Proposed rent subsidy units anger Pickwick

Residents of the 300-odd homes that comprise the Pickwick subdivision are worried.

They believe that an apartment and townhouse development offering subsidized rental units has been proposed for a site near their subdivision.

But if the Pickwick Homeowners Association has any thing to say about it, the complex will never be built.

Don Peterson, vice president of the association, said Friday that Pickwick homeowners plan to show up in force to object to subsidized housing when the township board next meets May 1.

They are not officially on the agenda for that meeting, but want to use the public forum at the beginning of the session to state their views.

According to Peterson, Supervisor Noel Culbert has promised to put the subject on the May 8 meeting agenda. Culbert attended an April 26 meeting of the homeowners' group to discuss the proposed complex. He was not available Friday for comment.

Culbert said he intends to introduce a resolution that the township would no units because "we already have 12 percent more than the national average."

Peterson said the complex is proposed for an 18-acre parcel, east of Lilley and south of Warren. Amurcon, a Southfield development firm, has also filed an application to receive a mortgage guarantee from the Federal Department of Housing and Urban Development

According to Canton Planner James Kosteva, the company filed under a HUD section that would allow rent subsidies on some or all units for low and

The tentative project has been outlined to township officials, but Amurcon has made no formal move yet to get planning commission and township board approval.

Kim Wilkins, an Amurcon representative, refused to confirm or deny anything in connection with the project.

The planned unit development (PUD) agreement for the area in question does allow multiple family dwellings, although some township zoning maps

Peterson said the major objection to the proposed complex is that "there is enough rent subsidized housing in the community.

"I don't believe the majority of members in our group would object to luxury apartments in that area.

"My personal view is that people can holler 'what right do you have to say we can't come here,' but look at the other subsidized housing in Canton."

One example of a complex that offers rent subsidies is Canton Commons show the area parcel zoned for single on Haggerty south of Cherry Hill. The door," Culbert said.

Police move into new home

Police Chief Walter MacGregor says there's "no question" that the Canton Police Department will be able to function more efficiently now that old township hall has been converted into a station for the force.

Police department employees moved into the renovated facility last Wednesday after working in a cramped trailer parked behind the former township hall since the department's establishment in August, 1976.

Township office workers moved out of the building on Geddes near Michigan last fall following completion of the township's new three-story administration building on Canton Center near Proc-Work immediately began on the estimated $175,000 project to convert the old administration building into a police station with prisoner holding cells, office space and a squad room for meetings.

MacGREGOR, said the new facility will eliminate trips to Plymouth, Wayne and Westland for purposes of jailing suspects and provide more privacy to police personnel.

The trailer that has housed the police department since 1976 contained no prisoner holding cells. MacGregor said Canton police officers were forced to transport prisoners to available jails in nearby communities for short stays.

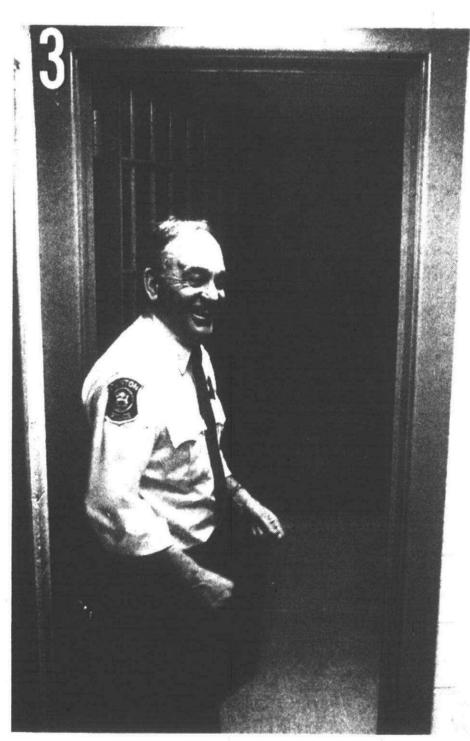

"Now, of course, we have some privacy, In the other facility, we didn't have any," said MacGregor, referring to the paper-thin walls that divided offices in the trailer. He noted that occupants of one office could easily hear what was said in the next.

The chief expects that the new station will be able to accommodate the expanding police force for seven to 10 years. The township board probably will have to authorize the construction of another police station or an addition to the recently completed facility after that time, he said.

The trailer that has housed the police force until now will be used for storage and training sessions, according to the chief.

Mac Gregor will not work in the new facility for long, however, At last week's township board meeting, MacGregor resigned from the force following a debate over the hiring of part-time

On Thursday, MacGregor said he will stick to his decision to resign despite board approval of 10 part-time positions. His resignation takes effect on May 9.

Police Chief Walter MacGregor is resigning in a week, so he won't have much time to enjoy the new township police facilities. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Sludge hits the fan as demo gets dumped

A plan to show Canton residents how other methods of disposing of sludge sludge would be composted at a pro- from its water and sewage treatment posed township site went awry last plant. The court order followed a law-Thursday when Supervisor Noel Culbert changed his mind.

Following a planning commission meeting last week, Bi-Products Systems representative Al Hart announced that his company would be using the Township Hall parking lot to show how sludge is mixed with woodchips and eventually converted to an odorless soil additive. Bi-Products Systems is seeking to gain approval for a plan to use 140 acres in Canton to conduct the sludge composting process. The company is under contract to the City of Detroit. which was recently ordered to find

posting was an attempt to prove to residents that the process would not create extreme odor or disruption. But, a day after the company allegedly was given tentative approval by Culbert to hold the demonstration. the permission was withdrawn. Hart said he would be at township hall Saturday, April 28, when the demonstration had been scheduled, to explain the cancellation. Culbert was attending a seminar and could not be reached for comment.

FIVE MEMBERS of the forensic team at Plymouth Salem High will advance to the state tournament May 5 at the University of Michigan after placing among the top three in their categories during regional forensic competition. First place winners were Sue Sharp, impromptu; Gina Massaro, serious talk; and Kitty Underwood, radio. Dave Corliss placed second in informative talk competition and Mark Sampson earned a third place in oratory competion. The team's esteemed coach is Pat Barry.

HERE'S A little something for Canton's Finest, should they feel unappreciated. Linda Wilber of Canton writes, "This is to thank our "knights in blue" who get so little thanks in today's world. In particular, I wish to thank officers Roger Pearsall and Bud Royston, who came to my rescue in a Canton shopping center. Carelessly, I locked my car with the keys in it and they took time from their busy schedule to help me. Their concern and kindness was greatly appreciated. Take heart, ladies, for chivalry is not dead."

Maybe that's why we heard the police department is putting in a request for 20 suits of armor.

For Opportunity House

The National Honor Society at Plymouth Centennial Educational Park recently presented a check for $250 to Plymouth Opportunity House, the residential center for retarded adults at Wing and Deer. The honor society raised the money from proceeds of the faculty talent show held this past year. James T. O'Reilly of Opportunity House accepts the check from Laure Ashlee, society president from Salem High, and Keith Greenleaf, society vice-president from Canton High. (Staff photo)

Crib death cause seen for infant

Sudden infant death syndrome - or crib death - has been listed as the official cause for the death of infant Crystal Ann Farmer of Plymouth.

The Wayne County Medical Examiner determined the child died of crib death after an autopsy was performed. That determination was made by George Russanow, assistant medical examiner.

Correction

A news story in the April 23 edition of the Observer incorrectly reported that Plymouth-Canton Community Schools was about $4 million short in income for the current year.

Actually, the district has about $4 million which it hasn't collected yet but fully expects to have in its coffers before the year's over.

The district has yet to receive a little more than $1.3 million in local property taxes which have not yet been turned over by the city of Plymouth, Canton and Plymouth townships and other townships in the school district.

The state still owes two payments in state aid, totalling some $2.5 million, which will be made by June.

Special education payments expected by the district from Wayne County is about $196,000 short through March, and of this shortfall, the district expects to receive only $20,000 more by

Thus, the $4 million "shortage" in income reported actually represents revenues due but not yet received.

