Save Canton farms?

Interest spans state

Farmers and environmentalists across the state will be watching Canton next Tuesday, Nov. 7 for the results of a ballot proposal that would protect agricultural land from development

Volume 4 Number 22

The proposal asks voters to increase the township tax rate by up to four mills ($4 per $1,000 assessed valuation) to finance the purblic purchase of farmers' development rights.

If the proposal passes, Canton will launch a farmland preservation program that has never been tried anywhere in the state. Similar programs have been implemented in New Jersey and Suffolk County, New York.

ROBERT PADGET, chairman of the township's farmland education committee, said officials across the state have contacted his group about the program.

The education committee has sponsored presentations before Gov. William Milliken's staff, the Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG), Michigan State University's Institute for Community Development, the Washtenaw County Planning Commission and other agencies.

The committee was formed to educate Canton residents on the ramifications of the proposed program.

"There is a great deal of concern on the local and state level regarding the preservation of agricultural land," Padget said. "We're in the forefront of this thing, and it's creating a whale of an interest.

Under the proposal, the owners of some 5,000 acres of agricultural land west of Canton Center Road will be asked to sell their development rights to the township.

Landowners who enroll in the program will retain all property rights except the right to develop their land for commercial, industrial or heavy residential use.

Two teams of surveyors will determine the price farmers will receive for their development rights. One team will determine the agricultural value of the land; the other will determine the potential, developed value. The difference between the two appraisals will represent the development rights price tag.

Farmers will pay less taxes on their land if the development rights program is approved. Farmland in Canton is currently taxed for its potential, developed value. Under the program, the land will be taxed for its agricultural value and Wade, Trim planning consultants has concluded that township taxpayers will pay less money over the long run if the development rights program is adopted.

The study compared the estimated $16 million cost of purchasing farmers' development rights to the cost of providing municipal services to the land if it is developed.

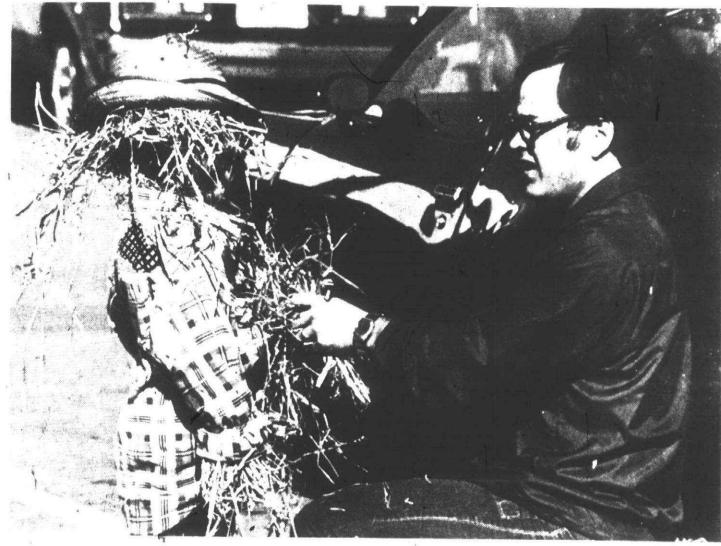

If the program is approved by Canton voters next week, an additional four mills will be levied from 1979-1989. Finance director Mike Gorman figures the development rights tax rate could be reduced to three mills from 1990 to 1992, two mills from 1993 to 1996, one mill in 1997 and a half mill in 1998. No taxes would be levied for the development rights program after

The owner of a $60,000 home assessed at $30,000 would pay $120 in additional taxes next year if the program is approved.

THE TAX RATES Gorman has projected over the next 20 years are based paying 6 1 per cent interest on general obligation bonds

Gorman said Robert Mitchell, director of the Michigan Farmers Home Administration, told township officials

THE SECOND flyer, which spurred the suit, was mailed to Canton homes this week.

It featured caricatures of Robert Greenstein and all other candidates for Canton offices except Stein, Mrs. Bradley and Roberts.

Greenstein is depicted holding a puppeteer's strings controlling Republican and Democratic candidates alike. Each candidate has a list of charges printed beneath the cartoons.

Under Greenstein's picture, the flyer states: "Insinuated threat to opposition's children if he continues to campaign against him.

The flyer said Greenstein "stated mobile homeowners are trailer trash and senior citizens are ghetto dwellers.

The "trailer trash" statement stems from a letter distributed to mobile homeowners during the 1976 election. It was attributed to former planning commissioner Thomas Timbario, but police found later the signature was forged. Trustee Robert Myers told the Observer he had been involved in distribution of the 1976 letter, but said Stein is responsible for redistributing that letter to mobile home parks during the current campaign.

Grates leaves recreation job

By LYNN ORR

Why does a public employee leave municipal work for the private sector? A greater chance for advancement and more money, in the case of Hank Grates, Plymouth's recreation supervisor for the past two years.

But while the city will have to go through replacement procedures, Grates' departure is a good example of how federal job training is supposed to work, says Parks and Recreation Director Chuck Skene.

An employee paid under Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) funds, Grates has added onthe job training to his educational background in recreation. Now, he's moving into a job with Sports Illustrated Racquet Clubs as an assistant manager at the Belleville club.

"We got a tremendouse employee and he got the experience," is how Skene sums up Grates' CETA-funded job. "I don't really expect to keep anyone around for more than two years.

Grates, however, has mixed feelings about the move. With the city he was paid about $10,300 annually-and the move means a better salary

But most importantly, he'll have a chance to advance, he explains

"Sports Illustrated is a young, progressive company, and I feel I will be recognized for my achievements," Grates says.

At 29, with a bachelor's degree in recreation from Eastern Michigan University and a recently earned MA in recreation administration from Central Michigan University, he's ready to make the plunge

"I've pad my dues and doubt that it would lead to something better in the city-that's why I have to make a

"CETA is designed to give you a start, give you marketable skills," he adds-and working with the city he has made many contacts, handled publicity and set up programs—the kind of work he always wanted.

With a strong interest in competitive athletics, particularly hockey, he considered a sports related career after graduation from Bentley High in

"How can I turn this around to make money for me?" he asked himself. Recreation studies were the answer. With leisure time awareness and an interest in participatory athletics "growing by leaps and bounds," he thinks he made a good decision.

Now at Sports Illustrated, he'll be paying dues again, working afternoons and weekends as an assistant manager, hopefully to become a club manager in the near future.

"It's similar to the city job-you work until you accomplish the task.'

Public recreation, however, may have a difficult road ahead, he predicts. He sees more self-supporting programs with higher fees that cover costs, particularly if voters approve tax-cutting proposals.

Recreation is an easy way to slice the pie thinner, he agrees.

'But what do we get for nothing?" he asks. Only those who can afford it will be able to take advantage of what's offered, if government programs must be self-supporting, he

In the Plymouth-Canton area, recreational employees have worked hard to avoid duplication of services, he

"Everybody's program suffers if we don't,'' he explains.

Now in the private sector, the state of the economy directly affects the financial health of recreational clubs. Leisure time and more money to spend promotes a boom time.

But as a bachelor with mobility, he's willing to go where his skills are required-with a definite eye on the southern California area.

In public recreation, "you're a social worker, a glorified babysitter-you do everything.

Research group rates lawmakers

Five lawmakers representing Plymouth and Canton residents have received relatively high ratings from the Public Interest Research Group in Michigan (PIRGIM).

Scoring high were U.S. Reps. William D. Ford (D-Taylor), whose district includes Canton, Carl Pursell (R-Plymoùth), State Sen. William Faust (D-Westland), who represents Canton, State Sen. Robert Geake (R-Northville), whose district includes Plymouth, and State Rep. Roy Smith (R-Ann Arbor) whose district includes Plymouth.

The third bi-annual legislative scorecard of Michigan's political representative analyzed a number of key votes on consumer, good government, environmental and human rights issues.

IN THE PIRCIM rating of the Michigan congressional delegation, Pursell received a 67 per cent score—the highest rating for a Republican congressman from Michigan.

The 67 per cent surpassed or equalled ratings received by five Michigan Democrats. U.S. Rep. John Convers (D-Detroit) received the highest score with 92 per cent.

Legislation Pursell supported which led to the 67 per cent rating included the Consumer Protection Agency; cosponsorship of the National Bottle Bill; a strong Alaskan Lands Protection bill; withdrawal of a congressional pay raise; and legislation to establish a program to help curb domestic violence. Pursell was the only Michigan Republican to support the Consumer Protection Agency.

Rep. Ford of the 15th District received a rating of 62 per cent. Ford supported legislation for the Consumer Protection Agency, for improving environmental controls on offshore oil development, voted in favor of Alaska lands conservation, and voted for spouse abuse legislation to help curb domestic violence.

The low scorers among Michigan congressmen were Broomfield and

Cederberg-each with a rating of 15

ON STATE ISSUES, PIRGIM analyzed 13 key votes in the Michigan Senate. The highest score granted was 85

Geake, with a 46 per cent score received the highest score of any senate Republican. Notable legislation Geake supported included the toxic emergencies bill, a discharge motion on the land use bill and a ban on the dumping of nuclear waste in the state.

Faust scored a relatively high 69 per cent for backing legislation such as the auto lemon bill, a bill to lower the allowable level of PBB, the toxic emergencies bill, nuclear waste disposal ban, lobby reform bill and the campaign financing bill. Senators scoring highest with 85 per cent were Hertel and Corbin.

IN THE MICHIGAN House, 16 issues were included in the scorecard and James Barcia of Bay City scored highest at 93 per cent.

Smith scored 36 per cent and Brown scored 40 per cent. Both received low scores on good government and human rights legislative votes.

Issues state representatives were rated on included lowering the allowable level of PBB in Michigan meat, closing the "revolving door" between the utilities and their regulators, and the auto lemon bill which strengthens customer rights in dealing with a bad product.

PIRGIM does not support or oppose candidates for elective office but attempts to facilitate citizen awareness of the performance of their lawmakers.

PIRGIM is a group of university students and social-action professionals who finance and direct a eight-member staff of full-time researchers, lobbyists, organizers and a lawyer to work on investigative reports, public education, legislative lobbying and lawsuits.

They want to be township board trustees

Carol Bodenmiller—

Carol Bodenmiller, Democratic candidate for trustee, thinks Canton's administration is "playing a game without any rules" because no master plan for land use has been instituted.

She hopes to change all that if she is

Mrs. Bodenmiller's solution involves hiring a growth control expert to work on actually carrying out master plan

She says an expert of this kind could also help Canton find different approaches to the farmland preservation issue, if voters choose not to pass a request for up to four mills on the November ballot that would pay for such a program.

Carol Bodenmiller has come a long way from the days of sitting in the audience at township board meetings.

"When I decided to run, I didn't care 'or what was happening (on the board)

'But I wouldn't have run if I hadn't had the complete support of my husband. You have to have a home base."

Mrs. Bodenmiller's personal campaign has been remarkably free of the kind of mudslinging other candidates are either throwing or receiving.

Nonetheless, she is running under a cloud. Critics say Mrs. Bodenmiller is actually running on a slate with trustee candidate Robert Greenstein and treasurer candidate James Donahue.

Her ability to make independent judgements without being dominated by Greenstein is also being questioned.

She calls the accusations "nonsense." "Many people (including Creenstein and Donahue) have offered me help in dealing with the technicalities of running for office. But this isn't a coalition

She does seem to have some definite ideas on Canton issues. Although she supports the farmland preservation millage question, she believes the entire four mills won't be necessary because federal and state aid could be solicited. She believes in master plans.

Her concerns about the land use question tend to parallel those of Greenstein. She agrees with the former supervisor that Canton is purchasing too much property.

Unlike Greenstein, she seems more interested in trying to achieve her goals without angering people. She says she understands the different groups in Canton, because she grew up dealing with all kinds of people

CAROL BODENMILLER

"I grew up in a rural community, but my family was also in business. I've worked at many, many kinds of jobs in my life, which brought me in contact with many, many people.

"I hope to see both sides of an issue, then reach a compromise.

She believes a trustee should be a

She does not believe a trustee should try to be an expert on every subject.

"You have to go to people who are experts, then draw conclusions. You have to be able to look at the total

She says she believes the things she stands for represent the feelings of the majority of the people in Canton. "The problems might be in the way of implementing programs," Mrs. Bodenmiller says

Although she won't call herself a member of any slate, she says "an intelligent group of people is running for office. "They are people who are successful on their own, so I believe they can be sucessful representing the people. Mrs. Bodenmiller considers her self a success as well, because "I feel I've always done the best I can do. And, in her view, doing the best she can do involves letting her conscience be her guide

"I couldn't only listen to what people who come to township board meetings want. I have to think what is in my

"If I can go to bed at night and sleep-if I haven't hurt someone or belittled someone—I'll know I've made the right decision.'

-Gary 'Roberts-

The most startling aspect of Gary Roberts' campaign for township trustee is his sudden admiration for Supervisor Harold Stein.

Before the primary, the Republican candidate loudly criticized Stein and the present administration for taking a soft stand with builders and a do-nothing stance on growth control.

At the time, Roberts supported Democrat Noel Culbert's bid for the supervisor's chair. Now, Roberts has sided with Stein and Treasurer Anne Bradley in the political arena.

Roberts is the only, Republican candidate in the three-way race for two trustee positions. Stein and Mrs. Bradley both lost the Democratic primary and are now seeking re-election through a write-in campaign.

"I CAME TO FIND out that Harold (Stein) didn't have all the power I thought he had," Roberts said of his opposition to Stein on the building

"I still have my differences with Harold Stein. But I'm supporting

Roberts said he decided to withdraw his support from Culbert because he disapproved of the supervisor candidate's campaign tactics.

Before the primary, Roberts blasted Stein at numerous township board meetings for failing to help homeowners with their building complaints. The homeowners complained of building defects never repaired by builders and the excessive amount of time some builders were taking to complete new homes.

Roberts is now praising Stein for the way he handled homeowners' complaints. He notes that Stein established the first mandatory home warranty plan in Michigan and forced builders to clean up streets dirtied by construction work.

"I blamed Harold Stein for the nonaction in the building department," Roberts said in a recent campaign flyer. "After further investigation, I have since found that Harold Stein has done more for the homeowner of Canton than any other supervisor in the history of Canton."

Roberts still sees the building problem as the most important issue in Canton.

If elected trustee, Roberts said he would put pressure on builders by informing the Michigan Department of Licensing and Regulations of every building complaint submitted by homeowners.

He would research the legality of legislation that would require builders to put occupancy dates in writing.

GARY ROBERTS

"Let the builders know we really need business," Roberts said.

THE 33-YEAR-OLD candidate insists, however, that the building. problem is not the only issue he wants to tackle as trustee.

He believes the township's rapid rate of growth is a major problem and favors a moratorium on new subdivision plat approvals.

He believes the township board should work more closely with the boards of Canton's three sehool districts and schedule regular meetings to discuss joint problems.

Roberts said he will vote against the farmland preservation proposal that will appear on next week's ballot. He believes the program will end up costing more than the four mills ($4 per $1,000 assessed valuation) that are being requested

He favors public purchase of some farmland for recreational use as a way to preserve open-spaces.

Roberts' wife is the owner of Canton Vacuum and Sew on Ford Road. The trustee candidate businesses need the sign ordinance proposed by the Canton Planning Commission.

Unlike the current ordinance that prohibits all freestanding signs, the proposed law would allow businesses to erect signs that are not attached to buildings. Roberts moved to Canton's Sunflower Village Subdivision three years ago after living in California for 13 years. In California, Roberts owned five vacuum cleaner stores.

Roberts recently quit his job as personnel director at Concorp Management Co. to work at the store his wife owns in Canton Township.

--- Robert Greenstein

There are two phrases alm at anyone who has ever met Democratic trustee candidate Robert Greenstein can agree to.

You are either one of his biggest fans or worst enemies.

No matter how you feel about him. you have to admit the man is Greenstein is not the type of person who inspires lukewarm sentiments. probably because he seems to doeverything with a single-minded intensity that leaves little room for compromise.

That trait was probably one of the deciding factors to bring about his defeat to Harold Stein in the 1976 supervisor's race.

Now, in spite of his claim that he is a "lousy politician," Greenstein is back to make a bid for the job of trustee

He says he is running for office again because he feels Canton is going in the wrong direction.

In his view the two most important issues in Canton are "farmland preservation and the township's over-buying of property.

It comes as no surprise that Greenstein feels strongly about farmland preservation. He developed the origi

A woman who calls people up on the phone all day and asks them survey questions called me the other night

She was doing a survey for a sports equipment company and wanted to know if I owned a racquetball warm-up outfit or a pair of specially-made racquetball shoes. What brand sportswear did I sport on the court and did I read Racquetball World?

Boy, did she get a wrong number.

I participated in the survey because I often call people on the phone in this business and ask them questions they don't care to answer. I told her my racquetball attire is simple, but oh, so smart. My sports ensemble usually consists of an old sweatband, a T-shirt promoting some bar and a pair of cut-offs shorts. The look is topped off, or bottomed off, with a dirty pair of Jack Purcell Next, she wanted to know whether I had a steel

I told the survey lady it was a wooden racquet that I bought for $8 five years ago during the brief period I was a member of the Jewish Community Center. The club used to be on Myers in Detroit but has since relocated in West Bloomfield.

WHILE THE LOCATION of the Jewish Community Center has changed, its exclusionary membership practices haven't. Ironically, non-Jews are not permitted to join the club. While the reverse is sometimes true, at this club you're barred if you've never had a Bar-

Mitzvah. Shirley Baruch, membership director at the West Bloomfield headquarters of the Jewish Community Center, told me Friday that I would not be sent a membership application because I am "not of the Jewish faith." The best they could offer me was to visit the club a maximum of four times in one year as the guest of a Jewish member.

The same thing happened five years ago at the Detroit center. When they found out I was a non-Jew, they threw me out by the skin of my teeth. Well, not exactly my teeth. They let me keep the racquet, though, which has served me well.

If I had had the foresight of an Allen Baake I could've been at the forefront of a classic reverse discrimination suit. But I didn't make a stink about it because I couldn't keep from laughing about the absurdity of the whole affair. Jews have fought for years to gain entrance to WASP-y country clubs and here I am trying to pass myself off as a Jew and am discovered

tified herself as a member of the board of directors of the Jewish Community Center. I'd joined the club two months before with some of my friends who used to work at the Community News, an east side weekly. I was not the only non-Jew who signed up, but for some reason my name didn't look kosher on the membership roster. She called me up at the Community News to investigate my membership. "Mr. Piechura, this is the Jewish Community Center calling," said the no-nonsense voice on the other end of the line.

"In checking our new members, we came upon your name and we were wondering if you are Jewish. This is a private club for Jewish people. Are you aware of that?" I tried to lie and did a bad job of it. Being a Jew, of course I knew it was an exclusive club and I swore I was telling the truth. "Well, Piechura doesn't sound like a Jewish name," she probed. I told her that was because my father isn't Jewish but my mother and all the children are. "And what congregation does your mother

"Well, she's not what I'd call a practicing Jew," I said lamely. Fair enough, said my interrogator, then what synagogue did I regularly attend? I told her that I wasn't actually a practicing Jew belong to, Mr. Piechura?"

"SO WHAT MAKES you Jewish, Mr. Piechura?

I went off on an intellectual tangent about how that question has plagued people over the ages. You know, the old argument about whether Judaism is a nationality, a religion or a race or none of the above.

She wasn't buying. I lost control at this point, and started laughing at what I was telling this lady.

"Why are you laughing Mr. Piechura?" she said. "Is it because you are not Jewish?" That's correct, I said, and then regained my composure to change my tone to one of righteous indignation. I told the woman she could expect to hear from the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU). She said she wasn't worried. I never called the ACLU. But the exodus is over. I'm going back to the site of the old Jewish Community Center. It's now called the Cosmopolitan Club at the Northwest Activities Center. It costs $75 a year to join and the only requirement is you be a resident of Detroit. You don't need a Jewish name to play there. In fact, you don't even need a special warm-up outfit or a pair of specially-made racquetball shoes.

Is Roberts baffling?

Editor:

The Stein (Write-In) Slate seems to have a new member, Gary Roberts. This is strange for many reasons. Stein suffered an overwelming defeat (66 per cent to Culbert) in the primary despite his seemingly unending campaign finances. This information comes from local newspaper clippings.

A political flyer circulated this weekend emphatically stated that Roberts (trustee candidate) supports the Stein write-in campaign. During Roberts primary campaign, he put out flyers stating "lets end political slates," "a stein slate victory will mean building boom," and "if you would like to defeat Stein slate Aug. 8 call-write: (Roberts phone number and address)."

Since Aug. 1, 1977, Roberts has been the self-proclaimed prepresentative of homeowners." Bringing to public's attention and supporting citizen's complaints is to be commended. Using these people for stepping stones to further political ambitions is something less than honorable.

•He made many statements criticizing Stein as being soft on builders and how happy he was that the Stein slate is done.

·He contacted the state attorney general and state licensing and regulations department with unsubstantiated criminal claims against the Stein administration.

•He engineered a citizen protest (Sept. 6, 1977 and June 13, 1978) before the township board criticizing Stein for not taking strong action on complaints. and said "This, I don't feel, is a sign of a good administration."

