Secretaries in limbo on union

By CRAIG PIECHURA

Although the election was Thursday, it could be many months before Canton Township clerical workers know if they're in a union or not.

Results of the election—which asked township secretaries whether they would join the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME)—were 10 votes in favor, nine votes against and three crucial votes left sealed due to a union challenge.

An official of Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC) supervised the election.

Because the pro-union margin did not exceed the number of challenges, the outcome is still a toss-up.

Whether the contested votes are counted will be up to MERC officials. One union spokesman predicted a decision will take six months.

Votes challenged by the union were cast by Supervisor Harold Stein's secretary, Rose Bretzlaff; Clerk John Flodin's secretary, Doris Kelley, and Finance Director Mike Gorman's secretary, Nancy Fogarty.

AFSCME REPRESENTATIVES said that Bretzlaff was a supervisory employee with access to confidential correspondence which could be about labor negotiations. Kelley and Fogarty's votes were challenged by the union on grounds that they also had access to confidential correspondence.

At one point, 16 challenges had been introduced—five by the union, nine by the township and two by the state. All but three of the challenges were dropped.

Township dog catcher John Swalley and recreation director Brenda Pollack attempted to vote but were ruled ineligible. A new supervisory position, superior to that of Ms. Pollack, recently was established.

The votes of four non-clerical employees were thrown out. One pro-union secretary accused the township administration of trying to "stack the deck" by "bringing in ringers." One of the votes that was disallowed was cast by Eugene Daley, part-time mechanic in the township and son of Trustee Eugene Daley.

Supervisor Stein denied any attempt to interfere with the election and said the union's concern about confidentiality was not applicable in the case of the three secretaries.

"We have a professional negotiator, Mr. Edward Ott, who handles all negotiation correspondence," Stein said.

Although the three challenged votes are sealed, other employees say that Mrs. Kelley, Bretzlaff and Fogarty opposed union representation.

"We're the bad guys in this election," laughed Ms. Bretzlaff.

Sixteen township public works and building department employees have been represented by AFSCME Council 23 since 1975. Clerical workers turned down unionization at that time.

Landlords defy civil rights act

By TERESA BANAS

One young condominium owner said he didn't want to rent to single people because they had wild, destructive parties. The ad read "married couples only."

A homeowner refused to rent his house to two single women on the assumption that they couldn't change a burned out lightbulb and would probably bother him late at night for minor home repairs.

Several newspaper ads read "no children allowed." Some landlords reason that children are destructive and noisy, a nuisance to older residents.

One thing all these property owners have in common—whether they realize it or not—is that they are breaking the law.

The Michigan Civil Rights Act, amended last March, says discrimination on the basis of religion, race, national origin, color, age, sex, or marital status is illegal.

PHYLLIS MACKESSAN, director of the public affairs division of the Michigan Civil Rights Department, says housing discrimination receives top priority because of its immediate need to the renter or buyer.

The department received 26 housing complaints in the October 1977-January 1978 period. The majority were based on racial discrimination. About a third of the 26 originated in the Detroit-Pontiac area. Two-thirds were filed by women.

Ms. MacKessan says that although discriminating ads is not illegal, the actual discrimination is. Some newspapers have taken the responsibility to stop running such ads while the department continues discussions about their legality.

She says while race is still the top reason for discrimination, people with children, singles, and the handicapped are having trouble finding rental housing.

Many cases filed with the Civil Rights Department are closed because of lack of evidence, or because the potential renter loses interest. About a third, however, are settled in favor of the plaintiff before the trial ends.

GEORGE WIRTH is employed in the enforcement division of the Civil Rights Department. He says in such cases the complainant must prove that he or she was discriminated against.

In order to gather evidence, an investigator is assigned to check the landlord's records to determine if an apartment was available. If there's enough proof suggesting discrimination, a conciliatory session is called between the landlord and the renter. If the department finds enough cause at this meeting, then the attorney general's office is assigned the case.

The office holds a public hearing and an attorney is hired to make the final decision. The attorney is usually someone who has a private practice.

The decision goes to the Civil Rights Department.

If it is determined there was discrimination, the landlord can be fined up to $1,000 and forced to pay damages, in addition to allowing the complainant to rent.

A COURT INJUNCTION can keep the house or apartment vacant while the case is pending. Management companies or landlords sometimes settle early to avoid the injunction.

The Northwest Inter-Faith Center for Racial Justice works with the Fair Housing Commission on discrimination cases. This group also receives complaints and investigates them.

If a pattern of discrimination is found at one apartment complex, a tester is sent in posing as a renter. The tester is white if the complainant is black. The evidence is then used in the court hearings to substantiate the complainant's claim.

John Rennels, vice-chairman of the organization, says in most cases, private homeowners do not know they are breaking the law under the Civil Rights Act. Then they try to settle the complaint out of court.

While Michigan law rules against discrimination by age, California law is different. There the courts have upheld the right of an apartment complex to rent units to middle-aged people with no children.

Schools set to request 2 new mills

A date for a millage election, random selection, and modular scheduling are just a few of the major items on the agenda for tonight's (Monday) meeting of the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Little Theatre of Plymouth-Canton High, 8415 Canton Center Road just south of Joy.

THE BOARD WILL be asked to approve Thursday, April 27, as the date for a special millage election for two tax proposals.

The first proposal seeks renewal of 3 mills plus an additional 1½ mills for operating. The second proposal seeks ½-mill (50 cents per $1,000 state equalized evaluation) to finance a bond issue for building improvement and maintenance.

Another election resolution to be acted on calls for establishment of a citizens election committee to advise voters on the April 27 tax issues.

If both tax proposals are approved in April, the total tax levy for schools would increase by a total of two mills—1½ for operation and ½-mill for new construction and maintenance.

The three-mill renewal and 1½-mill additional millage would be levied for five years if approved by voters. The Housing Commission, says the judge can keep a case open for a year after the decision is given. This keeps a check on whether the renter is later harassed by the landlord. One possible harassment technique is a undue rent increase.

Janet Cooper, deputy director of the enforcement division of the Department of Civil Rights, suggests some reasons why landlords discriminate.

She says some landlords discriminate against women because they believe the women have loose morals and don't earn enough to pay the rent.

"Some single men have been refused by landlords on the basis of a variety of suspicions," she adds.

According to Sec. 502 of the state Civil Rights Act, children of any age cannot be excluded by landlords. This clause and marital status was just included in the law in 1977.

Ms. Cooper explains that landlords can house families with children in certain pre-assigned buildings in their apartment complexes. But if those apartments are filled, another apartment must be offered.

Some landlords have discriminated against certain age groups, like 12 and younger.

Although landlords can't discriminate, they can still select certain types of renters as long as they're consistent and do not discriminate according to law. For example, a Detroit management company rates its tenants by income level, education level and profession. Each group is housed separately.

A New York apartment complex has been barring lawyers from its apartments for years. It's justified as long as this practice remains consistent. Others do not allow renters with motorcycles.

Nursing home crackdown

Medicaid payments won't buy a babysitter

By GLENN BUNTING

The financial problems of local nursing home administrators are nothing new.

Rising costs in employment, utilities and basic health care have forced many to reject patients on Medicaid and recently to evict some.

Because of this, the issue of care for the elderly has attracted attention locally and at the state capital.

Gov. William Milliken last fall ordered a task force to examine Medicaid eligibility and benefits, and to find ways of making the program more efficient.

A coalition for nursing home reform was formed by a group of 18 organizations last month to correct "inadequate care and blatant disregard of the physical and emotional well-being of nursing home patients."

And Douglas Sessor of Northville also announced last month he would head a drive to alter Medicaid payment policy. Sessor, whose 86-year-old mother lives in Hendry Convalescent Center in Plymouth, wants the state to split health care costs with the patients.

THESE EFFORTS are aimed at improving the formula for payment of nursing home services and the quality of care offered at these institutions.

As nursing home advocates see it, the stumbling block to offering top-notch nursing care is the inability of Medicaid payments to meet rising costs.

The current maximum a nursing home in Michigan can receive per patient through Medicaid is $24.55 per day, which includes the cost of housing, medical care, meals and treatment.

John Hendry, executive director at the Hendry Convalescent Center, says existing Medicaid benefits fall far short of meeting the cost of providing quality care.

"You can't get a babysitter for $24 a day and the state expects us to exceed health care standards for that amount," Hendry said. "It stinks. Nursing homes are going bankrupt—they're way behind in payments—and the state sits back and doesn't give a damn."

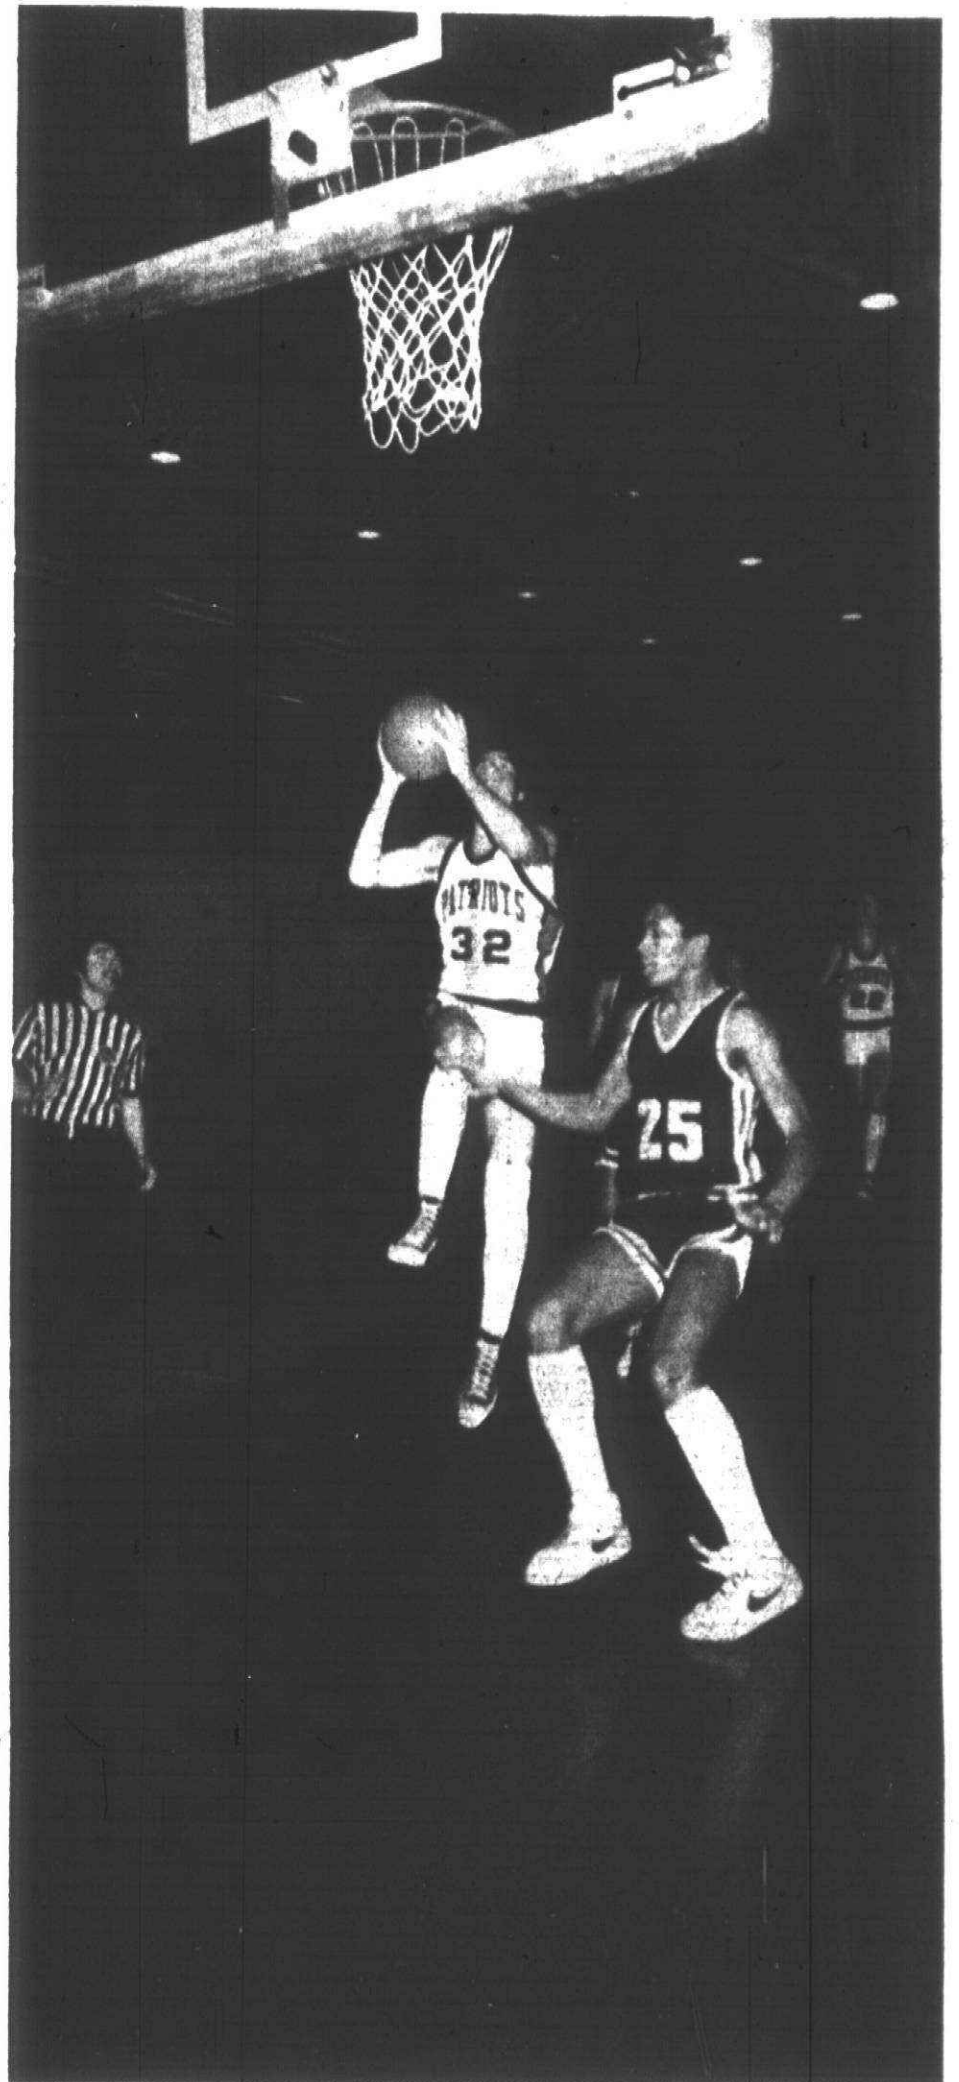

"In the last three months, we've had to cope with a minimum wage increase and rising utility costs, and the state has yet to allocate one additional cent for nursing homes."

