

Why do they use such large doses?

By feeding larger amounts of a substance to a short-lived small creature, scientists can approximate the effects of lifetime exposure to small amounts on a long-lived large animal.

But, wouldn't feeding an animal any chemical in such large doses cause cancer?

No. In about 95 per cent of such experiments conducted in the same manner, the compound being tested is found to be non-carcinogenic or non-cancer causing. The improtant thing seems to be finding the cancer—no matter how.

Why?

One of the most important facts about cancer-causing chemicals is that they are never absolutely harmless. There is no minimum dose at which they produce no cancers. If a substance can cause cancer at a high dose, then it likely causes some cancer at lower doses.

Feds fund a tornado siren here

John Barr, chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, has announced a program for partial federal financing of sirens in local communities to warn against natural disasters such as tornados.

Through the board's office of emergency preparedness, Barr said that all cities and townships in the county have been advised that 50 per cent federal funding is available for the purchase and installation of community siren warning systems.

Barr said that Canton Township and the City of Gibraltar have already allocated funds for siren projects under the grant program, and that several other communtiies are planning expenditures for such systems in their budget considerations.

These include the cities of Harper Woods, Flat Rock, Grosse Pointe Woods, Melvindale, Romulus, and Plymouth Township.

According to Barr, much of the county population is beyond the hearing range of community siren alerts, although this is still one of the most effective ways to send many people quickly to shelter.

"A siren means one thing—take cover," said Barr. "It would be ideal to set off in localities in the path of a tornado.

Presently only Detroit, Northville and Lincoln Park have effective siren systems in operation, he said.

"Federal funds for half the cost is a good incentive, and looks like an opportunity too good for most communities to pass up," he said.

A community siren warning system would be ideal to join with Skywarn, another public safety project organized last year by the office of emergency preparedness in conjunction with the National Weather Service, said Barr.

Keep dogs on a leash

The Metroparks policy on pets has been announced by James J. Pompo, deputy director of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, which has ten Metroparks serving the citizens of Wayne, Livingston, Macomb, Oakland and Washtenaw counties.

The policy for nine Metroparks—including Stony Creek, Marshbank, Kensington, Hudson Mills, Dexter-Huron, Delhi, Lower Huron, Willow and Oakwoods—is as follows:

"Dogs and other pets are permitted in these Metroparks only when kept on a leash not over six feet in length and kept under the immediate control of some responsible person.

"They are not permitted in the nature study areas, in buildings or at beach bathing sites, including adjoining landscaped areas."

Metro Beach metropark near Mount Clemens has a complete ban on dogs and other pets, except for leader dogs for the blind, due to the large numbers of people in the limited area.

For additonal information, contact park offices.

Correction

Contrary to an earlier report in the Canton Observer, Trustee Robert Myers voted against selling a 10-acre strip of land to developer Richard Lewiston at the township board's July 5 meeting.

Board members actually voted 4-1 to sell the land, originally purchased as an addition to Griffin Park. Trustees Brian Schwall and Lynne Goldsmith were absent from the meeting.

Lewiston, who agreed to purchase the land for $72,660, plans to use the land as an addition to the proposed Embassy Square Subdivision.

"I just thought it was ludicrous to sell recreational land and build houses on it," Myers said.

Parents getting word today on ESY tracks, calendar

Parents of students slated to be on Extended School Year in 1977-78 have some special information awaiting them in their mailboxes today.

Among other mail will be a letter from Plymouth-Canton Community Schools with information on track assignment and school calendar. Parents are asked to return a card with any corrections as soon as possible.

The complex task of preparing six schools to start on a year-round program this fall is proceeding nearly on the planned time-line.

Some delays have been experienced in getting pupil information to the computer schedulers and back, but the school administration expects everything to be ready in time for the first day of Extended School Year (ESY) classes on Aug. 29.

As soon as the corrections have been received from parents, computer scheduling of bus routes will begin. No cards will be returned for students whose information is correct. Letters with bus schedules will be mailed to ESY families before the first day of school.

PRINCIPALS AND secretaries of the ESY schools have been busy all summer with preparations for the new schedule.

Miller Elementary has been on year-round school for two years already, so Miller pupils are having school as usual this summer. Buildings going on ESY for the first time are Eriksson, Field, Gallimore and Isbister elementaries, and Pioneer Middle School.

Staffing the ESY schools is a major task for the personnel department of the school district and principals. A few teachers have transferred in or out, and new teachers must be hired for the additional students.

Administrative interns have been selected to assist the principal in each school to handle the larger number of children and year-round sessions.

Custodial staff is involved in setting up storage areas needed for ESY. Because each classroom is used by more than one group of students, their books and materials must be stored while they are on vacation.

SAM ULSAKER, administrative assistant for program planning, is coordinating the implementation of the ESY and is optimistic about the progress of preparations.

"We realize that we are affecting the life space of many children, parents, and teachers, and it is our goal to do this with as little disruption as possible. We ask the patience of parents and teachers because this is a major change, involving not only six schools, but the whole school district.

"We have been very pleased with the efforts of our principals, school secretaries, personnel department, data processing department, and central administration. Parents have been very cooperative."

Principals of the ESY schools working this summer include Beverly Marshall, Shirley Spaniel, Larry Miller, Ron South, George Dodson, and Jerry Elston.

RUSTPROOFING.
EITHER YOU HAVE IT OR YOU DON'T

Car makers don't build the rustproof car and no car dealer can deliver the real rustproofing you get with the exclusive Ziebart process.

Don't be misled by some sweeping references to "anti-corrosion methods" used in building some 1977 cars. Real rustproofing must be done after the car is built. And it must cover every critical area inside and under the car. That's the proven Ziebart method. There are no shortcuts. That's why your Ziebart Dealer uses nine different patented spray tools to reach rust-prone areas. That's why he uses a rustproofing sealant that actually penetrates welded seams where rust can start. Your Ziebart Dealer can deliver a rustproofed 1977 car because that's his business—and he knows it. Call him.

The Movies

LOUISE SNIDER

Resnais' 'Providence'

Superbly complex

French director Alain Resnais' new film "Providence" is one of the most visually exciting and intellectually stimulating movies to come along in years.

In his first English-language film, Resnais (director of "Hiroshima, Mon Amour" and "Last Year at Marienbad") again ventures into elusive territory, exploring the slipperiness of fact, the irony of fancy and the trickery of time.

He builds a complex structure in mystifying darkness and exposes it with sudden light that illuminates, but doesn't clarify.

