Commissioner urges interim zoning law

A planning commission member has convinced the Canton Board of Trustees to consider enactment of an interim zoning ordinance to curb development pressures which are contrary to the 1976 master land use plan.

Although the master plan was adopted three years ago, a zoning ordinance and map that is needed to carry out the intention of the plan was never adopted.

Planning commissioner Dan Richardson wants the township board to adopt a draft of the proposed zoning ordinance as an interim law to protect the intention of the master plan along Ford Road and in the agricultural district.

The proposed zoning ordinance changes the zoning of some land on Ford Road from commercial to multiple- and single-family residential. Richardson fears that developers will attempt to rush site plans for commercial buildings through before the zoning ordinance can be enacted in about six months.

Under a new state law, townships can adopt interim zoning ordinances as an emergency measure without public hearings.

AT LAST WEEK'S township board meeting, Trustee Carol Bodenmiller, who also sits on the planning commission, urged board members to adopt the interim law.

Her motion, which was approved by a 4-3 vote, directs the planning commission to submit the draft of the proposed zoning law to the Wayne County Planning Commission for its recommendation as an interim ordinance by June 4.

On June 22, the township board is expected to consider enactment of the interim law after holding a public hearing.

Clerk John Flodin, Trustee Robert Greenstein and Trustee Eugene Daley voted against the resolution.

Flodin expressed concern for the owners of property on Ford Road who would be affected by a rezoning through passage of the interim ordinance.

Big Boy restaurant owner Peter Khoury, who also owns a vacant parcel on Ford Road, said negotiations to develop his land in accordance with its current commercial zoning would have to be abandoned if the interim ordinance is passed. The proposed zoning map would rezone Khoury's property to multiple-residential use.

Planning commission approval of permanent zoning ordinances requires the scheduling of several public hearings. The township board has pledged to hold one public hearing on the interim law even though it is not legally required to do so.

"I think this interim ordinance was designed for communities which have no zoning ordinances," Flodin said.

Planner's duties come under fire

Some members of the township board are advocating a proposal to strip several planning functions from Canton planner Jim Kosteva.

But trustee Lynne Goldsmith is calling the contemplated move "harassment" that could make township hall "a place where everyone is afraid to take a stand."

The proposal to change Kosteva's job description from an all-purpose planner to an industrial planner was broached at last week's township board meeting after officials directed the planning commission to prepare an interim zoning ordinance by June 4.

Trustee Carol Bodenmiller proposed contracting with Wade, Trim Associates for much of the work performed by Kosteva during the past year, such as site plan review, revision of the master plan and work on a proposed zoning ordinance.

She suggested limiting Kosteva's planning duties to the industrial area. He would select industrial sites and make preparations for the eventual hiring of an industrial coordinator.

No action was taken on the industrial planner idea.

However, the township board voted 5-2 to remove responsibilities for the master plan, interim zoning ordinance and proposed zoning ordinance from Kosteva's shoulders. Trustees Goldsmith and Eugene Daley voted against limiting the planner's duties.

KOSTEVA, who was hired last June, holds a three-year contract with the township for a variety of duties, including the coordination of work on the master plan and zoning ordinances.

Trustee Robert Greenstein and Mrs. Bodenmiller maintain that Kosteva is unable to help the planning commission meet the June 4 deadline for the interim zoning ordinance because of an excessive workload.

Wade, Trim, which served as the township's planning consultants until Kosteva was hired, has access to the computers and staff that are needed to finalize revisions to the master plan and complete the zoning ordinance.

Supervisor Noel Culbert said the township has a $1,500 credit with the consulting firm. He expects the firm's work on the master plan and zoning ordinance will cost the township a net total of a "few thousand dollars."

The planner's job duties did not appear on the agenda of last week's meeting, and Kosteva said he had no idea that his performance as planner would be discussed.

Greenstein, the most vocal advocate of changing Kosteva's duties, charged that the planner has refused to seek background planning information from Wade, Trim and that he has failed to show an interest in the farmland preservation proposal.

Board injunction lifted

The Canton Township Board now can discuss the Canton House Restaurant's liquor license request, something trustees have been prevented from doing because of a court injunction.

Circuit Court Judge James Hathaway has dissolved the court's order that prevented the board from reconsidering an earlier recommendation to approve that license.

The court issued the injunction at the request of attorney Peter Bundarin, who represents Canton House owner Philip Haddad.

Bundarin sought the injunction when the township board decided to reconsider its earlier favorable recommendation to the state's Liquor Control Commission (LCC), regarding Haddad's liquor license.

Newly-elected trustees tried to get the township board to reconsider Haddad's license after he was cited by township enforcement officers for 26 building and zoning code violations.

Bundarin obtained the injunction after contending the board could not abruptly change its earlier recommendation in favor of his client's license. The township board does not issue liquor licenses, but makes recommendations to the LCC.

The board was stopped from reviewing the its earlier recommendation by the injunction.

Removal of the injunction clears the way for a decision, which Bundarin says the court will review.

Township attorney Judd Heming said the court did not actually rule on the motions filed by Bundarin.

"But now that the restraining order was dissolved, we (the township) are allowed to proceed with public hearings," Heming said.

Bundarin says all the violations have been corrected.

Both complexes have caused residents living in nearby subdivisions to begin campaigns against the projects.

The meeting between the attorneys was primarily to discuss the complex proposed for Lilley south of Warren near the Pickwick subdivision. An attorney for the Forest Trails subdivision near the Joy road complex was, however, present.

Barry would not reveal whether what action the township will take if Amurcon continues to proceed with the Lilley Road complex. He said there would be another meeting, although no date has been set.

Gary Greenstein, attorney for the Plymouth Salem High School will be the starting point for Canton's first participation in the Walk For Mankind.

Project Concern, an international, nonprofit medical and dental assistance program and organizer of the Walk For Mankind, intends to raise at least $500,000 this year, $150,000 more than last year.

Gerry Jagoda, president of the Canton Jaycees, is the chairman for Canton's first walk.

"I have high hopes and expectations," he said concerning pledges in the fund-raising drive.

Jagoda said that sponsors can pledge money to the participants on a per kilometer basis, or make arrangements to pay a flat rate to the walker. The walk is 30 kilometers (18 miles).

The Canton Jaycees and Jaycettes along with Dr. Pepper and WRIF are sponsors of the walk and will hold a drawing for prizes for those who wear a Walk For Mankind iron-on.

Jagoda said that the iron-ons are available at Rick's TV at Ford Road and Lilley and at the Canton Sports Store at the Harvard Square shopping mall.

He said that "800 to 1,000 participants are expected to show up" depending on the weather and that 500 people have already pre-registered for the event.

Building officials shuffled

Deputy building official Aaron Machnik has been nominated by Supervisor Noel Culbert to take over the chief administrative job in the Canton building department.

If the appointment is approved by the township board on June 5, Machnik will take the place of chief building official Chuck Thompson who retired on Friday.

Besides nominating Machnik for the job, Culbert has also recommended a reorganization of the building department that he says will provide better quality control over inspections and make the department more responsive to residents' needs.

The supervisor has named Gary Barnette as Machnik's temporary replacement as deputy building official. According to Culbert, Barnette will serve as the "field boss" over all inspectors in the department.

Under Culbert's recommendation, the department will be divided into two divisions for the first time.

Don Tillman will serve as the chief inspector in the mechanical division, which is responsible for heating, plumbing and cooling inspections. Al Adams will serve as chief inspector in the contracting division, which is responsible for structural inspections.

Although Adams and Tillman will continue to make field inspections, Culbert says they will also be responsible for quality control, training of new employees and other personnel functions.

Lawyers meet on Amurcon conflict

Attorneys for two homeowners' associations, Canton Township, and a company proposing to construct a subsidized rental unit apartment complex met last week in an effort to avoid a flurry of lawsuits.

The next move belongs to the township.

According to township attorney Dave Barry, the meeting between the attorneys was an effort to "inform Amurcon we see problems and work out what to do about them."

Amurcon is the Southfield-based development company that is seeking final site plan approval for an apartment complex on an 18-acre parcel east of Lilley and south of Warren in the Pickwick PUD area. The company has filed an application to receive a mortgage guarantee from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) which would allow rent subsidies on some or all units for low to moderate income families.

In addition, Amurcon has an apartment complex under construction near Joy and Sheldon that has the same rent subsidy provision.

Pickwick homeowners' association, said his purpose at the meeting was to "make known Pickwick's position and why."

"We want the township to believe — as we do — that certain things were done incorrectly (in connection with the initial stages of approval for the complex)," Greenstein said.

Members of the Canton Township Board of Trustees agreed several weeks ago, at the request of Pickwick homeowners, to attempt to stop the apartments.

The board has requested a legal opinion on the possibility of filing a lawsuit against Amurcon to stop construction, but that opinion has not yet been issued.

Throughout the controversy since the low-income provision for both complexes was discovered, Amurcon has refused to comment on its position.

Amurcon attorney Richard Rabbi-deau could not be reached for comment.

Short Takes

Inside track

Aside from farmland preservation, Canton and Plymouth township farmers are having a different kind of problem. Trespassing is a common concern facing many of them. Local farmer Robert Blessed had a particular problem with trespassers of an unusual sort last week and on the occasion told of unusual problems with trespassers — including some from the air. See the story on 2A.

A star is born

Did you catch last Thursday's newscast on Channel 7? If you did, you already know that a week-long series on the plight of farmers in Michigan had one segment about Canton's efforts to institute a farmland preservation program. Canton's farmland preservation director, Robert Greenstein, was interviewed while strolling through the subdivisions. If he just could have kept his tie straight.

MD drive

June 5 has been slated as the annual house-to-house drive conducted by the Muscular Dystrophy Association, so don't be surprised if someone comes to your door asking for a contribution. The association is looking for some 30,000 volunteers throughout the metropolitan area to help with the drive. You can call 937-9123 if you want to be a volunteer. This year, the area chairpersons for Canton are Robert and Karen Tocco.

Tripping out

A screaming rollercoaster ride could be in your future if you can sell 75 cans of candy. The candy sale is sponsored by Kids Deserve a Chance, a nonprofit organization, which will raise money for various youth-oriented charities. The chaparoned trip to Cedar Point is for those who sell the most candy during the fund-raising drive. The trip includes transportation and admission to rides. The sale deadline is June 22, with the winners trip scheduled for July 11. To pick up forms for the sale (you must have a parent or guardian sign if you are under 21) call 455-8031.

All in good time

Residents and developers who want to appear before the Canton Township Board of Trustees are going to have to wait for a backlog of agenda items to clear. Because of a board rule that cuts off meetings at 11:30 p.m., board members could only take action on seven items on a 26-item agenda at their May 21 meeting. That means 19 items from last week's agenda will be discussed by board members June 5 before action can be taken on any new agenda item. The meeting cutoff rule was adopted to curtail the growing length of township board meetings. In spite of the few items dealt with May 21, the meeting lasted until 12:45 a.m. anyway.

Trespassers pay to trample

By LYNN ORR

For all the farmers out there whose land suffers the tramples of trespassers, here's a story of vindication.

A Plymouth Township farmer extricated $100 and a promise to stay out of his wheat fields from some red-faced surveyors last week. But catching the trespassers in the act and having a chance to deliver a lecture may have been the best part of the day.

Robert Blessed was horrified to discover spikes in his fields out on Powell Road west of Ridge Tuesday. The next day, he discovered the culprits' four-wheel drive vehicle in his wheat field along with fresh walking paths cutting a swath through his thigh-high winter wheat.

He pocketed the keys, called the Wayne County Sheriff's department, and waited for some results. Deputy Howard Johnson caught up with the surveyors and was assured that their boss would make restitution to Blessed for any damage.

About one hour later, Terry Cantrell of Warner, Cantrell and Padmos, Inc. of Livonia, peeled off the cash in return for a receipt, and Blessed got his chance to deliver a well-rehearsed lecture about private property.

"DO YOU know what kind of damage one of these spikes can do to a $300-400 tractor tire?" he asked. Trespassing, particularly ruining the crops, is a costly affair, he went on.

"Just like you guys are losing money today because I've held you up."

Cantrell apologized, promising his crews wouldn't take advantage of a hole in the fence or intrude on the property without permission.

"If you want to walk down the paths between the plants (strawberries), that's OK," Blessed said, asking that they check in with him at the farm first.

Blessed's son Bill just watched the exchange quietly. Trespassers are nothing new, but catching one is nice for a change. Blessed was more vocal after the embarrassed surveyors departed.

"You can't imagine how people disregard farmers' crops," he says. Protecting 100 acres becomes more and more difficult as urbanity encroaches on the far western tip of Wayne County.

Where once fields and trees flowed along the horizon, new subdivisions promise to hit the Washtenaw County border within a few years.

Land developers proliferate, and surveyors aren't the only persons who forget about property lines.

THREE MEN caught fishing in Blessed's pond a few years ago caught $100 fines from Judge Dunbar Davis of the 35th district court.

Three guard dogs now roam around the white farm, acquired after his home was broken into twice in five weeks about seven years ago.

Weather still holds sway over the farmer's crops, but natural enemies have expanded to include neighboring children, motorists looking for some countryside, and even a hot-air balloon that landed in the middle of his strawberry field during the picking season.

