Millage query goes to board

A proposal to increase Canton's tax rate four mills ($4 per $1,000 assessed valuation) to finance the purchase of farmers' development rights will be considered by the Canton board Tuesday night for a slot on the Novem-

The proposal asks voters to approve the four-mill levy for a 20-year period.

The lengthy ballot question was worded by township attorney Bert Burgoyne and presented to board members last week by Robert Padget, chairman of the farmland preservation education committee.

The board has until Sept. 21 to ask the Wayne County clerk's office to place the proposal on the fall ballot.

IF THE PROPOSAL is presented to voters and approved, the owner of a $60,000 home assessed at $30,000 will pay $120 more in taxes a year.

The money will be used to buy development rights from the owners of 5,100 acres of agricultural land in the township's western portion.

Once a farmer sells his development rights, the land can never be used for anything except open space and agricultural-related purposes.

The one-and-a-half page ballot proposal submitted by Burgoyne states that "voter approval may be sought for the issuance of general obligation bonds" to finance the development rights purchase at a later date.

According to Burgovne, state law does not permit townships to sell bonds for preserving farmland.

If the development rights issue is approved in November, Burgoyne says he will draft legislation that would permit Canton to sell the bonds. In the meantime, Burgoyne says that Canton will be forced to buy development rights on a piecemeal basis with the money raised by four mills.

No local government in the state has ever purchased farmers' development

"We're dealing in an area that's on the frontier of the law right now," said Burgoyne. The township attorney recently wrote an opinion stating that charter townships can legally pur-chase farmers' development rights.

But it would be nice to have a piece of legislation that makes it crystal clear," he said. "I want to draft legislation to clear up the loose ends and enable the sale of bonds."

Burgoyne included a preface to the ballot proposal's request for four mills to explain the development rights

Who in the hell knows what the acquisition of development rights means?" he said.

Frankie Dees' performance on short skis in the men's tricks event during the recent National Water Ski Championships was just one of many exciting moments for the crowd that gathered on a hillside around the Tivoli Gardens, Brighton But Dees, who came from Florida to defend his title in the men's competition, fell short in the tricks division and placed second to Gary Krupa of Jackson. Local boy wins national award

Fast as a speeding rollerskate

By CAROLINE PRICE

Eight-year-old Scott Hall of Canton is a speed demon.

He has already sped his way into second place in the United States Amateur Roller Skating Championship's primary boys' division at the competition held in Lincoln, Nebraska last month.

Now he's thinking of moving into something a little speedier-motocross racing perhaps?

If his mother, Pam Hall, has anything to say about it, he'll stick to the skates for a while.

Scott has only been skating for a year, but it's a sport that seems to run in the family. His mother was also a skater, although her forte was artistic

The wiry blond boy is a member of the Riverside Speed Skating Club of Livonia. "He first got involved in the club through Dan Haynes, a friend of ours," Ms. Hall says.

Although Scott likes winning the awards, he finds that becoming a champion involves a lot of hard, gruel-He's spent many an hour whipping around the floor at Riverside Rink. He and his mother have spent many a night away from home as he's worked his way up to the national competition. First there was the state competition, in which he took a first in his division. Then came the Great Lakes

Regional, in which he took a second and qualified for the national.

THE NEXT stop was Lincoln. Scott had to compete against 15 other boys between the ages of six and eight. The Nebraska arena was filled to capacity with skaters and their families from all over the country.

It was a tense situation, but it didn't seem to bother Scott. "Naw, I wasn't scared," he says.

His skates were rigged with special plastic wheels like the ones used on skateboards to give him more traction. One opponenty literally fell by the wayside when he slipped in the rink and broke his arm.

But Scott made it through, with no bruises and a second place plaque to Scott takes his success in stride. Like most third graders, he says he "hates school," but grudgingly admits that attending Starkweather school really isn't that bad.

He likes to shoot (at cans, please) and he likes to ride his small motorcycle.

He makes engine noises as he contemplates the motocross bike he'd like to have, but his mother looks dubious about the entire thing.

Skating can be rough and tumble, but it's safer than motocross. Scott says the skaters may be required to wear helmets and protective padding in future competitions, which he's all for. He remembers, with a grimace, a few spills of his own.

Is it worth it? Ms. Hall says "It's good for Scott.

But expenses are high and rewards few for amateur roller skaters. Scott is on his second pair of roller skates, which cost about $250 a shot. Ms. Hall is responsible for the cost of travel to various competitions. Amateur skaters do not get cash prizes to help offset the costs.

Although he'd like to take a break, keep a lookout for a blur of motion wearing the number 4972. It's Scott Hall's competition number.

But look quickly. He's getting faster is to help the senior citizens. all the time.

Canton constable named top senior

When Irene Murphy, the Canton constable went to the mail box in Royal Holiday Park the other day, she never expected the surprise that was awaiting her.

Inside was a an envelope with the information that she had been chosen as Senior Citizen of the Year at the Michigan State Fair. And the news, she confides, was one of the the nicest surprises she ever has experienced.

"I felt quite honored, but slightly embarrassed, when I received it," she

The embarrassment comes when she is asked how and why she was nominated. Not a person to extoll her own virtues, she explains two of her friends placed her name in contention at the fair.

Delighted that she had been nominated, Mrs. Murprhy never expected that she would be one of the winners. But the mailman ended all doubt with the delivery of the official certificate.

Now 65 years old and living in retirement with her husband, Tim, who was employed with the Brink Service where he drove an armored car for years, Mrs. Murphy is one of the most active women in the Holiday Park. She is a willing worker for the senior citizens, active in the Seniors Club and vice-president of the Women's Club in the park.

Along with this work, she is serving her second term as a constable in Canon Township and admits that keeps her quite busy. But her main objective

The help is needed quite often. But inasmuch as her husband is retired they serve as the chauffeurs for the seniors when their services are

All of these good deeds which she has been doing for years didn't go unnoticed. That's why here two friends nominated her. They now are as delighted and happy as Mrs. Murphy.

Asked how she manages to do all these things she just smiles and tells you that the best way to live in your senior citizen years is to keep busy.

She does just that. Aside from the work with the seniors and her duties as a constable, she doesn't neglect her hobbies.

When she finds the time she likes nothing better than to paint. When that is not possible she works on the remodeling of old dolls.

Irene Murphy has been voted senior citizen of the year by the Michigan State Fair.

Committee is defended

Editor:

As chairperson of the Farmland Preservation Education Committee, I feel that I must respond to Suzanne M. Barrie's letter which appeared in your Aug. 31 edition. Ms. Barrie states the committee is a biased, anti-retention group not capable of presenting an impartial educational program. This is the third occasion I have defended the committee's position and make-up. Oddly enough, the other two occasions involved accusations of being proretention and incapable of being impartial because of pro-biases.

The committee is not made up of only people directly involved or living on the land proposed for farmland preservation. Two live within the proposed district, one of which is located on a parcel too small to be included (2 acres). One is located in what would become part of the buffer or fringe lands and another lives in a commercial and residential area. One member is a subdivision dweller far removed from the proposed district.

If Ms. Barrie would review her tapes more carefully, and take the time to call and discuss the issue with the various committee members, she would also find that two of the members are very strong advocates of the preservation position. Two others are just as strongly opposed. The fifth member, myself, may well be the skeptic to which Ms. Barrie made reference. Since he letter lacks specificity, I am not sure. However, it is obvious Ms. Barrie interprets a willingness to listen to both sides, and the ability to empathize with opposing views as being skeptical. I personally have not taken a position and refuse to do so.

The school board is really putting one over on us. In the 1978-79 school budget voted in by the board on June 26, 1978; it states that if the millage renewal went through, there would be no reduction of the school day. What happened?

While on the one hand the board is depriving our children of 27 hours of school, on the other hand they are hiring a consultant firm to evaluate the school programs at an approximate cost of $30,000 and also hiring a new director of transporation at approximately the same amount. We already have a supervisor of transportation, why do we need a director? If they want the programs evaluated, all they have to do is ask the parents, we would be glad to tell them.

Queen for a dollar

By the time you read this, the world will have another Miss

Although it is not especially astonishing to have a new Miss America, since one comes along every year, it is a never-failing source of amazement to me that such creatures still exist.

I remember watching that eternal pageant in my younger days. None of those young women were ever more than a day over 25, God forbid, but they looked so old. They were grown-ups, complete with all the adult trappings of red lipstick, high heels and teased

Now I find myself in much the same age category as the latest crops of Miss Americas, and frankly, they still look old to me.

It can't be the out-of-date hairstyles and makeup, because someone took the beauty queens in hand and held them under a faucet until all the hair spray washed out.

But it isn't just Miss Americas who look like they've lived a lot. Almost any kind of beauty queen has that jaded look about her.

Forget the stuff about fresh American beauties. Playboy bunnies look more wholesome than Miss Americas. Half of these young women have been competing in various competitions for years.

You can see it in their eyes. Some of them start as early as seven or eight, in tap dance schools calculated to turn out regiments of little darlings who can click and clack with the best of

The real indoctrination for the average female comes in high school, where she gets to compete for Miss (please insert name of

Pageants on the local scale are miniature versions of the Miss America extravaganza. In fact, many local pageants are the primaries for The Big One

The local pageant can also be the end to a budding career. When one of my high school contemporaries entered the pageant, she seemed a shoe-in. She had everything-looks, a nice bod, good clothes—everything but a personality. Nonetheless, she made it to that final round where the judges ask the last few contestants an impromptu question.

Sue, the would-be candidate, was asked this: "If you were expecting your boyfriend, and you heard a horn honk outside, and you rushed out to the car, got in, threw your arms around your boyfriend and gave him a big kiss,-then realized it wasn't your boyfriend-what would you do?"

Sue pondered that query while the minutes ticked by and the audience began to shift uncomfortably in their seats. Finally she answered, "I guess I'd go with him anyway."

She didn't win.

THE WINNER answered the question with a true cop-out. She said her boyfriend would have to come to the door for her. She would never, never go outside just because her boyfriend honked the horn. That created a bit of a chuckle in the peanut gallery, since we knew the winner actually threw herself at anything with pants on.

I've had the opportunity to interview a few modern local beauty queens, a chore I could easily do without.

The great ambition of your average beauty queen these days is "to be a broadcast journalist." I have to bite my tongue to prevent asking them if a few journalism courses might also be in order. Second on the list of ambitions is to be a model.

I've heard all the old arguments, that the Miss America pageant is one of the biggest scholarship sponsors around. Lots of other organizations offer scholarships as well.

And you don't have to parade around in a bathing suit to get

Canton police chief Walter MacGre-gor keeps a stash of pot in his office these days.

Historic stone will join bell at museum site

By W.W. EDGAR

Like many of the senior citizens in the Plymouth community who have left their homes on the outskirts to move closer to town the old gray stone that has stood at the intersection of Main and Mill streets is being given a new home closer to the scene of

The old stone, that has stood at the Mill street intersection since April 29. 1941 as a gift from the Sarah Ann Cochrane Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, is being moved to a bit of ground close to the old city hall bell that has been standing on the lawn of the Plymouth Historical Muse since the building was opened several years ago

There is a bit of interesting history involved in the old stone. It was presented as a marker for the start of the old plank Road and was listed as Toll Gate No. 4

Now, after all of these years, the Wayne County Road Commission has decided to widen the intersection. This means that the stone is forced to find another "home"—this time one that really should be permanent.

Each day thousands of persons pass the old stone. Few of them know its background. Fewer still take time to read the fine inscription telling what it is and why it is there.

When the road commission decided on the improvement of the intersection the question arose as to what to do with the stone.