The film is laced with verbal and visual references to politics, psychology, artistic style, philosophy, man's mortality and a host of other subjects. The instrument for exploring these areas is the mind of the creative artist.

JOHN GIELGUD, as Clive Langham, is a dying novelist with a lively imagination and lecherous instincts. He writhes through a long, painful night, bracing himself with wine and ruminating about his life.

Memory and imagination mingle as he works out scenes for his last novel. Enjoying his omnipotence, he casts his family in roles that complicate and disorder their lives.

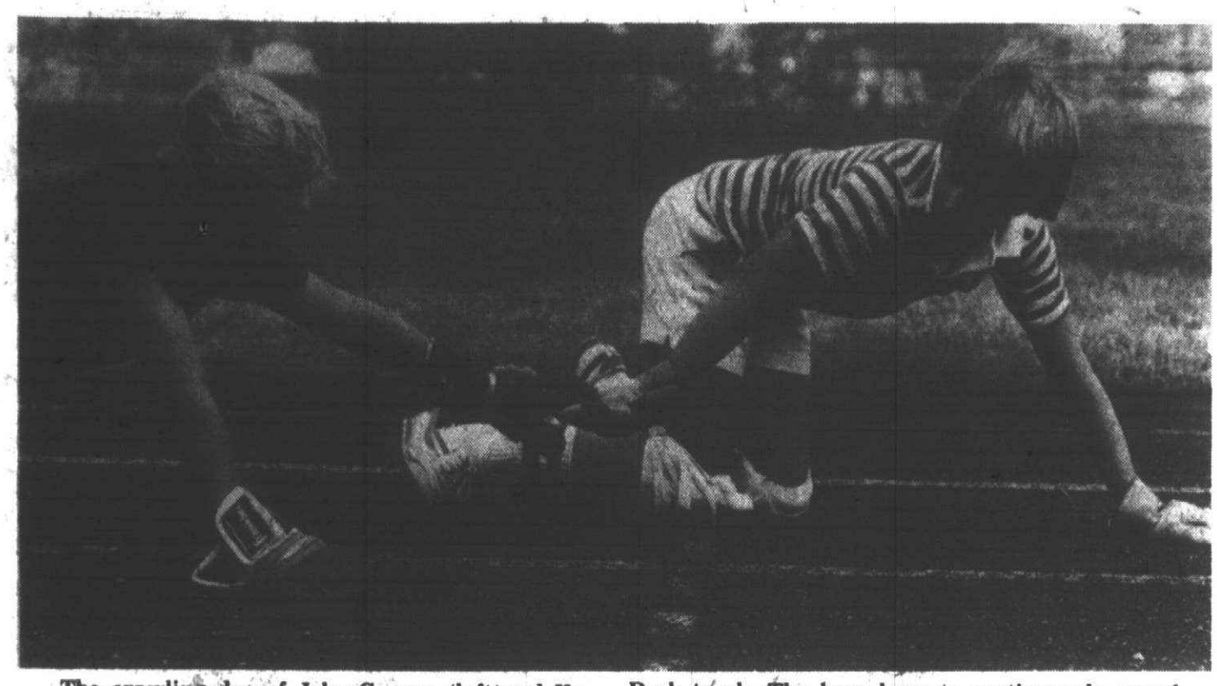

JOHN GIELGUD

His principal personae are his son Claude (Dirk Bogarde), a successful barrister, as rational and self-controlled as his father is sensuous and spontaneous; his daughter-in-law Sonia (Ellen Burstyn), whose good looks and warm personality he feels are wasted on Claude; his illegitimate son Kevin Woodford (David Warner), who he casts as Sonia's lover, and Helen (Elaine Stritch), Claude's mistress.

Ms. Stritch also appears as Molly Langham, Clive's wife who committed suicide when terminally ill.

Underlying his inventive meanderings is his fear of dying and his feelings of guilt for neglecting his family while indulging in his own visceral and egotistical appetites.

"Providence" will premier by the Detroit Film Theatre at the Detroit Institute of Arts Auditorium Friday and Saturday. Show times are 7 and 9:30 p.m.

Crawlers eye record

By DENNIS O'CONNOR

SPORTS

Monday, July 25, 1977 (P,C)7A

Athletes from around the globe constantly strive to break world records in all events.

And that same desire has gripped two Canton youngsters who will try to enter the "Guiness Book of World Records" by crawling for 10 miles or 40 laps around the Centennial Park track this Saturday.

Kevin Krolicki and James Graves, both 12-year-olds, will try to break the old record of 8½ miles set by a two-man relay team from Rochester, N.Y., two years ago.

The boys only have to crawl around the track 35 times to break the mark, but their goal is 40.

"We were just looking through the Guiness Book and started talking about breaking this record," Krolicki said.

"We saw all the records for swallowing gold fish but we thought that was dumb," Graves added. "We thought crawling would be easy since two boys our age have the record but it's not. The tar really gets hot."

The two youngster, who happen to be neighbors and cousins living in the Sunflower Subdivision behind the Park, have been practicing for the record since the beginning of June.

"THE RECORD is set in a relay format," Krolicki said. The Pioneer Middle School students explained that one man crawls once around the track (quarter-mile) and tags his partner when the lap is completed. The partner then crawls for one lap while the first person rests.

"You can rest during a lap as long as one knee remains on the ground," Graves said.

The boys plan on starting this feat at 4 a.m. Saturday to avoid the heat. They predict the crawling will take all day long. The track has already been reserved through the schools so the boys will have a fair chance at breaking the mark.

The boys may also ask for crawl pledges to help raise money for muscular distrophry, although this has not been confirmed.

No matter how far the boys go in their efforts, they definitely will be prepared for everything.

"Originally, we started crawling with no gloves," Krolicki said. "And we started getting blisters on our hands."

Now both boys use massive gardener gloves with foam padding inside to help protect their hands.

For added knee protection, the boys invented special knee pads which include two layers of foam, a sponge, ace bandages and pieces of an innertube inside a regular knee pad.

Covering from a ping-pong paddle also is placed on the outside of the knee pads.

"We even went to a health food store for some high-protein, anti-fatigue food," Krolicki said.

But there will be plenty of hamburgers and Gatorade at their side when the crawling begins.

Sports Medicine Clinic caters to hurt athletes

(First of two parts)
By KEN VOYLES

In every athletic endeavor from little league to high school, from college to pro, the athletes compete under a tremendous strain both mentally and physically. The physical strain is usually more prevalent then the mental and shows itself in many ways.

Injuries are becoming more and more a part of the athletic scene as the competition grows not only in numbers but in zeal and enthusiasm.