"What do you do with 100 people tramping your strawberries?" he commented about the crowd that surged toward the balloon.

A more light-hearted incident occurred when an army helicopter landed in a stubble field after experiencing severe vibrations. A mobile crane was required to lift the copter into a trailer for hauling to Grand Rapids.

But the wheels of progress may be the hardest enemy to fight, he admits.

As developers prepare Plymouth Township for a growth spurt that will take it to the size of an Ypsilanti, land surveyors measure out the subdivisions.

Blessed's chagrined trespassers were surveying a 150-200 acre parcel owned by Greg Donovan, according to township tax records.

The surveyors refused comment on who had hired them or why the land was being surveyed.

Plymouth wife finds bigamist

By TERESA BANAS

Once was not enough for Redford resident Thomas Fella, a man for whom the honeymoon was never over.

Fella, 26, last week was found guilty of bigamy in Wayne County Circuit Court. He pled guilty to marrying his fourth wife, Joan Soucey, 18, of Redford, without first legally divorcing his third wife, Deborah Walker, 27, of Plymouth.

Both wedding ceremonies were held in Westland's 18th District Court.

Fella was held in the Wayne County Jail Tuesday prior to Judge Michael Stacey's issuing of a $5,000 surety bond. A June 1 sentencing date has been set. The maximum sentence for bigamy in Michigan is four years imprisonment.

According to Fella's attorney, Maroun Hakin, the defense contended Fella was "mislead and misinformed" by Ms. Walker. While serving a 90-day jail sentence in the Detroit House of Correction last fall, he claims she told him of her efforts to end their year-old marriage, a claim she denied in court Monday. The pair separated in July 1978.

In addition to denying that claim, the prosecutor said Ms. Walker had met Fella on two occasions following his release from DeHoCo and in that time made plans to reconcile. Fella had been imprisoned for driving with a suspended license and evading a police officer in Livonia.

FELLA HAD married Joan Soucey last Jan. 31 and remarried her in May. Since that time, the couple has been living with her parents in Redford.

He remarried Joan May 15 after filing for divorce from Ms. Walker in April.

Fella has been employed as a water sprinkler installer for Perfect Water Systems, a company owned by his new father-in-law. His wife, Joan, is a waitress at a local restaurant.

According to his mother-in-law, Fella is "great. He's very cooperative. He has to be living with a big family."

Joan Fella said her husband was surprised by the news that he was not divorced from his third wife. She adds she is supportive of him and plans to wait for him.

According to police, Fella's third wife learned of his subsequent marriage through an identity mix-up in wives by Livonia police. Following his arrest on the traffic violation in the fall, his new mother-in-law posted bond for his release.

Livonia police then called the woman they thought was Fella's wife in the confusion to ease her apprehension of his arrest. However, they mistakenly called Fella's third wife and tipped her off to his new marriage.

Two weeks after his first marriage to his fourth wife, Fella filed for divorce from his third wife, Deborah Walker.

According to Wayne County Prosecutor Richard Neaton, Ms. Walker is more angry than bitter over the incident and plans to take a long vacation when the case is finished.

According to court records, Fella's first wife was Mary Baum, whom he married in 1973. Then he married Pamela Kay Martin in 1975.

When asked why he married so often, his attorney said Fella was just waiting for the right woman.

Fella testified that when he met his fourth wife, he regained his "honesty and self-respect."

Surveyors drove their front-wheel drive vehicle right across the property line into Blessed's wheat because they couldn't get a clear shot to survey neighboring property.

Plymouth-Canton death notices

HESTER M. YOUNG

Funeral services for Mrs. Young, 84, were held recently in the Harper-Mulligan Funeral Home in Detroit with burial at Acacia Park Cemetery. Officiating was the Rev. Dr. William Quick of the Metropolitan Methodist Church in Detroit.

Mrs. Young, born in Tennessee, came to Detroit in 1919 with her husband, Dr. Glen R. Young, who resumed his practice in Detroit following World War I. She and Dr. Young lived many years in their Parkhurst residence in the Woodward-Six Mile area. Mrs. Young retired to her home in Florida in 1963 where she lived until her death on May 13.

She had been a long-time member of the Order of Eastern Star including service as matron of the Highland Park Chapter 440. She also was a member of Highland Park Shrine 25, WS of J; past WHO; member of Daughters of the Nile; and a member of the Amaranth Court 3.

Survivors include: sisters, Christine Morgan of Bradenton, Fla., and Mrs. Buford LeVan of Chattanooga, Tenn.; a niece, Marion Licata of Plymouth, wife of former Michigan State Rep. Anthony C. Licata; and two nephews.

JENNIE GEOFFRION

Funeral services for Mrs. Geoffrion, 86, of Donald, Livonia, were held recently in St. John Bosco Catholic Church with burial at Holy Sepulchre Cemetery. A rosary was recited at Harry J. Will Funeral Home, Redford.

Mrs. Geoffrion, who died May 17 in Farmington Nursing Home, was a homemaker who had moved to the Detroit area in 1915. She was a member of St. John Bosco Catholic Church. Survivors include: daughters, Helen Geoffrion of Canton, Florence Hollander of Livonia, Josephine Lundsten of Livonia; sisters, Angnes Herlan of Detroit and Selma Blonde of Chatham, Ont.; five grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

7-Eleven
We hope you won't franchise a 7-Eleven store just from reading this ad.
Before you make a deal... this or any other deal... investigate it thoroughly. Find out everything.

What is a 7-Eleven store? Will it offer you and your family a fair chance at making a good living? What is the company like that's behind the deal?

7-Eleven stores started popping up around Dallas, Texas in 1927. Today there are over five thousand of them doing business from coast to coast. Each one is a smaller-than-supermarket sized convenience food store. The product mix and merchandising plan appeal to customers of all ages and all income levels. The 7-Eleven store was the beginning of the convenience food store industry because of the 7 a.m. until 11 p.m. 7 day a week shopping concept. Nowadays, that convenience concept has been taken a step further since the majority of 7-Eleven stores across the country are open 24 hours a day 7 days a week.

If you should elect to invest your time and money in one of these stores, almost a half century of 7-Eleven store experience will select a site for your store, will design, build and equip it. Your bookkeeping will be done for you. You'll benefit from several national advertising programs.

A specialized training program will teach you how to merchandise and operate the store and how to handle the public. That half century of experience is called The Southland Corporation, and those people are just as interested in your success as you are.

If you think this thumbnail sketch of a 7-Eleven store way of life deserves your further investigation, call or write using the coupon below.

Working parents and school: Candidates reply

School enrollment is rising because of the continued growth in new subdivisions, primarily in Canton Township but also in Plymouth Township.

And one common experience of new home buyers in new subdivisions is the phenomenon of both parents working to bring in enough income to meet the monthly house payments.

The rising divorce rate also results in more women entering the work force to support their families.

Between these two trends, during recent years, the result is an increase in the number of working mothers in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

That raises the question about whether the school district ought to do anything to accommodate working parents.

Because of these changes in the Plymouth-Canton community, the Observer asked each candidate for the school board the following question:

What should the schools do to accommodate working parents?

Each candidate were asked to respond and answers were received from Allen N. Smith, Dean Swartzwelter, Gary Roberts, Sylvia Stetz, Thomas Yack, Douglass Koch, Jeanette Wines, Stephen Foley, James Sinclair and Kenneth Vogras.

Each candidate was given a 75-word limit for the answer. Some 13 candidates have filed for the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education. Of this group, two will be elected to four-year terms on the school board.

JAMES SINCLAIR doesn't believe the school district has any social responsibilities to accommodate working parents.

"The Plymouth-Canton school district was designed to instruct children, not babysit them," said Sinclair. "I feel the parent(s) bear the responsibility of their children before and after school hours, and during school hours also, if the child is a constant troublemaker."

A similar view is taken by Kenneth Vogras who states: "I feel the schools' major concern should be the education of children, not to accommodate the working parents. Presently nightly meetings are held such as PTA, etc., to accommodate the parents. However, school administrators should be available most anytime should the need arise. I realize the need for both parents to work, but nevertheless the children are their's and should respond accordingly."

Stephen Foley comments: "Working parents are becoming increasingly a necessity because of inflation and housing costs, thereby limiting their contact with our schools."

"A positive approach in contacting, advising and receiving input from all parents will become necessary in order to maintain parent-teacher communication. School newsletters as presently exist and strong Parent-Teacher Associations are available methods. Contact with neighborhood associations, weekend and evening programs to receive guidance from the parents will aid in the overall development of our school system."

Jeanette Wines doesn't feel there is really an issue behind the question raised. "Is this really an issue?" she asks. "The main responsibility of a district is to provide for the best education possible within its means. I feel that the district already has enough problems without creating them."

"However, if accommodating the working parents becomes a reality and a plan is offered, then I feel it also should be offered to non-working parents. All are taxpayers."

DOUGLASS KOCH sees a need for the district to be sensitive to the needs of working parents.

"For all parents and children the schools can provide predict able, consistent daily and yearly schedules. On an as-needed basis the schools can assist in relaying special needs of one group to other parents who might wish to satisfy those needs."

"Without cost some schools have helped get parents who need baby-sitters together with those wishing employment for short periods (e.g. ESY breaks). We must be sensitive to increases in single and two-working parent households."

Sylvia Stetz comments: "Our society is changing, but still the major responsibility of the schools is to educate children. Schools cannot assume the responsibilities that belong to parents."

"A good educational system has everyone working together. For the safety of the child, the schools can help working parents by taking into account such things as late starting days, vacations, and inservice when negotiating the calendar and making budget cuts."

Tom Yack, the only incumbent amongst the candidates, answers: "As a group growing in numbers, working parents should be considered in the following ways: 1. A reduction in school hours should be considered as a last resort; 2. The school calendar (including vacations and inservice days) should be distributed early in the school year; 3. Parent-teacher contacts should be carried out in the evening; 4. School closing information should be provided on a timely basis; 5. Parents should be called away from work only when it is absolutely necessary; 6. Emergency numbers (neighbors) should be on file."

GARY ROBERTS was the only candidate to suggest that nursery schools be made available, but he wavered between public vs. private facilities.

"If this is a serious problem, I feel that it may be best to have a public nursery school for children of working parents. Only if the working parents (who use the facilities) pay 100 percent of the cost. No money should be used from our school district fund. Maybe we should encourage private nursery schools."

Dean Swartzwelter answered as follows: "I believe the 'short day' in elementary schools should be eliminated. It is disruptive to all parents — particularly for two-parent working families. School boundaries should be held constant — so working parents can establish permanent arrangements. Specific proposals that disrupt working parents should receive special consideration by both the administration and board. It is seldom possible to please everyone; but the significant number of two-parent working families requires added emphasis on their needs."

Allen Smith doesn't suggest any special effort which should be made to accommodate working parents but does urge that there should not be any discrimination against children of working parents: "The schools should educate children of working parents the same as children of non-working parents and not discriminate against them."

Kevin Campbell comments: "Uniform starting times and uniform vacations — all children from the same family should be assigned to the same track. Establish school calendar to correspond with Julian calendar so working parents can schedule vacations to correspond with school vacations?"

Teens must search to find summer jobs

By MATHEW BRZEZINSKI

If Plymouth and Canton students want jobs this summer, they'll have to look hard and be willing to work at a variety of different trades.

That's what job placement counselors are telling students.

Joyce Willis, a counselor for the job placement center at Plymouth Canton High School, said "local chances for employment are limited and few employers in this area take summer help."

Willis said that the primary way students find jobs is usually through acquaintances, friends or relatives.

"There are many opportunities in the greater metropolitan area in plants, warehouses and factories for unskilled laborers who are willing to travel," said Willis, "but there are not too many of those jobs available in the Plymouth area."

She said that the placement center at the school is available to all students and former students in the Plymouth-Canton School District.

Willis said that "by far the most frequent request we get from employers is for clerical positions."

"The outlook is great — for college students this summer," according to Ronald Monsette, director of the placement center at Schoolcraft Community College.

He said that the center usually has about "four job openings for each applicant at the college, some full-time, some part-time."

He added that the primary goal of the student looking for a job is "money and not so much for a career."

For summer employment, he'd rather get the student a good paying job not related to the student's field than a lower paying job that would, said Monsette.

WILLIS SAID that "young people are unrealistic about jobs, wanting to earn $6 or $7 per hour like their parents, older brother or sister."

She added that a few employers are unwilling to pay enough to entice people to work for them and many factory jobs have "hard, heavy and hot work that few students want unless it is made worth their while."

Edward Dowling, general manager of the Michigan Employment Security Commission in Plymouth, also said that most of the jobs available were factory, outdoor labor and clerical jobs.

He said that this year there is "not too great an abundance of summer jobs for students."

Dowling said the MESC encourages students to do the most they can to find a job. The MESC provides a service to aid the student in finding a job.

He said the MESC goes to employers to talk to them to find out what kind of jobs they will have available in the summer for students.

Dowling also said that "students are not usually looking for career jobs," and that the emphasis for most students is to get a job that makes money. The more the better.

Willis said that students looking for jobs should check their local employment services, such as the MESC or the school service, as a start.

One of the best ways is to "tell everyone you know that you are looking for a job" and a friend or a relative may come up with one sooner than you think, she said.

She added that the student should put in an application to every possible place he may want to work.

