Train kills man at disputed rail crossing

By DARLENE STINSON

A 39-year-old Canton man was killed by an Amtrak passenger train Monday morning at a railroad crossing which the state wants to close

Ronald Barry, of 42004 Van Born, was pronounced dead at the scene by a representative of the Wayne County Medical Examiner's Office. Barry's truck was moving across the tracks at the Lilley Road crossing when hit by the train, according to the Wayne County Sheriff's department.

An Amtrak engineer said he tried unsuccessfully to stop the train after sighting Barry's panel truck, according to Detective Gerald Murphy of the sheriff's department.

The crossing is marked only by a stop sign and railroad symbol. A view of the straight track at the crossing is unobstructed by trees.

Lou Sugo of the Wayne County Road Commission said his agency requested safety improvements at the crossing in January 1979. But the request has been shelved pending the outcome of a Michigan Department of Transportation proposal to close the crossing.

None of the estimated 100 passengers on board the Chicago-bound train were injured in the accident, according for Amtrak headquarters in Washing-

She estimated damages to the power car of the train at $30,000.

BUDDY DEACONS, a neighbor of Barry's, said the accident victim was a self-employed auto, truck and heavy equipment mechanic. Deacons said children.

Barry was driving the truck which he used for work at 9 a.m. Monday when the accident occurred. The Lilley Road railroad crossing is near his home in the southern end of Canton Township.

A dispute over the continued existence of the crossing has sidelined a road commission offer to pay $25,000 toward the installation of a gate and flashing signal at the site. Conrail, which owns the tracks in that area, to Debbie Marceniak, a spokeswoman Barry and his wife, Chris, have three would be obligated to pay an additional $25,000 for the safety improvements.

But Clarence Magoon, a special staff assistant for the railroad safety section of the Michigan Department of Transportation, said no safety improvements will be ordered for at least four to five

He expects it will take the state that long to dispose of its own proposal to close the crossing.

Firm drops plan for foster home

A licensing request for an adult foster care home in the Canton Country Acres subdivision was withdrawn Tuesday after the owner of the home changed his mind about a lease agreement.

Ray Nichols of Alternative Services said his firm will now search for another home to house six mentally retarded adults. The clients now live in the Northville Residential Training Center on Seven Mile Road.

"But whether the home will be in Canton or not is another story,"

Alternative Services and NRTC proposed locating the adult foster care center in an existing colonial home in the subdivision south of Palmer and east of Morton Taylor. A licensing application was pending before the Department of Social Services.

But Nichols said the owner of the home contacted NRTC officials two weeks ago to say he had changed his mind about leasing the home to Alternative Services.

Nichols theorizes that community pressure led to the owner's change of heart. Residents voiced opposition to the proposal at a neighborhood meeting earlier this month.

Alternative Services, a non-profit corporation based in Royal Oak, would have operated the proposed home jointly with NRTC. Residents of the home had not been selected.

Similar foster care proposals for mentally retarded youths are still pending before the Department of Social Services. Those plans call for construction of homes on Maben and Herbey. The homes would be operated by Pyramid Human Services, a non-profit corporation based in Ann Photos on page 3A

Mentally retarded, ill, harbored 14 adults call this house home

They lounge in the living room to chat and watch the next eipsode of their favorite soap operas. Some enjoy a friendly game of gin rummy or chess. One woman spends her time on needlework to brighten the tiny room she shares on the second floor.

"They" are the mentally retarded and mentally ill residents of a 52-yearold house on Warren Road.

The home has been operating quietly on a treed, five-acre lot between Haggerty and Lotz since 1975.

The turbulent emotions which have greeted proposals for similar homes in other areas of Canton Township seem foreign to this semi-rural setting where neighborhood children mold bricks of

"It's a hard lifestyle," Wiltsie admitted. "You have zero privacy, and you certainly can't have parties for your friends or entertain.

"But you really have to be here. It's 24-hour care, and the only time emergencies seem to crop up is in the middle of the night. It's good for clients to Everybody counts when it comes to getting federal money.

That's why a local complete count committee has been formed to insure that the 1980 U.S. census will get an accurate total of Canton residents.

Members of this committee were scheduled to hold a public informational meeting Wednesday, Feb. 20, at which the mechanics behind the massive census-taking effort would be explained.

The idea seems to be to get civic leaders and community organizations behind the effort to insure an accurate head count

Supervisor Noel Culbert said he believes Canton's population will top 51,000 in the upcoming census. The last 1970 U.S. census listed Canton's population at 11,025. A local census conducted in 1975 found the population at more The supervisor said the 51,000 figure was arrived at by totaling the number of dwelling units in Canton - 12,000 houses and condominiums, 4,000 apartments and 1,882 mobile homes.

"Actually, 51,000 is pretty conservative even if you only figure on three people per household," Culbert said.

Terry Carroll, grants coordinator for the township and recording secretary for the complete count committee, said a population of more than 50,000 will entitle Canton to more federal money.

"We will be able to go for direct entitlement community development block grants and of course will get more federal revenue sharing benefits," Carroll

He added that Canton could also become a program agent for federal Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) money.

The complete count committee, chaired by Gary Sands, will attempt to get the residents interested enough to return their mailed census question-

Right now more classes cannot be scheduled, Dursum says, because there aren't enough trained volunteer instructors available.

The purpose of the March classes being offered by the Red Cross is to line up more qualified instructors to increase CPR instructions to adults.

Dursum also hopes to take the instruction directly to community groups once enough instructors are available.

Currently CPR training is part of the health education curriculum for all ninth-graders at both Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton high schools.

The CPR training program was instituted after a donation of equipment and instructional materials by the Rotary Club of Plymouth. Rotarians made the donation in hopes that all members of the community could become trained in the life-saving technique.

A spokesperson for the Northville Residential Traning Center, which will select clients for the adult foster care home, said the state will pay the corporations a daily fee of $40 to $60 for each client. r

But Wiltsie said the state pays him only $13 a day for each of the clients he supervises. Two years ago, state auditors recommended an increase to $20 a day. But Wiltsie says he has never seen a penny of the recommended fee hike.

"I think this program they want to put in Canton is a taxpayer rip-off," Wiltsie said. "And I can't blame the people for protesting." Wiltsie advocates the establishment of more homes like his in rural settings. He questions the wisdom of placing the mentally retarded in subdivisions "where they have to supervised very carefully."

WILTSIE SAYS the adult foster care business has its ups and downs.

He must smooth the difficult transition period for residents when they first arrive from institutions. He sometimes is asked to smooth quarrels between clients with clashing personali-

Last Christmas Day, "everyone was cranky" until Wiltsie handed out the presents, he said.

Wiltsie expects to leave the adult foster care business someday. He claims he needs at least $20 a day for each client in order to operate at a profit. Right now, he says he is barely making ends meet.

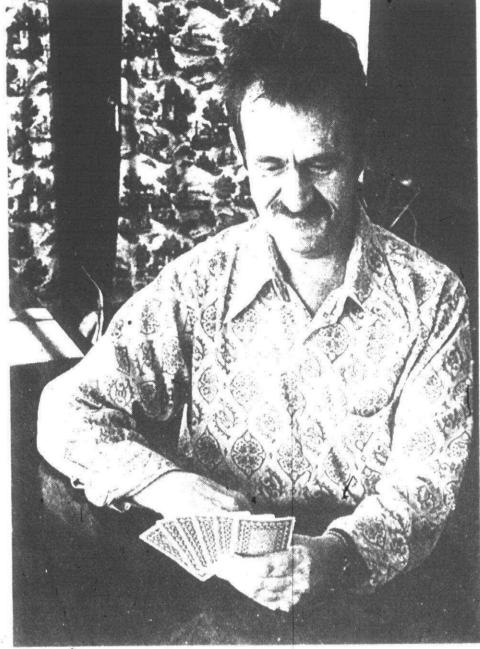

But Wiltsie, who earned a bachelor's degree in political science from the University of Michigan, said he entered the adult foster care business because of a long-time interest in the retarded.

Although he expects that none of his clients will eyer be able to live on their own, Wiltsie says he enjoys watching their progress.

Special education instructors from the Wayne-Westland School District visit the home three days a week to of-fer instruction in realing, current events and arts and crafts. Many residents attend programs of the Easter Seal Society and sessions on self-care Wiltsie is required to complete 30 hours of adult foster classes each year in order to retain his operating license. The classes are sponsored by the Michigan Department of Social Services.

He said his clients are transferred to nursing homes if health problems develop. The home is not equipped to handle physical disabilities

Punchcard voting speeds up process

Clerk John Flodin expects fewer operational headaches during election year 1980.

Flodin - the man in charge of counting ballots and insuring smooth precinct operations - says a $6,000 expenditure for a partial switch to the punchcard voting system should work better than Bayer on election nights this year.

The clerk vividly remembers Nov. 7, 1978, when 24 precinct workers labored for 27 hours on the single task of tabulating absentee ballots. Two years before that, election results were not finalized until 6 a.m. because of the vast number of absentee ballots which were submitted.

Under the procedure used at that time, it took precinct workers four minutes to process a single absentee ballot. Votes on the paper ballots had to be registered on machines as if the precinct worker were casting his or her

But the new punchcard system will automatically tabulate about 100 absentee ballots a minute, Flodin said. That will mean faster results on election night and a need for fewer precinct workers, who earn $3.50 to $4 an

The $6,000 system, which the township board approved last week, will be used only for absentee ballots. But Flodin says the system could lead eventually to a complete switch to the puncheard system.

Under the procedure, voters use a stylus and card to punch out a hole next to their candidate selections. At the polls, the procedure takes place in private booths. Absentee voters may punch out the cards at home.

The paper absentee ballots have snarled Canton's election process during the past few years.

Election law stipulates that voters may cast absentee ballots for only certain reasons, such as their age or expectations to be out of town.

But during the last two November elections, local candidates staging write-in campaigns urged citizens to vote absentee. Former Supervisors Robert Greenstein and Harold Stein campaigned for write-in votes in the 1974 and 1976 elections after losing in the Democratic primary.

Flodin said those campaigns contributed to the high number of absentee ballots which were submitted. He added, however, that voting absentee seems to be a new trend in the election process throughout Michigan.

In the 1978 election, 1,800 of 17,000 registered voters cast absentee ballot. Flodin, who expects a high number of absentee ballot in this year's election, pegs Canton's current registered population at 22,000 voters.

The new system, which will be purchased from Computer Election System of California, should be in working order by the time of Canton's next election in either May or August, Flodin

Paris has choices, but Cannes has only one price

By SAM HUDSON

(Sam Hudson of Plymouth, local historian and author of "Plymouth Past and Present," is wintering in southern France. The column below is another in a series of how people can travel around Europe on a limited budget.)

I conversed recently with a Frenchman about the cost of living in France.

He is a professional musician (French horn) who once earned his living in Paris. Now retired, he lives on the outskirts of Cannes.

"How are prices in Paris," I asked him, "compared to prices in Cannes?"

"In Paris," he told me, "you have a choice. There are stores that cater to working people, as well as stores that cater to the rich. The prices vary accordingly. The same is true, to a lesser degree, in Nice.

