Totals change in official tally

The Canton Township primary election is official.

The board of canvassers certified vote tallies Thursday night. And, while the official count won't make winners out of any of the losers, the final tally in three races was different than the figures released to the public election

Thursday's certification went off without a hitch. It was quite a contrast to the 1976 certification count which was incomplete because totals in the absentee ballot precinct did not match with the number of voters registered to vote in that precinct.

Precinct workers in the absentee precinct made the mistake of casting their own votes on machines that were only to be used to tabulate paper, absentee ballots. A subsequent request for a recount was impossible because of this human error.

Maria Falkiewicz, a newcomer to Canton politics who pulled off an upset by unseating incumbent treasurer Anne Bradley in the bid for the Democratic nomination, gained 35 votes in the certification check. The final tally showed that she beat Mrs. Bradley 1,412 votes to 1,239. Mrs. Falkiewicz will face the Republican nominee for treasurer, James Donahue, in the general election Nov.

Carol Bodenmiller, the second-highest vote-getter in the Democrat race for two trustee positions, lost two votes in the certification check. Final tallies show that she picked up 1.134 votes instead of 1,136 as previously reported. The new figure does not affect her standing in the race.

Sally Mundo picked up another 10 votes in her unsuccessful write-in bid for the second trustee spot on the Republican side of the ballot. She officially received 21 votes, not 11, but it is still not enough to win her a place on the November ballot. Write-in candidates in a primary must receive 15 per cent of the announced candidate's vote

For the record, two other write-in candidates for trustee appeared on the Republican side of the ballot surfaced in the certification check. In addition to Robert Binkowski and Donald Ferguson, who got a single vote apiece, Ronald Adpat and Barbara Percha each received one vote.

And six write-in candidates turned up in the race for constable, a non-voting position in the township.

OFFICIAL RESULTS are:

Supervisor-Noel Culbert, 1,663 Harold Stein, 1,077 on the Democratic side of the ticket and 547 votes for John Longridge, Republican candidate for supervisor in the November election.

Clerk-Democrat John Flodin, unopposed in either party, 1,720 votes.

Treasurer—Democrats Maria Falkiewicz, 1,412 votes; Anne Bradley, 1,239. Republican nominee James Donahue, 544 votes.

Stein mum on his plans for future

"I feel like someone has taken a big stone from around my neck," said a relaxed Supervisor Harold Stein the day after he was defeated at the polls.

"I don't know what I'm going to do after my term expires. But I'm not worried about it either.

Last Tuesday, Stein lost the Democratic nomination for supervisor to Canton attorney Noel Culbert by an overwhelming margin.

BUT STEIN SAYS he has not let the election results get him down.

"I made my position very clear on how I looked at things," said Stein as he toyed with a pencil on his desk. "If that's not what the people want, why should I want to serve?

Stein maintains, however, that his ouster is not a clear mandate from the majority of Canton residents. Less than 23 per cent of Canton's registered voters turned up at the polls last Tuesday.

"Some people called me up after the election and said they didn't vote because they thought I had it made." Stein said.

Stein will sit in the supervisor's chair for the last time on Nov. 20.

THE OUSTED OFFICIAL says he will probably take a long vacation after his term ends and then will start to plan his future

Republican nominee Gary Roberts received 540 votes while unsuccessful Republican write-in candidates received the following: Sally Mundo, 21 votes; Robert Binkowski, 1; Donald Ferguson, 1; Ronald Adpat, 1; and Barbara Percha, 1.

The two Democratic constables nominated in the primary and unopposed in the general election are Irene Murphy with 1,268 votes and Jack Blevins with 1,183. Democrat Sam Natoli came in third place with 774 votes Democratic write-in candidate Timothy Murphy picked up 31 votes for constable. Republican write-in candidates receiving a single vote apiece included S. Boucher, Clifford Chilson, C. Andrews, Harold Winter, D. LaFramboise, and D. LaFramboise, Jr.

PROPOSITIONS on the ballot were officially certified too. The civil service question passed by a vote of 2,076

The one-mill library levy was rejected by a vote of 1,901 to 1,111.

Three of the four members of the Canton Township Board of Canvassers certified the election. Democrats Vern Rorabacher and John L. Blumenshine signed the official tally and Ralph Burch represented the Republican party. The fourth member of the board of canvassers, Republican Floyd Fulford, is recuperating from cancer treatment and could not make an appearance.

olitics is a revolving

By DARLENE STINSON

Politicians come and politicians go. The revolving door of Canton politics has apparently swung around again.

Just two years ago, former Supervisor Robert Greenstein took what he then called a permanent exit from Canton politics after narrowly losing a write-in campaign for township supervisor.

Last Tuesday, voters did it again. Stein and his teammates were shooed away by a substantial vote margin, while Greenstein and the ideas he represents won an overwhelming primary STEIN'S DEFEAT at the polls last Tuesday can partially be attributed to the criticisms directed at the supervisor from all directions in the primary campaign.

Candidates have admitted to ganging up on the incumbent supervisor for the sole purpose of removing Stein

But Tuesday's Democratic primary results may also mean that a substantial segment of Canton voters are tired of the views that Stein

Republican candidates all ran unopposed and were assured a spot on the November ballot. Although Greenstein has stepped back into the political arena as a trustee candidate, the former supervisor represents many views that Stein opposes.

Greenstein strongly endorses the preservation of farmland; Stein has taken a lukewarm position on that issue. Greenstein engineered the township's strict sign ordinance and opposes a proposed revision to the sign law that Stein endorses. Greenstein favors a much tougher position with home builders than Stein has taken. Greenstein and some other candidates have accused the present administration of spending too much township money for such purchases as the Fellow Creek Golf Course and for industrial park land.

Voters gave Greenstein 1,433 votes to make him the top vote-getter in the five-way Democratic race for two trustee seats. Greenstein received 356 more votes in a five-way race for two trustee nominations than Stein did in the two-man race for the Democratic supervisor nomination.

Carol Bodenmiller, a member of what was once known as the Greenstein camp, also received a higher tally in the Democratic trustee race than Stein did in the supervisor's race. She won 1,136 votes to make her the second top vote-getter in the Democratic trustee primary.

Ironically, this year's Democrat nominee for supervisor- Noel Culbert-campaigned for Stein and against Greenstein in the 1976 election. In 1976, Culbert withdrew his support for the incumbent supervisor. In the primary, he launched an anti-Stein campaign. Culbert received 66 per cent of the analysis

Democratic votes cast for supervisor or 1,663 votes to Stein's 1,077. Culbert admits, however, that many votes he received on his tally probably reflects more of an anti-Stein than pro-Culbert sentiment.

The same could possibly be true of Maria Falkiewicz's success in the Democratic primary. She narrowly beat incumbent Treasurer Anne Bradley-one of Stein's teammatesfor the treasurer nomination.

In November, Falkiewicz will face Republican treasurer candidate Jim Donahue who was Greenstein's campaign manager in the 1976 election.

THE LOW VOTER turnout last Tuesday probably did not help Stein in his bid for reelection. Residents often do not bother to vote if they are satisfied with current government policies.

Nevertheless, Stein succeeded in carrying only four of the township's 17 The incumbent supervisor carried the absentee precinct by a substantial majority of votes and took the nomination in his home precinct-in the southeastern corner of the township-by a two-to-one margin.

He won a substantial victory in precinct six—an area that includes Royal Holiday Mobile Home Park near Koppernick and the township's eastern boundary. Stein also beat Culbert by one vote in Precinct 11 where Honey Tree and Stoneybrooke apartments are located.

Some precincts that opted for Stein in 1976 went for Culbert and Greenstein last Tuesday.

Voters changed their political alignment in Precinct 3 where Holiday Park Subdivision is located; Precinct 9, bounded by Ford, Cherry Hill and Lilley; and Precinct 14, located between Joy, Ford, Lilley and the C&O Railroad.

Stein even lost the support of voters in rural Precinct two in the southwestern portion of the township.

In 1976, voters there gave Stein 554 votes to Greenstein's 77 and Peter Bundarin's 201 in the three-way supervisor race.

At the time, many farmers were enraged at Greenstein's proposal to preserve their farms by lowering their tax rates and zoning their land for agricultural purposes. They wanted to be reimbursed for the development rights they would lose. Stein promised 'just compensation' for farmers.

Shortly before the election, Greenstein begain researching ways to purchase farmers' development rights.

Last Tuesday, however, Precinct 2 voters gave the Democratic nominations to Culbert and Greenstein. They did support two Stein slate candidates, however-incumbent Treasurer Bradley and trustee candidate Frank McMurray.

Stein also lost out in Canton's two other western precincts— numbers eight and 16.

Here's the precinct-by-precinct breakdown of results in last Tuesday's primary election. Greenstein's loss in Precinct 6 may be explained by campaign literature distributed by Greenstein's foes to mobile home owners during the 1976

Peppy' will turn 21 in his birthday suit

Peppy isn't cooperating with the photographer but the mere fact that he's consented to wear a birthday hat is enough to ask of a 21-year-old dog. On his birthday, he'll receive the best bone his family can find. They figure it's the least they can do for the old guy. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

By W.W. EDGAR

Remember the old song, "Love Makes the World Go Round"

Well it does more than that. Properly passed along, it allows dogs, especially poodles, to live to ripe old ages.