FOR STUDENTS under 16, the market is a little tighter because many plants do not accept under them. The best places for them to try are restaurants, baby-sitting, cutting lawns and general maintenance.

Willis said that lawn cutting and baby sitting are too often over-looked because students don't consider them "real" jobs.

Gail Pohutski, an account representative for Kelly Services in Livonia, a temporary employment firm, said that the company holds seminars in high schools and places ads for college students to encourage them to seek employment with them.

Kelly Services "cannot guarantee a steady summer job, for it is not a placement service. It only finds temporary jobs for people."

Pohutski said that there are three divisions in the Kelly services: clerical, light industrial and marketing.

She said that no experience is necessary for light industrial and marketing, but applicants must be over 18.

In the clerical division, she added, Kelly accepts persons under 18 but they must obtain a work permit, go through a two-hour screening process, fill out the required applications and meet the minimum requirements for the job.

Willis said that the procedure for a summer job is the same as for any full-time job. Employers call the placement center and check the files to see if there are students that have asked for that type of job and are the best qualified to fill it.

She added that some areas open include park and recreation jobs such as playground supervisors and coaches. There are also seasonal jobs such as landscaping help, swimming pool installers, corn pickers and sod installers.

Willis said that if the person is willing to travel, the government often has summer positions for students, few in the Plymouth-Canton area, but many in Detroit and the surrounding area.

Board mulls planning job

says she fully supports Kosteva, alleges that Greenstein is pushing for a change in the planner's duties because "Jim (Kosteva) won't dance to Bob Greenstein's tune.

"Greenstein wants to tell him what to do and say. Now, he's trying to attack the job he's doing. I'm absolutely livid over what happened," Mrs. Goldsmith said.

"The township board created the position of planner, not industrial coordinator. We signed a contract with a planner. I think the township would break that contract by making him an industrial planner. And if I were him, I wouldn't do it." Kosteva would not comment on the board's action to curtail his duties other than saying that more personnel are needed in the planning department "if it is to perform better for citizens."

Kosteva is responsible for handling site plan and rezoning requests and is obligated to attend all township board, planning commission and zoning board of appeals meetings. Kosteva and two interns comprise the entire planning department.

In response to Greenstein's charges, Kosteva said no one at township hall has ever issued an order to seek help from Wade, Trim Associates. He added sarcastically that he attended 21 evening presentations on the farmland preservation proposal last fall "because I'm uninterested in the program."

Supervisor Culbert said "it would be hard to say" whether the township board will decide to limit Kosteva's job responsibilities to industrial planning.

"I just regret that the whole thing had to come up in the way that it did," Culbert said.

Walk for Mankind gets funding pledges

Every participant in the event will receive a discount coupon booklet worth $12.19.

The coupons include free Dr. Pepper's among other items, according to Jagoda.

Prizes offered by the sponsors include Mitch Ryder concert tickets, bicycles, albums and radios. Sponsor sheets must be completely filled out in order to be eligible for the exclusive concert.

Jagoda said sponsor sheets will be available at Dr. Pepper displays at Krogers and Meijer Thrifty Acres and at the Canton Sports Store and Harvard Square shopping mall and Rick's TV on Ford Road and Lilley.

If people cannot find sheets at those locations, they can call Jagoda at 981-1805.

Jagoda said that the Plymouth-Canton School District and the Canton Police have been especially helpful in the preparations for the walk.

Registration for the walk will begin at 7:30 a.m. on Saturday, June 2 until 9:30 a.m.

Walkers are advised to bring money for a phone call, a sack lunch, lightweight rainwear, and an extra pair of socks, as well as sponsor sheets.

For entertainment at the end of the walk, the rock band Hostage will play for the participants, said Jagoda.

He said the walk will be held rain or shine, but if it rains, the walkers will be credited four kilometers for each kilometer walked.

Special plaque awards are being offered to schools participating in the walk June 2.

Plymouth Salem High School is located near the corner of Joy and Canton Center Roads.

Red Cross slates blood donation drive

Canton Township wants your blood. It's all part of a drive scheduled for 2-8 p.m. June 12 at Canton Township Hall, where persons can give blood to the American Red Cross.

Blood donations will be taken, preferably by appointment, at the third floor of the administration building. People are welcome to stop in before the township board of trustees meeting scheduled for 7 p.m. the same night.

Nancy Longwell, who is coordinating the drive in Canton, said this year's goal is 110 pints. Last year, when the drive was conducted only among township employees, 35 pints of blood were collected.

American Red Cross Blood Services in the Southeastern Michigan region now provide blood at no charge to any person needing it. There is a charge from the hospital, but the fees are covered by all major insurance companies. Until recently, blood through the Red Cross was attainable at no charge only to persons who were members of blood donor plans.

The Red Cross suggests that donors set aside about an hour for the process. Anyone between the ages of 17 (with parental permission) and 66 may donate blood.

For further information, contact Ms. Longwell at 397-1000.

Interim zoning law proposed

"But we have (an updated 1967) zoning ordinance. I think this is a scheme to deny people their right to a public hearing."

ROBERT PADGET, chairman of the Canton Planning Commission, said, the interim zoning ordinance idea was Richardson's, not the planning board's.

"I absolutely won't vote for it, personally," Padget said of the interim zoning law. "I have some real personal problems with it."

"I don't care what the state law says, but I think you're obligated to hold public hearings."

Money woes batter college....

By TIM RICHARD

Money problems don't rain. They pour.

That's how it appears to Schoolcraft College trustees, who have scheduled Wednesday night meetings from now until the end of June.

Their problems include a millage election, negotiations with four unions and the budget.

MOST TRUSTEES are taking part in a steering committee's effort to convince voters to pass two property tax proposals totalling one mill in the June 11 election.

President C. Nelson Grote told trustees last week a four-page tabloid paper is being sent to some 90,000 residences in the college district, which covers western Wayne County and spills over into Oakland and Washtenaw counties.

The community college is seeking a half-mill to complete financing of a Culinary Arts addition to the Waterman Campus Center and another half-mill for major maintenance and equipment purchases.

At the same time, three trustees are to be elected. So next Wednesday, May 30, at 7:30 p.m., candidates will be discussing the millage and other campaign issues in Frost Junior High School, 14041 Stark, Livonia. The session is sponsored by the League of Women Voters.

THE COLLEGE is negotiating with four unions, and on June 6 the trustees will spend the evening with John Graves and Gerald Munro, their chief negotiators, developing strategy. Most of it will be closed to the public.

All four unions' contracts expire June 30.

They cover: the Schoolcraft College Association of Administrative and Professional Personnel (SCAAP), about two dozen middle management members; the Schoolcraft College Association of Office Personnel (SCAOP), 60 office and clerical members; the physical plant workers, 40; and the food service workers, about 14.

"I see no reluctance to negotiate," Graves said late last week.

Last year the SCAOP secretaries joined the Faculty Forum in an eight-day strike. The 320-member Forum has a contract that runs until the end of August 1980.

THE JUNE 11 election will determine the shape of the budget for 1979-

80 as well as whether there will be any substantial number of layoffs.

For several years, the board has tried to allocate $250,000 for major maintenance and $250,000 for equipment replacement and new acquisitions. Each year there has been a budget crunch, and each year those items have been reduced.

The second half-mill proposal will bring in about $1 million when it is collected next winter. If it passes, the present 1.77 voted mills can be used entirely for the operating budget. If not, then program cuts will have to be made if any maintenance is to be performed and equipment purchased.

The board has set two meetings — June 13 and 20 — to work on the budget. Both will begin at 8 p.m. in the board room of the Administration Building on campus at 18600 Haggerty, Livonia. Both will be open to the public.

Finally, at 7 p.m. on June 27, the board will conduct a public hearing on the new budget, which will be in the $11 million range. Rarely do more than two or three persons comment.

At 7:30 that evening the board will hold a special meeting to ratify the budget, and at 8 p.m. will come the regular business meeting.

MEANWHILE, President Grote revealed the Culinary Arts addition will get a bit more state money than anticipated.

The Senate Appropriations Subcommittee on Higher Education and Gov. William G. Milliken agreed to add $67,000 to the $750,000 already appropriated last year.

Schoolcraft has another $500,000 in the bank for the addition. If voters approve the first half-mill proposal on the June 11 ballot, funding for the approximately $2.2 million project will be complete.

Purpose of the Culinary Arts addition is to allow doubling enrollment in that popular program and provide space for demonstration labs, a reference center, specialized programs in food service and meeting rooms.

...as trustees scrape for $

Schoolcraft College's community services programs have always covered "current" costs — accounting jargon for the salaries and supplies needed to run them.

College officials currently are struggling with the question of whether community services programs should bring in money for "overhead" costs — heat, light, custodial services and administrative costs.

Reluctantly, trustees last week instructed the administration to begin work on a method of recovering some overhead costs.

"It's one of the possible areas in case we do have a negative vote on the June 11 millage," said trustee Gerald Cox.

SCHOOLCRAFT has served more than 21,000 persons this school year with community services, said President C. Nelson Grote.

One group of services was workshops and short courses like ballroom dancing, which drew 54 persons, Hatha Yoga (62), microwave cooking (48), stained glass art (48), and introduction to recreational vehicles (17).

Another group is seminars and forums like small business management (72), widowhood (91), basic law enforcement for police reserves (99), and displaced homemakers (42).

Cultural and public affairs included five chamber music concerts, two lectures, two poetry readings, one theater program and one dance offering, drawing a total of 1,800 persons.

Dinners, dances, films, other concerts and physical education drew a total attendance of nearly 17,000.

RON GRIFFITH, dean of community services, said that while the program as a whole breaks even, some make money and some are "almost free."

He added, "If you slap on an overhead costs that's as much as the direct cost, you'd price yourself out of the market." He cited the nutrition program for senior citizens as one to which overhead costs shouldn't be attached.

The entire community services budget is $240,000. Fees range from free to $100.

Grote, in a memo to the board, said: "In consideration of the current level of sophistication of our cost accounting system, a plan that is student contact hour-based appears most practical. Specifically, some indirect cost factors could be determined and applied against the annual student contact hours generated by community service students."

"The dollar amount could then be computed and transferred annually from the community services restricted account to the general operating fund."

AT ONE TIME, community colleges could award "institutional credit" for community services course work and receive some state financial assistance.

But in 1976 the Michigan Legislature became upset with paying state money for belly dancing-type courses at one college and disallowed funds for "avocational" courses.

Treasurer, trustees resurrect bank war

The cold war between Plymouth Township Treasurer Joe West and board trustees flared again at last week's meeting, as West refused to investigate bank services for the township.

West declared he didn't need any additional services if the township was going to purchase a computer.

After his refusal, board members defeated a motion by Trustee Lee Fidge directing West to meet with the township's depositories and bring a recommendation to the board.

Fidge and Trustee Barbara Lynch were the only board members in support of the motion, but their attempt to pour a little fuel on the embers of the running controversy didn't fall on deaf ears.

Trustee Maurice Breen said he voted against the motion because "I don't think it takes a motion of this board to do it," adding that a motion shouldn't be necessary to "induce the administration to come forward with some ideas."

"Why be a martyr?" was Trustee Gerald Law's explanation of his vote, adding that he knew the motion would be defeated.

Law said the recommendations and groundwork should be done by administration.

"You know the needs and and can find out those services that will help us. Who else is going to do it?" he asked.

West said that the accounting department could better analyze what the township required in terms of payroll services. He also said he wanted Detroit Bank and Trust's Lilley Road branch to remain the only bank for payment of taxes.

Canton tennis squad loses tough match to Mustangs, 5-2

Plymouth Canton did not have enough to spoil Northville's perfect tennis season in the Western Six League.

Despite the close matches, Canton lost its final league match to the Mustangs, 5-2, Wednesday afternoon.

"We've had a whole flock of matches like this," said Canton coach Jim Hayes. "We just can't seem to get to four."

"We had a good effort today. We've played only one bad match all season," he said.

At No. 3 singles, Canton's Mike Tegge netted one of two Canton victories with a 6-4, 6-0 triumph over Doug Horst.

Bob Adams, playing doubles for the first time this season, combined with Jamie Trenter to beat Northville's Greg Fox and Jeff Williams, 7-6, 7-5, gaining the Chiefs' other win.

Playing No. 2 singles, Canton's Dan Schmidt lost a tough, three-set match to Northville's Lance Carter, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3.

"Dan played a real good match. He was strong," Hayes said.

In another Canton three-set defeat, Northville's Ian Wild and Andy Orlando edged Kurt Crocker and Mark Roberts at No. 2 doubles, 6-4, 6-7, 6-4.

At No. 3 doubles, Mark Swayne and Jim Herbel of Northville conquered Keith Logsdon and Kreg Kinnel, 6-3, 6-3.

Northville's no. 1 singles performer, Barry Ouellette, headed for the class A state tourney after a second place finish in the regional, shut out Canton junior Bob Young, 6-0, 6-0.

At No. 4 singles, Dave Herbel of Northville tripped Pete Lee, 6-1, 6-2.

Northville ended its Western Six schedule with a 10-0 mark. Canton finished at 4-6. The Chiefs are 6-7 overall.

Northville will be the odds-on-favorite to dominate the league meet,

Wednesday at 9 a.m. at the Canton courts.

