Uninsured antiques are turned to ashes in late-night blaze

By DARLENE STINSON

An estimated $150,000 in uninsured antiques went up in flames late last Friday as fire engulfed a business in the extreme northwest portion of Canton Township. Captain Vernon Rorabacher of the Canton Fire Department admits that the front of the building could "possibly" have been saved if a six-minute gap had not occurred in the department's water supply.

Boston Prichard, one of the dealers who used the building at 50975 Ann Arbor Road, said none of the antiques were insured. Prichard, who imports most of his antiques from Europe, estimates he lost $100,000 in the blaze.

"Antiques are a hard thing to buy insurance for," he said. "You can get it, but you'd end up working just to pay the insurance fees.'

Prichard, who used to operate T & P Antiques on Liberty Street in Plymouth, leases the building from an outof-state landlord and sublets the front of the facility to four other dealers, The owner, Marlin Kirchhoff of Phoenix, carries insurance on the building itself, Prichard said.

"You know the old saying — you just have to pick yourself up and dust yourself off." Prichard said. "We haven't decided how big of a blow it is yet. You just can't think for awhile."

DESPITE HIS optimism, he dealer was visibly bitter over a six-minute period Friday night when Canton firefighters ran out of water. He maintains that some of his antiques could have been saved if an adequate water supply had been available.

Western Canton is not provided with city water.

According to Rorabacher, the fire epartment brought its only two water tankers to the scene Friday night and immediately contacted five other departments for additional water sup-

Canton's two tankers were filled to their capacity of 3,700 gallons, he said.

Although that amount is normally sufficient for home fires, the burning 5.600-square-foot building quickly drained Canton's tankers before additional help could arrive.

"There was a little delay there," Rorabacher admitted "But there was nothing we could have done to save the back part of the building (where Prichard's antiques were located.) The fire was already going through the roof when we were called.'

According to Rorabacher, fire departments from Plymouth, Northville, Salem, Superior and Pittsfield townships brought additional water to the scene following a six-minute period in which no water was available.

Rorabacher said the fire started at approximately 10:30 p.m. Friday near an oil furnace in the rear of the building. Although the cause of the blaze has not been determined, Rorabacher said arson is not suspected.

His department was notified of the blaze after a passing motorist spotted the fire and stopped at a home in the vicinity to report the incident.

ON MONDAY, Prichard picked his way across rubble and charred pieces of wood as he assessed the damage to his business.

Melting snow dripped from the few wooden beams that still stretched from the outer cinder block walls - the only part of the building that was not destoyed by flames.

The house, at 1675 Haggerty, was selected by the Northville Residential Training Center and Alternative Services — the same organizations which dropped a plan for a similar facility in the Canton Country Acres Subdivision last month.

But Arthur Mack, executive director of Alternative, said the house was tagged as a possible home for six mentally retarded adults before the application for the Canton Country Acres home was withdrawn.

Mack said Alternative, a non-profit organization based in Royal Oak, originally planned two adult foster care facilities in Canton. Alternative withdrew its application before the Michigan Department of So-

Mach said his company is still searching for an alternative site to that subdivision location in Canton or another community.

The licensing application for the house on Haggerty was submitted to the Department of Social Services on Feb. 4, Mack said. Canton officials received notification of the plan earlier this week after receiving a request for a routine zoning statement.

According to Mack, the home is located in an area zoned for multiplefamily use. Canton planner Jim Kosteva was unavailable for comment.

Mack said the Department of Social Services normally take three to six months to process applications for fos-

Tax roll-back results in less money for schools

For the first time in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, the Headlee tax limitation amendment is being felt.

Local taxpayers will see the difference in this December's tax bills which will be lowered by 1.32 mills because of Headlee.

Because the local taxbase has increased faster than the rate of inflation, the school district must lower its tax rate for the operational budget by 1.32 mills ($1.32 per $1,000 state equalized valuation).

Superintendent John M. Hoben told school trustees Monday night that the rollback resulted because the taxbase (SEV) increased by 23.5 percent from 1979 to 1980 while the 1979 inflation rate was 11.3 percent.

The new tax rate for operation will be 33.94 mills compared to the current levy of 35.26. The rollback factor was mean less money from the state as well as the rollback in operational millage, Hoben stressed.

