If your address ends with an even number, you'll be asked to water your lawn on even-numbered days and vice-versa. (Staff photo)

Sprinkler use to be rationed

Is your lawn sprinkler on right now?

If it is, you may be contributing to a water pressure problem that's reduced the flow of your neighbor's kitchen faucet to a trickle.

To put more pressure behind the water flow during the hot, dry days of summer, Supervisor Harold Stein is asking all township residents to cut back on their lawn-watering schedules.

Stein wants to institute a schedule involving the address of the residence.

Residents whose addresses end with even numbers are asked to water lawns on the even-numbered days of the month. Residents whose addresses end with odd numbers should limit watering to odd-numbered days.

STEIN SAID numerous township residents have called him to complain about toilets that barely flush and other problems related to low water pressure.

The supervisor attributes the water pressure problem to the hot, dry weather that has prompted an unusual number of residents to turn on their lawn sprinklers.

Stein believes a cutback in lawn-watering schedules will help alleviate the problem.

The township is also taking action to increase Canton's water pressure, he said.

Meter pits are being modified to improve regulation of the water pressure. Several water main extensions are being constructed throughout the township to connect "dead ends" in the water main system.

Stein said the water main extensions will balance the township's water pressure. Residents of some areas now have adequate water pressure, while residents of other areas have extremely poor pressure.

"In normal circumstances though, there is adequate water pressure," said Clerk John Flodin. "It's only when there is hot, dry weather and everyone turns on their water at the same time that the water pressure becomes extremely low."

STEIN HOPES residents will follow his request to water lawns only on certain days of the month throughout the summer.

The supervisor plans to ask township board members at their next meeting July 25 to pass a resolution that would enpower the Canton Police Department to enforce the watering schedule.

"The police would just bring the schedule to people's attention and politely ask them to adhere to it," Stein said.

Flodin said township officials put a similar lawn-watering request before residents about three summers ago when water pressure was also low.

Re-repaving

Two roads better than one?

By DARLENE STINSON

For more than a decade, motorists have bumped and bounced along the only access road to Westpoint Manor Mobile Home Park.

Mobile home residents have tried repeatedly to get the short strip of Old Michigan Avenue between Haggerty and I-275 repaved. It finally was resurfaced last month by the park's owner.

But now the road is going to get a double dose of construction work, and Westpoint Manor owner Richard Songer is hopping mad about it.

LAST MONTH, Songer got tired of waiting for the Wayne County Road Commission to resurface the road, which hadn't been improved for decades.

So Songer—who is also owner of a highway contracting firm—decided to do the job himself even though the road commission had already advertised for bids for the construction work.

Songer spent about $3,500 of his own money to cover about 600 feet of the old cracked pavement with a new layer of asphalt.

The road commission—which was never notified of Songer's paving plan—now wants to rip up the new layer of asphalt and proceed with its own $60,000 road improvement project that includes a storm drainage system.

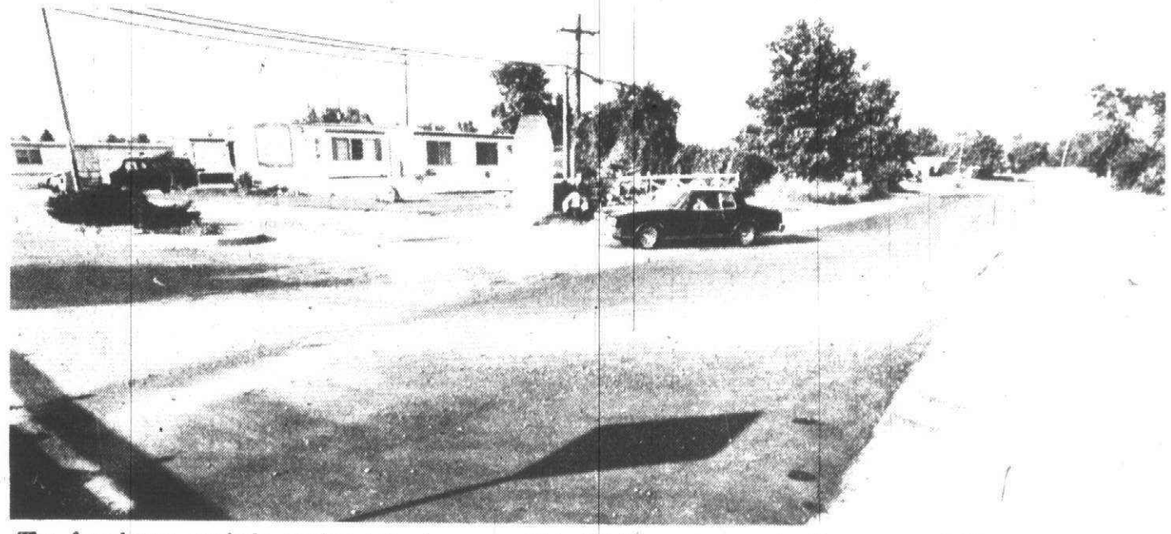

Songer calls the road commission's plans "typical government BS" and plans to seek a court restraining order that would stop the county paving project.

But Walter P. Meyers, highway engineer for the road commission, claims the county is obligated to repave the road because Songer's work is a "substandard improvement" that won't last long.

The road commission had planned to tear up the original concrete before pouring a new, seven-inch layer of cement, Meyers said. Now, workers will have to tear up the asphalt laid by Songer as well. The mobile home park owner may be charged for the extra work.

"I've never encountered anything like this before," Meyers said of Songer's decision to resurface the road himself. "And I've been with the road commission for 30 years."

THE PAVING BATTLE stems from a petition the Canton board sent to the road commission more than a year ago requesting improvements to Old Michigan Avenue. The road commission held a public hearing on the necessity of the project in May 1977.

But, while the county was advertising for bids last month, Songer got fed up with the length of time it was taking. He paved the road himself, then sent a letter to township board members asking them to withdraw the road improvement petition.

The township board quickly agreed.

Songer said he would not charge the township for the asphalt he had laid. The county, on the other hand, plans to establish a special assessment district to finance its paving project.

The township owns a cemetery which fronts on Old Michigan Avenue and would be charged about $7,000 for the county's improvement project. The mobile home park owner wold be charged as well. He says he'll have to charge tenants accordingly.

After being notified that the road commission would not sanction Songer's work, the township board rescinded its motion to withdraw the paving petition.

"When we first got the letter from Mr. Songer, we were of the opinion that he paved the road according to county specifications and with the blessing of the county," said Township Clerk John Flodin. "We were wrong."

SONGER MAINTAINS that the road is now in "perfect" condition and says there is no need to tear up his work. Songer, who owns Portland Construction Co., is willing to guarantee the road against defects for 20 years.

"If the county does the work, the residents of my park are the ones who are going to get stung," Songer protested. "The taxpayers are the ones who always get it.

"The county will throw this cost on

Campaign ad judged misleading by election foe

A campaign ad for Allen C. Ingle, candidate for the new judge position in the 35th District Court misleads voters, charges one of Ingle's opponents.

The ad, which appeared in the July 13 edition of the Observer, shows Ingle in judge's robes and states that he has exhibited "A proven record as a fair, honest, impartial judge with proof that there can be law and order."

The ad also urges people to elect Allen C. Ingle "your district judge."

Craig L. John, of Canton, a 27-year-old assistant Wayne County prosecutor, believes the judges' robes and the wording "your district judge" could lead voters to the erroneous conclusion that Ingle is an incumbent judge in the district.

"The English language is, by design, vague and ambigious at times," Ingle said. "The way I read it that line says, 'Elect him, he's your district judge.' Of course, he'd probably argue that it says 'Elect me district judge.' "

John contacted Ingle Tuesday and asked him to voluntarily refrain from running the ad. If the same ad runs again in any publication, John said he would probably take the matter to circuit court for a legal opinion.

Ingle disagrees with John's interpretation of the ad.

"I may change the ad but this is the first complaint I've heard since I ran the ad.

Ingle claimed that because he was a judge in the City of Farmington from 1951-59 and Farmington Township from 1961-65 he is entitled to wear judge's robes in the ad and refer to himself as a judge.

"There was no attempt at misleading the public," Ingle said. "I had the robes when I was a judge so I wore the robe in the picture.

Ingle said that once a person is a judge it is "a matter of custom" for people to continue to call him "judge" even after his term has ended.

"I've checked the canons pretty carefully," Ingle said. "Now I didn't call myself 'Judge Allen C. Ingle'. I definitely avoided that."

On Monday, in an unrelated case, Wayne Circuit Judge James Montante ordered Harper Woods judge candidate A. David Laudani to remove campaign signs which read "Elect Judge A. David Laudani" because Laudani is no longer on the bench.

Man saddled with race horse abuse charge

After persistent complaints by a neighbor, a Canton Township man who boards 24 retired race horses for breeding has been charged with cruelty to animals.

A Michigan Humane Society inspection last month found that the horses, kept by Bobby Joe Walton, of 8623 Holly, lacked proper feed, water and housing.

Mrs. Carolyn Neuhart, who lives next door to where the animals are kept, was instrumental in getting authorities to examine the site.

Besides complaining to the township two months ago about the horses' condition, she also contacted local newspapers, both Detroit dailies, the Fund for Animals and the Michigan Harness Horseman's Association.

Walton, who has hired attorney Robert Delaney to represent him, was tight-lipped about the case Wednesday.

He said he believes the horses are being adequately cared for and disputed the claim that the animals have gone without sufficient feed, water, and grooming.

"Most of 'em raced at one time," Walton said. "I use 'em for breeding. They come from all over."

SINCE SHE started her campaign, Mrs. Nuehart, of 48613 Geddes, acknowledges that Walton has been making more visits to the horses and furnishing more feed and water.

"Sure, they're feeding them better," she said. "But I looked yesterday and how much water was there? A little bit or none. Four animals are kept in stalls, never exercised and kept in the dark except for any light that might seep in through the window."

Mrs. Nuehart contacted township dog warden John Swalley in May after the horses kept breaking out of the fenced-in yard and started roaming along residences on Geddes, between Denton and Beck.

Swalley and Bill Gregg, veterinarian at the Michigan Humane Society's Westland branch, conducted an on-site investigation in June.

THE HORSES were slightly thin, looked a little wormy and basically lacked adequate housing, said Gregg. "Housing is there but it's very primitive and ramshackle. It's hot and not ventilated. Our investigation discovered very dirty quarters."

Swalley said there has been an improvement in the horses' condition but he says the original cruelty charge against Walton was justified.

The horses appeared to be undernourished when the complaint was filed, Swalley said, and were standing in their own manure.

"I think people whose horses are being boarded by Walton should know about this," said Mrs. Nuehart. "They should see what their animals are standing in. I understand they pay Walton $500 to breed the horses and $5 a day for food. They're getting shortchanged but more importantly the horses are suffering."

The land where the horses are being kept is owned by Kelly Wheatley of Canton, who leases it to Walton.

A court hearing on the cruelty to animals charge was scheduled for July 13 but was postponed because the prosecution said it needed to gather more evidence. No new court date has been set.

Public still reads to get political news, study says

Newspapers' superiority over television in informing the public about political candidates has been confirmed, according to researchers at The University of Michigan.

Results of the study, titled "Newspapers, Television and Political Reasoning," are based on a nationwide, random sample of more than 1,800 adults interviewed following the 1974 election.

People were questioned in detail about their reasons for favoring or opposing candidates in races for the United States Senate. Both voters and non-voters described contenders' prior records in public office, issue stands, reputation as a good representative of party interests, image of honesty, and other personal characteristics.

In the 67 different news markets surveyed in 25 states, the number of reasons people gave correlated highly with use of newspapers, but correlated negatively with use of television..

The study's conclusions disagree with opinion poll results in which people claim to use television more than newspapers for news. The Michigan survey differs from earlier studies in that it distinguishes informed citizens from those without any knowledge of political affairs, and compares their use of media. Under this more stringent test, the importance of newspapers for disseminating information becomes apparent.

Authors of the research are Peter Clarke and Eric Fredin. Clarke is professor and chairman of the U-M department of journalism, where Fredin is completing his doctoral work in mass communication research.

The 67 news markets in the survey included large cities, suburbs, towns, and rural areas. Clarke and Fredin calculated average levels of candidate information people held in each market. They correlated this against indexes describing gross exposure to newspapers and television and additional measures reflecting use of these media for political content.

Areas in which people used newspapers heavily emerged as well informed, compared to markets with low newspaper use. Heavy television areas were less informed than markets with light use, though the negative association fell just short of statistical significance.

Greater effectiveness of newspapers remained when the analysis controlled for such other important influences, as years of education and general interest in politics.

The authors conclude: "We can legitimately feel uneasy about declining newspaper circulation (per capita) and about any industry developments that limit the amount of newspaper competition within markets. These trends weaken important social resources for public education."

Plymouth-Canton OBITUARIES

EUGENE EDDLEMON

Funeral services for Mr. Eddlemon, 57, of Livonia, will be held 2 p.m. Friday, June 30, in King Funeral Home, Obion, Tenn., with burial to be in Antioch Cemetery in Hornbeak, Tenn. Visitation was held earlier at Schrader Funeral Home, Plymouth. Officiating was the Rev. R.S. Gant of Antioch Baptist Church, Hornbeak, Tenn. Memorial contributions may be made to the Michigan Heart Association.

O&E

The engineer of the steam train is still a figure of heroic proportions. Chessie's Bob Cuthbertson, general road foreman of engines, Michigan Division, takes a break while the mighty iron horse takes on coal and water.

Excursions help save locomotive

Rail buffs steam into the past

Flags flying and smoke pouring from her stack, locomotive No. 2101 pulls the Chessie Steam Special past her passengers in an Ohio farm field. In a popular feature of the excursions, rail fans disembark with cameras to capture scenes from the past.

By JACKIE KLEIN

The Chessie Steam Special is chugging to and from the Motor City.

The 19-car yellow and vermilion excursion passenger train is a salute to the 150th birthday of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, now part of the modern Chessie System.

But to men like Robert Reiss of Southfield, vice president of the Friends of Engine 1223, Chessie's iron horse tours are part of a preservation venture.

The Friends, a non-profit Michigan corporation, will receive $3 of every excursion fare to refurbish the 33-year-old Chesapeake and Ohio (Pere Marquette) steam locomotive 1223. Chessie tours are co-sponsored by the Friends and Michigan Railroad Club.

"The 1223 engine has been sitting next to the grandstand at the rear of the Michigan State Fairgrounds for 18 years," Reiss said. "It's getting a little rusty and ragged in spots and it needs repair, painting and general polishing up.

"Three years ago, a group of railroad fans who wanted to save the locomotive formed the corporation. We want to move the engine close to Woodward Avenue where it can be seen 24 hours a day, 365 days a year."

THE ENGINE is owned by the State of Michigan. The Friends want people to enjoy seeing it more often than just during the 10-day state fair each year, Reiss said. It will cost about $15,000 to restore the aging engine, he estimated.

Chessie tours will originate at Chesapeake and Ohio's Oak Yard in Detroit. Excursions are planned to Clio July 22 and July 30 and to Grand Ledge July 23. The July 31 final trip will take the train to Columbus, Ohio for a series of tours there.

Round-trip tickets for children under 12 are $20 and from $23 to $50 for adults. For more information and reservations, call 835-1963.

Reiss recalls that between 1937 and 1953, the Pere Marquette 1200 series hauled fast freight trains between Detroit, Saginaw, Grand Rapids and Chicago. They established an impressive record of speed and efficiency, he said.

The Pere Marquette Railway merged with the Chesapeake and Ohio in 1947. Its steam locomotives were replaced by diesel and electrics engines after 1953.

"The old locmotives were classic examples of their time," Reiss reminisced. "Those great machines were the end product of 120 years of steam transport. Their power came to symbolize the capactiy and precision of the railroad industry. That's why we want to preserve a phenomenon of the past."

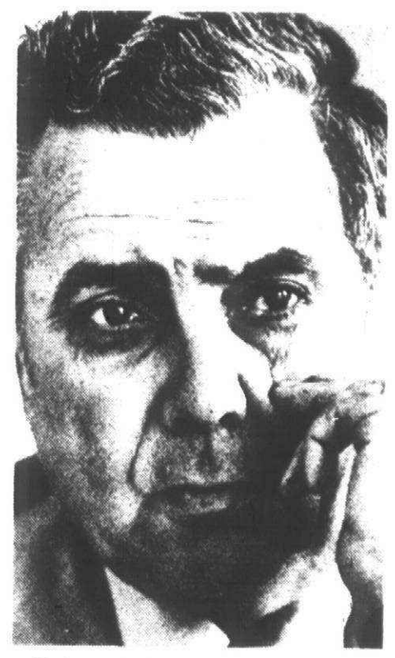

REISS SAYS he and other train buffs are trying to retain the old method of transportation in which passengers rode to the gentle sway and clickety-clack of a train.

He collects giant coal, water and diesel fuel burners of the past on a scaled down level. Reiss's trains aren't the models parents buy for children. He has built many of them himself, some of which are displayed in museums.

Reiss's interest in trains stems from three generations of railroaders in his family. His father was an attorney for New York Central. His grandfather was superintendant of the Ford Rouge Plant Railroad.

Reiss, now in the railroad insurance business, was a train engineer and fireman. At one time, he was part owner of the Grand Trunk steam engine which ran from Detroit to Durand, Mich.

Once a year, the owners would sponsor a special trip for Detroit area residents who wanted to reminisce or explore. Chessie Steam Special is doing it again for the preservation of an outmoded way of travel.

Robert Reiss: "The old locomotives were classic examples of their time. Those great machines were the end product of 120 years of steam transport. Their power came to symbolize the capacity and precision of the railroad industry."

Homework is domicile task to an educator

The Flip Side

by craig piechura

Somebody had to break the news to you and it may as well be me.

My source is none other than the superintendent of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools and the bad news is that matriculation is rampant in the high schools, middle schools, and, yes, even grade schools of this district.

It could be your son or daughter out there matriculating with other students and there's virtually nothing we can do to stop it.

Worse yet, I learned that students have been matriculating at schools "outside their domiciled resident attendance area." Gasp! But the school board has at least taken steps to stop that, thank goodness.

Now that you've heard the worst, you should be relieved to learn that "matriculating" merely means enrolling—in this case, school. And a "domiciled resident attendance area" means the neighborhood you live in.

Now I didn't know that without consulting a dictionary.

What the school board was attempting to say in this obfuscatory statement was that students who are presently enrolled in schools other than the neighborhood school they would normally be attending will no longer have that option available.

The resolution was made because the attorney general ruled that the school board must bus any student who lives more than a mile and a half from the school he is attending. (Even if, for some reason, the student opts out of his neighborhood school in order to attend another school.)

But that's not the issue in this column. My concern is with the highfalutin' gobbledy-gook that is passed off as an educated way to communicate. Language does not serve its purpose when people need a dictionary and a Rosetta Stone at their fingertips to figure out what these public servants are talking about.

Supt. John M. Hoben took responsibility for writing "part of" the matriculation resolution.

"It means, basically, attending school, that's all," Hoben said when prodded. "It's one (word) we use quite commonly around here. A kid is matriculating or attending, or what's the word you used, enrolled. I don't think the board had any problem with it."

Why, then, wasn't the word "attending" used instead of matriculating?

Hoben answered that a resolution carries legal weight and therefore should be written in legal language. I never thought the word "attending" was illegal. He went on to say that the "perimeter" of a word like "attending" is too broad and must be replaced with a more specific word like matriculating.

"We tried to get language that spells it out exactly," Hoben said.

I still can't see how "attending" is any more vague than the obscene-sounding "matriculating." But I figured I'd give a spot vocabulary quiz to some of the board trustees who unanimously passed the matriculation resolution.

"Can you use it in a sentence?" asked Joseph Gray, school board trustee. I obliged.

He thought matriculation meant "studying." And, while he could explain the effect of the resolution, Gray did not give the proper definition of the word.

"If you stick around educators long enough, you'll find they've got their own language," Gray said. "Librarians now are media specialists. It means the old thing but the new vocabulary makes it sound more impressive. So, someone from the outside's lost when they start talking."