The physical strain involved in athletics is a common sight as more and more injuries come to the surface. Even the home athlete who likes to play tennis or jog three or four times a week finds that athletics is very demanding on the body and takes its toll.

The need for centers that deal specifically with athletic injuries has been recognized. Clinics, staffed with trained personnel to handle an injury suffered during competition, are sprouting all over the country.

Not only do the centers treat injuries, but they also provide rehabilitation programs after surgery.

Most major colleges have such physical therapy and sports medicine centers for their athletes. While many centers are outside of the hospital or college atmosphere, the majority are still in those confines.

Michigan, for example, just recently gained a center that is outside of the college or hospital setting.

The center, run by Richard Milder of Livonia, became operational last April and is set up to handle just about any minor or major athletic injury. The center also handles rehabilitation and therapy programs where athletes and non-athletes can come for post-surgical help.

The clinic is the first such Physical Therapy and Sports Medicine Center in the state, according to Milder, and is located in the heart of Livonia.

"I think the need for such a center is tremendous. I think I can offer a service to the community," said Milder, a certified athletic trainer with an impressive Background in his field.

The center is open for any little league, junior high, high school, college and adult athlete who has suffered an injury in or out of the athletic field.

Such things as physical therapy, athletic training therapy, taping and wrapping, special injury pad construction and post-surgical rehabilitation are just a few of the services Milder offers.

Milder first started in the field back when he was in college. His interest evolved through a liking of sports and a desire to learn more about injuries substained during play.

In the years that followed, Milder worked with the St. Louis (football) Cardinals as an assistant athletic trainer—which was short-lived because he was drafted—West Point as an athletic trainer, University of Iowa where he worked as a trainer and received his degree in sports medicine, Purdue University as head athletic trainer and at Florida State University in the same postion.

"The idea (for the center) came when I was still in college and has developed into a long dream," Milder said.

Milder moved to Michigan when he got the chance to become the head athletic trainer for the Detroit Wheels, a job that didn't last long when the team folded. That opportunity, though, provided Milder the chance to put his idea into operation and he did just that.

"I thought the Wheels offered me a greater opportunity to start the center because I could work for them part time and on my own the rest of the year," said Milder. "But it was short-lived and I went to work at St. Mary's Hospital."

Last April, the dream became reality when Milder opened up the center.

The center has been set-up to provide as good facilities as any school or hospital could. All of the most advance equipment is at Milder's disposal and he knows how to use them.

The center contains everything from whirlpools—standard fare at any high school—to electronic heat equipment. Exercise and traction equipment are also standard fare at the center.

"The emphasis at the center is exercise. Each person, whether an athlete or not, should do exercise after an athletic-related injury" Milder said, "and we emphasize just that."

As for the cost for patients, Milder said that most insurance companies pay for rehabilitation and therapy programs and so the cost would be small. "Less than a doctors cost anyway," he said.

To come under Milder's guidance, a patient must first go to his family

Canton men's golf results

After eight weeks of competition in the Canton Township Men's Golf League, Paul Oberhelman and John Tetsworth remain in first place.

Tetsworth and Oberhelman saw their lead slightly diminish, however, as the second place team of Robert White and Mike Ryan took four out of five points from the leaders in last week's action.

Mike Roemer, substituting for Oberhelman, recorded the lone point for the first place team.

Pat Carrigan and Mike Mattingly took all five points from Fritz Gerth and Dennis Stubben to move into third place. Dave Lyndrup substituted for Carrigan.

The best round of the week was shot by Tony Valenti, who scored a 37. But Valenti and his partner Dick Kraft slipped to fourth place when they took only 1½ points from Rod Grahn and Jack Blumenshine.

Osebold event needs netters

A different kind of tennis tournament is being organized for men singles players.

James J. Osebold of Plymouth is starting a 16-member tennis tourney in his own name. The event is for Class "B" or intermediate men tennis players in the community.

The "Osebold Invitational", which is scheduled for the second weekend in August at the Central Middle School courts, presently has 12 players set for action.

Osebold is looking for four more netters interested in competing. Any players who wish to participate in the event should contact Osebold at 453-1445.

Entrance fee for competition is $1.50. Trophies will be awarded to the first and second place finishers. Prizes and ribbons will be given to the other 14 netters.

Doc's Corner

By DENNIS O'CONNOR
Sports Editor

Another regular season of Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball League action ended this past week. And this Monday's edition contains the final standings from most of the leagues.

Playoff and championship games will be completed this week in the "A", "B", and "G" Jr. Leagues. Tee-ball finales in the "C" League ended last week.

Only the older boys and girls from the "E", "F" and "G" Sr. Leagues are still battling in regular season games.

THIS IS the fourth straight summer in which I have offered the complete standings and results of all the junior baseball leagues in my sports section.

The Observer has been very proud and pleased to offer this service to all the boys, girls and parents who participated in all seven leagues.

But the major factor behind these standings and results appearing in the Observer every Monday was due to the help and cooperation I received from the league directors from each respective conference.

I would like to publicly thank these people for all the help this season.

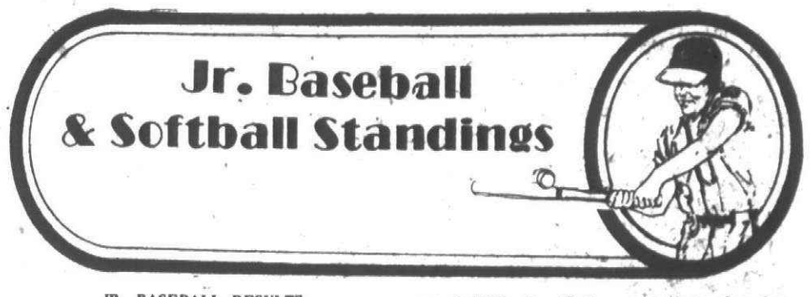

Joe Carlson is the director of the "A" League. Mark Brown handles the "B" League results. Max Sommerville once again coordinated the "C" League activities. John Anderson was in charge of both the "E" and "F" League events. And Larry Arnold was busy with the "G" Jr. and "G" Sr. standings.

Other persons who help with junior baseball information throughout the year are secretary-treasurer Jeanne Goodrich and president Jerry Stevens.

I THANK all these people and all members connected with the junior baseball league for their help. A lot of hard work, which included long, late hours for all these people, was experienced in helping the Observer bring the community all the standings each week.

Thanks again. See you next year.

Salem squads host tourneys

Plymouth Salem's Mickey Mantle and Sandy Koufax baseball teams have both qualified to host their respective tournaments during the first weekend in August.

