Claims girlfriend was 'playing around'

Enraged lover holds 5 at gunpoint

By GLENN BUNTING

A team of Canton Township police officers tricked a 36-year-old Canton man into surrendering last Tuesday night after he allegedly held five persons at gunpoint for more than five hours in his Canton home.

Randol Vivan Cochran, of 5709 Haggerty, was arraigned Thursday in 35th District Court in Plymouth on two counts of felonious assault and one count of using a gun in the commission of a felony.

Judge Dunbar Davis set bond at $50,000 and granted Cochran his request for a psychiatric examination.

Police believe Cochran held hostage Marjorie Ott, 38, the woman he was living with, her 18-year-old niece, her two daughters, ages 8 and 10, and Arthur Lewis Calhoun, 36, a Westland man who was called to the Canton residence.

Cochran, who works in a Detroit auto body repair shop, accused Calhoun of "playing around" with Ms. Ott, police said. Calhoun denied the charge and the two men spent most of the evening arguing before Cochran was apprehended.

No one was injured in the incident. Cochran allegedly fired a bullet in the direction of Calhoun and ordered Ms. Ott's niece to shave Calhoun's head and face.

Canton police were not notified of the incident until 10 p.m., five hours after it began. At that time, Cochran instructed Ms. Ott to drive to the store and buy "more vodka," police said. Instead, she drove to the Canton Police Department.

SGT. DENNIS POKER devised a plan to force Cochran out of the house, located in a remote section of southern Canton. The scheme called for Ms. Ott to pull her car into the driveway, honk the horn and wave for Cochran to assist her.

With seven police officers surrounding the house, Cochran fell for the ploy when he stepped onto the porch. He was immediately apprehended and taken into custody.

"It was good police work," said Sgt. Larry Stewart. "Nobody got hurt in a potentially lethal situation. The plan by Sgt. Poker was well thought out and well executed."

According to police, the incident began around 5 p.m. when Cochran, armed with a shotgun, confronted Ms. Ott's niece and two daughters outside the backdoor and ordered them inside the house.

Ten minutes later, Ms. Ott came downstairs. Cochran told the Ott children to go upstairs and ordered Ms. Ott's niece to get a gun case in an upstairs bedroom.

When the niece returned, Cochran replaced the shotgun he was holding with a high powered 30.06 rifle.

He then told Ms. Ott to telephone Calhoun and ask him to stop by the house. Calhoun arrived at the Canton residence at approximately 6 p.m.

AFTER A HALF-HOUR of bickering with Calhoun, police said Cochran fired a shot in the direction of Calhoun. The bullet traveled from the kitchen into the living room and hit the ceiling.

Police said Cochran dropped his gun when officers announced their presence, but later resisted arrest. Although he was not given a breathalizer test, Sgt. Stewart said it was evident Cochran was drinking.

After he was arrested, Cochran refused to make a statement and was kept overnight in the Wayne Coounty Jail.

"Our case is closed," said Sgt. Stewart. "The mere pointing of a rifle is sufficient to prove felonious assault. We don't need a confession."

The assault charges carry maximum four-year sentences while the firearm law carries a mandatory minimum two-year sentence.

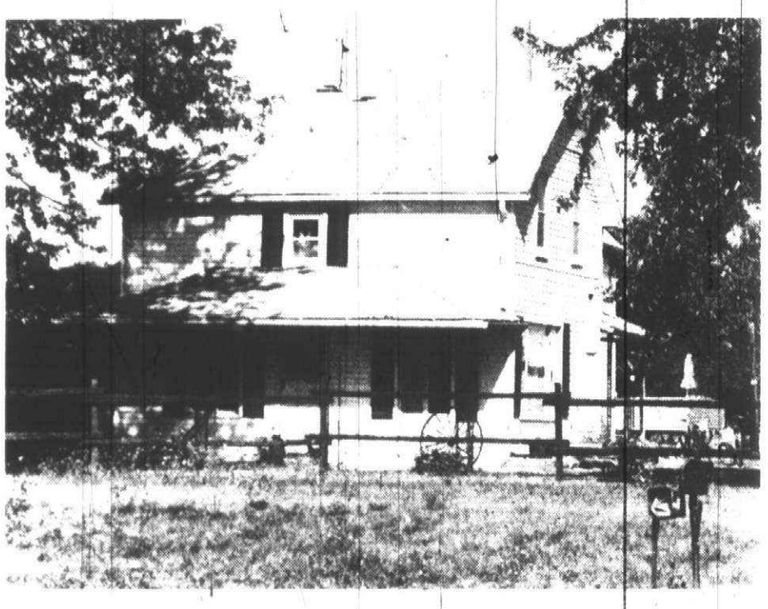

Sgt. Stewart said Cochran, who has never been convicted on serious criminal charges, was not charged with intent to commit murder because it was impossible to prove.

"If he wanted to kill anyone, he could have done it without any problems," Stewart said. "We can't prove anything beyond felonious assault."

When he appeared in court, Cochran was accompanied by Ms. Ott.

Before deciding to grant Cochran his request for a forensic examination, Judge Davis said from the expression on Cochran's face and his behavior in court, it is "my preliminary thinking that there is some evidence here of mental disturbance."

Sgt. Stewart said it could take as long as six weeks before the psychiatric tests are completed and Cochran is brought back to court. He is currently being held in the county jail.

This is the house in a remote part of Canton Township where the hostages were held. Police surrounded the house around 10:30 p.m. last Tuesday and apprehended the suspect on the front right porch.

Plymouth center starts programs for residents

The troubled Plymouth Center for Human Development in Northville is taking steps to improve staff training and medical care for its residents.

Charged by the press, a state-appointed task force and judicial investigators with patient abuse, poor medical care and lack of personnel training, the center has recently inaugurated some changes.

Staff members at the center are now being trained in how to better plan for the needs of residents.

In addition, six physicians have been added to the staff, with special open-house hours set aside for parents and guardians of residents who wish a consultation.

Consulting services also have been added, including a nine-member advisory council made up of area residents.

That group includes Dr. Nelson Grote, president of Schoolcraft College. Thomas Riordan, executive editor of the Observer & Eccentric Newspspers, Inc., John Graves of Livonia, director of the Work Education Council of Southeastern Michigan, Jack Bologna of Plymouth, president of George Odiorne & Associates; and N. Lorraine Beebe, former state senator.

Others are James Simpson, director of United Cerebral Palsy of Detroit, Glen Brooks, assistant vice president of Federal Reserve Bank, Lee McNally, past president of Michigan Association for Retarded Citizens and Marian Tucker of Rochester.

THE NEW TRAINING program called "Individual Program Planning with the Developmentally Disabled" has been developed by Jerry D. Parham of the Texas Tech University Research and Training Center in Mental Retardation.

Under the coordination of the center's director of psychology, Dr. Elizabeth Ring, participants have been grouped into eight interdisciplinary core teams, one for each residential program unit. Each team consists of the program director, assistant program director, psychologist, social worker, occupational therapist and speech pathologist.

Once the training is complete, the team will begin developing plans for each of the center's 795 residents. At this point other members of the staff such as physicians, nurses and direct care personnel become involved.

"Membership of the is determined by the needs of the person being served," said Dr. Kenneth Crosby of the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals.

Since the direct care staff is most directly involved with residents, its members become an integral part of the process as it proceeds. They and the team try to develop goals and strategies.

"By having the direct care staff involved in the whole process, the clinical staff will also receive feedback during regularly scheduled evaluations," said Dr. Ring. "In that way they can be assured that the plan is realistic, and that it meets the needs of the individual resident.

PARENTS AND GUARDIANS will now be able to meet with center physicians during a Wednesday open house that will be held each week from 2-4 p.m. Physicians have reserved this time to meet with those who wish to discuss the medical care of their resident.

Appointments to meet with the resident's physician can be made by calling the center at 453-1500. If preferred, parents and guardians can phone physicians during these hours. If unable to meet with the physician during open house, they may make an appointment for another time.

The institution recently added six physicians to its staff. In addition, agreements were worked out to provide important consultive service with the assistance of Dr. Isreal Praiss of the University of Michigan School of Public Health.

Dr. Richard Allen, professor of pediatrics and head of pediatric neurology at U-M will provide neurological evaluations of residents referred to him by the medical staff.

He will also provide in-service training for the center's medical personnel, which will include neurological diagnosis, symptamatology and the effectiveness and side effects of various treatment.

Consultative services for residents with severe behavior problems will be conducted weekly by Dr. John Gordon, pediatric psychiatrist and Dr. Richard Berchou, psychological pharmacologist of U-M.

Referrals will be made by primary care physician based on a series of priorties. In addition to the physician, the consultations will also involve the program nurse, the program director and the ward attendant.

As part of their consultative services, Gordon and Berchou will conduct weekly seminars for all the center physicians. Topics under discussion will be factors affecting treatment, organic brain syndrome and anticonvulsants.

Other consulting clinics, still in formative stages include orthopedics, physical medicine and rehabilitation, opthamology, gynecology and adult neurology.

Dr. French said that it will take a great deal of courage and commitment on the part of all staff to provide the kind of on-going care the center's resident require.

Thousands expected for Plymouth's fall fest

Thousands of persons will be coming into town beginning Thursday for the annual four-day Plymouth Community Fall Festival.

The money raised by participating groups will be used throughout the year on community service projects in the Plymouth-Canton area.

THE FESTIVAL will officially begin at 11 a.m. Thursday with the spaghetti dinner served until 6 p.m. by the Plymouth Colonial Kiwanis Club.

Beginning 11 a.m. Thursday, the Oddfellows will have a four-day flea market at the corner of Elizabeth and Ann Arbor Trail. Also on all four days the Three Cities Art Club will have an exhibit in Kellogg Park.

Friday's main food attraction is fish, with the Plymouth Lions Club serving filets from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. There will be reduced prices for senior citizens, 1:30-4:30 p.m.

Two food special highlight Saturday as the Kiwanis Club of Plymouth stages its pancake festival in the Masonic Temple from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. and the Plymouth Jaycees put on its charcoal broiled beef rib dinner in the Park, 5-10 p.m.

Friday also marks the beginning of the Plymouth Antique Mart, sponsored by the Plymouth Symphony League in the Plymouth Community Cultural Center on Farmer Street. Hours will be from noon to 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday and noon to 6 p.m. on Sunday.

On Saturday and Sunday, an arts and crafts show will be held by the Plymouth Community Arts Council (PCAC) in Central Middle School at Church and Main. Hours are noon to 9 p.m. on Saturday and noon to 6 p.m. on Sunday.

Another attraction Saturday will be the pet show, 9-11:30 a.m. in front of the bandshell in Kellogg Park. The pet show is sponsored by the Optimist Club of Plymouth.

Sunday will be chicken day as the Rotary Club of Plymouth stages its chicken barbeque from noon to 6 p.m. in Kellogg Park. A carry-out booth will be set up at Ann Arbor Road and Sheldon.

Sunday's activities also include the costume judging contest sponsored by the Plymouth branch of the American Association of University Women (AAUW).

For a complete listing of festival happenings, refer to the special Fall Festival section in today's Observer.

ALL FOUR DAYS of the festival also will be highlighted by entertainment on and around the bandshell in Kellogg Park.

Thursday evening's entertainment, for instance, will include Plymouth magician Bob Shinker, the Dixie Banjos, Sweet Adelines and a barbershop quartet.

Friday night's activities at the bandshell includes a dance group, a rock band, harmonica players and the Livonia Civic Chorus. Friday night there also will be square dancing beginning 6 p.m. at Main and Fralick with Ron Siem as caller.

Saturday's entertainment line-up includes two rock bands, two dance groups, 13-year-old Pat Molnar on the organ, Canton Chiefettes, a bluegrass group, "My Detroit—Welcome to It," the Plymouth Community Chorus and Pam Wallace on piano.

The entertainment Thursday through Saturday is sponsored by the Fall Festival Board. Sunday's entertainment, sponsored by Plymouth Rotary, includes the CEP Marching Band, Plymouth Community Band and

Township moving to new site

Canton Township is moving.

No, the township is not falling into Tonquish Creek, but all of its departments, except police, will be moving to the new township hall, 1150 Canton Center, Thursday and Friday.

The township will be closed for business on those two days as employees will earn their pay moving boxes instead of shuffling papers.

Mike Gorman, township deputy treasurer, said he hopes the move will be completed by Monday morning. If the move is not finished by Friday, employees will be asked to pitch in on Saturday to meet the Monday deadline.

The police department will remain at the old township hall, 44508 Geddes. The cops will move from their temporary location in trailers to the vacated building.

What now, Brooks?

Prosecutor's political future tarnished

By MICHAEL MATUSZEWSKI

There was a void in the Republican State Convention.

The well-orchestrated affair at Cobo Hall left little room for heated battles and carnival-like demonstrations.

Patterson, Oakland County's top law and order man and one of the party's most charismatic elected officials, did not attend the convention, as he has in the past.

His repeated attacks on U.S. Sen. Robert Griffin in the race for the Republican Senate nominaton and his charges of bossism in the party leadership sealed his fate.

Had he ea not stirred an intraparty tempest, party regulars said, Patterson could have still strolled into the convention with the nomination for attorney general secured.

Instead of Patterson, who was popular with voters of both parties, the Republicans will send a relatively unknown Steve Barnsdorfer of Grand Rapids into the fray against incumbent Frank Kelley.

THE PROSECUTOR refused to comment about his absence, but in an Aug. 16 letter to Republican county chairmen he refused to even accept a draft at the convention.

"At this point," he said, "it becomes a matter of credibility. As a candidate for future office and an elected official I have enjoyed a high amount of credibility.

"I will not sacrifice that no matter what the opportunity," Patterson said.

So as not to spark a grass roots movement to draft him for the nomination, he said he would skip the convention.

IN SPITE OF the letter, there was some sentiment to draft him to challenge Kelley. Several district caucuses discussed the possibility. One caucus passed a resolution praising him for his contributions to the party.

According to Arlene Bush of Bay County, convention chairman for District 8, "We had considered drafting him. He had substantial support among the delegates, but the county chairman said 'absolutely not.' "

COUNTY LEADERS are not saying "absolutely not" to any future participation in Republican affairs by Patterson.

"He just didn't want to be a factor in this convention," said Oakland County Republican Chairman Arthur Elliott.

"He'll be coming back to campaign for the ticket. That'll help reinforce his image as a team player.

"He's good man in the Republican Party. He's young guy. He's got plenty of time," Elliott said.

Despite Elliot's olive branch, some Oakland County regulars say privately Patterson would be a liability.

"He's up to his armpits in raw sewage," said one delegate.

Patterson has been in the news recently.

Television news reporter Jerry Stanecki recently filed suit in Oakland County Circuit Court claiming the prosecutor slandered him.

In addition, Patterson's Organized Crime Strike Force received a serious setback when a Pontiac district court judge dismissed charges against persons arrested in a much-publicized bust of an Oakland County fencing operation. The judge said the strike force and undercover cop Vincent Mazzara did not obtain a search warrant before they set up a rival numbers operation.

Also, county officials are wondering what happened to profits from county-funded "illegal" operation.

L. Brooks Patterson sent out this gag publicity shot during his unsuccessful Senate primary campaign to prove he wasn't politically "dead"—but some GOP politicians say he is, at least for now.

Suburban duo is GOP's one-two for supreme court

Michigan Republicans are trying a reliable jab and a new knockout punch to dislodge incumbent G. Mennen (Soapy) Williams from the state supreme court.

The reliable jab is Justice James Ryan of Redford, who is considered a cinch to keep his seat on the bench.

Oakland County Circuit Judge Alice Gilbert, who waltzed into last weekend's Republican convention in Cobo Hall with a well-organized troop of supporters complete with walkie talkies and Secret Service-like escorts, is to be the roundhouse knockout punch.

Neither encountered any oppositon on the way to the nominations.

IN ACCEPTING the nomination, Judge Gilbert, who has developed the repuation a "gracious and lovely lady" and the nickname "Hangin' Alice," spoke of the need to increase access to the courts.

"We must increase the promptness of decisions in both civil and criminal matters," she said.

"We have to simplify the procedures. We have to streamline modern jurisprudence.

"We have to discard those procedures that no longer have any validity, and we have to lessen the cost of litigation," Judge Gilbert said, without elaborating.

She brings to the campaign 15 years experience as a district judge in Birmingham and a record in raising campaign money. In her race for the Oakland County Circuit Court, she and her organization raised more than $50,000.

JUSTICE RYAN, who was appointed to the supreme court in 1975 and won election to the seat in 1976, said he took the nomination as "instructions to bring a halt to the activity in the supreme court (that was) perverting the criminal justice process to a war of wits instead of a search for truth.

"It's not the business of justices in conference to establish social policy," he said.

WHILE MANY Republicans touted the Ryan-Gilbert connection as a strong team, Judge Gilbert's statements cast some doubt on her intention to run as a team player.

"I do intend to campaign fulltime. I'm running to win a seat," she said.

Once again, though, Judge Gilbert refused to elaborate on the intent of her remarks.

SC helps returning students

A half-dozen new continuing education courses—including "Look, Ma, I'm a Student Again"—will be offered at Schoolcraft College this fall.

"Look, Ma" consists of eight workshops to help returning students overcome their anxieties about college. It will be led by Bertha Kelly and meets Monday evenings from 7 to 9.

Registration for this workshop, as well as other continuing education and community services courses, will be held Sept. 6-7 in the Waterman Center on the main Livonia campus, 18600 Haggerty. Registration information can be obtained by calling the college at 591-6400 ext. 404.

ALSO NEW this fall are:

"Psychology of Women" Mondays from 7-9:40 p.m. It will deal with biological and cultural determinants of sex differences, theories of female development, female sexuality, women's roles and female achievement.

"Adjustment to Step-parenthood" Thursdays from 1-3. A discussion group, it is planned for step-parents to better understand and handle their reconstituted families.

