County planners postpone suggestions on sign rules

Residents who wanted to continue the township's tight strict business sign regulations are hopeful that a decision of the Wayne County Planning Commission last Wednesday will stymie alleged efforts of the township's lameduck administration to ramrod through a more liberal ordinance.

The Wayne County Planning Commission postponed making a recommendation on the proposed ordinance until Nov. 1. The ordinance would allow more businesses to erect signs not attached to the building.

Treasurer candidate Jim Donahue, one of the most vocal opponents of the proposed ordinance law, believes the postponement will make it difficult for the present township board to adopt the law before the terms of five board members expire Nov. 20.

SEVERAL POLITICIANS including Donahue, trustee candidate Robert Greenstein and trustee candidate Carol Bodenmiller vehemently objected to the proposed ordinance at the township board's Oct. 10 meeting.

The candidates accused Supervisor Harold Stein and Treasurer Anne Bradley of attempting to railroad the ordinance through without proper consideration. Both administrators will leave office Nov. 20 if their write-in campaign is not successful in the Nov. 7 election.

Donahue claims that the proposed ordinance approved by the township planning commission Oct. 9 is more lenient and business-oriented than the compromise ordinance suggested by the sign and berm committee a year ago.

The proposed ordinance, for example, would allow businesses to erect freestanding signs with an area of up to 50 square feet and a height of 15 feet. The compromise ordinance suggested by the sign and berm committee limited freestanding signs to 32 square feet in area and 10 feet in height.

Canton's current sign law, passed in 1975 under the administration of former Supervisor Greenstein, prohibited the erection of any freestanding signs.

Many opponents of the proposed ordinance believe the current sign law should be relaxed. But they also believe that the ordinance approved by the township planning commission two weeks ago sacrifices esthetics for the benefit of the business community.

ROBERT PADGET, chairman of the township planning commission, says business persons and residents alike had ample opportunity to comment on the proposed law at numerous public hearings sponsored by the planning commission.

Paget said many opponents of the proposed ordinance did not show up for the hearing.

And Stein denies all charges that he is trying to ramrod the ordinance into law before his term expires.

"We don't have to ramrod it through," Stein insisted. "Either it's a good ordinance and it will be passed. Or it isn't, and it won't be passed."

Stein said he was pleased that the Wayne County Planning Commission tabled the proposed ordinance, because "there were some questions that should be answered."

"I wasn't particularly happy to see the ordinance on the agenda (of the township board's Oct. 10 meeting), because it is such a political issue," Stein said. "I just feel it's time to get this political game over with."

New budget expected to win board approval

A 1979 operating budget totalling nearly $3.3 million is expected to win the approval of the Canton board Tuesday night.

Under the township charter, operating budgets for the fiscal year beginning Jan. 1 must be approved by midnight on Halloween. Tuesday's meeting is the last scheduled session of the board before Oct. 31.

The $3,284,000 budget formulated by finance director Mike Gorman includes $500,000 of a $1 million surplus that the township has accumulated over the years.

The township board last month approved use of the $500,000 surplus in the general fund in order to reduce the operating millage by a half mill (50 cents per $1,000 assessed property valuation).

The proposed budget allocates

$260,000 of the surplus money to the operation of the Canton Police Department in 1979. The rest of the surplus money is distributed throughout the budget.

THE PROPOSED BUDGET marks an increase of almost 20 per cent or $545,000 over the township's 1978 budget of more than $2.7 million.

The bulk of the increased revenues come from use of the $500,000 surplus. The remainder of the increased revenues comes mostly from building permits.

On the expenditure side of the proposed budget, the allocation for the fire department has been hiked from the 1978 level of $380,000 to the 1979 level of $583,000. Most of the increase will be used to finance salaries of four additional firefighters and an increase in salaries under a new union contract.

Gorman said firefighters' salaries were underestimated in the 1978 budget. Money to offset the deficit will come from other areas in the 1978 general fund.

The building department budget has been increased from $268,000 to $370,000 under the proposed budget mostly to finance salaries of additional building inspectors hired in 1978.

A line item for rubbish pickup has been increased by $124,000 to finance an increase in prices charged by a contracted rubbish pick-up firm.

Some line items, such as elections, have been decreased in the 1979 budget. No elections are scheduled in the 1979 fiscal year.

"In general, though, there isn't a whole lot of difference between this year's budget and next year's," Gorman said.

Cops nab eight in drug bust

Eight people were arrested last week following the first major drug bust in Canton.

A Canton woman and Westland man have been charged with delivering cocaine. Six others were charged with loitering after Canton, Westland and Michigan State Police closed in on an apartment in the Village Squire complex Tuesday.

Sgt. Dennis Joker, of the Canton police department, said the woman was a "middle level dealer" and the man was a "street level dealer." The three police forces had been working on the case for four months.

Joker would not release the names of the suspects.

The alleged dealers were also charged with holding LSD and marijuana. A conviction of dealing cocaine can carry a sentence of as many as 20 years per count. The woman has been charged with four counts of dealing; the man has been charged with two.

The six other persons arrested, whose names were not revealed, are Detroit, Southfield, Westland, Plymouth and Ypsilanti residents.

Joker said "just about everyone" in the Canton police department had been involved in the investigation at one time or another.

In the bright red robes reserved for a "prince of the church," Karol Cardinal Wojtyla helped to lead Poland's celebration of St. Stanislaus Day. The national patron saint's feast day has been celebrated for 899 years by a procession from Wawel Castle to the place of his execution. This picture, taken May 14, 1978, records the last time Cardinal Wojtyla, who became Pope John Paul II, the first Polish pope in the history of the Roman Catholic Church, will help lead the celebration in Krakow.

Polish seminarian recalls historic day

By MICHAEL MATUSZEWSKI

"They told me to be sure to get some pictures of Cardinal Wisczynski. Who would have ever guessed I'd be getting shots of a future pope," said Chester Krysa, a SS. Cyril & Methodius seminarian.

Krysa spent a year at a Krakow seminary. It was there that he met Karol Cardinal Wojtyla, who last week became Pope John Paul II.

The Orchard Lake seminarian remembers May 14 of this year. It was Poland's 899th celebration of St. Stanislaus Day, a holiday commemorating the Catholic country's national patron saint.

It may also have been, his friends in Krakow told him, the last St. Stanislaus Day celebration for Stefan Cardinal Wisczynski. Cardinal Wisczynski, a long-outspoken opponent of communism, had been imprisoned in Eastern Europe and it was said his health was failing.

It could be the last time for the crusading Polish cardinal to walk the path from Wawel Castle near Krakow to the Escarpment, where in 1079, St. Stanislaus was executed by order of Polish King Boleslaw. Krysa likened St. Stanislaus death to that of Thomas of Becket, who was ordered killed by English King Henry VIII.

"It wasn't a bright day," Krysa recalls. "But it was good for taking photographs."

"Everybody told me 'be sure to get Wisczynski.' Nobody was too worried about Cardinal Wojtyla. He was only 58. Everybody thought for sure he'd be around for the 900th anniversary," Krysa said.

The year is up

Found money to go home

By DARLENE STINSON

If it weren't for their honest ways, Dale and Lorna Christoffersen would be $875 richer today.

The Nebraska couple has learned the hard way that finders aren't always keepers. And that reporting a wad of bills found under your motel bed doesn't mean that you can keep the unclaimed cash.

But Christoffersens, who farms 160 acres near the tiny town of Hay Springs, Neb., isn't ready to challenge a recommendation that the money he found in a Canton motel 13 months ago be split three ways.

The money the Christoffersens so faithfully reported may wind up with the Nebraska farmers, Canton Township and the owner of the motel.

THE CHRISTOFFERSENS' story began more than a year ago when the couple was taking a pre-harvest vacation. On the way to a friend's home in the Michigan thumb area, the couple stopped at Canton's Willo-Acres Motel on Michigan Avenue for the night.

Before leaving in the morning, Mrs. Christoffersen took a quick peek under the motel bed to make sure she hadn't left her socks behind.

Instead, she discovered a newspaper wrapped around $875 in loose bills.

"I thought we just had to report it," Christoffersen recalled in a telephone interview with the Observer on Monday. So, he and his wife immediately called the Wayne County Sheriff's Department.

But instead of filling out a report and handing the money back to the Christoffersens, sheriff deputies stashed the money in their department's vault for a year's safe-keeping.

Deputies told the couple that if the money were not claimed within a year, part of the sum would be awarded to Canton Township under a state law written in the 1840s.

The other portion of the money would be given to the Christoffersens or any other person who filed a claim the money.

BILL MCINTYRE of the Wayne County Corporation Counsel has been pondering division of the Christoffersens' windfall for the last few months.

The Christoffersens and R.J. Peterson, owner of the motel, have filed claims for the money. The person who stashed the money under the motel bed has never asked for return of the cash.

Last week, McIntyre sent letters to the Christoffersens, Peterson and Canton Township suggesting that the money be split three ways.

Canton man killed in bloodbath

A 26-year-old Westland man is listed in fair condition and a Canton man is dead following a shooting spree in Ypsilanti and Van Buren townships in which five people were killed and three others injured.

Dead is Daniel E. Wood, 38, of 50160 Geddes in Canton Township. Recovering from gun shot wounds at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ypsilanti is Bobby Baker, 5995 Wildwood in Westland.

Wood was killed and Baker was wounded while working at the Stiles Wood Corporation, 1505 Beverly in Ypsilanti Township. Also wounded at the plant was Tommy Lee Brown of Tecumseh.

Baker was discovered outside the plant by a passerby about 6 a.m., which is believed to be about two hours after the shooting occurred.

According to Det. Sgt. Jack Beeson of the Ypsilanti State Police post, Baker and Brown were shot and Wood was killed as the three worked in the early morning hours at the metal working factory.

Murder warrants have been issued against Billy Hardesty, 21, for the deaths of Wood, and Timothy Schofield and Troy Curry, who were killed as they left an Ypsilanti bar.

Wood is the brother of Hardesty's ex-wife.

Beeson said an investigation is continuing in the deaths of Hardesty's parents, Ronald and Janette, and the shootings of Baker and Brown.

Hardesty was arrested more than six hours after the shooting began at about 2 a.m. Thursday, but not before he was wounded in a gun battle with police at his parents' home south of Belleville in Van Buren Township, where he had been staying for the last six months.

Hardesty is in fair condition at St. Joseph's, according to a hospital spokesperson. He is under guard by City of Ypsilanti police, Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputies and state police.

CANDIDATES PROFILED

Two of the three candidates running for the office of Canton Township supervisor are profiled on page 4A and 5A of today's Observer. More candidate profiles will appear in future issues.

Levin promotes leftist image conservatively

By TIM RICHARD

Carl Levin is careful to use the word "no" as often as "yes."

The Democratic U.S. Senate nominee talks like a conservative Republican when the topic is the growing power of the federal administration.

But he's still a liberal on "real" tax reform, federal medical care and public works spending.

The 43-year-old attorney and eight-year veteran of the Detroit Common Council paused between speaking engagements last week to answer questions from Observer & Eccentric Newspapers editors. The questions had earlier been put to incumbent Republican Sen. Robert Griffin.

LEVIN INSISTED on turning a discussion about public transportation in southeast Michigan into a total transportation discussion covering the entire state.

"I'm for a complete statewide

CARL LEVIN
'No' on bureaucracy improvement of the transportation system," he said. "It must be comprehensive. It should benefit everybody."

Levin cited roads, bridges, ferries, buses and rapid transit. The original question had been only on rapid transit. The Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority is pondering alternative plans (some involving underground rail lines) with $1 billion price tags. But SEMTA has only $600 million in federal funds committed and will get only $200 million more from state-local sources. Would Levin support the bill of Sen. Harrison Williams (D-N.J.) to fund more rapid transit?

"I won't commit to any fixed amount in billions," Levin said, adding he would want to view transit funding in the total context of the federal budget.

THE ANSWER was yes on federal funding of K-12 schools. "It's a valid goal, a good goal," he said of a National Education Association proposal that the U.S. should fund one-third of the cost of local K-12 schooling. At present, the federal share of local school budgets is in the 5-10 per cent range, mostly for specialized programs.

Federal funding, he said, "would take pressure off the property tax." Levin added he favors the Headlee (Proposal E) tax limitation plan on the Nov. 7 ballot but opposes the Tisch tax cut (J) and the voucher plan (H).

Levin wasn't bothered, as Griffin had been, by the prospect of the federal government using public works money to build city halls and community buildings in the suburbs or anywhere else.

"Those were counter-cyclical projects," he said of the late 1976 public works grants. "The suburbs were hit by high unemployment, too. These projects were aimed at those areas."

"But that recent pork barrel bill was bad. President Carter was right to veto it."

LEVIN GETS most excited when the topic is the federal bureaucracy. He deplores "red tape and waste" in general and names names when asked to

• CETA, the Comprehensive Employment Training Act—"it's being used to destroy seniority," Levin cited Genesee County and the City of Detroit, both of which were told to hire new employees with CETA funds rather than recall experienced senior

'The theme of my campaign is that the legislative branch must re-assert itself. I want to avoid the appearance of being in debt to the president.'

be specific.

• Housing and Urban Development—"a catastrophe." He cited HUD rules governing a system of mortgage loans in which HUD said it wouldn't implement the program until the national rate of defaults on mortgages hit a key "trigger point." Levin likened the HUD rule to "refusing to do anything about flooding in Boston because until the rest of the East Coast is flooded, too."

• HUD again—its insistence on combining low-income family housing with senior citizen housing. "There's nothing in the law that says one (senior citizen housing) can be held hostage to the other (low income)," Levin said. (Many suburban senior citizen housing projects are in limbo because of HUD's insistence that low-income family housing be added.)

employees who had been laid off.

• Department of Transportation—requirement that any bridge for a federal highway be at least three lanes. This administrative ruling is upsetting Bay City because a three-lane bridge would require a longer span that would bypass business areas.

• Federal timetables—the City of Menominee needs a water treatment plant but was unable to file its application for federal funds because of a time limit. So Menominee went after and got federal funding for a city hall "which it didn't need as much as it needed a water works."

Levin's solution to all the problems is to have Congress approve—or at least have a chance to veto—all administrative rules and regulations. What's happening now, he said, is that "unaccountable bureaucrats are rening the laws of this country" and ignoring the intent of Congress.

