Here's tips for Oct. 31

For a safer Halloween, goblinize your youngsters with painted faces instead of masks when they go trick-or-treating.

It's a matter of sight—not so much seeing the youngsters as letting them see out of their disguises.

Masks can slip out of place, warned optometrist Dr. James Flynn, or they may have such small eye holes that the child's view is blocked. This could cause him to miss seeing approaching cars, objects on the ground, steps, curbs, and holes in lawns or streets.

"A safe alternative to masks is the use of non-allergic makeup to disguise your child for Halloween fun," said Dr. Flynn, president of the Michigan Optometric Association. He added that makeup should be applied by an adult to avoid accidents with makeup applicators.

Parents should also be concerned that others be able to see their children.

The Westland optometrist also pointed out that some simple costume decorating tricks can help protect children from accidental injury by making them safely visible to drivers.

"Add retro-reflective material to a costume," he suggested. "It is the easiest and best way to increase its visibility to safe levels."

According to optometric studies, the material makes pedestrians safely visible to drivers traveling even at the excessive speeds of 70-80 miles per hour.

Parents who want Halloween to be a treat for their children rather than a hospital treatment can purchase this retro-reflective material in iron-on, sew-on and stick-on varieties in most hardware stores.

It should be applied to the front, sides and back of the costume, advised Dr. Flynn.

Here's one way to make this Halloween a safe one as young troopers storm neighborhoods throughout western Wayne County. Use plenty of makeup instead of a mask, advises Sandy Hebert of Westland. Applying makeup can be fun and the end result can be pretty fierce, as demonstrated on Jeff Hebert, 7. When it comes to makeup, Mrs. Hebert is an expert, having helped create many of the "monsters" who haunt Westland's spook house. Some other tips from Mrs. Hebert: Apply cold cream before makeup. It makes clean-up easier. Avoid getting makeup close to a youngster's eyes. Eye shadow and lipstick work just as well as theatrical makeup and are less expensive, she adds. (Staff photo by Art Emanuel)

Signs stymied by technicality

Opponents of Canton's proposed new sign law can breathe a sigh of relief, while the ordinance's supporters prepare for another wait.

Because a public hearing on the proposed set of regulations was held 12 days after notice of the meeting was published instead of eight days, the entire package has to go back to the planning commission.

The proposed ordinance would allow businesses to erect freestanding signs with an area of up to 50 square feet and a height of 15 feet.

Trustee candidate Robert Greenstein and treasurer candidate Jim Donahue say they notified Clerk John Flodin of the violation of state law governing planning commission procedures.

Both candidates have made no secret of their opposition to the more liberal provisions in the ordinance, which would allow businesses freestanding signs. Currently, Canton law forbids such signs.

Flodin said the violation was brought to his attention last Wednesday.

"In my judgement, we will have to go through the whole process again before we can legally act on the ordinance," Flodin said.

The clerk said his secretary placed the notices of the hearing, but he accepts responsibility for the error.

"We held the required two hearings and published notice of them, but one of those hearings (in April) wasn't held in the right amount of time after the notice," Flodin said.

The proposed sign ordinance caused considerable controversy when it came before the board earlier in the month. Greenstein, Donahue and trustee candidate Carol Bodenmiller were among the opponents to the ordinance, while business people and Canton Chamber of Commerce officials pleaded for quick passage of the proposal.

At the insistence of Greenstein, the board agreed the ordinance should be referred to the Wayne County Planning Commission for recommendations.

The county commission has postponed making a recommendation on the ordinance until Nov. 1.

According to Flodin, the township attorney has been contacted to give an opinion on the violation.

If the process of holding public hearings has to be gone through again, the township board will have newly elected board members when the time comes to decide whether to pass the ordinance.

Because only three trustees are running for two trustee seats, at least one of the strongest objectors will be on the board when the ordinance is finally acted upon.

The suggested change would also give businesses more leeway in size and type of sign.

Candidates vow they'll vote for land rights mills

If the votes of candidates for Canton offices are the same as most of the township's residents, the four-mill proposal to establish a development rights purchase program would win by a landslide.

That's providing the contenders for local offices really do vote to support the program on the November ballot, as they claimed Wednesday night.

Every candidate present at the candidate's night held by the League of Women Voters of Northville, Plymouth, Canton and Novi vowed to vote for the controversial issue when asked to give his or her position.

Three candidates, however, did not make the statement. Republican supervisor candidate John Longridge wasn't present, and write-in candidates Supervisor Harold Stein and Treasurer Anne Bradley weren't asked. The league does not invite write-in candidates to sit in on the candidate panel.

The candidates who were present to give statements and answer questions were Supervisor candidate Noel Culbert, a Democrat; clerk candidate John Flodin, the unopposed incumbent; treasurer candidates Maria Falkiewicz (a Democrat) and James Donahue (a Republican); Democratic trustee candidates Carol Bodenmiller and Robert Greenstein; and Republican trustee candidate Gary Roberts.

ALTHOUGH all the candidates said they would vote for the development rights program, most said they didn't think it would pass with a four mill limit, or that the millage amount was too high.

None of the other questions polling all candidates on their stands received such a consensus.

Two issues that have become prime campaign fodder—a proposed sign ordinance and the awarding of a liquor license to the Palace restaurant (at the last township board meeting) drew mixed responses from candidates.

Although most candidates acknowledged the problems of businesses in the township, few seemed completely happy about instituting a more liberal sign ordinance.

Roberts was the only candidate to make a statement supporting the new proposed ordinance, although he said he did not support developing shopping centers scattered through the township. "The business people pay taxes too," he said.

Flodin offered no strong opinion on the ordinance one way or the other.

The other candidates registered opinions against the ordinance ranging from lukewarm to vehement.

"I want to retain those beautiful things I came here to get," Donahue commented.

"I believe Canton should be run by the homeowners," Greenstein said. The candidate accused the present administration of "prostituting the various boards by appointing businesspeople to all the slots," thus slanting the ordinance toward business. He was supervisor of Canton in 1975 when the current sign ordinance forbidding such things as freestanding business signs was passed.

With the exception of Roberts and Flodin, all candidates objected to the approval of a liquor license for the Palace restaurant.

Flodin said, "Every applicant should be considered. Liquor licenses should be used to enhance the residential tax base. They don't make the township any money if they're not issued."

Roberts said the board would be guilty of "being little dictators" by being too selective when issuing the licenses.

Greenstein led the opposition to the move made by the township board. "Anyone who voted for issuing that license is an idiot and should be tarred and feathered," he said.

Flodin said he was one of those who voted for the move.

Prior to the candidate's forum, the Canton Farmland Preservation Education Committee presented a slide program giving the pros and cons of the development rights purchase concept.

The League of Women Voters presents a candidate's night each year. The moderator for the program was Sally Posthill.

Fourth Friday count up

Schools gain extra revenue

The schools have gained about $207,000 in revenue since the official operating budget was adopted last June.

That report was given to trustees

Monday night by Raymond Hoedel, assistant superintendent for business of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

The reason for the unexpected revenues is a higher student enrollment on the fourth Friday in September than had been anticipated last June. State aid payments is based on the official Fourth Friday count and goes up as enrollment climbs because the aid formula is on a per pupil basis.

Last June, Hoedel explained, the budget was based on student enrollment of 16,000. When the millage rate was established last month was based on an anticipated official count of 16,100. Since then, though, the district has received word from the state that its official enrollment count for purposes of computing state aid is 16,140.

That results in an increase of $292,000 in state aid payments. But since June the district has had an increase of about $37,000 in project expenses, for a net income gain of about $207,000.

The current budget, Hoedel pointed out, uses for operating expenses some $1.2 million in fund equity which had been collected. The impact of the increased state aid is to reduce the current "operating deficit" down from $1.2 million to about $862,000.

IN OTHER ACTION the board voted to delay taking action on a grievance filed by the teachers' union for two weeks.

During those two weeks, negotiators for the school board and for the teachers' union will meet to see if the grievance can be settled, after a further investigation of facts.

The grievance involves a home economics teacher, Carol Robinson, from Plymouth Canton High who had been employed part-time, claims she was laid off and not given an opportunity to bid for a fulltime opening as required by contract.

The Plymouth-Canton Education Association presented the school board with a letter of layoff signed by Kent Buikema, principal of Canton High.

Norman Kee, director of personnel, claimed that Mrs. Robinson was never laid off and that Buikema's letter was not a notice of layoff. Layoff notices only can be issued by the central personnel office, Kee added, and principals do not have authority to hire or fire.

The program is sponsored by the National Council of Senior Citizens, and it has provided the funds to Child and Family Services as the sponsor agency in this area for the administration of the program.

THE $194,000 IS enough to hire some 60 senior aides.

The portion of the grant being funneled to the Plymouth-Canton agencies is enough to hire seven aides at about $3 per hour up to 30 hours per week.

Announcement of the grant is particularly timely for the YMCA which has had some grant monies cut back and has been wondering how to finance its senior citizen programs.

The YMCA is seeking people to fill the following senior aide positions:

- Youth worker aide in an after-school supervision program for pre-school and school age children of working parents.

- Homemaker aide for senior citizens—assisting senior citizens in their own homes by performing general household tasks and activities.

- General maintenance aide for senior citizens in their own homes, assisting them by performing any of a wide variety of minor home repair jobs.

The positions are open to low income men and women, age 55 years and older. Persons interested in applying for the three aide positions of the YMCA should contact Janet Luce or Jean Campeau at 453-2904.

Grant enables agencies to offer senior aide

A $194,000 federal grant for a senior aide program has been received by Child and Family Services of Washtenaw County that will allow hiring of seven aides to help senior citizens in the township's proximity to freeways, airports and railroad lines. The pamphlet promotes the township as an ideal location for industry in southeastern Michigan. It stresses the township's proximity to freeways, airports and railroad lines. The pamphlet praises township government as well as the three school districts that serve the township.

Supervisor Harold Stein, who serves as chairman of the EDC, believes the three community non-profit agencies will be participating as "host agencies" for senior aide positions. The local agencies are the Canton, Northville, Plymouth YMCA, the Plymouth Salvation Army, and Plymouth Opportunity House.

Stein hopes that industry and business in Canton Township will eventually pay 50 per cent of the taxes with residents picking up the other half. Canton residents currently pay 75 per cent of the taxes, while business and industry pay 25 per cent.

According to Stein, the promotional pamphlet cost the township "less than $1,000." The supervisor said he has no idea how much distribution costs will be.

pamphlet will be a valuable tool to the two organizations that were formed to attract industry to Canton Township.

"We've been trying to get this pamphlet ready for a year," said the supervisor. "We need something like this, because we're competing for a tax base. Everyone is."

NO ON THREE

The League of Women Voters of Northville, Plymouth, Canton, Novi are urging a "no" vote on the Headlee, Tish and voucher tax proposals. See story on Page 2A.

None seek equity

LWV urges defeat of 3 tax proposals Nov. 7

Opposition to all three tax proposals on the Nov. 7 ballot (Headlee, Tisch and voucher) was reaffirmed by the League of Women Voters of Northville, Plymouth, Canton, Novi at its board meeting last month.

The League is opposed to Proposal E (Headlee), Proposal H (voucher) and Proposal J (Tisch) because none of them eliminate the inequities in present taxing system, explains president Kari Miller. Ms. Miller said none of them really constitutes tax reform.

The League is a nonpartisan organization whose purpose is to promote informed and active participation of citizens in government.

After study and consensus, the League takes action on selected governmental issues. The League is concerned with the problems and costs of financing government services and is in the midst of a two-year statewide study on this subject.

The League believes that none of these proposals address the problem of tax reform in a responsible manner and urges a "no" vote on all three, stresses Ms. Miller.

FOLLOWING LAST WEEK's board meeting, the local LWV group issued the following position statement on the tax proposals:

"Proposals E (Headlee) and J (Tisch) conflict with long-standing League positions for adequacy, equity and flexibility in the state's tax system and against constitutional restrictions on the legislature's power to tax. Both proposals will reduce the flexibility needed to provide services in both good and poor economic times.

"Proposal J (Tisch) will cause serious problems to state and local governments in funding necessary services no matter what economic conditions prevail. To provide the necessary funding, alternative sources of revenue such as increased fees, user charges, increased business taxes and nuisance taxes will be necessary because of the inadequacy of the one per cent additional limit placed on the income tax to replace necessary revenue.

"Both proposals (E and J) lock into place existing fiscal relations between state and local governments, reducing the flexibility to adjust service costs between local and state government levels as resources and needs change."

LEAGUE OPPOSITION TO PROposal H (voucher) is based on member agreement throughout the state that public funds should not be used for non-public education except for shared-time, auxiliary services and transportation.

"League members believe that all three levels of government should share in the funding of public education with the state bearing greatest responsibility. However, to shift total operating costs to the state threatens local school districts' ability to retain control of spending of the educational dollar.

"There is nothing in Proposal H which protects local control because implementation of the proposal will be left to the legislature and vouchers can only be used in state approved schools. New legislation will have to be written defining state approved schools.

"The voucher system would require an increase in total taxes because of the added cost of vouchers for the approximate 200,000 private school pupils.

"The League recognizes that citizens feel burdened by taxes, although the percentage of personal income in Michigan paid in state-local taxes is lower than in 32 of the 50 states.

"What is needed is true reform in the area of property tax assessments and a better sharing of costs of public education between local property tax and state income tax. None of the three proposals solve these problems."

The League also urges a "no" vote on Proposal A which calls for convening a state constitutional convention, and urges a "yes" vote on Proposal M which would change the state Department of Transportation and freeze the present allocation of gasoline taxes which can be spent on non-highway transportation uses to 10 per cent.

DEARBORN ANN ARBOR

Treasurer candidates explain their goals

Anne Bradley

Many political observers see Anne Bradley as a rubber stamp for Supervisor Harold Stein.

But the Democrat incumbent treasurer who is seeking re-election through a write-in campaign as Stein's political partner insists that she is an independent thinker.

"Probably the reason we run together is that our basic philosophies are the same," explained the 53-year-old businesswoman, who also ran with Stein in the 1976 election.

"But Harold and I don't always agree. He has never told me how to vote, and I vote my own way."

Mrs. Bradley admits that she usually supports Stein on matters he introduces to the township board. But on many issues, such as the board's decision to rescind an earlier vote to purchase surplus military helicopters, Mrs. Bradley has voted against the supervisor.

THE INCUMBENT treasurer said she supports Stein's stand on the need for additional recreation programs, a Canton library and a "qualified" police department.

Mrs. Bradley is hesitant to give her support to the farmland preservation proposal that will appear on the November ballot. If voters approve the proposal, an additional four mills ($4 per $1,000 assessed valuation) will be levied to purchase farmers' development rights.

The daughter of immigrants from Romania, Mrs. Bradley is vehemently opposed to any program that would strip landowners of any rights without their consent.

Although the development rights program is theoretically voluntary, supporters of the program admit that some farmers may be unable to sell their land to developers even if their development rights are not sold. The lack of sewer and water lines and agricultural zoning could preclude a land sale, supporters admit.

"No one enjoys open space more than I do," said the Canton resident of 23 years. "It broke my heart to see this township develop."

"But my father told me how they (the Romanian government) took land away from people. To me, it isn't a democracy when the government is trying to confiscate these things."

As township treasurer, Mrs. Bradley is upset over accusations that the Stein administration has spent too much money for land purchases such as Fellows Creek Golf Course and industrial land near Warren and Haggerty.

She notes that the township now has a cash surplus of about $1 million. The treasurer claims that when she took office in 1976, the surplus was only $463,000.

MRS. BRADLEY supports the proposed Headlee amendment but is opposed to the Tisch proposal that would tax property at 25 per cent of its market value rather than 50 per cent.

If the Tisch proposal is approved by Michigan voters, Mrs. Bradley said police and fire protection should be the top priority of township officials when they restructure Canton's budget.

Non-vital expenditures for such things as recreation and land purchases might have to be cut, she said.

During her two-year term in office, Mrs. Bradley has collected more than $10,000 in delinquent ambulance fees; supervised the township's first public auction which raised almost $18,000; reduced the cost of the township's weed-cutting program from $51,000 in 1976 to $19,000 in 1978; and conducted the first inventory of township equipment.

"I see no major problems in Canton Township right now," as she hopefully looked forward to another two years in office. "It's just problems people are creating for themselves."

Mrs. Bradley and her husband, George, are owners of B&K Lawn & Garden on Canton Center Road. The incumbent treasurer worked as a secretary and cashier for Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. for 25 years.

Mrs. Bradley is confident that she and Stein have a good chance of winning this Nov. 7.

"If we make it, we'll be in the Guinness Book of World Records," she said, referring to the 1977 recall election and tough campaign the administrators faced in 1976.

ANNE BRADLEY

James Donahue

When Jim Donahue decided to run for Canton treasurer, he had his mind on 1998.

"We have to look down a tunnel and imagine what Canton Township will be like in 20 years," the Republican candidate said of his top campaign priority.

"We have to decide what we want and enact legislation to get us there. If we don't do anything else in two years, I want to see that done."

Donahue would like to make Canton an esthetically-pleasing community within the next 20 years. He would like to see Canton's farmland preserved even if a four-mill request that would finance a development rights program is defeated by voters Nov. 7.

He thinks Canton needs more industrial development, but he is not willing to sacrifice the esthetics he believes residents want simply to get an increased tax base.

Donahue admits that the township's strict sign ordinance that prohibits all freestanding signs should be relaxed. But he believes the ordinance proposed by the planning commission leans too far toward business interests.

DONAHUE SAID he decided to enter the political arena this year because Canton Township "is floundering."

He favors many of the programs—such as the term ordinance and 1976 master land use plan—that former Supervisor Robert Greenstein initiated in his term of office.

"In the last two years, I've seen many of those programs stalled or destroyed," maintains Donahue, a vocal critic of Supervisor Harold Stein's administration.

"I figured if I wanted to make Canton a good place for my family to live, it was my turn. If you want something done right, sometimes you have to do it yourself."

Some election observers believe Donahue and Democratic trustee candidate Greenstein are running on a disguised slate this year.

Donahue served as Greenstein's campaign manager in the 1976 election and a Greenstein appointee on the Zoning Board of Appeals.

But Donahue insists that he will not serve as Greenstein's rubber stamp if both are elected to the board of trustees.

"Bob and I are friends, there's no denying that," the treasurer candidate admitted. "But I do not agree with Bob on everything. And I do not agree with his cutting temper."

AS A TREASURER candidate, Donahue said he supports the proposed Headlee amendment but opposes the Tisch proposal to cut property assessments 50 per cent.

If the Tisch proposal is approved, Donahue proposes cutting the budget of the recreation department, the community development department and other non-essential areas. He vehemently opposes budget cuts in the police and fire departments.

Donahue believes the escalating costs of running the township could be curtailed if Canton's secretarial staff is centralized. He maintains that a centralized clerical staff could perform the additional work that may pour into township hall in the future.

The 30-year-old treasurer candidate is purchasing agent and operations manager for Moore Greens Co., a wholesale distributor for the flower industry. The family-owned company was founded by Donahue's grandfather in 1931.

"I feel I have the flexibility I need to do both jobs well," Donahue said of his work at Moore Greens and the part-time treasurer's job.

Donahue has lived in Canton's Forest Brook Subdivision for the past five years.

JIM DONAHUE

Maria Falkiewicz

Less than a year ago, Maria Falkiewicz was immersed in plans to market a new home bookkeeping system she had developed. She was concerned about what happened in her home town, Canton community, but she didn't make a lot of waves.

All that is changed now. Ms. Falkiewicz ran as a Democratic candidate for Canton treasurer, won the primary, and now faces Republican Jim Donahue in the November general election.

"This is all new to me," she says. "When I was out in the audience (at township board meetings) I assumed those board members had the information and knew what they were doing."

Now, Ms. Falkiewicz isn't so sure that board members do have all the information, or would use it if they had it.

The candidate says she got involved in politics because she felt she "had to do something about Canton."

She had made several detailed investigations of Canton issues and supplied information to the board during her days as a member of the audience.

Most notable of those studies were her reports on the feasibility of remodeling part of the township fire hall for a courthouse, and background on the proposed purchase of surplus helicopters for Canton.

She feels the feasibility study for the courthouse project wasn't adequate "because it didn't include equipment, office machines, new judges' special needs, a probation department, jury deliberation room or holding room."

"Plus you should never put a courthouse next to a fire station. They should have considered renovating the police department for a courthouse, but no one even considered it."

She says she supplied the board information about alternatives on the courthouse plan, but nothing was done about her report.

She was more successful in her move to stop the purchase of surplus army helicopters, as promoted by Supervisor Harold Stein.

