Elected officials get raise

Salaries of Canton's elected clerk and treasurer were raised 25 percent Tuesday night with another wage increase slated for December.

The salary of the treasurer, who will work full-time after next November's election, was placed in the same bracket as the clerk's.

The treasurer currently earns $7,500 a year for the 20-hour position. He or she will earn $27,500 - the same as the clerk - when the new Canton board takes office Nov. 20.

A scheduled increase on Dec. 1 will increase the salary of the clerk and treasurer to $30,000 a year.

Could farm zoning fail? Trustees say perhaps

By DARLENE STINSON

Their fears of adopting the farmland preservation section of Canton's proposed zoning ordinance were never publicly emphasized before.

But some members of the Canton board admit that concerns over possible litigation could stall board approval of the farm program's first step until development right monies are ob-

The admission comes on the eve of considering a new zoning ordinance which places some 5,000 acres west of Canton Center in an agricultural-industrial (AGI) zoning district.

Land in that classification could not be divided into parcels smaller than 40 acres. The land could not be developed or used for any purpose except farmrelated activities.

Until now, the board has publicly supported the position of the planning commission to adopt the zoning ordinance and farm classifications by the Approval this month would allow the Canton Tax Board of Review to lower property assessments in the western half of the township.

Publicly, the board has indicated that it would approve the zoning ordinance and worry about obtaining development rights funds at a later date.

They maintained that western Canton cannot be developed for years because of the absence of water and sewer facilities. Trustee Eugene Daley is the only board member who has publicly opposed the farmland preservation plan.

CULBERT CLAIMS adoption of the agricultural-industrial zoning without a working development rights plan 'would make a lot of attorneys rich."

"We could jeopardize the financial resources of this township for decades," he said. "I feel it's grossly unfair to zone a man's land for 40 acres and not give him any money for development rights."

Culbert said he will present an ultimatum to the board March 13.

He will ask board members to allocate at least $250,000 to a development rights account during each of the next five years. The money would come from state revenue-sharing funds which are expected to total $1.3 million

If board members approve the proposal and commit to a development rights account, Culbert said he will vote in favor of the agricultural-industrial zoning district.

to put money where its mouth is, then I'll vote for AGI. If not, then I'll vote for the entire western half to be zoned AGR."

MRS. BODENMILLER is joined by Trustee Robert Greenstein in criticism of Culbert's AGR proposal.

At LWV forum

- Bond proposals explained

By CARQLINE PRICE

Disagreement over which alternatives are best to handle a growing student population in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools may still exist among members of the school board.

But the board presented a united front Monday night as members answered audience questions at an informational forum sponsored by the Northville, Plymouth, Canton, Novi League of Women Voters.

The forum's purpose was to explore the three ballot proposals that will be presented to district voters in a March 27 special election.

PROPOSITION I asks for approval to issue bonds to raise $14,623,000 for the purposes of building renovation, especially of Central Middle School; portable classrooms, school bus purchases; air conditioning for schools going to an extended school year calendar; equipment replacement; an energy conservation system; and improved mainte-

Proposition II asks for approval to issue bonds for $7,277,000 to build at 40-classroom annex at Centennial Education Park and to remodel Central Middle School for use as a high school

Approval of the $21.9 million request would allow the board to levy debt retirement millage. The owner of a $60,000 home would pay about $89.10 in additional taxes next year.

If both proposals pass, the district's grade structure will stay at K-5, 6-8

If only Proposition I passes, the structure will change to K-6, 7-9, 10-12. The third proposition asks voters for .5 mill (50 cents per $1,000 state equalized valuation of property) to be used only for maintenance and repairs. The exact cost to taxpayers of any of the proposals is dependent on the SEV, a figure not yet established for the coming year. According to Raymond Hoedel, the district is basing projected costs on a SEV figure of $740 million.

AUDIENCE QUESTIONS, which were written down and then screened for duplication and objectivity by LWV members, focused on concern about grade re-alignment and subsequent boundary changes; which schools would convert to the ESY calendar; actual cost of the proposals; and whether the high price tag of rennovating Central is Superintendent John Hoben told the audience "it is safe to speculate that all but Starkweather, Tanger and Geer elementary schools will go ESY within the next three or four years.

Only one case of Reye's has been reported this year. The youngster of preschool age is now in stable condition in Mott Hospital in Ann Arbor. Mott and Children's Hospital in Detroit are two centers of treatment and research on the disease, according to Dr. Jane Polkowski, director of Wayne County's communicable disease division.

A pamphlet recently distributed by the Westland Jaycees throughout the Wayne-Westland district is being credited for helping with early detection of the Reye's case last week. The pamphlet describes symptoms of the disease, which usually occurs in a child recovering from a viral infection.

"One of the older kids in the family brought home the flyer, which sensi-rtized the mother to the symptoms," said Dr. Polkowski. "The child was recovering from the chicken pox and she (the mother) calmly made the connection, which was excellent. So she checked with her doctor.

"Parents need to be informed instead of panicked," she continued. "There has almost been an overreaction (to Reye's). We need to avoid a panic situation by providing information for parents to check with their physician."

Symptoms include vomitting, a behavior change, disorientation, hostility and finally a coma.

"This (Reye's) isn't a common condition, but it does occur after some types of viral infections. We don't know why," Dr. Polkowski explained

The program, run in conjunction with the National Weather Service, is open to the public at no charge. This is the second year the program is offered. Last year some 15 classes were held. According to Charles VanVleck, the team's president and commander, the public will be taught how to properly react to a tornado warning as well as a tornado watch. Also, representative of the weather bureau will instruct those interested in how to report a tornado and funnel cloud formation.

The team also is interested in training spotters. In cooperation with the weather service, the team has trained several weather spotters and sent them out to preassigned spotting posts whenever a tornado warch is posted in this

The team has been covering a line along Napier Road between Ten Mile and Ford roads for three years. The team also monitors CB channel nine every weekend, on holidays, and during the week from 3-6 p.m. Their base is at the Plymouth Hilton.

According to VanVleck, this is tornado season. In Michigan some 7,000 reported tornadoes have been spotted since 1950.

Citing National Weather Service statistics, he said the general public has spotted about 10 tornadoes in the past three years as compared to one on radar by the weather service.

Burroughs is hit by strike

By TERI BANAS

As of early this week, there were no plans for reconvening bargaining sessions between Burrough's Corp. officials and representatives of Local 1313 of the United Auto Workers.

At midnight last Friday some 1,700-1,800 members of that union walked off their jobs from three Detroit area Burrough's assembly plants when their former three-year contract expired.

The majority of those workers, some 1,000, are based at the Plymouth Township Burrough's plant on Plymouth Road. The others work out of the Wayne and Detroit-Tireman plants.

According to Local Vice President Dock Duncan, negotiations broke off on Sunday after a month of serious bargaining when it was determined "no progress had been made."

He said they first met to iron out new three-year contract in mid-De-

"We'll stay out as long as it takes to get a good contract," he said.

"We're hoping for a prompt settlement," added Jackson. According to Watts, the UAW also represents some 100 clerical and office workers at Burrough's. These employees are represented by Local 1440 and are still on the job. Their contract doesn't expire for another month. As for those represented by Local 1313, the largest number of these assembly workers earn about $7.85 an hour with the cost-ofliving factor included, Wastts said.

The twilight of poaching City will end illegal parking

clerk.

The days of free parking in somebody else's lot

City Manager Henry Graper Jr. revealed Monday night that the city is negotiating the lease of private parking lots downtown so it will be able to begin ticketing poachers.

The crackdown is aimed to eliminating the practice of employees parking for free on private lots which are supposed to be used by customers.

When poachers are forced to park in public lots, Graper explained, then the city will have a better understanding of the real need for parking spaces in the downtown business district.

THE LEASING of private lots is the first step in an investigation of the feasibility of building a parking deck at the Central Parking Lot.

The second step is to hire an architectural/engineering firm to do the preliminary engineering work including schematic drawings.

Monday night the Plymouth City Commission authorized Graper to contract for the preliminary engineering at a cost of $12,000 to $15,000.

The fee for the study will be 11/2 to 2 percent of the total project cost, now estimated at about

Graper and Ken West, city engineer, will be interviewing five firms today and tomorrow. Once a decision is made on which firm to hire, Graper will draw up a contract to be signed by the mayor and

After the preliminary engineering work is finished, Graper said a series of public meetings would be scheduled to explain the project to residents and interested businesspersons.

THE MANAGER STRESSED Monday night that the leasing of the private lots was an important factor in the analysis of need for the deck.

"Once we begin policing the lots we'll know better how many spaces we'll actually need."

Graper said the major private lot owners already are agreeable to the leasing arrangement and that he was very confident other private lot owners also Commissioner Mark Wehmeyer asked if it was wise to spend up to $16,000 on the preliminary engineering and then face the chance that the downtown merchants would refuse to participate in the financing of the deck.

"We'll take the positive approach that it can be done," responded Graper. "I'll be proven wrong only if I can't sell the plan to merchants. I'll be laying out the idea to the Chamber so I will know within 15 days whether there's support from merchants. If there isn't we can stop right there and we will have spent nothing.

"The real proof, though, will be seen once we began policing the private lots and moving cars to where they belong. That will take about 45 days, and then some merchants may discover they need two or three more spaces for their employees.

"We will be policing two to three major private lots immediately and eventually will have some 15 lots under lease throughout the city.'

In response to a question from the audience, Graper commented: "Parking in the city is paying for itself now. What we are trying to do is eliminate poaching - the practice where employees will park in a private lot all day long.

"By the city removing the poachers we will force the business owners to make a decision on what to do about parking for their employees."

Parts of the upper deck of a structure at Central Lot would be reserved for employee parking, Graper added, at a cost of about $22.50 to $25 per month per space.

The private lots would remain privately owned, he explained, but would be leased to the city only so city police could enforce parking restrictions.

Tax revenue generated by private lots plus other parking income would be used to pay off the debt for the Central deck, Graper said.

Commissioner Eldon Martin stressed that Graper's plans include the removal of all meters so there eventually would be free parking throughout the city at some time in the future.

CEP bands go to the top

Members of the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park (CEP) Symphony and Concert Bands earned the right to perform in the state band festival next month by receiving first division ratings at the district festival on Saturday

The Symphony Band, under the direction of James R. Griffith, received ones from the three judges on its concert performance and a one for its sight reading ability. The Concert Band is under the leadership of Carl Battishill and received ones in the concert performance and a two in sight reading.

In band festivals each band must perform three concert selections that have been rehearsed and then two pieces that have never been seen before. The band is given seven minutes to look over the new music before having to perform.

The CEP Varsity Band received a second division by earning one first division rating in the concert performance along with two, two's and a two in sight reading.

The Symphony Band participated in the class AAA division, the Concert Band in class A and the Varsity Band in class C.

BOARD MEMBERS also explained why the increase in assessments many residents are experiencing will not mean a subsequent raise in school reve-

According to Hoedel, a state equalizing formula reduces the amount of state funds received by the district in proportion to the increase in assessments. At some time in the future, the district could conceivably be in the postion of receiving no state funds.

Although at least two board members stated their personal preference on grade realignment (Stephen Harper calls it simply putting off the inevitable. Carol Davis thinks it's a feasible alternative), all stressed the necessity of rennovating Central Middle school.

"We chose to put large sums of money in our instructional budget rather than in maintenance," Ms. Davis said.

