Kindness center purrs over new cat legislation

By ARLENE VANDERLEUN

The manager of a Humane Society pet shelter serving western Wayne County thinks a pending state bill is simply the cat's meow.

That bill, which would allow counties to license cats much as they now do dogs, is on the floor of the Michigan House of Representatives. The bill last week was reported out of the House Towns and Counties Committee, which is chaired by State Rep. Thomas Brown, D-Westland.

"I think (the bill) would promote more responsibility among pet owners," says Kathy Krause, manager of the Kindness Center on Marquette in Westland, which is operated by the Michigan Humane Society. The center serves several communities, including Westland, Garden City, Redford Township, Plymouth and Canton Township.

But if Ms. Krause supports the bill, some legislators are less than excited about its importance. In fact, some observers say the bill was greeted on the House floor by - you'll pardon the expression - catcalls and yowls of amusement.

"I don't think anybody is in a hurry," says Brown. "There have been bills out (before). They never have passed."

The latest proposed cat licensing bill was introduced by State Rep. Roy Smith of Saline, whose district includes

It's a dog's life for stray cats. A pending state bill could make life more pleasant for cats.

Plymouth and portions of Washtenaw According to Brown, counties have limited legislative powers. The proposed law would allow counties to pass a law to license cats "if they choose."

Is such a law really necessary? "Why should cats be licensed?" says Ms. Krause. "People allow cats to roam. They use neighbors' flower beds and sandboxes as litter boxes.' Angry neighbors retaliate by getting into squabbles with pet owners or even by poisoning the animals.

Perhaps more serious are strays. Ms. Krause recalls that recently someone brought in four live kittens which had been placed, inside a garbage bag and tossed along the side of the street.

The shelter will accept strays from any western Wayne County community. For example, 122 cats were brought to the Kindness Center in April.

Of that number, only six were claimed by their owners. The rest were adopted or destroyed.

"As it gets farther into spring and summer there will be more," due to litters being born, added Ms. Krause.

Some communities, such as Westland, have an ordinance mandating licenses, leashes and shots for cats. Other cities or townships haven't any regulations.

Westland's ordinance is enforced as much as a three-person animal control staff permits.

"I haven't seen too many people come in here for a license," says 'Ms.

On the other hand, any Westlander who adopts a cat from the Kindness Center first must buy a tag for his pet. In addition, the cat must be given a shot by a staff veterinarian.

decline in use by Canton residents. That means Plymouth and Plymouth Township will go it alone to pay for Dunning-Hough, a $127,000 price tag next year. Canton paid $56,000 last year for its 40 percent share of the use of the library.

Plymouth Township residents accounted for another 40 percent of the patrons, while the remaining 20 percent of the area's readers came from the city of Plymouth.

Canton officials expect their use of the Plymouth library to be cut by about one-third next year, with an estimated three-year time frame for a complete change in Canton library habits.

Decreased Canton usage should mean more books and services for the other residents, but it also means a higher per capita cost.

THE ALTERNATIVE would be a cut in services, a fate that new head librarian Pat Thomas will try to avoid.

"Usage is so high for space and books now, we feel we're not giving very good service to anyone," she says. Two libraries will mean better service and more books for everyone, while Dunning-Hough will be able to provide better service to its users, she says.

Although current policy limits users to two books on one subject, the most frequent library complaint remains the scarcity of books.

"Quite often people go away dissatisfied," she says.

Canton's new library will provide an alternative, and Dunning-Hough staffers will pass out brochures to Canton residents, encouraging them to switch to their hometown shelves.

'We don't expect that will work totally," Ms. Thomas adds. In the event her fears are borne out, Canton residents may be limited to a certain number of books from the Plymouth library. Based on its past contributions, Canton conceivably could ask for about one-third of the Dunning-Hough book stock, she says. But thus far, Canton seems willing to accept the library's commitment to encourage a switch.

Canton was expected to appoint a library board Tuesday night to begin work to stock and staff the new library that will be housed on the third floor of Township Hall. Next year's mill should bring in about $250,000 for that purpose, while officials also expect to cut the millage support in future years after opening costs are paid.

Rooming house tenants call their harbor home

By LYNN ORR

Vickie Davis was scared her first night in the Manor.

"I remember asking the manager if it was going to be safe for me to go down the hall to the bathroom."

The swastikas, graffiti, and holes in the wall didn't inspire confidence. Neither did the fellow who used a bucket for a toilet in his room.

Nor the man with needle marks on his arm. Five guys came looking for him one night, ostensibly to "cut off his ears," according to resident Tom Mun-

That was shortly after Mungar took over managing the rooming house at 369 W. Ann Arbor Trail, west of Mill.

He chased the guys out of there, after which the rooming house residents voted out the suspected heroin addict.

That incident is a symbol of the change in attitude and atmosphere at the Manor. Two bags of plaster, 12 gallons of paint, and lots of sandpaper and elbow grease are the visible evidence of a new mood.

An asphalt drive and parking lot, tile and new showers for the three delapidated bathrooms, a grassed picnic area in the yard, and carpeting to replace the thread-bare green rug are testimony to the Manor's good intentions.

No pets. No loud music. Clean rooms. The enclosed front porch serves as a garage for the motorcycles now allowed.

No longer can a roamer crawl in the basement window for some shelter under the stairs. The lawn is cut, the trash is in a dumpster, but there's not a fire extinguisher in sight.

No. 16's scratchings on the door - "I want a new door" - is one of the challenges ahead.

The tenants' hopes for a renaissance rest on the shoulders of owner Richard Kirchoff, whose funds bolster the tenants' hard work. He's happy with Mungar's progress and ready to move

"I plugged the costs in over a threeyear time period, but I'm a little behind in my timetable," explains Kirchoff, who bought the Manor 21/2 years ago.

Potential and a challenge are what he saw in the place. Assessed at $28,335, about half its property value, Kirchoff paid $1,874 in property taxes on the rooming house last year. With 21 rooms, renting for between $30-40 a week, the profits are obvious. There's a that, he says.

"If you keep your losses down, you can have a greater return."

THAT KIND of philosophy also governs Eugene LaBlanc's renovation of the old Nelson Hotel, now the Old Village Inn at 886 N. Mill, just south of the C&O railroad tracks.

The old hotel is a commercial-type building, with an assessed value of last year. New insulation, electrical rewiring,

Despite the loud whistle of trains charging past, the hotel's atmosphere is cooler than the Manor's. Most tenants are middle-aged, and music isn't allowed. LaBlanc sternly enforces his rules, and he wants permanent tenants. although rooms are let on a weekly or monthly basis.

'People didn't care. Their idea of cleaning their rooms was throwing things out in the hall," is how Dave Hernandez, 33, remembers his first few months in the Manor last year.

"We're like a big, huge family now," he says with pride. Divorced and the father of four, he's trying to sort out his life. The Manor offers a refuge.

For Ms. Davis, 24, the Manor is a temporary harbour as she works parttime waiting tables until she lands a full-time job. She's a certified welder.

As she softly touches Mungar's hair, it's obvious that the Manor is special for other reasons.

Crash rash mars holiday

Five traffic accidents last Thursday preceded a long, wet busy weekend for Plymouth police as more than 30 complaints were lodged over the three-day holiday.

Those ranged from a missing person, a missing ship's wheel from the Mayflower Hotel, and a stolen boat trailer. But May 24 became the city's highest accident day to date this year, as five accidents sent three drivers to St. Mary Hospital.

It started at 2:40 a.m., when Tommy Farion Gwaltney, 22, of Plymouth Road, rear-ended a semi truck driven by Gene L. Seiber, 39 of Dayton, Ohio . Gwaltney was driving northbound on Sheldon Road. just north of Goldsmith, when he hit the truck. He was treated and released from St. Mary Hospital. No violation was issued.

Later that afternoon, a parking lot accident on the Main Street Weidman lot was recorded. At 7:20 p.m., a minor accident at the Starkweather and Farmer intersection kept police busy writing

AT 8:30 p.m., Beverly Sue Fried, 27, of Ann Arbor, was taken to St. Mary Hospital by the Plymouth Fire Department after she struck a parked car on Ann Arbor Trail at Joel.

Ms. Fried was issued two violations for careless driving and lack of a registration for the accident. Owner of the other car was Henry Denski, 49, of N. Territorial, Plymouth. Ms. Fried also was released from St. Mary.

Terry Lee Trent, 23, of 2 S. Mill, was St. Mary's next accident victim from Plymouth, after he drove his car into the wall of Laurel Furniture located on Ann Arbor Trail at Elizabeth.

Trent was eastbound on Ann Arbor Trail when he drove left of center and left the roadway, striking the side of the building. A 5X10 foot hole in the wall was caused by the accident. Trent also was released from the hospital following treatment for minor injuries.

Friday tripped off a series of more unusual reports for the normally quiet police department, including the report of a stolen boat trailer Saturday, and a missing person report.

Police also logged their very own obscene phone call to the police station, Sunday.

Phyllis Joy Cunningham, a study hall director at Plymouth Canton High School, Sunday reported that persons unknown poured a substance believed to be gasoline on her car. Ms. Cunningham reported that she did not know who was involved in the incident, resulting in the malicious destruction of property complaint.

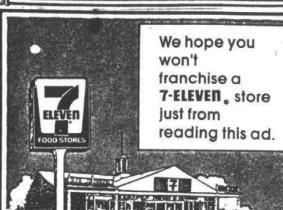

Monday, an unknown vandal attempted to steal the Mayflower Hotel's ship's steering wheel, causing damage to the post after he fled the scene upon discovery by a hotel employee.

It wasn't a good week for Robert James McClow, 49, of Pontiac. McClow was charged with assault and battery on a police officer Thursday, after he attacked Plymouth Ptl. Robert L. Henry at the scene of an accident earlier in the week, police

What is a 7-ELEVEN store? Will it offer you and your family a fair chance at making a good living? What is the company like that's behind the deal?

7-Eleven stores started popping up around Dallas, Texas in 1927. Today there are over five thousand of them doing business from coast to coast. Each one is a smaller-than-supermarket sized convenience food store. The product mix and merchandising plan appeal to customers of all ages and all income levels. The 7-Eleven store was the beginning of the convenience food store industry because of the 7 a.m. until 11 p.m. 7 day a week shopping concept. Nowadays, that convenience concept has been taken a step further since the majority of 7-Eleven stores across the country are open 24 hours a day 7 days a week.

If you should elect to invest your time and money in one of these stores, almost a half century of 7-Eleven store experience will select a site for your store, will design, build and equip it. Your bookkeeping will be done for you. You'll benefit from several national advertising programs.

A specialized training program will teach you how to merchandise and operate the store and how to handle the public. That half century of experience is called The Southland Corporation, and those people are just as interested in your success as you are.

ESY, portable classrooms seen as enrollment aids

Most candidates for Plymouth-Canton Board of Education favor either greater use of Extended School Year (ESY) or extensive use of portable classrooms as the best ways of absorbing future student growth.

And rising enrollment is probably the major problem facing Plymouth-Canton Community Schools as administra tors and school trustees seek the right combina tion of options to absorb student growth at minimum cost, minimum disruption to students and parents, and with minimum damage to quality of the educational program.

A citizens' advisory committee has recommended greater use of ESY scheduling and extensive use of portable classrooms.

Other options include new construction, Extended School Day, (a split-day plan), and renting school buildings from nearby school districts experiencing declining enrollments.

Year-round school allows an individual school building to hold one-third more students, but it results in an increase in the operational budget which shifts the burden to current taxpavers.

The use of portable units results in the financial burden being shared by taxpavers over the life of a bond issue, probably 30 years. The portables are cheaper than new construction and can be sold when enrollment begins to decline.

Portable classrooms also can be transferred from one school site to another as attendance patterns shift within the school district. A disadvantage of portables, though, is it will be difficult to offer the same educational opportunities to students assigned to portables as to those assigned inside a regular building.

Any kind of a split day approach, including Extended School Day, results in a lot of disruption for students and families and also could lessen educational performance.

Renting buildings in nearby school districts is cheaper than new construction, but results in increased transportation costs in the operational budget which otherwise could be spent in instruction.

The big problem with renting other schools, though, is the concern of administrators that busing students across district lines might have legal implications with the lawsuit seeking desegregation of Detroit Public In the past the school district has absorbed new students by adjusting school attendance boundaries, but this option also causes a lot of disruption for students and families and sometimes increases transportation costs.

BECAUSE THERE are pros and cons to each of the options for accommodating student growth, the Observer used this issue to seek the views of each candidate for the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

Some 13 candidates are seeking election to two four-year terms on the school board in the June 11 electon election. Each candidate was asked the following question:

What is the best, single plan to handle increased enrollment with the least amount of disruption to students and parents? Answers were limited to 75 words.

