The driver of a semi is in critical condition following an accident Monday on I-275 that flipped his rig over and threw him out of the cab. The man's 10-year-old daughter also was in the truck, but she was not hurt. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Semi flips; driver 'critical'

A semi-truck hauling automobile axles overturned Monday morning after colliding with a dump truck near the I-275 Michigan Avenue exit ramp.

The semi-truck driver, Dennis Zierle, 35, of Centerville, was thrown out of the truck's cab. He was taken to Wayne County General Hospital where he was listed in critical condition

The dump truck driver, William a load of ashphalt on the freeway Burke, 76, of Detroit, was not seriously injured. According to Canton police. Zierle and Burke were both traveling northbound on I-275 when Zierle apparently lost control of his rig.

The trucks collided and both spun off the freeway, police said. Zierle's semi overturned, and Burke's truck dumped Zierle's 10-year-old daughter, Kim, a passenger in the semi-truck, was taken to Wayne County General Hospital and released.

The accident did not block the morning rush-hour traffic on I-275. The incident is still under investigation.

Pupils can opt to new school

Parents will once again have the opportunity to send their children to schools outside their neighborhood-if they provide transportation.

Several different options will be available to parents when school opens next week. Parents have to convince school officials that the program at the neighborhood school isn't adequate for their children.

For some time the district had asked parents to provide their own transportation for certain options, such as allowing a child to remain enrolled until graduation when parents moved out of the district.

Other options include being able to send handicapped children to schools with barrier-free access, and sending twins to different schools.

The number of options offered expanded last year when the district instituted the Extended School Year (ESY) calendar at about six additional schools. Those parents wanting to enroll their children in a nine-month school were offered that option if they provided their own transportation.

THE DECISION to continue with the last year's policy of a choice of programs was made Monday night at a special meeting of the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education

There is a possibility the decision will have to be revoked. Some parents have brought up the legal question of whether the district has to provide transportation for the students or whether it can make it the responsibility of the parents

The board is awaiting a final opinion from the Michigan attorney general on whether the district has to provide buses to schools more than 112 miles from home if the parents decide on a program different from the neighbor hood school.

The district contends they are not responsible for transportation if that distance was created only by the request of a parent as an option

THE ATTORNEY general isn't expected to give the opinion by the start of the school year.

Faced with legal uncertainties about their option program, the school board could have made either of the follow. ing choices: Eliminate all options and reinstate later only if allowable by the final legal opinion; or reinstate the options now and then eliminate later if they are determined illegal

There is no doubt that offering options is legal.

The final decision hinges on a clarifying opinion to be issued by the state attorney general.

While waiting for the opinion from the attorney general's office, the school board met Monday night and voted 7-0 to follow last year's practice until the opinion is issued

LAST YEAR the school district allowed students to be enrolled in a building other than their neighborhood school provided parents agreed to provide their own transportation.

That's when the option with private transportation became a public issue and was taken to Lansing for a legal

A resident argued that the practice violated state law and appealed to the transportation division of the Michigan Department of Instruction

The attorney general's office issued an opinion that the district must provide busing to all students living 112 miles or more from a school, regard less if it was an option school or not After that ruling, the school board voted to eliminate all options as the district could not afford to pay for the additional busing which would be

A Canton contractor faces possible prosecution on charges that he signed an agreement to install storm doors and windows without being licensed by the state to perform that work.

Canton police have charged Troy Hicks, owner of American Fence Co., 6133 Canton Center, with failing to obtain a maintenance and alteration contractor's license. The crime-a misdemeanor-carries a one-year maximum penalty upon conviction.

Hicks said Tuesday that he was informed by the state three years ago that such a license was not needed to perform fence and storm window installation. Hicks was unable to produce a letter from the state but maintains that he showed it to the township's building department many times in order to be issued building

The business was formerly located at 41700 Michigan Avenue but has since opened at Hick's home on Canton Center.

The criminal proceedings against Hicks were prompted by a complaint lodged by Steve Abeyta, of 7221 Parkway, Canton, who signed an agreement with Hicks on April 19 for the purchase and installation of $403.52 worth of screen door and storm win-

LAST WEEK the Wayne County prosecutor's office recommended that a warrant be issued against Hicks in Silverenia Kanoyten, deputy director of the Michigan Department of Licensing and Regulation, cooperated with the Canton police in its investigation and verified that Hicks is required to

"Any job $200 or over, including labor and materials, is required by law to be licensed," said Kathy Kräsnoselsky, licensing clerk in the building division of the Department of Licensing and Regulation.

Exceptions to that rule are companies which do the work for themselves, do work less than $200, or act as a subcontractor under a licensed contractor, she said.

And while Hicks did not furnish $200 worth of work or materials, because the job is not finished, he did sign an agreement to do $403.52 worth of work.

Abeyta says he plans to file a civil complaint against Hicks later this month in 35th District Court to force Hicks to finish the home improvements as promised.

"HE PUT A screen-storm door in and after that, nothing," Abeyta said. "The work he did was good. I can't complain about that. But he doesn't follow through.

The contract between Abeyta and Hicks states that the work would be completed by May 13. Hicks says the homeowner, Abeyta, stalled the work by postponing several proposed dates and then demanding that the work be done on days that the contractor was committed.

"He (Abeyta) called a couple times and got kind of nasty with the people who were here," Hicks said.

Canton has identity crisis

Is Canton in Michigan? Or is it just That question has apparently crossed the minds of many truck driv-

They have driven right through the township with loads of merchandise they thought was intended for Canton. Ohio.

TOWNSHIP SUPERVISOR Harold Stein and Clerk John Flodin are getting tired of Canton's mistaken identity. Merchants are always calling to complain about goods mistakenly shipped to Canton, Ohio, Working through State Sen. William Faust (D—Westland), Stein has filed a plea before the Michigan Highway Commission to put Canton Township on the state map. Faust is also drafting legislation that would require the state highway commission to finance the erection of and maintenance of highway signs that would identify townships with a minimum population of 35,000 persons.

According to Flodin, signs identifying Canton Township can now be erected along I-275. But Flodin says the township would have to pay "several thousand dollars" for each sign plus maintain them.

"If we can get the state to put up the signs, we'll be tickled to death," the township clerk said. "But if we can't, we'll have to do something ourselves.'

Flodin said the township's confusion with Canton, Ohio has been aggravated by the establishment of a Canton, Mich. mailing address.

Until two years ago, Canton had four mailing addresses Plymouth, Wayne, Ypsilanti and Belleville. All those municipalities are designated on the state map issued by the Michigan Highway Commission.

Police, fire millage won't be increased

By DARLENE STINSON

Taxpayers in Canton Township can credit the tax reform proposals on the November ballot for no increase in the police millage rate this year.

The township board Tuesday unanimously decided to not increase last year's tax levy of two mills ($2 per $1,000 assessed valuation). However, the $528,000 raised by the two mill tax rate will not cover all the police department's expenses.

FINANCE DIRECTOR Mike Gorman recommended no increase in the police millage even though the department will have a nearly $300,000 budget deficit by the end of the 1979 fiscal year.

Gorman recommended that a portion of the $1 million general fund surplus be used to cover police department expenses in excess of the twomill budget.

Gorman based his no tax-hike recommendation on the overwhelming defeat of a proposed library millage on the August ballot and the likely appearance of the Headlee tax limitation and Tisch tax cut proposals on the state ballot in November.

"I don't think the people want to see a tax increase this year," Gorman said. "But no matter what we do this year, we're going to have to raise the police millage eventually."

The township board can increase the police tax levy to 10 mills ($10 per $1,000 assessed valuation) without a vote of the people. In 1976, voters approved the establishment of a townshipwide assessment district for police.

Gorman expects the police department will be $88,000 over its $454,000 budget by the end of the year. During the 1979 fiscal year, Gorman expects the police department will need $113,000 more than the budget will pro-

The police department will need an additional $66,000 if three additional full-time patrol officers are hired, as requested by Police Chief Walter MacGregor.

Gorman expects the police department will be nearly $300,000 over its two-mill budget by the end of 1979.

The $300,000 deficit includes an estimated $140,000 for remodeling township offices on Geddes Road. The building will be used as a police station once the new administration building on Canton Center is completed.

IN RELATED budgetary action, the board unanimously agreed to levy 11/4 mills ($1.25 per $1,000 assessed valuation)-the same rate levied this year-to support the fire department

The township has used general fund money to supplement the fire department budget for years. According to Clerk John Flodin, about $400,000 in general fund monies will be spent on the fire department this year.

Residents who spoke at Tuesday's public hearing on the police millage endorsed an increase in the police department budget and continued expansion of the force.

The police department was established as a part-time force in 1976. In June, it began full-time operations.

Trucks with goods destined for Canton are having trouble locating the township-it's not on the map and there are no signs that identify Canton on the expressway. So some Canton Township, Mich., goods are going to Canton, Ohio. (Staff photo)

Those luring words, "It can be yours for only . . . " send mad rushes of anxious owners to telephones and mailboxes requesting products that can only be bought through television ads. If you're not too caught up in the

Each day, thousands of letters arrive at the Eleven Mile and Lahser office petitioning manufacturers for record albums, tapes, greenhouse gardens, and anything else viewers have seen on televison.

"We probably get about 600 letters a day for each post office box," customer service manager Walter Morri-

Because channels 2, 4, 7, 50 and 20 are in Southfield, the local post office was chosen as the mailing intermediary by the stations.

"The local TV station is just the gobetween. The mailings come from all over the country," Morrison said.

SHOWING your devotion to Elvis or craving the Fabulous Hits of the '50s hasn't caused any difficulties to postal workers. Only the request letters are sent to the Southfield post office. Each morning, the mail is picked up by the televison station doing the advertising.

"It isn't a hassle. The mail comes directly to the box, and people use the right zip codes and box numbers," Morrison said.

When the television stations opened. they rented post office boxes to accommodate the influx of mail they expected from their advertising. The stations rent their original boxes and hold the key tightly as there are no more to be had in Southfield.

Rent is $80-$110 per month for the large boxes.

Complaints of food choppers that don't chop, scratched records or knives that don't cut are minimal, said clerk Pearle Brooks.

"For the volume we handle, the complaints are minimal," she said.

Unhappy customers do write letters, though, and when they do, they address their dissatifactions to the postmaster.

"They write to us because they usually have forgotten which box number it was or what they even ordered," Ms. Brooks said.

Post office site OK'd

Supervisor Harold Stein made a lastditch effort for a post office in Canton Tuesday night.

He convinced the township board to reserve five acres for a future post office near the new administration building.

Stein, who lost a re-election bid in the August primary, considered the post office an administration priority.

Stein said reserving a site for the post office would improve the township's chances of convincing the U.S. Postal Service to establish an office

The board voted 4-2 to earmark a future post office site near the new administration building at Canton Center and Proctor.

Treasurer Anne Bradley, who thought five acres was too large a site, voted no as did Trustee Eugene Daley. Trustee Brian Schwall was absent.

STEIN SAID he originally approached postal authorities with a proposal for a contract postal station in the new administration building, but it was too costly

A contract station at Meijer Thrifty Acres currently offers full postal services. Stein said service at the Meijer station is slow, however, because of the large number of residents who use

The supervisor said postal authorities told him they would look more favorably on a proposal to construct a post office in Canton if a site was earmarked for the building.

Stein said the U.S. Postal Service would buy the site. The supervisor does not expect the postal service to construct the building for another 10 years, however.

Until two years ago, Canton had four mailing addressess- Plymouth, Wayne, Ypsilanti and Belleville. In 1976, two zip codes for Canton were granted and the Meijer contract station was established.

A dispute over loot in motel

It's been almost a year since Dale and Lorna Christoffersen of Hay Springs, Neb. found almost $900 in cash underneath a motel bed in Canton

They stayed in the motel while they were on a whirlwind vacation in the midwest and the east. The money-$875 to be exact-was in varying denominations and wrapped inside a newspaper.

Very mysterious. Lorna Christoffersen found the booty under the bed when she made a last-minute check of the rented room to "see if maybe we dropped a sock or anything under there.

It should be explained that the Christoffersens didn't come all the way from the comfields of Nebraska to see the sights of Canton Townshiplike the Meijer Thrifty Acre department store and the trickling Tonquish Creek tributary

No. Dale Christoffersen candidly admits he and the wife decided to stay in the Canton motel because they wanted to visit nearby Greenfield Village and the Henry Ford Museum.

The Willo-Acres Motel on Michigan Ave. was 'the first AAA-rated motel we came to and we didn't want to get too close to Detroit," Christoffersen explained.

