Stein calls for investigation of building dept. practices

By DARLENE STINSON

The Canton Building Department may be the subject of an investigation by the Michigan State Police, but only Supervisor Harold Stein seems to know why.

Stein, who was in Washington earlier this week, telephoned state police Lt. William Tomczyk from the nation's capital Monday morning to request the investigation of the entire building department

But Stein has apparently told no one of the evidence he says he unearthed against the department last Saturday.

Even Tomczyk is baffled. He says he has no idea what type of evidence the supervisor is holding against the department

"He just hinted at some improprieties," the police lieutenant said. 'But he didn't get specific.

"I don't know if there'll be an investigation or not. I'll have to determine if the evidence is criminal or just some political goings-on.' board members are as perplexed as the state police over the supervisor's surprise request for the investigation. Board members received copies of Stein's letter to Thompson on Sunday. Thompson got the letter on Monday.

All they can figure out is that some missing building department records prompted Stein to take action.

Thompson confirmed that his department has lost or mislaid the file of at least one homeowner who has complained about structural defects in

Gary Roberts, a Republican candidate for trustee, thinks he may know what prompted Stein to demand an investigation. Roberts claims he went to Stein with evidence that the building department had not followed the procedure set up by the township board to deal with homeowner complaints. According to Roberts, department employees did not always notify building contractors of the complaints. The trustee candidate also charges that at least one inspector was involved with taking bribes, and claims there is a signed affidavit to that effect.

Thompson confirms that there is an affadivit in Stein's files from a builder who claims an inspector indicated "he would go easy" in return for a window for his own home.

The inspector resigned about three months ago "for personal reasons." The charge was never confirmed or denied by Thompson. Thompson has been ordered by Stein to document all activities of the building department since August, 1975 in time for the township board's Oct. 3 meeting. The documents will be turned over to the Michigan State Police

"But what's there to investigate?" a perplexed Thompson asked. "We run a clean department as far as I know."

Stein and the building department have been attacked by numerous residents in recent months for taking a soft stance with builders. The homeowners have complained that builders' have been lax about handling warranty complaints. There have also been complaints about the amount of time some builders are taking to complete new homes.

Trustees Lynne Goldsmith and Robert Myers theorized that Stein is now requesting an investigation of the building department for political reasons.

After losing the Democratic nomination for supervisor in the August primary, Stein launched a write-in campaign.

"If Stein was aware of things going on, why did he wait until now to request an investigation?" Goldsmith

"I'm sure if there was evidence, the board would want an investigation," she said. "But we don't know anything about it.'

STEIN REFUSED to clear up the mystery when contacted by the Observer in Washington Monday

At first Stein insisted that the state police and all six township board members had been informed of the investigation and the reasons behind

"If they choose not to talk about it, so be it," he said.

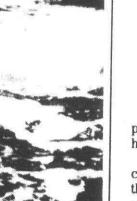

Stein later admitted, however, that he had not informed the township board "of every little detail, because Four-year-old Darold Hocking is recovering from a poisonous snake bite that he received near his home in the Fellows Creek apartment complex Sept. 15. He was released from Children's Hospital Sept. 19. His mother, Brenda Hocking, says her son is now suffering from "serum sickness"—a common reaction to the anti-venom serum that was given to the young boy. He has suffered hives and swelling. John Swalley, Canton animal control officer, said he conducted another search (that makes three) for the snake, and plans to try one more time before giving up?

Whinney! They swim to win

By W.W. EDGAR

If you were looking for unusual activities you'd find one if you walk into the Perfecta Farms stables at Five Mile and North Territorial Road.

There you'd see Gordon Holmes, who owns the farms, standing guard while horses are cavorting in an indoor swimming pool.

A swimming pool for horses!

It sounds proposterous. But there, in front of your eyes, you'd see the horses seemingly enjoying themselves while swimming around the 30-foot circular pool that was built especially for

It is a rather odd looking pool. While it is 30 feet in diameter with water 15 feet deep at the deepest point, it has a large pole in the center with six arms extending to the edge of the pool.

"This is one of the best things that has come along in quite a while for the care and training of horses," Holmes

"Warm baths often are prescribed for human beings when they have aches or pains, so why not for

AS THE ANIMALS, hitched to one of the arms, go round and round, they get the same relief as the humans with hot baths. The water is kept at 65 to 70 degrees. And as Holmes explained the pool can be used summer and winter.

The idea of the pool, Holmes said, came from Florida. It was found that the constant pounding of their hoofs on the hard surface of the tracks causes them to develop sore feet. Placing them in water seemed to help.

According to those who oversee the treatment of the horses, the sessions in the pool not only bring relief to sore feet, but enable the horses to get the same exercise they would receive in running around the half-mile track.

With a wry smile Holmes also hinted hat the sessions in the swimming pool Jackson, or the DRC.

While it is up to the driver, according to Holmes, whether the horses indulge in session in the pool just before racing, but a close watch reveals that the horses, like humans, seem to freshen up after a swim.

Taking an animal through one of these sessions is interesting. First, the halter is placed over his head and he is led to a steep chute that leads in to the pool. The chute is made of two-inch plank and covered with heavy rubber treads from tractor tires. As the horse descends, he is hitched to one of the arms attached to the center pole. Once in the water, the horse's tail is tied to the bar in the rear

Thus hooked up, Holmes explained, the horse is both pushing and pulling. It is an odd sight, but the horses are timed and are not given more than 15 minutes of swimming.

"I prefer to have at least two horses in the pool at the same time," another of the pool guard explained. "The horses seem to do better when they have company. They are much like humans on the beach.

AT THE END OF the 15-minute session the horse is taken to the exit ramp. This also is covered with the ractor treads, but in a different angle. This enables the horses to get firm footing and avoid slipping back into

To add to this unusual training and treatment Holmes is in the process of adding a drying room for the horses. This, like the pool, will be an apparatus that will keep the horses moving, and a machine that will blow warm air air on them until they are dry

While Holmes has been at the present location for three years he has recently added a new barn and now has stalls for 80 horses. Aside from these he also has 20 outside.

The full complement doesn't enjoy the pool. Some of the animals are just boarders between the meets at the have a tendency to make the horses do various tracks. Others are in training better at the track - Hazel Park, on the special half-mile track on the

Policy affects student records

By PATRICIA LaCROIX

The Plymouth-Canton schools proosea new student records policy hopes to keep the files in better order.

The board of education Monday discussed the new policy, which covers the collection, maintenance and dissemination of student records.

Members of a special committee which proposed the new policy say it isn't radically different from the schools' current practice. Ginny Murdoch, a committee member, says the major difference is that the new policy "really outlines" what should be kept in student files. It names the specific documents which should be filed, she says, while the old policy is vague about this.

Common to both the old and the new policy is that students can't see their file unless they're 18 years old, as provided by federal law.

THE POLICY covers all records that may be kept by the school, including attendance records, grades and disciplinary reports.

Purpose of the policy is is to "assist school personnel is helping students with their academic, personal, social and vocational decisions" within the boundaries of the law.

Murdoch says students are able to "sit with a counselor and go over the content of the file, but may not look at it themselves."

One of the most hotly contested parts of the policy is the section regarding the conference interview summary sheet.

According to the new policy, "All significant interviews with students or their parents by professional staff members should be summarized and recorded on the Parent-Teacher Conference sheet." This record would remain in the student's permanent

This could include, Murdoch says, records of disciplinary discussions held with the students. It would be passed on from teacher to teacher as the student progressed through each grade level so the teacher at each level "could help the student as he went on."

Murdoch says the committee was not concerned that derogatory records of the previous year may bias a teacher's attitude toward the student. "After all, it is an 'iffy, but and maybe' situation," she said. "It is entirely up to the teacher if these sheets will be included in the file."

OTHER AREAS covered in the pol-

 The data in the student's cumulative record will be periodically reviewed for accuracy. Information no longer relevant or required by law will be removed · Parents or students who feel the record is inaccurate can appeal to have the item removed. The appeal process can be extended as far as the board of education.

 No one other than authorized personnel, parents or students have access to a student's record without the written permission of the student if he has reached the age of 18. If a student is a minor, written permission of the parent or legal guardian must be received before any information is released.

· School officials are to release only the name, address, birthday and attendance record of any student to police, courts or armed services.

SC strike ends; fact-finding starts

By TIM RICHARD

Schoolcraft College's 350 faculty members are back in class and 62 office personnel are at their desks today after an eight-day strike.

Wayne County Circuit Judge Thomas Roumell Wednesday ordered an end to the two unions' strikes, but he did so under circumstances the unions consider favorable

Faculty Forum President William Nickels, bargaining spokesman Richard Arlen and attorney Harvey Wax gave this analysis of Roumell's order:

· Roumell ordered fact-finding and "came as close to ordering binding fact-finding as you can get." The college had requested state fact-finding but had opposed its being binding. Roumell said that if, at the conclusion of fact-finding, there is still no contract agreement, "the court will resume its active consideration and its authority, looking to the implementation of same"-laguage that appears to put pressure on the college to accept the fact-finder's report.

Moreover, Roumell ordered factfinding to be completed in 30 days. The original fact-finding schedule ran for seven weeks.

· Roumell ordered the unions to work under terms of their old contracts. The college had unilaterally extended the old contracts, prior to the strike, but had eliminated union dues checkoff and the grievance procedure. The college failed to get some new contract items it wanted in the court order-notably extension of the work

 The college last week had sought an injunction against only the Faculty Forum. Roumell applied it to both the Forum and the Association of Office Personnel. The unions had formed an alliance, striking jointly and vowing not to settle until both contracts were written.

THE OFFICE personnel contract had expired in mid-1977 and the faculty contract on Aug. 25. Both unions worked without a contract until their strike Sept. 18.

The Forum Monday defied Roumell's temporary restraining order of last Friday directing them to return to work. Nickels gave this explanation for the Forum's action:

"If we had obeyed the temporary restraining order, we figured the board would cancel the show-cause hearing (which was Wednesday's court appearance) and we wouldn't have our day in court. We want to have a third party hear the dispute and act on it. We expected Roumell to do more than issue an injunction; we expected some controls.

Faculty members packed the courtroom and corridors during Wednesday's proceedings. Also on hand were seven of the college trustees, who had been subpenaed as witnesses but were never called to testify.

Roumell, a one-time federal labor mediator, acted after two hours of consultations in his chambers with leaders and attorneys of the unions and the college. There were no open courtroom arguments. Afterwards, college officials and attorneys departed quickly and were unavailable for comment.

HERE IS the schedule of special events for the next few days:

The Cole Porter Cabaret, originally scheduled for Sept. 18, will be held Wednesday, Oct. 4.

The Detroit Saxophone Quartet recital of Thursday, the Schoolcraft College Foundation meeting of Thursday and the Jonathan Round concert of Friday will all be held as scheduled.

By pre-arrangement with union leaders, Schoolcraft's volleyball, soccer and cross-country events were held as scheduled during the strike. In fact, Schoolcraft's cross-country team ran a meet against Lansing Community College, which also was closed by a

DURING THE FIRST week of the strike, faculty members were nearly unanimous in staying off their jobs.

After the temporary restraining order was issued last Friday, some returned to work. These included 27 of the 54 part-time instructors at the Garden City Center, 15 or 20 part-time instructors at the main Livonia campus and a half-dozen full-time instructors, according to both administration and union sources.

Forum leader Nickels said that early this week college administrators had passed word that contempt citations would be issued to striking faculty members who hadn't returned to work. So at Tuesday noon, the Faculty Forum discontinued picketing the college, so they could not be served legal papers, leaving picketing to the office A lesser evil

Yack cooly backs Headlee plan

SWEATERS

By PATRICIA LaCROIX

Tax reform fever has hit the state, and the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education is acting under the premise that one of the tax-limiting plans on the November ballot will be passed.

Which one of the three proposals is the question, and it makes a big difference to the school districts, say administrators and school board members.

Tom Yack, board president from Canton, recently voted to endorse the Headlee proposal over either the Tisch or voucher plans. He did this, he says, because Headlee would have the "least drastic effect on the schools?"

The vote was taken at the Michigan Association for Improved School Legislation (MAISL), a group of nine school board presidents in the suburban area. It "bird-dogs" the activities of the state legislature on sc The problem with the Tisch plan is that it is too drastic, Yack says. Under the plan, property taxes would be cut by 50 per cent. There is no alternate source of funding planned if it is passed, which would result in drastic reductions of school programs, he explained.

"I don't think most people would be willing to accept these cuts," Yack

ORDINATES

Under the Headlee plan, 1978 would be used as a base year. Taxes would not be allowed to rise faster than the economy grows, with a measure for inflation allowed.

Ray Hoedel, assistant superintendent for business for the district, says the voucher plan is "even more absurd.'

"It is essentially parochiaid in dis-

Hoedel seems less than enthusiastic about supporting Headlee, too. He agreed, however, that it seemed inevitable one tax-limiting plan would be passed in November.

A suggestion that each board member contribute $10 to be used to campaign against the tax reform proposals got little support.

"It would be difficult for me to get all excited and run from door to door telling people not to vote for Tisch or the voucher plan, but to support Headlee," says Yack. "I have more faith in the voters' judgement than that.

He explained that he feels because so much information has been circulated on the proposals, people will be "intelligent enough" to head for the Headlee plan.

The Michigan Association of School Boards and the Michigan Education Association have both opposed all three plans.

Fowl favorites are noted

Jimmy the Chick has reviewed early chicken racing forms for Sunday and announced some preliminary picks for the great chicken race.

The racing commissioner, however, cautions bettors against relying on Jimmy the Chick's Picks because they were made at a time when only about half the expected entrants had registered.

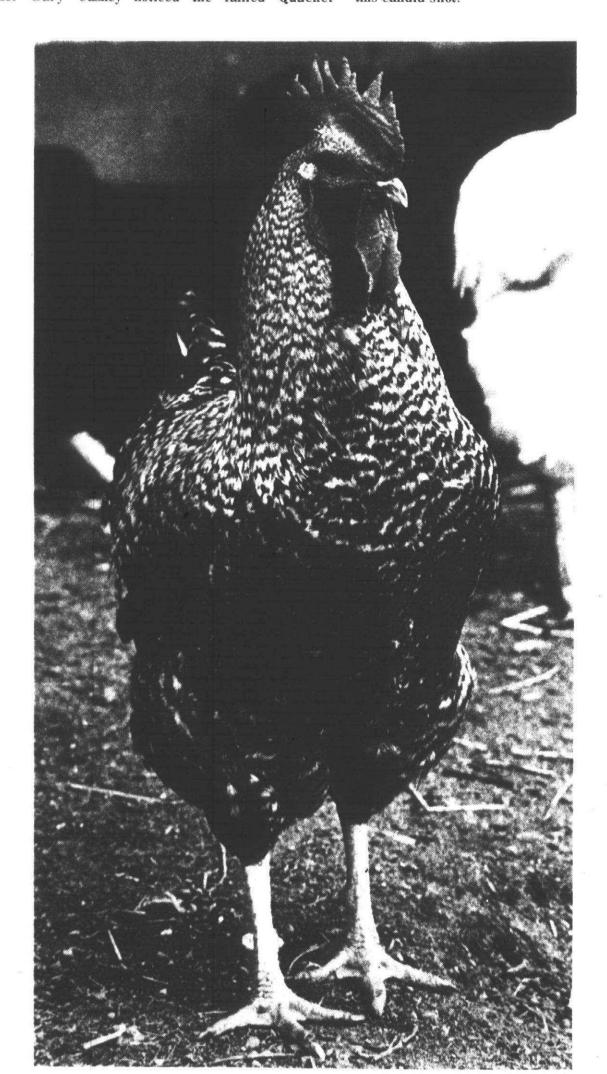

Jimmy lists as 2-1 favorites last year's winner Barnyard Bomber II entered by Ford-Sheldon Plant, Westem Electric's Western Flyer, the Army's "Charlie's Angel," WCAR-Massey's Eddie Rickenchicken, Cadillac Drapery's Pleater Pele, and Chevrolet Spring and Bumper's Chevro-Layer II.

Of the entries from Canton, Jimmy lists as a 3-1 favorite Warren G. Harding from Willow Creek Yacht Club. This is believed to be the same Warren G. Harding, alleged to be from Fernwood, Ohio, which placed third last year. Other Canton entries are Canton Clucker of the Canton Jaycettes and Woody's Prescription Shop with Woody's Kluckery-both carrying 6-1

Other racers prescribed 6-1 odds by Jimmy the Chick are: (owner listed first, followed by chicken) Bob Jeanotte Pontiac, Firebird; Jerry's Bicycles, Schwinn's Competition Scrabmbler; Plymouth Symphony League, Chickovsky; Penniman Avenue Shops, Scarlet O'Chicken; First Federal Savings and Loan, Loan Eagle; Cheese and Wine Barn, Cheddar Chicken; Plymouth Community Arts Council, Vincent Van Cluck; Navy Recruiting Station, Ensign Fowler II; Famous Mens Wear, Famous Flyer; Nawrot Pendleton Shop, Plaid Plucker III; John Smith of Plymouth, Smitty's Zipper; Young Sophisticats, Sophistic-Chick; Pease Paint & Wallpaper, for convicted felons? Under current law and usual sentencing procedures in Michigan, a person convicted of a crime is given both a minimum and maximum sentence.

PROPOSITION B The issue: Should parole be limited

Because of the reduced time provision, based on a formula that includes "time off for good behavior" in prison, convicts may be released at the discretion of the parole board before serving even their minimum sentences.

The theory behind the formula is that shortening prison terms provides an incentive for rehabilitation.

Those who favor elimination of early parole cite reports of additional crimes committed by paroled prisoners and argue that society would be better protected if convicted felons were required to serve at least their minimum sentences. They feel knowledge of this requirement might be a deterrent to crime Opponents maintain that crime would not be deterred while prisons would become overcrowded at public expense with those who could be safely allowed back into the community under parole supervision. Feeling that behavior in prisons might deteriorate without the possibility of credit for good behavior, they favor strengthening the parole system to encourage sound judgment as to who might be released from prison with good supervision and help during parole. Because the state legislature has not passed a law prohibiting early parole... a petition drive was initiated and the signatures were certified, thereby placing this proposal on on the ballot. If passed, it would amend the law by prohibiting the granting of parole to a person convicted of, and sentenced for, the crimes of murder, armed robbery, kidnapping, rape or any other serious felony in which there is injury or potential injury. This parole restriction would apply only until the minimum sentence imposed by the court had been served.