Each squad won the host position because of a better record over the Plymouth-Canton contingents.

As a tournament team, Salem has the option of picking up additional players from their leagues. But to comply with earlier rules, each Salem team will pick up additional ballplayers from only the Canton squads, thus making each representative an all-Plymouth-Canton area team.

Salem's Mickey Mantle team is hosting the National Amatuer Baseball Federation (NABF) North Junior National Tournament, while the Salem Koufax squad competes in the American Amatuer Baseball Conference (AABC) Sandy Koufax State Regional Tournament.

Ex-Bentley grid coach dies

Bentley High School of Livonia and Suburban Eight athletic league teams were shocked by the sudden death of Glen Goode, the Bulldogs' varsity football coach for eight years before resigning several months ago.

Goode, who was 38 and a Farmington Hills resident, died of a heart attack while jogging near his home Thursday.

Besides his football tenure, Goode was an assistant coach in baseball, basketball and track at Bentley in addition to teaching physical education and health. He had been a coach and athletic director at three Catholic high schools in the Detroit area before coming to Livonia in 1969.

Goode said when he resigned this spring that his football teams haven't been winning "and I thought the thing to do was to step aside and give someone else a chance."

He added at the time that he may be interested in returning as an assistant coach if the school's coach needed him.

Bentley had only two winning seasons under Goode and the Bulldogs finished sixth in the league with a 2-5 record and an overall mark of 3-6.

Plymouth Salem and Redford Union are in the Sub-8 league.

FUNERAL SERVICES for Goode, of 28144 Bayberry, Farmington Hills, were scheduled to be held this morning at McCabe Funeral Home and St. Fabian Catholic Church, both in Farmington Hills.

He is survived by his wife, Marion; daughter, Gayle; and four brothers, Gerald, Richard, Donald and James.

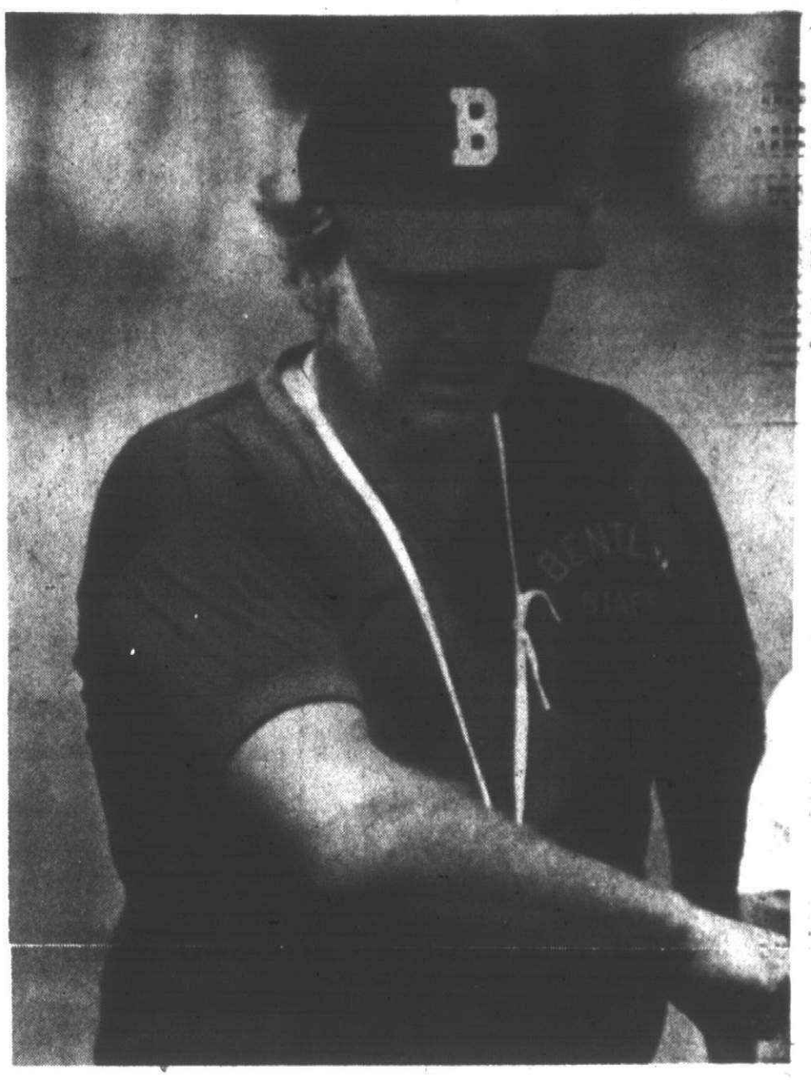

Officiating at the service was Msgr. Charles J. Malloy.

Goode was born Oct. 8, 1938 and received his BS in education from the University of Detroit in 1963 and his MA in education from Wayne State University five years later.

He taught three years at St. Mary High in Royal Oak and coached the football, basketball and baseball teams.

In 1966, he went to St. Francis Cabrini High School in Allen Park and won the 1967 Catholic football league city championship and helped develop a weight training and agility program. He was also assistant basketball and track coach.

He moved to Benedictine High in 1968 to become athletic director and formulate intra-mural and varsity athletic programs, including football, basketball, track, hockey, swimming, golf and skiing.

physican. The physican will then give the patient a referral to the center.

"I think I can provide better after surgery care, for both athlete and non-athlete, than a hospital," said Milder.

"The center is just like a hospital in facilities," continued Milder, "but we have a different atmosphere than at a hospital. It's not crowded. You don't have to wait for treatment and you get help from someone with an athletic prespective. Also, we are just as professional as a hospital in our care."

The response from the medical field in the area has been good, according to Milder, who needs area doctors to refer patients to him.

"I've talked to many doctors, coaches, and anyone involved in athletics and I'd be glad to speak to any school that would like to know about the center or injuries in general," Milder said.

Though the center is open, summer is not a busy time. Milder handles mainly non-athletic injuries during the hot months, but he expects that the fall sports season will change the outlook.

"Most injuries in the summer are orthopedic-related (bone and muscle) injuries. We also get a few heart and stroke patients, but hardly any athletes," said Milder.

A basic procedure that Milder follows for post-surgical patients is to put them on an exercise program that will strengthen the area that had surgery. The programs vary with each case. A knee injury, for example, would involve many different exercises.

"Luckily the severity of injuries suffered while in athletics is not as strong as in other things such as auto wrecks. This gives athletic patients an edge," Milder said. "But we will also give therapy to someone in an auto wreck."