In both primary and oncoming election mudslinging, unsigned flyers have been traced to his doorstep by alert newspaper reporters and editorials

Even his views on sign ordinance revisions seem to be changed since the primary. At that time he was oppossed now, at Board meeting and Candidates Night he seems to support

With all this flip-flopping, personally, I am having problems keeping score.

Do water bills spell "Cantongate?"

Last Thursday my wife and I noticed your front page article, "2 candidates" water bills draw charges." I just want to express my amusement and distress over the article.

If Patricia McGuire stays hot on the trail we in Canton might have our own "Cantongate" or if she digs into the Water bill scandal it could be called "Watergate."

Stein stories called smear

I want to comment on the hatchet job this paper is doing on (Township Supervisor) Harold Stein and cannot help but wonder: Why? Why are there always negative and degrading inuendos in your articles about this man. It is too bad "like sheep" people are led to ultimately elect as leaders for our local government those whom the news media endorses.

For example, the article appearing on Oct. 19, regarding Stein's conflict of interest in the rezoning of the property on the northwest corner of Cherry Hill and Lilley. Could Stein actually have influnced this proposal with his one vote when it was a unanimous decision by all members of the board? Did it have to sound like Stein was having financial problems if he had to borrow $93,000 on his home? Could it possibly be that as an astute business man he could see that the rate of return on that much money locked in to a piece of real estate would be approximately three per cent per year but cash investments of $93,000 might yield a much greater return.

Let's stay a fair and unbiased press without the slants.

"That would probably save us a couple million dollars," Gorman said. Also on next Tuesday's ballot is the Tisch tax cut amendment which proposes to tax property at 25 per cent of market value rather than 50 per cent.

If both Tisch and the agricultural land proposals are approved, township officials may be forced to ask voters for additional millage to support the

Milliken Endorses Senator Geake

Leadership, Experience Are Key Issues

Governor William G. Milliken has endorsed R. Robert Geake for re-election to the state senate in Michigan's 14th district. The district includes Livonia, Redford, Plymouth, Northville, and four precincts in Westland.

"Senator Geake has served the people of his district with dedication and integrity. He is the kind of man that Michigan needs in the State Senate." Milliken said in his endorsement of Geake.

"I look forward to continuing to work with Bob in the State Senate. He has the foresight and leadership that we need in state government," Milli-Geake's lesiglative experience and leadership ability have won endorsements from a number of individuals and community organizations. As noted in a recent letter to Geake from Governor Milliken, Geake is also held in high esteem by his fellow senators.

When Senate Minority Leader Robert Davis stepped down late in August in order to devote more time to his congressional campaign, State Senator Robert VanderLaan (R-Kentwood), the Republican leader with the most seniority, was elected as the new Senate Minority Leader.

Then, in a move which surprised many observers. Geake's colleagues elected him to serve as Assistant Minority Leader. The choice of Geake was especially noteworthy because Geake is the newest and the youngest member of the caucus.

Geake is a relatively low key legislator who seldom goes out of his way to attract attention to himself. He is known as a hard worker and persistent negotiator whose leadership, up to that point, had largely been exerted behind the scenes.

"I have served as a mediator between the more conservative and the more moderate members of the Senate Republican Caucus," Geake stated. "This was primarily one of the reasons why I was elected to this important leadership position. Governor William Milliken, in a letter to Geake said, "I was pleased to learn of your election as assistant Republican leader in the Senate.

"I believe this is an indication of the high esteem in which you are held by your fellow Senators. Based on my experience in working with you over the past seven years and observing your performance as an accomplished and respected lawmaker, I feel the caucus made a wise choice.

"You have been a responsible voice in the Legislature and I look forward to working with you in the future.

"Warm personal regards.

Sincerety, Bill Milliken Governor

William McLaughlin, Chairman of the Michigan Republican State Committee, commented:

"I was pleased to learn of the election of Senator Bob Geake as Assistant Republican Leader. Bob has been an extremely effective legislator. He will be an outstanding voice for the Republican Party in this new leadership role.'

With the forthcoming retirement of Senators Joseph Snyder and John Otterbacher, Geake is viewed as the Senate's leading authority on mental health-related programs and issues in the new Senate which will convene in

Among my priorities for the fall session are dealing with the problems of public transportation, improving the job climate in Michigan and providing more adequate financing of mental health programs and public education," Geake reported. "In addition, I have always been a strong supporter of welfare reform, environmental protection, and reform of the no-fault insurance law.

"I intend to continue to serve in a positive and unifying role in an effort to make the Senate Republican Caucus a more viable and effective force in state government," Geake emphasized.

Geake, 41, served in the Michigan House of Representatives from 1973 to March, 1977, when he was elected by special election to the State Senate. He currently serves as a member of the Committees on Health, Social Services, and Retirement, Education, Energy and Senate Business.

Milliken and Geake together exchanging views. The Governor and Senator Geake agree that, in each of their campaigns, "the issue is leadership".

Senator Geake congratulates Richard Headlee, Chairman of Taxpayers United for Tax Limitation, at a recent rally on the Capitol

Headlee Proposal Supported

Back in 1974 State Senator Bob. Geake was one of the founding members of Taxpayers United, a group of citizens from throughout the state determined to work together to bring the state's mushrooming beauracracy under control by limiting the spending and the taxes which feed it. In 1977 Senator Geake became one of the charter members of the organization's Legislator's Advisory Committee to support the Tax Limitation petition drive. The drive made history this summer by collecting enough signatures to place Michigan's first comprehensive tax limitation proposal on the ballot. The sudden popularity of tax limitation among the citizens has caused many politicians and government officials to join this cause for which Senator Geake has provided leadership from the very beginning.

KADISH SAYS "YES" TO GAS TAX HIKE

Paul Kadish, Democratic candidate for state senator, announced that he favors the 2 cent increase in the state gasoline tax, and would have voted 'Yes" had he been in the senate last month. Speaking at a candidate's debate before the Livonia Chamber of Commerce, Kadish cited the need for improved mass transit programs in the area

The remark came in response to a question from the audience aimed at Kadish and his Republican opponent, Senator Robert Geake. Geake voted against the gas tax increase, as well as the thirty-three percent increase in license plate fees. Despite Senator Geake's "No" vote, however, the bills managed to clear the State Senate by a narrow margin.

"It is incomprehensible to me that, in light of the tax limitation movement in our state and nation, my opponent could be in favor of increasing fuel taxes and license plate fees at this time," Senator Geake asserted. "This just indicates to me that some candidates for public office are simply not in tune with what the people of Michigan really want."

Senator Geake has been a leading advocate of tax limitation since 1974 when he helped found Taxpayers United for Tax Limitation, the organization which circulated the petitions placing the Headlee Tax Limitation Proposal on the November ballot in Michigan. He presently serves on the organization's legislative advisory committee.

Senator Geake acknowledged that road improvements are needed on Michigan roads, but said that he could not, in good conscience, vote for new taxes to fund these improvements when his constituents clearly want tax decreases, not increases.

"My people come first," Senator Geake declared. "And, what they have been telling me all along is that they do not want any more taxes.

The bills which Senator Geake opposed and Mr. Ladish favored raise from 9 to 11 cents per gallon the state's gasoline tax and from 7 to 9 cents per gallon the diesel fuel tax, effective January 1st, and increase vehicle weight taxes by 30 to 35 percent, effective with purchase of 1979 License plates.

Eleven Proposals Face Voters Tuesday

When voters go to the polls Novemer sentences before they could become ber 7th, they will be asked not only to represent them, but also to decide the fate of 11 ballot proposals.

Since these proposals are of important consequence to public policy in our state, it is crucial that the voters decision to vote "yes" or "no" on each of them be based upon a thorough knowledge of their content and purpose. The eleven proposals are as follows:

A: CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION At Issue: Whether a constitutional convention should be called to draft a new State Constitution.

Explanation: Article XII, Section 3. of our current State Constitution, which was adopted by the electorate in 1963, requires this issue to be put to a vote of the people on the 1978 general election ballot and every 16 years thereafter. Thus, Proposal A was automatically guaranteed a spot on this November's ballot.

Impact: If Proposal A is approved by the voters, a special election must be held within six months to choose 148 delegates. The convention would begin in Lansing no later than October, 1979. When completed, the new Constitution would be submitted to the voters at least 90 days following adjournment of the convention.

B: RESTRICTED PAROLE At Issue: Whether felons convicted of violent crimes should be forced to serve minimum sentences by the Explanation: Proposal B would amend state law to require felons convicted of crimes of violence in Michigan to serve at least their minimum eligible for parole. Crimes of violence select those candidates they want to would include murder, armed robbery, rape, kidnapping, or any other serious felony where a citizen is injured or the potential for injury existed.

Under current state law, persons: convicted of violent criminal activity are given both a minimum and maximum sentence. Minimum sentences may be reduced at the discretion of ? the parole board, however, based on a formula which allows 'time off for good behavior."

Impact: Voter approval of Proposal . B would result in the elimination of " early parole for those convicted of violent criminal activities. An affirmative vote on this parole proposition would also likely result in the need for additional prison space to house those felons convicted of serious crimes . This law would take effect 10 days after the date of the official declara-" tion of the vote. C: INVESTMENT OF PUBLIC -

At Issue: Whether the state should be allowed to invest and deposit public funds in any type of state or federally chartered financial institution.

Explanation: Proposal C would amend the State Constitution to permit the investment and deposit of public funds, other than retirement or endowment monies, in state or federally chartered banks, savings and loan institutions, or credit unions. The Con stitution currently limits such investments and deposits solely to

Crackdown on Crime Demanded

Recognizing that crime has become one of our state's most crucial problems, State Senator Bob Geake has called upon fellow legislators to enact stiff crime control

"In conversations with citizens throughout the communities in my district, crime was repeatedly brought up as a severe problem which demands the prompt attention of the Legislature," Geake noted.

Geake is a six year veteran of the State Legislature and a resident of "The people of our state, the people who live in suburban and rural areas as well as the innercities, have been forced to cope with crime on nearly a daily basis," Geake pointed out. "It has come to where those who willingly obey the law must adjust their lifestyles to avoid contact with those who just as willingly disregard the Geake said he favors stricter sentencing procedures designed to assure would-be criminals that their illegal actions will not go unpunished.

"We need to enact laws which let criminals know that if they break the law, they are going to spend time behind bars where they belong and not be allowed to prey upon our law-abiding citizens any longer," Geake said. "The chances are simply too great now that criminals can get by with just a reprimand and they know it.

"The mandatory sentencing laws we passed last year which guarantee a two-year prison term for any felony involving the use of a gun was a step in the right direction," he said. "It was just one of the many steps, however, that need to be taken.

"The citizens of our state have a ght to safety and a right to expect their elected representatives to take the needed steps to assure their safety," Geake added.

Service Major Issue in Campaign

State Senator Bob Geake views serving those he represents as the major focus of his job and intends to continue working diligently at fulfilling that role when re-elected to the State Senate

Geake is a six year veteran of the State Legislature and candidate for reelection to the 14th Senatorial District. "Since first elected to the Legisla-

"Since first elected to the Legislature in 1973, I have responded promptly to requests from my constitutents for assistance in cutting bureaucratic red tape," he said. "I see this as one of my primary functions and hope to be able to expand my services even further in the coming term."

Among the services Geake has provided are assistance in filling out complicated tax forms and obtaining tax rebates, particularly for senior citizens, and intervening with state departments on behalf of constituents.

"State government is viewed by most people, and rightly so, as a maze of departments, bureaus and divisions," he noted. "Quite often, our citizens just don't know where to turn for help. That is where I believe I should come in and clear the way to a solution."

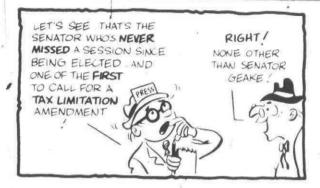

Geake has also helped constituents straighten out problems involving undeserved points appearing on their driving records and resolved disputes with insurance companies through the State Insurance Bureau.

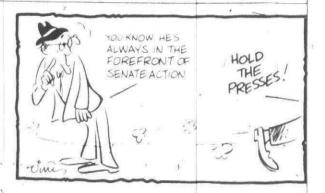

"It is often much simpler for me to make a phone call to the appropriate department, which I am always willing to do, than it is for the citizen to attempt to find the right person to talk to," he pointed out.

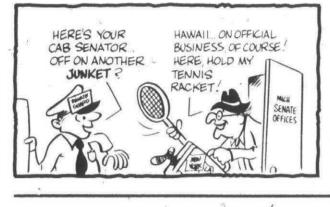

"I have also responded promptly to request for copies of bills under consideration by the legislature and notified constituents of important meetings where I know their input would be valuable," he said.

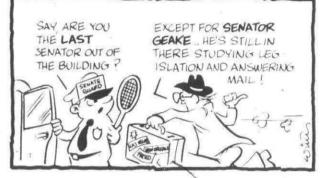

"The door to my office always has been open and I intend to continue my efforts to help those I serve cope with state governmental problems," he said

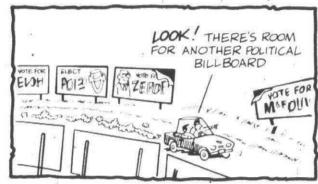

Geake Supports Senior Citizens

State Senator Bob Geake today called upon the Michigan Legislature to take an active role in assuring senior citizen's independence, dignity and the opportunity for continued useful participation in society.

"I believe state government has a responsibility to ease the adjustment of retirement and encourage maintenance of a productive life for senior citizens in Michigan," Geake said.

"Specifically, I favor measures which would provide greater property tax relief and improved health and recreation facilities for senior citizens," he said.

"I also believe we should put an end to age discrimination in employment and to compulsory retirement based on age," he said. "People over 65 still have a great deal to contribute to society and should not be prohibited from this opportunity."

Geake also noted the need for more adequate state contributions to the cost of nursing home care to ensure that the level of care provided is of the highest quality.

"The Legislature must take steps to guarantee senior citizens who live in nursing homes, and those who live at home, adequate health care services and safe living conditions," he said.

"I also support legislation to reduce the impact of increasing utility rates on senior citizens, most of whom must live on very limited and fixed incomes," Geake stated. "We are dangerously close to the point where many senior citizens will be unable to afford the basic services of heat, light, and telephones."

"Senior citizens comprise more than 12 percent of our state's population," he noted. "Their needs and problems are unique and demand prompt legislative attention."

Chamber Endorses 3 Incumbents

The Livonia Chamber Political Action Committee has endorsed three incumbents running for the state senate and House of Representatives seats in the Nov. 7 election.

Getting the endorsements are State Sen. Robert Geake (R-Northville), State Rep. Robert Law (R-Livonia) and State Rep. Jack Kirksey (R-Livonia).

The PAC interviewed Paul Kadish, Livonia Democrat opposing Geake, and Joseph Horvath Jr., Livonia Democrat running against Kirksey. Absent from the interviews was Roger Gwizdala, Law's Democratic foe.

The committee said it endorsed Geake, seeking his first full four-year term, because it felt he had a better understanding of the problems facing businesses and his voting record reflecting that position.

The PAC also said it expects Geake to be "a more effective leader" in his second term, if re-elected.

The committee said Kadish is a "sound candidate and has good credentials but it was felt that Geake's voting record on behalf of the community, especially the business community, was favorable."

On the house races, the committee said Kirksey, seeking his first full two-year term, has experience to make him a more effective representative of his district and that he "has a better feel for the tax problems and related economic problems of businessmen and women."

Law was endorsed by the chamber group and said he has had "an outstanding" first term.

investment and deposit of public funds in any type of state or federally chartered financial institution, effective 45 days after the election.

D. THE LEGAL DRINKING AGE

At Issue: Whether the minimum legal age to consume alcoholic beverages in Michigan should be raised from 18 to 21.

Explanation: Proposal D would amend the State Constitution to prohibit anyone below the age of 21 from purchasing, possessing, or consuming alcoholic beverages. It would further make it illegal for anyone to sell or give alcoholic beverages to any person who has not yet turned 21.

Michigan's legal drinking age has been 18 since 1972, the year the Legislature approved the comprehensive Age of Majority Law which granted 18-year-olds the full rights and responsibilities of adults. The legal drinking age is scheduled to go up to 19, however, effective December 3rd, as a result of legislative passage of a two-bill package earlier this year.

Impact: One way or the other, Michigan's legal drinking will go up by the end of this year. If Proposal D is approved, the move to 21 would supercede the law raising the drinking age to 19. Thus, effective 45 days after the election, no one under the age of 21 would be able to buy, possess or consume alcoholic beverages in Michigan. E: THE HEADLEE PROPOSAL

At Issue: Whether state revenues and expenditures should be limited.

Explanation: Proposal E would limit state taxes (and thus, spending), excluding federal aid, to the current ratio of total state personal income (approximately 9.4 percent). It would further limit the taxing powers of local units of government by requiring that all new requests for taxes be submitted to the voters for approval. In addition, it would require the state to back up with financial support any state-mandated programs.

Currently, our State Constitution prohibits deficit spending, thus limiting expenditures to the total amount of revenue generated by various state taxes. It contains no link, however, between the personal income of Michigan residents and the state's capability for generating revenue.

Pros and Cons: Those advocating passage of Proposal E believe it represents a sound and logical approach to halting the rapid growth in state expenditures which has far outpaced national income. It is further pointed out that the proposal would allow the overall state budget to grow in line with available revenues, safeguard the right of local communities to determine their own spending priorities, and give the voters control over new taxes.

Foes of Proposal E, on the other hand, argue that its passage would restrict the state from providing adequate levels of service and hinder the state's ability to deal with crises. Moreover, some feel the proposal could handicap downtown business development and restrict the ability of local governments to undertake capital construction projects.

Impact: If approved by the voters, this fall, Proposal E would establish a constitutional ratio between personal income and taxes in Michigan. The Legislature would be required to allocate expenditures within a limited income and, therefore, determine priority needs and fund them accordingly. The proposal would take effect in the fiscal year beginning October 1,

G:STATE POLICE COLLECTIVE BARGAINING

At Issue: Whether State Police troopers should be granted the right to bargain collectively.

Explanation: This proposal would amend the State Constitution by giving troopers and sergeants collective bargaining rights on compensation, hours, working conditions, retirement, pension, and all other aspects of employment, except promotions and performance. It would further require compulsory arbitration of any disputes not resolved within 30 days after collective bargaining begins. The State Constitution currently prohibits collective bargaining for all state employees and gives the State Civil Service Commission the authority to set conditions of employment.

Impact: Passage of Proposal G.

Impact: Passage of Proposal G would result in troopers and sergeants being allowed to bargain collectively and resort to compulsory arbitration, if necessary.

if necessary. H: THE VOUCHER PLAN

At Issue: Whether public education funds should go directly to parents for the purpose of extrolling their children in the public, private or parochial school of their choice.

Explanation: Proposal H, known as the Voucher Plan, would dramatically change the present system of funding education in Michigan via an amendment to our State Constitution. This plan would give parents a voucher which could be used to pay for their children's enrollment at either a public, private or parochial school anywhere in the state. Property taxes as a means of financing schools would be eliminated. It is not specified in the Proposal exactly how this lost revenue would be replaced, but it is likely that the Legislature would act to raise the state personal income tax, perhaps by about 2.5 percent, and increase the Single Business Tax as well.

Pros and Cons: Backer of Proposal
H view the voucher plans as a preferable means of funding education because they believe it would create competition among schools. They also advocate shifting away from the property tax to support schools.

Those in opposition to this proposal, on the other hand, argue that it poses a serious threat to the structure of public education as we know it in our state today. They believe it would undermine both public and nonpublic education. Local control over education would be eliminated with the advent of total state funding of schools, it is alleged, and the traditional independence of nonpublic education would be lost.

Impact: Implementation of the voucher plan would guarantee parents a minimum amount of educational funding in the form of vouchers which could be "cashed in" at the public or nonpublic school of their choice. In addition, the Legislature would likely be required to increase both the personal state income tax and business taxes to compensate for the loss of revenue resulting from elimination of the school-funding portion of property

J: THE TISCH PROPOSAL

At Issue: Whether the ceiling on the state equalized value of property, which is the base of the property tax, should be reduced from 50 to 25 percent.

Explanation: The Tisch Proposal would amend the State Constitution by reducing the present constitutional ceiling on property tax assessments from 50 to 25 percent of true cash value. It would further limit annual property tax increases to 2.5 percent. impose a 5.6 percent ceiling on the state income tax rate, and permit the Legislature to authorize school districts to impose up to a one percent income tax with approval of the voters. It would also require the state to back up with financial support all state-mandated new or expanded activities or expenditures.

Carol Geake Has Her Own Career

Carol Geake, wife of State Senator Bob Geake, always wanted to be a veterinarian. Finally, after three years of marriage, the couple decided the time was right. Carol then began the arduous course at Michigan State University, commuting daily up the I-96 expressway through all kinds of weather and road conditions for nearly three years.