The district's actual operating deficit to date is $975,000. The school board had approved reducing fund equity by $800,000 to balance for the current year, and the remaining $175,000 reduction in fund equity represents special education expected from the county but not paid.

DeHoCo fate hangs in court

State plans to construct a prison on Detroit House of Correction (DeHoCo) grounds in Northville Township settled half the question of the future of that institution

Now neighboring residents and Wayne County officials are waiting to see if a court decision will force the county to take over the other half of the detention facility in Plymouth Town-

Northville's efforts to keep a new state prison from being built at the vacant Wayne County Child Development Center were rewarded last week as the state carried through on a compromise and instead purchased the former women's division of DeHoCo from the City of Detroit.

The state paid $1.6 million for the deteriorating property and plans to spend another $30 million to renovate the facility as a 550-bed, minimum-tomaximum security prison over the next three to five years.

However the majority of DeHoCo's 1,300 acres, which straddle the Five Mile boundary betweeen the two townships from Beck to Napier, remain Detroit property, according to Bill Rucks, DeHoCo director.

The men's division south of Five Mile in Plymouth Township remains a Detroit lock-up for male inmates serving terms of one year or less.

A CIRCUIT COURT ruling to determine if Wayne County will be forced to take over the detention facilities is expected in mid-May, according to County Commissioner William Joyner (D-Plymouth), whose 27th District includes Plymouth and Canton.

"The county sued the City of Detroit and asked that they be enjoined from turning DeHoCo over to the county," explained Joyner, a member of the commissoners' corrections committee.

County feasibility studies relating to DeHoCo, the old Wayne County jail, and general hospital buildings were presented in court last Friday, according to Rucks.

Detroit has budgeted funds through September to operate the facility, says

TWO YEARS AGO the Northville community galvanized into action when Gov. William Milliken proposed turning the sprawling Wayne County Child Development Center, unused since 1974, into a state prison.

Protests that the center was surrounded by residential property eventually helped sway the governor's decision. Instead the state opted to buy the vacated women's division of DeHoCo in Section 7 of the property

Although DeHoCo is located largely in an unsettled area, surrounding zoning in Plymouth Township is designated for medium and high density residential construction, according to the township's future land use map.

The state rented the women's division for two years until August 1977, when female inmates were moved to a new prison in Ypsilanti. The deteriorating cottages that made up the women's side have been unused since.

Although security was a constant problem when women were incarcerated at the facility, at least one state legislator may question the type of security system installed.

State Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, who also represents Plymouth and Livonia, said he expects the new prison to be a medium security facility despite published reports that minimum and maximum security prisoners would be sent there.

DeHoCo authorities refused to comment on the security plans.

three years ago, she said.

Eckles said that the proposed facility "will be different from established facilities. We do not want duplication of services.

Some of the services of the proposed Plymouth-Canton area outpatient facility would be optometry services, dentistry, minor surgery not requiring hospitalization, a 24-hour emergency room, a lab for patient testing, and an x-ray service, according to Eckles.

If Henry Ford Hospital develops a certificate of need for the proposed facility, it will be submitted to the council by June 1, she said.

Union to support Schoolcraft millage request

WILLIAM NICKELS Millage 'crucial'

SULATION

By TIM RICHARD

The Faculty Forum, virtually inactive in the March 26 Schoolcraft College millage election, will strongly support a June 11 tax proposal.

"The June 11 election is crucial," said William G. Nickels, retiring president of the faculty union. "The Faculty Forum Senate (27 members) has acted unanimously in approving it.'

The two-year community college is seeking a one mill increase in the property tax for one year. Half will be used for major maintenance and equipment purchases. The other half will be used to complete funding for a Culinary Arts Addition to the Waterman Campus

"wasn't very active" during the March came in 1968.

"There's a lot of dirty laundry, and I just don't want to air it," Nickels said in an interview. All he would reveal is that faculty members questioned the need for a new learning resources center when they consider the present library as seriously underfunded.

The new proposal will yield nearly $2 million for one year, if approved. "It won't be used for salaries," Nickels

"The buildings are in need of maintenance. Electrical systems need to be re-done. Steel doors are rusting.

"There has been no major new automotive technology equipment since the building was built. They're using the NICKELS ADMITTED the Forum same equipment that was here when I expand its enrollment. The registrar's office would get some space in the move. The registrar has been in a 'temporary' building since the 1960s.

THE FORUM won't join the millage steering committee, headed by the chairman and vice chairman of the board of trustees - Paul Kadish and Harry Greenleaf.

Instead, Nickels said, the Forum will send a mailing to 2,500 members of the Michigan Education Association who live in the Schoolcraft College district, informing them of its endorsements of the millage and board of trustees candidates. Faculty members will also work at the polls, he said.

Chiefs edge Churchill in error filled game

By BETTY DeLANO

Even though both Plymouth Canton and Livonia Churchill committed four errors each, Canton went away with a 7-4 girls' softball victory Wednesday.

It was the Western Six League opener for both teams.

Canton jumped to a 4-0 lead in the first inning. The Chiefs enjoyed the four-run cushion for two innings as senior pitcher Lucy Howe held the Chargers scoreless until the third.

After loading the bases on two walks and a bunt single, the Chiefs' Valerie Harbin scored the first run on a fielder's choice

The Chiefs scored their second and third runs on a line shot single to leftcenter field. Junior catcher Pam Schipani capitalized on a Charger error at the plate to score Canton's fourth run.

Churchill cut the margin to 4-1 by scoring a run when the lead-off hitter started the third inning with a walk.

The remaining three Canton runs were tallied in the fourth inning, leaving Churchill to play catch-up the rest of the way.

Co-captain Harbin led off the fourth with a walk and later scored. Kathy Peck, who singled past first base, also scored as did sophomore Joni Sommerville who had doubled.

The Chargers started a belated comeback in the bottom half of the fourth, scoring two runs on Canton

CHURCHILL COLLECTED its final run in the seventh inning. Two Charger runners reached base on walks. Another Charger lined a single to right field with the run coming on a hit batsman and another Canton miscue.

For the game, Canton sent 23 batters to the plate and collected seven runs on five hits. Seven batters walked. Churchill scored its four runs on five hits and seven free passes.

"The error Churchill made at home plate in the first inning really helped a lot," said Canton coach Max Sommerville. "Pam should have made it only to second base on that hit intead of coming all the way in.

"Defensively I think we played real well. Lucy (Howe) pitched a strong game for the second time out. It was pretty wet outside and they were changing balls almost every other pitch. She was pitching with a slippery ball quite a bit," he said.

Sommerville said he was pleased with the way his team hustled.

"The errors that we made weren't as drastic as the ones made by Churchill, so they didn't have a chance to get any extra bases like we did in the first inning," Sommerville said.

The Canton coach said his team did not hit well in its opening game earlier last week against Livonia Stevenson.

"I was pleased with our hitting since we haven't had much practice," said Sommerville. "The Churchill pitcher

Livonia Churchill edged Plymouth Canton in a rescheduled girls' track meet Friday, 63-56.

Wet weather postponed the meet, originally scheduled Thursday.

The Chiefs won eight of 16 events led by Jill Pederson who won the 110-yard hurdles (15.1) and 220-yard low hurdles Pederson also ran a leg on the winning mile relay (4:31.6). Other members of the group included Lori Schufeldt, Judy Purpura and Kathy Brophy.

Sue Coll, Diane Durocher, Judy Purpura and Amy Knickerbocker combined for Canton to win the 880-yard relay (2:02.4)

Fighting a leg injury, Canton's Brenda Bigelow managed to win the high jump with a leap of 4-feet-6-inches after none of the other competitors cleared the opening height.

Canton's Liz Gorecki won the discus with a toss of 85-10 and teammate Michelle Perrot won the mile (5:50) and two-mile (13:05.6) runs.