While I might take issue with Christoffersen's urban paranoia. I admire his honesty. But the best example of his honesty was that he didn't pocket that $875 like most of us; he turned the money over to the Wayne County Sheriff's Department.

By law, the money stays in the county treasury for one year after the date it was reported found. to allow its rightful owner time to surface. In the interim, the rightful owner hasn't popped up, but someone else has. That person is R.J. Peterson, owner of the Willo-Acres Motel

Both Christoffersen and Anderson have filed the mandatory 25 cent fee necessary to put in a claim

Because the money was found in Canton Township, the municipality could automatically receive half of the windfall under terms of an ancient state

Now, Canton could waive rights to half of the money but Canton Clerk John Flodin is concerned about the squawks he'd hear if that happened.

"I can just hear them," Flodin said. " 'You gave away $400 that could've gone into the general

"But I'll do everything I can to see that this man's honesty is rewarded. I never met Mr. Chrisw toffersen but I'd like to. It seems that the farther west you go, the nicer those people are."

That statement doesn't speak too highly for the people who live east of Nebraska in Iowa, but it shows that Flodin is a man who admires personal integrity almost as much as he enjoys an off-color

The motel owner. Peterson, says he has no desire to take the matter to court.

"It's not enough to spend time and money in court." Peterson said this week. "I put in the claim after I talked to my attorney and he said for the half a buck it takes to file a claim what did I

When the money was first found Peterson wasn't talking. His son, Robert, wouldn't say who rented the room before the Christoffersens and wouldn't give any explanation of how money might've ended up under the motel bed.

Now Christoffersen says the reason for his reluctance to speak up was that he believed the money belonged to a man who lives year-round at the

"The guy had a helluva good job, he was single and he had rented the room just prior to Christoffersen," Peterson said. I talked to him about it but the guy couldn't remember leaving the money. I think he got himself half shot and forgot about it when he changed rooms in the motel. Christoffersen also wants to avoid a court fight. For one thing, he'd have to leave Hay Springs, Neb. for Detroit right at harvest time and he's having enough trouble making ends meet this year.

"The corn prices look pretty bleak for this fall." Christoffersen said in a telephone interview. "They're talking a dollar-and-a-half and that's below the break-even point.'

But Christoffersen isn't crying hard times. He says that in farming some years are lean but other years make up for it.

That doesn't mean Christoffersen wouldn't like to receive the full $875 or at least half that amount. He rightfully figures that he did his civic duty by turning in the money and deserves it if the owner can't be located by Sept. 1.

"I'd appreciate it if you could give me a call to tell me what's what," said the soft-spoken corn

Hopefully, on Sept. 2 Christoffersen's party line in Hay Springs won't be busy and I can tell him that $875 is heading his way. Then, maybe he and the wife can celebrate by spending a night in the familiar, national motel where the motto is "The best surprise is no surprise."

HOBEN SAID Monday night that he has reason to believe that once the attorney general examines all the facts, the district will be allowed to ask parents to provide private transportation for options.

"Our attorney and a representative of the state department of education advised us to reinstate last year's practice and proceed on that basis until the clarifying opinion was issued," explained Hoben. "By doing this, we hope to cause the least amount of disruption

Random notes: On lover, reversing bad luck

I'm sure you have heard the song "Fifty Ways to Leave Your Lover. Well, a lady I know has come up with No. 51, and it's the classiest way I've ever seen of ending an affair.

She gives her former lover a farewell gift: a book about reincarnation. On the flyleaf, she writes:

"It just was not meant to be in this lifetime, My Darling. But I know we shall meet again in the lives that lie ahead, and at last we will fulfill our broken dreams."

LAST WEEK I told of meeting my astrological twin and finding many similarities in our lives so far. I'd like very much to find a third person with that same birthdate and see if he, too, fits the pattern.

Were any of my readers born on May 5, 1930?

SOMEONE once said, "Every word spoken becomes a spell.

I believe this is sometimes so. For in instance, have you ever told a lie, and then had it come true?

THERE IS AN old superstititon that tells you what to do to avoid bad luck when, after leaving the house, you have to return home for something you

You must sit down, count to 10, get up and walk around the chair backwards to reverse your luck.

This really works, not because it is magic, but because it gives you time to calm down. When you leave again, believing all will be good, you are giving off more positive vibrations than if you had simply grabbed up what you came back for and rushed out the door in a

MANY PEOPLE believe that heat waves-such as those which appear over a stove or rising from a pavement on a hot day-attract ghosts.

It is said that if you look through such waves over your left shoulder, you will be able to see ghosts rising.

MANY PSYCHOLOGISTS will tell you that if you dream of a snake, it is a phallic symbol and may indicate something is lacking in your sex life.

I believe there are many different reasons why a person may dream of snakes. If you connect them in your mind with Cleopatra, they may be a symbol of death.

"A snake in the grass" may indicate someone is doing something behind

If a snake reminds you of Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden, it could represent the devil or anything that is tempting you at the time. If you are on a diet, it could even be a piece of devil's food cake.

Houses sell fast in subdivisions

New subdivision houses sell quickly-often before they are even a hole in the ground, the United States League of Savings Associations

Only one of every three developerbuilt houses is unsold by the time construction is finished, the league says.

According to data in the league's newly published Fact Book, developerbuilt houses accounted for 56 per cent-or 819,000-of the 1.45 million new single family homes built last year. The rest were built by, or for, persons who already owned vacant

The majority of the new houses were financed by savings and loan associations, the league said. Savings associations financed the purchase of 840,000 new houses last year, an all-time high.

Of the developer-built houses, 22 per cent were sold before construction was begun and another 45 per cent were sold during the construction phase. Only 33 per cent of the homes were unsold once they were built, a significant drop from the 39 per cent of developer-built homes which were unsold upon completion of construction

COMPLETELY CASUAL FURNITURE

You dearly loved old Aunt Hester, but that antique jewelry she left you is for the birds.

You shouldn't, and probably wouldn't, sell treasured family heirlooms without careful consideration. But you shouldn't just automatically keep every inherited piece either.

Tucked away in a safe deposit box you may have jewelry that just doesn't suit your taste or lifestyle.

Jewelry that could be exchanged for something you'd like much better or that could even be traded for cash.

After all, times, tastes and values do change. A ring, or broach left you years ago may now be worth considerably more than you ever imagined.

The best way to find out for sure, is to have it appraised by experts.

At Charterhouse we're buyers, sellers, brokers and appraisers of fine jewelry, antique timepieces, and Georgian silver.

With worldwide resources at our fingertips.

We can help you to decide which pieces are worth selling and which pieces are worth keeping.

Express non-stop season thrills metro Detroit fans

Staff photos by Harry Mauthe

ABOVE: Express coach Ken Furphy is regarded as one of the best coaches in the North American Soccer League, credited as the architect of the highly successful New York Cosmos. RIGHT: The more than 30,000 fans—the largest crowd ever to watch a soccer game in Michigan—went wild as Detroit Express won the playoff game and sent the duel into sudden death last week. The Express eventually lost in the second sudden death period.

Behind the magical touch of Trevor Francis, the sport of soccer got a toehold in metropolitan Detroit area this summer.

More than 32,000 people witnessed one of the year's most exciting games last week. In what turned out as the Express' final performance of 1978, the North American Soccer League (NASL) expansion team won a regulation game, then dropped a sudden-death 'mini-game' to the wild-card playoff entrant Ft. Lauderdale Strikers. Both scores were 1-0.

The loss was a stunning end to a dramatic season. However, the melodrama concerning Francis' status as a player in the United States has only begun. Next year the NASL is talking about expanding its season, which means the American season might overlap the British season. Francis' first commitment is to his first division team in England, Birmingham City. Express management, however, for obvious strength and financial reasons, would cherish the sight of the mild-mannered star again streaking across the Silverdome's green carpet.

Francis' appearance would almost guarantee another successful soccer season in Detroit, and give the trio of principal owners—Gordon Preston, Roger Faulkner and John Camkin—a solid foundation for the future.

Trevor Francis, the golden feet of Express soccer, returned to the field after the game to acknowledge the thousands of fans who cheered him on during his association this summer with the Detroit team. He'll return to England to continue play with his hometown team.

Hayward picked for SC board

By TIM RICHARD

In a surprise move, the Schoolcraft College board Wednesday selected Richard J. Hayward, a Livonia industrialist, to fill a vacancy on the eightmember board.

The vote was 4-3. The surprise came when Trustee Nancie Blatt, a known Democrat, supported Hayward.

Three other known Democrats on the board supported G.J. (Jack) Bologna, who has a history of Democratic involvement.

Mrs. Blatt said afterwards that she had been under "a lot of pressure, even from Lansing," to support Bologna but she decided Hayward was the better candidate and said she cast a non-partisan vote.

HAYWARD WAS also supported by trustees Gerald Cox, Harry Greenleaf and Leonard Wozniak, all known Republicans. Hayward has no history of partisan involvement.

Bologna was supported by Chairman Paul Kadish and trustees Mark McQuesten and Rosina Raymond.

Hayward, executive vice-president of Freedland Structural Steel Co., had run for the Schoolcraft board in 1975 and 1977. He impressed the board two weeks ago when candidates were interviewed. "I have something to offer," he said in the interview.

"I am a business executive with experience in labor relations. The firm I'm with is part of the construction industry. Education is my avocation." He earned a degree at Madonna College a year ago.

The Schoolcraft board now has six trustees from Livonia, one from Garden City and one from the Plymouth-Canton school district. There are none from Clarenceville and Northville.

from Clarenceville and Northville.

Mrs. Blatt said the shortage of Plymouth-Canton representation weighed heavily on her mind, but she felt Hayward was the stronger candidate. She said Bologna should be considered for appointment if Kadish is elected to the state senate on Nov. 7.

RICHARD J. HAYWARD

Hayward will serve one year of the unexpired term of Ron Cowden, who resigned Aug. 1. In 1979, Hayward is expected to run for the remaining two years of Cowden's term.

FOUR OTHER candidates had applied for the vacancy. They are:

•Neil Goodbred of Livonia, an instructor in college accounting at Wayne County Community College with a strong interest in capital budgets.

 Dr. Joseph A. Sinkwitts, a Northville dentist, Jaycee, member of the Schoolcraft Jazz Ensemble and a former Detroit substitute teacher.

 Thomas S. Moore of Northville, an engineering supervisor in Ford's light truck transmission and transfer case design—and a probable candidate in the 1979 election.

•James B. McKeon, Plymouth real estate firm owner and former mayor, who confessed he would be running for the Plymouth-Canton school board if his wife wasn't a teacher there.

Job hunting skills course offered

Job hunters should find two courses, Career Planning and Decision Making, and Employability Skills, offered at Madonna College, Livonia, valuable when looking for employment.

Career Planning and Decision Making (CRC 100), will help students apply their interests, abilities, skills and values, toward possible career options. Through resume writing, lectures and group discussions, the student should be able to plan his career more successfully.

The course is offered for one credit. Employability Skills (CRC 200), will teach essential skills and strategies needed for finding a job. The course will cover resume writing, interviewing techniques, filling out job applications, and finding job leads. It is also offered for one credit.

Registration for these courses should be done immediately at the student service center, 36600 Schoolcraft, Livonia. The hours are 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Both classes are offered through Madonna's Career Resource Center, which was created as a Career Model for Liberal Arts Colleges to help individuals assess their career capabilities and recommend ways of improving their employability in relation to the job market.

Under the direction of Chris Ziegler, the Center sponsors workshops for high school and college students, individualized testing and counseling, surveys of employment opportunities and in-service workshops on career preparation for elementary and secondary teachers.

Students are also able to appraise realistically possible careers with the aid of the Michigan Occupational Information System (MOIS). The system includes computerized information on the nature of the 350 occupations, working conditions, worker requirements, earnings and advancement potential, and employment outlook.

An important component of the Career Resource Center is the cooperative education program under the direction of Sister M. Danatha. This program permits students at Madonna to related supervised work experience in their major field of study for college credit through alternate or concurrent periods of work and study.

Although the arena was frustrating to many, it will have many positive effects. Students have their schedules when they leave the arena. This will avoid the lines at counselors offices during the first few weeks of school when students have traditionally waited to change a schedule that wasn't satisfactory

In addition, 85 to 90 per cent of the students have already had their identification pictures taken, have paid their book and material deposit, and turned in their emergency card.

Way to earn summer bucks

Nancy Keinrath and Lisa Mai wanted to earn some money and do something worthwhile over their summer vacation.

