Fireworks seller blows his stack

By CRAIG PIECHURA

It wouldn't be stretching a point to say that businessman William Richardson has a short fuse when it comes to talking about the new state restrictions pertaining to the sale of fireworks.

"They keep saying we need these laws because fireworks have blown off the fingers of children," Richardson said. "The Class C fireworks we are selling are incapable of blowing off someone's fingers."

"A roman candle or fountain display can cause burns if used improperly, but so can a match. Do they put out political propaganda calling for a ban on all matches? No."

"An axe can cause severe cuts and could very easily fall into the hands of children. Why stop at fireworks? Why don't we ban the sale of axes?"

Richardson, of Romulus, is a fireworks retailer and wholesaler. He also puts on public Class B fireworks displays in communities throughout the state. He believes the whole fireworks industry is on the verge of being shut down because people think they are banning powerful explosives such as cherry bombs and M-80s. Cherry bombs and M-80s are already banned by federal law, Richardson said, and only bootleggers sell them.

THE AMERICAN TRADITION of fireworks displays—or pyrotechnics—should not be taken away from responsible adults, Richardson maintains, "just so some asinine, uninformed state legislator can win some votes."

"Right now we are dealing with people who have no knowledge of the components and the laws of fireworks," Richardson said. "The things we are selling now are approved and regulated by the federal government and the fireworks industry. They have been approved by the Department of Transportation and are legal for sale in the United States. Now, all of a sudden some of these bastards in Lansing think they know everything about fireworks."

Richardson had to remove many popular items—such as rockets and roman candles—from his shelves last week because these devices explode in the air and that means they're banned by the state's six-month emergency law covering fireworks.

However, Richardson's firm, Independence Fireworks Company, Inc., is still selling a wide assortment of non-explosive Class C fireworks including airplane devices that release a stream of colors, satellites that spray out jets of sparks and cones or fountains that emit a multi-colored shower when ignited.

State police troopers ordered Tri-City Gifts of Canton to stop selling

Fireworks ban bypassed here

By CRAIG PIECHURA

Class C fireworks were being sold in at least three locations in Canton early this week after the state's emergency ban on dangerous fireworks went into effect.

Airplane devices that fly in the air and release a stream of sparks were being sold openly at Tri-City Gifts, 47405 Michigan Avenue and cone-shaped fountains which emit a colorful shower of sparks were being sold at two Star Stop stores in the township.

Canton Township's fireworks ordinance was published yesterday and officially became law. Canton police said they would visit fireworks retailers before enforcing the law.

"We're not going to surprise them and confiscate everything on the shelves," said Det. Sgt. Larry Stewart. "They'll all be forewarned of the local law."

The township law requires anyone wishing to sell fireworks to post an indemnity bond—"not to exceed $1 million"—with the township public safety commission before conducting business.

The business establishment must pass a safety inspection from the public safety commission. And, before selling any fireworks permitted under state law to an adult, Canton retailers must record the name, address, age, phone number and driver's license number of the purchaser.

The fireworks retailer or wholesaler must also record the type and amount of fireworks to be sold and keep that information on file for two years.

POLICE SAID the local law preceded the state effort to ban dangerous fireworks and was prompted by a recent fire in a field and a fire on the roof of an apartment in the Honeytree complex, both of which were set by fireworks.

Violators of the township ordinance can be fined up to $500 and be given as much as 90 days in jail.

Don Tautkus of Ypsilanti, the manager of Tri-City Gifts, where numerous non-exploding fireworks are sold, said he has "nothing to hide" and is convinced the business is operating within the bounds of the new state law.

Two state police troopers paid a visit to Tri-City Gifts last Saturday and made him remove the roman candles and rockets from the shelves.

Tautkus identified Gene Burton and Robert Slayton as owners of Tri-City Gifts, located on Michigan Avenue, east of Beck.

Between bites of a cheese sandwich, Tautkus held up a fist full of petitions signed by customers who oppose a strict fireworks ban.

"I'll tell you my honest opinion," Tautkus said. "It's the politicians and the press that's putting us out of business. That's what ruined Nixon. Once the press is against you, you've had it. I'm not sticking up for Nixon, mind you."

Tautkus said he's set off "probably 10,000 fireworks and he's never been burned. He said he's also chased away anyone younger than 18 who attempted to buy fireworks."

Adult customers enjoy "the different designs, there's something about the colors," Tautkus explained in defense of fireworks.

"If it's because they're supposed to be dangerous, why let businesses sell people beer or whiskey? They're more dangerous than these fireworks. Why sell people gun shells? Why pick on just this one thing?"

"Why take everything away from people that they enjoy, just so some politician can act like he's doing something?"

Sgt. Stewart of the Canton Police Department estimated that close to 80 per cent of the complaints lodged this month with the department concern fireworks use or sales.

The tighter restrictions in the new township law "should substantially effect" vendors such as Tri-City Gifts, according to Stewart.

John and Dude's towing wins storage lot approval

The owner of an automobile towing service has sidestepped a Canton ban on the storage of "junk" cars in order to expand his business and build a car storage lot.

John Barnette of John and Dude's Towing Service finally convinced the Canton Board of Trustees last week to approve his plans for the storage lot on Sheldon, south of Michigan.

Barnette, who has operated the towing service for about a year, has been trying to win site plan approval for the storage lot for the past six months.

His efforts repeatedly failed because of a clause in the township's blight ordinance that prohibits the storage of junk cars without a junkyard license. The law defines junk cars as any automobile that cannot move under its own power.

The blight ordinance is now being reviewed to amend the junk car ban.

Bradley moved to refer the matter to the Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) for a variance. Her motion died for lack of support.

Barnette has already appeared before the ZBA to ask for the junkyard license that would allow him to store inoperable cars under Provisions of the blight ordinance. His request was denied.

BARNETTE sidestepped the junk car ban last week by promising township board members that he would store only operable cars on the lot.

The cars would include automobiles abandoned on township streets, cars driven by persons arrested for drunk driving and cars in Ford Motor Co.'s inventory.

Barnette said he would tow inoperable cars disabled in accidents to a yard in Van Buren Township.

The township ordinance department has ticketed Barnette for storing junk cars at his former business place at 5626 Sheldon, across the street from the site of the proposed storage yard.

But Barnette told township board members that he has moved all the inoperable cars to his new, temporary headquarters in Belleville.

Barnette moved out of the site he rented at 5626 Sheldon after his landlord served him with an eviction notice following the issuance of the blight ordinance citation.

Barnette's promises were not good enough for all township board members, however.

Treasurer Anne Bradley maintained that storage yards are not a specified use in the M-2 zoning district where Barnette's property is located. Other board members disagreed, however, and said storage yards are an "implied" use under M-2 zonings.

"I'VE BEEN TRYING to get this approved for six months," Barnette objected. "I come to the township, and you tell me to go to the Zoning Board of Appeals. The only thing's that's been stopping you are these cars that don't move under their own power."

"Well, I changed my mind on that," he said. "I feel the whole thing's unfair. When I bought that land a year ago, I was told that what I wanted to do was as legal as it could be."

In the end, board members voted 4-2 to approve a motion by Trustee Brian Schwall to grant Barnette's request for site plan approval. Bradley and Trustee Eugene Daley dissented, and Trustee Lynne Goldsmith was absent.

"There is a need for this type of facility in the township," Schwall said.

"I also happen to believe that inoperable cars should be allowed there too. If my car gets racked up on Ford Road, there's a need to put it somewhere other than in my own driveway."

Schwall invited Barnette to return to the township board for permission to store inoperable cars once the blight ordinance is amended.

"I will," said the towing service owner. "You're not going to get rid of me."

Hope fading for historic house

Money—$15,000 to $30,000 of it—is all that's preventing members of the Wayne-Westland Arts Association from saving a 149-year-old Canton Township house from a wrecking crew.

That's an estimate of how much it will cost to relocate the house from its present site on Ford Road east of I-275 to Central City Park behind Westland City Hall.

The arts association wants to renovate the house for use as a museum. It has until Thursday night to raise the money.

Four developers who are buying the land parcel just outside Westland's boundaries want the house removed so they can begin building an entertainment center this year.

The developers have given the arts group until Thursday night to either get a firm financial commitment from the Westland City Council or to collect at least enough money to move the house to one side of the site.

The Thursday night deadline is an extension of an earlier one set when the city council was expected to act on the relocation proposal in a special Tuesday night meeting. The council, however, declined to make any commitment until a firm price on relocation is received.

The council did pass a resolution, supporting House Bill 2026, still in committee, which would provide some

Canton listed among suburbs having inadequate households

By TIM RICHARD

In southeast Michigan there are some 211,000 inadequately housed households.

While almost 56 per cent are in Detroit, such suburbs as Canton Township, Garden City, Livonia, Redford Township and Westland all have dozens or even hundreds of inadequately housed households apiece.

Details are in a "Housing Opportunity Plan" by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments. The SEMCOG plan was approved June 16 by the executive committee, and Executive Director Michael Glusac has sent copies to the local governments.

SEMCOG's General Assembly, where every member of the voluntary planning agency has a vote, will take up the housing plan June 28.

It's not so much a SEMCOG plan, said housing program manager Robert O. McMahon, as SEMCOG's compilation of local housing plans. "HUD says each government must do a Housing Assistance Plan," McMahon explained. "The council of governments takes the numbers and does a Housing Opportunities Plan."

Only the 39 local governments in the seven-county region with populations of more than 25,000 are included. That eliminated the two Plymouth and two Northville governments.

HERE, BY UNIT of government, is the breakdown of inadequately housed households as outlined in the plan:

•Canton Township—303 total inadequately housed households, including 65 owner-occupied and 238 renters. The plan sets a three-year goal of assisting 38 households.

•Garden City—437 total, including 103 owner-occupied and 334 renters. The goal is to assist 91 by 1981.

•City of Livonia—808 total, including 202 owner-occupied and 606 renters. Goal: to assist 137 by 1981.

•Redford Township—1,666 total, including 1,092 owner-occupied and 574 renters. Goal: to assist 390.

•City of Westland—1,452 total, including 365 owner-occupied and 1,087 renters. Goal: to assist 267.

"THE DOCUMENT sets, as a three-year goal, the assistance of 43,000 households or approximately 20 per cent of the total need," the plan says.

"The distribution of housing assistance by housing type is regionally proposed for the three-year period to consist of 51 per cent new construction, 33 per cent rehabilitation and 16 per cent existing housing assistance payments."

Thus, among the elderly where low income is the problem, housing assistance payments would be the preferred method.

Where the structure (particularly the plumbing) is dilapidated, new construction or rehabilitation would be preferred.

WHAT MAKES a household inadequate housed?

According to the plan, owner-occupied housing is inadequate when it "a) is lacking some or all plumbing or is dilapidated with all plumbing facilities; and/or b) overcrowded, defined as 1.25-plus persons per room; and/or c) 30 years or older and valued at less than 70 per cent of the median value for the SMSA (tri-county area)."

Renter-occupied housing is inadequate when it "a) lacks some or all plumbing or is dilapidated with all plumbing facilities and/or b) overcrowded, defined as 1.25-plus persons per room and/or c) requires of the household the payment of 25 per cent or more of its annual income for rent."

THE PLAN lists criteria for SEMCOG to follow in judging communities' applications for federal assistance. Sample site selection objectives:

"Residential sites should be chosen toward achieving a reduction in the concentration of low and moderate income households.

"Residential sites should be chosen in areas of assured available public and private facilities and services adequate to serve the proposed housing development or redevelopment's households.

"Residential sites should be chosen to provide for and enhance the more limited mobility of both the elderly and handicapped, where appropriate.

"Priority shall be given to those sites which do not adversely impact fragile resource lands...or foster direct or indirect environmental degradation.

"Priority shall be given to those sites which do not require substantial water, sewer, gas and/or electric utility service extension outside of existing fully-served areas.

"Priority shall be given to those sites served by adequate public transportation.

"Priority shall be given to those sites which, when fully developed, will not generate vehicular traffic in excess of impacted roadway capacity."

It's the berries

It's berry pickin' time down in Canton, but you'd better get in the fields while the gettin's good. Canton court annex to ease docket load

The minimum court space needed likely will be offset by other factors within a couple of years.

Davis said he was sure two judges would not be sitting in the Plymouth courtroom at the same time. Rather, two judges would set up a schedule dividing their time among Plymouth, Northville and Canton.

The 35th District consists of 72 square miles and covers Plymouth and Plymouth Township, Canton, Northville and Northville Township. Currently, some 30 per cent of the cases are conducted in the Northville court facility and 70 per cent in Plymouth.

When Canton opens its court facility, Davis said, about 30 per cent of the cases will be heard in Canton, 30 per cent in Northville, and 40 per cent in Plymouth.

"With the caseload heard in the city being reduced by about 40 per cent, we won't need as much space here in the short run as previously anticipated," Davis added that one clerk presently employed probably will be transferred to Canton.

Based on past practices, Canton will be asked to share about 30 per cent of the court's expenses, based on the number of cases heard in the township. Canton also would receive a similar proportion of district court income, estimated to be about $30,000 a year.

The added salary expenses for the second judge is expected to include part of the judge's salary, pay for a court reporter, secretary, and possibly a clerk and court officer. The state pays all of a district judge's salary except for some $6,600 which the local governments provide in supplemental pay.

The real financial impact for Plymouth and Canton is unknown at this point. For Northville, though, the current expenses and revenue is apt to continue as is.

THE MAJOR REASON the second judicial position was created was because the 35th District had the largest caseload in the state of any single-judge district.

And that caseload is increasing as population grows in Canton and Plymouth townships.

Another contributing factor was lobbying efforts by Canton Township officials to create a separate judicial district rather than splitting the district.

One of the reasons for choosing two judges over splitting the district is the program of loaning district judges to circuit court to help keep circuit dockets current. A second judge will keep the 35th District running smoother when Davis is assigned to the circuit bench, and vice versa.

City Hall, said Judge Davis, but the relief will be offset by other factors within a couple of years.

Seven candidates will be on the August primary ballot for the second judgeship, which initially will be for a four-year term. The two with the largest number of votes in August will face each other in the general election in November. Davis is running unopposed for the six-year term.

The candidates for the four-year term are Maurice Breen of Plymouth, Philip Ogilvie of Northville, Craig John of Canton, Walter Guth of Plymouth, James Garber of Plymouth, Aloysius Suchy of Northville, and Allen Ingle of Northville.

New number for police is 397-3350

With Monday's start-up of 24-hour police protection, Canton Police also got a new telephone number.

Instead of calling the township administration building number—397-1000—residents should dial the police department's new phone number—397-3350.

Until the township office workers move to the new administration building in August persons can be connected with the police department by calling the old number too.

"But it's a lot easier if you use the new number," said a police department spokesman. "If all four lines are tied up, we answer the police number first."

Chamber relocates

The Canton Chamber of Commerce has moved its office to 5773 Canton Center, the site of Frank McMurray's State Farm Insurance office. The chamber's phone number remains the same—453-4040.

The chamber's previous headquarters was the back office of Norwood Real Estate in Harvard Square shopping center.

McMurray is considering renovating his building and renting to other tenants. McMurray is also a Democratic candidate for Canton Township trustee in the August primary.

New township hall behind schedule

Unfinished cosmetics and a pipefitter's union strike could set Canton administrators back a month in their plans to move into the new township administration building.

According to Finance Director Mike Gorman, bids from moving companies are being accepted right now but the pipefitter's labor dispute could set the moving date back from the projected Aug. 4 occupancy date.

Pipefitters still have to install yards of ductwork in the ceilings of the three-story structure. Grading of the grounds still has to be completed, moveable partitions between rooms have to be installed, carpeting has to be laid, doors and cupboards and the hardware that goes with it is yet to be done.

The windows and doors on the exterior of the building are installed and the building can be secured at night. Construction workers were erecting a concrete overhang for the driveway of the building on Tuesday.

An elevator is in, but is not yet functioning. Electrical trim is incomplete and the public address system and acoustical tiles have not been installed.

Resilient flooring in the basement is not in yet.

Gorman said the project will come in just under the $2.7 million budget, with the majority of the money coming from a federal grant. But the cost of construction will force Canton to pay for "frills" such as a flagpole, safety deposit box, bulletin boards and flower boxes.

All of the township departments such as the building department and the offices of Canton's supervisor, clerk and treasurer will move over to the new building at the same time, Gorman said.

The move should be a three-day process, according to Gorman. The old office will be closed to the public on a Friday to allow employees to pack their files and desks. On Saturday the professional mover will take the files and office equipment to the new building. On Monday, the offices will be closed to the public to allow employees time to unpack and get settled in the new headquarters.

"That way nobody'll be walking in while we're packing and getting in the way," Gorman said.

The phone numbers for the township won't change in the move. General office number is 397-1000 and the building department is 397-1005.

A salute to babies and burgers

How's that tired old newspaper cliché go anyway? What happens to reporters isn't news, what happens to people is. Something like that.

It's like when the managing editor of The Detroit News, Burt Stoddard, tricks you into telling him that you think you know how to write at a job interview. He then proceeds to tell you, like many before you, that he's not interested in people who can write because he's looking for people who can report news. Good writers are a dime a dozen, and this ain't the Literary Digest.

So what does this all have to do with Patrick and Pamela Touhey and the birth of their identical twin boys a week ago last Tuesday? A lot.

Strict newspaper tradition dictates that I'm not supposed to write about their first and second born because it would sound too parochial. Columnists are supposed to leave the newsroom to get their ideas. What happens to reporters like Patrick isn't news.

Well, tough toenails, cause I'm writing about the two new Touheys anyway. Nyah, nyah, nyah.

Naming the twins was Pat and Pam's job, but that didn't stop people in the newsroom from making snide suggestions for naming the dynamic duo. Inevitable names for the twins surfaced, like "Huey and Dewey Touhey."

"Yeah, there were a lot of those," said the beaming ex-bachelor with the Polaroid snapshot in his hand.

From there the name game deteriorated, with suggestions such as "One-y and Two-ey Touhey," "Ying and Yang Touhey," and "Ooey and Gooley Touhey." You get the idea.

But for the sake of the children, the parents would have none of this and named them Sean (the oldest) and Justin (time).

Fearing that everyone would want two, Dad didn't spring for cigars. What do you expect from a guy who puts vitamins, granola and bananas into a blender each morning and feeds this fortified slop to his wife? (It must've worked.)

But here's looking at you, kids. In fact, let's salute these siblings individually, with separate sentences. Hats off to you, Sean. Best wishes to you, Justin. Now tell your dad to get back to work. We've got a paper to get out here.

ANOTHER NEW ARRIVAL locally is the White Castle hamburger emporium at Ford Road and the I-275 expressway. This news has caused consternation among environmentalists. They're concerned that Ford Road might be destined to become another burger strip in Canton as it is in Westland and Garden City.

Most of my friends, though, welcome the White

Castle and consider it one of the few encouraging things to come out of Canton lately.

It opened this week and its white turrets cast a ghostly white light on Ford road when viewed from the expressway at night.

Night is when White Castle restaurants shine anyway. They are the home of nighthawks with cast-iron stomachs who provide their own floor show.

Case in point: A friend of mine and myself stumbled into a White Castle restaurant on Woodward Avenue near Eight Mile early one a.m. and ordered the usual—five-on-one with a carton of chocolate-milk. Next to us sat two grizzled men with fresh bruises and cuts on their faces—probably caused by a mutual disagreement or an after-drinking ambulatory problem.

Bum No. 1 turned to us and began to tell us what "the 10 Best Songs Ever Recorded" were in his humble opinion.

This down-and-outer's top 10 included "Battle Hymn of the Republic," "The Battle of New Orleans," "Sink the Bismarck," "Soldier Boy," "Blue Navy Blue," "The Ballad of the Green Berets," "Goodbye Cruel World, I'm Off to Join the Army," "Dixie," and, curiously enough, "My Girl."

As if on cue, my friend started singing the bass, do-wap introduction to "My Girl." The four of us did our honky best to be true to the Temptations version of the song.

By the time we got to the "I guess you say, what can make me feel this way" crescendo, the White Castle waitress came by, brandishing a spatula in her hand. She told us if we didn't shut up we'd get the spatula across the face.

Maybe that's how those guys got the fresh cuts and bruises, but we didn't stick around to find out. With every burp the next day, I relived this cultural landslide.

So, I'll raise a soggy hamburger and a carton of chocolate milk in a toast to Canton's newest business.

If they are not remembered for fine food, at least White Castle will go down in history for starting the most ingenious ad campaign ever. They turned a potential liability into an asset when they informed the public that the "holes are extra" in every hamburger patty they serve. (A machine punches out five holes in every burger White Castle serves. The punched-out meat is made into other burgers and the holes provide uniform cooking, so they say.)

"The holes are extra," eh? Talk about making a silk purse (not to mention hamburgers) out of a sow's ear.

Conservation corps cleans up

By SUSAN ROGERS

A group of Plymouth Township and Canton Township young people are improving the environment, earning credit and money, and having fun at the same time.

