

Crash survivor says drinking began here

By GLENN BUNTING

The lone survivor of last Saturday's tragic automobile crash which claimed the lives of six teenagers, said he and two other youths split 31 beers in the five-hour period before their car rammed into a tree in Dexter Township.

From his bed in University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor, Donald Aube Gulau, 16, of Canton Township, explained the events leading to the area's largest multiple fatality accident.

Gulau said the seven youths met in the Plymouth Township Park at McClumpha and Ann Arbor Trail around 7:30 p.m., where three of them split 24 beers. All seven boys decided to leave for the Anchor Inn bar near Portage Lake around 9:30 p.m. because of "the hassle" they received from county sheriff deputies in the park, Gulau said.

When someone at the park mentioned the Anchor Inn, Gulau said "it sounded like a good idea" but he had to talk Brad Wilson and Eric Corey into going. "We all had cars but no one wanted to drive," Gulau said. "Somehow we decided to go in Brad's car."

The teens drank two beers apiece at the Anchor Inn, according to Gulau. Sgt. George Chapman of the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department said a witness has supported Gulau's statement that the group was admitted and served at the tavern. Chapman refused to identify the witness.

THE SIX YOUTHS first tried to buy drinks in the go-go bar section of the Anchor Inn but were not served, Gulau said.

They went to the disco section of the bar to listen to a band, but later returned to the room featuring topless dancers and were served beer without having to show identification, Gulau said.

All but one of the youths, Steven Radgens, 18, of Plymouth, were minors. One other teen carried phony identification, Gulau said.

Gulau, who remains in fair condition in University Hospital, said he could not recall the events leading directly to the accident because he fell asleep in the rear seat of the 1972 Buick Skylark.

"We got into the car and everyone was alive. When I woke up, there was no one," Gulau said.

Sgt. Chapman said he is certain Wilson was driving the vehicle from the position of his body at the wreck and Gulau's testimony. Authorities have determined the accident to be the result of excessive speed, unfamiliarity with the area and driving under the influence of alcohol.

It will be 10 days before officials discover how fast the car was traveling and the level of alcohol content in Wilson's body because of the delay in crash analysis and blood tests, Chapman said.

"From what we can gather, the driver wanted to make a turn onto N. Territorial Road to return to Plymouth, but missed it and became unfamiliar with the road he was traveling on. The primary cause of the accident was excessive speed," Chapman said.

THE SIX WERE KILLED when their car skidded off a winding road near Dexter, northwest of Ann Arbor, and slammed broadside into a tree at about 1:30 a.m. Saturday. Sgt. Chapman said the car stereo was playing "quite loud" before the crash.

Gulau said he remembers the 30-45 minutes it took police and fire officials to rescue him from the wreck.

"I can recall screaming every moment while they were cutting me out," Gulau said. "Everything was out of place."

The parents of the only survivor, Mr. and Mrs. John Gulau, were vacationing at their summer home in the Upper Peninsula at the time of the accident.

"I don't think the effects of the accident have hit Don yet," Gulau said. "He's too involved in pain to think about it. It will be a helluva thing for him to live with the rest of his life."

The Gulau youth suffered two breaks in his left leg, which required emergency surgery below the knee. He also has a broken collarbone and scratches over his face and right arm.

Killed in Saturday's crash were Bradley L. Wilson, 17, Douglas E. McGregor, 17, Bryan Stout, 17, William L. Cook, 17, and Steven Radgens, 18, all of Plymouth; and Eric Corey, 16, of Fort Smith, Ark., formerly of Plymouth.

Bar operation is investigated

Washtenaw and Livingston counties' law officers are investigating the Anchor Inn near Portage Lake to see if any of the six youths killed in a car accident Saturday had been drinking at the bar.

While law officials are investigating to see if any charges should be filed, the owners of the Anchor Inn have been summoned to Lansing to answer complaints on file with the Michigan Liquor Control Commission (LCC).

Meanwhile, the sole survivor of the crash—Don Gulau of Canton—has told police and the Observer that all seven had been in the Anchor Inn minutes before the early Saturday morning crash at Dexter-Pinckney and Wylie roads.

Police report Gulau stated that no one was checked for identification at the bar. But Gulau told the Observer they were checked at one time trying to enter the portion of the bar featuring topless dancers, left and came back later and weren't checked the second time. He also said they had purchased a case of beer in the Plymouth area and were drinking before they arrived at the Anchor Inn.

SINCE THE six young men were killed, the following events have occurred relating to the Anchor Inn:

•Aaron Slotnick, bar operator, reports he isn't convinced the youths were drinking in his bar before the crash and adds he's never had one complaint of an underage drinker. Livingston County Prosecutor Frank Del Vero confirms that the only complaints on record in his office against the bar involve noise of the band and septic tank problems.

•Washtenaw Sheriff Thomas Minick says drinking was apparently involved in the mishap, noting all seven had wrist stamps showing they had entered the Anchor Inn that night. Slotnick says the stamps used at his place don't use the name of the Anchor Inn.

•Stanley Thayer, LCC chairman, claims the bar has a history of serving minors and has citations pending against it from the state.

•Sgt. George Chapman of the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Dept. says he's talked with a witness who knew the young men and supports Gulau's claim that the seven were served at the bar. Of the seven in the car, only two were carrying any kind of identification and all but one was under 18 years of age.

Chapman says he can show all seven were in the Anchor Inn, were served, and weren't asked to produce IDs. He blamed alcohol and unfamiliarity with the area for the accident.

•The bar owner has been ordered to appear before the LCC board on Aug. 3 to answer several unrelated complaints involving license violations, such as providing lewd entertainment, permitting patrons to participate in the entertainment, serving liquor after hours and failure to cooperate with authorities. Assistant Atty. Gen. Thomas Giachino says investigation into the lewd entertainment complaint has been underway for several months and he is now stepping up efforts to find witnesses who can establish whether under-age youths regularly are served in the bar and to determine who actually owns the business.

Teens' talk about crash with clergy

A rap session for teens to discuss the crash which took six lives Saturday will be held tonight at 7:30 in the first United Presbyterian Church of Plymouth.

The only adult there will be the Rev. Philip Magee, who conducted funeral services Monday morning for Douglas McGregor—one of five Plymouth youths killed Saturday morning in Dexter Township.

"At the funeral services I felt the consternation among the young people in the community as a consequence of the crash," explained Rev. Magee. "So, we decided to have an open rap session at the church, just for the kids to come in and talk, express themselves, or ask questions if they wish."

"I could feel the underlying grief at Doug's funeral and saw the kids going into small groups, talking, groping for what has happened. Death is so far away for young people and many of them have been left stunned by this tragedy. I think many want to get together and talk this over."

"It won't be a seminar or anything like that. Just whoever wants to come getting together and say what's on their minds."

Third builder broke

Warwick Co. deep in the red

By DARLENE STINSON

The third Canton builder to crumble under financial pressure in less than a year has announced plans to abandon his building activity in Franklin Palmer Estates Subdivision and liquidate his assets.

Samuel Seyburn, president of Warwick Building Co., is about $280,000 in the red. According to the builder's attorney, S. Lawrence Stein, Seyburn owes creditors about $465,000 and holds assets worth only about $184,000. "Plainly and simply, the company is insolvent," Stein said. "Several plans were explored by means of which the company might regain solvency. It soon became obvious, however, that none of these plans were feasible. Warwick would have to go out of business."

WARWICK IS the third construction company that has abandoned building activity in Canton since last November.

Harry Weitzer of Weitzer Homes sold his models and interests in Brookside Village Subdivision last February and reportedly left town because of financial difficulties. He left behind a flurry of homeowner complaints about defects in homes and invalid new home warranties.

Although the Michigan Department of Licensing and Regulations approved a license renewal for Weitzer last April, the license is listed under Weitzer's Southfield office on Eleven Mile Road. The telephone in that office has been disconnected for months.

Pyramid Properties, Inc., a builder in Canton's Tanglewood Subdivision, went out of business last November without paying several subcontractors who had supplied materials and labor. According to Richard Kummert, president of the Tanglewood Homeowners Association, subcontractors have placed mechanic's liens ranging from $15,000 to $25,000 on the homes of 15 Tanglewood families because Pyramid did not pay them for work rendered.

Kummert believes the liens resulted from an inaccurate and incomplete list of subcontractors that Pyramid submitted to mortgage and title companies at the time of closings.

The Tanglewood Homeowners Association has filed a suit in Wayne County Circuit Court to halt foreclosure proceedings that subcontractors have already begun on some of the Canton residents' homes.

LIKE OWNERS of the Pyramid and Weitzer companies, Seyburn does not plan to file bankruptcy proceedings on behalf of Warwick Building Co., attorney Stein said.

"Filing a voluntary petition of bankruptcy would be easy, but my client believes that the interests of the creditors would not best be served by a bankruptcy proceeding," he explained.

"He believes that the creditors would benefit much better if Warwick's assets are liquidated quickly at the best price and terms possible, thereby providing a fund for pro-rata distribution to creditors."

Stein, who will serve as Warwick's trustee in liquidation, said Seyburn has already made plans to sell the three model homes and 46 vacant lots he owns in Franklin Palmer Estates Subdivision, located on the east side of Sheldon, north of Palmer.

Union Investment Co., which holds the mortgages on 11 Warwick homes being constructed in Franklin Palmer Estates, has already agreed to take the partially-completed homes and complete construction work, Stein said. The mortgage company has agreed to honor customer deposits and distribute any surplus monies from sale of the homes to creditors.

Canton's chief building inspector, Chuck Thompson, said Warwick has constructed homes in numerous township subdivisions during the past few years. Some of the homes built by Warwick are located in Willow Creek Subdivision near Warren and Lilley roads, and in Franklin Squares Subdivision near Ford and Lilley.

Warwick's homes are priced in the $40,000 bracket, Thompson said. "Seyburn was a very good builder," the chief inspector said. "We've never had any problems with his homes."

According to Thompson, many builders "overextend" themselves in "good" times when numerous homes are under construction. The home is sold to buyers at one price, but the cost of construction often rises dramatically by the time the house is completed four to six months later.

"As builders say, there's more bankruptcies in good times than when times are bad," Thompson said.

Buyers want legal safeguard

By DARLENE STINSON

Problems are mounting for more than a few owners of new houses in Canton Township today. Some face liens against their property filed by unpaid subcontractors; while others try in vain to get their new home warranties honored.

Both Supervisor Harold Stein and attorney Peter Bundarin, advocate for angry buyers, admit that occupants of already-constructed homes in the township have little protection if their builders go out of business.

Both hope an ordinance Stein planned to introduce Tuesday night will protect new home buyers against the type of headache that recently plagued some residents of Brookside Village and Tanglewood subdivisions.

TWO CONSTRUCTION companies that built in those subdivisions—Pyramid Properties, Inc. and Weitzer Homes—have gone out of business since last November because of financial difficulties.

Pyramid allegedly submitted an inaccurate list of subcontractors when buyers closed on their Tanglewood homes, according to Richard Kummert, president of the Tanglewood Homeowners Association.

As a result, subcontractors have placed liens ranging from $15,000 to $25,000 on the homes of 15 Tanglewood families and begun foreclosure proceedings on three of the homes.

Like some residents of Weitzer homes in Brookside Village, the Tanglewood families have also been left with invalid new home warranties. Basements in some of the homes leak, walls are cracked, and fireplaces function improperly.

A third builder, Samuel Seyburn of Warwick Building Co., last week announced the insolvency of his firm and plans to liquidate his assets in Canton's Franklin Palmer Estates Subdivision.

Although township officials say they've heard no complaints from Warwick homeowners so far, Stein and Bundarin admit that owners of existing Warwick homes have little protection against similar potential problems.

"THERE'S PROBABLY no way of stopping it," said Bundarin, who has represented numerous homeowner groups in Canton. "If the builder does bankrupt, there'll be no one to support their warranties."

Although Stein believes mortgage and title companies will be held responsible for liens placed on Tanglewood homes, Bundarin says new home buyers should know what kind of title insurance they are purchasing.

Schedule A title insurance, he explained, does not hold the title company responsible for unregistered liens. Most home buyers purchase schedule A insurance.

"The person is really blind when he goes to buy a new home," the attorney said. "You think you buy title insurance, and you're protected. I advise my clients to purchase schedule B insurance which recognizes unregistered liens when they go to buy a new home."

Bundarin has long favored the type of ordinance that Stein planned to introduce Tuesday night as a means to protect homebuyers from defects in their homes, even if the builder does go out of business.

Under the ordinance, all builders would be required to offer a warranty insurance program similar to The Homeowners Warranty Plan (HOW) plan offered by the Southeastern Builders Association. Cost of the plan is estimated at $2 for each $1,000 of the home's purchase price, Bundarin said.

UNDERWRITERS of the warranty program would honor homeowners' warranties and remedy defects in the home, if the builder did go out of business, Stein explained.

The supervisor has also implemented a building complaint procedure for residents who have complained of building defects in their homes but have received no remedial action from their builders under the one-year guarantees offered by individual construction companies.

Under that plan, residents submit complaints written in triplicate to the township building department. The township forwards a copy of the complaint to the builder, who must reply within 30 days.

If the builder fails to respond within a 30-day period, a township building inspector investigates the complaint at the builder's charge. If the complaint

Secrets of cooling off told

affording many residents the chance to do all that work they had avoided in the midst of the heat wave.

In a random survey, the Observer found that while people did what they could to manage their daily lives during the last two weeks of scorching sun, most made small adjustments to make "coping" just a little easier.

The methods people employed to beat the heat ranged from cutting down on outdoor activities to cooking less and swimming more. However, some stoic souls reported they didn't do anything but put up with the discomfort and hope for a break.

"I shopped an awful lot," said Marie Forthofer of Plymouth. "I just got up every morning and went out to the malls where it was nice and cool and felt good."

She also said the extreme heat prevented her from doing her usual chores around the house. "I did absolutely no housework and very little cooking on the stove. We set up a gas barbecue outside and used it almost every night."

ent story. "It did get kind of tough to sleep. So I cranked the old air conditioner up and slept in the basement."

Ella and Edward Boorhis of Canton also said they weren't that put out by the heat; but after more than a week started to feel a little uncomfortable.

"I don't know about Ella," said Boorhis, "but I just thought of all that cold we had last winter and I felt a lot better. I think the cold is harder to take than the heat."

Canton resident Fran Boles used the weather as an excuse to go out to eat. "I don't think I cooked more than twice in the last couple weeks. So I guess I did okay with it. But I like to eat out anyway."

Russ Jacob of Plymouth Township, on the other hand, said the heat and humidity really knocked him out. "It got to me. I worked less and didn't go out in the evenings as much. All I can say is I'm glad somebody invented air conditioning."

Diana Scheppels and Kay Wilson, both Canton residents, also said they tried to arrange their days to spend as much time in air conditioned places as possible.

"Nothing beats central air," commented Ms. Wilson. She, too, admitted to joining the out-to-dinner crowd more often than was her usual practice.

Ms. Scheppels said she did just a little more swimming and "played a whole lot less baseball."

DARLENE BOLIN of Canton said the heat finally got to her and she put in a window air conditioner which had been sitting in the basement all year.

"After we got the air conditioner in, it wasn't quite so bad. We just figured out ways to say inside and lay around," she said.

Plymouthite held for robbery

A 29-year-old Plymouth man was arraigned on two felony counts Tuesday stemming from an armed robbery last Thursday in Waddy's Grocery, 45144 Ford Road, Canton Township.

Ian Hopkins, of 841 Beech Court, Plymouth, pleaded guilty before 35th District Judge Dunbar Davis—but the judge refused to accept the plea because the charges are felonies which must be heard in circuit court. Hopkins is charged with armed robbery and committing a felony with a firearm.

Hopkins requested a court-appointed lawyer.

In court, store owner Sulieman Odeh stated that Hopkins entered the store at about 5 p.m. on July 21 and demanded all the money from the store owner's wallet and cash register. Odeh said Hopkins was armed with a pistol—described by police as a .32 caliber.

"He asked me to lie down on the floor and not to get up until he said 'no,'" said Odeh. "As he was leaving he said, 'Now you can get up.' When I got to the door to take down the license number, he fired at me (with the gun)."

A total of $175 was taken in the robbery—$150 from the register and $25 from Odeh's wallet.

WAYNE COUNTY Sheriff Det. Edward Lindberg said that Odeh was able to give police a description of a brown van leaving the scene and a

CUT-THROAT CAPITALISTS

Fortunes won and lost by toss of the dice

By DENNIS O'CONNOR

Some liked the "yellow" properties, some liked the "red," and others were content to raise money on the railroads and utilities.

But whatever strategy prevailed, everyone agreed that the first annual Monopoly tournament in the Plymouth-Canton community was nothing but fun.

"We set up the tournament so adults and children could have some fun playing Monopoly," said Ken Bjornbak of the Family Emporium.

"We called Parker Brothers, distributors of the game, and they told us about the sanctioned tournament they have around the country."

"We didn't even know about a national tournament."

Bjornbak hosted the district tourney at the Penniman Avenue game store last Saturday. And for a first-year event, Bjornbak could not have been more pleased, since nearly 60 Monopoly players, the majority of which were children, came to compete.

Jerry Geretschlager, 17, a German foreign exchange student living with the Scott family of Amhurst Court in Plymouth, won the championship and a brand-new 50 Monopoly board.

Geretschlager also won the right to compete in the regional tourney in Houston next month but won't play since he returned to his homeland earlier this week.

Geretschlager is no stranger to the winner's circle in Monopoly competition.

"I've been playing this game for about 13 years," said the German player. "It's mostly luck, but I haven't lost a game in five years. In Germany, the board is a little different, but it's basically the same game."

The final round of four players included two bankrupts which ended the competition. Bob Mester finished second, Dorie McCubbrey was third and John Kummer ended fourth.

The first-round included a 90-minute short-form of the game. The top 12 persons with the most assets advanced to the second round before the final four battled for the championship.

Most of the children who entered considered the tourney a fun idea and something different to do. But there were others who took the game seriously—despite admitting lots of luck was needed to win.

seriously—despite admitting lots of luck was needed to win.

In fact, 17-year-old Jeff Ivey brought a book called "1,000 Ways to Play Monopoly." He admitted one had to be "out for blood" in tournament play.

"I've read this book three times," Ivey said. "The best strategy is to soak up all the houses. Your best defense will be your best defense."

Brian Flynn, 13, had a different view of the game.

"I entered because I thought it would be a fun tournament," Flynn said. "I try to buy the yellow properties because it's not expensive and everyone lands on it."

Kummer, 9, was the biggest surprise as the fourth place finisher. "We always play in my neighborhood," he said. "I like to play this game."

When asked how long he has played Monopoly, Kummer calmly said "Oh, for about one month."

Fire tax is reduced

Canton taxpayers will pay one-fourth of a mill less for fire protection this year.

Township board members Tuesday slashed a quarter mill (25 cents per $1,000 state equalized value) from last year's township-wide tax levy of 1½ mills for fire protection.

Under the 1977-78 tax levy of 1¼ mills, owners of a $40,000 home will spend $25 to support the fire department—$5 less than they paid last year.

Canton deputy treasurer Mike Gorman said the reduction was made possible by an expected decrease in the fire department's expenditures.

Although the reduction of a quarter mill means $56,750 less revenue, Gorman says the 1977-78 fire budget of $283,750 should allow township officials to make up almost $100,000 of the $116,714 deficit the fire department incurred last year.

The fire department's 1978-79 budget will have to compensate for the remaining deficit of almost $17,000.

According to Gorman, the deficit in the fire department's 1976-77 budget resulted from construction of the township's second fire station. Completion of the station allows for the millage reduction.

"I believe by keeping expenditures down, we can make up the small deficit and save the taxpayers some money," Supervisor Harold Stein said at Tuesday's meeting.

Board members unanimously approved the millage reduction after holding a public hearing on the fire budget. The few persons who spoke at the hearing said they were in favor of any tax reduction.

People have claimed at one time or another that onions would do all of these things.

We aren't making any such claims for the ordinary onion, but they are worth mentioning since they have been around for thousands of years. Historians speculate that the first onions grew in the middle Asian countries and spread both east and west, finally coming to the New World with the Spanish explorers. Today Americans eat more than 13 pounds of onions each year for every man, woman and child in the country.