The center then can cover all of the bases, so to speak, from a minor sprained ankle to rehabilitation of a patient in an auto wreck or even someone with a heart problem.

"People need to know what to do with certain injuries and the center provides just that," said Milder.

DR. AND MRS. E.J. McLENDON hosted a dinner party Sunday at Meadowbrook Country Club.

Guest of honor was Dr. Murdina Desmond, chief of pediatrics at Baylor University Medical Center in Texas. Dr. Desmond is a national authority on the fetal alcoholic.

Among the guests were Dr. and Mrs. John Romas, Dr. Scott Simonds, and Margaret Washburn, chief of nursing services for the Flint schools.

Dr. Desmond will speak this week at a seminar on alcoholism arranged at the University of Michigan by Dr. McLendon.

"She is an amazing woman," said McLendon who had observed Dr. Desmond's work at Baylor. "She is probably the leading pediatrician in the country. But when she picks up those little babies and talks to them, she is all grandmother."

by ELLIE GRAHAM

MEMBERS OF THE Plymouth Business and Professional Women's Club met at Jean Davis' Corinne Street home for their annual picnic and pool party.

The banquet board was filled with a colorful and delicious variety of foods—fruits, vegetables, casseroles, salads and desserts. Each member had provided a favorite dish for the potluck.

New president for the 1977-78 season is Marion Kehrl who succeeded Janet Richwine. During a brief business meeting, plans for the club's Plymouth Fall Festival project were discussed.

Mary MacDonald will chair the venture. This year the club will ave a cookie booth. With each member donating 10 dozen, they plan to have 700 dozen homemade cookies for sale.

Norma Cassady, charter member of the club, flew in from Boston just in time for pool party.

TRAILWOOD Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Club members will meet July 25.

They will visit the University of Michigan Botanical Gardens on Dixboro Road.

Joy Hansen is chairing the meeting.

YOUNG AMERICAN CBers will sponsor a dance Aug. 3 in the Plymouth Cultural Center.

Proceeds from the benefit will be donated to ALSAC and St. Jude's Hospital.

A 23-channel mobile CB radio with antenna will be given as a prize at the dance. Live music will be provided by "The Adrenalin."

The dance will begin at 7:30 p.m. and admission will be $2. Tickets are available at the door or reservations can be made by calling 455-1545.

The Young Americans Club is sponsored by the Plymouth Centennials, the adult CB club in the area. refreshments will be available at the dance.

MURIEL AND ART Calhoun had three visitors last week in Muriel's Doll House on Penniman Avenue.

The trio displayed great interest in the dolls and their accessories as they wandered upstairs and downstairs in the store.

Finally, they introduced themselves. They were Jay C. Enerym Ann S. Paddock and Jean (Mrs. J.L.) Hudson. As representatives of Planned Parenthood Association they were on a scouting mission—looking for merchants for the association's 1977 Holiday Mart.

The three-day mart will be Oct. 18-20 in the ballroom of the Detroit Plaza Hotel in the Ren aissance Center.

Participation in the annual affair is by invitation only and is not limited to Michigan. Thousands of persons visit the show which is Planned Parenthood's major fundraiser.

The Calhouns' acceptance of the invitation could be a boon to Plymouth merchants. The exposure at the mart will be reflected in a flow of would-be shoppers.

Once they arrive in Plymouth, they'll want to visit the other specialty shops and find a good place to eat.

Get them here once, and they'll be back.

GAIL GRIEVE and Chris Wroblewski have returned from Blue Lake Music Camp.

Both the girls are violinists. Chris was in camp for a two-week session and and Gail was there for the full two sessions.

The girls are members of the Plymouth Youth Symphony. Chris, an eighth grader at East Middle School, was awarded a $50 performing scholarship in May.

HAZEL GIBSON of Plymouth Book World says they finally have William Bake's "The Blue Ridge" in stock.

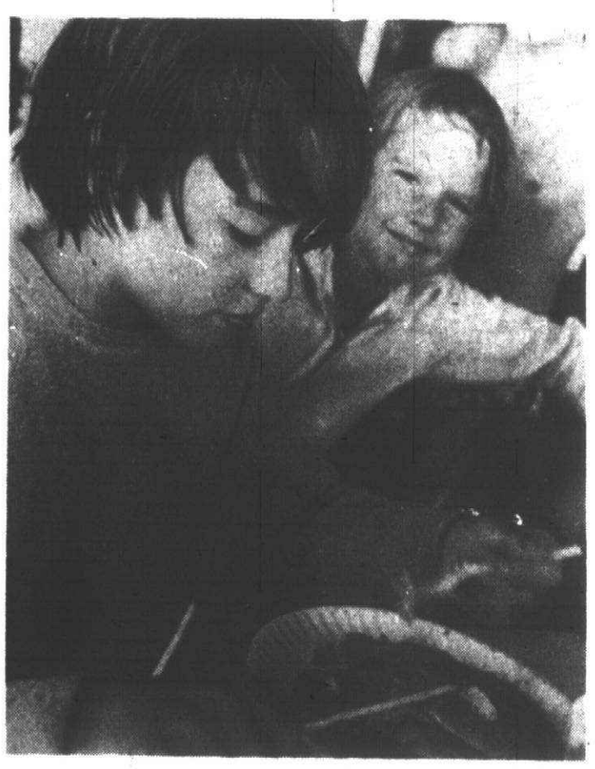

His brother Bob Bake will be pleased. A week or so ago he was bemoaning the fact that everyone had been asking him about the book and he didn't even have one to show them

William Bake's photography in the book is pure magic.

RECENT WINNERS at the Thursday afternoon party bridge games in the Plymouth Cultural Center were Ann Prevost and Carl Peters on July 14, and Elsie Jeffery and John Drewniak on July 21.

Flapjacks for flippers

PWP marks first anniversary

"I moved here from the far east side of Detroit. I was so lonely. I was tempted to put an ad in your paper to find out if there were any bright, intelligent lonely people who would like to just get together and talk.

"Then I read about the local Parents Without Partners chapter. I came to a meeting and suddenly I was at home—with friends."

The speaker was a director of the Plymouth-Canton PWP group, which celebrated its first anniversary July 21.

International Chapter 1000, which meets in the American Legion Hall on Sheldon Road, started out with 26 members, one more than the 25 needed to form a chapter and receive an official charter.

The first year has seen the group grow to 60 members.

"We're growing slowly," said Ross Snow, president. "These are good people."

About 45 persons turned out for the anniversary meeting. Some were wearing the red nametags of prospective members, a few the yellow visitor tags, but most were the blue member tags.