"Now it's caught up with us." · Under the ballot proposals, Proposition I would provide more than $8 million to rennovate Central. Proposition II, if passed, would allow another $2 million to be spent to convert the school for high school use by about 1.200 students Proposition I does not specify how the school would be used - simply that it will be brought up to present building code standards. But it would remain as a middle school if Proposition II failed.

Some audience questions referred to the Proposition I bond request, which is some $4 million higher than had been recommended by a citizen's bond com-

HOEDEL SAID the increased cost comes-from the board's decision to include purchase of 13 school buses and the installation of an elevator at Central in the proposal

Board Member Sylvia Stetz said a new school could be built for the $8 million cost of a Central rennovation, but that the school could not house nearly as many students as Central is capable of.

Hoedel agreed with one comment, that it is not legally required of the district to bring Central up to present building codes because of a grandfather clause. "But it gets to the point where you can't in good conscience put children in a building with 30-year-old electrical wiring."

Board member Stephen Harper added, "I work for Ford Motor Company, and I can't think of a single structure the company uses that is in as appalling condition as this one is (the forum was held at Central).

Board Member Richard Arlen said, "if only Proposition II passes, we will consider not selling bonds.

Ms. Tonda said there is a possibility the board will come back with bond requests if they fail in th $ election.

Board members expressed the hope that "any perceived split" on the board would not jeopordize the proposals.

All seemed in agreement that, al though no single projection of expected student population crunches in the schools can be considered the last word on the matter, schools are approaching or exceeding capacity already, espe cially in the high schools.

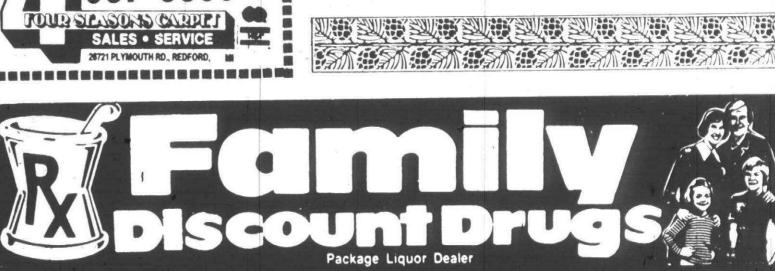

Arlen said, "If one perceives growth in the community has stabilized, we'll be able to squeak through.

"If we're only in a holding pattern And what if the propositions fail? and growth will start up again, it will change all the projections

City officials join in support of court's plan

The city of Plymouth has gone on record as favoring the idea of a single court house to serve all the communities within the 35th District Court.

Monday night the city commission voted 7-0 to support the single courtroom approach, although it still is unknown in which community the court will

tees voted to endorse the single courtroom concept. In urging the commission to support the onecourthouse plan, City Manager Henry Graper stressed that he hoped the city would be able to provide quarters for the court.

Graper said he proposed two or three sites in the city for the court but those locations were voted down by the committee searching for a site.

"I'm only one member of that committee with one vote, and the majority of the committee voted down those proposed sites. The committee has not yet disqualified my proposal to use a site next to the Massey Ball Field."

The advantage of the Massey site, Graper said, is there would be a common parking lot which could be shared by the court and persons using the softball diamonds at night and on weekends.

Plymouth Township is proposing that the court be located on property near Haggerty and Joy, and Canton is asking that the facility be built on land near Joy and Morton Taylor (Main Street extended into Canton).

"I'll do all I can to keep the court in the city," Graper assured the commission. "But if I do it will be because our offer constitutes the best financial package for the court. "If the city is not successful in locating the court here, we still want a single court house because that will saving about $100,000 a year in the operation of the district court.

"The committee will do what's in the best interest of all the residents of the court district - that's the way the way the game should be played.'

Graper added he had no problem with both judges sitting in facilities in the city hall, but he couldn't find the space there the judges desired.

"Because of this it will be better for the court to find its own building and then we can use city hall for the needs of our departments and not have to worry about whether the court might move out in some future year."

Small holes found on 4-month-old M-14 highway

the new M-14 freeway in Wayne County don't indicate that the $32 million road is deteriorating, says a district engineer for the Michigan Department of Transportation.

"I don't feel that we have a problem," said Warren Cox, chief engineer of the M-DOT district office in Southfield. "If we start getting some serious cracks, some large cracks, than we have a serious problem on our hands."

Cox says the holes -- most prominent in the eastbound lane of the freeway. between Beck and Sheldon Roads -- are not "a serious thing."

"To go out and repair those would be a cosmetic thing," said Cox, adding that the department has no plans to make repairs. The 12-mile stretch of new freeway between Livonia and Ann Arbor has been open less than five months

THE HOLES WERE reportedly caused by a bad mix of concrete.

"In my opinion," said Cox, "we obviously got one bad bunch of aggregate there in the concrete mix." Aggregate is one of the materials in concrete. On the majority of M-14, Cox said, slag aggregate, a by-product of steel production, was used rather than natural stone aggregate.

Some "foreign material," reportedly mudballs, was in the aggregate when the concrete was mixed, Cox said. The mudballs have "no structural value; it just creates voids," the term he used for the holes.

COX WAS responding to a Detroit trict yard supervisor had.

Scattered surface holes in sections of News article published earlier this week which warned the freeway holes could be more serious than state transportation officials admit.

A strucutural engineer the News hired to inspect M-14 said the problem could become worse since the freeway has only been exposed to traffic for a short time.

Dr. Phil Almeida, the News consultant, is a professor of civil engineering at the University of Detroit. He was quoted by the paper as saying the topsoil in the aggregate would "definitely weaken the concrete."

The aggregate slag used for the section west of Sheldon Road was provided by Edward C. Levy Co. of Detroit, according to the M-DOT.

But Cox said he didn't know "if we have a very good case to prove Levy responsible" for the bad batch of con-

If the department were to pursue the matter, "what would we ask for?" Cox said. "A new pavement? I don't know if we need a new payement."

THE WAYNE COUNTY portion of M-14 is maintained by the county road

When asked how serious the M-14 surface holes where, Robert Mahoney, a road commission maintenance engineer, said, "I don't really know."

"Quite frequently we encounter things on a new road that become maintenance problems.' Mahoney said he had yet to inspect the road, but a road commission disa

Top Realtors to be honored

A number of Canton and Plymouth real estate salespersons will be among those honored Saturday at award ceremonies in the Plymouth Hilton Inn.

The ceremonies, sponsored by the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors (WWOCBR), will honor some 414 Realtors for topping the $1 million mark in home listings and sales during 1979.

The top salesman in the Plymouth-Canton area was David V. Snell of B.F. Chamberlain in Plymouth who exceeded the $6 million mark.

Next in line were Robert W. Bake and Janice Foster, both of Robert Bake Realtors in Plymouth, who each exceeded $5 million in sales.

Plymouth also had three WWOCBR' members who topped the $3 million mark. They were: Edwin J. Freeh, Jr., of Garling, Inc.; Frances Owens and Linda P. Stebbins, both of Bake Realty.

Leading the list of honorees in the WWOCBR region for the second straight year was William J. Willis of Mayfair Realty in Livonia with a total of more than $7 million.

"Led by these Million Dollar Club members from 31 communities served by our board and multi-list subsidiary, fort by individual members on behalf we aided about 31,000 buyers and sellers of existing homes last year," said John J. Halser, WWOCBR president. "Total value of property involved was nearly $820 million. "Despite the rise in average prices during the year, the $1 million figure remains a significant benchmark. With the challenge of record interest rates and reduced mortgage funding availability in the latter part of the year, it denotes a great deal of outstanding efof their clients.'

Halser said the average for the board's 4,339 members in 1979 was 3.76 sales with a value of some $197,000 but noted these figures included a number of part-time salespersons. Communities which had 10 or 'more Realtors exceeding the $1 million mark in sales and listings were Plymouth, Canton, Livonia, West Bloomfield, Detroit, Dearborn, Westland and Farmington Hills.

A sympathetic view

Local auto dealers respond to slumping car sales

By W.W. EDGAR

So you think you have problems. Income taxes are due soon. Meat prices along with all foodstuffs are skyrocketing. Property taxes soaring and there seems to be no end.

But consider the automobile dealer.

He's had a bad winter. Unemployment cut down the number of prospective customers. His inventory is high because of a slump in sales and the floor plan interest (interest on the bank loans on cars in the show room) have reached a new high of about 17 per cent. The price of money is going up. It is becoming more difficult to obtain loans from banks for their customers. And this condition has gotten to the point where buyers who could have obtained a bank loan a year ago are now being turned down.

On top of all this, the mild winter has cut down the collisions on ice and snow. As a result, the body shops have been short of work.

"What would you have done if you still had a Buick dealership?" Jack Selle was asked.

"I'd pray," he said "and hope for the

"I never like to talk bad about business," remarked Leo Calhoun, the Ford dealer on Plymouth Road, "but we have been down about 17 per cent, but I am looking forward to a good month in March and that will be the light at the end of the tunnel."

He explained that with the high interest rates, a dealer now has to watch his expenses, watch his inventory and adjust to meet any crisis. Under this thinking, Calhoun confided that he had to cut 12 people from his staff. They were cut from the office, service department and parts.

"The problem may be solving itself," he went on, "as more people are coming in. And the rebate program has helped."

Aside from the rebate program, Calhoun has partially solved the problem by having special sales. One of these was a special night for all Ford Co. employees. And it proved fruitful.

In this so called crisis among the dealers, Calhoun saw hope with the movement of used cars, but there still is a bit of reluctance to obtain a smaller car after being accustomed to

Much the same sort of problem exists at the Lou La Riche Chevrolet agency on Plymouth Road.

There, the main trouble is the floor plan interest and the 17 per cent interest which boosted expenses to the dan-

Management cited the demand for larger down payments and shorter term contracts as one of the problems. Under these demands it was said people just don't have the money to put down larger amounts and then face higher monthly payments. At the La Riche dealership, the work staff was cut 10 per cent and all overtime work was eliminated. The salesmen all agreed that the mild winter has been a blessing in disguise in that it enabled the prospective customer to keep outdoors looking at the models.

Ford awarded law degree

U.S. Rep. William D. Ford, D-Taylor, was awarded an honorary doctor of law degree today by Wayne State University.

Ford, who's 15th District includes Canton Township and Westland, received the degree in a special commencement exercise held in the Rayburn Building in Washington, D.C.

The honorary doctor of laws degree originally was to be awarded at Cobo Hall commencement exercises last December but Ford was unable to attend because of the impending Chrysler Corp. legislation which was then before the House.

Thomas N. Bonner, president of Wayne State, agreed at that time to move the exercise to Washington at a time and place agreeable to Congressman Ford.

Bonner said that Ford is being cited by WSU in recognition of his "distinguished achievements, leadership and sincere ideals. His concern and support of education, and in particular urban higher education, has marked him as a national leader."

A Detroit native and former Wayne State student, Ford is now serving his eighth consecutive term in Congress. He is a senior member of the House Committee on Education and Labor, and is chairman of the subcommittee on Post secondary education.

Ford cosponsored the landmark Higher Education Act of 1965 and the federal Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965.

He has been cited by numerous other universities with honorary degrees for his service to education.

Decker is tops in sales

Realty World-William Decker, Inc. of Plymouth' has been named the number one top sales office in Michigan

The achievement means that Decker's sales force sold more real estate in 1979 than any of the 105 Realty World offices throughout the state.

