Self-serve pumps ignite auto repair debate

By DARLENE STINSON

Gasoline is a pretty volatile substance anyway.

But when you combine the fuel with conflicting attitudes at Canton Township hall, the topic ignites into an explosive debate.

Tempers flared over the question of self-serve stations for the second time in six months at Tuesday's township board meeting.

Trustee Robert Greenstein locked horns with Supervisor Noel Culbert over the adminstrator's proposal to lift a five-year ban on self-serve pumps.

When the one-hour debate was over, a pledge of Trustee Stephen Larson to end the haggling at the board's March 11 meeting was the only indication that the issue may soon be resolved.

"If we don't have (a planning commission recommendation) in two weeks, I'm going to vote yes on self-serve," said Larson, who considers his the swing vote on the pump-your-own-gas issue.

THE TABLING ACTION and referral to the planning commission retains Canton's place as the only community in southeastern Michigan with a ban on self-serve, said an oil company attorney who attended Tuesday's meeting.

The ban was enacted in 1975 while Greenstein served as township supervisor. A township ordinance prohibits anyone from pumping gas without a license issued by the fire department.

Greenstein ties the self-serve issue with the shortage of auto repair facilities in the township. He maintains a need for zoning stipulations which will require some stations to offer repair services before the ban on self-serve pumps is lifted.

"Because the supervisor of this township gets into an excited sweat over pumping his own gas, 45,000 people will suffer," Greenstein stated.

"By God, I wish you guys would think. The minute you can pump your own gas in this community, you'll have only one kind of gas station — and that's with no service."

Culbert, who maintains that Canton citizens want the option to pump their own gas, recommended adoption of an ordinance which requires stations to offer full-service islands along with self-serve pumps.

He contends that there is no relationship between pumping practices and auto repair services.

THE PROPOSED ORDINANCE came before the board last September after 4,400 residents signed petitions at Meijer Thrifty Acres in support of lifting the self-serve ban.

Greenstein blocked adoption of the ordinance last fall for the same reasons he now recites on the relationship between self-serve pumps and auto repair facilities.

At the time, the issue was referred to the planning commission for work on the gasoline station zoning requirements which Greenstein wants. Planners were told to submit a recommendation by Feb. 1.

But Trustee Carol Bodenmiller, the township board's representative on the planning commission, said work on Canton's proposed zoning ordinance prevented the commission from spending time on the issue.

Jim Kosteva, head of the planning department, has recommended three zoning designations for auto facilities to meet Greenstein's wishes Filling stations with gasoline only would be allowed in one zoning district, while the others would require stations with service bays or car repair facilities.

Culbert said township attorney Bert Burgoyne indicated last fall that such zoning stipulations may not hold up in court.

"THE ZONING is absolutely irrelevant," Culbert said. "This merely gives people the choice to pump their own gas or not."

Culbert noted that numerous auto repair facilities are located in Plymouth, which allows self-serve pumps.

Norman Hyman, an attorney for Total Petroleum Co., compared the self-serve ban to a prohibition on supermarkets in order to preserve the old general store.

"Most stations now don't have service bays whether they have attendants or not," said Hyman. "There's absolutely no relationship between self-serve and service bays. Mr. Greenstein so much as admitted that privately to me."

Greenstein vehemently denied the allegation.

"I think it's a policy of the oil companies — none of whom are making a profit, of course — to put up the smallest, cheapest building possible. I suspect that Mr. Hyman wouldn't be here tonight representing the gasoline world unless it was of some tremendous importance to them."

Larson, whose vote blocked adopted of Culbert's recommended ordinance last September, indicated that he has changed his mind about the self-serve issue.

"If there's a real need for repair of cars in this community, the free enterprise system will dictate that someone will offer those services," he said. "I'm not going to sit up here and continue supporting an absence of self-

Canton superintendent idea intrigues group

By CAROLINE PRICE

Would Canton's future be brighter with an appointed township superintendent at the helm?

A self-appointed committee of residents and officials is investigating whether Canton should take advantage of charter township law which allows the appointment of a superintendent who serves similarly to a city manager in a city government.

Much of the impetus to study the idea was provided by Bart Berg, a long-time member of the township's planning commission. The committee includes Berg, Robert Padget (also a planning commission member), Eldon Johnson, Flossie Tonda, Joyce Chumbley, Carl Schultz, Orren Hall and George Lawton.

According to Michigan's Charter Township Act, a superintendent would be appointed by the township board of trustees and would attend board meetings but not vote.

Many of the superintendent's duties could include those now performed by Canton Supervisor Noel Culbert. Culbert, who recently received notification of the committee's intent, said he does not support the concept.

IN A LETTER to Culbert and other members of the township board, Berg said of his proposal: "A number of Canton citizens have been concerned on how the day-to-day operation of the township could be strengthened.

'A number of Canton citizens have been concerned on how the day-to-day operation of the township could be strengthened.'

— Bart Berg

"The superintendent-manager type of management seems to be worth exploring further, to this end informational material is being developed and (there will be) possible citizen meetings later this spring.

"This action is intended to enhance and strengthen our government and is not to be taken as an effort to upset our present administrative makeup."

Berg also reviewed the "1970s of Canton Township leadership," saying that the decade's supervisors were involved in controversy, policy changes, recall elections and turmoil.

Berg said there had been a change of supervisors every two years since 1974 and "as of now, one could reasonably say that a change will likely again take place this fall.

"The only highlight of the '70s was the continuity of the clerk's office. He has through this decade managed to keep some semblance of dignity to the office and the township."

BERG SAID he has received letters of support for the proposal from such individuals as Robert Padget and Frank McMurray, another member of the planning commission as well as president of the Canton Chamber of Commerce.

Padget, however, emphasized that his position "is not to be interpreted as a strike against the current or any past administrations.

"(Noel) Culbert, (Harold) Stein, (Robert) Greenstein and (Philip) Dingeldey each must be respected for his dedication, efforts and willingness to serve."

McMurray said of the proposal, "As I look at Canton's growth and the changing of political faces every two years, I see a lack of efficiency in administrating the budget and the township personnel."

Culbert, however, showed little enthusiasm for the proposal. "I think it's premature to say we do or don't need a manager," he said.

"Due to the timing and the people involved, I'm inclined to think it's a political move. We've discussed hiring a manager, but decided against it."

Culbert said he would advocate instead an administrative assistant or ombudsman to work with the supervisor.

He added that the township administration was aiming for a system by which department heads would achieve a continuing, self-management.

The supervisor said he believed a superintendent is only appropriate in a township that does not have major growth problems, because the manager would be less responsive to the public.

Disaster plan depends on a one-man agency

By DARLENE STINSON

The evacuation plan looks good on paper.

At the first warning of a nuclear or conventional bombing attack, Canton and Plymouth residents would head in bus convoys toward Huntington, Whitley and DeKalb counties in Indiana.

But Mitchell Kozak, director of the agency responsible for the evacuation, admits that a serious shortage of funds and personnel would make implementation of the plan an almost virtual impossibility.

Kozak is the only staff member of the Wayne County Office of Emergency Preparedness, established after World War II to protect the home front against war-time and natural disasters.

At a time of increased tensions with the Soviet Union, Kozak is facing a budget which dropped from $160,000 to $30,000 this year. His deputy director, two coordinators and secretary were all victims of Wayne County economic lay-offs.

"Due to a lack of personnel, it is necessary to use this recorded answering device," says Kozak's taped voice on the agency's only telephone line.

DESPITE THE shortage of funds and personnel, Kozak faces the gargantuan task of transferring Wayne County residents from the Detroit "war zone" to safer areas in northern Michigan and Indiana.

An updated version of the county evacuation plan was approved by the emergency service section of the Michigan State Police last year.

But Kozak says many Wayne County communities have not even received copies of the plan.

Worse yet, many communities earmarked to receive Wayne County residents have not been informed of their designations, Kozak said. No plans have been made to feed and house refugees in recipient communities.

Many of the Detroit-area shelters built during the early '60s are no longer available, he said. Food rations obtained at that time have gone rancid. stockpiles of emergency medical supplies, cots and blankets disappeared from county cabinets along with the Cold War tensions of the '50s and early '60s. Kozak says the Detroit area is viewed as a primary war-time target of enemy planes and missiles.

THE CIVIL DEFENSE plan relies on a three-day warning from federal intelligence agencies of an impending attack on Detroit — a notice which Kozak called "hard to believe.".

A network of federal, state, county and municipal civil defense offices would urge citizens to evacuate via radio and television messages.

Kozak says city, school district and private buses would be used for the mass exodus from Detroit. Police at freeway-ramp checkpoints would turn back all private vehicles except large vans and motor homes packed with citizens. to diminish traffic jam possibilities.

Families which refused to leave the area would be housed in bomb shelters during an attack, the plan states.

But Kozak, who calls his agency "a token operation," is the first to admit that the plan may not work.

"I always needed more people than I had," said the three-year civil defense director. "Now I'm cut down to me and no one else in the office.

"But I think I'm past the point of being upset," Kozak said. "People call me and say, 'Gee, I didn't know things were that bad.' All they can do is contact their congressmen and tell them their feelings."

Kozak is relying on Congressional action to increase civil defense alloca-

If emergencies arise

Chief wants township prepared

Police Chief Jerry Cox hopes the roof-top sirens at police and fire stations never begin to scream.

But as chief of staff of the township's emergency preparedness office, Cox maintains that Canton should prepare a shelter in the basement of the administration building for natural and war disasters.

On Tuesday the township board approved $20,000 for civil defense this year. The money will come from an expected $480,000 in federal revenue-sharing funds.

Cox plans to use the funds for the purchase of CB radios, cots, blankets and emergency medical supplies. Emergency telephone systems are needed at township buildings to insure communication lines if a power failure should occur.

Cox admits that $20,000 will not protect township residents against a nuclear attack on Detroit or the devastation of a tornado.

But he insists that Canton should be as prepared as possible to assist regional agencies if the sirens are activated on any day except 12 testing Saturdays a year.

THE WAYNE County Office of Emergency Preparedness holds responsibility for the evacuation of residents before a military attack and for the issuance of tornado warnings.

But Mitchell Kozak, agency director, said that poor funding and staffing of his office would make implementation of war-time evacuation plans almost impossible.

Cox would like to stockpile enough emergency supplies in township hall to accommodate a few hundred citizens for up to two weeks.

The township's civil defense office would confiscate supplies of local grocery stores in the event of a military attack.

Cox said the basement of township hall was constructed as a tornado and bomb shelter. Heavy steel beams line the ceiling to prevent collapse of the upper three floors into the basement area.

"But the theory is that you can't build shelters strong enough to survive a nuclear attack. The theory is to move people out," he said.

The regional civil defense plan calls for the evacuation of western Wayne County residents to rural areas of Indiana at the first warning of a military attack on Detroit.

"The plan looks good on paper. I don't think the state or federal government is prepared," Cox said. Civil defense preparations have been on the back burner for years.

"And it's unfortunate. It's the only thing that stands between us and chaos."

CANTON'S OFFICE of emergency preparedness was established 1½ years ago with a $5,000 allocation. According to Cox, much of that money has been spent on cots, first aid supplies and other emergency equipment.

Cox, Supervisor Noel Culbert and the department heads who comprise the agency hold informal meetings once a month.

Preparations for a military attack are part of the agency's responsibilities. But Cox admits that a small township agency cannot do to diminish the dangers of a nuclear attack.

"I think we have to be realistic and concentrate on things we can deal with, like tornados and storms," he said.

Canton police would assist the Wayne County civil defense office with a war-time evacuation plan. Officers would stay behind to supervise the boarding of buses and establish vehicle clearing points at freeway entrance ramps.

"I think we recognize that as part of our jobs," Cox said of the officers' responsibility to remain in the area. "We might have the opportunity to leave, but I think that's unlikely."

WHO ARE THE FOUR C's

No, the Four C's are not a new musical group. However, they are important figures in the diamond industry. Cutting, Color, Clarity and Carat Weight are the determining factors of diamond value.

Cutting refers to proportions to which a diamond is cut. Many gemology experts have agreed upon what are referred to as ideal proportions. This proportioning, along with proper placement of 58 facets, provides the maximum balance of brilliance and fire. Any deviation from ideal proportions lowers the value of a gem. The ideal cut is now sometimes referred to as the American cut, because European gem dealers tend to prefer stones which are cut with the top portion flattened and spread. This makes a stone appear more brilliant and somewhat larger than it would otherwise, however the stone's fire (rainbow colors) is diminished in the process.

Top Color in diamonds is a complete absence of color. Most seemingly colorless diamonds have a slight yellowish tinge, and the intensity of this tinge lowers the color grade.

Clarity is a measure of the amount and nature of internal and external marks. A complete absence of such imperfections is most desirable. A few small inclusions will not affect a stone's general appearance.

Carat weight is the last factor to consider. Once all grades are given the stone, the price per carat is figured in.

No, the Four C's are not a musical group, but they are a famous four. As an American Gem Society jeweler, I have the educational background to introduce you to them in person.

Recordings 'boost' reading

A little tape goes a long way

Until just recently some high school students had little if any chance of passing a basic drivers' education course.

And as for the more involved English literature courses, those were generally viewed as behind their abilities.

But a relatively new program underway in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools has changed all that.

It's attempting to help those students with emotional and learning handicaps overcome a constant source of frustration — reading.

Within Plymouth Salem High School's library is a small cubicle where a ninth-grader is taping a short novel.

That recorded copy will later, after screening, be used by a student with a reading problem.

"The purpose of this program is to give every student the opportunity to pass a course regardless of reading ability," says Dr. Katherine Willis.

Dr. Willis, who along with media specialist Milanne Richards organized the taping effort last year, says all students who use the tapes are encouraged to read along at the same time. In this way, the student has a "boost" to overcoming some of the hurdles of reading.

"This is really a learning tool. It's just one example of using technology in tandem with teaching."

DEBBY COCOROS, a Salem resource room teacher who works with emotionally impaired and learning disabled students, says she finds the program a big help in her work.

"In our eyes it's been really successful. It's unlocked a lot of general education classes to special education students."

According to Ms. Cocoros, learning disabilities range from "word reversals" to "not being able to see spaces between words."

These problems can consequently cause a student to fall behind in a subject.

Courses like literature, which requires constant reading, are difficult to handle.

Using tapes, however, students get help in improving their reading ability as well as comprehension of the subject.

Emotional impairments also cause learning handicaps in students.

A traumatic event in one's homelife, like a death in the family, can affect a student's concentration and reading ability.

Being able to look at printed words and hear them at the same time provides a "dual imput" which can improve a student's reading skills, she says.

MRS. RICHARDS, the library's media specialist, gets constant requests for tapings and usually turns out a dozen every third day. Requests range from textbooks and novels to just a few difficult chapters in a textbook.

Novels are the most applicable to this type of program as textbooks often require descriptions of illustrations and graphs.

However, of crucial importances to high school students is help with such graduation requirements as U.S. history and civics.

"The program is sort of a survival mechanism," Willis says.

One of the more popular recent requests is the taping of the drivers' education manual.

"Think how significant that is in the society," she adds.

Rosemarie Jovanelly, a ninth-grade student, is one of some 20 high school readers who make it possible for those with reading problems to improve their performance.

Dr. Katherine Willis based the program at the park on another effort successfully tried in Boston.

Local students rate 'great' in statewide test scores

For the fourth year in a row, students here have scored well above the state average at all testing levels of the Michigan Educational Assessment Program (MEAP).

That was a highlight of a report on the MEAP test scores given Monday night by Dr. Michael Homes, assistant superintendent for instruction, to the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

Homes also stressed to the board that none of the district's schools fell in the "high needs" category which is used by the state to identify specific schools demonstrating low achievement.

The main thrust of the presentation to the school board was that Plymouth-Canton students compare very favorably with their counterparts across the state.

The MEAP is a uniform test applied statewide to all fourth, seventh and 10 graders. The test has been administered to fourth and seventh graders since 1969. This year was the first time all 10th graders statewide took the test.

Last November Dr. Homes presented a preliminary report to the school board on the MEAP which included only the local district scores. Since then, the district has received the statewide average scores and have compared them to local scores in an effort to assess performance and programs, Homes told trustees.

WHILE MICHIGAN students, on the whole, are getting progressively better at reading and math according to the latest round of assessment tests, Plymouth-Canton students continue to exceed statewide averages in both basic skill areas tested.

The gap between local scores and the state average is closing a bit, Homes said, because of special state funding given to districts which are identified as "high need" areas by previous testing.

If state funding accomplishes its purpose, Homes explained, than the gap should narrow as the low achieving districts increase in performance. (The low achieving districts received the state funding from 1977-79.)

State and school district scores are reported in terms of percent of pupils attaining 75 percent or more of the MEAP test objectives.

In fourth grade reading the statewide percent of pupils attaining 75 percent or more of MEAP objectives was 65.5 percent, while in Plymouth-Canton, it was 72.3 percent. In math the state level was 82.3 percent and the level here was 87.3 percent.

In seventh grade the test results showed the state at 69.3 percent in reading with Plymouth-Canton students at 80.4 percent. Seventh grade math scores were 52.2 percent for the state and 62.9 percent for Plymouth-Canton.

Tenth grade reading levels were 61 percent statewide and 72.3 percent here and in math were 49.8 percent statewide and 67.9 percent in Plymouth-Canton.

SUPERINTENDENT John M. Hoben commented:

"We have every reason to be proud of the performance of our students, which reflects the high quality of our instructional program and staff."

The growing and mobile student population of Plymouth-Canton reflects the state trends in the assessment tests, Homes told the board, as in almost all objectives students here consistently scored from five to 15 points higher than the state average.

In two areas, Homes noted, there are differences which could be significant. In 10th grade math Plymouth-Canton students scored almost 20 percent higher than the state average.

Homes speculated this might be because high school students are required to take a full year of math for graduation and many take their math courses in the ninth grade — the year before the test is administered to 10th graders.

Seventh grade reading scores rose more sharply here this year than the state trend. Homes said the instructional staff will be looking into a possible connection between an emphasis here for the past two years on middle school reading and the improved reading scores.

"The excellent cooperation and prompt attention given by teachers and administrators in conducting this year's state tests is to be complimented," said Homes.

Purpose of the MEAP tests is to provide information on the status and progress of basic skills education in the state. The test questions are taken from a pool of questions developed through the State Department of Education and are considered to represent some of the basic skills stressed in the common goals of Michigan education.

The test is used by teachers to help identify the learning needs of students in reading and math. Programs then can be designed to help meet those needs.

Trustees Steve Harper and Richard Arlen expressed concerns about a possible problem with math performance at the seventh grade level.

Between the fourth and seventh grades, Harper noted, there was a drop in the proportion of students achieving at the 75 percent level.

Hoben commented that tests should be viewed as red flags of possible problem areas, but the strongest indicator of student performance is the grades they take home.