Hendry estimates the cost per day of providing nursing care at roughly $32 per day.

"It's becoming all but impossible to run a convalescent home with the existing state payment mechanism," said Marvin Diamond, former public relations director for the state nursing home association.

"THERE ISN'T enough money for nursing homes to hire the kind of people the state insists. And you can't

Medicaid evictions at Hendry in violation

By GLENN BUNTING

The Hendry Convalescent Center in Plymouth has been violating the rights of its patients on Medicaid.

The state Department of Public Health last week notified executive director John C. Hendry that the local institution is in violation of federal standards governing the involuntary transfer of patients.

"We informed them that they were expected to abide by regulations—they can't ask patients to leave just because they are on Medicaid," said Dr. H. A. Ziel Jr., chief of the state health administration bureau.

Fueled with complaints filed against Hendry by Citizens for Better Care, a nursing home watchdog group based in Detroit, a state investigation by the licensing and certification bureau turned up the violations.

The offenses stem from a nursing home patients' bill of rights under federal Medicaid certification requirements. Under those provisions, nursing home tenants can only be transferred due to a change in medical status, for nonpayment of services or for the welfare of the patient or surrounding patients.

THE NURSING HOME announced early last month that it was evicting 40 elderly patients on Medicaid because it could not afford to keep them. Hendry's center presently houses 110 patients.

Hendry receives the maximum Medicaid allotment of $24.55 per patient per day. The nursing home administrator claims the daily cost of providing care to Medicaid patients is about $32.

Since Hendry sent eviction notices to relatives, two Medicaid patients have died in the Hendry home and six have moved to other convalescent centers.

NEW CENTER DIRECTOR
The new director of the Plymouth Center for Human Development, Evelyn Provitt, assumes her position with instructions from Gov. Milliken to act "specifically and decisively" to change things at the Northville Township facility. See story on Page 2A.

New center director ordered to act 'decisively'

Evelyn Provitt, a woman with a governor's mandate and a determination to resolve problems begins this week the job of changing things at the Plymouth Center for Human Development.

Miss Provitt was appointed last week to replace William M. Womack as director of the center. Womack was publicly accused of permitting abuse and poor care of residents of the center, which is located in Northville Township north of Plymouth.

As Miss Provitt took over, word went out that she would spend much of the next 10 days gathering information.

Declining interviews as she arrived at the center Friday, she said she had been given a "mandate" by Gov. William Milliken "to correct those problems at Plymouth Center which have recently been brought to the attention of the public."

"The governor has instructed me to take whatever steps are necessary," she said. "This I will do specifically and decisively."

"I am presently involved in a review of the total program and level of service provided."

After the review, Miss Provitt said, she plans to implement action to strengthen all areas of programming, provide resources needed so the center's staff can function appropriately and "redirect all staff efforts toward meeting the needs of the residents in a sound, responsive and positive manner."

THE NEW administrator, named by Dr. Donald C. Smith, director of the Michigan Department of Mental Health, is the first woman to hold the position of assistant director of the department.

Miss Provitt has degrees in nursing and in the field of retardation, and has received national acclaim for leadership in developing programs for the retarded. She is a member and past chairperson of the National Advisory Council on Services and Facilities for the Developmentally Disabled.

The troubled center she now runs is home for persons with all types of mental retardation.

Two of its eight residential units—Binet and Molloy halls—have been trouble spots in the two years of complaints about abuse of residents.

In addition to having other problems, Binet and Molloy residents also have behavioral problems. They may be compulsive-aggressive, accident prone or self-abusive.

HERE IS HOW they fit into the overall picture of mental retardation, as described by the National Assn. for Retarded Citizens.

About three per cent of the nation's population is considered mentally retarded. About 89 per cent of the retarded are "mildly" so—often their problem is not spotted until they reach school. As adults, they can be absorbed into the general population almost unnoticed. Life expectancy is about normal. IQ is 53-70.

The moderately retarded are usually noticed before they reach school. With community-based education, they can be prepared to live a satisfying and productive life. IQ is 36-52.

The severely and profoundly retarded can often be trained to care for their basic needs. They may also be able to perform supervised work activities. Life expectancy is substantially less than normal.

The severely retarded have an IQ of 20-35. The profoundly retarded have an IQ below 20. They often have other physical handicaps and malformations.

ABOUT 85 per cent of the Plymouth center's 829 residents are severely or profoundly retarded, according to the public information office. They are housed at the center according to degree of retardation.

Molloy Hall has residents (124) with the most potential for learning self-care skills. But they also have behavioral problems and require close supervision. Residents in one of Molloy's four wards are on medication.

Binet Hall residents (149) are under age 21. Many are hyperactive, impulsive-aggressive, self-abusive and accident-prone.

THE OTHER units at the Plymouth center have not been the subject of any significant number of abuse charges.

Howe (97 residents) has basic nursing care and ambulatory residents.

The infirmary has two wards with 81 residents who require skilled nursing care. Residents have a variety of handicaps.

Carlson's 65 residents are handicapped. Some are quadruplegics. Willis's 81 residents are those below age 8 or 9 with handicaps. They have potential for significant progress in moving about.

The 73 Sullivan residents are the deaf and blind.

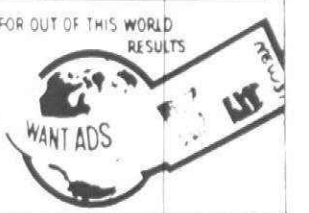

The 159 Kennedy residents are adults who have an activities program.

THE 750 WHO are able attend special education classes in northwestern Wayne County K-12 school districts. State law provides they must be educated until age 25.

They attend, among others, Taft in Livonia, Burger in Garden City, Parkway in North Dearborn Heights, the Main Street Annex in Northville.

On the Plymouth center grounds is a workshop where residents do piece work under contract.

Volunteer firefighters want carwash 'privilege'

By PATRICK TOUHEY

City officials call it "unauthorized use of city property." Fire fighters call it "a privilege."

But no matter what you call it, the practice of allowing fire fighters to wash their cars in the Old Village fire station has been brought to a screeching halt.

"Over a length of time certain practices develop which are not necessarily right," said Mark Wollenwebber, assistant city administrator. "We just have to cut back a few."

With the exception of last year, it has been the custom for off-duty fire fighters use the unoccupied bay in the city's second fire station to wash their cars and do minor mechanical repairs.

"We always considered it privilege," said Donald Belsky, president of fire fighters' union Local 1811. "And we thought it was a 50-50 deal. We got to use the bay, and the city got the use of a free fireman."

What he meant by "free fireman," he explained, was that the Old Village station had no one permanently assigned to it. It was used to store one of the city's engines.

If a fire broke out and the engine stored there was needed, certain fire fighters had the responsibility of going to the station, getting the engine and taking it to the fire.

However, on a number of occasions, he said, fire alarms had come in while an off-duty man was washing his car. The man would stop what he was doing and take the engine to the fire.

"It saved time," Belsky commented. "Instead of having to wait for someone to drive there and get the engine, someone was already there. We figured it was a trade-off for being allowed to use the empty bay."

But last year, the practice was stopped when the city got a new engine and decided to sell the old one.

While it was waiting to be purchased, it was stored in the Old Village station in the usually empty bay.

"We understood that completely," said Belsky. "Because both bays were being used, we couldn't expect to have the car washing privilege."

But, in December the city sold the old fire truck, and the fire fighters asked for their old privilege back.

"I WENT TO Fred Yockey, city manager, personally," said Thomas Lenaghan, past president of the local. "To see if it would be all right if we started using the bay again since the truck would be gone. He told me 'no.'"

Wollenwebber said the long-standing custom was discontinued because of more rigid insurance rules and because "the union people are adequately paid. They don't need extra fringes."

"Our fleet and general liability insurance went from $35,000 to $65,000 last year," he continued. "And we are in a position of having to cut back things that increase the city's liability."

While the regular firefighters are "willing to accept" the city's new stance on the issue, the termination of the car washing privilege angered some of the department's volunteers who felt the rationale was flimsy.

And one of them wrote a letter to the city, expressing his dissatisfaction with the new rule.

In addition, City Commissioner David Pugh has taken up the volunteer's cause.

"We need to do something to compensate our volunteers," he commented. "We don't have that many, and they apparently felt that being able to wash their cars is not too much to ask."

Pugh also acknowledged that the volunteers were not completely ready to take the administration's argument at face value. "I think they will be more willing to go along with the policy if they are given justification—a reason that will satisfy them."

CLEAN WATER: HOW DO YOU MANAGE THAT?

Come To a Town Hall Meeting and Find Out

The Southeast Michigan Council of Governments will sponsor a series of Town Hall Meetings throughout Southeast Michigan to introduce citizens to the final three chapters of a water quality management plan for Livingston, Macomb, Monroe, Oakland, St. Clair, Washtenaw and Wayne counties. The plan is being developed to meet requirements of Section 208 of the federal Water Pollution Control Act.

The plan covers four basic areas of water pollution control: the development of an areawide water quality management system; municipal wastewater treatment facilities; nonpoint sources management; and residuals management. Following a brief description of these four areas, citizens will be able to attend individual discussion sessions on each subject.

Bus drivers of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools gather for simulated training to better understand the needs of learning disabled and impaired students.

Mary Nutter uses an overhead projector to demonstrate language problems.

Bus drivers journey far in unknown lands

What would it be like if you went deaf for a day? How about if you lost all control of your muscles? Suppose you even saw things backwards and upside down?

For most people it's hard to imagine.

But the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools bus drivers now have some idea what it would be like.

For a couple of hours Friday morning the drivers took a trip into the world of the learning disabled and physically impaired children.

The journey was carefully controlled and planned to give them some inkling of what it is to be a child and different in a society geared to the average and the normal.

Their guides for the trip were Gary Quitquit, supervisor of pupil personnel services, and Mary Nutter, coordinator of elementary school special education.

Through a series of simulated exercises, the drivers learned what a hearing impaired child goes through when a classroom teacher gives verbal instructions.

Or, when a bus driver tells him or her to sit down and be quiet.

"HOW DID IT feel?" asked Mrs.

Nutter after the "class" had listened to a record which had been put together to make the words difficult to understand.

"Not so good," answered one woman, shaking her head.

"Terrible," offered another. "It was so frustrating."

Mrs. Nutter agreed. "Now do you have some feeling for the problem. If you tell a kid to sit down in the back of the bus, he's not going to hear you."

Other simulations included having the drivers fold a piece of paper, hold it to their foreheads and then try to write their names on it.

As Quitquit and Mrs. Nutter predicted, the results were barely legible in most cases.

In discussion afterwards, the women said they didn't know which side of the paper to start on or had trouble remembering the letters. One driver said she even forgot how to form the letters.

All the while the simulations were going on, the room was full of nervous laughter, head shaking and eye-rolling as the normally competent adults met with failure and frustration.

The whole program, Mrs. Nutter said, was geared toward making the drivers aware of the problems faced by the children they take to school.

"The district just hires people who are interested in being bus drivers," she commented. "They have no special training. We hope this and other workshops we have scheduled will give them a better background."

There are, according to Mrs. Nutter's figures, some 1,300 special education students in the Plymouth and Canton community. The school district is responsible for providing transportation for all of them.

County warns of building ban if sewers stalled

A ban on construction in western Wayne County—similar to the moratorium slapped on the county in 1962—remains a "very real" possibility.

The state already has formally notified communities in the southwestern corner of the county of its intention of impose a building ban soon, and similar notification for the remainder of western Wayne County may be imminent.

That's the word from Duane R. Egeland, deputy director of the Wayne County Department of Public Works.

A BUILDING BAN or moratorium would prohibit all new construction—be it for residential, commercial or industrial.

Reason for the possible ban is inadequate sewer capacity.

Egeland finds himself in the awkward position of warning the suburbs that they must make a commitment towards resolving their sewer problems while at the same time urging signing of a contract with the county to implement the design phase of the super sewer.