•Should property taxes be cut by half, while allowing a one percentage point increase in the state income tax? (Tisch Amendment)

·Should we eliminate the use of property taxes for financing schools and provide for state financing of public and private schools? (the voucher

These are some of the questions voters will be asking themselves in November. The League, as part of its financing and governments services study, will be discussing the pros and cons of issues that Michigan voters will decide in the general election on Nov. 7.

The public is invited and encouraged to attend.

By MICHAEL MATUSZEWSKI

Former President Gerald Ford came to metropolitan Detroit this week to stump for fellow Republican U.S. Sen. Robert Griffin.

His appearance at Dearborn's Hyatt Regency Hotel and a fundraising dinner for Griffin marked a return to Michigan's political arena.

WHILE FORD politely boosted the state's senior Senator, who had boosted him in their Washington days, much of the attention was focused on Ford's presidential ambitions.

"After the congressional and gubernatorial races, we'll think that one over. I've got lots of options and lots of time," he told reporters.

He also had lots of things to say about President Jimmy Carter and his administration

The former presdient was especially critical of Carter's economic policies. "They've blown it as far as I can see," he said. "We had inflation reduced to 4.8 per cent. Now we've got double digit inflation. "Their fiscal policy has been bad from the very beginning," he said. Ford said Carter made a number of fundamental economic errors upon assuming the presidency.

The most important of those errors, he said, was increasing government spending. "That reignited inflation which we almost had under control,'

EVEN THOUGH FORD had plenty of criticism for the Carter Administration, he also offered a few words of

He advised Carter to avoid wage and price controls to control inflation.

"History shows," he said, "that wage and price controls are bad for the economy. They're counter-productive in the long run. President Nixon found that out.

He said Carter should avoid even considering voluntary wage and price

"It's almost inevitable that when you start talking about voluntary wage and price guidelines, you're going to wind up with mandatory wage and price controls," he said.

'Indian tribes' need fresh 'Y' recruits

Family togetherness will be the thrust of the Indian-A-Rama recruiting drive of the Plymouth-Canton-Northville YMCA next week.

Children at least 5 years old and their parents are invited to sign up for the YMCA's Indian programs at one of three registration sessions scheduled for next week

Programs include the Indian Guides for boys 5 to 9 and their fathers; the Trailblazers for boys 9 and up and their fathers; the Indian Princess for girls 5 to 9 and their fathers; the Indian Maidens for girls 5 to 9 and their mothers; and the Trailettes for girls 9 and up and their mothers.

Program participants are divided into "tribes" composed of six to eight parents and their children. They meet twice a month in the homes of members to learn more about Indian lore and crafts.

All tribes are part of a federation that meets for field trips, canoe trips, summer camp, bowling tournaments, a family banquet and other outings.

Dues are $23 a year. Participation in the program makes families automatic members of the YMCA.

Brief birthday parties a bust

In taking a current inventory of my glaring character flaws, one in particular stands out at this time of the year. I simply do not possess that magical quality that enables one to keep the attention of six 4-year-olds for more than half an hour.

This presents problems when it comes time for giving birthday

My last year's attempt at a soiree for the preschool set lasted a mere 45 minutes before the guests began to filter out of the house in search of more interesting things to do. This year the party lasted only 40 minutes before one young miss announced, "I'm going home." The rest followed suit, and the house was emptied quicker than if someone had hollered, "Raid!"

I hope this isn't the beginnings of a pattern for me. By the time my eldest reaches ten, he'll only have a five-minute birthday party to look forward to. "Hi. Happy Birthday. Here's your present. Bye." This could be serious.

I guess part of my problem is in the planning. I thought all I would have to do is wave a couple of balloons in their ice cream in front of them. These kids are used to being entertained! After seeing "The Fonz," Donny and Marie, and "Spiderman," the sight of Mrs. Smith colliding with streamers as she rushes around doling out refreshments is not worth sitting still for.

It would have been nice if I could have hired Ronald McDonald to do whatever it is he does, or perhaps flown in John Travolta to do a bit of disco for his little tyke-type fans (I think I might have enjoyed that myself), but, as always, finances played a major part in the planning of this particular gathering. I decided, for lack of an alternative, to go the "cheapo" route.

I decided that a quick trip to the dime store would do the trick. After all, the necessities for your basic birthday party-hats, cups, candles, napkins, streamers, balloons, etc.couldn't cost all that much.

The cashier gave me a quick look of concern when she heard me gasp. It soling, "It does add up, doesn't it?"

I hadn't even bought the cake, ice cream or a present for my son yet. It was becoming apparent that the figure of "only $20.00" I had used to convince my husband that giving this party wouldn't interfere with our lifestyle was just a tad low. It's terribly difficult to transform an ordinary drab basement into a festive arena without making an unwelcome dent in the budget. I suppose if I were the creative type, I could string together pieces of macaroni and olive pits or some such thing and come up with a merry setting without spending a dime. I've seen pictures in magazines you wouldn't believe.

But for some reason if I try to convert an old egg carton into a lovely center piece, it just looks like I've got an old egg carton in the middle of my table. I'm just not a very crafty person.

So, considering the money spent, balanced off by the actual time our little guests deemed to stay, I figure that this year's celebration cost us $1.00 per minute. Ye gads!

The clincher is that I was so busy cutting cake, spooning out ice cream, pouring milk, taking pictures, tying shoes, wiping faces, and being nervous that I didn't even have time to notice if Jason, the guest of honor, was having a good time. I guess I'll have to wait until the pictures come back to find out if it was worth it all. I have the uneasy feeling that it was.

I have this teeny little fantasy of Jason coming to me and saying, "Mom, don't bother giving me any more parties." To which I reply, "Bless you, my son. Bless you."

Chance for minorities

Opportunity House a mainstreaming outlet

By MICHAEL MATUSZEWSKI Another minority is battling for its

This minority encompasses blacks, whites, various ethnic groups and men and women alike. When its members move into neighborhoods and suburban subdivisions, some homeowners and self-styled community leaders bristle in opposition.

The mentally retarded make up the minority. And their effort to live in normal community settings away from an institution has become a crusade in some metropolitan Detroit suburbs.

Community placement, sometimes called mainstreaming, is the wave of the present and the future as far as mental health administrators are concerned. They're out to do away with large, crowded institutions like the Plymouth Center for Human Development, which at one time held as many as 1,300 residents.

A beginning in the direction of mainstreaming has been made in this area, even while the Plymouth Center was rocked by charges of abuse.

Some retarded adults have been living for the last few years in Plymouth Opportunity House, a home built through efforts of the Northwest Communities Association for Retarded

A similar home in Redford Township has been planned, but delays in building have developed. In Livonia, such a residence is still just a dream, but one that has been presented to city fathers.

But several homes have been opened through private enterprise in other communities in this area. Mainstreaming will come up for discussion at a special session to be sponsored by the Wayne County Association for the Retarded at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 20, in John Glenn High School.

STILL, MAINSTREAMING means more than setting up foster and group homes in neighborhoods, . It includes integrating the physically and mentallly handicapped into other "normal institutions" such as schools and the job market.

The new approach, according to

Edwin W. Martin, deputy United States Education commissioner, came from realization that handicapped children in particular were not benefitting from traditional programs.

Even when a school had a handicapped program, he said, it often lumped together students with all sorts of mental, physical and emotional disabilities.

That attitude, Martin said, kept a handicapped person from learning to function in the everyday world. "After all," Martin told the Wall Street Journal, "he's going to have to live in a society of non-handicapped people."

WHILE MAINSTREAMING has attracted positive reviews in other parts of the country, its community placement aspect has caused a considerable stir in such communities as Southfield and St. Clair Shores.

"Drawbacks are seen by people in the community who are either bigoted or don't understand the rights of the mentally retarded," said Jerry Provencal, acting director of the Macomb-Oakland Regional Center for Developmental Disabilities. Provencal and his predecessor, David Rosen, guided Macomb-Oakland to recognition as one of the world's leaders in community placement.

"Some people don't understand that there are risks in the retarded person growing up just like the risks we all face in growing up," the Macomb-Oakland administrator said. "Some people feel," he continued, "the retarded person is innocent and should be shrouded and protected at the expense of his own growth

"Some people don't believe there's any benefit in the retarded person being as independent as he can.

"Some people say that because they should be protected let's not subject him to the chances and risks.

"That's very forgivable," Provencal

OFTEN, THOUGH, he said, opposition to foster and group houses for the mentally retarded have come from persons more interested in protecting their own property values than than the safety of their would-be neighbors.

"Some people," Provencal charged, "don't see the mentally retarded as deserving. Some people think they're not as good as the rest of us.

"Some people don't believe they have the same rights under the Constitution or under God.

"That's bigotry at its rawest and the mentally retarded catch it just like any other minority," Provencal said.

EVEN THOUGH property-owners and others may point to disadvantages in community placement, Provencal very confidently said that there are no drawbacks for the retarded.

The focus now, he said, is to move as many people back into the community as possible

"It's not that institutions are inherently evil," Provencal said, "They just don't provide enough opportunities for individual expression.

"There are gang showers and large wards for bedrooms.

"It's virtually impossible to give the residents an opportunity to live the way we do. So many decisions are made for them based on the general need rather than the individual need." he said.

THE SMALLER, MORE normal settings may pay off in better and moreintensive care and training as well as indeterminate personal growth, Provencal said, but their are also economic rewards.

Foster and group homes, he said, are very simply less expensive to operate. The massive initial capital outlay for new buildings is unnecessary if most of the retarded are being funneled back into the community.

The Macomb-Oakland acting director, however, cautions of a day when institutions might be less expensive to operate than community programs. And in some cases mentally retarded adults who are part of group homes hold down jobs and become taxpaying members of the labor force PROVENCAL SAID, community placement is the only way to go.

He rebuffs those who contend it needs more time to develop. "We're not talking ple-in-the-sky," he said. "What we've done can be seen. It can be measured

The annual pickup of leaves throughout the City of Plymouth will begin the week of Oct. 9.

Residents are being asked by the city to place their leaves by the curb in the street as only leaves placed in the street will be picked up.

The leaves should be placed at the curb as soon as possible because the city wants to remove them before any accumulation of snow.

There is no set schedule when trucks will be in any particular area, explains Kenneth Vogras, DPW director, although an attempt will be made to collect leaves from every area of the city at least once a week

The DPW has set the week of Nov. 27 as the date when trucks will make the last pass through the city. Thereafter, any leaves residents have will have to be bagged for the regular refuse pickup.

Bid denied for 250 Center jobs By MICHAEL MATUSZEWSKI of whom will be attendents working daily with the center's residents. DMH Acting Director Vernon Stehman and Donald Worden, regional director denied the request, saying the center did not prove the need for the new employes to comply with the order Federal District Judge Charles Joiner issued last March. That order contained a lengthy list of changes to improve conditions at the center. However, center officials explained some of the denied positions had been targeted for improving programming and recreational activities for the nearly 800 residents.

Those positions were described by John Maciejewski, a Plymouth Center administrative officer, as some that "would have been nice to have." Judge Joiner's order regarding staffing deals primarily with increasing the number of attendants in the eight residence halls

Plymouth Center Director Eranell McIntosh-Wilson said that the center will hire more than 100 new attendents in the coming months to bring it in line with Judge Joiner's order.

Keeping in line with the courtordered staff increases, Plymouth officials said DMH and the state legislature will significantly increase the center's budget.

Plymouth administrators expect to receive about $24.7 million for the coming fiscal year. $6.5 million will be appropriated from a special DMH 'discretionary fund.

Last year, the center received $16.4 million from the state, but later received $1.8 million as a special "emergency" appropriation.

Plymouth Center officials said they were not surprised when their staffing request was turned down. But they said the 250 new employes which they sought were not essential in meeting the court-ordered goals.

They said, however, that they received a verbal commitment from DMH officials that additional funds might be available if they could prove the need

"We were told to come back," Mrs. McIntosh-Wilson said. "We'll just have to tell them that we can't do what you're asking us to do with this level of support," she said.

By TIM RICHARD and SUE ROSLEK

"I'll be an important part of the administration," said Democratic lieutenant governor candidate Olivia Maynard. "That doesn't mean my opinion will always be prevailing. But it doesn't mean I'll be in opposition to the governor."

That's how "Libby" Maynard, No. 2 person on the Michigan Democratic ticket, summed up her multiple roles as William Fitzgerald's running mate, as the first woman nominated by a major party for that office and as a liberal in a party that is shifting to the political right.

Mrs. Maynard, 42, the Democratic Party's unpaid state vice-chairman, was interviewed by two Observer & Eccentric Newspapers editors last

IF ELECTED, she would be one heartbeat away from the governor's chair. While gubernatorial nominee Fitzgerald is only 36 and in good health, the question was her own administrative experience.

"If someone said 'point to one thing." it would be the party's policy committee. I served as co-chair of that since its inception six years ago," Mrs. Maynard said.

> NOTICE OF REGISTRATION TO THE QUALIFIED ELECTORS

OF THE TOWNSHIP OF

PLYMOUTH, COUNTY OF WAYNE

Tuesday, October 10, 1978 will be the last day you may register for the November 7, 1978 General Election when candidates for National, State, County and Township offices will be elected, also eleven State Propositions.

Registrations will be taken at the Plymouth Township Hall, 42350 Ann Arbor Road,

Monday through Friday, 8:30 A.M. to 5:00 P.M., as well as the following dates:

After said hour and date, no further registrations will be received for said election.

Qualified electors who are properly registered now with the Township Clerk will not

Monday, October 9, 1978 - 8:00 A.M. to 8:00 P.M.

The policy committee is an attempt to make the party platform a full-time, grass roots effort instead of something slapped together by bigwigs in the heat of a quadrennial national

Michigan Democrats pioneered the concept, and Mrs. Maynard is proud the national party is studying the state's work.

Besides the constitutional duty of presiding over the State Senate, Mrs. Maynard would like to be assigned two other tasks: Hearing citizen complaints about how government operates and being a trouble-shooter whenever a special problem, such as mental health department scandals, cropped up.

Mrs. Maynard also teaches part-time at Mott Community College, Flint. Her community services political science course is in practical politics-"how to lobby a bill through the legislature, the informal ways political parties operate, how to run things like millage campaigns, targeting precincts.'

NOMINATED after intense pressure from the party's women's caucus, Mrs. Maynard said, "I don't consider myself a token. The campaign isn't being run that way. "

As evidence she cites the "careful, objective process' Fitzgerald used in interviewing potential candidates and talking to party leaders before asking her to be his running mate.

She predicts a Gov. Fitzgerald would make more appointments of women and minorities to state boards and administrative positions, charging Republican incumbent William Milliken hasn't made enough.

If she differs from Fitzgerald on the politically sensitive issue of state-funded abortions, she argues, "A good administration can handle disagreement."

FITZGERALD'S overriding campaign theme has been business-businesses leaving the state, jobs being lost. Yet the Michigan Chamber of Commerce has given Fitzgerald's voting record in the State Senate a score of only 22.

"If you look at the chamber's ratings," Mrs. Maynard said, "The chamber rated on 16 issues, but only five were on business, and on only two votes did they say he was not right. "One was the auto lemon bill. That's a consumer bill-of interest to all

"The other was workers' compensation—using workers' comp tax funds to finance the bureau's efforts to gather statistics and reform it," she explained. "We need increased funding there—we have not had adequate statistics. Ultimately, that will come back to benefit business. Fitzgerald wants to reform workers' comp. You have to deal effectively with the violators, and then you can increase benefits to those who need more help." INDEPENDENTLY wealthy, Mrs. Maynard is a member of the Cincinnati Proctor family of Proctor &

Gamble company. Raised a Republican, she became a Democrat while majoring in political science at George Washington University. She got into politics in 1964 when she and her former husband worked for a local legislative candidate in Flint.

In 1966 she worked for the gubernatorial candidacy of Zolton Ferency, who was just beginning his anti-Vietnam war break from Lyndon B. Johnson's Democratic Party.

Her personal heroes and heroines are a mixed lot.

No. 1 is Abigail Adams, who "ran the show when her husband was playing in the capital" and who always wrote founding father John Adams. "Don't forget the ladies.

'Star Wars' voyage's likely in 1980 in Huron

By LEONARD POGER

Suburban Detroit residents will be able to make their own trips to "Battlestar Galactica" or "Star Wars" starting in 1980.

A Livonia-based company has received approval for construction of nearly all major elements of a $40-50 million-plus theme park in southwestern Wayne County. It will be based on space travel and the future.

The development, called Space World, will be on 366 acres just north and east of the I-275 freeway interchange at Will Carleton Road in Huron Township. The site is within 20-30 minutes driving time of western suburbs.

Planning the development is Space World, Inc., based in Livonia and headed by Philip Austin, a former engineer with the National Aeronautical and Space Administration and president of Space Colonization, Inc., part of his own Contamination Control Laboratories, Inc., all located in Austin, 42, of Livonia, plans to open the development by the spring of 1980.

The firm planning the development had first tried to locate the park in Ypsilanti Township, just off the I-94 freeway at Whittaker Road. But township officials didn't take action in time for work to be completed in time for the 1980 opening. Austin decided to move to the Huron Township location.

Austin stressed that Space World will be primarily educational and not be another Cedar Pointe or strictly an amusement park.

Goals of the park will be to "relate space to people," and Austin said that this type of a project has never been done before in America.

When completed, Space World will have a 32-acre lunar colony to let earthlings know what they can expect to find on the surface of the moon.

Space World plans also include an unidentified flying object museum, an interplanetary space shuttle exhibit, zero gravity demonstrations, a 1,000 seat theater in which presentations will be given so that viewers will have a "Star Wars uplifting feeling," Austin

"Space World will give visitors a chance to see what it would be like to visit other planets," Austin said. There will be illusions and 'hands-on controls" for visitors to handle.