Responses were received from Jeanette Wines, Gary Roberts, Allen N. Smith, Tom Yack, Douglass Koeh, Sylvia Stetz, Jim Sinclair, Stephen Foley, Ken Vogras, Kevin Campbell, and Dean Swartzwelter.

The answers from the candidates fol-

KENNETH F. VOGRAS

"I feel there is no best single plan; however, one suggestive plan would be to promote the proposed Extended School Year (ESY). This would enable the school district to eliminate the bonding needs for new schools. All indications show a declining enrollment exists, with this in mind one must realize should additional schools be built we could wind up with some vacant buildings. Let's build dual purpose schools, take the burden off taxpayers if not needed."

"Increased enrollment must be met with guidelines that allow for flexibility: Disruption of students and parents should be kept to a minimum. To avoid repeated transfers and shifts of students from one school to another, adequate space will have to be provided. Growth projections through 1984 show estimated enrollment of almost 20,000 students. Although there may not exist a best single plan, increased housing for students is the primary goal."

use of the information available to them and develop plans to have elementary schools permanently feed designated middle schools, which in turn feed into designated high schools. It will be necessary to construct some schools south of Ford Road. The district also should work more closely with Plymouth and Canton township officials to control growth."

JAMES SINCLAIR

"Put balance of elementary and middle schools on ESY. The high schools also - if necessary. This would increase each school's capacity by 30 percent. Every three schools converted would save us building one additional structure. If additional building is necessary, I would want the portable structure rather than permanent buildings. If a middle school be needed it should be built in south of Canton trying to put the school closer to the childrens' homes."

DEAN SWARTZWELTER

"The least amount of disruption (holding permanent boundaries and consistent class schedules) requires new buildings to accommodate increased enrollments. The question then becomes - will the taxpayers accept the added financial burden? Recent taxpayer attitudes indicate they will not. Funding annual building maintenance requirements to cover existing buildings has been difficult. To have a viable plan that taxpayers may accept requires developing a combination of ESY and portables to accommodate growth. This is a realistic plan."

KEVIN F. CAMPBELL

"Expanded ESY with continuity of tracks within neighborhoods at all levels within the system. The use of portables (where feasible) and new construction. However, all options must be kept open account financial limitations as determined by the taxpavers of the district."

ALLEN N. SMITH

"The school district should build physical plants in each neighborhood to contain the requirements of a mature neighborhood.'

TOM YACK

SYLVIA STÉTZ

"There is no single plan or solution to any problem. I feel that the community is concerned about over-building. ESY, with favorable community support, is a method by which we can expand. Onethird more students can be housed in the same attendance area; thus, reducing the number of children moved and keeping boundaries more stable. Some of the disadvantages are staff constantly moving and children on different schedules.

TOM YACK

"Precluding community attitudes and feelings, building schools as needed continues to be the best single plan to produce the least amount of disruption. All other approaches include considerable student, family or instructional program disruption. A rapidly growing and changing community is not served by continual disruption. Our children pass this way just once, and are deserving of a stable school experience."

GARY ROBERTS

"I support portable classrooms. I feel to determine increas ing enrollment, the school board should get quarterly reports from local government on how many homes are going to be sold with children, their ages and when the home will be occupied. Results should be good planning and budgeting. 'Growth' - we must stop talking about it and create growth management."

Most of the above candidates will be appearing tonight at a meet the candidates forum sponsored by the League of Women Voters 7 p.m. in West Middle School, 44401 W. Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth.

Two vie for seat on S'craft board

Two men with industrial management backgrounds are seeking the 'short" term on the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees in the June 11 election. The winner will fill out the remaining two years of the term of Ron Cowden, who resigned in mid-1978 to take a job in Manistee.

The candidates are Richard J. Hayward, who was appointed to the vacancy, and Thomas S. Moore, who had sought the appointment.

The differences between them are slight, except for experience, and the campaign is low-key CHALLENGER Moore, 42035 Sutters Lane, Northville, is the first person from that district to seek a Schoolcraft post in several elections.

Moore is an engineering supervisor in the light truck engineering office of Ford Motor Co. in Dearborn where he has worked 11 years.

Costa Rica native follows her husband home

The former Elba Vargas of Costa Rica will discover that marriage to Richard Fillmore means cold winters in Plymouth. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Can a young woman who has spent most of her life in the warm climes of Costa Rica find happiness and contentment in the colder weather of Plymouth and the heavy snows of Michigan

That's the problem now facing the former Elba Vargas, who is now the wife of Richard Fillmore of Union Street, and thus far the answer seems to be in the affirmative.

Though she has been in Plymouth only several weeks, she already has taken a liking to the city for its tranquility and the many things she has noted thus far in her new surroundings.

Her husband, Richard, is a graduate of Plymouth High School (class of 1968) and the son of Nellie Fillmore, longtime employee of the Observer & Eccentric newspapers. How the young couple came to meet

As a volunteer, he spent 21/2 years in the corps, and it was at a teachers convention that he met the girl who was to become his wife.

Now out of the Peace Corps and hopeful of obtaining a position as a school teacher, he is spending his time as a part-time worker with a landscape gardner. He spent the rest of his days and evenings teaching his wife the English language, which she finds a bit difficult.

Through her husband, who acted as the interpeter, she explained that the language is peculiar because words aren't spelled the way they sound. There are too many vowels and consonents joining each other.

Department heads don't deserve harassment

No one could have blamed Canton planner Jim Kosteva if he had stormed from last week's township board meeting and quit his $18,000-a-year job on the spot.

No one could blame other township department heads for shivering in their boots over their own job

Kosteva, who has completed one year of a threeyear contract with Canton Township, is the latest victim of the type of political harassment which elected officials can direct toward appointed employees.

At last week's township board meeting, Kosteva was unnecessarily attacked in a surprise discussion of his job responsibilities.

The proposal to strip most planning duties from Kosteva and relegate him to the industrial area was supported by several township board members.

But Trustee Robert Greenstein, who has shown a strong dislike for Kosteva since the day Greenstein was elected, was clearly the strongest advocate of a thinly-veiled attempt to get rid of the township

Greenstein admits that preparing for the eventual hiring of an industrial coordinator is a job that would probably take Kosteva only eight months. After that period, Kosteva's employment with the township could become an uncertainty despite his three-year contract.

ALTHOUGH NO ONE really knows the type of job Kosteva does except those inside township hall, two planning commission members and Trustee Lynne Goldsmith have stated that the planner performs his job duties efficiently.

Kosteva has always shown knowledge of the many site plans and zoning matters that come before the township and a cooperative effort to deal with the Canton board, developers and the press.

Greenstein's argument for transferring most of the planner's duties to the consultant firm of Wade, Trim & Associates places Kosteva in a Catch-22 situation with no way out.

Greenstein and Trustee Carol Bodenmiller are right when they say that Kosteva is burdened with an excessive workload.

With only a college and high school intern for help, Kosteva is responsible for reviewing all site plan and rezoning requests and some work on the farmland preservation program. He must attend all township board, planning commission and zoning board of appeals meetings after putting in a full day at township hall.

Until last week's township board meeting, Kosteva was also responsible for overseeing revisionary work on Canton's master land use plan and proposed zoning ordinance. The township board snatched those duties from Kosteva and gave them to Wade, Trim.

BUT THE ANSWER to reducing Kosteva's workload and making the planning department function more efficiently does not lie in breaking Kosteva's three-year contract with the township by slashing his job responsibilities.

The township board should do what Kosteva informally requested some weeks ago and hire additional full-time personnel for the planning depart-

Although there is nothing wrong with using Wade, Trim for supplemental help on the master plan and other major projects, Canton needs a full-time, inhouse planner to help developers who walk into township hall with zoning or site plan questions.

Trustee Goldsmith has charged that Greenstein dislikes Kosteva because the planner refuses to serve as a "yes man."

There is probably some truth to the charge. Greenstein admits that he views the planning department as his "baby." As head of the department, Kosteva has not used the rough, abrasive style with developers that Greenstein uses to win what he views as the best developments possible.

By using Kosteva as a political football, the township board is jeopardizing the efficiency of all departments at Canton hall.

Many businesspersons claim that Canton has developed a reputation which discourages businesses and industry from locating in the township.

A repeat of last week's handling of Kosteva could create another reputation for Canton among municipal workers. Few people want to apply for jobs with a propensity for unnecessary harassment.

Last month, Police Chief Walter MacGregor resigned after stewing in a political pressure cooker for months.

Let's hope Kostev and other department heads can tolerate the heat. No township board — no matter how zealous - can govern 40,000 people with weak-kneed employees.

The Stroller

The Bird's egg relieves us

"The Bird Laid An Egg."

This colorful headline was used to describe Mark Fidrych's latest disaster along the comeback trail in the Morning Friendly several days ago and had a telling effect on the conversations around the luncheon tables.

No longer were the purveyors of doom and gloom discussing the possibility of a gasoline shortage and the effect it would have on the country. Instead, they were asking whether the Tigers' young pitcher had reached the end of the trail - or if he could come back like some of the other pitchers in the major leagues.

It proved once more the hold that sport has on the American public, even among the members of the Ladies Aid Societies and in the nursing homes in the area.

BEFORE THE BIRD took over the headlines, the luncheon discussions were centered on young Earvin Johnson, the basketball star, at Michigan State

Although only a sophomore, he caused the TV networks to alter their schedules as he called a press conference to reveal his plans.

Can you imagine a youngster in college attracting more than 100 disciples of the media to a press conference to tell them he was leaving school to join the pro basketball ranks? Well, he did it and it was further proof of the huge role sports plays in our lives.

. Just check back a month or two and you'll recall that the folks hereabouts — young and old — were concerned about Rusty Staub, the Tigers' designated hitter. They wondered for days whether he actually would quit unless his contract was improved.

It is a very unusual thing, but it seems that every time the days turn dark economically in the Detroit area the sports teams come through to take our thoughts away from trouble.

THE STROLLER well recalls the dark days of the late 1920s and early '30s, when people were paid in scrip with the hope that some day it would be cashed in . . . when high executives of some companies stood on the street corners and sold apples when the banks closed and the world seemed

Then, with the fiery Mickey Cochrane as their leader, the Tigers won their first pennant in 25 years and the entire State of Michigan went wild. The Tigers' battle with the "Gas House Gang" of

St. Louis Cardinals was the tonic the entire area needed to take their minds off the hard times. It was much the same in 1945, in the closing days of World War II, when the Tigers won the pennant again and battled the Chicago Cubs to win the World Through those years, Joe Louis was riding high as the world heavyweight champion and folks forgot their troubles when he climbed into the ring.

THE REAL PROOF of sports as a tonic came in 1968 when the Tigers again woh the pennant.

If you recall conditions, the City of Detroit and its environs were still suffering from the riots of 1967 and there was great concern on all sides for what the future held.

Then came the Tigers' victory and no one who was in attendance the night they clinched the pennant ever can forget the outburst of joy as the fans paraded and shouted.

As the Morning Friendly said in its bold headline. "The Bird Laid An Egg." But he took our minds off the doom and gloom and once more altered the discussions at the luncheon tables.

Head Poodle protests

Beer drinkers punished

Beau the Head Poodle hobbled into the room, took one look at the beer schooner in my right hand and emitted a single, domineering bark which meant: "Give me to drink, pronto."

Beau is pushing 15, but he has always been the old alpha wolf in our household and is used to being obeyed. When his bark says he wants a couple ounces of beer, he doesn't mean later or in a few minutes. Besides, he is recovering from an operation to patch up his left knee joint, where he had an artificial ligament installed, and he doesn't care to stand around waiting to be served.

I placed the antique schooner and its amber contents on the floor. Beau took a couple of licks and 'That's not Budweiser! That's not even a premium beer. What kind of hangout are you running here, T.R.?" he demanded.

"SORRY, OLD buddy," I replied, "but have you seen beer prices these days? I have to buy cheaper beer, or else both of us are going to be eating those grey-tinted hot dogs.'

Beau sat down and frowned, doggy-fashion, waiting for an explanation.

"They want around $7 a 12-pack for your Budweiser, and I can get this Falstaff for $3," I said. "The brewers say the prices had to go up because of the 'bottle bill,' which banned throwaway cans and bottles.

"Ah, yes, throwaways. I know about those," said Beau. And indeed he does. One winter when he was still a young sport he caught a rabbit scent and tore across a patch of ground covered by a half-inch of snow. Beneath the snow was a bottle - broken. Beau severed a tendon in one toe. The foot was OK after the vet patched him up, but one toe still sticks up because there is no tendon to allow him to pull it

"BUT YOU STILL buy a pretty good grade of pop," Beau observed. "Isn't pop subject to the throwaway ban?"

