'30s dishes in demand

Depression glass, that shiny dinnerware that once brightened hard times and now brings a gleam to the eyes of thousands of collectors, gets its big showing this year at Schoolcraft College.

The Michigan Depression Glass Society has chosen the Waterman Center building on the campus on Haggerty between Six and Seven Mile for its sixth annual show. There will be collectors and and dealers from all over the state at the Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 14-15, show.

Held for five years in Ypsilanti, Pat Mitchell, president of the collectors group in this state, said the show was moved to Schoolcraft because of the spacious facilities and ability to serve refreshments as well as the easy accessibility of the site from all major highways.

Depression glass and Depression era glass is typified by the dishes that used to be given away by movie theaters in Depression days when people couldn't afford to buy new dishes.

Now these pieces bring prices comparable to what a set of dinnerware might have cost then. They are collected by more than 100,000, and many of these collectors will arrive prepared to add to their sets.

FEATURED in this show will be Fostoria glass, made by a company that began business in 1887, switched to the rainbow pastel shades during the 1920s and continues in business today.

"Fostoria was chosen because it so well represents the glass of the Depression times," said Mrs. Mitchell.

Judith Olert, a national table top consultant for the Ohio firm, will be a special guest at the Schoolcraft show, giving hourly seminars with movies, slides, pattern identification, history and literature.

"If you have broken a piece of Fostoria stemware which was a wedding gift in 1930, or wish to add to a set of dinnerware you never quite finished, chances are good you will find it at this show," Mrs. Mitchell said.

Besides the Fostoria displays, there will be 24 exhibitors representing 10 states. Their wares will include hundreds of patterns and thousands of different pieces. Nora Koch, editor of the Negotiations begin again

Teachers win arbitration

By EMORY DANIELS

Negotiations may begin soon on starting and ending times of school, and lunch periods, as a result of an arbitration ruling issued last week.

The teachers union won an arbitration dispute filed against the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education for changing school schedules without bargaining.

As a result, both sides may meet at the table within two weeks. The date for the first meeting might be set at an informal session between both parties Wednesday.

The order that bargining must be held on scheduling was made by arbitrator Nathan Lypson, a professor of law at the University of Detroit.

Lypson's arbitration award provides that if agreement is not reached at the table by Oct. 23, the school board must, if the union insists, restore last year's schedule "but not to the extent that district operations are unduly disturbed, or severe hardship to the district results."

That last qualifier leaves Norman Kee, chief bargainer for the school board, puzzled as to what might happen if agreement is not reached at the table.

"I hope a settlement on this can be reached at the table, and we'll certainly begin negotiations hoping to reach an agreement. But there's no question that an implementation of last year's school schedule would cause a severe hardship to the district, and would greatly disrupt the community at large.

"The arbitrator seemed to have recognized that in his decision."

John Ryder, president of the Plymouth-Canton Education Association (PCEA), said, "I think the real significance of the ruling is that teachers' hours and working conditions are considered negotiable items. That was our contention all along.

"On May 17, our executive council notified the school administration that we considered the proposed changes in schedules to be negotiable. The crux of the problem is that the board refused to perotiate

"If they had agreed, all the time and money spent on arbitration could have been avoided."

WHEN A REQUEST for additional operating taxes was defeated by voters, the administration decided to stagger starting and ending times of the school day. In addition, lunch hours were shortened.

The changes were made to handle the increased number of students with minimal additions of buses, drivers and teachers. Not making the changes would have cost $225,000, the administration estimated. That money would have been used to buy five buses, hire six additional teachers and additional bus drivers.

Last August, the new schedules were distributed showing starting times 20 to 30 minutes later and closing times 10 to 35 minutes later. Lunch hours were cut from 55 to 40 minutes. And for one day each week at the elementary schools, students were scheduled to arrive 45 minutes later than the normal starting times.

During the arbitration hearing, Harvey Wax (attorney for the teachers union) argued that some of the $225,000 added expense could be paid by the state. Wax also said the new schedule resulted in a savings of at least $82,000, and that sum should be deducted from the cost of restoring the old system.

According to Wax, then, the net cost of restoring last year's schedule would be less than $140,000.

The union also argued the district wouldn't have to buy five additional buses because it now has 14 buses that aren't used on regular runs.

aren't used on regular runs.

During the hearing, Kee testified that the district had changed the elementary starting times four times from September 1973 to September 1974 without any protest from the union, and had changed starting times in middle schools and high schools several times from 1969 to 1978 without a union protest.

ONE MAJOR AREA of dispute centers on discussions between Kee and Bill Bartlett, past president of the union.

Bartlett was informed informally of the proposed schedule changes and had been shown four alternative schedules being considered by administration. On June 28 Bartlett had confirmed that the fourth alternative was preferrable to him and he'd try to sell (Continued on page 2A)

Police charge men with area break-ins

Canton police have charged two Westland men with the Sept. 26 breakin of a home in which $2,000 worth of goods were stolen.

William Kirby, 27, of 32441 Muskegon, and Michael Jodway, 18, of 2140 Alberta, stood mute at their arraignment in 35th District Court last week. Judge Dunbar Davis set the bond at $5,000 and scheduled an examination date for Oct. 12.

The breaking and entering charge is a felony that carries a 15-year jail sentence.

Kirby has also been charged by Westland police for concealing stolen property. He is being held in Westland in lieu of the $1,000 bond set at his arraignment in 18th District Court last Wednesday. Kirby stood mute on the charge and is scheduled for examination in the Westland court on Oct. 10.

According to Sgt. Dennis Joker of the Canton Police Department, most of the goods stolen Sept. 26 from the Canton home at 50214 Cherry Hill have been recovered. The owner of the dwelling, Leslie Freedle, was not at home at the time of the break-in.

The goods from Ms. Freedle's home were discovered by Canton and Westland police in the Westland homes of two of Kirby's acquaintances, police said. Westland police have arrested Kirby on the misdemeanor charge of concealing stolen property worth less than $100. But, according to the city's police, efforts are under way to change the arrest warrant to felonious concealment of stolen property—a crime that carries a four-year jail sentence.

Regional 'copter patrol plan culls mixed reactions

Reaction to a proposal of Canton Supervisor Harold Stein to establish an area-wide police helicopter program ranges from enthusiastic to cool among municipal officials contacted by the Observer.

Stein proposed establishment of the program at last week's township board meeting to beef up police patrols in several western Wayne County communities.

The proposal includes the cities of Plymouth, Northville and Belleville and the townships of Plymouth, Northville, Sumpter, Van Buren and Huron.

Although details of the proposal are not clear, Stein suggests that Canton and other western Wayne County communities submit a joint application for an innovative project grant to the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA).

If approved, the grant would be used to finance the operation of area-wide police helicopter surveillance.

STEIN PRESENTED the proposal as several township board members successfully lobbied for a reversal of an earlier board decision to purchase three surplus military helicopters at $500 each for the Canton Police Department.

The debate was sparked by information brought forward by trustee Lynne Goldsmith and treasurer candidate Maria Falkiewicz.

Both women submitted information that contradicted Stein's earlier statements. They showed that municipalities must use surplus military helicopters within one year after they are purchased—not five years as previously stated by Stein.

Both women said the federal government would repossess the choppers if they are not used within one year. Stein had told the township board three weeks earlier that Canton could resell the choppers at a profit if they were not used within five years.

In a last-ditch effort to save the helicopter program, Stein contacted officials of several surrounding communities early last week to lay out his proposal of area-wide chopper surveillance.

He reported to the board last Tuesday that the communities "showed interest and will support my ideas and concept of this program."

The supervisor unsuccessfully asked the board to go ahead with the helicopter purchase. The board indicated, however, that it may reconsider its decision if other communities show a definite interest in Stein's plan. FOUR OF THE FIVE municipal officials contacted by the Observer last week, however, had lukewarm reactions to Stein's proposal.

Plymouth City Manager Fred Yockey, Plymouth Township Supervisor Tom Notebaert, Northville City Manager Steven Walters and Van Buren Township Supervisor Patricia Cullin said the governing bodies of their municipalities would be willing to listen to the proposal.

But that's as far as their support

"He (Stein) asked me if we would favor the program if it could be proved beneficial and the cost would not be prohibitive," said Yockey. "That's like saying, 'Are you in favor of motherhood?"

"Frankly, we've got along fine without helicopters in the past."

Although Plymouth Township does not have a police department, Notebaert believes helicopter surveillance could aid Wayne County Sheriff patrols of his township. Funding for the sheriff department's helicopter program is expected to end Dec. 1.

"I can see where the program might be beneficial," Notebaert said, "but then, there's a lot of things you'd like to have, but sometimes you can't afford them."

The most enthusiastic reaction to Stein's proposal came from Wilson Grier, supervisor of Northville Township.

"I think the concept is good," said Grier, a former naval aviator with the U.S. Marine Corps. "There is a great need for the type of program Mr. Stein is talking about.

"The question it will come down to is strictly financial. That is the only reason I would vote no."

CANTON TRUSTEE Goldsmith maintains that a police helicopter program is "horrendously expensive." She points to the City of Warren's $300,000 allocation to support its helicopter program this year.

The trustee also said grants for helicopter programs are a low priority on LEAA's grant eligibility list.

Stein says otherwise.

He maintains the choppers he has proposed to purchase are the most inexpensive helicopters to fly. He proposes to fly them only four hours a day

Stein also insists that Canton has a good chance of winning an innovative project grant from the LEAA to support operation of the program.

Hunter defends sport

'Philosophers with Shotguns" (Ramblings, Sept. 25)—could this be half as bad as a philosopher with a pen?

Every year around October and November, along with small game season comes the know-everything "conservationist." They know everything in October and November.

What happens in December and January when yarded up deer are dying of starvation, or diseased rabbits are suffering with their annual die off, or when the foxes are gobbling up the pheasant eggs by the numbers during the rest of the year?

Come hunting season its the "poor animals" that the hunters are going to slaughter. Certainly there are some bad hunters who do what you say, but it is not the majority, only the Most of us, as you say, cannot go out and make out financially by bagging the meat for dinner. I have put a lot more money into hunting equipment, gas, lodging, etc., than I will ever get out of the game I may get. If that was what the hunter was really after, there would be very few.