"But in Cannes, there is only one price - for the rich.'

A tiny demi-tasse of coffee in Cannes will cost you $1.25; a small loaf of whole wheat bread, $1.75. Beef, pork and veal sell for about $5 a pound. Regular gasoline recently rose to more than $3 a gallon.

An ordinary run-of-the mill restaurant will charge you from $8 to $16 for lunch or dinner. A plate of spaghetti, alone, will cost you $4.50.

The posh Carlton Hotel, on the waterfront, charges $30 and up for lunch or dinner. Filet of sole, a la carte, is $20. The New Year's Eve dinner dance at the Carlton, including caviar and a service charge, would have cost you $158 per person. The food and service there may be superb, but we'll never

On the other hand, locally-grown vegetables and fruit at the markets have bought golden delicious apples, grown in Provence for about five cents each. And it is possible to obtain a good meal in a Supermarket, cafeteria in Cannes for less than $4.00.

Hotel rates in Cannes at a one-star hotel run from $12.50 per person to $17.00 double occupancy. At the 4-star luxury hotels like the Carlon, you pay from $58 to $170 a night. Many of the hotels here, including the Carlton, will accept dogs anywhere in the hotel except in the dining room. It is not uncommon, however, to see dogs in restaurants in France.

Compared to apartment rates in Florida, California, Hawaii and other vacation spots in the United State, the rents for appartments in Cannes are not high. It is possible to rent an attractive apartment including a living room, bedroom bath, kitchen and balcony for

If you want to study French you can attend the local college for $3 an hour. For private lessons you will pay $22 an hour at a language institute, or $10 an hour at an instructor's home.

Many French people who live in towns not far from the Italian border cross over to do some of their shopping. Following suit, we recently took a 11/2 hour train ride from Cannes to Ventimiglia, Italy.

Three and a quarter miles from the French border town of Menton (where Winston Churchill used to paint), Ventimiglia is the first town on the Italian Riviera, going east.

Ventimiglia is an old Roman municipality with vestiges of an ancient Roman theatre. Friday is market day

I am told, however, that prices in Italy, as elsewhere in the world, continue to escalate, and that bargains are getting scarcer.

still considerably cheaper in Ventimiglia than in France, and that is alcoholic beverages. A bottle of Ballantine Scotch that retails from $10 to $12 in Cannes can be purchased in Ventimiglia for $6.30.\

seen in Carines $7 can be had in Ventimiglia for $2.30. Good Spanish sherry, like Dry Sack, also sells for half the price you pay for it in France.

You are allowed to take back into France three litres of wine and 11/2 litres of whiskey per person. Many of the liquor stores that line streets near in Ventimiglia and so many French the railroad station offer a special three-bottle price, comprising one bottle of scotch, one of Vermouth, and one

As you leave the railroad station in Ventimiglia on your way back to France the first person you meet before you board the train is a French There is one item however that is customs officer. He not only checked the sack I was carrying, he also lifted Jessie's large purse to make sure we were not over the limit.

While we were in Ventimiglia, we were approached on three occasions by men who apparently attempt to con the Cinzano Vermouth, which I have many tourists who visit the place. One wanted to be our guide, another wanted some money in order to go by boat to Genoa, and the third wanted to knowif I wanted to buy his Omega watch.

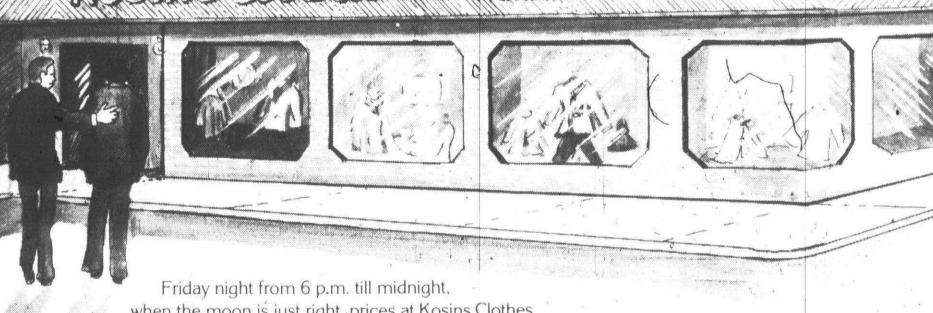

They all spoke to us in Frnech, quickly changing to English when they heard the kind of French we speak (To be continued)

The $45 added cost will decrease to the same and pound foolish.

Plymouth-Canton residents have, in the past, been penny-wise and pound-foolish. School administrators and board members also had fallen into that trap.

But on Thursday, March 27, voters will have a chance to correct previous mistakes in a special election by approving Proposition III.

Proposition III is a request to approve the levy of an earmarked half-mill (50 cents per $1,000 state equalized valuation) for 10 years to keep school buildings in a good state of repair.

A half-mill doesn't represent much in added taxes ($15 a year more for the owner of a. $60,000 home) but it can go a long way in saving money in the future.

IN FACT, IF the half-mill had been levied for the past decade, the school district would not have to

All of Proposition II and a portion of Proposition I are requests for money to find classroom space for incoming students. The "new growth" funds total about $10.9 million. Thus, about half of the money, if voters approve. will be used to pay for general maintenance which has to be performed with or without student growth. BECAUSE MAINTENANCE has been put off in past years, residents will end up paying three times as much in taxes next year.

The cost in added taxes next year to pay for the $11 million is about $45 for the owner of a $60,000 home — compared to the $15 cost for the half-mill. That $45 could have been saved if a half-mill for maintenance had been levied during the past 10

During the past six years the school board did seek voter approval of earmarked millage for maintenance. Voters rejected that proposal, though

In an effort to keep costs down, school boards in the past always have trimmed building maintenance items from operating budgets and spent money on books, buses, lunches, salaries, etc. Each year the money was "saved" the buildings deteriorated, and the costs of repairs have gone up.

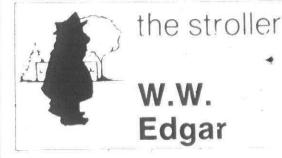

Time is running out. The buildings must be repaired. And one thing we can be sure of - today's cost will be lower than topocrow's

But the district must do more than restore its buildings. The district must keep its buildings in good shape once they are restored. Voters should not have to be asked again to approve an $11 million loan to get buildings into shape

The half-mill will provide money which can be used only for maintenance and that fund, once established, can keep buildings in good shape from

The Observer urges a "yes" vote on Proposition III so taxpavers won't be given a bill again for catch-up maintenance. The Observer believes it's better to pay a little bit each year and avoid the higher costs of interest on loans and a repair bill which gets higher each year because of inflation.

Let's not be penny-wise and pound-foolish any longer. Let's vote yes on Proposition III on March

The 'wonderful nonsense' days

Every time The Stroller picks up his favorate newspaper and sees pictures of high school boxs on can't help wondering if we are heading toward an other era or what was called wonderful nonsense

These were the hilarious days back in the Roar ing 20s and the Thrilling 30s when professional wrestlers held the center of the sports stage with some of the wildest scenes the major arenas ever

What made these matches so memorable was that the contestants were both wrestlers and actors who had taken a page from P.T. Barnum's book and worked on the theory that there was a "sucker born every minute." For that reason, one never knew whether these bouts were really contests or prearranged exhibitions. But they put on quite a show industry. Fortunately, it only occurs every 10 years.

IN THOSE DAYS the King of the group was Handsome Jim Londos, the champion of the heavyweights. When he appeared at Olympia even standing room was at a premium.

It all went wrong in Bernardi's rehearsal

When Herschel Bernardi walked onto the Ford Auditorium stage for rehearsal for "The Hassidic Happening," nothing earthshaking happened.

Bernardi, sporting a greying beard and wearing an army fatigue cap pulled down over his eyes, bore little resemblance to any publicity pictures I had seen, and since I was engrossed in my duties as the show's producer. I didn't even'recognize the star as he strolled in my direction.

We had had a telephone conversation several days earlier when Bernardi had informed me of his increasing fatigue. It forced him to curtail all prepublicity commitments except those which he could do in his hotel room.

Although Bernardi inherited a theatrical birthright from his parents who were stars of the Yiddish theater, he has found his greatest success within the last 20 Years.

Having passed the half century of life several years ago. Bernardi.

has been pulled by an undertow of engagements. His television role as Arnie, his Broadway roles in Bajour." "Man of La Mancha" and "Fiddler on the Roof" all contributed to the tidal wave.

Bernardi.

Things began to happen at Ford Auditorium the moment he picked up the rented cordless lavelier inicrophone.

Bernardi's rich, booming voice resounded but was backed by an annoying sound like rushing wind. The culprit attached to his tie refused to function cor-

While I attempted to locate another mike, Bernardi lunged into rehearsal. Swiftly, he placed his array of props on the 8-foot table — a golden sword and silver helmet with pieces of wispy hair for mustache. Presto! Bernardi would become "Man of La Mancha.

Add ritual fringes and black cap, add a bit of makeup - Voila! Bernardi would be Tevye singing "If I Were a Rich Man."

Elliot Finkel. Bernardi's impressive piano accompanist, has unbelievable stamina. For two hours he remained at attention before the keyboard. A mild-mannered oung man. Finkel is a concert piamst and entitlee to his own share of applause.

REHEARSAL FOR Bernardi isn't a fast talkthrough. Each story is told and every song sung exactly as in performance.

Most of Bernardi's attention during rehearsal is focused on the lighting.

"What is your name, please?" Bernardi called to the man in the light booth and repeated the question to the man off-stage at the light board.

The question is the key to Bernardi. He believes everyone has a name and he meticulously uses that name, personalizing all of his business dealings. Bernardi also wants people to use his first name.

Lights were of major importance to Bernardi for Six weeks earlier he fell from the stage in Minneapolis when a light man missed a cue. Ignoring the mishap, he finished the show and made second curtain calls in the emergency room of a nearby hospital where he was treated for a broken elbow.

The Minneapolis performance had been the beginning of his tour for the Chabad-Lubávitch, a Jewish education organization. Bernardi performed the following weeks in tremendous pain.

WHEN BERNARDI learned it would be impossible to locate another cordless mike, he agreed to work with the lavelier mike which clipped on but involved a long, thin cord. He wanted to dance, but the cord enspared his feet.

"Guess I'll just use it in the act," he decided. "I might as well joke about it since I'm going to have to carry it around all evening. I think I'll call it my 'shleppernish' (a Yiddish word meaning something one has to drag around).

Having finished his finale, a weary Bernardi trudged to the Green Room where I had promised him a hot cup of Sanka.

"I don't understand what anyone is asking me or saying to me," Bernardi sighed as he sank into a comfortable chair. "I'm so tired, everything sounds

One hour later, 30 minutes before curtain time, a refreshed, relaxed Bernardi passed me on stage.

"How's everything going?" he grinned.

I wasn't about to disturb him with details, but while he was resting. Ford's crew had misplaced the turntable needed to play the recorded opening scene music. They found it only moments before Bernardi asked the leading question.

