Low-income housing sufficient, HUD says

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) will accept no new applications for low-income housing in Canton Township.

Canton grant coordinator Terry Carroll attributed the announcement which HUD made last week to the township's favorable showing on a low-income regional plan and the ruckus Canton officials recently raised over two federally-subsidized projects.

HUD did not specify a time period for the ban it has placed on low-income applications for Canton sites. But Carroll believes the moratorium will last several years.

The grant coordinator maintains that Canton already holds 12 times the number of federally-subsidized units than surrounding communities.

He says a Housing Opportunity Plan

(HOP) for seven counties in southeastern Michigan shows no need for construction of additional low-income units in Canton for the next three years.

The plan was compiled by the Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG).

"But I don't think HOP is the sole reason for the HUD announcement," Carroll said.

He said HOP showed no need for additional low-income units in several communities, which were not included in the HUD application ban.

ACCORDING TO Carroll complaints by elected officials "about Canton getting the brunt of this thing really paid off."

Carroll referred to board members' anger over HUD approval of federal rent subsidies for two developments in Canton. Officials learned of the approval last spring for an apartment complex near Forest Trails subdivision on Joy near Sheldon and for a second apartment complex near the Pickwick subdivision on Warren near Lilley.

Board members denied site plans for the Pickwick development on grounds that the subdivision's planned unit development agreement had been broken. A lawsuit between the landowner, Forest City Inc., and Canton Township is now pending.

But site plans for the Forest Trails development had been approved before township officials were aware of HUD-approved rent subsidies.

According to Carroll, a portion of that complex is now complete. Tenants occupy some of the buildings.

Canton wants one too

Plymouth gains grant

Canton Township officials have fired off a letter of protest following news that Plymouth will receive almost $7,800 from the Detroit-Wayne County Area Agency on Aging (AAA).

The money is slated for use in continuing a home services program for senior citizens in Plymouth, Northville, Plymouth Township and Northville Township.

Canton, in conjunction with Westland, Garden City, Wayne and Dearborn Heights, had also applied for a home services grant from the agency. The joint grant application from the five communities asked for $48,000, but the agency awarded them $3,000 to divide for the purchase of equipment such as mops and buckets.

Plymouth, which is expected to run the home services program for the four communities, was refused grant money last fall because its application had been filed past deadline and contained incomplete information.

Earlier in the month the AAA notified Plymouth that it would be receiving some money — considerably less than the $25,000 requested — from unused portions of grants to other communities.

Additional money may be forthcoming after January, when the agency will know if other unspent grant money is available.

Fred Ferris, director of the AAA, was on vacation last week and could not be reached for comment on the agency's decision.

Until October, home services for seniors in Canton, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Northville and Northville Township were provided through the Canton-Northville-Plymouth YMCA.

The YMCA decided not to reapply for a third year of its $21,000 grant to run the program.

When the Y chose not to seek a third year of funding, Canton joined forces with other communities in an effort to get money to conduct its own program.

Canton had protested that its senior citizens were not getting a fair share of service while the program was run by the Plymouth-based Y.

Plymouth has continued to operate a skeletal home services program with money contributed by the communities listed on its grant application. The city has a full-time coordinator for the program, whose salary is paid through the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA).

According to outgoing Plymouth Assistant Manager John Zech, some 45 seniors have been aided since the city began running a program in mid-October. No seniors have been serviced in Northville, and only a handful of others outside Plymouth have sought aid.

Zech said the city could operate a program for about six months on the reduced grant.

Canton Grants Coordinator Terry

Carroll said the five communities which received $3,000 have been struggling to find other methods to finance a joint program.

If the communities had received the requested $48,000, Carroll said, they had expected to clock about 8,388 hours and serve some 264 individuals during the year.

When the agency denied the grant in September, Westland, with the help of Canton, began attempting to start a program with the help of CETA and the Wayne County Office on Aging.

Carroll said plans are continuing to institute a program, but the county's current financial crisis has created some question whether the office on aging can provide much help.

The County Board of Commissioners agreed recently not to give money from its own general fund to the office on aging. Although the office still receives money through various grants, there is belt-tightening expected as a result of the budget elimination.

Carroll said Canton would have filed a grievance through the office on aging, but felt its financial situation made it impractical to make a formal complaint about the area agency's grant decisions.

According to Carroll, the letter of protest to the area agency asks for copies of records related to the Plymouth grant — information that has thus far been refused.

Schools' payroll hinges on loan

Plymouth-Canton Community Schools next month will be borrowing $2.3 million to make sure all payrolls can be met between then and the end of June.

The school board Monday night voted 6-0 to authorize bids be taken on a $2.3 million loan which will use incoming state aid payments as collateral.

The school board will hold a special meeting on Jan. 7 to receive, open and award the low bid.

IN PAST YEARS the school district has had to borrow money because its tax collections and state aid are not received in time to meet all operating expenses.

The normal practice has been to borrow once a year, explained Superintendent John M. Hoben, by buying tax anticipation notes from banks.

A tax anticipation note is a loan which uses future tax collections as collateral.

This year because of the Headlee Tax Limitation Amendment, Dr. Hoben said, it is necessary for the district to obtain two loans to solve its cash flow problems — the usual tax anticipation note and a loan on state aid.

Last June the district obtained a tax anticipation note for $9.6 million at 5.79 percent for a total interest expense of $416,870. That note is due April 1, 1980.

Hoben explained that Headlee provides that local government cannot use good-faith bonds to borrow money without a vote of the people.

"Because of the Headlee Amendment it is now necessary for school districts to earmark the first tax monies collected in a separate fund until the note and interest has been accumulated. (a total of $10,016,870).

"This makes it necessary for the school district to borrow again to meet operating cash flow needs," Hoben said.

The state aid note will be issued on Jan. 8 and will be due on or before June 1, 1980.

The school district expects to receive some $8.5 million this year in state aid of which almost $4.4 million has been received.

The $2.3 million loan then is based on some $4.1 million the district is owed in state aid but not yet received.

Mall Santas make lists

By SHERRY KAHAN

Children asked by Santa Claus what they want for Christmas this year are raising trusting eyes and requesting electronic toys, Holly Hobby ovens and the Hungry Hungry Hippo game.

That word comes from the red-suited, whiskered gentlemen in area malls. They report electronic gadgets lead in popularity.

Boys come on strong for plugged-in football, basketball and hockey. Girls dig electronic games like Merlin and Simon.

The Livonia Mall Santa said girls are asking for more of the kind of toys once regarded as strictly male. He added this year has set a track record for train requests from both boys and girls. (Dads who want trains were not counted.)

BUT GIRLS also continue to long for dolls, the Barbie make-up head and Baby Grow Up. Boys press for race cars, trucks, radio-controlled cars and Star War figures.

And then there are lots of requests for Suckermen, plastic figures with suction cups attached. When thrown against the wall, they stick. At the Westland Shopping Center, posters of that internationally famous sex symbol, Miss Piggy, are going like crazy.

The Santas at the malls are from many walks of life. When not wearing red suits and heart-warming smiles, they work as CPAs, truck drivers, Detroit Edison linemen and car bumpers.

Jaycees in Livonia and Canton are supplying Santas for the Wonderland Mall and Meijer's Thrifty Acres.

At the latter location, Santa and his wife are residents of local convalescent homes. Reportedly they're having the time of their lives interacting with the children.

Why do the men take on the role of Santa?

"I love it," says Livonia Jaycee Bryce Barriuso, a veteran Mr. Claus. "It's the greatest feeling in the world to have a child walk up, kiss you and say, 'I love you.'"

The ones that cry don't upset Barriuso. He's used to it.

"But I don't like parents to force their kids to come up and talk," he said. "That bugs me. It gives them a bad outlook on Santa."

Apart from the wish lists, the kids keep Santas perking with their own brand of observations.

One boy told Santa that he had a lot of personal problems, but he'd prefer to wait until next year to discuss them.

Short Takes

Holiday recess

If you were thinking of attending a township board meeting on Dec. 25 and Jan. 1, forget it. Although regular board meetings are scheduled for the fourth and first Tuesdays of every month, board members have decided that they'd rather eat turkey and watch football games than conduct official township business on Christmas and New Year's Day. Because of the cancellation of holiday meetings, the board has scheduled a special session for this Tuesday, Dec. 18. The agenda includes discussion of a proposed farm preservation commission, an increase in the per diem pay of planning commission members and discussion of Super Sewer. The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. at township hall on Canton Center near Proctor.

Keep those cards coming

Canton's Iranian Christmas Card Program is now official. The township board has resolved to urge all township residents to send holiday greetings to the hostages in Iran. The idea was presented by Trustee Steve Larson at last week's meeting to let both the Iranians and hostages know that the American people are supporting the embassy workers. As frosting on the cake, the board's resolution also asks area churches to ring their bells at noon each day in support of the hostages. Board members noted that few churches in Canton have bells, but they passed the resolution anyway. Larson said the U.S. Embassy sanctioned the Christmas card program last week. The address is: U.S. Embassy, 260 Taleghani Ave., Tehran, Iran, c/o Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

Going down in history

The chicken and sweet corn festival sponsored by the Canton Chamber of Commerce last summer may be gone (at least until next year) but it is hardly forgotten.

The chamber recently voted to donate $250 to the Canton Historical Society and another $250 to the John Flodin Park Park development project.

The funds for these contributions came from the proceeds of the summer festival.

Holiday gift suggestions are given to protect lives year around

A list of suggestions for safety precautions in decorating homes was offered by the the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors.

The association came up with a list of gifts which will benefit an entire household and continue throughout the year.

The list includes:
Smoke detectors: Relatively inexpensive, easy to find, and easy to install. Most homes need more than one so duplication of gifts shouldn't be a worry.

Fire extinguishers: While some are general purpose, most are marked for a particular use such as a grease fire in a kitchen, or for use in basement workshops or near a fireplace.

Timers: Often viewed as burglary protection devices, they also are handy for turning lights on and off, for indoor or outdoor Christmas lights, and to use with radios, coffee makers and other electrical appliances.

Emergency gear: Recent Michigan winters have brought power failures, so non-electric lamps, candles and holders, battery-powered radios and flashlights can be useful. Also camp-stoves, heaters and lighting devices.

If there are children in the home the list can be expanded to include some of the newer devices to help make homes hazard-proof for youngsters.

Among these items are window guards to prevent falls from second-story windows, adhesive backed protectors to fit over sharp corners on counter tops and tables, cabinet door locks which can be opened only by adults, and lock-outs to fit over unused electrical outlets.

HOMEOWNERS ALSO are advised to check out holiday decorative items now in storage for "booby-traps" before installing them.

Colored light sets should be checked for worn, frayed or cracked wiring. For minor damage, use electrical tape to cover worn spots. Replacement, though, might be the safest course.

With faulty wiring there always is a danger of home fires, electrical shocks or blown fuses. While natural trees pose a greater fire threat, artificial trees also are a danger when used with lights.

The boughs of most artificial trees are woven on wires, so they may make contact with a damaged light cord and either short out the lights or blow a fuse.

The realtor group also reminds decorators that aluminum trees are not designed to hold strings of lights because of their electrical conducting quality. A lamp focused on a tree through a revolving multi-colored transparent plate will provide the added adornment.

Only heavy-duty light sets marked for exterior use should be placed outdoors. And even then it is best to string them in protected areas away from rain or melting snow which can cause electrical failures.

Other holiday safety reminders offered by the realtor group include:

- Having the feet of ladders used in hanging outdoor decorations firmly engaged in the ground or held by a second person to avoid falls. Move the ladder rather than leaning away from center for added safety. Be alert to snow and ice on the bottom of shoes and boots or on ladder rungs which can lead to dangerous slips.

- Wear rubber-soled footwear when using a metal ladder to hang lights and have patterned soles to help retain a grip on ladder rungs.

- Keep evergreen boughs and trees well removed from fireplaces and heat ducts to avoid both fires and excessive drying. Keep lit fireplace carefully screened and watch for errant sparks.

- Extinguish lighted candles used in holiday centerpieces before they burn close to surrounding materials or if the room will be unoccupied.

- Turn off holiday lights when the house is unattended, but leave some light on in the room or use a timer to discourage thieves.

Bible teacher condemns pop culture

Students at United Christian School in Garden City clapped and cheered as they watched Bible teacher Richard Tudor smash records, unravel tapes and crush cassette recordings of rock and disco performers.

"Let's start with the world's worst," said Tudor, holding up a Kiss album before breaking it over his knee.

Records and tapes featuring the Rolling Stones, Styx, Aerosmith and the Beatles were among those destroyed.

According to a press release supplied by the school, some 72 rock and disco albums, 54 45-rpm records, three 8-track tapes and 20 cassette tapes were broken.

Nearly 200 students filed into the school gym last week shortly before being dismissed for the day to watch Tudor destroy the materials which he called "trash."

Students from Garden City, Canton Township, Westland, Wayne, Detroit, Livonia and Redford Township attend the school on Middlebelt, just north of Cherry Hill, which is affiliated with the Independent Baptist Church.

THE SCHOOL occupies what formerly was Florence Primary School. The United Baptist Church purchased the building from the Garden City School District about three years ago. It now houses students in the kindergarten through ninth grades.

A statement released by the school said the record-breaking was held "to honor Jesus Christ, showing that today's generation of young people need not be controlled by anything or anyone who promotes rebellion against authority, sexual promiscuity and outright idol worship of rock or disco groups instead of worshipping and serving the one true God, Jesus Christ."

Tudor explained that the school doesn't think rock or disco music "is good music for Christians." He noted that school rules forbid students to wear clothes or jewelry or have anything in school (such as supplies) that are a reminder of rock and disco music.

He noted that students and parents receive a copy of the school rules and regulations.

The students were asked to bring in their records, tapes, magazines and posters last week after listening to a lecture by Tudor on the evils of rock music. In exchange, they each received an album by Carol Sallee, "He Restored My Soul."

TUDOR TOLD the Observer besides the immoral messages relayed through rock music, he also objects to the loudness.