WHILE LEVIN sounds much like Griffin on the bureaucracy issue, he would have voted differently on the Panama Canal treaties, both of which Griffin opposed.

"I would have voted yes. So would Griffin if (Republican Gerald) Ford had been in the White House. Ford was for the canal treaties. But when Carter was for the treaties, Griffin changed his mind and became a floor leader against them," Levin said.

Levin is running such a strong anti-bureaucracy campaign that he doesn't want help from President Jimmy Carter. "The theme of my campaign is that the legislative branch must re-assert itself. I want to avoid the appearance of being in debt to the president," he said.

But he has no such problems about accepting help from Vice-President Walter Mondale, who made a Southfield speech for Levin last week, because "Mondale comes out of the legislative branch."

Clarence Lienau (left), assisted by Kim Keast, harvest peony roots for the spring pleasures of flower lovers.

This last crop of field corn awaits the reaper.

Bringing in the sheaves

Farmers gather autumn crops

Ode to Autumn

Season of mists and mellow fruitfulness,
Close-bosomed friend of the maturing sun;
Conspiring with him how to load and bless
With fruits that round the thatched eaves

—John Keats

Working under the fading rays of the autumn sun, area farmers celebrate the end of the growing season with the harvest, a time waxed eloquent by poets for centuries.

From Robert Herrick in the 17th century to Emily Dickinson in the 19th, poets have managed to capture the essence of autumn—the ripe, lush fruit, the golden colors produced in one last frenzy before winter's barren stroke ices the horizon, the crisp awakening, the sluggish days of Indian Summer, when nature soothes the senses with a final clutch at warmer times.

For the farmer, autumn is the season of fruition—when all the year's work is narrowed into a few weeks of harvest.

The aging field corn, the startling pumpkins grown mammoth on a long feed, the multi-toned squash, and the scarlet apples present themselves for the final reward.

The bee-keeper must extract the honey from its summer storage, before returning the honeycombs to their builders.

For Canton Township harvester Clarence Lienau, it's time to harvest peony roots. Lienau's showcase of peonies in the spring garners orders for the showy perennials.

Thus, in the fall, Lienau takes three long-handled metal shovels and places them around an individual plant, prying the entire plant out of the ground.

That's a difficult task, as the roots are stubborn in their resistance to leaving the still-warm earth. Once the roots are removed, they're divided, allotting a few "eyes" to each customer.

For $3-20, the customer purchases the root section and plants it in the yard in the fall, where after a long winter's hibernation, the root will prosper next spring. If all goes well, the peonies bloom in the spring, signaling the end of snow and ice.

Plymouth Township farmer Guy Bunyea and his sidekick inspect this year's crop of mellow pumpkins. (Photos by Bob Cameron)

Even the honeycombs are scraped bare before their return to the rightful owners.

Kernel-hard field corn is among the last crops to be harvested during the autumnal season.

Longridge runs a quiet race

It's possible that some Canton residents don't know that John Longridge is running for township supervisor.

Longridge, the sole Republican running for the office, is also the quietest one.

While other candidates sling mud and shout insults to each other, Longridge has vowed to run a clean campaign.

Is he keeping a low profile because of that commitment, or because he has nothing to say?

Longridge does have strong opinions on Canton issues, but admits to changing one position slightly since the primary.

He was opposed to a development rights purchase plan, but now he perceives it as a good theory—except that he doesn't think millage for it will pass.

Longridge says he thinks two mills would be sufficient to begin the program and believes more financial help could be sought from state and federal sources.

He thinks zoning regulations and discretion in issuing building permits would also help control township growth.

He feels an orderly development of growth is vital, because Canton is almost at full sewer capacity.

He proposes to cut government spending, but he supports increasing community services.

He promotes activities for senior citizens and encourages more senior citizen involvement in growth management and zoning.

Senior citizen tax relief and better transportation are other projects Longridge supports.

The candidate has always been involved in activities for youngsters and would like to see hockey, gymnastics, soccer and baseball encouraged for youngsters.

Longridge is supportive of local businesses. He wants to institute tax incentives for industry and business to develop a larger industrial tax base and "reduce the tax load for residents."

He promises to work with small business owners to come up with a sign ordinance—not necessarily more liberal—"to benefit the entire community."

Important as he considers these issues, Longridge seems to hold more and better recreation programs as one of his major goals in office if elected. "The new recreation budget is up this year, but I haven't seen any plans, real or unreal. I've only seen lip service," Longridge says.

"I support a young adult program. What has the township given youths? We could have youth dances and summer job placement services."

Longridge promises to "work very hard" with the Wayne County Road Commission to get plans to pave Warren earlier.

"With the excess we have in the general fund, we could purchase our own street cleaner and road grader."

The candidate wants to see the Wayne County Board of Commissioners take more responsibility for the road commission. Road commission directors are appointed by county commissioners.

Most of the money for the department comes from gas and weight taxes, not from personal or property tax.

Longridge takes police concerns to heart, and has a background that explains his position. He is now a design engineer for Ford Motor Co. and is on leave from the Canton Police Department.

He has served as president of the Canton Police Officers' Association (CPOA) and rallied behind the move to get a 24-hour police force in the township.

His support of recreation programs stems from years of involvement in several junior sports associations.

Longridge bills himself as "the one candidate who listens." Whether a soft spoken approach to campaigning will have impact remains to be seen.

Canton seems to be a prime spot for the outspoken, volatile candidate. The squeaky wheel always seems to get the votes.

Longridge's critics say he's a nice guy, but he can't handle the demands of the supervisor position.

Supporters say he can be effective without constantly beating his own drum.

The outcome of the Nov. 7th general election will prove whether Longridge's quiet voice will get lost in the din of politicking.

Rewards of honesty split

"It's just a suggested solution," McIntyre said. "I'll cross that bridge when I come to it if all three parties don't sign the agreement."

McIntyre said the case will have to go to court if either the Christoffersens, Peterson or Canton Township decide to "wangle" over the money.

But none of the parties appear ready for a lawsuit.

Canton Township may even be willing to give up its share of the money. Township Clerk John Flodin plans to bring up the matter before the township board next Tuesday.

"It just seems to me that Christoffersen should get it," Flodin said.

"He was so honest about the whole thing."

Peterson has already signed and mailed the letter he received from McIntyre and says he is more than pleased to take a third of the money. Peterson believes he is entitled to a share of the cash because it was found in the motel that he has owned for 11 years.

THE MOTEL owner said he has a "good idea" who left the money under the motel bed more than a year ago. But Peterson said the man who lived in room 16 for about a year has refused to file a claim for the cash.

"It wasn't gambling money," Peterson insisted. "The man had a good income. But when I talked to him, he said he didn't leave it. And I can't force it on him."

The Christoffersens aren't bitter about the prospects of sharing their discovery, but they are unable to hide their disappointment.

"But what are we going to do?" Christoffersen asked. "We live a long way from Detroit."

The Nebraska residents admit they could use the money. They plant their entire 160 acres in corn "which isn't getting a very good price this year," Christoffersen said.

But asked if he'd take the money and run if he could relive his stay at the Willo-Acres Motel, Christoffersen took a long pause.

"Well, I don't know," he said. "It seemed like quite a little bit of money to us."

Culbert has 3 goals for top job

Noel Culbert firmly believes he will be the next supervisor of Canton Township.

The assumption isn't off base, if past voting practices are taken into account. Canton has traditionally been a Democratic stronghold, and Culbert is the official Democratic candidate for supervisor after his substantial victory in the August primary.

He defeated Supervisor Harold Stein in that race, but Stein has thrown in the political hat for the general election anyway.

The Democratic vote could be split between Culbert and write-in candidate Stein just enough to give the election to Republican supervisor candidate John Longridge.

If Culbert is nervous about that possibility, he isn't saying.

Culbert, along with most of the candidates for offices in the upcoming elections, maintains that he "never wanted to be a politician."

"I thought the township was heading in the wrong direction, and I want to change that," he says.

He's set three main goals for his term of office when (Culbert says when, not if) he's elected.

The goals, in order of importance, are: To establish homeowner protection through ordinances, achieve balanced zoning; and to establish growth control.

CULBERT SAYS he doesn't expect it to be easy to achieve these goals, but he is publicly committing himself to trying.

There will be many pitfalls along the way for any supervisor with these goals.

Culbert doesn't think growth control through a unique land development rights purchase plan will become a reality because he doesn't believe voters will approve an increase of up to four mills to implement the program.

"It's the wrong time to put a question like that on the ballot," he says.

Indeed, asking for more millage on the same ballot with three proposals to reduce or eliminate property taxes seems a sure ticket to defeat.

Taxpayers are in a rebellious mood. Although the idea of purchasing development rights received overwhelming voter support when it was put on the ballot in a previous election, asking people to pay for it may yield an entirely different result.

Culbert thinks voters might have been willing to pass a millage increase of one or two mills, which he feels would have been enough to get the program started.

NOEL CULBERT

The candidate accuses the present administration of deliberately asking too much in order to thwart the program, and says the proposal isn't being pushed hard enough or with commitment by current elected officials.

"IF IT'S GOOD for Canton, why aren't the administrators pushing it?" he asks.

Culbert says there are other options if the proposal doesn't make it at the polling place.

He suggests a strong effort to get federal funding and believes the program could be accomplished with zoning regulations.

Culbert basically supports both the Tisch and Headlee tax limitation proposals on the November ballot because he thinks "it'll shake government up."

He is less enthusiastic about attempting to deal with the Tisch proposal, which slashes property taxes in half if it is actually voted in.

"The Headlee proposal wouldn't cause any real problem in Canton."

"But tax revenue lost by the Tisch proposal would have to be made up somehow."

Culbert says some fees for services could be raised, and the township could tax such things as cigarette machines.

"I want to avoid income taxes, and I think we can trim some of the fat off township programs," he says.

One of Culbert's pet issues is the protection of homeowners, whom he thinks have often been cheated in quality on new houses.

"If we withhold building permits, it will cut into builder's profits and they won't like it."

"But if we adopt an ordinance giving us power over building violations, it could be a light in the wilderness for Canton homeowners," says Culbert, who adds that it usually isn't worthwhile for homeowners to sue for incomplete or inadequate work done on their houses.

Culbert should know. He is an attorney, one well familiar with the word "sue."

He says he's thinking of suing the Wayne County Road Commission because "Canton is not getting its money's worth of road services."

He's thinking of suing or filing charges with the state election board because he feels opponents have distributed untrue information about him.

Before he's through, Culbert may be suing even more parties.

Culbert ran for trustee and lost during the 1976 election, at which time he vowed to keep out of politics.

He says he'll think twice about running for re-election if he gets into the supervisor's seat and can't realize his goals.

Blaze damages historic clubhouse

By KATHY PARKER

Faulty wiring in two light fixtures were responsible for a fire that ripped through the attic of an Oakland University clubhouse Tuesday. Heavy damage was limited to upper portions of the 63-year-old building.

That's the assessment of fire officials in Avon Township, who set the damage estimate to the building at $25,000. OU officials, however, believe the figure is closer to $150,000.

Richard Light, OU assistant vice-president for business affairs, said insurance adjusters will determine a final figure by Wednesday. The building carried an insured value of $75,000.

Formerly a lodge and retreat for deceased auto pioneer John F. Dodge, the Tudor-style clubhouse was about to undergo renovation and open in the spring as a clubhouse for the adjacent Katke-Cousins golf course.

OU opened the golf course in 1977. Marvin Katke and Harold Cousins, both Bloomfield Hills residents, donated a combined $500,000 to construct the course. They also contributed about $50,000 to the renovation project.

Light said he does not believe the renovation will be delayed for a substantial length of time, because the fire was contained in the attic.

THE LOWER LEVEL is proposed for the major part of the renovation, where an Olympic-sized swimming pool will be closed off, locker rooms and showers installed, and a pro shop and office for the golf course pro will be built.

The upper level will remain intact and be used as a meeting room and lounge. The entire building has been used in recent years by university students seeking quarters for parties, meetings and other group activities.

The fire was reported to Avon firefighters about 3:20 p.m., 10 minutes after two workmen weatherproofing the roof noticed smoke. Avon Fire Chief Mark Belkoff estimates that the fire began about 2:55 p.m. Firemen arrived within five minutes of receiving the call, and had the fire under control within an hour, he said.

Photographers Janet Oliver and Jeff Krauth pooled energies to catch firefighters in efforts.

Firemen from Rochester and Pontiac Township fire departments were on standby during the blaze and Troy Fire Chief James Halsey also was on the scene.

OU officials praised the performance of the Avon firemen and credited them with containing the fire and minimizing damages. Avon Fire Inspector Greg Walterhouse said the firemen were aided by the new water system recently installed on the Meadow Brook estate portion of the campus.

BELKOFF SAID his loss estimate, which OU officials call low, is based on the need for a new roof on the building and some basic carpentry work.

Light said he believed the insurance adjusters would find the damage estimate "somewhere in the middle," between $25,000 and $150,000.

"It's very difficult to determine," he said. "Some of the wood in the building is irreplaceable. One of the virtues of what we had was that it was so old."

He said workmen have been removing some of the oak paneling and hand-carved moldings that suffered smoke and water damage. Solid oak beams, marble and polished wood floors also must be reconditioned.

Belkoff said that although the final decision will rest with the insurance adjuster, he will stick by the $25,000 estimate, particularly since Avon Township is reimbursed for fighting fires at state-owned buildings, based solely on the insured value.

Canton flounders again; 'No excuses' — Schuele

By SCOTT ADLER

For the For Walled Lake Western Friday night was a complete success. A new homecoming queen was elected and the Warriors varsity football team whipped a favored Plymouth Canton squad, 25-6.

It was a battle for fourth place in the Western Six League and Western completely dominated the game from start to finish, both offensively and defensively. It was the Chiefs second attempt for that elusive school record fourth win and marks the first time the Chiefs record dropped below .500, 3-4.

Western officially finished in the fourth place spot in the Western Six with a 2-3 record and the Chiefs finished in fifth at 1-4.

Heading into this final loop game both Canton and the Warriors lone victories in the league were over the hapless Waterford Mott Corsairs. Canton's was an impressive 18-0 victory while Western's was anything but impressive, nipping Mott, 7-6.

