Is EDC too easy?

The City of Plymouth, seeking to entice more business and industry, may follow Canton Township's lead and form an economic Development Corporation (EDC).

EDCs, which have the ability to issue tax-exempt revenue bonds to finance development and construction costs for private commercial and industrial ventures, are becoming increasingly popular with communities across the state.

Canton formed an EDC about four months ago, and the City of Plymouth is currently investigating procedures to start its own.

Projects financed under an EDC can receive up to $5 million in tax-free revenue bonds, issued by the EDC. Interest on the revenue bonds are exempt from all federal, state and local income taxes

According to Charles Burleigh, a Detroit-based attorney and author of an article on EDCs for the "Michigan Real Property Review," the interestfree nature of the bonds can save a business 2-21/2 per cent of the cost of a conventional bank mortgage.

"AND WHEN YOU'RE talking several million dollars that percentage can amount to quite a bit of money,' he said.

Burleigh appeared before the Plymouth City Commission to discuss EDCs at the request of City Manager Fred Yockey. Burleigh explained the workings and benefits of EDCs.

Municipalities with EDCs have a competitive edge in luring commercial and industrial developers inside their borders, Burleigh said.

'Look, I can understand why communities want to make themselves attractive to business. But you can go overboard with it. In some cases you get the small governments doing everything to get commercial development."

 Bernard Klein, professor of public administration

Canton Township's EDC recently received an application from Grosse Pointe Quality Food Company and another from Westside Auto Parts. The firms indicated they were interested in taking advantage of the savings afforded by the tax-exempt bonds.

The food company firm plans to build a distribution center at Haggerty and Michigan Avenue.

Frederick Hite, president of the company, said, there were factors other than Canton's EDC considered in the company's decision to locate in the township.

"We investigated numerous sites in the metropolitan area," Hite said. "But we decided on Canton because we wanted that particular piece of property and that location. The fact that they had an EDC to work with was just a nice extra.'

Yockey said he was in favor of the city forming an EDC to increase the industrial and commercial tax base in the city. Canton Supervisor Harold Stein also strongly supported an EDC for the township.

DESPITE THE enthusiasm of municipal officials and politicians toward EDCs, there are some who warn of pitfalls.

Bernard Klein, professor of public administration at the University of Michigan, Dearborn and one-time comptroller for the City of Detroit, argues that small municipalities 'give away their birth-right" by forming EDCs.

He contends that communities can get themselves in a position of being held hostage by potential industrial developments.

"Look, I understand why communities want to make themselves attractive to business," he commented, "but you can go overboard with it.

"In some cases you get the small governments doing everything to get commercial development. Each community starts fighting a battle for survival. Then you get the business saying, 'If you don't do what we want, we'll go somewhere else. It's not the healthiest situation I can think of.

In addition to the philosophical objections. Klein took issue with some of the practical consequences of economic development corporations.

He said because the revenue bonds sold by an EDC are tax exempt, the burden of the lost taxes is made up by the rest of the tax-paying public.

He also said in the event a companyfinanced under an EDC goes bankrupt, there is a question of liability for the municipality.

LOCAL GOVERNMENTS were given the power to establish economic development corporations in 1974 by an act of the state legislature. It was the intention of the act to provide a more favorable business climate in

To establish an EDC, a government must first have a group of three or more persons submit a written application, including the proposed articles

Kelley will rule on refusal to bus option students

By EMORY DANIELS

The state attorney general has been asked to issue an opinion whether Plymouth-Canton Community Schools must provide transportation for all students who live more than 11/2 miles from the school they attend.

The request for the opinion was made by Dr. John W. Porter, state superintendent of public instruction.

At stake is whether the school district is obligated to bus students who originally were assigned to a yearround school but were re-assigned, at the request of parents, to a school with a nine-month schedule.

THE CONTROVERSY began last year when the school district expanded year-round scheduling to five addi-

When year-round scheduling was expanded last year, the school board also decided to offer the same option (to opt for a nine-month school) but added the requirement that parents "opting out" must provide their own

A parents group organized at that time and petitioned the school board to provide transportation to the option school. The board maintained it could not afford it and wasn't required by

At that time the board and the parents group asked the transportation division of the Michigan Department of Education for an opinion on the dispute. The transportation division issued two conflicting opinions-one saying the district didn't have an obligation to bus. The other said the district was obligated

Porter, faced with conflicting opinions from within his own department, turned last week to Attorney General Frank Kelley for a legal inter-

As background information for Kelley, Porter noted that some of the Plymouth-Canton schools operating on a 12-month calendar with 45 days of instruction followed by 15 days of vacation, while others follow the more traditional September through June school calendar.

"Parents may send their child either to the neighborhood school closest to their home, or an optional school which follows a different schedule.

"Plymouth school officials have required parents of students enrolled in optional schools to provide their own transportation to school, even if it is more than 11/2 miles from the student's home. Some of the parents have nished for their children as it is for 11:55 a.m.

those attending neighborhood schools who must travel an equal distance."

In a letter to Kelley, Porter said the School Code of 1976 requires school districts which provide transporation to make it available to all students who live more than 1½ miles from the school in which they are enrolled.

Porter also asked Kelley to determine if the State Board of Education has the authority to direct Plymouth-Canton Community Schools to provide transportation to students enrolled in the optional program.

SUPT. JOHN M. HOBEN said he was not suprised by Porter's request for an attorney general's opinion.

"My only suprise is that the request wasn't made four months ago.'

Hoben said he wasn't sure, but he assumed the school board would vote to eliminate the option if Kelley said busing would be required.

"We offered the option to accommodate people who couldn't tolerate year-round school. The law states the board can establish attendance areas and boundaries, but providing options is not a legal requirement.

"We said we'd provide option schools if parents provided transportation. If the attorney general says we must provide transportation then the board will have to decide whether to provide the option.

"The administration pushed for an opinion from the department of education, and got two conflicting opinions. Our attorney states our position is ok."

About 40 parents organized last year to ask the board to provide busing to optional schools. The largest group were parents of students originally assigned to Miller who opted for Allen Elementary.

THE OPTIONAL SCHOOL busing dispute is similar, in principle, to the district's practice of providing busing transportation to students attending private or parochial schools.

Ice is still a problem for tenants

Despite the recent warming trend, the streets of Royal Holiday Mobile Home Park are still icy.

Sheldon Futernick of Westland, partowner of Royal Holiday and a string of other parks, is now hearing complaints about upkeep of his establishment from the park residents and political "higher-ups."

Canton Supervisor Harold Stein engaged in a battle royale recently with Futernick when he asked the mobile park owner to clear thick ice off the streets in the park and respond to other maintenance complaints.

Mary Woods, president of the Royal Holiday In-Park Association, presented Stein with a petition late last month signed by more than 300 residents of the park, all of them irate about upkeep. Mrs. Woods said that people who live in the park won't allow Futernick to let warm weather solve the ice complaints. Besides, she said, problems of drainage in the park, and building and sidewalk maintenance, are a problem all year long.

Copies of the petitions, an Observer news article and the police report on road conditions have been sent by Stein to State Sen. William Faust (D-Taylor) and State Rep. Thomas Brown (D-Westland). Faust heard many Royal Holiday residents complain about lack of action in the park at last Friday's senior citizen conference in Wayne.