The YCCIP (Youth Community Conservation Improvement Project) is a program managed by Growth Works, a private, non-profit corporation in Plymouth, made up of three components: community and neighborhood services, youth services and counseling, and intervention services.

The program has been designed to provide complementary work and learning experiences for participants, most of whom have evidenced poor school performance.

The YCCIP's latest effort, according to youth coordinator Paul Chamberlin, is cleaning the stream bed of Tonquish Creek. The creek's face lift also includes erosion control and new entrance and nature identification signs.

CHAMBERLIN EXPLAINED that YCCIP is comprised of 22 young people, aged 16-19, primarily from Plymouth and Canton townships.

"It is an eight-month program federally funded by the Department of Labor. The kids earn three high school credits and $2.65 an hour while assisting in the development of three park sites in the local community."

He also explained that in addition to on-the-job training, the youths are exposed to classroom studies. These include basic employment skills, learning to manage a checkbook and apply for a loan. Female participants discuss women's issues, alternative roles for women, and child rearing.

"The kids work 40 hours each week during the summer and 20 during school term. This particular program began in March and will run till the end of September," said Chamberlin. "Joining is done through a recruitment program and once the student is in the program he must remain until its conclusion."

In addition to classroom studies and job experience, the program also has job placement goals.

"Those out of school receive job placement counseling and those in school are channeled into a career program in school. If the person is a drop-out, we try to get him back in school."

Chamberlin and his two staff associates, Jim Grimmer, technical advisor, and Shari Frank, supervisor-coordinator, hope to get the program funded for next year.

"This is the first year for the program, and we're having a lot of fun operating it," said Chamberlin. "The participants are enjoying the experience and we're receiving good response from the residents."

Other areas that have been aided by the young people are West Point Park in Plymouth Township and Canton's Griffin Park, where picnic tables were repaired and shrubs were transplanted. Young seedlings were given a new home in a Canton nursery.

In addition to job experience, the staff provides tutorial and small group instruction in basic skills. A series of basic competencies must be mastered by all students in the program. GED certification also is conducted.

Fireworks fan fights ban

rockets and roman candles—which explode in the air—last Saturday but told the retailer that he could continue to sell the airplanes and fountains because they filled with "visual explosive contents," not "audible explosive contents."

"Two state cops came in here Saturday and told me, 'I'll give you half an hour to get rid of the rockets and the roman candles or I'm coming back,'" said Don Tautkus, owner of Tri-City, a business selling Class C fireworks.

"I said, 'You mean you're coming back with a warrant?' And the one guy said, 'No, I'll arrest you right on the spot.'"

"So I said, 'Thank you.'"

The state's emergency order now bans all fireworks—whether ground or aerial—that contain more than .772 grains of explosive.

Federal law states that ground fireworks cannot contain more than .772 grains of explosive and aerial fireworks—such as rockets and roman candles—cannot contain more than two grains of an explosive.

CANTON POLICE say they will look into the legality of all fireworks being sold in the township now that they have a local ordinance governing fireworks on the books. While the local ordinance doesn't prohibit the sale of fireworks, it places many restrictions on the seller—such as requiring him to post an indemnity bond and requiring the seller to record the name, age, address and license number of every adult fireworks buyer.

It also requires the seller to keep a record of the type and amount of fireworks sold for two years after the purchase.

Still hope to save house

funding for such transfers of historical buildings.

Another special meeting to consider the relocation will be at 6:30 p.m. Thursday in city council chambers.

In the meantime, arts association members are scrambling to find private donations to fund the relocation. Donations may be made by calling project chairwoman Diana Brooks at 728-1428 or by mailing a contribution to the Wayne-Westland Arts Association, Box 334, Westland 48185.

The arts association itself is contributing $1,000. Councilwoman Nancy Neal said she has commitments for private donations that so far total $1,500. She added that General Motors is willing to listen to a presentation requesting funds. GM owns a warehouse facility on Newburgh in Westland which is operated by Leaseway of Detroit.

The developers and arts association members had thought last Friday that the Greek Revival house was beyond saving when an unnamed subcontractor began tearing off the siding and roof.

A meeting with Robert Seymour, an architect who is a consultant to Livonia's historical group, revived hopes of saving the house, which has been called a local historical landmark.

"The house is still structurally sound," said Seymour. "I've never seen a wrecker go after a house with a pick, an ax and a crow bar. If he had used the usual bulldozer, the house would be gone now. But he said he thought he could use some of the siding, so it's still standing."

Seymour added that the wrecker actually did the arts group a favor by removing some of the plaster inside the house. He explained that the plaster will have to be removed to rewire and insulate the house.

Backpacking pro teaching here

Ann Fowler of Plymouth experiences "Rocky Mountain High" firsthand.

She's an experienced hiker and backpacker who's most at home in a pair of well-worn hiking boots and a 30-pound pack on her back.

She's also the instructor of a backpacking and hiking course offered by the Canton, Northville and Plymouth YMCA this summer.

"I hope the kids will learn to enjoy being outdoors with a group," she said. "I want them to learn to do as much as possible for themselves—cooking their own food, etc. They can get a taste of what it's like to be on their own."

The class, which is designed for 12 year olds and older, is a one week session July 10-16 Monday through Sunday.

The 9 a.m.-2:30 p.m. course includes a weekend overnight trip to Allegan State Game Area, transportation, a daily hike, conditioning, how to dress and how to cook.

"There will be canoeing depending on the number of adults I can get to go," said Mrs. Fowler. "I don't want to take the kids out there by myself even though I have my Water Safety Instructor certification."

Mrs. Fowler began her active involvement in hiking and backpacking in 1964, when she and a friend organized the Huron Valley Hikers, a group of high school girls who wanted advanced camping experiences. "I'd been involved with the Girl Scouts for some time, but there was nothing beyond the established camp sites for the girls," said Mrs. Fowler.

The Huron group took daily hikes in the summer and spring, weekend hikes once a month during the winter and one long two-week hike during the summer. They donned hiking boots in such places as Isle Royale in Lake Superior, Algonquin Provincial Park and Bruce Trail in Ontario, the Smokey Mountains, Vermont, New Hampshire, and the Rocky Mountains in Colorado and Montana.

Mrs. Fowler has watch interest in hiking and backpacking skyrocket during the past several years. "When I started there was no equipment available locally. We had to order everything we needed from Colorado and California—now it's possible to get sophisticated and improved equipment almost anywhere."

And why the increased interest in the sport? "Our society today seems so technological," Mrs. Fowler said. "I think now people want to get back in touch with the natural world. It's good for the spirit—it definitely changes your outlook on life."

Mrs. Fowler thinks it's helpful to take a course before strapping on your pack.

"When I started, there were no courses in hiking. Now they are offered in almost every area. I learned from experience what to take on a hike and what to leave at home."

She explained that novice backpackers take much more than they need on a hike. "Everyone needs the same basic equipment, but some like to take more for special interests such as fishing or a lightweight camera."

The backpack, which shouldn't weigh more than one-third to one-fourth a person's body weight, usually contains a raincoat or jacket, food in lightweight plastic containers and first aid equipment. "We take freeze-dried fruits, crackers instead of bread and powdered drinks. The secret is to keep it light."

Mrs. Fowler recommends renting hiking and backpacking equipment before making the big plunge into buying your own. "It's really best that way so you can see if you like the sport. Hiking boots and backpacks need to be specially fitted—people many times get turned off to the sport because they're ill-prepared."

Mrs. Fowler generally takes her hikers on established trails rather than out in the wilderness. "I'm concerned for the environment—if mobs of people start going out into the wilderness, it could be destroyed."

And mountain climbing is a different story. "We take the trails up the mountains. You can take the trails up to the top or make it on your own on a different face of the mountain. That takes different skills and equipment—mountain climbing and backpacking are cousins but are two different sports."

The experiences of a backpacker are many and varied. Mrs. Fowler relates stories of the many interesting people she and her hikers have come across.

"One young man we met had just graduated from school and was out on his own trying to find out what he wanted from life. Another had been in an accident on a farm and had had some head damage. He had been in a mental institution and was hiking with an attendant. He was finding his way back—healing by hiking I guess you could say."

Voters are split on tax reform

Voters responding to state Sen. Robert Geake's survey are split on reducing property taxes and increasing state personal income taxes.

Geake, Northville Republican whose district includes Plymouth, Livonia, Redford Township and the northeast corner of Westland, said that 51.1 per cent of about 7,100 answering the survey said they opposed a reduction in school property taxes with the funds to be made up by larger personal income taxes. He said 48.9 per cent favored the shift in school financing.

Geake said that the survey responses "indicates to me that those I represent want more than a mere shift in their tax burden. It clearly demonstrates their desire to see a cap on taxes altogether, and I concur."

The senator also said he is "encouraged by the California vote earlier last week to limit overtaxation and over-regulation by government and hope we will be able to obtain passage of a milder, but related, constitutional amendment here in Michigan this year."

California voters approved a state proposal by a 2-1 margin to reduce their property taxes by an average of 60 per cent. In Michigan, Geake is supporting a move by Taxpayers United for Tax Limitation which wants a slowdown of the rate of governmental spending. That proposal is expected to be on the Nov. 7 ballot.

Geake said he has been an active proponent of tax limitation since 1974 when he helped organized Taxpayers United. He now serves on the group's legislative advisory committee.

Geake said that about 10 per cent of the 71,000 homes receiving his survey responded with many reflecting comments from two or three adults in the same household.

On a related question of exempting senior citizens and others on fixed incomes from property taxes, persons answering the survey supported the exemption by a 61.4 per cent margin.

The survey also showed that voters support more changes in the state Single Business Tax so that mainly profits instead of gross income would be taxed. That concept was supported by 54.9 per cent of those answering the survey.

Geake said he was a supporter of the tax revisions approved by the legislature last year and sponsored a separate revision which was also adopted into law which allows for an income tax credit for payment of the state tax.

The senator also said other sections of his survey on education, crime, labor relations and other state issues, are being tallied and will be announced when the results are available.

County ponders Dehoco takeover

Wayne County Commissioners Mary E. Dumas and Richard E. Manning have been appointed to the board's new corrections committee.

Mrs. Dumas (R-Livonia) will serve as vice-chairman.

Manning (D-Redford), as vice chairman of the county board, will be an ex officio member of the committee.

The primary charge to the committee is to develop specific recommendations on the multi-million costs of housing county inmates - particularly in light of a recent announcement from the City of Detroit that it plans to close the Detroit House of Correction (Dehoco) in Plymouth on Dec. 1.

"The City of Detroit wants to get out of the jail business, stating that it is the responsibility of Wayne County to provide prisons for those convicted of state misdemeanor and municipal ordinance violations," Manning explained.

The city has operated the facility since 1861, when it was located on the current site of Eastern Market.

"A DEC. 1 county take-over of Dehoco creates enormous financial problems for the county, which already faces an $8-12 million budget deficit this year," Mrs. Dumas added.

"The county will have to spend at least $2.8 million more annually to operate Dehoco, plus the costs of purchase and renovation," she said.

"If the county takes over this facility, it will require a major remodeling job to meet new state and federal prison standards," Manning said. "But for starters, the City of Detroit's asking price is $18 million."

Detroit Mayor Coleman A. Young had asked Jarrette Simmons, chairman of the Board of Commissioners, to appoint representatives to begin negotiations with the city on the transfer of operating responsibility.

Mrs. Simmons was authorized by board resolution to appoint a committee to discuss Young's requests and to handle similar responsibilities previously delegated to the Board's new jail construction subcommittee.

In addition to the Dehoco transfer, the corrections subcommittee will oversee the construction of the county's new $31.7 million detention facility in downtown Detroit.

IT WILL ALSO consider:

- Substantial additional juvenile justice system costs required under the new state juvenile code - estimated at $8 million annually.

- Additional state-mandated circuit and recorder's court judgeships' courtroom and staff costs - estimated $3 million.

Other commissioners appointed to the corrections subcommittee include: Arthur M. Carter, chairman (D-Detroit); George F. Killeen (D-Detroit); William G. Suzzore (D-Lincoln Park); Norbert Wisniewski (D-Detroit); Samuel A. Turner (D-Detroit); and Maxine Young (D-Detroit).

Jarrette Simmons (D-Detroit), chairman of the Board of Commissioners, will serve as an ex officio member.

Lake Pointe homeowners reactivate association

The Lake Pointe Homeowners Association, inactive since the early 1970s is being reactivated.

Interim officers and directors have been elected and the group is planning a general membership meeting in the fall.

President of the organization is Nancy Grawe, 15047 Maplewood, who has been instrumental in efforts to reactivate the association. Mrs. Grawe moved recently to Plymouth Township from Baltimore, Md, where she had been active in a homeowners' group. "I saw first-hand what they can do," she said. "so I inquired among my neighbors in Lake Pointe and found plenty of interest. As a result, we have had two organizational meetings and we seem to be well on our way toward reactivating the group."

Lake Pointe is one of the township's largest subdivisions, consisting of 940 homes located between Five Mile and Wilcox roads.

"Lake Pointe is a great place to live and the goal of the homeowners association will be to help us maintain the high standards we already have in our neighborhood," said Mrs. Grawe.

The association has listed zoning enforcement, schools, annexation efforts by the City of Plymouth and general neighborhood appearance among its concerns. The association also hopes to provide Lake Pointe with a stronger voice in local government affairs, Mrs. Grawe added.

Other interim officers include: Myrna Hahn, secretary; William Golden, treasurer; Theodore Hennig, Lester King, Donald Howard, Edwina Dargo and Ben Lundamood, directors.

Perfect for that Disco Feeling

Copper Rivet has famous Angels Flight™ men's slacks... they make you look and feel so-o-o good!

There's a lot more to Angels Flight™ slacks than simply style or fit. It's more than just the disco look...more than just the popularity of some movie. It's more than having the right fabrics or colors. It's a whole concept that evolved from the snug, sexy look young men were getting from jeans. It's that kind of fit, but dressier. It has to do with body language - with what men want to communicate about themselves.

Three new ways to save with Security

Money Market Certificate

This new Money Market Certificate enables you to earn the same rate for the same term as six-month U.S. Treasury bills. The certificate is issued for a 26-week maturity in amounts of $10,000 or more at a rate which is constant for the term of your certificate. It is established weekly, and is equal to the average yield for six-month Treasury bills in the most recent weekly auction. On May 22 the rate was 7.14%.

Your funds are available at maturity without penalty, when you can choose a new Money Market Certificate at the then prevailing rate.* For more details on how this certificate can work for you, and for the current rate, please call us at 283-5000.

7³/₄% Certificate of Deposit

Earn 7³/₄% annually on $1,000 or more with this all-new 8-year* Security Certificate of Deposit. It's an ideal plan for a guaranteed high return over a long term. Interest is paid semi-annually.

8% IRA Account

Now all Security Bank IRA deposits earn 8% interest, compounded quarterly, yielding 8.24% annually. The new rate became effective for all new and existing Individual Retirement Custodial Accounts on June 6. Security's IRA accounts feature a $25 minimum deposit, have a three-year maturity* and are automatically renewable.

For complete information on qualifications, maximum annual contributions and tax-saving features, call or visit your nearest Security office.

*Federal law and regulation prohibit the payment of a time deposit prior to maturity unless three months of the interest thereon is forfeited and interest on the amount withdrawn is reduced to the passbook rate.

Equity asked on paving costs

Street improvement is not a routine item in Plymouth.

In fact it has become a much more complicated issue than the city commission and administration would like it to be.

After lengthy discussion before the city commission Monday night, action on assessing the cost of resurfacing four streets this year was delayed until the July 10 meeting.

"I'm really surprised that we have been building and assessing streets for so many years, and yet we have discussed so many basic issues as has been raised tonight. We should have had it down to a science by now," commented Mayor Thomas Turner after the long debates on assessing methods.

At issue was how assessments would be made to pay for asphalt resurfacing of four streets in the city. The roads are wider than the average residential streets, and are heavily used for commercial purposes.

The streets are Fralick from Harvey to Main, Main from Ann Arbor Trail to Amelia, Penniman Avenue from Main to Union, and Starkweather from Main to Mill.

THE CENTRAL POINTS debated during the 90 minute discussion included whether:

- Commercial properties should be assessed the same percentage of the total cost as residential properties.

- Property zoned non-residential but used as living quarters should be assessed at the residential rate.

- The expected life of the improvement should be 20 years instead of the 10-year guarantee.

The primary argument surrounding these issues was equity in assessing methods.

Edwin Schrader Jr., James McKeon, James Jabara, Frank Arlen and Jack Wilcox argued for obtaining equity by assessing commercial properties at the same rate as residential.

George Hudson joined Schrader and McKeon to object to the 10-year life expectancy assigned the asphalt resurfacing for the 1978 street improvement project.

Lois Thompson, Erick and Pat Came objected to homes used as a residence, but zoned commercial, being assessed at the commercial rate.

Anthony Licata argued against what he felt was a request for special treatment from the business community.

Faced with arguments from these quarters, Assessor Kenneth Way attempted to explain to the commission and audience the assessing policies, past practices, law and options which could be taken.

SCHRADER STRESSED he wasn't against the improvement but did object to the method of sharing the cost.

"The cost has to be borne by someone, but it should be borne equally by all those who are to benefit," he said.

Schrader pointed to a commission policy resolution in 1971 which stated the city would pick up 25 per cent of the cost of paving projects and the remaining 75 per cent would be levied equally against all benefitting property owners, with no distinction made between commercial and residential. A 1972 report from the city manager reaffirmed that principle, Schrader said.

The city had been planning to assess residents 75 per cent of the improvement costs and assess non-residential property at 100 per cent. The same procedure was used last year to pay for improvements on Ann Arbor Trail, however half of that project's cost was picked up by Wayne County.

Way commented that assessing practices have changed from year to year, depending upon the decisions of the commission in office. He indicated he would follow whatever procedure the current commission decided upon.

McKeon also presented evidence on the commission policy set in 1971 and argued that no other street had been assessed at 100 per cent in the city, other than Ann Arbor Trail.

McKeon said the last time Plymouth property owners paid 100 per cent for a street was in 1965 when New England subdivision was built and the developer paid the entire cost and passed it on to home buyers.

Mrs. Thompson said, she has used her house on Starkweather for a residence for the past 10 years and that it has been used as a residence for some 90 years. But, she added, because it is zoned commercial it is being assessed at the commercial rate of $9 per front foot. She argued the assessment was unfair.

Way commented that zoning is the most stable gauge to use for long-term use of property for assessment purposes. "If a parcel is zoned non residential it has a greater potential to be sold for another use. There would be many variances to consider if we assessed based on current use."

Commissioner Mark Wehmeyer argued that a commercial road gets more benefit from a street resurfacing and brings in more traffic than a residential street, except for major thoroughfares where traffic volume isn't directly related to commercial uses. Residents don't earn income from street improvements but are faced only with an added expense, he commented.

"I object that the business people seem to feel that residents aren't paying their fair share," commented Licata. "Business traffic isn't the fault of residents, so why should residential pay a greater proportion of the cost? I see this as an attempt of business people to shift costs from business to residential. It's my contention that residents are being led down the primrose path again by the business community."

Jabara strongly objected to Licata's assertions. "Let all pay their share. If business is going to be assessed at 100 per cent, then let's assess residences at 100 per cent," said Jabara. "Licata's statements are totally untrue. Business is not asking for special treatment, we are asking only to be treated equally. If 100 per cent is fair, then let's assess homes that way."

Wilcox noted that most of the funds the city uses to pay its share (25 per cent) of paving projects comes from gasoline tax rebates—income received from major roads which are primarily commercial. "Since the major roads generate that money than an equitable decision would be to keep assessment proportions the same between residential and commercial."

McKeon also stressed that all the business community wanted was equity.

Dimeglio, Jean Kiley, Carol Townsend, Colleen Cooney, Janet McCue, Janet Cameron, Karen Pike, Linda Rowe, Diane Lisaus, Linda Anderson and Bruce LaPointe.

ANITA YEAROUT

Anita Yearout of Sheldon Road, Canton, has been selected as the new editor of "Aurora," the Eastern Michigan University yearbook.

Ms. Yearout, a junior biology major, has recognized the weaknesses of past yearbooks, taken note of those which have succeeded, and intends to turn the trend of declining interest in yearbooks around.

One change she plans to follow is to make sure the yearbook records individuals, not groups.

"Michigan State University just won a national award for the best yearbook," she notes. "Their approach was to make it a photojournalistic record of people who attend MSU. Rather than focusing on groups, using the traditional mug shot, they took a closer look at individuals. It worked. And that is exactly what we are going to do next year."

Ms. Yearout's concept of what she considers a quality product also calls for a lot of work and she is eager to begin.

Aside from making the 1979 Aurora more personal, she will bring in the people and organizations which make Eastern an important school.

"Yearbooks are difficult to make appealing for everyone, but we can cover most of the students and organizations by using MSU's technique." She plans to utilize students from the EMU art department, both photographers and graphic artists.