"The high decibels can harm our kids. It's the physical effects as well as the content that we're concerned about," said Tudor.

The record-breaking was originally slated to be a record-burning. However, Tudor said that idea was rejected by the fire department.

The record-breaking was Tudor's idea. A first-year teacher at United Christian School, Tudor graduated from Hyles Anderson Bible College in Hammond, Ind. He took part in a similar event at the college.

Tudor broke the records while students stood about 20 feet away. Several other teachers joined in the breaking which lasted about 15 minutes. Tudor, teachers and students closed the session singing a chorus of "Amazing Grace."

When asked why he chose a record-breaking, Tudor cited the Acts of the Apostles, Chapter 19, verses 19-20.

WHILE BREAKING the records, Tudor emphasized that students shouldn't go into stores and wreck the same kind of material simply because they don't like it.

"We can do this because it's our property," he cautioned.

Students seemed to enjoy the demonstration and those interviewed said they agreed with Tudor and wouldn't miss their records.

"I don't mind," said Pam Gilbert, 13, who brought in albums by Andy Gibb and Styx.

"It's wrong to listen to it. I gave it up," she added.

Another boy, who brought in his Shaun Cassidy album, agreed that it was wrong.

Joel Crevier, 10, brought in six albums.

"I don't think they're fit. I won't miss them," he said.

One youngster said his mother wouldn't let him bring any records to school, but he quickly added that he doesn't own any rock or disco records.

Central Baptist to remain open, local judge rules

By TERI BANAS

A Plymouth district court judge has ruled that Central Baptist Temple School in Plymouth does not violate building and safety code regulations and should not be shut down.

Judge Dunbar Davis of the 35th District Court in Plymouth announced his decision last Thursday after a month of deliberation.

His decision means that the school's administrator and church pastor, Dr. Stanley Jenkins, is cleared of charges that focus on his refusal to comply to state fire codes.

When contacted Friday, Wayne County Assistant Prosecutor Howard Philippart said he will turn the case over to the agency's appellate division for review.

He had no other comment about the outcome other than, "the judge made his decision."

Philippart represented the state's interest in the non-jury trial Nov. 9. The five-hour trial was held before a packed courtroom of Baptist sympathizers from around the state.

The school, housed on the first floor of the church on Church Street, opened this year with an enrollment of 36 K-12 students. Its enrollment is up to 42.

Upon opening last September, the Fire Marshal's Division of the Michigan State Police determined it did not meet safety standards for school use.

Sgt. Walter Davenport, a state fire marshall, said an inspection revealed a "major deficiency" in the building's construction.

Its wood structure, he said, defied state school standards that require schools be made of non-combustible material. At that time, it also did not have fire extinguishers or smoke alarms, measures that have since been taken.

IN DAVIS' OPINION, the church-school is exempt from the state building code.

Davis said the law does not apply to an existing building that had prior use as a school. And since the church-school had been used by the local public schools in the '50s, the law should not apply to it, he said.

Based on the testimony of a former student of Plymouth High School (now Central Middle School), the public school held music classes in the church when it was occupied by a Methodist congregation.

Louise Haley, now a secretary with Central Baptist, recalled those classes were held when she attended school in the old Plymouth High.

The church and the middle school neighbor one another.

Fred Nelson, a high school choir director with the Plymouth Canton Community Schools, was an instructor at Plymouth High in the '50s. He recalls as many as 50 public school students using the church facilities daily throughout the week.

JENKINS, WHO faced up to 90 days imprisonment and a $500 fine if convicted, said Friday he "felt quite elated" about the decision.

"I was not anxious to be put in jail. It's a time of rejoicing and praise around here."

Since the charges were brought down, Jenkins said improvements have been made to the school's learning center. The students primarily are located in a one-room open classroom.

That room is now being carpeted and a second exist door, leading directly to the outside, has been installed.

As for their future plans to expand, Jenkins said he will "see what happens. Although the verdict of the judge seems to give us access to the whole building."

The church had argued that it was their "constitutional right" to exercise their ministry, which included offering daily instruction to students. Additionally, they argued academic education is second to the teaching of the Bible, which permeates every course.

About 200 students filed into the school gym to watch the record breaking. Students brought in their rock and disco records and tapes

School day-care battle brews

Central Baptist Temple has cleared one battle in its fight against state control, but it's heading toward another, says its pastor-administrator Stanley Jenkins.

The church is operating a preschool day care center for about 15 youngsters without licensure from the Michigan Department of Social Services, which is a state requirement.

In order to secure a license it must fulfill requirements in three areas, such as meeting fire and health standards, adequate staffing and adequate equipment for all students.

Jenkins said Friday he now is filling out the application, "but there are some things I can't agree to."

He added: "Again it's coming under state control and that's against my convictions and the church's convictions."

Mary Frew, supervisor of the Division of Child Care Center

Licensing for the social services department, said a license will not be granted to the church unless it meets all state requirements.

If the application is turned down and the church continues its service, she said it will be turned over to the prosecutor's office.

She added private organizations, such as churches, must have this license before they even open.

The fire marshal will be asked to investigate the building and recommendations will be made to the social services department. In any event, she said, "the whole thing takes time."

"Our normal procedure is to work with unlicensed centers to correct their problems if there's no terrible hazard to the children."

Satellite boldly goes—away

By TERI BANAS

Lost: one satellite.

Technicians from around the country are looking to the heavens, scratching their heads and wondering what became of a $20 million satellite launched Dec. 3.

The one-ton satellite belongs to RCA Corp. and was expected to expand services to cable subscribers nationally by February. These same services were to be offered to the Plymouth-Canton communities.

It was lost just after launching when it refused to stay in its own orbit. The satellite may be in another orbit or it may have disintegrated re-entering the earth's atmosphere.

Its service was to provide viewers with a 24-hour all-news station via Atlanta as well as Christian religious broadcasting from Florida.

So far, there's been no sight of it.

DOWN ON EARTH, OMNICON president John Raines, based in Plymouth, said the mishap would delay beaming these programs to subscribers. If it's not found, he said the satellite will probably be replaced by another.

That means some extra cost to subscribers who are already on the system in this country.

But for those interested in cable television in the Detroit area, by the time cables are installed, the cost should be absorbed, he said.

Omnicom has received franchises for its operation from Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Canton Township (just last week), Westland and Northville Township.

It also has placed its bid in for franchises in all communities throughout western Wayne County and southern Oakland County.

OMNICON'S TARGET date for installing cables in communities that have granted franchises is June.

Raines assured subscribers in these communities they will not feel the pinch of RCA's recovery cost. His company has promised not to raise rates for at least two years.

As for the rest of the nation, the cost will be spread out. "Being a businessman you sort of cringe every time you loose that much somewhere out in nowhere," he said. "I just hope the next time they send something up there it sticks."

He said another satellite will be sent up as a replacement in the next six months unless this one is found.

Meantime, be on the lookout for any unidentified flying objects. One of them is worth $20 million.

WSDP goes to 200 watts

Starting at noon today the voice of Plymouth-Canton is being heard loud and clear throughout much of the Detroit metropolitan area.

That's because the student radio station signed on the air today with 190 more watts to push its signal out to listeners.

The increased power from 10 to 200 watts allows the station to broadcast to an audience with a far reach of about 700 square miles.

Geographically that listening area stretches from Detroit on the east to Ypsilanti and part of Ann Arbor on the west, and from Belleville north to Farmington Hills.

Previously, with only 10 watts, the FM signal of WSDP was received very clear in the city of Plymouth and most of Plymouth Township, and in parts of Canton Township.

The change brings WSDP up to the top of the class as far as wattage used by public radio stations, explains Jeff Cardinal, administrative coordinator for the student-operated station at the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park (CEP).

THE STATION, which is located in Plymouth, Salem High, has been trying for three years to get approval from the Federal Communication Commission (FCC) to increase to 200 watts.

"I'm tickled pink," said Cardinal Friday. "This is the culmination of a three-year project and it really offers the community an alternative source of communication."

The station began receiving equipment for its power increase in September of this year. Cost for the power increase, a new transmitter and other equipment is about $11,000.

The radio station plans to celebrate its 200-watt status with an open house from 7-10 p.m. on Jan. 15 and is inviting the public to attend.

"In the metropolitan area, the only high school station that comes close to us in watts now is the one in Southfield which is operating at 125 watts. There are some high school stations outstate which have applied for more than 200 watts," said Cardinal.

"We now stand right along side all other public radio stations. By public, I mean nonprofit stations operated out of educational facilities such as high schools or colleges."

WSDP PRESENTLY broadcasts a nine-hour day, Monday through Friday during the school year, excluding vacations or holidays.

The station has always broadcast Plymouth Canton High and Salem home football and basketball games for the boys teams. Over the years the programming has been expanded to include girls basketball games at home and school board meetings.

The staff consists of volunteer students who aim to provide programming of a local nature rather than duplicating what the public can receive from commercial and regional stations.

John Seidelman is the administrative staff advisor who works with Cardinal in administering the operation.

Residents who have had trouble drawing in the station in the past can hear the difference now by tuning in 88.1 on the FM dial.

Finding the finest 'Good Samaritan'

Editor:

My copy of the dictionary defines a "samaritan" as "one ready and generous in helping those in distress." As you search the Plymouth community for the area's finest "Good Samaritan," where would one begin?

Perhaps the people at Growth Works should command top honors. But then, what about the many dedicated teachers and administrators in our fine school system? Certainly one would not forget the fine people at the Salvation Army and the fine work they do throughout the year.

Just possibly we should take a good look at all the people in the service clubs who work the year around and stand ready to provide help and money for so many worthwhile projects. While we consider monetary help, what about all the church groups that help deserving "samaritans" when they need help with the food bank or money.

How many times have the governmental units, the city and the townships, been approached for help and somehow they come through in spite of all the roadblocks that seem to crop up?

One of my good buddies, Tom Kelly, used to tell me he didn't need anyone to tell him why something couldn't be done. He needed people to help get the job done. The community is full of people like my late friend, Tom.

There are so many projects going on in the Plymouth area like the Hazel Larsen Guild at St. Joseph Hospital, the YMCA, FISH for Plymouth, and my friends so greatly involved in the Council for the Aging. I find it impossible to even know of all the groups working for the goals of a "Good Samaritan."

I have mentioned the names of two people, both passed on, who both qualify as Good Samaritan. To nominate any living person as the finest Good Samaritan would be to overlook many persons with better qualifications.

My family has been most fortunate to live in such a community as Plymouth.

Error was reporter's

Editor:

This is in response to your note appended to Mr. D. Decker's letter regarding the recent water rate increase.

You leave the impression that board members thought they were actually making a 10 percent increase which, in fact, was more like 34 percent.

If you were paying attention to the discussion at the board meeting you would be aware that the discussion revolved around the township auditor recommendation of a 20 percent markup over the rate paid by the township to the city of Detroit.

I made the motion that we should markup the rate one-half of the recommendation or approximately 10 percent. The actual markup adopted was .07 cents per 1,000 gallons which computes to 11.4 percent.

Your disclaimer does not place the responsibility for accurate reporting where it belongs — on the reporter.

Reader raps Crackerbarrel

Editor:

It never ceases to amaze me. Just when I think the Observer has started to show some responsible journalism you print an article of ineptness, any good writing gets tossed aside, I refer to the Crackerbarrel Debate (Dec. 3 "Patterson Goes for Blood").

It becomes rather obvious that Mr. Barnaby has a personal dislike for Mr. Patterson. Unfortunately, he refers to what he considers Mr. Patterson's style rather than to the issue at hand — that being the return of capital punishment to the State of Michigan.

As with most people who object to capital punishment, Mr. Barnaby mentions nothing of the victims of criminals or the families they leave behind, nothing of a failing judiciary and parole systems which constantly let free habitual murderers, rapists, robbers, etc., to reap more hardship and pain upon the general public, nothing of the so-called victim compensation system which has failed miserably. No, as always these people are concerned with how will the "poor murderer" meet his end and whether his civil rights are properly taken into account.

I really take offense at Mr. Barnaby's reference to white collar crime as a capital offense to be treated the same as murder or rape. He gives the impression that the only people who will see the death penalty are "impoverished blacks and Chicanos." Might I remind Mr. Barnaby that the last four men who met the death penalty were white.

Mr. Barnaby — before reading your ridiculous article I may have had some second thoughts about Mr. Patterson and what he is attempting to do, but now I can see that with people like you opposing him with such outrageous and stupid reasoning, I will make a concerted effort to contact Mr. Patterson's office to see whether he has any spare petitions he can send me.

In closing let me totally admonish the Observer for printing such a biased, pointed one-side article. Let's try to do better in the future so us folks on the reading end do not have to put up with such irresponsible journalism.

Groundbreaking is held for Space World park

"That's one small beep for the robot and one giant leap for Space World."

With that paraphrase of a statement by the first astronaut on the moon, officials started construction Friday on a $32 million space-theme park a few minutes from the western suburbs.

The robot was an electrically operated symbol brought to the ceremonial ground breaking ceremony to reflect the theme of the park.

Space World, the name of the park expected to have its first phase open to the public in June, is the brain child of Livonia's Philip R. Austin, who organized a public firm two years ago to plan and operate the park.

Austin, whose company is located in Livonia, said the park is the first of its kind in the country because it will be primarily educational and not geared strictly for entertainment.

But that doesn't mean that learning about space travel and future life can't be fun.

Austin said the first phase of several years of construction will start next summer with "speed of light," zero gravity, and UFO rides.

Space World will be built on 132 acres in Huron Township, at the I-275 freeway exit at Will Carleton Road.

When Austin planned for Space World several years ago, he was told by marketing authorities that southern Michigan is the fourth-best location in the world because it is tied by freeways to millions of potential tourists who could drive to the park within one day.

THE FIRST location was proposed at I-94 and US-23 in Ypsilanti Township. But township officials and neighboring residents objected to the park on the grounds of potential traffic problems.