"It is, old timer," I said, "but pop prices haven't jumped up the way beer has. We can get an eightpack of 16-ounce bottles for $1.29 if we shop carefully. Only beer has soared by 40 percent.'

"Doesn't make sense," said Beau, taking another lick of beer

"You bet it doesn't make sense," I said. "And I see by the outdoor magazines that the leaders of the fight to ban throwaways are saying the breweries are trying to punish Michiganians for passing the ban on throwaways. They say the breweries want to use Michigan as a 'horrible example' to other states to discourage them from passing throwaway bans."

"Well, I'm still for banning throwaways," said Beau, "if it will prevent injuries to those of us who go barefoot 12 months of the year. But tell me, does it really cost more to have returnable bottles?"

"I HAVE GRAVE doubts," I said. "Look at Falstaff alone. They were selling returnables in Michigan for more than a year before the throwaway ban went into effect. I appreciate that. But even though the new law didn't affect their operation, Falstaff jacked up its price from $2.39 a 12-pack to $3. For what?'

Beau thought a moment and then said, "So what you're telling me is that, a) pop, which was also affected by the ban on throwaways, is not rising substantially in price and, b) a brand of beer which was already in returnable bottles rose 25 percent. I smell a plot." Beau's pretty good at smelling meat, but this was the first time he had ever smelled a

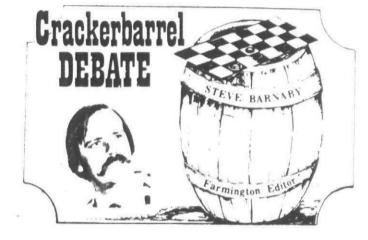

"You're not the only one. Gov. Bill Milliken has been put on the scent, too. I read where he's telling the Liquor Control Commission to review regulations affecting beer advertising and pricing," I said.

"Milliken!" snorted Beau. "You have a picture of him with a cat. Sure you can trust that cat lover?"

I CHANGED the subject. You can reason with the Head Poodle about beer prices, but not about cats.

"Say, old fellow, your leg is looking stronger, and you have a birthday coming up soon. Any special requests?"

"A schooner of English ale and a pet hamster," replied Beau as he stole my left loafer and ran off to play "Kill the Rat" with it.

Home-after a losing war

Today I'm breaking a code.

I've done it before and I'll do it again. My craft demands that I do so, although I rather would not

You see, this is Vietnam Veterans Week, and I'm a winter soldier.

On the one hand I would like to honor that unwritten and unspoken code of the 2.7 million Vietnam vets which says "keep it to ourselves." But as a journalist, I realize it is my duty to write about this misunderstood issue.

So if my comrades will forgive me, I'll forge

BEING A VIETNAM veteran is awfully confusing. It goes beyond the grisly 45-second news stories on television which feature mentally and physically screwed up veterans - although that is part of it.

But there is another story — the tale of those soldiers who came home and supposedly melted back into the mainstream of American life.

Americans like us. We don't remind them of a past they would rather forget. But we haven't forgotten. We can't.

Every day we are reminded of what it was like to come home. You must understand that the war wasn't the thing. Vietnam for the combat soldier was like any other war.

Coming home was the problem. It still is.

Most of us are still coming home. We are, in the best way possible, trying to readjust to this country which allowed us to fight America's first losing war. But after 11 years the pain grows larger instead of fades.

IF ANYTHING, we feel more alienated and foreign than we did when first stepping off the "freedom birds" onto American soil.

I really can't answer why most of us feel this way. We try to sort it out when talking with one another. But the answers come slowly, if at all.

Perhaps the mental wounds have been opened by all the books and movies which have hit the scene in the last few years. Listlessly we page through the books, eventually casting them aside as inane.

We avoid seeing the movies. After all, Jane Fonda telling us how it felt to come home is, on its face, totally ridiculous. And we really didn't sit around playing Russian roulette.

Watching the boat people, refugees fleeing from Vietnam, makes being home even worse. Thousands leave Vietnam every month looking for a better life escaping from a system which allows them only one choice.

BUT WE CAN'T help them. The same government which sent us to aid these people refuses to take these people into its country in any appreciable numbers.

Dedicating a week to Vietnam veterans is nice, but it really doesn't change anything. The persons who weren't there and who haven't had to endure the eternal loneliness of coming home to a country which doesn't care to understand will never change.

This should be the last Vietnam Veterans Week ever. While this country willfully chose to lose this war, it is the Vietnam veteran's right to honor the experience among themselves. It really isn't any-

His hero: Mixture of John Wayne, Telly Savalas

His friends call him Father Wally.

His formal name is the Rev. Walter J. Ziemba. He teaches English at St. Mary's College on Orchard Lake in West Bloomfield.

He used to be president-rector of this educational complex which includes, besides the college, a prep school and seminary.

Much of his time currently is spent pulling together data for a book he'll be writing this summer about a personal friend, a man of whom he stands in

LAST WEEK Father Wally was invited to slip around the lake to deliver an early morning address. The affair was the annual Greater West Bloomfield Michigan Week community awards breakfast.

All dining areas of Orchard Lake Country Club were jammed with bright-eyed, bushy-tailed people who had contributed enormously of time and talent to their community.

Father Wally had his audience first in wonderment, then a studious mood and finally good humor.

HIS OPENING COMMENTS began, "Imagine someone who in physical appearance is a cross between a short John Wayne and a Telly Savalas with thinning white hair.

... with the confidence of a Pat O'Brien and the verve of a Bobby Vinton, the sense of humor of a George Burns and the wit of Art Buchwald.

... the philosophical depth of a Mortimer Adler and pragmatism of a Sydney Harris, the theological acumen of a Carl Rahner, the voice of a Vic Damone the heart of a Vic Tanny enthusiast and the joy of a St. Francis, and you have the man about whom I would like to speak," the St. Mary's priest concluded.

"WOW, FATHER WALLY, who's that?" the 200 people attending seemed to wonder together.

Would you have guessed Pope John Paul II? Well, that's Father Wally's hero and friend. But for Michigan Week?

The speaker explained: "I chose him for this event because his person and position today in the world fit in with the purpose of Michigan Week and our breakfast — to bring together the people of a community to celebrate their unity, their pride, their gratitude, their togetherness as persons living in a given locality."

Father Wally added that back in 1969 and 1976, when the then archbishop of Krakow, Poland, visited America he spent more time in West Bloomfield than any other place.

WHAT REALLY TICKLED most of us attending was Father Wally's recounting of a genuine Polish joke (not an ersatz American variety) as told by the

"Can you imagine hearing the Holy Father tell this?" grinned Father Wally as he waded in.

It seemed the Communist Party in southern Poland was having problems getting recruits. So a publicity campaign for volunteers was begun. A sturdy man of the soil responded, appearing at the party headquarters in the nearby village.

First there was a long list of background information — job, age, education, family background.

Finally the party official said, Now I will give you your test of sincerity. Would you be willing to give up your farm to the party?

New recruit: Yes. Party man: Would you give up your cow?

New recruit: Certainly. Party man: Your horse and wagon?

New recruit: Of course.

Party man: Your pig?

New recruit: No! Party man: What? Why not?

New recruit: Pig I got.

THERE WERE A LOT of other fascinating things about Pope John Paul II that Father Wally

"He never talks about himself; basically he's a simple man. He sees humor in human situations." the Orchard Lake priest noted.

Phoebe Patterson was a prominent figure in Plymouth politics in the 1920s. She became the first woman to hold political office here, and was the first woman Justice of the Peace in the State of Michigan.

Judge Patterson was the chief figure in a celebrated court case held in Detroit in 1920. It involved the right of a woman to hold political office. The story is covered in detail in my book on the history of Plymouth. It is available at the local museum.

Three other women who have been prominent in the political history of Plymouth are: Ruth Huston Wbipple, Plymouth's first woman mayor; Beverly McAninch, the second woman to hold that position; and Eleanor Hammond, tbe second woman in Plymouth to gain early years when it was struggling to a seat on the city commission. Their careers were covered in the series of three columns I wrote a few weeks ago.

After more than a week's layoff, Salem appeared lethargic in the early innings against North Farmington, a second place finisher in the Northwest Suburban League.

"The layoff hurt somewhat," said Salem coach Brian Gilles, " but we got through it."

Wilcox held North at bay in the first two innings.

The Raiders grabbed a 2-0 lead in the first when Mike Thompson led off with a walk against Salem hurler Bar-

Shortstop Ron Nutter then singled on a bit-and-run play, sending Thompson to third base with no outs.

Wilcox gunned down Nutter trying to steal second base with a perfect throw. Tom Godwin singled to score Thompson and later crossed home himself on a Salem outfield error.

Chief girls hang on for tourney victory

By BETTY DeLANO

The Plymouth Canton varsity softball team earned a spot in the district semi-finals on Saturday by defeating Walled Lake Central in the pre-district elimination round on Tuesday, 6-4.

Playing on Central's diamond, the Chiefs were able to get on the board in the first inning without the help of any base hits.

Sophomore Joni Sommerville scored the Canton run after being sent to first base on a walk, stealing second and taking both third and home on errors at the plate by the Walled Lake catcher.

Walled Lake met the Canton first inning bid also scoring one run. After Canton pitcher MariAnn Pink walked the first two batters, a run scored on a on a single to right field.

Held scoreless during the second and third innings, Canton fell behind as the Vikings moved into a 3-1 lead with two runs in the third inning.

The two-run scoring drive was made possible by a walk which was followed by a bunt sending the runner to second base. A base hit to rightfield brought that runner in and another hit, this time to leftfield, brought in the Vikings second run of the inning.

The Canton squad, now 9-5 for the season, scored twice in the fourth inning to tie the score.

Sommerville reached first on a bunt and was followed by junior Pam Schipani who walked. Cindy Stevens tapped a bunt single and Jean Krashovitz bunted between the pitcher and catcher forcing Canton held the Vikings to only one run in the fifth inning.

Scoring two runs in the sixth inning, Canton moved into the lead again. Stevens scored on a bunt by Krashovitz and Pink scored on a bunt by Harben.

The Chiefs tallied a final run in the seventh inning. Vickie Cavallero doubled and Stevens bunted her

"We played excellent defense and the outfield did a super job," said Canton coach Max Sommerville. "Central's pitcher was a lefty and pretty consistent. She threw a medium speed ball that threw the girls off a bit. We were hitting ahead of the plate.

Canton had a total of 10 hits and received four walks from the Walled Lake pitcher. Pink also gave up four walks but held the Vikings to only seven hits.

Canton plays the winner of the Brighton-Milford game on Saturday at 12:30 p.m. at Brighton High Leading off for the Chiefs, School in the district semi-finals. Plymouth Salem will play the winner of the Lakeland-Northville game. The winner of that contest will advance to the finals.

Boyd's 3-hitter powers Salem

The Plymouth Salem girls' softball romped to an easy 15-1 pre-district victory over Walled Lake Western Tuesday in a game shortened by the mercy rule after five innings.

Salem advances to the semifinals of the district Saturday at Brighton. The time of the game and the opponent of the Rocks have yet to be determined.

The game marked the return of Salem pitcher Jan Boyd who missed 2% weeks because of a hand injury.

Boyd was sharp in her first outing back as she allowed one earned run and three hits. She struck out four and walked two.

The win gives Salem a 7-9 overall mark.

The Rocks put the game virtually away with six runs in the first inning against Western, a member of the Western Six League.

Denise Zonca collected two RBIs in the Salem uprising. Sue McDowell, Cheryl Sobkow and Nan Horwood also drove home Salem runs.

In the second inning, Crespo tripled home Doris Hoelscher with Salem's seventh run. The other run of the inning came when Boyd raced home a passed Four Western passed balls led to six more Salem runs in the fourth inning. Third baseman Kathy Gardner and Boyd drove home the other runs.

Salem tallied its final run in the fifth inning when Crespo reached the basepaths on an error. Horwood later drove her home.

Johnny Miller set for PAL tourney

The annual J.P. McCarthy Police Athletic League (PAL) Golf Invitational will be held June 19 at Wabeek Country Club in Bloomfield

Among the touring golf pros expected to compete are Jerry Heard, ohn Mahaffey, Johnny Miller, Tom Watson, and past tournament winners J.C. Snead, Tom Shaw and George Bayer. Twenty-one pros expected to participate.

Heading the list of celebrity participants are television broadcasters Joe Garagiola, Bill Fleming and Chris Schenkel, Michigan football coach Bo Schembechler, jockey Eddie Arcaro and singer Tom Sullivan.

A gallery of 14,000 is expected by tournament officials.