Another aspect she intends to focus on is sales, by including a promotions manager on her staff.

"Last year we sold about 700 yearbooks. This next year, we want to double that. We will have one person fulltime promoting the book, as well as other means of advertising."

Ms. Yearout's expertise on yearbooks began at John Glenn High School in Westland, where she was yearbook editor. Last year at Eastern she served as administration editor for Aurora.

PHI KAPPA PHI INITIATES

New members recently initiated into the Michigan State University chapter of Phi Kappa Phi, national honor society, included Joseph M. Hibler and Rodney Ying, both of Plymouth.

JAMES LAKE

James E. Lake of Plymouth was among those earning degrees at the spring commencement exercises of Detroit College of Law. Keynote address was delivered by James L. Ryan, justice of the Michigan Supreme Court.

ETU SCHOLARSHIPS

Two Plymouth residents have been awarded $1,200 Regents Scholarships at Eastern Michigan University. The winners are Sherry A. Gates, daughter of Gertrud Gates of Farmbrook, and William J. Schultz, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Schulz of Dogwood.

Ms. Gates is a recent graduate of Plymouth Canton High where she was a member of the track team. Schultz is a senior at EMU majoring in chemistry. He is a member of the Stoic Society and is on the dean's list. He has participated in the honors program in chemistry and in intramural sports. He is employed as an undergraduate teaching assistant in the chemistry department at Eastern.

IN ELDERHOSTEL

Two residents arrived on Western Michigan University's campus this month for the short-term, residential, education program called Elderhostel.

The program, the only one of its kind in Michigan, is for persons age 60 or older. Activities include a series of mini-courses on Michigan history, music, biofeedback and stress management, plus tours of the Kalamazoo area, square dancing and attending a play.

Among those enrolled were: Maud Piggot of Warren Road, Canton, and Vera Mapous of Northville Forest Drive, Plymouth.

Experts on aging have commented that older Americans often feel useless following retirement, thus causing withdrawal and depression. Elderhostel participants, through sessions on a college campus, recognize they can still be active and contributing members of society.

PAM LEITH

Pam Leith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E.N. Leith of Murray Hill, Canton, has been named to the dean's list for the winter quarter at the University of Cincinnati.

Taxpayers attribute inflation rise to unbridled government spending

The biggest tax rebellion in the nation's history is now under way, spurred by the overwhelming victory of Proposition 13 in California, according to a noted expert on business.

"Taxpayers are convinced that one of the basic causes of the inflation from which they suffer is unbridled government spending," University of Michigan Prof. Karl Pearson told a gathering of real estate agents in Grosse Pointe Wednesday.

"They are therefore increasingly going to act on the premise that the only way to cut down on this government spending is not to give government so much money in the first place."

Proposition 13's victory cut back property taxes by 57 per cent when California voters, by a two to one margin, approved a constitutional amendment which:

- Limits property taxes to one per cent of 1975-76 assessed value.

- Limits tax assessment increases to two per cent a year.

- Requires a two-thirds majority vote of the state legislature for any new or increased taxes.

"Property taxes for many homes in California have doubled just in the course of one year," said Pearson, a faculty member of the U-M Graduate School of Business Administration and the university's director of real estate education. "Property taxes there have in many instances tripled and quadrupled in the last five years. Some tax assessments are reported to have climbed by 600 per cent over a nine-year period. For example, $4,600 in taxes were paid on a modest home purchased nine years ago for $38,000."

Staggering tax increases are not confined to California, but are reported in all other states, he added.

"Homeowners have been pleading for tax relief, but their cries have gone unanswered. They have begged their assessors not to raise assessments so high, but the assessors have replied that there is nothing that can be done for their plight, for the law requires tax assessors to assess properties with reference to current market value.

"Home owners have tried to argue their case before local tax officials, who have replied that nothing can be done for them because tax rates have already been set and maintain the force of law."

Pearson said that taxpayers are registering their protest against "government of the bureaucrats, by the bureaucrats, and for the bureaucrats" and also against the huge sums going into welfare programs.

He estimates that cutting down on property taxes is now a major issue in 39 of the 50 states, with hundreds of homeowners organizations actively trying to bring about tax limitations.

The real estate authority noted that home owners are also "up in arms against the tremendous number of property tax exemptions which result in higher tax bills for the non-exempt."

In some cities, he said, these exemptions run as high as 50 per cent of property values and nationwide they average almost 35 per cent. These exemptions include county, state and federal properties; churches, colleges and charitable groups; some mental and moral improvement associations; and tax benefits offered industry in many cities to locate there.

"Hardly anyone has a good word to say for the property tax," Pearson said. "It is a regressive tax, hitting low and moderate income families harder proportionately than those with high income. It is in no way related to ability to pay."

"Surveys show that it is the least liked tax and regarded as the least fair. It discourages construction, improvements, renovation, remodeling, and rehabilitation. Why engage in these only to have your assessments raised by virtue of the value you have added?"

Pearson suggested that while the majority of tax assessors are fair and competent, some are not; most are underpaid and overworked, subject to political pressures, and often unregulated, leading to "gross inequities and discriminations" in tax assessments.

Veterans use benefits

About half of the eligible Vietnam era veterans in the state of Michigan have taken advantage of their GI Bill educational benefits, Frank Kilcullen, director of the VA regional office in Detroit, says.

Slightly more than 53 per cent of the 353,000 eligible veterans have enrolled in some form of training.

Kilcullen said veterans have only 10 years from the date of discharge to use their benefits for education, and that the average age of these veterans is now nearing 33.

For many of those who served early in the Vietnam war, the period of eligibility has already ended.

In order to get in four years of training, veterans would have to begin their schooling no later than six years after discharge.

The VA director said benefits are available for college, high school, vocational, correspondence or business schools. A single veteran going to school full time now receives $311 a month from the VA as an assistance benefit toward his education.

Married veterans with dependents receive $370 for one dependent, $422 for two, and $26 for each additional dependent.

Lightning biggest problem

Thunderstorms kill more than twisters

When the balmy breezes of summer move into Michigan, they often are accompanied by a familiar sight and sound: A flash of lightning and clap of thunder.

While summer storms often bring relief from sweltering temperatures, they can also turn into severe thunderstorms.

And, according to Eastern Michigan University Climatologist George Howe, severe thunderstorms which affect large areas, kill more Americans each year than tornadoes. In 1975, Michigan thunderstorms killed two and injured 117.

"Severe thunderstorms may do some of their damage from gusty winds, which can reach 70 miles an hour," Howe says. "But the bigger problem is the lightning."

Most injuries, he says, are caused by people being struck by lightning or by objects which lightning has hit (lightning bolts can generate as much as 200,000 volts).

Watches and warnings for severe thunderstorms are issued like those for tornadoes. A watch means that weather conditions are conducive to development of severe thunderstorms; a warning means that a severe storm is on its way and the warning area is in its projected path.

To help safeguard against the threat of severe thunderstorms, Howe urges people to take the following precautions:

- Stay indoors.
- Avoid electrical appliances, as they may serve as a ground should lightning strike the building (pull the plug on high-voltage appliances like the television set).

- Don't use the telephone, as it, too, can act as a ground for lightning.
- Get out of the water immediately if you're swimming in a pool or lake.

• If outdoors, seek shelter on low ground if possible. Don't seek shelter under the tallest tree, as it is more likely to be hit by lightning.

• If you "feel electricity"—if your hair stands on end and your skin tingles—you may be about to be hit by lightning. "Drop to the ground immediately," Howe says.

Presnell leads health board

Wayne County Commissioner Thomas Presnell (D-Westland) has been elected chairman of the County Board of Health for a term ending April 30, 1979.

As chairman, Presnell heads a five-member board which oversees approximately $24 million in combined federal, state and county funds for health services in Wayne County.

"First thing I'd like to do as chairman is urge civic groups to step forward and sponsor Vial of Life programs in their communities," Presnell said.

"Ten or so of the county's 43 municipalities have started Vial of Life programs so far. The Department of Health of the County Board of Commissioners want to see this life-saving program cover every household in the county." The Vial of Life program involves keeping a small medicine bottle, containing a medical information sheet on each family member, in the refrigerator. Vial of Life emblems are posted on the refrigerator door and the front door of the home. The information then is immediately available to emergency medical crews.

"I urge civic clubs, churches, scouts and all community organizations to get behind this effort," Presnell said. "Information is available by calling the Emergency Medical Services Coordinator at the health department. The phone is 224-0820."

Presnell, who was a member of the Board of when elevated to the chairmanship, also expressed concern about funding health programs. He said:

"I feel my position as chairman will certainly be challenging in light of the current county fiscal crisis and the importance of the health services which we provide to County residents."

"Even now some of our services are hurting badly due to increased demands and limited finances," he continued. "For instance, we should have enough sanitarians to inspect all restaurants in the county twice a year, but we are unable to do that with the same number of inspectors as we had 10 years ago and many more restaurants—especially in the suburbs."

The board of health established public health policies and programs for the county department of health and enforces local, state and federal health laws.

Presnell will play a key role in making policy on programs that include: air pollution control, family health services, immunization programs, hearing and vision screening, communicable disease control, respiratory disease control, maternity-infant care, and health care for the needy.

"All of our health programs are important to county residents from infancy to the golden years," Presnell said. "But at a time when some need expansion, their very existence is threatened by the strained county budget situation."

Presnell was originally appointed to serve on the health board when commissioner Edgar Harris relinquished his place on the Board. Presnell's election as chairman followed this appointment to the board.

PRESERVATIVE PRESSURE TREATED LUMBER

Anything you build will have extraordinarily long life... if you build it with ordinary lumber or plywood pressure treated with preservative chemicals.

It won't rot, and termites won't bother it... even if you don't stain or paint it. Considering how long it lasts, Preservative pressure treated wood is surprisingly inexpensive. And if you don't have a project in mind, ask us for a suggestion.

Your automobile probably weighs over a ton and a half. It may have from 200 to 300 Horsepower. At 30 miles per hour, it covers 44 feet each second. It is potentially a deadly weapon, especially if the driver doesn't see perfectly!

One defect in vision that can cause tragedy is "tunnel vision" or the lack of good side vision. It sometimes occurs even where central vision (straight ahead vision) is good. This condition comes on slowly and the victim is often unaware of the deficiency. With poor side vision, you may not see the driver pulling out of a driveway or a pedestrian stepping off a curb.

Periodic eye examinations are the only way to be sure your vision is normal.

Observer retains right not to disclose sources

Wayne County Circuit Judge Robert Cunningham has ruled that Westland Observer editor Sandra Armbruster cannot be forced to testify in a lawsuit filed against four Westland city council members.

Cunningham also has ordered that the subpoena requiring Ms. Armbruster to surrender her notes be quashed.

"The need for information doesn't outweigh first amendment rights," said Cunningham as he announced his ruling Monday.

Ms. Armbruster had been subpoenaed to tell what she knew about an unpublished Feb. 11 meeting between four city council members—

Robert Wagner, Gail McKnight, Richard Stempien and Nancy Neal—and Mayor Thomas Taylor at State Sen. William Faust's (D-Westland) house.

The lawsuit, filed by two Westland residents, contends that the council members violated the state Open Meeting Act.

Ms. Armbruster was subpoenaed by the plaintiffs.

Those present at the meeting in question have acknowledged that such a gathering occurred, but all deny that the law was violated. The act prohibits closed meetings by a council majority held to discuss public policy or to take a vote.

Filing the suit were Anne DeSmitt and John Auten who had been active in a recall movement against the same four council members mentioned in the lawsuit.

"Although the (plaintiffs') attorneys did take a statement from a reporter from another newspaper, we decided to fight this subpoena based on principle. We believe it violated first amendment rights guaranteed by the U.S. Constitution," said Ms. Armbruster.

In her oral presentation, attorney Jane Souris, representing Mrs. DeSmitt and Auten in the suit, said they had taken statements under oath from the four council members involved.

"We haven't gotten the information we needed from the four council members. We need the information from Ms. Armbruster," said Ms. Souris.

Don McVay, an attorney for Ms. Armbruster from the firm of Keywell and Rosenfeld which represents Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, argued in a motion to quash the subpoena that to require Ms. Armbruster to testify would jeopardize her first amendment rights to gather and disseminate news.

He pointed out that Ms. Armbruster wasn't present at the Feb. 11 meeting, which was the subject of the suit. Her knowledge of the meeting, he added, was based on hearsay from a subsequent press conference and other conversations.

In his written arguments, McVay acknowledged that there is a common law duty of a witness to testify. However, "in a civil matter in which the reporter is not a party, the courts have refused to force disclosure of the reporter's information and (or) sources."

McVay said the only exceptions are when the information sought is critical, when other means of obtaining the information have been exhausted and if the line of argument is practical and not frivolous.

Ms. Souris told Cunningham that she hadn't prepared any written arguments.

"Winning this motion was critical to my news gathering within the community and precedent-setting for Observer & Eccentric Newspapers," said Ms. Armbruster.

"We wanted to demonstrate that we were not involved with either party in the civil suit," she added. "I wanted to be able to assure my sources that notes taken could be protected."

"Above all, granting this motion ensures protection of everyone's right to a free and independent press as guaranteed by the first amendment to the U.S. Constitution."

Off the Walls

Twisters stir up adrenalin

By NANCY WALLS SMITH

Get out the tranquilizers. It's tornado season again!

Nothing seems to get my adrenalin going faster than seeing a little message floating across the bottom of my television screen with the ominous words, "Tornado Warning. Take Cover Immediately."

I can work myself up into a pretty nice panic over news like that, even if Wayne County isn't on the list of doomed areas. I still can't understand how the people who run the TV stations can maintain their composure enough to keep running Fred Flintstone cartoons while broadcasting such dire news. It seems like the entire staff would run to the basement and cluster together in the southwest corner of Broadcast House. That's what I'd do.

I take the kids, the dog, and my manual on "Surviving Disasters A to Z," and we quickly retreat to the lower levels until my husband yells down all clear. He always refuses to acknowledge the danger and just won't take cover. He won't even move away from the windows, which drives my absolutely crazy!

I was worse when we lived in a house with no basement. I'd say something like, "If we hear anything, I'll run and get Jason out of his room and you run and get Jimmy from his crib and I'll meet you in the hall closet." He wouldn't even look up from his paper as he muttered, "Sure, sure," which gave me the uneasy feeling that he wasn't exactly memorizing my explicit instructions.

Now that we've moved to Canton, and have a nice safe basement to hide in, I have a place to run to. But, unfortunately, I'm never quite sure when to run. You see, I've always heard that a tornado sounds exactly like a freight train approaching. This bit of news is not a great comfort when there is a railroad track running through the woods behind our house.

On particularly windy nights I lie in bed listening as the sound of the approaching train (tornado?) grows louder. I tense up waiting to see the roof fly off the house.

Just as I'm about ready to bolt from the bed to the basement door, the train gives three short blasts from its whistle as it approaches the crossing. Only then can I relax enough to acknowledge that it was a train—or a tornado with a whistle. I get kinda weird in the middle of the night.

I've had a fear of tornadoes all of my life. Maybe it's from seeing the "The Wizard of Oz" too many times. When I was a child, every night I would say my prayers which always ended with my own personal safety clause of "Please protect us from fire, quicksand and tornadoes."

You don't suppose there's any quicksand in Canton?

Indians' Ghost Dance was much like a seance

Last week, I wrote about a seance held recently in a local hotel meeting room. In earlier columns, I have, from time to time, described other types of seances. None of these, however, can equal the pageantry of the American Indian Ghost Dance.

The dance usually began around midday and lasted far into the night. Full Indian dress was worn, with paint, buckskins, feathers and bells.

THE LEADERS began the dance by walking out to the dancing ground, facing inward, and joining hands to make a small circle. Standing motionless, they would begin to softly sing the opening ritual song.

Then they would repeat the song, singing it loudly this time, as they began to walk around the circle.

At this point, others would join the circle. Singly and in groups, they came forward and grasped the hands of those already dancing, until the circle grew to anywhere from 50 to 500 people. Men, women and children of all ages took part.

The singing and circling continued, the pitch and tempo growing and diminishing, and growing again throughout the night.

AS PEOPLE fell into trances, they lay on the ground, and the other dancers moved carefully around them so as not to disturb their trances.

At intervals between songs, the dancers unclasped hands and sat down to rest, talk or smoke for a few minutes before resuming the activity.

People danced according to their own vigor or weakness. Older people hobbled with sticks, while children danced vigorously.

Howling, crying, laughing or moaning, one after another fell into trances enabling them to communicate with—or meditate for—spirits of those no longer living.

Although their ritual was different, they were indeed holding a seance for the purpose of contacting those in the spirit world.

Roll Call Report

Congressional action seen as tax revolt response

Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes June 8 through June 14.

HOUSE

ECHO OF PROP. 13: Adopted, 220 for and 181 against, an amendment to cut $800 million from the budgets of the departments of Labor and HEW. The vote was interpreted as a direct response to the so-called taxpayer revolt sparked by passage in California of Proposition 13. The amendment was attached to the $57.9 billion fiscal 1979 appropriations bill for the two departments. The bill (HR 12829) was later passed and sent to the Senate.

The amendment effects a two per cent, across-the-board cut in all programs except those such as Social Security whose spending levels are fixed by law. Decisions on which programs would be cut and by how much are left up to Labor and HEW department officials. No single program may be cut by more than five per cent.

Rep. Clarence Miller (R-Ohio), the sponsor, said the HEW budget is larger than that of the 50 states combined. "Almost everyone is concerned today about the explosive cost of government. The vote in California... on Proposition 13 underscores what the public thinks."

Rep. Silvio Conte (R-Mass.), an opponent, asked: "Just where would this cut come? Would it be in the basic opportunity grants program, the Title I elementary and secondary education account, or perhaps health resource funding... research in cancer, heart, lung, arthritis, child beating?"

Members voting "yea" favored the amendment.

Rep. William Broomfield (R-Birmingham) voted "yea."

Reps. David Bonior (D-Mt. Clemens), William Ford (D-Taylor), William Brodhead (D-Detroit), James

Blanchard (D-Pl. Ridge), and Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth), voted "nay."

FREEBIES: Adopted, 214 for and 159 against, an amendment to curtail the practice of House members having free access to congressional wall calendars and agricultural yearbooks (which they mail to constituents) and plants from the U.S. Botanic Garden and shipping trunks (which many members use personally or in their offices).

Under the amendment, members would have to pay for such items out of their office expense allowances. Presently, government agencies provide such accessories at virtually no cost.

The amendment was attached to HR 12935, a bill appropriating money for the legislative branch, later passed and sent to the Senate.

Rep. William Armstrong (R-Colo.), the sponsor, said that House members often say: "Of course, the calendar practice is reprehensible. Of course it is not a good expenditure of the taxpayers' funds. Of course we ought to curtail it some day..." Armstrong added: "Year after year the same refrain. Well, I think this would be an excellent time to do it."

Rep. Bob Traxler (D-Mich.), an opponent, said: "There is no more popular publication among my rural constituents than the Agricultural Yearbook." He said he would ask Armstrong "not to take away that publication that represents to my constituents their communication with the American government that they pay taxes to."

Members voting "yea" favored curtailing the practice.

Blanchard, Broomfield and Pursell voted "yea."

Bonior and Brodhead voted "nay."

Ford did not vote.

TELEVISION: Voted, 235 for and 150 against, to put the House rather than private journalists in control of the cameras when the House begins television floor proceedings.

Bonior and Blanchard voted "yea."

Brodhead, Broomfield and Pursell voted "nay."

Ford did not vote.

SENATE

FILIBUSTER: Failed, 58 for and 41 against, to achieve the three-fifths majority required to end the filibuster against the bill (HR 8410) to amend the 1935 National Labor Relations Act.

Senators voting "yea" wanted to end the filibuster.

Sen. Donald Riegle (D), voted "yea."

Sen. Robert Griffin (R), voted "nay."

Black GM executive wins record damage suit

A housing discrimination suit brought by a black West Bloomfield man has resulted in the largest damage award ever granted in the state.

A Wayne County Circuit Court jury earlier this month found Spoon Builders, Inc., and two company officials, Julius and Harry Spoon, guilty of racial discrimination against Peter Perdue, a General Motors executive. The case was tried in Wayne County because Spoon's home office is in Detroit.

Perdue and the Detroit Fair Housing Center filed suit four years ago charging that Spoon Builders violated federal and state civil rights laws by refusing to negotiate in good faith when Perdue attempted to buy a new house in West Bloomfield. The house was subsequently sold to and occupied by a white family, three months after Perdue had first applied.

The jury awarded Perdue punitive and compensatory damages of $35,000. With interest, attorney fees and other costs, the total is expected to top $40,000. The largest sum awarded in the state for a housing discrimination suit had been $12,000, according to Clifford Schrupp, director of the Fair Housing Center.

JULIUS SPOON refused to answer a reporter's questions last week about the jury decision or the possibility of appeal. Harry Spoon was unavailable for comment.

