Farmer's crop finds market in the mideast

Most people think of Canton farmers as truck farmers. They think of people who raise a little sweet corn and muskmelon to sell at a farmers' market or fruit stand

Don M. Korte, of 6934 Beck, put that misconception to rest this month when he met with high-ranking officials in the European Economic Community (EEC). He hobnobbed with Egypt's minister of agriculture at another

And he came back to Canton last week, beaming about the reception the bean farmers received in the world market.

Korte and 34 other soybean farmers made up the delegation organized by the American Soybean Association to drum up more business for the soybean. The cost of the two-week trip was underwritten by Elanco Products Co., the makers of a weed-killing her-

No one in the world sits down to eat a bowl of soybeans. But soybean oil, the main ingredient in products such as Crisco oil and Parkay margarine, is being bought in large quantities by Egypt, according to Korte. And Iran was interested in increasing its import of soybean meal to fatten cattle and feed chickens.

"It's quite a process crushing soybeans to extract the oil," Korte said. "Egypt has no crushing units, so we sell them bulk basic soybean oil. Their need is 300,000 metric tons for their people. Egypt grows a lot of cotton and has cottonseed oil. But Egyptians are now demanding the higher quality, better-tasting soybean oil. Korte says soybeans are an underrated and very flexible foodstuff.

"It's a premium oil without an image," Korte complains. "Companies that use soybean oil will say 'made of 100 per cent vegetable oil' when they're talking about soybean

THE HIGHLIGHT of the two-week trip had to be Egypt, Korte said.

Talk about the cradle of civilization," aid Korte. "There's so much history there that dates back so far, they haven't had time to decipher

Describing a trip to the pyramids and a look at the tombs, Korte said "You just stand there in awe-in awe of the technological advances that were made back then."

The minister of agriculture in Egypt treated the U.S. farmers royally, he Korte said he's traced the route of his soybeans in the past and found that some of his crop was shipped to Amsterdam, Holland and Tokyo, Japan. He either deals with a commodity broker in Detroit or takes his beans to Toledo's harbor installation to sell his product at the highest price he can garner.

Korte set aside 300 acres for soybean production last year, along with rows for sweetcorn and muskmelon.

Soybean yields an average of 29 bushels per acre and sold for $5 a bushel at harvest time in 1977. "Bushel-wise we had our highest average vield here last year." Korte said. "It was somewhere between 10 to 15,000 bushels of soybeans."

By CRAIG PIECHURA

Like many other communities in Michigan, Canton had to go overseas to find companies willing to insure its police force. Not only do the township's insurers, two Milan, Italy firms, charge a lot for protection but neither is licensed to sell insurance in Mich-

This is completely within the law, but the state would be powerless to intervene if either company failed to pay off a legitimate false arrest or accident claim.

Carl Parsell, executive director of the Police Officers Association of Michigan (POAM), says police departments are insurance untouchables, much like surgeons.

Parsell, former Canton treasurer, is pulling the collective pantleg of state legislators this week trying to get them to create a state insurance "pool" that would guarantee false arrest and liability coverage to all police departments in the state.

"The same conditions that plagued Michigan doctors in their attempts to obtain malpractice insurance now face all law enforcement agencies in Michigan in their attempt to get liability insurance coverage for their officers." Parsell said.

"State officials should act with dispatch in order to prevent a chaotic situation from developing," Parsell continued. "Can you imagine police officers not getting involved in protecting the public because they are without (insurance) protection?'

Parsell cites the example of three county sheriff's departments-Oakland, Genesee, and St. Clair-that bought insurance from a company in Bermuda when domestic insurance firms either turned them down or offered exorbitant rates.

The Bermuda firm is not licensed or approved to write insurance in Michigan by the state insurance commission.

"Because insurance companies are refusing to renew or write false arrest and liability covereage, law enforcement agencies are being forced to seek coverage from questionable mailorder insurance companies outside the country," Parsell said.

CANTON TOWNSHIP police officers are insured by two Italian firms-Riunione Adriatica DiSicurta and the Bellafonte Insurance Co. of Milan.

Nancy Zalewski, a corporate record investigator with the Michigan Insurance Commission, said Wednesday that Bellafonte is not licensed in Michigan but has been approved to write insurance because the firm meets the state's qualifications. Bellafonte's U.S. headquarters are in Ohio.

The other firm, Riunione Adriatica DiSicurta, is neither licensed nor approved to write insurance in Michigan, said Ms. Zalewski. This is not illegal, she explained, but it can be "The only problem would be if the company started giving them (Canton) problems on paying off claims," Ms. Zalewski said. "The state would not be involved in any way if the company is not licensed or approved.

$20,000 study on farms rapped

A study expected to steer Canton board members onto a path that would either preserve or develop the township's agricultural land has only bred confusion and the obligation to pay a $20,000 to $25,000 bill thus far.

The first segment of the report, presented by planning consultant George Peek Tuesday night, compares the 30year cost to taxpayers of buying $15.2 million in development rights from farmers to the cost of providing municipal services if the land were fully developed.

Most Canton Township board members were clearly disappointed in the 130-page mathematical computer printout that made up the report. Some said the document in its present form was useless.

Supervisor Harold Stein expressed hope, however, that the second portion of the report being compiled by the Seidman & Seidman accounting firm will analyze the pages of figures presented by planner Peek and tell Canton board members what they want to

The Seidman study is expected to cost the township an additional $10,000 and bring the total cost of the completed study to $30,000-$35,000.

The Seidman report, which should be presented to the board at its April 11 meeting, will show the financial effect that buying farmers' development rights will have.

THE SEGMENT of the study conducted by Peek and the planning firm of Wade, Trim & Associates computed the yearly budget of the township over the next 30 years at different housing growth rates. A commitment to preserve or develop the township's farmland also was taken into consideration. The report did not take into consideration the impact that development of the farmland would have on the township's three school districts because of the resulting increase of school-age children. It did not determine the increased tax burden on township residents who would need to build additional schools.

Instead, the study concentrated on the cost to the township of providing municipal services to a partially or fully developed 36-square-mile area.

With a "moderate" new-home construction rate, for example, Peek figured the township would have an operating budget of $19 million and a population of 106,000 by the year 1998 if residential, commercial and industrial developments were constructed on 4,900 acres of present agricultural

The township would have to spend $598 to provide municipal services to each household in 1998, planners figured, if the farmland was developed.

The cost of providing municipal services in 1998 would drop to $578 per household if township officials decided to preserve the farmland in the west and new homes were constructed at a "moderate" rate. According to Peek's estimates, the township would then have a population of 102,000 and an operating budget of $18 million.

BUT NOT EVEN PEEK seemed to know what light the study's findings could shed on the board's indecision to buy farmers' development rights to preserve the agricultural community. "I have trouble dealing with all these numbers, too," Peek admitted. Township board members and residents who attended Tuesday's meeting blasted Peek for his failure to assess the impact that development or nondevelopment of farmland would have on the school systems.

Board members noted that most taxes paid by residents go to the schools, and full development of the township could increase those school tax rates. They unofficially asked Peak to assess the impact full development would have on the school.

"People invariably want to know 'What is it going to cost me?' " said Clerk John Flodin. "It seems you have (Continued on page 4A)

Cop hiring suit in court today

Today is the day former police commander Carl Silvers and the irate Canton patrol officers go to court with a lawsuit against the township's proposed hiring procedure.

The show-cause hearing will be 2:30 p.m. today in Wayne County Circuit Judge Horace Gilmore's courtroom. An injunction prohibiting the township from filling four full-time sergeant jobs and 10 full-time patrol officer jobs is in effect.

Silvers and the Canton Police Officers Association (CPOA) are taking the position that they are entitled to four of the sergeant positions because they've been serving in that role in a part-time capacity. Further, the CPOA is fighting to prevent its members from having to take three tests the township is requiring of the 10 fulltime patrol officers it hires.

Silvers will be represented by his attorney, Andrew Muth; the CPOA has retained James Garber. Bert Burgoyne is the township's legal counsel.

IT WAS BURGOYNE who advised Canton trustees to require six tests of new officers-including three exams the CPOA finds "redundant."

The three tests the CPOA finds objectionable are a civil service-type exam, an agility test and a medical check-up demanded of all township employees. CPOA President John Longridge said all of Canton's 23 certified police officers passed even more demanding tests at the police academy within the past 18 months. Those test results could be used to rank in-house applicants, Longridge says. The three new tests would delay 24hour police protection for another six months, according to Longridge.

Silvers brought the lawsuit against the township and the CPOA intervened, telling the court the CPOA membership's interests would be affected by any decision made on Silvers' plea.

Silvers maintains, through his attorney, that the commander job he held when the force was formed was eliminated due to political considerations of current Supervisor Harold Silvers claims Stein eliminated the commander job because the appointment was made by former supervisor Robert Greenstein.

Silvers is a retired 25-year veteran of the Detroit Police Department. He works during the day at the Detroit Post Office in security and at night with the Canton police department.

The celebration of Mildred Field's 71st birthday was a special affair this year for the students and faculty at Field Elementary School in Canton.

Highlighting the annual birthday observance for the lady for whom the school was named was the presentation of a framed portrait of Miss Field to the school.

The presentation was made by the school's Parent-Teacher Organization during an assembly Tuesday after-

Larry Miller, principal, instituted the annual celebration as a way of acquainting students with Miss Field's values and accomplishments. As with all successful birthday parties, there were cards made by the students and mailed to Miss Field.

The students sang "Happy Birthday" at the assembly and then returned to their classrooms for birth-

The portrait was made from a recent photogragh of Miss Field. Stu Rabin, fifth grade teacher at Field, donated his time and talent to make the enlargement, Mrs. Ann Williams, PTO secretary, and Mrs. Fran Duvall, parent, spent several hours coordinating a frame and a mat.

The portrait will be on permanent display in the school's lobby.

During the assembly, birthday greeting messages were given by students Heather Helton, Jenny Stewart, Angela Danelli and Lori LaValle. Kathy Hoffman recited Miss Field's creed and Matt Rivard shared her philosophy.

Mrs. Anne Williamson, secretary of the Field PTO, presents a portrait of Mildred Field to the school. Students accepting are Wayne Spears and Juanita Pirie.

How schools make millages more palatable

By EMORY DANIELS

The defeat this week of a 21-mill tax renewal by Dearborn voters sent shock waves through the educational community, reminding school administrators that a tax revolt is still alive and thriving.

Dearborn Public Schools had a proposal on Monday's ballot seeking renewal of 21 mills and an additional 3.75 mills for operating. The renewal and added millage were lumped together in one package, and voters defeated the issue by a resounding 2-1

The vote has prompted some administrators, who haven't already done so, to rethink the strategy of lumping renewals together and mixing renewals with requests for new millage.

Plymouth-Canton Community Schools administrators have avoided the strategy of putting all their renewal mills into one basket, but they have combined a renewal and a request for added millage into one proposal for the April 27 election.

ABOUT A DECADE ago, some school districts in the Detroit metropolitan area began to time their millage renewals so the lion's share would fall due at one time.

The idea was to force voters into a 'do or die" frame of mind and obtain passage, rather than risking defeat of renewals of smaller amounts

In more recent years, there has been a trend for school districts to combine requests for new millage with renewals. Because most voters accept renewals as necessary, and recognize no added tax in involved, the strategy was to win approval for added millage by including it in a renewal proposal.

Dearborn combined both strategies for Monday's election, with devastating results when voters said "no." The school district the next day had to send layoff notices to almost all its administrators and teaching staff, and is facing such major cutbacks that a reorganization of the district may be necessary.

IN PLYMOUTH-CANTON Community Schools, a deliberate attempt has been made to avoid having a large hunk of renewal millage fall due at one election.

Instead, the school district's "strategy" is to spread out renewals so that a tax election is necessary every other year instead of once a year. The intent is to reduce election costs as well as to allow administrators to do some planning with assurance funds needed to operate will be available at least one vear out.

The renewal and added millage requests have been combined for April 27 but not with any intent of playing games with voters, says Florence Beier, administrative assistant for community relations. "In fact, we put the issues into one proposal in reaction to what we feel voters have been telling us-that although they may not want an expanded program, they do want to maintain existing programs. Basically, that's what the April 27 proposal is—a "maintenance" proposal to be for 3, 6½ and 8 mills. maintain the existing level.'

A COUPLE YEARS ago, members of the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education did discuss the option of spreading out millage renewals in such a way that 20 mills or more would fall due at one time. But trustees rejected the idea as an unwise millage strategy and as bad financial planning.

Instead the administration is timing renewals in such a way that they come due every other year instead of every year. Based on the present plan, the highest number of renewal mills which will fall due on any one year is 10.36 in the spring of 1981. Other renewals will

"One reason for having renewals come up every other year is to save election costs," explained Mrs. Beier. "But a more important reason is to allow the administration and school board to plan. We have a $36 million budget now, and if we only know one year out what our millage will be, it will be very difficult to do any meaningful planning.

