TWO U.S, GALLONS STANCAR

Gas crunch hitting home

By DARLENE STINSON

A local gasoline shortage?

Despite the absence of long lines or a California-style rationing plan, the owners or managers of at least four service stations in Plymouth and Canton warn that area gasoline supplies are skimpier than most people think.

The owners report a 7 to 20 percent cut in gasoline allocations under the level they received in May 1978. Most have cut back on hours or closed station doors on Sundays to conserve their May supply of gasoline.

And two of the owners are predicting that allocations will be cut further in June and July. That could mean long lines at the fuel pump and the month-end closing of some stations.

ONLY ONE of the four service station spokesmen took an optimistic view of the gasoline situation in an informal survey conducted by the Observer this week.

"I don't really think it's as bad as the media plays it up to be," said Casey Bakker, who manages the Speedway self-serve station at Five Mile and Sheldon.

Bakker said Marathon Oil Co. is supplying his station with 7 percent less gasoline than last year - the smallest cutback reported by any of the four stations.

"But I could probably pump about 35 percent more than I did last year," Bakker added.

Eric Evenson's Shell station at Ann Arbor Road and Sheldon is receiving only 80 percent of the gasoline that it was allotted in

And Evenson calls the situation "grim." He claims that gasoline allocations during the fuel crisis of 1974 were at 75 percent only five per cent less than his current allotment.

"We're only a fraction away from having the same situation as they have in California," Evenson predicted. "I think we're two weeks away from long lines."

The owner of a Mobil station at Warren and Sheldon in Canton Township is taking an equally pessimistic view. Bob Schmidt is receiving an 85 percent allocation this month, but fears his supplies may be cut back to 60 or 65 percent of last year's level when gasoline is allocated in June.

Schmidt has already cut 20 hours from his station's operating week and predicts that many service stations may have to close later this month when May supplies run out.

Mike Perkins, who manages Hoskin's Gulf Services on Michigan near Canton Center, also reports a May gasoline allocation at 85 percent of last year's level.

Cox named new police chief

Acting Lt. Jerry Cox was promoted to the number-one position in the Canton Police Department Tuesday night, following the resignation of Police Chief Walter MacGregor.

Cox, who won the promotion on his one-year anniversary date with the township, was the Canton board's unanimous choice for the police chief post.

He was selected from a field of four applicants which included Canton police sergeants Larry Stewart, Dennis Joker and William Lenaghan.

Cox, who was sworn in at midnight Tuesday, planned to select one of the sergeants for the acting lieutenant position on Wednesday. He said he will submit his nomination for the permanent lieutenant post to the township board by its next meeting on May 22.

Canton Supervisor Noel Culbert promised the two sergeants who will not win an immediate promotion that they will be upgraded to a lieutenant position within the next two years.

"I consider our patrol officers outstanding," he added. "They lack experience, but they have the initiative to be really good police officers."

Cox believes his experience in Sumpter Township's expanding police department has helped him in Canton. He came to Sumpter's force as a parttime officer in 1964 and gradually moved up through the ranks.

"It gives me understanding of township operations," he said of his Sumpter experience. "I worked in every conceivable kind of case. If I had come from a big department like Detroit, I

Cox fills the vacancy left by MacGregor. The 58-year-old chief resigned at the township board's April 24 meeting following a debate over the hiring of additional part-time officers.

School election to include 1.5 mill increase request

By ROBERT CAPUDEAN

A proposal asking for one and onehalf mills to cover increased operating expenses of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools will be on the election ballot June 11.

The millage proposal was accepted by unanimous vote of the board of education at a special Monday night meet-

The meeting, which closed to hear student expulsion proceedings after the millage and delegation of authority proposals were passed, was attended by about 15 people. Only support was heard for the millage proposal.

In a separate meeting of the Plymouth-Canton Citizen's Election Committee, Asst. Superintendent of Schools/Business Raymond Hoedel, said, "The resolution requests the millage for the next six years to maintain the current standards of programs and services in the schools during the 1979-1980 school year."

According to Hoedel, student enrollment is expected to increase at a rate of 600 to 800 students a year. This increase; combined with inflation's impact on operating costs, are the major reasons for the request.

IF PASSED, the millage would add about $1.1 million to the current opera-

Cost to homeowners is based on the state equalized value (SEV) of a home and would range from about $30 a year for a house worth $40,000 to $75 a year for a house worth $100,000. The SEV is one-half the market value of a proper-

In asking for the 1.5 mills, Hoedel said the board is "being optimisitic about financing from unknown sources such as state aid," and that this optimism carries over into other areas. If the millage fails, cutbacks would be necessary throughout the operating budget, with a carving of over $400,000 taking place immediately.

This would mean, among other things: cuts of $30,000 from the athletic budget, eliminating eighth grade competitive sports; $33,000 from special education aid; $60,000 in custodian positions; and other cuts ranging from $38,000 to $480 in other areas.

Cuts of up to $983,293 could become necessary depending on the outcome of the state aid formula, the number of students on the fourth Friday count and categorical aid.

If all the cuts become necessary, it could mean a shortened school day for

4 students expelled for role in theft ring

By ROBERT CAPUDEAN

A major theft ring operating "over a period of time" in Plymouth Canton High School has been broken, according to Superintendent John Hoben.

Hoben said four high school seniors, who have been accused of stealing more than $2,000 worth of equipment, cash and credit cards, have been expelled and will be arraigned on felony The four students allegedly raided the science and photographic labs, taking scales and other equipment. Cash and credit cards were also taken during raids on lockers in the adult educa-"The four students will remain barred from attending school until they have proven sufficient changes in their action," Hoben said.

The students can continue to gain credit toward graduation by attending classes such as those offered by Schoolcraft College. The four could then receive their diplomas after accumulating the necessary credits.

The board considered the action stern but necessary based on the severity of the charges, Hoben said.

City tax rate set

A half-mill increase and $2,849,000 budget for the City of Plymouth are official.

After four meetings, during which city commissioners pared the original two-mill increase proposed by administration, members approved the 16.45 mill rax rate and the 1979-80 budget Monday night.

The half-mill increase represents an extra 50 cents for each $1,000 of state equalized valuation (SEV). Assessment hikes increased by 10.7 percent in 1979.

That means a home valued at $50,000 and assessed at $25,000 in 1978, will be assessed at $27,675 in '79. The half-mill increase charged against that home would cost an additional $13.85.

The city tax bill on that home would be about $455, or one-quarter of the total tax bill for Plymouth property.

THE STATUS QUO in most services and a few cutbacks will be the result of the new budget which goes in effect Juné 1.

Reductions in the rubbish pick-up budget may require reduced services to commercial taxpayers, while the commission also eliminated supervisory personnel for the Vest Pocket Park, a police community service officer, and a few federally-funded employees that would have to be paid with city funds this September under the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA).

In general, budget increases created by the increased revenues will offset salary hikes, the major expenditure increase.

Increases in fees for recreation, licenses, and cemetery charges, and doubling of all the parking fees in the city also will be used to pay the city's bills.

The cutbacks in personnel represent the commission's answer to City Manager Fred Yockey's original budget, which called for a two-mill increase.

Yockey said at the time that services could not be maintained without a substantial tax hike, while commissioners agreed to hold down costs by trimming.

The city still force a possible relibed of spilled.

The city still faces a possible rollback of millage, depending on the ultimate court interpretation of the Headlee Tax Limitation amendment, approved by Michigan voters last fall.

An unfavorable opinion, in terms of the city budget, could require between five-tenths and eight-tenths of a mill rollback, under various interpretations of the amendment.

Still below its charter limit of 20 mills, the city could remain at present taxing levels, if the courts interpret the Headlee amendment as a charter limitation.

Dial-a-ride agency asks Canton to join

A dial-a-ride agency contracted by Canton Township has made a tentative decision to accept Canton as a member and save the township at least $14,000 a year.

If the agreement is ratified by member communities of the Nankin Transit Commission (NTC), Canton will no longer have to pay for the transportation services used by senior citizens and handicapped residents for the past 18

Riders, however, will continue to pay a small fee for the service.

Under the township's open-ended contract with the NTC, Canton must pay $6 for each ride that residents take on agency buses. Supervisor Noel Culbert said the fee totalled $14,000 last

But members of the NTC - Westland, Garden City, Inkster and Wayne - do not have to finance transportation services, according to agency chairman Glenn Shaw.

Funds from the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) and the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA) comprise all of the NTC's $660,000 budget, Shaw

NTC buses provide transportation for senior citizens and the handicapped throughout the four member communities and Canton Township. A new program that will be implemented this July will transport other residents from their homes to stops for SEMTA buses during morning and evening rush hour, Shaw said.

Riders must pay 40 cents for each of six NTC zones they cross.

SHAW SAID the NTC was formed about five years ago by Westland, Wayne, Garden City and Inkster. Although Canton was invited to participate at the time, the township did not express an interest in NTC services until about 18 months

Shaw said the NTC was hesitant to accept Canton as a member in 1977. The commission feared that the 36-square-mile township which doubled the NTC's service area - would increase the agency's cost tremendously.

Shaw said the agency voted to sign a contract for services with Canton as a "pilot program to find out if it would work."

But in April, the NTC voted to accept Canton as a full-fledged member with two voting seats on its commission. Shaw expects that the city councils of NTC member communities will ratify the decision by July 1.

"I just didn't think it was equitable to get state money (from SEMTA) and also get money from Canton," Shaw explained.

But Canton Supervisor Culbert believes his threats to end the township's contract with the NTC because of the $6-a-ride cost prompted the commission's vote to accept Canton as a mem-

Culbert said he was considering a contract with a taxi agency for dial-a-ride service that would have cost the township $3 a ride.

"We kind of embarrassed them into it," Culbert said of the NTC vote.

Japanese native recounts travel excitement in returning home

By W.W. EDGAR

Through the long hours of the night and the wee hours of the morning, Mrs. Setsuko Daoust, a petite Japanese woman, toils as a custodian in Pioneer School on Ann Arbor Road. And never a night goes by that she doesn't think of the mountains and the scenery of her home land and how she misses them.

Now, more than ever, she has the memory of the beautiful scenery as she has just returned from a three-week vacation back home and a visit with her mother and other members of the family.

"It was three grand weeks, " she said, " because I took my daughter, Jean, with me and it was the first time she had seen her grandmother.

"We were so busy meeting the family and friends at parties that I didn't have time to visit again some of the places I knew as a young girl growing up over there. But every minute of it was great fun. In fact, I am planning to go back next year."

While they enjoyed their stay in Mrs. Daoust's home land, the flight over was one they always will remember. With a broad, friendly grin she told how they had been chasing the sun all the way from Detroit Metro Airport to Japan.

They departed at 8.30 in the morning and arrived in Los Angeles at noon. From there it was a ninehour ride to Japan and they got there at sunset. despite a two-hour delay in landing. It was the first time her daughter has experienced such a thrill.

For Mrs. Daoust it was her third trip back home. She made her first trip in 1964 and then went back to Tokyo in 1968

How she got to America is the oft-told story of a native girl meeting a man in the service and becoming his bride. In her case, she met Joe Daoust, who was serving in the Air Force, married him and came to America in 1959.

Prior to that she worked as a housemaid and, as she tells it, coming to America and seeing American ways offered no problem to her as she served as a housemaid to an American couple in Japan.

"But everything over here is so flat — and I miss the mountains and the beautifil scenery. Mrs. Daoust was left a widow a year ago, and still keeps up her little home on Simpson Street in Working on the night shift probably would be a burden to most, but she has good reason for keeping her job at those hours. When her husband lived, she explains, he worked

Township OKs funds to pre-school group

A pre-school summer safety program received its first boost in municipal funding last week as Plymouth Township officials agreed to donate $10 for every township child enrolled in the program.

Plymouth-Canton School Board Trustee Flossie Tonda and Larry Masteller, director of the Safety Town project, were encouraged by the township donation. With a $7,906 budget, they were looking for $3,406 from the City of Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton Township.

This is the first time in its three-year program that Safety Town has had to search for community funding. About 320 pre-kindergarteners will learn about safety during four two, week ses-Enrollment is on a first-come, first-

All you need is a little cash and loud bidding voice to become the proud owner of some valuable or not-so-valuable merchandise that will be placed on the auction block this Saturday, May 12, at the Canton Township Police Station.

Items for the township's second auction come from all departments at township hall and the basements of some township workers. Many goods are stolen items recovered by police and never claimed by their rightful owners after a storage period of six months to a year.

Three 1973 Plymouths - including the fire chief's former car - will be awarded to the highest bidder as well as 40 bikes which range from tricycles to 10-speeds.

Other merchandise includes typewriters, copy machines, lawn mowers, a CB radio, a television, ski poles, fire extinquishers and a portable air conditioning unit.

The auction is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. at the police station on Geddes near Michigan. Merchandise will be on display for inspection purposes from 1 to 4 p.m. on Friday, May 11 and from 8 to 10 a.m. on Saturday, May 12.

Parents of handicapped are offered free help

A free series for parents on dealing with handicapped children is being offered by the Wayne County Parent Advisory Committee of the Wayne County Intermediate School District.

The first session of "Focus on Parents" will be from 7-10 p.m. Tuesday, May 8, in Harrison School, 28811 Jamison, Livonia.

Dr. Gary Navarre, consultant and professor of special education at Eastern Michigan University, will be the leader of community acceptance sessions dealing with parental, teacher and public attitudes toward the role of the handicapped in the community. Stressed will be a discussion of how these attitudes are formed and modified.

The community acceptance session will be repeated from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Thursday, May 17, at the headquarters of the intermediate school district at 33500 Van Born, city of Wayne.

Dr. Paul Pearsall, director of the Problems of Daily Living Clinic at Mt. Sinai Hospital in Detroit, will be the featured speaker for the free session on Saturday, May 12.

Dr. Pearsall will be speaking from 9 a.m. to noon in the headquarters of the intermediate school district. Pearsall will discuss the stages of parental growth, the demands on parents of handicapped youngsters, and an awareness of both positive and negative attitudes.

A session to acquaint parents of the handicapped with a wide range of community resources available to them will be held from 1-4 p.m. Saturday, May 19, in the Rackham Memorial Building, 100 Farnsworth, one block east of Woodward in Detroit.

That session will include presentations by the Metropolitan Society for Crippled Children, The Greater Detroit Society for the Blind, Detroit Orthopedic Clinic, Wayne State University Speech and Hearing Clinic, and the Downriver-Dearborn Learning Center.