For a bonus, the lead guitar in our Israeli orchestra had blown an amplifier and I was nervously waiting for another from a local band leader and triend, Eric Rosenow

The Hassidic Happening eventually did happen For a surprise finale, Irving Laker, concert chairman, presented Bernardi an engraved plague on behalf of Lubavitch, citing Bernardi for his contribution of happiness for all people.

He showed his appreciation by joining a group of black-coated, bearded rabbis dancing center stage. whirling about with amazing energy to the delight of the sold-out house.

Is it safe to pick up hitchhiker from Vermont?

A tall, nice-looking, well-dressed man was standing in Orchard Lake Road outside of the West Bioomfield library. He had a book under his left arm, and his right thumb was waving for a ride.

He did not appear to be a typical hitchhiker, and it seemed highly unlikely someone with harmful intentions would use this setting as a ploy. As I passed mm. I felt the apprehensions drivers feel about

I quelled the guilt about my mistrust, rationalizing that by picking up any hitchhiker I could be exposing myself to potential danger.

When we pass hitchhikers on the road, our children ask us why we don't pick them up. We share with them the fears of our times, of being assaulted, robbed or kidnapped.

But I've also told them about the people Grandpa gave rides to when I was growing up, and they want to know why he wasn't afraid. It's difficult to explain that 25 years ago people trusted each other more and that just the magic of the word "Vermont" could make my father sure no harm would come to us

LAST SUMMER, in Vermont, I wanted to share this type of experience with our children. My husband and I had discussed picking up a hitchhiker. and every time we saw a thumb out on the road, we realized we were shopping for the right rider.

Early one evening on the way to a small town fair, we saw a young woman with a duffle bag jump out of a cab of a truck. As her ride drove off, she barely had enough time to put out her thumb when we picked her up.

During our interrogation, we found out that she was a college-bound student from Connecticut who was on her way to visit her brother. He was an actor in a summer stock theater group in the same town where we were headed.

I wonder now: If we were to pick up that same girl on Orchard Lake Road, would the word "Vermont" still assure our safety? The writer, a resident of Orchard Lake, is a

The Women's Plymouth Newcomer organization has been in existence for many years.

The purpose of this club has been not only to create lasting friendships but also to familiarize its members with businesses and restaurants, Plymouth, and what surrounding areas have not-

It is extremely pleasing to know that the membership has reached more than 200, but will this group continue to expand when its organizational contacts with community merchants has been less than satisfactory, to say the least?

We are halfway into the '79-80 year and much to our dismay feel we recently have received second-class treatment, not only in nearby communities but in our own Plymouth.

In some restaurants we found the food to be inferior and the service poor. Another business proprietor has not lived up to promises made when he sought our patronage.

To a great degree, the future of our club depends on services rendered to op?portunity to impress new residents with their food service and facilities.

To the business people who have given us complete satisfaction, we have literally spread the word for a good recommendation. Our hats are off to them. They obviously want our patronage, and they'll have it.

Child not burden; us. Of equal importance business establishments in Plymouth and thereabouts are not taking advantage of this golden just requires help

Editor:

I am writing in regards to the article written in the Feb. 11 issue concerning the feelings of mothers of handicapped children. I am the mother of one of those children, Lauren Gusfa. I thank you for the beautiful pictures. They portray our children just as they are happy, beautiful children

I would like to clarify a few things about the article. I feel some comments were misinterpreted. Contrary to what the title of the article may imply, I don't feel my child is a burden to us. Granted she may require a little more help, but we, my husband and I, do this willingly. We are trying to provide an environment to develop Lauren to her fullest human potential. In that fashion we are confident she will be some day independent and not be a burden to anyone, including the public.

Secondly, the mothers' sessions are not held just to gripe about our situations. Although sometimes that is what we do, but what mother, even of all "normal" children, does not gripe now and then. These sessions are held to provide the parents with an opportunity to talk about their situations with other parents and professionals. We are helping each other. In most instances, the information we receive applies to all children.

Thirdly, it is very important for the public to know that there is help available through the school district. In particular, for young children such as ours, IPSEP (Infant-Preschool Special Education Program) is available in the Plymouth-Canton school district. They provide the personnel to teach the children as well as educating us, the parents. Anyone having questions about a child with special needs is urged to contact IPSEP at Farrand School (420-0363). Believe me, it has helped us a great deal.

RON KRUEGER Team wins district

Rock grapplers seize district crown

Plymouth Salem's wrestlers can add the Class A District trophy to their already crowded case.

The Rocks recorded 12 pins and qualified nine grapplers for Saturday's regional tournament at Westland John Glenn. Salem scored 76 points to beat its closest competitor, rival Belleville of the Suburban Eight League. Coach Ron Krueger's squad, winner of seven tournies, unbeaten in dual meets and Suburban Eight League champs, dominated the 19-team field last Saturday at Ann Arbor Huron.

"We did a real good job," said Krueger. "This was our finest day of the year. We came in rested and ready." The top four wrestlers in each weight class qualified for the Glenn regional. Jim Schultz, raising his victory total to 43 this season, went unbeaten in two matches to qualify for the Rocks in the 108-pound weight division.

Other Salem wrestlers who qualified and went undefeated included Jeff Dunson (115), Jeff Brown (122), Mark Ross (129), Jerry Valchine (1), Steve Szilagyi (170), Jeff Powers (188), Stan Snider (201) and Greg Gattoni (heavyweight). Both Valchine and Powers recorded two pins on the day. Valchine, a senior, now has 45 wins this year. Tom Harreld (115) was the only wrestler from Plymouth Canton to qualify for the tournament

HE IS NOW 31-13-1 on the year and has won 16 of his last 19 matches. He pinned both foes in the Huron district as he took over the team point lead.

"Tom has an excellent shot," said Canton Coach Dan Chrenko. "He's doing very well right now. He's been really strong.

Canton's Dave Vaughan (170) and Steve Hamblin (148), both considered to have a good chance of qualifying, failed to make the necessary weight for the tournament and did not compete.

Salem freshman Jeff Vojcek, was eliminated from the tourney in the 101pound division, but ended the season with 22 victories, a school record.

Bruce Bachman (135) of Salem lost a tough 4-3 decision to his opponent from Walled Lake Central. Bachman had missed the league meet two weeks ago due to illness. Bob Price (148) also · came up short as he lost to Northville's Steve Morgan by way of a pin. The Salem wrestler took third in the $uburban Eight League meet

Although sending nine wrestlers to Glenn, Krueger was disappointed with the seeding given to Scott Piper (158), who was eliminated by Ann Arbor Pioneer's Darryl Minick in a close match,

"As happy as I felt about the day I was disappointed about the seeding in Scott's division,"said Krueger. "I thought he got the shaft."

SALEM, Belleville and Temperance-Bedford, winner its own district, appear to be the three favorites at Glenn. Krueger emphasized that the Suburban Eight League could once again figure strongly in the race for the Regional

"Trenton was second down at Temperance-Bedford and (Dearborn) Edsel Ford wasn't far behind," he said. "That shows the strength of our league with Belleville also placing second in

Once again, the top four wrestlers in each weight category advance to the Class A finals Saturday, March 1 at Lansing Eastern.

Hook at buzzer sinks Redford Union

Monk's desperation shot gives Salem 55-54 win

By BRAD EMONS

The next time the Harlem Globetrotters come to town they ought to look up Plymouth Salem center Howard Monk.

The 6-6 senior took a page out of Meadowlark Lemon's cage book by sinking a desperation 30-foot fadeaway half hook at the buzzer to stun Redford Union Tuesday night, 55-54.

Monk, who led all scorers with 22 points, was only steps from the sideline when he received a pass from teammate Mike McBride.

RU had grabbed the lead with only five seconds left when reserve forward Tom Jetke hit a jumper near the free throw line.

Salem immediately called a time out underneath the Panthers' basket. The Rocks then took the floor again, but signaled for another timeout.

'We wanted to see what type of thing they (RU) would set up against us," explained Salem Coach Fred Thomann, whose team upped their record to 15-2

RU Coach Bill Foley elected to have his squad set up a pressing defense in Salem's backcourt.

The ball was inbounded to guard Mike Sharp who passed laterally to Mike McBride along the backcourt sideline. The Salem forward took two dribbles and flinged the ball to Monk for the winning shot.

"Tell me how it went in," said a shocked Thomann in the dressing room after the game. "It was good recognition by McBride."

FOR RU, now 8-10 overall, it was a neartbreaking setback

"The kids played a whale of a game," said Foley. "It took a break to beat us. It was a sensational lucky shot.

"We had a great team effort. No one is to blame.

Foley, who's been coaching for almost 30 years, argued vehemently with the officials after the winning shot.

"I thought maybe they (Salem) took more than five seconds getting the ball in," he explained. "I can't complain about the refs. It's their judgment." Foley, who coached Detroit Catholic Central to some fine records in the 1960s, said "I don't recall being beat like that ever.

Salem up, 53-52. The Rocks gained possession after Roberts missed a 15-foot jumper. Salem then worked the ball until Neu was fouled with 35 seconds left. He missed the front of a one-and-one situation and RU grabbed the rebound. Foley called two timeouts in the final 21 seconds to attempt the last shot.

"All the team's in that league (Northwest Suburban) seemed to be all up tempo," said Thomann. "They like to get the ball up and score on the break. "With the exception of Belleville, no-

Area spikers falter at Howell

Tournament action for both the Plymouth Salem and Canton volleyball teams has been cumbersome this season with four tournaments listed on this year's schedule.

However, with as much tournament experience the two teams have had this year, both schools failed to qualify for the quarterfinal action in the Howell Volleyball Invitational Saturday at

Howell Jr. High School. Of the two area teams, the Salem squad managed to come home with the better of the two records after defeating Hartland but dropping matches to Ypsilanti and Livonia Bentley. Canton split its match with Waterford Kettering then lost straight matches to Grand Blanc and Howell to end the day with a 1-5 record. Put at a disadvantage before walking on the court because of the absence to give its opponents a battle.

"Against Ypsilanti, no one on the court was moving," said Salem Coach Cathy Himes. "We played a 5-1 offense with the team's third setter who hasn't seen much playing time."

Salem's third setter, Jacque Merrifield, made attempts at setting up the Salem attacking line but was weakened by the poor serve reception of the Rocks' defense.

"Our serve reception was poor so the ball rarely got up to the setter," said Himes. "Overall, we had a weak defense and offense against a team that was out to kill since they (Ypsilanti) had already lost one game and needed to win to secure first place in our pool." Salem bounced back against Ypsilanti (9-15, 11-15) by downing Hartland using a 4-2 offense, 15-6, 15-9.

"Dana did a good job considering but of No. 1 setter Sandy Faussett, out with I have to commend Debbie Hartford the flu, and an injury to Dana Harter, for her setting against Hartland," con-Salem managed to pull itself together tinued the Salem coach. "This was the League opponent of the Rocks, Salem depended on aggression during the second game of the contest after losing the "We played a better defense when I went back to the 4-2 after switching back to a 5-1," said Himes. "They (Salem) picked up a lot of balls but weren't playing a strong mental game."

Besides Hartford and Harter, Himes complemented the play of juniors Cheryl Sobkow and Mary VanDusen for aggressive work on defense at the net.

