Statement trips Culbert, Roberts

By CAROLINE PRICE

Noel Culbert, a Democratic candidate for Canton supervisor, has been charged with falsifying campaign financial statements by a Republican candidate for trustee.

Gary Roberts, who had supported Culbert in the primary election, filed a complaint Thursday with the Michigan State Election Board claiming Culbert has failed to disclose the entire amount he spent for advertising in local newspapers, as well as omitting names of all persons who contributed more than $20 to Culbert's campaign.

Research conducted by the Observer has revealed that at least one of Roberts' charges is incorrect. But Culbert admits that another charge made by the trustee candidate may be true.

Candidates for political offices are required by law to file statements of financial contributions and expenditures with the state.

The law requires that all contributions amounting to more than $20 must be itemized.

Roberts said in his complaint that Culbert failed to disclose any expenditures made for two ads that ran during the primary in the Canton Eagle.

The trustee candidate also charges that Culbert did not list the entire amount that he actually spent for ads in the Canton Observer or the Plymouth-Canton Community Crier.

Roberts said he compared newspaper ad rates against the number of ads Culbert ran in each paper and the amount listed in the financial statements on file at the Wayne County Clerk's office.

Roberts computed the cost of the ads in the Observer, using the wrong method, apparently confused by the newspaper's use of column widths as opposed to inches.

When the proper formula is used, the amount Culbert lists as paid to the Observer—$596.56—is accurate compared to the size and number of ads Culbert ran in the before the primary election Aug. 8.

Roberts admitted that he "probably made a mistake" when he was notified of the error.

Roberts' claims that three ads Culbert ran in the Crier were not fully disclosed. The price of two ads, at $46 each, is listed in the statement. A third listing for $46 is itemized under "advertising," rather than specifically stating a particular newspaper.

Culbert says this was the cost of the third ad in the paper.

The supervisor candidate agrees that he did run two ads in the Eagle which are apparently not included in his campaign statements. "I don't think it was intentional."

He says one of his checks for ads to the Eagle bounced, which may have caused some confusion. When asked about the charge Roberts made alleging failure to report all contributions of more than $20, Culbert muttered, "He's (Roberts) in serious trouble. He'd better substantiate it. This is totally false."

There appear to be no listings of contributions less than $40 in Culbert's statements.

Culbert's statements do contain an entry of a contribution of $50 attributed to Roberts' wife, Lori.

Roberts says this was not a cash contribution. According to the trustee candidate, Mrs. Roberts delivered and worked on some printed campaign flyers when the two candidates were still supporting each other in the primary. "It was an in-kind contribution," Roberts says.

"No money changed hands."

Roberts did not file a campaign financial statement for the primary because he says his contributions and expenditures totaled less than $500, making him legally free from filing.

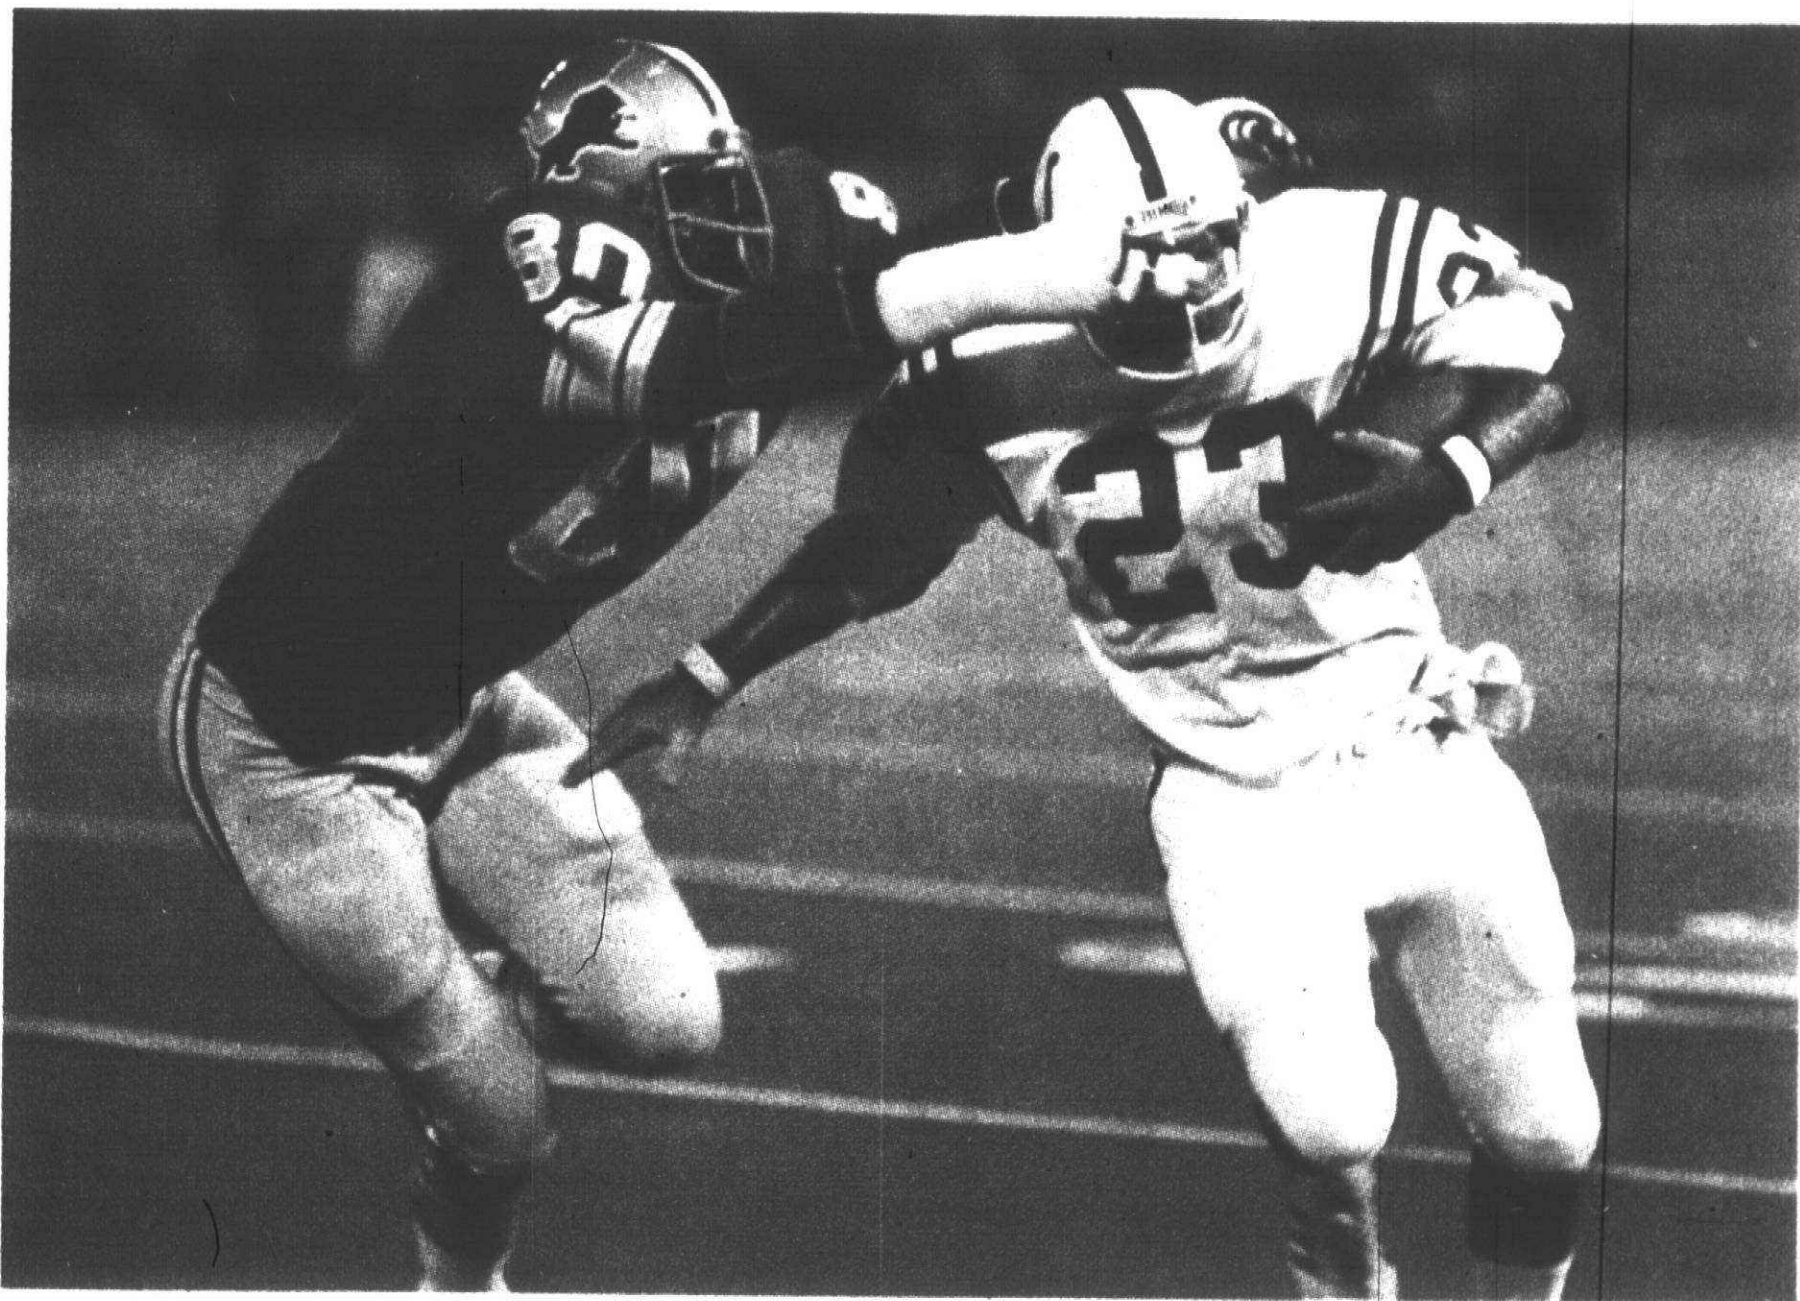

According to Culbert's statement, his committee spent $2,737.82 during the primary.

Now Roberts says "he supports no one but himself."

Culbert says Roberts is just looking for publicity and that he may take legal action.

The election board will have the responsibility of investigating the complaint.

And the campaigns continue.

'It's strictly public relations'

Candidates get builder backers

Home builders in Canton Township contributed nearly $1,000 to the campaign of Supervisor Harold Stein and his teammates in the August primary election, according to campaign financial statements.

Some of the builders who contributed funds have come under attack in recent months by home buyers who charge failure to repair home defects or taking an excessive amount of time to complete new homes.

Some residents and candidates for township office have accused Stein of taking a do-nothing stance with builders.

But at least one builder contacted by the Observer this week said his contribution of $125 to the United Democratic Club of Canton was not an effort to buy pro-builder policies from the incumbent supervisor.

Manny Dembs of Dembs Building Co. said his firm often contributes funds to political organizations in the communities where Dembs homes are constructed.

"It's nothing unusual," said Dembs, one of the builders who has come under home buyers' attacks. "We contribute to Democrats and Republicans as a business procedure. It's strictly public relations."

Other builders who contributed to the United Democratic Club include James Bonadeo of Bonadeo Construction, $200; Alan Lederman of Almar Homes, $200; L. Cervi of Cervi Home

Builders, $200; and Howard Binko of Republic Development Corp., $125.

STEIN SAID he suspects that some of his political opponents will zero in on the builder contributions and say the incumbent supervisor has been "bought."

But Stein, who will stage a write-in campaign in November following his defeat in the primary, insists the contributions will have no effect on his construction policies.

The supervisor noted that the builders contributed the money to the United Democratic Club, which gave primary election endorsements to the Stein slate, U.S. Senate hopeful Carl Levin, State Sen. William Faust (D-Westland) and State Rep. Tom Brown (D-Westland).

"Any money collected was not used just for the campaign of Harold Stein," the supervisor said. "I cannot be bought for just a few dinner tickets. Most of the people who contributed were entertained at fundraisers."

Stein said he contributes to the campaigns of many Democrats who are running for county, state or national offices.

"I'm expected to do these things as a matter of course. I guess it's just the system," he said.

Campaign financial statements listed township attorney Bert Burgoyne as the largest contributor to Stein's campaign. The attorney's law firm contributed $1,000 to the United Democratic Club in October 1977.

Burgoyne said his law firm also contributed to the campaign of former Supervisor Robert Greenstein in the 1976 election.

"As a practical matter, any law firm that represents a political entity is going to favor the incumbent," the attorney said. "You just know where you stand."

Other contributors to Stein's campaign included architect Ned Apigian, who designed The Center recreational complex; Ralls & Hammill, an architectural firm which will design the township's new DPW building; and Robert Wade of Wade, Trim & Associates, the township's planning consultants.

THE RECORDS show that the United Democratic Club spent $9,823 on the Stein team's campaign and received $9,422 in contributions.

Stein contributed $488 of his own money to the campaign.

John Longridge, the only Republican supervisor candidate, was not legally required to list his campaign contributions since his expenditures totalled less than $500.

Larry Bowerman, an unsuccessful Democratic trustee candidate, was the only contender in the trustee race who reported spending more than $500.

Bowerman spent $999 on his campaign, including $809 of his own money.

Panther promoters lose their cheer

By CAROLINE PRICE

Well folks, it's like this: Plymouth-Canton schools have had to make a few cuts to make ends meet. One of the cuts meant no more cheerleader programs at the district's middle schools. That leaves out in the cold a bevy of eighth grade girls at Pioneer Middle School, who had spent all summer anticipating their initiation into the ranks of the cheerleader.

But not for long.

Much to Pioneer administrators' dismay, a group of girls, who had made the squad at the end of last year, have decided to be cheerleaders anyway, with or without school sanction.

They had tee shirts printed at their own expense at the Sound Station, which gave them a discount.

They practiced.

And when the Pioneer Panthers donned their football uniforms for a game after school Thursday, the self-appointed cheerleaders showed up as well as add a liberal helping of school spirit.

"C'mon and do the Panther beat," they chanted, as they executed a few stock cheerleader routines.

They were excited by more than the game. The girls said they had been threatened with expulsion if they went out to cheer. Two of their squad were kept at home by their parents.

The girls, who stopped cheering long enough to tell their story (missing a touchdown by their team in the process), conceded that Pioneer Principal Gerald Elston did say they could cheer if they stayed in the bleachers. "But there aren't any bleachers," pointed out one of the girls, who was quite correct.

"Besides, we can't do routines in the bleachers."

The girls, who hail from both

Plymouth and Canton, said they had, with a few exceptions, been called after tryouts to be official cheerleaders before the program was cut.

They were already disgusted at the beginning of the year, because they claim Elston wanted to begin a "Spirit Squad" in which any student who wanted to could participate as a cheerleader on a rotating basis.

In spite of the threats that the girls said hung over their heads, no one came out to expel them.

According to Elston, no one had even planned to expel them.

"We have asked them to cheer in the bleachers, because it is not a formal school program. We just can't risk the liability and insurance problems," he says.

Elston said he had never told any of the girls they would be expelled. "We didn't even know they were going to be out there."

The principal says the bleachers are going to be put up before the next game.

Although Elston has sympathy for the girls' plight, he did indeed support the concept of a spirit squad before the program was canceled.

"That's what they did at the other middle schools. Pioneer was the only one that had a weeding-out process."

"In the long run, only the girls who are really interested stay with it."

Elston adds that he would like to see more of the girls go into the sports programs that are available.

But the cheerleaders say they want to cheer, not play. "The guys on the team really want us out here," one of the girls commented.

The squad members, as of Thursday, were Tricia Kral, Sherri Fenn, Kelly Porke, Laura Krejcar, Sandy Begin, Connie Choppis, Julie Paulowit, Lisa Sands and Tonya Shah.

Pioneer Middle School's unofficial cheerleaders go through one of their routines.

Philosophers with shotguns!

They're going to be out there soon, with their shotguns and day-glo orange vests and handwarmers.

And by golly, they may even bag themselves a five-point buck to tie on the fender and show the world their prowess as mighty hunters.

I can barely wait.

Hunters like to rationalize their pastime by saying they keep the (please insert deer, rabbit, duck etc.), population under control. This is true.

Hunters like to say they keep themselves in meat by going out and stalking game. This is sometimes true.

Hunters like to think of themselves as being at peace with the Great Outdoors, as philosophers with shotguns. This is really bordering on the ridiculous.

Hunters are always telling everyone how responsible they are. This may be a case of all the alleged responsible hunters going "up north" and leaving the dregs down here.

These objections to hunters do not stem from a Bambi syndrome, i.e. "How can they kill those adorable animals?"

Controlling animal population is necessary to insure that some will survive.

But anyone who has ever lived on wooded property knows just how quickly hunters can wear out their welcome.

It is not advisable to allow small, reddish colored ponies out in the pasture during deer hunting season. I don't think ponies look like deer. Would-be hunters apparently do, as we found out when they started taking pot shots at the pony.

Many hunters, the same ones who would run out of their houses screaming if anyone stepped on their half-acre estates, seem to have no concept of private property when they go out foraging for game.

I noticed that hunters who owned property out in the sticks, as my family does, were usually polite enough to come up and ask before they tried to hunt on our land. If we said no, they said thank you and left. Others were not so considerate.

It is not fun to go out for a stroll in the woods, on your own property, and come face to face with some slob carrying a rifle, especially when that person starts accusing you of scaring away the game.

It can be downright dangerous to go out there when you're dealing with the type who starts blasting away at any hint of movement.

I have my doubts about how much money hunters save by going out and bagging the family dinner.

When you consider the cost of gas to go "up north," combined with equipment, lodging, food, booze and entertainment that many a hunting trip entails, it's a wonder anyone can even break even.

What puzzles me the most about hunting is how anyone can get his jollies from killing something.

I don't think most hunters actually go out believing they are doing the state a great public service, no matter what they say.

And a good many hunters really don't know enough about the outdoors or hunting to be safe with a gun.

As soon as deer season starts, we will read of at least one unfortunate hunter who was shot in the line of duty.

And that kind of tragedy can't be justified at all.

Hadley cycles away from boredom

By W.W. EDGAR

If you are nearing the age of retirement and afraid you might be bored without a job to go to every morning, you should meet Fred Hadley.

A Plymouth resident since he was four years old and now at the ripe age of 64, Fred retired as manager of the Sherwin Williams Paint Store on Penniman Avenue last January. He admits it was one of the finest decisions he ever made.

Riding his bicycle downtown the other afternoon he pulled up to the curb to renew an old acquaintance and confided that if he had it to do over again he would have retired several years ago.

"Every man has a time when he should retire and if they wait too long they might be sorry," he said. "I know

I am having a wonderful time and retiring is far from the bore I had been told it would be."

AS HE SAT astride the bicycle, he enthusiastically told how he now spends his time. He spends most mornings in the garden and later, as the chaplain of Plymouth Rock Lodge F&AM, he, with his wife, visit the sick and some of the oldtimers who relish company.

The one job he inherited—and one which he didn't expect—is washing dishes after a meal. With a chuckle he explained that when he was working Mrs. Hadley took care of everything in the kitchen. Now, when the meal is finished, she leaves the kitchen and it is up to him to finish the job.

Born in Holly, Hadley came to Plymouth 59 years ago. He attended

Plymouth High School, but dropped out at the end of the 11th grade.

"It was a matter of money," he recalls. "I had to get a job."

He found one with the Ford Motor Company. For more than 11 years he toiled faithfully but balked when he was asked to switch over to the afternoon shift.

When he left, it marked the last time he was employed in a factory. In the 1950s he went into business in the sale and servicing of vacuum cleaners with his headquarters at the corner of Main Street and Penniman Avenue.