Present estimates are that the school district will receive $1.5 million less in state aid for the '80-81 fiscal year - a reduction of 21 percent in state fund-increase in total income of 9 percent which is less than inflation and doesn't take into account added costs generated by student growth. As if that news wasn't bad enough,

The net effect, Hoben said, will be an

Hoben told trustees that the increased SEV brings the school district dangerously close to the point where all state aid would be cut off.

HOBEN ALSO warned that the rollback factor compounds itself; and that if SEV outstrips inflation next year, the Because state aid is based on local budget effects the following year will

The superintendent added that the upcoming budget is tentatively at about $40 million and, because of the rollback and loss in state aid, will have to be cut by more than $1 million.

"1981-82 could be a disastrous year if we get a compounded rollback factor. And on top of that we may have Tisch on the scene then," he said, referring to Shiawassee Drain Commissioner Robert Tisch's newest efforts to get a more drastic tax cut amendment on November's ballot.

"For the '81-82 school year we are planning on opening Lowell Junior High and we need operating funds of about $188,000 to open that school, and that cost is beyond the cost of a teaching staff for the building. It looks pretty bleak."

RAY HOEDEL, assistant superintendent for business, suggested there might be a bright side to the news of the millage rollback.

"The amount of millage we are asing for in the bond issues is pretty close to the amount being rolled back for operation. So residents could vote in favor of the three ballot proposals on March 27 and end up with pretty close to the same millage because of the rollback," said Hoedel.

Based on the latest information on SEV, Hoedel now estimates that passage of Proposition I will cost an additional 1.57 mills next year while Proposition II will cost an additional 0.64 mills. If both bond issues were approved the actual increase in December 1980, accounting for the rollback, would be about nine-tenths of a mill.

Hoedel added that the estimated added millage rates of 1.5% and 0.64 for the two bond proposals also takes into account selling the bonds at a higher interest rate.

School districts in this region with bond issues to sell, Hoedel explained, are unable to find buyers at 8 percent. Because of high returns in the present financial market, Hoedel said the district likely would be unable to market bonds unless they were sold with a 10 percent interest return.

And so Hoedel increased the projected interest rate for the bonds from 8 to 10 percent and computed the higher SEV figures to arrive at the expected added cost to taxpayers for the bond

"If only Proposition I was approved March 27," said Hoedel," "it would almost be an even wash with the rollback. If both bond issues pass, the real increase is just under one mill."

Hoedel cautioned that the computations still are based on "working" figures as the district still does not know the 1980 SEV figures for those portions of the district which are in Washtenaw

LAST YEAR the district's total taxbase was about $673 million.

Administrators had projected total SEV would increase to about $740 million but now project it will total around $832 million.

Canton's taxbase increased from $245 million to $376 million, Plymouth Township from $165 million to $263 million, and the city of Plymouth from $87 million to $109 million. The portion of Northville Township in the district increased from $4.5 million to $10 million. The 1980 figures are unknown for those parts of Salem and Superior townships in the district.

Current estimates are that state aid will drop from this year's total of $7.1 million to about $5.6 million. The $1.5 million loss in state aid will be offset by additional income of almost $4.5 million from the local property tax, after the rollback is applied.

The bottom line now seen is an increase in total income of $2.9 million or about 9.5 percent.

Board approves ordinance

Mobile home charges get action

Mobile home owner complaints are a few steps closer to being resolved.

According to Canton Supervisor Noel Culbert, 15 complaints from township mobile home park residents have been referred to the Wayne County Prosecutor's office for possible legal action.

The Canton Township Board of Trustees Tuesday also passed a local version of a Michigan law addressing mobile homes. The local version has been O referred to the Michigan Mobile Home Commission. That gommission makes recommendations about an ordinance before it is enacted locally.

The two moves follow almost a year of complaining by park residents.

The complaints originated primarily from the Royal Holiday and Holiday Estates mobile home parks, both owned entirely or in part by Sheldon Futernick Futernick also has interest in Nationwide Mobile Homes Inc., a dealership. The residents, led by CeJay Marshall, charged that Futernick had raised rents arbitarily, that mobile homes were improperly set up in the parks, that written leases as required by law were not being given and that promised facilities were not actually constructed.

The ordinance passed by the board, and the 15 complaints, have to do primarily with setting up homes in parks. Violation of the township ordinance would result in a maximum $500 fine and three months in jail per offense.

Due to the nature of Public Act 419, which deals with mobile home set-ups, complaints had to be referred by the township to the Michigan Mobile Home Commission, which then determines whether to send the complaints to the prosecutor.