"I expected to lose this meet by 30 to 40 points," said Canton coach John Dunn. "Our kids are coming. They're getting better with each meet.

Canton, 0-3 overall, travels to Farmington Harrison Thursday for another Western Six League dual meet.

CANTON BOYS' TRACK

Livonia Churchill won 14 of 16 events in beating Plymouth Canton Friday in a boys' track meet.

Churchill won, 105-27, as Jeff Hawkins captured the long jump, 120-yard high hurdles and 330-yard low hurdles.

Canton won the mile relay with a clocking of 3:54.3. The team consisted of Dan McGlinn, Mark Kowalczyk, Phil Simon and John Tarr.

The only Canton individual winner was Daryl Goldsmith who grabbed first place in the 220-yard dash (:25.1).

Canton competed without its top sprinter, Rich Fleischer, who was ill.

Brother Rob however picked up the slack with a second place finish in the 220-yard dash (:25.6). Kowalczyk was second in the long jump (17-11) while Dave Spitz took second in the two-mile run (10:52). The other Canton second place finish came from McGlinn in the 330-yard low hurdles (:42.9).

It was Canton's first meet of the season after two postponements.

"It (the rainouts) had an obvious effect," said Canton coach Mike Spitz. "It's been frustrating waiting around."

"It's good to get a tough team like Churchill out of the way," he said.

Dave Keen was victorious, 6-3, 6-1. Number three singles player Dan Schmidt followed Keen with an easy 6-0, 6-0 whitewash as did number four singles player Thad Louviere, who also competitor," said Canton coach Jim Hayes. "Coming off the Stevenson loss, I think we played better. Each member was ready.

The first doubles team of Bob Adams and Kreg Kinnel had an easy time with their Thurston opponents, scoring a 6-3, 6-3 triumph. Canton's second doubles team of Mark Roberts and Curt Crocker won, 6-4, 6-3. Steve Jones and Keith Logsdon, the number three doubles team, scored a 7-5. 6-3 victory.

Canton has matches this week against Farmington Harrison, Monday: Walled Lake Western, Wednesday: Livonia Bentley, Thursday, and Waterford Mott, Friday.

HAYES SAID the four-match week will be a good chance to find out just how good his team really is.

The Canton junior varsity also battled with Thurston.

Hayes said that although most of his junior varsity players lost their matches against the Eagles, he's not concerned that Thurston will be a power a more severe test next year.

Canton loses just two players off the varsity and could have a better squad, according to Hayes.

Drew Hosey and Tom Pasley lost their junior varsity doubles match, 6-4, 6-4. Stan Thornbury and Russ Roberts of the Chiefs also were defeated, 6-0, 6-

Canton singles player Jeff Steffen was beaten, 6-3, 6-0 and teammate Jamie Trentor split the first two sets against his Thurston foe as the third set was called off.

Trentor is a new addition to the Canton squad and Hayes says that by the end of the season, he should be playing in a high doubles position.

This week's three varsity Western Six matches against Walled Lake Western, Farmington Harrison and Waterford Mott should be an indicator as to standings.

GEORGIE BICKSHOTT won a place on the honor roll at Westland Bowl when she not only showed the way in the ladies classic, but set a new high league mark for the season. She opened with a 248, came back with 255 and closed with 176 for 679.

Nancy Hect was right behind with a high game of 256 in 631. As the season closed, the Livonia Sales team, captained by Hect, won the title and the 288 rolled by Carol Post some time ago stood up as high ANSWERING THE MAIL. Only two of the all-star bowlers of the past two decades still use the two finger ball. They are Ed Lubanski, who bowls at the Bluejackets and manages Mound Lanes, and Connie Powers, who once was the top average bowler on the old Colonial Broach team.

The two most famous of the three step bowlers who once helped dominate the Detroit scene were Joe Scribner, one time holder of the national match game title, and the late Lee Jouglard, who held the high series record of 775 in the ABC tournament for more than 20 years.

BRAD LACKEY didn't have to hit 600 to lead the St. John Bosco league at Garden Lanes. He set the pace with a 597.

In the other circuits, Dean Tremonti showed the way in the junior house league with a 652. This gave him a big edge on his closest rivals, Bob Sielski, who registered a 623 and Doug Zybrands who had a 617.

BOB SIMON moved into the winner's circle at Merri-Bowl when he put together games of 255, 223 and 207 for 685

In the Sun Downers loop, Evelyn Tschiltsch had a 245 for high game and Shirley Wold took top series honors with 592.

A NEW NAME popped up in the winners' circle at Bel-Aire when Cory Nesser put together games of 236, 233 and 193 for 662 in the Classic. Next to him came Joe Owczarski with 655 and Warren Bergman landed in third place with a 640.

Salem softballers capture opener

The Plymouth Salem girls' softball McDowell's three for four effort and team may have started the year a little late but the hitting was right on time as the Rocks drilled Allen Park Tuesday, 16-1, in a Suburban Eight League softball opener for both teams.

Senior hurler Jay Boyd went all the way for Salem. In seven innings she gave up three hits, two walks and struck out seven

"Jan is a well seasoned pitcher and has experience in many tourneys," said Salem coach Livi Way.

Boyd had plenty of support offensively.

four RBIs. Senior shortstop Becky Crespo went three for five and also batted in four runs.

Boyd aided her own cause with three hits and two RBIs while junior third basean Cathy Gardner smacked two hits and had 3 RBIs.

Salem led 2-0 after three innings. The Rocks then struck for four runs in the fourth inning and scored five more in the fifth to win easily

"I'm extremely pleased with their play both offensively and defensively," The Rocks rapped 16 hits, led by Sue said Way. "Maybe I should give them a week's vacation every year."

THE ROCKS didn't practice during spring vacation and the coach said the layoff may have helped.

The Salem squad was 16-3 last season and are defending the Suburban Eight title. Salem lost in the district final a year ago to Plymouth Canton.

"We have a solid group," said Way. 'I'll be interested to see how we jell."

Eight letter winners return for the Rocks. Besides Boyd, Crespo and McDowell, the Rocks also have veterans Doris Hoelscher (left field). Nan Horwood (catcher), Stacy Nicolin (second base) and Sue Evans (first base).

Horwood, a junior, is in a new position, taking over the catching chores.

Boyd will be backed up by left-hander Cheryl Sopkow

"We'll use Cheryl to start some games, but she'll be mainly used as a relief pitcher," Way said. "We have talent and work well as a team, but we'll need some breaks.

Salem is the favorite once again in the Suburban Eight, Way said. She also sees possibilities of winning district

A book came across my desk recently which I should read. But I'm not going to.

I'm not going to read it because it's fiction and it's about ghosts, enchantment, phantoms and

I should read it because the author is Russell Kirk, a native of Plymouth who has gained a national reputation as a columnist and author.

But Kirk no longer lives in Plymouth. He's residing in Mecosta, a long ways from here.

Besides, I prefer to read nonfiction - history, biographies, and autobiographies. When I do get around to reading fiction, it's not of the ghost, phantom and fiend variety.

KIRK IS STILL a very active writer, even though he's 70 years old. He was born in Plymouth in Kirk has written 20 books and several hundred essays, short stories and other publications. Besides his syndicated column, Kirk writes a monthly page on education for National Review and is editor of The University Bookman, a quarterly journal. His syndicated column appears in more than 200 newspapers.

The author's best-known book, The Conservative Mind, might well be the highlight of his writing career. The book is often discussed by those interested in political theory and is used often by political science professors for supplemental reading.

Some of his other better-known works include Eloit And His Age, a definitive account of that poet's life and works, and The Roots of American Order, which is Kirk's affirma tion of faith in American institutions and ideals.

ALTHOUGH KIRK primarily is recognized as a conservative philosopher, political historian, and literary critic, he also is developing a reputation as an author of supernatural material.

That came as a bit of a suprise to me as I have known of Kirk only as a writer in the field of history and political science.