She had help that time, other board members and residents also opposed the move.

That's the big question about Maria Falkiewicz: Will her quiet manner make her an effective board member and administrator?

She thinks so. "I can be effective quietly. People have to trust in you and believe in you. You don't have to scream and shout to get your point across."

Ms. Falkiewicz has several points she wants to get across if she is elected. But her first goal is to "learn the job completely."

"Until you're in office, you don't know all that it entails. I would have to evaluate and know exactly where the priorities are."

Although she says she will be flexible until she knows all the problems, she has promised to eliminate the one per cent collection fee on property taxes and work at cost cutting.

"I would also make sure the budget is amended if we go over on a budget item. That's the way it's supposed to be done, and the township isn't always doing it."

She is also concerned that the township "utilize grant money properly. We must recognize that grants are still costing the taxpayers money. I don't care if the government gives us 100 helicopters—it still costs money to maintain them."

She says she will vote for the four-mill ballot proposal that will allow Canton to retain farmlands through the purchase of development rights.

"I still feel some alternative like zoning could be good. But what about the farmers who lease land? They probably wouldn't get a reduction in the rent even though the owners would get a tax break on it."

"You have to consider everyone," she says. She hopes "they'll have enough sense to stop it," if a development rights purchase program didn't work out.

She says she feels the treasurer's office will have to become a full time job soon. "There's so much that needs to be done."

And she thinks she's the person who could do the job. "I feel I've accomplished a great deal in my life. I've been responsible with money and I can relate to people. I'd be an asset to the community."

MARIA FALKIEWICZ

By CAROLINE PRICE

Just around the corner

Contrary to popular belief, Halloween is not a holiday in which to solicit candy, carve pumpkins, tell scary stories and generally raise hell.

It used to be that way, I hear. Not any more.

Halloween now marks the date merchants can drag out the Christmas stock without undue worries of jumping the gun.

Now, Thanksgiving used to be the starting gate for the Christmas rush. They carted the big Santa Claus through the streets of New York during the Macy's Thanksgiving Day parade and everybody knew it was time to go out and buy Christmas cards.

Of course, there was always some eager beaver who snuck a few Christmas ornaments in amongst the candy corn prior to All Hallow's Eve, but the action always received a vague air of disapproval.

The reason for all this pushing up the holiday season, presumably, is because most merchants make their biggest bucks on Christmas stuff.

The longer they extend the yuletide greetings, the longer they have to dip in the consumer's pocketbook.

If you're only seriously shopping for Christmas presents during a span of several weeks, you have to rush and hustle to get everyone whatever you find to get them. The longer you have to look for presents, the more people you realize you probably should get presents for.

THUS, GREAT Aunt Mable on your mother's side may get a present she hadn't expected. And, of course, she has to run out and get a present for you in reciprocation.

The effect of all this is that you buy presents out of duty rather than genuine desire to give someone a carefully chosen gift.

The people who receive those duty gifts feel compelled to return the favor even if they can't afford it or haven't the slightest idea what your little heart desires.

There is another problem with these lengthy Christmas shopping seasons.

When all the Christmas decorations come out the minute it is decently possible, people start to feel frantic. "My God," they say, "All the Christmas stuff is out and I haven't even begun to shop."

So everyone descends upon the stores hoping they're not too late, while the cash registers sing "Joy to the World."

This leaves people like me, who haven't the remotest interest in even thinking about Christmas until we've made it through the other holidays (and had time to recover) in bad shape.

By the time we get around to it, all the stuff is gone from the shelves, and we are left with a few mangled pieces of tinsel and a Christmas tree that looks like it has mange.

I fully expect to see the Christmas trees popping up in people's happy homes at any time, along with lawn displays of illuminated sleighs that sweat in the heat of Indian Summer.

We can thank fake Christmas trees for this phenomena.

Real trees get nasty and become fire hazards if kept up much longer than a week. At one time, people snuck the balsams, Scotch pines or Douglas firs in on Christmas Eve to delight the kiddies in the morning. The trees were then around during the traditional 12 days of Christmas.

Those days extended after Christmas Day, not before.

Not anymore. Just as Christmas apparently starts in October, it now seems to end Dec. 25.

Just when I'm getting into the swing of things, people start taking all the Christmas decorations down Dec. 26 and the candy canes vanish from the stores.

After all, merchants have to make way for the summer stock.

So happy holidays to you all, before it's too late. And remember—there are only 55 shopping days until Christmas.

Two men vie for 35th District Court seats

PHIL OGILVIE

Both candidates for the new 35th District Court judgeship have similar views on what is needed in the state judicial system.

Northville candidate Philip Ogilvie and Plymouth candidate James Garber both would like to see the court's voluntary probation department expanded to include working with juvenile offenders.

Both favor proposed legislation that would enlarge the jurisdiction of the court's small claims division from $300 to $1,000.

Both favor proposed legislation that would increase the civil division jurisdiction from the present $10,000 limit.

Both believe that judges should be appointed, not elected. However, their views differ slightly about the manner in which the appointment process should work.

PROBATION DEPARTMENT

Juvenile offenders are presently placed on probation by the Wayne County Probate Court, juvenile division. Both Ogilvie and Garber say they will work for legislation that would allow juvenile offenders to be placed on probation with the district court.

Garber said such a system can be implemented in the district, even before new legislation is enacted.

"It is being done with the City of Dearborn through the cooperation of the police department, the Wayne County Juvenile Court and the district court, and it seems to have worked very well," Garber said.

He stressed that to initiate the program without legislation, it would have to be voluntary on the part of the youngster and his family.

Ogilvie and Garber would like juveniles handled at the local level because of the large probate court caseloads.

"The only rationale for probation is rehabilitation," Garber said. "You can't rehabilitate when you have a case load of 100. About all you can do is a once-a-month telephone call."

Garber said probation officers in the 35th District Court have a case load of three and that the recommended case load is between five and 10.

Ogilvie said the system would be better for both the juvenile offender and society.

"Local probation workers have received considerable training and are willing to take whatever other training deemed necessary," Ogilvie said.

"They would be able to handle each case on a more personal and individual basis."

The area's voluntary probation department was started by Ogilvie when he was municipal judge for the City of Northville and was expanded to serve the entire district when Judge Dunbar Davis was elected as district judge.

SMALL CLAIMS

At the present time, any individual can take a matter to court himself without an attorney if the amount involved is not more than $300. The defendant can agree to have the matter disposed of by simply having both parties tell their version to the judge, who make

CIVIL CASES

Both also favor proposed legislation which would increase the present $10,000 limit of the civil division jurisdiction.

"From inflation alone, it deserves to be at $20,000, or maybe $25,000, today," Garber said.

Both candidates favor the increase because it would relieve the Wayne County Circuit Court backlog.

"We can try a case in district court in a matter of months," Ogilvie said, "but in circuit court it takes 3½ to four years for a case to come up for trial. As the saying goes, 'Justice delayed is justice denied.'"

APPOINTED JUDGES?

Both Ogilvie and Garber agree that judges should be appointed, not elected.

"Essentially today in Michigan we have an appointed system," Garber said. "I would estimate that well over 50 per cent of our present judges initially came to the bench by way of gubernatorial appointment to fill unexpired terms."

Such an appointed judge must run for re-election, Garber pointed out, but he is often unopposed on the ballot.

Both Ogilvie and Garber agree that candidates should be recommended to the governor by a committee composed of both lawyers and laymen.

"Frankly, most of the public is not sufficiently informed as to the capabilities of individual candidates," Ogilvie said. "No matter how much time and money is spent in campaigns running one against the other, I feel the public can't have any real idea about who's the best candidate."

Both candidates agree that once a judge is appointed, he should be required to run against his record.

"This keeps control of the people on him," Ogilvie said. "All judges are subject to control through the judicial tenure commission, but in addition, I think people should have a right to say whether or not a judge should continue."

Garber likes the appointment system used by Governor Milliken to fill vacancies on the bench, except he would add laymen to the Michigan Bar Association committee that interviews and rates all candidates.

Ogilvie favors the Missouri system under which a screening committee narrows the candidates down to three, who are then recommended to the governor.

Snowmobile safety training classes set for teens

Students 12 to 16 years in the Livonia and Plymouth-Canton school districts will have a chance to participate in snowmobile safety training classes on Nov. 6, 8, 13, and 14.

The classes are co-sponsored by Livonia and Plymouth schools in cooperation with the Wayne County Sheriff's Department.

Classes will meet from 7-9 p.m. in the Churchill High School auditorium, Joy and Newburgh. A $3 per person fee will be charged.

In the past, the Wayne County Sheriff's Department offered these programs free of charge; Plymouth and Livonia each had separate programs. Budget cuts forced the elimination of the free program.

According to Officer Gerald Boyne who instructs the classes for the sheriff's department, the state requires that all youths between the ages of 12 to 16 operating a snowmobile have a snowmobile safety training certificate. This certificate can only be obtained after successfully completing the stateprescribed snowmobile safety class.

Boyne said that Michigan has more registered snowmobiles than any other state—nearly 400,000. It also has one of the highest fatality rates. The fatality rate is declining, however, he said. Boyne attributes the improved safety record to the better training and education young persons receive.

The class size is limited. Interested persons may call 422-1200, ext 334 before Nov. 3 to reserve a place in class. Participants must attend all four sessions. The $3 registration fee will be collected at the first class, Nov. 6.

"How can you tell if the person at your door is really a Michigan Bell Employee?"

As you may have noticed, our employees do not wear uniforms. They dress in the way they think is most appropriate to get their jobs done. While this permits them to look like the individuals they are, it really doesn't help you identify them as Bell employees. But, there is a way. Every Michigan Bell employee is required to carry a Michigan Bell identification card giving his or her name, photograph, and signature. For your protection, be sure to see this card before you admit them into your home. They'll be happy to show it to you.

KENNETH WAY

Way tells of early job hunt

By W.W. EDGAR

"I have been here 20 years. I guess that's what you call having a steady job."

The speaker was Ken Way, the white-haired city treasurer-assessor who has become almost as much a part of Plymouth City Hall as the bronze tablets in the lobby.

Seldom looking up from his work at the desk he confided that, as a young fellow, he yearned for a steady job, but somehow the chase was rather futile.

Now that he has seen two decades of service on the same job he likes to recall that in his hunt for steady employment he tried many jobs—even to digging graves in Grand Lawn Cemetery in Detroit.

"I always had a liking for office work, but never got the opportunity to find out how it would be until I came to city hall."

OVER THE YEARS he has worked in the shops at Bathey Manufacturing Company and Whitman-Barnes on Plymouth Road.

When he wasn't in the shops he worked for the L&H Wood Company making boxes and in the repair shops of the Studebaker Automobile Agency in Northville.

"I guess few fellows had a more circuitous route to their goal than I have travelled, but it has been a lot of fun."

While tracing the route, Way confided that it was a remark made by his wife that finally drove him on and landed him in city hall.

"I was about to be laid off at Whitman-Barnes and the wife said, 'It's about time that you find a real steady job.'"

Stung a bit by the remark, Way looked over the situation and concluded that working for the city would provide the goal he had sought for so long.

WITH THAT IN MIND he applied for a position in the police department and was accepted. He confided to the powers that be that he liked clerical work so he was given a clerk's job in the law enforcement department.

"I wasn't there too long before Al Glasford, then the city manager, transferred me to the city clerk's office."

"Then in June of 1959 I was transferred again—this time to the treasurer's office and finally to the rank of treasurer and city assessor."

IT'S YOUR OPPORTUNITY TO EARN INTEREST ON EVERY CENT YOU DEPOSIT WITH OUR BANK.

How does Pass-The-Buck work? It's simple. Pass-The-Buck—an Automatic Transfer Service—moves money from your savings account to your checking account to pay the checks drawn against it. What's the benefit? You earn interest on the funds normally idling in your checking account because you can make deposits directly to your daily interest savings account.

LET'S EXPLORE $750.00 DEPOSITED MONTHLY TO A CHECKING ACCOUNT.

Over the year, that will total to $9,000 in transactions. But none of those dollars will earn interest. At Manufacturers it's different: through Pass-The-Buck, the money usually kept in your checking account, including the dollars waiting to pay checks and the idle constant balance—is free to earn interest daily. As checks are paid, a minimum daily amount of $50.00 (or the exact amount if more than $50.00 is required) is transferred from your savings account to your checking account to cover clearing checks.

WHO CAN PASS-THE-BUCK?

You can. All you need to qualify are a Manufacturers' personal checking and a 5% daily interest savings account. But if you don't have them, you can open them now. The time is right:

- (1) You'll become eligible to Pass-The-Buck.
- (2) You'll receive an easy-to-read combined monthly statement to simplify your record keeping.

ENJOY AUTOMATIC OVERDRAFT PROTECTION.

If you miscalculate or forget to record a check or other charge in your checkbook—don't worry. You can Pass-The-Buck for Automatic Overdraft Protection.

However you add it, you can't afford to pass up Pass-The-Buck.

CHIROPRACTORS SEEK RESEARCH VOLUNTEERS

The International Pain Control Institute is presently engaged in what is the most extensive research program ever undertaken by the chiropractic profession. This research is directed toward determining the relationship between health problems and spinal misalignments and utilizes a screening process called Contour Analysis.

Volunteers are being sought for screening. Contour Analysis enables taking a three dimensional picture (called Moire photography) of the topography of the surface of the spine to detect spinal stress deviations. This analysis will be correlated with leg deficiency, patient symptomatology, and levels of spinal tenderness. An analysis of this type can reveal such things as normal and abnormal stress patterns, spinal curvature, muscle spasms, muscle imbalance, spinal distortions, and scoliosis.

This is a public service program for participating volunteers. The doctors are contributing their time, service, and facilities for the program.

Anyone wishing to be a volunteer may telephone participating doctors directly for information or an appointment.

Talk about taxation without representation! For a suburbanite who works in Detroit, this would mean a 300% increase (from 0.5% to 2.0) in the income tax he would have to pay Detroit... in addition to taxes levied by his home community.

Tanian & King clash on bail

By TIM RICHARD
"The bail system works a gross injustice on people who have been victimized by crime," said former Detroit police commissioner Philip G. (Jerry) Tannian, who favors Proposal K.

"It's another pseudo-remedy that doesn't address the problem," answered Jean King, Ann Arbor attorney who opposes Proposal K.

They debated the Nov. 7 ballot proposal before a small audience last week at Schoolcraft College.

Proposal K is a constitutional amendment to let courts deny accused persons the right to bail under certain circumstances involving violent crimes. Bail could be denied to a person accused of murder, treason, armed robbery, rape or kidnapping for extortion.

Bail could also be denied a person accused of a felony if he has been convicted of two crimes involving violence within the previous 15 years or is on bail, parole or probation for such a crime.

It also provides that trial must be started within 90 days after denial of bail. If trial isn't started, then the judge must set bail.

Bail is the system whereby a person posts bond to assure he will appear in court for trial. If he can't post a bail bond, he waits in jail until he is tried.

"IN COMFORTABLE suburbia, you don't have the magnitude of problems we have in Detroit," said Tannian, who now practices law.

Senior citizens commonly are robbed and beaten for their social security money. If they can identify the hoodlums, he said, "I guarantee you witnesses' windows will be broken, people will be pushed down stairs, and the hoodlum knows that without a complaining witness, there will be no prosecution.

"I've seen it happen time after time after time after time.

"There are people in our society who don't care if you live or die—psychopaths, sociopaths, career criminals.

"Rehabilitation is a myth. I have yet to meet a psychiatrist who claimed he could rehabilitate anyone.

"In Detroit, less than 50 men are responsible for the majority of rapes. They do it over and over. Ninety-four per cent of the men charged with rape do it two or more times. A limited number of people are causing a substantial amount of fear.

"Age is the only deterrent. If they get old enough and slow enough, they quit."

TANNIAN TOLD of a burglar who was caught three times in seven days and got out on bail all three times.

And he told of a heroin dealer who was arrested and let out on bail. Within three months, the police department's chief informant against him died "of a severe case of lead poisoning." The charge had to be dropped.

A year later, the heroin dealer was arrested again and let out on bail again. Shortly afterwards, the chief police informant disappeared from the earth and was never seen again, Tannian said. Again the charge was dropped.

MS. KING called the denial of bail "preventive detention."

She cited statistics from Washington, D.C., and Memphis to show that only five per cent of persons out on bail were re-arrested within 90 days. "We are talking about re-arrests. We are not talking about convictions," she said.

In Washington, she said, preventive detention was first tried in the early 1970s, but by 1977 it was used only 30 times. "Prosecutors don't like to use it. It's difficult to use. Prosecutors have to reveal too much of their case" in persuading the judge to deny bail, she said.

Ms. King said the present constitutional language allows bail except where a person has been charged with murder or treason. That language has been in Michigan's constitution since statehood in 1837. To change it now would be a profound change from Michigan's legal tradition.

"It would shift decision making from the courts to the prosecutors and police. Do you want that kind of society?" she asked.

"Yes," Tannian shot back.

IF ONLY ONE person in 20 is likely to be re-arrested while out on bail, Ms. King said, it means that 19 other per-

Barn fire kills prize cattle

A barn owned by Herman Bakhaus, owner of Cloverdale Dairy in Plymouth, on North Territorial Road in Salem Township burned to the ground early Thursday morning, causing a loss estimated at $30,000. Included in the loss were eight Black Angus calves who had just been weaned and were going to be entered in the South-eastern Michigan Angus Show and Sale next week. Also lost was about 6,000 bales of hay and straw, corn and barley. The barn was rebuilt about six years ago when Bakhaus moved to the farm. When the fire was discovered, the farmhand, Jack Somes, tried to get in and save the calves but was pushed back by the fire. Mrs. Anne Bakhaus credits the Salem volunteer firefighters with saving nearby buildings, including two small buildings and a tenant house. Volunteers fought the blaze for about 12 hours. He is a 1975 graduate of Plymouth Salem High School.

WCC to construct new regional center

Wayne County Community College will break ground Monday for its new $10 million Western Wayne County Regional Center on Haggerty Road in Van Buren Township.

"The new regional center is being designed to serve the postsecondary educational needs of citizens residing in this fast-growing area of western Wayne County," said Reginald Wilson, president of WCCC.

The 117-acre facility is one of five new WCCC comprehensive technical and liberal arts centers. It will offer a broad range of liberal arts, vocational training, career oriented and community service programs.

THE 144,000 square foot building will house classrooms, administrative, and faculty offices as well as a library, bookstore and child care facility. Also included will be vocational and technical laboratory space including a greenhouse, and special facilities for electronics, avionics and building trades.

Architect for the center is Smith, Hinchman, Grylls Associates, Inc. of Detroit.

"We're very excited about the many educational opportunities this new regional center will bring to the residents of western Wayne County," said John S. Szwed, director of WCCC's western region.

"It will enable WCCC to expand and improve the programs now being offered in our existing satellite centers at Milton Middle and John Glenn High Schools. These centers will remain an important part of the Western Regional Center," added Szwed.

WCCC's NEW Western Regional Center is the third phase of a long range master plan and capital outlay program begun in 1974 with the sale of $9.7 million in construction bonds.

SC winter schedule ready

The counseling office has advance copies of Schoolcraft College's winter class schedule.

Students wishing to get a head start on class selection should make an appointment with a counselor to consult the schedule. They may also obtain mail registration materials at that time.

Printed schedules in quantity will be available on campus in mid-November. They will also be mailed to district residents at the same time.

Persons planning to attend the college for the first time this winter will need to complete an application and be formally admitted prior to registration.

The main campus is at 18600 Haggerty, Livonia. Materials are available from the admissions office.

Rocks cream Bentley for happy homecoming

By DENNIS O'CONNOR

It was an expected happy homecoming for Plymouth Salem gridders Friday night, as they breezed past winless Livonia Bentley, 49-6, at the Centennial Park.

Coach Tom Moshimer's Rocks simply had too much talent for the Bulldogs in registering their seventh win in eight decisions. Pat O'Donnell's Bentley squad finished last in the Suburban Eight League race with its eighth defeat.

The Rocks scored in every quarter, piling up a 28-0 lead with four touchdowns on their first five possessions of the game. Bentley registered its first touchdown from the line of scrimmage all season long midway in the second period to make it 28-6 before Salem scored another six-pointer with one second left in the first half to make it 35-6.

The home squad then added two more touchdowns, one in the third period and another in the fourth, to close out the rout.

Moshimer was happy with the way his team played especially after playing three tough games in a row prior to the homecoming battle.

"Our kids did not go into the game overconfident," the Salem mentor said. "They came out playing and that's what we hoped for."

"Sometimes you have a tendency to be down playing a winless ball club."