A jury of five whites and one black heard testimony during the five day trial from a white real estate agent who stated that he was advised by Julius Spoon to get his black client out of the West Bloomfield house so a purported white client could view it, Schrupp said.

The Spoon company "denied that any of this occurred," said William Heaphy, attorney for Perdue and the housing center. "Their position was that this was a fabrication," Perdue, who found another house in West Bloomfield, did not take Spoon to court for the money, but for personal integrity, Heaphy said.

In April, 1973, Perdue and his wife attempted to purchase a house near the northwest corner of Middlebelt and Maple Roads from Spoon.

According to the trial testimony, Spoon imposed unreasonable restrictions by increasing the amount of deposit required and telling the Perdues that the house would not be available for occupancy for eight-and-a-half months, five-and-a-half months after they needed it.

Perdue said he was willing to pay the unusually high initial deposit. But, because he was moving to Detroit from Denver, he couldn't wait as long as Spoon requested to move in.

"We never came to terms," Perdue said last week. "I offered them $7,500 in earnest money (the initial deposit given as a pledge in binding an agreement), and a June 15 delivery date, but they refused to accept it." Perdue then decided to press charges against Spoon.

The $40,000 award in the case is "appropriate to the damage involved," Schrupp said. "It is significant in terms of a reminder that discrimination is a serious violation."

Heaphy said. "The jury's response was heartening and is more than a simple decision on this case. It will serve as a message to those practicing discrimination that their peers will not tolerate continued mistreatment of other human beings on the irrational basis of race."

He said the suit, "was premised in part by an 1866 civil rights act, and that 107 years had passed since that law was enacted."

Discrimination is a continual problem, Schrupp said. But, "what we're going to see more of is successful litigation and prosecution. Discrimination is illegal and remedies are available."

Air quality for crops proposed

We have air quality standards for humans, why not for agricultural crops?

Sylvan Wittwer, Michigan State University Experiment Station director, says the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is missing the boat by not doing so, and that we could be heading for trouble.

"Anything in the air is going to affect plants, and in some parts of Europe, air pollution has so deteriorated croplands they have been abandoned," Wittwer says. Many areas of the United States may be getting just as bad, he adds.

Of particular concern to Wittwer is the "acid rainfall" occurring in most states east of the Mississippi, which he attributes to emissions from automobile exhausts and industrial sites.

He explains that acid rain develops from sulfur and nitrogen gases and particles being pumped into the air by these two sources, among others.

"This is a problem that should warrant national attention, and I'm concerned about the amount of acidity that will probably develop when we start burning more coal, which will contribute enormous amounts of sulfur gas and particulate to the atmosphere," Wittwer says.

He adds that it used to be a common practice to apply sulfur to croplands, but so much sulfur is new in the air, application is no longer needed.

Crop damage by air pollution is readily apparent in the Saginaw Valley on navy bean lands and in Montcalm County on potato crops.

"It's evident all over the world. In Riverside, Calif., air has to be filtered in greenhouses to grow bedding plants. Ornamentals will not grow in Tokyo, Japan and in Seoul, Korea because of industrial air pollution," Wittwer said.

"The point I'm trying to make is that what is in the air, gets into the plants and ultimately in the food chain. We live in a chemical age and there is no way that we are not going to get some of these pollutants in our food and ourselves."

Wittwer says tests show pesticide residues, heavy metals and other chemical pollutants even in organically grown foods. "We do not know the extent to which air pollution can or does detrimentally affect plants, animals and humans in terms of food and fiber production," he said.

"There are too many unknowns in this area and there haven't been enough experiments to determine what happens, if, for instance, air pollution doubles."

Hines Park help is given approval

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners has approved 30 seasonal park attendants to work in Hines Park and other western county parks for a 12-week period.

The new jobs will be funded with $81,185 in federal CETA money through the county's Office of Manpower.

Potential applicants for the jobs should call the county's parks division, 224-7732, which has started hiring.

The resolution authorizing the new hiring under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) was sponsored by six western Wayne County Commissioners, including Richard Manning (D-Redford-Livonia), Mary Dumas (R-Livonia), Thomas Presnell (D-Westland) and R. William Joyner (D-Plymouth).

Park locations to be staffed with the new attendants include Wilcox in Plymouth; Haggerty in Plymouth Township; Newburgh and Levan Knoll in Livonia; Hawthorne Ridge and Venoy in Westland and Bell Creek and Lola Valley No. 2 in Redford.

Local communities bordering the parks committed some of their CETA slots toward the newly-approved park attendant squad.

Duties of the park attendants, who will wear bright orange coveralls and matching hard hats, include maintenance of buildings and grounds; enforcement of park rules and regulations; patrolling of buildings and grounds to watch for trespassers, fires or other irregular conditions; assisting part patrons in medical or other emergency situations; and picking up litter and debris.

Last-minute additions to agenda are uncalled for There's nothing wrong with buying a building you now rent.

But what was wrong with the Canton board's decision to spend $105,000 to purchase the recreation building at Michigan and Sheldon last week was the manner in which the purchase was approved.

Even though $105,000 is a good price for the building that was recently appraised for $152,000, the purchase is still a major expenditure that deserves some constructive criticism and contributions from township residents.

Citizens who may have shown up at last week's meeting to voice opinions about the proposed purchase did not attend, however, because they had no idea the matter would be discussed.

LIKE MANY items approved by the Canton board within the last two years, the proposed purchase did not appear on the agenda of last week's township board meeting.

Instead, board members voted at the beginning of the meeting to tack the building purchase on the end of the agenda.

The present board adopted the practice of adding items to the agenda to speed up the government process.

By adding agenda items, board members can consider matters which come to the township's attention after the meeting agenda is printed on the Thursday before Tuesday's meeting.

There's nothing wrong with that as long as the additions to the agenda are not controversial or major purchases. Few would object if the board purchased new coffee pots or hired another secretary without first notifying residents with a printed agenda.

But when it comes to spending $105,000, residents have a right to be notified of the board's impending action.

IF PURCHASE negotiations were not finalized by the time last week's agenda was printed, board members should have waited two weeks to approve the purchase at their next meeting.

Two weeks wouldn't have jeopardized the purchase. The township has been leasing the building for the last several years from owner Charlotte Fischer at a rent of $245 a month.

The Canton board normally gives residents ample opportunity to speak at meetings. Citizens can speak their piece on any issue during the public forum portion of the meeting. In addition, the board recognizes residents who wish to speak during discussion of any agenda item.

But the practice of adding important items to the agenda is a serious threat to citizen participation in government.

If board members wish to speed up the government process by adding agenda items, they should use some discretion in deciding which items should be added and which should be reserved for a future meeting.

Take a walk this Sunday

This Sunday afternoon, residents will have a chance to relive part of yesteryear when the Chessie steam engine arrives in Plymouth.

The Steam Chessie Special, Engine 2101, is due to arrive in Old Village at about 2:30 p.m.

A lot of activities have been planned to welcome the train and its passengers to Old Village. There will be an ice cream social, clowns, an art fair, and a senior citizens' band.

Of particular interest for train passengers and residents will be "An Old-fashioned Walk through Old Village." Visitors will be given a map of Old Village which includes historical sites and other points of interest.

The walk includes the Plymouth Railroad Station, built in 1871; the home of George Starkweather, built in 1875; site of the toll gate for Plymouth Plank Road from 1850-1872; the Markham home, built in 1880; a church built in 1840; the village cemetery, founded in 1845; site of a grist mill built in 1850, and the sites of former businesses such as a general store, brewery, mineral springs company, cheese factory, cigar company, ashery, pickle factory, and many other historical concerns.

The map was made possible by students and teachers at Starkweather Elementary—the first historical site to be visited on Old Village Walk.

The walk will be both educational and entertaining. The Observer recommends the walk to our readers and commends Starkweather school and the Old Village Association for its efforts in arranging it.

Did Babe point? And why?

The Spider, as he was known in those days, brought his maitre d' sponge to our luncheon table to sop up the soup I had slurped on my shirtfront, and to get even he posed this puzzler:

"Who played quarterback for the Philadelphia Eagles in the mid-'40s when Steve Van Buren was running wild as Philadelphia's halfback?"

Now, how the hell would I know?

Before coming back to that issue, let me insert that where my friends and I have lunch—and it's a variety of sites—we laugh a lot. The cast usually includes a sampling of newsmen, a couple of lawyers, several horseplayers, at least one ex-college athlete, plus the inevitable expense account sales types.

Many of them are married to women who are afraid of heights and because of this they have taught their husbands never to climb higher than a barstool.

On any given day, sports, sex and sales vie for conversational win, place and show. When The Spider went back to Van Buren, I knew he had me pegged.

USING THE HOUSE PHONE, I placed calls to no avail. Nick Kerbawy was sweeping out the Hall of Fame; Vince Banonis was at Dom Polski, and Probate Judge Frank Szymanski was regaling followers with true tales of the on-and-off-gridiron exploits of Alexander Francis Wojciechowicz.

Then inspiration struck. Call a woman!

John Prchlik, a tackle from Yale, played for our Lions in the late '40s and now lives in Canton Township. Taking the call was his lovely wife, Pat . . . but, no, she didn't remember either.

Thirty minutes later she called back, having posed the question to Mary Piccolo of Northville. Mary's husband, Bill, was a center with the New York Giants in the days when Wojciechowicz was wreaking havoc for the Lions from the same position.

Bill had pointed out the answer in a National Football League Directory: Tommy Thompson.

Oh, yes. Bill pointed because he can't speak. Formerly with Ford Motor Co. personnel, he's been floored medically in a way big ol' Wojciech never would have wanted for any foe. But he's coming along, says Mary. A card from you wouldn't do any harm either. It's William Piccolo, 41896 Sunnydale Lane, Northville 48170.

THEN STEVE REDFERN, the direct mail expert interrupted the debate between super salesmen Bob Sego and Dick Storch with the gem of gems: "Did Babe Ruth actually call his fabled 1932 home run against the Cubs or did he not . . . and what was the ball and strike count when he hit it?"

Accurate answers to queries like that one have made bartenders such as Dolph in Birmingham, Abe in Southfield, Jerry in Livonia, Herman in Plymouth and several ladies up and down the 50-mile golden O&E corridor rich at an early age.

The mini-argument between Sego and Storch was easily resolved by a record book. All they were betting was how many times each team has won in the Super Bowl. It now stands: Green Bay, 2; Dallas, 2; Miami, 2; Pittsburgh, 2; New York Jets, Kansas City, Baltimore, and Oakland each 1. (Scores and losers upon request.)

Ah, but the Babe, the Bambino, the Sultan of Swat!

OUR FRIEND, REDFERN, had taken exception to the descriptive wording attached to a painting of "The Mighty Babe" from a series on "Great Moments in Baseball" by Robert Thom, commissioned by Chevrolet to commemorate organized baseball's centennial.

Everyone our age knows Ruth broke up that '32 ball game with a blast into the center field bleachers in the fifth inning at Chicago. Redfern, ever meticulous, sensed an error in the wording. "Ruth through bifocals

comes to bat with the score tied 4-4 with the count at 2 and 0."

Why, he properly reasoned, would anyone call his shot on a 2 and 0 count, taken to mean two balls and no strikes in the customary parlance of the game?

I COULD QUOTE many authorities, but I choose George Herman Ruth as told to that great friend and columnist of yore, John P. Carmichael, when John was sports editor of the Chicago Daily News and did his "My Greatest Day in Baseball" first-person interview series.

Said the Babe to John:

"Nobody but a blankety-blank fool would-a done what I did that day. When I think of what a idiot I'd-a been if I'd struck out and I could-a, too, just as well as not because I was mad and I'd made up my mind to swing at the next pitch if I could reach it with a bat. Boy, when I think of the good breaks in my life, that was one of 'em."

"But right now I want to settle all arguments: I didn't exactly point to any spot, like the flagpole. Anyway, I didn't mean to. I just sort of waved at the whole fence, but that was foolish enough."

"All I wanted to do was give that thing a ride . . . outta the park . . . anywhere."

"I took two strikes and after each one I held up my finger and said: 'That's one' and 'That's two.' Ask Gabby (Cub catcher Gabby Hartnett). He could hear me. Then's when I waved to the fence!"

"Yeah, it was silly. I was a blankety-blank fool. But I got away with it and after Gehrig homered, behind me, their backs were broken. That was a day to talk about."

Please pardon the nostalgia. They don't make 'em like the Babe any more; nor like John Carmichael.

The Stroller

Must the schools do it?

It isn't often The Stroller eavesdrops. But he couldn't miss the opportunity the other morning of listening to two mothers in the supermarket discussing the problems facing the schools since voters turned down a millage increase.

One was deeply concerned over the possibility that the sports program would be eliminated and her son be denied the chance to play baseball.

The other wasn't much interested in the sports, but she was serious in her fear that the music program would be dropped and her daughter would lose the chance to advance toward a musical career.

Rather than just pass the pair by, The Stroller stuck close to the two women and became engrossed in their conversations.

All the while they were moaning (and no official word has been released on the cuts that will be made in the various programs), The Stroller let his thoughts wander back to his school days when there were no athletic programs nor special music classes.

THE FACT THAT the schools didn't have sports or music didn't stop us. We not only had baseball, but football and basketball, too.

The way we managed to have these activities still draws a smile when we think about it. There was no such thing as a high school stadium. The only playing field we had was a cow pasture at the edge of town and we couldn't use it until the cows moved into the adjoining creek for their evening drink.

It doesn't take much imagination to realize what

Tim
Richard

Public doesn't get the benefit

It may be just as well the Wayne County Board of Commissioners decided to ask voters for only a renewal of a one-mill property tax this fall.

Board Vice-chairman Richard Manning (D-Redford) had proposed a two-mill tax issue—one mill renewal and one additional mill.

Manning, no spendthrift, saw the additional money as necessary because of the county's massive deficit. He presented a thoughtful case for asking "voters to agree to dip a little deeper for the cost of the common defense."

One good reason for the board's decision against seeking an increase is the public's mood. Public officials will be lucky if voters pass the renewal, let alone increases.

A MORE IMPORTANT reason is that John Q. Citizen will be able to see little personal benefit from a one-mill property tax hike.

It's not like a tax for a school or a fire station, where he will see a building go up that will serve him. It's not like a tax for a jail, which will incarcerate persons who threaten the resident's life and property.

Instead, the needs are these in the 1979 budget, according to Manning:

- Takeover and operation of the Detroit House of Correction under an arrangement that will require funding of both operation and maintenance, along with remodeling to meet federal and state prison standards—$2.8 million annually plus purchase price.

- Substantial new juvenile justice costs required under a new state juvenile code—$8 million.

- New circuit judges, courtrooms and staff costs—$1.3 million.

- More recorder's court judges, courtrooms and staff costs—$800,000.

- Higher wages under labor contracts and arbitration awards—$5 million to $6.5 million.

- Increased costs for hospitalization, health insurance, worker's compensation and other fringes—$1.3 million.

THAT'S THE PICTURE. No county-funded improvements to Hines Park. No special improvements to county mile roads. No out-county offices for the clerk, registrar of deeds and prosecutor. Nothing that John Q. Citizen can look at and say, "Hey, I'm going to be better off if I pay a bit more tax."

Indeed, there is nothing in the list that county commissioners have any control over. They are things mandated from somewhere else. It isn't as if the commissioners could hold those costs down by exercising self control.

While in the last five years costs have risen 43 per cent, the county's bite of property tax revenues has risen only 15.5 per cent.

SUBURBANITES, in particular, have little reason to be enthusiastic about county government.

Recently we have witnessed county board members voting themselves into administrative jobs at double their old salaries.

We have witnessed board members dragging their feet on a major reform (co-sponsored by Manning)—creation of a county executive.

We have witnessed the new board chairman, Jarrette Simmons of Detroit, packing the board committee chairmanships with Detroiters.

We have witnessed a new county public works board, whose efforts would be directed mainly to undeveloped suburban land, packed with Detroiters.

It's just as well the county board backed off on asking for two mills. County government in 1978 may consider itself fortunate to get a one-mill renewal.

Administrative cuts would help

Editor:

The school millage election is over. Did anyone notice, among the pre-election "non-threats" and the post-election official comments, one mention of a cut in administrative positions? Quite simply, it's the new-age nepotism.

We all know that the number of teachers will be cut considerably. Yet, if we accept the premises of formal education as we know it, teachers are indispensable. Administrators are dispensable.

I am not anti-administrator. But I am extremely opposed to the monstrous proliferation of administrative positions. Administration is considered the only "growth industry" in education today, and we the public have been gullibly supporting this spurious industry.

Let's consider the titles of some administrative positions in the Plymouth-Canton school district, aside from superintendent and principals: administrative assistant for community relations; administrative assistant for federal projects; assistant superintendent for employee relations; supervisor for labor relations; assistant superintendent of instruction; executive director of elementary education; executive director of secondary education; executive director of pupil services; supervisor of special education; supervisor of preschool and elementary special education; supervisor of model resources room.

These are not a third of the positions on the Table of Organization, yet we get the drift of redundancy. Taken to its logical extension, this organization should assure that teachers not teach. Every classroom teacher should govern at least an executive director for teaching and an executive director for student adjustment.

The school district's office can no doubt provide job descriptions of each of the many administrative positions. But as anyone familiar with printed job descriptions knows, these are masterpieces of exposition that often bear little relation to reality and could justify the need for a pastry chef at a diet spa.

What, then, are we to do? I personally will not support another millage increase until I see the number of administrative positions significantly decreased. A public relations specialist? This isn't Standard Oil; let the superintendent do his own public relations. Highly-paid curriculum developers? Teachers should develop curriculum, not people so far removed from the classroom that they forget—if they ever knew—what a concrete kid looks like let alone learns like. I am sure there are many talented, experienced teachers who would accept paid summer positions to work on curriculum.

In any school system, the priority should be: 1. students; 2. teachers; and 3. administrators. But notice again who suffers because of the millage defeat. Some students lose an hour of the school day, some supplies, and some activities. The loss of other opportunities to learn because of increased student load in the classroom.

Some teachers lose the prospect of employment. Those already employed lose a student load the size of which they can effectively teach.

And the administrators, so far as I know, lose nothing. They just bump along their merry way, when they're not bumping into one another.

Outside the polls last Monday, I met a representative for a school board candidate. I said, "I hope whoever wins is going to work toward a reduction in the number of administrators." "Oh," said the gentleman, "I don't think we talked about that."

Well, board of trustees and public at large, please let us talk about that, and please let us stop carrying on as though we're GM, AT&T, IBM, and Standard Oil all rolled up into one big conglomerate.

Noise shuts out thought

Editor:

Much is written today about pollution but at times it seems nothing is really being done about it. One thing the many kinds of pollution have in common is a disregard for the welfare of all.

Most of us are aware of the sad defacing of our beautiful countryside by broken beer bottles, cans and other litter. Some of us are also concerned with noise pollution, or the abuse to our hearing faculties and subsequent trauma to our nervous systems by such pleasure equipment as unmuffled motorcycles, snowmobiles, hi-fi amplifiers, CBs, etc.

An example of noise pollution occurred the second weekend in June when a Canton family, apparently unconcerned for the rights of their neighbors to a peaceful evening and good night's rest, gave a party with their PA system so loud that it could be clearly heard a mile and half away. Perhaps thoughtlessness is a better word to describe such behavior. Noise blocks out thought, so mindless individuals might necessarily feel the need to fill in the gap with this commodity.

Seniors enjoy gardening plots

Editor:

On behalf of the senior citizens who have plots in the gardens on Sheldon Road between Five and Six Mile roads, we wish to thank all those responsible in making these plots available.

We especially want to thank those who plowed and prepared the ground and laid the plots out as such attractive sections. Also, those who spent so much time in planning, organizing and doing the telephoning for the success of such a venture.

The extension of water pipes to the area was a most thoughtful gesture.

We want all who had anything to do with the gardens to know that we sincerely appreciate your efforts. It has given us great satisfaction in planting, tending and watching things grow and the harvesting of the vegetables.

We have talked to most senior citizen gardeners and they have expressed a desire that some acknowledgment be given. We wholeheartedly thank all concerned on their behalf.

Party was a success

Editor:

We would like to take this opportunity to thank all the Salem parents who worked on the 1978 Senior Party. While we would like to thank each of you personally, this is impossible, because so many worked behind the scenes that we didn't know. We wish to thank, especially, the committee chairpersons who did such an outstanding job with each of their committees. From all the feedback we have had from the '78 Senior Class and our own personal observations, it was a great success!

We also wish to thank the seniors, themselves, who truly conducted themselves as adults, which made our job much easier.

The Chessie Steam Engine will be arriving in Old Village in Plymouth, from Grand Rapids, about 2:30 p.m. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Taking an old-fashioned walk

After the Chessie Steam Engine is welcomed to Plymouth this Sunday afternoon, passengers and residents will have an opportunity to take an unusual walk through Old Village.

A brochure will be handed out to make the walk more enjoyable. The brochure includes a map with historical sites numbered, and a brief narrative description of each site.