The warning, Egeland emphasized, is not intended to be a method of forcing municipalities to sign the contract. But the fact remains, signing of the contract could delay a moratorium, he said.

The contract, he said, would signal to the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) that the western suburbs are seriously working to resolve the problem.

Nevertheless, a number of communities—Canton and Northville townships among them—are reluctant to sign the contract because they insist it should include written assurances that the suburbs will have the right to superintend the super sewer's operation, namely setting of rates.

The City of Plymouth has declined to sign the contract for a different reason. The city has sufficient sewer capacity in its system and doesn't want to risk added charges for unwanted added capacity super sewer will provide the surrounding area.

Canton, Northville and Novi, however, are either at or exceed their capacity in the existing sewer interceptor and the time is not far off when the county will be forced to "draw the line" and refuse additional use of the interceptor for new construction.

Social agency opens doors

Family Service of Detroit and Wayne County has opened an outpost offering the aid of social workers at Geneva Presbyterian Church, 5835 Sheldon Road, Canton Township.

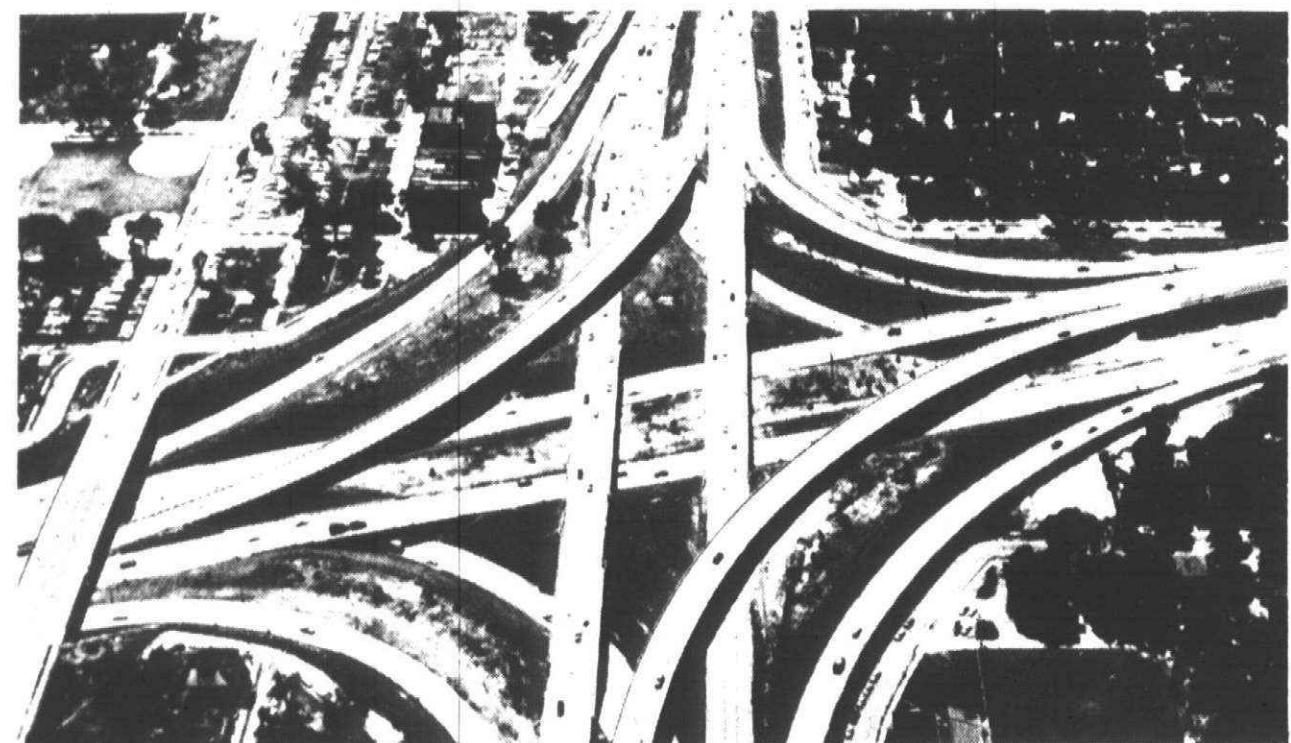

Lucille Cantoni, area director for the group, opened the doors to the public at the temporary facility last Wednesday.

Counseling services are available to families and individuals under stress. The main office of the social agency is 51 W. Warren, Detroit, 48201. Phone 833-3733 for additional information.

Seniors strut

Rehearsals for a "Spring Review" put on by Canton Township senior citizen groups, will conduct rehearsals Monday, at 10 a.m. in the recreation building, at Michigan Ave. and Sheldon roads.

The talent show will be held April 14 and 15 in the Plymouth-Canton High School auditorium.

The Jeffries Freeway has been an impetus to building in western Wayne County, but the county warns that full sewers may force a moratorium on new home construction.

Schools to seek 2 more mills

 1/2-mill levy for the bond issue would be for 10 years.

A PROPOSAL HAS been made by administration to increase traditional scheduling and decrease modular scheduling to accommodate student population growth at the two high schools of the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park (CEP).

The recommendation to make greater use of traditional scheduling at the CEP has been made by Dr. Michael Homes, supt. of instruction. Supt. John M. Hoben adds that the cut in modular scheduling options also is related to an increasing trend amongst lower classmen—particularly freshmen—to choose traditional scheduling. This year, for instance, 80 per cent of the ninth graders chose traditional scheduling.

The major reason given for cutting modular scheduling, though, is population growth. The CEP will have 300 additional students next fall, bringing its total population to 4,600 students which is about 400 beyond functional capacity.

Because of this, Hoben explained, spaces used for the modular approach—such as sub-resource centers and seminar areas—must be converted for traditional classroom use.

"Although I have been committed to the modular approach," said Hoben, "feeling very definitely that it provides opportunities in an educational environment which aren't present in other structures, I reluctantly support this recommendation." The specific resolution the board is being asked to adopt calls for freshmen and sophomores to take six academic classes per day without a study hall, for juniors to be allowed to petition for a study hall period, and for seniors to be granted a study hall period—either during the first hour or last hour of the day.

Hoben also has asked both high school principals at the CEP, Kent Buikema and Bill Brown, to investigate the possibility of using the "house-within-a-house" program used by Southfield Public Schools.

A RESOLUTION the board will be asked to approve confirms the random selection process used this year to assign eighth grade students to the CEP.

The resolution is expected to give an indication of modifications which might be made in random selection for next year, and to address the question of what to do with some 40 appeals of decisions made under this year's process.

Medicaid analysis

 cut back on staff because the state won't allow it."

State Sen. Robert Geake (R-Northville), a member of the Milliken-appointed task force, said he believes an increase in Medicaid payments is forthcoming.

"The only homes able to make a profit are those that are not providing adequate care. I'm aware of this situation and so are other legislators.

"The problem with the Hendry home has highlighted the issue in this area and other problems have done the same around the state. People are becoming more aware of the problem.

"I support a Medicaid increase and I believe there is hope for nursing home relief."

Nursing home administrators maintain that until the state decides to boost Medicaid payments, patients will find it increasingly difficult to locate in convalescent centers.

Senior lunch menu detailed

Senior citizens of Canton and Plymouth are invited to attend a nutritional lunch program sponsored by Wayne County at two local sites.

Meals are offered at the Canton Township Recreation Hall, Michigan Avenue at Sheldon and Tonquish Creek Manor, 1160 Sheridan, Plymouth at noon Monday through Thursday and at 11:30 a.m. Fridays.

Persons 55 and over should call the day before attending to make lunch reservations. The number at Tonquish Creek is 455-3670 and the number at Canton's recreation hall is 397-2777. A 50 cent donation for the meal is welcomed, but optional.

Menus for the week of Feb. 27 to March 3 are:

MONDAY—Spanish meat loaf, buttered peas, applesauce, brown bread, an orange and milk.

TUESDAY—Baked macaroni and cheese, buttered vegetables, tossed salad, a roll, peaches, and milk.

WEDNESDAY—Turkey with gravy, sweet potatoes, tomato juice, white bread, cookie, and milk.

THURSDAY—Pepper steak with gravy, mashed potatoes, buttered spinach, a biscuit, and milk.

FRIDAY—Cod square with tartar sauce, buttered broccoli, cole slaw, a bun, fresh fruit and milk.

Dental van's at Schoolcraft

Quality control is the name of the game. Blue Cross-Blue Shield, one of the largest dental insurance carriers in the state, last week unveiled its mobile post-treatment dental examination program at Schoolcraft College.

The examination facilities are housed in a van, allowing the Blues to take the program to the customers—at factories or shopping centers, for example.

"We're trying to check the quality of dentistry being rendered," said Ruth Ann Klatt, a spokeswoman for Blue-Cross-Blue Shield. "And we're trying to verify that no fraud is being committed," she added.

The new program is part of a larger picture, though. The company is pressing to keep insurance premiums down. One way of doing it is to check the quality of service and the truthfulness of claims.

Company officials could not estimate how much money could be saved through such procedures.

Mrs. Klatt said the company had discovered a number of dentists who were doing "less than satisfactory" work. She said the company also identified several dentists who had attempted to defraud the company by billing it for work which was not done.

"These examinations will 'definitely be a deterrent to the fraud,'" Mrs. Klatt said.

She explained that it would be easy for patients to allow the fraudulent billing practices to slip past.

NORVIN D. CLEVELAND

Norvin D. Cleveland of Plymouth is student coordinator for the Office of Volunteer Programs (OVP) at Michigan State University, East Lansing.

In the largest college volunteer effort in the country, about 1,200 students participate in 42 projects ranging from helping elderly people with household chores to cleaning glassware in a laboratory to initiating reading and recreational programs in a juvenile detention home.

Staff coordinators oversee each activity, but the bulk of the organizing in the field is the responsibility of student coordinators such as Cleveland. Cleveland's duties include acting as a liaison between the volunteer office and the agency where the program is held, helping plan orientation sessions for volunteers, assigning students to particular job schedules, coordinating transportation and reporting regularly on the progress of the program.

Cleveland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph N. Cleveland of Mayflower Court, is coordinator of the MSU Clinical Services Center volunteer program. Students in this program assist doctors and patients in the radiology, laboratory and medical records department.

A senior majoring in biology, Cleveland has been a biology teaching assistant and has been named to the dean's list.

Rocks roll to yet another title, 92-62

By FRED DeLANO

A lopsided 92-62 victory over Belleville Friday night brought Plymouth Salem a share of the Suburban Eight basketball championship, but that's the end of the easy stuff.

Now the Rocks, who are 18-2 for the season, will put a 10-game winning streak on the line when they face their neighbors from Plymouth Canton in a win-or-get-out situation Tuesday night in state tournament district action at Southfield High.

After taking the Sub 8 crown outright the past four winters, the Rocks knew they had to whip Belleville to share the 1978 title with Livonia Bentley with matching 11-2 league records. They did it with ridiculous ease.

In fact, it was no contest after the first two quarters which saw Salem race to an awesome 49-18 lead. If that didn't convince the doubters, then a 40-point margin at 68-28 six minutes into the third period when coach Fred Thomann yanked his front line troops certainly did the trick.

IT MUST BE NOTED, however, that Belleville, which had beaten Salem on the Tigers' home court in January, came into Plymouth Friday minus its two top players, Kelvin Patterson and Herb Burrus.

Fisticuffs between the two at school last Wednesday led to three-day suspensions, meaning coach Tom Niemi sent a lineup against the Rocks that lacked the two men who had led the Tigers in scoring, rebounding and assists all season.

Belleville hung even for about four minutes when it was 8-8, and behind Gary Herndon's 22 points and 19 from Rob Laney had what the box-score says was a highly respectable second half. But it was mainly against Plymouth subs, and it was too late anyway.

COACH THOMANN of the Rocks recognized the absence of Belleville's two aces when he told his players in post-game remarks:

"It's probably not the best way to win a championship when the other team is without its best players, but you took advantage of the opportunity when it was there.

"You played hard and you played well. You had fun. You met the challenge successfully in climbing back to the top. Now your second opportunity and your second challenge starts Tuesday."

TWELVE OF THE 14 men who played for Plymouth got into the scoring act, with senior Tom Ellinghausen setting the pace with 22 points. Also in double figures were Mike Christie with 18 and Rich Hewlett with 15.

But the Rocks showed far more than just scoring talent as they fell two points short of the school's one-game high point record of 94 set against Livonia Franklin two years ago.

Their fluid cohesiveness, their penetration of the Belleville zone, their swift and accurate movement of the ball, and their plain, simple teamwork proved how sharply they have been honed for tournament time.