Onions don't have to be seasoning all the time. They make great vegetable dishes, too. Creamed, or braised, they are equally delicious.

2 women hurt in crash

A head-on two-car collision on Warren west of Cowan in Westland Monday afternoon hospitalized one Canton woman and injured another.

Susan Desmyter, 17, of 8307 Orhan, in Canton is listed in good condition in Wayne County General Hospital. Sherry Pinko, 20, of 8188 Fawn, in Canton also was treated and released.

There were no other passengers and no witnesses, according to Westland police, who said Ms. Desmyter was issued a ticket for driving left of center. "She was injured the most and we didn't prosecute further," said Westland Police Officer Walter Rozen. Police have dropped further investigation.

According to Rozen, a 1969 Chevrolet driven westbound on Warren by Ms. Desmyter crossed the center line and collided with a 1970 Monte Carlo driven eastbound on Warren by Ms. Pinko. Both cars were demolished in the accident.

Police statistics show the accident rate in Westland is up somewhat for the first six months of this year compared with last year. From January through June, police in Westland recorded 1,318 accidents, up from the figure of 1,164 recorded for the same six-month period in 1976.

'Dream House' hopes turn into legal nightmare is justified, the builder must repair the defect in five days. If he does not, a complaint will be forwarded to the Michigan Department of Licensing and Regulation for further action.

"I'm willing to do everything I can to help the homeowner," Stein said. "I wouldn't want to be in a box like some residents are now."

KUMMERT, A TANGLEWOOD resident with a lien on his home, admits that "box" is not too pleasant.

Although the Tanglewood Homeowners Association has filed a suit in Wayne County Circuit Court to force mortgage and title insurance companies to pay the liens and stop foreclosure proceedings, Kummert admits homeowners are afraid of losing their homes.

Residents would lose all or most of their down payments, he said, if mortgages are foreclosed and the houses sold at public auction since the mortgages and liens would be paid off first.

"As the song goes, no one knows the troubles I've seen," said Kummert. "You save money. You build your dream house. Then something like this happens that certainly takes the joy out of owning a home."

According to Kummert, one Tanglewood resident has even suffered a nervous breakdown over the matter.

"There's certainly been a lot of anxiety in our subdivision," he said. "If I had it to do all over again, I'd think twice before buying a new home."

Cop calls his layoff 'vindictive'

An Inkster policeman, who last year served as an instructor for the Canton police reserves, was denied reinstatement to the Canton Police Department Tuesday night.

Canton resident Al McEwen believes denial of his reinstatement request is based on "vindictive" accusations of mental instability from police Cmdr. Carl Silvers. Township board trustees said Tuesday night they will not hire or reinstate anyone to the police department until a new police chief is hired.

The trustees' unanimous vote against reinstating McEwen Tuesday night reaffirmed an earlier vote taken at a closed meeting about a month ago. McEwen, who was not informed of the closed meeting when it took place, said he wanted to bring the whole matter into the open.

McEwen, a CERTIFIED Inkster police officer who instructed and scheduled reserves under former Supervisor-Police Chief Robert Greenstein, took to the podium Tuesday night with a well-documented speech.

The former Canton sergeant said he took a leave of absence from his teaching position in the police department last August because of the political atmosphere surrounding the department in the heat of the election campaign.

McEwen said he requested reinstatement to the department last April. After being given the "run-around" by township board trustees, McEwen said he intercepted a letter from Silvers asking permission to hire another police sergeant. Six days later, McEwen received a letter from Supervisor Harold Stein stating that the police department was fully staffed.

The former Canton sergeant, in charge of instructing new officers in police procedures, says a letter from his psychiatrist affirms that he is emotionally stable and ready to return to the township police department.

McEwen took a leave of absence from the Inkster Police Department because of "depression" last winter, but he is now back on the job. He moonlighted on the Canton force, but indicated that he'd like a job with Canton's police department.

"If the Inkster Police Department reinstated me, why can't you?" McEwen asked trustees.

McEwen CLAIMED Silvers, who had recommended against his reinstatement, has a "personal vendetta" against him. He suggested that Silvers is afraid that he is after his job.

At one point in McEwen's speech, Trustee Brian Schwall asked the policeman to "lay off the character assassination."

Silvers suggested that McEwen is "emotionally unstable."

"I cannot in good conscience subject the township to the liability he might cause, judging from his medical record," Silvers said.

Clerk John Flodin, a member of the township's police commission, said board members' decision against reinstating McEwen is based primarily on a wait-and-see attitude until a police chief is hired. The clerk said he is unsure whether McEwen's request will be reconsidered after a police chief is hired.

Newcomers' kids will go only to Plymouth-Canton

Final approval was given by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education Monday night to the random selection process designed to balance student populations more evenly between Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton high schools.

A change was made to allow new students whose families are moving into the school district to be assigned to Plymouth Canton High. That change was requested by trustee Joe Gray in hopes of speeding up the balancing process between the two schools. Salem now has about 2,300 students compared to some 1,700 students at Canton High.

The vote to approve the amended random selection plan was 4-0. Absent were Steve Harper, George Lawton and Tom Yack.

UNDER RANDOM selection, the names of seventh graders are placed into a computer to be randomly drawn for assignment to either high school.

The computer draw is designed to eliminate human bias in the student assignment process. The plan is also an attempt to divide population evenly between the two high schools plus allow for even distribution of students by grade and sex.

Gray asked for an amendment to the administration's plan to allow new students moving into the district to be assigned to Canton High to speed up the balancing process.

"It doesn't make sense to me to divide the new students coming in on a 50-50 basis when right now Salem has 25 per cent more students than Canton," said Gray, "although I don't support random selection anyway."

Dick Arlen said he would support Gray's amendment as long as the district could remain flexible to meet the needs of the student population of any given year.

Superintendent John M. Hoben pointed out that the random selection process is geared up to obtain an even distribution between the two schools over four years. "By adding to Canton High now, at the end of the four year cycle you will create a reverse problem with Canton having more students. The intent is to bring the two close together over time," Hoben said.

"This coming year, for instance, Salem will decrease by about 100 students while Canton is to increase by about 100 students."

"We can speed up the balance by assigning all new students to Canton this year, but the board should understand that this will create an imbalance at the end of four years unless we make adjustments not planned for from year to year. And we may not get the even distribution among grades and sex we plan to get now."

Stricter attendance policy is approved

A strict attendance policy has been adopted for this fall at the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park.

The new policy was approved 4-0 Monday night by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

"The policy is based on our expectations that students will be in every class each day," explained Marcia Borowski, board president, "and we are very serious about it. We expect it will be enforced to the fullest, and when a student has eight unexcused absences he will be pulled from class."

"A key part of the new policy is communication with parents. Before a student reaches eight unexcused absences there will be two direct contacts with parents, and another will be made at the eighth."

UNDER THE POLICY, any student who is absent eight times during a semester without a verifiable excuse will be withdrawn from the class and given a grade of "W."

A student who falls below give classes during a semester will be assigned to a directed study area for a time equal to the meeting time of the class from which they are withdrawn. Any student who falls below four classes may be placed on a reduced schedule and sent home. Any student who falls below three classes will be withdrawn from school for the remainder of the semester.

Students under the age of 16 will be referred to the attendance officer for truancy and possible reassignment to a class without credit.

THE COMMITTEE which worked on the draft of the policy anticipates a large number of withdrawals for unexcused absences will take place during the first semester until students become aware that the policy will be strictly enforced.

The responsibility for determining whether an absence is excused is placed on individual teachers.

The committee report notes that: "The policy is not intended to change behavior and should not be interpreted by anyone that it will. Indirectly, there may be some improvement in overall attendance as students learn that the consequences of their non-attendance and that the policy will be enforced resulting in their being dropped from a class."

Excused absences will be granted only for illness, family emergency, valid business or school business. Excused absences must be verified in writing by parents. Such verification must include a phone number where parents can be reached so the schools can also verify by phone in addition to the note.

Teachers must confront a student who is absent upon his return to determine if the absence is excused.

Cops pushing millage

Secondary, elementary education directors hired

The curriculum team has now filled its major slots and will be at operating capacity in a couple weeks.

Monday night the Plymouth Board of Education voted 4-0 to approve the hiring of Dr. John Telford as director of secondary education and Dr. Barbara Bowman as director of elementary education. Both will report to newly-hired Dr. Michael Home, assistant superintendent for instruction.

The hirings had almost failed as the first vote was 3-1 with Joe Gray dissenting. Four votes were needed for passage.

Gray voted no to protest the fact that recruiting seemed to be limited within a 100-mile area and because the screening committee consisted of people who would work under the new directors once hired.

Superintendent John M. Hoben said all screenings were handled that way and if the board objected it should change the policy. Gray agreed to a reconsideration of the motion and it then passed 4-0. Absent were Tom Yack, Steve Harper and George Lawton.

TELFORD, 41, has a bachelor's degree in English from Wayne State University in 1958, a master of education in English Education from WSU in 1961 and a doctorate in education in 1968 from WSU with emphasis on secondary administration and supervision and curriculum.

He was a teacher, department head and track coach for Detroit Public Schools for nine years. Telford once was named to the NCAA all-star track team and represented the U.S. in international competition in 1958-59.

Telford served as an assistant high school principal for Walled Lake School District and as director of the division of basic education for Macomb Community College.

His most recent assignment was with Berkley Schools as director of the division of health, physical education and athletics.

He has published a book, now in its second revision, and numerous magazine articles. He also plays the violin and does paintings.

He was a member of the Harper Woods Youth Board and of the Berkley Recreation Commission.

BOWMAN, 35, earned her BS in elementary education from WSU in 1965, received a master degree with elementary education major in 1970 from Michigan State University, and a PhD from MSU in 1976 with dual major in teacher education and elementary education and minor in educational psychology.

She has taught for a total of eight years, including three years in Detroit, two years in Lamphere School District, and three years in East Lansing. Since 1972 she has been director of the Teacher Improvement project for which she has conducted workshops for seven school districts.

Dr. Bowman has been a lecturer at University of Idaho and has taught graduate classes at WSU. She has been a consultant for the state departments of education for Ohio and New York and has made a number of presentations to groups such as the National Education Association and Michigan Association for Childhood Education.

Candidates debate housing, parking, economic growth

Downtown development, parking and senior citizen housing are the major issues being discussed by the candidates for the Plymouth City Commission.

Eight of the 11 candidates spoke to those issues at last week's candidates night in city hall co-sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Northville, Plymouth, Canton, Novi and the Plymouth branch of the American Association of University Women.

Jim Houk, who was out of town, had an excused absence. Mayor Joe Bida was expected but didn't show while James Arlen didn't respond to the invitation to appear.

IN AN OPENING statement, Mary Childs said the commission should be concerned with cost of government and the quality of life for all citizens, especially for senior citizens and the handicapped.

"This past year the city commission reduced millage by nine-tenths of a mill, but we aren't immune to rising costs and must continue to find ways to reduce costs of services or perhaps the services themselves. We held six meetings on the budget this year, and must continue that kind of critical review of the budget."

"The administration must continue to be alert to see that we get our full share of revenue sharing funds and we need to improve the tax base by promoting viable business in town."

In seeking to augment existing programs for senior citizens, said Mrs. Child, the commission should take a close look at Dial-A-Ride and other forms of transportation.

"We also need to find housing solutions for senior citizens. During the referendum election, there was talk of an alternative to the Forest-Dillon project. Unfortunately the alternative to the ballot proposal hasn't yet surfaced."

"A municipal parking commission is being established, and when it makes recommendations, the city commission must make important decisions on location of parking and methods of payment."

MARK WEHMEYER defined his opening statement as his "going in" position, but added he will look at all the facts and won't take any hard-nosed positions on any issues.

"We must control expenditures to make sure taxes won't rise any faster than property values. In the past 10 years my taxes have gone up 2 1/2 times, but my property values certainly haven't doubled. This is the most important factor the commission must deal with because property values will drop every time taxes get out of hand."

"In Plymouth low-income families can live here in pleasant surroundings, and that's unique. But they will be denied that opportunity unless taxes are kept down."

Wehmyer said a community action program is needed to make people aware of problems and encourage them to help. "Most people will help if only a week or two are involved. They just don't want to get stuck with a year or more."

"We must determine the need for parking and senior housing based on studies. And I don't think the need for either has been established yet positively by any of the studies. The commission, once it gets a study, should go over each point separately and then take some kind of action."

"I am against multi-level parking and high-rise housing—they shouldn't be inflicted on Plymouth."

"We also need a master recreation plan for all ages of residents."

"But our first priority ought to be to control spending to keep taxes in line."

RONALD LOISELLE said as a young man he had the chance to see Detroit Common Council in action and it impressed him so he wanted someday to get involved in setting laws and policies for the city in which he lived.

"We need to look at the budget. For a couple years now we have been more than $200,000 in excess over budget. In 1976-77 expenses were over-estimated by $145,000 and revenues were off by $132,000. Any surplus funds should be returned to the taxpayers."

Loiselle said an item which could be trimmed was the $14,000 budgeted for staff members to attend conventions. He also cited the $27,000 loss in the operation of the Cultural Center.

"There shouldn't be a loss at the Cultural Center. We don't have efficient management of the center. We need more programs, such as circus and antique shows, every weekend."

Loiselle concluded his opening remarks by saying: "I chose to live in Plymouth because I believe its the best community around to live in and I want to serve on the commission to make it better."

LORI WATT said her concerns, in order of priority, are taxes, increased cooperation between city and township, senior citizen housing, parking, and updating the master plan and zoning and what's happening to neighborhoods.

"In Plymouth, 60 per cent of our tax base is residential while 40 per cent is commercial and industrial. Chances for industrial growth is limited because there's no gas. The growth to the east and south of the city affects us. In the near future, retailers will be in competition with the 12-Oaks mall within six miles of the city. We must, therefore, develop service-oriented office uses, and clean businesses such as warehouses, electronics or printing."

She pointed out that Birmingham's tax base is 49 per cent residential and this is a split that Plymouth should strive for.

"Cooperation between city and township is essential for the development of both municipalities. We can economize one, by combined services, save about one-third. That would allow us to reduce city taxes by about four mills and spread good city services to the township."

"Cooperation also is essential for good planning, so we aren't working at cross-purposes. For an example, just look at the troubles of Franklin which is being threatened to be overshadowed by high-rises in Southfield."

Mrs. Watt said the city should design and augment a diverse housing program for senior citizens. "We need housing like Tonquish Creek, rent subsidies for those who now are renting, clusters of small apartments, or maybe old-fashioned boarding houses."

The longer the city delays on adding parking, she said, the harder it will be for merchants to do business and the greater the chance part of the general fund will have to be used to subsidize parking.

The master plan is nine years old, she concluded, and needs to be updated.

CLAY FECHTER in his opening remarks noted that no-one asked him to run for the commission and he isn't a member of any group in town.

"There are too few people in town with too much influence, and a lot of residents with little or none. That's what I decided to run. There'll be a lot of challenges in the next few years and I'd like to help meet those challenges. We need a strong commission that will listen to people before they act. I think my background as an administrator for Schoolcraft will add to the commission."

"We can preserve the small-town nature of Plymouth and still preserve the financial soundness of the city. We can encourage the excellent growth we've had in business, such as Forrest Place Mall and the Penniman Avenue Shops."

"But we need to be more careful how we spend our money. I suggest we implement zero-based budgeting which is now used by the federal government and is being looked at by the state."

"The way the city budgets, once an expense is created it is automatically repeated in the next budget and is increased incrementally without any justification given from year to year. You can look at a line in last year's budget that was budgeted at $10,000. We spent $8,000 and then turn around and budget for this year at $14,000. That's what's wrong with incremental budgeting. We should start at ground zero every third year."

The senior citizen survey showed that maintenance of homes is the most important problem facing the elderly, Fechter said, other senior citizens on fixed incomes.

"If the merchants want more parking, then let them pay for more. After all, they are the ones who are under code. The hotel, for instance, is 160 spaces under code."

PENNY WRIGHT commented that the commercial sector in Plymouth is pressing to get benefits to keep the downtown vital, but that the benefits would result in rising taxes.

"The approach that should be taken to solve problems shouldn't be the approach used for such things as the loop road or the Forest-Dillon project."

She advocated, instead, development of a master plan that would take into account social and environmental data as well as economics and land use planning.

"Such a plan would guide commissioners in the decision making process. Also, any group in the city could read it to determine our direction. It would avoid duplication and waste."

"Such a plan also would help us set priorities and improve our chances of getting federal revenue sharing funds. As an example, when the farmer's market idea was turned down the commission turned to the Old Village idea without considering other ideas. It would be better to have a backlog of other alternatives. The plan also would help the city officials respond more quickly to an emergency situation."

On development, Mrs. Wright noted: "If we expand the commercial base in such a way that we compromise our small town image, then we'll lose tax base. We need to encourage growth, but keep it controlled, especially the height of buildings."

On senior citizens housing, she noted: "We are part way now to getting a comprehensive plan for senior citizen needs. The survey showed us transportation and recreation are problems. We should consider something such as Dial-A-Ride."

"When you look at the small amount of money budgeted for playgrounds in the city, I don't think we should be looking at such things as racquetball."

DAVE PUGH said the city at two square miles is of a limited size, and has no room for expansion, and so, the commission must be concerned with maintaining the vitality of the present tax base.

"I am particularly concerned because of inflation pushing up government costs and because of the expansion occurring around the city. A lot of people are coming into Plymouth and using our services with the homeowners having to pay the bill."

"With little land left for residential expansion, and with industry leaving the city, we must look towards commercial development. Commercial pays 25 per cent of our taxes."

"One advantage we've is a defined downtown business area. There's no strip business area as in other communities. What we need to do is to maintain this healthy tax base so the millage rate can stay where it's at, or else we'd have to discontinue services."

"I believe senior citizens do want help in housing, and the commission must take some action in this area in December."

"I hope that parking does become an issue. There are shortages in certain areas at certain times, with Weidman Lot being the most critical spot."

JACK MOEHLE said his three primary concerns are fiscal responsibility, citizen involvement, and development of written policies by the commission.

"By fiscal responsibility, I mean we must get the most from our money to benefit the most people, and not spend to benefit just a few people."

"We must involve more people in government. People don't get involved because they don't feel it's their government. They see the same faces appointed to boards and commissions, and when they do try to participate they get the feeling they aren't welcomed."

"We need more participation of citizens in groups such as the Blue Ribbon Study Committee on Senior Citizens."

Moehle said the commission wastes too much time on small matters because it doesn't operate under written policies. "We did have a parking policy, but the commission wouldn't follow it. The lack of written policies allows politicians to do what seems expedient at the time."

Schoolcraft to offer crime evidence course

Schoolcraft College will offer a course for law enforcement officers covering crime scene physical evidence on Aug. 6 and 13.

The class will meet on both Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Northville State Police post.

According to instructor James Hauncher of the State Police scientific laboratory, the two-day course is designed to acquaint law enforcement officers with modern methods of recognition, evaluation, collection and preservation of physical evidence at the crime scene.

In addition, a brief discussion of the analytical methods used by the crime laboratory will be presented. Practical "hands-on" experience in the collection of various types of evidence will be provided. The class will also tour the state police scientific laboratory.

Mr. Hauncher is a laboratory scientist in the criminalistics section at the scientific laboratory. He holds a BS from Michigan State University and has taught law enforcement part-time at Schoolcraft since 1972.

Tuition, payable at the first class session, is $15.50 for college district residents and $26 for non-residents. Enrollment is limited and interested officers should register by calling the continuing education office at 591-6400, ext. 264.

The police post is located on Seven Mile, between Haggerty and Northville roads, in Northville.

Time limit is asked on freeway construction noise

While many view the new M-14 expressway as a decided improvement, at least one Plymouth Township resident thinks it's a pain in the neck.

Anna Mulligan, who lives on Schoolcraft Road, asked the township board of trustees to approve an ordinance restricting the hours of construction on the highway. And the officials are going to see what they can do to oblige her.

In a letter to Supervisor Thomas Notebaert, Mrs. Mulligan complained that the noise from the machinery continues unabated from dawn to dusk.

"Work on the highway along Schoolcraft is in full force," she said. "And it is no pleasure being jolted out of one's bed at 5:30 in the morning from the sounds of heavy equipment."