The 15 complaints were sent to Steven Zamiara, head of the mobile home commission, in February. Last fall, Zamiara said any complaints sent by Canton to his commission would be referred for prosecution.

Wayne County plans to sue the State of Michigan for more than $17 million county officials say the state has illegally withheld.

The Board of Commissioners last week gave its chief attorney, George Cross, the go-ahead to collect the state revenue sharing and tax credit money which is included in this year's county budget.

"IF WE DON'T get it, we'd be double in trouble," said Cross, a Livonia resident. The county had an $18 million deficit last year and could face a potential $8 million deficit this year.

Cross said he is "ready to move now" to file suit in the Michigan Court of Appeals seeking $5.4 million in state income tax revenue sharing money.

County sues state—again The state has withheld the revenue sharing and $11.85 million in business inventory loss credit, which the county said it is owed for 1978 when a new single business tax took efffect. State officials reportedly have withheld the millions because of a dispute over the county's payment for the care of mental health patients in state insti-According to Cross, the state says the county owes $7 million for in-patient mental health care, representing 10 percent of the cost to keep county residents in state institutions.

CROSS CONTENDS the state has no legal basis to withhold the revenue sharing money because of the mental health dispute. "If they have any offset on anything else, it certainly doesn't apply to revenue sharing," he said. The county may file three suits, Cross added, separating the issues of revenue sharing, mental health payments and the business inventory cred-

Prichard grimly pointed to the spot where his oldest antique - a 1620 grandfather clock - had stood. The half-melted frame of a brass bed, scattered pieces of metal clockwork and a scorched sewing machine were the only reminders of Prichard's lost inventory

"I'll start over again. Don't ask me how, but I will," he said.

"What hurts me most is that some choice antiques went up in smoke. And I really feel bad for her," he said, nodding toward a woman who was grimly searching through the rubble for some remnant of her doll collec-

"She had been collecting those dolls since she was 5 years old," he said. Faye Kirk, who used to operate South Main Antiques in Plymouth, was one of the four dealers who sublet the front of the building from Pritchard. She estimated the value of her lost doll collection at $30,000

Other dealers who operated from the building included Irene Gribble and Dale Kaluzney. Pritchard could not remember the name of the newest dealer "who moved his stuff in just two weeks ago."

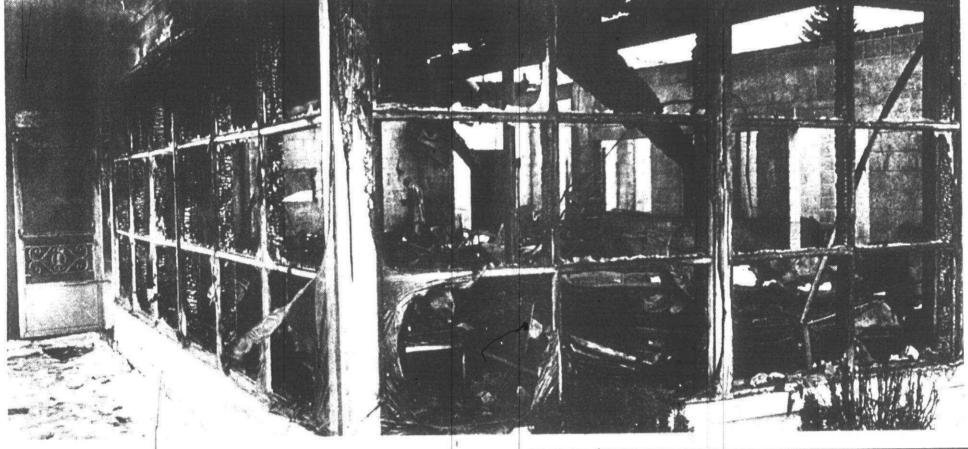

Pritchard, who lives at 163 Amelia in Plymouth, said the antique business was the sole source of income for his family.

He started trading antiques seven years ago.

Suburbs fight proposal for county reorganizing

By TOM LONERGAN

A newly formed group of suburban government officials is preparing a suit that challenges Wayne County reorganization.