One of the best examples of what love and tender care can do is Peppy, a large black-haired poodle that is approaching his 21st birthday and is the pride and joy of the Owston family at 7320 Admiralty, Canton Township.

The Owstons and their three daughters-Susan, Cheryl and Debby-are planning an unusual birthday party and expect to have all the dogs in the neighborhood, some of whom are regarded as Peppy's "cousins," as

"And we are going to have a big bone for Peppy," says Barbara

"He loves bones and when a dog reaches the age of 21 he's entitled to the best bone we can get."

WAYNE, WHO is employed at Detroit Metropolitan Airport, purchased the dog when he lived in Detroit with his family. As he tells it, "He has been like a brother to me all these years.

The Owstons think the dog is the oldest canine in the area, but even the veterinarians are not certain.

Dr. Richard Smith, a Plymouth Township veterinarian, said it is one of the oldest he has ever heard about.

"When you figure that one year of a dog's life is equal to seven of a human being," he said, "then you can realize that the Owston dog is 147 years old. And that is most unusual.

Dr. Richard Kirchgatter of the Canton Veterinary Clinic has treated Peppy from time to time. He claims it is one of the oldest dogs he ever has heard about.

"While he has the usual ailments that come with old age, Peppy has an unusually strong heart. And that is what keeps him going.

But the Owstons attributed Peppy's old age to something else.

"Tender, loving care," Mrs. Owston said. "He's always been treated like one of us.

"In return he has given us plenty of entertainment. You see, among other things, Peppy is a born actor. He walks sideways and at a 45 degree angle when he starts his show. And once in a while he plays dead. He'll curl up and then lie still on the floor. When we attempt to pick him up he soon jumps up and comes to life. But he's a real actor

PEPPY IS unusual for more reasons than his age. Despite the loving care he gets from everyone in the family. he is partial to Wayne and Cheryl, the tallest of the girls.

"He's at his best when he acts as the judge of the girls' boy friends." Mrs. Owston smiled. "No sooner do they arrive than he inspects them and then we can tell by his actions which of them merits his approval. Yes, he's quite an actor.'

"Another thing." Owston pointed out. "is that Peppy is peculiar about travelling. Ordinary dogs don't like to leave home, but he just loves to visit my parents in Sterling Heights. And he lets us know when he would like to make the trip. Talk about a brother. He's just like one.

There is only one thing that bothers the family and its relations with the

"The only joy he missed in life." Mrs. Owston confided, "is that he never has had the joy of being the father of a litter of puppies. He takes his job in life by being a pal and pet to all of us, especially Wayne who bought him when he was 8 weeks old.

Summer isn't over, but: You'll want to circle Saturday, Sept. 9, on your calendar. The third bike day of the year will draw thousands of twowheelers and many hikers to the Hines Parkway in western Wayne County.

From 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., no motor vehicles will be allowed on an 11 1/2mile stretch of the Hines from Ford Road in Dearborn to Haggerty Road in Plymouth Township.

The Wayne County Road Commission notes that parking will be prohibited in the park, so it's suggested you ride your bike to the scene. Refreshments can be obtained along the route. Pedestrian and rider picnics also will

And if you're the type who likes to plan way, way in advance, the fourth and final bike day will be Oct. 14.

WALLEYE FISHING is almost the only kind of game fishing that's attracting any attention these hot August days.

DNR officers report walleye anglers are doing well off shore from Sterling State Park down Monroe way. Good to excellent walleye fishing is reported in the St. Clair River and Harsen's Island channels.

Most are being taken during the day by chugging with minnows and worms or drifting with a crawler harness.

Muskie, northern pike and bass fishing reports are generally on the fair to poor side.

For those of us who aren't too snobbish about the scrappy little bluegill, now's the time to take them. Fish deep, on the edge of a dropoff, early in the morning or just before sunset.

Crickets are the August bait for 'gills, but they're harder and harder to find commercially. Bait dealers are having trouble getting them, and the cost is up.

On the western side of the state, oldtimers used to use a caterpillar-ish creature called a catalpa worm-a reen critter that you had to cut in half and turn inside-out. It sounds, and was, gruesome, but the 'gills sure loved 'em.

POORLY maintained septic tanks and use of lawn fertilizers.

That can be the formula for tour trouble in northern Michigan inland lakes, according to the University of Michigan's biological station at Pellston.

Folks want cottages, and they want nice lawns. They also don't like what they call "swamps" but which biologists call "wetlands.

The U-M operates Project CLEAR, which stands for Community Lake Environment Awareness and Research. It's trying to tell folks how to maintain their septic systems, not selling the idea of regional sewers.

Especially interesting is their pamphlet on Lakeland Reports, which describes the role of wetlands.

Lakes and streams are protected by those wetlands. Their vegetation removes sediment and damaging nutrients from the water flow. Wetlands provide temporary water storage basins, a protection against floods after storms.

And wetlands are breeding grounds for ducks and many species of food for

An onion-orange snack?

By W. W. EDGAR -

Although you won't find it listed with the special events on your favorite calendar, the papers carried an item the other day saying this is national sandwich month

The Stroller sat there reading it while enjoying his eye-opening cup of coffee and learning that it was the Earl of Sandwich who started the fad of separating two slices of bread with a combination of your choice. Some of the many sandwich combinations that he had seen-and even helped to prepare-along life's journey came to mind.

It just so happens that The Stroller was helping to prepare sandwiches long before the hamburger was ever heard of; when no one believed that anything could ever supplant the hot dog

In those days when The Stroller was a lad in knee britches, his parents operated a lunch counter. It was a small place with only six stools, a counter and a three-burner gas stove. And he recalls the day they purchased their first coffee perculator. It was a fancy affair and made six cups of the brew. Folks used to order coffee just to watch this silver attraction perculate.

The fad then was the hot dog. At first it was the frankfurter placed between two pieces of bread. Then came the fad of spreading mustard from one end to the other. In fact the mustard became so popular that The Stroller's dad was seriously thinking of charging for it. He never did tack on the charge, but the mustard bill sure cut into the

LIKE IN ANY SMALL town, the various businessmen liked to support each other. So there was scarcely a day when the owner of the old butcher shop didn't drop in and have his hot dog.

To return the favor, The Stroller's dad used to visit the butcher and purchase gound meat-sometimes several pounds. He would take some of it home for us youngsters. But he always kept some at the shop for himself.

Eventually my father got tired of looking at hot dogs. For his dinner, he began taking a handful of ground meat and make a patty of it. He then would fry it.

One evening, a customer came in and Dad hurriedly placed the hamburger patty between two slices of bread and ate it. The customer spotted it. He wanted a duplicate. Soon the ground steak between two slices of bread became popular. Could that have been the start of the hamburger fad that has swept the country for years?

Among our many customers was a fellow who always wanted to be different. He asked for a slice of Spanish onion to be placed over the ground steak. This was something different. Soon others followed. Then one night he asked that the onion be diced, pressed in to the patty and then fried Now this was a tasty dish. To this day this is The O Stroller's favorite hamburger.

The combination of hamburger and onion wasn't the only thing this unusual customer started. During the winter when oysters were in season, there was seldom a night that he didn't order oyster stew. This was common, for most of the men used to enjoy a stew after coming downtown to get the baseball scores (this was before the days of

FOR A LONG TIME no one paid much attention to him, but he had a most unusual taste. He wasn't satisfied with the oyster stew until he poured almost a half bottle of catsup in to it. Bystanders would look and then shake their heads. How could anyone enjoy an oyster stew that was half catsup?

But that was not all. The big surprise and shock came one evening when The Stroller's mother was behind the counter. She had baked several pies that afternoon and mentioned to this unusual customer that she had some great Dutch apple pie awaiting him. He took it. And would you believe it, he poured catsup all over the top crust. Mother turned her back and brushed away a tear. She just couldn't stand the sight of catsup on her favorite

But the biggest shock was still to come.

One evening, after looking over the baseball scores, he ordered an egg sandwich on toast and asked that a slice of Spanish onion be placed over the fried egg. Unusual? It was in those days.

Our most unusual customer then reached the epitome of unusual sandwiches. When he took a seat at the counter, The Stroller's Dad was ready to prepare the egg and onion sandwich. But the customer halted him.

He said he wanted something different. He didn't want a hot sandwich. This time he ordered toast with a slice of orange and placed the Spanish onion, about one quarter inch thick, over the Something different? It sure was. If you don't think so, just try it sometime. It isn't a bad combination. It may be good enough to enter in a sandwich contest. But don't say The Stroller told you.

Engrave goods One of the old adages that seems to stand up to the facts is that "crime never takes a holiday. In Canton Township this month, cat burglars have struck 25 homes, relieving sleeping residents of TVs, stereos, a shotgun and $900 in cash from in purses left out in plain view. Plymouth police reported three breaking and entering incidents last week.

Greektown is a Mediterranean gem in a Detroit setting.

By day the sun casts a bright spell on both sides of the street, with its narrow sidewalks and colorful storefronts. Gift and souvenir shops, groceries and bakeries, restaurants and cafes lure city dwellers, downtown-area workers, tourists and suburbanites to Monroe Street, just west of I-75.

At night, neon signs beckon visitors to enter and enjoy the activities of this small, thriving community. The Greek heritage that has been retained makes Monroe a magnet in Detroit's downtown Greektown, one block from police headquarters on Beaubien, is always well-policed by officers who enjoy the vibrant street.