Part of the development will also let people have a peek at what the future of the earth will be like, Austin

"Space World will show how the space program can raise our standard of living," he said.

Austin, who did work for NASA on the Mercury, Gemini and Apollo space programs, said that the public is wondering "What kind of feelings will I have when traveling in space?" and Space World will help answer some of their questions.

"There is a strong need to teach people about these experiences."

Austin said he first started to think about a Space World-type development on a small scale after he was continually asked at social events and church about space travel and the astr astronaut program.

He designed the concept for Space World on a single Sunday and felt that it would only be an attachment to his Contamination Control Lab offices on Farmington Road near Schoolcraft in Livonia.

But it soon grew and was expanded into a separate development.

Austin has said many times that Michigan is one of the top four tourist locations in the world, following London, Tokyo, and Paris.

When he was planning for the Ypsilanti township site, Austin said that the Irish Hills area through southern Michigan attracted 41/2 million tourists a year without any attraction there.

In a prepared statement, Austin said Space World will be a "space-future themed development which will provide a broad range of experience which will entertain visitors with exciting activities that appeal to all of the five senses.

"The use of static exhibitions, participartory exhibits, space simulations, futuristic theming of physical thrill experiences and multi-media show-type productions will diversify the implementation of the major theme such that Space World will offer new horizons to all visitors.'

He said Space World hopes to "increase (the public's) awareness of how space and related technological progress can change the future of our planet if vision and imagination are allowed to enter the portals of this final frontier."

Austin said Space World will be open from May through mid-October and he projects a seasonal attendance from 1.3 million to 1.8 million in the first year with growth to 2.4 million by 1989.

SOME PROPOSED rides and attractions at Space World will be the "future space journey," moon colony journey, battle of the Milky Way, moon buggy rides, space wars gallery, cosmic disorientation, speed of light space race, international space museum, UFO museum, and a major space event re-enactment theater.

In the entertainment section of the development, there will be a central attraction galactic theater, spherical starship, children's shows and live entertainment in three pavilions.

Here's a protection I'd give away today

A bill now pending in in the Michigan Legislature proposes to place some limits on lobbying activities, and require registration for the run-of-themill lobbyists.

By run-of-the-mill, I refer to quantity not quality. The proposed bill would require registration for those who lobby on a regular basis, or to make a living, but not necessarily for those who would lobby once a year or once a lifetime for a special cause.

The bill has some merit because it provides the public and lawmakers with a scorecard-identifying those individuals and groups who are players in the game of politics for the sole purpose of influencing the laws we live

A LEADING opponent of the measure argues that it represents an unconstitutional infringement on the right of citizens to communicate with their

The state constitution does guarantees the right of all citizens to petition the government, and to petition individual lawmakers of that government. The state and federal constitutions also guarantee the right of assembly or peaceful purpose, including influencing lawmakers.

The U.S. Constitution also, in the First Amendment, guarantees the right of free speech. But "free" is not to be tied to economics. It means government shall pass no law to unduly restrain the freedom of expression, providing such expression does not interfere with the safety of others.

GIVEN THOSE constitutional rights-at state and national level, I still find it strange to argue the proposed lobbying bill infringes upon constitutional rights.

I won't go into all the provisions of the bill, because there are manymost of which aren't applicable to the normal citizen. The bill, for instance, prohibits a lobbyist from making a personal loan to legislators. The bill also provides that lobbyists spending over a certain level in a year or month must register with the state.

Probably the most stringent alof all the provisions is that any individual or group spending $15 for a meal to influence a lawmaker must file as a lobbyist. And, frankly, that doesn't appear to be as an overly-stringent requirement-not, at least, for the runof-the-mill citizen like you and I.

I have, on occassion, communicated with my lawmakers in Lansing and Washington. And all it cost me was a 13-cent stamp to mail in my views. I must confess, though, there were a couple times where my concern was of great enough magnitude to call my lawmaker's office in Lansing and I dished out about $1.50 for a long-distance phone call.

But I've never been so concerned about pending legislation to take my lawmaker out to lunch, or breakfast, or dinner. Maybe I'm apathetic. And maybe that's what is meant about the apathy of our citizenry-none of us cares enough to take a lawmaker out to lunch

FRANKLY, THE limits in the proposed lobbying bill just don't have that much impact on you and me as citi-

The bill will change, however, the role which individuals or groups perform when engaged in lobbying. And I suggest we need to make that distinction. A person who functions as a lobbyist is indeed a citizen also. But the constitution extends protection to his activities as a citizen, not to his professional activities as a lobbyist.

HAVING MADE that distinction, I conclude with a layman's observation that I see nothing unconstitutional in the proposed lobbying bill—which is to say I see nothing which infringes upon the rights of citizens.

I quickly add, though, that I have no personal problem with the function of lobbying in our representative form of government. In fact, lobbyists play an important function and the wheels of decision-making would turn exceedingly slowly if lobbying were Lobbying is a necessary art in the field of politics. It is a legitimate function, and is not in any way an evil one. If there is a problem with lobbying at all, it is a perceptual one. The problem, as I see it, is that we tend to identify as lobbyists only the more visible groups, i.e.: the AMA; Michigan Milk Producers; Farm Bureau; UAW; AFL-CIO; MEA; Michigan Chamber of Commerce; the petroleum industry, masonry institute, real estate boards, Michigan Association of School Boards, etc.

But, by definition, a lobbyist is any individual or group engaged in activity to influence lawmakers in a manner other than by voting on election day.

Thus our list of lobbyists also should include: consumer advocate groups; homeowners associations; parentteacher groups; the League of Women Voters and, at times, the AAUW; ad hoc citizen groups; and even fraternal. civic or social organizations. That's but one of the reasons why I don't view lobbying as a tainted activity but a very necessary one.

The point is that it is not an undue burden to ask any of these groups to fill out registration forms declaring an intent to lobby whenever they plan to invest an untypical amount of funds to gain influence. You and I, as citizens, have a right to know who is spending money to influence legislation which affects our lives. We are not asking that the practice of courting influence be halted; only that we know who the influencers are.

I think that's fair and sensible. I don't think it is an undue hardship, a heavy burden or an infringement of

Durr, Inc. occupying vacant plant

Otto Durr Inc., a manufacturing firm now located in Livonia, is expected to transfer its entire operation to the vacant Whitman-Barnes plant on Plymouth Road near Haggerty around the first of the year.

Peter Spiro, assistant to the company's president, said Otto Durr will hire 50 employees once the company moves to the new facility in Plymouth Township.

Spiro said the company plans to add 50 employees to its payroll each year during the next three or four years.

Otto Durr, a supplier of paint finishing systems to the automotive and appliance industries, currently employs about 200 persons in its plant near Plymouth Road and Newburgh in

According to Spiro, the Livonia building has become too small for the growing company.

Spiro said the company plans to make extensive renovations in the Whitman-Barnes plant that has been vacant for about 1 1/2 years.

OTTO DURR representatives will seek financing approval from the Michigan Job Development Authority (JDA) next month. Approval from the agency, established to keep Michigan industries in the state, will make the company eligible for low-interest

If the company does not win JDA approval, Spiro says Otto Durr may seek low-interest financing under a 1963 law which transfers ownership of the industry's land to the municipality. Under Public Act 62, the deed to the land on which the Whitman-Barnes plant is located would be given to Plymouth Township at no cost.

Otto Durr would pay the township rent for the land. The township would use the money to pay off Otto Durr's bonds. Once the bonds were paid off, the land would be transferred back to Otto Durr at no cost.

Under provisions of the law, Otto Durr would continue to pay taxes on the land even though Plymouth Township would hold the deed.

Spiro, Paul Tesorero of the Michigan Department of Commerce and a representive of the bonding counsel firm of Miller, Canfield, Paddock & Stone appeared before the Plymouth Township board Tuesday night to explain the financing method.

They assured the board that Plymouth Township would not be responsible for the bond payments under Public Act 62 if Otto Durr failed to make rent payments. The company would be foreclosed, and proceeds from the foreclosure would be used to pay off the debt.

Spiro asked the township board to give its support to the company's JDA application and possible efforts to seek financing under Public Act 62.

The board voted 5-2 to support the company's JDA application with Trustees Maurice Breen and Lee Fedge voting no. The board indicated its support of Public Act 62 financing with a 4-3 vote. Trustees Breen, Fidge and Frank Millington voted no.

Morahan's in media

Mary Jo Morahan of Plymouth was among 18 students attending an overseas studies program in Britain this summer offered through Michigan State University.

The course in contemporary mass media held in London July 10-Aug. 4 included visits to the London Times and Guardian newspapers and trips to the British Broadcasting Corp. (BBC).

The program gives participants the chance to study the present status of print, film and broadcast media in Britain and to see their operations and interrelationships. Students also studied advertising, audience research, and new technology.

Ms. Morahan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Morahan of Spicer Drive. Plymouth, is a 1976 graduate of Plymouth Canton High.

A junior telecommunications major at MSU, she said that the visits to the newspapers and television studios were good learning experiences.

"Being able to see firsthand how a newspaper is published or how a television show is produced made me realize the amount of work that goes into it

Daily activity included morning classes at the University of London on the Bedford campus, afternoon site visits and several field trips. Participants received up to six credits for the

CHIROPRACTORS SEEK RESEARCH VOLUNTEERS

The International Pain Control Institute is presently engaged in what is the most extensive research pro gram ever undertaken by the chiropractic profession. This research is directed toward determining the relationship between health problems and spinal mis alignments and utilizes a screening process called Contour Analysis

Volunteers are being sought for screening. Contour Analysis enables taking a three-dimensional picture (called Moire photography) of the topography of the surface of the spine to detect spinal stress deviations. This analysis will be correlated with leg deficiency, patient symptomatology, and levels of spinal tenderness. An analysis of this type can reveal such things as normal and abnormal stress paterns, spinal curvature, muscle spasms muscle imbalance, spinal distortions, and scoliosis.

This is a public service program for participating volunteers. The doctors are contributing their time, service, and facilities for the program.

Anyone wishing to be a volunteer may telephone participating doctors directly for information or an appointment

Counselors move into Bennett House

Associated Counseling Services recently moved its offices into the Bennett House—an historic building on

A private mental health agency, Associated Counseling Services has been providing a service to the community since it opened its office in August 1974.

The need to move into a larger facility was precipitated by the overwhelming response to the high quality of service, notes John G. Vandenburg, director.

"It is quite fitting that an agency which has as its focus family dynamics should end up being housed in a setting with the heritage and tradition which the old Bennett House possesses," he adds.

ASSOCIATED COUNSELING Services offers a wide range of diagnostic and theraputic aid to individuals, families and businesses in the community

Services provided include family counseling, individual counseling, mini-thons, marathons, educational growth workshops, and diagnostic and referral services

Any individual or family may call or come to the agency. Referrals are accepted, though, from schools, churches, physicians, lawyers, social service agencies, courts, medical units, probation department and other community organizations.

"An individual or family need not wait to be referred, but may call immediately when they feel the need for services," explains Vandenburg. The agency is an approved Blue Cross Blue Shield outpatient clinic.

THE STAFF OF Associated Counseling Services is fully qualified and certified by the state.

The multi-disciplinatian team consists of a psychiatrist, psychologists. social workers and counselors who work together to provide clients with expertise from their various professional background and experience.

The agency has been asked by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education to be the center for diagnosis and referral for the district's employee assistance program.

W.W. EDGAR

There was a time not long ago when a 700 series was a rarity in bowling. No more.

With the improved conditions and environment, the 700 barrier no longer is too difficult to break.

For instance, there were three of them during the past week in the western suburbs and one of them was in a most unlikely place—a senior citizens

The senior citizen was Ed Vervane and his series was most unusual for a bowler with a 180 average. He posted four strikes in practice before the league bowling started.

Then, he added eight in a row before leaving up the 7-10, which he missed and had to be content with a 267

In the excitement, he dropped to 189 in the second game and then closed with a 269 for 725. It was the highest score of the year in the league.

It was a different story with Bob Schmidt, who posted a 300 middle game in a 721 series, in the Westland Classic. He opened with a 221, then lined up 12 in a row but dropped to 200

Mike Lee, in the same league, had games of 280 and 234 in his 710 series. Both of these fellows left Dick Lang far behind in third place with a 675.

NOT ALL OF the high scoring at Westland was done by the men. The Professional Sports team linked games of 1086, 1063 and 1098 for a 3247

Aleta Rzetechi, the 15-year-old star. tied with Julie Zimmerman for top honors with a 631 that included a 231 game. The other members of the team were Marg Kropacek with 604, Cindi Boruki with 603 and Marlene Opper with a 552 brought about by back to back 200 games.

MARILYN LUREK and Mary Mohacsi staged quite a duel in the women's classic at Garden Lanes before Marilyn won with a 606 and a six-pin lead. Pat Lisowski was next in line with a 585

In the Vinco League, Jerry Kindrat repeated his performance of a week ago when he showed the way with a 676 on games of 246, 268 and 162. Gene Ostriech had high game with a 279.

In the coffee and donuts circuit, Linn Donahue was high with a 606-not bad for a 150-average bowler.

ALTHOUGH SHE DIDN'T win a game, Doris Doryca took the series in the Livonia Ladies Classic with a count of 573-66-639.

Raiders roll over Thurston

The Redford 1.. rston Eagles, which soared to victory during their first two football games of the season, were shot down last weekend by North Farmington, 42-0.

Very little went right for Thurston on either side of the scrimmage line. North used a balanced attack of 189 vards rushing and 133 passing and scored during every period. The Eagles totalled only 99 yards and never threatened the Raiders' goal

"We just ran and passed at will and Thurston never could stop us," said North coach Ron Holland of his Northwest Suburban League opener.

"We just couldn't move the ball at all," said Don Riehl, coach of the Eagles. "They dominated our offensive line. They stuffed the football down our throats.

"They've got a great team," Riehl continued. "They're not as good as we made them look, though, and we're not as bad as they made us look.'

The Raiders all but put the game away with a 21-point first quarter.

During those first 12 minutes, Ron Nutter caught a 28-yard touchdown pass from Jeff Goldstein, Jeff Cohen plowed into the endzone on a one-yard off-tackle run and Nutter snared another TD pass from Goldstein, this time of 37 yards.

North scored one touchdown during each of the other three periods.

Goldstein sneaked in from one yard out in the second quarter, Tom Herrington caught a six-yard pass from Goldstein in the third and Dan Cohen returned an intercepted pass 32 yards in the fourth.

Jeff Cohen, a hard-driving ball-carrier, accumulated 101 yards on 11

The Eagles may have lost the services of one of their better linemen for the reast of the season. Jeff Stankiewicz sustained a shoulder injury, the severity of which was not known at

In spite of the one-sided loss, Riehl could point to a couple of bright spots in his charges' performance.

"Richard Rudd, a sophomore tailback, ran well and punted well for us.' said the coach. Rudd started in place of the injured Mark Erickson.

"Bob Livingston, a defensive lineman, played another good game, or as good as you can when you lose 42-0," Riehl continued.

"Our turnovers were much better and we had fewer penalties. We just couldn't stay with them. Physically, we lost. Mentally, we'll just have to come back," said Riehl.

The Eagles will have that opportunity 2 p.m. Saturday when they battle Livonia Franklin at Franklin.

Salem runners race by Churchill

Plymouth Salem won its biggest cross country meet of the season by narrowly defeating tough nonleague foe Livonia Churchill, 25-30, at Cass Benton Tuesday afternoon.

"We knew it would be close, and we had to run the way we did to win," said a pleased Salem coach Scott Dunson. "All but one of our kids broke the 18-minute mark."

The Rocks' Paul Hess won the three-mile race with the only sub-17 minute time of 16:55. Churchill grabbed second and third thanks to Bob Stansberry's 17:14 a and Kevin

It was all Salem after that, however, as the Rocks took fourth, fifth, seventh and eighth place to close out the victory

Dave Truesdell placed fifth for Salem at 17:48. Alan Stefan of Churchill took sixth, Kevin Waara of Salem was seventh, Jeff Haertell of Salem was eighth and Dennis Sears and Ken Gaskell of Churchill placed ninth and 10th respectively. The Rocks travel to Trenton this afternoon for a Suburban Eight League meet against Allen Park and the Trenton starting at 4 p.m.

WSDP broadcasts cage, football games

WSDP-FM continues its live sports coverage of Plymouth-Canton athletics when girls basketball and football action from Plymouth Salem is broadcast this week.

Kris Koepke (play-by-play) and Colleen Geary (color commentary) will broadcast the action of tonight's Plymouth Salem-Ann ning at 8 p.m.

Russ Rhinehart's description and Kevin Krolicki's comments highlight Friday night's broadcast of the Plymouth Salem-Belleville football clash. The broadcast starts at 7:50 p.m. with the pregame show followed by the action from Centennial Educational Park at 8 p.m.

Ypsi sets Best Ball record

By BETTY DELANO

The Ypsilanti boys golf team set a scoring record in the seventh annual Plymouth Best Ball Tournament Tuesday with a team score of 138.

The old record had been set the year before by Redford Thurston at 140. Following Ypsilanti's record-breaking final score was Redford Union in second place with a score of 144. Sudden death playoffs were cumbersome as West Bloomfield and Trenton battled it out in extra holes for third place, while the A and B teams of Ypsilanti fought for medalist honors.

Both of Ypsilanti's teams shot 69s during regular play to earn the win but extra holes were played to determine a championship two-man team.

Taking the same score for both teams on the front and back sides, the total 69 was earned with a par 35 on the front nine and a 34 (one under par) on the back nine.

The A team of Tom Roberts and Tim Bowman yielded to Roberts younger brother Da 2 and his partner John Pearson in five extra holes. Pearson and the younger Roberts won with a par to their teammates bogie.

WEST BLOOMFIELD WAS the victor in the playoff for third place with a par one the first hole. Trenton finished in fourth place.

Following Ypsilanti in first, Redford Union won the second-spot spot with a team score of 73 on the front nine and a 71 on the back. West Bloomfield and Trenton arrived at the tie score of 146 by going 71-75 and 73-73.