The majority of residents of Royal Holiday are senior citizens; the park has instituted a ban on any new tenants less than 40 years of age.

Stein said he is concerned that the park, which is built on marshy land, will flood drastically in the spring if Futernick does not clear the ice that covers manholes. Conditions at the park make walking a treacherous proposition for seniors who meet regularly in the clubhouse, Stein said.

Futernick has agreed to tour the park with Stein but no date has been set. Repeated attempts by the Observer to interview Futernick were

You'd almost think western Wayne county was a little piece of Ireland, considering the way Maids of Erin Carrie McManus, Bishop Borgess

High School senior and a resident of Redford Township, is the latest to continue the tradition and reign over the Detroit parade put on by the Gaelic League and the Irish-American Club.

Wearing a shining crown and a green velvet robe, she rode at the head of the parade and then was feted as guest of honor at a luncheon hosted by the two organizations.

Carrie learned her queenly parade gestures from a former Maid of Erin who joined her for a photograph.

Kathy McNeile, a senior in nursing at Madonna College, was Maid of Erin in 1975, he first year she came to this area from her home in South Bend,

But Kathy didn't receive a big portion of the prize now given to the Irish queen. Since her reign, sponsors have added to the prize list a trip to the Emerald Isle.

Carrie will take the trip in July, along with her parents, Peter and Geraldine McManus, who are paying their own way.

"We hope to visit a homestead in Ireland still in the family name," she said. "We haven't yet met the relatives living there. My dad also has several other relatives in Ireland, and it will be nice to experience a different

The family hopes also to visit England and France during the overseas trip, and when Carrie returns home she expects to enter the University of Michigan-Dearborn to study business or home economics.

Kathy McNeile isn't the only former Maid of Erin to come from this area. From 1967 to 1969, the Madonna campus produced three queens-Christine Fox of Livonia, Susan Stevens of Saginaw and Julie Carolan of Redford Township.

Here's your chance to win circus tickets

The Plymouth and Canton editions of the Observer are once again sponsoring a contest for youngsters to win free tickets to the circus.

Youngsters may enter a coloring contest while older youths may enter a writing contest to win free tickets to the circus to be held in Plymouth April 8th and 9th. The circus is sponsored by the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce.

Youngsters pre-school through grade two may enter the contest by coloring the drawing on Page 6B of today's

Young people in grades three through eight have an opportunity to win free circus tickets by writing and entering a short story about a circus.

All entries must be submitted to the Observer office by 5 p.m. Tuesday, March 28. Five tickets will be given out for the first place winner in each category, three tickets for second place, two for third, and one ticket for honorable mention.

There will be one judging category for pre-school ages, and a separate category for each school grade level

Each ticket is worth one free admission to the circus, without any ticket purchases necessary. The tickets are worth $1.50 each. For the coloring entries, the child's name, address, phone number, and grade level should be printed on the front or back of the entry. Youngsters grade three through eight should print the same information on the top right-hand corner of the first page of their short story.

Key to success

The secrets of $4 million in sales

By W.W. EDGAR

There is an adage which says "the more we put into the lives of others, the more comes back into our own.

No finer example of its truth can be found than in the life of Mrs. Janice Foster, who recently was honored for being the second most successful saleswoman in Wayne-Oakland counties by topping $4 million in real estate sales and listings.

"I didn't set a goal," she explained the other morning over a cup of coffee, "I was just doing what I have been doing all my life-helping people with problems and becoming involved in the community.

FROM HER CHILDHOOD Mrs. Foster of Plymouth has followed the creed of helping others and it made little difference where she happened to live.

With glowing pride she'll tell you about how she helped organize a library and a church choir in the Tidewater area of Virginia.

And there's a sparkle in her eye when she tells how much she enjoyed being involved with garden and home clubs in the eastern searboard from Virginia to Connecticut.

In her telling there is a bright smile as she discloses her love of antiquesespecially when she was a volunteer in the Philadelphia area.

IT WAS THIS volunteer involvement when she and her family came to Plymouth 12 years ago which gave her what she calls an "accidental start" in the real estate business.

Not wanting to enter into organized groups immediately after her arrival, brought the real joy in her life. It was there she noticed a severely retarded little girl and took a liking to her immediately. She tells, with a mother's pride, how she lifted the child to her arms and caressed her. So great did the love for the child become that, even against the institution's policy, she was granted permission to take the child home. For close to five years the child was cared for. Her mental capacities

"We didn't realize she was almost totally blind until Dr. L.J. Salan, the recently retired eye specialist, told

Then came an almost regrettable day. Mrs. Foster was informed by the center that because of the shortage of beds at the Center, the child would have to be returned or withdrawn from the institution.

She was taken back. While Mrs. Foster visited her every week, the child was gaining knowledge and strength. Now, after eight years, she is a student in the Northville School District and attends special education classes in Dearborn.

IT WAS WHILE working with the youngster and other volunteer activities that Mrs. Foster ventured into real estate.

She said she chose the profession by "accident" because the hours of a real estate salesperson were flexible enough to give her the hours needed to take care of the retarded child and give her the benefit of a home in which three daughters were raised.

She further explained the "accident" by saying that many of the friends she had made had trouble, from time to time, in either buying or selling their

So she tried to help them out and I eventually took a real estate course for a year and then joined the staff of Robert Bake Realtors on Ann Arbor

ADMITTING THAT she never sets goals, Mrs. Foster says she is always in competition with herself-always trying to help more and more people with their problems.

The desire to help enabled her to reach the $2 million mark in sales and listings, and then to the $4 million achievement last year.

With all of this activity she and her husband, who is in the tool business in Warren, also have taken the time to raise three daughters.

Transfer fund to banish cash

By MIKE SCANLON

How does the idea of computerized money grab you?

Nobody thinks twice anymore about playing games with computers, and some people have used them for years to line up dates.

But how about letting them balance the checkbook? How about letting them replace the checkbook?

The day of computerized money in Michigan may dawn sooner than you think, if a bill State Rep. William Keith (D-Garden City) has spent the last several months shepherding past wary bankers and consumer groups becomes law

Now awaiting action on the house floor, the bill sets guidelines for the use of Electronic Fund Transfer Systems (EFTS)

EFTS is basically plastic money but plastic money like you've never seen it before. EFTS have the potential to virtually eliminate cash from your life. "If people are afraid of it, they won't use it," said Keith. "They won't have to. But it's convenient for the consumer and it's money-saving to the financial institutions.

EFTS involve the use of computer terminals to transfer money from one account to another. That could be, say, from your account to a department store's.

The primary difference between EFTS and existing forms of "plastic money," like credit cards or Automated Teller cards is that the transaction involves two accounts and it is ment about the purchase, in addition to monthly paper statements on all activity within your account.

If your card for performing EFTS transactions is lost or stolen, or if vou're forced to use it against your will to withdraw funds, you won't be liable for any loss. By contrast, existing plastic money laws leave the account holder liable for the first $50 charged to lost or stolen credit cards.

Financial institutions favor the bill for a number of reasons. Keith estimates it will reduce costly paperwork for cashing checks by 85 to 90 per cent.

It may also offer large banks an "out" to Michigan's often complicated banking laws. Broadly stated, the laws now prevent large banks from expanding as much as some of them would However, a large bank could establish an EFTS computerized terminal anywhere in the state. You'd think that would upset small bankers-and at least one small bankers' group, the Michigan Association of Community Bankers, does oppose the bill.