The final session will feature Dr. Dayton Gnaw, assistant director of the Growth Center in Allen Park, who will speak on the development of effective communication skills within various "childparent-educator" relationships and the critical importance of carryover of this training into the

Dr. Gnaw's session will be from 7-10 p.m. Thursday, May 24, in the Henry Ford Centennial Library, 16301 Michigan Avenue between Evergreen and Southfield Road in Dearborn.

But officials told Pickwick residents, who are worried about their property values, that they are not sure how to stop the project.

" Site plans which meet a community's zoning requirements cannot be denied on the basis that officials do not like the nature of the development.

THE BOARD feels its best chance for stopping the low-income project comes from an allegation that the proposal violates the Pickwick PUD agreement.

The agreement states that all developments in the PUD must be compatible. Pickwick residents say low-income housing is not compatible with their $80,000 homes.

The township board is considering litigation against Amurcon on that

"But we have to have legal ground to base our opinion on," said Supervisor Noel Culbert, referring to the board's request for a legal opinion from township attorney Bert Burgoyne.

Pickwick residents indicated they may file a lawsuit to stop the project if the township does not. They already have retained attorney Gary Greenstein-brother of Trustee Robert

Pickwick homeowners claim construction of the low-income project would adversely affect their property

"I'm looking down the barrel of losing a lot of money," said homeowner Tom Stillings

Stillings claims the prospective buyer of a home on his street already has said she will not purchase the house if Amurcon's plans are approved.

"I wouldn't want that in my neighborhood," Culbert agreed.

Canton senior plans revealed morrow night for the 1979 Class of Plymouth Canton High.

The senior prom will be Friday in the Raleigh House, 10 Mile and Telegraph in Southfield.

A buffet dinner will be served from 6-8 p.m. with the band "Air" performing from 8 to midnight.

Dinner will include round of beef, breast of chicken, shrimp, potato, salads, beverage, and Baked Alaska. Tickets are $35 per couple and the prom is open to seniors of both Canton and Plymouth Salem high schools.

THE NEXT event in a series of activities for seniors will be the Seniors Honors Assembly on Tuesday, June 5.

The assembly will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of Canton High. Parents of students being recognized will be notified about one week in advance.

The awards and recognition ceremony is arranged by the honors committee, guidance department, and faculty.

Instead of a formal baccalaureate service, individual churches in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools will be asked to hold a recognition Sunday on June 10 in honor of the graduating classes of Salem and Canton high schools.

The senior banquet will begin 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, June 6, in the Mayflower Meeting House. Mock awards will be given to students who have received the most votes in "special" categories. This event is being ar-

Vandalism & theft hike home prices

By MATHEW BRZEZINSKI

Home buyers in the Plymouth-Canton area may be paying more for new homes because of vandalism and theft at housing sites.

Jerry Friedman, general manager for Creshendo Homes of Canton, said that vandalism and theft are major problems, and the consumer pays for

He estimated that the average damage done to a house during construction is between $500 and $1000. He added that some homes have been burned down by vandals.

Canton Police Officer Gordon Stevens said that vandalism is "a fairly common problem," and usually involves children and neighbors who live next to the houses under construction.

He said that last year in Canton. about a dozen cases of vandalism and theft from housing sites were prosecut-

Vandalism cases are "handled as reported" and prosecution of vandals and thieves is up to the builders, according to Stevens.

Joseph Tronzo, vice president of Republic Development Corp., which builds homes in the Plymouth-Canton area, said that vandalism "runs in streaks, declining in the winter and increasing in the summer months."

Tronzo said that vandalism is "not as serious as it was awhile ago and that some of the theft can be attributed to the tradespeople on the sites."

He added that he understands "the police are short of men to patrol the subdivisions," and that vandalism costs "a couple of hundred dollars per house sometimes more."

According to Lt. Donald Smith of the Wayne County Sheriff's detective bureau, the department has no special patrols in areas of new housing. He added that some building companies hire private guards to protect property.

"The police are doing a good job but you can always count on vandals and groups of malicious people who damage homes and anything that is movable is taken," according to a spokesman at Anthony Thomas Homes of Plymouth Township.

The spokesman, who asked not to be identified, said "vandalism is always a problem, and the costs are reflected in the rising costs of homes.'

Builders and police have reported that boards, plywood and even a furnace have been taken from houses under construction.

On April 30, some thieves went through an unlocked garage door in a new house in Canton and took kitchen cabinets and lighting fixtures worth about $1400, according to Canton Offi-ing site and doubt that the person belongs there, they should report it.

Lt. Smith of the Wayne County Sheriff's said that the department has seen very few reports of vandalism in the Plymouth-Canton area and none at all in the last few weeks.

Although large thefts are usually reported. Smith said the smaller thefts usually go unreported and the damages are absorbed by the builder or are added to building costs.

A spokesman at Almar Homes of Canton said that vandalism in Canton is "no worse that in any other community we build in, there will always be a problem of vandalism."

The spokesman at Anthony Thomas Homes said the cost of homes comes from the costs of paying the workmen to come back and repair a home, including new materials that must be purchased.

Tronzo, of Republic Development Corp., said that he would make a rough guess that their company is currently putting up 150 to 200 new homes in the Canton area.

The other builders are putting up new homes in the Plymouth and Canton area but they had no figures immdiately available.

Lt. Smith said that though there has been some large scale thefts in other He added that all construction sites areas in the past three or four months, are vandalized and it is a constant there has been none in the Plymouth-Canton area.

Plymouth - Past & Present Women who led

By Sam Hudson

(Part III of history of women in Frisbee, Mrs. R. C. Hall, Miss Maude Plymouth)

The last paragraph of my last column should have read: "Among women who were prominent in the educational field in Plymouth were Mrs. Ella Chaffee, first high school principal in 1881; Anna Smith, who taught here for 40 years; and Ada Murray, secretary to the school board for many years and local public librarian for a quarter of a century until she retired in 1953."

Included among the women who the field of education in the Plymouth area are eight who have been honored by having schools in the Plymouth-Canton Community School district named after them.

They include Nellie E. Byrd, Edna M. Allen, Helen L. Farrand, Nancy E. Tanger, Gertrude Fiegel, Ruth Eriksson, Mildred Field, and Esther Hulsing (with her husband, Kenneth).

ANOTHER LOCAL WOMAN who has contributed to the advancement of education in this area is Jane Moehle.

Dr. Moehle was among those who helped found Schoolcraft College and guide it during its early years. In addition to being a member of the committee which established the college, she served on the institution's original board of trustees, and was chairman of the board in 1969471.

Before coming to Plymouth, Dr. Moehle was Associate Dean of Women at the University of Illinois. She was president of the Plymouth chapter of the American Association of University Women in the 1960s, president of the Plymouth Symphony Society, and served two years on the Plymouth Commission for the Aging.

From 1974 to 1977, Dr. Moehle was Director of Community College Services, Michigan Department of Education. In 1977 she ran, unsuccessfully. for the Michigan State Senate.

In addition to her role as housewife and mother, Mrs. Moehle is now Director of International Studies at Eastern Michigan University.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

The oldest existing Women's organization in Plymouth is the Women's Club. Organized in 1893 by seven women who met at the home of Mrs. O.A. Fraser, it was orginally called the "Ladies Literary Club." The name was changed five years later.

The charter members were Mrs. Jennie Voorhies, Mrs. Charles Valentine, Mrs. O.A. Fraser, Mrs. Gharles Vrooman, and Mrs. G.W. Wallace, who was the first president.

The purpose of the group was to "bring members into relations of mutual helpfulness and cooperation in reviewing and discussing history, literature and current topics.'

In 1907, the club was responsible for the 9 p.m. curfew in the village. Two years later, it had to take the village council to task because the curfew bell had not rung for a year.

The club was ahead of its time, in have made a name for themselves in 1910, when it urged the village council to put cement walks and a fountain in Kellogg Park.

> In 1913, it sponsored a "Swat the Fly" campaign.

> In 1915, again ahead of its time, the Women's Club backed an anti-cigarette bill. During the same year, it supported a movement to abolish saloons in the village and wrote to congress protesting the shipment of horses to "The Belligerents at War."

> The Women's club was solidly behind the movement to get voting rights for women. In 1920, it voted $50 to help Judge Phoebe Patterson, a member, who was involved in a court case concerning the right of a woman to hold public office.

> It was the Women's Club, under president Ella Robinson, that provided the impetus in 1923 for a public library in the village of Plymouth. The club gave its library committee, chaired by Mrs. Paul Weidman, $50 to help finance the project. The village contributed $125. Local school girls, encouraged by high school principal Edna Allen, a member of the club, raised an additional $150 by means of "tag days."

> Lila Humphries, president of the Women's Club in 1924, was a strong backer of the library movement, as was Ada Murray, who was a member of the first library board and later served as head librarian for almost a quarter of a century.

> THE NEXT OLDEST women's organization in Plymouth, the Sarah Cochrane chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, was organized here on Dec. 13, 1926, at a luncheon held at the home of Mrs. Frederick A.

> The chapter was named after a woman whose grandparents fought in the Revolutionary War. Miss Cochrane, on the staff of the Detroit Public Library, was the first in the Detroit area to use the Dewey Decimal System in cataloging the library.

Those who oranized the local chapter were Mrs. Maude Sherwood Cooper, Mrs. Harriet Hill Wilcox, Mrs. Mary K. Hillmer, Mrs. Ada C. Murray, Mrs. Myrtle P. Randall, Rose M.H. Holstein, and Mrs. Lendrum, who was the organizing regent.

The regent today is Mrs. Albert Heindryckx and the vice regent is Mrs. Maxine Willoughby.

Membership in the DAR is based on proven lineal descent from "a man or woman, who, with unfailing loyalty to the cause of American Independence, served as a sailor, or a soldier or civil officer in one of the several Colonies or States, or in the United Colonies or States or as a recognized patriot, or rendered material aid thereto; provided the applicant is personally acceptable to the Society." The applicant must be not less than 18 years of age. (To be continued)

Past presidents of the Plymouth Women's Club who ('26-28); Mrs. Kenneth Hulsing ('50-52); Mrs. Ada Mur-('52-54); Mrs. Milton Laible ('48-52); Mrs. R.E. Cooper 32).

Newspaper finds itself in middle of zoning flap about a zoning flap Monday night.

Improper procedures on the part of city officials and some flak from residents sent The Crier publisher Ed Wendover back to the planning commission for another look at his proposal to rezone residential property in Plymouth.

Wendover wants permission to rezone the residential property at the rear of his newspaper office on Main Street for parking.

He expressed his displeasure with

A local newspaper found itself mak- the stumbling block presented when ing - rather than reporting - news city commissioners discovered the planning commission had failed to hold a legal public hearing on the rezoning request.

City Atty. Charles Lowe advised sending the request back to the advisory board to schedule a public hearing before its recommendation is submitted to the commission for an official

However Wendover will not be able to meet the city's own mid-June deadline for parking spaces to accompany his business.

COMMISSIONERS who were attempting to shortcut the procedure abruptly closed discussion on the subject when a resident in the audience suggested otherwise.

"I would recommend that it go through the proper channels - no special treatment," said Roy Banks, a neighboring Ross Street resident.

Ross added that several petitions opposing the rezoning were submitted to the planning commission.

At that point, Mayor Tom Turner cut off all discussion of other options, apologizing to Wendover for the city's

Prior to March 1, the procedure had been reversed.

WENDOVER presented an architectural sketch of his new offices for which the parking spaces are required by city ordinances.

Twenty-five spaces on the property facing Ross, west of Main Street, will be created by the rezoning, he added. He also plans to erect a masonry wall on the south side of the property and a greenery hedge on the west side to serve as a buffer to residential proper-

"We will lose two parking places to shield the lot from residences," he says.

The planning commission probably will schedule a public hearing on the subject for the June 13 meeting, at which time all neighboring residents will be informed of the request. The group's recommendation then will be forwarded to the city commission for their June 25 meeting, at which time they have the option to schedule a

Smith and Headlee at odds

Tax limitation has capitol hill in a turmoil

By TIM RICHARD

Richard Headlee thought he was making it clear last fall. His ballot proposal was for tax limitation, not cutting. Government revenues would grow only with inflation.

But Lansing these days is in a turmoil as the Michigan Legislature tries to write laws to implement the Headlee Tax Limitation Amendment. Among the three most important questions:

· When city property tax rates are to be rolled back, do you roll back the charter limitation, which may be as high as 20 mills, or do you roll back what the council actually levied last year, usually less?

· How do you draft a formula for rolling back property tax rates when property assessments rise faster than the consumer price index?

· How do you deal with voters who don't understand the basics of property taxation and who often think they voted cal governments across the state. In for a tax cut?

HEADLEE HIMSELF and Gov. William G. Milliken thought city property tax rates should be rolled back from their actual level.

Rep. Roy Smith, R-Saline, whose rural Washtenaw County district sprawls into suburban Plymouth, says otherwise. If, for example, a city had a charter limitation of 20 mills and levied only 15, any rollback would be applied to the charter limitation, not the actual millage. He points to the words "everything not authorized by law or charter" as the subject of the Headlee amend-

"Their intent was to deal with state" government," said Smith, himself a former township supervisor. And a reading of the amendment shows far more words dealing with state government than with local government.

So far, the legislature is buying Smith's interpretation. Gov. Milliken said in an interview last week he in press releases that he is.

A SECOND bone of contention is how to write a tax rate rollback formula. The job turns out to be amazingly com-

On the surface it seems simple: If property values rise (say) 12 percent and general inflation is 8 percent, then tax revenues will rise too fast, and you should roll them back 4 percent under

But there are two rival formulas, both using the same raw numbers but adding and subtracting different things in different places. One is Sen. Gary Corbin's SB 202. The other is Smith's HB 4232.

When you go through all the formulas, the bottom lines are that Smith's formula requires a smaller rate rollback than Corbin's.

Smith said the differences would show up only in a small minority of lohigh growth areas, his formula would require a smaller rate rollback than Corbin's. In declining areas, his formula would require a larger rollback,

Last week Corbin, D-Clio, held a hearing of his Senate Finance Committee at which an official of the Michigan Association of School Boards found another wrinkle. Suppose that last year a school district had a 20 mills tax rate and this year the people voted three new mills. Because of real estate inflation, the rate must be rolled back, so you have to roll back the 20 mills. But what about the three new mills? Do you roll them back even though the people voted them this year?

Sen. Doug Ross, D-Oak Park, sitting next to Corbin, puzzled through it. "This gets strange. You're telling people that if they want to levy 20 mills, they have to levy (vote) 21.5. That's strange accounting," Ross said, shaking his head wasn't upset about that. Headlee said ings is how the politicians figure the homeowners are often getting new public is interpreting the Headlee amendment.