There was a fifth place tie by Redford Thurston (last year's champion) and Ann Arbor Pioneer at 150 each. Seventh place was a three-way tie among Cherry Hill, Crestwood and Livonia Stevenson at 151. Bloomfield Hills Andover was the holder of 10th place at 152 and Plymouth Salem followed with 153.

Twelth place went to Northville at 155, while Dearborn and Dearborn Edsel Ford tied at 157. Dearborn Fordson and Livonia Franklin tied at 158 along with Ann Arbor Huron, while Farmington shot a 161 for 18th.

Livonia Churchill came off the par 70, 6,320-yard course with a 163. Livonia Bentley and Plymouth Canton both scored 164, while Walled Lake Western and Wyandotte both shot 165. Westland John Glenn scored 167, Allen Park 169, and Royal Oak Shrine a 171.

THE TOURNAMENT WAS co-hosted by the Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem golf teams and was directed by Plymouth-Canton athletic director John Sandmann. Play started at 9 a.m. at the Brae Burn golf course.

"As far as how the play went and how the tournament progressed overall, it ran very smoothly," commented Sandmann. "The scores and shooting of all the players was the best it has been in the seven years Plymouth has been holding this kind of tournament."

The 26 teams which participated played four people, two on each team. and the best shot from tee to green was played each time taking the ball with the best lie or angle to the green.

Golfers gulp

The Plymouth Canton boys, golf team was soundly defeated by an excellent Farmington Harrison squad Monday, 192-216.

The Chiefs were led by juniors Dave Visser and Scott Adler who shot 40 and 41, respectively. Junior Kirk Rassmussen turned in his best round of the season, matching Adler's 41. John Matthews followed with a 45.

Harrison's strong scores included 37, a pair of 38's and one 39. The Hawks are presently the top team in the Western Six League standings with a 4-1 loop mark after the first round of play.

Canton is 2-3 in the league and 2-4 overall. The Chiefs travel to Livonia Churchill this afternoon for a dual match at Whispering Willows at 3 p.m.

Mudslinging can backfire

October usually marks the beginning of a concerted effort by political candidates to garner votes for the November general election.

There is a marked tendency for some candidates to assume the best way to win an election is to smear mud on their opponents.

Every now and again someone actually comes up with a legitimate and important piece of information about another candidate that the public should know about.

More often, the information is either petty or exaggerated.

In Canton Township, as in other communities facing elections, the art of mudslinging has reached a staggering height of quantity, if not quality.

The accusations and insults flying back and forth provide a great deal of entertainment for those who aren't actually involved in the bloody political Mudslinging tends to keep the current administration under close scrutiny, which never hurts.

It tends to keep political candidates in line, because their every movement is so closely monitored.

Mudslinging also tends to create a tangled thicket in which the voters can't see the forest for

WE HAVE seen a sad dearth of something in this election.

The missing element is called issues. It's not that Canton lacks issues.

This is a township suffering from growing pains. The land developments rights purchase millage question will be on the November ballot.

Important as this issue is, candidates have been more inclined to attack opponents motives for their positions on any and all issues.

Taxes, and reductions thereof, will have a prominent spot on the ballot. Few candidates will actually take a stand against these proposals, especially the Headlee amendment.

How candidates feel about these issues isn't all that important, because this time it's up to the

But we haven't noticed anyone attempting to come up with constructive plans to keep Canton solvent should either of these amendments pass, There are going to have to be some alternative plans of what to cut and how to do it. Taking stands supporting the taxpayers doesn't achieve that goal. It's just political rhetoric. The fault is partially with the politicians, for believing the voters don't have enough intelligence to do anything but vote for the person who dug up the most dirt against his or her opponent. The fault lies with the voters as well, if they choose not to demand that these candidates provide evidence of their own competency rather than the incompetency of others.

Newspapers must also take their share of the blame if they allow themselves to be blinded by exposes and denouncements at the expense of

If the facts are there pointing to someone's wrongdoing, we should print it.

But no one involved in an election should grow blinders, lest our eyes become so filled with mud that we can no longer see its source.

Glories of cider

Hawaii may have its pineapples and Florida its oranges, but Michigan has the best fruit and best drink concoction of all—glorious apple cider.

In an earlier era, every farm had its apple tree or apple orchard, and most had simple cider presses. But with specialization came the commercial cider mill, which used to press peaches and grapes and other fruit, too, in bygone times.

The clear, pasteurized stuff you get in the grocery store has a preservative, and you can have it if you want. The real stuff is a murky color, has more "body" and in a couple of weeks will ferment and turn to applejack, a low-alcohol apple

Around most houses, though, cider doesn't last too long once you bring it home. Everybody's always grabbing a sip before it turns hard.

Michigan is America's No. 3 apple producing state and first in producing two of the best cider apples, Jonathons and Northern Spies. At last count, 110 cider mills were producing.

Michigan is also a good spot for cider mills, just as it was for sawmills, because our rivers provide plenty of water power. The Wolverine State has had few log cabins and vast quantities of cider because there were so many sawmills and cider

There are many picturesque, old-fashioned cider mills where you can take a carload of family on a Sunday, but don't plan to buy your year's supply there because their prices are considerably higher than less picturesque places that produce equal quality cider. And whereas the picturesque spots close with the first snow, the other places continue to press the finest cider of the year well into February.

'The Irish pray longer'and tap hot local talent

John Mulroy is known to many of you from his years as vice-president of the University of Detroit, the first layman to hold the post

Others may have become acquainted with the tall, solidly built, grey-thatched Irishman later on when he was president and board chairman of a bank or two. Some of you may be among his Southfield neighbors.

John loves a party, which is typical of an Irishman who sings well. He's great in either the role of host or guest. Conversation never drags when John's around, and you don't have to cup your ear

Back in the days when the late Father Celestin Steiner was U-D president and had the habit of announcing a new fundraising drive with almost every full moon, Mulroy was inevitably the man at the campaign's helm.

John's sales pitch kept the university solvent for a long time (with a little help from the Jesuit priests' vow of poverty).

LAST WEEK, John called to extend an invitation to attend a Notre Dame football television party at the Mulroy home Saturday

It was with regret that I had to tell him we already were planning a similar Michigan party at our house and if his pooped out, he and Eileen would be welcome.

Mother Goose came up with a wonderful line when I told her of the invitation and that the Mulroy blast would start at 10:30 in the morning, more than two hours before kickoff, while we planned to open the gates at noon.

"Well, the Irish will have to pray longer than Michigan," commented my bride with startling clairvoyance.

When John and I compared notes in the contest's aftermath, he said his party had been "terrific." I told him ours was too. It wasn't necessary to speak at length of the game itself. The big thing was agreement with the Mulroy philosophy: "Everybody deserves a party no matter who they're for."

ONE OF THOSE who played a big part in Michigan's victorious comeback on the Notre Dame gridiron is a former star of O&E prep ranks, 206pound, 6-2 ½ Jerry Meter, Wolverine outside linebacker and co-captain.

Jerry was a standout on Coach Frank Buford's 1974 Bloomfield Hills Andover team which won the Wayne-Oakland League championship and finished Andover's only loss that fall was in the nonleague opener, 21-20, at Plymouth Salem. After that squeaker. Salem then marched undefeated and untied through its entire nine-game schedule to finish No. 1 in the final Michigan High School Athletic Association Class A rankings.

On that same Andover club were quarterback Jim Breaugh and fullback Bob Hollway, who still are teammates of Meter's on the squad at Ann Arbor.

JERRY'S PERFORMANCE in South Bend last weekend was so brilliant that he was acclaimed the foremost defensive player on the field.

The oddity in the Meter family's Bloomfield Hills home is that Jerry's father, Bernard Meter, and Jerry's older brother both earned their undergraduate and graduate degrees at Notre Dame.

Not only that, the elder Meter was a member of the Notre Dame team which defeated the Wolverines at Ann Arbor in 1943, 35-20. That was the last time the two schools had met on the gridiron until last Saturday.

At South Bend in 1942, renewing hostilities for the first time since 1909, Michigan came out on top, 32-20. In light of Michigan's '78 comeback after trailing at halftime, 14-7, it's interesting to note that none of the historians recall that the Wolverines came from behind in that one also. At intermission the Irish led, 14-13, and Michigan

Tom Kuzma, a halfback from Gary, Ind., who has been a resident of Birmingham for many shook thunder from the skies with 19 points in the vears, should remember that explosive afternoon quite well, having scored two of the five Michigan touchdowns. Capt. George Ceithaml, Don Robinson and Paul White got the others. It's from keeping old notes like that around for 36 years that my desk has become such a clutter.

Tim Richard

New scapegoat for high taxes

Headlee, Tisch and the voucher people are brimming with cheap shots at "bureaucrats" and "politicians" as the reason for high taxes. Either they don't know who is to blame or they are afraid to 1 offer a new and more logical scapegoat. It's the construction industry, and nowhere was it more apparent than in last week's State Senate debate over whether to hike gasoline, diesel fuel and weight taxes

Remember that most state taxes have been relatively stable during the 1970s. There was a hiccup in the personal income tax. Excise taxes have changed little. Sales taxes on food and drugs were actually removed. The single business tax? Well, that is admittedly messy.

IN LANSING, our friendly local legislators are debating whether to pump $168.5 million in new money into all forms of transportation. If it passes, roads and other forms of transportation would all have their funds beefed by about 25 per cent.

The Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority-which the uninformed refer to as "mass transit"—would get only about 12 per cent of that new pot. Most of the rest would go to roads-highways, county roads, city and village streets.

Realistically, then, the big bucks are going to roads. Why?

Because the construction industry has been so inflationary, that's why. Herewith is an excerpt from the transportation package analysis from the office of State Rep. William Ryan (D-Detroit), its architect and chief sponsor:

"Road construction costs have more than doubled in the past 10 years, while inflation has sharply increased the cost of road maintenance, for laborers as well as for basic materials such as

"Further, because of better automobile fuel economy and a decline in the average weight of cars, motor vehicle fund monies have leveled off and have not kept pace with inflation."

THE ST. JOSEPH County Road Commission said in written testimony:

"The financial crunch began in 1973-74. Prices we paid for materials, equipment and labor increased dramatically." In the five years from 1973-78, it found:

Asphalt had tripled in price.

Grader blades had nearly doubled.

Insurance had tripled.

· Wages were up 31 per cent.

• But revenues were up only 15 per cent. Discussing state taxes, Sen. Robert Vanderlaan (R-Kentwood) compared the taxes he paid on comparable 1974 and 1978 Oldsmobiles. Because the new Olds is lighter and gets 20 mpg instead of 15. he figures his total taxes—even with the proposed increases—are actually less for the new car.

REMEMBER THAT much of the money we give the state for roads is actually paid out to private contractors and manufacturers. "Bureaucrats" don't pave our roads.

The construction industry is probably the most inflationary industry in the country. And the chief economist for the National Association of Home Builders said the cost of both new and used houses will rise 12 to 14 per cent again next year. So even if you vote down millage rates, your tax base—the value of your house-will be raised by the construction industry.

Headlee, Tisch and the voucher people are misdirecting their fire. The bureaucrats and politicians are getting too much blame. What Michigan and the nation need is not anti-tax sentiment but anti-construction industry sentiment.

For more than a half-century, The Stroller has been travelling from one college campus to another across the land during the football season. He has witnessed all sorts of formations and maneuverings on the field, from the flying wedge to the "wishbone," the "I" formation and the "shotgun"

But the finest maneuvering he has seen didn't take place on the white striped gridirons. And it may be a long time before anything like it happens

This fine bit of maneuvering was the work of Don Canham, athletic director of the University of Michigan, whose mental craftiness has made the Wolverines' athletic program the most financially successful in the land.

His latest bit was to "sell" the Irish at Notre Dame the idea of renewing their rivalry that has laid dormant for 35 years. More than that, he sold them the idea of each team in the home-andhome series keeping its own gate receipts.

THIS SOUNDS simple enough on paper. But when you consider that to a pact whereby the home team pays It was Canham's coup. Football and

South Bend's 59,000, it is no surprise to hear even the most partisan football fan ask, "How did he do it?" This was the first thing that came to

The Stroller's mind when the renewal of the ancient series and its financial arrangements were made public. There was only one way to find out:

Ask the man himself Canham just smiled when the question was put to him. "It was rather easy," he said, "and it isn't as onesided as it may look. Then he pointed out that Notre Dame gets $10 a ticket compared to Michigan's $8. And Notre Dame has only 17,000 students to take care of at reduced prices compared to 35,000 at Michigan.

"When you figure that out, you'll find the money comes out about even," he said.

THERE WAS a glint in his eye as he spoke, and The Stroller felt there was more to the unusual arrangement than that— especially since both sides agreed to continue the series, save for two years in the 1980s, until 1990.

Since then, both schools have agreed Michigan Stadium seats 104,000 and the visitors $10,000. But even with that, Notre Dame will be the better for it.

The Stroller, who has been around sharpshooters in sports for a long time, felt there was some underlying reason for the pact that assures possibly the greatest rivalry in all of football for at least the next 10 years. Finally, Canham admitted one other item that really sold the deal. He told the Irish athletic bosses they could use such a pact to their own advantage. He pointed out that the Irish have some teams on their schedule that no longer are good drawing cards and should be replaced if the football program was to make the money required to carry out the entire athletic program.

HE SMILED as he recalled showing them that, by offering the home-andhome gate receipts idea, some of them might balk. For instance, there was a time when Notre Dame and Tulane was a big game. Not now. The Irish get very little for a trip to New Orleans while Tulane gets financially well when coming to South Bend.

"If any of them balk, just tell them that the University of Michigan does it-why not you?

That was the point that sold the deal.

Township employee objects to report

I would like to respond to the article by Pat Touhey regarding the Township of Plymouth payroll. The article was erroneous in every single statement.

I came in to work on a Saturday to work on the study with Tom Fidge and Maurice Breen (with no pay), answered all the questions and cooperated with him in every way.

We have records on payroll kept by every department head, the clerk's office, and the accounting office. Some departments have time cards which I work from and are kept in my office, also individual time for each employee in the township, and CETA employees in other areas. There is a back-up for everything we do and payroll is checked by my accounting clerk, then by myself before a check is ever

Bad timing

Editor

Fowl? Foul!! As a member, and an officer, of the First United Presbyterian Church of Plymouth, I feel that noon is an inappropriate time to begin the Fowl Festival.

Many churches have services which end at, or soon after, noon. The chamber of commerce should consider a later starting time, especially because Oct. 1 is Worldwide Communion Sunday. An activity created for fun shouldn't create bad feelings in any segment of our community.

GEORGE P. CROLL. Plymouth

To say payroll is by word of mouth is totally irresponsible. Everything is in writing from each department head and all overtime or deductions are in writing, signed by the department head or supervisor. All records are documented in my office, filed per payroll period and also in personnel

Our fire chief, Jim Gignac, had applied for a position with the State of Michigan before Fidge began his study, and Web Kincade had planned on retirement long before. To put such doubt on these two men was in extremely poor taste and was very poor journalism. There were absolutely no facts checked for the article, only "word of mouth" from Fidge. I have to wonder what Fidge's qualifications are to do such a study, then release wrong information to the press even before we have the study at the township. Just for the information, I have my governmental accounting and advanced governmental accounting certificates from Michigan State in Lansing, plus 12 years accounting experience. I think I am far more capable to make judgements for this department than Mr. Fidge.

PAT SADOWSKI Accounting Supervisor Plymouth Township

(Editor's note: For the record, the article quoted major findings from the Fidge report directly from that document which had been reviewed in secret sessions and approved publicly in June. The findings were known to township officials long before they were reported in the press. The township board found Mr. Fidge qualified to conduct the study.)

Readers' forum

Tom Fidge replies to critics of report

The following letter I mailed on Sept. 25 to the township supervisor, clerk and treasurer:

"I have received and read your letter of Sept. 22, 1978, regarding my report to you on personnel and payroll policies of the township.

"Your expression of my 'intention of injuring reputations' is a direct attack on my character and reputation and is totally false.

"The severity of your comments compels me to demand from you a public retraction.

"It was never my intention to argue my report in the newspapers but, for the record, you know

1. A written preliminary report and recommendation was submitted for your consideration.

2. There were numerous public meetings held to discuss the report and recommendations.

deletions for your final approval.

3. A final draft typed and bound was submitted with your additions and

4. The report and recommendations were subsequently adopted by the board unanimously on June 19, 1978."

THOMAS J. FIDGE Plymouth Township

Violations not helpful

First of all, I'd like to say we've been attending the Plymouth Fall Festival for five years, but recently while attending this year's Festival something happened that angered me so much I decided to write you.

Friday evening on Sept. 8, as we walked back to our car to go home, a policeman was about to give us a parking ticket. He said we just missed getting ourselves a $10 ticket and then laughed. My husband told him he didn't realize that he had parked in a no parking zone and the policeman said that it "may not look like it, but it

We were parked on a side street called Elizabeth off of Ann Arbor Trail and other cars were parked all along there blocking the no parking signs

Plymouth promotes its Fall Festival every year and wants thousands of people to attend. Where are they expected to park? We did not intentionally park in a no parking zone, but being that the Festival was in progress and that the city does not have adequate parking for it, I feel that it was wrong for the police to use this time for writing up parking tickets. It would be interesting to know exactly how many were issued during the festival.

Because we were apparently not parked in a critical no parking zone, I see no reason why you couldn't relax your parking ordinance enforcement in certain areas for a few days during the fall festival.

Thanks for love

Editor

We would like to express our heartfelt thanks to members of the First Baptist Church of Plymouth and to friends for their love, comfort, prayers, cards, flowers and visits during the home-going of our son, Jeff. The unity of the church family at the time of need was filled with Christian love and deeply appreciated.

Our special thanks to Pastor John Elliott, Pastor William Stahl, Pastor Dennis Metzger, and all the people who fixed meals or brought in food for our family. God bless you all.

Bike trails along roads?

Editor:

The I-275 bike trail article in the Sept. 18 issue of your paper struck me as quite a coincidence.

Many times in the past two months while riding and driving on I-275, I thought to myself and also mentioned to my husband, "What a shame that bike paths aren't built along busy main roads such as Lilley Road south of Ann Arbor Road and Joy Road where many students ride to the high schools.