Austin has said that he plans to attract more than a million persons a year at the start and expects to nearly double that number in a few years.

He plans to operate the park from the Memorial Day through the Labor Day weekend.

Austin said Space World will be the first park in the country to use the future or space as its theme.

It is also the only new theme-park near construction in the nation and the first in Michigan.

When completed, Space World will create 2,000 part-time jobs and 250 fulltime jobs, he said.

A Space World spokesman said theme parks use a central image-evoking atmosphere to blend together rides, games, shows, crafts, demonstrations, educational exhibits, restaurants, shops and attractions.

The development of the modern theme park in the U.S. began with Disneyland in 1955.

Paying the way

More than $1,500 was raised recently by the Plymouth Fife and Drum Corps to meet expenses for its 1980 performance season. Jerry Brown, chairman of ways and means for the corps, presents awards to members who were the highest ticket sellers in the fund-raiser: (from left) Faith Pinkerton, Vicki Wood and Vivian Solak. Also winning awards were Kelly and Kevin Arvin and Becky Potter. Among Plymouth residents who benefited from the fund-raising by winning prizes were Louise Supron, 50 gallons of gasoline, and Norman Cole, a hand-made afghan. (Fred W. Moore photo)

Barr tabbed as new Canton football coach

Leaves Rock assistant job

By BRAD EMONS

Richard Barr has been named the new football coach at Plymouth Canton High School.

The 39-year-old Barr succeeds Dave Schuele, who resigned Nov. 21 after posting a 6-30 record in four years.

The new Canton coach comes over from Plymouth Salem where he served as an assistant coach under Tom Moshimer for the past seven years.

"We are very pleased he accepted the job," said Canton Principal Kent Buikema at Barr's press conference Friday afternoon.

"Rich will start immediately because of the need for a year-round program. Rich has demonstrated his abilities and has a good background."

"He has a good relationship with the students and has the desire to make the program a success."

Barr teaches physical education at Canton and foresees his new job "as exciting and a challenge."

"I've always wanted to be a head coach," he said. "I feel fortunate I got the job. I will do my best to improve the program."

Barr said one of his first priorities will be to establish a weight program and find a staff.

"I have complete control of the program," he said. "I will start interviewing for my staff immediately."

BARR WILL have seven assistants on his staff. He said Bob Khoenle, an assistant varsity coach at Canton this past fall, "would like to coach for me."

The new coach said interviewing will be conducted to fill the other positions.

Barr came to the Plymouth-Canton Community School District in 1970 and served one year as seventh-grade coach at East Middle School. The next year (1971) he became ninth-grade coach at Central Middle School. From 1972-76 he tenured as junior varsity head coach at Salem.

The past three years he has been a varsity assistant coach under Moshimer. Last fall he was defensive coordinator, coached the offensive backs and was in charge of the kicking game.

"Tom Moshimer is a great coach," said Barr. "It was a privilege to work with him."

Under Barr, Canton will run the wishbone attack, similar to Salem, and throw in a few other options. He said "You might see our quarterback even drop back and throw."

Barr will stress defense, but feels confident in all areas of coaching football.

"We're not necessarily going to be just a defensive team," Barr said. "We want to put points on the board too."

Canton football reached its lowest ebb this past fall after going 0-9 under Schuele.

"I SURE like to win," said Barr. "I can't tell you what we're going to do. I'm just going to look for improvement. I really think there is talent in this school. The kids we have coming back on the varsity have talent. The junior varsity team showed it."

The Canton reserves were 6-1-1 last year under coach Dean Naude, the best ever football record there.

Barr said his team will participate in a one-week football camp during pre-season practice next summer up in Midland. The Salem football team has participated in the camp for the last five years.

"We've been invited up there," Barr explained. "They (kids) learn football and live and die together up there. I feel that's very important."

Richard Barr (left) answered questions from the press after Canton Principal Kent Buikema (right) announced his appointment as new football coach.

Barr, a teacher at Canton, will start immediately in his new job. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Barr played football and graduated from Detroit Mackenzie High School in 1959. He later received a bachelor's degree in physical education from the University of Detroit in 1964.

He then served as a coach at Mackenzie, Detroit Chadsey and Detroit St. Andrew until 1970 when he came to the Plymouth-Canton district.

A resident of Canton Township, Barr and his wife, Beverly, have two children, Michelle, 12, and Jennifer, 9.

Barr was offered the Canton job Wednesday night. He was chosen over four other applicants.

Late charge helps Canton past stingy Mustang crew

By STEVE GRAY

Plymouth Canton opened up a five-point lead with just 50 seconds left in the game and held on for a hard-fought, 58-54 cage victory over Northville Friday night.

It was the Western Six League opener for both teams. Canton, with the win, upped its overall mark to 2-0.

Canton took the biggest lead of the night in the see-saw battle when they stretched a four-point halftime advantage to seven midway through the third quarter.

But the Chiefs could not shake the stingy Mustangs who fought back to hold a 39-37 lead heading into the final quarter.

Neither team could mount a sizeable edge in the final quarter until Canton scored six unanswered points to take a 50-45 lead with 2:17 left in the game.

Guards Dave Malek and Scott Adler both hit a pair of 20-footers in the spurt and junior forward Sean Houle, who led the Chiefs in scoring with 16 points, put in a layup to seal the victory.

Canton coach Craig Bell cited the six-point flurry as the turning point in the game.

"They (Northville) tried to pressure us on defense," he explained, "but we just found the open man and got the easy shots."

Canton had three players hit double figures — Houle (16), Brad Westin (13) and Adler (10).

IT WAS the second time in as many games that the Chiefs showed three or more players on the score card with 10 or more points.

"We knew before the season with the type of kids we have that we would have balanced scoring," said Bell.

The Canton coach was also pleased with his bench play for the second straight time — notably subs Dave Ursa and Ken Van Kirk, the latter who came in for Houle after fouling out.

Ursa spelled Westin, who developed foul trouble in the second half. Bell was somewhat disappointed in his team's inside play as Northville front-liners Dave Ward and Mike Wagner accounted for 24 of

Salem remains unbeaten

By BRAD EMONS

Plymouth Salem survived an early fourth-quarter scare and went on to beat Dearborn Edsel Ford Friday night at home, 68-55, in a Suburban Eight League basketball game.

It was Salem's third straight victory this season. The Rocks are 2-0 in the league while Edsel Ford slipped to 0-2.

The Rocks, coached by Fred Thomann, started out the game hot and built a 16-7 lead after one quarter behind sophomore Scott Bublin's six points.

Salem made several steals in the quarter and appeared to have Edsel Ford well under control.

"We were good early," said Thomann. "We were playing inside our defensive concept. We put on good pressure and they couldn't handle it."

In the second quarter Salem outscored Edsel Ford 18-14 as five players contributed to the scoring.

Leading 34-21 at halftime, Salem came out roaring in the early stages of the third quarter, building up a 19-point lead on two different occasions.

On a pass from Rob Neu, center Howard Monk, who led all scorers with 21 points, tallied an easy layup with 5:24 to go in the third quarter to give Salem a 42-25 lead.

Using the fast break, Bublin then scored on a 14-foot jumper to propel the Rocks to the 19-point edge, 44-25.

IT APPEARED Salem was ready to blow out the Thunderbirds at that point, but it wasn't to be.

Edsel Ford outscored Salem 7-1 in the final 3:57 of the third period to cut the Rocks' lead to 47-36.

Coming out fired up for the final quarter, Edsel Ford became even more aggressive, narrowing the lead to 50-45 with 5:26 left on a tip by Greg Jones.

But that was the closest Edsel Ford

Canton swimmers cruise

Not even the absence of standout swimmer Paul Petersen Thursday night could stop Plymouth Canton from routing Redford Union, 117-53.

The Chiefs won their dual meet opener under new coach Bill Hahn without Petersen, a two-event state champion who was out with the flu.

"We had a good performance," said Hahn. "Overall, I was pleased with the meet."

Hahn was happy with the showing put on by sophomore Bob Simrak who won the 200-yard freestyle (1:58.31) and 500-yard freestyle (5:23.0).

Mike Sherwood also sparkled for Canton as he won the 50-yard freestyle with a time of :23.9. The Chiefs also swept second and third as Dave Smith and Pete Stern posted times of :24.5 and :24.9, respectively.

Another sophomore, Ron Hurley, came through with first places in the 200-yard individual medley (2:18.19) and 100-yard butterfly (:59.94). Vince Tobin finished third behind Hurley in the butterfly with a clocking of 1:02.09.

Other Canton firsts were recorded by Dave Smith in the 100-yard freestyle (:57.03) and Jeff Siepple, 100-yard backstroke, 1:05.01; Joe Gibbons placed second in the latter event.

Freshman Greg Schnurstein pleased Hahn by gaining second in the 100-yard breast stroke. He was clocked in 1:13.16.

CANTON won both relays.

Siepple, Ryan Smith, Hurley and Sherwood combined to win the 200-yard medley relay with a time of 1:52.7.

Gibbons, John Simone, Schnurstein and Will Sayre placed second with a time of 2:02.4.

In the 400-yard freestyle relay the Chief foursome of Simrak, Keith Greenleaf, Troy Haarala and Sherwood posted a first place time of 3:45.07.

The team of Gibbons, Sayre, Ryan Smith and DuBois placed third with a time of 4:12.

Second place finishers for the Chiefs included Hurley, 200-yard individual medley, 2:18.19; Ryan Smith, 100-yard freestyle, :57.5; Haarala, 500-yard freestyle, 5:37.76; Gibbons, 100-yard backstroke, 1:10.32; Steve Gaggi, diving, 139.0.

Gaining third places for the Chiefs were Keith Greenleaf, 200-yard freestyle, 2:03.62; Mark Bennett, diving, 105.20; Simone, 100-yard breast stroke, 1:16.1.

Canton will host Belleville, Tuesday at 7 p.m. The Tigers are expected to contend for the Suburban Eight League crown with the addition of three stand-out swimmers who transferred from Allen Park.

"That will be a real test for us," said Hahn. "We'll find out just how good we really are."

Weidman gets all-Sub 8 nod

Plymouth Salem center Patty Weidman has been picked first-team All-Suburban Eight League in girls' basketball.

Teammates Nan Horwood and Cheryl Sobkow were selected to the second team along with Sue Cliff of Dearborn, Carla Campbell of Livonia Bentley and Patty Jones of Edsel Ford.

Named to the first team along with Weidman were seniors Laura Houle of Belleville, Kim Plachta and Sheila DeGrazia of Bentley and Sue Beardslee of Edsel Ford.

With the coming of the holidays, the bowlers are turning their attention to tournaments and charity events. This has been the custom for years and, lately, the number of charity events has far outstripped other seasons.

Leading the way is Tom McKay's Goebel, which centers its attention on the Leader Dogs for the Blind program. Already more than $3,000 has been raised.

Meanwhile, the male bowlers are looking forward to the men's state tournament and the many special events throughout the entire metropolitan area.

THE 700 CLUB admitted five new members this week and one can imagine where most of them broke the barrier.

Sure enough, it was at Westland Bowl. That establishment has taken a big lead in the battle for the highest scoring house on Detroit's west side.

Showing the way among the sharpshooters was Dave Sill. Bowling in the Tri-City men's league, he linked games of 245, 300 and 222 for a 767.

Several lanes away, Gene Elsner opened with a 276 and added counts of 219 and 222 for 717. Sill's perfect game put him near the top of the honor roll.

While these two were breaking the 700 barrier, John Hurley, who has been making a habit of posting 700 series in the Monday morning league, did it again. He put together games of 262, 268 and 202 for 733. He then bowled a fourth game of 225 for a 958 series.

Meanwhile, the ladies at Westland had another big day in the classic as Pat Myles had a 226 in 627 and Ruth Worley an even 600. High single honors went to Gloria Tabone with a 246.

Joining the high scores at the Wayne Road emporium was Bob Kritas, who splattered the pins for a 695 that included a 287 game.

WONDERLAND came in for its share of the high scoring with two barrier breakers. Ron Sarah fashioned a middle game of 290 for a 752 in the Classic and Mike Mathis found the range for a 296 middle game and a 709.

While this was happening, Larry Brandt's team fired games of 1125, 1017 and 1028 for a 3170.

Despite the high scoring, one of the old-timers among the all stars took a share of the spotlight. He was Jack Born, who closed with a 279 game for a 680 and second place in the classic. Dolly Cole paced the women with 611.

LINDA SYLVESTER moved to center stage at Woodland Lanes when she connected for nine strikes and wound up with a 253 game in the Morning Stars league. At the same time, Valerie Kilhefner, who carries a 138 average, posted a 241.

On the men's side, John Kosta registered two games of 234 and a 162 for 630 to top the Ford loop.

SYLVIA DARBY showed the way in the ladies classic at Merri-Bowl. She started with a 211, followed with a 193 and finished with a 208 for 612.

Other high scorers included Linda Kendall with a 233 and Arlene Fogel with a 236.

IN THE LUCKY LADIES loop at Super Bowl, Elaine Perkowski took top honors with a 562 that included a 232 game. Others who bettered double century figures were Barbara Batell with 224, Eloise Morgan with 209 and Liz Scottins with 201.

JERRY HAY became the fifth 700 barrier breaker of the week when he clobbered the pins for a 736 to pace the Bel-Aire classic. Finding the range early, he opened with a 275, followed with a 248 and finished with a 213.

His nearest rival was Dave Kaliszewski with a 695. Dave was going well with games of 277 and 247, but slumped to 171 final. Third place went to Bill Richardson with a 684. He also slumped to 181 after games of 256 and 247.

In the Tuesday junior house league, Mark Dresselhouse was high man with a 697 that included a 267 game. He carries a 154 average.

McAllister's gains rec win

Howard Inch of Team No. 7 gave McAllister's fits with his strong defensive play.

In another close game Sonny's Metro Sports was defeated by Team No. 6.

Canton wrestlers pinned by Northville

A make-shift lineup and a lack of intensity were major factors in Plymouth Canton's wrestling loss Thursday to Western Six league rival Northville, 38-31.