Homes commented that the math scores will depend upon when certain material is introduced into the curriculum. Some individual items, such as ratio and proportion, are not taught with much emphasis until the middle of the seventh grade and the test is administered during the first month of school to seventh graders, Homes added.

Homes added that students statewide had difficulty with the same individual problems which troubled Plymouth-Canton students. The important factor, he claimed, is the relationship between local scores and the state average and whether that gap is maintained over a period of years.

Charts used in the presentation showed that relationship remained the same over the four-year period in which state and local scores could be compared at the fourth and seventh grades.

Introducing Millenium:

Elizabeth Arden's remarkable new breakthrough in skincare technology

THE WAY YOUR SKIN WORKS.....
Just below the surface of your skin, fresh, moist cells are being produced daily. As the outer layer of your skin sloughs off naturally, these new cells travel to the surface and take their place. When a woman's skin is young, this renewal process takes from two to three weeks. A mature skin can take twice as long. This results in the retention of aging cells, and the dry, lifeless look common to older skin.

NOW YOU CAN FIGHT BACK.....
Elizabeth Arden's Millenium program is unique in that it accelerates cell renewal by an average of 25%. And the newer cells which rise to the skin's surface maintain their moist, youthful appearance much longer than ordinary cells.

FOUR PRODUCTS THAT WORK TOGETHER.....
To achieve these astounding results you need only four products: Hydrating Cleanser, a water-activated cream, 4.4 oz., $15. Revitalizing Tonic, a gently buffing lotion, 5 oz., $15. Day Renewal Emulsion, a light moisturizer, 2.6 oz, $30. Night Renewal Creme, a more intense form of moisture, 1 oz, $35: 1.7 oz, $50.

Discover how the Millenium program can work for you, in Hudson's Aisles of Beauty, all stores except Grand Rapids, Saginaw, South Bend and Lansing.

Salem wrestler's father collapses during tournament

By BRAD EMONS
and TERI BANAS

A Salem High wrestler's father — "who never missed a match" — was pronounced dead on arrival at Wayne County General Hospital Saturday after watching his son perform in the Class A regional tournament at John Glenn High School in Westland.

Charles L. Snider, 48, of Canton was taken to the hospital by Westland rescue about 4:20 p.m. after he collapsed in the school gym. He had just finished watching his son, Stan, of Plymouth Salem High, in a match against a Dearborn Edsel Ford opponent.

According to Westland city records, the cause of death was listed as hypertrophic cardiomyopathy — an abnormal enlargement of the heart.

Funeral services were held yesterday in Uht Funeral Home in Westland. Burial was in Cadillac Memorial Gardens in Garden City.

Snider was employed as a maintenance supervisor with Ford Motor Co. He also was a member of the Western Wayne County Conservation Club.

Surviving are his wife, Alma, children, Stan and Cindy Lee (a student at Anderson College in Indiana) and parents, Charles and Jeanitte.

"ANYTHING we do today is secondary. This was a tremendous shock to me," said Salem coach Ron Krueger when interviewed Saturday.

"He was a big, jovial, happy guy. He was from the old school — he believed in hard work. He was very involved in everything Stan did. He never missed a match or football game."

Jeff Powers, a teammate of Stan's, had these comments:

"He was always right there. He did anything he could to help everybody. As a team we were just awed by the whole thing (his death). Nobody could believe it. Mr. Snider would have wanted us to go on."

According to Dr. Warren L. Schildberg, the meet's physician, Snider had appeared "intense during Stan's match." It was the wrestler's second match of the afternoon after winning his first against a Waterford Mott opponent.

After the end of the second match, Snider walked about 10 feet from the sidelines and then fell into the arms of Salem senior Mark Ross, said Schildberg.

Tournament trainer Angelo Rosato was nearby and began performing cardiopulmonary resuscitation along with Schildberg. Out of a crowd of about 800, several others stepped forward, claiming skill in CPR.

Both Charles and Jeanitte Snider attended the meet and Charles Snider rode to the hospital with his son.

"HE WOULD have wanted them to go on and wrestle, and they did do that," Krueger said. "I think it makes our young men more appreciative of their moms and dads."

"As a team we're going to work twice as hard," said Powers on Saturday. "Stan told us not to quit. We're going to do it for Mr. Snider."

Powers added that on the morning of the meet, he and teammate Steve Silagyi had breakfast at the Snider home.

"Mr. Snider cooked pancakes for us. He was very encouraging to us."

The Salem team went on to place second in the competition with 30 other high schools. With a second-place finish in the regionals, the local team advances to the state finals in Lansing this weekend.

To serve, or not to serve serve when there's such a demonstrated desire for it."

The township board directed the planning commission to schedule a special study session on the self-serve issue within the next two weeks. The board will consider the subject again on March 11 after a zoning recommendation has been submitted.

"But I'll tell you what will happen," Culbert said. "You'll just want another 30 days and another and another. As far as I'm concerned, this is just a big stall."

Evacuation plan funding meager

tions if a major war is ever declared. He is certain that a sound evacuation plan would be necessary.

"There's no way we can get involved in war again and be immune like at Pearl Harbor time," he said. "They'd hit where it hurts — right in our own environment."

KOZAK MAINTAINS that communities across the nation "are in the same ball of wax" as Wayne County when it comes to civil defense plans.

County offices of emergency preparedness receive half their operating funds from the federal government.

According to Kozak, Congress appropriated $131.5 million for national civil defense in 1980 — only slightly more than the 1979 appropriation of $125 million. He pegged the tentative 1981 civil defense budget at $160 million.

"These figures, of course, don't cover the cost of inflation," Kozak said. "No one's getting additional dollar bills. And Afghanistan hasn't brought about any detour in this area."

Kozak is happy that his Wayne County civil defense office still exists. There was talk of eliminating the office entirely when the Wayne County Board of Commissioners slashed its budget last year.

But Michigan Act 390 prohibits the disbursement of disaster monies to any county without an office of emergency preparedness. That stipulation kept Kozak's director job intact.

Kozak, who lacks even a secretary to answer the telephone, says his time is spent on updating the evacuation plan and writing pamphlets on tornado safety.

His office is responsible for protecting citizens against natural disasters such as tornados in addition to wartime dangers. But Kozak said his agency would rely on services of the Red Cross and other organizations to feed and shelter tornado victims.

"All we can really do is get the warning out," he said.

Productivity suffers when inflation soars — Pursell

Spiraling inflation threatens the very existence of America's free enterprise system, U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, told Plymouth Rotarians last week.

Pursell appeared to give a Washington report as part of a series of programs on government at state, national and local levels being planned by the Rotary Club of Plymouth.

The series will continue on March 7 with state Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, giving a report on what's happening in Lansing and on April 11 with U.S. Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich., giving a report from the U.S. Senate.

In between, a program on the National Republican Convention in Detroit will be given March 21 by Peter Fletcher, a member of the GOP National Committee.

The series of programs began Feb. 15 with a talk from Michigan Lt. Gov. James Brickley on the "State of the Art in Politics."

IN A RETURN to his hometown, Pursell identified inflation as the major problem facing America today.

"Inflation could go as high as 17 percent hy the end of 1980," said Pursell, "compared to an inflation rate of 4.8 percent in 1977 when Gerald Ford was president."

Many congressmen don't get excited about fighting inflation, Pursell added, because inflation produces additional tax revenue and Congress likes to spend money.

In deciding on the merits of candidates, Pursell urged voters to look at their programs and proposed solutions rather than their criticisms of problems and their personalities.

"And we shouldn't look at gimmicks such as proposed tax cuts but look at the inflation spiral and the lack of productivity in this country, and listen to those candidates who talk about long-range solutions."

An immediate concern, he said, is that the U.S. must raise its productivity so it can better compete against Japanese and West German imports.

"I have proposed legislation for talented and gifted programs in our schools because we need to use the most talented people we have to help produce future jobs."

PURSELL REPORTED that he is proposing in Congress a tax bracket reduction bill as a gradual attack on the impact inflation has on the income tax.

"When a worker moves from one tax bracket to the next highest one he has to pay more in federal income taxes. So why should he work more? I've talked with workers who don't want to work overtime because the extra money earned is eaten up in taxes.

"Many of our workers aren't willing to work more hours now. Thus, the effect inflation has on taxes is destroying the work ethic and causing a loss in productivity. And inflation won't produce jobs when this is happening."

Pursell explained this his legislation proposes to reduce income taxes gradually over a five-year period by adjusting the tax brackets upwards.

He pointed out that the 1981 fiscal year budget shows the federal government receiving an additional $76 billion in revenue from added taxes.

Of this $76 billion, some $40 billion is generated by increased tax revenues from individuals and corporations. Another $11 billion is from increased Social Security tax contributions and $25 billion is from indirect taxes.

During the next five years, Pursell continued, federal revenue from taxes will increase by a total of $115-$120 billion or an average of about $44 billion a year.

In 1979 some $17 billion more in tax revenues was produced merely because wage-earners moved from one bracker to the next highest, said Pursell describing this phenomenum as a "bracket creep."

In 1980 the bracket creep will produce $15 billion in added tax income and in 1981 an additional $11 billion, Pursell added, if inflation slows down to a rate of nine percent at the end of '61 as now projected.

Even if inflation is slowed down, Pursell stressed, workers will pay more for working more unless changes are made in the tax bracket structure.

"I think inflation and its impact on productivity and jobs is a tragic economic fact of life which is destroying our faith in the free enterprise system."

Texts taped for non-readers

Getting a job after high school is another concern that has led to the taping of vocational manuals such as cooking and carpentry books.

So far about 20 students at the Centennial Educational Park have volunteered to do the taping. Mrs. Richards would like to see more help.

"I'd like to see more people in the taping because I think there's a demand for it."

STUDENT READERS in the program can earn a full credit in one year and usually do the work during study hours or after school.

RoseMarie Jovanelly, 14, a Salem ninth-grader, says she enjoys the work because "it not only helps me with my reading but it's helping other people.

"I like doing the paperbacks because then I can do book reports on them for my English class."

Sometimes interested readers inject some theatrics into the tapes for more interesting listening.

Such was the case when two boys read "The Man Who Came to Dinner."

"It was like listening to television with the laugh track going on," Dr. Willis says. "They broke up."

According to Ms. Cocoros, the taping program also is beginning to interest general education teachers who advise "slow learners" to listen to tapes along with their course work.

"I don't think it's a way out of teaching kids to read," she says. "If anything, it will encourage them."

Union's timing on student code objection disturbs trustees

Final adoption of a revised student code of conduct may be delayed for awhile as the proposed changes may have to be negotiated with the teachers' union.

The policy change was approved by a 6-0 vote at first reading but the administration was instructed to meet with union officials before bring the policy back for final adoption.

That step was taken after representatives of the Plymouth-Canton Education Association (PCEA) claimed approval of the revised code without negotiations would be a contract violation.

Although the board instructed the administration to discuss the change with union officials, individual trustees expressed frustration that the union had remained silent until Monday night.

TOM YACK, board president, told trustees he had been notified by the PCEA leadership that the union wanted the change negotiated before final adoption.

Norm Kee, assistant superintendent for employee relations, commented that the present contract does provide that changes in existing policies affecting teachers cannot be made until negotiations are held with the union.

Kee suggested that "maybe we should meet with them to resolve any possible conflict before giving final adoption."

Although teachers did serve on the committee which recommended the proposed revised student code, Kee said, those teachers were not official union representatives according to the PCEA.

Dr. Mike Homes noted that the teachers who served on the student code committee were appointed by the PCEA.

Trav Griffin, a Michigan Education Association district officer, answered that there was a difference between a teacher representative on a committee and a union representative.

"This is a big issue with teachers in this district," commented Griffin, referring to a change regarding the use of physical force.

Griffin said that issue had been discussed at the last two executive board meetings of the union. "The union has concerns about this change in policy because it affects their ability to discipline.

Griffin added that during the past year criminal charges have been brought against teachers for using physical force and that this has made the matter of discipline a very important issue for teachers.

The proposed change reads: "Use of Physical Force: Teachers, administrators and other employees may use physical force against a pupil only when such force is necessary for self-defense or for the physical protection of the student or other persons. The force applied in any instance should be of the minimal limit necessary to achieve the approved purpose.

No employee may use any form of corporal punishment — either as a form of discipline or as a form of punishment."

RICHARD ARLEN, board vice president, objected that the union waited until Monday night to object to adoption when the code change had been discussed openly for many weeks.

"This is not a closet issue," Arlen protested. "We have been very up front about this. Where have you guys been? We are three-fourths the way down the road and you finally express your concerns. The union's in the closet."

Trustee Steve Harper also commented that the board operated very much in the open and as late as last December indicated it would approve whatever change the committee advised as long as the revisions were in line with state law.

"We told the administration to form a committee of representatives of all involved parties. That was the charge from night one. We were assured the teachers were agreeing on behalf of the union."

Trustee Carol Davis also objected and stated the public also had concerns about this issue. "Where does the onus lie to make sure that the teachers who serve on the committee actually represent the union?"

Harper commented, and Davis agreed, that if a change in the policy is proposed than the entire student code committee should be reconvened. "We shouldn't make a change at this stage just because one particular party on the committee doesn't like something."

Absentee ballots are available

Residents who will be out of town on March 27 may obtain absentee voting ballots.

Application for absentee ballots may be made at the school board offices at 454 S. Harvey, Plymouth.

Residents voting by absentee must return their ballots to the school board office by no later than 2 p.m. March 26 — the day before the election.

Bernice Nichols, school election clerk, says voters may either appear in person to request an absentee ballot or call 453-0200 and ask that an application be mailed to them.

She cautions, though, that it will be hard to apply for an absentee ballot by mail after March 19. After that date, she advises, residents should appear in person at the board office to apply for an absentee ballot.

From 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, March 22, the board offices will be open for residents to either apply for an absentee ballot or to come in and cast such a ballot. Residents also may appear in person on March 26, apply for a ballot and vote at the same time.

Residents may cast absentee ballots if they know they will be out of town the day of the election or if they cannot vote at the polls because of a physical disability.

How to contact mall merchants

Merchants burned out in the Penniman Avenue Shops' fire have set up a procedure where they can be reached by customers, suppliers, and others with business to conduct.

The shopowners realize there are some customers who had goods on lay-a-way which were burned and are entitled to a refund.

Other individuals supplied items on consignment to be sold in the shops and will want to contact the shopowners for a settlement.

Some customers also have made deposits on purchases which now cannot be made and are due a refund of the deposit.

To accomodate those kinds of requests the shopowners have set up a central phone headquarters to receive such requests for all 11 stores. That number also may be used by customers who owe money to the shops and want to settle their accounts.

Any person with business to conduct with one of the 11 shops may call Violet Gessler, owner of Handmade Dolls and Things, at 459-5457.

The shops involved are: The Settlers, Marti's Antiques, Fabrics from Linens to Leathers, Shirtworks, In the Meantime, Tara's Traders, Dance World, Nothing Ventured, Dolls and Things, Collectors Shop, and Reflections Boutique.

1st TV cable is strung

The first step was taken Tuesday morning in what will be a multi-million dollar cable television construction program in the city of Plymouth and western Wayne County.

At about 11:30 a.m. Tuesday the first cable television line anchor was inserted into the ground and the cable itself attached to a utility pole.

That installation occurred near the intersection of Dewey and Byron streets.

Inserting the first line anchor into the ground were Plymouth Mayor Mary Childs and John Raines, president of Omnicom of Michigan.

Also attending the ceremony were Eldon Martin, mayor pro tem, City Manager Henry Graper Jr. and Margaret Wilson of the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce.

The Omnicom cable system is expected to be operational in the city by July. Within the year, all Plymouth residents willing to pay for the service will be able to receive Omnicron cable television, said Raines.

The firm, which has headquarters in Plymouth, also is building cable facilities in Plymouth Township, Northville, Northville Township, and Canton Township.

The system will feature 40 channels of programming which will include educational and community-access channels and first-run movie entertainment.

Raines said this system offers the most advanced two-way police, fire and emergency request network on the market today.

"This network is designed to adapt to any future technical developments and community needs, including shopping from home and continuing education."

At a luncheon in the Hillside Inn following the outdoors ceremony, Raines said, "We need to put the anchor into the ground before installing the cable so that the pole won't lean.

"We see Plymouth as our anchor with which to start our business, and so we are installing the first system here in the city."

Omnicom's plans were made possible, he said, when the city commission was the first to allow Omnicron to operate in western Wayne County.

Jeff Dorn, Omnicom vice president, said his goal is to be able to begin televising city commission meetings to residents by the end of August.

City of Plymouth and Omnicom officials gathered at Dewey and Byron Tuesday to drive into the ground the first anchor which is part of the cable television installation process. Filming the ceremony for Omnicom is Jim Merriman of Plymouth. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Band boosters planning March 8 dinner-dance

A dinner-dance will be held March 8 in the Plymouth Cultural Center to raise funds for the bands at the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park.

The event will be the second annual dinner-dance sponsored by the PCEP Band Booster organization.

The funds are being raised to hire drill writing expertise, pay for musical arrangements and color guard directors for next season's marching band competition shows.

Jim Griffith, PCEP band director, says the weakest point in the past two seasons' shows have been the drill.

Musical arrangements have been very good, according to festival judges, but Griffith says the band needs to hire the expertise to give its competition shows the final touch to earn a first place. (The band placed second in 1979).

For this purpose, the Band Boosters hope to raise $2,000.

The admission of $17 per person includes dining, drinking and dancing to "The Big Band Sound" of the CEP Stage Band.

Cocktails will be served at 7 p.m. and dinner at 8 p.m.

Space is limited to the first 200 people who buy tickets. Tickets may be obtained at Lee Hosey's Health Shoppe, 930 W. Ann Arbor Trail, at Sharon Pugh's Sideways at 505 Forest or by calling Band Booster President Jerry Hotchkin at 420-2949.

Cafeteria staff protests cost-cutting moves

A study session will be scheduled soon to deal with a dispute which erupted Monday night between cafeteria employees and the food service management firm hired by the district to run the school food program.

Earlier, the ARA Food Service Company had made a number of recommendations to the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education on how to cut costs and contain rising expenses.

Monday night the Plymouth-Canton Cafeteria Employees Association appeared before the school board to challenge claims made by ARA and to object to some of the proposed cost-cutting measures.

The union was represented by its executive director, Charles T. "Trav" Griffin, and by Betty Wick, local president.

In preparation for the meeting the union presented board members with a 10-page position paper. During the meeting, cafeteria managers brought samples of food items they felt were inferior and demonstrated the danger of plastic trays proposed for use in elementary schools.

After the presentation ended, the board asked the administration to prepare a written response to some of the union's positions.

Tom Yack, board president, indicated a study session would be scheduled to discuss the issue with ARA and union representatives invited to attend.