But they didn't want to work at a conventional job. So they put their heads together and came up with the idea for a neighborhood nursery school.

"It just sort of happened." explained Miss Keinrath. "We both had quite a bit of babysitting experience, and the nursery school sounded like it would be a community service.

"There are a lot of kids in the neighborhood, and I know the mothers have appreciated it.

The classes were held at one of the two girl's homes in Lake Pointe Village on Tuesday and Thursday mornings all summer long.

Before the girls started the program, they sent out flyers to the mothers in the neighborhood to let them know what they had in mind.

"We really had no idea how many kids we would be working with." Miss Keinrath said. "But on some days we had as many as 25 in class. In addition to the traditional arts and crafts, the girls planned games, stories and songs for the

As of today, though, the summer nursery school is over. Both Miss Mai and Miss Keinrath are juniors at Plymouth Canton High School, and they are getting ready to start classes of their own. In looking back over the summer experiment, Miss Keinrath said she had no regrets but wasn't sure she would do it again.

"It gave us the experience of setting up our own business and working with people. But we had to buy a lot of supplies, and we didn't wind up with that much money left over.

Now, after nearly 100 years, a radical change has been introduced into the field—the Humphrey Vision Analyzer 210. Instead of placing a 30 pound lens bank in front of the face, 20th century technology can focus a pair of phantom lenses just in front of the eyes, very much like a hologram. In addition, the prescription of the "hologram" can be continuously changed similar to a zoom camera, instead of the alternate click-click of the old style phoroptor. Also, this steady change is constantly analyzed by a modern microcomputer throughout the refraction.

These are just a few of the many improvements incorporated in one instrument to help the doctor improve your vision. Optics and Optometry have come a long way since the phoroptor was invented. The Humphrey Vision Analyzer-20th century technology making a difference you can see.

High Court 1st amendment ruling assailed as serious blow to press

The U.S. Supreme Court's recent decision denying a public television station special access to maximum security areas of California's Santa Rita Prison "is probably the most serious blow to first amendment values in the last several years," says a University of Michigan legal scholar.

Vince Blasi, who recently published a scholarly analysis of the Supreme Court's rulings on first amendment issues, says the recent California case attacks the concept of a "vigorous, effective press able to critically scrutinize the government.

Several years ago Blasi completed a national legal study concluding that news reporters should be granted unconditional immunity from governmental subpoenas.

The U-M professor notes that Justice Potter Stewart's "swing opinion" in the 4-3 case granted San Francisco public television station KQED the right to bring cameras into the prison, but refused the station entry to maximum security areas that were also closed to the public.

The station sought permission to inspect facilities, interview prisoners and shoot film footage after news of a suicide by a maximum security inmate and reports of inadequate maximum security facilities.

After being denied such access by Alamada County officials, the station filed a lawsuit. Later, parts of the prison were opened to public and press tours, but not the maximum security Blasi said the upshot of the case is that "journalists probably do not have a special right of access to such facilities," which could have ramifications for press coverage of other governmental institutions.

Blasi contends that, throughout the nation's history, the high court's rulings dealing with first amendment rights failed to focus on an important consideration: "The value of free speech, a free spress and free assembly can serve in checking the abuse of power by public officials."

Were it not for such rights, suggests Blasi, the escalation of the war in Vietnam might have gone unchecked and the Watergate conspiracy might never have been uncovered.

Citing deficienceis of the Supreme Court's decisions, Blasi says that "virtually all of the cases that came to the court in the 1960s as a result of the street campaigns of civil rights activists were resolved by finding the statutes at issue defective for vagueness and overbreadth.

"These numerous cases," says Blasi, "produced little in the way of first amendment doctrine and nothing in the way of enlightening analysis of the basic values underlying the speech, press and assembly clauses. . . The result has been a pattern of aborted doctrines, shifting rationales and frequent changes of position by individual justices."

SC courts get tree screen

Private donors are raising funds to develop a natural windscreen of trees around Schoolcraft College's tennis

The project will cost $4,000 to $5,000, according to Marvin Gans, the college's director of athletics.

What we hope to do is to plant 5 12 to six feet spruce trees along the berm to the south and west of the tennis courts," Dr. Gans said. "We'll also plant some pine and spruce clusters between the courts.

Schoolcraft, whose main campus is at 18600 Haggerty in Livonia, has 12 all-weather courts, eight of which are lighted for night play. They are in nearly constant use in summer and other months when weather permits.

Dr. Gans said the windscreen idea was suggested by Wes and Sally Henrikson of Northville. They have pledged funds, as have Dr. Robert Mandell of Farmington Hills, Mitch and Betty Madis of Plymouth and Dr. Mehdi Kianfar, a political science

Dr. Gans said the trees will not only diminish prevailing southwest winds but provide a color backdrop for better

Spruce trees will cost about $35 each, and 140 are required. Planting will begin in fall.

Damman was cleared of any legal wrong-doing, but his political star has dimmed.

A Detroit newspaper blew the whistle on Damman, but it was Betty Howe who did the spadework.

Mrs. Howe, of Rochester, works in the Bendix Corp. executive offices in Southfield. She succeeded to the head of the Oakland Democratic party in 1973 when Morley Winograd became state chairman.

Mrs. Howe is under consideration by State Sen. William Fitzgerald, the Democratic gubernatorial nominee who is under terrific pressure from the women's caucus to select a woman as his running mate. The convention does the actual nominating, but it's habitual for the gubernatorial nominee to get

Hellier takes Belleville AD job

There is a famous saying, "The golden road to success is one of many opportunities." That would apply to former Livonia Franklin coach and teacher Ron Hellier.

Hellier had the opportunity to become the athletic director for the Belleville school system, and he took it. In so doing, Hellier resigned as both Franklin baseball and girls' basketball coach and his teaching postion in the Livonia system.

"The biggest reason I decided to take the job was I had an opportunity to reach one of mu future goals of being an athletic director, and I didn't want to pass it up," Hellier said. "This will be a step up from what I was doing at Franklin.

"Another reason that I took the job was the uncertainties of the whole Livonia athletic system.

"IT WAS A year-to-year thing, and you never knew if your sport would be cut or not. I liked Franklin and I liked coaching, but there are just to many uncertainties in Livonia.

Hellier will be the athletic director for all of the Belleville schools-high school, junior high and elementires. He will no longer teach or coach as he did at Franklin.

"I will miss the coaching more than anything," said the Canton resident. Hellier spent 10 years at Franklin. As a baseball coach he racked up a 146-105 career record.

Schoolcraft gears for fall competition

Varsity sports are alive and well and getting ready for the fall season at Schoolcraft College.

The college sponsors 10 intercollegiate sports throughout the year, starting with soccer, cross country and women's volleyball in the fall.

The soccer team, coached by Larry Christoff, will open its season Sept. 16 against Belleville College, Ill. Last year, the squad was 6-3-1. The women's volleyball team will attempt to repeat its fine season of last year. Coach Tom Teeters hopes to once again lead his team to the national finals.

The volleyball team opens its season Sept. 23 at the Wayne State University

Coach Dan Reynolds is priming his cross country team for its season opener Sept. 9 against Eastern Mich-

Griffin blasted in Johnstown

AAABA TOURNAMENT

Griffin Sports Shop took a 24-7 pasting from Washington, D.C. last week in the All-American Amateur Baseball Association national finals in Johnstown, Pa. The loss, Griffin's second of the tourney, eliminated the area team from further competition.

Washington pounded six Griffin pitchers for 25 hits. Randy Rodriguez, the second hurler to try his luck, absorbed the defeat.

Griffin totaled 10 hits during the contest. Scott Collins blasted a three-run home run and Ken Scarpace rapped a bases-empty round-tripper.

Griffin took a 1-0 lead in the top of the first inning, fell behind 7-1 after two innings and rallied to tie the score 7-7 after 3 ½ frames. However, the roof fell in after that

Washington exploded for five runs in the fourth inning, one in the fifth, one in the sixth and 10 in the seventh.

Hilltop Roundup By Betty DeLano

During the Lady Stroh's Open at the Dearborn Country Club last week, I was one of many spectators who on Tuesday and Wednesday (the practice round and the Pro-Am) roamed the course like a hound-an autograph hound, that is.

Playing a role that I am really very much opposed to, I couldn't resist when players like Judy Rankin. Sandra Post, Kathy Whitworth and the famed Nancy Lopez crossed my path. Or was it that I deliberately crossed theirs?

I was very impressed with all the players who I saw. But, like others, I was taken in by Lopez, even though she didn't swing a club due to an aching shoulder.

Before anyone knew that Lopez had arrived on the scene. I wondered how much longer it would be until the new highlight to the golf world made her grand entrance.

Much to my surprise, at that very moment she was standing right next to me. The only problem was that everyone else realized it at the same time and the fans were attracted to Lopez like bees to honey.

It wasn't until the second hole that I finally got close enough again to ask that question that I'm so opposed to. But out it popped, clear as day, "Nancy, would you please sign this for

More than 19,000 people showed up for the six-day tourney-enough to assure the Lady Stroh's Open a spot again next year on the LPGA tour. I promise to all who read this column. no more autograph chasing for me I'll bring a camera instead.

In the Plymouth Women's League, Mary Jo LaBeau has taken the lead in A FLight with 74 points. Cheryl Yarnevich still leads B Flight with 74 12. and Marlene Tipi has still got the first place spot in C Flight with 81 points. Madonna Nadeau is in first place of the D Flight with 79 points.

Low scores in the A Flight of the Windsor Park League were Sue Moran at 46 and Rita Heath and Jenny Jones tied at 50. In B Flight, Marcy Hirschauer led with a 62 for the nine-hole round followed by Pat Thibert at 63.

Linda Cygan was low score in C Flight with a 60 and Pat Richter and Tommie Preniczky tied at 69 each. D Flight leaders were Cheryl Wachlarz at 70 and Mary Ann Lovich at 83.

There could be a lot of changes this week in the Friday Night Couples League. With points being as close as they are between many of the couples, the position night could result with some major upsets, such as the one in C Flight last week.

A Flight leaders Gene and Marion DePriest have 134 points and are ahead of Jim and Judy Stephens at 133. Charlie and Marguerite Clark have 121 and George and Jane Todd have 115 points.

B Flight leaders Al Flower and Ann Buie are still well out in front with 136 points. Tom and Sue Moran follow at 121, and Gene and Pearl Byrne have 118 points. Fourth place belongs to Tom and Diane VanHoose with 113

Steve and Diane Scheerhorn have moved into first place in the C Flight by taking Jerry and Rita Heath. 19-3.

Former White House aide comes to defense of nation's consumers

By SHIRLEE IDEN

In less than a decade, Virginia Knauer has gone from city government to state government to serving two presidents and today is an independent consumer affairs consultant.

What's important to her is that in all endeavors she has been "on the side of the consumer.

Mrs. Knauer, a Philadelphia native. says she's not a Philadelphia lawyer or any other kind, but has had many attorneys serve under her.

Her government service began wher she was elected to the Philadelphia City Council in the 1960s.

"I served on the council for eight years," she recalled. "In those days consumer education was sparse Mostly it was available in home economics studies and that was not my

But I had been aware of consumer dissatisfaction and I learned to sift consumer concerns as a council mem-

She was recognized more and more as knowledgeable in consumer affairs and received an appointment from the Pennsylvania governor.

"We wrote strong consumer legislation in Pennsylvania and in a real sense, it was pioneering legislation." she said in a interview.

IN 1969, her name was recommended to the White House and President Richard Nixon appointed her as special assistant for consumer affairs. She served in the same capacity in the Ford administration.

When I went to the White House, only 16 states had consumer protection laws, and, of course, Pennsylvania was one of them," she said, proudly. "Today all states and other branches of government are aware of consumer concerns and adress themselves to them.

Mrs. Knauer's job in the White House was of cabinet-level rank and she recalls the first time she attended a meeting in the cabinet room.

"I was invited to sit at the cabinet table and I looked around that impressive room and I said to myself-'That's the president of the United States' and I looked around and Henry Kissinger was speaking.

"I remember glancing at the long narrow windows and nearly considering going out one of them when President Nixon looked over at me and "I started to speak and never felt

Mrs. Knauer's office and those of her staff were in the new Exeuctive Office Building across the street from the White House.

"I chose it that way and even though sometimes I was urged to move into the White House, I never did. Besides, walking across the street was the only exercise I ever got."