"Issues in Child Abuse and Neglect" Wednesdays from 7-9 p.m. Craig Ellison will guide looks at the social and psychological dynamics of child abuse.

"Juvenile Delinquency: A Growing Concern" Thursdays from 7-9 p.m. Craig Ellison will examine current controversial issues regarding delinquent youths.

"HELPING CHILDREN Explore Art" Wednesdays from 8-10 p.m. This class for parents and teachers of children ages 3-12 is based on the philosophy that what's most important in working with children and art is not the final product or handling of materials but the child's thought processes.

Tuition is $15.50 per credit hour for residents of the Schoolcraft College District and $26 for non-residents. A $3 registration fee is required regardless of the number of hours elected.

County schedules pre-natal classes

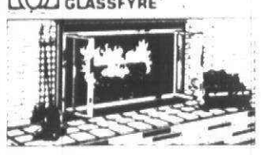

Classes for expectant parents have been scheduled for September by the Wayne County Health Department.

Group discussion is used in each class and, under the leadership of a public health nurse, the group will discuss questions and concerns about pregnancy, labor, delivery and infant care.

Classes will be offered at the South Health Center at 21201 Eureka Road, Taylor, beginning Tuesday, Sept. 12. Classes also will be offered at Wayne County Department of Health, Merriman Road north of Michigan Avenue, starting Wednesday, Sept. 13. All classes will meet from 7-9 p.m. for six consecutive weeks.

With group size limited, those interested should register early. For registration or futher information, call the health department at 274-2800 or 729-2211, ext. 390.

Caddies grovel for a buck

Take the lowly caddy. Please.

Yesterday, I passed the entrance of Plum Hollow private golf course in Southfield and noticed a sign urging members of the club to start using caddies on their appointed rounds instead of electric carts.

"Caddies—use them or we'll lose them," the sign admonished.

Now, I used to carry people's clubs, so I view the caddy's impending extinction with mixed feelings. Sort of a bemused ambivalence.

In a way I'm saddened. If caddies are phased out entirely a lot of youngsters are going to be deprived of an excellent opportunity to learn the true meaning of life—groveling for a buck.

But in another way I'm glad. It means that one more kid won't be forced to laugh at the joke about the guy whose wife asks him how his golf game went.

"Terrible. Harry fell dead of a heart attack on the first hole."

"Oh, my God, that IS horrible," says his wife.

"It sure was. All day long it was hit the ball, drag Harry. Hit the ball, drag Harry." Ad nauseum.

I heard that damn joke at least once a day. It seemed like it had more staying power than the chicken crossing the road, at least in golf circles.

THERE'S PROBABLY only one other job around where a person has to hear more verbal abuse. And that is an elevator operator, another occupation on its way out.

Elevator operators cannot get through a day without hearing such witticisms as "Make this thing go sideways," "This is a hijack, take this elevator to Cuba" and the ever-popular "I bet this job has its ups and downs." Yuk. Yuk. Yeech.

Frank Moskowitz, a friend of mine, worked as an elevator operator in the U.S. Senate and he heard all of these jokes uttered by legislators, who are supposed to be urbane and sophisticated people.

Of course, we know better.

So, in one sense I'm thankful that machines have taken the place of these two mundane jobs.

But all was not drudgery on the golf course.

There were enough characters around to populate a Fellini movie. My caddying partner was Ricky Rybicki, a young man hopelessly addicted to Chunky candy bars and Lik-M-Aid. Rick's idea of a good time was loosening up a strap on a golf bag right before a rookie caddy picked it up on the first tee. The minute the unsuspecting kid yanked the strap up it would separate from the bag and spill expensive golf clubs all over the lawn.

You learned to take your agression out on your co-workers because you had to be nice to the golfer to get a decent tip.

ANOTHER MEMORABLE character was an older guy called Curly. The old men who carried bags were called pro caddies—or worse.

Curly constantly quizzed the other caddies on baseball trivia. He'd always ask some obscure question like what year Goose Goslin got the most base on balls of his career.

"Son, you just don't know baseball," he'd invariably say.

Curly stands out in my mind's eye more than anyone else. He also stand's out in my mind's nose. Phew!

One whole summer he went without changing his clothes. He had a green, Arnold Palmer sweater that got even greener. He wore gray pants that kept their crease. And a golf hat that kept his hair from getting any wetter on rainy days.

Curly lived out of his car and swore to everybody that he knew Lee Trevino, the famous Tex-Mex golfer before he hit the big time. He called him "Lee Tree."

One day there was a pro-am tournament at Detroit Golf Club, and Trevino was scheduled to land in a helicopter to give an exhibition.

Rybicki ran out to the helicopter to ask Trevino if he'd ever heard of Curly. Trevino said he never did and went off to shake people's hands.

Curly rounded the corner—his smell preceding him—and yelled "Lee Tree, what's shaking!" Trevino dropped everything, and ran up to embrace the man.

To this day I don't know if it was because he genuinely knew Curly or if he didn't want to embarass him in front of all us little punks.

That summer was my last one at the golf course. I got tired of hearing anti-black and anti-Semitic jokes.

I'm reminded of Groucho Marx's famous line when he was denied entrance into a swim club on grounds that he was Jewish and the club didn't admit Jews.

Never at a loss for a putdown, Groucho asked the nit-wit behind the desk if his daughter could go into the pool.

"She's only half-Jewish," said Groucho. "Can she go in up to her waist?"

After I left the private club, I took my beat-up clubs across the street from the Detroit Golf Club to Palmer Park. It's a dull course but the people are an improvement. I never once heard the joke about Harry and the heart attack. And I never once heard anyone tell their foursome that they'd meet "noonish" for cocktails in the clubhouse.

The Canton Chamber of Commerce's guide to Canton is almost finished. Mary Dingledey (left) and Lillian Hopkins are busy putting the final few directories together. The 50-page booklet contains phone numbers and addresses for every business in Canton, municipal and emergency numbers, the names of churches, clubs and organizations along with their phone numbers. There even is a voting precinct map in the middle. "A good title for it would be 'Everything You've Always Wanted to Know About Canton,' " quipped Mrs. Dingledey. The directories will be sent to everyone who receives a water bill and will be mailed within the week.

Thousands expected for Plymouth fall fest

MacGregor keeps office stash

Canton police chief Walter MacGregor keeps a stash of pot in his office these days.

Not to smoke, but to keep an eye on the evidence until the latest case involving marijuana farming in Canton is solved.

Police report they recently received a telephone call from the manager of the Village Squire Apartments in Canton about a strange green plant growing "like a weed" behind the apartment complex patio.

Non-toker that he is, the apartment manager wasn't sure what the plant was and requested police assistance.

Officer Robert Van Lith responded to the call immediately and confiscated the evidence. And sure enough, lab tests showed the green stuff to be cannibas sativa.

But Van Lith wasn't through. Using his 'Sherlock Holmes' instincts, Van Lith spotted more of the same soaking up the sun inside the window of apartment 102. Lab tests on the second discovery were also positive.

The police chief insists he is only keeping a close eye on the pot until the suspect has his day in court.

Police aren't sure who is responsible for starting the pot patch in the apartment complex but MacGregor said the department is working on it.

"More details will be forthcoming," said the chief, hinting that the investigation is far from over.

Possessing or growing marijuana is punishable by 90 days in jail or a $100 fine, or both, according to township ordinances.

Unless you're the police chief.

CHIROPRACTORS SEEK RESEARCH VOLUNTEERS
The International Pain Control Institute is presently engaged in what is the most extensive research program ever undertaken by the chiropractic profession. This research is directed toward determining the relationship between health problems and spinal misalignments and utilizes a screening process called Contour Analysis.
Volunteers are being sought for screening. Contour Analysis enables taking a three-dimensional picture (called Moire photography) of the topography of the surface of the spine to detect spinal stress deviations. This analysis will be correlated with leg deficiency, patient symptomatology, and levels of spinal tenderness. An analysis of this type can reveal such things as normal and abnormal stress paterns, spinal curvature, muscle spasms, muscle imbalance, spinal distortions, and scoliosis.
This is a public service program for participating volunteers. The doctors are contributing their time, service, and facilities for the program.
Anyone wishing to be a volunteer may telephone participating doctors directly for information or an appointment.

Self-growth, telepathy among YMCA fall offerings

A class in parapsychology for adults is among the new offerings in the fall classes and activities program of the Canton-Northville-Plymouth YMCA.

The seven-week session begins Sept. 19 and will meet from 7-9 p.m. on Tuesdays in West Middle School. Instructor is Fanchette Stewart and fees are $12 for YMCA members and $16 for non-members.

The class will include discussion on phases of parapsychology such as telepathy, clairvoyance, pre-cognition and psychokenesis.

MS. STEWART ALSO will instruct an awareness class for adults for seven weeks beginning Sept. 20 on Wednesdays from 7-9 p.m. in West Middle School.

The self-awareness instruction puts stress on gestalt and Transactional Analysis with discussions on dreams, self-hypnosis, auto-genic training, biofeedback, aging, death and dying.

Coping With Older Parents Effectively will be taught by Jean Campau on Wednesdays from 1-3 p.m. for four weeks beginning Sept. 27 in the Plymouth Community Credit Union.

Ms. Campau for counselling—by appointment only—Monday through Friday from 1-5 p.m. She will offer private, individual, group or family counseling, career guidance or advice on teenage problems. Fees will be based on a sliding scale of ability to pay. She holds a master's degree in guidance and counseling from University of Michigan.

The Emerging Woman also will be taught by Ms. Campau from 1-3 p.m. Mondays for four weeks begining Sept. 18 in the credit union. Class size is limited, so register early.

AMONG THE NEW offerings by the YMCA for the fall season is a Tune-Up Time session for fifth through ninth graders behind Jerry's Bicycle Shop on Ann Arbor Road from 6-7 p.m. Tuesdays for four weeks beginning Sept. 19.

Another new class will be Beginning Magic for second through fifth graders taught by Plymouth magician Bob Schinker. Class will meet six weeks from 3:30-4:30 beginning Sept. 18 on Mondays at Tanger Elementary School, Tuesdays at Fiegel Elementary, and Wednesdays at Allen Elementary.

Ethnic Gourmet Cooking for adults will be offered 10 a.m. to noon Thursdays for four weeks beginning Nov. 2 in Geneva Presbyterian Church, Canton.

Dried Flower Arranging taught by Shirley Neu will be from 7-9 p.m. Thursdays for three weeks beginning Sept. 21 at 1361 Palmer, Plymouth.

Cake decorating demonstration and pointers for adults will be from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Tuesdays in the credit union. Oct. 24 will be instruction on use of tips and decorations, Nov. 28 on use of color, and Dec. 5 on decorating techniques.

Calligraphy—the ancient art of elegant handwriting—will be available for adults from 12:30-1:30 p.m. Thursdays for six weeks beginning Sept. 21 in the credit union. Instructor is Dee Schulte.

Chair caning class for adults will be 1:30-3:30 p.m. on Thursdays for six weeks beginning Sept. 21 in the credit union with Terese Whitten as instructor.

DANCE INSTRUCTION classes include Disco taught by Renee Dubry at Dance Unlimited on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Saturdays beginning Sept. 30.

Barb Raschke will instruct Creative Movement for 3 to 4 year-olds at Dance Unlimited Tuesdays and Wednesdays beginning Sept. 19.

Jazz dancing for all ages will be offered for seven weeks, Monday through Saturdays, beginning Sept. 18 at Dance Unlimited with Ms. Dubry as instructor.

Debbie Chase will be instructor for Modern Dance for adults and teens for seven weeks beginning Sept. 21 in Dance Unlimited.

Tai Chi Chuan will be offered on Tuesdays from 2:45-3:45 p.m. for seven weeks beginning Sept. 19 in Dance Unlimited.

Ms. Dubry will teach tap dancing for all ages in a number of seven-week sessions Monday through Saturdays beginning Sept. 18 at Dance Unlimited.

Ballet for all ages also is offered for seven-week sessions Tuesdays through Saturdays beginning Sept. 19 at Dance Unlimited. Instructors will be Anne Minnihen, Barb Raschke and Debbie Chase.

Bill Lawton biked from Astoria, Ore., to Canton Township, a distance of almost 3,000 miles in 38 days.

3,000-mile trip

Cyclist pedals from Pacific to Plymouth

"It isn't your legs that bother you. It's your seat," said Bill Lawton. The lanky 18-year-old with the sun-bleached reddish beard had completed a 3,000-mile journey on his 10-speed bicycle. The trip from Astoria, Ore. to his home in Canton Township had taken 38 days.

His parents, Doreen and George Lawton, had to admit their son looked fit. He had lost 15 pounds, the beard had been acquired on the trip, but he was glowing with health. And he had accomplished something he'd wanted to do for some time.

His diet along the way wouldn't bear parental approval but he had made it on the Schwinn La Tour they had given him when he graduated from Plymouth Salem High School in June.

Bill flew to his sister, Susan's, home in Washington and shipped his bike. She drove him to Astoria, the western terminal of the Centennial Bike Trail, July 6. He had his bike repair kit, a tent, a down-filled sleeping bag, his clothes, camera and a stove.

HE STARTED OUT alone but there were many bikers traveling the same route. His stove broke down the third day out. He wore shorts and got a terrific sunburn.

"I must have lost two layers of skin. From then on, I wore sweat pants. They were comfortable and also gave a little more padding on my seat."

He followed the Pacific coastline which "was beautiful" for about 90 miles before turning inland. It was between Eugene and Bend, Ore. that he met Wes and Ricky who were on their way home to Georgia. The trio traveled together until they reached the Mississippi River at Hannibal, Mo. They visited Mark Twain's birthplace before they parted—Bill heading northeast and the Georgians, southeast.

> 'We were chased by a couple of dogs on rural roads. We thought we were chased by a cow but she may have been running in the same direction.'
>
> —Bill Lawton

THEY AVERAGED between 80 and 85 miles a day although they did make 123 miles one day. They tried to limit their traveling to daylight hours.

"We did bike one night. It was bright moonlight and we missed some of the most beautiful scenery of the whole trip. Night travel is dangerous. You can't see where you're going and could wreck a wheel. The truck drivers hate bikes on the road at night."

They met a young man who was averaging about 200 miles a day—biking day and night. "He was on his way to Denver to join a protest group and was hoping to get arrested. We couldn't figure that one out," said Bill.

Hottest temperature was 102 degrees near Hell's Canyon in eastern Oregon. It went down to the low 40s some nights. They went through hail and sleet near Jackson, Wy. and a thunderstorm six miles south of Kearney, Neb.

But most nights, he did not bother to put up his tent and slept in the open under the stars.

"Sometimes we'd overestimate our timing. We'd arrive at a campground about 6 p.m. If we were still fresh, we'd decide to try for the next campground before dark. And there were times we didn't quite make it."

They were chased by dogs in rural areas—never in the towns. "And we thought we were chased by a cow but maybe she was just running in the same direction."

BREAKFAST was either oatmeal cooked at the camp or pancakes at a cafe in the nearest town on the route.

Lunch was out of a can. "We'd stop at a grocery store and buy baked beans, apple sauce or creamed corn and usually open the cans and eat right in front of the store."

Dinner, in camp, was Minute Rice with some variety of Campbell's soup as a sauce. "We tried to vary it, we'd have shrimp one day and mushroom the next."

One day they had a great craving for doughnuts. Each bought a package of two dozen doughnuts. They ate all 72 of them within a five or six-hour time span.

They discovered a can of pumpkin pie filling was not a substitute for real pumpkin pie. "The cherry pie filling was pretty good," said Bill.

He bought a real strawberry rhubarb pie one day, only to discover one of the trio disliked it. They had to divide it two ways.

Near Casper, Wyo. they met a young couple who had moved there from Lansing. They invited them to camp in their yard overnight. In the morning, the wife got up very early and made fresh doughnuts for them before they started out.

Bill said people were friendly and his Michigan sweatshirt was an asset. "I have about 20 letters to write to thank people and tell them I made it home."

BILL GIVES a series of impressions of the country through which they traveled. He had been west before so had seen Yellowstone and Glacier parks.

Cycling through the mountains was not as difficult as he had imagined. He pushed his bike the last quarter mile when he reached the 5,600-foot elevation of the McKenzie Pass in the Cascade Mountains of Oregon. The elevation goes from 1,600 feet to 5,600 in a 20-mile stretch.

"The first 10-15 miles is fairly gentle but the last five miles are pretty steep." Even the Rockies were no problem although the switchbacks could be boring. One of the highest points was west of DuBois, Wyo. in Grand Teton Park—9,600 feet.

"The Tetons were beautiful. They were the prettiest mountains of all." They went swimming in white water in Wind River Canyon, Wyo. Bill said he had pictured upper Wyoming as grassland. Vegetation was sparse and they saw antelopes. They didn't see a single bear in Yellowstone Park.

The Lochsa Wilderness, a national forest in northern Idaho was beautiful. They followed the Centennial Bike Trail for 85 miles through the wilderness. It took them 3½ hours to go 10 miles on White Bird Hill, Idaho. There were 12 or 13 switchbacks.

They left the Bike Trail at Muddy Gap, Wyo. and mapped their own course from there. Nebraska was flat with miles of cornfields. "You leave one town and can see the grain elevators in the next town. You just keep pedaling and you know it's 14 miles away."

THE NEW BIKE held up very well—three bent spokes and one flat tire.

"The very worst experience was in the Lochsa Wilderness. We met some people who told us about some warm springs. We had to hike in a mile or so on a dirt path, pushing our bikes. It was dark and the trail was rocky and muddy."

Bill tripped, the bike and all his belongings fell into the mud, and his half-gallon water bag went bouncing back down the hill. "I was tired and muddy and the maddest I was on the whole trip, looking for that water bag with a flashlight."

In his opinion, the hot springs were not worth it. When they reached the springs it turned out not to be a lttle-known secluded spot. They had been preceded by a crowd of skinny-dippers.