So I was interested in the following book review material summarizing Kirk's supernatural writ-

"In his all-too-infrequent role as the Master Necromancer of Mecosta, Mich., Dr. Kirk has conjured up a mysterious Gothic realm of renevants and wraiths, of phantoms and fiends, of the diabolical and the divine.

"The sinister ambience of the classic ghost story s revived with disquieting dexerity in such terrifying narratives as 'Sorworth Place' and 'Ex Tenebris,' in which dark powers from the netherworld return to lurk through the land of the living

"An ancient Roman emperor returns, too, in 'The Last God's Dream,' amidst sepulchral surroundings in the legend-haunted town of Split, while yet another ghostly town in the American Midwest is invoked in 'There's a Long, Long Trail a-Winding,' winner of the 1977 World Fantasy Award.'

A general comment on Kirk's writings in this area is: "The uncanny tales of Russell Kirk are superbly wrought literary entertainments, but also profound ruminations upon the age-old reality of evil, the darkness or the light in souls, the mysteries of human existence. For a few pages here and a few pages there, Dr. Kirk obliterates the very boundaries between natural and supernatural, and attains thereby a vision of the eternal, a glimpse into a timeless realm.'

I'm not much interested in those boundaries, but in case you are, Kirk's lastest book is entitled, "The Princess of All Lands." The book is tagged as a story about a young woman "abducted into a demonic domain of depravity and terror, and then confronted by a veritable cosmic encounter between the ethereal and the damned.

Although I'm not interested in the supernatural. Kirk obviously is. In the prologue, he writes:

"Time was, not long ago, when most folk professed their incredulity at any ghostly relation. But nowadays people seem eager to believe in even the most unlikely revenant. My uncanny tales in this present collection, though fanciful, also are true: true in the sense that at the heart of each of them lies some core of real experience (mine, or that of friends), and truer in the sense that these stories may touch upon the darkness or the light in souls

"Have I ever seen a ghost? Why, I am one, and so are you — a geist, a spirit, in a mortal envelope. Why did I write these sepulchral fantasies? Why, partly to remind you and myself that we are spirits in prison; and mainly in the hope of discomforting an old man on a winter's night, or a girl in the bloom of her youth.

"I have dwelt in haunted houses, and I have prepared a chamber for you. If I conjure up in you a dreadful joy, like that of a small boy on a secret stair, my malice will be satisfied.

In that interests you, by chance, than the publisher for Kirk's latest tale is Arkham House Publish-

Monday's Commentary

Imagination is a wonderful thing - when it's used to good advantage. The thought came to mind the other evening when The Stroller attended the opening of the Plymouth Landing, the new restaurant beside the railroad tracks on Main Street.

Looking at the modern decor, the stained glass windows and the lush carpet, he had difficulty remembering that the building was once a factory.

It was from here that the Markham air rifle, which later became part of Daisy Air Rifle, was shipped all over the world.

Yet that's what has happened to this building, all because of the imagination of men like Jim Jabara, John Thomas and Harold Guenther.

They just let their imaginations run wild. And because they did, Plymouth now has a new restaurant of which it can be proud.

DURING THE EVENING, The Stroller couldn't help recall that the old three-story building had a special place in his memory, too.

It was almost on the very spot that he reported to the late Don Ryder, who was on the draft board for World War II. The Stroller never was called, but he remembers the morning he signed up vividly

Speaking of imagination, how about the changes taking place on the site of the old Kresge store on Main Street.

Who would have thought that it could be renovated into one of the most fashionable furniture stores in the area? The Plymouth Furniture people did and its zig-zag design is superb.

Most people would have kept the big room's rectangular shape. But not the new group. They came up with an interior display that is eye-catching.

And you surely remember Lou Goddard, the fellow who conceived the mini-mall idea at the corner of Main Street and Ann Arbor Trail before he retired to Arizona.

Lou had sold his manufacturing business and purchased what used to be the old 5,10 and 25 cent store. Figuring that several tenants would be better than one, he revamped the building's interior and, as a result, Plymouth had the first mini-mall in the area.

AND IT TOOK a lot of imagination to picture Forest Mall, the series of small shops that have become popular with women shoppers.

Only a group with imagination could have thought of that. But Plymouth has it, and it now being copied in the western suburbs.

Remember the Mayflower Hotel in '50s with its big, bare coffee shop and a dining room, highlighted only by the pictures of the Pilgrims in New Eng-

Well, Ralph Lorenz turned his imagination loose and changed the area into something new. He rebuilt the coldlooking coffee shop into what is now The Steak House - one of the most popular dining places around. He then tore out an old kitchen and installed what he chose to call The Crow's Nest. It is a replica of an old English Pub. And he had large beams put in the dining room to give added effect.

Old-timers wouldn't recognize the inside of the Mayflower today

Do you remember when there were eight bowling lanes on the second floor of what is now The Meeting House? They were run by the Elks Lodge, but imagination removed them and a fine banquet hall now stands in their place.

That's why imagination is such a wonderful thing. It has given Plymouth plenty to be proud of.

Part of the bill introduced in February, 1979 which would allow her to receive that money stipulates that a percentage of the sum is nontaxable.

The bill is pending before the House Judiciary Committee. If it wins their approval, the bill will make it to the floor of the Senate and then move on to the House of Representatives.?

MEMBERS OF Sen. Donald Riegle's staff speculate the bill might make it out of the Senate by July 1, 1979.

The billhas won the support of President Jimmy Carter and is cosponsored by Sen. Ted Kennedy.

Comments from the Army and the Veterans' Administration are necessary for the consideration of the bill. Despite a grass roots feeling in the Detroit area that those two organizations don't want Mrs. Slovik to receive any money, Reigle staffer John Graykowski said he expects their comments to be favorable.

But for Ulman, the legal efforts in Washington have taken "too damn long.

Bogged down by poverty and ill health, Mrs. Slovik needs help in paying for her medical bills. She sold her home and for a while lived in a motel in Redford. "I want her to have something in life," said Ulman.

YOU COULD see Chester coming back from minnow netting forays into Lake St. Clair when he was still maybe a mile from the lighthouse that marks the point where the Lake flows into the River. His boat wasn't hard to spot - that 55-gallon drum in the bow made it look like a miniature iron ore freighter.

When you saw him you knew you had time to do just about anything you wanted to before he made it back to the docks. After you spotted him, all that weight in front of that puny outboard gave him an estimated time of arrival of about 90 minutes.

Chester was on the water five or six hours a day. so his face was the color of expensive Cordovan English walking shoes. He also had terrible sinuses. Somewhere in the depths of those pants he kept one of the cloths mechanics use to sop up grease. Every few minutes he'd rummage around until he found it, then noisily blow his nose.

Still, none of this had anything to do with his professional life. He was a truly great fisherman.

Although illegal. Chester didn't chase minnows. He parked in some likely looking place and waited for them to come to him, checking on their progress with the net every now and then. In the meantime, he fished with rod and reel.

Chester pulled an Atlantic salmon out of the Detroit River in 1966, when there weren't supposed to be any Atlantic salmon east of Boston.

WHEN CHESTER caught that salmon, he didn't have the faintest idea what it was. At Tommy's Boat Livery they kept a very large book full of color photos of fish, but nobody'd used it in years when you've seen one perch, you've seen them all.

The book was on a shelf above the mounted head of the third largest muskie caught in the history of mankind.

Chester pulled that big book down and started leafing through it. When he saw a picture that looked like the fish - which he had spread out on his lap below the book for easy reference - he stopped and compared. And when he found a picture that said Atlantic Salmon, he'd found the brother of the fish on his workpants.

Big excitement was the result. Newspapers were called, and surprisingly enough they came and took pictures. And brought with them some guys from the Department of Natural Resources.

This presented a problem to Chester, who had 40 or 50 pounds of illegal walleye in his boat. The season on them was still closed, but when you can fillet them and get $1.25 a pound for the result, you don't let legal niceties bother you. At least, not if you're The boys from the DNR, however, were much more bothered by such minor scruples. As far as I know, Chester was the first person to ever catch an Atlantic salmonin the Detroit River. In exchange, he also got to be the only guy I know

So, perch and smelt may not be thost exciting things to catch, but they beat the hell out of lighting matches and writing your initials with soot on the ceiling of a county cell.