The Wayne County Communities for Equal Representation on Tuesday voted to retain a Detroit law firm to insure that a county charter commission - which, if approved by voters, would propose reorganization - be based on new census figures rather than 1970 census figures. The group has retained the Detroit firm of Fenton, Nederlander and

The group, whose members include local government officials from western Wayne County and the downriver area, contends that basing a county charter commission on the 1970 census, as provided for in a recently amended state County Home Rule Act, would violate out-county communities "one man/one vote" rights under the U.S. Constitution.

The group includes county Board of Auditors chairman Richard Kelly of Wyandotte, and Plymouth Township's Orville Tungate, Chief Deputy County Clerk.

Chaired by Frank Lada, Mayor of Allen Park, the suburban group plans to raise up to $40,000 to pay for the suit. It is asking all out-county communities to pledge 5 cents per capita for the court action. Thus far 19 local governments have pledged the money, including Garden City, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Redford Township, Northville Township and Wayne. Westland, Livonia and Canton Township have yet to act on the request.

There are 42 communities in the county besides

SUBURBAN OFFICIALS want 1980 census figures used to apportion the county should voters decide that a charter commission be seated to propose reorganization of Wayne County government.

The charter commission, which would include one representative from up to 35 districts, would write a new constitution for Wayne and eventually give voters the option to decide if the county should be headed by an elected county executive or county board-appointed manager.

The county Board of Commissioners may vote this month to place the reform via charter commission issue on the Aug. 5 primary election ballot.

Since Detroit and central city suburbs have a 15-12 majority on the county board, the equal representation group believes its only chance to have the charter commission based on the 1980 census is to let the courts decide.

The lawsuit, which may be filed in the Michigan Court of Appeals, would likely stall a vote on creation of a charter commission.

THE COURT suit has led some Detroit commissioners to charge that out-county representatives don't want county reorganization. "I know some of the people around this table are missioner Arthur Carter, D-Detroit, at a county board general government committee meeting earlier this week.

"That's why we need to move as expeditiously as

But the suburban group says it's only intent is to delay the reorganization process until 1980 census figures are available

"We're all going to get beaten over the head by the Art Carters," said Tungate, secretary of the equal representation group. "We all ought to keep saying we're not opposed to county reorganization."

DETROIT AND suburban interests in the county are split over reorganization mainly because Detroit favors an appointed county manager to head a new county government while most suburban officials favor an elected executive.

The general government committee may recommend Thursday that the charter commission issue be placed on the Aug. 5 ballot. The county board Ways and Means Committee, composed of all 27 county commissioners, may also consider the issue

Should both committees approve, the full county board would consider the issue March 20.

THE VOTE, however, could be delayed since county commissioners aren't sure how much money the state will provide for operation of a charter Cost estimates range from the state's $300,000 to the county Board of Auditors' $2.2 million.

The state has said it will pay the charter commissioners $65 per day salary for no more than 90 meetings, plus charter commission staff salaries, notices for elections and the cost of adopting a

A state senate bill which would provide the money is pending in the Senate Appropriations Committee. The bill calls for the Michigan Secretary of State to determine "actual costs" of an election.

While the county has a written pledge from state Budget Director Gerald Miller that the state will cover "reasonable costs," a number of county commissioners are leery of the state promise. "I don't think we could take this (Miller's) statement to a bank and get a nickel's worth of credit on it," said Commissioner Alex pilch, D-Dearborn. The senate bill does not include funds for charter commission supplies and equipment.

County Clerk James Killeen estimates the charter commission will cost $700,000 if no special countywide election is required to adopt a new

A special election, meaning the county issue would be the only matter on the ballot, would cost $1.5 million, Kileen estimates.

Tungate said the state has "no idea" of how much staff a charter commission would need. Personnel costs will likely be the largest charter commission

"If you can hire a stenographer for $65 a day, I'd like to find one," said Tungate.

Editor: I would like to apologize to all employees of Canton Township, whatever department they might be working in.

My apology would be for any defamation of their character or ability to perform their designated occupation while serving as employees of Canton Township. I offer this apology because of the recent article appearing in the local newspapers.

There seems to be some confusion on the part of the supervisor (Noel Culbert) about a recent study being undertaken by a group of interested citizens. The study would be to investigate a township manager or superintendent.

I had written a letter to Bart Berg. expressing my views and interest in this type of government. Certain newspapers have taken my position as chamber president to use as a wedge against the current elected officials. This is far from the truth.