Many old timers-especially those who like to dote on history-figured thé old stone might be destroyed or

IN TO THIS breach stepped Harold Guenther, one of the city's busiest businessmen, to save the day and find a home for the stone.

For years Guenther has urged the establishment of a cemetery for old stones and old monuments. It is his belief that these symbols of the past should be preserved and made part of Plymouth's rich history.

Taking the initiative he approached the Plymputh Historical Society and asked for permission to have the told stone placed on on the lawn as a symbol of history. His request was denied. That didn't stop him. Instead it caused him to try all the harder to find a new home for the stone.

He finally succeeded when the City Commission, with the approval of the members of the Sarah Ann Cochrane Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, granted him the right to have the stone placed on a small strip of city property on the curee of the road across from city hall.

Before it is placed in its new home the old stone will be taken to the Mike

Allen monument works on Northville Road and given a good cleaning. It also will be given a new bronze plate to place along the original to tell of its moving. This will be done with appropriate ceremonies in the near future.

When it finally is settled in its new home the old stone that has been almost totally ignored for more than three decades will have some outstanding neighbors-right in the center of the city.

Only a few feet away will be the old city hall bell that is throwback to the days of the old plank road. Then on the other side of city hall is the famous "bit of rock" that was taken from the dock in Plymouth, England, from where the Mayflower sailed and presented to the city during the centennial in 1967. All of these things help to make Plymouth an interesting city and the old stone will be a welcome

Congressional hopeful files suit to gain spot

Earl Greene, Ann Arbor City Councilman, has initiated a civil suit to get a spot as the Democratic nominee for the 2d Congressional district election

A spokeswoman for Greene, who is also a Willow Run High School music teacher, said that for the candidate are asking the Michigan Court of Appeals to direct the state Board of Canvassers to certify Greene's writein votes cast in the Aug. 8 primary and allow his name to be printed on the fall

If he is successful, Greene will oppose Rep. Carl Pursell, a Plymouth Republican who won his first two-year term in late 1976 by only 350 votes over Democrat Dr. Edward Pierce, also of Ann Arbor.

Representing Greene are attorneys Tim Downs, who also represented Pierce in 1976 during the recount campaign, and Gene Farber, both of Detroit.

Jan Cooke, Greene's press secretary, said that the candidate's attorneys are asking for a pre-emptory order to the state canvassing board to avoid a lengthy delay in a decision.

She said Greene is basing his case on two 1909 laws. One says whoever receives the most votes in an election is the nominee in a

The other has to do with the process of certifying write-in votes. That law states that a write-in candidate must get at least 15 per cent of the highest vote for a candidate in the same party during a primary to gain a spot on the fall ballot.

Greene is contending that the law applies only to state offices and not to congressional or federal offices.

Greene also cited the recent opinion from Michigan Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley who said that a write-in candidate need only receive a majority of writein votes to get on the general election

Since the Democrat had an organized campaign in the primary to have supporters cast write-in votes for him, he would have easily been nominated under Kelley's opinion.

Ms. Cooke said attorney Downs commented that he is "surprised that the lawsuit had to be brought and that "I am fully confident that the court will act promptly and that the voters in the 2d District will not be disenfranchized'

She spokes also said that the candidate is still continuing his campaign, which included a stop last week at the Livonia Democratic Club meeting.

Rocks pound Pats in opener, 28-19

By FRED DeLANO

Plymouth Salem's complete domination of the middle rounds carried the Rocks to a 28-19 home field, non-league football victory over Livonia Franklin Friday night in the '78 opener for both schools

All-state quarterback Rich Hewlett's mastery of the option out of the wishbone, his sense of last instant timing on pitchouts, and impressive over-all team execution gave Salem's ground game momentum which Franklin's Pariots contained all too rarely.

It was a dog-eat-dog battle, knotted at 1.7, only into the early stages of the second quarter. During the span extending from that point until four minutes were gone in the final period, Franklin made only two first downs and ever crossed the 50-yard stripe.

M inwhile, the Rocks were scoring thre more times to mount a 28-7 lead. Two Franklin tallies in the waning minutes only made the game look closer than it was.

FRANKLIN'S DEFENDING Northwest Suburban League co-champs now await their home opener, another non-league match, Saturday afternoon with Livonia Stevenson as the foe. Saturday night, Salem will be host to Dearborn High as the Rocks begin defense of their Suburban Eight crown.

The fact that Dearborn will be invading Plymouth as scheduled represented victory of another kind Friday when Dearborn voters approved a millage issue which will permit restoration of the prep athletic program.

Dearborn High and Dearborn Edsel Ford also are in the Sub 8, as are Livonia Bentley and Redford Union, and athletic directors at all these schools breathed more easily after the votes were counted. No longer do they have to consider substitute games.

Franklin coach Armand Vigna conceded that "Salem was the better team tonight" after the Patriot loss at Plymouth, calling Hewlett "just super."

"We'll have to claw and scratch to win; we just don't have enough good kids," said Vigna. "Stevenson (a 34-8 winner over RU Friday) looks just as tough as Plymouth, maybe even bigger and stronger. It's not going to be easy."

COACH TOM MOSHIMER of Salem, for whom this was the 10th regular season win in a row, had praise for all his squad, singling Hewlett out as "the best back in the state of Michigan."

Hewlett himself, a 6-1, 195-pound senior who has college coaches drooling, said, "Franklin never stopped comin' at me. Our line did a great job in holding them off, but I had to pitch more than I expected. And my passing wasn't very good (he completed only two for 26 yards)."

"Our passing game needs work," agreed Moshimer, "and so does our pass defense. We've a long way to go, but it was a darned good opener for a club that has only two offensive and defensive starters returning from last year."

Scatback Craig Stack, a 5-9 scooter who is only a junior, also got a big pat on the back from Moshimer for the speed and quickness he showed in running the flanks on pitches from Hewlett. Stack scored Plymouth's first two touchdowns on dashes of 17 and 12 yards, and was a general pest to Franklin all night.

On the ground, Salem powered its way to 290 yards and the 26 in the air gave the Rocks a game total of 316. Franklin was 304 with 130 yards via the airlanes and 174 overland.

SALEM TOOK AN early 7-0 lead on a five-play, 69-yard drive, highlighted by Hewlett's 23 yards on a keeper the first time he carried and then a 26-yard sprint by Stack prior to his score. The conversion by Rich Hanschu was his first of four without a miss.

It didn't take Franklin long to accept the challenge. Don Boka piloted the Patriots 56 yards in four plays. Jerry Cifor, most impressive of Franklin's runners despite playing with a broken hand, got 12 and a Boka to Tim Przysiecki pass later was good for 47 yards to the Salem 12. The score came on an eight-yard trap play by Cifor, Boka converting.

Canton runners seek 1st victory

By SCOTT ADLER

The Plymouth Canton cross country team is hopeful of winning its first meet in the Chiefs' short six-year history. And the Chiefs feel they are capable of winning more than one meet as the fall season begins this week.

Returning junior captain Dan McGlinn is by far the best runner Canton offers this season. He has trained all summer and is anxiously awaiting the upcoming schedule.

Dave Spitz, brother of former coach Mike Spitz, also looks to be a strong runner as he enters his junior season after summer training.

Along with McGlinn and Spitz, Rich Fleischer and Dave Talaga, both seniors, are starting their third year of varsity competition. Fleischer was a mainstay for the Chiefs track team last spring.

Rookie coach Jim Hayes, also the Chiefs' tennis coach, feels confident in his top runners' abilities.

"We should have seven runners at the 18-minute mark and a few around 19 minutes," Hayes said.

Juniors Randy Hennells and Phil Simons enter their second year of competition, along with senior Scott Kiefer. Newcomer Guy Kananen, a junior, should also add to Canton's squad.

The Chiefs compete at the tough Cass Benton course where most Observer-area teams host their meets. Livonia Churchill, a perennial champion of the Western Six League cross country crown, is once again considered the toughest team in the league.

Schuele, who won only his second game since becoming the Chiefs' head coach two years ago. "If we keep stepping on people's toes the way we did tonight and keep a good attitude, we'll have a great season."

Canton scored its first touchdown in the waning moments of the first quarter when quarterback Scott Dawson snuck over the goal line from two yards out.

Rusty Mandle, the game's leading rusher with 103 yards in 20 carries, reached paydirt from three yards out in the second stanza to cap the scoring. Both Chief extra-point attempts failed

"We gave them (Canton) a battle," said second-year Bentley coach Pat O'Donnell. "I don't like losing a game but I was very pleased with the way the kids hit them in the second half and kept the ball away from them."

Canton continued to move the ball in the second half but two fumbles stymied one Canton scoring drive and also set up a possible Bentley score.

"We fumbled too much," Schuele said. "We should have scored another one (touchdown) but we fumbled it away."

"We had a chance to score in the second half but we broke down on our pass blocking;" O'Donnell said. "But I was pleased with the kids considering we literally put together our offense and defense this week."

Many of the Bentley scoring opportunities were stifled by the alert defensive play of sophomore tackle Craig Gearns and senior tackle Alan Olszewski of Canton, who put a lot of pressure on Bentley's reserve quarterback Dave Cabrera all night.

CANTON'S FIRST score was a 13-play. 75-yard drive as Dawson scored with only two seconds left in the first quarter. Canton held the ball for over six minutes on the drive Mandle danced to the endzone for the second and final score, capping an 11-play, 63-yard drive at with 5:24 left in the first half.

Dawson completed seven of eight passes for 91 yards. Canton totaled 55 plays on offense, gaining a massive 266 yards and 16 first downs.

Bentley mounted only five first downs, totaling 130 yards in offense on 37 plays. Cabrera completed only five of 14 passes for 50 yards. Senior tailback Dave Cox, replacing the injured Munn, led Bentley's rushing attack with 71 yards in 16 carries.

Bentley opens its Suburban Eight League schedule at Redford Union Friday, while Canton hosts Dearborn Heights Annapolis in another nonleague affair.

How not to stiffle a reporter

Guess who received a free lunch from Les Tinson, head of Plymouth-Canton school's central maintenance department, and his buddy Jim Symonds, the former maintenance supervisor?

That's right. I think this was part of the fringe benefits I got for the recent column I wrote about the poor condition of the athletic facilities at the Centennial Educational Park.

Oh, I received other goodies as well. Like a phone call from Ray Hoedel, administrative assistant for business, explaining how he thought progress was had been made by the maintenance department this past summer.

It's really amazing to me how the line of communication flows at the school administrative office—and how each educator or administrator is quick to "pass the buck" to another person.

No one ever wants to take the blame for a defeciency within the system.

Take, for example, this recent problem with central maintenance. In my opinion, I don't think the central maintenance system works. I say it hasn't worked since Tinson first implemented it a couple years ago.

Central maintenence, for those who don't know, includes 10 workers, a plumber, electrician, etc. who help fix building and ground problems that can't be corrected by the maintenance staffs at each school. By hiring these workers, the schools, in theory, save on the cost of hiring outside contractors to do these big jobs.

While the outside contract costs have been reduced, there are still many jobs done by outside contractors that, in my opinion, should be done by the schools.

This is, of course, a waste of taxpayers money—one of the main reasons I originally wrote a column about the poor condition of the Park's outdoor facilities.

The lastest column, two weeks ago, included pictures of the disaster area and it's apparent that the bad publicity hit a nerve within the school system.

I CAN JUST imagine what the reaction was over on Harvey Street, where the school administration building is located. One administrator after another wanted to put an end to such publicity, so the call from Hoedel tried to tone the situation down.

This didn't work so the next day I received a call from Symonds, who isn't even connected with the schools anymore. He sets up the luncheon meeting with Tinson and myself. (Symonds obviuosly was doing a favor for Tinson by arranging this meeting).