Easter congressional junkets cost in millions

By TERESA BANAS

More than 120 U.S. lawmakers traveled at government expense during the recent Easter break of the 97th

Taxpayers will pay close to $3 million for the trips, according to US News & World Reports magazine.

During the 12-day holiday they visited places like Peking, Jamaica, Great Britain and the Middle East (to name but a few).

Some lawmakers who decided to stay behind and visit their home districts said they wouldn't be surprised if the expense far exceeds $3 million.

However, most elected officials say the money is well spent because of the need for congressmen and senators to become acquainted with global conditions that effect U.S. legislation and policy. Others say there are some cases that leave one hard pressed to justify dollars spent

Here are the vacation stories of local congressmen, those who flew and those who stayed behind, prior to their returning to their respective hot seats in the nation's capitol last week.

U.S. REP. WILLIAM BRODHEAD D-Detroit

According to Brodhead's aide, Phil Jordon, this congressman sounds like one of the few purists in the bunch: "He's never taken one of those trips those junkets," Jordon said. "He just doesn't believe in them himself."

Brodhead spent his break time consulting with his constituents and hosting an open house meeting in Detroit. His district includes Redford Township, Detroit, Southfield, Farmington, Farmington Hills and Lathrup Village.

Brodhead says he uses such breaktimes to get in touch with "two elements that get neglected" when Congress is in session — his family and the concerns of his district.

Never having gone on one of these overseas trips, Brodhead says he doesn't exactly know what goes on. lic of China was one of the prime travel However, he is skeptical when he spots this season, most obviously, belearns of congressional trips to Califor- cause of normalization of relations benia or Puerto Rico.

bers of that group "traveled all around the world," visiting 11 countries last year, he said. Some of the high spots included the Middle East, Far East, Columbia and northern Africa.

"As far as I know, they haven't produced any legislation or recommended legislation in that time," he says.

Brodhead suggested these committee members hike down to "certain college campuses," as well as the hearts of New York City or Detroit for drug traffiking information.

U.S. REP. WILLIAM FORD D-Taylor

Jetting back into Washington last week, Ford was one of those travelers visiting the People's Republic of China. Ford represents Wayne County, including the communities of Westland, Garden City and Livonia. In Congress he's chairperson of the Post Education Subcommittee, as well as a member on various education and labor commit-

Ford's administrative aide last week said the congressman had plans to meet with Chinese education officials while visiting that country. The aide said Ford was among seven committee members from the Education and Labor Committee that made the trip.

U.S. REP. CARL PURSELL D-Plymouth

Pursell also was among those visiting China and Japan. His aide, Bill Kerans, said the visits were about 8-to-2 on a ratio of work to pleasure. Pursell is a member of the Employment Opportunity Sub-committee and the Education and Labor Committee. Pursell's Michigan district includes Monroe, Washtenaw and Wayne Counties including the cities of Plymouth and Livonia.

"I think if you can't justify it publicly, you have no business going," Kerans said, referring to congressmen's traveling expenses.

Kerans said that the People's Repubtween that country and the United "I think some of these trips taken are States. With that in mind, legislators firsthand knowledge of future trade However, like most questioned, he deals, as well as to determine what this

One of Pursell's reasons for taking the trip, Keran said, was to assess the prospect of increased trade between Brodhead considers the travels of the two nations and its effect on U.S.

According to Keran, Pursell had a areas that give the Congress a black few local businesses in mind whose owners expressed interest in trade with China, such as an Ann Arbor-based electronics firm.

Keran says Pursell has been involved in discussions concerning U.S. steel producers and upcoming trade policies involving Japan.

Keran justifies the trip by saying Pursell is looking at the possibility of cultural and educational exchanges between the States and the People's Republic of China. Thinking in terms of his own district, Keran says Pursell views Eastern Michigan University and the University of Michigan as two institutions that could benefit from the normalization with student exchanges.

This was Pursell's first trip to China.

U.S. REP. WILLIAM BROOMFIELD R-Birmingham

Broomfield, a member of Congress for more than 20 years, traveled no farther than Birmingham this Easter break. He held appointments and made appearances, one of which before the Bloomfield Hills Lions Club.

However, in the past, Broomfield has traveled overseas, most memorably during the Ford Administration following the recognition of the People's Republic of China.

"I just don't have any apologies for the trips I've taken," he said.

A year ago he traveled to the Mid-East, taking in such stops as Isreal, Egypt, Jordan and Saudi Arabia.

Included in that Congressional tour was a stop in Iran. Broomfield said neither he nor members of his travelling group detected opposition brewing against the now-ousted Shaw of Iran.

Broomfield also pointed to some overseas visits as being far removed from pleasure trips, such as his tour of Pakistan several years ago. Visiting programs in that country, he was caught in the midst of an anti-American demonstration and attack on his

He said overseas visits is money well spent because Michigan ranks second among U.S. exporting states.

U.S. SEN. CARL LEVIN D-Michigan

According to Levin's office, Michigan's junior senator spent the Easter recess in Michigan, as well as on a three-day stop in California. A member of the Armed Services Committee, China prior to the normalization Levin toured various military submarine installations. The guidelines for payment

By TERESA BANAS

Trying to find out the incured expenses of globetrotting legislators becomes a lesson of government in motion - "slow" motion.

The consensus appears to be that legislators traveling abroad are allowed $75 for daily expenses. When traveling with a committee or other U.S. constituency, then a military plane is put at their disposal.

The expenses of some 120 lawmakers traveling abroad hit some $3 million, according to magazine articles. Some legislators view that as a conservative estimate. Committee cost accounts are not due in until June. They are reported quarterly to the House and Senate.

Attempting to find accountability in government became a congressional shuffle. Here are the sidesteps involved in the little dance number:

With your right foot out, you begin with the committee office. Take the Labor-Education Committee, for example. There you're told the state department has the listing of the expenses incured and the military keeps records of flight expenses.

At the State Department, friendly office personnel refer you to the secretary of the Senate, for the traveling expenses of senators. There, you're told the State Department's travel bureau keeps such information. And in the State Department's travel bureau, you're turned right around and told the information should be available at the committee

A State Department public information officer says that until recently, there's been little interest in the traveling expenses of U.S. legislators. He attributes the recent interest as generated by heightened press coverage.

He also says today trend is that "nobody (meaning legislators) wants to be caught spending

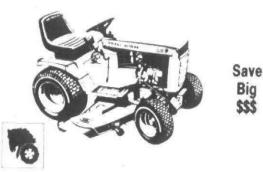

"I think there are some changes and they are fairly clear around here ," he adds. "Cost consciousness has set into Washington.'

Life on a farm in Plymouth Township in the 1830s was not always pleas-

Lettie Teeple, who was born here in 1829, recalled one cold winter's day when she suddenly came across the carcasses of several hogs her father had just butchered

"There was nothing at that time that looked more horrible to me," she wrote, "than dressed hogs with their bloody throats. For a long time after, I was haunted by those stiff porkers. Parents should be careful in this matter to prevent small children from being frightened.

But life on a farm in those days could have its attractive aspects, too. Lettie wrote, rather poetically, about the wild flowers, the green fields, and "the lofty forest-trees which appeared to be bowing to each other when the wind blew."

She remembered a visit to Grandfather Teeple's barn where she heard preaching for the first time. "The barn was all set up for the meeting," she wrote. "The minister took his place and commenced the ceremonies.

"It was the first religious meeting I ever heard. The minister talked loud, and looked fierce, and I was afraid. In got as close as I could to father."

In 1836, against the wishes of his wife, Mr. Teeple moved the family to the Grand River country. Lettie, who married and moved to the West Coast, died 68 years ago in Seattle.