The information was prepared by students and teachers at Starkweather in conjunction with the Old Village Association. The idea for the project was born during bicentennial year 1976, and has been completed far in advance of this Sunday's arrival of the Chessie.

The first suggested stop in "Let's Take an Old-Fashioned Walk thru Old Village" is Starkweather School itself. The tract of land upon which Starkweather is now located was settled in 1824 by Luther Lincoln Jr. Over the years the 80-acre site was divided up and sold off. Starkweather was built in 1927 and named in honor of the early settler and prominent citizen, George A. Starkweather.

Other sites of interest on the Old Village Walk include:

- White church on Spring—built by Presbyterians at Mill and Liberty, and later moved to Spring by the Lutherans who purchased the church for $140.
- Plymouth Village Cemetery, Pearl and York Streets—founded in 1845 and purchased for $75 an acre by Bethuel Noyes, first president of the village.

- Wilcox family homestead, Holbrook and Hardenberg—once part of a grist mill built in 1850. After going through many hands the mill became the property of David Wilcox and his two sons in 1879. In 1921 the Wilcox family sold the mill to Henry Ford who razed it. On the site he built a factory which once manufactured taps for the Rouge Plant. The building now is property of the Wayne County Road Commission.
- Lampham's General Store—across on a diagonal from Wilcox home. Two-story red brick structure was a beehive of activity in the late 1800s.

- Brewery operated by Fred Dohmstreich near Hardenberg Grist Mill until 1860-62 when it became Wilcox's Cheese Factory.
- Mineral Springs Co.—founded in early 1890s near Wilcox Pond. A Dr. M.V.B. Saunders sold spring water at $1 per gallon for kidney and bladder troubles.

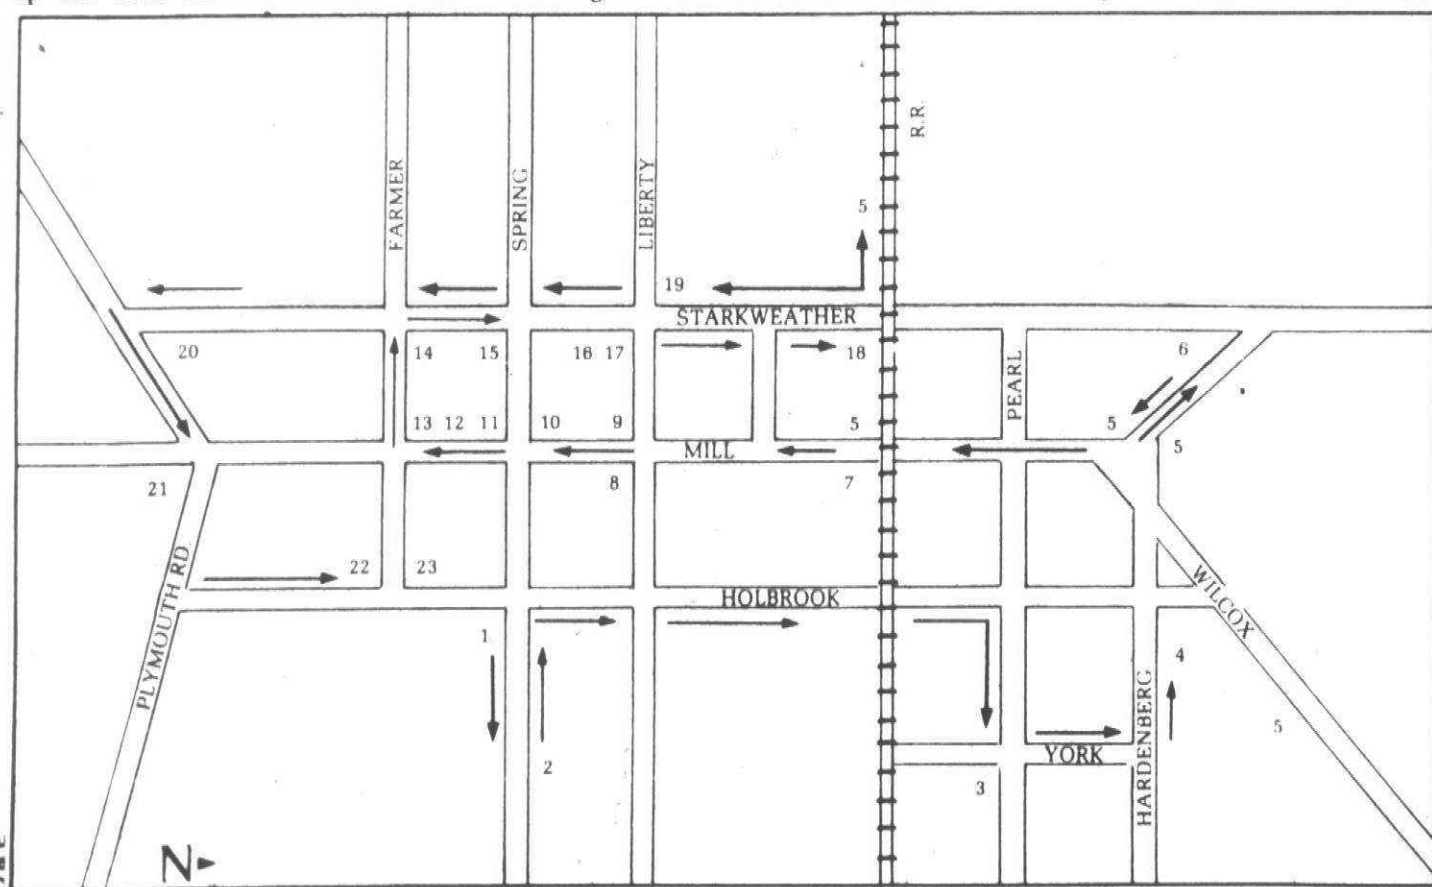

- Cheese Factory—opened in 1891 on south side of railroad tracks just west of Starkweather Avenue and later moved to site near tracks just east of Holbrook. Produced about 100 tons of cheese per season.
- Plymouth Cigar Co.—on North Mill across from Hotel Victor. Established in 1890 by George Springer who manufactured two cigars until giving up business to become village police marshal.
- Ashery—Existed from 1850-57. Ashery Plant employed four men to convert hardwood ashes into potash from which soap was made. It was located on the north side of Mill Street just east of the fork which runs westerly to Phoenix.

- Pickle Factory—Established in 1908, it operated a tomato pulp branch to ship pulp to Detroit to be made into catsup.
- Hotel Nelson on Mill at the railroad tracks. Once popular with railroad men, the hotel originally was known as Hotel Victor. In recent years the hotel has been occupied mostly by permanent residents.

- Heide's Greenhouse—George Starkweather built the first commercial greenhouse in northwestern Wayne County in the late 1870s on the east side of Starkweather Avenue, the present site of Blunk's Carpeting.
- Baptist Church at Spring and Mill built in 1830. In 1908 Carrie Nation lectured here.
- Typical Michigan farm house at 557 Mill—simplified Greek revival style.
- Stop 15 is Bill's Market, a former blacksmith shop.
- Liberty Street Stores, built in 1871.
- Plymouth Railroad Station built in 1871 by former Pere Marquette RR. Only place in Michigan where railroad tracks go in all four directions.

- Home of George Starkweather, built in 1875, at corner of Liberty and Starkweather. Starkweather was first while child born in the present Plymouth Township. He was born in 1826 in a log cabin where the Mayflower Hotel now stands. Starkweather was a village lawyer, farmer, general store proprietor.
- Puckett Heating located in building which once was the home of Mary Davis, who was the foster mother of Amelia Heywood who was to become Mrs. George Starkweather.
- Site of toll gate for the Plymouth Plank Road is at Mill and Main. Used as toll gate from 1850-1872.
- Markham House built in 1880 at Caster and Holbrook. William Markham started factory to manufacture wooden troughs and cisterns for watering livestock. Made an air rifle for boys and eventually moved his factory to Union Street where it became the Daisy Manufacturing Co.

Chessie arriving Sunday

Plymouth residents will be offered a special treat Sunday afternoon with the arrival of a 150-year-old Chessie Steam engine. The train, en route from Grand Rapids, has a scheduled two and a half hour layover in Plymouth while its 800 passengers tour Old Village.

Old Village's welcome to the train's crew and their passengers will include an afternoon of festivities prepared for them and other sight-seers who want to view the historic train. The afternoon of fun begins when the Old Village retail stores open their doors at noon.

ACCORDING TO Lorraine Waun, owner of Lorraine's Dolls and chairwoman of the retail committee, there will be clowns, free balloons, an ice cream social, an art fair and a senior citizens' band among the attractions.

A specially designed tour of Old Village has been arranged by the Old Village association and Starkweather School, according to Starkweather teacher Barbara Lockwood. Mrs. Lockwood and two other teachers, Helen Moyer and Dan Summerman were responsible for organizing the tour and the brochure that will be distributed among the train's passengers.

"We got the idea from the walk Boston has through its historic places that Helen went on," explained Mrs. Lockwood. "We chose the places of interest in Old Village from author Sam Hudson and some of the old timers around the area and collected the historic information."

Starkweather School continues its involvement in the project when its fourth and fifth graders act as guides on the tour. Mrs. Lockwood added that the numbered signs on the places of interest were made by the Old Village association and the programs were paid for by that group and the school.

SHIRLEY TEMPLE is expected to tap her way into the hearts of the train's passengers. America's sweetheart, in the form of a rare 1935 motorized dancing doll is owned by Mrs. Waun and is on display at her doll shop in Old Village. Shirley is one of four existing mechanical dolls once manufactured by the Ideal Toy Corp. of New York.

Railroad buffs from the area won't want to miss the 19-car yellow and vermilion Baltimore and Ohio Railroad train now owned by the Chessie System. The train is powered by an old Reading Railroad Class T-1, 484 steam locomotive 2101, owned by Ross E. Rowland Jr.'s Steam Locomotive Corp. of America.

The engine was built in 1945 by the Reading shops for heavy duty freight service. It remained in regular service until 1965. It was sold for scrap to a Baltimore dealer in 1967. The 2101's claim to fame lies in the fact that it was used to power the American Freedom Train, the U.S.A.'s largest bicentennial event. The 2101 is 110 feet and six inches long and weighs 809,000 pounds.

The train will make a return visit to Plymouth sometime in July. According to Mrs. Waun it stopped here last summer but the city was unable to entertain the passengers because of the heavy crowds already on the streets of Old Village for Dearie Days.

Shoot a picture: Enter our contest

Your idea of a great suburban picture might be an outdoor grill with smoke curling above the steak. Or it might be drops of rain water on a window.

Whatever your idea, go ahead and snap the picture. You might win a prize for it.

"Life in the Suburbs" is the theme of a color photo contest sponsored by the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers. Amateur photographers are invited to enter. Winning pictures will be featured in this newspaper.

All photographs should be submitted in slide form.

Pictures must be taken in one of the following 12 suburbs served by the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers. They are Livonia, Westland, Garden City, Redford Township, Plymouth, and Canton Township in Wayne County. In Oakland County the communities are Birmingham, West Bloomfield, Troy, Rochester, Southfield and Farmington.

Contestants need not be residents of these communities.

Winners will receive gift certificates from World Camera and Sound. First prize will be a $100 certificate, second prize, $75, and third prize, $40.

Three gift certificates of $10 each will be presented for honorable mention. The certificates will be redeemable in World Camera stores in Birmingham, Avon Township and Livonia.

Here are the rules:

- All color photographs in slide form should have been taken within the last year (from July 1977 through July 1978) in one of the 12 communities listed. Note the location on the entry.
- The contest is open to amateur photographers, which is defined as those who are not employed in photography work or making a living through photography. There is no age limit.
- Each contestant may submit two slides. They can be of two different subjects. Each slide should be clearly marked with the contestant's name and community.
- Deadline for receipt of entries is July 31.
- Observer & Eccentric Newspapers are not responsible for the return of slides or damage to them. After the contest, entries may be picked up at the Livonia office, 36251 Schoolcraft.
- Photos will be judged by a panel of editors and photographers. Criteria for judging will include composition, originality, how well the subject typifies suburban lifestyle, and how well the slide will reproduce as a color newspaper picture. It should be noted that bright colors usually look better in a color print for newspapers.
- Attach the entry blank below to your entries.

Wedding ring traditions: Eternity and endurance

And as this round is nowhere found
To flaw, or else to sever;
So let our love as endless prove
As pure as gold, forever!
Robert Herrick (1591-1674)

No one knows for certain when the custom of wearing a wedding ring began, but it has been used around the world as a talisman of love and allegiance.

One can easily see how this circle, without a beginning or an end, came to represent eternity, perfection and completeness.

Anglo-Saxon swords had rings attached to the hilts. It was upon these rings that men swore their allegiance to their rulers. Here, too, the ring symbolized a promise or a pledge between two people.

Huge wedding rings were used in medieval Germany. They were not worn on the finger, but were instead grasped by both the bride and the groom as they repeated their vows.

WEDDING RINGS, as we know them, were widely used in the Middle Ages. Betrothal and wedding rings often were engraved with verses or mottos expressing love. Such rings were called posy rings. This fashion remained popular well into the 18th century.

In the time of Great Britain's Elizabeth I, rings were sometimes presented to each wedding guest.

It has long been the belief of many that the wedding band should never be removed, or the marriage itself would not endure. If the wedding ring broke, many believed that it was an omen foretelling the death of one of the marriage partners.

There was a wedding ring, however, called a gimmel, which was meant to be broken apart. The ring was made up of two entwining hoops, worn separately by the bride and groom during the period of their betrothal. The two hoops then were enjoined to become a single ring at the time of the marriage rites.

Turkish puzzle rings became popular at the time of the Crusades. These rings were made of seven, nine or 11 pieces, and fell apart if the bride ever removed the ring from her finger. It was extremely difficult to put the ring back together. Thus, when the husband returned, he would be aware that his bride had removed the ring during his absence.

TODAY, THE LATEST thing in rings is a very wide band with diamonds. This ring is worn both as an engagement ring and, after the ceremony, as a wedding ring.

It is customary in our culture to wear the wedding ring on the third finger of the left hand. Some say this is because that finger is closest to the heart.

In parts of Europe, however, the ring is worn on the third finger of the right hand.

But no matter what the style, a wedding band always will be a magic ring to the one who wears it.

Cancer center serves Plymouth, Canton

Cancer patients in western Wayne County now have a local place to go for rehabilitation, counseling, nursing care and other medical assistance.

The West Service Center, 3307 Greenfield at Rotunda Drive in Dearborn also will aid cancer patients at home and provide cancer control service for residents in 32 communities in out-Wayne county.

Among the communities included are Canton, Plymouth and Redford townships, Garden City, Westland and Livonia.

The new center is being established under the nation's largest community-based cancer control program, Cancer Action Now. The program is co-sponsored by the Michigan Cancer Foundation, the American Cancer Society and the United Foundation. It is funded by a five-year contract from the National Cancer Institute.

More than 800 men and women volunteers will assist staff members at the center. The staff will include two registered nurses, a speech therapist, a social worker and a volunteer coordinator. Its manager is David Nesbitt of Dearborn.

Besides rehabilitation services, the center will make nursing care available to persons recovering from a laryngectomy, mastectomy and ostomy.

A social worker will provide counseling for patients and their families, and also will direct discussion groups.

Speech pathology services are available for laryngectomees.

Equipment and supplies such as beds and walkers are loaned without charge. Bandages and other disposable items are supplied. In the near future, breast and cervical cancer screenings will be offered.

"Early detection of cancer is the best way to combat the disease," said Nesbitt.

The coordinator of volunteers, Marilyn Neilsen, said that area volunteers will answer phones, take patients' histories, serve as drivers, process contributions distribute medical supplies and do necessary paper work.

There are 63 sewing groups who collect, wash, iron, bleach, tear and pin sheets which are then sewn into dresses for cancer patients.

Many local agencies cooperate with the center as part of the Metropolitan Detroit Cancer Control Program. The center's staff also will work to improve the area's cancer control services with hospitals which are major Cancer Action Now participants. These include Oakwood Hospital and Wyandotte General.

In cooperation with other agencies, the West Service Center plans to institute a public education program in the future.

"What will be achieved here is a coordinated effort with many organizations in the area," said Nesbitt.

Jeffries-Jones

Wearing a gown of white chantilly lace and a floor length veil, Karen Rae Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Jones of Detroit, was married June 10 to Timothy Eugene Jeffries of Canton Township.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Jeffries of Henry Road, Westland. The Rev. Thomas Trask and the Rev. Jacob Traub officiated at the ceremony.

Matron of honor was Joyce Phillips, the bride's sister, while the bridegroom's brother, Phil Jeffries, was best man.

Bridesmaids were Sheryl Jeffries, Irene Jeffries and Gail Stephens. Ushers were Don Buchan, Mike Clark, Steve Clark and Clint Hall.

The bride graduated from Redford High School and works for Photon Sources. The bridegroom is a Wayne Memorial High School graduate, employed by the Hydramatic Division of General Motors Corp.

The couple plans to live in Canton Township.

McBain-Shonts

Mr. and Mrs. James D. McBain Sr. of 47205 W. Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth, announce the engagement of their daughter, Lynn Marie, to Paul W. Shonts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shonts of Beaver Dam, Wis.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Dr. Martin Luther College in New Ulm, Minn. She is a kindergarten teacher at St. Stephen Lutheran School in Beaver Dam. Her fiancé is employed by the Firestone Co. in Beaver Dam.

The couple will exchange wedding vows in November in St. Stephen Lutheran Church, Beaver Dam.

Health helpers

Your health may some day be in the hands of these high school seniors, who recently won scholarships from the Metropolitan Detroit March of Dimes. Given in the fields of nursing, speech pathology-audiology, occupational and physical therapy and medical technology, the scholarships were given on the basis of scholastic ability and need. They were

5 area students earn arts awards

The Plymouth Community Arts Council has selected four middle school students and one high school student as the first recipients of "Student Fine Arts Awards" totalling $500.

The purpose of the awards, which range from $75 to $150, is to encourage students to pursue advanced study in the arts. Eligible areas of interest include creative writing, drama, sculpture, crafts, painting, photography, dance, vocal music and music composition.

Jennifer Weiser, an eighth grade student at West Middle School, was awarded $150 for advanced study in dance. Jennifer, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Weiser, is primarily interested in ballet.

Awards of $100 each were given to Mark Musakowski and Shannon Townsend, also students at West Middle School. Mark, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Musakowski, is an eighth grade student with exceptional ability in art.

Shannon, the seventh grade daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Townsend, is accomplished in vocal music and piano.

Celia Stuart, a seventh grade student at Central Middle School, was given an award of $75. Celia, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Stuart, plans to use the funds to continue her interest in drama.

Creative writing is the area of interest that Shunghee, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Chong Hoon Park, hopes to pursue with her $75 award. Shunghee is a ninth grader at Plymouth-Salem High School.

The five fine arts award winners were selected from 25 applications submitted by Plymouth-Canton Community Schools students in grades six through 11. Members of the awards committee included Mary Elizabeth Smith, Elaine Kirchgatter, Carol Carlson, Nancy Sharp and Donna Miceli.

July is signal, time's short for summer fun and work

Is it just me or do you also feel like the beginning of July is fast approaching? It seems like when July comes it means there's only two months of summer left. That's not enough time to do everything I want to do.

I need more than two months of sunshine for the tan I plan to get, the tennis game I plan to perfect and the trips I plan to take. I need more than two more months of summer to get me through another winter.

Speaking of July, I'm also totally confused about this fireworks ban controversy. I thought that I must be missing some important details on the issue until I read that not only the Canton Police but also the State Police are just as confused as I am.

I really hate firecrackers and the damage they can cause. Through the years that they have been against the law they were still all over the place. It's scary to think of them being legalized.

I WENT TO SEE "Goodbye Girl" at the Penn last Sunday. One line in that movie keeps me laughing everytime I think about it.

Paula, the main character, has lost her latest boyfriend. She's doing exercises trying to get back into shape so she can go out and earn a living on the stage.

Her ten-year-old daughter tells her that she can always go back to dancing. Paula replies, "I'm 33-years-old. I can't even walk anymore. How am I going to be able to dance?" I loved it!

Canton Chatter

By SHARON STARON

455-5322

I've recently decided I'm too old to be hanging around with ten and nine-year-old boys. I think they are out to get me.

It's bad enough to go out in the park with them and throw a football around. I mean, I can handle them laying on the ground laughing hysterically at me. But, when it comes to physical pain, I think I better call a time out.

I'm sitting here with a bruise on my hip, a pulled muscle in my shoulder, a gigantic scrape on my knee and another very painful scrape on the palm of my right hand.

One of those boys "accidentally" tripped me in the parking lot last night when we were running to the car. There I was; sprawled out on the pavement with these numerous injuries. They thought it was all very funny to see their mother bleeding. One of them did apologize between laughs.