"This would not be too bad, except some of this machinery is still in operation at 9 p.m. Fifteen and a half hours of constant noise from the equipment, air horns and back-up warning beeps is more than a human can take. This is above and beyond the dust

"Please don't tell me that we are getting a million dollar highway," she continued, "because I'm getting a two million dollar breakdown from lack of sleep."

MRS. MULLIGAN complained that both Plymouth and Livonia have construction starting times of 7 a.m. She wanted to know if the township couldn't "get in step" and pass a similar ordinance.

Trustee Frank Millington, who also lives near the expressway, said he had gotten used to the noise and sleeps very well.

"Try it in your backyard," responded Mrs. Mulligan from the audience. Deputy Clerk Marv Ellen Kenyon asked if Mrs. Mulligan's complaint could be taken care of through an existing township ordinance limiting the level of noise in public.

But Trustee Richard Gornick said that particular ordinance had to do with federal noise regulations and didn't limit when the noise could take place. Notebaert commented that he had checked with Plymouth and Livonia, and both cities simply had a clause in their ordinances which governed when construction work could and could not be done.

"I think we could just add a paragraph to our ordinance like the other cities," he said, "and that would take care of it."

After some discussion on how difficult it would be to enforce such an ordinance, the board directed Notebaert to prepare an amendment and bring it back for approval at the next regular meeting.

Housing on upswing

Canton an area leader in housing

In an indication of economic recovery, residential building permits in 1976 were 24.3 per cent higher than in 1975.

The Southeast Michigan Council of Governments reported that 19,642 building permits were issued in the seven-county region.

Canton Township again ranked among the top 10 communities in residential construction. It was third in the region, issuing 1,042 permits, SEMCOG said.

"I THINK THIS is an indication of the general upswing in the economy," said newly-appointed SEMCOG housing subcommittee Chairperson Justine Barns, Westland City Council president.

"If the current economic trend continues, I think we will continue to see an increase in residential construction activity," Mrs. Barns said.

Construction of multiple-family dwellings remained at low levels, while single-family construction activity is on the increase regionally, SEMCOG reported.

The City of Detroit issued a total of 588 building permits, placing in second only to Canton Township in new construction in Wayne County. But Detroit also issued 6,955 demolition permits. Thus, it had a net loss of 6,637 housing units. It was one of a handful of communities which suffered a net housing loss.

HERE IS HOW Observerland communities ranked during 1976:

Canton Township issued a net of 1,042 permits, all but eight for single-family dwellings.

Plymouth Township ranked third in the county (behind Canton and Southgate) by issuing a net of 304 permits. These included 280 new single-family dwellings, 56 apartment units and 32 demolitions.

The City of Livonia had a net of 267 permits, ranking fourth in the county. These included 261 new single-family houses, 20 apartments and 14 demolitions.

Garden City had a net of 238 new units. There were 26 new single-family dwellings, 219 multiples and seven demolitions. It was Garden City's first strong showing in new housing in some years.

The City of Westland, for many years a growth area among the suburbs, showed a net of only 46 new units. It issued permits for 48 new single-family dwellings, four for two-family units and six demolitions.

The City of Plymouth had a net of only one new unit. It issued permits for five new single-family dwellings, six new multiples and 10 demolitions.

Mental facility may go to state

While the future administration of Wayne County General Hospital in Westland is being reviewed, operation of the psychiatric hospital may soon transfer from county responsibility to the state.

Currently the psychiatric hospital, located on the same grounds as the general hospital but has a separate administration, is operated by Wayne County. Under a new funding formula, however, the state is supposed to supply 90 per cent of the funding with the county supplying the other 10 per cent.

This year, the psychiatric hospital has been operating under the county's 10 per cent because the state funding, which was due in March, has been delayed. That delay had threatened the closing of the psychiatric facility.

That threat, however, soon may be over. Chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners John Barr (D-Dearborn Heights), whose district includes part of Westland, said he expects that the county will soon receive last year's state funding and that the state will assume operation of the hospital in the future.

"My prediction is that there will be no interruption in the psychiatric care for troubled people in Wayne County," said Barr. "I have been advised verbally that we can expect the money (last year's 90 per cent state funding) soon. I expect to receive a letter in a few days confirming this. The governor and state legislature are disposed to paying this.

"There has never been an intent to close the hospital. My view is that the state will assume operation of the psychiatric hospital, paying their 90 per cent and billing us for the other 10 per cent," continued Barr.

He added that a definite plan has yet to be made on the operations changeover. "The state operates hospitals elsewhere, and I think it is their intent to do so here," Barr added.

In the meantime, the hospital will remain open because "it would be a great disservice to the citizens of the county if the facility was closed at this time," according to a report approved by the board of commissioners July 7.

Accepting that recommendation from its human resources committee, the board agreed that "failure by the state to live up to its responsibility to allocate funds is the biggest single factor affecting continued operation (of the psychiatric facility)."

The report from the human resources committee recommended that the psychiatric hospital remain open despite county financial problems that include a potential $10-12 million budget deficit.

A hospital task force, appointed by Barr in February to assess overall operation of general and psychiatric facilities, has yet to study the psychiatric hospital.

The task force report on operation of the general hospital has been referred to the human resources committee of the county board of commissioners and to the county board of institutions for their review.

"My personal hope," said Barr, "is that they would adopt the recommendations of the task force."

The task force report recommended that the general hospital's administration be changed to one of two alternatives:

- A new public hospital authority, which would function as an independent benefit corporation with full authority and responsibility for hospital operation, or;

- A quasi-independent hospital authority within Wayne County government, such as a bridge, road or airport authority, with full authority and responsibility for hospital operation.

The general hospital currently reports to the following county committees: human resources for programs and general policy; general government for civil service and labor relations questions; the public works for land and facilities; and the ways and means for fiscal matters.

Barr said he believes a hospital structure established like a road commission could be "frustratingly independent but very good. It removes hospital operation from politics and keeps it independent."

Under such a proposal, Barr said the county probably would continue to fund the hospital, but the amount was impossible to predict. Although there would be "transitional problems" with a change in hospital administration, Barr believes the board of commissioners "will go along with it."

The task force, which is chaired by Dr. Ramon Joseph, a Livonia doctor from Wayne County General, also recommended that the hospital continue to provide health care for those who otherwise couldn't obtain or finance such care.

It also recommended that the hospital continue to provide a full range of services, including emergency and specialized services unavailable elsewhere in the county, and that the hospital continue its role as a teaching facility.

Laying the cobblestone

The long-awaited cobblestone project got under way Tuesday morning in the alley between Starkweather and Mill streets in Old Village. First a bed of regular cement was laid; then two inches of russet brick cement. Powder is sprinkled on this layer to intensify the color before the presses imprint a cobblestone pattern in the cement for texture. Two days later grout is spread in the depressions. A final coat of sealer gives the final protection. Sidewalk superintendents were John and Pat Hann with daughter, Amanda, Alan Gove and other Old Village merchants. (Staff photo)

The Stroller

Yachting thrills

By W.W. EDGAR

It isn't very often that a fellow gets a chance to visit the scene of one of his first challenges as a sports writer after an absence of 50 years and relive one of the weirdest chapters of his entire career.

Yet this is what happened to The Stroller last week when he spent a few days on the St. Clair River as a respite from the daily toil and the torrid weather.

Sitting on the banks of the river with the little woman's cousin, Henry Beattie, watching the big freighters go by, Beattie turned to us and asked, "How would you like to go up to Port Huron and see the start of the sailing race to Mackinac Island?"

It didn't take very long to make up our minds, and before we knew it we were walking along the docks looking at the sleek boats and milling with the crowds that make the night before the Mackinac race something to behold.

The carnival atmosphere, the crowded docks, helicopters hovering over head, the members of the various crews making merry before the long vigil out of the water all blended into a scene that stands apart from any other activity along the St. Lawrence waterway.

As he jostled his way through the crowds looking at the boats, The Stroller had to smile for the picture was far different than it was on his first visit as a neophyte about to "cover" his first sailing race.

IT WAS BACK in 1927 when the Bayview Yacht Club was preparing for its second race from Port Huron to Mackinac.

At the time, no one in any of the sports departments of the daily prints was designated as a "yachting editor."

So, The Stroller was quite shocked when the sports editor tapped him on the shoulder one afternoon and said, "You are going to cover the Mackinac race."

It was a shock because The Stroller never had seen a sail boat up close and didn't know a schooner from a ketch or a yawl. But it was an assignment and he had to make the most of it.

To prepare himself, The Stroller visited the Rayview Club and had one of the veteran sailors draw pictures of the various types of boats and the sails, with the name printed on each one of them.

With the drawing in hand, he suggested to the sports editor that it be printed in the Sunday editions along with a story of the race. More than that, it carried a note stating that W.W. Edgar, the yachting editor, was going to cover the race.

What a challenge!

Come the day of the race, The Stroller took his place on the press boat, watched the start, and with the aid of a few sailors, got the information to return to shore and write his story. Then it was off to Mackinac on one of the big cruise ships of the time. It was here that he met the challenge—face to face.

When he arrived on the island on Sunday morning, he was more than 100 miles ahead of the boats and he kept wondering what he would write about that afternoon.

In desperation he hired a boat to take him out to the lighthouse where he could talk to the lighthouse keeper and possibly get the latest information.

Revealing his plight, the old lighthouse keeper kindly took him in confidence and told him that the wind had "gone around the clock and that whatever was the position of the boats when he last saw them was the position they would be in now."

So, The Stroller wrote a "wind" story as his first effort from the island. Came the next day, and again there were no boats in sight. Now he was in trouble. He couldn't write another "wind" story. But lady luck smiled on him.

WHEN HE VISITED the race tent, one of the officials informed him that one of the boats had dropped out.

"And," the informer explained, "this is a boat that sailed the Atlantic and yet has never been able to sail the lakes."

That was the second day story—and there was no need to get into details of the various boats—the schooners, yawls, ketches or sloops.

That night, the boats started crossing the finish line. By the time The Stroller had to write again, the race was decided with all the intricate timing and figuring.

It was a simple matter to write the concluding story from the island. But it was an experience he never will forget—a yachting editor who never had seen a sailboat.

Can you blame him for chuckling last week when, after 50 years, he was back on the docks reliving one of the weirdest experiences of his life?

Teaming up for some aerial fun in the Fly High for Dystrophy benefit are (from left) Don Haney,

Fly High benefit to be at Mettetal

Mettetal Airport in Canton Township will be one of three sites for the fourth annual "Fly High For Dystrophy" event being held this weekend to raise funds for the 1977 Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon.

A host of celebrity pilots will donate their planes and flying talents by giving rides to the general public in return for contributions of five dollars or more to muscular dystrophy. The other sponsoring airports are located in Pontiac and Monroe.

This is the first year Mettetal Airport has become involved in the Fly High event. Among the celebrities flying planes at Mettetal this weekend are Don Haney, Tom Korzeniowski, Tom Dean, Sonny Eliot, Bob Hynes, Jennifer Harp and Jo Jo Shutt.

Other celebrity pilots are expected to be added to the list and there will be on-the-ground entertainment supplied by Bozo the Clown, Mr. Woodini and Bob Posch, night club entertainer. Another attraction will include a few local vintage planes.

Most of the fuel and aircraft necessary for the success of the Fly High event are being donated by participating pilots and flight schools so the Muscular Dystrophy Association will be able to receive nearly 100 per cent of the proceeds. The telethon will run continuously Sept. 4-5.

The benefit will take place on Saturday and Sunday from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Mettetal Airport is located at the intersection of Joy and Lilley Roads in Canton Township.

editorial opinion

Will we learn a lesson from crash? Not likely

To six families:

The Observer, on behalf of the greater Plymouth-Canton community, is writing this letter to the families of Douglas McGregor, Bradley Wilson, William Cook, Brian Stout, Steve Radgens, Erik Corey and Don Gulau. We, too, were in shock Saturday morning as word spread that six young men were killed in an automobile accident in Dexter Township.

The news spread like a shock wave because, in a small town, the boys were known by many friends and acquaintances. Every time the subject came up in a group of people, someone was bound to exclaim: "My God, I knew one of those boys. In fact, my son had just seen him Friday afternoon," or words to that effect.

Everyone's life touches hundreds of others. That's why the death of six young men was a tragedy the entire community shared. Most of us touched their lives one way or another.

THE TRAGEDY, of course, was that lives were lost in such a senseless manner. It was more tragic because all six were young, each looking towards a future that knew no bounds. There is some solace, however, in that they already had packed a lot of life into their 16 to 19 years.

And they were living like many other young people during those few hours before death. They were with friends, having a good time on a Friday evening. Hundreds of other teenagers were doing the same thing that evening—having fun with friends.

Looking back, there is a natural inclination to want to blame someone for the tragedy, and one of the easiest targets seems to be the bar the boys apparently visited just minutes before the accident. The fact that all but one were under the legal drinking age of 18 suggests the tavern owner may share liability for the deaths. By law, a tavern owner can be liable for serving minors or for allowing adults to drink themselves to intoxication. We don't know yet the final details of what happened at the bar. The matter is still under investigation. We do know the boys were there in search of a good time with friends, and if one or more drank too much, they did so voluntarily, with knowledge of the risks they were taking.

That well may be the real tragedy of Saturday morning—that all of us do things we know are filled with danger. Alcohol is a drug misused by many, young and old. And many who have had a fair amount to drink are deceived into thinking they are sober enough to drive. The warning "If you drink, don't drive" hasn't penetrated.

The truth is that for every person who drinks and ends up in a fatal auto accident, there are many more of us who do the same senseless thing and somehow survive. Many more may be killed in a similar fashion, but the message does not sink in. The real tragedy is we might not learn from their deaths.

Although we are too human to learn from Saturday's tragedy, because we are human we do share some of the grief and tears six families have shed this week. Not all of us have sent flowers, but we want each family to know we share their grief. It could have been us or a member of our family in that car. It was a human error, and we are all prone to the same mistakes. Thus, it is human grief we share today.

Living good; distractions few

Despite the images of Thanksgiving and Christmas as great times for families, late summer—specifically August—must be ranked as the best season for the most basic unit of society.

Few civic activities are there to distract family members. Little League and recreation baseball have wound down. Clubs are nearly dormant. Summer school is a whisper. The only politics are a few city primaries that provide more faint amusement than municipal stimuli.

In Michigan, the eating is the best of the year. Peaches, plums, a multitude of vegetables and especially sweet corn are in season, and buying them at farmers' stands provides a break in our shopping patterns. The kids are more often along on these trips than they are on those trips to the supermarket. We don't think about it at the time, but these late summer suppers are the best and least pressured meals of the year for the family.

The Rood case

Rally for editor political

In a previous column, I wondered aloud about the public's strange reaction in Escanaba to the firing of Daily Press Editor Dave Rood. Some 300 inhabitants of that breezy upper peninsula city had rallied in protest of Rood's firing by John McGoff, publisher of the Panax newspapers.

The public, I have found over the years, just doesn't rally in support of Rood's kind of good journalism. People might rally in protest of a story that shows their pet project in an unfavorable light—even if the story is true. They may rally to get an editor to print Little League results.

But it's just unlike the public to rally around an editor who gets fired for refusing to print what he perceives to be a trash piece about President Carter from the publishing company's national bureau. Something there had the stench of a billion alewives washed onto the beaches of Lake Michigan.

IT TURNS OUT, there is an explanation. Politics.

It seems that a self-appointed committee on the newspaper industry in Escanaba issued a manifesto aimed at curing what was wrong with the Daily Press and many newspapers everywhere.

It called itself the Committee on Responsible Journalism, or some such name. I have to work from memory because my wife used my only copy of the manifesto, picked up on our recent vacation, to wrap the remains of a spectacular smallmouth bass that consumed one minnow too many.

The committee thought Rood should be reinstated. It thought McGoff ought to get out of newspaper management. It thought McGoff ought to dispose of his property.

It has as much chance of accomplishing those ends as it has of persuading Henry Ford II to reinstate Bunky Knudsen and peddling his Ford stock, but at this point the politics gets sticky.

THE COMMITTEE also advocated a legislated end to chain ownership of newspapers.

Into the fray came the name of the Hon. Morris Udall, one-time presidential aspirant from Arizona. Why Udall, when the U.P. already has a hard-working and popular congressman named Philip Ruppe?

Well, Rep. Udall has a bill floating around to end what he calls "chain store journalism." He also has a crusade on the subject, and the Dave Rood case provided an excellent Calvary on which those ideologues could strut and preach.

(It may be no accident, incidentally, that the story of the Panax firing was delivered to a paper of the political persuasion of the New York Times; certainly, the Times wasn't particularly on the lookout for good yarns about Michigan's upper peninsula.)

Anyhow, the political doctrine surfacing in the U.P. seems to be that "chain store journalism" is odious, particularly when practiced by a rich right-winger. Freedom of the press is OK except when certain chain publishers seek to live their properties by trash stories at the expense of Mr. Carter.

I have a notion that the exotic economic doctrines of the anti-chain theories won't stand a constitutional test. Freedom of the press has to apply to everyone—to the McGoffs, to the Hustler, to the Woodsteins, to the Howard Kohns. If Panax wants to divest itself of the services of a superior man like Dave Rood, well, it's a free country.

Meanwhile, I have heard of no effort by the ideologues to scrape up a few million bucks and buy out the Escanaba Daily Press. McGoff has been known to sell as well as buy up newspapers. Buying the Daily Press would be playing by the rules of the game, but, instead, the self-appointed committee seeks to impose its brand of responsible journalism through politics, by an act of Congress, and by exploiting the popularity of a good man like Dave Rood.

FORECAST: "COOLER WITH GRADUAL CLEARING"

A healthier Detroit means healthier climate for all

Last week marked the 10th anniversary of the Detroit riot—surely the most traumatic episode in the history of the core city and its suburbs.

Before the rage and frustration, the burning and looting had petered out, 43 lay dead, 342 were injured, 5,000 were homeless, 7,000 jailed and $50 million in property damage reported.

It was the worst riot in American history, and it shattered the self-confidence of the nation's fifth largest city. It also tore at the bonds of interdependence that linked it to the suburbs.

For what followed were a well-intentioned but only somewhat effective effort at short-run reconstruction, the continued deterioration of the city, the school busing crisis, and the conviction on the part of many suburbanites that the last thing they wanted was anything to do with Detroit.

TEN YEARS LATER, however, there are signs that the core city is beginning to come back from the brink of collapse.

Crime is on the decline; the murder rate which brought the city the reputation as the murder capital of the nation is down 28 per cent from a year ago.

In part, this is caused by two successive years of prosperity in the automobile industry. People are working, and although the unemployment rate in Detroit is now 9.7 per cent, that's down from 17.4 per cent last year.

The police department, previously nearly all white and a major source of anger in the black community, is now becoming integrated. Instead of being looked on as "the cops," the cops are starting to be called "us."

Economic development is beginning to pick up, not just at the popular Ren Cen, but also throughout the city. There are 44 major building projects currently under way in the city, worth $443 million.

Observation Point

by PHILIP H. POWER

Although there are still a disgracefully large number of houses held in foreclosure by the feds (3,926), the number is less than the 8,360 units of last year.

OBVIOUSLY, THINGS have a long way to go, despite the progress.

The schools are still a shambles, acre upon acre of slum houses blight the landscape, and unemployment among black teenagers is more than 30 per cent.

But for the first time, it seems reasonable to hope that the core city might just be ready to play a role other than that of the sick man of the region.

This prospect, I believe, will be welcomed by the suburbs.

A healthy Detroit means a safer Detroit, one that is neither terrifying to visit nor a net exporter of crime.

A healthier Detroit means the rest of the communities in the region will have less to fear from spreading waves of deterioration.

And a healthy Detroit means that all of us living in this region will be able more freely to take advantage of the resources and attractions of the core urban area.

In short, a healthier Detroit means healthier suburbs.

And that's good for all of us.

Meadow Brook: Unmatched asset some of us ignore

They say that a prophet is without honor in his hometown. We seem to take for granted what is easily accessible to us, but praise highly things in foreign places that sometimes don't measure up to what we have.

Out in Rochester stands the Meadow Brook Music Festival on the grounds of Oakland University.

This summer it will present 10 weeks of the finest music available anywhere in the world in a natural setting unmatched anywhere in the world, but a lot of local people have never been there.

Attendees have their choice of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra on Thursdays and Saturdays, jazz on Fridays and pops on Sundays.