'The idea of scaring voters into approving millage by putting having a large number of mills in one proposal is an old tactic. We don't play games with voters, but try to find out what they want in their schools and put a proposal on the ballot which meets those desires."

ON APRIL 27 the district is seeking voter approval of 3 mills for renewal and 11/2 new mills for operating.

"Everything the community has been saying, through polls, PACTS and other advisory committees, and from residents speaking directly to the board at meetings, suggests that residents wish to maintain the quality of the school district.

"And so we prepared a budget that would have allowed us to offer the same quality program to the students here next year. We then trimed $500,000 from that proposed budget, and so there is no 'fat' in the budget.

"When we looked at the financial resources needed to just maintain what now exists, we discovered it would take 11/2 additional mills along with the 3-mill renewal.

"The 11/2 mills really takes care of growth and inflation in the school district. It's not for any new programs, just to maintain what we have," added Mrs. Beier. "That's why I refer to it as a maintenance millage.

"Some school districts in the area are asking for five or six added mills, so you can see our request for 11/2 new mills isn't really very much.

"In summary, because renewal of the three expiring mills plus 11/2 mills

President Carter waffles on local student's question

By PATRICK TOUHEY

What would you say to Jimmy Carter if you had the opportunity to ask him any question you wanted?

Plymouth Township resident Paul Stanton wanted to know if the president had any plans for curbing inflation. And, as it turned out, Carter dodged the question.

"I guess my mistake was asking him a two-part question," Stanton observed in retrospect. "He concentrated on the second question without answering the Stanton was one of 200 college students working on campus radios and newspapers who were selected to attend a presidential press conference in Washington, D.C., earlier this month.

Stanton is a senior at Spring Arbor College and the news director for the 3.000-watt campus radio station.

Of the 200 media people representing colleges and universities across the country, Paul was one of the 10 who were recognized by President Carter and got to ask their question.

AND IT WASN'T just blind luck. Stanton did his homework and came to the conference ready for action.

"As a broadcaster I always wondered how the president selected reporters to ask him questions at those news conferences. So while I was in Washington last year, I talked to the head of the United Press International (UPI) Washington bureau, and he gave me a few tips," Paul said.

Basically the advice Stanton got boiled down to: come to the conference with a prepared list of questions, try to sit in the front row, and be the first one to raise your hand.

"It was good advice. I had my questions all set, and I got a seat toward the front of the room. And then when President Carter opened for questions, I jumped up and down, waved my arms and made faces at him.

"Finally, he called on me," Stanton said. "I couldn't believe it. There I was standing 10 feet away from the president of the United States, and he was giving me that grin of his.'

At first, Stanton felt a little intimidated but he put his head down and plowed into his question. Did the president have a clear-cut policy on cutting back inflation, and did he think a man recently appointed to a government economic office would do anything to stem spiraling

Well, the second portion of the question gave Carter a chance to wax eloquent on his recent appointment without specifically saying whether he had a policy on inflation.

"He started talking about how he had every confidence in the new man and things like that. But he jumped over the first part of the question,' Stanton said.

"I thought about it for a while and decided I wasn't going to let him dodge me that easily, so I interrupted him and told him he wasn't answering my question.

"He stopped talking while I repeated the question, and then he started talking about inflation again. But when he finished, I still didn't know whether he had a policy on inflation."

Stanton, who plans on finishing his bachelor's degree in business administration this year, got his start in radio at the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park station, WSDP, where he was local news director.

"When I graduated from high school, I had to make the decison of what to major in. I decided on business because I knew a lot of kids with broadcast majors who couldn't get jobs," he said.

Enough of the eulogy. Don't get me wrong, I still hate cars and would rather be sucked to work in a pneumatic tube. But until this new car starts disintegrating, I'll direct my anger at the insurer of automobiles, not the car itself.

THIS IS NOT a remark I make lightly or without

When I went to school in Lansing-the home of the campus police, East Lansing Police, Lansing Police, State Police and Ingham County Sheriffs-I racked up four tickets in the space of two years. Police figured anyone driving a car that looked that bad deserved a ticket.

So I was forced to get insurance from the bad driver pool, a murky lagoon inhabited by off-brand insurance companies. This year I crawled out of that pool because old points drop off.

But in those dark days I carried insurance from the redoubtable Old Reliable Fireman's Insurance Co.; the Cavalier Insurance Co., a title that summed up their attitude toward their clients; and finally, the Dairyland Insurance Co. I think the latter's motto was: "Milk 'em for all

Because I felt that anyone who stole my beat-up Duster would be getting what they deserved. I didn't carry any theft coverage on the car. A month later I got a call from the insurance

Cars, trucks go on auction block

Get out your cash and get ready for

Canton Township has auction block plans for an assortment of used cars, trucks, DPW machinery and office supplies that have worn out their welcome at township hall.

Although the date for the auction has onot been set, finance director Mike Gorman expects the sale will be scheduled sometime in April or May in the DPW yard, next to township hall on Geddes near Michigan.

Treasurer Ahne Bradley said supervisors of each township department were asked to contribute items no longer needed by employees for the sale. Proceeds will go into the general fund or water department budget.

Items for the auction block include a 1960 Ford truck, a 1956 Dodge truck, a 1970 Ford pickup, a 1971 Ford van, a 1973 Plymouth, a 1974 Ford, a 1970 van, a 1973 van, automobile tires, assorted tools, a welder, desks, chairs, a cash register, an adding machine and assorted parts for tractors and DPW machinery.

Mrs. Bradley said the cars, trucks and vans were used by employees of

"There isn't anything to even comment on," Yack said of the report.

Flodin declined comment on the worth of the study until the Seidman & Seidman report is ready.

"But without evaluating the cost to the schools, the value of the report is marginal," he said. "If the $25,000 spent for the Wade, Trim study turns out to be not well spent, then I admit I made a mistake in voting for it.'

how much money the township will make on the auction. "You never know how much some-

Burr said Canton was forced to buy what is called "surplus line" insurance because domestic policies "are drying up.'

The township pays the two Italian firms a total of $25,486 for insurance on officers and protection against law-

Bellefonte is paid $16,000 yearly for $100,000 worth of liability coverage on each officer. Adriatica is paid $9,486 annually for $200,000 worth of additional protection, covering such occurrences as false arrest.

That price works out to be more than $700 in insurance premiums per officer. In 1976, the year the Canton police department formed, Canton paid approximately $100 insurance per POAM executive director Parsell says he's going to ask state representatives to "legislate morality" by forcing insurance companies to take on some of the less profitable accounts such as police and fire protection.

Agent Burr said the municipal insurance market is looking so bad, cities and townships may have to self-insure or form a municipal insurance pool, as Parsell urges.

ORDINANCE NO. 78-3

CITY OF PLYMOUTH.

MICHIGAN

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND SECTION 8.1 OF CHAPTER 98 OF

TITLE VIII, BUILDING REGULATIONS, OF THE CODE OF

Section 1. Section 8.1 of Chapter 98 of Title VIII, General Building Regulations, is

8.1 Adoption of Codes by Reference. Pursuant to the provisions of Section amended, the Basic Building Code, 1978 Edition, and any accumulative supplements thereto, as promulgated and published by the Building Officials

Conference of America, Inc. and the Housing Law of Michigan, are hereby adopted by references by the City of Plymouth as herein modified for the purpose of regulating the erection, construction, enlargement, equipment, alteration, repair, moving, removal, demolition, conversion, use, height, area and maintenance of all buildings and structures in the City of Plymouth.

Section 2. This ordinance shall become operative and effective on the 11th day of

Made, passed and adopted by the City Commission of the City of Plymouth, Mich-

 September 1976, a 4.75 additional levy approved for five years through 1980 with almost 50 per cent voting •April 1977, a five-mill renewal approval for six years through 1982 with almost 52 per cent voting yes.

With the expiration of the above proposals, the future renewal millage elections schedule thus far is: Spring 1978, three mills for five years; spring 1979, 61/2 mills for six years; spring 1981, 10.36 mills for six years; spring 1983, eight mills for six years; and spring 1985, 61/2 mills for six years.

Unless new millage is added, the cycle would continue with renewal requests for eight mills in 1988, and for 61/2 mills in 1990.

In 1977-78, the total school tax levy was 38 mills ($38 per $1,000 state equalized valuation) of which 33.76 was for operation and 4.24 for debt retirement on building bonds.

On April 27 the district also is asking voter approval of a special 1/2-mill operating levy for building improvements and maintenance for 10 years.

If voters approve the 41/2-mill and 1/2mill proposal, the total levy for 1978-79 would be about 40.25 mills depending upon how much debt retirement actually has to be levied to pay off bonds. In 1976-77, the total levy was 39.95 mills.

In nearby districts, Northville Public Schools is asking voters for 51/2 added mills for a total levy of 45.42, Livonia is asking for 5.7 added mills for a total levy of 46.96, and Wayne-Westland next year will levy 44.82 mills.

Ham operators cited by county

Richard Hill of Adams Street, Plymouth, was honored recently by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners for helping people in need during the snow emergency created by the Jan. 26 blizzard.

Hill, who operates WB8ZIY, was awarded a certificate of appreciation for public service rendered as a member of the Wayne County Amateur Radio Public Service Corps.

The certificate was awarded as a result of a general resolution honoring corps members which was unanimously approved by the board of commissioners in February.

WHILE MOST PEOPLE either struggled to get home or simply stayed at home during the blizzard, the members of the Radio Corps fought to maintain communications between rescue units and Red Cross Shelters across several nearby coun-

The Ham network worked closely with the Wayne County Office of Emergency Preparedness for four days after the storm began trying to crash through 10 and 15-foot drifts to reach snowbound families shivering in their cars or at home without food. heat, or electricity.

The volunteers had mobile radio crews scattered through Wayne, Washtenaw and Monroe counties riding with National Guard units to reach stranded families.

Stressing the importance of the Ham network in providing "vital communications during the snow emergency," the county board recommended that the certificates be awarded to members of the Radio Corps "for their outstanding community service.

Sponsoring the resolution, which cited many of the year-round community services rendered by the corps with a special emphasis on their efforts during the "Great Blizzard of '78." were John Barr, former board chairman, and commissioners Thomas Presnell (D-Westland), Alex Pilch (D-Dearborn), Loretta Young (D-Detroit) and Clemens Bykowski (D-Detroit)

Courting the middle class

Tax break for college is proposed

By MICHAEL MATUSZEWSKI

Congress is courting the middle

It is trying to stem a rising tide of discontent among taxpayers who pay the most of taxes.

"What do they get in return?" asked U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth). "Now's our chance to give them some benefits. Until now, all the benefits have gone to other people in other areas," he continued.

Congress is trying to give middle income taxpayers a hand in putting their children through college. Until now, most federal aid has gone to low income families.

THERE IS disagreement, however, over what form this aid will take.

Rep. William Ford (D-Taylor) and President Jimmy Carter have teamed up to back a proposal to expand current financial aid programs to include the children of middle income fami-

Another proposal, which has the stong support of Rep. William Broomfield (R-Birmingham) would grant income tax credits of up to $500 to middle income families.

AN ATTEMPT by the Carter Administration to muscle its proposal through the House of Representatives failed recently by a 156-218 vote.

Democratic leaders, hoping to advance an aid package without income tax credits for tuition, brought the bill to the floor under a procedure that prevented any amendments.

Those representatives from the Observer & Eccentric area voting for the immediate adoption of the Carter-Ford financial aid plan were: David Bonior (D-Mt. Clemens), William Brodhead (D-Detroit), James Blanchard (D-Pleasant Ridge) and Ford.

Pursell and Broomfield opposed immediate adoption. "The Carter Administration gave us their program on a 'take it or leave it' Broomfield said. "Congress basis," left it.'

Pursell concurred: "They just tried to pull a fast one on us.'

Despite the defeat of the Carter-Ford proposal, the issue of middle income aid is not dead. Supporters of tuition tax credits and expanded financial aid programs hope to have the programs ready to roll in September.

Pursell attacked the side-effects of the Carter-Ford plan. "It would create a whole new bureaucracy in HEW (the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare). It's already the most expansive bureaucracy in the whole country," he said. According to Pursell, the income tax credit plan, which would cost $1.2 bilion in the first year, would be easier to administer and would reduce the amount of red tape with which parents have to contend. "It's just a simple check off on your income tax form," Pursell said.

FORD DISAGREED.

The Carter-Ford proposal, which would pump $1.2 billion more into existing aid programs, recommends removing income restrictions from most current financial aid programs.