The announcement was made recently by Faith McGraw, director of broker services of Realty World Regional Headquarters.

Last year, Decker's office was third in the state in total sales. The record was reached by having seven persons in the office exceed the $1 million mark in sales.

The million dollar sellers were: Decker, broker-owner; Joan Brandt, associate-broker; and associates Lila Barsony, Michael Caffery, Beau Neely, Diane McCann and Margaret Wall.

Ms. McCann also was recognized as Michigan's Rookie of the Year by Realty World for her outstanding sales performance during her first year in the real estate profession.

Decker started in business here at the remodeled older home on Main Street six years ago and joined Realty World in May 1976. His offices are at 670 S. Main.

An active member of the community, Decker also is a member of the regional board of Realty World and serves on the professional standards and ethics committee of the Western Wayne and Oakland County Board of Realtors.

The Decker office has now been submitted to national headquarters of Realty World as a contender

ARCHITECTS HONORED

The studio of Tkacz & Associates, architect/interior designers of Plymouth, has received recognition from the Michigan Historical Commission for its work in the restoration of the Pioneer Bark in North Branch, Mich.

The bank has been listed in the state Register of Historic Sites of Significant Points of Interest because of the restoration program by the firm to return the building to its original 1902 styling of English Palladian design.

Stanley Tkacz, architect, has spent more than two years doing research and background development of this program in order to return the building facilities to its original splendor.

editorial opinion

Energy problem needs do-it-yourself goals

Have you thought about growing your own energy? Perhaps you should. That may not be as crazy

Area Jaycees recently sponsored a debate on energy, and the lack of it. Discussion centered on Detroit Edison Co.'s Fermi II nuclear power plant scheduled to open in the next couple of years near

There are no simple solutions to problems posed by using nuclear energy or from problems caused by the lack of power without it. That much was clear from the debate. Both representatives from Detroit Edison and the Safe Energy Coalition (SECO) agreed that statistics, impressive-sounding experts and reports can be found backing both sides of the issue.

After listening to SECO lecturer David Plank expound on the use of "solar technologies" including conservation, Edison senior nuclear engineer Raymond Berg remarked that Americans long ago opted for a system of specialization in which everyone does her own thing.

"I expect (farmers) to grown my corn," Berg said. "You can always form your own cooperative, but you can never do it (generate electricity) cheaper than we can."

THINK ABOUT WHAT he said for a moment.

How many of you have grown your own corn, among other vegetables - and enjoyed doing it? Sure, farmers and manufacturers provide for most of what we need, but growing numbers of persons are farming small plots to provide for the needs of their own families.

Others have formed food co-ops to buy family groceries at a cost and quality unavailable at local checkout counters.

Besides cost and quality, there seems to be the American do-it-yourself philosophy at work here. What people are doing is down-sizing enormous, overwhelming problems to a level at which they can understand and cope.

Tom

Riordan

Individual Americans may not be able to solve the world hunger or energy problems, but perhaps they can do a good job of providing for themselves.

PERHAPS GROUPS like SECO could be more effective if, instead of just opposing nuclear energy, they planted the seeds of alternate technologies.

Those seeds could take the form of workshops and printed materials on how to generate, store and conserve energy. That way local residents could reap a harvest of energy.

Those local harvests may never replace the need for central power generating plants operated by Detroit Edison. But they could go a long way toward preventing energy-starved blackouts.

Executive New magazine tells glories of Michigan

Gutsy people really fascinate me.

Like those free-wheeling Olympic hockey kids. And their handsome coach Herb Brooks, who convinced his troupe of 22-year-olds they could wear gold just as well as long faces

And like 36-year-old Carole Walaskay Eberly, who has nothing to do with sports, but rather the fierce competition in the world of commerce.

CAROLE IS A WRITER, and a darn good one, and every bit as gutsy as those gold-medal icers. For six years she covered the Michigan Senate and governor's office for United Press International. She also has authored half a dozen books.

Two years ago, Carole's life took a radical turn. It happened when she saw a copy of Yankee magazine. She was completely smitten by this pint-size publication which packs such a New England wal-Yankee's stories are by writers in those states and the magazine's target is solely New England.

A thought immediately crossed Carole's everspinning brain Wouldn't it be wonderful if she could publish a similar magazine for Michigan? Hardly had the idea hit and Carole was moving with it.

LAST NOVEMBER, the first issue of Eberly's Michigan Journal rolled off the presses.

In her Editor's Notebook, Carole wrote, "If you love Michigan, you'll love this magazine. If you'd rather be in Hawaii, you'll probably still like the magazine because it's about all the interesting, crazy and wonderful people who inhabit Michigan. It's about all the unusual, off-beat and beautiful places that surround you.'

The next 30 pages went on to prove what Carole was bragging about. And the pace has continued through successive editions. There have been stories about an East Jordan artist, a fellow in Traverse City who has been writing for 62 years, a non-joiners club in Sparta, and a great cook in Michigan from Crystal Lake.

FOR THE BUSINESS-MINDED of my profession, upon seeing Carole's new publication, there is the quick question, "Where's the advertising? You can't publish a magazine printed on fine enamel stock with dabs of color without a lot of ad reve-

No one knows that better than Carole. But she and her husband, John, a fire department lieutenant in Meridian Township, made a pact - they'd produce a quality magazine and then start to sell advertising.

In fact, their game plan indicates they'll be laboring up to three years before hitting a break-even point. That means hacking out nearly $6,200 an issue for writers and printer with a limited amount of income from subscription and newsstand sales.

HOW CAN A YOUNG COUPLE chug along at this pace with only limited revenue? Very carefully, might be Carole's smiling response.

Remember, I mentioned earlier that Carole had authored some books. Five are about cooking and recipes - including such diverse areas as 101 recipes using apples, Michigan ethnic recipes, a spread for mushrooms and colonial fireplace deli-

Right from her first cookbook, titled Michigan Cooking . . . and other things," the books have

And they still are selling. Carole and John are tapping these profits to help bankroll the magazine.

I MET CAROLE AND JOHN in their East Lansing home last week and found them to be a serious, bright and gutsy, yet relaxed couple. Carole quit her job with UPI when daughter Jessica arrived five years ago. Raising a child was fine, but Carole wanted somehow to continue her writing. Always a lover of the kitchen, she quickly settled on skills of the kitchen as her field.

'It proved an excellent choice. The initial press run for the first collection of recipes was 2,000. "How many orders did you have?"

"Three," chuckled Carole. "We just loaded up the van with books and started to sell them." Total sales to date: 20,000.

CAROLE LIVED A RATHER exotic life as a youngster. Her dad, Paul Walaskay of Old Port Road in Birmingham, is a Ford Motor Co. engineer. The family lived in Dearborn during Carole's younger days and she attended the now defunct Greenfield Village School.

citizens could compete, and the competition was entirely amateur with the only prizes being laurel wreaths. Over the years, civic rivalry led to trickery and professionalism, and the Games became degraded. After Rome conquered Greece, Roman emperors turned the Olympic Games into a massive circus. The games were finally discontinued by decree of the Roman emperor in A.D. 394.

The modern Olympic Games were resurrected in Athens in 1896 as a result of the efforts of a French educator, Baron Pierre de Coubertin. He believed that because boys and athletics have gone together through the ages, education and athletics might go hand-in hand in producing better international understanding

ALTHOUGH NATIONS send teams to the Olym-

The purpose of the Olympic Games is to let the great amateur athletes of the world compete with each other in a spirit of peace and friendship. The U.S. government does not field the teams we send. The United States Olympic Committee, which is privately funded, does.

If the U.S. plays politics with the Games, the result probably will be the same as when the Greek cities started to play politics and eventually killed the whole program.

YOUNG AMERICANS have been training over the last four years to try for international recognition. Because youth isn't lasting, those who lose a chance this year may never have another opportunity.

Shouldn't the U.S., as a world leader, be a little more mature and not hurt an international sports event because its political games aren't going well?

Many advantages in wide-angle lens

When it comes to buying that first accessory lens, most amateur photographers opt for the telephoto.

Bringing a far-away subject up close is too tempting to pass up, and having all those inches of lens in front of us can make us look and feel like

But did you know that through selective cropping and enlarging, you can achieve a similar effect with your normal lens? I'm not detracting from the telephoto lens usefulness. It serves a vital function, and I have many which I use often. I'm trying to get you to think "wide angle" and realize its worth.

A wide-angle lens will alter the depth of field and perspective and give you a picture quite unlike what a normal lens produces. Wide-angle lenses have much more to offer than the merely being able to "fit it all in the viewfinder."

A WIDE-ANGLE LENS is one whose focal length is less than the diagonal measurement of the film. With the popular 35 mm cameras, this distance is about 50 mm.

In short, it's a lens that "sees" more, taking in a wider expanse than a normal lens.

There are several advantages to the wide-angle

First is the increase in the depth of field — the zone of sharpness finally realized in the picture. A 28 mm lens at f/8 will produce a depth of field from five feet to infinity. In contrast, a normal 50 mm lens, properly focused, will give you a depth of field of about 20 feet to infinity. This means that more of what you see in the viewfinder will be sharp and in Going even wider, a 17mm lens at f/22 will produce a depth of field of 10 inches to infinity. This f/22, you never have to focus the camera as long as you are at least 10 inches from the subject.

SECOND, YOU CAN get by with much slower shutter speeds with a wide-angle lens — a nice advantage when your light is limited.

A 28 mm lens can be safely hand held (free from shutter release shake) at 1/30 second, but a 17 mm lens can be held at 1/15, or even 1/8 second.

With slow speed film, low level light and a desire to maximize depth of field, this can be quite an advantage. Try shooting a telephoto or normal lens at these shutter speeds and see your shaky results.

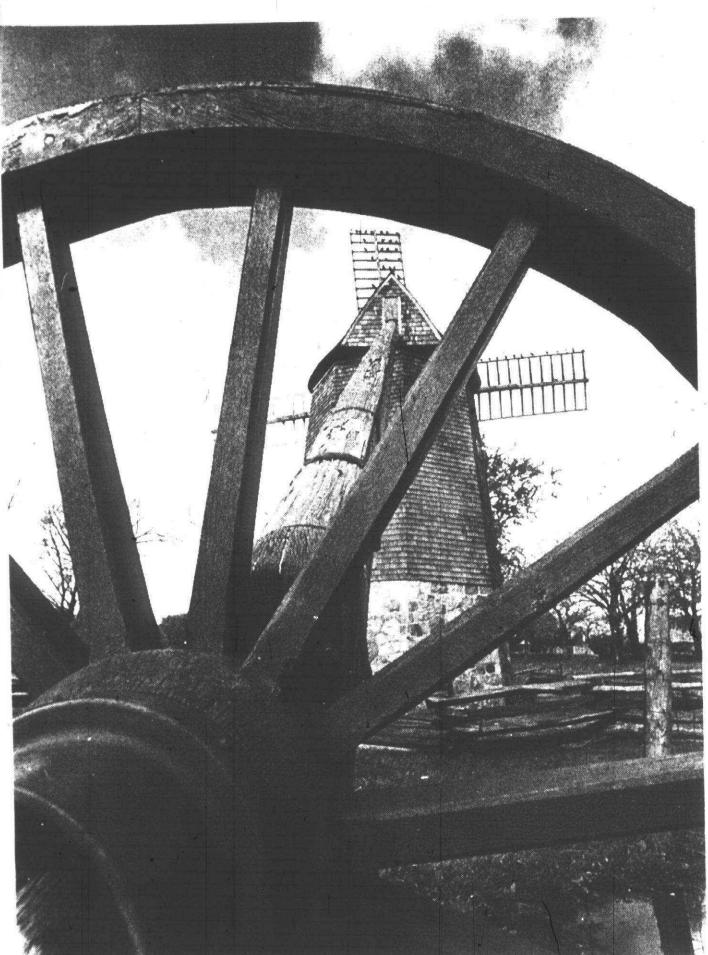

Many photographers ask about distortion, the bending of light rays characteristic of wide-angle lenses. Buildings will curve upwards and subjects may begin to look unreal. It happens, and there may be situations when distortion is undesirable.