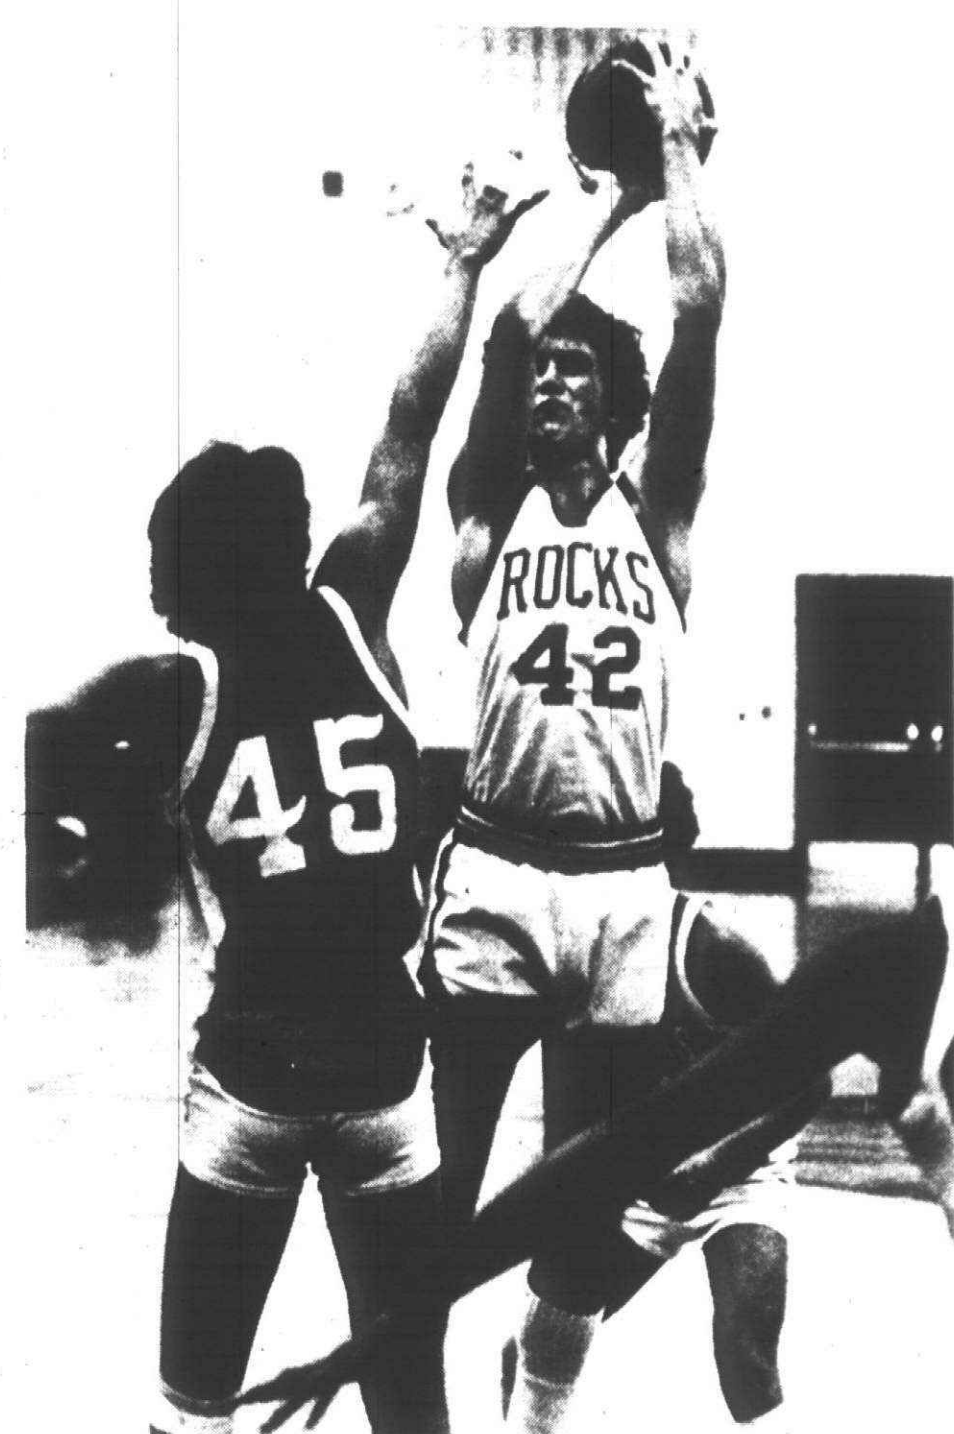

Ellinghausen was the man in charge in the first quarter when he popped in 12 points, while Hewlett led the 29-point second period with nine. Half a dozen other Rocks also got on the board in that quarter.

Through it all there was Christie, a co-captain with Ellinghausen, coming off the bench every few minutes and popping them in from the corners and from the top of the key.

WSDP airs tournament

If you can't come to Southfield High School tomorrow night for the big district semifinal match-up between Centennial Park rivals Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem, keep your ears tuned to 88.1 on the FM dial for all the live action.

WSDP-FM, the student-operated radio station in the Plymouth-Canton School District, will follow the Rocks and the Chiefs to the end of their state tournament participation with live coverage of all Salem and Canton tournament battles.

Sports Director Andy Melin, the play-by-play man for Salem, and Greg Hames, the voice of Canton, will share the broadcast duties tomorrow night in the all-Plymouth contest.

Broadcast time for the live coverage will be 7 p.m. from the Blue Jays' gymnasium.

Tankers visit

Plymouth Salem High School will host the annual Suburban Eight League swim championship next Thursday and Friday, March 2 and 3.

The swimming preliminaries for the eight-team event will begin on Thursday at 3 p.m.

The diving preliminaries and the swimming semifinal competition will start later that night, one hour after the completion of the swimming preliminaries.

The finals in both the swimming and diving events will be held on Friday night beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Medals will be presented to the first, second and third place finishers in each event. Ribbons will be awarded to the fourth, fifth and sixth-place swimmers.

Dearborn and Dearborn Edsel Ford High Schools are once again expected to battle for the loop title.

Admission for the swimming preliminaries is $1, while the diving preliminaries cost $5.50. Admission for the finals is $1.50.

Salem High School is located on Joy Road, west of Canton Center Road.

Spike regionals set

With the girls volleyball regular season quickly drawing to a close, post-season state tournament action waits in the wings for both Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton squads.

Both squads are hoping to compete in the Dearborn High School Regional.

The Canton Chiefs, currently in a first-place tie with Livonia Churchill in the Western Six League race, drew an opening round bye and will host the winner of the Livonia Stevenson-Livonia Franklin match in pre-regional action on Thursday, March 9 starting at 8 p.m.

If the Chiefs win the pre-regional battle, they travel to Dearborn on Saturday, March 11 for regional competition.

Canton played both Stevenson and Franklin in non-league contests this season and beat the Patriots but lost to Stevenson.

Plymouth Salem, a regional winner and state quarterfinalist last season, also drew an opening round bye and will travel to Farmington Harrison to face the Hawks in pre-regional action on Thursday, March 9 at 8 p.m.

If the Rocks win, they make the trip to Dearborn to defend their regional crown.

Canton crunches Western

By DENNIS O'CONNOR

The game meant absolutely nothing to both teams, except as added warm-up to next week's state tournament action.

Nevertheless, the Plymouth Canton Chiefs topped Walled Lake Western on Friday for the second time in a week, 78-61.

The Western Six League victory at the Canton gym was almost a carbon copy of last Tuesday's 77-66 Chief triumph over the Warriors at Walled Lake. The conference opponents met twice last week to make up snowed-out contests from earlier in the season.

Canton clinched second place in the conference with the Tuesday victory but lost all hope of at least a tie for the title when Waterford Mott captured the crown last Wednesday with a 61-52 victory over Farmington Harrison.

The Chiefs finished the regular season with an 11-8 overall record and 6-3 in the conference. They enter state tournament play tomorrow night in semifinal action of the Southfield District against rival Plymouth Salem.

Playing in the same loose, easy-manner style of competition which led to the 11-point victory last Tuesday, the Chiefs calmly battered the Warriors out of the Canton gym with the nonchalant triumph.

After a close first quarter, which saw the Chiefs ahead by only one point, 17-16, the home team struck for 10 points to only four points for its foes early in the second quarter to take a 27-20 lead.

The Warriors cut the margin back to four points in the next minute, but Canton reeled off eight consecutive points in the final three minutes to hold a 35-23 margin at halftime.

Both offenses broke loose in the third quarter as Canton scored 24 points to Western's 22, making the score 59-45 after three periods. The Chiefs opened their margin to as many as 18 points early in the final quarter before coach Casey Cavell cleared his bench.

Butch King, almost fully recovered from a cold and the flu, led the Chiefs in scoring with 20 points. His shooting counterpart, Jim Seefeld from Western, also sank 20 points before sitting out the final period. Seefeld sank 32 points against Canton on Tuesday.

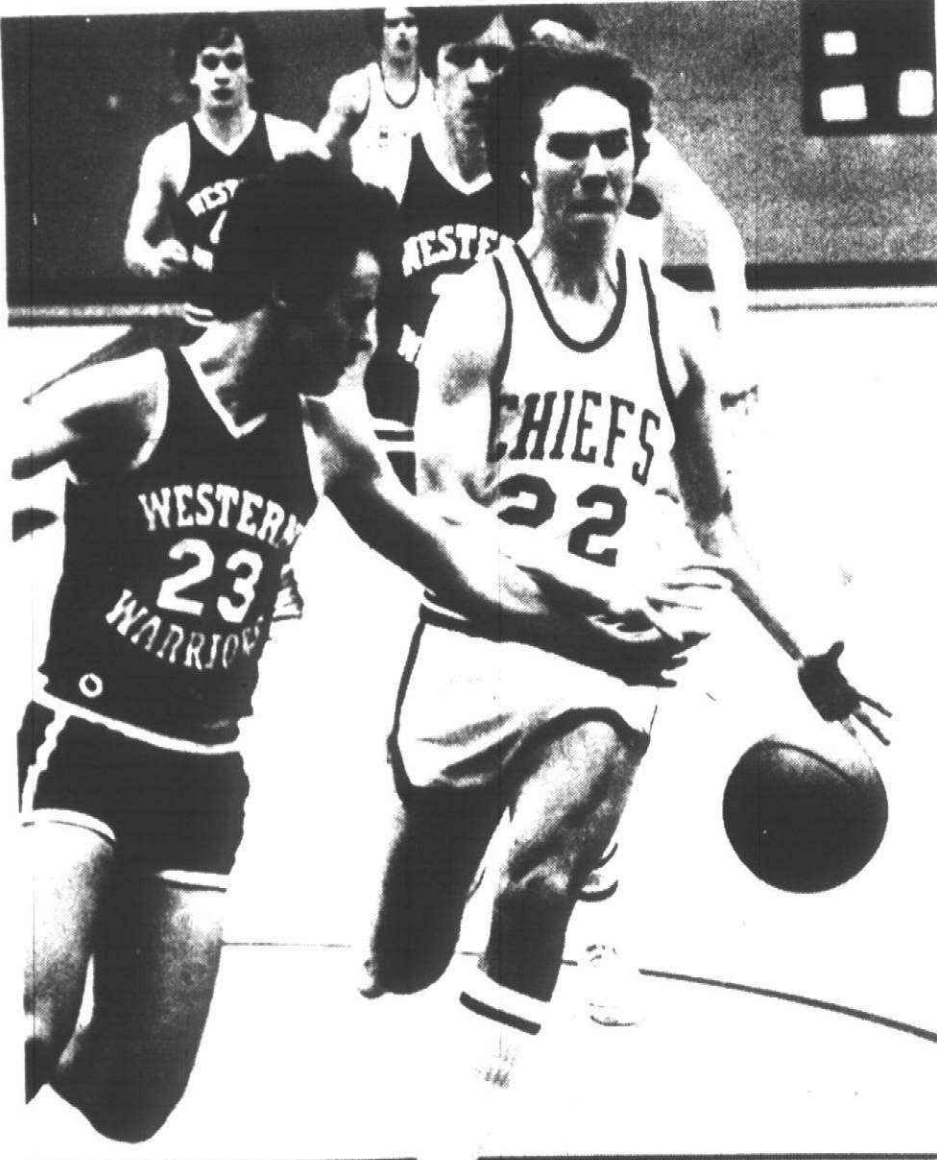

Brent Eckles gave Canton his best offensive production of the season with 17 points. Junior Russ Mandel followed with 14. Warrior Mike Bryant was the other player to hit double figures with 12.

The regular season finale marked the final home appearance for Canton seniors Keith Fuelling, captain Randy Rienas and Eckles.

Plymouth Canton (78)—Russ Mandel 6, 2-5, 12; Randy Rienas 3, 0-0, 6; Butch King 9, 2-2, 20; Keith Fuelling 2, 0-0, 4; Brent Eckles 8, 1-2, 17; Curt Herbert 2, 0-0, 4; Jay McKinley 0, 2-3, 2; Mike Leary 1, 3-3, 5; Mike Morin 1, 0-1, 2; Mike Talaga 1, 0-0, 2; Dale Albright 1, 0-0, 2. Totals—34, 10-16, 78.

Walled Lake Western (61)—Marty Kaszubowski 4, 1-2, 9; Jerry Tremblay 1, 0-0, 2; Jim Seefeld 9, 2-2, 20; Mike Bryant 6, 0-0, 12; Bob Randolph 0, 0-0, 0; John Hunter 1, 4-6, 6; Keith Johnson 0, 4-4, 4; Greg Skoniesny 2, 2-2, 6; John Ropek 1, 0-0, 2; John Meyer 0, 0-1, 0. Totals—24, 13-17, 61.

Canton freshmen get revenge from Salem

The Plymouth Canton freshmen basketball team avenged an early-season loss to friendly rival Plymouth Salem Wednesday, taking a 63-58 victory from the Rocks.

Salem won the first meeting between these two clubs early in December. The rematch was originally scheduled for mid-January but foul weather postponed the contest until last week.

The delay didn't seem to bother the Chief ninth graders, however, as their full-court man-to-man pressure defense spelled the difference in the game.

The Chiefs, coached by Dave VanWagoner, jumped to a quick 12-6 first quarter lead. The margin dwindled to two points, 32-30, at halftime. Salem's pressure defense allowed the Rocks to maintain control of the game in the third quarter—surging ahead by three points, 47-44, with one period to go.