What appeared as cooperation between the chamber and the township administration was recently cut off by the supervisor. This was supposed to serve as a slap in the face of the cham-

Headlee effect seen as small

While the school tax levied against Plymouth residents will be lowered, the Headlee tax limitation amendment will have little effect this year in the city and township

The millage levied by the city of Plymouth will be unaffected by Headlee as it still remains below the charter limit. There will be a slight rollback of millage in Plymouth Township but it will be hardly noticeable to taxpayers.

Headlee provides that units of government must roll back their operating millages when property assessments increase at a rate faster than inflation.

The enabling legislation, however, provided that the rollback be applied against the local charter limits for cities and against the five-mill limit for charter townships, such as Plymouth Township.

Ken Way, city assessor, says the city's 20-mill charter limit is being rolled back but that won't effect the current levy or the upcoming levy.

Both Way and City Manager Henry Graper expect, though, that the rollback factor will effect the city's millage rate next year.

FOR PLYMOUTH TOWNSHIP the rollback involves about 2 percent of one mill everyday life.

"You'll hardly notice it," said Township Supervisor Thomas Notebaert of the rollback. "It's nothing drastic. But I think it's a good thing because it doesn't allow a community to continue to levy the same rate regardless of inflation.

Presently the township levies 4.9 mills. Of that, one mill is for general township operation, one mill is for police protect ion, and one mill is levied for fire protection. The remaining 1.9 mills is levied for debt retirement.

For Plymouth Township the rollback factor lowers the five mill charter limit to 4.878 mills so the reduction is about one cent per $1,000 state equalized valuation.

The city presently levies 16.45 mills for operation. Excluded by state law from the Headlee provisions is millage specifically levied for debt retirement and rubbish collection.

The township's auditors presently are analyzing information to determine whether its 1.9 mills for debt retirement is excluded from Headlee limita-

If the debt levy of a charter township is excluded, then Plymouth Township could levy an additional 1.8 mills without a vote of the people.

S'craft moves to ease waiting list

Schoolcraft College administrators, seeking to cut waiting lists for four popular programs, are making two procedural changes in admissions.

Admissions Director Barbara Geil said there are waiting lists of two to four years to get into the associate degree nursing program and the licensed practical nursing program.

For culinary arts, the waiting list runs three to five years. The list for medical laboratory technology is short,

ENROLLMENT for the winter semester, which began in January, is up nearly 6 percent over January of 1979. the admissions office reported.

Otherwise, there is little change in the composition of the community college's student body.

While the increase reversed a downward trend in winter enrollment, the 1980 headcount of 7,431 persons was still below the 7,708 of 1978 and 7,711 of 1976.

The average number of credit hours per student also halted its steady decline. Schoolcraft students signed up for an average of 7.46 credit hours this year compared to 7.45 a year ago. The 1979 level was the low point in a skid from 8.23 credit hours in 1976.

Male students maintained their slight majority - 51 percent. In recent years the percentage of males had ranged from 52-54 percent.

Tornado season is upon us— time to prepare

By MICHAEL ZADOORIAN

You're at home and a storm starts to break.

Winds are more than 65 miles an hour and it's raining heavily and starting to hail.

These are perfect conditions for a tornado. What will you do?

THE BEST ANSWER is that "You already should know.

According to Charles Van Vleck, commander of the Plymouth-Canton emergency communications team RE-ACT, the two most important things to have when a tornado is imminent are: "An early warning and knowing what to do when you get that warning.'

Van Vleck feels there is a public attitude toward tornado safety in Plymouth-Canton. He attributes this to a lack of awareness and because a tornado hasn't been sighted near this area in almost three years.

"People think that this will not happen to them. It's just not true. A lot of people wind up dead because of that attitude."

Van Vleck and a few other residents are active members in REACT (Radio Emergency Associated Citizens Team). As part of their duties, REACT members conduct mobile patrols, hold first aid classes, and operate radio communications for public and club functions.

However, one of REACT's most important jobs is the assistance it gives to the National Weather Service during emergency weather conditions.

During a tornado watch, REACT sends its own trained severe weather spotters to pre-assigned posts to help keep an eye out for tornados.

For the past three years REACT has covered the area along Napier Road from Ford Road to 10 Mile. The spotters remain at their posts until the watch is lifted.

REACT also conducts tornado safety programs free to the public. These classes give instructions on what do do when a tornado strikes - whether you're at home, in a mobile home, in a CONDITIONS which often precede a tornado can include an electrical storm, heavy winds, rain and hail.