"People tell me, 'My assessment went up. How can this happen under Headlee?" " said Sen. R. Robert Geake,

"Many in my district are incensed their assessments went up," reported freshman Rep. Alice Tomboulian, D-Oakland Township.

The explanation they try to give complainants is that the property tax consists of two parts: the tax base (value of the house) and the tax rate (millage). At this season of the year, assessments, and they confuse it with the tax bill.

Rep. Ruth McNamee, R-Birmingham, finds her constituents are well informed, but she has a different problem. "One unit (Birmingham) in my district was reassessed by the county. Our assessments went up 33 percent. I get some very unpleasant mail."

Those people aren't pacified, she said, when a legislator tells them the matter is complex.

THE LEGISLATURE is looking at further bills and constitutional amendments.

Rep. James Defebaugh, R-Birmingham, noted the state constitution says assessments can be equalized at no more than 50 percent, but the legislature could pass a law uniformly rolling back assessments below the 50 percent of true market value mark.

"But the probability of that going through is remote," said the legislative veteran.

Smith noted that Shiawassee Drain Commissioner Robert Tisch is sending out new tax cutting petitions. The salty-tongued Tisch's tax cut proposal of 1978 was defeated by voters, but Smith said Tisch's new plan has better technical language. Smith said the legislature must head off the tax cutting mood. "Tisch provides pretty much for the destruction of government," he said. Gov. Milliken agreed. "I hope we would not move in the direction of another Tisch. There is a danger in moving too far down this road," he said. Milliken pointed to another danger in the anti-tax mood - the chance that too many constitutional amendments will encumber what is supposed to be a basic document with too many details.

Culbert should use criticism constructively

Supervisor Noel Culbert is under fire from other township officials because they believe he isn't a competent chief administrator.

According to Culbert, the news that he is perceived as a weak leader comes as something of a surprise.

Culbert was the topic of a letter distributed last week by Treasurer Jim Donahue. In the letter, Donahue asked department heads to forward their concerns and problems to the supervisor's office.

Donahue stated in the letter that too many employees had been coming to him with their problems because they deemed Culbert ineffective.

Other township officials and employees have charged that there is a lack of leadership from the supervisor's office.

Is Culbert an ineffective supervisor? It's not the kind of question that affords an easy answer.

But judging from comments made by those around Culbert and our own observations of the supervisor in action, there is much truth to the Culbert does not control township board meetings. The strong personalities of Donahue and Trustee Robert Greenstein tend to take the floor soon after the Pledge of Allegience.

Culbert is too easily swayed by other people. He should not be so bullheaded that he can't change his mind, but he should be able to make a decision right or wrong - and stick to it when the need arises.

Culbert is obviously uncomfortable with controversial issues, possibly because he tends to lack self-confidence.

He is inexperienced in both administration and personnel relations.

Nevertheless, we don't consider Culbert a hopeless case. Most of the problems connected with the supervisor are ones that can be corrected.

His main problem does not stem from laziness or incompetence, but rather from having little experience as an administrator. He has never had the opportunity to learn how to work with people or resources.

Culbert, an attorney, said he has been attending various management seminars since he became supervisor. These seminars will hopefully help him put township hall in order.

Culbert should not be bitter because of the criticism of other officials. However, it can't be very pleasant for him to learn what others have been saying about him.

But Culbert has to take the comments in a constructive way and not overreact by trying to prove everyone wrong.

To suddenly shut everyone off at board level is a mistake. To stop delegating responsibility is a mis-

We suspect Culbert ran as supervisor more to provide opposition to Harold Stein than to win. Culbert won the position and now he's got to prove he deserves it.

Culbert has the potential, and time, to become a very good supervisor.

If he takes his peers' comments to heart without overreacting, he could silence his critics through effective leadership.

We hope we can come back six months from now and tell you what an excellent supervisor Noel Culbert has become.

Your views are needed

You are now reading the opinion page of the Observer Newspapers.

On this page each week you will find the editorial opinions of this newspaper plus columns of opinions by our staff members.

In recent weeks, we also have included the viewpoints of our readers by making it a point to publish letters to the editor on this page, rather than elsewhere in the paper.

Thus, the editorial page has become more than a page of opinion by this newspaper and its journalists. Instead, it now is our page of opinion — yours and ours.

IN ORDER TO help you share your views with other readers, a new feature will be introduced on this page in the next couple of weeks.

That feature will be called "People's Podium." People's Podium is designed to foster a free exchange of views within the community by offering a place in the Observer editorial page for opinions from our readers.

How does it differ from Readers' Forum, which also appears on this page? The major difference is length. We must limit the length of letters to 300 words, so that all readers have a chance to share

For some reason, Readers' Forum most often is used to express opinions which are reactions to news stories in the Observer, or to opinions we express. That is, of course, a major use of letters to the editor.

But we also like to hear fresh opinions from our readers - views on community issues which we may not have raised or which may not have been discussed by anyone. We are interested in opinions which maybe only you have thought about.

And if you have something interesting to say, we'd like to offer you more space than 300 words. Also, some community issues may be difficult for some readers to discuss in 300 words.

WHEN WILL People's Podium make its debut? That depends on when we hear from you.

If you wish to address your fellow townspeople, please type, double-spaced, limit to 600 words, and mail to: Editor, Observer Newspapers, 461 S. Main,

Plymouth 48170. Or if you wish to discuss an idea for a People's Podium before sitting down to the typewriter, call Remember, we are reserving the space for you. Will you be among the first to speak from the People's Podium on this page?

And if the 300-word limit is more to your liking, then use our Reader's Forum space by sending a letter to the editor.

Either way, we and the other readers are waiting to hear from you.

Don't alter drains

My family and I live in the Mayfair subdivision and were victims of the Friday, April 13 flood. Because of my work schedule, I was unable to attend the township board meeting and voice my feelings regarding this situation. I would like to take this opportunity to say that no one should be allowed to alter the dimensions of a facility that is meant to protect the residents of the area.

I am, of course, referring to the county storm drain. Not only do I question the legality of such alterations, but I also say it is a crime against your fellow man or neighbor, as the case

This should not be allowed to happen again. If we cannot learn to live in harmony in our own neighborhoods, where are we going to go?

Changes are slight

Michigan of 1928 revisited

"The famous taxicab army of the Marne has nothing on the spectacle of Detroit's industrial armies motoring to work . . . Commuting by your own car, whether from the boulevards or from the beautiful suburbs of Grosse Pointe, Indian Village, Bloomfield Hills, and Oakland Hills, is no joy ride; for Wayne County's automotive registrations total 396,000, and twice daily comes the big traffic fam."

Except for the word "motoring," rarely used that way today, you probably guessed the foregoing paragraph was lifted from a regional planning report of last week.

Actually, that was the way Melville Chater saw this region in March 1928, more than a half-century ago, in an article that took up fully half of that month's National Geographic Magazine.

A friend moving from his empty nest house to smaller quarters discovered it cleaning out his basement and passed it on to me with all the reverence due a keg of 50-year-old brandy. I'm treating it with the same reverence.

It's a humbling lesson for those of us who think the post-World War II era has changed the face of society. For reading that familiar magazine on the eve of Michigan Week 1979, you are struck by two

First, two-thirds of what Chater wrote then can serve as a guide to the "Mistress of the Lakes" today; second, the changes are mainly marginal.

THE CITIES which dominated the map then are predominant today. Detroit, Birmingham, Royal Oak, Plymouth and River Rouge are there - but not today's lusty young giants of Troy, Southfield, Livonia, Westland.

And those lines between the towns have funny cross marks. Good grief, they're railroads. Today's map is dominated by freeways, though the corridors are still the same as the Indian trails.

"It is, of course, (Detroit's) automotive industry, which predominates in this mass employment," said the ancient publication. "Yet notwithstanding so large an industrial population, Detroit may fairly be described as a slumless city . . . Moreover, the scores of superintendents' motorcars which were parked around automobile factories ten or fifteen years ago have since swelled into the thousands upon thousands owned by the factory hands themselves.

Did you get a double chuckle out of that paragraph, too?

Two photos show the start Detroit was getting in airplane manufacturing, and lumbering was more prominent than it is today, although the heyday of the timber camps was over.

Kalamazoo's celery fields are now subdivisions in sprawling Portage. Plymouth no longer manufactures nine-tenths of the world's air rifles, now that Daisy has headed for the Sun Belt. And Grand Rapids' furniture factories use more metal and Formica today than wood.

YET IF YOU think the riverfront ethnic festivals are a product of Detroit Renaissance, think again as you look at the photo of the Hungarian dancers doing a csardas with factory smokestacks in the background.

I love this line: "Ann Arbor will always mean a university, as Oxford and Heidelberg connote universities." The University of Michigan has imitators but few challengers and no peers, then or now. The photos of Angell Hall and Michigan Stadium could have been taken last week, and only a few sportswriters would detect that today's press box is bigger.

The Lake Michigan shore was described as "400 miles of highly diversified playgrounds. These range from sand-dune parks and cove-commanding camps in pine groves to cottage and hotel life on the innumerable inner and outer waters which fringe this wonderfully variegated shore."

The Charlevoix dock photo of 1928 shows lake trout displayed by commercial fishermen on a wooden cabin cruiser. Today's photo would add salmon, the boats would be fiberglass, and the anglers would be sportfishermen.

THE MARQUETTE iron loading docks, the locks of the Sault Ste. Marie, the freighters, Presque Isle Park west of Marquette - all look practically identical to the way I remember them from the last two summer vacations.

Nothing was said about pollution of the Great Lakes, but the 1928 Geographic writer was stunned by wastage of another resource: ". . . the scabrous, fire-scarred earth. Nine million acres of desolation! Men call them 'the cut-over lands' — this haunt of Nature's specter, where through empty eye sockets she stares reproach at man's abuse of her.'

We have made quite a comeback with our timber resources since then. It's enough to make you confident that we can also preserve our water, wetlands

People's Podium

By E.J. McCLENDON

As many people know, I recently finished a fouryear term on the Plymouth-Canton Community Board of Education.

During that time I served one year as vice president and two years as president of the board.

That experience, along with a lifetime of observing educational governing bodies, hopefully has given me some perspective on what makes a good board members.

Of the current board candidates, the writer knows only Tom Yack, as far as he is aware, and has no present intent to endorse anyone. This column is not intended to be of help or of harm to any candidate.

PERHAPS IT WOULD be well at the outset to note some of the characteristics which tend to make poor or ineffective board members.

Among them: the single-issue candidate; the person obligated to a special interest group; the stepping-st one politician; the regional or area delegate: the self-appointed financial expert; and the local school inspector.

Single-issue candidates usually base their case on one concern, such as improving bus service, being against or for the reading program, avoiding overbuilding or altering the attendance boundaries.

We should keep in mind, though, that a board " member has to cast a vote on a vast array of issues and concerns. While the trustee may be absolutely right on the single issue, hehe may turn out to be dead wrong or merely incompetent on hundreds of

PERSONS WHO ARE elected by and obligated to a special interest group, such as an employees' group or a citizen organization, usually find this obligation tends to "box" them in and prevents giving board business their "best shot."

This does not challenge support of and even endorsement by interest groups, but it does question prior committment to a given position or point of view. Deals even with good guys are still deals. The candidate who secretly or openly seeks election to a school board to get her is name before the public is suspect. This person always is looking at the public image impact of every decision and, thus, cannot decide on the basis of the greatest good. Good school decisions often come into conflict with election politics. When the tough problems arise, the stepping-stone politician often will take a

"forthright stand of avoiding it." The candidate who presents himself as the representative of the "Super Subdivision" or the "Cat Creek Area" usually wears blinders toward the rest of the district. A school board member who sees issues solely or primarily through the interests of one locale seldom can rise to the challenge of voting for the welfare of all.

Most single-issue candidates seem to run on announced expertise in building the school budget more than any other. They often will advocate zero-based budgeting, which means to start the entire budget process without considering past experience. When as much as 85 percent of the school budget is already set, by employee contracts and other fixed cost items, such an action would be both wasteful and inefficient.

School budget making is a difficult and complicated task. Budget approval by a board calls for its most thoughtful insight, and the initial budget building must be left to the staff competent to do it.

Hardly anyone will argue that board members should not occas ionally visit school buildings when school is in session. The board candidate who runs on the issue of "the board doesn't know what goes on in schools" and who usually promises to visit every building regularly is confused about the trustee's job.

THEN WHAT DOES make a good school board member?

It should be an individual who can look at the larger view both educationally and politically and hold individual self inte rest in thoughtful restraint.

The person should be flexible enough to confront unforeseen problems without losing balance and be able to change position when conditions warrant it.

Trustees should have integrity which keeps them from promising what they may not be able to or should not deliver.

They should focus on the role of policy maker rather than seeking to administer the schools.

They should have the courage to make tough decisions regardless of how unpopular they might be. They should always listen to the people but avoid being stampeded by clamorous minorities. They should be willing and anxious to learn every day they serve on the board. The honesty to admit they do not have all or even most of the answers now, and probably never will have still is the superior virtue.

He runs nation's largest family-owned bakery

Bob Awrey, 54, was born into the bakery busi-

That's the way it was with his father, and his dad's two brothers.

Awrey Bakeries has been an institution around these parts for nearly 60 years. It's believed to be the biggest family-operated bakery in the United States.

It all began when Bob's grandmother and grandfather, Elizabeth and Fletcher Awrey, migrated from Canada to Detroit in 1910. Between them they, had $50.

Using the family's wood-burning kitchen stove, Grandmother Awrey began to bake bread, which Grandfather Awrey sold door-to-door. This went so well, she soon added pastries.

As the Awreys' three sons, Thomas, Wilbur and Elton, reached their teens, they found themselves part of the action.

THE FAMILY BUILT a small plant on Tireman Avenue in Detroit, and the sales area grew wider. That original plant was enlarged several times. New outlets blossomed, routes grew.

In 1967, the company opened its present 215,000square-feet facility on Farmington Road in Livonia.

Bob had become president and chief executive officer Feb. 1, 1965. That's the day that his dad, Thomas, and both of Tom's brothers retired. Bob recalls his dad saying that when he hit 65, all three brothers would call it quits. And they did.

Tom is deceased. Elton is 86 and still sits on the firm's board. Wilbur is 84.

Stock in Awrey Bakeries is closely held. Seventyfive percent is family owned. The balance belongs to active and retired employees.

Bob said the ability of Awrey executives to buy stock in the firm is the key to vigorous management

BOB DOESN'T HAVE to look very far to see the next Awrey in line. He's son Tom, now 25, who presently is learning the business from oven to retail counter, just as all the other Awreys did before

For Bob, a career in baking was temporarily delayed by World War II. He left Michigan State University to join the Navy as a reserve officer candidate. He ended up taking courses at Western Michigan University.