Trustee Carol Davis had a little better luck in defining matriculation. She said it meant to become enrolled and asked if she won a prize for giving the correct answer.

"If you didn't understand, at least we understood what he (Hoben) was talking about," Mrs. Davis said. "But I agree that the public should be able to understand the meaning of our resolutions."

I stopped my phone quiz at that point. The reason I stopped is I became engrossed in— or should I say grossed out?—by an article in Principal Magazine written by Barbara Bowman, executive director of elementary education in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Her column was titled: "Personalizing Instructional Programs in the Elementary Schools Utilizing Educational Cognitive Style Mapping." That's just the title, mind you.

It may be a good program but why do they to talk like that?

Utilizing is a fancy word for using. I dug around and found out that an "educational cognitive style" is the way in which a student learns information. For example, one student learns more quickly by listening than reading.

Mapping means to plan in detail. So, Ms. Bowman's article was essentially about using a plan that personalizes each child's learning.

I don't even want to get into the "guide to cognitive style mapping" that appeared in the article. I'm not emotionally equipped to deal with or explain such educational symbols as Q(CS)—Qualitative Code Symnoetics, the symbol that measures a child's "personal knowledge of oneself."

I kind of wish teachers talked that way when I went to school. That way, when I was sent outside to clap chalky erasers against the building, I could have explained to my parents that I was participating in a Qualitative Proprioceptive Kinematic program. It would be one way of coping with white lung disease.

Some political signs out of line

The slate of Supervisor Harold Stein and two other candidates for township offices have violated Canton's political sign law so far this election year.

Township ordinance officer Bruce Phillips said he notified Stein, supervisor candidate Noel Culbert and trustee candidate Gary Roberts of the violations after residents telephoned him with complaints.

Phillips said he sent his boss a note about the complaint in an inter-office memo and notified Roberts and Culbert about the complaint by mail.

The township's sign ordinance prohibits the posting of campaign signs on anything but residential property. Signs cannot be posted on the outside walls of homes or in the county right-of way.

According to Phillips, the only political signs allowed on commercial property must be taped on the inside windows of business establishments.

PHILLIPS SAID Culbert, a Democrat, has his campaign slogans on stop signs, yield signs and "everywhere else."

Trustee candidate Roberts, a Republican, had also posted Culbert's campaign signs on the outside of his home in Sunflower Village in violation of the township's sign ordinance. According to Phillips, Roberts has not posted any of his own signs illegally.

Phillips said Culbert and Roberts have agreed to remove the signs.

Stein's Democratic slate—which includes Treas. Anne Bradley, trustee candidate Frank McMurray and trustee candidate Robert Shaetzl—has posted its signs in front of homes located in commercially-zoned districts along Canton Center and Michigan Avenue.

Stein said a group of residents who live in the commercially-zoned districts have requested to appear before the Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) to challenge the law's prohibition of campaign signs in front of their homes.

"They believe they're being denied their right of political expression," Stein said. "Their overall opinion—and I personally agree—is that it wasn't the intent of the ordinance to restrict their political views."

Phillips said he cannot take any action against the Stein slate as long as the matter is pending before the ZBA. The ZBA is expected to consider the residents' request for an interpretation of the sign law on July 27.

Petitpren bounced from school board but vows to stay

By SANDRA ARMBRUSTER
Westland Editor

Vincent Petitpren plans to claim his seat at future Wayne-Westland school board meetings despite a 6-1 vote of his colleagues Monday to oust him from office.

"We feel the board was not authorized to declare my seat vacant," said Petitpren, whose job as school superintendent in Taylor sparked his removal. "We maintain that I am still a member of the board.

"We feel I am an elected official until a judicial tribunal decides otherwise."

Asked if he will attend future board meetings, Petitpren replied, "I'll be there."

The board took its action fter receiving a state attorney general's opinion last month that said a school superintendent couldn't simultaneously hold a seat on a board of education in another district.

The opinion was requested last spring by board president Fred Warmbier, who subsequently sought Petitpren's ouster after Petitpren refused to resign. Warmbier charged Petitpren with malfeasance of office (not performing his duties).

Petitpren has asked the attorney general to review his opinion and requested a second, specific opinion on his case. He also asked the attorney general to rule on whether Wayne-Westland Supt. Timothy Dyer is violating the law by serving as a trustee at Eastern Michigan University.

Tuesday morning, Petitpren and his attorney presented their case before the attorney general's opinion review board.

A member of the opinion review board, Solomon Bienenfeld, said there is "no firm date" for issuing the second opinion. He added, "I think we'll move very quickly."

Bienenfeld said the attorney general's first opinion would be "reviewed as part of the response to the other request for an opinion."

Several board members said that they decided to oust Petitpren before the second opinion was issued to avoid being accused of refusing to comply with the original attorney general's ruling on Petitpren's status.

However, Bienenfeld told the Observer that an opinion from the state attorney general's office is considered "binding on state officials and is given pursuasive authority by the courts. But it is not law in the true sense."

He said the ruling wouldn't be considered binding on school board officials because "there are legal procedures for an attorney general to remove an official from office."

Much of the debate which proceeded the board's action Monday centered not on whether Petitpren should be removed, but on how to do it.

The motion to oust Petitpren was introduced by Board Member Robert Reichard.

Board Member Thomas Barrett unsuccessfully sought support for a substitute motion to pursue Petitpren's removal through the courts.

Barrett said he was making his motion because of "conflicting legal opinions." He urged the board to "pursue a judicial procedure" to remove Petitpren.

Attorney for the board, Charles Fine, advised the board that, according to common law, the board had the right to remove Petitpren from office by declaring his seat vacant.

"When two positions are in conflict, assuming the second automatically vacates the first," he told the board.

top of that cost. Hell, they'll spend more money on inspections alone than it cost me to do the whole road."

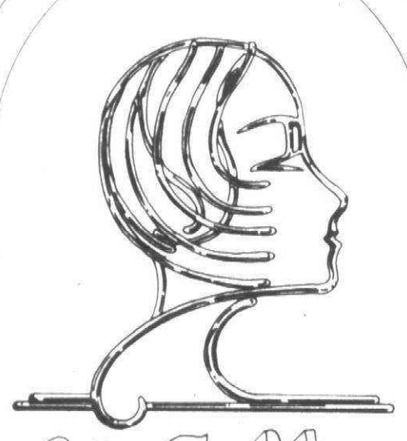

Although the road commission plans to spend about $60,000 for the Old Michigan project—a far cry from the $3,500 it cost Songer—William LaGosh of the road commission said the comparison "is like comparing a horse to a mouse."

Songer simply laid asphalt on the road's old surface. LaGosh pointed out. The county plans to install curbs, a turn-around near I-275 where Old Michigan dead ends, and a storm drainage system. Storm water in the area currently runs down a hill onto private property.

LaGosh said the road commission will definitely begin work on the Old Michigan Avenue improvement project unless Songer succeeds in getting a court restraining order. Construction is expected to begin the end of August and be complete by Nov. 1.

Asterik won't harm your identity

How would you like to go through life with an asterisk attached to your name?

One such person with an asterisk as part of his name is Rodkey* Craighead, chairman of Detroitbank Corp.—the parent group of Detroit Bank & Trust.

The asterisk isn't part of Craighead's legal name, but does appear in press releases to help those editors who suspect a typographical error and want to believe Craighead's actual first name is Rodney.

The footnote which goes along with the asterisk reads: "Note to editor: This is the correct spelling of Mr. Craighead's first name."

ACTUALLY A number of people go through life with an asterisk next to their names—first or last—and most aren't even aware of the attachment.

Because names are so important, newspapers take careful precautions to avoid getting the wrong spellings of names. One of these precautions is a list of commonly misspelled names—similar to the commonly misspelled words lists.

And so when reporters are writing stories, a mental asterisk clicks in their minds when these particular names are about to be punched out on the typewriter.

Among the names of people in Plymouth and Canton which we attach asterisks to are Fred (two n's) Thomann and Tex (one n) Thoman, Norb (two n) Battermann, Harold Fischer with a "c" and Kenneth Fisher without. Likewise, Eugene Daley (Canton trustee) has an "e" and Al Daly of Daisy Plastics doesn't.

Ray Hoedel has one "l" in his last name, and Michael Homes has no "l" in his last name. It's a double "m" for Harry Krumm and a double "n" for John Sandmann. Loyd Sharland has only one "l" in his first name and John F. Vos III only one "s" in his last.

Other asterisks remind us that Jolene Weidman's name is spelled differently than Wiedman Parking Lot and neither is to be confused with Leonard Widman.

One of our favorite asterisks is Canton Fire Chief Mel Paulun, whose name has been spelled Paulen and Paulin. We also have a special asterisk for Plymouth Fire Chief George Schoenneman whoi we are tempted to give two n's instead of one.

Erick Carne is an asterisk-man to remind us his first name ends with a "k." His real first name is Frederick, which has been shortened to Erick—thus the k.

ASTERISKS ALSO serve as reminders of correct punctuation which goes with names.

One of the most commonly "mispunctuated" names, for instance, is Minerva's Dunning's (no hyphen) and Dunning-Hough Memorial Library (with a hyphen). The library, by the way, is pronounced "Dunning-Huff."

Some names carry double asterisks, such as the Rev. Philip Rodgers Magee, to remind us there's a "d" in the middle name and a lower-case "g" in the last. Similarly, Beverly McAninch has an asterisk-name to remind us the "a" is upper-case.

Others on our asterisk list include Elizabeth Símescu, Thomas Notebaert, the Rev. Fred Prezioso and Gûstav Gorguze. Band conductor James Griffith also is an asterisk name for some of us with mental blocks who want to rename him Griffin. And Kiwanian L. John Miller is another favorite asterisk on our list to make sure we don't forget the initial before the first name.

Names which should have double asterisks, because we aren't always sure what to do with them, include Lakepointe, LakePointe or Lake Pointe; Meetinghoune, Meeting House or MeetingHouse (as in Mayflower); Middlebelt or Middle Belt; Newburgh Road and Newburg United Methodist Church.

And, finally, these institutions are asterisk names to remind us they should not have apostrophes: St. Mary Hospital, St. Peters Evangelical Lutheran Church and St. Kenneth Catholic Church.

Canton Rotary elects leaders

Bill Brown has been elected president of the Rotary Club of Canton.

Other officers installed July 3 for the 1978-79 year include: Bill Tesen, vice president; Bill Thiess, treasurer; Rick Nadeau, secretary; and directors John Schwartz, George Merchant and Al Daly.

Last month a group of Canton Rotarians participated in the "Meet the Governor Night" at Harrow, Ont.—the 25th annual reception for the incoming district governor. The new District 640 governor is Jason P. Lovette of the Romulus Rotary Club.

Earlier Canton Rotarians and their wives attended District 640's conference at Boyne Mountain.

B'ham punches back at HUD

By MARY CONNELLY-SZCZESNY

It's likely Birmingham officials will continue to oppose federal regulations that the city provide subsidized low-income housing.

As a result, the city may have little chance of regaining $98,850 in federal funds it planned to receive this fall.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) announced Monday that Birmingham has lost the money, obtained through HUD's community development block grant program, because of the city's refusal to provide subsidized housing for low and moderate income families and the elderly.

To regain the funds, HUD says the city must provide a housing program similar to one proposed in a referendum overwhelmingly rejected by voters in April.

If the city doesn't show its commitment to supply such housing by Jan. 15, the money will be distributed to other Oakland County communities, HUD officials said.

The HUD action marks the second time this year a Detroit area suburb lost community development funds. In February, a federal judge ruled Livonia was ineligible to receive nearly $600,000 in community development funds because of its failure to build new low-income housing.

The 1974 federal law that established the community development program requires all recipient communities to take some steps to meet the housing needs of low-income residents.

Birmingham has received community development funds for the past three years.

THE BIRMINGHAM CITY commission is not expected to comply with HUD's funding requirements since a majority of commissioners elected in April based their campaigns on opposition to subsidized housing. Three pro-housing commissioners were subsequently recalled from office in May.

"They're (HUD) telling us they don't give a damn what people voted," city Commissioner Gary Kain said at Monday's commission meeting. "They want us to reverse administratively what people decided at the polls."

Mayor Robert Kelly said Birmingham will "survive" without the money, if HUD does not respond favorably to the city's efforts to regain the funds.

The city plans to ask several members of the state's congressional delegation in Washington "to aggressively oppose" HUD's action and "stand up on their hind legs to say we deserve the money and have earned it," according to Kelly.

Support may also be sought from Oakland County, which distributes the block grant money to county communities under 50,000 in population.

Commissioners are also considering possible legal action to regain the money.

THE $98,850, which would have become available Oct. 1, was earmarked for park development in the Forest-Chesnut-Hazel-Elm street area, for code enforcement, low interest home rehabilitation loans and grants, and administrative costs.

HUD's decision to withhold the community development funds was contained in a letter to Oakland County officials who act as middlemen in administering the federal program. The federal agency said that Birmingham's failure to supply subsidized rental housing was affecting the county's housing goals.

HUD charged that because Birmingham voters rejected 202 subsidized housing units for elderly and families in April, the county was 33 per cent below its 1977 housing goals.

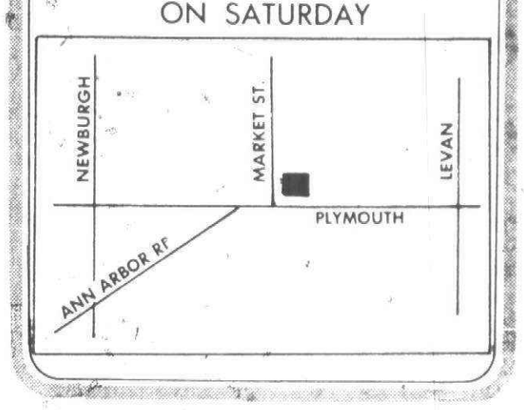

"This shortfall is significant, serious and conclusively demonstrates the detrimental effect of Birmingham's action upon the county's housing assistance plan performance," HUD area manager Stephen Brown said in the letter.

Birmingham officials rejected HUD's allegation. The city's grant administrator Kelley Sweeney said that it was "not very well justified."

BIRMINGHAM VOTERS rejected construction of a 152-unit subsidized senior housing complex last spring. The project, funded through the Michigan State Housing Development Authority (MSHDA), would have required the city to also provide subsidized housing for 75 low to moderate income families.

Candidates night set

Residents of Lake Pointe Village will have a chance to meet candidates for Plymouth Township offices at a candidates night July 24.

The forum, sponsored by the Lake Pointe Homeowners Association, will begin at 8 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Breen, 40921 Greenbriar.

All 15 candidates for township offices have been invited to attend the program.

Each candidate will be allowed a few minutes to introduce themselves and to answer questions from area residents. A social hour will follow the program.

"We think this is a good opportunity for the residents of our neighborhood to become acquainted with the candidates and hear their views," says Nancy Grawe, acting president of the association.

Pinto burns on freeway

Drivers in the southbound lanes of I-275 on Tuesday afternoon were routed around a 1973 Pinto burning in the middle of the expressway.

Daryl Berg, 25, of 48630 Michigan Avenue, told state police troopers that he fell asleep at the wheel about 11:20 a.m., when he slammed his state-owned van into the rear of the disabled Pinto. No one was in the Pinto at the time of the crash.

The Ford Motor Co. was forced to recall about 1.5 million Pintos and Bobcats after a federal safety department ruled that the cars were likely to burst into flames in a rear-end collision.

Canton firefighter Vern Rorabacher reported that the Pinto was knocked more than 200 feet in the collision and the gas that leaked out of the tank left a burning trail.

Berg, an employee of the state highway department, was treated for cuts and bruises after landing in a ditch along the expressway. The owner of the Pinto was Robert Brower, 19, of 26517 Clarita, Redford Township.

LWV offers Voter's Guide on House and Senate

As a service to residents, information on candidates for three state offices have been compiled by the League of Women Voters of Northville, Plymouth, Canton, Novi.

The LWV Voters' Guide, published in cooperation with the Observer, includes information on candidates for two Michigan House of Represenative Districts—the 37th and 52d—and one state senate seat, the 13th District.

The 37th District includes Westland, Canton and part of Plymouth Township. The 52d District includes Plymouth, Ann Arbor and part of Plymouth Township, while the 13th Senate District includes Westland and Canton.

The candidates for the 13th Senate District are William Faust (D-Westland) and Coleman Flaskant II (R-Canton); 37th House District, Thomas Brown (D-Westland), David Trent (R-Plymouth), and Thomas Sullivan (R-Westland); 52nd House District, Roy Smith (R-Saline) and Thomas E. Kaas (D-Ypsilanti). All responded to the League's questionnaire except Flaskant.

The LWV is a non-partisan organization the purpose of which is to inform voters on candidates and ballot questions. Although the LWV does not support or oppose candidates or parties, it will take positions on ballot questions.

Each candidate was given a limit of 45 words for biographical information, and were asked three issue questions with a 70-word limit on each. The questions asked were:

1. What two issues do you consider to have the highest priority for the next session of the legislature? How will you work to resolve these issues?

2. What changes, if any, would you advocate in state aid to local school districts?

3. How would you propose to balance the needs of urban and rural areas of Michigan?

Biographical information and answers from each candidate follows by district:

37TH HOUSE DISTRICT

Thomas H. Brown: 60? Democrat, 1917 Eagle Court, Westland. Married in 1945 to Helen Hunter, has six children—all adults, and six grandchildren. High school graduate, present occupation is state representative. Served as mayor of Westland and trustee, treasurer and supervisor of Nankin Township. Prior to public service worked for J. Austin Oil Co.

1. Taxation: We need fair taxation. I support property tax reform. We must encourage home ownership. Total review of Michigan's tax system is essential. The state must curb spending; will continue to attempt to prioritize state budget items. We should be able to justify all public expenditures. Highways, roads and streets; school safety programs and improvements are necessary. More police patrols, expanded transportation programs legislation have been initiated; enactment is near.

2. Many K-12 school districts are experiencing declining enrollment while others are experiencing increased enrollment. The declining enrollment problem is being addressed in the school aid formula this year. The need for a solution to the increasing enrollment must be addressed. I believe an added student count date should be allowed to re-establish the student population in those districts experiencing increased enrollment so as to assure proper funding.

3. We started to address these needs in 1971 with state revenue sharing. But the formula has been distorted by state grants being made to some communities outside the revenue sharing formula. Also state government is prone to pass mandatory costly statutory legislation and not send the necessary funding to local units. I have in the past suggested an improved revenue sharing plan, including the funds for implementing mandatory legislative programs.

David Trent: 24, Republican, 9118 Lilley Road, A-230, Plymouth. Foreman, Hydramatic Division, GM, Ypsilanti. Associate of arts degree, Schoolcraft College. Attending Eastern Michigan University, majoring in business administration. Past vice-president and director of the Plymouth Jaycees.

1. Effective budgeting of tax dollars to meet socio-economic needs in the state. Programs not working should be dismantled or new initiatives undertaken to make programs effective. Improvement to finance future budgets within limitations that citizens desire without raising taxes (i.e.—taxes on gasoline, liquor, etc.).

Land use—if legislation is passed, maximum local control must be assured. I will work towards maximum local control.

2. Eliminating state aid to local school districts should be investigated. The loss in state aid would be made up by increases in local millages. With this proposal, citizens would have a greater voice and control over their taxes. What purpose does it serve to have state tax dollars go to local school districts? Either way, via state taxes or local millages, the citizenry pays the cost of education.

3. Balancing the needs of urban and rural areas can best be achieved by implementing measures that further development and economic gains for the vast majority of citizens. A primary concern of mine is a reduction in the Single Business Tax. Greater incentives for investments in expansion and new enterprises creating jobs contributes to a better economic climate resulting in more tax revenue for needs, urban and rural, throughout the state.

Thomas M. Sullivan: 30, Republican, 39283 Maes Drive, Westland. BS University of Detroit, MA Eastern Michigan University, work EMU—history, business administration. Wayne County property appraiser, certified by the state. Former county clerk employee, member of Jaycee, life member of AMVETS.