Yack noted that the ARA cost-cutting recommendations were made in mid-February and that many of them already are being implemented. He indicated it was too late to stop that implementa tion but the board was willing to discuss the issues further with both parties.

GRIFFIN BEGAN his presentation by noting the union's position was that a school cafeteria should be run with a philosophy of:

"Providing nutritious, tasteful meals within a time frame which will allow students to move through the school lunch lines with a minimum of time (maximum of 10 minutes) and delay.

"Since most students only have 20 to 30 minutes for lunch, a 10-minute lunch line time only allows 10 or 20 minutes for the students to eat."

ARA had recommended a reduction of 65.5 work hours per day across the district to cut costs. The union claimed this manpower reduction would make it impossible to serve students within 10 minutes.

"It is also the opinion of the cafeteria managers that the standarized menus, poorer quality of food served, less a la carte selections, and poorer selections of food have caused, and will continue to cause, a declining student count (of students buying lunches)," Griffin added.

The union argued that ARA was proposing the cost-cutting measures only so it would make a profit — at the expense of providing nutritious meals to students in a timely manner.

"The cafeteria personnel cannot perform the same level of service with a reduction of 65.5 hours per day in their work force," said Griffin. "For ARA to make such a recommendation defies all logic."

THE UNION then claimed that many a la carte items are being sold by ARA at a higher price than is being charged in local supermarkets.

Specific examples with prices indicated were shown board members. The union stated that sales have dropped only because excessive prices are being charged. One example given was sweet rolls sold today at 25 cents each which last year were sold at eight cents each including a profit.

Griffin also argued against the use of paper products as proposed by ARA. One problem, he said, is that school cafeterias don't have adequate storage facilities for the paper products.

Another more important problem, he added, is that the paper trays are too small and flimsy for small children to handle safely — a hazard since hot foods are placed on the trays to be carried to tables.

The union also objected to an ARA proposal to take responsi bility for hiring employees, approving overtime, calling in substitutes, handling training, granting days off, and similar employee-related matters. The union argued this recommendation was a violation of contract since the school district was the employee, not ARA.

Griffin also quarreled with ARA's claims on productivity being 15.07 meals per man-hour. ARA did not include adult lunches and a la carte items, Griffin claimed, and so the figure is wrong. The union claimed the reduction in man-hours proposed by ARA amounted to a cut of about 17 percent of the present work force.

The union also objected to a recommendation by ARA that cafeteria funds be counted only once by the credit union, which receives cafeteria deposits, instead of also being counted by cafeteria managers or employees.

Cafeteria managers present at the meeting insisted the double-counting was necessary to maintain an accurate student lunch count and to follow good accounting procedures.

YACK COMMENTED that the board had received complaints about cafeteria food in past years before ARA arrived, and that it is not suprising some complaints are being heard now.

Police not soliciting

Neither the Plymouth police officers nor firefighters are currently involved in any solicitation campaign in the community.

That word of caution was issued this week by Officer Mike Gardner, president of the Plymouth Police Officers Association.

Barbara Carpenter, who conducts solicitation drives for the PPOA, said reports have been received from local businesses that an organization representing police and firefighters is soliciting over the phone for advertising in a journal.

"I don't know whether they represent a legitimate organization, but I do want to caution our businesses that Plymouth police and firefighters are not soliciting for funds at this time."

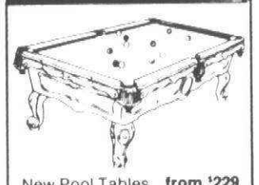

Ms. Carpenter added that the PPOA won't be soliciting until this spring when it will ask local businesses to buy advertising space in its program for its annual fund-raiser dinner-dance. Those requests will be made in person, not by telephone, she said.

In fact, Ms. Carpenter is the only person who will seek contributions from business for the PPOA.

"If the group now soliciting by phone is a legitimate police group and businesses want to contribute, that's fine. But I wouldn't want anyone to be misled into believing the contribution will go to local police or firefighters because it won't."

She added that any business receiving such phone solicitations may inform Plymouth Police Department officials so an investigation can be made into the possibility of fraud.

editorial opinion

Homes aren't full answer, but they offer hope

One down, two to go.

The news that Alternatives Services will not be leasing a home for six retarded adults in the Canton Country Acres subdivisions probably pleased many of that area's residents.

An Alternatives Services representative said he believed community opposition had much to do with the property owner's decision not to lease the house.

Further community opposition is expected on proposals to establish two other homes for retarded youths. One home has been proposed on Maben Road, the other on Herbey. Both would be operated by Pyramid Human Services, a non-profit corporation based in Ann Arbor.

Few opponents come right out and say they don't want the homes near them because retarded people would live there. Perhaps some people genuinely have other reasons for speaking out against the homes.

But most of the arguments seem to have little to support their premises.

To argue that too many people will live in the home is to argue that no one in Canton is entitled to have a large family.

To argue that the homes for retarded are a commercial use in a residential section is to say retarded people are the same as McDonald's hamburgers and can only live in areas allocated to the handling of commercial products.

SOME OF THE slickest arguments we've heard against these homes for the retarded have come from Canton Trustee Robert Greenstein.

Greenstein's position is that the homes are run by profit-making big businesses who are using the state law allowing facilities such as these in residential areas to break zoning laws and make a buck.

He says he's all for de-institutionalizing the retarded, but thinks placing them in these homes will not serve that goal. Greenstein advocates foster care of the retarded by private citizens who would be reimbursed in the same fashion as those who serve as foster parents.

It's a good idea, the ideal solution for those who are stuck in institutions because they have nowhere to go.

We don't see families standing in line at the state Department of Social Services, however, begging to take the retarded individuals into their homes. We don't know that the neighbors would be any more thrilled if families rather than a corporation were proposing to take care of six retarded persons next door.

Greenstein's absolutely right in saying that the homes for retarded proposed for Canton are not the best alternative for the mentally handicapped.

But these homes happen to be the only alternative at the moment that appears better than condeming the retarded to a large institution.

It's one thing to say "There's got to be a better way," and another to actively seek it.

It's futile when someone claims one solution is no good but has no way of providing a better, workable answer.

LOOK AT IT this way: To a retarded person living in a large institution, the thought of a smaller, more normal (if not perfect) environment is going to look pretty good.

Do we tell that person he or she can't have anything until everything can be provided? Or do we try to offer them the best life we can and continue trying to improve it?

Or, as in the case of those who would have lived in the home in Canton Country Acres, do we simply tell them they have to remain in an institution because someone was afraid property values would drop?

That appears to be what Canton residents are saying.

Rezoning opposed

Editor:

We, as homeowners in the McIntyre Gardens subdivision, are deeply concerned with the planning commission's recommendation that the property South of Ford Road, east of Morton-Taylor be rezoned from its present use of commercial to multiple residential.

Each board member has already received copies of the results of two survey-petitions taken in our neighborhood with each showing 275 signatures and only two signed for multiple dwelling. This clearly expresses the feelings of homeowners whose lives will be affected by this change on a daily basis. Therefore, we feel that our needs and preferences should be given careful consideration.

We are hereby requesting the above mentioned property to be rezoned from the proposed multiple to single-family residential.

Our first and foremost concern is to maintain the esthetics and value of our property, neighborhood and township.

There are several reasons why multiple residential is unacceptable to us and would not be in the interests of the township. There would be a great influx of traffic near our subdivision, more so than with single family homes. More units per acre equals more people which equals more cars. Also, in the area bounded by Canton Center, Ford Road, I-275 and Cherry Hill, multiple dwellings are already in abundance. We ask you to consider the appearance of Ford road in the future. It will become a strip of apartment houses and not the pleasing mixture you are trying to attain.

If the board does not agree with our assessment of the situation, then we feel that the zoning should remain commercial. The intent of the board is to put a stop to a "commercial" strip — it is not a "commercial" strip we are concerned with it has become a "fast-food" strip. If this property were to remain commercial and a different type of business were to be built, this would also break up the strip effect.

In the past, the realtors and the township board have decided the future of Canton. The time has come for the people to Canton to be heard. After all, WE are Canton.

McINTYRE HOMEOWNERS,
Canton

A full accounting

Editor:

Our Township Supervisor recently established a Complete Count Committee to assist the Federal Government in its efforts to count every citizen and resident of Canton.

If Mr. Robert Greenstein is so busy in Washington trying to get Federal funds for farmland preservation, then why is he the only trustee voting against this federal program to insure that Canton gets its share of federal Funds based on population?

FRANK A. MCMURRAY,
Canton

State good to many with tax rebate

Michigan has a public relations problem — with its own people.

It's not that folks fail to appreciate the natural beauties or cultural resources of our state.

It's that many folks fail to notice the break they get on their homestead property taxes. The reason is that the state fails to toot its own horn in the income tax instructions.

I for one heard school administrators talking about a "circuit breaker" in the tax laws that supposedly made a property tax millage hike less onerous.

I thought they were nuts. A property tax rebate from the state? That must be for retirees or welfare recipients or someone else. Whoever heard of a middle-class, married, suburban working person getting a tax break?

But it's true. Furthermore, I hear from some local officials that one-third to one-half of all households in these suburbs get such a tax break. We get it but fail to appreciate it, because it's not the kind of thing that leaps out at you when you're filling out MI-1041, the state income tax return.

DON'T PHONE me with a lot of questions and offers to debate. Just look in the middle column of page 18 of your Michigan income tax instructions.

Tim Richard

"Part III — Property Tax Credit," it says in bold letters.

It seems to work where household income comes mostly from one person's salary and where the homestead's state equalized valuation (50 percent of true cash value) is about the same as household income.

You do the actual calculations on the page marked MI-1040 CR-4. Here's how it works:

Add up you household income on line 22. Now plug in your gross property tax bill on line 23.

Then calculate 3.5 percent of your household income by multiplying it by .035. (As a simple example, if income was $30,000, then 3.5 percent is $1,050.)

Now let's say your property tax bill is $2,000. Subtract the $1,050 from that and you come up with $950.

The state rebate is 60 percent of that $950 or $570.

What happens is that your state income tax liability is reduced by $570.

Filling out the forms, you slide over it and may not appreciate it.

WHY IS THERE such a thing? Simple justice.

We pay big property taxes here in the suburbs. The bulk goes to schools because we are family-oriented and want our kids to have the best we can afford. We also have voted millage for our community colleges, a jail (in Wayne County) and other things.

Meanwhile, we're living in the most expensive, and thus the most heavily taxed, housing in the state.

The state doesn't give our school districts much aid — not the way central city schools are aided. Some suburban school districts get zero state aid.

The state in effect has told local schools and other units to look to the property tax for revenue. But that state softens the blow by giving many of us that unadvertised rebate on our property taxes.

There are breaks for persons over age 65 and renters, too, but this isn't the time to get into them.

Bob Tisch, who would be known as a tax cutter, calls these rebates "a big, damn nothin'."

Tisch is wrong, but what good is the state's rebate if it's so invisible that folks fail to appreciate it?

Some favorite old spots for shooting the breeze

Every time he picks up the paper these days and reads that more and more men are being laid off work because of the recession, The Stroller keeps asking himself, "What do these men do to pass away the idle time?"

Surely, they can't be hanging around the house. They'd be in the way of the housewife. The parks are closed for the winter, so there's no golf or other games. And there are few clubs or fraternal sites available for pastime.

It was a lot different in the days when The Stroller, then a captive in the machine shops, was among the unemployed each time the economy took a dip.

We had two places in which to spend our time — the volunteer fire hall and sitting around the cracker-barrel in the country grocery store.

THE OLD CRACKER-BARREL was an unforgettable place. Around this "monument" the men sat and discussed the topics of the day.

It was a regulation size barrel and usually was filled with packaged crackers. Great care was taken to keep it close to the old potbellied stove so the crackers would remain crisp. And the barrel had a companion in a box filled with sawdust that served as a a cuspidor. It was referred to as the "spit box."

Much of the time around the cracker-barrel was spent on the discussion of town topics, but when any of the neighbors needed help, the cracker-barrel group was first to respond.

FOR REAL FUN, though, you couldn't beat the volunteer fire hall.

This was a two-story brick building with the hose carriages on the ground floor and a recreation room, including a pool table on the second. The basement was a combination kitchen and card room.

In those days there was no such thing as a fire truck as we know it today. We had nothing but hose carriages that had be drawn by humans. It was quite a sight to see men in business clothes racing to the scene of a fire and pulling on what we called a "gig."

the stroller

W.W. Edgar

Our company, The Southwarks, had a rival fire hall a block away. This was manned by the older men in the town and it was always a race with them to get to the fire plugs first.

But the real use of the hall came when a dip in the economy forced layoffs in the shops. When that happened, we would gather at the fire hall each day to get out of the way of the ladies at home.

EACH MORNING we would chip in 15 cents, and the money went for the purchase of a bag of beans and a big ham bone. One of the men would serve as the cook and we would have bean soup all day.

"Move in close," Monte Nagler advises, and shows why with this closeup of a peacock. In another article, he will have specific ideas on photography at the Detroit Zoo.

A good picture has impact

Did you ever stop to think how common photography has become in our daily lives?

The average person is surrounded by photography all day, from the morning newspaper to billboards on the way to work, endless magazine racks, television and, of course, the prized family photo album.

But sifting through this avalanche of photography, what makes pictures good? What makes that one photograph stand out and draw gasps from the audience? Pictures that are pleasing and seem to turn people on have something in common.

The have IMPACT.

IMPACT RESULTS when you present your subject from a novel or a revealing viewpoint, when you catch the action at its peak, or select a camera viewpoint that maximizes use of lines and colors.

Good technical quality is a "must" for impact. Proper exposure is necessary to obtain the proper brightness range and tone rendering. Correct focusing is important, too, whether you want your subject needle-sharp or blurred to create a particular mood.

Here are some hints for better pictures:

Move in close: Fill the frame with your subject, especially those of people, in order to show your subjects expression.

Keep it simple: Pictures pack more punch when they express a single idea. Avoid cluttered, distracting backgrounds.

Keep your subject busy: When photographing people, have them busy doing something. And don't forget candid pictures where people always look more natural and relaxed.

Keep your camera handy: How many times have you said, "Wouldn't that make a good pictue, if only I had my camera?" Well, keep your camera handy for the many picture-taking opportunities you encounter every day.

Include foreground in scenic pictures: Foreground objects in a scenic picture add a feeling of depth and offer a pleasing "frame" for your photos.

Think before pressing the shutter: Above all, decide what you want to say with your photograph, explore your feelings and express yourself in the best possible way.

In summary, sharpen your visual awareness and your perception of the world around you. Add impact to your photos.

Monte Nagler, president of the Greater Detroit Camera Club Council, took up photograhy as a creative outlet. He owns two muffler shops and lives in West Bloomfield. A photo exhibit of Nagler's works is being shown at the Fairlane Town Center, Dearborn, now through March 9.

A visit to the tiny babies who refused to die

First of two parts.

I saw them — the babies who refused to die. For 24 weeks they had grown within a human womb.

They were never born. They were aborted.

An ethical doctor confronted with a live fetus sought immediate medical assistance. They were rushed by ambulance to the neo-natal intensive care unit of a nearby hospital where a team of medical experts fought to save a life that only minutes before was being destroyed.

IT WAS IMPOSSIBLE not to notice a difference between the aborted infants and premature infants in the unit.

Housed in individual incubators, they rested on lamb's wool squares to prevent chafing the delicate skin. Their measurements could easily have been cradled in a man's hand.

Absence of hair, eyebrows, or eyelashes caused a resemblance to textbook pictures of late-term fetuses rather than premature infants. It was this noticeable difference which made me inquire and led to my discovery.

As one began to wail a protest to the world, a nurse placed her hand through the incubator's porthole, stroking the miniscule creature with a single finger. Placidly, the little one plopped a thumb in its mouth and began sucking, curling its tiny body into a ball.

These babies were not unique. There had been, and there would be, others — some injured because of abortion techniques but all given a second chance at life.

When they survive, they are wards of the state and placed for adoption. Prior to the abortion procedure, a paper had been signed authorizing "disposal of parts as seen fit."

THE BABIES OCCUPIED my mind long after I had left the hospital. But I no longer saw the aborted infants. I saw mothers.

I remembered a white-haired woman I once congratulated on raising her grandson single-handedly through his teen years.

"It must have been difficult after your daughter died," I sympathized.

"My daughter isn't dead," came the unexpected reply. Looking directly into my eyes, she stated without emotion, "My daughter has been in the state mental hospital since my grandson's birth. She was raped nine months before."

THE MIND SCENE changed. I recalled a home for unwed mothers in the late 1950s. It was the strangest singing engagement I ever had — being sent to provide holiday entertainment for a very pregnant audience.

The evening came to a close with the expectant mothers gathering around the piano to sing "You'll Never Walk Alone" and "I Believe."

Next to the piano stood a 10-year-old girl, a baby doll clutched beside her very swollen abdomen. She was unaware that in a few days she would be anesthetized while she delivered a real baby. Perhaps her ignorance of the situation was a blessing because she never understood what had happened to her body.

The little girl was the victim of the worst form of child abuse, if a superlative can be used for such a heinous crime — a victim of incest.

The answer? The only answer I know lies in an Indian saying: "Unless you have walked a mile in another's moccasins, do not say what you would do."

I saw them and I wish I never had. Nobody really wants to cry.

Bond packaging reason is given

Editor:

After more than a year of studying student housing options, your board of education at its Feb. 11 meeting approved placing three propositions before the school district voters on March 27.

This election could be one of the most important elections ever held in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. The results of this election may determine our student housing patterns for the foreseeable future.

Our school district has grown at a rapid pace over the last 10 years. To date it has been possible to house our expanding elementary and middle school population through the use of the Extended School Year (ESY).

The problem facing our school district now is that we presently have severe overcrowding at the high school level and foresee the need for more ESY schools to handle growth in grades K-8. Our school buildings must have renovations, replacement of worn-out equipment, and improved energy use.

The schools' needs have been packaged into three separate propositions. There were two reasons for this approach. First, there existed some differences of opinion among school board members on how best to deal with our student housing needs. Second, board members wanted to provide voters the opportunity to express an opinion on each proposition.

We were advised by some people that three separate propositions could confuse the electorate and make explaining the propositions very difficult. We rejected this position because of our respect for the electorate.

It is our belief that the voters of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools will invest the necessary time and thought to fully understand the ramifications of a positive or negative vote on each proposition.

There will be a great deal of information available through the newspapers, school district publications, school newsletters, the March 3 public forum, radio station WSDP FM (88.1), and personal contacts.

We encourage you to review this information and to seek answers to all your questions, so that you may make a wise decision for our future.

Merchants have helped Newcomers

Editor:

The Feb. 21, 1980, edition of the Plymouth Observer contained a letter from two members of the Plymouth Newcomers Club. This letter in no way reflected the opinions of the majority of the club, nor of the Plymouth Newcomers Club Board.