The Chiefs were forced to punt their first three possessions before making a first down while holding their own defensively against Western's tough offensive line. Western got rolling late in the first quarter after a fine coffin corner punt by Canton's Steve Eddy that ended up at the Warriors four yard line. Just when the Chiefs looked to have the upper hand, Western halfback John Meyer went off tackle for a 96 yard touchdown run and from then on the Chiefs led to their own defeat. The Warriors faked an extra point and passed for the two point conversion to make the score, 8-0, with 17 seconds remaining in the first quarter.

Walled Lake Western's next score came on a 32 yard field goal making it 11-0 after a seven play drive that included 20 yards in penalties against the Warriors.

Steve Gray intercepted a Mike Bryant pass for the Chiefs late in the second quarter on their own 25 yard line but Canton's offense failed to capitalize.

With 7:40 remaining in the third quarter and trailing 11-0, the Chiefs punt was blocked and recovered by Western on the Canton one yard line. Bryant reached paydirt for the Warriors on the first play with a quarterback sneak and after the extra point the Chiefs found themselves down 18-0 and steadily losing ground on the raging Warriors.

Western capitalized on an interception of Scott Dawson with four minutes left in the third quarter and held the ball for nearly five more minutes and scored for the last time to take a 25-0 lead.

The Chiefs then put together their first strong drive of the evening, moving the ball from their own 36 yard line to Western's 34 only to fail on a fourth-and-six situation. Halfback Rusty Mandle ran off tackle for five of his 25 yards on 10 carries but fell but one yard short of the first down, handing the ball back to the Warriors.

Canton Coach Dave Schuele said he was not surprised at the Warriors strong offensive showing. He also refused to say that despite an injury-riddled Mandle and Eddy playing with an illness stopped the Chiefs. He added, "we don't have any excuses, they were just a better team tonight. That's all I can say."

Salem secures 2d place; defeats Edsel Ford, 22-8

By DENNIS O'CONNOR

Plymouth Salem proved it was the second-best team in the Suburban Eight League Friday afternoon when it defeated Dearborn Edsel Ford, 22-8, in football action at the Thunderbird gridiron.

Despite suffering from many bumps and bruises after last week's setback to Trenton, the Rocks managed to score on their first two possessions to take control of the game.

The Rocks added a field goal at the end of the first half to make it 15-0 before both teams scored one touchdown each in the second half.

The victory gives the once-beaten Salem squad a solid hold on second place in the Sub-8 standings going into Friday's homecoming battle against winless Bentley.

Trenton all but secured the Sub-8 title with a 28-21 victory over Dearborn. The Trojans are still unbeaten after seven games and are headed to a state-playoff berth. Dearborn and Edsel Ford, both 5-2 on the year, will battle for third place next week.

Salem is all but assured of a victory over Bentley, which lost its seventh game of the season to Belleville, 6-0, Friday. The Rocks defeated Belleville earlier this year, 66-0.

"I THOUGHT OUR kids did a great job coming back after a tough loss," coach Tom Moshimer said after the Edsel Ford game. "I didn't think it would be this easy. I don't know if they (Edsel Ford) were down. They looked a little beat up like us."

After Salem scored those first two touchdowns in the initial period, it looked like it might be a run-away against what is considered a strong Edsel Ford squad. But the game was played evenly after the 12-0 lead.

"It wasn't one of our better games," Moshimer said of his injury-riddled team. "We are beat up and we looked sluggish."

THE ROCKS wasted no time in scoring the game's first touchdown driving the ball 73 yards in only seven plays after the opening kickoff. Once again, it was Salem's big-play offense which resulted in the six-pointer, as junior halfback Craig Stack broke a dive play off the right-side of the offensive line 48 yards for the 6-0 lead.

Stack, a speedy underclassman, carried the ball on five of the seven plays in the drive totalling 46 yards. In all, he was the game's leading rusher with 168 yards in 16 carries—his best performance of the season.

Rich Hanschu's extra-point kick was wide to the right.

Defensive back Jim Daratony set up Salem's second touchdown when he intercepted a wobbly pass from Edsel Ford southpaw quarterback Jamie Bedenis on the Thunderbird's first possession of the afternoon.

This time it took only four plays for the Rocks to travel 65 yards for a touchdown. Stack ran inside three times before All-State quarterback Rich Hewlett called the first option play of the game and raced outside for 54 yards and the touchdown. Hewlett finished the game with eight carries and 81 yards.

The Rocks tried to make it an even 14-0 but failed on an extra-point pass, keeping the score at 12-0 with four minutes left in the first quarter.

The Thunderbirds' next two possessions carried them inside the Salem 10-yard line on both occasions. But that stern Rock defense held each time keeping the Rocks ahead by 12 points.

After Salem's second score, Edsel Ford travelled from its own 40-yard

Fast-breaking Chiefs whip Western, 74-45

By SCOTT ADLER

The Plymouth Canton girls basketball team chalked up another win Thursday over Western Six rival Walled Lake Western, 74-45. The win boosted the Chiefs record to 10-1 overall and 5-0 in league play.

Prior to the game, one might have wondered if the Chiefs were looking ahead to Tuesday when they take on what Coach Mike McCauley calls "our biggest test" in Livonia Bentley. But Canton erased any of those thoughts in the opening period when it nearly blew the Warriors out of the gym.

After taking a 23-7 first quarter lead, Canton's momentum sputtered, and the Chiefs lost some of that huge lead midway in the second stanza—only to regain it and take a 37-20 lead into the locker room.

Whatever coach McCauley said at halftime must have worked because the Chiefs put on an awesome offensive display scoring 28 third-quarter points while holding Western scoreless for more than five minutes.

The Chiefs overall quickness was obvious as they scored on fast break after fast break and steal after steal to run the score to 63-30 heading into the final stanza.

McCauley, however, was not happy with his team's total fouls—29. But he could not complain about his team's unbelievable defense which caused 40 Western turnovers to only 12 for the speedy Chiefs.

"They have improved (Walled Lake Western) since last year," said McCauley.

Despite playing only half the game, Kelly Heaton was the game's leading scorer with 18 points. Junior Jill Pedersen turned in perhaps her finest performance of the season with 13 points and numerous steals.

Kathie Peck, the quickest member of this Canton squad, started her first game this season and scored 12 points. The Chiefs super-sub, Beth Myrtle, tossed in 12 points. Senior Co-captain Evie Pasek dished out a game high seven assists for the Chiefs.

The Chiefs played without junior guard Vicki Cavallaro for three quarters when she twisted her left ankle. She will compete in Tuesday's game against Bentley.

Canton's junior varsity romped the Western JV by a score of 56-17. Pearlle Cunningham, Coach Pat Cunningham's younger sister, tossed in 12 points along with guard Susie Pierce's nine. The JV record now stands at 9-1.

Salem cagers still perfect; beat Allen Park, 63-18

Plymouth Salem's girls' basketball express keeps on running.

The undefeated Rocks, 11-0, won again against Suburban Eight League foe Allen Park, 63-18, Thursday night at the Jaguars' gym.

Salem currently stands 5-0 in the Sub-8 race but must face Dearborn tomorrow night in a league showdown. This game will mark the end of the first-half of loop action.

Dearborn has lost only to Bentley in league competition. A victory over the Rocks would create a first-place tie in the standings. If Salem were to win this home game, however, it would give the unbeaten squad a comfortable two-game lead in the race. Game time is 8:15 p.m. at the Salem gym.

The Rocks, coached by Bob Blohm, prepared for this big battle with an easy triumph over the hapless Jaguars. Although Allen Park showed aggressiveness throughout the game, it was clear Salem had too much talent for the home team to handle.

Once again, Salem's strong, man-to-man defense was the key to victory. Allen Park scored the first field goal of the contest, but Salem proceeded to score 14 straight points, while keeping the Jaguars off the board the remainder of the period.

The Rocks had trouble getting their offense going in the second quarter, scoring only 10 points to take a 24-11 advantage at halftime. Salem scored 19 points in the third quarter and 20 more in the fourth period, however, and limited the Jaguars to only seven the entire second half to secure the romp.

All 10 Salem players saw action in the contest. All but one cager scored. Diane Goodrich, a senior starting forward, once again sat out the game with a nagging knee injury.

Salem's offensive attack was led by junior co-captain Nan Horwood with 14 points. Junior Patty Weidman added 12, while Peggy Somers and Cheryl Sobkow contributed 10 each. It was Somers second-straight strong offensive showing of the week.

Chiefs tie Western

By M. DAVID CAMPBELL

The Plymouth Salem girls swim team raised its win-loss record to 7-2, after a triumph over Livonia Bentley, 96-77, Thursday night at Salem. The Rocks found the Bulldogs a new team, as compared to last year. Bentley has a second year coach, and much more enthusiasm. Salem's head coach, Chuck Olson, was impressed with the Livonian's new attitude.

Renee Lakatos, Karen Kohler, Sue Evans, and Linda Frazee combined their talents and placed second in the 200 yard medley relay, with a time of 2:10.1. As expected, Sarah Stanwood won the 200 yard freestyle, in 2:05.6. Sharon Ross copped first in the 500 yard freestyle in 5:38.6, and the 200 yard individual medley, clocking 2:25.5. The 50- yard freestyle was dominated by Jill McCann, timing :27.2.

The divers gave the Rocks a boost, taking first, second, and third. All three had their best nights of the season. Junior Natilie McClumpha placed first with 179.55 points, and Patty Larson placed second with 167.95. Kathy Radgens, who just started a little over a month ago, showed promising improvement, taking third. Radgens scored her career high, 134.35.

For the third time this season, Stanwood broke her record in the 100-yard butterfly. This time she cut it down to 1:01.8. Jill McCann placed first in the 100-yard backstroke in 1:07.11. The 400-yard freestyle team, consisting of Kim Coates, McCann, Ross, and Stanwood placed first, with 4:05.8. Olson was pleased with his girls performance but gave Bentley much credit.

"Bentley had a lot of new girls, and they gave us a good meet all the way through."

CANTON-WL WESTERN

When the Plymouth Canton girls swim coach Anne Massey said Thursday's meet against Walled Lake Western would be close she wasn't kidding anyone, as the final score was tied, 86-86. The Chiefs' record is now 3-

2-1. Massey said, "It was a very close meet, it couldn't have been any closer."

However, the Chiefs had 13 of their 21 individual event times improved. The 200-yard medley relay team of Cindi Shelansky, Lisa Forsythe, Bron-

Doc whacked again

Sports Editor:

In your "Doc's Corner" column of Thurs. Oct. 9, you solicited response to Doug Funke's column regarding disclosure of the names of three Livonia Franklin football players dismissed from the team for disciplinary reasons. In light of this request, we wish to advise you that we are in complete opposition to your and columnist Funke's point of view.

If the boys violated a team rule and were subsequently suspended, then they are justly suffering the consequences of their actions. Public disclosure of their names would not help them and, indeed, would probably permanently damage their reputations. Please remember that high school athletes are usually 15, 16, and 17-year old students, not professional performers.

Most responsible journalists protect the identity of minors, even those involved in far more serious offenses. Should being an athlete, with all of the time, energy, and sacrifice this entails, deprive one of the protection other minors enjoy?

The rights of these individual minors certainly far outweigh any "right of the public to know." A sports column should not be a gossip column.

Rock runners fall again

Talk about running into a buzzsaw.

The Plymouth Salem cross country team suffered its worst defeat of the season Thursday afternoon, falling to powerful Dearborn Edsel Ford, 15-45.

It wasn't that Salem ran that poorly. The Thunderbirds simply have one of the best teams around, said Rocks coach Scott Durson.

"Out of all the teams I've seen this season, they (Edsel Ford) are among the best three," the first-year coach said.

The Thunderbirds are clearly the team to beat in the Sub-8 league meet tomorrow at Cass Benton. The Rocks, who finished in third place last year, are looking at second place as a realistic goal and will try to perform better than in recent weeks.

"We ran through this meet so our times are a little down," Durson said about the Edsel Ford meet. "We still had six kids below 18 minutes. We were trying to peak for the league meet but Edsel Ford was still tough."

Salem didn't place a runner in the top six spots against the Thunderbirds. Paul Hess was the best Salem runner with a seventh-place finish at 17:32. The winning time on the Dearborn course was 16:16.

Durson feels his team is capable of finishing second in the league meet, despite losing its last five dual meets. Salem is 5-5 overall.

The Sub-8 event solely determines the finish of all the squads. Trenton, Dearborn, and Belleville will be the Rocks' stiffest competition for the runners-up spot.

wyn Fitzgerald, and Kim Massey, placed their usual first, clocking 2:09.0. Forsythe also got a first in the 200-yard freestyle with a time of 2:15.3.

Mary Reardon placed second in the 200-yard individual medley, with 2:38.2. Massey, for the first time in her career, swam the 50-yard freestyle, and placed first with an impressive 27.5. In the 100-yard butterfly, Forsythe placed first again, in 1:09.9.

Despite Shelansky's tendinitis in her shoulder, her performance was far from disappointing, as again she placed first, with 1:11.3.

Reardon placed first in the 500-yard freestyle, clocking 6:25.1. Missy McMurray also placed first in the 100-yard freestyle, in 1:05.9.9.

On Tuesday, Massey broke her old record in the 100-yard breaststroke, and in this meet, she did the same thing. Massey shaved her time from 1:18.4 to 1:17.7. To add to the glory, she placed first.

Canton netters place 5th in league

By BETTY DeLANO

The Plymouth Canton girls tennis season has come to an end for the Chiefs and with it came a fifth place finish in the Western Six League. The Canton finish was one step above last year's final standing.

League meet competition was the final act of the Canton netters improved season. The meet was hosted by the Canton squad at the Centennial Park courts on Tuesday.

The second and third doubles teams were the only victors during the first round for the Chiefs in the league tourney. Second doubles Bridget McNamara and Kim Young defeated their opponents from Livonia Churchill in straight sets 6-3, 6-1 while the team of Julie Kraus and Barb Rupprecht defeated their Walled Lake Western foes after two easy sets 6-4, 6-3.

McNamara and Young were later defeated in the second round by Northville after split sets 6-4, 3-6, 1-6. Kraus and Rupprecht also lost in the second round in split sets 4-6, 6-3, 3-6. Waterford Mott went on to win the second doubles championship, and Northville took the third doubles title.