The shoulders of these roads are death traps with loose stones, slants and the narrowness in places. I know because I've ridden on them. It's almost impossible to control a bike on the stones, which makes it necessary to ride in the road. This is a hazard to both motorist and biker.

I've seen young bikers lose control of their bikes on the stones along Lilley and fall into the road. My son also had this experience last summer along Lilley south of Ann Arbor Road by the Colony Chrysler garage entrances. He received scrapes and bruises and narrowly missed being hit by a motorist.

Something should be done to make these routes safe for bikers who use them, not only for pleasure but out of necessity.

Pleasure trails are a great idea but in comparison to the amount of people who use these trails and those who use the main roads, it seems that the money would be better spent on the

Driver was thoughtless

Editor:

Recently, our pet cat was killed by a car, the driver of which never bothered to stop to see if the cat was dead or to whom it belonged.

To that driver it was just a cat. To our family she was much more. There were no cars parked on the street that morning so it's hard to believe the driver didn't see the cat.

It's not fair for that driver not to have given it a second thought while my children sometimes cry them-

I'd like to offer a solution to the 45minute shortened day in our elementary schools caused by lack of funds.

Have each teacher take 15 minutes of their allotted planning time to go to their resource center. Here, have them check out a resource book on art methods, a book on teaching games in the elementary school, and a record. Once a week, spend 20 minutes introducing and playing a simple game. 10 minutes listening to and singing a new song, and 15 minutes doing a simple art project.

For those teachers who can't draw a straight line, are tone deaf and physically un-coordinated, keep in mind that the creativity is expected to come from the children and the experts who have written the resource books. The teacher's responsibility in these specialized areas whould be that of important factors in the learning process being the teacher and the pupil. Granted, today's society is growing ever more specialized and mechanized, but let us take care lest we lose that most important human factor.

My first grader had the privilege of being exposed to an art specialist, a music specialist, a physical education specialist, a humanities specialist, an art appreciation specialist and an interesting array of teaching

On one occasion I went to pick him up early from school and found his classroom empty. The office directed me to his teacher who told me he was having "story time." I found my son in the "media center" sitting in front of a screen while a "media specialist" ran a film through a projector. This is but one example in which I found my son's education to be specialized and mechanized. This type of education is necessarily expensive. The question arises. is this type of education necessary?

Perhaps our basic educational structure needs to be evaluated and replaced with something that is just as effective but less costly.

BPW celebrates 50th anniversary

By ELINOR GRAHAM

Anniversaries are times for reminiscing. So it was Saturday evening when the Plymouth Business and Professional Women's Club celebrated the golden anniversary of its founding with a dinner party at the Plymouth Hilton Inn

Mary Jane Peck had compiled the history of the club from old scrapbooks, programs and newspaper clippings. There were 17 charter members when the club was formed Sept. 25, 1928. Norma Cassady, is the only charter member still active in the club.

Mrs. Peck told members and guests that a newspaper article, dated 1928, revealed the president of the education division of the Michigan Narcotics Association had been guest speaker at a BPW meeting. His subject was "The Drug Addict and his Problem." The gist of his talk emphasized the real lack of information available to drug PHOEBE PATTERSON, first woman justice of the peace in Michigan was a charter member of the Plymouth BPW.

She received statewide attention when a Detroit lawyer challenged the right of a woman to be a judge. The case went to the Supreme Court which upheld Judge Patterson's right to be a JP. She continued at her post for 11 years and died during her 12th year in

The Plymouth club awarded its first scholarship to a high school senior in 1934. Scholarships have continued to be its most important project. The number of grants and the amount of money have increased over the years, reflecting the success of their fundraising efforts.

SCHOLARSHIPS and other philanthropies are financed by fashion shows, the sale of calendars and other club projects.

For years, BPW members served a German dinner the Thursday of Plymouth Fall Festival. The smell of sauerkraut and knackwurst filled Kellogg Park and the downtown area as the women served hundreds of diners. They tought flies and bees attracted by the dozens of homemade German chocolate cakes. Seldom was the weather ideal-they worked in heat, cold, and sometimes rain.

They finally decided there must be an easier way to make money. They gave up the German dinner and for the past two years have rented a booth where they sold hundreds of dozens of homemade cookies during the festival.

PLYMOUTH MAYOR Tom Turner issued a Proclamation designating "Sept. 24, 1978, as a day to honor Business and Professional Women of our community and hereby pay tribute to this organization for their accomplisments as they celebrate their 50th anniversary.

Among the guests of honor at the celebration were: U.S. Rep. and Mrs. Carl Pursell, State Sen. and Mrs. Robert Geake, District Judge and Mrs. Dunbar Davis, and from Plymouth Township, Treasurer and Mrs. Joe West and Supervisor and Mrs. Tom Notebaert.

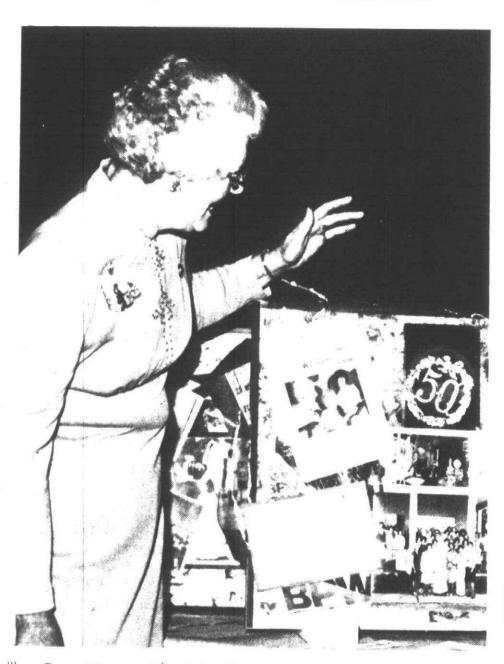

The BPW was represented by Madeline Vick, past state president; Mary Esther Dadazzio, immediate past president; Marlene Danol, first vice president; Maybelle Shon, bylaw chairman; Charlotte Adams, state public relations chairman; Mary Williams, District 10 director; Grace Rix, District 9 director; and representatives from neighboring chapters.

JIM ELIAS was almost overwhelmed by the response to the Randy Williams Recovery Golf Tournament last Sunday

"It was unbelievable," said Elias, who first conceived the idea of a ben efit golf tournament to support his good friend, Randy.

"Everybody felt good about it. There was not a single incident that detracted from the tournament.

In fact, original plans called for about 70 golfers. When they first talked it over, Elias, John Gilles, John Bida, Mike Patrick and Mike Kisabeth decided that would be a number to

"We had almost double our original estimate. There were 135 golfers teeing off Sunday morning at Rolling Meadows Country Club.

It was a shotgun scramble start and the tournament was completed in five hours. They all headed for the Knights of Columbus hall for dinner and presentation of prizes.

Randy Williams was there to add his personal thanks to those who participated.

"I can't say enough about the response of this community," said Elias. "Altogether, about 250 people were involved. That's including the merchants who also doubled our expectations in awarding prizes for the tournament.'

Even the weatherman cooperated. And if warm wishes and goodwill have any power, the recovery tournament will achieve its purpose.

THE GANG had gathered at Fred and Olga DeLano's last Saturday afternoon to watch the University of Michigan-Notre Dame football game.

Spirits were at a rather low ebb during the first half among the guests with predominant U-M leanings. (Loyalties, may be a better word).

Peg Tungate was out in the kitchen with Olga, checking on the food. She looked out the window and saw a familiar couple walking down Governor Bradford.

"There's Soapy and Nancy Williams walking down your street," said Peg. "Well, so it is," said Olga. "I wonder where they're going."

"They're turning in here." announced Peg. A few seconds later, the doorbell rang.

Fred had neglected to tell Olga that he had left a note at the Mayflower Hotel for the Michigan Supreme Court Justice. The note said there would be a gathering Saturday afternoon and the Williams would be welcome to join the Olga was about to tell the Williams that Judge Tom Foley lived around the corner on Priscilla Lane when her husband appeared and welcomed his guests.

They stayed and watched the rest of the football game-for an hour or sobefore heading for home in Grosse Pointe.

MR. AND MRS. GARY Robinson announce the birth of their first child. Gary Alan Robinson was born Sept. 19 in Blodgett Memorial Hospital, Grand Rapids.

Gary is golf pro at Green Ridge Golf Club north of Grand R- Rapids. The threesome will head south about Nov. 1 where they will headquarter in the Orlando, Fla. area for winter golf.

Grandparents are Gordon and Betty Robinson of Plymouth.

THE LEO McNAMARA'S gardens were a perfect setting for a recent bridal shower hosted by Mrs. McNamara and Kathleen McNamara of Detroit. Guest of honor was Maureen McNamara.

After luncheon at the Plymouth Hilton, guests assembled at the Penniman Avenue home of the McNamaras. The bride-to-be was seated in the gazebo while guests sat at tables on the lawn. The gazebo was especially decorated for the occasion with fresh greens, orange blossoms, white bells and doves. Gifts were presented and opened and cookies, tea and punch were served.

Maureen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McNamara of Detroit. She and her fiance, John Christian Bonner Jr. of Lutherville, Md., will be married Nov. 25 at Christ the King Church in Detroit. They will live in Maryland.

LISTENING to Norma Cassady reminisce about is one of my favorite things. Her humor as she recalls events in the community adds a special touch.

For example: "I remember sitting in school and being able to identify every car that went by, by the sound of the motor. There were four cars in town then-a Steamer, a Buick, a Ford and one other. Coello Hamilton, Ed Hough, Charlie Bennett and Chauncey Rauch were the only people who owned cars. And we could tell each one by its sound."

Isn't that great? JOHN DREWNIAK and Ruth Sherman had high scores at last Thursday's party bridge session in the Plymouth Cultural Center.

Women to talk politics

"Stop the world, I want to get on," proclaims a flyer circulated by the Second District Michigan Women's Political Caucus.

In it the multi-partisan organization announced what is touted as the area's first major women-in-politics conference to be held from 12:30-4:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 7 in the liberal arts auditorium of Schoolcraft College.

The caucus hopes to attract the woman who might want to run for public office, the woman who is sure there is more to politics than stuffing envelopes and making coffee and the woman who wants to become politically involved.

The event will feature Libby Maynard, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor. Appearing with her will be a panel of five women who will talk on a variety of subjects.

They include Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Alice Gilbert, a candidate for the state Supreme Court: Sarah Power, University of Michigan Regent; Lavon Bliesener, director of women's office for Gov. William Milliken and a member of the Michigan Women's Political Caucus.

The caucus aims to get women involved in the political process, and it is trying to establish a talent bank of women whose names can be submitted when appointments to public office are to be made. It has also prepared a booklet listing appointive offices at city, county, township and state levels.

The second congressional district includes parts of Wayne and Washtenaw counties and most of Monroe County. It includes Livonia, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Northville and Northville Township.

For advance registration information, contact Alice Gunderson at 522-8738 or 559-8850, ext. 227. It will also be possible to register at the door

Program aimed at new mothers

By PATRICIA LaCROIX

"Before the birth, all the attention is focused on the pregnancy and pre natal care. Then, afterwards, all the attention is focused on the baby.

"But the mother still needs attention and still has her own needs to be filled. That is what we are all about." said social worker Mary Schuman.

Ms. Schuman, along with Joyce Cunningham, are coordinating a program designed to meet the needs of new mothers. It is offered through the Plymouth Family Services agency.

The program is directed toward women who have had a child in the past year. Ms. Schuman said it is important that people do not view it as a "therapy session" and that people don't need to have a problem to enroll

It more of a "growth group."

The program is designed to help women fulfill themselves, cope with the tensions and fatigue and enrich their marriage through the child after

"They generally talk about the things that they want to," she said. This could include topics such as the complications of having a second child, returning to work after the birth and discipline of children.

"There is just a whole overall adjustment after that point (of the birth). The women have stopped work, if they were working before, and now they are home for a good deal of the time.

"There are feelings of isolation, and the group helps these women get over

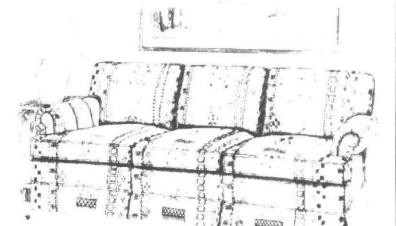

In addition to the feelings of isolation, there also can be feelings of jealousy, she explained, since the father may spend more time with the baby than the mother.

"It is a whole family reorganization. The parents have to find time for themselves and for each other," she said. "Before the birth, there may not have been anything that cut into their time so much.

The program will run eight consecutive weeks, beginning Oct. 12. The sessions are held from 10:30 to noon on Thursdays. Registration fee is $20. Interested people should contact the acgency at 453-0890 for more informa-

Pilgrim Garden Clubs of the Federated Garden Club of Michigan will hold its second annual formal installation of officers this evening at Win Schulers in Ann Arbor.

The ceremony welcoming this year's officers will be a service using flowers instead of candles. Five different kinds of flowers presented to each woman signify human traits.

Officers this year include Diane Bodell, president: Nancy Chapman, vice-president; Nancy Zeleck, secretary and Donna Sarrach, treasurer. Susan Coker will pass on the president's gold pin and will receive a past president's pin in it's place.

The big order of business for the garden club is their plant boutique Oct. 19 and 20 in the corridor of the mini mall, Main St. Plymouth. Members will work on pinecone wreaths, goldenrod wreaths and dried flower arrangements for the sale at workshops.

Members have been busily shopping garage sales looking for unusual baskets and containers for the arrangements. Herb wreaths and potpourris as well as foliage plants will be included at the boutique.

African violets will be in abundance, all grown from hybridizers. These are a specialty of the club since many members are very involved in the growing and care of these plants.

Erick Devine as Oberon and John Morgan Lund as Puck (right) appear in the Hilberry Theatre production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," which opens the 1978-79 repertory season at 8:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 6. A revival of last spring's production, the Shakespeare comedy also plays Saturday, Oct. 7, and will continue in the repertory through December. Tickets and complete schedule information are available at the box office in the Hilberry Lobby, Cass and Hancock, Detroit, telephone, 577-2972.

Art auction Oct. 8 to aid ballet

An art auction to aid the Livonia Regional Ballet Guild is scheduled for the evening of Sunday, Oct. 8 in the Senior Citizens Building, Farmington at Five Mile in Livonia.

Champagne and hors d'oeuvres will be served at 6:30 p.m. The auction begins at 7:30 p.m. A $2 donation will be accepted at the door or in advance to members.

Selections will include original signed oils, lithographs, woodcuts and metal sculptures. Values will range from $5 to $500, but will be mainly in the $10 to $100 range.

New talents will be represented as well as such famous names as Dali. Rockwell, Hibel, Neiman and Mitchell. The show is coordinated by the Gallery Art Center of Berkley.

Oakway opens with a cabaret

The cabaret concert, the Oakway Symphony Orchestra's most popular offering, will inaugurate the orchestra's sixth season.

The event begins at 8 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 7, in the Madonna College Activities Building at the corner of Schoolcraft and Levan, Livonia. It has been a sellout the last two seasons.

Guest artists will include soprano Rosemary Jackson, baritone "Fat Bob" Taylor, television personality Sonny Eliot and guest conductor Ernest A. Jones as well conductor Francesco DiBlasi and the orchestra.

TAYLOR, who has become a radio personality after starting his career as the "singing plumber," will be master of ceremonies. He will sing the aria "Di Provensa" from Verdi's "La Traviata" and join Miss Jackson in selections from Rodgers and Hammerstein's "South Pacific."

Miss ackson will also perform the "Laughing Song" from Johann Strauss' "Fledermaus" and "Italian Street Song" from Victor Herbert's

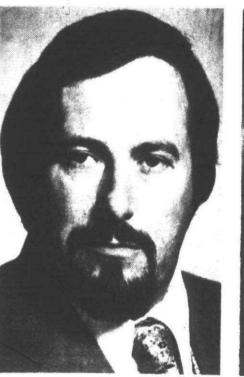

"Naughty Marietta." She has performed in opera, theater and with orchestras, most recently with the St. Louis Symphony. She was a finalist in botht he Metropolitan and American Opera auditions.

WEATHERMAN Eliot will narrate Allen Sherman's "Peter and the Commisar," a spoof of "Peter and the Wolf," accompanied by the symphony.

A frequent Oakway guest conductor, Jones will lead the "Saber Dance" and other selections from Khachaturian's "Gayne" ballet. There will be a trumpet solo of Leroy Anderson's "Bugler's Holiday.'

Tickets are $6 at the door. They may also be bought in advance at Hudson's Northland, Westland and Oakland malls; at Madonna College; and at Hammel Music, Livonia.

Tables of eight or 10 are $48 and $60 respectively. Bar service and sandwiches are available from 7-11 p.m. Oakway receives support from the Michigan Council for the Arts.

Bonstelle's first: 'Crucible'

"The Crucible," Arthur Miller's American classic concerning the Salem witch trials, has been slated as the Bonstelle Theatre's season opener. The drama will be presented at 8:30 p.m. on Oct. 13, 14, 20 and 21 and at 2 p.m. Oct. 15 and 22.

Written in response to Miller's personal experience with the McCarthy hearings during the 1950s, "The Crucible" has now emerged as more than a topical drama of that time.

It continues to hold the stage as a powerful human tragedy as well as a timeless social drama. The play centers around the life of a common Puritan farmer, John Proctor, an innocent victim of the witchcraft hysteria who finds the strength to become truly

DIRECTOR SPENCER Golub said, "This production is not a strict historical piece. It deals with evils which are tendencies in all human nature. We are attempting to get at the mental set of the society and help an audience understand how something like this could have easily happened.

Golub, director of the successful 1978 Studio Theatre production of "The Possessed," continued, "Too often people forget that the Puritans were trying to create a warm spot in the middle of the wilderness and that left them very vulnerable to things like superstition.

The Bonstelle cast is headed by Richard Buzinski of New Baltimore as John Proctor, Cheryl Risley of Roseville as his wife Elizabeth, and Maryann Ferenc of Detroit as the young girl who vengefully accused them of witchcraft.