1. Property taxation, governmental spending and its effect on the middle and working classes. The 1963 state Constitution requires assessments not to exceed 50 per cent and it should be changed to 33.3 per cent of fair market value. Senior citizens already burdened with years of property taxation should pay only a set percentage. Some type of incentive or tuition credit needs to be instituted to help offset the heavy burden on the working man.

2. The state aid formula to school districts is in need of an overhauling. Districts with high school millages are not given enough consideration. Since a loss of students reduces aid and the birth rate is down so drastically a modification of the formula is required. Threats by school boards to cut sports, extra-curricular activities, etc., if millage is not passed has left a bitter taste in taxpayer's mouth, in my opinion.

3. By making urban and rural officials aware of each others' need. Interaction, not isolation, by these two groups is required before a balance can be sought. If this can be achieved through visits, meetings, etc., then a balance agreeable to both groups will be much easier to achieve.

52D HOUSE DISTRICT

Roy Smith: 54, Republican, 651 Eastlook Drive, Saline. bachelor of science degree from U-M. 1959-67 supervisor of Ypsilanti Township. 1967-71, 1974-present, Michigan House of Representatives, 52d Legislative District. House Appropriations Committee 1967-72. Presently serving on committees of State Affairs, Taxation, Public Utilities and Constitutional Revision and Women's Rights.

1.Property tax reform. It's unfair in that property of similar value is assessed differently in different parts of the state. It is excessive in that it's used to finance both local units of government and schools; and, being excessive, it threatens people's homes and encourages drastic measures such as California's Proposition 13.

2. I believe a statewide income tax that does not reduce local control of schools should be used to finance K-12 education. State aid to each school district should be sufficient to ensure quality education. Local discretion for additional funding should be maintained.

3. Needs arise periodically in both urban and rural areas. I don't believe there's any way to predict and balance needs. However, we can attempt to apply solutions as the needs occur. I believe it's senseless to have an "urban policy" which transfers resources from rural areas to urban areas; and also a "rural policy" which transfers resources from urban areas to rural areas. We must be selective and weigh needs.

Thomas E. Kaas: 25, Democrat, 9545 Pitman Road, Ypsilanti. Employed: Supervisor, Augusta Township, Washtenaw County. Self-employed: bookkeeper, tax consultant. Graduated Western Michigan University, double major political science and public administration. Attending Eastern Michigan University, master's degree political science. Vice-chair, Washtenaw County Townships Association, board of directors Ypsilanti Area Industrial Development Corp.

1. Property tax reform—state spending. Would work for stronger legislation with enforcement procedures to promote fair and equal assessment practices on a statewide basis, additional property tax credits on Michigan income tax forms, and closer examination of state budgets and programs to determine program success, cost efficiency.

2. At this time I would not advocate any change in the state aid formula. I'm not all that familiar with the mechanism, but would favor the present system over the proposed voucher system that currently is being discussed as a ballot issue. Of the two mechanisms, it appears that the present state aid system is the most practical for all the participants involved in the funding scheme of public education.

3. First, by accepting fact that this balance is crucial in meeting needs of both urban and rural areas. Would design and promote legislation that's consistant with local, independent input and cognizant of existing plans or programs already established in the given area. Additionally, by promoting non-competitive legislation, while meeting needs of one given area, respects and maintains characteristics of the other, so that the remedy doesn't become rural vs. urban.

13TH SENATE DISTRICT

William Faust: Democrat, 8228 Ravine Drive, Westland. Attended Indiana University, University of Michigan, AB degree, graduate work, Eastern Michigan University; publisher-editor, Wayne Dispatch 1956-60; managing editor, Associated Newspapers 1960-63; trustee, Nankin Township; supervisor, 1963-65; 15th District Democratic Club; Wayne-Westland Democratic Club; elected state senate in 1966, elected Majority Leader 1976.

1. The time has come for the state to give concerted attention to a comprehensive revision of our total revenue system. The property tax, as evidenced by the heightened call for tax revolt, has outlived its effectiveness as the prime source of revenue for local units of government. It must be deemphasized and alternative revenue sources, of a more progressive nature, must be perfected and utilized.

2. The state aid formula must recognize the fact that property taxes can no longer be used as the primary source of local school revenues. It is inadequate and inequitable. State aid must relate to equality in education as opposed to local tax effort. In addition, change in the formula must sufficiently address the economic plight of those districts being faced with declining enrollments.

3. Balancing the needs of rural and urban Michigan involves recognition that the problems of one segment impacts on the other. The choice of where to reside must be one of deciding between two attractive styles of living, not fleeing one for the other.

Dem U.S. Senate hopefuls differ on tax limitation

No difference between the candidates?

Three Democratic U.S. Senatore hopefuls are doing all they can to crack that notion.

In addressing the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce at the Detroit Athletic Club earlier this week, former Detroit City Council President Carl Levin, State Rep. Paul Rosenbaum (D-Battle Creek) former Congressman Richard VanderVeen of Grand Rapids showed how varied their views on tax limitation were.

• Levin, one of Detroit's most powerful politicians, said he'd support the proposed constitutional amendment limiting state taxes only if a better plan could not be worked out by the state legislature.

• Rosenbaus, who is courting the conservative Democratic vote, said he will go all the way with Richard Headlee and Taxpayers United for Tax Limitation.

• VanderVeen, who was recently endorsed by the Michigan Education Association, spoke out against both the Headlee tax limitation amendment to the state constitution and Robert Tisch's more drastic property tax-cutting plan.

Candidates Philip Power, publisher of the Observer & Eccentric newspapers, State Sen. Anthony Derezinski (D-Muskegon) and State Sen. John Otterbacher (D-Grand Rapids) did not attend the meeting.

"HEADLEE'S PROPOSALS are reasonable," Levin said. "But there are a number of problems.

"What's going to be the impact of the tax limitation amendment on the state's 'rainy day' fund?" he asked.

"What's going to happen to the the Plant Rehabilitation Act? It's too important an act to be jeopardized.

"What's going to happen to the bonding authority of cities?" he asked.

To overcome the tax limitation plan's shortcomings, Levin encouraged the legislature to come up with its own ballot proposal that would limit taxes, but would also preserve the ability of the state and cities to negotiate with companies in attracting them to Michigan or to try to keep plants in the state.

Levin also asked that the legislature write provisions which would allow it to shift the tax burden for the "much hated, unfair" property taxes to the state income tax. He said it could be done while still retaining the limitation target of 8.3 per cent of the state's total personal income.

"Let's give it a fling. If we fail in the legislature, it will still have been in the best interest of the people to have tried. "Even though we can do better in the state legislature, if we don't let's get behind Headlee," Levin said.

ROSENBAUM SAID he needs to win the battle in the "I-75 corridor"—Oakland County, western Wayne County, Flint, Saginaw and Bay City. He called Headlee's proposal the only reasonable tax reform plan to be on the November ballot.

"I'm 100 per cent in favor of Headlee, no ifs, ands or buts," Rosenbaum said. "I was supporting Headlee before California (approved Propovition 13). I only got involved in politics because I was displeased with my property taxes," he said.

"With tax limitation, zero-based budgeting and sunshine provisions, the state government can at least begin to understand what real budgeting is all about," Rosenbaum said.

Criticizing Levin's stance, the Battle Creek candidate said, "You can't say you agree with Headlee and stil back the legislature. It's a totally different ball game.

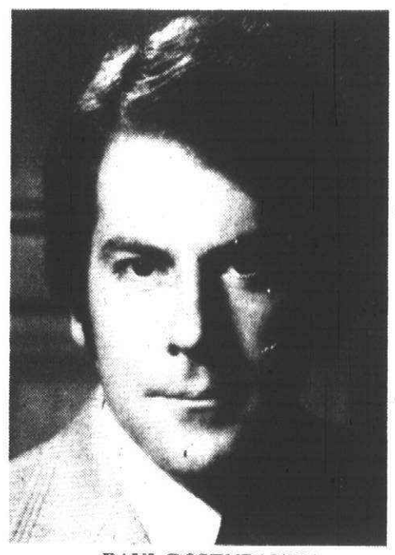

Rosenbaum pointed out that a legislative proposal would still allow the state legislature to force local units of government to begin new programs without it providing state monies to pay for them.

"That's the name of the game. We could still mandate all the programs we wanted," he said.

The provision in the tax limitation amendment prohibiting the state from mandating new programs is one of the most popular provisions of the proposal.

VANDERVEEN, LIKE Levin, pointed to the same drawbacks in the tax limitation proposal.

Instead, he favors another proposal, "an amendment to the Headlee proposal," that would reduce residential property taxes by 40 per cent. To recover the lost revenues, he proposed nearly a one per cent increase in the state income tax.

Griffin looking at dream ticket

By MICHAEL MATUSZEWSKI

Michigan's tax revolt, the public's apparent turn to conservatism and the Republican Party's "dream ticket" have U.S. Sen. Robert Griffin looking forward to November.

In an interview with Observer & Eccentric staff members in their Birmingham office, Michigan's senior senator for the first time commented on charges by his only GOP rival, Brooks Patterson.

"The people are more in tune with Republican philosophy than anytime in my 22 years in Washington," said the two-term senator from Traverse City.

Griffin, however, warned that Republican fortunes hinge on its ability to maintain a united front.

"When you consider that there are more Democrats than Republicans and many more independents than Democrats, it's not smart for a party to divide up more than necessary. We must be as united as possible.

"I followed that campaign philosophy in 1966 when I ran against (G. Mennen) Soapy Williams and in 1972 when I ran against Frank Kelley. It has worked out well," Griffin said.

UNLIKE OTHER members of the Republican Party's "dream ticket"—Gov. William Milliken running for reelection and Eastern Michigan University president James Brickley running for his old job as lieutenant governor—Griffin is facing an intraparty confrontation with Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson.

On paper it has all the making of a great battle—the crafty incumbent, former President Gerald Ford's right hand man facing off against the feisty Patterson.

Griffin refuses to come out fighting, though.

Patterson, time and again, has offered to debate "the issues" with Griffin.

"I don't think it would be smart," Griffin said.

PATTERSON HAS challenged Griffin's voting record, campaign promises and leadership abilities. Usually, though, Griffin and his staff have all but refused to respond to Patterson's accusations.

Earlier this week, while campaigning in Oakland County, Griffin took some time to rebut the prosocutor's charges.

"If you're one of two Republicans in the Senate considered for the top party leadership position, certainly someone in Washington thought that Sen. Griffin had leadership ability," he said.

"The president (Ford), caught in the middle of a tough political fight, picked me to be his floor manager at the Republican National Convention. He must think I've got some leadership ability."

EARLIER, PATTERSON had criticized Griffin's handling of the Panama Canal treaties. He said the senator, who became one of the treaties' most vocal opponents as the time for ratification approached, was actually very ineffective in stopping or changing the treaty in the senate's foreign relations committee.

In response Griffin said, "I don't control anybody else's vote down there.

"The senates is controlled almost two to one by President Carter," he said.

"I cannot or should not be expected to answer for the votes of others," Griffin concluded.

Mobile home trust suit settled

Mobile home dealers may no longer be able to rent vacant lots at mobile home parks as the result of a conscent judgment.

Previously, dealers had reserved spaces for people who bought new mobile homes.

The judgment between the state attorney general and Global Mobile Homes, Inc., one of metropolitan Detroit's larger mobile home dealers, would prohibit such arrangements in the future, said Wallace Glendening, an attorney representing Global Mobile Homes.

The attorney general had charged that Global Mobile Homes was trying to inflate prices by monopolizing mobile home sites in Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Washtenaw, Monroe and St. Clair counties.There are 700-800 desirable mobile home parks spaces available, according to the attorney general. Of these, 400 were leased to Global Mobile Homes.

Earlier, Wayne County Circuit Judge Michael Stacey had issued a temporary restraining order prohibiting the Livonia mobile home dealer from paying any rent on mobile home park spaces already under lease or from aquiring any new spaces.

Later, however, Stacey rescinded the restraining order, but specified that no new lease agreements were to be made.

Glendening said he expected the other mobile home dealers in the six-county area to be made part of the consent judgment before the case was settled.

Train-car collision

Two area residents escaped injury in a car-train collision last Saturday evening at the C&O tracks and Mill Street in Plymouth.

There was extensive damage to a 1969 Mercury driven by Mark Johnston of Plymouth. The passenger in the car was Kathleen Farzee of Plymouth Township.

Why are these pictures fuzzy?

Because they weren't taken by one of our professional, newspaper photographers, with one of their fancy, expensive cameras. They were taken by one of our copy-layout people who grabbed her pocket camera, loaded with color film.

It happened this way: It was a bright sunny day a few weeks ago and as some of our people filtered back into the office from lunch they mentioned a man out on the side lawn, in a lounge chair, reading a newspaper. It was his hometown newspaper fresh off our press.

"Wow," someone quipped, "the news must be so good this week, he couldn't wait to wait to take it home!"

One thing led to another and when it was suggested we should record the moment, Janet Cameron offered to do the honors.

Ira Polley is his name. He's retired. Just taking life easy. In fact, when she asked him if he'd object to having his picture taken, he said to Jan, "If it's not going to be much work."

It's not often we get to see the enjoyment of our efforts, but when Ira Polley didn't wait to read his hometown newspaper, it made our day.

Thank you, Ira and please excuse the fuzzy pictures.

St. Andrews course the same except for inflation

By SAM HUDSON

The WAY it is TODAY

By Sam Hudson

I first encountered the Royal and Ancient Club of St. Andrews, the most famous of all golf courses, in the early 1950s. We had toured the Scottish highlands in a rented car and had stopped at St. Andrews on our way south to Glasgow.

The man behind the hotel desk asked me if I had come to play the Old Course. I hadn't, but the idea intrigued me.

"Won't I need a reservation?" I asked.

"No," he said. "Just ask one-armed Jimmie—he's the starter—if he can work you into a threesome."

PRIOR TO GOING to the course, I rented (for about 50 cents, U.S. money) a complete set of clubs from one of the many golf shops which border the 18th fairway.

The signs over the doors bear names of some of Scotland's early greats—Tom Morris, the Auchterlonies, and many others. The bag came equipped with several golf balls, which the proprietor of the shop encouraged me to use, without charge.

My next surprise came when I went to pay my greens fee at the course. This, too, was only 50 cents.

Jimmie came through, and I was soon teeing off with three gentlemen from Edinburgh.

My debut on the Old Course (there are four courses at St. Andrews) was less than spectacular. My banana slice off the first tee almost reached the North Sea, glistening in the bright sun at our right.

I felt better, however, after I negotiated the famous Swilcan Burn, which runs diagonally across the first fairway. From then on I improved but, like President Eisenhower's, my score is a classified secret.

UNLIKE MOST American courses, St. Andrews is a natural. It is just as the sea and the North Sea weather formed it. It has never seen a bulldozer or a golf architect.

A craggy, true links, it is full of fairway sand traps, blind bunkers, purple heather, yellow gorse, clumps of coarse coastal grass, numerous fairway hummocks and uphill and downhill lies.

The fairway is not even visible from some of the tees. You hit the ball, on faith, in a direction indicated by a local player. You just trust that you ball will make it across what seems like an unending mass of high gorse and wiry heather.

You are conscious of the stiff wind that blows in from the sea even on the clearest days. The British have always believed that seaside links, like St. Andrews, separate the men from the boys.

One of the surprises is the nonchalant way in which the locals stroll across the fairway directly in front of you, to get to the seafront, or to give their dogs a walk. Another is the way the club has spotted telephone booths here and there near tees on the course (perhaps so that you can send an SOS to the clubhouse if you run out of balls). Then there's the hole—I think it's the 11th—where you drive directly across the seventh, keeping an eye out for players who may be coming up that fairway.

Perhaps the biggest surprise at St. Andrews is the mammoth double greens. There are seven of them—two greens, connected and equipped with two flags. You play one color of flag out and the other as you come in on the back nine. These greens are so huge that if you slice or hook your approach you can have a putt of tremendous length to reach the right hole. Sam Snead once found himself with a 160-foot putt on one of these kidney-shaped greens. His first putt was 40 feet short.

WHEN I VISITED the Old Course last year, nothing much had changed.

I didn't have time to play, but from what I could see from the Royal and Ancient Clubhouse, which still guards the first tee and the 18th hole, nobody has dared tamper with the place which was founded in 1754.

Some people don't like the clubhouse, comparing it to an antiquated railroad station, but I have always liked its austerity. It looks very much in keeping with its wind-swept surroundings and I believe it has a dignity unmatched by more opulent structures.

I'm sorry I forgot to price rental clubs this time, and to check out the green fees, but you can be sure that inflation has reached St. Andrews, just as it has everywhere else in the world. I can guarantee you that you won't rent clubs for half a buck anymore—with free balls thrown in.

Even if you are not a golfer, I'm sure you would find St. Andrews to your liking. It has a great university—the oldest in Scotland—some church and castle ruins, and some precipitous sandstone cliffs along the bay of the North Sea on which it is situated.

But if you're an avid golfer, St. Andrews is Mecca.

Bike thefts up in city

A rash of bicycle thefts have been reported in Plymouth.

Twelve 10-speed bikes have been stolen throughout the city since July 1. None of the bikes was locked up.

"You've got to figure they run about $130 a piece," said Lt. Rod Cannon. "It really amounts to quite a bit of money when you add it up."

Cannon would not speculate whether it was an organized bike-theft operation or isolated cases of youngsters stealing from other youngsters.

"It's hard to tell. We have had rings in the past, but I'm not sure about this year.

"I can tell you one thing, though: The bikes are not turning up."

Cannon urged all bike owners to make sure their bikes were secured at all times.

Bike path funds OK'd

A $250,000 state appropriation for completion of a major stretch of bike paths in the Hines Park area has been approved by the Michigan House of Representatives, said State Rep. Robert Law (R-Livonia).

The money will be used to complete approximately 75 per cent of the bike path in the park. Plans call for the path to run from Dearborn to the I-275 freeway bike path.

Another $15,000 appropriation from the department of natural resources will be allocated to the Hines Park area for completion of the Newburgh Lake Snell study.

"We have met with numerous federal, state and county agencies to develop a comprehensive plan for clean-up of the Newburgh Lake area," Law said.

"These two separate appropriations will help start to rejuvenate Hines Park and make it the leading recreational area in western Wayne County," Law said.

He said that the DNR appropriation would be used to update a study completed several years ago on the lake and make it the basis for a major grant from the federal water and lake clean-up program.

"I am hopeful the additional grants from the DNR to develop Newburgh Lake as a recreational spot after the water has been cleaned up," Law said.

Law explained that the Wayne County Road Commission is presently in the process of developing the overall plan for recreational use of the park, and Law said the commission has been extremely cooperative in getting the grants.

On a third front, Law announced that another recommendation of the Hines Park Task Force is being implemented—emergency phones will be available in four locations. Michigan Bell has already installed three telephones in the park.

The Groths are representatives of the Grand River district office located at 8623 N. Wayne Road, Westland. Both are members of the Detroit Life Underwriters Association.

Seance is conducted without use of medium

The lights were dimmed in the hotel meeting room where 21 persons from various walks of life were seated in a circle, waiting expectantly for the unexpected to happen. They had assembled to hold a seance.

The leader guided the group through some relaxation exercises, showing them how to hold hands to allow energies to circulate from one to the other most efficiently.

She explained that it was not necessary to truly believe, but only to keep an open mind, and have no definite negative feelings about spirit communications.

"You may, if you like, think of this as an experiment or adventure," she told them. "Only, keep yourself open to any possibility."

There was no designated medium. All persons taking part knew that in an altered state of consciousness, they themselves might give voice to a message from beyond.

As the chanting began, energy flowed through the circle. Later, all of those taking part said they could actually feel it entering their bodies from the left, and moving out through the right, as the circle grew stronger and stronger.

Then the chanting died down, and the room became still. Now and then, members of the circle would laugh, sing softly, or call out names and simple messages.