It was the league opener for both schools.

Canton coach Dan Chrenko was disappointed in his team's performance against the Mustangs, especially since the Chiefs won the Northville Quad Invitational less than one week earlier.

"I don't think we wrestled with the intensity that was needed to win that match," said Chrenko. "We didn't have the emotion to go out and win. We came up short. We should have won."

The Chiefs started very strong with 98-pound Todd Bartlett pinning his opponent in just 40 seconds. It was the fastest pin of the evening and the freshman's third pin in his last four matches.

"He is a very intelligent wrestler," said Chrenko. "He is really gonna come on."

At 105, Tom Holloway was awarded a victory on a forfeit, and the Chiefs led 12-0 after the first two matches.

Tom Harreld followed Holloway at 112 pounds and was defeated by Bill Blanchard 3-0. It was the sixth straight time Harreld was beaten by Blanchard in two years.

After losing in the 119-pound and 126-pound classes, Canton's Tim Racer came up with a pin at 132 pounds at 3:44 of the second period over Ed Hodgson.

DAVE BENNETT remained undefeated with a pin of Dale Presswood in the second period at 138 pounds. In the 145 class, Steve Hamblin defeated Villas Allen in a wild match 14-12. The Chiefs' lead at that point was 27-14. Canton needed to win two of the remaining matches to seal the victory.

But it was not to be.

Bob Mullen was pinned with 56 seconds remaining in his match at 155. In the 185 class, Paul Mooney then whipped Northville's Neil Young 8-0, but Don Page, a freshman at 198, was pinned at 5:06 of the final period. Steve Basar was also pinned at heavyweight.

"We should have put them away twice," said Chrenko. "I'm really disappointed. When the going got tough, we didn't and that killed us."

"Individually we didn't do too bad, we just got out muscled."

Chrenko was still very happy with the exceptional wrestling of the freshman Bartlett and junior Bennett.

"They looked great," said Chrenko. "They are really going to help us in the future."

The Chiefs record dropped to 3-3 overall and 0-1 in the league. Northville upped its record to 1-0 in the league.

Panthers rip Franklin; Stevenson cagers upset

League play often brings out the best in teams.

Redford Union, after two opening non-league defeats, didn't figure to be much of a threat to Livonia Franklin's basketball hopes.

Surprise, surprise! A 31-point outburst by the Panthers in the fourth quarter made mincemeat out of the Patriots in Friday's Northwest Suburban League opener 76-56.

"We're pretty happy tonight," exclaimed RU coach Bill Foley in a noisy locker room, savoring the Panthers first win. "The league games are the ones we want."

Glenn "Gunter" Roberts, a 6-6 center, demolished Franklin with 27 points. John Utych pitched in 16 more from a guard position and Jerry Burk 14 from a forward spot. Jon McCarthy was the only Franklin player in double figures with 23 points.

RU was trailing 31-30 at halftime. The Panthers took the lead 45-41 after three quarters. Then came that sweet Panther 31-point final stanza.

"We didn't press, we just got back and set it up," said Foley. "That really helped us. We've been trying to run with them and it's killed us.

"Glenn Roberts, who we'd hope would come around, really did a job. Jerry Burk really did a job on the boards. He had 21 rebounds.

"We tried to key on their inside man, number 53. (Jeff Weber) He scored 21 on us last time. We did a great job.

"We're young, we've been making mistakes. It's an inexperienced team on the whole. But these are some hard working young men. It's that league title that we're after."

Franklin coach Jim McIntyre was really steaming, on the other hand. "That's two years in a row that we went in there (RU) and totally got taken out of the game by the officiating. There was only two baskets difference. They shot 45 free throws to our 20. We did not shoot a free throw in the entire third quarter.

"It was a good game for a while. It got to the point where the officials tried to upstage the game. It's totally frustrating for the kids. That was a farce out there."

Franklin got a little revenge in the JV game with a 72-58 win. Both teams the Mustangs' 54 points.

"We have to play better inside," said Bell. "We didn't have good movement on offense and defense underneath."

The Chiefs will face a very large Livonia Stevenson (2-1) team in the opening of the Plymouth Salem Christmas tournament at 7 p.m. Thursday.

"We have three days to work on our inside game," said Bell, "and we're very enthused to have the opportunity to play the caliber of teams we'll be playing in the tournament."

On Friday, Canton will face rival Salem at 8:30 p.m. Like Stevenson, the Rocks are a big test.

Quick jump gives Rock cagers win

The Rocks tallied six straight points, the last two coming when Monk brought the house down with a steal and a two-hand slam dunk, 56-45, with 3:47 left.

"We up by 19 and all the sudden they (Edsel Ford) made a run at us," explained Thomann. "They are a good team, but we came back with a run of our own."

"We had a mental letdown. We started running up and down the floor. We didn't want to do that."

"Our philosophy is to keep constant pressure on our opponents the entire game. That's hard to play and sometimes you're going to have break downs."

Thomann said, "I was pleased with our effort."

"Anytime you score 68 points and hold a team below 12 in one quarter you've done something."

Edsel Ford coach Mike Dapprich, now in his fifth season, said his team wasn't moving the ball on offense in the first half.

"WE STOOD still instead of moving," he said. "Defensively we stunk. Every shot Salem took was from 10 feet. They were hitting everything in the key and on the baseline."

"In the second half we went to man-to-man defense more and started to turn things around. We varied our offense, but it was too little, too late."

Dapprich said, "My team got mauled on the boards."

"We tried to take the shots away. We just didn't seal off the middle and baseline. We were fortunate to get back in."

Bublin, who played a strong first half, scored 16 points to support Monk up front. Jim Anderson and Rob Neu each scored eight points.

Neu had four steals and five assists. Mike Sharp of the Rocks had eight assists.

Monk and Anderson led the rebounders with 10 and eight respectively.

Rodney Armstrong, despite going four for 10 from the free throw line, led Edsel Ford with 12 points. Greg Jones added 10 and Jeff Waldrop, coming off the bench, added eight.

"Our kids gave 100 percent," said Dapprich. "Without a doubt Salem is the best team in the league."

Stevenson squad upset

return to action Tuesday with non-league games. RU hosts Farmington and Franklin travels to Livonia Bentley.

THINGS DIDN'T fare so well in Waterford for Livonia Stevenson. Not only did the host Skippers stun the Spartans 54-52 but the Livonia bus driver lost his way on the route home.

Stevenson fought an uphill battle the entire game. The Spartans trailed 28-23 at halftime and never could quite close the gap.

"It was very surprising," said Spartan coach George Van Wagoner. "We just didn't hit anything and they hit everything that they threw up. We kept plugging away. We were down by 11 in the second half and we came back to where we were down by one a couple of times. We just couldn't turn that corner."

In spite of the loss, Stevenson received a balanced scoring attack. Dave Hall took team and game honors with 21 points. Tom Finn added 11, while Tom Van Wagoner and Evan Lyall hit for 10 apiece. Tom Boomer paced the Skippers with 18 points.

"We're a better ballclub than that but they did the job," added Van Wagoner. "What can you say?"

The Spartan JV won its game in overtime 58-53. Stevenson will try to get back on the winning track in this week's Plymouth Classic beginning Thursday. Plymouth Salem and Livonia Churchill will provide some tough competition.

A TERRIBLE third quarter hurt Livonia Clarenceville's chances for a victory against Dearborn Heights Riverside earlier in the week. The Trojans were outscored 18-6 in that stretch and absorbed a 51-38 defeat.

The Trojans are now 0-2 for coach John Thostenson.

Three Trojans hit for double figures. Bob Shoemaker spearheaded the attack with 12 points. Russ Ivanac added 11 and Kevin Heanon 10.

Our wish to you for a Joyful Holiday and a Prosperous New Year!

Airport parking lot a blessing to Christmas travelers

Detroit holiday travelers can save time and money by using an airport parking lot that most people don't even know exists. It is the remote lot run by the Wayne County Road Commission, and it will be expanded, if necessary, to accommodate Christmas travelers.

If I suggest that you park in a "remote lot" where would you go? Most people would go to the private lots on the opposite side of Interstate-94 from the airport terminal because most drivers don't yet know about the remote lot opened nearly a year ago by the commission on the airport grounds. It's much closer to the terminal than the private lots and it costs only $1.50 a day.

Follow the airport signs off I-94, which will place you on Rogell Drive approaching the terminal complex. The first traffic light you reach will suggest you turn right towards the international terminal. Turn left instead and you will pass a Texaco station. Follow the signs to the parking lot.

Adjacent to the public lot is a 1400-space, employee parking lot which will be converted to public use if holiday traffic gets too heavy.

Delphine Fairbanks, management coordinator for the Board of the Wayne County Road Commission at Metro, says she does not think there will be a need to convert the employee lot, however, because airline travel log

Iris Sanderson Jones

officials are expecting a lighter holiday load than usual this year.

CHRISTMAS PRESENTS WILL continue to be a problem for travelers, even if it is not so chaotic at the airport this year. Pack gifts in your luggage if possible. If you must carry them aboard, don't wrap them first.

If you buy your nephew a toy and wrap it in ribbons and bows, it must still pass through the X-ray machines at domestic and international airports. If the security officer is alerted to something he sees but doesn't understand, he has no choice but to ask you to unwrap the item.

You will be surprised and probably furious if you are asked to unwrap your nephew's gift, and you will probably be left standing with a handful of wrinkled tissue paper.

You and the security officer will both be frustrated enough dealing with holiday crowds, so don't add to it. Wrap the gift when you get there.

OTHER CHRISTMAS TRAVEL TIPS from American Airlines include calling airline reservations phones during off-peak hours, especially between 7 p.m. and 7 a.m.; picking up your tickets at city offices or at your travel agent instead of at the airport; using public transportation or other means to avoid traffic jams; allowing extra time for check-in; making sure your bags are tagged; carrying medicine, cash, jewelry and other valuables aboard instead of checking them.

Most of all, don't be a "no-show," that thoughtless traveler who makes a reservation but doesn't keep it or cancels it.

VIA RAIL CANADA has added an extra mid-day train between Toronto and Montreal for holiday travelers. A train will leave each city at 1 p.m. and arrive at the other at 6:55 p.m.

CHRISTMAS NEWS FROM THE MAILBAG — The Delta Steamboat Company is offering three-and-four-day cruises during the Christmas season.

If you are going down Interstate-75, you might be interested in 12 days and nights of Christmas programming at Calaway Gardens in Pine Mountain, Ga. A Madrigal dinner kicks off the season Dec. 20. An old-fashioned Christmas dinner will be served Dec. 25 in the Plantation Room. A New Year's Eve dinner dance is also scheduled.

Callaway Gardens also has its usual interesting variety of Christmas craft demonstrations, nature walks and a Christmas flavor at its wonderful gardens and indoor greenhouses.

There are 2000 poinsettias, cyclamen, kalanchoes and Christmas cacti in the greenhouse.

Padre Island recovers from massive oil spill

By IRIS SANDERSON JONES

In May I wrote an article about the beautiful wilderness beaches of Padre Island, Texas, and the ankle-deep garbage swept onto those beaches from the Gulf of Mexico.

That plight worsened in August when an oil slick from a Mexican oil well washed up on the southern Texas coast and made headlines around the world. The mess was cleaned up in two weeks, but the tourists haven't come back.

Elmer Whiddon, the chief of media relations for the Texas Tourist Development Agency, takes bad publicity gracefully as long as its truthful, but he thought it was time to let northerners know what is happening now on Padre Island National Seashore.

So he invited me to join a group of writers to inspect the beach this month. I wasn't able to accept his invitation, but I was eager to know whether this favorite wilderness beach had recaptured its wildness. Apparently it has.

Strolling on Padre Island beach.

A certain amount of garbage is also inevitable on a barrier island like Padre as long as the merchant ships continue to dump their waste in the ocean.

You will always find tar balls on the beach, because they are produced by the same natural seepage that creates crude oil for undersea wells. They'll blacken the soles of your feet, but they are natural to the beach.

Centuries ago the Spaniards reported finding these tar balls and using them to caulk their ships.

A CERTAIN AMOUNT of garbage is also inevitable on a barrier island like Padre as long as the merchant ships continue to dump their waste in the ocean.

The major current that washes Padre Island comes from the Louisiana coast and is held offshore by rivers until it hits Little Shell Beach on the island. Another such current comes up from the south and is held off by the Rio Grande until it hits the adjacent Big Shell Beach.

These two currents, converging on Padre Island, bring the natural flotsam as well as a variety of hard hats, egg cartons and other people-made debris dumped by ships.

The tourist beaches on hotel row in South Padre and at Port Aransas on Mustang Island, the barrier reef adjacent to Padre, are cleaned regularly to make pristine beaches for the tourists.

The National Seashore is another matter. It's not really designed for you and me, although, we are allowed to loiter there. It's designed to preserve our natural heritage, and you and I are allowed to camp or picnic on the beach as long as we don't walk around on the fragile hill grass or mess up the natural balance.

SO THE WILDERNESS beach will always have some of that debris on it. Beachcombers love it. Environmentalists hate it. Elmer tells me that during the writers' trip early in December, he found the beach littered with sand dollar shells.

"I picked up an egg carton and filled it before I quit," he said. "A Canadian writer found a note in a bottle. Every word was misspelled. It was from a young man in Galveston who said he wanted a friend, and it asked the finder to contact him. Unfortunately, it didn't give either a name or address!"

I asked Elmer what the oil slick had done to the tourist business down there.

"Down on Padre Island when the publicity about the approaching slick hit the front pages, Padre was at the peak of its season. The next day, even before the oil hit, occupancy was down to 30 percent," Elmer said.

"When the oil hit the beach, it was two inches thick and as wide as a two-lane highway. Everybody was upset and wringing their hands. Ten days later tropical storm Elena hit near Corpus Christi. It had petered out to 30 knots but it still churned up badly.