Moshimer even had some kind words for the small Bulldogs.

"I'd like to compliment the Bentley kids. They never gave up. They kept hitting us until the final whistle."

The always easy-going O'Donnell was equally pleased with his squad's effort despite the 43-point loss. Bentley pulled out all the stops against the powerful Rocks, executing three different flea-flicker plays to perfection, one of which led to its only touchdown of the game.

"We went out and had fun," the Bentley coach said. "The kids had nothing to lose. I'm as happy as can be for a 49-6 loss."

O'Donnell was happy with his passing offense which included 120 yards in the air by quarterback Dan Crowder.

"For the first time this season, we threw the ball successfully," O'Donnell said. "It took us five games to get it together. We may give Franklin (the Bulldogs' last opponent) something to worry about."

IT TOOK but five plays after the opening kickoff for Salem to score the

Salem smothers Belleville, 64-18

Plymouth Salem girls opened its second round of Suburban Eight League girls basketball play with a nearly flawless performance, trouncing Belleville 64-18 at the Rock gym Thursday night.

The solid showing by the Rocks erases their sloppy victory over the Tigers in the first round of action in Belleville.

Salem, coached by Bob Blohm, remains on top of the Sub-8 race with a perfect 7-0 record and only five league games left on the schedule.

The Rocks' overall mark is also unblemished at 13-0, the only undefeated team in the area.

The outcome was never in doubt when Salem took command from the opening tip-off against the weak Tiger squad.

The home squad grabbed a 14-4 first quarter lead and extended it to 33-6 at halftime. Cheryl Sobkow led the first half attack with 11 points, as Salem's inside strength clearly was the dominant force.

Forward Erin Moore, a senior, added eight in the first half with some sharp outside shooting from the left baseline.

Peggy Somers, playing her best ball in recent weeks, added six to aid the 27-point halftime advantage.

The Rocks continued the romp in the second half, scoring the first six points of the third quarter. At one point midway in the third stanza, Salem led 43-7 before things settled down the rest of the way.

Somers finished with game scoring honors, added six more second-half points for a total of 12. Sobkow didn't score in the second half but still finished with 11. Moore added 10 and Doris Hoelscher scored eight.

Joy Gornick, a new varsity member from the junior varsity, made her first appearance of the season and scored five points in the final quarter.

Laura Houle, who scored four of Belleville's six points in the first half, was the Tigers' leading scorer with eight.

Canton cagers slide by Harrison

By BETTY DeLANO

Coming off the worst game in three years, the Plymouth Canton girls' basketball team looked like it might have a repeat of that horrible night last Tuesday against Livonia Bentley.

Ending a poorly played first period with only a one-point edge over Farmington Harrison, the Canton squad managed to put things together as it went on to an easy 57-37 win Thursday.

The victory was the sixth for the Chiefs in Western Six League action against no losses. Overall the Chiefs sport a 10-2 season record.

Highlighting Canton's second period surge was Kelly Heaton and Beth Myrtle.

Both added to the Chiefs win with steals and interceptions from the misfortunate Hawks. Harrison was plagued with fouls and committed many turnovers because of a strong Canton defense.

Holding the Hawks to only six points in the second quarter, the Chiefs took advantage of Harrison's sloppy play and gained a 33-15 halftime lead.

Whistles kept blowing during the third period at the same end of the court, when the Chiefs found themselves the victims of a number of fouls.

With the loss of Heaton to a double technical foul, Harrison started playing a more aggressive ball game and cut down on the Chiefs winning margin.

However, Canton still maintained a 41-29 lead at the end of the third quarter.

Moving into a four-corner offense in the fourth quarter, the Chiefs sat on a widening lead and eventually moved into the 20 point winning margin.

"We were in control the entire game," said Canton coach Mike McCauley.

"Harrison made a lot of turnovers which hurt them the most. Our full court defense was the main strength behind the win, but we're still not playing as well as we should be."

Harrison's Laura Widman led all scoring with 13 points and Canton's Kathie Peck led the Chiefs with 11 points.

Heaton and Vickie Cavallaro both added eight points on to the Canton victory, and Myrtle scored six from the floor.

Laura Butler, Jill Pederson, Jean Timlin and Reggie Ruigerio all chipped in with four.

Earlier in the season, the Chiefs took the Hawks in another easy decision, 55-39.

In last Tuesday's game against Bentley, the Chiefs scored on nine of 47 attempts from the floor and eight of 32 free throw attempts in a 50-30 loss.

'QB' Mandle sparks Chief victory

By SCOTT ADLER

Friday was a night of nights for the Plymouth Canton varsity football team as it stopped a sloppy but determined Garden City East football squad, 30-14, at East.

The Chiefs controlled the ball very well, piling up 319 total yards along with 17 first downs on their way to a school record fourth win.

The Chiefs have now defeated East for the third time in four years, upping their record to 4-4. East's record fell to 1-7. The Panthers' only victory came against Redford Thurston, 21-20.

Canton Coach Dave Schuele promised some surprises and that is exactly what he gave the Canton fans when halfback Rusty Mandle came onto the field in the quarterback position. Mandle had a great night as he carried the ball 30 times and gained 161 yards, not to mention passing statistics including eight for 13 for 104 yards, with only one interception.

The Chiefs scored on their first possession, traveling 72 yards in 11 plays that included five first downs and ate up five minutes on the clock. Mandle reached paydirt on a five yard quarterback keep and then caught a pass from Scott Dawson for the two point conversion to give the Chiefs an 8-0 lead with 6:45 left in the first quarter.

East fumbled on its first play from scrimmage with Canton recovering on its own 45-yard line. But the Chiefs were forced to punt with 3:00 left in the first quarter.

The Panthers went nowhere in three plays and were forced to punt only to get the ball back on an interception of one of Mandle's passes.

Once again East turned the ball over on first down when quarterback Randall MacDonell completed a pass over the middle to John Lazotte, who tried to pitch the ball off while he was being tackled. The ball went straight up in the air and was recovered by Canton at the 11:45 mark of the second quarter.

The Chiefs were faced with a third down and four yards to go when halfback Bob Hamblin ran off tackle for a 41 yard gain down to East's 11 yard line. Two plays later Steve Gray took a pitchout from Mandle and increased the Chiefs lead to 14-0. The Canton two point conversion failed.

The Panthers were forced to punt again with six minutes remaining in the half. Canton started mounting a drive but a Mandle fumble gave the now depressed Panthers new hope.

After a five yard penalty and a 10-yard loss after a sack of East's quarterback MacDonell, the Panthers' drive appeared to be moving in the wrong direction when probably the most awkward play of the year occurred. MacDonell faded back to pass when his mouthpiece fell out of his mouth. He had nowhere to go because the entire Canton defensive line was converging on him. He threw down his mouthpiece and also threw a touchdown pass which was recalled because of failure to wear proper football gear. Then Joe Stanek fumbled on East's next play and Canton recovered on the Panthers' 42 yard line.

But surprisingly enough, East didn't play dead and came back to block a Steve Eddy punt and recover at the Canton 17 yard line.

It took East six plays before it finally scored on a MacDonell pass to Mike Kossick. The two-point conversion was successful when MacDo-

In The Pocket

By W.W. EDGAR

Some blamed the weather. Others claimed there was too much oil on the lanes. But whatever the reason, scores fell to a new low in the area's bowling establishments.

For the first time, there wasn't a single 700 series reported. Some of the shock came at Wonderland Lanes, where it has become a tradition that at least one barrier-breaking count is rolled each week.

The highest score was a 686 rolled by Ken Bashara, a cousin of the owner. At that figure, he had a 35-pin lead over John Wadorski. It was one of the widest margins of victory in many weeks, as close finishes had become the usual order of the day.

In the Bowlerettes, though, Ilene Brisby showed the way with an even 600. That was one of the lowest in weeks.

THE ONLY ONE to brush off the low-scoring wave at Westland Bowl, where scores usually are high, was Ed Moore, who set the pace in the 725-825 league with a 671.

He rolled that on games of 242, 213 and 211. Only one other bowler in the league bettered double-century figures. He was Charlie Carver with a 236 in 618.

Their closest rivals were Perry Nujal with 561 and Kurt Korow with a 576.

In the ladies classic, Pam Campbell's 581 was good enough to take top place. Seven pins behind came Ev Hubble with a 574 and Pat Wilson landed in third place with a 570. Others among the top scorers were Otea Palmer with 568 and Marlene Oppen with 567.

THE BOWLING PROPRIETORS association, which was organized in Detroit in 1924, finally is going to have a building of its own.

Early next month the offices will be moved in to a building on Southfield Road in Lathrup Village.

With this move, all the bowling associations now have their own buildings. Several years ago, the men's and women's groups joined forces to construct a building in St. Clair Shores.

IN CONTRAST to a year ago, when 13 perfect games had been recorded at this time, only five have been rolled in the area's sanctioned leagues thus far.

The high point of the scoring lists, maintained by the Greater Detroit Bowling Association, is the 815 series rolled by Dick Wittl at North Hill Lanes.

To gain this honor, Dick put together games of 258, 279 and 278.

BOB CHELSER was the big gun in the Vinco League at Garden Lanes. He posted a 638 series to beat George Vihensky and Lenny Zpara, who were tied at 618. The only other 600 was a 602 fired by Jerry Ohl.

THREE MORE MEMBERS were admitted to the Split Conversion Club at Mayflower Lanes. Mikki Stawsser and Barb Rissle toppled the 67, Linda Podesta made it by sweeping the 4-7-8-10 and Lottie Gushel did the same with the 4-6-7.

WITH THE AID of a 278 opening game, Ed Owens managed a 682 series to top the Tuesdaymen's league at Bel-Aire. He missed a 700 by dropping to 182 in his second game.

In the Kings and Queens, Mary Schmiede had a 223 in 587 and Dave Jackson had a 269 for high single in the senior citizens loop.

Visser named top golfer

Dave Visser was awarded the Plymouth Canton Chiefs' Most Valuable Golfer at a banquet Thursday.

Visser, the Chiefs' captain, set a school record for lowest stroke average at 39.4. He missed all-league recognition by one tenth of a stroke.

Salem loses Chiefs tankers excel

By M. DAVID CAMPBELL

The Plymouth Canton girls swim team rebounded from Tuesdays loss of Harrison, to slaughter the Churchill 111-58. The chiefs record now stands at 4-3-1.

To start things off, Canton took first in the 200 medley relay. Cindy Shelansky, Bronwyn Fitzgerald, Julie Stratton, and Missy McMurray contributed to that win. Mary Reardon placed second in the 200-yard freestyle. Reardons time was 2:24.3. The 17 Lisa Forsythe placed second in the 200 IM, with 2:26.7. McMurray placed first in the 50 free, clocking :29.1.

Among the firsts, Jamie Zuverink added icing to the cake, by placing first, and for the sixth time this year. Therefore, she now qualifies for the diving regionals.

Reardon copped first in the 100-yard freestyle, with 1:16.4. All-state swimmer, Kim Massey, placed first in the 100-yard freestyle, 1:00.4. Forsythe also added to the many firsts, in the 500 free, 5:51.0. Shelansky and Massey each received seconds in their respective strokes, the 100-yard backstroke, and the 100-yard breaststroke.

To end the evening, Reardon, Janet Powell, Karen Mullen, and Massey placed first in the 400-yard relay, clocking 4:29.4.

Coach A??ne

Coach Anne Massey continued her praise for these girls. "My kids are just super, they're doing a great job. That's why I have so much parent participation."

SALEM-HARRISON

The Plymouth Salem girls swim team lost its third dual meet to an over-powering Farmington Harrison team, 96-76, Thursday night. The meet was close until the breaststroke, where the Hawks placed first, second, and third.

The Rocks started the meet on a good note, though. The 200-medley relay team of Jill McCann, Karen Kohler, Sarah Stanwood, and Sharon Ross, placed first with 2:04.6. Kim Coates placed third in the 200-yard freestyle, with a time of 2:18.5. Stanwood placed first time in the 200-yard individual medley, with 2:22.7.

McCann took second in the 50-yard freestyle, clocking :27.3. Junior Natalie McClumpha placed second in diving with 187.95 points. Third and fourth were taken by Patty Larson, and Kathy Radgens.

Sharon Ross dominated the 100-yard fly, with 1:07.6. Stanwood placed another first in the 100-yard freestyle, 57.2. Ross took second in the 500-yard freestyle, with 5:55.

Things started to look good for the Rocks, as they took first second and third in the 100-yard backstroke. McCann had a 1:07.9, Renee Lakatos had 1:12.8, and sophomore Linda Wochna had third with 1:13.0.

Then the tables turned, when the Hawks swept the 100-yard breaststroke. The 400-yard freestyle relay consisting of Captain Sue Sparling, Kelly Brandt, Nancy Lazarus, and Coates placed second, with 4:24.1.

Coach Chuck Olson said, "It was a good meet. We swam well, and it was close until the breaststroke."

WSDP sports

WSDP-FM radio sports director John Hewett will be on hand to describe all the live action of Plymouth Canton's season finale against Dearborn Edsel Ford at the Centennial Park football field Friday night.

Hewett will broadcast the play-by-play, and Dave Meador will offer color commentary.

This last football broadcast for WSDP will begin at 7:20 p.m. with a pre-game show, followed by the live action at 7:30 p.m.

Co-captain Paul Dillon found a lot of open room against Livonia Bentley Friday, gaining 77 yards in the Rocks' 49-6 homecoming victory. Dillon was also named the school's homecoming king before the game. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey) first touchdown of the game. The Rocks traveled 72 yards in only 1:49 when All-State quarterback Rich Hewlett scampered around right end on a 26-yard run.

Hewlett also had a 42-yard burst on a quarterback option in this drive. He finished with 10 rushes and 126 yards on the night.

Rich Hanschu's extra-point kick was wide to the right keeping it 6-0.

Bentley's first play from scrimmage was a double reverse handoff, pitch-back to Crowder who passed to Mike Burdette for 54 yards down to the Salem 21-yard line. The Bulldogs failed to move any further, however, and Salem took over on downs.

Hewlett then showed all his critics that he was a passing quarterback as well as a running quarterback, when he hit split end Hanschu on a perfect 80-yard touchdown bomb on the Rocks' first play of their second possession.

In all, Hewlett completed three of four passes for 136 yards. "Can he throw or can he throw?" Moshimer asked with a smile on his face. "Believe me. He can throw the ball with the best of them." Hewlett ran over for a two-point conversion, making it 14-0.

A blitzing Hewlett on defense caused a Bulldog fumble on the next series of downs, when Jeff Bruner recovered on the Bentley 30-yard line. Once again, it only took one play as Hewlett ran for 15 yards and then pitched to junior Craig Stack for the other 15 on the same play for the Rocks third score of the game.

Hanschu make it 21-0 with a perfect kick. He followed Salem's last four touchdowns with successful kicks as well.

The onslaught continued only four plays into the second quarter. Hewlett ran for another touchdown-this one a 20-yard burst capping an 80-yard drive to make it 28-0.

Bentley's Burdette was on the receiving end of another Crowder toss on the next drive. The pass play covered 57 yards, setting up Bentley's lone score of the game.

Matt Munn, the leading Bulldog runner with 35 yards in 13 carries, reached paydirt five plays after the pass for Bentley's only score. It marked only the second touchdown for the Bulldogs all season. The other came on a fumble recovery against Allen Park.

Lance Willsey, Paul on and Sam Merrill scored the final three touchdowns for Salem to complete the 49-point attack.

Canton runners place 5th as successful year ends

It finally happened.

It took the Plymouth Canton cross country team six years, but it all paid off last Wednesday when the Chiefs finished fifth with a total of 117 points in the Western Six League.

Once again it was a powerful Northville team that coasted to another Western Six championship with 47 points.

Second in line to the Mustangs was Waterford Mott, also a strong squad with 57 points.

Farmington Harrison finished third with 73 and Livonia Churchill was fourth at 87.

This year's cellar-dweller was a weak Walled Lake Western team, which finished with 139 points in the league meet.

Finishing out a fine year for the Chiefs was Sophomore Mike Talaga, who once again led his team with a good time of 17:11, which was good for 15th overall.

Coming in second for the Chiefs and 20th overall was junior Dave Spitz with a time of 17:26.

A pleasant surprise for the Chiefs this season was junior Randy Hennells, who was 25th overall in one of his better performances this season.

Hennells turned in Canton's third of four sub-18 minute runs of 17:42.

Dan McGlinn, the junior captain of the Chiefs this season, came in at 17:58. The fifth man for the Chiefs in the league meet was Dan Inloes, who finished at 18:07.

Coach Jim Hayes was pleased with the Chief's school record of four wins in 10 meets.

Salem JV trips Canton

Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton junior varsity girls' basketball teams took advantage of common open dates on the schedule and played each other in non-league action Thursday night at Salem.

The Rocks, coached by Dave VanWagoner, took advantage of early Canton turnovers to breeze to a surprisingly easy 51-26 victory.

It was only the fifth victory for VanWagoner's crew, while the Chiefs, directed by Pat Cunningham, saw their record slip to 9-3 overall.

Salem opened the contest with full court man-to-man pressure which bothered Canton all game long. Many early bad passes by the Chiefs resulted in Salem's quick 14-5 first-quarter lead.

The Rocks kept the pressure on in the second quarter, as well, outscoring Canton 8-2 to take a comfortable 22-7 advantage at halftime. The Chiefs scored only one field goal the entire first half and added five free throws.

Canton played its best quarter of the evening in the third period, as a continuous up-and-down pace saw the Chiefs outscore Salem, 14-12. Still, it was not enough to overcome the early Salem lead.

Everyone got a chance to play in the fourth quarter when Salem sewed up the victory by registering 17 points to only five for Canton.

Canton pulled within 11 points, 30-19, midway in the third quarter but that's the closest it came to erasing the early Rock advantage.

Becky Bell and Jan MacKenzie led Salem's scoring attack with eight points each. Bell scored her points before fouling out early in the fourth period.

Canton's Pearlle Cunningham, sister of the coach, took scoring honors with 10 points.

Ironically, this Centennial Park battle featured opposing coaches who were roommates just one year ago.

Skaters asked to register

Registration for Session II of fall figure skating lessons will be held on Saturday, Nov. 11 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Fee is $14 for residents of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools and $18 for non-residents.

Session II begins on Monday, Nov. 13. There will be one week break during Thanksgiving and a two-week break during the Christmas holidays.

Registration will take place at the Plymouth Cultural Center. The lessons run for eight weeks of 25 minute sessions. Rental ice skates should also be reserved at this time.

Sports Editor:

In regards to your article of Oct. 9, I felt I should accept your invitation to respond to you about the "dilemma of all local journalists."

Since I am a resident of Canton I feel I qualify. But I also feel that since I am an assistant football coach and athletic director at Franklin, I might have more insight to the problem.

First of all you mentioned all the flack, hassle and threats Doug Funke received from the Franklin people. You make it sound like Doug should beware of walking alone at night or should request police protection. To set the record straight, I told Doug Funke that if he printed the names he could expect no cooperation from me in the future. I felt that this was not too severe of a threat, since he would not be giving us cooperation on this article.

Secondly, what Doug was asking us to do was and is prohibited by law. We as school officials cannot release information of a person's confidential file.

Newspaper people are very quick to assert their "right of confidentiality," even if the public has a right to know. But yet they are expecting us to give this information to them.

Thirdly, you and Doug both seem to have missed the major point in the article. You "journalists" felt that the issue was the names of the athletes involved while the real issue is that at Franklin we have a code of conduct which we expect all of our athletes to adhere to. When they are caught breaking this code, then they must pay the penalty. We are not naive enough to think that these are the only Franklin athletes breaking the code, but at least we try to teach them what we believe is right.

Yes, the public has a right to know what three players were disciplined and it might affect our performance. But is it necessary to name them? The people who follow Franklin football will wonder and most of them will find out the names. But what about the people who don't follow Franklin football?

They may one day meet these boys and say "Oh yes, aren't you the boys who were kicked off of the football team?" They may never know all the good things these boys may have done. Had their names been printed, then only the bad would be known.

Last but not least, you mentioned that you only print the facts and let the people decide. In your article about the Franklin-Plymouth Salem game (the season opener) you stated that since Plymouth only had two returning starters and Franklin had "many returning starters" that we should be favored. If my memory serves me correctly, you were quoting Tom Mosh-imer. Your facts were not quite true. If you would have taken the time to check this bit of information as hard as you "journalists" check the "sensational" information, you would have found out that Franklin also had only two returning starters.

The power of the pen is mighty. Let he who never committed an error or made a mistake print the first name.