Canton oach Cyndi Burnstein said that a lack of a strong defense on serve reception has been plaguing her squad all season and Saturday was no differ-

Following tournament action, the Canton squad resumed regular season play Monday by taking on non-league opponent Dearborn on the road.

THE PIONEERS downed the Chiefs 15-4, 15-1 in the two game contest.

Salem gymnasts drop 2 meets

Plymouth Salem gymnastics coach Carol Michaels had reason to be happy Thursday night despite a 78.35-60.85 loss to Dearborn.

Michaels was pleased because the Rock girls recorded their highest score in the school's history. "We're improving all the time," said Michaels. "It's been 10 points since the start of the year.

"Next season we hope to be respectable and finish in the 70s.

Michaels' squad, without any seniors, was led by sophomore Darla Doumanian who placed second with an all-around score of 22.5.

Mary Baker of Dearborn took all around honors with a score of 26.25.

She won the vault (7.2), balance beam (6.45) and floor exercise (7.75).

Doumanian recorded a pair of third place finishes in the uneven parallel bars (5.05) and balance beam (5.8). She also took fourth in vault (5.8) and fifth in floor exercise (5.9) despite a bothersome knee.

Kris Fenske was Salem's next highest finisher in all-around with a total of 16.5. She recorded a score of 5.5 in the floor routine. Teammate Julie Hulack scored a 4.65.

Cindy McSurely of Salem was fourth in the vault with a score 5.5. Teammate LeAnne Albright was right behind at 5.3.

ALBRIGHT scored a 4.0 in the uneven bars with teammate April Richeson at 3.45.

Golden tank event ruled by Belleville

Belleville showed once again why it is ranked No. 5 in Class A by dominating the Golden Triangle Invitational Saturday at Ypsilanti. Although no team standings were tabulated, Belleville clearly was the top team in the event. Other teams which competed were Plymouth Canton and Salem, Milan, host Ypsilanti, Willow Run and Ypsilanti Lin-

Of nine individual events, Belleville came home with seven first place finishers. The Tigers captured both the 200-yard medley (1:50.9) and 400-yard freestyle events.

The only individual swimmer to break the Tigers' hold on first places was Canton All-Stater Paul Petersen

He took the 200-yard individual medley with a time of 2:02.7. Teammate Ron Hurley was a strong second with a clocking of 2:09.1.

The Canton senior led a sweep by area schools in the 100-yard butterfly (:56.9). Salem senior co-captain Kirk Albert finished second (:56.9) with Hurley taking third (:58.8).

In the opening event, the 200-yard medley relay. Salem grabbed third place with a time of 1:51.0. Members of the unit included Bruce Harwood, Steve McKenna, Mark Roerhig and Dave Hopper.

Doug Kleinsmith, Albert, Russ Shaffer and Hopper took fourth in the 400-yard freestyle with a time of 3.34.9. Belleville's Chris Renton. who won the 200-yard freestyle (1:50.9), also gained first in the 100yard backstroke (:59.1). Salem's Harwood was third (1:02.7).

BELLEVILLE swept both the 200-yard freestyle and 500-yard freestyle events.

"Belleville has a lot of depth," said Salem Coach Chuck Olson.

"Their big advantage is that the practices are more competitive.

"Guys in second or third position can't afford to let down because someone will take their place. And that pays off for them."

Olson said of his own team's performance: "We had some better swims than the Wayne Relays. We need to be a little stronger at the Salem and Canton will tangle next Thursday in a regular season finale.

"It should be a tough meet," Olson said. "They have a slight edge right now. They have more strength at the top and are strong in the relays.

Canton's 400-yard freestyle relay squad posted a time of 3:28.27 last Thursday in a dual meet against Farmington Harrison. It is the third best time in the Observer swim rankings this year.

The stage is all set for the first major tournament of the year in the metropolitan area. It is the annual championships sponsored by the Detroit Women's Bowling Association and the firing starts at 1:30 p.m. on Saturday at Drakeshire Lanes in Farmington. More than 800 teams have entered the fray and the battle will continue on weekends for the next month. This event does more than decide city championships. The points won here go a long way in determining the naming of the bowling queen and the places on the all-city team.

EMIL GROHMAN had an experience at Farmington Lanes that he possibly never will forget.

Bowling in the American Legion League, he posted a string of 11 strikes. Then, with a perfect game within his grasp, he tried too hard on the final ball and left up the bucket - the 2-4-5-8 - and had to settle for a 296.

To make matters all the more unusual, he didn't even win the Black Velvet honor of the week as Gary Jackson, bowling in the Meadowbrook mixed league, rolled a 265 and aided by a spot of 53 pins was credited with a 318.

CORA FEIBIG captain of the Luxury Lanes team in the all-star Bowlerettes league, set a new high mark for the season in the loop when she posted a 709 series on her home lanes Monday night. To gain the honor by a single pin, she linked games of 254, 221 and 234.

THE PINS were flying again in the Little Caesar Classic at Westland Bowl.

When the firing ceased there were four series above 700 and the leader was Mike Lee with a 748. He put together games of 258, 233 and 257, to beat Dave Pickett by 12 pins. Dave middle game, started strong with counts of 267 in each of his first two games. Then with a big 700 series staring at him he fell back to 202 for 736.

Third high in the royal battle was Frank Briscoe with a 256 middle game in 712. Jerry Cole Sr. was right behind with 707.

In the ladies division, Geri Beattie was out in front with a 622 series. Judy Griwicki showed the way in the ladies classic with an opening 247 in 653. She was followed by Jane Martin with 649 and Nancy Hect with 636.

DICK HALL joined the exclusive 700 club at Garden Lanes when he fashioned a 268 game in a 715 series in the Misfit loop.

Meanwhile, there was a real battle in the Wayne County League where three pins separated the top three bowlers. Mark Heffner finally finished on top with 659 that gave him a one-pin lead over Joe Gazdecki, who in turn had a one-pin lead over Ken Moersch. Following these leaders came Harold Batenman with 627, Bud Hartley with 625, Don Walker with 614 and Al Fernandez with 611.

In the St. Linus league Steve Filetewski was high man with a 611.

DELORES DOWHAN walked off with major honors in the Livonia Ladies Classic by winning the second of the three-game set with 198-40-238 and the series with 526-120-646. In the other games Diane Gasby won the opener with 184-32-216 and Darline Marrow captured the third with 214-

Chief gymnasts break mark again

The Plymouth Canton girls' gymnastics team set another school record Monday night

The Chief girls upped their overall mark to 8-3 with a 92.30-78.35 victory over Walled Lake Western.

It was the highest score ever attained by a Canton team. Just last Wednesday Coach John Cunningham's squad set team mark with 91.85 points in a win over Northville.

Dearborn tops Rock reserves

By THOMAS ZAIBEK

Plymouth Salem lost for the third time this season to a tough Dearborn junior varsity basketball squad Friday in double overtime, 67-61.

Dearborn took a 43-41 halftime lead, but Salem came back to tie the game at the end of regulation time, 53-all.

Both teams scored four points in the first extra session. With four Rock starters fouling out, Dearborn pushed ahead for the win in the second overtime. A total of 34 fouls were against.

Rob Heidt and Norm Haygood led Salem with 15 and 14 points respective-

The Rock freshmen squad blasted Farmington Warner last week, 48-25, for their eight victory in nine starts?

Greg Trimm paced the winners with 12 points. Mickey Madsen added eight with Dave Slavin, Jim Fee and Ted Bevelheimer each scoring six

"We seem to keep bumping it up," said Cunningham, in his first year coaching the Chiefs. "We had a good performance on Parents Night. I'm well pleased.

"This is our best performance of the season. We can go even higher if we hit our potential.'

As usual, the threesome of Laurie Beale, Laura Michalik and Katy Heaton led Canton to victory. Beale won all-around honors with a total of 31.50. Michalik and Heaton, a senior, were close behind with scores of 30.55 and 30.25 respectively.

It was Heaton's best all-around showing of the year.

"Katy had a well balanced performance," Cunningham said. "She had four good events tonight.'

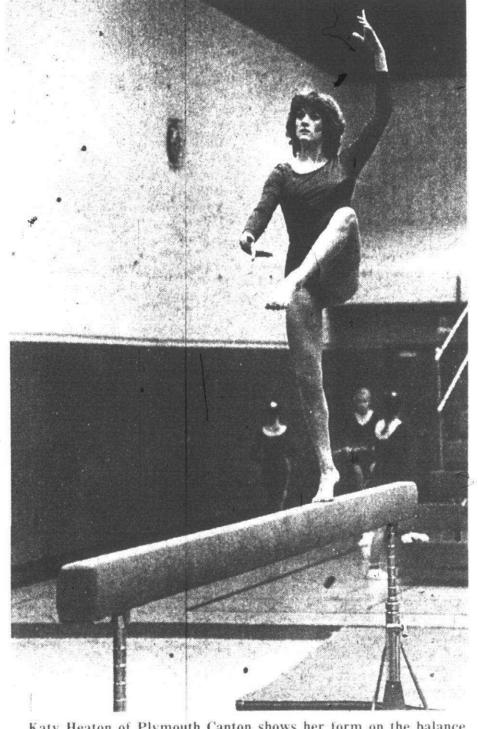

Heaton was second in both the uneven parallel bars (6.85) and balance beam (7.5). She also took third in both the vault (8.15) and floor exercise

BEALE turned in a solid performance with first place finishes in the beam (8.25) and floor exercise (7.9). She gained second too in the vault (8.35) and fourth in the uneven bars (6.35).

First spot belonged to Michalik in the uneven bars (7.0) and vault (8.45). She was second in floor exercise (7.9) and third in balance beam (7.2).

Cunningham was encouraged by the performance of Maureen Morahan who took a pair of fifths in the beam (6.65) and floor exercise (7.2).

"Morahan gave us a lift," said the Canton coach. "She did very well."

Dearborn stuns Bentley quintet

Livonia Churchill's basketball team showed why it is challenging for the Western Six League title, coming from behind Tuesday for a non-conference victory over Garden City West 65-50.

Brian Kerstan exploded with his biggest scoring outburst of the season, 34 points, to fuel a second-half Churchill rally. The Chargers' record went above the .500 mark for the first time this season at 9-8.

Things didn't start out so promising for Churchill. The Tigers came out and took a 35-27 halftime lead.

"West came at us early," said Churchill coach Fred Price. "We pride ourselves on defense, so we had a lot of talking to do at halftime."

Whatever Price said worked wonders. The Chargers outscored West 16-8 and 22-7 during the final two quarters.

"We tightened up our defense, which enabled us to do some things on offense," explained Price. "Our kids did a nice job of releasing tonight. They were getting behind the defense for a lot of easy baskets - many of them in the second half."

Ron Reed tossed in 10 points to aid the Charger cause. Rich Jaskolski countered with 25 points for the Tigers.

"Kersten had a great game," summed up Price. "Our guards, Brian Kaump, Greg Hovermale and Ron Schueneman, did a real good job of finding the open man.

Churchill, one game behind leagueleader Plymouth Canton, entertains Northville Friday. The Chargers square off against Canton next week.