But EFTS terminals anywhere except at an already-chartered bank would have to be available to anyone, even customers of competing banks.

The same "extras" now offered for checking accounts would probably be options for EFTS accounts. At least, services like guaranteed check writing-actually an open-end loan account-would not be prohibited under Keith's EFTS bill.

You'll also be free to establish any restrictions on use of the account that vou like. You can set a limit for the number of allowable transactions in any one day, for instance, or set a maximum amount that can be charged using an EFTS card.

And EFTS lays open, at least technologically speaking, the possibility that some day you can sit at home in vour easy chair and pay all your bills and do your shopping simply by watching television display the wares. Your telephone could be used to transfer

"I would like to personally show you that the conditions described to you by others do not exist."

In late January, senior citizen residents of the park contacted the Canton Observer and a picture page and story followed, with Futernick saying that the protesters were retired people "with time on their hands."

Supervisor Stein said he has been after Futernick to act on the resident's concerns since the article appeared Jan. 20. Last month, after a police report came in citing dangerous road conditions inside the park, Stein personally inspected the site. He told the board Tuesday that ice ruts in the road caused by a broken sewer line and poor drainage in the park have made roads almost impassable.

Ptl. Dan Antieau of the Canton Police Dep artment says roads in Royal Holiday are "extremely slippery, with ice as deep as 6-8 inches." Deep ruts in the road "make two-way traffic impossible," Antieau reports.

Mrs. Woods, who represents the residents of the park, said young persons have been hired recently to break up the ice around manholes but despite those efforts, she said, ice and standing water is still a major prob-

In his telegram to Stein, Futernick says he toured Canton's residential subdivisions and can "unequivocably state that Royal Holiday Park is and was maintained far better than any of these other subdivisions.'

After receiving the bulk of petitions, Stein said he placed numerous phone calls to Futernick demanding immediate action on the situation.

A proposal to increase school lunch prices by five cents for students and 10 cents for adults will be submitted tonight (Monday) to the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

The board will be asked to increase the price of elementary lunches from 55 to 60 cents, middle school lunches from 60 to 65 cents, high school lunches from 70 to 75 cents, and adult hunches from $1 to $1.10.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Little Theatre of Plymouth Canton High, Canton Center Road just south of Joy Road.

THE PRICE HIKE recommendation results from a financial analysis of the school food program.

Last winter a five-cent price increase was approved, but that hasn't been enough to head off a rising deficit in the school lunch budget.

In June 1970 the cafeteria fund had an operating deficit of $1,029. The deficit increased to a loss of $15,916 by Jan. 31. Without the requested price increase, the deficit is expected to exceed $17,500 by June. With the price increase, the deficit is expected to drop to about $3,590 by June 30.

The proposed price increase is the same one adopted by the school board and made effective Jan. 31, 1977-five cents for students, 10 cents for adults.

At that time, some trustees argued the better approach would be to improve the quality of school lunches, thereby raising cafeteria revenues by attracting more students. They argued that without increasing quality of lunches a price increase would be counter-productive and would result in fewer persons using the cafeteria.

IN SEPARATE action, the board will be asked to approve bids for airconditioning units for three schools-Isbister and Gallimore elementaries. Pioneer Middle School-which went on the year-round schedule last fall.

The units are supposed to be installed and operational by June 1 so the classroom climate won't be unbearably hot in July and August.

The board also is being asked to approve the purchase of educational developmental reading and math laboratories for Central, East, Pioneer and West middle schools. The costs are being covered 100 per cent by state and federal grants.

State spending curb is goal of new campaign

By KAREN ANNE KOPEIKIN

Michigan voters may get the chance to put a lid on state spending with a constitutional amendment.

Dick Headlee, head of Taxpayers United, Inc., a group which has organized a petition drive to limit state spending, wants a proposed amendment to the state constitution placed on the November 1978 ballot.

Headlee, a vice-president of the Michigan Chamber of Commerce, believes the increasing gap between state spending and personal income in Michigan is overtaxing residents. The spending has been increasing at a greater rate than income has.

His proposal is similar to Proposal C, which was defeated in the November 1976 election.

The issue, like Proposal C, would limit state spending to a certain percentage of personal income of Michigan residents.

Headlee maintains that this proposed amendment is more comprehensive and flexible than the defeated Proposal C.

The Farmington Hills man talked about the proposal and presented a short filmstrip about the petition drive at a recent Livonia Republicans meeting in the Hines Park Inn, Plymouth Road near Newburgh.

HE AND HIS CO-WORKERS must get 266,000 signatures of registered voters by May 1 to get the proposal on the November ballot.

"Restraints must be placed on the state's spending," Headlee said.

"There is excessive taxation of those persons on fixed incomes, and the discretionary income of others is being eaten up with taxes," he continued.

"Let's look at what has happened in Michigan in the last 10 years.

Headlee showed several graphs relating to personal income and state spending.

"The personal income of the state is up 145 per cent since 1968," he said. "While state spending is up 235 per "Michigan's population is up a only 6.75 per cent while the number of state employees is up 50 per cent." Headlee discussed what he called the most "revealing figures." Personal income is up 145 per cent, far less than the state income tax in the last 10 years, he said. "If we, as taxpayers, don't stop the legislators from over spending, we'll be taxed to HEADLEE EXPLAINED how his proposal would limit state taxes.

'The proposal, if passed," he explained, "will put all state taxation under voter control and will not allow legislators to exceed a specified level of spending unless they go to the

"I'll tell you right now that the bureaucrats in Lansing aren't going to like this proposal. They don't want the voters to get involved in making decisions.'

The president and chief executive of Alexander Hamilton Life Insurance Co. explained that the proposal would not allow legislatros to increase spending unless the personal income of Michigan were increased.

"Unless the legislators do something to increase the state income level, they won't get any more money," he said. "They'll learn that they have to encourage new businesses and new money for Michigan. If they realize that, we won't lose another auto plant like we recently lost the Ford transmission plant to Ohio.

"There's nothing wrong with making it healthy in Michigar for business."

he said to the group of 25 Republicans. "When busingsses settle in Michigan, that means jobs. And jobs mean more personal income for the state." THE PROPOSED CON-STITUTIONAL amendment contains eight regulation

The amendment would: •Limit state tax rale to a specific percentage of Michigan personal income.

•Provide for tax refunds to residents if there is excess of the state limit collected of more than one per cent. Otherwise the Jurplus will be transferred to the state budget stabilization fund.

 Provide for an extra tax levy foy one year, without voter approval, if state legislators and governor agree there is an emergency.

·Forbid state mandated programs to local governments without providing funds.

· Provide that state support to local governments will not be reduced below present levels. •Require voter approval to exceed established tax limit except in emer-

· Forbid present shifting of state tax to local property tax without voter approval •Require voter approval of all new bond issues

"The proposed amendment simply requires that we have a progressive, responsive, accountable government, Headlee concluded

"THIS IS A reasonable proposal that doen allow flexibility," said Wayne County Commissioner Mary Dumas. "I'm pleased to see it concerns itself with the state mandate of programs without allowing the dollars needed for those programs.