THEY RANGED in age from the 20s to 50s with the women slightly outnumbering the men.

Ross (everyone is on a first name basis) said they had heard some outstanding and very helpful speakers during their first year.

There was Hugo Gaston of the University of Michigan who founded the Ann Arbor PWP chapter, one of the oldest in the area.

"He serves in a counseling capacity," said Ross. "He also is a marriage counselor."

Plymouth attorney John Thomas discussed wills for single people. The Rev. Frank Shaddon's subject was "How do You Feel about Yourself?"

"Just getting some of these people away from home and out to a meeting was a big step," said the president, who hosts a house party at his home just about every Saturday night.

"The speakers are very helpful; they give helpful information and something to think about."

LAST THURSDAY'S guest speaker aws Jimmy Patton, a program director from the Farmington AVISORY Council, Inc.

The members and guests had an opportunity to meet, visit and have a regular business meeting before they settled down, coffee cups in hand, to listen to the speaker.

Patton heads a prevention and education program. He said the major problems, for children and parents, are drugs, alcohol, early sexuality and divorce.

Patton described the five-week program available for parents and children which aids in developing the isolated skills needed to cope with family, school and peer groups. The Novi-Northville PWP chapter has two groups involved in the program.

The first week is an introductory session, a preview of the whole seminar.

Communication problems are discussed at the second meeting—how to communicate with family and exspouse.

"Assertiveness training is part of this," said Patton. "How to stand up under peer pressure, how to get out of it, standing up for your own rights, how to say no."

DECISION MAKING is the theme for the third week.

"High school is the hardest age," Patton explained. "Whether or not to go to a dance on Friday night can be a big decision. There is the decision of whether or not to take drugs, to run away from home. Spontaneous decisions are not always the right decisions."

The fourth week is divided into two sections—positive argument and how to relax. The first could almost be labeled fair fighting, Patton said.

"You learn how to set the ground rules for arguments between parent and child, or siblings. You discover what to do to get resolution.

"In the second half you learn how to relax, not to be uptight. Once you relieve or alleviate stress, there is better communication."

How to be happy is the theme for the final session.

"We discuss how irrational thinking causes difficulties—how simple logic can solve problems.

"Some people prefer being depressed. If you like being depressed, you walk out of the group more depressed and happy about it."

PATTON HAS WORKED in a methadone clinic, on the streets and with the drug culture.

He said, "One of the questions we ask the kids is 'If you could have anything in the world, what would you like?' Nine out of 10 answer, 'I'd like to be able to talk to my parents.'

"When you talk to the parents, they will say their children discuss everything with them."

A member asked, "How do you sell the program to kids?"

Patton said to be positive. Tell them salespeople and executives take the course to improve themselves. It gives kids a chance to meet with success—skills to cope with peer pressures, get through college, get a job.

In answer to "How much does it cost?" Patton said there is no charge. The program is funded by the state, the attorney general's office, and the cities of Farmington and Farmington Hills.

If persons feel they have gotten something out of it, they give donations.

"I guess we're just young and crazy enough to want to help people—to provide the service for very low pay."

Another member said she had taken the assertiveness training but had discovered it did not last. Patton said it took practice and continued use of the skills. He told of one woman who won a major victory after taking the course. For the first time in her life, she said no to a girl scout cookie salesgirl. She had her cupboards full of girl scout cookies and couldn't stop ordering more.

"My hangup was magazines," said a young woman in sympathy.

AS THE RAP SESSION ended, and before the music for dancing began, Ross announced new meeting days. Beginning Aug. 5, the chapter will meet on the first and third Friday of the month instead of on Thursdays.

Gail Drouillard announced that next week's family picnic would be at Wilcox Lake.

Surprise gift

She brought a surprise gift—a check for $965.67 which she presented to Ray Creith, secretary of the club. The money was designated for the handicapped children's fund, a major Elks project. The money was a surplus from the bowling tournament held last February in Plymouth. (Staff photo)

Five area families joined 4,000 doctors, nurses and parents with children at the four-day La Leche International conference in Toronto, Ontario July 13-16.

The convention was at the Sheraton Center with many of the delegates staying in the adjoining hotel. Frank and Linda Florence of Brentwood Drive in Plymouth Township, Robert and Charlene Frellick and four children of Woodhill Drive, Northville Township, and Alan and Joan Klaas of Hix Road, Livonia, had accommodations at the Sheraton.

Frank and Millie Conway of Irongate, Canton Township, and Larry and Dee Stoddard of Oakview, Plymouth Township, made early camping reservations for their families at Cedar Beach Park, just outside the Toronto city limits. They were able to mix business with pleasure and enjoyed the company of numerous other camping League families from the Detroit area.

The delegates were suitably impressed by the quality of the conference entitled "Breastfeeding: Genesis of a Lifestyle."

Delegates said the speakers were provocative and informative.

MARSHALL H. KLAUS MD, author of "Maternal-Infant Bonding," told the group, "Developing nations could save $1 billion a year if all their mothers breastfed—a fact which should make La Leche League as powerful as OPEC."

Stressing the beneficial properties in mothers' milk, Klaus cited specific examples in various parts of the globe where babies owe their lives to human milk.

"In 1971 and '72, almost 50 per cent of premature babies who developed diarrhea in sections of Argentina were dying from the affliction," Klaus said. "In 1973, a system was implemented whereby milk from mothers of full-term babies was given to the premies—one teaspoon for each pound of infant weight. The diarrhea completely stopped."

Also speaking at the seminar was noted syndicated medical columnist Robert S. Mendelssohn MD, associate professor of community health at the University of Illinois. He responded to questions raised at recent senate hearings about the safety of breast milk and emphasized the medical benefits of nursing over formula feeding.

He predicted that within the next 20 years, doctors would become more convinced of the dangers of bottle feeding. "They will be more and more willing to share this information with mothers-to-be, alerting them that certain diseases such as sudden infant death and E. coli meningitis practically never occur in breastfed babies."

Nikki and David Goldbeck, authors of the "Supermarket Handbook," chose the topic of nutrition for their part in the seminar, sharing advice and tips for home economists.

La Leche League was started 21 years ago by seven mothers in Franklin Park, Ill. and now has 11,7000 leaders directing 3,500 branches in 42 countries.

The five local families who attended the conference belong to the Northville-Plymouth-Canton branch which meets each month in Canton Township.

SHIRLEY NETTLE of Brandywyne in Canton Township received her licensed practical nursing certificate from Schoolcraft Community College at graduation ceremonies last week. Moral support during the past year of hard work and dedication came from her husband, Norm, and three children, Lynne, Michael and Laura.