Later on, when the opening came to take over the management of the Sherwin-Williams outlet on Penniman Avenue, he accepted and remained there until retirement day.

PART OF HIS retirement time now is spent as secretary of the building association of Plymouth Rock Lodge. He looks after the building and its upkeep daily. And his role as the chaplain calls for many trips to the less fortunate members.

Mrs. Hadley is secretary of the order of Eastern Star and often they travel together to visit the sick or attend other Masonic functions.

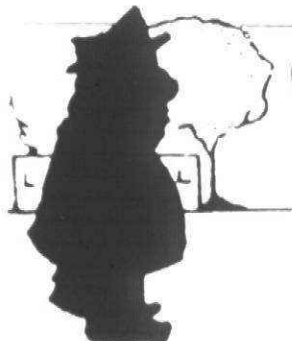

On these nice afternoons he enjoys riding his bicycle downtown to visit old friends, view the sights and run errands for Mrs. Hadley.

There are no two men alike, he tells you, so you can't have a steadfast rule, but every man should look forward to retirement.

"When a fellow works hard most of his life he is entitled to some enjoyment and shouldn't wait too long," Hadley said. "I know I am enjoying my retirement and only wish now that I could have done it a long time ago."

Fred Hadley won't be bored during retirement—as long as his bicycle keeps going. (Staff photo)

The Stroller On corn

By W.W. EDGAR

Each year The Stroller has been playing what amounted to a solo role when he came to the defense of the much maligned dandelion.

When he extolled the virtues of the plants that came up each spring and told of how he and his sisters were raised on dandelion greens with German sour dressing, his listeners twisted their faces and shook their heads in disbelief that the plant which springs up on the lawns and along the highways had anything good about it.

It was a much different story the other day when The Stroller smacked his lips and informed all and sundry that an ear of Golden Bantam sweet corn was a treat to set before a king. Much to his surprise everyone at the table agreed with him.

Among the listeners was Wilford Bunyea, the husky giant from Powell Road in Plymouth Township who brings his steam engine down to the Rotary Club chicken barbecue and furnishes the hot water for boiling the corn.

"It's as fine a bit of eating as you could get," he said, "and the best way to eat it is to go right out in the field, pull an ear from the stalk and eat it right in the bright sun. That's when you realize that corn is a real dish and the sweetness is never better."

WELL, THE STROLLER has been eating corn on the cob for much more than a half century, but he has yet to walk out into the field and eat it right there.

He has indulged in the great dish in many other ways. Each September as he recalls them, his mouth just waters for another of the old-fashioned clam bakes and the midnight lunches when he was employed as a mechanic in the Bethlehem Steel Works back home.

It was on this midnight shift that he got a real treat and he often smiles, even today, when he recalls it.

One hot summer evening, the lads on the midnight shift decided to eat lunch outside. As we took our places in a large circle one of them, rather jokingly, remarked that he'd like a good cob of corn.

No sooner had the words left his mouth than one of the other fellows spoke up and announced that he, too, would like a cob of corn and asked some help in getting it.

"There's a big field of it up the road about a quarter mile and no one would notice us if we just went up there and took what we wanted." Then he added, "and stolen goods might taste better anyway."

So, off we went. A short time later we were back with a burlap bag filled with the corn. Next, the question arose, "how can we prepare it?"

"That's easy," the originator of the scheme said. "We will take it over to furnaces and stick the cobs, husk and all just inside the door. It won't take long to roast."

It didn't. And when we pulled the husks, down and noted the nice, slightly browned kernels, no one could resist. The butter was passed around and no midnight lunch ever tasted any better.

At the finish The Stroller had to admit that it was just about the finest ears of corn he ever had eaten. And if you don't think roasted in the husks is a great dish just try it some time.

UNTIL THAT NIGHT The Stroller was of the opinion that the corn served at the old-fashioned clam bakes was just about the best. But the roasted ears changed his mind just a bit.

At the clam bakes the corn has a much different taste. You see, at the bake the ingredients of the dinner are piled high over a steel plate that covers a huge wood fire.

There is a layer of potatoes, a layer of chicken, than a layer of clams, and a layer of corn and a layer of fish.

As the bake simmers most of the day, the juices run down toward the steel plate and this adds to the deliciousness of the meal. Just imagine, an ear of corn that has had the drippings of chicken clams, and fish and real potatoes flavoring it all day. When it is served late in the afternoon with the clams there is nothing that tickles the palate anymore than the sweet kernels while the butter runs down your chin.

Over the years The Stroller has had stewed corn—mostly out of cans. He has enjoyed the old Pennsylvania Dutch corn pie that is baked in a huge cake dish. This was one of his Mother's specialties.

Firefighters wanted

Volunteers are needed by the Plymouth Township Fire Department.

The department is especially interested in people who are available during the day, but people who can work any time at all are also sought.

Applications for people 18-31 may pick up applications at the central Fire office at 42350 Ann Arbor Road during the day.

Township Firefighter Sgt. Larry Groth says that both men and women may apply for the job. Those selected are required to take 66 hours of training, which Groth says "covers just about everything" that volunteers must know.

Groth says the department was asked to respond to 200 fires in the township last year.

BE A WINNER Through Proper Adjustments

NANCY MORGAN

When I walked into Grassam Chiropractic Life Center I was a mess. I couldn't move my neck, it was completely stiff, to try only caused excruciating pain. I went to a doctor. He gave me muscle relaxers, shots, heat massages and also pain pills, but nothing he gave me helped. To compound my condition I started having complexion problems because of the terrible emotional state I was in, not knowing what was wrong with me and if I would ever get relief. My father then suggested I see a chiropractor since he had seen one at one time. So I dragged myself into see Dr. Grassam. He took x-rays and found out my spine was out of alignment causing cord pressure on my nerve endings. Dr. Grassam suggested a treatment plan for me and that day he started. I am not saying that from the first treatment I was totally cured but it did give me some movement back into my neck. As the treatments progressed I found myself getting better and better. Now my complexion problems have subsided, I am feeling a hundred percent better.

I am at the present time pursuing a career as a professional model thanks to Dr. Grassam getting me back into shape.

I cannot explain how much he helped me not only with the physical problems but the emotional ones too.

JAMES ARNESS

"Several years ago my neck really started killing me after I had taken a bad spill. Physiotherapy gave only temporary relief. A friend of mine recommended chiropractor knew his job. He took x-rays which showed the cause of my trouble. This chiropractor is the only one who really helped me. He explained that my condition took a long time to get that way and it would not become perfect overnight. However, chiropractic has made all the difference! It's a shame more people haven't taken time to find out more about it. I believe each healing profession has a good reason for existing and each man has the right to pick the right doctor for his health problem!"

ROBERT GOULET

"I have no specific problems. I just believe in chiropractic. I started taking chiropractic adjustments because of built-up tensions caused by my very strenuous schedule. Now, whenever I feel tense or start to catch a cold, I go to a chiropractor and get an adjustment. I feel better right away! It releases the tension in my muscles, my blood flows freely and I am healthier!"

No problems! Salem trounces Allen Park

By DENNIS O'CONNOR

It was smooth sailing for Plymouth Salem Friday night, as the Rock grid-ders romped to an easy 35-6 road victory over Allen Park Friday night.

Rock coach Tom Moshimer admitted he didn't think his third straight triumph, and 12th consecutive regular-season victory, would be so easy against an Allen Park squad which gave Suburban Eight League power Edsel Ford so much trouble the week before.

As it turned out, however, the Rocks never had a thing to worry about, as they dominated the action in scoring four touchdowns and a field goal. And if it wasn't for a few costly mistakes, Salem might have scored three more six-pointers before the night was over.

"Our kids played well tonight," the Salem mentor said. "We executed fairly well, and overall we played good defense."

Always the perfectionist however, Moshimer couldn't help but talk about his team's mistakes.

"We still made a lot of mistakes," he said. "We're still a green team and we have a lot of work to do. They (Allen Park) moved the ball on us at times but you can't expect to be great all the time."

The tone of the game was set in the first three minutes of action when defensive tackle Kyle Baker recovered a Jaguar fumble on the fourth play of the contest, giving the Rocks possession on the Allen Park 32-yard line.

Rich Hewlett, Salem's all-state quarterback, wasted no time in capitalizing on the Jaguar turnover. On the third play from scrimmage, Hewlett raced around right end untouched into the endzone for the first score of the game. Rich Hanschu followed the quarterback's 28-yard gallop with the extra-point kick to give the Rocks an early 7-0 lead.

But this was only the beginning.

Defensive end Jeff Powers realized a lineman's dream when he intercepted a pass on Allen Park's next series of downs. Salem once again quickly drove the ball down the field, scoring five plays and 61 yards later.

The Jaguars cracked down on Hewlett this series of downs, but the swift Salem signal caller used the third part of the wishbone option to perfection, pitching the ball to speedy junior Craig Stack on three of the five plays. Stack, who looked strong all night long, gained 53 of the drive's 61 yards before Hewlett took it this time from the half-back position, from three yards out. Hanschu converted again and it was 14-0.

Allen Park scored its only touchdown of the game as a result of a Salem mistake. On the Rocks' next possession, the Plymouth drive stalled and they were forced to punt. Dan Smith's snap from center went over punter Phil Anderson's head and the Jaguars took over on the Salem 20-yard line.

Six plays later, Lou DiAgostino plunged over the one yard line and the score was 14-6.

That's as close as the Jaguars got the rest of the night.

Salem scored again when Hewlett capped a 10-play, 62-yard drive by fall-in into the endzone from one yard out. Hanschu missed the extra-point, however, his first poor kick of the season and the score was 20-6 with 37 seconds left in the half.

The first-half excitement continued, however, when Allen Park fumbled the ensuing kickoff and Salem recovered on the Jaguar 24-yard line.

Hewlett's pass to Craig Stack quickly put the ball on the three-yard line, but the Rocks failed to score despite two attempts as the clock ran out.

The Rocks wasted no time in showing their frustration of missing that late first-half score, when Hewlett hurled a perfect strike to split end Hanschu on the opening play of the third quarter for a 61-yard score.

Hanschu's kick was blocked but Salem held a commanding 26-6 advantage.

In all, Hewlett completed three of four passes for 99 yards. The only incomplete effort was actually caught by Hanschu in the first half but his feet

Salem golfers are 7-0

By BETTY DeLANO

The Plymouth Salem boys golf team won another dual match Friday afternoon, defeating tough non-league foe Northville, 157-160. The Rocks' victory was the seventh straight of the season against no defeats. They are, indeed, one of the hottest golf teams in the state.

The Rocks also defeated Allen Park on Wednesday, 154-178, giving the unbeaten squad two more home victories at the Brae Burn Golf Course.

Going into the Friday match against the Mustangs, both squads had undefeated records. The battle between these two fine squads proved to be a good playing experience for the young linkers.

Ed Thomas headed the Rock golfers, carding a 38 for medalist honors. Craig Stevens added to the 157 total with a round of 39. Bob Jarvis and Blake Lundberg both carded 40s.

"The win against Northville proved that we can play under the amount of pressure that was present," said Salem coach Bob Waters.

"Neither team had the home course advantage because we both practice at Brae Burn during the week. Both teams had been playing well previous to the match and the amount of pressure accounted for the boost in scores."

Northville turned in scores of 39 from Bob Stephens, 40 from Jim Marcicki and Mike Seltz and a 41 from Mike McNamara.

Against Allen Park, senior captain Stevens earned medalist honors with a 37 for the nine-hole round, while Jarvis followed with a 38. Thomas added a 39 and Blake Lundberg finished at 40. The Jaguars' scores included a pair of 42s and a pair of 47s.

With a team average of 36 1/2 for the first two weeks of the season, Waters thinks his squad is the best in the state.

The Rocks will meet Dearborn Edsel Ford Thursday in another Suburban Eight League match. The Rocks will also play in the annual Plymouth Best Ball golf tournament tomorrow morning at Brae Burn starting at 9 a.m. The best-ball event is co-hosted by Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton.

Canton's first loss Chiefs blitzed by Northville

By MIKE LASH

What had been shaping up as a good old-fashioned defensive struggle turned into a nightmare for Plymouth Canton's football squad Friday night.

Coming off a pair of season-opening shutout victories, the Chiefs looked anything but awesome on defense in a 27-6 loss to Northville in their Western Six League opener.

Somehow, Canton's hopes for an upset seemed doomed from the outset. The Chiefs, playing without the services of slotback John Tarr, who suffered a broken bone in his arm a week earlier, found themselves two touchdowns behind before they knew what hit them.

Behind Northville quarterback John Marzoni, running the offense for the first time this season, Northville methodically marched downfield on its first possession and scored on a three-yard touchdown run by Don Borthwick, capping a 59-yard drive in 13 plays.

Then, on Canton's first play from scrimmage following the kickoff, star running back Rusty Mandle suffered a slight shoulder injury that wound up affecting him the rest of the night.

Two play later, Marzoni, doubling as a linebacker, scooped up a Canton fumble at the 10-yard line and rambled in for Northville's second touchdown.

With the game less than eight minutes old, the Mustangs had a 14-0 lead, and from there on, the game belonged to the visitors.

"They just came out and beat us," coach Dave Schuele said of the Mustangs afterwards. "Offensively, they were very quick off the ball."

"On defense, they gave us a little 4-4 formation that we had a difficult time with. We had planned to throw the ball a little more, but not as much as we did."

Canton's running game, in fact, was almost completely shut down. The Chiefs picked up only 32 yards on the ground in the first half and 74 in all, forcing quarterback Scott Dawson to the air.

He was fairly effectively, hitting eight of 17 attempts for 105 yards and one touchdown, although he also threw two interceptions. But six of his completions came on desperation drives in the last six minutes of the game, when things were already out of hand.

Rock cagers slop past Belleville

Plymouth Salem's girls' basketball team overcame a rag-tag, sloppy performance to defeat Belleville 52-34 in the Suburban Eight League opener for both teams at the Tiger gymnasium.

Although the Rock victory wasn't as smooth as others, coach Bob Blohm was nonetheless pleased to get out of Belleville with his fourth straight win of the season.

Salem is now gearing up for a big battle against rival Redford Union at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday night in the Salem gymnasium. The Panthers, coached by Ken Dersey, won the Suburban Eight League championship last season. Salem finished second.

This year, the game is a non-league affair since RU now competes in the Northwest Suburban League. However, this doesn't take away from the rivalry, according to Blohm.

"The girls want to beat Redford Union simply because they didn't like losing the championship to them last year," Blohm said.

If the unbeaten Rocks are going to beat the tough Panthers, they will have to show more than they did against a much-improved Belleville team. Coach Tom Neimi's squad gave Salem a tough game, despite the 22-point margin of victory.

The Rocks jumped out to a 10-2 league in the first four minutes of play before Belleville began its surge. The Tigers cut Salem's lead to 14-11 after the first quarter and was still in striking range at halftime, trailing 23-18.

The Rocks finally took control of the action in the third quarter and scored 12 points to the Tigers' six for a 35-24 lead going into the final quarter.

Blohm was not happy with his team's defense in this ragged, physical battle which saw a total of 48 personal fouls committed—28 for Belleville and 20 for Salem.

"In spots we played well but we have to have consistency to beat teams like Bentley, Redford Union and Canton," the Salem coach said. "Belleville got inside too much and we didn't bring the ball off the board well. I was pleased with the way we played in the second half. We've got to win games like this if you are one of the tops in the league. It was just a dog-day game—rugged and physical."

Junior guard Nan Horwood led the Salem offensive attack with 14 points. Junior Patty Weidman added 10. Erin Moore netted eight and Doris Hoelscher came off the bench to score six.

Salem converted on 14 of 36 free throws, while Belleville made only six of 24.

Fundraisers necessary

It was 3:45 p.m. Wednesday afternoon and the phone rang at my Ann Arbor home. Bridget Lucas, the Plymouth-Canton Observer's lovely receptionist, was frantic. She told me to call Plymouth Salem wrestling coach Ron Krueger immediately because it was an emergency—a hot story I couldn't pass up.

Well, since Wednesday's my day off, a small reward for staying up all night Tuesday typing girls basketball and girls swim stories, I never got back to the Salem mentor until Thursday night.

When I did get a hold of him I found out the emergency was, of all things, a request to run a notice about an apple sale.

My first reaction, of course, was why in the world would Krueger upset Bridget over a so-called emergency of an apple sale. Krueger went on to explain that the apple sale was being conducted by six Salem boys athletic teams to help raise money for the financially depleted sports program.

While this may not seem like an emergency at first, I could see Krueger's point of concern.

He, along with most other coaches at the Centennial Park, are very concerned about running top-notch programs to help offer all the youngsters the best opportunities available in athletics.

Because of recent budget cuts, however, all the coaches are finding it more difficult to provide such opportunities because of the sudden lack of funds.

Why, just the other day, a reliable source told me about the recent elimination of the athletic department giving out varsity awards. It's one thing for the varsity letter winner to purchase his or her own sweater and jacket if he or she chooses, but now the athletes have to buy the letter and award they earned if they want a keepsake.

This probably has to be one of the weakest cuts any budget has to make. I suppose, however, the response to this will be "we didn't have the money in the budget, and it was more important to keep our present programs."

If the money is not there, I can see doing away with a lot of extras. But to take away the letter and award which many athletes strive for may be going one step too far.

So when Krueger, or any other coach, calls and thinks it's an emergency to contact me about a fundraiser, I'll probably think twice the next time around. For it's important to these coaches to raise that extra money to help maintain as much of the "extras" each student-athlete cherishes.

Apples anyone? Call the Salem physical education office at 453-3100, ext. 247. It seems that fundraisers are the only way varsity programs can maintain the high standard each one hopes to achieve.

Churchill tops Canton netters

The only two survivors for the Plymouth Canton girls tennis team Wednesday afternoon were Bridget McNamara and Kim Young.

The duo competed in second doubles for the Chiefs and took their Livonia Churchill opponents in split sets, 1-6, 6-2, 7-6.

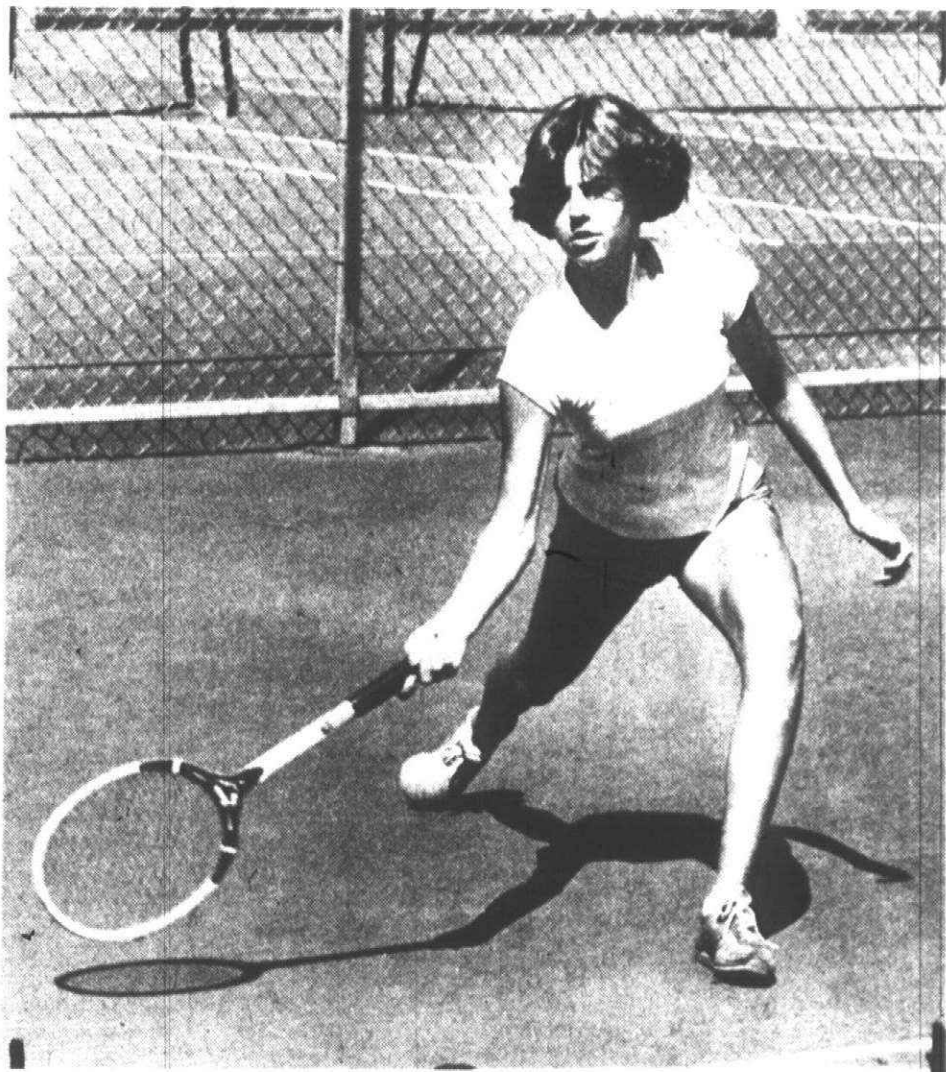

Despite the McNamara-Young triumph, the Chiefs were unable to capture the four out of seven wins necessary to take the match and lost 6-1.