Not all of us are so lucky as you to have land to stroll on, as you put it. For a few weeks a year the unlucky ones get a chance to get out and enjoy themselves in the beautiful Autumn

Recreation killing is inhumane

Editor:

Is this the same old Fred Bear (Observer, Sept. 4) killing the same of animals for the same old audience? Who started the decimation of so many endangered animals? You call this news?

Bowhunting is horribly cruel because it rips and tears the animal's flesh (like that of a dull knife) and is hideously inefficient in that it never kills instantly. The wounded animal escapes in fear and experiences excruciating pain until it hemorrhages to

I can't help but wonder if Fred Bear isn't a great embarrassment to all hunters who constantly defend their sport by insisting they never kill for fun and almost always prey upon the old and the weak. In your article, he is quoted as saying that he "had his eye on the biggest one" and had intentionally maimed the elephant "in hopes of slowing him down" which resulted in netting an arrow in the poor creature's eye, who in turn went "mad in pain.

As long as Fred Bear and bowhunting continue to receive free advertising such as your newspaper provided, this cruel form of hunting is likely to be encouraged.

Yes, killing for recreation is obscene. Thank God Fred Bear doesn't live in this community.

from our readers Teacher arbitration dispute settled

Bartlett insisted, however, that he was only speaking for himself and not for the union. The arbitrator ruled that these discussions did constitute collective bargaining.

On May 17 of this year, the executive council of the PCEA said the union would not accept any change in the school day unless it was negotiated. Until it was, all teachers should be notified to report to school as in previous school years, the union said.

The union was relying on language in the contract which states, in part: "The board agrees . . . to negotiate any changes in personnel policies related to hours, wages and working conditions of teachers.'

Arbitrator Lypson, in ruling for the union, said the district didn't deliberately violate contract proceedings and had proceeded in good faith.

"The duty to negotiate does not allow bargaining to take place only after a disputed change has been made," he noted. "The board followed a unilateral course, and adhered to the chosen direction even after notification by the PCEA that negotiations were required."

IN RULING ON behalf of the union.

Lypson said:

Unfortunately, the kind of situation now facing the arbitrator is becoming increasingly common in school districts: On the one hand inflation and employee demands are driving costs upward, while on the other hand citizens are not only refusing to pay higher taxes, but are instead demand-

"In such circumstances, the desire of the Plymouth-Canton administration to effect economies in the 1978-79 bus schedule is quite understandable.

"But . . . it must be understood that the arbitrator derives his power from the contract of the parties and has an obligation to resolve disputes by reasonable interpreting and then applying the language that the parties have bargained. "It has long been my position that where the contract speaks, it is not the opinion of the arbitrator that counts but the obligations spelled out in the contract.

"There can be no question that reporting times, duration of lunch hours, quitting times and planning periods" all are covered by contract language requiring bargaining before

Guiles said the screen is installed as well as possible, and nothing is wrong that couldn't be fixed with patching cement. The culprit in the story seems to be neither the Packards or Guiles. The door didn't fit properly because the fireplace is crooked. One side of the fireplace juts out a little more than the other side, causing a gap between the fireplace and one part of the screen.

Guiles said he told the Packards about the potential problem with fitting the screen when they ordered it.

The Packards said they did not know there would be problems installing the screen and believe a custom-made screen should have been designed to compensate for the difference

"All we want is for the screen to fit right," Mrs. Packard said.

"Mr. Guiles said it was 'going to fit beautifully' when we ordered it. He offered to refund the cost of installation, $30, but we can't fix it, and we don't know anyone else who can.

Fourth Friday count is up

The enrollment prophets silently beamed with pride when the official Fourth Friday Count was taken in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

In September 1977 the student enrollment predictors, directed by Supt. John M. Hoben, projected a student population of 16,100 for September

When the official count was taken the fourth Friday in September, it totalled some 16,152 students. Being off by 52 students isn't too bad, but the accuracy may improve when an audit of the enrollment is completed.

"It was still difficult to get a real accurate count on our night school program and pre-schoolers." Hoben said.

"The official count shows 290 for night school, and a pre-school fulltime equalivent of 14. We might lose some of these during the audit, so the actual count might end up at about 16,125."

If so, the predictions of a year ago will be within 25 students-or within one-tenth of one per cent.

THE NET RESULT is an increase of about 900 students from last year, in line with the district's long-term projections.

The official count is taken on the fourth Friday of September each year for the purpose of computing state aid, which is distributed on a per pupil basis with allowances made for local property tax wealth.

When the school board established the operating millage rate for 1978-79, it based the levy on an enrollment in September of 16,000. The administration had recommended a slightly higher levy based on a projected 16,100 enrollment

The school board chose the more conservative figure because of a complicated rollback provision of the state aid formula which financially penalizes districts which pad enrollment projections.

Because our official enrollment will be about 125 higher than the school board's estimate for purposes of setting the tax rate, we will be receiving about $40,000 more in state aid," Hoben said

"Of course, we'll have to spend more money to educate those 125

The 1978-79 budget projects total expenditures of slightly more than $21.6 million. Hoben said the budget was balanced only because the expenditure side includes some $1.1 million in fund equity from previous 1.So, actually, the approximate $40,000 in additional state aid will have the effect of reducing the amount of fund equity we have to use." he said.

The current enrollment crunch is in the middle schools and at the high schools. The three new elementaries constructed a couple years ago, and the implementation of year-round school, are absorbing the student growth at the elementary level.

The union also argued the district wouldn't have to buy five additional buses because it now has 14 buses that aren't used on regular runs.

During the hearing, Kee testified that the district had changed the elementary starting times four times from September 1973 to September 1974 without any protest from the union, and had changed starting times in middle schools and high schools several times from 1969 to 1978 without a union protest.

ONE MAJOR AREA of dispute centers on discussions between Kee and Bill Bartlett, past president of the union.

Bartlett was informed informally of the proposed schedule changes and had been shown four alternative schedules being considered by administration. On June 28 Bartlett had confirmed that the fourth alternative was preferrable to him and he'd try to sell it to teachers, Kee said.

Bartlett insisted, however, that he was only speaking for himself and not for the union. The arbitrator ruled that these discussions did constitute collective bargaining.

On May 17 of this year, the executive council of the PCEA said the union would not accept any change in the school day unless it was negotiated. Until it was, all teachers should be notified to report to school as in previous school years, the union said.

IN RULING ON behalf of the union,

'Unfortunately, the kind of situation now facing the arbitrator is becoming increasingly common in school districts: On the one hand inflation and employee demands are driving costs upward, while on the other hand citizens are not only refusing to pay higher taxes, but are instead demanding tax cuts.

'In such circumstances, the desire of the Plymouth-Canton administration to effect economies in the 1978-79 bus schedule is quite understandable

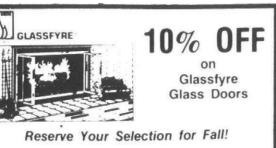

"But . . . it must be understood tht

the arbitrator derives his power from the contract of the parties and has an obligation to resolve disputes by reasonable interpreting and then applying the language that the parties have bargained.

"There can be no question that reporting times, duration of lunch hours, quitting times and planning periods" all are covered by contract language requiring bargaining before any change is made.

"It is quite clear from the evidence that the board did not meet its contractual bargaining obligations in effecting the contested schedule, and that in such circumstances, the good faith or good reasons of the employer become irrelevant.

Salem netters tie but should win Sub-8 crown

Plymouth Salem's girls' tennis team all but wrapped up another Suburban Eight League crown after finishing in a tie with Trenton at the league meet in Dearborn Thursday.

In the Sub-8, league titles are determined by dual match results and the loop meet. Although the Rocks tied Trenton, they beat the Trojans in dual competition and sport a perfect 4-0 record to Trenton's 3-1 mark.

Both squads finish dual match play today and tomorrow with make-up contests of previously raind-out matches. Salem only has to beat Dearborn Edsel Ford today at the Centennial Park to win the outright title. Trenton should win its last match with Bentley tomorrow but it wouldn't matter if the Rocks beat Edsel Ford.

It is almost a forgone conclusion that the strong Salem netters will handily defeat the Thunderbirds for the league title. Edsel Ford not only finished last in the Sub-8 meet, but were losing five of the seven matches to the Rocks when the rains came and postponed play. The scores of these matches are resumed today.

In fact, it's so obvious that Salem will close out with a triumph that, according to Rock coach Jan Lawson, the Thunderbirds considered forfeiting the match rather than play the inevitable. Lawson, however, said she wants to complete the match.

SALEM RELIED on the play of its singles players, as Kathy Horton, Betsy Moon and Rene Braun, all took home league medals for their respective first-place finishes

It marked the second straight season Horton and Moon have won league championships. Last season, Horton. the only unbeaten Salem netter, won the league title at third singles. This season, she took the second-singles crown in her junior year. Moon, just a sophomore, won at fourth singles last season and rebounded with a third singles victory this year.

Braun, only a sophomore, won the fourth singles title, which included a big second-round victory over Trenton's Missy Chapman.

The Rocks actually took 11 of their 14 points thanks to the singles players. Trenton and Dearborn, who finished third with seven points, dominated the doubles play.

The only major disappointment this day was co-captain Becky 'Crespo's failure to win the first-singles title. She lost in the finals in a real heartbreaker to Trenton's Lynee Schdel, 7-5, 7-6, 2-6. Crespo, the mainstay and leader of the Rocks and also a four-year starter. won the league title last year at first singles but the horrid weather proved to be her downfall.

Crespo beat her Trenton opponent during the regular season but was forced to split sets this time around. With the score, 1-1, in the third and deciding set, the rain began to fall, making it more difficult to play. Winds gusting up to 50 miles an hour had already plagued all the netters.

So the match was immediately moved to the Dearborn Racquet Club where Crespo subsequently lost.

Mandle runs wild

Canton blanks Mott, 18-0

By DENNIS O'CONNOR

The final score: Russ Mandle 18, Waterford Mott 0.

Yes, that man with the red bandana on his head ran wild Friday night giving Plymouth Canton its first homecoming football victory in the six-year history of the school.

Mandle ran through, around and inbetween the stunned Corsairs, as he gained 242 yards rushing on 28 carries. He also made two outstanding defensive plays from his linebacker position that helped the Chiefs preserve their third shutout of the season.