"That was followed by tropical storm Frederick which made high tides and cleaned things up. The whole disaster lasted 10 days, but the tourists haven't come back yet."

That kind of situation, painful as it is for local hotel and restaurant owners, usually creates bargains for the traveler. I checked that and can tell you that some of the resort hotels on the south end of the island and in nearby Brownsville and Harlingen offer single accommodations for about $200 for six nights, and you might get discounts from that if you approach them directly.

For information on South Texas, contact the Texas Tourist Development Agency, P.O. Box 12008 IJ, Austin, Texas 78711; or the Corpus Christi Area Convention and Tourist Bureau, 613 South Shoreline Drive, P.O. Box 1147, Corpus Christi, Texas 78403.

Windswept Padre Island beach has recovered from the massive oil spill which threatened the holiday resort's future earlier this year. Inset: Holiday makers are back again at Padre Island.

The Flip Side

Here's Mace in your face

It was one of those small police shorts, buried way back in our paper. "Man sprayed with chemical at taco counter," the headline read.

It was a news story because of its oddity. But the broader implications of the case point out a serious question about what constitutes a weapon in the eyes of Michigan law.

A 16-year-old employee at the Taco Plaza, William Roper of Dearborn Heights, was working behind the counter after school Monday, Nov. 12. A 20-year-old Southfield man, whose name cannot be printed because he hasn't been charged with a crime, came into the store with friends, and ordered a taco.

After requesting extra hot sauce, the customer let loose with hot sauce of his own — a stream of irritating chemicals from a pressurized can of "Protect-U."

It didn't take long for the anti-mugger chemical to affect the employees behind the counter. They started coughing, tears welled up in their eyes, and their nostrils burned. This time Mexican hot sauce wasn't the culprit. Red-pepper spray was.

INCREDIBLY, instead of fleeing after this unprovoked meanness, the sprayer grabbed his tray of food and sat down to eat. Southfield Police arrived, and arrested him. But that's as far as it got. The sprayer was never even arraigned on a simple misdemeanor assault charge.

Roper stayed on the job. But a couple of employees were taken to Providence Hospital after complaining of a stomach ache.

Today, a month after the incident, Southfield Police Officer Duane Szumliniski of the crime lab explains that police are still awaiting results of a laboratory analysis of the chemical.

The lab is "backlogged considerably," because one of the lab technicians is on sick leave, said Officer Szumliniski.

According to people in the protection equipment industry, "Protect-U" is a red-pepper spray known as oleo resin capsicum, as opposed to a tear gas-based spray called orthochlorobenzal-malononitrile or the more severe and familiar "Mace" brand of spray used by police which contains phenylchloro-methylketone.

IS IT LEGAL for Michigan residents to sell, purchase and carry around these pressurized cans of chemical warfare?

Depends on who you talk to.

"It's not an easy question," said Bill Molner, assistant attorney general. "The state of the law is very much in doubt."

The uncertainty stems from a difference of legal opinion over the wording of section 224 of the criminal code — a statute enacted during World War II — which says it's a felony for a citizen of Michigan to "manufacture, sell, offer for sale or possess a gas-ejecting device that can either temporarily or permanently disable, incapacitate or harm a person," Molner quoted the statute.

That section of the statute was called too broad in a 2-1 decision in 1978 by the Michigan Court of Appeals judges. In the case of People vs. Guy, defense attorneys successfully argued that by banning the concealment of all gas-ejecting devices, a woman with a can of hair spray in her purse could be found guilty of carrying a concealed weapon.

IN FEBRUARY 1979, however, the Michigan Court of Appeals upheld a felony conviction imposed by Detroit Recorder's Court Judge George Crockett Jr. in the case of the People vs. Leonard Stinson. Stinson was observed by the Detroit Police tossing a can of "Paralyzer" — the world's most popular tear gas device — outside his car when police approached.

Court documents stressed that the can in question was stamped with the word "weapon" on it, differentiating it from just another aerosol can.

On the basis of the latest decision, Molner said, the attorney general's office advises citizens and law enforcement agencies that selling or buying sprays containing red pepper, tear gas or Mace is illegal in Michigan.

Richard Thompson, Oakland County's chief assistant prosecutor, said it is the policy of their office to issue warrants only when the chemical sprays are used in a crime or used in an unprovoked attack.

Before troopers arrest someone for possession of a can of tear gas, they check with the county prosecutor to see if a warrant will be written, according to Michigan State Police Lt. Calvin Glassford. Otherwise, he said, state troopers follow the advice of the state attorney general.

In an oral opinion issued in July, Attorney General Frank Kelley stated: "It is my opinion that the (Paralyzer) device in question falls within the prohibition of the above statute (MCLA 250.224). Therefore, possession and/or use of the same is prohibited at this time."

IT'S NOT that simple, said Glen Meinert, president of Protection and Security Equipment Corp., of St. Louis, Mo., the firm that distributes "Paralyzer" internationally. Meinert referred to letters he's received from prosecuting attorneys in Ingham and Muskegon counties which give him permission to sell "Paralyzer" to the Michigan populace.

A letter sent in October 1979 to Meinert by Gerald Warner, Muskegon County prosecutor, states "The Court of Appeals has issued conflicting opinions regarding the constitutionality of Michigan Compiled Laws Annotated (MCLA) 750.224. And, in addition, these devices eject a liquid, rather than a gas."

"Further, the legislature is currently considering a bill to expressly legalize such devices. Therefore, this office will not issue criminal charge for the mere sale of such devices at this time. However, criminal use of such devices remain illegal."

Meinert said he's yet to receive solid evidence that his product has fallen in the hands of criminals who subverted its intended use. But, he added, he'd rather see a bank robber use a can of "Paralyzer" in a holdup than a gun.

"IT'S A LEGITIMATE concern," Meinert said of the fear that these sprays will fall into the wrong hands.

Illinois and New York restrict use of the sprays to premise protection, he added. Carrying such devices in a car, pocket or purse is illegal in those two states. Michigan and Wisconsin have no up-to-date legislation on the sprays, he said.

Asked how he feels about distributing such noxious chemicals, Meinert said he feels just fine.

"I feel very satisfied in life. I've been at it 10 years selling these types of devices. I can show you unsolicited testimonials from people thanking us for saving their lives, saving their limbs, with this product."

"We didn't create the problem (of violence)," Meinert said. "Here's a form of protection that can be gotten to the general public for about the price of a bottle of mouthwash. And what's a life worth?"

At the end of that phone call and at the close of two follow-up telephone conversations, Meinert never forgot to add "Have a nice day."

He didn't say "Have a nice spray."

Daniel's Den

Home buying, bond buying similar

Why do many people prefer to buy a home rather than rent?

There are, of course, many reasons — probably as many as there are homes.

But most major reasons are financial.

Buying a home is an investment because equity (the amount by which the mortgage principle is reduced) is an asset which increases from year to year for the owner.

As you near the end of the term of the mortgage, the amount of equity increases, and so the money available for use becomes greater as the mortgage holder nears retirement.

Homes also increase in value beyond the amount of equity. Inflation blesses homeowners with a "bonus" return on investment which they did not earn but still will collect.

And this return on investment caused by increased value each year will be many times the annual gain realized in equity.

But the homeowner has more than just a return on investment. The owner has property — a valuable asset which may be sold, traded, rented, expanded, lived in kept and cherished.

The homeowner has tax benefits to reduce his income tax liability — deductions for mortgage interest and property taxes, credits for installation of energy-savers, etc.

Maybe most important, though, is that the homeowner has purchased a valuable asset at a fixed price and may have obtained a loan with fixed interest.

No matter what happens in the marketplace, the price agreed upon at time of purchase won't change. For many of us the interest rate on our mortgage loan won't change, in spite of tight or loose money conditions in the money market.

Homeowners, therefore, have an almost unmeasurable financial edge by buying a home at today's prices and paying off with tomorrow's inflated dollars.

A RENTER does have some tax advantages, but nothing like the loopholes Uncle Sam has bestowed upon homeowners.

The renter has no equity nest egg and does not get any return if the apartment happens to increase in value. In fact, just the opposite occurs. If the apartment rises in value, the landlord raises the rent.

The renter, of course, does not own the apartment and therefore has nothing to sell, trade, expand or cherish.

Instead of being able to hedge against inflation, the renter becomes victim of inflation. Once a lease agreement expires, the rent goes up and the occupant has little choice but to pay as long as rentals are in demand.

The renter has no liability beyond lease commitments. If the apartment burns down, the landlord bears the burden. If the bank forecloses, the landlord is financially liable. The renter isn't legally committed beyond the lease and therefore has mobility which the homeowner may lack.

THERE ARE MANY more factors in favor of homeownership and in favor of renting.

My object really isn't to discuss the merits of homeownership over renting. Instead I wish to point out the value of buying now and paying later and the value of ownership versus consumption.

And what I am getting to is the difference between capital budgets and operating budgets and why a consumption strategy is an unwise choice for taxpayers.

The difference comes down to taxpayers choosing whether to buy or rent — to own or consume. If those choices are really appreciated then a wise decision can be made by voters on the upcoming bond request of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Currently taxpayers are following a consumption strategy of pay now and use now. Student growth is being absorbed with operating funds — income collected from property tax and state aid in one year and spent that same year. That is a pay now, spend now approach.

Student growth has been absorbed by expanding the Extended School Year (ESY) to seven schools, switching from modular to traditional scheduling at the high schools to gain more classroom space, and increasing class sizes in some instances.

All of the above steps were paid for by taxpayers with current year income. And when the money was spent, it was gone. The expenditures were consumed — not invested. And the payment was made by current taxpayers, not future ones.

Today's dollars were consumed and the bill was determined by today's prices. Because the consumption choice was used, there was nothing left for tomorrow. The added classroom space filled up in the current year, leaving no empty seats for the following year.

Thus, the following year we had to find more classroom space and spend more current dollars to do it. Once made, the consumption choice continues the next year, and the next, and the next — indefinitely until growth stops, or until another choice is made.

THAT OTHER CHOICE is to get out of the consumption trap and into the investment mold.

That choice is to quit buying now and paying now, and start buying now and paying later.

That choice is to approve a bond issue to create a capital fund which can finance classroom space where and when it is needed.

By doing so, money is borrowed at today's interest rates to pay for the foreseeable housing needs for the next five to 10 years. The unspent money is invested until needed and earns interest until it must be spent.

If bonded money is used to build a new school, the taxpayers have an asset which is not consumed but remains the property of the district. A building is an investment — it can be sold, traded, rented, lived in, kept and cherished, etc.

A school building investment, just like a home, has a return in equity and a return in increased values. This double-return is an investment taxpayers will reap beyond being able to consume the benefits from year to year.

If a portable building is purchased, there will be an equity return although it won't increase in value. But it is property which can be sold or rented later.

A classroom wing to an existing building, or a major renovation of an existing building, also results in an equity return and an increase in value.

With bond money, the annual cost will not go up as inflation goes up, as happens when you consume operational money. And with bond money, the district retains an asset with investment return potential rather than consuming the value in one year and having nothing left the next.

A mistake was made, in my opinion, when voters rejected the last bond issue. And the reason, also in my opinion, is that voters don't really understand bond financing and the advantages of using capital instead of operational money.

The difference is complex, and even people in the education business sometimes have trouble understanding all the nuances of capital financing.

While I don't want to oversimplify a complex subject, I think the real difference between capital budgets and operational budgets can best be seen by looking at the reasons why people own homes instead of renting.

When you apply the advantages of homeownership to school financing it becomes easier to understand why it is much wiser to finance growth with bonded money.

The other reason has to do with basic fairness. By buying now and paying later, future generations which will benefit from the asset will share in the payments. And the annual costs for all is much lower by spreading out the payments over 30 years.

I am not, of course, urging voters to vote "yes" on the bond issue because such an animal doesn't even exist yet. The school board is still studying.

But a bond issue will eventually reach the ballot. So let's do some thinking now about what the real choice is before voting. Once the real choice is understood, it will be far easier to make a decision.

A grand gift for everyone

As the yuletide season rolls along, it brings to memory a phone call that eventually lead to a Christmas gift for an entire suburban area.

One evening back about in 1955 The Stroller answered a phone call with a soft quiet voice saying, "This is Sister Mary Columbine of the Felician Sisters and I would like to see you at your earliest convenience."

"I can be there in about 10 minutes," The Stroller answered, even though he never had met Sister Columbine during his visits to the convent on Schoolcraft Road.

ONCE THE BIG doors to the Mother House opened, there came the feeling that this was to be something out of the ordinary.

The quietness of the place — the gleaming tile on the floor, the eagerness of the elderly Sister in escorting him down the hall as she said, "The Sisters are waiting for you" all left an indelible impression on The Stroller.

Finally, the door to the meeting room opened. There stood two rather broad shouldered Sisters in their habits.

"I am Sister Columbine," the taller one said, "and this is Sister Calasanta."

With the greetings over and the conversation begun, Sister Columbine said, "I suppose you are wondering why I called you and invited you to come over."

"WE WOULD LIKE to have you serve as chairman of the advisory board."

The Stroller was dumbfounded for more reasons than one. He was a Protestant and a member of the Masonic fraternity.

"That will make no difference," she assured him, "if you will take me by the arm and together we stand and face the world saying, 'Come all ye who

the stroller
W.W.
Edgar

suffer,' it will prove that this hospital will be for everybody."

From that moment on he enjoyed every minute of one of the most interesting times of his life. Working with the Sisters and the sincere way in which they handled business affairs provided a lesson he could not have learned in school.

FOR THE NEXT two years the dream of a hospital in the area moved closer to reality.

First, the ground breaking in 1957; then the corner stone laying with Jim Hare, Secretary of State, speaking; then the dedication with the late Sen. Phil Hart delivering the dedication address with The Stroller as chairman.

It was a day to be remembered. At long last the building was complete and the dream realized.

But it wasn't until the day it was opened to receive its first patients that the real significance was felt.

It was December 8, 1957, just as the community was preparing for the holiday season. All those things came to mind the other day as The Stroller drove down Levan Road and looked at the hospital that now boasts 355 beds.