Visiting the area this summer have been or will be the likes of the Preservation Hall Jazz Band from New Orleans, the premier Dixieland group, Stan Kenton of progressive jazz fame, to pop stars Helen Reddy and Andy Williams.

The festival can hold a little over 7,000 people a performance. There is seating capacity under a covered shell for 2,200 people and 5,000 can sit on a banked lawn.

Imagine sitting on a blanket with a star studded sky as your ceiling listening to the world's greatest music and you have summed up the Festival.

It all started back in 1964 when "Woody" Varner, then chancellor of Oakland University, gathered people together to start a major performing arts festival.

IT LASTED FOUR WEEKS and attracted 50,000 people.

The next year it scheduled six weeks of performances and attracted 100,000 people. It became the summer home of the Detroit Sym-

Eccentricities

by HENRY M. HOGAN, JR.

phony Orchestra and each year continued to upgrade the program expanding into jazz, pops and ballet.

The success of the Festival has not only been the quality of the program but the quality and energy of the community leadership that have supported Meadow Brook from the beginning.

Its budget this year will amount to over $1 million. Ninety per cent of it is raised through ticket sales, the remaining ten per cent will come from the support of individuals, corporations and foundations.

It probably operates at the smallest loss of any major festival.

The Lillienthal Report which appraised the assets of Oakland County called the Festival the major cultural institution in the county.

It is truly amazing that when local people have the opportunity to travel a couple of miles to see Roberta Peters, Count Basie or Bobby Short in their own backyard that the Festival wouldn't be forced to keep adding space so it could accommodate more spectators.

THEN AGAIN, IF THIS HAPPENED it might lose the charm that we all know of as "Meadow Brook."

Desire, not age, key to productivity

Sometime before the August recess the U.S. House is scheduled to vote on a bill that would raise the mandatory retirement age for federal employees from 65 to 70.

While applying solely to those employed by federal agencies, the bill, if passed, could serve as a precedent and guide to state and local government and the private sector as well.

There is a serious need in this country to provide employment for all who need it. Much of this effort has focused on youth and rightfully so.

For reasons that remain unclear, though, the notion that it is acceptable to discard those above 65 who would still like to work persists.

Productivity, creativity and the desire to work don't suddenly evaporate as the chimes strike midnight on the eve of one's 65th birthday. Nor do they, for that matter, when the clock strikes 12 on the eve of the 70th birthday.

So let's be rid of this medieval and arbitrary requirement.

'Open meetings' are helpful, informative

Editor:

As one citizen, fortunate to be a resident of the City of Plymouth, I wish to express my thanks for the opportunity to take part in two public meetings recently held at city hall commission chambers.

Every participant at these meetings, the speakers and the audience, must have felt the swelling of pride at the quality of questions asked and the forthright answers given.

The first of these meetings was a hearing on House Joint Resolution "C", sponsored by the House of Representatives Taxation Committee. Our own Rep. Roy Smith deserves much credit for his understanding and sensitivity to the critical problems of public education in Michigan as well as tax relief for senior citizens.

Rep. Tom Brown, our neighbor from Westland, is another member of the committee who presented clear and honest answers on the subject of meeting our education needs equitably on the state level.

Resolution "C" must be a priority topic for study and action by every concerned voter. Representative Smith's idea of giving the best education to everyone and then tax everyone on the ability to earn, must be worth studying.

The second meeting, which was of tremendous interest, dealt with Plymouth's commission candidates. For the quality of that event the League of Women Voters deserve the highest commendation.

Plymouth citizens have more than a just cause to be proud. The caliber of those neighbors who solicit our vote and want to serve us is indeed outstanding.

May Plymouth continue to be the beacon of integrity in city government. Vote on Aug. 2 and show the world that you do care for the quality of life in Plymouth.

Encephalitis prevention urged

By MICHAEL MATUSZEWSKI

Wayne County Board of Health is out to lead the way in developing a plan to protect against an epidemic of St. Louis Encephalitis (SLE).

That disease killed four people in Michigan in 1975. In addition, there were 90 other cases of SLE reported in the state in 1975, 36 of those in Wayne County. There were few outbreaks in 1976.

WAYNE COUNTY COMMISSIONER Edgar L. Harris said, "We need joint community planning and the co-operation of neighboring counties because any outbreak would more than likely not be confined to just Wayne County."

Because of the strange cyclical nature of the disease, it is usually too late to kill mosquitoes or attempt to marshal enough people or funds to control them.

"We are trying to convince our communities and nearby counties that there is a definite need," said Leito Durlay, a spokesman for the Wayne board of commissioners. "We are trying to involve all local communities within Wayne County and we're trying to encourage adjacent counties to cooperate," he added.

Representatives of both the Wayne and Oakland County Environmental Health divisions agree that southeastern Michigan is ill-prepared to head off the kind of outbreaks which occurred in 1975.

Glen Brown of the Wayne County Environmental Health Division said the contingency plan "would come down to an early warning system." He said the plan would define "who would need to take what kind of action."

SLE IS CAUSED by a virus transmitted from mosquitoes to wild birds and sometimes from birds to humans. Human infections usually occur in metropolitan areas because of house sparrows and pigeons in relatively close proximity to humans.

A bird surveillance program will therefore be a focal point of the future contingency plan.

However, Brown speculated, "The mosquitoes are here and have been here for many years. We are beginning to think it (the virus) comes from migrating birds. The mosquito bites the bird and the virus develops in the mosquito. Occasionally, a mosquito will bite a human."

He added that it was important to note that one mosquito variety (culex pipiens) is the major suspected carrier. Brown said that luckily it was a variety which does not usually bite humans.

AERIAL SPRAYING is being looked upon only as a last resort. Wayne County Commissioner Royce Smith said, "We do not plan to go and immediately start spraying mosquitoes. We hope that our contingency plan, which includes more bird monitoring, will indicate that we won't have to spray at all."

Harris added, "What we are saying is that if we do find evidence that we should spray, the communities ought to be prepared for it when the time comes."

Brown called chemical spraying a last ditch effort. He said the chemicals would have serious side effects to other species. "The ecological system is very sensitive. It is not proper to get into spraying to control mosquito biting," he added. Instead it should be employed only in "selective control."

Dick Parker, a sanitarian for the Oakland County Environmental Health Division, said that county would cooperate in developing a contingency plan for southeastern Michigan.

"Oakland County is in the same boat as everyone else. No one in the state is equipped to do that (massive aerial spraying)."

Parker said that spraying was the only effective measure.

U-M okays mall project

University of Michigan-Dearborn has received authorization from the university's board of regents to proceed with preparation of preliminary plans and cost estimates for the U of M-D University Mall project. The board appointed Sigmund Blum and Associates as project architect.

A sketch concept of the proposed mall, which will provide U of M-D's student body with a general activity center, was first presented for information at the May 1977 regents meeting.

The university mall will be one of three buildings comprising a new core of the campus. The proposed library and learning resource center and the general classroom and laboratory building are the other two.

One part of the mall will be a self-liquidating and self-supporting area of approximately 33,000 gross square feet, housing food services, a bookstore, game room and student service space. A second part of the building will be designed as a general use space of approximately 50,000 gross square feet. This area will be converted to student activities space after temporarily serving as classroom and office space.

Blood donors are sought

There is an urgent need for individuals to serve as blood program volunteers and "open heart surgery" callers on Thursdays and Fridays at the new Red Cross Bloomfield Donor Center, 2388 Franklin, Bloomfield Township.

"Volunteers perform vital services in Red Cross blood collection centers. A decline in volunteer participation poses a serious threat to the potential of the Bloomfield Center," said Dr. A. William Shafer, director of the Southeastern Michigan Blood Center.

Volunteers also help Red Cross nurses at the center, where they register donors, take temperatures, label and number blood bags and serve refreshments.

For more information about becoming a volunteer, call Reggie Dinsler at the Bloomfield Donor Center, at 334-3575.

Concerts kick off Novi mall opening

Amid towering sculpture, colorful foliage, skylights and more, the new Twelve Oaks Mall opens in Novi on Tuesday with 159 stores of all kinds.

The opening of the new mall, located at I-96 and Novi Road, will be preceded by a series of five performances by members of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra as a benefit for the orchestra.

Billed as "This Classic Night," the music begins at 7 p.m. on August 1. Five symphonic ensembles will present musical programs at varying times in the mall's five courtyards.

Tickets are priced at $10 per person and are available from any Hudson's store or from Ford Auditorium.

The mall itself will open for business with a two-level retail conglomerate including:

- J. L. Hudson's 14th major department store with 240,000 square feet on three levels, including fashions and services such as a bridal registry, ticket service, optical department, repair center and photo studio.

- A split level parking area for 6,300 cars.

- Five theatres with a total seating capacity of 1,650.

- Nine pieces of sculpture, including a 100-foot-long, 3,000 pound aluminum and bronze butterfly in the central court.

- Lush interior landscaping, including palm trees, hundreds of tropical plants and a promenade of 20-foot fig trees.

A Sears store is scheduled to open early this fall. Both J.C. Penney and Lord & Taylor, a fashion merchandiser, will open their new mall stores in the spring.

By then, according to plan, the mall will include 182 retail stores and fashion boutiques in addition to the four major stores.

Future plans include a fifth department store and additional tenant spaces. Office buildings are planned for construction along Twelve Mile, and residential complexes are slated for a tract east of the center.

The firm of Gruen Associates, which has planned numerous shopping centers and department stores, designed the Twelve Oaks Mall with the intent of creating a pleasant shopping environment which could also lend itself to special events and social activity.

The mall itself is owned by Novi Associates, a partnership of Dayton Hudson Properties, a real estate subsidiary of Dayton Hudson; Homart Development Co., a subsidiary of Sears; and the Taubman Co., a land developer with interest in several regional

Out-county jail complex needed, commissioner says

Wayne County Commissioner Richard E. Manning (D-Redford-Livonia) today cited what he called "compelling pertinent history and certain essential facts" in support of his renewed proposal to build an out-county complex that includes jail and court facilities.

Manning's proposal was approved by the board of commissioners, July 7, as an amendment when the board was considering three sites in downtown Detroit. The amendment asks for a site on county-owned land in either Romulus or Westland.

Since then, however, commissioners Arthur M. Carter and Rose Mary C. Robinson, both from Detroit, have filed for reconsideration and the issue is before the board at its next meeting, Thursday.

In his argument for the out-county facility that would also include Register of Deeds, Friend of the Court, County Clerk and County Treasurer services, Manning contends that:

- The center of population in the area is shifting from downtown Detroit to a point west of Detroit.

- About 1.3 million county residents now live outside Detroit, about the same number as within the city.

- Substantial savings in suburban police budgets can be made by establishing a western county complex. This would allow more policemen on the streets instead of traveling to and from downtown courthouses.

- A savings of $649,000 can be achieved each year for transporting prisoners from the Detroit jail to Circuit courts in downtown Detroit.

Plymouth High class of '67 turned out 223 strong for its 10th class reunion Saturday night in the Mayflower Meeting House.

Following meetings and greetings there was a sit-down banquet. Pat Butzin, who chaired the party, was mistress of ceremonies. She announced the winners of the mock awards.

Shirley Druce found the most missing classmates. Cathy Vanatta was the most traveled. She is now married and an executive secretary. She has been to Scandinavia, most of Europe, north Africa and the Caribbean.

Strangest occupation award went to Ann Whitesell who is curator at the Los Gatos Historical Museum in California. Her avocations include fire-fighter, amateur machinist and builder of model steam engines.

Classmates Wilma Little and Jimmy Stoop, (Mr. and Mrs. James Stoop) have been married for the longest period of time. Karen Burke has the oldest child.

GRAHAM

Les Byrd bought the first ticket for the reunion and Sue Baskins was the last to fill in her form. Joyce Soth and Phil Daley had changed the most, and Larry Brown had lost the most hair.

Leta Scott, Jane MacCurdy and Ann Whitesell came from California for the party. John Larson and Janet McCully came from Colorado.

There was a band for dancing and many prizes were handed out.

Pat Butzin's classmates showed their appreciation for her party planning efforts by giving her a standing ovation, a corsage, and a carved elephant to add to her collection.

They're all looking forward to 1987, and their 20th reunion.

CAROL OLSON and Sharon Cavanaugh planned the five-year reunion last weekend for the Plymouth High School class of '72.

About 250 persons attended the dinner dance in Roma Hall, Livonia.

"We were disappointed in the turnout," said Sharon. "Out of a class of 780, we expected more."

After a buffet dinner, there was dancing to the music of "The Image."

Most of the grads were from the Plymouth-Arbor area. They are hoping for more interest in their 10th reunion in 1982.

THE PLYMOUTH FIFE and Drum Corps did it again.

Last Saturday they played at a muzzle loaders parade and festival in Lakeview, northeast of Grand Rapids. You guessed it. They walked off with the ribbon for the best marching unit in the festival.

Director Whitney Prince accepted the award from Miss Michigan.

JULY 23, SEEMED to be the night for class reunions.

For the Class of 1937 of St. Cecilia High School, it was the 40th class reunion.

Ed Dowling of the MESC office in Plymouth Township was chairman of the dinner dance in the Plymouth Hilton Inn.

"There were just 56 in our graduating class in the old school on Livonia. There are 10 known dead. We had 17 classmates and their spouses at the party—34 all together."

Dowling said most of them came from Livonia, Farmington, Ann Arbor and Grosse Pointe. One couple came from Colorado, another from North Carolina, and one from Florida.

"The food was excellent," said Dowling and so was the music—he brought his own.

"They set up a portable dance floor and we had all the big bands."

Dowling had made a tape of the favorites of their day—Glenn Gray, Glenn Miller.

"It took me 16 hours to put it together. There was an hour and a half on each side. They were all good dancers and they still are. I mixed them up. 'Sentimental Journey,' a few slow ones, and then a fast one like 'One O'Clock Jump.'"

He added, "We all learned to dance in those days. There was nothing else to do so we went to dances—Eastwood, Westwood Gardens."

The 40th class reunion was obviously a success.

THE KING TUT exhibit in the Field Museum of Natural History in Chicago has attracted a number of persons from the area.

Those who saw the collection of artifacts from the 18-year-old king's tomb were very impressed. They agreed it was worth the trip—and the wait—to see the exquisite jewelry, furniture and urns which were buried 3,300 years ago.

Among those who actually were admitted to the exhibit were Jean and Hugh Harsha, Kirk and Denise Lorenz, Harvey and Jackie Troutman, Scott Beaman, Stan Towers, Lois Mitchell and Gail Schultheiss.

The Richard Dohertys, the John Olsons, Jean Schultheiss, John Nichols and Walter Shear were some of the disappointed who never did get in.

Gail Schultheiss went with a group from Kalamazoo College. When she and her mother, Jean, went to see it, they got in line at 7:30 a.m.

At 9 a.m. the line began to move. Shortly after 10:30 the line had moved to the point that they were at the door of the building. There were about 20 persons ahead of them in line when the announcement was made: "That is all for today."

Finnish student is Lions' guest

Plymouth Lions Club's summer exchange student is 16-year-old Riitta Raatikainen of Tervo, Finland.

She is staying with Jane Francoeur, a member of the club who is a social worker with the Plymouth schools.

With two weeks of Riitta's six-week visit remaining, the Francoeurs have planned a busy sight-seeing schedule.

So far, Riitta has viewed the metropolitan Detroit area during a "big circle" airplane ride. She has been to the Detroit Zoo, Port Huron and Sarnia, Greenfield Village, Belle Isle and Detroit.

Harger Greene arranged a tour of the Fisher Body plant. They went to Hartland to see the painted barns and visited dairy farms.

They plan to go to the Toledo Art Museum, the Finnish Cultural Center and the King Tut exhibit in Chicago's Field Museum of Natural History.

RIITTA LIVES on a dairy farm in central Finland.

The name of the farm is Suppuniemi and it has been owned by her family for 100 years. Her ancestors have lived in the area, within 15 miles of the farm, for 400 years.

The Raatikainen farm is modern. They use milking machines and grow their own fodder for the cattle. They have a three-month growing season. Sometimes there are late-May frosts.

"Sometimes there is a freeze in August which destroys all the wheat," said Riitta. However, the Gulf Stream does help moderate the climate of the country which is at the same latitude as Alaska.

Eating corn—which can't be grown in Finland's cold climate—was a new experience for Riitta. An avid photographer, she took pictures of the Francoeur family eating sweet corn—on the cob.

There is no peanut butter in Finland and that doesn't bother Riitta one bit. She loves peanuts, but was firm in expressing her dislike for peanut butter.

WHEN RIITTA as a little girl, she skied three miles to school.

Now a school bus takes her to high school 14 miles from home.

She plans to continue her studies in agriculture and sociology.

"I think I was five, or younger, when I started to ski," said Riitta.

High school sports for girls include volleyball, baseball, skiing and skating. "The boys play hockey and football, but the girls don't."

She said there are seven in her family—her mother and father, three sisters and her grandmother.

Their sauna—and everyone has a sauna—is attached to the house. In older houses the saunas are some distance from the house as a safety measure.

Suppuniemi is 25 miles from the nearest village. A larger town, about the size of Plymouth, is 40 miles away.

LIONS CLUB International sponsors the exchange student program in conjunction with Youth for Understanding.

Lions Club brought 2,500 students to the United States this year, 100 of them came to Michigan.

The exchange students do not have to be the sons or daughters of Lions but the host families are members of the club.

John Roose is president of the local club and Dave Cook is vice president. Don Francoeur is a member of the board of directors.

Kim Anderson, daughter of Dick Anderson, is spending six weeks in Nantes, France. She is part of the exchange program designed to promote international understanding and provide an educational and cultural experience for youth at home and abroad.

3 shops open in new Forest Place

Three shops in the new Forest Place addition opened today (Thursday). Little Angels, The Hobby Shop, and Claire Kelly Plymouth moved in time for the sidewalk sales this Friday and Saturday.

Marvin Hauk's Hobby Shop was the first in the new complex on Harvey Street back of the Forest Place to open for business.

The shop will stock everything the model railroad buff could wish for: HO trains, regular size trains, accessories, villages, extra cars, train controls and N scale trains.

"For the man with the utmost patience," said Hauk, referring to the N scale which is even smaller than HO. He has the makings for those who prefer to make their own tracks.

"I also will be able to order anything from Walther's HO Railroad Catalog and Craft Train Reference Manual and have it here in 48 hours." He explained that the catalog is the train buff's Bible. "I hope this will be the kind of place that if we haven't got it, we'll get it."

Marvin Hauk's family has lived in this area for more than 100 years. He teaches in the Wayne-Westland schools and plans to retire in two years. The Hobby Shop is his retirement project.

His wife, Janida, a violinist in the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra, shares his enthusiasm for the new store. "It's been very exciting; I've enjoyed every minute of it."

ALICE AND OSCAR McDonald opened their first Little Angels Shop in Old Village in 1969. Four years ago they opened a second shop in Forest Place Mall. (See picture on page 2B.)

The move from original Forest Place will give them additional space. They have expanded the boys' clothing to include sizes 8-14.

The McDonalds have one of the two-story shops in the new complex. The upper floor will be used for office space and storage.

Little Angels stocks children's clothing and accessories from infant to 14 years. There is everything from heirloom christening gowns and baby shower items to sports clothing, nighties, pajamas, robes, toys and lamps.

Back-to-school clothes are in the spotlight now—little boys' plaid, corduroy and denim slacks; shirts and tops; and even the new suede-look gauchos for the girls.

Winter jackets and snowmobile suits have arrived. And for those children who are fascinated by Paddington the bear, there is a complete line—jackets, dresses and even undershirts.

CLAIRE KELLY PLYMOUTH will be moved in before the sidewalk sales. There has been a Claire Kelly Northville for five years and Plymouth-Canton women have seen her fashions at local style shows.

"The colors for fall are absolutely luscious," said Claire. "The super sueded are especially good and the separates are being combined in new, interesting ways. They are mixing fabrics and colors. A velvet or checked vest with an entirely different material."

She said they were showing a lot of challis in New York. "Challis skirt under a blazer—I think our Michigan winters are too cold for that combination."

Claire handles sizes 5-16. She has sportswear, suits, dresses, long gowns, dresses and accessories. She is particularly pleased with her Raphael line of jewelry. It is handmade in Toronto.