YOU CAN TAKE in Greektown at a glance by standing on the corner, facing Beaubien and Monroe. On the right, the first thing you see is a blue and white sign showing a Grecian facade and telling you that this is Greektown.

On the left side of the street, you can enter Delmar Foods of the World through its three-dimensional Grecian facade topped by a turquoise awning that reads "Grecian Boutique."

Inside, women shoppers browse at the souvenir jewelry counter and import clothing boutique. Greek fisherman hats of denim and braid are on sale for $10

At lunchtime, during the week, you can select your own Greek bread or fat rolls in the grocery section and have a sandwich made to order; meanwhile, you can eye the cheese, olives and other Greek specialties in the meat-market cases.

Back on the street, you can continue your journey down both sides, coming closer to the spires of St. Mary's Church across Monroe. In the church, noontime worshippers slip into the pews, and a jingling breaks the silence when a young mother comes in with her daughter, whose baby shoes have bells on them.

AT NOONTIME during the week, Greektown is jammed with people hurrying into such favorite restaurants as the Grecian Gardens or New Hellas Cafe, to enjoy shishkebob, souvlaki and many other Greek dishes.

Plymouth all-stars take 3 of 4 from Canton

DENNIS O'CONNOR

The Plymouth all-stars took three of four games from their Canton opponents at the second-annual slow-pitch softball event at Massey Field Friday night.

Plymouth won the men's 'A', men's 'C' and women's all-star games, while Canton managed to capture the men's 'B' contest.

In the finale of the four-game evening, Plymouth's 'A' team used its overwhemling offensive power to clout Canton 10-5.

Canton jumped off to a 3-0 lead with two runs in the first inning and one more in the fourth. Little Caesar's Steve Trahey hit a solo home run for Canton's fourth-inning tally.

Plymouth came roaring back in the bottom of the fourth inning, scoring six runs to take control of the game. Puckett Plumbing's Mike Yockey drove home Plymouth's first two runs with a single. Pete Woodard of Massey Cadillac smacked a three-run homer later in the inning to make it 5-3. Sun Plastic's Bill Baughman followed with a solo blast, his first of two for him in the game, to make it 6-3.

Canton scored its final two runs in the top of the fifth inning to draw withing one run, 6-5, but a two-run homer by Woodard and Baughman's second round-tripper iced the game away.

Massey's Brian Gilles was the winning pitcher, hurling an eight-hitter in going the distance.

CANTON had no problem winning the 'B' game, breezing past Plymouth, 12-2. Canton scored once in the first, three times in the second, twice in the third and fourth innings, once in the fifth, and three more times in the sixth to ensure the victory away. Plymouth scored its only two runs in the second Canton's John Korpus from Ovidon led his team's offensive attack with three hits. Canton amassed 17 hits in the contest to only five for Plymouth.

THE MOST EXCITING all-star game proved to be the 'C' Division match-up where Plymouth rallied with six runs in the sixth inning and five more in the seventh to pull out a 15-11 triumph over a stunned Canton squad.

Canton outhit Plymouth 18-14, as it held what seemed to be a comfortable 11-4 lead after five inning before the roof fell in. Canton's Deam Munger from S & M Management was the game's top hitter with four singles. Metro Bolt & Fastener's Vince Gainor added three hits and scored three runs for the losers.

IN A LOW scoring but well-played defensive battle, the Plymouth women edged the Canton women, 6-4 in the first game of the evening. Although Canton outhit Plymouth, 11-8, the winners made every hit count

Plymouth held an early 3-0 lead with one run in the first inning and two more in the top of the third stanza. Canton pulled within one run, 3-2, with two tallies in the bottom of the third inning.

Plymouth put the game away with two runs in the fifth inning and one more in the sixth, making the score 6-2. Canton scored its final two runs in the bottom of the sixth.

The all-star games marked the first time all four divisions from both leagues battled each other. Last season, only the 'A' Division star competed with Plymouth pulling out a narrow 8-7 victory in extra innings.

The event was co-sponsored by the Canton and Plymouth Parks and Recreation Departments.

For a sport to become popular in this country, people must be able to relate to the activity through understanding what an athlete does to strive for success.

One of the simplest ways any person can relate to a sport is to participate in the activity. So, if a sport strives to ignite interest in a community. children must be trained and taught how to play, understand and enjoy the activity.

One such training program in the Plymouth-Canton community involves tennis instruction at Central Middle School. The program, which includes boys and girls of all ages, is taught by West Middle School teacher Tom Williams, Williams, a junior varsity tennis coach at Plymouth Canton High School, also has help from Curt Schultz, last spring's top singles player at Plymouth Salem High School

Both men have taught privately in the past but decided to try group instruction this summer through the continuing education offices.

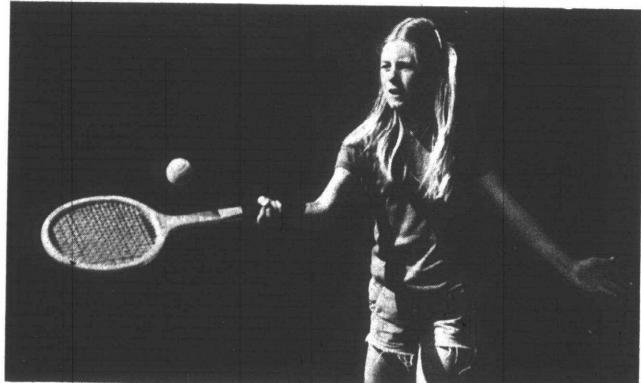

As in any teaching or learning experience, it has its good and bad times. Both instructors admit, however, it has been a rewarding experience to see young beginners develop tennis skills and year-olds in the beginners classes), it's really neat to see their ability develop along with positive self confidence," Williams said. "And that keeps coming back all the time.

Crespo, Bloom prevail

Ken Bloom and Becky Crespo took less than an hour to defeat Kathy Horton and Bill Nelson, 6-0, 6-3, in the mixed doubles championship of the Plymouth-Canton Tennis Tournament Friday afternoon

The mixed double affair was the last match of the local tourney event.

Bloom's strong service and Crespo's timely net play was the difference in the finale, as the two Plymouth Salem High School stars overwhelmed their opponents.

Bloom and Crespo capitalized on three service breaks to breeze through the first set. Nelson and Horton made things closer in the second set, however, breaking Bloom's strong service in the sixth game to make it 3-3. Bloom and Crespo then took the final three games and the match.

All four players received trophies for their efforts. It was the second first-place trophy for Crespo and Bloom. Earlier, Bloom won the men's singles competition, while Crespo teamed with Horton for the women's doubles title.

Horton already won two first-place trophies with her women's doubles victory and a split set triumph over Crespo in the women's singles event. Bloom is a former Plymouth Salem net star who competed at Henry Ford

Community College the past two

Crespo and Horton are teammates on the Plymouth Salem girls' tennis team. Nelson served as an adult tennis instructor this past summer for Plymouth Continuing Education.

Daly tops women's league

Daly Drive-In finished in first place after regular season action in the Plymouth Women's Slow-Pitch Softball League.

The veteran Daly squad ended the season with a 13-1 record, one game better than second-place American Community. Little Caesar and Box Bar finished in a tie for third place with indentical 7-7 records.

These top four teams in the eightmember league begin post season playoff action tonight. The doubleelimination event, which takes place at the Plymouth Canton High School and Massey diamonds, includes a sponsor's trophy for the winner.

First-round action pits Daly against Box Bar while American Community faces Little Caesar. Opening round games are at the Canton diamond starting at 6:15 p.m.

The final standings in the Plymouth league are as follows:

Dawson gets mentioned

Phil Sahara's face is reddened from spending summer days outside watching baseball games.

His prized possession is a bleacher

"It stops splinters and saves pants from wearing out," he explained.

For 18 years, Sahara has been scouting Michigan high school and youth baseball leagues for the Los Angeles

During most of spring and summer he'll watch two games each day. Right now, with post-season tournaments going on, Sahara and other pro scouts try to watch four games per day.

He was watching the Birmingham Lynch and Sons team win the Connie Mack District Tournament in Pontiac last week.

"I have to kick Floyd (Lasser, the Lynch team manager) to get rosters," Sahara said. "He comes to a game with one roster. I said, 'Great. Now give me a knife and I'll cut it up between the five of us scouts'.

Sahara had added some information to his roster, including each player's position, school, year in school, batting order and which hand each player throws and bats with

"WHAT WE'RE LOOKING for now is someone who has another year of high school," Sahara said, "and we'll put a follow on him.

'Here's a player,'' Sahara explained, "Scott Dawson, first base. He has another year at Canton High School and he also pitches. I am going to put a follow on him.'

A "follow" means Sahara will write to Canton High School for next year's baseball schedule. Next spring Sahara will take another look at Dawson.

There were some other players on the Birmingham Lynch and Sons team who impressed Sahara, but he refused to name any more players because he didn't want to point out his picks to other scouts

Sahara has found some good talent for the Dodgers in Michigan. Top among his finds is Steve Garvey, who has gone on to be a most valuable player with the Dodgers.

Other Sahara finds are Ted Sizemore of the St. Louis Cardinals and iom Paciorek, now with the Seattle

From his roster, Sahara will rate each player on the teams he scouts. He grades prospects in four categories: arm (throwing); speed (running quickness), batting and fielding.