The Ford-Carter recommendations include:

•Removing all income limits from the National Guaranteed Student Loan program.

· Making families with annual earnings of up to $26,000 eligible for Basic Educational Opportunity Grants. The maximum grant under this program would be raised from $1,600 to $1,800.

· Expanding the College Work-Study Program. · Expanding the Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant Program.

"OUR BASIC intent, " Ford said, " is to give students the opportunity to put together a financial aid package to cover the cost of their education

"In the past targeting the financial aid at low income groups has been very successful," he said.

"Believe me, you'll get the most bang from your buck by targeting your money," he continued.

Ford added that under an expansion of current financial aid programs, "virtually everybody" would have the chance to get a community college education for free.

"Annual tuition at a junior college averages $300. Under the tuition credit, you could only claim half that amount, $150. But by putting together a financial aid package, you could probably cover all that tuition cost," he said.

Edison has finally wised up

Remember how your parents used to pay the monthly bills?

Legend has it that the head of the household would stand at the top of the stairs with all the bills in hand, toss them down, and walk to the bottom of the stairs. He would then pick them up, starting with the one on the first step and working upwards.

He used that method because all the bills couldn't be paid out of an existing month's income. The bill-payer didn't want to cheat any of his creditors, however, and so he relied on the "toss 'em down the stairs' method.

The main idea was equity. No conscious choice was made as to which creditor wouldn't be paid-it was all left to chance.

In a crude sort of way, random choice somehow equated to justice. Although crude, the system apparently helped the debtor deal with any bad feelings he had for not paying all debts

WHEN I STARTED out married life and was faced with the problem of monthly bills. I was forced to skip this method because I was living in a one-story home without stairs.

And so I developed a system which could be described as the "kick and punt" method of paying bills. I collect the bills as I receive them, and store them in a drawer-unopened. I don't pay the bills as they arrive so that I can maintain the minimum balance needed in my account to get free

When the fourth week of the month comes around, the bills come out of the drawer. Checks are made out for all bills—except one—and the bills are "kicked out of the house and into the mail box. The one bill I withhold is the monthly mortgage payment.

The mortgage payment I hold onto for five more days, "punt" it into the mail box on Sunday and hope it doesn't come down into my account before my next deposit is made. So far my punts have been high enough to allow my deposits to be recorded before the mortgage check lands.

THE KICK AND PUNT method has worked very well-for me.

But it has caused problems for some of my creditors who want payments made at a certain date each month. Because of my system, these creditors never get my payments when they want because they continually ask for it at the wrong time.

Detroit Edison is a good example. For years Edison has had problems with its billing cycle. Even though my paying habits have been regular for years, Edison has been unable to adjust its billing cycle with my paying cycle. I had thought, in this age of computers, that it would be a simple task forthern to record the time my payments are received, recognize the pattern, and then adjust the billing cycle accordingly.

And so each month I receive an Edison bill which shows a "past due' amount which really isn't past due. I know I paid it, and by now Edison did too, but it was too late because the new bill had already gone out before the old payment had come in.

So for years I ignored their "past due" recordings, and they ignored by payment cycle. Until this month.

When I got my last bill a notice was enclosed that beginning next month my Edison bill would fall due a week later than it now does. Great! Edison finally has adjusted its billing cycle to my paying cycle. No more will my future bills include "past due"

Occupational therapy is upgraded at Schoolcraft

Schoolcraft College is upgrading its occupational therapy program, starting a program in how to manage a beauty shop and beginning a technical drafting certificate program.

All three curriculum changes were approved March 23 by the board of trustees based on recommendations from Dean Thad Diebel and the applied sciences faculty.

THE OCCUPATIONAL therapy assistant program is being upgraded from a one-year certificate program to a two-year associate degree program.

Masline Horton, instructor-coordinator, said "the trend is to make these programs into associate degree programs across the country. "Further, the student will be able to

Between mothers

By NANCY WALLS SMITH

Gotta get this column out quick because I'm between mothers. That is, my husband's mother just left last night after a three day visit and my mother is due here tomorrow to honor us with a four-day visit.

Notes of sympathy and condolences may be sent in care of this newspaper.

Oh, my poor little nerves. I feel like I'm suffering from some sort of jet lag, trying to get my mind off how my mother-in-law expects me to act and get into gear in preparation for my own mother's gentle barbs. ("Don't you ever dust the top of your door frames?"

Don't get me wrong. I think they're both just absolute dears. But I don't think I could maintain a flowing conversation for eight hours with my own husband, so just what does one do to entertain one's mother-in-law while hubby's away at work?

She got to watch me wash the dishes a lot. There are talkers and there are listeners in this world. That fact is one of the very few pieces of wisdom I have acquired during my 31 years on this earth. My mother-in-law is a listener. Unfortunately, I, too, am a listener. So what do two listeners do to wile away the hours? We sit and stare across our coffee cups at each other.

I say, "So, how has the weather been in Ohio?" She says, "It snowed." I say, "It snowed a lot here

ONLY NINE HOURS and 15 minutes of this fascinating repartee until my husband gets home. Makes for a long day

My mother-in-law is not one to criticize, yet she can give you looks that would wither even the most confident hostess. It's as if she's saying, "Ah, come on; this isn't really the gravy you've prepared for dinner. It's just some kind of joke. Now bring on the real gravy."

My own mother is a little more direct. She'll just blurt out, "My goodness! This tastes awful. Who taught you to cook?"

"You did, mom."

"Well, I certainly did a lousy job." "Can't argue with that."

I am of the opinion that the Powers That Be did not intend for two women to live under the same roof together-ever! And two women who think they're in charge of the same kitchen (be they mother and daughter, mother and mother-in-law, etc.) is asking for the kind of trouble that could equal the latest Muhammad Ali fiasco.

I hear questions like, "You're not going to use that pot, are you?" "Do you always peel potatoes that way?" "Why do you have the burners turned up so high?" "Do you think it's good for the children to eat so many starches?" "Why are you making a highball at 4 in the afternoon?"

The answer to the last question should be self-

Having both of these ladies as house guests in the same week is a true test of my stamina. I have a feeling I'm going to fail the test.

ONCE, WHEN I was young and bold, I had them over at the exact time (ah, to be so brave and foolish-it only comes with youth). At this particular time. Jason, my firstborn, was about 3 or 4 days old. I was, naturally, greatly inexperienced in the art of motherhood, open to any and all suggestions.

I was sitting in the rocking chair, minding my own business, patting my new son's back trying to raise a burp our of him. My mother-in-law walked into the room and said, "Goodness, Nancy, you'll never get a burp out of that child that way. You're patting him like he's made of glass!" She left the room and I continued with my original patting

My own mother walked in and shrieked, "My goodness, Nancy, what are you trying to do? Beat the child to death?!

The moral of this all being: You can please a mother-in-law sometimes, and a mother less often that that.

Excuse me while I dust the tops of my door frames.

The Stroller

Do clothes make the man?

Traditionally Easter Sunday ha. been the day when women step out in the latest fashions, strut down the avenues in Easter parades, and focus attention on their new hats, dresses and even the latest in footwear, purses and shoulder bags.

But something unusual happened this year. It rained.

There were no parades down the avenues that have been made famous by song and story. For a change, some of the spotlight was turned to the great changes men's fashions through the years.

Too disappointed even to look out his window, The Stroller just sat back and recalled the many changes in men's styles he has seen in the passing years.

IT SEEMS almost like a wild dream that there was a time when men wore winged collars to the highest society affairs. If you didn't wear the winged collar and the cravat tie, you were sort of fowned upon.

Among the poorer classes-to which The Stroller held membership-the male of the species wore celluloid collars. Yes, they were washable. When a fellow wanted to dress up for an evening, he took a cloth and scrubbed the

For other wearing apparel, the boys wore bloomers, which later were dignified by being referred to as "plusfours." There were no such things as slacks in those days. And in contrast to the longhair today, it was fashionable to raise what was called a pompadour. This was done by retiring at night with a towel placed over your head to hold the hair back. In many cases, Vaseline was used to help keep the hair in

But in all cases, a fellow never went out of an evening to any sort of gathering without a tie and a jacket. Those were the days when the feeling was that clothes make the man.

THE STROLLER well remembers the day he was given his first out-oftown assignment as a member of The Detroit Free Press sports staff. He was called into the managing editor's office where kindly old Phil Reid, one of the old school of journalists, talked to him like a father.

"I want you to be clean-shaven every day," he said, "and I want you to wear pressed trousers, a clean shirt and tie, and stay at the best hotel.

"Remember," he went on, "when you leave this office, you are the show window of the paper. We will be judged by your appearance and the manner in which you behave."

It was a talking-to that The Stroller never forgot. And to this day, he never has appeared at the office or an assignment without a tie, a clean shirt and a clean-shaven face.

No one ever dreamed the day would come when the younger element would turn to casual dress-open shirts, no ties, blue jeans and hair that fell down their backs, beards and mustaches and

BUT THAT HAS happened, much to the dismay of the old-timers. It is difficult to believe now that there was a time when the fashion designers tried to foist pinch-back coats with high, pointed lapels on the young men. But they didn't buy, and the style retured to the staid, old customs.

A few years ago, they did succeed in getting men to be bold enough to wear checkered slacks and sport coats. They even went so far as to have white stitching around the pockets and lapels—a style that left the impression the tailor hadn't finished his job. But long hair, beards, mustaches and blue ieans-never

The latest trend has divided the men's ranks. Steadfastly, the elder generation criticizes the long hair, the open shirts, the baggy trousers.

In fact, a friend of The Stroller commented the other day that one of these modern-dressed chaps served as an usher in the church.

"When he passed the collection plate in our pew," our friend said, "and I noticed that he wore an open neck shirt and no tie, I became so disgusted that I hesitated before dropping my offering on the plate. I came close to almost letting the plate pass me by."

And The Stroller can't help wondering what kindly old Phil Reid would have thought. One thing sure: The young fellow never would have been sent out on an assignment.

SCHERRY KOSKI

Scherry Koski of Canton has been promoted from temporary to full-time custodian in the physical plant department of Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti:

Canton resident Srinibas Bhattacharya has published a new book of poetry entitled, "Our Sweetest Songs." The slender volume is rich in the psychologist's belief in the importance of harmony and balance in the universe and individual lives.

Its publication brings together poems written over a period of years, which Bhattacharya has grouped into three major themes.

The first section explores life; the second, love; and the third, peace. Bhattacharya uses simple but eloquent language to put the three complex themes into an understandable frame-

As a college student in India, he came under the influence of Ghandi, the statesman of non-violence, and the poems reflect a gentle spirit.

Bhattacharya has written of peace before, most notably in his book, "The Long Road to Peace," which he characterizes as a summary of his philosophy that individual conflicts lead to conflicts throughout society. Although he admits he is a psychologist and educator first, Bhattacharya explains that his interest in poetry and literature is a natural offshoot of his interest in human behavior.

"Poetry is one of the best ways in the world to reach inside a person's heart and pluck his finer strings," he

"And once you reach the heart and the feelings, it is possible to change someone's actions and way of think-

Bhattacharya has used "poetry therapy" with some of the inmates he has worked with at the state prison in Jackson. By reading his poetry and encouraging them to write their own, he tries to give them an insight into why they act as they do.

Since coming to the United States 15 years ago, Bhattacharya has worked with retarded children, taught at the University of Michigan and published a number of books.

His first book of verse was entitled, "Green and Gold."

Dear Gundella:

How can I find a good hypnotist? Can you recommend one? Virgil M., Southfield

Dear Virgil:

Never, never go to someone who advertises himself as a hypnotist. Instead, be sure that you find a qualified psychologist or psychiatrist. There are many qualified doctors who practice hypnotism in the Detroit Metropolitar area, but there are also many cha. iatans. Ask your own doctor to recommend someone, or write to the American

Mrs. R.B., Birmingham

Dear Mrs. R.B.

Yes, you can overcome pain through the power of the mind. However, I do not recommend this.

Pain is important, and it is given to us for a very good reason. It is a signal that something in our body is not as it should be.

If you make that pain go away without first discovering what caused it, you may be in grave danger.

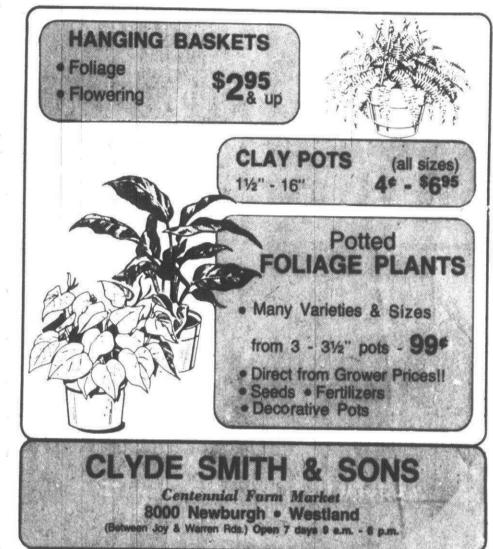

For instance, suppose you have apendicitis, and you will the pain to stop. You can do away with the pain, but it doesn't cure the swollen appendix, which may burst and kill you.