Bob Awrey (center) knows most of the firm's 523 employees by name, like this doughnut packing crew of Rudy Godette of Detroit (left), 33 years service: Mary Jagielski of Detroit, 23 years service:

Following active duty and the end of the war, Bob returned to MSU.

By the fall of 1947, Bob grew restless. Classes became boring. In one on retailing, the professor seemed to be saying so many unrealistic things that Bob told himself, "I've got to get out of this place."

Shortly before the end of the fall term, he visited his adviser. Between them, by including courses he had taken in the Navy, they arrived at enough credits to qualify Bob for a degree.

Evelyn Leavey of Detroit, 33 years service. Awrey man agement is extremely proud of the longevity of bakery workers. (Photo by Steve Fecht)

BOB RUSHED HOME to tell his dad. His plan had been to head right back to the campus and the Sigma Nu fraternity house for a final round of social activities.

His dad managed to change those plans.

"You've graduated," said Bob's dad. "That's great. We just lost a guy who has been packing Christmas fruit cakes. You start Monday."

Bob has been working in the family bakery ever

He has watched the business continue to grow and change with the times. Once retail outlets were a key. The firm employed 1,200 counter clerks in 100 stores. Now there are 12 clerks. Awrey outlets are a thing of the past.

thing of the past.

Baked goods are distributed to stores and routes through much of Michigan, into portions of Ohio and Indiana — all from the Livonia plant.

THE BIG TICKET ITEM now is frozen institutional pastries. It amounted to one-third of the firm's $25 million in sales during 1978. It's estimated to top 38 percent of the gross in 1979.

Shipped by common carriers, Awrey's frozen products go to all states except Hawaii and Alaska. Customers include airlines, fast food chains, hotels restaurants, colleges and prisons.

Bob explains there is no bread for institutional customers — only cakes, dinner rolls, some pies and cheese cakes.

"Danish is by far the biggest," says Bob.

And this whole phase of the Awrey business came about almost by accident.

Bob grins when he recounts how institutional frozen foods arrived on the scene. It was the result of a decision that for a while had the bakery headed toward what might have been financial disaster.

"WE DECIDED TO CHASE Sara Lee in the consumer frozen package business," Bob said.

Property in Livonia was purchased and a giant bakery building was started. It was to feature 15,000 square feet of freezer area.

Construction took nearly three years, and during that period Bob and the five-man Awrey management team discovered that their firm was actually not suited for head-to-head competition on the consumer frozen pastry front.

So when it came time to move, the conventional operation on Tireman was simply transferred to the suburbs. The freezer sat empty.

But something else was breaking, "the eating out" market. This signaled the start of a revolution on the institutional scene.

Awrey Bakeries jumped in.

This newest segment of the business has gone so well that the freezer area is presently being doubled to 30,000 square feet.

The future, Bob predicts, will be in institutional frozen food service.

And the Awrey team will be there to continue playing its part.

Moon reminds us: All life has rhythm

Here it is again, the time of the full moon. A month ago when the moon was full, I was in southern Florida. As I watched that enormous orange ball rise out of the Atlantic, I could understand how the lyrics of "Moon over Miami" came to be written.

Even in these modern, ultra-technical times, the full moon suddenly reminds us of forces greater than ours which affect our earth and its

Of course, the moon itself is one of these forces, especially when it's

Tides fluctuate most during a full moon. Romance blooms, and so does lunacy. In fact, the very word "lunacy" comes from luna, Latin for

During the time when the moon is full, the rate of insane acts, suicide and similarly deranged behavior reach their peak.

CERTAINLY THE moon is not the only non-earthly force which exerts influence on us. I'm sure many moods we experience are a result of these outside forces.

For instance, think about circadian rhythms. Those are the cycles your body goes through every 24 hours - changes in temperature, energy, alertness and mood.

There is more to circadian rhythms than just our response to sunlight and darkness. To prove this, a group of scientists spent several weeks inside a totally dark enclosure.

The absence of light and dark variation upset their rhythms for only a day or two. After that, their bodies resumed the same natural circadian rhythm they had before entering that setting.

THESE RHYTHMS vary greatly from person to person. Some of us are day people, and some are night people.

WHAT CAUSES these rhythms? The planets? The stars? The hour of

It is certain that any thinking person must admit the earth alone does not set our patterns, and that we are all part of some very large structural plan, like various shaped pieces of a jigsaw puzzle which fit together to make a complete picture.

In our present state, our view is limited, and we see only ourselves and the puzzle pieces closest to us. But in the future, perhaps, we will all be allowed to glimpse the entire picture.

By BRAD EMONS

Plymouth Canton rebounded from a doubleheader loss on Saturday with a 5-3 victory over Northville Monday in a Western Six League baseball game.

The Chiefs are 7-2 overall and 3-0 in the league. Northville is 6-6 overall and 0-3 in league play.

Saturday, the Chiefs suffered their first two defeats of the season, losing to Detroit Northwestern,3-2, and Ann Arbor Pioneer ,5-2.

"We feel it was the best thing that could have happened to us," said Canton coach Fred Crissey, of the two loss-

"I'm not really disappointed. If we learned a lesson, 'fine,'" he said.

Canton was ready to play against

Second baseman Steve Gray literally got the ball rolling as he led off with a perfect bunt single down the third base line.

"We didn't play heads up on that bunt in the first inning," said Northville coach Bob Kucher. "We should have let it roll."

"That play hurt us," he said.
Designated hitter Guy Kanenen followed with a checked-swing single, which dropped into centerfield.

SCOTT DAWSON, the pitcher, then hit a high pop fly which the Northville

Rusty Mandle then blooped a single into right field, scoring Gray, but Kanenen was thrown out trying to adinfield couldn't handle, loading the vance to third base.

Leftfielder Dave Weise then lashed a line shot, three-run homer to left field, giving Canton a commanding 4-0 lead.

"That was the hardest hit ball we've had all year long," said Crissey.
"Weise got a good piece of the ball," said Kucher. "He's not the long-ball hitting type but we couldn't do anything to prevent a shot like that."

Despite surrendering two hits in the Northville half of the first inning, Canton's Dawson pitched out of the jam without allowing any runs.

Northville starter Mike Lauck settled down and allowed just three hits after the first inning Canton scoring binge.

"He (Mike) found his rhythm. They (Canton) had three tainted hits in the first inning, but that's not what beat us." Kucher said.

Canton maintained its 4-0 lead until the seventh as Dawson cruised along, displaying fine control despite pitching into a stiff wind. Canton added a run in the seventh inning when Gray singled, moved to third on a pinch hit single by Scott Racer, and scored on a fielder's choice. Northville rallied in the bottom of the seventh with the aid of three walks and an error.

But Dawson used two strikeouts to escape from a bases-loaded jam and cement the victory. Dawson gave up two earned runs and struck out nine. He walked five, while throwing 93 pitches from his teammates. Northville was guilty of four errors.

"He (Scott) needed the work. He was mentally sharp and did a good job for us," said Crissey.

Canton travels to Canada Saturday to participate in the Windsor Invitational. Birmingham Brother Rice and Detroit Catholic Central also will comnete.

Edsel Ford beats Salem

Dearborn Edsel Ford rallied for six runs in the final two innings, handing Plymouth Salem a 7-3 girls' softball defeat Monday.

The Rocks, 2-2 now in the Suburban Eight League and 5-3 overall, carried a 2-0 lead into bottom of the fifth inning. Edsel Ford struck quickly with a run in the fifth, two more in the sixth and four runs in the seventh.

Salem scored a run in the third inning when pitcher Jill Goodrich, subbing for the injured Jan Boyd, led off when she reached base on an error. Teammate Stacy Nicolin followed with a sacrifice bunt, sending Goodrich to second base. Denise Zonca drove Goodrich home with an RBI single.

Shortstop Becky Crespo gave Salem a 2-0 edge in the fourth inning with a solo homer.

In the top of the fifth, Nicolin led off with a single. Sue Evans followed with a single. Both runners moved up to second and third base on an overthrow.

Zonca collected her second RBI when she successfully laid down a sacrifice bunt, scoring Nicolin.

Evans was left stranded on second base and that was the extent of the Salem scoring.

Goodrich pitched all seven innings

Thundering Salem squad continues big bat artillery

The echo of aluminum bats from the Plymouth Salem baseball team have sent opposing pitchers home trembling.

It appears the shock waves will continue the way the Rocks have been swinging the bat of late.

Salem piled up 21 runs in winning a doubleheader on Saturday. The earthquake continued Monday as Salem blasted Dearborn Edsel Ford on the road, 13-3.

"We're ripping the ball," said Salem coach Brian Gilles. "We're like the (Detroit) Tigers. We'd like to stay that way."

Salem has a team batting average of .325.

In the first game of a doubleheader Saturday, Salem blitzed Ann Arbor Pioneer, 11-4.

The Rocks, who collected nine hits, scored two runs in the first inning.

Lead-off man Paul Woodard started things off with a walk. He reached second on a passed ball and scored on Paul Dillon's ground out which resulted in a throwing error.

Catcher Bubba Wilcox drove Dillon home with a double for the Rocks' second run.

In the third inning, Salem struck for three more runs.

Wilcox reached base on an infield error. He later came home on Sam Merrill's single. Merrill scored on Mike Cimino's single and scooted home on Mike Woodard's sacrifice bunt, giving Salem a commanding 5-0 lead.

IN THE FOURTH inning, Salem collected four more runs, putting the game virtually away.

Wilcox, Merrill, Mike Woodard and shortstop

Wilcox, Merrill, Mike woodard and shortstop
Chris Hannan produced run-scoring singles.
The Rocks added two runs in the fifth inning as Chad Chanik and Wilcox scored after successive singles.

Ann Arbor Pioneer contributed to the rout by committing four errors. They collected only two hits.

Starter John Holdsworth (2-0) picked up the victory. He went 4% innings and allowed one-hit. He struck out six and walked eight.

Jeff Primeau went the final 2½ innings and allowed one hit. He did not walk a batter.

"We didn't get sloppy against Pioneer with the big lead," said Gilles. "Our defense has been good the last few games."

Salem demolished Detroit Northwestern in the second game, 10-5.

Northwestern was fresh from an opening game win over Plymouth Canton, 3-2.

Salem however put Northwestern away with nine runs in the first four innings, grabbing a 9-3 advantage.

In the first inning, Paul Woodard singled and later scored on Wilcox' fielders choice. He then scored as did Jim Anderson.

Salem took a 4-2 lead with a single run in the second. Matt Etienne hit a sacrifice fly to score Hannan.

IN THE FOURTH INNING, Salem scored five runs.

Paul Woodard started the inning with a double.

He stole third base and came home on a throwing error.

After walking Dillon went to second with anoth.

After walking, Dillon went to second with another stolen base.

Wilcox then blasted a two-run homer over the left field fence. Merrill followed with a single and Mike Woodard walked. David Runge scored both runners with a double.

Barry Owens started for Salem and pitched two innings, allowing three runs. Runge came on in relief and notched the victory, his second of the season. He gave up three hits and two walks.

Wilcox went into the doubleheader batting .605.
Against Northwestern he had three hits and three RBI's.

"Dave (Bubba) had a good outing," said Gilles.

SALEM-EDSEL FORD

Junior lefty Primeau relieved starter Etienne in the third inning as the Rocks pasted Edsel Ford, 13-3, lifting Salem's Suburban Eight League mark to 3-1 and 9-3 overall.

Primeau did not allow any runs. He struck out two and walked three in gaining the victory. Etienne gave up three runs but was his own victim as he allowed seven walks.

Wilcox and Merrill collected RBI singles as Salem grabbed a 2-0 lead in the first inning. Salem then exploded for four more runs in the third.

Anderson led off with a walk. He then stole second and came home on Merrill's single.

Merrill scored when Hannan delivered an RBI single. Paul Woodard singled, scoring Hannan, and then crossed the plate himself after Paul Dillon's double.

In the fifth inning, Hannan started a Salem threerun rally with a single. Paul Woodard followed with a fielders choice as Hannan was thrown out at second.

Dillon, who had four hits in the game, smacked a double, scoring Woodard. He later scored as did Etienne.

Dillon led the 13-hit attack with the three doubles. Wilcox, Etienne and Hannan collected two hits each.

Anderson reached base all five times.

District final could pit Chiefs vs. Mocks

If all goes according to plan and both teams win, Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem could meet for the Class A district baseball crown, Saturday June 2 at Salem's baseball diamond

There are nine other teams who may however prove more than competitive against Salem and Canton.

Canton has been placed on the top half of the draw and will play Farmington in a qualifying round game at Canton. A date for the game has not determined but must be played between May 14-23.

The winner of the Canton-Farmington game will play at Walled Lake Western, May 25.

In the top bracket, Milford Lakeland and Farmington Harrison drew first round byes and will meet each other May 25 at a site yet to be determined.

In the bottom half of the draw, Salem drew a first round bye and will play the winner of the MilfordNorth Farmington game.

"I don't know much about Milford or North Farmington,' said Salem baseball coach Brian Gilles. "This is the first time we've drawn a bye in a few years.'

Salem played in the first round last year of the district and lost to Harrison, 4-2, despite a 17-7 mark.

Salem will battle the winner of the Milford-North Farmington game May 25 on the road.

If Salem gets by its quarterfinal game, the Rocks will play either Walled Lake Central, Northville or Southfield.

Walled Lake and Northville tangle in a qualifying round and the winner meets Southfield, May 25.

The semifinals will be played, Saturday, June 2 at 10 a.m. and 12 noon. The finals are set the same day, June 2, at 3 p.m.

Four teams will compete in the regionals the following Saturday,

Stevenson captures 9th Observer relays

By DOUG FUNKE

Livonia Stevenson, which never before had won an outright Observerland Relays boys' track championship, left no doubt about who was the best team during the ninth running of the competition last weekend at Hilbert Jr. High.

The Spartans, scoring in nine of the 13 events - including four first-place finishes - totaled 37 points, the most ever in the history of the meet.

Stevenson had tied with Livonia Churchill for the title in 1973 and finished second on three other occasions before winning all the marbles on a blustery Saturday evening.

"We didn't do anything outstanding. We did just what we've been doing all Spartans. "If you win the Observer Relays, people say you have a great track team.

Stevenson's four field-besting performances came in the high jump, the 880yard relay, the sprint medley relay and the mile relay.

Dave Hall, Pat Greis and Matt Boettcher combined to clear 17 feet, 8 inches in the high jump. Hall, a junior, also set a new individual meet record in that event by leaping 6-6.

As things turned out, that was the only record — either individual or team — that was set during the day.

Charlie Beane, a senior, figured in all three of Stevenson's running victories.