"Whenever a kid excels in one category it's a plus," Sahara said. "If the pluses outweigh the minuses, we put a follow on him. "If a kid is outstanding and not fully developed we recommend him to a college and put a follow on him," Sahara said. "If we sign a kid too early and he gets cut, then he's inelligible for college baseball and ends up pumping gas.'

A FORMER MINOR league player in the Dodger organization, Sahara is a retired Detroit police officer.

Even though the motels and restaurant food seem the same after awhile, Sahara said he loves every day.

"It's a thrill for me to sign someone and see him go on and make good," Sahara said.

However, this season has not been one of the best.

"This is a lean year," Sahara said. "It seems like kids get out of school and don't play as much, or not as much as I would like to see. It hurts me when I go by a ball diamond and no one is playing, then I know that kids are neglecting their national pas-

Sahara said he was happy to see that Kirk Gibson, football and baseball player at Michigan State University, signed with the Tigers.

"I hate to lose good athletes to other sports," Sahara said. "Kids are going to see that they can make big money playing baseball.

Sahara claims the Dodgers broke the ice with Gibson.

"We were talking to him," Sahara said. "He said he liked baseball, but loved football. We pointed out that even if he hurt his knee, which is a freak accident in baseball, but commonplace in football, he could pinch hit or play first base.

"Then we asked him how much money it would take to get him to forget about football," Sahara said. "Off the top of his head he said $100,000. When he was told that figure was not out of the question, his eyes lit up."

Sahara smiled as he recalled that

On to Johnstown, Pa.

Griffin shellacks Ann Arbor

It's on to Johnstown, Pa. tomorrow for Griffin Sport Shop, to compete for the All-American Amateur Baseball Association national championship.

Griffin qualified by steamrollering Ann Arbor last week in a best-of-three series, 16-2 and 13-5.

Griffin, first-r ace finisher this season in the Livonia Adray League and winner of the Adray League playoffs, is the first Livonia team ever to qualify for the AAABA finals.

The Livonia contingent, managed by Roger Frayer, rides an eight-game winning streak to Johnstown. Sixteen teams will duel in the two-game knockout tourney.

"I'm excited about that-that we're among the top 16 teams in the nation," said Frayer. "I just hope we get a good draw because I really believe that anything can happen.

"We've been hitting the ball real well. I hope our good pitching continues.

Griffin battered Ann Arbor with 33 hits during its two victories. "The kids really exploded. They were fired up to go (to Johnstown)," said Frayer.

"They (Ann Arbor) were a fine, aggressive hitting club. Their pitching was not of the caliber we have faced this year. We ripped some long balls." Griffin slugged 19 hits at Veterans

Jr. baseball sets election

The Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball League will hold its annual election for a new board of directors on Wednesday, Sept. 13.

The election takes place at Plymouth Canton High School, room 100, between 7:30 and 10 p.m. Anyone 18 and older who lives in the Plymouth-Canton community is eligible to vote.

Park in Ann Arbor while recording its second consecutive victory in the series, 16-2. Seven players totalled two or more hits during the rout Ron Colone collected two RBIs with a double and three singles. Scott Collins cracked a two-run homer and a pair of singles. Tim Murphy slammed a three-run homer and two singles.

Mark Galasso, Randy Rodriguez, Steve Morman and Dennis Rusiewski all punched a pair of singles. Tom Zwolan contributed a two-run triple Five Griffin pitchers combined for 15 strikeouts. Bill Bardwell worked the first five innings and retired five on strikes. He was awarded the victory.

"He just pitched an excellent ball game for us," said Frayer. Steve Topalian pitched the sixth inning and struck out all three batters he retired. Art Wendt struck out two in the seventh, Mark Wilkins struck out three in the eighth and Doug Smith sent one batter down on strikes in the ninth inning.

Frayer said he wanted to give all of his healthy pitchers some work once the outcome was obvious so everyone would be ready for Johnstown.

The only hurler who didn't get a chance to pitch was Zwolan, but he had a tender arm and Frayer said he didn't want to risk injury.

Both of Ann Arbor's runs came on solo homers-one in the fifth inning and the other in the eighth.

Rob Taraskavage was Griffin's hitting hero in the 13-5 win over Ann Arbor in the first game.

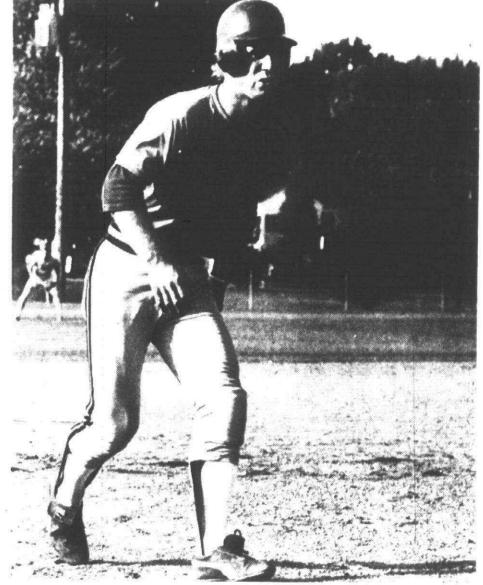

Taraskavage clouted a two-run homer in the fourth inning and a threerun round-tripper in the seventh. Both sailed over the fence in left center field at Ford Field in Livonia.

He also walked three times. Ken Scarpace and Collins each clubbed a double and a single and Morman and Murphy each singled twice. Brent Erickson increased his season pitching record to 7-1 with his mound performance. The righthander struck out 11 and walked four in seven innings of work. Randy Rodriguez retired five on strikes in relief of Erickson during the eighth and ninth innings

White Castle burgers still thrive without frills

By LOUISE OKRUTSKY

With jagged turrets suggesting medieval architecture run amuck, the White Castle's porcelain exterior is still the best advertisement for the hamburgers with the holes.

Unchanged since 1928, when the restaurant designed its buildings along the same lines as the Chicago water tower, the structures are an example of the company's attitude

The folks at the Castle thrive on tradition

While the market is flooded with breakfasts, cartoon-character-inspired food and lots of dressing on double deck hamburgers, the Castle has managed to survive by dishing up a modest-sized burger without frills.

With the exception of introducing frozen and dehydrated foods to the kitchen, the burger has remained the same since 1916, when Walter Anderson realized he had devised a different way to serve hamburgers and waited for the world to beat a path to his

Today, White Castles are scattered across the country, with the Detroit regional office in Farmington Hills.

BUT THOSE GLEAMING emporiums of burgers and fries would have remained stalled as roadside shacks if Anderson hadn't met real estate man E.W. (Billy) Ingram, who was to become the king of the Castles. Anderson sold out his share of the property in 1933, but Ingram kept on adding the turreted fast food restaurants to the American landscape. Today, his son, E. W. (Billy) Ingram Jr., continues the family tradition.

It's a plan that's seen some success. In the Detroit area last year, about 18 million of the burgers were consumed, according to Frank Sliva, area man-

Sliva chalks up the number of sales to the White Castle code.

"We try to serve quality products and hire nice personel," he explained.

The hamburger they serve up is essentially the same as the one Anderson flipped off the grill in 1916. The five holes in the patty are part of the White Castle scheme to make a quick sandwich. The holes allow for even cooking of the meat while relieving the cook of the task of flipping over the burger on the grill.

In fact, Sliva adds, the burger never touches a White Castle grill. A layer of onions shields the patty from the grill's hot metal grids.

THE BUN, made at the company's own bakery, is placed over the patty to absorb the meat's juices. All the products are stored in a 30,000-square-foot warehouse in Farmington Hills.

As for competition, the Castle opts out on royal perogative—the company says it isn't engaged in a commercial race over burger sales.

"We worried about competition years ago," said Silva. "Then we realized we weren't worrying about our own business. So now we're concentrating on business and not thinking about

"We like to think we don't have competition. We serve a good product."

Like other fast food restaurants, the Castle has its share of customers and non-customers who refuse to leave.

"We discourage people from hanging around," said Silva. "But the new units have seating capacity and people like to hang around when they can sit

"Our operators don't have time to encourage them by talking continually," Silva said of loiterers.

NEW CASTLES, like the one in Canton not only are equipped with a dining area but have full basements as well, containing washers and dryers for uniforms.

That's a far cry from the early days of the company when the owners couldn't get long-term leases for the small amount of property their buildings needed.

To solve this little snag, the owners devised a portable castle. The last one in the Detroit area was moved to its present spot on Fort and White in Lincoln Park from Melvindale, several years ago.

Behind those now-stationary counters are employees who work 371/2-hours a week at a starting salary of about $2.75 an hour.

"That (salary) varies because I change it once or twice a year depending on the conditions of the year we're working in," said Silva.

The wage scale varies according to position but all employees get a chance to participate in the company's profit sharing program and benefits.

"Our overall packaging is based on loyalty," said Silva, who started flipping White Castle burgers 32 years ago. "People can work themselves up in this business '

With 11 burger palaces in the area to guard, Silva is eyeing Roseville as the next spot for a Castle.

Troy is another possible location, but Farmington will have to wait for its own set of porcelain turrets. There isn't a spot of land zoned large enough in the area to support a Castle. Investors eye earning ratios

Doubling of price index by '90 projected if inflation continues

By LLOYD SCHWARTZ The Fairchild Syndicate

If the 1968-'78 cost of living increases march up into the future, the government's Consumer Price Index at the end of 1990 will reach about 400, double the present level, and it will double again to about 800 by the year 2001.