First singles Kathy Kidston was defeated by Theresa Loftus, 2-6, 2-6. Second singles Eileen McGinn found herself deprived of a victory 4-6, 4-6 by Kim Wellwood while third singles Barb Rupprecht was defeated by Patty Mix 2-6, 3-6.

First doubles Pam Schipani and Claudia Williams were taken by the Charger netters 4-6, 3-6 and third doubles Julie Swain and Julie Kraus were beaten 1-6, 3-6.

Coach Cyndi Burnstein said her team could have played better and was capable of beating the Churchill team.

The Chiefs play Northville at 3:30 p.m. today on the Centennial Park courts. Walled Lake Western is scheduled for a Wednesday afternoon home match.

Kathy Kidston, the Chiefs' number-one singles player, lost to Churchill's top netter, Theresa Loftus, Wednesday afternoon.

Canton dunked Salem sinks Ypsilanti

By M. DAVID CAMPBELL

The Plymouth Salem girls' swim team edged the Ypsilanti Braves, 87-85, at the Salem pool Thursday night. The victory evened the Rocks' season record at 1-1.

It wasn't until Karen Kohler placed first in the 100-yard breaststroke that Salem was assured of a victory. Kohler's winning time was 1:20.5—her best of the season by more than two seconds.

"The meet was tight all the way through," said Salem coach Chuck Olson. "The meet was just about the way I thought—just about tied. We continued to improve, but Ypsi's a good team."

Another bright spot in the evening was Sarah Stanwood's usual winning performance in the 200-yard individual medley. Her time was 2:06.0. She also set a team record in the 100-yard butterfly with a 1:04.5 clocking. Stanwood missed qualifying for the state meet in this event by only 1/2 second. She already qualified for the state meet in the freestyle sprints.

Kim Coates, Sharon Ross, Renee Lakatos and Stanwood combined in the 400-yard freestyle for a second-place finish of 4:09.4. The 200-yard medley relay also placed second as Jill McCann, Kohler, Sue Evans and co-captain Sue Sparling clocked 2:09.0.

McCann won the 50-yard freestyle in 27.3, while Sharon Ross was second in the individual medley. Divers Natalie McClumpha and Patty Larson placed first and second, respectively, with 150 and 145.1-point totals in that competition.

PLYMOUTH CANTON
The Chiefs opened their Western Six

League swim season on a sour note, falling to powerful Farmington Harrison, 106-65, Thursday night. Canton's overall record is 1-1 this season.

"Harrison was too strong for us," said Canton coach Ann Massey. "They haven't lost any of their swimmers from last year's team."

Freshman Lisa Forsythe once again dominated the sprint races, winning both the 100- and 200-yard freestyle events with times of 1:01.1 and 2:11.6, respectively. Co-captain Cindy Shelanskey also took a first place in the 100-yard backstroke in 1:09.4.

The 200-yard medley relay, consisting of Shelanskey, Sue Knight, Forsythe and Kim Massey, placed second with a 2:07.0 time. Massey also placed second in the 200-yard individual medley at 2:26.7.

were out of the endzone, nullifying another score.

Salem's next possession in the third quarter resulted in yet another big play as fullback Kris Kappler broke into the secondary and raced 38 yards for a touchdown. This sprint capped a four-play 64-yard drive. Hanschu's kick was blocked again, and the score was 32-6 in the middle of the third period.

The Rocks reserves played the last quarter-and-one-half both offensively and defensively. All members of the squad saw action in the rout.

Reserve quarterback Jim Anderson had one touchdown run called back because of a penalty late in the game. Anderson did, however, set up Salem's final score with a 53-yard run down to the Jaguar five-yard line. The drive stalled at that point, but Hanschu kicked a 27-yard field goal to end the scoring.

SC harriers lose to OCC

Schoolcraft College's Phil Reed set the winning pace, but his teammates couldn't keep up and the Ocelots lost to Oakland Community College last week in a cross country dual, 20-41.

Reed's time over the five-mile course was 28:56. Five Oakland CC harriers followed Reed across the finish line before the next Ocelot, Doug Vorbeck, completed the race. Vorbeck's time was 31:19.

Schoolcraft's other finishers were Mark McKenney, 12th, 34:47; Brian Hanna, 13th, 37:07; Paul York, 14th, 38:44; and Jennifer DeVenny, 15th, 40:26.

Canton golfers win one, lose two

The Plymouth Canton boys golf team lost two matches Tuesday and Wednesday but rebounded with a victory on Thursday in action last week. The Chiefs fell to team-record scores from Northville and Waterford Mott, but defeated Walled Lake Western, 206-211.

John Matthews led the Chiefs past Western, shooting his best round of the year with a one-over par 36 at the Canton's home course, Brae Burn. Captain Dave Visser followed with a 40, while Scott Adler carded a 41.

Canton's disappointing 192-209 loss to Western Six League rival Northville on Wednesday saw Adler lead his squad's attack with a 37. Visser added a 41 and Matthews a 43.

Pontiac Country Club, the home course for Waterford Mott, was the key to Cruisers victory over the Chiefs on Tuesday. Mott totally dominated the match with a school record 190 total to Canton's feeble 224. Visser led the disappointing Canton golfers with an unusually high 42.

The Chiefs currently stand at 2-3 overall and 2-2 in the Western Six League. Canton travels to Farmington Harrison this afternoon before returning home to help co-host the annual Plymouth Best Ball golf tourney with Plymouth Salem Tuesday morning.

GC East rolls on

In spite of having difficulties taking advantage of scoring opportunities during the first period, Garden City East still managed to clip Wayne, 44-36, last week in a non-league girls' basketball game.

"We used a 1-3-1 half-court trap in the first quarter, forced 12 turnovers and only cashed in once," said East coach Jan Moore.

The Panthers led, 11-6, after that first period, then steadily pulled away during the second (24-16) and third (36-22) quarters. East's reserves played much of the fourth period.

The Panthers switched from their half-court trap to a zone defense after the first quarter when Wayne started to beat the trap and get under the basket for some easy shots.

Jane Sielski, who played only the first three periods for East, finished with 21 points. "She had a super game," said Moore.

Dorothy Boehnlein contributed 11 points and Sharon Raftery eight.

"Kathy Arsenault came off the bench and did a good job on defense and Raftery had a good defensive game," said Moore.

Wayne won the JV game, 42-34.

Doug Ward does job for Broncos

Doug Ward is making a valuable contribution to the Western Michigan University football team after only two weeks in the starting lineup.

The senior defensive back from Plymouth Salem recovered a fumble and took part in eight tackles two weeks ago to help the Broncos to a 44-30 victory over Northern Illinois in Mid-American Conference action.

Apple sale

Six different Plymouth Salem boys athletic teams have planned an apple sale to help raise additional funds to aid their respective programs.

Orders are now being taken for quarter, half and full bushels of apples. Anyone interested may call Salem High School at 453-3100, ext. 247.

Members of the Rock football, basketball, baseball, wrestling, track, and swim programs plan to pick and deliver the apples to your doorstep next week. The boys will pick the apples on Sunday at the Irwin Farms in Novi, and deliver all orders later that week.

Apples prices are as follows: $11 for full bushel, $6.50 for 1/2 bushel, and $3.50 for 1/4 bushel. All proceeds will go toward these six programs.

"If you pick them (apples) yourself, you may get them cheaper, but we are very, very competitive with the market," said Salem wrestling coach Ron Krueger. "Besides, it's not just the apples. We're asking people to help us raise money so we can try to maintain first-class programs (after the recent budget cuts)."

Salem JV wins

The Plymouth Salem junior varsity football team won its first game of the season with a convincing 24-8 victory over Allen Park Thursday afternoon. The Rocks record is now 1-1.

Salem set the tone for the game when quarterback Joe Garcia scored on a wishbone option on the second play of the game. The Rocks went on to score two more touchdowns for an 18-0 halftime lead. Salem scored one more in the third quarter before the Jaguars registered their lone TD in the final period.

Garcia scored two touchdowns, while halfback Dave Skone reached paydirt on the other two six-pointers. The Rocks didn't convert on any of their four extra-point attempts.

Salem JV travels to Belleville Thursday night for its third game starting at 6:30 p.m.

Canton will host Livonia Bentley at 4 p.m., while Salem travels to Livonia Stevenson for a 7 p.m. clash.

Both non-league battles give the Chief and Rock reserves a full nine-game schedule this fall.

WSDP airs girls' BB

Plymouth-Canton's student-operated radio station, WSDP-FM, will broadcast its first girls basketball game live at 8 p.m. Thursday night when the Plymouth Salem Rocks face Ann Arbor Huron in a non-league battle.

Chris Koepke will air the play-by-play, with Colleen Geary offering commentary on the contest.

WSDP-FM is located on 88.1

Kraft shot his best round of the year in the finale, posting a 38 for the nine-hole round. Valenti carded a 42. Watt shot a 47, while partner Lindley posted a 53.

Watt and Lindley were the champions of the first eight weeks of action before Kraft and Valenti captured the second-half title.

All members of the men's league are invited to the league's season-ending banquet to be held Saturday, Oct. 14 at noon. More than $400 of prizes will be awarded at the banquet which includes scrambles golf competition.

Lion hopes flounder through early games

'I could latch on to all the rationalizations I could think of and that people are kind enough to hold out, but that's not my nature.'

*—Monte Clark
Detroit Lion head coach*

Freddie Scott, a fifth-year wide receiver with the Lions, is stripped of the football.

By JOHN BOZZO

Chicago sounded one of the final death bells for Detroit Lions football this season.

Along with the 19-0 loss Sunday, Sept. 16, at the Pontiac Silverdome, came a message that should dampen the hopes of Lion fans.

No overnight miracle cures are in sight. Neither is a long-awaited championship. The last title was in 1957.

"We're going to suffer for awhile," said first-year coach Monte Clark. "We have young players. As long as we're making progress each day, how can I expect more?"

Dealing with the disappointing setbacks on the road to building a championship team is probably one of the toughest assignments for Clark, who lives in Bloomfield Hills.

He has always been straight and forthright in dealing with the defeats, refusing to make excuses.

"Everyone contributed to the loss," Clark said, following the Chicago game. "There were fumbles, missed field goals and mishandled punts."

"I can't let myself get as low as last time (the opening game loss to Green Bay)," Clark said. "I'm disappointed that we didn't do the job, and that includes myself."

"I have to step up and take my share of the blame."

FOLLOWING THE opening-game loss to Green Bay, Clark began his weekly Tuesday press luncheon by reading his "horroroscope." The Lions beat Tampa Bay that week.

At the luncheon after the Chicago loss, Clark waxed philosophic. The Lions traveled to Seattle Sunday. Results were not available by press time.

"I could latch on to all the rationalizations I could think of and that people are kind enough to hold out," Clark said, "but that's not my nature. 'I like to be a realist,' Clark said, 'otherwise you never look things head on and defeat them.'"

The Lions coach is not bitter about like to do a good job, but also get recognition."

Clark said he has to be wary about letting the opinions of fans affect his coaching.

"I have to do what I feel is right as a coach," Clark said. "Running the football helps our offense."

"If we plow into the middle of the line I know if we don't gain, the fans are going to boo. If that stops me, I'm

'We're going to suffer for awhile. We have young players. As long as we're making progress each day, how can I expect more.'

—Monte Clark

the disappointing 1-2 start. He refused to even lash out at the fans when former Lion star linebacker Mike Lucci asked Clark to comment about poor fan support.

Chicago Bear players received cheers when they took the field for pregame warm-ups, Sept. 16. Meanwhile, the boo birds were chirping away at Detroit players before the game even began.

"I'm not sure how to react to the fans," Clark said. "It's a new experience for me. I like to deal with things I can control."

"To me the answer is to get our noses to the grindstone, work harder and earn their support."

NATURALLY, CLARK wishes fans were more supportive.

"We'd like to please them," Clark said. "That's one of the incentives in football. Players and coaches not only not doing my job as a coach."

The Lion coach indicated that Detroit fans may see more running plays. In all three games this season, the winning team had a large number of running plays compared to the loser, he said. Chicago had 45 to Detroit's 27 running plays.

When the Lions did run, they ran well. Detroit averaged 5.3 yards per carry against Chicago. Dexter Bussey had 85 yards in 11 carries for 7.7 average.

Despite being sacked six times, Greg Landry completed eight of 14 passes for 88 yards. Once Chicago had gained a lead, the Bears could rush the quarterback more aggressively because they knew Detroit had to abandon its running attack in order to catch up.

CLARK INTERPRETTED the offensive statistics as a sign that Detroit's offensive line is improving.

"Every game helps," Clark said. "With each game they're getting a feel of what to expect from each other. Being put into more game situations and continuing to work together will help."

The Lions coach also found some bright spots defensively. Walter Payton was held to 77 yards rushing. However, Roland Harper gained 98 yards rushing, and Bob Avellini completed nine of 12 passes for 151 yards.

Clark said he is happy with the effort Lion players are making, but dissatisfied with execution. As an example, he pointed to one play in the Chicago game.

Three players hustled down field to down a punt. They were in position to stop the football inside Chicago's five-yard line, but instead slid into the end zone, allowing the ball to pass the goal line for a touchback.

"There are two facets of being prepared," Clark said. "You put preparation, detail and precision with intelligence and tremendous enthusiasm. You can't have one or the other."

"You can go out there flying as high as a kite and not know what you're doing," Clark said. "Or you can go out flat and emotionless and you can't play that way either."

"Our problem has been that we have enthusiasm but we haven't got the precision down."

Patience is something that nobody has very much of in a situation like the Lions face this season, Clark said.

It's also one of the qualities they'll need to succeed.

Tony Daykin, a second-year linebacker, collects himself on the sidelines.

College gridiron lures few local prep football players

Only a small percentage of high school football players have the chance to go on to play the game on the intercollegiate gridiron.

Whether awarded a scholarship at a university or college or on the team as a walk-on, the college football competitor is a chosen lot.

MICHIGAN STATE University will field three former area players. Matt Foster, a Livonia Churchill graduate, will hold down a key position on the Spartan line. Foster will start at center. Last year, Foster played both linebacker and offensive guard, earning his second letter with State.

Curt Griffin, a former member of the Birmingham Brother Rice squad, is in his senior year with the Spartans. Moved from defensive back to outside linebacker this season, Griffin will have his work cut out for him.

As a sophomore out of West Bloomfield, Brett Sheeran will also have his work cut out for him. Sheeran is in contention for starting spot as middle guard for State but the competition is tough. Sheeran prepped at Groves High during his prep.

THE UNIVERSITY OF Michigan has four players from the area on its roster.

Jim Breaugh and Bob Hollway are veterans on the U-M team. Both are from Bloomfield Hills. Breaugh, a sophomore, is a quarterback, while Hollway is an outside linebacker. They are graduates of Andover High.

Two freshmen are attempting to earn a place on the Wolverine squad. Mike Petsch from Redford Union and Jim Paciorek from Orchard Lake St. Mary may have the qualities needed to be U-M football starters.

Petsch is a candidate for tight end. At RU, he played football and basketball and ran track. Paciorek is another quarterback. He was all-state in football, baseball and basketball at St. Mary.

EASTERN MICHIGAN University will have three area high school athletes among its 1978 contingent. Sophomore Terry Elik is expected to be a top linebacker candidate for the Hurons. Elik graduated from Lahser High but missed most of his freshman year at EMU because of an injury.

Rick Kruger is also a sophomore. Kruger graduated from Livonia Franklin and was one of Eastern's top recruits last year. This season Kruger is expected to start as a defensive tackle.

Westland John Glenn grad Jeff Preston is expected to find a spot in the defensive secondary for the Hurons. Preston won all-state honors in high school and will be in his sophomore year at Eastern.

WESTERN MICHIGAN University is another college that draws from the area.

Tom Henry, a junior out of Birmingham Brother Rice, will control the duties at tight end for Western. Henry won all-state honorable mention in high school.

Plymouth Salem graduate Doug Ward is in his senior year at Western. Ward, a small but tough defensive halfback, has started for two years and will do so again this year.

The Broncos also have three incoming freshmen for this year's squad. They are Les Garrett from Birmingham Groves and Randy Ruelas and Mike Nyhus from Plymouth Canton.

CENTRAL MICHIGAN University, the home of the Chippewas, has its own crop of young area high school athletes, four to be exact.

Senior Bob Miller out of Farmington Harrison will start as a defensive end, while senior Kevin Collins will hold down the other defensive end position.

Collins, a resident of Troy, graduated from Birmingham Brother Rice. Tim Hollandsworth will also start on Central's defensive unit. Hollandsworth, a graduate of Livonia Franklin, is a linebacker. Joe Maiorana, a resident of Livonia, graduated from Catholic Central and is looking for a job at offensive tackle. Maiorana is in his sophomore year.

Tony Vitale, from Plymouth Canton, is a member of Central's incoming freshman crew. Vitale is a defensive tackle.

WAYNE STATE University has the largest crop of former area prep players. Eleven will be on the roster, not including eight freshmen.

Three Westland John Glenn alumni in Mark Grabowski, Terry Johnson and Chuck Squires head the list. Grabowski is a sophomore defensive tackle, Johnson is a senior safety and Squires is a junior defensive tackle.

Two Livonia Stevenson graduates are also starters on the Wayne State squad. Mark Lapham is a senior offensive tackle and Bruce Nichols is a junior fullback.

Other returners include Phil Emery, Garden City East, a sophomore offensive guard; Don Gotham, Plymouth Canton, a junior tight end; and Dave Thorne, Farmington Harrison, a junior defensive back.

Kevin Smith and Ken Widner from Troy also return to the Wayne State contingent. Both are offensive guards. Smith is a sophomore and Widner is a senior.

Incoming freshman for the Tartars include Dave Bowen, Livonia Franklin; Lance Farkas, Southfield Lathrup; Tom Jurewicz, Westland John Glenn; Tim McCamant, Clarenceville; Jim Neff, Troy Avondale; Kevin Respecki, Clarenceville; Kevin Schneider, Livonia Bentley; James Spala, Livonia Stevenson.

HOPE COLLEGE has two former prep athletes from North Farmington. Freshman Chris Koltz and Mark Thompson will be on the Hope roster. Koltz is a guard and Thompson is a defensive back.

ALMA COLLEGE has four returning letter winners and three incoming freshmen on the gridiron squad.

Todd Friesner, Birmingham Groves, is a defensive linebacker in his fourth year at Alma. Friesner started each year and will be the team captain this season.

Matt Prisk, a Clarenceville graduate, will also see work as a linebacker. Prisk is a sophomore at Alma.