As expected, I received excuse after excuse on how it would take time and how there wasn't enough money or men to do the job correctly.

I also listened to all the stories on what a great job the central maintenance department has done keeping all the schools open with its dedication.

I also heard, as expected, all the mechanical explanations behind each job and how each worker was qualified to do the job.

AFTER THE FOUR-HOUR lunch, I still had trouble understanding why all these maintenance problems occurred under central maintenance. The job was getting done better under the old "System, but all I heard were stories about how dedicated Tinson's staff

When we departed, I'm sure Tinson thought the bad publicity would now cease. Especially when he asked that I call him everytime I see a maintenance problem.

What Tinson doesn't realize is that he made himself and his department look bad by taking me out to a four-hour lunch. If his staff was doing the job they should be doing, Tinson or Hoedel would have never reacted to the column the way they did.

Why should they bother calling a reporter or buying a reporter lunch if they felt secure in their job?

What Tinson doesn't realize is that I'm a reporter, not a mechanic. I'm not interested in listening to excuses about why the job can't be done correctly.

I'm slso not a policeman—and I refuse to spend my time as a detective looking for every mistake the maintenance department makes and then reporting back to Tinson so the job gets done correctly.

I am a reporter. And it's my job to see that substantial progress is being made to improve the maintenance situation at the schools. As a voice of the people in this community, it is my duty to look for positive progress in this area.

Forget the mechanic explainations or excuses—I want to see results.

That's the only way the bad publicity will ever stop.

The Plymouth Salem cross country team made great advancements last Todd Curtis are also returning letter.

The Plymouth Salem cross country team made great advancements last season when the Rocks finished in third place at the Suburban Eight League meet. It was the highest finish for the Salem harriers this decade.

This fall, first-year coach Scott Dunson hopes to continue the steady improvement of the program. He also wants to give Dearborn and Dearborn Edsel Ford, the league's top two cross country squads, a serious challenge for the conference crown.

The biggest loss to graduation on the Salem squad is Tom Rubadue, the Rocks' top runner in 1977. He was the backbone of Salem's third-place finish under departed coach Fred Thomann.

Dunson cites Paul Hess, a returning junior, to take Rubadue's place as the top runner on the team. Hess, a co-captain, had a poor spring season as a distance runner for the track team but hopes to rebound this fall, aiming for the 15-minute mark on the three-mile cross country course at Cass Benton.

The Rocks' other co-captain, Kevin Waara, is a returning senior who has made great improvements on his time.

A surprise addition, Dave Rubadue,

Tom's younger brother, had the second fastest time at a recent time trial.

Rubadue is a senior joining the squad of the first time.

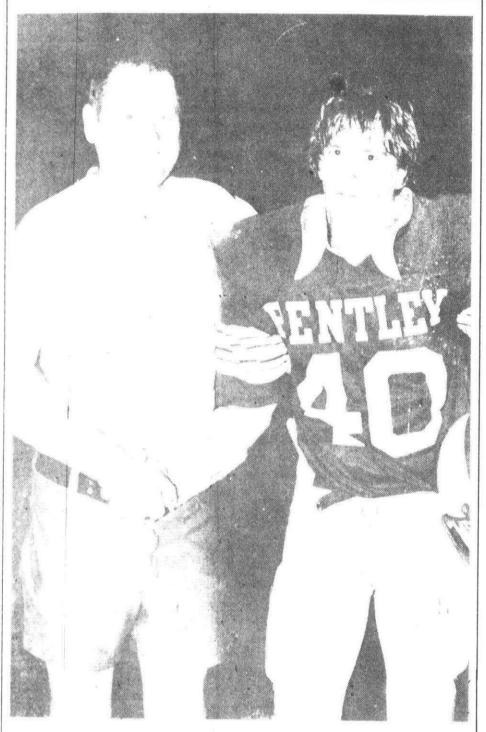

Senior Dave Truesdell and junior Todd Curtis are also returning letter-winners who hope to have strong seasons. Junior Jeff Hartell is a first year runner who will probably make the varsity squad, along with sophomore Chris Whittacker.

"I think, with the people we have, we can take first, second and fourth and many meets," Dunson said. "They have all been working very hard."

Dunson is also very encouraged with the large turnout of 15 runners this season. He expects close to 20 athletes to join the squad, which is impressive considering only four runners participated at old Plymouth High School in the early 1970s, when Dunson was a student. The Salem mentor said no girls have joined the team at time. A 1972 graduate of Plymouth High School, Dunson is presently attending Eastern Michigan University, working on a physical education and health degree. He was the Plymouth Canton assistant girls' track coach last spring.

Dunson, a former member of the Plymouth boys track team, still holds the school record for the half-mile event.

The Rocks open their season tomorrow afternoon against Livonia Stevenson beginning at 4 p.m. at Cass Benton.

And Plymouth Canton coach Mike McCauley heads the pack, as his way of teaching fundamentals and discipline to his Western Six League championship team becomes more creative with the passing years. As a means of self-conditioning and self-discipline. McCauley sent packs of instruction to each prospective varsity member over the summer, asking them to keep in good physical shape and learn the basic rules of his offensive and defensive philosophies.

So when practice started in mid-August, the girls were not surprised when they were asked to pass both a physical and mental test to make the varsity squad.

The physical test was part of "aerobics" training where McCauley asked the girls to run 112 miles in less than 12 minutes. (The girls were given as many times as they wanted to accomplish this or they wouldn't make the

The aerobics test determines the condition of the lungs." McCauley explained. "If the girls pass this test, they are in good condition and then deserve to play varsity basketball."

The mental test was a classroom exercise where the girls were asked to memorize the 10 defensive rules and 13 offensive rules, and pass a test before joining the team.

In terms of fundamentals, McCauley has been a staunch user of the videotape machine in recent years. He tapes one-on-one games between players and then sits the girls down, lets them see themselves on the screen, and then shows them where improvements should be made.

"It's good that the girls see themselves and learn what they are doing wrong," McCauley said. "It makes it easier for me to instruct them."

The Canton mentor, who led his squad to a perfect regular season record last fall and earned All-Observerland coach-of-the-year honors, has also used the videotape machine as a mental lifter to his girls before some,

He has been known to tape-record pep talks on the screen which his team listens to before an important game. He uses this as a phychological boost

Lions, Steelers leave Lombardi loop

Jr. gridders enter new league

The Plymouth-Canton Junior Football League opened another season yesterday afternoon, as the Steelers and the Lions began play as members of the 11-team Western Suburban Junior Football League.

In the past, both Plymouth-Canton units, which includes the freshman, junior varsity and varsity team levels for boys ages 8-13, participated in the Vince Lombardi Junior Football League. In the off season, the board of directors of the Plymouth-Canton units decided to switch leagues for a number of reasons.

"One of the primary and obvious, but not the best reason for leaving (the Vince Lombardi league) was because the kids developed this 'I don't want to play Ann Arbor syndrome' like most teams," said Lions varsity coach and board member Ted Lazarcheff.

The three Ann Arbor teams, Wolverines, Packers and Rams, have dominated the league for a number of

"But the key reason, in my opinion," Lazarcheff said, "is that we've been weak on the varsity units and the new league provides 13-year-olds a chance to play." The Vince Lombardi league only included 8-12-year olds.

Other reasons for the switch included less emphasis on winning. There will be no championship games this year and standings will not be published-only individual team

Now that the Detroit areas army of bowlers-more than a quarter of a million strong—has swung into action for the season, it is interesting to note the records on which they will be setting their sights.

The current yearbook, sponsored by both the men's and women's organizations, lists the all-time records. The Stroh team holds the top four places in the high-scoring category.

The current team records of 3691 was established last season. The previous year the team rolled a 3671. Last year, the team also scored a 3589 and in 1967 it posted a 3586

The Stroh team also holds the high game record of 1326 rolled in 1976.

On the individual side, Gaston Marois rolled an 876 in the Bel-Aire Classic and that has stood off all challenges since 1971.

IT DIDN'T TAKE the classic bowlers at Wonderland Lanes long to get in to the swing of things. Bowling last Tuesday night they started where they left off last season and went well over the 3200 mark.

The top team was Jim Shelp's Ryder team that rolled a 3261 on games of 1016, 1171 and 1073. In the individual firing, Bill Walker and Jerry Haltsladt tied for top honors at 692.

To get his big total Walker started with a 215 and followed with games of 218 and 259. haltsladt closed with a 245 after games of 214 and 233.

JIM CLEMENTS was the lone member of the I.O.F. league to better 600 at Merri-Bowl. He posted a 225 that enabled him to take top honors with SANDY PAJOT used consistency to gain the top rung in the Ladies Classic at Westland Bowl. She put together games of 196, 192 and 187 for a 575. At that, she was 22 pins below the the mark posted by Cyndi Edwards last week when she rolled a 597.

While Sandy was showing the way in the series battle, Toni Smith took high game honors with a 231 in 574. Sandy Marsh was next with a 564, one pin more than Mary Curtis.

In the men's league, Rich Fleming was tops with a 224 in 612 until Lee Gossman came along to tie him. Red Bennett was third with 594 and Frank Essa had a 574.

THE LADIES BOWLERETTES League, rated one of the best in the country, opens next week at Luxury Lanes and the switch in some of the teams is expected to cause even a tighter race than last year when the battle went down almost to the final

Correction

The Plymouth Salem girls tennis team has never finished lower than second place in league competition during the nine-year history of the sport. The Rocks accomplished this feat in both the Suburban Eight League and the old Western Six League, contrary to just in the Sub-8 league, as reported in last week's Observer sports section.

Thompson is No. 1 area gridder authority

By BRAD EMONS

He attends more than 50 games each high school football season.

Many perceptive suburban gridiron fans see this man roaming the sidelines at countless games. He is usually found carrying a stack of large manila envelopes, which become faded as the season wears on. The man with the large black-rimmed glasses and wavey-black hair always follows the chain gang up and down the field.

He is simply known as the "stat man" or as others call him, the "stat nut." Coaches and sports writers know him by his real name—Jim Thompson.

He is without a doubt the No. 1 authority, statistically, on high school football in the Detroit area.

This fall, Thompson will keep tabs on 208-214 high school football squads in the Detroit area, depending upon how many schools cut football becaue of millage defeats.

Each week Thompson compiles the results and standings of every team in the area. He also keeps league standings, points scored and points yielded, and average scoring spread. When the season concludes, Thompson rates the strength of all leagues based on interdivision play.

During the season, coaches will call him frequently and by the fifth week of the season, Thompson knows which teams still have a chance for the playoffs.

THOMPSON KNOWS the Michigan High School Athletic Association (MHSAA) point playoff system well. In the four state regions divided into four classes, Thompson rates each team according to the amount of points they have accumulated.

"By the fifth game I have this playoff thing down to a science," says Thompson modestly.

The Redford Township resident compiles statistics for the Detroit News and keeps writers abreast of how all teams are fairing.

Thompson became interested in compiling football stats in 1974.

"I used to read the Observerland ratings compiled by the former Livonia Observer sports editor Tom Donoghue," said Thompson.

"I got interested because there is more than just wins and losses," said Thompson.

While not compiling statistics, Thompson doubles as a math tutor. He attended the University of Michigan and Tulane University (La.). "In 1974 I kept all the team stats for Thompson admits his favorite team is Westland John Glenn because "they were down for so many years and now they have compiled one of the best records in the last three years.

"One of the most exciting games I ever covered was the John Glenn-Livonia Franklin contest in 1976.

"Glenn had never beaten Franklin and won that game in overtime, 13-7. That was the year after Franklin had won the state championship. Glenn went on to be undefeated in 1976.