Suddenly, one young woman began speaking in Spanish. At the same time, an older lady in another part of the circle began to sob and choke out answers to what the younger woman was saying.

Later, when the lights were raised, and the group was discussing the happenings over coffee, all acknowledged that, although they may not have fully understood exactly what had taken place, they themselves had indeed experienced some sort of psychic phenomena.

Court annex in fire station wisest choice

A courtroom is finally coming to Canton, now that the legislature has recognized that the township is more than just cornfields and soybean patches.

But the question recently has been where to locate the court chambers in Canton. Should the halls of jurisprudence be in the basement of the township's soon-to-open administration building or in a remodeled room at the fire station where township meetings are presently conducted?

Township Trustees Lynne Goldsmith and Robert Myers made a last-ditch effort last week to have the court chambers built in the administration building basement. It was a year ago that the administration started working on plans to convert the fire hall into a court room. Where were Mrs. Goldsmith and Myers then? While it's true that the basement of the administration building was originally considered as a possible site for the court, that plan was dropped more than a year ago.

In this instance, we believe the Stein administration is making a wise decision to separate the affairs of the court from township business.

One look at the situation in Plymouth City Hall—where prisoners are brought up to court through the city hall lobby—lends credence to Supervisor Harold Stein's argument that general public business should be kept separate from court proceedings.

This is not to say that Trustee Goldsmith does not make a decent case for locating the court in the new administration building. And, it shhould be noted that Mrs. Goldsmith continues to show more initiative and independence than any other member of the township board. But in this instance her objections came a little late. Bids for remodeling the fire hall into a district courtroom were already out when she spoke up.

Mrs. Goldsmith believes that the renovated fire hall will soon become an obsolete courtroom because of space limitations. Rather than add an addition in a couple of years, she says, why not put the court facility in the spacious basement of the new township hall?

One reason would be that it is unwise to commit one whole floor of the new administration building to another governmental entity—the court—before the township has even had a chance to move into its new headquarters.

The basement should be reserved for storage of equipment and records, and kept in abeyance so that it may be used for future township programs and personnel.

If, in the future, the township finds space for court records is lacking in the fire hall, the inactive court records could easily be kept down the street in the administration building basement.

It should be cheaper to remodel the fire hall into a courtroom than the basement because the township board chamber in the fire hall already resembles a courtroom. The cost of remodeling is estimated to be about $35,000. While this seems high, it may end up costing much less than that, particularly when $15,000 in federal block grant funds are expected to be approved to defray the cost.

No block grant money would be available to build a courtroom inside the basement. Supervisor Harold Stein points out that block grant funds can be used to remodel old buildings to make them accessible to the handicapped.

The fire hall-meeting hall at the corner of Canton Center and Cherry Hill should prove to be a valuable asset to the community and would complement to the administration building located less than a mile down the road.

Class message

One thing you must say for modern academicians: The shortage of students has made them competitive and aware of their audiences. Gone are the days when a political scientist, for example, could spout abstractions about the constitution and let it go at that.

The evidence comes from Eastern Michigan University, which last week announced that Prof. Lewis G. Bender will teach a seminar course called "The Politics of Tax Revolt."

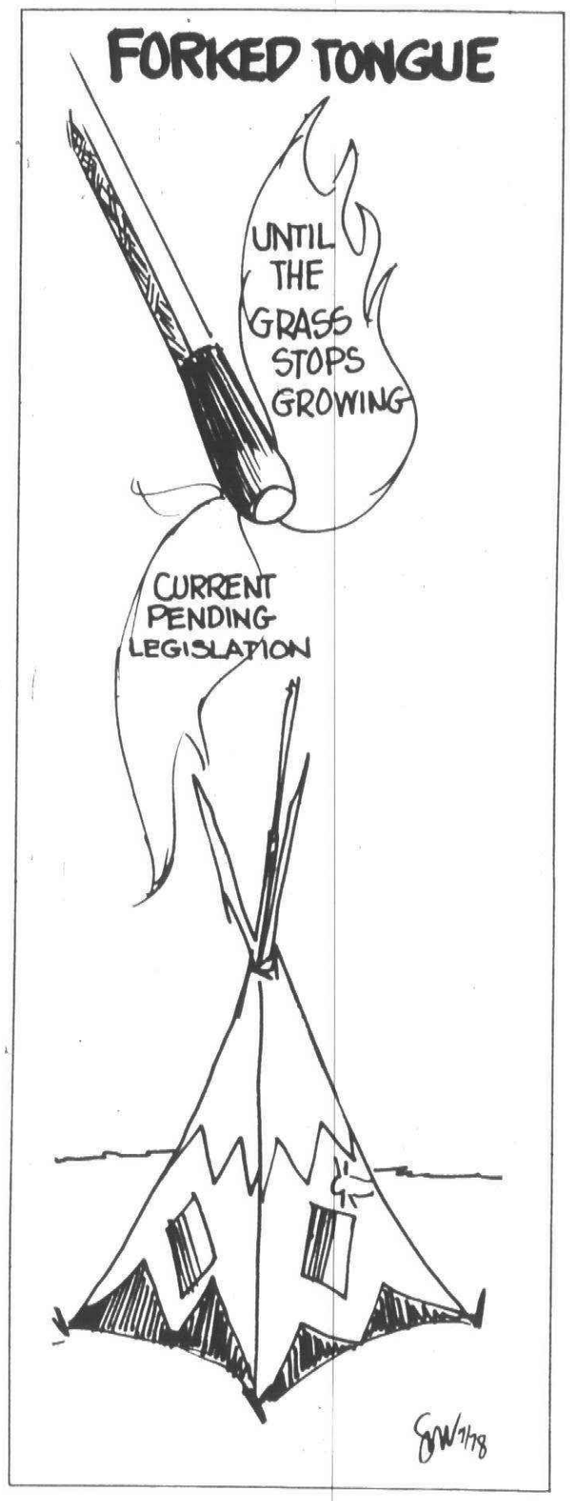

The announcement is hyped up with the possibilities of getting Richard Headlee and Robert Tisch, authors of two competing ballot proposals in Michigan, into the classroom. Yet Prof. Bender seems bent on getting some scholarship, too, into the course.

Bender opines, for example, that the "tax revolt" may cause more centralization of government as well as more "cleaning up" of government to cut costs. But it also could render local government impotent and totally dependent on state and federal government, he goes on.

"One of the most disastrous ramifications would be if this revolt became a national trend with revenues being cut drastically at the local level, bringing us to a point where the federal government susbsidizes states totally.

It would be a unitary form of government with local and state governments operating as administrative agencies of the federal government."

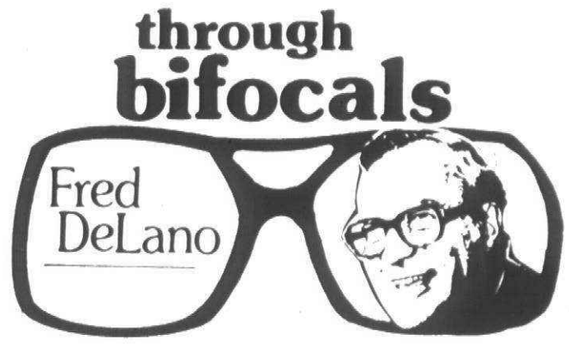

Whoever said that academicians are mere theorists?

View from a Powwow: Indians were left in plight

through bifocals

Fred DeLano

If I had it all to do over again and were looking for a cause to adopt, I think it would be that of the North American Indian.

Too few of us have too little contact with the Indians of today, and even when we do, we are prone to accept the prejudices of the past. Mentally, even if it's in the subconscious, we're using the eyes of a movie camera to perpetuate hostility.

In the United States and Canada alike, the white man took his land and forced the Indian into servility. Treaties were broken and his culture, traditions and heritage were made victims of white man's greed.

History probably would tell us 'twas ever thus, that whatever lies in the path of expansion by the conqueror must be considered expendable.

This does not excuse those conquerors from leaving the Indians in a plight that to this day screams discrimination and cries for remedy.

AN ORGANIZED demonstration aimed at gaining relief for Indian oppression is taking place in Washington this very week. The white man's "wagon train" is being attacked with words and resolutions rather than flaming arrows, and the government may respond with its easiest sop—more promises.

How unfortunate it is that the Indian cannot muster the full hue and cry of a nation responding in his behalf. An appeal to moral debt is all right as far as it goes, but the real weapon that would do the Indian more good is voting strength. That he lacks.

"The forgotten minority" is one label that has been given to the current effort on the part of Indians to bring Washington to heel.

In an age when minority attention is a politician's solid door-opener, the fear persists that once the television lights have been turned off and the Indian marchers all have gone back home the problem will be pigeonholed again.

Just as the white man himself, or at least some of his clan, may be crying for a true leader to emerge in these troubled times, so does the Indian need a genius to lead the fight. Maybe Chief Pontiac lived too soon.

ALL THE INDIANS weren't marching on Washington last weekend. Hundreds of others were engaged in a two-day powwow in a wooded glade where the Sydenham River flows into the St. Clair River at the northern tip of Canada's Walpole Island across from Algonac on the Michigan shore.

They came from throughout the Midwest, performed ceremonial dances handed down through the centuries from generation to generation, competed in canoe races and—in deference to the established tribal rites of their conquerors—even selected a Miss Powwow.

Chippewas, Potawotamis, Ottawas and the Six Nations of the Iroquois—the Mohawks, Senecas, Onondagas, Oneidas, Cayugas and Tuscaroras—all these were represented and more. We were among the many gawking tourists.

Mostly this was a fun thing, a festival like any other. That meant booths where the specialties of Indian food were available, as well as those where countless beaded and feathered souvenirs were on sale.

Most impressive sight was the chief. There was no mistaking the meaning of that giant headdress. He wore it well and with dignity. His name is Don Isaacs and it is his fourth two-year term as head of the reserve. When we left across the waves, it was with the happy feeling that we were friends.

Youth is the victim

Drinking-driving figures to be twisted

Tim Richard

The latest drinking-driving reports are hot off the press from the University of Michigan Highway Safety Research Institute and the Michigan State Police. Between them, they provide more food for misinformation on the young driver.

The dirtiest, most mud-slinging campaigns I have seen in nearly two decades of covering Michigan politics are not the issues over zoning, race, communism or taxes. They are over alcohol.

The theory of the anti-drink forces seems to be that they are on the side of the deity and can tell any wild tale they wish. At this writing, it looks as if the proposal to raise Michigan's drinking age to 21 will be on the Nov. 7 ballot. Therefore, we all face the depressing prospect of hearing a lot of junk statistics on youth and drinking between now and then.

THE U-M report on "Fatal Accidents Involving Alcohol, 1968-1976," is depressing not because it's wrong but because there is so much that can be twisted.

The statistics you'll hear most go like this: In 1971, before the age of majority was lowered to 18, the proportion of drivers in the 18-20 bracket who "had been drinking" and were involved in fatal accidents was 27.7 per cent. In 1976, it was 48.1 per cent.

If you wade through the entire report, however, you'll come across this tidbit which knocks all the figures into a cocked hat. Dr. Jairus D. Flora, a researcher and associate professor of biostatistics, says: "Had the law not changed, I think we would have still seen some increase in the rates (of drinking related accidents) for drivers of all ages, particularly in 1974."

Why 1974? "In 1974, the Fatal Accident Recording System was introduced by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. The system puts great emphasis on obtaining complete data—on not having missing data on key variables, one of which is alcohol involvement.

"So in 1974 and since then," Dr. Flora continues, "the missing data rate on alcohol involvement was reduced from about 12 per cent to about two per cent."

In other words, the pre-1974 data will show a lower rate of alcohol related accidents. But I can guarantee you the zealots pushing for the 21-year-old drinking age won't tell you that. They won't tell you comparing drinking-driving statistics over the years is an apples-oranges business.

MICHIGAN STATE Police have been doing a bad job on driver-drinking statistics for years, and I have been blistering them for years, but they keep it up.

"Of those fatal accidents where the drinking condition was determined, 50.5 per cent indicated that alcohol was a factor," says the "Michigan Traffic Accident Facts" report for 1977.

And how, pray tell, do the state police know alcohol was a "factor?" They don't. It's a distortion.

For proof I point to the depths of the U-M report in which Dr. Flora says, "Well, I should point out that the report form police officers use (the UD-10) formerly had, prior to Jan. 1, 1971, five entry options relating to alcohol involvement. The form was changed at that time, so that thereafter it had only two entry options: Had Been Drinking, or Had Not Been Drinking."

To an anti-drinking hothead, this fine distinction means little. But to be fair to the young people, we ought to know if a person involved in an accident had one glass of beer two hours before an accident or whether he had a pint of booze immediately before.

The louts who prepare our state police statistics must realize that "had been drinking" isn't exactly the same as "alcohol was a factor." The state police figures are based on sloppy data. They are worse than useless. They are positively misleading.

And that is why we face the depressing prospect, between now and Nov. 7, of a lot of junk statistics on youth and drinking.

The Stroller

Baseball's standards

By W.W. EDGAR

Have you ever given any thought to what life would be like if we lived and were evaluated by the standards now in vogue in professional baseball?

You probably haven't. Neither has The Stroller. That is, until the other day when he was accosted by his long-time nemesis, Chris the Caustic Critic.

Chris is a rather peculiar fellow. He has no liking for any kind of sports, especially baseball. That distate for what long has been called the national pastime comes to the fore every time we meet.

He delights in recalling the days when The Stroller was covering the Tigers and the baseball beat for The Detroit Free Press and pokes fun at him for writing glorifying accounts of what happened on the playing field.

ONE EVENING when Chris was serving as master of ceremonies at a fraternal banquet, he introduced The Stroller by telling the gathering, "Here is a man who all but canonizes a fellow because he hits the ball safely only one-third of the times he steps to the plate."

He was referring, of course, to a player whose batting average was a point or two over .300. He got a great kick out of doing such things. After the dinner, The Stroller just smiled at him across the table and said, "Well, Chris, you must have enjoyed yourself."

"Well, what kind of a world do you think this would be," he countered, "if you were praised to the high heavens if only one-third of your efforts passed inspection? What about the two-thirds on which you failed?"

Chris seemed to get real serious for a moment or two. Always the caustic critic, he now must have felt he was on sound footing for an argument. And he seemed ready to give his friend, The Stroller, the needle.

"What about the pitchers?" he asked, and went on without waiting but if they didn't have a good double-play combination behind them or some speed and great catches in the outfield, chances are they wouldn't have won. Yet the pitcher gets all the credit. Do you think it would be fair if someone else did a great job and you got credit for it? You wouldn't like it. But that's baseball."

Before anyone could stop him, Chris was off on another segment.

"TAKE THE CASE of Rusty Staub, the Tigers' designated hitter. The baseball historians who now are filling the space just as you used to do are extolling his virtues because he has driven in more than 65 runs. Fine—but if the other guys didn't get on base, he would have no runners to advance with his bat.

"And what about the number of men he has left stranded on the basepaths? You don't hear about them. What kind of world would we have if only the good things counted?"

Chris was off and running, as they say at the horse racing tracks. There seemed to be no way of stopping him.

"Take Ron LeFore, a young fellow who served time in prison for breaking and entering. The Tigers got him, figuring he had the makings of a good hitter because of his speed.

"They, and the fans, too, are criticizing him because he doesn't steal enough—bases, that is. But it's stealing, isn't it?"

WHEN THE STROLLER pointed out that "Boss" Kettering, the famed General Motors engineer, tried 14 different self-starters before he got one that saved the automobile industry, Chris the Caustic Critic only countered:

"Never mind about him and his self-starters. I'm just trying to tell you what a weird world we would live in if we were judged by the standards they use at the ballpark.

It would be a queer world at that.

Suburbs win sewage rate case; rebate ordered

By MICHAEL MATUSZEWSKI

Customers of the Detroit water and sewer system can look forward to a rebate and lower-than-expected sewage bills starting in September.

Presiding over the settlement of a U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) suit against the City of Detroit and its water and sewer department, Federal District Judge John Feikens ruled the water board overcharged Detroit and suburban customers during the past year.

According to an agreement between Detroit and suburban officials announced Wednesday, an overcharge of $8 million to $9 million will be returned to suburban customers. The agreement was reached late Monday.

The rebate will be credited against water and sewer bills starting Sept. 1. There is no way yet to determine the average homeowner's rebate.

THE SETTLEMENT also outlined reductions in sewage treatment rates set last October by the Detroit Water Board and confirmed by the city council.

Sewage treatment rates for most suburbs had been expected to go up July 1. For most suburbs, including those in Wayne and much of Oakland counties, the rate was to have increased from the 1977-78 level of $1.72 per thousand cubic feet to $2.08 per thousand cubic feet.

Instead, the rate will go up to $2 per thousand cubic feet.

For residents of the Clinton-Oakland Sewage Disposal District—which includes most of West Bloomfield Township, Avon Township and Oakland's northern suburbs—the rate was to have increased to $4.43 per thousand cubic feet. Instead, it will rise to $3.72.

OAKLAND COUNTY Drain Commissioner George Kuhn, who led the county into the fight against the Detroit Water Board, called the settlement a major victory.

"The problem is, who cares about water and sewage treatment," Kuhn said. "But people should care. We're talking about big dollars. That's why you've got big bills going to your homes."

While the refund and change in the rate structure are important to the customers, Kuhn said, the settlement set a number of precedents.

"For the first time since 1941," Kuhn said, "there's been an intensive, outside review of the Detroit Water Board. This is the first breakthrough on rate-making methodology we've ever had.

"For the first time the water board is going to be audited (by an outside firm), monitored and supervised," Kuhn said. "In court, they couldn't defend their principles of rate-making."

ACCORDING TO John McClear, attorney for Detroit, the settlement is "in the best interest of all the parties."

In addition to ruling suburban customers could not be overcharged, Judge Feikens ruled the city could no longer build a facilities depreciation factor into its rates.

The plant and main sewers, Feikens ruled, were paid for by federal and state grants—not from City of Detroit funds.

Feikens ordered Detroit to use a "cash" system in making rates—what it paid out in cash for salaries, supplies, principal and interest on debt.

The city had been using a "utility" system, charging off non-cash deductions for depreciation in addition to the other charges.

WHILE THE SETTLEMENT, was a victory for the suburbs, Oakland County and other suburban plaintiffs did not win on all counts.

They were unsuccessful in changing the membership of the Detroit Water Board, which is currently composed of four Detroit and three suburban representatives, all appointed by Detroit Mayor Coleman Young.

Suburban customers will also have to pay $1 million to the City of Detroit for police and fire protection of the treatment plant, which pays no taxes.

The $1 million is a compromise. The suburbs at first offered about $600,000. The City of Detroit originally asked for $1.5 million.

Health screening's offered at Tonquish

Senior citizens in this area will have the opportunity to take advantage of a special health screening project in Plymouth conducted by the Wayne County Health Department and supported by a contract with the Detroit-Wayne County area Agency on Aging.

Any person 60 years of age and over is eligible.

A health team consisting of a physician, social worker and registered nurses wil provide a wide range of screening services to include a health history, height and weight measurement, blood pressure, temperature, pulse, respiration, pap smear, glaucoma, hearing and vision testing. Minor laboratory tests will also be done.

Persons interested should call the health department at 274-2800 or 729-2211, ext. 251 for an appointment.

The examinations will be conducted at Tonquish Creek Manor, 1160 Sheridan, Plymouth, July 31 through Aug. 24.

The VIEW from 461 SOUTH MAIN

by ELLIE GRAHAM

LOUIS STRAUB and his wife, Bea, of Speedway, Ind. were in town last week. Louis is spearheading a planning committee to organize a 50th reunion in 1980 of the Plymouth High School class of 1930.

He visited classmates in Plymouth, Northville and Ann Arbor and met with great enthusiasm. Not only will they help plan the party, they have come up with a cause celebre. The out-of-towners were shocked to discover Plymouth High School no longer exists.

Their old building is there—Central Middle School—but there is no Plymouth High School. They are indignant about the loss of identity of their old alma mater and are ready to go to bat to drop the word Salem from Pylmouth Salem High School.