Greg Ambrose will see action as a field goal kicker and punter for Alma. Ambrose graduated from Rochester High and is in his sophomore season.

Todd DeLuca is a kick-off specialist. DeLuca averaged 53 yards as a sophomore and kicked off over 40 times. DeLuca is a junior from Westland John Glenn.

John Colley was back-up offensive guard last year. This season, however, he will see fulltime action in that position. Colley is a junior from Livonia Churchill.

Mark Merlo, Rochester High; Chris Whitfield, Rochester Adams; and Byron Onisko, Birmingham Groves are the freshmen on the club.

ALBION COLLEGE has four former prep stars in its ranks for the 1978 season.

John and Mark Lokar, from Livonia Stevenson will see action on the school's defensive unit. John is a junior defensive back, while Mark is a sophomore defensive end.

Bill Linsdau of Andover will also be on the Albion defensive squad. Linsdau is a junior defensive end.

Randy Siebert, Southfield Lathrup, will go into the season as an offensive guard. Siebert is a senior.

Incoming freshmen include Brian Almas, Birmingham Groves; Marty Bona, Farmington; Steve Cicurel, Groves; Gerald Cook, Westland John Glenn; John Crotty, North Farmington; Steve Grabner, Birmingham Seaholm; Don Hurtubise, Birmingham Groves; Steve Mitchell, Bloomfield Hills Lahser; and Jim Moynes, Seaholm.

GRAND VALLEY STATE is looking forward to a strong season and five area grads will be on the 1978 squad.

Joe Pollard and Dennis Smith will see action on the squad's defensive secondary. Pollard is a senior safety and Smith is a sophomore defensive back. Both players graduated from Livonia Franklin.

Freshman prospects for Grand Valley State include Larry Acton, Livonia Franklin, Bill Lee and Paul Svalik from Westland John Glenn.

FERRIS STATE has two natives of the area on its 1978 team. Scott Renner is a junior linebacker out of Garden City West, while Ken Schwaegerle is a sophomore defensive tackle also out of Garden City West.

MICHIGAN TECHNOLOGICAL University has two freshman prospects from the area in Chris Ritchy and Doug Rowe. Both players graduated from Plymouth Canton and will work out as running backs.

NORTHERN MICHIGAN University has three former high school athletes from the area in Fred Shoemaker, Bob Yauk and Dean Jabara.

Shoemaker is a junior offensive running back for Northern. He graduated from Westland John Glenn.

Yauk graduated from Dearborn Heights Robichaud but is a resident of Plymouth. He is a freshman offensive guard.

Jabara is an Salem High alumnus. He is in his sophomore year at Northern and will start as a wide receiver. Jabara didn't play football at Salem.

BESIDES THE players attending Michigan colleges there are also a number who have received scholarships for out-state schools.

Tim Dillon, a 1975 graduate from Plymouth Salem, is a member of the Miami of Ohio football squad. Dillon is a senior safety for the college.

Brian Clifford is a middle guard with the University of Arizona gridiron unit. Clifford attended West Bloomfield and is now in his junior year at the Arizona school.

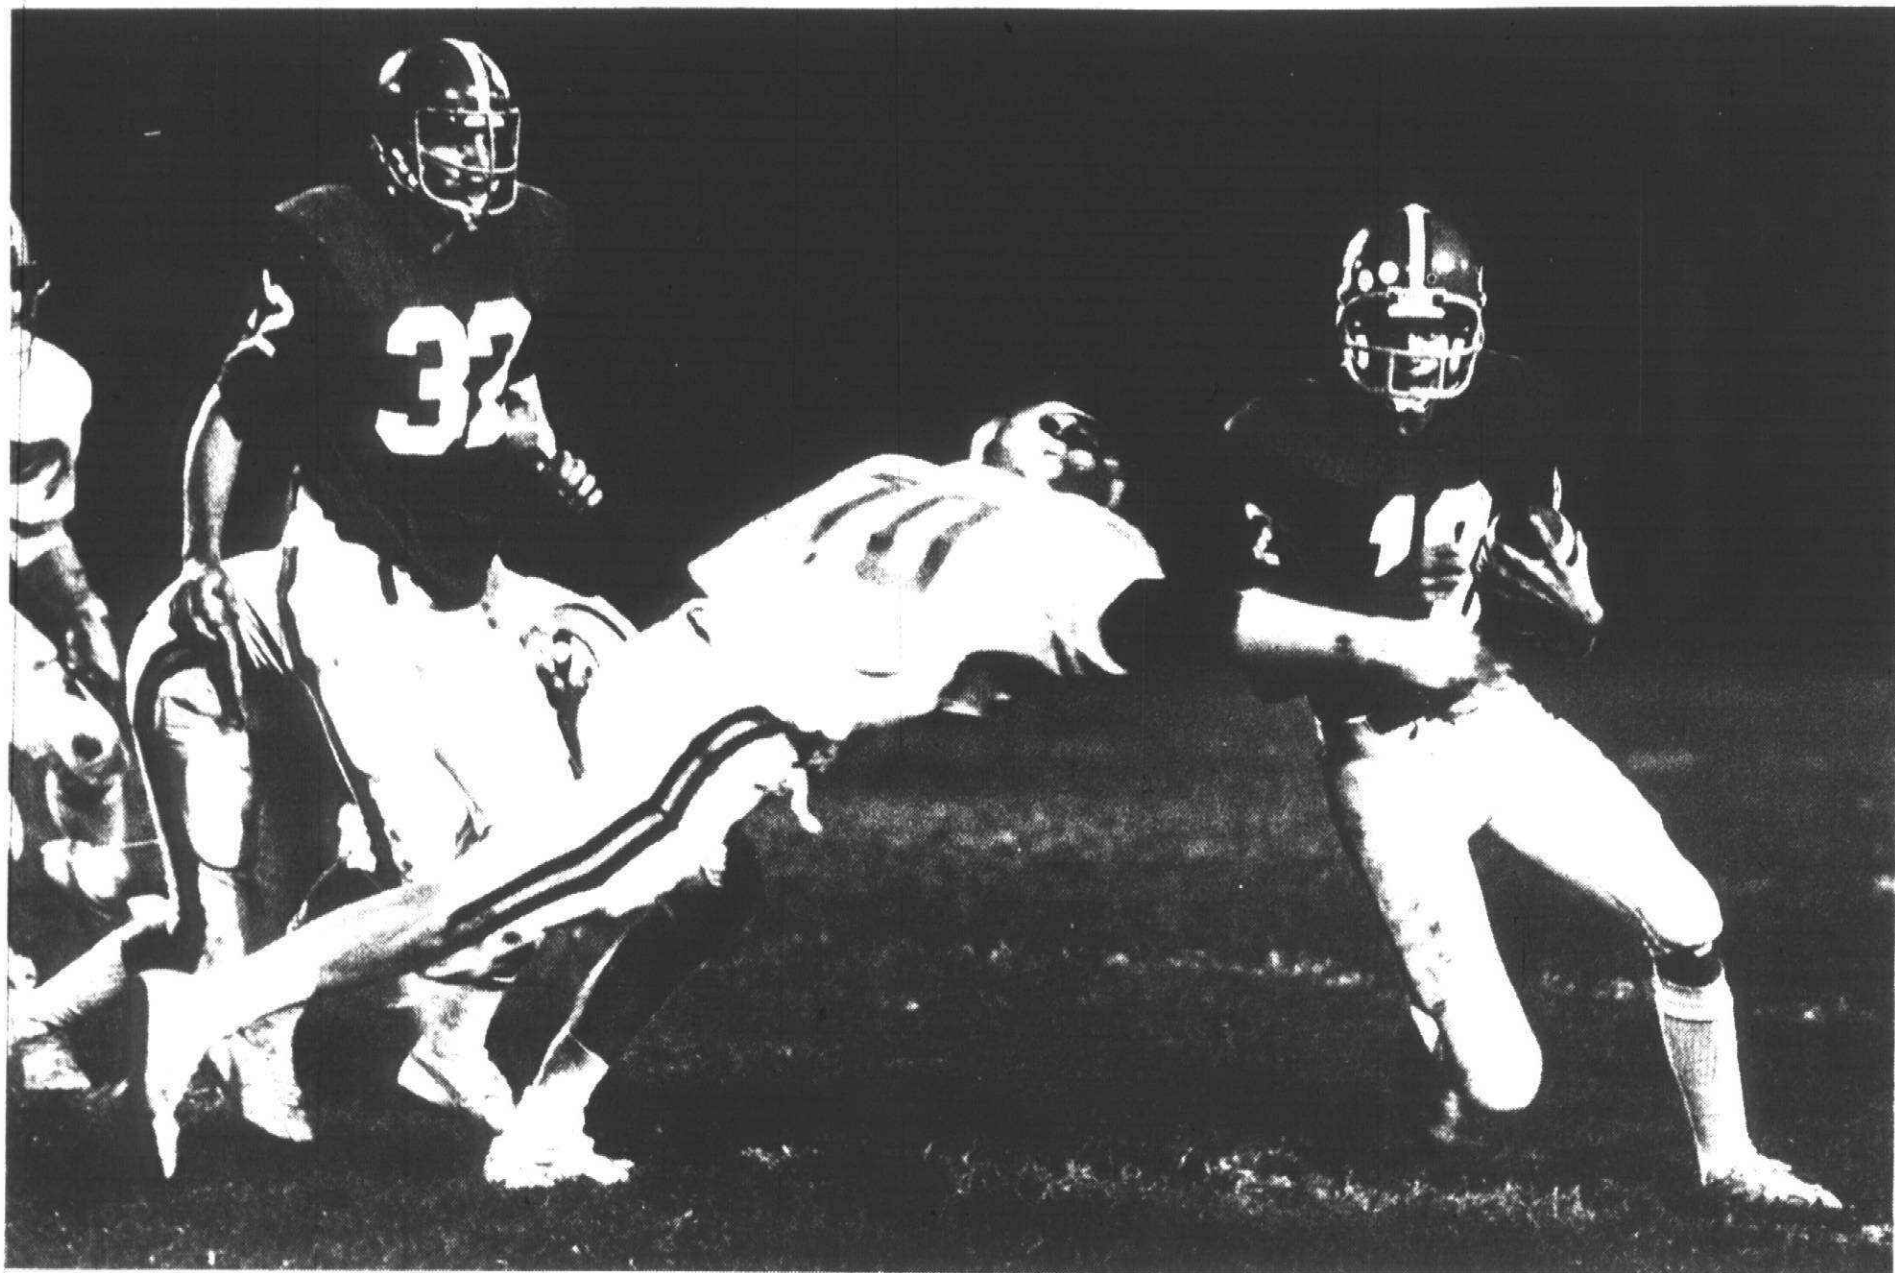

Bob Dasher is a freshman hopeful for the University of Alabama. Dasher graduated from Plymouth Salem and played center for the Rocks.

BALL STATE University in Muncie, Ind., has two former area high school players on its squad this year.

Jim Casey is a junior defensive back out of Livonia Franklin. Karl Goebel is a junior linebacker out of Troy. Goebel graduated from Birmingham Brother Rice. Both were starters last year.

THE GOPHERS of the University of Minnesota can count on the kicking foot of Farmington Harrison graduate Paul Rogind again this fall. He has been Minnesota's No. 1 placekicker for the past two years.

Rogind handles kick-offs and all field goal attempts for the Gophers. He is a soccer style kicker.

Churchill whips WL Western

By KEN VOYLES

Between the running efforts of Doran Mason and Jeff McCarthy, Livonia Churchill was able to demolish Walled Lake Western Friday in a Western Six League football clash, 41-6.

Mason picked up 135 yards on the ground with two touchdowns, while McCarthy ripped 127 yards on the ground with one touchdown.

"I was very pleased with the game. Our speed on the ground with Doran and Jeff made the difference. Jeff's running in the second half turned things around for us," said Churchill coach Ken Kaestner.

Mason started the Chargers with a bang on their first possession. In two carries he covered 40 yards and 21 yards bringing the pigskin to rest on the Western five-yard line.

Quarterback Rick Coppola then carried the ball on a keeper for the touchdown. The extra point kick, also by Coppola, was good.

Churchill tips Chief runners

Livonia Churchill overwhelmed the young Plymouth Canton boys' cross country team, 17-37, in Western Six League action Thursday. It was the second straight dual meet loss for the Chiefs this season.

Bob Stansbury of Churchill ran an excellent time of 17:01 to win the three mile race, while teammate Kevin Paul finished second at 17:12. The Chargers' Allen Steffin claimed third at 17:24.

Dave Spitz was Canton's top runner, placing fourth at 17:44. Dean Sear of Churchill was fifth at 17:48.

The Chiefs took seventh through 12th place in the Cass Benton race, as Dan McGinn and Rich Fleischer placed seventh and eighth, respectively.

Following a Western punt, Mason sprinted 41 yards on an off-tackle play for Churchill's second touchdown. The extra point missed and the Chargers led 13-0.

Mason scored his second touchdown of the game with four minutes left in the half. Churchill took a Western punt at its own 31-yard line. McCarthy then moved the ball to the six yard line with runs of 30 and 15 yards.

Mason finally found the endzone from the one-yard line for the touchdown. The scoring play was an off-tackle dive. The extra point was good.

Western picked up its only touchdown of the game with 32 seconds left in the first half. The Warriors drove down the field 60 yards. The extra point kick was no good.

In the third quarter, Churchill took the ball at its own 35-yard line and slowly marched down the field. At the Western 20-yard line McCarthy took the hand-off plunged through the line, cut to his right and scampered into the endzone. The extra point kick was good and Churchill was in front, 27-6.

Bill Keller came into the game at that point for Coppola at quarterback.

Churchill scored again in the fourth quarter after driving from its own 33-yard line on a flip pass over the middle from Keller to Mike Roach. The play covered 17 yards and came with 8:38 left in the game. The extra point kick was good.

Keller scored the last Charger touchdown on a 34-yard quarterback keeper to the left side with just 20 seconds showing on the scoreboard. The extra point kick was good and Churchill came away with a lopsided 41-6 victory.

"This is a great senior ball club. We are a very balanced team. Our defense is young and we have to be patient with them but they'll come along," Kaestner said. "The defense had a little trouble in the first half with Western's sweep.

"We didn't really play inspired football in the first half even though we scored three touchdowns. The second half was all ours. We came on strong," Kaestner concluded.

REDFORD UNION-TRENTON

An inability to find Trenton's endzone on three consecutive plays off right tackle from 2½ yards out in the overtime period Friday spelled defeat for Redford Union in their Suburban Eight League football meeting.

The Trojans scored during their overtime possession to claim a 13-7 victory.

To add insult to injury, a pass interference penalty inside RU's five yard line with less than two minutes to play in regulation time set up Trenton's tying touchdown.

The Panthers notched their only TD midway through the third quarter on a 25-yard jaunt around left end by Bob Utych. The play was the eighth in a 58-yard drive.

Kirk Marsh kicked the PAT. RU won the coin toss for overtime and elected to defend first. Trenton moved the ball into the Panthers' endzone from 10 yards out, then missed the kick for extra point.

On RU's possession, Jim Sopha gained 7½ yards on a first-down quarterback keeper. Three cracks by Bob Friedman over right tackle failed to cover the remaining real estate.

RU out-gained Trenton in total offense, 162 yards to 115. Utych ran for 79 yards and Friedman rushed for 44.

Bob Mouch had an outstanding night punting for the Panthers. Trenton lost a net 16 yards during the evening attempting to return the kicks, according to Rey Fracassi, assistant RU coach.

GC WEST-MELVINDALE

Offensively, Garden City West was non-existent Friday as the Tigers were shut-out by Tri-River League opponent Melvindale, 40-0, in a Tri-River League football battle.

West netted a total of 12 yards. On the ground, the Tigers picked up 45 yards. But through the air, they lost a total of 33 yards.

Jim Downey did most of the running work for the lackluster Tigers. He carried the pigskin 10 times for 31 yards.

Melvindale scored one touchdown in the first quarter, two in the second period, two in the third quarter and one in the last quarter. West never threatened during the contest.

Melvindale picked up 336 total yards and nine first downs. West had three first downs.

Chiefs mauled by Mustangs

Canton's one touchdown came on an eight-yard toss to split end Jay McKinley with only 28 seconds left, capping a 62-yard drive in less than two minutes. Northville's final two touchdowns came on a 40-yard pass from Marzoni to Jeff Norton midway through the second quarter, and a five-yard sprint around end by Borthwick in the third period.

Mandle, despite playing over an injury, was Canton's leading rusher with 45 yards in 11 carries. He was taken out of the game when he re-injured his shoulder late in the third quarter, moments after an 57-yard kickoff return followed by a 21-yard run from scrimmage.

The Mustangs, meanwhile, amassed a total of over 300 yards, 230 of them on the ground. Marzoni completed each of his first four passes for 78 yards before McKinley nabbed an interception from him late in the first half.

After 26 years, Mel Blunk still thrilled by Indy 500

By W.W. EDGAR

His name isn't listed in the record books for outstanding athletic achievement.

There is no mention of him even competing in football or baseball or running on a college track team.

But Melvin Blunk, former assistant superintendent for business in the Plymouth school district, has established a record as a spectator in the sports world.

STARTING IN 1952 as a member of a tour group to see the 500-mile auto race at Indianapolis, he hasn't missed since.

For 26 years he has watched these speed classics, and he can name off the winners as if they won their races only yesterday.

In fact "Mel," as he is popularly known, was paid a high compliment several years ago when the late Tony Hulman, president and owner of the Indianapolis Speedway, tendered a certificate of merit in a letter during a dinner in Mel's behalf.

In the letter, Hulman called him the outstanding spectator in the history of the race that dates back to 1911 when Ray Herron of Flint was the winner at the end of the first long grind.

Mel can't go back that far in his memory of the events he has witnessed on what once was called the famous brick oval. But he doesn't hesitate a moment to let you know what Troy Ruttman was the first driver he ever saw receive the checkered flag in the Memorial Day classic. Over the years, Blunk has seen a great many changes at the Hoosier oval. He has seen the old bricks give way to a hard-surfaced track and the speed climb from 130 miles an hour to more than 200 m.p.h. in the time trials.

While recalling his many experiences, Blunk doesn't talk much about the many accidents and deaths he has witnessed during the course of the race. But there is one that he recalls with a half smile.

It happened the year that Jack Turner and his car flipped right in front of the box occupied by Blunk and his family.

"My daughter got so excited at the sight of the flip," Blunk said, "she tossed the leg of chicken she was eating right up in the air. I'll never forget that sight."

He has watched the race, year after year, from many angles.

"I have sat in the best seats, and I have been in the bleachers at the far end. But there's one thing I have done only once, and that's park my car in the infield. I did it once and waited two hours to get out."

BLUNK'S LOVE AFFAIR with auto racing began in a rather strange way.

For something different to do on Memorial Day in 1952, he signed up with a tour to witness the Indianapolis race.

It was a thrill he never will forget. The speed bug bit him and now he never misses a chance to watch an auto race anywhere.

He is a spectator at the MIS speedway at Cambridge Junction, near Jackson, for all the major events. But it is the Indy 500 that holds the greatest charm for him.

Commenting on the changes he has seen at Indianapolis, Blunk explained that back in the 1950s, an independent car driver had a chance at the big prize. But that day is gone because of the heavy expense involved.

Asked if he had any favorite among the drivers and car owners he has seen on the big track he quickly answered that he was a fan of A.J. Foyt whose name is now a household word in auto racing.

"I like Foyt because of the way he handles his car, his crew of mechanics and his entire layout. To me he is tops."

Blunk served as assistant superintendent in charge of business in the Plymouth school district for 34 years before he retired in 1973. Prior to that he taught math and science in the Decatur, Mich., schools.

Even now that he has officially retired Blunk still keeps his hand in the work. He is serving as a consultant for Willow Run Schools.

He's on call any day except those when there is an automobile race somewhere.