Last year's winning professional was Hubert Green, who shot 68 on the par 71, 6,587-yard Wabeek course, which was designed by Jack Nicklaus and Peter Dye.

Amateur winners were Dick "Night Train" Lane, Mike Carey, Lloyd Heussner and Stan Wilk. The amateurs play a 6,109-yard course.

LAST YEAR'S event was highlighted by the appearance of former president Gerald Ford, plus more than a dozen sports celebrities. The gallery topped 12,000.

The PAL invitational began in early 1973, when radio personality J.P. McCarthy agreed to host a local celebrity golf tournament at Wabeek. He met PAL president Robert McCurry, and together they helped form the annual tournament. The tournament has grown into the largest single fund raiser for PAL.

The inaugural tourney raised $12,000 for PAL even though there were only a limited number of professionals and sports celebrities.

The tournament grew in stature. Last year, $112,000 was contributed to the PAL fund.

Participants paid $500 each to PAL is structured as a yeararound recreation program for the Metropolitan Area's disadvantaged youngsters. The Detroit Chapter was incorporated May 26, 1970.

PAL is staffed by off-duty patrolmen, patrolwomen and community volunteers. It makes it possible for thousands of youngsters to become in all kinds of constructive activi-

TOTALLY SELF-SUSTAINING. PAL derives most of its operating money from civic and corporate grants, along with private contributions. At least 98 per cent of the donations go for operating expenses. Less than two per cent is used for administrative costs.

Golf professional in this year's tournament will recieve $5,000 for first place, $3,000 for second place and $1,700 for third place.

A pro-am drawing will be conducted at the Troy Hilton Hotel, headquarters for the 1979 tournament, at 6:30 p.m. June 18. At that time, amateurs will be paired with golf professionals.

Advance tickets can be bought at any Hudsons, Wards, Capper & Capper and J.C. Penney stores. Advance tickets will cost $8. Tournament-day tickets will cost $10.

"Night Train" Lane is the PAL executive director.

There will be two shotgun starts (Texas Scramble) of 23 teams, which will include one golf professional and four amateurs. The morning start is 8:30, and the afternoon start is 1:15.

What has all the appearances of a new dynasty is developing along the metropolitan Detroit bowling front.

With the close of the record books for the 1978-79 league and tournament season, the Bonanza team has moved in to the position of being the winningest group in the entire area.

The first signs of this came when the Bonanza women, with Penny Behn as captain, won the championship of both the Bowlerettes and the Ladies Major Leagues. It was the first time in quite a while that the same team captured both titles.

Now to add to that the men's team, with John Bennett as captain, took the championship in the annual city tournament. To win the title the team bowled a 2,998 series.

In what is now referred to as the "old days," Joe Norris and the Stroh team dominated the game hereabouts. Then fellows like Buzz Fazio and Tony Lindemann kept the Stroh name at the head of the list.

JOHN RUGGERIO, who was also a Stroh captain, got into championship picture again when he teamed with Wayne Dubs to win the city tournament doubles crown. Dubs rolled a 654 and Ruggerio a 620 to give the duo a winning count of

Rocks place in Stevenson tilt

The Plymouth Salem girls' track team made an improved showing this year in the 19-team Livonia Stevenson Relays.

The Rocks, who went pointless last year, reversed that dismal showing by placing in the top 10 and scoring nine points in Saturday's meet. Pontiac Central won the meet with 65 points.

"Everyone did really well," said Salem coach Scott Kurtz. "We got some excellent efforts."

The Rocks manged a pair of fourth place fin-

In the high jump relay, the threesome of Erin Lucas, Diane Perpich and Anne Meixner combined for fourth place. They totaled 13-9.

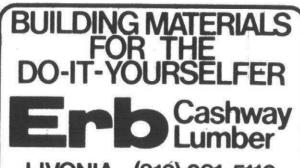

Salem's other fourth place was gained by the shot put relay team of Carin Ford, Sharon Radionoff and Inger Eithun. Their tosses totaled 91-3.

The shuttle hurdle relay squad of Perpich, Meixner, Lucas and Rene Slavin took sixth place with a time of 1:10.5.

In the two mile relay, Salem recorded its best time ever, 10:24. Members of the group included Lori Grissom (2:32), Beth Horner (2:33), Michele Balpes (2:38) and Ruth Sample (2:41).

'We were shooting for a time of 10:30," said Kurtz. "I was really pleased with 10:24."

Salem took seventh in the two mile relay and seventh also in the mile relay with a season best time of 4:20. The team consisted of Linda Lybarger, Carol Hay, Meixner and Lucas.

Elegance is aim for townhouses

By W.W. EDGAR

It isn't Early American. It isn't modern. It is just to be a symbol of elegant, relaxed Plymouth.

This is the description of the condominimums being built in Milltowne Square by Bob Allision and a group of area businessmen.

The complex is just off the corner of Mill Street and Plymouth Road and will have historical significance in that it is only a few steps away from the end of the old plank road for which Plymouth was famous years ago.

ALLISON, a former Pennsylvanian and a one-time official of the Eckles Oil Company, confided that he and his group selected the site because it typifies Plymouth and the relaxed community it has been since its early days.

The complex consists of eight units each with two bedrooms, two baths and two half-baths and is designed to relate to the relaxed people of Plymouth.

"Every thing in the units will be chosen for its elegance and if you will notice we are using solid brick for porches and the equipment inside is all on the top flight side.

For years Allison lived in Coventry Gardens in Livonia and had reason to travel to Plymouth often. He admits that from the start he was impressed with what he called "the Plymouth

Look.' It was to present that appearance that the site was selected and the name "Square" was agreed upon because the eight unit area is a perfect square. When it is completed later this month; it will be a segment of the city set off by itself. While it abutts the rear end of the Hardee Restaurant, the entire area will be enclosed with tall trees in the rear and the landscaping in the front will set it apart from the other sections.

WHILE THE UNITS are designed to be unusual, they become a bit more than that when it is known that the entrance will be from the rear patio where the cars can be parked.

"That's why we call the second room on the lower floor the Greeting Room instead of a family room. It will be where the owners will greet their

There are many other unusual features and among them is the light switch that is turned on by the heat of your body. Instead of flicking a switch, you just place your hand on the signal plate and in an instant, the lights will

Another feature is that each unit contains 1,800 square feet with a large dining and living room just off the kitchen that faces Mill Street.

In emphasizing the attempt to display elegance, Allison pointed out that the landscaping in the rear will do the job and add to the fact that such a setting is only a short walk to the downtown business district and the library.

If the building schedule is adhered to the grand opening of the Square will be about the middle of the month.

While no special price is being advertised, the individual units will sell for between $75,000 and $100,000, but as Allison pointed out, they will be deluxe all the way.

Angelo D'Orazio Paving Co. of Livonia was lowest of six bidders at $864,864 for reconstruction of Ford Road on both sides of Haggerty in Canton Township.

Bids were received in Lansing earlier this month. Ford will be widened from two to five lanes, including additional right-turn lanes and construction of approaches on Haggerty.

The bid has to be approved by the State Administrative Board, which meets June 5. Contracts are usually awarded to the low bidder about 30 days after administrative board approval, a spokesman for the state Department of Transportation said.

Ford Road work will likely begin in July and is scheduled for completion in Power calls for research to gain energy resources

Publisher Philip H. Power told a Democratic audience last week the United States should break up the oil companies and put the same massive effort into research and development of alternate energy sources in the next 20 years that it put into space shots in the 1960s.

Power, on leave as chairman of the board of Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, spoke to the 2nd District-Wayne Democratic organization meeting in the Livonia Senior Citizens Build-

After running second in the 1978 race for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate, Power has been active in his home congressional district. Speculation abounds in both parties that he will challenge U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, in 1980, but Power refuses to confirm or deny the sto-

"I BELIEVE legislation should be passed breaking up the vertically integrated structure of the oil companies," Power said. "Companies should be altions. But not all three at once.

"With such a structure, it would be in the economic interest of a refining company, for example, to shop around to find cheap crude oil because it could then sell the refined gas for less than its competitors could.

"We should pass legislation preventing the big oil companies from making any more investments in other kinds of energy - coal, nuclear and solar. Our country's alternative energy sources should not be controlled - and monopolistically priced - by the same oil cartel that has played along with OPEC (Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries) and reaped billions. . .

> His solution: "Let the government disband the Department of Energy (DOE). Let us save the $6 billion that is now being squandered . . . Let us create a National Energy Research Agency along the lines of NASA, with the authority ot take the amount presently being spent ($2 billion) on energy research, plus the $6 billion saved from the abolition of the DOE and put it all into research and development of renewable, environmentally saf , cost effective energy sources."

Of the $2 billion already being spent by DOE on research and development, Power said $1.4 billion is going into nuclear power and fossil fuel research A ONE-TIME congressional aide in and only a little more than $500 million

THE QUINCE and magnolia trees were blooming on the grounds of the old Wilcox house as Jack Wilcox hosted a late Sunday afternoon reception for Sue and Scott Dodge. The Dodges moved from Plymouth to California less than a year ago. They live in La Jolla and Scott, an attorney, works in San Diego.

The great old trees have been witness to many garden parties since the house at the tip of Kellogg Park was built more than 75 years ago. Statuary, pools and gazebo are gone but the garden paths and trim lawns retain the dignity of their gracious past. The host had placed a series of signs around the circular walk. They proclaimed the stability of Plymouth and its people as compared to California and its resi-

The guests of honor agreed with former Californians Wilma and Lou Halliburton that when it comes to Pacific sunsets and scenic wonders, California has an edge over the western Wayne County community.

THE "WE DON'T shoot our city commissioners" placard drew laughing comments from the assembly. Scott resigned from the Plymouth City Commission before moving to the southwest. Among the commissioners attending the party were Jim Houk and his wife, Mary; Dave Pugh and his wife, Sharon; and Mary Childs and her husband, Eric

Judge Dunbar Davis, Kenneth Way, Margaret Wilson, Doris and Bruce Richard, Ruth Barney, Louise and Jesse Tritten and Judge George Bowles

Very tanned after two weeks on Sanibel Island, Fla., former Plymouth Mayor Joe Bida had a pocketful of photos of his surf fishing trophies.

Family and friends included Carol Dodge, Scott's mother; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Walrod of Livonia, Sue's parents; Terry Haynes, fellow attorney and Pheta Chi fraternity brother; City Northville Police Chief Rod Cameron and his wife, Sue; Dorothy Chandler; Canton Township artist Tom LeGault and his wife, Nancy; Al O'Dell and puppeteer Raymond Masters.

Scott was returning to La Jolla Monday but Sue is extending her visit for a week or two.

CARL AND PEGGY Pursell celebrated their 23rd wedding anniversary over the weekend. Congratulations.

THE PLACE to be Friday evening for dessert is the Salvation Army building on Fairground at Maple. They'll be having their ice cream social from 6-8 p.m. Homemade pie or cake with ice cream is just 75 cents a serving. Beverage is included and there will be games for the children.

Proceeds will help pay camp fees for youngsters from Canton and Plymouth who attend the Salvation Army.

PHOTOGRAPHER Gary Caskey has been working all year on plans for the 1979 Michigan Press Photographers annual educational seminar and photo contest. He received the appointment of seminar chairman last May. The three-day event last weekend in the Michigan Inn, Southfield was the culmination of 12 months of planning.

Gary was responsible for setting the dates, and securing a place for the conference. He planned menus and provided transportation and accommodations for the guest speakers. David Turner of the Northville Record as program chairman assisted in lining up up the speakers. Gary had stressed quality

Balloon rides, clowns at St. Ken's Fair

Last year it was helicopter rides. This year it will be hot air balloon rides at St. Kenneth Spring Festival. The fun fair will open at 6 p.m. Friday, June 1 for a three-day run.

Because the balloon rises better when the atmosphere is cooler, the balloon rides are scheduled for late afternoon.

But there will be plenty going on throughout the day. There will be kiddie rides, teen rides, a sweet shoppe, tent games, moonwalks, gymnastics demonstrations, magic shows, and Kenny the

There will be millionaires' parties Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Hot dogs and other refreshments will be available all three days and there will be a chicken barbecue on Sunday, costing $3 per per-

THE FLEA MARKET will be open Saturday and Sunday. The clown contest will be Sunday. The winner of the $1,000 grand prize will be announced at 9 p.m.

Hours for the festival are 6-10 p.m. Friday, June 1; noon to 10 p.m. Saturday, June 2; and noon to 9 p.m. Sunday, June 3. The church is at 14951 Haggerty Road, between Five Mile and Haggerty in Plymouth Township.

General chairman of the annual festival is Steve Alfoldy. He is assisted by Dick Mandle and Jim Phillips.