It promises to be interesting.

Six of the 66 members of the class of '30 are deceased. Louis has addresses for the majority of his classmates but needs help in tracking down the rest of them.

Anyone knowing the whereabouts of the following can help by writing to Louis Straub, 2308 Winton, Speedway, Ind., 46224:

Claude Rocker, Kathryn (Tuck) Meyers, Gaylord Doubt, Carl Denton, Edna Proctor, Frank McGee, Marjorie (Cole) Campbell, Katherine Purdy, Helen Schmidt, Clare Lyke, Carrie Gorton, Louis Sherman, Irene Anderson, Lois Martin, Ruth Foerster, Martha Schultz, Blake Fisher, Richard "Dick" Smith, Philip Rieger, Francis Learned, Mary Haskel, and Arthur Moe.

Louis requests that zip codes be included with the addresses.

He recruited Dora Hondorp to help with the planning. The Straubs are enjoying their retirement. Louis plays a lot of golf and one of his hobbies is making lucite paper weights. Of course, they brought along pictures of their grandchildren.

WELCOME WAGON Club has folded up after five years. Its membership was composed of newcomers to the Plymouth-Canton area.

Val Gildo was club president for the last three years. Two of the officers moved way and there were no volunteers to replace them.

They voted to have one final bash before dissolving the club. After ordering pizza for everyone and buying one round of drinks, the treasurer split what was left. Each member received $1.10 and was told they were now on their own.

"It was a lot of fun," said Val. "We met a lot of new people and learned one or two new crafts each month."

A couple of years ago, Val became involved in a baby-sitting referral service. It was entirely unintentional on her part.

She was bemoaning the scarcity of baby sitters in her subdivision. Everyone seemed to have small children—there was a great lack of teenagers. The Observer ran a story, quoting Mrs. Gildo and some of her suggestions to ease the problem.

Overnight, she became the clearing house for would-be baby sitters and those needing baby sitters. She was getting telephone calls as early as 6 a.m. and as late as 12:30 a.m.

"One worried mother threatened to sue me because her daughter was still baby-sitting at 1:30 a.m.," she said. "I'm no longer in the baby-sitting business and there, finally, are some teenagers in my neighborhood."

Val says there is some talk of forming a new woman's club, but nothing is definite. They have turned their club records over to the Welcome Wagon hostess field manager and that is it.

ARNOLD AND PEGGY Fisher and sons Dan, Andy and Mark have been camping out at the Plymouth Hilton. They have rented their house on Appletree Lane in Plymouth Township and are on their way to Venezuela for a year or two.

Arnold will be working at the new Ford plant in Barcelona, Venezuela. They will live in the nearby resort area of Puerto La Cruz on the Caribbean. Some 30 Ford families have been sent to the plant, originally built to make Mercedes automobiles. The Ford Motor Company will make Thunderbirds and big trucks there.

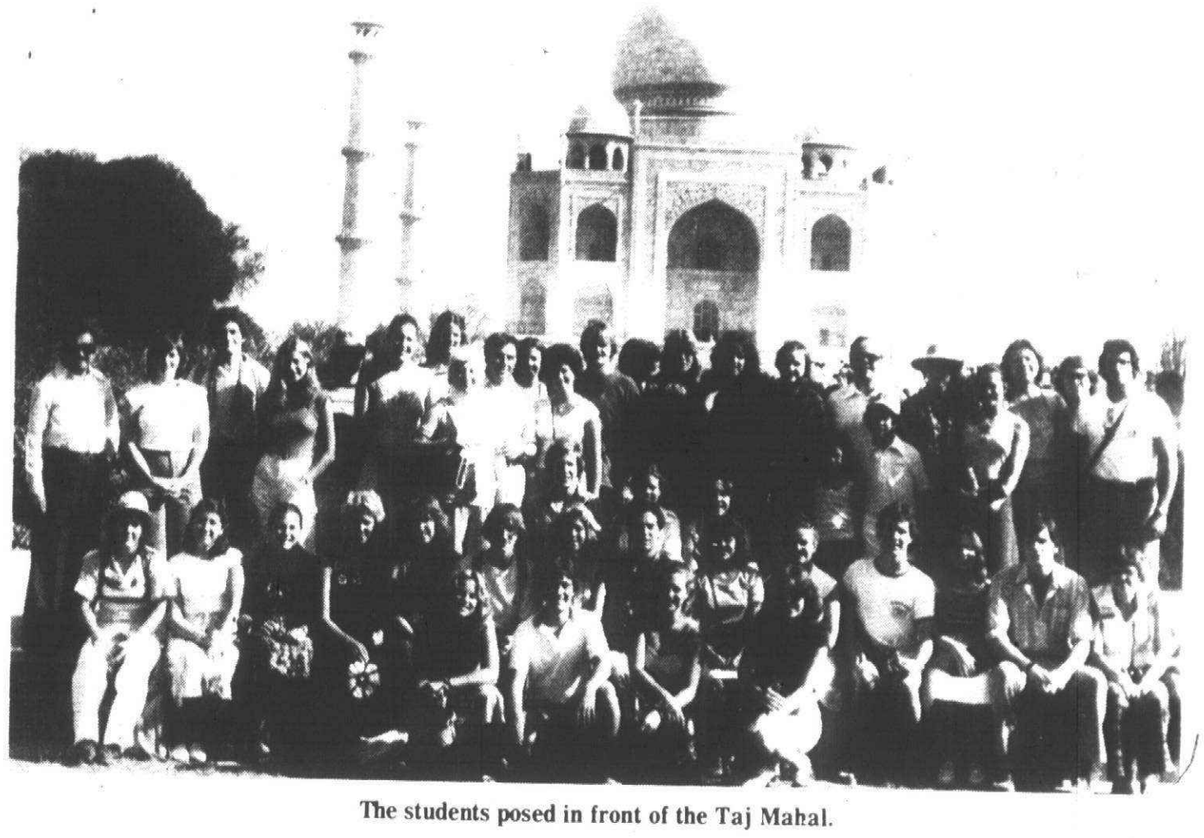

The boys were happy to hear baseball and soccer are the most popular sports in Venezuela. Baseball has been one of the reasons for their delayed departure. Mark is a member of the undefeated Braves team in the T-Ball league. It is coached by his brother, Dan, and John Keliher. Their last game of the season is Saturday, and none of them, Peggy included, was about to leave Plymouth before that game.

They have been taking Spanish lessons. The boys will attend an Ameri-

The students posed in front of the Taj Mahal.

Semester at sea for college credits

Susan Dybas spent the spring term of her senior year on a cruise around the world.

The jaunt did not delay her graduation from Eastern Michigan University. In fact, Miss Dybus earned 12 credit hours during her semester-at-sea voyage.

Her ship, the SS Universe, was complete with classrooms, library, theater, bookstore, volleyball court, hospital, pool and student union.

Semester at sea was sponsored by the Institute for Shipboard Education and the University of Colorado. There was a full administrative staff and faculty as well as interport lecturers.

The ship's journey began at Wilmington, near Los Angeles, at 5 p.m Feb. 25. The voyage was given a send-off by more than 3,000 parents, friends and alumni of shipboard education. The Goodyear blimp was there to salute the sailing.

Orientation and registration began the following morning and the first day of classes was Feb. 27.

So it went for more than 4 months. Between ports, the students attended regularly scheduled classes.

AFTER A TWO-DAY stopover at Honolulu, they headed across the Pacific to Korea. This was the longest leg of their voyage and Susan said most of students suffered some degree of sea sickness.

"I was just very sleepy and couldn't eat," she said. She added that some classes had to be cancelled during the 11-day trip to the harbor of Pusan. They spent four days in South Korea and from there it was a two-day sail to Keelung on Taiwan, where they stayed for three days.

From there it was on to Hong Kong for four days, then southward through the China Sea and the South China Sea to Singapore.

'There were the pyramids and there was a Hilton Inn–a strange combination almost side-by-side.'

–Susan Dybas

Susan thought Singapore itself was "very touristy" but she enjoyed the trip north by bus into Malaysia.

Her snapshots of Malaysian children revealed handsome youngsters. "Both the boys and girls have their ears pierced when tiny tots," said Susan.

THE SS UNIVERSE docked at Madras, India at 8 a.m. April 10.

Susan and many of her shipboard friends decided to take a side trip to Agra to see the Taj Mahal. The beautiful white marble mausoleum was well worth the trip, said Susan.

Tuition did not include the Taj Mahal junket although sight-seeing trips were part of the package in many ports.

After a six-day stay in Madras, they went to Colombo, capital of Sri Lanka (formerly Ceylon). It was there Susan had her first ride on an elephant and she complained that a photographer almost cut the elephant off a picture.

"I could have had a ride on a camel in Egypt," she grinned. "But it looked too mean."

They left Colombo at 8 a.m. April 21 and it was time for mid-terms and finals. They were aboard ship for the next nine days as they sailed to the Red Sea where they docked at Safaga and spent a day at Luxor. The ship proceeded through the Suez Canal for a five-day stop at Alexandria, Egypt.

Susan marveled at the pyramids, the Sphinx and the treasures from Kin Tutankhamen's tomb. She said, "There were the pyramids and there was a Hilton Inn—a strange combination almost side-by side."

WHILE IN THE Mediterranean, the students visited Crete for a couple of days, then went over to Piraeus for a four-day visit to Greece.

They spent four days in Malaga, Spain, before going to Casablanca for two days. They were in Casablanca May 25, four months after they had sailed from Los Angeles. Casablanca was their last port of call.

From then on it was back to the classrooms as they headed west across the Atlantic. They had their finals June 2 and 3. Convocation was June 4 and they arrived in Baltimore the next day.

The floating campus docked and its students disembarked and headed for their homes all over the United States.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Dybas were there to meet their daughter and bring her back to Plymouth.

Susan Dybas says the trip was everything she expected and much more. She would like to go again as a member of the staff. In the meantime, she is most interested in the job market, especially in the industrial relations field.

Semester at sea students have an active alumni association and the Shipmates newsletter keeps Susan informed and in touch with those she met on the floating campus.

The little girl with Susan was dressed in Korean national costume for a festival.

Birch reunion

It was the first Birch family reunion and the first trip to Michigan for several descendants of Robert Birch who lived in the Greek Revial house on S. Main Street. From left were Joan Young, Joan Dodge Moran of Los Altos, Calif.; Holly Moran, Joan's daughter, of Rochester, N.Y.; Bruce Richard of Plymouth; Mary Ellen Dodge Little of Simsbury, Conn.; Ruth Dodge of Webster, N.Y.; Nancy Dodge Rogers of Rochester, N.Y.; and William Young of Arlington, Va.

The four daughters of Marjory Mitchell Dodge were given a special tour of the house where their mother was born.

Grandchildren of Robert Birch and their families who attended the picnic in Plymouth Township Park were Eudora Birch Rutherford, Ruth Shattuck Garlett, Carol Birch Dodge and Bruce Richard, all of Plymouth; Frank Tillotson of Livonia; Margaret Tillotson Hargrave and Burton Tillotson of Adrian; Winfield Baughn of Stevensville, Ontario; Edward Baughn of Ann Arbor; and Dorothy Richard Jewell of Venice, Fla. It's another first for Dorothy Koi

Dorothy J. Koi of Plymouth is the first female member of the American Legion to be elected state finance officer of the Michigan American Legion in its 60-year history. She received all 1,974 delegate votes cast during the closing session of the annual convention last week in Grand Rapids.

Mrs. Koi has other firsts in a basically male-oriented oraganization of veterans. She served as a state vice-commander during the 1975-76 Bicentennial year. The area, in addition to northwest Wayne County, consists of 17 counties in the Thumb and mid-state sections.

She also was the first woman to be commander of the Myron H. Beals Post in Livonia. She was the first commander of the American Legion's 17th District Association. While a member of Plymouth's Passage-Gayde Post, she was elected state historian for four consectutive terms.

DURING HER 25-year Legion association, she has served on numerous local, district and state committees as a member and chairperson. She has been Director VIP of the Michigan Echelon 18, the 20&4, which is an honor society of women Legionnaires of the state and national organization.

Dorothy Koi is a World War II veteran and was in the finance section of Second Air Force Headquarters at the time of her discharge from service in 1945. She now works for the building and grounds section of the Plymouth Canton Community Schools.

DOROTHY J. KOI

Another first was established at the convention when the delegates elected a Vietnam veteran, Gary Sammons of Ecorse, as their state commander. He is the youngest veteran to hold the office in Michigan Legion history.

Plymouth revisited

Anneke (Kiek) Thasing came to Plymouth from Holland as an exchange student in 1959. She was a member of the senior class of Plymouth High School and lived with Mr. and Mrs. Joe West who had two high school students of their own—Bill and Martha.
Kiek is now Anneke de Ridder-Thasing. Both she and her husband are teachers and he volunteered to look after their two children while she vacationed in America. The Wests and their guest were in downtown Plymouth on Monday. They also had visited the Eastern Market, RenCen, General Motors Headquarters and had dinner at the Top of the Ponch. She says she promised to be home by the end of July. (Staff photo)

Canton Chatter

By SHARON STARON 455-5322

I'm taking a film class this summer. Title of the class is Vietnam and the Artist. I thought it would be an interesting and possibly an easy class. I have now decided that there is no such thing as an easy class at the University of Michigan.

It is, however, interesting.

I have a new project this summer. I'm going to make a film. When I tell my friends this, they can't believe it. I can barely believe it myself. There's nothing like getting right in there and getting involved, I always say.

It matters not that I've never before made a film and have no idea what I'm doing. Forge ahead and carry on is my motto.

How does one make a film about the Vietnam War in Canton Township? Have no fear. I'll find a way.

There still are a few technicalities to be worked out, like how to hold the camera, how to work the projector and how to splice the film. But I'm a true optimist and I'm inviting everyone I know for the first, and probably the final, showing of my finished project.

It's due Aug. 15. So if you see me romping about with movie camera in hand, don't worry. I'm only trying to film a war.

Last week at bridge, I was talking about this class and Vietnam. My friends have decided they can't wait until fall when I return to my Spanish class. Of course, it could be worse. Just wait until I take astronomy.

LAST WEEK at the Canton Recreation Hall, vans were loaded with children. They traveled to Greenfield Village for a day of excitement and fun.

Three groups of children were included in the trip. Tom Dunn and Jennifer Tregembo were in charge of the children from the day camp group while Connie Flynn took care of the kids in the 45-15 Fun Club.

The others were from the park school program. The first 28 who had registered at the various parks in town got to go on the tour of the village. Most of the children were from Windsor Park subdivision. Pat Mitchell and Laura Fallon, who run the park school for Windsor Park, took charge of the group.

It was a beautiful day for a walk through Greenfield Village. The sun was shining and the children enjoyed viewing the sights and learning a little history of our country.

THE PEOPLE who run our recreation department are always trying to plan activities with Canton residents in mind. They have offered some great activities for both the senior citizens and the youngsters. The 45-15 Fun Club had some super trips for the children on extended school year. The club was started when Canton schools were converted to year-round schedules.

The Canton Recreation Department wants to give Canton people the types of activities they're interested in. They now need our help to help plan fall schedules. They want to know what our township wants.

The new interest groups not yet scheduled but tentatively planned include woodworking, oil painting, photography, ceramics, cake decorating, disco lessons, golf lessons, gold filled wire wrapping, macrame, interior decorating and square dancing.

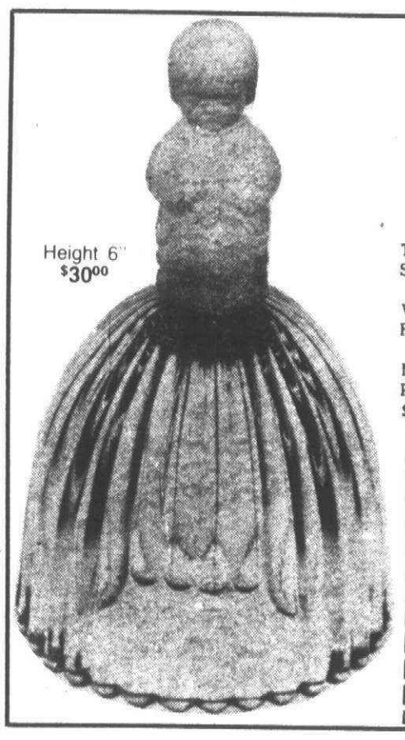

Instructors for these activities have been found and now the recreation department needs to know how many people are interested in these things.

The new administration building will be used for these activities. Now that the recreation department has more room, they would like to plan more things.

Martin-Hildebrand

Mr. and Mrs. Ted J. Hildebrand of Cincinnati, Ohio, announce the engagement of their daughter, Alice Elizabeth, to Kent C. Martin of Homestead, Fla. He is the son of Mrs. Phyllis J. Martin of Brook Park Drive, Canton Township. The bride elect is a 1972 graduate of Forest Park High School. She is employed as a secretary-receptionist in Homestead. Her fiance is manager of Electro Bake Painting Shop in Homestead.

They plan to be married in August in Our Lady of the Rosary Church, Greenhills, Ohio.

Patios, balconies earn awards

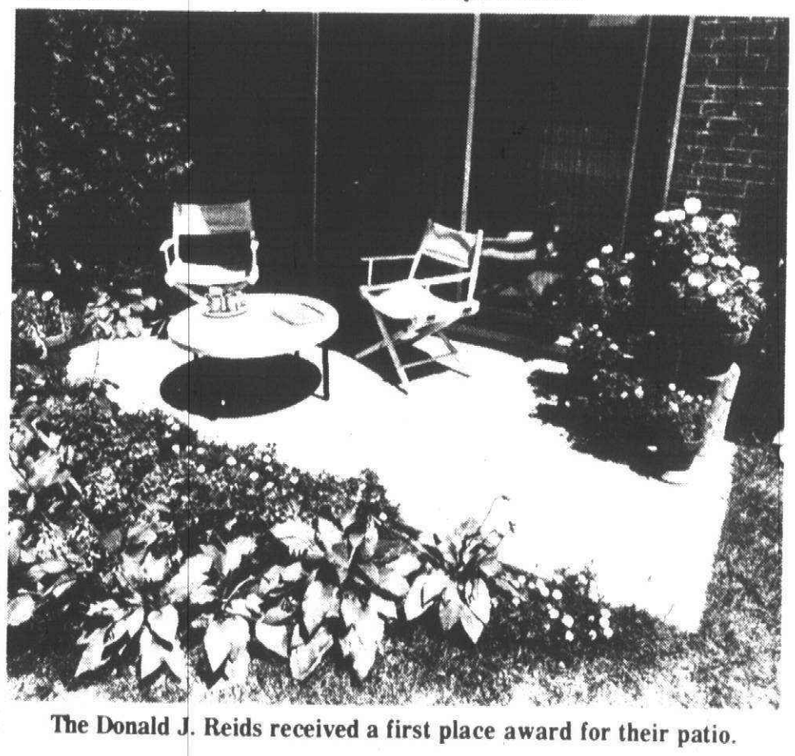

Members of the Apple Run branch Woman's National Farm and Garden Association judged the balconies and patios again this year at Honeytree Apartments in Canton Township.

They discovered the residents showed great creativity. Sue and Don Richard bordered their flower beds with driftwood and spread red stone cover around their shrubbery. Ed McComas built the sling-back chairs and table for his balcony. He and his wife, Cathy, filled their flower boxes with geraniums and petunias and added hanging pots of begonias for added color.

Merolynn and William Couchois combined a flourishing vegetable garden with flowers to win the most creative patio award.

Most creative patio award went to Mr. and Mrs. William Couchois, who combined a vegetable garden with trees and flowers. Besides the ground plantings, the flowers and strawberries were planted in hanging baskets and straw hats. (Staff photos)

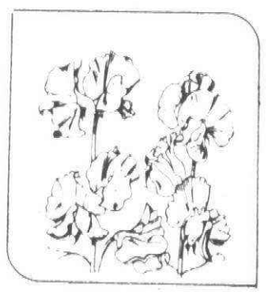

The Donald J. Reids received a first place award for their patio.