Churchill blows lead

Livonia Churchill coach Don Albertson took full credit for his team's late collapse and subsequent 59-53 loss to Walled Lake Western last week in a Western Six League girls' basketball game.

The Chargers had led, 45-31, after three periods.

"I did some substituting that proved to be a little bit of a problem for us," said Albertson. "We had the ball game in hand and let it get out of hand."

"I think the whole team played a good game. We should have won, but poor coaching lost this game."

Churchill led 16-9 after the first quarter, 26-19 at the intermission and 45-31 after three periods.

In the fourth quarter, Western started forcing turnovers, got its fast break going and completed one of the best comebacks of the season.

"Everything they did was right and everything we did was wrong. The roof caved in," said Albertson.

The starters were put back into the game in an effort to stem the tide, but the Chargers could not reverse the momentum.

Mary Surace scored 17 points for Churchill and Linda Mix and Gail Olajac each had 10. Western's Kristin Mellema scored 11 of her 15 points during the fourth quarter.

Churchill won the JV game, 47-30.

Can boxing make comeback?

By GREG ZOTT

With the rise of professional football, soccer and numerous non-mainstream sports in the last 20 years, boxing in this country has been relegated to a position of uncertainty.

The "golden years" of boxing—the 1950s—have vanished.

Even boxing's multi-million dollar heavyweight bouts, brought about by the sports self-acclaimed ambassador Muhammad Ali, rarely benefit lower class, competitive boxing in the U. S. Amateur and professional boxing below heavyweight is still plagued by small purses and minimal media coverage.

The question for those who follow the sport is simple: Can boxing make a comeback? For Chuck Davey, president of the newly formed United States Boxing Association (USBA), the answer is a resounding yes.

"Interest in boxing has increased everywhere in the country," said Davey. "It's especially apparent in Michigan. We've had more professional fights here this year than in all of 1977."

The USBA was formed in December of 1977 at the request of state boxing commissioners around the country. Its main purpose is to enhance and protect the image of boxing in the U. S., where the sport has slumped miserably. Davey is the association's first president.

"Every country who participates in boxing throughout the world, except for the United States, has some kind of federation running its boxing program," said Davey. "The USBA will close that void and be able to work with international federations to promote the sport."

Since the world boxing scene was once dominated by Americans, an organization like the USBA logically should have existed years ago. But it was precisely U.S. dominance, says Davey, that kept the USBA from organizing.

"For many years the U.S. champ was the world champ," said Davey. "There was no need for a separate U.S. champion since that fighter already held a superior title as 'World' Champ."

"The problem in recent years was that Americans were no longer holding world titles. Since the U.S. didn't have a systematic way of working fighters up the ladder, as other countries do, our competition and interest dropped off. The USBA is trying to stimulate new interest in U.S. titles again, at every weight level."

The USBA also plays an important role in re-establishing boxing's credibility in America as well as the world. Davey admits improving the image of boxing is sorely needed after the recent problems with promoter Don King and the World Boxing Commission (WBC).

King was allegedly involved in illegal promoting and scheduling of fights for ABC in 1976, a fiasco that has made the major networks reticent to discuss TV contracts with the USBA.

"Boxing has always been the whipping boy of the sports world," said Davey. "But we do have some real problems in promoting bouts on television because of the way the system is set-up."

"The only way boxing can have a legitimate television tournament is to let a group like the USBA, which is not monetarily involved, sponsor and supervise the tournament. As it stands now, the networks pick what fighters they want with no regard as to the quality of the fighter. That's why Sugar Ray Leonard has been fighting nobodys on national television."

Davey fears that if scheduling of bouts is not taken away from the networks, the public will grow weary of the one-sided competition.

"The spectators are going to see that the matches are not very competitive," said Davey. "If you don't have legitimate contenders boxing will lose its appeal."

A major television contract with one of the three networks is being negotiated by the USBA for as early as September of this year. Success in the contract negotiations may be the essential element that brings boxing all the way back to the status it once held in the 50s.

"There is no question that television is key for the revival of boxing," said Davey. "It's the ideal sport for TV. All the action is in one place in plain view of the camera and the viewer. You don't need to know all the rules, and the one-on-one competition is some of the best of any sport."

Davey knows the positive effects that television can have on his sport. The boxing hysteria of the 1950s was a direct result of having fights on TV seven days a week.

"The Pabst and Gillette sponsored tournaments of the 50s were great for boxing," said Davey. "A national tournament sponsored by the USBA with a national television audience could be just as exciting."

Davey himself was a part of those glory years in boxing. He was the golden boy of amateur and pro boxing in the late 1940s and early 50s, defeating such renowned champions as Ike Williams, Rocky Graziano, Carmen Basilio, and Johnny Saxton.

Stevenson's 1st loss

Glenn blanks Stevenson

By KEN VOYLES

It was obvious by the end of the first half Friday that Westland John Glenn had taken the steam out of Livonia Stevenson's engines and was on the verge of an important non-league football victory.

The Spartans tallied just 12 yards rushing in the first half and 30 through the air. Glenn, on the other hand, scored three touchdowns and then added one more in the second half to win the gridiron clash, 28-0.

Stevenson, which had been so potent offensively in the last few weeks, fell apart in the early going and failed to put together a scoring drive. The Spartans' record fell to 7-1.

The Rockets, however, exploded time and time again. After falling to North Farmington two weeks ago, Glenn seemed none the worse.

"Defensively, we had a shutout going and any time you can shut out Stevenson, which is so explosive, you have to be proud and happy," said Glenn coach Chuck Gordon. "I was very happy with the way the kids played."

"They just overwhelmed us in every department. They moved the ball well against us, they ran well and played strong defense. We couldn't move the ball at all," said Stevenson mentor Jack Reardon.

Following a bad punt by Tom Smith, the Rockets took possession of the football deep in the Spartan end of the field, the 29 yard line, and went on to score.

Glenn plunged forward and worked its way to the five yard line where tailback Tim Ruark blasted his way into the endzone on an off-tackle play for the touchdown. The extra point kick by Kal Deluca was perfect.

Early in the second period, following another punt, Glenn marched down the field and scored. Kurt Hagemann set up the touchdown with a 36-yard counter run which put the ball at the Stevenson 25.

Ruark again scored for Glenn, this time, literally diving three yards into the endzone. The off-tackle play came with 9:04 remaining in the second quarter. The point-after kick was good.

Still in the second period, Glenn took possession of the ball at its own 15 yard line and quickly moved to the 30. Quarterback Rob Suida completed his first pass of the game to Hagemann covering 34 yards which put the ball at the Stevenson 36 yard line.

Brad Jennings caught a Suida pass three plays later for the third Rocket touchdown. With the ball at the 24, Suida went back and hit Jennings on a flag pattern. The extra-point kick was good, making the score 21-0 at the intermission.

One more touchdown went up on the scoreboard for Glenn midway in the third quarter. Glenn started a drive at its own 16-yard marker and quickly moved the ball to midfield.

Suida again connected on a pass, this time to Ed Hamel, for the touchdown. Hamel made an over-the-shoulder catch, outran a Stevenson defender and strolled into the endzone. The play covered 50 yards. The point-after was again good and Glenn had stunned the Spartans, 28-0.

Ruark charged the Rockets' rushing attack with 108 yards in 16 carries. Hagemann added 78 yards in eight carries, while Scott Thornton had 51 yards in eight attempts.

Jim Genuend and Smith, the Spartans' leading backs, were barely able to pick up 45 yards between them.

Stevenson quarterback Jim Fox completed eight of 16 passes for approximately 65 yards.

"I was very disappointed with the game. I thought we should have put some points on the scoreboard," Reardon said.

"I think the fact that we moved the ball so well and controlled the game defensively—those were the keys," Gordon said.

The Rockets upped their record to 7-1 with the victory.

GC WEST-KENNEDY

Garden City West, playing one of its better games of the season, still lost to Tri-River League football opponent Taylor Kennedy Friday, 28-8.

The Tigers played a better game than the final score indicated. West picked up 104 yards rushing during the contest with senior fullback Jim Downey leading the way with 78 yards in 20 carries.

Redford Union triumphs

Redford Union last week made Westland John Glenn its eighth girls' basketball victim in a row by recording a 75-43 Northwest Suburban League victory.

The Panthers jumped out to a 25-10 lead after the first quarter and were never really challenged after that.

"Our first team just destroyed them with the full-court man-to-man press," said RU coach Ken Dersey. "We're just functioning well as a team. We're looking for the open person, have a good fast break and a good transition game."

"We were also able to control the boards on them," said Dersey.

Nancy Lawson, who played just over a half, scored 19 points and grabbed 19 rebounds for the Panthers. Betty Owens chipped in 15 points and Lori Pastula 11.

Glenn's leading scorers were Geri Pizzuti and Mary Crechiolo with 17 and 14 points, respectively.

RU also dumped its guest in the JV contest, 41-28.

RU gridders prevail

Bob Friedman scored four touchdowns and Bob Utych gained 147 yards on the ground to lead the Redford Union Panthers to an easy 42-8 football victory Friday over an outmanned Belleville contingent.

Friedman's two-yard scamper in the first quarter put the Panthers in front to stay but Friedman was not through yet—not by a long shot.

In the second quarter Friedman and the Panthers struck for more as the fullback went in from one and four yards out, upping the RU lead to 21-0 as the half ended.

Friedman was also outstanding defensively for RU, making key stops from his cornerback position, not allowing the Belleville offense to get up a head of steam and giving the Panthers good field position most of the night.

When the third quarter opened, it was Utych's turn to shine as he romped 40 yards on a reverse to score, ending all Belleville hopes for a comeback.

But Friedman still wasn't through as he intercepted a Belleville pass and cruised 35 yards to score his fourth touchdown of the contest. The successful extra point made the score 35-0 just into the fourth quarter.

Marty Kendall's five yard counter run capped the Panthers' scoring.

Belleville scored late in the game to avoid the shutout, but not the embarrassment of the 42-8 thumping.

Amateur athletics lack $$ support

By C.J. RISAK

Amateur athletics in the United States are so poorly funded that "it's incredible our athletes can compete on an international scale."

According to Dr. Dennis Sprandel, head of the Michigan AAU, the U.S. rates "in the top five in almost any Olympic sport, but probably around 50th in support of their athletes."

"We have 15,000 members of the Michigan AAU in 22 different sports," Sprandel said. "All of our funding came from one source: the dues the athletes paid. We ran our entire program on $50,000 last year."

"And we have one of the best programs in the country. The national cost for the AAU last year was $1 million. That was all the money we had for the entire nation."

The funding of amateur athletes has been a topic for discussion since the last Olympics. A bill passed the U.S. House of Representatives earlier this year which gave the U.S. Olympic Committee $30 million for amateur athletic programs. But questions on how the money was to be used and how it would effect the athletes amateur status led to the appropriation being stripped from the bill and its subsequent burying in the Senate agenda.

Neither the AAU nor the NCAA were vigorous in their support of the bill.

"None of the money would have come to our organization," Sprandel explained. "The U.S. Olympic Committee would have given it to the world class athletes only, instead of to programs that help develop young athletes."

The AAU is the only national program aimed at developing athletes from the children's level to the senior citizen. American athletes participating in almost any international sporting event on the amateur level are members of the AAU.

"The Olympic Committee will raise around $26 million for the Olympic team and spend it on them two months before the Olympics. But what about the other three years and ten months?"

Who supports the athlete while he prepares for the Olympics?"

Eastern European countries and the USSR have state-supported programs for their athletes. They are put on the government's sports funding program and attend classes and train at special sports institutes. It's vaguely similar to Americans who receive sports scholarships to attend college.

"Actually, we have something like the Eastern countries program," Sprandel said. "It's the military. Many of our athletes can join the services and compete on an amateur basis while being government supported. Not too many have taken advantage of it, but some have—Phil Boggs and Micki King are prime examples."

But, despite the success of government-funded programs, such as East Germany's in the last Olympics, Sprandel is not in favor of them.

"I'd rather see corporate sponsorship of our sports. The government could help by passing legislation giving corporations a tax break if they supported amateur athletics."

"We've been trying to get some corporate sponsorship in this state, but so far we've had no luck. In other states there is some sponsorship, but until there's some tax advantage to it, I don't think it will ever go over."

One of the best examples of a successfully-funded corporate sport is in California. The Mission Viejo real estate company supports a swimming program that attracts many of the nation's top athletes.

Dave Burgering is one of those athletes. Formerly a Michigan resident, Burgering, one of the top five divers in the nation, took his talents to the Mission Viejo team. Now, wherever he dives, his expenses are paid for.

"You need money to have a sound sports program," Sprandel said. "The kids who qualified for the National AAU championships got $50 in expense money. That isn't nearly enough."

And yet, Michigan has one of the better AAU programs in the country. It has the only full-time staff; other states' AAU work on a part time basis.

"If I had a $3 million budget, we could have a team from Michigan that could compete with many national teams from other countries," Sprandel claimed. "That's how much potential we have in this state."

But there have been no takers so far. Despite Sprandel's efforts, no one has offered financial support for any of the AAU's sports.

"We were almost unable to have the state AAU long course championships this year because we couldn't afford it," he recalled. "This is one of the few times all year that swimmers can compete against other top swimmers in the state in a 50-meter pool (the same length as used in the Olympics)."

But without financial backing, Michigan's swimming program lags behind many other states.

Canton breezes by East. 30-14

nell hit Kossick once again. The Chiefs went into the locker room leading 14-8.

The Panthers started out the second half unlike they played the entire first half scoring on their possession on a 45-yard run by Jeff Sikora. East missed the extra point and the score remained 14-14.

The score stayed the same until 30 seconds were left in the third quarter when the Chiefs recovered the Panthers' fourth fumble and turned it into six points in seven plays. This time it was Mandle to Jay McKinley on a 19-yard pass play. Mandle hit Dawson deep in the endzone to build up Canton's lead, 22-14, with 11:30 left in the game.

East then tried a little flea-flicker which called for MacDonell to pitch out to Tom Bonner on the option play and Bonner hit a wide open Dave Berger who dropped the ball at the Chiefs'

"People think California raises the best swimmers," Sprandel stated. "California doesn't have the best swimmers, they GET the best swimmers."

Sprandel cited the better climate, which allowed swimmers to train all year long at outdoor pools, and corporate funding, which attracted the best coaches as well as helping the athletes, as the reasons for the successful California swimming program.

"Without money, we can't afford the coaching or the facilities we need if we're going to develop any world class athletes."

"Still, we have accomplished a lot in the past few years. All we can do is keep trying and hoping."

Quarterback catching pass?

Canton quarterback Scott Dawson found himself in the unusual position of catching passes Friday night when star halfback Rusty Mandle took over the quarterback reins for the Chiefs. The surprising move worked as Canton defeated Garden City East, 30-14. Here, Dawson, from a split end position, catches an extra-point pass while Panther Dan Slane attempts a tackle. Child care moving toward around-the-clock service as aid to working mothers

By BETTY MASSON

As more and more mothers join the working force, we are becoming increasingly informed about day care centers. But will night care centers also become fairly common?

Although centers in some parts of the country, particularly California, are offering care for children during evening hours, it is still a new undertaking in this area.

The first here to go into the business is the Red Bell Nursery and Kindergarten, 34203 Ford Road, Westland. There are also centers in Ypsilanti and Inkster offering night care at the present time.

"I decided to stay open all night because of requests from both working mothers and mothers looking for 'drop-in' care," said Paul Roberts, owner and director of Red Bell.

Now in its second month of operation, the service is caring for between 14 and 17 children each night, Monday through Friday, with Friday nights being the busiest. Parents are requested to telephone ahead if they want to drop their children off for one evening. Roberts expects that they will be a lot busier around Christmas time.

"EACH YEAR, it is becoming more difficult to get baby-sitters who are reliable. This is happening in day care as well," he said. "The market is getting tighter for baby sitters."

One factor in this may be that the rate of pay for baby-sitters is still only $1.25 to $1.50 an hour. Many teenagers, who formerly baby-sat, are now working in restaurants, gas stations and stores, which pay more than this.

Thus, Roberts feels that the demand for day care centers, and for "full-service centers" will continue to increase.

A check with other nursery schools in the area showed that none was prepared at this time to go into 24-hour a day operation. Most felt that their present hours of 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. were long enough, although several are considering expansion of their facilities in view of long waiting lists.

Many directors whose background is in the field of education, add that in order to make money in the nursery school business, you have to be big. There is a labor of love, they say.

Roberts himself operates one of the biggest nursery schools in the area. His school is licensed to hold 150 at a time. With comings and goings, enrollment is almost twice that.

ROBERTS IS NOT your average nursery school proprietor. His background is in business. He made the switch to child care 10 years ago because, "I decided I wanted to make decisions for myself."

His training at Ohio State University was in business administration, with a major in accounting and a minor in sociology.

One of the things that is interesting him at the moment is accounting.

"I feel that the market price of nurseries is below what it should be for quality care," he says.

Can government help, as many believe it should?

Yes, says Roberts, but not by getting into the day care business itself. It could help private operators with supplements for building and facilities, such as the support given by the federal government to persons building apartments several years ago.

Government help might also be used to supply specialized types of aides, he said. Most nurseries cannot afford to hire a full-time social worker, for instance, but a government agency could provide one on a part-time basis.

He warned that federally-operated programs are usually very expensive. Government agencies tend to pay higher wages to employees than the market is paying. There is also a doubt in Roberts' mind about continuity. Funds can and have been cut off for federal projects rather quickly.

"There should be more legislation concerned with helping the working mother," he said, "more tax incentives."

THE AVERAGE PRICE in the Detroit metropolitan area for nursery school in 1976 was $33 a week. Costs vary, of course, with the age of child, and the length of time he spends at the center, but in this area today, the cost is between $37 and $45.

But percentage-wise, cost increases have not been anywhere near those effected by the automobile industry, Roberts points out.

One monumental task in operating today's nursery school is billing. With children coming and going constantly, and with many schools making weekly billings, the paperwork is reaching the stage where it needs to be more systematic.

Roberts, with a friend in the data processing field, is working on this. He is taking a careful look at cost and price controls.

Roberts and many others believe that things have changed rather dramatically in the past three years in the business.

They meet more heads of single-parent households and more mothers who are working part-time.

It is now a consumer-oriented business, and the consumers are more knowledgeable is the consensus.

"Parents now ask, 'Can you do this?' Years ago, we showed them a brochure, and they had to pick what they wanted," said Roberts.

Today's consumers are asking Roberts to stay open on Saturdays, which he is considering, but he is not planning to fulfill requests for weekend care for children. In fact, he has a 12-hour limit on the length of time a child may be left. "We have no desire to go into residential care," he commented.

ANOTHER AREA which he does not propose to enter is care of children under the age of two-and-a-half. There is a good deal of controversy even among the experts in this area as in many others concerned with child care. Roberts himself believes that small children need consistent care from one or two persons.

Incidentally, it costs parents more to have babies cared for in a center, because the state Department of Social Services has set up more rigid requirements for their care, including a need for more employees. There has to be one adult in attendance for four babies. For comparison's sake, the benchmark for children aged 30-36 months is one adult per 10 children.

Two schools which do offer care for the younger group are the Livonia Little Tots on Six Mile Road, and the Michigan Youth World on Ann Arbor Trail in Westland. Both take children one year and older, and report there is an increasing demand.

Roberts does offer, as do several others in this area, after-school care for children up to the age of 12. He has vans to go and pick them up.

Paul Roberts, owner of the Red Bell children's nursery in Westland, draws a chuckle from two of his young charges, Danny Novak (left) and Sara Lentz.

Harry Will organization plans 75th anniversary observance

The Harry J. Will Funeral Home, which operates facilities in Redford Township, Livonia and Detroit, will mark its 75th anniversary Wednesday, Nov. 1.

A 7:30 p.m. service in Grace Lutheran Church of Redford Township, preceded by a half-hour harp recital and followed by a reception in the Will home in Livonia will feature the celebration.

Dr. Oswald Hoffmann, regular speaker on radio's Lutheran Hour, will give a talk titled "Seventy-Five Years" for the service in Grace Church, located at 25630 Grand River. He later will attend the reception in the home at 37000 Six Mile.

Harry Will, connected with the enterprise since 1937 and owner since 1942, said families who had been served by the home during its 75-year history are invited especially to attend the service and reception.

"The evening service will be a celebration of the past 75 years, thanking God for his blessings in this life and in the life to come," he said.

Participating in the church service will be the Rev. Victor F. Halbo Jr., pastor of Grace Church, and a special offering will be taken for the Taiwan Lutheran Radio Hour.

The offering will be augmented with an anniversary contribution from the Will family. It will be delivered personally by Dr. Hoffman who will visit Taiwan for the observance of the radio hour's 25th anniversary in December.