He teamed with Ted Ford, Jim Recker and Rick Arnold to record a time of 1:32.26 in the 880 relay; combined with Dennis Lanius, Rich Dubois and Ford to clock a 2:32.20 in the sprint medley; and hooked up with Arnold, Recker and Dubois to post a time of 3:30.35 in the mile relay.

"I started to feel real good when we won the high jump, placed second in the long jump and fourth in the discus," said Bills. "I figured us for third in all of those. Everyone knows we have a good track team. Nobody knows we have a good field team."

Bills said that he started worrying when his-four mile relay team didn't place, but when his 880 crew won the year long," said Tom Bills, coach of the wnext race, he figured they were back in the driver's seat.

"We've got a lot of depth," the Stevenson's first-year coach continued. "We have a lot of kids who are not going to earn letters but who would score points for a lot of other teams.

"Everyone performed just like they have been all season long.'

Redford Bishop Borgess, which placed second for the second year in succession in the team standings, won the shuttle hurdle relay.

The quartet of Tim O'Hare, Paul Bialowicz, Dave Zecchin and Matt Krogulecki, as expected, set the pace.

Their time was 59.5.

Borgess also finished second in the 880 relay, sprint medley relay and the mile relay.

Livonia Churchill, which had won the championship the last three years, just didn't have enough seasoned people to make it four in a row. The Chargers placed third with 23 points.

"I thought the kids ran as best as they could run. I'm as proud of these kids as those who have won championships," said Churchill coach Fred Price. "I told them true champions die hard and I think they gave up the championship hard."

The Chargers accumulated firstplace points in the shot put as Dave Luch, Darrel Copley and Issa Khoury combined for a distance of 139-91/2.

North Farmington, competing without a couple of its key sprinters, landed fourth with 1814 points. The Raiders led the competition after the five field events with 141/2 points.

George Houttikier, Tom Deighton and Mark Biehl won the discus for North with an aggregate distance of Plymouth Salem won two events and tied Northville for fifth place in the team standings

Rob Neu, Rich Hanschu and Greg Stevens totalled 58-1 in the long jump for the Rocks and Dave Skone, Jack Wellman and Dennis Ogden pole vaulted for a combined height 36-6.

Grawe powers Coast Guard

Bill Grawe, a resident of Plymouth, captained this year's U.S. Coast Guard Academy swim team to a 10-3 record.

Grawe, anAll-American NCAA Division III swimmer last season, narrowly missed earning honors again this year at last month's NCCA National Championships at Geneseo State University

A senior freestyle tanker who will graduate next month, Grawe is considered one top swimmers in the New London (Conn.) Military School's history.

With the Coast Guard Academy, Grawe will leave with his name etched on two team records, the 200-yard individual medley and 400-yard freestyle relay.

The Coast Guard swimmer attended high school in Baltimore, Md. and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Grawe, 15047 Maplewood Avenue, Plym-

Canton softballers rally past Northville club, 5-4

By BETTY DeLANO

After losing both ends of a doubleheader against Ann Arbor Huron and Ann Arbor Pioneer Saturday, the Plymouth Canton varsity softball team put things back together in time Monday, hanging on to defeat Northville, 5-

The Chiefs trailed Northville in the Western Six League game, 3-0, after three innings. Canton was unable to push a player past first base in those first three innings.

In fact, co-captain Valerie Harbin was the only Canton baserunner up to that point. But that changed in the fifth inning. Canton's Jean Krashovitz doubled to left field and Joni Sommerville followed with a single to right. After an out, first baseman Cindy Stevens tripled, sending Krashovitz and Sommerville home.

Senior Cathy Peck extended the rally with a single to left field and Stevens scored on an error. Peck eventually

The winning pitcher was Canton's Lucy Howe, who survived nine walks by getting six crucial strikouts. "Lucy pitched real well even though she did have a number of walks," said Canton coach Max Sommerville. "Northville was in scoring position a number of times and she (Howe) came through with strikeouts when it really counted."

Howe yielded just three hits.

"We were hitting into the wind and overswinging," said Sommerville. "The ball hung in the air for quite some time giving Northville the chance to make

Chief JV squad keeps softball record intact

Members of the Plymouth Canton junior varsity softball team kept their record clean Monday by beating Redford Union, 8-6.

Freshman Cindy Sovine was the winning pitcher for the Chiefs. She gave up six walks and sent six Redford Union batters back to the dugout on strike

Shelly Potter scored the Chiefs' first run in the second inning after singling to center field. She came home on an infield sacrifice after stealing second and then third base. The Chiefs rallied for five more runs in the third inning to take a commanding lead over the scoreless Panthers. Julie Stratton started the rally with a lead-off line-drive single to right field. After stealing second base, Stratton advanced to third on a first-base sacrifice and finally came home on a hit up the middle by Pearly Cunningham, scoring the Chiefs' only

Canton was held scoreless in the fifth inning and tallied its final run in the sixth.

Karen Nicholas walked and was safe at second base on a bunt by Stratton, who was thrown out at first base.

Chris Hoffman followed with a sharp hit to right field, a double, sending Nicholas home.

Redford Union scored one run in the fourth inning and followed with two more in the fifth. The Panthers collected three runs in the final inning.

" THE ONLY WAY Redford Union scored was because of our own errors," said Canton junior varsity coach Cathy Himes.

"We didn't know mentally where to throw the ball. We weren't playing in the right positions all the time," he said.

Himes praised the play of freshman shortstop Rhonda Stoner. Himes said Stoner saved a possible Redford Union rally in the fifth inning.

The Canton junior varsity squad is 4-0 overall and plays Redford Thurston, Wednesday at home. Game time is 4 p.m.

Brad Emons writes:

Slippery Rock a part of big business

On Sunday night, NBC televised an hour-long special on big business in college sports.

The show, narrated by Edwin Newman, focused primarily around recruiting malpractices and the rise of women's sports which has gained new freedom as a result of Title IX, a federal law requiring that female athletes have the same opportunity as men.

The show, however, didn't really focus on how big college sports is becoming from a business standpoint.

Among the interviewees on the program was Don Canham, athletic director of the University of Michigan. He talked about how college sports, especially at Michigan, has become such big business. He said women's sports within 10 years will encounter many of the same problems as the men, mentioning budget difficulties, recruiting probes and the pressure to produce a Canham's job at Michigan is to make as much money as possible in the most effective way. A former track coach, Canham has successfully made the transition to the business world. Michigan sports is thriving. Each fall Saturday, the Michigan Stadium is filled to capacity with 101,000 fans.

He has improved a woeful nonleague schedule with the likes of Notre Dame, which produces more revenue on a Saturday afternoon than Navy.

WITH THE HELP of winning football and basketball programs, along with a strong alumni, Canham has transformed the state into a Maize and Blue frenzy. Michigan State has done the same with the revival of championship teams in football and basketball.

With esentially a 101,000 fans guaranteed every fall Saturday at Michigan Stadium, Canham has come up with another braintrust to make more money.

His latest venture is to bring in two NCAA Division II schools from Pennsylvania - Slippery Rock and Shippensburg State. They will play on Band Day, Sept. 29.

Canham's unusual move appears to be another success.

Every Saturday, when Michigan battles its gridiron opponents, scores of games from across the country are announced over the public address system. And every time Slippery Rock's score is broadcast, the Michigan fans affectionately roar.

Why do they roar every time Slippery Rock is mentioned?

I'd guess it's because it's a cute name, which Michigan fans have made an institution out of. It's become a tradition and now Slippery Rock will live, in living color, Sept. 29.

Tickets for the game are selling like hotcakes. University of Michigan ticket manager Al Renfrew has indicated it could be a sellout.

With some 16,000 high school band members in the stadium, along with family and relatives, that figure almost doubles.

BAND DAY was discontinued a few years ago when season tickets at Michigan climbed to over 90,000. Band members were getting in free and costing the university valuable dollars.

Renfrew estimates that almost 15,000 seats have already been sold, not counting the band member affiliates. Many season ticket holders have expressed interest in seeing the game. The Band Day tickets are not tied to season sales.

The major beneficiary is the Michigan and high school bands. The Michigan athletic department also stands to make a profit. At $5 per ticket, Michigan's athletic department may benefit

I can't knock Canham for wanting to make money. It sounds like a fun day, seeing the bands. I wonder if Slippery Rock will really catch the fancy of the fans. What you hear and see are two different things.

It bothers me that this event is being promoted with two Pennsylvania schools. Shippensburg and Slippery Rock will receive a guarantee of the gate receipts.

How about a couple schools from Michigan? Say, an Olivet, Albion, Hillsdale or Kalamazoo. Wouldn't they love the chance to play in a big stadium and help out their own programs?

Salem golfers rip Edsel Ford, Willow Run

By BETTY DeLANO

Plymouth Salem freshman Carol Ross earned medalist honors Monday to lead the Rocks' girls' golf team to a win over Dearborn Edsel Ford, 212-Ross shot a fine 46 for nine holes at Hilltop Golf Course. She is the first Salem golfer ever break the 50-stroke mark in either a practice or a match round Other Salem scores included a 52 from junior Meg McGee, a 56 from senior Beth Maggio and a 58 from sophomore Ellen Kenny.

Edsel Ford posted scores of 63, 64, 69 and 71 for its nine-hole team total. The Rocks added another win to their Central Six league record Tuesday, defeating Willow Run, 216-Maggio led the Salem attack with a 50 and was followed by Ross at 53, McGee at 56 and Nancy Stevens at 57. Low score for Willow Run was a 56 from Terri Thurber. She was followed by a 61 from Sharon Craiger, a 70 from Michelle Slone and a 75 from Robin Warnaman. The match was played at Green Oaks Golf Course in Ypsilanti.

"We're starting to play with more consistency and a depth in our number five position," said Salem coach Bob Waters.

The Rocks are 5-2 overall and sport a league record of 3-2. Salem plays Brighton today and Plymouth Canton Monday. Both matches will be played at Hilltop.

Salem beat Brighton earlier this season, 220-226 and lost to Canton, 210-211. Both matches start at 3 p.m.

Center Stage draws 1,500

BRAD EMONS

Before a capacity crowd of 1,500 fans, Mickey Goodwin knocked out Jimmy Claar of Indianapolis, Ind., in the second round of the featured lightheavyweight match at the Center Stage entertainment complex in Canton Township Tuesday night.

It was the first-ever boxing card held at the Canton Township nightclub.

Goodwin, who usually competes in the middleweight division, scored an easy victory over his inferior Indiana opponent. The Melvindale boxer caught Claar with a quick left jab and then sent him to the canvas with a hard right cross.

It was the 17th straight victory for Goodwin. The bout against Claar was a scheduled 10-rounder.

Detroit's Rico Hoye won a unanimous 10-round decision from Eddie Phillips of Hartford, Conn., in another light-heavyweight duel. It was the 28 career victory for the Detroit pro.

In other action, Hilmer Kenty of Columbus, Ohio, downed Danny Benitez of Springfield, Mass., in just five rounds of a scheduled 10-rounder. Hamtramck's Dave McCann knocked out Joe Rarick of New Baltimore in the second round of a Nathaniel Akbar of Detroit won a four-round decision over Charley Peterson of Muncie, Ind., in another middleweight bout.

Center Stage is planning another card next month. The date has not been announced. It is not w known whether Goodwin will be on the featured bout again.

Diet talk snares roly-poly lifer our Observer's Stroller cannot escape conversations about diet unscathed. Diet talk seems to take place somewhat regularly during coffee break time, or in the newsroom.

One day recently, the Stroller shuffled over to my desk and said, "Nancy, I have to tell you about the diet my doctor put me on some time ago. "In the subject called "Eat, Drink, and Get

At this point, my eyes came to rest on Eddie's somewhat prominent spare He continued,"I'll bring you a copy if you'd like to see it."

"Of course, Eddie" I mused. (After all, the Stroller still has a paunch-

I wondered just how successful this diet was and invited the Stroller into the cafeteria for some conversation. We commonly hold meetings and interviews there as well as it being a place

"I was always a roly-poly fellow." Eddie began. "In high school I was 5 feet 8 inches and weighed 170 pounds." He continued, "I played football as a youngster and I was always put in the center of the line. The instructions were to pass the ball and fall downbecause I was fat."

Tipping the Scales

"My nickname at home was "Fats" and that's what all the kids regularly called me. But I was raised a Presbyterian and as such was a fatalist. If you are born to be hanged, you'll never Apparently, Eddie's doctor wasn't a fatalist. He expressed concern to the Stroller about his patient's weight.

NANCY AUSTIN

Having just written his book, Dr. Ernest Reinsh encouraged Eddie to follow a low carbohydrate diet, then present- tor. ed him with an autographed copy of his

"I'll give you a diet where you can eat all you want and lose a pound a week," he told the Stroller.

And then he used the greatest psychology on me I have ever heard," said. "If you sat down with a poison vial, would you bite into it to see if its poison?'

"Of course not," Eddie told the doc-"OK, then no potatoes"

This is just one of the many forbidden foods that Dr. Reinsh lists in his book. The doctor's diet is based on experiences with treating diabetic patients, and overweight (and otherwise healthy) patients.

Denture steps ease trauma of extraction

So-called "immediate dentures" frequently are constructed to avoid embarrassment caused by having to go without teeth for days or weeks while the gums heal following tooth extraction.

In this procedure, the teeth back of the cuspids are removed and a period of time allotted for the gums to heal and the bony ridges to smooth out and become firm.

Sometimes it is necessary to contour the bone and remove sharp prominences by surgical procedures. This is simple and painless under local anesthesia. It is known as "bone trimming" and leaves a desirabaly shaped surface.

WHEN THE GUMS are healed, impressions of the jaws are taken with the front teeth still in place. Models are made from these impressions, and then the teeth are cut off from these models and shaped to approximate the contour which the gums will have after the natural teeth are extracted.

Dentures are made to fit the models that have been so pre-

The patient's front teeth are carefully removed and any necessary bone trimming and gum suturing performed. After the bleeding has been controlled, the dentures are inserted and the individual is given instructions for wearing them.

Healing beneath the immediate denture is usually uneventful. One might expect pain to result from wearing denture over an area from which teeth recently have been extracted, but just the opposite occurs. The immediate denture acts as a protective covering for the jaw as it is healing.

AFTER A FEW weeks or months, there may be enough bone shrinkage to loosen the denture. Then it may be necessary to reline or remake the denture to compensate for bone loss and reestablish its fit.

The artificial teeth can be set in the denture to so resemble the shape, color and position of the natural teeth that even close friends are not likely to detect the transition.

The writer is an retired area dentist.

WHO PROTECTS the consumer?

Apparently the average shopper with a gripe about the business community first turns to the Better Business Bureau to right the wrongs.