BAD NEWS came from the other side of town. Livonia Bentley's league title hopes took a tumble as Dearborn dealt the Bulldogs a 47-42 defeat.

The loss all but eliminated Bentley from the Suburban Eight League chase.

The Bulldogs' league record fell to 7-Churchill's JV won a 44-36 battle 2, two games behind leader Plymouth Salem with two games remaining. Bentley faces Salem next Friday.

The Bulldogs trailed all the way Tuesday. Dearborn took a 27-18 halftime lead, as Bentley couldn't get untracked in the early going.

The game tightened up in the second half, as all Bentley games seem to. An 18-13 third quarter advantage pulled the Bulldogs to within two, 32-30, entering the final period.

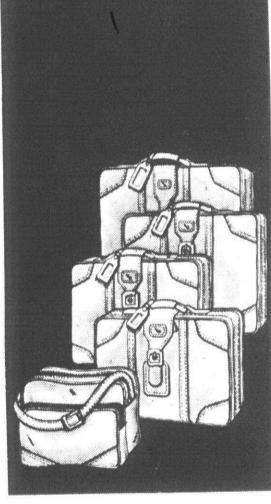

The game remained nip-and-tuck until the final minute. Bentley, still trailing by two, had a chance to send the game into overtime, but turned the ball over. Dearborn hit three free throws in the final seconds to put the game away.

TAG keeping step with national trend

By BETTY MASSON

Does gifted mean handicapped? In a sense, it does. In an egalitarian makes one "different," and being "different" is often regarded with suspi-

The term "exceptional" children is often used to designate both the academically gifted and handicapped.

In the Plymouth-Canton area, report educators and parents, parents have refused to have their children enrolled

A Plymouth mother whose child reschool for the academically gifted is for education of these children. reluctant to tell her friends and neigh-

The gifted student can be a problem to teachers, to parents and to himself.

"I think they saw him as a lot of extra trouble," said the mother of one gifted Plymouth kindergarten student.

"One of my son's nursery school teachers told me that raising a gifted child was as difficult in many respects, and as challenging as raising a handicapped child," said another mother. -

"I know I'm different," said one 5year-old. "For one thing, I read more than anyone else in my family." He was relieved when he was told that it was all right to be different.

HIS REACTION reflects a change in attitude towards gifted students that is becoming nationwide.

According to a New York Times article late last year, parent groups across the country are making themselves heard. They are demanding the "special" education their children need.

Here, a parent group, the Plymouth Canton Association for the Academically Talented (PCAAT), has been in existence for five years, and Plymouth Canton Community Schools have had a Talented and Gifted program for three years. Louise Townley is president of Disappearing is the idea that smart children don't need direction; that they can learn on their own. After all, people would say, Albert Einstein and Winston Churchill had trouble in school, but they survived.

Churchills are lost, because they were instituting a program. not given direction and challenges.

Educators agree that about 25 percent of all high school dropouts are "academically talented." One recent speaker in Plymouth, Roger Taylor, put the figure as high as 50 percent.

Plymouth-Canton's TAG program is a beginning effort to stop this waste. By contrast, Livonia has had a program for gifted children for 10 years; Ann Arbor still has none.

THE STATE of Michigan, which was ahead of the federal government in mandating "mainstreaming" of academically handicapped children in the 1970s, is "25 years behind the times" in mandating education of gifted children, according to Rick Olenchak, coordina-

Said Olenchak: "We recently had a student move here who had been in a TAG program in Pennsylvania. Includsociety, being academically gifted ed in her school records was a 35-page outline of the type of instruction this child ought to be getting.'

With a state budget of $500,000 for education of the gifted and talented, Michigan can produce nothing like this at the present time. Pennsylvania mandated expenditures of $18 million for education of gifted and talented children in 1978-79, according to figures in classes for the talented and gifted Mrs. Townley has received from the because it would label them as being Office of the Gifted and Talented in Washington, D.C. Similarly California. Tennessee, Florida, Illinois and North cently started to attend a private Carolina have budgets in the millions

The Plymouth-Canton yearly budget has been between $45,000 and $60,000.

With it, Olenchak and his assistant, Marilyn Finch, have been able to spend about an hour each week in special programs in each of the area's 14 elementary schools. They have been assisted by volunteers, usually interested mothers, involve more senior citizens in the elementary school program, but has found that transportation is a problem.

The area's four middle schools have given varying attention to setting up special programs for TAG students. Pioneer's program is cited by several parents as being the best. Some two to four hours a day are "eked" out for TAG students to meet.

In the high school, there are more opportunities for talented and gifted children to stretch their minds, according to John Hoben, superintendent of schools. A variety of electives and advanced placement courses are offered. Further programs are being studied.

A third TAG specialist is being hired

BOTH HOBEN and Olenchak agree that the next step in the program must be a concentration on training teachers. In a classroom of 30 children, it is not always easy to spot a talented or gifted child. And once he/she is identified, they need special attention.

Furthermore, Michigan universities are behind in this field, said Olenchak. Michigan teachers are not required to take any courses in the teaching of the Today, educators and parents are talented and gifted before they graduwondering how many Einsteins and ate. Wayne State University is just now > out; in high school, they drop out.' The student learns that if he is able to finish 50 problems in mathematics in a quarter of the time it takes the rest of the class, he will likely be given 50 more to do. The second 50 will be just as boring; and the rest of the class will think he's "weird."

> He learns quickly to go along with the crowd; to slow down and to keep his opinions to himself. If he doesn't, he's often labeled a troublemaker by parents and teachers.

What is the solution? To many educators and parents, a private school for bright children alone is not the answer.

the real world," said Olenchak. Mrs. Townley agrees. "You have to learn to handle teachers who think you are odd, and you have to learn to handle children sitting next to you who don't have the slightest idea of what you are talking about."

Besides this, private schools are expensive, and transportation is costly and time-consuming. "There's no time left over for soccer," commented Mrs.

"At the same time," she continued, "we would like our children to be educated to their fullest potential.'

Olenchak would like to see some of the ideas of mainstreaming — in which handicapped children and slow learners are incorporated in regular classrooms as much as possible, but also have their own classrooms - carried out. "They need time, every day, when they can be together and challenge each other," he said

UNDER THE present system, both teachers and parents are asked to recommend students for TAG programs. Placement is made on the basis of group intelligence tests, group achievement tests, individual intelligence tests, proven demonstrated ability and past placement in a TAG program.

The idea of giftedness has changed in recent years. Formerly the gifted were only those who scored well on intelligence tests. A TAG brochure, issued by the schools, identifies them as those "who have the potential to perform at higher levels than average.

New slim, trim class offered for women

A daytime slim, trim, exercise program for women is scheduled to begin Feb. 27 at Rose Shores Canton Racquet Ball Club.

The activity is being sponsored by the community education department of Plymouth-Canton Community

According to Mary Nalepka, physical fitness instructor, this program will provide a new opportunity for community residents to shape up, slim down and, most importantly, exercise.

Participants will receive instruction in the use of all exercise machines at the racquet club, and will have access to locker-room facilities with showers, sauna and steam room.

Babysitting will be provided free of charge, and racquet ball courts will be available at reduced rates to those who wish to continue their fitness activities after class

The club is located at 41677 Ford Road, Canton. Rob Brown is the mana-

Using the facilities of the club is a combined effort of the community education department and the local business to expand a popular program.

'As the rapid growth of the school district continues and the popularity of leisure-time activities increases, community programs such as ours are crying for space," says Larry Masteller, director of community education.

The mothers of these two fine young inen, and the staff of the United States Military Academy had done an excellent job of teaching manners. My two young sons mauled them on the ride home then they had to face our German shepherd. I can only hope they had enough to eat since they were still eating when we told them it was time to change clothes and go.

And Art Linkletter should have been here for my eight-year-old son's lesson in semantics. The cadets called me "ma'am" during the course of the evening, and finally my son, Kirk could no longer restrain himself. He told the one young man, "You're almost saying my mom's name right, but it's Sam, not

The concert was absolutely excellent, and it was a joy having Cadet Guy Runkle, of Los Angeles, Calif., and Cadet Bruce Phillips of Kinmundy, Ill. as our house guests. Cadet Phillips left one of his calling cards which states he is "Available for : telling tall tales, menial tasks, digging latrines, building sand castles, pitching tents, a shoulder to cry on, and nights on the town." If there are any young ladies in need of any of these services, keep this fine young man in mind.

JOSIE AND Larry Inman were hosts to friends for a recent Indonesian dinner. Mrs. Inman is a native of Bandoeng, Indonesia, and has lived in Michigan since 1959.

Mary Feltz, a friend, and Mrs. Inman had talked about various Indonesian dishes, but Mrs. Inman told her she seldom cooked them because her husband planned for it, and still get the cadets was not a very adventurous eater. So a dinner was planned, and it sounds delightful

Everything on the menu was served with white rice and sombal, which is crushed hot peppers. The amount of sombal was left to each dinner's discretion, determined by the tongue and tear ducts. The menu consisted of sajoer meneer (spinach and corn soup), smoor babi (pork in a dark sauce or gravy), beseneck ajam (chicken in curry sauce), and sambal goreng telor (eggs in coconut sauce)

Also on this fascinating menu were sate ajam (chicken kabobs with lamb), pisang goreng (fried green bananas), atjar ketimoen (cucumber salad), and kroepoek (fried shrimp chips). Spanish peanuts were served!on the side, and a Sanders cake was dessert.

The dinner was enjoyed by Mary and Tom Feltz and Barbara and Jim De-Long. Mrs. Inman said husband Larry did try a few of the dishes, but she had prepared pork chops for him, just in CANTON FOLKS can be found enjoying themselves in groups outside the township limits too. My husband, Rex, and I took sons, Kirk and Keith, to the Silverdome to see the Truckin' America show. You must understand that Keith, like many four-year-olds, is very much "into" Super Heros. The trucks and vans were ok, but the big attraction for him was seeing the Super Heros there. So, he and I stood in line for almost two hours to shake hands with The Thing, Spiderman, Spiderwoman, and Captain America.

They're helping feed Cambodians, shoe Afghanistan refugees

By MARGARET MILLER

Intravenous feeding solutions for Cambodia and blankets, shoes and vaccines for Afghanistan are among the top priority items these days for the United Methodist Committee on Relief

That was the report of Gerald Schmidt, UMCOR assistant general secretary, who visited this area as one of the speakers for a Mission Saturation event that involved six United Methodist Churches.

The representative of one of the world's largest church-affiliated relief organizations addressed senior citizens at Newburg UMC getting into Cambodia, "despite the reports you may read."

"One of the main things our staff people have asked for is a supply of IV solutions, because they found that people who had been on the edge of starvation could not immediately assimilate solid food.

Although the Cambodian population has been decimated, there are signs of improvement, Schmidt said.

"Today we are seeing hardly any cases of of outright starvation," he said. "We are working now on severe malnutrition. Next we will be bringing in seeds for planting and offering help in agriculture."

IN AFGHANISTAN, Schmidt said, UMCOR has undertaken to help some 700,000 refugees who headed through

Schmidt said UMCOR workers cooperate with the Red Cross and the United Nations in the various areas where

"We agree not to overlap and get in each other's way," he said. "The difference is that we work from the bottom by cooperating with the churches. The U.N. will provide the tents and the food in Cambodia, for instance, but the IV solutions are what we bring in.'