The letter incorrectly stated the purpose of the club ". . . to familiarize its members with businesses and restaurants. . . ." The purpose of the club as stated in our constitution is to: "bring together in friendly fellowship, people who are newcomers to the City of Plymouth and Plymouth Township, to help make them feel that Plymouth is a fine place in which to live; insofar as is possible to introduce newcomers to the community and its various facilities."

The future of Plymouth Newcomers Club does not depend on services rendered to us. The future of Plymouth Newcomers rests with the members of the club and their willingness to provide the time and effort to continue the club.

The merchants of Plymouth have been very accommodating. They have provided us with prizes for our couples' social events and for our annual fashion show. They have donated the printing of tickets and their services for many events. We feel the Plymouth community merchants have supported us and hope they will continue to do so.

We appreciate the many fine, generous people in Plymouth and look forward to continuing our relationship with the Plymouth merchants and the community.

Handicapped child a joy — not burden

Editor:

I'm writing concerning the Feb. 11 article "For these mothers, tomorrow's a burden."

I am one of the mothers of these children that your paper ignorantly call "burdens." Sure it's alot of work, repitition, pushing a baby to his limits, and then there's many set-backs, but can you imagine the tremendous amount of joy we feel as we can see our child progressing?

Why is it that the news media seems so bent on making these children a subject of pity? We don't need or do we want anyone's pity. What we do need is a positive attitude toward the handicapped.

We need the public to be better informed and come out of the dark ages concerning human beings that weren't as lucky as you and I, and were born into this world, through no fault of their own, handicapped. You are not doing them any service by this type of negative reporting.

I would sincerely hope that you realize the injustice that you have done by this negative publicity, not only to our children but to all of the handicapped.

The real burden to deal with is not our children, but the news media and public's lack of ability to accept the handicapped as whole human beings, rather than society's misfits.

Rocks looking to peak at state

Salem strong at mat tourney

By BRAD EMONS

Don't count out Coach Ron Krueger's Plymouth Salem wrestling squad this weekend in the state Class A tourney at Lansing Eastern.

The Rocks qualified seven grapplers for the tourney which begins Friday after finishing a close second at the regional event last Saturday at Westland John Glenn.

Temperance-Bedford, which qualified eight, edged the Rocks, 125-119.

John Glenn, the host, was the area's next highest placer in 16th spot with 16 points. Livonia Franklin and Plymouth Canton did not score.

"We feel we can do better," said Krueger. "We had a tremendous effort Saturday. Some of our guys beat guys who they had lost to earlier in the season.

"We did one super job. Now we have one more week to improve. We're hoping to reach our peak at state."

Salem had three individual champs — Jim Schultz (108 pounds), Jeff Powers (188) and Greg Gattoni (heavyweight).

The Rocks' Jerry Valchine gained second in the 141-pound class. Teammates Jeff Brown (115) and Mark Ross (129) both took third places. Jeff Dunson (122) garnered fourth spot.

Powers was particularly impressive as he raised his season mark to 36-4. He decisioned Farmington's Greg Lemanski for the first time this year, 13-9, in the finals.

GATTONI WRESTLED "mistake free," according to Krueger to capture the heavyweight division. He edged Hirim Golden of Romulus in the finals, 7-6, to raise his record to 29-11. The Salem senior beat two league opponents enroute to the finals — Dean Ledford of Edsel Ford (8-3) and Joe Hunter of Trenton (4-2). It was Gattoni's fourth win this season over Hunter.

Schultz, now 45-2 on the season, decisioned Dave Denny in the finals, 9-4. The Rock senior currently holds the school record for points (303), pins (26 along with Powers) and wins (45) in a season.

Valchine, 44-4, lost a tough match in the final to Bedford's Jeff Striggow, 10-7.

Striggow and Jack Roth (101) were the only Bedford wrestlers to win championship finals.

Brown, with 128 career wins, lost his opening match but fought his way back to gain third place. Now 38-8 with 25 pins, Brown took third by pinning North Farmington's John Donovan in 4:15.

Ross, 42-6 overall, took third place by defeating old nemisis Kelly Carmichael of Edsel Ford, 4-0. Ross could reach the 100-win mark in his career with a win Friday at the state meet.

Glenn's top finisher was Gary Black in the 201-pound division. He won three of four matches on the day and beat Tom Garrett of Milford in the consolation finals, 7-1.

DUNSON pulled off an upset in his opening match by decisioning Bob Leffler of Bedford with a laterall drop. Leffler was forced to default after being injured. After being sent to the consolation bracket by Romulus' Eric Waters (pin 5:30), Dunson came back strong to defeat Alan Bergmooser of Trenton, 3-2.

Leffler and Dunson met again for the third place with Leffler taking a 7-4 decision.

Canton's Tom Harreld (112) lost both his matches on the day while John Glenn's Duane Gibbs (145) was forced to the sidelines with a separated shoulder. He beat Mark Bartram of Farmington in his opening match, 6-4.

Glenn's Dave German (188), coming back from a bout with the flu, lost two overtime decisions to Andy Voucolo of Huron and Tom Gay of Trenton. Glenn's other regional qualifier, Keith Zimmerman (170), won one of three matches.

Salem's Steve Szilagyi (170), a junior, was eliminated by Al Ortman of Bedford (pin 4:50) and Jim Foster of Milford (7-3).

"We've been plagued by a combination of injuries and sickness," said Glenn Coach Bob Lusk. "This has been a rebuilding year too. We had a lack of young kids and first year people even though they were 12th graders.

"We'll have quite a few back next year."

Canton cagers secure 8th straight at Belleville

By BRAD EMONS

Plymouth Canton appears to be picking up steam as the state basketball tournament nears.

The Chiefs rolled to their eighth straight victory Tuesday night on the road by downing Belleville, 65-52.

Canton, now 13-6 overall, received balanced scoring to beat the pesky Tigers. Frontliners Brad Westin and Sean Houle paced the Chiefs with 18 and 16 points respectively. Houle also grabbed 12 rebounds while Westin collected 10.

Dave Visser, a 6-foot-6 senior forward, played a fine floor game with 12 points and eight assists.

The key to Canton's victory was the relatively easy time with Belleville's full-court zone press.

"I thought we effectively broke it," said Canton Coach Craig Bell. "Anytime you can win at Belleville it's a nice win for your program."

Visser, along with guards Dave Malek and Scott Adler, were able to cut through the Tigers' press. Canton committed 17 turnovers for the game, mostly in heavy traffic in and around the basket. They were sharp all night in the backcourt.

"Sean and Brad got some key rebounds late and Dave handled the ball for us," complimented Bell.

Belleville, which has won just four games all season, stayed with the Chiefs for almost 26 minutes.

CANTON FINALLY took command early in the fourth quarter. Houle's two free throws with 6:53 to go gave the Chiefs a 10-point bulge, 54-44.

With almost three minutes to go, Bell ordered his team into a semi-stall, working for the high percentage shot.

"We got inside on a tall team and couldn't put it away," said Belleville Coach Tom Niemi. "Offensively we were there, but couldn't challenge them on the boards.

"After the first quarter we had to adjust defensively. We went to a press and a 1-3-1 trap."

Canton scorched the nets and grabbed a 22-14 first quarter lead as Visser and Westin combined for 18 points. Westin scored two baskets on back door plays.

In the second quarter Belleville heated up, closing the gap to two points on two different occasions. Jeff Patterson's three-point play with 4:06 left in the second period pulled the Tigers to within two.

Don Dombey led the winners with 14 points. Salem's Dave Slavin paced all scorers with 16.

HEATON OFF TO NATIONALS

Plymouth Canton graduate Kyle Heaton, wrestling for Lake Superior State as a sophomore, qualified for the NCAA Division II National championships this weekend in Omaha, Neb.

He qualified after winning the 167-pound weight class at the Mideast Regional held recently in Dayton, Ohio. He scored three impressive victories to increase his record to 16-4.

He opened the tourney by pinning Greg Mannino of Oakland University. Heaton then crushed Bob McGrain of Ashland College, 20-5, on a major superior decision.

In the championship final, Heaton downed No. 1 seed Dave Scavuzzo of Akron University on a default in the second period.

Heaton is one of two Lake Superior wrestlers to qualify for the national tilt. Lake Superior finished third in the regional behind Grand Valley State and Ashland.

A PLYMOUTH HIGH SCHOOL Flashback
On Wednesday, December 2, 1970, Plymouth basketball coach Dick Bearup unveiled his 1970 edition of the Rock cagers who figured to be a major title threat in the Suburban Six League. Four starters, Charley Wolfe, Scott Taylor, Howie Schryer and Casey Jones, returned. Also prominent in the Plymouth picture were Dale Sieker, Steve Straley, Dave VanWagoner and Gary Close. Also on the roster was a 6'3" sophomore named Ron Egloff whose two brothers Randy and Dick had starred at Plymouth High prior to Ron's arrival. Ron Egloff is currently playing pro football for the Denver Broncos.

Tom McKay, executive secretary of the Greater Detroit Bowling Association, and George Prybyla, president of the Bowling Proprietors of Michigan, head a group of five persons who have been named to the Detroit Bowling Hall of Fame. The other three are Bob Kwolek, former member of the All-Star league now living in Ohio, Marie Shamlock, a member of the Gears By Enterprise team when it was the champion, and Marion Gorman, now dead, who was a captain in the Original Bowlerettes League. The induction ceremonies are set for October in Cobo Hall.

THE DETROIT women's city tournament got off to a flying start Saturday at Drakeshire Lanes when the two top teams in the opening day's firing beat the winners' total of a year ago. The players' team from Ark Lanes, captained by Dona Willliams, took top place with a 3067 and Garden Lanes No. 2, captained by Charlene Yarborough, landed second with 3045. Last year's winner was a 3030 count.

In the doubles, Margaret Tunan and Deborah Rusnak took first place with 1299 including handicap, while Kathy Marshall paced the singles with 681 including handicap and Laura Margetti took place in the all events with 1982 including handicap.

BOB GOIKE JR. gained a double honor in the Cherry Hill Classic when he closed with a perfect game to post a 728 series and join four others in the barrier breaking club. The Little Caesar Classic at Westland Bowl provided two of the new members when Doug Evans used a middle game of 278 for a 738 and Randy Pierce opened with a 256 that sent him on the way to a 730. Meanwhile at Woodland Lanes, Tom Wright fashioned a 287 middle game to post a 703 in the Kings and Queens league and Rick Respondek started with a 245 in the midnight league and reached his goal with a 701 series.

DENISE RATHBUN, who left Florida to join the Detroit top leagues, had a big weekend.

She started Friday night by pacing the women in the Little Caesar Classic at Westland with 632 series, then followed by bowling the high series in the Bowlerettes Monday night at Luxury Lanes with a 655.

DAVE HAMILTON, the junior who is setting a fast pace at Farmington Lanes, was in top form this week when he fired a 244 in 660 to take top place in the high school league. Right behind him came Mike Thurman with a 246 in 619 and Harris McBride with 622.

A NEW FACE popped up in the invitational doubles at Merri-Bowl when Ann Bogenschucz rolled a 597 to tie Pat Gray for series honors for the day. In the Friday ladies loop, Monika Trzaskos was high with a 586 to beat Sylvia Darby by 21 pins.

IN OTHER good performances, Allie Abraham posted a 264 game in the Super bowlers loop at Super Bowl and beat out Glenn Sieben by seven pins. In the Monday Delights loop, Betty Garrett had 226 in 608, and Vicki Hurley posted a 255 game in a 570 series.

Chief cagers keep rolling

Canton went into the dressing room leading, 38-33.

Malek, who scored 10 points, hit three outside jumpers in the second quarter to keep Belleville at bay.

In the third quarter the Chiefs came out in a zone defense which stymied Belleville. Canton went into the final quarter leading 50-43.

The Tigers suddenly went cold in the final quarter while Canton gradually built a comfortable margin.

NIEMI WAS impressed with the Chiefs, especially Visser.

"He is very unselfish," said the Belleville. "Visser is one of the most underrated players around. He's a fine college prospect because he's so team-orientated.

"He beat us early with his shooting and helped them break our press. He's just a fine player."

Canton will meet Livonia Churchill in a key Western Six League game Friday at home. A Chief victory would insure a share of the title with Waterford Mott. Both teams sport 7-2 marks.

Churchill, 6-3 in the league, has an outside chance of sharing the title with a victory over Canton. The Chargers must win and need Walled Lake Western to beat Mott.

Game time is 8 p.m.

Salem, a member of the tough Suburban Eight League, relies on team balance led by senior co-captain Kirk Albert and sophomore Russ Shaffer.

Salem JV cagers best 2 opponents

By THOMAS ZAIBEK

The Plymouth Salem junior varsity basketball team crushed two opponents last week.

The Rock reserves bounced Redford Union, 83-37, and battered Trenton on the road, 55-39.

Twelve Salem players found the scoring range against RU. Norm Haygood and Ken Vermullen each scored 12. Rob Heidt and Jeff Hubert both tallied 11.

In defeating Trenton, the Rocks won their 15th game of the year. John Kelliher and John Gannon paced Salem with 14 apiece.

CHIEF RESERVES WIN

Matt Thomas scored 15 points to lead the Plymouth Canton junior varsity cagers to a 62-60 victory over Belleville Tuesday night.

The junior Chiefs are now 10-9 overall.

Canton district cage foes deserve respect

Brad Emons writes....

The state basketball tournament always brings back fond memories.

I can go as far back as 1964. Within walking distance of Livonia Franklin's gym as a kid, I still remember countless district, regional and quarterfinal games.

This year's district which starts Monday at Plymouth Canton promises to be interesting. It's been a strange season with no one team truly dominating. All the teams in Observerland have been subject to upsets or near upsets.

Plymouth Salem (16-2), Plymouth Canton (13-6) and Wayne Memorial (13-6) appear to be the three strongest teams in the ield. Westland John Glenn, which meets Garden City East in the first round on Tuesday, is a long shot.

Glenn could be dangerous based on its upset almost a month ago of Salem. Wayne is a team that deserves mention. The Zebras were losing last season, but appear to be solid this year after a surprise victory two weeks ago over highly-regarded Monroe.

Salem and Canton are in opposite brackets and if all goes well, the two teams could be meeting at 1:30 p.m. Saturday March 9 for the title.

"Wayne is the sleeper," said Garden City West Coach Chris Babler, whose team opens the tourney at 7 p.m. Monday night against host Canton.

The two Garden City schools, East and West, are not having good seasons, but past performances in state tournaments warrant mention.

BABLER IS the dean of coaches in this district. He began coaching the Tigers in 1964 and will best be remembered for his 1970 team which went all the way to Class A semifinals in East Lansing's Jenison Fieldhouse.

That team was led by consensus All-Stater Rick Drewitz, a skinny 6-foot-7 center who electrified area fans.

It always seemed like the Tigers that year were winning by one or two points in the Franklin districts and regionals.

In second round action the Tigers appeared all but elminated by Livonia Bentley in a upset bid. West trailed by two points with Bentley inbounding the ball with five seconds left. The Bulldogs threw the ball away as West called timeout with one second left.

Drewitz, who later played at Kentucky for the legendary Adolph Rupp, received a pass near the top of the key and canned a 25-foot swish at the buzzer to tie the game. West went on to win in overtime, 71-68, as Drewitz totaled 48 points for the night.

Babler's team also won a cliffhanger in the regional final at Franklin by beating Detroit Catholic Central and Frank Tanana, 72-70. Drewitz scored 30 points that night by sinking 20 of 25 free throws.

West's season ended at Jenison when Campy Russell and Pontiac Central held on for a 84-79 win. But Drewitz, with his feathery touch and great timing on the boards, stole the show as he scored 42 points, just missing Ralph Simpson's mark by one point. Simpson, who paced Pershing to the state title in 1964, later along with teammate Spencer Haywood went on to star in the pros.

Drewitz fouled out with 42 seconds left in the game against Pontiac and drew a thunderous standing ovation from the 10,000 fans.

It was truly an unforgettable moment. West, under Babler's direction, finished the year with a 22-1 record. A starting junior guard on that team was Gary Nustad, now coaching Tim McCormick and No. 1 ranked Clarkston.

Babler has had some fine teams since, but never will measure up to the 1970 Tigers. They truly provided thrills in this area.

Garden City East was also a power in the 1968 and 1972 campaigns under the direction of Billie Joe Young, who retired from coaching a few years back.

He always seemed to get the most out his teams. They were never big, but played well together and shot the ball like no other teams I've seen.

The 1968 team was led by center Mike Masciacz and Rick Clack. The Panthers, also noted for tight games in state tourney play, performed remarkably in the state tournament, upsetting Pontiac Central and Frank Russell before losing to Detroit Catholic Central in the quarterfinals at Crisler Arena.

MASCIACZ and Clack four years later led Olivet College to a 22-0 season.

The 1972 East team was built around a pencil-thin 6-4 leaper named Dave Jackson. The team also had a great supporting cast with no other starter over 6-4. They always got hot down the stretch.

That team also made it to the quarterfinals before dropping a thrilling game to Pontiac Central. Jackson amazed the overflow crowd at Ferndale when he goaltended three shots and blocked eight more.

League leaders hold on for win

Salem volleyball squad edged by Livonia Bentley

Passive play by the Plymouth Salem girls' volleyball squad resulted in a 16-14, 13-15, 15-7 loss Monday night to Livonia Bentley in a Suburban Eight League match.

Salem Coach Cathy Himes said her team did not play aggressively in a first game loss (16-14) against the league leaders.

"Two people would go for a ball and then stop right before hitting it because they each thought other would get it," she said. "The result was that the ball would fall right between the two players."

A change in setters and the strong serving of sophomore Kelly Tucker aided in the Salem squad's second game triumph.

Leading 13-10 late in that game, the Salem defense began to make it easy for the powerful Bentley team. The Bulldogs tied the score at 13 when three serves landed virtually untouched on Salem's side.

Himes quickly changed strategy by switching to a 5-1 offense which provided a more effective defense.

Catching Bentley off guard with the change, Salem managed to take control and capture the game, 15-13.

Third game action was sparked by Bentley's strong serving. The Bulldogs jumped out to a fast 7-2 advantage before the Rocks managed to adjust.

"There is always a weak spot in a 5-1 offense in the center of the court," said Himes. "Bentley placed serves either in front of or behind the center back player and we had a hard time adjusting east enough to get the first hit."

'We just weren't aggressive enough in the first game.'
— Salem Coach Cathy Himes

Also plagued by "'lead foot" disease, the Salem squad was left on the floor after attempts at digging up Bentley's dinks or spikes from being out of position.

"Bentley had one player that did nothing but dink so it we would be concentrating so hard at picking up her dinks that we were caught out of position on the spikes," continued Himes.

"The lack of playing experience of most of the team was one reason why we kept worring about the dink. The more experienced player won't keep anticipating the dink."