"It is very attractive," she said. "The chains, silver, copper and brass, are all hand made. And it is well-priced."

Ms. Kelly and her staff have been painting and antiquing showcases and furniture for the store. "You should have seen it before. It is all second hand." The beige-peach walls and furniture, and the taupe carpeting are an effective non-clash background for the fashions.

John Thomas and Jim Jabara are owners of the townhouse-type mall. The builder was Tony Bauss of Northville. The shops are separate units, each with its own heating and washroom facility. The shops' common walls are three-hour fire walls.

K.C. Miller Associates-Interiors has leased the fourth shop and expects to be in residence the first week of August.

Marvin Hauk will have models, airplanes and rockets as well as all types of trains.

It was a real surprise for Virginia Koon last Sunday evening when she arrived for a couples party at the home of Karen Cifrodella. No couples were present on Ginny's arrival. Twenty women were waiting to yell surprise at the very well kept secret of her babr shower.

A decorated basinet rented from LeGault's was laden with brightly wrapped packages for the soon-to-be addition to the Koon household.

Claire Farnell, Emily Bouman, Sharon Spencer, Ann Ward and Mary Hamilton were among the guests who passed each baby package around for individual inspection.

Donna Glover, Chris Pilz, Pat Mitchell Sue O'Donnell and Carol Shaw were also on hand exclaiming over the uniqueness of each present.

Paddington Bear rattles, bibs, blankets and books were among some of the gifts along with the bear's musical carousel. Mike and Ginny have gone Paddington Bear crazy in the nursery and were thrilled to add these items to their collection.

After the presents were all opened, Bekki Ponte, Sue Miller, Carol Wold and Linda Becker gathered with the other guests around the buffet table of spreads and fresh fruits. Diane Soules Elaine Lavander, Carol Koessel and Kathy Spencer were also seen enjoying the scrumptious deserts and punch.

Everyone kept asking Ginny if she was really surprised. She assured all her friends that she truly was.

IT WAS MONSTER week at Charles Howell Scout Reservation in Brighton when 26 boys from Cub Scout Pack 766 arrived for cub day last week.

The day for these boys started at 8 a.m. as they left from Gallimore Elementary on a chartered bus. The cubs were named the vampires upon their arrival.

The vampires' day was all cub scout orientated at the camp. They will all be able to get credit for special achievements they earned throughout the day.

Most of the boys enjoyed the archery experience the best. They learned how to load and shoot a bow and arrow. They also enjoyed the nature hike, swimming and row boating and especially the nature scavenger hunt which the Canton boys won.

There was a craft session where the cubs wove sit-upons out of newspapers. They all received a patch from the camp and an Indian tie slide they will paint at home.

The cubs who went to cub day include Troy Kline, Larry Mashev, Dean Hartford, Steven and Shawn Pitcher, Greg Haffner, Jeff Speaks, Steve Dininger, Mark Lopez, Kevin Crysler, Robert and John Longridge, Steve Dani, Kurt Bonbehran, Jimmy Mundo, Scott Steiner, John Skaggs, Danny and Jimmy Farell, Brian Beals, Jon Woods, Jeff Lim, Andy Wrenbeck, Mark Rakozy, and David Dart.

Accompanying the boys were Arlene Skaggs, Diane Dart, Barb Dani and Joyce Kline.

Cub Day was payed for by the pack from the money the boys had earned throughout the year.

Penny pinching ideas help

Save scraps of soap and put them in a clean jar covered with warm water. The solution will thicken, and can be used with a steel-wool pad to clean pots and pans. If only mild soap is collected, it can be used for shampoo.

Plain glass tumblers can be made into measuring cups at no expense. Use a standard measuring cup as a guide, filling the tumbler to various levels, and, using red nail polish, mark on the outside of the glass a line for each of the depths. The tumblers can be used in the laundry for measuring detergents, soap flakes and starch or in the garden house for the variety of garden chemicals. Leftover coffee can be frozen into ice cubes for iced coffee or other iced drinks. The same can be done for leftover tea.

An outgrowth or discarded raincoat can be used in many ways. Pieces can be cut out and used for book covers for children's books.

Canton resident relinquishes crown

By ARLENE VANDERLEUN
After a busy year of speeches, television appearances and top-level Washington conferences, Canton's Margaret Chmielewski relinquished her Ms. Wheelchair Michigan crown to Gisele Thornton of Detroit.

Courage, excitement and determination filled the Madonna College auditorium Saturday night during the fifth annual Ms. Wheelchair Michigan pageant, co-sponsored by the Livonia Jaycees and Mobility Awareness Team, Inc., to highlight the achievements of wheelchair-bound young women and to promote awareness of the problems of all handicapped persons.

"I plan to go into public relations and hope to address the problems of the handicapped," said Ms. Thornton. Her prizes include a $100 cash scholarship, gift certificates and a trophy. She will represent Michigan in the Ms. Wheelchair America pageant.

Ms. Thornton is a student at Wayne State University, where she has her own radio show. She was the first woman in a wheelchair to become a Cotillion Debutante, an annual event sponsored by black civic and business leaders. Ms. Thornton also was voted Miss Congeniality by the other contestants.

RUNNERS-UP were Sue Odgers, a free-lance writer and student from Sterling Heights, and Yvonne Duffy, of Ann Arbor, a student services assistant at the University of Michigan.

Several local women were among the nine contestants.

Renae Thompson, of Westland, found it "interesting to meet other people with handicaps and see what they have done with their lives to be accepted as fellow human beings."

Mrs. Thompson, who has a year-old daughter, has been active in the Easter Seal Telethon and has a keen interest in swimming and sailing. She received a physical fitness award at the pageant.

"Other people have to adjust to us and we have to adjust to them," said Mrs. Thompson.

Marilyn Hodges, a Farmington contestant, found her participation "exciting." She is an Avon representative and has been active in the annual Wheelchair Games, bowling and table tennis. She was cited by pageant officials for her personal growth and achievement.

DURING HER REIGN as Ms. Wheelchair Michigan, Mrs. Chmielewski, a wife, mother and teacher, spoke in behalf of the needs and contributions of the handicapped.

"It has been a wonderful year," she smiled. "There's so much more to be done and these women can carry on," said Ms. Chmielewski. "A major problem is people's attitudes toward the handicapped."

But progress is being made, she pointed out, and added:

"Six years ago when I went to Washington I couldn't visit the monuments because they weren't accessible to my wheelchair. This past time I could see a big difference. There were more ramps and more handicapped parking."

In September, Mrs. Chmielewski will become an instructor in psychology at Madonna College.

The Mobility Awareness Team, Inc. is a non-profit corporation made up of individuals who work to promote an awareness of the needs of the physically handicapped and actively support legislation to provide greater mobility for physically limited persons through more accessible public transportation.

portation, handicapped parking, wider doorways and ramps.

"Handicapped people need mobility in order to lead productive lives," said Angie Corrieri, the 1974 Ms. Wheelchair Michigan and Michigan president of Mobility Awareness Team. Madonna College was selected as the pageant site because its facilities are highly accessible to the physically limited.

"This pageant is important," said Ms. Corrieri, "and we are grateful to the Livonia Jaycees for their support and cooperation."

Greer-Hofrichter

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Greer of Northville announce the engagement of their daughter Tonya to Kim Hofrichter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hofrichter of Ross Street, Livonia.

The bride-elect is a 1974 graduate of Ladywood High School and is employed by Four Seasons Flowers in Northville. Her fiancé is a 1973 graduate of Churchill High School and is employed by Seven-Up Bottling Co. in Detroit. He is also a member of the Livonia auxiliary police.

They plan a June 3, 1978 wedding.

Rainey-Head

Mr. and Mrs. W. Ross Rainey of Caprice Drive, Plymouth, announce the engagement of their daughter, Laurelyn Esther, to Harold Frederick Head Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Head of Powell Road, Plymouth.

The bride-elect is a 1975 graduate of Plymouth Canton High School and attends Eastern Michigan University. Her fiancé graduated from EMU with a degree in accounting and is a systems analyst at Sycor in Ann Arbor.

No wedding date has been set.

THE ENERGETIC Ms. Corrieri, of Canton, has been in a wheelchair six years as a result of an auto accident and leads an active, independent life in spite of physical limitations. She is a computer programmer with General Motors and is currently on educational leave.

During her recovery and rehabilitation she was depressed and fearful about the future. But she was also determined to advance. She had been a keypunch operator at the time of her accident and decided to become a computer programmer. She began her training and later the company installed a "stair glide" device, which allowed her to go up and down stairs. "GM has been terrific to me," she said.

Ms. Corrieri lives alone and drives her own car with hand controls. "I scrub floors, wash and cook, and get by with a little help from my friends."

SPECIAL PAGEANT guests included civic leader Dolle Cole, Rep. Jelt Sietsma, (R-Grand Rapids), who has been instrumental in passing legislation providing mobility to the handicapped, and Beverly Barry Chapman.

of Orlando, Miss Wheelchair America 1977.

"We have a message to deliver and gifts to share," declared Ms. Chapman. "We have talents to contribute to society."

Mrs. Cole, chairman of the Easter Seal Telethon, praised the contestants for their courage. "There are no handicapped in this room," she said. "A handicapped person lacks courage."

Rep. Sietsma called for an all-out effort against barriers to the handicapped. "We all need to pitch in so the handicapped can get the things they deserve," she stated.

Cooking ahead

Cooking over a hot stove is no place for the summer hostess to spend her time. Choose a main entrée that can be barbecued on the spot, or ideally, serve salad and meat dishes that can be prepared the day before. Garnish these dishes with bouquets of parsley, chopped egg, and pickle slices and serve cold.

Health Nursing program that has been offered at the U-M since 1941.

Program students will complete theory and practice courses in community health nursing and a series of cognate courses in public health. Each student will also carry out an original research project which culminates in a research paper of publishable quality.

Do you remember when?

...is the theme of Old Village's Dearie Day. The arrival of the Chessie steam engine at the Plymouth station gave small boys an opportunity to put pennies on the track for flattening. As crowds waited for the train a woman asked, "I don't live here. What are we all waiting for?" When she was told, "An old steam engine is coming," she kept her place in line with the rest of the Dearie Day throng. (Staff photo)

Softball and berries for CF summer fun

A trip to Cedar Point, a softball rally and a berry picking excursion are among the activities remaining for late July and August as part of the Camp Fire Girls Detroit Area Council's Summer Fun Program.

Activities are open to all girls, and frequently to their families. In some instances there are age restrictions imposed by the type of program. Registrations can be made through the Camp Fire Girls office located at 51 W. Warren, Detroit 48201, telephone 833-2670.

Metropolitan Beach, on the shores of Lake St. Clair, is the scene of a softball rally Tuesday, Aug. 2. Kids will play backward ball, ground ball, and walking ball at 10 a.m., with adult supervision.

It is necessary to register for softball. Otherwise the day is open, for swimming, fishing, roller skating, golfing—all the activities available at Metro Beach. Families and friends are invited. Parking at Metro is $1 per car.

On Thursday, Aug. 4, Camp Fire Blue Birds, Adventurers and Discovery Club members will share a picnic supper with residents of the Martha T. Berry Extended Care Facility in Mt. Clemens. After the meal, Camp Fire groups will entertain with songs, skits, dance, and reading for the pleasure of the home's residents.

Wednesday, Aug. 10, "Cedar Point Trip the Camp Fire Way" invites youth in grades 4-12 and their families on an all-day excursion to this summertime attraction on Lake Erie. Buses will leave from Westland Mall and from the Camp Fire Girls office at 51 W. Warren in Detroit. Camp Fire will not provide additional adult supervision, so participants should plan to chaperone their own young people. Trippers must bring their own lunches or money to purchase food at Cedar Point.

Bus and admission to Cedar Point total $13.75 for youths (under age 12), $14.75 for adults. Reservations are necessary.

Buses will leave from Macomb Mall, Eastland, Northland, Livonia Mall and Westland on Tuesday, Aug. 16 for the Dexter-Pinkney area where berry-picking and a cook-out have been planned. Youngsters grades 4-12 should pack their lunches, but exclude dessert, which will be provided as an important part of the day's fun. Berry-pickers also need a two-quart pail or basket. The complete outing costs $5.50 each, and reservations are a must through the Camp Fire office.

The last Summer Fun event is a special tour of Detroit's Fort Wayne on Aug. 26 for grades 1-6. Youngsters will take a good look at the fort, cook an old-time lunch, and chat with the fort soldier. Transportation is not provided. Registration includes a $3 fee per person, through the Camp Fire office.

Camp Fire Girls Detroit Area Council is a Torch Drive agency, serving girls and adults throughout the tri-county area. Summer Fun programs are intended to bring Camp Fire's fine, time-tested programming to youngsters who may not presently be members of Camp Fire Girls.

The bride-elect is a 1972 graduate of Plymouth High School and is attending the University of Arizona in Tucson. Her fiance graduated from Plymouth High in 1971 and Menlo School of Business Administration, Menlo Park, Calif. He is employed by Nowels Publications in Menlo Park.

They plan an Oct. 7 wedding in St. Kenneth Catholic Church, Plymouth.

LWV fundraisers support ERA drive

A garage sale is the first of several fundraising events planned by the League of Women Voters of Northville, Plymouth, Canton and Novi as they join the fight to pass the Equal Rights Amendment.

The garage sale at Neva Carter's home, 42257 Ashbury Drive will be from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Aug. 5 and 9 a.m. to noon Aug. 6. Mrs. Carter's home is off Lilley and south of Warren Road in Canton Township.

A plant party, an art sale and two more garage sales are planned for later dates.

The local league will launch its fundraising efforts to help the national LWV raise more than $1 million for ERA campaigns in key unratified states. The LWV of the United States already has received $825,000 in league pledges from around the country for this national ERA effort. The LWV of Michigan has pledged $40,000 for ERA.

"WE'RE BETTING ON the future of the ERA and we intend to be winners," said Neva Carter, president of the local league, as the drive was launched.

In making the announcement, Ms. Carter said, "We are determined to ensure passage of this amendment before the time runs out in 1979, and we are proud to commit our efforts to help our sister states in ratifying this vital amendment. Every American stands to gain a great deal from the ratification of ERA.

"We feel we have a responsibility to help achieve the ERA victory. Since any well-run legislative campaign needs funding, we are committed to ensuring that not only will we have the woman power needed for a national ERA victory, but we will have the cash necessary to carry out our campaign."

"The bulk of the money will be used to operate ERA campaign offices in the key states."

Ms. Carter added that "if citizens are interested in helping us achieve this important goal, they can make a contribution to the effort by sending their dollars to Ruth Volger, 42850 Lombardy, Canton 48187."

THE KINGDOM IS LIKE A MUSTARD PLANT

PART II

In our last article, we noted that the parable of the mustard plant teaches that the gospel of Christ has a seed form, which is an undeveloped form, and a tree form, which is a developed mature form.

We must now draw some implications from this truth. First, the gospel of the apostles is the developed form of the gospel given us in Jesus' words and deeds. It is the same gospel. If you want to hear Christ, you must hear this New Testament witness that He authorized. The New Testament is Jesus' gospel.

Second, the New Testament is therefore the Word of the King, via the apostles. It is his word of salvation. It is his word as to how a man can be right with God. Here, in the pages of this testimony, you have forgiveness of sins and eternal life spelled out through the infallible authority of Christ.

Finally, read the New Testament. And when you find a hoe in its pages then weed your own garden!

Madonna has program for reading teachers

A teaching endorsement in reading will be offered area teachers by Madonna College in Livonia, which recently had its program approved by the state department of education.

The reading teacher program, designed by Sr. Mary Martina, director of the psycho-educational center, is open to experienced as well as new teachers.

Teachers who already have an intensive background in reading instruction may ask for a review of their competencies to gain equivalent credit for their experience. For new teachers, a 24-semester hour program has been developed to provide the teaching competencies and meet requirements for endorsement. This planned program will comply with the 18-semester hour requirement for continuing certification.

The course work will include techniques for elementary, secondary, and remedial instruction.

The first course in the program for reading certification will be offered during the fall term at Madonna.

Actual work with children at the college psycho-educational center will be part of the experience.

This course is particularly valuable to the middle and secondary school teacher and will also apply as credit to the middle school endorsement.

Registration for the course is currently being conducted at Madonna College, 36600 Schoolcraft, weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. For registration information, call 425-8000, ext. 35.

Busy life continues for pastor emeritus

By MARGARET MILLER

The pastor of Redford Baptist Church for the past 19 years now is pastor emeritus, traveler, eventually interim pastor and real estate entrepreneur.

Which is why the Rev. Gordon H. Schroeder isn't likely to find life dull after stepping back from the involved and busy life he has led while watching the steady growth of the church at Grand River and Seven Mile.

He and his wife, Ruth, were honored by their congregation July 10 when, after several presentations expressing gratitude for good service, the retiring clergyman was named pastor emeritus.

In addition, it was announced that the church's new library would be henceforth known as the "Gordon and Ruth Schroeder Library," and that a scholarship fund in Pastor Schroeder's name would be established to help young people interested in going into church work.

"We were just overwhelmed," Pastor Schroeder said when it was over. "These are such beautiful people, it's been a privilege to serve them."

THE SCHROEDERS will do some traveling—first to Alaska to visit their son, Kenneth—while the church's associate pastors and lay ministers carry on parish work and a pastoral search committee seeks a new senior minister.

Then they will return to the home near Brighton that they built several years ago and where they are developing 49 home sites in a rural setting that also will include a new Baptist Church, Chilson Hills.

Their own home there was largely finished by Dr. Schroeder after the rough construction had been contracted, and the Timberview Farms subdivision they are developing already is home to 12 families including their daughter and son-in-law, Judy and Rick Kontz.

In their real estate enterprise they are imposing strict ecology-confirming building rules keep a pond, creek, marsh and wildlife sanctuary and, said the pastor, "in addition to keeping every tree possible we have planted about 10,000 pine saplings."

"This has been one more miracle in our lives that has gone beautifully," Pastor Schroeder said. "Not many people have the privilege of choosing their neighbors, and we're choosing carefully."

MIRACLES, this clergyman feels, have been not far off at many points of his church career.

A native of Lorraine, Kan., he came to Redford Baptist after graduating from Ottawa University in Kansas.

Eastern Baptist Theological Seminary at Philadelphia and Syracuse University, and serving churches at Beverly, N.J., Fredonia, N.Y., and Lincoln, Neb.

He also had served as editor of the Baptist New Yorker, official paper for the New York Baptist State Convention.

But arriving to answer the call of Redford Baptist, he found a congregation that was trying to move from its location at Grand River and Lahser and had dug the basement at a new site and then run out of money.

The former minister had left, and the new one found himself with a large task looming.

"We had to finish that basement," he recalled 19 years later. "and God only knew where we'd get the money to build a sanctuary. We needed an educational building too."

"It was a gloomy prospect, but I believe in a God who works miracles, and we saw a few."

A LARGE BANK loan covered the completing of the basement unit, and the congregation moved into its new quarters Dec. 7, 1958, six months after the Schroeders arrived.

Then came the questions of what to do about the old building and how to find a way to finance a new sanctuary.

A malfunctioning transformer in the Detroit church answered both questions. Fire destroyed the building one Saturday night and the insurance plus the sale of the land paved the way for a new sanctuary.

"I'm not one to say the Lord sends fire to destroy," Pastor Schroeder commented, "but if he didn't send this one it sure worked out to his honor and glory."

Three years after the building of the sanctuary, the congregation had grown to the point where the educational building could be used.

That structure has seen plenty of use, because almost from the first it housed a weekday child care center. Redford Baptist was one of the first churches in the metropolitan area to take that step. Pastor Schroeder, who directed the organization of the nursery before turning it over to educational professionals, said it seemed to him "a matter of good stewardship."

"It pleases me to see so many happy little children playing and learning here every day," he added.

THE SCHROEDERS' time at Redford Baptist has been full of innovation and change but always work with, in the pastor's words, "a congenial, loving fellowship."

Pastor Schroeder is particularly proud of the lay ministry the congregation has developed so that now six men are trained assist in church functions like assisting in worship and communion, making hospital visits and preaching occasionally.

"They come from different professions including teaching and police work," the minister said, "and they all are very supportive. This kind of church leadership is the thing of the future, I think."

Ruth Schroeder served the church for 10 years as Christian education director, a move that her husband said worked beautifully "although all the books say you shouldn't try it."