He couldn't help choking just a bit. While the Sisters are celebrating the hospital's 20th anniversary, he is reminded again that it came as a Christmas gift to the entire area. Merry Christmas.

Off the Walls

By NANCY WALLS SMITH

A sick mother is a busy mother

Does anybody know that moms get the flu? And if they do know, do they care?

Mothers don't get the flu. Oh, we get the upchucks and the trots, just like everyone else in the family.

What we don't get is the "privileges" that go with having the flu. We don't get to lie in bed and moan all day. Or, like hubby, lie on the couch and moan at the TV. We have no one at our beck and call to summon our elixirs and soothe our fevered brows.

When mom's been wasted by a virus, it's still "business as usual." Wash those dishes! "Mom, I'm hungry!" "Where's my boots?" Tote that barge, lift that bale. Oh, groan. I think I'm gonna die. But I'll try to have the laundry folded and put away before I do.

Today as I lie in my bed heavy into Day No. 2 of a rather unpleasant case of influenza, I have been fantasizing on what I would do if I could be single for just the next 24 hours. Oh, how lovely it would be to read, sleep, and sip hot tea. Undisturbed. Just me and my misery.

But instead I have been called forth from my haven to serve breakfast and lunch, to suit-up and unsuit two small boys three times a piece in their complete outdoor winter ensembles, and to generally pick up and straighten the house to at least the point where it wouldn't startle anyone should they happen to drop by.

Hubby is lying on the couch looking a little green around the edges, which gives me a feeling of sinister delight because this same man kept lecturing me last night that it was all a problem of "mind over matter," "self control," and "physical stamina."

Fortunately, I was able to miss most of the lecture because I kept rushing off the bathroom. I can't wait to see how "Old Mind Over Matter" explains the frequent trips he'll, no doubt, soon be making.

This particular strain of the dreaded flu was introduced into our house five days ago by our 5-year-old who thoughtfully brought it home from school. Since we already had a pretty strong case of the coughing-cold going with my 3-year-old and myself, no one was particularly thrilled at this new turn of events.

So Tuesday night it was me and my ailing 5-year-old up all night changing linens and PJs at unreasonable hours of the night. Wednesday night it was son Number 2's cough that kept demanding my maternal attention. I'll spare you any of the more nauseating details.

It's been five days and long nights now that this family has been playing "Pass the virus" and I'm the lucky one who has to stay up every night to minister to the stricken in my capacity as mother, nurse and "person in charge of the throw-up pot." How did I get this job?

Let those who care be forewarned: If I don't get a solid eight hours of much needed sleep tonight with nary an interruption for even so much as one teaspoon of lousy cough medicine I shall not be held accountable.

Oh, groan, moan, and whimper.

The Bottom Line

Tax audit help

By DANIEL HERRIMAN

(The author, Daniel Herriman of Plymouth, is a partner of General Business Services which offers business consulting services to small businesses.)

Although there is no sure-fire way of determining who will be audited at any given time, the Internal Revenue Service does provide some insights into its selection process.

The Taxpayer Compliance Measurement Program (TCMP) is a random statistical sampling, by computer, of a relatively small number of returns.

Audits of these returns are used to pinpoint reporting problem areas and to establish statistical criteria for the selection of other returns for audit.

The Discriminate Function (D.F.) is a statistically-based formula which selects returns for audit as a result of computer determination that these returns appear to have the best chance of generating additional tax revenue if audited. The criteria may have been established by the TCMP mentioned above.

SOME RETURNS are selected strictly by chance. The number varies from year to year depending on available IRS personnel.

Individual returns with large refunds or very high income (adjusted gross income of $100,000 and over) have a better-than-average chance of audit, or at least of review for audit potential.

Although the IRS tries to complete audits of selected returns within 26 months of the filing deadline, this objective can't always be met.

Generally though, returns must be audited within the period of the Statute of Limitations, which is normally three years. This period can be extended, however, if gross income has been seriously understated, fraud is suspected, no returns have been filed or if the return is incomplete.

IF YOUR TAX RETURN is selected for audit, there's no need to panic.

The auditing of returns is a routine part of our tax system, and many taxpayers will have their returns audited sometime during their lives.

The first thing to do if you are to be audited is to contact your business counselor or accountant to prepare you for the audit. Be sure you have all the necessary, pertinent records available for the tax examiner.

Sometimes the return will be accepted as filed and no further action will be posed any changes, a further review is necessary to determine whether an appeal should be filed. There are several levels of appeal which can be pursued if you determine that your case has merit.

The first level of appeal is the District Conference. A conferee from the district director's office reviews with you the decision of the first examining agent. Normally this person has some authority to settle cases which the first examiner lacked.

The next level is to have your case reviewed by an Appellate Conferee. This person is usually highly skilled technically and even more inclined to attempt to settle cases to the mutual satisfaction all involved.

If an agreement still has not been reached, you have two alternatives in the Tax Court: the "regular court" and the "Small Claims Tax Court." In the regular court you will need an experienced tax attorney. If the disputed amount is small enough, you can handle it yourself in the small claims court.

In many cases, the IRS will attempt to settle the case before it goes to trial. They tend to be more lenient at this stage.

Plymouth gets grant funds for home service program

The city of Plymouth received some good news early this month which results in some good news for area senior citizens.

The city has received $7,800 in federal money to help operate a home services program for senior citizens in Plymouth, Plymouth Township and both Northvilles.

The program had been running on pledged contributions from those municipalities after a $25,000 grant was denied back in September.

Although $7,800 is a far cry from its originally requested assistance, the maintenance service can run with some modification for at least the next six months, says Plymouth's outgoing assistant manager John Zech.

The money is used to pay for such around-the-house work as putting up window screens, shoveling snow-covered sidewalks and minor home repairs for the elderly.

The Wayne County Area Agency on Aging will channel the money toward Plymouth within the next few weeks, says City Manager Henry Graper.

The county agency decided to award

IRS needs tax aides

The Internal Revenue Service is looking for persons to be trained as volunteer income tax assistants, a program the agency calls VITA.

IRS district director R.L. Plate said VITA is designed to provide free tax assistance in neighborhood locations to senior citizens, low-income, military or non-English speaking individuals who cannot travel to an IRS office and cannot afford to pay for professional guidance.

VITA volunteers do not need special backgrounds in law or accounting. A general educational background is all that's necessary. The IRS training and materials for VITA are provided free by IRS, Plate said.

VITA programs can be sponsored by local civic or fraternal organizations, educational institutions, churches and social groups. Most VITA volunteers provide assistance in their own neighborhood at schools, churches and libraries that are conveniently located for taxpayers who cannot travel to an IRS office.

If you are interested in volunteering for VITA, or have a group available to sponsor a VITA program in your neighborhood, call 237-0880 for details.

the amount to Plymouth, which coordinates services for all four municipalities, when it discovered unspent funds by cities in other counties.

By January the county agency will learn if additional money is available from the federal government to help fund cities such as Plymouth. Also, funds returned back to the agency will be rechanneled.

SINCE THE PROGRAM has been operating on contributions, some 100 hours of work have been clocked. Some 80 percent of the senior citizens helped have been Plymouth residents, Zech said.

The only requirement for assistance is that the citizen be at least 60 and a resident of any of the four communities. There is no charge.

The $25,000 grant application was turned down by the county agency because of an incomplete application form sent by Plymouth.

This is the first year Plymouth applied on behalf of itself and other area communities. Previously, the program was run by the Canton-Northville-Plymouth family YMCA which dropped out to return to more traditional Y services.

Sworn in by father

When Meaghan E. Ford was sworn into the Navy this month the Plymouth Police Department and the Army were represented. But not because Ms. Ford was a fugitive but because she was sworn in by her father — Plymouth Police Chief Tim Ford. Chief Ford also happens to be a retired Army colonel with 31 years military service to his credit, nine of which were spent as a Navy enlisted man. Meaghan, a 1977 graduate of Plymouth Canton High, attended Schoolcraft College before her enlistment. After completing basic training at Orlando, Fla., Ms. Ford will receive technical training as a hospital corpsman at Greer Lakes, Ill., and at Fort Sam Houston, Tex. She will specialize in physical and occupational therapy. Also shown participating in the ceremony is her mother, Alice L. Ford.

The Warming Oven by Emily Watson

Home for the holidays!

The boys arrive from school, toss their duffle bags of dirty laundry in the middle of the living room, give Momma a quick kiss and say, "What's for dinner?"

Depending on which boy it is, the right answer is Chicken Leg Pie or Barbecued Spareribs.

Since the sauce for barbecued spareribs is also good on chicken, I thought I would share these two family favorites with you.

With chicken on sale at any supermarkets, it's a good way to fill up hungry families without breaking the budget. They're also different enough that you can get away with serving them around that turkey dinner without getting protests about an excess of "fowl food."

CHICKEN LEG PIE

Lightly flour 6 chicken legs and thighs. Brown on all sides in 6 tbsp. butter. Add 4 slices bacon, cut in small pieces, 2 finely chopped onions, 1 crushed garlic clove, 1 crumbled bay leaf, 1 tsp. thyme, and salt and pepper to taste.

Add 1 can drained button mushrooms and 1 cup white wine.

Cover and simmer 45 minutes. Add a little more wine if it cooks down too much. Cool, and remove chicken to a pie dish. Add 4 hardboiled eggs, halved and pour pan liquid all over. Top with a crust of rolled-out pie dough, cut vent in top and insert paper cornucopia (rolled up to vent steam). Brush pastry with 1 egg yolk beaten with 1 tbsp. cream. Bake in 375 degree oven 30 minutes or until crust is brown. Serves 6.

(Incidentally, if you want to save on the high cost of chicken legs, here's a good way. I always buy whole fryers and cut them up for three-way distribution. The legs and thighs go in the pie; the breasts are for salads or for chicken with cheese sauce; and everything that is left goes in a pot for stew or soup.)

COLONIAL BARBECUE SAUCE

(Good on chicken, spareribs or pork chops)

1 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1 1/2 cups catsup
1 cup vinegar
2 tbsp. Worcestershire sauce
2 tbsp. minced onion
1 tbsp. lemon juice
1 clove garlic, minced

Combine all ingredients and simmer 20 minutes. A little is also good with baked beans. Store in the refrigerator. I usually make a double recipe and freeze half.

One thing my whole family always expects for Christmas breakfast is kidney stew. Butchers used to give kidneys away, because not many people appreciated them.

But those days are gone forever, and you're lucky to even find them these days, especially the baby beef kidneys, which are the most tender.

BEEF KIDNEY STEW

For beef kidneys, soak overnight in the refrigerator in salt water. If they are baby beef, soaking overnight is not necessary.

Cut the kidneys into stew-size chunks, removing fat and skin.

Parboil them for about 10-15 minutes in water to cover. Rinse the kidneys under cool running water, and discard the liquid.

Cover with water again; and set them back on the stove to cook. Salt to taste, and add a cut-up onion or two.

Simmer until tender, two to three hours.

Cool overnight. Christmas morning, skim off the fat, and using flour, make a gravy.

Serve on toast.

(As far as the dirty laundry is concerned, I've convinced them they can do their own, but do suggest that they use some bleach.)

FESTIVE WALNUT FRUITCAKES

SPICY WALNUT FRUITCAKE

1 cup Walnuts
1 cup seedless raisins
2/3 cup currants
1 cup snipped Prunes
1/2 cup sliced Dried Apricots
1/2 cup halved candied cherries
1/4 cup chopped candied orange peel
1/4 cup chopped candied lemon peel
1/3 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon allspice
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon mace
1/4 teaspoon ginger
2 large eggs, beaten
1/8 teaspoon baking soda
1/4 cup golden molasses
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour

Coarsely chop walnuts and raisins; rinse and drain currants. Combine well with prunes, remaining fruits and peels. Cream butter, sugar, salt and spices until fluffy. Beat in eggs. Add soda, molasses and flour; mix to moderately stiff batter. Combine with walnut-fruit mixture. Pack batter into 6-cup mold or pan. Bake at 275°F. about 2-1/2 hours until cake tests done. Cool, then remove from pan; wrap in foil and store in cool place. Batter measures about 5-1/2 cups and weighs about 2 pounds, 10 ounces. Makes one cake that may be eaten after 48 hours storing.

BANANA WALNUT FRUITCAKE

1-1/2 cups Walnuts
2 cups (1 pound) mixed candied fruits
1-3/4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon baking soda
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
2/3 cup butter or margarine
3/4 cup granulated sugar
2 large eggs
1 cup mashed banana
(2 large bananas)

Chop walnuts coarsely. Chop candied fruits fine and combine with walnuts; set aside. Resift flour with baking powder, salt, baking soda and nutmeg. Cream butter with sugar until fluffy. Beat in eggs, one at a time. Blend in flour mixture alternately with mashed banana at low speed on mixer, or by hand. Pour batter over fruit-walnut mixture and blend well. Turn into a well-greased tube pan (about 2-quart capacity). Bake cake on lowest rack at 300°F. for about 1-1/4 hours until pick inserted in center comes out clean and dry. Let stand 15 minutes in pan, then invert onto wire rack to cool. Serve plain or with a light sifting of powdered sugar over the top. Makes 1 cake, about 3 pounds.

DOUBLE WALNUT FRUITCAKE

2-1/2 cups Walnuts
1 cup candied pineapple chunks
1 cup halved candied cherries
1 cup snipped Prunes
1/2 cup golden raisins
1-1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2/3 cup butter or margarine
1 cup brown sugar, packed
3 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla

Chop 1 cup walnuts coarsely; combine with candied fruits, prunes and raisins. Grate remaining 1-1/2 cups walnuts with Mouli grater (or put in blender, about 1/4 cup at a time, and blend to a fine meal). Resift flour with baking powder and salt. Cream butter and brown sugar together well. Beat in eggs, one at a time (mixture will look curdled). Blend in vanilla, then flour mixture and grated walnuts. Fold in walnut-fruit mixture. Turn into a well-greased 12 x 4-1/4 x 3-inch loaf pan, or other pan with 2-quart capacity. Place a shallow pan of hot water on floor of oven. Bake cake on lowest rack at 300°F. for about 2 hours, until cake tests done. Cool in pan 30 minutes. Turn out onto wire rack to finish cooling. Makes 1 loaf, about 3-1/4 pounds. To decorate: Mix a little powdered sugar with water to thin pouring consistency. Drizzle over top of cake. Pile mixed candied fruits and peels down center.