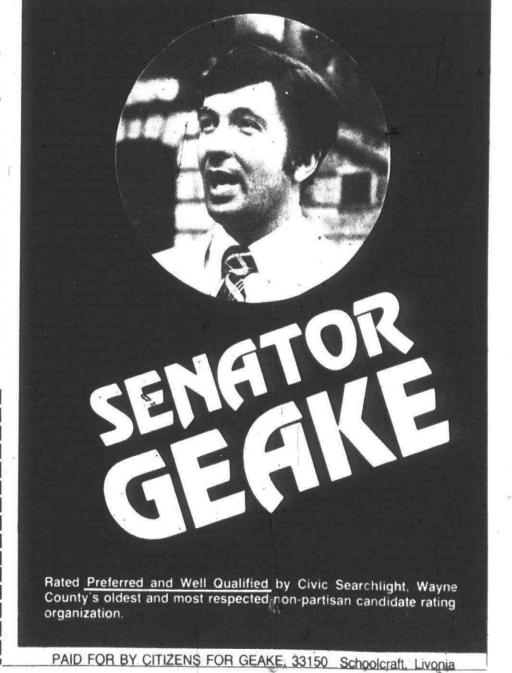

A native of Grand Rapids. Carol had previously earned Bachelor's and Master's degrees at the University of Michigan where the couple met.

Completing her Doctorate in Veterinary Medicine in 1969, she began practice with the respected Plymouth veterinarian Dr. Marion Weberlein. When Dr. Weberlein retired in 1971.

Carol began her own practice. Known primarily for her work as a 4-H leader and her interest in veterinary medicine of horses, her practice included much small animal work from the beginning:

As her reputation grew so did her practice and she found herself with more patients than she could serve. Reluctantly, she gave up the treatment of horses and now specializes in small animals.

Although busy in her own career, Dr. Carol Geake finds time to help actively in Bob's campaign for re-election to the State Senate and to be a homemaker and mother to their children Roger, Tammy and Billy.

Goblins escape the yard

Goblins rushed into the bus yard of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Tuesday and disappeared just as quickly. All it took was the start of the engines.

It wasn't a Halloween race, though. The strange goings-on were only the school district's bus drivers reporting for work in full Halloween regalia. After posing for pictures for Observer photographer Gary Caskey, the crew boarded their buses, started the engines, and took off for all corners of Plymouth and Canton to make their daily rounds.

By LYNN ORR

Take your cot to the polls if ou plat to vote during rush how next Tuesday-or hope your fellow are prepared for a bedsheet ballot.

High interest in the 11 proposals facing voters Nov. 7 is expected to bring out 60 plus per cent of those eligible to vote, according to Plymouth-Canton

And because the City of Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton Township all register about 90 per cent of the eligible voters, the 1978 election could produce record voters-and record lines.

City and township clerks are pouring over twice the usual number of absented ballots, they report—about 700 in Plymouth Township, 500 in the City of Plymouth, and "not quite that many" in Canton, according to Clerk John Flodin.

But the absentee pace is increasing, lodin adds; and voters have until 2 m. Saturday to turn in absentee balapplications to clerks' offices. Anyne over the age of 60 and other regisred voters who will be out of town next Tuesday are eligible for absentee

The best way to avoid a long line at the voting booth is to avoid early morning and after 5 p.m. voting, says Plymouth Township Clerk Helen

"VOTE IN mid-morning and midafternoon," advises Mrs. Richardson, who is retiring from an 18-year post with the township. "And know what you're going to do before you get behind the curtain," she stresses.

That bit of advice is echoed by Plymouth Clerk Paul Brumfield and Flodin. Taking a crib sheet to the polls or at least being familiar with the balllots will help cut down waiting time, the clerks say.

Knowing the propositions is particularly important, Flodin says.

"The propositions won't say Tisch, Headlee, and Voucher," he warns voters. "The election workers will be prepared to inform them if they ask about the propositions, but it's going to take some time if voters have to read each proposition carefully.

Under Michigan law, a voter only has two minutes in which to make his or her selections; however, most clerks extend that time limit if the voter requires additional time.

"We've never lived with it," Mrs. Richardson declares. "If someone is having a problem, we give them help, which is a way to nicely urge them to

FOUR YEARS ago, about 59 per cent of the registered voters went to the polls in Plymouth. With the added interest in the elec-

In both Plymouth and Canton townships, registration ranges between 95-99 per cent, with 18,641 out of a population of about 38,000 registered in Canton and 12,477 out of about 24,000 registered in Plymouth Township. Both clerks expect a high voter turnout, although the local elections are markedly different in character.

A voter turnout of about 30 per cent in the August primary elected the new officials in Plymouth Township. All the candidates, including clerk hopeful Esther Hulsing, are running unopposed on the Republican ticket.

In Canton, a hotly contested election includes candidates of both major parties and two strong write-in campaigns by incumbents defeated in the primary.

While voters never waited more than 45 minutes in Plymouth Township, according to Mrs. Richardson, voters

BRADLEY EXPRESSED disappointment over Petitpren's reaction to his club's decision. But he pledged to stick to the endorsement of Roberts' campaign

"What can I say?" Bradley said of Petitpren's comments. "Some people are very staunch Democrats. It just depends where you are on the Bradley said his club compared the platforms of Roberts to the campaign of Greenstein and Mrs. Bodenmiller when they made the Republican endorsement. The club's membership agreed that Roberts was the most promising candidate for Canton.

The club has viewed former Supervisor Greenstein as one of Stein's most powerful political toes since the 1976 election, when Stein and Greenstein battled cit out for the supervisor's

The club has actively campaigned against the election bids of both Greenstein and Mrs. Bodenmiller.

The 15th Congressional District Democratic Party endorsed Stein and Mrs. Bradley in last August's primary. Because both incumbents lost that election, however, the party has not endorsed any township candidate for the November election

Culbert wrote a letter to Mrs. Murphy saying she was spreading lies about him and that he would sue her if she didn't stop.

Headlee distorted figures, instructor charges

The Headlee theme that "the growth of government is out of control" is being branded a distortion and lie by a Saginaw Valley State College Sociology instructor Robert J. Thaler cites six points in Headlee's standard presentation in support of Proposal E on tax limitation.

The gist of his argument is that taxes haven't increased by the percentages Farmington Hills insurance executive Richard Headlee says they have increased

"Headlee and his supporters are shouting this slogan long and loud from one end of the state to the other, hoping that most people will start to believe it because they have heard it so much," said Thaler in a paper circulated statewide.

He gave these examples:

1. "IN JUST 10 years," claims Headlee, "state and local taxes have increased twice as fast as the people's ability to pay (their personal

Said Thaler: "What they label as 'state and local taxes' is actually the line for 'total state spending.' But only about 50 per cent of state revenues spent come from state and local taxes.

"The rest comes from increased federal programs and revenue sharing, permits, licenses, college tuition, park fees, hospitals state liquor stores, etc., for which who choose to pay receive specific services they want."

2. HEADLEE compares "personal income" based on individuals with "total state and local taxes" paid by both individuals and corporations.

Said Thaler: "These are familiar deciptions. Change the subject and hope that most people won't notice, like in the old shell game."

3. HEADLEE CLAIMS the state's personal income tax has gone up 740 per cent in 10 years.

Thaler calls this "preposterous," adding, "Every citizen knows better. Headlee is looking at figures for the first year the state income tax was in effect, when it was collected for only a fraction of a year-October-December

"No wonder the increase looks so huge. That fact alone wipes out most of his 740 per cent claim.

"Inflation and some moderate increases in the overall tax/rate, from 2.6 per cent to 4.6 per cent/account for the rest. Headlee's ideology has made him—and others—blind to the facts. Their minds were made up even before they looked at the data.

"In truth, total state and local taxes have gone up at just about the same rate as personal income."

4. STATE EMPLOYEES are compared, in Headlee's charts, with total state population. Thaler calls it "misleading and irrelevant.

He explained: "Population has increased about 500,000 persons; state employees, about 20,000 persons."

Thaler said the diversity and changing composition of the state's population are more important. For example, the number of working adults has increased 30 per cent. "And as a percentage of all employees, the number of state employees has only increased from 1.25 per cent to 1.51 per cent of the total.

5. HEADLEE DOESN'T consider the areas where state employment has risen, and why, Thaler charged.

"It is hardly the state's fault. State park and campground use is up 50 per cent since 1968. Vocational rehabilitation cases are up over 100 per cent.

"Adult basic education, for illiterate adults, is up 600 per cent. State college enrollments are up 60 per cent.

"Prison inmates increased 100 per cent. The numbers of food stamp recipients and families on ADC have increased over 400 per cent. "Numbers of court cases have increased 100 per cent in every court.

"Total population hasn't increased much, but the types of people who make up our population have changed. Today we have a much greater crime problem, especially drugs and organized crime. Only the state can adequately deal with problems of this magnitude.

There are tens of thousands more elevators in Michigan now than in 1968, and we are critically short of elevator inspectors.

6. "TAX LIMITATION" is what Headlee calls his group's proposal. Thaler called it revenue limitation. "which is more serious and dangerous.

"Only about half of revenues come from taxes; the rest is from fees. licenses, permits, college tuitions, and the like. The Headlee limitation could some day force Michigan to limit college enrollments, limit state park entries and limit hunting licenses-all just so as to be able to meet more essential human needs.

"To limit total state revenues to growth in only one component of those revenues-namely, to personal income-is a poor method. Business income and other revenue sources contribute greatly to state revenues + "Headlee would have us tying Junior's allowance to increases in Mom's salary, when in fact both Mom and Dad are working.

"If Junior is alert, he will have nothing to do with this plan.

Chamber elects new directors

Five new members have been elected to three-year terms on the board of directors of the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce.

They are Nick Aron, Dave Cook, Joan Gerigk, George Lawton and Bill

At the last board meeting, a new slate of officers also was elected for the coming year.

The officers are: Jerry Loiselle of Jerry's Bicycles, president; Leonard Evans of Ford Motor Co., first vice president; Kirk Lorenz of the Mayflower Hotel, second vice president; Bill Graham of First National Bark of Plymouth, secretary; Betty Stremith of Hillside Inn, treasurer.

LEAVING THE CHAMBER'S board at the end of the year will be Barbara LeClair of Pick O' the Wick shop and Richard Loranger of Burroughs Corp. plant in Plymouth Township.

Aron, owner of Nawrot Pendleton Shop, has been active on the Chamber Retail Committee, the Chamber Central Business District Committee, and as chairman of the Forest Place Mall Association. Aron also is a member of the Rotary Club of Plymouth.

Cook, of the Plymouth Trading Post, is a member of the Lions Club of Plymouth.

Ms. Gerigk of the Alphabet Gallery and The Settlers, is a past chairwoman of the Chamber Retail Committee who initiated the chicken flying contest. She was selected business woman of the year for 1978 by the Plymouth American Legion, and is presently a member of the board of directors for the Chamber.

Lawton, manager of the Plymouth Community Federal Credit Union, has been a member of the Chamber for the past 20 years and has served as Chamber president. He is a former Plymouth City Commissioner, former school trustee and school board president for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, and a former member of the Canton Planning Commission.

Graham is on the Salvation Army advisory board in Plymouth and is a member of the Municipal Building Authority for the City of Plymouth.

Resident vying for circuit seat

James E. McCarthy of Plymouth is a candidate on the Nov. 7 ballot for one of the two newly-created circuit court judgeships in Wayne County.

In this particular court race, McCarthy is one of four candidates vying for the two new judgeships of which the two top vote-getters will be elected to serve.

A graduate of Wayne State University Law School, McCarthy has practiced law in the Plymouth-Livonia-Dearborn area for 15 years. He presently has his law office on S. Main Street in the City of Plymouth and is a resident of Plymouth Township.

McCarthy also is a Wayne County public administrator and has been serving in this capacity for more than eight years.

FROM 1967-68 McCarthy was justice of the peace in Plymouth Township as well as serving as a visiting judge in the Livonia and Redford municipal McCarthy practices law in Wayne Circuit Court as a trial attorney and has a branch office in Brighton. He serves as an arbitrator for the American Arbitration Association and also serves as a State Bar Grievance Panel Attorney.

"A major problem facing the courts is the now is the long delay in the court calendar," states McCarthy. "The problem can be solved, I believe, by using judges pro-tem, working current judges a full day along with court personnel, and making use of the courts on Saturdays. These steps would relieve court congestion with the least cost to the county and

> McCarthy belives his extensive legal background has kept him attuned to the will of the people and that his methods engineering background will permit him to cut through the red tape presently hampering the court system and to be able to devise new methods to help speed up justice. Additionally, McCarthy believes that his two years as a justice of the peace in Plymouth Township served as a proving ground for some of his methods of rehabiliting

"Young people should devise their own method of showing that they don't want a criminal record by various work programs and/or making restitution. By that I mean-mama and papa doesn't make the restitution, the young person

McCarthy says he is the only candidate in this race deemed worthy to have the endorsement of the Michigan Trial Lawyers Association and to receive a well-qualified rating from the Civic Searchlight as well as the endorsements of the Northwest Bar Association and the Suburban Bar Association.

Now you can get checking account service while you're getting savings account interest.

Introducing Michigan National Banks' new Savings Chek System.

It used to be you'd have a checking account for the times when you needed money immediately. And a savings account that'd pay interest on the money you didn't need right away. Now, there's Michigan National's new Savings Chek System. Very simply, it does both:

Technically, you'll still have both a savings and a checking account. But you can keep all your money in savings, leaving a zero balance in checking. Then, whenever you write a check, we'll automatically transfer just the right amount out of savings to cover it. Meanwhile, all the rest of your money will be earning 5% daily interest, compounded continuously. Write another check, we'll transfer just that much more. That way, all your money earns savings account interest while you're getting checking account service.

Service charges will amount to $4.00 per month, plus 20¢ per transfer. If, however, you maintain a $2,000 average balance, your Savings Chek System will be entirely free of service charges.

Full details on fees and other requirements are available at any office of Michigan National Banks.

Township leaders reflect changing attitudes

(Part I)

The man who led the losing battle in 1898 to keep Northville from seceding from Plymouth Township thought the defection was a calamity.

The man who heads Plymouth Township today believes the split actually helped the Plymouth area-and explains why

The Plymouthite of the past, George Anson Starkweather, was elected township supervisor four times (1855, 1858, 1859 and 1862) after being justice of the peace at age 27, and a member of the Michigan State Legislature, at age 28.

The Plymouth official of the present. Thomas G. Notebaert, was elected township supervisor in 1976 and again

A COMPARISON OF the backgrounds and careers of these township leaders-one in the pre-Civil War days, the other as this is being written-shows more contrasts than similarities, and highlights the changes that have occurred in the area in recent times.

In 1855, when Starkweather was in office, the assessed valuation of the township and village combined was less than $500,000; the population of both was hardly more than 2,500; and the problem was how to attract more

Today, as Notebaert is in his second term as supervisor, the assessed valuation of the township alone is over $213 million; the township population exceeds 20,000; and the problem is not how to attract people to the area, but how to control the recent rapid growth.

The origins of Starkweather and Notebaert were strikingly dissimilar. George Starkweather was a local celebrity from the day he was born. Feb. 20, 1826. His pioneer parents had built the first home in the Village; his mother was the first white woman to set foot in the area; his father owned 240 acres of land centered where the Masonic Temple now stands; and George, himself, was the first white child born in what is now Plymouth Township.

All but a few, and they would have been late arrivals in Plymouth, must have known him, or of him, when he was elected to his first public office. justice of the peace, in 1853. They returned him to the same office in 1857, 1861 and 1865. Tom Notebaert, on the other hand, arrived in Plymouth underalded at age 23, possessing none of the advantages which Starkweather's origin must have given him. Born in Detroit in 1922. Notebaert did not become a resident of the City of Plymouth until 1945. Later, he moved to the township. He was 54 when first elected supervisor. THOMAS NOTEBAERT

Cooperate on parking

This is regarding the letter from Gordon Cochrane, whose wife had a bad experience at the 7-Eleven store on Main Street.

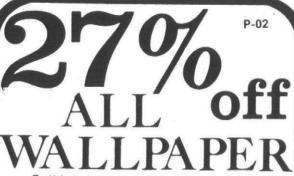

I also have had a similar experience with the rude owner of this store. After parking in his lot and buying a few items from his store, I began to walk to the Taco Bell next door for a carryout. The owner ran out of his store yelling at me to get my car out of his lot. I did and I will never return to his know of the serious parking problems in downtown Plymouth. The only way the community can overcome this shortage is by cooperation.

Nothing is served by store owners who alienate their customers-turning them into former customers. Perhaps if enough people withhold their business from the 7-Eleven, the owner will see that he accomplishes nothing with his uncivic and uncivil attitude.

Vote for farmland mill, then argue about cost

Steps must be taken now if some 5,000 acres of prime agricultural land west of Canton Center Road are to be spared from the bulldozers of

The development rights proposal that will appear on the Nov. 7 ballot would initiate the action that is needed to save Canton's farmland from encroaching urban sprawl.

The proposal asks voters to approve a tax hike of four mills ($4 per $1,000 assessed valuation) to finance the public purchase of farmers' development rights.

To the average taxpayer who owns a $60,000 home assessed at $30,000, the development rights program would mean an immediate tax hike of about $120 a year.

That seems like a lot of money during a time of tax revolt. But delaying approval of the development rights issue until state or federal funds are made available could mean the death knell for the township's agricultural land.

THE FARMLAND preservation issues goes far beyond the esthetics of maintaining a green belt along Canton's western boundary. Or allowing farmers to continue working the land they have owned for years.

Farmland preservation is shaping up as a national issue. Agricultural land across Michigan and the country is disappearing at an alarming Logically, the federal and state government should offset part of the costs of Canton's farmland retention program. No federal or state funds are currently available, however.

Perhaps the current township board and administration should be criticized for failing to follow up efforts of former Supervisor Robert Greenstein to lobby for federal funds.

But it is too late to throw out the proposal that will appear on next week's ballot. At least three years of hard work went into the development rights concept, and time is running out for Canton's agricultural land. Once it is developed, it will be gone for good.

Voters should approve the development rights proposal next Tuesday and put pressure on their elected officials to begin lobbying for state and

A $40,000 study on the issue concluded that Canton's taxes will be lower over the long run if development rights are purchased now. The study compared the cost of preserving the farmland to the cost of providing municipal services to a fully developed township.

The development rights proposal on next week's ballot deserves a chance. Vote yes on the four-mill

It's Culbert-by a nose

Some endorsements for political candidates are easy to write.

We did not see that clear-cut choice in the Canton supervisor's race.

Although we endorse Democrat Noel Culbert for township supervisor, we must add a few words of

We believe he has the best qualifications of the three candidates for supervisor, but are cool to his campaign tactics.

Campaigns can be run without turning into a game of who has the most mud to sling.

Admittedly, the information Culbert has released about opponents was generally well substantiated and sometimes interesting. And he is certainly no more guilty of the practice than writein supervisor candidate Harold Stein, whose campaign has been marked with desperate flinging of mire that seems more fantasy than fact.

We do not endorse write-in candidates because we feel the results of the August primary should be

Culbert, once the hue and cry of election politics dies down, has the potential to be an adequate

He seems to have the interests of Canton at heart, and he makes a point of trying to understand the needs of all, rather than a few pressure

We anticipate the township board will end up a composite of strong-willed individuals when this election is over. Canton will need a supervisor who won't be run over by sheer force of will

But even as we give our support to Culbert, we ask him to take a few pointers about running a campaign from one of his opponents.

Republican candidate John Longridge, in the midst of the nastiest campaign Canton has ever seen, has managed to retain his integrity and run a Longridge has some good ideas and goals, but his platform has been too narrow in scope, and ne doesn't appear to be quite prepared to assume the duties of supervisor.

Culbert has some good, solid goals, among them to establish homeowner protection and growth control. He appears intelligent enough to deal with the complexities of land use questions. Only time will tell if he has the motivation to match.

But, as Culbert knows, the supervisor's job is always under scrutiny. We hope he can take it as well as he dishes it out.

Donahue gets our support Canton has reached a point where its future can turn in one of several directions. It is a young, vigorous community, whose growing pangs are almost refreshing compared to the problems of other municipalities that stuggle to keep vital.

The seeds that result in the eventual success or deterioration of a community are planted now

That's why we feel the people who will hold Canton's future in their hands, our elected officials, need the ability to visualize what tomorrow will

We believe James Donahue, the Republican candidate for Canton treasurer, has that ability

Donahue, once he stops worrying what everyone else is doing wrong and starts thinking about what he can do right, displays admirable concern about the impact of today's issues on Canton in years to

He is a strong supporter of keeping Canton an aesthetically pleasing community, and be seems willing to fight a battle to realize his hopes.

If it means fighting businesses to prevent turning main roads into neon strips, he has vowed to do

We don't think that position is anti-business. By keeping Canton a desirable place to live-and visit-merchants can continue to attract the kind of customer who comes back, rather than a onetime visitor who is drawn in by a large sign.

Donahue believes-or says he does-in master plans, something Canton badly needs.

We think a vote for Donahue is a vote for Canton's future.

Although we endorse Donahue, it seems appropriate to take time for a few words of praise for his opponent, Maria Falkiewicz.

She has managed to run a clean, thoughtful campaign, and we hope that she decides to stay involved in Canton's political arena should she lose

But this time, let's give Donahue a chance to prove he means what he says.