SHE LOOKS back on her White House years as "wonderfully produc-

"The treasury secretary and I sponsored a consumer conference which was a first and very successful," she said. "We had a lot of fun with promoting consumer education. We realized that we had to train consumers

"People on low incomes and inner city residents were so frequently taken advantage of. They just didn't perceive any basic consumer rights.'

Mrs. Knauer said President John Kennedy was the first national leader to enunciate consumer rights and every president since has endorsed them and added something to the con-

"Consumer rights begin with the right of the consumer to have information on which to base a choice in the free marketplace," she said. "Then there's the right to safety in products and thirdly, the right to be heard. Last is the right to redress if satisfaction is not achieved."

From every point of view, Mrs. Knauer concedes that consumers are far better off today than they were in the early 1960s when Kennedy first articulated basic rights for them.

"What's vital is that people speak up. I always encourage this," she said. "Today people are aware of their rights and they do tend to speak up. But consumers also have responsibilities as well as rights.

"BASICALLY, this involves using products as the manufacturer

She gave the illustration of how people abuse flowers and then complain about their short life, an area she is well versed in since she is now a consumer advisor for Florist Telegraph Delivery.

"People receive a lovely arrangement of flowers and then put them on their television where they'll get them in a direct draft."

the flower arranger at the Washington Montessori School.

Now that she is out of government and in business, Mrs. Knauer said she feels quite comfortable since her principal job in the White House was to communicate with businessmen.

"I told them to listen to consumers," she said, "that it was part of being a good marketer. Many companies set up consumer affairs offices and I was delighted."

She said things are so different today that there is now an organization for consumer professionals which although only a year old, has over 1,000 members.

"Consumer experts abound now and have proper training too," she said. "When I was in government, our tack was to urge businessmen to accept progressive ideas so we didn't have to ask for legislation. Usually, if you get the big companies to act, the others will follow "

IN HER present capacity with FTD, Mrs. Knauer advises consumers how to best use the flower delivery service and how to report unsatisfactory service. Her other function is to evaluate the company's quality control programs and recommend any needed changes.

LPGA tournament offered excitement

By DOUG FUNKE

Excitement? Tension? Involvement? Even some of the golfers who finished early and out of contention seemed mesmerized by the finish of the Lady Stroh's Open last weekend at the Dearborn Country Club.

Laura Baugh and Jane Blalock stood near the top of the hill overlooking the 18th green. They were sipping drinks and straining to catch a glimpse over the hugh crowd of the drama unfolding below

Ray Volpe, commissioner of the LPGA, seemed to be in almost a trance-like state at the conclusion of the three-way playoff won by Sandra Post

The Sunday crowd of 19,400 scrambled over the course and excitedly followe the ups and downs of their fav ites.

Everyone seemed ecstatic about the tournament-Volpe, the competitors, the larger-than-expected crowds, Phil Harry, president of the Dearborn Country Club, and Faust Bianco, golf pro at the club.

"It's 99.9 per cent certain that we'll be back next year," said Volpe. "This is the best thing that ever happened to

"I have a tendency to promote products with a 10 per cent degree of bull-If we would have had 25-30,000 paid admissions, I would have been satisfied," said the commissioner. "This was our largest paid crowd ever.'

A total paid attendance of 61,550 was announced for the five days from the pro-am Wednesday, which drew 8,500, through the final day's turnout of Thursday's crowd was 9,250, Friday's 12,100 and Saturday's 12,300. The enthusiasm of the competitors was obvious.

"This is the greatest tournament we've ever had in the LPGA," said Post after accepting her trophy.

Betsy Rawls, a former player who retired from competition in 1976 to serve as tournament director of the tour, seemed most impressed with the

She came into the press room Sunday afternoon and tried to get other LPGA officials working there to come out and see the huge galleries.

That seems high praise from an individual who played professionally for 19 years, who has been named to the LPGA Hall of Fame and who watched the women's tour grow from infancy.

Analysis

"The crowds have been fantastic," said Bianco. "We're very happy with their behavior. The (club) members put forth a tremendous amount of

"By all means I would be in favor of the tournament returning next year, if we get the cooperation of the membership."

Phil Harry, president of the club, indicated that was all but assured.

"It's almost a certainty (that the tourney will be contested in Dearborn again next year)," said Harry. "The people I've talked to have said nothing

"It's just a matter of letting the members know what we have in mind and getting their approval. There's a formality with the board (of directors).

"Everything's been so positive," he

Remick Stroh, co-coordinator of the tournament, said that all parties involved will be getting together soon to evaluate this year's program and decide on a definite course of action for next year.

There are two potential drawbacks to the Lady Stroh's returning to Dearborn next year.

First, a majority of the membership may nix the proposal because they might not want their :lub facilities tied up for a week againnext summer.

Second, the men's pro tour will be coming to the Detroit area twice next year for major tournaments—the U.S. Open June 14-17 at Inverness Country Club in Toledo and the PGA Championship Aug. 2-5 at Oakland Hills in Birmingham.

Neither problem seems formidable. The comments of Harry and Bianco seem to eliminate the first.

As for the second, Stroh said he believes that the "LPGA gals play the brand of golf you and I can relate to."

Also, July may be a good month to schedule the women between the major men's events.

editorial opinion

The ERA isn't a ball game

Perhaps the most visible national trait of Americans is our love of games.

Alan Shepard got aboard Apollo 14, travelled 250,000 miles, and topped it all off by kicking up a divot hitting a golf ball on the moon. Wearing flak jackets instead of shoulder pads, soldiers at Khesanh played football under siege in what was widely perceived in 1968 to be the staging area for a Viet Cong invasion of San Diego.

Sports are everywhere, so it came as no real surprise last week to hear the sports editor at the office equate the proposed deadline extension for the Equal Rights Amendment with a football

"They're behind at the two-minute warning, and now they want to change the rules," said he.

Hearing that last week was one thing. You have to consider the source. Sports writers do not tend to be the kind of people who gave up promising careers in constitutional law for their love of low pay and The Game.

Hearing the same argument Sunday night was another thing. The theory was expounded at length, seemingly interminable length, at the end of "60 Minutes.

"60 Minutes" is a "televised newsmagazine" that usually ends with a dash of commentary, made important by the number of people who

Past experience tells me that in the weeks ahead, when bar conversation around this town meanders away from why Rusty Staub is 0-for-10 at the plate, the most likely topic is the ERA extension as a game.

'60 Minutes' states complex problems simply and illuminates them with pictures. That's good television, and the ratings for the show prove it.

Pictures are of no use, however, in explaining the ERA extension. Neither is the use of the game as a metaphor, because as a metaphor it is fatally

You can't change the rules in the middle of a game. The idea is outrageous. But the reason is that games depend on their structure to keep our interest because there is no substance

Professional wrestling lacks visible rules. Professional football has hundreds of rules. Pro wrestling draws small crowds to places that look like basement rumpus rooms, then spatters the fans with chicken blood. Pro football draws millions to domed tax-paid palaces. Cut the rules out of football and blood-spattered old ladies with tennis shoes would try to make a crowd at the

A constitutional amendment is changing the rules. Nothing more, nothing less. Since the game is 202 years old, all of the rule changes obviously take place while the game is on.

The ERA is a rules change that polls say more than half the people in the country want. More people want it every time they take a poll. It's a

Maybe it's a bad idea, and maybe it's the best thing since whipped cream in a can, but cutting it short now requires some better explanation than "That's changing the rules."

Of course it is. But since we're talking about the only game in town, it seems fair to give the town's populace what it wants. Or at least enough time to find out what it wants.

Extending the time limit for constitutional amendments is not forbidden in the U.S. Constitution. Extension of the ERA deadline won't cause the roof to fall in, but killing the idea on shaky grounds just might.

In praise of maize

Speedy transportation can whisk us food products from warm climes all year. The miracles of technology can help us preserve those foods. Yet nothing in transportation or technology can help us duplicate the taste of absolutely fresh corn on the cob, picked that morning.

The Chippewa leader Hiawatha considered the growing of corn his greatest accomplishment. The Indian thanksgiving was the Feast of Mondamin, named for the young man from whose buried body the corn sprouted. "Stood the maize in all its beauty, with its shining robes about it, and its long, soft, yellow tresses; and in rapture Hiawatha cried aloud, 'It is Mondamin! Yes, the friend of man, Mondamin!" "Thus does Longfellow relate it.

Nearly everyone we know loves sweetcorn, boiled five minutes or perhaps roasted slowly over charcoal; spread on the butter and sprinkle on the salt-ummmm! And only in this season of the year can you get it in Michigan. You can keep Santa Claus and the Fourth of July. Late summer and fresh sweet corn are tops.

The University of Michigan, unquestionably the premier institution of its type in the world, has the good grace to honor corn in its school colors-Maize and Blue. And this is the only time of year when you can find out why.

TIME TO PUT THE "BEDSHEET" TO BED?

Filling a long, long ballot: Do voters really care?

This weekend those lovable public servants, the yeopersons of the Republican and Democratic parties, will gather in nominating conventions to fill out the rest of their state tickets for the Nov. 7

Their affairs-in Detroit and Lansing, respectively-will get considerably less media and public attention than the political conclave going on in Rome to elect a new pope.

The Catholic Church has approximately 17 centuries more experience at this type of thing than do Michigan's political parties, so we should expect a more interesting performance at the

The church works through one principal head and a group called the College of Cardinals. All are highly visible. We know what they do.

THE SAME CANNOT be said, unfortunately, for what the political parties do.

They will nominate very long tickets to fill up a very long ballot. Most delegates will hardly know the persons they nominate. Fewer voters will know or care either.

In the course of an eight-year election cycle, you, the voter, will cast ballots for no less than 45 persons for statewide office: Two U.S. senators, the governor and three other administrative board members, seven supreme court justices, and eight persons for each of four education boards

If you wish, toss in the six persons you elect to the state court of appeals (you live in one of three districts in the state), and you're up to 51 persons.

(Those are just statewide posts. I haven't mentioned your friendly local U.S. rep, state senator, state rep, city, township, village, school board, community college board, and county officers.)

THE TWO PARTIES will go at the nominating job quite differently

Republicans will concentrate on balancing their ticket geographically. Someone from the Upper Peninsula will get something. The southwest portion of the state will cry the blues until its favorite son gets something.

Tim Richard

Democrats balance their ticket sociologically. There must be a job or two for blacks. There must be something for big labor. The Hispanic bloc must come up with a plum.

Between that balancing act, Democrats also will have to split their pie between men and women.

Folks laugh at television's Archie Bunker, whose theory was that you nominated a Jew for treasurer, because Jews are good with money, and an Irishman as auditor to keep the Jewish treasurer honest. Stop laughing. In Michigan that's almost the way they do it.

DEMOCRATS ARE crassly ethnic, in my view, in how they nominate. But I have to give them credit for often developing real issues.

Several state officeholders have been denied renomination because of their decisions on the bench or on an education board. Good ol' Joe-or Josephine-doesn't automatically win a Democratic renomination just because he or she has been around a long time and hasn't been known to steal.

Yet the plain truth is that the ballot is much, much too long. Michigan's first constitution, in 1835, made more sense. We elected a governor, lieutenant governor, state senator and state rep and appointed the rest. In the 1850 constitution, we botched it up by allowing elective offices to proliferate, and the 1908 and 1964 constitutions never made adequate repairs.

In Rome the doors are closed, but we at least know who's in charge.

In our state political conventions, it's considerably tougher to get an accounting.

A venery for a badling of words

Twenty-five years too late, I realize that I reacted as a typical churl the afternoon I merely laughed when the pretty girl who had the window seat beside me on a Union Pacific train going south from Sun Valley, Idaho, suddenly exclaimed, "Oh, look. What a beautiful school of deer!"

A nye of pheasants, a gaggle of geese, a badling of ducks, a fall of woodcock, or a wisp of snipe, yes. But a school of deer? What kind of talk is

I should have said calmly, "Mary, you need more training in venereal matters."

But that was long before I discovered James Lipton from whose "An Exaltation of Larks" I am stealing liberally and admittedly this day in the hope of stimulating your interest in semantics, particularly the venereal groupings.

As Lipton puts it, "As I played the venereal game, like Tom Sawyer whitewashing his fence, I found that spectators didn't stay spectators long. If you should feel the urge, there are more brushes in the pail."

A WORD IS IN ORDER about such open use of "venereal" before you blush. I am not using it the way you had hoped.