It also marked the fourth straight game which Mott, currently 1-4 overall, has been shut out. The Corsairs have gone 17 quarters without scoring.

"Three wins and three shutouts, said Canton coach Dave Schuele, who watched his 3-2 squad win its first Western Six League game in three years. "You win games with 'D' (defense). We're very happy. The kids played well, and that's the first homecoming win for us." And as for Mandle.

"That kid is a helluva ball carrier and a helluva player. You just can't bring him down. If no college comes down and takes this kid, they're crazy. He's just fabulous.

"I though we controled the game. Mandle was fantastic and (Bob) Hamblin is coming into his own."

It was evident from the start that the large homecoming crowd was not only going to see the "Russ Mandle Show," but they were also going to witness a Waterford Mott squad, which was big enough to scare anyone but slow enough catch no one.

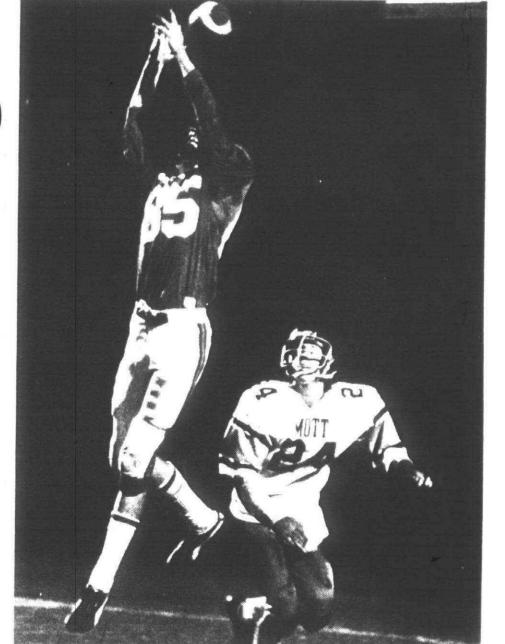

THE CHIEFS took the opening kick off 74-yards in seven plays for the first score. Mandle carried on five of these plays totalling 65 of the yards, including a 43-yard touchdown romp at the 8:31 mark of the first quarter.

Canton kept the 6-0 lead after the first of three extra-point plays failed.

Although the score remained 6-0 at halftime, the Chiefs dominated the action with their ground control offense. Mandle continued to mount the yardage, while sidekick Hamblin chipped in with a few tough carries from his fullback position.

Canton had two good opportunities to score at the end of the second quarter. On one drive, the Chiefs travelled from their own eight-yard line to inside the Mott 10-yard line before quarterback Scott Dawson fumbled to end the threat. Mott was stopped on three straight plays following the long Canton drive and was forced to punt.

Canton's Jay McKinley grabbed the short 27-yard punt on the Mott 40-yard line and returned it 18 yards to the 22. Canton failed to score, however, as Dawson's pass to tight end Mike Pathe went through his hands in the end zone just as the half ended.

Defensive halfback Steve Gray set up Canton's second touchdown with a pass interception late in the third quarter. Mott was forced to pass after two clipping penalties, and Gray took advantage, advancing the ball to the Corsairs' 34-vard line.

Five plays later and one minute into the fourth quarter, Mandle scored on a 19-yard dive play to all but wrap up Canton's third victory in five games.

Another pass interception, this time by Jay McKinley, ended Mott's only real scoring threat midway in the fourth period

Canton scored its final touchdown with 15 seconds left in the game when the second unit, led by quarterback Greg Mallare, reached paydirt. Mallare sneaked over from the one-yard line for the touchdown.

Just two plays earlier, the Chiefs, with the game well in hand, called a fake punt play. Punter Steve Eddy threw a strike to Mandle, who scored easily past the unsuspecting Corsairs, but the touchdown was called back because of a penalty

Rocks nip RU; set eyes on Trenton showdown

By BETTY DELANO

The stage has been set for what should prove to be one of the biggest showndowns ever in Suburban Eight League history.

Plymouth Salem's powerful wishbone offense was held scoreless for three quarters before scoring two touchdowns in the final period to edge Redford Union, 13-6, Friday at the Panther field.

Couple this Rock victory with Trenton's 18-0 win over Dearborn Edsel Ford that same night, and one has a battle of the unbeaten when Salem faces Trenton Friday night in Plymouth for what may decide the league championship.

The Rocks and the Trojans are currently 5-0 overall and 4-0 in Sub-8 play. They are the only two undefeated teams in the league.

Redford Union, on the other hand, fell to 1-4 overall and 1-3 in league play. But one can't falter the hard-luck Panthers for their less-than-impressive record. Redford Union has lost its last three games all by just one touchdown to the three toughest Sub-8 teams-Salem, Trenton and Edsel Ford.

In first half action, opening minutes found Salem as the dominant force as senior co-captain Rich Hewlett led the Rocks to a 25 yard drive in five plays. But Salem forces were haulted from then on as a plague of penalties set in for the Rock offense

The Panther defense stayed strong throughout the second quarter keeping the Rocks deep in the visitors' territory. Although Redford Union's Curt Marsh intercepted Paul Dillon's halfback option pass, the Panther offense was denied any attempt of scoring as Dillon regained himself by breaking up a Redford Union pass to Paul Babits on the Salem 29-yard line.

Again Salem came on strong at th ford Union defense was equal to the test stopping the Rocks at midfield.

The offense of the Panthers matched the defense for some time as the RU gridders moved from their own 10 yard line to their 45 in a short three

But Salem's defense stymied RU's attack as the game remained

Salem finally got on the scoreboard with a drive late in the third quarter. Keyed by rushes from halfbacks Craig Stack and Dillon, the Rocks began to

Going to the air, quarterback Hewlett made contact with tight end Mike Prchlik at Redford's ten yard line and was finally brought down at the three by the Panthers' Doug Smith.

Then Hewlett tried to reach paydirt three times on quarterback sneak plays but was stopped at the three-inch line with fourth down and goal-to-go.

Rather than kicking the field goal, Salem coach Tom Moshimer elected to put Hewlett at halfback and let new quarterback Dillon hand the ball off to the all-state gridder. Hewlett powered over the goal line on the fourth-down play and Salem finally got on the scoreboard after three quarters.

Place kicker Rich Hanschu then converted the extra point attempt and the Rocks led, 7-0.

The Panther offense then came back with its touchdown drive. Completing a pass from quarterbacck Jim Stopha to Paul Babits, Redford Union had moved 37 yards in two plays and were on its way to taking a possible lead in

The Panthers' Bill Lezotte and Bob Utych were the main forces behind the RU drive as they brought the ball down to the Salem eight yard line. Sopha was forced to go to the air after the Rock defense prevented RU from penetrating its front line. Paul Babits was on the receiving o start of the third period, but the Red- end of Sopha's touchdown pass, and the Panthers were on the board, 7-6 with a chance to take the lead.

Redford Union coach Harvey Heitman chose to attempt the two point conversion, but Salems' Hewlett and Dillon pushed their way through the Panther line and rushed Sopha for a loss of 15 yards, and the score remained 7-6.

Obviously discouraged by the missed conversion, Redford Union was forced to gamble on defense and sent 10 men on the line to stop the Salem rushing attack. Fullback Phil Anderson took advantage of the situation by breaking through the line on Salem's first play from scrimmage after the ensuing kickoff, and raced into the secondary untouched for an 88-yard touchdown

The extra-point attempt was fumbled by holder Dillon, but it didn't matter as Salem had its fifth victory of first touchdown against Redford Union. The Rocks squeaked out a 13-

6 victory over the Panthers to remain undefeated this year. (Staff photo by Art Emanuel)

Runners upset

Livonia Bentley unexpectedly grabbed first and second place to upend Plymouth Salem, 26-29, in a Suburban Eight League cross country meet at Cass Benton Thursday.

The Bulldogs' Dave Hosey won the three-mile race with a 17:31 clocking. Teammate Dick Bernick followed in the runners-up spot at 17:34.

Salem raced without the services of its best runner Paul Hess, who missed the dual meet because of dental problems.

Senior Dave Rubadue was the top Salem runner, finishing third overall at 17:37. The Rocks' Dave Truesdell placed fourth at 17:41, while teammate Kevin Waara was fifth at 17:45. Bentley grabbed sixth, seventh, and 10th spots, while Salem rounded out its scoring with eighth and ninth-place finishes.

Rock coach Scott Dunson felt his team should have won the dual meet. "We should have won the meet even without 'Hess," the first-year coach said. "We just took Bentley too lightly.

"We figured it would be an easy meet, and we still had times that improved and dropped a bit. But we were looking ahead to some invitationals and the dual meet with Dearborn and Belleville (on Thursday).

Salem's dual meet record is 5-2.

Netters come close

By BETTY DeLANO

Although the Plymouth Canton girls tennis team has not had what one would call a very successful season, a vast amount of improvement can be found in the Canton netters since the beginning of the season.

Earlier in the season, the Chiefs fell victim to Waterford Mott 6-1. Canton freshman Lori Smith was the only victor against Mott that first time around.

The tables were turned slightly Wednesday afternoon when the Chiefs met with Mott for the second time.

Canton was again defeated by Mott but managed to make a contest out of it, taking three of the seven individual matches and leaving a final score of 4-

Smith was again victorious and has become one of the Chiefs' best players. The Canton freshman made no contest out of her match by taking her opponent 6-2, 6-0. Smith plays third singles for the Chiefs Second singles Eileen McGlinn has also proved herself to be a mainstay for the Chiefs by taking her league opponent 6-4, 6-0. Third doubles Julie Kraus and Renee Rupprecht were also winners for the Canton squad, 6-0, 7-5.

"You can see definite improvement in the team since the last time we played Mott," said Canton coach Cyndi Burnstein.

"I'm sorry that we couldn't win one more individual match to take the win. The doubles players were close and that extra win could have helped to get us out of last place in the Western

First singles Kathy Kidston was defeated by Mott, 1-6, 3-6 and first doubles Claudia Williams and Pam Schipani were also victims of defeat 4-6, 3-6. Bridget McNamara and Kim Young lost their match 3-6, 3-6.