The Happy Cooker

by Elayne Susan Stulberg

Pears are versatile as well as delectable

While most of us have heard the expression, "good things come in pairs," many of us are unaware of the versatility of the delectable pear which boasts 3,000 known varieties. Commercially, it is exceeded in importance only by the apple to which it is related.

The pear has been cultivated since before the Christian era. In fact, history reveals that Homer referred to this juicy fruit as "the gift of the gods" centuries before Christ.

Pears enhance the taste of many recipes since they complement so many flavors. Extremely versatile, they may be used in salads, desserts, baking, poultry dressings and with sweet potato. However, if you have tired of eating them fresh and the above-mentioned cooking ideas do not appeal to you, try (hic) drinking (hic) it. The alcoholic drink which is called "perry" is made by fermenting pear juice and is produced in those northern countries where warm climates make it much easier to grow quality pears and apples than grapes.

The winter pears available fall through April include Anjou, Bosc and the all-purpose Bartlett. They are all marvelous tasting, cooked or fresh. The Bartlett pear is, undoubtedly, the one variety people are most familiar with for eating and cooking as well as canning.

If you are a pear lover, make certain to take full advantage by using them for cooking as well as munching. When reading pear recipes you will note most call for them in cup measures. To guide you on retail amounts to purchase, keep in mind that four medium size pears are approximately one pound; sliced they will yield two cups.

PEAR BREAD

1/2 cup butter or margarine
3/4 cup brown sugar
3/4 cup granulated sugar
1 large egg
2 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
1 tsp. baking soda
1/4 tsp. nutmeg
1 1/2 tsp. cinnamon
Dash of salt
2 cups drained, chopped, canned pears
1/2 cup walnut chips, chopped

Cream butter and sugars. Add egg and mix well by beating. Sift together, flour, soda, nutmeg, cinnamon and salt. Add to butter-sugar mixture; stir in pears and nuts. Pour into 9-inch greased loaf pan. Bake in preheated 350-degree oven for 1 hour. Do not remove from pan. Bread must cool. Yields one loaf bread with 8-10 slices.

PEAR PRESERVES

(Excellent to have on hand for crepe fillings, on toasted rolls or warm breads. Also delicious as dessert and ice cream topping) combine 4 cups peeled and chopped pears. Add 1 cup sugar, 1 tbsp. lemon juice, 1/4 tsp. cinnamon and a dash of salt. Cook, stirring occasionally, until mixture reaches spreading consistency or about 35 minutes. Yields approximately 1 1/2 cups.

KICKY DESSERT PEARS

1 cup port wine (no cooking wine please)
1 cup sugar
3/4 inch stick cinnamon
8 pears, peeled, stem intact.
1 tbsp. butter or margarine, softened at room temperature

1 1/2 cups powdered sugar
2-3 tbsp. cooked pear syrup

Combine wine, sugar and cinnamon in large size saucepan. Bring to boil and immediately add pears. Lower heat to moderately low temperature. Cover and poach for 25 minutes or until pears are tender. Remove 2-3 tbsp. syrup from pan and reserve. Place pears and remaining syrup in one large serving dish or you may use individual dessert plates; chill thoroughly. When pears have cooled, drizzle White Glaze (see below) over top, letting some run down sides. Return to refrigerator until serving time.

WHITE GLAZE: Blend butter and sugar with enough reserved syrup to make a smooth, slightly runny frosting. Serves 8.

Byrd's Kitchen

Low-calorie meals help later

With Christmas so close, most homemakers are thinking ahead, planning THE meal of the year.

At the same time, tonight's dinner must be prepared. Keeping it simple will allow more time for wrapping some of those presents you bought today.

And because all those sugarplums dancing in our heads seem to lead to extra inches on the hips, some low-calorie meal planning at home can help ease the impact.

Fish, low-calorie, high protein food, makes an ideal addition to the week's menus at this point.

A favorite dish of mine is baked whole trout. It is easily assembled and when it goes into the oven, the cook can prop those shopping-weary feet on the nearest hammock and relax enough to enjoy the meal later.

I prefer fresh fish for this, but frozen will also do. The fish man will scale, clean and behead the fresh one for you.

Frozen fish should be thoroughly defrosted and drained.

BAKED TROUT

1 1/2 lb. to 2 lb. whole fish, cleaned or thoroughly defrosted
1/2 stick butter or margarine, cut into thin pats
1 to 2 thinly sliced lemons
Salt and pepper

Place the whole fish in the center of a piece of foil large enough to close around it. Layer lemon slices and butter pats in the stomach cavity and on top of the fish. Close the foil. Bake in 350-degree oven 30 to 35 minutes.

The fish should be moist and flaky with good flavor enhanced by the lemon and butter.

Questions, comments or recipes should be addressed to Vivian Byrd, The Eccentric Newspapers, 1225 Bowers, Birmingham Mich. 48012. Please include name, address and telephone number. All correspondence will be answered.

Why Doesn't August Sebastiani Change His Ways?

Some people say that my father, August, is old-fashioned and just plain stubborn. He insists on making our wines in the unhurried, old-world way of his forefathers. Naturally, he has adopted some of the modern techniques that make winemaking chores a little easier, but when it comes to taking short cuts, my father just won't budge.

Sebastiani wines are still softened and mellowed in redwood casks, then further aged to the peak of maturity in small, oaken barrels. It takes longer and is costlier, but it makes the difference between good wines and great wines. It's a family tradition of three generations.

Because my father won't change his ways, you can depend on the quality of our wines, and we wouldn't have it any other way. You won't either after you've tasted Sebastiani wines. If you would like to learn more about them and how they are made, I'll be happy to send you our free monthly newsletter.

Trekkies applaud 'Star Trek' cast in screen version

To the everlasting joy of millions of Trekkies, "Star Trek — The Motion Picture" (G) has finally lifted off. Loyal fans of the three-season television series, as well as those who became hooked on the reruns, have been waiting a decade for this event.

Gene Roddenberry, the producer, and Robert Wise, the director, somehow managed to reassemble the original cast; consequently, watching the movie unfold is like meeting old friends after a long absence.

Enthusiastic audiences have demonstrated their appreciation for the familiar faces with bursts of applause at the appearance of each of the old regulars: William Shatner as Admiral Kirk (promoted from captain), Leonard Nimoy as Spock, DeForest Kelley as Doc McCoy, James Doohan as Scotty (still insisting from the engine room that he's giving it all the power he can), George Takei as Sulu, Nichelle Nichols as Uhura, Walter Koenig as Chekov and Majel Barrett as Dr. Chapel (formerly Nurse Chapel).

To this core group, two new, complementary personages have been added — Stephen Collins as Commander Decker and Persis Khambatta as Ilia, a striking, bald Deltan navigator.

A SUBPLOT focuses on friction between Kirk who "hasn't logged a single star mile in two years," and Decker who has been commanding the Enterprise and now must step aside for Kirk to lead a vital mission.

Otherwise, the characterizations are much the same. Spock is imperturbable, McCoy emotional and Kirk confident. Humor percolates through their verbal skirmishes and surfaces again in an unusual cosmic put-down, when the Enterprise's crew is referred to as "carbon infestations," like a fungus defiling an immaculate ship.

The Enterprise itself is both old and new. The spaceship has been refitted, made faster, more complex and, of course, more visually exciting than ever before. Its new engines mean greater warp power for its crucial mission.

An unknown and powerful force, destroying everything in its path, is headed toward earth. The Enterprise is sent to investigate the threat and stop it.

The story is slim — a one-hour television show expanded to two — but who cares when there is so much to see? The scale, the imagery, the special effects are spectacular — dazzling geysers of light, bursts of color and awesome settings all worked out by technical wizards Douglas Trumbull and John Dykstra.

THE ALIEN FORCE, an ominous cloudlike formation, utilizes some type of plasma energy never encountered before. Even Spock is puzzled about its nature.

The problem is not too unlike those encountered in the television series. Is there a mind directing the force? How can it be reached when it doesn't acknowledge any communications? And even if it can be reached, how can it be diverted from its deadly course by a relatively weak spaceship?

"Star Trek," the TV series, often had unusual and thoughtful endings. "Star Trek — The Motion Picture" does no less. The conclusion is a masterful twist, a witty and provocative comment on man's inventiveness.

Just for fun

New movie comedies include "Scavenger Hunt," (above), with Ruth Gordon fussing over Willie Aames in this scene. The Melvin Simon Production released by 20th Century Fox also stars Richard Benjamin, James Coco, Seatman Crothers, Cloris Leachman, Cleavon Little, Roddy McDowall, Robert Morley, Richard Mulligan and Tony Randall. (Below) more laughs are coming with "Going in Style," a Warner Bros. release. Art Carney (left) and George Burns live it up at a Las Vegas casino, trying to "break the bank" with money they just got by robbing a bank, in New York. "Going in Style" also stars Lee Strasberg.

Glimpses

NEW RELEASES

ALL THAT JAZZ (R). Bob Fosse's rowdy, autobiographical musical about hard-working, hard-driving choreographer.

AND JUSTICE FOR ALL (R). Al Pacino is a young-trial lawyer dedicated to his profession and profoundly troubled by the legal system.

APOCALYPSE NOW (R). Francis Ford Coppola's epic film of the Vietnam war interwoven with the characters and stunning impact of Joseph Conrad's "Heart of Darkness."

AVALANCHE EXPRESS (PG). Adventure-suspense drama about KGB agent defecting to the West. Filmed in Italy and Germany; climactic scene is, you guessed it, avalanche.

BEING THERE. Peter Sellers is a TV-educated economist in satire that pokes fun at our political and social conceits.

BLACK HOLE (PG). Disney's expensive entry into sci-fi, space adventure with strong cast and action story.

BLACK STALLION (G). Excellent film about a boy, a horse and much more. Mickey Rooney gives terrific performance as seedy, ex-jockey.

CHAPTER TWO (PG). Autobiographical Neil Simon story about a man starting over after death of his wife.

CUBA. Sean Connery and Brooke Adams in romantic adventure duri last days of Batista regime in Cuba.

THE DEER HUNTER (R). An emotionally gripping and violent film about the lives of three friends from a small steeltown as they are affected by the Vietnam war.

ELECTRIC HORSEMAN. Jane Fonda is a reporter and Robert Redford an ex-rodeo champion in satirical romance.

THE FISH THAT SAVED PITTSBURGH (PG). Actors and pro-athletes abound in comedy about a water boy who revitalizes a slumping basketball team.

GOING IN STYLE (PG). Offbeat comedy about three pensioners who decide to "go in style."

HOT STUFF (PG). Dom DeLuise directed and stars in slick comedy about undercover police fencing operation.

THE IN-LAWS (PG). Hilarious comedy with Peter Falk and Alan Arkin as near-relatives who not only plan a wedding but ripoff the U. S. Mint.

THE JERK (R). Steve Martin in comedy about a white boy raised by black sharecroppers.

KRAMER VS. KRAMER (PG). Perceptive, well-acted drama about a busted marriage and a custody battle. Dustin Hoffman and Meryl Streep star.

LOST AND FOUND (PG). George Segal and Glenda Jackson are paired again in romantic comedy about a "fractured" couple who meet in the Swiss Alps and decide to yodel on through life together.

LUNA (R). Uneasy and self-conscious film of widowed opera singer (Jill Clayburgh) in incestuous relationship with her teenage son.

THE MAIN EVENT (PG). Barbra Streisand is a perfume manufacturer who manages a retired boxer, Ryan O'Neal, in comedy about the fight game.

MANHATTAN (R). The inhabitants are somewhat frayed, but the Big Apple looks glorious in Woody Allen's witty peek at the pairings and partings among New York literati.

METEOR (PG). Disaster movies aren't big this year, but this is a big disaster movie about a five-mile-wide meteor on a collision course with Earth. Sean Connery, Natalie Wood, Karl Malden and many others in the large, competent cast.

MR. MIKE'S MONDO VIDEO (R). TV film is collection of bizarre events in continuing, exploitive, downgraded rip-off of "Mondo Cane."

1941 (PG). John Belushi and host of others in comedy about mythical Japanese attack on Los Angeles.

PEPPERMINT SODA (PG). Charming account of two adolescent sisters growing up in Paris in 1936.

PROMISES IN THE DARK (PG). Well-acted film with Marsha Mason as a doctor dealing with a terminally ill, young patient.

QUODDROPHENIA (R). Story of disillusioned young man during '60s era of mods and rockers in England. Music by The Who.

ROCKY II (PG). Sylvester Stallone as Rocky Balboa, the over-the-hill boxer, returns for a rematch with the heavyweight champ.

THE ROSE (R). Bette Midler as '60s rock star living life of emotional extremes that suggests some parallels with career of Janis Joplin.

RUNNING (PG). Susan Anspach is the wife of Michael Douglas who is training to qualify for the Olympic marathon.

SCAVENGER HUNT (PG). Cloris Leachman, Richard Benjamin and Tony Randall in comedy about an elusive inheritance.

THE SEDUCTION OF JOE TYNAN (R). Familiar story about the pressures on a "decent" politician; Alan Alda. Hackneyed situations are redeemed by the acting of Barbara Harris, Meryl Streep and Rip Torn.

SKATETOWN U.S.A. (PG). The roller-disco craze gets its due in film about a championship derby and the hot rollers participating.

STAR TREK — THE MOTION PICTURE (G). Space-film epic brings together familiar faces of Enterprise crew in semi-new setting and with razzle-dazzle special effects.