Kathy Manley, a BBB representative, was a guest speaker at the May luncheon meeting of the Canton Township Chamber of Commerce. Her bureau represents Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties. During the past year, her office fielded more than 180,000 requests from the community.

She said the tri-county organization, founded in 1917, is one of the oldest in the country. It is a non-governmental agency supported by business and industry with the belief that self-regulation is the most effective control.

"False advertising can destroy more than just the business responsible," said the speaker. "It is unfair to condemn all businesses. Public trust and confidence are most important and the BBB frowns on a business that breaks that trust.'

The bureau resolves disputes between companies and consumers. It seeks alternatives to court action and demands ethical advertising of its members.

"Nationally, eight million contacts were recorded last year by the BBB," she told the local business men and women. "We have a sincere concern for the consumer.'

THE CANTON C-C, 453-4040, is the place to call to lodge complaints against local township businesses.

The number for the Better Business Bureau of Metropolitan Detroit is 962-0550.

The BBB warns that along with spring weather come the traveling ripoff artists. Consumers should beware of the itinerant groups and their specialty cons in home repair, auto repair and "The female members of these bands have their specialties too," explains the BBB. "Department stores and supermarkets are their prime targets. They create a diversionary tactic while one of the group steals money or merchandise during the confusion. "Typical methods include overwhelming the sale clerk with numerous questions, paying for purchases with pennies, fainting, fighting, falling to the floor, and flashing. The bureau suggests that sales people immediately lock safes, cash registers, jewelry cases etc. upon any hint of a disturbance before going to investi-AND DID YOU know that a neww

MORE THAN 5,500 persons ordered a "Cross of Lourdes" that was advertised as having been dipped in the water of Lourdes and blessed by the Pope

American Consumer, Inc. of Philadelphia, one of the country's largest mail order houses was convicted on 1.000 counts of mail fraud for this gimmick, fined and ordered to make restitution $103,000 to persons who paid $15.95 each for the crosses.

False advertising does catch up with the guilty and someone is looking after the consumer.

threat. However, the coaches on the far side of the field seemed to be calling No. 10 "Martha."

My first reaction was disbelief - my hearing was going - or maybe they were calling him "Marty." Second reaction was, "No wonder the poor kid has to be so aggressive with a name like Martha."

But Martha really was a girl, the only one on the field. And it was no token gesture. She deserved to be there.

know a lot about domestic violence. Stranyak comes across it through his work at the Family and Neighborhood Services, a private, non-profit social agency in Inkster. Greenstein sees its victims walk into his Canton Township law offices looking for legal aid.

Both men have made no secret about their desire to solve this tragic problem. So it was no surprise when Stranyak and Greenstein turned up on the first executive board of the first area organization to take on the issue of spouse abuse. Its name is First Step.

Stranyak is president and Greenstein is treasurer of what until now was almost an entirely female organization formed to help other females from getting clobbered. While there have been occasional reports of abuse of men by women, this is still regarded as primarily a female problem.

Bearing this out is that fact that all of the calls for assistance received to date by First Step have been from

"ABUSE AFFECTS the entire family," said Stranyak. "Because of getting abused themselves, women may start abusing their children. At some point you have to stop it. Our staff at Family and Neighborhood Services is very excited about First Step. It is the first area organization aimed at this problem, and I hope it will be the first step in alleviating it.'

Greenstein reported that he had asked to be on the board of this group which works as an advocate for battered women.

"I have had numerous experiences with victims of domestic violence," he said. "Too many.

"I believe the program we're attempting is terribly needed and will provide an avenue for battered spouses to seek assistance."

HE REMARKED THAT he had been "absolutely thrilled" by the donation of $22,500 made to First Step by Plymouth Township.

"It is obviously there are others who recognize this problem, and know that in the outcounty area there is not much help for these people," he said. Debbie Benjamin, director of First Step, who was also thrilled with the grant, is currently telling local community groups such as Plymouth and Canton township officials of the organization's purpose.

Looking into the future, the new president of First Step sees getting a good staff on board and starting outreach counseling as the initial priority. At present the staff consists of Miss Benjamin and Corinne Ballas, a secre-

"We will set up a 24-hour crisis line with our staff persons trained to give help," he said. "I see the agency having to become much more visible, and the best visibility is by word-of-mouth."

is out there somewhere, and the Livonia Jaycees want to find her.

They want her to get busy and enter the Miss Wheelchair Michigan contest by May 15. The pageant at which the winner is chosen will take place June 15, 16 and 17 in the Holiday Inn in Farmington.

Any woman in the state over 18, married or single, is eligible to enter the contest. She must use a wheelchair for mobility at least 50 per cent of the Contestants are judged on their personality, ability to speak in public and their accomplishments since the onset of their disability.

The winner of the event will compete in the national Miss Wheelchair America contest that will take place in August in Columbus, Ohio. As winner of either or both awards, she will attend important events in various cities to obtain exposure for the mobility awareness cause

Contestants must therefore be available to attend the national pageant and fulfill speaking engagements.

During the past year Miss Wheelchair Michigan of 1978 has been extremely busy doing interviews, giving speeches and attending workshops.

Margaret Chmielewski of Canton Township, who was confined to a wheelchair following an auto accident in 1863, has also appeared on radio talk shows, been a panelist for the special education parents meeting of the

The new Miss Wheelchair Michigan Plymouth school district and gone on what she called "a whirlwind tour."

This took her to Little Rock, Ark., and a press conference with Gov. Bill Clinton. She has also addressed a meeting of the House of Representatives in Jackson, Miss., and was a guest on a morning TV show in Huntsville, Ala. She also toured the Huntsville Rebhabilitation

A reception was given in her honor in the Spain Rehabilitation Center in Birmingham, Ala. She received the key to the city of Montgomery, Ala., and attended a press conference with ex-governor George Wallace

She also participated in tours and receptions in Florida, Kentucky and the President's Committee for Employment of the Handicapped in Washington, and wheelcahir games in New York. She was on for local Miss Wheelchair pagearts in Jackson, Miss., and New Orleans.

The entry cost of $100 includes all meals, housing and activities for the contestant and one companion. Those entering are asked to get sponsors to pay this entry fee. Should they not be able to get one, the Livonia Jaycees will help

Service organizations such as the Lions, Civitans, Rotary, Jaycees, churches, school clubs and organizations for the handicapped may be approached to serve as sponsors.

For information on entering the contest contact the Livonia Jaycees at 525-4608 or 427-6717.

Country auction swells treasury at New Morning

New Morning School's budget received a healthy boost Sunday thanks to spirited bidding at a gala country auction, the school's prime annual fundraiser.

Guests had an opportunity look over the items and services up for auction before the actual sale began in the ballroom of the Plymouth Hilton Inn. A buffet salad luncheon preceded the opening ceremonies.

Auctioneer Don Unsworth introduced State Rep. Robert Law and State Senator Robert Geake who temporarily took over the gavel. They auctioned off two state of Michigan flags which had flown over the capitol. The flags were their contribution to the auction.

tioned off. Many of them were donated by businesses and many by friends of New Morning, an alternative cooperative school for students kindergarten through middle school age.

There were pieces of carpeting, plants of all sizes, cartons of oil for automobiles, tables, purses, dolls, stools, tools, a hand-crocheted afghan, a hand woven cushion, antiques, jewelry. hand-painted china plates etc. Gift certificates included weekends at luxury hotels, 10 car washes, lunches and dinners at restaurants, chimney sweeping and music lessons and many other services.

Latest acquisitions of the Plymouth Community Arts Council's art rental gallery will be on display until May 16 when they will be available to the pub-

Among the new paintings is "Heide," a colorful primitive by Falk. There are two Chinese landscapes and "Five Elephants," an intaglio by Nemec.

"Reverend Walker" is a photograph. 'Swedish Wedding," a limited edition silk screen print by Hyams, radiates brilliant shades of blue and yellow. Among the more traditional works are DeGallard's "Le Pont Louise Phillipe," and "Blue Abstract" by Nay.

The rental gallery on the seond floor of the Dunning-Hough Library, Main Street, Plymouth, is open Wednesdays during library hours. Rental fee for paintings and other works of art is $2 for one month.

The PCAC art rental gallery began in the spring of 1975 with the cooperation of the library. It is funded in part by the Michigan Council for the Arts.

June Turner, a new member of the Plymouth Community Arts Council, unpacked the new pictures for the gallery.

Psychic Char visits Newcomer's Club

Canton

The Canton Newcomers presented "An Evening with Char" last Wednesday evening. Char is a self-proclaimed psychic who explained to her audience that we all have a sixth sense, which she has developed and says she knows

She gave examples about how some people use their sixth sense without thinking about it. If you've ever had the feeling that someone was sick or something was wrong with a person close to you, and it turned out to be true, Char claims you just used your psychic powers. She said another psychic experience is when a person knows the phone is going to ring (or knows who is call-

Guidelines for victims of sexual harassment

By LORAINE McCLISH

The Task Force on Sexual Harassment in the Workplace has some guidelines and suggestions for women who experience sexual harassment on the job, or who have been victims.

Members of the group follow these suggestions with some preventative measures that can be put into use for those who are not yet victims.

- · Make sure that the harasser knows you do not welcome these advances. State your objections clearly. Don't just hope the problem will go away.
- · If the harassment continues, put your objections in writing and ask for a written reply. Tell your co-workers what is happening to you. Ask if they have had similar problems with your harasser. Keep a log of incidents. You may need these notes if you have to go to court.
- · If initial efforts fail, go higher. Use grievance procedures. Write to your supervisor's supervisor. Ask for written answers to your complaints. If you are shrugged off, go higher and exercise every right you have to appeal.
- · If you lose your job, get demoted, have your work assignments or hours changed, lose a promotion, or suffer other consequences because of your refusal to give in, contact the Michigan Civil Rights Department, 1200 Sixth St., Detroit 48226; 256-2570.
- · If you have been laid off, fired, or forced to quit because of sexual harassment and you are filing for unemployment benefits, be sure to tell your contact person at Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC) that you were sexually harassed.
- · If you have any trouble filing your claim, call the MESC's Equal Employment Opportunity division at 226-7636, located at 231 W. Lafayette, Detroit

· If you witness sexual harassment on the job, encourage the victim to take action, then be courageous enough to offer testimony

 Don't be forced into going along and accepting sexual harassment as the way things are, or as a joking matter.

· Find out if your company or union has a specific policy against sexual harassment. If not, work toward get · Talk with your co-workers about things like appropriate dress on the job, joking around about sex, personal relationships on the job or other subjects that higher-ups may try to use against you if you are ever a victim of sexual harassment.

A very green thumb

Elsa Bauer's children say she doesn't just have a green thumb, she has green hands. Mrs. Bauer. who lives in the Bradbury condominiums in Plymouth Township, measured her purple passion plant and found it had grown more than 400 feet of trailers in four years. All her plants flourish from daily care. She says it's the wonderful windows that encourage the plants to outdo themselves. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Popular pops concert is sell-out

The Grand Valley State Colleges Singers returned Saturday evening to perform with the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra. Their segment of the annual pops concert program was listed as "Your Basic Broadway Thing" --

The GVSC singers and the Seven Century Singers combined talents in "Magic to Do" from Pippin, "Comedy Tonight" from a Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum, "Racing the Clock" from The Pajama Game, "Who Will Buy" - street scene from Oliver, "Company" from the show of the same name, "It's not Where You Start" from Seesaw, and

"Applause, Applause" from Applause. Their vocal talents and acting ability were heartily applauded by the largest crowd ever to attend a pops concert. THE CONCERT opened with the onchestra directed by Wayne Dunlap playing the Boston Pops March.

In keeping with the gypsy theme were Bizet's Carmen Suite No. 2; Czardas from Die Fledermaus by Strauss, with Giselle Montanez as soloist; and Sarasate's "Zigeunerweisen," with Emily Mutter Austin as violin soloist.

"Manhattan Skyline" from Saturday Night Fever, "I Left My Heart in San Francisco", and selections from "Annie" were in the final segment.

469 graduate from Madonna

Two citations for outstanding service crease in enrollment and an accompaand the awarding of 469 diplomas to the largest class in Madonna College's 32-year history marked the commencement ceremonies at the Livonia school Saturday

The special honors went to Wayne County Circuit Judge Patrick Duggan, a Livonian who serves on the Madonna board of trustees, and Richard E. White, chairman of that board for the last three years.

Among the top students in the classes of 374 receiving baccalaureate degrees was Pat Greenman of Livonia. One of many whose educations were interrupted by family responsibilities, Mrs. Greenman was salutatorian of her class, earning a degree in social science with highest honors.

Nancy Anne Kamiski of Dearborn was class valedictorian. Her degree was in nursing.

Both women shared comments with fellow graduates before White, associate dean of the college of education at the University of Toledo, presented the commencement address.

Both men receiving the citations have been instrumental in helping Madonna to achieve a 300 percent innying boost in programs over the past decade.

Judge Duggan has been a board trustee for nine years. Elected to his present post late in 1978, he is a former law partner of Brashear, Conley and Tangora and former president of the Livonia Bar Association.

He received his degrees from Xaviar University at Cincinnati and the University of Detroit law school.

White has been on the board of trustees for 10 years.

Educated at the University of Minnesota, he has been an educational administrator for 30 years. Before taking over as associate dean at Toledo, he was president of Casper College in Wyoming. Named to that post at the age of 30, he thus became one of the youngest college presidents in the country.

In addition to the 374 baccalaureates, there were 95 associate degrees awarded.

Bachelor of science degrees were conferred on 167 students, while 120 earned bachelor of science in nursing, 87 received bachelor of arts, 55 associate of arts and 40 associate of science.

PCAC donates puppet stage

Youngsters at Isbister Elementary School now have a puppet stage thanks to the Plymouth Community Arts Council (PCAC) and Moonkin Toys of Northville.

The funds to provide the stage to Isbister were granted by the PCAC who also is financing expenses for the lighting and backdrop scenery for the the-

The stage itself was designed and made by Moonkin Toys, 446 S. Main, Northville. Moonkin Toys is operated by Lew and June Moon who began the business four years ago.

The name Moonkin stands for the Moon family and their kin. The Moons make doll houses, doll furniture, small biles and other items.

Every item for the puppet stage is colored in bright blue, yellow, orange

A puppetry workshop is being planned by the staff at Isbister. The stage will be used by pupils in all grades at the school as a vehicle for developing language skills, inspiring imagination, and for furthering art

Dorothy McCormick, library aide at Isbister, developed the grant request for the school.

THEY TARRED AND feathered Doug Hincker Friday night. It was all part of the Jaycees and Jaycettes annual banquet and dance in the Miles Standish Room of the May lower Hotel.