Speaking for the record

By BILL SLIGER

Gifted child explodes myth

Saturday afternoon I was watching Duke University win a thriller from Notre Dame in the semifinals of the NCAA basketball championships.

And, curiously, my wife said something that made me stop and think.

"Contrary to popular belief," she half-murmured during a particularly exciting portion of the action, "intellectually gifted children are not physical weaklings.

"What is that supposed to mean," I asked.

"That center for Duke. He's a gifted child," she responded.

THE "CHILD" she was talking about is 6-11 Mike Gminski. It seems the announcer mentioned Gminski had completed high school in two years graduating at 16 and that he is already a sophomore at Duke and only 18 years old. And, naturally, he's an all-A student.

All the kid did Saturday was score 24 points and sweep the Notre Dame backboards clean of rebounds.

Well, I'll have to admit that subconsciously I have always associated intellectually-gifted students with frailty, the arts and mathematics. But, at least according to the expert in my house, the facts don't support this assumption.

All of which leaves me wondering why Michigan can't find a Mike Gminski?

AND WHILE my perspective of the intellectually talented was being corrected, it also occurred to me that there's a little irony involved in the federal government's latest retirement law.

Not long ago (within my memory, at least) critics were demanding retirement at age 65 so that after many years in the work harness we could relax and enjoy the good life.

Now similar voices with their criticism aimed at the same targets are declaring that the retirement age should be extended to 70. It seems that, at age 65, today's retiree is being turned out to pasture just when he reaches productivity heights.

Actually, of course, we're living longer and maintaining our physical and mental capabilities well past the age of 65. Then, too, it's possible that many are finding the "good life" of retirement is not all it's cracked up to be.

Whatever, it presents a challenge for American ingenuity. If employees stay on the job longer, the opportunities for newcomers entering the job market are reduced.

So we must provide more jobs.

Or ... maybe if the government delays payment of Social Security benefits an additional five years, it could take those dollars and subsidize the good life" for unemployed youngsters age 18-25.

It's sort of a reverse twist. Instead of "retiring" at 65, you start out on social security for five years. That way when you reach retirement age you already have had experience in idleness

Territory time

The signs of spring are too many to count, but it's not official, in our book, until one loud-mouthed fellow says so.

He's the red-winged blackbird. The male arrives first, staking out a territory in the cattails along a lake or stream. He sings out to lure mates.

The male red-winged blackbird seeks a harem, and so he has a lot of calling to do as he invites ladies to his chosen territory. Among birds, the more brightly colored the male is, the less monogamistic he tends to be. You can't tell a male from a female among Canada geese; but since they mate for life, they have no need for colorful sexual differentiation.

If Samson's strength was due to his hair, the red-winged blackbird's prowess is due to that red patch on his shoulder. Experimenters have painted that patch black and found the sheik was immediately deprived of his territory and harem by a bachelor bird. Once the black paint wore off, the experimental bird was able to regain his section of the marsh and his ladies.

There's not much unique about the red-winged blackbird. His kind is found almost from coast to coast. As an insect-eater, he has to head for warmer climes in winter, and he's not much for cities or hills. He's a bright and bold fellow, and when he stakes out his territory and tells you it's spring, you'd better believe it.

Antique county has a super price

We greet with a cynical smile the latest political news wafting from the 13th floor of 2 Woodward Avenue, home of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners and various other departments of the antiquated form of government.

The latest news is that John Barr is the latest elected commissioner to get himself appointed to an administrative job in county government at about double his old salary.

Earlier in the year, two other commissioners, summoning all the facts, logic and ability at their joint disposal, got themselves appointed to head the "super sewer" project, with super salary increases, of course

WHAT'S GOING on? It's not so much corrupt as

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners is an administrative body as much as it is a legisla-

Certain department heads in county government are elective - the sheriff, prosecutor, clerk, treasurer, register of deeds and drain commissioner. The other departments - hospital, welfare, extension and the like - report to the 27 commissioners.

And so, while it may look a little funny, it's entirely proper for the commissioners to seek administrative promotion, as it were, in operating departments of county government.

It's not like the federal government, where an independently elected president leads the administrative branch and 535 members of Congress make the budget and laws.

Nor is it like your local school board, where seven elected trustees make policy and hire a superintendent who is the chief operating officer. County government is antiquated, sad and more than a little weird.

THE IDEA that the board of commissioners is elected requires a footnote.

There has been so much turnover among the 27 commissioners that about half, give or take a couple, originally got their jobs by appointment. The new chairperson, Jarrette Simmons, came into office that way. Our own Tom Presnell, who represents Garden City and Westland, and Bill Joyner of Plymouth Township came aboard that

A lot of union politics is involved. Once appointed, the commissioners are rarely dislodged by the bewildered electorate.

It's like that with the elected department heads. Not a single one - Prosecutor Bill Cahalan, Sheriff Bill Lucas, Clerk Jim Killeen and all the rest + not one, we say, got his job originally from the electorate. Every one got it by appointment. So did all their predecessors.

WAIT'LL THEY FIND OUT THE SUBURBS AIN'T FOR THE BIRDS

The appointment process for replacing someone like a sheriff is obscure. Tiny little committees of other officeholders get together to make the appointments. Again, a lot of union politics is involved.

SOME OF US wild-eyed radicals would like to see a change. We'd like to see county government reorganized so that the board of commissioners is a truly legislative body, and the administrative end is headed by a county executive (elected) or manager (appointed by the board, like a city man-

Among our fellow radicals in this regard are the aforementioned John Barr, Commissioner Mary Dumas of Livonia and Commissioner Richard Manning of Redford.

Then we'd like to see a strong county home rule amendment to the state constitution that would allow counties to write city-style charters. With those tools, we could make our appointments of prosecutor, sheriff, clerk and all the rest through the rational process of the county executive system rather than through obscure, tiny little committees and a lot of union politics.

Meanwhile, we must continue to read the news wafting from 2 Woodward Avenue with a cynical smile.

New neighbor is in anguish

I shouldn't laugh at another human being's discomfort. It isn't nice.

But the truth is that I did laugh at the anguish Joe H. Stroud went through in his column in last Sunday's Detroit Free Press.

I'm good enough at editing so that I not only look for spelling and libel; I can also tell when a writer is having fun, when his work is a chore or when he doesn't believe his own words. Joe Stroud was in anguish. He announced he is moving out of Detroit and into a suburb.

You have to appreciate Joe's position: The Free Press is a "booster" of Detroit, in chamber of commerce terminology. Last year I analyzed, in great detail, how the Freep carefully applies such words as "civic statesmen" to the folks at Renaissance Center while suburban businessmen come off as "promoters" and other unflattering appella-

YEP, JOE was in anguish. "A wrenching change." Two older children gone off to college or elsewhere. Concern for "my wife (who) has chosen not to work outside the home; many of the new neighbors consist of husbands and wives who both work.

The deciding factor, it seems, was "the pull of the idea of the dream house, the home that suits your current needs, the home that your resources make possible.

He was defensive, nevertheless, about his move. He tells us he's leaving a good neighborhood, not abandoning ship: "We have struggled over the years to help, in such ways as we could, with the strength of the neighborhood institutions.

He tells us he isn't fleeing: "I do not turn my back on a bad neighborhood or bad neighbors now; there are good people trying to see that a good neighborhood continues to work.

He blushes as he writes: "In some ways, the move troubles me deeply, especially since I have so often written about the struggle to make the city work." Indeed, it isn't until the 10th paragraph that he mentions his new home is in a suburb.

"I have loved being a city dweller and not a suburbanite." The tone is like a Bible Belt Baptist confessing he's becoming high-church Episcopalian.

IT IS WRYLY amusing that a man's mind is so full of small-town politics that he must use onefourth of the editorial page of a big daily paper to apologize for buying a new house in the 'burbs. Actually, Joe Stroud will be right at home in the

Tales of Ben and Bobby If one must start a newspaper column with words, then Bifocals is ready to greet the dawn. It's actually a reincarnation, for I've been this route before. Nothing reflecting the genius of a Bishop, Royko, Fitzgerald or Waldmeir, mind you. let alone a Doc Greene. But a handful of mythists who allege they now and then enjoyed a column of this same name in our Farmington and Plymouth papers some years ago have sold me on giving it a new go. Although I've been known to have trod upon a governmental toe or two in my time, offbeat characters and situations actually interest me far more than the burning political issues of the day.

If it's deep thinking you seek, look elsewhere. Quite likely you won't even have to turn the page. A DELIGHTFUL NOTE from Ben Hogan down in Fort Worth, and a chance meeting with a namesake of Bobby Jones, have helped me zero in on the advent of that greatest segment of the year. the golf season.

Another hint that it's just about tee time was found in our classified section last week. It was a five-line ad asking anyone interested in caddyingboy or girl, age 11 or older-to report to Great Oaks Country Club in Rochester at a given time on a given date.

Private clubs are about the last stronghold for the caddying profession, and even many of them have turned to the more profitable electric carts.

However, if you can count yourself among the legion of ex-caddies, as so many of us can, you will recall those summers as being among the most fun of all, even at a Depression rate of 35 or 50 cents a nine. You also will recall that that's when the golf bug bit.

LET ME TELL YOU why Hogan and I are corresponding. It has its roots in conversations with local pros Mac McElmurry, of Gorman's and Oasis and Gary Whitener of Whispering Willows and Idyl Wyld. Gary also is tournament chairman of the Michigan section of the PGA.

Anyway, these guys and many other club pros get just as big or bigger a heartthrob out of teaching some handicapped but determined golf nut how to break 100 as they do in cutting your average from 79 to 78.

Take Mac, for example. He's teaching a man who had played golf beautifully for many years with two arms and two hands how to play with one of each. He left the rest of the garbage in a hospital after an errant Vermont ski run two years ago.

Mac's project includes a volunteer or two with similar but lesser problems, lesser because they've become used to playing golf that way after years of working at it.

Budd Lynch, who lost an arm in World War II, is one of them and that guy can hit the ball a country mile.

BACK IN '49 Hogan was in a near-fatal auto accident. It was doubted that he ever would play golf again. Yet he came back to become the greatest star of his era. Oakland Hills was one of the many courses that succumbed to his concentrated Jones? Well, this Bob Jones is a steel salesman in Plymouth who once played to a seven handicap. He's down in the Carolinas this week, playing at Hilton Head. If a guy must play this game, that's not a bad name to have.

Now Ben heads a golf equipment manufacturing company. To be honest with you, I've urged him to lend his name to a national golf promotional campaign, maybe capped by a national championship, for the so-called handicapped. He did not say no.

Solar artists invited to enter their drawings.

Students in grades four to eight may draw a scene which relates to solar energy and enter it in a contest being sponsored by two environmental groups and the Observer and Eccentric newspapers.

Entries are due at your local newspaper office by April 21. Drawings should depict ways in which solar energy affects our lives or may be used in the future. They will be judged by a panel of artists and scientists on the basis of artistic technique and content.

The top three winners will be awarded either a 10-speed bike, skateboard or backpack. One winner will be selected from each newspaper's circulation area. The nine runners-up will receive honorable mention prizes as well as having their picture in the newspaper.

Enter the contest now and be sure to include the following information on the back of your entry: Name, address, phone number, age, school, grade and teacher's name.

Drop off entries at one of the following offices:

READERS' FORUM

Hendry spokesperson raps Observer reporter

I would like to respond to Glenn Bunting's reporting of the situation at the Hendry Convalescent Center, regarding Medicaid patients.

In all of Bunting's reporting, not once does he mention the quality of care given to all patients at Hendry Convalescent Center. The Medicaid patients have had no complaints; the only complaint is that the state refuses to pay for the care the patient requires and deserves.

If Bunting looked beyond the surface, he would find in Mr. Hendry a concerned man who personally shops at Eastern Market to choose the fresh foods that will be prepared for patient meals; a man who is personally assured that the patients are given quality care; a man who purchased grave sites out of personal funds for patients who may die and have no final resting place.

As Bunting admitted to me in our telephone conversation, if it is ever necessary to have a loved one in his family in a convalescent center, he would want them in a home like Hendry operates.

Bunting would do well to spend his energy reporting the problems as they exist with the Medicaid program, rather than emulate the Watergate journalist looking for something of a disgrace that doesn't exist at Hendry. The Medicaid program grossly underpays for patient care to a point of becoming a national disgrace.