Raven to hold improv classes

Improvisational theater began 20 years ago in Chicago under the direction of Viola Spolin and was further developed by her son, Paul Sills, originator of The Second City Improvisational Theatre.

Improvisational training has been instrumental in the development of such talents as Alan Alda, Alan Arkin, Mike Nichols, Elaine May, Joan Rivers, David Steinberg, Ann Meara and Jerry Stiller, Valerie Harper, Gilda Radner, John Belushi, Bill Murray, Dan Ackroyd and Robin Williams to name a few.

Classes in this technique are now being offered in Detroit by Jonathon Round. After touring and promoting his Westbound Records release, "Jonathon Round," Round completed a series of workshops conducted at The Second City under the direction of Del Close, one of the nation's leading improvisational directors.

Round became involved in the methods used to train improvisational actors and actresses but was dissatisfied with the extent to which these techniques were applied.

Applications for the workshops are available at the Raven Gallery, 29101 Greenfield, Southfield. For further information, call the Raven at 557-2622 after 2 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday.

"Will I ever understand how this works," wonders Sue Kolpacke of Livonia as she examines a motor controller during a tour at Henry Ford Community College for women interested in a technical education. (Staff photos by Bill Bresler).

Willow Durocher of Plymouth sells steel and also is general manager of a steel company. That information intrigued women who came to Henry Ford Community College to hear about opportunities for women in technical fields.

A woman's place may be in the world of technology

By SHERRY KAHAN

You know that something has changed when you hear a roomful of women talking about heat treat, analog signals, instrumentation, traducers and dynamometers.

What has happened is that women are beginning to warm up to technology. As a result Henry Ford Community College now has women in all its technology courses. There were none five years ago.

Recently when the college invited area women to come and hear about its two-year course in industrial technology, 40 women turned up. There were only 20 at a similar meeting previously.

They learned about occupations that included scarcely any females until a few years ago. They also received information on how to move toward such occupations through courses offered by the college. Discussed were courses in electronics, computer science, drafting and manufacturing engineering technology, which includes metallurgy.

Speaking to the future technocrats were several women, mostly graduates of HFCCC's two-year associate degree program. They reported on their jobs and mentioned starting salaries in the $15,000-$18,000 range.

WILLOW DUROCHER of Plymouth spoke from the lofty position as general manager and salesperson at the Pennsylvania Steel Co. in Redford. Yet only a few years ago when she went on one of those first early interviews she couldn't help but wonder if there was really a place for women in industrial life.

"I went to the Saginaw and Central Foundry," she said, adding with a laugh, "and I found no jobs for women in the lobby."

Metallurgy is her field, and she regards it as one "completely open to women." She thinks her two years at HFCC provided "a phenomenal metallurgy background." She then noted, "I love what I do, and you can't beat metallurgy for money."

Karen McKenzie is another woman for whom a change in national thinking has meant a chance to develop and profit by the scientific side of her nature. She completed the two-year course in electronics at HFCC and repairs computers for Eastman Kodak.

"The best thing about the program I took was the hands-on work," she told her audience. "You can go into a company and know how to use the meters. The equipment here is up-to-date and the same as that in the field."

Her starting salary with Kodak is $18,000, she said.

A TEST TECHNICIAN for the Ford Motor Co., Liz Bragg uses traducers to pick up stress and strain on metals. Not having been an HFCC student, she made a point of looking at its equipment before talking to the women.

"The electronic equipment I saw is exactly what I use in the lab," she said. "I could have learned an awful lot here."

Dearborn Heights resident Fran Horvat felt she acquired a broad knowledge from her course in manufacturing engineering technology, which is essential in her work monitoring a dynamometer for the Valeron Corp. of Troy. This machine tells her how much power a machine is capable of producing. She also spends a portion of her time staring through a microscope trying to discover why a piece of metal broke.

"The key is being able to understand what people are talking about," she said. "We learned here to think and be resourceful."

"The pleasure you get from seeing a program work is very rewarding," according to Carol Ramsey. She writes programs for factory machines that are run by computers. She explained that when the company wants a certain part produced, it expresses its wishes in its own language. She has to "translate" this into computer language.

WITH INTEREST NOW kindled in the idea of technical jobs, the women

Tuition help is available

Stories by Sherry Kahan
Photos by Bill Bresler

Displaced homemakers and single heads of families are among those eligible to receive federal funds for college tuition. If they meet qualifications, they can get money through the Vocational Education Tuition Reimbursement Program to use in schools like Schoolcraft College and Henry Ford Community College.

Apprenticeship tuition help is also available. The federal government has mandated that one out of every six persons entering apprenticeship programs must be female.

Those who qualify for the vocational education tuition reimbursement program are students who have not had recent full time skilled employment. They also are those who lack job skills necessary to support themselves and their dependents. They must be receiving no other federal assistance.

THE ASSISTANCE is designed to aid four groups.

- A displaced homemaker, who has been a homemaker for 10 years, and whose marriage has dissolved thus making it necessary for her to find employment. It also applies to women on government assistance (such as Social Security for a child under 18) whose income will stop one year from the time of the application.

- The part-time homemaker who is also is a part-time wage earner. Those seeking help in this category must have put in 10 years as a homemaker and interested in moving into full-time work.

- The single head of a household, not currently receiving Aid to Dependent Children.

- The man or woman who wishes training in a field not traditional to his or her sex.

Edward Allard of Henry Ford Community College regards the opening of apprenticeship programs to women a great educational and employment opportunity.

Director of related trades at the college, he says there is "a national move to include women into apprenticeships under Title 29."

"The way we look at it," he explained, "women were stifled by a lack of upward mobility on skilled trades jobs. That barrier had to be broken. The government requires the companies to provide more opportunity to women in skilled trades."

TO ENTER an apprenticeship in manufacturing industries, Allard said the applicant must first be hired by a company. Generally this means work in a production or blue collar job.

Allard thinks that apprenticeship openings coming up will mainly to women because of the one-in-six federal mandate.

"The companies tell me it is extremely difficult at first to interest women to enter jobs traditionally oriented to men," he said. "The personnel departments have to convince them it would be a good thing to be a millwright, a plumber, a pipefitter or a machine repairperson."

Testing is the next step in the career of a potential apprenticeship. Applicants must have math skills and know something about science, basic mechanics and blueprint reading. At the present time the United Auto Workers and the Urban League offer outreach programs to those who might be deficient in these skills. They will help prepare them for the test.

Once an individual has passed the test and is assigned to a program, she must sign a paper which outlines her training. Her program is then approved by the U.S. Bureau of Apprenticeship Training.

As part of the program she will have to take courses in related instruction at a local community college. Tuition will be paid by her employer.

Canton resident Linda Lewis is familiar with hydraulic machinery like this because of her HFCC classes in metallurgical engineering technology.

Eleanor Kolpacke, who joined her daughter, Sue, on the technology tour, will soon be signing up for electronics courses that will explain to her the mysteries of this equipment.

Pamela Cionca of Canton Township likes to work with her hands. Before long her classes in electronics should teach her what flipping that switch will do.

Technological courses on display

were taken on a tour of several classrooms in the Patterson Technical Building.

John Pelong, chairman of the electronic technology department, was tour guide. The women had met him earlier when he assured them they didn't have to start their academic career with calculus.

"We have many math courses," he said. "We help you select one in which you will be successful."

The tour took the women through room after room of the kind of equipment that beeps, rumbles, rattles and rolls for American industry.

Pamela Cionca of Canton Township paid close attention to the dials and wires in the electronics area.

"I am only taking math now at the college," she said. "But I am planning to enroll in electronics for the January semester. What's nice here is that you can start math on any level. I had to start with elementary algebra, and I think they have two classes under that."

Mrs. Cionca settled on electronics as a career choice because "I have been searching for something." In a class she saw a movie on electronics and found it interesting. She came to the meeting that day as a follow up, and liked what she saw.

Rosie Field finds home at museum

Rosie Field, who is close to 70 years old and bears the scars of time and love, has found a permanent home. Rosie is a doll which belonged to a much-beloved former Plymouth elementary school principal, Mildred Field.

She grew up in Bangor and received the doll when she was a little girl. When Miss Field retired as principal of Starkweather School seven years ago, after 45 years as a teacher and administrator, she gave the doll to a collector, Anne Welch.

Miss Welch taught under Miss Field at Starkweather before going to Farland School, where she was principal. Presently Miss Welch is teaching second grade at Fiegel School.

SHE DECIDED that her class should present the doll to Fiegel and Mildred Field Elementary School students.

The presentation was made to museum director, Barbara Saunders, and Betty Childs after the students toured the museum.

Mrs. Saunders said that the doll will go into the museum's first floor doll shop, joining other antique dolls.

Rosie has a metal head and a kid body. She was "born" in Germany.

"Metal dolls were popular for a time," said Miss Welch, "because little girls would often break the heads of the china or bisque dolls."

But there was a problem with the metal head dolls. The metal wouldn't hold paint.

ROSIE'S FACE is a little chipped, and her once-white leather body is darkened. But she's sporting a new dress and bonnet made by Miss Welch to go with her original blue coat and brown petticoat.

And 30 years from now, Fiegel and Field students will likely be taking their children to the museum and telling them about the doll they presented to it.

Miss Field, who is living in South Haven, is happy with that idea.

Rosie Field was presented to the Plymouth Historical Museum by Tracey Garcia, 7, and Brian Fizia, 7. Receiving the gift was museum director Barbara Saunders, left, as Anne Welch, second grade teacher at Fiegel School looks on. Both Tracey and Brian attend Fiegel Elementary, but Tracey used to go to Field Elementary School. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Scouts offer swim lessons

Senior Troop 501 is planning a swim program for Girl Scouts in Plymouth, Northville and Canton.

Registered Brownies, Juniors and Cadettes in these areas should register between 7 and 9 p.m. Monday, Jan. 7, in the Scout Room of First Presbyterian Church, Plymouth.

Ten 45-minute swim classes will be given on Saturdays from Jan. 12 to March 22 in Central Middle School pool, Main Street, Plymouth.

Fee is $15. Registered scouts must bring a parent to registration. Health forms and permission slips will be available at the church.

Categories will be beginner, advanced beginner, and intermediate swimmers. There will also be a basic water and safety aide course for those who have passed swimmers' tests.

For further information, call Senior Scout advisor Martha Bentley, 453-4515.

Braunscheidel-Goll

Tamara Irene Gall became the bride of Jeffrey James Braunscheidel in a ceremony in Faith Evangelical Lutheran Church, Dexter.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Goll of Ann Arbor, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. James Braunscheidel of Napier Road, Plymouth.

The Rev. Mark Porinski officiated at the ceremony.

The bride chose a gown of white silk organza, featuring a Cluney lace bodice and fitted lace sleeves, accented with seed pearls and a cathedral length train. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses, baby's breath and stephanotis with white streamers.

Cheryl Lynn Bartel of Whitmore Lake was her maid of honor, and Rachel Maria Fischer and Rebecca Ester Fischer of Dexter were the flower girls.

The attendants wore blue gowns with lace insets up the front and carried white blue-tipped roses, carnations and daisies.

David Braunscheidel, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and the ushers were Jeffrey Bloch and Ed Braunscheidel, another brother. The reception was held in Salem Lutheran School, Ann Arbor. Following a wedding trip to the Upper Peninsula, the couple is residing in Ann Arbor.

Quarter-century bird

The 25-year-old Thunderbird has increased inside room in a car 16 inches shorter than 1979. The Town Landau (above) comes with a 4.2-liter V-8 engine, air conditioning, tinted glass and an electronic instrument cluster.

It pays to rustproof, compare rustproofers

Rust, the oxidation of metal due to exposure to air and moisture, costs car owners billions of dollars each year in repair bills and premature scrapping of cars.

Car rusting is especially prevalent in northern climates because of the heavy use of salt to control snow and ice. Knowing this, thousands of car buyers and owners wrestle with the decision of whether to rustproof their automobiles, either when they buy the cars or at some later date.

The Better Business Bureau says that before spending money on rustproofing, car owners should be sure they are dealing with reputable firms that provide clearly written warranties to back their work.

A "COMPLETE" rustproofing application can slow or eliminate the rusting process.

Effectiveness depends upon the make of the car, climate, chemical pollutants in the air and the care the car receives. The cost can vary from $150 to more than $300.

Generally, rustproofing is not to be confused with undercoating a car.

Undercoating is basically a sound-deadening treatment. It usually is not applied to the car's enclosed "boxed-in" areas such as door assemblies, "eyebrow" sections above headlights, rocker panels and other critical internal seam areas.

Because a car's body rusts from the inside, proper rustproofing involves drilling access holes into all the boxed-in areas and then spraying rustproofing sealant to cover the metal and, most important, to penetrate into corrosion-prone seams.

CAR OWNERS considering rustproofing should be sure they are buying the service from a company with a good reputation. Rust problems will occur several years from when the car was rustproofed. You want the firm to be in business when any rust problems are likely to appear.

The company should provide a written guarantee. The guarantee should stipulate what steps will be taken if the car is involved in an accident and what the firm will do if repairs are needed.

Often, rustproofing warranties call for a checkup after a number of months, years or miles. The car owner should be sure to take the car in for this inspection. Otherwise, any rights under the warranty may be forfeited.

If rust does develop, the car should be taken back to the rustproofing firm for repair immediately.

CAR OWNERS would be smart to do comparison shopping for rustproofing, basing their decision not only on cost but on the type of sealant used and the method of application. Owners should make sure the dealer plans to drill into and thoroughly spray boxed-in areas.

After the job is done, it is a good sign if some sealant has dripped from the vehicle. This indicates penetration.

The car owner also can check the number and location of the plastic or rubber plugs used to reseal drilled holes.

The Better Business Bureau suggests that car owners perform routine maintenance on their cars, particularly during the winter months, to help stop rust and corrosion.

Regular washing and waxing, periodic inspections and repainting and repairing scratches in the paint or metal work can help reduce rust damage.