"We've lost alot of close matches but we're still hoping for some medals in the league championship," said Hayes.

Curt Crocker (left) and Mark Roberts, the number two doubles duo for the Chiefs, lost a spirited match to the Mustangs.

Stanley Cup duty a thrill for Sneddon

By BRAD EMONS

Chuck Sneddon has seen a lot of hockey pucks fly his way the past 24 years.

A customer representative of Detroit Edison and a resident of Plymouth, Sneddon has been a goal judge in the National Hockey League for 22 years.

"I love the games," said Sneddon. "If I hadn't been a goal judge all these years I'd be at the games anyway."

Sneddon is an established veteran as a goal judge. He's worked five Stanley Cup finals — most recently in Montreal one week ago for the final game of the Montreal-New York Rangers series. Sneddon worked 39 of 40 Red Wing games this season.

"Being a judge in the Stanley Cup is really a thrill. I liked the idea of being selected for the last game," he said.

He was also part of the crew for the playoff series in Buffalo. A crew consists of two goal judges, the timekeeper, the penalty timekeeper and the official scorer.

Goal judges for the playoffs must come from a neutral city. They are hired by the NHL and are recommended by the host team.

"All your expenses are paid for," Sneddon said. "Everything is first class."

Sneddon uses his vacation time to work the Stanley Cup games. He works out of the downtown Plymouth Edison office and has been an employee of the company for 31 years.

"I've always managed to work it out," explained Sneddon. "I have good bosses."

Sneddon started his part-time career as a goal judge by working Junior Red Wing games in 1955. Two years later he was asked by the Red Wings to work league games in the NHL at the Olympia, and to work some Stanley Cup games.

Before he started as a judge, Sneddon was a referee and held Red Wing season tickets for two years.

Sneddon's job does not involve any special training. To be a goal judge you must have a hockey background and know the technical aspects of the game.

"The puck must go all the way over the line before I turn the light on," said Sneddon, explaining the definition of a goal. "We can be overruled. The referee has the final say."

Sneddon says it's harder being a goal judge today than it was a decade ago.

"The players are definitely bigger," Sneddon said. "Tall players in front of the net make it more difficult. A guy like (Montreal goalie) Ken Dryden, who's 6-4, is really hard to see around."

"A shorter player, such as (Detroit goalie) Rogie Vachon, makes it easier."

Sneddon has been the target of many slap shots in the glass-enclosed cage in which he works and which is situated directly behind the net.

"TIM HORTON broke the herculite glass one time," recalls Sneddon.

Horton was an all-star defenseman

Canton nine assails foe, 7-1

Three pitchers scattered four hits to lift Plymouth Canton to a 7-1 Western Six League baseball victory over Northville Wednesday.

Canton finished its Western Six League season with an 8-2 mark. Livonia Churchill took the league crown with a perfect 10-0 record. Churchill beat Waterford Mott Wednesday, 10-0, to conclude its league schedule.

Scott Dawson hurled the first four innings for Canton and didn't allow a run. Northville collected its only run off Dan Funkhouser during his two-inning stint. Brian James went the final inning, holding Northville scoreless.

Dawson was credited with the victory, his sixth of the season against one defeat.

Canton is 17-5 overall and has won eight in a row. During the streak, the Chiefs have committed just three errors. They played flawlessly against Northville.

"We've done well defensively," said Canton coach Fred Crissey. "But the biggest difference is the hitting. It's been timely and that takes the pressure off of us."

Canton collected nine hits against Northville paced by catcher Rusty Mandle's three for three effort.

The Chiefs struck for six runs in the second inning.

Mandle started off with a homer over the fence. Dave Weise then followed with a single. Al Lipinski and Dave Meador followed with successive walks, loading the bases.

Sophomore Keith Stone knocked in Canton's second run with a single. Scott Racer walked and Steve Gray drove in Lipinski with a sacrifice fly.

Don Dreher laid down a squeeze bunt as Meador scored. Dawson then drove in two more runs with a single to score Stone Racer.

Canton tallied its seventh run in the fourth inning when Mandle singled to drive home Racer who had reached base on a walk.

"Our pitching was free and easy. All three had good motion," said Crissey.

"This is the first time we've been able to rest our pitchers and it shows," he said.

"With three days rest our pitchers threw well in the Midland tourney." Crissey received complete games in the victorious Midland tourney a week ago from James, Funkhouser and Dawson.

"The rainouts really hurt us because our pitchers didn't have any rest," Crissey said.

"I can't be displeased with a 17-5 record," he said.

Edsel Ford wins over Salem, 6-1

Plymouth Salem dropped its third dual tennis match of the season Wednesday, losing to Dearborn Edsel Ford, 6-1.

The Rocks slipped to 6-3 in the Suburban Eight League and 11-3 overall. Salem's match Thursday against Trenton was rained out. It is not known when the two teams will be rescheduled.

Against Edsel Ford, the only Salem victory came at No. 3 doubles when Dick Cook and Blake Lundberg whipped Dave Loula and Rob Waldron, 6-2, 6-4.

In a three-set match, Salem's Craig

Stevens and Mark Thomas lost at No. 1 doubles to Mike Davies and Don Dobrobich, 2-6, 7-6, 7-5. It was only the third loss of the year for Stevens and Thomas.

Regional champs Craig Baker and Bob Jarvis of Salem lost their No. 2 doubles match to Ray Touminin and Daryl Paputa, 6-4, 6-4.

Bob Braun lost at No. 1 singles to Jeff Stassen of Edsel Ford, 6-2, 6-4. Ed Thomas of Salem was beaten by Al Amici, 6-0, 6-2, at No. 2 singles while Scott Crespo of the Rocks was ripped by Mark Toth, 6-0, 6-1.

Cathy Andersen smashes another record in golf

By BETTY DeLANO

Breaking records has become a way of life for Plymouth Canton senior Cathy Andersen.

Andersen plays as the number one player on the Chiefs girls' golf team and lowered the school nine-hole record, again, by one stroke to get into the high 30's.

Andersen's 39 was the backbone of the Chiefs 12-stroke victory over Brighton, Wednesday, 191-203. But the Canton crew would of had no trouble at all with the match had Andersen shot her average 45.

Strong support came from both senior Peggy Visser and junior Janis McGlone who both added scores that broke the 50-stroke mark. Visser carded a 44 on the par-35 Hilltop Golf Course to tie her personal best and McGlone added a 49.

Freshman Debbie Nurmi was the fourth player to add a score to the Canton total. She recorded a 59.

Playing in the number five and six positions, Cantons' Karen Mullen and Kim Massey both came off the ninth hole with a 61. However, only the top four scores are included in the final score.

Andersen's 39 broke the old record she set at the Lakeland Country Club the first match of the season against Pinckney.

The final team score for the Chiefs was also a new nine-hole team record. The old record of 193, scored at Pinckney, was reduced two strokes and gave the Chiefs their 12th win of the season against only one loss.

The Canton squad's only loss was to Saline on Monday, 196-201.

"We're getting better and better with each match," said Canton coach Ann Buie. "The entire team is really psyched up for the finals and the scores are really proving it."

Brighton scores included a 49 from Jeanine Poe, and pair of 50s from Jill Smith and Julie Rentergher and a 54 from Kathy Wesolowski.

Canton will make its bid on the Central Six League title tomorrow in the league meet at Burroughs Farm in Brighton. Both Canton and Saline have only one loss in the league and the winner of tomorrow's tournament will determine the champion. Saline has been the titleholder the past two years and Plymouth Salem had the title the first year the league was formed.

Both Salem and Canton will play in the state finals on Monday in Parma. Canton placed first in the regionals and Salem placed second to become eligible for the state tourney.

In The Pocket

By W.W. EDGAR

As bowling moves into the summer season, there is a surprising lack of what used to be called trick tournaments.

Among them were such things as the red pin tournament where a red pin was placed in the set-up. If you knocked it over, you drew a bonus. Then there were such events as the 3-6-9 in which you received a strike in each of those frames.

Long before that, the bowlers spent their summers rolling in duck pin events where the pins were small and had heavy rubber bands around the center.

All those things are gone now. The bowlers are sticking with the regulation game, save for the usual summer mixed doubles and the fun leagues where no thought is given to averages. Then, as the summer draws to a close, these leagues take on the status of training grounds for the long winter season.

But all the old time trick competitions are now but memories.

FOR THE first time in many years, the same team won the titles in the two top women's leagues and were so honored at the annual banquet Wednesday night.

The team is the Bonanza group, and it finished on top in both the Bowlerettes and the Ladies Major. As a result, the team table collared all the prizes and trophies and the accolades of all those present at the banquet.

ALREADY CHANGES are being announced in the lineups for next season.

One of the main shifts in personnel will be the long suspected move by Alea Rzepecki, the young star from the Livonia Bowling Sales team, to the Bonanza squad that may carry an extra bowler for its heavy schedule next season.

Ann Setlock, who bowls with the Miss Lapeer squad, expects a few changes in that line-up. It so happens that two of the members are from Toledo and drive many miles to get here twice a week. With the possibility of gasoline rationing, Ann expects the Toledo women will decide the drive is too much.

On the men's side, there are plenty of rumors, but as yet no official announcements have been made.

CORA FEIBIG, who finished in the runner-up role in the national queens tournament at the WIBC annual championships a year ago, found that a year could make the difference in knocking over tenpins.

Last week in the Queen's event in Tucson, Ariz., she failed to make the cut and had to sit out the finals.

She did salvage something out of the season, though. In the official records of the Bowlerettes and the Ladies Major, she finished with the top mean average of 195. She hit 197 in the Ladies Major and 194 in the Bowlerettes.

THE MEN'S TRIO loop got away to a great start at Wonderland during the past week.

Nick Calucci set the pace in the opener with games of 231, 227 and 193 for a 651. Behind him came Ed Miu with counts of 180, 237 and 204 for 621.

Canton girls' softball team falls to Northville

By BETTY DeLANO

Plymouth Canton its final Western Six League varsity softball game of the season Wednesday, losing to Northville, 3-1.

Both teams had eight hits but Northville was aided by five walks from Canton pitcher MariAnn Pink.

Three free passes came in the third inning, when Northville scored its three runs.

The walks were sandwiched between a double and a single, all with two outs. Canton averted the shutout by scoring in the seventh inning.

Cheryl Pijanowski singled home Pink, who led off the inning with a single.

"We couldn't bunch our hits together, they were to spread out over to many innings," said Canton coach Max Sommerville. "Northville played real good on both offense and defense and was able to get their hits close together with runners on to bring in the runs. Overall I'd have to say that both teams played real well."

Canton's record overall is 8-7, and the Chiefs sport a 7-3 league mark, good for second place in the Western 6.

The loss marked the end of the regular season. The team next will compete in state tournament action.

Bruce Watt and Bill Lindley swept five points from Dave Lyndrup and Eugene Hammonds last week to hold the lead in the Canton Township Men's Fox Hills Golf League.

Watt and Lindley are leading the league after three weeks of play with 1/2 points. Merph Eminger and Charlie Sheets are right behind with 14.

Eminger and Sheets also collected five points, beating John Mogelnicki and Same Natoli to move up into the second place position.

Bob White turned in the best round play last week with a nine-hole total of 39. His partner, Mike Ryan carded a 41.

Ryan and White bested Tony Valenti and Dick Kraft, gaining third place in the standings with 12 points. Valenti and Kraft had rounds of 41 each. Valenti and Kraft are tied for ninth place with 6 1/2 points.

14-year-old avid equestrian tops all in horse-jumping field

By KEN VOYLES

It may be surprising that a suburban girl like Bernadette Sak can find satisfaction and the thrill of equestrian competition.

Sak, a 14-year-old equestrienne, was born and raised in Livonia. But at heart she is a horse jumper with all the nerve and guts of the old cowboys that once dominated the American West.

The young horsewoman began riding for pleasure three years ago. She never dreamed she would be competing throughout Michigan as she has done this past summer.

But what's all of the excitement about Sak? Because not only did she compete last summer but she won the whole bag. Sak was crowned the Michigan Junior Hunter-Jumper Association Champion for 1978 in her age group.

That title was won after touring through Michigan on the horse jumping circuit and beating out 25 to 30 other jumpers in her age group.

The circuit is run by the MJHJA and lasts from May through August. There are seven different shows, as they are called, and the champion is determined by the total number of points the riders collect on the circuit.

The idea is much like the Grand Prix Auto Circuit. Each show is a meet in itself. Winning a show gives a rider five points. Second place is worth three points, third is worth two and fourth is good for one point.

Sak won four shows, was second once and third twice. Her performance was good enough for the title and the trophy that goes with it.

"Friday Surprise" is the name of Sak's horse and she rides out of Haverhill Stables in Walled Lake.

Bernadette credits her sister Paula as the biggest influence on the champion when she was getting her start in the sport. Paula also used to ride on the circuit. Then one day, according to the girls' father, Richard, Bernadette asked when it would be her turn to ride.

"I never rode before I started some three years ago. Paula was the biggest single influence upon me. I would watch her and be very captivated by what she was doing," Sak said. "She also helped me get into the sport and influence my decision whether to compete or not."

And so the first step on the way into equestrian competition was completed. Young Sak started learning how to handle a horse. It was a basic apprenticeship before the big leagues.