Brown offers wide experience

When voters go to the polls next Tuesday, those in the 37th State House District should consider the years of experience and broad representation on state committees that Rep. Thomas Brown now

Although a Westland resident, Brown is well atuned to the other areas of his district-Canton Township, Plymouth Township and Wayne

Indeed, some of his most significant legislative efforts benefits those outside of Westland. A new charter township law now provides the townships in Brown's district with a reprieve from annexation threats.

We agree that Michigan needs 'tax reform. That's a point Democrat Brown has raised for six years. But we disagree on his method for attaining it. Although Brown supports the tax limitation Proposal E on the ballot, we urge him and the voters to carefully consider the effects of limiting taxation in Michigan when spending is unlimited in federal circles.

But Brown's efforts to assure an equitable transportation plan for western Wayne County residents and his drive to reform educational funding deserve applause.

After four terms-that's eight years-of experience as a state rep in a district that has grown to about 120,000 people, Brown is well aware of the problems and plans of those he represents.

'Yes' twice for transportation

PROPOSAL TO allocate at least 90 per cent of gas tax revenues for general road purposes and the remainder for other transportation purposes and to replace State Highway Commission with a Transportation Commission.

This constitutuional amendment, which merits voter support, is part of the total transportation package of bills passed earlier this year by the Michigan Legislature.

One portion updates the constitution by renaming the highway commission as the "Transportation Commission." That is altogether fitting because that department oversees money for public transportation, shipping ports and airports, too.

The department director would be appointed by the governor rather than by the six-member commission, thus providing for clearer accountability to the public. We are less enthusiastic about freezing the portion of the transportation fund at 90 per cent for roads. We would prefer to give the legislature responsibility for allocating money among various kinds of transportation. That provision, however, was necessary to win the support of highway people, who have legitimate interests.

The people of Michigan can join the legislature in making balanced transportation progress by voting YES on proposal M.

PROPOSAL TO authorize creation of a Railroad Redevelopment Authority to make loans to railroads with track in Michigan and to authorize authority to issue general obligation bonds in an amount not to exceed $175 million.

Michigan railroads need a lot of modernizingnew road beds, loading facilities, yard facilities. truck-train facilities, data processing.

But the rail companies are earning only five per cent on invested capital while it costs 10 per cent to float bonds on the market. A Railroad Redevelopment Authority could use proceeds from a state bond issue (at lower, tax-free interest rates) to make loans to the rail companies for modernization.

That would help a form of transportation that will grow in importance to Michigan as truck fuel prices soar and small cities struggle to hold

Michigan, unfortunately, handles no "bridge" traffic between the East Coast and the Midwest. Thus, Michigan doesn't get the same priority in the rail companies' investment plans as do more heavily traveled states such as Ohio and Indiana

If we want railroad improvements here, we'll have to offer some inducements.

Proposal R can provide such inducements. It deserves a YES vote.

Turn down parole, bail plans

PROPOSAL TO grant authority to courts to deny bail under certain circumstances involving violent crimes.

Here is another hard-nosed proposal to chip away at constitutional rights-the right of an accused person to be free on bail bond while awaiting trial.

It disturbs us.

The Michigan Constitution now says all persons are entitled to bail unless accused of murder or treason. Proposal K, by State Rep. Paul Rosenbaum of Battle Creek, would expand that non-bail

We're old-fashioned enough to believe a person isn't guilty until he has been proven guilty in court

Proposal K isn't really necessary. If a judge, with access to modern records, sees it would be risky to let a person with a history of violence out on bond, the judge can set bail high enough to pro-

Accusing someone of crime isn't the same as convicting him. Many a man who will later be found innocent could lose his job or suffer a broken home if denied bail.

We like our constitutional rights the way they

We recommend a NO vote on Proposal K.

PROPOSAL TO prohibit the granting of a parole to a prisoner convicted of certain crimes involving violence or injury to persons or property until at least after the minimum sentence has

From the pen of Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson, this proposal won't do what Patterson says it should do.

It should be defeated.

It's aimed at "good time" laws. A judge today sentences a criminal to (say) 5-10 years in prison. If the convict behaves himself in prison, he can earn time off for good behavior and get out in about 31/2 years. The prison warden has a carrot to dangle in front of him.

Proposal B would eliminate that carrot. The convict would have to serve the five-year minimum sentence, at least.

But wait! The judge already knows the convict can get out in 3½ years, so he takes that into consideration when handing out the sentence. In other words, the judge really intends to hand out a 31/2year sentence-if the convict behaves himself.

If "good time" were eliminated, judges would adjust by meting out shorter sentences, where possible. Even if Proposal B did result in longer sentences, our prisons are already badly, dangerously overcrowded. Eliminating "good time" would make the situation worse.

Proposal B should be DEFEATED.

Greenstein, Bodenmiller best

Robert Greenstein and Carol Bodenmiller would be excellent additions to the Canton Board of Trustees, and we give them our wholehearted

The choice might have been more difficult had not the only Republican candidate, Gary Roberts. chosen to change his stripes. Roberts, who claims to the the savior of the suburban homeowner, ran a primary campaign that was staunchly anti-Harold Stein (the present supervisor).

He unleased every slur and barb he could think of against the supervisor. All that has changed. Roberts is not only one of Stein's strongest supporters in the general election, but he has received the endorsement of the Canton United Democratic Club. This organization is composed primarily of Stein, Treasurer Anne Bradley and their supporters.

There appears to be a little confusion about party identity here, because Roberts is running on the Republican ticket. We also find it amusing to think that anyone could believe Robert's charges against the people he once supported, because he now claims all those nasty things be said about Stein were misguided.

Roberts has apparently fallen into the trap of politics. He has become so confused and unsure of what he stands for that he has created his own credibility gap.

Our endorsement of Greenstein and Bodenmiller does not come because they are the only other trustee candidates.

Greenstein, who may have been too forceful and hotheaded as Canton supervisor before Stein defeated him, still has the kind of expertise and intelligence that would be a shame to waste.

He has the ability to come up with innovative programs, as he did with the farmland preservation proposal.

Carol Bodenmiller is also capable of looking ahead, but with enough caution to avoid the mistake of jumping into a project without knowing all the pros and cons.

She has a taken the time to study issues and offer well-thought-out statements on them.

Mrs. Bodenmiller appears stong-minded enough to stand up for what she believes in, and she believes in making decisions only if she can do so with a clear conscience.

We wish we could say the same for every candidate.

Our only misgivings regard the close political association of Greenstein, Mrs. Bodenmiller and Republican treasurer candidate Jim Donahue in the past.

We hope Mrs. Bodenmiller and Donahue will not represent two automatic votes behind Greenstein if all three are elected to the board.

Somehow it seems an interesting coincidence that this country's major election date falls in the same week in which the English observe Guy Fawkes Day.

There is little doubt that no matter which way you turn this weekend, you are going to be bombarded with last minute campaign propoganda. It will be the last big chance for individual candidates, and for those advocating or opposing giver issues, to reach your eyes and ears.

Be thankful that you live in a country where they have that chance.

The electioneering probably will be at its retching worst Sunday. On that very day, back home in the mother country, the normally undemonstrative English will be hanging poor ol' Guy in effigy again. If you don't know why, read on.

YOU SEE, back in 1605 — 15 years before that boatload of transients sailed from England on the Mayflower — some of the dissidents who dwelled around and about pastoral England vowed they'd had enough of King James I and his government. They went about solving their differences the hard Knowing the king was scheduled to be present Nov. 5, the day Parliament was to convene, their solution was to sneak some kegs of gunpowder to the cellar of the House of Lords with the intention of blowing most of royalty into kingdom come.

As often happens to such sinister plots, both in real life and on television, somebody let the cat out of the bag, Fancy their surprise when Guy and his buddies were greeted at the cellar door by a committee of the king's royal fuzz.

Historians have called this aborted uprising the "Gunpowder Plot," which demonstrates a shocking lack of imagination, and its annual perpetuation long ago became known simply as Guy Fawkes Day.

AS IN MANY losing situations, there had to be a fall guy, and maybe that's how Fawkes went into the books as the chief conspirator.

Actually he was only one of a number who were dispatched to their graves for their dastardly conniving, but whether he was king-pin of the conspirators or not seems to have been lost in the

One suspects that down to the tasteless end he never knew who spilled the beans. Later on, it turned out that one of the mob had a relative who was a member of Parliament.

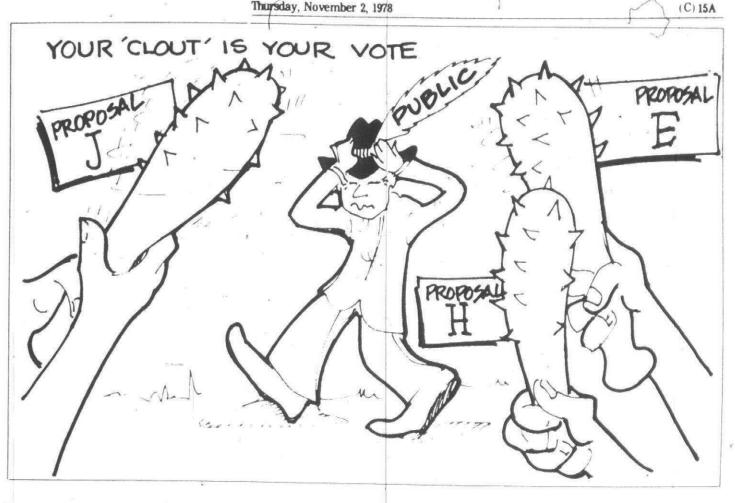

This led to a personal warning to his lordship not to risk his life and limb on the day in question because things were going to go boom. That's when the law moved in.

THE REASON that in England they still pop cannons and corks and hang Fawkes in effigy every Nov. 5 is to celebrate that as the date Parliament was saved.

Traditionalists that they are, members of the government also have seen to it that a formal · search of the vaults beneath the houses of Parliament has been conducted before each new session ever since. In a span of 373 years not a single cask of gunpowder has been found.

Close elections have abounded lately in our area. in fact in our state. The value of a single vote has been demonstrated time and again. Don't let it be failure to cast your own that brings defeat to your candidate or cause.

Garber deserves nod in judge race

After the last vote is counted Tuesday, residents from Plymouth-Canton will have a second judge on the district bench-either Phil Ogilvie or Jim Garber.

Judge Dunbar Davis is running unopposed for a six-year term in the 35th District, which includes the cities of Plymouth and Northville, and the townships of Canton, Plymouth and Northville. The Michigan Legislature has created a second judgeship for the district, with Garber and Ogilvie running for that four-year term.

Voters are fortunate, in one respect, because both Garber and Ogilvie have rich legal backgrounds, know the area well, and would make good judges if elected. The tough part for voters, though, is that a choice must be made between the two well-qualified persons.

OGILVIE HAS AN impressive background which includes more than two decades as Northville municipal attorney, a stint as municipal judge, and an enviable record of involvement in civic affairs.

Involvement, experience and knowledge are the major assets Ogilvie possesses - which will certainly be useful in carrying out the duties of district judge if he's elected.

But Garber also possesses involvement and experience in and knowledge of the criminal justice system. And Garber also knows the area well. having been born and raised here.

What voters are faced with, in brief, are two favorite sons, both of whom have the qualifications to serve as the second judge in the 35th District.

alan lor1 Design Center

BECAUSE ONLY ONE can be elected, the Observer suggests to our readers that serious consideration be given to Garber.

A lot of you know Jim Garber because his father, Ralph, was one of the early families in the community and toiled for years on the Garber farm out in Plymouth Township. Some of you probably went to Plymouth High School with Garber. and have watched his career since then

That career included a stint as assistant prosecutor for Wayne County, which resulted in him prosecuting a number of cases at the district and circuit court levels.

And then Garber was named director of the Criminal Justice Institute of Detroit when that agency was first formed in a cooperative arrangement between the cities of Plymouth and Detroit.

As director, Garber participated in establishing training programs and setting up seminars and courses for all persons involved in the criminal justice system - police officers, prosecutors, defense attorneys, judges, and city attorneys.

That tenure as director of the CJI gave Garber a broad insight into and a broad understanding of all aspects of the judicial system -cops. judges, prosecuting and defense attorneys

And that is why the Observer recommends to our readers Jim Garber for 35th District judge. We believe the experience with the system as a whole is invaluable and will make Garber a very effective judge at the district level.

Joyner has done well

On Nov. 7 William Joyner (D-Plymouth) will be seeking election for the first time since being appointed to the Wayne County Commission seat in the 27th District, which includes the City of Plymouth, Canton, Plymouth Township and part of Westland.

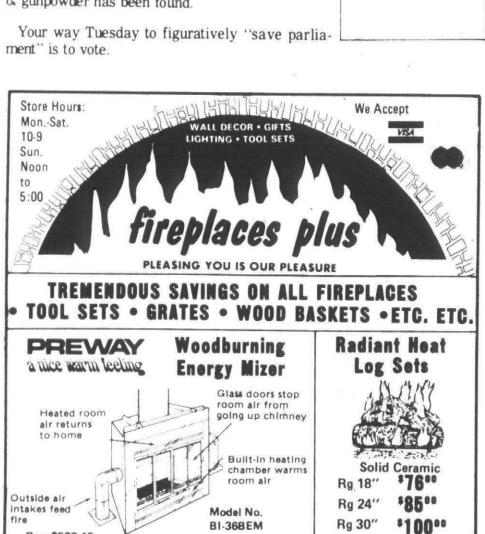

The Observer, in the past, has expressed its displeasure with the way the vacancy was created and with the manner by which it was filled. We had no particular problem with the selection of Joyner, but were chagrined that the selection process boiled down to a fight between two regions of

But Joyner cannot and should not be held personally responsible for Wayne County's political jungle. In fact, Joyner personally supports the one action which would go a long way towards cleaning up county politics - appointment of a county executive.

The Observer finds no fault with the job Joyner has done to date and believes he deserves re-election, especially since Republican Frank Yonish has not shown any serious desire for the job. The Observer urges a vote Tuesday for R. William Jovner as county commissioner in the 27th District.

MARY AND RALPH CARR

Carrs mark 50 years wed

Ralph and Mary Carr, married Nov 3. 1928 in the old Newburg Methodist Church, will celebrate their 50th anniversary with a reception at 7 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 4, in the Plymouth Grange Hall, 273 Union.

The Carrs, longtime Plymouth residents, now making their home in Helping host the reception will be daughter Bonnie Finney and her husband Chester of Garden City, son Ronald of Livonia and daughter Donna Kehrer of Wayne.

The Carrs also have five grandchildren and three greatgrandchildren.

Carr retired from Burroughs Corp. after 28 years of work. His wife was employed for a number of years by Brooks & Perkins in Livonia.

Guests at the reception are expected from Alma, Hillsdale, Canton, Ohio, and Florida, as well as friends from all over this area. Music will be furnished by Don Valentine from Yamaha Keyboard World, Wayne.

Resentment overcome

Family shares home with mentally retarded

By MICHAEL MATUSZEWSKI

Can the mentally retarded and "normal" persons share a neighborhood? That question sparked controversies this year in Southfield and St. Clair Shores, but things seem to be working in one Livonia neighborhood.

There's a normal looking home in the 9000 block of Melrose in the Rosedale Gardens section of Livonia. But by normal standards, its abnormal. In addition to the five-person family, four elderly retarded men and one 19-yearold boy, who is recovering from a nervous breakdown, call the residence

There was resentment, recalls Lorraine Bartel, who operates the foster group home along with her husband. Lawrence. Her neighbors, several court to stop the Bartels from operating the home or force them to move.

"Livonia wanted us to relocate to a commercial area. They said we were operating a business," Mrs. Bartel said. "I grew up in a normal residential area. They should have a chance to live in a residential area just like you and me.'

A new state law allowing group homes to be placed in residential neighborhoods, however, was passed and signed during the trial.

Mrs. Bartel and her neighbors said the initial lawsuit was filed to prevent elderly men from being placed in the neighborhood. Prior to the Bartels' purchasing the home, it had been operated as a foster home for elderly retarded women.

"Before we moved in," Mrs. Bartel years ago, filed suit in Livonia district, said, "I thought the people here had accepted the foster care concept. Women were living here before.

"One neighbor even suggested that I take in women instead of men. Well. I'm not a flowery, frilly kind of

AS NEIGHBORS explain it, they were afraid of what the retarded men might do to their children. As the fears subsided, the neighbors began to accept the foster home.

"We've pretty much adjusted to the home," said one neighbor. "Nothing bizarre has happened in the neighborhood.

"We used to tell our children not to play with their children or go over to their house, but you can't keep an eye on them every minute of the day," she

"If you took a vote in the neighborhood," one neighbor predicted, "most people would probably say they don't want them here.

She said most neighbors were concerned about the effect the foster home may have on their property values. "Most of us have all our equity tied up in our homes," said one neighbor who has lived on Melrose Street for 13 years. "We don't want to lose

Others resent the fact that the Bartels receive money from the state for taking care of the mentally retarded in an area zoned for residential use.

"My husband is a hard-working man," said one neighbor. "He's a service department manager, but he couldn't repair cars here in his garage in his spare time."

Mrs. Bartel receives more than $340 a month for each of the mentally retarded men for whom she cares.

Financially, it takes everything we've got," Mrs. Bartel said. "We feed them well. We pay for all their recreation.

SHE DENIES that she's into the foster group home operation for financial

A LEAGUE activity that endears members to the musicians in the orchestra is the refreshment break at rehearsals.

The orchestra rehearses Monday evenings in Central Middle School. Many of the musicians leave directly from work with no opportunity for a dinner break. These are especially appreciative of the refreshments provided by league members.

Two or three women serve coffee. tea, a cold beverage, and some kind of snack. The arrays of homemade cookies, cakes, brownies and other fare are ready and waiting at 9 p.m.! for the 15-minute break called by Wayne Dunlap, symphony conductor.

The league also serves coffee during intermission at the regular concerts in Plymouth Salem High School. Once a wear, the league has a bake sale after the concert. This year's sale will be Dec. 10. at the Christmas concert when the New York Savonyards will present "H.M.S. Pinafore.

1 Other league projects include a bowling league and a golf league. And there have been cook book sales, coupon books (now on sale for $8), theater parties, home tours and other social as well as fund-raising events.

THERE ARE five groups in the league-the Allegros, Crescendos. Nightingales, Staccatos and Vivaces.

Annual projects—the fall fashion show, the antique mart, the pops concert, the Symphony Ball and the bridge-are rotated. It's never boring; there is a new project every year for five years. And the groups have complete freedom to take on an extra project. With the antique mart out of the way, a group may decide to plan another venture in the spring.

Conductor Wayne Dunlap insists the Plymouth orchestra has the best women's organization in the state. He continues to marvel at their support. The league's pledge last season was $6,000. They came through with the pledge and a $2,500 bonus.

Serving with Jan Quick on the elected board are Clara Camp, vicepresident: Evelyn Funk, secretary: and Sarah Chance, treasurer. The vice-president also is in charge of membership. Any Canton or Plymouth woman who would like to join the league can call her at 453-8865

Letter offers parents a sport's lesson

Two Canton residents were very busy over the summer months preparing for this year's hockey season. Walt Cole and Bob Goleniak are the manager and head coach of the Plymouth-Canton Squirt Travel A team this year. During the summer they jointly wrote and compiled a player-parent hockey reference manual.

Each boy on the team received a copy of the 90-page manual with instructions to read it. It's almost a "everything you've ever wanted know about hockey but were to uninformed to ask" type guide.

One page in the manual is a letter to mom and dad from their son. It is printed in a childs handwriting and taken from the Can-Am Hockey group. It is about a hockey parent, but can certainly be applied to any sport. It goes like this:

Dear Mom and Dad:

I hope you won't get mad at me for writing this letter, but you always told me never to keep back anything that ought to be brought out in the open. So, here goes. Remember the other day when my team was playing and both of you were sitting and watching.

Well, mom and dad, I hope you won't get mad at me but you embarrassed me. Remember when I went after the puck in front of the net trying to score and fell. Well, mom, I ?could hear you yelling at the goalie for getting in the way and tripping me. Shucks, it wasn't his fault, that's what he's supposed to do.

But what really got me, was what happened after the game. You shouldn't have jumped on the coach for pulling me off the ice. He's a pretty good hockey coach and a real swell guy. Besides, he's just a volunteer coming down at all hours of the day to help us kids, just because he likes sports.

I tried awfully hard but I guess kam just a lousy player. But I love to play hockey. It's a lot of fun being with the other kids and learning to compete in a real good sport.

Both gosh, mom and dad, how can I learn if you don't show me a good example? And anyhow, I thought I was playing for fun, to have a good time and to learn sportsmanship. I didn't know you were going to get so upset because I couldn't become a star. Love, Your Son.

MACLD chapter's workshop focuses on behavior in kids

A workshop on behavior modification will be held Nov. 15, beginning at 7:30 p.m., in the cafeteria of Pioneer Middle School in Plymouth

Harold E. Weiner, Ph.D., and Judith B. Weiner, MA, will conduct the workshop being sponsored by the Plymouth, Canton, Northville chapter of the Michigan Association for Children with Learning Disabilities

Weiner, who earned his BA, MA and Ph.D. from Michigan State University, has been an assistant professor in special education at Oakland University from 1975 to the present.