Bill spent his last night on the road with a friend in Jackson. He reached home at 1:30 p.m. Aug. 12, just in time to wash his sheep and get ready for the 4-H Club Fair.

He will attend University of Michigan-Dearborn this fall. Next summer, he just might bike to the east coast. He estimates his expenses while on the road averaged $8 a day. This included campground fees, food, a new tire and film for his camera.

Bill acquired a red beard on the cross-country trip and lost 15 pounds. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Artists and craftsmen hand-picked for show

Exhibit plans are set for the eighth annual arts and crafts show sponsored by the Plymouth Community Arts Council. The two-day show is scheduled for Sept. 9 and 10 in Central Middle School, Main Street at Church. The show has become a traditional part of the Plymouth Fall Festival and will feature 80 artists.

All artisans were selected by a special committee and work is displayed by invitation only.

Arts and crafts representing many media will be for sale. Painting techniques range from oils to modern acrylic. Crafts to be demonstrated are lapidary, weaving, ink drawings, quilting and many others. There will be pewter, pottery, stained glass, jewelry, pine originals, paper tole, Shaker woodcraft, photographs, wooden toys, dolls, clocks, china and painting.

For the second year, The Gallery will lend an added dimension to the show. This is a special exhibit of top flight artists. It is secluded, away from the main show booths, giving an atmosphere for more contemplative browsing. Large, unusal three-dimensional oil paintings by local art teacher Judy Brawn will be in the gallery.

The arts and crafts show is a major fundraiser for the PCAC. There will be a $1 admission fee for adults and 50 cents for students and senior citizens. Children accompanied by an adult will be admitted free.

Hours are noon to 9 p.m. Sept. 9 and noon to 7 p.m. Sept. 10.

FALL FASHION PREVIEW

Tonquish Creek branch Woman's National Farm and Garden Association will have a fashion show at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 12 in West Middle School cafetorium.

Models will be garden club members and their children. The preview of fall fashions will be from Claire Kelley of Plymouth and Little Angels shops. Coffee and dessert will be served. The show will be open to the public. Tickets, at $2, are available now from members of the club, at the door, or by calling Susan Silye, 453-9135. Only 200 persons will be admitted.

OKTOBERFEST

Tickets for the Sept. 30 Oktoberfest, sponsored by the German American Club of Plymouth may be purchased during the Plymouth Fall Festival. The club will have a booth at the Odd Fellows' lot on the corner of Ann Arbor Trail and Elizabeth Street.

The club's first Oktoberfest will be in the Plymouth Cultural Center. Music will be provided by the Melodias, the German group which played at the spring parties.

ST. KENNETH SENIORS

The first fall meeting of the St. Kenneth's Senior Citizens Club will be at noon Sept. 19 in the church on Haggerty Road south of Five Mile Road.

Members are asked to take a friend to the meeting. Dessert and coffee will be provided. Seniors will take along their own sack lunch. Activities for the new season will be discussed.

PLYMOUTH EX-NEWCOMERS CLUB

Former Plymouth Newcomers are invited to the first general meeting of the Plymouth Ex-Newcomers Club 8 p.m. Sept. 12 in the Plymouth Community Credit Union, 500 S. Harvey Street.

The evening will be spent discussing club activies for the year and signing up for interest groups. Some of these are: Ladies and couples bowling, gourmet, bridge, pinochle, book club, and out-to-lunch.

Refreshments will follow the business meeting and crafts for the October workshop will be shown.

Prospective or active members may call Connie Polonyi, membership chairman, 420-0250, or Marue Biggs, vice president, 455-6682, for information.

PLYMOUTH GARDEN CLUB

The Plymouth Branch Woman's National Farm and Garden Association will meet at noon Sept. 11 in the home of Mrs. Carl Peterson, 12049 Amherst Court.

A preview of coming crafts will be given by Margaret Koeninger, crafts chairman. Diane Mallow will be tea chairman for the meeting.

DAR MEETING

Sarah Ann Cochrane Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will meet at noon Sept. 18 in the home of Mrs. William Lindhout. There will be a sandwich luncheon.

Guest speaker will be Mrs. Walter Fysh, state chairman, whose topic will be the DAR schools.

Alcoholism program initiated at Madonna

In a model program initiated by Madonna College in September, in-service and pre-service personnel will be trained in specific areas of alcohol abuse.

The criminal justice program, developed by the Livonia school with the assistance of a federal grant, will integrate course content on alcoholism, the prevention of problem drinking and its effect on society.

The goal of the program is to train human service workers—probation officers, police officers, social workers—to become more adept in recognizing and dealing with alcohol problems, thus reducing the personal and family tragedies resulting from alcohol abuse.

Alan Eichman, director of the Madonna criminal justice department, will be the key faculty representative responsible for the integration of alcoholism course content in the department. He will work with consultants form Phoenix Alcoholism Therapy Services, Inc., in developing the content and format for the alcoholism material.

Utilizing a modular approach, the faculty at Madonna will integrate alcohol content into criminal justice courses, setting specific goals in each course for learning and evaluation. The competency-based curriculum will employ lectures, demonstrations and field trips, as well as audio-visual facilities of the college in taping lectures for reinforcement by the student at a later date.

Areas to be included in the alcohol modules are psysiological and biochemical effects of alcohol, drug interaction with alcohol, minimizing alcohol problems and the prevention of problem drinking.

The Madonna model program will also use the facilities at St. Mary Hospital, Operation Threshold, Alcoholic Awareness Alternatives, Livonia; Livonia Community Commission on Drug Abuse, and the Sobriety House, Detroit.

"The program will have widespread impact," said Eichman, "as the police officers enrolled in the Madonna criminal justice program represent 48 police departments and municipalities from Wayne, Washtenaw, Oakland, Monroe and Macomb counties."

These in-service personnel are redipients of tuition aid form the federally funded Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, which offers tuition support for persons employed in law enforcement, corrections or related fields.

Madonna envisions this model program as the first of a three-year project. In each succeeding year, module development will be extended to another human services department. Departments to be involved in the future include nursing, social work and business administration.

Persons interested in enrolling in the criminal justice program at Madonna are asked to contact Eichman at 591-1200, ext. 29. Registrations are being accepted daily for the fall term.

Class Reunions

GARDEN CITY HIGH CLASS OF 1958

Garden City High School class of 1958 will have its 20th year reunion Sept. 30 at Win Schuler's restaurant in Ann Arbor. Festivities will begin at 6 p.m. There will be dinner and dancing.

Reservations should be in by Sept. 16. Donation is $12.50 per person. For more information or for reservations, call 455-3871 or 455-2112.

Dancers to perform

Among the groups to entertain during the Plymouth Fall Festival this week will be this troupe from Masters of Dance Company in Canton. The group has won numerous trophies, including a first place national title with North American Pageant Systems in Indiana in July, and have performed on television. The dancers include: (front row, from left) Kathie Meiers, Jaye Gumkowski, Kris Mooney, Sue Diebolt, Diane Smith, Teresa Shearrer and Eva Doege; (back row, from left) Kathy Brandt, Christie Comilla, Kellie Drean, Doug Ingle, Heather Hartzog and Lisa Ironside.

Cooper-Whittaker

Mary Beth Whittaker designed and made her lace, satin and chiffon gown for her Aug. 20 wedding to Thomas Perry Cooper. The Rev. Robert S. Shank officiated at the afternoon ceremony in the home of the bride's parents, Robert and Beth Whittaker of Colony Farm Drive, Plymouth.

The bridegroom is the son of Robert and Nancy Cooper of Governor Bradford Road in Plymouth.

The bride wore her mother-in-law's bridal veil and carried her mother's wedding handkerchief.

Her bouquet was carnations, baby's breath and yellow sweetheart roses. Her maid of honor was her best friend, Vicki Sand, a former Plymouth resident who now lives in Carmel, Calif. She wore a floral print dress and carried a colonial bouquet of salmon-colored sweetheart roses, bronze and white daisy mums and baby's breath.

John Hampel of Kalamazoo was best man.

A reception for 150 guests at the bride's home followed the ceremony.

Both graduated from Western Michigan University in April. She earned her degree in fashion merchandising. He is employed by WMU as an assistant television engineer. They will live Kalamazoo.

Schwab-Robertson

Robin Lynn Schwab and Edward Mark Robertson were married July 1 in Lake Pointe Bible Chapel. Richard Sullivan officiated. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Schwab of Southworth, Plymouth. He is the son of Mrs. F. Edward Robertson of Northville.

The bride wore a five-layered chantilly lace gown. Her veil was organza bordered with chantilly. Her bouquet was green carnations, yellow tea roses and lilies of the valley. Matron of honor Denise Davis wore yellow chiffon and bridesmaids Ann Gourlay and Mary Robertson wore green chiffon.

The couple honeymooned in California following a reception in Bonnie Brooke Country Club. They will live in Canton Township.

The bride graduated recently fron Schoolcraft College with an associate degree in secretarial science. The bridegroom is a Motech graduate. He is employed by Bingham's Service Station in Livonia.

Use your imagination

Imagination is as important in the kitchen as in art. Fixing family meals can sometimes seem like drudgery unless you approach it with a fresh viewpoint.

Doing something different every day or so, like serving garlic butter instead of plain butter on a baked potato, or mix blue cheese with butter for a topping.

Food fads expensive

Following food fads can be expensive both in money and your health.

Your health may suffer because a purchased preparation, or so-called special food, instead of protecting your health, may lead you to omit essential foods in your meals as well as delay your seeking medical advice.

Dinner theater producers start in a basement

By BETTY MASSON
Special Writer

Out of the basement and across the nation—that is the aspiration of two young men who have recently set up business in Livonia.

The product is talent. The incentive is the growth in popularity of dinner theater. And the method of distribution will be a van and a trailer.

The new business is called Kramer-Elliston Productions, after founders Mel Kramer and John W. Elliston. Kramer's basement is the head office, with a mailing address of P.O. Box 2771, Livonia, MI. 48150. Elliston comes from Los Angeles.

THEY MET when they were involved in a touring children's theatrical company, Robin Hood Players, out of Scottsdale, Ariz.

Kings used to have their jesters. Modern men have their Neil Simon—Simon being among the few playwrights creating drama suitable for dinner theater presentations. The criteria: lightness, ease of staging, humor and a small cast.

Kramer and Elliston decided to set up a business offering the public something different. They went back to the early 1900s to come up with a show of vaudeville and melodrama. The company is called "The MeloDramaTicians."

"One of the reasons we decided to start this company is that dinner theater in the last five years has grown easily 10,000 per cent," said Elliston.

"Just in Orange County, where I was living before I came out here, there have been about 13 dinner theaters opened in the last five years."

Dinner theater became popular in the Southwest, especially in Texas, seven to 12 years ago. Houston has eight, Elliston said.

Metropolitan Detroit has three dinner theaters operating on a regular basis—that is, more than four shows a week, they said. Others in the area have presentations from time to time, one of the newest being the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth, which works with community theater.

"THE BIGGEST problem they are having with dinner theater," said Elliston, "is that they are running out of plays. It's all the same shows over and over again.

"All we really have are just a handful of good shows, so we thought that by putting this together and offering something new, we would be opening up a new market, in a sense, and at the same time be offering them a new form of entertainment so they wouldn't have to keep doing the same thing over and over again."

Elliston said that most dinner theaters stage their own productions, commenting: "The biggest expense in producing a show is producing the show itself. It's not in running it."

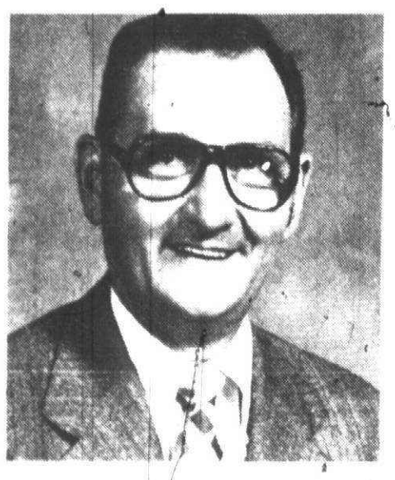

He finds that full-time dinner theaters—in order to recover the costs of putting the show together, casting, rehearsals, sets, lighting, etc.—must run the play far too long. "They run out of audience," he said.

WHAT THEY have put together is a three-act program. It features an original skit adapted from a story by Mark Twain, "The Loves of Alonzo Fitz-Clarence and Rosanna Etherlton," about the use of the telephone in romance; a vaudevillian type of act with songs, dance and comedy; and a 1916 melodrama called "The Potboiler."

Six professional actors, hired in Los Angeles, will arrive in Livonia Sept. 15 to begin rehearsals and the show should be ready to go on the road by Oct. 15. Kramer and Elliston hope for some local engagements, but nothing is final yet.

Agents in Pittsburgh and Los Angeles are working on bookings, and they report prospects are good for a nationwide tour from January through November. The two recognize they got a late start for the fall season.

The producers will not be going along with the company. They figure that with one company on the road, they will just about break even. With three on the road, they will be "comfortable." Five would be even better. They will stay in Livonia and work on that.

Clyde A. Palmer, a veteran of many years in the Allied Van Line system, has been appointed manager of shows and exhibits of the Livonia-based Wolverine Moving & Storage Co., it was been announced by President S. J. (Bud) Rozema. Palmer will coordinate and direct all moving of Shows & Exhibits activities.

William P. Hildebrandt, 24, of Livonia, has been promoted to executive vice-president of manufacturing by Cars and Concepts, Inc. The Brighton special vehicles manufacturing firm specializes in installing T-bar roofs for the auto industry. Hildebrandt is a 1971 graduate of Stevenson High School. He has been with the firm since it was founded in 1976, starting as personnel director.

Robert S. Wildish, former councilman and mayor pro-tem of Garden City from 1964-69, has been appointed president and chief executive officer of the newly formed Osteopathic Hospitals of Detroit, Inc. The organization was formed to acquire the Zieger Osteopathic Hospital Unit and corporation and to merge with Art Centre Hospital-Osteopathic. Wildish, 49, had been administrator of Art Centre Hospital.

John T. Lynch of Plymouth received the honorary alumnus award from Eastern Michigan University. It is given to a non-EMU graduate for outstanding support of the school. Lynch, director of public relations at General Motors' Hydramatic division, earned his bachelor of science degree from the University of Detroit. He is active in two chambers of commerce, Junior Achievement, United Way and scouting.

MNB West Metro, an affiliate of Michigan NationalCorp., is a $215 million bank with 11 offices in western Wayne County.

How Dow-Jones is figured

Market Watch

By JOHN E. VERNIER

After a 19-day advance during July and early August which carried the Dow Industrials from approximately 800 to 900, the market has spent the last 17 days (as this is being written) stuck at just below the 900 level. It has traded in a narrow range (880-900) on very heavy volume.

A lot of stock has changed hands during this period with little price movement—at least in the average.

Underneath, however, the market has been much stronger than the average would indicate. There has been a plurality of individual advances to declines, the new-high list has continued to expand, and other indicators have shown more strength than weakness.

THE QUESTION remains: Is this a "bull" or "bear" market?

I thought you might be interested in knowing how these two animals became symbols for the trend of the market. It is based on the method of their attack.

The bull rushes head on toward its victim and throws it upward. Thus, a bull market is a rising market.

The bear stands on his hind legs, and claws its victim downward. Thus, a bear market is a declining market.

The basic trend of the market is identified by the course of the Dow Industrial Averages. This average is of great importance, not only because it describes the past and present condition of the market, but because it also tends to influence current market decisions.

THE STOCK market is its own best advertiser. A strong market begets strength, and a weak market begets weakness. The Dow Industrial Average is the stock market. Its trend is a great influence in itself.

While the average is composed of only 30 components, they represent some of the largest companies in America. Following is a list of the companies used to compute the average:

Allied Chemical, Alcoa, American Brands, American Can, American Telephone, Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, DuPont, Eastman Kodak, Esmark, Exxon, General Electric, General Foods, General Motors, Goodyear, Inco, International Harvester, International Paper, Johns-Manville, Minnesota M&M, Owens-Illinois, Procter & Gamble, Sears, Standard Oil of California, Texaco, Union Carbide, United Technologies, U. S. Steel, Westinghouse, and Woolworth.

If you totaled the prices of the 30 stocks and divided by 30, you would arrive at an average of about $42.

HOW, THEN, can the average be at 900?

When a capital change occurs, such as a stock dividend or a stock split, then an adjustment in the divisor must be made to compensate for the change. Most of the components have had splits and so on over the years, so the divisor today is less than two.

Explained in another way, if there had never been a capital change in any of the 30 stocks over the years, then the current average price would be in the neighborhood of 900.

While seasonal patterns in the stock market are vague to identify, it is true that the fall of the year seems to have experienced more dramatic stock market action than the other three.

On this Labor Day 1978, I would urge you to be particularly observant for the snorting of the bull or the roaring of the bear. One of them is going to dominate.

Let's hope the bear decides on early hibernation!

Can she survive financially?

MONEY GO ROUND

By BRENDA L. SCHNEIDER

It's dark in the restaurant. It doesn't matter anyway. What's listed on the menu in front of you is unimportant. You set down your glass and sit back, relaxed from your second martini.

The decision has been made: You're calling it quits after 17 years of marriage to everybody's concept of Mr. Right. You're sure you've made the right decision, but gnawing at your insides is Mr. Right's last remark at breakfast: "You'll never make it alone."

And now, the decision made, it hits you: Is Mr. Right's assessment of your survival capabilities correct?

"CAN I MAKE it alone?" is a serious question women of all ages and in all situations should periodically ask themselves—but don't. Most women pass it off with a simple "of course!" and for some reason feel slightly outraged that someone even questions their savvy in the world of finances.

But going it alone is a serious situation which far too many women pass off with little or no regard for all that is involved.

So now you're convinced maybe you're not as informed as you originally thought, but what do you do to change the situation?

Don't panic. The initial step is getting someone to help you through the times ahead. Your banker is your best friend when you're talking finances.