First singles Kathy Kidston has had a discouraging season this year as she was again defeated 2-6, 0-6 by Waterford Mott. Second singles Eileen McGinn also lost in the first round 3-6, 2-6, to Livonia Churchill. Farmington Harrison took both titles for first and second singles.

Freshman Lori Smith was eliminated in first round third-singles play by Walled Lake Western 3-6, 1-6, and Julie Swain lost in the fourth singles competition in split sets 6-3, 4-6, 4-6.

Northville won both third and fourth singles.

The first doubles duo of Pam Schipani and Claudia Williams were the victims of defeat to Walled Lake Western 4-6, 4-6. Churchill also won the first doubles competition.

Final standings in the Western Six are Northville in first place, Churchill second, Farmington Harrison (defending champion) third, Waterford Mott fourth, Canton fifth and Walled Lake Western sixth.

"I think that we could have taken fourth place easily if we didn't have to play the top teams in the league in the first round," commented Canton coach Cyndi Burnstein. "The fact that the draw gave Mott easy first round matches against Western put them (Mott) at a definite advantage."

The junior varsity squads were also involved in league meet competition. Canton's Sandy Burger and Heather Hawkins won in the first round but were later defeated in the second. Singles player Ann O'Connell was eliminated in the semifinals by the eventual winner of the singles matches.

The Chiefs ended the season with a 2-7 league record and 2-11 overall. The Chiefs last defeat was to Northville Wednesday in a make-up match. The Chiefs lost 6-1, and Lori Smith was the only Canton winner.

Smith took her opponent in two simple sets 6-4, 6-1. Other singles competitors for the Chiefs included Kidston who lost 2-6, 0-6, McGinn (4-6, 0-6), and Rupprecht (1-6, 4-6).

Doubles teams Schipani and Williams lost 1-6, 0-6. McNamara and Young were defeated in split sets 7-5, 2-6, 3-6 and Swain and Kraus lost 0-6, 0-6.

Canton lost to Northville earlier in the season, 7-0.

IN THE POCKET

By W. W. EDGAR

Another wave of high scoring hit the area's establishments during the past week and when the roar of the falling pins faded away, the record books had to be rewritten at both Woodland Lanes and Wonderland Lanes.

The greatest deluge came at Woodland, where four league bowlers broke the 700 barrier to set a new high mark for the house. Another was registered at Wonderland. In both places, the final counts were new high marks for the season.

BOB HAUCK scattered the maples for a 734 on games of 265, 225 and 243 for the 734 in the Wonderland Classic. With this big total he gained a 54-pin margin on Bill Fite, who landed in second place.

At Woodland Lanes, the top scorer was Gene Maybery, of the Ford LTD league, who linked counts of 256, 246 and 243 for a 745 that was a new high for the house. Behind him came Steve Blaszcak with 675 and Mike McArthur with a 671.

The other barrier-breaking performances came in the Wednesday men's league where Greg Wiggard showed the way with a 738 gained on games of 278, 256 and 204.

With a 258 finish, Ed Kortess landed second with a 728 and Walt Smith had a 277 for 716 and third place.

The other high scorers in the league included Jeff Anderson with 661, Andy Supanich with 656 and Charles Hrenkowski with 683.

Even the women had a great time at Woodland. Barb Dettore hit a new high for the house with a 664 made possible by a 257 opener and her nearest rival was Pat Sabo with a 223 in 592.

THE SIXTH 700 series came at Westland when Rich Anderson paced the 42-team junior house league with a 717 that came about with a closing game of 268. Right behind him came Gordie Peterson with a 279 in 696 and Rick Wiack with a 268 in 657.

The Westland Ladies also did some fancy scoring and provided their closest finish of the year when Denise Hodge fired a 235 in 620 to beat out Pam Campbell by a single pin.

To help make possible the stirring finish, Pat Mayles fashioned a 614 while Joanne Warner had a 608 and Margie Brothers, despite six splits, had a 601.

In the men's doubles, where they switch lanes after each two games, John Hurley had a 213 and 279 on the first pair, then posted a 279 and 247 on the next pair for a 1018 count.

THE HIGH-SCORING wave spread to Garden Lanes, where Tom Krause rolled a 677 to pace the Vinco league. Following him were Jerry Ohl with 663, Ray Mieseki with 638 and Otis Lackey with 636.

In the Wayne County League, Dick Szamota was high with a 666 and his closest rival was Gene Oustrich with a 610.

Suggestions from the sports editor

HUMBLE SUGGESTIONS

It's that time of the season when all athletic departments are busy getting schedules, contracts and officials ready for next year's fall sports season.

So before any more scheduling is done, here are a few noteworthy suggestions from the Plymouth-Canton sports desk.

First, the Good Doctor isn't the only person who would like to see Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton home games start at 7:30 p.m.

I was talking to Mick McCabe from the Detroit Free Press Friday afternoon. He had come to the Plymouth Salem-Edsel Ford battle to watch the Rocks' All-State quarterback Rich Hewlett do his thing on the ground and in the air.

He was telling me how impossible it was to ever feature one of the Salem or Canton football or basketball teams as his weekly "Game of the Week." It's not that the Plymouth-Canton area is that far away. The new expressway eliminates that problem.

The obstacle is the 8 p.m. starting times for football and 8:15 p.m. starting times for basketball contests. It's just impossible for any daily newspaper to meet an 11 p.m. deadline when a game starts that late.

Besides, it's not just for the journalists, but also for the convenience of most fans who wish to get home early or enjoy more of the evening after watching the Rocks or the Chiefs.

Most high schools have converted to this 7:30 p.m. start for football games and the 6 p.m. junior varsity basketball start, which allows for an earlier varsity cage time.

Salem and Canton have played its Saturday night football games at 7:30 p.m. this year. Now it's time to make that switch for Friday night action, as well.

WHILE WE'RE on the subject of scheduling for next season, the Good Doctor has another suggestion to add some interest to the girls' basketball seasons in this area.

Earlier, I made the plea for Salem and Canton to compete with tougher teams, for the benefit of each squads' development.

One way to attack this is to let Salem and Canton play each other a couple of times during the regular season.

It would be great non-league action. I realize this has not been the philosophy of the Plymouth-Canton Athletic Department in recent years because of the close proximity of the two schools.

I still agree with this no-play philosophy is football because the two programs are not yet equal.

I also think it would be a bad idea for the two baseball teams to compete on a non-league basis because of sour relationships.

But as for girls' basketball, I think it's a great idea. Both Salem coach Bob Blohm and Canton coach Mike McCauley are in favor of it. They both get along and think it would be a great rivalry for both programs.

The boys' basketball teams will play each other for the first time in years during the regular season when they meet at Livonia Churchill in the annual Christmas tournament.

Now, it's time the girls' programs get a chance to battle one another in what would be one of the great rivalries rivalries in all of western Wayne County.

ON THE PERSONAL side of these suggestions, it was nice to get some refreshments at the Edsel Ford press box Friday afternoon.

The athletic department is always quick to talk about its "first class" programs, the new automatic swim timer, which cost over $10,000 through funds raised by the swim coaches would help prove this point.

And yet, all the poor people who work in the football press box all season long, and all the reporters and coaches who are busy trying to do a "first class" job, don't reap the benefits of a cup of hot, black coffee or other refreshments which are served in the press boxes in Dearborn.

Now tell me, is that "first class?"

WSDP announces sports schedule

WSDP-FM, 88.1 FM, will broadcast the last Plymouth Salem home football game of the season live.

The game will be broadcast from the Centennial Park starting at 7:50 p.m. with the pregame show.

The Rocks, one of the top teams in the Suburban Eight League this season, will battle hapless Livonia Bentley in the homecoming contest for 1978.

Ross Rhinehart (play-by-play) and Kevin Krolnicki (color commentary) will broadcast the action.

Plymouth Salem's girls' basketball team will be featured tomorrow night, while Plymouth Canton's squad will be on the air Thursday evening, as WSDP continues with its live coverage of the girls basketball season.

The Rocks, undefeated and number one in this area this year, will host Dearborn in an important Suburban Eight League contest starting at 8:10 p.m. Chris Koepke and Tim Sonnega will be at courtside, live, to describe the action.

John Matthews and George Hamblin take the mike Thursday with Western Six League basketball action between the once-beaten Chiefs and the Farmington Harrison Hawks. Game time for this live broadcast is also scheduled at 8:10 p.m.

line down to the Salem 10 before the Rocks held on downs. Salem got the ball back but subsequently fumbled it back to the Thunderbirds on the second play from scrimmage.

This time, Edsel Ford had only 14 yards to travel for a touchdown but were held on four straight plays by the stingy Salem defense.

Salem raised the score to 15-0 at halftime when it held the ball for the final 4:34 of the first half. The Rocks went from their own 15-yard line down to the Edsel Ford 11 before Hanschu kicked a perfect 26-yard field goal with only one second left on the clock. The big play of this drive was another brilliant run by Slack, this one going 44 yards.

Salem scored on its second possession of the second half to make it 22-0. In a battle of punters, Hanschu booted a beautiful 56-yard punt early in the third quarter, putting Edsel Ford deep in its own territory at the two-yard line.

The Thunderbird failed to move the ball and were forced to punt the ball back to the Rocks. Edsel Ford's punt travelled only 26 yards, however, and Salem had beautiful field position on the Thunderbirds' 36-yard line.

Hewlett wasted no time in taking advantage of the position when he fired a perfect strike to split end Hanschu on the first play from scrimmage for a 36-yard touchdown. Hanschu ran a post pattern and made a good catch. He followed with a perfect extra-point kick.

Edsel Ford's lone score and two-point conversion came on the very next series of downs when it travelled 80 yards in eight plays before Bedenis snuck over from the one yard line with five seconds left in the third quarter. The lefthander hit Mark Bruce with a pass in the end zone for the two-point conversion.

The fourth quarter was scoreless although Edsel Ford moved within Salem's 30-yard line on two occasions.

University of Michigan-Dearborn unveiled its new sports complex Friday night with its first-ever home hockey game. It marked the first time the school hosted indoor athletic events.

Belleville nips Bentley

By KEN VOYLES

It was a battle between two winless Suburban Eight League football teams—Lavonia Bentley and Belleville Friday. In the end, Belleville gained its first win of the season, 6-0, and just about destroyed the Bulldogs' chances to win a game in 1978.

It was a heart breaking game for Bentley as time and time again the Bulldogs were frustrated on offense. Defensively, however, Bentley stood up to the task in every instance but once late in the game.

The loss was the Bulldogs' seventh of the season including six shutouts and left them alone in the cellar of the Suburban Eight League.

"We played a pretty good football game. Belleville was in our backyard the whole game and we stopped them every time but once," said Bentley coach Pat O'Donnell. "I was happy with the way the defense played."

"You couldn't ask the kids to do more than they did. They gave everything," continued the coach.

For three quarters, the two teams fought a tough defensive battle. For three quarters, neither team put together an offensive attack. For three quarters, the possibility that the teams would go into overtime was great.

However, late in the fourth period, Belleville put together a 98-yard drive. The Bentley defense stunned the Tigers, though, by stopping them on the six-inch line.

The Bulldogs then attempted to move the ball out of their territory, but were brought to a standstill.

Belleville took the ensuing Bulldog punt close to midfield and once again drove to the goal line. At the one yard line, tailback Barry Riddick bulled his way into the endzone for the Tigers' lone touchdown of the game. The clock read 2:42 left to play.

The extra point kick was blocked by the Bentley defensive line.

Even though down, Bentley was not out as it marched down the field from its own 30 yard line to the Belleville 10. With no timeouts left and the clock ticking away, Bentley threw three desperate passes all incomplete.

"We moved the ball a little bit but we still can't throw the football at all. When your 0-7, it's hard to find any bright spots in a game," O'Donnell said.

Matt Munn paced the Bulldog's ground attack with 81 yards in 14 carries. Greg Pierson added 74 yards in 12 carries. Quarterback Dan Crowder completed three of 11 passes during the contest.

Bentley will face Plymouth Salem Friday in another Suburban Eight League game. The contest will be played at Salem with an 8 p.m. starting time.

UM-D gets new arena

By DOUG FUNKE

For years, varsity basketball players at the University of Michigan-Dearborn practiced at all hours of the night at neighboring Henry Ford Community College.

Their equipment and training room was the trunk of coach Tip Smathers' car.

Adam Mitchell's varsity hockey team played its "home" games in Melvindale and at Ford Woods Ice Arena in Dearborn, well away from the campus on Evergreen between Ford and Michigan.

All of that is about to change. Workers are finishing a $3.5 million fieldhouse and ice arena that will be the pride of the university's basketball and hockey teams. The structure will also house intramural sports.

The facility is reminiscent of the Athletic and Convocation Center at the University of Notre Dame—without the twin domes.

A regulation-size hockey rink with permanent seating for 1,250 takes up one half of the structure. A fieldhouse, large enough for three intramural basketball courts or five tennis/volleyball courts with permanent telescopic seating for 800 takes up the other half.

Along the corridor separating the two arenas are eight lockerrooms with a capacity of 776 lockers, a training room and an equipment distribution area.

much frustration about our program. Now we have a place to practice, to shower and lockers.

"It's a real shot in the arm," he continued. "It's not the end, just the beginning."

The fieldhouse and the ice arena is only the first step in a planned three-phase project.

The other two phases include an indoor pool-handball-squash complex and an auxiliary gymnasium.

Richard Reynolds, UM-D director of university relations, said that it will be at least six years and likely 10 before those projects are realized.

The mortgage on the fieldhouse and ice arena will be paid with a portion of student fees over 20 years.

The facility will be operated as a self-supporting unit with the athletic department as the prime tenant.

THE ICE ARENA will be rented to hockey associations, and memberships have been sold for the fieldhouse tennis courts for the morning hours.

University classes such as tennis will be offered in the fieldhouse early afternoons. Varsity teams will practice in late afternoons, and the fieldhouse will be open for intramurals evenings when no varsity athletic contests are scheduled.

Open skating for those associated with the university will also be available most mornings.

Sypula said his first order of business is to nurture the athletic program by promoting his new plant.

"Just the idea of putting up the building, even without scholarships, legitimizes the program," he said.

"We're compared to other established programs, but we're just scratching the surface. Before, basketball was hide-and-seek. Now, we have a home, a chance for gate receipts."