There is hope for Canton next year. Not many seniors will be lost to graduation and the junior varsity this year shows promise. In fact, the Canton JV was victorious over Motts' JV 4-3

Winning singles player for the Chiefs JV was Jane McKinter, while the doubles team of Ann O'Connell and Jeanne Phillips, Lisa Mai and Ann Norton and Renne DePlanche and Kim Legel were also victorious.

Canton plays Walled Lake Western today at Walled Lake.

Cantons' only victory of the season so far has been against the Warriors and they will be definitly out for revenge against the Chiefs. Tuesday the Canton squad plays Redford Thurston at home. Both matches are to start

Salem golfers grab win over Trenton

Severe weather conditions didn't stop the Plymouth Salem golf team from defeating Suburban Eight league foe Trenton 162-163 Thursday According to Salem coach Bob

Waters, the team had two alternatives when threatening weather conditions

Either play in the rain and high winds or make up the duel match with - the Trojens on the front nine of the - league meet

Trenton coach Mike Turner was " opposed to making up the match dur-~ ing the league meet since he had already missed a match with Livonia Bentley and it was scheduled to be " made up at that time.

So braving everything from sunshine to downpours to tornado like winds, the Salem golfers came out with a narrow victory.

Playing the West Shore Golf and Country Club in Grosse Ile, the golfers putted over submerged greens and chipped from ponds that looked more like sandtraps.

The Salem victory was achieved with scores of 39 from Blake Lundberg and Ed Thomas, and a pair of 42's from senior captain Craig Stevens and junior Bob Jarvis.

Trenton's Kevin Laframboise captured medalist honors only a stroke away from Lundberg and Thomas. The 38 by Laframboise was followed by a 41 from Nick Mans and a pair of 42's from Jim Janks and Tim Barno.

"The team played extremely well under the conditions that prevailed." Waters said. "The wind and rain made playing the ball an extremly hard task as the direction changed with every shot. With the clouds that hovered over us, it was like playing at night."

The Salem victory, as close as it was, gave the golfers a 10-1 season record, the only loss being to Redford Thurston. Never in the history of Plymouth golf has a team had such a winning record.

The Rocks will play defending Suburban Eight champions Livonia Bentley at 3 p.m. today on Brae Burn. Salems' home course.

Bench sparks Salem to victory

Plymouth Salem received a strong performance from its bench to win a 54-36 girls basktball game over Dearborn Edsel Ford at the Thunderbirds' gym Thursday night.

The Suburban Eight League victory kept the Rocks undefeated after their first seven games this season. Salem will now take its 2-0 league record into a Sub-8 showdown with powerful Livonia Bentley tomorrow night. The game will be played at the Salem gym starting at 8 p.m.

Reserve Cheryl Sobkow played her best game of the season against the Thunderbirds, scoring 18 points off the bench to lead the Rocks' offensive attack. Junior co-captain Nan Horwood added 10 points and played an excellent floor game.

Salem got off to an extremely slow start, trailing Edsel Ford, 15-10, after the first quarter of action. The Thunderbirds were led by Patty Jones in the initial period. Jones was Ford's top scorer in the game with 13 points.

The Rocks rebounded quickly in the second quarter and regained the momentum with a 12-6 burst that put them ahead by one point at halftime, Salem took command of the game in the third quarter, outscoring the home team, 18-6, for a 13-point lead it never relinquished. The Rocks added 14 points to Ford's nine in the final period to raise the margin to 18 points.

Although Edsel Ford was a quick, aggressive team, the Rocks' defense was too tough for the losers to handle. Reserve Doris Holscher led the Rocks' defense with an excellent effort.

tough loss for the Chiefs, their first in 30 regular season games, Tuesday night against Walled Lake Central.

And on Thursday, The Chiefs started slowly, not scoring until 5:40 remained in the first quarter, but then took charge and reeled off eight consecutive points. Canton led 12-4 after the first stanza and never trailed

Even though the Chiefs' defense picked up in aggressiveness as the game continued, their offense faltered. They failed to score from the midway point of the second quarter until 30 seconds remained. In that time, the Chargers took advantage of Canton fouls which accounted for six of Churchill's 10 second-quarter points.

The Chiefs came out of the locker room with a 22-14 halftime lead.

Churchill was stymied in the second half by the tremendous pressure defense of the Chiefs that held the Chargers to three points in the third period. This also complemented Canton's offense. The Chiefs offensive quickness took its toll when they poured in 14, thanks to some slick passing by Canton guard Vicki Cavallaro.

By DENNIS O'CONNOR Sports Editor

The dilemma of all local journalists

It has always been my philosophy as Plymouth-Canton sports editor to run local news which affects people in this community.

Plymouth-Canton sports news always takes precedence over any other Wayne County sports piece, simply because I feel the readers in this area would rather read about Plymouth and Canton people rather than someone from another city.

But there was an exception to this rule-of-thumb in last Thursday's section (10-5) when I ran a column written by Doug Funke, our Wayne County sports editor. I hope all of you read this piece. It appeared on page 6C in the Plymouth and Canton

I decided to run this column, "To name, or not to name." because I felt it had a message for everyone in the community.

The story was about three Livonia Franklin football players who were kicked off the squad two weeks ago for drinking alcoholic beverages. I actually found out about it and tipped off Doug to the situation.

The column discusses all the flack, hassle and threats Doug received from the Franklin people because of his intention to print the names of the disciplined players.

It reminded me of a time two years ago when Howard Inch quit the Plymouth Salem basketball team after getting in countless disagreements with head coach Fred Thomann. Inch also had many discipline problems which led to his departure from the team.

Although I was told exactly where to put this piece of news in my story by the Salem coach, I went ahead and wrote an extremely small piece with a headline about the incident-much to the dismay of the Salem coach.

The result—I was banned from the locker room for two games and called every name in the book by the Salem coach.

It's extremely unfortunate that incidents like this occur. It is also unfortunate that I have to report

But my job, as a reporter and editor, is to gather the news and report the facts, serving as a voice to my readers. If I didn't report the Inch incident. I feel I would have let down my readers.

Think about it. If Rich Hewlett, Salem's Mr.

Everthing at quarterback, was dismissed from the team for disciplinary reasons, wouldn't you wonder why he wasn't on the field the next game? It would be my obligation to report his absence, no matter what the reason.

I understand that as a community editor, I deal with high school students every day. And I wouldn't ever report the details of one's dismissal. But the public has the right to at least know why someone is missing from the squad-especially if he is a key member to the success of the team.

I hope you all take time out and read Doug's column. It was very interesting and pointed out some of the truths about covering high school sports.

I honestly wish I would get response on his column as to how the people in the Plymouth-Canton community feel about such delicate subject.

If you don't get a chance to read the column, let me leave you with an excerpt which I felt was

News, unfortunately, is not always pleasant. We are not neccessarily in the business of making people happy. Our job is to gather the news-good and bad-in a fair, complete, impartial and balanced manner.

Canton harriers win once again

When you're hot you're hot, and the Plymouth Canton cross country team is hot after winning its third consecutive meet to even the record at 4-4. This time it was league rival Walled Lake Western that fell victim to the Chiefs, 22-39

Sophomore Mike Talaga ran his fastest time of the year, not to mention the best time of the race, 16:45. Rich Fleischer also ran his best time of the year, 16:57, good for third place overall Dave Spitz was fifth overall with a time of 17:11 followed by captain Dan McGlinn at 17:22

Geri Shufelt ran her best time of the year, a fine 21:03. Shufelt took first place last week in the girls running of the Novi Invitational.

Other chief runners included Randy Hennells, Dan Inloes, Scott Hand, Steve West, Mark Anderson, Guy Kananen and Eric Carrier.

First year coach Jim Haves is pleased with his team's progress and said, "The kids are working really hard, and it shows in the win-loss

"It was a heartbreaker," said Lawson, "because it was so close when they had to go inside. Becky really wanted this victory, too, since it was SALEM'S THREE double points saw the Hathaway sisters, Sandy and Lynne, take one at first doubles, while third doubles Vickie Sterling and Kathy Somers grabbed the other two. Second doubles Kathy Weber and Laurie Smith drew a bye in the first round but lost in the second round.

Somers and Sterling lost in the finals to Trenton's doubles combination, 2-6. 6-7. It was the first lost this season for the Salem combination, who were seeded first at the meet.

Lawson was very pleased with her team's overall performance.

"This was a victory for us because Trenton didn't knock us off," Lawson said. Last year, Trenton beat Salem in the dual match. But Salem won in the league meet to earn a share for the title.

"It really shows how even the two teams are. It was back-and-forth all day and no one knew who was going to win it.

Lawson was bothered by the weather conditions and said it hurt her girls' play.

The sharpshooters at Wonderland Lanes are leaving little doubt that their classic is one of the strongest in the metropoliatn area and should be ranked with the prestigious all-star circuits.

They offered further proof this week when three of them broke the 700 barrier and the pacemaking team rolled a 3310 series.

Leading the way on this blasting of the pins was Ron Fryer, who posted a 716 on games of 257, 268 At that, he had only a one-pin edge over Ed

Austreng, who put together games of 244, 222 and 249 for a 717. To make the night all the more amazing was the fact that Hugh O'Neil, in third place, was only one

To add to their laurels, Austreng and O'Neil were members of the Sherwood Forest team that rolled the 3310 made possible by a final game of

BILL HARDY learned the hard way at Cloverlanes that fame sometimes can be so near and yet so far away

Bowling in the junior house league, he opened with 11 strikes. Then, with a perfect game staring at him, he left up the No. 10 pin and had to settle for a 299. This unnerved him and he came back with a mere 150 and closed with a 171 for 620.

He has been bowling 13 years and his previous high game was a 288 with a high series of 753.

THE MANY FRIENDS of the woman they know as Minnie Sackerman, long time secretary of the Michigan Women's Bowling Association, will be shocked to learn that she recently suffered a stroke and is confined to the B&R Rest Home, 5540 SW 64th Street, Florida, 33004. She would like to hear from them.

JAN DIMMER didn't miss the 700 barrier by very much Wednesday night when he rolled a 678 that included a 255 game in the Ladies Major League at Crown Lanes. Five other girls rolled double century series with Barbara Garlow taking second place with 631.