Former Jaycees Gary Hall, L. John Miller, Terry West, Ernie Morand, John Ferguson and Alan Faber crashed the party. They were welcoming Hincker to the rank of exhausted rooster, a Jaycee who graduated from the organization because of going over the age limit. They left Hincker in a yellow feathered suit and handouffs. Behind them was a trail of white chicken feathers and an exhausted rooster, looking for a key to the handcuffs and his clothes.

The Artrain, operated by the Michigan Council for the Arts, is in Livonia through Tuesday. (Staff photo by Bob Woodring)

A moveable feast of art

Michigan's traveling Artrain, with wood carvings, Indian artifacts, modern abstract paintings and lots more, is parked in Livonia through next Tuesday.

Hours are 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. and 5-8 p.m. weekdays, and noon to 8 p.m. on the weekend. Admission is free.

Volunteer guides explain the work in each car, and one or two artists pursue their work in the last car. In a large tent erected next to the train, people are working on crafts. Perhaps the most amazing piece of art is the train itself. Inside, you forget completely that you're on a train. The rooms are a bit narrow, of course, but lots of paint, glass and mirrors create a look that's a cross between a disco and an art gallery.

Up, up and away

What does all this show? That art isn't stuffy, that it's stimulating and even fun. The folk art display of works by people with no formal art training should be an inspiration to anyone who has thought of grabbing a brush and canvas just to give it a try.

The train is located on Industrial Road (between Schoolcraft and Plymouth roads) just east of Levan.

Palillo talks about his role in "Hooters," which he hopes is headed for Broadway via the Birmingham Theater.

To Ron Palillo, acting like a 19-year-old is dramatic progress

By ETHEL SIMMONS

Curly-haired, bearded Ron Palillo, whom most of us know better as Sweathog Arnold Horshack of "Welcome Back, Kotter," looked very much at home, on the stage of the Birmingham Theater.

Palillo sat comfortably on one of the four beds that dormitory-style with four chests of drawers center the set for "Hooters," which opened last week at the Birmingham.

The rest of the set for the comedy by Ted Tally, which had its Michigan premiere there, is a boardwalk that circles the beds.

The actor said the boardwalk would be covered with sand, simulating a Cape Cod setting, while the beds are supposed to be in a motel.

"A VERY IMPRESSIVE set," Palillo said. He also was very pleased with the way the show is progressing. He described the run here as a "world premiere" (rather than a Michigan premiere), explaining "Hooters" has only been presented previously in a few showcase performances at the Horizon in New York.

"There's a good chance that we will bring it into New York," he continued. Palillo said the show has an entire New York cast (Cameron Smith, Naomi Kay and Sherry Skinker, all of whom have performed extensively). Palillo himself appeared in several New York plays (Continued on page 3D)

The sky's the limit for a pair of kite pros

Whatever has kept kite flyers mesmerized through the years has continued unrelenting. But more than a piece of string ties a flyer to his

'Kites are something more than just a piece of paper," said Bahadur. "All kites have their own personality they have their own values. They're like good friends who are always there. Through kites, I like to communicate to people.'

Nishibayashi said his love of kites is linked to his love of people. He said the greatest joy he gets is sharing his world of kites with others.

"I can make many friends by flying kites," he said smiling. "I love the small children and enjoy teaching them how to make their own kites and then how to fly them"

Nishibayashi is on his fourth visit to the United States. His next stop is Washington D.C. From there it's to the West Coast, then home to Tokyo. By the time he leaves the States, he will have enlightened hundreds of people to the pleasures of kite flying.

JUST WATCHING Nishibayashi make a kite reveals the happiness he gets from his work. He's even written a song about kites which he enthusiastically sings while he's busy cutting and taping.

Though his hands shake ever so slightly, Nishibayashi has complete control over the paper which he quickly transforms into a flying wonder. A few folds and a couple pieces of tape and he's ready to send them

"Kite flying is a good sport. It's different than golf and other sports that can be fairly expensive. Kites can be made very cheaply. The material is not expensive, a garbage bag will suffice," Nishibayashi said.

The paper kites the designer can put together in a matter of minutes have no strut or spar. Those are the cross bars found on most kites. They also have no tails, but that doesn't stop the paper kites from soaring hundreds of feet into the sky.

Size is also unrestricted. Nishibayashi is able to make a kite as small as his thumb nail. These tiny flyers can be attached to a piece of nylon from a pair of pantyhose and sent into the sky as easily as the larger kites.

"I remember one time I was out flying one of my tiny kites and a little sparrow flew by and took it away with him," said Nishibayashi. "I don't know what that bird thought he had, but he liked it enough to take it with on which they are built. This is the key to a successful kite. Bahadur spent three years studying how to shave and taper bamboo sticks to give his fighter kites just the right balance.

India is known for its fighter kites. These are precision instruments used in a challenging sports contest. During a fight, participants try to skillfully cut their opponent's kite string.

There are a series of seasonal festivals in India in which millions of amateur fighters can participate. In some cities, kite fighting contests, or penches, are done from roof tops. The opponent is hidden and the kites are flown from ground positions, thousands of feet apart.

The kites fly with "a special thread called manjha or reel (which) is coated continuously with various secret formulas of powdered glass and used to cut a rival's line," according to Bahadur's store catalog.

Flying is only one technique in the fighting strategy. As soon as the lines touch, the cutter must decide how much line to pull in or let out to (Continued on page 4D)

The Colloquim begins at 9:30 a.m. with lectures on the evolutionary stages in Goodman's career: "The Goodman Orchestra until 1935," "The Goodman Orchestra from 1935-1947," and "Goodman's Small Groups." Representative recordings from the U-M jazz collection will be played during the presentations.

Performances by area jazz artists will be featured during the afternoon session (2-5:30 p.m.). The concert will be broadcast live over WUOM-FM (91.7) in Ann Arbor.

The first of three groups scheduled to perform is soprano Joan Morris and pianist William Bolcom.

"Joan and Bill have been called the foremost interpreters of American popular song in the country today," says Schumacher. "We are delighted to have their participation.'

Bolcom serves on the U-M School of Music faculty. Also from the School of Music will be James Dapogny, director of the University Jazz Ensemble. His seven-piece group will perform instrumental selections made popular by Goodman.

The concert concluded with an appearance by Misbehavin', featuring vocalists Jane Hassinger, Patty O'Connorand Kathy Rasmussen.

"Misbehavin' has revived the vocal, style of the Andrews Sisters with modern adaptations of the old tunes," says-Schumacher. "They'll sing numbers of Goodman, Fats Waller and other

At the lectern and piano, Haas will demonstrate romantic contrasts from the baroque to the present day with works by Daquin, Haydn, Kablevsky, Chopin and Debussy. Following the presentation, Haas will invite his audience to meet him for coffee in the museum's Romanesque Hall.

Tickets are $5 per person and may be reserved through the museum ticket office, 832-2730.

In 1959, Haas joined WJR radio as director of fine arts. His Peabody Award-winning "Adventures in Good Music" is syndicated in 80 cities and is heard over American Forces Radio and Television. Honored by the French and German governments, Haas is also the recipient of seven honorary doctorates in music, fine arts and humanities.

Ron Palillo is glad that Arnold Horshack has grown up.

In real life, Palillo "who has been playing 17 for the last four years" (as Horshack) is 25 years old. He is a talented, versatile, thoroughly concerned man, who puts his time and effort into many projects.

"WELCOME BACK, KOTTER" has just ended its run as an ABC-TV series. Palillo said he has two feelings about the show going off the air.

On the one hand, he is so end, because of his delight in playing Arnold Horshack. On the other hand, he says the end couldn't have happened at a better time for his career since he wants to go on to new things.

A self-confessed "workaholic," Palillo is working on a script for a TV movie, an Alfred Hitchcock-type thriller, in which he will star.

If the script is sold to one of the networks (he and his partner have been talking to CBS), he will spend two or three weeks playing the "manicdepressive schizophrenic murderer."

However, if "Hooters" goes to Broadway, he will let another actor play his part in the TV thriller. "My first love is the stage," he explained.

After its two-week run through Saturday, May 19, at the Birmingham Theater, "Hooters" might tour New England, Washington, D.C., and Philadelphia, before going to New York.

Palillo's next TV appearance is slated for Monday, May 14.

through the opponent's string. There are several varieties of fighter kites. Small changes in the different styles affect the kite's speed, weight and timing.

Japan also stages kite festivals. For the past 400 years, kite flyers and observers gather for a giant competition during the first two weeks in

KITES NEED NOT be only competitive, though. The aesthetic value of kites is also appreciated. One of the most striking sights is a train kite when it's off the ground. It takes sevea people to fly this spectacular creation - 1,585 individual kites strung

"Train kites are very beautiful. They look like a rainbow when they're in the air," said Nishibayashi. "Every hundred kites are the same color and they're only spaced about a meter apart.

Although most kites that are made in Japan have pictures and designs on them, Nishibayashi's kites are primarily solid colors. They are designed to fly higher than most picture kites. Kite festivals are universal. In Thailand, spring is celebrated with hordes of smaller kites that try to encircle a six-foot star kite and drag it into their domain.

The little kites are known as the females. The star is considered male.

'Kites are something more than just a piece of paper. All kites have their own personality. They have their own values. They're like good friends who are always there. Through kites I like to communicate to people.'

- Dinesh Bahadur

Consequently, the event is called "Battle of the Sexes.

SOME KITES are symbolic in other ways. Nishibayashi designed what he calls a "long-trail international kite." It is nine feet long and 15 feet wide. The symbol on the international kite can be changed to represent any country.

He also designed a bicentennial kite that was flown in Seattle during the 1976 celebrations

It was in such kite festivals and in demonstrations that Bahadur broke as many as four world records.

He has held the record for the longest indoor flight, the highest altitude, the most kites on a single line and the most fighting victories in a single day.

Knowing the kind of kite to use on a particular day is also an important aspect of flying. Weather conditions are a primary concern to the kite fly-

"Balance and a strong wind are the keys to good kite flying," said Nishibayashi. "If there is a soft wind, it's best to use a light paper and light

FLYING TECHNIQUES take time to develop, but numerous maneuvers are possible. With practice and patience, flyers can exert complete control over their kites.

"I can make a kite change directions from straight up to straight down," said Nishibayashi. "It is possible to bring a kite inches to the ground and then send it back up for an equally sharp horizontal maneuver.

Nishibayashi's 4-year-old grandson has trouble understanding the attrac-

"Grandpa loves kites - not me," says the youth.

Bahadur was about 4 when he was introduced to his first kite. He was at a festival in India where brothers and sisters fly kites as a symbol of their love for one another. This experience shaped the rest of his life.

"I grabbed the string and when the tension came into it, I felt my heart fly up beyond the buildings. I didn't know that there was anything on the other end of the line, just a tug drawing me up into the sky. It was like being born again, as a bird."

The experience of his first kite is a never-to-be-forgotten memory for Nishibayashi, too.

Whether or not you are fond of visiting art galleries, there is one I recommend for the "places to go and things to see" list.

The Biber Gallery, 22919 Woodward, Ferndale, opened early this spring. Owned and operated by a young couple, Dan and Irene Biber, much of the art work displayed was created by Biber himself.

I went to the gallery to spend a few minutes which resulted in my devoting an afternoon in awe of what I found Biber grew up and went to school in Detroit. He graduated with a BFA from the Center for Creative Studies in 1975, which included a summer at the San Francisco Art Institute. He has since devoted himself to sculpture and tablemaking. He does much of his large scale work at a studio on a farm near Ionia and works on portrait busts and other smaller works in the new gallery.

He will invite you to watch as he works, thus creating a more direct relationship with the art he may be doing

Mrs. Biber, a mother-to-be, received her BA from the University of Michigan in 1972 and later, her M.A. in history of art. She is knowledgeable and will give you a "mini" art education in less than an hour.

They opened the gallery so Biber could be in contact with the public and showcase his work, plus show work of Michigan artists the couple feel warrent wider exposure.

They will feature different artists each month. The gallery is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday through Sat-

The current show features Brian Video, Birmingham painter known for his outdoor murals. On display are three of his oils - "Day Clouds," "Night Clouds," and - one I couldn't walk away from - "Robert." There is also a self-portrait in pastel on sand-

Terrance Nagle, a Pontiac based painter, is showing a series of small circle studies in acrylic on paper. One, "Atmospheric Fantasy," a large horizontal canvas combines oil with tapestry stitching and weaver's knots using yarns of different colors, weights, and textures. To me, it was vibrant, alive and startlingly beautiful.

Puppet theater coming in summer

Chicago's Melikin Puppet Theatre will return to spend a month performing in the Detroit Institute of Arts Recital Hall as part of the museum's summer programming. Beginning Tuesday, July 10, eight hour-long shows will be given each week through Aug. 4.

Tickets at $2 for children and adults, and $1.50 each in groups of 10 or more may be purchased through the museum ticket office - 832-2730.

Included in the summer series will be the Melikin's "Dragon Feathers," for children 5 and older. Mythical characters and a life-size Chinese festival parade dragon will round out the program.

On a rotating schedule, the Melikins will also perform "Fun-Tales and Fancies," a collection of three favorite children's stories especially designed for families with preschoolers, three years of age

Torpedos to hit

Vocalist Johnny Angelos and guitarist Brian Gillespie are part of the Torpedos, on stage Monday night at the Silverbird Lounge, Six Mile and Telegraph. Their promoter says they "rock like there's no tomorrow." So beware. Also appearing are the Ann Arbor Jems.

Downtown Detroit

Architecture walk is May 20

The first in a series of "Sunday Strolls" sponsored by the Detroit Historical Society will take place on Sunday, May 20. "Sunday Stroll Through Downtown" will be conducted by Thomas Holleman, historian and archivist with the architectural firm, Smith, Hinchman and Grylls.

Holleman's tour will cover some of downtown Detroit's architectural gems such as the Wayne County (Traffic Court) Building and the Guardian (Michigan National Bank) Building, as well as the public art which dots the area.

"Detroit's architectural beauty is often blurred by the fast pace of our automobile society," states Holleman. "The only way to really appreciate what this city offers in public art and architecture is to get out of the car and walk!"

Those interested in participating in the "Sunday Strolls" should register with the Detroit Historical Society (833-7934). Reservations are limited to 35 people. The fee is $3.50 per person per "stroll" ($2.50 for members of the Historical Society).

Future "Sunday Strolls" scheduled for June and July include tours of Elmwood Cemetery, Corktown, and the Cultural Center. For a brochure and registration forms contact the Historical Society.