Other memorable games for Thompson included the 1974 Plymouth Salem-Farmington Harrison regular season finale in which both teams were undefeated. Another classic was the 1975 Dearborn-Trenton game according to Thompson. Trenton and Salem were both victors.

Last year. Thompson remembers the Redford Bishop Borgess-Lake Shore battle in the final regular season game

"THAT GAME really didn't mean much because Lake Shore already had a playoff berth locked up," recalls Thompson.

"It was so intense because Lake Shore hadn't given up a point all year long and wanted to go through the season unscored upon

"It would have been a record for Lake Shore, but Borgess scored twice," he said. "But they lost the

The busiest time of the year for Thompson is the last few games where playoff spots are decided.

"I can't add up all the hours I've spent talking to people those last few weeks," he said.

"During the last week of the season you can trust me," said Thompson referring to his playoff projections.

In Class A. Thompson says North Farmington and Birmingham Brother Rice look very strong in their respective regions this fall.

"It's hard to pre-speculate on teams because there are always a few sleepers in each class," he said. Thompson said he is looking forward to the first weekend which is highlighted by a doubleheader. Saturday.

Sept. 9, at the Pontiac Silverdome. At 5:30 p.m., Pontiac Northern will face North Farmington and at 8 p.m. Flint Southwestern will take on Pontiac Central. "That should really be something." said Thompson.

In the winter, Thompson records basketball results but does not spend nearly as much time because every team qualifies for the state tournament and no point system is required Thompson claims his method of recording is foolproof. He says the official recorder of results at the MHSAA office in Lansing, a computer, makes at least three mistakes a week

Stevenson stuns RU

By KEN VOYLES

From the moment the Spartans of Livonia Stevenson gained possession of the football they seemed to have a magic that Redford Union couldn't stop. The Spartans Friday night blew RU to pieces, 34-8, in a non-league football clash.

"The kids were just fantastic. We really didn't expect them to explode like they did," said Stevenson coach Jack Reardon. "It was a very pleasant surprise for us.

Oasis gains more honors

Five members of the Oasis women's fast-pitch softball team gained alltournament honors at the Class D state tournament held last weekend in Midland. Oasis, runners-up in the Livonia Fast-pitch League this summer, placed second in the state event.

Third baseman Val Harben, first baseman Denise Cifaldi, pitcher Jan Boyd, centerfielder Cindy Cindrich and shortstop Vickie Cavallaro gained the all-tournament honors for the local Outfielder Sue McDowell was also named the Most Valuable Player in the Vasser tournament, which Oasis competed in last month.

The Oasis squad consists of many women on the Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem High School softball

Quitiquit wins open

Gary Quitiquit, a special education supervisor for the Plymouth-Canton schools, fired a three-day, 54-hole total of 229 to win his first Michigan Publinx Golf Association medal play championship.

Quitiquit, 29, topped a field of 81 golfers, shooting a final round 73 at Dunham Hills to win the title by one stroke. The Plymouth-Canton educator, who plays on the Dunham team. shot 80-76-73-229, 13 strokes over par. to nip Tom Piscopnik of Godwin Glen's MPGA team.

Quitiquit's "home course" advantage proved to be a major factor in the tourney's outcome, as four of the six top places were grabbed by Dunham team members.

Stevenson opened the scoring late in the first quarter when quarterback Dave Hall capped a 70-yard drive by sliding in the end zone on a keeper. The play covered five yards. The extra point kick missed. Late in that same quarter, RU punted and the Spartans took over on the Panthers' 45 yard line. From there, two quick passes moved Stevenson to RU's 28.

Another pass from Hall to Charlie Waldron provided the Spartans with their next touchdown. The play covered 24 yards. Stevenson then went for the two-point conversion and made it. The score was 14-0.

Jim Gemuend made one of the finest defensive plays of the game with 8:35 left in the second quarter. Gemuend picked off an RU pass and scampered 38 yards for a touchdown breaking two tackles on the way. The extra point kick by Tom Smith was good and the Spartans were in front, 21-0.

Late in that same quarter, Stevenson took the ball at midfield following a Panther punt and quickly moved in to score. The scoring play came off a razzle-dazzle move in the Spartan backfield.

Quarterback Hall pitched out to halfback Smith who rolled to the right. turned and threw a 15-yard pass back to Hall who had sprinted from the backfield into the open. Hall easily scored on the 32-yard play. The extra point kick was good.

Gemuend intercepted another RU pass in the third quarter to set-up the Spartans last touchdown Hall repeated his quarterback keeper performance, this time going 18 yards for the touchdown. The two-point conversion attempt failed.

The Panthers finally got on the scoreboard with two minutes left in the game. RU took the ball at the Stevenson 47 yard line, drove in to the two and finally pushed it across. Doug Smith caught a pass from quarterback Jim Sopha for the touchdown. The twopoint conversion was good.

"We just made too many mistakes We were not ready to play and that was my fault," said RU coach Harvey Heitman. "I thought that Stevenson was a lot better than they gave themselves credit to be.

Gemuend and Hall were Stevenson's leading rushers. Gemuend carried the ball 10 times for 52 yards, while Hall picked up 51 yards in nine carries

Marching Band opens season smaller but with new routines

By BETTY DeLANO

The scene was quite a bit different this year for any parents who made the trip to Charlevoix two weeks ago for the annual marching demonstration by the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park (PCEP) Marching

The demonstration, as always, is primarily given to let the parents, and friends, see how much work they've done in one week preparing the music and a drill that will be performed in competition during the marching

Several things were different this

First of all, and most obvious, was the surroundings. For the past 13 wears, 1964 to 1977, the PCEP marching band had always spent "Band Camp' at Camp Innisfree in Maple City along the Lake Michigan shoreline. Due to a conflict in dates, the band was forced to find other accomadations for the week prior to the start of the school year.

Camp Seagull, along the shores of Lake Charlevoix, was the home this year for the Plymouth musicians. Whether the band returns to Seagull next year or goes back to Innisfree will be determined by the result of a vote taken by the band.

A few strong points for Camp Seagull, said members of the band, were that the food was good, and there was

The showers and facilities were in the cabins as opposed to one building at Innisfree, the football field was free of obstacles such as holes and branches that hadn't been filled or cut down, and the entire camp was generally very clean.

Obviously smaller was the number of heads on the field during the demonstration this year. Thirty members of the color guard and 85 musicians for a total of 115 make up the band, the smallest marching band in Plymouth

Although the size of the band is down this year. Ralph Johnson (the band's musical arranger and drill coordinator) has composed a rather complex drill for the band to perform.

The "competition show," as it is called, made its debut in last Friday night's halftime show for Plymouth Salem High's home opener against Livonia Franklin.

The band also will be performing at the western show in the Silverdome

The other thing missing at Camp Seagull that the band had at Innisfree (besides the Lake Michigan view) was the famous hill running alongside the football field. Spectators of the demonstration were forced to watch the show from ground level, but the performance made up for it and will make the stars and pinwheels more obvious on

DURING THE WEEK at band camp, members of the band spent time in sectionals, full band rehearsals (where the music is worked out as an entire group) and finally on the marching field where the whole concept of a marching band comes out.

Assisting director James R. Griffith this year is his new associate, Carl Battishill. Battishill will direct the varsity and concert bands at the park and leave Griffith with the cadet and symphony bands.

Both will work with the stage band. Battishill is a graduate of the University of Michigan and has been working the past four years for the Frankfort public schools.

Preparing for seven Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton home football games and performances at the Western Michigan University Cavalcade of Bands and the Pontiac Silverdome where the band will perform during halftime at a Detroit Lions game will make up an exceptionally busy schedule for the band.

MORE HELP is given to Griffith and Battishill while at camp than people realize.

Helping members of the band with music during sectionals since Griffith and Battishill can't be 10 places at once were "section leaders," who in most cases have graduated from Plymouth and have returned to assist. These section leaders are mostly music majors and also double as counselors for the week

Last year, Griffith started letting good musicians who are good leadrs run their own sectionals. This year, he expanded from one section to two by having senior Theresa Savage work with the flutes and junior Mark Thrasher work with the saxophones.

Working with the clarinets again this year was Mary Kleam, a 1974 Plymouth graduate and University of Michigan music major; 1973 Plymouth graduate Jean Moorehead, who is now working on her masters at UM. worked with the trumpets; Jack Overhiser ran the low brass including the trombones, baritones and tubas. Overhiser is a 1975 graduate of Plymouth Salem and is majoring in music education at UM.

Percussion section leader for the week was Bill Sweeney. Sweeney is also a music major at UM and a 1977 Plymouth Canton graduate. Working with the color guard was Meg Johnson, a 1977 Plymouth Canton graduate.

BESIDES THE section leaders and counselors mentioned above, many other people traveled with the band and helped out.

Other counselors included Jake and Nancy Weil, mother and father of Debbie, Shirley Rowe who made this her fifth year with the band, and Marv Butash, who made this her second trip to band camp.

Dennis McVittie, a 1968 Plymouth graduate as drum major, was head couselor for the week so that Griffith and Battishill could worry about other things during the week. McVittie is now a manufacturers representative for a sportswear company

Art Davis and Mark Even worked at keeping members of the band in line all week as well as working as photographers. Even works at the high school in the audio visual department and Davis has just completed a BS in packaging at Michigan State University.

Music included in the competition show this year was arranged by Ralph Johnson and consists of "Commando March" by Samuel Barber, "The Sheriff," a drum solo by Emerson, Lake and Palmer, "Come Take a Walk With Me" by Chuck Mangione and "Buckaroo Holiday" from "Rodeo" by Aaron Copland

MEMBERS OF the PCEP marching band this year include flutes Theresa Savage (seniors), Kristen Zang, Kayla Smith, Linda Scruggs, Angela Rich, Velvet Mitchell, Gretchen Snyder, Dianne Slezak, Nancy Pierce, Debbie Nurmi, Debbie Aldredge, Michelle Theobald, Jacqueline Rick, Sara McMullen, Missy Gortney, Lisa Ewalt, Judy Davis and Teri Clement.Clarinets are Dori McVittie (s). Sentimentality detracts from lively storyline

Any movie that begins with a man ritually wrapping himself with Ace bandages to the strains of bullfight music has got to have some funny moments in it. "Hooper" (PG) does.

Burt Reynolds continues to charm with that blue-jeaned, amiable macho image he developed so successfully in "Smokey and the Bandit

Like that earlier film, "Hooper" is an action picture with thrills and laughs Unlike "Smokey," however, "Hooper" is marred by a strong dose of sentimentality. This is unfortunate because the subject matter has so much potential and is so lively and interesting in itself.

Reynolds plays Sonny Hooper, a Hollywood stuntman who's the best in the business. He's a jock with busted bones that can't take any more punishment and a hungry ego that needs to be fueled with daredevil NIPPING AT his heels is a younger stuntman, played by Jan-Michael Vincent, who wants to become the new Hooper. The nervy kid has studied Hooper's moves, analyzed the action and used a computer to figure things out scientifically. It's a new age.

Meanwhile. Hooper's live-in girlfriend (Sally Field) wants him to roll up his bandages and play house. She's supported by her father (Brian Keith), a retired stuntman and Hooper's drinking buddy. He wants them to get married.

On the other hand, Roger (Robert Klein), the director of the flick Hooper is working on, wants Hooper to hang in there and perform a death-defying stunt for the movie's sensational ending. The movie is a James Bond-type thriller called "The Spy Who Laughed at Death." In the hands of Roger, a puffed-up, arty sort, who wants to make "a statement," it takes on the "grayness of 'La Strada." Roger is just begging for someone to send his teeth down his throat, an event gleefully anticipated by everyone but Roger. Hal Needham, who directed "Hooper," is a former stuntman and stunt coordinator. He's captured all the abrasiveness of the infighting and all the thrills of the stuntmaking. What he's missed is any suggestion of why. Why do these men risk their lives so readily?