Even a rising sun after a storm can be a sign that a tornado is near. About 90 percent of all tornados come from the back of a storm.

The first of April marks the beginning of the tornado season in Michigan. In the past 30 years some 700 tornados have been reported in Michigan, causing more than 200 deaths.

Most of these deaths could have been avoided, says Van Vleck, by following a few simple rules, such as:

• Plan ahead - Decide where in your home everyone would go in case of a tornado. A basement is best and other spots are under a stairway or under very sturdy furniture. In houses without basements, go to a small room on the lowest floor in the center of the

that a tornado has been sighted. · When a warning comes, take action. Get household members together at the predeterimined place. Stay informed by radio or television and remain in place until the warning is lift-

Those interested in learning more about tornados and the threats presented may do so by attending one of the tornado safety classes offered by RE-ACT. The next one will be on April 12 in the All Saints Lutheran Church at Newburgh and Joy roads.

Anyone interested in becoming a severe weather spotter may contact Van Vleck at 453-7377.

Realtors honored for sales

The Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors (WWOCBR) has honored 414 of its members for topping $1 million home listings and sales during 1979 in award ceremonies at the Plymouth Hilton Hotel.

"Led by these Million Dollar Club members from 31 communities served by our board and multi-list subsidiary, we aided about 31,000 buyers and sellers of existing homes last year," said John J. Halser, WWOCBR president. "Total value of property involved was nearly $820 million.

"Despite the rise in average prices during the year, the $1 million figure remains a significant benchmark.

Halser said the average for the WWOCBR's 4,339 members in 1979 was 3.76 sales with a value of some $197,000. These figures included a number of part-time sales persons.

Lawmaker attempts change in financing of Michigan schools

A perennial proposal to finance elementary and secondary school education through increased state income taxes has been introduced into the Michigan Legislature again.

First proposed by State Rep. Roy Smith, R-Saline, in 1967, the proposed constitutional amendment would shift primary financial support of K-12 public education from the property tax to the state income tax. Smith proposes the 4.6 percent state income tax be increased nearly 2 percent.

The plan has bipartisan support. Among co-sponsors are Reps. Thomas Brown, D-Westland, and Perry Bullard, D-Ann Arbor.

SMITH, WHOSE district includes the city of Plymouth and part of Plymouth Township, said this week chances of the legislature placing his proposal on the ballot are "very slim."

However, he hopes to strike a compromise with legislators eager to pass some type of property tax relief during the current re-election year.

Besides the legislative effort, a petition campaign will be started to place the proposal on the November ballot, Smith said. Some 300,000 signatures of registered voters are needed by July 7 for the measure to qualify for a spot on the ballot.

The "Smith-Bullard Plan," as it's called, proposes that senior citizens be exempted from all property taxes on the first $25,000 SEV (state equalized value) of homestead property value.

It would also: · Increase the state income tax up to 2 percent. · Collect a statewide property tax of up to 30.5 mills on industrial, developmental and commercial property to 30.5 mills. It would not apply to homes or resident farms.

· The millage rate for residences and farms (family-owned) would be limited to 24.5 mills. Property taxes would be paid for support of counties, townships and community colleges.

 Supplemental property taxes not to exceed 7 mills - or a 1 percent income tax could be voted by residents in K-12 school districts.

SMITH SAID his proposal, which doesn't have the support of House and Senate leaders, has failed in the past because "we really haven't had a crisis situation before as far as property taxes are concerned. The crisis is almost

He said petitions supporting his proposal would be ready in a week. Although they're being printed by the Michigan Education Association, Smith said the MEA has not officially supported the measure.

"All the language they want is in the amendment," Smith said.

His proposal is not a tax cut, but a shift, Smith added. "I don't believe we can cut K-12 educational spending unless enrollment drops. I can't believe the public is willing to cut the school

During the oil embargo, motorists lined up at stations because gasoline was in short supply. This week in Plymouth the lines returned but not because of a shortage. This line at Ann Arbor Trail and Harvey is drawn to the Boron Station because regular gas is being sold for $1.09 a gallon and unleaded for $1.13. It wasn't that long ago that people were shocked at the idea of a buck a gallon for gasoline. How quickly inflation changes things. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

A crime of stealth

Arson reports reaching new highs

By TERI BANAS

The statistics are staggering. Arson, considered by police to be one of the most difficult crimes to solve, is now becoming one of the fastest growing crimes in the United States. Its magnitude prompted the Federal Burean of Investigation recently to list it armong other "Part I crimes" like murder, rape and burglery that set national criminal patterns. The arsonist strikes anywhere - from a small residence or motor home to large industrial complexes.