Detroit Repertory Theater seeks scripts for production

The Detroit Repertory Theater (DRT) is now soliciting scripts from Michigan playwrights for production in the 1979-80 season. DRT's Michigan Playwrights Program gives Michigan writers a chance at full professional production of their original scripts.

All Michigan writers are being urged to submit their scripts for consideration. The program's aim is to premiere original scripts by Michigan writers and garner support from people across the state for their own local playwrights.

The DRT, a professional Resident Equity Company, has already premiered three original plays by Michigan authors - "The Little Dog Laughed" by Detroiter Joe Schneiders; "Sunday Revolution" by Metcalf Evans of Wahalla, Mich., and this season's ciritcally acclaimed play, "The Doorbell" by Paul Simpson of Flint.

The playwright chosen from this year's script solicitation will receive standard royalties for the play, press coverage and media promotion as well as a champagne reception for the author upon production at DRT.

All writers will receive written comment on their work by experienced playreaders. Scripts are chosen on the basis of their produceability by DRT as well as on dramatic quality.

Submission deadline for this year's solicitation is June 30. Only full-length scripts may be sumbitted. Previously produced, as well as new, scripts will be accepted.

Announcement of the script chosen will come sometime before Dec. 31. The chosen play is scheduled for production beginning in May 1980 and running thorugh the end of June.

All scripts must be accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope for the return of the script. as well as a stamped, self-addressed post card for acknowledgement of its receipt.

For further information call DRT at 868-1347. Address inquiries and scripts to: Michigan Playwrights Program, Detroit Repertory Theater, 13103 Woodrow Wilson, Detroit 48238.

"The Bill Knapp's concept is long overdue. It's a good family restaurant that hasn't spent a lot of money on frills. Instead, they spend their money on service . . . on educating and training their people. The prices are fair and the food is excellent. What more can I say?"

Foster homes needed for retarded of all ages

Hundreds of mentally retarded adults residing in state institutions could benefit from living in the community, if foster homes were available to them.

The Northville Residential Training Center, (NRTC), is seeking potential foster parents to give the opportunity for a family life in the community to their mentally retarded adult popula-

"They need new challenges and opportunities to reach their full potential," said social worker Diane Surma. "These opportunities exist in the community."

Foster homes serve from one to three mentally retarded children or adults. Foster parents take retarded individuals into their homes and serve as paraprofessionals by providing care and training. About $600 per month per client is paid to foster parents for providing these services.

"Although we have been successful in recruiting foster parents for children, we now need to find families who are willing to work with mentally retarded adults," said Denise Horvath, recruitment specialist at Northville Residential Training Center. "We cannot estimate how much each individual adult could grow if given the chance to live in the community."

Many of these individuals need to develop socialization skills, leisure time activities and refine their self care skills. These types of challenges can bring many personal rewards to a foster family.

Individuals 18 years of age or older may qualify as foster parents. Foster care does not prevent individuals from continuing in their area of employment. Retarded clients younger than 26 attend school programs daily; clients older than 26 attend a day program.

Foster parents have the opportunity to expand their skills and grow in new areas with the support of Northville Residential Training Center, which provides in-service and home training programs, parent and family counseling, and assistance in procurement of public education, adult activity and/or sheltered workshop programs and other available community resources.

If you are interested in becoming a foster parent, call the Northville Residential Training Center at 349-8000, ext. 236 or 238.

Register by mail at SC

Mail-in registration for fall classes at Schoolcraft College is available through May 25.

According to Schoolcraft registrar Russell Bogarin, this mail-in period for fall is the earliest mail registration the college has ever conducted.

Schedules were available on campus for students before the winter semester was over. This service allowed students to pick classes for fall before many of them completed classes prior to summer. Schedules have also been mailed to all residents and businesses throughout the college district.

Registrations may be hand delivered to a drop box in the administration building or mailed through the U.S. Postal Service.

"This year it will be the students who register early who will get their class," said Bogarin. Students who miss the mail-in period can advance register in the Waterman Campus Center on July 12. 19 and 26 and Aug. 2,9, and 16.

Resident tuition is $17 per credit hour. Non-residents pay $27.50 and outof-state students pay $40.50. The Schoolcraft district includes the K-12 districts of Clarenceville, Garden City, Livonia, Northville and Plymouth-Can-

The Stroller

Swim or sink together

By W. W. EDGAR

All across the land come Sunday they'll be celebrating Mother's Day. Those fortunate enough to have a mother still living will pay a visit or contact her by phone with well wishes. And those of us whose mothers have long gone to their heavenly rest will live again with her in memory.

No one allows Mother's Day to pass without recalling some fond memory. Sometimes it is a joyful memory. Other times it is the recollection of a dark hour when a mother's courage and stout-heartedness saved the day.

The Stroller is one of those who lives with the memory of his mother, and no Mother's Day comes around that he doesn't recall how she braved one of the darkest hours in the lives of our family.

IT WAS AWAY back when The Stroller was only a lad of 10 years of age and the oldest of five children. We lived in a small frame house in a valley down in the Pennsylvania Dutch Country, and the house was situated between two barns.

Tuberculosis had claimed our father only a few days before, and now Mother had us all grouped around the kitchen table to tell us of the fight we would have on our hands. It was a dramatic scene, as The Stroller remembers it.

At that precise moment The Stroller's grandmother (his father's mother) walked in and joined in the conference.

After listening for a few moments, she turned to The Stroller's mother and offered her help.

"I will take one of the girls and raise her. I will put her through school and take good care of her, she said while looking at the oldest girl, who had been named after her.

The Stroller's mother stared right at her and countered, "Oh, no you won't. We are all in this together. If we get to shore, we'll get there together. If we sink, we'll all sink at the same time. There'll be no partiality shown here."

This is the moment that has lived with The Stroller all these years. Her courage to face life, with the task of raising five children and very little except broad shoulders to bear the burden of trying to make a living, left an indelible imprint.

NO MOTHER'S DAY comes that The Stroller doesn't recall that scene, because it had a bearing on his future. Often he thinks of what might have happened had Mother decided to let some one elee raise her children.

Where would he have been? What kind of a life would he have had? Where would he be now?

These are the questions that go through his mind on Mother's Day, and he is ever thankful that she had the courage and the grit to say, "If we get to shore, we'll all get there together. And if we sink, we'll sink together.'

Having made that decision the night grandmother visited, The Stroller's mother went to work. She accepted house work. She scrubbed offices. She took in washing. And, being a Pennsylvania Dutch woman, she baked pies.

Many were the Sunday mornings when she arose at 3 o'clock and started to bake. She would have the pies ready when we returned from Sunday School and we would deliver them around town.

And Mother never cooked with an eye on a cookbook. She had her own recipes, and scoffed at those who cooked by the book.

MANY A TIME in later years, The Stroller laughed at a recipe that she sent his bride for choc-

It read "Take a pinch of this and then a pinch of that and mix it till it feels right."

Then at the end she wrote, "use two eggs if they're cheap and one if they are dear." Once when The Stroller tried his hand at making an oyster stew, he asked her how much water he should use. She answered, "Turn the spigot on and off."

What a courageous woman she was - especially on the night of her early widowhood when she told our grandmother that she would raise her own chil-

On this Mother's Day, may God rest her soul.

Bilingualschool

The first bilingual attempt in Michigan to locate children with physical, mental or emotional problems who are not now receiving special education services has been undertaken by the Wayne County Intermediate School District.

Hundreds of fliers printed both in Arabic and English are now being distributed throughout Wayne County to alert parents and other interested persons that these services are available. The fliers have also been supplied to the Michigan State Department of Education for distribution throughout the state.

Anyone having a child, or knowing of a child, who is handicapped may contact the local school district special education department or "Project FIND" at 381-4188.

No cars in Hines Park this Saturday; it's Bike Day

By LEM MESEE Outdoors writer

Rain or shine, it's on.

The first of four 1979 "Bike Days" is this Saturday, May 12, on Hines Drive. The parkway will be closed to motorized traffic for 111/2 miles, from Ford Road in Dearborn to Haggerty Road in Plymouth.

Bicyclists and hikers will have the parkway to themselves from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Motor vehicles will not be able to park on Hines Drive, so you'll have to park the car elsewhere or ride your bike to the parkway.

15,000 persons have taken part in a bike day. Herron is chairman of the Wayne County Road Commission.

Outdoors Perhaps you've heard of the Wayne Joseph N. Herron said as many as County Road Commission. They run county parks, not to mention the airport. There's a leaflet floating around town which says bike days are sponsored by State Rep. Bob Law, the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, local community groups and the sheriff's department. The road commission isn't mentioned. Wonder why.

A GASOLINE shortage? You can't tell it from the recreation vehicle mar-

RVs, as everyone knows, burn more fuel than automobiles. Fuel has risen one-third or so in price this year, it will rise even more, and there may be shortages.

But they're not worried at Ford Motor Co. "We believe industry sales of travel trailers, motor homes and other RVs will increase nearly 10 percent this year over 1978, which was itself a record sales year," said Robert C. Honke, Ford Division RV sales mana-

"By year end, sales should reach 579,000 - nearly 5 percent above the pre-oil embargo peak of 1973.'

But he quickly adds today's RV market is different from the gool ol' cheapgas days. "Not too long ago, the marketplace was dominated by large trailers. Now motorized campers account for the vast majority of sales," he said.

In 1973, vans and mini-homes were 12 percent of all RV sales. Today they are 55.5 percent of the RV market.

The reason: The down-sizing of autos to meet federal fuel economy goals means they can't pull trailers the way they used to, Honke said.

Honke said the average RV owner -44 years old and the father of two tends to move around during a vacation trip instead of staying in a single campsite. So a motorhome, to him, is a far more convenient method of travel.

The buyers of fold-down campers tend to be intheir early 30s and are going from backpacking to tent car ipers. "They are also purchasing trailers to carry boats, snowmobiles and offroad vehicles," Honke said.

Buyers of 6,000 pound, bus-sized travel trailers average 55 years of age. Many are older and retired. "For these buyers, a large trailer often serves as a home away from home for extended vacation trips," Honke said.

So if there's a fuel shortage, ar, energy crisis or a gasoline shortage, you can't tell it to the American RV buyer.

THIS WEEK'S hot weather should prompt bluegills to start moving onto the spawning beds, where they will be easy marks for anglers. Otherwise, fishing for Michigan's most popular species has been slow.

A hot spot is off the River Raisin, a half-mile onto Lake Erie. There large numbers are perch and walleye are avialable. Kent Lake, a good producer of crappies in recent years in Oakland County is still good, according to the state DNR fishing report. Belleville Lake, in western Wayne County, has heavy fishing pressure and is producing some good-sized crappies.

THREE SPRING nature walks are still on tap at the University of Michigan-Dearborn's 72-acre environmental study area. They start at 9 a.m. on three Saturdays.

Don't laugh — but how about a nice platter of deep fried dandelion flo-

There was a time before the golf course superintendents and the nursery men put a curse on the so-called garden weed that dandelion was one of the basic foods of the country.

In the yellow pages of American history it is revealed that the American colonists imported dandelions as a food staple and that millions of lives were saved by it.

And aside from its food value the dandelion was considered the basic herbal remedy for dozens of maladies.

It may be surprising, too, to learn that the Soviets cultivate millions of acres of dandelions to make synthetic rubber and that farmers in New Jersey still raise them as a cash crop.

IT IS AS A FOOD that the dandelion becomes important among the old-timers at this time of year.

According to them, if you harvest the dandelion early in the spring when the leaves are young and not bitter, they are at their best. You wash them three or four times in lukewarm water, add some vinegar and salt along with a bit of onion and you have a great salad. The greens also can be boiled and used as spinach substitute. The secret is to harvest them early when they first appear. The bitterness is diminished by boiling them in several changes of water and adding a pinch of baking soda.

But the real treat is frying the flower tops in butter and vegetable oil. Here is how this is done. After careful washing, dip the flowers in a beaten egg then in a dry mixture of flour and corn meal, while adding salt and pepper. Fry them until they are brown. You'll find they have a taste similar to fried mush-

THEN THERE IS the old Pennsylvania Dutch treat of carefully washed dandelion greens covered with what they call German sour dressing with a bit of diced bacon.

This was the main dish of many a poor family before the critics ran it down and the purveyors of grass seed and caretakers of lawns called dandelion their worst enemy. Not only that they labeled it nothing more than a worthless weed.

Another surprising feature of the dandelion is that it is known as Taraxacum in Latin, which means it is the official remedy for some disorders. As early as the Tenth Century, according to history books, it was listed in medical texts as a treatment for various

And imagine this. The roots contain a laxative and the greens are high in Vitamin A. In fact, dandelions have more Vitamin A, C and iron than lettuce and

WHILE MANY STILL call dandelion a weed, it is related to the chicory familv and the roots can be roasted and

No wonder that in the days before the critics dealt their harmful blows, the poor folks used to go out each afternoon picking dandelion - even along the rialroad tracks. And young folks got their first business experience by picking the greens and then selling them in portions they called a mess for

And don't forget the dandelion wine - still a favorite of many in the mar-

And it was a favorite among the children even after the yellow blooms were gone. They would, with one breath, blow the cotton-like tops into the air and then wonder where they would go. The school children, too, used to hold the flower under each other's chin. If it glowed, you were supposed to like but-

They have our number, do you?

No, we're not talking about our telephone number, although that's an important number too, we're talking about "736", the classification number for "Wanted to Buy" want ads.

Lots of people think the only way to use ads is to tell people what they have to sell. Not so. One little 736 ad will tell people what you want to buy. Looking for a cradle, scuba gear, a 1937 "Superman" comic book? Stick it in 736 and wait for people to call, it's that simple.

And if you've read this far and are thinking, "I really don't have any one special thing I want to buy....we have plenty of numbers for you, too...626...700...708...722. We invite you to try any of these because all of our numbers add up to a lot of satisfaction for you, whether you're in a buying or selling mood.

DIESEL ENGINE/MECHANICS GEN. SET MECHANIC/ELECTRICIANS

Maybe you have a good position right now, but is it really the best you can get?

Find out for sure. Talk to our service manager and arrange to visit our shop. It is a clean, all new, million dollar facility, staffed by first rate people like yourself working for excellent pay & benefits. Since July 1, 1978, our number of employees has doubled while parts & service area has been tripled. And we are still working hard to meet demands.

If you are a TRUCK MECHANIC with a minimum of 5 years experience on DIESEL engines and at least a high school education, we could have a great opportunity for you.

Or, if you are a GENERATOR SET MECHANIC/ELECTRI-CIAN with a minimum of 5 years experience trouble shooting and repairing both mechanical & electrical problems on DIESEL POWERED generator sets, with the ability to read schematics, and a high school education we may have a great opportunity for you, too.