The Firebird team, of which Ann Setlock, of Garden Lanes, is a member, had a 1039 game in a 2906 series to set the night's pace.

NORM HAMACA, who carried a 717 average, had the best night of his season at Woodland Lanes. Bowling in the Ford LTD league, he had a 269 in a 695 series, to beat out Joe Gumbus, who posted a 256 in 656.

In the men's trio league, Jules Thevalier opened with a 276, then couldn't stand the pressure and dropped back to 208 and 201 for a 685.

Dave Cheyas also found that the pressure of a big opening game was too much. He started with a 276 and fell back to 188 and 213 for a 677.

In the other leagues, Pat Saba paced the Belles with a 537 that included a 244, while Ron Brawn was high in the Bator league with a 669 and Jim Lloyd was right behind with a 661. In the Ladies morning league, top honors went to

But Bentley scores

Allen Park triumphs

By DOUG FUNKE

Let it be duly recorded that at 5:24 of the first quarter Friday, Livonia Bentley scored its first football points of the season after four successive shutouts.

Unfortunately, those were the only points the Bulldogs were able to muster during their 20-8 Suburban Eight League loss to Allen Park.

Bentley finally had everyone on the team physically ready to battle Allen Park after a rash of injuries early in the season

By game's end, the status of Bob Schmitt, a defensive end, and Mike Burdette, a tight end, were unknown. Both sustained arm injuries and were to have visited the doctor over the

'That was a war out there-there was a lot of hard hitting," said Bentley coach Pat O'Donnell

Allen Park's offense proved to be its strong suit during the first half and the defense carried the load in the second. Larry Yeske, a junior quarterback. riddled the Bulldogs for 122 yards passing during the first half while completing nine of 12 passes.

The Jaguars made a defensive adjustment, moving the linebackers behind the tackles and the monster over the noseguard, to blunt Bentley's offensive attack during the second

Allen Park drove 75 yards in 11 plays for its first touchdown after receiving the opening kickoff.

Mark Angellotti bulled over left guard 20 yards on a counter play for the score. A pass for two points was successful

Bentley took the ensuing kickoff and took only 1:28 to tie the score. Joe Race, positioned at split end to the left side, took a pitch from quarterback Dan Crowder and rambled 20 yards around right end on a flanker-around play for the TD.

Matt Munn ran off right tackle for the two-point conversion to deadlock the score

The Jaguars capitalized on a pass! interception to set-up their second touchdown. Jim Elledge pilfered a Crowder pass at Allen Park's 49 yard line and Yeske directed the Jaguars all the way down the field in 14 plays.

Angellotti snared a 16-yard toss from Yeske for the TD. The try for two points failed

Allen Park produced the only points of the second half with 4:15 remaining in the contest

The Jaguars moved 43 yards in six

The Ocelots last week split a pair of volleyball matches, defeating Grand Rapids Community College, 15-10 and 15-13, and losing to Flint Mott Community College, 15-11 and 15-6.

'We had somewhat of a good showing except Grand Rapids was a lot tougher than we thought," said Schoolcraft coach Tom Teeters.

"Mott out-hit us and out-bumped us. We did not play our best game, but that does not take anything away from Mott, which is a tough team," said Teeters.

Sue Rich did not compete in either match due to illness.

plays after a short Bentley punt, and secured the victory when Angellotti squirmed into the endzone on a three-yard run around left end. Again, the two-point attempt failed. Bentley advanced to Allen Park's 23 yard line as time was running out, but a fumble stalled the last-ditch drive. Yeske completed only two of 12 passes during the second half, as the Bulldogs' coverage improved considerably Greg Pierson gained 80 yards in 14 carries for Bentley and Matt Munn collected 59 yards on 13 rushes.

WHAT IS INVOLVED IN A FUNERAL COST?

There are generally four funeral expenses which can be incurred. 1) professional services of a funeral director and his funeral home, including facilities, staff-time, equipment and casket 2) the cemetery plot and opening of the grave 3) monument or grave marker and 4) miscellaneous expenses such as flowers, obituaries and extra limousines

Some of these expenditures are optional. Most of them have a fairly wide range of costs, depending on the family's wishes. You will not find any undue influence exerted for exorbitant funeral costs by funeral directors in this service area. We-and most funeral directors we know-prefer that the funeral expenses be appropriate for each family served. We spend much time with each family to make sure that all arrangements and decisions will best serve their own interests.

We'd be glad to discuss this in complete detail, showing you the ranges in pricing available to you.

The harness farm system

Betting on horses finances fairs

By W.W. EDGAR

Contrary to popular belief in the state's heavily populated cities, the old-fashioned county fairs are far from just memories of another era-thanks to the para-mutual betting where the harness horses and the runners hold forth for most of the year.

They may not be like they used to, when the harness races provided a relief day for the farmers from the showing of their cattle and crops.

But, according to Racing Commissioner Febele F. Fauri, they're much better because they now are subsidized by the state.

The commissioner, seated in his Plymouth office, pointed out that $2,126,000 has been appropriated for the betterment of the racing at the various fairs in the state. This money is taken from the state's share of the para-mutual betting that now reaches about $26 million a year.

This money is appropriated with the thought that it will not only create more interest in the county fair races with larger purses, but will stimulate interest in breeding of Michigan

As an example of the money used at the county fairs, the commissioner produced a schedule for the past summer which showed eight races with purses of $25,000.

With a broad grin, the commissioner said there is no betting allowed at the county fairs, except possibly behind

THIS PAST SUMMER there were 39 fairs in the state that featured harness racing. Of this group, the track at the Midland fair is considered the best. Horses there have been clocked as fast as 2.02 on the half-mile frack.

Along with the track at Midland there are others at such places as Croswell and Adrian that attract some of the best horses.

These races lure such harness racing enthusiasts as Ed Draugelis, the prominent Plymouth attorney, and Jack Richards, the Livonia horseman who races and breeds the animals at the training grounds at Salem.

The commissioner recalled his early interest in the sport when he raced at the harness tracks while still going to

He said the legendary Dan Patch dominated the tracks of the country before his time. But he has found recollections of the famed Single G. a horse that was just about unbeatable and was always on exhibition at the county fairs.

As he spoke of the famed Single G.,

Fauri said it still is looked upon as the horse that time forgot. It was still racing when it was 13 years old.

ANOTHER THING the commissioner explained is that the races at the county fairs are now the "farm system" for the major tracks.

Just as the baseball and football scouts are on the lookout for potential stars, scouts also follow the races.

"The breeders and owners race them as two and three-year-olds at the fairs. After that they move on to the major tracks where they race a fe more years. All of this has come about of the subsidization of the county fair tracks with pari-mutuel money from the major betting tracks.

The commissioner added that paramutuals help the county fairs in another way. This year the state appropriated $2,850,000 for the fairs for prizes, ribbons in the cattle and hog shows, and the other functions that help to make fairs a success.

"No, they are not dead," he said, "Because of the para-mutuals they are bigger and better than ever."

Hilltop fire still under investigation

The Plymouth Township fire department is still awaiting word from the state fire marshal on the cause of the blaze that swept the Hilltop Golf Course clubhouse Oct. 1.

Township fire trucks responded to the fire at the clubhouse, located at Powell and Ann Arbor Trail, according to Sgt. Fred Knupp of the township fire deaprtment. Word from the fire marshal is due this week.

He indicated no foul play is suspected.

'The fire started in the bar area in the southwest corner of the clubhouse," said Knupp. "Flames were shooting from the roof when we arrived about 9:30 p.m. Although the fire itself was contained in the south end of the building, the entire inside was damaged by heat and smoke."

The clubhouse was empty at the time of the fire, said Knupp. Manager Dan Ross had left earlier in the

"A large percentage of the structure is intact, although the interior will need some work, as well as the roof where the flames came through," said

Ross believes a lit cigarette may have been the cause of the blaze. He was told the fire alarm was ringing in the clubhouse about 8-8:30 p.m. Sunday. When he arrived, he found a trash can on fire and the room filled with

Ross removed the burning container and extinguished the fire before opening the doors and windows to let the smoke out, he said.

Ross indicated he then left and returned about 9 p.m. to find the building engulfed in flames. The clubhouse was insured for $25,000-$35,000.

A travel trailer will serve as the temporary clubhouse to accept bids to operate the golf club, said Tom Notebaert, township supervisor. He said bids will still be taken until Oct. 17, the date set prior to the fire. The golf club is owned by the

Building renovations in works

This is part of a continuing series on the current status of the Plymouth Center for Human Development. Future articles will look at the role of the volunteer at the center and the current view of organized parents of residents.

By MICHAEL MATUSZEWSKI

A large sterile ward with a row of beds lining each dingy brown wall. That's the typical image of an

Most state mental health facilities over the past decade discarded the large wards and impersonal surroundings in favor of smaller, more managable, more personal, private lving

The Plymouth Center for Human Development, which at one time was home to 1,300 mentally retarded and developmental disabled children and adults, is now beginning to move in that direction.

The center, labeled by some mental health observers as being "consistently 10 years behind the times," appears to be discarding its "caretaker" philosophy.

Instead of being a 24-hour-a-day, seven-day-a-week home to hundreds of children and adults and nearly 1,300 employes, administrators say they will be funneling more of the mentally retarded back into the community in foster and group homes. Instead of playing babysitter to hundreds, said Director Eranell McIntosh-Wilson, the Plymouth Center will become a "resource center" training the retarded and developmentally disabled for life in the community

By 1982, she said, the Plymouth Center's population will be reduced from more than 700 to less than 250.

NOT ONLY DOES that mean fewer attendants training fewer persons, administrators say, it means more normal living arrangements.

That means no more large wards.

Instead, residents will live in apartment-like quarters. Instead of grouping four persons to a bedroom, it could mean two-person bedrooms with adjoining living rooms.

It also means that the center's two largest halls, Kennedy and Binet, will be abandoned by 1982, said Assistant Director Ibrahim Hussein. At the height of the controversy over the abuse and neglect of the center's residents, Kennedy Hall housed 159 residents and Binet was home to 149 residents.

Hussein estimated it would cost $3.5 million to renovate the two halls

"Between now and then," he said. "people will be living there. So there'll be some immediate improvements. But it won't be a $3 million deal.