Himes complimented the outstanding net nlay of junior Cheryl Sobkow after she successfully blocked eight out of ten balls in the first game alone. Himes also praised Sobkow on her kill shots along with the defensive play of sophomore Lori Leveille.

Himes commented that "as a whole I think we played really, really well against Bentley."

The Salem squad travels to Dearborn Saturday to compete in the district. The Rocks play the winner of the Livonia Churchill-Westland John Glenn match being played tonight. Salem's match is slated to start at 10 a.m.

In Sub 8 action the Rocks finished the season with a 5-5 record, securing the sole ownership of third place behind the Bulldogs and second place Dearborn. Trenton placed fourth, Dearborn Edsel, Ford fifth and Belleville sixth.

The VIEW from CANTON CENTER

by ELLIE GRAHAM

"MR. KADES is home," was the good news around the Mayflower Hotel last week. After several months in the hospital where he underwent serious surgery, the 15-year resident of the hotel came "home." There was a welcome sign to greet him over the entry and another in his room. His favorite dish, liver and onions, had been prepared for lunch. A flowering plant had been placed in his room. Isadore Kades is a retired Plymouth businessman. For years, he had the store which is now Norman's on Ann Arbor Trail.

MARGARET AND ROY Baude opened their Maple Street home Sunday for a benefit art exhibition for the Methodist Children's Home Society. Artist-lithographer Emil Weddige was on hand with his works which were included in his 50th anniversary tour. He brought along a series of three original lithographs, "The Children's Suite," which was commissioned in celebration of the International Year of the Child.

Weddige was born in Sandwich, Ontario in 1907. He completed his undergraduate studies at Eastern Michigan University and received his master's degree from the University of Michigan. He has received numerous awards for his works and in 1955 established his studio in Paris. He earned international acclaim as a master of lithography. His "Satchmo and the Saints" has been judged one of the finest religious prints of the century and is part of the Solinker Collection.

Weddige is an old friend of of the Baudes'. He helped set up the original Michigan Artrain and was in Plymouth when the Artrain was here.

SIX MEMBERS of the high school drama club visited East Middle School to demonstrate pantomime to the sixth, seventh and eighth grades talented and gifted students. The high school students showed how to apply makeup and how to think creatively in movement and drama. For instance, the TAG students pantomimed the passing of a ball from one to another. The ball could be any size they imagined it to be, but the roundness of the ball had to be maintained. Later, they passed imaginary animals — snakes, etc.

Lori Bird, Chris Janovsky, Amie Kemezis, April Lewis, Erika Odom and Sue Roose also repeated several acts from their January mime show. All are students of drama coach Gloria Logan and all will appear in the all-school musical, "The Music Man," which will be March 27, 28 and 29 in Plymouth Salem High School auditorium.

FRANCES La Combe and Judy Guideau had high scores at the Feb. 21 party bridge games at the Plymouth Cultural Center. These games are open to all bridge players and begin shortly after noon each Thursday.

SUSAN SHARP, a freshman at Northwestern University, earned a 4-point average for the first semester. She is majoring in math and computer science. Susan's parents are Nancy and Patrick Sharp of Evergreen Street, Plymouth.

JOAN TRAMMELL, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Trammell of Irongate Drive, Canton Township, was initiated into Alpha Theta sorority at Alma College. Joan is a 1979 graduate of Plymouth Salem High School.

THE 4-H PAW PRINTS dog obedience club has its own American flag, thanks to the Sarah Ann Cochrane chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. The presentation was made by Phebe Huff, a member of the chapter. The club meets every week in Hulsing Elementary School.

Beginning dog obedience classes will begin at 7 p.m. Wednesday, March 5 and are open to all youth 10-18 years of age. Their dogs must be at least 6 months old and have all their immunizations. Interested persons should call Edna Terry, 452-6760, for more information.

THE SCIENCE FAIR at Our Lady of Good Counsel School is over and a number of seventh- and eighth-graders are eligible to enter the big one at Cobo Hall. Eighth-grade winners were Bill Dyer, Doris Yoe, Monty Faunce, Joe Shevlin III, Bill Marriott, Bob Coury, Kelly Copeland, Jonathon Cotter, John Guenther, Jenny Callahan and Kristi Levesque. Seventh-grade winners were Kendra Hostynski, Leigh Loranger, Robert Wilson, Colleen Marriott, Jack Coury, Kathy Lawrenz, Cathy Masa, Tricia Davenport, Jeff Smith and Theresa DeCorte. We'll be expecting some winners at Cobo Hall.

ALL PERSONS 62 years of age and older are eligible for a Golden Age Passport, a free lifetime entrance permit to national parks, monuments and recreation areas where fees are charged. The passport also is good for a carload of guests plus a 50 percent discount on camping, boating, boat launching and parking fees. The passport can be picked up at the entrance of any park or national forest.

It's 'wall-to-wall' with readers at library

By BETTY MASSON

It's nice to see your business increase by more than 20 percent, even if it does mean more work.

"We're tired; we need new shoes; but we love it," said Pat Thomas, Plymouth's head librarian.

The library is a busy place these winter days with almost wall-to-wall people from the time it opens until it closes.

Circulation figures bear this out. In January 1979, Plymouth librarians sent happy book-lovers home with 14,300 books; this year, circulation for the month of January was 17,600 books.

Librarians say that when the economy gets bad, the library gets busy, said Mrs. Thomas.

She believes this may be a factor in the increase in business, but also thinks that the mild winter may have something to do with it. "A lot of snowy days, people don't go out unless they have to," she said. "Children with school assignments will make do with the old encyclopedias they have at home.

"I'd like to say that people are reading more because of boredom with television, but I've nothing to back this up."

WHATEVER THE reasons, people are reading more books. A lot are about alternate energy sources and solar energy. Winter hobby books, such as needlepoint, woodworking and cooking, don't stay on the shelves long these days either.

More cookbooks go out in the wintertime than at any other season of the year, according to Ms. Thomas. People are looking for new ways of cooking and new things to cook to help brighten up winter appetites.

Whether or not they are participating, a lot of local residents are reading about how to play raquetball, paddleball, handball and the like. Of course, the Winter Olympics has brought a demand for other books on sports as well.

The library is especially busy after school with children from first grade through high school working on assignments. The children's department especially benefited last year from an increased allocation of funds for books.

The picture book section used to be "depleted by story-hour moms," said Mrs. Thomas, but now the supply is bigger and the choices are wider.

The library is creating its own new customers by conducting story hours year-round in six-week cycles. The next is due to start April 9 and 10.

PLYMOUTH ALSO has a "hard core" of best seller readers, "who are often better informed about what's coming out than we are," said Mrs. Thomas. They've been upset lately because Judith Krantz's latest book, "Princess Daisy," appeared in local book stores recently. It wasn't scheduled for publication until the spring, and the library doesn't have a copy yet.

Right now, the most popular books available from the library and on the best seller lists are "Sophie's Choice" by William Styron and "The Establishment" by Howard Fast.

People around here also read a lot of popular non-fiction, according to Mrs. Thomas. Most in demand right now are "The Americans" by Alistair Cooke, and "Charles the Second" by Antonia Fraser.

There have been many inquiries for "The Brethren" by Bob Woodward. It's not in yet, but should be soon.

For those interested in the space program, Ms. Thomas recommends "The Right Stuff" by Tom Wolfe.

And a local favorite, although it's not on any national best-seller lists, is "On a Clear Day You Can See General Motors," John DeLorean's account of the workings of the automobile company.

The library is open from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., Monday-Thursday; and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday.

See you there, that is if I don't miss you in the crowd.

Van der Merwe to conduct March 9 symphony concert

A Mozart concerto, written two months before the composer's death in 1791, will be featured at the next concert of the Plymouth Symphony.

It will be presented at 4 p.m., Sunday, March 9, in the auditorium of Plymouth Salem High School, Joy Road, west of Canton Center Road.

John Mohler will be featured in the Mozart Concerto for Clarinet (K622). Although it was written at the same time as Mozart's Requiem, there is little similarity. The concerto has a youthfulness and vigor that belie the circumstances in which Mozart was engulfed at the time.

The soloist is principal clarinetist with the Plymouth Symphony, and has played with the orchestra since 1958. A professor of music at the University of Michigan, he is presently chairman of the wind and percussion instruments department.

Moehler is the university's first recipient of the degree of doctor of musical arts in wind instruments.

In addition to frequent appearances as guest soloist with orchestras and bands throughout the U.S., Mohler has performed with the Philadelphia Orchestra and has been guest recitalist and clinician at the International Clarinet Clinic.

THE CONCERT will open with the "Donna Diane" Overture by Reznicek. The concerto will follow.

The second half of the program will include "Variations on a Theme by Haydn" by Brahms; "Pavan for a Dead Princess" (Pavane Pour Une Enfante Defunte) by Ravel; and four Sea Interludes from Britten's "Peter Grimes."

Another professor of music from Ann Arbor, Johan van der Merwe, will be the guest conductor.

Van der Merwe is winner of the first prize in an international Conductors' Competition in Liverpool, England.

He has studied and conducted in Germany and Holland, as well as in his native South Africa. Born in Pretoria, Van der Merwe is a graduate of the University of Cape Town and studied at the Royal Academy of Music in London, England.

He has maintained an association with the National Symphony in Johannesburg, and is scheduled to return there in 1981 for a recording and concert series.

THIS SUMMER he will be director of the university orchestra at Interlochen.

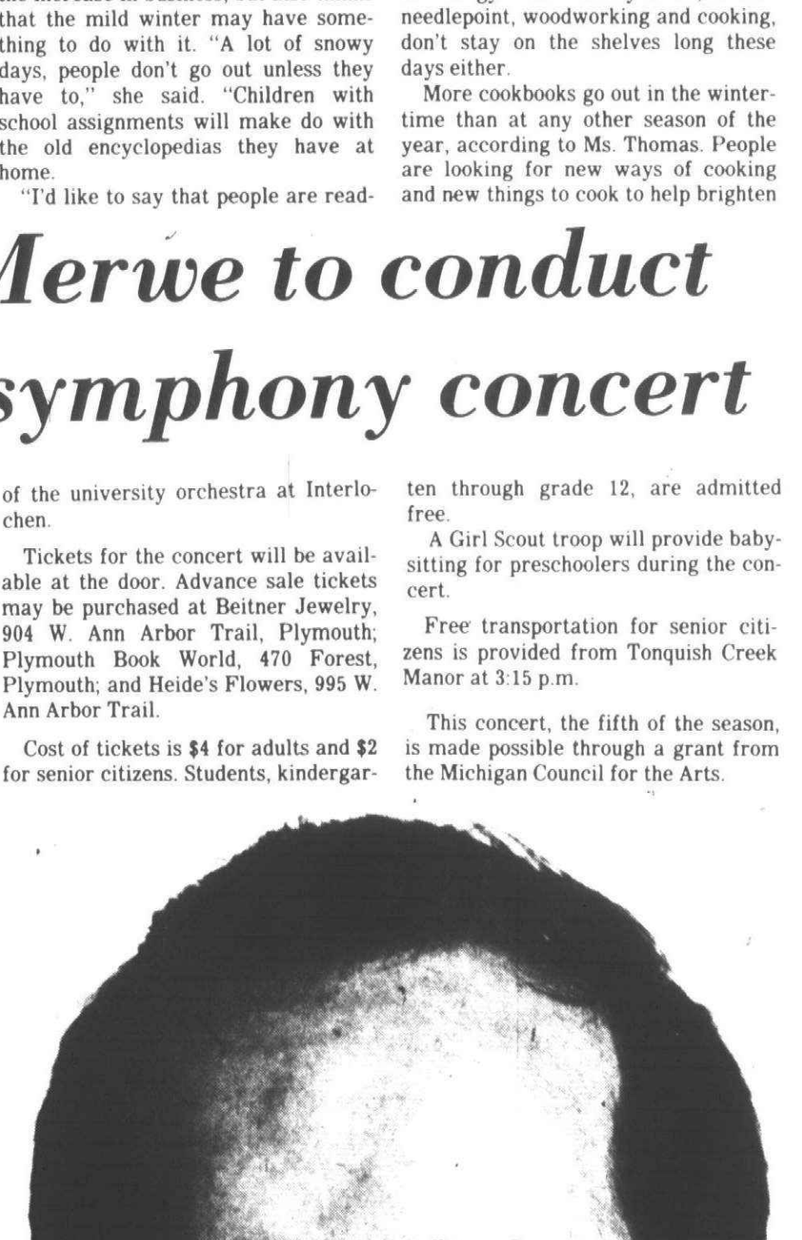

Tickets for the concert will be available at the door. Advance sale tickets may be purchased at Beitner Jewelry, 904 W. Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth; Plymouth Book World, 470 Forest, Plymouth; and Heide's Flowers, 995 W. Ann Arbor Trail.

Cost of tickets is $4 for adults and $2 for senior citizens. Students, kindergarten through grade 12, are admitted free.

A Girl Scout troop will provide babysitting for preschoolers during the concert.

Free transportation for senior citizens is provided from Tonquish Creek Manor at 3:15 p.m.

This concert, the fifth of the season, is made possible through a grant from the Michigan Council for the Arts.

Johan van der Merwe will be guest conductor of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra at the March 9 concert.

Alcoholism, masculinity new courses for March

Schoolcraft College will offer new continuing education courses in alcoholism, masculinity and stress management during March.

An eight-week course, "Reflections in a Glass," will meet at 7 p.m. March 3. Designed by the National Council on Alcoholism, the one-credit course will examine women and alcohol.

Facilitator Joyce Krause will cover information concerning the physical effects of alcohol, problems related to mixing alcohol with other drugs and legal aspects of drinking.

A SIX-WEEK course called "Psychology of Men and Masculinity" is also scheduled at 7 p.m. March 3. Taught by Livonia psychologist Dr. Wayne Fisk, the one credit hour course will explore masculinity in depth, re-examining its historical and cultural roots and evaluating the many aspects of masculine privilege. Discussion topics include discrimination and sexist practices.

"Stress Management and Relaxation Training" will be offered on Wednesdays for 10 weeks from 7-9:25 p.m., beginning March 5.

The course will examine the theory of stress and analyze stress energy. From Ron Rogowski, Schoolcraft counselor, participants will learn relaxation techniques which channel constructive energy produced by stressful situations.

Resident tuition is $17 per credit hour and non-residents pay $27.50. A $3 registration fee is also charged.

TWO PERSONAL development four-week courses facilitated by June Lark are also scheduled in March. "Spring Shape-Up" will meet on Mondays at 7:30 p.m. March 3. The fee is $25.

"Mini-Modeling Career Workshop" will meet on Wednesdays at 7:30 p.m. March 5. The fee is $30.

Tuition and fees are payable at the first class session. Individuals can preregister or obtain further information by calling the Women's Resource Center at 591-6400, ext. 430.

Schoolcraft College is located at 18600 Haggerty, Livonia.

Symphony concert features trumpet

Armando Ghitalla, professor of trumpet at University of Michigan School of Music, will be the guest artist at the Ann Arbor Symphony's spring concert at 3:30 p.m. March 2.

Edward Szabo will conduct the program in Hill Auditorium. The program is open to the public free of charge because of the sponsorship of University Microfilms, with additional support from the Women's Association of the symphony, the Michigan Council for the Arts, the Music Performance Trust Funds of the American Federation of Musicians and Local 624, as well as from individuals, families and businesses.

The program will include concertos for trumpet and orchestra by Telemann and Haydn, Symphony No. 2 in b minor by Borodin, and "Les Preludes" by Liszt.

Ghitala joined the U-M faculty last fall. He taught at Boston University, the New England Conservatory and Tanglewood Institute. He reserved as principal trumpet with the Boston Symphony and soloist with the Boston Pops and the Band of America.

Cantonites celebrate with hearts and flowers

Canton Chatter

By SAM NICHOLS 397-042[illegible]

Valentiee's Day did not go uncelebrated in Canton Township. Not only did husbands surprise wives with flowers, candy, or little gifts, but neighbors and clubs took careful aim to zero in on valentine celebrations.

Lace doily heart invitations went out to several neighbors for a valentine luncheon, Wednesday, Feb. 13 at the home Betsy Mazurkiewicz of Brookshire Court, Canton. Each guest was asked to bring a signed valentine, which was used to determine seating arrangements.

One table was decorated in pink and white, and the second in red and white checked tablecloths. The luncheon menu included chicken a la king, peach salad, miniblueberry muffins, and cherry torte for dessert.

Neighbors who enjoyed the visit included Judy Scipione, Donna Aquino, Marlene Orr, Nancy Bandli, Carol Slattery, Jeanne Williams, Dolly Garrity, and Mary Ellen Roth.

Vija Markovs, Karen Theisen, Kathy Yaros, Tina Goldrick, Donna Gleason, Jan MacLeod, and Char Kramer were also in on the fun.

CYPRUS GARDENS was the setting for a gala Valentine's Day dinner and party for the Canton Lion's Club, Feb. 14. Diners could choose either New York strip steak or shish-ka-bobs. Cheese cake was available for those wishing to indulge in dessert, and a cash bar was provided.

A continuing good-natured contest at social events has developed between the Irish and Italian members of the Canton Lion's Club. The Italians claimed victory at the Christmas party, so Valentine's Day found the Irish ready to tie the score. Irishman Bill Loughran struck back by being silent most of the evening, and charming kisses from the Italian sweethearts.

Meanwhile, the Italians suffered from fines for "blatant infractions of the club rules." President Frank Guzzo was the chief offender for starting the meeting late and many other infractions. It had to be admitted, however, that President Guzzo was quite a target for fines that evening. The club president may be fined only by a higher authority, and usually there is none present. At this special event, District Governor for the Greater Detroit Metro-Area, John Morgan was in attendance. Therefore, President Guzzo finally had to pay the piper, much to the enjoyment of the membership.

It was explained that club money is kept in two separate accounts. All money from fund-raisers and donations goes strictly to help the blind. Money received from fines, however, is used for social events.

SPECIAL GUESTS for this evening of fun included District Governor John Morgan and his wife Barbara, Deputy District Governor Bob Cook, and Zone Chairman Max Koeppe. Fred Kuhn had the pleasure of being a new member installed by District Governor Morgan. Fred's wife, Wilma, also was in attendance.

Enjoying the evening along with their special guests were President Frank Guzzo and his wife Josephine, Gerry and Jan Eicholtz, Pete and Pat Peters, Ed and Glea Bohanan, Mike Kadoura, John and Marge Mogelnicki, Carl Munier, Ray and Shirley Novotny, George and Shirley Raub, Larry and Nancy Wegrzyn, and Art and Shirley Winkel.

The club also was very pleased with the attendance of seven past presidents, each of whom received a certificate of appreciation from District Governor Morgan. Past presidents and their wives included Grant and Jeanette Campbell, Gary and Joan Cady, Lew and Norma Jones, Dick Loftes, Bill and Joan Loughran, George Simons, and Andy and Rosemary Smith.