"For us, getting accustomed to our own house—stabilizing—is what we're trying to do," said Sypula.

"I think our biggest selling job is with our own people—faculty, staff and students."

Sypula, Reynolds and the coaches at UM-D are hoping to capitalize on the "Michigan" name. However, that strategy could depend a lot on how the UM-D teams perform. The squads in Ann Arbor have built a national reputation.

SYPULA, WHO CLAIMS his total athletic budget is only $15,000 per year, said he hopes the fieldhouse and ice arena will encourage UM-D officials to increase the athletic budget and establish an athletic scholarship program.

However, he's as pleased as can be with his new building for starters.

ATHLETIC OFFICES and a pro shop can be found on the upper concourse.

Finishing touches are needed for most of the facility, but the major part of the work has been completed.

Richard Sypula, a 1971 graduate of UM-D and the athletic director since then, said the new structure will give a sense of reality and permanence to a growing athletic program.

"We've never been home," said Sypula. "The building has taken off so

Skillet Applesauce Rolls

Apples and bread have always been compatible. They combine well in coffee cake, bread puddings, poultry stuffings and numerous casseroles and desserts. This recipe combines smooth, canned applesauce with hot roll mix to make sticky rolls that will be welcome for brunch, kaffee klatsch or dessert for dinner. It's a real quickie because packaged roll mix eliminates measuring ingredients. And by using canned applesauce you eliminate peeling, coring, slicing, cooking and sieving the apples. Canned applesauce is cooked; however, the recipe calls for ten minutes of additional cooking to concentrate the juice to achieve a more syrupy, sticky texture, characteristic of sticky rolls.

Most cooks don't use skillets as baking pans. Actually a heavy skillet makes a fine pan for baking bread as it heats evenly and in the case of applesauce rolls, it helps achieve a glossy, caramelized bottom on the rolls. Butter and brown sugar are melted in the skillet first and the rolls are arranged cut side up on that mixture. If the handle on the skillet is not ovenproof, cover it well with heavy aluminum foil.

Canned applesauce comes in smooth and chunky styles. Be sure to use the smooth kind as it's been finely sieved which will give a more even distribution of flavor and sauce throughout the rolls.

SKILLET APPLESAUCE ROLLS

- 1 (13-3/4 ounce) package roll mix
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 6 tablespoons butter
- 2 cups smooth applesauce
- 1/3 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
- 1/2 cup chopped pecans
- Cinnamon

Prepare roll mix according to directions on package, adding 2 tablespoons sugar to dry ingredients. Cover; let rise until doubled in bulk. Meanwhile add 2 tablespoons butter to applesauce; cook 10 minutes to evaporate some of the liquid, stirring occasionally. Cool. Melt remaining 4 tablespoons butter in 9-inch skillet; add brown sugar; heat until dissolved.

Roll out dough to 17 x 9-inch rectangle. Spread with cooled applesauce and sprinkle with pecans and cinnamon. Roll up jelly roll fashion. Cut in 1-1/2 inch slices. Arrange cut side up in pan on sugar mixture. Cover; let rise until doubled in bulk.

Bake in 400°F. oven for 20-25 minutes or until golden brown. Serve hot. Makes 16 rolls.

Southern hospitality—Indian-style

By IRIS SANDERSON JONES

Trivandrum, India—Tourists have invaded most of the South Sea lands of the world, but they haven't yet discovered Trivandrum.

Where palm-tree-studded beaches, empty except for local fishermen, curve around the Arabian Sea to the Indian Ocean.

A contemporary beach resort hotel opens its rooftop dining room to the sky while customers keep yoga and massage appointments 100 yards away.

Nearby, in the backwater canals of the state of Kerala, boys pole boatloads of passengers past scenic coconut-palm-fringed islands.

This is the lazy south of India, where tourists combine the exotic, overwhelming sights of India with a beach vacation. Kerala has wildlife preserves, pageantry and beach life, but few temples.

It is the land of the spice trade, from where Phoenician, Chinese, Persian and Portuguese sailors carried peacocks, ivory, incense and pepper to the western world. Strangely enough, few travelers have discovered it since.

Kerala has the highest literacy rate in India, and a mixed population of Christians, Jews, Arabs, Moslems and Hindus. The higher education level shows in daily life and in the children, although you are still in an exotic world.

An Indian Airlines Airbus-300 flies daily from the metropolis of Bombay down the 1,800-mile coast past Goa to Kerala's capital city, Trivandrum.

Women in saris, men in dhoti sarongs or shorts, children in brief skirts and shorts, surge slowly along the roads.

The city has the look and rhythm of India, with people crowding roads and jamming open-fronted shops on either side.

But here the rhythm is slower. A tailor threads a sewing machine in a doorway. Children walk barefoot to school and women cluster in doorways or carry pots and baskets on their heads. A water buffalo grazes, unaffected by the sounds of impatient motorists honking people, bullock carts and animals out of the way.

KOVALUM BEACH RESORT, built by the government-sponsored India Tourism Development Corp., is a tiered concrete hotel on a curve of sand just out of town.

The resort specializes in yoga lessons and massages.

Some of the vacation highlights of the area include eight wildlife sanctuaries, festival pageantry of one kind or another throughout the year, a terrifying martial arts display of swords and whipping steel, and the incredible Kathakali dancers.

Students spend years learning the song and dance of Kathakali and take several hours applying makeup for a single performance. During Hindu festivals, the story of the God Shiva (god of destruction and reproduction), and his wife Parvati takes several days.

Several hours may be too much for most foreigners, but it is a must as an artistic highlight of India. Class dancing of all kinds is the primary entertainment form offered by Indians to visitors.

For those who like to spend their Sundays on a lazy river, a poleboat up the backwaters is enough.

This is Dorothy Lamour, Tahiti, grass skirts and coconut palms, Indian-style. Small square-brick and mat houses thatched with palm dot coconut groves along the canal.

A woman bathes at the shore, her Kalli sarong wrapped around her like a bath towel. Children splash and wave the "ta, ta" of greeting.

Everything is mild here—a gentle breeze, the slow drift of the boat towards the sand-pit that separates the boat from the open sea, the trees bent seaward.

Under the trees, a family laughs and jumps in a circle, playing the games of the family festival of Onam.

People are poor here as they are throughout India, and the area is less developed in many ways, but it seems easier to be poor when the land is gentle and productive and the weather mild beside a plentiful sea.

On the shore, in a village, women pull the fiber of coconut husk and a boy makes coir rope from it on a spinning wheel. This is the cottage industry of the area.

Clusters of women and children, families and old men greet travelers and stare as they walk under the high palm roof of the grove past neat square houses reminiscent of the south seas.

A boy ties his ankles together and climbs a palm to the coconut cluster. A water buffalo is tied to a nearby tree.

Namaste, Namaste. That is the traditional greeting of India, a slight bow with the hands folded prayer-style under the chin. They respond, smiling, shy, waving, laughing gently at foreign ways. They see few tourists in their grove.

The children laugh hilariously at tourists who stop to talk to them during a local game of hand-and-foot ball.

SOUTHERN INDIA provides a quiet vacation, without nightclubs. If tourists enter India through Bombay to the north, there is plenty of opportunity for discos, rooftop bars and other contemporary musical entertainments.

Another myth shattered

The American women's climbing team was there above us on Annapurna, but we couldn't see the mountain through the clouds from the Chinese Road in Nepal.

G.B.N. Pradhan, Nepal's minister of tourism, had told us about the Americans' hike to the base camp, the first all-woman team to attempt the 26,502-foot peak.

During a meeting with Nepal's Prime Minister Kirtinidhi Bista, he had commented on the bravery of this team, led by 35-year-old Arlene Blum of Berkeley, Calif.

But it was the English trekking guide who put the expedition into focus. Trekking is a major tourist activity in Nepal. This mountain-weathered man had gone from the British army to trekking many years ago, and now he looks like part of the mountain himself.

"It's a tough mountain," he said. "And they don't have a lot of experience between them. But today they reached the base camp, and we're keeping our fingers crossed."

Finger-crossing was in order. Two Japanese climbers had fallen to their death a few days before.

We had been packing up an overnight camp when this conversation took place. It was Himalayan camping, but we were still on green hills near Katmandu, under a 19,000-foot snowless peak.

This is the kind of camp trekkers set up for one- or two-week hikes, with trained guides, walking all day and sleeping in totally enclosed pup tents at night.

We were in Nepal several days, but had not seen Everest or any of the other high peaks, because the high mountains are not usually visible from May to September, especially from Katmandu Valley.

We took an all-day bus ride to the small city of Pokhara, at the foot of Annapurna, to increase our chances of seeing the mountains. There were daily, $35 morning flights from Katmandu to Everest, but the mighty mountain had eluded them for the previous three days.

The bus to Phokhara followed a two-lane highway, through valleys of abundant rice crops. We passed road construction crews, where they loaded rocks with shovels into sacks carried on the backs of exceptionally young workers.

Within two hours, we joined the Chinese Road, built by the Chinese to the Tibetan border.

As we approached the Pokhara Valley, we strained for sight of the mountain. There were high green mountains, and clouds of equal height above them. We knew the mountains were behind those peaks, but we didn't know if we would ever see them.

SUDDENLY, SOMEBODY said: "Oh my God, it's above the clouds."

There, rising above the high white, glacier-like clouds, was the tip of the holy mountain. Annapurna is a range of mountains. This first-sighted peak is the holy mountain that no man or woman is permitted to scale. There are several other peaks. The American women were on one of them.

We finished our drive through villages and then poled across the river to the lodge for the night.

Everything here is geared for mountain viewing. At sunset, we sat on the lawn with drinks and tea and watched heaven unveil the Annapurna peaks.

Color footage of enchanting Austria will be shown by world traveler Curtis Nagel of California when he opens the 1978-79 World Adventure Series season of 2:30 p.m. Sunday travel shows Oct. 29 at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Nagel's subject, "Serenade to Austria," is one of 22 showings scheduled through April 15, and is enlivened by on-the-spot recordings of concerts by the costumed Vienna Boys Choir and seductive Strauss waltzes at outdoor cafes.

"The Paris We Love" will make its Detroit debut the following Sunday. English-born globetrotter Robin Williams will show his new color movies of this popular city. Williams films the horseback Republican Guard in Napoleonic costume, the Arc de Triomphe, the celebrated, tree-lined Champs Elysees, the world's loveliest sculptures of the Place de la Concorde and the treasures of the Louvre. Williams films everything, from girl watching at the famed sidewalk cafe Deux Magots, to the swank Longchamps race track.

The third series attraction on Nov. 12 is "Israel and the Sinai." William Stockdale, speaker-photographer, is a New Englander, a Yale graduate majoring in journalism and a frequent contributor to the New York Times.

Among the highlights are the West Bank, the Golan Heights, a trip by Arab bus to the Arab stronghold of Hebron, near the Lebanon border, the Jordan and Sea of Galilee, Tel Aviv, Haifa, Bethlehem, all major Biblical cities, the Dead Sea and an overnight visit in a Kibbutz guest house.

The Stroller

By W. W. EDGAR

Those Puzzling Angles

Many times these chilly mornings when the young folks pass him on their way to school, the Stroller is reminded of the days long ago when he trudged more than a mile to the little brick schoolhouse down in the Dutch country.

Those were happy times as the Stroller was fortunate enough to enjoy his studies and delighted in the fact that usually he was at the head of his class when the students' ratings were listed on the report cards each month.

Then there came the year when he was exposed to geometry for the first time. For some reason or other, he just couldn't become interested.

One afternoon when he was seated at his desk struggling with a problem, the teacher, a cross-eyed Dutchman named Knauss, stopped by. He looked over the Stroller's shoulder and saw what was happening. Then he leaned over and said in a low voice so none of the other members of the class could hear, "If you don't master the intricacies of the equilateral triangle you never will amount to a darn."

At the time, the Stroller didn't know what he meant. In fact he has gone through a half century of his life always wondering about the equilateral triangle and how it would effect him if he ever encountered one.

THIS FEAR got the better of him the other day and he puckered up enough nerve to ask Bill Brown, principal of Plymouth Salem High School, to describe an equilateral triangle. Bill just smiled at the request and had one of his students tell the Stroller that it was a triangle with each side equal to the other.

For a time, the Stroller retraced his life steps and wondered if he ever had encountered such a thing as the equilateral triangle.

Suddenly it dawned that he had, and under the strangest of conditions.

It happened when his father, too ill to work in the shops, opened a lunch counter and installed a pool table in the rear room. When the table was installed he told the Stroller he would have to learn to play what they called pool.

If you are acquainted with a pocket billiard table you know that the 15 balls are placed in a triangular rack and set with the ball at one point of the triangle on a spot.

The Stroller's dad spent hours with him, teaching him the trick of making a safe first shot by gently hitting the ball on the right hard point so that it would return almost to the original spot and give the opponent a difficult time of it.

AFTER MONTHS of practice, the trick was mastered and the Stroller was looked upon as a child protege. Nursed along the billiard table by his dad, the Stroller became the town champion. Better yet, he won the Lehigh Valley title when he was a stripling of only 15 years.

Things were going good. It seemed the warning the geometry teacher had given him was being heeded. He was mastering the game that was built around racking the balls in a triangle-one that was equilateral.

Then came the winter months when there were no such things as television and radio to take up the evening hours. Folks, especially the men folks, gathered at the various clubs and volunteer fire stations, to play pool.

This particular winter, to create more interest and give the Stroller more worlds to conquer, the officials at the fire station succeeded in organizing a county wide pool tournament—with home and home matches.

This was just fine until one evening he had to meet an opponent in another town. Backed by a group of followers, the Stroller was quite confident when he entered the camp of the enemy.

THEN CAME the shock. The table on which the match was to be played was much smaller than the Stroller's "home" table. He soon found that all the angles were different. By the time he was getting a bit accustomed to the fact that the game was lost.

Several nights later he had to meet an opponent in another town. This time the table was larger than the Stroller's "home" table. Now the angles were greater and he had a difficult time trying to cope with them.

As he struggled along, his opponent ran up a score and finally won the match.

The two defeats cost the Stroller the county championship and the saddest part of the disappointing showing was the fact that he never caught up with his geometry teacher.