"This is not a forecast," says Ewan Clague, former longtime commissioner of labor statistics. "It is a projection to show where the economy is unless steps are taken to control infliation, whatever may be the cost."

Clague illustrates his projections: Where a half-gallon of milk at retail now costs about 85 cents, it would advance to $3.40 by 2001 under continuing inflation. An $100 men's suit would sell for $400.

CLAGUE JOINED Labor Secretary Ray Marshall recently in testimony before a Senate Committee on Aging, considering the implications of the new law raising the private sector retirement age to 70 and eliminating it altogether for federal employees.

Earlier, Health and Welfare Secretary Joseph Califano had raised the specter that private sector workers upon retiring may have their own pension obligations that may interfere with their ability to pay. The trend toward early retirement is another factor of concern in Congress because of its income implications.

Marshall said his department's first major concern is ensuring that older Americans will have the option of continued employment. The department, accordingly, is working on policies to implement the new age discrimination act amendments, even though enforcement responsibility will be transferred to the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission on July 1, 1979.

Marshall is interested in more research on the option of flexible work arrangements for older workers.

OLDER WORKERS should have the chance to ease into retirement-to continue working at rewarding jobs on a part-time or part-year basis, if they prefer, said Marshall

"Employers ideally should provide a full menu of options for the older employee: continued full-time work, regular part-time, temporary callback and consulting relationships," he

Clague, in measuring inflation trends, reported that the outlook for higher productivity is "not very good." The average gain for 1967-77 was just two per cent a year, a substantial drop from the three per cent which prevailed from the Korean War to the outbreak in Vietnam.

Clague's view is that productivity in the private business sector will continue into the 1980s at the two per cent level, with the possibility of some further reduction

Under such assumptions, the system of escalating old age retirement benefits by the CPI contributes to further inflation by increasing consumer

Early retirement, the Senate Aging Committee was told, also may be generating inflation. In 1976, about half of the eligible men and 56 per cent of the eligible women chose the early retire-

"AT INFLATION RATES of seven per cent or more," Clague notes, "the early retiree would get higher benefits after age 65 than the fellow worker who continued working until age 65 and then drew his benefits.

While the trend in private industry is in the direction of earlier retirement. one problem is that a worker retired from one firm or industry can work and earn wages without loss of the

In the auto industry, such early pensions are now payable at age 50. But such early retirement in autos, steel and some other industries are subject to a requirement that the retiree is restrained from earning wages or salaries in any other industry

The former BLS chief says there is little doubt that early retirement plans create a larger financial burden on industry than would be the case if their retirement ages corresponded to those of Social Security.

Clague advocates a more intensive study of the early retirement problem to find out what can be done to bring the situation under control.

MONEY GO ROUND

By BRENDA L. SCHNEIDER

There's a lot of furor today about whether businesses should be allowed to advertise their products on Saturday morning children's television shows because many people feel children are being unduly influenced

This issue again brings to light the need for consumer education for our children.

A child's consumer consciousness begins to develop at a very young age. An example of this is the tiny tot begging mother to buy Cap'n Zorro Fruitgoop cereal. He remembers that the "television told" him that there would be a prize inside the box for him; he doesn't want any other kind.

Children are destined to make purchases the rest of their lives and I believe parents should teach them as much about being a wise consumer as about developing good nutrition habits.

KNOWING THE fundamentals helps your child make better decisions today for even better living tomorrow.

Here are some tips to get you

1. As soon as your child begins to retain what he or she hears and sees on television, talk about the worth of an item being promoted.

If, for instance, it's a toy, on your next shopping trip let your child examine a similar toy as you discuss its

2. If you watch commercials with your children, take time to teach them how to sort out their elements to determine if the item advertised can really live up to the promise. 3. Provide your child with an allow-

Rate increase for CP brings blast by Kelley

Attorney General Frank J. Kelley's reaction to the Public Service Commission's recent approval of a $39.8 million rate hike for Consumers Power Co. is one of dismay and disappointment.

"Forty million sounds like a small amount compared to the $164 million the company initially requested," Kelley said. "But coupled with the $15.2 million interim rate, Consumers got a $55 million increase.

"I think that is excessive in light of the utility's financial picture, which is the best in company history. I think the customers, not the utility, are overburdened.'

Insisting that Consumers' rates should be cut rather than increased, Kelley said that the $55 million hike is more than four times the increase recommended by Public Service Commission personnel

"As a result of the commission's action, return on common equity for Consumers will increase from 12.75 per cent to 13.5 per cent," Kelley said. "I don't believe the Public Service Commission should be guaranteeing monopoly like Consumers Power." The attorney general said he will review the commission's decision before deciding whether or not he will appeal it in Circuit Court.

Norris, first captain of the Stroh team, deserves top ranking because he was one of the most studious of all bowlers. He not only had plenty of skill, but he could "find" an alley quicker than any bowler the city has ever seen. And he was tops in match play.

Crimmins, a mechanical bowler, won the first all-star in 1941 and was at his best in match play.

In Fazio the game had one of its fiercest competitors. Small in stature, he had a knack for finding the pocket and never gave up until the last pin fell.

Lubanski, one of the stubborn traditionalists who still uses a two-finger ball, was a star of the Stroh team.

Starting on the big time as a partner with the late Sarge Easter and winning the national doubles, Lubanski soared to the heights and for some time topped the 10-year averages in the

Putting on a 'social front' is a drag

By NANCY WALLS SMITH

It is most fortunate for all concerned that my husband's job is in no way dependent upon my abilities to present a good "social front." If I had to constantly play the role of corporate wife, I would hate to imagine just what job in the corporation my poor husband would be shamed into. You can bet your booties he wouldn't be a biggie.

Since I'm only obligated to attend one of two social-business functions each year, I'm not around his superiors and subordinates long enough to jeopardize his job. I get the definite feeling that he warns them ahead of time. "Don't pay much attention to my wife. She's slightly weird."

I like to think that they're the ones who are weird.

I have this terrific talent for babbling whenever I get nervous in a social situation. I'll just prattle away for hours with whatever stray thoughts that happen to cross my desperate little brain. Both my audience and I will have serious doubts about what I am talking about before I'm finished.

It's really a horrible affliction. I seldom make sense, and even when I do it's usually on a topic so mundane that no one really cares. If I don't babble, then I just sit there in a stony silence (to keep from babbling). Then everyone thinks you're just a dreadful snob. I can't win for losing.

RECENTLY WE HAD to attend one of "those" dinners. "Those" dinners are the kind where there is no drinking, no dancing or music, and no good reason to be there except that every one else from the office is present. It's really the pits.

We sat for 45 minutes at the end of a long banquet table in a room full of 500 people, waiting for food and staring at the couple across the table from us. The only saving grace was that we were sitting smack up against a glass wall which afforded us a lovely view of the outside world (where I suspect everyone in the room would have preferred to have been). It's amazing how much conversational time you can kill when you've got a view to discuss.

"Boy, that wind sure wasn't blowing like that when we came in." "Yeah, I bet the temperature's

Congregation plans church

The congregation of the Canton Calvary Assembly of God should have it's own church building by Christmas. The Rev. Gregory Gentry, pastor of the church, expects that ground will be broken Sunday for the church building at a six-acre site on the west side of Sheldon between Joy and Warren. For the past 11/2 years, the congregation has been meeting in Gallimore School for church services. Site plans for the church building were unanimously approved by the Canton board last week.

Plans call for a 200-seat sanctuary kitchen facilities and a hall that can be used for Sunday school classes. The exterior of the building will be brick.

Wendover's volley returned

Editor:

Mr. W. Edward Wendover's letter to the editor on my resignation was libelous and accusatory. I did not realize his integrity had reached this all-time low.

In rebuttal of his outright accusations and his innuendoes, I wish to make this statement. As a member of the Citizens Committee for United Services (CCUS), I was appointed by the chairman, Norbert Battermann, to chair a subcommittee of two people (the other subcommittees had four members). My subcommittee's task was to come up with the next area the committee as a whole should consider after the fire services.

By the third meeting our subcommittee's task had been enlarged to include the pros and cons of upward of 15 areas. My other subcommittee member would not meet with me before the second committee meeting.

I spoke to Mr. Battermann about the problem. He said, "Push him a little, he needed that."

I requested the assignment of an additional person to the subcommittee, the new appointee from the city. It was denied. Between the second and third meetings my fellow member met with me for only 10 minutes. After the third meeting, he resigned due to bad health. The core objective of the committee, to study the pros and cons of unification, now rested in a subcommittee of one.

I volunteered my time and services to this committee to study, discuss and propose, not to push, fight and argue. For these reasons I resigned.

Addressing Mr. Wendover's accusation that I have the characteristic of spouting off before researching the facts, Mr. Patrick Touhey, Observer reporter, can attest to my refusal to say certain things about the CCUS because I did not have the facts to back them up.

I resent the statements made by Mr. Wendover and the belittling tone of the letter, though this is not the first time he has treated me in such a manner.

As for the proposed survey, it is not the survey that is in question, but the time it is to be given. The survey should be given not before, but after the public has been informed of the costs and feasibilities of various unified services.

Of what benefit is it to give the survey based on present attitudes and services? Could it be the committee could use the area of greatest public dissatisfaction to spearhead their unification drive?

As for being "lost in Fantasy Land," it is Mr. Wendover et al who are lost. Mr. Wendover is so bent on consolidation (openly stated at the first meeting) that he is unable to objectively perceive and pursue the purpose of the committee.