The program prohibits a family member to contribute $1 a week toward a family member's care, even if they have $50 a week to spare.

I am proud to be associated with the member facilities of Health Saving Services, to which Hendry Convalescent Center belongs. If I reach a time in my life that I need convalescent care, I pray that centers like the one Hendry and the other Health Saving Services member facilities operate, still exist.

MARILYN SHIFFERD, RN, CSW, Executive director, Health Saving Services

What's status of high-rise

Editor

Being a concerned citizen of Plymouth I would like to know what is going to happen with the proposed high-rise in downtown Plymouth.

I was one of the many outraged citizens who attended the city planning commission meeting when we were told we were at the wrong place at the wrong time to do anything about it.

I would like to know what is going to happen with the proposed high-rise. If it is going to be built I would like to know what can be done to stop it.

Through a simple check system, the program helps insure safety for seniors and shut-ins without disturbing their privacy. Seniors and shut-ins can arrange with friends and neighbors to look for the bright vellow "Im OK" sign at a door or window every day for a prearranged length of time.

If the sign does not appear or remains longer than designated, the friend or neighbor can refer to an information card supplied by senior or shut-in to know what action to take. In some cases, the shut-in may want the neighbor to telephone a relative or enter his or her home with a key previously provided. Scouts in the Pontiac and Flint areas already are participating in the program.

They are attempting to check the shut-ins who may not have a neighbor or friend to do so.

The "I'm OK" signs are available at any Perry Drug Store checkout counter.

REHEARSALS are in high gear for Initial Productions initial production, 'My Three Angels.

The new company is really a combination of three veteran community theatre groups-Plymouth Theatre Guild, the Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford, and Wayne-Westland Civic

The idea of presenting a show by the three groups stemmed from a need to discover how other community theaters handled their technical phases of production. With each group having its own specialized area, a multi-community presentation seemed the best way to learn from each other.

They chose "My Three Angels" as their vehicle. Humphrey Bogart had the lead in the movie version and Darren McGavin and Walter Slezak in the Broadway production.

Clemmie Cyburt of the Plymouth Theatre Guild has the role of Mme. Parole. Pat Bray is assistant director and stage manager. Patty Troth is one of the producers.

Reservations can be made by calling Shirley Hewlett, 421-3124. Show dates are April 21-30, and May 5 and 6 in Livonia-Redford Playhouse on Beech-Daly.

REMEMBER Bill an Jean Fronk who used to live on the corner of McKinley and Linden? They and their three children left Plymouth about 11 years ago. Bill, who had worked for Ford Motor Co. accepted a position with Hyster Corp. and they moved to Portland, Ore.

Bob Richardson dropped off a column written by a Seattle sports editor which brought the Fronks to mind.

The subject of the column was Bob Fronk, a freshman at the University of Washington. The writer was suggesting that the U-W football coach would not have to look any further than the next locker room for a quarterback for the Huskies next fall.

He was referring to Bob Fronk, who was playing basketball for the university. But he had been scouted by both the basketball and football coach.

He said Fronk's decision to play basketball "May have been influenced by the fact that in basketball, he was a high school All-American. As an allstate quarterback, he was merely an All-America honorable mention." He "Will I have anyone to talk to?"

This is a question that is often asked members of First Step, the area group organized to aid battered women. Not only are the women looking for the protection of a shelter, they also want someone to listen to them and discuss their problem.

In this area, First Step has already arranged for three rap groups for battered women, one in Westland, one in Plymouth and one in Livonia.

One has been meeting for several months in Westland Parks and Recreation Center on Dorsey, east of Venoy. A new one is about to start at Catholic Social Services, 17316 Farmington, Livonia. The first session will be held from 10 a.m. until noon on Tuesday, March 28

Leaders will be Judy Nowicki and Linda Meloragni. Those interested may call the agency at 421-3730. Our House Crisis Center, 185 S. Harvey, Plymouth, is the location of another rap session to start Tuesday, April 11. Hours will be from 7-9 p.m. Karen Reeber is leader. For information call the center at 455-4900. Sylvia Ruen leads the sessions in the Westland Center on Friday from 1:30-3 p.m. To join, call her at 292-5690

"We already have 12 women in the Westland group," said Sheila Nobriga of Livonia, First Step board member, who has been working on forming these new groups. "At each meeting we are getting one or two new women," she said. "Before they had to no place to go."

WHILE PLEASED TO have started to fill the need for rap groups. First Step still has its collective heart set on establishing a shelter for battered

The organization recently made a request to the Wayne County Board of Commissioners to be allowed to use a two-story brick building at the Wayne County General Hospital complex in Westland as a shelter.

An appeal of this subject was made last week to the human relations committee of the commission by the Rev. Doug Hodges, co-chairman of First

"The building is in good shape," reported Ms. Nobriga. She said there would be room for counseling and play space in the basement for children brought in by beaten women.

The group has also applied for $40,000 from the city of Westland to further the shelter project.

FIRST STEP has been disappointed to discover how little money there is available to aid battered women.

"We thought that $50,000 was available for a state emergency shelter pilot project," noted Mary Ann Pinkerton of Plymouth, co-chairman of the group and temporary representative of Wayne County to the newly formed Michigan Coalition Against Domestic Violence.

"But instead of it going for shelters for battered women it was used by the Adult Protective Services Agency for housing elderly patients recently out of the hospital. It turns out that the department handling the money has nothing to do with domestic assault.

"Domestic assualt is not mentioned at all in the governor's budget, so there will be no money coming in for these women. We have learned there is $25 million available at the federal level, but that divides out to about $500,000 per state.

"First Step feels that to set up a 365day shelter with a counselor on call to serve about 20 women and their children would cost of $200,000 a year.

Ms. Pinkerton suggested that those concerned about obtaining an area shelter for abused women contact their county commissioner about the building in the Westland hospital complex.

Special doll exhibit here until May 21

A Dollie Madison doll with original clothes dating back to 1892 is one of the 250 dolls featured in a special exhibit of dolls and doll houses at the Plymouth Historical Museum. The exhibit, which opened March 18, will continue through May 21.

There is an original German Queen Louise doll by Armand Marseille; a French fashion doll; a Shirley Temple Doll that dances; a Sonja Henie doll; a two-headed doll; and pegged wooden dolls which once sold for a penny.

Loaned to the museum for the special exhibit are Bliss doll houses; an English doll house circa 1900; a doll house made from a bird house; and contemporary doll houses and furni-

CUB SCOUTS in Miller Pack 854 had their monthly pack meeting Tuesday evening. Keeping with the theme of Communications Month, the boys enjoyed the talk and slide presentation given by Jane Marshall, a representative from Michigan Bell Telephone Co.

She told of communications past, present and future. The boys had an opportunity of seeing an original telephone which is a little different to the ones they now have in their homes.

Ms Marshall brought a mock-up communications satellite to the meeting and explained how the real satellite is used to broaden communications across the world.

It was an enjoyable and enlightening evening for the scouts. This presentation may be just the right thing for vour next group meeting. More information is available at the telephone company office.

GALLIMORE'S Cub Scout Pack 766 had its annual bake auction last week. Each boy baked a favorite cake or cookies with the help of his father. Each item was then placed on the auction block to go to the highest bidder.

Each den had made a funny hat for one of their dads to wear as he presented the goodies to the audience.

Nothing was left at the close of the auction. The scouts' treasury is now $332 richer. The proceeds will be spent on a trip or some fun time event for the boys.

This pack's next fundraiser will be the spring paper drive April 29. A truck will be at Gallimore from 10 a.m. until noon for anyone wishing to drop off papers. Boys will be canvassing surrounding neighborhoods for donations to the drive.

Remember, it doesn't cost anything to save those papers and it is truly a great way for any organization to raise

Women work more, but still it is for less

Women generally are marrying later and working longer, and owe themselves educational training and career planning in order to get well-paying jobs which they will enjoy, acording to a Michigan State University

"A career is not an ad-hoc experience for a woman," said Collette Moser, who teaches a credit course in "Women and Work" at MSU

"A never-married woman is likely to work for more than 40 years, longer than the average man," she said. "A married woman with children generally spends 30 to 35 years in the labor force. Almost half of all children in the country have working mothers.

Ms. Moser cited November 1977 figures from the Bureau of Labor Statistics showing that by mid-1977 there were 40 million women in the U.S. labor force, and they made up 41 per cent of the total force, and 49 per cent of the population of American women 16 years of age and over.

strong thrust of the women's liberation movement, Ms. Moser said, women continue to be paid substantially less than men. The low pay stems from the women working primarily in clerical and service jobs which have always paid badly. The large pool of available women workers for such work further depresses their wages.

Rather than diminishing in numbers, the MSU professor said, women in clerical and service employment are expected to increase in the next decade, with more and more young women entering fields already employing large numbers of women.

Ms. Moser's course in "Woman and Work" is part of the Women's Studies Thematic Program for which MSU offers certification in addition to degrees in academic fields.

The course is part of the Public Affairs Management program within the College of Agriculture and Natural Resources, in which she has the rank of assistant professor. She will teach the course in spring term at the Birmingham Center for Continuing Education.

Labor force participation figures. she said, show that married persons are becoming a smaller percentage of the labor force, with a drop from 69.2 per cent in March 1970 to 64.8 per cent in March 1976. Never-married persons accounted for the majority (57 per cent) of the labor force growth from March 1975 to March 1976. Over the year ended in March 1976, the participation rate of married men edged down to 82.1 per cent, while that of married women rose to a new high of 45 per cent.

"While there has been growth in the ranks of women in professional and technical fields, and other areas which have been 'men's work," Ms. Moser said, "women are being less successful because they are concentrated in low-paying jobs even when they have better-than-average educations. The explanation usually is that they take clerical and service jobs.

In a study conducted with a woman colleague, covering the earnings gap during the decade from 1962 through 1972, she pointed out even in the lowpaid job area of "clericals." female median earnings were only 69 per cent of those of male median earnings in 1962, and fell to 62 per cent a decade later. The worsening condition of the clericals, she said, is the major factor in the widening of the everall gap between female and male workers.

Scientists have crib death clue

University of Michigan scientists believe they have a clue to the cause of crib death

It appears to be a possible hypersensitivity reaction," evidenced by the presence of antibodies (IgG) in lung tissue of infants who had gone to sleep only to be discovered lifeless an hour or more later.

Medically described as Sudden Infant Death Syndrome (SIDS), its victims expire of unknown, non-accidental causes. The syndrome is defined as the sudden death of any infant or young child, which is unexpected by the baby's history, and in which a thorough post-mortem examination fails to demonstrate an ade-

It is the non-identifiable, non-accidental, abrupt death of an infant that has puzzled medical examiners and plagued parents.

THE SIGNIFICANCE of the U-M study is the discovery of antibodies in lung tissues of non-traumatic deaths. Children dying suddenly from accident, a fall, or injury do not show antibodies on autopsy.

Medical Examiners Office, as many as 60 per cent were reported as having had "colds" for several days prior to

"Three-quarters of all SIDS deaths were attributed to disease of the respiratory system, with a majority evidencing interstitial pneumonitis," a recent report states.

The study was a cooperative effort between between the examiners office and the U-M School of Public Health Department of Epidemiology. Results were recently released in the January 1978 issue of the Journal of Forensic Medicine.

Investigators included Nick H. Maverakis, Ph.D., assistant professor; Warren E. Eveland, Ph.D., professor emeritus; and W. Wilbur Ackermann, Ph.D., professor, all of the U-M.

Dr. Clara Raven, former deputy chief medical examiner of Wayne County and noted authority of SIDs, was a principal in the study.

"The findings indicate some consistent and therefore essential pathologic process in the lung that must relate (indirectly or directly) to the lethal malfunction of the lung," the report states. It was the discovery of IgG antibody that certified the suspected malfunction.

Prof. Ackermann explains that antibodies are produced as a defense against some disease agent called antigen. Although the scientists have yet to identify the specific cause, existence of antibodies prove "it" is there.

"There is limited evidence for repiratory viral antigen," the report

ANTIGENS, sometimes also called allergens, cause allergic reactions of varying intensities in individuals. All people have a built-in defense, or immunizing, system which provokes the protective production of antibodies. However, there are different degrees of provocation, sensitivity, reaction, and levels of antibodies, which might be good or bad.

Infants who died suddenly of unknown, nmon-traumatic causes, and in whose tissues antibodies were discovered, appeared to be particularly sensitive to the antigen(s) that callenged their immune systems.

The "antibody clue" to SIDS deaths is reinforced by epidemiological evidence which forms a pattern among its victims:

·SIDS is almost three times higher among nonwhites.

 Males predominate among victims of SIDS.