Here are some of the things you need to think about:

IDENTITY: Do you have a financial identity of your own? If the answer is "no" or "I think so, but I'm not sure," here are some tips on what to do to insure that you have:

1. Get a checking account and savings account in your own name.

2. Make sure, if you're married, that all credit applications are filled out jointly so that you develop your own credit profile.

3. Open an account at your favorite department store. Use the account charge privilege wisely—but use it. Buying and paying off items will help you establish credit.

4. If for some reason you experience financial difficulty and are unable to meet an obligation, contact your creditor immediately. He will be willing to work with you if you explain the problem.

MONEY MANAGEMENT: Does this scare you? It shouldn't. Again, your banker can help.

1. Learn the services of your bank and how they can best be adapted to fit your needs. Select the checking account and savings programs which best fit your lifestyle. Ask for a copy of the bank's annual report. Read it and then ask your banker any questions you might have.

2. Establish a financial plan based on your current needs and long-range projections. The plan should cover more than a monthly picture of your daily living expenses.

KNOW YOUR RIGHTS: You don't have to be an attorney to be assertive in the market place. An understanding of a few basic laws can make survival easier.

"Truth in lending" requires that the lender disclose to you, before you sign, how much the loan is going to cost you in dollars and cents and what that means when translated into an annual percentage rate.

"Equal credit opportunity" means you cannot be discriminated against because of your sex or marital status and that credit criteria must be the same for women as for men.

"Fair credit reporting" guarantees certain consumer rights about the fair reporting of your credit status by credit bureaus.

PROBLEM SOLVING! So you're out on your own, and you run into a problem you can't solve yourself. Where can you turn? Again, relax, because there are a number of agencies ready and willing to help.

Starting small business to be OU seminar topic

All aspects of planning and operating a small business will be covered in a small business institute opening Tuesday, Sept. 19 at Oakland University, Rochester.

The topics include simple advice on how to plan and start a business, use of the computer, practical accounting, financial planning techniques, and building a quality organization.

Deadline for institute registration is Sept. 13. For fees and registration information, call OU at 377-3272.

Among the guest speakers will be: Elvin Carson, business consultant, E. J. Carson & Associates, Detroit; Samuel DeMascio, president, Kendall Green, Rochester; Thomas Fraser, president, General Computer Co., Brighton; Kenneth Peterson, financial consultant, Peterson, Rounding & Schouman, Birmingham; and Jon Greenawalt, management consultant, Executive Consulting Services, Inc., Southfield.

The institute is sponsored by the Division of Continuing Education and the Urban Affairs Center at OU in cooperation with the Michigan Department of Commerce and the Small Business Administration.

The Division of Continuing Education received two innovation awards in small business management training in 1978 from the U. S. Small Business Administration.

'Naive' economist now opposes lottery

State lotteries and gambling games are essentially a rip-off," and widespread legalization of gambling is one of the worst changes in public policy to have occurred in recent years, according to Ross Wilhelm, professor of business economics at the University of Michigan.

Prof. Wilhelm says legalization of gambling has been bad because it has encouraged many non-gamblers to gamble without creating any important offsetting social benefits.

"All across the United States, state governments have been moving to legalize various forms of gambling," he noted. "The motivations of the politicians are complex, however, the publicly acknowledged reasons have been:

"First, to increase state tax revenues for worthy causes such as education or the elderly, second, to provide competition for illegal gambling operations and presumably to drive crooks out of business, third, to rehabilitate depressed urban areas.

"THE ACTUAL results achieved by legalization of gambling have not met all of the expectations.

"Generally gambling has proven to be a poor source of revenue for state governments—poor in the sense that amounts collected from state-run lotteries and other games, as well as from licenses and other related revenues, has been trivial in relation to the total spending of a state government. The only important exception is Nevada, which is blessed with a small population so gambling revenues per capita have been large."

The U-M business economist points out that the relatively small revenues from state-run lotteries and games occurs despite the fact that the odds are weighted very heavily against the player.

"The stark reality is that state lotteries are among the worst rip-offs of all forms of gambling in the nation," he declares. "The viciousness of the state-run games is compounded beyond belief by the fact that state governments actively advertise and promote the games and the winners.

"The rip-off involved in state-run gambling operations is far worse, from the consumer's viewpoint in state than anything that can be found in business. Yet the consumerists and the Federal Trade Commission and all the other defenders of the consumer say nothing about such government rip-offs, nor do they move to stop them.

"A SECOND SAD effect of the state-run or authorized gambling operations is that they have had no impact upon illegal gambling or such rackets as the numbers. Indeed, the existence of such state-sanctioned gambling may have contributed to expanding the market for illegal gambling."

Wilhelm admits his present position is a turn-around for him: "When state-run lotteries were first proposed I strongly supported them on the argument that if properly planned they could be used to run the numbers racket out of business. I was completely wrong and naive in taking such a position.

Solar energy unit open to the public

The largest solar energy installation in Michigan will be open to public inspection from 1-4 p.m Sept. 10.

It is the Macomb County Satellite Services Building, 29600 Civic Center Blvd., Warren. The showing is sponsored by the Detroit chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

There is no admission charge.

Tour guides will include architects from the Thomas Strat and Associates, Troy, the firm which designed the building.

It is on five acres of land in Warren's civic center complex and is occupied by county and state agencies.

The Strat firm said the triangular shape of the building permits incorporation of flat solar collection panels as an integral part of the south exterior wall.

An insulated reflective glass wall runs the full length of the building on the northeast. It minimizes heat gain from the morning sun and minimizes winter heat loss because it is parallel to prevailing winds.

Auto parts shop opens

New-5 Auto Parts has opened at 15375 Newburgh at Five Mile in Livonia.

Onwers are Paul and Patti Bacigal. Paul has more than five years experience in the retail parts business. The shop will be open seven days a week.

The first 50 customers will receive free tune-up manuals.

Husking Rotary corn

A number of young people gathered recently at Schwartz's greenhouse on Lilley Road in Canton to husk corn for this Sunday's chicken barbecue put on by the Rotary Club of Plymouth. The youngsters are Plymouth and Canton swim team members who volunteered to help the Rotarians, who in turn have contributed funds towards purchase of a timing device for swim meets. In the front row (from left) are Doug Bender, Amy Bing, Katie Vesnaugh; second row (from left) John Schwartz, past president of the Canton Rotary Club; Jimmy Gallagher, Kelly Gallagher, Erin Olson, Lindsay Olson, Steve Swartzinski, Greg Wolff, Paul Swartzinski; and back row (from left) Kim Vesnaugh, B.J. Bing, Laura Perpich, Sue Evans, Jill McCann, and Bill Brown, president of Canton Rotary.

The husking done above actually was a practice session for this Saturday when the corn will be delivered, husked, and placed on ice for Sunday's servings.

Unclogging Drains

You can be your own plumber and protect your house from water damage while saving money on repair bills if you act promptly when you notice a drain emptying slower than usual.

• DO flush the drain with liberal doses of boiling water to restore free flow.

• DO use a plunger. Bail out most of the backed up water, leaving only enough to cover plunger cup. To increase pressure against the clog, plug the sink overflow opening with a damp rag. With the sink stopper removed vigorously pump plunger up and down, timing your strokes rhythmically to reinforce the surge in the pipe.

• DO use a liquid drain opener if drain remains blocked.

• DON'T use a chemical drain opener in conjunction with plunger. Splashing onto face could cause injury.

And for quick cash for those unexpected repair jobs, sell your usable unused items with

The Movies

LOUISE SNIDER

Fastened together by a medley of 29 of the Beatles old songs, "Sgt. Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band" is a rock musical with all the excitement of a lullabye.

The producer is Robert Stigwood, the money-making pop culture guru who also produced "Saturday Night Fever" and "Grease." According to Stigwood, "Sgt. Pepper" is what musicals of the '70s should be.

"Sgt. Pepper" is an extravaganza, but a very tame one. The line-up of talent looks impressive; however, most of these performers don't appear in individual numbers. Instead, they are part of a large, glittery ensemble featured in the finale.

Peter Frampton and the Bee Gees carry the weight (leather, that is) of the story. George Burns intones the narration necessary to string it all together, since no one was inventive enough to use visuals for continuity.

• HIS PRESENCE also provides the kind of cutesy touch that's supposed to appeal to audiences of all ages. The package is wrapped with the dazzle of psychedelic lighting and special effects, none of them new.

The humor might be called sophomoric, but that would bestow it with an undeserved air of maturity. Interestingly enough, one of the sharper episodes is Stigwood's own self-parody involving a high-pressure Hollywood record company: B.D. (Big Deal) Records with its red pig emblem (Stigwood's RSO label uses a red cow as an emblem).

Peter Frampton and the Bee Gees might be the Mary Poppins of rock; they simply are not that exciting on film. As for the Beatles' songs, I confess I'm a purist. I like the way the Beatles sang them.

The general musical blandness might pass for entertainment, were it not for the dynamite appearance of Aerosmith that audibly turns on the audience and presents a sensational contrast with most of the musical numbers.

Other performers who liven things up substantially are Steve Martin as Dr. Maxwell Edison, Alice Cooper as Father Sun and Billy Preston as a fantasy Sgt. Pepper. There also is built-in applause on the sound track, apparently to help stimulate theater audiences to respond.

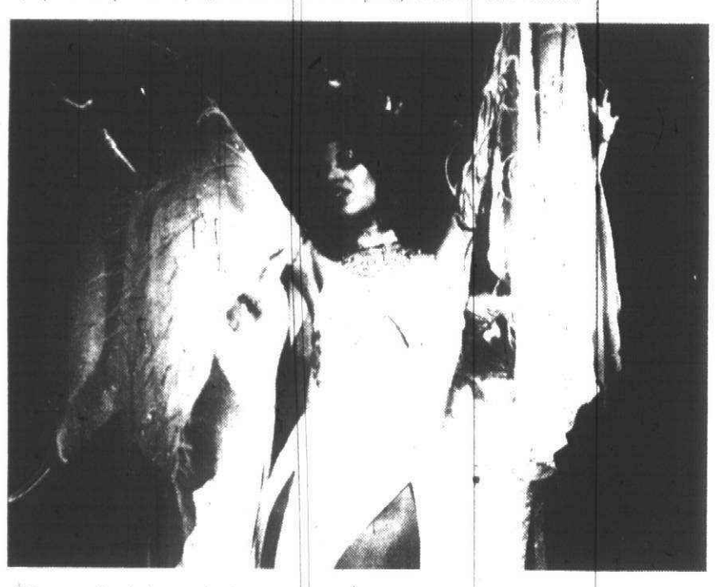

THE STORY ITSELF isn't going to put anyone on the edge of his seat. Sgt. Pepper and his Band appeared during World War I, and their music helped spread peace and joy. After the war, they returned to their hometown, Heartland, U.S.A., where their music helped keep that quaint place full of love and free of corruption for many decades.

When they died, they bequeathed their instruments to Heartland with the proviso that they must remain there or the town would fall to ruin.

An evil real estate broker named Mr. Mustard (Frankie Howard), who takes orders from the Future Villain Band (Aerosmith), steals the instruments.

Sgt. Pepper's grandson Billy (Peter Frampton) and Billy's friends the Hendersons (Barry, Robin and Maurice Gibb—the Bee Gees), after a detour in Hollywood, set out to recover the instruments.

It's a moralistic tale that might amuse a dull third grader. Good is equated with innocence, and evil with sex and money. And speaking of money, if Robert Stigwood is right about audiences grooving on this pap, he'll probably get a hernia carrying it all to the bank.

Dianne Steinberg is Lucy of "Lucy in the Sky with Diamonds."

It's folk music for a cause on Sunday

By JEAN DAY

An estimated 3,000 lovers of folk and bluegrass music are expected to fill Northville High School's football field Sunday to hear a program starring Josh White Jr.

The festival is the fourth annual one staged by Tom Rice, owner of the Gitfiddler Music Shop in Northville. It's a benefit to aid the Committee to Combat Huntington's Disease.

"It's a really complete selection of folk and bluegrass—you've never had this type of festival in Michigan," Rice says.

He also expects that, weather cooperating, as much as $5,000 can be raised for the cause that is close to him and his family. His sister contracted the disease when she was 25 and died at 30, leaving three children.

Huntington's Disease is hereditary and causes brain damage, creating a blockage between the brain and nervous system that leads to lack of muscle coordination.

"Josh White Sr. was a very close friend of Woody Guthrie, who died in 1967 of the disease. It was his wife, Marjorie, who started the foundation to try to find causes for the disease, for which there is absolutely no cure," Rice explains.

Josh White Jr. offered his help when Marjorie was in Detroit for a recent Michigan foundation meeting. Jerry Wieskie, president of the Michigan foundation, told White about "the fellow in Northville who gives a folk and bluegrass festival."

When Rice called, White was willing.

The festival will begin at 1 p.m., with White scheduled to appear between 3 and 5 p.m. The high school is located at Eight Mile and N. Center (Sheldon Road).

Playing bluegrass will be Red Eye Express from Allen Park and Michigan Consolidated Grass from Northville. Folk music will be played by Ray LaBean, Mike Willis, Steve Bagdon, Marie Schlepers and an acoustical guitar group with vocals called Phoenix.

Harry Stevens, a traditional steel guitar player, is on the program, as is a group from the Gitfiddler, Flash-in-the-Pan.

A minimum donation of $2 is asked.

Past concerts have raised a total of $1,500. This year, Rice hopes to draw a big crowd with White as the top attraction.

Gary Givens, Wendy Innes and Tom Rice will perform together as the Flash-in-the Pan trio at the Sept. 10 benefit concert in Northville for Huntington's Disease. Josh White Jr. will perform there before ending his stay at the Raven Gallery.

Josh White at the Raven

Josh White Jr. ends a two-week stay Sunday at the Raven Gallery in Southfield.

Showtimes at the coffeehouse are Wednesday, Thursday and Sunday at 9:30 p.m., Friday and Saturday at 9:15 p.m. and midnight. Reservations are suggested; there is a cover charge.

White's Tuesday night performance at the Gallery was broadcast live over WMJC-FM. The radio station is awaiting listener response before deciding whether to regularly broadcast local performances. Accompanying himself on guitar, this folk, rock and gospel singer has performed on Broadway and on the Bowery, at Chicago's Playboy Club and its Amazing Grace, and in Birmingham, Ala., and England.

White began singing professionally at four, the top of his head resting on the knee of his famous father, Josh White, author of "St. James Infirmary" and original adapter and performer of "One Meatball" and "House of the Rising Sun."

He's sung for everyone because he believes, "Everyone can be touched, if we just find the right song." While he still loves to sing the ones his late father did, White has got his own. So do his friends.

One of the songs he sings, "Marco Polo," is being played in the Detroit area.

THE JOSH WHITE Jr. repertoire draws on all three sources, searching out the songs his soul already knows.

"I sing because that is an expression of my soul. When I'm on stage, I feel I'm totally in control of the situation, but when I come off the stage, I'm vulnerable, like anyone else.

"I not only sing for me, but I sing for a lot of other people who feel the same way I do," White said.

Alvin Ailey dancers return to Music Hall

The Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater will return to Music Hall Center Sept. 19 through 24. Known to be an annual sell-out, Ailey tickets are expected to go fast.

Rooted in Black America, this is a multi-racial dance troupe whose repertoire speaks of history, social change, and the beauty of the human spirit.

The dancers are equally skilled in modern dance, jazz, ballet and Afro-Caribbean styles and move to the sounds of jazz, symphonic, blues and spiritual rhythms.

Noted as a fine choreographer, Ailey adds to his own works those from other choreographers Talley Beatty, Rael Lamb, George Faison, Donald McKayle and Lar Lubovitch.

In the Ailey troupe's upcoming engagement, each evening offers a different program.

This season marks the 20th anniversary of the Alvin Ailey dance company. In these two decades Ailey has created a long list of major changes in modern dance.

On opening night, a special section of seats has been reserved by the Afro-American Museum in Detroit to be sold at prices ranging from $5 to $20, with proceeds to benefit the Museum. These tax-deductible tickets can be ordered by calling Toni Ballard at 225-2736.

The Music Hall box office, 350 Madison, Detroit, has tickets available between noon and 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Telephone orders are accepted from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Master Charge, BankAmericard and J.L. Hudson credit cards may be used. Call 963-7680 to order or for further information.

Black Sheep picks 'Lovers'

The Black Sheep Repertory Theatre opens its fall 1978 theater season Friday with "The Last of the Red Hot Lovers."

This Neil Simon comedy is about a middle-aged man's unsuccessful attempts at having extramarital affairs in his mother's apartment.

The cast includes: Phillip Bowman as the middle-aged restaurant owner and Roberta Owen, Barb Thorne and Susan Freridge as the three attempted love interests.

The show runs Friday-Sunday and Sept. 14-17. The Black Sheep Repertory Theatre is on Main Street off M-52 in Manchester.

For tickets and information, call 428-9280 or 428-9287 or write: P.O. Box 507, Manchester 48158. The Black Sheep Repertory Theatre is a professional, nonprofit theater company.

In Dearborn

Pianist Gilda Leprotti provides the music of France, Italy and Spain in the Golden Eagle Lounge at the Dearborn Inn on Oakwood Boulevard, 6:30 p.m. to midnight Monday-Saturday. Pianist Dennis Jay precedes her at 5 p.m. Monday-Thursday, then plays in the Early American Room till 11 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays, the Dennis Jay Ensemble has dance music at 6:30 p.m. in the Early American Room.

Free film comedies continue

Charlie Chaplin, Rosalind Russell, Cary Grant and Buster Keaton team with W. C. Fields, Mel Brooks, Zero Mostel and Gene Wilder to give the Detroit Institute of Arts' "Great American Film Comedies" a rousing a send-off in the final month of its summer schedule.

Each of the series' remaining films will be shown one week only, daily, Tuesday-Sunday at 2 p.m. in the museum's Lecture/Recital Hall. Admission is free.