But the inherent distortion of wide-angle lenses can be turned to one of your biggest advantages. Selective distortion can be a plus. Strength, drama, excitement can be added to your photographs through proper use of distortion.

Creatively used, distortion can emphasize certain parts of a picture and can give a photograph an artistic quality no other lens can produce. Sweeping foregrounds and bold subject framing are easily attainable. And you can deliberately exploit the wideangle lens' tendency to exaggerate the size of close objects at the expense of distant ones.

Mastering the use of wide-angle lenses can also give you to a better understanding of normal and telephoto lenses.

Principals misled by vanity critics

Editor:

We wish to respond to an article in the Jan. 31 issue of the Observer entitled "Who's Who book a big 'So What'?"

The article quotes two local principals as well as the National Association of Secondary School Principals (NASSP) as criticizing our publication and others because we are a for-profit organization and, therefore, it is implied that our motives are "non-academic" and that we are simply attempting to sell books, pins and ceramic steins to students and their families.

All our literature to students and schools emphasizes our policy that there are no financial obligations whatsoever contingent upon recognition inour publication. In fact, the vast majority of students recognized each year do not buy the book or related award items but do receive the recognition they have earned and deserve.

Each year we distribute about 15,000 free copies of our book to participating high schools and youth organizations, colleges and libraries. This distribution encourages listed students to view the book and their biography conveniently and without cost.

To be included, students must have a "B" or better grade point average and demonstrated leadership in extra-curricular activites. In the past three years more than 35,000 students who submitted biographical materials were rejected upon review, necessitating the return of more than $168,000 in orders. This is hardly the policy of an organization intent upon selling books to students and parents or willing to compromise their professional standards for the profit motive. With all due respect to the local principals, it is important to note that their criticism basically emanates from the NASSP. The NASSP has issued six reasons for not participating in "who's who-type" publications, and these reasons were quoted in the Observer arti-

Not mentioned in the article, however, is the fact that the NASSP sponsors the National Honor Society - the largest student recognition program in the

The NASSP criticizes "Who's Who' publishers for selling pins ($7.95) and steins ($8.95) to students and their families although their own catalog offers 24 related items including pins ($10.25), plaques ($15) and blazers ($35).

The NASSP and your local principals also imply that listing in "who's whotype" books might result in the unauthorized sale of student lists. We do not sell out student list to any organization for any purpose, and the NASSP has been unwilling or unable to identify any organization which does. Yet the NASSP conveniently ignores the wellpublisized activity of Educational Testing Service which conducts the SAT examination and flagrantly sells those lists at exorbitant prices. Clearly there is a double standard among some educators for for-profit and not-for-profit organizations.

Inspite of the negativism conveyed by local principals, we cannot fault their position because they justifiably rely on the platform of their own respected, national association. It is unfortunate that their association has demonstrated they are unworthy of such blind trust.

PAUL C. KROUSE Publisher Who's Who Among American High School Students round of applause.

Canton cagers ease by West

By BRAD EMONS

Deadly outside shooting and superior board strength carried Plymouth Canton Monday night to an easy 70-41 district Class A basketball victory over Garden City West.

Canton is now 15-6 overall and has won 10 straight games. West finished the season with a 6-14 record.

Coached by Craig Bell, Canton will now meet Wayne at 7 p.m. Thursday.

West got out of the gate fast, but quickly succumbed to the taller and hot hooting Chiefs.

The Tigers led after one quarter, 10and once upped the margin to four, 19-15, midway through the second peri-

Canton, however, began to crack West's tight zone behind the shooting of senior $cott Adler, who tossed in 10 of his game-high 16 points in the second guarter.

Canton went into the dressing room at halftime leading 29-23.

"They shoot too well for us," said veteran West Coach Chris Babler. "We let the game get away from us."

That point came late in the third quarter as Dave Visser, who sat out most of the first half with three personal fouls, also began to find the range.

The Chiefs built a 47-33 advantageat the end of three quarters as Visser canned two free throws with 14 seconds

WEST WAS then forced to abandon its zone in favor of a full-court press. Canton quickly put the game out of reach in the final quarter steadily building to its final margin of victory.

With Visser on the bench, Bell first ordered his team to play a man-to-man defense, but shortly after switched to a zone which stymied the Tigers

"We started stepping out and made them play," said Canton Coach Craig "In the second half we started shooting well and got the ball finside. We were moving the ball offensively."

Canton once again received balanced scoring. To go along with Adler's 16, senior forward Brad Westin and Visser added 15 and 14 respectively. Junior center Sean Houle, who chipped in with 12, also had a good night on the boards as he grabbed 13.

"We just don't have the height underneath," said Babler. "Canton is an excellent passing club and are hard to press. They hustled real well.

"Adler was the key tonight. He controls them on offense and plays solid defense.

Adler hit seven of 11 shots from the field. As a team, Canton connected on 26 of 59 for 44 percent.

Forward James Bodrie paced West with 14 points. He made some nice drives to the basket, especially in the first quarter. Guard Jeff Draper added

"I'M GLAD to get this one over," Bell said. "Wayne is a big team which matches up real well with us. "The game will be won on the glass.

It should be a good game.' Wayne comes into the showdown with a 14-6 record, which includes an impressive win two weeks ago over high regarded Monroe.

Tough defense lifts Westland John Glenn, 62-46

By BRAD EMONS

Defense is not taken lightly at Westland John Glenn.

The Rocket cagers advanced to the second round of the Class A district at Plymouth Canton with a 62-46 win over Northwest Suburban League rival Garden City East Tuesday night.

It was the third meeting this season between the two teams. Glenn won the rubber game with its effective pressure man-to-man defense. "We can't slug it out with a lot of teams," said Glenn coach Dan Henry, whose team improved their mark to

"We like to score points off our pressure defense," he said.

Glenn starting guards Wayne Woodard and Tony Dalimonte spearheaded the aggressive pressure. They forced East out of its offense most of the

Glenn jumped out a 16-6 first quarter lead by frustrating the Panther

'We just didn't take time and react." said East Coach Mike Riley. "We were up tight. We threw the ball away to vacant spots."

The Rockets maintained that 10-point first quarter lead at intermission, 30-20.

Glenn then broke the game wide open with a 20-11 blitz in the third quarter, Reserve forward Robert Sisson, who paced Glenn with 14 points, hit a corner jumper with 37 seconds left in the period to give the Rockets a commanding 48-29 lead.

East tried to make a fruitless comeback. The Panthers closed the gap to 12 points on two different occasion, but could not come any closer.

"I'm proud of the kids because they did come back," said Riley. "We were at an arm's length most of the night."

Roger Ferguson and John Topalian led East in scoring with 13 and 12, respectively. Glenn Barikmo added 10. For Glenn, Woodard and Kevin

Rock gym squad garners 4th spot

The Plymouth Salem girls' gymnastics team finished in a tle forfourth place in the Suburban Eight League meet Friday at Belleville.

The host team (Belleville) won the crown with a total of 87.2 points. Trenton (85.3) and Dearborn (72.5) placed second and third respectively. Salem totaled 53.15 points.

Cheryl Neupert of Belleville won all-around honors with a score of 29.7. She took first in vault (7.70). Neupert also took second in floor exercise (7.75) and third in uneven parallel bars (7.4).

Neupert's teammate from Belleville, Holly Finch, placed second overall with a 29.35 total. She took first place honors in floor exercise (7.8) and grabbed second spot in bothvault (7.3) and balance beam Trenton's Cathy Lukasik was third overall (28.75). She topped all competitors in the balance beam (8.05).

Salem's best all-around performer was Sue Nitz (18.45). She scored a 5.8 in floor exercise and 5.0 on balance beam.

The Rocks' Cindy McSurely posted scores of 3.45 and 5.75 in the uneven bars and yault respectively.

Salem Coach Carol Michaels was pleased with her team's showing despite the absence of top gymnast Darla Doumanian, who could not compete because of a knee injury.

"MOST OF OUR girls reached their high scores," said Michaels. "Nitz and McSurely really came through for us.

"We're happy and excited for next

The Rocks finished out the season with a 3-8 dual meet record.

In the Salem post-season banquet, Doumanian was honored as the team's Most Valuable Player. Nitz received the Coaches Award and the Outstanding Effort Award went to Germain Mason.

Salem, Chief spikers eliminated

The prep volleyball season ended abruptly Saturday for Plymouth Salem and Canton.

Both teams were eliminated in District Class A competition at Dearborn. State runnersup Livonia Churchill started slowly but held on to defeat Salem, 15-7, 15-9. Poor serve reception led to Salem's downfall.

Beaten by Westland John Glenn earlier this season, Canton was ousted again, 15-7, 15-12, in the single elimination tournament.

"Our blocking was good both games," said Salem Coach Cathy Himes, rating her team's performance. "Our problems came with serve reception and with our own serving. We had a couple of bad serves at crucial points where Churchill didn't.'

With the score tied, 4-all, Churchill's Leigh Feenstra left Salem feeling bewildered as she served her team into a lead they never relinquished.

Salem was never able to catch up.

The Chargers then were eliminated later in the tourney by Livonia Bentley.

HIMES PRAISED the play of junior Cheryl Sobkow and sophomore Lori Levielle on their performance at the "Cheryl blocked eight of 12 hits in the second game which really helped," said the Salem coach. "Lori played the best match of the season by hitting spikes over just as they crossed the net. She hit three balls down in a row and on the fourth one Churchill was unable to return because it went of someone's arms out of bounds."

A new game strategy for the Canton squad worked well for the Chiefs despite the loss to Glenn. According to Coach Cyndi Burnstein she tried to insert tall players in the front row knowing that Glenn was an aggressive squad at the net.

'By playing tall people at the net I was hoping we would be able to block the ball more than if we kept the same players in all the way around," claimed the Canton coach. "I'm really happy with the way we played although disappointed that we didn't get past Glenn."

Playing together as a team more than in the past, the Canton squad really moved on the court, according to Burnstein and backed each other up.

"Everyone backed each other up on the court by taking sets if the setter couldn't get to the ball. They made real good efforts at getting bad hits headed out of bounds.'

Canton finished out the season in regular match play with an 8-4 record overall and a 7-3 mark in the Western Six League tied for second place with Walled Lake Western. Salem ended its season at 7-7 overall and 5-5 in the Suburban Eight.

Last season the Chiefs finished sec-

The Suburban Eight All-League squad was announced Monday as Sobkow was selected to the first team and junior Mary Van Dusen gained secondteam honors.

Sophomore Carol Ross and freshman Sandy Faussett earned honorable mention honors.