PERU'S GOLDEN TREASURES

Truly, it was a golden age... a time when gold was not a sign of material wealth. When gold meant a richness of human spirit... until Spanish Conquistadores arrived to turn gold into a symbol of greed and destroyed the ancient Inca empire for it. IS A FUNERAL NECESSARY?

Death is one of the most difficult losses we can experience—especially the death of a family member or spouse.

The wake and funeral services can be "tools" that help us accept the fact of death and permanent separation as the real thing. The wake becomes a time of consolation to those who have experienced the loss — a time for friends to SHARE their grief.

The funeral helps us remember the life of the lost one. It provides strength for the family and friends and communicates to all those attending that this life is now permanently separated from ours.

It is my experience that some who do not attend the funeral of a loved and close one suffer more afterwards. The funeral can become the first stepping stone to the rebuilding of our own lives without the presence of the deceased. Call us if you'd like more helpful information and booklets on the subject of funerals.

Churchill wins title

"Our defense really played its best game of year," said Livonia Churchill coach Ken Kaestner after his squad defeated Western Six League football opponent Waterford Mott 33-0 Friday.

The victory secured the Western Six League title for the Chargers, who finish with a 5-0 conference mark.

"I'm tickled to death that we won the league title. I'm happy for this group of senior kids. They've had a fine season," Kaestner continued.

Besides a strong defensive game, Churchill's offense turned on the steam in the second half especially and blew Mott off the field.

Doran Mason produced the first Charger touchdown late in the first quarter when he capped a 45-yard drive with a two-yard plunge into the endzone. Quarterback Rick Coppola kicked the extra point.

Dave Krick came through for the Chargers in the third quarter when he intercepted a Mott pass and ran it back 37 yards for a touchdown. The extra point kick was good.

It was Mason's turn again in the third quarter when he scampered 44 yards on an option play to the right side of the field and went into the endzone all alone. The touchdown came late in the period and the extra point kick missed.

Midway in the fourth quarter, Coppola capped a 65-yard march with a five-yard touchdown run on another option play. The drive lasted for 10 plays and started following a Mott punt.

The point-after kick was good and Churchill was in front, 27-0.

Bill Keller then came into the game for Coppola at quarterback and led Churchill on another scoring drive.

On the very last play of the game, Keller threw a 25-yard touchdown pass to Gary Vendelli for the Chargers' final touchdown.

"Our defense just played an outstanding game. It was a good game all together for us. We had a nice defensive effort from the line and line-backers. In the first half, our defense kept us in the game," Kaestner said.

Mason led the Chargers' in rushing with 190 yards in 20 carries. Mason now has 941 yards for the 1978 season.

"Our offense was good in the second half, but it just wasn't consistent in the first half," said Kaestner. "We scored that one touchdown in the first quarter and then we had two called back and one that could have been a touchdown but the boy dropped the pass in the endzone."

Churchill will battle Livonia Franklin Saturday in a non-league game at Franklin. Game time is 2 p.m.

Spartans cop crown

By DOUG FUNKE

Mark Gribeck intercepted a Waterford pass attempt for a two-point conversion in overtime Friday to cap Livonia Stevenson's 14-13 homecoming football victory.

The win, the Spartans' seventh of the season without defeat, wrapped up a third consecutive undisputed Inter-Lakes League championship for coach Jack Reardon and his charges.

Stevenson has won conference football titles seven of the last 10 years under Reardon's tutelage.

"I think they believe in themselves," said Reardon of his players. "When their backs are against the wall, they just come through."

With the score tied 7-7 after regulation time, Waterford won the toss prior to overtime and gave Stevenson the first crack from 10 yards out.

Jim Gemuend took a pitch from quarterback Jim Fox on the first play and gained five yards around right end.

On the next play, Mike Shimskey carried the ball on a counter play, which was beautifully disguised. However, he was belted before he crossed the goal line and fumbled the ball.

Fortunately, Cap Pethers was the man of the hour. He pounced on the bouncing pigskin in the endzone for a Stevenson TD.

Tom Smith kicked the extra point. On Waterford's first play from the 10, quarterback Tim Collins attempted a flare pass, but Jim Recker made a superb deflection of the toss.

Collins hit Tom Shellnut with a touchdown pass the very next play with a misdirection throw.

The Skippers elected to try for two points and victory, but Gribeck picked off the pass to end the game.

Women get a heady taste of politics

By SHERRY KAHAN

"It is hard to go back to the PTA after you've worked in politics."

Most of those speaking at the women-in-politics conference at Schoolcraft College could vote "Aye" on that point.

They had gained political experience in their own campaigns or in the political camps of others. While some had experienced the pain of disappointment, all seemed to find it exhilarating.

These are the women who believed the slogans that made the rounds a few years ago. Slogans like "A Woman Belongs in the House... and Senate," and "Make policy, not coffee."

A third slogan, "Clean up politics, elect women," turned up on buttons and signs at the conference.

Delivering their own version of "This is My Political Life" were Olivia "Libby" Maynard, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor of Michigan, and Sarah Power, whose first hurrah was heard when she campaigned state-wide for the post of regent of the University of Michigan.

Also involved was Livonia's Mary Dumas, who, like several others at the meeting, built on her scouting and PTA experience to become a political success. She is a Wayne County Commissioner.

Plymouth city commissioner and former mayor, Beverly McAninch reminded listeners that when she first ran for the city commission it only cost $50. It could be as much as $300 or more today, she said.

Another Livonia resident on the panel was Joan Duggan, who found success in political work after learning that men with cigars in political headquarters were not getting the job done.

The chairperson of the Wayne County Commission, Jarrett Simmons, was also present, along with Vicki Toensing, research attorney for the Michigan Court of Appeals.

"WHATEVER I MAY DO in politics," Mrs. Maynard said in her keynote address, "the raising of three beautiful, exasperating children will be the most wonderful thing of my life."

But the candidate for lieutenant governor found that politics challenged abilities not tested at home.

"Your talents and your capabilities are equal to anyone's," she said.

"When you really know that, when you believe in yourself, you can do anything you want, including running for public office.

"But there is a problem for women who want to run. There is a real lack of opportunity for women in state government. For example, 98.9 per cent of those working for the highway department are white males.

"In Michigan government, men hold positions of power. Women and minority workers have the most menial jobs."

A group of Democratic women around Michigan looked at the possibility of running a woman this November, she added.

"We decided the lieutenant governor job was our best shot. So we made a pragmatic judgment to seek that position for a woman. We compiled names and visited party and legislative leaders to obtain support."

"You are needed in politics," she said. "I can't promise there won't be problems, but I can promise you a fascinating and informative experience."

SARAH POWER, who was recently nominated by President Carter to chair the U.S. National Committee for the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO), offered several suggestions on campaigning.

"Get an appropriate staff," she said. "Then decide on a coherent plan for the campaign."

"Clearly communicate with the voters. The press will publish your material if you have something written out. You will help create an interest in this material if it is coherently and succinctly prepared."

"People running the meeting will like you more if after you are offered five minutes to speak, you only talk for two."

Afterwards, Mrs. Power, wife of Philip Power, chairman of the board of the Observer and Eccentric Newspapers, said it is important to drop a note to those responsible for the meeting.

MRS. TOENSING, a research attorney for the Michigan Court of Appeals, emphasized facing facts.

"No woman can ever be elected until she learns how to raise money," she said. "We have to learn this political necessity."

"We must get experts in to teach us. We need workshops on how to do it. To get TV ads you have to have money up front two to three months ahead of time."

She said women running for political office can no longer accept tokenism. "That is not enough any more," she said. "Women running for office can no longer be the exception."

Mrs. Toensing also wants to put an end to the attitude of a male voter who noted that Alice Gilbert is seeking a position on the Michigan Supreme court.

"How come she is running?" he asked. "We already have a woman on the Supreme Court."

Jarrett Simmons told what was probably the biggest success story. "In 1958 I got a job as a psychiatric attendant at Wayne County General Hospital."

Today she is chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners which runs the hospital.

"No way to get around it, you have to get involved," she said. "Organize your family, organize your neighbor and your block. Stay with it. There is no way to get elected without people, and we have to listen to what they say."

JOAN DUGGAN'S, director of Livonia's department of community services, said she waited 20 years to be asked to become politically involved.

During her first campaign, she went to headquarters and found a number of men sitting around, talking about how the election was in the bag.

"Two women and I were answering the phones and doing the work," she said. "One of my strong points was that I didn't know how to make coffee."

"Two years later the same guys were at the table, and there were four women and me. Our candidate lost. The women and I were not surprised."

"I decided I should be watching the guy who won. I learned a lot."

In her next campaign, Moms for Mac, women were put in leadership roles and she believes that helped deliver the election.

"On election night, one woman watched the results go up on the board," Mrs. Duggan said. "When her area results came up, she said, 'That's me. I did it.'"

She regards the various commissions in the city as good proving grounds for women who want experience in government.

"There are some impressive women doing an impressive jobs on Livonia commissions," she said.

The VIEW from 461 SOUTH MAIN

ELECTION CAMPAIGNS are in full swing at Allen Elementary School on Haggerty Road. There are two voting precincts at Allen and when their parents are casting their ballots in the Nov. 7 national election, the students will be going to their own precincts. They will be voting for student council candidates.

Among the school's pre-election activities has been voter registration week.

"Carol Welsh, fifth grade student council advisor, has been coordinating the whole thing," said Tom Workman, principal. "Every process of the state and national election has been paralleled."

by

When U.S. Senator Bob Griffin was in town last week, the student council candidates went up to Republican headquarters over Fisher Shoes on Main Street. Two students from each room, approximately 30 candidates, met the senator.

"And although there were many others up there," said Workman, "he gave the kids his undivided attention."

THE STUDENTS will have an opportunity to meet several Democrats who are running for office during the school's Democratic Week. The Republicans will be there on Republican Week.

The whole student body is involved in learning about the process of registering, campaigning and electing representatives in a democracy. When the adult politicians come to visit, the students gather in the school gymnasium to meet them and hear firsthand the importance of the privilege of voting.

The election will be a family affair at Allen.

OUR ANNUAL PR seminar for publicity chairpersons of non-profit organizations was last Wednesday night.

As usual, it was in the Loft of the Round Table Club. As usual, it was enjoyable for us to meet and informally chat with the PR people. But there was something missing.

There were no fancy little sweet rolls and pastries still warm from the ovens in the Mayflower kitchens. There were all kinds of doughnuts to go with the coffee—but it wasn't the same.

Sports editor Dennis O'Connor had asked, "Will they have all those little rolls again?" He had been assured that they would be there.

It wasn't until the next day that we discovered why there were none. Eddie Edgar returned from lunch with the news that Jimmy Goodale, pastry chef at the hotel for 25 years, had died the day before.

He was 71 years old and the brother of Loren and Howard Goodale. Jimmy used to work with Loren in their bakery on the corner of Starkweather.

Lovely cashmeres, woolens are back

The "little fun fur" over the brown corduroy slacks set the tone for the fashion show at Meadowbrook Country Club. The slacks were by Calvin Klein and the jacket was natural red fox (Made in U.S. with a $3,000 price tag).

More than 300 women attended the luncheon-fashion show at Meadowbrook Country Club. The annual event is sponsored by the Plymouth Symphony League and several league members modeled the clothes from Jacobson's Ann Arbor store.

After dining on melon balls in champagne, and chicken Eugene on rice pilaf, the parade of fashions began. There was a reassuring mixture of the new and the familiar.

Cashmere sweaters, 100 per cent wool skirts and blazers, suede pumps, suede spectator pumps, and suede walking shoes had the classic elegance of another age.

Pat Oldford modeled a challis border print dress and later a casual outfit which featured an English riding jacket with suede patched elbows.

DARLENE SPOONER, co-chairperson of the affair, wore a luscious blue winter knit for her first appearance. It was a two-piece dress made of wool and rayon. She wore blue snake skin sandals by Shoestring for Show Biz.

Later, she modeled sportswear separates—a pleated gray wool skirt with a plaid blazer.

Mary Elizabeth Smith's sportswear ensemble by Casper included a cashmere sweater with a cowl neck ($100) topped by a pullover suede jerkin ($190). With these she wore copper tone sandals.

Sandals and boots were in evidence with very high heels.

The practical polyester was used for a David Brown caftan. It was completely washable.

The very new look was shown by Diane, one of Jacobson's own models, when she wore an "out-on-the-town" outfit. It was a long tunic with an uneven hemline over the very slender legged cigarette pants. A long silver fox boa added dash to the ensemble. The fabric was acetate rayon and she wore gold spike-heeled sandals.

BETTY LAIRD, another league member, modeled the ultra suede suit with a wrapped skirt. The suit was the new current color and she wore beige suede pumps.

Doris Sutton of Jacobson's was fashion commentator. Dorothy Lowe, manager of the store's beauty salon, told about the hair styles. Clarine McCleek of the salon was responsible for Adrien Arpel makeup worn by the models.

Fran Lang, president of the Plymouth Symphony Society, was at the piano providing mood music for the fashions. Bill Ruehr of Heides of Old Village supplied the potted greenery that was the background for the show.

Doris Sutton was fashion commentator for the show.

Pat Oldford's pants were a Glen plaid. The blouse was polyester.

The little "fun fur" jacket of natural red fox had a $3,000 price tag.

Betty Laird's ultra suede suit was the new rosy currant shade. (Staff photos)

The term, marathon, applies to the continuous meetings that will take place day and night during the event. Registration must be made by Oct. 19 by calling the organization at 835-9237 or 425-5393. The public is invited.

OA is not a diet club, reports a spokesperson. There are no dues, fees, charts, records, scales or any special requirements for membership other than a desire to stop eating compulsively. The program advocates a strict policy of total anonymity for all who belong.

OA follows an adaptation of the successful plan developed by Alcoholics Anonymous. In the 18 years since its inception, its members have found they can take weight off and keep it off when they follow the 12 steps of recovery.

It does not adhere to any religious philosophy. However, it offers participants the chance to identify on a one-to-one basis with other compulsive overeaters through a plan of sponsorship with other members.

The organization, which is estimated to include 100,000 members in the U.S., is entirely run by volunteers.

The meeting Nov. 4 and 5 will include speeches, a banquet and seminars on such topics as human sexuality and emotional problems.