The "immediate improvements," he said, will be cosmetic-new paint, furniture and temporary room dividers.

It will cost about $200,000, he estimated.

THE OTHER residence halls will be attended to before 1981, he said.

Renovations on Sullivan Hall are scheduled to begin in a several weeks, he said. The remodeling, he estimated, will be completed in August. In the meantime, Sullivan Hall residents will be relocated to other halls where spece is available.

He said the relocation is not expected to disrupt the residents.

The remaining halls—Molloy, Howe, Carlson, Willis-will be renovated

No plans were mentioned concerning the center's infirmary which is located above the administrative offices. The administration building is separated from the residence halls by Sheldon

WE MISS PAT Touhey around the Plymouth office.

No more daily reports on the boys. He and Pam never refer to them as "the twins

No more heated discussions on any number of subjects with Pat playing devil's advocate. It may be duller, but my blood pressure is down to normal.

Pat got himself promoted out of the Plymouth office. He is now a fullfledged editor and responsible for the Redford Observer. Caroline Price, former Redford editor, is now Canton

Pat is a graduate of Plymouth High School. He holds a bachelor's degree in English and Psychology from Eastern Michigan University where he was a graduate teaching fellow. He also was a lecturer in English at Northern Virginia Community College at Woodbridge. Va. An Army veteran of the Vietnam war, he was a reporter with the Plymouth Observer for the past

We miss him and wish him well. He has an inquiring mind and enthusiasm that deserves recognition in the journalistic field.

He and his wife, Pam, and twin sons, Justin and Sean, live in Plymouth Township.

DENNIS COCKRUM will play the role of a hen-pecked husband and father in the Moliere comedy, "The Learned Ladies." The play will open Thursday, Oct. 12 for a five-week run at True Grist Ltd., a dinner-theater in an old grist mill in Homer, Mich.

We saw Dennis in "Gaslight" at True Grist and marveled at his performance. He was never out of character and it was difficult to believe this was really a young actor in his early 20s-not a middle-aged police

The play is a superb example of Moliere's ability to mask biting social satire behind comedy. The 17th century's pretense, fakery, quacks and dupes are revealed. Bewigged dandies and powder pink ladies show little concern for thought and idea as they sim per and primp in in the manner typical of Louis XIV's court. "The Learned Ladies" is rarely performed. There will be matinee performances Oct. 18 and 25, and Nov. 1 and 8. These are of special interest to school groups although non-group reservations will be accepted.

WE HAVE FIELDED several calls from persons asking how to get tickets for Sunday's Plymouth Symphony Orchestra concert featuring William Warfield. Two men who called said they had gone to school with Warfield and didn't want to miss him. There should be some tickets available at the Sounds as if it will be a class reunion for the bass baritone. Fran Lang, president of the Symphony Society, has been getting her share of calls too.

Just hope there is a full house for the season opener

MEMBERS OF the Plymouth Community Chorus are delighted with their new director. They had several applicants after we ran a story telling of

The new director is Mike Gross of Westland. He is 22 and works in the Casual Court and Copper Rivet shops of Meijers Thrifty Acres in Canton. He has an impressive vocal background.

The Community Chorus rehearses Tuesday evenings in East Middle School music room. Male and female singers are welcome to join the group.

THERE WILL BE two open meetings of Weight Watchers this week at the Plymouth Cultural Center, 525 Farmer Street, Plymouth. Both are free and open to the public Florine Mark (50-pound loser) will speak at the 9:30 a.m. meeting Oct. 10. Don Stewart (190-pound loser) will speak at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 12.

Weight Watchers has been in town for eight or nine years. They started meeting in the Plymouth Grange Hall and then switched to Central Middle School.

JoAnn Crook (102-pound loser) is leader of the Plymouth group.

Ellie Graham (40-pound gainer) should look into this.

BERTINE FAIR and Dorothy Shaffer had high scores in last Thursday's party bridge games at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

Ann Kunec and Alice Missler were winners Sept. 28.

THE LOCAL Suzuki violin group will be exposed to one of the top Suzuki teachers in the country next weekend. Craig Timmerman is flying in from Lexington, Ky. He will teach a special class at 2:15 p.m. Friday, Oct. 13 at Mill Race Historic Village, Northville. He also will direct a concert Saturday afternoon in the Village.

Timmerman was in Japan this summer for a seminar with Dr. Suzuki.

PARENTS will want to circle Nov. 4 and 11 on their calendars. There will be a Punch and Judy show in Forest Place Mall to celebrate 1979—the Year of the Child for UNICEF. Hazel Gibson of Book World is arranging the free puppet shows with w the assistance of Aden Broderick. of There will be two performances each O Saturday—one at 11 a.m. and at 2 p.m.

Symphony Week marks orchestra's 33d year

It's Plymouth Symphony Week Supervisors of Canton and Plymouth townships and the mayor of the City of Plymouth have issued proclamations designating Oct. 8-14 as a week to honor the local symphony orchestra.

The Symphony League has distributed special symphony placemats to several eating places in the area. Store windows will be decorated for the occasion.

And on Sunday, Oct. 15, the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra will open its 33d season with an internationally famous guest soloist. William Warfield; star of concert hall, movie screen and television, will perform.

Wayne Dunlap, conductor of the orchestra, will begin his 28th season at the helm of one of the state's finest community orchestras. He and Warfield have been friends since their student days. The famed bass-baritone is now a professor at the University of Coffee will be served at intermission by members of the Plymouth Symphony League. The Plymouth Community Arts Council is arranging an art exhibit in the lobby for viewing during intermission. The one-man show will include watercolors and oils by local artist Dorothy Koliba. She has studied under Hugh Parsell, English painter, and her landscapes reflect the soft technique of the European method. Koliba has done much of her painting in the Smoky Mountains and says she loves that area. She is a member of the Three Cities Art Club and uses both palette knife and a brush for oils.

THE SYMPHONY Week placemats were designed by Sue Rothamel, a member of the symphony league. Laurel Furniture Co. paid for the printing ning's, Gourmet Gallerie, Kay's of Plymouth, Fox Photo and the Early American Shop.

DUNLAP AND Warfield were fellow students at the Eastman School of Music. They sang together in a madrigal singers group.

The conductor said Warfield also is a fine pianist and "One of the best linguists I've ever known.'

Town halls open season

Dr. Joyce Brothers and writer George Plimpton will liven up the area this October with speeches for two Town Hall lecture series.

Dr. Brothers, who believes it is only when a woman passes 40 and her children are on their own that she is free to live her most exciting years, will open the Livonia Town Hall series at 10:30 a.m. Wenesday, Oct. 18, in the Mai Kai Theater, Plymouth and Farmington Roads, Livonia.

Plimpton, who found a way to make a good living by role playing, will appear at 11 a.m. Thursday, Oct. 12, in the Plymouth Hilton Inn, 14707 Northville Road.

Dr. Brothers is expected to offer psychological insights into the people of today. A noted psychologist, she offers down-to-earth advice in her nationally syndicated column, her magazine articles and her TV appearances.

Christmas toy market offers ingenuity, noise

By BETTY MASSON

A visit to the Circus World Toy Stores' preview of Christmas toys leaves one bewitched by the ingenuity of toy manufacturers, bothered by the noise (How would you like to listen to a train that sings "Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star," against a backdrop of TV commercials?) and bewildered by the

More than 300 manufacturers were represented at the show recently held in Dearborn's Fairlane Manor

It also leaves one musing over the possibilities of making a fortune by dashing out and buying stock in companies such as Union Carbide or Mal-

Why? Because they make batteries, of course, and batteries galore are going to be needed this Christmas.

You can expect to find at least one electronic hand-held game among the Christmas packages. With them, you'll be able to play baseball, football, tennis or race automobiles, while pretending to pay attention to a dull meeting or lecture. You have to wonder what these will do for productivity in plant and school.

On the other hand, there are a lot of pocket electronic outfits to help teach children how to do mathematics, and even how to spell. It's likely much easier on the ego to have a machine tell •you you're wrong. Manufacturers range from Texas Instruments to Playskool, which has Alphie, a robot that plays songs and teaches threeyear-olds to count.

All take batteries, of course. So do the many pinball machines, designed for experts from three on up, or the electronic skeet-shooting outfit you can enjoy with a friend. The target is not a clay pigeon, but a beam of light There's also an executive fly swatter by Hoyle, shaped like a gun, and an outfit called Shoot-Out in Space by Tomy. For bowlers, Marx has a sophisticated electronic bowling game, plus a motorcycle you can "drive" up hills without getting hurt. All that's needed is good coordination.

For those who want to make their own toys, Revell has new Electronic Action Kits, including a Goodyear blimp, a paramedic van and a Coast Guard rescue chopper, complete with flashing lights and sound effects.

Manufacturers are banking on the opoularity of the television show "Battlestar Galactica," with all sorts of games and toys and even jewelry based on this theme. For those who missed the television shows, Star Wars equipment and games are still found in abundance.

In the more traditional line, Skil-Craft has new Victorian and Colonial dollhouses you can put together in a few hours for about $40. They're made of 1/4 inch mahogany plywood. The same company offers a Wooden Toymaker for kids who want to make their own cars and trucks. If these are too tame, we saw some monster mask kits which would keep the children occupied and scare off any visitors as

And if you don't like monsters, look to the dolls. They are very, very appealing, and making a choice is going to be difficult. Whoopsie Doll will flip up her pigtails for you, and there's a new doll by Mattel with no strings or batteries. A hug starts her talking. Peanuts and Sesame Street characters are still around, but this year the latter are wearing clothes.

There's an Little Orphan Annie doll. and Mickey Mouse and all his friends are everywhere. They are staging a come-back in honor of his 50th anniversary this year

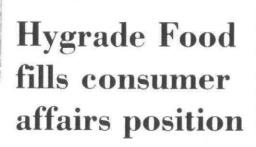

There are also Barbie dolls, Sindy Dolls, Donnie and Marie Osmond, joined this year by brother Jimmy, and all their equipment. For the little kids, there's a charming Bug World by Playskool. There are Playmobil characters ranging from firefighters to knights complete with swords and shields, and Kenner has Mountain Tots, new this year.