He said he also broke another taboo by inviting the Rev. James Kent, one of about a score of Redford Baptist Church members to enter the ministry, to return to his home church as minister of education.

"That's worked out very well too," Pastor Schroeder said.

RETIREMENT will mean more travel, and one of the Schroeders' pet ambitions is to visit all the young pastors the congregation has sent to faraway places, including Spain.

"We'll show up to visit that one one of these days," he predicted.

"He also plans to continue writing, a favorite activity for years. 'I've written more than 40 leaflets and pamphlets and some of them are still in print," he said. "One has passed the million mark in copies, and another, written in cooperation with Dr. Allan R. Knight of Lincoln, is in its 22nd printing and has been translated into seven languages."

Pastor Schroeder is proud of his church's mission-giving record, "quadrupled over the 19 years," and the church's many active and giving members.

Especially he's proud of his congregation's response to his often-emphasized message that Christianity begins in the home.

"I believe most strongly that more decent, Christian homes offer the salvation of this nation," he said.

"We tend to want others to be Christian, but what we need is to pay the price to lead a God-centered life."

Minister elected to board

The Rev. James W. Schaefer, minister of Pilgrim United Church of Christ, Livonia, is a newly elected corporate member of the United Church Board for Homeland Ministries.

The denomination's Board for Homeland Ministries will soon begin a three-year project of ministering to isolated and elderly people in rural and urban communities.

Visitation, counseling, recreation, health and home care for the elderly will be included in the projected plans to be shared with cooperating religious and public agencies.

The General Synod, which named Rev. Schaefer, also elected Milton Hurst, dean of students at Taladega College, Ala., as moderator of the church.

Dorothy Blair Shimer, a retired university professor from Kaneohe, Hawaii, and the Rev. Donna Schaper, a pastor at Tabernacle Church in Philadelphia, will be assistant moderators.

New Livonia congregation receiving gift from past Christ Our Savior Lutheran Church, the newest Missouri Synod congregation in the metropolitan area, and Gethsemane Lutheran, one of the oldest, will join in worship for a special presentation Sunday.

The Gethsemane congregation has elected to give up worship in its sanctuary on 28th Street near Buchanan in Detroit and has voted to present its furnishings to the new congregation that soon will build a church home.

The formal presentation will be made following a combined service Sunday.

Members of Christ Our Savior, led by the Rev. Ralph G. Schmidt, will hold a worship service at 9:30 a.m. in the Harry Hill Funeral Home on Six Mile in Livonia, its meeting place since organization last November.

Then members will travel in caravan to the Gethsemane church and join in worship with its members at 11 a.m.

In the joint service, the members of Gethsemane will present to Christ Our Savior furnishings including a complete handcarved altar, carved oak chancel chairs, a handcarved marble baptismal font and several stained glass windows.

Other Lutherans in the area are invited to attend the service, which marks a change of direction for the Detroit congregation as well as a step forward for the Livonia one.

Gethsemane, while ending use of the old sanctuary, is continuing as a congregation, possibly meeting in the home of the pastor.

The Christ Our Savior congregation plans to incorporate its priceless gifts into the design of the sanctuary it will build in the near future.

Special architectural design will combine the old church furniture with the lines of a modern building. The list of gifts from Gethsemane also includes four leather-covered narthex doors with leaded glass, 50 butternut wood pews and two large bronze church bells built in 1902 by the Henry Stuckstedt Bell Foundry of St. Louis and inscribed with appropriate German Bible passages.

Fr. Solanus anniversary to be marked

A special mass will be offered at 1 p.m. Sunday, July 31, to commemorate the 20th anniversary of the death of Detroit's Fr. Solanus Casey, OFM Capuchin. The service will be held in Blessed Sacrament Cathedral, Woodward at Boston, with the Most Rev. Arthur Krawczak, auxiliary bishop of Detroit, as celebrant.

The public is invited to the mass and to view a display of pictures and articles connected with the life of Fr. Solanus, from 3-5 p.m. on July 31 in the Capuchin Third Order Hall, 1780 Mt. Elliott.

Members of the Fr. Solanus Guild will be on hand to answer questions about his life, the progress of his cause for beatification and the purposes of the guild.

Off the Walls

Thrill of victory, agony of defeat

By NANCY WALLS SMITH

I have never been what one could call a competitive person. The thrill of victory and agony of defeat that I find in an occasional game of Scrabble is enough for me, and even then, nine times out of 10, I go with the agony of defeat.

But a strange change came over me after the arrival of my firstborn, Jason. I evolved into an incredible braggart—not about my own accomplishments, but about the wonderful achievements of this tiny new human I had produced.

And being a new mama, I figured the rest of the world was just as fascinated about Jason's discovery of his toes or his ability to hold up his head for an entire 30 seconds as I was.

Not only was I a braggart, but a dreadful bore. Even my best friends didn't tell me.

A TYPICAL conversation with new-mama-Nancy would go something like this:

Friend: "We've just sold our house of $50,000 today."

Me: "That's nice. Jason just learned to say 'Da.' He's so bright. I just can't believe it."

Friend: "With the profit we've made on the house we have decided to start a business of our own, and expect to make another $50,000 this year alone."

Me: "Oh. Did you know that Jason has a small brown fleck in his beautiful blue eyes? I wonder if it means anything?"

anything?"

Usually, around this point, above-mentioned friend would mysteriously claim she had to go because she was expecting a call from her Avon Lady and didn't want to tie up the phone.

It went on like this for months, until one fateful day I finally met my match. Her name was Mildred and she had a daughter, named Cissy, who was just two weeks younger than Jason.

CISSY WAS a marvel. I would call Mildred with the wonderful news that Jason had actually held his own spoon. To which she would reply, "That's nice. Cissy set the table for me today." Set the table! Good heavens, my kid can't even walk yet, and her's is already taking over light domestic duties.

Next week I tried again with "Jason watched 'Sesame Street' today for almost 10 whole minutes. What an attention span that kid has." I think I went into mild shock when I heard, "Well, Cissy doesn't care for that show. She told me she prefers 'Star Trek.'" Told you? Only 10-months-old and already she's discussing her viewing habits. Compared to Cissy, Jason was beginning to resemble a three-toed sloth.

Well, there's a moral here somewhere, but I'll be darned if I know what it is. I haven't called Mildred lately. It's just that I don't want to bother her. Cissy will be three years old soon, and I figure the little thing probably is busy studying hard for her college entrance exams. Wouldn't want the phone to interrupt her train of thought.

As for Jason, he's busy doing all the normal, funny, harassing things that two-year-olds do. Yesterday I saw him trying to put a round pet in a square hole. Oh, well.

But if you want to hear some real bragging, just ask Jason's grandma what he's done lately. She won't hesitate to lay some stories on you that could bore you for hours.

Bless her little heart.

Plymouth Chamber Column

Solicitations in Plymouth are a concern to all of us, especially the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce.

The Chamber asks organizations wanting to solicit in Plymouth by going to local business outlets to register with us.

Following are our guidelines: solicitor headquartered in this community; funds collected benefits the community at-large; solicitor obtains a permit from local government unit, if applicable; does no phone solicitation; does not solicit for private profit; and, is not a beneficiary of any fund or charity.

We ask each organization to complete an application asking pertinent information, and we do check them out. If they are approved, they will be issued a solicitation authorization card signed by myself.

So don't be taken in—ask for identification. The card is verification that they are legitimate.

Solicitations which have been granted approval by the Chamber during the past year include requests from groups such as the Plymouth Community Arts Council for its fallies in April, Junior Achievement of Southeastern Michigan, and the PTO Mardi Gras for Smith School which solicited gifts for a drawing.

If someone knocks on your door for funds, and you have doubts as to the legitimacy of the solicitor, contact your Chamber of Commerce. We are located at 878 Wing Street, Plymouth, and are open daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Or call us at 453-1540.

We want to work for you—let us know what your needs are. The Chamber Board of Directors or staff will be glad to consider your concerns. At our most recent directors meeting, for instance, we discussed such topics as barrier free housing, the Single Business Tax, economic education promotion, and the Ann Arbor Trail-Ann Arbor Road Pointe Park in Plymouth Township.

So let us know your concerns and keep your Chamber working for you.

Well-known author's rejected

He was born in 1812, the son of a poor laborer who lived in Landport, England.

Through his early years he lived in dire poverty. His father was constantly looking for work, but try as he would he was never able to get a good job and he was finally thrown into prison because he could not pay his debts.

At that time the boy was only 10 years of age but he was forced to take a job in a damp, dingy factory, pasting labels on bottles of shoe blackening. He slept in the filthy attic of an old, rundown house with two other boys who were said to be guttersnipes.

His formal education amounted to a total of only four years. However, he took advantage of every possible opportunity to study and read books in the public library because he had a burning desire to become a great writer. He began to write stories at an early age and when his first manuscript was finished, he sneaked out in the dead of night to mail it to a publisher.

He was so timid he was afraid for anyone to know what he was doing for fear they would laugh at him.

STORY AFTER STORY was rejected and then came that memorable day when one was accepted.

He was paid nothing for it, but was so happy he walked aimlessly around the streets of the city for hours with tears of joy running down his face. His next eight stories brought him absolutely nothing in terms of money. And when he was finally paid for a story the manuscript he wrote brought him the fabulous sum of $15 a word.

We have all heard of this man many times. His name was Charles Dickens. He became the best-loved and most idolized man of his day.

Once, when he visited America, people stood in line for hours, shivering in the wintry cold, as they waited to buy tickets to hear him speak. One of the leading encyclopedias has allotted more than five large pages to the account of his colorful career.

AUTHORITIES IN the field of psychology have been saving for years that the average person never develops or uses more than a very small per cent of his potential ability.

Dr. William James, once professor of psychology at Harvard University, used to say: "What the average person does, compared to what he could do, is like comparing the waves on top of the ocean to the ocean's mighty depth."

The pages of history reveal the names of many men and women who have achieved great success despite of overwhelming odds against them. But we don't have to read history books to find stories of success. All we need to do is to look around us and we will find some of the people right in our own communities have achieved a worthwhile measure of success because they were willing to plan and work and make good use of the talents that nature had given them.

It is not then a matter of what we can do but a matter of what we will do with the potential ability that is ours. The talents that are ready and waiting for us to put them to good use.

ANYONE CAN LEARN to see auras. It is really quite simple to train yourself. With a little practice, you should become adept at it in only a few days.

Ask a friend to stand in front of a white background, such as a blank wall. In a relaxed way, as the two of you converse normally, fix your gaze on a spot in the middle of his or her forehead. Soon you will be aware of actually seeing waves of light coming out from the body.

At first, these will appear very faint. It looks much like heat rising from a stove.

The more you practice, the stronger these will appear, and you will be able to see colors clearly. With more practice, you will eventually be able to do this anywhere, any time, even without the light background.

Note: You may write Gunda at: Box 4343, Garden City 48135. For a personal reply, enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

So, quite naturally, do our vibrations change from day to day, hour to hour, and sometimes even minute to minute. As our vibrations change, so do our auras.

Consequently, when one is involved in an engrossing conversation, or perhaps reading the newspapers, his or her aura may look like the Northern Lights displaying all the colors of the rainbow.

At other times, when one's mood is relatively constant, the color will remain a calm blue, an angry red, or a religious gold, depending on what that mood is.

Part IV

Our neglected children

Psychologists and educators like to talk a lot about the impact of models on the behavior of children. The idea of models, what we would call "setting an example," is based on the notion that the behavior of others is contagious.

Most parents feel it is important for them to be good examples for their children. So do teachers, ministers, Sunday School teachers, etc.

If adults set good examples for children, goes the theory, then youth should turn into responsible citizens as they grow. The theory, however, overlooks a major problem that children don't spend all their time with parents, teachers or ministers.

AS MENTIONED in an earlier column, children spend most of their time with other children their same age—in school, after school, over weekends, on holidays.

A survey of 766 sixth grade children showed that during the weekend they spent only two to three hours with their parents and more than twice as much time with their peers. And the study indicated that those children in the group who were peer-oriented were more influenced by a lack of attractiveness of the peer group.

Other studies show that the average television viewing time for youth between the ages of 6 to 16 is 22 hours per week or three hours per day (more than the average time spent with their parents). American children spend about as much time watching TV as they do in school, and more time before the tube than in any other activity except sleep and play. And, in spite of what the popular notion might be, children of high social class levels or with higher IQ tend to watch more television than those of lower ability or class status.

One Bronfenbrenner notes that there is a turning point at about the seventh grade when children switch from looking towards their parents as models and become more influenced by their peers.

The separation of church and state, which, as it freed the schools of religious control, also fragmented the process of education. The responsibility of schools became the teaching of subject matter while character education is left to the family and to the church.

"Qualities of mutual trust, kindness, cooperation and social responsibility are learned from other human beings and transmission cannot take place without the active participation of the older generation."

This transmission occurs, Bronfenbrenner argues, through models or examples. "Children take on the actions of the model without visible inducement or compulsion. It is possible to influence a large number of children with a single carefully-selected model."

"Modeling provides a means for inducing a behavior pattern which might otherwise never occur. Altruistic activities can be made as visible and enticing as expressions of aggression and self-indulgence."

"The most contagious models for the child are likely to be those who are the major sources of support and control in his environment; namely, his parents, playmates and older children and adults who play a prominent role in his everyday life. Several models, exhibiting similar behavior, are more powerful inducers of change than a single model."

The lesson to be drawn is that is isn't primarily the family, but other institutions in our society, which determine how and with whom children spend their time.

THE TEACHER, for instance, has been labelled and has functioned primarily as a purveyor of information—facts, nothing but the facts. Beware of values!

But the teacher has a great potential, largely untapped, as a model—a reinforcer of values. Because of this, points out Bronfenbrenner, "Teachers need to be recruited as persons other than those with purely academic qualifications, with at least as much emphasis placed on social as on intellectual qualities and skills."

"The teacher of tomorrow must acquire both understanding and skill in the use of modeling, social reinforcement, and group processes in work with children. Beyond that, he must know how to discover, recruit, and utilize individuals and groups from outside the school as major adjuncts to the educational process."

"We must learn to make more effective use of group forces in fostering human development. But, surely, the most needed innovation in the American classroom is the involvement of pupils in responsible tasks on behalf of others within the classroom, the school, the neighborhood, and the community."

"A preschool or primary class could be adopted by an older class, with each younger child having an older brother or sister from the more advanced class."

"We need to show the family the kinds of things that are done in a preschool program, which also happen to be things that family members can themselves do with the child. It is important that the process not be seen as a loss in which the child must learn something and deserves punishment for failure, but instead simply as an engaging activity in which learning is incidental to a total gratifying experience."

THE RUSSIANS may have gone too far in subjecting the child and his peer group to conformity to a single set of values imposed by the adult society, concludes Bronfenbrenner from his visit to the USSR and assessment of the Soviet educational system.

But the United States may have reached the point of diminishing returns, he states, in allowing "excessive autonomy and in failing to utilize the constructive potential of the peer group in developing social responsibility and consideration for others."

"What is called for is the greater involvement of parents and other adults in the lives of children and—conversely—greater involvement of children in responsibility on behalf of their own family, community and society at large."

"For just as autonomy and aggression have their roots in the American tradition, so have neighborliness, civic concern, and devotion to the young. It is to these that we must look if we are to rediscover our moral identity as a society and as a nation."

It is the above conclusion which turned me unto Bronfenbrenner because it is an uncomplicated simple approach, very realistic, which doesn't call for the expenditure of large sums of money. And, it seems to me, to avoid that charge is to neglect our children.

Mangione not a spotlight hog

By PATRICIA BEACH SMITH
You have to like Chuck Mangione—even if most of his music sounds the same. He's a very personable, down-to-earth sort of fellow, despite his "heavenly" music.

For instance, there's "The Hill Where the Lord Hides." He's got to mean something by that. And "Chase the Clouds Away." He opened his Meadow Brook program Friday night with those tunes.

Mangione is a wonderful, versatile musician and composer. He plays not only his flugelhorn, but the piano as well; both skillfully. He is not the archetypal ego-maniac like Buddy Rich, who insists that the band look his way when he's doing the solo bit.

But that's to be expected. Mangione is from a different era. A surprising era. He doesn't appear to want to be commercial, yet he plays things he knows will sell.

HIS DISCIPLINED ego allows him to share the stage with his fellow musicians. One is cautioned not to use the phrase "back-up men" since Mangione would probably balk at such a reference.

Instead one is treated to the incredible musicianship of drummer James Bradley Jr., bassist Charles Meeks (who isn't), Grant Geisman on acoustic guitar and phenomenal Chris Vadala on woodwinds.

VADALA IS the kind of guy you'd always like to have on your side—as they say in the music biz—as a side man. No shrinking violet. Vadala appears to be the name that got left off in what could be called the Chuck and Chris Show. The pair are not in competition, but they appear to be driving each other, and both have their hands on the wheel.

Mainly Mangione is mellow. There is nothing skitzzy about his brand of music. It is not manic improvisation, although some of the best music comes out of his and his group's jamming. He is obviously sentimental. "Bellavia" is a tribute to his mother "who has served up some of the best, boss spaghetti sauce ever," he says. "The Day After Our First Night Together" is another evocative, provocative chart. There are small, intimate musical figures for the sax and a strictly classical ABA form which begins with an exultant, excited rhythm pattern, mellows and returns to the original melodic and rhythmic theme.

IN "CHASE THE Clouds Away," guitarist Geisman is shown to his best advantage. Mangione, on electric piano, sounds like a harp. The effect chases the blues away, too.

Meeks was spectacular in "If You Know Me Any Longer Than Tomorrow," and one hopes one will not worry, we will hear from this musician again.

It probably sounds like heresy, but the "Legend of the One-Eyed Sailor" sounds a bit too much like Herb Alpert for this reviewer's taste. Even so, it was the vehicle for showing off Bradley's expertise on percussion.

Like a timpanist, Bradley uses tunable drum heads to achieve some eerie effects. Vadala's tenor sax added more eeriness. A strange story, this legend.

Fortunately, Mangione provided a break from his usual fare, with a tune he calls "No Name" because it's so new. It had a bossa nova beat and was much funkier than the rest of his Baldwin Pavilion program. It showed a new direction which a lot of fans may not like.

In tolerance

Phil Esser and Nancy Gurwin endure 50 years of marriage together through song and dance on stage at Vittorio's in Livonia. The musical is now in its sixth week and continues to draw the crowds. Dinner is at 7 p.m. with theater at 8:30 p.m. Thursdays-Saturdays. For reservations, 425-8344.

Jazz at DIA is extraordinary

While the Jack Brokensha Quartet took a quick break at the Detroit Institute of Arts last Thursday evening, Bess Bonnier talked about the music and questioned whether live jazz in an art museum might not be unique in the country.

Jazz in the Kresge Court will continue each Tuesday and Thursday evening through Sept. 22 with performances at 8 and 10 p.m.

Ms. Bonnier, well-known jazz pianist in this area, is musical director of the series.

Jazz at the Institute is another ripple in the same breeze that brings jazz to the Hotel Pontchartrain on Monday and Wednesday evenings and jazz at Meadow Brook on Fridays.

The Jack Brokensha Quartet composed of Brokensha on vibes, Matt Michaels on piano, Jeff Steinberg on bass and Burt Myreck on drums, had flown in from Houston the same day as the concert here. They gave two performances at the institute and had a recording date later.

In spite of that heavy schedule, they managed to please the full house in the Kresge Court.

The series continues with Ursula Walker and Friends on July 28, trumpeter Marcus Belgrave and the Bess Bonnier Trio, Aug. 24; Chuch Robinette Trio, Aug. 9, 11, and Joe Lo Duca, guitar and the Bess Bonnier Trio on Aug. 16, 18.

Film series offers viewers bargain bonanza

By LOUISE SNIDER

Where, for $2, can you see a first-run movie, read informative program notes, and get a free cup of coffee? At the Detroit Film Theater (DFT).

The DFT opens its eighth season at the Detroit Institute of Arts Friday with the Detroit premiere of Alain Resnais' new film 'Providence.' This is the French director's first film in English and one that has aroused a great deal of interest.

Its premiere at the DFT is one of many "firsts" among the 59 films scheduled for showing on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday evenings through Dec. 18.