But the Chiefs forced by a host of Rock turnovers in the fourth quarter, denying several in-bound passes. Canton took the lead for good with four minutes left in the contest.

After a mid-season slump, the Chiefs improved on their 3-5 record, winning their last six games of the year to finish a respectable 9-5.

"I thought it was a real successful season," VanWagoner said. "The Salem game was a well-played contest."

The Rocks, coached by Pat Cunningham, also had a fine season, finishing with an impressive 12-3 record despite the final loss.

Salem's Lee Langkabel and Canton's Ken VanKirk shared scoring honors in the finale with 25 points each. VanKirk added 15 rebounds, controlling the middle at both ends of the court. The Chiefs' Gubby Kinnal followed VanKirk with 14 points while Salem's Bill Croci supported Langkabel with 12 points.

Rock gymnasts fall to Western

The Plymouth Recreation girls gymnastics team lost last week to Walled Lake Western, 79.00-43.88.

"If we put everything together, I think we can score in the 50's," said Salem coach Grethen Parcell. "But I know we are trying a lot harder so I'm pleased."

Jackie Melnik led the Rocks' in the vaulting competition with a 5.8 score. She recorded 7.1 last week for her best score of the season. Paula Farmer improved tremendously in vaulting with a 4.25 score.

Linda L'Heurex improved on the bars with a new routine. Melnik led the beam scores with a 3.85, while Tina Malone followed with a 2.8 score.

Natalie McClumphia paced Salem's attack in the floor exercise with a 4.1 score.

Michele Griffin and Sharon Totten continued their steady performances in most of the events. Sue Clark, Nichole Rollins, and Bonnie Peters did not compete because of illness.

Boosters meet

The "Blue Chapter" (Plymouth Salem) of the Plymouth-Canton Community Boosters' Club will hold its regular monthly meeting this Wednesday, March 1 at the Salem cafeteria beginning at 8 p.m.

The boosters will decide how to distribute their funds to the different high school athletic teams at the meeting.

Anyone interested in participating in the organization is encouraged to attend.

Rocks down Trenton twice

Bentley rallies past Salem spikers

A high strung Plymouth Salem varsity volleyball was upset by Livonia Bentley Wednesday night, putting the Rocks into a three-way tie for first place in the Suburban Eight League with the Bulldogs and Dearborn.

All three squads have 9-2 league marks. Salem's overall record is 11-4. They will play Dearborn Wednesday night at Dearborn.

Salem defeated Trenton Tuesday night in both matches scheduled. Each one went three games. Two matches were on the schedule due to last month's snow storm.

In the first match, Salem took the second and third games, 15-6 and 15-8 after losing the first, 15-13. The first game found the Trojans out in front by four in the beginning of the game. The Rocks tied the score at 8-8 but still couldn't take the win.

A second game was close for the first five points but the Rock offense was sparked and came away with eight straight points for the victory. The Rocks broke loose in the third game for the match.

Salem played the second match much the same as the first giving Trenton the first game, 15-5, but taking the second at 15-4 and the third, 15-10.

A full house for the Bentley match was present for the team's first "parent's night". Players and parents were introduced to the fans as each player presented a rose to their mothers and a carnation to the fathers.

The first game found the spirited Salem spikers with the edge taking the game, 17-15. Senior Clarisse Hartnett led the Rock offense from the spiking line and Karen Prikosovits served six points.

During the second game, Salem defense was strong, putting the Rocks on top, 13-5. But Bentley came back for a 15-13 victory.

"When Bentley started to place the ball, many of our key players weren't playing the right spot so we couldn't get to the ball in time to save it," said Salem mentor Cathy Himes.

"Another main thing that effected our game was that we were told by the referee to hold down the cheering on our bench which is an important part of any team's game. This, I feel, was one of the biggest reasons why we lost. All that cheering keeps the players momentum up and builds confidence," said Himes.

Salem lost the third game and the match, 15-8. Both Prikosovits and juniors Patty Radzik and Cindi Leveille helped the Rocks' offense in the last two games, but it wasn't enough to hold the Bulldogs away from another win.

Earlier in the season the Rocks lost to Bentley, 15-2 and 15-12.

The Salem junior varsity also took its matches over Trenton on Tuesday night but then fell to the Bentley JV on Wednesday. The Rocks JV are now 4-11 for the season. The match will start at 7:30 p.m. following the JV.

CEP rivalry highlights Southfield cage tourney

By DENNIS O'CONNOR
Sports Editor

The regular basketball season ended Friday night. Now the Plymouth and Southfield fans can set their minds on the "red" and "blue" battle, which pits a 9-8 Plymouth Canton squad against an 18-2 Plymouth Salem crew in the Southfield District semifinals Tuesday night.

Tickets go on sale today at both schools at $1.50 each.

The Centennial Park rivalry marks the third straight time these two "friendly" squads have met in district competition in the Southfield gym, at Ten Mile and Lahser. The Rocks from Salem have won the previous two confrontations and are favored to win the third—although if history holds true, the contest will be tight and active up to the final buzzer.

For the underdog Chiefs to pull off the upset, Canton coach Casey Cavell feels the key will be the inside play of his forwards which he thinks are quicker than the muscular Rocks. Another factor is the potent work of junior guard Butch King, who can score for the Chiefs from anywhere on the floor.

"If Salem plays a box-and-one against Butch we'll have to have better passing and move the ball inside—and we have to get to the boards," Cavell said.

"They've seen us when we've played against the box-and-one and I'm sure they feel King is the key."

Salem coach Fred Thomann said he would play the same tough man-to-man defense "which has gotten the Rocks to where they are now." He said there would probably be a number of people guarding King at different times. Forward Doug Agnew is his best defensive player.

"We won't let King walk the ball down court. We will make him play," Thomann said. "Canton is full of great shooters and not just at one position. They have four that can stick it in at any time."

"We're a man-to-man team and we will play man-to-man, no doubt."

Thomann said he figures Canton will play a 1-2-2 zone defense against his squad's passing offense. As far as the flow of the game is concerned, the Salem mentor said he'd let take care of itself in the first quarter.

"We'll find out what is suitable for us early," Thomann explained. "That's part of the game strategy to make good things happen for you."

Cavell said he thinks Canton played a good control game with its offense, led by forward Tom Ellinghauser and guard Rich Hewlett.

"They will run the passing game against our zone or man-to-man. That's why we are working on a special defense against it," the Canton mentor said.

"I think Salem will try to beat us defensively. We also have to rely on defense to win the game."

Whatever the strategies or ideas, the game should prove to be yet another classic—no matter what the outcome.

Chief JV chews Western

By SCOTT ADLER

The Plymouth Canton junior varsity basketball team remains on top of the Western Six League after a 63-39 victory over Walled Lake Western last Tuesday night.

The Chiefs now stand 15-3 overall and 8-1 in league play.

The Chiefs led by only four points after the opening quarter but raised it to 12, 38-26, at halftime. Canton continued to build the lead in the third quarter, taking a 50-32 lead into the final eight minutes.

Points, Visser led the Chiefs with 23, Dave, and Brad Westin added 10.

Rock JV loses to Dearborn

By THOMAS ZAIBEK

Dearborn took advantage of two Plymouth technical fouls late in the fourth quarter to edge the Salem junior varsity basketball team, 64-61, last Tuesday night.

The Rocks led at halftime, 30-24, and lost by two points at the end of the third quarter.

The Pioneers tied the score with less than three minutes left in the game, however, and controlled the tempo the rest of the way.

Jim Anderson scored 27 points to lead the Rocks in scoring. Rob Neu added 19 and Howard Monk had five.

Griddler chooses BGSU

John Broderick has signed a letter of intent to play football for Bowling Green State University, the Observer learned.

The Plymouth Salem tight end and defensive end was a major part of the Rocks' successful undefeated 9-0 regular season last fall.

Broderick, also a member of the Rocks' basketball team, joins grid teammate, Curt Lewis on the Falcon squad. Lewis signed with Bowling Green two weeks earlier.

Broderick is the fourth Salem griddler to reach the college ranks on a four-year scholarship. Bob Dasher signed with the University of Alabama, and Tony Vitale chose Central Michigan University earlier this month.

RUSTPROOFING.
EITHER YOU HAVE IT OR YOU DON'T

Car makers don't build the rustproof car and no car dealer can deliver the real rustproofing you get with the exclusive Ziebart process.

Don't be misled by some sweeping references to "anti-corrosion methods" used in building some 1977 cars. Real rustproofing must be done after the car is built. And it must cover every critical area inside and under the car. That's the proven Ziebart methods. There are no shortcuts. That's why your Ziebart Dealer uses nine different patented spray tools to reach rust-prone areas. That's why he uses a rustproofing sealant that actually penetrates welded seams where rust can start. Your Ziebart Dealer can deliver a rustproofed 1978 car because that's his business—and he knows it. Call him.

Tankers sink Chargers

By ANDY MELIN
The Plymouth Canton boys' swim team, paced by some younger swimmers, finished its regular season on the right foot with a 95-75 rout of Livonia Churchill at the Charger pool Thursday night.

The victory ended the Chiefs' best regular season in history with a 11-1 overall mark and 7-1 Western Six League record, tying them with Northville for the Western-6 lead.

"We swam some younger kids, and they started to drop their times," said Bill Faunce, Canton coach. "There were some good races."

Doug Hetu was the only double-winner for the Chiefs, finishing first in the 50-yard freestyle and the 100-yard freestyle in :25.0 and :56.1, respectively.

The 200-yard medley relay team of Bob Cline,

Rick Flynn, Steve Wood and Rod Toor took first place in 1:55.0. The foursome of Jeff Seipple, Paul Petersen, Dave Tanner and Stephen Petersen finished second.

Paul Petersen set a new Canton school record in the 100-yard butterfly swimming the distance in :54.8. Wood, a senior tri-captain, followed in second place.

Mike Gaab recorded his best time this season in the 200-yard freestyle.

He won that event in 2:01.0. Keith Greenleaf placed third.

Dave Smith won the 200-yard individual medley in a time of 2:22.8. Paul Ardnowski followed in third.

John Gray finished second in the diving competition, accumulating 132.45.

Troy Haarala took second place in the 500-yard freestyle with a personal best time of 5:41.2. Dave Smith finished third.

Seipple and Ted Hennig placed second and third in the 100-yard backstroke. Seipple's time of 1:05.0 was also a personal best.

Junior tri-captain Bob Cline finished third in the 50-yard freestyle. Pat Gilligan placed third in the 100-yard breaststroke.

The 400-yard freestyle relay team of Cline, Wood, Tanner and Paul Petersen was victorious in 3:29.9.

In The Pocket

By W.W. EDGAR

INDUCTION CEREMONIES to admit new members to the split conversion club at Mayflower Lanes this week reached a new high when six earned the right to join the group.

Janeene Schaft got in by toppling the 3-6-7-10. Carol Nawrocki made it by spilling the 3-4-6-7-9. The others were Ruth Chappell, who upset the 6-7-10, Jeannie Le Master, who swept the 2-4-10, Mary Anne Pakrysky, who did the same with the 3-7-10, and Lyn McGhie, who toppled the 2-10.

Meanwhile, Theresa Stone came through with a 105 triplicate. Carol Porter had a 236 in 557 and Don Christie posted a 273.

THE LADIES in the Westland Classic went on a scoring spree and, when the final pin fell, Mary Porter was out in front with games of 224 and 222 in 637.

Next in line came Betty New with 242 in 595, Monica Dlugos with 204 in 587, and Marlene Oppen, with 210 in 584. Ingrid Earle with 215 and 209 in 562, and Pat Mayles, with 231 in 555.

BY THE MARGIN of a single pin, Betty Koske missed the thrill of bowling a 600 series at Woodland Lanes. With her 156 average, she started with 225, then added games of 191 and 183 for 599.

In the Belles league, Nancy Jones, a 150 average bowler, showed the way with a 222 in 568, and Kathy Knickerbocker, with a 139 average, posted a 523. With an average of 131 Rose Rea rolled a 104.

John Finch paced the Franklin High School league with 211, and Steve Casey rolled a 203.

THIS MAY BE DIFFICULT to believe, but Jim Mocerri, bowling in the Monday Men's league at Plaza Bowl, posted a 254 game and yet didn't do any better than 577 for his series. He is still trying to figure out what happened.

IN THE EX-NEWCOMERS league at Plymouth Bowl, Marty O'Connor took top honors with a 517 series. Bette Beraide paced her section with a 504.

GLEN YOUNG, one of the younger stars at Bel-Aire Lanes, qualified for the regional tournament, sponsored by the Youth Bowling Association, by rolling an 1,129 series.

In the women's league, Jackie Dix had a 227 game in a 613 series to take top honors and, in the classic, Jerry Fischer had two counts of 233 in a 687 series to earn the pace-makers role.

If early returns are any indication, the Detroit bowlers will successfully carry their share of the burden in raising money to construct the National Hall of Fame and Museum.

For the past week each bowler was asked to contribute two dollars to the cause. Inasmuch as there are close to 300,000 sanctioned bowlers in the Detroit area, the local contribution could well go above the half million mark.

The bowling world will be looking forward to Detroit's drive because the Motor City has the largest men's and women's groups and could be the pace setter for the entire nation.

ASIDE FROM BEING one of the outstanding bowling association secretaries in the country, Tom McKay is establishing quite a reputation as a bowler.