But that did not conclude the special presentations. Sweetheart pins were presented to new members' wives, Marge Mogelnicki, Shirley Winkel, and Wilma Kuhn. It had been discovered that Morgan's wife had never received a Lion's Sweetheart pin. The Canton Lion's remedied this by making a special presentation of a sweetheart pin to Barbara Morgan.

Amid all the festivities of the evening, the Lions did discuss some serious business. White Cane Week begins April 25, and the Canton LIons plan to be very busy that week. They will provide free glaucoma and hearing tests to anyone and everyone interested the weekend of April 25-27. The location is yet to be determined, but will be announced soon.

Dudek-Hix

Mr. and Mrs. David Brian Dudek are living in Plymouth following their recent marriage in Christian Community Church, Northville.

The bride is the former Julie Ann Hix, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garry Hix of Milford. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dudek of Livonia.

The Rev. Irving Mitchell officiated at the ceremony.

A reception for 170 guests was held in Behnan Hall in Southfield. Among the guests coming from other states to attend the wedding was the bridegroom's six-year-old nephew, Dylan Howard, who was the ringbearer.

The newlyweds are planning a honeymoon in Florida in the spring.

The bridegroom is employed by Burroughs Corp., and the bride works for the National Bank of Detroit.

The band plays on

The Plymouth Community Band will be entertaining shoppers from 7:30-8:30 p.m. Wednesday, April 2 in the Twelve Oaks Shopping Mall. This is a continuation of its program which schedules one concert each month during the winter.

The band gets into full stride in the summer when it presents a series of six weekly concerts in Kellogg Park in downtown Plymouth.

The February concert was for the residents of the Arnold Nursing Home on Seven Mile Road at Southfield. Anyone who would like to have the band play for their organization can call 453-2611.

Practice continues throughout the winter and spring months. Musicians of all ages are invited to dust off their instruments and join the band. Call 453-2611 for information.

Who has winter glooms?

What do you do on a winter's day in Plymouth; how do you chase the winter gloom away?

Legions of Plymouthites will quickly respond, "What gloom?" as they scurry from one stimulating activity to the next. While there may be a fair share of sitting by the fire and knitting or curling up with a good book, many of our compatriots are also stretching. . . their minds, their bodies and their talents.

No snow? Who cares? The season that used to be known as down time is anything but, as our citizenry constantly explores new ways to have fun in February.

FOR INSTANCE, there's Tuesday. Any Tuesday morning will find an energetic group of women leaving the dishes in the sink as they head for Toni Grimm's early morning Dancercise class at Curtain Call Dance and Drama Studio. Linda Anderson, Nancy Petrucelli, Linda Predhomme, Carol Ulbrich and Shirley Peters are among the assemblage rediscovering muscles they had all but forgotten.

As they prepare to take their aching bodies home, they take a minute to greet Donna Brown, Jan Gattoni, Carol Messerly and Lynn Ott, who are among those waiting in the wings to warm up for a vigorous aerobic dance class.

A few of the heartier member don't tarry, however, for they must dash to don their tap shoes in time for Renee Dubrey's 10 a.m. tap dancing class at Plymouth Dance World. Joan Wehmeyer and Nan Cooper join fellow terpsichoreans, Jo Wilson, Elise Murphy, Jeanne Schultheiss and Pola San Carlson for an hour of bucking and winging.

Another branch of the Ladies Perspiration Patrol includes Betty Laird, Ginny Brennaman, Ginny Byrd and Doris Chatterly, who jog, skip rope and otherwise do themselves in twice a week at the Y program in Livonia.

ON THURSDAY mornings, Carol Carlson, Jo Hulce, Judy Lewis and Nancy Sharp line up for intermediate (they just graduated) aerobic dancing with Toni Grimm again at the helm.

The slim, trim, healthy-hearted who join them are Mercedes Kimling, Margie Moon, Nancy Vernon and Mary Elizabeth Smith. Can you believe that on a recent Thursday some of these hearties followed their aerobic class with a lecture on aging (?) at the Plymouth Study Group?

Another "in" spot for the athletically adventurous is the club house at Brooklane Golf course where John Koch is helping to groove the swings of Bit Folger, Barb Hewlett, Pam Shultz, Wilma Newton and Elise Murphy.

On the weekends, the Bill Burds and the Bob Coopers are among the couples who seek advice from Koch, the pro. These new, and not so new, golfers should be tough contenders on the links by the first blush of spring, for they are not just given weekly lessons, but vigorous homework assignments as well.

When Velma and Don Wee aren't tearing over the countryside in their motor home, they take time to brush up on their bridge at the high school.

Jo and Dick Lundberg have done a smashing job of redecorating their already lovely home.

Larry Brown's SCUBA class is full to capacity, and Penny Wright is busily pursuing her career as a writer and lecturer. Look for her work in "Science Digest" some time this spring.

A tilt of the old parasol to all the organizations and businesses which have all but erased words like dull and boring from our vocabularies.

Gallimore stages reading olympics

Some 100 pupils recently participated in the Winter Reading Olympics, a program at Gallimore Elementary to encourage reading at home for fun.

Each grade level was assigned a quota of hours of reading at home to fulfill within a month's time.

First graders were assigned a quota of five hours and the rules provided that "reading" picture books by themselves also counted.

Other quotas were: six hours for second grade; seven hours for third grade; eight hours for fourth grade; and nine hours of reading at home for the fifth grade.

Children kept track of their reading time on a special calendar which was signed by a parent when the quota was reached.

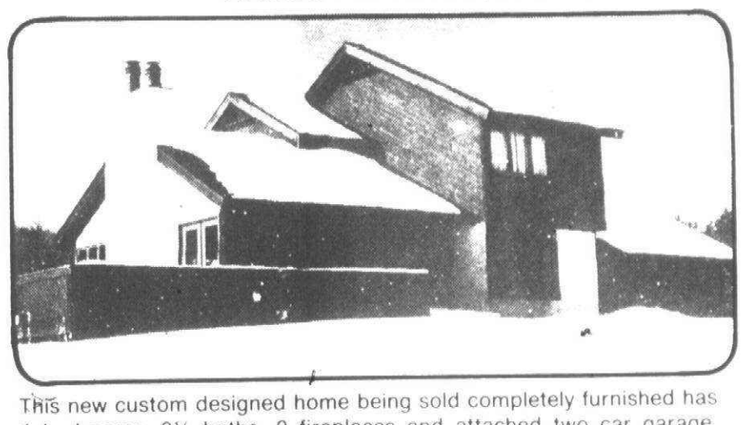

To further stimulate reading at home, the school library at Gallimore was opned on four consecutive Monday nights.

A special program was presented each Monday evening and then the children checked out library books to take home.

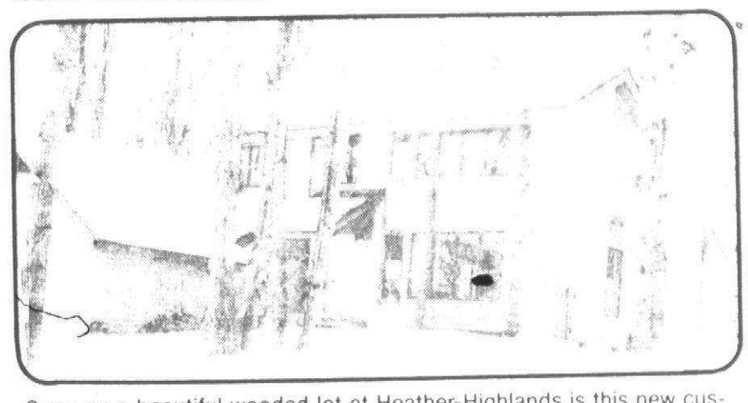

Sharing their talents in this program were: Aiden Broderick from Book World, Plymouth, who told a story by dim lantern light; Ruth Burr, a West Middle School teacher who had the children in giggles with her Uncle Remus tales; and Eileen Miller, who played guitar and led the children in a sing-a-long. Parents also joined in the activities.

To recognize students who achieved their goals, a special program was held last week to award pupils Winter Reading Olympics certificates from principal George Dodson.

ENERGY PLUS+
+A MARKET OF 75 MILLION PEOPLE YOU CAN REACH OVERNIGHT.

Southeastern Michigan. The heart of one of the world's largest industrial areas—an urbanized region that stretches along the Great Lakes from Chicago and Milwaukee on the west to Montreal, Pittsburgh and Albany on the east.

It's a huge market quickly reached by overnight trucking that rolls out from Michigan's toll-free expressways. Six rail networks and three air cargo ports put the rest of the country in easy touch. And the Port of Detroit provides major commercial docking facilities along 32 miles of deep-water frontage on an international waterway.

It adds up to an enormous advantage in selling the products made here. So does the fact that there's plenty of electric power. Because Detroit Edison generates more than 80% of its electricity from coal—our nation's most abundant fuel.

Thinking of expanding or relocating your business? Detroit Edison can provide energy plus assistance to help you make the right decision. Write: Area Development, Detroit Edison, 308 WCB, 2000 Second Ave., Detroit, MI 48226.

DAR commends good citizenship

Three Plymouth high school seniors were given Good Citizen awards at a luncheon of Sarah Ann Cochrane Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

Honored were Sondra Gillon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Lambert Jr. of Thornridge Drive, from Plymouth Canton High School; and Mary Beth Bologna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bologna of Appletree Drive, from Plymouth Salem High School. Also receiving an award was Catherine Jean Morrison, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Stuart Morrison of Drury Lane. She is a student at Ladywood High School in Livonia.

In all, the chapter made 16 awards to area high school students, in a ceremony in Kings Mill Clubhouse, Northville.

Good citizens were chosen for their qualities of leadership, dependability, service, patriotism and scholarship. The choice is made from high school seniors.

Mrs. D. H. Baumhart, chapter regent and Good Citizen chairman, presented each student with a certificate and a Good Citizen pin.

Mrs. Bill Sheets of Royal Oak, state Good Citizen chairman, was a guest at the luncheon.

Approximately 500 schools in Michigan participate in the program, with local chapters making awards.

CHURCH OF JESUS CHRIST OF LATTER-DAY SAINTS will host two women from Salt Lake City who serve on the general board of the church's Relief Society, the organization for Mormon women, at a meeting March 8. Bonna Brinton and Jewel Cutler will talk in the Westland Stake Center, 7575 N. Hix, Westland, to a tri-state women's conference.

The two women direct the worldwide affairs of the Relief Society in Salt Lake City. Coordinating the meeting are Ina Llewellyn, president of the Westland Stake Relief Society, and Gladys Buck of the Ann Arbor stake.

ST. MATTHEW LUTHERAN CHURCH, 5885 Venoy, Westland, will present the 65-voice Concordia Lutheran College Choir at 7:30 p.m. Sunday. It is directed by Dr. Paul Foelber, head of the music department of Concordia College. The choir recently returned from a European tour.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH OF PLYMOUTH, 45000 N. Territorial, will offer a choral musical drama by Buryl Red called "Acts" at 6:30 p.m. Sunday. It will be sung by the Chancel Choir. The work is based on the words of the apostle Luke who described events following the ressurection of Jesus, such as the baptism of Lydia and the earthquake at Philippi.

UNITY OF LIVONIA, 28660 Five Mile, Livonia, is sponsoring a class on increasing self-confidence which will start Thursday March 6 and run five weeks. It is taught by Dr. Carl Bergstrom, school psychologist of the Waterford school district. He received his doctor of philosophy degree in educational administration from Michigan State University and advanced psychological training at Butler University.

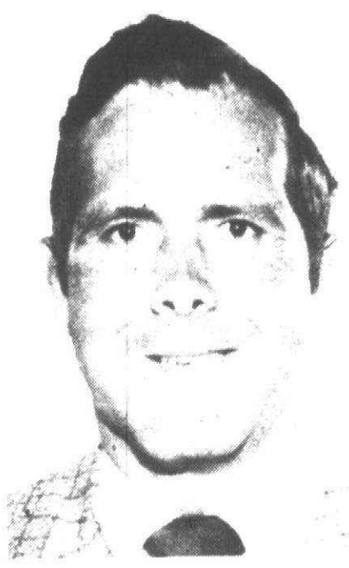

"Winners Do What Losers Won't" is the title of the course, which costs $45. It is now possible to register.

Church leadership training planned

Registration is now open for four sessions of training in church leadership to be held March 7, 14, 21, 28 in the Detroit Bible College, 35700 12 Mile, Farmington Hills.

Sponsored by the International Christian Education Association of Pleasant Ridge, the classes will take place from 7:30-9:30 p.m. To be discussed are such issues as reaching teens in the local church, basic teacher training, counseling techniques, meeting the emotional needs of children and how to study the scriptures.

Pre-registration to members of the sponsoring organization costs $6; door registration for them is $8. For nonmembers the fees are $10 for pre-registration and $12 at the door. The address of the association is 24200 Woodward, Pleasant Ridge 48069.

Missionaries will be convention highlight

Missionaries from three different countries will be featured during the annual missionary convention of the Wesleyan churches of Westland, Taylor and Romulus to take place March 7 through 9 in Warrenwoods Wesleyan Church, 6615 Venoy, Westland.

The Rev. Robert Cheney will discuss his work at the Ebenezer Mission in Swaziland, South Africa. The Rev. Harris Earl will take up his role as a printer in a print shop in Colombia where gospel literature in Spanish is prepared for Latin American countries and Spain. He is also mission coordinator, bookstore manager and translator and director of the Wesleyan Bible School by Extension.

The main thrust of the missionary work of the other speaker, the Rev. Ronald Pickett has been done in the Amazon River city of Manaus in northern Brazil.

The weekend will begin with an international dinner followed by speeches by the missionaries, who will also show slides. A men's breakfast, a women's luncheon at a 7 p.m. worship service are on the agenda for Saturday.

Worship services will begin at 11 a.m. Sunday with the missionary work of participating churches under discussion. The convention will close with a 4 p.m. service and reception.

Missionary work will be topic

Irvin Cobb, missionary to Rwanda in central Africa since 1970, will speak in services Sunday through Wednesday in Westland Free Methodist Church, 1421 Venoy, Westland.

Services on Sunday will be at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. Monday through Wednesday services will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Cobb has taught Bible classes and served as director of the secondary school at Kibogora, which has experienced steady academic growth during his tenure. He also has been mission superintendent, mission treasurer and church council member.

His wife, Miriam, began her missionary work as a nurse in the neighboring country of Burundi. Since their marriage, she has been nursing in Kibogora hospital and has served as hospital treasurer.

Purim festival starts Saturday

The holiday of Purim celebrating Esther's success at foiling a plot to annhiliate the Jews will begin at 7 p.m. Saturday, March 1 in the Livonia Jewish Congregation, 31840 Seven Mile. It will continue through the next day.

Regarded as a joyous festival, Purim harks back to ancient Persia (now Iran) ruled by King Ahasuerus (Xerxes) and his wife Esther. The king's advisor, Haman, plotted to wipe out the Jews. The word, Purim, refers to the lots that he used to decide the day of the killing.

Queen Esther learned about the plot from her brother Mordecai, and risked her life to see the king without permission. The king stopped the plot, and hanged Haman on the very gallows Haman planned to use to hang Mordecai.

During the reading of the Megillah, the book of Esther at the Livonia Jewish Congregation, children will be given noisemakers called graggers. When the name of Haman is mentioned, they will make a great clamor.

One of the traditional foods of this occasion are hamantaschen, the three-cornered cakes filled with prune or other fruit filling.

Responsible freedom is world prayer day theme

Regina Rambeau, Michigan coordinator for women in community service, will be speaker for the annual World Day of Prayer service to be sponsored by Church Women United at 12:45 p.m. Friday, March 7 in Trinity Church of the Brethren, 27350 W. Chicago, Redford Township.

Her topic will be "Responsible Freedom," a theme being addressed in similar services across the United States and in 170 other nations.

Following the local service there will be light refreshments. Child care is available and all area women are invited to share in the worship.

World Day of Prayer has been observed by Chruch Women United groups since 1887.

The organization, an ecumenical group which seeks justice and reconciliation among all people, also sponsors programs for May Fellowship Day and World Community Day each year.

This year's theme, said Patricia Brown of Hemlock, state president for Church Women United, will draw from Biblical concepts to be found in the books of Exodus, Romans, Galatians and James.

Gov. William Milliken issued a proclamation on World Day of Prayer.

"In a world plagued by tenuous relationships between nations, peoples and cultures, prayer serves as a common bond and as a means of dedicting ourselves to improving the quality of life throughout the world."

Dinners highlight Lenten schedule

Three Sunday evening dinners will highlight a schedule of Lenten events for the First United Methodist Church of Plymouth, 45201 N. Territorial.

Dr. William A. Cargo, the Rev. Hugh C. White and Dr. William K. Quick will be speakers for the three dinners, scheduled at 5:30 p.m. March 2, 9 and 23.

Dr. Cargo is minister of Jefferson Avenue United Methodist Church of Detroit and son of the late Paul Cargo, former minister of the Plymouth church. His topic March 2 will be "The Heart of the Matter."

Rev. White, minister of St. Paul United Methodist Church of Monroe and a traveler with extensive knowledge of UMC missions, will speak March 9 on the topic "God Interrupts."

Rev. Quick, senior minister at Metropolitan United Methodist Church of Detroit, is the speaker March 23. He plans "A Sermon You Have Never Heard Before."

The first two dinners will be potlucks and on March 23 the meal will be catered. Child care will be available.

Mideast talks on 56

Public television will provide three mid-eastern views of the world today at 10:00 p.m. Friday when Channel 56 presents "Nancy Dickerson Special Assignment: The Middle East."

Produced by Detroit WTVS/56 for broadcast at this time on PBS, the one-hour documentary goes on location to Egypt, Israel and Saudi Arabia for exclusive update interviews with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin and Saudi Arabian Foreign Minister Prince Saud al Faisal. This is the first time that these three leaders have spoken in the same TV forum.

"So much of the future of the West is wrapped up in the Middle East," said Ms. Dickerson, "that we wanted to walk in the shoes of these three key leaders for this program to obtain a sense of how they view their region and the world."

Portions of the interviews, along with location footage, will be integrated into this cohesive, hour-long update on the prospects for this region.

Such issues as dealing with the stress of Russian advances and the newly intensified potential of a Syrian-Israeli war are considered by the leaders.

Elaine Beitner writes 'with eloquence and insight'

Elaine Beitner's book of poems, "A Journey Within," marks her debut as a writer. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Elaine Beitner's first book, "A Journey Within," is a collection of poetry revealing the depths of her thinking and religious faith.

In its announcement of the publication, Carleton Press of New York describes the work: "The author writes of life's richest emotions with eloquence and insight. While she is well aware of the anxieties and excesses of contemporary life, Mrs. Beitner recognizes that the ultimate balm for earthly woes lies with the Creator."