It was then that Julie Agar stepped into the picture and took Bernadette under her guidance. Agar was an instructor at Haverhill and saw young Sak's potential.

Agar worked with her for two years on all aspects of the sport, from simple good riding habits to the regimentation of proper jumping techniques.

"One day, Julie told us that Bernadette should get a horse of her own and go into the Michigan circuit and try her hand at competitive riding," Bernadette's father explained. "We never thought what started out as a pleasure trip for Bernadette would turn into this."

But the Saks followed the instructor's advice, and they did indeed buy a horse.

Riding has become a full-time vocation for the Holmes Junior High student. She not only competes whenever she can, but she also trains three or four times a week. Each training session lasts two or three hours with the young champion running her horse through various drills and exercises.

Saks says there is more work to training for equestrian than other sports. Not only does the rider have to be in shape (both mentally and physically), but the horse must also be in top condition.

Sak constantly works with her horse over the various courses at Haverhill to do just that.

The idea in equestrian competition is to put the horse through an obstacle course with various jumps without making a single mistake. Every error on jumps adds points to the tandem's score. The rider with the lowest point total wins.

"It is very difficult to get a clean round (no mistakes)," Sak said.

Each show is a two-day event with the preliminaries on the first day and the finals on the second. According to Sak, it can be a very trying experience.

"When I started competing, I really didn't think I would do as good as I did. It all came as a surprise," said Sak. "I love competing but I really don't know where I am going to go with it. That's in the future."

"Oh, sure, I'd like to go into the national circuit or maybe the Olympics but that is a long way off," she continued. "I'd like to go higher into the sport but I'll just continue and see what happens."

Bernadette also has a brother, and the main topic of conversation around the house is horses, horses and more horses. It's a family sport at the Sak resident.

Chiefs fall victim of mental errors

By TIAIR HIMES

The Plymouth Canton junior varsity softball team suffered another loss Wednesday, losing to Belleville 9-3.

Both teams managed to score one run in the first inning but Canton rallied for two more in the second. Those were the only runs the Chiefs could muster.

Belleville capitalized on Canton defensive errors in the field in the third inning to take a 5-3 lead.

Feeling like they were still able to catch up, the Chiefs held the Tigers until the fifth inning but were also halted from getting on base.

Belleville advanced again with two runs in the fifth inning and took the last two in the sixth.

"We made a lot of mental errors that we usually don't make," said Canton coach Cathy Himes. "There were errors both in the field and in running the bases. The errors on the bases are what cost us the game."

Canton hit a lot of fly balls against Belleville into a varsity outfield that found its way to the JV squad for this game.

The Belleville team finished its season with a 17-3 record.

Closing the season with nine wins and two losses, Coach Himes commented on the improvement made by her team since the beginning of the season.

"At the start of the season they played like it was a recreation type of team and not one that represented the school. They all matured very much and started playing softball like it is meant to be played and began caring about winning for the school."

The squad's other loss was to Riverview in the second half of a double-header. Canton won the first game 13-0 but lost the second by a score of 11-10.

The team members voted on what players should receive awards for the most valuable player, best all around player and the most improved player. Those results will be printed in the next edition.

Goal judge Sneddon tells of game he loves

"I called a goal and the Canadiens were upset," he recalls. "Henri Richard, the 'Pocket Rocket,' didn't like the decision and started banging his stick against the glass."

Sneddon says the fans are somewhat different these days at Olympia.

"The behavior has changed," said Sneddon. "It's a younger crowd. I'd say 20-30 years. They are a lot more vocal. A lot of people don't know the rules."

"The older fans haven't changed. Detroit is a good hockey town."

Next season Sneddon will be in a new home — Joe Louis Arena in downtown Detroit.

"I plan to be a goal judge as long as possible. I enjoy it too much. I have the best seat in the house and I'd be there anyway," Sneddon said.

for the Toronto Maple Leafs during the 1960s. "That was one of the hardest shots I've ever seen."

"Guy LeFleur has a hard shot. Gordie Howe had the most accurate wrist shot. It was like a bullet."

Sneddon said Howe has probably been his favorite player over the years.

"I liked Gordie because he's Gordie," Sneddon said.

"He (Gordie) was a great guy, on and off the ice. He was always the same."

Sneddon's favorite goaltender was the late Terry Sawchuk, who played for the Wings and a few other teams around the league.

"In his prime, Terry was a great goaltender to be behind," said Sneddon.

His most memorable controversial call was a few years back when Detroit played Montreal.

Bernadette Sak, 14, is the best equestrian rider for her age in the state. The Livonia resident holds the trophy to prove it. (Staff photo by Art Emanuel)

All-stars School bands head park series

By BETTY DeLANO

Traditionally, the first concert in Kellogg Park each year has been a performance by the Centennial Educational Park (CEP) Symphony Band under the direction of James R. Griffith.

This year will be no different although the concert will also feature the All-Star band from the four Plymouth-Canton middle schools.

Starting at 7:30 p.m., Friday under the stars of Kellogg Park, the All-Star band will take the stage and perform four numbers, each directed by one of the middle school directors. At 8 p.m. the CEP band will take the stage and provide 90 minutes of music.

Directors of the middle schools include Mike DiCuri from Central Middle School, Jane Paulsen from Pioneer Middle School, Linda Mapes from East Middle School and Mike Chiumento from West Middle School.

Holding the title of "senior concert," selections played by the Symphony Band will include selections chosen by the seniors of the band. The selections are numbers that have been favorites of the band in past years that the senior class would like to play one last time before graduating.

Selections under Griffith's baton will include "Fiesta Del Pacifico" by Roger Nixon which was performed at the Southeastern Band Directors Clinic in Troy, Alabama, in 1976, "Fantasia Borin Quena (A Puerto Rican Fantasy)" by Richard Hayman of Boston Pops fame, "Lyrin Dance" arranged by Benciscuto, the first movement of "Concerto for Band" by Gordon Jacob and "Diver-tamento for Band" by Vincent Persichetti.

March selections by the band will include "The Liberty Bell March" directed by senior Teresa Savage and Sousas' "Glory of the Yankee Navy."

"Broadway Curtain Time," by John Krance, will conclude the concert. "Broadway" was performed by the Symphony Band in 1974 at the Governor's Concert and in 1978 at the Midwest Band Directors' Clinic in Chicago, Illinois.

The concert is a prelude to the 1979 "Concert in the Park" series by the Plymouth Community Band which will start on Thursday, June 28 at 8 p.m. and run for six weeks.

In case of rain, the concert will be held in the auditorium at Plymouth Salem High School on Joy and Canton Center Roads. As usual, there is no charge for the concert.

A new way to earn more money for your money.

How to earn bonus interest on a Michigan Money Market Certificate.

Invest in a six-month, Michigan Money Market Certificate.

Now, no other bank or savings and loan pays more on Michigan Money Market Certificates than the Michigan National Banks. A minimum deposit of $10,000 is required and the rate at which the certificate is purchased is fixed until maturity.

Then deposit the monthly interest into a regular passbook savings account.

While the continuous compounding of interest is not allowed on Michigan Money Market Certificates, it is allowed on regular passbook savings. And since the interest you earn on a Michigan Money Market Certificate can be paid monthly, we can automatically deposit the interest you've earned each month into a regular passbook savings account.

3. The result: Bonus interest on your interest.

Your interest continues to earn bonus interest in your regular passbook savings account at the rate of 5.0% annually - continuously compounded to provide an effective annual yield of 5.20%.

Then, when your Michigan Money Market Certificate matures, you can take all of the interest you've earned plus your principal, reinvest in a new certificate at the prevailing rate, and start earning more money for your money all over again.

The VIEW from CANTON CENTER

MILLER WOODS, that beautiful climax maple and beech forest on Powell Road, is finally gaining a little respect. Once used as a dumping ground for all kinds of trash and garbage, it was a major effort just to keep the roadside respectable.

Things are looking up. According to Penny Wright, chairperson of the Miller Woods Committee, a refrigerator was dumped across the road from the woods owned by the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

There also is some bad news. After the first spring tour of the woods, someone went in and dug up one of the pawpaw trees.

We have some real nature-lovers around here.

REMEMBER the spring piano recitals? The time when budding pianists, dressed in their Sunday best, performed for proud members of the family and selected friends?

For the piano and organ students of Carolyn Weage, the recital still is an event of the month of May. Thirteen of her students took part in a recital May 19. The participants were Karen Mulholland, Edith Stone, Jill Detroude, Heather Fields, Brenda Hollingsworth, Sue Schendel, Rick Routson, Ning Peng, Kim Lybarger, Debbie Parent, Lisa Zalyko, Mindy Ingalls and Philip Sinco.

Refreshments were served after the performances and audience and students listened to a replay of the recital which had been taped.

THE PLYMOUTH City Bombers welcomes everyone (except children and professional skaters) to join their ranks. They meet at 7 p.m. Wednesdays and 6 p.m. Sundays in the Central Parking Lot. (Joanie Gerigk, one of the instigators, warns "You must be prompt because we skate only ½ hour in the lot then we take to the streets.")

She promises the Bombers' T-shirts soon will be available and eventually short trips to Northville and other places will become a regular feature. Joanie has assembled some statistics on the benefits of roller skating. It burns up 360 calories per hour developing arm, leg, back and shoulder muscles as well as stimulating the heart and lungs.

She even came up with a comparison chart of calories consumed per minute by various sports. Tennis rated tops with 7.1 followed by roller skating with 6.0.

Others are: canoeing, 3.0; volleyball, 3.5; walking, 3.6; cycling (normal), 4.5; swimming, 5.0; rowing, 5.0; walking fast, 5.6.

There now are 31 persons in the PC Bombers. Plans are in the works to challenge the Kansas City Bombers.

"This will enable us to justify a junket to Kansas City," said Joan. "Upon arrival, we will tell them we were only kidding and save ourselves from extensive bodily injury."

For more information about the Bombers, call 459-1090.

CUB SCOUTS in Bird School Pack 293 are super salemen.

They sold more than 1,300 geraniums in their recent sale. Karen Swanson says the profits of slightly more than $500 will be used to recharter the pack, purchase awards, a pack activity, and to purchase neckerchiefs for new members of the pack.

HATS OFF to a group of Canton residents who are members of the Greater Canton Hills Homeowners Association.

They were out on Saturday, May 19 making a clean sweep on a one-mile stretch of Lilley Road between Michigan Avenue and Palmer.

About 100 moms, dads and kids turned out. They filled close to 100 bags with litter which amounted to three pickup truckloads. They filled a dump truck twice with larger junk.

"It was unbelievable the amount of litter that was hauled away from just a one-mile stretch of road," said Virginia Attwood. "It was a worthwhile and rewarding endeavor and we wish to give a big thank-you to all who participated."

When the work was all done, the workers enjoyed hotdogs and refreshments at the Attwoods.

Marge Mogelnicki is president of the homeowners' association.

THERE ARE openings for the June 23-24 YMCA bus trip to Stratford, Ontario. Price is $80 double occupancy and $92 for single. A $3 additional charge is added for non-members.

The trip includes dinner in London, overnight accommodations in London, a tour of the city, Shakespeare's "Love's Labour's Lost" and the musical "Happy New Year" with music by Cole Porter, transportation to and from Stratford.

Call 453-2904 for more information.

PLYMOUTH PARKS and Rec has openings for its senior citizens trip to Toronto and Collingwood June 8-12. Total cost is $169.

Buildings become historic landmarks

A 122-year-old school and two Plymouth houses were honored with Landmark plaques Wednesday in annual Heritage Day presentations.

The Landmarks Committee of the local American Association of University Women presented the bronze markers at three historic sites.

South Salem Stone School, on North Territorial Road at Curtis, was built in 1857 of stone with a wood entry. A box stove on a brick foundation in the center of the room kept the students warm during the four-month winter term. Until 1866, the teacher was a man whose salary was less than $10 a week.

A five-month summer term was taught by a woman who earned the same amount. It was not uncommon for the pupils to shoot deer, foxes or wild turkeys from the doorway of the school and skin and dress the animals as part of their lessons during "lavatory" (laboratory?) time.

Next to the school was a two-acre Indian cemetery and an abandoned log cabin which had heavy stones on the roof to hold it down during high winds.

The children used to roll these stones off the roof during recess, knowing full well that their teacher would insist that they replace each one. In the process, the recess period was lengthened.

DURING THE mid-1800s, the school was known as Jarvis School in honor of William Jarvis, a member of the school board.

The average enrollment from 1893-1941 was 18-35 students. The building was in much the same condition as when it was built. Electricity was added in the '30s and in 1940-41 the entry was enlarged, coat racks added and a septic system installed.

During that year, there were three beginning (kindergarten) students, one student each in the first and second grades, four students in each grade three through six, and one each in the seventh and eighth grades.

The school was closed in June 1967, 110 years after it opened its doors for the first classes.

The Salem Historical Society has plans to restore the building. Irene Lyke, trustee of the society, accepted the plaque from Carol Packard, chairperson of the Landmarks committee.

On hand for the presentation were three former students of the old stone school, Angie Blunk, Fern Henderson and Myrilla Schrader.

THE HOAG-COOPER house, at 1338 Penniman Avenue, was the second landmark to be honored.