Other committee chairmen and their departments are: Fred Schultz and Tom White, tickets; Kevin Cummings, publicity; John Fallon, finance; Denise and Gary McLean, special events; Ed Worth and Roland Frigge, tent; Jim Phillips and Mary and Dean Reffner, personnel; Art Ardanowski and Jim Stratton, millionaires party; Skip Malin and Don Reid, grounds and security; Mickey and Paul Pennybacker, Dan Collins and John O'Reilly, food; Mary Jane Phillips, first aid; Mike Adzima, beer.

Stan Zydeck is electrician for the fair.

Alfoldy and his committee heads invite the whole community to attend the fair which is St. Kenneth's largest fundraiser of the year.

Area history on review at Greenmead

A chance to step back in history and get a glimpse of how this area used to be will be offered when the Livonia Historical Society sponsors its annual Heritage Fair noon to 5 p.m. Sunday,

Or June 10 if bad weather spoils the first date.

The event will take place at Greenmead, Livonia's historical site on Eight Mile, west of Newburgh. The fair's offerings will include crafts, foods, tours and scenes of past years.

Visitors also will find a few modern touches like indoor plumbing, as well as the chance to do some up-to-date shopping for wares of the craftsmen.

There is no admission charge for the festival, but sales of goods, foods and tours will be used by the historical society to finish its project of restoring the Detroit Urban Railroad (DUR) waiting room. The waiting room is a small frame building that is part of the historical village gradually coming into being at Greenmead. Sue Daniel and Jess Bennett are heading arrangements. Their committee chairmen include Joanne Potter, Mabel Lowe, Gail Lang, Florence Paden, Helen Lord, Harriet Larson, Doris Johnson, Doris and Jim Melosh, Dorothy Lessner, Nellie Carothers, Ed Summers, Fran Smith, Marie McGee, Millie and Bob Comps.

THE SALE of some of the items produced by 12 craftsmen will be one of the features new to this year's festival. In previous years, there have been only demonstrations.

Spinning and weaving, woodcarving, construction of wooden toys, tole painting, patchwork and the making of soap and candles will be set up for visitors will be rented from Dennis Kollins of Rochester.

Also scheduled are tours of Hill House Museum, a collection of mementos housed in the stately farmhouse on the Greenmead site, a special exhibit by the Old Engine Club, a frequent visitor at Greenfield Village, two antique auctions and a sale of old-fashioned molasses cookies and sugar cookies, baked for the occasion by members of the food committee under Florence Paden's direction.

than a century ago.

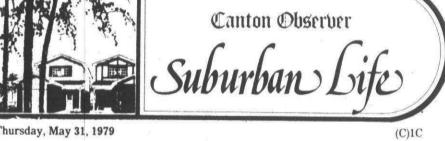

The cookies will go well with "sun tea," a drink of yesteryear that will be on sale. But visitors may also elect hot dogs and coffee or orange drink.

A MAJOR FEATURE of the fair this year will be the awarding of a quilt that historical society members have been stitching all year.

This is an annual Heritage Fair offering, and this year's prize is made in the Grandmother's Flower Garden design and carries with it an extra bit of history.

Plymouth registered nurses celebrate 20th anniversary

Plymouth Registered Nurses celebrated its 20th anniversary with with a banquet at Hillside Inn. Members and guests met for cocktails at 7 p.m. and sat down to dinner at 8.

Among the guests and speakers at the head table were Marge Gaunt, nursing and health services director of Southeastern Michigan Red Cross; Dr. and Mrs. Lee Feldkamp; and Helen Millen RN, nursing director of the Kinney Foundation. Dr. Feldkamp is public health officer for the city of Plym-

A history of the Plymouth Registered Nurses was given by Margaret Hall and Arith Eidson. Carol Fasig, educational advisor for licensure for the oraganization, told about changes in nursing legislation.

DURING THE WEEK preceding the banquet, a display of old uniforms and caps from schools where the nurses graduated was arranged in a window at Sideways, 505 Forest Avenue. Sharon Pugh, owner of the shop, is a member of PRN.

The nurses trained in a wide range of American and Canadian hospitals.

Caps and uniforms were from the University of Michigan, Grace Hospital, Detroit, Georgetown University, Washington, D.C.; St. Josephs Hospital, Toronto; St. Vincents, Indianapolis; Hurley, Flint; Christ Hospital, Cincinnati; Madonna College, Livonia; Mercy College, Detroit; Lucas County, Toledo; New England Baptist, Boston; and Alverno College, Milwaukee.

Carl Lampton, a charter member of the organization, also was seated at the head table. The only male in the group, he is the owner of the West Trail Nursing Home on Ann Arbor Trail in Plym-

NEW OFFICERS for the 1978-79 season are: Romaine Kling, president; Joy Wall, vice president; Sheila Place, secretary; Angie Callan, treasurer and June Somylo and Lois Kilish, who are co-chairing the program planning. June Somylo is retiring president.

Others on the board are Sue Delonis, newsletter, publicity and membership; Pat Lawrenz; civil defense; Sandy Rummel, civil defense; Margaret Hall and Ardith Eidson, historians; and Phyllis Mullholand, newsletter, publicity and membership.

Plymouth Registered Nurses arranged a display of uniforms and caps from their schools in the windows of Sideways as part of their 20th anniversary celebration.

Duggan to lead grand jury

Wayne County Circuit Judge Patrick Duggan has convened a 17-member citizens grand jury for a six month term.

The grand jury, which can issue indictments, subpoena witnesses and require testimony under oath, will investigate criminal activity in Wayne County. Grand jury proceedings are not open to the public.

Duggan, of Livonia, was elected to convene and supervise the grand jury by the county circuit judges. Members of the new jury were sworn in May 22.

Duggan said last week that a grand jury is empowered to investigate all crime, but usually investigates what the county prosecutor or state attorney general brings before it.

Past grand juries, Duggan said, have investigated organized crime, white collar crime and welfare fraud

Those with information about suspected crime can write the grand jury at Post Office Box 30, Detroit 48231.

South Lyon residents have planned a weekend fair to coincide with the visit of Michigan Artrain.

Area dancers will perform classical and contemporary numbers like "All that Jazz" and "Fly, Robin, Fly" at 1 p.m. Saturday, June 2 and at 3 p.m. Sunday, June 3.

Dancers are Lisa Starke, Vivien Sullivan, Barbara Reef, Gail Hohnbaum, Elizabeth Heslip, Laurie Tyler, Tricia Carney, Jill Kirchgatter, June Kirchgatter, Joy Kirchgatter, Jeff Wilson and Barbara Wilson.

They are the students of Pamela Stopper of Northville.

The students will give their annual spring recital at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, June 7 in Novi High School. Jennifer Weiser of Plymouth has the lead role of Alice in the children's suite, "Alice in Wonderland." Jennifer was awarded a first place rating during her course at Blue Lake Camp last summer. She will return to Blue Lake this summer.

June Kirchgatter has the part of the White rabbit in "Alice."

Performances at the Artrain Fair will be in McHattie Park, South Lyon.

'Risk is the new four-letter word. If they flew on a jet to get there, they got more radiation than they would have in a year at Three Mile Island.'

- Dr. Margaret Maxey

Atomic power expert blasts nuclear bans

By CAROL MALONEY

First there was "The China Syndrome," a film about an accident and subsequent cover-up at a nuclear plant. Then there was the real life foulup at the Three Mile Island nuclear plant in Pennsylvania.

Public attention has suddenly been riveted on the dangers of radioactive fallout when one of these accidents occur. Anti-nuclear factions predict dire consequences if these plants continue to operate

Dr. Margaret Maxey, associate professor of Bioethics at the University of Detroit, has some different opinions.

Speaking to members of the Birmingham branch of the American Association of University Women (AAUW) last week, she attempted to give her listeners a balanced view of the actual dangers involved

"Four years ago I was about as antinuclear as anyone in this room could be," she told her audience.

Then Dr. Maxey was assigned to teach a course which required her to research the nuclear question.

After extensive reading of professional journals on the subject of nuclear energy, Dr. Maxey said she came to realize "what a job had been done on me" both by popular opinion and the media

As a result of her study Dr. Maxey has become a staunch supporter of nuclear energy. She believes that the American people "are being seriously misled" by the anti-nuclear forces.

"They are trying to convince the American people that they can have a future without nuclear power," she

"Risk is the new four-letter word," she maintained

Referring to the anti-nuclear activists who staged a demonstration in Washington recently, she said, "If they flew on a jet to get there, they got more radiation then they would have in a year at Three Mile Island."

IT IS DR. MAXEY'S argument that we are worrying excessively about the wrong things. She believes that the risk levels of nuclear plants are acceptable in light of what could happen if they were all closed down

"There is no conscionable way in which we, as a society, can go on burning up natural gas and coal. We should be saving these petrochemicals for

Dr. Maxey believes many nuclear foes think that the generation of nuclear power is synonymous with the proliferation of nuclear weapons.

"Nothing says that because you have plutonium it is predestined to be used in weaponry," she said.

Dr. Maxey said that it is not merely having weapons that causes wars. She cited instead the "serious instability" and "domestic unrest" that could occur if "we don't have adequate sources of

She also disputes those who say we can cut back on our energy consumption by 25 to 50 percent and suffer no loss of the quality of life.

Dr. Margaret Maxey wasn't always a supporter of nuclear energy. She changed her mind when assigned to teach a course which required research on the nuclear question. (Staff photo by Stephen Cantrell)

As for alternate sources of energy, she argues that there are limits to what they offer. In terms of what Dr. Maxey called "payback time," nuclear energy offers a three- to five-year wait as opposed to a 20-year payback time for solar energy. Payback is the amount of time necessary to gain back the expenses incurred in production.

"And that 20-year payback time is just in the sun belt states, she added.

She further warned that the world is going to have a nuclear future whether this country elects to use nuclear energy or not. By ignoring this source of energy she thinks this country "we will be losing the only political leverage this nation has.'

In summing up her position, she quoted Madame Marie Curie, who said, "Nothing in life is to be feared - it is to be understood.

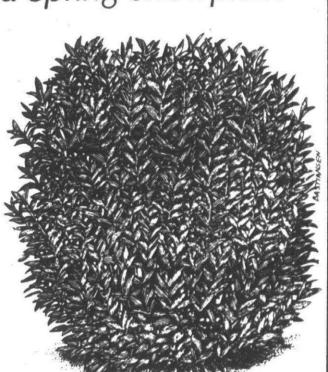

WHETHER OR NOT they agreed with her stand, Dr. Maxey gave AAUW members something to think about at their last general meeting of the year.

In addition to her faculty position at the University of Detroit, Dr. Maxey is currently a consultant for Lawrence Livermore Laboratory in Livermore, Calif., on the question of nuclear waste

Among her published articles are 'Nuclear Energy Politics: Moralism vs. Ethics" and "A Bioethical Perspective on Acceptable - Risk Criteria for Nuclear-Waste Management.'

Year of children everywhere

To recognize the 20th anniversary of the United Nations declarations of the rights of the child, St. Paul Presbyterian Church of Livonia centered its services recently on the idea of children as individuals. The youth choirs and the entire church school participated. Above are members of Tamar Duthie's fifth grade class dressed as children all over the world. Unity is one of the few religious movements founded in this country, according to the Rev. Gene Sorensen, Livonia minister. It was launched by Charles Fillmore and his wife, Myrtle, who began publishing a magazine called "Modern Thought" in 1889. The movement now has a large complex at Kansas City and Unity Village, Mo., as well as 300 churches around the country. It heads a prayer ministry, Silent Unity, and publishes three periodicals.

Need to decorate a room fast?

Designer sheets can cover more than beds

By SUSAN TAUBER

There's no need to spend time ordering wallpaper and matching fabric from stores - no need to spend hours at the sewing machine making table covers or shower curtains - no need to buy new ventian blinds when you're changing a color scheme.

All you need to decorate any room, said Janet Roda, is a staple gun, glue, stitch witchery (a fusible bonded material) and - sheets.

"Martex sheets, of course," said Ms. Roda, teasingly, to her audience. She is home decorating coordinator for Mar-

With a quick sense of humor and fast chatter, Ms. Roda recently showed more than 75 women seated in Jacobson's Store for the Home in Great Oaks Mall how to decorate every room of a house with sheets.

There wasn't a sewn stitch to any of her ideas.

"How many of you don't sew?" she asked. A few women raised their hands. "Okay, the rest of you leave," she

Ms. Roda advocated using sheets for decorative purposes because they are "wonderful, decorative fabrics."

She reminded the audience that sheets, however, are decorated lopsided, off grain. Therefore, when hung on walls, the sheets need to be alligned vertically.

"And always work with a new, ironed sheet," she said.