His latest assault on the pins in tournament competition might net him and his partner—Rick McCaffery—$1,000. This duo has taken to lead in the doubles division of the Dick Rau tournament in Flint with a count of 1,400.

McKay bowled the highest series of the tournament when he linked games of 238, 259 and 222 for 719. McCaffery came up with games of 239, 224 and 224 for 687, but lost six pins in the handicap system.

THERE SEEMS to be no stopping the sharpshooters in the Wonderland Classic.

This week, two more members broke the 700 barrier to continue a season tradition that there is at least one 700 count each week.

The top marksman this week was Ralph Westphal, who started with a 226, came back with 241 and finished with 268 for a 735. The other barrier breaker was Mike Surdyk, who fashioned a 719 on games of 246, 268 and 205.

Meanwhile, the Ryder Ranger team continued its hot streak with counts of 1,014, 1,111 and 1,080 for 3,208.

ANNE THORPE did some fancy shooting in the Ladies Classic at Garden Lanes. She posted 236 in each of her first two games and then, with the chance to roll a big double century count, she slumped to a 157 and had to settle for a 629.

In the men's junior house league, Mike Mackiewicz was high with 657.

There are things you can't buy.

We could all make a big long list. Sunsets. A little girl's smile. Century old trees. And then there are things you think you can't buy, but you can if you know how.

Say, for example, you've been looking for something special and you've asked all your friends and looked everywhere possible and have come up empty.

Try the "Wanted to Buy" classification of your hometown newspaper. That's right. Just call your friendly ad taker at one of the numbers below and place your ad. Then sit back and wait for one of our thousands of readers to call you. It's just that simple. Sort of like the beauty of the things you can't buy.

Volleyball—not basketball?

The unusual sight of a pep band appeared at last Monday night's volleyball match which pitted Plymouth Canton against Waterford Mott. While the band added a great deal of enthusiasm to the volleyball crowd, it was sorely missed at the basketball games during the regular season. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

By ANDY MELIN
His team had lost, but Plymouth Salem boys' swim coach Chuck Olson was forever optimistic. "We're still not quite back to normal because of the flu but we'll be in good shape for the league meet," he said after the Thursday night defeat by Suburban Eight League opponent Belleville, 98-74, at the Rocks' pool.

It was the last dual meet this season for the Rocks. The Rocks ended the season with a 5-6-1 overall record and 2-4-1 Sub-8 mark after losing their last three meets this season. The Salem 200-yard medley relay team of Craig Finley, Bob Simone, Rob Kuebler and Tom Rubadue finished first in 1:45.7.

Finley won the 500-yard freestyle in a time of 5:02.6. He also took second place in the 200-yard freestyle in 1:53.2. Senior tri-captain Rubadue placed first in the 50-yard freestyle recording a time of :23.3 and finished second in the 100-yard freestyle in :51.5. Etienne, senior tri-captain, followed Rubadue in the 100-yard freestyle in third place. Jeff Stella won the 200-yard individual medley, swimming the distance in 2:14.3. Senior tri-captain Rob Kuebler was victorious in the 100-yard butterfly in :58.2. Kirk Albert placed third. Simone took first place honors in the 100-yard breaststroke in 1:07.0 and was followed in second place by Stella.

Portrait of Hudson unveiled at opening

The unveiling of a portrait was a highlight of the grand opening ceremonies last week of the Hitchcock Gallery of Homes office at 605 S. Main.

The grand opening was held to announce the merger of the former J.L. Hudson Real Estate Company with the Hitchcock Gallery of Homes.

Plymouth Mayor Thomas Turner officiated at the ribbon-cutting ceremony at 4 p.m. Thursday. A portrait of J.L. Hudson was unveiled to honor the founder of the Hudson Real Estate firm and his contribution to the growth of Plymouth over the years.

Other officials from the city and representatives from the Michigan Council of the Gallery of Homes also attended.

The new Plymouth office is the fifth Hitchcock office in the Detroit metropolitan area. Other offices are located in Hazel Park, Clawson, Warren, and in Rochester as the Shepard Gallery of Homes.

The portrait presentation came as a surprise to Hudson, who was unaware it was being prepared. The portrait was done by Gaffield Studios in Plymouth about six months ago.

At that time, Hudson had gone into the studio to have a black and white picture taken for the initial announcement of the merger in the newspapers. Gaffield slipped in some color film and shot the portrait, unbeknownst to Hudson.

The Gallery of Homes is the oldest residential real estate franchise organization in the country. Besides an extensive training program for all sales persons, the firm specializes in helping persons move in or out of the Detroit area.

A free information packet describing Detroit suburban communities is available from each office upon request.

William C. Hitchcock is president of Hitchcock Gallery of Homes, and Mary Lou Guilbalt is manager of the Plymouth office. Hudson is president of J.L. Hudson Real Estate which now will concentrate its sales efforts in the commercial and industrial areas.

Kawin L. Martin of Plymouth has been appointed controller of Ford Motor Company's plastics, paint and vinyl division succeeding Bruce G. Spengler who recently was named steel division controller.

Martin was forecast and analysis manager for North American Automotive Operations Purchasing. He joined Ford in June 1962 as a cost analyst graduate-trainee in the automotive assembly division and held positions with that division as a financial analyst and supervisor in the profit analysis and cost analysis departments.

From 1972 to 1974 Martin was a manager on the finance staff of Philco-Ford Corporation and rejoined automotive assembly division in December 1974 as manager of the cost analysis department. He holds a BS degree in general business from Bradley University.

RONALD D. ESCH

Ronald D. Esch has been named industrial relations manager at Ford Motor Company's Electrical and Electronics Division plant in Sandusky, Ohio.

Esch joined Ford as a foreman at the Dearborn Engine Plant in 1967. He was elevated to general foreman and later labor relations representative before being transferred to the former Ohio Turbine Plant in Toledo as industrial relations programs administrator in 1972.

In 1973 Esch was named to a similar post at the Michigan Casting Center in Flat Rock and in 1974 became salaried personnel and training supervisor at the Cleveland engine plants.

Esch was transferred to engine division headquarters at Dearborn as division labor relations representative in 1976 and for the past year has served there as supervisor of organization and salary administration.

He has a bachelor's degree from Western Michigan University. Esch plans to move his family soon to the Sandusky area.

The Stroller

Shocking nostalgia

By W. W. EDGAR

The other afternoon out of sheer curiosity The Stroller decided to take a trip on the new Jeffries Expressway to downtown Detroit to see how much the place has changed since that dark, dismal, rainy day he arrived to take his first waddling steps into the river of printers' ink on a metropolitan daily newspaper.

It was just 54 years ago—February of 1924—that he stepped from the train at the Michigan Central station after his first all-night ride in a Pullman car.

The station was a beehive of activity with people coming and going in such numbers that the station lobby looked much like the midway at the fair back home.

AFTER SETTling in a small hotel off Woodward Avenue, just above Grand Circus Park, he headed for the Detroit Free Press where he was to take a desk in the sports department.

In those days The Free Press was located in what is now the transportation building. And he was surprised to learn that the sports department was on the ninth floor—higher than he ever had been to work.

Down the street (Lafayette Boulevard) there were two large holes. He was told that the first of these would house the new Free Press building and the other would be the site of the big, new post office.

The picture of Lafayette Boulevard came rolling back the other afternoon, but it wasn't anything like the avenue is today.

The Free Press building is soon to be left behind as the paper takes up new quarters along the riverfront. And the post office is now one of the federal buildings with the postal work carried on in a rather new building on Fort Street.

But Lafayette presented a much different picture when The Stroller noted that the recreation building, at the corner of Lafayette and Shelby was gone. It once was the greatest recreation center in the country.

It housed 88 bowling lanes, a billiard theater where some of the world's championships were decided, a lounge and restaurant. Those days are only memories now. The site is a parking lot.

Switching over to Washington Boulevard, it was shocking to see a trolley line (a la the cable cars in San Francisco) plying up and down the middle of the street where once there were beautiful flower gardens and shrubbery. The beauty was missing the other afternoon along with the shock of seeing the Statler Hotel (later the Heritage) boarded up, and all the fashion shops gone.

THE LONE MARKER from the past was St. Aloy Church, where there was a newspapermen's mass every morning at 2 o'clock. The Stroller stood there for a moment and just shuddered at the changes.

Woodward Avenue was much the same—a shocking sight compared the street he knew when he arrived as a "rookie" sports writer.

One by one he missed such places as the Majestic Building, once the highest "skyscraper" in the midwest. It has been replaced with a building even higher.

And a lump came up in his throat as The Stroller stood at Cadillac Square. He couldn't believe what he saw. There was the ghastly contraption that replaced the stately old city hall. And across the street was the famed Schubert Theater, where he had seen Sir

Harry Lauder, the legendary Scotch comedian, on a farewell tour for nine consecutive years. Gone, too, was the Temple Theater, where the best of vaudeville was presented each week and the New Detroit Opera House on Randolph Street where Bert Williams, most famous of the black comedians, died in the wings one night as he finished his act.

Shocked though he was, The Stroller took a few more nostalgic steps to the foot of Woodward. There he had gone many times on hot summer evenings to enjoy a Vernors' ginger ale. But he learned that Vernors long since had gone up Woodward Avenue and no more did people line up to enjoy the famous thirst quencher.

True, many of the new buildings in the downtown area are things of beauty. But there are too many empty spaces where once thriving businesses like Kern's, with its big electric clock on the sidewalk, was a mecca for all the shoppers. Gone, too, was the Crowley's that attracted those who had come miles to shop.

The Stroller spent several hours just meandering in the downtown area accompanied by visions of the past.

It wasn't the Detroit he came to as an aspiring young sports writer. It was a shocking trip filled with nostalgia. And if The Stroller had his way, he'd like to go back to the friendly Detroit he was introduced to on that dismal, rainy day a half century ago when the Michigan Central station was a beehive of activity.

Danger shadows 'Company C' boys

Keeping company with "The Boys in Company C" (R) can be hazardous to your health. The stats at the end of this Vietnam war film verify that. But the cast of young, unknown—but not untalented—actors has worked hard to pump some individuality into cardboard characters and statistics. "The Boys in Company C" presents a familiar line of development. It follows the lives of a cross section of young men as they metamorphose from raw recruits to battle-hardened soldiers. With one exception, a suspenseful sequence in which the soldiers are moving through a minefield, the most vivid scenes are those at boot camp, not in 'Nam. Apparently, hell hath no fury like a Marine drill instructor. Depiction of the rigors, the brutal training and the indignities of boot camp not only grind down the recruits but assault the viewers. The obscenities alone could scar one for life; and the entire first half of this film is one long stinging whiplash of obscenities.

THE IDEA MOTIVATING THIS mode of training is to divest each man of personal pride and self respect, then when he admits to being nothing more than — the rebuilding process starts. Individuality is replaced by a sense of group pride and responsibility. The sense of mutual trust is supposed to help keep them alive in combat.

It is ironic that the concentration of furious energy packed into the drill scenes somehow is dissipated when we get to the real war. The film is much less taut once the locale is shifted to Vietnam.

Here, the director, Sidney J. Furie, throws in every old theme and cliché of war movies: Sentimentality, inept leadership, corruption, favoritism, black marketeering and, of course, the requisite sacrifice—the soldier who throws himself on a live grenade to save others.

There is even a soccer game (Marines vs. Vietnamese allies) that is just a variation on the football game in "M*A*S*H."

If there is anything distinctive about this war, it is suggested only in the narrow, mechanical attitude of the Company Captain. His biggest concern is not his men, not winning battles, but obtaining a high "body count." A high body count is everything.

OTHER THAN THAT, one gleans little information about Vietnam. There is no particular slant or message to this movie. It focuses more on individuals than on strategy or politics.

What "The Boys in Company C" has going for it is a Philippines location and the use of new and unfamiliar faces, such as Stan Shaw, James Whitmore Jr., Michael Lembeck, James Canning and Andrew Stevens.

The resemblance to southeast Asia and the presence of ordinary persons (not superstars) are two factors which strengthen the film by suggesting authenticity.

Michael Lembeck portrays a sharp sports hustler who learns about selflessness and comradeship as a U.S. Marine.

Glimpses

NEW RELEASES

THE BETSY (R). Intrigue and power within horny the set of auto industry, based on Harold Robbins best-selling novel. Many scenes filmed in metropolitan Detroit.

BLUE COLLAR (R). Tough, realistic drama of three auto workers whose small-time rip-off produces drastic results.

CANDLESHOE (G). Jodie Foster in Walt Disney adventure about young heiress and a search for treasure. Helen Hayes and David Niven co-star.

CLOSE ENCOUNTERS OF THE THIRD KIND (PG). Steven Spielberg's megabuck epic about contact with extra-terrestrial beings. Special effects make this another treat for sci-fi fans.

COMA (PG). Scary and unpleasant movie about some strange goings-on at a hospital. Genevieve Bujold is the plucky doctor who uncovers a fiendish arrangement.

THE GOODBYE GIRL (PG). Neil Simon comedy of set-up situation and laughs when an actor (Richard Dreyfuss) moves in with a twice-dumped, actor-hating hooper (Marsha Mason).

A HERO AIN'T NOTHING BUT A SANDWICH (PG). Cicely Tyson and Paul Winfield in constructive story about young black teenager who shoots heroin to escape home-life pressures.

HIGH ANXIETY (PG). Mel Brooks tips his hat to Hitchcock in this lunatic romp at the Psycho-Theutic Institute for the Very, Very Nervous. Liberal visual "quotations" from Hitchcock in this howler.