Rocks couldn't cope with Glenn's percentages

What can a basketball team do when its opponent shoots 60 per cent from the floor and 87 per cent from the foul

I don't care how good a squad you have-no team can beat those percent-

And yet, Plymouth Salem played this kind of shooting team and was not blown out of the court. The Rocks kept fighting to the bitter end.

Westland John Glenn, a squad which lost to Salem just one month earlier on its own court, avenged its setback to the Rocks with a four-point victory, 67-73, in regional semifinal action last Wednesday night.

The loss ended the Rocks' tourney drive with a 20-3 record, preventing them from playing third-ranked Detroit Mackenzie for the regional championship at Livonia Franklin.

Instead, John Glenn received the pleasure of trying to knock off the regional favorite—the pleasure which Salern hoped for after defeating Southfield for the district title.

"Everyone talked about Mackenzie but we didn't get past Glenn," said Salem coach Fred Thomann after the loss. "I would have liked the opportunity to play Mackenzie. . but we played a good basketball."

The most discouraging ascept of Salem's final loss was knowing the Rocks beat this same team handily

Doc's Corner

By DENNIS O'CONNOR Sports Editor

during the regular season.

But John Glenn did not shoot with the same accuracy the first time as it did Wednesday night.

So what went wrong with the Rocks? Well, I don't think it's a matter of looking at what the Rocks did wrong. I think it's a matter of seeing what John

True, Salem's stingy pressure, manto-man defense—the defense which has been he mark of its success this season-was below average.

The Glenn perimeter shooters did not receive the same pressure which Salem put on Plymouth Canton and Southfield in the district contests.

But I didn't expect Glenn to continue to shoot it the same pace it demonstrated in the first half. The Rockets hit their first eight of 10 shots from the floor and 15 of their first 20 shots. In all, Glenn finished with 27 field goals in 45 shots for the 60 per cent clip and 13 of 15 from the charity line.

Salem held a three-point lead at halftime but an early cold spell in the third quarter, which included four missed shots and five turnovers, was something the Rocks couldn't afford.

Salem lost control of the game midway in the third quarter, and Glenn continued to pop from the outside at a torrid pace. No team can come back against that kind of shooting. So, another basketball season ends for the Salem Rocks. And, although it was a sad ending, you can't overlook the 20-3 overall record and a fifthstraight Suburban Eight League titlethis season's crown shared with Livonia Bentley.

Salem defeats lowly Harrison

Plymouth Salem's crushing victory over Farmington Harrison Thursday night in the pre-regional elimination round advanced the Rocks volleyball team to the regional quarterfinals held last Saturday at Dearborn High School. The Rocks took the Hawks 15-2

"The team was extremely prepared for this match," said Salem coach Cathy Himes. "We played well together as a team and everyone who played, played well."

Senior captain Karen Prikosovits led the Rock attack on the Hawks with powerful spikes placed into the open areas of the court. Sue Busha, another Salem senior, contributed to the Salem victory with carefully placed sets.

Himes said Harrison was able to get more points in the second game because the Rocks failed to concentrate against the weaker Hawks.

Salem played Livonia Churchill on Saturday in the quarterfinal round. To become eligible for Saturday's tourney, Churchill beat Northville, 15-13 and 15-7

Among Other teams eligible to participate in tournament action is Dearborn Fordson. The Tractors beat Bloomfield Hills Andover, 15-9 and 15-

Dearborn High advanced to the regionals after defeating Crestwood in another pre-regional match, 15-9, 15-7; Detroit Northwestern beat Detroit Levielle were two other Salem spikers MacKenzie, 15-12, 15-6; Dearborn who received honorable mention.

Edsel Ford beat Redford Thurston, 15-7, 15-10; Livonia Bentley beat Farmington, 15-7, 15-9; and Plymouth Canton beat Livonia Stevenson, 10-15, 15 11, 15-11.

Prikosovits honored

Plymouth Salem's Karen Prikosovits was the lone spiker to represent the Rocks on the first-team All-Suburban Eight League team selected last week by the conference coaches.

Bentley and Dearborn each placed two girls on the first team, while the sixth spiker came from Dearborn Edsel Ford. Bentley won the league title. Dearborn and Salem tied for second place.

Joining Prikosovits on first team were Debbie Mays and Denise Breslin of Bentley, Amy Dasher and Megan Most of Dearborn and Lynn Putnam of Edsel Ford.

Salem's Clarrie Hartnett was the lone Rock representative on the second team. Patty Radzik and Cindi

Canton spikers upset Stevenson

After losing the first game in a best two-out-ofthree match, the Plymouth Canton volleyball team rebounded to defeat Livonia Stevenson, 10-15, 15-11 and 15-11. Thursday night's victory made the Chiefs eligible for the regional quarterfinals held last Saturday at Dearborn High School.

Thursday's pre-regional elimination round against Stevenson was played on the Chiefs' home court. Having this advantage wasn't kind for Canton in the first game when Stevenson had an early three-point lead. But the Spartans couldn't hold their lead and the Chiefs came back to keep the score close until the end of the game

"Our defense was pretty weak in the first game, which gave Stevenson the chance for an early lead," said Canton mentor Cyndi Burnstein. "We missed five serves in that first game which was a very crucial part of the game.

Canton was able to put its defense back together for the second game, taking an early four-point lead at 6-2. This time it was Stevenson's turn to play catch-up. Tying the score at 8-8, Stevenson showed signs of taking the second game in much the same way as it did in the first contest. But five points from senior Judy Freiman put the Chiefs ahead for good. The Spartans could only take two more points when Chief senior Kathy Sochacki put the winning serve over the net

From a tied score at 6-6 in the third game, Freiman again stepped up to serve and gave the Chiefs a commanding lead. Freiman added another five points, putting the score at 11-6. Stevenson again played catch-up to tie the score at 11-11 but failed Sochacki took points 12, 13 and 14 while senior Laurie Beck finished it off. Many spikes from junior Kelly Heaton aided the Chiefs' win. "Stevenson's Debbie Dernay was the hardest part of the match," Burnstein said. She's a fine back row player so we kept the ball away from her. When she was in the front we were able to neutralize her spikes and get blocks.

Canton played Livonia Bentley in the quarterfinals during Saturday's tournament. For results of the regional tourney see Thursday's Observer sports section.

Frosh wins diving crown

Bruce Kimball, a freshman at Afih Arbor Pioneer High School, recorded an impressive 479.6 point-total to take first place at diving regional competition held at Plymouth Canton High School last Tuesday evening.

Scott Irwin and Jay Carter, both from Ypsilanti High School, placed second and third to Kimball.

Plymouth Canton's Steve Gray was the only local representative to compete at the regionals but did not qualify for the state meet

The top 12 divers at each regional qualify for the stage meet. Other Plymouth regional qualifiers include Lisa Trombley (Allen Park), Phil Koester (Pioneer), Kevin Donaldson (Edsel Ford), Jason Juback (Pioneer), Dana Thorp (Belleville), Jerry Balaka (Dearborn), Kevin McKelvey (Belleville), John Schulte (Catholic Central) and Ken Trader (Catholic Central).

Plymouth was one of four diving regional sites in the state. More than 50 Class A schools were represent()d at the regional.