Other principal roles are played by Philip Fox of Detroit as Deputy-Governor Danforth, Kim Cook of Westland as Mary Warren and Neil E. Martin of Warren in the role of Reverend Hale.

Settings for the production are designed by Blair Vaughn Anderson, costumes by Marilyn Renaud and lighting by Reid G. Johnson.

Ticket information is available from the Wayne State University Theatre Box Office, Cass and Hancock (577-2960). Tickets also are available through Hudson's ticket offices, the WSU and Highland Park Community College Bookstores and Oakland University, Henry Ford Community College and the Schoolcraft College Ticket Services.

Vittorio's bill adds 'Personals'

With the new production of "Personals," Vittorio's Dinner Theatre in Livonia boasts it is the first in the metropolitan area with a two-show

"Personals" will be presented Saturday and Sunday evenings at Vittorio's, 33201 Plymouth east of Farmington, Livonia. "Jacques Brel," which has been running successfully for 32 weeks, will be seen Thursday and Friday nights.

A musical romp, "Personals" features the songs of Michael Peter Smith. The cast of four includes Phil Marcus Esser, Barbara Bredius, Charlie Latimer and Mary Ann Paquette.

The decision to offer a repertory was made because of letters, phone calls and comments from patrons who enjoyed "Jacques Brel.

On Thursdays through Saturday, dinner begins at 7 p.m. and the show follows at 8:30. Sundays the dinner begins at 6 p.m. and the show at 7:30. For reservations, phone 425-8344.

Opry star appears at Glenn on Sunday

Country music star Bill Anderson will perform in one show at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at John Glenn High School, Marquette west of Wayne Road, Westland.

Tour one of Michigan's largest historic districts

Apples taste twice as go when you pick them yourself

in the heart of Southeast Michigan

Ypsilanti celebrates Autumn with small town flair. Start your day with a walking tour of one of Michigan's finest historic districts. Stroll through century old Depot

Town and on to the Historical Museum for a real taste of yesteryear. Take home your own piece of history from one of the area's many weekend antique auctions. For a real change of pace you can pick your own apples at a local orchard. Outstanding dining and entertainment makes a perfect ending for a perfect day. Ypsilanti offers the best of Fall in the heart of S.E. Michigan.

15 min. west of Detroit Metro Airport on I-94. Exit #83—Huron St.

Please send me your Fall Getaway information on Ypsilanti and S.E. Michigan.

Old theater gets rebirth with live 'Camelot'

A "before" scene in the old Northville P&A, which will reopen Oct. 14 as the Marquis with a live production of "Camelot."

"I walked by the old theater and saw it was closed for remodeling. So I talked to the lady who owned it and told her of the dream I had. It turned out she and her husband had the same

And on Oct. 14 Andrew Henderson's dream will come true. The former Northville P&A Theater at 133 E. Main will reopen as a plush, legitimate Marquis Theater.

It will feature Lerner & Loewe's Brodway musical "Camelot" for the weekends of Oct. 14-15, 20-22 and 27-29 with full cast, settings and a 20-piece orchestra.

Other offerings this season will be ballet, marionette theater and theater for children. In between live offerings, the Marquis will continue to show motion pictures.

HENDERSON MAKES his living selling pianos and is also known locally as former harpist and assistant conductor of the Oakway Symphony Orchestra. His wife, Lin, is a ballerina and ballet teacher.

But he has also been involved in staging and production—and that is what his dream was about.

The couple who shared the early dream are Jay and Inge Zaytis, who own the theater building and some shops in it.

"The theater was built in 1925 by Penniman and Allen of Plymouth, and it hosted live shows as well as films," Henderson said. "It has a nice orchestra pit that was covered up by the

He added that during the renovation, the original movie screen, autographed by Charlie Chaplin, was found stored away.

THE ZAYTIS are putting in new seats-the same kind as in the Grand Ol' Opry in Nashville and by the company that supplied Kennedy Center in Washington; six new Winsburg brass chandeliers which hold 20 candles each; new heating and air-conditioning systems; plush velour draperies, new carpeting and paint.

Six coats of paint were stripped off the old box office, and beautiful black walnut wood was found underneath.

It's in a victorian style. The opening weekend will be a champagne reception. The ticket reservation number is 349-8110. All 500 seats are unreserved

PUTTING ON live theater requires a major organizing effort. A production company with four divisions is the

The parent organization is Performing Artists Unlimited, a corporation. Divisions are:

· Premin-Henderson Productions, a stock company specializing in staging musicals. Principals are Henderson and William Premin, known to metropolitan audiences for his lead role in "Fiddler on the Roof.

· Forsythe Chamber Ballet, with Lin Henderson as artistic director and choreographer. Mrs. Henderson had her own loft theater on New York's City's Forsythe Street, which is the source of the name. She helped stage Oakway's "Midsummer Night's Dream" and "Italian Spectacular" last season.

· Marquis Marianettes, with Andrew as director. This effort was once part of the Forsythe Theater in New York. He has done marionette shows for both the Livonia-Redford Theater Guild and the Livonia Parks and Recreation Department.

'Sound of Music' in U-M production

. Sally Ann Howes, whose professional career spans the full entertainment spectrum from music to drama in film, television and on stage, will star in a lavish new touring production of "The Sound of Music.

The musical opens The University of Michigan Professional Theatre Program's (PTP) Best of Broadway Series Oct. 6 and 7 at 8 p.m. and Oct. 8 at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. in the Power Center for the Performing Arts, Ann

Well known to both English and * American audiences, Miss Howes made her stage debut in London, appearing in Sandy Wilson's "Caprice," followed by appearances in such London hits as "Paint Your Wagon" (co-starring with her father, the late English actor Bobby Howes) and "A Hat Full of Rain.

More recently Miss Howes returned to London to star in "The King and I," "Robert and Elizabeth," Bernard Shaw's "Man and Superman" and has just finished a successful season at the

London Palladium opposite Tommy Steele in "Hans Anderson."

MISS HOWES made her debut in America as Julie Andrew's successor in "My Fair Lady." She has since starred in other Broadway hits including "What Makes Sammy Run?" with Steve Lawrence and the New York City Center revival of "Brigadoon." for which she became the first performer in a revival to be nominated for a Tony Award.

Film audiences recognize Miss Howes for her work in "The Admirable Chriton," with Kenneth Moore, and with Dick Van Dyke in the popular musical "Chitty Chitty Bang Bang."

Television audiences remember her starring with Robert Goulet in the award-winning production of "Brigadoon," as well as in "The Gift of the Magi," "The Fifth Column" with Richard Burton and Maximillian Schell and "After Hours," with Christopher Plummer.

Fr. Castelot at St. Edith

The Rev. John Castelot, professor of scripture at St. John Provincial Seminary and author of a weekly column on faith, will present an eight-week series, beginning Friday, Sept. 29, at St. Edith Catholic Church, 15089 Newburgh, Livonia.

The classes from 9:15 to 10:45 a.m. will carry the title "Community: Scriptural Foundations of a Caring

The topic was chosen, said Sister Barbara Celeskey, of pastoral minister for education at St. Edith, because the congregation parish is building a new church.

"Since we will be moving into a new church building, the program com-mittee thought we should focus efforts this year on building community," she said. "This series will provide us with a firm base in the scripture for doing

'Violence and violated' topic...

"Violence and the Violated" will be the topic of a lecture series at Mercy College of Detroit during October.

Keynote speaker for the first lecture at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 5, will be Elie Wiesel, world renowned Jewish author and lecturer who survived the Holocaust during World War II. His subject will be "Violence and the Violated: Remembering.

"These lectures on violence are particularly appropriate at this time. when our country is experiencing a rise in neo-Nazism and when interest in the Holocaust has been heightened by the recent television portraval of that sad event," said Dr. Caro Rittner, RSM, coordinator of the series. Sister Patricia McCarty, OP, is co-.coordinator.

Other speakers and their topics are: Daniel Maguire, author and moral theologian from Marquette University. "Human Violence: The Ethical Alternative," Thursday, Oct. 12.

All lectures begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Conference Center on the Mercy campus, 8200 West OUter Drive at Southfield.

Jewish holidays welcome in new year

The year 5739 will be ushered in by the Jewish festival of Rosh Hashana starting at sundown Sunday, Oct. 1.

Many area Jews will observe the occasion in the Livonia Jewish Congregation, 31840 Seven Mile, Livonia, the only synagogue in western Wayne

The ceremony will begin with three blasts on the ram's horn (shofar), an instrument that dates back to the oldest days of Jewish history. It will be sounded at sundown, Oct 1. Services will also be held at 8 a.m. Monday and Tuesday

The authority for Rosh Hashana comes from a chapter in Leviticus. "The first day of the seventh month (of the Hebrew calendar) is a solemn time for all people to meet together for worship.

"It is a time of remembrance, and is to be announced by loud blowing of trumpets. Don't do any work on the day of the celebration, but offer a sacrifice by fire to the Lord.

The two-day observance is a time when Jews are supposed to examine their lives and their goals. Tt begins a 10-day period of repentence ending

Church Women begin season

Joan DiGregario of the Methodist Children's Village will talk on "Child Abuse" for the meeting of Church Women United at 12:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 6 in Aldersgate United Methodist Church, 10000 Beech Daly, Redford and Redford Township. Those attending are asked to make reservations by Oct. 4 by calling Faye Schuman, 421-3530. Beverages will be provided and child care will be with the high holiday of Yom Kippur Oct. 10 and 11. This holiday begins at 7 p.m. Tuesday, and again at 8 a.m. Wednesday and lasts all day. It is a day spent fasting and praying.

The organization includes women from Livonia, Plymouth, Northville

Rosh Hashana is both serious and festive with Jewish families enjoying a special meal of apple dipped in honey as they ask for a good and sweet year.

The words Rosh Hashana mean head of the year, which is Hebrew for "new year." According to the Jewish Community Council of Metropolitan Detroit, the two-day event is the result of some uncertainty in the method in ancient Israel of determining the onset of the new moon.

The present Jewish calendar was introduced by the scholar Hillel II in the fourth century. Prior to that the new months were proclaimed by the high court in Jerusalem upon the observation of the reappearance of the crescent moon.

If the new moon was not seen at the normal time of of the month, it was automatically celebrated on the next day. Messengers were sent to outlying areas with the news of the new moon, but some communities began the custom of celebrating both days.

Although in the Bible, Rosh Hashana lasted one day only, the two-day festival arose out of the difficulty of determining when the moon actually appeared.

According to tradition the day commemorates the day the world was

In Jewish homes on Rosh Hashana candles are lit and a festive meal is held. People greet each other with the words: "May you be inscribed in the book of life for a good year." It has also become customary to send Jewish New Year cards.

In the Livonia Jewish Congregation, services will be conducted by its rabbi, Martin Gordon.

Christian Business Men convene

Charles Colson, the Watergate figure turned born-again Christian, and Betty King, evangelical conference speaker, will address the 41st annual convention of the Christian Business Men's Committee, scheduled Oct. 4-8 in the Hyatt Regency Dearborn.

Some 1,000 members and their wives are expected to attend the national event.

The organization, formed in the late 1930s, has some 500 local committees and about 10,000 members nationwide. These meet for breakfast and lunch regularly and always have a speaker from the ranks of business and professional men who addresses the spiritual side of man.

Colson will be featured speaker at the CMBC Friday executive luncheon at Fairlane Manor in Dearborn. At the same hour, Ms. King will address the wives attending the meeting.

Other well-known visitors also will address sessions of the convention, and all are open to the public. Those interested in attending may call the CBMC local headquarters, 646-5700.

Art rental gallery adds to collection

Three original paintings, a photograph and several reproductions soon will be available for rent from the Plymouth Community Arts Council art rental gallery.

The rental gallery on the second floor of Dunning Hough Library, 223 S. Main Street, Plymouth, is open Wednesdays from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Area residents can rent originals and reproductions for $2 a month.

"Dance School" by Edie Joppich,

Knepper-Bromm

Martha Mary Chapel in Greenfield Village was the focal point for wedding guests from coast to coast when Jennifer Bromm and William Knepper Jr. exchanged wedding vows.

The bride is the daughter of former Plymouth residents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bromm of Philadelphia. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William Knepper of Pittsburg.

Bridal attendants and guests came from Texas, Maine and the west coast. The wedding reception was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Hothem of Plymouth, godparents of the bride.

The couple honeymooned at Lake Tahoe. They will live in San Jose, Calif.

and "From the A&P with Love" by Barb Turney, both originals, are now on display and will be available for rent Oct. 11. "The Fall of Icarus," a reproduction by Peter Brueghel, and a reproduction of "Two Girls at Piano" by Renoir will go on the rental list for the first time Oct. 11.

OTHER NEW acquisitions soon to be on display are "Man-Civilization," an original oil painting by Plymouth resident Jean Herr; "Daffodil Morn," a photograph by Phil Rusten; and "Bird with Offspring," a reproduction by Morris Graves.

In addition to its regular service, the PCAC art rental gallery offers original art on consignment from Michigan artists. These pieces can be rented with an option to buy for $5 a month. Up to four months in rental fees can be applied to the purchase price.

The consignment program currently offers works by George Jull, Celia Kelly, Johnnie Crosby; Jessie Hudson, Albert Decker, Caroline Dunphy, Kay Leman, Jane Rochleau, Marjorie Chellstorp and Ellen Wallis. New artists and new pieces will be added in November

During the next three months, the rental gallery committee will make trips to several area galleries and art shows to purchase other new items for the gallery collection.

Westland to get Health-O-Rama

Free health screening tests will be available to adults during the United Foundation Health-O-Rama, from 9:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m., Monday, Oct. 2 through Thursday Oct. 5 at Westland shopping center.

Sponsored by United Health Organization, a Torch Drive-supported service, and Women for the United Foundation, tests will be available to detect signs of high blood pressure, cervical cancer, anemia, heart disease, kindey disease, hearing and vision loss.

Individuals whose test results are abnormal for any phase of screening will be referred to physicians for more precise tests and examination.

Health-O-Rama provides free medical testing to persons 18 or over. Medical tests are conducted by qualified medical personnel who volunteer their time. Mrs. Robert Harkness of Farmington Hills will serve as chairman, assisted by Mrs. Dale Young of Armada and Mrs. E.J. Alban, Jr., of Dearborn as co-chairmen. They will be assisted by 100 Women for the United Foundation volunteers.

Of the 7,000 people who attended last year, over 30 per cent had not had a complete physical in more than five years. Health-O-Rama does not take the place of a complete physical examination

The most common problem detected at Health-O-Rama is obesity. Referrals are made to the Michigan Heart Association, a Torch Drive agency, which offers diet classes to those who are overweight.

"Health-O-Rama is not a medical treatment program," Bill Harsen, Health-O-Rama coordinator said. "It is a medical screening program designed to detect early disease in persons who may be unaware of any health problem.

"Many diseases give few, if any warning signs. That's why it's important to have regular medical checkups. We hope the United Foundation Health-O-Rama will encourage people

In addition to the health tests, there will be educational exhibits focusing on health and social problems from Community Information Service. another Torch Drive-supported service. These exhibits will include information on alcoholism, the aged, speech and hearing difficulties, money management, legal aid, camps and recreation services.

Journalist to view First Amendment

Jack C. Landau, journalist and attorney whose job is to watch over the press' freedom-of-information rights, will keynote the national meeting of Women in Communications, Inc. (WICI), in Detroit Thursday, Oct. 12.

Exploring the question, "Is the First Amendment in Danger?," Landay formerly with Newhouse Newspapers and now executive director of the Reporters Committee for Freedom of the Press, Washington, will speak at the opening luncheon of WICI's 46th annual meeting at the Detroit Plaza Hotel in Renaissance Center.

Landau says the basic interest of the reporters committee is to see that information is made available to the press and public. The committee was

Rocks edge RU; Canton clips Stevenson

Plymouth Salem fought off its stiffest challenge of the young season by turning back a stubborn Redford Union girls basketball squad, 56-51, Tuesday night at the Salemgymnasium.

It was sweet revenge for the Rocks. who lost the Suburban Eight League title to the Panthers last year. But this victory, a tough defensive struggle all the way, was a non-league triumph for coach Bob Blohm's squad since Redford Union left the Sub-8 at the end of

The Rocks, now 4-0, led most of the game and held on to the five-point margin throughout the final quarter. Salem jumped to a 17-12 first-quarter lead and maintained a four-point edge, 29-33, at halftime.

The game turned into a defensive battle in the third quarter. Redford Union, coached by Ken Dersey, came out in the second half and took the lead away from Salem in the opening minutes of the third quarter. But Salem regained its composure to keep its five-point lead after three quarters, 38-33. The Rocks never relinquished the lead after that.

It was a fast-pace, up-and-down the court contest which, in the end, saw Salem's overwhemling height advantage prevail.

Junior guard Nan Horwood led the Rocks' scoring attack with 13 points. She was followed by Salem's three front-line players, Patty Weidman, Erin Moore and Diane Goodrich. Weidman, who also played a strong rebounding game, and Moore both canned 11 points each, while Goodrich Redford Union's Nancy Lawson took game scoring honors with 14 points. Betty Owens added 11, while Micki McLalin chipped in with 10.

The Chiefs from Plymouth Canton throughly dominated the third quarter, outscoring Livonia Stevenson 24-4 to breeze to an easy 54-35 non-league victory at the Spartans' gym Tuesday

Canton coach Mike McCauley called it an "aggressive but sloppy" victory for his unbeaten Chiefs, who have now won three consecutive games.

Canton ran to an early 10-4 lead, but looked sluggish in the second period n Stevenson closed the gap to 18-15 at halftime. The Chiefs finally took control in the third quarter before both

Coach Jan Lawson and her Plymouth Salem girls tennis team waited four long years before their dream came true in defeating Suburban Eight League rival Trenton in dual meet action.

And the match wasn't even close, as the upstart Salem netters trounced the Trojans 5-2 Monday afternoon at Tren-

The victory all but paves the way for the Rocks to win yet another Sub-8 title. Salem has never finished below second place in league standings in the nine-year history of the sport.