ROB AND PATTI GRACE enjoyed a recent visit from their niece, Leslie Perlman of Richmond, Va.

Leslie caught up on family news during her week's stay in Canton and enjoyed some sight-seeing with cousins Mike and Julia.

"IT'S A SMALL world," said Canton residents Jeff and Lynne Goldsmith as they encountered several local friends during their northern Michigan vacation.

After a pleasant week with their children, Jennifer and Scott, at a cottage on Lake Huron at Kincardin, Ontario, the family traveled through the north country enroute to the Traverse City Cherry Festival.

They met Ken and Lynda Beach and their sons, Keith, Brian and Kevin, who were staying with relatives in the area.

Lynne met former Plymouthite Dorothy Enis at the Cherry Theater during the production of "Stop the World." They also met a third vacationing family from home—Pete, Betty and Sarah Vance of Sommerset Square.

It makes one wonder: Is there anyone still in Canton this summer?

The answer is, probably. But they are behind an air conditioner, beating the heat.

These seniors talk and laugh and remember

By MARGARET MILLER

the home. They get together every week at the Dorvin Convalescent and Nursing Center in Livonia to talk about the twenties.

And those conversations—born of a program that combines the efforts of Schoolcraft College, a gerontology student and a score or more Dorvin residents—have worked to put a little more zip into the daily living there this summer.

The residents who gather Tuesday afternoons look forward to the visits of Carolyn Calloghy, a University of Michigan graduate student working on a special study with Betty Andrews of Schoolcraft, and Maud Piggott, who works at Schoolcraft through the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP.)

Together Carolyn and Maud get the elderly residents remembering— and talking and laughing. Sometimes they bring in special guests, like Eddie Edgar of the Observer & Eccentric staff, who started on sports memories and branched out from there, or Jessie Sanderson who told about Livonia's history.

Coming up next month is a silent movie festival with Charlie Chaplin and Buster Keaton doing the entertaining some twenties costumes available for residents who want to get into the spirit of the occasion.

"Maybe we'll have some dancing the Charleston," said Ms. Calloghy.

The meetings and the discussions are fun, agreed Mary Vivian amd Cathryn Hillebrandt, regulars at the sessions. "And they pass the time," Mrs. Vivian added.

THE DORVIN program, said Betty Andrews, SC assistant dean for community services, is just one of several projects born of a consortium arrangement in which Schoolcraft and U-M share a federal grant under Title I.

In previous portions, Schoolcraft history instructor Harold Fortney gave a bicentennial course at the University Nursing Home of Livonia and Lynn Kurtz, who teaches dance, worked up a course that included ethnic dances, geography and folklore for some senior citizens who meet in the Log Cabin in Garden City.

She later described those generally-sedentary people as "a fun group, noisy and enthusiastic."

The program for elders also gave Peggy Price her start in working with the needs of widows, a study that has mushroomed into a widow-to-widow network in this area.

Lecture series on things of concern to elders like finances and nutrition have been held in Garden City and in the Plymouth Cultural Center.

"We try to get into each of the communities in the Schoolcraft College district at least once in the year," Mrs. Andrews said.

CAROLYN CALLOGHY came into the picture this spring when she began the Dorvin project as part of her studies toward a master's degree from U-M in adult and continuing education with emphasis on gerontology.

Formerly involved in youth work, Ms. Calloghy said she was looking to a change of field and "decided with gerontology I could grow into the field instead of out of it."

"I had done some work with older people and liked it," she added, "and this is working out very well."

Her first idea for a program at Dorvin had to be scrapped.

"I thought maybe the residents would like to have a discussion group based on soap operas," Ms. Calloghy said.

"I soon found that there were people who watched the soap operas and people who wanted a discussion group, but they weren't the same people.

"They suggested current events or the twenties, and I focused on the latter because I figured I could get material for that one."

Material she has found, like the speakers and the projected afternoon of films.

"But half the content of every meeting has come from the residents themselves," she added. "They tell what they remember and then they start sharing experiences."

INVALUABLE HELP in that area comes from Maud Piggott, she said.

Mrs. Piggott, a retired nurse from Canton who has worked with Schoolcraft program both as a paid employe under another speciallv-funded setup and as a member of the RSVP, has accompanied Ms. Calloghy regularly.

"The residents can relate to her because she's closer to them in age and experience," she went on. "She helps them get to the discussion room and she stimulates them too. She shares her memories and they share theirs."

A noticeable rapport exists, too, between Ms. Calloghy and the people who await her visit each week.

At a recent meeting she was running a contest to name a newsletter she mimeographs and distributes each week.

"Chatterbox" was the winning name, but the lady who suggested it said the name she really wanted was "Carolyn's Chatterbox." Several other residents agreed.

Carolyn Calloghy (right) and Maud Piggott poll members of the discussion group on their choice for a newsletter name. The peach pie was the prize for the best name selected.

An optional gauge (lower right) in the 1968 Continental will help the driver plan ahead.

Is it really empty?

If you've ever driven a long stretch of highway with the fuel-gauge needle approaching empty and no gas station in sight, you'll appreciate a new electronic device that will be introduced as an option on the 1978 Continental Mark V.

Called Miles-to-Empty, the device uses integrated circuits and a digital display in the instrument cluster to show drivers how far they can travel before running out of gas—and when to fill the tank.

"We believe the Miles-to-Empty fuel warning systm is a significant electronic advance in cars," said Eugene Karrer, general manager of the Ford Motor Co. electrical and electronics division.

After the car is started, the driver can obtain a miles-to-empty reading at any time by pushing a button on the display. The bright-orange figures normally remain lighted for several seconds. However, when the miles-to-empty number drops below 50, the display lights up automatically and remains on, serving as a low-fuel warning.

THE MILES-TO-EMPTY estimate is updated frequently, enabling the driver to keep tabs on his driving economy. Improving fuel economy is indicated if the miles-to-empty number remains the same or increases while the car is driven some distance. A rapidly decreasing number reflects declining driving economy.

The heart of the system is a large-scale integrated ciruit that is less than a quarter of an inch square, which contains microscopic circuits with 3,600 transistors.

The circuit is the brain of an electronic processor that receives information from two sensors, one in the fuel tank sensing fuel level and one in the tansmission sensing vehicle speed.

The miles-to-empty estimate is based on how the car is operated. The electronic processor calculates mileage every minute. The processor compares the fuel-usage rate with that of the previous minute. If it has changed, the miles-to-empty estimate is updated.

Otherwise, the estimate decreases one mile for each mile driven.