Mel Blunk recalls some of the more exciting races since he started following the Indy 500 in the mid-1950s. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Waterfowl class begins Thursday

By LEM MISSEE
Outdoors writer

Duck hunting isn't like fishing, where you have a bag limit of one or five or 25 a day.

Ducks are worth "points," depending on the rarity of the species. A hunter's daily limit is 100 points.

To help hunters know their ducks, the Pointe Mouillee Waterfowlers Association is offering a free course in how to identify flying waterfowl. It will be held in the Road House basement, W. Jefferson north of Gibraltar, in Gibraltar at 7 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 28.

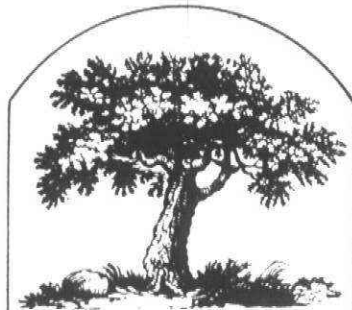

Bob Humphries, biologist at the Pointe Mouillee State Game Area, will use films, color slides and mounted exhibits in teaching the course.

George Kadar, of the Pointe Mouillee Waterfowlers, said the free course is open to members and non-members alike. He adds:

"The 100-point ducks are the canvas-back and redhead, which cannot be bagged in most areas in Michigan. The other high point ducks are female mallard, black duck, wood duck and hooded merganser.

"The lesser point ducks are the male mallard, ringneck, bald pate, scoter and ruddy. The 15-point ducks are scaup (bluebill) pintail, blue and green winged teal, gadwall and shoveler.

"Knowing your ducks by identity and points will give you a larger daily bag limit. Shooting more points over 100 is your invitation for a ticket for overshooting and a date with the local district judge. It is a federal law, so count your points."

Outdoors

CASS LAKE resident Frank Janesick hasn't let September's unseasonable steamy weather stop his fishing success.

On sunny days over the last three weeks, Janesick has hauled in six rainbow trout of 11-13 inches, five kokanee salmon of 14-17 inches, and 12 lake trout of 14-23 inches.

Using downriggers, he trolls in 39-60 foot depths with fireplugs. On cloudy days, he uses minnows to pursue the smallmouth bass.

AS OF LATE last week, fall fishing hadn't really begun. Almost everywhere, fishing pressure was light, and success reports were spotty.

A negative factor last week had to be frequently falling barometers. If the weather stabilizes, now is the finest fishing of the year. Fish are gorging themselves before the cold weather, the speedboat maniacs are gone, and wildlife is more easily observable.

Planning open house

Newly-elected members of the Central Middle School PTSO are finalizing plans for an open house at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the school. A $5 award will be given to the homeroom with the highest number of parents attending. Faculty and parents will gather in the cafeteria, in line with the PTSO's theme this year of Better Understanding Through Better Communication. Officers are: (from left) Sallee Burns, vice-president; Carol Davis, treasurer; Judy Harvey, president; Arlene DeForest, student council adviser; and Rose Jovanely, student council president. BACK TO SCHOOL

BOYS START NEW SEASON IN STYLE

When boys go back to school, they'll be just as fashionably dressed as the girls this fall.

The tailored look emerges as a winning one for back-to-schoolers, with the emphasis on the country classic feeling. Sportcoats, safari suits and blouson suits are examples of the tailored trend, with easy, natural shoulders and lots of fabric interest featured.

Classic and collegiate or sporty and bulky is how boys like their sweaters this season. V-necks, crew necks, cardigans and ski styles will fend off fall breezes in smart fashion. Vests are also favored, as are wrap sweaters. Heathers, clear brights, patterns and jacquards will add interest, as will textures such as cable knits, ribs, leather trims and fisherman knits.

Making news on the boys' front will be the latest quilted vests and shirts that are lined with quilting. Sherpa is also being used for vests and trims, adding a rugged look to back-to-school fashions.

The Western shirt is once again in favor, while knits will continue being a staple of young wardrobes, with active sport designs predominating. Sport shirts will be favoring deep tone plaids, tartans, stripes and blocks of color in flannels, corduroys, sueded and velours.

Jeans are straight leg or flared, with corduroys, denims, sateens, canvas, and khaki all popular choices. Look for color news here: camel, chocolate, rust or deep green in addition to black.

Ski styles will be hitting the school yard as well as the slopes this year, in brightest hues. Other outerwear choices are bomber jackets, western jackets and hooded styles. Leathers, suede looks, corduroys, nylons, poplins, wools, tweeds and shearlings will be topping his new back-to-school wardrobe in fine style for fall.

ROUGH HOMESPUN FABRICS are used in these New Man blouson-type jackets, worn with straight jeans with overstitched pockets, flat in the front for her, pleated for him.

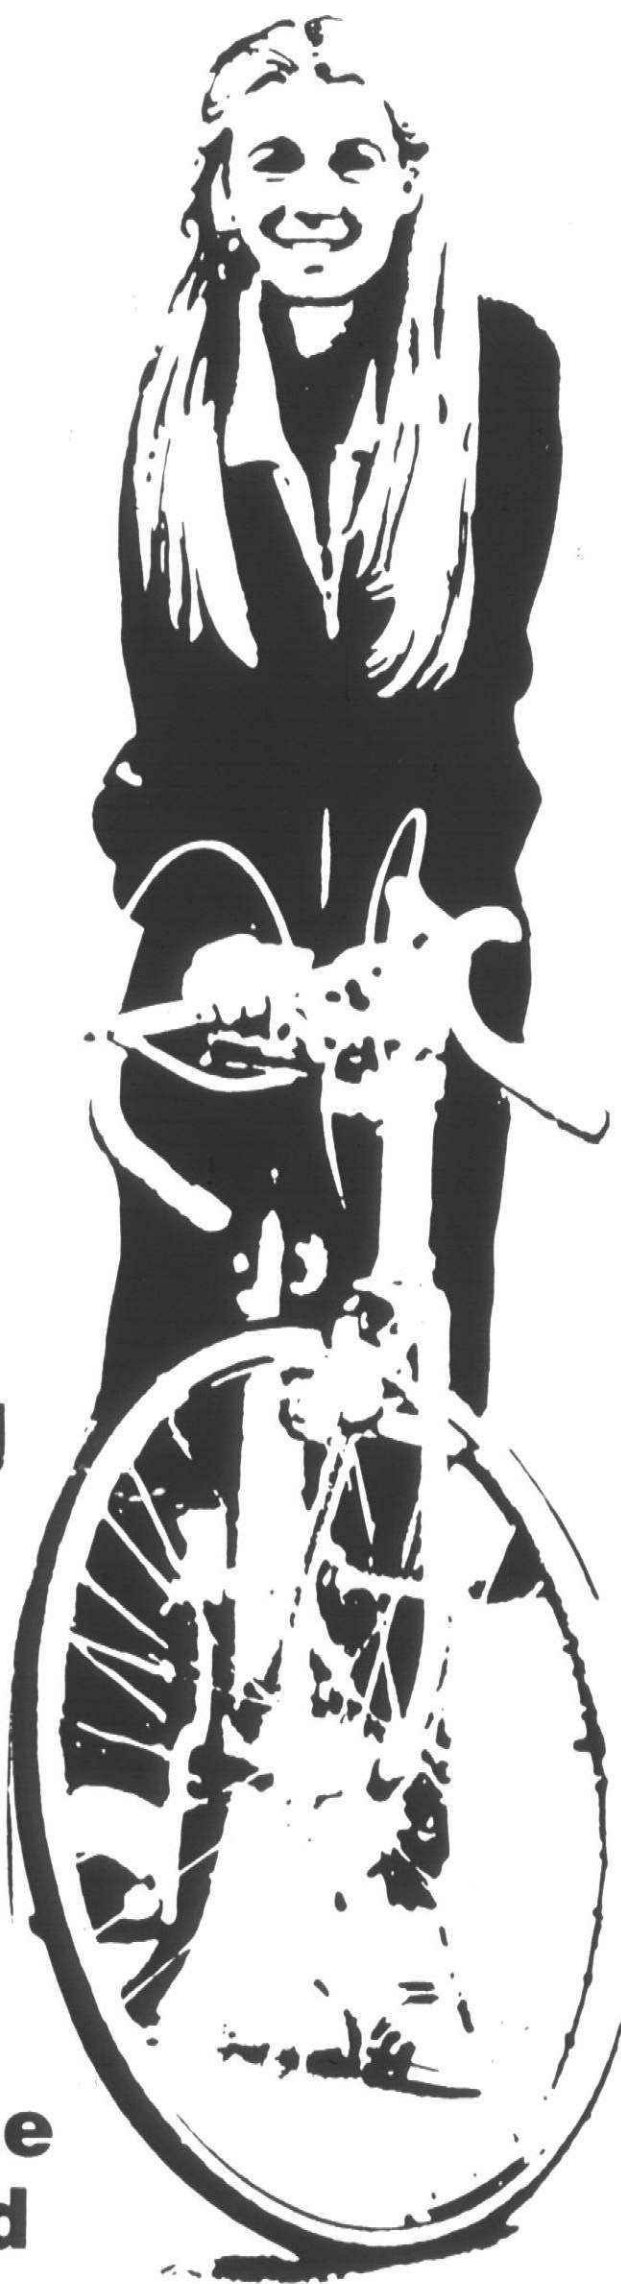

From Kindergarten to College:

For the French sportswear manufacturer, New Man, back-to-school clothes range from kindergarten through college, but this fall's fashion message is corduroy. This is the fabric which is taking over where denim is leaving off. According to the designers at the French firm, corduroy is very important in jeans, pants and jackets, for both sexes, and all ages. †

THE NEWEST LOOK at New Man is a higher waist in carpenter or grandfather style jeans with straighter narrower legs — his to be worn with suspenders. The shirts have narrower collars and smaller cuffs, in cotton or dryella type fabric.

CORDUROY IN DIFFERENT WALES is mixed here in tops and bottoms. New Man, known for classic sportswear shapes, is showing straighter pants, warmer jackets with interesting details.

Newspapers Help Out in Classrooms

More and more schools across the country have discovered that newspapers can play an invaluable role in the education of children both inside the classroom and out.

Especially in the past few years, newspapers have taken the initiative and have started special programs with schools, geared to improve reading, comprehension and learning skills.

Many papers have begun weekly children's pages or whole sections containing reading exercises and quizzes, games, puzzles, riddles and current events information. The pages are designed to be used in the classroom or at home, with the help of teachers and parents.

Other newspapers have been very successful with student ad contests. Students develop copy and art for particular merchants in their area and the best ads are then reprinted in a special section. This program helps students get a feel for advertising, for what goes into making a good ad, and for advertising's role in the local economy.

Some papers have gone so far as to teach high school students how to use contemporary typesetting and processing equipment and how to do professional layouts and paste-ups. The students produce their school newspapers with the training they have received and the equipment the newspaper makes available to them.

Electronic Keyboards Attract Adult Students

The end of summer signals "back to music" time for more than school band participants. Private music teachers across the country also report sharp enrollment increases as people begin to turn indoors for their leisure-time activities.

"As always, the greatest demand from private students is for keyboard instruction, but this year there's a difference," says Dorothy Greig, president of the National Association of Organ Teachers. "The percentage of adults taking keyboard lessons is way up, and for the first time, as many are asking for electronic organ as piano."

Mrs. Greig notes that the move toward electronic organ is a national trend. "The National Association of Electronic Organ Manufacturers reports that more than 200,000 organs were sold in this country last year, making it one of the most popular instruments in the country."

Typical of today's adult music student is California businessman Charles Trohan, who had taken piano lessons as a child but then let them lapse.

"I was inspired to return to music by friends who have an electronic organ in their home," says Trohan. "They showed me that a beginner can sound good on an organ, yet the instrument is sophisticated enough to be a challenge to the most serious musician. And I've found an hour of practice the ideal way to relax after a trying day."

Versatility and ease of playing are the main reasons for the instrument's enormous popularity, according to Texas keyboard teacher Joyce Jones. "It's easier for a beginner to sound good on an electronic organ than any other instrument," she says. "Because the notes and chords last as long as pressure is applied to the keys, it's possible for a novice to play very slowly and still produce beautiful music."

The movement of adults back to music has delighted music teachers because of the enthusiasm the students bring to class.

"Nothing is more thrilling than people who want to learn," says Chicago teacher Owen Haynes. "Adults whose children have grown or who have recently retired often never had time for a hobby before, and are anxious to expand their horizons. I enjoy my adult students most because they want to be here. Some want to play Bach, some popular music — but they're all studying organ just for the fun of it."

Part of the fun of studying the organ is social. Since group lessons are common, organ class is a time spent with new friends who have common interests. Many adults eventually join organ clubs, which combine the educational and social aspects of the instrument in their monthly meetings.

"Our monthly meetings are an excuse to get together, but their main purpose is to help us improve our musical skills. Performing for one another is terrific incentive for keeping in practice," says industrial designer Clyde Winquist, founder of the 35-member Greater Milwaukee Home Organists Club.

"The club's balance between social and musical activities meets a real need in the lives of its members," Winquist adds. "And each meeting is a real educational experience, because the more experienced musicians hold workshops for the beginners, and everyone is stimulated to keep practicing. The electronic organ is a unique instrument, and can be extraordinarily sensitive."

That's a statement with which the estimated seven million amateur organists in the United States would agree. †

BACK TO SCHOOL — Even the sleepiest student can be awakened this fall by the clanging of the two over-sized bells atop this powerful, nickel-plated Yankee-style alarm clock. To make it easier for the early riser to know how late it is, even in the dark, this Bulova clock's hour indicators and minute hands are luminous.

Fashion Coats Go Back to School!

Coats will be fashionably wrapped for fall weather, as they head back for the campus.

Newest silhouettes this season are coats with hoods, scarves or shawls. And, while trench coats will continue being belted and form-fitting, other coats will feature loosely pleated backs.

Meltons, fleeces, plush and poly plush fabrics will be greatly in evidence, in stripes and tweeds, among other looks.

Many coats will feature fur trims such as rabbit, opossum, or lamb for added luxury.

Jackets will continue in popularity, in poplins, corduroys and wools, plus the latest nylon "ski" styles.

Storm coats are lined with pile, quilt and fake fur this season for a lush look in either full lengths or pant lengths.

Weather coats will feature versatility, with linings that zip out or button out, often in colorful plaids. Poplins, twills and bonded synthetics will be favored in this category.

Fall's coed has the season all wrapped up, judging from fashion predictions for '78.

Who's right: Tisch or poll?

By MICHAEL MATUSZEWSKI

Is support for the Tisch property tax cut proposal waning?

Not in metropolitan Detroit, according to several area Tisch organizers.

"I wish those pollsters would come down here," said Tisch representative Laura Wofford after a poll released last week which showed Tisch support slipping.

"We've got 50 to 75 persons coming here three nights a week," said the Wayne County organizer for Tisch. "People are still backing the tax cut."

The poll, conducted by Market Opinion Research of Detroit, showed that those who say they'll vote for the Tisch amendment to cut property taxes in half and allow increases in the personal income tax, dropped from 41 per cent during the summer to 34 per cent.

In addition, the poll says the number opposing the adoption of the state constitutional amendment increased from 31 per cent to 36 per cent.

"LIKE MOST information that's published in the newspapers, that's false," said Ms. Wofford, a Westland businesswoman.

"If people continue to hear the lies long enough, they'll believe them," said Larry McKenna of Clinton, director of Tisch's southeastern Michigan organizing.

"The real fight is going to be in southeastern Michigan."

As supporters for the various constitutional amendments rally down the backstretch to the Nov. 7 election, McKenna said Tisch backers in southeastern Michigan are trying to expand their support beyond blue-collar workers and small business owners.

While McKenna acknowledges Market Opinion's poll, he said he could come up with his own figures to show support was increasing.

"The polls," he predicted, "are going to shift very rapidly."

"Just wait until the ballots are counted," Ms. Wofford added. "Everybody'll be shocked, just like they were when we got the petition signatures."

She called the passage of the Tisch tax plan "inevitable."

Jim and Jan took advantage of their visit to Plymouth to invite a group of their old friends to join the celebration.

"And they have such nice friends," said Jan. Those who attended the cocktail party and buffet dinner were Jane and Bill Clarke, Perry Richwine, Gladys and Bill Begert of Pigeon River, Fla., Dora Hondorp, Margaret Dunning, Bill and Theresa Covington, Jack Wilcox and Sam and Mary Knapp.

The party also was an occasion to celebrate Dr. Carney's good health after serious surgery last spring. They have returned to their Florida home and plan to take a Caribbean cruise in mid-November.

NANCY LARSON called to say she had found a 1963 Plymouth High School yearbook for her sister, Mary Lou Bach of California.

Edgar Brown, who taught business courses at PHS, was the donor of the Plythean. Several persons called with offers of class pictures.

"I think Mary Lou saw the movie 'Grease,' and got nostalgic about the '50s," said Mrs. Larson. "She moved to California and never did get a copy of the yearbook."

OVERHEARD, as a young father walked with his two children waiting for the Penn Theater to open for the 7 p.m. showing of "Olly Olly Oxen Free." They were walking along the Main Street side of Kellogg Park and the small son became interested in the names of the donors of the bricks on the walk.

"Are these the names of all the movie stars?" he asked.

Parents and children who saw the movie with Katherine Hepburn said it was excellent entertainment—a delightful movie.

"It was a good movie," agreed Margaret Wilson, owner of the Penn. "The sad part of it is, not many people came to see it. They don't come to see G-rated movies."

That is sad.

THERE STILL are a few openings in the Parent Effectiveness Training series which will begin Wednesday evening in St. John Newmann Parish House.

Those wishing to ask questions about the classes or who would like to register can call Peggie Stanley, 455-2798.

The parish house is on Hanford Road in Canton Township.

ALICIA LESKO, a 10-year resident of Plymouth, was awarded the ninth annual scholarship of the Plymouth branch, American Association of University Women.

The scholarship for adult women who are embarked on an undergraduate education at the University of Michigan, was awarded by the university's Center for Continuing Education for Women.

Alicia Lesko came to the United States from her native Chile where she had studied three years at the University of Concepcion. After she was settled in Plymouth, she enrolled at Schoolcraft Community College.

Seven years later, with a completed associate degree and an outstanding academic record, she began studies this fall at the U-M School of Art. She plans to specialize in print-making and applied arts.

Her return to school is carefully coordinated with her busy schedule with four children—ranging in age from two to 11—and the time she spends as a volunteer with the area Domestic Violence Task Force.

Her husband, John Lesko, is an instructor at Schoolcraft. They live on Jener Street in the city of Plymouth.

EVERY TIME I drove past the corner of Fralick and Main and saw the excavation for the addition to Schrader Funeral Home, I had a great urge to get out and dig. Surely, there must be great treasures down there.

As it turned out, there were no valuable finds. But there were some interesting ones—especially under the old chapel. When the workmen found something unusual, they would tell Win Schrader. And if he wasn't busy, he'd go out look it over.

Results of the "dig" were a lot of old empty bottles that may have come from a doctor's office.

"Or it may have been a dump behind an old house," said Win. "Many of the bottles were broken. They were all browns and clears. There were some old high-button shoes that had deteriorated—they were falling apart."

There was a lot dry ash in the excavation and Win believes the ash may have helped preserve some old newspapers that were in fairly good shape.

One newspaper was dated 1901. There was a Plymouth Mail from the late 1800s and some letters.

"We haven't really examined everything yet," Win said. "But it is interesting—something like finding a time capsule from a different age."

Proceeds of art auction will aid Growth Works

Art lovers, decorators, homeowners with a bare wall, persons looking for a special gift, persons looking for a fun evening—bargain hunters all—are expected to turn out for the benefit art auction Thursday evening in the Mayflower Meeting House.