Isaac M. Hoag bought the property in May 1858 and built the house in 1860 as a home for his wife, Phebe, two young daughters, and their "house-girl."

The two-story frame structure was built with hand-hewn beams and hardwood floor joints that are possibly walnut. Roof boards in the main part of the house are untrimmed planks, some more than three feet wide. A Michigan basement — walls lined with stone and a dirt floor — was dug under the southwest corner.

Isaac Hoag was a nurseryman and with his partner, a Mr. Merritt, operated a nursery on the property. Very large old apple trees are still growing on the land and low ridges running north and south across the back yard are evidence of the early plantings.

Jacob Westfall bought the property in 1864 and it was retained by his wife and daughters until 1906, making the Westfall ownership of 42 years the longest in its history.

From 1906 to 1974, the property changed hands several times and it was remodeled in 1936.

Through the years, aluminum siding, modern wiring and plumbing were added and the basement was lined with concrete. Jim and Cathy Cooper, who bought the house in 1974, accepted the plaque from the Landmark Committee.

THE THIRD SITE was the Jolliffe-Beyer house at 725 Mill Street in the Old Village area of Plymouth.

The land for the house was purchased in 1894 from George Starkweather for $355 by Daniel Jolliffe, a prominent local businessman.

The house was completed in the style of the times — Victorian fretwork and a wraparound porch on the outside. Inside are elegant carved wooden banisters, bay windows, hardwood floors and sliding wooden doors between each downstairs room.

The Beyer Family, its present owners, bought the house in 1911. In 1927 the large porch was removed and windows added. Changes were made on the inside in keeping with 20th century living, but basically the home remains the same.

Robert and Mickie Beyer, who still live in the house, received the Landmark plaque.

THE AAUW HAS been presenting the bronze plaques since 1973. Traditionally, the cost of preparing the markers has been donated by local groups.

This year, four branches of the Woman's National Farm and Garden association shared the donation. They were Lake Pointe Village, Plymouth, Tonquish Creek and Trailwood branches.

Representatives of the clubs were invised to attend the plaque presentations.

The Landmarks committee members were Carol Packard, Elizabeth Gribble, Mary Kehoe, Donna Keough, Nancy Mather and Susan Schrader.

Landmarks committee members and representatives of the garden clubs gathered in the backyard of the Cooper home.

Susan Beyer Haun, Donna Keough, Bob and Mickie Beyer and Elizabeth Gribble were on hand for the presentation of the bronze plaque.

Canton Jaycees-Jaycettes elect officers

Canton Jaycees and Jaycettes are looking forward to an outstanding season as memberships continue to grow. With the growth comes added man and woman power which has been reflected in their enthusiasm for projects. It also has been reflected in a rising budget with most of their philanthropies benefiting their own community.

Both clubs had an opportunity to view with pride their past accomplishments at their annual meeting in the Miles Standish Room of the Mayflower Hotel. New officers were installed and awards were handed out. Karen Wilson received the Spokette award. Lee Ann Farrell was named the Sparkette of the year. Community service project of the year was the Easter egg hunt chaired by Carol Lewis. Kathy Schilling was chairperson of the project of the year. This was the Jaycettes' visits to senior citizens in the Whis'pering Willows Trailer Park. Elaine Burger was named outstanding chairperson of the year. As head of the membership committee, the club grew from 20 to 51 members — a gain of 150 percent. THE JAYCEES budget grew to more than $16,000 with the Jaycee Fair and the Haunted House the major money-makers. The auxiliary cooperated with the men in both projects. Major donations were $3,000 in scholarship grants; $850 to the Canton Township Recreation Department for a refreshment stand in Griffin Park; $500 to send two residents of the Plymouth Center for Human Development to summer camp; and $1,000 spent on Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter baskets to residents of the township. The Jaycees' membership increased by 71 percent as the club grew from 73 members to 125. Key man award went to Gary Jagoda and Ted Lund was named Jaycee of the year. Jim Lane received the outstanding first-year Jaycee. Ed Rasmussen and Tom Salapatek were outstanding chairmen. The Haunted House was rated the project of the year.

Jagoda, who took over the gavel from Fred Berger. George Halloran is chairman of the board. New officers are Loren Bennett, treasurer; Chuck Eaton, secretary; Tony Varlesi, chapter manager vice president; Jim Hayes, community action vice president; and Paul Farrell, individual development vice president. George Vollamn, Tim Orbacki and Jim Lane are directors. LINDA NADEAU is the new president of the auxiliary. She takes over the office from Nicki Wilson who becomes chairperson of the board. Terri Bennett is treasurer and Sandy Meigl is secretary. Lee Ann Farrell is exterior vice president and Sue Jagoda is interior vice president. Directors are Karen Wilson and Marlene McLane.

NEW JAYCEE president is Gary

Scholarship awarded at BPW dinner meet

Three high school seniors and a university junior were awarded tuition scholarships totaling $3,000 by the Plymouth Business and Professional Women's Club. Millie Blackford told the students that checks would be sent to the schools of their choice to be added to their accounts.

Timothy Stanton, a graduating senior at Plymouth Canton High School, was awarded $500. He plans to major in business at Spring Arbor College. During his high school years, he has been active in sports and public speaking. His hobby is coin collecting. Tim's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ben Stanton of Wolf River in Plymouth Township.

Patrice Shefferly of Hanford Drive in Canton Township is graduating from Plymouth Salem H School. Her $500 will be forwarded to the University of Michigan where she will major in nursing. She was senior class secretary, junior class representative, a member of the National Honor Society and a member of the forensics team. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shefferly.

LAURA ROSE Ashlee received a $1,000 scholarship. She will major in journalism at Michigan State University. She was treasurer at Plymouth Salem, president of the National Honor Society and worked on homecoming.

and Plymouth Fall Festival committees for Salem. Her column, Laura's Lane, appeared in the school's newspaper, Centicore. She is the daughter of Rose Ashlee and lives on Hartsough in Plymouth.

Janet Dobbs was awarded a BPW scholarship when she graduated from high school. The club added another $1,000 grant as she enters her junior year at Western Michigan University where she is majoring in advertising and business management. Miss Dobbs has been working during the summers and also in the cafeteria at WMU. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ed Dobbs of Leicester in Plymouth.

SCHOLARSHIP winners and their mothers attended the dinner meeting in the Jacob Room of Hillside Inn.

Following the awards, five new members were inducted into the club. They were Margaret Chubb, Joanne Delaney, Mary Brook, Geraldine Wiroman and Lynda Binek.

New officers were installed by Daisy Proctor.

Janet Richwine is president for the 1979-80 season. Serving with her are Jean Wagner, first vice president; Renee Millar, second vice president; Gertrude Drouyer, recording secretary; Barbara Lockwood, corresponding secretary; and Kathy Krostreba, treasurer.

Young twosome steals scenes in 'Little Romance'

"Charming" has an old-fashioned ring to it and, in that sense, it seems an apt adjective to apply to "A Little Romance" (PG). Two very engaging youngsters vie with Sir Laurence Olivier for audience attention and often win.

That gives you some idea of the attractive characters created by Diane Lane (Lauren) and Thelonious Bernard (Daniel) in this story of adolescent love directed by George Roy Hill.

What makes Lauren and Daniel so outstanding as film characters is that they are depicted as intelligent 13-year-olds, neither absurdly sweet nor nastily wise-cracking.

Significantly, they are shown to appreciate their own and each other's intelligence. Until she met Daniel, Lauren — who's been reading the German philosopher Martin Heidegger — has been hiding the book as if it were some porno work she's forbidden to read.

She is an American living in France with her flighty, thrice-wed mother (Sally Kellerman) and her current stepfather (Arthur Hill), a corporation president who is prone to look the other way at his wife's indiscretions.

LAUREN'S QUIET existence perks up when she meets a French boy, Daniel, the son of a taxi driver. Their common interests outweigh any class or national differences. He has an intelligence to match Lauren's and much more side-ranging interests. These include handicapping horses and watching American movies, as well as reading philosophy.

Director Hill injects an inside joke with a bit of tongue-in-cheek self-praise as we see Daniel enjoying "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" and "The Sting," two films directed by Hill.

Some splendid color photography enhances the romantic theme as the youngsters overcome obstacles to reach their goal, Venice. They've heard that if they kiss in a gondola at sunset under the Bridge of Sighs, they will love each other forever.

Olivier, aids and abets them as a gracious, rambling and rascally companion. The confrontation of the three principals during one of their despairing moments, when they are stuck in Verona on their way to Venice, gives some insight into each one and also gives a different slant to the romantic theme.

As they bicker, each admits or recognizes that he has lied to the others or fantasized or exaggerated. The scene is important because it tilts "A Little Romance" away from the Romeo-Juliet theme. It's not likely that tragedy will befall them with the death of a lover, but that time will change them, even as they rush toward the Bridge of Sighs and vow not to change.

From a U-M class

Some new ideas for play equipment

Recreational needs of adults, as well as those of kids, were addressed by a University of Michigan class focusing on the design of outdoor play and leisure equipment.

Each of 13 students in an industrial design class taught by Prof. Allen Samuels came up with a new idea for children's outdoor equipment, and a compatible concept for adults.

In designing the equipment, the U-M class took into consideration such factors as vandalism, cost, safety and utility for housing projects and park settings.

"There's a great need for new ideas in outdoor recreational equipment, but that need is most blatant in the case of adults," says Samuels, who directed previous student projects involving the design of worktables and toilet facilities for the handicapped, and medicine dispensers for the elderly.

For example, says Samuels, "have you ever seen a park for the elderly? Just like anyone else, they have needs for exercise, but in their case outdoor equipment designers must take into consideration problems of arthritis, glare of cement, and the difficulty of many elderly in perceiving curbs and directional signs."

Among projects for adults produced by the U-M art students were a bench making it easier for arthritis victims to rise to their feet; outdoor cooking units; seats which turn 360 degrees, allowing adults to watch their children at play; a picnic carrying case that folds into a table; and a storage system, with locks, which can fit onto the back of a bicycle.

For children, the designs included multi-directional swings, a "jungle jim" — slide combination, outdoor optics equipment for environmental exploration, a children's game maze, a play system incorporating a series of water hoses, and a recreational "mini"-system with rope ladder, swings and climbing platform.

As part of their research, the U-M students consulted Ann Arbor city officials and interviewed residents of Ann Arbor's Pinelake Village Cooperative, a housing development, regarding recreational needs.

Samuels says one of the student projects will be selected for production, and then donated to the city. Costs are being paid by the Zinc Institute of Detroit.

Showing winners

Kegham Tazian, whose ceramic sculpture, "Three Head Fragments," is pictured at right, has 10 pieces in the Winners show at the Garret Studios and Gallery of Farmington. The exhibit and sale, which continues through May 31, features 10 Michigan artists who have achieved international recognition. In addition to Tazian, they include: Mary Jane Bigler, Igor Beginin, Ray Fleming, John Glick, Johanna Haas, Linda Mendelson, Louis Redstone, William Tall and Derek Werhner. The gallery, 33310 Grand River in downtown Farmington, is one of the few flourishing co-ops. For information on hours, call 474-5896. (Staff photo by Harry Mauthe)

NEW RELEASES

ALIEN (R). Spacecraft lands on unknown planet and discovers alien.

Spacecraft in this combination sci-fi and horror film.

BATTLESTAR GALACTICA (PG). Essentially, a recut version of pilot film for TV series but with big sound added.

BOULEVARD NIGHTS (R). Authentic-looking drama about life in the barrio. Set in East Los Angeles.

DAWN OF THE DEAD (Unrated). George Romero's zombies are the ultimate consumers in this gory, satirical sequel to his cult classic "Night of the Living Dead."

THE DEER HUNTER (R). An emotionally gripping and violent film about three friends from a small steel-producing town and the affect the Vietnam war has on their lives.

THE DREAMER (PG). Bowling version of the "Rocky" story. About as exciting as watching bowling on TV.

THE FIFTH MUSKETEER (PG). Your average swashbuckling tale, with heroes, villains and court intrigue. Beau Bridges deftly handles dual role as nasty king and his noble twin.

HAIR (G). The counter culture musical of the '60s, directed by Milos Forman, comes to the screen with amazing vitality and musical energy — if a decade late.

HANOVER STREET (PG). Unbelievably ridiculous World War II love story is short on imagination and long on clichés.

THE LAST EMBRACE (R). Bizarre, tension-filled mystery is stylishly filmed, but burdened with hopelessly complicated plot.

Another Elvis imitator

Alan Meyer does his tribute to Elvis Presley at db's Club in the Hyatt Regency Dearborn, running Tuesday through June 2. The act covers the rock years, the movie era and the Las Vegas and gospel years. Shows are at 8 p.m. and 10:30 p.m. nightly. For reservations, call 593-1234, ext. 2311.

Dick Cavett Show runs twice on 56

Dick Cavett, host of the nighttime talk show on PBS, comes to afternoons during the summer as part of a new daytime lineup on Channel 56.

"The Dick Cavett Show" will still be seen at its regular 11 p.m. time slot but now will also be repeated the following weekday at 1:30 p.m. starting Monday, June 4.

Also beginning that day, at 9:30 a.m. will be the children's show "Vision On." This program was originally designed for the hearing impaired child and contains as much visual and as little verbal stimulation as possible.