The stuffed animals seem to be softer and more cuddly than ever, and we like Lamb Chop, a racoon from Grizzly Adams and two small Big Foots (Big Feet?) sitting on a huge

When it comes to dolls and cuddly things, big boys are not forgotten. Our friend flipped over an Adrienne Barbeau poster, "a hot item," the salesman said. We had to settle for a Pink Panther with a "toujours gai" appeal. in the absence of any posters of attractive mature males

In the realm of sporting goods, it's nice to see that Flexible Flyers are still around and that wagons still look like wagons, but trikes now can look like anything from a mail truck to a Slick Cycle. Kiddy cars also come in all sorts of shapes, including a camel with wrinkled knees.

For would-be pitchers, Rapco has a new baseball trainer that automatically calls balls and strikes. There's also a JumpOLean for active kids, as well as pogo sticks and stilts.

Renee M. Apple has been appointed director of consumer affairs for Hygrade Food Products Corp. of Livonia.

Ms. Apple's responsibilities will include consumer inquiries and concerns relating to Hygrade's line of branded processed meat products, which include Ball Park Franks, West Virginia brand ham and West Virginia brand bacon. She is a graduate of the University of Michigan business= Remodeled theater

presents 'Camelot'

By BILL SLIGER

Everybody knows the only way to succeed in the motion picture theater business is to build a multi-theater complex served from a single box office and a huge refreshment stand.

And preferably the theater should be in a major shopping center. Or at the very least on a high-traffic thoroughfare with acres of free parking.

Presumably, everybody knows it except Inga Zayti of Northville

She's bringing back the small-town Main Street theater complete with motion pictures and live stage performances.

Since last April, Ms. Zayti has been busy restoring the 52-year-old P&A Theatre, in the middle of the block in Northville's tiny downtown business

It is typical of the small-town theaters that thrived in the pre-TV era of the '20s, '30s and '40s.

ON THE EVENING of Oct. 14. it will reopen six months after its doors were closed. In recent years, it had been a marginal motion picture operation-second-run movies at $1.25 per Rarely were more than half of its 550 seats occupied for a movie showing.

But on the evening of Oct. 14, its lights will shine on a packed house of first-nighters at the live stage production of "Camelot.

The once-proud Victorian-theme structure will feature a new name-The Marquis-all new seats, carpeting, air conditioning, heating, drapes and from out of the mothballs will come the orchestra pit, footlights and own the theater and Inga operates two women's fashion shops, one on each side of the theater building.

The German-born proprietor has lived in the U.S. for little more than a dozen years. She's determined to bring back an American tradition that few Americans under age 50 can recall

LET'S PRETEND it is opening night and we are going to "Camelot" at the

A bulb-decorated triangular-shaped marquis extends over the sidewalk and its bright, new letters announce that "Camelot" is showing. The theater-goer enters through glass-paneled French doors into a small lobby. On the right is the black walnut ticket booth. Just beyond stands the popcorn

We walk into the inner lobby with its thickly-carpeted floor and marble drinking fountain. Entrances to the men's and ladies' restroom are visible At the far left and far right are the aisle entrances into the theater proper.

Williamsburg chandeliers hang low from the ceiling, elegant red drapes form arches on both walls and match the red carpeting on the descending aisleways.

Rows of seats line both sides of the aisles. They are Victorian design with cast iron frames, comfortably cushioned. (Inga says the only other place they are found is at the Grand Ole Opry in Nashville.) Seventeen to 20 musicians file into the orchestra pit. The houselights dim. The maestro lifts his baton. The curtain rises . . . the music begins.

Hopefully, the words from "Camelot" (where "by order summer lingers through September'') will prove to be prophetic for The Marquis and it will enjoy "happy ever-aftering" just like "in Camelot.

Renovation of Northville's 52-year-old P&A theater has been completed and it will reopen as the Marquis on Oct. 14 with a live production of "Camelot." In the months ahead motion pictures and stage shows will be mixed on a regular basis.

By JOHN E. VERNIER

In spite of the securities industry s attempts to make Wall Street "Main Street" to the American public, it is a fact that only one out of every six adults in our country are owners of common stocks. Considering that the mechanics of Wall Street create and allow the continuing flow of new capital to the industrial complex-from which most jobs are created-it is rather disturbing to know that public interest isn't

Basically, there are three reasons why many folks have never invested in a common stock

· No funds are available for investment Lack of knowledge about the stock market Fear of loss of principal.

The first reason needs no comment, but the other two do.

Unless an individual studied a commercial course, it is probable that his exposure to the world of finance-even through the college level-was purely perfunctory. We learned the essentials toward bringing home the proverbial bacon, but not much time was spent showing us how to store it! Still, that is no excuse for ignorance about financial opportunities. There is a wealth of free information for the asking, available from any brokerage office, and most account executives will welcome the opportunity to offer you information and advice concerning your own particular situation.

Lack of knowledge about the stock market can be quickly solved with a simple telephone call!

Fear of loss of principal is certainly a much more valid reason for avoiding the equity market than lack of knowledge. Human instinct leans more toward the warmth of security than it does toward the frigidity of risk.

A recent New York Stock Exchange survey discovered that we are more proven to be a good place to be.

security demanding than the Americans who preceeded us, and that job guarantees rank higher than job opportunities with many of our younger people. Risk is inherent in all types of investments, but it is more obvious in some areas than it is in others.

Hard cash or U.S. Government bonds would appear to be as close to a riskless investment (if you can call cash an investment)

From one angle they are, considering the strength of the U.S. Government. But, inflation has slowly eroded the purchasing power of the dollar so that the $20 bill that you hid in the dresser drawer 10 years ago will buy about 40 per cent less today than it

The best evidence of the rayage that inflation has caused is the real estate market. For what logical reason, other than inflation, could a home built 25 years ago be worth three to four times what it originally cost?

The degree of risk that exists in common stocks will vary with the type of investment chosen. The stock of a utility company, for example, will offer much less risk than an investment in the stock of a brand new

One thing that probably tends to discourage prospective new investors is the extremely high visibility of the stock market. Each day's activity is reported to the finest detail so that everyone knows exactly the price of any stock at any given moment.

Can you imagine the nervousness and uneasiness you might experience if the price of your home was quoted each day in the paper? Serious investors are not too con-

They are more concerned with the longer term trend of stock prices. In the long run, common stocks have cerned with day to day fluctuations.

the dealers advisory committee.

A number of recent movies— "The Turning Point," "Lumiere" have dramatized the 20th-Century female dilemma of career versus marriage. "Girl Friends" (PG) brings a refreshing proletarian approach to this now familiar problem.

Susan Weinblatt (Melanie Mayron), a struggling young photographer, (movie makers have a penchant for casting "career" women as photographers), shares an apartment with her friend Annie (Anita Skinner), a struggling young writer.

Annie is blonde, neat and waspish. She's a dilettante, who becomes more dedicated to getting a husband than to advancing her career. Annie explains that she needs someome to depend on.

Susan is distinctly New York Jewish, and she is serious about her professional career. The measure of her dedication is marked by her willingness to earn a living by photographing bar mitzvahs and weddings while awaiting recognition.

ANNIE GETS a husband and moves out. Susan is left to cope. She has no one to depend on but herself. She not only has to deal with her loneliness but with economic hardships. Thus Claudia Weill in her directorial debut manages to extract some sharp perceptions about friendship, independence and social climate from a very slim, modest "Girl Friends" says as much about the realities of a young artist struggling for recognition as it does about feminist issues. Susan's daily dose of rejection from magazine editors and others to whom she tries to sell her work gives a clear message. To make it in a highly competitive field requires a lot of inner strength as well as talent.

If Susan has her problems, so does Annie. She is confused and vacillating about the development of her writing career. We find that Annie, with her husband, baby and economic security, still needs Susan as much as Susan, facing the world solo, needs Annie.

This is perhaps the main point of the movie, but it is also the most weakly stated. The two women share an intimacy and rapport which nurtures them both. However, the film never presents the ground work which would establish their relationship.

Where are those scenes which would capture the texture, quality and intensity of their friendship? From all we see, Annie could be one among many interchangeable roommates who help pay the rent.

ONE OTHER ASPECT of this film requires mention and that is the way Annie's husband Martin (Bob Balaban) is presented. Nothing specific is said about him, but there is a subjective tone in the film that seems to sneer at his cultural aspirations or pretensions.

Objectively, his actions are those of a loving, patient and encouraging husband. So why the patronizing smile as if Susan somehow is

"Girl Friends" has several fine moments and flashes of humor that emerge from Vicki Polon's incisive script. It would have more punch if it were more structured and less anecdotal, but it's a notable and entertaining first effort

'Camelot' riding onto Northville stage

The "Camelot" which opens Oct. 14 in Northville's Marquis Theatre is like the script of an old "Andy Hardy"

Mickey Rooney would say to Judy Garland, "Gee, we could have our own stage show-you'd sing-I'd lead the band-we could have our own arrangements-everyone would have a part-

That's how actor-director William Premin described the "chemistry" between himself, partner Andrew Henderson and theater owner Inge Zayti.

The Lerner-Loewe 1962 musical that was so popular in the Kennedy Administration will be the first production of Premin's and Henderson's "Performing Artists Unlimited" in their new headquarters. The Marquis Theatre is the plushly remodeled P&A Theater at 133 E. Main.

The show will run the weekend of Oct. 14-15 (at higher prices because of a champagne reception), Oct. 20-22 and 27-29.

"TO THE playgoer, it's $12 or $15 worth of show for a $6 investment," said the budget-conscious Premin, 2 Birmingham resident who is purchasing agent for the Troy School District.

The lead roles in the cast alone represent theatrical and musical experience from England, France and Canada as well as the U.S. "It's not professional theater, but it approaches a professional level," Premin said.

Premin, seeking an outlet where "creative people could go out and create," formed the company in 1973 with the original intention of multi-media productions-art in the lobby, films, music and acting on stage.

That didn't quite pan out, although they made a little money with last year's critically acclaimed production of "Fiddler on the Roof."

Henderson spotted the "Closed for remodelling" sign on the P&A last

He talked to Mrs. Zayti and found she had the same dream as Premin and himself-live theater of a high creative level in what was built as a vaudeville house 50 years ago.