First place balcony award went to Mr. and Mrs. D. Bialk

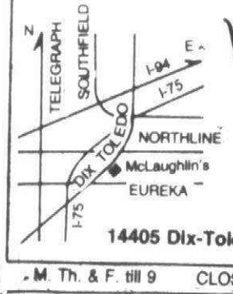

Winners and runners-up received plaques. Among the recipients were Mr. and Mrs. William Couchois (left), Sue Richard, Winnie Miller, and Cathy and Ed McComas.

When everybody used fans, nobody cared about EER.

Years ago, when summers got hot enough to fry an egg on the sidewalk, you could switch on the fan and hope for a change in the weather. The last thing you cared about was energy efficiency rating, or EER.

Today, air conditioners keep people comfortable during the summer heat. And it's important to know that some units use less electricity than others to do the same job.

So, if you're buying a new portable air conditioner to cool one room, or central air conditioning to cool the whole house—look for a model with a high energy efficiency rating—or EER number. You'll save energy and money if you buy a model with an EER of 8 or more.

Air conditioners, like refrigerators and other major appliances, are big energy users. And the more efficient they are, the less they cost to operate.

So it's important to use all your major appliances properly and keep them in good operating condition.

Detroit Edison has helpful booklets on the wise use of electricity. Stop in at any Customer Office and pick up what you need.

Save where it really counts. The power is in your hands.

Van Wagoner-Brainard

Ann Elizabeth Brainard wore a white eyelet gown with a train for her June 3 wedding to David John VanWagoner in Christ the King Lutheran Chapel in Mt. Pleasant. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, James Brainard. The Rev. Robert Garrels officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Robert Brainard of St. Joseph. Mr. and Mrs. John VanWagoner of Trailwood Drive, Plymouth are the parents of the bridegroom.

The bridal bouquet was miniature silk peach roses, chrysanthemums and baby's breath. Her attendants carried baskets of silk peach tiger lilies, cream miniature roses and baby's breath. Barb Brainard, the bride's sister, was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Kitty Brautigan, Marie Mathews and Linda Robinson. They wore peach eyelet gowns.

Timothy VanWagoner of Detroit was best man for his brother. Ushers were Roy Gaddey Jr., Pat Cunningham and John Van Wagoner. Bobby Brainard was junior usher.

Two hundred guests attended the wedding reception at Riverwood Golf Club in Mt. Pleasant. The couple honeymooned in Florida and will live in Westland. Both are graduates of Central Michigan University. The bride is an instructor at Wayne-Westland YMCA. Her husband is a teacher and coach in the Plymouth- Canton Community Schools.

Hood-LeGault

Joyce and Ed Hood Of Rocker Street, Plymouth, announce the engagement of their daughter, Nancy Ann, to Thomas Edward LeGault, son of Karen and Ed LeGault of Admiralty Drive, Canton Township.

The bride elect is a 1977 graduate of Plymouth Salem High School. She is employed at Family Discount. She attends Schoolcraft College and plans to continue her studies at the University of Michigan. Her fiance is a 1974 graduate of Plymouth Salem High. He earned a certificate in advertising and design from the Detroit Society of Arts and Crafts. He is a member of the University of Michigan Artists and Craftsmen Guild and is an artist and teacher represented by Harper and Gallery Promotions of Chicago.

They plan to be married in October in First United Presbyterian Church of Plymouth.

Oktoberfest tickets go on sale July 22

Tickets for the German-American Club's first Oktoberfest will go on sale Saturday in the parking lot at the corner of Ann Arbor Trail and Elizabeth Street, Plymouth.

The ticket sale will be in conjunction with the club's parking lot sale of authentic German dirndl dresses, antiques, artifacts, sports equipment, toys, etc. donated for the fundraising project. The sale will run from 10 a.m. to mid-afternoon.

Plymouth's first Oktoberfest has been planned in response to many requests. Roger Feller, club president, says the Bavarian-type festival was suggested numerous times but until now, it has been considered too large an undertaking.

"However, the continued success of the pre-Lenten Fasching parties and the demand for a party in the fall has finally convinced us to go all out this year," said Feller. "We will provide what many of our members remember from our Bavarian homeland as a most wonderful time of the year."

The party is planned for Saturday, Sept. 30, from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. in the Plymouth Cultural Center. There will be dancing from 9 p.m. to closing to the music of the Melodias, the group that has become a favorite at the Fasching parties.

German beer, food and fun will be the order of the day for the dirndl and lederhosen clad revelers. Tickets are limited and will be sold on a first-come, first-served basis.

Advance sale tickets can be purchased from Bob Fitzner, 453-8200, Edith Scherer, 453-6000, or Feller, 420-2259.

The German American Club of Plymouth has monthly meetings in the Odd Fellows Hall in Plymouth. Members are from Plymouth, Canton, Northville, Livonia and the surrounding area.

On point

Senaa Samma, touted as an "Indian juggler from Madras and London," introduced a sharp routine when he became America's first sword swallower. During an exhibition in New York City in 1817, Samma swallowed a sword belong to William Pyle of New York.

can school but Spanish will be their second language.

They will stop in North Carolina to visit their family and then will be on their way. They expect to return to their Plymouth Township home in two years.

"Russ and Diane Maybrey and their sons, Rusty and Mark, have already gone. It will be nice to have people we know," said Peggy. The Maybreys lived on Trailwood.

It all sounds like high adventure and it's good to know they will be back.

THREE CITIES ART Club was turned down on its offer to add a display of art works to the Thursday evening band concert in Kellogg Park.

Jack Wilcox offered his front lawn instead. The paintings will be set up at 7 p.m. Thursday in front of the big white house on Penniman at Union. Concert goers are invited to wander over and see what the local artists have produced. If it rains, the art show will be postponed.

Museum screens classic comedies

Classic film comedies are being screened free to the public at the Detroit Institute of Arts through Sunday, Sept. 24. The third annual American Film Panorama series at the museum opened July 11—16. Each film is shown without charge on a Tuesday-through-Sunday schedule at 2 p.m. in the museum's Recital Hall.

Included in the "Great American Film Comedies" are classics directed by Woody Allen, Charles Chaplin, Howard Hawks and Mel Brooks.

Scheduled are a 1933 Marx Brothers comedy (July 18—23); WoodyAllen's first all-American feature (July 25—30); "The Lady Eve," starring Barbara Stanwyck, Henry Fonda and Charles Coburn (Aug. 1—6); the 1936 "My Man Godfrey," starring Carole Lombard and William Powell (Aug.8—13); a 1971 comedydirected by Milos Forman (Aug. 15—20); Charles Chaplin's 1925 "The Gold Rush," voted the greatest comedy ever filmed by an international critics poll (Aug. 22—27); director Howard Hawks' 1940 "His Girl Friday," starring Rosalind Russell, Ralph Bellamy and Cary Grant (Aug. 29—Sept. 3); Buster Keaton's 1927 "The General," (Sept. 5-10); a 1940 vintage W. C. Fields film (Sept 12—17); "The Producers," directed by Mel Brooks, with Zero Mostel and Gene Wilder (Sept 19—24).

American Film Panorama is a program of the Performing Arts Department of the Detroit Institute of Arts. It is made possible through a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

For a free detailed schedule of "Great American Film Comedies," call the Detroit Institute of Arts ticket office at 832-2730.

Lounge adds disco sounds

Dancing has arrived at the Detroit Plaza's Celebration Lounge with the disco music of Celebrity, performing back-to-back with the show group, The Forum Delegation, through July 29.

Featuring Janice Franco as the lead singer, Celebrity's four-member band specializes in the keyboard, bass and drums. Appearing along with Celebrity, The Forum Delegation is a group whose musical repertoire ranges from the Big Band era to popular ballads.

The Celebration is open 5 p.m.-2 a.m. Monday-Friday and 7 p.m.-2 a.m. Saturdays. Drinks are half-price during the Celebration Hour, which is 5-8 p.m. Monday-Friday. There is no cover and no drink minimum.

Regal hall is open daily

Almost like a magic castle, the many-chimneyed Tudor Mansion Meadow Brook Hall waits half-hidden in the rolling hills of Rochester.

Its 100 roomsare filled with priceless treasures. Gardens and fountains, shade trees and winding walks invite visitors to explore the wooded grounds.

During July and August Meadow Brook Hall is open for tours 10 a.m.—5 p.m. every day but Sunday. On Sundays the hall is open 1—5 p.m.

Behind the massive entrance gates are crystal chandeliers and silk-covered walls, master paintings, tapestries woven hundreds of years ago, glass and china collections, gold fixtures and hand-carved paneling. Antique furnishings were shipped from around the world to decorate the home that cost more than three million dollars to build in the late 1920s.

THE FORMER HOME of Matilda Dodge Wilson (she was the widow of auto pioneer John Dodge), the hall is now used as a cultural and conference center for Oakland University.

Children love the concealed panels and secret stairways hidden between the huge stone walls.

All ages are fascinated by Knole Cottage, a six-room mini-mansion of a playhouse fit for any princess.

Guests enjoy it all at their own pace, wandering in and out of favorite rooms all day, if they choose. Refreshments are available in the Summer Tea Toom, with more formal dining in the elegance of the Christopher Wren Dining Room.

It's another world at Meadow Brook Hall—located off I-75 25 miles north of Detroit. Use university exit and follow signs to the east Campus of Oakland University.

Adult admission is $3.50; children and senior citizens, $2.00

Come twirl or march for Michigan's fair

Michigan State Fair is looking for marching bands, floats, baton twirlers and beauty queens for special events at this year's fair.

According to Harold Arnoldi, the fair's director of special events, the State Fair is looking for floats and marching bands for the grand opening parade, Thursday, Aug. 24; beauty queens for the fair's Queen of Queens Contest; and baton twirlers for the giant two-day baton competition.

The best float and the best marching band in the grand opening parade will each receive a trophy and $300. The second and third place float and marching band will receive trophies and awards of $200 and $100.

The Queen of Queens Contest is open to anyone who has won a beauty contest in the last year. Preliminary competition is Tuesday, Aug. 29. Finals are Wednesday, Aug. 30.

For information about entering any of the fair's events, contact Harold Arnoldi, Michigan State Fair, Detroit 48203, or 368-1000.

The old and the new are RenCen art shows

Works of two of the most influential artists from the Italian Renaissance and a dramatic new art form will be featured in three majorexhibits in Detroit's Renaissance Center.

The artists are Andrea Palladio, a 16th-century architect whose work has had a profound effect on the architectureof the Western world, and Michelangelo Buonarroti, the master sculptor and painter whose works have become immortal.

The new art form is holography, essentially three-dimensional images capable of projecting the illusion of motion.

The series was announced by Wayne S., Doran, president of the Renaissance Center Partnership, during a press briefing introducing the Renaissance Events Center, the new 8,000-square-foot exhibition hall where the exhibitions will be held.

Robert E. McCabe, president of Detroit Renaissance,and Michael Kan, deputy director of the Detroit Institute of Arts, joined Doranin describing the significance of the exhibition center as further evidence of Detroit's revitalization.

The exhibition hall was established as part of a continuing program to emphasize Renaissance Center's role as a different and unique attraction for Detroit residents and visitors to the city, Doran explained.

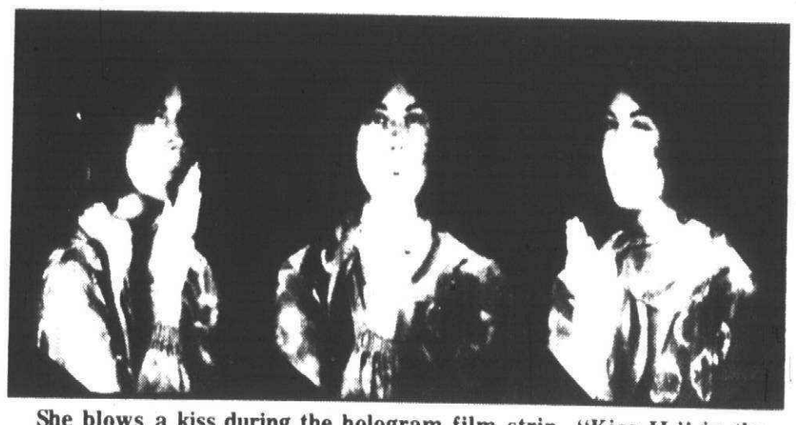

Several major art exhibits are planned each year, as well as a variety of other programs intended to augment activities within the Renaissance World of Shops and the Detroit Plaza Hotel, he continued.

The art exhibit schedule follows:

PALLADIO —July 20—August 20—Twelve meticulously-crafted scale models of 16th-century villas and other buildings designed by Palladio. The models are up to 60-square-feet in size and some include interior detail. The display includes photographs of the original buildings and Detroit buildings which reflect the unique Palladio influence.

MICHELANGELO —September 15—October 21—Eighteen exquisite terracotta models which the master sculptor executed to prepare himself for creating the full-sized finished works of art. This exhibition also includes photographs of a number of the major works by Michelangelo so the viewer can see the relationship between the models and the finished work.

HOLOGRAPHY —October 23—December 3—This exhibit promises to be one of the largest collections of holograms yet assembled for a single exhibit. It will include historic and state-of-the-art holograms from leading artists in the field, as well as background information on the development of the laser technology that made holography possible.

She blows a kiss during the hologram film strip, "Kiss II," in the holography exhibit which will be at the Renaissance Center, Oct. 23-Dec. 3. This new art form, which utilizes the laser beam, produces life-size, three-dimensional images so real you'll want to reach our and touch them. Several dozen holographs will be featured in this revolutionary visual exhibit.

Schoolcraft festival to have final recital

The final chamber recital of the Summer Music Festival at Schoolcraft College will be presented on Tuesday, July 25 at 8 p.m. in the Liberal Arts Theatre.

Two chamber works from the nineteenth century romantic period will be featured.

The compositions are the Brahms trio in A minor for clarinet, cello and piano, and the Schumann quartet in E-flat major for piano and strings.

Faculty members performing on the program include Derek Francis, Meyer Shapiro, Debra Fayroian, Oliver Green and Donald Morelock.

Admission is $2 for adults and $1 for children. Schoolcraft College is located at 18600 Haggerty, Livonia.

Fred Waring presents his new musical show

Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians step into the Meadow Brook Music Festival spotlight Friday to present their new musical show this season, "It's All About Love."

Waring, now celebrating his 63rd year in show business, has been referred to as "An American Legend." Through the years, his group of Young Pennsylvanians have recorded more than 1,500 songs and have put together some 100 albums.

The Pavilion is practically sold-out with only a few seats remaining; lawn tickets are still available.

The performance begins at 8:30 p.m. in the outdoor Baldwin Palvilion on the Oakland University campus in Rochester. The grounds are open two-and-one-half hours prior to concerts for picnickers and Trumbull Terrace diners.

Three types of food service are available—complete table service offering full-course meals in the Cafe Prominade (reservations required); steak, chicken or ribs and a serve-yourself salad bar in the informal Steak House Buffet; and snack food in the Concession Tent.

Tickets may be purchased at the Festival Box Office or at any Hudson's, Sears, Montgomery Wards or Grinnell's ticket services. For dinner reservations and additional ticket information, call 377-2010.

Attic Theatre offers comedy

Midnight Theatre has returned to the Attic Theatre in Detroit's Greektown.

Appearing Fridays and Saturdays at midnight through Sept. 2, are Los Legumbres (or Mixed Vegetables). Los Legumbres, otherwise known as Chris Goeke and Dan Spahn, present comedy and satire.

Their hour-long show investigate such diverse phenomena as virginity, dating services and the six o'clock news.

For more information call the Attic Theatre at 963-7789.

Brunch to feature guitarist

Performing the music of Tarrega, Albeniz and Sor, classical guitarist Ray Sealey will be the featured artist at "Brunch With Bach" on Sunday, July 23. Set in the continental atmosphere of the Detroit Institute of Arts' Kresge Court, the concert will be presented twice, at 10 and 11:15 a.m.

Reserved seat tickets for full brunch of main course, juice, bread and beverage, for continental brunch of two muffins and butter, fruit compote and beverage, or for coffee and concert are available exclusively through the Detroit Institute of Arts ticket office. Advance reservations are necessary.

For reservations and information, call the Detroit Institute of Arts ticket office at 832-2730.

Museum shows film classics

Classic film comedies are being screened free to the public at the Detroit Institute of Arts through Sunday, Sept. 24. The third annual American Film Panorama series at the museum opened July 11—16. Each film is shown without charge on a Tuesday-through-Sunday schedule at 2 p.m. in the museum's Recital Hall.

Included in the "Great American Film Comedies" are classics directed by Woody Allen, Charles Chaplin, Howard Hawks and Mel Brooks.

Scheduled are a 1933 Marx Brothers comedy (July 18—23); WoodyAllen's first all-American feature (July 25—30); "The Lady Eve," starring Barbara Stanwyck, Henry Fonda and Charles Coburn (Aug. 1—6); the 1936 "My Man Godfrey," starring Carole Lombard and William Powell (Aug.8—13); a 1971 comedydirected by Milos Forman (Aug. 15—20); Charles Chaplin's 1925 "The Gold Rush," voted the greatest comedy ever filmed by an international critics poll (Aug. 22—27); director Howard Hawks' 1940 "His Girl Friday," starring Rosalind Russell, Ralph Bellamy and Cary Grant (Aug. 29—Sept. 3); Buster Keaton's 1927 "The General," (Sept. 5-10); a 1940 vintage W. C. Fields film (Sept 12—17); "The Producers," directed by Mel Brooks, with Zero Mostel and Gene Wilder (Sept 19—24).

American Film Panorama is a program of the Performing Arts Department of the Detroit Institute of Arts. It is made possible through a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

For a free detailed schedule of "Great American Film Comedies," call the Detroit Institute of Arts ticket office at 832-2730.

If your family reunions resemble the convening of Parliament, maybe we'd better make the arrangements.
Are you sure you can feed all those in-laws? Have enough chairs for the second cousins? Know how to keep 47 children untangled? If not, turn your family over to By Golly, the Family Pub.
We've got great food, at reasonable prices, plenty of room, and clever diversions. Silent movies. Giant-screen TV. Popcorn. Computer games. Rich cocktails. A Mug Club. And an understanding that families, of any size, should come together with festive regularity.

CHURCH BULLETIN

UNITED ASSEMBLY OF GOD, 42021 E. Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth, will welcome to services at 11 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. Sunday, July 23, a gospel musician known as Pam Thum or Princess Shining Star.

Of American Indian heritage, the singer traveled as a child with her evangelist parents and now appears on her own at festivals and in churches, schools and youth camps.

Nursery services will be provided for both services.

WARD UNITED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, Farmington Road and Six Mile, Livonia, will present the Festival of Praise Choir, directed by Bob Pickett, in a musical of praise and worship at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, July 22.

The choir, part of a musical aggregation directed by Thurlow Spurr, is on tour nationally with its guest soloist, Tom Russell.

The musical, also titled "Festival of Praise" and divided into six sections, is open to the public. There is no charge and an offering will be taken.

PARKVIEW BAPTIST CHURCH, 9355 Stark, Livonia, will present old-fashioned tent meetings with evangelist Carl Lackey at 7 p.m. Monday through Saturday, July 24-29.

The church is located between Plymouth Road and Edward Hines Parkway, and a nursery will be provided during all services.

CALVARY MISSIONARY CHURCH, 29850 Six Mile, Livonia, will present a film entitled "The Power of Prayer" at 6 p.m. Sunday, July 23.

PAM THUM
Singing in Plymouth

The movie featured such Christian spokesmen as John Walvoord, Josh and Dottie McDowell and Dr. and Mrs. Howard Hendricks.

ST. MATTHEW LUTHERAN CHURCH, 5885 Venoy, Westland, will begin 10 days of vacation Bible school Monday, July 24.

Classes centering on the theme "Jesus, God's Wonderful Gift," will be offered from 9:30 a.m. to noon Monday through Friday for children aged 4 through sixth grade.

The school will conclude Thursday, Aug. 3, with a 7:30 p.m. program for parents and friends.