Her story was contained in a manuscript published in 1974 in "Michigan History," a quarterly published by the Michigan Department of State. It was edited by Professor John H. Yzenbaard, of Western Michigan University, and John Hoffman, former editor of the quarterly

Women in Social Reform

One hundred years ago, Plymouth essessed one of the most active chap ters of the Women's Christian Temperance Union in Wayne County.

Of the 50 county conventions held between 1879 and 1929, Plymouth hosted eight of them; only Detroit hosted

Either the saloon problem here was greater than in surrounding villages or, as is more likely, the women in Plymouth exhibited greater zeal in their efforts to combat John Barleycorn.

The local chapter was founded on May 13, 1877. Two years later a countywide convention was held here in the First Methodist Episcopal Church. Frances Willard, the organization's corresponding secretary, came here from Chicago to address the meeting.

The WCTU did more than labor against the evils of liquor. It secured the appointment of matrons in prisons. It lobbied for separate prisons for women. It made the sale of tobacco to minors illegal. But, as Phoebe Patterson wrote in her history of the local

"Our ultimate aim was the prohibition of the liquor traffic, and equal suffrage for women.

The League of Women Voters is said to be a direct descendant of the WCTU.

Among the women who stood out in the activities of the WCTU in Plymouth were Jennie Voorhies, Mrs. E.L. Beals, Clara Frisbie, Mrs. Patterson, and her daughter, Clara Todd.

Mrs. Voorhies, mother of Paul Voorhies who became attorney general of Michigan in the 1930s, was president of the chapter for 10 years.

Voorhies remembered that his mother had him distribute WCTU circulars when he was a boy. She didn't trust other boys to do the job. Instead of passing out the flyers they would hide them under the board sidewalks then used in the best sections of the vil-

Mrs. Patterson, who served as president of the chapter, also was its recording secretary for 25 years. She became Michigan's first justice of the peace, and was the chief figure in a celebrated court case in the 1920s which involved the rights of women.

Her daughter, Clara Todd, succeded her mother as recording secretary, and continued in that capacity for another 30 years.

In promoting temperance education, the WCTU women engaged in mass meetings, pledge signings, Bible readings, cottage prayer meetings, houseto-house visitations to those who imbibed, visits to those in jail, and evangelistic services.

They were not popular with everyone in the community, but the women in Plymouth who kept the local chapter going in the face of stiff opposition from distillers, brewers, saloon owners and other vested interests deserve recognition for their courage and perseverance.

Women in Education

Among women who were prominent in the educational field in the Plymouth area were Ella Chaffee, who became the first high school principal here in 1881; Ann Smith, who taught here for 40 years and was in charge of the local public library for a quarter of a century until she retired at age 70 in 1953.

If gaps in your employee rolls during the summer vacation period give you headaches, you might think about hiring temporary summer student help, using a "temporaries" agency, or bringing in your own children. There are advantages to each arrangement.

While your regular employees are on vacation, you can frequently shuffle your remaining staff around to cover the vacancies. But this unsatisfactory arrangement can lead to poor coverage of both the absentee's and the substitute's jobs.

A MORE EFFICIENT solution is to hire enough temporary employees to effectively handle the vacant spots as

If your business is a small one, with only a few employees, one extra summer person might suffice. A larger concern could use more Your business needs will determine the right number.

An excellent source of this summer help is local high schools and colleges. These summer part-timers and fill-ins are generally energetic and willing to learn.

Although they frequently require close supervision because of unfamiliarity with the position, you might even find some with related career goals who would be particularly interested in learning your business.

No special recordkeeping is involved, either. In fact, if the student indicates on his or her Form W4 that no federal income taxes were owed last year and none are expected this year you won't even have to withhold federal income taxes. You will have to withhold Social Security taxes, however.

If special skills are required for the vacant position, you might consider using one of the many temporary help services. These agencies will screen and test applicants for your particular needs. The persons they send you will be on their payrolls, not on yours, so no payroll records are necessary. You simply record the fee as a business expense.

Another advantage is that you will not have to spend time or money advertising, interviewing, screening, checking references or testing applicants for positions which will last only a few days or weeks. And you will avoid misunderstandings

DON'T OVERLOOK the possibility of hiring your own children if they are suitable. This arrangement can be beneficial in several ways

First, working in the family business can give the youngsters a feel for the business, help them appreciate the amount of work required to keep it going, and prepare them for possible future partnership or ownership.

Second, you will have trusted employees with a stake in the success and growth of the firm.

Diaster threatens in tacky remake of, 'The Hurricane'

Spring seems to be the season of disasters, with floods, tornadoes and even radioactive fallout. Now there's one more calamity at hand, the Dino De Laurentiis production of "The Hurricane" (PG).

Mia Farrow plays a proper Bostonian gone randy in Pago Pago over a sexy Samoan played by Ex-surfer Dayton Ka'Ne. Ka'Ne, soon to start work on "Shark Boy of Bora Bora," has the cut of a lovely, brown-toned John Travolta. Farrow, more affected by the wind and rain, looks like a drowned mouse through much of the movie.

One reviewer described "The Hurricane" as "one torrid love affair and one bang-up hurricane." Oddly enough, the adjectives can be

Even the stern, tough navy captain (Jason Robards) can't keep his daughter (Farrow) in check, not to mention the natives or the weather. Nor is there exemplary moral conduct or support from the local priest (Trevor Howard) who has succumbed to drink.

(Haven't we seen Trevor Howard in this role before? Or was it Walter Huston? Or do all boozy missionaries look alike?)

THE ELEMENTS fare better at the hands of cinematographer Sven Nykvist who captures the sensuous beauty of the tropical atoll. The actual location was Bora Bora.

THE WIND and rain come (How much energy does it take to run all those wind machines?) and the world turns into a soggy spectacle. The sun emerges for a bit and then the big blow starts. Be assured, $22 million worth of wind and rain is a lot of wind and rain.

"THE HURRICANE" is a substantially revamped version of the John Ford epic made in 1937, just as another recent film, "The Champ," is a remake of a 1931 film with Wallace Beery and Jackie Cooper. Both originals are interesting within the context of their own era, but they are not cinematic equivalents of Shakespearean plays.

Why reprocess such slight, trivial material? These remakes, like numerous others, appear to be further instances of Hollywood turning inward and backward to cannibalize old films for new profits.

Revamping called for in Oscar categories

Some afterthoughts on the Academy Awards - why was Maggie Smith, who won an Oscar for Best Supporting Actress, nominated in that category? Whom was she supporting?

Why isn't there a category for animated feature films? Walter Lantz received a special award for his overall contribution in animated films, but there is no category for feature-length animated films. Thus, the merits of such movies as "Watership Down," "Lord of the Rings," "The Rescuers" and others go unrecognized.

Can anyone remember the five songs nominated for awards? The best-song competition has fallen flat on its keyboard for some time. The lackluster caliber of this year's entries was underscored when Sammy Davis and Steve Lawrence entertained with a musical medley of outstanding songs which never won awards.

It would be better to abolish or in lean years omit the category rather than continue a charade that dilutes the award's value.

NEW RELEASES

THE BELL JAR (R). Crack-up of a young poet, torn between life and art, is presented in somewhat flattened film version of Sylvia Plath's autobiographical novel.

THE BRINK'S JOB (PG). William Friedkin directed this comic adventure about the big heist with Peter Falk, Peter Boyle, Warren Oates and Gena Rowlands

CALIFORNIA DREAMING (R). More of that laid-back living in story about kids who make the California beach scene. Glynnis O'Connor and Seymour Casses star.

THE CHAMP (PG). Good cast in remake of old tearjerker about a downand-out boxer and his adoring son. Jon Voight and young Ricky Schroder are the touching twosome.

THE CHINA SYNDROME (PG). A gripping melodrama about an accident at a nuclear power plant and the potential danger. Jane Fonda is a television newscaster; Jack Lemmon's the plant engineer.