HE'S ENOBLED the stuntmen; he hasn't given any clues about why they fence with death. I'm not suggesting a deep psychological probe, but only a more penetrating presentation of the material.

For example, "Slapshot," the hockey film with Paul Newman, was a movie that dealt with jocks who regularly got bruised and battered Yet, within the comedy and action, there was sufficient development of character to reveal (in that case) the shallowness and insecurity that were masked by the bravado.

Perhaps Needham, the ex-stuntman and Reynolds' pal, is simply too close to the scene. He's part of a movie-making team Reynolds put together that includes Bobby Byrne, the director of photography; James Best, an actor who plays Hooper's sidekick, and others who have worked with Reynolds on several films.

They're a winning team. I just hope such enviable status doesn't prevent them from accepting the challenge of trying something different. The good of boy image and check-shirt humor can become Hooper (Burt Reynolds) realizes he must choose between Gwen (Sally Field) and a career that will probably end in disaster.

They're carving out a fortune—in ducks

While carving the duck may be the prelude to a big dinner for most of us, some people are apt to just whittle away at it in the basement.

Call them quacks if you like. But many carvers say Michigan is the decoy carving capital of the world. And just to prove it, they've assembled more than 100 decoys-all made by Michigan carvers—into an exhibit, open in downtown Detroit through

The display includes contemporary and antique decoys, some more than a century old. It's open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday in the main office of Detroit Bank & Trust at Fort and Washington.

The concept behind the display is to show the transitions in carving techniques as well as illustrate how decoy carving slowly evolved over more than 1,000 years. Four phases are covered -creating decoys for hunting, as a hobby, for decorative purposes and for use in national and international

The display was developed by the Michigan Waterfowl Decoy Association to coincide with its 31st annual Mid-West Decoy Contest, being held Saturday, Sept. 16, at Pointe Mouillee State Game area.

More than 5,000 people are expected to attend this special event featuring the best carvers from throughout the world, a number of whom will be displaying top-prize-winning decoys at Detroit Bank & Trust.

According to Len Carnaghi, president of the Michigan Waterfowl Decoy Association: "During the past 20 vears. Michigan carvers have dominated international competitions for decoy carving, a feat recognized throughout the world in this highly competitive art form.

Carnaghi is recognized as a master carver and has earned numerous awards and first place honors in international and world competitions.

Jim Foote, another master carver world competitor and professional whose decoys have been photographed and cited in numerous textbooks on the subject, said: "There are more than 20 carvers in the metropolitan Detroit area alone who are world class competitors. This is the largest concentration of carvers of this ability in the entire United States

"Interestingly, decoy carving is a true North American art form originated by Indians more than 1.000 years ago as a tool to assist them in capturing game for food. When someone mentions decoy, most people think of a duck decoy, but in actuality, man has been creating all types of decoys to lure wildlife close enough to him to capture it for food and to obtain skins. fur and feathers for clothing and as adornment.

In addition to the decoys, a workshop will be set up in the exhibit area displaying decoys in various stages of completion as well as presenting photographs of tools used during the 1800s by hunters and sportsmen to carve

Creating decoys is not only an art form, it is also a science. Carvers are attempting to simulate, through manmade objects, aspects of nature to allay the fears of birds and animals that danger lurks nearby. In times past, the more closely the person could imitate nature, the better were his chances that he would fool the animal, deceive its instincts for survival and thereby lull it into a false sense of security." said Foote.

Included in the bank display will be a wide variety of waterfowl and other bird decoys as well as a selection of

New dental complex to open here next month

The next time your teeth act up you won't have to worry about walking the Yellow Pages for the closest dentist. There's a mouthful of help right around the corner.

Packed with tooth specialists, the Plymouth Professional Building will open at 9416 Main St. south of Ann Arbor Road in Plymouth Township on Oct. 1.

The building will house two orthodontists, an oral surgeon, an endodontist (root canal specialist), and a general dentist.—

But if it's the gums that are the problem, you could be in trouble. The owners of the two-story building haven't had any luck finding a period-ontist to fill the vacant basement suite.

Dr. Philip S. Warren, an orthodontist who has been practicing in Plymouth for 10 years, is one of four owners of the new dentist building.

The others are Dr. Roger L. Bookwater, Dr. Nils J. Korsnes, and Dr. Robert Millard Korsnes, a general dentist, has been practicing in Plymouth for 11 years.

All of the owners will be occupying the new building in addition to Dr. Dennis R. Gut, an endodontist who recently graduated from the University of Michigan.

DR. WARREN SAID the site of the 1,200 square foot building was the only practical location for the new owners.

"We're all Plymouth people and we wanted to be centrally located near the Plymouth business district," he said. "We didn't want to build our place in Canton although it would have been a lot easier to move there.

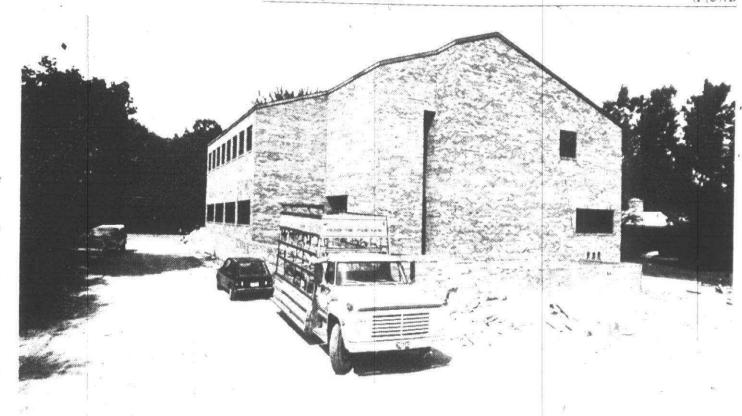

"We spent a full year rezoning the property. It's tough to get a permit to build when you don't want to get that far away from Plymouth."

Although the new dentist building will be ready for business by Oct. 1, Warren said not all of the dentists will be moved in by that date.

Only Dr. Gut, who presently does not have an office, will be settled in the new building. The rest of the dentists will occupy their new settings within the first couple of weeks of October, Warren said.

Dr. said he will continue to solicit for a dental specialist of some kind to occupy the basement suite.

But please, no tooth fairies.

Stratford-on-Avon

Wherein a tour's the thing 'twill catch the eye

By IRIS SANDERSON JONES

Stratford-on-Avon, England, was a sleepy beam-and-plaster town 26 years ago. Today, it continues to share its history with those who perchance to dream on the River Avon's shores.

If you have traveled to England, you probably have seen it. Residents there say that North Americans take the short and the long culture tour. The short one goes to London and Stratford, the long one to London, Stratford and Edinburgh

It is a pretty town, sleepy and medieval-looking in the evening when the tourist mobs have dwindled. And it retains that quaintness in the winter, when some travelers stay at home. It's the kind of town you should know how

Let the buyer beware

Pan Am Flight 107, London to Detroit-You pay for everything in this world, including leg room on an airplane.

As I approached my seat, I felt smug because I had asked for an exit seat and I could see it ahead. It was beside the main emergency door and accorded me six feet of leg room instead of the usual 18 inches

What I hadn't counted on was the fact that it was beside a bank of four toilets. Toilets are often used, and the crowd usually lines the aisle during long, overseas flights.

CHOOSING THE right seat on a plane is important. Smoking or non-smoking sections are offered, but unless you are specific, a randomly selected seat awaits you.

Airlines allow a little more space in front of a seat located beside an exit window or an exit door, in case of emergency. Don't take the seat that backs on an exit window, because it often won't recline.

Find out in advance what kind of aircraft you'll be traveling in, or look at the seating chart at check-in. If it has two seats beside the window, grab one. Most have three; the larger planes have rows of five or more seats

Avoid that center row of seats because people will walk over you and you will be too far from a window. Given a choice between window, middle and aisle seats, consider this you have a view and can lean your head against the wall in the willow seat; you can stretch your feet out from the aisle seat; and you can't in much of anything but pull your arms in from the middle seat.

By the time I was ready to come home, I ran smack into a bank holiday weekend, a French comptroller's slowdown and hundreds of travelers eager to get home before school started.

When I called the airline the night before my flight to inquire about standby chances, the reply was "There are 300 people waiting in the standby line already and it doesn't open until 6 a.m. tomorrow.

It still was worth the risk. I had not been able to save by advance booking, or by staying in England more than two weeks, but standby one-way still saved me 200. You

PHYLLIS AND FRANK Young of Franklin discovered the answers to several interesting questions when they visited Anne Hathaway's cottage in Stratford-on-Avon this summer. The Youngs were touring England with their daughter, Laurie.

Stratford is a quaint and beautiful town, but the part I liked best was the thatched cottage where Shakespeare's wife, Anne Hathaway, once lived," Mrs. Young

"Those thatched roofs weigh 2-1/2 tons and must be replaced every 25 years. Our guide told us that fourposter beds were designed to protect sleepers from the spiders and bits of thatch that fell from thatched roofs.

Mrs. Young also discovered that the English had some bright ideas about housekeeping in medieval times. The dining room table in Anne Hathaway's cottage is shiny and new-looking on one side, for company, but flips over to show a scarred side for everyday use.

"It was all fascinating, even the morbid exhibit of mantraps used to catch poachers on the king's land," Mrs. Young said.

BED AND BBREAKFAST at $7 to $13 a person, that's the travel style the Youngs recommend for people who really want to experience England.

"We had no reservations. Every town had an information center for tourists looking for accommodations, but we just looked around the town until we found something we liked," Mrs. Young said.

"The bathroom is usually down the hall, but we didn't mind that. The English breakfast was enormous-eggs. bacon, toast, marmalade, coffee, everything included in the price of the room.

"Even in London, where prices are atrocious for tourists, our daughter reserved bed and breakfast for us at six pounds and 50 pence a person.

Six pounds-50 is about $13. Ask your travel agent about bed and breakfast places, and about staying with members of famous families such as the grandson of Charles Adequate accommodations can be found in nearby towns such as Henleyon-Arden or Evesham, where fewer tourists are visible, or in the town of Stratford.

The center of activity is near the bridge over the River Avon, downstream from the red brick Shakespeare Theater. On one side is a country inn called the Swans Nest, and Alveston Manor, a Trust House hotel. On the opposite side is the relatively new Stratford-on-Avon Hilton. The place to stay, if reservations can be secured, is at the Shakespeare Hotel on Chapel Street, a block north of the river. It is managed by Hans and Vera Schad.

The hotel is centuries old and looks it. But if you like your history combined with good plumbing, you will approve of the renovations and remodeling. Rooms have been combined and now include bathrooms and bathtubs. The parking is good. The walls of the dining room and bar are beam and plaster, sporting a shiny new look that makes you think you are in the 16th Century when it was built.

It is the sense of being in a medieval town, with streets set out in the 14th Century by the Bishop of Worcester, that gives this town its special flavor. That and the local-boy-who-madegood, William Shakespeare.

The best way to tour the Shakespearean aspects of Stratford is to look at it through a little social history, alone or with tour guides like Cornishman Roger Thompson of Guides Friday.

Thompson will take you on your own or on a carnival-looking bus. His colorful version of English history is included in the price. A part of it follows:

"IT ALL started with the Arden family, who fought on the wrong side during the civil war. The head of the family was executed and the youngest son bought a farm near Stratford—a main farmhouse and a group of tenant farmers.

"The poor bloke had eight daughters and no sons. He married off all the girls except one, so he willed his farm to the unwed daughter to make her more marriageable.