During this working experience,

Weiner has dealt extensively with parents of exceptional children. He has both counseled and developed programs for parents.

Ms. Weiner has had a background of 11 years in education, ranging from a teacher in junior high math in Detroit to her current position as regional learning specialist for western Wayne

THE WEINER'S presentation will focus on the development of a behavior management system which parents can use immediately with their Development of appropriate rules and procedures at home along with concomitant reinforcement procedures will be discussed.

The MACLD meeting is free and open to the public. The local chapter is dedicated to finding and helping children with hidden handicaps—the child whose learning performance does not measure up to his or her's learning capabilities.

Chapter meetings are held on the third Wednesday of each month, from September through May but excluding December and April, in the cafeteria of Pioneer Middle School at 46081 Ann Arbor Road, Plymouth.

Parent advisors are at the meetings to aid new members.

Red Cross and Salvation Army benefit from fund

Bad news and human tragedy.

That's what people usually associate with the American Red Cross and the Salvation Army because when tragedy strikes, these two agencies tend to be first on the scene with massive relief efforts to supply victims with food, clothing and shelter.

The Salvation Army rendered emergency aid to 437 individuals in 1977 in the form of fuel, rent and transportation plus counseling, referral, and home visits.

At Christmas, some 48 Salvation Army volunteers visited more than 2,000 persons and delivered more than 100 food baskets and 59 orders of toys and clothing.

The League of Mercy, a group of 29 volunteers who visit and work with shut-ins, made monthly visits to 1,237 persons in six local institutions and distributed gifts at Christmas.

BUT THE ORGANIZATION does not limit its programs to people with hardships.

Some examples are Sunbeams, a scouting-type program for girls aged 6-12, a recreation and craft kids club, and a social and service club for teenagers.

A free drop-in nursery school at the Army's headquarters, 290 Fairground, Plymouth, continues to thrive. An average of 20 preschoolers attend the two-hour morning sessions, while mothers take turns lending assistance. The program affords some free mornings to the mothers while boosting the children's learning and social skills before they start kindergarten.

The Plymouth Corps also is able to refer people to areawide services of the metropolitan Salvation Army. The newly opened Evangeline Family Shelter is such a service offered to residents of the tri-county area.

WHILE THE Salvation Army collects food and clothing for the needy, the Red Cross solicits another important human resource-blood.

Blood drives are one of the Red Cross's largest ongoing effort, with collection sites scheduled periodically at local schools, businesses, churches and commercial establishments throughout the year. The agency has been appointed the sole supplier of blood and blood products in southeastern Michigan.

The Red Cross also offers one of the county's most active and comprehensive water safety instruction programs, certifying nearly 100,000 adults and children in swimming. small craft handling, and first aid in this part of the state each year.

Both of these agencies benefit from the single annual fundraising drive now being conducted by the Plymouth Community Fund.

Donations may now be sent to the Plymouth Community Fund, P. O. Box 356, Plymouth 48170 or made through payroll deduction.

Caring for ill at home

A day-long seminar on the rehabilitation of the physically impaired patient at home will be presented Saturday under the sponsorship fo the Plymouth Registered Nurses Association. Helen Millen, R.N. of the Kenny Rehabilitation Foundation and Wayne State University faculty, will conduct the program.

The seminar will be held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the auditorium of Plymouth Canton High. Bring a sack lunch; beverages will be provided. The seminar is free of charge.

Those who have responsibility for or care about improving the health of a chronically ill or injured person are welcome to attend. Ms. Millen will be teaching practical measures necessary to avoid deterioration of the bedbound person and is supportive of independence in self-care including pressure sore prevention, exercise for joint mobility, safe lifting, home modification and more.

Six continuing education credits may be earned by registered nurses attending the program.

The humor in news

By W.W. EDGAR

If a fellow took the time to save all to the office and issued an order that the orders he received from his managing editor and then had the patience to record how they were carried out, he would have the ingredients for a novel that would reveal the oftentimes humorous side of the journalism profession.

Many times, during his leisure hours, The Stroller chuckles as he travels down memory lane and recalls some of the odd experiences he has had along the way.

One that always comes to mind happened during the football season when the Detroit Lions were riding high and were the topic of conversation at all the popular luncheon places.

After one of these sessions at the Detroit Athletic Club, the late Malcolm Bingay, then the editorial director of the Detroit Free Press, returned left everyone stunned.

THE BULLETIN, placed on the board in the sports department, stated that there was to be no publicity on the Lions games during the week-even if they were in a train wreck.

Under no conditions shall stories of their games run more than half a column, the order stated, and there is to be no eight column line on the results of their games.

Fine. It was an order. And when Bingay gave an order it was a command that had to be carried out.

Everything went fine, that is, until Sunday's game. On that afternoon in the old University of Detroit Stadium, the Lions won the league title.

It was the biggest story of the day. Ordinarily, it would have been given top place on the sports pages. But never to be mentioned in a story. there was Bingay's order.

There was a quick meeting of the minds on how it could be handled. We came up with the idea that the Lion victory made Detroit the City of Champions. And that was the lead story in which the exploits of the Tigers, the Red Wings who won their league titles, Dick Degener, the diving champion and Eddie Tolan, the Olympic sprint champion, were listed. Little mention was made of the Lions' winning effort. It was odd, but Bingay's orders were carried out.

ON ANOTHER occasion it so happened that the paper had a falling out with the Colonial Clothes Shop, one of the big men's wear establishments.

As a result an order came down that the name "Colonial Clothes" was

When The Stroller received that command, he hastened to Bingay's office to tell him that the Colonial Clothes team was playing Grennan Cakes for the city sandlot championship and he didn't know what to do.

"You read the order," Bingay stated and that was it.

Came Sunday and wouldn't you know the Colonial team won the title. Again there was a meeting of the minds in the sports room with the result that the following eight column line appeared in the Monday editions: "Grennan Cakes fail in late bid for

So you see there is plenty of humor and drama in the workings behind the scenes in the newspaper offices in the land and the exposure would make a fine novel.

WSU asks for $108 million '79-80 budget

A 1979-80 operating budget request to the state legislature of $108.3 million was recently approved by the Wayne State University Board of Governors.

The request represents an increase of $18.3 million over the 1978-79 appropriation of nearly $90 million.

One-half of the requested increase is to make the necessary economic adjustments for compensation, inflation and utility rate increases, according to WSU officials, The other half represents proposed program improvements.

Ravitz advises

Political power propels help

Get political, was the advice Mel Ravitz handed to those attending a recent meeting of the Wayne County Association for the Retarded in John Glenn High School, Westland.

Director of the Detroit-Wayne County Community Mental Health Service, he stressed that political power is the best way to get for the retarded what they need.

"Politics is not a dirty game," said Ravitz, former president of the Detroit Common Council. "It is the means by which decisions are made on who gets what. If you're not organized you, you don't get what you want.

What particularly concerned Ravitz that night was the fact that Wayne County might lose as much as $13 million from the state because it might not be able to come up with enough matching funds.

About $25 million was due to go to the county service headed by Ravitz. It distributes the money under contracts to mental community community programs in mental health, and programs for the retarded and other groups. Ravitz claimed that a legal bookkeeping transaction could solve the problem, and enable the county to come up with the $2.4 million it needed to qualify for the $25 million.

He urged members of his audience who were parents of the retarded or professionals in the field to contact their county commissioners.

He suggested they tell them that $1.4 million could be taken from the county's patient account and transferred to the community program thus giving it the money it needed to qualifv for the $25 million.

A week later the county had taken the action necessary to bring the full

The problem was resolved by consolidating the community based program with the institutional care program." reported Edward Babowski, county

We were pleased the commissioners decided to merge the funds to allow the county to keep the $13 million it would have had to turn back, if the county could come up with only part of the matching funds," said

"I think a good number of people must have contacted their county commissioners urging them to take large institutions into small community residences was the main topic discussed by other speakers at the meeting. Marjorie Green, manager of the special housing section of the Michigan State Housing Development Authority, and James Glick, director of Alternative Intermediate Services for the Mentally Retarded, each spoke of the progress their agency was making in constructing the smaller, more personal types of homes for the

The housing authority has 20 homes in operation with four under construction. In 1976 the authority committed itself to the building of another 40 homes in the state. Most of them will house about 12 residents with construction costs expected to be from $350,000 to $400,000 apiece.

"The entire thrust of our program is not just to provide safety and sanitation to our residents," said Ms. Green. "Our goal is to give a higher level of services to residents so they can become more independent, get training and participate in community day programs. They will have more independent lives.

We need groups to form nonprofit corporations that will take on a twoyear developmental program for one of these homes with the housing authority, she stated. "The authority will provide a 100 per cent loan and start-up money so the corporation can purchase land and get going." she continued. 'We require an $8,000 funding commitment, so the corporation can demonstrate its fund raising ability."

SIX IS THE NUMBER of residents the AIS plans to place in the small residential units it is planning in the state. Three of these homes are "almost ready to go up" in Westland, Redford Township and Inkster.

In his speech Glick, who lives in Plymouth, pointed out why it was important for the mentally retarded to move into small residential units. He explained that when Scandanavian countries placed their developmentally disabled persons in small, living units, they did not "develop all the bizarre. inappropriate behaviors that typify many retarded citizens in our large institutions.

He added: "I think that the reason we have the best research or treatment of abnormal behavior is because another look at the problem and not we have possibly the worst living conleave us short in capturing state ditions for our developmentally disabled population.

ment are that it enhances a faster rate of learning, and involves the retarded person in the mainstream of the community.

It makes the most of their human and normal qualities and provides them with normal routines and normal developmental experiences.

When Glick worked as a psychologist in an institution in Fort Wayne, Ind., he saw such sights as 56 naked people lined up to take a shower, and 112 people standing in line for each and every meal.

"It was shocking to witness all the other neglectful, de-personalized institutional living conditions," he

THE HOMES DEVELOPED by AIS have three bedrooms for six persons. In addition to a barrier-free bathroom and kitchen, the homes will also have a dining room, living room, laundry room, a half-bath and a small records room to document progress.

They will be funded by the state. However, if they meet federal standards for care, 50 per cent of the cost will be reimbursed by the federal government.

The residents must either be in school or in such day programs as work activity center or shelter workshops. They will be supervised by a staff of two.

Certain members of the community have objected to these residences and have used zoning laws to exclude them. However, recent zoning regulations voted by the state legislature prohibit discrimination against small residential homes serving mentally handicapped persons. At the same time regulations protect residential communities agains excessive concentration of these homes.

Mel Ravitz of the Community Mental Health Service urged advocates for the retarded to "get political" to push their programs. They did. (Staff photo)

Gala concert

Tom Bergeron is musician, composer and founder of Antares, a jazz ensemble. Two original pieces by Bergeron will be a part of Antares' program for the Michigan Artists' Gala Concert at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 7, at Orchestra Hall in Detroit. The concert also features the Verdehr Trio, soprano Betty Lane, planist Tibor Szasz and the Jongleurs. Tickets are available at Orchestra Hall, 833-3700, and all Hudson's stores.

• Belly dancing Saturday night

An evening of authentic belly danc ing will be held at 8 p.m. Saturday ir the Recreation Organization Center (ROC). The event is a fundraiser for the pledge class of the campus' Alpha Kappa Psi fraternity.

"Belly dancing used to be viewed as an exotic entertainment intended only for men's enjoyment," notes Gail Brancheau, pledge class president. "However, over the past several years there has been a growing appreication for it as an art form that requires an amazing amount of muscle control. We hope our event will provide the local community with an opportunity to experinece something different culturally without traveling very far.

The featured dancer will be Samira. a local professional who has studied extensively and has performed in clubs, on television and at Detroit's Ethnic Festival. She will be accompanied by Alishan and Sylvane, also professional dancers, and the music group Armenian Caravan.

A combination of Indian, Middle Eastern and Greek movements will be used by the dancers.

Tickets are $1 in advance at the ROC information desk, or $1.50 at the door. For more information call the office of student life at 593-5390.

The campus is located on Evergreen south of Ford Road.

Piano concert Monday night

Stephen Smith, a pianist from Wisconsin, will perform at 8 p.m. Monday in the Fair Lane Conference Center.

Mozart's "C Minor Fantasy," several Chopin "Etudes" and Mussorgsky's "Pictures at an Exhibition" will highlight the program

Smith is currently head of the piano department and chairman of the fine arts division at Carthage College in Kenosha, Wis. He has been a doctoral teaching fellow in piano at the University of Michigan and has served on the faculty of Albany Junior College in Georgia and Elon College in North Carolina.

Smith, who has performed with nationally known symphonies, received his degree from U-M, where he studied with Gyorgy Sandor.

The free concert is sponsored by UM-D's cultural events committee.

• Fair Lane tours Sundays

The historic Fair Lane Conference Center, former home of auto pioneer Henry Ford, is open for public tours 1-4:30 p.m. Sundays. Fees for the guided tours are $2 for adults and $1 for children, senior citizens and students.

Visitors to the 56-room mansion are shown the room where Ford died in 1947, the gathering room, Ford's library and private bowling alley and the power house which ran all of the utilities for the house.

Fair Lane, built by Ford in 1915 for $1.8 million, is now owned by the University of Michigan-Dearborn. Visitors can stroll through the gardens and grounds surrounding the home, which sits on the banks of the Rouge River.

Arrangements can be made for groups to tour the house during the week by calling 593-5590.

Lunch is served Monday through Friday from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. in The Pool, a room which once housed Ford's 50-foot swimming pool.

Holograms exhibited

The traveling exhibition of the Museum of Holography, which has been referred to as "Technological Tut," will be in Renaissance Center through Nov. 29.

Titled "Through the Looking Glass" after the museum's inaugural exhibition, it constitutes the first major display of holography available for wide circulation in North America.

Holography is a technique which uses lasers to create three-dimensional images that appear to be solid reproductions of the original object. Some holograms even seem to move as the viewer moves around them.

The show also contains two historic holograms, including "Train and Bird," the first hologram ever made with a laser, produced in 1964 at the University of Michigan. The other is "Pum II," the first black and white hologram, made in 1976. It paved the way for color control of future holograms.

The "Technological Tut" nickname comes from the popularity which the exhibit has experienced in other cities. The exhibit presents a thorough and entertaining introduction to holography for the general public.

The exhibition is in the Renaissance Events Center on the second lobby level between Towers 200 and 300. It is open 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sundays. Admission is $1.50 for adults and $1 for senior citizens and children

Racial play makes uptight cast

Miscegenation and the misplaced suffering it caused in the deep south is a popular theme in novels romanticizing life on a southern plantation.

One of the most powerful American dramatic interpretations returns of this theme returns to the stage when the Eastern Michigan University Players present their version of Langston Hughes' "Mulatto" at 8 p.m. Nov. 2-4 in EMU's Quirk Auditorium.

The play, originally written as part of the Federal Theater Project during the Depression, had the longest run of any play by a black playwright on Broadway until "A Raisin in the Sun"

IT IS SET in the 1930s in Georgia and explores the slave-master relationship of a white plantation owner, his black mistress and their four children.

An untimely homecoming brings chaos and bedlam to the plantation when the youngest son comes home from school.

Included in the production are stu-Jents Helen Slaven of Garden City, who is the assistant director, and Kevin Springer of Westland, who plays the part of William Lewis.

The play surrounds the colonel and his mistress, Cora, and one of their children—the youngest son, Robert,' explained director Marvin Sims. 'Bert' goes away to school and he gets an idea of what life is like outside of the plantation. "He gets a taste of what it is like to have freedom and to have individual rights and privileges. When he comes home, he brings his outside influences

'It is kind of tense, especially for Paul, who has to play the colonel. He has to say all kinds of derogatory things about the "darkies" who work on the plantation.'

-Director Marvin Sims and we find they just don't work." Though set in the 30s, Sims said that the old "plantation rules" of the 18th and 19th centuries still apply to the setting of the play. "You could easily imagine it is set in 1865," he said.

The colonel and Cora live together in the plantation house despite societal pressures. One of the problems in directing the play, with a cast of 11, brought some of those sensitivities to

"The whole idea of having an interracial cast for this play was a problem in itself. Normally we have all black productions and interracial productions, but in this instance we have interracial relationships as husband and wife, father and daughter and father and son," Sims explained.

Was the play difficult for a student cast? Sims says yes.

"It has been difficult to get into the whole racist mode. It is kind of tense. especially for Paul who has to play the colonel. He has to say all kinds of derogatory things about the 'darkies' who work on the plantation," Sims

"THE WHOLE IDEA of physically touching each other in the play is sometimes tense for students, too. As a director I could sit in the audience and actually see the tenseness. They're getting over it but those things were very evident at the outset of the play. The whole idea of the acting process is taking over now."

When Sims noticed that the students were having problems relating to each other because of interracial hangups, he took action.

"We talked about it, discussed it and put it out into the open. I like directing that way and talking with my actors and questioning them about their characters and finding out about things they feel uncomfortable about. It's good to go back and forth on a few things," he said.

Tickets for "Mulatto" are available in the EMU Quirk box office weekdays 12:30-4:30 p.m. General admission tickets are $3.50. For further information, or to make a reservation, call the box office at 487-1221.

rice Ravel, Darius Milhaud, Richard Stoltzman, the Guarneri String Quartet and, significantly, with Crumb. He's one of the best. He's also one of the most interesting. "Music," he has said, "is the cell from which sprang science and language.

He's fascinated with the origins of things. "It is sometimes of interest to a composer to recall the original impulse—the 'creative germ'— of a composition.

That could be a line of a poem by Lorca, his favorite, or a chance hearing of a recording of whales singing.

HIS MUSIC TAKES YOU on a trip to the essence of things. "I am fascinated by sounds so incredibly fragile you almost doubt their existence as noteswhisperings on the flute, harmonics on the piano, barely bowing the violin-a kind of crumbling, as it were, of sound." (Pun intended, he lets you know with a grin).

He describes a short motif of five notes, which appears throughout "Echoes of Autumn," as "a generative element or cell." Somehow you want to hear him and Edward O. Wilson. the infamous sociobiologist, talking. Of course science sings-or, the world sings, and scientists and musicians strange. The pianist is inside the lid half the time, thwacking, stroking, plucking the strings, knocking against the metal, against the wood. This quiet stuff isn't as demanding for the pianist as Crumb's "Macrocosmos," a stunning work based on the signs of the zodiac, but no matter. There's enough to hold your interest.

Each player gets to vocalize, whistle, hum go "schewewewewew." In "Dream Sequence," Mr. and Mrs. Warren Schwayder (she's Joan Freeman of Cranbrook's American Artist Series) are backstage stroking the wet rims of wine glasses to make them tremble and ring. Kaplan, playing perucssion borrowed from the Detroit4 Symphony's Bob Panghorn and the "Timbuktu" band, uses his violin bow along the edge of the cymbols. Mrs. Schwayder's mother, next to me, listens, birdlike, attentive. "It's fun," she says. "We're so immersed in traditional music today," says Crumb, "that we're not thinking how astonishing things were in previous centuries when instruments were changing to fit music's demands. Imagine a new piano designed to extend the possibilities that composers want."

For what he wants, I envision something out of a Dr. Seuss book.

THE SCORES AREN'T traditional looking, either. There are squares of notes, or circles, like islands in the sea. It's symbolic, poetic notation, says the composer.

"Showing shapes of music is an old Renaissance idea." A performer comments, "It's so pretty, you don't know whether to play it or frame it.'

With all this, you would expect George Crumb to look like a wizard, a microbiologist, or a mad scientist. He's full of mischief, true, but more like Mark Twain. There's an almost Chaplinesque air about him. He's disarming, a comfortable man, and you can imagine a relaxed afternoon's talk in the backyard, wood waiting unsplit while you penetrate the mysteries of microtones, glissandi and the theatrical effect of motions that make

The sounds are new, but ancient, the man unassuming, friendly, full of fun-and both man and music are good for the spirit of curiosity in all of us.

The Birmingham Theatre... Will it sink or swim?

Losers

Ray Bolger's first show was cancelled but his second scheduled performance was a hit. Celeste Holm (right) starred in a show which was a critical success but a box office bomb.

An uphill struggle follows theater's smash opening

By ETHEL SIMMONS

Running a legitimate theater can be excitingwith Broadway, Hollywood and television stars on stage. But Gary Deeb, a partner in the Birmingham Theatre, finds the business is tough going

The old vaudeville theater was primarily a movie house until it became a legitimate theater last May under Deeb and his partners, Ernest and

The theater got its start in May when comedian David Brenner, the opening attraction, sold out the house for six shows.

"I was spoiled," said Deeb, recalling that first successful booking, because other shows since then with the exception of Martin Mull in concert and the musical "Bubbling Brown Sugar") have not been money-makers.

- THE BIRMINGHAM Theatre has booked everything from internationally renowned jazz concert stars to name entertainers who headline shows in Las Vegas. Broadway plays, as well as musicals. also have been presented.

And although Celeste Holm, starring in a onewoman show, "Paris Was Yesterday," was a critical success, the play bombed at the box office.

Another flop was country entertainer Emmet The Birmingham Theatre opened its first subscription season in September with the lavish Las Vegas revue. "Les Girls, Les Girls," starring singer Tony Martin and his wife, dancer Cyd Of "Les Girls," Deeb said, "It's been the biggest gross so far, but it cost so much we didn't make

Deeb said many shows at the Birmingham

Theatre have cost about $50,000, and "Les Girls" obviously exceeded that figure.