THE DEER HUNTER (R). An emotionally gripping and violent film about the lives of three friends from a small steel town as they are affected by the Vietnam war. THE FIFTH MUSKETEER (PG). Your average swashbuckling tale with heroes, villains and court intrigue. Beau Bridges deftly handles dual role as nasty king and his noble twin. HAIR (G). The counter culture musical of the '60s, directed by Milos Forman, comes to the screen with amazing vitality and musical ener-

Prepare thy self Beetle army

By JOHN CZUBAJ

In Colorado on the rocky slope of the great Long's Peak lay the ruins of a monstrous tree.

Naturalists claim it lived there for some 400 years.

The deep ugly scars on its mighty trunk reveal that it was struck at least 14 times by lightning bolts.

For more than 400 years, the tree withstood the force of the violent storms and the countless avalanches. And then, one day, the tree yielded and fell at the command of an army of tiny beetles.

The beetles were so small that one would have to look very close to see them. They slowly bored their way through the rugged bark and into the trunk of the great tree.

This incessant attack was more than the giant of the forest could endure.

MANY PEOPLE IN this world are annoyed and tormented every day by the gnawing teeth of the beetles of tension, anxiety, worry and fear.

Psychologists say if we are unhappy it is safe to predict we spend too much time in worry. But is there anything we can do about it?

Yes, of course there is.

We can learn to control a major part of the unnecessary tension and anxiety that leads to the misery of worry and Emerson once said: "We fear only that which we do not understand." Our first step in learning to control worry is to understand it.

One very wise man once said: "Worry is nothing more than holding mental pictures, in our mind, of something we do not want to happen." Surely this is true.

We think with pictures, not words. Words are only tools which we use to form pictures in our mind or in the minds of others. When we worry, we see a mental picture of something unpleasant, something we don't want to happen.

FORTUNATELY, THE mind of man can hold only one picture at a time.

The mind can alternate rapidly from one picture to another but it is impossible for us to think in two channels at one

So if we hold a pleasing picture in our minds we cannot see the unpleasant image at the same time. As anything else which is worthwhile, it requires some time, some effort on our part.

It requires self-discipline and practice, but we can learn to crowd the ugly pictures of worry out of our minds a good share of the time by replacing them with images which are calm, pleasant and tranquil.

That's how best to attack an army of attacking beetles.

ROD CANNON is settling into his new job as Chief of Police for the City of Northville. Rod spent 22 years with Plymouth police department. He was selected over 200 other applicants for the position of chief.

The Northville Record updated its readers on their new chief's first week in office. He spent his first days getting acquainted with the community, the city council, the staff, and most of all the files and paper work.

The article said he had rearranged the filing system and has plans to institute strict physical fitness requirements for the Northville police officers. To quote: "But I won't ask the officers to do any more than I can do myself," the 42-year-old Cannon said. Cannon is 6-6, trim at 220 pounds, plays baseball and runs regularly."

SUE AND ROD sold their house on Fairground in Plymouth last year and bought an old farmhouse in the country. They have been refurbishing the house and had intended to make it their permanent home.

Rod's appointment will necessitate a move to the City of Northville but the city officials are not demanding it be immediate. The Cannon's have three children - Michael, 18, Julie, 15 and

New kitchen serves up nutrition

By MARGARET MILLER

They're turning out 500 meals a day in the newly revamped "scratch cooking" facilities in the J Building Senior Center in Westland.

The hot noontime meals are served Monday through Friday to senior citizens at seven centers.

The Out-Wayne Couny Nutrition Program could, with proper staffing, more money and additional equipment, make those figures read 2,900 meals and 48

Caroline Lewis, who five years ago helped write the program that provides elders with a combination of nutrition and sociability, is enthusiastic about the improvements that have led to 500 of the meals being cooked from scratch rather than catered.

The cost is reduced from an average of $1.31 to 95 cents, she said, and "anytime we can lower our costs we can increase the quality of the food or the number of people served."

Receiving meals from the renovated kitchen are the lunch centers at J Building, Plymouth Tonquish Creek, Canton Recreation, Inkster Twin Towers, Huron-New Boston, Van Buren

City Hall and the Sumpter Senior Cen-

"THE STATE OFFICE feels that with enough money, staffing and more equipment, this kitchen could produce food for the 2,900 meals currently served in 48 centers in Wayne County,"

"That is something 've look forward to, because of the economy possible in preparing larger quantities of food. We will be adding more sites gradually; that is most definitely in our plans."

At a recent grand opening buffet, Ms. Lewis, head cook Yanus Howard and Dante DiVitto, director of the Wayne County Office on Aging, showed off the kitchen and its facilities for the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, the Commission on Aging and the Nutrition Program's Project Council.

Visitors viewed new ovens and refrigerators and serving trays, all part of a

"I like cooking and doing things for older people," he said. "This is perfect work for me."

THE NUTRITION program was mapped under a federal grant early in this decade as a means of adding to retirees well-being both nutritionally and socially.

"The aim was to provide a well-balanced meal, of course," said Ms. Lewis. "But beyond that there was the emphasis on more socializing.

'We wanted to get them back into the mainstream. So many retirees seemed to just sit home and many were not getting proper nutrition.'

There are specific nutritional requirements for the meals served in the Nutrition with socialization has definitely been a successful concept, Ms. Lewis added. "I visit the centers regularly and talk to the retirees taking part," she said. "They seem to appreciate the meals and the chance to get out and see other people. They also like the chance for a few games of cards, and the services like craft classes, health screenings and legal aid.

"All these things are beneficial." The seniors who go to the various centers for lunch "contribute" 50 cents, said Ms. Lewis.

"It's not a payment," she added. "Those who cannot pay still eat." While the kitchen facilities were being shown to visitors, Westland seniors were enjoying that nutrition

Story and photos By BETTIE CANNON

Bareboating in the Virgin Islands is not a nude encounter at sea. It's a do-ityourself cruise for a week or two in the water of your choice in a rented boat.

The only things missing are a skipper and crew and whatever clothes that can be spared. Everything else is furnished by the rent-a-yacht people anchors, sails, dinghy, safety equipment, snorkel gear, linens, and food

You furnish the captain, crew and sailing expertise. If you are a sailor with hands-on knowledge of big boat handling or know one who will take you along, start packing the duffle. But think again if experience is limited to day sailing a Sunfish on Walnut Lake or racing a Windsurfer on Cass.

Charter agents get nervous if a person can't maneuver a 30-51-foot craft (theirs) in unfamiliar waters. They'll ask if you can approach a dock under power or sail and whether you can leave the dock intact.

There will be charts to read and you should be able to pilot across reefs in the sun. Knowing how to anchor in all kinds of ground and in all kinds of sea is a handy skill, as are radio operation and first aid.

When renting a yacht, the agent will ask for documented sailing experience. Don't fake it. He will, and should, insit on hiring a captain if his suspicions are aroused by your ignorance of a selffurling jib's purpose.

When qualifications have been satisfactorily met, the next step is choosing the destination. You choose the Virgin right, too. You save $220 to $350 per Islands for swimming in the aqua/lavender Caribbean during the morning, snorkeling, sunning, or shopping in the afternoon, barbecuing at sunset, and sleeping under the stars at night.

There are many boats to choose from and the soft-shouldered isles are only a morning's sail from each other. The storied trade winds blow all year at a steady pace and the temperature hovers at 75 or 80 degrees. And, the cruising ground is protected from the heavy swells coming down the Atlantic from the north.

WHEN TO GO? Any chance which surfaces, some say. For novices, the best bet may be spring and summer when winds are gentle, 10-18 knots, and harbors less crowded. The price is week off season, which runs April through November.

Three years ago, on my first voyage, I sailed with husband Chuck, and friends, Ed and Eleanor Mooney of West Bloomfield.

We fought the winds, sometimes gusting to 35 knots, and chop every morning for four days, until we anchored, happy to be warm and dry in some protected cove. Now we all carry foul weather gear, remembering that first experience.