"It happens to us all the time," they said. "What's the big deal?" The big deal is the fact that I'm not ten-years-old and I don't heal very fast anymore. I can hardly remember being so battered over a little fall. I guess I can now relate better to their scrapes and bruises. It hurts!

THE CANTON JAYCETTES Buckle Up Babes project is almost nine-years-old.

The G.M. baby love seats that were rented out last year are starting to be returned and are ready to be rented to a new baby in town. Maybe yours?

The love seats are specially designed to hold infants from birth to nine months securely and safely in a car. The rental charge is $6 with a returnable $10 deposit.

Nancy Rentz is now in charge of the project. You can call her at 453-4702 for your seat. If you're expecting a new baby or have friends in town who are, please keep these seats in mind. There's no reason for the seats to be taking up space at Nancy's when an infant can be using one. The Jaycettes project serves the Plymouth-Canton area.

Sister Arline and clams join to battle cancer

By RICH PERLBERG
An unlikely combination—Sister Arline Schmeer and a sea full of clams—is turning into an encouraging battle against cancer.

Sister Arline, a Dominican sister with a Ph.D. from the University of Colorado Medical Center's school of medicine, is director of a project team which is researching what may be an anti-cancer agent in the soft bodies of clams.

Her findings at the American Medical Center in Denver have been confirmed by several authorities, including a Nobel Prize winner, and have put her on the threshold of clinically testing the agent—called Mercenene—on humans.

Recently in Michigan on a fund raising and speaking tour, and she stopped by Our Lady of Victory School in Northville and personally thanked students for their donations to her research.

The students have contributed proceeds from two plays, "Bye Bye Birdie" and "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown."

Intrigued, she put the soft body part of a clam and a little water into a kitchen blender and produced an extract which has had a remarkable affect of laboratory mice and hamsters.

We found that there was an agent or drug in the extract which inhibits the growth of cancer or even shrinks it in some animals," she said.

SR. ARLINE SCHMEER

"We don't want to pretend that the cancer is preventable, but there is a possibility of a whole new family of drugs."

AND WHAT a family that would be! Mercenene—named after the marine biologist's moniker for clams—is not only cheap and abundant, but it is proving to be a non-toxic agent that may also act as a killer of virus and bacteria.

It also appears to be "selectively lethal," said Sister Arline. It attacks cancer cells without destroying healthy ones.

Until recently, Sister Arline's research was funded entirely by private money. She now receives some federal assistance but she does not want to become dependent upon grants lest the well run dry.

Through fund raisers, donations and the sale of "I Dig Clams" t-shirts, Sister Arline is trying to meet the $75,000-a-year cost of testing Mercenene on dogs.

IF THOSE tests—which could take three or four years—are positive, the U.S. Food and Administration might authorize clinical testing on humans.

Her "hard scientific work which is required to show effectiveness" has put the clam extract "years and years ahead of laetrille," she says.

She said laetrille has suffered because its backers promoted it as a cure-all without waiting for the evidence and have since lost trust within the scientific community.

In this vein, she warned that in no way should people start eating clams as a possible cancer cure. There is no evidence to support that.

Sister Arline, who appears almost grave and deadly serious until a warm smile lights up a friendly face, encourage school youngsters to pursue scientific interests at an early age.

"We really knew very little about cancer when I was your age and that was about 100 years ago," she laughingly told her young but attentive audience at the Northville School.

Her scientific interests can be traced to childhood days when an uncle would bring home discarded medical books from the hospital where he worked.

She was disappointed one Christmas when her parents gave her a toboggan instead of a microscope.

Today, her prowess with a microscope is recognized. In October, she will be in Buenos Aires to participate in the 12th International Cancer Congress.

Rev. Fleischer is honored

The Rev. George Fleischer of Timothy Lutheran Church in Livonia was recently honored for 30 years service to the church by the Lutheran Theological Seminary of Columbus, Ohio.

The seminary presented him with its Alpha distinguished alumnus award during the annual seminary alumni banquet.

The award was presented by Dr. Frederick Meuser, president of the seminary. He called attention to the courage and pioneer spirit of Fleischer's leadership, both in church and community when he worked in the northwest Detroit parish on Puritan near Livernois during the difficult days of racial integration from 1960 through 1969.

Fleischer was described as "one who stood alone when most of the church was hanging back."

Pastor Fleischer is a 1951 graduate of the seminary which honored him. His graduation came after serving the church in various capacities as a layman for five years.

His award, in the form of a wood-framed porcelainized plaque, symbolizes faithfulness as a messenger in the proclamation of the gospel, as a minister in the pastoral care of people and as a pioneer in providing courageous leadership for both church and community in the social issues that confront society.

CHURCH BULLETIN

ST. ROBERT BELLARMINE CATHOLIC CHURCH, 27101 W. Chicago, Redford Township, will celebrate its 25th anniversary at a special mass of thanksgiving at 1 p.m. Sunday, June 25.

The mass will be celebrated by the Rev. George Stromske, who as founder of the church has served as its pastor for 25 years, will be assisted by present and former assistant priests of the parish.

The homily will be delivered by the Rev. John Finnigan, pastor of St. Cecilia parish of Detroit.

REV. GEORGE STROMSKE

Opening the event will be a flag and color ceremony presented by members of Polish League of American Veterans Number 75. After the liturgical celebration, there will be a reception in the activities building.

Fr. Stromske, a priest for 44 years, recently announced his retirement, which will be effective Nov. 1.

A Silver Jubilee Dinner Dance is scheduled for October in Fairlane Manor, Dearborn. For reservations call Casey Kania at 937-3285 by June 30.

HOLY CROSS LUTERAN CHURCH, 30650 Six Mile, Livonia, will present a program of contemporary religious music at 8 p.m. Sunday, June 25. It will be offered by the 40-member Good News Kids, teenagers from Newport, R.I.

Director of the group is the Rev. Donald Koponen of St. Peter Lutheran Church of Newport, who is a former Livonian. A major part of the program will be the musical, "If My People," which will involve special lighting and choreography and the music of piano, electric guitar, bass, flutes and drums.

WARD UNITED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, Six Mile and Farmington Road, Livonia, will show a film about the Africa and its church at 7 p.m. Sunday, June 25.

Called "God's Harembees: Pulling Together," it documents the Pan African Christian Leadership Assembly held in 1976 in Nairobi, Kenya. It features such leaders as Festo Kivengere, Billy Graham, Gottfried Osei-Mensah, Michael Cassidy and John Stott. The public is invited.

OUR LADY OF GOOD COUNSEL, 1180 Penniman, Plymouth, will be the stopping place of the Red Cross bloodmobile from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, June 24. Everyone is welcome and no reservations are needed.

UNITED ASSEMBLY OF GOD, Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth, is using the theme, Gospel Space Flight, for its Kids Crusade scheduled to blast off at 6:30 p.m. Sunday, June 25. It will continue through Thursday, June 29.

Evangelists Bob and Elizabeth Abbott will present a 90-minute program each evening, using puppets, illustrated songs and stories and film strips to teach Bible truths.

Launch time is a 7 p.m. Monday through Thursday. Boys and girls five through 12-years-old are invited, although adults also can attend. Each child will receive a free gift, with a candy bar going to the one bringing the most visitors each night.

Mr. and Mrs. Abbott will participate in services Sunday, June 25 at 11 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. and at the 10 a.m. Sunday school.

BETHEL BAPTIST TEMPLE, 29475 Six Mile, Livonia, has scheduled the film, "To the Known God," for a 7:30 p.m. showing Wednesday, June 28. The film asks the questions: why does a culture of great sophistication and beauty fail, and what are the implications for our own society.

Prepared by the Moody Institute of Science, it is narrated by Dr. George Sweeping using as background the Acropolis and the stadium where ancient Olympic games were held.

ST. MATTHEW UNITED METHODIST CHURCH, 30900 Six Mile, Livonia, is having an ice cream social, rain or shine, from 5:30-8 p.m. Tuesday, June 27. It is sponsored by the Friendship group.

ST. MICHAEL ORTHODOX CHURCH, 26375 W. Chicago, Redford Township, will show a film on the election of the patriarch of Moscow and all Russia at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, June 24. The film will include the Pontifical service of the Orthodox Church in Russia.

Donation is $2, with children under 12 admitted free.

Eisenberg is trustee

Dr. Lester Eisenberg, medical director and director of medical education at Garden City Osteopathic Hospital, was recently elected to a three-year term to the board of trustees of the Michigan Heart Association.

Active in the association since 1975 when he helped organize the Western Wayne Heart Unit, Dr. Eisenberg served as unit president from 1975-77. He was also a member of the heart association's state long range planning committee.

The Michigan Heart Association is a United Way agency.

Bible schools keep area youngsters busy

Vacation Bible schools are scheduled for the week of June 26-30 by Garden City Presbyterian Church and Bethel Baptist area churches.

Children in the neighborhood of the Garden City church at 1841 Middlebelt are invited to attend the daily program that will run 9 a.m. to noon.

"Hosanna, God's People Praise Him" is the theme for the Bible school, which will be directed by Donna and Dave Armstrong, both public school teachers.

"This is a Bible-centered series," said Mrs. Dalton Lamb, the church's director of Christian education. "It helps students and teachers take a close-up look at God's loving activity in people's daily lives and offers creative opportunities for exploring God's word and responding in worship."

The VBS staff also includes Elva Ryall, Barbara Sandberg, Evelyn Baker, Dennis Dupras, Ginnie Lamb and Judy Westlund.

Songs, crafts and recreation will be included in the program along with Bible study.

Registration forms are available at the church, or those planning to attend may call Garden City Presbyterian, 421-7620.

The Bible school program at Bethel Baptist Temple, 29475 Six Mile, Livonia, will be held 10 a.m. to noon Monday through Thursday, June 26-29, for children aged 5-14.

Free bus rides are available, and those who are interested should call the church, 261-9276.

Bible study, games, arts and crafts, and prizes will be included in the program, along with visits from characters like Fiddy-Duddy, Granny Gook, Silly Sally and Contrary Mary.

Community Covenant Church, 25800

Student, Redford Township, will conduct a Bible school for adults, 7:30-9:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday, June 26-29.

Classes and Moody science films will feature each evening's program. A dramatic presentation titled "The Music Machine" will bring Bible schools to a close in two area churches, Ward United Presbyterian and Clarenceville United Methodist.

The program at Ward, located at Six Mile and Farmington Road in Livonia, will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, June 28, and refreshments and a VBS craft display will follow.

Clarenceville UMC, 30200 Middlebelt, Livonia, will present its program at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, June 29.

Rice Memorial United Methodist Church, 20601 Beech Daly, Redford Township, will run its school on the theme "Sing a New Song" through Friday, June 30, having started June 19. The hours are 9 a.m. to noon daily, and children 4 years of age through sixth grade are welcome.

Evangelist talks at Plymouth center

Richard Brookes, whose television program "Faith for Miracles" is carried in this area on Channel 62, will be speaker for a rally in the Plymouth Cultural Center, 525 Farmer, at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, June 25.

Brookes, also pastor of Christ Cathedral, a full gospel church in Columbus, Ohio, is a businessman who turned evangelist after a near-fatal accident. The Plymouth center is a block north of Plymouth Road and two blocks west of Mill Street.

Mull's show gently mauls suburban scene

By ETHEL SIMMONS

Not being a devoted fan of Martin Mull or a regular viewer of the "America 2-Night" television show, I came to the Birmingham Theatre for his early show Saturday night with an eager curiosity.

In the audience I was surrounded by Mull's cult followers who are addicted to his show, his records, his humor. The curtain rose and there was Mull playing a baby grand piano in a traditional living room setting backdropped by a painted exterior of formal gardens. A roar of pleasure rose from the comedy concert-goers and they greeted their hero with a standing ovation.

Mull, in a white suit and with his longish, sun-streaked blond hair, looked angelic/devilish as he sang his opening number, a song "for alcohol abuse." His voice was somewhat hoarse but happy.

Although he has been billed as a satirist ("America 2-Night" is a tongue-in-cheek talk show with phony guests), Mull let loose a few real barbs at the Birmingham Theatre.

HE DID COMMENT, "The dressing rooms are beautiful. I didn't expect to find low-income housing, but these are really nice."

And Mull insisted that "I maybe don't understand the charisma of Birmingham," and gave the audience a comedy test, telling them first a joke about Ralph Waldo Emerson visiting Henry Thoreau in prison and then suggesting a more coarse joke, which he didn't proceed to tell.

The audience obviously passed the test and "Birmingham" was allowed to listen to Mull's preference of intellectual humor.

He professed amusement that couples had come to the theater on dates.

"I love to see people dating," Mull declared. "They're not going to believe it back in L.A. That's darling!"

He dedicated his final song, "Do the Nothing," "to the inner city of Detroit." In this dance tune he sings, pauses for long periods of time and just relaxes or tends to other business.

MULL'S NAME seems appropriate to his style, for he seems to be mulling things over, in a whimsical way, as he chats with the audience. But I swear it didn't seem $15 worth (the top ticket).

Mull made a few jokes about the ticket prices, saying, "Did it cost each of you $30 to get in? Oh, only $15?" He indicated he wouldn't give his full show for these prices. Nobody seemed to think they got taken by Mull. Instead they loved it.

'I love to see people dating. They're not going to believe it back in L.A. That's darling.'

Composer Mull's songs included "What's Say You and I Get Normal for a Change" ("Let's quit rock-n-roll-ing."); "I Got the Polish Blues" ("I made the bed and then got up."); "Men" a sea chantey sung by Columbus' crew, the U.S.'s first folk song; "Everyone I Ever Loved" about an egotist in love with himself; and "That's Alright If You Just Want to Go to Sleep Tonight," about a husband whose wife has a headache.

The funniest song Mull sang he explained as too ribald to sing in front of a family audience. He promised to sing the nonoffensive parts and hum the suggestive material.

What he hummed was not four-letter words but deliciously bold images, as he sang about an orgy. He went from a

MULL SANG most of his songs seated on the sofa, strumming his guitar, smoking a cigarette and sipping from a glass.

He talked about his two ABC albums. At one point he pulled his new "record" out of a grocery bag and showed it to the audience. It was not in a jacket, and he helpfully explained you should not put the needle on the paper circle because it wouldn't play.

Mull also plugged Marty's record store, next door to the theater.

He indicated if prompted he would come back for an encore. At the end of the show, the audience gave him a standing ovation. He came back and sang another song, and the show closed with another standing ovation.

Mull was in town to perform two Saturday night concerts at the Birmingham Theatre. Both were sold out, and he has been subsequently booked for two more shows this Saturday.

Mull also told the audience that "America 2-Night" will continue. "Primarily because of the interest in Detroit, I think we're going to be renewed," he said.

DICK PURTAN, the WXYZ-Radio personality who has a few fans of his own, introduced the concert.

Mull's stint was preceded by the Brookside Jazz Ensemble, a brassy big jazz band that originated at Brookside School Cranbrook in Bloomfield Hills. The band, although terrific at P'Jazz and other outdoor concerts, overwhelmed the Birmingham Theatre stage.

"Amorous Flea" opens Hilberry

Three shows will open Wayne State University's Eighth Summer Theatre Festival on Wednesday, July 5, at the Hilberry Theatre.

"The Amorous Flea," the Hilberry Repertory Company's musical production that was staged at the American College Theatre Festival this spring in Washington, D.C., is being revived at 8:30 p.m. in the Hilberry Theatre. Washington Star critic David Richards called it "a disarmingly merry production... as entertaining as anything that has played the Kennedy Center this year."

"The Chronicles of Bohikee Creek" by Robert Unger also plays at 8:30 p.m. in the Studio Theatre downstairs. A presentation of the Festival's Black Theatre Company, "Bohikee Creek" is a series of four vignettes about life along a South Carolina creek.

"Step on a Crack," a children's play by Suzan Zeder, opens at 10:30 a.m., performed by the Hilberry Company.

"The Amorous Flea," a musical version of Moliere's "The School for Wives," brings back Erick Devine, Cynthia Dozier and Bruce Matley in the leading roles. Also in the cast are Gerald B. Roe, Dianne Winslow, George Christopher Kappaz, Mark Robbins and Richard Goodwin. Direction is by Robert T. Hazzard, with setting by Russell Smith, costumes by Ellen Ryba and lighting by Gary M. Witt.

THE FOUR VIGNETTES in "Bohikee Creek," are connected by the same locale: New York critics praised the work, Unger's first, at the off-Broadway opening in 1966. Theophilus Lewis described the play as "caviar to the Broadway clientele" and added that "mature theatregoers will savor the vignettes as Bohikee Creek" is directed by Maf-tin Molson. The acting ensemble includes Fred Bennett, R. J. Warren, Deborah Lynn Patrick, Von Washington, Clyde T. Harper and Ronny Lee Woodson.

Author Suzan Zeder describes Ellie, the child at the center of "Step on a Crack," as "a funny, crazy, wildly imaginative child who arms herself with a full-blown fantasy life to fight her way through real life problems." The play is about Ellie's difficulty adjusting to a new stepmother, a problem "as classic as Cinderella and as timely as tomorrow." In the role of Ellie is Cynthia Dozier.

Others in the cast include Jim Bird-sall, Dianne Winslow, Mary Ottman, John L. Beem and Von Washington, all members of the Hilberry company. The play is directed by Gary M. Witt.

The Summer Festival also will include Agatha Christie's "Ten Little Indians," Alan Ayckbourn's "How the Other Half Loves," Tom Stoppard's "The Real Inspector Hound," Noel Coward's "Red Peppers" and the Paw Paw Puppet Theatre.

Brochures and ticket information are available from the Hilberry Theatre Box Office, Cass and Hancock, phone 577-2972.

As now as New York, as near as Woodward & Maple!

1978 Subscription Series:

BY STROUSE ... Opens July 10

A thoroughly entertaining musical revue spotlighting the memorable tunes of award-winning Broadway composer Charles Strouse. A smash hit, currently running in New York and Boston, it's a fun musical potpourri from the gifted mind who gave us "Bye Bye Birdie," "All American," "Golden Boy," "It's a Bird-It's a Plane-It's a Superman," "Applause," the current hit "Annie," and the upcoming "A Broadway Musical!"

THE JOHN HOUSEMAN ACTING COMPANY ... Opens Oct. 25

The John Houseman Acting Company in Repertory comes to us from Lincoln Center. Under the artistic direction of Academy Award Winner John Houseman, the company has performed in more than 150 cities. The Obie Award winning Company will perform Antigone by Jean Anouilh, Romeo & Juliet by Shakespeare and the Other Half by Elinor Jones. A must see. The New York Times calls it "the most fabulous repertory company in New York."

LES GIRLS LES GIRLS ... Opens Sept. 12
Nominated for a Tony Award as best actress of the season, Jean-Pierre Aumont stars in a stylish comical update of the timeless gothic thriller by Bram Stoker. Superb suspense, breath-taking special effects, ghoulishly great fun. A smashing performance that thrills, chills and thoroughly delights.

MISS MARGARITA'S WAY ... Opens Oct. 9

Nominated for a Tony Award as best actress of the year for her brilliant performance, Estelle Parsons plays a schoolteacher you'll never quite forget. This gripping, audience-involving drama has had over 50 international engagements, including the recent Broadway production. A most unusual play. A solid tour de force by an Academy Award winning actress.

THE PASSION OF DRACULA ... Opens Nov. 6

Still New York's unanimous hit of the season, Jean-Pierre Aumont stars in a stylish comical update of the timeless gothic thriller by Bram Stoker. Superb suspense, breath-taking special effects, ghoulishly great fun. A smashing performance that thrills, chills and thoroughly delights.

P.S. YOUR CAT IS DEAD ... February 1979

The incomparable Roddy McDowell exhibits the talent that has thrilled and delighted film and theatre audiences for decades. Another smash hit from James Kirkwood, author of the highly acclaimed "A Chorus Line." Kirkwood's Pulitzer Prize winning company ignites the stage. Raunchily Funny!!

Dinner theaters provide steady diet of comedy

Launce takes over Somerset Theatre

WJR radio personality Jimmy Launce has some big ideas. Launce, who has been in partnership with Pierre Turgeon in Somerset Dinner Theatre, will become sole owner of the operation July 29.

Turgeon, a Farmington Hills resident, is moving to California. Launce, who lives in West Bloomfield, plans to use Somerset Dinner Theatre in Troy as a springboard to other dinner theater activity.

"Within a year, I hope to build a suburban, dinner theater, probably in the Birmingham-Bloomfield-Troy area," Launce said in a recent interview.

Somerset is the longest-running, continuous dinner theater in the Detroit area, Launce said. It has been operating successfully for 2½ years, offering many comedies. Local celebrities, including Launce himself, have starred in the shows.

THE NEIL Simon comedy "The Sunshine Boys" runs through July 29. Then Jimmy Launce Production Inc. plans to bring in Simon's "Barefoot in the Park."

Forty-two performers tried out for the comedy's six major roles.

"Barefoot in the Park" has got more substance than many of the other Neil Simon comedies. It's in the same category as "Sunshine Boys," Launce said.