Other programming for children will include a third edition of "Sesame Street" at noon and "Carrascollendas," a bi-lingual, Spanish-American series, at 1 p.m.

Starting Monday, June 18, at 7 a.m. for the adults in the audience, "Lowell Thomas Remembers" returns. Thomas, explorer, war correspondent and lecturer, remembers some of the most exciting people and events over the past 40 years. And starting at 2 p.m. that afternoon and running every Monday and Wednesday afterwards, is the returning series "The Forsythe Saga," full of the lives, loves and scandals of a wealthy and proper family.

Monday's Commentary

Daniel's Den

By Emory Daniels

Scribbler takes note of history

I hardly ever use a pencil any more. My friends and associates will say I don't use a pencil because of my ego. Pencils have erasers, and instruments with erasers are made for people who make mistakes.

Actually, I don't use pencils because my handwriting is so bad. A ballpoint pen makes a dark impression which is easier to decipher the next day. Pencils make a lighter impression and fade with time.

So a dark impression is better when I'm trying to figure out notes which are a day or two, or a week, old. So, I seldom pick up a pencil.

BUT I SHOULD, out of loyalty to the past, if nothing else.

If it weren't for the great demand for pencils, I might have had a pretty hungry belly as a young tyke. That's because my mother worked for Saginaw Graphite while Dad was in the Army during World War II.

We were living at my grandparents' home in Saginaw while Dad was down at Ft. Knox and, later, at Ft. Campbell, both in Kentucky. Factories were hiring women during the war years because most of the healthy men were in the military and increased industrial output was needed for the war effort.

People living in Saginaw claim that half of the graphite used in the world is produced in that plant. I don't know if that's true, but people who live in the Thumb believe it is. It also seems I've read something like that in Michigan

Week material in past years, but I won't swear by it.

WHAT BROUGHT ABOUT the memories of mom working at Saginaw Graphite was a piece of mail I received last week.

The release was entitled, "How pencils are made," and it began:

"The lead in a lead pencil is a little like the guinea pig, for the guinea pig isn't a pig at all and doesn't come from Guinea."

There's no lead in the 'lead pencil.' The writing ingredient is graphite, a material in the diamond family, but almost as soft as the diamond is hard."

I was just about to toss that bit of information into the wastebasket when I realized I might be wrong in assuming that everybody knows lead pencils contain graphite. Then I realized that not everybody is born in the Thumb, fortunately, and might not know about Saginaw graphite.

So I read on and found a possible challenge to Saginaw's claim to fame. The release noted that Joseph Dixon founded the "world's largest natural graphite house" in 1827 and that Dixon pencils, made on hand-cranked machines, were the first pencils mass produced in America.

So Saginaw might have to give up its claim to being a leading producer of graphite. That doesn't diminish the city's stature, though, because it still is a leading producer of processed granulated sugar — made from sugar beets, which take up acres and acres in the Thumb area.

But back to pencils. The pencil, I discover, is quite an energy-efficient instrument. One pencil will produce about 30,000 words before it is too short for the average longhand writer. That's enough of an output to write the great American novel with only half a dozen pencils.

Obviously, I'm not an expert on pencils since I don't use them. But the release does contain some interesting information about how pencils are made. I'll summarize in case you are interested. If you aren't, don't bother reading any further.

MAKING A PENCIL is similar to making a sandwich: two slices of wood for bread, graphite for filling, bonding adhesive for mayonnaise.

Up to eight parallel grooves are machined into long strips of cedar. A thin strip of graphite is placed in the grooves; then another wood slat is glued on top.

After drying under intense heat, the "sandwich" is sliced into individual pencils, smoothed and sanded, given up to eight coats of high-gloss lacquer and imprinted. Then the eraser is added.

I am looking for material on what an eraser is made of and what kind of tooling is necessary to cut the tips to the exact size needed to fit into the end of a pencil. If I find the information, I'll pass on that exciting news also.

Hors d'oeuvres by Lynn Orr

A rose by any other name...

Sticks and stones may break my bones, but names will never.

It never was true, but undoubtedly some mother trying to stiffen a quivering upper lip thought it might help.

It never did. Ask Darlene LaRock. If you're stuck with a name that brings out the juvenile in all ages, you might look forward to number names in the computer age.

Darlene never thought much about her last name until college. There the fraternity boys decided LaRock deserved a "Bubbles" in front of it — sort of MSU's answer to Sally Rand.

Darlene thought differently. Moving into the working world, she discovered that fraternity boys aren't restricted to a campus. A copy editor christened her "Fifi" immediately. At another newspaper, a dirty young man who went on to become an editor decided "Boom-Boom" was a fitting handle.

Maybe if her grandfather had stuck with LaRock, the boys wouldn't have been so overcome with the burlesque imagery.

Marriage presented a way out, and Darlene opted for Stinson, reasoning that it made a better byline and would avoid the hassles over two surnames in the same family.

UNFORTUNATELY, using your husband's name rather than your maiden name gets you into trouble with feminists.

I can't understand why using one man's name over another's has much to do with feminism, but it's very fashionable.

For those who can't make up their minds, the hyphen comes in handy, although it tends to complicate the issue.

Farah Fawcett-Majors discovered that. For a rather large sum of money, she agreed to drop the Majors to sell shampoo.

Lee Fidge, a Plymouth Township trustee, dropped her nickname without the enticement of a cosmetic company.

Her first name is Weyona (Why-o-na), an Indian name meaning first-born daughter. Maybe it was because her family wasn't Indian, but the doctor liked Pinky, and Pinky it was for years.

When she moved to Plymouth Township 16 years ago, she decided to use her middle name, Lee. So far, her constituency has managed to get it right.

BECAUSE I traded one three-letter last name for another, the marriage name-change didn't cause any problems. In fact, it was rather nice to get rid of Cox.

Say it out loud, and if a fraternity boy is in the room, you'll know why. Sorry, Dad.

A name like Orr has few problems. The "or what" joke gets tacky, and I'm not related to any hockey players.

Unfortunately, I'm not related to the Orrs writing for the Detroit Free Press either, but if I ever get a job there, I'm prepared to take on a pen name to squelch any rumors of nepotism.

I'll avoid any unfortunate initials, however.

My editor's wife, Beverly Daniels, had to put up with those changing from B.A.H. to B.A.D. — from bah (as in humbug) to bad news (as in bears).

From our readers

No 'paper shuffler'

Editor:

Your newspaper has published two consecutive inaccurate articles regarding the personnel director in Canton Township.

First, in the May 21 edition, you indicated that the merit commission, after having a full-time director rejected, came back to the board and convinced them that a full-time director was necessary. Evidently no one from your paper attended the meeting when a full-time director was appointed.

The Township Board held a special meeting on the sign ordinance. Added to that meeting's agenda, without any notice to any member of the merit commission, was the issue of a full-time personnel director.

Fortunately, the commission was holding its regular meeting at 7:30 that same night. Seeing us arrive for our meeting, Treasurer Jim Donahue asked us to meet with the board later in the evening. He indicated that a majority of the board had decided a full-time director was necessary. That position was approved by a 6-1 vote.

Your editorial of May 14 indicates that the merit commission believes that a personnel director is a "paper shuffler." I have never made such a statement nor to my knowledge has either of the other members of commission. Any job with that responsibility has a certain amount of "paper shuffling."

There are certain functions in a personnel department which require paperwork. The work must be done by someone. The township board has created a full-time position with no secretary, clerk or other support personnel or any suggestion on who is to perform this work. Unfortunately, the personnel director will probably be stuck doing some of it.

The merit commission at its Dec. 28, 1979 meeting adopted job qualifications for a personnel director. As examples of job responsibilities, it listed:

Attends all meetings of the merit commission and acts as secretary to the commission.

Acts as the liaison between the township, the employees and the commission.

Directs the activities of the township's personnel program and employee benefits.

Administers the township's classification plan with periodic review and recommendation for revision.

Supervise recruitment, selection and promotion of township employees.

Maintains a personnel record system.

Recommends to the commission amendments to rules, changes in pay rates and other revisions of personnel policies and practices.

Acts as EEO-affirmative action officer.

These examples, in my opinion, require much more of a personnel director than paper shuffling. These examples are also those set forth by the man chosen for the position of personnel director in his letter.

Also, if you will review that letter, you will discover that it is addressed to the township board members, not the merit commission.

Speaking to the board, it indicates that the board's attitude toward the personnel function does not lend itself toward a sophisticated personnel management system.

Whatever the areas of disagreement between the merit commission and the township board as to job responsibilities, they can be resolved. No one on either the board or the commission is so naive as to believe that a personnel director is merely a paper shuffler.

It is your inaccurate editorials which are doing a disservice to the position, the candidate for the position and the township.

LARRY BOWERMAN,
Chairman, merit commission

Farm plan opposed

Editor:

Robert Greenstein did start the farmland Preservation program. He left office in 1976.

The Harold Stein administration came in and spent more than $40,000 in study and presentation on farmland to educate Canton residents when the proposal was put on the ballot and defeated.

I disagree that a food shortage will be a serious problem. I cannot imagine big produce companies like Hunts, Del Monte and Birdseye would allow this to happen. In California, companies like Del Monte farm thousands of acres.

If you want to save farmland, ask companies like Hunt to purchase and farm our land and give them tax free land. Also, offer the same deal to a private farmer.

When I hear about development rights and all the legal schemes, I feel it becomes political and the lawyers get richer and farmers get poorer and taxpayers pay.

If the farmer wants to sell land to a developer, the land would have to be rezoned from agricultural to residential. We could have an ordinance that you must have five acres for a home site.

In Superior Township, you must have five acre sites. My personal feeling is that Canton Township should be able to enact such an ordinance, because the farmer or developer is changing something that has been zoned for agriculture for many, many years.

Development rights could be challenged in the courts as unconstitutional under the process guarantees of the Fourteenth Amendment.

A census report was conducted under the direction of the Michigan Secretary of State. The question asked was "Would you like to see Canton retain its agricultural areas?" The reply was Yes — 3403, No — 85.

This is the wording of the 1976 Canton Township ballot issue: Should Canton Township pursue concepts which would provide for land in the western portion of the township to remain a rural agricultural area resulting in an overall population of approximately 100,000 people, (yes — 3054)?

Or, should Canton Township pursue concepts which would allow the township to ultimately be fully built up and developed resulting in an overall population of approximately 200,000 people, (yes — 878)?

The purpose of showing the ballot issues again is to show the increase of no votes and how the ballot was read.

The 1979 Canton Township ballot issue asked for four mills to preserve farmland. The vote was yes, 4532, no, 5074 (542 difference). Mr. Greenstein apparently forgot.

In 1979, the Canton Chamber of Commerce conducted a survey of 282 people. When asked the question, do you favor or oppose permanently retaining the western portion of Canton farmland, the result was 207 in favor, 48 opposed and 27 didn't know.

The people of Canton voted no on farmland preservation because of a four mill request, according to Seidman and Seidman (this firm was hired to study the feasibility and cost). Four mills is needed.

My suggestion is to create a program where there will be so many one-half, one and five acre sites available. If the farmer is considering development, he should file for the area sites he desires. Since there is no water or sewer or roads, these sites would have their own facilities. Therefore the township has no obligations.

We collect approximately $75 to $100 taxes per acre. If there is development, we could collect $1,000 to $5,000 in taxes per site. I would like that type of proposal to be on the ballot. Do you desire one-half, one and five acre sites?

If Bob Greenstein doesn't get off this farm preservation program, we are going to have law suits, confusion and an unplanned west half. End results — disaster.

Objects to complex

Editor:

I am writing to comment on the "Second complex found to be low-income" article in the May 21 edition of the Canton Observer.

As a member of the Forest Trails subdivision, I am thoughtfully disgusted with the Canton Township government. The Southfield-based corporation in charge of the project supposedly "failed to mention the low-income nature of the development."

I suppose if a company asked for approval of a site for a new restaurant, and then when the restaurant opened it featured topless waitresses and X-rated movies, the township coordinators would claim, "well gee, they failed to mention that."

What in the world are these people being paid for? Do they just approve things without any investigative work?

After mistakenly buying a home in Westland that had originally been a 235 subsidized income subdivision, we moved to a beautiful new subdivision in Canton. We spent five years of living around families where children are allowed to run without supervision, tearing up other people's property, fighting, littering and telling any adult who dared to try to correct them where to go.

And now, to find we will be living with the same things again because of someone else's mistake is a crime.

Our streetside signs saying "Welcome to Canton Township — A Planned Community" is really a joke. Is it planned where all the children from this complex are going to fit in an already over-crowded (Gallimore) school? If this is an example of our "planned community," Canton residents, we are in big trouble.

Safety Town objection

Editor:

In response to your article about Safety Town (May 3), I wish to point out an error in the statement, "this is the first time in three years that the community has been asked for funding."

In truth, there are 81 individuals, 72 businesses and members of seven local community civic organizations who assisted in initiating, developing and maintaining the program. While some contributed time and talent, the many who contributed financially do not deserve to be ignored or forgotten so quickly.

The Plymouth-Canton Community School District has voluntarily assumed the total administration of the program and, to my knowledge, does not intend to accept any assistance from members of the community who have been an integral part of maintaining the program, especially financially.

Your article also mentions that the city of Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton Township are being asked to contribute funds to the program.