In the Plymouth community, citizens are still shaken with the news that this crime has been linked to the total ruin of 13 shops in its downtown district.

Here's what the United States Fire Administration reported in its January 1980 bulletin:

Citing arson as a multi-faceted problem, the USFA reported that some 177,000 cases nationally are suspicious-

In terms of percentages, that's 23-50 percent of all fires reported in the United States.

Such fires result in 10,000-15,000 deaths each year.

And property loss runs into the billions. Their best estimate is between $1.2-4 billion each year. While those figures represent property loss alone, a total loss, including loss to property taxes, jobs, and income is estimated at $15 billion annually.

THE ADMINISTRATION'S best estimate for convictions of arsonists is even more surprising — as little as less than 1 percent.

According to Detective Lt. Frank Good, head of the Michigan Task Force on Arson, each area has a different reporting system for this crime and therefore solid national statistics are difficult to calculate.

Michigan, he says, is one of the nation's leaders in reporting arson. He attributes this to the state being highly populated and industrialized.

'The reason why it's growing," he says, "is that it's very profitable and there's little risk to the arsonist."

Prosecution is difficult because the crime itself has few eye witnesses and often critical evidence is "burned up" in the offense.

"First, though, you have to prove it's a crime; and then you have to prove the perpetrator did it with opportunity and

"Because there are few eye witnesses the prosecution must depend on circumstantial evidence. Consequently, prosecutors are reluctant to taken them on because they're lengthy and time-consuming. A lot are thrown out of court for insufficient evidence."

SGT. LARRY RODRIGUEZ is a Michigan State Police officer assigned to a statewide task force on arson. He's based in Northville and was one of two arson specialists called to investigate the Penniman Avenue Shops' fire last

He says most major arsons are set for some type of financial gain.

When it involves a business owner, there may be several reasons for this

"Maybe he can't cope with his competition or his business is in a rundown area or he's overloaded with stock he can't move.'

Arson—a complex crime

On a smaller scale, motives behind deliberately set home fires range from attempting to recoup an insurance settlement for remodeling purposes to destroying gas-guzzling motor homes and cars that are difficult to sell.

Revenge is another top motive associated with arson. It could be linked to family disagreements or neighborhood feuds. In one reported case, a broken engagement led to the setting of a home fire.

A third common motive behind arson is an act to "cover up another crime" such as embezzlement, burglery and homocide.

"DETERMINING it's arson is relatively easy. But knowing it's an arson fire and initiating some prosecution is where the difficulty comes in," Rodriguez says.

"It's usually done in the cover of darkness when the suspect has the least chance of being uncovered.

He also says there's less "public cooperation" in investigating an arson compared to other serious crimes.

"People may have some idea that it was deliberately set but would rather sit back than cause the owner some trouble. They don't realize that in the end they're paying for it out of their own pocket.

According to insurance figures supplied to law enforcement agencies, some 35 cents out of each dollar paid to an insurance company covers payments to victims of arson.

Both officers say that most arsons involving large businesses are the work of several people - a conspiracy.

"In larger communities they get a contractor to set the fire and then pay him a flat fee or a percentage of the insurance settlement," Rodriguez says.

In some reported cases, they say, the "number of actors" include not only the business owners but their broker, "the torch," and even insurance adjusters.

MOTIVES MAY differ for setting home fires, Good says.

"He may be out of work, his medical bills piling up, and he sees this as his only way out.

While he says there are no general characteristics associated with this type of criminal, he says most involved in large commercial arsons do have "some type of criminal background."

For several reasons, Rodriguez says most arsons occur in the winter.

Because of typically severe road conditions, an arsonist might suspect it would take the fire department a little longer to respond.

"It's also more difficult to fight a fire because of the cold."

According to Good, while Michigan ranks among those states with high reported cases of arson, it ranks above the national average in the conviction of suspected arsonists. The state's rating is 13 percent.

He attributes this to the high caliber of trained officers working in the investigation of arson.

While determining the origin of a fire is done at the "grassroots level" by local fire authorities, he says there are some 60 specially trained officers from various agencies who do follow-up investigations.