Mrs. Beitner dedicated the book to her husband, Bill, and their 14-year-old daughter, Marti. The Plymouth residents live on Harvey Street.

The author said her efforts to put her thoughts in writing were unsuccessful until she started to use the poetry form.

"I'd never written poetry. In fact, I' ve never been particularly interested in poetry. But it was easy to put my thoughts into poetry," she said.

ELAINE BEITNER has been a Plymouth resident for more than 25 years since she came to the community as a bride. She was born in Ferndale and studied music in Nyack, N.Y. For many years, she was a church organist at a Beverly Hills church and later at Calvary Baptist here.

Her interest in music is shared by her husband who has been a member of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra for more than 30 years.

In her poem, "Jewels," Mrs. Beitner makes a comparison:

A stone in the rough,
Unnoticed and plain,
Placed deep within rock,
So hard to obtain.
With chisels and hammers
And lots of hard labor,
Though worth every effort,
This be.. 'y we savor.

In comparing the hidden jewel to the human soul, she writes:

Each one of his children
On this great terrain,
Is a jewel in the rough,
A treasure unclaimed.
The beauty, the worth,
The wealth of each soul,
Lies hidden in flesh,
A mere shell we behold.

Publication date for "A Journey Within" will be March 3. Although it has not yet reached the shelves of local book stores, The Joy Book Store, 470 Forest Place Mall, Plymouth, expects to have a supply soon. The price is $4.95.

The wedding will take place in June.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Anderson College, with majors in psychology and social work. She is currently employed as a caseworker with Madison County department of Public Welfare.

Pat Bordman

Recycling kindles their imagination

By PAT BORDMAN

Cats and some batteries have nine lives. To "turn over a new leaf" means to start fresh. And to "start a new life" is to use our personal resources in new ways.

Each has to do, in effect, with a second life. Each has to do with using over and over again what is available. Until we stop using our resources strictly as throw-aways, there will be lots of handy usable "second life" items. Discards and throw-aways are the stuff of fascination for a child.

Children need to see our everyday usable items in unique ways and be helped to realize that the end of usefulness does not come from just the simple way the item was intended by the manufacturer.

All that's needed are lots of used paper cups, the same size and type, and either a stapler or lots of paper clips. The cups are fit together by using the stapler or the paper clips as connectors. Either way, fit only one cup at a time to the others already connected. If paper clips are used, when the building is done, it can be taken apart and the items used again for more building another time, or for other projects.

A fine geometric design can be formed, or something utilitarian is possible such as a desktop organizer for pencils, rubber bands, clips and other small items. Or a collector's storage place for rocks, shells, coines, stamps, etc.

Give your child a puzzle to explore while working on this project by posing questions: How many 3-oz. cups will it take to form a complete dome? How many paper clips will be needed to hold it together adequately?

Obviously, if permanence is desired, staples are a must. So how many will be required to insure that the construction won't fall apart? Are more staples or clips needed for stability? Guess in advance.

Patricia Bordman has taught elementary school and conducted workshops and lectures on education. She also has studied photography at Oakland University. She and her husband have two daughters and live in Farmington Hills.

2nd opinion on surgery now needed by Medicaid

Medicaid now requires second opinions on eight elective surgical procedures before they are performed on Medicaid patients in the tri-county (Wayne, Oakland and Macomb) area.

The change from what was since last July an all-voluntary, second-opinion program was mandated by the State Legislature in the Michigan department of Social Services appropriation for this fiscal year. The move is expected to save about $4 million in the next 12 months. Medicaid is funded 50-50 with state and federal money. Almost one million persons participate in Medicaid in Michigan.

The mandatory second opinions will be expanded to all Medicaid patients in the rest of the state by March 31, a Medicaid policy spokesman explained.

"Recipients statewide have been alerted to the change in second-opinion policy," the spokesman said.

Under the mandatory policy, the doctor who initially proposes the elective surgery for a Medicaid recipient should tell the patient that a second opinion is required before Medicaid will pay for the operation. The doctor then should contact the BCBSM referral center at 225-0112 to have a consultant lined up.

The procedures for which second opinions are now required by Medicaid are: cholecystectomy, dilation and curettage (diagnostic), hemorrhoidectomy, hernia repair, hysterectomy, meniscectomy, tonsillectomy and/or adenoidectomy, and urinary system endoscopy.

Medicaid officals said second consultations for the eight procedures will not be required if the surgery is urgently needed or an emergency situation exists.

Antique show begins March 1

Ruth Heilman of Livonia will display an 1870 cylinder type music box from Switzerland which can play six songs at the Botsford Inn Antique Show to take place March 1 and 2 in Botsford Inn, on Grand River and Eight Mile, Farmington.

She is among a group of exhibitors which will be showing such things as a coin slot oak case music box dating from about 1897, primitives and various children's item. These include an early Hitchcock child's rocker, an early wood scooter, child's potty with arrow back as well as a small oak cupboard used for doll dishes.

Furniture, china, Oriental items and jewelry will also be found at the show. Hours are noon to 10 p.m. on Saturday and noon to 8 p.m. Sunday.

Seeds

From a catalog comes a garden

By MARGE ALPERN

Garden magazines, like all magazines, are filled with enticing ads for catalogs. There are so many nurseries to choose from that you might just decide to forget the whole thing.

Don't.

Mail order gardening can be fun and now is the time to do it.

The old familiar names — the Burpees, Park or Wayside — are no doubt the leaders in the industry, but the small unusual specialty houses that cater to the cognoscenti are more exciting.

WOULDN'T YOU like to try Sperka's, Grotensdorf or Far North, places of which you have never heard? Unless someone tells you about their own private discovery, you may never know the fun of shopping through catalogs.

Even if you don't purchase a thing from the catalogs, you'll enjoy looking at the pictures, dreaming and planning your summer garden. Some catalogs are almost of textbook quality and provide understandable non-technical information and clear descriptions of the differences in varieties.

For example, with vegetables, the printed material may describe and compare growing requirements, yield, disease resistance, and canning and freezing qualities. You'll not only enjoy the beautiful photographs of new varieties and prize-winning selections, but they will help you become a more sophisticated shopper. Best of all, catalogs provide hours of pleasure for the impatient summer gardener.

THE SEARCH for the unusual or the new is characteristic of most dedicated gardeners. Actually much of the merchandise sold in catalogs is available locally.

The catalogs offer the opportunity to discover a new (at least to you), rare or unusual plant. It's like antique shopping — you learn to keep

Here's where to write...

SEED COMPANIES

● Burpee Seed Co., 300 Park Ave., Warminster, Pa. 18991 — Everyone knows Burpee. It's the oldest seed company in America and the largest mail order seed company in the world.

● George W. Park Seed Co., Greenwood, S.C. 29647 — Several catalogs are sent a year — all good. I'm ordering Winter Hardy gladioulus, which I've never seen, but at 10 for $2.50, I'll take a chance.

● Joseph Harris Co., Moreton Farm, Rochester, N.Y. 14624 — Fine, dependable company, highly recommended.

● Thompson & Morgan, Inc., Box 100, Farmingdale, N.J. 07727 — Well respected source of unusual varieties.

GARDEN SUPPLIERS

The following firms ship carefully wrapped material of fine quality. You won't be disappointed. Catalog prices are included:

● Blackthorne Gardens, $2, 48 Quincy St., Holbrook, Mass. 02343 — Large collection of lilies, also bulbs and wildflowers.

● Far North Gardens, 50 cents, 15621 Auburndale Ave., Livonia, Mich. 48154 — Barnhaven Primroses and rare flower seeds. My favorite primrose is the Barnhaven Sieboldi, the lacy blooms of which are held on 10-inch stalks. A local grower of national reputation.

● A.M. Grootendorst, P.O. Box 123, Benton Harbor, Mich. 49022 — A minimum order of $35 per shipment is necessary. Their Oxford Tulip at $13-a-100 is a real bargain. It's a tall, scarlet, late bloomer, quite magnificent.

● King's Mums, $1, 3723 E. Castro Valley Blvd., Castro Valley, Calif. 94546 — All the unusual, exotic and unclassified mums — no garden center can compete.

● John Scheeper's, Inc. $1, 63 Wall St., New York, N.Y. 10005 — Flower bulb specialists of the finest quality (expensive). Their Collarette dahlias ($8 for three) are charming. Beautiful photographs.

● White Flower Farm, Litchfield, Conn. 06759 — A spring and a fall edition plus three issues of "Notes" are sent to those whose orders total $20 or more a year. Otherwise they are sold for $5. If I had to choose one catalog, this would be it. Informative material delightfully written. Superior merchandise carefully shipped.

● Wayside Gardens, $2, Hodges, S.C. 29695 — Probably the largest mail order house for fine trees, shrubs and perennials. The spring and fall catalogs of beautiful illustrations can be seen under the arm of shoppers in every garden center. It serves almost as a text, familiarizing you with names and preparing you to be a better shopper.

WILDFLOWER NURSERIES

Because of the nature of young wildings, transplanting is precarious. Fall planting is generally recommended and some growers (Sperka's, for instance) will ship only in the fall.

● Gardens of Blue Ridge, P.O. Box 10, Pineola, N.C. 28662 — Fine planting material carefully shipped. Good information, well-established company.

● Lousnsbery Gardens, P.O. Box 135, Oakford, Ill. 62673 — Good information, black and white photos. Dependable shippers, well established company.

● Orchid Gardens, 35 cents, Route One, Grand Rapids, Mich. 55744 — Homemade catalog, full of excellent garden information especially on wild orchids. Fun to read.

● Putney Nursery, Inc., Putney, Vt. 05346 — Highly recommended, well known source.

● Sperka's Woodland Acres Nursery, Crivitz, Wis. 54114 — Fall planting only. I'm ordering their Schaaf's Double Pink Anemonella — very rare.

● The Wild Garden, Box 487, Bothell, Wash. 98011 — Small but distinguished and amusing catalog of unusual plants.

Menuhin with DSO next week

Famed violinist Yehudi Menuhin joins guest conductor James Loughran for performances next weekend with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra at Ford Auditorium.

Performances will be at 8:30 p.m. Thursday and Saturday, March 6 and 8, and 10:45 a.m. Friday, March 7. The Friday concert is preceded by a coffee hour at 9:30 a.m.

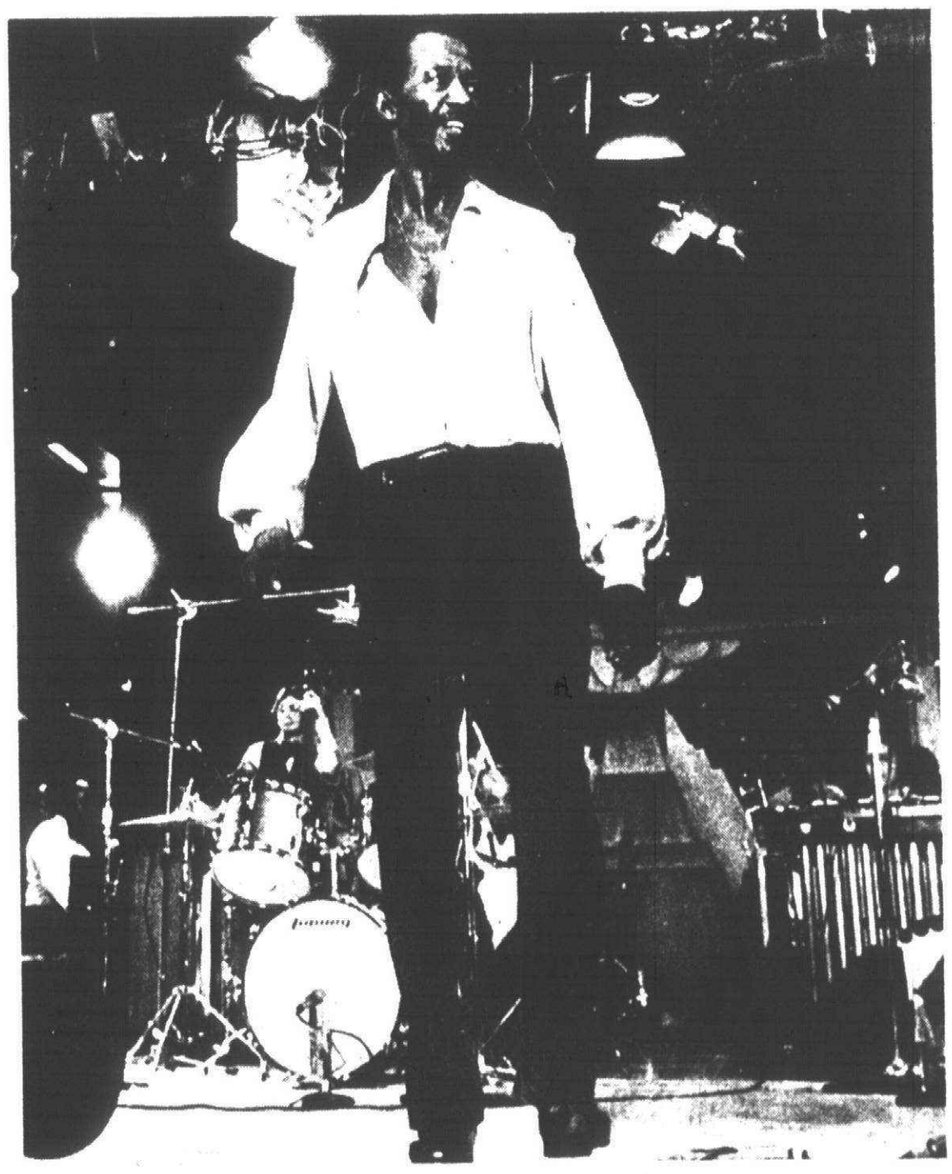

The all-Elgar program will consist of the Violin Concerto and Symphony No. 1. As a teenage prodigy, Menuhin made a historic recording of the concerto under Sir Edward Elgar's own direction.

Tickets are $5-9 for the Thursday and Saturday concerts and $9 for the Friday concert. A limited number of $2 tickets for students and senior citizens will be available one hour before the Thursday and Saturday concerts.

Menuhin debuted at age 7 with the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra. Since then, he has perfomed in almost every country in the world. He has been artistic director of the annual Yehudi Menuhin Festival of Gstaad, Switzerland, for 20 years.

He is the founder of the Menuhin Festival Orchestra with which he travels all over the world and in 1963 he established the Yehudi Menuhin School at Stoke d'Abernon in Surrey, England, for musically gifted children.

Loughran made his United States debut with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra in 1972 and last appeared with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra in March 1977.

Sandman Sims is one of the tap dancers who will be performing this weekend at Clarenceville High.

Tapping the night away in Livonia

Tap dancing is back in town, for a night anyway, as hoofers Sandman Sims and Chuck Green appear live and on film Friday night at Clarenceville High School.

"No Maps on My Taps," an hour-long documentary about a dance competition at Small's Paradise in Harlem, stars Sims, Green and Bunny Briggs with Lionel Hampton's big band. The movie, named after a song, starts at 8 p.m., and is followed by Sims, Green and James ("Buster") Brown demonstrating their styles on stage.

Tickets are $4 ($3 for students), available in advance at the Schoolcraft College bookstore. The high school is at 20155 Middlebelt north of Seven Mile.

"TAP DANCING kind of fizzled out and now it's making a resurgence," says Midge Ellis, events coordinator for the college.

These tappers are called "hoofers" because they improvise to music; each has a particular style.

Sandman Sims, for instance, gets his nickname from his sand dance. "I was a boxer and used to dance in the rosin box," he says. "People enjoyed me dancing more in the rosin box than they did me boxing."

He tried recreating the effect with sand. "First I glued sandpaper on my shoes and I wore out my mat," he says.

"Then I glued sandpaper on my mat and wore my shoes out. Then I put loose sand in a box with a sounding board, and on that board I am the world's greatest sand dancer."

Sims performed at the Apollo Theater in Harlem for 17 years.

Briggs has been described by Duke Ellington as a "superleviathonic tapsthematicianologist."

"In modern dance or ballet, you must do what the teacher tells you," he says. "When you're tap dancin', you're a free man."

Producer George Nierenberg set out to present a film depicting what he calls a disappearing part of American culture.

"These men represent a whole era of entertainment and in indigenous American art form," he says. "Nobody from my generation knows about it."

'Tis the time to read the new seed catalogs

your eyes open and spot the real find. Buying plants locally, of course, has many obvious advantages besides saving shipping costs, but it's a thrill to open a box and find a carefully wrapped rare specimen hiding in mounds of out-of-town newspaper.

No matter how reliable a company is, plant material that is shipped will be somewhat in a state of shock when it reaches you and will need time to adjust. Inspect your plants thoroughly on arrival, follow directions, which are usually enclosed, and keep them out of the sun for several days.

If the plant isn't in excellent condition, watch it carefully and baby it. If it doesn't perk up in a day or two, notify the sender immediately. Almost without exception, the company is seeking regular customers and is willing to replace unsatisfactory merchandise if notified within about 10 days. (This varies.)

The size of the company doesn't matter. Many small growers are even more anxious to please you than the large companies. Above all, you can be sure to get just what you pay for. There are a few bargains — but not many.

KEEP IN MIND as you make your selection that we live in Zone 5.

Good news and bad news for our wildlife this winter

By LEM MESEE
Outdoors writer

A wildlife specialist at Michigan State University says he was wrong and he's glad.

Glen Dudderar of MSU's extension service cheerfully admits he missed in predicting lots of problems with meadow mice this winter.

He based his prediction on the yearly incrases in the number of meadow mice trapped in sample areas around the state. Traps in 1975 yielded few mice; traps in fall of 1979 caught 60 mice a week.

"I was hearing the same sort of population increase from other sources," Dudderar said. "I was getting more and more complaints from homeowners, Christmas tree growers and others. It looked like a bad year for mouse damage."

Light snow gets the credit.

Most mouse damage occurs beneath the snow. The little fellows are concealed from hawks, owls, foxes and other predators.

"As a result, mouse populations are declining rapidly from fall numbers. Predators, on the other hand, should be in good shape."

OTHER CREATURES have had it tough in the light snow.

Snowshoe rabbits, for one. There's no advantage to being a white bunny when there's no snow.

Ruffed grouse, for another. Grouse burrow into deep snow for insulation against the cold. No snow, no insulation — and more chance to be caught by predators.

But pheasants, deer and quail should benefit from the mild winter.

"The past few winters have been very hard on pheasants. Large numbers of starved deer were found the past three years. And the quail population has declined so much that there hasn't been quail hunting season in three years," Dudderar said.

"The pheasant situation is a good example of how weather can also make wildlife biologists look good. DNR biologists have undertaken some pheasant habitat improvement projects to help reverse population declines. Pheasant numbers in the improved areas have increased noticeably.