It may be a long time before there is a more dramatic finish to any bowling league than that provided by Bud Hansen and Fred Ringrose in the Classic at Wonderland Lanes last Tuesday night

In a match that went down to the final frame, and with each breaking the 700 barrier, Hansen finally recorded a 745 series to take top scoring honors of the night by a margin of only four pins.

On his way to the top Hansen put together games of 220, 298 and 227, while Ringrose opened with a 237, added a 248 and closed with 246 for his

While gaining his victory, Hansen had the unusual experience of leaving up one of the most unusual set-ups and it cost him a perfect game. After 11 consecutive strikes in his second game, he left up the 9-10 and had to settle for the 298.

Almost lost in the great duel was Jerry Hay, who also broke the 700 barrier with a 720 series that included a finishing game of 278.

Among the other highlights at Wonderland, Dolly Kovacs and Chris Kramer earned memberships in the 600 club sponsored by the Ladies senior house league.

WORD FROM TOM MC KAY, secretary of the Greater Detroit Bowling Association, is that the entry deadline for the men's city tourney has been extended one week. The event opens April 15 at Satellite.

ANOTHER CLOSE FINISH marked competition at Garden Lanes, where John Mondella rolled a 629 to beat John Walsh for scoring honors by a single pin in the St. Linus league. In the ladies classic, Ann Ferris took center stage with a 616.

TOM GOW pushed his name to the top of the honor roll at Merri-Bowl with the highest score of the season in ANOTHER WOMAN, Nancy Bela? nger, enjoyed a personal thrill at Woodland Lanes. Though she carries only a 147 average, she came through with a 210 in a 542 series.

CONTINUING HIS TORRID PACE at Westland Bowl, Bob Jawor showed the way in the 725-825 league with games of 233 and 216 in a 639 series. In line behind him came Lou Potzsck with 618, Rick Nadeau with 616 and Bill Wills with 605.

Gordy Nordstrom fashioned one game of 232 but faltered in his effort to catch the leaders.

In the ladies league, Pat Mill stole the show with a 210 in 580.

SCORING REACHED A HIGH POINT in the bicentennail league at the Super Bowl.

When the firing had ceased, Judy Griwicki was out in front with a 647 that included games of 246 and 214. Judy Zych was next in line with a 248 and a 202 in 591.

Others who registered double-century figures for at least one game were Geri Beattie and Mary Porter, who deadlocked at 228, Sue Suczek with 222, and Norma Johnson with 221. In the team competition, the Harlow Five , captained by Marge Brothers was high with a 994.

SCORING ANOTHER victory for the ladies, Linda Grajek paced the classic at Plaza Lanes with a 612 that came on games of 237, 195 and 180.

MARGE KROPACEK has reason for her broad smile these days. Her Livonia Bowling Sales team has been going great guns the past few weeks.

Last Wednesday night at Crown Lanes, the team fired a 1013 game that was bettered only by Cora Fiebig's Goebel team that registered a 1020.

BOB BOSS made a valiant bid to break the 700 barrier in the Bel-Aire Classic, but missed by three pins when he linked games of 213, 248 and 236 for

Bob Murphy used a middle game of 255 to post a 663 and take second place. Adam Beller, one of the old timers, banged out a 269 for high game to register a 648 and deadlock with Gee Brandenberger for third place and Bob Montgomery had a 254 in 636 for fourth

Mackenzie whips Glenn, 69-56

By DOUG FUNKE

Westland John Glenn's excellent basketball season ended Friday when the Rockets were defeated by Detroit Mackenzie, 69-56, in the final of the Livonia Franklin Class A Basketball Regional.

Glenn, which advanced farthest of all Observer-area teams along the tournament trail and which gained a spot in the regional finals for the first time ever, did not fall without a fight.

The Rockets penetrated a variety of Mackenzie zone defenses during the first half for easy layups, while the Stags' main weapon was Keith Smith. Smith, deadly with an outside jump shot, scored 17 of Mackenzie's 34 firsthalf points over Glenn's zone defense and finished with 29 for the game. All five Mackenzie starters had scored within the first three minutes of the opening tip-off, but center stage clearly belonged to Smith.

The Rockets, in the bonus free-throw situation during the entire second period, connected on six of seven from the charity stripe during that span to pull within a single point at the intermission, 34-33. Glenn trailed after the first quarter, 21-17.

Another successful season for the Plymouth-Canton Junior Basketball League came to an end Saturday with the championship games in the postseason playoff tournament.

For complete results of the tourney action see Thursday's Observer sports

Junior basketball president Jack Carpenter felt the main reason for the success of this season was that all players "learned how to play the game and had fun doing it."

At the beginning of the season, players were distributed according to personal abilities to keep team and league

The boys and girls in grades 4-12 have the post-season tourney which includes all the teams regardless of regular season records. Each player in these leagues must play at least one quarter of the game and no more than three-quarters of a contest

Beside the success with team balance, Carpenter said the work of many volunteers also helped make the program run smoother.

Plymouth's Decoster twins boost Borgess cagers

By KEN VOYLES

Dave and Dan Decoster are twins. Dave is 6-7, Dan is 6-5. Both have simliar facial expressions, but they really don't look like twins. Both are 17 years old And both play basketball for Bishop Borgess.

The pair, Plymouth residents, are not just average basketball players. They are closer to excellent ones. Both have started for the Borgess' varsity since their first year out for the team. Each has been chosen to the all-Catholic League squad once and the all-Central Division squad twice.

Under the coaching of Ron Gutkowski, Dave and Dan, have been key to Spartan basketball plans for the past two seasons. Gutkowski said the distinctive styles of the two really add punch to the team.

The Decoster dynasty started when the twins found basketball to be their game back in the fifth grade

Basketball was something to do. Our older brothers, Chuck and Mark, taught us and were very influential, sixth grade even though we started playing the year before. Our interest was boosted that year mostly because one of our brothers was playing for the University of Detroit and we'd go down and watch him," Dan added.

That first year didn't prove to be promising as the brothers were cut from the St. Robert Bellarmine Elementry School squad. However, the next year Dave and Dan made the team which went on to win a league championship with a 21-3 overall

"After that first year, we weren't sure if we wanted to go out again but we did," said Dan.

At Borgess, the twosome has racked up some impressive statistics in the last year. Dave, a center, is averaging 22 points a game, 13 rebounds, and three to four blocked shots per game. Dan, a guard, is averaging 17 points, 13 rebounds, and five assists per con-

"Both boys have great abilities-Dave is a fine scorer, rebounder, and defensive player, while Dan has great ball-handling skill, good rebounding and good defensive work," Gutkowski said. "Their two styles of play complement each other on the court.'

Considering the fact that the two have played together for so long, it's no wonder that they know each other's play inside out.

"I know exactly what he (Dave) is going to do, while with the other players I have to react. But I think we pick up the rest of the team's style," Dan

"I would say that they are proably the two smartest basketball players to come through the school," said Gut-

In the off season, the two continue to work year round on their skills, going to camps, playing in tournaments and summer leagues. However, they also like to take a break from the world of sports to, as Dave said, "relax for a little while."

Basketball is, as would seem natural, the main topic of conversion at the DB ecoster house

"We have two younger sisters and they are into basketball also. Our brothers influenced us and we are influencing the girls," Dave said.

But why so much basketball?