The schedule still includes:

Tuesday-Sept. 10:

"The General" (1927) 1 hour, 20 minutes. Buster Keaton is an engineer for the South during the war between the states, and when his locomotive, The General, is stolen by Yankee spies, the resulting chase creates one of the greatest comedies ever filmed.

Sept. 12-17:

A 1940 smash comedy starring W. C. Fields—written by Fields under the pen name Mahatma Kane Jeeves. 1 hour, 14 minutes.

Sept. 19-24:

"The Producers" (1968) 1 hour, 40 minutes. Mel Brooks, director. Poor taste abounds in one of the undeniably funny films of the century. Starring Zero Mostel, Gene Wilder and Dick Shawn.

Pianist in jazz concert

Pianist Hank Jones will be featured artist at the Detroit Institute of Arts Jazz at the Institute series Thursday night.

Performances are scheduled at 7:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. in the museum's Kresge Court. Tickets are available through the institute ticket office.

Wine, beer, soft drinks and snacks will be offered at additional cost. Reserved table seating will be provided in the Kresge Court's candlelit indoor cabaret setting.

Pontiac-born Jones has had a career spanning over 40 years. He has played with many celebrated jazz artists—Billy Eckstein, Hot Lips Page, Stan Getz, Coleman Hawkins and Ella Fitzgerald.

Sandwiched between his guest appearances and touring engagements, Jones spent 20 years as house musician for CBS.

For reservations, information and a complete Thursday night jazz schedule, call the Detroit Institute of Arts ticket office at 832-2730.

Standby fare still makes a lot of cents

TRAVEL LOG of Iris Jones

SOMEWHERE OVER THE ATLANTIC—Yesterday the airline quoted me $847 for this trip to London. Here I am in seat 25H of a Boeing 747 with a return ticket reading $342.

The difference is in one word—standby. Standby is a word I have always associated with students. It meant you got a seat at the last minute if the plane was not full. Now, it has a new meaning.

The fare from Detroit to London is significantly less if you book a month in advance, and stay several weeks. But I am on a family emergency, which gave me 24-hours notice of departure.

It is this inability to plan and reserve ahead that results in literally sky-high fares. When I called the first airline, a sympathetic receptionist said she hoped that I was sitting down. She then quoted me a price of $847.

All good stories have a hero riding over the hill when the heroine is in trouble. Mine was the voice on the telephone answering machine at Pan American. The voice said: "Standby chances for tomorrow on flight 106 to London are fair."

A few minutes later, a live voice quoted the one-way standby fare to London as $193 plus three dollars tax." The return fare is $146. That totals $342, which saves $505.

I only dimly understood the procedure when I arrived at Metropolitan Airport, bags packed, for the opening of the standby desk at 10 a.m. I knew that you could only buy standby tickets on the day of the flight, and that there was no guarantee of a seat.

It was so easy, I still think there must be a catch. Three people were waiting at the Pan Am desk and eight at BOAC. Both planes leave for London in the early evening. Everybody in the short line got tickets within 15 minutes. By 10:30, I had a confirmed reservation in my hand, my bags were checked and I had the whole day to do as I wished before the 6:15 p.m. flight.

The only question now is whether I will be able to do the same thing coming back or whether I sleep on the streets of London as many other summer passengers have done. At this price, if I pay full fare coming back, I still will be about $200 ahead of that original $847 ticket.

HOW DOES standby work? Now that the Civil Aeronautics Board has removed controls on airline fares, airlines offer various ticket prices and conditions. They are allowed to sell 350 seats a week on a standby basis. The seats are available only if the plane is not fully booked on the morning of the flight.

You must reserve your seat, if one is available, no later than three hours before a flight. No standby seats for a 6:15 p.m. flight are sold after 3:15, and most are gone when the standby desk opens at 10 a.m. in Detroit.

If you are lucky enough to get a seat, your reservation is guaranteed. There is no difference in service on the plane. Nobody but you knows that you are on standby.

These standby fares are available only on international flights. London to Detroit flights leave Heathrow Airport near London mid-morning, so the standby desk there opens at 6 a.m.

I'll let you know next week whether I was lucky enough to get standby coming home.

SHARON VAUGHN-REILLY of Plymouth, a travel consultant for the Westland office of Hudson's Travel Service, was just as surprised as the rest of us when the CAB announced a new charter plan called public charter last week.

The new rules will end the requirement that discount fares for charter flights be dependent upon advance purchase, minimum stay or minimum group size. The only requirement seems to be that the agent must preserve a minimum of 20 seats on an airline.

We'll let you know as soon as the travel world knows what the new rules mean to your winter charter plans.

CASTLE HUNT— Jim and Doris Scharfenberg of Farmington Hills are flying to Germany this week to explore their very own family castle.

There has been a rumor in the family for years that a Scharfenberg Castle existed somewhere in Europe, but nobody knew just where.

Daughter Jane solved the mystery when she was sent to Germany this year with the U.S. Army. The ruins of such a castle exist in the Bavarian Mountains south of Germany.

It's a 12th Century castle, and the Scharfenbergs plan to bring photos and information about this family treasure home with them in late September.

OAKLAND AND WAYNE counties old car collectors will join old car enthusiasts from around North America in a journey to Greenfield Village Saturday and Sunday when the Old Car Festival returns.

Four donors of automobiles to Henry Ford Museum will be honored at the event, as part of the 75th anniversary celebrations of the Ford Motor Co. this year.

IF YOU ARE a traveler, share your travel experiences with us by writing to me at 22170 W. Nine Mile, Southfield 48034. I'll reply between planes.

Ky. Horse Park

A place for friend and foal alike

The High Hope Steeplechase is run over the Kentucky Horse Park's one-mile, 600-foot course. Other races will be staged after the park's official September opening.

By IRIS SANDERSON JONES

There's been something horsey going on in and near Lexington, Ky., ever since that city's first settlers raced their steeds down the main street during the 18th Century.

And in keeping with this quadrupedic-oriented fascination, the Kentucky Horse Park there will open to southbound-on-I-75 travelers Sept. 7. The park, designed by the State of Kentucky for horse lovers, offers most of the attractions found on horse farms along Ironworks Pike, where million-dollar babies like Seattle Slew were born and raised.

As an opening attraction, the 1978 World 3-Day Championships will be held there Sept. 14-17. Dressage, endurance and stadium jumping trials will be hosted by Prince Phillip of England, head of the Federation Equestre Internationale.

WORK WAS begun on the state park more than a year ago, when the state unearthed the remains of the famous racehorse Man-of-War (also known as Big Red) for reburial at the entrance to the park. He is the only racehorse ever buried in his colors after lying in state for 3 days.

His remains rested all of the winter of 1977 in the White Chapel Funeral Home in Lexington, awaiting reburial under his life-sized bronze statue. He is buried there with his family: sons, War Admiral and War Relic; daughters, War Kilt and War Hazard; and the dam of War Admiral, Brush Up.

The grave of the great 19th Century black jockey Isaac Murphy was also moved to the park entrance.

The $25 million park is built on ground adjacent to lush horse farms owned by such notables as the Dodge and Fisher families of Detroit. Tour operators have done a multi-million dollar business for many years, showing travelers around the horse barns and paddocks of these farms.

At any time of year, you can see the stallions behind their double fences, one horse to a paddock to avoid fights. In spring there are mares and million-dollar babies in the blue grass, so named by Daniel Boone because of its blue appearance at that time of year.

The 1,000-acre park includes an information center, a museum with films and exhibits, a working horse farm, steeplechase course, polo field, show jumping ring, dressage arena, cross-country course, and ½-mile dirt track with an infield for rodeo exhibitions and saddlehorse shows.

Entrance to the park is free. Tickets will cost $3.25 for adults and $2 for children for a three-part tour—the museum, a walking tour of the farm, and a film. Presently, prices are reduced to $2 for adults and $1 for children and includes the farm, film and a horse-drawn tour. The museum is not yet fully open.

During the World Championships, a million-dollar exhibit of English equestrian art will be displayed.

"THE PARK will not glorify the horse, but show the animal realistically," said Susan Hammond of the park staff. "We want to show how history has affected the horse and how the horse has affected history."

A bus tour of the area will reveal the white board fences, and the columned white mansions that look like settings from "Gone With the Wind."

You will pass homes of famous horse owners, such as that of the owner of the Gainesborough dog food company. As the guide will tell you, "Those that don't go over the wire, go into the can."

In the spring, the million-dollar babies are in the fields, sometimes with an adopted mother known as a gray mare. At other times of the year, you go through a tunnel of trees past horse barns so elegant, they include showers for the horses.

The Castleton Farm, one of the most famous, was founded by a member of the Dodge automobile family. It includes a dry wall built by slaves without mortar, and stands near a memorial to Wing Commander.

These famous farms, with the paddocks and foaling barns, prompted the building of the Kentucky Horse Park for travelers. The working farm will include training for young people who want to apprentice in the horse trade.

For information about the Kentucky Horse Park, contact P.O. Box 11892, Lexington, Ky. 40511, or call 1-606/255-8412.

'Visa' packed and ready

Channel 56 begins a new travel series Sept. 11 with its series of five portraits of foreign lands and cultures under the name "Visa."

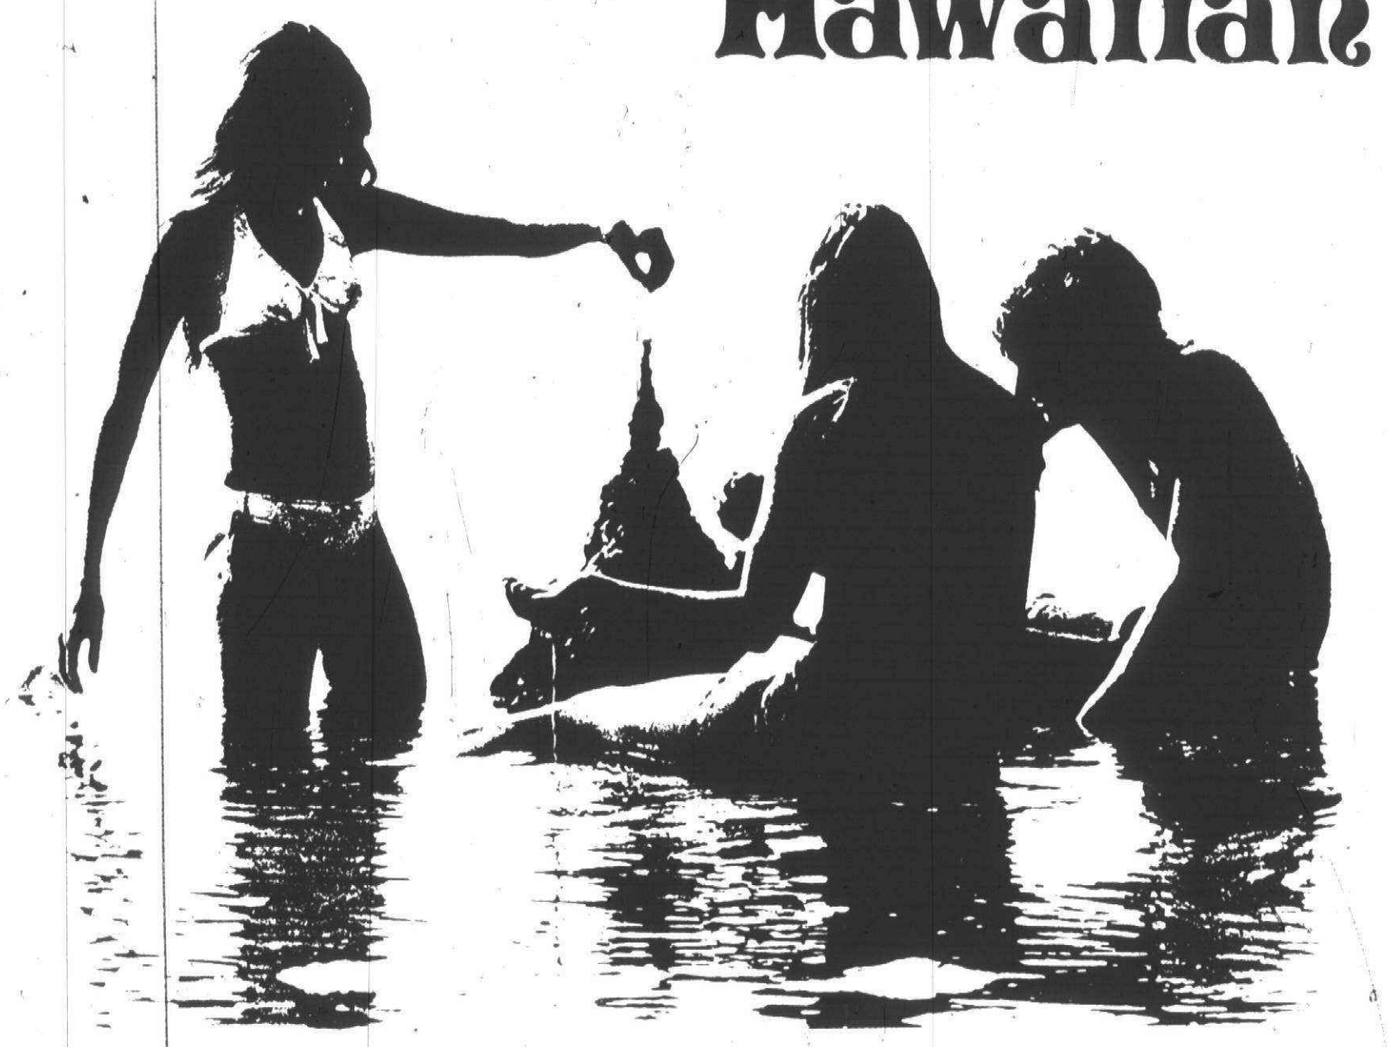

"To Siena With Love" will be aired Sept. 11, followed by "Paris A La Carte" on Sept. 12 and "Memories of Our Ancestors: The Solomon Islands" Sept. 13.

On Sept. 14, viewers will be "Running with the Bulls," in Pamplona, Spain. The final episode on Sept. 15 is "Media Shuffle/New York/Moscow."

Channel 56 also will begin a rerun of the James Michener travel series on Tuesday. The series is: Israel, Sept. 5; Hawaii, Sept. 12; Spain, Sept. 19; and South Pacific, Sept. 26.

Kelly Heaton and Evie Pasek, co-captains, are considered the foundation of the Chiefs' title hopes this season. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Chiefs expect repeat of cage championship

By DENNIS O'CONNOR

If you thought Plymouth Canton High girls' basketball was exciting last year, you haven't seen anything yet.

Six-year veteran coach Mike McCauley has all but two players back from last year's perfect 18-0 regular season, and the prospects for another championship year look stronger than ever.

Considered among the best teams in the state last season, Canton returns with a seasoned blend of height and quickness which makes the Chiefs a solid favorite to take their second straight Western Six League title.

The Chiefs received a tough draw in last year's state tournament, losing in the district championship to the eventual state runners-up from Detroit Mumford. Canton was still named the number one team in Observerland, with McCauley gaining top coaching honors in the area, after the successful season.

Lost from that squad to graduation are co-captains Sue Rekuc and Kathy Sochacki. Both girls will attend the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor this fall.

This year's co-captains, senior Kelly Heaton and Evie Pasek, are considered the foundation of the Chiefs' title hopes this fall. Heaton, a 6-0 center, was the Chiefs' top rebounder last year and plays a strong inside game. Pasek stands 5-9 and complements Heaton's abilities with strong rebounding skills and stiff inside offensive moves.

UNLIKE MANY teams in the area, McCauley has always been known to play an aggressive style of man-to-man full court pressure defense. And with the depth of many quick guards in the line-up, Canton's style of play isn't likely to change.

Mike McCauley, Canton girls' basketball coach.

"I'm going to play basketball the way I think it should be played—with an aggressive style," McCauley said. "People we play against don't like to play our kind of basketball and are obviously offended by it."

Kathie Peck heads the list of returning guards, starting her fourth year as a Chief. Peck and Pasek are four-year varsity members. Senior Laura Butler, juniors Jill Pedersen and Vickie Cavallaro, and senior Beth Myrtle are among the other guards battling for a starting position.

Senior Dawn Malek will also see action on the front line for the Chiefs, along with Heaton and Pasek.

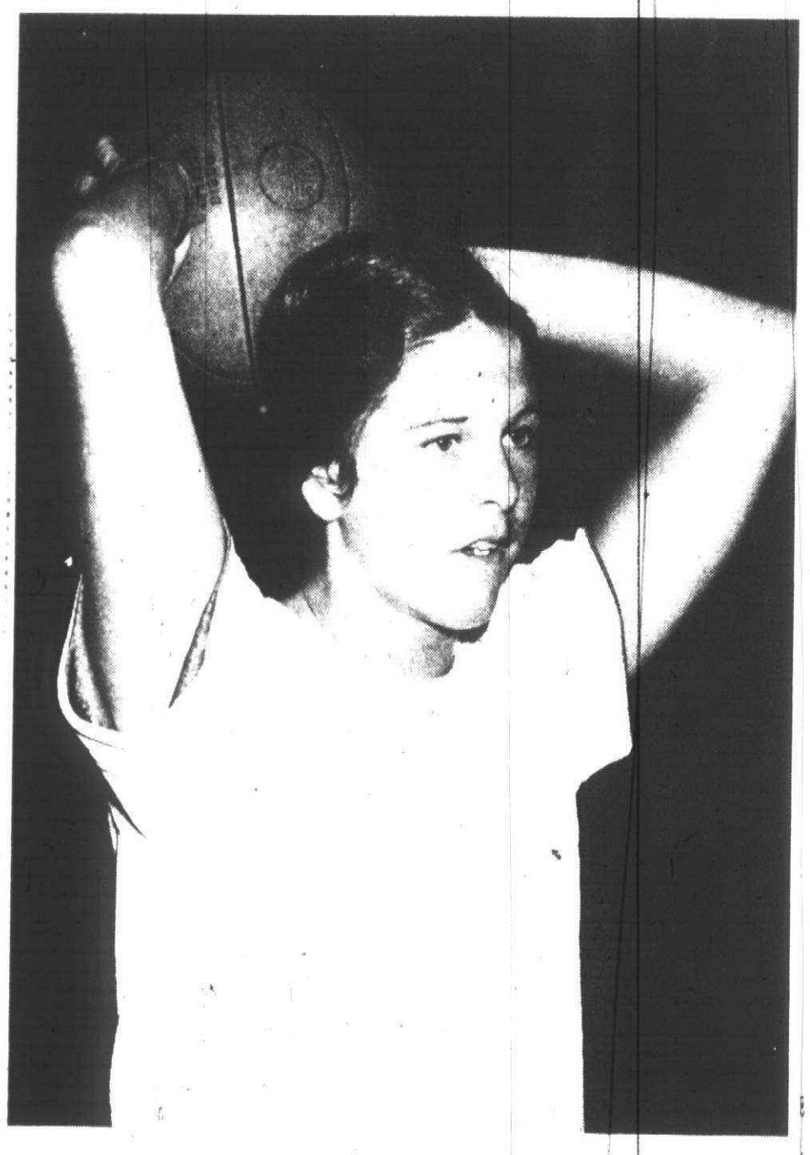

Other Chief players include juniors Diane Durocher and Marlene McKinley, senior Melinda Breen, sophomores Marianne Pink and Jean Timlin, and freshman Reggie Ruggierro.