One-third of nonwhites and onefifth of white SIDS babies were premature. ·Maternal ages were lower than normal, and risk of SIDS decreased with increasing maternal age. ·SIDS infants weighed less than

 The number of SIDS victims dying during weekends was excessive.

The study further documents that the syndrome is more prevalent in the "nonwhite socially deprived community," where there are such high-risk factors as illegitimacy, inadequate nutrition, ill health, poor medical care, smoking, drugs, and noxious agents.

"The incidence of SIDS deaths was higher in the central portion of Detroit and decreased peripherally," the report states. "The epidemiologic. characteristics of SIDS in Wayne Courty population are essentially the same as those reported for othercommunities."

Mason, brick shortage spell double trouble

By SUZIE MARKS

The coal shortage that plagued our neighboring states all winter has deposited its residue on Michigan's building industry.

Across the tri-county area, developed subdivisions with almost completed houses stand unbricked.

"There's been a tremendous shortage of brick since the building boom last year," said a salesman from Kurtz Brick Co. in Livonia.

Most of Michigan's brick is made from clay in Ohio, Indiana and Iowa through a high heat firing process. The fuel stricken states, hindered by production cut backs, are responsible for our dwindling supplies.

""The (brick) plants are operating at capacity now, but they can't keep up with the demand," Kurtz officials said. Brick is sold in units of 1,000. Builders claim prices increased 20 per cent over last year. Depending on the quality, bricks range from $140 to $500 per thousand.

"Once a builder can secure a sufficient brick supply, he is burdened with locating a qualified mason to lay

Stock piles of brick in front of otherwise completed houses are a fimiliar sight around southeastern Michigan.

SO WHAT'S happened to all the masons?

"Since the 1974-75 recession, many masons left the business and went to Ford and other companies and didn't come back," said Richard Scwab, president of Great Lakes Homes in Farmington Hills

Mason shortages are partially responsible for the three-month delays Great Lakes has experienced in delivering their finished house to the con-

Scwab's company builds houses in Rochester and sections of Macomb County. A qualified mason may demand 30 per cent more for his labor this year than he did in 1976, he said. A mason averages $200 per thousand bricks he lays, Scwab said. "The mason shortages are very serious, we have many houses completely finished on the inside but no brick," said George Torrente, president of Galaxy Homes, a home builder in Troy, West Bloomfield, Sterling Heights and Avon Township.

"The results is the customer can't move into the home. There's no closing, so we can't pay the contractor. Last year, we had the same problem," Torrente said.

The average home in West Bloomfield, for example, requires 30,000 to 35,000 bricks, and masonary crews dictate the time spent on each

"No two crews are alike. The man hours depend on the individuals themselves. A crew of three brothers, who split the profits, may lay 3,000 in one

"A mason being paid by the hour may only lay 700 in a day," Torrente

EMPLOYERS UNWILLINGNESS to hire mason apprentices is another cause for the masonary shortage, said Louis Scheich of the Mason Contractors Association.

The association has 51 apprentices, but the contractors don't want to bother training them, he claimed. There are 1,000 journeymen masons in the tri-county area.

Three weeks of pratical training and three-years of on-the-job training plus two weeks of night school in the winter comprise the apprenticeship program.

If they get jobs, the men are paid $8.52 per hours including benefits for the first six months then a five per cent increase every six months. At the end of three years, they earn $11.96 per hour.

As journeymen, they start at a base wage of $11.56 plus fringe benefits.

Mother Nature has bitten many hands this season contributing to the building slow down. Local building codes require temperatures to be above freezing and the sky to be sunny in order for the masons to work, due to the dalcium chloride in the mortar

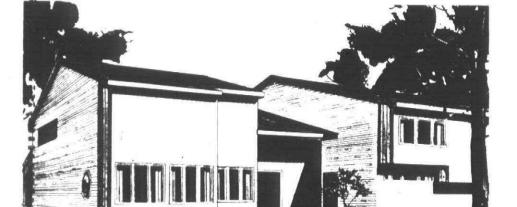

When the temperature dips below freezing, as it did most of this winter. the mortar mix doesn't harden adequately and eventually crumbles.

The house cost burden runs the gamut of passes for a panorama of reasons. Like everything else, the buck stops with the consumer.

"Absolutely, the consumer has to expect to pay more with all these problems," Scwab said.

While there appears to be more than enough houses to go around, there's shortage of masons and bricks to complete the job. The coal strike, plus several other contributing factors, have created a shortage of that precious commodity that walls us in. (Staff photo by Charlie Kidd)

The trend is changing all around the country as more builders are constructing wooden, cedar shake and aluminum sided houses.

Cedar siding becomes popular

Trends and energy efficiency appear to be paving the walks to brickless homes.

"We've almost eliminated the use of brick on our houses," said Toby Holtzman, partner of Holtzman & Silverman builders in Southfield. Originally, the Midwest was the home of brick homes, the builder adds, but rising costs and the doors for building with other materials. Cedar shakes and aluminum siding have replaced the traditional brick exteriors unavailability of bricks and masons has opened

"It's faster to build without brick. We can put siding on in one day, we can't do that with brick." Holtzman said.

Wood covers are more energy efficient than brick siding, the builder said, because bricks conduct cold and wood doesn't-this saves the homeowner money in heating bills.

A brickless development on the outskirts of An Arbor is a new Holtzman and Silverman project The houses, ranging from $60,000-$90,000, are encased with cedar shakes in the Cape Cod design!

"This is a trend (brickless homes), and we don't stop it. We knew a long time ago this trend was on the way, and we're quite satisfied with it," Holtz man said.

ONLY THE FIREPLACE is brick in a Pulter house, said Michael Moore, vice-president and construction manager of the company.

The $50,000-$80,000 houses in West Bloomfield, Troy, Rochester, Farmington, Chesterfield and Canton townships have alumunim exteriors, with few models having partial brick fronts.

Housing trends begin in California, said Abbey Homes advertising director Michele Burkli. "California has been using cedar shakes for quite a few years, and we picked up the idea for our contemporary homes.

A two-story front foyer with bubble windows are innovations in housing. Abbey Homes offers greenhouse windows over the kitchen sinks and a planter in the two-story foyer that can be watered from a faucet in a nearby closet.

"Our homes have wood siding because wood is more heat efficient than aluminum." Burkli said. "Skylights are a feature, but fireplaces and wetbars are a must."

Abbey custom houses in West Bloomfield and Bloomfield Hills are priced fron $170,000 to $600,000 for one-acre to 112-acre prime lots.

Scholtz plans 2 projects

Two new large developments of houses are planned for Oakland County by Scholtz Homes. The houses will be in the $45,000-$300,000 range, said Bill Sarti, southeastern Michigan representative of the Scholtz is a house package firm that produces more than 800 singlefamily units per year at its 106,000square-foot facility in Toledo.

In the past, Scholtz Homes had more appeal to builders of fewer than 20 houses per year because it spreads the cost of design and engineering over a large number of units and provides expertise the smaller builder could not afford.

House and Garden selected the firm's Greenfield model (from $130,000) as the magazine's house of the year. Out of 187 entrants in a recent Chicago Home architectural contest, the Williamsburg model was awarded the gold key for the best designed house

Checklist provides aid on moving day

Here are some valuable moving tips from the South Oakland County Board of Realtors

Moving day need not be a family nightmare if you follow these moving tips and plan the day's activities well in advance.

· Map out a timetable of all things that must be done before moving day. A day-by-day calendary is a convenient way to keep track of all the details.

 Make a list of all magazines, periodicals, book clubs, charge cards. delivery services and others which you will need to cancel or provide a change of address. Chech with your post office for a change of address kit. While there, make arrangements to have mail forwarded to your new · Begin using up food you have on hand and buy only what you will need.

Frozen foods are difficult to transport. · Before you begin packing, empty one closet completely. Use it to store items such as cleaning equipment and suitcases that will be needed on moving day. Be sure to place a sign on the door so that movers or helpful friends don't empty the closet by mistake.

· Equip the family picnic basket as a portable kitchen with disposable fee pot, hand towels, can opener and other useful items that might be needed after the kitchen is packed for the move.

 If you're doing the packing, be certain to mark the contents of each box on several sides of the carton. Also note the room in your new home where it should be placed. Labelling boxes properly not only will save time when unpacking, but also can eliminate shuffling of boxes from room to room in your new home.

· If you're moving within the same city, send drapes and rugs to be cleaned just before moving. You often can have them delivered to your new home, avoiding the hassle of moving them yourself. Many cleaners will even wrap the rugs for more convenient moving. Be ceratain to mark wrappings with dimensions and the room in which the rug should be placed in your new home.

 If you're making a long distance move, you may want to wait and have drapes and rugs cleaned at your new location. Although carefully packed. these items can be soiled or creased during transit, resulting in a need to repeat the costly cleaning.

'How much do we spend; when buying a house?'

"How much house can I afford?" That's probably the most often asked question by a person venturing into the real estate market today.

Well, to help answer that question, a title insurance company has prepared a booklet to help make home buying

The booklet, which is available from your local board of realtors, takes into account a variety of down payments, range of income and interest rates.

At one time, it was believed that a new home buyer could afford to buy a home equal to two to 212 times the family income.

That meant a family with a $15,000 yearly income could afford to buy a home priced between $30,000 and $37,500. But the South Oakland County Board of Realtors advises that this axiom only serves as a guide and does not consider individual circumstances. Factors such as down payments and monthly home payments (including principal, interest, taxes and insurance) are variables. The booklet's tables provide answers to home prices and buying power based on 30-yaer loan with 20 per cent down, common loan terms in many sections of the nation.

At a 9.5 per cent interest rate, for example, a family with a $15,000 income should be able to handle monthly payments of $310, according to the table, and afford a home ranging in price from $33,000-36,000. A down payment of $6,800 would be required.

At lower interest rates, the same family should be able to afford a slightly more expensive home The board of realtors says that by increasing the down payment, more, expensive homes become affordable. But many mortgages don't require such a high down payment on the house. There are many mortgages available with only a five per cent. down payment. But first check out all sources, local realtors, banks, mortgage companies. or savings and loan associations for details on their mortgage terms, before making any decision on down * payments and interest rates.

Prior to the arrival of the men from the Plymouth church, Haitians attended services in this simple structure.

A new church begins to take shape in rural Haiti through the cooperation of Haitian workers and members of the Plymouth Church of the Nazarene.

Plymouth Nazarene members build in Haiti

By SHERRY KAHAN

A new church in the countryside of the Caribbean island of Haiti has some roots with the Plymouth Church of the Twenty-one men from the congregation, led by pastor Rev. Carl Allen, spent two weeks among the Haitian palm trees in a rural area about 30 miles from the city of Port-au-Prince to help build the new structure.

To say it is a cement block building with steel trusses and a corregated metal roof is to tell only a small portion of the story.

The rest of the tale concerns the men willing to leave families and jobs to bring a new church to life, a distant Church of the Nazarene congregation. It replaced an old shed-like structure open on the sides.

Before leaving, the men experienced the accomplishment, as Rev. Allen dedicated the church with a message to about 500 Haitians.

"We instigated the project by contacting our World Missions Department in Kansas City," explained Allen. "We expressed an interest in organizing a group of men to go to some country to build a church.'

Eventually it was worked out that the Plymouth church would contribute $5,000 toward building supplies, and the men would donate $500 each for their own expenses.

THE MEN LEFT Metro Airport in February temperatures of 20 degrees. For their two week stay in Haiti, the mercury lingered at about 90 degrees.

"We took all our own food, tools, medicine and household needs plus the supplies we were donating," said the pastor. "We also took additional medicine to give to the clinic. In all, with our suitcases and boxes, we had 64 pieces of luggage.

"We lived in tents or in the local pastor's home, and did our own cooking on a gas stove we brought with us.

"I got up at 4:30 a.m. to direct the cooking and to have breakfast ready by 5 a.m.," Rev. Allen said. "We worked until about noon. Then sometimes we went to the ocean. Afternoon hours were from 3:30 p.m. to about 5 and 6 p.m.

The building's foundation was already laid by the time the men arrived. They went to work putting up the walls and ceiling. They also built pews. Robert Yeager of Westland, a carpenter by trade, was construction supervisor. However, none of the other men had building experience.

The men worked with Haitians. "They spoke Creole," Rev. Allen said. "although the official language of the country is French. I felt we had a warm, close relationship with the people. They would be around all the time. They came at devotional time and would sing. They weren't bashful and got very involved.

Pastor Allen noted that the Haitians were enthusiastic.

"Their income is low, but they are willing to work," he said. "To build the church, the women had to carry water half a mile to the barrels which held it until it was used to mix mortar or cement.