The high scoring expected when the all-stars competed in the women's city tournament over the past weekend failed to materialize, though leadership was taken over by the women in several events.

Penny Behn, captain of the Bonanza team, moved to the top in the actual all-events with 1,818. She rolled 595 in the team event, followed with 608 in the doubles and added 615 in the singles.

Meanwhile, Kimberly Conner, a substitute for Cheryl Daniels of the Livonia Bowling Supply team, took the lead in the handicap singles with a 694 that included a 94-pin spot.

The best team score was a 2,749 rolled by Cora Fiebig's Luxury Lanes team.

ASIDE FROM the women's tournament at Drakeshire Lanes, the pins were flying in the other precincts of the western suburbs.

When the firing ceased, the 700 club had seven new members and five of them were posted at Westland Lanes.

Mike Lee paced the group with a 776 in the Little Caesar Classic and was followed by Dick Beattie with 768, Bob Jawor with 726 and Bob Schmidt with

The fifth came in the Monday men's league when Phil Kupras found the range for a 710.

Joining them in the club were Bob Szigmanski, who rolled a 718 in the St. Linus League at Garden Lanes, and Don Nero who posted a 714 in the Legion League at Merri-Bowl.

ONE OF THE best performances of the week was the showing of Fred Young, an 11-year-old member of the youth league at Merri-Bowl. In his regular YBA competition, he laced games of 230, 289 and 237 for 676. It was the highest score ever bowled in the

Among the adult competitors, Mary Schmede showed the way to the field in the invitational doubles classic with 607. At this figure she beat Virginia Lenk by seven pins, while Jan Wright landed third with 594.

In the men's senior house league, Randy Smith converted the 7-10 split and, like most others who turned the trick, he doesn't know how he did it. In the Legion League, Jerry Falat posted a 669, good only for second place in the face of Nero's 700.

THERE WAS another close race at Garden Lanes when Irv Gonte led the parade in the Wayne County League with a 606 that gave him a mere 11-pin margin over Ron Hall. In the Vinco league Ed Margonisk was high with with games of 289 and 212 and yet had to settle for a 654. Meanwhile in the Kings and Queens loop, Sue Scheuher, who carries a 156 average, rolled a 243 game. It was her best showing to date. In the Saturday juniors, Shelley Staczel, with a 150 average, went 155 pins over her average with a 605. And in the Parks and Recreation loop, John Sewrink, 14 years old, rolled a 248

In the senior house league, Jerry Cole Jr. narrowly missed a membership in the 700 club and had to be content with a 698.

THERE WAS an unusual finish in the Ladies Classic at Livonia Lanes when Georgiana Kirwan and Pat Reid tied for top honors with 605. Pat didn't win a game, but Georgiana won the first with 191-39-230, Theresa Derus took the second with 188-28-216 and Joan Lewis took the third with 196-a junior at the Interlochen Arts Academy, has the lead in William Saroyan's comedy. "The Cave Dwellers." Brad will play the lead for three of the six performances in Grunow Theater at Interlochen. He and another student are switching roles - each will play the lead for three shows and a minor part for three shows.

BRAD DE PLANCHE,

The play opened Tuesday evening and will run through March 8.

Brad was rehearsing his lines when he was home for Christmas vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard DePlante of Roberta Street, Plymouth

The young actor played in "Tom Sawyer" when he attended Central Middle School. As a student at Plymouth Canton High School, he appeared in "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying" and "Damn Yankees."

The academy is a coeducational boarding high school, grades 9-12, featuring a curriculum for the performing, visual and literary arts with an equal emphasis on academics. This year, the 400 students come from 41 states and 11 foreign countries.

THE HIGH SCHOOL radio station, WSDP, has spawned quite a number of communications people, students who continue in broadcasting during their college years and later.

Bob DeLano, who graduated from Plymouth Salem High School several years ago, is now news director for the Armed Forces Korean Network. The network has 12 radio and several television stations. The radio stations broadcast round the clock and the whole country listens in. Bob went from Fort Gordon, Ga., to Seoul, South Korea, early this year.

This is his first foreign assignment since he joined the Army. His parents are Fred and Olga DeLano of Plymouth Township.

Each club member will wear an armband and have a letter of introduction. Barb Stout is making bands for cans which the club is hoping to place in Plymouth and Canton stores. Governing bodies in the city of Plymouth, Canton and Plymouth townships have given permission for the canvass.

At present there are just 18 Paw Prints members. Edna Terry says she is expecting an increase to as many as 35 when the new dog obedience series begins. That is still a small group to cover these three communities. Any individuals or organizations who would like to help would be welcomed.

If you would like to donate newspapers or a few hours of your time, call Mrs. Terry, 453-6760.

Members of the Apple Run Garden Club in Canton Township have made the Westland Humane Society Center one of their pet projects with yearly donations of food and other necessities. The Westland Humane Society Center serves this area and also is threatened.

REHEARSALS FOR "The Velveteen Rabbit" began early in February at Central Middle School. The musical is directed by Laura Wiener with 140 students from the school choruses involved. Auditions were held to choose the 30-member cast and the 16 persons needed for stage crews.

Several school performances are scheduled for mid-March and evening shows, open to the public, will be March 19 and 20.

"THE SOUND OF MUSIC" is coming to West Middle School March 28, with the proceeds going to the Easter Seal Campaign.

Admission will be $2.50 for adults and $2 for children. Tickets can be purchased at the door or ordered in advance by calling 358-2300.

The play will be at Schoolcraft College March 13 and 15 and at the Southfield Civic Center March 21. The benefits have been organized and produced by Lisa Danke, a 20-yearold secretary receptionist at Century 21 of Michigan, Inc. Lisa was about 16 when she used to produce and direct children's plays here during summer

HORACE HARRISON, insurance expert, was guest speaker at the West Suburban Stamp Club's last meeting. His tips on how to protect one's home and one's stamp collection were of value to all collectors of valuables.

He suggested double cylinder, deadlock bolts on all doors; leaving collection in a bank vault or with a friend or relative when away from home for an extended period; and, most important-My, have adequate insurance coverage.

PEO Sisterhood marks 111 years

The 111th anniversary of the founding of the PEO Sisterhood was celebrated Saturday by the Detroit area chapters at a luncheon at Schoolcraft College.

Plymouth has two PEO chapters and the party was hosted by Chapter EA with Joann Lundberg chairing the day's events.

Preceding the luncheon, there was a punch reception honoring three state officers. They were Margaret Emery of Waterford, first vice president; Margaret Brom of Pleasant Ridge, second vice president; and Sandra Sinnotte of Kalamazoo, state organizer.

More than 150 members attended the luncheon in the Waterman Campus Center. Chapter members constructed the calico-dressed dolls which served as center-

Northville artist Mary Beth Baxter put her talents to work designing programs and the centerpieces. The dolls had wooden spoons as heads with the handles fixed into wooden blocks as bases.

Mrs. Baxter painted the faces on the spoons and every one of the 61 had a personality of its own. Another Northville member of the chapter, Marty Walters, designed the calico dresses and the everyone helped make the dolls.

They were completed with little wigs made by the members - blonds, redheads,

MRS. LUNDBERG said that there had been some qualms about the menu served at a community college by those who had never dined at Schoolcraft.

"It was beautiful. Everything was delicious and we all ate too much," said Mrs. Lundberg as she told how the guests raved about the food.

"I had all my discussions with Mike McConnell, Mr. Breithaupt's assistant, and they did a wonderful job." Robert Breithaupt is director of the culinary arts department at Schoolcraft.

Among the eight past presidents honored at the luncheon was Joyce Foust of Plymouth.

THE WHOLE CHAPTER was involved in a tribute to the founders of the sisterhood. The skit was based on a Star Wars

The PEO Sisterhood, which keeps secret the words behind its initials, is a philanthropic and educational organization working to increase opportunities for women through higher education.

/ It supports Cottey Junior College for Women in Missouri and provides an International Peace Scholaraship which gives aid to foreign women who wish to earn advanced degrees.

An educational loan fund to assist women completing undergraduate and graduate degrees and a continuing education fund to help them resume interrupted col-

On your mark, Get set for Girl Scout cookie sale

large task force of super salespersons will be sweeping the area, beginning tomorrow, as the 1980 Girl Scouts' cookie caper gets under way.

Junior, cadette and senior Girl Scouts will begin order-taking Friday, March 7 and will continue through Tuesday, March 25. Deliveries will begin April 14 and end April 30. Scouts in the Plymouth-Canton area are members of the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council. The council has set a sales goal of 550,000 packages.

Area cookie chairman is Doris Rorabacher who recalls the goal was 350,000 nine years ago when she served her first hitch cookie chairperson. Each year a new record has been set locally. In 1979 the scouts sold 62,484 boxes; in 1978 they sold 41,844.

Selling price this year is $1.50 per box as inflation has hit evn the Girl Scout cookie. Twenty-five cents of each $1.50 goes to the scout troop, 69 cents go to the council and for sales cost, and 56 cents pays for the actual cost of the cookies.

The council uses its share of the profits to supplement income from United Ways, camping fees, and other contributions to provide Girl Scout services and build and maintain camps, provide financial aid for individual scouts and for services for volunteer troop leaders.

The troops use their profits to buy equipment, pay national mem-

THERE ARE SALES incentives for the scouts. Each girl who participates receives a "Cookie Power" strip which can be worn on uniforms, badge sashes or jackets.

Those who sell 50 or more boxes will earn a patch with the number 50 on it. A patch with the number 100 will go to girls who sell at least 100 boxes, and to those who sell 200, goes the 200 patch. The super salesgirls who sell 300 or more will receive "Super Patch."

And because it is 1980, a new incentive goes to scouts who sell 80 boxes or more. It is a white bandadesigned especially for the Huron cheer-writing contest.

Each year the council chooses an honorary chairman for the drive. This year it was the Eastern Michigan University cheer squad. In keeping with the theme, scouts were asked to submit cheers to a council contest. Once the winning cheers were selected, members of the EMU cheerleading squad visited each area for a pep rally. The local rally was in mid-February at Plymouth Salem High School.

The three area winners were Natalie Buck of Brownie Troop 669 in the Field Elementary School cluster, Andrea Alex of Brownie Troop 618 of the Field cluster; and Kellie Daily of Junior Troop 216 in the Allen Elementary School cluster.

Old 'stove burner' ploy worked

Surprise has been a key word for Canton folks lately. And all the fun of the scheming and plotting has resulted in some terrific parties.

Ron Clauer wasn't suspicious when the Mogelnicki's babysitter called and asked him to please come over and fix a tricky stove burner. Periodically he got a call from either Marge or a babysitter to fix the stove, and it usually took him about 45 minutes. On this particular evening, however, the stove was in perfect working condition in about five minutes.

This just about threw the proverbial monkey wrench into Nancy Clauer's plans for a surprise birthday party. She said the last party guests arrived only about one minute before Ron returned

It literally took some last-minute rushing around, but Ron was surprised. Marge Mogelnicki provided a bikini birthday cake, and Twister, Funny Bone, and other party games were enjoyed. Those in on the surprise were Marge and John Mogelnicki, Janet and Don Lauchner, Rosemary and Don Oberski, Peg and Steve Calkins, Jan and Russ Clark, and Norma and Mac Mc-

Ron may wonder just a little the next time he gets called to fix the stove, and Nancy certainly will never again depend on it to be a 45-minute job.