HERE'S THE kind of talent that will take the stage and orchestra pit:

Premin, playing the comic king Pellinore, studied theater at Eastern Michigan University and has directed productions for the Dearborn Civic Theater, Jewish Community Center, Jewish Center of Windsor, and Windsor Light Opera Players.

He played the lead in Miller's "Death of a Salesman" in two Windsor productions, and is choir director of St. Collette Catholic parish in Livonia.

His hobby has its own museum

People can tell your age easily in the Oliver Parks Telephone Museum in Springfield, Ill. The older a person is, the more likely he or she is to say, "Hey, I had a telephone like that

A visit to the museum at the right time will net a traveller a glance of old Mack Parks himself, the retired telephone lineman who collected these phones and startled everyone at Illinois Bell by walking in off the street one day to offer his collection to the company

Parks began this hobby in 1949, when he took his telephone truck into a service station for repair and saw a dusty old telephone sitting on a shelf.

"What's that?" he asked.

The woman behind the counter said it was just an old telephone she and her husband had inherited along with the service station.

"Some dummy will give us $10 for it some day," she said.

Parks, no dummy, did. The phone was an 1898 Stromberg Carlson desk set, now worth more than $1,000.

Parks' collection began to grow when he retired in 1962. The telephones eventually took over the walls of his house. There were telephones above his furniture, up his stairway and between his windows.

He especially loved to show them off to his grandchildren, who renamed them for their favorite telephone heroes. One day it occurred to Parks that other people's grandchildren might also like to see the telephones.

A public relations official at Illinois Bell remembers very clearly the day that Parks walked into his office and tried to give away his valuable telephone collection.

"People don't just walk in off the street and give away a collection of old telephones," he said. "But that's exactly what Mack Parks did, and he left us in a dilemma."

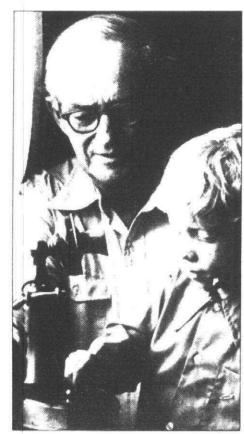

When the company finally accepted the collection, it didn't know how to repay Parks. He wouldn't take money. How can a big computerized company take a gift like that from a man of ordinary means?

So they named the museum the Oliver Parks Telephone Museum. For Parks, this was payment enough. Of course, items are always neatened up when they pass from real life into history, so the collection doesn't look quite as it did on Parks' wall in Deca-

The phones in the Parks Museum are all dressed up in a 900-square-foot, glass-walled room at the corner of Seventh and Edwards Street in Springfield, at the entrance to the Illinois Bell building.

The heartbeat of the collection is beyond the glass and steel in the phones that grace the walls and the revolving turnstiles inside.

There are magneto wall phones with handles, a radio phone of the 1930s. phones with bell-shaped receivers, old wooden wall phones of the early 1900s. and a private branch exchange where operators once said "number please."

The museum's location is an unexpected bonus for most travelers to Springfield, because it sets practically in the heart of the tourist sites related to Abraham Lincoln's life.

Within a few minutes walk, one is on the street where Lincoln and his family lived when he became president. The area, designated an historical district, contains the Lincoln house, one of the few restored homes honest enough to have an outhouse in the back garden.

Walk another few blocks and you can climb the steps to Lincoln's law office, which has also been kept in its 19th century condition.

Across the street from the law office is the Old State Capital, once the center of political, social and cultural life in Springfield. One of the early drafts of the Gettysburg Address is kept under glass there.

Upon completing the brief walking tour around this small area of old Springfield, and you find yourself back at the Oliver P. Parks Telephone Museum, there is one other surprise to be found.

Directly across the street from the museum is the new National Park Service Visitors Center to help you put all of this history into perspective.

There were telephones above his furniture, up his stairway and between his windows.

TRAVEL LOG of Iris Jones

Has anyone found a missing day?

It's half-past Saturday, airplane time, here over the Middle East, and my body doesn't like it.

In 16 hours, we have flown through 91/2 time zones, losing 91/2 hours, an afternoon and the middle of a night

I've eaten breakfast at midnight and lunch at dawn. If you think I'm confused, you should see the man who is twing to take pills three times a day.

We learned in school that we set our clocks by the sunit being noon when the sun is overhead and midnight when the sun is on the other side of the world.

Track with me through this time schedule and you will see why my internal clock is confused:

9 p.m. Saturday, Eastern Standard Time. Detroit time. It is dark. Air India flight 111 leaves London on the first leg of the New York to Delhi trip. 10 p.m. Detroit time. Cocktails.

11 p.m. Dinner.

Midnight. Inflight movie, "The Turning Point."

2.30 a.m. Movie ends. It is obviously the middle of the night and time to sleep, but open the blinds and the sun is shiming brightly. It's 2:30 a.m. Detroit time but 7:30 a.m. London time, and we are getting ready to land.

Time to rouse oneself, they're serving breakfast. The problem is we haven't yet been to bed.

3:30 a.m. Detroit time. It's 8:30 a.m. in London, and 6 a.m. Detroit time. It is 11 a.m. as we leave London for India, and we are preparing for a big lunch. Cocktails madam?

7 a.m. Detroit time—noon over the continent. Lunch consists of salad, meat, rice, vegetables, dessert and wine. My body is saying "What's going on here?"

9 a.m. Detroit time. It's midafternoon over the Middle East and time for another movie 11 a.m. Detroit time: We open the blinds again after the movie and see that it is dark. We have flown into Somewhere over Earth, I have lost a night and an afternoon. My clock is spinning its wheels, and my stomach is afraid that they are about to serve me another

2:30 p.m. Detroit time: the midnight bells are tolling and we are about to land in Delhi, capital city of India.

I am flying with members of the Society of American Travel Writers who live east of the Mississippi. Those who live west of the big river are flying the other way around the world out of Los Angeles.

They, too, lose track of meal times and a day, somewhere over the Pacific. Does anybody know what time it is?

BITS AND PIECES: If you would like to take a trip to outer space, the Southfield Community Education Program is sponsoring one to the Michigan Space Center

A bus will leave Adler Elementary School at 12:30 p.m. for the center in Jackson. The fee, which includes bus, admission ticket and snack, is $4 for students and $5 for adults. A family rate of $3 a person applies to family groups of three or more. For information, call the Southfield public schools at 354-8500.

If you are planning a trip around Michigan this fall, tie it into one of the state's many fall festivals. The Niles apple festival and Red Flannel Day in Cedar Springs are past, but there still is time for the color cruise on Late Charlevoix Saturday.

Chief eyes pig kiss

Chief Kent Buikema (left), principal of Plymouth Canton High, casts a wary eye on his area coordinator while politely applauding the kissing of the pig. Jerry Morris, the coordinator, was chosen by Canton High students as the lucky administrator who could kiss the visitor from the Plymouth School Farm at an assembly Friday afternoon. Buikema has reason to applaud because he was one of the losers as students voted by casting pennies in jars to select who would swoon over the swine. Morris denies being a prodigal son. 8 strike days made up

New S'craft class schedule OKd

By TIM RICHARD

Schoolcraft College will use its final examination period and two Saturdays to make up eight days lost because of a strike by faculty and secretaries.

Six days late in December and two Saturdays, to be arranged, were announced jointly by the college and the Faculty Forum, bargaining agent for some 350 instructors.

Meanwhile, President C. Nelson Grote reported 200 full- and part-time students have withdrawn because of the strike. The loss of their tuition and fees reduced college revenue some $20,000, he said.

NEW SCHEDULES were distributed on campus last Thursday and Friday. Deadline for withdrawing and receiving full refunds was Friday.

But a college spokesman said that in case of "individual or extenuating circumstances," the registrar's office would hear appeals this week.

The strike ran from Sept. 25 to Oct. 4, when it was ended by a circuit court order. The college and the unions are in the process of making their cases to a state fact-finder. The process should be complete early in November.

Meanwhile, the board of trustees will meet at 8 p.m. Oct. 18 to deal with projections of lost revenue. Not only did the withdrawals cost $20,000, but enrollment is down seven to eight per cent this fall-to about 7,700 regular credit students.

"If the trend continues into the winter (beginning in January) and spring (May) semesters," Grote told the board recently, "our tuition revenue will be off $180,000 for the year. We will have to cut expenditures.

While the two-year college has never had a deficit, board chairman Paul Kadish added, "it doesn't mean the college is flush with money. There is a potential for a tuition increase. It's something no one wants to do, but . . .

HERE IS HOW the lost strike days will be made up, according to the college-union agreement: • "Dec. 15, 16, 18, 19, 20 and 21 will be added to the fall semester instructional schedule." Five of these days were to have been the final examination period. A college spokesman said instructors who give final exams would probably do so on the last day of class or within the class period. · "Two Saturdays, or other appropriate time, will be arra ged in consultation with the students, the instructors and the assistant dean to make up the additional time lost.

· "Where such arrangements are not possible, the instructor will offer additional assistance to students.

· "Part-time faculty shall make up time lost in consultation with the students and the appropriate assistant dean, subject to the approval of the coordinator of the office of instruction.

 "Counselors will arrange to make up time lost in consultation with the appropriate administrator, subject to the approval of the vice-president for student affairs.

 "Librarians will arrange to make up time lost in consultation with the appropriate administrator, subject to the approval of the coordinator of the office of instruction.

Classified Ad Work Is As Easy As...

Include The Price...

Advertising price in an ad promises greater response. Research shows that 48% of the people will not respond to an ad unless the price is advertised. That's almost half of your prospective buyers eliminated. If your price is negotiable say so in your ad.

Don't Use Abbreviations...

Another way to kill results or turn off prospective buyers is to use abbreviations. WSW, PS, CBS, PB, AC, AT, WW may be clear to you, but maybe not to your buyers and most will not take the time to figure them out. One survey showed that 42% of readers didn't know what "WSW" tire meant.

Give Enough Information...

People today want all the information they can get before they buy. People want to know all the benefits of what they purchase. Not listing all you can in your ad will cause it to run longer with fewer results. Use brand names for extra pulling power.

Stay Near Your Phone...

If you're home all the time, including just a phone number in your ad is enough. If you work or can't be home, specify what hours you can be reached. Some people will never call back if they can't reach you the first time.