McCauley feels keeping a good attitude throughout the year is the most important element to maintaining a winning program.

"I think the program is good," McCauley said. "We work hard and people who work hard deserve to win. We played 10 games in the summer league and ran a clinic.

"I think there is enough competition among the players to keep us going," the Canton mentor said. "We have strong, overall talent that if anyone doesn't want to hustle, they won't play."

The Chiefs open their regular season Tuesday, Sept. 12 at Ypsilanti in a non-league contest.

Erin Moore is entering her fourth year of play for the Salem girls' basketball squad, providing experience for a team which lost two starters from last year.

Rocks cagers returning tall

By DENNIS O'CONNOR

For rookie coach Bob Blohm, the last three weeks of formal practice has been strictly a learning experience, as he observed the names, faces and abilities of the Plymouth Salem girls basketball team.

Blohm is quickly finding out that he has a group of 16 talented athletes who have a lot of varsity experience.

Many of these players are returning from last year's squad which won a district title and reached the regional finales in the state tournament.

The Rocks lose two key starters in four-year guards Kathy Dillon and Debbie Pitera to graduation. There are eight seniors, six juniors, one sophomore and one freshman that should pick up the slack, however.

The Rocks have plenty of size inside and enough quickness outside to give opponents fits this season.

Erin Moore and Diane Goodrich, both four-year players, enter their senior seasons with the talent to control the boards and establish an inside game, offensively. Both girls stand 5-11.

Junior Patty Weidman returns for another varsity season and the 6-0 center is "the kind of player you need to have in a program," according to Blohm. Weidman played most of her sophomore year at the junior varsity level but was called up to the varsity.

The Rocks have yet another big girl in senior Pat Kinsley, a transfer student from Brandon, Florida, who is a versatile shooter and rebounder.

There is a host of guards who should give Salem quickness to go with its height.

Junior Nan Horwood heads this list as she returns for her third varsity season. Seniors Jan Boyd, and Doris Hoelscher and Peg Somers are other guards who also show strong potential to crack the starting line-up.

Freshman Eileen Moore, the last of a long line of Moore sisters, is another guard who has the quickness and skills to add spark to the Rocks' attack.

Other members of the Rocks squad who will battle for playing time include seniors Chandra Brown and Sharon Marks, juniors Julie Lynch, Anne Meixner, Jeannine Sobkow and Kathy Zielke, and sophomore Cheryl Sobkow.

BLOHM SAID HE wasn't sure which team would be the toughest competition in the Suburban Eight League this year. Redford Union, last year's champion, doesn't compete in the conference any longer.

The Salem mentor is impressed with his team's overall size and quickness.

"I just think with the caliber of teams we're playing, we'll be okay running and ballhandling," Blohm said. He credited former coach Debbie

Lawson starts 10th year

Every sports team likes to brag about its winning tradition, but no high school squad can boast the incredible record of the Plymouth Salem girls tennis team.

And the same winning results should stay intact this fall, as the talent-filled Rock girls are hands-down favorites to win the Suburban Eight League crown and make a good showing in the state regionals.

Coach Jan Lawson enters her 10th year as the Rock mentor. She is the orginal coach of the Salem girls tennis program. In her nine years, her teams have won three outright Sub-8 title, shared the crown twice and finished no lower than second place the other four years.

Last season, the Rocks finished in a three-way tie for first place with Trenton and Dearborn. These same two teams should provide the toughest league opposition, but Salem will have the upper hand with all but three girls returning from a championship season.

Becky Crespo, one of the Rock co-captains, heads the list of returning letter-winners. Crespo enters her senior year with three years of varsity experience, the last two as the Rocks' first singles player. Crespo is among the best prep players in the area.

Kathy Horton, the other co-captain, will compete at second singles as she begins her junior year. A two-time letter-winner, Horton is the most improved player on the team. Moving from

Fred Bear's 'storybook' enthralls outdoor enthusiasts

By KEN VOYLES

The life and times of a hunter and sportsman like Fred Bear are filled to the brim with stories and adventures that many people only dream about.

Bear has led a storybook life since he first began his career in the sporting field. He is probably the most famous archer-hunter in the United States—if not the world.

He was in Livonia last week to talk about archery, the sporting life and hunting.

For an hour the man talked—the man who has seen the world over, who has tracked and hunted all the great animals of the world, who knows what it is like to come face-to-face with death, and who has done it all with a bow in one hand and an arrow in the other.

It was way back in the late '20s when Bear gave up the rifle for the simple grace and elegance of the bow. Since then, th 78-year-old Bear has hunted only with the bow and has never regretted it.

"I think the bow provides the hunter with a better grasp of the whole situation of a hunt. With a bow, the hunter has to have an expertise uncalled for by a hunter using a rifle. I love bow hunting," said the aging sportsman. "It feels more worthwhile after the hunt is over because you know inside that it was a great challenge."

Bear, however, was not in town just to promote hunting. Far from it, in fact. He manufactures and markets a line of archery products that boggles the mind. There is everything from simple hunting arrows to sophisticated, technically complex bows that costs hundreds of dollars.

That, however, is only one aspect of the man who has done and seen many things in his long years as a sportsman. In fact, it is probably the least interesting facet of his life.

As a whole Bear thinks of archery as an advancement over other types of sporting weapons. He believes that archery will someday stand on its own as a major outdoor activity.

In other words, he believes that archery is a growing sport.

There are basically two types of archery. The type that Bear does and the kind that Joe Citzen practices.

The first has come about after many years of training, on the spot training that is. The first is for the sportsman, the outdoorsman; the hunter. The first is far more difficult but also far more rewarding.

The second type is the fun backyard archery that everyone has done at one time or another. The second is for the novice who really is interested only in the sport rather than the hunt.

"Actually any type of archery is important to me. I really want the sport to grow and grow. You don't have to be a hunter or anything of that type. Archery is archery any way you look at it," Bear explained.

"I realize that people would probably rather hear about what its like to hunt with a bow then to just go out and shoot at a target.

"But archery encompasses the whole. I don't want to sound too high handed but archery is a very sophisticated sport any way you practice it."

However, Bear's life is far more interesting and fascinating then the philosophy of the sport could ever be.

Go back to the year 1926. Big game hunting was at its peak. Safaris and hunting trips into the bush country were as common as bootleg whiskey.

Fred Bear was just a young man with a mind full glorious hunts and adventures. He had been hunting with a rifle for most of his young life. He, in fact, got his first weapon at the tender age of seven.

But something was missing. It seems that Bear had also received a hunting bow as a gift when he was young and in due time had become fairly proficient with it.

"My father had given me the bow and it was him that took me on my first hunting trip without a rifle. Of course, I didn't do very good, which disappointed me. So I kept trying my luck with a bow.

"The big time came when we were in the Rocky Mountians in Idaho somewhere, and we were hunting for deer. I'll never forget that day. It was the first time I stalked deer with a bow and it was the first time that I took a shot at a living animal with an arrow.

"I missed but it really didn't matter. What mattered to me more was the feeling I had felt with just a hunting bow in my hand.

"It was me and the deer much more so than if I had had a rifle.

"I was enthralled, and right then and there, as I stood on the edge of that meadow where the deer had been, I decided that bow hunting was for me."

It was to be the first of many hunting adventures for Bear who would go on to hunt everything from small game to the larger more dangerous animals.

One of Bear's greatest kills was a huge African elephant. It was on that hunt that he came close to death.

"We had been stalking a herd of 10 or 15 elephants most of the day. We were tried and pretty well strung out. It was hot and I don't think anybody was having much fun except myself.

"We came through a group of low bush trees that had been blocking our vision for the past half an hour and we saw the herd just wandering about. The group of us split up and I, being more daring, or foolish, headed right toward them.

"It didn't take to long for the elephants to realize that something was up. But still they didn't split up and run. I had my eye on the biggest one which was only a hundred or so yards away from me.

"It was then that I made my mistake. I took a step forward and stood up from my crouching postion in an attempt to get a shot. The animal smelled and saw me and let forth with a noise that nearly knocked me down. Then it charged.

"I froze for a moment, then readed an arrow. I couldn't shoot at the animal's face so I leapt and ran to my left. The elephant veered after me.

"I stopped and decided to fire in hopes of slowing him down. My arrow hit the beast in the eye and it went mad in pain. My troubles were just beginning.

"The animal started running madly about. I pulled another arrow onto the bow and just as I was about to fire it changed course and came right at me. This time I had to literally jump for my life. My bow hit the ground and I hit the ground as the elephant charged by within a few feet.

"Quickly I picked up my bow, slung a new arrow (the other was broken) and fired. I hit him square behind the head near the shoulder, in the animal's most tender spot.

"The beast hit the ground with a thunder. It was dead," Bear finished.

The story was right out of Tarzan except that it was true. As were his many other tales.

He chased a wounded Tiger in India for 10 hours before he could get the kill.

He shot a mountain goat high in the Rockies after climbing treacherous paths all day.

He shot a huge brown bear after badly injuring his leg in a fall.

Bear, like any other hunter, hasn't always been successful on a hunt. But to Bear there is nothing wrong with that. To him the hunt itself is just as exciting.

Canton netters hope to escape basement

Prospects look a lot brighter for the Plymouth Canton girls' tennis team this year, according to coach Cyndi Burnstein.

A rough season for the Chiefs last year resulted in a last place finish in the Western Six Conference with an 0-12 record. A strong Farmington Harrison team had again captured first place for the fifth year in a row.

Burnstein forsees a better finish for her team this year.

"Harrison has lost a lot of players because of graduation and won't be as strong this year as in the past," said Burnstein. "It's always been a race for second place but this year everyone has got a chance to take over the league title."

According to Burnstein, Northville will be the team to beat although Harrison will give all they have to defend their crown.

The Canton squad has lost only two players from last year's team to graduation. First singles player Mary Riffe and Mindy Starkey have left the Chiefs.

Returning are juniors Kathy Kidston, Julie Kraus and Claudia Williams. Kidston is the early season pick for the first singles position.

After taking a year off, Williams has returned with what Burnstein considers "a great serve."

Kraus has also improved over the past year and is expected to help the team out.

The Chiefs will field 10 varsity players this year and will include (besides the returners) freshmen Julie Swain and Lori Smith. Both have three years of tennis behind them and put the Chiefs way out in front of where they were last year.

"In other years our first practices have been spent going over how to keep score, rules and general instruction," explained Burnstein. "This year everyone on the team has a good deal of knowledge of the game and we are able to spend more time on skill developement."

Sophomore Eileen McGlinn is also back to the squad this year after playing only the last part of last years' season. "Eileen has really improved over the summer and could easily be one of the top four singles players," said the Canton mentor.

Pam Schipani, who gave up varsity basketball for tennis this year, and Barb Rupprecht, who has just moved to the area from Pennsylvania, are also new to this years' team.

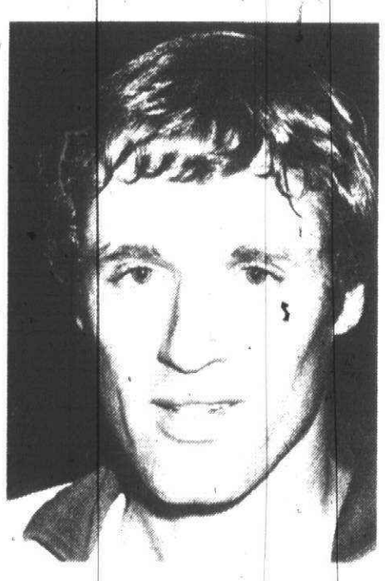

In past years, the team has suffered from inexperience. Burnstein said the Canton team was like a junior varsity squad competing against other varsity teams.

Another problem is that there have been three sports for girls in the fall. Swimming and basketball are also in the fall.

But there is a brighter side for the Chiefs this year. "Even though we don't have the power hitters that the other teams always seem to have, we have some depth that we've never had before. Since the team is more advanced than in the past, the character and attitude of the team is totally different," Burnstein said.

Members of the Canton squad will play a round-robin eliminaiton round for the top four singles positions. The remaining players will play off o for the four doubles spots.

Canton's first match will be Tuesday, Sept. 12 against Ypsilanti. The match will start at 3:30 p.m. on the Chiefs' home courts.

Hatcher with teaching the girls good basketball.

"The big key for us in our program is to get the girls to realize how to get a good shot at the basket and to control the tempo of the game," Blohm said. "We want to establish an inside game early and learn to push the ball down the floor and get the opportunity for a good shot."

The Salem mentor added if his girls learned to get into this "flow game" with continuous motion, it will help their skills both offensively and defensively.

The Rocks open their season with a non-league contest against Walled Lake Western on Tuesday, Sept. 12.

Lawson leads fourth to third singles this season is Betsy Moon, a freshman standout last year who continues to show signs of improvement.

The only missing player from last year's singles quartet is Courtney Warrick, who played at second singles in 1976 and 1977. She transferred to Green Hills, a private school in Ann Arbor, over the summer.

To fill this spot, the Rocks have strong competition for the fourth singles position in Renee Braun, Kathy Weber, Kathy Somers, Vickie Sterling and Nancy Stevens. Whoever doesn't win the fourth singles position will most likely play on one of the doubles teams, according to Lawson.

Although the doubles combinations have not been set, Lawson has a host of talented girls to choose from. Wendy Webb and Clarrise Clarise Hartnett are the only girls lost to graduation.

The Hathaway sisters, junior Kathy and sophomore Lynne, will continue to play together as one of the doubles combinations. Other doubles possibilities include senior Sandy Bozimowski, senior Laurie Smith, senior Beth Maggio (a first-year player), and sophomore Sue Suddendorf.

Although it is apparent that Lawson must stay with these girls as a set varsity squad, there were still close to 40 girls who tried out this fall. Lawson said she would not cut anyone but would play junior varsity and exhibition matches to keep the players involved.

"I like to think that I can be a spark for all the girls and keep them playing as part of a recreational activity," Lawson said. "I can't help but think it's a positive thing in life."

Lawson also credits the "grass-roots" training of the middle school programs and the parents who help encourage winter tennis, as the main reasons for the success of her program.

Other members who will play junior varsity tennis this year include Vickie Thomas, Cindy Wilkens, Karen Maggio, Lisa Miyazaki, Gena Poole, Kathy Radgens, Beth Suddendorf, Lina Cole, Lisa Cole, Kristin Stone, Diana Taetsch, Renee Zeleznik, Donna Buzuvis, Julie Gilson, Jane Ploughman, Beth Miller, Charlotte Cotter, Justina Cotter and Ellen Kenney.

WHY RISK HEART ATTACK?

ACCORDING TO the Michigan Heart Association heart attack is the nation's number one killer. Many thousands of deaths occur each year among people in their most productive years — men and women with responsible jobs, with children still in school and mortgage payments still due. Can anything be done to prevent this loss of life? Until recently, you couldn't have done much more than hope it wouldn't happen in your family.

BUT NOW, research scientists are at work on preventive measures. Their studies show that certain physical conditions and living habits increase the risk of heart attack; and for every one of these risks there is a practical step YOU can take to counteract it. All this adds up to a health program that can be followed, with a doctor's guidance by everyone in the family, children as well as adults. Children can benefit most of all if they are trained from the start in eating and living patterns that may protect their hearts in adult life.

Here are some tips from the Michigan Heart Association to help reduce your risk of heart attack:

1. Reduce saturated fat and cholesterol in the diet.
2. Count your calories, avoid excess weight.
3. Control high blood pressure.
4. Don't smoke.
5. Exercise regularly.
6. Have regular medical check-ups.

THERE IS STILL no guarantee that heart attacks can be prevented, but medical scientists say that reducing your risks will give you the best chance of avoiding a heart attack in the prime of life.

FOLLOWING the rules for risk reduction can also mean good health and physical fitness for you. In addition, your example can help other members of your family.

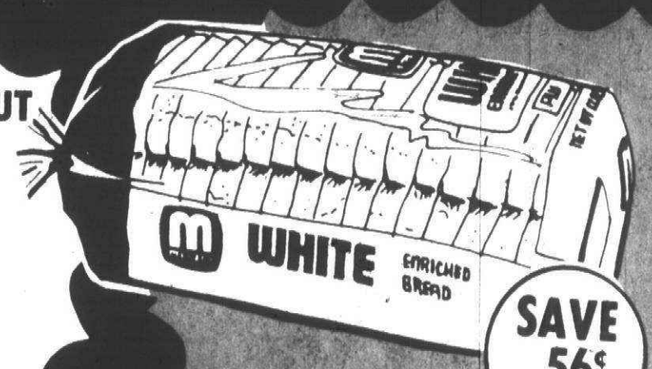

FOR MORE INFORMATION, contact your local chapter of the Michigan Heart Association.