"We found out early that basketball would be the only way to go to college and it helps tremenously in that way," said Dave. "Also, of course, we enjoy the game very much."

Both Dave and Dan are B students at Borgess which should help when it comes to getting a basketball scholar-

The pair have been getting offers from around the country and most of the offers are for both the brothers. "We plan to go together no matter what," said Dave.

"But we're waiting until the season ends before we look any closer," said

Coach Gutkowski has high regard for the Decoster talents and thinks them to be fine college choices.

"Overall, they have three assets that make them good basketball players. They are disciplined in what they do, they are very dedicated to what they do, and they are very unselfish, Put those three things together along with their fine talents and you have two excellent college prospects." said Gut

WAYNE COUNTY ROAD COMMISSION

All interested persons are hereby advised that the Wayne County Road Commission is proposing to improve Beck Road between North Territorial and Five Mile Road. The proposed work includes constructing a two lane, 24' wide pavement with widenings of up to a five lane, 62' wide pavement at the major intersections. The Road Commission, in cooperation with the City of Livonia, is also proposing the improvement of Haggerty Road from Five Mile Road to Six Mile Road and Haggerty Road from Seven Mile Road to 1%2 mile north. The proposed work includes constructing a two lane, 24' wide pavement on both sections of Haggerty Road with a flare to a five lane, 62' wide pavement at Seven Mile Road.

Information concerning these projects, including preliminary plans and an evaluation of the social, economic, and environmental effects of the projects is available for review at the Wayne County Road Commission office located at 415 Clifford Street, Detroit, Michigan 48226.

The projects are proposed to receive Federal-aid under the Urban System Program. Under provision of Federal law, any person who would be affected by these projects may request, in writing, that a Formal Public Hearing be held concerning the social, economic, and environmental effects of the projects. Such a request should be mailed to Mr. Robert A. Larson, Director of Transportation at the above Road Commission address. The request must be received by March 27, 1978.

Winter's spotlight

If that snowflake looks familiar, remember that no two snowflakes have the exact same structure.

"Every mile is two in winter" — and every frozen droplet a jewel.

"There's a certain slant of light,

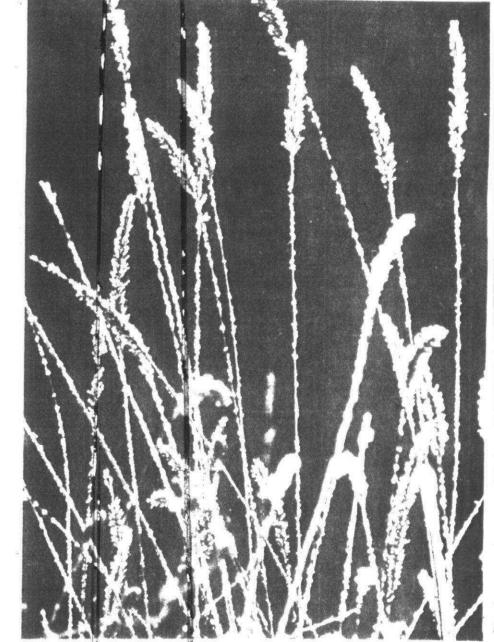

On winter afternoons

That oppresses, like the weight

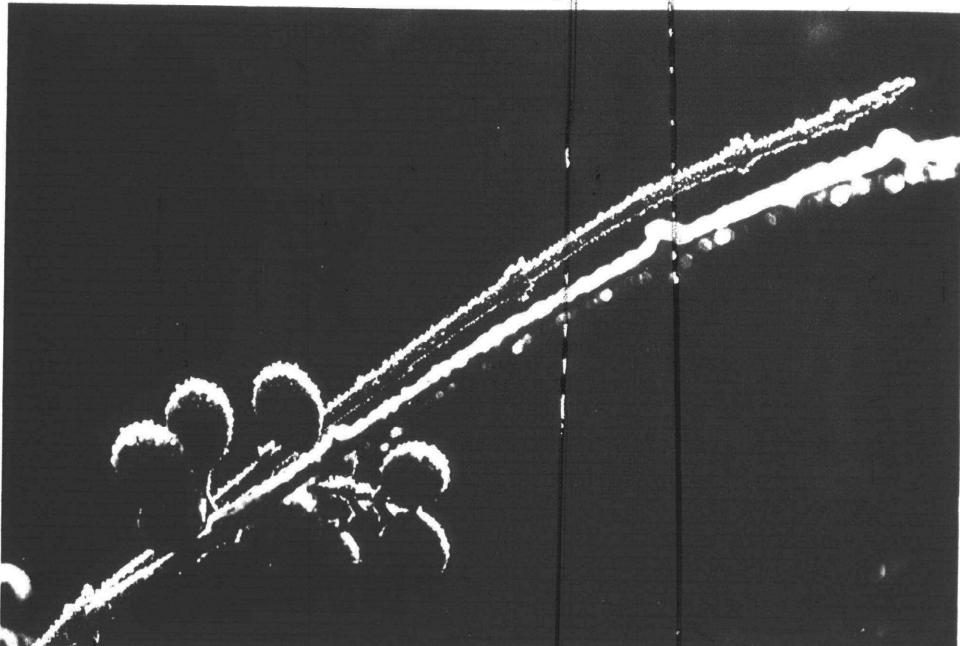

Of cathedral tunes" -Emily Dickinson.

Oppressive winter? As cold as last year's record-breaker-with about double the snow-fall, school closings and road crew over-time-this winter has been a memorable one.

Spring arrives officially at 7:34 a.m. March 20. This day is known as the vernal equinox, when the sun will rise directly in the east and set directly in the west. Day and night will appear to be of the same length, though that's actually due to our deceptive atmosphere and light refractionday and night of equal length actually occurs three days earlier. Venus returns as the brightest object in the sky besides the sun and moon, a position held by the planet Jupiter since December.

There are about 312 hours left until spring, 2,520 till summer—but who's counting?

Even in winter, there is movement beneath the ice, a sun to rise and new buds o spawn.

The Japanese auto makers are giving their American counterparts a run for their money.

It's a continuing source of concern for car makers, but the Ford Sheldtn Road Plant in Plymouth Township is doing something about it.

The engineers and managers at the heating and air conditioning assembly plant are asking the line workers for their ideas on how to improve the product.

"The Japanese are giving us a lesson," commented Gil Forthover, the plant's quality control supervisor. 'And that lesson is we have to reach our hourly work force and make them a part of the problem-solving proc-

To do that, the company has provided the usual incentives which accompany any employee suggestion promotion, including $25 savings bonds, pens, windbreakers and a bulletin board for displaying the pictures of weekly winners.

BUT IT HAS gone beyond that in trying to tap the creative potential of the people who put the heaters and air conditioners together.

Tops $2 million

Kenneth Dividock and Virgina Garrison are two Canton Realtors who topped the $2 million mark in sales and listings last year.

The two are associated with Century 21-Hartford 429 Inc., located at 44205 Ford Road, Canton.

A recent report had listed Dividock and Ms. Garrison as Realtors in Plymouth, but they are Canton

For example, Forthover said, there is a special display area where defective equipment is exhibited. The employees also are told about the warranty problems that the individual dealership's have to repair.

"The hourly worker sees problems daily that cost us customer lovalty over the long term," Forthover continued. "Today's line worker is better educated and has better ideas about his job. We've just come to the conclusion that we can't ignore one of our more valuable resources.'