The funeral home enterprise was begun in 1903 when Henry C. Schatz opened a home on Michigan east of Livonia in Detroit. There was a move to 4412 Livonia two years before Harry Will joined the firm, and in 1954 the facilities were doubled in size.

Will opened the first branch at 25450 Plymouth, Redford Township, in 1954, and the third location, in Livonia, was added in 1974.

For the past two years that facility has been the home of a new Lutheran congregation, Christ our Savior Lutheran Church, which soon will move into its own building on Farmington Road.

Will's two sons, James H. Will and Robert D. Will, now are serving the enterprise as president and vice-president. The father is chairman of the board.

Business Briefs

A NEW DISCOUNT program for the benefit of senior citizens has been put into effect at the two shops owned by Comm-Auto Brake Center, Inc. The two sites are the Livonia Brake Center, 31390 Plymouth Road, and the Redford Brake Center, 14154 Telegraph.

A 20 per cent discount on parts and labor on all brake work performed at either shop is available, but only if the work is scheduled through an advance appointment.

THOMAS J. FEAHENY, vice-president of car engineering, Ford Motor Co., will be the featured speaker at the November meeting of the Detroit section of the Society of Automotive Engineers which will be held Wednesday at the Fairlane Manor. Dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m.

Feaheny will tell the engineering story behind Ford's all new cars, the Ford LTD and Mercury Marquis and the Ford Mustang and Mercury Capri. He will explain how Ford engineers, when given the opportunity to design all new cars "from the ground up," achieved significant improvements through innovative package-efficient designs. Reservations may be made by calling the SAE office in Detroit at 832-3100.

SPECTRA FORMULA 250, labeled "the 25,000 mile motor oil," has chosen Starr Advertising, Inc. of Livonia as the agency to handle a massive promotional campaign directed at the long-range motor oil market.

The initial advertising push is scheduled to begin Jan. 10. The program includes advertising with radio and television spots, ads appearing in trade and consumer publications, and sales promotion.

JACK DEMMER FORD has been awarded Ford Motor Co.'s highest honor for "excellence in customer service." Both the parts manager and service manager of the dealership, located at 37300 Michigan Ave., have been recognized as being among the top performers in the Detroit district of the Ford Parts and Service Division.

The Demmer parts and service operation ranks among the upper 15 per cent of Ford and Lincoln-Mercury dealerships nationally. The distinguished service citation was presented to the dealership at a recent reception.

MICHIGAN NATIONAL Corp.'s contest to name its new consumer banking service has been won by Livonia resident Susan Rowland. Her winning entry, "Chek-Save-System," was selected from more than 5,000 suggestions submitted by bank employees. She received 200 silver dollars as the winner.

With the new service, customers can earn interest beginning Nov. 1 on the money normally kept in a checking account.

Ms. Rowland is a 1975 graduate of Stevenson High School in Livonia and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Rowland of Pickford Ave.

The O'Hara firm recently built an office building on Plymouth Road and has a staff of eight salespeople and three associate brokers.

ROBERT E. KUZAWINSKI has joined the staff of Starr Advertising of Livonia as an account executive. Formerly an account executive at Wilding Division of Bell & Howell, Kuzawinski's responsibilities include the account management of such existing Starr clients as Evans Products, Federal-Mogul and Pro-Line Archery. Kuzawinski has been in the advertising field 11 years and at one time owned and operated Everett Graphics.

BRUCE LANTTO, a lifelong resident of Livonia, has joined the staff of R. G. & G. R. Harris Funeral Homes, Inc. as a licensed funeral director. Now 22, Lantto graduated from Bishop Borgess in 1974 and from Wayne State University School of Mortuary Science this year. He was vice-president of his class at WSU. The Harris organization operates funeral homes in Livonia, Garden City, Mt. Clemens and Detroit.

LANTTO SCHAETZL

LT. COL. ROBERT J. SCHAETZL of Canton Township was recently appointed wing commander of the Michigan Wing, Civil Air Patrol (CAP). Previously he served as deputy wing commander under Col. Russell A. Sheibels. A 34-year veteran of CAP, Lt. Col. Schaetzl has acted as both squadron and group communications officer, as squadron and group deputy commander, and planning officer. Among his many awards are the search and rescue ribbon and certificate of merit. He is a rated pilot and has been an officer in several local aviation associations. Professionally, Schaetzl has acted as a territorial account manager for the General Electric Co.

Auto Show is in hands of Calhoun

Plymouth Ford dealer Leo Calhoun has been named chairman of the 1979 Detroit Auto Show to be held Jan. 13-21 in Cobo Hall.

Calhoun's selection was announced by Ed Schmid, president of the Detroit Auto Dealers Association (DADA) and also president of Ed Schmid, Inc. in Ferndale.

"Leo is no stranger to the Detroit Auto Show," said Schmid. "He has served on many auto show committees and, in fact, contributed to the high success and overwhelmingly large turnout at last year's show."

Schmid said he is especially pleased with the appointment of Calhoun as chairman because of "Leo's contagious enthusiasm."

This will be Detroit's 63rd annual sparkling showcase of its new car and truck lineup, joined in recent years by increasing participation among import manufacturers.

"The name 'Leo Calhoun' has become a household word around Detroit," said Schmid. "The man behind the dealership at 41001 Plymouth Road is one of the most knowledgeable auto dealers on the national scene."

"The January auto show is the one place that Detroiters can go and see all of the new cars, on one floor, under one roof, and all at the same time," added Schmid.

Market Watch

By JOHN E. VERNIER

While the stock market doesn't always perform to our satisfaction, it certainly can't be accused of lacking excitement.

It suffered the largest one-week decline ever a week ago when it lost almost 60 points during the five trading sessions.

This followed passage of the tax and energy bills by Congress, and an increase by the Federal Reserve Board of the discount rate to an unprecedented 8 1/2 per cent.

The Fed startled the entire investment community by its bold action. With total disregard to political considerations, the increase to 8 1/2 per cent was a clear indication that they mean business and are willing to let the chips fall where they may.

The cause of this move, of course, is inflation.

Inflation, while destructive enough to every American pocketbook, has created a turmoil on the foreign exchange markets.

The dollar, for many years the central currency to which all other currencies have been related, has suffered a serious decline and is at post-World War II lows compared to almost all major currencies of the free world.

WHY SHOULD THE stock market react with a violent decline when strong steps have been taken to alleviate the problem?

To use an Archie Bunker expletive, high interest rates "stifle."

It discourages consumer and capital spending, and, as a result, causes the over-all economy to slow down. Business expansion diminishes as the cost to borrow money increases and the general effect is for the entire economy to pull into a shell.

The stock market, being the sensitive barometer it is, quickly assumed the worst. Some analysts are now predicting that interest rates will soon exceed the record highs of 1974 when the prime rate reached 12 per cent.

Time will tell whether this proves to be true.

But, common sense dictates that a high level of interest rates will not in itself solve the problem. It may help, but it will not provide the final solution.

That lies in the ability of the Administration and the Congress to establish an economic policy that will bring our balance of payments into line.

PRESIDENT CARTER, in his address to the nation last Tuesday night, called for voluntary compliance to certain guidelines by industry and labor. He offered some reward for those who do comply, and penalties for those who don't.

While this approach has been tried several times before, without success, it is at least an indication that the President considers inflation the country's biggest problem and that he intends to work toward its solution.

This surge in interest rates, while potentially negative for the welfare of the economy, has created a lucrative atmosphere for the investor who is interested in income. Yields on all types of income securities has increased commensurately to the rise in the basic interest rate.

A call for standards

Tax crusaders have bad memories—Brickley

By TIM RICHARD

Tax limitation became an issue in Michigan so suddenly that people have forgotten what their biggest concern was only six months or a year ago.

And that concern, said James H. Brickley, was the declining quality of education.

The Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, now on leave as president of Eastern Michigan University, said:

"Quality of education got side-tracked with the tax revolt. The answer will be competency testing—and the effort is coming out of Detroit."

"Competency declined because we (in public schools) no longer have standards. Attendance alone would get you through."

BRICKLEY, 49, answered questions from Observer & Eccentric news staffers on what he hopes to bring to the No. 2 spot if Gov. William G. Milliken is reelected Nov. 7.

Brickley served as Milliken's lieutenant governor from 1971-74, then found the EMU job.

When Milliken's second lieutenant governor, James Damman, was maneuvered out of running this year, Milliken astounded the political world by recruiting the ambitious Brickley back.

Will Milliken or Sen. Robert Griffin resign after the election some time and throw the post to Brickley?

No, he said. "I don't see Gov. Milliken leaving for four years. I don't plan to leave the lieutenant governorship for four years."

At EMU, Brickley was paid $55,000 a year. As lieutenant governor, he would make $41,000. Why switch?

"I don't like that part of the deal," he said of the salary cut.

"But Gov. Milliken persuaded me I could help him. I told him (last winter) he should run again because he brought something to the office. He turned the tables on me by asking me to run with him again."

"I made that decision (to run) more quickly than any other decision of my life," Brickley said, referring to the famous private conference in an Ypsilanti motel room where party leaders put together the GOP "dream ticket" of Milliken, Brickley and Griffin.

WHY, THEN, did Brickley leave the lieutenant governorship four years ago?

"In 1974 I was in my early 40s. I figured he (Milliken) may run again in 1978. I may be lieutenant governor 12 years.

"Lieutenant governor is a low-identity job. I got a little worried about spending my 40s as lieutenant governor."

"I went to a position (at EMU) that does have a lot of responsibility."

Brickley is sure Milliken won't run for a fourth term in 1982. Brickley could run for governor or take on Democratic U.S. Sen. Donald Riegle. It's no secret. He isn't coy.

ALTHOUGH EDUCATION will be his top interest in Lansing, Brickley said he won't "be a lobbyist for higher education."

Nor does he worry about an "educational establishment" controlling education policy.

He saw no harm in Wayne-Westland

JAMES H. BRICKLEY
Bigger job in 1982?

Schools Supt. Tim Dyer serving on the EMU board of regents—although Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley recently ruled Dyer is in a conflict of interest situation and must give up one post or the other.

Nor did Brickley share the concern of former State Board of Education member James F. O'Neil that the state's education policy-making body has six present or former teachers among its eight members.

"They were elected, and the people elected them," Brickley said. "I don't want to say that people with education positions are unqualified to serve if elected."

A FORMER FBI special agent, Brickley served on the Detroit Common Council and later was chief assistant Wayne County prosecutor and U.S. attorney for eastern Michigan before his first term as lieutenant governor.

Here's how he stands on other issues:

• Headlee tax limitation amendment (Proposal E):—"We're already living under it. But we need the Headlee amendment if a Democrat is elected governor."

• The tax revolt—"What we need is a spending revolt, not a tax revolt. People are revolting against taxes, which is a symptom of spending. The people are voting for candidates who promise them the most spending programs. We have to get the people to want less spending programs."

• PBB—"I hear these stories (about PBB-caused damages to livestock and humans) and they never turn out to be true. . . We have the lowest PBB tolerance limits in the country—20 parts per billion compared to the U.S. Food and Drug Administration's 300 parts per billion. The state moved very quickly, very decisively at the time (1974). The state did a good job under the circumstances. Maybe the governor is at fault for not bringing this out."

• Proposal B (prohibiting early parole of convicts):—"I have personal experience from Wayne County. We had a person who was out on three different bonds at once. I would like to tighten parole as much as the constitution allows."

• Need for more prisons if Proposal B passes—"That is a beautiful problem. I'd be delighted to have that problem. We should keep building prisons. Let's have excess prison capacity. Then felons will know the people have the will and the capacity to hold them."

• Proposal G (to allow collective bargaining by state police troopers):—"I'm opposed to G. One group of state employees shouldn't be singled out. The rest of state government doesn't have it (collective bargaining). But the polls show it passing. If it does, it will be a tribute to the prestige of the state police. It won't be the end of the world if it passes."

Good time repeal debated

By TIM RICHARD

"We don't know why these people became criminals, but we want them locked up," said Michael Modelski, an assistant to Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson. Modelski urged support of Proposal B to tighten Michigan's system of paroling convicts.

"It would be an outrageous burden on the taxpayer," answered Howard Simon, state executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union, which opposes Proposal B.

Proposal B is aimed at what Patterson calls the "good time" laws. These allow a person who is sentenced to (say) 10-20 years in prison to earn parole days if he breaks no prison rules and to get out in as early as 6.4 years.

Good time would be repealed for a long list of violent crimes and crimes which result in injury to persons or damage to property. The state Parole Board would be prohibited from granting parole to a convict until he has served at least his minimum sentence.

It's the only one of the 11 proposals on the Nov. 7 ballot which affects a law. The other 10 affect the state constitution.

"A TRUTH in sentencing law" is how assistant prosecutor Modelski described it to an audience at Schoolcraft College in Livonia last week.

By approving it, he said, the public could be assured that when a judge said "10-20 years," the convict wouldn't be out in less than 6½ years.

"Rehabilitation of criminals is not working. There is no way to rehabilitate anyone. What we're talking about is locking them up for a longer period of time.

"Crime is related to youth," said Modelski. If a criminal at age 20 is locked up until he is 30 or 40, there will be "much less chance of his committing a crime when he gets out."

"We don't want the parole board to have this discretion," he said, of letting out prisoners after serving less than the minimum sentence.

THE ACLU'S Simon called Proposal B "a knee-jerk reaction to crime."

Quoting state Corrections Department figures, Simon said the lengthening of sentences that Proposal B would cost $236 million for the seven additional prisons that would be required and $23 million a year more to operate.

"If you vote for this, don't vote for Tisch or Headlee," he said, referring to Proposals J (tax cut) and E (tax limitation.)

Simon called the legal work on the proposal "arbitrary and haphazard" because it didn't list extortion by public officials and included many non-violent and political crimes.

Among the listed crimes that shouldn't have been there, he said, are treason, presence at an unlawful assembly, gross indecency between consenting adults in privacy, escape from a county work farm and possession of burglars tools.

Rather than spending millions more on building and operating prisons, Simon said, the state should put its money into "more judges and repeat offenders bureaus in prosecutors' offices."

HOWARD SIMON
'Arbitrary, haphazard'

MICHAEL MODELSKI
Restrict Parole Board

WON'T PROPOSAL B result in judges giving shorter prison sentences?

"That's the problem. We don't know what will happen," said Modelski. Sentences might be longer "if a judge feels people will be looking over his shoulder."

On the other hand, a judge who used to give out a 10-year minimum sentence on the assumption the convict would be paroled early, might start giving out 6½-year sentences. Thus, he said, the prisons wouldn't be as crowded as Simon and the corrections department suggest.

"All we can honestly say is that we'll have truth in sentencing," Modelski said.

"The fact that he (convict) behaves well in prison does not mean he should have his sentence reduced for his violent crime."

SIMON SAID Proposal B won't eliminate parole—just let prisoners out later. "They will get out eventually" except for lifers.

"This in no way ties the hands of judges," he added. "It is not mandatory minimum sentencing."

Modelski cited 11 Oakland County murder cases where the person arrested was on parole after serving less than the minimum sentence for an earlier crime.

He repeated Patterson's theme that "we are being robbed, raped and murdered by the same people, over and over. Our prisons are a revolving door for criminals."

Roll Call Report

Ford & Pursell split on energy pricing bill

Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes in the days preceding the adjournment of the 96th Congress

HOUSE

SNAIL DARTER Adopted, 231 for and 157 against, an amendment to permit continued construction of the Tellico Dam in Tennessee, by removing it from the reaches of the Endangered Species Act. A recent U.S. Supreme Court decision is blocking work on the Little Tennessee River public works project, on grounds that the dam threatens the habitat of the snail darter, a fish protected by the endangered species law. This vote came during consideration of HR 14104, a bill later passed and sent to conference with the Senate.

The version of the bill approved by conferees and sent to President Carter continues to apply the Endangered Species Act to the Tellico Dam. However, unless a special executive branch committee takes action within 90 days to affirm that jurisdiction, the project will be automatically exempted from the law.

Rep. Marilyn Lloyd, D-Tenn., a supporter, said "every indication available points to the fact that the snail darter is surviving and in fact prospering in habitats other than the Little Tennessee River, specifically in the Hiwassee River."

Rep. Edwin Forsythe, R-N.J., an opponent, said "it is not yet determined whether the transplanting of the snail darter (in the Hiwassee) is actually effected..."

Members voting yea favored exempting the Tellico Dam project from the Endangered Species Act.

Reps. David Bonior (D-Mt. Clemens), William Ford (D-Taylor), William Brodhead (D-Detroit) and James Blanchard (D-Pleasant Ridge) voted nay.

Rep. Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth) did not vote.

ENERGY BILL Voted, 207 for and 206 against, to consider the five major energy bills not separately but as a package to be approved or rejected on a single up-or-down vote. The bills deal with coal conversion, natural gas pricing, electric utility rate reform, conservation and the setting of incentives and penalties on energy use.

Although procedural, this vote was virtually a referendum on the President's national energy policy. The 206 opponents wanted separate votes on each of the five bills, in hopes of defeating one or more of them. The natural gas bill, eventually removing all price controls, was the most vulnerable.

Rep. Thomas Ashley (D-Ohio), a supporter, said that all five bills taken together form "a solid, logical platform on which to build for the future...a start in coping with our energy problem."

Rep. John Anderson (R-Ill.), an opponent, said the Administration's strategy to lump the five bills together is an admission that the natural gas component "is too weak to stand on its own merits."

Members voting yea favored enactment of the five-part program.

Ford, Brodhead and Blanchard voted yea.

Bonior, Broomfield and Pursell voted nay.

ATTORNEY FEES Rejected, 153 for and 222 against, an amendment allowing banks and individuals sued under federal banking laws to be reimbursed by Uncle Sam for attorney fees and court costs—if they win the lawsuit. It was proposed to HR 13471, a bank regulatory bill which later was set aside.

Although the amendment addressed itself only to civil suits brought under certain banking laws, its supporters hoped to establish a precedent that would eventually benefit successful defendants in other areas of government litigation—such as parties who win suits brought by the IRS or OSHA.

Rep. Henry Hyde (R-Ill.), a supporter, said: "A person can be ruined when all of the resources of the U.S. government are brought to bear against him in litigation."

Rep. Ferdinand St. Germain (D-R.I.), an opponent, said that if the legislation had merit a similar proposal would not be firmly lodged in a Judiciary Committee pigeonhole.

Members voting yea felt the government should pay the defendant's litigation costs when it unsuccessfully brings a civil law suit.

SENATE

SUNSET PROVISION Tabled, 50 for and 41 against, an amendment to establish a periodic congressional review and justification of tax loopholes (also called tax incentives). This vote prevented inclusion of the amendment in the tax bill (HR 13511).

The measure stipulated that tax loopholes (incentives) would come up for review on an individual basis every 10 years, and would expire unless extended by affirmative action of the House and Senate. The Senate Finance Committee or House Ways and Means Committee could exempt from the review process any tax loophole (incentive) it wished to perpetuate.

Sen. Carl Curtis (R-Neb.), a supporter of tabling, said the procedure is "dangerous and wrong" because it would "put into our economy that feeling you cannot depend upon the permanency of the tax law."

Sen. Edmund Muskie (D-Maine), an opponent of tabling, said the drafting of tax legislation is already "chaotic," and that "if the business world of America could sit in these galleries and watch how tax policy is written, they would not invest another nickel in America."

Senators voting nay favored establishing the review process for tax loopholes (incentives).

Sens. Robert Griffin, R, and Donald Riegle, D, voted nay.

HOSPITAL COSTS Failed, 42 for and 47 against, to table and thus kill a proposal for standby controls on hospital costs. Left unchanged by the vote was language to impose mandatory government controls if the American Hospital Association's voluntary controls prove ineffective. The association urges its members to cut the rate of cost increases by two per cent this year and another two per cent in 1979.

This vote occurred during debate on HR 5285, a health bill that died when the 96th Congress adjourned. It marked the first time either house had voted approval of federal controls on hospital costs.

Sen. Herman Talmadge (D-Ga.), a supporter of tabling and thus killing the proposal, said it takes "the bludgeon rather than the carrot-and-stick approach."

Sen. Donald Riegle, an opponent of tabling, called the standby authority "a reasonable compromise" between mandatory and voluntary controls.

Senators voting nay favored the standby authority for federal hospital-cost controls.

Riegle voted nay.

Griffin did not vote.

THREE-MARTINI LUNCH Voted, 49 for and nine against, to retain the present tax deduction for business meals such as the fabled "three-martini lunch." This vote tabled and thus killed an amendment to disallow 50 per cent of the deduction. It came during debate on HR 13511, the major tax bill later signed into law.