Calling upon the published research of Lipton, author and producer of some of America's most splendid entertainments in the last decade or two, you and I will accept "venereal" as the adjective of "venery," which in Middle English signified the hunt, the chase

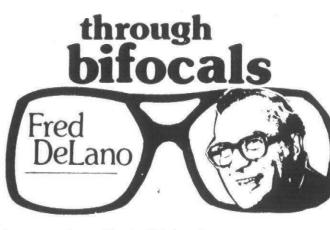

Thus, the quest for a label to apply to group terms - the inaccurate "school" of deer being our starting point - means we are looking for terms of venery, or venereal terms.

A murmation of starlings, a leap of leopards, a skulk of foxes, a knot of toads, a shoal of bass, a nest of rabbits, a richness of martens, a cowardice of curs and a pride of lions are among the LIPTON, WHO LAST year published an updated version through Penquin Books Ltd. of "An Exaltation of Larks" which first appeared in '68, has a sentence which hits home. He chooses exalted words to identify what the workaday world calls a lack of communication, the most oft-heard excuse for office goofups of our times.

Lipton says of "the encumbering toils of language" that the "most difficult feat on earth" is that of "transferring one thought from one mind to another" and quotes Proverbs 25:11, "A word fitly spoken is like apples of gold in pictures of silver."

His is not at all a dull tome. The words flow as music, and there is room for light but caustic comment on new uses for old words, pungent new definitions for such as cool, dig, rip off. Nowhere did I find "gay" in his 138 delightful pages, but the charm of language history back into the 15th Century makes that flight into modernism unnecessary.

IT WAS A THETA whom I knew in student days at Ann Arbor, Betty Ronal by her maiden name, who opened the Lipton door to me, semantics always having been a bond.

This occurred only recently after I had told the "school of deer" yarn while our families, being firm friends to this day, were enjoying a weekend together.

"Our language, one of the most precious natural resources in the English-speaking countries, is also a dwindling one that deserves at least as much protection as our woodlands, streams and whooping cranes," writes Lipton.

"We don't write letters, we make long-distance calls; we don't read we are talked to, in the resolutely 12-year-old vocabulary of radio and television. Under the banner of Timesaving we are offered only the abbreviated, the abridged, the aborted.

"Before it is too late I would like to propose a language sanctuary, a wild-word refuge, removed and safe from the hostile environment of our TV-

"BY 1486, VENEREAL terms were already a game, capable of codification," says Lipton. He cites publication at that time of such phrases as "a bevy of ladies," "a congregation of people," "a riffraff of knaves" and "a herd of harlots" as evidence.

He also tells of many terms of venery he either has coined or encountered from other minds since he "first began unearthing these shards of poetry

Samples include "a piddle of puppies," "a swish of hairdressers," "an odium of politicians." "a stud of poker players," "a mass of priests," "a portfolio of brokers," "a mews of cathouses," "a transplant of suburbanites," "a bed of swingers" and others equally imaginative.

I only wish he would next explore the tendency of recent years, foisted upon us by headline writers, to abbreviate in initials, and turn the venereal game in that direction. What play upon words might result by corrupting UAW, WPA, JFK, FDR, LBJ, NLRB et al into fanciful phrases? Or even ERA?

You say the latter stands unequivocably for the Equal Rights Amendment and naught more? My dear, the best ERA for Detroit this year would have been about 1.5 by The Bird, putting our Tigers on the threshhold of a World Series. Earned Run Average, that is.

The Stroller An unforgettable character Tom was small in stature, but a died.

By W. W. EDGAR -

Every now and then, The Stroller likes to take time out for a refreshing pause on his journey along life's highway to visit again in memory with some of the colorful characters he has met.

The other afternoon, for instance, while sitting in the shade of a large maple tree in the backyard, The Stroller got to feeling sorry for the present generation which never had the opportunity to meet and live with the folks from "the old country" who came here to start life all over again.

This feeling of pity came when The Stroller recalled Tom Williams, a little Welshman who was one of the most likeable and colorful of the newcomers in his old hometown back in the Pennsylvania Dutch country.

THE WELSH people were drawn there because one of their own-a man named Dave Roberts-had pioneered the making of "pig" iron from anthracite coal and set up an entirely new industry. Up to then, bituminous coal was the main ingredient of the infant steel industry.

So many of these Welsh people settled in our town that they organized their own congregation and built their own church. Tom Williams was the leader of the group, and under his urging the Welsh church became a railying place for even the Dutch and Irish, of whom there were many.

loveable fellow. His only weakness was his inability to grasp the English language. The words and terms he did use had a nice Welsh accent, and persons loved to engage him in conversation. He was at his best each year when he would arrange for the Welsh Choir to stop in our town on its tour of the states. This was the musical treat of the year, and Tom was in glory, as they used to say, when he'd step to the center of the town hall stage and introduce the choirmaster.

And each year he'd talk some of the members into abandoning the choir and move into our town.

MANY ARE the humorous tales they still tell of Tom Williams when the old-timers get together in Catasauqua. One legend concerned the building of the Welsh church. Tom was leader of the building committee and had his own ideas of what the church should look like-both inside and out.

On one particular evening when the committee gathered to discuss the interior furnishings, Tom was late. The committee went on without him. When Tom arrived, the discussion was on chandeliers. Should the church have them?

Evidently Tom never had heard of chandeliers and had them confused with carillon chimes. When they asked him what he thought about the idea, Tom pondered, then answered:

"They would be fine, but who nell is going to play them?"

That story stuck with him until he

THE STROLLER had a personal experience with the kind, old gent that still causes him to laugh each time the memory of it comes through the mist of years.

Old Tom had taken it upon himself to teach a class in Sunday school. It became so popular that young lads joined and attended each Sunday morning

Back in those days, nothing was sacred to the young lads-not even a Sunday school room. So it was that they played tricks even at the most solemn part of old Tom's teaching

One trick was to insert a straight pin in the toe of one's shoe. Once the pin was placed, it was considered funny to jab the person seated in front of you, just to hear the squealing.

ON THIS particular Sunday morning, old Tom was more serious than ever in his efforts to get the Bible message across to the young minds.

At one point, he stared right at us and asked "Who was it who died to save

At that precise moment, one boy in the class was stuck in the rear end with a pin and he yelled, "Jesus

"Right you are, my boy," old Tom said, "but not so loud.

Christ.'

Yes, he was a colorful character, a first generation Welshman who had come to The Stroller's hometown to make a mark for himself. He is one of the legends of the old Iron Borough."

Area lawmakers back extended ERA deadline

Here's how area members of congress were recorded on major roll call votes Aug. 10 through

HOUSE

ERA EXTENSION-Voted, 233 for and 189 against, to extend by 39 months the deadline for states to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment. The current deadline of March 22, 1979 would be extended to June 30, 1982. The proposed constitutional amendment has been ratified by 35 states. Three more must ratify it before it becomes part of the U.S. Constitution. The senate has not acted on the resolution (HJ Res 638) to extend the deadline and there is doubt that a final senate vote will occur this year.

Rep. Barbara Jordan (D-Tex.), a supporter, said: "Women have been going through the agony and ecstasy all their lives, and we will continue to do so until the words 'equal rights under the law shall not be denied because of sex' are part of the constitution. We shall continue unrelentingly as long as is necessary.

Rep. Philip Crane (R-Ill.), an opponent, said: "Any retroactive change in the time frame because the desired result has not been achieved violates the solemn spirit with which any constitutional amendment should be approached. Altering the ratification process because of pressure from the groups involved is a step I am wary of taking."

Members voting "yea" favored extending the time for ratifying the ERA.

Reps. David Bonior (D-Mt. Clemens), William Ford (D-Taylor), William Brodhead (D-Detroit), James Blanchard (D-Pleasant Ridge), William Broomfield (R-Birmingham), and Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth), voted "yea."

GOP TAX CUT-Rejected, 177 for and 240 against, a proposal to reduce individual federal income tax rates across-the-board by about 33 per cent over the next three years. The measure, known as Kemp-Roth for its co-sponsors, Rep. Jack Kemp (R-N.Y.), and Sen. William Roth (R-Del.), is becoming a major campaign issue for the Republican Party. The vote, therefore, provided a clear choice between Democratic Party and GOP approaches to federal taxation.

The vote rejected a motion to send a tax bill back to the ways and means committee with instructions that the committee report it back to the House with Kemp-Roth in it.

Kemp, a supporter, said the proposal would give Americans "incentive to work, save, invest, and take economic risks." He said that the massive tax cut "will expand the total amount of economic activity, expand the total tax base. providing additional revenues with which to offset federal

Rep. Jim Wright (D-Tex.), an opponent, called Kemp-Roth "a glittering bauble of opportunism" that is "the irresponsible way to cut taxes . simply to slash them indiscriminately and without regard for the effect it will have on spiraling deficits and rampaging inflation."

Members voting "yea" favored Kemp-Roth.

Broomfield and Pursell voted "vea." Bonior, Ford, Brodhead and Blanchard voted BUDGET CUT-Defeated, 155 for and 241 against, an amendment to cut fiscal 1979 spending by one per cent (about $5.6 billion) across-theboard in all government programs and departments. The measure was offered to the congressional budget resolution (H Con Res 683) setting overall ceilings and targets for government revenues and expenditures. The resolution sets a maximum federal budget of $561 billion in the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1.

Rep. Jake Pickle (D-Tex.), a supporter, said the amendment "may be the very best way to show that we are trying to tighten our belts" and is "perhaps the best, if not the last, chance today for us to make a meaningful cut in the overall budget

Rep. David Obey (D-Wis.), an opponent, said: "I have no objection to people coming in here and cutting specific programs, but this across-theboard, one per cent business is, I think, undignified. I think it is unreflective of the courage and business sense I know is in this house and I don't think we ought to do it.

Members voting "yea" favored the one per cent cut in federal spending.

Broomfield and Pursell voted "yea."

Bonior, Ford, Brodhead and Blanchard voted

SENATE

TUITION TAX CREDITS-Passed, 65 for and 27 against, a bill allowing parents a tax credit of 50 per cent of tuition and fees for each child in college or post-secondary vocational school, up to a maximum of $250 per student. The credit is retroactive to Aug. 1, 1978, and will be increased to $500 per student on Oct. 1, 1980. The bill (HR 12050) was sent to conference with the house.

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff (D-Conn.), a supporter, said: "The tuition tax credit says to the American taxpayer, 'Yes, we know you struggle for your children. We recognize your efforts.' I think it is time to do something about it. Let us pass this Sen. Robert Morgan (D-N.C.), an opponent, said: "We have to remember that college education is still a personal responsibility. . . We should also remember that going to college is a highly profitable investment.

Senators voting "yea" favored the tuition tax

Sens. Robert Griffin (R), and Donald Riegle (D), voted "yea.

TUITION TAX CREDITS-Approved, 56 for and 41 against, an amendment excluding parochial and private elementary and secondary school students from the bill providing tuition tax credits. The bill (HR 12050) was later passed and sent to conference with the house (see vote above). This amendment limited the tax credit to college and post-secondary vocational schooling.

Sen. Thomas Eagleton (D-Mo.), a supporter, said tax credits for parochial school students violated 'the constitutional requirement of separation of church and state."

Sen. Robert Packwood (R-Ore.), an opponent of the amendment, said that "... what the founders of this country intended, at least as evidenced by their practice, was never to preclude the use of public funds to be given to churches to run schools for primary and secondary children.' Members voting "yea" were opposed to tax credits for private and parochial school education. Riegle and Griffin voted "yea."

CONGRESSMEN FOR D.C.?-Agreed, 71 for and 22 against, to debate a proposed constitutional amendment (HJ Res 554) to give the District of Columbia two senators and one or more representatives in congress.

Sen. Strom Thurmond (R-S.C.), a supporter, said: "We cannot talk about human rights to others in the world until we here at home can show we are recognizing basic human rights. One of America's fundamental rights is the right to participate in a democracy. Residents of the district are being denied that right."

Sen. Orrin Hatch (R-Utah), an opponent, said if the amendment were adopted, D.C. "would have all of the privileges of statehood without the concurrent responsibilities, and our system of dual federalism would be seriously damaged.

Virtually all senators voting "nay" oppose the granting of congressmen to D.C.

Griffin and Riegle voted "yea."

SEVERAL PLYMOUTH area artists, members of the Three Cities Art Club, were winners at the Wayne County Fair in Belleville last week. Their entries were in the open class for adults

Jean Bologna proved her artistry extends beyond the canvas and into the kitchen. She brought home seven of the fancy rosettes signifying winners in the county fair. There were a second for ink drawing, a second for an acrylic, a third for watercolor, a third for oil, a third for jelly making, a third for her pickles and a first for vegetable canning.