"There are a lot of good roles in the thing, oddly enough including The Telephone Man who has only a small part."

No big name star will be featured in "Barefoot in the Park," said Launce. Members of the cast are "all just good actors."

Launce said he thinks people tire of the big-name star constantly heading the cast.

"I don't want to put people of varying degrees of talent on stage."

AFTER "BAREFOOT" Launce will star in "Owl and the Pussycat" at Somerset Dinner Theatre, around November. Open auditions will be held for the co-starring role.

Launce has appeared on stage for 23 years as an actor. He and Pierre (Pete) Turgeon met when Launce starred in "Private Lives," which ran 20 weeks at Somerset.

Turgeon, who formerly had been in partnership with Ed Guest III, formed an association with Launce. For a time, Turgeon and Launce also presented shows at Crackers Dinner Theatre at the Squire's Table in Walled Lake.

"I plan to stay with the comedies or musicals," Launce said. "When the opportunity presents itself to offer a musical at Somerset, we will. But not a cut-down version."

"I personally abhor that. I think it's cheating the customers."

ANOTHER Neil Simon comedy, "The Odd Couple," in its 13th week for Dinner Playhouse at the Bum Steer in Royal Oak, has been extended through July 9.

The Nancy Gurwin Production has two new co-stars, however, because Carl Williams and Kent Martin, who played Oscar Madison and Felix Unger, had previous commitments and could not continue past their 12-week contracts.

Guest of Birmingham is playing Oscar, the sloppy half of the odd couple, while Phill Milan of Westland, who played Vinnie in the show and understudied Felix, is now the fussy Felix.

Ed Guest, who is resident director for Dinner Playhouse, directed "The Odd Couple." He also will direct the musical "Once Upon a Mattress," which will star Nancy Gurwin, the producer.

Ms. Gurwin and Phil Marcus Esser had a long run in her production of the musical "I Do! I Do!" at the Botsford Inn in Farmington Hills and Vittorio's in Livonia. She is a Southfield resident.

"Once Upon a Mattress" has a tentative opening date of July 14.

IN OTHER dinner theater news, yet another Neil Simon comedy "Plaza Suite," returns to the Sussex House in Southfield after a hiatus. Along with a prime rib dinner, the show runs July 7-Aug. 5. Joe Baunoch, Mary Geiger, Julie Klock and Bruce Campbell star in the Janus Productions play. Ms. Geiger, Dick Charlton and Fran Loud, who own the company, are all members of St. Dunstan's Guild and Birmingham Village Players.

THE ONLY dinner theater currently in town that does not serve up Neil Simon is the Theatre of the Arts production of a two-man revue, "The Machus Red Fox Revue" at the Machus Red Fox in Bloomfield Township.

1020 West Ann Arbor Road, Plymouth

Michigan gives summer tourists a big hand

Stalking moose, eating fudge in a fort or strolling a town once ruled by a king are among the varied attractions luring visitors to Michigan islands, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

Most remote and largest of these islands is Lake Superior's Isle Royale. The 42-mile-long wilderness island is accessible by boat or seaplane from Houghton or Copper Harbor. It features moose and two rarely seen wolf packs. The island is famous for backpacking but offers food and lodging at Rock Harbor on the island's eastern end.

Wilderness fishing, hunting and camping are found on Sugar and Neebish Islands in the St. Marys River, both reachable by ferry from Sault Ste. Marie. Cottage and resort accommodations are available.

The wild, rugged nature of those islands contrasts with Middle Ground Island at Bay City, and Ojibway Island at Saginaw and Belle Isle at Detroit, which offer recreation picnicking and water sports and are accessible by car.

MIDDLE GROUND and Ojibway Islands are located in the Saginaw River. Bay City's Bigelow Park is on Middle Ground Island at the 23rd Street bridge. It contains an operating sawmill and a pleasant residential area. A marina offers food and entertainment. Saginaw's 49-acre Ojibway Island, reached by the Court Street bridge, contains a city recreation park.

Sulphur Island, three miles east of Alpena in Lake Huron, is another day-use island near one of northern Michigan's largest cities. It is a scenic and rustic picnic spot and offers swimming and fishing. The island, reached only by boat, is without modern conveniences.

Detroit's 1,000-acre Belle Isle has a children's zoo, beaches for swimming and sunbathing, Dossin's Great Lakes Museum, a conservatory and an aquarium. Belle Isle offers deer, bridge paths, stables, tennis courts and a band shell where free summer concerts are held. It is a productive fishing spot and rental canoes are available.

Another large island near Detroit is the St. Clair Flats at the head of Lake St. Clair. Harsens Island is reached by a short scenic ferry ride from Algonac. Points of interest are Sans Souci, the island's only town; the historic Old Club; the Idle Hour Hotel, and the Four Winds restaurant. Fishing along the island's cuts and channels is rated very good.

Among the state's vacation islands are Mackinac, Bois Blanc, Beaver, Drummond and North and South Manitou, plus the 35 islands in the Les Cheneaux chain.

BEAVER ISLAND, 55 square miles of wilderness in northern Lake Michigan, is reached by plane or ferry from Charlevoix. A mormon colony was established there in 1847 by James Jesse Strang, who proclaimed himself king. Hardwood and pine forests are broken by deserted farms, and sandy beaches rim the island's edge. Visitors can find accommodations and shops in the town of St. James.

The eastern Upper Peninsula's Les Cheneaux Islands are off M-134, near Cedarville and Hessel. This chain stretches into Lake Huron as far as the eye can see. There are no ferries, but 10 percent of the islands are connected to the mainland by bridge. Summer cottages and cabins are available.

At the Upper Peninsula's eastern tip, a short ferry ride takes travelers and their cars to Drummond Island. There's a crumbling old British fort there, as well as cottages, cabins, motels, restaurants, a golf course and camping.

Mackinac Island is a place of contrasts—old and new, lavish and simple, hills and plains. The island is reached by ferry from Mackinaw City or St. Ignace. Automobiles are banned, and travel is on foot, by bicycle or horse-drawn vehicle. The island offers fine old hotels and shops that sell fudge and souvenirs, clothing and jewelry. Historic sites include Old Ft.

Mackinac and the original Astor Fur Trading Post.

Bois Blanc Island is within sight of Mackinac Island and a six-mile ferry ride into Lake Huron from Cheboygan. The island offers lodging with food, and boat, car and bicycle rentals at the 1874 Vintage Pines, the island's only hostelry. Miles of trails and shoreline make Bois Blanc ideal for hiking and backpacking.

LAKE MICHIGAN'S North and South Manitou islands are accessible by ferry from Leland. Among North Manitou attractions are deer and wild turkey. Trails extend from the island's restored Coast Guard station, offering a central lodge with a dining room. Cottages are available.

Carillon concerts ring in summer

Christ Church Cranbrook's 1978 summer carillon series will begin June 16 with three days of recitals by guest carillonneurs attending the 1978 Congress of the Guild of Carillonneurs in North America. Highlights are the premieres of two pieces, played June 16 and 18, commissioned for the new bells of Christ Church.

All are free and open to the public.

David Hunsberger, carillonneur of Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, will play the opening recital at 1:45 p.m. June 16. At 8 p.m., Ronald Barnes of Washington, D.C., will play his "Serenade," commissioned for the 50th anniversary of this carillon with funding from the Michigan Council for the Arts (MCA) and Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Booth.

Hunsberger also will perform works by J.S. Bach, his own arrangements of several hymns and popular songs as well as "St. Louis Rag." Barnes will play works by J.S. Bach, Johan Franco, carols from the Carillon Book of Theodore DeSany as well as his "Serenade for Carillon" (Intrada, Sicilienne, Milogna, Processional, A Whimsy and Barcarolle).

At 11:30 a.m. on Saturday, June 17, Frank P. Law, carillonneur of Washington Memorial Chapel, Valley Forge, Pa., will perform excerpts from his transcriptions of French dances.

At 4 p.m. Sunday, June 18, Milford Myhre, carillonneur of Bok Singing Tower, Lake Wales, Fla., will play his "Come Down, O Love Divine," commissioned by the MCA and the Booths for the dedication recital of the 35 new bells in Christ Church's 50-bell carillon. The piece is based on the tune "Down Ampney" by Ralph Vaughn Williams.

Myhre also will play works by Mozart, Matthias van den Gheyn, Ennis Fruhauf, Fritz Kreisler, among others.

The Christ Church carillon series will continue each Sunday at 4 p.m. through Sept. 3. The recitals precede the 6 p.m. free musical programs in the church. The public is invited to listen to the carillon from their cars or the church lawn. Programs are at the front door.

Carillon concerts scheduled are: Arie Abbenes, carillonneur of Astoria, The Netherlands, June 25; Beverly Buchanan, Christ Church carillonneur, July 2; Rene Vanstreels, city carillonneur of Hasselt, Belgium, July 9; John Gouwens of Ann Arbor, July 16; William De Turk, Grosse Pointe Memorial Church carillonneur and music director, July 23; Beverly Buchanan, July 30.

Those in August will be: Helen Fan, University of Michigan assistant carillonneur, Aug. 6; Roland Ritcher, Kirk in the Hills assisting carillonneur, Aug. 13; Robert Lodine, University of Chicago carillonneur, Aug. 20; Frederick Marriott, Kirk in the Hills organist, carillonneur, Aug. 27; Beverly Buchanan, Sept. 3.

Lone Pine, is an Episcopal church associated with Cranbrook Educational Community.

Refuge assisted by U.S.

The vast majority of the construction and development at the Seney National Wildlife Refuge, near Seney, in Michigan's Upper Peninsula, was done by special government agencies such as the Civilian Conservation Corps—created in the 1930s to help relieve unemployment.

Visitors to the refuge may see flocks of migrating Canadian geese—lured to the area by the Seney-reared geese, bald eagles, beaver and other wildlife in their natural habitats.

Half wear glasses

The National Center for Health Statistics says 48.1 per cent of Americans aged 45 or older wear eyeglasses. Nearly 42 per cent of those 25 to 45 years old also use glasses.

The right to die

Bio-ethics seek to clarify death

By SHERRY KAHAN

"The main task for bio-ethics is to clarify for people the question of when a given issue is a medical judgement and when a value judgement."

This philosophical statement by Dr. Andre Hellegers, director of the Kennedy Center for the Study of Bioethics in Washington, was one of the threads running through a recent day-long conference on medical ethics. The conference was at University of Michigan's Dearborn campus.

"The public has a tendency to believe all these judgements are medical and that doctors must make them," he continued. "People think physicians have specific knowledge."

"But factually, the issues are value issues. There is nothing that says doctors have better values than other people."

Should Karen Quinlan be allowed to die? Should scientists be permitted to rearrange genes? Such questions, Dr. Hellegers stressed again and again, should be moved out of hospitals and laboratories into public domain, so that answers can reflect a consensus of national thinking.

As a medical ethicist, Dr. Hellegers would appear to be the practitioner of a very rare discipline, in a very new field. However, he pointed out that for many years he has been lecturing on medical ethics at conferences similar to the one at UM-D, both in this country and in other parts of the world.

Elaborating further, he said that medical ethics had been taught by Jesuits at Georgetown University with which the bio-ethics center is affiliated in the late 19th century.

WHY THE RECENT interest in medical ethics?

"A century ago medicine was practiced behind closed doors," observed the speaker. "Now most of medicine is practiced in public using a huge factory of a hospital. Everybody knows what everybody is doing to everyone."

"And because we practice in a public factory, and the factory is expensive, the public begins to ask what is being done with its tax dollars."

He listed as another cause of the burgeoning interest in what doctors and scientists are doing is "the trend toward consumerism and truth in packaging."

He added: "A lot of conferences have been organized because of this modern move toward full disclosure. Sometimes in these meetings, participants say the interest is due to the power of new technology and the new morality."

"But the real problem is that we have an entirely changing context in which the medical profession is practicing."

To give a hint of the kinds of important medical ethics issues that will be facing the country, Dr. Hellegers dwelled briefly on amniocentesis, a method of determining genetic information about a fetus by withdrawing fluid from the fetal sack.

Should the information be used to change the future baby's height? Or its sex?

"These decisions may involve pride or jealousy," he declared. "They have nothing to do with biology. I see a real danger that physicians, biologists and technologists will get blamed on these issues because people can't decide what their values are."

IS PREGNANCY A disease? The witty ethicist, who was born in the Netherlands, drew a laugh when he discussed efforts by groups to prove that pregnancy is not a disease and therefore, should not be covered by medical insurance.

"Pregnancy is a non-disease for which 90 per cent of those who have it get hospitalized," Dr. Hellegers reported with a smile. "It is a non-disease for which 75 per cent of those who have it receive anesthesia. Fifteen per cent get surgery and five per cent hemorrhage from this non-disease."

Dr. Hellegers suggested that the medical profession should be redefined, and that the training of doctors be altered.

"They might create the new professions of bio-physician and social physician, and people could enter either," he said.

This would allow them, he implied, to deal better with the thorny medical ethics issues of today.

He emphasized that physicians should be careful about assuming the right to make these moral decisions. This happened in the Quinlan case when doctors went to court to protect their right to decide on the life or death of Karen Ann.

"Someday there will be a backlash against their values and it will come back and haunt the medical profession," he said. "I don't want them to be blamed for what they are not blameworthy. Don't blame them on the issues like cloning, blame the fact that you didn't say you didn't like it."

Mighty Massey rolls in tourney

By DENNIS O'CONNOR

It was no surprise to area softball fans when members of Massey Cadillac of the Plymouth League stood in line Sunday afternoon to receive their first place trophies for winning the fourth annual Plymouth-Canton Softball Tournament.

The real shocker, however, was Massey's championship game opponent, Puckett Plumbing, the squad which wasn't supposed to play more than three games in this double-elimination event, surprised many by flushing down team after team enroute to the second-place finish and runners-up trophies.

Massey had no problem defeating the upstart Puckett squad, winning the championship game, 20-6, at the Massey diamond. The perennial Plymouth city champs dominated all 16 teams in the mid-season tourney. Massey won all five games during the weekend and didn't lose once enroute to its second-straight tournament victory.

McMurray Insurance, the best team in the Canton League and victors of the first two Plymouth-Canton events, finished a disappointing third for the second straight season.

McMurray easily handled R & J, 6-1, in the first round but ran into the mighty Massey squad in the second round. Massey had its home run strength in full gear against the perennial Canton champions, blasting its way to a ridiculous 41-15 triumph.

The 26-run defeat sent McMurray to the loser's bracket early. Saturday morning, The Canton squad fought its way through the bracket with four straight victories.

Meanwhile, Massey continued to breeze in the winner's bracket, defeating Massey of Canton, 18-14, then McMurray and finally Beautiful People, 17-5, to reach the finals.

Puckett was doing some fancy winning of its own, playing its best softball in years with a 9-0 victory over Adistra, a 7-4 triumph over Century Farms, and a 12-6 thumping of HAF Industries enroute to the finals.

Puckett stayed close to the champions through the first three innings of this initial meeting. But Massey finally got its act together and sent Puckett to the loser's bracket for the first time with a resounding 16-6 victory.

Puckett and McMurray then faced each other to see which team would get another shot at Massey. The winner was assured at least second-place trophies, while the loser went home in third place.

McMurray, as expected, led most of the game holding a 6-4 lead over Puckett through six innings. But the Plumbers rallied with three runs in the top of the seventh to upset McMurray, 7-6, and gain a spot in the championship.

In the final game, Massey set the stage with a six-run first inning, with Pete Woodard's three-run homer the big blow of the stanza.

Puckett came roaring back, however, scoring once in the bottom of the first and four more times in the third to pull within one run, 6-5. Puckett, in fact, had a chance to tie the score in the third but Bob Maxwell was called out for not touching third base when he scored on Tom Corner's single.

Massey came alive with two runs in the fourth, five more in the fifth, and seven final tallies in the seventh to put the game out of reach.

Dave Broad, Massey's pitcher, was named the tournament's most valuable player. He played excellent defense in covering the middle of the diamond all weekend. He also registered 15 hits in 24 trips including a five-for-five day in the championship contest.

Dave Broad, the tournament's Most Valuable Player, slides safely under the tag of catcher Kevin Rienas for another Plymouth Massey run. The tourney champions won this first-round game against Canton Massey and went on to defeat the Cinderella team of the tourney, Puckett Plumbing, in the championship game. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Blohm chosen Rock gals coach

By DENNIS O'CONNOR

Bob Blohm has been named the new Plymouth Salem girls varsity basketball coach, the Observer has learned.

Blohm replaces Debbie Hatcher who recently resigned. Hatcher has been in Florida since January on a leave of absence from her teaching position. She is working on her master's degree, while her husband has a special six-month job in the southern state.

Plymouth Athletic Director John Sandmann said he received a letter of resignation from Hatcher last week. He cited "personal reasons" for her sudden departure.

It was later learned that Hatcher quit because her husband's work was lasting longer than expected. Hatcher had planned to be back in Plymouth this month to start the girls summer program, but resigned when she couldn't return in time. She plans on teaching in Plymouth this fall.

Blohm, a native of Indiana, didn't coach during the just completed school year. He is a health education teacher at Plymouth Canton High School.

Blohm was recently named the Plymouth Salem junior varsity boys basketball coach in Fred Thomann's program, after Craig Bell moved to the Canton varsity position.

Blohm was selected for the varsity girls post over Dave VanWagoner and Scott Kurtz.

VanWagoner was last year's Salem freshman girls coach. He will work in Blohm's program as the girls junior varsity mentor. Kurtz is the Salem girls track coach.

Oddly enough, Blohm originally planned to work as the freshman coach in Mike McCalley's Canton girls program this fall. But with the failure of last week's millage increase, all freshmen programs have been dropped.

Collins gains All-State fame again

When an athlete gains all-state honors as a junior in high school, it is an uncommon accomplishment in prep athletics.

And if this rarity becomes reality, the fortunate athlete has been known to falter under the pressure, or jinx, if you will, of the senior year.

But this didn't happen to Plymouth Canton's Scott Collins.

The 18-year-old shortstop, who graduated two weeks ago from Canton, was recently honored as a first-team all-state selection by the Michigan High School Coaches Association, for the second year in a row.

Collins, a unanimous all-Western Six League selection for the past two seasons, and a three-year varsity starter for coach Fred Crissey's Chiefs, gained first-team all-state accolades his junior year after hitting .478. He continued his hot hitting this past spring, serving as the heart of the Canton offensive attack with another plus .400 season at the plate. Collins was a stabilizing force in the infield, defensively, leading the Chiefs to their fourth straight Western-6 crown, district and regional titles, and a spot among the final four in the state tournament.

Collins gained all-state honors after being named to the all-regional squad. Plymouth Salem's hard-hitting first baseman Bob Waite, and Chief junior pitcher Brian James also were named to the all-regional team and received honorable mention at the all-state selections.

Collins was the only first-team selection from this area. Wayne Memorial's Jim Canfield was picked on the second team.

Collins, who recently was drafted in the eighth round of the professional baseball draft by the Baltimore Orioles, has signed a letter of intent to play college baseball for the University of Missouri on a four-year athletic scholarship.

Collins' selection marks the fourth straight season a ballplayer from the Plymouth-Canton community has earned all-state honors. Others include Tom Willette (Plymouth Salem) and Brian Stemberger (Plymouth Canton), 1975; Brian Wolcott (Plymouth Salem), 1976; and Collins (Plymouth Canton), 1977 and 1978.

The other first-team all-state selections were Mike Brecht (P-Hazel Park); Mitch Zwolensky (P-Owosso); Les Garrett (C-Birmingham Groves); Dave Lewis (1B-Rochester); Tom Dieters (1B-Rochester); Art McGuff (1B-Midland); Bruce Fields (OF-Lansing Everett); Ruben Luna (OF-Flint Southwestern); Carl Popko (OF-Sterling Heights); and Bill Olson (DH-Lake Orion).

Scott Collins, the heart of the Chiefs' baseball successes this season, was recently named to the first-team All-State squad for the second straight year.

Collins, a senior, had another outstanding year at the plate and played solid defense from his shortstop position. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Canton lost but the fans were great

We can talk strategy all day concerning what should have or might have been done for Canton to win Saturday's state semifinal game against Flint Southwestern.

But the fact remains, the Chiefs lost, 1-0, to the eventual state champions. And, if its any consolation, if anyone saw the second semifinal game which featured East Kentwood and Hazel Park, even the most objective spectator could honestly say the best two teams in the state played in that first contest.

I've stressed throughout the spring season, and rightfully so, that Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem baseball programs are considered tops in the state. And each program produces many players who have continued their careers in college competition.

Along with these two fine programs is one big group of baseball fans, who demonstrated to me that they form the best cheering section in the state.

I'd like to share with you what I observed Saturday afternoon from the stands.

IT IS the bottom of the sixth inning. Canton is trailing, 1-0, and time is running out.

Canton coach Fred Crissey has his

Russ Mandle smacked a double to lead off the seventh inning, but was nailed down at third base trying to stretch the hit to a triple. (Staff photo) club together in the dugout for one of those famous sermons which he hopes will spark his club to victory.