Mr. Wendover wonders what my motives are for fictionalizing. This is no fiction, that is the sad part. The CCUS could have been a good fact-finding group for the residents of both the city and township. Now I wonder about any proposals that stem from that biased committee.

Wow! What a delightful experience. I'm talking about the car wash last Saturday, July 5, that the junior class of Plymouth Canton put on.

At first the thoughts of a money-raising activity such as a car wash seemed like a lot of hard work and not much glory.

After being turned down by almost every business place in Plymouth we were sure filled with despair. Then the suggestion of having the car wash at Daly's Restaurant became a bright reality.

The owner of Daly's, Mr. Bud Grace, was overwhelmed that the teenagers of Plymouth wanted to use his parking space and water to help raise money for the junior prom.

Mr. Grace not only OKd the whole he personally met us kids bright and early Saturday morning lending out company hoses and giving suggestions to start out a profitable day.

And, as if this wasn't enough, he served free milk shakes, pop, lemonade, hot chocolate, iced tea, etc. at no cost whatsoever to the workers of the car wash. And he did, indeed, pay for some of the lunches, never once flicking an eyelash.

After his generous acts, Mr. Grace then explained that he and his wife wanted to go a step further to help out and he made a very, very substantial donation to the class of '80 fund.

Mr. Grace's enthusiasm and determination never stopped. He stayed at the car wash all day and never once ceased to bring his friends' cars to be washed. Needless to say, it was a very profitable and rewarding day (with more than $300 raised for the junior prom). And, surely, all of the workers fell in love with this man and want to say: "Thanks Mr. Grace. You're one in a million."

Chamber's chicken roast is a roaring success

Almost 1,000 hungry, thirsty people descended on Griffin Park last Sunday to take part in the third annual chicken barbecue sponsored by the Canton Chamber of Commerce.

A total of 800 chicken dinners and 900 ears of corn were sold at a price of $3 and the proceeds from the sale will be used to "buy something everybody in the community can use," said Mary Dingeldey, secretary of the chamber.

The profits may be used to buy a sign to identify Canton or picnic tables for the park or be donated to the Cantor Library Fund, according to Mrs. Dingeldey. But nothing definite has been decided.

Guests raved about the barbequed chieken, prepared by master chef,

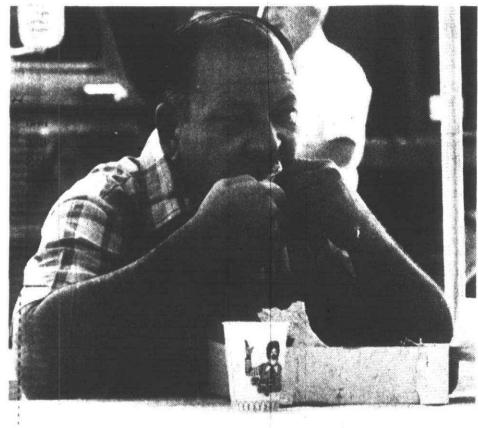

John Flodin, Canton clerk, who's "secret sauce" was nothing more than butter and salt.

"Everybody thinks that for something to be good, you've got to add a bunch of stuff," he explained. The corn, which came from Dick Clowns Crystal Ferrington and Carol Dingeldey entertained the crowd. Cooks Phil Dingeldey, John Flodin, Dick Potter, Frank McMurray, Gary Barnett, Jake Dingeldey, Bill Tesen, Al Daly and Harold Fischer kept the crowd from starving.

There's little doubt about what brought Gregory Sawulki to the chicken barbecue. It's not the baseball games or the door prizes—it's the finger-licking chicken.

We're Glad You Asked!

J. Albin Jackman · Director of Family Service HARRY J. WILL Funeral Homes, Inc.

SHOULD I BRING MY CHILD TO THE FUNERAL?

Just as with adults, children need to express their feelings of grief. To deny your child this emotional outlet is to handicap his natural, maturing development. Children can cope with death better than you may expect. A child's emotional resiliency is truly remarkable and often under-rated. With adequate preparation, a child may attend the funeral and will be all the better for it. But the child must be told what to expect at the funeral. If he or she understands what is happening there's a better feeling during and after the ceremonies. Do not force the child to attend, though. If the youngster often tends to be hysterical, keep him home and have him join the family later. Each child may react differently but if you anticipate any problems, feel free to discuss this with us fully at your convenience.

Your question and comments on this and other subjects are welcome—in private or publicly through this column.

Memories blossom into business

By W.W. EDGAR

Laying in a hospital bed staring at a bouquet of straw flowers is possibly the last place in the world a person would be expected to get the inspiration for a business enterprise.

But that is the strange twist that came into the life of Joyce Crawford, the proud owner of a straw and paper flower business on Ford Road, known officially as Memory Flowers.

From that first wedding bouquet, the business has grown to the point where Mrs. Crawford has averaged at least one wedding a week since the start of the year. And it still is growing.

One of the facets of the business that has grown surprisingly is the unusual practice of placing bouquets and other floral under glass.

Young brides usually try to preserve their bouquets by drying them in scrap books or keeping them stored away in

Mrs. Crawford has gone one step better. She now places the bouquets framed under glass. The finished product has the appearance of an old-fashioned picture.

Wedding bouquets are not the only product of Mrs. Crawford's deft hands. She is now engaged in making all softs of floral designs. Aside from the crepe paper flowers, much of the other material is gathered by walks through the wooded areas and often from the area around her former home in Sault Ste. Marie. Hermit crabs diet, too

This week my son celebrated his 10th birthday and I, to my own amazement, agreed to a birthday party including seven squirmy, curious, but well-mannered little boys.

Usually, in our house, the birthday gifts are opened following the birthday lunch. But one of the boys was particularly anxious to have his gift opened immediately on arrival. His special reason, his whispered in my ear, was that there was a "living thing" in his carefully wrapped box. David was totally thrilled when, after anxiously tearing away the gift wrap, a peek inside revealed two hermit crabs in a see-through home where everyone could watch their interesting way of Later that day my son's excitement became somewhat diminished when he was reading the instructions on how to care for the crabs to insure a long life. The directions referred to feeding them bits of lettuce, apples, or vegetables as a part of their "diet". My son, at this point stopped short and proclaimed somewhat dejectedly, "I didn't know that even hermit crabs had to be on a diet!

I never realized, until that moment, how much dieting has become an integral part of our lives and conversation in our house. His enthusiasm for the pet returned when we explained the original usage of the word "diet." Ah, children!

Part of last weeks' column inadvertently wound up on the cutting room floor, so if this sounds like a re-run to some of you, it is. But I feel it worthwhile to repeat the information on how to obtain a copy of John McPartlins booklet, Cooking the Low-fat, Low Cholesterol Diet.

John McPartlin, a newspaper writer and editor for 40 years, had a near fatal heart attack sixteen years ago. The doctors told him that unless he changed his eating habits and lost weight that he wouldn't live through the next year. John felt it was worth taking his doctor's advice most seriously. He studied the high fat, hgih cholesterol foods he was eating, and set about finding satisfactory substitutes.

Fortunately, John enjoys cooking, so he experimented with a number of recipes, using appropriate substitutions, and devising some of his own. Through his experimenting, he accumulated a wealth of information, regarding the LFLC diet (as he refers to it). He includes information on food preparation, substitute products listed by brand names, helpful cookbooks, and a number of his own excellent sounding recipes which led him down the straight and narrow path to a healthy

He speaks in terms the average person can relate to, excluding all medical jargon. The information is down to earth and so are his recipes. John has been encouraged to prepare a complete cookbook. I would fully support and encourage this undertaking.

To obtain a copy of John's booklet, send $1.25 to John P. McPartlin, Bay Press, P.O. Box 438, New Baltimore,

It used to be that on could sit down and write a letter to one of your favorite people, using a number of different kinds of stationery. If that someone was really special you may have dabbed a bit of your favorite cologne or perfume on the paper for added allure.

Last week I was thoroughly disgusted to see that this romantic notion has taken a new twist when I discovered boxed stationery scented to remind you of either chocolate or vanilla ice cream.

Can't we do anything anymore without the smells of food assaulting our senses and tempting our already weak willpower? What next? Are you as disgusted as I am?

Do you get tired of trying to skim fat off soups, sauces, gravies, and other foods, during preparation? Then you may find the Magic Mop a useful gadget in your kitchen. The specially designed bristles of this brush attract the fat as you pull the brush through these foods. You may obtain it at Larry Jane's Gourmet Gallerie in Plymouth. 'Foul Play' brings lovable characters together in danger

If thereis such a thing as a movie with a winning personality, "Foul Play" (PG) has it.

First of all, the two principals are quite endearing. Goldie Hawm minus the squeaky-voiced, dumb-blonde image of "Laugh-In," creates a warm and sympathetic character as Gloria Mundy. Gloria, a librarian and recent divorcee, is the classic innocent thrust by circumstances into a world of intrique and danger.

Chevy Chase, after a stumbling start, emerges cool and likeable as a San Francisco police lieutenant who is eager to comfort and protect her.

Secondly, the movie was written and directed by Colin Higgins who wrote the cult hit "Harold and Maude" and the successful 'Silver Streak." "Foul Play," like "Silver Streak," belongs to that popular genre of movie, the romantic comedy-thriller ("Harold and Maude" is in a class by itself).