Judy Hackerd will serve as superintendent for the program, her assistant will be Ginny Brock. Teachers include Phyllis Schultz, Jean Damman, Carol Hill, Pat Cooley, Ann Pfeiffer and Sherry Johnson.

RIVERSIDE PARK CHURCH OF GOD, 11771 Newburgh, Livonia, will conduct vacation Bible school 7-9 p.m. Monday through Friday, July 24-28, for children 3-12 years of age.

Format for the school involves "boarding" a spaceship called Discovery each evening for stops at Jerusalem, Jericho, Siberia, Texas and Florida.

The Jeanne Montgomery family of Louisville, Ky., will offer special entertainment each evening with programs featuring puppetry, ventriloquism and magic.

A mission project will be part of the program, with children bringing contributions of toys, games, clothing, books and canned goods for the East Side Mission in downtown Detroit.

Those interested in registering children for the Riverside VBS may call the church at 464-0990.

SOUTH REDFORD CHURCH OF CHRIST, 26505 West Chicago, Redford Township, will present the Come Alive Singers, a group from the Cincinnati Bible College, in a program at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, July 26.

The group is directed by Ray Mays III and travels by van to present a variety of contemporary gospel music concerts, earning tuition money through the summer touring.

Praise Parade at St. Paul

A parade, complete with clowns and plenty of balloons, was a feature of the vacation Bible school program last week at St. Paul Presbyterian Church, on Five Mile just west of Inkster in Livonia. With the help of the Redford Township police, 100 children and adults walked a few blocks to nearby Bell Creek Park in Redford, winding up their morning with a picnic there. (Photo by Steve Fecht)

A nun's travel story

Sr. Martin Ann Stamm, chairwoman of the religious studies department at Madonna College, would never have been able to make her recent trip to the Holy Land without the help of police officers who take courses at the college.

She longed to go on a tour the University of Detroit was planning to that part of the world, but couldn't afford it. However, last Christmas she found she could.

"The police officers presented me with a gift to enable me to go," smiled Sr. Martin. "I don't know how they did it. They told me that if I wanted to go to the Holy Land I should go."

Actually, the trip also included a stop in Germany, the birthplace of her paternal grandparents. Then it was on to Israel and Jordan and later to Rome.

Putting together a mental montage of the sights, sounds, people and places of the month-long adventure, Sr. Martin Ann managed to extract several memorable experiences.

"I can't forget walking in Jerusalem along the Via Dolorossa, the way of sorrow, which Jesus took on his way to Calvary," she said. "We started from the point where probably he was condemned, then followed where tradition said he went. It led us up to Calvary and to his tomb."

The walk takes place every Friday at 3 p.m., and among the pilgrims making the journey, Sr. Martin Ann saw a man carrying a lifesized cross.

"As we walked, horses and donkeys cut in between us," she continued. "People stopped to ask us to buy their wares. Bargaining with shopkeepers took place all around us. Life went on probably much the way it did when Jesus walked to the cross."

She pointed out that some try to tidy up the scene and embellish it in a Hollywood manner. "That is a convenient way for us to think of it," she said. "Our group decided that when Jesus walked by, people probably disregarded him."

The garden of Gethsemane, where Jesus was betrayed, also proved to be a religious experience for the nun. "They still have seven or eight olive trees that were there then. I saw a rock that was a silent witness to what occurred. There was an aura of holiness. It was beautiful and touching, and gave me a feeling of tranquility."

FOR SR. MARTIN ANN the trip had a special significance inasmuch as it covered areas she discusses in the classroom.

"So many things I taught about the old and new testaments, I knew academically. I knew them with my head. Now I began to understand them with my heart. The trip made so many things take on a new dimension for me, and I plan to share them with my students."

She also purchased slides which she hopes to share with the police officers, who made it all possible, as well as other groups.

While traveling produced some religious experiences, it also gave rise to some touching moments and some funny ones.

In Jordan, the group stopped among the Bedouins, who live in black goat skin tents with their sheep, goats, donkeys and chickens.

"They placed rugs around and we all sat in a group," she recalled. "I saw a little girl leaning against a pole and motioned her to come over. She ran right over and got in my lap and cuddled up like any child.

"Her hair was like wire and her skin like sanded leather. She had a sad face. She was 3 or 4 and had the face of an 80-year-old. She gave me a little plant to bring home. That little girl struck my heart."

AN OFFER OF MARRIAGE provided a little comic relief for the travelers. A Jordanian offered a woman traveling with four daughters 100 camels for one of them. Each camel is worth about $1,000, according to the nun.

"She said she'd have to call her husband," commented Sr. Martin Ann. "The next day the man came back and raised his offer to include 50 sheep and two rams. For the rest of the trip we all told Beth she would have to behave or her mother would be 100 camels richer."

In Rome, she found it difficult to go more than half a block without running into a church. "Every one has its own legends and history. Many of them were museums," she commented.

The group had an audience with the pope, which Sr. Martin Ann also viewed as a highlight.

To help her remember the places she visited, she brought home with her a package the customs officials were eager to view.

They were disappointed to find them non-precious stones. To the nun, however, they had great value. Each one came from a special place and is marked with a place name.

She has but to look at them and the memories of her trip will come rolling back.

A small girl deposited herself in the lap of Sister Martin Ann Stamm of Madonna College while she was resting at a Gedouin camp during her Holy Land tour.

Ethics topic for singles

The Rev. Terry Walker will speak on "Ethics of Relationship" at the meeting of Single Point, an adult Christian singles group, at 7:30 p.m. Friday, July 21, in Ward United Presbyterian Church, Six Mile and Farmington Road, Livonia.

Walker is campus life director for Voice of Christian Youth and works as a counselor with young people and singles.

Another feathre of the evening will be a concert by John Mallon, a Livonian who sings country and pop music.

The group is open to all singles over 18 and there is no charge for the meetings. Refreshments and a time for fellowship will follow the program.

Single Point meets the first and third Fridays of each month.

Getting settled made simple.

New-town dilemmas fade after a WELCOME WAGON call.

As your Hostess, it's my job to help you make the most of your new neighborhood. Our shopping areas. Community opportunities. Special attractions. Lots of facts to save you time and money. Plus a basket of gifts for your family. I'll be listening for your call.

Welcome Wagon.

Fire fighters will muster at village

More than 2,000 fire apparatus collectors and enthusiasts, with more than 100 rigs, will prove that their burning desire for fire-fighting has never been quenched when they converge at Greenfield Village July 22 and 23 for the sixth annual Antique Fire Apparatus Muster.

These fire-fighters buffs will demonstrate their skills and display their prized pumpers, tankers and hand-carts in the largest fire apparatus muster ever held at the Village. Visitors will have the chance to listen to the clatter of hook and ladder rigs and indulge their passion for chasing after the sound of a fading siren.

There is no charge for the Antique Fire Apparatus Muster beyond the regular Village admission of $3.50 for adults and $1.50 for children, ages 6-12. Children under 6 are admitted free.

Flowers under glass

After a wedding or some other special occasion, the question is always—how do you store dried or silk flowers? Memory Flowers, a business run by Joyce Crawford, 51350 Canton, has the solution. Mrs. Crawford sells a Plexiglass dome and an ornate, antique frame that can be used to display a complete wedding bouquet and most cascades. Mrs. Crawford also can dry flowers to preserve them as a keepsake. The large dome costs $50. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Canton squads earn national tourney bids

The winning habit of Plymouth Canton baseball teams doesn't stop after the school season.

The varsity Chiefs from last spring's school season advanced to the state championship round before falling, 1-0, to the eventual state champs from Flint Southwestern in the semifinals.

Now, the Chiefs of the future, the 14-17-year-olds who represent the Sandy Koufax and Mickey Mantle Leagues as the Plymouth Merchants, will try to continue this championship success with their participation in the National Amateur Baseball Federation (NABF) summer baseball tournaments in Joliet, Illinois and Birmingham, Ala.

THE MANTLE MERCHANTS, coached by Dave Racer, qualified for the NABF North Junior Tournament with its 10-3 overall record. They 15-17-year-olds will represent the Northwest Suburban League in Joliet.

Although the league schedule is not complete, the Northwest Suburban League had to pick its representative last weekend since the 12-team double-elimination national event starts today.

Windsor Mic-Mac, currently 10-2 in the league, and Plymouth Salem DiPonio, coach Mike Michalek's 10-3 squad, decided to pass up participation in the NABF tournament but will compete in the American Amateur Baseball Conference (AABC) Districts next week.

"This is the tournament we wanted to go to," said Canton coach Racer, in reference to the NABF event. Racer's squad recently returned from a tournament in Montreal where it gave a good showing in losing one of three 1-0 decisions.

The Mantle Merchants drove to Joliet yesterday and will compete in a doubleheader today. Scott Dawson was expected to get the initial starting assignment for the Merchants. The tourney last through the weekend.

Other members of the Merchants squad include Tim Racer, Scott Racer, Steve Gray, Al Lipinski, Don Dreher, Steve Eddy, Frank McMurray, Chris Mallow, Jack Carpenter, Dan Funkhouser, Dave Meador, Guy Kananen, John Matthews and Dennis Howell.

Coach Racer also picked up four pitchers from the Northwest Suburban League for the tournament. These players include Greg Etienne and Jeff Primeau from Plymouth Salem DiPonio, Gary Wayne from Dearborn Heights Crestwood, and Dave Allard from Allen Park.

The NABF Junior event, which was hosted by the Plymouth-Canton community last season, included competition from Joliet, Lakewood, Akron, and Toledo Ohio, Independence, Mo., Buffalo, N.Y., Erie County, and Detroit.

The winner of this event will face the victory of the NABF South Junior Tournament in the best three-out-of-five World Series in Birmingham, Ala.

THE KOUFAX MERCHANTS, coached by Jerry Ebmeyer, have been the dominate force in the Northwest Suburban League all season long with its 11-1 mark. The 14-year-olds were hands-down winners to represent the league in the NABF Sophomore Tournament in Birmingham, Ala.

This tournament will begin Thursday, July 27, as 19 squads from across the nation come to Birmingham for the double-elimination event. There is only one NABF Sophomore tournament. The players will compete on two minor league diamonds in the Birmingham area.

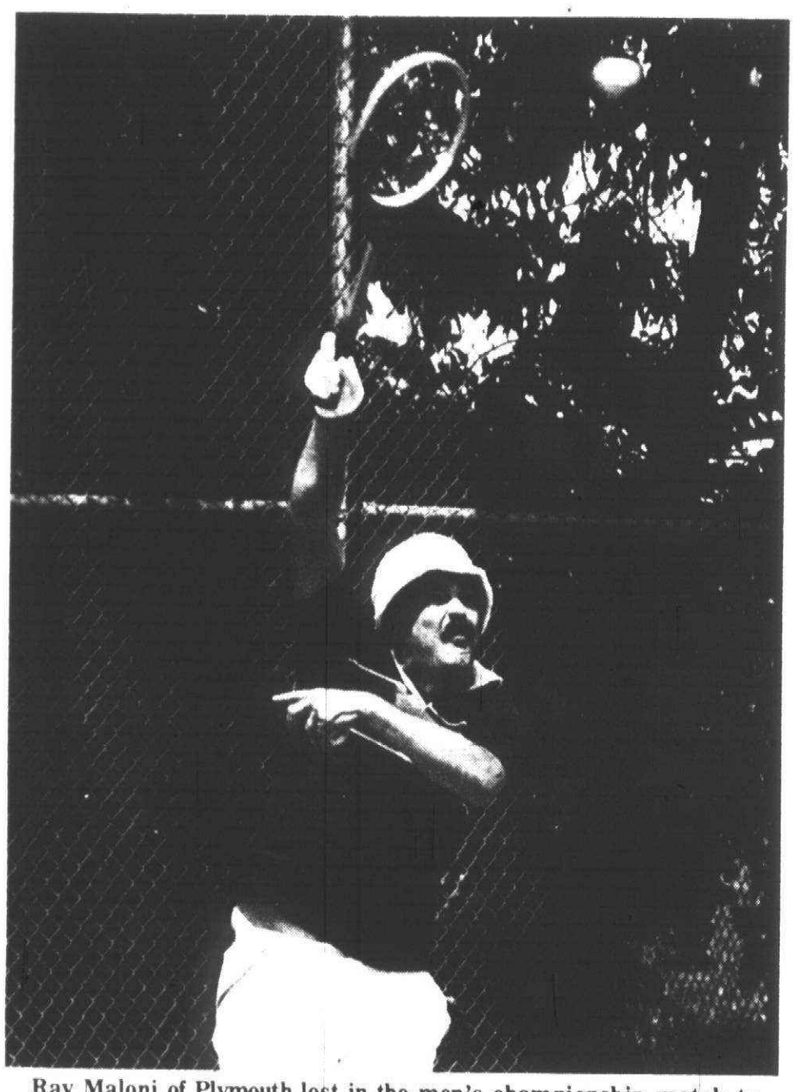

The members of this illustrious team include Keith Braun, Dave Brass, Brian Ebmeyer, Craig Champagne, Jeff Cousino, Eric Flavin, Bill Hanis, Steve Johnson, Mickey Madsen, Dave Malek, Dave Muraske, Fred Rumburger, Dan Smith, Keith Stone and Ed Whitaker.

Coach Ebmeyer also will select six other players from fellow teams in the league.

Crago, Carroll, Rudgers, McNerney prevail

Novice netters tough in clutch

By DENNIS O'CONNOR

More than 100 novice tennis players from the area came to Plymouth's Central Middle School courts last weekend to participate in the annual Harvey Barcus Novice Tennis Tournament, sponsored by the Detroit News.

Grant Crago of Plymouth Township, Phyllis Carroll of Canton Township, Dan Rudgers of Ann Arbor and Carol McNerney of Dearborn Heights were the four winners in their repective divisions. They will now compete in the staqe novice tennis tourney at the end of the month.

In the boys division, males 15-years-and-under, Crago easily handled Plymouth's Jeff Howell in the championship match, 6-1, 6-0. Crago dominated the entire finale, returning Howell's strong service with consistency. Howell fought off two match points before falling.

Crago, a 15-year old sophomore at Plymouth Canton High School, has played tennis for only two years. He was defeated in the second round of the novice event last year.

Howell, 14, will enter Plymouth Salem High School this fall as a freshman. The West Middle School product has played tennis for three years and is also an excellent football lineman.

Crago defeated Livonia's Doug Button in the semifinal, 7-5, 6-2, while Howell outlasted Plymouth's Kurt Schubert in split sets, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3, in the other semifinal. Crago won the event over 25 other competitors.

IN WOMEN'S ACTION, two Canton Township homemakers battled in the championship round as Carroll defeated Penny Wasiak in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4. Carrol held the upperhand in most of the match, leading 5-2 in the first set and 4-1 in the second set before closing out her opponent.

Carroll's victory over the field of eight women was preceeded by a marathon semifinal match which saw the champion edge Plymouth's Linda Gee, 5-7, 6-3, 7-6. Carroll won the deciding nine-point tiebreaker, 5-0. Wasiak advanced to the final round by default.

Carrol has played tennis for 15 years but this was the first tournament she entered. A former teacher, Carroll is the mother of two children.

Wasiak is a newcomer to the sport, and is presently taking lessons at a local YMCA. She is the mother of seven children.

McNERNEY, 15, of Dearborn Heights, won a two-hour marathon finale over Livonia's Lisa Abraham.

Oasis stuns Gashouse Gang

Oasis Golf Center may have won its regular season women's fast-pitch softball game last Friday night, but the real story was its weekend competition, when the women dumped the highly rated Waterford Gashouse Gang in a doubleheader.

After raising its league record to 3-2 by virtue of a forfeit victory to league opponent Major, Oasis travelled to Waterford and beat the Gashouse Gang, 10-3, and 6-3, on Saturday.

"We really got good pitching and key hits," said Oasis coach Linda DeWitt after the sweep. The respected Gang, comprised of all-stars from the Walled Lake, West Bloomfield and Waterford areas, invited Oasis to play a doubleheader for its preparation in a national tournament next week.

Oasis surely gave the Gang all it wanted in the two games.

Plymouth's Jan Boyd hurled the nightcap and went the distance, winning on a six-hitter. One of the three runs was unearned. Meanwhile, Oasis scored all six of its runs in the first five innings off Anne Verney, the star hurler from the Class A champion Waterford High School squad. Boyd led the offensive attack, as well, with a two-for-two day.

Oasis scored four runs in the fourth inning to salt away the victory. Catcher Julie Stafford registered the big hit of the inning and finished with two-for-three and two RBIs.

Plymouth's Cindy Cindrich, the team-leader in runs batted in, added another RBI. Westland John Glenn's Tina Lilla knocked home the final run.

In the first game, Dearborn Heights Annapolis product Denise Cisaldi went the distance and hurled a sparkling four-hitter for the victory. All three runs were unearned.

Plymouth's Sue McDowell led the hitting barrage with three safeties and four RBIs. Cisaldi added two hits and an RBI. Stafford and Cindrich also drove in one run each.

Jr. baseball playoffs offer excitement for family, friends

Three of the seven Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball Leagues are in the midsts of playoff action this week, with championship contests set for next week.

The A League, 11-12-year-old boys, are currently battling for the playoff positions, as many regular season ties still must be resolved.

The B League, 9-10-year-old boys, battled in its playoffs earlier this week, as the eight qualifying teams were shaved to the final two squads. The two league winners will battle in the best two-out-of-three World Series on Monday, July 24, Thursday, July 27, and Monday, July 31 (if neccessary). All the games will be played at the Centennial Park diamonds.

The G Jr. League, 9-12-year-old girls, have been competing in a 12-team single-elimination playoff where all the squads qualify for post-season action. The championship game will be played Saturday at the Centennial Park diamonds.

E AND F League regular season competition still exists, with post-season action beginning on Monday, July 31.

In the past, E and F Leagues, boys 13-15-years old, competed in state and inter-city tournaments. This year, however, league coordinator John Anderson announced that the Plymouth-Canton squads would not participate in these events because of conflicts with the fall school sports practices.

As a result, Anderson has planned a post-season inter-league tourney with all 12 teams (six from each league). The tourney begins on July 31 and lasts throughout the week.

The two championship games will be on Sunday, Aug. 6, at Central Middle School. The F championship (13-year-olds) will be at 1:30 p.m., while the E finale (14-15-year-olds) starts at 4 p.m.

The T-Ball championships, C League, 7- and 8-year-old boys and girls, will be held Saturday morning at the Centennial Park diamonds.

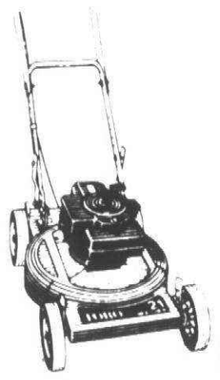

The G Sr. League, 13-15-year-old girls, are still in regular season action and won't start the playoffs for two weeks.

Larry Massey, 10, prepares for one of his 'B' League battles in Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball action last week. Unfortunately for Larry, his Tigers failed to qualify for the 'B' League playoffs, which started Monday evening. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Skaters rejoice

Summer ice skating hours have been annouced by the Plymouth Cultural Center, effective Monday.

Open skating hours are as follows: 4-6 p.m. Mondays; 4-6 p.m. and 8-11 p.m. Tuesdays; 4-6 p.m. and 8-11 p.m. Thursdays; 4-6 p.m. Fridays; 2-4 p.m. Saturdays; 4-6 p.m. Sundays.

Drop-In hockey also will be conducted during the summer. The following hours for this activity are as follows: 6-8 p.m. Tuesdays; 6-8 p.m. Thursdays; 6-8 p.m. Sundays.

For more information on the skating and hockey rates, call the Cultural Center at 455-6620.

Mantle Merchants nip Crestwood

Dan Funkhouser fired a four-hitter as Plymouth Canton's Mickey Mantle League contingent, the Plymouth Merchants, edged Dearborn Heights Crestwood, 2-1, Sunday afternoon.

The victory gave the Merchants a 10-3 league record but, more importantly, qualified the Plymouth squad to compete in the National Amateur Baseball Federation (NABF) North Junior summer baseball tournament in Joliet, Ill. this weekend.