Sen. Daniel Inouye (D-Hawaii), a supporter of the amendment, said that "for the business community, business meals are one of the tools of the trade."

Sen. Edward Kennedy (D-Mass.), sponsor of the amendment, said: "If there is any symbol in our society of a two-class system it is on the one hand the working people who pay for their (meals) and on the other hand those who have the opportunity to write off their (meals) on their expense accounts which are subsidized by the taxpayer."

Senators voting yea favored the tax deduction for business meals.

Riegle voted nay.

The Stroller

Dressing room dramatics

By W. W. EDGAR

In all the fuss being raised over the right of women sports writers to invade men's locker rooms after a game—be it baseball, football or basketball—some of the greatest opportunities in descriptive journalism are being overlooked.

It is in these quarters where the athletes, often battered and bruised or mentally upset after a grueling contest, provide some dramatic moments that would outdo anything seen on the stage or screen. Yet very little is said about them in the public print.

Can you imagine what the scene in the Tigers' dressing room was like last Sunday afternoon when Ralph Houck was fading out of the picture as Tiger manager? Outside the fans were yelling, "We want Ralph! We want Ralph!" They wanted to give him a rousing send-off, even though the team had lost its final game.

But he didn't appear. Only a few nights before, the fans in Boston's Fenway Park had given him a standing ovation. He admitted afterward that it was difficult for him to step out of the dugout to acknowledge the tribute.

NOW IT WAS time for him to say good-bye to the players—or rather, for them to say good-bye to him and wish him well.

Just imagine the picture as these young players walked into his office not only to say farewell, but to thank him for the many things he had done to keep them on the major leagues roster.

You can bet there were many choked-up voices and a tear or two being held back in what surely must have been one of the most dramatic moments of the season.

It has been The Stroller's good fortune to be a witness to many of these dramatic moments in the nation's locker rooms. Some were tear-jerkers. Others were surprising, and still others were a bit laughable. But all were dramatic.

WELL, HE remembers sitting in the Tigers' dressing room in Wrigley Field where the venerable General Crowder had just pitched his mates to victory over the Chicago Cubs in the 1935 world series.

On his way to that victory, the General had been more deliberate than ever. With every pitch, he would look skyward as if to gaze on a passing airplane.

But now the game was over, and he was sitting in front of his locker with his head buried in his hands.

As The Stroller approached him, he looked up and said, "I wonder if it helped."

Then he revealed that Mrs. Crowder was in the hospital, and he was told that morning that only some sort of shock would help her.

"I was thinking of her with every pitch," he said, then repeated, "I wonder if it helped."

ON ANOTHER occasion, The Stroller was sitting in the late Gus Dorais' office at the University of Detroit when the seniors who had just played their final football game came in to say good-bye, and thank him for the opportunity to play for him.

When Harvey Wrathel, the varsity center, walked in, Gus stuck out his hand.

Before a word was spoken, he said, "Harvey, I want to apologize to you. You should be leaving here as a possible all-American, and the only reason you won't be is because of me. I experimented too long with you. I tried you at an end, then as a guard, and didn't find out until it was too late that you were a good center. For that I must apologize."

Moments like these don't happen very often.

THEN THERE was another afternoon in the Tigers' dressing room that The Stroller will long remember.

Hal Newhouser, the star southpaw pitcher, had just lost a tough game because Dick Wakefield, the former Michigan star to whom the Tigers paid a $52,000 bonus to sign, dropped a fly ball in the outfield.

When Newhouser stormed into the dressing room, he tossed his glove aside, kicked a chair across the room and almost screamed, "That's your $52,000 beauty for you!"

So you see, the legitimate stage or the silver screen are not the only places to witness dramatic moments. There are plenty in the locker rooms across the land.

CONGRESSMAN CARL PURSELL

HE'S MAKING A REAL DIFFERENCE IN NATIONAL POLICY...

On Taxes

Long before tax revolts were in the headlines, Congressman Pursell was leading his own quiet revolution.

He voted for both tax cuts and spending restrictions, and co-sponsored tax rate cut legislation to stop taxation by inflation. Carl wrote a bill to reduce the federal bureaucracy 10% by phasing out some of the jobs which become vacant each year, which would save hundreds of millions of tax dollars.

He introduced legislation drafted by Michigan women to help end tax discrimination against women throughout the nation.

Before entering Congress, Carl was a leading budget watchdog in the State Senate, and sponsored a program to reduce the Michigan property tax.

On Energy

Carl is a national leader in the drive to develop the alternative energy sources so crucial for our economy, our security, our entire future..

A member of the Science and Technology Committee, he was instrumental in securing the first committee approval for directly funding civil laser fusion energy research. In both of his first two years in Congress, he successfully sponsored amendments to intensify fusion energy research, including assistance for private sector and university energy research in our 2nd District.

A new Pursell bill proposes a major plan to accelerate development of new energy sources, including fusion, solar, geothermal, biomass and innovative uses of conventional fuels.

On Education

Throughout his career, Carl has demonstrated a commitment to quality education at all levels. As a parent, he knows the value of quality education. As a taxpayer and former business owner, he knows the value of a dollar. As a legislator and experienced education budget expert, he knows how to achieve both.

A member of the Education and Labor Committee, he wrote amendments to improve the nation's program for gifted and talented students.

He sponsored the most far-reaching plan to split education functions from the H.E.W. conglomerate, and the only such plan to give top priority to local control, academic freedom, and Carl's "no-strings" revenue sharing plan to cut the property tax burden.

On Jobs

Carl believes creating secure new jobs in a diversified economy is the key to improving the quality of life in America. He has personally aided plant location and industrial park programs to create new jobs.

One vivid example was his recent emergency flight to Chicago to save a federal industrial park grant to allow several new businesses and hundreds of jobs to locate in our district.

A member of the Employment Opportunities Subcommittee, Carl wrote amendments to make our job training programs more efficient and more meaningful to those they help. Subcommittee Chairman "Gus" Hawkins of California called Carl, "... one of the outstanding new members of that subcommittee".

A HARD-WORKING CONGRESSMAN, DOING A TOUGH JOB WELL

Re-Elect

PAID BY PURSELL-CONGRESS COMMITTEE, P.O. BOX 7778, ANN ARBOR, MI. 48107

Recently, it was my good fortune to be invited to observe the enactment of a Japanese tea ceremony.

I learned that this ceremony is, in reality, an ancient Buddhist ritual of meditation.

In observing the intricate movements of both the hostess and guest, I became aware of the reoccurrence of the number three. For example: the tea cake was cut into three pieces, and the water was moved from the water jar to the container in which it was heated by three scoops of the dipper.

When bowing, the forefingers and thumbs of both hands are placed together to form a triangle.

The list goes on and on, so that even the most casual observer becomes aware that this number must have a special significance.

It has always been so.

In Hinduism, as in Christianity, God is represented as both one and three. The Brahman concept of God as Sat (Being), Cit (logos of reason), and Ananda (joy and love), is certainly attune to the Christian one of God (Being), the Son (logos and reason), and the Holy Spirit (love).

In folklore and mythology, the number three is repeated again and again: three Graces, three Fates, three Furies, and Cerberus, the three-headed dog.

Remember how the hero always had three chances, or was given three wishes? And even in our nursery tales, we see it with the three bears, the three little pigs, the three blind mice, and the three little kittens.

In pagan religions the groupings of deities in threes was not uncommon. The Celts, to whom three was a sacred number, often pictured their gods as having three heads or three faces. In Egypt, Osiris, Isis, and Horus were the father, mother, and child Gods.

In Christianity, we see the three gifts of the Magi, the three temptations in the wilderness, Peter's three denials of Christ, three falls on the road to Golgotha, three days between the Crucifixion and the Resurrections, and the three appearances of the risen Christ and his disciples.

In the study of numerology, the importance of the number "three" is as follows:

The number "one", though potentially all creative, is by itself barren. No matter how many times it is multiplied (fertilized), by itself, it remains one.

The number "two" introduces a pair of opposites, but two multiplied by one is still two.

Three is the first creative, productive number. It reconciles the opposites of two and one, and then produces new numbers (3 x 2 = 6).

Again, one is a point; two points are a line. But when three points are connected, we have a triangle, and the first plane figure is constructed.

Added to all this is the sexual symbolism of the number three. Being the number of the male genitals, the triangle is a natural symbolism for male (though it can also be a symbol for the female).

League supports transit proposal

Editor:

The League of Women Voters of Northville, Plymouth, Canton, Novi supports Proposal M, the transportation proposal.

This support is based on the League of Women Voters of the United States transportation position, which calls for alternate forms of transportation to be developed into comprehensive transit systems.

This proposal would require that 90 per cent of highway user fees (motor fuel and vehicle registration taxes) be used for highways, roads, streets and bridges. The remaining 10 per cent could be spent on all other forms of transportation, such as local bus systems, passenger and freight rail programs, intercity buses, waterway and port and airport improvement programs.

In addition, 100 per cent of taxes on aviation registration and aviation fuel and up to 25 per cent of the sales tax on motor fuels, motor vehicles, parts and accessories would also be used for comprehensive transportation.

This proposal would also change the names of the State Highway Commission and the State Highway Department to Transportation Commission and Transportation Department.

The Commission would be enlarged to six members, appointed by the governor for three year terms and the director of the State Transportation Department would be appointed as provided by law.

Energy conservation, the decline and proposed abandonment of parts of the state's rail system and the physical and financial barriers to automobile ownership for some segments of the population who need transportation services have led to demands for comprehensive planning and funding of a more diversified transportation system, including public transit.

The League is a nonpartisan organization which, after study and consensus, takes action on selected governmental issues. We urge a "YES" vote on Proposal M.

AAUW tells stands

Editor:

The Plymouth Branch and Michigan Division of the American Association of University Women have taken positions on four of the ballot proposals for November's election.

After considerable study, AAUW is opposed to calling a new constitutional convention. This decision is based on the unwarranted costs involved when necessary changes can be considered and voted upon individually when necessary.

Due to AAUW's long-standing interest and emphasis on quality public education, we are in opposition to the Tisch property tax cut (Proposal J) and the voucher plan for school financing (Proposal H).

Because AAUW sees a dire need for transportation reform, with a stress on adequate public transportation, we are supporting Proposal M to create a Department of Transportation to establish mass transit needs.

AAUW urges that each citizen take the time necessary to become informed on each of the proposals on the November ballot and exercise their right to vote.

Swedes paid most

American workers constitute the third highest paid labor force this year. As in 1976, Swedish employers bear the world's steepest labor costs, while Belgium has supplanted the U.S. for second ranking. The Netherlands ranks fourth.

It takes two

One of every five American families has an income of $25,000 or more, but in most cases the income results from at least two family members working. Three per cent of the families in the "$25,000 and up" bracket are headed by women, five per cent by blacks.

Only rare and dedicated people offer their skills

Editor:

For the past two years, I have sat in on several meetings of a group for better mental health, by the name of Fieldbrook Association.

During this time I have listened to this small group of deeply loyal, compassionate, caring persons—volunteers themselves, who have taken time out of their own heavy busy schedules, trying to solve some of the problems of mental health and help the loving and concerned persons of the mentally ill.

They have through local newspapers, openly invited the community and concerned persons to attend these meetings, to obtain a better understanding of mental laws and problems pertaining to such, and also to back and support this group. Only myself on most occasions, or two or three other concerned citizens at other times, have responded and been at a meeting.

These rare and dedicated persons have tried many avenues to gain sufficient recognition and assistance, so that they in turn could offer their skills and help to those in desperate need, not knowing where to turn.

The purpose of Fieldbrook Community Mental Health Association is to provide a comprehensive mental health program for the cities of Livonia, Plymouth, Northville and the townships of Redford, Plymouth, Canton and Northville.

Their aim is to be an after care center and follow up for previously hospitalized patients; but perhaps even more important of all as a preventive center, where a person could go at any time of the day or night for emergency service, without a lot of red tape being involved, and also for the best possible advice as where and what to do next, in the case of a loved person who is ill.

Rev. James Spilos has offered his church, "Holy Trinity," as a meeting place, and is himself an interested and participating person in this group.

These people have simply knocked their heads against a brick wall due to a (1.) lack of funds (2.) enough concern and backing from the community.

In fact there seems to be a complete lack of awareness by the public that this association even exists.

Yet, these very interested and dedicated people have never given up. They keep plugging away on our behalf, yours and mine, for in this day and age there is hardly a family that is not under some sort of stress and strain, or under pressures from various groups and community living, also concerns for their children or some dear, relative, friend or neighbor.

I attended an emergency meeting Oct. 18 concerning a newly-to-be formed Community Health Center, which unlike Fieldbrook's intention, would only handle a percentage of after-care patients, until their funds would run out (this would be their cut off line), but not for prevention.

As we have been reading in newspaper articles, magazines, etc. in all illnesses, whether it be cancer, heart attacks, mental illness, prevention is far better, quicker (not to mention less expensive) than when an illness strikes.

ROBERT GEAKE

Hometown finds niche in real estate sales

By W.W. EDGAR

When the list of hometown boys who made good within the shadows of their birthplace is prepared a special space should be reserved for Robert Geake, the youthful real estate broker.

Born in Plymouth 38 years ago he has climbed the ladder of success until today he is ranked as the top residential real estate broker in the city.

With an office at the corner of Harvey and Ann Arbor Trail, he has reached the point in 10 short years where he now is operating in the $13 million sales bracket yearly.

"And the funny thing about it," he said, "is that a chance remark by the late Earl Demel in the Mayflower Hotel coffee shop is responsible to a great degree for any success I may have had."

THE CHANCE REMARK came about when Demel said to no one in particular that he was just offered the house at the Harvey Street intersection and turned it down because he already had his own building.

With that as a cue young Geake moved fast and it wasn't long until he had the building for his headquarters.

Until that time, he smilingly tells you, he had his office in the Mayflower lobby. He would make dates to meet prospects and arrange to have them meet him in the lobby. He was still doing business that way when he got the chance to acquire the present office site.

A graduate of Northville High School and the University of Michigan, Geake had his own ideas of how a real estate firm should be run. He majored in marketing and following graduation worked in the public relations department of the Fisher Body plant and later in the Oldsmobile sales segment.

At those places he made up his mind that if ever he could get a business of his own he would never have a large staff. He set his sights on a small staff where everyone would work as a team instead of bitterly competing with each other.

"I set my ambition on having a small staff so everyone could make money when I opened the real estate office. That's why I have only seven people in the office. They are all happy and I am, too."

WHEN HE ENTERED the real estate business, Geake set his sights on dealing only in the higher priced residences. There seemed to be a good market for them in Plymouth, so why not do business in his home town?

Now, 10 years later, he and his firm deal in all sorts of residential property and have steadily climbed to the top. Among the seven member staff is Mrs. Janice Foster, one of the outstanding saleswomen in the region. She was honored last year for reaching the $1 million mark in sales. This year she is ahead of that pace.

In the short 10 years he has been in business Geake has seen a great change in real estate values in the Plymouth community.

He likes to recall that the first home he sold, back in 1967, was a small one in Lakepointe. The price was $32,000. Today, he says, that same home—even 10 years older—would bring $85,000 on the market.

At the moment he has no idea of how high his sales will go this year. One thing is certain. He will be up among the leaders in residential transactions.

It is a far cry from doing business in the lobby of the Mayflower. He surely is entitled to high ranking on the list of hometown boys who made good right in his own backyard.

Stresses responsiveness

By KAREN ANNE KOPEKIN

State Sen. Robert Geake (R-Northville) prides himself on the amount of time he spends in the 14th Senate District meeting with and solving the problems of his constituents.

Challenged by Democrat Paul Kadish in his bid for re-election to the senate, the 41-year-old Geake claims he spends almost as much time solving the problems of his constituents as he does making laws.

"I am a commuting legislator," he said. "I return home from Lansing every evening to be available for meetings and activities in the district."

"I take pride in the fact that any resident can easily contact me at home or at the Capitol."

Bringing a constituent and the correct state agency together is common work for him. He said he talks daily with citizens who have problems with insurance companies, businesses or licensing offices.

"Many times I just have to channel a person's letter or request to the right office," Geake said. "Other times I have to step in and take some kind of action before anyone will listen."

"But putting people in contact with the right office usually solves the problem," he added.

REPRESENTING a district that includes Livonia, Plymouth, Redford Township and part of Westland, Geake is seeking his first four-year term as a state senator.

He has been member of senate since he won a special election 19 months ago to fill a vacancy created when Carl Pursell went to the U.S. House.

Not a newcomer to campaigns, he has served as an elected official since 1972 when he won a seat in the state house of representatives.

Re-elected in 1974 and 1976, the Northville Republican, like his opponent, began his political career on the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees. In 1969 he filled a board at-large seat, and by the time he resigned in 1972 to go to Lansing, he was chairman of the board.

Calling himself one of the original founders of Taxpayers United for Tax Limitation, the group that has pushed the so-called Headlee amendment, Geake says "the plan will put a cap on new taxes and force the legislature to more carefully set priorities in its funding of programs."

"Basically, it will make us live within a budget," he added. "Something we've never had to do before."

GEAKE SAID passage of the other two tax proposals, Tisch and the voucher plan would be "disastrous." Proposal J, called the Tisch amendment, calls for a 50 per cent reduction in property assessments and allows for a one per cent increase in the state income tax. It also allows local school boards to levy a one per cent personal income tax.

The voucher plan would replace direct public financing of the public schools with grants to the parents of all school-age children for use in either public or private schools.

He predicts "chaos" with passage of the Tisch plan because, "for a year or two, the legislature will not have time to draft replacement taxes."

"If the voucher plan passes it will go through numerous court challenges," Geake predicted. "It would wipe out the independence of private and parochial schools."

Criticized by his opponent for voting against an increased gas tax and license plate fee, the senator said, "I voted no because it is clear that the people want no more taxes."

ROBERT GEAKE
State Senator

ALSO CRITICIZED by Kadish not taking action on the beleaguered Plymouth Center for Human Development, Geake serves as a member of a parents group now monitoring the center.

Presently a consulting psychologist and former administrator at the center he blames a "lack of accountability for the home's present abuse problems."

"The problem will never be entirely solved at Plymouth or anywhere," said the member of the senate mental health committee, "until all institutions are dismantled and men-sons would have to sit in jail without cause.

"A large proportion of those arrested have dependents. The family has to go on welfare. They lose jobs."

"Speedy trial is a real alternative to pre-trial detention."

She turned to the portion of Proposal K that requires trial to start within 90 days. "The assumption is that the critical period is 90 days after a crime is committed. But half of the post-arrest crime is committed four to eight months later, not in the first 90 days," she said.

Proposal K was drafted by Tannian and placed on the ballot under the sponsorship of State Rep. Paul Rosenbaum (D-Battle Creek), who made crime a major theme in an unsuccessful bid for his party's U.S. Senate nomination.

If approved, Proposal K would become part of the state constitution May 1.

Safety comes first

Energy-conscious cooks are concerned about the standard safety precaution to refrigerate leftover foods while still hot rather than letting them cool to room temperature. The concern centers on the fact that this causes the refrigerator to work harder thus using more energy.

Safety comes first and the rule still holds, although some concessions can be made to conservation without endangering the family's health. For example, there's no need to refrigerate a steaming pot of soup or stew immediately. However, perishable food should be refrigerated before it falls below 140 degrees F, which is considerably above room temperature. At this temperature the container is hot, but not too hot to touch.

League opposes new constitution

Editor:

Should a convention be called for the purpose of general revision of Michigan's constitution? The current constitution, adopted by the voters of the state in 1963 to replace one written in 1908, mandates that this question be put to the people for a vote every 16 years.

The League of Women Voters of Northville, Plymouth, Canton, Novi opposes Proposal A, the calling of a constitutional convention. We believe that the current constitution has yet to mature legally—16 years is not a particularly long time in terms of a constitution.

Cost to the taxpayers is a concern.

In 1961-63, the costs for the constitutional convention were approximately $3 million. Estimates are that the amount would be at least tripled in 1978-79.

The League's major goal in 1961-63 was to obtain a constitution free of statutory detail. Participants in that effort feel that that goal was achieved. The amendment process can be used for changes in specific issues.

The League, a nonpartisan organization encouraging active participation of citizens in government, takes action on selected governmental issues following study and consensus. We urge a "No" vote on Proposal A.

In Schoolcraft dinner theater, she's having fun

Production runs

By BETTY MASSON

"In raising teenagers, you have to have a sense of humor." That bit of philosophy comes from Betty Hancock, a former science teacher, a former member of the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council, a mother of six, and one of the leads of Schoolcraft College's first play of the season.