THIRDLY, THE FILM selectively borrows and builds on some of the most effective idioms of suspense and adventure. The melodramatic ending of "Foul Play," a race against time to stop a planned assassination at an opera house, vividly suggests the similar climactic ending in Alfred Hitchcock's "The Man Who Knew

Although I do not know Higgins' thinking, I suspect that this kind of conscious borrowing is done in a spirit that salutes previous masters of the medium and also invites the audience to join in the fun that comes from recognition of movie experiences we've shared.

For example, Gloria, the librarian in jeopardy, is also a film buff. And in one comic sequence, we, thepopcorn-chomping movie audience, watch Gloria sitting amid a popcorn-chomping movie audience watching Alan Ladd in a 40s melodrama, "This Gun for Gloria's real-life situation is more imaginative and bizarre than any movie shewatches. She is less than effective, however, in convincing the police that her life is in danger, especially when she claims she's threatened by an albinoand a dwarf.

When it's discovered that she was held captive in an apartment leased by a man named 'Stiltskin,' the police begin to take her seriously. Theofficer who takes her most seriously is Lieutenant Carlson (Chevy Chase) who likes her blue eyes.

THE FILM DOES not always move along smoothly and Chase's role is one of the reasons why. Initially, the humor is labored in a script which calls for him to be bumbling and klutzy. These characteristics disappear (all to the good) as the movie progresses and the comic episodes involving him depend more on repartee than slapstick.

Another hitch is Glorias willingness to return to and enter her apartment, even when she finds the door unlocked and the memory of the last assault is still fresh. Higgins, I'm sure, has the talent to create a sense of danger without making his characters unbelievably naive.

These few deficiencies are overcome by the general excellence of the production and the performances. The supporting cast deserve honors for their distinguished characterizations: Burgess Meredith as a loyal and feisty landlord, Marilyn Sokol as Gloria's friend who is suspicious of all men, Rachel Roberts as a karatechopping villainess, and Dudley Moore who steals numerous scenes as a symphony conductor with some kinky ideas.

Michigan's full of old mills and bridges

The creaking sound of waterwheels and the echo of horses' hooves against hand-hewn timbers still can be heard in Michigan's mills and covered bridges, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

Products from livestock feed to tangy apple cider continue to be produced by mills scattered throughout lower Michigan while a few have been converted to other uses, including a theater and a restaurant.

Although more than a century old, some of the covered bridges listed by the auto club still carry light vehicles. Others have only recently been built as part of parks, picnic areas and resorts.

The tiny community of Ada near Grand Rapids is home of the 125-foot Ada Bridge, which in 1867 was the first to span the Thornapple River. It now is open to foot traffic only.

ANOTHER PLYMOUTH family is packing and getting ready to move. Dr. John and Marilyn Stathakis are leaving for Phoenix, Ariz. after 10 years in their house on Woodland

The children emphasize the fact that they'll be back in three years and their parents echo their hopes. Kirsten, 12, Kristopher, 9, Dino, 7, and Kaine, 5, already are enrolled in the Scottsdale

Their neighbors, Nancy Johnson and Judy Morgan, hosted a "see-you-later" party for them

John has a preceptorship in dermatology and plastic facial surgery with a Phoenix clinic. He has been trying for three years to find the right spot and, after several offers, chose the Arizona clinics where he will be working with two doctors.

Marilyn has taken an active role in the community. She says she has enjoyed working with the children and their schools most of all. This has involved Bird and Smith elementary schools, West Middle and Red Bell Nursery

"I also enjoyed working at the church and its booth at the Fall Festival." The family had foreign exchange students who were attending Plymouth Salem High School for two terms. She hosted the Youth for Understanding Christmas party for all the exchange

She was a member of the American Osteopathic Auxiliary, the Muscular Dystrophy Foundation, the American Cancer Foundation and the Board of Directors of Smith School. She taught preschool gymnastics for the YMCA, was a Plymouth Community Fund bellringer and was instrumental in bringing the Suzuki violin program to the community.

Her contributions to the community were recognized by the Plymouth Jaycees when they named her Woman of the Year for 1977.

They are leaving Wednesday and they will be missed.

BEST BALL Scramble was the name of the game Aug.6 when Canton Newcomers and friends headed for Rolling Meadows Country Club and their first organized golf outing.

Fourteen couples drew for partners to form four-person mixed teams and proceeded around the course vying for prizes. Will Jacobs had the longest drive on the fourth hole. Mary Kay Frey belted her ball the farthest on the fifth hole. Glen Ponte placed his ball closest to the flag on the sixth green. Mary Moore used a five iron to come closest to the flag on the first hole. Each was awarded appropriate golfing

The putting contest was decided by a paly-off between Mary Kay Frey and Charlie Freece who tied by sinking their putts. Charlie took top honors.

Master chefs Kathy Freece and Sherm Moore presided at the grills in the picnic area. The now-hungry golfers praised their culinary skills as they consumed stacks of hamburgers and hot dogs. There was watermelon for dessert.

Team scores were recorded and prizes awarded to the low net team members-Mike Wesner, Kathy Freece, and Gail and Will Jacobs. Runner-up was the team of Ron Frey, Jan Brawn, Helen Wesner and Charlie

Scenic setting

Brenda Gail McKeehan and William Lee Lush were married late Friday afternoon in the middle of Greg and June Donovan's bridge. The Rev. Ron Lucas of Tri-County Baptist Church in Northville said he liked outdoor weddings but the one on the bridge was a first. The bride knocked on the Donovan's door one day, introduced herself, and asked if she could be married on their bridge. The Donovans agreed. It was the third wedding performed on the scenic setting on North Territorial in Plymouth Township. (Staff photo by Elinor Graham)

She survived week in wilderness

Beth Martinek of Plymouth spent her 18th birthday on a remote island in northern Lake Michigan. Main fare for her birthday dinner was snake meat roasted on a stick over an open fire. She also had a few wild berries and some pine needle tea topped off by the big treat, a small can of pudding.

"We cooked the snake meat until it was very crisp so we could eat the bones," said Beth. "The pine needle tea gave us vitamin C." She described the flavor of snake as "something like fish and something like chicken.

She was one of 48 young women participating in Scouts on Survival (SOS) on Garden Island which is separated from Beaver Island by a mile stretch of cold, rough water with a swift-moving current. There were six girls in Beth's group. The others had come from California. Texas, Ohio, Nevada and Indiana to take part in the SOS program designed by the Michigan Capitol Girl Scout Council of Lansing. Its purpose is to teach the skills of wilderness survival.

THE SCOUTS had undergone rigorous training before their six nights and seven days on the island. Their survival expert, Paul Risk, had insisted "survival is an attitude."

Although they were cold and hungry most of the time, none of them panicked.

"Of course, we knew they were going to pick us up," Beth said. After some consideration, she added, "I don't think I would panic if it were the real thing.

Preparation for their island venture began in East Lansing with Dr. Riskthree days of lectures followed by a day of practical experience at Rose Lake. They ate tender young milkweed pods (boiled three times, then salted) and roasted grasshoppers.

They waded through a swamp and built shelters. An Air Force representative showed them how to build signal fires with white smoke for clear days and black smoke for cloudy days.

They learned how to set out flares. use signal mirrors and compasses. Their hunting skills included setting snare traps for small game and fishing with a thorn for a hook.

They could make their own rope by braiding the fibrous bark of trees. They laerned about edible plant life.

THEIR EQUIPMENT was limited to a day pack, coffee can, fire starters. metal mirror, a small piece of steel wool, wire, fishing line and hook, Fels Naptha soap (for poison ivy), six bandaids and a tin cup.

Their wardrobe consisted of rain gear, jeans or shorts, wool pants, two pairs socks, hiking boots, T-shirt, two shirts, wool shirt, wool hat or cap and cotton work gloves. Around their necks, they wore a whistle, metal match, compass and dogtag.

There were no sleeping bags but each had a space blanket-shiny silver foil on one side and plastic on the

"There is no warmth in them, even when you wrap yourself up in one," said Beth. "They are strictly for shelter and the shiny side is supposed to reflect heat.

Training over, the group left Lansing at 3:30 a.m. on the two-hour drive to Charlevoix. Breakfast was limited to one slice of bread because of the 2 1/2-hour trip on the ferry to Beaver Island. A fishing boat delivered them to Garden Island.

"There wasn't room for all of us so the fishing boat had to make two trips. It was windy, cloudy and cold. It was rough going to the island."

The 48 girls were divided into groups of six and each group was led to a campsite remote from the others.

"IT WAS A TWO-HOUR hike to our spot on the southern shore. It did not take us long to discover another camp not too far away.

They were given flares, a map of the island, and a candy bar to be kept for an emergency if someone had to walk out for help. Beth's camp was on a rocky shore. Their first shelter was unsatisfactory so they built another the next day. shingling the top with layers of ferns. There was a severe thunderstorm that night, but their shelter was dry. Night temperatures were in the 30s and 40s so they tried to keep the fires going night and day.

They set 15 traps and checked them twice a day.

'Only one of the 48 girls caught a rabbit in a trap while we were there.' said Beth.

"We tried to catch a sea gull one day. The water was so cold that we couldn't go fishing. We'd use up more energy catching it than the fish would provide when we ate it. We ate thistle flowers, bull rushes-the part underwater toward the roots-violet leaves. wild raspberries, bramble and black berries. One day we had crawdads, just a handful.