"The kids really came through when they had to," said a pleased Merchant coach Dave Racer. "Funkhouser also came through and pitched a good game."

Funkhouser went the distance, striking out eight and allowing only two walks. Crestwood scored its lone run in the seventh inning after the Merchants staked Funkhouser to a 2-0 advantage.

Don Dreher and Tim Racer scored both Merchant runs in the second inning. Dreher led Canton's meek four-hit attack with two singles and a walk.

Earlier that Sunday, the Merchants lost a close 3-2 decision to Garden City, setting the stage for the Canton—Crestwood battle and the rights to go to Joliet.

Garden City scored all three runs in the first inning, and Canton came back with two in the second to complete the scoring. Merchant hurler Chris Mallow settled down after a rocky start but still suffered the loss in going the distance. Garden City outhit the Merchants, 7-4.

Ealier in the week, the Merchants shutout Southfield, 4-0, on Tuesday, and nipped Allen Park, 4-3, on Saturday.

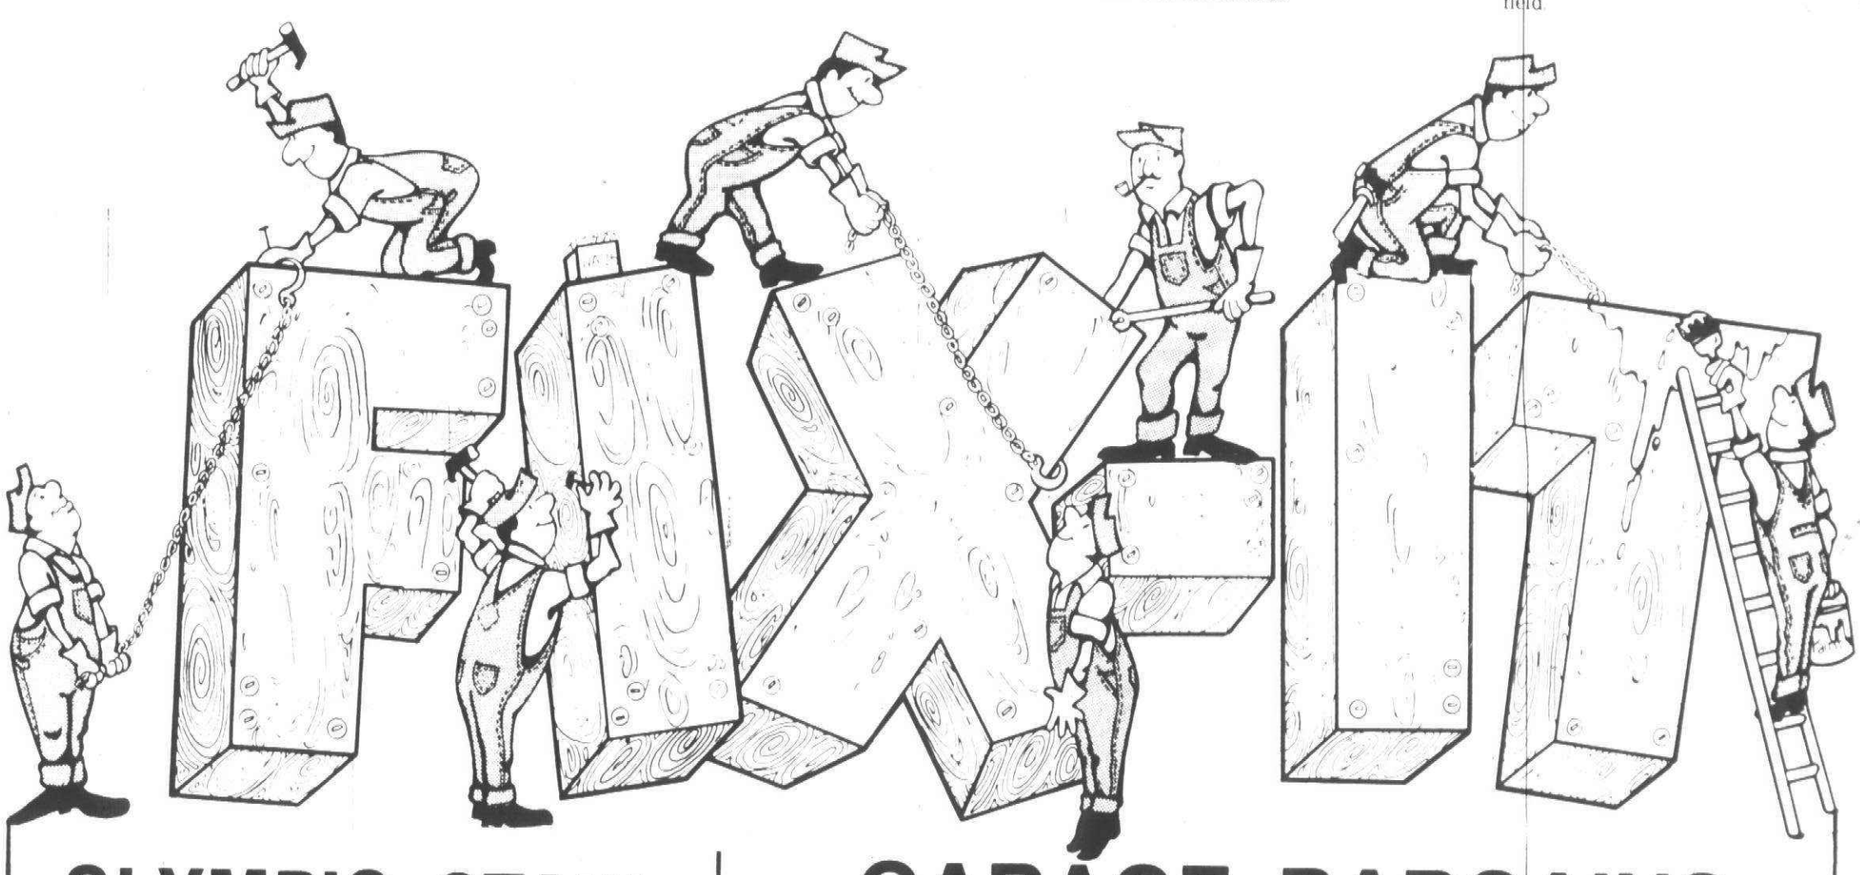

The Merchants' ace, Scott Dawson, gave a gutsy performance against Allen Park. Dawson was ill all week but held off Allen Park after allowing one run in the first inning and two more in the second.

Canton tied the score at 3-3 with three runs in the second inning, before scoring the winning tally in the fifth. Al Lipinski doubled and scored on a two-base error for the victory.

The Merchants registered only three hits, two of which belonged to Lipinski.

Against Southfield, Dawson and Lipinski combined for a two-hit shut out. Lipinski hurled the final four innings for the victory.

The Merchants scored once in the third inning and three more in the fourth to ice the game away. Frank McMurray delivered the big hit in the fourth, a two-run double to left-center field.

11, to win the girls competition, 6-2, 3-6, 6-3. There were 43 girls who enter in this age division, the largest of the tourney.

McNerney, a Dearborn Divine Child junior, has played tennis on-and-off for three years.

Abraham, a sixth grader at St. Michael, has played tennis for one year and this was only her second tournament.

Abraham defeated Plymouth's Sue Smith in the semifinal, 6-4, 6-1. Smith is an eighth grader at Pioneer Middle School. The champion, McNerney downed Plymouth's Beth Baker in the other semifinal, 6-2, 6-2. Baker will be a freshman at Salem High this fall.

DAN RUDGERS of Ann Arbor outclassed a field of 26 men to win in his division. He defeated Ray Maloni in straight sets, 7-5, 6-2. Rudgers held an early 4-0 lead in the first set but had to fight off a comeback effort by Maloni before winning the match.

Maloni, a Canton resident, plans to move to Plymouth later this summer.

Rudgers ousted Larry Cook, 6-1, 6-0, in one semifinal match, while Maloni tripped Bill Sherman by an identical 6-1, 6-0 score in the other semifinal.

THE NOVICE tourney includes all players who have never won a tournament trophy or advanced to the semifinals of another event. Any player with high school or college varsity letters were ineligible.

The tournament was played last Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

By DENNIS O'CONNOR

Tennis anyone?

It's the time of the year, once again, when local tennis buffs from the Plymouth-Canton community invade the area tennis courts in preparation for tournament action.

Last weekend, I was on hand for the annual novice tennis tournament, an event sponsored by the Detroit News in cooperation with the Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department.

In this tourney, more than 100 men, women, boys and girls competed in their respective age categories for trophies and a chance to compete in the novice state tournament later in the month.

The most impressive aspect of this novice event was the turnout of the younger players, where 43 girls and 26 boys entered the event. Some of these youngsters played in this tourney last year, and a majority of the competitors were from the tennis classes held each summer at Central Middle School.

This year's instructor, Tom Williams, not only was the novice tournament director but was also the main force in getting the young players into the tournament.

THE NEXT big tennis tournament is the annual Plymouth-Canton event which involves all residents of the Plymouth-Canton School District.

This tourney consistently offers entertaining tennis year-in and year-out as the best players from this community demonstrate their skills in exciting competition.

This year's Plymouth-Canton Tennis Tournament will be held on the weekend of Aug. 4, 5 and 6 at the Centennial Park courts on Canton Center Road, south of Joy.

Girls, boys, women and men are eligible for one singles category and two doubles categories. Each event entered will cost $2. Trophies will be awarded to the winners and runners-up of each division.

For more information on registration for this tourney, contact the Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department at 455-6620 or look for future notices in the Observer sports pages.

A THIRD TENNIS event in the Plymouth-Canton community is the Osebold Invitational Tennis Tournament to be held at Schoolcraft College on the weekend of Aug. 18, 19, and 20.

Register for fall

Registration for the fall season of the Western Suburban Soccer League will begin at 5 p.m. today and last through Friday, Aug. 4, for all Plymouth, Plymouth Township, and Canton Township residents.

Registration will be held at the Plymouth Cultural Center, 525 Farmer Street, from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday-Friday. Fee is $12 for the first child and $11 for each child thereafter.

Parents who wish to volunteer coaching services this fall will get his or her first child into the program free of charge.

For further information on soccer registration, call the Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department at 455-6620.

Soccer champs

Plymouth's only division champion in the Western Suburban Soccer League this season was a 10-and-under girls squad which included: (top row from left) Stacie Hubbert, Jennifer DeMay, coach Linda Hubbert, Laura Darby and Sandy French. (Bottom row from left) Marcia Rood, Marcy Alvarado, mascot Eric Hubbert, Janet Armstrong and Nikki Stojeba. Team members not pictured include Jackie Huff, Elaine Wurst, Leanne Becker and Missy Bielak. (Staff photo)

Hilltop Roundup

By Betty DeLano

It seems that in the past few weeks, the male secretaries of the golf leagues reported in the Roundup have been more reliable than the women in getting standings to me.

This week I congradulate Rita Heath of the Windsor Park League and Mary Jane Bevelheimer of the Plymouth Women's League for getting their standings to me in time for today's paper.

Starting with the Windsor Park league, the 'A Flight' leader is Sue Moran who shot a 52 to beat Diane Scheerhorn who had a 53. Low score in the 'B Flight' was Pat Thibert with 58 followed by Aileen Theakston who shot a 62.

A three-way tie in the 'C Flight' found Kit Scarbrough, Marge Wdowiak and Mary Murray all at 69. Marcia Bertrand and Crystal Boyd led the 'D Flight' with 77s.

Barb Grant still leads the 'A Flight' of the Plymouth Women'n League with 45 points. Mary Jo LaBeau holds first in the 'B Flight' with 42. Marlene Tipi is first in the 'C Flight' with 48 and Madonna Nadeau holds the top ponition in the 'D Flight' with 46.

The contest for the week was low putts. Karen Todd of the 'A Flight' took the honor with only 13. Diane Millard had a good round last week, as she took all 10 points from her opponent.

In the Friday Night Scotch Doubles league, Marion and Gene DePriest are back into first place in the 'A Flight' with 91 points. Judy and Jim Stephens dropped into second with 89 and George and Jane Todd hold third at 85. Below them are Charlie and Marguerite Clark (81) and Roger and Shirley Strong (77).

'B Flight' leaders Anne Buie and Al Flower are still going strong with 101 points. Tom and Sue Moran follow with 87 points. Keeping the race for second place a tight one are Pearl and Gene Byrne at 85. Red and Fran Chavey (78) follow the Byrne's, while Tom and Diane VanHoose (76) hold fifth place.

Rita and Jerry Heath have taken a firm hold on first in the 'C Flight' with 96 points. Andy and Gretchen Telek dropped to second with 91 and JoAnne and Bob Hollenbeck have 83 for third. Steve and Diane Scheerhorn (77) are followed by Irv and Valoise Burns at 75.

Still in first place of the 'D Flight' are Fran and Art Esper with 97 Charlie and Ann Waite are second with 90 points. In the third-place position are Tom and Pat Micunek at 82. Tom and Cathy Piasta have 76, and Gary and Leslie Warrow hold 75 points.

The Derby Bar has got a strong hold on first place in the Plymouth Businessmen's League with 40 points. Mel's Golden Razor has taken second all by themselves, as Hilltop Glen has dropped to fifth. The Razor team has 34 points. Johnston Insurance holds 31 and Evenson Shell has 30½. Hilltop has 29.

The Michigan T-Cats hold 28½, Team 4- 27, Parker-Hannifin-24, H & B Carpets, Plymouth Office Supply and Sam's Barber Shop are all tied at 21½. Merriman Insurance has 20½.

Griffin belts Westland

With a powerful hitting attack, Griffin belted Westland in both ends of an Adray League baseball doubleheader last weekend, 7-4 and 22-3.

Brent Erickson reaped the pitching victory in the opener and Calvin Beer sustained the defeat. Both went the distance.

Griffin broke open what had been a close battle with a four-run uprising during the fourth inning.

Rob Taraskavage singled, Steve Morman doubled and Mark Galasso was hit by a pitch to load the bases. John Massab singled home two runs and, following an error, Collins singled home two more.

Griffin had scored one run in the first inning and added two more in the fifth. Westland counted two runs during the fourth inning and two in the seventh.

Everything seemed to fall into place for Griffin during the second game. During five innings of play, Griffin scored 22 runs on 21 hits.

Westland produced one run during the top half of the first inning, but after that, it was all Griffin. The winners retaliated with six runs in the first inning, seven in the second, eight in the third and one in the fourth.

Collins had a perfect 4-4 performance in the second game with four RBIs. Ken Scarpace and Taraskavage each slashed three hits and Ron Colone, Dennis Rusiewski, Murphy and Morman all contributed two hits.

Taraskavage and Doug Smith each knocked in three runs.

Erickson was the winning pitcher, Greg Temple the loser.

In The Pocket

By W.W. EDGAR

The American Bowling Congress has created what might cause a bit of a furor during the coming season by changing the rules regarding lane finishes.

Last season, in an effort to eliminate what was termed blocking to produce high scores, the ABC ruled that the lane finish had to be distributed evenly from gutter to gutter.

Now, after it was found that the lane finish broke down after 15 games and disappeared almost entirely after 30 games, the rule has been changed to permit building up a peak along the ball track and have it slope evenly toward both gutters.

Most bowlers have little idea of the struggle over lane finishes. It is only the all-stars who protest and those who brought about the so-called blocking for high scores.

With the new rule, it has been charged that the permission to build up the conditioner along the ball track, will bring about more blocking than ever.

WHILE NONE of the bowling establishment proprietors will discuss the matter openly, it has been rumored that the proprietors, tiring of being told by the ABC how to conduct their business and the actual conditioning of the lanes, soon will set up its own research center and deal directly with the manufacturers.

WHAT IS THE LOWEST single game score a bowler can have and still roll a 700 series?

The answer is 100, which then would read 100, 300, 300—700.

This has never been done, but a chap named Ernie Bronson in Lawton, Okla., came closest, according to ABC records, last week, when he opened with a 109 game, then rolled 23 strikes in a row to post games of 300 and 299 for a 708 series.

WHAT CERTAINLY must be a record was announced this week when the ABC let it be known that the schedule for its 1979 tournament in Tampa, which doesn't open until next February, has already been filled, along with a week's extension.

It is the first time the schedule has been filled this early.

WESTLAND BOWL is rapidly becoming known as the highest scoring establishment in the western suburbs.

Throughout the league season, scores are consistently high and now the summer bowlers are toppling the pins at a great rate.

To pace the high scoring during the past week in the men's trio league Bob Jawor posted a 719. He opened with a 224, followed with a 236 and closed with a 251.

Behind him in the scoring jamboree was Dave Conti, had games of 269 and 235 in 683. Third position went to Dave Knotts with a 680 that included games of 226 and 255. Len Smith wound up in the fourth spot with a 277 in 673 and Mike Lee was fifth with counts of 225 and 246 in 665.

The winning trio included Conti, Lee and Rich Bonell, who contributed a 633.

Jean Martin again was high among the women with a 220 in 549.

PEGGY McCLELLAND and Toots McKinney shared high honors in the handicap leagues at Woodland Lanes.

McClellandm who carries a 142 average, rolled games of 199, 166 and 154 for a 514 in the Ladies Foursome league. Mc Kinney, carrying a 153 average in the Morning Glories League, also had a 519 that came on games of 176, 163 and 180.

Coaching jobs galore

Redford Union and Redford Bishop Borgess have several coaching postions open for the upcoming school year and are looking for qualified candidates to fill those postions as soon as possible.

Open postions at RU include the head and assistant boy's basketball coaches, the head and assistant boys' track coaches, the head and assistant baseball coaches and the head wrestling coach.

"We are looking for qualified people to fill the postions. We want candidates interested in coaching. However, there are no teaching jobs available," said RU's new athletic director, Bob Atkins.

To apply for the postions, contact Atkins at RU (535-2000 ext. 257), 9 a.m. to noon, or at 626-4965.

Borgess is looking for a girls' track coach, a boys' wrestling coach and a freshman girls' basketball coach.

To apply, contact Ralph Owens at Borgess (255-1100) or at 459-0549.

IT'S SLIDE TIME

What do you like best about the place you call your hometown? The fourth of July parade? Picnics on the patio? Or the last? Autumn leaves in huge golden piles or fresh fallen snow sparkling in the sun.

You've probably been moved many times in the past year to grab your camera and record a beautiful, comical or unique moment.

Those are the moments we're looking for. The ones that say "suburbia."

"LIFE IN THE SUBURBS" is the theme of our color photo contest. Makes no difference if you are a Sunday snapper or a professional photographer, how old you are, or where you live. As long as your picture was taken in the last year, is a color slide, and has been taken in our circulation area, you qualify as a contestant.

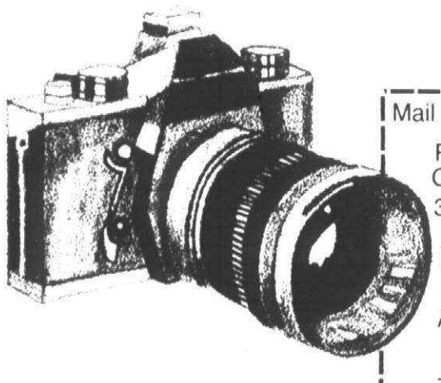

You get two shots at winning — your slides may be of two different subjects, but be sure to mark them clearly with your name and the name of the community they represent.

First place winners will walk into World Camera and Sound and choose $100 worth of photographic equipment. Second prize is a $75 certificate and third prize is a $40 gift certificate. Three $10 gift certificates will go to those who earn honorable mention.

What are the editors and photographers who will judge the contest looking for? Composition, originality, how typical your entry is of suburban lifestyle and how well your slides will reproduce on the front page of your hometown newspaper. (Helpful hint: The brighter your colors, the better)

So haul out your slides, sit the family down and choose a couple of bright, colorful goodies that say "hometown" in a way that will put a gift certificate in your pocket.

Deadline for entries: JULY 31, 1978