The meeting breaks and the Plymouth fans start going wild with chants and cheers, as Dave Weise, who leads off the batting order, steps up to the plate.

Crissey waddles to the third-base coaching box, placing a piece of fresh gum in his mouth. He chews with anticipation for what he hopes is a game-winning rally.

Weise strikes out swinging for the third time that morning, but the fans continue to cheer with each pitch as Jeff Campbell strides to the plate. The fans cheer so loud, you can't even hear the familiar "Hey, JC" chant from the dugout.

Campbell rips a single through the hole at third base and shortstop. Now the clapping and feet stomping from the Plymouth fans is more pronounced as All-Stater Scott Collins steps to the plate. He had ripped a double in the first inning but struck out in the third.

One Plymouth fan, Brent Eckles, gets the most out of his megaphone as he leads a C-A-N-T-O-N cheer. The Canton dugout goes bananas with cheers for the "Duce" (Collins).

Collins immediately gets in the hole with a two-strike count but you wouldn't know it from the constant Plymouth cheering.

For this was the most important part of the game.

It was strength against strength. Flint Southwestern's All-State pitcher, Ruben Luna, his monster-like face peering in at the plate, against Collins, Canton's best hitter for the past two seasons.

Collins takes a ball to make it a 1-2 count, but then Luna prevails—catching Collins reaching on an outside fastball—the pitch the shortstop also struck out on in the third inning.

Collins throws his bat to the ground in disgust and I knew Canton had lost. Without Collins hitting, the result was academic.

Scott Dawson follows Collins but also strikes out on three straight pitches to end the inning—and the noisy Plymouth squad turns silent.

Dawson stands at home plate after whiffing, pauses, and walks slowly to the mound with his head down.

The fans are quiet. All I heard was one girl behind me saying, "We lost."

BUT THE PLYMOUTH fans weren't quite ready to give up yet. Dawson finishes his three-hitter by walking one man in the seventh but keeps the score 1-0 as Canton steps to the plate for one last shot at Luna.

Crissey finishes another dugout sermon and the fans go wild again.

With one down, Rusty Mandle takes a strike and then has a talk with Crissey at the coach's box. Crissey slaps his centerfielder on the butt for encouragement and Mandle returns to the plate. The fans are noisier than ever.

The fleet-footed junior trots into second base, turns the bag and expects to stay at second. But Crissey sees the relay from the outfield fall short and waves valiantly for Mandle to get to third base. Mandle hesitates and then turns on the speed—only to be called out on a close play.

Crissey turns to the crowd and slaps his hands in disgust. The crowd is silent and Luna lets out a scream of joy. (It was the third time in the game a Chief was thrown out on the basepaths.) Crissey later took the blame for sending Mandle to third, although it seemed to me that Mandle could have had a stand-up triple.

Craig Lee grounds out on the first pitch for the second out of the inning but the fans keep roaring. Now Doug Smith, the team's senior spokesman, comes to the plate. He is the only person standing in the way of Luna's shut-out.

Just three days earlier, Smith spoke at the team's banquet, reminding his teammates that a victory over Flint Southwestern would be Crissey's 100th win in his five-year stint at Canton—an accomplishment any coach dreams of achieving.

But it wasn't to be.

Luna makes Smith the 13th Chief to go down swinging, ending the game and Canton's successful season.

Smith just stood at home plate—watching the Colts mob Luna at the mound. He had that disheartening look on his face. He knew his team had lost, and he wouldn't play in Crissey's 100th victory.

That would have to wait until next year.

And yet, the Plymouth fans didn't hesitate one second to stand and give their Chiefs an ovation for a well-played game.

Canton may have lost to the best team in the state, but no one was better than the Plymouth fans on this day.

Fred Crissey, the Canton mentor, was waiting all Saturday morning for a Chief runner to round third base and head for home. Canton lost 1-0. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Jr. All-Stars play exciting games

Excitement and fun marked the half-way point of the Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball League as three leagues played All-Star games at the Plymouth Township Hill Saturday afternoon.

More than 150 children from the A, B and G Jr. League participated in this annual event, as the American Leagues won two of the three battles from their National League counterparts.

The A League Americans (boys—ages 11-12 years old) held off a late rally from the Nationals, winning the classic, 11-10. The B League Americans (boys—ages 9-10 years old) came from behind to rout the Nationals 11-4. The G Jr. Nationals (girls—ages 8-12 years old) edged the American Leaguers, 13-12.

Suggs' comment showed no class

By DENNIS O'CONNOR

Has the spirit of good-natured competition turned into provincial envy on the part of the Canton recreation department?

I'm speaking of the biased and unsportsmanlike actions of Canton Parks and Recreation employee Bob Suggs at last Saturday night's Puckett Plumbing—McMurray Insurance softball tournament game.

The contest was a nip-and-tuck battle all the way. Puckett of the Plymouth League upset McMurray, considered by most the best team in the Canton League, 7-6.

In the middle of the contest, a controversial call went against

In the middle of the contest, with Puckett in the field, two opposing players nearly got into a fight after a Puckett infielder put a hard tag on a McMurray runner.

After the inning, McMurray took the field. With the incident still in mind, Suggs started yelling at the McMurray pitcher to "throw the ball at his head," in reference to a Puckett batter.

This kind of bush action is not only a bad reflection on Suggs, but is also an embarrassment to the entire Canton recreation department—and to Frank McMurray, the sponsor of the Canton softball team and member of the Canton Recreation Commission.

Commentary

I can see a spectator acting in this manner. Suggs, however, is a Canton recreation representative who was a tournament official.

I see nothing wrong with Suggs' hoping his Canton team would win the game and the tournament. But to tell a player to throw a ball at another player's head is uncalled-for. It shouldn't be overlooked.

Chuck Skene, the Plymouth recreation director who ran the tournament throughout the weekend, admits he wanted one of his Plymouth teams to win the tournament, but never once openly rooted or yelled at any squad during the action.

When I first met Suggs last month, he handed me a patch which said "Canton Beautiful," with baseball bats shown in the background.

Well, Canton may be beautiful and its softball teams may play with a lot of class, but there was nothing beautiful or classy with the way Suggs acted Saturday night.

Pitera, Crespo honored in league

Plymouth Salem, Redford Union, and Livonia Bentley each landed two players on the 12-member All-Suburban Eight League softball squad.

Dearborn Edsel Ford, runners-up to Salem for the league title, led all schools with three selections. Dearborn High, Belleville, and Trenton each placed one girl on the honor squad.

The Rocks, coached by Livi Way, won the league title, the first-ever for the school, with a 12-2 record. Salem finished with an impressive 16-3 overall mark.

Rock pitcher Debbie Pitera headed the list of honorees with first-team accolades. She struck out a school record 154 batters this season. Salem also landed Becky Crespo on the team as one of five infielders selected. Crespo was the Rocks' Most Valuable Player and lead the team in batting average.

Bentley landed two of its infielders on the honor team. Junior Bulldog shortstop Beth Burgess and senior Denise Plachta were the two Livonian awarded.

Redford Union's senior shortstop Karen Henegar was also honored on this team, along with Panther junior outfielder Micki McLalin. McLalin was one of four outfielders selected.

The other six members of the All-Sub-8 squad included pitcher Colleen Whaley (Trenton-Jr.), catcher Dee Dee Kalasz (Belleville-Sr.), infielder Bonny Lis (Edsel Ford-Jr.), outfielder Mary Pay Sarb (Dearborn-Soph.), outfielder Lynn Putnam (Edsel Ford-Sr.), and Southfielder Barb Auxier (Edsel Ford-Jr.).

UBI's in the championship game with a home run and a bases-loaded double. He finished with 13 hits in 22 trips.

Other offensive stars for Massey included Cal Glomski (12-22), Tim Ibramski (14-22), John Fawcett (13-

Puckett's steady play was sparked by the defensive and offensive efforts of manager Mike Yockey at third base and brother Kurt Yockey at shortstop.

The annual tournament was co-sponsored by the Plymouth and Canton Parks and Recreation Departments.

Finishes with 8-4 record Canton JV takes 4th Western-6 title

By SCOTT ADLER

The Plymouth Canton junior varsity baseball team finished its season on a sour note, when it was defeated by Plymouth Salem, 2-0.

The Rocks, coached by Pat Cunningham, registered the two-run victory thanks to the one-hit pitching of Jeff Primeau. He struck out 13.

Dan Funkhouser and Gary Kananen combined for a three-hitter in defeat. Funkhouser was pinned with the set-back, although both Salem runs were unearned.

Canton JV finished the season with an 8-4 overall record. The Chiefs held a 7-2 Western Six League mark good enough for their fourth-straight loop crown.

First-year Canton coach John Gravelin credited this year's successes on excellent team speed. The Chiefs stole 44 of 46 bases in their 12 games.

Steve Gray led all Canton hitters with a .303 batting average. Third-baseman Steve Eddy followed with a .294 mark.

Funkhouser headed the pitching staff with a 3-1 record. Al Lipinski was 2-0 and added one save. Kananen also finished 2-0 and didn't allow an earned run.

The Chief reserves finished with a 1.47 team earned run average, but faltered to a .194 team batting average.

Gray and Fred Hallway led all regulars with on-base percentage, reaching the basepaths more than half the time. Both Gray and Hallway stole 16 of 17 bases this season.

The Plymouth Canton freshman baseball team, under the direction of Frank Gable, recently completed its most successful ninth grade season ever, compiling a 6-4 record.

The Chiefs finished the year with an impressive .282 team batting average, but had a 4.28 team earned run average.

Jeff Stemberger led the Chiefs in at-bats, hits and batting average with a .419 average. Jim Mills hit for a .379 average and Keith Stone batted .345.

Jerry Norgren led the squad with three pitching victories.

Gable, a physical education instructor at Smith Elementary School, served as the junior varsity baseball coach in Fred Crissey's program for three years before taking over the freshman post.

Hilltop Roundup

By Betty DeLano

During the past month, you could say the weather hasn't been the greatest for sports-minded people.

For those who play indoor sports, such as racquetball or bowling, the rain and changing hot and cold weather is not a factor. But for all those who participate in outdoor sports, the rain certainly has a way of dampening things, especially if you've been struck with the golf bug.

Included in the 12 golf leagues, which compete at Hilltop Glen Golf Course on Powell Road in Plymouth Township, is the Plymouth Women's League that plays on Thursday mornings.

The 36 players are broken into four flights with Barb Grant leading the A Flight with 22½ points. Gretchen Tripp has 23 points to lead the B Flight, and Marlene Heslip leads the C Flight with the same total. D Flight leader is Anna Karamanoukian with 22 points.

The best score from last week was Karen Tod with a 45 and only 15 putts. Tod parred the second hole and followed with a birdie on three.

Leading the Plymouth Businessmen's League is the Derby Bar team with 28½. Johnston Insurance is in second place with 21½ and the Michigan T-Cats are in third with 20½.

Low-net team from last week was Mel's Golden Razor with a net score of 130. Tom Nunez of Parker-Hannifin was low-net individual with a net 27.

In the Friday Night Scotch Doubles League, Gene and Marion DePriest led the A Flight with 60 points followed by Charlie and Marguerite Clark with 50 points. In the B Flight, Al Flower and partner Anne Buie are in front with 59 points, and Gene and Pearl Byrne are in second with 56. In the C Flight, Andrew and Gretchen Telek are ahead of Jerry and Rita Heath by one point with 54 for the first-place position. Tom and Pat Micunek had first place in the D Flight with 52 points and Gary and Leslie Warrow follow that with 51 points.

In Scotch Doubles, each player hits their partner's drive and then they take the best shot from there, alternating shots until they hole out.

The team of Sherita Buckner and Althea Shoemaker hold first place in the Lady Elks League with 10½ points. Irene Gonzalez and Fran Kerr are in second with 9½, and a two-way tie for third is held between Ruth Bankey and partner Wanda Krause, and Vivian Bauer and Sally Fields each with nine points.

Observer honors best boy thinclads

By DOUG FUNKE and DENNIS O'CONNOR

It seemed that just about every area boys' track team had something to cheer about this year.

Livonia Franklin defended its Northwest Suburban League championship and finished first at the Elks Relays. Redford Bishop Borgess won the Catholic League championship and didn't lose a dual meet.

Livonia Churchill repeated as champion of the Observerland Relays, the Western Wayne Relays and the Western Six League. Livonia Stevenson wore the Inter-Lakes League crown.

Westland John Glenn won the Davison Relays and Garden City West again finished second in the Tri-River League.

Plymouth Salem and Garden City East showed tremendous improvement this spring.

Area coaches met recently to select the 1978 all-Observer teams. Individuals were limited to one event other than relays.

FIRST TEAM

Paul Babits, Redford Union, pole vault. A junior, Babits cleared 14 feet or better eight times this season.

Babits was regional champion, Suburban Eight League champion, Huron Relays champion and runner-up at the Spartan Relays. He injured himself during a vault at the state meet and finished eighth.

His best effort of the campaign was 14 feet six inches against Plymouth Salem and at the conference meet.

David Hall, Livonia Stevenson, high jump. Hall, only a sophomore, broke the Stevenson school high jump record in his first varsity meet.

By the time the season had ended, Hall had raised the Stevenson and Inter-Lakes League high jump records to six feet seven inches.

An all-Observer basketball selection last winter, Hall tallied more than 100 points during his first season of track competition.

Dave Kielty, Livonia Churchill, discus. One of the best discus throwers in the area each of his three varsity seasons, Kielty this year had a best toss of 169 feet.

The senior was the Western Six champion in both the discus and the shot put and he placed fourth in the Class A state meet with the discus.

Kielty, a tri-captain this spring, also ran sprints and competed in relays.

A versatile athlete, Kielty earned varsity letters in track, football, basketball and golf during his prep career.

Mike Petsch, Redford Union, shot put. The overwhelming choice of area coaches as Observerland Trackman of the Year, Petsch did everything for the Panthers this season except line the track before meets.

State champion for the second year in a row with the shot, Petsch was far and away the premier area competitor in that event with a best toss of 61 feet 8 1/2 inches.

The senior was state-ranked in three events this year in addition to the shot put. Petsch hurled the discus 162 feet 11 inches, long jumped 22 feet seven inches and high jumped six feet 8 1/2 inches.

He scored 260 points this year, including 17 in the state finals, and tallied 579 points during his career, all RU school records.

Petsch will likely be named to the high school All-American team for his accomplishments during the recent campaign.

Geza Kogler, Garden City West, long amp. A senior and three-year letter winner, Kogler jumped 21 feet or better during seven competitive meets this season.

His best effort was 21 feet 7 1/2 inches.

Kogler finished first in the long jump at the Farmington Regional and first in the Tri-River League Meet. He also placed second in the low hurdles at the conference festival and third in the high hurdles.

Kogler, who will attend Wayne State University on a fencing scholarship, was selected as the co-Most Valuable Performer this year for West's track squad.

Steve Krogulecki, Redford Bishop Borgess, 100-yard dash. Undefeated in both the 100- and 220-yard dashes in dual competition, Krogulecki finished first in the 100 at the Catholic League Meet with a sprint of 9.7 seconds.

That clocking tied the existing Catholic League record.

He also won the 220 at the Catholic League Meet and established a new record of 22.2 seconds in the process.

Krogulecki also anchored the Spartans' 440- and 880-yard relay teams which finished first at the Catholic meet.

Rich Fleischer, Plymouth Canton, 220-yard dash. A junior, Fleischer was Western Six League champion in both the 220- and 440-yard dashes. He triumphed in the 220 at the Farmington Regional.

His best 220 clocking this spring was 23.0 seconds.

Fleischer, who also long jumped for Canton this year, holds school records in the 220, the 440 and as a member of an 880-yard relay team.

Fleischer ran on the Chiefs' 880 relay team which placed second at the conference meet and fourth at the regional.

Dave Bowen, Livonia Franklin, 440-yard dash. A sixth-place finisher at the state finals, Bowen's best 440 time of the year was 49.8 seconds.

The senior was Northwest Suburban League champion this spring in the 440, 50.9 seconds, the 220-yard dash, 22.7 seconds, and the long jump, 21 feet one inch.

Co-captain of the Patriots' and the team's Most Valuable Runner, Bowen was not defeated in any event during dual meets this year.

He will attend Wayne State on a football scholarship.

Tom Rubadue, Plymouth Salem, 880-yard run. Rubadue, with a best time this year of 1:57.4 in the 880, was one of the reasons the Rocks enjoyed such a successful season.

The senior finished third in toe 880 at the Suburban Eight league meet and third at the Farmington Regional.

Rubadue also ran the 440, 51.9 seconds, the mile, 4:36, the two mile, 10:20, and the mile relay, 50.6 split, for the Rocks this year.

He also competed with Salem's swimming team last winter.

Tobin Jones, Livonia Churchill, mile. A state qualifier in both the mile and two mile, Jones' best times in those events this year were 4:26.5 and 9:25.7, respectively.

The senior tri-captain also ran the 880 for the Chargers with a best effort this season of 2:00.1.

Jones won the two mile at the Western Six league meet and the two mile at the Western Wayne Relays.

"Tobin was probably the most outstanding distance runner in the history of our program," said Churchill coach Fred Price.

Curt Reynolds, Redford Thurston, two mile. A senior, Reynolds this spring finished second in the two mile at the Dearborn Regional and second at the Stevenson Invitational.

His best two mile time was 9:22.0, while his best effort in the mile was 4:28.5.

Reynolds finished second at the Northwest Suburban league meet in both the two mile and the mile.

Reynolds, who had a 3.5 academic average, recorded the best time of all runners last fall in the Class A state cross country meet.

Rick Austin, Livonia Churchill, high hurdles. Holder of Churchill records in the high hurdles, 14.46 seconds, and the low hurdles, 40.0 seconds, Austin recovered from mononucleosis in January to enjoy an excellent season.

The senior finished fifth in the highs at the Class A state finals and first in the 110-meter high hurdles at the Central Michigan Relays.

Austin, in addition to competing in both hurdle events, ran the open 220 and the 440- and 880-yard relays.

Matt Krogulecki, Redford Bishop Borgess, low hurdles. Unbeaten in the high hurdles during dual competition, Krogulecki was the Dearborn Regional champion and Catholic League champion in the high hurdles this spring.

He finished third in the low hurdles at the regional and had best times of the season of 38.6 seconds in the lows and 14.5 seconds in the highs.

Krogulecki, who carries a 3.7 academic average, also ran the lead-off leg of the Spartans' 440 relay team.

Tim Turner, Matt Harmon, Steve Krogulecki and Matt Krogulecki, Redford Bishop Borgess, 440-yard relay. The quartet had a best time this year of 42.8 seconds.

The Spartans' speed relay team finished first at the Catholic League Meet and fourth at the Class A state meet.

Turner, Borgess' Most Valuable Trackman, also finished third in the state in the pole vault with a best effort this season of 14 feet. He placed first in the vault at the Catholic League Meet, the Stevenson Invitational and the Ashley Relays.

Turner also ran the 100-yard dash, 10.1 seconds, and the 220-yard dash, 23.3 seconds.

Harmon's best clockings in the open 100 and 220 were 10.2 and 23.5 seconds, respectively.

Kevin Nielan, Tim Turner, Matt Harmon and Steve Krogulecki, Redford Bishop Borgess, 880-yard relay. The foursome, Catholic League titlists, recorded a best time this season of 1:30.8.

Nielan also ran a leg on the Spartans' mile relay team, lettered in football and holds a 3.1 academic average.

Bill Flanigan, Nate Kean, Phil Frusti and Dave Bowen, Livonia Franklin, mile relay. The crew's best effort of the year was 3:24.9.

Flanigan, a junior, finished third in the Northwest Suburban League Meet in the open 440.

Kean, a senior, placed fifth at the conference meet in the open 440 and also ran a leg of the Patriots' league championship 880 relay team. He was a track co-captain.

Frusti, a senior, landed second in the open 440 at the conference gathering and anchored Franklin's league championship 880 relay team.

Making Your

Observer & Eccentric

Classified Ad Work Is As Easy As...

1 Include The Price...

Advertising price in an ad promises greater response. Research shows that 48% of the people will not respond to an ad unless the price is advertised. That's almost half of your prospective buyers eliminated. If your price is negotiable say so in your ad.

2 Don't Use Abbreviations...

Another way to kill results or turn off prospective buyers is to use abbreviations. WSW, PS, CBS, PB, AC, AT, WW may be clear to you but maybe not to your buyers, and most will not take the time to figure them out. One survey showed that 42% of readers didn't know what WSW tire meant.

3 Give Enough Information...

People today want all the information they can get before they buy. People want to know all the benefits of what they purchase. Not listing all you can in your ad will cause it to run longer with fewer results. Use brand names for extra pulling power.

4 Stay Near Your Phone...

If you're home all the time, including just a phone number in your ad is enough. If you work or can't be home, specify what hours you can be reached. Some people will never call back if they can't reach you the first time. The easiest way is to be there when your ad is running.