The doors will open at 7 p.m. to give guests an opportunity to browse before the auction begins at 8. The auction is sponsored by the Growth Works Board of Directors in cooperation with Classics Studios of Utica. The studio will provide the works of art: sculpture, original oil paintings, lithographs, serigraphs, glass art, art posters, wood blocks, watercolors, enamels, prints, batiks, etchings and other unusual wall decor pieces.

There will be seascapes, landscapes, city scenes, florals, portraits, animals, ships and surrealist art works.

Prizes will be won, a cash bar and refreshments will be available.

ADMISSION is $2.50. Tickets can be purchased at the door or in advance from the Pendleton Shop on Forest Street, the Green Thumb in Forest Place Mall, or at Hillside Inn on Plymouth Road.

Nancy Petrocelli, a member of the Growth Works board is chairing the event. She says she has received a great deal of cooperation.

"I'm especially grateful to Chuck Avis, John Thomas, Gary Hall, Ron Myers and Jim Meyers who donated money for the flyers."

This is the first fundraiser organized by the Growth Works board and everyone has pitched in to make it a success.

GROWTH WORKS is based in the old Plymouth Mail building on Main Street. It became a youth center when the Observer Newspapers, which bought the Mail, moved to new offices. Under the direction of Dale Yagiela, it has become a model human service organization. Persons who participate in Growth Works programs range in age from 7 to 90.

It is a private, nonprofit organization governed by a board of directors composed of a cross section of Plymouth-Canton residents.

It is made up of three service components—community and neighborhood services, youth services, and counseling and intervention services.

While some of the programs are operated within its facilities, others are provided on an outreach basis.

COMMUNITY and neighborhood services include a door-to-door survey and needs analysis of senior citizens. At the same time, workers made the resources of Growth Works' Information and Referral Service available to people in their homes.

Information gathered in the survey will help the community determine which services are most needed by the seniors in an attempt that both the community and the seniors will benefit.

The information and referral service is available by telephone. Volunteers who answer can also assist callers in getting swift delivery of services they need.

Senior citizens discover many problems can be solved by calling 455-4907 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Friday.

THE YOUTH services component of Growth Works works closely with the Plymouth Canton Community Schools, the townships of Plymouth and Canton, the City of Plymouth, and the Wayne County Juvenile Court.

Youth Service personnel work with the Wayne Juvenile Court in providing help for juvenile status offenders. The participant must be willing to make and maintain a commitment with the program staff. Counseling, employment and alternative education are often combined in this program.

Drop-in activities at the center may be a game of ping-pong, pool, or pinball. It may be an art project or an organized function. Field trips, athletic events, seminars and workshops are planned to fit interests and needs.

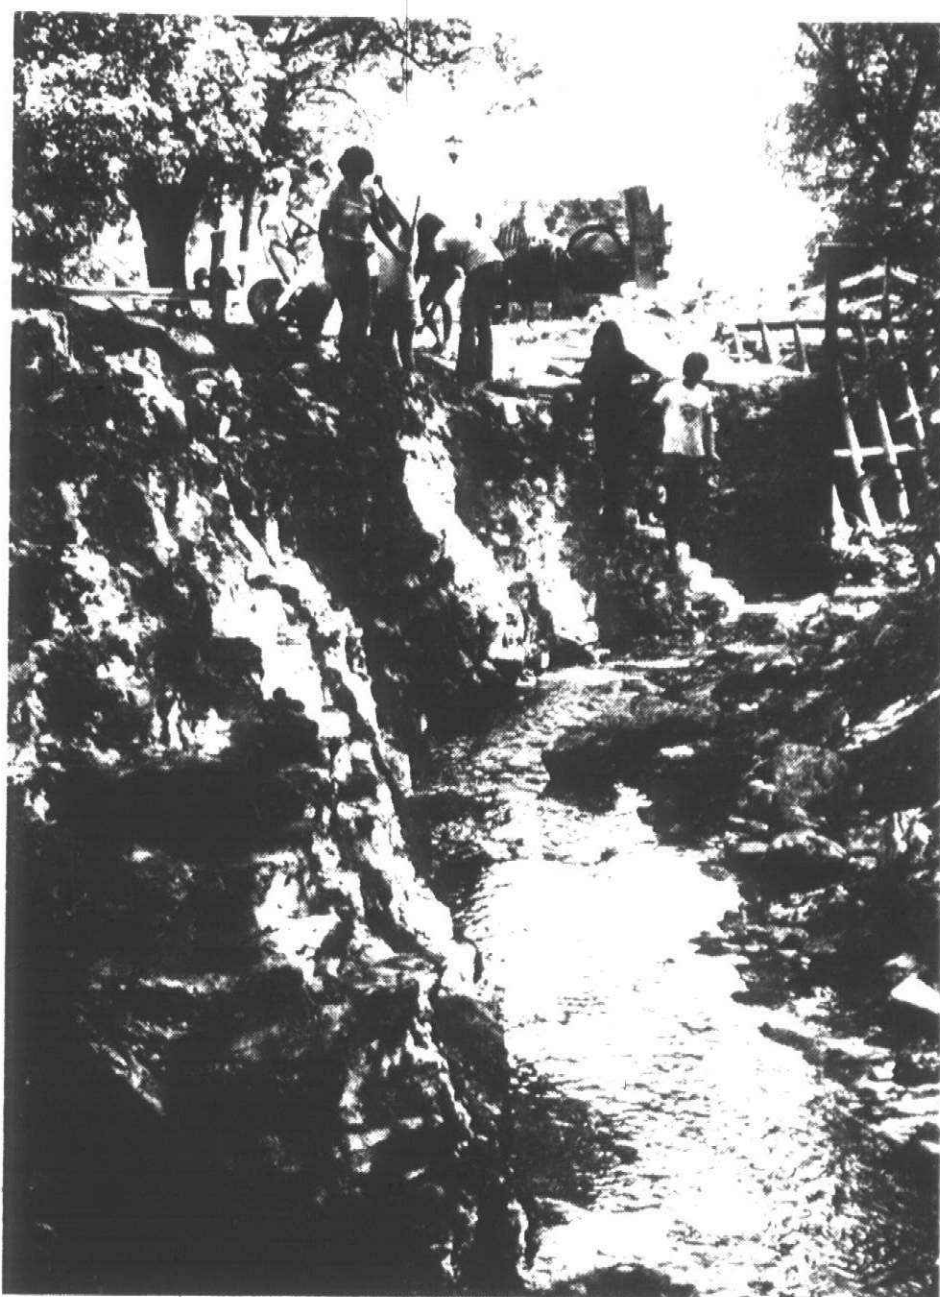

The Youth Community Conservation and Improvement work program provides work experience, income and educational programming.

The program is aided by federal CETA funding, Manpower, and the schools. An eight month program, which started in mid-February, will conclude the end of this month. A total of 28 young people were involved.

When reports and forms are completed, they will go to the schools. As many as three high school credits will be awarded by the schools, depending on the reports.

AIMS OF THE program were youth employment, career education, survival skills, self management, personal growth, technical skills and inter-personal skills.

As soon as the weather cleared in the spring, the young people spent most of their time working on outdoor projects.

Growth Works' sponsored group built retaining walls at critical flood locations on Tonquish Creek. (Staff photos by Gary Caskey)

They worked with other CETA people painting sign posts, transplanting 500 trees at Canton Nursery, and building erosion walls along Tonquish Creek. They cleaned the creek bed and painted the gazebo at Griffin Park in Canton Township. They also painted animals at the park's tot lot.

As time went on, some who never contributed to a conversation were talking freely and working well within the group. Shyness, withdrawal, disinterest were replaced by cooperation and almost non-stop chatter.

All those who started did not last the full eight months. Some moved away, some decided to return to school full-time, and others found full-time employment.

THE OUR HOUSE crisis center also is part of Growth Works.

Although fewer people overdose nowadays, drug usage is more prevalent than it was five years ago. Counseling and Intervention Services provides assistance for people interested in making new decisions about substance abuse. Counselors assist with drinking problems and provide resource information.

All services are free at the center on the corner of Harvey and Fralick streets. Counseling and services are given with complete confidentiality. They are provided on a drop-in basis or by calling the Our House Crisis Hotline.

Crisis intervention, when persons face a situation too difficult to be dealt with alone, is the field of trained counselors who will listen and work out alternatives. The service is provided from 6:30 to 10:30 p.m., Monday through Saturday at Our House or by calling the hotline, 455-4900.

On-going counseling is provided by appointment.

Tutoring is available to students 7 years of age or older. The number to call is 455-4902 weekdays from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Growth Works Counseling and Intervention Services provide a Parents Anonymous program which meets weekly and assists parents in coping with situations that could otherwise result in child abuse.

Bill Henry of the crisis center has been involved in a countywide effort to aid victims of domestic assault.

RENOVATION of the old Main Street Growth Works building has been under way with the aim of housing all its service components under one roof.

Deadline for completion of the project was this summer. Lack of money rather than lack of enthusiasm called "a halt to the effort."

Growth Works supporters and all those who have benefited from its services over the years look to the art auction as a means of providing cash to complete the project.

Annual Northville home tour Thursday

The six homes open for Northville's 16th annual home tour will feature a wide variety of periods, collections and decorating ideas. The tour will be Thursday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The 120-year-old home of the Donald Fees will be open as well as Heather Fee's weaving cottage on the back of the property.

Also of historic interest is the restored West Main Street house owned by the Willian Paquettes. The century-old Victorian office of James Cutler Realty on Center Street will feature collections of antique dolls and quilts during the tour.

The Donald Baxter home with its antiques and hand painted work by local artist Mary Beth Baxter will be open for the second time. The new owners have completely redecorated the interior of the home on Sheldon Road, south of the race track.

A notable clock collection will be on view in the home of florist Jack Smith on Westmeath. For the second year, a condominium will be included on the tour. The Kenneth Clums have agreed to open their Lexington home.

THE HOME tour is sponsored by the Northville Presbyterian Church Women's Association and the Northville Historical Society. During the tour, buildings in Mill Race Historical Village on Griswold, west of the Ford valve plant, will be open to visitors.

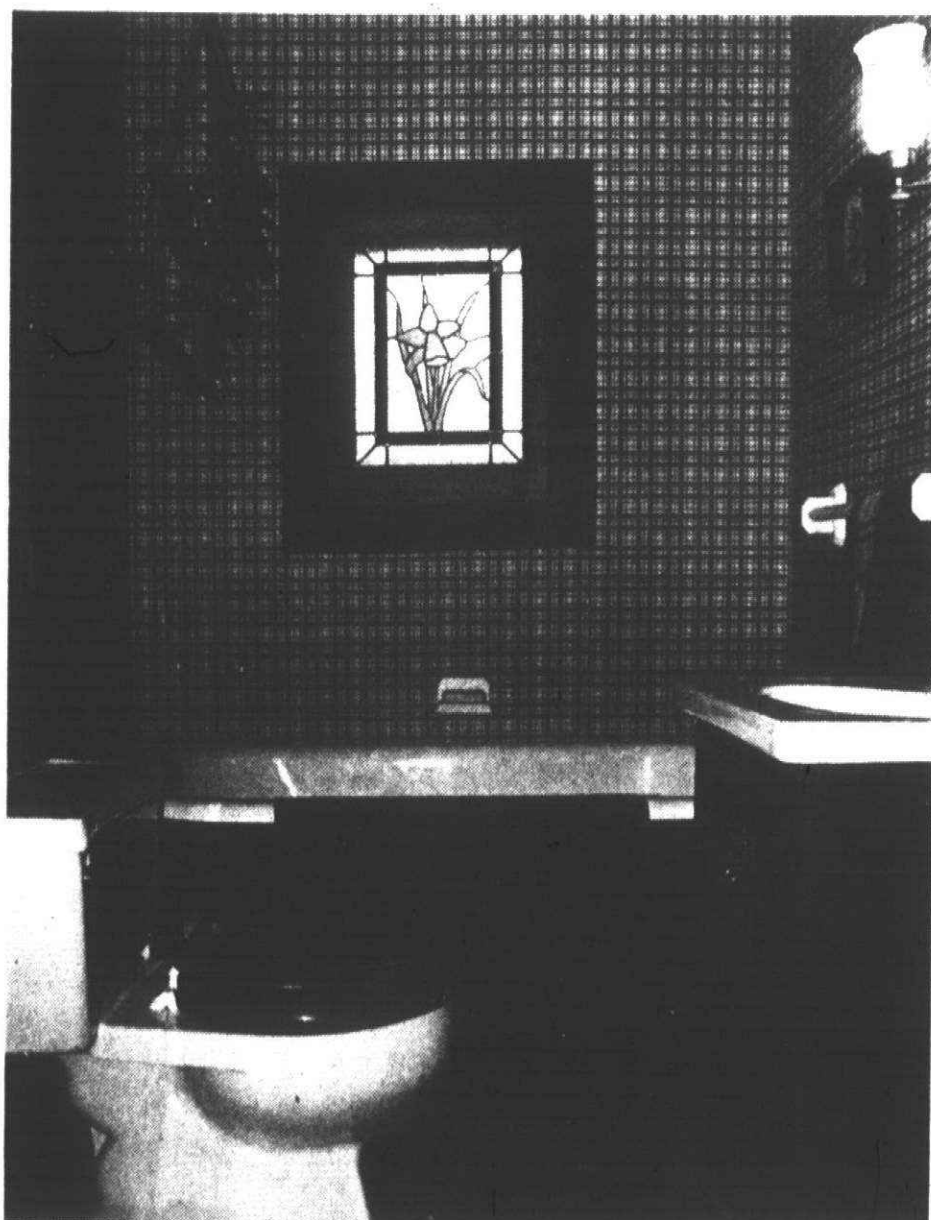

The Handweavers are planning an exhibit and sale in the cottage on the grounds of the village.

The historical society will have a bake sale at its booth at Mill Race Village.

Tour tickets, $3.50 per person, are on sale in Plymouth at Baskets 'n Bows, Claire Kelly's and the Alphabet Gallery; in Northville at Edie's IV Seasons Flowers, Village Needlepoint, Et Cetera Shop and Claire Kelly's; and in South Lyon at David's Head Start Salon.

Tickets also may be purchased Thursday, the day of the tour, at Mill Race Village.

Luncheon will be served from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Methodist Church on Eight Mile Road, and at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, 201 Elm Street.

Footed bathtub, stained glass window and shutters are featured in the Paquette bathroom.

Toys and antiques are on display in the Baxter family room.

Newer institution model for PCHD

By MICHAEL MATUSZEWSKI

They're not only at opposing ends of the metropolitan area, they're at opposing ends of the philosophical spectrum.

The Plymouth Center for Human Development (PCDHD) is a product of the "caretaker mentality." The Macomb-Oakland Regional Center for Developmental Disabilities is a product of the era of community mental health.

Macomb-Oakland is an leader in community placement. The institution, six duplex homes, has room for 90 beds, but about 800 persons have been placed back in the community.

Plymouth, on the other hand, is home to nearly 800 persons.

Macomb-Oakland has a national and international reputation for excellence. The Plymouth Center is trying to battle back its darkest hour when charges of massive abuse of its retarded residents were substantiated.

SLOWLY PCHD is trying to become more like its neighbor to the east.

The center's newest director, Eranell McIntosh-Wilson, is trying to steer Plymouth not only down the straight and narrow but on the path of community placement.

"When everybody's concerned about warehousing, that makes it very difficult to be an ideal training center," Mrs. McIntosh-Wilson said.

Prior to coming to beleaguered Plymouth, the new director headed up the programming operations of the Mt. Pleasant Center for Human Development. She has also served as clinical training director for the University of Kansas Medical Center and has been an instructor in Chicago State University's departments of psychology and special education.

While her institution is not like the Macomb-Oakland center, her philosophy is not all that different from Provencal's. She, too, is a product of the era of community mental health trying to focus more attention to moving PCDH residents back into the community through foster and group homes.

She future plans for PCHD call for cutting back the resident population from the present 776 to less than 225 by 1984.

That does not mean the retarded will go without the necessary care and training, she said. It means a turn to the community. It means more foster homes and group homes.

FOSTER HOMES AND GROUP HOMES are by-words with Macomb-Oakland administrators. According to Jerry Provencal, acting director of the Mt. Clemens-based center, they have directed would-be residents to 30 group homes and 150 foster homes.

Group homes usually house six retarded residents and several persons responsible for the maintenance and operation of the home. Foster homes, sometimes called community training homes, a mentally retarded child will move in with a family who takes on the much of the responsibility for his or her care and training.

Macomb-Oakland, Provencal said, is developing 19 more groups and 25 more foster homes in the two northern suburban counties.

MACOMB-OAKLAND wrote the book on developing community placement services for the mentally retarded. It was able to because it had an unusual birth in a time when the "caretaker" and "warehousing" mentality was on the way out.

Unlike the Plymouth Center, whose eight large halls have held as many as 1,300 residents, the Macomb-Oakland center was born without any facilities. They developed as the philosophies and programs evolved.

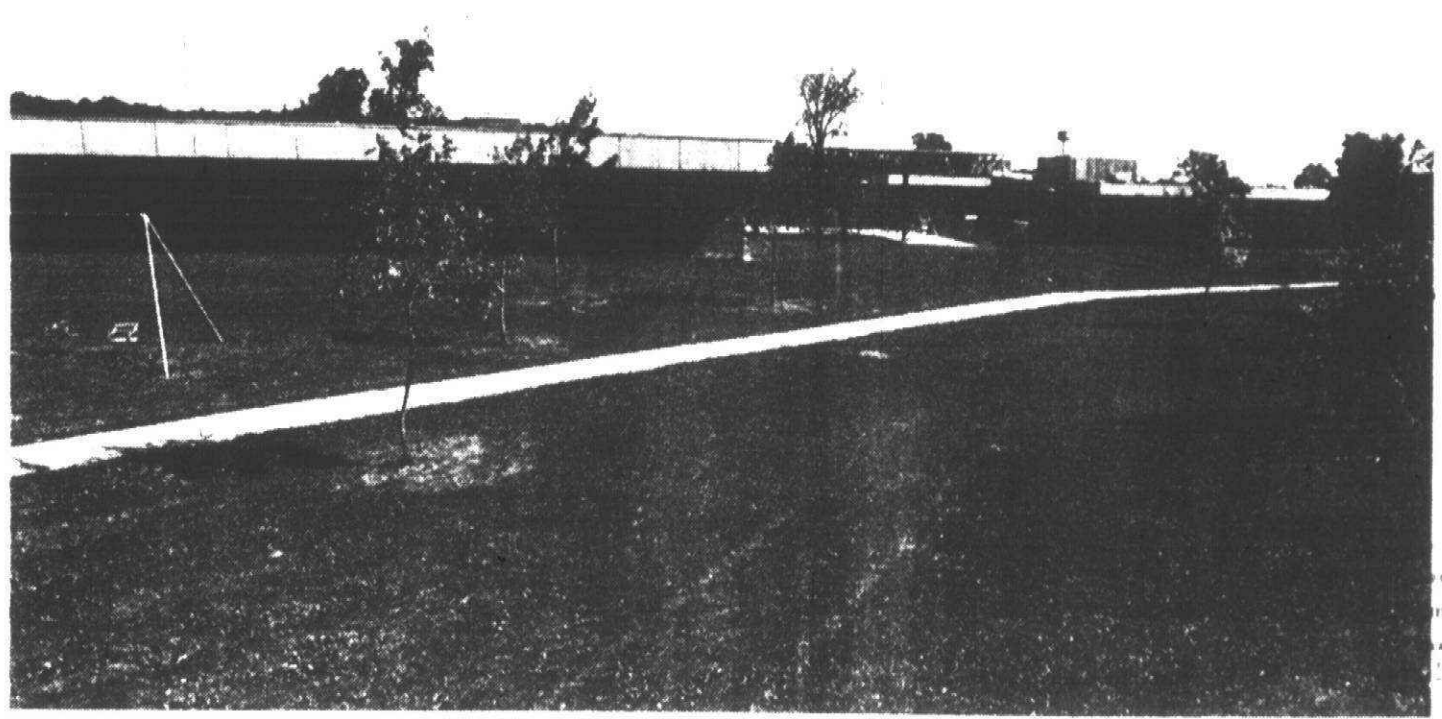

The Macomb-Oakland Regional Center had a director even before it had any official headquarters. That director, David Rosen, was one of the Department of Mental Health's ace troubleshooters dispatched to troubled Plymouth as part of a no-holds-barred clean-up effort.