Deeb said other theater owners told him the Birmingham'Theatre will be lucky if it breaks even in "Our goal has been to operate in the black after 12 months," Deeb said.

THE FIRST subscription season continues with the John Houseman Acting Company presenting three plays in repertory Deeb said he is upset about what he believes is lack of support by the Birmingham City Commission and the public. But, he said, both have been concerned about whether the Birmingham Theatre will bring quality and family entertainment to Birmingham. "We're having trouble selling tickets for the Houseman Company, which is the finest acting company in the country today," he said. "Where are the people who want quality? We're keeping our part of the bargain."

The theater originally tried to get approval from the city commission for a liquor license allowing alcoholic beverages to be sold to theatergoers dur-

That request was withdrawn after some controversy, and the partners instead announced they would open a French restaurant next door to the theater, if they could obtain a liquor license.

A play and dinner package would combine "a beautiful French dinner and an excellent play."

Disappointed about the city's seeming lack of enthusiasm, he declared that if the theater doesn't get the license, "We may just decide as business people, the hell with it.'

That would be the end of the Birmingham Theatre as a legitimate theater, and the space would be converted to other businesses. Deeb said.

For the folks backstage, it's never a dull moment

By ETHEL SIMMONS

Ray Bolger, that grand old man of song and dance, speaks highly of the Birmingham Theatre. even though the theater cancelled one of his two shows last August.

Bolger had arrived at the Birmingham Theatre in August to appear on Friday and Saturday night. "They hadn't even sold 100 tickets," he said last week in a telephone interview.

"I walked all over downtown Detroit and had people stop me on the street and ask what I was doing in town.

A LACK OF pre-publicity was blamed for people not knowing that Bolger was coming. "When they (the public) heard I was there, they came bouncing in," he declared.

Gary Deeb, one of the theater owners, said Bolger was Mr. Nice Guy, who tore up the original contract and said, "What can you afford?"

Asked about this incident, Bolger responded, "Nobody should lose any money. I didn't care about that. Mr. Deeb is trying very hard. I have a great deal of respect for him.

Turning the tables, Bolger continued, "He couldn't have been a nicer person or a more honest person. The main thing is for the theater to get started so people can see the shows.

Bolger said the Birmingham Theatre has a quality of intimacy. "It felt like it had been lived in.

You felt the audience was with you. In his show, 74-year-old Bolger danced for an ecstatic crowd that would hardly let him off the stage or past the stage door.

"It's almost a community theater and a wonderful one," Bolger said. "I'd love to come back. The Birmingham Theatre attracts the true theater audience, Bolger said. Playing before larger crowds in bigger places can provide excitement, but "I'd rather do this for less money because there's a feeling of love and warmth." Even the Birmingham Theatre's biggest success story had its rough moments. Gary Deeb, who personally booked David Brenner as the opening attraction, remembers this "most traumatic

"I'll never forget it," Deeb said. "The day that happened here."

before Brenner opened his manager called and said Brenner had hurt his back and couldn't come. We said okay, if the man's ill. "Later they told us Brenner was so surprised by the way we reacted he decided to come anyhow. Brenner performed, visibly with a bad back, to

THE BIRMINGHAM Theatre has taken its lumps, however. The theater's former managing director Pierre LaMarre, who booked attractions through the first season, brought in Ann Corio's revue "This Was Burlesque.

Deeb said, "I asked if children could see it. My idea of burlesque was slapstick comedy. The next thing I knew, a stripper was stripping on stage."

He added that it would have been a terrible business decision to put on that kind of show after the problems caused when Plitt Theatres (the previous leasee) booked the nude Broadway revue "Oh, Calcutta!" That show resulted in a controversy which pitted Birmingham city officiials against the theatre owners. After court proceedings, "Oh, Calcutta!" was performed in

LaMarre resigned his position at the Birmingham Theatre after the run of "This Was LATER ON, many theatergoers were taken with surprise with "Les Girls, Les Girls," which featured bare-breasted showgirls in a Las Vegas revue starring Tony Martin and Cyd Charisse.

"After the first weel we had few calls or com-plaints about partial nudity," Deeb said. "Some people skipped the first half of the show and came after intermission.

"Les Girls, Les Girls" drew the biggest crowds to the theater. "We had 6,000 people in the theater during one week," Deeb said. The Birmingham Theatre also had problems with singer-dancer Joey Heatherton, who refused to perform on her opening night. "I read in Variety that she walked off the stage of the Sahara in Vegas complaining about the sound system," Deeb said. "That's the same thing

Boutique helps Mormons care for their own

By SHERRY KAHAN

If you are one of those who believe that homemade is better, then the place for you on Nov. 4 is the Livonia Mormon Market, where a great proportion of the items on sale will have been made by members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

The church is strongly family-oriented, and each family in the Livonia Ward it expected to pick an item and produce it during the year. Then on Nov. 4 they will bring the resulting products to the chapel at Six Mile and Merriman for sale from 10 a.m. to 6

Having an important role in this fund raising event for the church will be the women of the church, who have been turning out quilts, knitted and crocheted items and Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy dolls about three feet

Homemade sausage may also be purchased along with home-canned vegetables, jams, jellies and pickles.

Mormon women are big on turning out a healthy loaf of bread that is more than air, and the public will have a chance to test their skill in this art. But don't miss the other baked goods

Much of this work has been accomplished with the backing of the church's Relief Society, the organization works with church women to educate them, strengthen their faith and care for the poor, sick and unfortunate of the church.

"WE ADVOCATE THAT none of our members be on government relief." said Madelyn Bodily, president of the Relief Society. "There is no reason for them to be on welfare because the church has the social services to help them.

A custom of the church is to prepare for calamities by storing in the home a year's supply of food. "Last year we had no difficulties with food when the storm hit because we all had supplies on hand," noted Mrs. Bodily job. But if food is needed eventually, a special truck with food comes twice each month from Indianapolis to a parking lot in Dearborn. While some of it is food that can be purchased in any grocery store, most of it is processed by Mormons in welfare canning centers. There is one in Indianapolis and one to be constructed soon in Wixom.

The main work of the Relief Society is planning programs for the women of the church. There are separate projects for women 18 and over, for young single adult women, for married women and for any women over 25 who is divorced, widowed or single.

Church women are generally referred to as sisters and there are 153 of them who come under Mrs. Bodily's jurisdiction.

Working with her on education is Mary Loosle, with Marie Chamberlain assigned to homemaking. Joyce Falkner is y secretary-treasurer, taking the responsibility for society funds and keeping track of the women's attendance at church, Sunday school and relief society meetings.

MRS. LOOSLE AND MRS. CHAM-

BERLAIN HAVE have the big job of preparing for the weekly Wednesday morning meeting of the society at the chapel. These which take place from 9:30-11 a.m. are open to the public. They are repeated on Sunday from 9-10:30 a.m. for those women who are

Spiritual living is a topic explored by the women once a week through the works of the Book of Mormon, the King James Version of the Bible, the works of Mormon prophet Joseph Homemaking is also taken up at one meeting each month. Budgeting decisions are examined along with nutrition, sewing and first aid. Mini lessons are designed to help women in their role of housewife and mother. They can learn to cook and make tasty salomi and quilts. Or they can take up oil painting or flower arrangements.

A nursery school program geared to pre-schoolers of three different ages is held while the women meet.

Other topics examined in the weekly meetings is one called mother education which stresses family tradition. patriotism, preparing for a new baby and teenage problems, and social relations involving self-esteem, and leadership potential.

The fourth weekly meeting takes the women to far off countries through books and film strips. They learn cultural differences, art, music, history and language of a number of THE WOMEN HAVE a sense of solidarity with their Mormon sisters in other lands. "We can go to a ward anywhere in the world," said Mrs. Loosle, "and our sisters there would be studying the same lesson we are." "When I was in Argentina, the women were going over the same lesson in Spanish, and adapting it to their culture," added Mrs. Bodily. Members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints divide themselves into geographical wards and stakes. Belonging to the Westland

MADELYN BODILY

Stake are the Livonia, Plymouth, Dearborn, Park View, Oakwood and Monroe wards. Soon to be added is the Westland Ward. Expected to open before the first of the year is the Westland Stake Center on Hix, south of Joy

Religion Calendar

CLARENCEVILLE UNITED METHODIST CHURCH, 20300 Middlebelt, Livonia, will present the Rev. Joe Garlington, musical evangelist, in an event Sunday through Tuesday, Nov. 5-7, titled "Three Days of Praise."

The visiting preacher will lead songs and worship at 9 and 11:15 a.m. Sunday and at 7 p.m. Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

A graduate of Washington Bible College, he pastored two churches in the nation's capital before joining two other pastors to form the Three Rivers Fellowship, a non-denominational charismatic

He now takes his ministry to meetings, conferences and college assemblies and has appeared on the Christian Boradcasting Network's 700 Club. He also has made an album, "I Exalt Thee."

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH OF PLYMOUTH, 45000 N. Territorial, will host an area-wide rally at 3 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 5. The speaker will be the Rev. John E. Rumohr, American Baptist missionary to Zaire, Africa, and there will be special music by the host church choirs and Diane Bingham of Ypsilanti.

ST. PAUL PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, Five Mile west of Inkster, Livonia, will summarize with reports and slides its local and world-wide mission program as part of services on Sunday, Nov. 5.

Elder Eugene Klimeck will speak for the church's stewardship committee as the slide presentation shows how money is used in the work of the local church, the Detroit Presbytery and the Synod and the world.

MAIN STREET BAPTIST CHURCH, 9451 S. Main, Plymouth, will present a gospel sing with the Cedar Ridge Quartet from Knoxville at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 4. The concert is free and the community invited.

GRAND RIVER BAPTIST CHURCH, 34500 Six Mile, Livonia, will offer a night of music under the directions of its new music director and organist. Ray Shuster Jr. and Gerald Goslin, at 7 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 5.

The evening will feature singing groups, instrumental selections and congregational hymnsinging.

Shuster, whose appointment as director of music was announced recently by the Rev. Wilbert D. Gough, pastor, and Mrs. Harry Burdi, music committee chairperson, is chairman of the music department at Detroit Bible College, Farmington Hills. He holds degrees from Wheaton College, Wayne State University and the University of Goslin teaches piano, organ, voice, theory and conducting at Peralta Music Studios, Farmington Hills, and is studying music at Wayne State.

ST. INNOCENT ORTHODOX CHURCH, 23300 W. Chicago, Redford Township, will serve an oldfashioned Stuffed Cabbage Dinner 1-4 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 5.

The dinners will cost $3.50 for adults and $2 for children. The church is located three blocks east of Telegraph.

ST. ANDREW EPISCOPAL CHURCH, 16360 Hubbard, Livonia, will host its 18th annual bazaar and craft show 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 9.

The event will feature the wares of more than 35 dealers, a buffet luncheon 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and a beef burgandy dinner beginning at 6 p.m.

Getting settled made simple.

How can game biologists make such predictions? Each spring DNR recruits its own people and fellows like rural mail carriers to make spot checks at specified times of day. They listen for the cackle of male pheasants who crow about their success with the ladies. From those cackles they can predict how many baby pheasants there will be.

This year the predictions were all too correct.

WHAT WOULD life in Michigan be like without mice?

Foxes and coyotes feed on them. Owls and birds of prey relish them. Snakes enjoy them if they (the snakes) are big enough.

Michigan has 10 species of mice. The mouse's bad reputation comes from two non-native species-the house mouse and the big, grey Norway rat. *

Native mice are mostly cute fellows. My hunting partner, C.O. Jones, used to keep a field mouse as a pet. The mouse's home was a tall, old-fashioned bird cage; his bedding and climbing rope was an ancient sweatshirt; food was Indian corn, nuts, seeds, berries and fruit.

In the woods, mice are believed to be responsible for the disappearance of shed deer antlers and the small bones of mammal and bird skeletons.

So important is the mouse as a food supply that he has to be a prolific creature. Gestation period is 21 days, and they have several litters a year.

Michigan is home to two species of jumping mice-the meadow jumping mouse and the woodland jumping

Rocks get scare; nip East by 3

Undefeated Plymouth Salem proved it could win under pressure on a foreign court Tuesday when it edged Garden City East 48-45 in the Panther

With less than a minute remaining and the Rocks down by one point, 45-44, junior Cheryl Sobkow forced a jump ball and won the tip.

Salem advanced it down the court where senior Erin Moore took an outside shot in an attempt to put the Rocks ahead.

Moore missed the shot, but junior Patty Weidman grabbed the offensive rebound and converted a lay up to give the Rocks the lead.

Weidman later stole the ball and was fouled as time ran out. She converted two free throws with no time on the clock to preserve the Rock victory.

Garden City East displayed exceptional quickness against the slower but bigger Salem squad. The Panthers used this speed to race to a 15-6 first quarter lead.

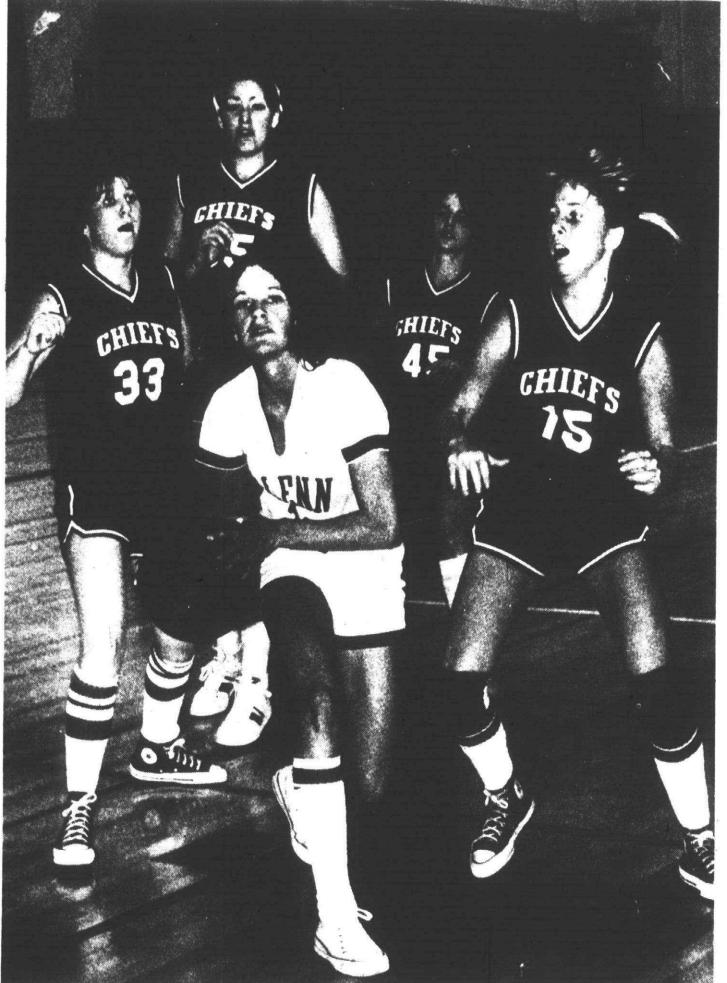

Salem, 14-0 and 7-0 in the Suburban Eight League, used its overall depth to turn the non-league game around in the second quarter

The Rocks, using eight players to only six for the Panthers, outscored East 15-7 in the second stanza to pull within one point at halftime, 22-21.

The game remained close throughout the seco Salem is idle Thursday but resumes Sub-8 action next Tuesday at home against Dearborn Edsel Ford. Then comes the big rematch with Livonia Bentley two days later on the Bulldog court

Cross-league clashes highlight grid week

By DENNIS O'CONNOR Sports Editor

The ninth and final week of prep football action has finally arrived, and for Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton it means two cross league contests pitting teams from the Western Six League against those from the Suburban Eight League.

The Chiefs, currently 4-4 overall, close out the season by hosting Dearborn Edsel Ford at the Centennial Park Friday night beginning at 7:30 p.m.-one half hour earlier than the normal starting time.

The Rocks, 7-1 overall, travel to Farmington Harrison Saturday afternoon for their rivalry with the Hawks starting at 2 n m

CANTON originally scheduled Dearborn High for this final Friday night date but agreed to play Edsel Ford. instead, because of scheduling problems earlier in the year when Dearborn passed a late millage vote.

While it seems this was a smart scheduling move on the part of the Chiefs—especially after last week's 19-0 Dearborn victory over Edsel Ford-Canton still has the problem of contending with the overwhelming size of the 5-3 Thunderbirds. "When you get them down to a three-point stance, they're all the same size," said Canton coach Dave Schüele. "I just hope we can keep them down there "We've got to do everything super to have a chance." the Canton coach admitted. "If we get ahead, we'll just have to get the clock running faster. The Thunderbirds are down and they are hurt. After a fast 4-0 start, they have lost their last three out of four games and finished in fourth place in the Sub-8 standings.

Canton, however, broke a two-game losing streak last week with a 30-14 non-league victory over Garden City East. The Chiefs finished fifth in the Western-6 two weeks ago with a 1-4 record.

One of the main reasons for Canton's fourth victory last week was the surprise move of putting star halfback

Canton soaks Tractors

Plymouth Canton girls swim coach Anne Massey had the luxury of experimenting with many different combinations during each race, as the Chiefs defeated Dearborn Fordson 43-40 Tuesday night in non-league action at the Tractor pool.

"It was a fine meet," said Massey. "We were able to switch girls around (in different events). We knew we could beat them so we kept it close." Canton's overall record is now 5-3-1 for the season

Cindy Shelanskey, Kim Massey, Mary Reardon and Julie Straton started the meet by winning the 200-yard individual medley in 2:14.4.

Massey, a sophomore, went on to win both the 200-yard individual medley and 100-yard breaststroke races in times of 2:31.0 and 1:19.1

Reardon was another double winner for the Chiefs. She won the 50-yard freestyle sprint in :29.6, and took the 500-yard freestyle distance in Missy McMurray won the 100-yard freestyle in

1:06.2, while Chris Wennerburg placed first in the diving competition with 150 points. Jamie Zuverink, Canton's top diver, was ill and did not com-Second place finishers included Jerry Norris

SALEM-STEVENSON When is the last time you remember the Plymouth Salern girls swim team losing two meets in a row? After getting crushed by Harrison last Thursday, the Rocks lost to Livonia Stevenson 87-85 Tuesday night.

Although the Rocks remain undefeated in Suburban Eight League action, they have had trouble with non-league opponents, as their record slipped to 7-4 after the setback to the Spartans.

Salem coach Chuck Olson said his girls swam well but always stayed one or two points behind the tough Steveson squad. The Spartans were the only team to defeat the Rocks in regular season

The Rocks face Trenton tonight in Sub-8 action starting at 7 p.m. It will be Salem's final home meet of the season

Sharon Ross was a bright spot for the Rocks, as she was a double winner against the Spartans.

She grabbed both the 200- and 500-yard freestyle races with times of 2:09.4 and 5:36.5.

Sarah Stanwood was the other Salem double winner, taking the 200-yard individual medley in 2:26.2 and the 100-yard butterfly in 1:03.1. Amy McClumphia moved within four points of a Salem diving record with a first-place total of 199.96 points. Teammate Patty Larson placed

The Rocks placed second in both relays, hurting their chances to overtake the Spartans. Other second-place finishers for Salem included Jill McCann (50-yard freestyle and 100-yard backstroke), and Sue Evans and Karen Kohler, who tied in the 100yard breaststroke.

Rusty Mandle at quarterback and switching regular signal caller Scott Dawson to split end.

"They were keying the hell out o?f him andle) so we thought we'd put him in the middle of the formation and let it go," Schuele said. Mandle played a little quarterback at the end of last season and was fimiliar to the Chiefs' veer-option offense from the 'pitching' position.

At this point of the season, Schuele is ready to pull out all the stops, as against East, to get the Chiefs over the 500 mark.

"We've got a little something for Edsel Ford," Schuele said, "We'll go the same way with Mandle and Dawson (and some other extras).

THE SALEM-HARRISON battle has turned into somewhat of a rivalry in recent years. Although this year's game is merely for pride between both teams and the respective leagues they represent, the two squads have figured ing of winless Bentley.

"It's always been a tough ball game and I don't expect anything different this time," said Salem coach Tom Moshimer. "We're runners-up in our conference and they're runners-up in

Who says Bo's against the pass?

By W. W. EDGAR

From the day that Bo Schembechler took over as football coach at the University of Michigan, he has stressed two things:

1) You can't lose if you keep the other team from scoring;

2) The best way to advance the ball is on the ground with a solid running

He scoffed at the use of the forward pass. In the Ohio State game of several years ago, with the ball on the Buckeye one yard line and a chance to win the Big Ten title and go to the Rose Bowl, he stubbornly had his backs pound unsuccessfully into the line. It was a sad finish, but he stuck to his guns and frowned on even a short pass over the line.

With that background, it is now most unusual to realize that this same Schembechler has developed a passer who has broken all school records. More than that, last week against Minnesota, the passer-Rick Leach-surassed the Michigan record of 200 completed passes first established by Don Moorehead when he was the Wolverine quarterback.