SCHMIDT ALSO told the seniors how bulldozer operators and band uniforms had symbolized UMCOR operations in recent years.

The bulldozer operators, he said, were procured after Hurricane Fifi had leveled large areas of Honduras several years ago. The band uniforms profor six years, one for five." They were dispatched to Honduras,

"So if anyone tells me that church people are willing to send money but not to give of themselves, I can tell them differently.

After that particular disaster, Schmidt said, UMCOR used rotating personnel to keep a medical team operating for more than two years.

"Doctors and nurses would stay a month or so and then would go back and be replaced by others," he said.

THE BAND UNIFORMS came to the fore when UMCOR started trying to find ways to help those in the Indian villages in the mountains, said Schmidt

"They are illiterate and have no schools or sanitary facilities," he said, "and we wanted to find a way to improve the quality of their lives. But we knew it wouldn't do any good just to send money. When the funded project was over conditions would just revert to what they had been.'

Instead, he said, the agency decided to take a couple of young people from each of the villages and train them in communications development, then send them back to the villages to try to learn what sort of help seemed most important.

We waited and waited after they "That bank came up with the names went back," Schmidt said, "and finally we heard from one of the villages. They of two Spanish-speaking bulldozer ophad established a village council and had considered what were their top priorities they told us that at the top of the list they had put band uniforms.

"Our first reaction was to say the request was utterly stupid, but then we decided to help them," he said.

THE MISSION workers first showed the villagers how to take the wool of a mountain goat that flourished in that area and spin and weave it into cloth.

"Then they got sewing machines, and learned to make dyes," Schmidt said.

"After a year they had the nicest band uniforms on that mountain.

They also had somthing else. They "And we couldn't believe it when had several small industries going, and they had a new sense of self-respect that led them to realize their town needed other improvements, better schools, better sewers and so on."

But that was not the end of the band uniform story, according to Schmidt. "The next village over noticed the improvements and decided to begin its own, and then other settlements in the area did the same," he said.

"And the thing has been spreading ever since, through the mountains of Hondouras and now Nicaragua.

Resident gets jail term and fine for bribery

A Plymouth Township man has been sentenced to nine months in jail and fined $50,000 by a U.S. District Court judge after pleading guilty to bribing teamster official Richard Fitzsim-

Norman Klein, 43, was indicted on charges of bribing Fitzsimmons to handle grievances and ensure labor peace while a vice president for FCS Industries Inc. The company is an auto parts hauling firm with branches in Michigan and Illinois.

Klein, his partner Richard Wolfe of Illinois and Fitzsimmons were sentenced last week by Judge Avern Cohn.

A grand jury had filed its indictments against the three men last August and in December Klein and Wolfe pleaded guilty to five of 39 bribery counts. They then were released on $1,000 personal bonds and had been awaiting sentencing ever since.

Fitzsimmons, son of Teamsters International President Frank Fitzsimmons, was sentenced last Friday to 21/2 years in prison and fined $10,000 by Judge Cohen. He had been charged with "unlawfully accepting payments to a labor official" totaling about $100,000 from the Kubach Trucking Co.

of Dearborn. He pleaded guity in December to two of the 88 bribery counts established by the grand jury.

Fitzsimmons, who also was directed to relinquish his union activities, was accused of demanding the payments from the two trucking officials while he was vice president and recording secretary of Local 299.

The Kubach trucking firm had contracted drivers to Klein's company were named by the grand jury. It's also been reported the payments were made through ICS's consulting firms of J&R Consulting Service and C&S Consulting Service.

Klein and Wolfe both received the maximum fine of $50,000 as covered It's been charged Klein and Wolfe by law, however, their nine-month prismade five payments of $700 each to on sentencing fell short of the five-year Fitzsimmons after receiving the money term as allowed by law. Fitzsimmons

Consulting firm gets government contract

Odiorne Associates of Plymouth has been awarded a contract to develop and conduct a training workshop in career counseling with the International Communication Agency in Washington,

Jack Bologna, president of George Odiorne Associates, Inc., a management consulting firm, said that Fred DeRoche would be coordinator for the project

DeRoche, who is a vice president and senior associate with the company, will be joined by his wife Jeanne Knopf DeRoche in the project.

"The objective of the four-day career counseling workshop is to improve the career counseling capabilities of 16 foreign service personnel specialists from the International Communication Agency and Department of State," explained Bologna

"The participants will be career counselors, geographically-based area personnel officers, and personnel policy-makers and administrators.'

The workshop will be conducted March 4-7 at the ICA Conference Center in Washington, D.C.

The conference will address such themes as theory and practice of career development, the state of the art, counseling skills, affirmative action and upward mobility, the use of skills and values identification in developing an individual career development plan.

DeRoche's experience in career counseling includes three years of individual counseling as well as conducting group workshops in career/life plan-

While at Haldane Associates DeRoche conducted in-service training programs for the Great Lakes area counseling staff. He currently is chairperson for the newly created career development division of the Greater Detroit Chapter of the American Society for Training and Development.

Besides being a training associate with Odiorne Associates, Mrs. DeRoche is an experienced family therapist at Midwest Clinic in Plymouth where she specializes in treating chemically dependent families and career needs of recovering alcoholics.

The couple has team-taught workshops in interpersonal communications for couples and have developed a new workshop designed to meet the emerging problems and decisions of

Job desires surveyed

Getting a good job that provides financial security.

That's the first priority of academically superior, first-time college freshment residing in the metropolitan Detroit area, according to the University of Michigan-Dearborn.

UM-D, which draws heavily from the western Wayne County suburbs, said 708 out of 801 of it first-time freshmen were polled by the American Council on Education and UCLA.

"GETTING A better job" was cited by 78.7 percent of those surveyed. Nationally, 78.1 gave the same response.

Some 94.5 percent of the UM-D group indicated a high school gradepoint average of B or better. The national average was 66.7 percent.

Amonge UM-D freshmen, 66.9 percent said they ranked in the top 20 percent of their high school classes. The national average was 32.9 percent.

The top 10 "feeder" high schools for UM-D in fall of 1979 were:

Bentley, Livonia; Dearborn and Edsel Ford, Dearborn; Bishop Borgess, a regional school in Redford; Churchill, Also, Fordson, Dearborn; Trenton; Allen Park; Divine Child, Dearborn; and Taylor Central.

"TODAY'S HIGH achieving student is a pragmatist," said Edward Bagale, UM-D's director of admissions.

"This type of student is selecting a college or university that can provide a high quality education in fields that are career-related.

Career fields attracting the most students to UM-D were: engineering, 26.5 percent; business executive, 12.5; accountant, 8.3; computer analyst or programmer, 6.2; lawyer, 5.9; and physi-

Alice's blacksmith essay makes her shoe-in winner

By SHERRY KAHAN

"The American Revolutionary War would not have been won without the help of the blacksmiths."

This is the opinion of eighth grade historian Alice Schlaepher of Riley Junior High School in Livonia.

Peering back into history, Alice learned that not only did these brawny pioneers make anchors for ships, hoops for barrels and shoes for horses, they also cast cannon and gun barrels.

Her research in the social studies class of Delores McManamon was inspired by an American history essay contest conducted by the John Sackett Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. The title assigned was "Industries and Trades during the American Revolution.'

Alice's essay on blacksmiths made her one of the winners of the contest. Runners-up in her school were Douglas Otsuji, who explored the importance of mills which ground flour, and Abraham Yaffai, who looked into the iron indus-

"Alice's essay was well organized, well written and fluent," said Carolyn Kerwin, DAR contest chairwoman. The essays were judged on the basis of historical accuracy, adherence to subject, originality, interest, neatness, spelling and punctuation. Alice's article will be sent on for further judging to the state DAR chairwoman. It then will be judged on state, divisional and national levels by a panel of three non-DAR judges.

"I like learning stuff," said Alice. "The blacksmiths were pretty interesting. I like writing a lot. I plan to go to college to study to be a vet."

FROM UNDER THEIR spreading chestnut trees, these early pioneers in the practical use of metals bent and twisted iron into a variety of shapes that they were essential in the daily life of early Americans. Horsepower was the main means of locomotion then. The blacksmith kept the horses' hooves in working order.

"It was a difficult job that required a lot of care," wrote Alice in her essay. The metal was heated on the forge by the blacksmith, "When it was red, he removed it from the fire and started to

It was then fitted to the hoof at hand, and the metal hammered into the correct shape so it fit snugly.

"If the shoeing wasn't done properly, the horse may not be able to trot or gallop correctly, if at all," said Alice.

When the shot was fired that was heard 'round the world, and the Revolutionary War started, it was important that men like General Washington be able to move around fast. Blacksmiths were in demand both for shoeing horses and for making armaments as well.

The casting of cannons and gun barrels required a lot of skill, said Alice's

"The barrel had to be heated and shaped until everything fit together. This was a time-consuming project. If there was a flaw in the workmanship, the cannon or gun may not fire proper-

If these blacksmiths had not been so skillful in this task, there would doubtless have been fewer soldiers left to become ancestors of today's DAR mem-

IN HIS SPARE TIME the smithy would make his anvil ring with the sound of his beating into shape useful items as axes, latches, hinges, locks, nails, weathervanes, andirons, gates, fences, and grills, according to Alice.

These items today are treasured by antique collectors, who also hunt for the tools of the blacksmith trade, the anvil, puncher, ball peen, swage and hasp tongs.

While Alice was boning up on blacksmiths, Abraham was investigating iron and its many by-products. Douglas was learning that water pressure hitting a paddlewheel turned a rod which turned a series of gears that turned the grinding stone that ground the wheat that filled the stomachs of the early colonists.

"Sometimes extra grain fell into a box the miller put there, and he either used it or sold it," said Douglas. "Other times millers took part of the milled product for their toll."

Learn how to manage time, stress, packing

Six personal development workshops dealing with communications, adjustment, stress management and one-bag vacation packing have been scheduled during March and April at Schoolcraft College.

The College's Women's Resource Center, 591-6400, ext. 430, is accepting registrations.

A communication workshop "Between Parents and Teens" is scheduled from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday,

Facilitator Betty Wagner said the workshop is designed to help parents and teens learn how to enhance good relationships and confront conflicts through more effective communication. A $15 fee is charged

Another Saturday workshop, "The Art of Coupling," is scheduled from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. on March 15. Jack Bradford, a marriage and family counselor, will help couples enrich their relationships by giving special attention to improving communication, shared feelings, negotiating differences and enhancing intimacy.

The fee is $20 per couple and participants should bring a bag lunch. "Between Marriages: Sexual Readjustment after Divorce" will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, April 1. Facilitated by Livonia psychologist Dr. Wayne Fisk, this evening workshop is designed to help recently divorced persons cope with a new range of sexual relationships and intimate lifestyles. The fee is

Two seminars for coping with daily life problems will be offered: An allday seminar on "Time Management" is scheduled from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Tuesday, March 4. Facilitator 'Alice Belfie will help participants determine priorities and deadlines and examine habits and skills.