THE CHANGES are small, made over a period of several minutes to avoid severe fluctuations that otherwise would be displayed during rapidly changing driving conditions, such as going from highway to city driving, hill-climbing or rapid acceleration or deceleration.

The digital display on the instrument panel is slightly larger than a matchbookThe entire Miles-to-Empty module is about 5 by 4 by 2.5 inches in size including the display, power supply, analog-to-digital converter, signal processor and decoder.

A gas-discharge type display was chosen because the bright orange figures can be read easily under all light conditions, from nightto bright sunlight.

WHAT YOU CAN'T SEE....

CAN HURT YOU!! That's why, at Meijer we maintain strict standards in our food areas, and throughout our stores. Meijer standards are even more stringent than government regulations. We know our customers want a clean department and a sanitary department to protect their family's health. Customers expect and demand cleanliness and neatness from the people who handle their food. Therefore, if we expect to retain our customers, we must keep all of our areas sanitary.

CONGRATULATIONS are in order for Ken Koneval and his Cafeteria crew at our store on South Pennsylvania Avenue in Lansing. They received an award from the Ingham County Health Department for outstanding sanitation. This is the second year they have received this award. The award was presented on June 23rd.

CONGRATULATIONS are also in order for Mary Hicks, Cafeteria Manager and her Cafeteria crew at the West Grand River Meijer store in Okemos. They too have received the sanitation award from Ingham County Health Department. Once again, congratulations on Super Sanitation!!

ABOUT YOU FINDING WHAT YOU CAME FOR.

If you can't find something at Meijer, we'll personally direct you to it. Because when you want something, we don't think you should have to search for it.

Meijer Thrifty Acres cAres

ABOUT OUR SENIOR CITIZENS.

If you're over 60, you can apply for the Meijer 60 & 10 plan. It entitles you to a 10% discount on all prescriptions. The plan also allows card holders to redeem coupons without meeting minimum purchase requirements. At Meijer, we help every way we can.

Meijer Thrifty Acres cAres

ABOUT HANDICAPPED CUSTOMERS.

Everyone one of us at Meijer cares ... about all of our customers. That's why we have special parking and checkout lanes for the handicapped. And that's why we provide motorized carts for the elderly or handicapped to do their shopping in. At Meijer our customers are our first concern.

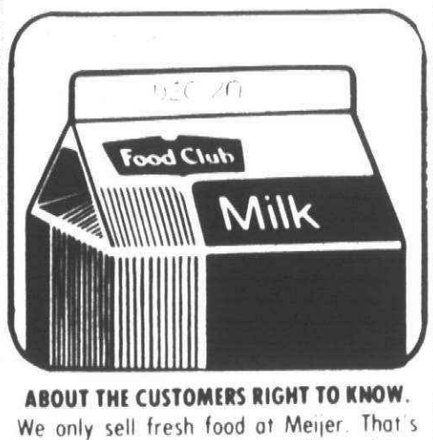

Meijer Thrifty Acres cAres

ABOUT FAST CUSTOMER CHECKOUT.

At Meijer, we know that you don't like to be kept waiting. So we check you out as fast as possible. If there are too many people in line, we open another lane. Plus, there are always express lanes open. We keep things moving, because we know you don't like to be kept waiting.

Meijer Thrifty Acres cAres

ABOUT THE CUSTOMERS RIGHT TO KNOW.

We only sell fresh food at Meijer. That's why we post fresh dates on all our dairy, meat and produce items. So you know just how fresh everything is. We believe you have that right.

Meijer Thrifty Acres cAres

ABOUT ADVERTISED SPECIALS.

At Meijer, when we advertise something, you can be sure of getting it, even if it's out of stock when you finally get to the store, because we'll give you a raincheck and order the item for you. If we advertise it, you can depend on having it.

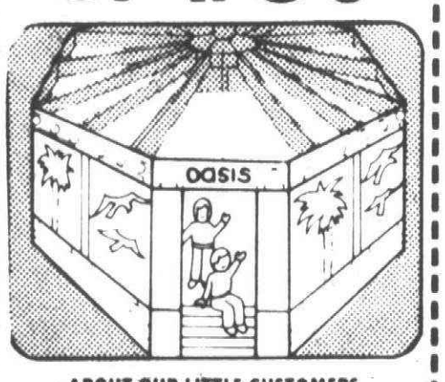

Meijer Thrifty Acres cAres

ABOUT CUSTOMER CONVENIENCE.

At Meijer, customer convenience is one of our first concerns. That's why most of our stores have a postal deposit slot. And that's why we have One Stop Shopping. At Meijer, we try to think of everything.

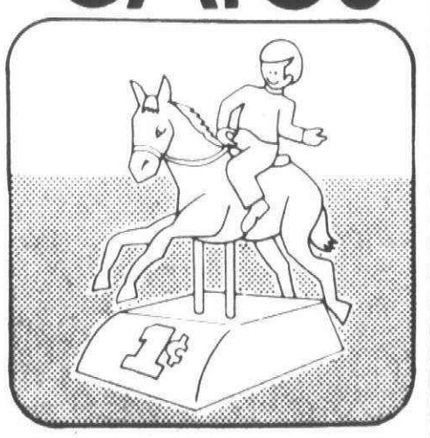

Meijer Thrifty Acres cAres

ABOUT OUR LITTLE CUSTOMERS.

At Meijer, we know that most children would rather be playing than shopping. So, most of our stores have a Kiddie Oasis. That way, the children can play and you can shop. At Meijer, our customer's children are important too.

Meijer Thrifty Acres cAres

THE BEST BUY IN THE STORE...

...according to the junior "horsie" set is the 1c horse rides. The longest rides, for which these horses can be adjusted, is still only a penny at Meijer.

Meijer Thrifty Acres cAres

ABOUT CUSTOMER SATISFACTION.

At Meijer, you can be sure that you'll be satisfied. If not, return the item and we'll refund your money or exchange the item (except undergarments and other items not allowed by law). We're sure of the quality of our merchandise, and we want to be sure you're satisfied.

Meijer Thrifty Acres cAres

ABOUT CONSUMER INFORMATION

Even though Meijer prices are low, we know you still like to compare for the best buy. So, we post unit prices on many food items. That way, you can compare and get the best buy for your needs.

Meijer Thrifty Acres cAres

ABOUT THE MEAT YOU BUY

At Meijer, we're so sure of the high quality of Meijer finest meat, that we'll give you double your money back if you're not completely satisfied. Just bring in the sale's receipt and the Meijer Finest label. Our meat is that good.