"We gathered wild rice and worked about three hours collecting half a cup. So, we ate mostly snakes. They were all over the place. We drank a lot of water and tried not to think about being hungry.

'We slept on the beach for a couple of hours in the afternoon. I found a lawn chair by the water. It was so comfortable after sleeping on all those

BETH SAID that at one time there were farmers on the island. Now all that is left is the ruins of their houses. The only regular resident is an Indian women who moves into one of the old houses for the summer. Boaters sometimes stop at the island to picnic. The time came when they decided they soon would be picked up. They had not been told when. They lit signal fires and made a 20-foot X out of their belongings on the beach.

Then they could, finally, discuss their hunger. "It was all we talked about. It was sunny and we waited and waited. We knew they were coming.'

A Coast Guard helicopter flew over. It returned half an hour later and gently placed a package on the beach. It contained boxes of raisins, candy, soup mix and a note. They were to meet group 2 at 6 a.m.

"We all were revived when the helicopter came," laughed Beth. There was one more night on Garden Island. They left the next day. "We all got along well. There was never any friction. When we were hungry, we just slowed our pace. We couldn't run, but we could walk. And we laughed at everything-things that normally wouldn't seem funny. What did she miss most while camping in the wilderness? "I guess it was my stereo, and my family." she said.

AS A MEMBER of Girl Scout troop 501, Beth traveled to Europe and visited Our Chalet in Switzerland when she was a sophomore. Lorraine Hurtik was troop advisor at the time. The troop went spelunking in Kentucky caverns when she was a junior.

She missed the trip to Mexico this spring because she was in the hospital. Martha Bentley is now troop advisor.

Beth is the first Plymouth-Canton area girl scout to attend the SOS program, now in its third year. She plans to keep up her membership even though she graduated from Plymouth Salem High School in June She will attend Ferris State College in the fall and major in environmental health.

Homes needed for exchange students Canton Newcomers

An urgent plea is being issued by the German Youth for Understanding committee, desperately seeking homes for 33 German students due to arrive in the United States sometime this

The plea came in the form of a letter from Ulrich Zahlten to Anneliese Hahn of Redford Township, who has sponsored many foreign students in her home. Zahlten, chairman of the committee, is a former foreign exchange student himself. He apparently found the experience so rewarding, he set up an organization to help others share it. According to Mrs. Hahn, families are needed preferably with at least one teenager. She indicated students who will be arriving are between the ages of 15 and 19, and have all been exposed to English from the third grade up.

"It's a wonderful experience to have one of these students in your home." she said. "You form one-to-one relationships with them, learn to give and take and about how other people live." The students would be staying in a

Wagenschutz reunion marks 50 years

The 50th annual Wagenschutz family reunion was held recently at Plymouth Township Park, just a mile from the old Wagenschutz homestead on Sheldon Road. Those present were descendants of Minnie and Carl Wagenschutz, who lived there in the late 1800s, having come from Germany

There was family camaraderie, and games of horseshoes were the order of the day following a potluck dinner featuring homemade bread, pies, cakes, fried chicken, German potato salad and home canned pickles.

Another tradition was the tribute paid to those who had passed on, and the births and marriages were announced and recorded in the old family record book. Magician Frank Konopaski entertained the children as Kevern calls the increased activity at OU a reflection on the improved state economy and a result of the proper blend of academic programs on campus.

Kevern says that grade point average and type of degree have a definite relationship in the employment search. but just as important is the ability of the candidate to communicate well and to sell self.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

FY 1979 OPERATING ASSISTANCE NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a Public Hearing will be held by the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA) on Friday, August 25, 1978, at 2:00 p.m., EDST in the Authority's offices, 16th Floor, Detroit Bank and Trust Building, Detroit Michigan, for the purpose of considering a public mass transportation project for which financial assistance is being sought under Section 5 of the Urban Mas The project is for the utilization of Federal grant funds for

The project is for the utilization of Federal grant funds for stabilization of fares and public mass transportation services in the Detroit urbanized area during the 1979 fiscal year or through September 30, 1979. The services involved are those provided directly by SEMTA and the Department of Transportation of the City of Detroit(D-DOT). During fiscal year 1978, operating costs for transit services have been rising at a rate which threaten the ability of SEMTA and D-DOT to maintain existing fares and/levels of service. To maintain them and to permit elderly and handicapped persons to be charged not more than ½ of peak hour fare in nonpeak hours requires the receipt of additional operating funds prior to September 30, 1979 if the borrowing of funds is to be avoided and basic 1979 if the borrowing of funds is to be avoided and basic service stabilization is to be met. Specifically the project contemplates a Federal operating assistance grant to be matched in accordance with Federal requirements by an equal amount nonfare box revenues. State and local government funds will be applied as the required match.
SOURCE OF MATCHING FUNDS WILL BE FROM

The proposed Project will not have a significant environmental impact upon the service area.

COMPREHENSIVE PLANNING The project is in conformance with Southeast Michigan Council of Governments comprehensive planning and is consistent with the adopted programming of projects in the Transports

The project specifically allows for elderly and handicapped persons to be charged not more than ½ of peak hour fare in nonpeak hours when utilizing a SEMTA or D-DOT public transportation vehicle assisted under this project. Common sense saves gas

By PATRICK KELLY

Few automobile owners know how to get the most mileage and performance from the gasoline they buy.

So the U.S. Department of Transportation offers these precautions you can take to improve performance and save gaseline.

First, to improve performance:

- · Shop for a good mechanic. Check your friends and neighbors to see if they know one who is a specialist on your car
- If you have your car serviced at a large agency. get acquainted with the service manager and see if you can have the same mechanic servcie your car every time.
- · Be sure that a careful service record is kept on all repairs, so that the mechanic knows what work has been done before, and when.
- · Follow the recommendations in your owner's manual for major and minor service and tuneups.

Further, to save gasoline and conserve energy:

· Check your tire pressure at least once every month, and check each tire, including the spare. Too low tire pressure increases rolling resistance. causes increased tire wear and reduces gasoline

· Periodically have your mechanic check the treadwear pattern of your tires to see if they are wearing evenly. If the front end is out of alignment, you will notice irregular treadwear. Mileage

 If possible, avoid pressing your accelerator all the way down when climbing hills and long grades. It wastes gasoline · Avoid excessive high speed or jerky drivinglearn to drive as smoothly and steadily as traffic and road conditions will allow.

- · Turn off your engine if you stop more than a minute. Restarting uses less gasoline than a min-
- · Use the brake rather than the accelerator to hold your car in place on a hill.
- · Jumpy starts and fast getaways can burn more than 50 per cent more gasoline than normal acceleration.
- · Avoid weaving, spurting and lane changing in heavy traffic. Such practices waste fuel.
- · Look ahead and pace yourself to minimize stops at traffic lights and jam-ups.
- · Slow down. Excessive speed is the greatest waster of gasoline. For best mileage, do not exceed 50 miles per hour.
- · Limit the use of auto air conditioners and other fuel consuming accessories.
- · If you get a sudden drop in gasoline mileage. check with your mechanic. Trouble is brewing. and the sooner you have it fixed, the less it is likely to cost you.
- · Keep track of the miles per gallon of your car. This can help you learn better driving habits and spot trouble early
- · Before you buy a new car, ask the dealer how many miles per gallon you can expect. These fig- ures are available for most models. Reduce the number of unessential auto trips through careful trip planning.
- · Use mass transit, car pools or bicycles when feasible. And walk-shoeleather is cheaper than gasoline.

The 1978-79 edition of "Historical Museums in Michigan" has just been published by the Historical Society of Michigan in Ann Arbor. This second edition lists 144 museums, including 22 in the Upper Peninsula.

The 36-page visitors' guide is pocketsize and gives complete information obtained from each museum. Listings include the mailing address and telephone number of each museum, a description of the exhibits, the yearround schedule (including months and holidays closed), and all admission charges. Each entry includes the name and telephone number of a contact person for more information about group-sponsored tours and special arrangements.

Copies may be ordered for 50 cents each (40 cents in quantities of 10 or more) from the Historical Society of Michigan, 2117 Washtenaw Avenue, Ann Arbor 48104.

Michigan's historical museums cover a wide range of topics, from early pioneers and Indian cultures to industry, period furnishings, ethnic groups, skiing, musical instruments, and magic.

According to the Upper Peninsula entries, visitors can take a guided underground tour of the East Vulcan Mine which operated between 1870 and 1945 at Iron Mountain. In Copper Harbor, the Fort Wilkins Historic Complex represents an excelllent example of a frontier U.S. Army Post of 1844-70.

Artifacts from early missionaries are on display in Sault Ste. Marie's Tower of History/Shrine of the Missionaries. Great Lakes Indians exhibits are featured by museums from Marquette, St. Ignace, and Escanaba, as well as by Lower Peninsula museums from Petoskey to Niles.

The guide also reveals that railroad displays are popular among many museums, including Flint's Crossroads Village & Huckleberry Railroad. Here, one can visit a restored community of 16 buildings from 1860, and ride a rebuilt turn-of-the-century steam-powered railroad operating on a 9.5 mile

Michigan's ethnic heritage is reflected by such museums as Detroit's Afro-American Museum, which features 21 mounted African animal specimens. Dutch culture inthe state is the focus of Holland's Netherlands Museum and Zeeland's Historical Museum. The Beaver Island Museum in St. James offers insights into an early Mormon community in