The Trojans were considered Salem's toughest dual meet competition this season, but three of four singles victories and two surprising doubles triumphs erased all threat of a Salem setback.

Becky Crespo, playing first singles, split sets and beat Trenton's Lynne Schendel, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3. Salem's second singles Kathy Horton also split sets and won, 6-3, 0-6, 6-3, over Missy Third singles Besty Moon, a sophomore, lost her first match of the season, but fourth singles Renee Braun defeated Trenton's Karen Kooszmarki.

The Hathaway sisters, Lynne and Sandy, lost a tough match at first doubles, 4-6, 1-6. But the real surprise was two close Salem doubles victories by Laurie Smith and Kathy Weber (second doubles), and Kathy Somers and Vickie Sterling (third doubles).

Smith and Weber eeked out a 7-6, 7-5

Salem faces lowly Belleville; Canton regroups schedule has been completed. But if the season were to end after the first three weeks of action, Plymouth Salem would once again gain a state playoff berth with its 90.67 playoffpoint average. The Rocks are second only to Detroit Catholic Central's 96.00 points in Region 2. Alas, three games do not make a season, but it's a reasonable assumption that Salem, that inexperienced, green team in late August, would make the playoffs if its record stays unblemished.

The Rocks eye win number four tomorrow night when they return home for a Suburban Eight League meeting with winless Belleville starting at 8 p.m.

Plymouth Canton suffered its first setback of the young season last Friday night when the Northville Mustangs dampened the Chiefs' Western Six League opener with a 27-6 decision. Canton's schedule doesn't get any easier this week, as the Chiefs travel to Livonia Churchill tomorrow night for an 7:30 p.m. clash with the unbeaten and state-ranked Chargers.

PLYMOUTH SALEM'S offense came into its own against Allen Park last week, as the big play and crisp execution resulted in an easy 35-6 victory. The Rocks defense, however, let the Jaguars move the ball too much, according to Rock head coach Tom

While it's obvious the Tigers are "down" this season after getting bombed by Wayne Memorial, Trenton and Dearborn Edsel Ford, the 0-3 squad has experienced the toughest part of its schedule during this time. Salem marks the fourth straight undefeated team the Tigers have played. And with the loss of Kalvin Patterson, the Tigers' star running back who transferred to Ypsilanti over the summer, it's easy to see why the Rocks will be heavy favorites to win this

"There's no question in our minds that we are a better team than Belleville," said Moshimer. "We're 3-0 and they're 0-3. I feel we should beat them.

"I'm not going to lie to the kids but we have to go out and play good football. They aren't going to fall flat and let us win.

Moshimer says his team must avoid any kind of overconfidence or "looking ahead" attitudes to Redford Union

"We're not ready yet to be overconfident," the Salem coach said. "We're getting better each week but we still must work to get even better."

Despite the easy victory over Allen Park, Salem made a lot of mental mistakes on the field. Salem could have scored three more touchdowns against the Jaguars if penalties and other miscues were avoided.

"We scored a lot of points and had the big play because we got all the breaks," Moshimer said. "Against Allen Park these (mistakes) didn't hurt, but you can't afford them against a good team.'

PLYMOUTH CANTON must regroup after its setback to the Mustangs. In that contest, Northville's Doug Marzonie proved to be the difference as the quarterback-linebacker led the Mustangs to the easy victory.

"We got blitz," admitted Chief coach Dave Schuele. "They (Northville) put it together and we looked shabby on defense.'

As the Chiefs prepare for stateranked Livonia Chuchill, the main concern on the squad is halfback-linebacker Rusty Mandle, whd-?-?a

h?yexten who suffered a slight shoul der injury and missed the last quarter of the Northville game. The Chiefs' leading ground gainer is expected to return to the line up against the Chargers tomorrow night The Chargers must be considered the team to beat in the Western-6 race after defeating tough non-league foes from East Lansing and Ann Arbor Huron and whallopping loop opponent

Walled Lake Western, 41-6, last week. The experienced Chargers have some 14 returning letter winners in the line up headed by running back Doran

"They (Churchill) are tough," Schuele said. "They come out and play football with you. They give you nothing fancy.

"We're just going to have to be ready," he said. "We're the type of team that could make the game interesting. We just hope to keep the kids healthy and go into it with a good attitude. We weren't standing around savoring our wins, and we're not going to stand around and cry about our

Canton netters ripped again

Two defeats were suffered by the Plymouth Canton girls' tennis team Friday and Monday afternoon. The losses came against Western Six league opponents Waterford Mott and Northville.

Taking on the Mustangs of Northville Monday, the Chiefs were denied any kind of victory when they proceded to be shut out, 7-0. Friday's match was a little less painful as Cantons' Lori Smith managed to take her opponent. But Smiths' individual victory was not enough as the Chiefs were beaten 6-1.

"We came close to winning more games than we did against Mott. We couldn't capatilize on the important points that could have resulted in a win," commented Canton coach Cyndi

"Everyone on the team could have played much better, we just played poorly," said Burnstein.

Smith won her match by taking opponent Marki Hubolth 6-4, 1-6, 7-6. First singles player Kathy Kidston was beaten 5-7, 1-6 and second singles Eileen McGlinn was deprived a win when she lost to Mott in split sets 6-1,

Freshman Ann O'Connell was also kept out of the winning spot light when Mott's fourth singles player took her 2-

Canton's first doubles combination of Pam Schipani and Claudia Williams were defeated 4-6, 4-6, while Bridget McNamara and Kim Young lost 1-6, 3-6. Julie Kraus and Julie Swain also lost their match 2-6, 2-6. Although the Chiefs also lost their match against Northville, Burnstein said that she felt the team played much better than they did Friday against Mott.

"Kathy (Kidston) played exceptionaly well but she just couldn't get the winning points," said the Canton mentor. "Pam and Claudia have improved a lot and are starting to play well together as a team."

Salem sports strong golfers, netters

week's football games, let's not forget two Plymouth Salem teams which deserve as much credit and publicity as the pigskin squads because of continuous success every fall season.

I'm speaking of the Salem girls tennis and boys golf teams, which, once again, are off to extremely strong starts this season. Both Rock teams have been perennial state powers in the past, and this season is no exception.

Coach Bob Waters was not supposed to have a strong golf team this fall because of the loss of many strong graduating seniors. Waters crew has gotten off to a fast start, however, as a trio of tennis players, Blake Lundberg, Craig Stevens and Ed Thomas, have also shown their skills on the links.

Before we start talking about this Add Bob Jarvis to this trio, as one; can see the home team win, you still have see why Salem sports a stellar 7-0 dual a choice of either game to attend. meet start.

The singles players are just dynamite in Becky Crespo, Kathy Horton, Betsy Moon League action starting at 8 p.m. and Renee Braun. The doubles teams are young but could be the key to a state-ranked finish if their improvement continues.

> The Rocks from Salem should easily beat the Belleville Tigers as the Centennial Park offers Suburban Eight

> The Chiefs from Canton will have a difficult time against tough Livonia Churchill, however, when Western Six League action at the Churchill field begins at 7:30 p.m.

The Rocks are coming off a strong offensive showing against Allen Park. Nothing should stand in their way slide scores should visit either enroute to a fourth straight victory, as Plymouth Salem or Plymouth Canton the winless Belleville squad should be grid contests this week. Both Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton girls swim teams overwhelmed their respective non-league opponents Tuesday night. It's a symbol achievement. When you see it, you know you're working with a specially trained real estate professional. That gold jacket means the wearer has knowledge of everything from showing houses to real estate rules and regulations. So, for your real estate needs call CEN-TURY 21 where a gold jacket is a lot more than just gold.

REALTY WORLD

There's A FANTASTIC WORLD in Carriage Hills - a practically new (built in 1977) Colonial style home with four bedrooms, 21/2 baths, and the mark of simple elegance that sets it apart. There's a formal dining room, first floor laundry, and a bright spacious kitchen, dining area and family room. An extra bonus is the solarium off the family room - perfect for your plants and informal relaxation. Located on a super-sized lot it is a "must see" for $75,900.00

OPEN SUNDAY OCT. 1 2-5 p.m. 5902 RUNNYMEADE, CANTON E of Sheldon, enter at Westminster

If you are on a tight budget, but want to start with a comfortable and cozy home in good condition, and also want a tree-shaded area this 2 bedroom darling may be the answer. There's a 11/2 car garage and the possibility of having a shop out of your home, as well. Priced at $34,500.00, it has A WORLD OF POSSIBILITIES.

It's AN ATTRACTIVE WORLD when you can find a four bedroom home in Plymouth with the large family room and fireplace you need and the private yard and wood deck that you'd like, too. In the Colonial tradition it has 11/2 baths and wellplanned living areas for the growing family. Full basement, attached garage and the Home Protection Plan add to its value - $67,900.00

Conservationist talks about energy

By SHERRY KAHAN

John Sobetzer of Troy has a headful of ideas to pass along on how to save energy in the home. Executive director of the East Michigan Environmental Action Council in Troy, he has culled these tips from a variety of sources, most of which are available to the public.

He has written for information from the Energy Information Clearinghouse of the Michigan Department of Commerce (phone number: 1-800-292-4704).

He's talked to specialists in a firm called Sun Structures in Ann Arbor. He also reads widely and learns from experience.

His involvement with insulation recently strengthened his opinion that insulation is a basic need in a house. When a family cabin was well insulated, he discovered it became as warm in winter as his apartment. The cabin's only heat source was an efficient woodburning stove.

"When buying insulation materials. the critical thing is the R factor." he said. "R stands for resistance. Rock or metal have a low resistant factor, while fiberglass, polyurethane foam or recycled newspapers have a higher factor.

way around a door is equal to a five by six inch hole in the wall

Homeowners would naturally insulate such a hole in the wall, but they might not realize that the tiny area around the door is as big a heat

Using appliances that need less energy is another way an individual can cut his dependence on electricity. "They are starting to put energy efficiency ratings on some appliances." Sobetzer said. "You should consider looking for them." In refrigerators, self-defrosters use more energy than those without this extra. Insulation in refrigerators can also make a difference in how much energy they use.

Gas is a cheaper and more efficient way to heat water than electricity, he said. With gas, the heater gets direct use of the fuel

But energy is wasted in the production of electricity at the plant. It passes on only 38 per cent of the original energy

Watch, too, for those innocent-looking drips of water, he cautioned. One drop per second will carry 1,300 gallons of water down the drain each year. If it is hot water, energy will be wasted, too.

One drop (of water) per second will carry 1,300 gallons of water per year down the drain. If it is hot water, it will also drain energy.

The minimum R factor needed, as set by the U.S. Housing Administration for the ceiling of a gas-heated house is 19, for side walls, 11.

However, Consumers Power recommends 22 for the ceiling and 13 for sidewalls.

Sobetzer suggests that people check the substance they plan to use for insulation to see if it is fire resistant, and the coating that was used to make it that way.'

INSULATION ALSO can come in the form of caulking and weatherstripping.

'What counts is the amount of area exposed to the outside," said the lawyer. An eighth of an inch crack all the

The hot water heater can frequently be set at a lower heat level, he said.

SOBETZER CLAIMED that heat loss from a house could be cut 50 per cent with storm windows. Plastic covering would also help.

Windows not depended on for light, such as those in the basement or attic. could be covered for the winter, or all year if air conditioning is used.

A call to the gas company was also one of his recommendations. It might be able to recommend a kind of damper suitable to your furnace. Like the damper on the fireplace, it might reduce heat loss

The light of a fireplace may be beautiful, but the heat is negligible unless you have one of the more recently

'Some people build walls that absorb the heat and radiate it. A man in New Hampshire built a home with an indoor swimming pool that absorbs the sun's heat and releases it slowly at night.'

- John Sobetzer

designed fireplaces. In fact, use of most fireplaces results in a heat loss.

What brings joy to the eyes of the Troy conservationist is thinking of what can be done to save energy if someone is building a new house. Solar heating equipment could be added at not much extra cost and be paid off with the mortgage.

The concept of solar water heaters, he said, is viable. There are 200,000 in use in Israel and two million in Japan.

A new house could be built facing south so that the sun, which is low in the winter, can pour in. The summer sun, which is high, can be cut off with a small overhang and the planting of a deciduous tree.

AT THE TOP and bottom of the northern side of the house, vents can be placed. In the summer, the top vent can be opened to allow hot air to leave the house. In so doing, 'cooler air is pulled into the house through the vent at the bottom of the wall

The smart homeowner will plant a few shrubs or trees near this lower vent so that the shade they provide will result in cooler air entering the

"Trees and bushes are tremendous air conditioners," said Sobetzer.

"They evaporate hundreds of gallons of water every day."

Such methods as these are called passive solar energy designs. Air that moves within the house is called convection currents. For example, since heat rises, when the sun hits a dark rug, it will rise and heat the house.

'Some people build walls that absorb the heat and radiate it," said Sobetzer. "A man in New Hampshire built a home with an indoor swimming pool that absorbs the sun's heat and releases it slowly at night.

"He estimated he could leave his home for three days without any heat on and the temperature of the house would drop no lower than 50 degrees. Of course, to do this, the home had to be well insulated."

Sobetzer believes that once people look toward the sun to solve their energy needs, the cost will begin to

He has heard that all new Army, Navy and Air Force buildings have to be designed to use alternative energy

"Once the solar industries get enough orders and learn there is a market out there, the parts can be mass produced and the price will

Cooking with gourmets

Interior designers have the reputation of being extraordinaryly fine party givers.

Probably better than almost any other professional group, they are aware of the contributions an aesthetically beautiful atmosphere makes to any gathering.

But, they are also aware, to a person, that in the final analysis, it is the food that will make or break a partygiver's reputation.

The Michigan Chapter of the American Society of Interior Designers has compiled a cookbook of recipes from the members and several of the best known metropolitan restaurants.

The ASID cookbook, $5 each plus 85 cents for postage and handling, is available from the Michigan ASID chapter, Suite 23, 1700 Stutz Drive.

Color flows like soft music

Color photographs of this home, by staff photographer Dick Kelley, are on the front of this Home Furnishings section.

By CORINNE ABATT

Colors are bewitching. They create moods-some pick you up, others let you down, some calm pent-up anxieties and still others seem to pump fresh energy to weary limbs.

After long hours at their medical practices, Dr. Richard Taras and his wife, Dr. Joan Taras of Bloomfield Hills, open their front door and walk into their private world. The color messages are subtle and reinforcing.

INTERIOR DESIGNER Delphine Michaels of the Curiosity Shoppe in Franklin said as she stood in the living room of the Taras home, "I am a firm believer in flow of color.'

The Home Furnishings section was compiled and edited

by Corinne Abatt.

Basically she worked with dark brown, lime green, yellow and white. Each room has variations on this color

The deep brown, used lavishly in all rooms, is a firm, rich, secure color. With white, it takes on suprising resil-

The lime green and small touches of yellow add the spark that brings the brown alive.

So, here is the color imprint of the home-elegant, quiet, secure, but with fresh, pleasant hints of the outdoorsnothing to jar the psyche, but colors to live with comfortably

The foyer of the red brick, modified Georgian style home set on rolling terrain is the appetizer.

A WHITE FLORAL SCENE on the rich brown background of the custom wall murals seems to literally climb upward and disappear before it reaches the ceiling. White columns in the entry hall add to the classic garden feeling as the living room ahead becomes visible.

The living room is papered in a large floral print, mostly white on deep brown, with touches of lime green and daffodil yellow. This provides a decisive boldness that nicely misses being aggressive because of the way the rest of the room was

White shutter doors at the two living room windows overlooking the gardens beyond, have louvres 51/2 inches deep. These unusually deep louvres are bold, but against the wall print and the high, off-white ceiling of the living room, they give a sense of balance and proportion.

Two dark brown wicker porter chairs flank the classic fireplace. A fine, old, wood and cane Louis XV sofa has lime green cushions.

A sofa is covered with the material matching the wall covering, and a small loveseat is done in deep brown moire. These pieces are a dramatic contrast against the thick, off-white carpeting.

Further quiet drama is provided by the collector's type appointments—a Tiffany mantle clock is bronze and deep green marble. A natural, dark wood architect's desk with top that raises at a slant, adds character to the room. Two Foo dogs by the fireplace and brass and green ferns lend warmth

The rich brown and off-white are carried to the dining room and although textures change, the color transition is altogether natural. The walls are covered in a muted conbination of brown and white.

The rug and window treatment provide the sophistication.

DRAPES THAT frame the window have a gray-mauve irridescent look to them. The sheers from France, beauti fully embroidered, soften the sunligh to a give an opaque atmosphere. Mirror-paneled screens, set in wood frames on each side of the windows contribute to a spacious feeling although the room is of modest size Table crystal and silver would stand out in this room as works of art simply because of the purity of the color selection and light. Mrs. Michaels and her clients addedeep crown molding to several room:

including the living room. According to the decorator, "II doesn't cost as much as most peop! would imagine. "It is a rich addition to the timeless, classic look she has created.

For even with the numerous Lou-XV pieces and the charming antique French benches and tables about the house, there was no attempt to keep it purely period.

More than a single period or a single idea, the house belongs to the parent and children who live there. It has the garden feeling they wanted with the colors they like and the level sophistication that suits their style c living and entertaining

There are several areas for family hobbyists to enjoy their interests, play rooms for children and a wood-panel family room where everyone can p up feet, enjoy relaxed conversat: and still see the many treasur around them.

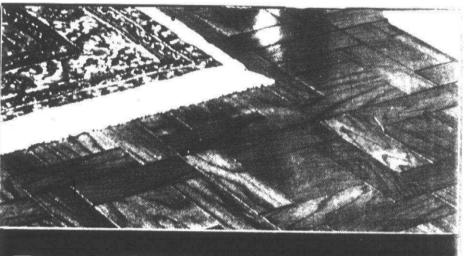

Photographers for the section were Stephen Cantrell, Dick Kelley, Gary Friedman, Art Emanuel and Charlie Kidd.

Tradition returns to homes

Cloning. Test tube babies. Genetic breeding. Sex changes. Mutations and mutants.