JIM WATSON of Plymouth, vicepresident of the Indiana Sundry Sales Co., said he was impressed with the Haitian families

"They (the children) were extremely well-behaved and there didn't seem to be a feeling of animosity between family members," he said. "There was no arguing, pushing or shoving that goes on in families

"The women were always working. They carried their water from the spring to do their washing and cleaning. Their tools were quite primitive.

They would pound roots with a stick to make a powder.

Leader of the expedition to Haiti was the Rev. Carl Allen, pastor of the Plymouth Church of the Nazarene, shown here in his working clothes.

Watson said despite the simple life in the country, the people seemed satisfied.

"They lived in extreme poverty, yet they were happy," he said. "I think it has to do with their lifestyle. They live a very dependent, family oriented tribal life. They depend for survival on each other.

Watson said 95 per cent of the Haitians in the rural area the men visited, "are voo-doo oriented." Nearly 70 per cent belonged to the Nazarene church,

"It is very difficult when conversing with them to know whether they are Christians or not."

One of the northern visitors, Dr. Neal Belgiano, spent most of his time visiting and working in the various medical facilities in the vicinity. A resident in internal medicine at Botsford Hospital, he was given two weeks off with pay by the hospital.

"They felt that the experience was a valuable contribution to his medical training," Allen said. "He was able to visit the director of the General Hospital at Port-au-Prince. It opened the door to allow our church to send in medical supplies. "Pharmaceutical companies had made donations, but couldn't get them in the country. It now appears we can send them in.' The men returned with "a greater vision for World Missions," the pastor said. They were met at the airport by about 60 friends and relatives carrying a welcoming banner. "We returned with a great sense of gratitude for the blessings we enjoy in the U.S." he continued. "The salary in Haiti is about $200 a year. "I feel this trip is one of the greatest things that has happened to our local church.'

A folk concert Friday night at the University of Michigan-Dearborn is billed as guaranteed to reach "both your heart and funnybone with awesome precision.

The concert begins at 7:30 p.m. in the campus Recreation and Organization Center with Jini Post and Nina Kahle. Tickets can be purchased in advance for $3 at the information desk in the same build-

"Both singers are known on campuses and coffeehouses across the country for the strength of their voices, the caliber of their original material, and especially for their ability to engage audiences with a eensitive personal approach," says college spokeswoman Lynn Craw-Ford. "They will be a highlight in out winter concert series, which maims to rekindle rapport between artists and audiences.

Post, the headline act, plays guitar and is noted for his high tenor voice, which has been described as "smooth as well-aged bourbon." Early last year, he released his seventh album, "Back in the Streets Again." Post has performed at both the Raven in Southfield and "The Black Sheep Repertory Theatre m Manchester.

His style includes a huge mustache, folk stories, comic monblogues and often humorous and sometimes political songs

Adult concert club opening at St. Regis

The Bamboo Ballroom, touted as Detroit's first adult concert club, will open Saturday in the Hotel St. Regis in the New Center area.

The opening attraction will be Peter Allen, who wrote the Grammy Award winning song "I Honestly Love You," which was performed by fellow Australian Olivia Newton-John.

An Australian living in America, he also is described as a New Yorker who lives in southern California. Allen is a writer and performer who blends folky singer-songwriter and cabaret-Broadway middle of the road styles.

Allen's recordings on A&M records have become familiar on WNIC, WDRQ and WXYZ in Detroit. Many persons have seen him on national TV on "Dinah" and "The Mike Douglas Show." He is the former husband of Liza Minnelli.

Allen has just been named "Entertainer of the Year" by After Dark magazine, which bestowed this title previously on Bette Midler, Elton John and Barry Manilow.

SON OF BAMBOO Productions which is behind the Bamboo Ballroom, has produced more than 2,000 concerts in the Midwest during the last nine

Art applications accepted

Artist applications are now being accepted by the Lafayette Park Art Fair Committee for the 1978 fair, to be held September 9-10.

Each year 100 Michigan artists and craftspersons gather to exhibit and sell their work in this professionally juried show. Several thousand vistiors from all over the metropolitan Detroit area come to purchase the work of Michigan artists.

This year's event will again take place in the Towers Shopping Plaza at Lafayette and Orleans, near downtown Detroit Applicants in all media are welcome. They will be juried by two art profesionals.

Artists interested in exhibiting at the 1978 Lafayette Park Art Fair may contact Judy Harris, 1335 Joliet Place, Detroit 48207. The deadline for applications is

Entertainment phone gets new moniker

The What's Line (259-1911) is a recorded phone message of Detroit area entertainment information updated daily in the Metropolitan Detroit Convention and Visitors Bureau offices. The 60-second recorded announcement covers sports, nightlife, theater and special events and runs 24 hours a day.

The recorded entertainment message was developed in 1975 to encourage delegates to get out of their hotel rooms and enjoy Detroit while they were in the city for conventions.

Billboards advertising the original service, called the Visitors Hotline, were posted at both Metropolitan Airport and City airports, so that visitors and delegates would be greeted with a "friendly voice on the phone" and given a first impression of the city that was alive and inviting.

Dinner theater shows debut

Two Theatre of the Arts Cocktail Playhouse Productions are scheduled to open in new locations March 30.

"The Boyfriend," a Broadway musical spoof of the Twenties, will be presented at the Botsford Inn Dinner Theatre in Farmington Hills. Dinner is at 7 p.m., with the show immediately following on Thursdays; dinner at 6 p.m. is followed by the show on Sun-

Mr. Mac's Stable, a Machus Restaurant, at No. 1 Parklane Towers in Dearborn, will open with the Broadway comedy hit "A Thousand Clowns." Performances are Fridays and Saturdays, with dinner at 7 p.m. and show immediately following.

For reservations and information on either of these productions call 649-0903. For group sales, call the same number and ask for Greg Tatum.

Eli cops area cage honor

By DENNIS O'CONNOR and DOUG FUNKE

After what could be phrased as a below-average season record-wise in 1976-77, the 14 Observer-area basketball teams rebounded this year and proved to be some of the toughest squads in the state.

In this area, 10 of the 14 teams finished the regular season with better than .500 records, and three of the squads won district titles in Class 'A' tournament competition.

Plymouth Salem finished with the best regular season record for the second-straight season with a 18-2 mark. The Rocks shared the Suburban Eight League championship with Livonia Bentley, marking the fifth-straight season they have earned the title. Salem also won the Southfield District.

Westland John Glenn had a great season, advancing further than any Observer team in the tourney. Glenn, champions of the Northwest Suburban League, won the Livonia Churchill District and defeated Salem in regional action before bowing to Detroit Mackenzie in the regional finals.

Redford Bishop Borgess was the third Observer-area district champion, capturing the Ferndale crown. Borgess also competed in the Catholic League playoffs and finished second to Detroit Catholic Central in First Division Central competition.

Along with excellent team play, the Observer-area was also blessed with fine, individual talent this season. A number of brother combinations highlighted the action led by the Decosters from Borgess and the Halls from Livonia Stevenson.

In one of the toughest meetings in years, area coaches recently met to pick their All-Observer cage team.

Here are the results of that meeting:

FIRST TEAM

Daran Armstrong, junior, Westland John Glenn. The 5-11, 150-pound guard was the leading vote-getter this season impressing many coaches with his spark and leadership in the tourney. The Rockets' leading scorer (17.0 point average), leading assist man (7.0), and leader in steals (3.0), Armstrong proved he was an outstanding team player and unselfish cager.

"Daran is an outstanding passer and penetrater," said Glenn coach Gordon Davis. "He uses his quickness well on Armstrong was a first-team All-Northwest Suburban League pick in his sophomore and junior years. He is the second leading all-time scorer and assister in Glenn basketball history with one year to go.

Tom Ellinghausen, senior, Plymouth Salem. This is the second straight season the 6-41/2 forward has landed a spot on the first-team All-Observer squad. He has led the Rocks in scoring and rebounding over the last two seasons averaging over 19 points and 10 caroms this year

The Rocks' co-captain, a fifth-team All-State selection, finished his threeyear varsity career as the second leading scorer and rebounder in the school's history behind his 1976 All-State brother Jim Ellinghausen. Tom broke one of Jim's records this season, collecting 22 rebounds against Southfield in the district finale.

"Tom has an excellent head for the game and was a key scorer in defense of the league championship," said Salem coach Fred Thomann. Ellinghausen was an All-Suburban Eight League selection for the secondstraight season.

Mike Petsch, senior, Redford Union. First-team Observer-area honors have become a habit for this all-around athlete. The 6-5, 210 pounder, who also excels in football and track, is another

All-Suburban Eight League selection in basketball. He was the heart of Carl Andrews' squad this season, averaging a whallopping 26.0 points and 16.2 rebounds per game-tops in the league and area.

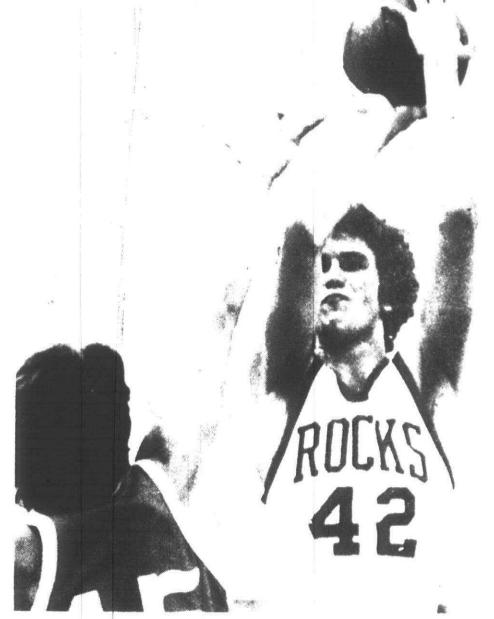

Petsch, the second leading scorer in the school's long history, connected for over 30 points per game on eight different occasions this year. He also had nine games with 20 or more rebounds.

Headed for the University of Michigan on a football scholarship, Petsch also claimed the state crown in the shot put last year.

Dave Decoster, senior, Redford Bishop Borgess. The bigger of the Decoster twins, Dave is a 6-7, 195pound forward who grabbed All-Catholic, All-Metro, and All-State honors along with the Observer-area selec-

The four-year varsity starter compiled over 1,000 points in high school career and is the school's alltime leading scorer and rebounder. He has led the Spartans to two consecutive district titles in the past two seasons along with a combined record of 32-12.

"Dave is an excellent jump shooter and driver," said Borgess coach Ron (Continued on page 2C)

Will maintenance men be ready?

The weather is finally getting warmer and school is out for spring vacation this week.

This combination can mean only one thingpreparation for spring sports.

Yes, believe it or not, spring is here and the outside sports scene is only one short week away when the Plymouth Salem boys track team opens the activities with a home meet against Ann Arbor

And this same outside action will contine until the school year is over in the middle of June

This spring, Plymouth-Canton community fans can look forward to two more sparkling baseball teams from Salem and Canton. Who knows? Both teams may face one another again in the districts, and boy, wouldn't that be a showdown?

Both squads are once again favored to win league championships. Canton guns for its fourth straight Western Six League title while Salem tries to regain the form it had in 1975 and 1976 against Suburban Eight League competition.

Both girls softball teams look promising as well, and one never knows about the youth and experience which the girls and boys track teams strive to develop each season.

The community should also feature some of the top girls golfers, and everyone knows of the boys tennis talent at both schools.

WHILE EVERYTHING looks bright and hopeful for the spring (and I pray the weather will cooperate with some brightness of its own), there is still one small, gray cloud which should be mentioned before it turns into an evil storm.

I'm speaking about the maintenence of the baseball and softball fields and the upkeep of the track and tennis courts.

(The girls golf teams don't have to worry-I'm sure the local golf course with maintain its property.)

Last year, I made a big stink over the lack of maintenence of the facilities at the Centennial Educational Park and what a waste of taxpapers money it was. The land was abused and not properly taken care of by the maintenence department.

The reason I remind everyone of this unfortunate situation at this time, before the seasons open is that I fear the same problem could exist again

It was a very rough winter with the ice and snow, and I know many of the fields are not the best of shape right now.

With the warm weather, however, it is time for the track and tennis surfaces to undergo any repairs it needs, before the starter's gun fires.

Hopefully early next week, the maintenence department can then begin to start helping with the care of the four high school diamonds.

And this care should continue throughout the season until middle June when school lets out for the summer.

I KNOW the maintenence problem isn't a big one yet—it's still too early and the weather is still too nasty.

But it's definitely time to start preparing for the work ahead. The season gets into full swing with all the teams competing in the next three weeks. Let's just remember what happened last year with the poor upkeep of the CEP facilities, and hope it doesn't happen again this year.

I really want it to be a happy (and warm) spring

Mud and water covered the Plymouth Canton girls' softball diamond as well as all the u fields early this week. With the spring sports season almost here, the maintenance department will have its hands full when the weather improves. (Staff photo by Gary Gutkowski. "He is a poised and confident leader and will be a big plus for the college he selects.