THE MOUSE AND HIS CHILD (G). Award-winning full-length cartoon feature with voices of Peter Ustinov and Cloris Leachman.

THE ONE AND ONLY (PG). Zany romantic comedy with Henry Winkler pursuing Kim Darby and getting gussied up as a wrestler called "The Lover."

THE OTHER SIDE OF THE MOUNTAIN, PART II (PG). Three-hanky movie about doubts, frustrations and loves of real-life Olympic skier paralyzed after an accident.

THAT OBSCURE OBJECT OF DESIRE (R). Witty tale about middle-aged French capitalist who falls in love with young Spanish housemaid whose identity keeps changing.

Winter fun here

An abundance of events and activities make this winter in Southeast Michigan more exciting than ever.

Sporting events, cultural happenings, shows and special exhibits are all described in South-east Michigan Travel and Tourist Association's Winter Calendar of Events, available free from the regional tourism agency.

The calendar includes information on area attractions, guided tours, and lists phone numbers of organizations sponsoring events and activities. Covered is the period January through March.

For a free copy write: Southeast Michigan Travel and Tourist Association, 350 American Center Bldg., Southfield 48034.

Youtheatre goes Latin on Saturday

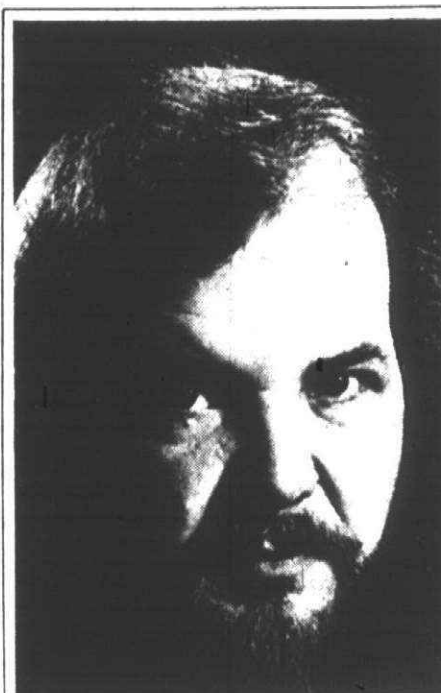

Pasqual Olivera, former lead dancer with the famed Jose Greco Ballet, and Angela del Moral, former prima ballerina with Spain's National Ballet of Madrid, will perform at the Detroit Youtheatre on March 4 at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. in the Detroit Institute of Arts auditorium.

Olivera, del Moral and their Flamenco guitar accompanist will present a show entitled "Ole! The Dance and Music of Spain," with costumes designed especially for their American tour. Featuring a wide variety of dances, including the fiery Flamenco, the program also will include a section devoted to the cultural heritage of South America.

"OLE!" IS especially designed for families with young people 7 years of age and older. Children under 5 will not be admitted to the theater.

Following the performances the audience will be invited to meet and speak with the performers at Youtheatre's "Celebrity Party" in the theater's Crystal Gallery. "Back Stage Tours" to acquaint young theatergoers with show preparation may be arranged when tickets are purchased at least one week in advance.

For information, reservations and a free "Something Every Saturday" brochure detailing the season through May 28, call the Detroit Institute of Arts ticket office at 832-2730.

Welsh poet

Bryan Walters, a Welsh poet and actor who has been acclaimed as a successor to Dylan Thomas, will appear at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Waterman Center at Schoolcraft College. Walters will read some of Thomas' best-loved works in honor of the 25th anniversary of his death. A 3 p.m. workshop will also be held with Walters in the Liberal Arts Theater. Both events are open free to the public. The college is located at 18600 Haggerty in Livonia. For more information, call 591-6400, ext. 450.

Barbershop chorus cues up

The handlebar mustache set resonates this weekend in Farmington Hills with some of that good old barbershop quartet singing.

The Wonderland Chorus of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America will lead off in shows at 8:15 p.m. Friday and Saturday at Our Lady of Mercy High School, 29300 Eleven Mile at Middlebelt.

The chorus, directed by Steve Sutherland and Gordon Limburg, will sing to the theme "Every Step of the Way." The Wonderland Chorus has headlined many barbershop shows and has won the district singing championship four times. The Wayne chapter of the society, sponsor of this show, has 100 members in western Wayne, Washtenaw, Oakland and Livingston counties. Also featured this weekend will be the Western Continentals from Phoenix, Ariz.; the New Baltimore Exit, a comedy group from the city of the same name; and a family quartet from Port Huron called the Generation Gap.

Tickets for either performance, at $4.50 each, are available in advance from Tom Pollard in Livonia at 427-5527.

DSO pops with Benny

Antal Dorati, music director of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, and the legendary King of Swing, Benny Goodman, will team up with the orchestra on Friday at 8:30 p.m. and Sunday at 3:30 p.m. for two performances in the DSO's "Weekender Pops" series.

The program will blend classical and jazz in the following manner: Dvorak's Slavonic Rhapsody in A-flat major (Op. 45, No. 3), Ravel's "Rapsodie Espagnole," Weber's Clarinet Concerto No. 1, Enesco's Romanian Rhapsody No. 1 and Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2. The concert will conclude with a jazz set by Benny Goodman and his Quartet.

Benny Goodman brought a new dimension to jazz in 1935 and introduced the so-called "swing era." The legendary Benny Goodman Quartet with Goodman on clarinet, Teddy Wilson on piano, Lionel Hampton on vibraphone, and the late Gene Krupa on drums was immortalized when Goodman brought jazz to Carnegie Hall in 1938.

He is the idol of millions of jazz fans and one of the musical greats of the century. His last appearance with the DSO was at the Balfour concert in 1976.

Tickets for both performances may be purchased at the Ford Auditorium Box Office, all Hudson's and Ward's ticket outlets, and the Detroit Tonight desk at the Plaza Hotel in the Renaissance Center. Master Charge and VISA charge card customers may order tickets by phone at 962-5524.

A LETTER from Albuquerque, N.M., arrived at the Observer office last week.

Herbert DeGeorges wrote: "The Aviation Cadet Class 41-1, which graduated from Cranute Field, Illinois in September 1941 is planning its 38 year reunion sometime during the summer of 1979 and we are short the address of one member, William Lealand Tuck.

"The last known address of Lealand was in Plymouth, Michigan but letters sent to the Plymouth address have been returned as undeliverable. I would appreciate it very much if you would publish this letter in your paper on the chance that someone in Plymouth will know the present whereabouts of Lealand.

by
ELLIE
GRAHAM

"I would appreciate any help you can give me in this search."

Bill Fehlig was home with the flu. Earl Merriman had no recollection of anyone by that name.

A call to Jack Wilcox was returned in less than five minutes: "This is Jack Wilcox, finder of lost persons. Tuck's present address is 2200 Gulf Blvd., Naples, Fla." And he added the zip code.

How did he do it?

"You have to know who was married to whom and their names before they were married," was Jack's response.

Tuck's address was mailed to the reunion organizer in New Mexico.

WALTER BECKER was 90 Feb. 21. It was an all-day celebration.

In the afternoon, seven members of the White Shrine of Jerusalem arrived at the Becker home on North Territorial. Violet Bradford, Ann McGeorge, Julia Kenny, Lucille Reeves, Florence Vetal, Esther Jacobs and Ella Winger took along a birthday cake and ice cream.

Later in the day, members of the American Legion Post provided a potluck birthday dinner.

A veteran of World War I, Becker belongs to the old Plymouth post (Myron H. Beals) on Newburgh Road in Livonia.

"All the charter members of that post were from Plymouth. The post here on Sheldon Road came later. And, of course, things changed after Livonia was incorporated as a city."

THE BECKERS bought their 10 acres on North Territorial in 1942. They were living in Detroit where he worked for L.A. Young Spring and Wire.

Becker's hobby was beekeeping and he needed country property for his hives.

"This was our summer home. We moved out here for good in 1968."

He was a beekeeper for 50 years and a member of the Wayne County Beekeepers Association which expanded to become the Southeastern Michigan Beekeepers Association. "Ralph Alloway from out in Canton is the president now," said Becker.

Walter Becker was born in Detroit, the son of native Detroiters. His father was a marine pattern maker who "worked the shops around the lakes."

"I could fill a couple of history books with the changes I've seen in the Detroit area. We lived in south Chicago for nine years when my father went there to work in a new machine shop. Then we came back to Detroit."

He spoke of the building of the shipyard at the Rouge and the drydock. "Then there were no more boats to build."

As a young man, Becker served as an oiler on three Great Lakes vessels. He recalled the great storm of November 1913 when many ships went down in Lake Huron.

"The old tub I was on was one day ahead of the storm. We came into Cleveland in a blizzard that night. When we went back up the river to Port Huron two days later, the lake was like a sheet of glass. We were right beside a ship—in the summer of 1910—that sailed on into Lake Superior and just disappeared."

IDA AND WALTER Becker celebrated their 57th wedding anniversary last September. They have one daughter, Barbara.

Both enjoy good health and though he no longer has his bees, "I'll probably get stung by a bee once more in the summer of 1978."

During the '67 race riots in Detroit, there were rumors of a beekeeper who kept hives on the roof of building on 12th Street, the focal point of the activity.

"That was Al Pennhouse," said Becker. "He had an apiary on the top of a store down there. He didn't go down there for days during the riot. Finally his sister drove by and called him to say the building was intact. She told him, 'The front door is still locked.'"

Walter Becker was right. He could fill a couple of history books.

Spring, Melin named DAR good citizens

Kay Spring, a Plymouth Canton High School senior, and Andrew Melin, a senior at Plymouth Salem, were named good citizens by the Sarah Ann Cochrane chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

They were two of 13 students and their mothers who were invited to the annual Good Citizens Luncheon Feb. 22 in Kings Mill Clubhouse, Northville.

Mrs. D.H. Baumhart, DAR good citizens chairperson, presented each winner with a pin and a certificate. Each mother also was given a remembrance from the chapter.

"This was an exceptional group," said Mrs. Baumhart, who has chaired the event for three years.

THE HIGH SCHOOL winners were from Northville, Novi, South Lyon, Hamtramck, Warren, Garden City West, Livonia and the two Plymouth schools.

The award is based on leadership, dependability and service to community. The contest is open to all high school seniors. Candidates are chosen by their school faculties.

Schools are contacted early in October and nominees' names are sent to the DAR state contest chairman in Mt. Pleasant. Students receive test questions in December and good citizens winners are announced in February.

"We were pleased with the cooperation of the Plymouth Canton Schools," said Mrs. Baumhart. "There have been years when we have had no response and consequently no local winners." She explained that regional, then state good citizens go on to national competition where they can win a $4,000 scholarship.

"We haven't had a state winner yet, let alone a national," said the contest chairman.

ANDY MELIN plans to major in telecommunications at Michigan State University. He has worked at the high school radio station for three years and broadcasts the basketball games.

After broadcasting a game, he often heads for the a typewriter in the Observer newsroom where he writes the story of the game. Besides his sports writing career, he coaches a third grade basketball team for the Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball Association.

"He's a real sincere kid. He'll be successful in whatever field he chooses," said Pat Fitzpatrick, area coordinator at Plymouth Salem, who was instrumental in Melin's nomination.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Melin of Carol Street, Plymouth.

KAY ELIZABETH Spring is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Spring of Simpson Street, Plymouth.

Andrew Melin and Kay Singer were congratulated by DAR Regent Mrs. Albert Heindryckx for being named good citizens of the year. (Northville Record photo)

She hopes to combine the study of foreign languages with business administration when she attends Kalamazoo University in the fall. She studied German, French and Spanish at high school.

She was on the varsity swim team for four years at Plymouth Canton, is a life guard and teaches swimming for the Plymouth Recreation Department. She was involved in synchronized swim her first three years in high school.

She was a teacher aide in the foreign language department.

Miss Spring is a skier, and she plays the piano.

Both of the good citizen award winners are graduates of Smith Elementary School.

MRS. ALBERT Heindryckx, DAR regent, presided at the award luncheon and welcomed the guests.

Mrs. Louis Hopping was luncheon chairman assisted by Mrs. Irene Johnson, Mrs. Robert Greenier, Joyce Greenier and Mrs. Gregory Dean.

Mrs. Baumhart was in charge of the program. After the presentations to the students and their parents, she discussed the chapter's service projects to three area museums—Greenmead in Livonia, Mill Race Village in Northville, and the Plymouth Historical Museum.

College day care center boon to students

By GERRI ANDREWS

Last September Karen Rossman of Livonia began taking classes at Schoolcraft College. While she is in class, her daughter, Elizabeth, plays at the college day care center.

Suzanne Sanford of Plymouth attends classes five days a week at Schoolcraft. On those days, her daughter, Lorena, also plays at the day care center.

Lorena and Elizabeth are two of the 50 children who go to the center each day while their mothers or fathers go to school. Their mothers say that without the center they could not be furthering their educations.

"What it boils down to," said Ms. Sanford, "is that a lot of women would not be able to attend college if the day care center were not here."

"There would be no way I could think of going to school," Ms. Rossman agreed. "I couldn't tailor the hours to my schedule, and any other nursery would be quite expensive."

MARILY PETOSKY, supervisor of the day care center, said the main reason for the center's existence is to provide a reasonable means of child care for parents who otherwise could not attend Schoolcraft.

She stressed that the center is not in business to make money and described fees at the center as "set at a rate within the means of most students—$5 a semester and 80 cents an hour."