"One of his tenant farmers was Richard Shakespeare, and it was his son, John Shakespeare, who married the lonesome Mary Arden.

This is timed to get you to Mary Arden's house, which is historic building number one

"Now then, John held every political office from chamberlain to mayor in Stratford. He pulled himself up socially by marrying this Arden girl. but he expected his oldest son William to marry into money and make him richer.

"Willy was engaged twice, and married Anne Hathaway, which means he went down the social scale instead of up." At this point, you see the thatched rooftops of Anne Hathaway's house. All of this leads up to Shakespeare's birthplace on Meer Street.

It was at the Meer Street address that William and Anne and their three children lived with William's parents and his five brothers and sisters. Some people say this is the reason for his departure to London to become a poet.

Natbetter way to toast the Bard of Avon than with a pint of your favorite at one of the many dining establishments in Stratford-on-

THE INGREDIENTS which create an interest in the theater were there in Stratford in the time of Elizabeth I, and they are there now. The records show that the Guild Church ran a first class school, producing pupils who could speak colloquial Latin and Greek.

Nearby great houses, which also should be on your itinerary, entertained the queen with strolling actors who would surely have visited the main market town of the area, which was Stratford-on-Avon.

Warwick Castle is nine miles away. its owners struggling to survive by living in a corner of the castle and opening the rest to tours. The old duke recently scandalized the English when he offered to sell his historic objects to the highest bidders, who are Americans.

Fourteen miles away is Sir Walter Scott's Kenilworth Castle, where Robert Dudley, Earl of Leicester, entertained Good Queen Bess at an 11-day pageant that was the binge of Shakespeare's century. As a prominent local politician, Shakespeare's parents would probably have taken him there to see the players.

However it happened, young Will went to London to make his fortune. He came back rich, moved into New Place, rented 112 acres of land from the Guild church and started work on his own coat-of-arms, according to guide Thompson.

"He's buried in the churchyard, not because he was a great writer but because he was prosperous," Thompson says. "The family died out because one of his sons died, one daughter had three children who died. and his daughter, Susannah, had a daughter who chewed nutmeg, which makes you sterile.

It matters not whether this history is accurate; it gives you the flavor of the town in which William Shakespeare lived and points you to the buildings of

The fifth building is Hallscroft, where Shakespeare's daughter, Susannah, and her husband John Hall lived. They moved from there to New Place after Shakespeare died because he left his estate to Hall on condition that Anne Hathaway have "the sec-

There are other things in Stratford. Coffee with the locals upstairs in the Cobweb on Sheep Street. Dinner with the young people at the Opposition, or the Rose and Crown nearby. Tour boats or canal boats on the river. And, of course, the theater, which must not be missed.

If you become too reverent towards old and famous writers and their words, some local person may remind you that in Shakespeare's day there was a saying that went something like "The cause of plague is sin and the cause of sin is players. Therefore the players cause the plague.

Export firm aims for $12 million sales mark

By MAURIE WALKER

Among the many industries and businesses headquartered in Livonia is a rapidly growing firm that is known throughout the world.

Mec-Rep-Co International Inc. at 13211 Merriman Road, has, in six years, grown from a small business originally in Plymouth, to a 32employee firm now expanding out of Livonia with offices in such countries as France, Saudi Arabia and West and Central Africa.

Mec-Rep-Co is a leader in international heavy construction equipment sales and product support, and maintains operations in key cities throughout the world.

From its U.S. headquarters in Livonia, housed in a 36,000 square feet office and warehouse, the firm not only ships such equipment as tractors, trucks, boilers and bulldozers around the world, but also supplying parts, components and assemblies worldwide

Under the direction of its president, E.H. Leonhardt, the firm is expected to do an estimated minimum business of $12 million this year

In addition to the export operation, Mec-Rep-Co provides export management, engineering maintenance and training services to its customers

Robert Adams, vice president of finance, said his company represents some 50 different manufacturers including J. I. Case, Cummins Engine

"Our sales and technical personnel travel extensively in the countries we supply. We service what we sell. Professional mechanics maintain and overhaul heavy equipment, assuring the customer of maximum operating usefulness and life of the equipment." Adams said.

"Engineering and management consulting in the heavy machinery applications are available from MRC. This service assists our customers in procuring the right machinery for the provides the instructors for training when required by the customer.

"We recognize the need for qualified operators, technicians and mechanics. Heavy machinery is more complex today than ever before and requires trained personnel to operate and maintain.

"The latest techniques in training are being developed by MRC such as automated teaching systems with selfpaced instruction and student response. Basic skills training in third world countries are available to meet the demand for qualified personnel."

Airport development is another field MRC is involved in.

The firm has built some 14 control towers in Saudi Arabia and the Mid East. The company has constructed more than 65 control towers in the United States, including Ann Arbor and Benton Harbor.

MRC has installed sophisticated solid state air traffic control displays in Mid East and West Africa. This new system, developed by Texas Instruments, provides an improvement in stability and reliability with increased performance, Adams said. The firm is working on the installation of a technical training center and engine repair center in Saudi Arbia.

Customers from all over the world travel to the Livonia headquarters to discuss orders.

Recently Rene Ligue, Ivory Coast buyer for Sodepalm, West Africa, paid his second visit here. He is in the palm oil business. MRC is now planning an office on the Ivory Coast, a section of French Africa that stretches 300 miles east to west along the Atlantic Ocean.

Adams said what the company offers is consolidation rather than a firm having to make several shipments.

"Everything comes to our warehouse in Livonia and is shipped in one lot either by air or ship to the customer. This way we are able to give our customers a complete shipment of parts and equipment rather than they having to get it in sections."

By BETTY MASSON Special Writer

Why do many small businesses fail to survive their first year?

"Lack of planning," says Livonia attorney Robert R. Thompson, who has been keeping a close eye on the small business world for more than five years.

"Statistics are difficult to come by," says Thompson, "but there are 750,000 new businesses opened every year, and there are 500,000 discontinuances. Not all of these are failures, but many Since 1973. Thompson has conducted yearly workshops for aspiring businessmen at Schoolcraft College, under the title "How to Start Your Own

This year's workshop will begin Friday evening, Sept. 22, from 6:30 to 10, and will continue Saturday, Sept 23, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Cost is $95 and registrations are now being taken at the college.

The workshop is part of the Community Services schedule. One of Thompson's law partners, Leonard Mier, assists him in the presentations.

BESIDES THE WORKSHOPS. Thompson has come up with a new way to help people get started in their own businesses, and has found still another career for himself-author and, later this year, TV personality.

His book is. "How to Start Your Own and Make Money." It is published by Merchants Publishing Company of Kalamazoo and sells for

The publishers have just made arrangements to distribute the book through Kmart and several other retail outlets. According to Thompson, the publishers "perceive continued use, like J. K. Lasser's Tax Guide, for the next 10 years. They are looking for sales of 100,000 in the first 12 months."

The book also will be distributed by Hawthorne Books, which predicts 20,000 copies in catalog sales.

'And I am now embarking on a national TV talk show schedule, which I didn't have any idea of anticipating," Thompson said.

'The publisher is now making arrangements with Mery Griffin and Richard A. Mac, a native of Livonia, has been named manager of the Gonzales, La., branch of Dixie Bearings Inc. A graduate of Livonia Franklin High School, Mac served in the air force from 1968 to 1972. He joined Dixie Bearings as a salesman following his discharge. The firm is a subsidiary of Bearings Inc., a distributor of bearings, bearing specialties and power transmission equipment. The company operates 181 sales and service centers in 27 states.

Robert R. Thompson has found that teaching a workshop on how to open a new business has led to a new personal career as author and TV personality.

some of the other big talk shows, and I will be getting a firm schedule

He has already taped TV and radio shows for airing in Kalamazoo and will visit 11 cities in the U.S. for radio and TV appearances. He is also planning to arrange workshops in each of

"IT'S SOMETHING that has simply dropped out of the blue," said Thompson, "and what I really think has happened here is that in teaching a course in how to start your own business, that course in itself, the very act of teaching, has turned into a small business. Isn't that ironic?'

"I am really indebted to Schoolcraft," he continued.

5 are on panel for discussion of trade issues

A panel of five persons will lead the discussion at the Livonia Chamber of Commerce's third "Business Helping Business' seminar at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 13.

Panelists include Barbara Crawford. of the Livonia Mall Merchants Association; Howard Disbrow, Awrey Bakeries; Dave Griffin, Michigan National Bank-West Metro; Russ Lunn, Lunn & Ferrell, CPA, and Robert Thompson, Krandle, Thompson & Mier.

The seminar will be held in the chamber office, 15401 Farmington Road. Any businessperson is welcome to attend without charge, but reservations should be made in advance by calling 427-2122.

The series of seminars on business problems is being sponsored by the chamber's business and economic development council. Richard Dickshott, vice-president of the council, commented:

"I believe that the insight and technical advice given by panel members has been of value to those participating in the sessions. We hope to be of continued assistance to the small businessperson who is interested in the success of his business and the welfare of the business community."

Thompson recalled that he first offered to present the course for the Livonia Public Schools and for Schoolcraft College as a result of "seeing a lot of people have serious problems in starting a business.

Schoolcraft accepted his idea and his services, and classes which began with an attendance of about 30 students now number 70 to 80. His students have included many educators, teachers, engineers, couples, recent college graduates and housewives.

Some of these, as he mentions in his book, have gone on to establish highly successful businesses.

THOMPSON'S BACKGROUND includes setting up his own business, his law firm, which since 1967 has grown from one attorney to five. One of the latest employees is his son.

Thompson began his studies in chemical engineering at the University of Toledo, but after two years of college he was married and joined the Returning to civilian life, he completed his undergraduate work in mathematics at Toledo, and received his graduate degree in physics from the University of Detroit. He worked as a physicist until 1966.

"I was doing a lot of contract work for Bendix," he said, "and I thought it would be nice to take a course in contracts at the Detroit College of Law. So I did, and I got hooked on law."

Except for the first two years, Thompson, 48, did all of his college work at night school and held down a fulltime job.

So hard work is nothing new to him. And the first thing his book indicates is that a lot of hard work goes into planning a business.

But the language of the book is clear, work sheets are included to make it easier to take the necessary steps in logical order, and there is even humor to lighten the load.

One of his sample company presidents graduated from "Hadaball University," and the treasurer is named "Betty Balance."

IS OPENING your own business worth the effort? Thompson firmly believes the answer is yes.

"Between 70 and 75 per cent of everyone in this country who is in the 50 per cent tax bracket or greater is in his own business," he points out. The 50 per cent bracket begins at an annual income of around $47,000.

Thompson admits that a lot of paperwork is involved when running a business. State legislatures, he said, do not recognize the difference between a large business, which can handle the government regulations paperwork, and a small business, which is deluged. "It is a big problem," he said, "but I don't think it's a problem that's going to interfere with a person's ability to make a sizable income in his own business, because I'm aware of the statistics that show the people in their own businesses are earning the big money. They do surmount this problem. "If you've done any traveling at all.

if you've gone around the world, you come back to the U.S., and if you're like me, you find you are full of admiration for the climate, or whatever it is in this country, that produces people who will go into business.

"They'll do things for themselves," Thompson said. "They'll overcome impediments. We don't lay down on our backs and give up easily in this country

"If it takes three people to do the paperwork," he continued, "I am convinced that the business person in this country will find a way to get those three people, pay them the wages they require, and still make a profit."

THROUGH HIS WORK with businessmen and with the Small Business Investment Companies, Thompson picks up indications of what should be lucrative businesses in the future.