Doreen Lawton earned a first for ink drawing, a first for watercolors and a sixth for oil.

Betty Manthey took first for acrylics, a second for a macrame wall hanging, a second for a watercolor and a third for ink. Robert Manthey had a first for pastels and a second for an oil painting.

Doreen Lawton was superintendent of the arts and crafts division of the 4-H Club part of the fair. She called on her friends to assist in the judging. Jessie Hudson judged stitchery and needlepoint, Grace Kabel judged macrame and weaving, and Cathy Coleman and Betty Manthey judged the crafts of beadery, Christmas trims and string art.

Jeanine Bolgna, 10, a student of Mrs. Manthey, earned a first in candle making, a second in roofslate painting, a second in pencil drawing and a third for a pastel.

"They are such lovely big rosettes." said Betty. "Quite impressive when attached to a picture in a show.

Each dealer has a specialty and Dorothy Thompson's is fine knglish jewlery and antiques.

16th annual antique mart opens Sept. 8

The 16th annual antique mart sponsored by the Plymouth Symphony League will open for a three-day run at noon Sept. 8 in the Plymouth Cultural Center, 525 Farmer Street.

The 22 dealers accepted for the show have been selected with an eye to diversification. Each has a specialty. Antiquers will have an opportunity to shop for everything from primitives to the finest jewlery, furniture and china.

Ruth Dobson of Dobson's Antiques in Pittsburgh, Pa. will be back with her exceptionally fine silver.

Ruby Morrison of the Red Sled in Union Lake will return for her 16th showing at the mart. She is one of the originals. Her primitives and early farm tables, cupboards and agcessories are always ready for immediate use. They have been stripped, sanded and waxed to reveal the original wood and character.

Viola Borget of Taylor is another veteran dealer at the mart. Her china, glassware and jewelry reveals her discriminate taste.

The Iron Eagle and Dorothy Engler of Redford have become regulars at the show. They always had a spot upstairs at the Grange Hall before the mart moved to its current Cultural Center location. Their booth was one of the major attractions with its old cast iron pumps, tools and early American memorabilia.

OTHER DEALERS are:

• Ginny Connors of Farmington Hills, furniture.

· Marjorie Kulifay, Aivonia, furniture and accessories.

mart will be Gloria Teeter of Northville, weaver; and Richard Welles of Plymouth, candlemaker.

Weaver Gloria Teeter will be one of the craftsmen at the Plymouth Symphony League Antique Mart during the Plymouth Fall Festival.

> The mart will open at noon each of the three days. It will close at 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday, and at 7 p.m. on Sunday. Admission is $1 and proceeds go to the support of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra.

Members of the Symphony League will act as hostesses. They also take over the booths while the regular dealers are on coffee breaks. The Shaker period costumes worn by the hostesses and ticket takers have become a tradition of the mart.

General chairpersons of the show are Fran Lang and Joyce Kelly.

Study of dolls-from hobby to career

By SUSAN ROGERS

Love comes in many different shapes and sizes. To Faye Kirk of Westland, love comes tall or tiny, straight hair or curly, with china, bisque or plastic heads.

Mrs. Kirk loves dolls.

Old or new, it makes little difference to Mrs. Kirk, who sells and repairs dolls and toys of all kinds in the South Main Antique Shop in Plymouth. She will be a participant in the Livonia Mall Doll, Toy and Miniature Show during regular mall hours Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 26 and 27. The mall is at Seven Mile and Middlebelt.

"I've always loved dolls," she said. "I don't go for any particular typethere's just something that will attract me to a particular doll."

Mrs. Kirk still lovingly keeps the doll her father bought her soon after her birth. She began collecting dolls 15 years ago after "falling in love" with an antique doll.

"I began studying about the old ones, and it became a career," she Apparently many other people share Mrs. Kirk's interest. Doll collecting is the second most popular hobby in the United States, after stamp collecting.

"DOLLS ARE collectable because someone wants them," said Mrs. Kirk. "There are all different kinds of dolls, and a person for every one of them. Everyone likes dolls.'

Mrs. Kirk's beautifully dressed French dolls from the early 1900s are the ones she considers the most expensive in her shop. Clad in rich velvets and lace, long, curling hair and bright eyes, they baer price tags in the high

"French dolls can go as high as two or three thousand dollars," said Mrs. Kirk, although she believes they are overrated.

She explained that the bisque (a form of china) head German dolls are easily more affordable to collectors who prefer the old dolls. She has many, some almost three feet tall, in flowered and white lace dresses.

"There are very few American bisque head dolls today," said Mrs. Kirk. "They didn't make many to start with, and then they didn't catch on iwth the poeple, They are very rare and highly collectable.

She researches each doll that comes into her shop to learn such things as where it was made and when, and by whom, if it can be determined.

"Many dolls were marked and numbered back in the 1880s and early 1900s," she said. "Also, many were not, so I must read and read, to find a similar characteristic with one in a book. Some dolls will forever remain a mystery.

She added that if a doll is marked, it will usually bear a higher price tag. "Everything on a doll counts," said

Mrs. Kirk. "No doll is priced the same because everything must be considered. The more original it is, the more it's worth. For instance, a doll with its original wig, eyes and clothing would be quite expensive.'

Doll collecting is generally considered a good investment, as dolls increase in price every year. "Like everything else, they go up and up," said Mrs. Kirk. She insures all the dolls in her shop, but accidents do occur. "Once I get them out of the shop, the insurance goes down the drain," she said. "I've come back from doll shows in tears-people break the dolls' fingers, pull their hair and poke their

"They should be taken care ofthey're pieces of history.

Mrs. Kirk buys her dolls from estate sales, dealers and from prople who come into hre shop.

"People come in to have their dolls appraised, and sometimes end up selling them," she said. If you're a doll fancier looking toward the future, Mrs. Kirk advises hanging on to Madame Alexander dolls and the early hard plastic dolls of the fifties and sixties.

She added that the first straight-legged Barbie dolls are becoming collectable, as well as miniature dolls and furniture.

'Miniatures are the thing now," she

Plymouth Newcomers opens 21st season

The Plymouth Newcomers Club will open its 21st season Sept. 7 when everybody meets for lunch at Nicky's, 35780 Five Mile, Livonia. The club has grown from a membership numbering in the teens to 250. And it has almost grown itself out of restaurants large enough to accommodate the whole

One of the purposes of the monthly luncheon meetings is introducing new members to fine eating places in the area. Some of those reserved for the '78-'79 season are Botsford Inn, Topeka's, the Mayflower Meeting House, the Plymouth Hilton, Cordoba's, Win Schuler's and the Northville Park Haus.

Women who have lived in the city or township of Plymouth less than two years are eligible to join the club. There are activities, which include the husbands as well as 20 interest groups for the members.

MEMBERS will have an opportunity to select their interest groups at the September luncheon meeting.

They will find special displays depicting some of crafts and can choose more than one. On the list are: Antique browsers, book beat (a discussion group), bowling for women, bowling for couples, bridge, Christmas should be made between Aug. 28 and decorating in Kellogg Park, crafts, Sept. 5. They can be made by calling dining out, golf, gourmet, greenery group, holiday workshop, newsletter, pinochle for ladies, pinochle for couples, reading (book exchange), tap dancing, tennis, bicycling, and wine making and tasting. The first meeting will be dedicated to meeting the new board members and interest group sign-up. Programs are planned throughout the year at the luncheons. Speakers range from experts on home decorating, and art to fashion shows and a beauty makeover by Pat Hann, which deals with makeup and the latest in hair fashions. An art auction has been planned for the evening of Oct. 7.

OFFICERS are Barbara Secord, president; Mary O'Shaughnessy, vicepresident; Bonnie Mallon, recording secretary; Louise Stahley, corresponding secretary; Mary Jo Nero, treasurer; and Jaice Groat, past president and adviser.

WISER talks to aid widowed

A special program will get in gear at Schoolcraft College in September with a series of lectures for both the widowed and the general public

The lectures are sponsored by Widowed in Service (WISER) of the college's Women's Resource Center. They will be held on the second Tuesday of each month through June, except January, from 8-10 p.m.

Daytime opportunities are also available to the widowed with three four-week sessions to focus on the stages of grief and personal adjustment.

Session one will be held from 9:30-11 a.m. Aug. 30, Sept. 6 and 13. The second session is on Monday at the same ister, will direct these sessions at Newman House, 17300 Haggerty, Livonia, just south of the campus.

An additional program called "Alone Again: Focus Widowhood," will start at 7 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 21.

"Personal Adjustment: Human Potential" is the topic of the lecture that will take place Sept. 12 in room B200 of the liberal arts building, the location of most of the talks.

Speaker will be Gary Hershorn, Schoolcraft counselor.

An explanation of auto, homeowners, health and life insurance will be the feature of the meeting Oct. 10. Lecturing will be Sy Warshawsky of State Farm Insurance.

The topic of the Nov. 14 meeting is "Deck the Halls, But Duck Depression," with the speaker to be announced.

An informal yet festive meeting in honor of the Christmas holidays will take place Dec. 12 at Newman House.

Attorney Louis Basso will discuss taxes, wills and estate planning in a talk Feb. 13. It will be followed March 13 with a look at family adjustment, led by Sr. Margaret Basso and including a panel of bereaved "children."

"You and I: A New Way To Meet People" will be presented April 10 by Faye Ross, senior citizens advisor of Redford Township. On May 8 Schoolcraft counselor William Heise will address the subject "Life Work Planning: Mid Life Transition.

June Shada will conclude the series June 12 with a discussion of stress. She works in adult education in the Detroit school district.

For further information on programs for the widowed, call Harriet Hawkins at 591-6400, ext. 431 on Monday or Wednesday from 9 a.m. to

U-M sets clinic and open house

An information clinic for adults thinking of returning to college and an open house brown bag lunch for information sharing is planned on the University of Michigan campus Wednesday, Aug. 23.

The events will be sponsored by the university's center for continuing education for women, and both clinic and lunch will be held at the center,s office, 328-330 Thompson, Ann Arbor

All interested are welcome, and it is not necessary to register.

Admission requirements and financial aid opportunities will get the focus at the clinic, scheduled 10 a.m. to noon.

Discussion will center around the possibilities of taking one or more courses, where to get applications and what to ask for, child care resources, what to do about transcripts or changing fields and how to avoid some of the common hassles.

Time also will be planned for questions.

The open house brown bag lunch from noon to 1:30 p.m. will give women who attend the clinic a chance to talk informally about what it is like to be an adult on campus with some of the members of the center staff and other women who are combining school with families and jobs.

For information on other activities and services of the CEW, those interested are invited to visit or call 763-1353 any weekday during business hours.

said. "Doll houses and printer's boxes are becoming more popular, and people want cute things to put in them." She has for sale a large assortment of tiny dolls she bought from a recent doll museum closing.

DOES SHE have any unusual dolls? "Depends on what you consider unusual." she said. There's a little wrinkled faced bisque head baby doll called a 'Kaiser baby,' said to be designed after the young Kaiser

There's a tall, regal looking Queen Elizabeth II doll dressed in stunning white satin and lace, queenly, from the tip of her glittering tiara to her sparkling gold shoes.

"She was made by an artist in 1962," said Mrs. Kirk. "She's beautiful, and very, very valuable.

There are no less than three Shirley Temple dolls, each dressed in bright red and white, with mops of blonde curls and those famous dimples.

Mrs. Kirk will bring a large assortment of her dolls and toys to the Livonia show this weekend. The show is being held for the first time at the mall. There will be toys, dolls, miniatures and doll parts and clothing to restore exisiting dolls.

MRS. KIRK advises amateur doll collectors to get out and look around.

"Just find something you like-the price and age don't matter—it matters that you get one you like." She said that there are many doll clubs that deal with just about any type of doll a person could want.

"People who share the same interest are great to talk to, and you learn a lot that way.

She insists money is not really the object.

"I have dolls I wouldn't sell for anything," she said. "Some of them probably aren't worth anything to someone else, but they are to me.

"Who's to say if a doll is expensiveit depends on what it's worth to you.

CAN FUNERAL DECISIONS BE MADE WISELY UNDER STRESS?

Not always-which is why we recommend planning your own

Caught up in grief and stress, some people may be emotionally unable to cope with making funeral arrangements effectively They may be tempted to proceed with more costly arrangements than they should

It should be noted that the psychological value of the funeral has no relationship to its costs. Planning such arrangements may eliminate the possibility of such over-spending

Planning can be accomplished in advance of need, in an atmosphere uncharged with the emotionally distressing circumstances of bereavement.