The play is "The Impossible Years," and it's about teenagers and parents. It's a dinner theater program with dinner prepared by students in the culinary arts department for the evenings of Nov. 3, 4, 17 and 18. Tickets are available at the college bookstore.

"The Impossible Years" is a play about the troubles a psychiatrist has when his theories clash with the realities of having a teenager in the house.

"I THINK that's one thing this play does bring out—the sense of humor that is involved in raising teenagers," said Mrs. Hancock. "How many mothers and fathers do you know like this? One has the book and says that it should be done 'this way' and they discuss it and discuss it."

"They decide to apply a philosophy, and it all blows up in their faces. If you can look at the humorous side of these things, it helps."

Mrs. Hancock plays the mother, Alice, whom she describes as a "down-to-earth person, who suggests going to the daughter to get some answers instead of to a book."

But she's worried, too, about the aftermath of a trip to Fire Island by daughter Linda. In a bridge club session, Alice bids "three no virgins."

In last year's production at Schoolcraft, Mrs.

Hancock played the astute, somewhat dowdy Miss Marple in Agatha Christie's "Murder at the Vicarage."

This year's role is a lot closer to reality. In the play she has only two teenage daughters. At home, there are five teenagers and one 8-year-old. Also in her home-grown rooting (and helping) section is one husband, who is happy to see his wife take up a new "career."

During the strike at Schoolcraft, Mrs. Hancock went to auditions at Will-O-Way Theatre in Bloomfield Hills, and was offered two roles. When classes, and rehearsals, resumed at Schoolcraft, she had to turn one down. But right after "The Impossible Years," she will begin rehearsals for the role of Mrs. Antrobus in "The Skin of Our Teeth."

Mrs. Hancock talks about acting with a sparkle and enthusiasm that may be a big factor in her success.

THE ROLE OF the psychiatrist husband Dr. Jack Kingsley in "The Impossible Years" has been double cast by the director, Dr. Lawrence Rudick.

Both her husbands, Marc Harlow and Michael Corliss, are much younger than Mrs. Hancock, but this doesn't faze her.

"These young adults are so much fun," she says. They are so supportive and I think this is what acting is all about. You have a bond and you share.

"How marvelous it is for a group of people to get together a piece of literature and share it with an audience. That to me is theater—to share."

It's also hard work. Mrs. Hancock said that when she was given the role of Miss Marple, "the more I got into the role, the more I felt the responsibility of having to create the character. I read a couple of books to see what Agatha Christie thought of Jane Marple."

This year's play, she feels, is both a catharsis and a vehicle for filling a void.

IN SPITE of humor, living with teenagers can at times be frustrating, and Mrs. Hancock says she can identify with Alice's concerns.

'How marvelous it is for a group of people to get together a piece of literature and share it with an audience. That to me is theater—to share.'

—Betty Hancock

She also says that she is in agreement with Dr. Kingsley's decision to allow his 18-year-old daughter to go to Fire Island with her friends.

Her own feelings are "that at 18, the child has very much an idea of what he wants to do, and who he wants to be with."

Acting fills a void, she says, because from the time her children were small, she and they have spent considerable time singing, dancing and putting on skits. Now the children read to themselves, and have their own activities.

Mrs. Hancock, who has lived in Northville for 16 years, got her acting start in high school in a small town in Missouri. She entered the University of Michigan to study sciences, but managed to squeeze in a class in drama and played "Medea Gabler" in a class presentation.

SHE MARRIED, had four children and taught in Garden City Junior High School, where she was chairman of the mathematics and science department. She helped coordinate a new mathematics and science curriculum, and then did graduate work at the Merrill-Palmer Institute.

She is presently taking modern and oral interpretation at Schoolcraft. In the past, she has reviewed math and French, studied theater, music and the history of acting. Also, she has studied German, Spanish and Latin.

Mexican music coming Sunday

A colorful, rhythmic show in a swirl of 250 authentic costumes with mariachi, marimba and jarocho bands providing Mexican dance and song will unfold in the Schoolcraft College gym on Sunday, Nov. 5. Admission is $4.50 and $3.50.

Co-sponsors Schoolcraft College Cultural & Public Affairs, Livonia Arts Commission and Livonia Regional Ballet selected Ballet Folklorico Mexicano, a traveling company of 32 singers, dancers and musicians, as their first cooperative effort.

Shows are scheduled at 2 and 8 p.m.

Ballet Folklorico Mexicano represented Mexico at Expo '74, the World's Fair at Spokane, Wash. Directed and choreographed by its founder Graciela Tapia, who also appears as a dancer, they have given more than 600 performances in the United States and other countries.

The 1978-79 edition includes a number of new dances in its eight-part show, with costumes representing 18 regions of Mexico. The performance is a revelation of Mexican culture of the past and present, creating an opportunity for better understanding between Mexico and the world.

Tickets are available at Hudson's, the L.O.V.E. Office on Five Mile at Farmington, and at the Schoolcraft College bookstore, on campus at 18600 Haggerty in Livonia. Call 591-6400, ext. 265 for information.

Huber at Hinge

Folk singer Connie Huber will perform at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Hinge coffeehouse at the University of Michigan-Dearborn. A $1 donation is asked.

Ms. Huber is currently based at the Black Sheep Repertory Theatre in Manchester. She has shared the stage with such musicians as the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band and Don McLean.

In addition to her own songs, she performs songs by Joni Mitchell and Jackson Browne.

Professor Phillip Davis of the school of art and design, University of Michigan, will speak on "The History of Photography" Tuesday in the school of architecture's continuing Design Lecture Series at Lawrence Institute of Technology.

The public is invited to attend the noon presentation in the architecture auditorium, 21000 West Ten Mile, Southfield.

As part of the same series, Kenneth S. Neumann, partner in Rossen & Neumann, Southfield architects, will deliver a 6 p.m. lecture on "Architecture: Evolution of Design" on Nov. 18.

DETROIT'S BEST ROCK

A CALENDAR OF EVENTS FOR ROCK 'N ROLL AUDIENCES IN DETROIT.

JIM MORRISON LIVES AGAIN NOVEMBER 6!

The lyrics and poetry Jim Morrison compiled for a special album in the months before his death seven years ago will be released to his fans this week. The original DOORS produced and accompanied the arrangements on "An American Prayer," part of which was recorded on his last birthday, December 8, 1970, when he turned 27.

Morrison designed the album to be his second volume of poetry. The first book (The Lords and the New Creatures) was published after his sojourn in Paris, where he emulated the style of Hemingway and other expatriate American writers of the '50's.

Doors manager Bill Siddons told WRIF "The album was three years in the making by six different men. The album was a labor of love by the people closest to him. It was crafted around his poetry, which expressed the major experiences of his life."

Detroiters can pick up the album November 6.

RAIDING THE WRIF MORNING SHOW: MUSIC, INFO...AND ALWAYS, THE UnPredictable

There's no telling who Michael Collins will be talking to next: a cat psychiatrist, Warren Beatty, MAD magazine's Argentina office, Peter Frampton's nurse, Steve Martin, and rock and rollers from all over the world. Innovative (Frankly we don't know where Mike gets his questions, but you would be amazed at the answers). The first and only of its kind in Detroit News (tailored for you), traffic reports tailored to ten minutes from now. Detroit weather without all the statistics from our staff meteorologist Joe Bonnan, sports and sideline reports on what's happening in town. And of course, Detroit's Best Rock, everyday. The only Morning Show of its kind in Detroit in or out of bed. Michael Collins from 6-10AM.

Hot-dogging U.P. going for share of downhill $$$

By DORIS SCHARFENBERG

Advance planning is the key to cost-cutting for skiers out to reach the early snows and increased facilities of Michigan's western Upper Peninsula.

North Central Airlines, the only regularly scheduled carrier flying into Marquette, Iron Mountain, Ironwood and Houghton-Hancock, offers discounts up to 40 per cent to those who make round-trip reservations 30 days in advance.

But passengers must at least seven days or a maximum of 45 days and travel Monday-Thursday.

A 30 per cent discount on reservations is available to those who travel on weekends. North Central is already heavily booked for December.

Space is limited and if North Central must route a traveler through another carrier part of the way, say to Chicago, the trip to Chicago may not be at a discount price.

The western U.P. is the entrance hall for Michigan's winter. Cross-country skiers already are heading north in anticipation of first-of-season snows.

U.P. lodge managers report improved, and increase in accommodations, convention facilities, family plans, rentals, and live entertainment.

SOME OF THE SKI areas listed in the Travel Commission folders are modest, city-run parks that offer a warming hut with hot dogs. Others are full-scale operations with individual cabins, pro shops, and ski instruction for all.

The bigger lodges also offer swimming pools, game rooms and disco evenings.

Ski resorts in the western U.P. include:

BIG POWDERHORN near Bessemer and Ironwood, can handle 1,600 skiers in dorms and chalets. There are 15 runs, beginner-expert, plus night skiing. Free transportation to and from the Ironwood airport. For information, write Box 136, Bessemer 49911.

BLACK JACK, one of the newest resorts, has 12 runs, rentals, restaurants and all the rest. Call (906) 229-5915.

INDIANHEAD MOUNTAIN is nine miles east of Ironwood. It has 10 runs, five slopes, including the "longest run over a mile—a 638-foot vertical drop. There are chairlifts, advanced grooming three dining rooms, Austrian ski school, heated-pool and more. Call toll-free (800) 338-1240.

PINE MOUNTAIN is on south side of the Peninsula near Iron Mountain. Includes indoor pool, 12 slopes, chairlifts and tows, plus the world's highest artificial ski jump. In December, the mid-America ski races are held here. For information, call (906) 744-2747.

VULCAN SKI HILL is five to 10 miles east of Pine Mountain. There are chairlifts, tows, a restaurant, and they'll help you find lodging nearby. For information, call (906) 563-5568.

PORCUPINE MOUNTAIN can be found in Porcupine State Park, 17 miles west of Ontonagon. Facilities include 10 slopes, 2000/6000 feet, chairlifts and tows. The park has a cafeteria, chalet, with lodging nearby. Call park headquarters at (906) 885-5798.

There are slopes at Cliff's Ridge, Marquette, Adventure Mountain (near Greenland), Mt. Rupley (in Hancock, directly across from Houghton's Michigan technological University) and the Quaal Recreation Area in Ishpeming.

Ishpeming is the location of Suicide Hill, the famous and dangerous incline that has seen numbers of injuries. It is also the site of the National Ski Hall of Fame and Museum, with its memorabilia from the earliest days of competition, plus some very old hand-made skis. It also includes exhibits devoted to the handicapped skier. A booklet on handicapped skiing is available.

The skiing season soon returns to Michigan, and with it comes the athletes, the hot-doggers and the novices. The above flier is the exception; the rule follows the course of the skier at right. Resort owners are grooming their slopes and preparing other facilities for the influx of skiers from throughout the Midwest, who are finding the U.P.'s slopes conveniently located and to their liking.

TRAVEL LOG of Iris Jones

Tale of woe from young Banshi

Banshi Prasad Aryal is part of the travel experience, a young teen who appointed himself as my guide at the temple of Pashupatinath, in the Kathmandu Valley of Nepal.

We had a full-grown official guide of our own, but I had paused to view the holy river and had fallen behind.

"Ordinary people are cremated on this side, and it's free," a young voice said at my elbow. "Royalty and people who pay are cremated on that side."

I thanked the boy and wandered onto the bridge to view the incredible sight: temples tiering to a golden rooftop left, stone temples mounting the hill right, and Indian pilgrims bathing in the river below.

"This is one of the pilgrimages Indians make in their lifetime if they can," the voice said. "The holy men live on that platform, but all they do is beg and smoke drugs."

"In that building, the old people come to die beside the holy river."

There was no ignoring this young businessman. "What's your name," I asked.

"Banshi Prasad Aryal," he said.

"Do you live near here?"

"My father is dead..." he began. All young supplicants start this way, but it could be true.

"My father is dead. My mother is old and very sick. I have brothers and sisters. Only my brother works, for 100 rupees a month in an office. I go to school in the morning and guide here in the afternoon." As we walked among the temples, up the hill past the holy men and the beggar woman nursing a baby, I was divided between the other world of my eyes and the boy at my side.

He spoke excellent English. He was bright and courteous. His goal, he said, was to become a real guide.

Whatever the truth of his story, he could not live much above survival's edge.

I suffered culture shock in India and Nepal, wavering between giving to beggars and ignoring them. I had come by then to a tentative policy—give for service but not for begging. The voice of an Indian friend haunted me:

"Don't make beggars out of our children. Encourage them to go to school!"

I had not asked Banshi to guide me, but he did a good service. I gave him four rupees, only 32 cents but four hours pay for a poor Nepalese laborer. He thanked me courteously, and asked me for my address.

"I write to you," he said.

When I returned to my office in the United States a letter was waiting on my desk. It had cost him six rupees to send it airmail.

This is how it reads: (The words in brackets are mine)

"My respected, Dereste friend, Iris Sanderson Jones.

"I am writing a letter to you. This first letter is our correspondence since we should develop to our love because you are my derest friend and I am also your friend but now I am in very bad condition. So now I am very poor, because I haven't my father.

"He was died 4 years ago. Now I have one mother, 3 brother and two sister. My two are very small. One brother is big than me. Now he is working in Khatmandu, he can earn 100 R's monthly. My mother is very old. She cannot work anythings. She just sitting in home.

"My two sisters haven't read because we have no money to read. (Study?) but I am reading in class ten. Now examination is coming after 3 months still so I am reading by make a guide to tourist. When I explain all history of Pashupatinath, after the tourist gives some rupees and I pay in my school.

"If there is no turist season I cannot earn money at that time. I cannot eat even good food because I cannot earn money, so now I am reading with difficulty. Now if you can help me some money you can send me by the letter. If you cannot what can I do. I have no other remedy.

"When I be grow I can also help me other poor people. So now I have many problems. Now I have nothings. So I have send one post cart of Machhapuchhare (a mountain.) It is in Pothkhara. Now I haven't any other free times, now my mother is sick. So I closed my pen."

It was signed: "Your dearest poor friend, Banshi prasa Aryal, Pashupatinath Temple, Devapattn, Kathmandu, Nepal."

The fact that Banshi begs by international mail does not solve my dilemma. If I send him money I make a beggar out of him. If I ignore him I lose a chance to help one bright, zealous, if slightly larcenous, boy to become a productive citizen of the world. What would you do?

Some of you have faced the problem while traveling in Mexico, South America and the Middle East. Share your experience and possible solutions with the readers of this page. Write to me at 22170 W. Nine Mile, Southfield 48034.

CONTEST RULES

WHO MAY ENTER

These contests are open to all persons with the exception of any CKLW Radio full or part time employees and their families and its advertising agency, the employees and families of Eastern Airlines and its advertising agency, the employees and families of Dayton Hudson Corporation and its related companies, and advertising agencies. NO PURCHASE IS NECESSARY.

HOW TO ENTER

Any person may enter the contests by picking up an entry form on or after October 1, 1978 at the Walt Disney World display in any one of the following Dayton Hudson Malls: Eastland, Genesee Valley, Northland, Southland, and Westland, and after completion depositing the entry form at the Mall, or by mailing a postcard on or after October 3, 1978 with the participant's name, address and telephone number to: Walt Disney World Contests, CKLW Radio, Box 480, Windsor, Ontario or Box 8, Detroit, Michigan. All entries must be received by the Mall closing time on Sunday November 5, 1978. All postcards must be postmarked no later than November 4, 1978. Each entry received is eligible for all drawings thereafter and participants may enter as many times as they wish.

CONTEST PRIZES

Fifteen family vacations of four persons each to Walt Disney World five days and four nights. All travel arrangements and accommodations will be arranged by the winner through Walt Disney World and must be taken January 18-22, 1979. Winning families of four will receive:

1. Round trip coach air transportation between Detroit and Orlando International Airport via Eastern Airlines.
 2. One Room (with a maximum of four persons within that one room) at the respective hotel.
 3. Breakfast, lunch and dinner coupons for each meal while at Walt Disney World including a real Polynesian Luau Dinner Show.
 4. Round trip bus transportation from Orlando International Airport to Walt Disney World.
 5. Shuttle bus coupons from Lake Buena Vista to Walt Disney World.
 6. Admission and tickets to the Walt Disney World Magic Kingdom Theme Park.
 7. Souvenir color photograph of the family with Mickey Mouse.
- Items that are not included as part of the winning package are:
1. Hotel room service.
 2. Hotel laundry service.
 3. Alcoholic beverages.
 4. Park and hotel merchandise, souvenirs, etc.
 5. Local and long distance telephone calls.
 6. Any other charges not described in these rules.

WINNERS

During the period of the contests, entry forms and/or postcards will be drawn at random from those received at the time of drawing. The name of the person on the form or postcard will be announced. The person whose name is announced will have one half hour to call on the Walt Disney World contests lines, which will be announced along with the name of the person drawn. The person whose name is drawn must personally place the call and it must be received by CKLW prior to the expiration of the one half hour time limit. This prize cannot be sold or transferred.

Each entrant acknowledges that in the event he/she is a winner of a contest, the station will have the right to publicize and broadcast his/her name, likeness, and voice and the fact that he/she won the prize in a contest and all matters incidental thereto. Liability for federal, state or other taxes incurred in connection with the winning, receipt or use of the prize is the sole responsibility of the person to whom the prize is awarded.

QUALIFICATIONS

If a prize is won by a minor, that person must be accompanied by a parent or guardian for the duration of the trip. No person is eligible to win any prize in any CKLW contest if he/she has won one or more prizes valued at $100 or more in CKLW's contests in the preceding six months, including consolation prizes. No person is eligible to win any prize in any CKLW contest if he/she has won one or more prizes valued at $1,000 in CKLW's contests in the preceding year, including consolation prizes. Once any member of any family has won a contest prize, not including a consolation prize, in a given CKLW contest, no member of that family is eligible to participate further in the given CKLW contest.

Win a trip for four to Walt Disney World!

It's simple: just put your name and address on the bottom of this entry and deposit it in the Walt Disney World Contest box.

Starting at 10:00 a.m. October 23, 1978, an entry will be drawn every hour and the entrant's name read on CKLW. If your name is read, you have 30 minutes to call CKLW and be a winner. The drawings will continue every day until a winner is declared. And there are a total of 15 trips to win.

So listen to CKLW and you might win a trip to Walt Disney World!

From your house—in charity

Have you started to make out your Christmas gift list?

How about including a brace for a crippled child. Or a Braille book for someone who is blind, or research to help diabetics, or a meal for a hungry youngster through the United Nations Children's Fund.

All of these are possible. Rather than buying commercial Christmas cards, you may want to consider obtaining them from one of the many charitable organizations that do their biggest fundraising in the holiday season.

Samples of 12 cards from 11 organizations are printed here. The Suburban Life sections of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers will continue to print more cards as the next few weeks lead toward the time for Christmas greetings.

Each card printed carries ordering information. Many of the cards are available with names of the senders imprinted for a slight extra charge.

The newspapers cannot accept orders for the cards. Orders must be placed with the person or organization indicated.

As the holidays draw near and shopping time dwindles, add to your list aid for a cancer patient, support for anti-smoking clinics, or a life of dignity for a retarded person.

UNICEF choice

The array of cards offered this year by the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) includes this year a nativity scene by the Italian Renaissance painter Barocci and a card for Hanuka showing a ring of dancers doing the Hora. UNICEF cards may be ordered through Mrs. Charles Kennison, 644-1274, and their sale provides food, medicine, learning and hope for children on four continents.

Santa's workshop

A 12-year-old artist drew his conception of toy-making at the North Pole, and the result is offered on a card from the Michigan Association for Emotionally Disturbed Children. The cards are $2.50 for packages of 10 and available from the MAEDC office, 356-2566.

Footprints

Children in the snow carry the theme of the Christ Child Society which offers several cards for personal or business use to help provide care and education for children. This card, costing $5 for 25 with imprinting available, may be ordered through Mrs. Lewis Boughman, 117 Arlington, Birmingham.

Warm greetings

Two robins nestled in a mailbox bear the Christmas wishes that would be conveyed by the Nardin Park Braille Transcribers to carry on their work of preparing reading materials for the visually handicapped. Seven other cards are available ranging in price from $4 to $6.50. To order call Fran Hoetger, 476-4973, or Bonnie Shriver, 476-6997.

Starry night

The Southeastern Michigan Chapter of the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation is offering a charming angel and lamb on a blue card to raise funds for diabetes research. Twenty-five cards complete with blue envelopes cost $6.50 and may be ordered from the Foundation's Lathrup Village headquarters, 569-6171.