CAROL LUELLEMAN went so far as to prepare a honey baked ham then hide it in the basement because husband, Tom, thought they were going out for the evening. Then, with Tom out of the house for a few minutes, guests and food appeared. Tom returned home and voila, another surprise party was born!

Food was abundant and pleasing. Carol had prepared many things ahead of time, and each party guest brought something. Honey baked ham, cole slaw, potato salad, cheeses, chips, and dips provided more than enough to satisfy all appetites. Carol Luelleman also provided champagne and strawberries to complete the bill of fare.

Loretta Sobditch was the winner of the bagel toss. A "Dance Fever" contest just sort of happened with some spectacular results. Gary Kistemaker took a dare to twirl Carol Luelleman over his head. So much to the amazement of everyone present, suddenly 6foot-3-inch Gary was twirling 5-foot-1inch Carol over his head like a helicopter blade. They are now just about ready for television.

Those enjoying the dancing, food, and merriment included: Judy and Joe Kolp, Jerry and Linda Mound, Betty and Joe Helmers, Loretta and Joe Sobditch, and JoAnn and Fran Orfin.

Sondra and Chuck Luelleman, Carol and Mike Dugan, Tammy and Gary Kistemaker, and Kathy and Charlie Freece were also in on the fun. Tom Luelleman reports that it was a great surprise for a man 43 going on 22, and he's ready for the next neighborhood party. LINDA MINSTERMAN was the guest of honor at yet another surprise birthday party Saturday night. The party was at the home of Barbara and John Clemons, and was again catered by the "B's," Barbara and Bev Halloran. They confessed they would have made the cheese ball and a few other items, but said they couldn't repeat themselves and let people think that was all they could make.

Spinach topped the list of food with spinach balls by Pat Lewis, spinach dip by Bev Halloran, and spinach squares by Barbara Clemons. Crab mousse, chicken livers in bacon, and chips and dips all pleased the palate. A lime punch and a horseshoe shaped cake proclaiming "After 30 it's all downhill" added the finishing touches.

Linda thought her husband, Allen, had gone to a meeting, so she was just relaxing at home while the party guests gathered at the Clemon's home. When all the guests were present, Barbara wasn't feeling well. Barbara is known to have a history of heart problems, so Linda practically set a new land speed record dashing over. Needless to say, she was totally surprised to find husband Allen, neighbors, and friends gathered to celebrate her spe-

Jill and Gary Felming, E.J. Lund and Pat Lewis, Bev and George Halloran, Sam and Rex Nichols, Alissa and Mark Abraham, and Barbara and John Clemons all gathered to celebrate this occasion.

So be on your toes, the next surprise could be for YOU!

2 Girl Scout councils consider consolidation

By MARGARET MILLER

Two Girl Scout councils with several thousand suburban members will vote March 18 on a consolidation designed to bring the program more into line with needs of girls in the '80s.

If the move is approved, the Girl Scouts of Metropolitan Detroit, which covers Livonia, Garden City, Redford Township and part of Westland, and the South Oakland Girl Scouts will become the Michigan Metro Girl Scouts Council. The latter council includes Farmington, Southfield, Lathrup, Birmingham, Troy and part of West Bloomfield in its coverage.

The consolidation move, urged by United Community Services which disperses funds for programs like Girl Scouting and already approved by boards of directors of both councils, follows a trend that already has brought a dozen similar moves in the national Girl Scout organization.

It also follows an unsuccessful attempt a year ago to consolidate all five Girl Scout councils in the metropolitan Detroit area.

of study, a consolidation plan was put to vote in the two councils now involved and also the Huron Valley. North Oakland, and Otsikita (Macomb County) councils. Huron Valley includes part of Westland as well Plymouth and Canton.

The plan was approved then by the Detroit and South Oakland councils and rejected by the other three. The two interested in consolidation then began working on the plan that will be voted next month.

BETTER USE of resources and better programming for changing needs were cited as reasons for the move by leaders of both councils and the national Girl Scout organization. All mentioned rising costs, declining membership because of a lower birth rate, and changes in volunteer leadership availability. "It behooves us to look at how we can make good use of community dollars and still serve girls in the future, even if they are fewer in number, said Jean Wayman, executive director of the Metropolitan Detroit Council.

"It's something we have to come to grips with sooner or later," noted Virginia Dethloff of Southfield, president of the South Oakland Council.

an informational meeting with delegates to the Metropolitan Detroit council, called the consolidation "a very positive move because we can't operate in the '80 as we did in the '50s."

"We just need to behave differently if we are to serve girls' future needs," she

MISS WAYMAN mentioned cookie sales and media time as two good reasons for following United Community Services' recommendation for consolidation in the use of funds.

"The various councils hold cookie sales at different times, and there are different prices and different makers," she said. "But this just confuses the public. People just want to buy Girl Scout cookies and not worry about which council is involved.

"Similarly, there's just so much television time and the media people think of Girl Scouts and not separate coun-

Leaders agreed changes will result from the move and Beverlee Budden of Dearborn, president of the Metropolitan Detroit council, suggested that was the reason other councils had rejected

"Our council covers both the city and the suburban areas and I think some other councils feel we have problems because of this," she said. "They are strictly suburban. "We are financially sound, though."

Miss Wayman commended the two councils involved in the coming vote for their unanimous endorsement of the

"I think it is to their credit that they are lookin toward the future, although change is difficult for these people too," she said.

TO MAKE SURE delegates are knowlegable about the proposed consolidation, the Metropolitan council sponsored a meeting with Ms. Birch for its 264 delegates Tuesday night and South Oakland is bringing its 121 delegates to a series of three sessions.

Joyce Piecuch of West Bloomfield and Darlene Knight of Farmington are doing the presentations for these meet-

When the voting takes place, the Metropolitan delegates will meet at Botsford in and the South Oakland delegates in the Lathrup city hall.

"We have telephone communications set up so we will know how it goes," Miss Wayman said. For approval, each council must

Members of the Lake Pointe branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association have been working for months preparing items for the potpourri table for their annual Salad Smorgasbord. This very popular event is always a sellout well in advance of the date. Those who attend may wish to make their reservations for next year before they depart. Each of the 40 members prepares three salads: a meat or seafood, a vegetable, and a fruit. Reservations are limited to about 300 persons. Barb Schendel and Darlene Sommerville are chairing this year's party which will be at noon Saturday, March 29 in the cafeteria of Plymouth Canton High School. Mrs. Schendel, Diane Spade, Mary Ellen Gibbins and Gerry McCrumb sewed calico and checked chickens at one of the many workshops. And just to round out the event, there also will be a fashion show. Jane Visser and David G. Vander Velde exchanged marriage vows Dec. 29 in First United Presbyterian Church of Plymouth. The bridegroom's father, the Rev. Gerald Vander Velde, and the Rev. Philip Rodgers Magee officiated.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Visser of Five Mile Road, Plymouth. The bridegroom is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Gerald Vander Velde of Grand Rapids.

The bride's Qiana gown was trimmed with lace and seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of chrysanthemums and ivy. Margaret Visser, the bride's sister, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Christine Nelson and Beth Vander Velde. Their gowns were teal green and they carried chrysanthemums and ivy bouquet bouquets.

Michael Baadke was best man and David Visser and Timothy Mervak were groomsmen.

The wedding reception was in the Plymouth Cultural Center. The couple lives in Urbana, Ill., where they are graduate students at the University of Illinois. He graduated from Hope College in 1978. The bride graduated from Plymouth Canton High School in 1975 and Hope College in 1979.

MARY BIRCH mentioned that consolidations of Girl Scout councils have been taking place all over the country and outlined several positive changes that the move can bring about.

"It won't reduce staff, but it will enable us to expand our programs and get more staff people out helping leaders,"

"Itwill give us more opportunity to look at girls' future needs. It will enable us to make better use of our volunteer leaders. With more women working, it's harder to find someone who can give 15 or 20 hour a week, but people can give short term leadership in various areas for specific projects.

"It also will make it easier for girls to move in and out of scouting as their needs change."

Dragon quilt

Third-graders Jeremy Kendra, (from left) Dana Klotz and Elizabeth Krumbach proudly display the dragon quilt which has been the focus of attention during Starkweather Elementary School's Book Fair. The three 9-year-olds made the dragon patches along with the rest of third-graders in Debbie Beardsley's class. Carol Ventola, a fourth-grade mother, sewed the patches together and Librarian Virginia Myrtle completed the quilt. The dragons were drawn on paper with Crayola fabric crayons then transferred to the material with an iron. The fair ends Saturday with a spaghetti dinner prepared and served by Dick Johnson's fifth-graders and parents with the assistance of the parents from Doris Balconi's kindergarten class. The dinner is open to the public 4:30-8 p.m., Saturday, March 8. Cost is $2.25 for adults and $1.25 for children.(Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Mother Charleszetta Waddles told the story of the founding of the Mother Waddles Perpetual Mission during a recent talk at Madonna College. (Staff photo by Bill Bresler).

Mother Waddles feeds the hungry

By SHERRY KAHAN

"I feel God doesn't come out of the sky," said Mother Charleszetta Waddles in a talk at Madonna College. "He has to work through people. We are not only here to pray, but to present our bodies as a living sacrifice to help those on earth."

The organizer of a women's "prayer. band," formed many years ago to give food to the hungry, came during Black Awareness Month to a Madonna class studying social work with the reminder that the hungry are always with us.

Also on the program was Roy Williams, president of the Detroit Urban League, one of 116 such organizations across the country.

The economic gap between black and white was on his mind. He said it is widening and "we still have a long way Mother Waddles left school at 12 to go to work. Her father died and her mother had heart trouble. She worked in a Jewish home. Because the woman she worked for was kind and understanding she "found love is not black or white." She married the first time at 14. eventually had 10 children and was on ADC (Aid to Dependent Children). "Then I married off the welfare rolls," she said.

. She met her husband while selling beef barbeque to raise money for her church. "Along came a man," she said. "He was about three sheets to the wind. God gave me a good turn. That man married me and my children, and gave me a chance to become Mother Waddles. That man allowed me to do unto others, to operate the Perpetual Mission without salary."

NO LONGER PART of the problem, she hoped "to become part of the solution." She said: "I formed a prayer band of women. We started saving canned food from our pantries. It began in my

The project grew into the Mother Waddles Perpetual Mission, now at 10455 Shoemaker on the east side of Detroit.

"When we started we gave out mostly food and clothing," she recalled. "Now we're into everything, such as legal and medical counseling. We have our own social work department. We deliver emergency food to homes.

"We serve an evening meal seven days a week between 4-7 p.m. for 35 cents. It includes meat, two vegetables, hot corn bread, whatever the Lord gives. We feed from 50 to 75 people each time, although it increases in times of layoffs."

The mission, she added, is not funded by any government groups, but through donations. It is non-denominational and staffed by volunteers, "who help others because they have been in the wilderness."

Mother Waddles said the Wayne County Department of Social Services sends classes to hear her tell about the mission services. She described herself as "a born-again Christian who wants to demonstrate by her actions that she is living the word."

She added: "I'm just loving the hell out of folks." She believes "what you send out will come back to you."

The mission accepts donations. "Anything," said Mother Waddles. "Believe it or not, I once had some caskets given to me, and I found something to do with them." They made some useful shelves, she remembered.

Those interested in contributing food, clothing or even a potty chair currently needed by an ill adult, can call the mission at 571-1304.