For details of planning funerals, call us—or stop by for literature Your questions and comments on this and other subjects are welcome—in private or publicly through this column.

FISHER THEATRE PLAYGOER SEASON 18

Annie's coming and it's sure to be a sellout season!

the musical of a lifetime!

Leapin' Lizards. After winning seven Tony Awards and the hearts of New York, the Annie that broke Broadway box office records is coming to the Fisher.

See Annie, her dog Sandy, Daddy Warbucks and the rest of the gang sing and dance through one of the most marvelous musicals ever.

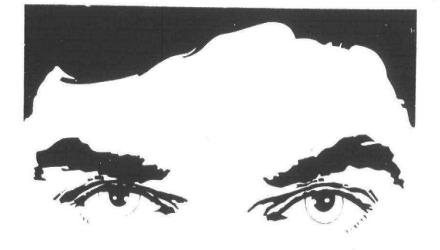

By evening's end, Annie will have you on your feet and shouting for more.

SEVEN BRIDES FOR SEVEN BROTHERS

It's one of the most exciting musicals ever to come along, and we've got it. SEVEN BRIDES FOR SEVEN BROTHERS is a wonderful combination of song, dance, humor and romance. With some of the most dazzling choreography ever to be seen on our stage.

DEATHTRAP

The smash SRO hit that's been thrilling Broadway audiences is heading for the Fisher stage.

DEATHTRAP is an exciting comedy thriller; a mystery filled with sharp wit and plenty of surprises.

It's an evening of suspense and laughter when the curtain rises on this sensational hit.

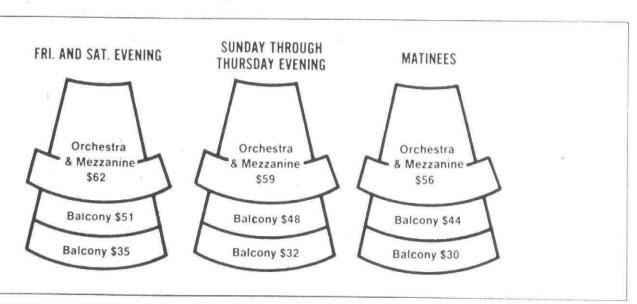

Eartha Kitt and the songs of Kismet, including "Stranger in Paradise" and "Baubles, Bangles, and Beads."

This dazzling musical has been enchanting New Yorkers from the word go. And it's sure to do the same for you when it comes to the Fisher.

The sets are lavish, the costumes incredible, and Eartha Kitt simply lights up the stage. Timbuktu is a beautiful fantasy you won't soon forget.

Choose your day and seating preference from the chart on the right. Be sure to choose an alternate day in case your first choice is unavailable. If you'd like assistance, come down to the Fisher Theatre weekdays between the hours of 10 and 4 or call Catherine Spalding at 873-8831. She'll be happy to answer any of your questions.

Area grads minister at Assembly of God

Edward Raimer, his wife, Hope, and his brother, Timothy, will be ministering Sunday, Aug. 27, in the Tri-City Assembly of God, 2100 Hannan, Canton Township.

Edward and his wife are active in the ministry of music in the Washington area. A graduate with Timothy of Wayne Memorial High School, he is also a graduate of Evangel College, a liberal arts college of the Assemblies in Springfield, Mo., where he received his bachelor's degree.

He went on to receive his master's degree while teaching in the Fairfax Public School System in Virginia. He also is a former member of the famous Singing Sergeants, part of the Air Force Band Timothy Raimer is a graduate of Michigan Technological University at Houghton. He is employed by Data Operations Division, Postal Data Center in San Bruno, Calif., as manager of the software division. He is active in his church, Bethel Temple, in San Francisco, where he serves as a member of the official board, departmental superintendent and a member of the choir.

Mrs. Raimer received her education in her native land of South Africa. She also attended Central Bible College, an Assemblies of God Bible school in Springfield. She is a former music instructor at Evangel College.

Mrs. Raimer arranges and writes gospel music for the Lillinas Publishing Co. under the name Hope Collins. She travled with the well-known singing group, the Hawaiians for a number of years.

Tim Raimer will minister from the Word of God at the service. Edward and Hope Ranier will minister in music and song.

David and John Raimer, brothers of the pair, will also participate in the services. Their parents, the Rev. and Mrs. E.W. Raimer, pastors of Tri-City Assembly of God, invite friends and former school mates of the brothers to attend the ceremony.

New pastor

The Rev. Don King, (left) the new assistant pastor of Good Hope Lutheran Church of Garden City, talks about church matters with the Rev. Dean Beckwith, pastor of the church. King is a graduate of Lutheran School of Theology in Chicago and was ordained by the Ohio Synod of the Lutheran Church in America.

Westland woman is chosen 'Layperson of the year'

Betty Graves of Spring Valley, Westland, was one of several people honored with the title "Layperson of the year" by the Seventh Day Adventist Church at the church's 110th annual camp meeting in Grand Ledge recently

Mrs. Graves was honored for fund raising activities for humanitarian purposes and personal witnessing activities.

She is one of 20 lay persons selected from the 22,000 church members of the Michigan Conference of Adventists. headquartered in Lansing. The award was presented by Elder Charles Keymer, president of the conference, and Elder Arthur Covell, director of laymembers' activities.

"By recognizing these lay persons we want to call attention to the many Christians who are practicing the highest humanitarian and spiritual ideals.'

The 10-day religious convocation concluded with an address by Dr. Robert H. Pierson, Washington, D.C., world president of the three-millionmember denomination.

Lutheran youth to meet this weekend encourage increased informed partici-

tional session, he added.

Youth's role in the social ministry of the church will be examined in a youth meeting of the Michigan Synod. Lutheran Church in America, to be held in Michigan State University's Kellogg Center for Continuing Education Aug. 25-27.

"The Lutheran Church in America believes in the participation of youth in every aspect of church life," accoding to Mark McPherson, member of the youth staff of the Michigan Synod and a member of the planning committee. This synod-wide meeting is to pation on the part of youth, he said. More than 100 young people from the Detroit metropolitan area, Lansing, Grand Rapids, Muskegon, Kalamazoo, Saginaw and Traverse City are expected to participate in the educa-

Susan M. Purch, Philadelphia, LCA secretary for Youth Global Hunger Concerns, will speak Saturday morning, and U.S. Rep. William Broadhead (17th District, Michigan), Saturday afternoon.

The Rev. Howard A. Christiansen, Detroit, president of the Michigan Synod, is expected to return from a Scandinavia visit to address the group.

Discussions will focus on the speakers' presentations and on attitudes and assumptions related to the mission of the church and especially on youth's involvement in social ministry.

The youth event is sponsored by the Michigan Synod, LCA, the Lutheran Brotherhood, the Aid Association of Lutherans and MSU's Lifelong Education Programs and University Committee on Church Related Programs.

Everything's coming up auditions

DSO seeks players for new orchestra

The Detroit Symphony Orchestra is undertaking a major reorganization of its training program for young preprofessional musicians.

The Youth Orchestra, which the symphony established in 1970, will be renamed the Detroit Symphony Civic Orchestra. Membership will depend upon ability, with no age restrictions. Candidates must win their position by audition. Those of post-college age must be actively pursuing a career in symphonic performance.

High school and even junior high school musicians who qualify will be eligible for full membership in the civic orchestra. Preliminary auditions will be held at Ford Auditorium on Aug. 27, Aug. 31, Sept. 1, Sept. 5 and Sept. 6.

Candidates should bring a selection of their own to perform. They will be asked to sight-read a short representative passage from the standard repertory. Those candidates who are selected for final audition will then be given the music they should prepare for the finals. Preliminary auditions may be arranged by calling the Detroit Symphony switchboard at 961-

All members of the civic orchestra will be eligible to receive scholarship assistance for private instrumental lessons, and will share in the proceeds of concerts.

The expanded training program was started with a grant from the J.L. Hudson Co.

Also, as part of a program with the Detroit Community Music School, scholarship lessons will be provided for young Detroit musicians not yet ready for civic orghestra membership.

New drama group needs teenagers

Starr Productions, a new drama society for teenagers, has scheduled tryouts for its first play, "Grocery Store," for 7 p.m. Friday, Aug. 25. They will be held at St. Gerald's Catholic Church, 21300 Farmington Road, just north of Eight Mile.

Producers Michael Doyle and Thomas Slater are also looking for backstage help, make-up persons and people to work in sales and advertising.

"In other words, we're looking for anybody between the ages of 13 and 18 who wants to just have a good time, as well as get some experience in a stage production," says Doyle.

"Grocery Store" is about an Italian store owner who has to find a wife in 24 hours or be deported. For more information, call 476-0791

Casting dates given by theatre guild

The Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford is opening its 25th season with "An Almost Perfect Union" by Judith Ross, a gutsy glimpse of the political arena and the bedroom.

Auditions are scheduled for Sunday, Aug. 27, and Monday, Aug. 28, at 7:30 p.m. at the guild building, 15138 Beech Daly, just south of Five Mile. The cast calls for one woman and two men over

The show will be presented the last three weekends in October.

For further information, call 425-8415 or 464-9460.

Professional choir holding auditions

Contata Academy of Metropolitan Detroit will hold auditions for the coming season on Sunday, Aug. 27, at 1 p.m. at Cranbrook School.

The academy is a professional choir of 40 voices which performs a variety of choral music. The choir has just returned from a singing tour of Germany.

The school is located at 520 Lone Pine in Bloomfield Hills. For more information, call 934-6026 or 547-9184.

Strings sought

The Dearborn Symphony Orchestra has openings for all string instruments for the 1978-79 season.

For audition information, call 565-

Band plays on Sunday

The Detroit Concert Band, directed by Leonard Smith, will present a free concert at 6 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 27, at Ford Field in Livonia.

The concert, sponsored by the Livonia Arts Commission, will include soprano Imogene Bird performing "Carmena" by H. Lane Wilson. The field is located on Farmington Road between Schoolcraft and Five

St. Clair's whistle blow coming up

Giant steam whistles from Great Lakes freighters, trains, factories and even fire houses are expected for the second annual Grand Ole Tashmoo Whistle Blow on Labor Day, Sept. 4.

The tooting will begin at noon and continue until 5 p.m at the River Crab restaurant on the St. Clair River, two miles north of St. Clair, Mich.

The event was dreamed up by the restaurant's owner, Chuck Muer, and St. Clair marine artist Jim Clary, who owns the Tashmoo Whistle. Clary operates Cap'n Jim's Gallery in the plaza arcade in St. Clair.

HIGHLIGHT OF last year's event came when the whistles saluted the Bob-Lo boat Columbia, the Tashmoo's forner running mate when it was an excursion boat out of Detroit in 1902. The Tashmoo sank at Amherstburg, Ontario in 1936.

The Columbia cruised close to shore and returned the salute, with the rails lined with waving passengers.

The whistles will again blow a master salute-one long and two shortsfor the Columbia as it cruises past about 1 p.m. on its way to Port Huron, and about 3 p.m. when it returns.

"We're adding a little surprise this year-two cannons-for a 17 gun salute," said Clary.

Chuck Muer will have a new whistle this year, a three-belled relic from a Monongahela River boat. It was presented to him by the Pittsburgh History and Landmarks Foundation when Muer opened his Grand Concourse restaurant there lastApril.

An Instructional Materials Selection Workshop is being given Wednesday at Plymouth Salem High School.

About 25 school district staff members plus outside participants will attend the workshop sponsored by the Educational Products Information Exchange (EPIE) Institute.

Participants will include librarians, resource room consultants, special education and regular classroom teachers and administrators. Co-sponsors are Dr. R. Hunt Riegel, director of the district's Model Resource Room project, and Bee M. Green, director of libraries. Workshop participants will be trained in analytical and selection skills which will enable them to make wise choices of materials most suited to meet teacher and individual student

"Elimination of inadequate or unsuitable resources thus results in savings to the school district," comments Ms Green.

EPIE, which sponsors the institute workshop, is a non-profit, privately funded research, evaluation and publishing enterprise concerned with educational resources, learning tools, learning systems, teaching equiment and other associated materials.

More than 30 major educational associations participate on EPIE's governing board. The agency has won national recognition for its efforts.

"The workshops are particularly critical in a time when materials costs are rising, school budgets are being reduced, the proliferation of materials makes choice more difficult, and increasing educational demands call for maximum use of the most valuable material available," adds Ms. Green.