IN JUST 11/2 hours, she showed and told how to cover a chest of drawers, how to hang sheets shirred or straight on walls, how to cover a Parsons table and make shag window treatments, table skirts, even window shades out of favorite patterns.

There seemed to be nothing she hadn't figured out how to do with a sheet. Ms. Roda covered pleated and plain lampshades with them, made screens and a cover for a radiator in a

Some of it looked simple. Some looked hard.

The simplest tricks she showed were making a shower curtain and cafe cur-

"A twin-size sheet will make a shower curtain for a five-foot- long tub. Just put cafe hooks on the sheet and hang it

"For cafe curtains, buy pillow cases. Cafe hooks on these turn them into instant curtains," she said.

Ms. Roda covered tables by laying a sheet over the top, cutting it along the floor and draping another sheet over

"I cut the top sheet just by looking at it," she said. "You don't have to hem this. No one will notice.

"If you want to, go around the hem with a pinking shears," was her advice.

Another simple hint was changing two tire innertubes into a lounging

Ms. Roda accomplished this by tearing a sheet into four even strips and wrapping the strips in a figure eight around the tubes. Weaving around the top tube, between the two, around the bottom of the second tube, back up in between them and continuing this resulted in a rough-proof cushioney chair.

MS. RODA also made place mats from sheets, using the large petals from a sheet design.

"You make these with cork," she work," she said before leaving.

said. "Spray the cork with flat white paint. Glue the sheet design on the cork with Elmer's Glue, undiluted, and then add eight coats of decoupage varnish, letting each coat dry 20 minutes.

"Take an Xacto knife and cut out the shape. Then put polyurethane over the mats for protection."

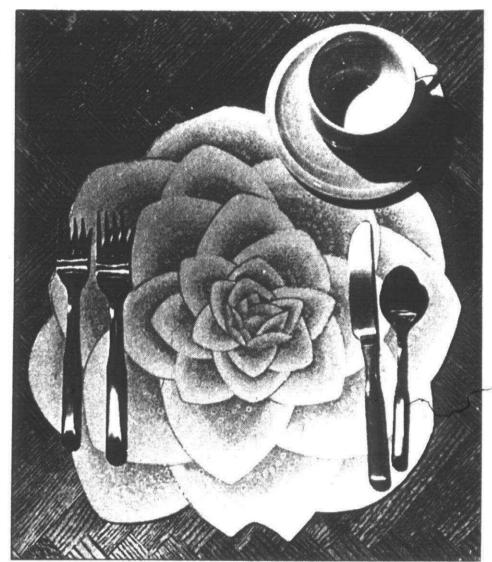

Cutting out shapes from sheets also gave Ms. Roda ideas for making her own backgammon and checkers table tops. These fit on top of the Parsons table from the dime store she covered

Here are other hints she mentioned: A king-size sheet is the right size for covering an eight-foot high-wall; Use red in the dining room or wherever you want to excite the senses; Put one tablespoon of salt in a wheat paste solution to keep bugs from eating the paste off the wall, and, if you're going to put sheets on a wall with liquid starch, do the work naked.

"It oozes all over you when you put it on the wall," she said.

Ms. Roda gave three programs in one day only at the Jacobson's in Avon Township store. For those who missed her demonstrations or who can't remember how she did everything, she has a magazine out with instructions, Patterns for Living.

"And remember, if you don't use Martex sheets, none of these ideas will

This placemat, which will take the wear and tear of multiple uses, is made from a sheet with large flowers.

You can save a lot of gasoline - and a lot of money - if you use the phone before you use your car.

By calling ahead, you can be sure the restaurant is open . . . the store has what you want . . . or the friend you want to visit is home-before you waste time, gas and money on an unnecessary trip. On the average, you waste about a dollar's worth of gas on every unnecessary tripand just two wasted trips a week can cost you more than $100 worth of gas Saving energy is easier than you think, and with the rising energy costs we're facing today, it's never been more important. So the next time you pick up your car keys and head for the door, ask yourself whether a phone call could save you the trip-and the wasted gas.

For these turkeys, life is just a monthly glass of bourbon

By DENNIS ROSENBLUM

What do about 20 Wayne County sheriff deputies, a bunch of airline pilots and some disco devotees have in

Once a month - at least - they down a double shot of Wild Turkey in one of the oddest group rituals this side of Lawrenceberg, Ky.

The downing of the booze is the only requirement for membership in what is not surprisingly one of the fastest growing clubs in town, the Wild Turkey

"We're hoping it'll be big like the Moose or something," said Valerie Kostore, secretary of the club, at the May

As might be expected, the whole thing started out as a joke.

Back in February, sheriff deputy Larry McKinnon wandered into Jac's Lounge near Metro Airport to toast his own birthday.

"After I got carried out of here. somebody decided we ought to have a club," he says. Three months later, McKinnon has found himself as president of a group which has 275 or so members and is still growing.

"It's turned into a helluva thing," says McKinnon. "They come in here, they buy a double shot of booze, and they're in the club.'

Becoming a member gets one an official membership card and a bright orange Wild Turkey Club T-shirt (proclaiming Jac's as "world headquarters"), in addition to at least a slight buzz from the required double shot.

Wild Turkey, the pride and joy of a bourbon distillery in Lawrenceberg, is no Shirley Temple of a drink. Its 101 proof is the blood-thinning force behind "gonzo journalist" Hunter Thompson, who is characterized in the comic strip "Doonesbury" as Uncle Duke - a fellow who protects his house with land mines and spends a fair portion of his life on the floor of a bar.

THE GIMMICK behind the club is that members have to down their shots at Jac's, which has resulted in a hefty increase in business for the bar. Things are doing so well since turkeys started flying in, in fact, that the owners are talking about expanding the building.

"The club was formed for two purposes," says McKinnon. "To go out and party and have fun, and to increase profits for the sponsors.'

The partying is easy to figure out. A

And he talks of doing things to help handicapped kids.

"But we can't do it without dues," he says. "We're gonna have to talk about dues eventually."

The membership is a melting pot of young and middle aged people, including Wayne County sheriff deputies and various types who work or hang out at nearby Metro Airport, like pilots and traveling salesmen.

One guy from Alaskan International Airways wants to start a chapter of the club back home somewhere, and other folks from Massachusetts and California have expressed interest in the

And the potential profits seem to be attracting some sponsors who think the goodwill gesture will bring more business. For Jac's, of course, things are going just great in this regard; the bar is selling more Wild Turkey in a night now than used to be sold in months.

At the May meeting, a $100 watch was raffled off to a member. The watch was donated by a jeweler who couldn't sell it and wanted to unload it for a tax writeoff.

There are plans for a picnic. McKinnon says he expects about 700 people to attend.

In case you were wondering, one member of the club says they don't see too many stewardesses.

SO FAR, things are off to a fine start for the turkeys.

"Getting a bar loaded with 260 people partying is remarkable," McKinnon says. "We have not had one argument or one dispute in this bar." One can only assume that the presence of the deputies has a sobering effect on any budding fighters.

"I guess I helped put something together that people like," he says. "We're gonna get involved in everything we can that's a good cause."

Will the turkeys get to be like the Moose? Will the stewardesses ever show up? Will the bar run out of Wild

Carrying on after Bing, Kathryn Crosby plays the strong woman role

By ETHEL SIMMONS

Her face framed by a pink turtleneck sweater and wide-brimmed pink hat, Kathryn Crosby with her velvety brown eyes looks the soul of content-

At the Birmingham Theater, where she will open in the drama "Ladyhouse Blues" on Monday, June 4, Ms. Crosby arrived fresh from her morning interview on Channel 7's "Kelly and Compa-

"Where's my lady?" she said purposefully, seeking out the interviewer. Full of flattery for the theater, she suggested doing the interview in her

"beautiful dressing room." She seemed genuinely delighted to have the spacious, star dressing room with its private bathroom. Ms. Crosby even commented on the bouquet of colorful spring flowers, provided by the management.

AS THE WIDOW of Bing Crosby, one of the best-known and best loved entertainers in American show business history, Ms. Crosby has led and continues to lead a full life.

She talked freely about her husband, who died in the fall of 1977, during the interview, appearing to enjoy reliving the good memories and facing up to the unfortunate realities.

"There's no right time to die," she said. "Bing's mother was 92 when she died, and he couldn't sleep for two years afterward."

Kathryn Crosby has always been a dedicated woman, who focused on her family but on her own interests, too. She pursued studies in nursing years ago and got her registered nursing degree after five years.

She still resents the fact that "the nurses fought me. I found that unforgiveable. They thought I didn't have to work. One said to me, 'That's servant's work.' But we're all servants of the lord."

Ms. Crosby said that during the last six years of his life Bing was in poor health. He didn't need a nurse because she was there to provide care.

She still helps friends when they return home from hospitals. "Nursing has been so useful to me," she said. "I'm rather good and the price is right."

Joan Crawford: The battered dark side of a star

By SHIRLEE IDEN

She was angry, courageous, and she endured a painful, unhappy childhood. She was deserted by her father, physically abused by her mother, and forced to support herself at a young age.

She was Joan Crawford, who, despite this shaky beginning, left her past behind, took the name she was to make internationally famous and became a

In a dramatic biography, written after her death, Hollywood writer Bob Thomas wrote of the dark side of that star - her lonely, terrible death; her search for the father who deserted her; the scandal that haunted her life, her drinking; her failed marriage and her tortured, sadistic relationship with her adopted children.

Thomas' book, called "Joan Crawford," began to take shape just one week after the death of the actress.

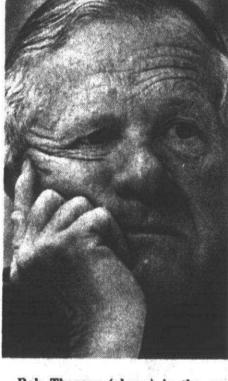

"My publisher switched me to Joan Crawford when she died," Thomas said in a recent interview in Southfield. "I was researching a book on Tyrone Power, and he convinced me to write her story."

Thomas spent a year reading, researching and interviewing people who had known Joan Crawford.

He dut back into recollections of interviews he had done with the actress over a 30-year period.

WHEN THE BOOK was published late in 1978, it hit the bookstores almost simultaneously with "Mommy by her adopted daughter. Christina Crawford.

"I tried to interview Christina for my book," Thomas said, "but she never answered my calls."

Thomas said the difference between the two portraits of Joan Crawford is that the daughter's is "her own remembrance, while mine takes in more of her own life."

Thomas said he regretted his book Dearest," a ripping view of the actress and Christina's coming out at the same time and would have preferred his work to stand on its own.

"But my impressions of her role as a mother are the same as Christina's," he said. "There's no doubt about it, she was a terrible mother.

"I try to explain she had a far worse upbringing than Christina. A battered child often grows into a battering parent. In her own life she was a disciplinarian and she tried to impose this on the four children."

Joan Crawford, who never had children of her own, adopted four children and reportedly mistreated the two oldest, Christina and Christopher. "The second two are loyal to her,"

Thomas pointed out. "They revere her memory. Asked what Joan Crawford would have said if she were accused of child abuse, Thomas speculates that she would have admitted it without hestita-

"She would have said 'Damn right I slap them around when they need it, I was treated that way and I want them to be able to take care of themselves."

FOR THOMAS, the Joan Crawford work was the 26th book he has written over the years. A dozen have been biographies. It is by far the most successful and has just been re-issued in paperback by Bantam Books.

"I'm a moonlighting writer," Thomas said. "I work full time for the Associated Press and have to steal the bookwriting time. It gives a different aspect to my career."

Thomas said many more people know him through his books than anything he ever wrote for the AP. "Lots of times my neighbors wonder how I earn a living since none of the AP stuff usually appears locally," he mused. A California native, he said his mother was born in Grand Rapids.

But though he lives in Hollywood, he said he is "not of Hollywood." "I've interviewed thousands of celebrities but I wouldn't want to devote myself to the cult of the celebrity," he

In his 35 years of covering Hollywood, Joan Crawford was always good copy for Thomas.

Once, he relates, after Marilyn Monroe had made a "revealing" entrance to an industry dinner, Joan Crawford called Thomas. "She gave me an exclusive statement about how enraged she was over the way Marilyn had flaunted herself," he recalled. "I printed her remarks, and they touched off quite an explosion all over Hollywood.

"Things settled down after a couple of weeks, except that I was left with both Joan and Marilyn furious at me for 'causing' their problem."

Thomas said some 500 correspondents covered Hollywood full time when he first started out. "I don't think there are more than 200 now. There's been a vast change in the coverage of Hollywood.'

AN ENTIRE INDUSTRY is devoted to the cult of the personality, including magazines like "People," television shows such as "60 Minutes," and publications like the National Enquirer, Thomas said.