UNBRANDED PRODUCTS

Wholesome foods and reliable products for up to 1/4 less.

Unbranded foods and products at Meijer are designed to save you money - it's that simple. In most cases, you'll save from 10% to 25% as compared to the price of a nationally advertised brand.

They're just as nutritious, just as wholesome as more expensive foods. And they taste just as delicious.

If price and economy are your major considerations, then Unbranded products from Meijer should be your choice. And it's a choice you can find at a Meijer Thrifty Acres and Supermarkets.

Take home with you a valuable memory from another generation -- just wander through the stalls until you find a lovely thing of the past.

Art enthusiasts from throughout western Wayne County visited "The Gallery" last year for the arts and crafts show sponsored by the Plymouth Community Arts Council (PCAC) for the Fall Festival. The show will be in Central Middle School, Church at Main, from noon-9 p.m. Saturday and noon-6 p.m. Sunday.

Smells, tastes, colors, sights

It's Fall Festival time again

Tastes, smells, sounds, people, color.

Those five words are a pretty good description of the Plymouth Fall Festival.

However, the Festival probably could be better described with just two words—"community involvement."

Although the Festival has expanded over the years to become the largest single fundraiser for non-profit groups in the area, the feeling of fellowship and cooperation is as American as an old-fashioned husking bee.

It is a true festival.

There is music, dancing and entertainment; costumes of an earlier era; and the camaraderie of many families and friends eating together at long tables in the park.

There are the signs of a bountiful harvest in Sunday's produce show. Great stacks of melons, squash, pumpkins, and other vegetables can be admired along with the fruit and flowers.

HOMEMADE BAKED goods, the best local cooks can produce, are available in the booths and stalls.

And a few steps from Kellogg Park on Union Street is the old Grange Hall where visitors can buy a full luncheon or hot fried cakes. For many, no festival is complete without Grange cookies or a piece of their delicious apple or pumpkin pies.

The booths offer a mouth-watering variety—homemade fudge, baklava, pizza, freshly pressed cider, shish kabobs, cakes, cookies, and apples. And there are the country fair items—cotton candy, hot dogs, watermelon slices, popcorn, and soft drinks.

FOR CHILDREN the festival has a special magnetism.

Toddlers in their strollers enjoy the movement of people, the splashing of the fountain and the bright balloons.

Saturday morning is a time of pride for youngsters to show off their animals in the pet show where everyone seems to be a winner—the largest pet, smallest pet, cutest, most unusual, etc., etc., etc.

The booths, the games, food, and the free entertainment in the bandstand combine to make it a gala time for young people.

VISITOR OR AREA resident, during the Fall Festival, Plymouth can be your hometown.

You will be welcomed. You will become a part of Americana which seemed to go out-of-date with the arrival of the automobile and suburbia.

The people cooking the pancakes, chickens, ribs, fish and spaghetti are our local businessmen, doctors, lawyers, dentists, teachers and accountants. The people selling their wares in the booths represent our schools, churches and service clubs. They are the folks next door.

Follow the guide in the centerfold of this special Fall Festival issue. It will tell you what's going on, when and where. You wouldn't want to miss anything.

Whether you reside in Plymouth, Canton, Livonia, Garden City, Redford, Westland, Farmington, Southfield or elsewhere, you are one of the hundreds of thousands who have a chance to absorb all the beauty and fellowship which is characteristic of all four days of the festival.

For visitors coming to Plymouth for the first time, it's very simple to reach the downtown area. If you are coming from the north or south on I-275, get off on the westbound Ann Arbor Road exit and travel to third traffic signal—Main Street—turn right and you are almost in downtown Plymouth.

If you are travelling west on Plymouth Road, two miles east of Newburgh Road the road turns into Main Street—bringing you to the heart of the city.

From whichever direction your come, plan a trip to Plymouth during the Fall Festival Sept. 7-10—on any one or for all four days.

Entertainment for all ages

The entertainment on the bandshell for this year's festival will have a magic beginning—Bob Shrinker, magician from Plymouth—who will entertain from 6 to 6:30 p.m. Thursday.

Other Thursday night entertainment specials include: the Dixie Banjos, 7-8 p.m.; We-Wa-Co Chapter, Sweet Adelines, 8 to 8:45 and Wonderland Chorus (Wayne SQEBSQSA Chapter) from 8:45 to 9:30 p.m.

The bandshell will be located in Kellogg Park near the intersection of Main and Penniman Avenue.

Friday night's entertainment will begin with dancers of all ages from Bunnys School of Dance from 6 to 6:30 followed by Phoenix—Matt Watroba's group of three guitars—from 6:45 to 7:45 p.m. The Harmonica Men will entertain from 8-9 followed by the Livonia Civic Chorus from 9-10 p.m. Friday night from 6 p.m. on there will be square dancing on Main Street at Fralick with Ron Siem as the caller.

Saturday's entertainment will begin with the "Deep Six" rock band at 12:30 p.m. followed by a return of Bunnys School of Dance at 2 p.m. Pat Molnar, 13, will give a performance on the organ from 2:30 to 3 p.m.

Dancing by all age groups will be directed by Renee Dubry of Dance Unlimited beginning at 3 p.m. and the Plymouth Canton Chiefettes will perform off-stage beginning at 3:30 p.m. Blue grass will be heard throughout the park for an hour beginning at 4 p.m. when Michigan Consolidated Grass appears on stage.

The Saturday evening entertainment begins at 5 p.m. with "My Detroit—Welcome to It"—a group of 16 sponsored by the Detroit Chamber of Commerce. The Plymouth Community Chorus will perform from 7 to 7:45 p.m. followed by piano soloist Pam Wallace. Saturday's entertainment will end with the band "Cheese" from 9-10 p.m.

Sunday's entertainment, sponsored by Rotary Club of Plymouth, will be a bit like Band Day at University of Michigan. The Plymouth Centennial Educational Park Marching Band will appear at 12:15 p.m., the Plymouth Fife and Drum Corps is scheduled to appear at 1:10 p.m., the Salvation Army Band at 1:55 p.m. and the Plymouth Community Band at 4:30 p.m.

Entertaining in between the CEP Marching Band and the Community Band will be: Canton Chiefettes, 12:45 p.m.; Masters of Dance Arts, 2:30 p.m.; and the Plymouth Community Chorus, 3:40 p.m.

Costume judging behind the bandshell will take place from 1:15 p.m. to 2:15 p.m. with the winners announced beginning at 3:15 p.m.

The master of ceremonies for Sunday will be Arnie Williams and his son John. Background organ music during stage set-up will be supplied by Andrew Henderson of Williams Music Store in Canton.

Three Cities Art Club will hold its four-day art exhibit Thursday through Sunday at the southwest corner of Kellogg Park.

3 cities show a festival feature

Members of the Three Cities Art Club are busy creating their 17th Plymouth Fall Festival exhibit to be shown at the southwest corner of Kellogg Park.

More than 20 local artists will exhibit arts and crafts on Saturday an d Sunday, Sept. 9-10.

Many of the artists also will display their works during the afternoon and evenings of Thursday and Friday.

There is free admission for Festival visitors who may wish to browse through the moderately-priced paintings done in oils, acrylics and watercolors.

Many of the paintings are ribbon winners that the artists have entered in previous juried shows. These will include a Best of Show watercolor done by Cuyler McCutchon. This sailboat scene entitled "Tomorrow's Saturday" was entered in the Three Cities Judged Show last spring.

Also on display will be David Lamb's popular landscapes in oil. These scenes have been done from slides he has taken while vacationing in New Mexico and around Lake Superior. Many will recognize his paintings of familiar farmhouses in the area.

Despite the rising cost of coffee, Betty Manthey is putting the finishing touches on her instant coffee paintings, numbered 25 and 26. If coffee prices rise much more these could become collector's items.

For those who missed purchasing any of Audrey Paul's miniature oil paintings last year her supply this year is not quite so limited.

If you are an animal or bird lover, you may wish to see if Joyce Frederick has done your pet's likeness in pastel or see if you can find your backyard bird in one of Cathy McClung's wildlife paintings on barnwood and driftwood.

Looking for unframed paintings? Check Lorene Vives' browse box, which always is popular.

As well as paintings there also will be displays of weavings by Jessie Hudson, Batiks by Jean Bologna, sculpture by Audrey Paul, and tablemats hand-woven on an antique loom by Doreen Lawton. Doreen also can be observed on Saturday and Sunday demonstrating the art of spinning.

A peek at 1880s

The Fall Festival costume contest will be held from 1:30-2:30 p.m. Sunday at the stage area of Kellogg Park.

Participants may register for the competition behind the bandshell in Kellogg Park from 1-1:30 p.m. The contest is sponsored by the Plymouth branch of the American Association of University Women (AAUW).

Ribbons and silver dollar prizes will be awarded. First place will be $7, second place $5 and third place $3.

Contestants are asked to gear their costumes to the turn of the century era—1890 to 1910. Authentic costumes or good reproductions are required for the fashion competition.

The hour-glass figure was much admired in those days and women can find costume ideas in the Plymouth Historical Museum. Both male and female dress should be complete in detail, except for footwear.

Categories of judging include: family, two or more related persons; children up to age 14; and adults, 15 and older.

The winners will be announced from the bandstand at about 2:30 p.m.

Established in 1956
and still growing strong.

That's number 23 coming up, Plymouth.

In fact, our Fall Festival is one of the oldest community events of its kind around.

But more important, each year it's a reflection of that very special quality of life we're all working for in our hometown.

In short, our Fall Festival isn't just getting older or simply getting bigger every year. It's getting better, just the way Plymouth is getting better all the time. So congratulations to our fellow old-timers. And welcome to all you newcomers.

Have a great Fall Festival!

Dick Anderson (left) and Jim Case served spaghetti last year for the Plymouth Fall Festival for the Kiwanis Club of Colonial Plymouth. The Kiwanian's "Italian Night" will be the first major dinner to kick-off the Festival, being served Thursday from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Italian Night begins Festival

There is an old saying that you should never discount the ingenuity of the American people.

If something can not be done one way, they will invariably find another and make a success of a project.

The latest example is being furnished by the Colonial Kiwanis Club that sponsors the Italian dinner each year as part of the Fall Festival.

When it came time to plan for this year's event, the Colonial Kiwanis members learned that the Masonic Temple was not available on the Thursday of festival week. They were hoping to prepare the spaghetti in the Temple kitchen.

Next they tried the kitchen in the Presbyterian Church. That, too, was not available.

So what to do?

One of the members came up with an unusual idea. It was another case of American ingenuity.

"Let's get a trailer and revamp the interior to make one large kitchen," a member suggested.

So here's what happened. The Kiwanians found a large trailer, 12 feet wide and 45 feet long. It was revamped and when brought to Kellogg Park, it will be a monster kitchen on wheels.

The work was done by the Kiwanians themselves and the model kitchen should be one of the interesting sights in the park Thursday.

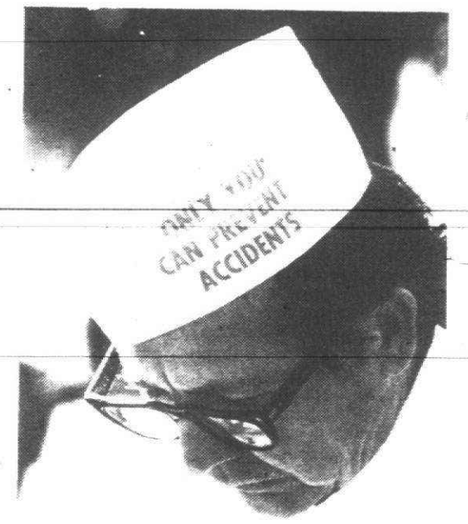

The spaghetti dinner is the successor to the German dinners sponsored for years by the Business and Professional Women's Association.

The Kiwanians are hoping to serve more dinners than ever before with their new trailer kitchen.

Dinner will be served from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Thursday.

Chicken is king on Rotary day

Chicken is king on Sunday, Sept. 10, during the Plymouth Fall Festival and Plymouth Rotarians know how to serve it royally.

E.J. "Mac" McClendon makes sure everything is in order while working on the serving line for the Rotary chicken barbecue.

Dr. Joe Smulsky, chicken barbeque chairman, says his fellow Rotarians will serve about 16,000 of the complete chicken dinners this year.

The bill of fare includes chicken, corn on the cob, potato chips, a roll and butter, milk (white or chocolate) and coffee. The Rotary Annes also will be selling pies for those wanting desert, and ice cream and soft drinks will be sold.

Tickets are $3.25 per person. Rising costs has forced the club to up the price by 25 cents. Serving time will be from noon to 6 p.m. at Kellogg Park. Pick-up service will be at a new location this year—at the southwest corner of Ann Arbor Road and Sheldon by Michigan National Bank.

Barbequing all those chickens will require five tons of charcoal, according to purchasing chairman Mike Corp. He also has ordered Coke and Sprite, 9,000 pints of milk, 1,400 dozen dinner rolls, 18,000 napkins, 16,000 bags of potato chips, 75 pounds of salt and nine pounds of pepper.

If all goes as planned, the Rotarians will once again serve up one of America's great mass meals with inspired precision. They have been doing it for 21 years now as the Fall Festival itself evolved from a Rotary picnic held in 1956.

Assisting Smulsky and Corp in planning the massive dinner are last year's chairman Jim Carney, Glenn Meadows, food preparation, and Bill Morrison, ticket sales.

Proceeds from the Rotary barbeque and other service club dinners benefit the charities these groups serve throughout the year.

Jean Jenkins was the ticket seller last year for the Plymouth Community Arts Council's (PCAC) arts and crafts show at Central Middle School. The show will be open this year from noon to 9 p.m. Saturday and noon to 6 p.m. Sunday.

PCAC art sale for weekenders

The Plymouth Community Arts Council (PCAC) will again sponsor an arts and crafts show for the Plymouth Fall Festival.

The show will be in Central Middle School, Church and Main Street, from noon to 9 p.m. Saturday and from noon to 6 p.m. Sunday.

Some 80 artists and craftsmen have been invited to participate in this year's show which also will include 19 artisans demonstrating their work.

Among the displays will be: Carol Packard and Roy Pedersen making pottery; Tasco, on-the-spot caricatures; Laurel Raisenin and Nancy Ulvang, pastel portraits; Jessie Hudson, weaving or creative stitchery; Theresa Ohno, bobbin lace; Marilyn Gibson, stained glass; Norb Battermann, the art of making Shaker furniture and accessories; John Newman, paintings; and Hugh Burley, oil paintings.

Audrey Crain, stuffed pillows; Peatee Rulon, ethnic embroidery and little wooden chests; Charles Wells, hand-dipped candles; Charles Hall, hand-carved decoys; Joyce Harrington, bears; Mary Baxter, handpainted tinware; Michael Fulkerson, fiber weaving in natural heather tones and ponchos; John Van Haren, jewelry; Jennifer Flora, tooled leather; the Gonieas, geodes and jewelry; John Groot and Dee Segula, pewter.

Judy Morgan is chairwoman of the PCAC arts and crafts show. Working with her will be: Dee Schulte, Joan Englehart, Elise Murphy and Cheryl Ahlgren, artisan selection committee; Marilyn Whittaker, co-chairwoman; Carol Carson, Marg Moon, Nancy Sharp and Nancy Johnson, gallery committee; Dot Balogh, student booth.

Also: Martha Ahern and Barb Church, facility; Gil and Clara Camp and Mary Rose Hausman, finance; Nancy Hayes and Sally Bila, hostesses; Cheryl Ahlgren and Madonna Bird, posters and programs; Sally Arthur and Marion Sullivan, admissions; Bobbi Abbott, publicity; Marilyn Carl, the Edison window.

Proceeds from the arts and crafts show support the council's programs in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools such as the Picture Lady and scholarships to both students and teachers and other community activities.

Pet Show is Saturday

The annual Pet Show will be held Saturday morning, sponsored by the Optimist Club of Plymouth.

Youngsters entering the Pet Show should appear at 9 a.m. in front of the Penn Theatre. Dog owners should report at 9 a.m., unusual pets at 10:15 and cats at 10:45 a.m.

Many awards are granted for dogs and cats, including: cutest, ugliest, largest, smallest, best groomed and best behaved.

Winners of the most unusual pet category in past years has included everything from ants to horses, snakes to peacocks, and from spiders to goats.

Snacks galore

Food has always been the mainstay of the Plymouth Fall Festival, but festival goers cannot really appreciate the wide variety unless they take a walk through the booths.

The main dinners are spaghetti by the Colonial Kiwanis, fish by the Lions, pancakes by the Kiwanis Club, broiled beef ribs by the Jaycees, and chicken by the Rotarians.

In addition, there is the homemade cooking of the Grange, which will include turkey sandwiches, chicken and biscuits, meatloaf, sloppy joes and its famous donuts.

Anyone needing snacks though, won't have to look far. The Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton sophomore, junior and senior classes, for instance, will offer such goodies as pizza, carmel apples, sno-cones, ice cream cones, pretzels, cider and donuts and frozen bananas.

The Oddfellows and Rebekahs will sell hot dogs and chips and Beta Sigma Phi will offer mouth-watering fudge. Or you might want to stop by the booth of the Plymouth BPW for some homemade cookies or try the YMCA's submarine sandwiches.

If you still haven't found something to whet your appetite, try the Plymouth Civitans for yaki tori or corn dogs. The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints will offer nachos and baked goods, and the Nativity of the Virgin Mary Greek Church will be selling shish kabob, souvlaki gyro, and Greek salad. The Order of AHEPA will sell Greek breads and pastries, and the Plymouth Theatre Guild will again be on hand with its cotton candy and popcorn wagon.