Forthover, along with the rest of management, hopes the intense concentration of effort to solicit employee quality suggestions will open new channels of communications between management and labor.

"We don't want our people to feel they are not appreciated. Who would want to punch in, work for eight hours, and then punch out, day after day?

"It happens and will probably continue to happen, but every once in a while, someone should get a pat on the back in appreciation for a good job."

The program in operation at the Sheldon Road plant is unique in the Ford empire, Forthover said. However, if it works well there is a possibility of other plants following suit.

"So far it has gone great. We've had more suggestions in the three days this has been going on than we've had for the last three months."

Mary Sykes of Plymouth, a line worker who won a blue Ford windbreaker for her suggestion, agreed with the intent of the program.

"It does give you some motivation," she said. "I had thought of my suggestions a couple months ago. But I didn't turn them in until this week.

each category, three tickets for second place and one ticket for honorable mention.

There will be one judging category for pre-school ages and a separate category for each school grade level.

Each ticket is worth one free admission to the circus without any ticket purchases necessary.

A first-place winner will receive five $1.50 tickets for a total value of $7.50.

Children entering the coloring contest must put their name, address, phone number and grade number on the front or back of their entry.

Short story contestants must place the same information on the top right-hand corner of their entry.

CONTEST DEADLINE-TUESDAY, MARCH 28, 5 p.m.

Sardinian peasants' harsh life revealed in 'Padre Padrone'

"Padre Padrone" (my father, my master) is a film which soundly destroys bourgeois myths about the romance of peasant life, the attachment to the soil and the beauty of intimacy with nature.

It is a powerful story of the harsh life of the Sardinian peasants, the tyranny of their patriarchial society and the development of one human being who escapes its physical bondage.

Paolo and Vittorio Taviani directed this film (originally made for Italian television, which makes one realize what we're missing on American TV) based on the best-selling autobiography of Gavino Ledda.

Ledda is the battered boy of the movie. Yanked out of school at the age of six, he was put to work in his father's sheepfolds. He lived in the craggy pastureland as shut off from human companionship and communication as any convict in solitary confinement. Beatings from his father and occasional furtive meetings with boy-serfs like himself were his only human contacts.

THE TAVIANI brothers learned their lessons from the gritty realism of an earlier generation of Italian films. They honor their predecessors' committment to social commentary, but their film technique is more imaginative and includes fantasy, especially in their use of sound.

One memorable and moving episode occurs in the schoolhouse when young Gavino is pulled out by his father. The camera pans across the faces of the seated boys as we hear their inner thoughts.

Some assure themselves that this will never happen to them; others worry about when it will happen to them; and still others think about how they will kill their fathers rather than let it happen ot them.

In another remarkable episode, animal lust swells to a choral crescendo in a strangely humorous sequence that cuts from copulating animals to masturbating boys to stimulated fathers who rush home to bed down their eager

Although Ledda's autobiography presents a searing indictment, one that almost seems to call for a black and white film, flourishes such as the above reveal the directors' interpretations and license. The Tavianis literally take a more colorful view and a more objective one. They see the individual within the context of his society. Thus, even the brutis father is a victim of the harsh economic conditions of the Sardinian shepherd's life.

GAVINO LEDDA himself appears at the begining of the film, handing a wooden switch to the actor who will play his father. At the end, Ledda appears again and comments on what has happened to him.

Illiterate until the age of 20, he struggled out of his desolate, fear-ridden world, learned to read and write and eventually became a linguist and author. But his "success" story in not that slick. The price he paid for freedom was to high. Ledda talks about that at the end. "Padre Padrone" is the only film to ever win both major prizes at the Cannes Film Festival, the Grand Prize and the International Critics Prize. In Italian with English subtitles, it will be premiered by the Detroit Film Theatre at 7 and 9:30 p.m. Friday at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Arts 'fling' for kids gets $1,500

More than 300 Wayne County elementary and middle-school students will find out first-hand what art is all about later this year.

Spring Fling II, the sequel to last year's program, will give students from throughout the county a chance to experiment with various art forms—painting, graphics, creative writing and dance, for example.

"It's really an exciting concept," said Dr. Rae Levis, the program's coordinator. "They get to understand the interrelatedness of all the art

The Michigan Council for the Arts has given the Wayne County Intermediate School District $1,500 to put on the program. It is an increase of more than $1,000 from the amount which it provided last year.

State Sen. William Faust (D-Westalnd), a supporter of arts subsidies, said, "Last year students, teachers and representatives were exposed to an enjoyable and educational conference on the role of the arts in educa-

IT WON'T SEEM right without a women's dress shop on the corner of Main and Penniman. Harvi's has been there since 1966 and we are sorry to see Naomi Frederick and her crew go. Before Harvi's, it was Cassady's for

No one will forget Norma Cassady's end-of-the season sales. It was almost a social occasion. You met everyone you knew. On the first day of the sale, shoppers were lined up down the street and around the corner, waiting for the grand opening.

The store was closed the day before to prepare for the sale. But everyone had done their scouting earlier. They knew exactly what they wanted days before that marvelous shopping spree with its bargain prices

Mrs. Cassady opened her first dress shop in a little store on Penniman. It was 1933. The banks were closing and it was an inauspicious time to start a new business.

Before her marriage, Mrs. Cassady the novice proprietor.

Five years later, she moved to larger quarters on Penniman. Her new shop, which rented for $50 a month, was where the Statice Shop is now.

It was the second store in town to have fluorescent lighting and installation was completed at 3 a.m., six hours before the grand opening at 9

Cassady's was moved to the building on the corner six years later. In 1944, this was a comparative high rent district. Max Moon was so concerned about Mrs. Cassady's reaction when he informed her of the rental fee, he seated her safely at her desk. Then he announced the rent was $100 a month. During the next 22 years, it increased-but so did business. Women from the area continued to flock to Cassady's for their dresses, hats, purses and jewelry.

Mrs. Cassady once said that no matter how bad the times, she always had an ad in the Plymouth newspaper and her business survived, then flourished.

When she closed her shop in 1966. there was the reassurance another shop would open in its place. Jim Houk, owner of the building, says he can take time to be selective in finding a new tenant. "I don't want anything in there that will be detrimental to the downtown area

The week in Kacun on the Yucatan Peninsula was a birthday present to Nancy from her husband. They said it was lovely and remote, untouched by the usual touristy promotions.

"Whether you want to do a lot or do nothing," said Nancy, it was an ideal spot to vacation.

Last year's birthday party was a lot of fun, too. Her friends planned a wake for her 29th.

JEAN YESFORD of Tonquish Creek Manor celebrated her 75th birthday March 5 in the home of her granddaughter, Valerie Gildo of Canton Township.

Fifty relatives and friends were on hand for the surprise party. Her children are Annie Carlson of Plymouth; Margaret Fryer of Howell; James Yesford of Dania, Fla.; John Yesford of Herkimer, N.Y.; Agnes Grogan of Sterling Heights; Mary Lampron of Inkster; and George Yesford of Traverse City. She has 33 granchildren and 17 great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Yesford said she enjoyed the surprise party, "although, of course, all my family could not be there. I have a wonderful family."