Project enables teenagers to work, learn and earn

Youth between the ages of 16 and 19 years of age can sign up now for the second Youth Community Conservation and Improvement Project (YCCIP). To qualify for the project, which will begin Nov. 1 and run through August 1979, participants must be residents of Plymouth, Canton or Northville.

They must be unemployed, able to meet CETA guidelines, and be in or out of school.

The project is co-sponsored by Growth Works and the Wayne County Office of Manpower which lends funding, supervision and technical assistance. YCCIP is a CETA Title 3 project.

Persons involved in the program earn as many as three high school credits. They earn $2.65 to $2.90 an hour while they learn and work.

Paul Chamberlain is coordinator.

His assistant is Shari Frank and Jim Grimmer is technical advisor. Ann Bieri, a graduate student at the University of Michigan, will spend two days a week with the group. She is working toward her masters degree in social work at U-M.

Anyone interested in the project, which will be limited to 29 participants, can call Growth Works, 459-8170, or drop in at the center, 271 S. Main Street, Plymouth.

SHARI FRANK, who worked with the first YCCIP group, explains it as "a stop-gap to serve youth in the community, to provide them with skills that will make them valuable to an employer."

The aims are five-fold:

- 1) Development of interpersonal skills such as group decision making, problem solving and general communicative skills.
- 2) Self management skills such as supervision of their peers and management of a group.
- 3) Career development. Growth Works has a Michigan Occupational Information System terminal which will help the young people narrow down their career interests.
- 4) Technical skills will be improved with training and work experience.
- 5) Management skills—they will add the personal skills of money management, job hunting and health care.

WORKING IN conjunction with local departments of public works, the YCCIP youth be involved in building improvements and renovations at the Plymouth Cultural Center, Tonquish Creek Manor, Growth Works facility, Northville's Historic Mill Race Village, Northville City Hall, and Griffin Park in Canton Township.

"Local businesses, the schools and the Michigan Employment Security Commission had a big part in the success of the first YCCIP venture," said Shari Frank. "Teachers, counselors, the career resource center and student services were particularly helpful."

"We had a number of successful program completers. The people developed self-confidence. They had a broader feeling of being able to do things—and to try things."

With the assistance of Students Services at the high schools, they succeeded in getting several of the young people back in school on a full-time basis.

This is a model program developed for young people lacking skills and education to equip them for the work world. It helps them choose a career and gives them the encouragement and skills to attain their aims.

Chairman

In her new position as region chairman for the west unit of the 1978 United Foundation Torch Drive, Mrs. Alan Somershoe of Northville will be working with volunteers in Canton Township, Livonia, Westland, Wayne and Northville. The fundraising will run through Nov. 9.

UNICEF Halloween

Abortion group picks Beebe

Former state Sen. Lorraine Beebe is the new chairwoman of the newly formed Michigan Chapter of the National Abortion Rights Action League.

There are about 2,000 members of the organization which recognizes the right of a woman to limit her own reproduction.

"We are dedicated to the elimination of all laws and practices that would compel any woman to bear a child against her will," said Ms. Beebe, who noted that Michigan is one of 17 states that have continued funding abortion under Medicaid.

The state legislature passed a bill this summer limiting funding of medicaid abortions to $1 for all non-therapeutic abortions. However, Gov. William Milliken vetoed the bill.

"We are opposed to any restrictive language denying poor women the right of choice," she continued. "We commend Gov. Milliken for his courageous stand in vetoing the punitive and demeaning $1 appropriation for non-therapeutic abortions."

If You Don't Remember PROHIBITION, Ask Someone Who Does.

Ask about bootleggers, bathtub gin, and a generation of Americans who learned disrespect for the law. Ask them how well the "Noble Experiment" worked — and how a minority can impose their standards on the majority.

Because "Prohibition" is the exact intent of Proposal D on the November ballot! What else can you call a proposal which immediately takes away the right to drink from a half-million young adults? Which drives them out of licensed and supervised establishments...and into cars and parking lots. Before you vote, look at some simple facts:

FACT: Young Adults Are NOT Involved In An Unusual Number Of Accidents! Actually, according to official Michigan statistics taken from the State Police "Michigan Traffic Accident Facts," the percentage of 18- and 19-year-old drivers involved in automobile accidents has decreased significantly since 1966! Secretary of State Richard Austin has stated that there is no basis in traffic statistics for raising the drinking age!

FACT: The Drinking Age Has Already Been Raised To 19! Effective December 3, 1978, a new law makes it illegal for anyone under the age of 19 to buy or consume alcoholic beverages...thus preventing legal drinking by high-school-age youths. Let's give this new law a chance.

FACT: Young Adults Are Responsible! Certainly, no one becomes an adult overnight, but 19- and 20-year-old adults are out of school, holding down good jobs, marrying and starting families, voting, and serving in the armed forces. They are adults in every legal sense. Recognizing this, 80% of our states have drinking ages under 21. Yet Proposal D would strip them of a very basic right. Proposal D is PROHIBITION, pure and simple.

PROHIBITION WAS WRONG THE FIRST TIME...AND IT'S STILL WRONG!

Vote "NO" On Proposal D

Venture capital available under rigid rules

By RICHARD CREAL
The Fairchild Syndicate

Small companies with unusual growth potential but no clout in the traditional debt and equity markets can still get financing in the form of venture capital, according to Russell L. Carson, president, Citicorp Venture Capital of New York City, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Citicorp.

Recently, Carson said that in exchange for partial ownership—which means management could be placed under pressure to resign if the growth does not materialize—small enterprises can obtain anywhere from $100,000 to $5 million from any of the roughly 250 United States firms offering venture capital.

Carson said that for many small to medium-sized companies, which he defined as those with annual sales between $5 million and $50 million, venture capital has become the sole source of growth funds.

"These companies have borrowed all they can," he said. "Banks and insurance companies are much more cautious than they used to be, and the smaller company carries with it a perceived risk."

"As for the stock market, the reality is that if you're not earning at least a couple of million after taxes, you just don't have access," he added. "So the choice left for many smaller companies is to slow down growth or tap other sources of capital."

CARSON ACKNOWLEDGED that because of the large risk involved, venture capital is the most expensive form of external financing. He said standard rates do not exist, and each deal is individually negotiable, but typically, "We (Citicorp) get a 9 to 12 per cent rate on convertible debt and the right to acquire 5 to 50 per cent ownership."

In addition, the company foregoes the capital gains which the venture capital firm expects to realize five to 10 years later through the sale of the investment.

"Management forfeits some control in that we often sit on the board of directors and actively participate in any management decisions," Carson added. "If management doesn't do well, we can try to arrange for replacements."

On the positive side, Carson pointed out that the company that gets venture capital has the opportunity for substantial growth which would not otherwise be possible.

He cited the example of Nordson

Corp., Amherst, Ohio, a manufacturer of industrial spray painting and packaging equipment, which in 1975 obtained $2 million in venture capital from Citicorp in exchange for a 10 per cent interest in the company in convertible preferred stock.

"This gave Nordson the equity base they needed to keep growing," Carson said. "They used the money to increase working capital, receivables and inventory. The company's annual revenues have doubled from $35 million to $75 million, and earnings have tripled," he said.

Carson said that in a standard operating strategy, he hopes to sell the interest in Nordson in five to 10 years when the company has reached a certain maturity, take the capital gain and recycle it into a smaller, faster-growing company.

THE FIRM SEEKING venture capital faces stiff competition. Not only is the total amount available each year relatively small, about $250 million, according to Carson, but most venture capital firms will consider only those prospects with the potential of an annual pretax return of 25 per cent, the bulk of which would be expected from capital gains.

Craft kits open door to new career

By BETTY MASSON

It took persistence, but an exciting career is opening up for Nancy Flynn, a divorced mother of three who lives in Livonia.

Mrs. Flynn, after years of work as a bank teller, as a secretary and at other jobs, has entered management as Michigan area director for a new enterprise, Better Homes and Gardens craft sessions and sales.

The program is sponsored by the well-known magazine of the same name.

Based on the same approach to sales used by such companies as Tupperware, Better Homes and Gardens has come out with a catalog full of craft kits.

The company began its marketing program in Illinois and Missouri just a year ago. Mrs. Flynn's sister attended one of the first sessions and became one of the first "counselors" in that state.

Counselors were recruited through ads in Better Homes and Gardens magazines in those two states.

"THE PROGRAM started off very well immediately, better than any of their projections," said Mrs. Flynn.

And immediately, Mrs. Flynn began clamoring to become a counselor in Michigan. In January, the company got in touch with her and on Jan. 21 she was signed up.

"Then," she said, "the company left me on my own. They just said, 'Do what you can in Michigan.'"

She ran advertisements in local newspapers and signed up her own first counselor, Jean Knoll of Bloomfield Hills, the end of February. Nancy Dittmar of Farmington Hills was also one of the early recruits.

The first craft session was held March 2 in the home of Diana Bostwick in Westland, with about 18 guests.

Working on her own, Mrs. Flynn interviewed, signed up and trained counselors. In May, she ran a major advertisement, and received the help of a company sales representative in the interviewing.

In June, she held a mini-rally in Livonia with 13 counselors and three guests.

TODAY, SHE HAS 93 counselors in Michigan, and the weekend of Oct. 14 she held her first full scale rally, a meeting of company representatives, managers and counselors and other interested persons at the Michigan Inn in Southfield. There are five managers in the Detroit area and one in Grand Rapids.

More are needed. Potential counselors should have some knowledge of the needle arts, since demonstrations are an important part of the sales program.

"I believe in being honest with my potential counselors," said Mrs. Flynn. "As usual with independent contractors, how much they want to earn depends on how hard they want to work."

"For part-time, a counselor can pick up some good pin money. Working full-time, I believe a counselor can support herself from her percentage of sales."

She pointed out that there are expenses, including an initial one of $75 for the sample case. Of that, $25 is payable immediately. The rest can be taken out of commissions.

All counselors are asked to have at least four craft sessions a month. If they want to give more, they may do so. No one is assigned a specific territory.

Most of the counselors are women, but the sales force has two men in it. So far, the marketing organization has been set up in 16 states.

"THE FIRST THING I did when I got my sample kit was to put all the things together," said Mrs. Flynn.

For craft sessions, most of the items which need sewing are completely assembled. Others, such as latch-hook creations, are begun and worked on during the sessions for purpose of demonstration.

The company is planning to issue new catalogs every six months. Ninety-five per cent of the kits can only be obtained from this source.

The current catalog features items for Christmas, decorations and toys in latch-hook, needlepoint, cross-stitch, counted cross-stitch (a southern art just being introduced to the north), crewel, macrame, trapunto (an old art of raised quilting) and wickerwork. The latter kits are new and are exclusive with the company.

The company also offers a fund-raising program for charitable organizations. Members take catalog orders and 10 per cent of the proceeds go to the organization.

Some make even more on this. The members buy the kits, earning the 10 per cent cash for their organization, and then make them up and sell them at Christmas bazaars and the like.

Individuals and hostesses earn discounts on catalog orders. For counselors and hostesses, there are contests and bonuses.

SAYS MRS. FLYNN: "I believe in the program. Everyone is very craft-conscious right now, and it is very rewarding to be able to go into the homes, and in a relaxed atmosphere show people what we have and teach them what they want to learn."

"We have something for all levels, from beginners to experts."

With the Flynn's, it is a family affair. Mrs. Flynn's two sisters, who are both now living in Georgia, are area managers. Her mother, who comes from Mississippi, is an interested on-looker.

Mrs. Flynn's daughters help out in craft sessions.

Mrs. Flynn's favorites are latch-hook and crewel. One daughter, Darcy, 21, who manages a gasoline station, does any painting needed. Susan, 19, who has been sewing since she was two, is an expert at needlepoint and cross-stitching.

Interested persons may telephone Mrs. Flynn at 261-1865, or write to her at 30606 Grandon Ave., Livonia 48150.

Market Watch

By JOHN E. VERNIER

The third week of January, April, July and October are significant times to be aware of because it is when most corporations report their earnings for the quarter just ended.

While many factors influence the trend of stock prices, it is the earnings that will have the greatest effect in the long run.

October is of particular significance because earnings through the third quarter ended September are reported at this time, and they usually give a pretty good indication as to what the total year result will be.

While some corporations operate on a fiscal year—their corporate year begins and ends other than January and December—most companies operate on a calendar basis.

And, of course, from earnings come dividends. If a company has had a particularly good year, it may announce an increase in its annual dividend, or it may choose to pay a year-end extra.

While an announcement of this kind may be made at any time, it is more apt to occur in the latter months of the year.

DIVIDENDS ARE paid in one of two forms, or a combination of the two.

Most companies pay a straight cash dividend. Some, however, may choose to pay a stock dividend. If an investor is the owner of 100 shares of a company, for example, and the company declares a two per cent stock dividend, he will receive an additional two shares. Some companies will pay both.

This is a very good situation for the stockholder because not only is investment increasing in value through the added shares he will receive, but the annual income is increasing through the added income on the stock dividends.

When discussing dividends it is important to know that there are four dates of significance. There is the declaration date, the ex-dividend date, the record date, and the payment date.

WHEN A COMPANY declares a dividend it will indicate that all stockholders of record as of a certain date will be entitled to receive the dividend.

That doesn't mean, however, that all parties of record will be entitled to the dividend. Since the settlement date for purchases and sales of stocks is usually one week after the trade date, an adjustment must be made to protect the person who might purchase a stock shortly before the record date.

It might be physically impossible for the broker to have the new owner's name recorded on the books of the corporation in time to get the dividend to which he is entitled.

So, an ex-dividend (without dividend) date is established to determine whether the buyer or the seller will get the dividend. That date is usually a week prior to the record date.

It is always important to check with your broker when buying or selling a stock close to the record date to be sure of the status.

Drugstore promotional firm builds in Westland

Ground breaking ceremonies last week marked the start of construction of a 250,000-square-foot midwestern regional distribution center of B and E Sales Company, Inc., a major distributor of drugstore promotional merchandise.

The $4.5 million facility will be located at 700 Manufacturers Drive in Westland's Cherry Hill Industrial Park at Cherry Hill and Newburg.

The project will lead to consolidation of several other B and E facilities in the metropolitan area. The company's corporate offices will remain in Detroit. Other distribution centers are located in Industry, Calif.; Baltimore, Md.; and Memphis, Tenn.