This commitment to showing new films of importance, as well as the older masterpieces and the historical-landmark films, provides the formula for the continued success of the DFT. According to Elliot Wilhelm, the director of DFT, "on a per day basis, we are the highest attended museum theater in the country."

AUDIENCE in the 1,150-seat theater also enjoy the advantage of superior projection equipment. The DFT is equipped to show all films in their original aspect ratios. This means that if you are watching a film with subtitles, for example, you see the whole picture; the heads never are chopped off.

Friday evenings are devoted to screening new films or those which have had insufficient commercial exposure.

These include: "The Marquise of O." awarded the Grand Special Jury Prize at the 1976 Cannes Film Festival; "Under Milk Wood," the screen adaptation of Dylan Thomas' play with Elizabeth Taylor, Richard Burton and Peter O'Toole; and "Harlan County USA," which won the Academy Award for the Best Documentary Feature of 1976. Saturday evening presentations include films which have come to be regarded as classics or have been pacesetters in some way.

Among these are John Huston's 1951 hit, "The African Queen," with acclaimed performances by Humphrey Bogart and Katherine Hepburn; and one of the curiosities of movie history, the 3-D film "Creature from the Black Lagoon," which the audience will view with special glasses.

SUNDAY EVENINGS will consist of two separate series: a 10-week retrospective of the major films of Charles Chaplin and "Treasures From the Past," eight new 35-mm prints of rare, early silent and sound films from the United States.

Discount books of 10 tickets for $15 are a "best buy" available at the DFT ticket office in the Institute of Arts or by mail. For a free season brochure or ticket information, call 832-2730.

The schedule for the first four weeks follows, with director, country and year in parentheses: Friday and Saturday, "Providence" (Alain Resnais, England, 1977); Sunday, "The Chaplain Review" (Charles Chaplin, U.S., 1918).

Friday, Aug. 5, "Next Stop Greenwich Village" (Paul Mazursky, U.S., 1976); Saturday, Aug. 6, "Diary of a Country Priest" (Robert Bresson, France, 1951); Sunday, Aug. 7, "The Kid" (Charles Chaplin, U.S., 1921).

Friday, Aug. 12, "The Marquise of O" (Eric Rohmer, France/Germany, 1976); Saturday, Aug. 13, "Toni" (Jean Renoir, France, 1934); Sunday, Aug. 14, "The Gold Rush" (Charles Chaplin, U.S., 1925).

Friday, Aug. 19, "The Wonderful Crook" (Claude Goretta, France/Switzerland, 1975); Saturday, Aug. 20, "Creature from the Black Lagoon" (Jack Arnold, U.S., 1954); Sunday, Aug. 21, "The Circus" (Charles Chaplin, U.S., 1928).

Carole yeas; Phoebe nays

A Carole King concert on Aug. 4 has been added to the Pine Knob Music Theater schedule. There are very few seats remaining for Ms. King's original concert on the following night.

Two other concerts have been cancelled. They are the Aug. 16 Phoebe Snow/Al Stewart concert and the Tangerine Dream concert of Aug. 6.

Kids for opera theater needed

Auditions will be held Aug. 1 for children who wish to perform in Michigan Opera Theater's performances of "Regina" and "Carmen." The auditions will be held from 2-4 p.m. and from 6-8 p.m. at the Music Hall Center for the Performing Arts in Detroit.

Also needed is a boy soprano for the lead role in "Amahl and the Night Visitors," which will be presented in December at Music Hall.

No appointment is necessary. Children should be prepared to sing one song. An accompanist will be provided.

MOT audition set for kids

Open auditions will be held from 2-4 p.m. and 6-8 p.m. Monday, Aug. 1, in the Music Hall for all children who wish to perform in Michigan Opera Theater's (MOT) productions of "Regina" and "Carmen."

No appointments are necessary for the prospective performers who wish to sing or dance.

Also needed is a boy soprano for the leading role in MOT's holiday production of "Amahl and the Night Visitors" which will be presented in 10 performances, in December at the Music Hall.

Children should be prepared to sing one song. An accompanist will be provided.

Glimpses

NEW RELEASES

EXORCIST II—THE HERETIC (R). There's not much that can save this imbecilic movie, although Richard Burton and Louise Fletcher try. How do they keep from laughing?

THE ISLAND OF DR. MOREAU (PG). Burt Lancaster and Michael York in remake of H.G. Wells' fantasy about a scientist who turns men into beasts. (Is it his after-shave lotion?)

THE LAST REMAKE OF BEAU GESTE (PG). Marty Feldman directed the fourth remake of this French Foreign Legion film which bears no resemblance to any of the others. With luck, this will be the last. Farce with Feldman as Michael York's identical twin.

NEW YORK, NEW YORK (PG). Vintage music abounds in this 1940-era musical with Robert De Niro as a saxophone player in love with band vocalist Liza Minelli.

ORCA (PG). Richard Harris, fisherman, and Charlotte Rampling, marine biologist, are adversaries in this oceanic adventure of a hunt for a killer whale.

THE OTHER SIDE OF MIDNIGHT (R). Tawdry film of vanity and vengeance. Marie-France Pisier wastes her talent in this clunker. More sex and less story and they could have gone for the "Emmanuelle" trade.

THE RESCUERS (G). Beautifully animated Disney film of two mice who rescue girl from clutches of the evil Mme. Medusa.

ROLLERCOASTER (PG). Suspense thriller about extortionist (Timothy Bottoms) who plants bombs at amusement parks and a safety inspector (George Segal) who doesn't find it amusing.

SORCERER (PG). Roy Scheider stars in this remake of the hair-raising film "Wages of Fear." Four men contract to drive a cargo of explosives across 200 miles of wild terrain.

THE SPY WHO LOVED ME (PG). Smirking Roger Moore in formula James Bond movie with toothy heavy named "Jaws" and a lot of new gadgetry.

STAR WARS (PG). Serious sci-fi adventure about a rebellion of solar systems in a distant galaxy. Good time movie with laughs and special effects. Two robots steal the show.

Getting Around

By ETHEL SIMMONS

Detroit and suburbs fill vacation days

Vacationing right around home can be relaxing—and exciting. Whenever you find yourself in metropolitan Detroit, in city or suburb, there's lots to do.

I didn't plan it that way, but each day of a vacation week spent at home I found myself enjoying an afternoon or evening in Birmingham, Dearborn or Detroit.

Having lunch for the first time at the Pool, at the Fair Lane Conference Center in Dearborn, I had an opportunity to drive through the campus of the University of Michigan-Dearborn, then walk in a quiet garden just outside the Pool.

The restaurant takes over what used to be the indoor swimming pool on the Henry Ford estate. The high-ceilinged room has decorative wall motifs and is an airy delight with wicker chairs and plants. The color scheme is neutrals of beige and brown combined with white.

THE POOL resembles an enclosed courtyard with a skylight. Its menu features a daily special (I had short ribs at $2.50) with salad bar. For $4-$5, including tax and tip, you can have an entree, salad, potato or vegetable and dessert.

No liquor is served at the Pool, open weekdays for lunch. But there are daisies on the table. And if you're feeling touristy, go back for a visit to the adjoining Ford mansion, which offers public tours on weekends.

There's shopping at Fairlane Center nearby, a maze of stores which aren't as mind-boggling on a weekday as they are on a weekend when the crowd arrives.

A DAY OF shopping in Birmingham included stops at some of my favorite shops, as well as ones I hadn't visited before. Everything from Papagallo classics to Levis are featured in the specialty apparel stores.

Lunch at Machus Alley door (go past the cafeteria, to the back room) was quiet amid subdued lighting. There are contemporary ceiling lights hung over some tables and candles in red holders on the tables.

The mood is informal, with brick walls hung with photos of old cars, lanes and streets.

It was a lazy summer day that found the restaurant uncrowded and unhurried at noontime. Good waitress service was one of the attractions.

Machus Alley door has a liquor license, so I had a glass of white wine and a single crepe (chicken a la king), plus vegetable (summer squash) for $3.50. Dill pickles and pumpernickel bread are served with every meal but are most suitable to heartier menu selections.

ANOTHER DAY in Detroit, I browsed at Emily's Across the Street, where you can buy T-shirts which say Emily's Across the Street (I did) and lots of other good stuff.

It was a hot afternoon and the offbeat store with eye-catching wares was jammed with shoppers. Around the corner, a flower seller was hawking fresh flowers.

Next to Emily's, the outdoor cafe at the Salt Mine was filled with late lunchers. I decided to forego one of Emily's big double-dipped ice cream cones to dine at the sidewalk cafe instead.

The menu is one that offers sandwiches and other things with appetizing names and combinations. There is imported beer, as well as wine and coolers that go well with a cafe meal. For about $5, I had a jambon (ham) and cheese sandwich, tossed salad and beer. The food was especially good, and the menu says the fixings come from Eastern Market.

Back in Dearborn one evening, I took in the view that included downtown Detroit and the Renaissance Center from the revolving cocktail lounge at the Hyatt Regency.

(FOR REVOLVING roof freaks, there's also the Rondo-View in Southfield and the Summit at Detroit's Hotel Plaza.) The view from the Summit, which I saw on another occasion, can only be described as spectacular.

The marvelous Miss Channing returns to the Fisher Theatre in Broadway's most popular musical. We can be sure she will delight us all with the role she made famous, right here on the Fisher stage.

After three smash hit years on Broadway, this long-awaited musical comes to Detroit. The story combines wit with rousing musical spirit. A lively journey through time to the days of romance and heroic adventure.

Pippin, the musical Detroit's been waiting to see, has never played to an empty seat on Broadway. Big, beautiful and brassy... a wonderful marriage of music, lyrics and dance. Pippin, one of Broadway's greatest hits.

Humor as only Neil Simon can write it. This four-act comedy depicts California life as only a New Yorker might see it. The setting is a Los Angeles hotel with four different "peeks" into the lives of its visitors. Simon all the way.

What's the best treatment for injuries?

(Second of Two Parts)

By KEN VOYLES

Athletics have become, over the last few years, a battleground, more or less, between the participants where injuries are becoming an ever increasing sight on the playing field.

Battleground is a most fitting word for the heavy contact sports such as football, but that sport is not the only villain when it comes to injuries. The semi-contact sports add to the injury ranks.

Injuries, it could be concluded, have become a major part of athletic life and the need to know about them is tremendous.

Two of the most common injuries in sports, according to Richard Milder, director of the Physical Therapy and Sports Medicine Clinic in Livonia, are ankle and knee injuries. Both, said Milder, are common because of their anatomical location and the lack of good protection for those areas.

Girls also suffer from a type of knee injury. Instead of a torn cartilage, most familiar to male athletes, the knee cap slips out of place and must be readjusted.

"A very difficult problem for the athletic trainer or therapist is an injury that has gone unrecognized for a lengthy period of time.

"The initial treatment is usually difficult because the injury has changed in the time that it has gone unrecognized," said Milder, who added that unrecognized injuries are fairly common.

The center for Physical Therapy and Sports Medicine set up by Milder handles any injuries of these types and many others, more or less serious.

The athletes, according to Milder, have two big advantages over other patients in need of therapy or rehabilitation.

The first advantage is a general desire to get treated and cured as fast as possible. The athlete wants to get back into the sport, while the older person out of sports doesn't have the same drive, said Milder.

"Athletes have a very good attitude when it comes to injuries and that definitely makes things easier on us," he said.

The second advantage is that the athlete is in overall better shape and condition than the non-athlete who needs treatment. The athlete trains long and hard and it shows in his physical condition.

"Athletes are willing to work to recover. They are willing to sacrifice unlike a patient with a heart condition, for example," said Milder.

In the world of athletics, a number of major controversies have come to the surface in the last few years. Athletic trainers in general are in a good position to comment on a number of these controversies.

One such controversy is the heat and cold debate. Heat is put on an injury such as a bruised leg to relax the muscles and to relieve the swelling as much as possible. Cold is used for the same purpose except that cold will not relax the muscles. The con-

Top seeds dominate tourney

More than 125 boys, girls, men and women have signed up for singles competition in the annual Plymouth-Canton School District Tennis Tournament to be held this weekend at the Centennial Park courts on Canton Center Road, south of Joy.

The tournament starts on Friday night with the men and women singles competition and lasts throughout the weekend.

First and second-place trophies will be awarded to the netters in each category.

Tennis has become a most popular sport in this community over the years and the interest in this annual summer event shows that this popularity isn't about to fade.

SO NOW it's time for the Good Doctor to get his predicting skills into good working condition as the tourney draws closer.

THE BIGGEST and most popular event this year was the men's singles (16 and older) where 59 different netters signed up for play.

Ken Bloom, 19, heads this field as the first seed. Bloom won the tournament over Robin Wideman last year. Wideman has been named the second seed.

Gordon Rama, 1975 winner of the men's singles, is the third seed, and Steve Pasley is fourth. Pasley was a surprise player last year, advancing to the quarterfinals.

Action in the 'G' Jr. championship softball game saw the Kittens shutout the Belles, 12-0, on the no-hit pitching of Sue Pierce. The 'G' Jr. League is the girls conference, ages 9-13, in the Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball League. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey).

Kittens no-hit Belles, 12-0

The end of another "G" Jr. girls softball season, ages 4-13, ended last Saturday when the Kittens demolished the Belles, 12-0, to win the championship.

The Kittens, under first-year manager Sharon Staron, breezed to the National League title with a 14-1 record before winning the three playoff tournament games to finish with a 17-1 overall mark.

The Belles were truly the Cinderella team of the playoffs, advancing to the finals despite finishing the regular season with a third-place standing in the National League. The Belles ended the season with an 11-7 mark.

The Kittens led all the way in this championship game, which proved to be no contest from the start. The winners scored three runs in the first inning, one in the second, seven in the third and one final tally in the fifth to complete the onslaught.

Sue Pierce kept her undefeated pitching record intact during the championship as she hurled her best game of the year. Pierce snarled on the mound throughout the contest enroute to throwing a no-hitter past the stunned Belles.

Other members of the Kittens include Kelly Champagne, Stacy Champagne, Cindy Ebmeyer, Darlene Egbert, Lou Ann Hamblin, Nancy Himmelsbach, Leah Maloney, Valerie Martin, Nancy McKendry, Eileen McKendry, Missey McMurray, Lisa Rey, Sarah Rubadue, Cory Younce and Vicky Salinski.

Lynne Kohler and Del Maloney served as coaches for Staron during the season.

Massey takes 5th place in Northville softball tourney

Don Massey Cadillac of the Plymouth Slow-Pitch Men's Softball League finished fourth in the fifth-annual Northville Invitational Tournament held last weekend at Thompson Field. The prestigious tournament included teams from all over the metropolitan Detroit area, including squads from Allen Park and Pontiac.

Massey, the defending city champion and currently the only undefeated men's team in the Plymouth league, won three of five games in the double-elimination event enroute to the high finish.

Massey's offensive charges for the weekend were led by the hitting of Dave Broad who batted for a .500 average with four home runs. Tom Battistone, Cal Glonski and Louie Bryant each hit for over .600 averages. Tim Abramski smashed two home runs and Battistone and Glonski added one each.

The first victory for the Plymouth squad was a 13-8 decision over Burghuff's Bar of Wayne. Massey pounded out 21 hits with Broad connecting for two homers.

Massey's second victory was an extra-inning thriller which saw the Plymouth squad outlast Detroit's First Edition Lounge in a 10-inning contest. Massey finished the game with 19 hits and two homers while the losers smacked 20 safeties.

First Edition rallied rallied with two runs in the seventh inning to send the game into overtime. But Broad's towering homer eventually won the game.

Battistone had three hits in this game, and Brian Gilles added heads-up baserunning to spark the victory.

Massey lost its first game to the eventual winners of the tournament, Kentucky Fried Chicken from Union Lake, 13-10. The Plymouth squad had its chances in this contest but couldn't get the key hit.

Massey had the bases loaded in the final inning but a double play ended any hopes for a comeback victory. Bill Robitaille and Abramski both registered perfect performances at the plate.

Massey won another extra-inning contest in its fourth game when it defeated Farmington's Suburban Sports Center, 9-6, in eight innings. Massey was once again outthit by its opponents but superb defense with two double plays was the key to victory.

Howell's Livingston County finally ended Massey's tournament hopes when it handed the Plymouth contingent a heartbreaking 12-11 loss. Howell, the third-place finisher, scored the deciding run in the bottom of the seventh inning.

City of Plymouth softball results

Garden City Sports easily won both its games last week to maintain its comfortable first-place position in the men's Division 1 conference of the City of Plymouth Slow-Pitch Softball League.

Garden City's record zoomed to 14-2 with victories over Michigan Boiler, 7-0, and M.A.S.H., 22-8. In the M.A.S.H. victory, the division leaders pounded out 29 hits, including two homers and six doubles. The losers registered only 16 hits.

Dempsey and Catton each hit the roundtrippers for Garden City. Wilkens recorded five hits and Klein added three. M.A.S.H.'s Dan Williams was three-for-three with one triple.

Puckett Plumbing extended its winning streak to five games with a 13-10 victory over Finlan Insurance. Puckett vaulted into second-place with this victory. Finlan and M.A.S.H. were tied for third going into this week's play.

Kahanec, Maxwell and Smith paced Puckett's offensive attack against Finlan. Copeland and manager Conrad Valade led Finlan's charges.

Port to Port lost two games this week to Puckett and Stahl. Puckett beat the last place team, 15-8, while Stahl squeaked by with a 10-8 victory. Stahl also shut out Michigan Boiler, 7-0, in the other Division 1 game.

DIVISION II leaders, Kool Kings, did not play last week but still head the conference with a 14-1 record.

Second-place Sun Plastics currently holds an 11-4 record after a late-inning victory over the Plymouth Jaycees.

Plymouth K of C defeated Sajo's Pizza 12-9 despite being out 22-16. Sajo bounced back to beat J.C. Heidenreich, 9-6. Bathey Manufacturing flattened the tires on Garfield Auto, 13-4, in other action.

MASSEY CADILLAC remains the lone men's team to post an undefeated record with a 14-0 mark. The Division III leaders made Adistra their latest victims by a 15-5 score. Massey's 26-hit attack was just too much for Bill Almond's team.

Dave Broad and Jim Gignac each had perfect days at the plate for the winners. Massey's attack included six doubles, five triples and one home run off the bat of Bob Pinkney. Adistra's Deshaw and Nester added two hits each in the losing cause.

Kurl 'N' Kut Hut kept pace with Massey after its 10-8 victory over Bayloff. Each team registered 22 hits.

Mon Jefferies, Bob Shaw, and Dave Sherwood all had perfect nights at the plate for the winners. Sherwood smacked three doubles.

H.A.F. Industries broke out of its slump with two victories over Bayloff, 7-5, and Napoleon's, 26-7. H.A.F. smashed 10 doubles, two triples and one home run as part of a massive 35-hit attack against Napoleon. Gary Flummerfelt paced the attack for the winners.

Other Division III games saw R & J win two games over Napoleon's, 5-1, and over Bill Knapp's 7-0.

CENTURY 21 raised its undefeated record to 9-0 with a 16-4 thrashing of Yankee Clipper in women's league action last week.

Second-place Daly Drive-In bombarded Bathey Manufacturing, 30-1, thanks to 28 hits and three home runs. Bathey only had seven hits in the game. Daly's Dian Stanfield was four-for-four with three homers. Pat Rodman added five hits in six trips.

American Community knocked Little Caesar out of a second-place tie with an 8-3 upset victory of the pizza people.

American Community played excellent defense throughout the game.

Total Images ran past Trail Bar, 17-5, in other action. Images recorded 27 hits to only 15 for Trail Bar.

Merchants take 2d; qualify for tourney

The Plymouth Merchants, Plymouth Canton High's Connie Mack summer baseball team, has finished another successful season with a second-place standing in the Adray Connie Mack League.

This runners-up position qualifies the Merchants to post-season tournament play in the National Amateur Baseball Federation (NABF) Senior Tournament to be held this weekend at Oakland University. If the Merchants survive this tourney, the squad would travel to Columbus, Ohio, for a national event.

Adray Appliance (Redford Union) finished first in the league standings with a 20-4 record and the Plymouth Merchants followed with a 19-6 mark. The Merchants were the only team to defeat Adray twice this season. The other teams in this league included crews from Southfield, Plymouth, Salem, Thurston and Northville.