Rosen, who built a sterling operation from the ground up, was supposed to set PCHD on the track back to respectability.

PROVENCAL, WHO as Rosen director of programs helped build Macomb-Oakland's international reputation, explained the keys to their success.

The most important point, he said, was developing a core of specialists whose only job is to recruit foster parents and engineer new group homes.

"Unlike typical mental health work-

The institutional look is german to the buildings at the Plymouth Center for Human Development, but those in charge of caring for the retarded are learners who are experts in counseling and crisis intervention, these people know plumbing codes, zoning restrictions, insurance requirements and income tax laws," Provencal said.

"You need a group of zealots who believe community placement is the better way to go," he said. "And you've got to get those x people to become specialists in finding homes in the community. Traditionally that job has been given to the social worker.

"We've made an art out of it," Provencal said proudly.

"In the past," he added, "we weren't so good at recruiting foster parents. We sat back and waited for foster parents to come to us. Now we go out and look. The job is seen as much more important than ever before."

Macomb-Oakland's model for community recruiting specialists has been copied throughout the state and the country. Only two DMH institutions have not begun to implement the idea. The Plymouth Center is one.

ACCORDING TO Mrs. McIntosh-Wilson, the task of finding foster homes and developing group homes has been left to the Wayne Center, which is affiliated with the Wayne County mental Health Board, and state placement agencies at the Southgate Regional Center for Developmental Disabilities and the Northville Retarded Training Center.

She said the Plymouth Center's main concern is not finding places in the community but matching its residents with those places.

While Mrs. McIntosh-Wilson claims there has been some modest success opening foster and group homes in the Wayne County, some observers wonder if the Plymouth Center might not be better served by adopting the approach pioneered by its Macomb and Oakland County counterparts.

ACCORDING TO PROVENCAL institutions that have not gone over to the Macomb-Oakland plan, could very easily do so.

"All that's necessary is setting aside a group of specialists to recruit and develop. Remember that'll be their full-time job.

"In a single year they might be able to open six group homes. After the first six are opened you learn so much that the next six come so much easier," Provencal said.

Macomb-Oakland opened its first group home in January 1974. In 1978 30 group homes were in operating. The center cultivated its first foster home in 1973 and five years later the number stands at 150.

UM-D financial aid shows large increase

Students at the University of Michigan-Dearborn received approximately $1.2 million in financial aid during the 1976-77 fiscal year.

The $1.2 million figure represents a 63 per cent increase over the 1973-74 fiscal year. During this same four-year period, U of M-Dearborn's FTE (full-time equivalent) enrollment increased by 49 per cent.

The data was from a questionnaire completed by all colleges and universities in Michigan, and included all forms of financial aid from public and private sources.

The fall smorgasbord has been an annual event for almost 20 years. The group now meets in the Grange Hall. They met for years in the Masonic Temple, until the high rent forced them to find a new meeting place. Their move took them around the corner to the old Grange Hall which met with their needs of kitchen facilities and a lodge room.

Dreamy car turns on them

Mark Hamill, who was so bland in "Star Wars" he couldn't outact a couple of robots, has gone full tilt in the other direction. He now belongs to the "intense" school of acting. At least, "intensity" best sums up his characterization in "Corvette Summer" (PG).

The intensity doesn't derive from passionate concern about people, politics or saving the gray whale. Its focus is a car, a Corvette Stingray. As Kenny Dantley, Hamill plays a graduating high school senior who has rebuilt a wrecked Corvette that he saved from a junkyard crusher.

When the car is stolen, he goes in search of it. After a tip that it's in Las Vegas, he starts hitchhiking.

On the way, he gets a lift from Vanessa (Annie Potts). Vanessa drives a customized van with a waterbed in it.

She's a neophyte hooker going to Vegas to bolster her career. The two fall in love with each other. She hopes to become a high-priced call girl; he hopes to retrieve his car.

However, Vanessa would like to practice with Dantley, who seems to be more roused by fiberglass bodies than real ones. She finally manages to ignite Dantley, although, the Corvette is clearly his first and virginal love.

THE MOVIE then is punctuated by lovers' spats and Corvette sightings. Dantley singlehandedly goes after the heavies—a gang of organized car thieves.

He can't remember his car's license number; still, he's sure that he's more capable of locating the Vette than the police.

Meanwhile, Vanessa is trying to launch her bumpy career. Annie Potts as Vanessa has so many different hair styles and looks that it's difficult to recognize her from one scene to the next.

We just have to go with Dantley and assume his instincts are correct and that he recognizes her—probably some detail in her trim.

"Corvette Summer" clearly is a film aimed at the youth market, but parents with subteens who want to see this PG-rated movie might think twice about it. The sex scenes aren't explicit, but references to Vanessa's career ambitions are.

The tone is glib and noncensuring, as if she were studying to become an engineer or a teacher. Many people will find this moral laxity offensive, especially since it is wrapped in cuteness.

Hamill is cute because he is so boyish and so devoted to his car. Potts is cute because of the bumbling way she goes about her trade.

Together they are cute because they appear as not-too-bright but very earnest young people.

And if they get married and have a sequel, you can bet it will be even cuter.

They're 'animals'

John Belushi (left) seems to be trying to look a gift horse in the mouth as he greets Stephen Furst, a pledge of the "animal house" fraternity, as rowdy a bunch of misfits as ever graced a college campus, in "National Lampoon's Animal House," a Universal release at Detroit area theaters.

Glimpses

NEW RELEASES

COMING HOME (R). Powerful story of Vietnam era, with Jane Fonda as an officer's wife who falls in love with disabled vet, Jon Voight.

CORVETTE SUMMER (PG). Boy chases stolen Corvette and catches car and girl. Mark Hamill and Annie Potts get in gear.

THE DRIVER (R). Attempts to artily develop melodrama about rivalry between a professional getaway driver (Ryan O'Neal) and the cop (Bruce Dern) who hunts him.

THE END (R). Black comedy about misadventures of an about-to-die guy. Burt Reynolds and Dom Deluise star.

EYES OF LAURA MARS (R). Suspense about fashion photographer (Faye Dunaway) haunted by terror.

FOUL PLAY (PG). A romantic comedy-thriller with a goodly number of laughs, albeit many of them are "borrowed" from other films.

GREASE (PG). Broadway musical about the funky '50s is translated to the film with John Travolta and Olivia Newton-John.

HEAVEN CAN WAIT (PG). Warren Beatty's successful and distinctive remake of humorous fantasy "Here Comes Mr. Jordan." Football player goes to heaven and returns to earth as business tycoon. Fine performances.

HOOPER (PG). Burt Reynolds is the "greatest stuntman in the world" who has to go one better than his young up-and-coming rival (Jan Michael Vincent). Entertaining.

NATIONAL LAMPOON'S ANIMAL HOUSE (R). Outrageous and raunchy comedy about life at Delta Fraternity House, the bottom-of-the-barrel fraternity on a small college campus in the early '60s.

REVENGE OF THE PINK PANTHER (PG). Peter Sellers is superb as the idiotic but successful Chief Inspector Clouseau. A fine addition to the "Panther" series.

SEPTEMBER 30, 1955 (PG). Richard Thomas stars in wistful reminiscence of the '50s set at time of James Dean's death.

WHO'LL STOP THE RAIN (R). Taut, suspenseful movie of pursuit. Nick Nolte, Tuesday Weld and Michael Moriarty attempt to evade capture and unload two kilos of heroin smuggled from Vietnam.

Travelling doesn't just mean to vacate and play

By IRIS SANDERSON JONES

Travel is more than a way to see the world. For Gretchen Scharfenberg of Farmington Hills, it added a perspective on life that she didn't have before.

Gretchen has travelled seriously ever since she graduated from North Farmington High School in 1973. But a recent two-month trip from Guatemala to the Galapagos gave her a completely new idea of what life is all about.

She made the trip this summer with Tanya Lahti, a University of Michigan student.

The two young women spent a month busing around Guatemala, then drove down the Pan American Highway through Honduras, Nicaragua and Costa Rica, flew to Ecuador and boated through the Galapagos Islands.

"I've been camping all my life, so it's no big deal to meet people who don't have hot water or a refrigerator," Gretchen said.

"What impressed me was the ability of the Indians, especially in Guatemala, to be very happy with life when they had absolutely nothing."

"The whole family works with its hands, so the daily results of their lives are tangible and visible. My lasting memory is of old faces which were calm and accepting, of communities where people cared about one another."

How does she relate that to her own life as a student in art and art history at Eastern Michigan University?

"I graduate next year, and I've worried about my future. You know the question 'What am I going to do with my life?' Now I realize that you can be perfectly content without knowing what you're going to do with your life."

"You can live from day to day, focusing on life as it is now, and that's all you need to do."

She plans to return to South America after graduation because she said she only scratched the surface of an entirely new world.

THE WOMEN left Detroit with a knapsack and a bedroll to drive to Miami and fly to Guatemala City. Only Tanya spoke Spanish. They spent their first week at Lake Atitlan, where many Americans live.

"The only way to get around is on old buses or by signing on for working trucks," Gretchen said. "You're squashed between a mother feeding her baby, and a mass of kids, but you know you are really among the people."

"We boated around the lake and visited Indian villages, where every group has its own style of embroidery and weaving."

It was here and in the remote mountain village of Nebaj where she began to feel at home with Indian families.

"They will ask you into their thatched huts with mud floors to see the embroidered blouses they make. The blouses look like museum pieces."

"I cannot explain the feeling of looking across a room or a village square at another human being and acknowledging one another with your eyes, even if you cannot speak together."

"The sense of human community is unforgettable."

Another sense of community developed for young travelers in the southern hemisphere, where young people from Europe and North America create their own helpful community on the move.

"We met the same people again and again, especially in Ecuador," Gretchen said. "Each time we would exchange information about where we had been and where we should go next."

This sense of being at a crossroads, like the old crossroads of the east, permeated their trip even on remote jungle trails.

"We were walking down a trail one day, completely lost, when we came upon a group of Indians building one person's house. They welcomed us, and offered a gourd of homemade wine. I tried it but I wouldn't have been able to walk with that inside me."

The two young travelers finally arrived in the Galapagos Islands where Bill Buttermere, Tanya's fiancé, was aboard the National Science Foundation boat Alpha Helix studying the heat transfer of marine iguanas.

Bill and Tanya were supposed to be married in the Galapagos Islands. It never happened. The local authorities remembered another wedding only a few weeks before, where the bride was a practicing bigamist. The authorities decided to have no more weddings there.

Gretchen's group took a five-day

"My lasting memory is of old faces which were calm and accepting, of communities where people cared about one another."

— Gretchen Scharfenberg.

boat trip through the islands that Darwin used to support his theories of evolution. Tourists must obtain permission from the Darwin station, and agree to stay on marked paths so that the environment will not be spoiled for animal study.

"You would not believe the groups of tourists who arrive in places like that by boat, or who come into a village by bus. They swarm off, grab a hundred pictures and drive away again," Gretchen said. She is as amazed as the local Indians by the practice.

One of her favorite memories is of another kind. She bought a cloth handbag without a strap, and then sat down alone in a village to create a macrame strap.

"Slowly, the Indians in the village began to sit at my feet and watch," Gretchen said. "One young girl wanted to learn. I showed her only once, then handed her the macrame."

"She did it perfectly and was still doing it when I left."

TRAVEL LOG of Iris Jones

Many years ago, when I lived in Singapore, I tried to explain the world map to Ah Sung, our 40-year-old Chinese house servant who bossed us around so we called her the Tyrant of Tanglin Road.

"This is China, where your family comes from," I said, pointing to the land mass which occupies 3,782,612 square miles in east central Asia.

"China very big," Ah Sung said.

"And this is England."

"This England?" she asked, placing her hand over all of Europe and half of Russia.

"No, this is England," I placed the tip of her index finger on the British Isles.

She wouldn't believe me. Ah Sung was educated although she had never been to school. She was smart. She knew how to do things like dry squid for long distance mailing, and she knew that the British dominated Asia for generations.

It was a form of culture shock for her to learn that England is only a small island.

I'M HAVING THE same problem with the map of India. I leave for India soon with 250 other members of the Society of American Travel Writers. I will spend one week in Delhi in the north, travel with seven other writers to the southern cities of Madras and Trivandrum to Bombay, and then finish with five days in Nepal.

I have spent days on my knees over National Geographic maps locating these cities, and reinforcing the lesson I learned from Ah Sung.

Most of us place our hometown firmly in the center of the map, with Europe and Asia stretching vaguely out across the water to the east and west and the southern countries petering out to the south.

India, Asia, Africa and South America all have basically the same shape in our minds: fat at the top and narrowing to a point at the south.

Earth is more than a metro area

It is the relation of one place to another, and the reality of distances that fools us. I learned 20 years ago that Hong Kong is not on the way from San Francisco to Australia, and that New Zealand is 1,400 miles of rough sea from the nearest Aussie coastline.

I also learned that we are just one civilization among many on this planet.

I have known for some time, but I am just now learning in my gut that India is many different regions and peoples speaking in various tongues across the roughly 2,000-mile shoulder from Calcutta to Bombay and down the 2,000 miles from the Himalayas to India's southern tip.

If you would like to join me on this trip, get out your map. My diary on India will begin in this column in October.

If you have been to India, I'd like to hear from you.

BITS AND PIECES—The people who help to make travel decisions on a nationwide basis are often people from your own home town.

Deborah Funk came home this month to visit her mother, Betty Funk, in Farmington Hills and to share some highlights of her job as assistant survey director of the Opinion Research Co.

Ms. Funk specializes in travel. She is the one who told the government travel experts in India what people should know about India. And it is her information that forms the basis for many an airline advertisement.

Her main interest is travel for the handicapped. She thinks that the U.S. is one of the countries which has shown the least interest in the problems of handicapped travelers.

"We are one of the few countries that doesn't have a national travel policy," Ms. Funk said. She hopes that some progress may be made towards that goal when a congressional subcommittee meets to talk about travel this fall.

Artifacts shown

Artifacts from many corners of the world—Ecuador, Africa, India and Morocco—along with a selection of American Indian crafts and textiles will be shown this Friday and Saturday.

The collection was gathered by two young women, Bobbie Besser of Bloomfield Township and Linda Golden of Oak Park.

They joined forces to form a business called Artifacts.

The showing will be held at "Socially Yours," an interior decorating shop, 26045 Coolidge, Oak Park, 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. both days.

Lilly Snyder ends 25-year career with Bathey

By W.W. EDGAR

For most of the 25 years she worked in the office of the Bathey Manufacturing Co. on Mill Street, Lilly Snyder kept looking forward to the day when she could retire and spend her time traveling.

That day came several weeks ago when she cleaned off her desk and began to dream of places like Sweden and the Scandinavian countries.

Seated in the living room of her cozy home on Amelia Street, the same house in which she was born more than a half-century ago, she spoke of her plans and the thrills she expects as she travels the globe with no more thoughts of the problems of being an executive secretary and sales correspondent.

For the time being, she is going to enjoy the fall in Plymouth, then it will be off to Arizona for a sojourn in a home owned by her daughter, Marcia Dawson of Northville.

After that it will be a leisurely trip to Sweden to visit relatives and friends in various sections of Europe.

Traveling the globe will be nothing new for her. Already she has had the thrill of traveling through India and Australia and she never has lost the desire to see the world.

Recalling her experiences on the way to retirement, Mrs. Snyder traced her life, step by step, to the goal of retirement that she had dreamed of for so long.

She graduated from Plymouth High School in 1940, but in the previous year, she was the first female student enrolled in the apprenticeship course. There she learned the basics of office work that has stood her in good stead all these years.

After leaving the apprenticeship course she was employed by the Wall Wire Co. that then was located in Plymouth. From there she shifted to Daisy Air Rifle. When her husband was assigned to the Air Force in Texas, she accompanied him and worked in the office.

Returning from Texas, she joined the Bathey Co. in 1953. The company had settled in Plymouth in 1948, so she has been with it almost since it located on S. Mill Street. It was only natural that she should select the Bathey Co., as it is just around the corner from the old homestead that contains many pleasant memories for her.

"I don't know what I would have done after my husband died seven years ago," she said, "if it was not for the many friends who comforted me over the rough spots. They have been just fine, and still are."

Many of them were the group that tendered Mrs. Snyder a recent farewell party at Nicky's in Livonia. Now she is counting the days to bag her bags and start traveling.

Lilly Snyder rests under the patio umbrella presented as a gift from Bathey employees upon her retirement. (Staff photo)

Senate delays gas tax vote

By TIM RICHARD

The Michigan Senate put off to this week a decision on whether to raise gasoline and diesel fuel taxes and vehicle weight taxes.

But on one point it agreed last Thursday: If gasoline taxes are going to rise two cents a gallon, diesel fuel taxes will rise with them.

The senate beat down a finance committee amendment to leave the diesel fuel tax at seven cents a gallon, despite arguments that interstate truckers would fuel up in Ohio and Indiana to beat the increase.

THE FINAL vote, after hours of maneuvering, was 17-16.

Voting to keep the diesel fuel tax as part of the $168.5 million "total transportation package" were Sens. William Faust (D-Westland), R. Robert Geake (R-Northville) and Bill S. Huffman (D-Madison Heights).

Voting to remove the diesel hike from the bill were Sens. Daniel S. Cooper (D-Oak Park) and Donald Bishop (R-Rochester).

Geake, however, will oppose the total tax bills when—and if—they come up for a final vote this week. He said his mail from private citizens had been running almost unanimously against it.

One notable exception: Edward H. McNamara, who as mayor of Livonia wants to see cities' road funds beefed up 25 per cent and as chairman of the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority would like to see public transit funding hiked the same proportion.

Said Geake: "We can fund the transit funding ($20 million) out of existing revenue. I don't think we need new revenue."

THAT ILLUSTRATED the dilemma many senators found themselves in last week. Cities and road commissions (with the exception of Oakland County's) were solid in seeking new road funds.

But many suburban and outstate senators were hostile to SEMTA and its rapid transit plans, some of which include a subway in the Woodward Avenue corridor.

Democratic Floor Leader Faust called a party caucus in the middle of Thursday afternoon to see if he could put together enough votes for passage. He couldn't, so the bills were put off until this week.

Democrats reportedly wanted Republicans, under pressure from Gov. Milliken, to put up at least six of their 14 votes for the tax part of the package.

But only three Republicans support it—Gilbert Bursley of Ann Arbor, Richard Allen of Alma and Hal Ziegler of Jackson.

Republicans offered a deal the Democrats refused: If certain "swing" district senators such as Jerome Hart of Saginaw would back the tax hikes, the GOP would find six votes from its caucus.

The apparent strategy is that Democrats wanted only senators from "safe" districts to support the tax hikes while the GOP sought to use those votes as a weapon against senators they might pick off Nov. 7.

HOUSE BILL 4407, which passed the house a week earlier with only one vote to spare, calls for raising the gasoline tax from the current nine cents to 11 and the diesel fuel tax from seven cents to nine. The last increase was five years ago.

Oddly enough, both backers of the transit package—such as Sens. Patrick McCullough (D-Dearborn) and David Plawecki (D-Dearborn Heights)—and opponents—such as Geake and Jack Welborn (R-Kalamazoo)—split on the diesel fuel hike.

McCollough and Welborn argued that Michigan would lose 30-40 per cent of its diesel fuel tax revenue, along with a lot of truck stop business, if the tax were hiked 28 percent. Ohio and Wisconsin collect seven cents a gallon and Ohio eight.