Don't miss the store windows

Visitors to the Fall Festival will want to make sure they don't miss the decorated store windows.

Merchants participating in Fall Festival decorate their windows to reflect the festival spirit.

Fine displays of antiques furnished by local collectors are arranged in the windows for the duration of the festival. The windows are judged and prizes awarded in several categories.

The project is sponsored by the retail committee of the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce and the chairman this year is Nancy Petrocelli of The Green Thumb.

The city has an exceptional variety of fine and unusual shops.

Plymouth has become a mecca for shoppers looking for the top fashion lines in men's and women's clothing, fine china, crystal, furniture, home accessories, fine restaurants, and candle, book, pipe, wine, gift and jewelry shops, and two doll shops.

Persons can spend a whole day browsing in Old Village's antique shops, resale shops, gallery and boutiques. And this year, visitors won't want to miss the new small shops and boutiques on Forest Avenue (the first street west of Main) from Ann Arbor Trail south.

Out-of-town Fall Festival visitors are invited to make special note of Plymouth stores, and come back again when it's all over. They will appreciate the small-town courtesy and attention they receive from the merchants.

After you attend the Fall Festival stop by our office, we are 3 blocks south of the town square. Come enjoy our town, see why living in Plymouth is great.

Grange features arts, crafts sale

An arts and crafts sale and a lot of good home cooking will be the Grange's contribution to the 1978 Fall Festival.

The arts and crafts sale will be held Thurday through Sunday in the Plymouth Grange Hall, 273 Union Street—½ block southeast of the Penn Theatre.

There will be 12 craft booths, including candles, flower arrangements, Christmas items, jewelry, ceramics, wooden toys, driftwood, books and needlework.

Times for the arts and crafts sale will be 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Thursday; 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday; 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday; and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday. There is no admission charge for the sale.

The ladies of the Grange will be cooking hot turkey sandwiches on Thursday, chicken and biscuits on Friday and Saturday, and meatloaf on Sunday. On all four days, sloppy joes, soup, vegetables, pies and cookies will be served.

The famous Grange donuts will be made fresh daily by Jim Henry.

Pondering produce, judging the best

The produce tent—a showcase of fall's harvest — will feature the biggest and best from you and your neighborhood's garden.

The produce tent, an annual favorite of Fall Festival visitors, will be located at Church and Main Streets. Local green thumbs may register when the tent opens during the Festival.

Ribbons will be awarded for all categories, including the tallest sunflower, largest sunflower (measured by diameter of bloom), mixed vegetables (individual) and mixed vegetables (commercial).

Other categories will be the tallest stalk of corn, Indian corn, dried flower bouquet, fresh floral bouquet, miniature floral bouquet, floral bouquet (under age 15), largest squash, largest zucchini squash, largest pumpkin (individual), largest pumpkin (commercial), canning display, five bushels of pumpkin or squash, and a wheelbarrow of vegetables.

At one time the produce exhibit was sponsored by the Rotary Club of Plymouth and then later by the Plymouth Fall Festival Board. Last year the exhibit was sponsored by the Fall Festival Board and the Community Crier, and this year will be sponsored by the Crier.

Festival flips for fresh Friday fish fry

The world never stands still. Something always is being done in an attempt to improve it.

And so it is with the fish fry that is sponsored each year by the Plymouth Lions Club on the Friday night of Fall Festival Week.

For years, the Lions have demanded that the fish be flown in fresh from the fisheries. They made certain they were not to be the common frozen type.

Now they have gone one better. Since the inception of the annual fry, the Lions members have breaded the fish right in Kellogg Park.

Now, with a two-fold purpose in mind—to save labor and improve the finished product—they have asked the fisheries to do the breading and deliver them right to the park ready for the skillet.

The fish, known simply as ocean perch, are caught somewhere near Newfoundland and are flown to the Weyand Distributors in Wyandotte.

Under the plan, the fish will be flown in on Friday morning and delivered to the Lions late in the afternoon in time for the evening rush.

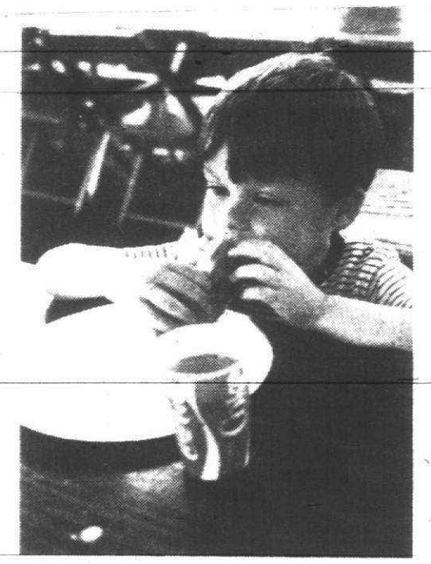

In other years, the fish fry has attracted more than 3,000 diners but this number is expected to be bettered this year; provided the weatherman cooperates.

In keeping with the practice started a year ago, there will be a special section for senior citizens who will be given the dinner at a reduced price.

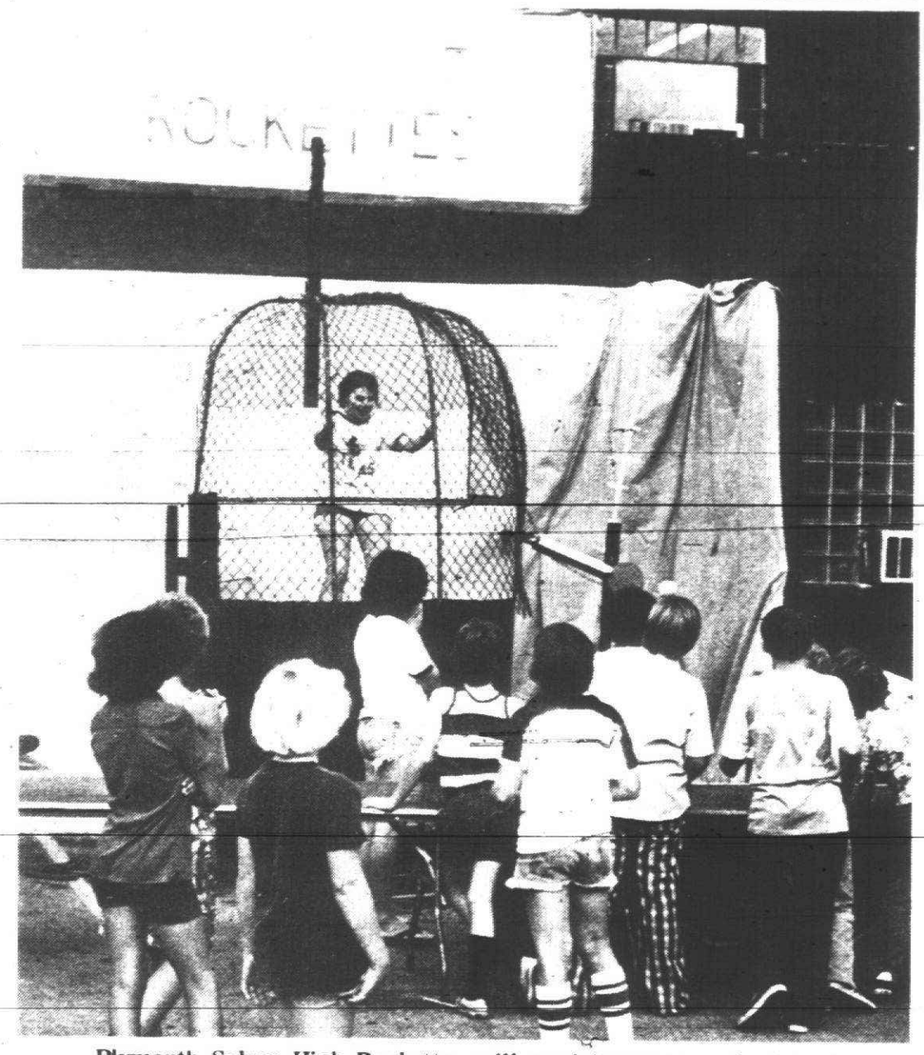

The regular charge for tickets purchased on the night of the fry will be $3.50. Seniors will be given a rate of $2.50.

Senior citizens, however, should plan to eat their meal from 1:30-4:30 p.m. Friday when the special discount prices will be in effect. The fish dinner will be served all day, from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Lions active in planning the fish fry include director Melvin Korte, Fred Robinson, chairman, Robert Erdelyi, Burton Quinn, Fred Clement and John Cummings.

Despite all the different varieties of food offered at the festival, there is always the good ol' hot dog—for all those picky eaters. (Staff photo)

Plymouth Salem High Rockettes will again sponsor a dunk tank during this year's Fall Festival. Other booths from Salem and Plymouth Canton high schools include those from the sophomore, junior and senior classes.

Brunch in Park

For the first time in the 25 years of serving a pancakes and sausage breakfast as part of the annual Fall Festival, the Kiwanis Club of Plymouth is changing the rules.

The most important change is the elimination of "seconds."

The elimination of the "seconds" that have been so popular over the years doesn't mean that anyone will be denied all the pancakes and sausage they want. Patrons will be able to get all they want the first time through the serving line. But they won't be able to go through the line more than once.

The club is trying to increase its sales and this was thought to be the best method.

It is felt the new method of getting all you want at the initial service will mean shorter stays at the tables, paving the way for more people to be served.

It has been the custom for old friends to meet over the pancake breakfast table, sit and chat, and then decide on an order of "seconds" while there is a line-up of customers waiting for service.

The elimination of seconds in favor of an unlimited number of pancakes was just one idea of how to increase the servings.

There was talk of moving the location of the breakfast from the Masonic Temple because only so many could be served there. Five cooking units limited the number of servings to about 2,500. The location change idea was discarded when the suggestion of no seconds was made.

Another thought was to move the pancake breakfast outside at the Temple. But this would be a gamble with the weather and it is entirely possible that both the pancakes and the sausage would cool off. So that idea was abandoned.

Now something new is to be tried. As unusual as it sounds, you can get your "seconds" with your first order.

The breakfast will be served from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. George Kenyon is chairman of this year's pancake breakfast.

Proceeds will go for many communitity activities, such as the Boy Scout and Girl Scout troops sponsored by the Kiwanis and for other children's programs such as the Mott Foundation in Ann Arbor which specializes in community education efforts.

Chuck Moore flips Kiwanis pancakes to keep them golden brown.

RELOCATION SERVICE

Don McDurmon of Plymouth was among those barbequing beef ribs at the pits for the Plymouth Jaycees at last year's Fall Festival. The Jaycees beef rib dinner will be served from 5-10 p.m. in Kellogg Park.

JCs have a beef: A lot to chew on

The Plymouth Jaycees are hoping against hope that they can beat the law of averages while sponsoring the beef rib dinner, which is the Saturday night feature of the Fall Festival in Kellogg Park.

For the nine years the Jaycees have handled the rib dinner, they have been favored with ideal weather. Each year they were blessed with balmy evenings—just the type to make dining in the park an enjoyable occasion.

Now they are walking around with their fingers crossed, hoping this can cause the rainmaker to miss the park.

Along with gambling on the weather, the Jaycees are planning on a new method in preparing the ribs.

In the past, they have taken them as they received them from the meat packers and placed them on the grill between the Penn Theater and the Masonic Temple.

At times there have been complaints that the ribs were not sufficiently cooked. To overcome that fault, the Jaycees are now planning an old cooking trick. They are planning to par boil the ribs prior to placing them on the grill.

In past years, providing the weather man cooperated, they expected to serve more than 3,000 dinners. The goal this year is 3,500 with the hope that the senior citizens will come in large groups.

The Jaycees also are continuing a practice started a year ago by giving the senior citizens a discount on the price of the dinner.

While the Jaycees are planning a big night, they temper all of their predictions on success with the words, "If the weather man cooperates."

The charcoal-broiled beef rib dinner will be served from 5-10 p.m. Friday. Besides the beef and corn, the menu will include cole slaw, roll and butter, ice cream and beverage.

Proceeds from the dinner will help to finance many state, local and national fundraising projects, such as the July Fourth parade and fireworks, a clown team that visits the Plymouth State Home and other places, personal development courses, and the dance-a-thon for the National Institute for Burn Medicine. Chairman of the Jaycee barbecue this year is Bob Timske.

Red Cross to serve for Festival

The American Red Cross will be on hand with a mobile unit for all four days of the Plymouth Fall Festival.

The unit will be available to supply first aid to any festival visitors needing help, thus relieving the Plymouth Fire Department of that responsibility.

The mobile unit also will provide free blood pressure screening to residents and visitors. And information on Red Cross services will be available in the unit.

The first aid station will be staffed by Red Cross volunteers and the blood pressure testing will be conducted by volunteer nurses. Plymouth area Red Cross volunteers will staff the information booth portion of the mobile unit.

The Red Cross's unit will be in town from 3-10 p.m. Thursday and Friday, from noon to 10 p.m. Saturday, and noon to 6 p.m. Sunday in front of Schrader Funeral Home at Fralick and Main Street.

The secret of the chicken racks

You won't find it listed in Guiness Book of World Records, but the volunteers who man the pits at the Plymouth Rotary Chicken Barbeque have established something of a mark which deserves recognition.

These business and professional men stand for hours over the pits enduring the heat and smoke and seldom drop any of the 16,000 "bird" halves into the fire.

They take great pride in their work and, despite the great fatigue at the end of the day, return year after year to do the barbequeing.

(This year the chicken will be served from noon to 6 p.m. Sunday in Kellogg Park with a carry-out booth at Ann Arbor and Sheldon Roads).

HOW CAN IT be done—the handling of 16,000 chicken halves without dropping them?

The answer is simple—it's all in the grill.

Over the years the Rotarians have learned the hard way how the grills can be handled.

Through a process which involves a considerable cost for the number of chickens, the grill has now been made almost foolproof.

"We learned that it was costly to use a grill that flipped. Too often the chickens slid out of the grill," explains Robert Sparling. "So we made a grill which is much like a book.

"We open it up and place the chickens on the right side. Then we close the grill by placing the left side over the chickens and then lock it. It is just that simple. But it took us a long time to find out."

Asked if there are chickens lost during the flipping of the "book," Sparling laughed. "Oh, once in a while. But we eat them. That's our lunch for the day, and no one knows the difference."

Cost of meal tickets is $3.25 per person. Tickets may be purchased the day of the meal or in advance from any Rotarian to save the time of waiting in line.

Proceeds from the barbeque go into the Rotary Foundation for a number of community projects and organizations such as: Growth Works, Plymouth Symphony League and Plymouth Youth Symphony, Plymouth Historical Society, Plymouth-Canton Area Athletic Association, the swim teams of Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton high schools, student scholarships, and many other functions.

Ed Sawash takes a breather from the heat and smoke of "the pits," but he'll be back at it again this year.

Where credit belongs

The Plymouth Fall Festival is made possible only by a great deal of planning, which is a year-long effort.

Meeting once a month or more year-round are officers and members of the 1978 Fall Festival Board, led by president Richard H. Raison, Sandra Davis, first vice-president, and Ron South, second vice-president.

Other officers include Nancy Sharp, secretary, Eugene Kafila, treasurer, and Robert B. Richardson, immediate past president.

Board members are Fred Eisenlord, Harold Guenther, Tim Yoe, Tom Workman, Nancy Petrocelli and William McVittie.

The Festival manager is Carl Glass of 6801 Montfort, Plymouth, and the assistant manager is Mike Vanderveen of 686 Herald, Plymouth.

The committee assignments of the board for this year's festival are: budget, Kafila, Yoe and Workman; produce tent, South, Workman and Richardson; entertainment, Davis and Eisenlord; public relations, Nancy Sharp assisted by Nancy Hayes; merchant participation, Petrocelli and McVittie; and community theme, Guenther and Raison.

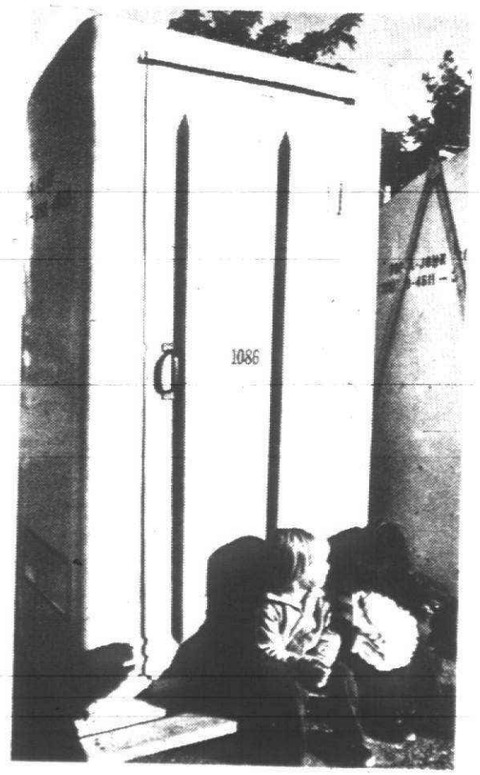

The board screens applications for booth space, limiting the participants to non-profit organizations. The members also arrange for entertainment for the first three days of the festival—the Rotarians supply the talent on Sunday.

The board also works closely with the City of Plymouth, police and fire departments and the DPW, for safety, set-up, and sanitary arrangements.

And when the Fall Festival ends Sunday night, the book will close on the 1978 extravaganza. Then the board will meet in October to begin plans on the 1979 Fall Festival.

There are all kinds of places to meet friends during Plymouth Fall Festival, including on the steps of the Porta Johns set up for the convenience of workers.

*Next to Penn Theatre in Kellogg Park
At the Plymouth Cultural Center
At the Masonic Temple in Kellogg Park
*At Central Middle School, Church at N. Main
In Kellogg Park

Numerous DPW workers will be busy all festival weekend keeping Kellogg Park free of garbage. (Staff photo).