On Tuesday, March 18, Ms. Belfie will facilitate a seminar on "Stress Management" from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Participants will attempt to understand the physiology of stress and to assess their own stress load. The fee for both seminars is $20 and participants should bring a bag lunch.

A final workshop designed to help develop personal skills is entitled "Have Luggage . . Will Travel," and is scheduled from 7 to 9 p.m. on Tuesday, March 4. Facilitator Jan Brock will give potential travelers demonstrations and show them how to pack for a weekend or two months of travel using only one bag. The fee is $10.

Schoolcraft College is located at 18600 Haggerty Road in Livonia and the Women's Resource Center is located in the second house from the south parking lot.

These 'athletes' can really push hard

The Olympics. Winning. The push to the top. Competition. Children learn and absorb this aspect of the big games regardless of our own personal involvement or feelings.

They will hear it on the car radio and see it on television. Others will speak of the Olympics. And since the experience is unavoidable, we might as well take advantage of its lessons.

The Olympics represent the supreme effort of the individual, even in group competition. The bob-sledders and the hockey players struggle as a group. But even the figure skaters and speed skaters feel a collective urge to succeed.

THE POWER of team work and the singular effort of the individual can be dramatically demonstrated at home. We'll call our project the Seed-Lympics.

Take a handful of lima bean seeds or other Large and fast-growing seeds. Soak them overnight in water.

Line a jewelry box or small shoebox with foil. If a shoe box is used, crumple some additional foil and put it in the box. This will act as additional fill as well as drainage. Fill the box to the top with potting soil.

Now press the water-soaked seeds one by one into the soil, spreading them evenly around the center of the box. Moisten the soil thoroughly with water, cover with plastic wrap and put the lid on the box.

The plastic wrap will prevent the soil from drying out.

NOW COMES the wait. In just a few days, the power of the seedlings will push the box top right off. You can call it the desire to succeed, and the push to the top is shown graphi-

One seedling may be at the forefront of the effort. Which was the strongest? Which the fastest? Did it take several working together to accomplish the lid-lifting? Did some sit back to cheer the others on? For a child, the curiosity of this mini Seed-Lympics will be a golden opportunity to discuss competition. After all, these seeds too are striving for gold - the sun. Pat Bordman has taught elementary school and conducted workshops and lectures on education. She also has studied photography at Oakland University. She and her husband live in Farmington Hills and have two daughters.

Dinner and dancing

Big band plans annual soiree

Sixteen fellows from the western suburbs come from different walks of life and have a bevy of individual activities. But they all have one thing in common and one evening a week together when only emergencies or other matters of equal urgency take preference.

The common denominator is the Metro-West Big Band and the evening is every Wednesday for rehearsal.

Now in its seventh year, the band is preparing for its annual big band dinner-dance, the biggest event of all its activ ities. The event will be held March 29 at the UAW Hall, on Van Born just west of Middlebelt.

Doors open at 6:30 p.m., dinner is at 7 and dancing gets under way at 9. Tickets are $35 per couple and include the works: dinner, dancing, reserved seats and an open bar.

"All they do at our dances is show up, sit down and have a lot of fun," says Jim Falk, band manager. "We've had this dance for years and know what the people want and we have a lot of return customers. They love it. It's reminiscent of the big ball room events with spacious room for dancing and a lot of people."

Proceeds of this dance will go toward helping other groups and toward their own projects - like expenses for playing VA hosp itals, senior citizen events and for helping with school music activities.

"We hope to use some of this event's income for scholarship assistance for Schoolcraft College's Summer Music Program. It's a great program with some fantastic names in at 421-9893 during the day and 427-7578 evenings.

music lending their talents in order to help young musicians improve their own ability.

Our dance is organized so that everyone can have a good time. Seats are reserved, and everything from coat check to a patrol of the parking area is provided. That doesn't preclude the remote possibility of a problem, but it makes people feel a lot better and is more conducive to relaxing and literally 'having a ball.

"Remembering that those who are attending still love the big band sound, we try to provide music which will please every body at least part of the time.

"We've got a lot of new charts, not only of old favorites, but some new things too. For instance, we're added things like Tommy Dorsey's great 'Sunny Side of The Street,' Count Basie's 'One O'clock Jump,' and a couple of Harry James tunes including the sentimental favorite, 'You Made Me

"Our newer stuff," Falk added, "includes things like Billy Joel's 'Just The Way You Are,' and others like 'Blue Bayou, 'Feelings,' and 'Rainy Days and Mondays.' And then there are the polkas, latins and waltzes to fill out the evening.

"A lot of people make a party out of it, and I've never heard of anyone who went away without having enjoyed themselves; that's the kind of event it is.'

Those interested in the dinner-dance can call Dan Kalifut

JOHN CARRIDINE MARTIN SCOT KOSINS A Hollywood wish becomes reality for local composer

By CORINNE ABATT

Somebody or something - the gods, the stars, the good fairies - was smiling when Martin Scot Kosins boarded the plane for Los Angeles in December.

A Detroit area classical composer and former supper club pianist, the 32year-old Kosins has two of his compositions on record. The first album, "Shadows of the Heart" with Marjorie Gordon and members of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, is on the Orion label. The second, which came out a year ago, is "Love Letters," a dialogue for flute and piano featuring flutist David Shostac and pianist Anita Swearengin on Crystal Records.

Kosins carried some of his taped compositions to California in the hopes that he could be considered to do sound tracks for movies.

The day he arrived opened auspiciously. He happened to pick up a copy of the Los Angeles Times and saw a review of "Love Letters." Later, leafing through the December issue of Fanfare magazine, he spotted a review of the two-year-old "Shadows of the

"I had to go to Los Angeles to see those things," he said, "even though while in Detroit I worried that I hadn't gotten to the coast in two years.'

It was exciting to discover his worries were unfounded, he said. "Everything that happened on this trip took place because of the 'Love Letters' album," he said.

He met jazz and pop flutist Bud Shank, whom he admired for many years. Shank plays in Los Angeles with a group called The Orchestra. Kosins was in the process of forming his own recording and publishing company, Open Sky. After hearing the album for flute and piano, Shank readily agreed to do some recording for the new company. The Orchestra asked Kosins to write a composition for two flutes and orchestra for their repertoire.

Then came a letter from another flutist, Mark Thomas, who informed the composer that he was recording "Love Letters" and it was scheduled for release in August.

Another internationally known flutist, James Galway, contacted Kosins about doing an arrangement of "Love Letters" for flute and string orchestra. Open Sky was formed initially so Kosins could record his own compositions, but he doesn't rule out expanding beyond that idea. As the plans for the venture went together quickly, Kosins thought about his first record album. Centainly, "Songs of the Seeker," one of his favorites, would be on it. This piece for chamber orchestra and narrator was premiered in Detroit on the Laudenslager Music Series last April. Kosins said he wrote the narrator's part with his movie hero, John Carridine, in

Why not contact Carridine's agent, what did he have to lose, he asked himself. After listening to the tapes, the actor's agent responded favorably to the Floating along on that tenative approval, Kosins and some friends went out to dinner the next evening and found themselves seated near a table occupied by Carridine and his two sons. Since luck had been running with him, Kosins decided to test it one more time. He approached Carridine and told him about "Songs of the Seeker."

"He was so gracious," said Kosins, "and he has a way of hanging on every word you say.'

Carridine said yes; if his agent liked it, he would do it.

THE FIRST ALBUM of the new company was taking shape rapidly. It would include "Songs of the Seeker" with Carridine as narrator, "Love Letters" and a new composition, "Winter Moods for Flute." The side with Carridine and Shank will be recorded in Los Angeles and the flip side in Detroit.

"It will all take place this summer and mid-fall," said Kosins.

In the meantime, three producers have told Kosins they are considering him for soundtrack work and he is negotiating to do a second score for a children's program in the 1980 Meadow Brook Music Festival.

It would seem as though Kosins didn't have to go to Los Angeles to be discovered. It had found him before he arrived and was just waiting for him to show up last December.

The word is casual for today's lifestyle

From Madison Avenue to Madison, Wis., and beyond, casual is becoming a 24 hour a day lifesyle. New York's Madison Avenue, for example, used to be the land of the gray flannel suit. Today it's the land of the jogging suit.

And all those joggers and tennis players, squash players and backpackers aren't coming to Hepplewhite and Louis XVL drawing rooms. They're coming home to casual, comfortable

If you want to go from a formal decorating style to something more causal, here are a few starting points.

Replace fussy drapery treatments with shades or blinds. Or do away with window treatments altogether assuming they're not needed for light control or privacy. Take down that damask or flocked wallpaper and repaper walls with textured paper, the suede look, grass or other fiber. If paint is your preference, stucco paint or texturedsand paint is the thing to use.

Casual calls for a pair of woodframed beach chairs or deck chairs with colorfully striped or solid-colored sling seats. If that's too casual for you, re-do your upholstery with something in a textured fabric, something you wouldn't hesitate to sit on, lounge and be comfortable with.

TAKE UP YOUR wall-to-wall carpeting if there's wood under it and adorn that wood floor with wool or straw scatter rugs. If you carpet, choose one of today's nubby Berberlook wall to walls carpets. It will take a little care and a lot of abuse. Slipcover your moire, satin, damask or silk-covered funiture with washable canvas, or

Store your ornate Louis lamps in the attic. Purchase replacements of rope, wicker, brass or beaten copper, or go the track lighting route. Lighting should be unobtrusive.

Make sure everything you buy is easy care. Unpolished, distressed woods, washable upholstery fabrics, wipe down mica laminates, and dust off window treatments are all excellent choices. That's if you are looking for real "casual."

Add, subtract, multiply, and divide. That may not sound much like a formula for decorating but it can be, and often is, the solution for decorating problems and changes.

ADD new-looking colors and accessories to a tired old room, If walls are "eggish" color, paint them frosty white. Navy and white upholstery colors and old ginger jar green lamps can become white with a can of spray.

SUBTRACT unnecessary clutter from your life. Subtract the unattractive, often as important to decorating as adding the beautiful. Subtract the clutter of little pictures that hangs over the sofa and replace it with one, large, handsome print. Subtract all odds and ends, bric a brac, dust collectors and will need two maps to find his way around - the state's and the National Forest Service's.

MICHIGAN'S new state transportation map is rolling off the presses with the billing that it's "the most complete transportation map the state has ever produced." So says Hannes Meyers Jr., chairman of the State Transportation Commission.

The state's excuse is that the map would be too cluttered if national forests were included.

It isn't so. As late as 1962, national forests were shown on the old State Highway Department's map.

Two years ago, the map's photos emphasized southeastern Michigan - Ren Cen, Greenfield Village and the like.

This year the upper peninsula gets its dues. There are photos of Lake of the Clouds, The Bridge, Tahquamenon Falls, Pictured Rocks and the Soo canal. "Down below" is represented by

"This is a training opportunity rarely available," said Roger Sutherland, a Schoolcraft College biology instructor and education chairman of the Michigan Audubon Society. Purpose is to improve nature counselor training across the state.

"You'll learn the mechanics of developing an effective camp ecology program and explore the role of the camp ecology counselor in relation to campers, staff, the camp director and the community.