Twenty charter agents operate out of the Virgin Islands, making it the largest industry there. The following three companies, in our experience, provide safe, well-maintained boats and provide reassuring services for the first time charterer:

· CARIBBEAN YACHT Charter, Inc., a long taxi ride from Charlotte Amalie. St. Thomas, is small enough for personal attention and big enough to have a fleet of 19 Morgan Out Islanders. The taxi ride shows the backside of the island, which you miss staying in town, shopping and dining at tourist spots.

We rented a 36-foot Morgan, Kona Kai, with split cabin and two heads. Kona Kai means big wind, which for us was a small prophecy. Each couple had a roomy cabin, but the arrangement sleeps six comfortably.

The center cabin galley accommodates the early morning rush when some want to sleep and some want hot coffee. There is plenty of seating room in the cockpit and a bimini top is furnished.

Like all boats rented by major agents, these boats have plenty of tank space for fuel, for drinking and showering water. Icebox space is adequate and ice is available on all large islands.

· CARIBBEAN SAILING Yachts, Ltd., is the biggest charter agent in the area. Its fleet of 60, 33-44-footers, especially designed and built by CSY, is Tortola-based.

Beginning a cruise in the center of the island chain at Tortola, instead of off St. Thomas at the far eastern end, is a time-saver for a seven-day cruise. Whether you pick up your boat on St. Thomas or Tortola, there are direct routes to St. Thomas from Detroit on most major airlines.

a day or two and you can taxi out to the boat on the assigned day. Or you can fly out of Charlotte Amalie in a pontoon boat on arrival day.

Board the sea-plane downtown on the waterfront in Charlotte Amalie. The charter agent picks you up in Roadtown, Tortola, for the ride to your boat, which sails out the same day.

THE MOORINGS, Ltd., provides a complete resort service on Tortola for their customers. You fly into Roadtown

Traverse City is site of sailing seminar

Sailboats already have made their appearances on the Detroit River and inland lakes located about, signalling the opening of the sailing season in lower Michigan.

For people anxious to brush up or improve their sailing skills, or to charter a skippered cruise, "Sail Plan '79" may be of interest.

The symposium will include all aspects of sailing and techniques for beginners as well as the experienced. It will be held May 4-6 at the Park Place Motor Inn in Traverse City, with accommodations available at the hotel and local affiliated campgrounds.

The weekend will combine a party Friday night with a film presentation, lecture classes Saturday and Sunday, banquet Saturday night, exhibits and racing presentation Sunday afternoon, Fees ranges from $45 to $60 for the full program, and tickets may be purchased for individual activities.

early and swim in their pool, play tennis, dine in the dockside restaurant and watch as your boat is checked out and provisioned.

The Moorings has Morgans and Gulfstar 37s and 50s, all rigged for easy cock-pit handling. Some cruising groups return to the Mooring's eightacre complex mid-cruise to have a hot shower, a game of tennis and to get their land legs before starting out BAREBOATING DOESN'T mean bare cupboards. For a fee, agents fill your larder and stock whatever drinks you order. CYC provides a looseleaf notebook with all menus written out and food stored in order of use.

Provisions are plentiful. The Moorings once gave us so much food we gave it away to a man who had run away from home and job and was sailing the Caribbean single-handedly.

Charters include full or split provisioning plans. You may prefer to buy your own food, but cruise once or twice to get to know the territory beforehand. Some experienced bareboaters bring food from home.

The tab for full provisioning (three meals) per person, per day is from $9.75 to $12; $7.75 to $10 per person per day will give you breakfast, lunch and

Or choose Foxy's on Jost Van Dyke where you dinghy into shore in your cut-offs and where there are no doors to post "you must wear a shirt and shoes" signs.

Sitting over a cup of coffee on at a sidewalk cafe or drop into a pub Cologne's Domplatz, a broad square for a beer, the cathedral itself edged with sidewalk cafes and bright with flowers, you get an easy history lesson. Before you is the city's landmark and one of the world's greatest works of Gothic architecture, the twinspired cathedral, begun in the 13th Century and completed 600 years later.

Glass panels in the spare modern building beside it show off a 700square-foot mosaic that dates from the second century, when Cologne had already been a Roman outpost for 200

The building, called the Roman-Germanic Museum, was built in the early 1970s to house relics of the city's origins. Cologne had been a military encampment for a century when in 50 A.D. Julia Agrippina persuaded her husband, the Emperor Claudius, to grant her birthplace the status of a colony. Colonia, the Latin word, evolved into Cologne

The Dionysos Mosaic, the museum's prize exhibit, was discovered in 1941 by workmen digging an air raid shelter. Created with more than a million stones, it is believed to have been the dining hall floor in a Roman mansion. So as not to move the relic, the museum was built on the spot.

The Romans chose Cologne for the same reason that makes it today one of Germany's most attractive cities: its location on the Rhine. The location also makes it easy to reach by the vessels of houses in the Alter Stadt (old city) that KD German Rhine Line that cruise the river north and south between Holland, Germany, France and Switzerland.

impresses even the blase.

Its lacy stone spires, 515 feet high, dominate the square and surrounding buildings. Inside, massive pillars rise to a high vaulted ceiling that looks down on the cathedral's treasures: stained glass windows depicting the lives of the Virgin and St. Peter, the glittering Shrine of the Three Magi, executed by a 12th-century goldsmith; an altarpiece, the Adoration of the Magi, painted by Stephen Lochner.

A glimpse of the Dionysos Mosaic from the Domplatz is a hint of other treasures in the Roman-Germanic museum: elaborate jewelry from 20 centuries ago, ancient glassware and household utensils, tombs and statuary, and on the top floor a mosaic almost as imposing as the Dionysos.

A pedestrian walkway (no cars permitted) leads off the square along Hohe Strasse, or High Street. Lined with big department stores, specialty shops, fountains and tubs of flowers, it's always full of strollers, even on Sundays when shops are closed. Just off the pedestrian zone is the largest art gallery in the Rhineland, the Wallraf-Richartz Museum, with a magnificent collection of works from the Cologne school as well Impressionist, Expressionist, Op and Pop.

BORED WITH LIFE?

Are you tired of sitting around the house? Kids all grown and away? Husband playing golf or working? Why not fill your hours (15 a week)

We're looking for someone who can give us 71/2 hours each Tuesday and from 3:30 p.m. until 9:30 p.m. and the balance of 15 hours between Wednesday and Friday in our Livonia office. We're looking for an AD PLACEMENT CLERK. What's an ad placement clerk? He or she is someone pretty important to our newspapers ad placement clerks must be accurate, love detail work with names and numbers, be able to work well under the pressure of deadlines, and keep a number of operating procedures in their head.

If you want to get out and earn some inflation-fighting funds for yourself or family call Karen Farkas, 591-2300, ext. 284, for an interview.

Remember when you almost went crazy trying to find a solid oak hat stand? How you embarassed your wife in the antique store because they didn't have one and tried to interest you in a chamber pot instead and you told that sweet little old lady

Well, if you had used the "Wanted to Buy" classification that we have just for this kind of situation, one of our thousands of readers would have called you and your troubles would have been over.

Now, that little bird on top of your head (what's he doing there, anyway?) just told us that you're in the market for a 1938 Chevrolet hood ornament. So here are the facts of life, Horace: "Wanted to Buy" ads get results-that's a fact. 736-that's a figure. Use them and get results-that's a suggestion.

Looking for something unusual or run-of-the-mill? Try a "Wanted to Buy" ad.

Coupe de Ville, Seville among Cadillac's models

Among the luxury models that Cadillac is offering this year are the full-sized Coupe de Ville and the smaller Seville. Both models are designed to get about 14 miles per gallon in the city and 20 on the highway. Standard engine for the de Ville is a 7.0-liter V-8, while the Seville has a 5.7-liter fuel-injected V-8. A diesel, with 21 and 29 mileage figures, is optional on the smaller model. The special edition Seville Elegante shown on the bottom here has two-tone paint, special moldings, wire wheels and a center console.