Aside from that, Rick threw three touchdown passes against the Gophers to set a team record for a single game and brought his career total to 39 scoring passes which shattered the Big T record held by Mike Phipps of Purdue. And he did all of this while playing only the first three quarters of the homecoming victory.

With four more games to play in the regular season, there is no telling how high Leach will boost the records for Naturally, he will carry most of the burden the rest of the way against Iowa this week and then in the closing ames with Northwestern, Purdue and Ohio State.

The Leach-Schembechler saga is indeed one of the most interesting features of the current season.

BENNIE'S BIG RUN

From the seat high up in the Michigan press box last Saturday, Bennie Oosterbann, the Wolverines' threetime All-American end, recalled one of his greatest moments on the gridiron. It was a play that caused a change in the rules.

"It was in 1926 up in Minnesota," Bennie recalled, "and we were taking a terrible beating from the heavier Gophers. We had been outplayed all

"Then came the fumble, I picked it up and ran 60 yards for the touchdown that gave us a 7-6 victory. Right after that the rules were changed so now a defensive player can not run with a fumbled ball.

"But I'll never forget that run." Ah, homecoming.

Radio action

WSDP-FM will air its final football broadcast of the season Friday night when the Chiefs of Plymouth Canton host Dearborn Edsel Ford at the Centennial Park gridiron.

Sports Director Jon Hewett will be there live with all the play-by-play action along with color commentary from Dave Meador. Broadcast time will begin at 7:20 p.m. with a pregame show followed by the live broadcast at 7:30 p.m.

There is a new star blazing across the bowling horizon, and it might be a good idea to keep your eye on her.

She is 16-year-old Aleta Rzepecki, a graduate of the junior leagues, who is causing a great deal of eyebrow lifting in the all-star leagues.

At the moment she is bowling in three leagues, and more than holding her own. In the Bowler

IN THE INVITATIONAL doubles at Merri-Bowl, Lil Dreguid was the lone bowler to better doublecentury figures

Her count of 610 was 16 pins better than Toni Smith, while Sue Sternette placed third with a 591.

In the gutter queens loop, Dianne Bennett was high with 581, and in the Strikes and Spares league Judy Provagna showed the way with a 231 in 485.

AT GARDEN LANES, Jim Holton slumped to 184 after games of 256 and 235, but his 675 was. enough to pace the St. John Bosco leazgue.

Next in line was Ben Koland with 629 and Don Bendell took third with a 615.

Only one pin seperated the two top bowlers in the Wayne County league where Frank Whitby landed on top with 629, and Jim Newton took second with 628.

Other double-century series included Tom Dahl's 614 and Larry Kline's 605.

GRACE MILLER walked off with top honors in the Livonia Ladies Classic when she won the third game with 198-33-231 and used that to win the series with 552-99-651

In the other games, Doris Macorkindale captured the opener with 197-37-234 and Delores Dowhan won the second with 211-37-248.

THE GIRLS have found the range at Farmington Lanes and are turning in good scores in various classics.

Last week, Jo Osborne showed the way with a 243 in 628 and was followed by Jan Schoenberg with 225 in 616 and Jan Vanderwill with 258 in 608. This week, Jerri Serdynski had a 258 in 619.

In the men's classic, Kevin Hibbs rolled a 234 in 657 and Neil Beckman had a 237 in 624, while in the high school league John Ponke was high with a 225

AMONG THE OTHER good performances was a 256 game by Jeff Craig in the junior league at Woodland Lanes. He is only 14 years old.

At Super Bowl, Steve Hubble showed the way in the junior house league with a 633. Meanwhile, Joe Bartos had a 256 in 623 and Dan Iowa posted a high single of 258 in a 591

At Plaza Lanes, Brad Coyle slumped to games of 191 and 169 after a 245 start for a 605.

DON MACHUTA came up with a 678 in the junior house league at Cloverlanes. Meanwhile, Barb Dettore shoed the way to the women with a 234 in 545. Jim Sterding had a 240 in 601 in the junior league and Robert Taylor, 12-years-old had a 228.

Churchill rolls past Franklin

Livonia Churchill demolished intracity rival Livonia Franklin last weekend, 20-0, in a non-league football contest. The victory gave the Chargers a perfect 8-0 season and prepared them for Friday's contest with Livonia

"Stevenson is a very good football team. Even though they were beaten 28-0 by Glenn, I expect an outstanding game," said Churchill coach Ken Churchill quarterback Rick Coppola added 52 yards on the ground and passed for 181 yards. So far this season, Coppola has passed for 742 yards and rushed for 373.

The turnover started a 60-yard Churchill drive. During the march down the field, Coppola and Lieholdt connected on two key passes. Mason finally iced the drive with a one-yard touchdown run. The extra-point kick missed and Churchill led 13-0.

Lieholdt scored the final Churchill touchdown with eight minutes left in the fourth period when he caught a screen pass from Coppola and scampered 30 yards into the endzone. Again, Coppola kicked the point-after.

"The key to our success in the first half was our defense. Burke and Dave Krivk were outstanding for us," Kaest-

Jerry Cifor led the Patriots' offensive attack with 120 yards in 13 carries. Other than that, Franklin was pretty well contained. "On offense, Coppola and Lieholdt CATHOLIC CENTRAL-AQUINAS Detroit Catholic Central had a few worries before it was able to defeat Southgate Aguinas, 31-14, last weekend in a non-league football contest.

The Shamrocks produced single touchdowns in each of the four quarters, while Aquinas scored one in the second period and one in the third.

Randy Larsen opened the scoring for OC on the first offensive series. The Shamrocks marched down the field 57 vards in 10 plays with Larsen scoring on a six-yard off-tackle run

Joe Rudzinski added CC's next touchdown on a three-yard run into the endzone. The play iced a 77-yard march down the field.

Larsen scored his second of three touchdowns midway in the third period when he dove up the middle from two yards out for the score. The play capped a 60-yard drive following an Aquinas punt.

Larsen put the game out of Aquinas' reach when he scored late in the fourth quarter on a four-yard offtackle run. The play came after the Shamrocks marched 40 yards following another Aguinas punt.

Larsen ran for 183 yards in 29 carries to pace the Shamrocks' offensive attack. With those 183 yards, Larsen topped the 1000-yard mark. He now has 1092 yards for the season.

Rudzinski added 63 yards in five carries and quarterback Mike Lewis completed two of seven passes. CC's total offense ran to 304 yards.

"I thought their kids (Aquinas) played real well. It was a tough game," said CC coach Thomas Mach. We dominated the first half both offensively and defensively.

"The offense came off the ball real well and the backs did a great job of running. I also thought the defense hit real well and contained Aquinas' offense," continued the coach.

CC will round out its 1978 season Saturday against Madison Heights Bishop Foley at Foley. Game time is 2 p.m.

"We really should have beaten them worse then we did. We controlled the game offensively," said Agatha coach John Goddard.

Al Baumgardner supplied the Aggies with their first touchdown early in the first quarter when he slipped into the endzone from four yards out for the touchdown. The play capped a 64-yard, nine-play drive. Agatha attempted to add two points on the conversion but was stopped short.

Early in the second quarter, St. Andrew tried a fake punt but the Aggies stopped the play and took over at the Flyers' 40 yard line.

From there, they drove to the four yard line with Tim Delaney finishing the drive on a trap play. Again, the two-point conversion attempt failed.

"Our defense really played well Dennis Wright was outstanding on defense for us," Goddard said. "We had to make a lot of changes on our offense, but things held together for us and overall the offense did very well."

Mark Szerlag collected 107 yards on the ground for the Aggies in 18 carries. Agatha tallied a total of 164 yards rushing. Sophomore quarterback Dean Fracasi hurled four passes and completed three.

"We had one touchdown called back on us and two other times we drove inside their 15 yard line only to be stopped," Goddard said.

Raiders eye perfect record

By TOM BAER

North Farmington's post-season football fate may be sealed about two hours before it takes the field for its regular-season finale next Saturday afternoon.

North Farmington, unbeaten through eight games this season, is contending for a place in the state Class A playoffs as a member of Region 3. Livonia Churchill and Detroit Northwestern are also contenders in Region 3. The top two teams in each of the state's four Class A regions will advance to the playoffs.

Unbeaten Churchill can grab a playoff spot if it can defeat once-beaten Livonia Stevenson next Friday night. Of much more importance to North Farmington will be the NorthwesternDetroit Northern game, set for 10 a.m. Saturday at Wayne State University. A victory for unbeaten Northwestern would ensure it of a playoff berth.

North Farmington will close out its regular season at home at 2 p.m. on Saturday against Farmington High, which has won only one game in eight outings.

Coach Ron Holland's North squad took another step toward an unbeaten season last Saturday, when it took a surprisingly-easy 35-0 victory from city-rival Farmington Harrison. Harrison, which fell to 5-3, had been expected to give the Raiders a battle.

North, however, dominated every phase of the game, rushing for 205 yards and passing for 177, while holding Harrison to 79 on the ground and none through the air.

JEFF COHEN, North's speedy tailback, scored three touchdowns, two coming on short runs, another on a 16yard pass play from quarterback Ron Fredericks.

Fredericks, who had missed the first six games this season because of an injury suffered in a pre-season scrimmage, also threw a 21-yard TD pass to end Ron Nutter. No. 2 QB Rich Burrell, who was injured in the same scrimmage, was healthy against Harrison, hitting Tom Herrington with a 26-yard scoring pass.

"For the past couple of weeks, Fredericks has been working awfully hard to regain his starting position," Holland said. "He's been throwing real well in practice. We've been spending a lot of time with all our quarterbacks on the running and the passing games."

North's passing game was impressive—10 completions in 17 attempt's with one harmless interception.

Harrison's passing game provided not one yard—0 for 10 with three key interceptions. Interceptions by Nutter and Jim Minhinnett set up North touchdowns. Coach Ralph Temby's alert Raider defense was led by junior tackle George Houttekier, who was awarded the game helmet for his outstanding play.

Mike Miller, another North tailback, led all rushers with 104 yards in 19 carries. Harrison's Dave Turnquist, who had been averaging more than 80 yards a game at tailback, gained only 29 yards in seven tries against North.

Harrison ends its season next Saturday at home against once-beaten Plymouth Salem. Game time is 2 p.m.

Jr. swimmers inch closer to 1st victory

The Plymouth-Canton Junior Swim Club continues to improve with each meet, losing by only 78 points to a tough Chelsea squad, 389-311, last week at the Plymouth Salem High School pool. The local swimmers are now 0-2 in league meet competition this season.

Plymouth-Canton first-place finishes in the medley relay included the 100-yard race for 9-10-year old boys where Paul Swartzinski. Charlie Triplett, Frank Wisniewski and Greg Wolff combined for a 1:19.6 clocking.

Tim Collins, Bob Bowling, Jeff Hancock and Jim Dillon won the 200-yard medley relay in the 11-12-year old boys division with a 2:26.9

timing. Stacy Blanchard, Andria Telik, Kathy Prochazka and Dina Tobin added another 200-yard medley relay victory in the 13-14-year old girls competition.

Tim Collins was an individual winner in the 50-yard backstroke with a :36.4 clocking Kathy Prochazka also won the backstroke race in her age division with a :37.1

DeVenny qualifies

S'CRAFT CROSS COUNTRY

Jennifer DeVenny, with a second-place finish last weekend at the Women's Cross Country Regional in Elyria, Ohio, qualified for the national championships Nov. 11 in Champaign, Ill.

DeVenny, who clocked 20:09, was the only Schoolcraft harrier to qualify for the National Junior College Athletic Association finals.

Schoolcraft's men's team placed eighth at the regional, which included squads from Michigan, Indiana and Ohio.

The Ocelots were led by Doug Vorbeck, who finished 28th with a fiven. le run of 27:40. Phil Reed was 29th, 27:42, Mark McKenney, 47th, 29:21, Paul York, 51st, 29:36, and Brian Hanna, 59th, 31:26.

No one on Schoolcraft's men's team qualified for the NJCAA finals.

Interest/Checking Plans. What they are. What they aren't. Are they right for you?

What they are.

You've been hearing a lot lately about the new Interest/ Checking Plans that are available to bank customers. These new plans have come about because of revisions in Federal banking regulations that permit banks to automatically transfer funds from a savings account to a checking account with the customer's prior approval. With this change two new benefits are available to bank customers. They are:

- The Interest/Checking Plan combines the features of a $0 balance checking account with those of a regular savings account. With it 5% annual interest can be earned on the money you would normally keep in your checking account. As checks are written, funds are automatically transferred from savings to checking.
- The other new plan assures protection against the occasional checking account overdraft by drawing on funds in an especially designated savings account.

These advantages may sound good to you and they can be. But before you decide to sign up for either account, read a little further.

What they aren't.

First of all, the Interest/Checking Plan is definitely not for everybody. Accounts offered by most banks will carry a different level of service charges than in the past.

To understand the reason for this, it will be helpful to know the two basic ways in which a bank compensates its customers for the use of their funds. Up to now the majority of bank customers have received "indirect interest" on their checking account; that is, the amount paid in service charges was probably less than it cost the bank to service the account, especially if the customer kept a relatively small balance and wrote a great many checks. In absorbing this cost, the bank has really been paying "indirect interest."

Under the new Interest/Checking Plan customers will be earning "direct interest" paid at a fixed rate for the use of their money. Because of this, your bank will be more likely to charge for the expenses incurred in servicing checking accounts. Typically, this charge will be a fee for each check written plus a flat fixed monthly charge for the statement. The bank may also establish an average balance above which service charges are waived. This method of charging for the service is not too unlike some methods presently used. However, the level of charges and required balance can be expected to be somewhat higher than in the past.

With this explanation of the Interest/Checking Plan you may wish to evaluate its advantages from your own particular situation.

Are they right for you?

Evaluation is largely a matter of comparing what the new service will cost you in charges and fees with the amount you will earn in interest on your deposits. Just follow these simple steps:

INTEREST/CHECKING WORKSHEET

1. Determine the number of checks you typically write each month.

2. Figure the amount of checking service charges you would pay each month. (To compute this, determine how much your bank will charge for each check and the monthly statement charge, if any. Multiply the check charge by the average number of checks you write. Finally, add the statement charge to get your monthly service charge.)

3. Estimate your average checking account balance. (One easy way to approximate this in many cases is to add the beginning balance on your statement to the ending balance and divide by two.)

4. Estimate the interest you would earn in one month. (Multiply your average checking balance by 5% and divide by 12)

5. Subtract your service charges from the amount of interest

If the amount of interest earned is less than the service charge, you will not benefit. If the amount of interest is greater than the service charge, the plan may be to your advantage.

If the comparison above indicates that interest/checking will not be beneficial, you can continue with your present checking account plan or you may want to make some adjustments in the way you manage your money by following these simple suggestions:

- Combine the balances from other checking and savings accounts. This may give you the necessary funds to cover your checking account charges. A larger average balance in your interest/checking account assures a greater return.
- Pay as many bills as possible through pre-authorized automatic payments, reducing the number of checks you write. Examples include payments on mortgage and installment loans, and insurance premiums.
- Arrange with your employer for direct deposit of your paycheck into your savings account. Since all the money is deposited and probably sooner, it will earn you more interest.
- Avoid writing numbers of small checks for minor purchases miscellaneous groceries, hardware or drug store items. Instead, write a single check for the amount of cash you know you will need.

Even though you've analyzed interest/checking, and perhaps have not found it suited to your needs, there is still the Overdraft Protection Plan to consider.

This plan simply covers overdrafts in your checking account—up to the balance in your savings account—by automatically transferring funds from savings to checking as needed. A minimum balance is required by some banks and a fee is normally charged for each such transfer. This plan's principal advantage is to eliminate the embarrassment and inconvenience of returned checks.

If you have further questions about the plans described above, or if you would like to inquire about the Interest/Checking Plan and Overdraft Protection Plan offered by National Bank of Detroit, stop in at a nearby NBD office. One of our representatives will gladly help you determine what is right for you.

Top seeds dominate Leach racquetball tourney

By C.J. RISAK

There were surprises and upsets, but the two number one seeds managed to survive them and win their respective divisions in the Leach Motor City Racquetball Classic, held last weekend at the Southfield Racquetime Center.

Marty Hogan from St. Louis, Mo., considered the top professional player on the tour, lived up to his rating by whipping number two seed Rich Wagner of Paterson, N.J., in the finals, 21-

In the women's division, number one seed Shannon Wright of Las Vegas, Ne., topped unseeded Marci Greer of San Diego, Ca., 21-12, 21-8, to win the women's title. Wright was the only one of the top eight seeds to survive the quarterfinals

Hogan earned $4,500 with his victory and Wagner received $2,500 for finishing second. Wright's win was worth $1,300 and Greer made $800 for placing

It was the first victory of the season for the nation's two top players, Hogan and Wright. Both were upset in the first event on the tour, the Jack-In-The-Box Classic in St. Louis.

Ironically, the two players who were upset winners in St. Louis, Steve Strandemo of San Diego, Ca. and Jennifer Harding of Portland, Ore., were themselves upset in the early rounds of the Southfield tournament.

Strandemo lost his opening match to Rick Dern, of Chicago, Ill., 14-21, 21-11, 11-5, while Harding, seeded number two in the tournament, lost to eventual finalist Greer in the second round, 21-15, 20-21, 11-5.

MIKE YELLEN of Southfield survived some early scares and advanced to the semi-finals before losing to Hogan, 21-9, 21-16. It was another impressive performance turned in by Yellen, seeded ninth in the tournament.

"I felt I played very well," Yellen said afterwards. "I beat some of the top players. But Marty was very tough.

Yellen had some problems in the early rounds, and by his own admission, "I wasn't playing well and was fortunate to win.

Randy Stafford of Memphis, Tenn., took Yellen all the way to the final point of the match before surrendering, 21-9, 18-21, 11-10. Steve Mondry of San Diego, Ca., also extended his secgend round match with Yellen to three sets, but once again the Southfield resident emerged victorious, 20-21, 21-

Yellen knocked off fourth seeded

Ben Koltun of St. Louis, Mo., in the quarterfinals, 21-16, 21-15, before losing to Hogan.

But the big surprises were in the women's division, as tenth seeded Sarah Green eliminated seventh seeded Kathy Williams of Denver. Colo., in the second round, then knocked off third seed Janell Marriott of Salt Lake City, in the quarterfinals.

21-10, 21-6. NINTH SEEDED Janet Sauser of Chicago, Ill., defeated eighth seed Rita Hoff of St. Louis, Mo., in the second round, then topped fourth seeded Peggy Steding of Odessa, Texas, in the quarterfinals.

Sixth seeded Martha MacDonald of Gainesville, Fla., lost to Wright in the quarterfinals, 21-12, 21-10

In the semis, Wright defeated Sauser and Greer eliminated Green.

New York is the next stop on the NRC tour in three weeks. This weekend, many of the top pros will participate in the Grand Blanc tourney.

Besides the pro competition, there were 11 divisions in the amateur division, with all but three having completed play.

In the Men's A, or Open Division, Rich Dern of Chicago, will meet Bob Deuster, also of Chicago, in the finals. Jim Cloud of Kalamazoo, and Dave Dolinski of Trenton will meet in the

In the only other uncompleted match, Vince Mack of Detroit goes against Steven Schneider of Wilmet. Ill., in the Men's Class C event

Paul Reed of Wheaton, Ill., defeated Jerry Ruderman of Southfield, 19-21. 21-11, 11-2, in the Men's Novice division. In Women's amateur play, Hope Weisbach of Tempe, Ariz., downed Francine Davis of Philadelphia, Pa., 21-20, 21-9, in the Women's A play, while Lynn Bernadett of Farmington, was a 21-12, 21-11 winner over Jennifer Meyer of Mt. Clemens in Women's B

WOMEN'S C winner was Karen Popiel of Southfield, who defeated Denise Bozza of Evanston, Ill., 11-21, 21-12, 11-5. Dearborn's Mary Ann Uznis won the novice division, beating Rochester's Martha May, 21-10, 21-8.

In the Men's Senior Division (35-45 years-old). Sam Young of Southfield lost to Fred Lorenz of Detroit, 21-9, 21-17, while the Men's Masters division (45-55 years old) winner was Fred Wiegand of Troy, as he downed Lynn Hahn of Saline, 21-19, 21-19,

In the Golden Masters event (55 and over). David Mathews of Champaign, Ill., topped Manny Nosan of Southfield, 21-18, 21-11.

Grid rivalries close out season

A host of traditional, season-ending football rivalries cap the 1978 season this weekend when most teams will be taking to the gridiron for the final time until next fall

At least one game - Livonia Stevenson at Livonia Churchill 7:30 p.m. tomorrow - has a significant bearing on who will qualify for the state playoffs.

Churchill, with an 8-0 record so far this year, is virtually assured of participating in the playoffs if it gains a victory. A loss will eliminate the Chargers from consideration.

The Spartans, 7-1, have just under a 50 per cent chance of qualifying if they

Last year, Churchill won at Stevenson and in 1976 Stevenson won at Churchill.

Garden City West will travel to Garden City East 8 p.m. Friday to battle for bragging rights in that community for another year.

West, 2-6, has not defeated its crosstown rival for more than a decade. East's record this year is 1-7.