They said it would be futile to raise the diesel tax because truckers could too easily avoid it. Some large trucks have 200-gal. tanks with ranges of 1,000 miles, they said.

Plawecki responded: "I recognize the concerns of the truck stop business, but they're no different than the concerns of anybody else. If we exempt them, we're saying, 'The trucking industry should not pay for upgrading the roads.'"

"Trucks cause 25 per cent of road maintenance and bring in 10 per cent of the revenue. They're getting a two cents a gallon) break already," Plawecki said.

HUFFMAN, whose district includes the southeast part of Troy, admitted "I did the biggest flip-flop of all" in deciding to support the transportation package.

"If you take a poll, everyone will tell you they want better facilities—better universities, better mental health, better roads. But they don't want to pay for them."

"I admire Zolton Ferency for being against the Headlee and Tisch amendments," Huffman said, referring to arguments the voters are in no mood for tax increases. "Once in a while you have to have the guts to make a decision even if you get beat in an election. Sometimes you have to stick your neck out and lead. You gotta respect Bill Milliken for having the guts to come out for this issue."

Racine Hydraulics to relocate in Westland

This is the architect's view of how the Westland facility of Racine Hydraulics will look upon completion late this year. It is being erected in the Cherry Hill-Newburgh Industrial Center at a cost of about $750,000, with floor space of 29,000 square feet.

Racine Hydraulics of Michigan, Inc. is celebrating the 20th anniversary of its founding with the construction of a new $750,000 facility in Westland.

The 29,000-square-foot plant will be located on nearly three acres at 375 Manufacturers Drive in the Cherry Hill-Newburgh Industrial Center. The building formerly occupied by Racine on Arnold Avenue in Redford Township has been offered for sale.

Construction of the Westland facility started early in August and the building is scheduled for completion about Dec. 1. Klaetke & Marino is the architectural firm in charge. The construction contract is held by Anthony-Bennett Contractors, Inc.

Racine is engaged in the engineering, sales, service, repair and distribution of hydraulic componentry and systems, primarily to the machine tool industry and the automotive industry.

Racine also does light manufacturing and assembly of total hydraulic systems and hydrostatic drives.

Racine was founded in 1958 in Detroit by a group of eight men who joined forces after all had worked for another firm in the same field. They started with 13 employees in a building with 2,000 square feet of floor space.

There now are 50 employees and of the 29,000 square feet available in the new Westland facility, 6,000 will be given over to office space and 23,000 will be used as warehouse, shop and service areas.

President W. W. Tulloch, Jr., revealed that a unique feature of Racine is that it is totally owned by 24 of its employees.

He said stock offerings are generally made annually to both old and selected newer employees to perpetuate this concept of ownership.

Tulloch predicted that 1978 sales will approach the $8 million figure, establishing a new all-time company high for the fourth year in a row.

W. W. Tulloch Jr., president of Racine Hydraulics of Michigan, Inc., lends a helping hand as construction of the firm's new Westland plant.

State Labor Director praises employers' safety compliance

By PAT BABCOCK
State Labor Director

When the Michigan Occupational Safety and Health Act (MIOSHA) is discussed, one often hears stories about businesses being fined for having their bathroom doors painted the wrong color.

It's unfortunate that MIOSHA has acquired that image, although I will candidly admit that there are requirements in the law that have little to contribute to our goal of protecting the safety and health of workers.

On the whole, MIOSHA has proven to be a positive program which has directed its effort toward providing a safe and healthful environment for Michigan's working people.

This is evidenced by a reduction of more than 15 per cent in Michigan's injury and illness rate.

We have accomplished this reduction by a two-pronged approach—education and enforcement.

BECAUSE NEARLY 80 per cent of industrial accidents are caused by human error, we saw the need to provide safety education programs to make the worker more aware of the importance of safety consciousness as individuals.

Our Safety Education and Training Division works extensively with public and private employers to develop safety consciousness among labor and management.

Statistics show that a comprehensive program conducted by our Safety Education and Training Division can reduce the injury rate by 40 per cent.

Earlier this year, our Bureau of Safety and Regulation conducted a sample survey of 124 Michigan firms which had completed the Labor Department's Safety Director Education Program.

These firms averaged a drop of 38 per cent in on-the-job injuries and, in fact, 81 per cent of the firms experienced a decrease in overall injury rates as a result of participation in the safety program.

In the enforcement area, MIOSHA inspectors conducted 21,229 inspections in fiscal year 1977, and as a result 44,749 violations were cited and corrected.

A recent federal evaluation of MIOSHA said that we "have a settled, methodical way of carrying out its functions. There is evidence of diligent, competent personnel working in every phase of MIOSHA. MIOSHA is generally more orderly, more efficient and more systematic than OSHA."

I frankly feel that we have one of the best run state programs in the country. The legislature and the governor made a good policy decision back in 1974 by electing to operate our own program rather than have a federally approved program in Michigan.

IN THE REMAINDER of 1978 and during 1979, the Department of Labor will continue to build on the strengths of MIOSHA with emphasis on:

- Reducing paperwork by 75 per cent.
- Eliminating superfluous rules which have no apparent benefit to the health and safety of workers, i.e. bathroom doors and coat hooks.
- Fair, objective, but firm enforcement of MIOSHA standards.
- Continuation of education activities.

And, we will make those changes logically, instead of using the meat-axe approach like the U.S. Congress is using, evidenced by recent U.S. Senate approval of legislation exempting firms with 10 or fewer fulltime employees from OSHA regulations.

It does not make sense, for example, for a cabinet shop having nine employees to be able to run circular saws without safety guards while a shop with 11 employees would be required to install such guards.

BADLY EQUIPPED machines kill and maim and toxic chemicals do irreparable harm to health, regardless of the number of employees in a shop where these conditions exist.

Michigan employers, with few exceptions, have been very cooperative and have corrected unsafe conditions voluntarily.

Since implementation of the law, only 40 companies have refused entry to safety officers. During that time, more than 65,000 inspections were made and it was necessary to seek warrants in less than 50 instances.

We also rely on the worker to bring hazardous conditions to our attention.

Most workers don't realize that they are protected by law from any actions against them by the employer as a result of their having reported a hazardous condition.

As I have indicated, MIOSHA is not a perfect program, but it is a good program and I am committed to making it even better.

Countywide Vial of Life project's success hinges upon community support

By BETTY MASSON
Special Writer

How do you pay for and deliver vial of life kits to almost a million homes?

That question is occupying the minds of many people in Wayne County as an Oct. 21 deadline approaches.

The project is headed by the Wayne County Vial of Life Task Force, but local community involvement and sponsorship will be the key to its success.

By Oct. 21, the task force is hoping to have arrangements completed for door-to-door distribution of vials of life to the 857,000 homes in the county.

The vials do not contain some magic elixir, but something of great value in an emergency—information.

It is hoped that each household in the county will have at least one. Family members will put completed forms dealing with each person's medical history into the vials.

The vials will then be taped under the first shelf on the left hand side of the refrigerator. Stickers are to be pasted on the door of the refrigerator and on the front door, so that if an emergency arises, ambulance crews will know where to look for information.

"IT'S A LOT BETTER than scooping up all the medicine bottles they can find and taking them to the hospital with them," said Plymouth Fire Chief George Schoenneman.

Both Schoenneman and Fire Chief Onas Rowe of Garden City praised the project.

Plymouthite wins tribute as he quits IMI board

Donald R. Bidwell of Plymouth, a founding trustee and first chairman of the Board of Trustees and Advisors of the International Masonry Institute, has retired from the masonry promotion group's board.

A mason contractor and a former president of the Mason Contractors Association of America, Bidwell served for eight years on the IMI board. He has been replaced by C. Dewitt Brown, a mason contractor of Dallas.

Bidwell also is a former member of the Plymouth City Commission and served a term as mayor pro tem.

Hailing Bidwell for his service to IMI, the board noted that he "has richly earned the appreciation and gratitude of the entire masonry industry of the United States and Canada."

"His friends and colleagues on the IMI board, as well as all those who have worked with IMI, have relied on his wise counsel, energetic support and dedication."

IMI is an international masonry promotion trust jointly created by the Mason Contractors Association of America and the International Union of Bricklayers and Allied Craftmen. It is active in both the U.S. and Canada.

"The vials of life are of great value to the emergency crews," said Rowe.

The refrigerator was chosen as a good place for the safekeeping of the vials because it is less likely to suffer fire and smoke damage.

Task force participants point out that it also is a good idea to have a vial of life in the glove compartment of an automobile.

A person who is allergic to some drug, for instance, may carry that information in his wallet, but it takes time to look for wallets and more time to look through them. Stickers on the car window and on the glove compartment alert emergency crews as to where they can find the information they need quickly.

Even for a healthy person, the knowledge that he does not have an allergy or a serious medical problem could save precious seconds in an emergency.

ACCORDING TO THE task force, about 87,000 emergency runs are made in Wayne County each year.

The task force is composed of citizens and representatives of municipalities and county government. It is headed by Ervin Steiner, county commissioner Grosse Pointe, where the program was successfully undertaken by the Rotary Club and police departments.

The committee is working to implement the program without using any public tax funds, according to Steiner.

And this is where the communities come in.

They are expected to pay for the kits themselves, through private sponsorship, service clubs, local governments, or wherever the money can be obtained.

Cost of the vials is $5.45 for each 100. They were formerly about $15 a hundred, but the task force was able to obtain federal surplus vials more cheaply.

There may be an extra cost if the sponsor wants to have his name imprinted on the vials, but even this cost is being borne by the printer on orders of more than 2,000. Extra information about health services and safety measures is included in the kits at the discretion of the sponsors.

REDFORD TOWNSHIP's program is well under way. Distribution already has been completed in the area between Six and Eight Mile, and the kits will be distributed to all 20,000 homes in the township.

The program is sponsored by Richard Manning, county commissioner; Ruth Sullivan, township clerk; Redford Community Hospital, Kingsboro Pharmacy, Redford-Farmington Emergency Ambulance Service and Stark Hickey Ford-West.

Packing has been done by the Redford Senior Citizens Commission and

BPW to learn why women fail in business

"Why Women Don't Make It in Business" will be the topic of a District 10 meeting of the Business and Professional Women's clubs.

Bert Whitehead, associate professor and coordinator of the business department of Marygrove College, will address the BPW fall meeting beginning at noon Sunday, Oct. 1 in Machus Sly Fox, 725 Hunter, Birmingham.

The district covers Oakland County and portions of northern Wayne County. Luncheon cost is $9. Reservations, due by Wednesday, may be made by contacting Catherine Lahey at 565-8060.

Whitehead recently introduced an innovative women in management program into Marygrove's curriculum. He was with Burroughs Corp. 10 years as corporate affirmative action officer and acting director of fair employment practices. He has degrees in psychology, business administration and law.

Club, with deliveries made by the Redford Boy Scout Council.

Other communities are presently concentrating their efforts on getting the vials to senior citizens.

In Livonia, 2,000 vials have been ordered. The work is being planned by Mary Dumas of the Livonia Commission on Aging. Working on distribution is Cathy Montgomery, coordinator of senior citizen activities.

It is estimated that Livonia has more than 8,000 senior citizens. The Junior Chamber of Commerce has promised to help with distribution and some financial support, and the Commission on Aging may be another source of financial support.

According to Mrs. Dumas, officials at St. Mary Hospital have promised help with distribution, and students at Ladywood High School will be asked to help put the kits together.

But to buy the kits and get them into every home, much more help will be needed, and Mrs. Dumas is getting in touch with businessmen, service clubs and scout organizations.

THE GARDEN CITY Fire Department has ordered 2,000 vials with "the city picking up the tab," according to Chief Rowe.

These will be distributed to persons in the senior citizens' complex near city hall. Those interested may also pick up vials at fire department headquarters. If there is a problem with transportation, the firemen will deliver the vials.

Again, more help will be needed before house-to-house distribution can be contemplated.

Much the same situation prevails in Plymouth, where the work is being undertaken by the new Community Council on Aging, under the direction of Florence Griggs.

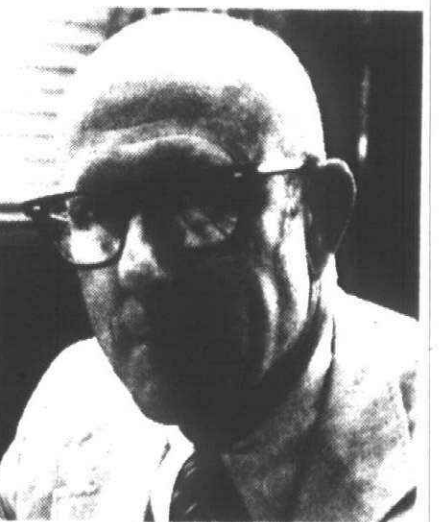

Senior citizens and handicapped persons were to pick up vials this afternoon at the city hall fire station. Mrs. Griggs also scheduled several volunteers for duty there at the same time to type out the necessary information. She pointed out that it must be clearly legible on the forms—either printed or typed.

The same procedure will be followed at a meeting to be scheduled of the Plymouth-Northville chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons.

The Plymouth group has received some financial help from the Plymouth Rotary Foundation, plus 400 free vials from a friend who is connected with the pharmaceutical business.

TWO COMPANIES, Cunningham Drug Stores and Blue Cross-Blue Shield, are supporting the effort.

Orders for vials are being taken by Dorothy Larkins, 928 City-County Building, Detroit, 48226.

Matt T. Case, previously plant manager for the Switchgear Division of Gould Inc. at Chalfont, Pa., has joined Dunn Steel Products of Plymouth as general manager. Dunn is a leading producer of precision cold-formed steering and suspension studs for the automotive industry. After graduating from Rider College in New Jersey with a bachelor of science degree, Case began his career in 1951 as an engineer for United States Steel.

Market Watch

By JOHN E. VERNIER

I would like to show how you might make a profit by selling something you don't own.

Let's assume a certain set of conditions:

- Coffee is currently selling at $3 per pound.
- Your family does not drink coffee, therefore there is none in your house.
- You were grocery shopping with your next-door neighbor today and you witnessed her purchase of two one-pound cans of coffee.
- You have just been told by a relative, who is a coffee wholesaler, that the price of coffee will drop to $2 a pound in most stores beginning tomorrow.

Your doorbell rings at 10 o'clock tonight and you invite a rather distraught lady into your living room. She quickly introduces herself and explains that she is the mother of the new family moving into the house at the end of the street.

They have worked hard all evening, and are desperate for a pot of coffee. They have none and there are no stores open in close proximity.

She asks, "Would you be considerate enough to SELL—not give us—a pound of coffee?"

BEING THE GOOD businessperson you are, you invite the woman to relax a few minutes while you round up the pound of coffee. Quietly, you slip out the back door to the next-door neighbor's house.

You ask, "Neighbor, will you LEND me a pound of coffee until tomorrow?" She asks no questions and gladly complies.

Now, back to your house and you hand the new neighbor the pound of coffee. She expresses her gratitude and hands you $3.

You have just completed what is described as a "short sale."

You have been able to sell something that you didn't own because it was possible for you to borrow the object from someone else in order to make delivery.

Obviously, you have the responsibility to return the borrowed item to the lender at some future time (in this case, tomorrow). Sometime down the road you will have to be a buyer.

(There is a stock market saying that goes, "He who sells what isn't his must buy it back or go to prison.")

In the morning, first thing, you will rush to the store and, hopefully, purchase a pound of coffee for $2, return it to your neighbor, and revel over the fact that you made a profit of $1.

BUT, WHAT IF YOUR relative gave you bad advice and you are appalled to find that the price of coffee has gone up, not down, and it costs you $4 for the pound of coffee?

You then would lose a dollar instead of making a dollar.

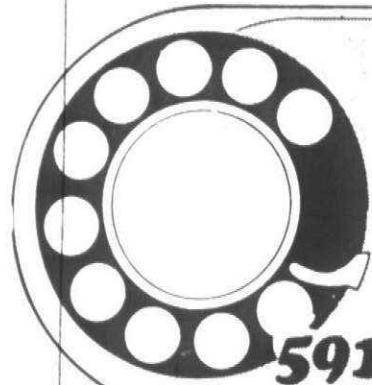

This is a ridiculous example and certainly no way to impress your neighbors. It does serve, however, as a simple way to explain a short sale.

This type of transaction takes place every day on the stock exchange. It is accomplished through the facilities of the various brokerage firms and the mechanics of a margin account.

Short selling is a risky business and certainly not a tactic to be practiced by a novice.

It is a way in which the pessimists (bears) may participate in the market.

A high short position in a stock can be self-defeating, however, since every short sale represents a future purchase. If too many shares have been sold short, the short-sellers might have to compete among themselves to repurchase the shares causing the price to rise for that reason alone.

New tires go metric

By PATRICK KELLY

Many new-car buyers are finding some unusual symbols on their tires this year—things like "P215/60R14," "kg" and "kPa."

Don't get excited. It's all part of the country's gradual conversion to the metric system over the next few years.

The automobile manufacturers are playing a leading role in making the use of metrics visible. While the pharmaceutical industry has been metric for some time, and 35mm film is common, metrics are the exception rather than the rule in American life. Engines in liters are now being followed by tires in KPas.

Whenever auto manufacturers design a completely new vehicle or change the size of most components, they usually express the new measurements in metric dimensions—millimeters, cubic centimeters, kilograms, kilopascals (metric unit of air pressure), etc.

Tire manufacturers are now making tires with metric size designations and metric load/inflation labeling as original equipment for some new vehicles and for the replacement tire market. In a few years, nearly all U.S.-made cars may come with metric tires, say tire industry officials.

INCHES AND pounds don't convert into millimeters and kilograms in round numbers, so the metric tires are not always exactly interchangeable with alphanumeric tire sizes.

As a result, motorists must be very careful when they replace metric tires with alphanumeric tires as snow tires or vice versa.

The changeover can usually be made if caution is exercised. The tire buyer and dealer should consult tire load and inflation tables and tire manufacturers' conversion charts to make sure the replacement tire will do the job adequately. Sometimes, air pressure must be increased in the replacement tire according to the published recommendations.

Most Americans have a vague idea that in the metric system, length is measured in millimeters and weight by kilograms.

However, the unit for air pressure—kilopascal (abbreviated kPa)—is not widely known. There are roughly seven kPas to one PSI.

TO SIMPLIFY things for the buyer, the U.S. Department of Transportation requires that tire load and inflation pressure continue to be labeled in both the conventional pounds of load and pounds per square inch (PSI) of inflation pressure as well as kilograms and kilopascals.

In the example cited above, "P" means passenger tire. "215" is the cross section width in millimeters. "60" is the ratio of height to width of the tire cross section. "R" means radial, and "14" is the diameter of the rim in inches. "R" may be replaced by "D" to signify diagonal or bias ply construction. The letter "B" indicates belted bias construction.

There also is a new family of high inflation, temporary spare tires, used to save space and weight in many new cars. On those tires, the letter "T" for "temporary" replaces the "P" for "passenger."

So, in essence, a new family of passenger car tires with metric markings is being produced by tire manufacturers as part of the automotive industry's gradual conversion to the metric system.

Load and inflation figures are given in both metric and convention terms on the new "P-series" tires. The other sidewall markings remain the same. These include the Department of Transportation tire identification number and the type of cord in various plies.

For more information regarding "P-metric" tire markings, write the Tire Industry Safety Council, 766 National Press Building, Washington, D.C. 20045.

Salesman honored

John Rogin of Crestwood Dodge recently received one of the highest awards that Chrysler Corp. offers its salesmen.

Rogin was chosen as one of the top volume salesmen from among 25,000 Dodge salesmen throughout the United States. He sold 400 cars during 1977. Rogin has been a new car salesman at Crestwood Dodge in Garden City for five years.

Because so far this year he has sold more cars and trucks than last, Rogin should receive a higher award for 1978, said John Cini, sales manager at Crestwood Dodge.