Responding to a question about whether she gets so busy with her work that she becomes insensitive, Mother Waddles declared "you can't run a program and get insensitive."

"People's needs keep you on your toes," she added. "If it's not one thing, it's another.

The speaker, who told her audience she has been "black for 67 years," also said her lot has been "a fantastic life a good husband, 10 children, all living, 33 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren."

THE MESSAGE of the president of the Detroit Urban League was that the overall situation of blacks in this state is worse than last year.

"A huge population of the black population is still in need," said Roy Williams, "and that population is greater than last year."

He pointed to the situation in higher education as one of the continuing problems of blacks

"Over the last 20 years about 20 percent of the black community began college," he pointed out. "But only 6 percent were able complete their education. There is the same percentage today as 15-20 years ago."

He added that only 2 percent of black males, but 5 percent of black females, earn bachelor degrees.

He indicated that it costs about $13,000 a year to live in the black community, "but all they have to do that existing on is $7,000-$8,000 a year." He added that if it takes that much, the economic gap has widened.

WILLIAMS DESCRIBED the Urban League as a civil rights, social worker, advocacy oriented organization. He said some assume that it is for "bourgeois black," but that is not necessarily

"We try to get into board rooms to ask for answers, to show them when they're wrong and we need a change," he commented. The organization provides housing and nutrition counseling, works for quality of education and maintains* two scholarship funds. It also runs two street academies at which high school dropouts can continue their education and pass their high school equivalency exam (GED). A few of the students from these store-front schools have gone on to get degrees from Detroit area colleges, Williams

The organization is funded by $500,000 annually from the United Foundation and $750,000 from federal. state and local agencies.

Crazy rackets for love game

Lots of wind. Quick wrists. Sure strokes. Steady eyes. Mostly love. You can score with your offspring by suggesting this easy-to-prepare project.

All that's needed is a balloon, two wire coat hangers, and a discarded pair of pantyhose. By pushing and pulling, the wire hanger can be shaped into a circle. Squeeze the hook together to form a small handle. Now cut off the pantyhose near the top of each leg.

Fit the hanger into the leg, circle first, handle last, until it reaches the toe portion of the hose and covers the hanger completely. Don't worry about changing the shape of the circle, it will squash slightly giving each one it's own individual style.

Some pantyhose will be left dangling at the handle. This should be wrapped around the handle and tucked in providing protection for tender hands, a good grip and a secure racket. Encourage your child to do most of this project, it's easy and good for developing self-confidence and independence.

BECAUSE THIS toy is so lightweight, it can be used indoors without much fear of damage to child, home or equipment. Rainy days and vacation days are good times to pull out this active activity. It is also good for the child who is nearly recovered from sickness and is too ill to go to school, but no longer willing to sit quietly at home.

Alone, with two, or with as many as have these crazy rackets, this game is fun. A balloon completes the gear and then play can begin. Different size balloons cause slight variations in the game. Basically, the game is played by throwing the balloon into the air. The idea is to keep it up, or bat it back and forth, or guide it to some goal by using the rackets.

THE EXACT rules are left strictly and entirely up to the participants, allowing for great inventiveness. Rules can also be changed at the start of a game or even during the play - as often as is agreed upon by the players - a real plus in our day of games whose rigid rules take longer to tread than the game takes to

In establishing the rules, very young players have a role that is just as vital and important to the success or the game as that of the older players. Each person's idéas and opinions count, and everyone must compromise and cooperate to have fun.

Love! The score for the parent who encourages this homemade game! Patricia Bordman has taught elementary school and conducted workshops and lectures on education. She also has studied photography at Oakland University. She and her husband have two daughters and live in Farmington Hills.

Here's the latest for fitness

Here is a round-up of information from the world of medicine, physical fitness and food, consolidated from a variety of experts and news sources involved in the world of obesity and fitness.

· The elusive definition of "junk food" is not so elusive anymore. The United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) has finally defined the term as "a food of minimum nutritional value; i.e., a 100 calorie portion containing less than 5 percent of the recommended daibasic nutrients."

The problem with this definition (as I see it) is that one must now try to analyze the particular junk food one is eating

He must now determine which one of the eight food categories is involved in a particular product, what is the recommended daily allowance for that food category, and then whether it contains less than 5 percent of same.

Or maybe the next thing will be requiring the food manufacturers to provide a "junk food label"

· What has happened to frozen vogurt? According to food industry ly allowance of any one of the eight, source, while the product is still on the market, the penetration into the market has taken a marked decrease. Reasons given include the fact that the true yogurt flavor can't be appreciated when the product is frozen, and also that can you believe this one - it was too sweet. One industry source said, "The trend is away from sweet products . . . " Where was I when the lights went out on this one?

· First the bad news: Heart attacks and strokes are still the maior killer diseases of our society. Now the good news: according to the Harvard Medical School, the past five years has shown a definite documented decrease in the death rate from these two diseases.

Arteriosclerosis is the main cause of heart attack and stroke. Did you know that the process which leads to this condition, atherosclerosis, means, when translated literally from the Greek, "soft, fatty, gruel-like." It sounds so sickening it should make us all think about the fatty substances we eat.

· Two studies have recently been completed relating to women, obesity and its effect on their reproductive cycles and organs. Dr. Arthur Hartz, professor of digestive medicine, found a correlation between overweight women and irregular menstrual cycles.

In a study based on questionnaries of 26,638 women, he found women who were more than 30 pounds overweight were more likely to have a cycle greater than 36 days than those who were not overweight.

In a different study, findings show that extremes of body fat (too much or too little) can be responsible for infertility. The exact reaDr. Jimmy Johnson, executive director of The Association of Physical Fitness Centers, reports and people asked, 'Hey, who's holding this?' And I said, 'Um - er - the Original Michigan Fiddlers Association."

Robert M. Fleck tells that story about how he and Jane Allison cofounded a breezy, informal group while doing research on fiddling in Michigan.

"We want to meet old-time style musicians, callers and dancers and provide an opportunity for them to learn new tunes," said Fleck.

Today the Original Michigan Fiddlers Association has about 900 members. Membership is defined as subscribing to a quarterly newsletter and showing up at admission-free jam-

SINCE OMFA was "founded" in 1976, more than three dozen gatherings have been held around the state.

A jam session is scheduled for 6-11 p.m. Saturday, March 15 in the fire hall at Palmyra, a Lenawee County village six miles southeast of Adrian.

A local jamboree will be held April 26 in Vassar, a Tuscola County town almost due east of Saginaw.

"Our members come from all over the state, mostly outside the major urban metropolises," said Fleck. "But some come from around the 'burbs.' " Among them are Charles Gadd, a vi-"We held a dance to locate musicians" olin maker and fiddler from Orchard Lake; Jake and Pat Glover, banjo picker and fiddler from Canton; Gene Boyd, banjo player from Westland; fiddler Anita Dolen and square dance caller Roy Faigle, both of Redford Township; and Bob Ewald, banjo and guitar player from Livonia.

> A RECENT happening in Ypsilanti's Workmen's Hall drew over 300 persons and 40 participating musicians, half of them fiddlers, said Fleck.

> A jamboree ran all afternoon and a square dance was held in the evening. Welcome were all such non-electric instruments as fiddles, banjos, guitars, mandolins and dulcimers.

> "Young people got tired of rock and roll," Fleck says in explaining the movement's strength. "It was a spinoff of the alternative lifestyles of the 1960s and '70s.'

Michigan has a strong tradition of such music. For instance, Henry Ford I sponsored a radio program of fiddle and square dance music in the 1940s.

Scholars say Michigan was a fertile source of folk songs because its economy attracted such diverse groups -

"Many persons learned old-time music from their grandparents," said Fleck. "Some are extremely talented."

ON WEEKDAYS, Fleck is a writer and producer of films and videotapes.

mentary on old-time music and suggested it to Ms. Allison.

The first result was "Spring Meeting," a 17-minute film on the dulcimer, which looks like a horizontal harp and is played with small hammers. The film is available from Hillsdale Educational Publishers in Hillsdale.

FLECK AND Ms. Allison are doing a film on fiddling with grants from the Michigan Council for the Arts, National Endowment for the Arts and Ford Motor Co. Fund. The grants cover only production costs - not their research or script writing.

Out of their research grew the Original Michigan Fiddlers' Association, which sponsors about four events a year in its own name. One subscribes by sending $8 to OMFA Quarterly Newsletter, Box 21173, Detroit 48221.

Members also organize their own jam sessions, such as the forthcoming ones at Palmyra and Vassar.

Folk music today has many sources. Chief are English and Scotch ballads, narrative songs with many verses. Square dancing is pattered after English rural jigs (known in the music of Johann Sebastian Bach as gigues).

In America, blacks influenced folk music, and the result, said Fleck, was bluegrass.

Mozart meets the Yukon Sunday

A long-time member of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra will step to center stage as soloist in the orchestra's fifth concert of the season at 4 p.m. Sunday in Plymouth-Salem High School, Joy west of Canton Center

John Mohler, principal clarinetist, will be heard in the Concerto for Clarinet and Orchestra, K.622, the last concerte Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart wrote before his death at the age of 35.

With guest conductor Johan van der Merwe at the podium, the orchestra will open with Reznicek's "Donna Diana" overture, which middle-aged listeners will recognize as the radio theme of the 1940s radio program "Challenge of the Yukon."

After intermission, the orchestra will be heard in Brahms' "Variations on a Theme by Haydn," Ravel's "Pavanne for a Dead Princess" and Britten's Four Sea Interludes from the opera "Peter Grimes."

MOHLER, WHO joined the Plymouth Symphony in 1958, is chairman of the wind and percussion department of the University of Michigan School of Music, celebrating its centennial this

He has been a soloist with the United States Marine Band and Orchestra and with the Philadelphia Orchestra. Mohler studied at the Curtis Institute in Philadelphia and is U-M's first recipient of the doctor of musical arts in wind instruments.

The clarinet, now a popular instrument in bands, orchestras and ensembles, was still almost a novelty when Mozart was introduced to it. He wrote several solo parts for it in 1791, the final year of his life, and the concerto is a staple in every top-flight soloist's mu-

Boat launch site bill waits for House vote

A bill to restrict public boat launch development in Michigan breezed through the State Senate but has a low priority in the House Conservation Committee.

Senate Bill 8 was sponsored by state Sen. Donald Bishop, R-Rochester, at the urging of constituents in western Oakland County's lakes area. It passed the Senate 34-3 Feb. 27, a vote that surprised even Bishop "in light of previous opposition" from the UAW and State Department of Natural Resources."

An aide to Rep. Thomas Anderson, D-Southgate, said, however, many higher priority bills face the conservation committee, which Anderson chairs. Thus, said Bob Garner, the aide, Bishop's bill "will probably die at the end of the session" without being reported out.

Bishop said his bill will allow "local citizens and units of government more input into the development of public access lake sites for fishing and boating.

"In the past, the DNR has made the decisions on its own without sufficient local consultation. This has often times resulted in the overcrowding of lakes, boating accidents, trash dumping and traffic tieups, all at the expense of local residents."

KEITH WILSON, of DNR's Waterways Commission, said the department holds hearings when requested, but SB 8 would be more re-

It would require local public hearings. In the event a local unit objected to a new boat launch, the state

Natural Resources Commission would be able to develop it only by a two-thirds vote.