By virtue of its first-place finish, Redford will compete in an American Amateur Baseball Conference (AABC) tournament next week.

The Merchants, coached by Fred Crissey, were led this summer by the fine pitching of Doug Smith (7-2) and Brian James (6-3).

"I'm really pleased with the way the kids have played this summer, after coming off a good school season," said Crissey. "We played 25 games in a tough league."

Canton finished the school season last June as the fourth-rated team in the state with a 23-3 record.

The players who have had outstanding summer seasons for the Merchants include catcher Jeff Campbell, shortstop Scott Collins, third baseman Craig Lee, designated hitter Rob Tarskavage, infielder Don Dreher, second baseman Ray Smoek, and outfielders Dale Albright, Rob Mandie, Dave Weiss and Smith.

trovercy is simply a question of which is better for treatment.

According to Milder, there really is not much difference between the two for healing purposes.

"Cold, most frequently ice, is generally better in the initial stages of treatment. Heat is slowly being phased out by the medical field and cold in coming more into use," Milder said. "I prefer cold."

One use for cold treatment comes in during rehabilitation programs when the patient is in too much pain to exercise the injured area. Milder puts ice on an injured area and numbs it so that the patient can exercise with less pain.

"The cold acts as an anesthetic so exercise is possible," said Milder.

Questions have been asked in recent years about whether young boys and girls should be allowed to participate in sports at an age when participation might be harmful to their physical development.

As a certified athletic trainer Milder is in a good position to comment on the controversy.

"I feel as though the Little League athlete is just that—a little athlete not a small adult like many people feel," said Milder. "It's all right for kids to participate as long as the adults have a proper perspective on sports."

The center hasn't seen many Little League athletes and Milder expects that he will see very few even during the Little League football season.

The injuries, said Milder, just don't seem to come to the surface in Little League. "There is nothing wrong with Little League sports," he said.

A main issue in the controversy is the difference in the bone and muscle structure of the young athletes as compared to older ones.

Milder said that the bones and muscles at that age are radically different and can be hurt, but he said that it is unlikely to happen to a large degree.

When it comes to a general rehabilitation program, Milder says that the time factor for recovery depends on the degree of injury and the patient.

The rehabilitation process is slow even with the most advanced equipment. Healing serious or even minor problems takes time and a will to recover.

Two common injuries for both athletes and non-athletes are knee injuries and tennis elbow.

What follows are two fictional case histories detailing how Milder would treat those injuries.

The knee injury: An athlete comes in after knee surgery for a torn cartilage suffered while playing football. Milder would first make an evaluation of the knee. He would check the strength of the leg and knee, the movement of the leg and the flexibility of the leg.

During the evaluation Milder would compare the injured leg with the patient's good leg.

The second step would be to compare the size and circumference of the bad knee with the good knee. This is very important, according to Milder, who stated that the swelling in the knee must be reduced until it is the same size as the good knee.

The third step would involve actual treatment of the knee and leg. The treatment would start with basic whirlpool baths to relax the muscles. Milder would then get right into the exercise end of the treatment. "Each muscle in the knee must be strengthened and there are a lot of muscles in the knee area," he said.

This treatment with exercise would continue until the knee was sufficiently healed and the patient could start an exercise program at home.

Tennis elbow: A middle aged man comes into the clinic with a moderate case of tennis elbow. Milder would locate the pain exactly and test it to see how bad the pain is.

The next step would be to treat the elbow. Milder would use ice for treatment and as an anesthetic so exercise could be done.

He would also use a new method of treatment. He would apply heavy elastic bands just below where the pain is. This would compress the muscles and relieve the stress on the painful area.

In the treatment of athletic-related injuries, Milder stressed three important points.

"It's important to stretch the strong muscles and to strengthen the weak ones. Also, you must treat the cause and not the pain of an injury. Finally and most important, the secret, in my opinion is to exercise the injured area," Milder said. "Exercise is the secret."

Bloom, a 1976 graduate from Salem, is a tall, lanky netter who has a powerful two-handed backhand which should surpass all. Bloom will probably face Pasley in the semifinals.

In the other bracket, watch for third-seed Rama to upend second-seed Wideman in the semifinals. This should be a real grudge match since both men met each other in the 1975 finals in which Rama was victorious.

Wideman, a 1966 graduate of Plymouth High School and tennis instructor for the continuing education office, has had trouble gaining a first place trophy in the past two years, settling for second place honors in the singles, doubles and mixed doubles events each summer.

The Observer's Patrick Touhey will also try his hand in the singles event, and I predict he should have an easy time in his first-round match against Dan Janusis.

But the second-round won't be as rewarding for the star reporter as he faces seventh-seed Curt Schultz. Enough said?

It won't be the Larry Masteller-Ruch Madsen show in the men's 35-years and older competition this year. And the reason for that is Jim Hayes.

The last two years found Masteller defeating Madsen for the championship. Each match went three sets in grueling heat.

But this year, both men have been knocked down to the second and third seed positions because of Hayes.

Hayes, coach of the Plymouth C. crown as the Plymouth-Canton men's singles champion.

In the semifinals, I will predict Madsen win over Masteller this year. I don't think Masteller can turn the trick for a third time in a row. Besides, his legs are one year older. Leonard Koeninger, the fourth seed, will advance to the semifinals against Hayes.

THE WOMEN'S 16-over division will be dominated by the pair of Eastern Michigan University students, Laura Hastings and Beth Redmond.

Both women, who are former members of the Plymouth Salem tennis team, met in the finals last year and will undoubtedly be right back on top this Sunday.

Hastings, the first-seed, has been improving on her singles play while at EMU and should defeat her friend in another close match.

Both women are overwhelming favorites and first-seeds to win their third-straight women's doubles title.

Patti Piel, the third-seed in the women's singles competition, should take Redmond to three sets before losing in the semifinals.

Fourth-seed Kathy Granger, a recent Plymouth novice tennis winner, will be easy pickings for Hastings in the other semifinals.

The women's 35-years and older division has only six players competing so no seeds were chosen. But watch for Judy Braun to win all the marbles.

IN OTHER DOUBLES play, Steve Prueter and Rama are the first seeds and defending champions of the men's action. Wideman and Bloom team up for the second seed. Bill Moehle and Maybury are the third seeds and Hayes and Nowak are positioned fourth.

More than 20 men's combinations will play in this category and watch for the fourth seeded team of Hayes and Nowak to upset everyone enroute to victory.

Wideman and Bloom should easily handle Moehle and Maybury in the semifinals but will fall to the fourth seeds in the championship.

Rama and Prueter will undoubtedly take Hayes and Nowak to three sets but I'm betting on the upset.

Ironically, Hayes was Prueter's coach for three straight seasons on the Canton team in 1974, 1975 and 1976.

In mixed doubles action, the first-seeds Redmond and Moehle will more than likely defend their title. The only tough competition they should experience is from the second-seeded duo of Wideman and Hastings.

IN BOYS competition, ages 13-15, Scott Crespo heads the eight players as the first seed. Crespo was last year's runner-up.

Dick Cook is the second seed, Mike Sharp third, and Larry Kummer the fourth.

I would like to predict Dick Cook as the winner of this category, but due to the untimely death of his brother Bill, also a fine tennis player, he may decide not to play.

Crespo will meet Sharp, the Plymouth novice winner, for the championship.

Nine 10-12-year old boys will compete in this category but none were seeded. I'm not familiar with this age bracket and will pass on a prediction.

THE GIRLS 13-15-years category finds two great players in Kathy Horton and Betsy Moon nailing down the top two seeds. Girls novice winner Kathy Somers is seeded third.

Horton should handle Moon in the championship—but it may take three sets.

The girls 10-12-years category will prove to be no competition for Christine Gilles. She is the only seed of the eight players entered, and should have no problem winning.

One interesting sidelight to this category is in the other bracket where Christine's sister Wendy, could very possibly advance to the championship round against her sister. Wendy made a strong showing in the novice tourney three weeks ago, just missing the quarterfinals.

Canton slow-pitch softball news

Undeclared McMurray Insurance of the Canton Township men's softball league gained its 12th victory of the season against no defeats with a 5-1 victory over Little Caesar last week.

The victory was an important one for the Division 'A' leaders, as it clinched an unprecedented sixth straight league title. The only goal McMurray hasn't obtained this season is a perfect season, although it seems extremely possible with only three games remaining on the schedule.

Mike Stanislawski's perfect day at the plate

Don Massey Cadillac, the second place team with an 8-4 record, disposed of Clark Block, 18-12, in other 'A' action. Jack Warner, Craig Warner and Mike Hanlon paced the potent Massey attack.

PERLONGO won the 'B' title last week after edging Meijer Thrifty Acres, 9-5. Perlongo managed to score at least one run in every inning but the fourth to clinch the victory.

Hurler Terry Ransier led the offensive punch with two singles and a triple.

Latin Quarter Catering picked up its fifth victory of the season with an 18-9 triumph over the Merchants. Joe Bennett, Neil Carnes, Nick Trapponi and Paul Zacharias each slammed home runs for the winners.

The Lion & Sword squeaked by Chapman Realty, 16-15, to stay in third place. Pasquale Ferritti and Jim Gabeiral each smacked three hits to pace the winners.

THE TIE in the 'C' Division race with Ovidon Manufacturing and Metro Bolt & Fastener was broken last week when Metro was upset by Century Farms, 5-4.

Ovidon took advantage of the Metro loss by hammering Huffman's Roofing, 29-6. Ovidon scored 10 runs in the last two innings to secure the victory and the first place standing.

Geneva Church picked up only its second victory of the season with a 16-8 triumph over the Canton Police. Both teams are at the bottom of the 'C' standings.

LITTLE CAESAR continues to dominate the women's league as it kept its untarnished record intact after a 21-4 demolishing of Cervi Home Builders last week. The victory gives Caesar a 10-0 record for the season.

Lee Jaskolski, Donna Ramsey, Pam Truskowski and Sue Krause supplied the run-production to lead Caesar to the easy victory.

Cervi bounced back after the Caesar game to defeat the Brooklyn Babes, 17-13. Cervi's offensive attack was balanced throughout the lineup.

Meijer Thrifty Acres, the only team which has a chance to catch Caesar, racked up an important victory over Egg Castle, 17-2.

When we say "super market"—we don't mean the local grocery store

We mean the super, rich, growing market area that you can corner with consistent advertising in The Observer & Eccentric newspapers. We mean more than 150,000 homes and the people who live in them who need what you have to sell. Your shelves and showrooms are stocked with merchandise that we can help you move. Think about it.

What is the fastest way to saturate 402 square miles of prime market area without licking a lot of expensive postage stamps? Or being 'licked' by the high cost of printing? How can you get your message to an enormous number of people twice each week while they enjoy news about what's happening in their hometowns? Newspaper advertising is the obvious answer. Observer & Eccentric newspaper advertising.

Your ad will roll off our press and into the homes of more than 480,000 people who live in Birmingham, Bloomfield, West Bloomfield, Canton, Farmington, Garden City, Livonia, Plymouth, Redford, Rochester, Southfield, Troy and Westland.

Hilltop Roundup

By Betty DeLano

Dave Kivisto shot an impressive 43 last Monday morning to take first place in the juniors tournament at Hilltop Glen golf course. The tournament is part of group lessons taught by Tom Ross, professional and manager at Hilltop, taken over the summer.

The 14-year-old golfer helped his winning score out with pars on the first, third and ninth holes—all of which are par fours.

Second place resulted in a tie between Butch Recto and Greg Prudham at 48. Recto had a par on the third hole and Prudham added a par on the first hole along with a birdie on the third. Don Adsit took fourth place with a 49 for the nine hole round.

Fran Brudzinski and Rita Heath tied this past week in the Windsor Park Women's league at 56. Brudzinski shot hers with only 18 putts and Heath with 19. Both play in the "A" flight.

In the "B" flight, Pat Thibert took first place with a 66 and 18 putts, and Yvonne Burdick second with 67-19.

Marcia Bertand had an 83 to head the "C" flight with 23 putts followed by Marcy Hirschauer shooting 85-21. Tootsie Handyside leads the "D" flight with a 93-26 with Linda Cygan close behind at 94-25.

In the Businessmen's League, Hilltop's own four man team holds first place again this week with 47 points. The Derby Bar team is in second with 43½ points and third place finds Jerry Abram Stamps close behind with 41 points.

Johnston Insurance and Michigan T-Cats follow with 38½ points. Madison Products follows at 33. Mel's Golden Razor- 29½ points. Plymouth Office Supply and Merriman Insurance tied at 27. Evenson Shell- 22½ points. Team 8- 20½ points, and Team 4 at 20 points.

Hilltop Glen was the low net team this week with a team total of 138 shot by Buck Zornow, Carl Zornow, Charles Clark and Ted Kuhns Jr. Buck Zornow also earned the weekly low individual honors with a 31.

The top results of the two-man best ball tournament held last week with the Businessmen's League were in the first flight, where George Westphal and Bob LaLonde tied with Pat Cavannah and Todd Strong at 29. In the second flight, Carl Zornow and Gary Warrow were tied with son Buck Zornow and Walt Bickell at 30.

Winners of the low putts contest were Merrill Austin with 11 and Roger Strong also with 11 in the second flight.

The team of Jim Kimmet (shooting a 44 actual and 36 net), Dave Piper (48-42), John Amos (49-43) and Dan Strzalka (52-50) were the low net team last week in the Hydramatic Good Times League. Bill Stone (48-47) followed the pack with Rudy Denstedt (52-51) Kay Blagus (51-48) and Peggy Luxton (75-52).

Joel Clark (45-36), DonWall (48-40), Bill Hanna (48-41), Betty Clark (60-49) and Brbara Lie (60-50) took third place.

Jim Kimeet was the low net individual for the evening (44-36) followed by Joel Clark (45-36). Dave Piper helped his round out with a birdie on the seventh hole while Joel Clark chalked one up on the third.

Rider Ronnie Baldwin will swing into the starting gate aboard the 3-year-old colt Mellio in the $50,000 Dowling Memorial Handicap Saturday at Detroit Race Course. It will be one more sign that harness racing is going to have to wait for the thoroughbred jockey who hustled Bass Clef to a third-place finish behind Carry Back in the Kentucky Derby of 1961.

On many mornings during the recently completed Wolverine Harness meeting, the 44-year-old Baldwin was out on the track jogging pacers and trotters, working hard in qualifying races to earn his provisional driver's license from the U.S. Trotting Association.

But he'd always return to Hazel Park in the afternoon, and climb back on the breed of horse that has won 1,939 races for him since he started in 1951.

"I'm hooked on harness horses but I'm not going to push it too fast," Baldwin said. "I'll know when it's time to quit riding thoroughbreds."

This past Monday at DRC he brought the 7-year-old gelding Al Ackerman from five horses back in the stretch to win by a half length in a six furlong event. Off at 13-1 in the betting, Al Ackerman was winning only his second of 15 starts this year.

For Baldwin, however, it was a fourth victory in only 11 efforts during these early days of the DRC meeting.

"I'd like to reach the 2,000 mark in winning rides," said Baldwin. "But I'm not going haywire about it. At my age I've just got to take the horses I want."

Ronnie and his wife, Lou, also run a mobile tack shop at Detroit's thoroughbred tracks, so it can't be the money that is making a latter-day career on the harness track tempting.

"I just suddenly don't like the idea of retirement," said Baldwin, a native of Ohio. "It's sort of exciting to think about some day riding a thoroughbred on one side of Detroit, then hurrying across town to drive a harness horse at night. I don't think that's ever been done anywhere."

Baldwin, a long-time Bloomfield resident, hastens to add that he sure doesn't think harness racing is any soft touch. It's just that he made the mistake of swinging his 115-pound frame into a jog cart one fine morning at Wolverine about three years ago.

"Strangely enough, the ground seems to be going faster beneath me when I'm in a sulky," said Baldwin. "I suppose it's because I'm closer to it than when I'm in the saddle. But anyway that seems to be my only problem right now—timing."

DRC customers, who count Ronnie Baldwin among their all-time favorite area riders, won't really have to worry about him not "aiming thoroughbreds" at the big mile track finish line during this long season at least. As testified by his strong start, he is fifth in the jockey standings. Baldwin is still in such peak condition that he can eat anything he wants, for example. "I'll know when the time comes to go from saddles to sulkies," he said. "And I've been told that racing both breeds in one day just might land me in the Guinness Book of World Records."

In The Pocket.

Gail Griwicki, the Canton Township bowler who has competed in the women's all-star leagues for several years, gets the chance of a lifetime this week.

She is one of three Michigan bowlers who will be competing in U.S. Trials at Milwaukee to select the American team for the zone portion of the International Federation event scheduled for Panama Nov. 12 to 19.

Gail won her place in the trials for her showing in the recent Women's International Bowling Congress Tournament and will be following in the footsteps of such stars as Helen Shablis, Mary Mohacsi, Dolly Auch and Helen Weston, each of whom has competed in the world tournament.

The other bowlers from Michigan are Bill Stanfield of Grand Rapids, who teamed with Jerry Nutt to win the ABC doubles a year ago, and Frank Gadeleto, of Lansing, the current ABC singles champion.

Michigan had a fourth qualifier in Mrs. Patti McCormack of Grand Rapids. She was forced to withdraw because of an injury.

The competition opens Thursday and the team will be selected early next week.

TED BAKATSELOS, the powerful Greek who does a lot of his bowling at Westland Bowl, got a real taste of what it's like to compete with the nation's top pros last week in Tucson, Ariz.

Out there for a bit of a vacation, Ted entered the Tucson stop on the pro tour and he finished in 42nd place.

It wasn't all bad, however. He picked up $380 as his part of the prize money. That isn't bad for a finish so far down the list.

WHAT STARTED as a fun league has turned into a highly competitive circuit this summer. It is the Mixed Invitational Classic that bowls in a different establishment each week.

With only two more weeks to go, only two games separate the top four teams. Penny Behn's Crown Lanes team is deadlocked with Cora Feibig's Royal Oak Lanes with 16 victories and eight defeats. In third place, one game behind, is Dick Beattie's Regal Lanes squad. Carol Gaddis' Woodland Lanes team is another game back in fourth place.

As the season is drawing to a close, Kathy Haislip of the Crown Lanes team, heads the women's average race with 193 and a six-pin lead over Mary Kilgore. On the men's side, Fred Vitali is tops with a 210 average. At that figure, he has a six-pin lead on Ray Williams, who is in second place.

THIS IS the last week of the bowling year and when the 1977 membership rolls close it is expected that both the men's and women's associations will have established new membership records, and if so, the Detroit area will be leading the country again.

TOM LEONARD had a great week in the men's trio league at Westland Bowl. He had games of 225 and 222 in a 650 series.

Close behind him came Bob Jawor with counts of 247 and 212 in 632.

FATHER SAYS MY FIRST FEDERAL SIX-YEAR 7 3/4% CERTIFICATE SAVINGS ACCOUNT AND I WILL MATURE AT ABOUT THE SAME TIME.

Our high-interest certificate savings accounts help you earn extra money by waiting.

Pretend it's six years from now.

You go to your desk drawer and look at the six-year certificate savings account you opened back in 1977. Remember the $1,000 you took to First Federal Savings of Detroit? Well, now it's $1,584.00. And all you had to do to get that additional $584.00 was wait.

Of course, if you'd rather pretend it's four years from now, or two and a half, or even just one, we can show you plans that still will turn your money into more than you might have thought possible.

And remember, too, that you can have certificate savings accounts in addition to your regular savings account (which earns 5 1/4% per year daily interest, paid and compounded quarterly). In fact, that's how many people get the money to open a certificate savings account. They save for it.

What's more, at First Federal, certificate savings accounts can entitle you to a number of special services, many not available anywhere else. We think you should know about these things because we know that money is important for you.

We know what money is for.

Type of Account	Minimum Amount	Annual Rate	Effective Annual Rate	How and When Paid
One-Year Certificate*	$1,000	6 1/2%	6.66%	Paid and compounded quarterly.
2 1/2-Year Certificate*	$1,000	6 3/4%	6.92%	Paid and compounded quarterly.
4-Year Certificate*	$1,000	7 1/2%	7.71%	Paid and compounded quarterly.
6-Year Certificate*	$1,000	7 3/4%	7.98%	Paid and compounded quarterly.

*Federal regulations require a substantial interest penalty for early withdrawal from certificate savings accounts.