Jean Yesford has been a widow for 27 years. In spite of poor health, she maintains her sense of humor and jokingly refers to her bursitis in one foot and failing eyesight.

A happy birthday to a fine lady.

SEVERAL LOCAL craftsmen will take part in the fifth annual Pioneer Arts and Crafts Fair in the Dexter High School gymnasium.

The Dexter Area Historical Society is sponsoring the fair as a benefit for the Dexter Area Museum. The show will be from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. March 18. Lunch will be available and there will be a bake sale. Among the prizes will be a quilt, a comhusk lady, a lamp and a "museum gift package."

Among the 50 artists and craftsmen will be Norb Battermann with his Shaker woodcraft, Grace Kabel with her macrame and basketry, and Theresa Ohno with her basketry. Admission will be $1 for adults.

The Plymouth club was sponsored by the Berkley Soroptimists. Catherine Henderson was the first president. Mrs. Trower recalled some of their early projects.

THE SOROPTIMISTS were the first to organize a senior citizens group in the Plymouth area. They provided boots, shoes and clothing to needy students, a television set to the training school on Sheldon Road, and a piano to the Easter Seal building.

They donated the first outside drinking faucet for baseball teams at Northville State Hospital.

When Opportunity House was built on the corner of Wing and Deer streets, the club took an interest in the residents and their welfare.

Their original donation of $500 has been followed by yearly contributions of $100 and parties.

. They award scholarships to graduating seniors from Plymouth and Northville high schools. The club has a medical fund for high school students which gives immediate assistance, cutting the wait for aid from welfare.

Fran Moore, past governor of District II, told the members they belonged to the largest International women's service club in the world.

It costs $18,250 a year to maintain a resident at the controversial Plymouth Center for Human Development.

The center, which is now under attack for alleged abuse of its residents, offers room, board, medical services, some training, and special equipment such as wheelchairs and crutches. Certain residents who are unable to leave the building also are given schooling at the center.

The cost of educating a freshman or sophomore at the University of Michigan is almost $7,000 a year, including room, board and tuition.

However, financial experts at both institutions cautioned about trying to compare the two costs. A.L. Fincher. assistant vice-president for state relations at U-M, questioned whether it is possible to make a valid comparison in

Don Sanders, reimbursement officer at the Plymouth center, pointed out that medical facilites charge more than universities. But he also called attention to the fact that the Plymouth center daily rate of $50 a day is much lower than that of Lafayette Clinic in Detroit, which charges more than $100

AT BOTH U-M and the Plymouth center, the state pays only a portion of the full costs. University room and board costs are paid by the student or his parents. They also pay tuition. The state then provides the remaining costs for maintaining the university.

At the center, the state comes up with about 55-60 per cent of the total cost of running the facility. The bulk of the remaining funds come from the federal government in Medicaid payments or through Social Security payments to residents, most of which are then passed on to the institution.

The residents also contribute if they have any insurance, veteran's benefits, or trust funds.

Parents also are expected to pay for their children who live at the center until they reach the age of 18. If they have more than one child in the facility they would only pay for a total of 18

The amount parents pay is based on a scale set up by the state, reported Sanders. "But if parents feel the amount charged doesn't fit their financial situation, they can request what we call a full determination of their ability to pay," he said.

A SIGNIFICANT section of Canton rests within the Wayne Westland School district. School children and parents had an opportunity recently to see their teachers perform outside the

"For Nature's Sake II," a musical variety show, was presented in the auditorium of Wayne Memorial High School March 2 and 3. Proceeds from the event benefit the district's nature center, Sassafras Trails.

Master of ceremonies was Frank Higgins, assistant superintendent for curriculum. The fanciful nymph introducing each act was Terry Wood, a school board secretary.

Coach Floyd Carter, playing guitar, sang "Ventura Highway" and "Best of My Love." He was assisted by bass guitarist and former Wayne High School student Dave Shelton.

Both played background for Karen Paling's dance interpretation of "Don't It Make My Brown Eyes Blue." Mrs. Paling is a physical education instructor at Wayne Memorial.

The clear vocal tones of Mary Browe, a teacher of Headstart and Sparky programs, were enjoyed by the audience as was the clarinet solo of music instructor Richard Adler.

The team of Agnes Greene and Frank Higgins delighted everyone with their humorous reading of "I'm Herbert." Science teacher Dave Bydlowski gave an equally fine presentation of folk music.

WILDWOOD Elementary School teacher, Ron Puchalski, delivered an impressive saxophone solo. Stepping in at the last minute for Judith Premin was singer Kar Grissmer, an accomplished vocalist.

"The Educators," Adams Junior High teachers Jim Black, Alan Freeborn, Al Garrett, Jim Horton and Lloyd Preston, sang country tunes. The audience responded by clapping in time with the music.

Richard Alder, Randy Blouse, Charles Heard and Ron Puchalski provided accompaniment for many of the acts as well as performing in "The

The behind-the-scenes people are too numerous to mention. Each volunteered hours of valuable time to make the show a hit.

The show was a great way to spend an evening and at the same time raise funds to enrich a school program. The bulk of this year's proceeds will be used to purchase microscopes for the nature center.

We're Glad You Asked

James H. Will President

HARRY J. WILL Funeral Homes, Inc.

Is It Wrong to Cry?

When a friend or loved one dies, it is only natural for your emotions to give way to grief-and for you to cry.

Tears are therapeutic in more ways than many of us realize. They give us an emotional outlet, providing us with specific physical action we can perform. At the realization that the loved one is gone, tears may come easily for both adult and child—and this is good! Children may even be encouraged to let out their feelings of grief by crying.

Most do not need extra encouragement since it is so natural to weep in sorrow. It is not unmasculine to cry at the death of a loved one or a dear friend. It's a misconception that "big boys shouldn' cry." This is all a part of the early 20th Century training in the old school of the "stiff upper lip" and "grin and bear it." If there is an emotional hurt, then the pain should be recognized, acknowledged, and expresses—in this case, through tears.

Your questions and comments on this and other subjects are welcome-in private or publicly through this column.

Competition in the World

Ready for the electrics?

Electric cars are being hailed as having a place in the future of transportation. But how soon we will be driving them depends upon a breakthrough in battery development.

General Motors executives believe the breakthrough is imminent and that battery-powered cars will be on the market in less than 10 years.

According to GM, significant progress is being made toward the elimination of such current problems as limited performance, weight, frequency of recharges and the high cost of the lead-acid, maintenance-free traction batteries now considered the best at hand.

Zinc-nickel oxide batteries are just around the corner. GM has set up a pilot line to continue its development and testing while experimenting with a styling seatbuck (upper) and a clay model are being studied by GM engineers. The seat-buck permits examination and experimmen-tation with such items as interior dimensions

Two concepts in electric car configuration,

Lithium-sulfide batteries which are considerably smaller and lighter but more powerful than conventional batteries aren't exected to be mass produced for 10-15 years. GM's current battery-powered vehicle, designated the XP512E-XP for experimental, E for electric-carries 12 lead-acid batteries. It carries two passengers and has space behind the single seat for small packages such as groceries.

The XP512E has a range of about 50 miles between recharges at 30 mph. It has reached a top speed of more than 40 mph under controlled conditions on a test track and can accelerate from a stop to 30 mph in 12 seconds. It is purely experimental; no price has been set.