Bill Peterson, senior, Livonia Clarenceville. The 6-5, 200-pound center has been the mainstay of the Trojan program over the past three years. He holds the school record for most points and rebounds in his career and also holds the all-time record for most points scored in a single season.

The three-year varsity letter winner has always been in the starting line up during that span. The well-rounded player was strong inside but also shot at an impressive 59 per cent clip from the outside during his career.

"Bill has improved each of his three vears and still has not reached his total potential," said Clarenceville coach Bob Wolf. "He has been just a tremendous asset to our program as a player and off the court,

The All-Metro West Leauge firstteamer averaged 22.6 points and 12.5 rebounds this season

SECOND TEAM

Rich Hewlett, junior, Plymouth Salem The sixth player selected by the coaches was an All-State quarterback. But don't be fooled-Hewlett is an excellent basketball player as

The six-foot guard was the Rocks' second-leading scorer this season with over 12 points per game. He was the leading assist man and second leading rebounder for Salem enroute to a second-team All-Suburban Eight League selection for the second-straight year.

Rich is an excellent defensive player and made many game breaking plays in many victories," said Tho-

Hewlett played varsity basketball as

Harold 'Butch' King, junior, Plymouth Canton The All-Western Six League selection has one of the best outside shots in the area, causing many teams to play special defenses to stop him. The 6-1, 170-pound guard led the Chiefs in scoring with a 21.3

game this year. King made 75 per cent of his free throws and 50 per cent of his outside court and as a co-captain off the court. shots. He led the guards in rebounds average and scored 43 points in one and assists for the Chiefs.

"Butch has excellent outside range but also led the team in lay ups and lay up conversions," said Canton coach Casey Cavell. "He is a cool. heady player and very coachable.'

Dave Stone, senior, Livonia Bentley. The 6-5, 185-pound swing player was a first-team All-Suburban Eight League selection for the co-champion Bulldogs. Alternating from guard to forward, Stone hit on 53 per cent of his shots from the floor and was the team's leading rebounder with 217.

Stone is an excellent ball-handler but is also one of the strongest inside players in the area. He is an excellent leaper, as well, posting a 29" vertical

Eric Thorderson, 'junior, Livonia Bentley. The All-Sub-8 forward led the Bulldogs in scoring (365 points), assists (88) and blocked shots (35) this season. The mobile 6-5, 165-pound cager was the core of first-year coach Jim Komula's squad this season, displaying excellent outside shooting Thorderson is a top-notch student as well, compiling a 3.8 grade point average. He is an outstanding leader on and off the court.

Dave Hall, sophomore, Livonia Stevenson. Hall was the only sophonore selected on the All-Observer squad showing the potential this 6-3, 180pound forward possesses. He was the Spartans' leading scorer with 309 points and broke a school record with 320 rebounds. He blocked 76 shots and was second on the team in steals.

An all-around athlete, Hall played varsity football last fall as a quarterback and also high jumps in track.

"Dave has a great attitude and hates to lose," said Stevenson coach George VanWagoner about his Most Valuable

THIRD TEAM

Tom Jurewicz, senior, Westland John Glenn. The 6-5, 205-pound center was at his best this season in the big games, helping Glenn to the league and district crowns. An All-Northwest Suburban League selection in football and basketball, Jurewicz was a team leader in shooting percentage on the

Butch King moved well inside in addition to showing some sweet shooting from the outside enroute to a second-team All-Observerland award this season. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Heaton, Sochacki named best spikers

Susan Rich and Stacy O'Toole of Livonia Churchill and Kelly Heaton and Laurie Beck of Plymouth Canton were four of the six girls honored as first-team Western Six League vollevbail players.

The other two spikers to receive first-team recognition were Lori Hopping and Chris Suddendorf of North-

The Chargers won the league championship with a 9-1 dual match record. Canton placed second, one game behind Churchill with an 8-2 mark. Northville was third at 4-6, while Waterford Mott, Walled Lake Western and Farmington Harrison all finished with 3-7 marks to round out the stand-

According to the volleyball league rules, all six teams placed one girl each on the second and third teams.

Gail Oljace (Churchill), Kathy Sochacki (Canton), Kim Kratz (Northville), Ann Reiche (Mott), Marie Kurzeja (Harrison), and Patty Stock (Western) were selected as secondteam league representatives.

Members of the third-team Western-6 squad included Paulette Widmaier (Churchill), Judy Freiman (Canton). Diana Perpich (Northville), Carla Banas (Mott), Carrie Chan (Harrison), and Barb Grimshare (Western)

Observer honors area roundballers

The three-year varsity letter winner is the third all-time leading rebounder in Glenn history and was the biggest inside threat for the Rockets this year.

Dan Decoster, senior, Redford Bishop Borgess. The other Borgess twin, a 6-4, 185-pound swing man is also a top college prospect, gaining All-Catholic and All-Metro honors. He averaged 16 points, 10 rebounds and four assists per game, playing both forward and guard.

"Dan was our team leader," said Borgess coach Ron Gutkowski. "He was the most intense competitor whom I've ever coached.'

Jim Dziekan, senior, Garden City East. The Panthers top player this season, Dziekan finished with a 44 per cent shooting clip from the floor and 73 per cent from the charity line. The 6-112, 180-pound guard averaged 18.3 points, seven rebounds and five steals

"Jim is the best player East has had for moving without the ball to get open," said Panther coach Billy Joe Young. "He was a marked player for our opponents to defense.'

Chris Baker, junior, Livonia Franklin. The B- average student is a 6-4, 190-pound forward who averaged 15.5 points and 14 rebounds per game for the Patroits this season. He jumps well for his size and has quickness toward the basket. He is agile in close but also has a fine outside shot.

'Chris will have great leadership ability next season to go along with his basketball talents," said Franklin coach Jim McIntyre.

Jeff Hall, senior, Livnoia Stevenson. The older Hall brother rebounded from two injuried seasons as a sophomore and a junior to have a great senior campaign as a Spartan. The 6-0, 160pound guard was the second-leading scorer for Stevenson and led his club

A good driver and outside shooter, Hall quarterbacked the Stevenson offense from the point position. The All-Inter Lakes League selection is also a 3.7 student.

Whatever your age ... whatever your needs ... Observer & Eccentric classified ads will go to work for you. Young families with children find these little ads invaluable when they are looking for baby furniture, want to hire a babysitter or need to sell outgrown articles.

Retired people turn to their hometown newspaper's classified ads when they have articles for sale, are looking for an apartment or want to rent their investment properties.

And a whole range of people . . . between rocking horse and rocking chair sets . . . look to these ads for jobs, homes, automobiles and endless other items and services every day.

It's so easy to place a classified ad; just dial one of the numbers listed below.

While the final tabulations have not been made, the statewide charity tournament sponsored by the bowling proprietors is certain to go over the top

Early returns show that more than 90,000 bowlers throughout the state took part and the figure may well reach close to 95,000 when the qualifying rounds end. If that figure is reached, more than $50,000 will be distributed among several charities for an all-time high.

THIS MAY COME as a shock to many of the followers of the all-stars who figured that Joe Norris, the old time Stroh star, was one of the elite group known as the greaest of all time.

But in a recent poll taken among the bowling writers of the nation Joe was rated no better than 12th.

Of course, he bowled in the days before the TV pro tour, and missed the national spotlight that now shines on such stars as Earl Anthony and his HIGH SCORES often come up in the most unusual places. Take the case of Tom Le Beau, for example.

Bowling in a mixed league at Super Bowl in Canton, he came up with a 279 game that enabled him to reach the 700 barrier. He hit that figure right on the nose.

THEY ARE STILL TALKING about the great series Louise Staley contributed in the newcomers league at Plaza Lanes. She opened with a 246, followed with a 224 and closed with 174 for a

Arlene Sills also placed her name on the honor roll of unusual performances when she posted a 162 triplicate. And

Buzz Wray paced the Monday men's league with a consistent series that brought games of 214, 212 and 203 for a

BOB GOIKE JR returned to the winners' circle in the Little Caesar Classic at Westland Bowl, thanks to an opening 269 game. This started him on the way to a 693 and a wide lead over Rick Capaldi, who took the runner-up spot with 626. Third place went to John Wodarski with 623.

In the women's division, Mary Mohacsi again showed the way with a 602, while Marion Saunders placed second with 583 and Jean Rizzo landed third with 550

And, from another unexpected source-the Monday men's league-Jack Cashatt used a 279 to post a 706. To add to the week's excitement, Ann Gainer rolled 111 pins over her average with a 261 game in a 561 series. Anita Jenkins shared the spotlight with a 232 game in a 513 series.

BETTY MARKWARDT moved into the winners' circle in the Livonia Ladies Classic when she won the final of a three-game set with 186-32-218 and then took the series with 566-96-

In the other games, Dorothy Goryca won the first with 206-21-237 and Loretta Moersch captured the second with 208-25-233.

IN THE VINCO LEAGUE at Garden Lanes, Andy Neil turned in one of his best showings of the year. He found the range for a 694. Meanwhile, Jess Mondella paced the St. John Boscoe circuit with a 629

W.W. EDGAR

THE SENIOR CITIZENS had a great time in the Good Timers league at Plymouth Bowl. When the fun subsided Bill Brielmaier and Nick Lopez were deadlocked at the top with counts

GEORGIE LITTEL joined the split conversion group at Woodland Lanesa when she toppled the 6-7, while Nancy Belanger moved to the front in the ladies league with a 520 series.

IT WAS A REAL BATTLE royal in the Bowlerettes league Monday night between Cora Fiebig's Luxury team and Anita Cantaline's Jac-Ro squad before Cora's group won 2988 to 2934.

The winners linked games of 919, 1035 and 1034, while Anita and her mates started with a 932, followed with 1022 and closed with 2934. It was one of the best battles of the year between these two teams.

Meanwhile, Bonnie Mc Kay took individual honors with a 242 high single.

If you're losing interest in interest rate claims, try 7.75%.

We think a lot of people have been confused for a long time about savings interest rates. Lately, we think they've become more confused by the numerous attempts to "straighten out the confusion."

So here is a simple fact: we pay 7.75% annual interest, guaranteed for the full term, on a six-year certificate savings account; no place pays a higher rate, and many places (possibly including the one where you're saving) are not allowed to pay as much.

To earn this high interest—which is an effective annual rate of 7.98%—just deposit $1,000 or more and leave it in the account for the full six years.

Obviously, it's not the account to have if you're saving up for this summer's vacation or September college tuition. But it just might be the account to have for your dream vacation, or for college tuition for a child who's now twelve, or even as a supplement to your retirement fund.

Type of Account	Minimum Amount	Annual Rate	Effective Annual Rate	How and When Paid
One-Year Certificate*	$1,000	6.50%	6.66%	Paid and compounded quarterly.
2½-Year Certificate*	$1,000	6.75%	6.92%	Paid and compounded quarterly.
4-Year Certificate*	$1,000	7.50%	7.71%	Paid and compounded quarterly.
6-Year Certificate*	$1,000	7.75%	7.98%	Paid and compounded quarterly.

What's more, this account, as you can see in the chart, is just one of many certificate savings plans we offer, all designed to help you have more money than you started with. Any of these accounts—even more than one—can be opened in addition to your First Federal Regular Savings Account. In fact, our Regular Savings Account is how many people get the $1,000 for the certificate account.

Come and talk with us about your savings goals. We'll help you plan how much to put where and for how long. If you already have a regular savings account or maturing certificate somewhere else, just bring your passbook with you and we'll have the funds transferred to First Federal. You'll find it pays to persons in the Detroit Metropolitan area has taken a position with Michigan's No. 1 Ford dealer, Stark Hickey West. Her meteoric rise in the auto business is partially attributable to the fact that her husband is also in auto sales. Many times, instead of candlelight and champagne, the conversation drifts to transmissions and engine components. She has been a Livonia resident for twenty years, has been active in many civic groups, and is an avid golfer.

MARKET ANALYSIS

ED SEXTON

HAS A MARK OF DISTINCTION THAT IS OBVIOUS TO ONE AND ALL Beautifully located in the City of Plymouth and containing the best of all possible inclusions. Large rooms are delightfully arranged revealing 6 bedrooms, 4 full baths, 2 half baths, and within both the gracious living room and hospitable family room are fireplaces that are handsomely conceived. The formal dining room is, indeed, quite special and of generous proportions. Laundry functions are more easily accomplished in a large room adjoining the kitchen. A Master bedroom sitting room, marble fover, finished basement, security system, a new inground heated pool, 31/2 car garage are a few of the many features that make this home a pleasure to live in and one the community's most admired residences $199,000. 453-8200.