"It proves the star system still works," he said. "There's still as much fascination with stars as ever, although vorites William Holden, Marilyn Monthere is also a kind of anti-star aspect. roe, John Wayne and Humphrey by Bob Thomas. "Many film personalities are very Bogart.

remote from publicity, such as Al Pacino, Barbra Streisand, Robert de Niro and Dustin Hoffman. They're all quite distant unless they have a cause or a big production."

The social consciousness of the stars is more developed today, he said.

"Years ago they were controlled by the studios and were unable to take stands on issues or politics," he said. "Jane Fondas five or six years ago was reviled from coast to coast. Yet she proved to be a good proplietess on Vietnam and nuclear reactors."

"Many stars use their position to help causes. I think they're better citizens today."

Kathryn Crosby is happy in the theater

FOR THREE SEASONS Ms. Crosby appeared with the American Conservatory Theater (ACT) in San Francisco. She worked with the theater from 1975-

She also had a morning, magazineformat television show for two years during that time. "Bing didn't like me driving home late at night (from the theater), but he didn't mind me getting up at 5 a.m. to do my television show,

Still with a glow when she talks about her husband, Ms. Crosby said the first year she was with ACT she only had small parts and "Bing teased me and said, 'Why don't you just phone it in?' The next year I had even smaller parts and he was furious! I just loved

The third year, she did get better roles. "The theater has been a godsend to me," Ms. Crosby said. Her acting experience has also included summer stock (she took the children with her each summer) and dinner theater productions. After the Birmingham Theater run, she will appear in "Guys and Dolls" with Hugh O'Brian, who played Wyatt Earp on television.

The entire Crosby family performed on Broadway, in London and other major cities doing benefits. "Rosemary Clooney was with us all the time," she KATHRYN AND Bing Crosby's three children are Harry, 20, who works in London; Mary Francis, 19, living in San Francisco; and Nathaniel, 17, who is finishing high school and going to the University of Miami in the fall.

Asked about publicity surrounding Mary Francis recently, Ms. Crosby said, "It's different now. She's married and has a husband who adores her.'

Before deciding to perform in "Ladyhouse Blues" at the Birmingham Theater, Ms. Crosby said she rejected some 20 scripts including productions headed for Broadway.

She praised the Birmingham Theater, saying, "To start a new theater today is such a brave thing.'

She said "Ladyhouse Blues" is a lovely play with overtones of O'Casey and feelings of Tennessee Williams. It's a woman's play about families and the needs of women to get out and start their own lives.

In the drama, written by Kevin O'Morrison and directed by David Regal of Detroit, she plays the mother of four daughters. The title is taken from a German section of St. Louis where, back in 1919 when the men went to war, the community was all women.

"The mother, Liz, is a woman, a mother, a widow. Her job is to keep her family together," Ms. Crosby said, describing her part, which she finds close to her own way of life.

THE DAUGHTERS are portrayed by Maria Ferrer of Beverly Hills, Calif., daughter of Rosemary Clooney and Jose Ferrer, in her stage debut as Dot, a glamorous fashion model; Lavinia Moyer of Detroit, artistic director of the Attic Theater, as Terry, a "woman's libber;" Linda Hart of Romulus as Eylie, the baby; and Janna Gjesdal, a local actress, playing Helen, who is tubercular.

Originally from West Columbia, a small town near Houston, Ms. Crosby talks in a soft voice that has a touch of Texas in it. She said recently she got together with some Houston friends, "And in 30 minutes I fell right into country speech."

When she married Bing Crosby she was 23, an age she claims was terribly old for a girl getting married from West Columbia. At age 30, she was half Bing's age and, "he threatened to trade me in on a new model.'

With a high school friend, Lee McGrath, Ms. Crosby is writing "A Very Good Round - My Life with Bing," which she describes as an appraisal of the 20 years she and Bing spent

"Life is a mortal business, as the mother in this play says," she declared. Ms. Crosby admits working hard for everything she's got.

"Everything came easy to Bing and so hard to me," she said.

When Henry Ford died in 1947, Geoffrey Upward of Birmingham hadn't been born

Now, Upward, fulltime editor and publications manager for Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum, knows the giant of American industry as well as many of Ford's friends and contemporaries.

Upward, recently elected to the Birmingham Historical Society board of directors, came to Greenfield Village three years ago from a position with the National Trust for Historic Preservation, Washington D.C.

As editor, he is responsible for the publication of the museum's quarterly, 'The Herald," and many other publications. His most ambitious project to date is a book of pictures and history of the village and museum, "A Home for Our Heritage." It is due out in late June or early July.

IT IS BEING published by the Henry Ford Museum Press, formed for the publication of this first official history. Coincidentally, the book will be an indepth preview of the 50th anniversary celebration of the dedication of the village and museum, which opened Oct. 21, 1929. That date also marks the 100th anniversary of Thomas A. Edison's invention of the incandescent

Ford picked his dedication date purposefully as a tribute to Edison, who had encouraged him in his own work and who he felt had dramatically changed the course of history.

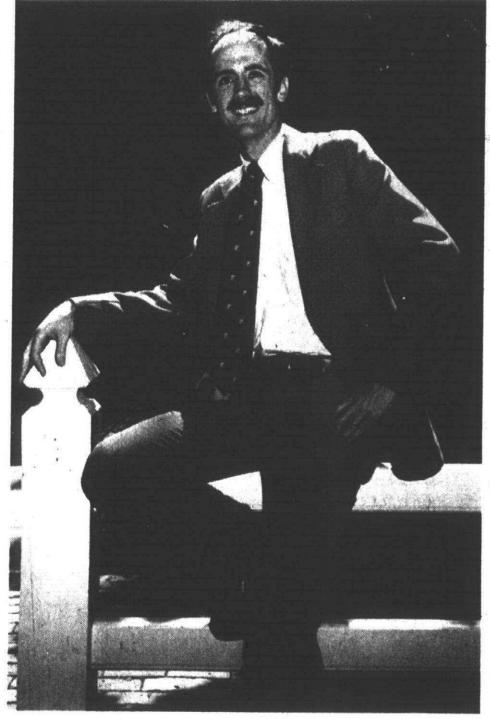

Upward started on his research for the book last January.

"It was such an interesting story, I was consumed by it," he said.

As he began to gather material and decide on some of the 500 pictures to be included in the book, Upward found himself acquiring information and stories than even veteran village and museum staffers hadn't heard. That's when he realized his acquaintance with Ford was deepening.

This came, in large part, from studyfriends and contemporaries in the comprehensive Ford archives.

"Lots of these reminiscences were done in the early '50s when our staff did oral interviews," Upward said. Some of the choicest of these are quoted in the book.

Geoffrey Upward falls right in with Henry Ford's view of Greenfield Village as an educational institution.

UPWARD LIKES the story of the painting of the dedication done by Irving Bacon long after the event.

Ford didn't permit flash photographs ing the personal reminiscences of Ford of the dedication, but he wanted a' record. He asked Bacon to do a painting in the '30s. It took the artist about 10 years because he wanted a photograph of each guest taken about the time of the dedication.

> In all, there are some 250 people in Bacon's painting - even a few who didn't attend. The Edsel Fords and sons, Henry and Benson, weren't at the dedication because the family was quarantined. But, they are in the painting because Ford told Bacon they belonged there.

"Ford called all the shots," Upward said as he described the planning of the village. "He had the buildings placed on temporary footings in case he changed his mind about the location."

Ford wouldn't tolerate shoddy workmanship, Upward said, so as he watched the progress of the building and restoration, he would demand that it be done again if he didn't think a wall or piece of construction was right.

Even on the last day of his life, Ford was at the village.

And it is something of a paradox that Ford, who lionized Edison and his lamp, died by candlelight at Farilane because of an electrical storm.

Upward told the story of the Martha Mary Chapel on the village green which he called the key to the village. Originally it was named the Mary Martha Chapel in honor of Ford's mother. Mary Ford, and Mrs. Ford's mother, Martha Bryant. But, Mrs. Ford felt her mother's name should come first, and she won out, as she so often did.

SEVERAL SITES were considered for the museum and village before the present one was settled on - one of those was the location of the present Dearborn Country Club. The project was originally named the Edison Institute, Museum and Village. Ford intended it to be a school for youngsters who would learn by doing, reflecting his own philosophy. Village and museum weren't opened to the public until 1933 when as many as 1,000 people were being turned away each day. Ford intended for his project to be educational, rather than open to the public. While the intent has been modified through the years by a much broader based approach, it has never been discarded.

In a real way, Upward's position as editor fits closely with Ford's original philosophy because many of the publications he will be producing in the future will be educational tools for classroom use.

Strangely, it is possible that the village and museum exist and flourish today because the Chicago Tribune once labeled Ford an "ignorant idealist" because he had said during an interview that he felt written history was "bunk."

He brought a libel suit against the paper and the case came to trial in Mount Clemens. Tribune lawyers, in trying to vindicate the paper, never gave Ford a chance to explain what he meant by his statement.

Upward said Ford was disturbed by the lack of understanding of the practical side of history which most people displayed. He felt the harrow had more to do with progress than any war or any king, yet many school children

"On the way home from the trial," Upward said, "Ford told an aide, 'we're going to show these people what history really is'."

Check shape and size of your glassware

One of the many amenities of wine service is proper stemware.

Over the generations much lore has evolved over the proper glass to use with a given wine. To follow some stylists, you could believe there exists a well developed set of rational rules about which wines are served in which glasses.

The writer has attended countless wine tastings, read many books and drunk much wine in a great variety of glasses. The net result for him being that there are no rules.

But that does not mean that anything goes. After all, the presentation of wine is one of its enjoyable aspects. To serve any wine in an eight ounce tumbler or in a tiny liqueur glass decreases the enjoyment of any glass of wine, whatever its properties. WHILE THERE are no rigid rules, there are some common sense thoughts to keep in mind when selecting the glass to go with any wine. There are also some shapes and sizes to be avoided at all costs. The size of the glass is perhaps most important. No wine, except port and sherry, should be served in glasses that hold less than eight ounces. Many urge larger sizes, especially for red wines. The larger size, served never more than half full, permits swirling and development of aromas in the glass. You are also able to put your nose in the glass and sniff deeply.

The smell of the wine is one of its great beauties. The hostess' carpeting and the drinker's nose may suffer if the glass is too small. This can be avoided by using hearty glassware.

THE SHAPE of the glass is critical when serving champagne.

There are three usual shapes in America: The tulip, the flute and the cup. The first two are excellent because they permit observation of the beautiful bubbles ("stars") that makes any sparkling wine a cheering experience. Watching small clusters float up a tall glass has charmed man for gen-

The third kind of glass, the coupe or cup, has gained much favor in the United States.

Wide-brimmed and squat, it quickly dissipates bubbles and does not permit sniffing the yeasty, bright smell that accompanies a good sparkling wine. Some cups come in plastic, a double irritation.

For still table wines, the best glass is one that permits sniffing and swirling, whose brim is curved slightly inward thereby concentrating the essence.

Above all, the glasses should not flare out. A chimney shape is excellent. Generally, larger glasses are used for red rather than white wines.

Finally, glasses should be white and clear. Etched and tinted glass may be lively to view, but any distraction impairs the visual impact of the color of Obviously, glass selection is part custom. But it is also part function. No one will stop the old Italians from drinking their Barolo in fruit juice glasses.

But if wine service is to suggest something more than a beverage to wash down food, functional and lovely glassware can be a fine enhancement.

Young anglers awaiting annual Newburgh Lake fish derby on June 16

By LEM MESEE Outdoors writer

More than $1,000 in prizes, as well as a lot of fun, await youngsters aged 6-16 in the annual Tom Sawyer-Becky Thatcher Fishing Derby on Newburgh

The 17th annual contest this year will be one of the latest on the calendar - Saturday, June 16. Other events on the Hines Parkway took up earlier

And if you have doubts about the fishability of Newburgh Lake, consider this figure from contest chairman Hank Chruscial: "More than 25,000 fish have been caught from that lake in the 12 years I've been contest chairman."

Co-sponsors are the Western Wayne County Conservation Association and the parks and recreation departments of Livonia, Plymouth, Westland, Garden City, Dearborn Heights, Northville, Farmington and Farmington Hills.

Contest hours are 7 a.m. to 12 noon. Every contestant must register in order to be eligible.

So here's a tip: Since early hours fishing is the best, register in advance by mail. Send a post card with your name, age and address to: Fishing Derby, 19345 Brentwood, Livonia 48152.