Wilson said DNR had three other objections to the Bishop bill:

· The bill provides that if a local road agency believes improvements are necessary to serve the boat launch site, the state, would have to pay for them. This would put DNR in the road funding business and be an impediment to developing public

· It sets minimum standards for launches that would "virtually rule out access sites in non-urbanized areas." For example, a site would have to be adjacent to a public road, a standard impossible to meet in much of the outstate area although still possible in Oakland County.

· It tightens standards of boats allowed per acre of lake. It reduces the number of public sector boats that can gain access," he said.

The Southeastern Michigan Bass Association has denounced Bishop's efforts, saying, "Strong lake associations who control their local politicians could and would deprive access to the general public to inland lakes in their area.'

OAKLAND COUNTY has been relatively successful in stopping boat launch development.

DNR's report for the decade of the 1970s shows no new access sites added in Oakland. DNR district fisheries biologist Ron Spitler said, in the report's section on southeast Michigan fisheries management.

Met tickets now on sale Mail order ticket brochures are now available for this year's performances of the Metropolitan Opera at Detroit's Masonic Auditorium. The Met Week schedule is:

 A new production of Verdi's "Un Ballo in Maschera," featuring renowned tenor Luciano Pavarotti, for the May 26 opening. Benjamin Britten's "Billy Budd," performed in English with Richard Stilwell, James Morris and Richard Cassilly on May 27. • Tchaikovsky's "Eugene Onegin," starring Teresa Kubiak, Nicolai Gedda, Michael Devlin and Jerome Hines, on

Bizet's "Carmen" featuring Fiorenza Cossotto in the title role with Detroiter Shirley Love as Mercedes, on

Verdi's "Aida" with Met notables

TAKING CONTROL

Too often during the early part of a game, we allow our opponent uninhibited freedom - freedom to run and freedom to bring in builders (extra or loose checkers purposely planted in the outer table waiting to make key points in the home table).

While on a rare occasion you may stop your opponent early, you could limit or restrict his movement - making it difficult for him to move as he wants and forcing him to make awkward plays.

If you lose the opening roll, your first move becomes critical. Since you cannot pre-plan a certain strategy, your first move could determine an overall game plan.

In the example, black won the opening roll with a six-five and chose to move a back runner (black checker on the 1 point) to the 12 point (mid-point)

White rolls a four-two for his first move. How would you play it? Under normal circumstances, making white's 4 point is a constructive play. But black has one checker back and closing the 4 point will not block or stop black from moving on a strong number on the next roll.

BEST OVERALL MOVE.

Naturally, there are several four-two moves. But only one play will allow white total control of the

By moving a checker from the 1 point to black's 5 point, white controls black's entire outer table. The single checker on the 1 point restricts black from leaving a blot (single checker) in his inner table. White should also bring a checker to the 11 point from black's 12 point.

Since white already has checkers bearing in both his home and outer tables, the extra builder will further inhibit black from running and will also serve in covering the 5 point. Black could roll double ones, threes or three-one, but the odds (four out of 36) are not severe and white is in a much more flexible position. The concept of control is important to under-

An early celebration of St. Patrick's Day

If you feel like celebrating St. Patrick's Day a little early this year, join the Irish Fleadh from 2-5 p.m. Sunday at the International Institute in Detroit. And you don't even have to be Irish Take Ed Marmon, for instance. Marmon will be on hand for the Fleadh, which is Gaelic for celebration, because he is head librarian and co-founder of the Gaelic League's library. But if Marmon doesn't sound like an Irish name to you, that's because it isn't.

Marmon and Tom Kelley, who both work for the Wayne-Westland schools, started the collection about three years ago

"We started the thing after drinking too many pints one night. Don't print that," said Marmon, who says he's adopted an affinity for Ireland... "We adopted each other," he said.

"I've been there three times. I've got lots of friends there."

Marmon's Irish library, housed at the Gaelic League in Detroit, includes over 500 volumes plus films, slides and music. Marmon also has begun an oral history project, taping interviews with people knowledgeable on the subject.

Marmon, who is still building the collection, said the library could use more donations - of money and materials. It's open Tuesday nights and by appointment.

But besides Marmon, the Sunday Fleadh will feature Irish dancers, historic Irish musical instruments and refreshments.

Cost of the afternoon is $5 including refreshments other than Irish coffee. Reservations are required by calling the institute at 871-8600.

tarist Rod McDonald), Harwood had a tape chronicling her best performances of the last 15 years.

"Me and Hociel (her sister) wrote that one," she said as her ears perk up to a tune in the background. "That woman has the three V's," she said.

"Vim, vigor and vitality." She giggles at the sound of her own added little teaser in another song on the tape. She originally recorded "Tain't Nobody Home But Me" in 1929 with jazz clarinetist Johnny Dodds.

"MY BROTHER, HE knew all of them. When I went to make my first record in New York City, they gave me Louis Armstrong and Eddie Heywood (pianist).

"I'd record six records at a time. When I would come to New York after that, there would be a gang of songs in the office for me to sing. The writer tent shows all through Texas."

and the company would pay me to sing

"They'd ask me, 'Sippie, who do you want this time?' I could pick anyone. I was goin' to use Armstrong's wife, Miss Lil (Lilian Hardin, New Orleans pianist), but me and she had a fuss. I don't know, maybe she thought I was going toward Louis, I don't know.'

Ms. Wallace knew several other singers considered important blues singers during the years when the classic blues singers were big record sellers. "There was Butterbeans and Susie (Jodie and Susie Edwards), Sara Martin and Ma Rainey," she said. "Ma was older than me. We were all friends. My brother had put them on records - you know Butterbeans and Ma. But, I wanted to be with Susie (Edwards). They couldn't put two big stars on the same billing though. It was too "Susie made me go on my own. I did town for a week.

"You had to change your songs every night. People, the same people, would come back each night to hear you."

To please her husband, she moved to

"I ain't never liked it here. Never could stand Detroit," she said.

Detroit around 1929.

But she stayed. And aside from singing gospel music and playing her piano in her Detroit church, she was away from commercial music from 1929 to 1965, when the teenaged blues lover Harwood looked her name up in the Detroit phone book and persuaded her to sing the blues again in public.

At Tweeny's, she'll do cabaret: "I'll be going around to tables with a micro-

HARWOOD TELLS a story about her do nothing."

THE TENT SHOWS, she said, were songs. "We went to see 'Ain't Misbehavlike theaters. Different singers would in,' and after the show Sippfe said they come to a tent show in some small didn't do 'Squeeze Me' right. She said that Fats (Waller) had taught her that song and the words were too dirty to sing any more. But when the cast for 'Ain't Misbehavin' comes to hear her perform at Tweeny's she's going to surprise them by singing the real

> But it's the gospel and religious songs that have been important to her during the last four of five decades.

> "'Stand By Me,' that's my special song," the singer says in slow motion, "because I've been so sick." She had a stroke in 1970.

> "God's been behind me. 'Course, you got to do anything you can do. I can play for church. I do that. In order to keep my hands active, I can play the piano. I been serving God's kingdom in that way. But, without God, you can't

Design tricks can set a mood for any home

First impressions of a dwelling mean as much as first impressions of people. Why do you enjoy visiting one friend's house more than another's? A single visit is enough sometimes to register the idea that "this is a place someone cares about."

Later, when you analyze your reactions, you will discover that certain rules of decoration have been followed, consciously or by instinct. Chances are the homes you find most pleasant are a combination of shrewd planning and happy coincidence.

The first of these - the planning - you must supply yourself. The incidental, sometimes surprising touches will follow naturally from the beginning with careful planning combined with your most precious possessions and preferences of individual members of the family.

Try to view your house objectively. Pretend you don't live there. Enter the door as a stranger. What is the first impression? If you are fortunate in having an entrance hall, or at least a space where a pocket-size vestibule can be devised, it can strike the desired note at once. Furthermore, it should do

. UNLESS A HOUSE or apartment is very large and grand, calling for a formal, dramatic treatment at the entrance, it is well to start your decorative scheme at the front door with a floor covering that continues as far as the eye can see.

Wallcoverings should be correlated from this focal point, although you will want them to vary somewhat as the eye surveys the interior. Standing just inside the entrance, you might ask yourself questions. Are the rooms I see related to each other? Does one lead logically to the next? Do they look inviting?

It is mostly a matter of color. You are ready, now, for a family conference. The chief decision is à color, or a color scheme - something to which the adults of the family will respond. Several factors have to be considered - the exposure of the rooms, the wear and tear in them, the already existing furnishings that somewhat set the pace.

ARE YOU A warm family or a cool one? Will ou be happier with yellows or with blues or greens? First you should get color chips from the paint store and study various new combinations you might choose. The color note sounded at the entrance is like a fanfare of trumpets that should sound throughtout the house.

The greatest harmonizers of all are color and pattern, and they exist in their most persuasive form in wallpaper and wall coverings. There are decorating tricks you should know about and can use in more than one room of the house.

TO RAISE A ceiling, keep it light. Pale colors, either textures or small patterns, will make a ceiling recede.

If you use strong verticals on the walls, stripes or any patterns that definitely thrust upwards, they carry the eye with them.

Place low funiture strategically, so that the space between it and the ceiling will appear great-

To lower a ceiling, call attention to it. An eyecatching pattern, whether dark or bright in color, brings a ceiling nearer. To lower a ceiling, use horizontal patterns on the walls. Murals often serve the same purpose. Break the height of the wall with a dado or a chair rail, wallpaper above it.

TO MAKE small rooms seem spacious, use cool, receding colors in open patterns on light grounds. Textures alone won't do the trick. Perspective must be created by suggesting depth.

Combine two or more wallcoverings, a mural or pattern on one wall, and texture on another, it will give the effect of different planes.

TO MAKE BARE rooms seem furnished, don't be afraid to use big, bold patterns. These may be patterns from any category, and the motifs can be as bright and the grounds as dark as desired.

To break up the walls into panels is architectural trickery, and well handled it is the classic solution to any wall problem.

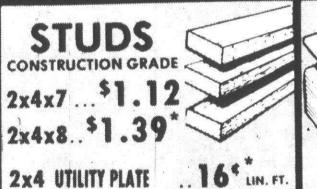

TO WIDEN a narrow room, use a horizontal pattern on one short, unbroken wall, or on walls at opposite ends of the room. They will literally push the other walls apart.

To select any color or pattern, make certain of the exposure of the room where it will be used. Warm colors obviously affect a cold room and light colors brighten dark ones. See your colors under both artificial light and natural daylight, then decide under which conditions you will be seeing it. More about wallcovering next time.

And the tortoise thought he won the race

What the tortoise didn't know is that I finished shopping first by using The Observer & Eccentric Classified ads—all in the comfort of my hutch.

Have you browsed through the offers waiting for you in The Observer & Eccentric Classifieds lately? It's fun. It's almost like having a department store in your own home ... and you save time, effort and money, too.

So don't race all over town looking for something you want. Be smart. Like me. Put your feet up, relax and shop one of the busiest market places there is—the classified section of your hometown newspaper. Chances are you'll find just what you've been looking for.

That's all, folks ....

Audrey is a Novi resident who has been serving the automotive needs of Western Wayne County residents for 21/2 years. In that short period of time she has distinguished herself by becoming a Master

Sales Counselor. Leo Calhoun Ford would like to invite all of Audrey's friends and customers to come in and see her and all our new Ford cars and trucks.