R. E. Dailey & Company of Detroit are the builders of the Westland center, which was designed by Rosen-Neumann Associates of Southfield.

There will be 3,000 square feet of office space, with the balance serving as warehouse. Sufficient land has been purchased to allow for expansion of the finished building to a total of 350,000 square feet.

The company warehouses and distributes a vast line of premarketed and tested retail-consumer oriented merchandise, serving independent drugstores and chains.

Sharp economic downturn doubted

By RALPH REYNOLDS
The Fairchild Syndicate

The U.S. may still be able to escape a recession late this year and in early 1979 and instead experience simply a period of declining growth, in the opinion of Robert B. Lawson, manager of economic analysis at Burlington Industries.

Admitting that the negatives still outweigh the positives at this point in the business cycle, Lawson expressed guarded optimism in his presentation to a recent meeting of the Piedmont Chapter of the American Association for Textile Technology.

"We still have a chance that there will be a gradual winding down of the economy in the next six months, rather than a sharp downturn," Lawson said.

"We are smarter as an industry (textile) and companies are certainly smarter in inventory control as all segments from retailers to apparel to textiles are adjusting inventories in self defense."

"I think the next couple of months will be important in determining what actually happens," Lawson said.

Positive factors he cited for avoiding a recession:

- Capacity utilization is not back to calendar year 1974 levels.

- Employment gains continue to exceed expectations.
- Personal income continues to grow.

On the negative side, he noted, "At this point in the economic recovery, there are a number of red flags."

- Among them:
- Inflation continues to be a problem.
- Interest rates are continuing to increase.
- Credit outstanding is at historic levels.
- The negative trade balance and the budget deficit are both of concern.
- Productivity gains, particularly in the nonmanufacturing sector, have been disappointing.
- Housing, while still strong, can be expected to slow in coming months.
- Many consumers and businesses appear to hedge buying.
- The recovery is 42 months old this month.

Discussing the consumer price index, Lawson said, "If consumer price increases don't begin to moderate over the next several months, that will be a signal that the economy is moving from the moderate growth path into a recession path."

ON THE IMPORTANT aspects of the consumer price index, he noted that historically the rate of consumer price increase has slowed in the year after a downturn began. "We are presently looking for a light moderation in consumer price increases during calendar year 1979," Lawson said.

"Prices are expected to increase at a 7.5 per cent rate during calendar year 1978 and slow to 7.1 per cent in the calendar year 1979. However, if the economy were to slip into a recession, price increases would be higher."

Under the recession scenario, price increases would be expected to increase 7.5 per cent in 1978, 8 per cent in 1979.

"Given the 8 per cent annual rate of increase in consumer prices during the first quarter of this year, and the 10.9 per cent annual rate of increase in the second quarter of this year, an average of 7.5 per cent for the year may be tough to achieve," Lawson went on.

He reminded the group that most of the rise in the first half of the year was due to food prices and these increases were expected to moderate during the second half of the year.

Turning to the Consumer Sentiment Index (consumer confidence) as measured by the University of Minnesota, Lawson pointed out the indicator peaked a number of quarters before the last two recessions.

"One encouraging note, however, is that for the last two recessions, there was a sharp drop in consumer sentiment before each recession. Since the recent drop has been much more gradual, it may suggest a slowdown in growth rather than a recession in the offing."

YET ANOTHER indicator is the help wanted advertising index, compiled by the Conference Board, which measures tightness of the labor market. "This index has yet to peak and it peaked before each of the last two recessions," said Lawson.

The tightness of the labor market shows up in the unemployment statistics. The unemployment rate in August fell to 5.9 per cent from 6.2 per cent in July and 7 per cent average for calendar year 1978.

Although more people are working, the purchasing power of the average consumer is coming under increasing pressure, primarily for two reasons, according to Lawson: Rising interest rate and increasing prices.

He said that while the price rate was nowhere near the levels in 1974 and early 1975, it had risen more than 3 percentage points from its low in early 1977 to 9.5 per cent now. And the purchasing power of the U.S. dollar has declined almost 50 per cent since 1967.

On real gross national product, Lawson reminded the group that the forecast, giving slightly better than 50 per cent odds, was that the economy will grow 3.9 per cent in 1978 and 3.2 per cent in 1979.

Gary Moss, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Moss, 29614 Curtis, Livonia, has been named a vice-president of the J. Walter Thompson Company in Chicago. An account supervisor, Moss joined the firm in 1972 as an assistant account representative. Earlier, he had worked in sales at the Dow-Jones Company. He is a 1971 graduate of Michigan State University where he majored in advertising and marketing.

Architects pay tribute to Redstone

Louis G. Redstone, president of Louis G. Redstone Associates, Inc. of Livonia, has received the Michigan Society of Architects' highest honor, the MSA Gold Medal.

It was presented at the society's 63rd annual convention at Kalamazoo "in recognition for notable contribution to the Michigan Society of Architects, the American Institute of Architects, and its components."

The medal also recognizes Redstone's outstanding achievement in one or more areas of professional endeavor. Among Redstone's contributions is his authorship of four published books, with a fifth now in preparation.

Also at the Kalamazoo convention, the Robert F. Hastings award for distinguished service was presented to Charles Blessing, professor of architecture and urban design at the University of Detroit. Blessing is former city planning director for Detroit.

Gift from Lions

Michael Meldrum (left), director of the Madonna College Educational Support Services in the Interpretation and Total Communication Department, demonstrates a special tape recorder to Ted Opalinski, past president of the Livonia Lions Club and president of Northwest Electronics. The recorder was a gift from the Lions Club to aid the college's support program for deaf and hearing-impaired students. This year the Lions Club is helping other groups in addition to its historical emphasis on aiding the blind.

Come visit with nature when you move into this 4 bedroom bi-level with family room and

They have our number, do you?

No, we're not talking about our telephone number, although that's an important number too, we're talking about "736", the classification number for "Wanted to Buy" want ads.

Lots of people think the only way to use ads is to tell people what they have to sell. Not so. One little 736 ad will tell people what you want to buy. Looking for a cradle, scuba gear, a 1937 "Superman" comic book? Stick it in 736 and wait for people to call, it's that simple.

And if you've read this far and are thinking, "I really don't have any one special thing I want to buy....we have plenty of numbers for you, too...626...700...708...722. We invite you to try any of these because all of our numbers add up to a lot of satisfaction for you, whether you're in a buying or selling mood.

WHEN YOU GRADUATE FROM COLLEGE were you looking for an opportunity to grow through rapid personal development into a position in management with a real "Blue Chip" company? Did you look forward to working with people as a "take charge" person because you felt you had real leadership ability? Have your abilities and potential been overlooked? If so, you may be qualified for an entry level position in

PROCTER & GAMBLE SALES LEADING TO
SALES MANAGEMENT

Some of the things we look for in a candidate include:

1. Demonstrated leadership skills. Your ability to lead and motivate others might be indicated in any number of ways, through leadership positions you held in fraternities or sororities, sports, student government or other campus activities while in college, in civic clubs or organizations, in the military, or through your current work experience.

2. A liking for competition and a desire to win. The men and women you will be competing with are high achievers.
They're self-starters, resourceful, highly motivated. They like the sales atmosphere because of the challenge.

3. Confidence in your own abilities. This means the kind of confidence that will let you start at an entry level position and compete for the chance to move up into management.

The training you'll receive and the opportunity for personal development will be exactly the same kind of training and opportunity given to every one of our present Sales Managers when they started at the entry level. The rest is up to you, we promote only from within, on a basis of merit alone, without reference to time.

If this sounds like something that would give you more personal satisfaction than your present work, and you believe you are qualified, send your resume to

MR. TOM FISHER
THE PROCTER & GAMBLE DISTRIBUTING CO.
P.O. Box 333

developed, we will be in touch with you within seven working days.

Mazda's GLC Sport (top) has standard five-speed manual transmission, wood-grain steering wheel and shift knob, wide blackwall radial ply tires and a striping package. The three-door Mazda GLC hatchback (below) has a new 1,415 cc overhead cam engine, with 25 per cent more horsepower than last year.

'79 Mazdas introduced

Toyota Kogyo's Mazda GLC for 1979 are more powerful than the tiny car which was advertised as the least expensive three-door car in 1978.

All the GLCs have larger, more powerful engines and other changes, such as a fully automatic choke, keyless operation of the remote electric hatch release and split rear seat seatbacks on all models.

The 1979 GLC's engine displaces 1,415 cubic centimeters, compared with 1,272 in 1978. This 11 per cent increase in size was augmented by other changes, resulting in a 25 per cent increase in horsepower. The 49-state version now has 65 horsepower. The California version has 61 horses.

Even with the larger and more powerful engine, the Mazda GLC line still delivers good fuel economy. The EPA estimates for GLC hatchbacks are 30 miles per gallon in city driving with either a four-speed or five-speed manual transmission. With automatic transmission, the figure is 29 miles per gallon for the 49-state version.

The GLC line now comprises six models, one of the broadest selections of economy cars on the market. There are three 3-door hatchbacks—a standard model, a deluxe model designated DX, and the top-of-the-line Sport. Other models are a five-door hatchback—a DX model; and two 5-door wagons—a standard and a DX.

The manufacturer's suggested retail prices begin at $3,895 for the three-door hatchback and $4,285 for the new wagon.

Chiropractic Means Good Health

CARLTON R. MASHIKE, D.C.

THIS ARTICLE IS PUBLISHED FOR YOUR BENEFIT
SO THAT YOU MAY SEEK HEALTH FROM WHERE IT IS FOUND

Ask your neighbors or friends at work. You would be amazed at how many people go to chiropractors.

If you want a more detailed story, come to our new patient orientation on Wednesdays at 7:45. We'll answer all your questions.

We're the fastest, largest growing health profession in the world and now you know why. Chiropractic works!

• In order to accomplish this there must be no pressure on nerve fibers (nerve fibers carry the signals from the brain to all body parts.)

• In almost all cases, brains signals are blocked by twisted vertebrae as shown in the picture.

• The chiropractor specializes in finding and removing these twistings.

• The end result — the body returns to normal. A normal body is healthy.

• And with health, you need no drugs or surgery.

People who go to chiropractors (90 million a year) are healthier because of it. Most people think chiropractic care is for sore backs, well it's not. Chiropractic is associated with backs or more correctly the spine, because that's where most all diseases of the body originate, and chiropractic works on the cause of disease not it's symptoms.

That's right, the cause of most disease originates from the spine. Let me explain.

• The brain runs all organs of the body.

• It's main task is to maintain a high resistance to your body parts.

SERVICES PROVIDED AT THE MASHIKE CHIROPRACTIC LIFE CENTER

TWISTED VERTEBRAE

NORMAL VERTEBRAE

After the pressure is removed impulses from the brain will start coarsing through the fibers again and the organ will start to be repaired. AND YOUR HEALTH WILL THEN RETURN.

These pinched nerve fibers don't give any pain, so you can't tell by feeling if they exist.

Only a Chiropractic spinal examination will reveal them. When they are found the Chiropractor then precisely adjusts the vertebrae into its original position thus taking pressure off the pinched nerve fiber.

SUFFERING NEEDLESSLY?

Millions are turning to chiropractic because they are recognizing the scientific principles of nature that have made spinal adjustments effective for many conditions where other methods have failed.

The chart below shows the lateral view of the spinal column and indicates in section "A" names of the spinal nerves as they branch from the spinal cord and exit through openings between the vertebrae. All tissues, glands and organs supplied with life energy by these nerves are shown in the section marked "B" in the chart. The section marked "C" describes a partial list of the conditions and symptoms that can result when there is an absence of life in the nerves.

SPINAL NERVE INVOLVEMENT CAUSES MANY CONDITIONS

The spinal chart shown above is directed especially to those people who have tried to regain their health through methods other than chiropractic, and have failed. That failure should not lead to discouragement, but to greater determination to discover the fundamental cause of all disease.

Since the discovery of chiropractic, no one needs to feel that he or she is destined to be sick all their life. Remember, "Where there is life there is hope and he who has hope has everything."

Chiropractic Patients — "Tell It Like It Is!"

I Definitely Recommend Chiropractic if You're Pregnant

I was seven months pregnant when I had my first adjustment by Dr. Mashike. I had very bad lower back pains through my whole pregnancy.

I wasn't sleeping at night because of it and it was very uncomfortable to sit for any period of time. After my first few adjustments, I was sleeping much better, even moving around more freely.

Even through my labor and delivery, I was more comfortable without the back pains I would have had. I definitely recommend chiropractic to every pregnant mother.

Dr. Mashike has a special adjustment table, so he can adjust you without bothering your stomach, and it feels so good to be able to lay on your stomach for a change.

Asthma, for 16 Out of 17 Months of Life

Linda Ann Pram

My 17 month old daughter had chronic asthma and was in and out of hospitals since she was 4 weeks old. She lived on medicine.

Since she's been seeing Dr. Mashike, she is on no medication and hasn't been sick in over a month. She's been seeing him almost 2 months. My baby used to never go 2 days without wheezing — she has gone one month now and without medicine.

All of us in the family were sick with one thing or another. Things we didn't believe could be helped by adjustments on the spine. But it's true, we have all benefited from chiropractic care. You will too, it's great.

Whole Family Is Now Better with Chiropractic

Oh yes, I had a son, and he's a chiropractic baby. He was checked by Dr. Mashike as soon as we could get him in. Babies are sometimes twisted in a difficult deliver and their spines could be out of position. We weren't going to take any chances, so we had him checked by Dr. Mashike. He is a very good baby and sleeps 7 hours during the night. I know chiropractic has helped.

Cheryl Moss

Cheryl Moss

I was injured on my job, as a result I had cramps, pain, and even numbness to my right arm and hand. The problems kept getting worse.

Even though I was going to medical doctors and they gave me tests and many pills, there was no relief.

At Dr. Mashike's office, he traced the problem to my spine and he also found the cause of my constant plugged nose which I had for years and which I only mentioned because the question was asked on the initial report form.

Believe it or not, within one week, my nose is completely free to breathe again. And after several adjustments to my spine, the numbness is gone and the sharp pain between the shoulder blades is too.

Dr. Mashike is very thorough in his testing of the spine. I have been very impressed with the outcome, and surprised and grateful at the health report given to me (all patients are given a printed report on their condition with complete suggestions for total health recovery). A good guide to better health for sure.