"A lot of people believe the day is coming when you are going to find telephones in cars very popular," he said. "Now that's a new industry being sensed in the CB field. Others are CB outlets themselves, computer sources, software (program material) as well as hardware, waste disposal, anything having to do with energy, janitorial services and food services.

Although these fields are fairly new and generally not yet overcrowded, competition should not scare the small businessman, said Thompson.

He believes that another area for growth is that of weight reduction. Although there are "some big people, like TOPS, in this field," there is also a great demand Bad businesses to be in? Thompson could not think of any, except possibly construction, which had a slump in 1975-76. "The situation is constantly changing," he said. "I guess I see opportunities everywhere.

One factor which can affect the success or failure of a business is timing, according to Thompson. Late summer, early fall, is a good time to open a business, since many merchants do a large percentage of their total business in the last months of the year.

New Kroger store will open Sunday

The Kroger Food Store chain, headquartered in Livonia, has announced it will open the newest of its western Wayne County stores at 9 a.m. Sunday,

It is at 36111 Michigan Ave. in the Wayne Commons Shopping Center.

Calling it a "superstore," Kroger vice-president David A. Burt said it is "much larger than a regular store." It will operate on a 24-hour basis Monday through Saturday and from 9 to 9 on Sundays. There will be approximately 75 employees.

The store features four departments: Grocery, meat, produce and delicatessen. A grand opening celebration is planned for Sunday.

Drug chain reports new earnings peak; stock issue planned

On the heels of its revelation of record earnings, Perry Drug Stores, Inc., last week announced it has filed a registration statement with the Securities and Exchange Commission in connection with a proposed public offering of 300,000 shares of its common stock.

Jack A. Robinson, board chairman and president of the chain which operates 55 stores in 40 Michigan communities, said proceeds will be used to reduce short term borrowings which have been utilized to finance the company's expansion program.

When completed, the offering will boost the company's total common shares outstanding to 1,512,943 shares. The offering will be made by The Ohio Company.

The third quarter, ended July 31, was Perry's 13th consecutive quarter of record operating results. Ninemonth earnings were higher than for any previous entire fiscal year.

Third quarter profit climbed 24 per cent to $553,825, or 45 cents a share. from $446,764, or 37 cents a share, in the same period a year ago, Robinson

Sales rose 28 per cent to $23,246,750 from $18,145,527

For the nine-month period, profit was up 23 per cent to $1,710,588, or $1.41 a share, from $1,391,326, or $1.16 a share, the year before

Perry, in all of fiscal 1977, earned $1,708,358 The chain's 55 stores represents an increase of five over the number of stores Perry was operating at the end of its fiscal 1977 year.

The company also has added six auto-home centers inside its larger stores, the total now standing at 16. and has boosted the number of optical centers from nine to 14.

Perry will open its first stores in Bay City and Saginaw before the end of fiscal 1978

Market Watch

By JOHN E. VERNIER

Recent hectic trading activity in the casino stocks has forced the New York Stock Exchange to impose higher margin requirements in this group. By increasing the initial margin deposit, it is hoped that this will settle the market in these stocks.

What is a margin account? It is an account in which an individual may purchase stock and not pay for it in full. The broker arranges a loan against the stock which is held in the account as collateral There are three separate agencies that have the power to regulate margin conditions: the Federal Reserve, the New York Stock Exchange, and each individual brokerage firm.

It will increase or decrease the requirement based on the over-all condition of the stock market. As the market declines and speculative activity diminishes, the required initial deposit will be reduced.

As the market rises and trading activity increases, the Fed will raise the requirement. In recent years, the rate has ranged between 50 per cent and 90 per cent. The present requirement is 50 per cent.

Through this power the Fed has the means to either encourage or discourage stock market enthusiasm.

WHILE THE FED is basically concerned with the initial margin requirement, it is the responsibility of the NYSE and the individual brokerage firm to see that adequate equity is maintained.

If, for example, a trader purchases $10,000 worth of stock on margin, the Federal requirement calls for a deposit of 50 per cent of that amount. or $5,000.

There are three factors that now exist, once the account is opened: The total value is represented by the market value, the debit balance which is the amount borrowed, and the difference between those two which represents the stock holder's equity.

Since the debit balance is a constant, the investor's equity will rise and fall as the market value changes

If the total value of the stock increases, for example, to $20,000, then the equity has now increased to $15,000. On the other hand, if the market value decreases to $5,000, then there would be zero equity.

OBVIOUSLY, CERTAIN minimum equity requirements must be established to protect the lender.

The NYSE has for many years required a minimum equity of 25 per

In the above example the investor would be required to deposit additional collateral if the market value dropped below $6,666.

Memorable school days - By W.W. EDGAR Every year about this time when he sees the young folks climb aboard the Pennsylvania Dutch called "book learning." Back in those days we didn't have buses to take us to the old school buildings. We had to walk-come winter's heavy snows or the wild spring rain storms. And even then we had fun tossing snowballs. The only time it wasn't funny when we had the misfortune to get stuck in the snow.

buses on their way to school The Stroller can't help wondering if they are heading for the good times he enjoyed when he was first exposed to what the

It was inside the classroom where he had the most fun. It was there that we mingled with the Dutch kids who had a great time mangling the King's English. If we were to hear it today there would be the suspicion that the youngsters were dealing in a foreign language.

As The Stroller watched the youngsters climb aboard the bus the other morning he wondered if the modern teachers still use copy books to teach both spelling and writing. It was through these books that The Stroller learned much of his spelling.

THERE WAS ONE morning he still remembers with a laugh.

It was during a penmanship class in which we were to write series of sentences of our own choosing. As the teachers walked up and down the aisles she came to a little Dutch boy from the farm area who seemed to be in trouble.

He was sitting at his desk with his head resting on the palm of his left

"Are you having any trouble?" the teacher asked as she looked over his shoulder and saw the letters "b-e-f-o-

The little Dutch lad looked up at her and asked in return, "Belongs it an e behind before.'

The Stroller

He asked it loud enough than not only the teacher but the entire class laughed. And it has been remembered down through the years as one of the most laughable of all the moments The Stroller enjoyed during his school

Another great moment comes to mind when he sees the young folks start off to school. It was the practice then to have recitation each Friday afternoon. It was our way of closing

One by one we would be called upon to walk up front and then recite a verse or two, even though, at times, they didn't rhyme.

On this particular Friday little Johnny, the lad who had been stuck in the penmanship class, had just returned from a long vacation trip with his parents.

Stepping to the front of the room, he took his stance and then offered these never to be forgotten lines

"The more you travel this world

The more you find be Jesus out."

THE STROLLER HAS good cause to remember the afternoon because he was responsible for ending the recitation program.

When it came his turn he quickly stepped to the front and with all the air of an accomplished speaker offered

"Holy Moses, jumping Josephs, Don't the sheeneys have big noses."

these lines:

The teacher was aghast for his lines didn't rhyme and the word "sheeney" was the slang referral to the members of the Jewish faith. She didn't hesitate when The Stroller had finished. She immediately announced that there would be no more speeches. She had good reason

Another of his laughable memories of school days came one month when we received our report cards with our standing in class recorded.

No sooner had little Mary Jones received her card and noted that she was ranked at the head of the class she arose, very proudly, and said:

"I used to be behind before now I am first at last.

No wonder The Stroller wonders if the school children of today are having as much fun as he had. The memories of his days in the classroom never will be forgotten.

PLYMOUTH Suzuki students were well-represented at the annual Suzuki Institute at the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point.

Jesse Seay, a fourth year Suzuki student, celebrated his 11th birthday during his week at the institute. Jesse and his parents, Ryal and Joan Seay of Parkview Drive in Plymouth have attended the U-W seminars for the past four years.

It was a busy schedule for the young musicians. Jesse had four hour-long classes each day. There was also a class in reading music.

"It was a marvelous vacation," said Joan Seay. "We stayed in the dormitory and ate in the dormitory. There were classes for parents and panel discussions on when a child should start a second instrument. We could attend any of children's classes."

There were 700 violinists, 150 cellists and 150 pianists attending the second week of the institute, which was for the more advanced students. They came from all over the world—even Arabia.

Suzuki flute instruction was introduced for the first time in this country by Toshio Takahashi, a Japanese flute teacher. He brought two of his students.

His prize pupil, Takeaki Miyamae, appeared in concert.

"I have a two-hour tape of his recital," said Joan Seay. "He has been taking flute lessons for 2½ years and he is a virtuoso." She added that they do not begin on miniature flutes as they they do in the Suzuki violin classes. They start out on full-size flutes, but because of their teeth, cannot begin at 3 or 4 years of age as they do on violins.

Jesse plays in the Plymouth Youth Symphony. Harold Hanson, one of the original Suzuki violin students when the Plymouth group was formed, also is a member of the youth symphony.

Members of the Plymouth Suzuki Association who attended the first week of the Wisconsin institute were: Catherine Kolich of Northville; Kaiulani, Kamehame and Maria Lie of Canton Township; Janice and Krysten Prokopenko of Livonia; Jane Lindamood of Plymouth; Cindy Leinonen of Livonia; and Dmitri, Ean and Nicole Willeumier of Plymouth.

THERE'S A STROLLING violinist at the Northwoods Supper Club in Marquette. A very attractive young lady who entertains the guests with her own selections and seldom is stumped by a request number.

When exuberant University of Michigan fans ask for "The Victors," she obliges. But after a few bars she may lapse into Michigan State's fight song—with a definite twinkle in her eve

The young entertainer is Janice Shier, a 1972 graduate of Plymouth High School. She graduated from MSU before receiving a graduate assistantship at Northern Michigan University for two years. Janice will be teaching in the Marquette schools' string program this fall.

Since she has been responding to requests, she has come to dread two favorites—"Lara's Theme" and "Fiddler on the Roof." In fact, she has worked up a definite hatred for them.

She says she knows most of the old songs because she remembers her mother singing them around the house. Her mother, the late Evelyn Shier, was founder of the Plymouth Rockettes.

"I think Evelyn started the Rockettes in the school year of '69," said Bill Brown, principal at Plymouth Salem High School. Evelyn was a library aide at the school.

"At that time, we were trying to get the girls involved in more extra-curricular activities. There were the cheerleaders and that was it. There was no money in the budget but Evelyn persisted. They even went out to Metropolitan Airport and washed planes. At that time, groups could earn extra money by hosing down planes out there."

Evelyn was a lovely lady. "She left her mark on this school," said Bill Brown. "And she kept her sense of humor all the way, even to the last time I saw her, just two days before she died."

Evelyn's Rockettes have become a tradition at Plymouth Salem. When Plymouth Canton High School was built, the Chiefettes came into being. The groups march in our parades and their routines add colors to high school sporting events.

Janice says working in the supper club has been a marvelous experience for her. She used to feel a certain reticence and shyness when meeting new people.

"I'm not shy any more," she said. "I enjoy people."

had an unusual visitor. A green and yellow parakeet has been visiting their bird feeder, very regularly, three times a day.

"He comes for breakfast, lunch, and between 5 and 6 p.m. for his supper."

Early American Shop received a second place ribbon for a window decorated by a professional.

Grand over-all first place award went to Beitner's Jewelry Store on Ann Arbor Trail. (Staff photos by Gary Caskey)

Shop windows decorated for annual fall festival

Judges awarded first grand prize overall to Beitner Jewelry for the best decorated store window in the 1978 Fall Festival contest. Second grand prize overall went to Chuck Avis and Wayside Gifts.

A panel of four judges made the rounds Friday afternoon. They were Plymouth Historical Museum director Barbara Saunders, Bev Hoisington, Geneva Guenther and Chuck Avis. The contest was chaired by Nancy Petrocelli of the Green Thumb.