FORMING A PRIME

One basic objective while playing backgammon is to form a prime (a blockade of closed points) in front of your opponent - preferably a six-point (full) prime, as in the example.

A five-point prime is also very good. Depending on the overall position, the game is not entirely lost if you are stuck behind a prime.

When both players have a full prime, however, the only way to win is to force your opponent to break his prime first. You can do this by moving your free men slowly around the board, hoping your opponent moves at a quicker

Given the proper situation, it would not be wise then to slow your opponent by hitting. In some cases, however, hitting may speed him up.

Timing - maintaining free checker movement - is therefore critical. Also important are the number of men trapped and the length of the prime.

White rolls six-four in this position. How would you play it?

INSTINCT IMMEDIATELY spots a hit and a closed 2 point. This move may defeat your purpose, however, if black gets off the bar and covers the blot on the 12 point. White cannot afford this risk. Passing over black with the sixfour is not very constructive.

Hitting black on the 2 point is a sure bet with the builder (extra checker) on the 8 point. Also a good move is hitting black with the four roll on the 12 point.

Why? White wants to be hit. This will slow him down, especially if he remains on the bar. But when black finally re-enters his second checker from the bar, he is a strong favorite to break open his bar point with the remaining

No one is saying white will win this game hands down, but he has excellent prospects.

'Joe Egg': A fine play with a message By JOHN MacCOLL

There are a few times each year when you see a play or a movie that makes a difference in your life.

Not that you become a crusading evangelist; rather, you become aware of a real problem within your moral and intellectual world. You are elevated as a person.

"A Day in the Death of Joe Egg" is one of those experiences.

Presented by the Theater Guild of Livonia-Redford, this sensitive and pointed comedy deals with the effect on a marriage from 10 years of raising a child who has severe cerebral palsy.

Author Peter Nichols has written a superb script. Filled with deep feeling, it deliberates the hardships and the joy that a child who has been reduced to a parsnip can have on an average young married couple.

There are two contrasting points of view and Nichols depicts them through two contrasting personalities.

FIRST, THE problem. Joe (played so well by Michoel Hineman), is for all outwardly signs a vegetable. Given to epileptic fits, poor Joe has been confined to a wheelchair for all of her 10 years.

nor understood any form of communication or stimuli. She is not toilet trained nor able to initiate or control any physical movement.

ther, Brian (played brilliantly by Dale Feldspausch), tries to escape the reality of Joe Egg by suppressing his emotions via jokes.

He mimics and at times makes up whole conversations with his hapless daughter. He will take nothing seriously. Any discussion as to "hope for the dear thing" or "faith being an avenue to relieve the soul" is scoffed at.

Brian wishes that his daughter were someplace else. He doesn't want to deal with her any more. He has lost all interest in her.

On the other hand, Joe's mother, Sheila (played equally well by Sandi Martin), loves her child and is willing to wait for the miracle that may some day "let Joe run around like the other children.'

She has not given up hope; she has not guit. Hers is a world filled with life, not given to the cynicism that prevails in Brian's world.

BOTH LOVE each other and both in their own way try to keep the marriage

She has never spoken, never heard together. But Brian feels trapped and can only seek to escape

First he tries to escape Joe. In this he fails. Next, he even tries to kill Joe. In this too he fails. In the end, he is In a biting satirical manner, the fa- forced to escape not only Joe but the marriage that has become Joe. In this he succeeds

Brian is depicted as selfish, a mama's boy. While true on the surface, it is Nichols' way of saying that parents are human too, that it might be better to put Joe in an institution — as harsh and uncharitable as it may sound - in order for the marriage to survive and for the living to go on.

Sheila loves her husband but loves her child more. She plays along with Brian's vaudevillian parodies. Sheila carries no malice. She is tortured by her own guilt - a guilt that only a mother could carry.

Did she carry the baby wrong? Did her promiscuous past give way to a guilt that she was unfit to be a mother? Did she therefore hold back during delivery, causing Joe's illness?

Add to this the mother-in-law (Marion Tournaud), who is ready to blame Sheila. After all, it couldn't have been her son's fault.

IT IS HARD to imagine all this as a done a marvelous job capturing the guts of this play. The best is quick and decisive. The movement, the set and the English accents are mature and Worsley has laid the way for the audience to participate and feel for both sides without taking a position. He has allowed Brian to be as right as Sheila.

The play, after all, is a comedy; to make such subtle yet demanding points is no easy task for cast or director.

Sandi Martin and Dale Feldspausch, while seemingly nervous at first, settle down to give one of the best performances seen this year in community theater — or professional theater, for that matter. They are sincere, they are funny, and they are human. Michoel, who happens to be just 9 years old, is charming as Joe. She becomes the beautiful child turnip, drawing us to her as she emotes in us the helplessness of her state.

Michoel maintains her hypnotic state of lifelessness while she is pushed, shoved and carried about the stage. She is a real trooper.

ROUNDING OUT this cast, Marion Tournaud is very good as the selfish and insensitive mother-in-law. As with comedy, but director Ron Worsley has all good supporting actresses, Tournaud puts in one of those performances that complete a show and make it a play. She grates on our nerves, just as she grates on poor Sheila.

Carole McNulty and Ron Samuel are also fine as Pam and Freddie, Sheila's married friends. McNulty plays a rich woman of the suburbs who simply doesn't want to see or be bothered with reality. Her children are fine and healthy and that's all the matters to

Out of sight, out of mind. Hence no problem.

Samuel, as Freddie, is the selfish rich do-gooder. A proclaimed socialist, he goes to every $100-a-plate charity dinner. He is more than willing to tell everyone else how to solve their prob-

OPEN HOUSE SUNDAY 2 TO 5

7291 BURGANDY DRIVE, West of Sheldon Road, North off Warren Road... in progressive SUNFLOWER, the sub. justly proud of its new neighborhood swim pool, clubhouse and park. Discernably customized is this NEVER BEFORE OF-FERED 4 bedroom, 21/2 bath brick and aluminum home, having approximately 2,200 square feet of living space. There's the finest of slate entries, upgraded carpeting and impressively proportioned 21.8x15 family room with wet bar and shining brass, arched fireplace doors. You'll note a smashing, random plank, hardwood floor in the master bedroom (which has an adjoining bath), one bedroom that could very nicely serve as a study, a full basement, attached double garage and thoughtfully planned landscaping with several trees of considerable stature. SIMPLY ASSUME THE EXISTING 834 MORTGAGE or inquire about the Land Contract possibilities. The price is fair at $86,900. 453-8200. SEE YOU SUNDAY!

SO DESERVING OF ADMIRATION HANDSOME BEACON ESTATES IS THE FA-VORED SETTING for this superbly fashioned Sullivan-Smith, 3 year old, stylish Colonial. Entrance into the home is made memorable by the enormous and welcoming toyer, providing sampling-views into several lovely living areas. An open stairwell leads to 4 cornered bedrooms, the master having its own nooks and alcoves to intrigue the family decorator. The large, deeply carpeted living and dining rooms and family room with attractive fireplace treatment, share honors with the delightful kitchen and dinette which are bathed in cheery natural light from morn till twilight. First floor laundry, full basement, central air, 2 car side-entrance garage and 2 level brick patio are advantages to expect from this CHOICELY LOCATED PLYMOUTH HOME, TUCKED AWAY ON ITS COMFORTABLE CUL-DE-SAC. $169,000. 453-8200.

SITTING PRETTY among homes of very substantial value, this ALL BRICK 4 BEDROOM, IN TOWN PLYMOUTH HOME has been improved beyond compare. You can predict as much from the outside's freshly added storms and screens, color keyed, all aluminum trim, new sod, landscaping and fencing Inside, the original, wet plastered, decorative cove ceilings add significantly to its authentic period charm. A hand crafted mantel over the living room fireplace and quaint china cupboards built into the corners of the separate dining room blend happily with the carefully modernized kitchen, where all appliances remain, 2 roomy first floor bedrooms, adjoined by a ceramic bath, and an upstairs suite among the tree tops supply flexibile sleeping options. Add a full basement, partly finished, a second bath and central air with its 1 year old furnace. Even an extra sized 2 car garage rests within this treed 75x135 foot lot. HIGH VALUE FOR $79,500. We welcome inquiries at 453-8200.

WHERE THE WALKING IS EASY TO EVERYTHING ... this NEWLY LISTED older IN TOWN PLYMOUTH BEAUTY delivers more pleasant surprises than you ever imagined within its tidy story-and-a-half. Imaginative updating, while retaining the quaintness of old fashioned ways, it provides a large, nicely windowed living room, 3 airy bedrooms, rambling kitchen and early American family room downstairs, with wood burning Franklin stove. The garage has an attached lighted workshop and fenced dog run. While you are admiring the giant pines, don't miss noting the all aluminum siding and wide, improved driveway. All this priced at $62,500, 453-8200.

OPEN HOUSE SATURDAY 2 TO 5

Says hello with good buys!

The new home you want can be just a phone call away. We know about a lot of good buys right here in town and almost everywhere else, too, because we're members of the international Homes For Living Network.

tures, prices and descriptions, can show you homes in 9,000 communities throughout the United States and Canada. Small wonder that Homes For Living members combine to sell over 200,000 homes annually. That's turning a lot of neros into a lot of good buys.

So wherever you're moving... call us and say hello.

Q&E

THE DASTARDLY DEED

or the Chauffeur's Vindication

wherein the Chauffeur discovers which newspaper provides the best vehicle for selling the dim, dark, dismal, and decrepit mansion.

Lady Lavinia Loveless: "EEEEEEEEK! Save Us!"

Livermore, the Butler: "Dolt! How dare you take Lady Loveless' Classified Ad to one of the daily newspapers! How could you expect her to be able to sell this dim, dismal, dark, and decrepit mansion without advertising in the Observer and Eccentric classified home section?"

Lady Lavinia Loveless: "EEEEEEEEK! Pray do not strike him.

He is the only one who knows how to drive the automobile!"

Penelope Pattingale, her niece, a Sweet Young Thing: "Please, Livermore, perhaps he didn't know that the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers have a solid, thorough penetration that is both amazing and marvelous."

Livermore, the Butler: "But, Miss Penelope, surely everyone knows what an astounding, multitudinous variety of people this fine, hometown, family newspaper reaches."

Farthingale, the Chauffeur: "Please Sir! I will hasten to the Observer & Eccentric office and ask the Classified Hot Line to place the ad in the next issue. I must vindicate myself for that dastardly deed."

Lady Lavinia Loveless: "Lose no time! Dash off posthaste, with all due speed and dispatch! This ad must run immediately or we are doomed."

Penelope Pattingale, a Sweet Young Thing: "Oh yes, Farthingale, do! Please, Livermore, fling away that cruel weapon.

Livermore, the Butler: "I will! But if you fail in your mission you will receive the drubbing of your life"

Will Farthingale arrive in time to place Lady Loveless' ad in the next issue? Check your Observer & Eccentric want ads under "Mansions."

* (Yes Livermore, the Observer & Eccentric Classified Ads reach readers in 12 affluent communities, over 150,000 households!)