On derby day, bring your own bait and equipment. Have your rod rigged up and your line tested in advance so you don't waste fishing time. Use only natural bait (worms, grubs or

Here are just some of the prizes for largest fish of various species:

. • Bluegill - two-burner Coleman from Gell's Sporting Goods, Livonia. · Crappie (calico) - telescopic rod, reel and case from Sportsman's Village, Canton, and a set of Eppinger Daredevle lures from the manufactur-

• Rock bass - propane lantern from the conservation club.

• Carp — campfire grill and 12-piece set of cookware from Campers Paradise, Livonia. • Bullhead - tackle box and assortment of lures' from the conservation

In addition, second and third prizes will be awarded.

Prizes will be announced later for the Tom and Becky look-alike contest, the largemouth bass, channel catfish, northern pike, golden carp, limit catches of 25 panfish and grand prize for largest fish.

KENSINGTON METROPARK is the scene of $185,000 in improvements, as you may have noticed.

Some 1.67 miles of main park roadway were recently repaired and resurfaced, and 2.25 miles are being striped. Cost was more than $85,000.

And the bicycle-hiking trail will be 1.8 miles longer - from the middle of the west side of the park to a point near Island Road. Cost is $100,000, and the work is expected to be done by early summer, according to park superintendent Charles A. Damm. It will bring the total length of the bike-hike trail to more than 3.6 miles.

At 9 a.m. Sunday, June 3, "The World of Spiders" will be presented at the nature center of Kensington Metropark.

Two scenes from last year's fishing derby — a boy with a keeper and some contestants in the Tom and Beeky Lookalike contest.

Naturalist Bob Hotaling will direct the two-hour program of slides, discussion and a walk.

At 1 p.m. Sunday, June 3, "River Walk" will be offered at the Kensington nature center. Hotaling will lead a walk on the Huron River in search of animal and plant life. Dress for the weather and bring binoculars.

Register in advance by calling the nature center at 685-1561. The park is along I-96 in western Oakland County. Programs are free, but you'll need a vehicle entry permit ($7 annual, $2

At 2 p.m. Sunday, June 3, "Medicinal Plants" will be the topic at the nature center of Oakwoods Metropark near Flat Rock. Naturalist Glenn Dent will relate the medical properties of healall, feverwort, boneset and the toothache tree. Take I-275 down to Flat Rock to reach the park.

Musical hit chugs to Fisher Theater

The Tony Award-winning Broadway Century Limited. The story covers 16 musical "On the Twentieth Century" will begin its cross country tour Saturday, June 9, at Detroit's Fisher The-

The engagement will run through Thursday, July 26.

Rock Hudson, Imogene Coca and Judy Kaye will star in the National Company production of the musical. They will be supported by many of the Broadway cast, which recently closed an almost two-year run in New York.

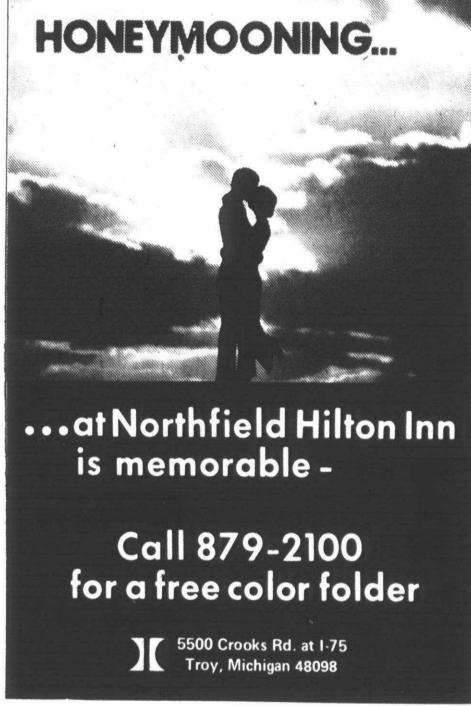

The story is based on a 1930s playfilm "Twentieth Century." It is regarded by many as an American comedy classic.

THE ACTION takes place aboard the famous luxury train, The Twentieth comical, mixed-up hours of intrigue, greed and conspiracy.

Hudson, the epitome of the Hollywood leading man, makes a rare stage appearance in the musical, although he has appeared on stage in "I Do, I Do," "Camelot," and "Once Upon a Mattress." He spent several years in the TV series "McMillan and Wife," playing a police commissioner. His Hollywood movie career paired him with some of the screen's loveliest leading ladies.

Miss Coca is continuing in the role that earned her a Tony nomination. She still portrays the zany character most people remember from her TV series "The Show of Shows."

Newcomers enliven Music Hall season

Music Hall Center for the perform- tic troupe characterized by its revoluing arts, the largest presenter of dance in mid-America, will showcase eight North American troupes during its 1979-80 season. A total of 49 performances are scheduled.

The Houston Ballet will make its Michigan debut with several full-length ballets, performed with the company's own orchestra. The Twyla Tharp Dancers, who played to packed houses at Music Hall in the fall of 1977, will return. Ms. Tharp was choreographer for the movie, "Hair," and several members of her company performed in the film. The dancers recently sold out several weeks of performances at the Brooklyn Academy of Music in New York.

Also returning to Music Hall is the tionary style of interlocking bodies in motion.

On the schedule for the seventh straight year at Music Hall is the Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater, a perennial Detroit favorite.

New to the center's dance series, are two young companies that have been receiving attention in Europe and Can-

Jennifer Muller & The Works have twice toured France, Germany and the Netherlands, where they have received rave reviews. The Danny Grossman Dance Company, based in Toronto, has been hailed as one of the liveliest, wittiest troupes to appear on the dance scene in many years.

Rounding out the 1979-80 dance sea-Pilobolus Dance Theater, the gymnas- son are the Murray Louis Dance Company and the Oakland Ballet. Louis is recognized as one of the major forces in modern dance in this half of the 20th century, both as a performer and choreographer. The Oakland Ballet from California is a vigorous, rising star in the west with a repertoire that includes Eugene Loring classics and pieces danced to Aaron Copland music.

"The Dance audience in Detroit has grown both in numbers and sophistication," said Music Hall artistic director, Alan Lichtenstein. "We gambled this year by doubling the number of dance

Band getting richer

You might say that money is music to Jon Diamond's ears.

Thanks to Diamond, an economics and music major at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, the U-M Jazz Band is $22,000 - and soon to be one international performance richer.

Diamond plays first alto saxophonist with the band, directed by Louis Smith. During the last few months, Diamond has found enough backers for the ensemble to send it to the prestigious Montreaux Jazz Festival in Switzerland in July.

The band was invited to the festival in 1973 but couldn't afford to go. This year, to Diamond's knowledge, only one other college band in the United States will participate in the competition, which is a career springboard for young jazz musicians.

"THE FESTIVAL can work like a college football draft," Diamond said. "There are loads of agents and producers around looking for young musicians, and in the past students have gotten contracts there.'

Diamond, the band's business manager, raised the money for the Switzerland trip by such feats · Persuading the Michigan Student Assembly, the U-M's student government, to provide him with a loan;

 Arranging a piggyback appearance in Tubingen, Germany, through the city of Ann Arbor, so the excursion can be billed as a cultural exchange program;

· Getting a television spot on the Detroit WXYZ-TV "Kelly and Company" show.

Donations for the project dribbled in until March and then began to gush as Diamond invested even more of his time pitching for the band. Band benefactors include many local businesses, the Detroit Tigers, Ernest A. Jones of the D'Arcy-MacManus and Masius agency in Bloomfield Hills, U-M Interim President Allan F. Smith. the university's executive officers, Major Events Office, and the business and music schools.

With assistant business manager Mark Keime, Diamond also arranged for the jazz band to perform as frequently as possible and was guaranteed a percentage of the entertainment market locally by the Ann Arbor Musicians Union.

BUT, EVEN before he began approaching individuals and organizations for money, Diamond concentrated on developing the band's image. He helped get extra bookings in California during the Rose Bowl engagement, including opening for jazz artist Woody Herman and playing at Disneyland.

"When we were in California, we only had two performances set up. The first day people started asking us to play for them. We could have played evey day and night out there . . . I used California as a foundation, a starting point, for the contacts I made," Diamond said.

20-member ensemble, founded 14 years ago, has given Diamond plenty to tout. Besides the earlier invitation to Montreaux, the band has played for the President Carter at a congressional dinner, and four years ago was chosen best ensemble at a national festival in Elmherst, Ind., among other credits.

Thomas G. Easthope, assistant vice president for Student Services at U-M, describes Diam as "one of the most outstanding, self-directed students I know."

Workshops featuring international artistry

Members of metropolitan Detroit's theater community are preparing for Olympiad '79, an opportunity to learn in workshops from experts about American Indian Music and Dance, Asian Theater Movement, Spolin Theater Games, and Theater Techniques, as practiced by performing groups from 10 countries.

Performing groups from Brazil, Canada, Colombia, Czechoslovakia, Finland, Greece, Ireland, Portugal, Rumania and Scotland will participate in the workshops and perform along with 11 United States groups June 30-July 8 at the Hart Plaza amphitheaters and the Attic Theater during the international theater festival.

The Asian Theater Workshop will be presented by Andrew T. Tsubaki, chairman of the University College Theater Association Asian Theater Program and director of the International Theater Studies Center at the University of Kansas-Lawrence. He will present Japanese acting styles of classical theater, introducing several aspects of stylized acting techniques.

Bernard Assinuwe, a native American who lives in Quebec, will conduct workshops on Native American Music and Dance as Communication. Assinuwe has acted in Shakespearean productions at the Stratford, Ont., Festival and for television.

THE SPOLIN Theater Games workshops will be presented by Robert Moyer, a field representative of the Spolin Theater Games Center and resident artist at Grand Valley State College. This contemporary theater process is a training method which employs improvisational techniques.

Each of the international performing groups will share in workshops focusing on the theater techniques which they employ in their work. Additionally, there will be sessions on Olympiad performances. Workshops and sessions will be held on alternate days at St. John-St Luke Church, 2120 Russell, near Eastern Market.

WHATEVER YOU'RE BUILDING

Anything you build will have extraordinarily long life . . . if you build it with ordinary lumber or plywood pressure-treated with Wolman^(R) preservative chemicals

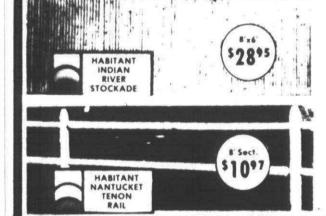

It won't rot, and termites won't bother it — even if you don't stain or paint it. Considering how long it lasts. Outdoor Wood is surprisingly inexpensive. And if you don't have a project in mind ask us for a suggestion.

VERY DESIRABLE BRIGHTON AREA

Magnificent 11 room, 3 bath Chalet Estate home on 7 acres of high rolling wooded terrain, lavishly landscaped.

Less that three miles from City of Brighton, ten minutes from access to U.S. 23 and I-96

Oak-stained rough-sawn cedar paneling and 2 lovely winding staircases, plus 2 uniquely designed imposing fireplaces express a feeling of grace and warmth.

Two-story high cedar-beamed cathedral ceilinged living room has 36 ft. long cedar balcony overlooking large outdoor pool, lanai and cedar stockade.

Lower level family room leads to walkout stone patio and stone steps to pool.

Gorgeous private meadow and pond view from master bedroom and through doorwall to small balcony outside. Another delightful view from loft down into the huge living room, greenhouse-dining room and open Island style kitchen.

Three-stall auto barn and parking for several cars.

At the end of a quarter mile treed private lane, all on the property, this indescribably beautiful home could never be duplicated anywhere, nor could its surroundings. Its cedar shake roof with the four perfectly scaled dormers, is in itself a masterpiece.

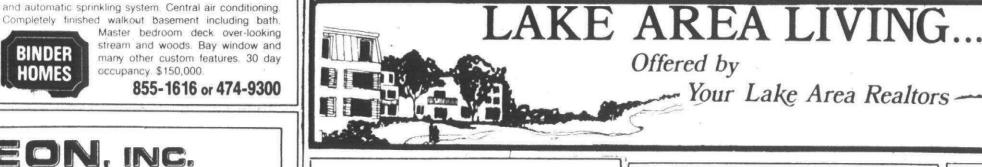

If you are looking for a one-of-its-kind hideaway estate in the $400,000 range, please phone me at 313-1-229-8600 during business hours, Monday through Saturday or 1-227-7333, evenings or Sunday.

My dear wife, the inspiration for this custom fashioned 1970 home, died tragically last November. I have finally decided to dispose of the home, complete with all furnishings, appliances, utensils, tableware, linens, etc., all hand selected and of finest quality, so the new family can ease right into ready made luxury.

Final price and terms can be negotiated.

Possession can be immediate as I'm planning a move to our retirement home in Ari-

There is much more of interest to tell about this secluded, one of a kind estate that would add to its value, enjoyment and charm.