Ms. Petosky added that while the center is responsible for 50 children each day, it is limited by the state to 23 children at a time. Children must be at least 3 years old and are not allowed to stay longer than five hours a day.

According to Ed McNally, vice president of student affairs at Schoolcraft, credit for the establishment of the center goes to women from the Sigma Beta Sorority who recognized the need for adequate child care on campus as early as 1971.

He said the center is funded by an allotment from the Schoolcraft board, financial support offered by the student senate, and fees charged parents of children at the center.

THOSE ENTERING the center are greeted by a large sign asking for donations—margarine tubs, coffee cans, greeting cards, beads, trim, books and records. These donations are used in craft projects created by Ms. Petosky and assistant supervisor Nancy Michalak, who staff the center with the help of student aides hired through grants from the college work study program and through its co-op program.

Ellen August and Martha Rabus, both student aides, say they enjoy working with the children.

"It's fun to watch them develop," said Ms. August, "and they're receptive to what I want to teach them."

"They want to learn; they get excited about everything, and the simplest fact is new and fresh to them," Ms. Rabus added.

Structured activities are kept to a minimum, since children are coming and going throughout the day and there are differences in their ages.

"We work together playing games, and most of our education is through these games," explained Ms. Petosky. "Intellectual growth is important, but we don't concentrate on it as much as we do on teaching the children to get along with their peers."

DESCRIBING the center, a converted house next to the college south parking lot on Haggerty, Ms. Petosky mentioned a rough-house room with mats, a large-muscle-equipment play area complete with slide, a playroom with stove, table and chairs and dress-up clothes, and a room with a table for finger paints and crafts.

"The attention span of the children depends on age, so some children stay in one room all morning while others are in a room for only ten minutes," she said.

"This is one of the good things about our program being unstructured. Nobody has to stick to a routine except when we break for snacks or an art project."

A MOTHER entered for the first time with her son, Michael. As she turned to leave, Michael began to cry. Ms. Michalak scooped him up in her arms and assured him that "Mommy will be back." The crying soon stopped.

"Many children will cry the first time they're left here," said Ms. Petosky. "We try to comfort them by saying 'this is your school, and Mommy is at her school and will be back.' Once they get into the group, they really enjoy coming."

Benjamin Franklin told Gallimore Elementary School children about his life and times. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Ben Franklin pays a visit

Benjamin Franklin was in town last Thursday and the students at Gallimore Elementary School were his delighted audience.

Ralph Archbold, better known as Ben Franklin to the thousands who visit Greenfield Village each summer, presented an hour-long program on Franklin's life and the Revolutionary War years.

Dressed in authentic colonial garb, Archbold first explained his clothing. He then talked about Franklin's life as a printer, inventor, scientist and statesman. His narration was punctuated by songs about colonial life and the students were encouraged to sing along.

HIS AUDIENCE experienced the scope of Franklin's accomplishments—his wit and his wisdom.

Archbold, a native of Dearborn, began portraying Franklin four years ago after auditioning for the role during the Greenfield Village summer festival.

His performances made such an impression that he began to receive requests for guest appearances. What began as a summer job evolved into a full-time occupation.

In addition to his appearances at Greenfield Village, he presents about 600 school assemblies each year throughout the Midwest. He also has appeared on television programs. He performed in the Detroit Dinner Theater production of "Personals" and hosted the WWJ-TV special "How it was in '76."

Archbold's appearance at Gallimore was sponsored by the school's PTO.

Resident chairs Grace Hospital fashion show

The annual luncheon and fashion show sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary to the Grace Hospital will be March 8 in the Fairlane Club, Dearborn.

A "Hearts and Flowers" theme again has been selected by Mrs. Paul Somlyo of Plymouth and her assistant chairwoman, Mrs. Stephen Senecoff of Bloomfield Hills. Auxiliary members and professional models will parade spring and summer fashions from the shop of Marilyn Turner in Rochester.

Providing background music at the piano will be Mrs. Claude F. Cowley and Mrs. John Bielawski, both of Dearborn Heights.

Tickets are now on sale and reservations will be limited to 400. General admission tickets are priced at $12.50. Sponsors are asked to pay $15 and patrons are those who donate $20 or more. Reservations can be made by calling Florence Hanson (292-9621) of Dearborn.

THE BENEFIT funds are designated for special hospital equipment, a proposed gift from the auxiliary.

Committee members are Mrs. Henry Kurtz, Mrs. Ivan Ludington and Mrs. Donald Waddell of Detroit. Mrs. Thomas Arminski of Bloomfield Hills, Mrs. Andrew Brown and Mrs. Edward Heil of Birmingham and Mrs. Oswald Bostic and Mrs. George Tuttle of Farmington Hills are also on the planning committee.

Others are Mrs. L. Murray Thomas and Mrs. Reed Zens of Grosse Pointe, Mrs. Otto Soltes of Orchard Lake and Mrs. John Bielawski of Dearborn.

Mrs. Kim Lie of Grosse Pointe is president of the auxiliary. The committee has assembled a host of prizes. There will be a hat designed and made by Mrs. Somlyo which will be trimmed with silk roses and dollar bills. A handknit Aran Isle afghan and a crystal wine decanter are just a few of the items to be given away.

2 compete in pageant

The Plymouth-Canton area had two representatives in the "Miss Michigan Universe 1978" contest Sunday night in the Hyatt Regency hotel, Dearborn.

Teena Hammond of Canton is a 5-7 brunette with hazel blue eyes.

Her ambition is to work with handicapped children; hobbies are skiing, swimming, dancing and baking; favorite foods are Chinese foods, Mexican food and McDonalds. She attends modeling school.

Sheryl Ann Tubbs, 18, of Plymouth is 5-3 with blue eyes and blondish brown hair.

Her hobbies are drawing, skiing and swimming. She hopes to work in advertising and her favorite food is chocolate.

Results of the contest were not available at press time.

Parties boost winter spirits

Members of Franklin Palmer Home-owners Association in Canton have found a great solution for boosting winter spirits. On Friday, Feb. 10, they had a mid-winter party in the township recreation hall.

Dance music was provided by Dave DeClark and his band. Refreshments, prizes and entertainment were the responsibility of social committee members Dianne Satterley, Kathy Hardenburgh and Judy Langer.

Tim Totten won an iron donated by Super X Drugs and Bernard and Peggy Esper won a book given by Harvard Book Store.

The Deck and Den Shop provided a fireplace corn popper that delighted Tom and Sharon Skinner. Bob and Gail Marshall were equally pleased with their prize of coffee mugs courtesy of Rocco Schettini and Nestle, Inc.

Jim and Jeana Coccolone won a dinner for two at the Mexican Fiesta Restaurant that was donated by Kathy Schettini. A leather wallet from the Leather Works Shop in Harvard Square went to a delighted Bob Christie.

To clean her diamonds, Alta Harris' prize was jewelry cleaner from K's Jewelers. All the donations were appreciated by the association and they made the party a little more special.

The social committee received a lot of help from their neighbors. They send a special thank you to Steve and Jill Harris, Larry and Andy Russell, Bob Marshall, Sherman Langer, Bill Satterley, Carol Micksch and David Hardenburgh for making the event a huge success.

GENEVA UNITED Presbyterian Church presented its second "Musical" of the season Feb. 19 at the church. There was an enthusiastic response to a fine performance.

The concert featured mezzo soprano Catherine Huntress from Midland and pianist Carla Upton of Plymouth. Both are senior music performance majors and honor students at the University of Michigan.

Miss Huntress also has soloed with the U-M Chamber Choir, University Choir and All Campus Orchestra. She has sung in Gilbert and Sullivan productions in Midland and Ann Arbor as well as U-M Music School productions of "Carmen," "Rigoletto," and "The Magic Flute."

Miss Upton is well known to the Geneva congregation as the church accompanist. Her performance in the first Musicales was equally outstanding.

The second half of the concert featured the new singing group, "Phoenix." Many of its members have sung in the choirs of First Presbyterian Church in Plymouth.

The group is composed of sopranos Jean Braun, Karen-Chapin and Eleanor Warren; altos Eleanor Burton, Verolou Scott and Jeane Upton; tenors Larry Smith, Gary Temple and William Upton; basses Keith Burton, George Roll and Earl Gibson.

"Phoenix" is directed by Fred Nelson and the accompanist is Robert W. Jones, of Schoolcraft College.

Selections from composers Cole Porter, Barry Manilow and Simon and Garfunkel were received warmly by the audience. The guests also enjoyed Jones' medley of ragtime tunes played during intermission.

There was something for everyone in the variety of music presented. During a time for refreshments which followed the performance, guests had the opportunity to comment on their favorite selection and congratulate the artists.

GENEVA'S YOUTH has been involved in a number of recent activities. Their guidance is in the hands of sponsors Bob and Pat Beggs, Mason and Shari Ludlow and Jim and Jane Scott.

In February, they planned and executed a Shrove Tuesday pancake supper for 150 church members and friends. On Feb. 15 they enjoyed box seat entertainment at the Shrine Circus.

Twenty-three Pioneer youth and six adults left for a weekend retreat at the Sarah Grindley Camp on Joslin Lake Feb. 17. They returned in time to lead the Sunday service of worship at 11 a.m.

The Senior Highs provided leadership at the 9:30 a.m. service and a special presentation was offered by the Children's Choir.

BELIEVE IT or not, it soon will be time to pack away your skates and skis and get ready for spring. So, take advantage of the winter activities at hand.

Canton's Parks and Recreation Dept. has been offering weekly cross country ski outing at Kensington Metro Park in Milford. March 2 and 9 are the remaining available dates.

Skiers leave in vans at 11 a.m. from the recreation center on Michigan Avenue and return at 5 p.m. If you have your own equipment, the trip is free. Otherwise, a minimal charge of $4.50 is requested for the rental of skis, boots and poles.

Reservations are made by calling program director Brenda Pollack at 397-2777. Now, pack a bag lunch and fill your coffee thermos and you're set for an adventure with nature.

IF YOU STILL don't believe spring is on its way, listen well. The Canton Recreation Department is accepting applications for the adult softball program.

The program is being expanded this year due to the installation of ball diamond lighting allowing night games for the first time.

Mrs. Pollack said, "We should be able to accommodate all interested teams and individuals this year."

There is a $135 registration fee for women's teams and $245 for men's teams. In addition, 75 per cent of each team's participants must be Canton residents or work in the township a minimum of 30 hours per week.

Individuals wishing to play softball may register with the department and their names will be given to interested teams. The deadline for softball registration is March 20.

White Shrine card party

ROBERT BAKE - Realtor

1005 W. Ann Arbor Trail Plymouth 453-8200

PLYMOUTH! IF YOU ARE LOOKING FOR THE PERFECT COUNTRY HOME and enjoy the outdoors, this is it. An original owner brick center entrance Colonial on nearly an ACRE. Its location is excellent and the embracing views from every window are the prettiest possible. There are 4 bedrooms, 2 1/2 baths, formal dining room, a rear summer porch (reached from the family room or dining room) family room with fireplace, 1st floor laundry, full basement, and side entrance 2 1/2 car garage. Among its many benefits is ease of maintenance. A HOME YOU'LL BE DELIGHTED TO SEE! $97,000 453-8200

WEST OF NORTHVILLE is to be found a generously re-modeled one story home that is, indeed, a compliment to the owner's good taste and "SPARE NO EXPENSE" attitude. Deceptive in size, it's so thoughtfully livable and well decorated. There are 3 bedrooms, a complete new kitchen with island counter, formal dining room, and full basement. The setting is large and treed. You'll enjoy the space in the 40 x 25 Barn that provides room for cars and a large work shop. The furnace, electrical, plumbing, etc. are all recent. BE SURE NOT TO MISS THIS FINE OFFERING. $45,500 453-8200

THERE'S MUCH TO BE WRITTEN AND ADMIRER about this impeccable two story home an exterior that is pleasantly unique, an open foyer with a gracefully turned stairwell, 4 bedrooms, formal dining room, 1 1/2 baths, family room with fireplace, basement, and 2 1/2 car attached garage. Summer is rapidly approaching and you'll be so pleased with the well developed patio, Central Air, and air purifier. $66,900 453-8200

CITY OF PLYMOUTH! HERE'S A ONE BEDROOM HOME IN A WELL REGARDED NEIGHBORHOOD. It has an 80 ft. lot and the adjoining homes are generally of much higher value. While it is an older home, it's structurally very sound and its furnace is of recent origin. Currently it is rented for $250.00 a month. A FASCINATING OFFERING for the investment minded purchaser or for your own enjoyment. $24,900 453-8200

Horace— It's time you learned the facts of life!

Oh, we're sure you learned about the birds and bees long ago, but Horace, have you heard about "736"? That's a Want Ad classification in your home-town newspaper. It works this way Horace:

Remember when you almost went crazy trying to find a solid oak hat stand? How you embarrassed your wife in the antique store because they didn't have one and tried to interest you in a chamber pot instead and you told that sweet little old lady what she could do with it? Remember?

Well, if you had used the "Wanted to Buy" classification that we have just for this kind of situation, one of our thousands of readers would have called you and your troubles would have been over.

Now, that little bird on top of your head (what's he doing there, anyway?), just told us that you're in the market for a 1938 Chevrolet hood ornament. So here are the facts of life, Horace: "Wanted to Buy" ads get results—that's a fact. 736—that's a figure. Use them and get results—that's a suggestion.

Looking for something unusual or run-of-the-mill?