"But if this and future winters are milder than the past three, the DNR folks will be looking even better than they'd planned."

ECOLOGY NOTES:

Cans littering Michigan roads were reduced by 81 percent and bottles 71 percent between the summers of 1978 and 1979, says the Michigan Department of Transportation. Chief reason: the ban on throwaways, which went into effect in December 1978. Total litter was down by 41 percent.

Michigan motorists reduced gasoline consumption 11.5 percent during the last three months of 1979, says Gov. William G. Milliken, who credited lighter vehicles, more efficient engines, lower speeds, a decline in highway travel for the fuel savings. Another cause Milliken didn't mention: high prices. For the first nine months of the year, prior to the new round of price hikes, gasoline consumption was down only 2.3 percent.

THIS WEEKEND at the Huron-Clinton Metroparks:

- "A Visitors' Nature Slide Fest" starts at 1 p.m. Sunday, March 2 at the nature center of Kensington Metropark near Milford. Bring up to 15 of your own nature slides to show and tell a little about them. Register by calling 685-1561.
- "Beekeeping" will be discussed at 2 p.m. Sunday, March 2 at the naature center of Oakwoods Metropark near Flat Rock. Naturalist Steve Horn will show slides on the inner workings of a beehive and explain the equipment needed to set up a hive. Oakwoods' entrance is on Willow Road east of I-275 in southern Wayne County.

Young pianists eligible for competition

The first place winner of this year's annual piano competition sponsored by the Detroit Chapter of the Piano Technicians Guild will be considered for an appearance as a soloist with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

The competition is open to all students in public or private school, grades seven throught 12, and is limited to Michigan and Ohio and Ontario residents living within a 75 mile radius of Detroit.

Interested candidates should submit a tape recording consisting of not less than 10 minutes of playing time including three pieces in contrasting styles. One piece must be the first or last movement of a concerto.

Tapes must be submitted no later than April 18. Final judging will be by personal audition. For information and application forms, write PTG Awards, Marygrove College Music Department, 8425 W. McNichols, Detroit 48221.

2,000 years of achievement

Nigerian art—a rare treat at the Art Institute

By ERIC PETERS

To those only familiar with Africa's wood sculptures, which last about a hundred years at best in most African climates, this is an astonishing exhibition. The sophistication of both technical and stylistic techniques is a revelation.

The Treasures of Ancient Nigeria, one of the most important and impressive exhibitions of ancient African art ever to enter the United States, is on display at the Detroit Institute of Arts through March 16.

The show is unrivaled as an artistic, archeological and historical collection offering a range of Nigerian achievement over a span of 2,000 years which represents nine-tenths of extant ancient African art.

There are over 100 works of bronze, terra cotta, ivory and stone sculpture and functional objects of rich detail and great beauty grouped by culture and explained by concise information clearly displayed.

To those only familiar with Africa's wood sculptures, which last about a hundred years at best in most African climates, this is an astonishing exhibition. The sophistication of both technical and stylistic techniques is a revelation. These works compare favorably with the other great art traditions of the world.

INTRODUCING THE show is a short color film overview of the five major periods most important in the development of Nigerian art: Nok, Igbo-Ukwu, Ife, Owo, and Benin. There is a fascinating time chart which shows how the line of world events can be placed beside the periods of Nigerian culture.

On the walls are photographs of digs and succinct introductory descriptions offering information on social, economic, political background, artistic characteristics, archeological facts and data on the process of dating the pieces. A detailed program sheet with many illustrations supplements.

In addition, an excellent taped guide is available for rental. It highlights those pieces significant for details in style and technique which reflect heritage, point to innovations or developments in the tradition or show how subjects or symbols carry over from one group to another.

A group of terra cotta figures and heads from Nok are the earliest known Nigerian sculptures. Named for the tin mining village where the first finds were made, Nok was an iron working culture lasting nearly a thousand years from 500 B.C. and covering an area of 100 by 300 miles.

MOST OF THE HEADS have been broken from full-lenghth figures four feet or more in height. Faces have distinctive geometric or abstract characteristics with great attention payed to jewelry and hair coiffure. The eyes, nose, mouth and ears are pierced right through the clay. Eyes are stylized triangles or circles with the eyebrow above mirroring or balancing the sweep of the eyelids below.

From the Igbo-Ukwu people of the 9th and 10th centuries comes a highly decorative style of art and artifact, unique to African art and, so far, not linked to any other known culture. These earliest known workers of copper used leaded bronze for casting in the lost wax process.

Their elaborate objects (there are few depictions of human forms) include ritual vessels, ceremonial staff heads and ornaments. Most are completely covered with designs, small animals and insects, woven and braided rope and reed patterns or encrustations of stones. Artistic technology was very high and the finely detailed bronzes compare with Nordic and European Medieval art of the same period. The objects were found in a burial chamber uncovered in 1938 by a man digging a cistern.

IFE ARTISTIC achievement from 12th to 19th century is undoubtedly one of the very highest in African history. The wealth of bronze and terra cotta heads, mostly royal portraiture, compares in its idealized realism to the work of 5th century B.C. Greece and the 12th century in Cambodia.

The faces bear a dignified serenity which emphasizes the spiritual embodiment of the deity from which these kings (or Oni) were thought to have descended. The social and political hier archy of Ife was rigid and thus the subjects are nearly all royal ones, often used in funeral ceremonies and worship.

The Ife terra cottas have more flexibility of subject and style but have similarly typical facial characteristics. The eyes are almond-shaped with the upper lids overlapping the lower ones. Lips have raised edges with impressed corners of the mouth. The neck is encompassed by a series of grooves.

Owo works were recently found to be linked to both Ife and Benin in excavations begun in 1969 by Dr. Ekpo Eyo, guest curator of this exhibition and director of the Nigerian National Museum system. There are great variety of depictions of sacrificial offerings and stylized animal characterizations. Human faces have striations.

BENIN KINDOM ART is the most famous and stunning in the show. The works are all large, highly distinctive and realistic in an individual and expressive style. Most of the subjects are royal ones commissioned by the Oba (or King) for the Benin City palace. There are elegant heads, elaborate plaques in deep relief, richly engraved or carved objects and a pair of royal leopards. Three queen mother heads are among themost photographed of African works of art.

Bronze plaque of warrior and attendants of a 17th century piece from Benin. The elaborate detail establishes it as a major find.

backgammon

Michael Kloian
of the American Backgammon Club

IS THIS PLAYING SAFE?

White rolls five-four and faces the problem of having to leave a direct shot on at least one blot (single checker) no matter how he plays. The question should be two-fold:

- How do you leave the fewest shots for black on the open blot after moving?
- What will be the most effective play for white's next roll if black cannot hit white's blot?

What move best fulfills both of these considerations?

THE BEST OVERALL MOVE . . .

White should move from black's 12-point all the way to his own 4-point, hitting black's blot. Although this may seem risky, hitting and leaving the blot in your own field, it is actually the blot with the least number of return shots on it (11 out of 36).

If black doesn't hit on the next roll, white has 14 out of 36 ways to cover the blot and close out black. If white can't cover the blot, he could choose to run with his back checker and/or safety the 4-point blot if he rolls a two or three.

But what if black hits white's 4-point blot on his first attempt off the bar?

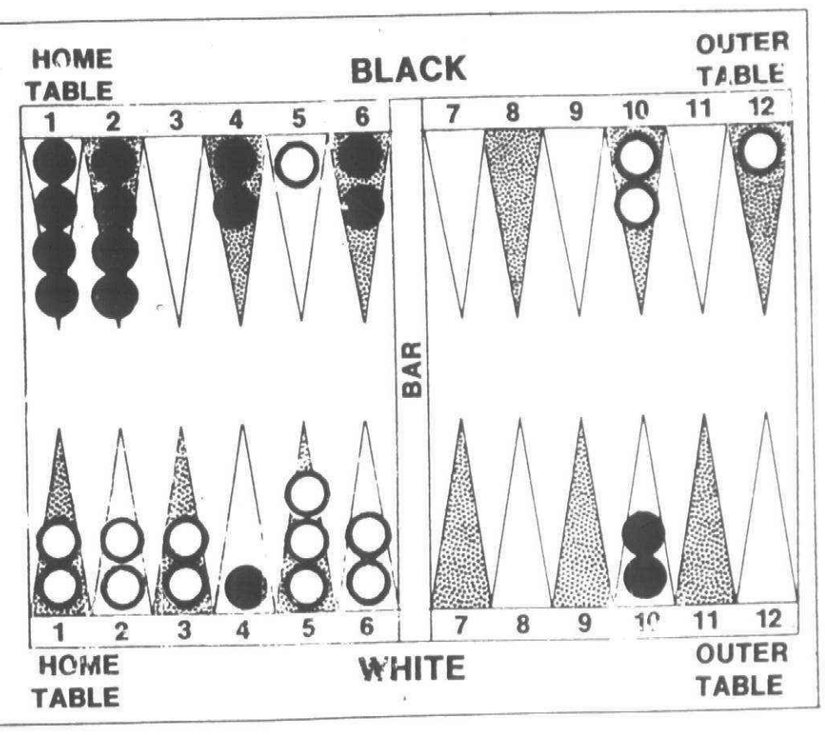

All is not lost. White has a 56 percent chance of re-entering on the next roll, with a chance of capturing black's crucial 5-point.

If white can't get off the bar in his first roll, black has no builders immediately bearing into his home table. By the time white gets off, he should have a good holding game, waiting for black's three checkers to come around.

IN THE GAME . . .

Black did not hit white's blot, and white covered on the next roll with a one. White went on to win the game, with black narrowly escaping a gammon.

The American Backgammon Club can be contacted by calling 459-5776.

backgammon

Michael Kloian
of the American Backgammon Club

IS THIS PLAYING SAFE?

White rolls five-four and faces the problem of having to leave a direct shot on at least one blot (single checker) no matter how he plays. The question should be two-fold:

● How do you leave the fewest shots for black on the open blot after moving?

● What will be the most effective play for white's next roll if black cannot hit white's blot?

What move best fulfills both of these consideations?

THE BEST OVERALL MOVE . . .

White should move from black's 12-point all the way to his own 4-point, hitting black's blot. Although this may seem risky, hitting and leaving the blot in your own field, it is actually the blot with the least number of return shots on it (11 out of 36).

If black doesn't hit on the next roll, white has 14 out of 36 ways to cover the blot and close out black.

If white can't cover the blot, he could choose to run with his back checker and/or safety the 4-point blot if he rolls a two or three.

But what if black hits white's 4-point blot on his first attempt off the bar?

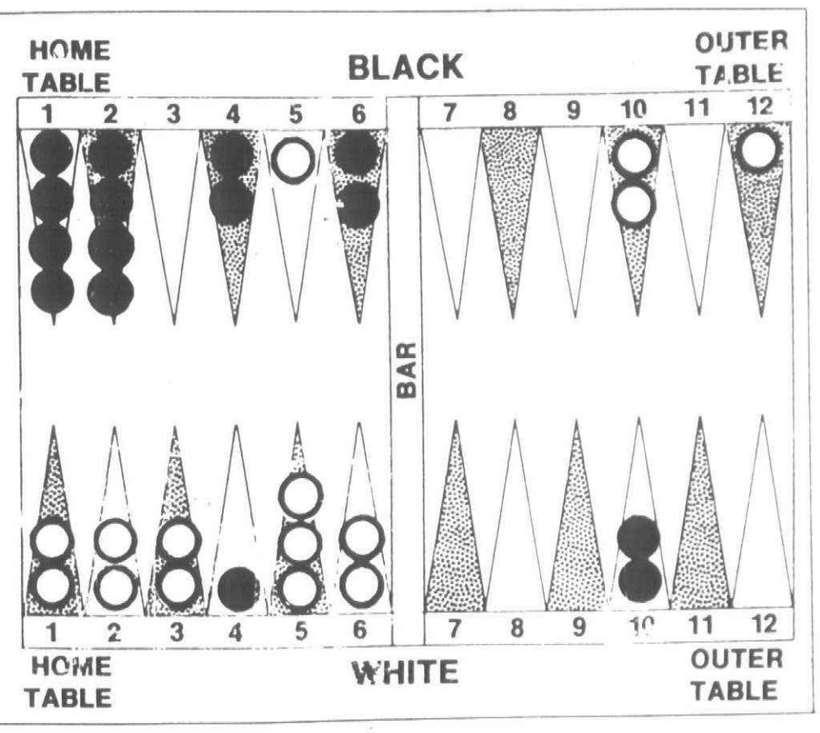

All is not lost. White has a 56 percent chance of re-entering on the next roll, with a chance of capturing black's crucial 5-point.

If white can't get off the bar in his first roll, black has no builders immediately bearing into his home table. By the time white gets off, he should have a good holding game, waiting for black's three checkers to come around.

IN THE GAME . . .

Black did not hit white's blot, and white covered on the next roll with a one. White went on to win the game, with black narrowly escaping a gammon.

The American Backgammon Club ccan be contacted by calling 459-5776.

Ceramic arts conference is next week in Ann Arbor

Some 1,500 ceramic artists and educators from around the country are expected at the 1980 conference of the National Council on Education in the Ceramic Arts March 5-8 at the University of Michigan.

At the same time, U-M art galleries — as well as public and private galleries throughout southeaster Michigan — will conduct exhibits of ceramic work, including pottery, glass work and figurative ceramics by conference participants.

The national conference, hosted by the U-M School of Art, will include 23 lectures, panel discussions and demonstrations on technical and aesthetic aspects of ceramic art.

Registration ($40) is available from the U-M Extension Service, 412 Maynard, Ann Arbor 48109, (313-764-5304).

Registration will also be available during the conference at Hill Auditorium on March 6 and the Rackham Building March 7 and 8 for $45.

The conference will include an awards ceremony on the evening of March 6, honoring three ceramic artists: potter Karen Karnes of Stony Point, N.Y., who is known for her stonewares; potter Michael Cardew of Cornwall, England, who has been called "one of the most significant practicing potters of our time" and whose work reflects English as well as African tribal influences; and figurative ceramic artist Viktor Schreckengost of Cleveland, who was a major contributor to the development of ceramic sculpture.

The keynote speaker at the ceremony is Harvey Littleton of Spruce Pine, N.C., known for his glass work. A U-M graduate and former resident of Ann Arbor, Littleton was one of the founders of the Ann Arbor Potters Guild. He has held teaching positions at Toledo Museum of Art and the University of Wisconsin at Madison.

THE EXHIBITIONS, all open to the public, during the conference include;

• Slusser Gallery, U-M Art and Architecture Building, North Campus: "Pieces of Eight," sculptural ceramic works by eight artists who participated in a recent residency at the pottery and enamel shops of the Kohler Co., Kohler, Wis. The exhibition runs March 6-16. Gallery hours: 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays; 9 a.m. to noon, Saturdays.

Also at Slusser Gallery: "Potter's Dozen," an exhibition of work by 13 selected potters from around the country whose pottery "stretches beyond the bounds of craftsmanship alone, yet retains its utilitarian nature."

From Gallo

New releases rock wine market

wine

Richard Watson

Back in 1974, the California wine industry rocked mightily when the word got out — Ernest and Julio Gallo had placed an initial order for 5,000,000 corks.

By fall they were releasing eight varietal wines and a rose, all cork-finished, that have since sold an estimated 1.5 million cases.

Now the wine world is rocking again. Readers of slick magazines have seen, and television viewers will soon see, or have seen, a huge advertising campaign annoucing a premium line of top varietals, some of them oak-aged, designed to sell in the $2.50-$5-a-bottle range.

No Gallo wine has previously seen any oak so this constitutes an even greater departure from its past than the 1974 marketing maneuver. And the addition of oak to wines means that Gallo is serious about offering premium wine.

The decision to stay non-vintaged seems the only potential flaw in the concept though that will tend to reduce cost somewhat.

THE FIRST SIX HAVE only recently been released, both in the traditional fifths and in attractive 1.5 liter bottles. Other wines will follow, those that require greater aging or oak exposure before they are ready. Within the next year we can expect to see Chardonnay and Cabernet Sauvignon (in the $5-$6-a-bottle range), a Barbera and a Zinfandel, at least.

The prosepect of any of the first two priced in that range is intriguing. The cost of both of these by most vintners these days is closely approaching the unbelievable. If Gallo can come in with quality releases in this price range it may do something to slow down our seemingly mad race with economic disaster in the wine world.

And Gallo is big — big enough to singlehandedly affect the whole industry. They set the basic price each year in California for the cost of grapes. Grape cost is the chief variable in what a bottle of wine is going to cost you and me.

I have been very impressed with the initial releases, labelled in buff paper and boasting the wine is from "the Cellars of Earnest and Julio Gallo." Beginning with the use of heavy duty foil on the neck, this smacks of a class issue.

THE GEWURZTRAMINER is soft and elegant, the Chenin Blanc has a slight touch of fruit, the French Colombard is light and off-dry, the Sauvignon Blanc a bit thin but decently tasty, the Johannisberg Riesling has an excellent nose and some varietal character, and the Rose has some crisp fruitiness.

Clearly, by Gallo's standards, their 1974 entries didn't dent the pricing market appreciably. But don't expect Gallo to miss twice. The advertising for those new releases will be awesome, according to reports, dwarfing the campaigns we have seen for Masson and the Coca Cola entries.

For those of you who have not drunk Gallo wines lately, try these. For consistency and value, no one in the world touches them. If they can keep it up with Chardonnay and Zinfandel we may see a new trend.

Trivia note: the decision by Gallo to call its release Chardonnay with no precedent Pinot suggests that little battle had finally been won. Now if we could just get them to say White Riesling . . . .

Lady Lavinia Loveless: "EEEEEEEEEK! Save Us!"

Livermore, the Butler: "Dolt! How dare you take Lady Loveless' Classified Ad to one of the daily newspapers! How could you expect her to be able to sell this dim, dismal, dark, and decrepit mansion without advertising in the Observer and Eccentric classified home section?"

Livermore, the Butler: "But, Miss Penelope, surely everyone knows what an astounding, multitudinous variety of people this fine, hometown, family newspaper reaches." ★

Farthingale, the Chauffeur: "Please Sir! I will hasten to the Observer & Eccentric office and ask the Classified Hot Line to place the ad in the next issue. I must vindicate myself for that dastardly deed."

Lady Lavinia Loveless: "Lose no time! Dash off posthaste, with all due speed and dispatch! This ad must run immediately or we are doomed."

"What's so different about the nursing at Harper Hospital? The nurses."

Marianne Ferrari, R.N.
Med./Surg.,
Harper Hospital

"Somehow, we're a slightly different breed of nurse here at Harper. A little more committed, maybe, and dedicated. More interested, I think. Maybe it's us. Or maybe it's the entire outlook and concept at Harper. Where the emphasis is on the human factors, the personal approach. Where they encourage you to learn, to grow. Where they care. About the patients. About you. And that can make a lot of difference."