As science fiction becomes fact, Americans are turning to carriage-post past for stability in a starship future.

Having survived and revived the 1950s, designers are now embracing the 1940s, advancing with every backward step. The newest haute of haute couture is Schiaparelli and the seamed stockings and padded shoulders of pre-World War II fashion.

In the home, designers reach for styles of yesteryear to satisfy the yearning of today's rootless generation in search of roots.

The antiwar chant of the 1960s, "No, no, we won't go," has become the corporate theme song of the 1970s as executives opt to stay put rather than move to move ahead. According to one survey, one-third to one-half of executives asked to move this year will refuse the transfer.

As settling down becomes the new lifestyle, pads become parlors.

"American traditional may be the hottest new style on the market," said one designer. "Yet who back in the '60s would have ever believed that the jeans and commune generation would grow up and turn on to Queen Anne, Sheraton or Chippendale?"

Notes another designer, "Basic is beautiful, real is right. Quality, value and substance are the important 'buy' words.

"Who with today's double-digit inflation can afford to speculate on fads?"

Even if a house is a contemporary ranch, the trend is to traditional furnishings, said ASID interior designer Pat Plaxico. Ms. Plaxico recently brought the Old World to suburbia with designs from Hickory Furniture Co.'s "American Master-Collection," a group of classics from the 18th century.

From the moldings (these bought from a molding company) to the Oriental rugs and valences at the windows, the room is a faithful recreation of parlors past. A sponge-painted fireplace adds to the feeling of authenticity. There's not a sofa in the room. As in early days, individual chairs serve as seating pieces. And what better solution to create spaciousness in today's space-conscious interiors?

As traditional becomes the new home rule, the four poster returns to star in the bedroom, which is becoming as posh a place as the parlor.

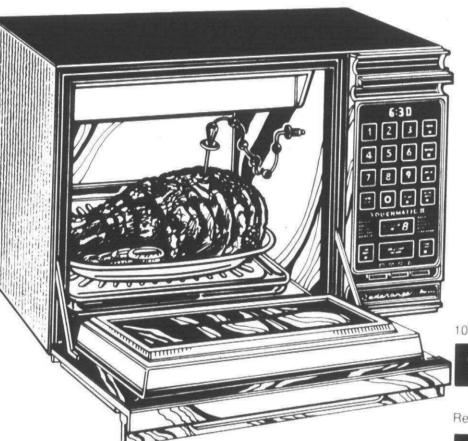

Recent studies show that decorating the bedroom is today's top priority. And as in the living room, the prevailing style is 18th-Century American from bed to wardrobe, including the desk. And, more often than not, say designers, the desk is a key part of the furnishings for work-at-home women.

Times marches backward in time pieces, too. In a world where the computer is becoming commonplace, tall case clocks are going into homes in record numbers.

Recent research by Ridgeway, leading producer of quality traditional tall case clocks, shows a dramatic increase in clock buying among average income families. This research shows that 40 per cent of tall case clocks are bought by Americans with incomes of $15,000 or less.

Move over George Orwell. If all goes according to current plan, the superstar of 1984 will be George Washington.

time house." The challenge was to create a contemporary atmosphere with an understated elegance that included all kinds of original art, textures, colors and fabrics that displayed well under artificial light plus built-in options for entertaining.

SINCE A great deal of the couple's entertaining is done during the summer, Vermeulen took particular concern with entertainment areas for lazy ummer evenings.

A sliding glass door at the rear of the living - dining room area opened onto a small balcony which overlooked the tree-filled backyard from one floor up. The home is a split level. The living area on the upper level includes kitchen; dining and living rooms and bedroom wing. The ground level is a recreation area.

The problem with the small balcony off the dining room, besides its small size, was that it didn't go anywhereno steps down to the backyard, no way to get to it except through the dining

Vermeulen and his clients immediately saw the potential. Together they drew up plans for a two level deck as large as the indoor living and dining area combined. They hired a carpenter who could see immediately what they had in mind and the results were beyond all expectations

The homeowner now smilingly refers to the natural wood finish, twolevel deck as "our summer resort" and his wife adds "or our tree house."

A stand of tall oaks and hickory trees create the tree house atmosphere. The deck's upper level seems to be suspended among them. The trees provide both beauty and privacy for the setting. The three wide steps between the deck's levels offer added seating area when the homeowners invite a crowd for an informal cookout. Built-in seats around the edges of the deck add extra space for guests. The deck is situated so that the lower level is sunny in the morning and the upper level gets the sun in the late afternoon.

Deck chairs with a chocolate brown fabric. Indian batik prints and two huge hand-woven grain baskets from India carry the feeling of the interior out of doors

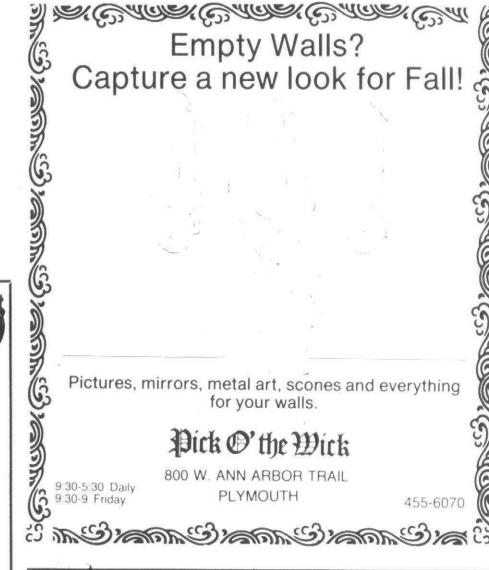

TO DIMINISH THE IMPACT of the high ceilings in the living - dining area and to downplay the non-removeable rough hewn ceiling beams, the walls, ceiling and beams were painted a soft plum brown. The wall which extends through both rooms is papered in an Indian leather strapwork pattern, black, off-white and mauve that borders on brown. The carpeting, taupe brown, is very close to the shade of the plain walls and ceiling. An off-white sectional in the living room is complimented by a large, square stripped pine coffee table in country English style. A rattan sofa, really a companion piece to the sectional, is covered in a linen Indian batik print in mauve, brown and off-white.

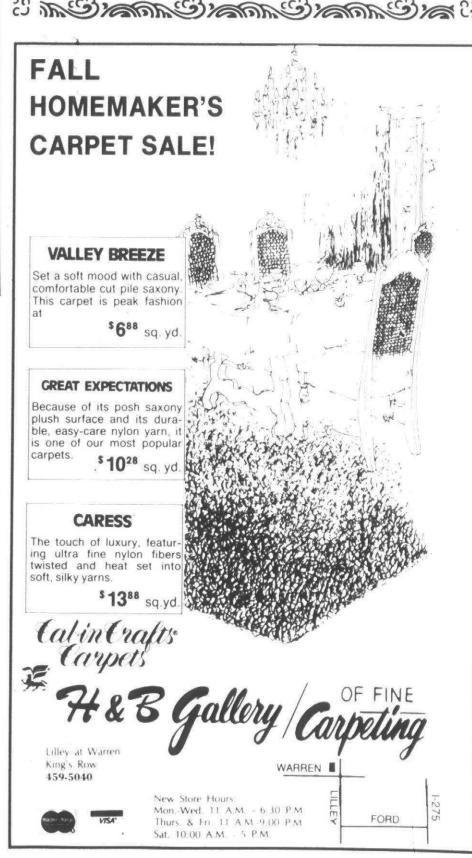

It is in the many pieces of original art-wall hangings, ceramics, paintings and sculpture-that the color accents come through.

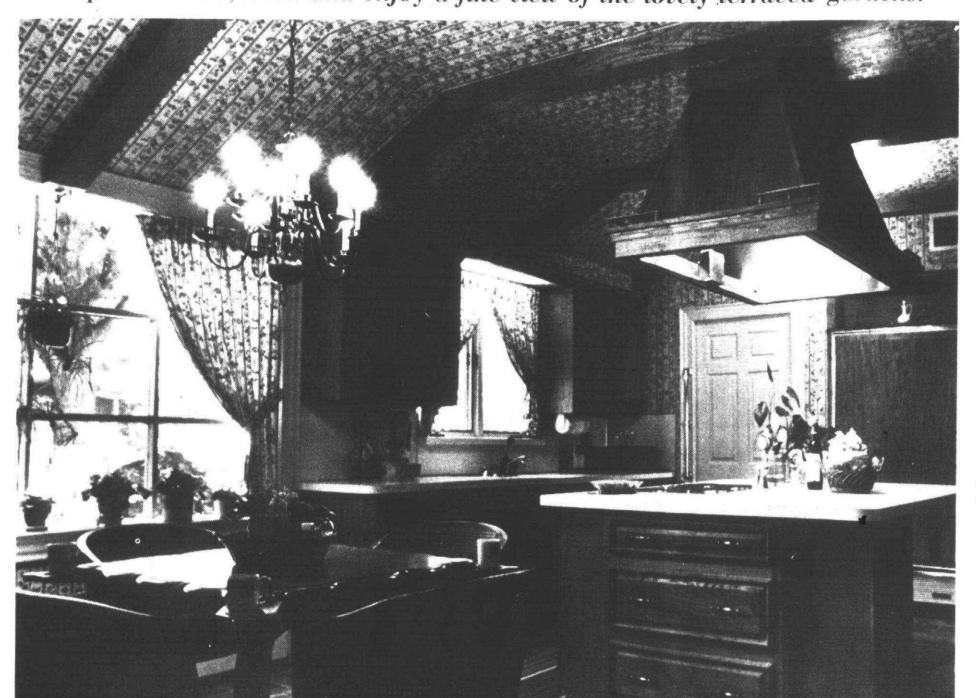

A dozen handwoven pillows, each different, and a hand loomed throw add textural contrasts to the sectional A large coral to deep pink abstract painting over the sectional takes on a vital, vibrant quality under the discreetly placed track lights

Table and floor lamps are all on dimmers so the mood of the home can be changed quickly from bright and cheery to seductively soft.

Open weave linen drapes in the living and dining rooms assure nighttime privacy without obliterating the outdoor beauty of the trees.

The pitched ceiling, added during the remodeling, gives the kitchen a tented, cozy atmosphere.

Kitchen balances warmth, elegance

A magnificant home deserves an equally impressive kitchen

Interior designer Donald Joseph of Grand Blanc was well aware of this when he planned the kitchen in a Bloomfield Hills house he is still completing.

While the house, filled with museumquality pieces, is formal and elegantly appointed, the kitchen is warm, friendly and welcoming—a place to eat, relax and enjoy a fine view of the lovely terraced gardens.

All of the wood and wood trim in the kitchen is pecky cyprus, which has a soft, amber sheen. Joseph added a pitch and cyprus beams to the former flat ceiling and the natural honey colored brick floor.

"The pitch in the ceiling," Joseph said, "creates a warm coziness, and the floor is very easy to maintain with a damp mop."

The wall covering, an all-over country floral print, has shades of yellow, brown, amber and bittersweet, a delightful complement to the warm cyprus.

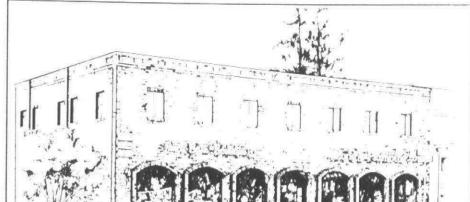

The variations in the tones of the brick floor seem to pick up and liven these warm earth colors.

The center counter island, cyprus with Formica top, houses the stove, storage areas plus a place for pulling up stools to work or have a quick snack and watch the culinary action.

Refrigerator, freezer, vent hood—all are done in the pecky cyprus. It is the detailing on these custom wood pieces, including the cabinets, that carries the country French charm.

The choice of wood, colors, brick floor, pitched ceiling and beams and fine cabinetry all blend to create a kitchen that befits a showplace house—or any house, large or small, where the kitchen is still the center of family activity

HOME WITHOUT CLEAN AIR

SOURCES OF HOUSEHOLD POLLUTIONS

- Smoke, soot, carbon and industrial waste, in minute particles, are carried by the winds to the farthest suburbs and slip into your home through doors, windows and the ventilation system.
- Natural pollution such as pollen, organic dust and mineral particles enter your home with ease.
- Inside your home cooking and tobacco smoke, lint and additional dirt is generated.
- It's a fact that you breathe about 16,000 quarts of polluted air every day.

HOME WITH CLEAN AIR

THE PLEASURE OF CLEAN AIR

Removes up to 95% of air-borne dirt and pollen from the air passing through it.*

Removes minute, staining particles that cling to windows, mirrors, walls, drapes, and other furnishings. Makes only routine house cleaning such as dusting and vacuuming necessary on a regular basis.

Indicator Light for convenient check of Air Cleaner operation.

Cuts redecorating needs. You can paint, paper and clean or replace draperies less often. It will pay for itself.

Removes smoke, soot, pollen and dirt to provide for more pleasant living.

Traps about 20 times more air-borne particles than the usual furnace and air conditioning filter ... the microscopic particles that do all the damage.

• Costs less to operate than a 40 watt bulb. Saves fuel too, since it is easy to clean and a clean filter permits your heating-cooling system to operate efficiently.

Yellow lets the sunshine in

From the palest lemon yellow walls to the sparkling crystal vase bearing tall slender stalks of lemon yellow glads that dominate the glass topped table, the room speaks of light and airiness-a breath of fresh sunshine.

And that's just what the room's decorator had in mind. "The living room was dark and gloomy and the Hales wanted something lighter," said Brian Collins. He designed the room for the Kenneth Hale family of the Nottingham Woods subdivision in Livonia.

"The dark gold wool velvet carpeting was in good condition, so the Hales wanted to keep it and work around it," said Collins, who works out of Hudson's Westland.

To lighten the room, Collins worked in shades of yellow, off-white and a few touches of burgundy as an accent

"I tied in the dark gold carpet with a double band of the same gold color and yellow on the drapery tie-backs and the shaped cornice boards," he said. "That's the only-place that color

The room began to take shape by having walls and ceiling painted a very pale yellow.

"Some people think it's strange to have the walls and ceiling the same color, but I think it wraps up the room in a nice package," said Collins.

The interior itself could be called eclectic, said Collins. The furnishings represent several styles-English, Oriental and comtemporary

"We wanted a mixture for interest," said Collins. "The Hales didn't have any strong preference for a particular

The furniture, most of which is new, came from Hudson's. The exception is the large dark wood structure that houses a stereo system and color

In front of this unit sits a wool velvet chair and ottoman in stripes of yellow, cream and very light gold.

This chair needed to be durable because it gets a lot of wear in front of the TV," said Collins.

He pointed out the repeated use of "brass and glass" to give light and sparkle to the room.

An antique gold framed glass topped table sits in front of the yellow silk sofa, and a similar taller table line another wall

Various sized and shaped crystal adorn the dark wood end tables and Oriental dark wood chest. The crystal sends rays of sparkling color reverberating through the room.

The burgundy accent color is seen in two striped silk pillows on the couch and in two candles of the several on the glass table. Other crystal and brass candlesticks hold off-white and yellow candles.

A cream-colored silk damask love seat piled high with fluffy pillows, and a matching wing chair are the remaining major pieces in the room. A dark wood chair with a yellow brocade seat is in the corner.

The antique botanical prints were custom framed for the Hales and matted in foil and silk to pick up the sparkle of the brass and glass, Collins

Several antique bird prints, similarly framed and matted, are on another wall.

Other accessories include a yellow porcelain Oriental lamp, two brass and porcelain lamps and a crystal one.

Choose fixtures for wear

Home decorators are enthusiastic about plushlooking bathrooms For many families, an extra bathroom would be luxury enough.

The National Kitchen Cabinet Association says families that need an additional bathroom are often stymied by the thought of where to put it. Some suggestions: a walk-in closet, a pantry, a back porch, a mud room or a utility room. Try to find space off the kitchen or under the main bathroom; it's easier to run plumbing

Even if the extra bathroom is small, without tub or shower facilities. it needn't lack storage space. Undercounter vanities, wall-mounted cabinets and corner units provide space for towels, soap, tissues, and the overflow of health and beauty paraphernalia from the other bath. Cabinets are available in a variety of wood-grain finishes, and in white and gold. Also important is the ability of bathroom equipment to take the daily abuse it's bound to get. Bath vanities, for example, are subjected to heat and humidity, soap and water splashes and cosmetic and medicine spills. Children sometimes use vanity shelves as step stools to reach sink faucets, or climb and sit on countertops.

To help insure vanities can withstand mistreatment as well as daily wear, look for the NKCA emblem inside cabinet doors or drawers. The seal indicates that bathroom cabinets meet the construction and performance standards of the American National Standards Institute (ANSI) and have passed laboratory

Dining room's gone, everybody's happy

"We needed a room where we could talk." said Scott Shuptrine Co. interior designer Sandy Robinson

Try to come up with even a reasonable facsimile in a standard subdivision home. Most people resign themselves to conventional mediocrity. Not this lady. She refused to compromise family priorities (travel and other luxuries) for a larger, highcost home

So she devised a scheme to eliminate the nine-foot by 11-foot dining room ("It was too small to serve any real purpose, anyway," she said) and replaced it with a library-guest room. The last remaining vestige of what had been the little-used dining room is a handsome brass-milk glass chandelier that fits in with the oak decor.

"At last my husband has his own retreat," Mrs. Robinson said.

Once the opening from kitchen to dining room was sealed, it became his. There is no TV, no radio, just books, memorabilia and a wide, shuttered window overlooking the 12-variety rose

Large double oak doors close off the din of daily living. Open, they allow a flow into the adjacent living area to help make it look even larger. The good feeling of freedom here in this relatively small area comes from unified carpeting and beamed cathedral

Wide, floor-to-ceiling solid oak shelves comprise one wall. Those remaining are covered in textured grass cloth. Furnishings are simple in design and substantial. Oatmeal and gold hues blend subtly. Accessories are basics like a Tiffany lamp, varieties of mugs, brass objets d'art, wall prints and throw pillows.

Each furniture piece plays a dual role. The sofa is also a bed. An end table is a chess table, with king's men and pawns readied for play. A lounge chair can be pushed around the corner to augment seating arrangements in the living room.