"Trainees from such a workshop can be of unique assistance to their school districts as their skills are applied.'

LONG-TERM OR SHORT, BANK GIVE A BETTER RETURN ON SAVINGS THAN NBD.

For a short-term, high-return investment... 26-WEEK MONEY MARKET CERTIFICATES.

Available in any amount of $10,000 or more, Money Market Certificates pay a high interest rate equal to the latest average auction rate for 6-month U.S. Treasury Bills. Since first offered in June of this year, Money Market Certificates have paid at least 11/2 percentage points above the 51/2% rate available to commercial bank customers for periods from 90 days to six months.*

Use NBD's Money Market Hotline for the latest quotes. Call 225-2700...24 hours a day.

NBD charges no fees. If you wish, we automatically renew your certificate at the end of 26 weeks at the then applicable rate.

The annual interest rate is set at the time of purchase and remains the same for the 26-week period. The total of your funds at NBD are insured up to $40,000.

For a longer-term, high-return investment... 73/4%, 8-YEAR TIME INVESTMENT CERTIFICATES.

Available in amounts of $1000 or more, our 8-year Time Investment Certificates offer a high rate of interest that's computed from day of deposit and compounded quarterly. They are automatically renewable, or you may receive your funds upon maturity. You can also choose to receive interest checks monthly, quarterly, annually, or at maturity, if your deposit is $5000 or more.*

If you'd like the very highest rate of return available with a bank savings plan, drop by any National Bank of Detroit office and ask us about our short-term, high-return, Money Market Certificates...or our longer-term 73/4% 8-year Time Investment Certificates.

*Federal regulations prohibit the payment of any time deposit before maturity unless three months of the interest is forfeited and interest on the amount withdrawn is reduced to the passbook rate

Making banking better for you.

These two savings plans are also offered by the following NBD-affiliated banks: NBD Commerce Bank, Lansing; NBD Port Huron Bank; NBD Troy Bank; Grand Valley National Bank, Grandville; National Bank of Dearborn.

PCJAA shells out 23Gs for sports programs

This is the third of a four-part series discussing the Plymouth-Canton Junior Athletic Association (PCJAA).

> By DENNIS O'CONNOR Sports Editor

The four contingents of the PCJAA baseball, football, basketball and hockey-have three main sources of

The main money-maker is the respective registration fees for each sport or, in the case of hockey, money from parents to help curb the cost of the bill for ice time. Another means of revenue stems from fundraisers or sponsor's donations for the individual

After these sources of revenue have been used, the PCJAA becomes the third means for money, helping meet the needs of each sport through supplying funds to balance the budget.

One of the main reasons two representatives from each junior sports program attend the PCJAA meetings is to present what their financial needs are to the board.

President Jim Sinclair stresses that each program is responsible to give the PCJAA regular treasurer reports. which include receipts for all major purchases, before money is allocated.

The board has the option to disburse any or all its money to the four groups. based on the need of each sport. And when one talks about hundreds and thousands of dollars passed from the PCJAA to the four organizations, one can imagine that things can get heated at meetings when it's the board's duty to determine the need for the individ-

THROUGH DONATIONS by many civic groups and organizations in the Plymouth-Canton community, the PCJAA allocated $23,537.60 in 1977-78 to the four sports groups, according to the fiscal report submitted last March. (The fiscal year ends on March 31 of each year, after basketball and hockey end their winter seasons and before baseball starts in the summer and football in the fall). This total exceeds the $16,925 figure disbursed to the four sports during the 1976-77 seasons.

Of the $23,000-plus allocated by the PCJAA, the baseball program received $4,857.60 for its 1977 season.

Football received $6,000, basketball $4,580 and hockey $8,100.

Facilities and equipment prove to be the major expenses which the four sports encounter year after year. Since the facilities for basketball, football and baseball are annually donated by the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, the cost of ice time for the hockey program is that sport's major

With the new regulations for football equipment, helmets and shoulder pads alike are the biggest expense for the

So, although the hockey and the foot ball programs field the fewest participants, the rising costs of these sports saw the PCJAA increase its allocations by $4,300 to hockey and $2,175 for football this past year, while basket ball received $1,080 more and baseball took a $942.40 cut, based on the PCJAA's definition of need

The final part of this series will include an analysis of the PCJAA and a look at what the future holds for junior athletic programs in the Plymouth-Canton community

Plymouth gridders scrimmage

The Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem football teams kick off their 1978 fall seasons with pre-season inter-squad scrimmages

The Chiefs, coached by Dave Schuele, will play the Red-White game Friday night at the Centennial Educational Park from 8-10 p.m. Last fall. Canton finished with an 0-9 record

Tom Moshimer's Salem Rocks, coming off a perfect 9-0 season in 1977, will hold its Blue-White game Saturday night starting at 7:30 p.m.

The public is welcome to both inter-squad battles. Admission is

The final pre-season tune-up for both Plymouth squads will take place Thursday. Aug. 31 in the annual four-way scrimmage hosted by Ann Arbor Pioneer High School.

Salem opens its season Friday, Sept. 8, hosting Livonia Franklin at 8 p.m. Canton travels to Livonia Bentley on the same night for a 7:30 p.m. battle. Both contests are non-and defeated The Team from Dearborn twice, 20-2 and 25-8, to win the first muscular dystrophy men's slowpitch softball tournament held last weekend at Griffin Park in Canton

The 24-team double-elimination event, which featured local teams with below .500 records during the regular season, netted close to $1,600 for the muscular dystrophy drive.

Winfrey's lost its first game of the tourney Sunday afternoon when The Team sent the Livonia squad to the loser's bracket with a 7-6 victory. Winfrey's had advanced to the finals of the winner's bracket before bowing to The Winfrey's soundly defeated Cypruss Gardens of Canton, 14-3, in the semifinals to advance to a showdown with The Team for the championship. Lead by heavy-hitting Randy Ferguson. Winfrey's made the win look easy with its two resounding victories.

In the semifinals, Winfrey's played its second game on Sunday and defeated a tired Cypruss Gardens team. Cypruss Gardens had battled through the loser's bracket and was playing its fifth game of the day.

The 11-run victory for coach Larry Call's squad saw Winfrey's jump to a quick five-run lead after one inning. Cypruss, the third-place finishers, helped the Winfrey's rally by committing three errors.

Jesse Rose's two-run triple in the third inning sparked Winfrey's threerun rally, which put the eventual champions ahead 8-0. Cypruss scored its only three runs of the game in the bottom of the third inning, as the Canton squad put together three singles and an error for the runs.

Gary Cockfield's two-run single with the bases loaded in the sixth inning helped Winfrey's extend its lead to 11-3. Winfrey's added three more runs in the seventh to complete the assult.

COACH JOHN Daley's Cypruss squad wrapped up third place with a loser's bracket victory over Plymouth's Pellegrino Sales, 10-4. Cypruss lost its first game to Winfrey's in the third round, while Pellegrino fell to The Team in the second

Fourth-place Pellegrino scored its first three runs in the fifth inning after Cypruss had mounted a commanding 9-0 lead. Cypruss' Ken Curvin hit a two-run home run, while clean-up hitter Mike Wholey hit four singles to

Yankees defeat Indians in Novi

Marty Nagy's bases-loaded triple with two outs in the bottom of the fifth inning gave the Plymouth-Canton Yankees a 5-2 victory over the Plymouth-Canton Indians in the championship game of an 'A' League (11-12-year-old boys) baseball tournament in Novi last

The Yankees' victory avenged an earlier 13-1 defeat to the Indians in this five-team double-elimination tournament. The Yankees won their openinground game Thursday night before losing in the second round to the Indians. The never-say-die champions rebounded with four straight victories. however, including a doubleheader sweep of the Indians on Sunday.

The tournament was orginally scheduled to be an eight-team event with four Plymouth-Canton and four Novi squads competing for the firstplace individual trophies Vacations and commitments to the football season trimmed the field to only five squads, however, as three Plymouth-Canton representatives and two Novi teams battled for the honor.

Mark Bennett hurled the distance in the championship game to pace the Yankees' victory. In the first game on Sunday, the Yankees handed the Indians their first setback with a sound 18-8 triumph. Nagy hurled the distance for the winners. He was helped by an explosive 19-hit attack.

The Yankees' opening-round victory saw Bob Wasnezski hurl five innings in a 9-6 beating of the Novi Americans. Mike Cindrich hit a three-run homer for the winners. The other openinground game saw the Plymouth-Canton Red Legs whip the Novi Nationals, 11-

The Indians drew an opening-round bye before facing the Red Legs on Friday. The Indians' Mark Landini highlighted a staunch pitchers' duel which saw the eventual runners-up win, 3-1. This game featured a total of only five hits between the two clubs. The Novi Americans schellacked the Novi Nationals, 16-1, in the other second-round game.

After the Yankees committed seven errors to help the Indians' Todd Riedel to the 13-1 victory on Saturday, the champions eliminated the Red Legs. 4-2, and the Novi Americans, 15-8, to reach the finals.

Jim Roberts scattered four hits and struck out nine batters in the victory over the Red Legs, while Paul Schmidt beat the Novi Americans with the help of Cindrich's two home runs his third and fourth of the tournament

Earlier this season, the Plymouth Casnton Astros won the local league title, while the Indians were cham pions of a Southgate tournament

Hart nudges Rudgers for Osebold net honors

Plymouth's Jerry Hart defeated Dan Rudgers of Ann Arbor, 5-7, 6-1, 7-5, to win the second-annual Osebold Tennis Invitational at Schoolcraft College

Jerry Hart used his strong left-handed forehand to win the second-annual Osebold Tennis Invitational last weekend. Hart defeated Dan Rudgers in a grueling three-set finale. (Bob Gillis photo)

Hart, a recent finalist of the Plymouth-Canton men's 35-years-and-over singles competition, lived up to his number-one seed position in the 12-man intermediate field with the hard-fought victory.

Rudgers, this year's novice tennis winner, raced to an early 3-0 advantage in the first set after breaking Hart's service the first two times. Hart came back, however, tying the score at 4-4 and 5-5 before Rudgers took the final two games and the

In the second set, Hart never lost his service and Rudgers managed to hold his serve only once, as the first-seed evened the match with a 6-1 second-

The dramatic third and deciding set was a seesaw affair. Rudgers once again roared to what seemed to be a commanding 3-0 lead, only to see Hart battled back and tie the score at 3-3 and 4-4.

Hart broke Rudgers' service in the ninth game to take a 5-4 lead, but the novice champion came back to tie the score at 5-5. Hart won the next two games and the match, taking the 11th game after two duece points and winning the 12th game in four straight points.

Hart advanced to the championship round by edging Ray Maloni, a novice tennis finalist, in the semifinal round, 6-0, 3-6, 8-6. Hart drew a firstround bye and defeated John Sterling in secondround action, 6-2, 6-4.

To meet Hart in the finals, Rudgers upset second-seeded Jim Humphries in the semifinals, 6-3, 6-3. Humphries was the Osebold Invitational winner last year. Rudgers beat Gib Rothschild, 6-3, 6-3, in the first round, and Bill Weber, 6-2, 6-1, in the second round.

For his victory, Hart received a trophy from tournament director James J. Osebold. He also won a free one-year membership to the Western Racquet Club, donated by manager Jean Fritz. Rudgers received a runners-up trophy.

Maloni and Humphries, the two semifinalists, each received tennis-designed T-shirts for their efforts. All 12 competitors received a certificate for qualifying.

No one needed tips on operating a hand fan efficiently.

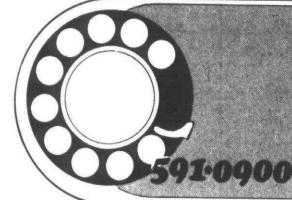

Back in the days before high-speed fans and air conditioners, a lot of people depended on hand fans and cold lemonade to keep them cool during hot summer months. And quite frankly, there wasn't much you had to know about operating efficiency. Today, with convenient modern air conditioners, most people can keep cool with the push of a button. But air conditioners are a major electrical appliance. So, to keep them running efficiently and economically you have to maintain and use them properly. That's why Detroit Edison offers you the following air conditioning tips. Keep the air filter clean. Close all windows and shade out hot sunlight. Check to see that nothing blocks the flow of cool air. Always keep your air conditioner on a moderate setting, and on central units, set your thermostat at an appropriate comfort level but no lower than 75.9 By following these simple tips you can keep cool, conserve energy and save a lot of money. Enough money to keep you well stocked in lemonade. For more information, call or stop in at any Detroit Edison Customer Office.