I wish to state, emphatically, that I oppose such a request for two reasons. First, since 1977, all three units of government, in combination with the Michigan State Police, have supplied police officers and firefighters at the expense of their respective departments.

This is a major contribution, for without it, there would not be the preschool pedestrian safety education this community has. In my opinion, the request for additional financial assistance from them demands an explanation from those who request it.

Second, I have spent more than two years involved in the functions of the Plymouth-Canton Community School District in a very small area. I personally am very disappointed concerning what I have been witness to regarding the attitude toward finances in that area. The taxpayers in this school district must be diligent with their personal finances and I feel that the schools should be just as diligent when using the money we give them.

If only they could do this with the same amount of fervor, that I have seen in my children's teachers and principals, with regard to their responsibility of educating our children, all of us would benefit, and requests for additional funding from local government would not be necessary.

From Whitbread to the weinstube: The European pubs

By IRIS SANDERSON JONES

Do you want to see Europe through its tourist sites or through its people?
If you like tourist sites, take a three-hour bus tour of London.
If you prefer people, go to a pub. Pubs are where the people are.
It may not be a pub, it may be a weinstube or a beerhall or a cafe, but it will be an eating-and-drinking place where ordinary people go in the ordinary course of their lives.

In London it was a pub near Victoria station where we crowded into a corner to eat flaky meat pie and drink warm English stout on a September afternoon. We had planned to take the bus tour — everyone does.

The pub had English businessmen crowded into each corner — men who came from the office for a quick lunch of shepherd's pie, meat pie, meat balls or sausages with side servings of good old British tomato sauce.

The tables in a British pub are tiny, but an unbelievable number of people crowd around them. There was a conservative-looking businessman sitting at the corner table when we asked if we could join him.

"The secretaries and the young kids who don't drink beer go to other places," he said. "The businessmen and the working people like to come to a pub for lunch, because the service is fast, you can talk if you want to or not, you can have a pint and move on."

When he moved on, five British railway officials moved in, all of them wearing dark suits, white shirts and ties, all of them eager to involve us in their conversation.

They had come for a fast lunch, but they stayed for two hours while we swapped stories about North American and English peoples and places. We wrote down the names of their relatives in our home state, and they gave me names in Stratford-on-Avon and Paris.

"Be sure to look them up," they said, and we did.

It may be that you really don't have time to spend an afternoon in a pub, but you must eat and sleep sometime, so choose your eating and sleeping places well.

The British government puts out a small booklet about the Historic Inns of Britain. These are often the kinds of warm, friendly places where Englishmen gather for the evening.

A typical example is the Booth Hall Hotel in Hereford. The Booth Hall Hotel is a tiny historic inn preserved in the heart of the town.

The rooms are simple and clean, with double or twin beds and a bathroom down the hall, but in the corner near the courtyard is a tiny bar.

The people we met there were a motley crew of friendly — if slightly inebriated — Englishmen, a couple of Welshmen and an Irishman who was ready to fight the Irish revolution on the spot.

The English pubs are supposed to close at 11 p.m., so we were surprised that the dozen people around the bar were still buying us drinks at 2 in the morning, in spite of the friendly admonitions of a grey-haired woman behind the bar who owned the pub and had a 6 a.m. date with a new chef.

"Why don't they close the pub if that's the law?" we asked.

"Ah, but you're guests here in this here hotel, mate, and the bar has to stay open for guests as long as they want to drink. This is your home tonight."

"Nobody can kick you out of your home, can they? We're not supposed to be here, of course, but if the police come in, just tell them we're all your guests, alright? Have another drink."

The language in Hereford is not a problem, even with a few Welsh and Irish words thrown in, but it could be a problem on the continent, as it was the night we found the weinstube in Mittenwald.

MITTENWALD IS A picturesque postcard town high in the German Alps near the Austrian border. We had chosen to stay that night in a landhouse, a private home that rents rooms. We had walked into town for dinner.

Or the inquisitive tourist, while visiting the Continent, might seek refuge and camaraderie in Munich's Hofbrauhaus, one of the world's largest taverns. It can accommodate 7,000 customers at one time. "Ein bier, bitte."

When we walked into the weinstube, we walked from one end to the other, looking for an empty table. It is a typically North American approach to a public place. We were about to leave when a voice from the side of the room shouted, "Setzen Sie Hier." You don't need to speak German to understand that.

Adi was a tall, smiling rogue with a shock of dark hair, a turtle neck sweater and two missing front teeth. His face was as red as the wine that sat on the table in front of him.

As he waved us to the booth, he introduced us to another man and two women, all of whom smiled at us in welcome. They spoke no English and we spoke a little German, but it was a night that stands out above all the tourist sites we saw in Germany.

As the small oompa band played, we hooked arms and swayed back and forth in the German fashion. They sang the words and we hummed the music.

We talked with our hands and our feet, and when the conversation lagged, we drank toasts to one another in good German beer and wine. Adi yodeled, and we could hear him singing the words "America" and "Detroit," so we knew that he sang about us.

We exchanged addresses, as tourists always do, and when we got home we sent postcards to all our new buddies in London and Hereford and Mittenwald.

Do we regret that we did not take the bus tour of London, stay in the fanciest hotel in Hereford, or choose the recommended tourist attraction in Mittenwald?

The answer is in our scrap book: a well-thumbed postcard from Adi which came in the mail a long time after our return. "Many greetings from us all. We have been together," he wrote, in the "wine room again, and we think of you. We having much snow and sun. Adi."

It's nice to see Europe through its tourist sites and its people, but if you don't have time for both, you'll meet a little bit of Germany in a weinstube, or a little bit of England in a pub.

The Old Thatch Tavern in Stratford-on-Avon, England, is one of the places American tourists might visit if they decide to forego the standard bus tour and set out to meet the natives. "A pint o' bitter, mate."

TRAVEL LOG of Iris Jones

The 'park barrel bill' and Alaska's future

We've heard a lot about the Alaskan wilderness this year, but little about a bill that will change the national viewpoint on camping and wilderness travel for 50 years to come.

During the final weeks of the 95th Congress last fall, the National Parks and Recreation Act of 1978 was passed without any bugles blowing. It authorized $1.2 billion for 100 new park and preservation areas in 44 states.

It began to be called the "park barrel ple comes in. Nobody is really against national parks or a clean environment unless it threatens something dear to them, so Burton made sure that every possible state was represented.

There were so many states covered that Republican Senator Robert Dole of Kansas brought the house down with his jokes during the debate. "Is there any state other than Kansas that didn't end up with a park?" he asked.

"Did we leave you out, Bob?" asked Sen. James B. Abourezk, D-S.D., chairman of the Energy Subcommittee on Parks.

"I have two more years in my term," Dole said.

The bill, which insiders call the omnibus bill, won lots of political battles for nature lovers.

It added to the Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area and stopped construction on the controversial Tocks Island Dam. Urban parks got a fistful of money. And the wilderness areas of the national park system nearly tripled.

ADD ALL this to 11 new parks, seashores, historic sites and recreation areas, then add five national trails and eight new portions of wild and scenic rivers, and you begin to see what the park lovers are crowing about.

As if that wasn't enough, President Carter used other purely political means to put icing on the cake. He pulled out a 1906 law that authorizes a president to proclaim land for public monuments and promptly claimed 50 million acres of Alaskan wilderness as a national monument.

If you are a camper, hiker, canoeer or just a nature lover, you'll get lots of mileage out of this bill. And if you like to see how politics can get the job done without much fanfare, you will find the politics of it just as interesting.

One of the primary places that various government departments are looking at for possible park sites is the shoreline of the Great Lakes.

bill" because there was something in it for everybody, in the spirit of the pork barrel bills of the past.

It is fascinating to see how politics achieved what conservationists could not achieve alone. Representative Phillip Burton, D-Calif., was interested in adding extensive tracts of land to Sequoia National Park, but he didn't know how he could do it. . . . Somewhere along the way he decided to attach it to another bill that was popular in the House. Nobody objected, so he decided to go whole hog and ask for the moon. He probably didn't expect to get it.

SOMEWHERE ALONG the way he decided to attach it to another bill that was popular in the House. Nobody objected, so he decided to go whole hog and ask for the moon. He probably didn't expect to get it.

This is where the pork barrel principle

THE CHICAGO FOUR Downtown Holiday Inn hotels are taking care to cater to the summer traveler. Personnel at each of the Chicago Four hotels are prepared to aid guests with brochures, maps and information about where to go and what to do each day. The hotels can arrange a Gray Lines Tour of the city, and there are ample buses and taxis available. A Holiday Inn courtesy bus will transport hotel guests throughout the Loop. The Fantasy Weekend package is available to families for $79.95 for the first night and includes several amenities. The second night costs an additional $20. Subsequent nights are available at reduced rates according to the hotel policy and booking schedule. Reservations must be made at least 24 hours in advance — subject to package availability, and credit must be established at check-in. For further information and reservations, the number in Chicago is 312-440-4100.

MORE THAN 1.3 million visitors are expected this year at Sea World of Ohio. The 75-acre marine life park opened its 10th anniversary season Saturday. The season runs daily through September 9. Facilities are open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily. Sea World is on Route 43 in Aurora, Ohio, 20 miles southeast of Cleveland, near Ohio Turnpike Exit 13.

THE MIAMI BEACH Architectural District in Miami Beach is listed in the National Register of Historic Places. More than 800 architecturally significant buildings have been identified in the district, most of which were built from 1920-1945, when Miami Beach was undergoing rapid development. The National Register of Historic Places presently includes over 19,000 buildings, sites, districts, structures or objects that are considered worthy of preservation. The Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service (phone: 202-343-5726) has more information.

THE DASTARDLY DEED

or the Chauffeur's Vindication

wherein the Chauffeur discovers which newspaper provides the best vehicle for selling the dim, dark, dismal, and decrepit mansion.

Lady Lavinia Loveless: "EEEEEEEEEEEEK! Save Us!"

Livermore, the Butler: "Dolt! How dare you take Lady Loveless' Classified Ad to one of the daily newspapers! How could you expect her to be able to sell this dim, dismal, dark, and decrepit mansion without advertising in the Observer and Eccentric classified home section?"

Lady Lavinia Loveless: "EEEEEEEEEEEEK! Pray do not strike him.
He is the only one who knows how to drive the automobile!"

Penelope Pattingale, her niece, a sweet Young Thing: "Please, Livermore, perhaps he didn't know that the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers have a solid, thorough, penetration that is both amazing and marvelous."

Livermore, the Butler: "But, Miss Penelope, surely everyone knows what an astounding, multitudinous variety of people this fine, hometown, family newspaper reaches."

Farthingale, the Chauffeur: "Please Sir! I will hasten to the Observer & Eccentric office and ask the Classified Hot Line to place the ad in the next edition. I must vindicate myself for that dastardly deed."

Lady Lavinia Loveless: "Lose no time! Dash off posthaste, with all due speed and dispatch! This ad must run immediately or we are doomed."

Penelope Pattingale, a sweet young thing: "Oh yes, Farthingale, do! Please, Livermore, fling away that cruel weapon."

Livermore, the Butler: "I will! But if you fail in your mission you will receive the drubbing of your life"

Will Farthingale arrive in time to place Lady Loveless' ad in the next edition?
Check your Observer & Eccentric want ads under 'Mansions.'

Mazda has anniversary edition RX-7 sports car

The rotary-powered Mazda RX-7 sports car, one year old this month, is now available in a limited-production anniversary model called the Limited Edition.

Only 3,000 have been built. They go on sale this month at 725 Mazda dealers throughout the country.

The suggested retail price of $9,945 includes "beat-black" metallic paint — the only black finish offered on a Mazda in the U.S. Also standard are 5-speed manual transmission, air conditioning, sun roof, AM M stereo radio with cassette tape player and four speakers, special aluminum wheels, 185/70-13 steel-belted radial-ply tires with raised white lettering, red and white pin stripes, and several interior comfort and decor features.

Like its stablemates, the S and GS models, the Limited Edition is powered by a two-rotor rotary engine that develops 100 horsepower. EPA fuel economy estimates are 28 miles per gallon on the highway and 17 mpg in the city, for a combined rating of 21.

"We designed the RX-7 to be a high-performance, economical, affordable sports car," said Tsutomu Murai, executive vice president of Toyo Kogyo Co., Ltd., the Japanese manufacturer of Mazda. "Even the extra-cost Limited Edition, with all its many performance and luxury items, is still priced below the standard models of many other sports cars. For the automotive connoisseur, the RX-7 Limited Edition is, we think, the best value on the market."

A local Mazda dealership has changed hands. Packer Mazda has been purchased by Porterfield Wilson, and the dealership name has been changed to Porterfield Wilson Mazda. The dealership is located at 18500 Livernois.

Under the new owner, the dealership will continue to offer full service for Mazdas.

This Corvette is fuel-injected

Chevrolet's latest concept car is a Corvette with a 5.7 liter engine, fuel injection and a turbocharger. The turbocharger boosts horsepower from the standard 195 brake horsepower to an estimated 260. The inset shows the turbocharger unit, which is on the passenger side of the car. Air comes in through the air cleaner at lower right, travels through the unit and up through the chrome pipe to the manifold and intake ports for each cylinder, where the air is mixed with fuel and injected into the cylinders.