Theme for the windows was the Gay Nineties. The judges considered four points—the window must coincide with theme, must have authenticity, must be well thought-out, and must have eye appeal.

The Fife and Drum Corps earned honorable mention for its display in Wiltse's Pharmacy window. It was the only youth group to enter.

The Plymouth branch Woman's National Farm and Garden Association was awarded first place for its display at John Smith Men's Wear.

The category was adult organizations. Second place went to the American Association of University Women for the Wine and Cheese Barn window. It featured old cast iron toys—a fire wagon, automobile, tractor and farm equipment. There was an old toy sewing machine, building blocks and a doll in a wicker chair.

GAREY BEGLINGER and Wilma Halliburton collaborated on the window at Garey B. Interiors, which won first prize for professionals. The Early American Shop came in second and the window at Minerva's Dunning's was third.

The latter was the work of Sharon Andrews. Focal point in the window was an old treadle Singer sewing machine. There were beautifully handmade dresses and a camisole, old irons, buttons and hosiery.

Serapha Moore was a first place winner again this year in the individual non-merchant category. She decorated a Pick O' the Wick window using dolls for a realistic kitchen scene.

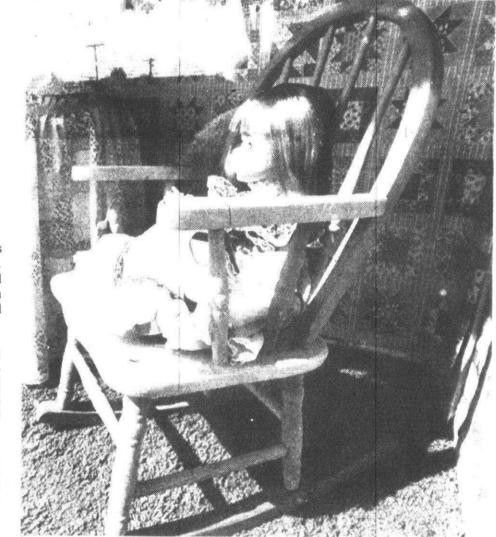

Kathie Gornick decorated a window in Kay's which was awarded second prize. Sandra Richards was responsible for the window at Famous Men's Wear which received third place. There was unusual caning on old chairs, a gone-with-the-wind lamp with a poinsettia on the shade and fine old antiques.

BEITNER'S window was decorated by Bill Beitner's wife, Elaine. As winner individual merchant winner and grand champion overall, the added prize of dinner for two at Hillside Inn's Bottom of the Hill was awarded.

Chuck Avis, who came in second in both categories, received four tickets to the Growthworks art auction. Fox Photo came in third. The window was decorated by Jan Rusch of Things in the Attic.

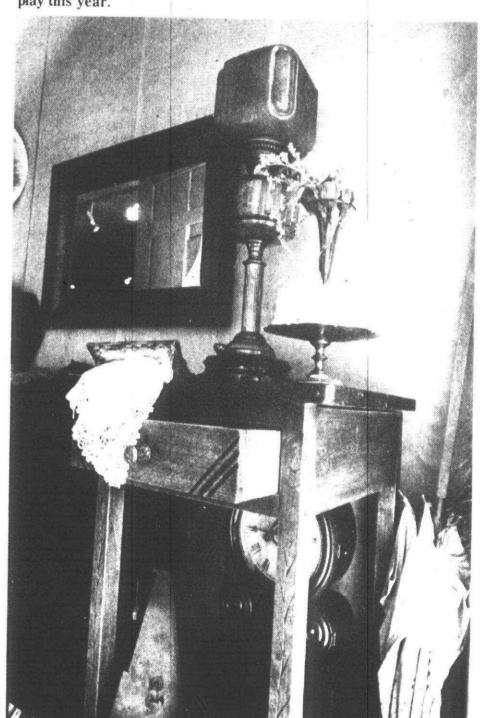

Honorable mentions went to the Plymouth Observer for a display of old newspapers and print shop items; Mel's Golden Razor for decorating Bluford's window with old razors, 1885 hair clippers, curling irons and marcel waving irons; the Plymouth Historical Society's display in Me and Mr Jones; and Daisy Proctor's treatment of Norman's windows on Ann Arbor Trail.

Pease Paint, first place winner last year, had another colorful display this year.

The Pick O' the Pick window was awarded first place for individual non-merchant category.

Kathie Gornick decorated Kay's window and her display won second place in the individual non-merchant category.

90th birthday marked by longtime resident

Anna Krumm canned her tomátoes last Tuesday. Wednesday, Sept. 6 was her 90th birthday. She got the tomatoes out of the way so she could spend the next day greeting a steady stream of visiting relatives and friends who came to wish her many happy

The neighbors came for birthday cake and ice cream on Sunday.

Mrs. Krumm was born in Germany in 1888. The family moved to Detroit when she was a child. Her dad farmed near Bell Branch, which was located in what is now Redford Township.

"There was a store, a church and a school," she recalls. She was just 12 years old when she first saw the man who was to be her husband for 59

'Bert was husking corn in a field beside the road. We were walking home from school and he whistled. I waved back.

Anna Dumka and Bert Krumm were married in 1908 in the Lutheran Church at Five Mile and Farmington for the party. At that time, Mrs. Krumm credited hard work for their good health and and youthful attitude. Bert Kra.am died nine years later.

During her years at 593 Ann Street, Anna Krumm's large white sugar cookies (made with sour cream) have been popular with generations of neighborhood children. She loved them all and was their comforter when they were sad. Those sugar cookies, a hug, and conversation with Mrs. Krumm were real tear-stoppers.

She is a long-time member of St. Peter Lutheran Church It was her molasses cookies that were responsible for her reputaion as a fine cook at church bazaars.

"I haven't made them for about three years," she said. "They are a lot more work than the sour cream

The cookies are also favorites of her eight grandchildren and 17 greatgrandchildren. Anna Krumm fulfills everyone's image of what a greatgrandmother should be-and it all comes as naturally as the lady herself.

Road in Livonia. They called it Livonia Center then and it was pronounced Lye-vonia, with the emphasis on the first syllable, the way the oldtimers say it still.

The 20-year-old bride and her husband moved to the Krumm farm on Wayne Road near Plymouth Road. She has memories of "mud that deep (holding her hand about two feet from the floor) on Plymouth Road. We had to start out at midnight to take our produce to market in Detroit. We had to get there in time to get our regular stall." They went to the old Western Market that no longer exists.

THEY LATER moved to another farm on Farmington Road and returned to Plymouth in 1932. They had five children, one of whom died as a baby. The other four, Mrs. Ione Gow, Mrs. Gladys McBride, Mrs. Marion Robertson, and son, Bud Krumm. planned the 50th wedding anniversary celebration for their parents in 1958. Friends, neighbors and family gathered at the VFW Hall on Mill Street

Anna Krumm especially enjoyed the shower of cards she received for her 90th birthday

How to stay on diets at fast food diners

By NANCY AUSTIN

Hold the pickles, hold the let-"We do it all for you." 'Finger Lickin' Good,""Let Yourself "Delicious Change of Taste," Square Meal, Square Deal.

Can you match these slogans to a fast food restaurant? If you get them all right, maybe you are a "junk food If not, it really doesn't

With the opening of Wendy's Hamburgers on Ann Arbor Road in Plymouth, you can eat at just about every fast-food franchise that strikes your fancy, or impulse,

It is incredible that Wendy's even thinks there is room for competition in our fast food strip. But the marketing opinion and research people, looking for a bigger bite of the action, are convinced there is room. With everyone in a hurry-up situation these days, they mus be right.

BUT WHAT ABOUT your diet? What about nutrition? Can you maintun a semblence of diet when the people in the office suggest a fast food

Or maybe you have to work latetoo late to cook when you get home. A tast hamburger will solve the problem. Tired of thinking up a different meal for your family every night of the week? A barrel of crispy chicken will probably be met with enthusiastic oooohs and aaaaahs. Or maybe you are craving for a burrito, or a taco overtakes your willpower when the Taco Bell rings. Can you stay on your

Of course you can. It would be foolish and unrealistic to tell you to avoid these places. The golden arches are firmly planted in the American scene and have, indeed, become a way of

What you should know is how to cut down on calories whenever you can.

Just don't be fooled into thinking that fish is a safe choice for a dieter. Nothing can be further from the truth. For example, did you know that a standard order of fish and chips plus coleslaw from Arthur Treacher's adds up to 740 calories? If you are on a 1,000 calorie diet you only have about 250 calories for your other two meals. However, Arthur Treacher has fewer calories than Long John Silver, whose same dinner (two pieces of fish) is 955

If the midnight snackies hit you between your pizza pie eyes and you eat half of a Pizza Hut, 13-inch cheese pizza, you put away 900 calories. And since it is late at night, you aren't going to burn off those 900 calories unless you are very active while you are asleep. Aren't you glad you didn't eat the whole thing?

MAYBE HAMBURGERS or fish and chips aren't your style or mood. Maybe you'd rather have steak or prime rib. It is Saturday night and wour're celebrating whatever. A strip steak from the Rustler is 1,086 calories all by itself. Now add their baked potato (231 calories), a salad with blue cheese dressing (164) and a cup of coffee. Total-1,511 calories. No dessert.

How about Sunday morning breakfast at McDonalds? A serving of Egg McMuffin and sausage is 547 calories. And if eggs aren't your style, maybe a dozen Dunkin Donuts would suit you. But before you go mixing and matching, realize that the average yeastraised, fruit-filled delight checks in at 200 calories, and the dozen adds up to 2,400 calories.

Even if calorie consciousness is all you care about, there is no need to completely avoid the chains. Just take a little willpower with you to the order counter. There are alternatives and ways of cutting down.

For example, Burger Chef can be a real bonanza for the dieter. Instead of ordering a Big Chef, fries and shake at 1.085 calories, order a hamburger, pile it high with lettuce, pickles and tomatoes from the "works bar," order a sugarfree drink, and you've saved yourself 825 calories.

Right now, Burger Chef is the only hamburger franchise offering a complete salad bar. If you have the willpower, order a salad and coffee and leave the burgers to the kids. But be careful. The dressing demands dis-

(A side note. Burger Chef is revamping both food and service. A public relations official told me plans currently do not include a diet dressing. But if the demand were great enough, of course, it would be implemented. Maybe Burger Chef is missing the boat by not being the first to offer one. For a company saying they want to start writing some of the rules, here's their chance.)

WHAT IF YOU just have to have an ice cream cone at day's end?

If the local Diary Queen suits you, a small cone is 110 calories, while the large at 340. But if you've saved those 825 calories, you can afford a small

A Baskin-Robbins one-scooper is between 133 and 148 calories. Don't be misled by the popular myth that a sherbet or ice has fewer calories. One scoop is 139.

Taco Bell for ethnic appetites presents a bill of fare including their taco at only 146 calories. That's great if just one taco satisfies you. Heartier appetites commonly require two or three at Munchkins. They will probably satisfy your sweet tooth just as easily as a full-sized donut. And at 26 calories per Munchkin, they are sure to satisfy your waistline.

And what about Wendy's? What will they offer Plymouth residents when they welcome your hopefully open mouths with open arms? Can they meet a dieter's challenge? That remains to be seen. The Wendy's spokesman could not be reached for comment as he wasn't interested in talking about diet on their menu at this time. Does this tell you that their extra juicy burger is more calories than they care to talk about

A final note. If you are a fast food addict, you can be assured that an enterprising nutritionist has devised a fast food diet just for you. He is Dr. Howard Appledorf, a nutritionist and biochemist at the University of Florida in Gainsville. His special diet (he's an admitted junk-food junkie) is designed for men to will lose about three pounds a week, women about a pound and a