Redford Thurston, which has built a 44 record this fall, will scrap with Redford Union, 3-5, 8 p.m. tomorrow at Kraft Field (Hilbert Jr. High) Thurston's last victory in the series came in the final game of the 1975 season. After that win, the Eagles lost 18 in a row before getting back on the winning beam this year.

RU joins the Northwest Suburban

League football race next year, so this rivalry will become even more significant in 1979 when both contend for conference laurels.

Livonia Bentley, winless this autumn, hosts Livonia Franklin, 2-6, at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Both teams have experienced trouble finding the endzone this season. However, because this rivalry is so keen, this will be the final taste of competition this year for both teams and neither has anything to lose, a high-scoring duel may result.

Wayne, which entertained visions of a Great Lakes Eight championship earlier this season before faltering, will meet intra-district rival Westland John Glenn 8 p.m. tomorrow at Glenn. The Rockets, which have relinquished only 22 points this year, sport a 7-1 record.

Plymouth Salem, also with a 7-1 mark and runner-up in the Suburban Eight League, travels to Farmington A Harrison 2 p.m. for its annual windup. Three of the last four seasons this game has had a direct bearing on qualifying for the playoffs, but not this year. Too many teams in Salem's region have as good or better records. In other games of area interest, Inkster Cherry Hill visits Clarenceville 7:30 p.m. Friday; Detroit Catholic Central travels to Madison Heights Bishop Foley 2 p.m. Saturday; Redford St. Agatha will butt heads at Pontiac Catholic 2 p.m. Saturday and Redford Bishop Borgess plays at Royal Oak Shrine 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

R' to generate railroad money

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last in a series of articles on the Nov. 7 state ballot proposals. It was prepared by the League of Women Voters of Troy, a nonpartisan voter information

PROPOSAL M

The issue: Should the state provide funds for a comprehensive transportation program and replace the State Highway Commission with a Transportation Commission?

Currently, all specific taxes imposed on motor vehicle fuel and vehicle registration must be used exclusively for highway purposes, according to the Michigan Constitution. Also provided for is a State Highway Commission of four members (no more than two from one party) appointed by the governor, and a State Highway Department whose director, appointed by the commission, must be a competent highway

The legislature put this proposal on the ballot because of demands for a more diversified transportation system including public transit. Proponents cite various reasons, including energy conservation and the physical and economical barriers to car ownership for some people, for these

The amendment would provide that at least 90 per cent of motor vehicle and fuel taxes be used exclusively for general road taxes. Under this amendment, 10 per cent of the revenue could be used for comprehensive transportation purposes. Up to 25 per cent of sales tax on cars and parts would be used for comprehensive transportation

The amendment would limit bonding . r roads, streets, bridges and other transportation purposes to amounts to be derived from specific motor vehicle tax and sales tax revenues. It would also replace the State Highway Commission with a State Transportation Commission. The commission would be enlarged to six members appointed by the governor (no more than three from one party) for three-year terms. The State Highway Department would become the Transportation Department, and the department director would no longer have to be a highway engineer or appointed by the commission. The latter change would allow appointment by the governor. The State Transportaion Commission would then establish a state transpor-

The accompanying legislative package that raised motor fuel and registration taxes already passed. The Comprehensive Transportation Fund is to be used for local bus systems, rail programs, inter-city buses, and bridge, port and airport improvements.

PROPOSAL R

The issue: Should the constitution be amended to require he legislature to establish a Railroad Redevelopment Authority with power to issue general obligation bonds for making loans to railroads with tracks in Michigan for redevelopment projects?

Michigan law allows railroads to claim a credit against their property tax for 25 per cent of the yearly cost of maintaining and improving rights of Recent federal regulations have removed the tax-exempt status from revenue bonds issued for maintenance and redevelopment purposes. The taxexempt status is still accorded to general obligation bonds, but the state constitution must be amended in order for these bonds to benefit railroads.

Although railroads are generally acknowledged as energy-efficient transportation facilities, in recent years Michigan has been threatened with discontinuance of many miles of its rail lines. Upgrading of road beds and equipment is needed in many

Proponents argue that the state must assist to keep rail lines operating or industrial and economic development will suffer. Opponents feel that the proposal shows favoritism to one industry when there are many other-

The joint resolution placed on the ballot by the legislature will require the legislature to provide by law for the creation of a railroad redevelopment authority and to prescribe its powers and duties.

The authority may issue general obligation bonds or notes not to exceed $175 million at any period in redevelopment projects it considers to be in the national defense or to meet the present and future needs of state industries which use the railroads as the primary means of transporting

Unless a railroad defaulted on a loan made by the authority, there would be no cost to the state for these loans.

Faust sets re-election goals

Education, reforming the senate and keeping government in operation are the way incumbent State Sen. William Faust characterizes his major goals to accomplish if he is re-elected to another term.

A Westland resident, Faust's 13th district also includes Garden City and Canton Township.

His opponent, Coleman Flaskamp, has said that he isn't campaigning.

Faust says he's been working "very hard internally" to revise the senate rules, a task that hasn't happened since 1903. He also plans to study "innovative procedures and programs" in education.

Perhaps the most crucial issue facing the senate in January will be just keeping things running, he says.

"If any of the three tax proposals (on the Nov. 7 ballot) pass, the amount of legislation it will take to adjust will be frankly overwhelming," he reports. "The senate fiscal agency staff said that if all three pass, it will take 116 separate bills. And that's not including adjustment to the financial impact." "So one of my goals will be to provide for a smooth transition," he Faust is opposed to all three proposals on tax issues.

"I can live with in the goals and objectives of Headlee (proposal E).

Indeed, the senate has been doing that since 1974, but I can't vote for it because of techinical difficulties it has," he said.

Problems which Faust forsees with that proposal including bonding for the economic development corporation and the "rainy day fund.

"The bonding firm of Miller, CAnfield, Paddock and Stone has said that if Headlee passes, they will refuse to issue opinions on whether bonds can be sold. The consequences of that is that bond sales will be stopped and if we can't sell bonds, we can't have economic development," he explained.

Faust also doesn't like the Headlee prohibition of the "rainy day" or stabilization fund, which provides a cushion for bad economic times.

Michigan attracts more businesses and industries than it loses, according to Faust. If the state didn't, it would have a higher unemployment rate. But more could be done to encourage industry, he adds.

No one likes to pay more taxes, admits Faust, but he argues that sometimes higher taxes are "essential to the progress of the state.

One such case is the transportation package recently approved which would increase gasoline taxes and up license fees plate fees.

Kadish pledges Senate leadership

Paul Kadish, Democratic candidate for State Senate from the 14th District. said he is running for the office because he can do a better job than his opponent, incumbent Republican Robert Geake

"Geake has shown absolutely no leadership on issues that have been critical to this district," Kadish charged. "He is a 'me-too' kind of legislator.

Kadish pointed to the Plymouth Center for Human Development as a "prime example of Geake's lack of initiative

Kadish said that Geake had served on the State House mental health committee for four and one-half years and on the Senate's mental health committee for the same period of time but claimed he had no knowledge of reported patient abuses when the Detroit Free Press ran a series of articles on the center last winter.

"Here is a man with a Ph.D. in psychology who ran for office on his mental health background, and he didn't even know what was going on." Kad-

FOR THE 14th District-which includes Redford Township, Livonia, Plymouth city and township, Northville city and township and part of Westland-Kadish said the most pressing concern was financing for public schools

"We have declining enrollment in Redford, Livonia and Northville and rapidly increasing enrollment in Plymouth and Canton," he observed.

"It is creating enormous problems." Kadish's solution is to make more money available from the state by revising the current funding formula.

boards lose control over what is done with the dollars," he said, "but a shift needs to be made to channel more funds through the state legislature. "If things continue as they are, by 1981 Livonia will not be receiving any state aid, and we obviously can't let that happen.'

However, Kadish said he was opposed to the voucher proposal, which would ammend the constitution to eliminate property tax as the basis for funding public education.

"I think that plan was devised by people wh are not very happy with education-but it's a wrecking ball approach. I feel there are better ways to solve the problem.

Kadish also cited a "poor business climate" throughout the state as a problem that need immediate solutions.

HE CHARGED that the single business tax (SBT) along with laws on workman's compensation and unemployment compensation were the chief obstacles to attracting and keeping industry in Michigan.

And, although a strong Democrat, Kadish said that big labor demands were partially to blame for business's uneasiness about locating or staying in

He said it was the responsibility of the state legislature to "re-examine some of the laws that have been passed to see if there is a better way to do things.'

As a self-employed insurance agent, Kadish said he felt strongly about Michigan's no-fault automobile insurance. While he said it was one of the best programs in the country, he also feels it has draw-backs.

"There's no question in my mind that no fault is partially to blame for red-lining in certain areas of the state-in fact, it's the major cause.' he said

Kadish characterized himself as an advocate of tax limitation, but said there were major flaws with the proposed constitutional ammendments on the November ballot.

"The Tisch proposal is a fraud. Headlee's ammendment has weaknesses but I support it in concept. I think it sends a message to the people in Lansing," he stated.

"Legislators have got to set priorities for spending public money. We can't go on funding programs that are not working. Millions of dollars are wasted by doing that.

"My intention in going to Lansing is not just to make waves," he continued. "but when they are necessary, I'm not going to sit back."

Kadish has run for State Senate twice before-once in 1970 and again in 1976. He is chairman of the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees. He lives in Livonia and is president of his own insurance agency.

Pursell-Greene answer LWV

U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth) is running for a second term in the House of Representatives in the Nov. 7 election.

He is opposed by Democrat Earl Greene, an Ann Arbor City Councilman and Willow Run High School music teacher.

The 2d Congressional district covers Livonia and Plymouth in Wayne County, most of Monroe County and the eastern half of Washtenaw county.

The candidates supplied biographies and written answers to questions put to them by the Livonia Chapter of the League of Women Voters and the Observer Newspapers

Following are their backgrounds and answers to federal policy questions.

Carl Pursell has both a bachelor's and master's degree from Eastern Michigan University. He has been on the the house committees on education and labor and on science and technology

From 1971-76 Pursell was a member of the state senate and the senate's appropriation committee. He has been chairman of the senate appropriation subcommittee on community colleges. In 1969-70 he was a member of the Wayne County board of commissioners. He has also served as president of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce and is a past member of the Plymouth Jaycees.

Earl Greene did his undergraduate study at Shenandoah College in Vir ginia and later received his master's Degree in music from Northwestern University. He did additional graduate work at the University of Virginia and at the University of Michigan.

He is on the Michigan Education Association public affairs council and the MEA state screening and endorsement committee. Greene wass president of the Willow Run Education Association, for two vears. In that capacity, he helped establish a minority affairs division. He also assisted in the founding of the Willow Run Council for the Arts and helped lay the groundwork for a dental treatment plan for Willow Run Schools in conjunction with the University of Michigan Dental School.

As Ann Arbor councilman, he has worked for the establishment of day care centers, student housing, and services for the elderly.

Do you support the Howard Jarvis proposal to reduce the federal tax rate? Explain why.

GREENE: No, it is too radical. The question is what is a reasonable and balanced approach. My position is that we need to balance the budget, put a limit on spending which is tied to inflation and growth of the economy. We need to cut costs through the unglamorous task of probing into bureacracy and reducing budgets. We have to eliminate duplications of services in government agencies.

PURSELL: I'm not familiar with the specifics of the proposal by Mr. Jarvis. I do, however, support a cut in the federal tax rate and have voted for a federal tax cut in the 95th Congress. A cut in the tax rate, in my opinion, is the most important type of cut to make, so we can put a stop to taxation by inflation. It does little good for our citizens to get a pay increase to meet rising costs, only to find themselves in a higher tax bracket which destroys that added purchasing power.

Please suggest ways you feel would be effective in helping resolve the natioanl energy problems.

GREENE: We must design tax breaks for energy-efficient small business. We must reduce our consumption of gas and cut imports to 6 million barrels of oil per day. We must explore alternate energy sources and apply the principle of depletion allowances to those businesses that are developing those energy sources. I categorically oppose the de-regulation of natural gas prices, a measure which my opponent approved. It amounts to a multi-million dollar "rip-off" of the American consumer and provides windfall profits to the gas producers. The government should control natural gas rates so that we are providing a reasonable service at a reasonable cost that at the same time does not encourage exces-

PURSELL: I have introduced a major bill to create a "space" program" type of long range energy research and development effort for alternative energy sources. I think this kind of all out, intensive program is essential to meet the coming energy crisis in this country and the entire world. We need to immediately launch an accelerated effort to bring a wide variety of alternative energy sources on line, such as fusion, solar, geothermal, biomass and others.

WHY ARE THESE MEN SMILING?

Meet Cecil Peterson. He's the smallish man with the newspaper. Cecil never misses a chance to check what's happening in his hometown.

Why, just last week he found a bird cage for his pet gerbil in the Observer & Eccentric Classified section. The reason Cecil is reading while standing up in a crowd (he usually has better manners, but he doesn't know any of these fellows anyway) is because he's reading a story about his nephew's baseball team.

Cecil never misses one single issue of his hometown newspaper because he knows that it's crammed full of stuff that the city dailies never touch. Stuff like local bargains at his neighborhood stores, those juicy classified ads, and what's happening at city hall.

There was even a story about Cecil the time he grew the largest squash he'd ever seen. Or anyone else had ever seen for that matter. Cecil cut that picture out and put it in his scrapbook. He ate the squash.

Oh yes, why are those other fellows smiling?

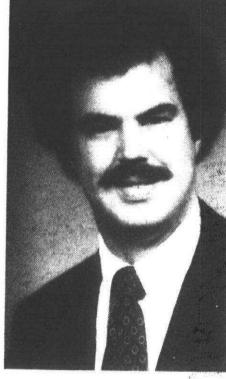

Well, first they're on their way home and second, they know their hometown newspaper will be waiting for them when they get there.

PURSELL

QUALITY EDUCATION IS BASED ON THREE THINGS: LOCAL CONTROL, A COMMITMENT TO EXCELLENCE, AND TAX-EFFICIENCY.

As a parent, Congressman Pursell knows the value of quality education. As a taxpayer and former small business owner, he knows the value of the dollar. As a legislator and experienced education budget expert, he knows how to achieve both.

A member of the House Education and Labor Committee, Carl authored amendments to improve the nation's program for gifted and talented students. He was also a leader in developing Michigan's gifted program while in the State Senate.

He sponsored the most far-reaching plan to split education programs from the H.E.W. conglomerate, with emphasis on local control, academic freedom, and his "no-strings" revenue sharing to cut the property tax burden.

Animal control is good PR

By SUSAN ROGERS

Dogs, cats and people will benefit from community animal control.

That's the message from Phyllis Wright, director of animal sheltering and control at the Humane Society of the United States

"It sounds like a very elementary thing to do," she said, "but it's difficult to get good public relations for animal control." Ms. Wright recently spoke to animal shelter directors and others in the animal business at the Humane Society annual conference at the Hyatt Regency in Dearborn.

"We've had the image of the dogcatcher for so many years, and that image isn't a good one," she said. "We must make the community aware of the positive side of our work.

Animal control, or the lack of it, is a major problem in many communities today, said Ms. Wright.

HAVING ANIMAL control ordinances will improve living in the community," she said. "People must accept the ordinances so they can be passed."

She said a shelter can begin an information program with sensationalism, and related the recent story of an Ann Arbor paperboy who was attacked and almost killed by two large guard dogs on private property.

"I imagine many people in Ann Arbor will now demand an ordinance outlawing guard dogs on private property," she said. "It always happens after a tragedy.

She indicated sensible ordinances should be in effect before something like this happens.

Licensing is a major step in controlling the animal population, said Ms. Wright. She told the group to sell the license plan by pointing out that lost animals can be more easily returned to the owner with a license.

"With a license, an animal won't have to be kept at a shelter and the money from the licenses pays for more animal control programs.

Another important way to control animal population, she said, is a spray and neuter program to cut down the number of unwanted puppies and kittens. Although many humane societies will pay for all or part of the sterilization of any puppy or kitten adopted from the agency,, not everyone takes advantage of the offer.

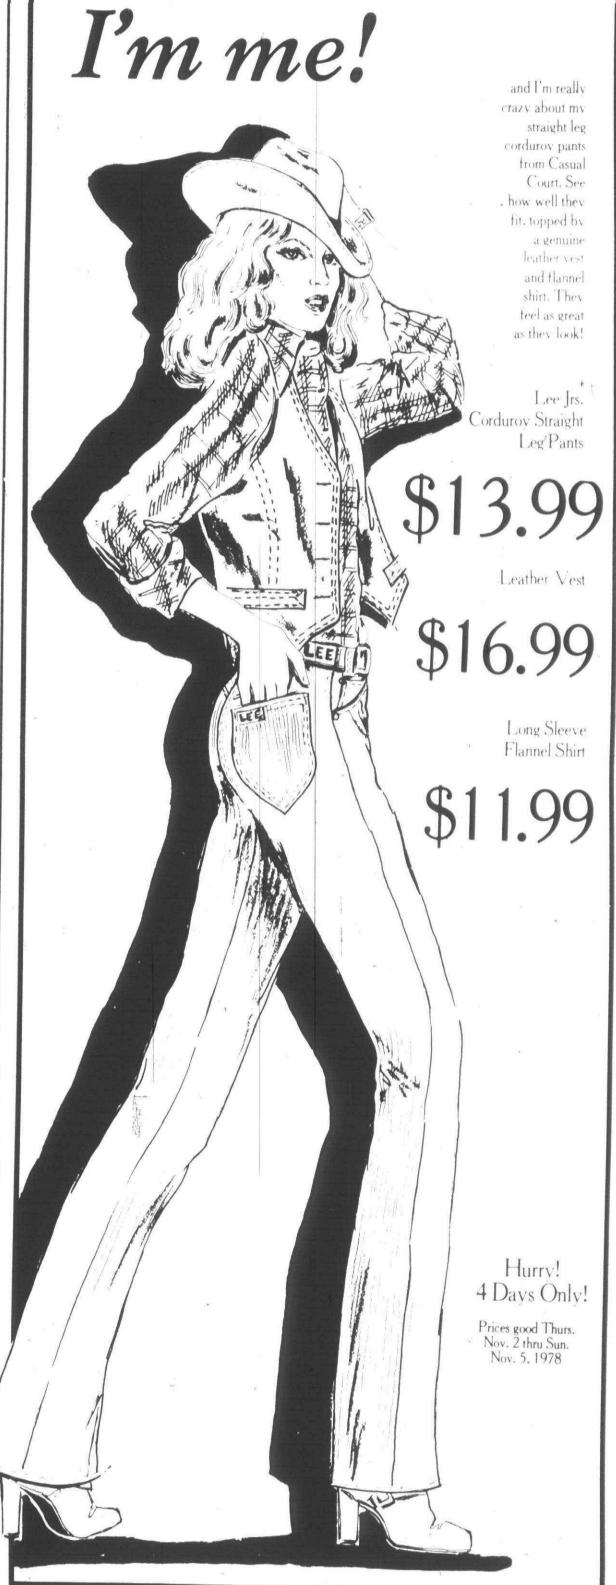

SHE INDICATED animal shelter pamphlets can explain the services available by the shelter and other animal welfare agencies.

"You can even give the names and addresses of other places someone could look if they lose their pet."she

Other animal agencies should join together to make the community aware that animal control is important, said Ms. Wright.

"Kennel clubs, veterinarians, animal shelters and pet food companies should relay the same message to the community. They should all point out the key is pet responsibility.

with Security's automatic transfer service

Automatic transfer from savings enables you to earn interest on the everyday bill-paying money you would normally keep in your checking account. When you sign up for this service, you may deposit your money in a 5% "Daily-Interest Savings" account. Then, when you write a check and it is processed for payment, we will automatically transfer funds from your savings to your checking, covering your check with your own money. What's more, there is no worry about overdrawing your checking account providing you have money in savings to cover it. Features include:

- Transfer is made only when your checking account balance is not sufficient to cover the check.
- You avoid a $5.00 non-sufficient funds charge because the transfer is made automatically. There is a 50¢ service charge for each transfer.
- You receive a receipt of the transfer by mail detailing the amount and the service charge.
- Automatic transfer service can be arranged for Thrifty 150 and regular checking accounts. (Each checking account requires a separate savings account.)
- For more information, or to apply for the service, visit any office or call 283-5000.

Making Your

Observer & Eccentric

Classified Ad Work Is As Easy As...

Include The Price...

Advertising price in an ad promises greater response. Research shows that 48% of the people will not respond to an ad unless the price is advertised. That's almost half of your prospective buyers eliminated. If your price is negotiable say so in your ad.

Don't Use Abbreviations...

Another way to kill results or turn off prospective buyers is to use abbreviations. WSW, PS, CBS, PB, AC, AT, WW may be clear to you, but maybe not to your buyers and most will not take the time to figure them out. One survey showed that 42% of readers didn't know what "WSW" tire meant.

Give Enough Information...

People today want all the information they can get before they buy. People want to know all the benefits of what they purchase. Not listing all you can in your ad will cause it to run longer with fewer results. Use brand names for extra pulling power.

Stay Near Your Phone...

If you're home all the time, including just a phone number in your ad is enough. If you work or can't be home, specify what hours you can be reached. Some people will never call back if they can't reach you the first time.