Snowman

The design that won an art contest sponsored annually by the Foundation for Mentally Ill Children will adorn the card the group is using this year to help children at the Fairlawn Center, Clinton Valley Center. The red and green cards in a green envelope cost $5 for 25, and orders are being taken by Mrs. P.L. Hubert, 851-8094.

A child's Christmas

Methodist Children's Village in Redford Township will benefit from the cards that use the design done by a young resident. Packages of 15 cards sell for $3.75, and should be ordered by Dec. 10. Mail checks to the Methodist Children's Home Society, 26654 W. Six Mile, Redford. Postage must be included with orders. It ranges from 85 cents for one package to $4.20 for 50.

Samples of many of the cards printed here and to be shown later, are available in scrapbooks for public viewing in O&E offices in Birmingham, 1225 Bowers, and Livonia, 36251 Schoolcraft.

Simple pleasures

Northwest Communities Association for Retarded Citizens is selling 16 different cards, including several designed by retarded artists. Brochures and information about the selection is available from Sandra Brown, 17351 Sumner, Redford Township, 531-6192.

Sepia scene

The Metropolitan Society for Crippled Children and Adults offers a winter scene in sepia to support its program of providing therapy for handicapped people who use its center at 17330 Schaefer, Detroit. Call the center, 341-4000, to learn how to order the cards.

Old-fashioned holiday

Bringing home the Christmas tree is depicted on a card that benefits the Michigan Cancer Foundation this year. Priced at $5 for a box of 25 cards with blue envelopes, it is one of several designs available from the foundation. Order through the unit closest to you, as listed in the telephone book.

Ring of Christmas

Children dancing around a Yule tree is one of 11 designs for cards offered by the American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan, the "Christmas Seal People." Boxes have 25 cards and envelopes and range from $4.75 to $7.50, with imprinting available. Call the association at 961-1697 for a brochure.

Puppet show for UNICEF

A "Punch and Judy" puppet show will be presented free of charge Saturday, Nov. 4, and Nov. 11 by Plymouth Book World in the Forest Street Mall. The puppet presentation of theatrical history was chosen to call attention to UNICEF's International

World of the Child, an effort to focus attention on the world of children and their pressing needs. UNICEF Christmas cards will be on sale during the puppet shows. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Plymouth Family Service offers varied assistance

Hundreds of residents seek counseling and related services each week from Plymouth Family Service and Growth Works, Inc.

One of the oldest Plymouth Community Fund agencies, Family Service—located at 880 Wing—has been providing counseling to residents since 1963.

Growth Works provides youth services and counseling programs, and is one of the fund's more recent agencies.

Both agencies address a wide range of problems and concerns and, while addressing similar family and personal problems, they offer unique and different approaches.

FAMILY SERVICE serves clients seeking counseling for more ongoing problems which relate to marriage, pre-marriage, alcohol and/or drug abuse, pregnancies, parent child relationships, adolescence and divorce.

Staff members hold counseling sessions with individuals, couples or families.

The agency also sponsors a number of groups which meet regularly to share mutual problems. These have included a group of pre-teens and older adolescents who were experiencing problems in school or at home, and an adult group focusing on new roles for women.

Plymouth Family Service charges fees on a sliding scale, based on the client's ability to pay. Plymouth Community Fund support insures that the services are available to all regardless of financial status.

Donations now are being accepted to the annual Community Fund Drive, Box 356, Plymouth 48170. Residents who contribute payroll deduction in other areas are reminded to designate their contributions to the Plymouth Community Fund.

THE FUND ALSO supports Growth Works, an agency with two major program areas—its Youth Services (formerly known as the Youth Center) and Counseling and Intervention Services (formerly the Our House Crisis Center effort).

Counseling and Intervention Services provide programming for more than 1,100 people each year. Services include counseling, crisis intervention, special self-help groups such as Parents Anonymous, tutoring for elementary students, and substance abuse programs.

Services are available on a walk-in and appointment basis. The counseling-intervention services are at 185 S. Harvey but expect to be relocated to Growth Works location on Main Street around Jan. 1.

The Youth Services, located at 271 S. Main, provides more than leisure time activities for local youth. During 1978 two major programs were initiated by Youth Services.

The first provides alternative education programs in conjunction with Plymouth-Canton Community Schools for the needs of students who are unsuccessful in the conventional high school environment.

The second program is sponsorship of a Department of Labor Youth Community Conservation and Improvement Project (YCCIP) which provides jobs, academic credit and job skills training to area youth.

Even with these pursuits, leisure time activities are still an essential part of the Youth Services program.

"People don't come here because they have problems," explains staff member Dale Yagiela. "They come here to have a good time. However, the contact with other youth and the staff presents opportunities to learn how to get along with others, make decisions and assume responsibilities."

Critical to maintaining Growth Works' efforts, which offer their services free, are the extensive use of all program volunteers and the Plymouth Community Fund which is the agency's major financial resource.

Campbell-Hesselink

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Campbell of Haggerty Road, Canton, announce the engagement of their daughter, Christine Campbell, to Darwin Hesselink of Cadillac. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Strom and the late Robert Hesselink of Cadillac.

The bride-elect is a part-time student at Schoolcraft College and is employed with Lou LaRiche Chevrolet in Plymouth. Her fiancé is a fulltime student at Ferris State College in Big Rapids.

Obituaries

INEZ M. TYLER

Mrs. Tyler, 68, of W. Warren, Canton, died Sept. 25 in Hendry Nursing Home. Services were Sept. 28 in St. Theodore Church, and arrangements were made by the Fred Wood Funeral Home. Burial was in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery.

Mr. Schembri was an employee of General Motors Corporation in assembly. Surviving are children Joseph, Tania, Maria, Josephine and Egidio.

Can you afford The High Cost of Levin?

"I urge vigorous and persistent efforts by our (Detroit City) Council and Mayor to obtain from the legislature the right for Detroit to tax non-residents working in Detroit at the same rate as residents."

Talk about taxation without representation! For a suburbanite who works in Detroit, this would mean a 300% increase (from 0.5% to 2.0) in the income tax he would have to pay Detroit... in addition to taxes levied by his home community.

Tipping the Scales

Seafood and dieting

By NANCY AUSTIN

While my husband and I were touring the northern part of Michigan over the weekend, the fishing reports coming over the radio reminded me that salmon fishing is well under way and many of you may soon find this marvelous fish making its way into your kitchens.

Nutritional information, as well as calories will, I am sure, be of interest. Whether you cook it fresh or eat it canned, the fish is a real health benefit, and is worth knowing about.

An average 3½ ounce serving ranges from 124 calories for chum to 219 for chinook. Chinook is rich in oil, accounting for the additional calories. Coho contains 152 calories for the same sized portion.

IF YOU ARE on a low cholesterol diet, this fish is ideal. It contains polyunsaturated fat. (At room temperature the fat is liquid rather than solid, so it won't clog your arteries.)

Salmon is an excellent source of iodine, phosphorus, vitamin A, vitamin D and the B-group vitamins. The Canned Salmon Institute has prepared a great little booklet including recipes for salmon salads, casseroles, sauces and sandwich fillings.

I found the sandwich fillings a great way to alleviate the boredom of the usual lunch box fare. To obtain a copy of this free booklet on canned salmon, write or send a postcard to the Canned Salmon Institute, 3100 South 176th, Seattle, Wa., 98188.

To prepare fresh salmon you'll want to know about two cookbooks. James Beard's Fish Cookery is a paperback containing 414 fish recipes. It's $1.95 from Warner Books. Slightly higher in cost, but containing a specific chapter on salmon and trout preparation (trout are also running), Francine DuFresne has prepared "Cooking Fish and Game" (101 Productions-$4.95).

Both books are available at Larry Jane's Gourmet Gallerie on Ann Arbor Trail in Plymouth. While you are in there, ask Larry about his lo-cal cooking class, and his class on seafood preparation.

I RECENTLY discovered a great find in restaurant dining for the serious dieter.

The Pear Tree in Livonia advertised lo-cal meals on their marquis. I had to see if they really had anything exceptional or were they going to serve the usual hamburger patty and cottage cheese with melba toast. I was delighted to find a separate lo-cal menu with at least 16 luncheon suggestions. The food not only looks good, but tastes equally as good.

Desserts are delicious also. I tried the blueberry pie. Actually it looked more like a cobbler, but the taste was fresh and satisfying. I was told the recipe was created right there, rather than borrowed from any other source. The bonus was that it was 125 calories!

A note about their menu: When you are seated, the waitress will hand you The Plum Tree standard menu. The lo-cal menu is a yellow leaflet already on the table. That's important to know because the standard menu is brimming with all kinds of tempting plates the serious dieter would rather not look at.

The Pear Tree is on Plymouth Road at Wayne Road in Livonia.

The cider mills always lend excitement to the fall season, and it is not unusual to take your Sunday drive to any one of the mills, stand in line (usually a long one), and smell the air filled with the aroma of freshly pressed cider and freshly baked doughnuts.

It's next to impossible not to buy the doughnuts along with your jug of cider. If you don't you feel like a martyr. So go ahead and buy one. Fall isn't complete without at least one doughnut from a cider mill. The trick is to eat only one. You can do it. I know you can. When you force yourself to eat only one, you'll be so proud of yourself that it will help develop willpower for another food temptation. Practice makes perfect. Anyway, more about cider and apples next time. Until then, happy dieting!

Jaycettes seeking outstanding woman

Plymouth Jaycettes are seeking nominations for Outstanding Young Woman of the Year.

Letters and nomination forms are in the mail this week to the local service clubs and organizations announcing the search for an outstanding young woman.

Candidates must be between the ages of 18 and 36, be a U.S. citizen or have applied for citizenship, must personally sign the nomination form, and must submit two 5-by-7-inch black and white photographs of herself. The nominee also must live or work in the Plymouth community.

Judges will select the winner based on her outstanding contributions to her family, organization(s) and community.

The deadline for submitting nominations is Thursday, Nov. 30.

The winner will be announced along with the Outstanding Young Man at the Distinguished Service Award banquet to be held in January.

The Plymouth Jaycees are conducting the Outstanding Young Man competition which also will lead up to the DSA banquet.

New this year will be selection of an Outstanding Teen (details to be announced later).

Entry forms also will be available at the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce office in the Colony Plaza office center at Wing and Forrest.

Jane Beauchamp is chairing this year's Jaycette committee for the Outstanding Young Woman selection. For further information, call Mrs. Beauchamp at 459-9064 or Maureen Karby at 459-9893.

Here's an easy guide to paying less for utilities

By MARGARET MILLER

Ecology, economy and Betty Shaw make a great team.

In fact, they are linked forever in a new book that should save a lot of people a lot of money and at the same time be good for everyone's environment.

For Mrs. Shaw, a Redford Township resident, the book, titled "Utility Bills Can Cost Less" and now on sale in Redford, Livonia and Birmingham is just the latest result of an interest in environmentalism that began with the first Earth Day in 1970.

But it is, she feels, the most important part of energy-saving to a great many people.

The founder and long-time director of the Redford Recycling Center said she compiled her book of ways to save energy costs because in recent years she has noted a change in people's attitudes.

"It used to be that saving resources was paramount in people's minds," she observed. "But now, with inflation, there is more and more interest in doing things to save money."

"And this is possible—paying less for utilities without changing the quality of life."

Mrs. Shaw said that as head of the recycling center she frequently was invited to appear before local groups, and these visits convinced her that that knowing how to beat the high cost of energy was of great importance, especially to the senior citizen and the young person.

"People on fixed incomes, people trying to build or buy houses, people with children to educate, people living alone all seemed to feel utilities were costing too much," she added. "I knew I had the kind of knowledge that could help, and I wanted to put it together."

And thus a new how-to-save book came into being.

"THIS BOOK is written from the angle of saving money on utility bills," Mrs. Shaw explained.

"The main point I try to get across is that there are two factors involved in the utility bills we pay—the rate that is charged and the number of units used."

"People can't do much about the rate other than appear at hearings when these rates are set by the Public Service Commission. Most don't do that; they seem to prefer to sit back and trust the commission to represent them."

"But we can do something about the number of units used, and when we concentrate efforts in this area we can see results."

THIS NEW AUTHOR has covered in her slim, green volume all four kinds of utilities—water, electricity, natural gas and telephone.

"It's the only book I know of that takes in all four," she said.

She said that after she decided to try the guide to energy saving the first thing she did was write to 45 utility companies she plucked out of the hundreds listed in Moody's Business Directory.

"I asked about a lot of questions about their business procedures and whether they encourage programs of conservation for customers," she continued.

"The response really surprised me. I was flooded with information and that convinced me that the utility companies also are interested in helping people save."

In her book, Mrs. Shaw stresses the need to understand how various utilities are operated and how charges are made.

"For instance," she pointed out, "many people don't know that in Redford Township the rate of charges for sewage disposal is tied in with the amount of water use."

But the thing she stresses in conversation and book is that people should keep in mind the relationship between energy use and energy cost.

"You just have to make a connection in your mind between turning on a light and paying for electricity," she said. "I try to get people to stop and think."

SEVERAL IDEAS for decreasing energy costs she lifts out of her new book. They are all things, she pointed out, that do not in any way reduce the quality of life.

•Get a better understanding of how the hot water system works, and use this knowledge to save money. When you turn on the hot water tap,

Betty Shaw shows several ways she decreases her own utility bills. She uses water carefully (top right), and she keeps a lot of plants to increase humidity (middle right.) Most clothes are hung on the line to dry (right), but Mrs. Shaw likes soft towels so she uses the drier for one load a week. (Staff photos by Art Emanuel) first cold water must run off, and then the high energy-consumer water heater must work to replace what has been run off. So if you want just a little water to rinse your hands, use the cold tap.

•Keep in mind the fact that the refrigerator is a big user of electrical energy. Open its door as little as possible. Don't stand wondering with the door open what it was you wanted to get out.

•Learn to get the most value out of the energy you use. For drying clothes, use the sun in the summer, and in the winter hang them in the basement to provide humidity for the house. (But Betty Shaw uses her dryer for a load of towels summer and winter because they are softer that way. "That's what I mean by quality of life," she explained.)

A few other hints she has included involve keeping lots of plants inside to add to provide humidity, using an automatic timer on the thermostat and using a timer beside the telephone to keep conversations from running on and on.

PUTTING TOGETHER a work like "Utility Bills Can Cost Less" caused some interesting and funny moments for this first time author.

"When I decided to try it, I didn't tell anyone," Mrs. Shaw said. "I wanted to be sure I could complete it because it seemed such a big project."

"Finally I got it well along, and then it was a matter of how to get it printed. She decided on the offset style, which meant typing the pages and determining the spots for the drawings by Redford artist Lynn Murphy."

"I'm no typist," she went on "but I decided if it was going to be done the way I wanted I would have to do it myself."

"I rented an IBM Selectric and typed the 95 pages with my two fingers. One page I had to do over 17 times before I got it without mistakes. I finished the day before the month was up, and the book wound up with all the pictures in month was up."

She had fun with her first autographing request. A neighbor asked for an autographed copy when she drove up with her first load of completed books. "I was so worried about what to write that I forgot to sign it," she said.

Mrs. Shaw's book is on sale for $2.95 in the Birmingham Book Store, the Big X on Plymouth Road in Redford and the Open Book in Wonderland. Copies also can be ordered by writing to her at 26129 Ross Drive, 48239.

It is to be reviewed in the December issue of "Michigan Out of Doors," a publication of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs, and in the next newsletter of the state Department of Natural Resources.

Mrs. Shaw suggested it might make a good Christmas present, and she also said she would be most willing to talk on energy-saving to groups in this area.

Here's a sample ballot: Clip and Save

This is how the ballot will look when you enter the voting booths on Nov. 7, only it will be much smaller and will be different under the candidates' section at left depending upon whether you live in Plymouth, Canton or Plymouth Township.

The order of the candidates' names also will appear differently when you vote Nov. 7 because names of hopefuls in partisan races are rotated alphabetically from one precinct to another.

But, if things go right, you should find the 11 ballot proposals on the right and the candidates on the left. Because of the large ballot, election workers expect long lines and encourage voters to enter the booth with a written list of the choices they plan to make to lessen the time it will take to cast votes.

The ballot proposals, which will remain in the same alphabetical order in all precincts, are: A—constitutional convention; B—elimination of "good time" off for parole; C—allow deposit of state funds in credit unions and savings and loans; D—raise drinking age to 21; E—Headlee tax limitation; G—collective bargaining for state police; H—the voucher plan; J—the Tisch tax cut; K—to deny bail for certain crimes; M—the transportation proposal; R—to create a Railroad Authority with bonding powers up to $175 million.

State and county districts on the ballot will include: 2d Congressional, Plymouth and Plymouth Township; 15th Congressional, Canton; 14th Senate, Plymouth and Plymouth Township; 13th Senate, Canton; 37th House, Plymouth Township and Canton; 52d state house, Plymouth; and 27th District, county commissioner, Plymouth, Canton, and Plymouth Township.

Sen. Geake to boost support for libraries

State Sen. Robert Geake (R-Northville) has urged state lawmakers to boost their support for public libraries.

The senator said use of the Livonia public library has grown significantly in recent years, with a 13 per cent increase in patronage last year alone.

"Although it has a limited budget, the Livonia library has managed to provide many important services for children and adults. If it and other libraries across the state are to continue to meet our citizens needs, adequate support must be assured," Geake said.

"Libraries are cultural and educational institutions, essential to maintaining our quality of life," Geake said in a recent speech at a Republican convention in Livonia.

"They are a vital link in our state's educational network. From the time our children are taught to read, and throughout their years of formal education, libraries serve to supplement and subsidize public education," Geake said.

Geake stressed that libraries, like many other institutions, have faced a financial crisis in recent years as a result of inflation.

He cited statistics which revealed tremendous increases in costs for books and periodicals, and charged that the legislature's support for public libraries has failed to keep pace with these costs.

He was a supporter of a senate measure which would have increased state support for libraries by $2.5 million during the 1978-79 fiscal year. That boost in funding was eliminated during the legislature's recently completed budget negotiations.

"I intend to continue my efforts to achieve improved funding for public libraries during the next round of appropriations bills," Geake said.

"Contrary to the apparent attitude of some lawmakers, I firmly believe libraries are not frills. They're useful and used. Many are as busy as the local supermarket."

"I believe the librarians in our community are doing a fine job, particularly in light of the restricted resources they have to work with. I am hopeful we will be able to provide our libraries with sufficient funding in future years to enable them to improve their services even further."

Kadish is pushing no fault

Paul Kadish, Democratic candidate for the 14th district state senate seat, is placing major emphasis on his petition drive to reform Michigan's no fault auto insurance law.

Speaking to a Disabled American Veterans group in Redford Township recently, Kadish said he will continue to press the state legislature, "to live up to its responsibility to help resolve the inequities in the no fault insurance law."

Kadish, who owns an insurance agency, will face Republican incumbent State Sen. Robert Geake of Northville in the Nov. 7 election. The 14th district includes Redford Township, Livonia, Plymouth, Northville and a small part of Westland.

Several weeks ago, Kadish announced a petition drive to amend the property damage portion of the law and return it to the old liability system so "the innocent victim of a traffic accident won't continue to be ripped off."

The Livonia resident insists that the law be amended to protect safe drivers from repair costs and insurance rate increases due to accidents that aren't their fault.

"Drivers who break the law by driving without the minimum required insurance should be penalized by having their operators license revoked and license plates picked up until they can show proof of insurance," Kadish told the 60 disabled veterans.

"We all know there are hundreds of thousands of people driving around this state who don't carry the minimum required insurance," he added.

"Many of these uninsured motorists are the ones causing traffic accidents that maim persons and damage property of others. We must insist that these individuals take the responsibility for their actions."

"We do however," he continued, "have the responsibility to see to it that insurance is affordable and that no element of our population is discriminated against solely because of sex, age or marital status. No fault insurance is mandatory in Michigan and therefore, the state and insurance industry are obligated to see to it that premiums are affordable."

"A HELPFUL GUIDE TO FUNERAL PLANNING"

That's the title of a free booklet which may answer a lot of questions you may have.

Many residents of our community have used this guide in deciding NOW (when there is no stress or emergency) about making arrangements for funerals IN ADVANCE OF NEED.

Why pre-plan a funeral? First, you can make decisions and choices, yourself, with full composure instead of under the unfortunate circumstances of grieving and emotional stress. Second, you need not "overspend." You should select only that service and that casket, and those touches which you feel are important.

That beloved and meaningfully significant Scripture passage, that special hymn, the minister whose understanding and compassion you so admire—all can be part of your service, if you make your wishes known and arranged-for in advance.