District basketball hosts are thanked for fine job

Editor: The first week of March, or "March Madness," captivates the attention of basketball fans throughout Michigan each year. Plymouth is no exception.

As a community service, WSDP for seven consecutive years has produced live coverage of all tournament basketball games. While completing preparation plans for this year's tournament, the thought occurred to our staff how convenient it has been for the entire community to have had the district tournament hosted here in Plymouth once again.

Prior to last year, parents, interested fans, players, relatives and radio announcers were forced to make an annual trek to Southfield, or other areas un-

editorial opinion

Is choice really easy for tax-weary citizens?

An important issue, and maybe the most important, in the March 27 school election is money.

Each of the three ballot propositions involves the collection of more taxes from Plymouth-Canton residents.

For some residents, money is the only issue. For these voters, the decision on March 27 is fairly simple — vote "no" three times.

Other residents, though, are concerned about what the money will buy and whether the investment in additional tax dollars will be well spent. For them, the ballot choices are more difficult.

BUT THE OBSERVER realizes that in this age of tax revolt there are some voters who are concerned only about the higher price tag and don't really care what the money will buy.

For the tax-weary resident, Proposition I means only one thing — an added tax cost of $55 next year for the average homeowner. (Average, for this purpose, means the owner of a $70,000 home).

Proposition II likewise means only one thing an additional $23 next year — and Proposition III for the average homeowner means an additional $15 in taxes next year.

These numbers add up to $93 more in school taxes to be paid next December. These numbers take into account the recent increase in state equalized

THE SCHOOLS HAVE not been talking about what will happen if all three ballot proposals fail. But, obviously, there are consequences.

Like it or not, there are more students coming into the classrooms. Even if not a single home is built in the school district during the next decade, student enrollment will increase. The students are already here — they are just going to get older, move into kindergarten and then from one grade to

The population crunch which has plagued the elementary schools is moving into the middle schools and into the high schools. The community might, somehow, halt residential growth. But it cannot stop kids from growing older.

If we don't pay for more classrooms for the additional students, how will they be educated? That question must be answered, even by tax weary citizens who don't want to pay a dime more in school

Although the school board hasn't talked about what will happen if all proposals fail, trustees do have some ideas about the consequences.

One is that the board would place some kind of proposal before voters a second time.

But if a second proposal fails, the answer might be to load up the classrooms — maybe 40 students per teacher. Another alternative would be split ses-

In fact, it would be necessary at the high school within two years to go on an extended school day plan with one group of students in class from early morning to early afternoon, and a second group from early afternoon to early evening.

The school day would be shortened by eliminating a class period. That means reduced educational offerings at a time when our world is becoming more complex and harder to understand.

BUILDINGS WOULD continue to be overcrowded, children would be bused all over the place, and boundaries would be changed year after year. The result would be continued disruption of students and families. Neighborhood schools would become a meaningless concept for many, many residents.

A sure result of the proposals' failure is that buildings already in bad shape would not be repaired. And you cannot neglect boilers and electrical wiring for long without risking the safety of stu-

Tax weary citizens can avoid higher taxes by voting "no" three times on March 27.

But that decision might well result in a higher price - consequences which should be considered before voting "no" the first time.

Keep sessions open to public

Does attorney Bert Burgoyne work for the Canton Township Board of Trustees, or does the board work for Burgoyne?

We thought we knew the answer to that one, but the closed meeting held last week by the board has led us to entertain doubts.

Burgoyne threatened to leave a special meeting called to discuss legalities of Canton's proposed zoning ordinance if the session were not closed to the public.

The agenda for that meeting designated the first portion as an open session, with the second half closed for the discussion of "pending litigation"

The Michigan Open Meetings Act allows a government body to close a meeting to the public to discuss pending litigation. But there is no requirement that the meeting must be closed.

Whether pending litigation means a lawsuit that has actually been filed or merely the threat of a lawsuit is an on-going debate.

In any case, no actual lawsuits about the proposed zoning ordinance exist, because it has not been approved by the board.

We don't know what secrets could be revealed about the legalities of threatened lawsuits.

We already know that people have threatened to sue if the ordinance is passed. We know which provisions they have threatened to sue over

DURING PUBLIC hearings about the zoning law, audience members have said they plan to sue if certain sections of the ordinance are enacted.

Anticipated defenses to anticipated lawsuits over such provisions as the farmland preservation issue have been kicked around in public for years.

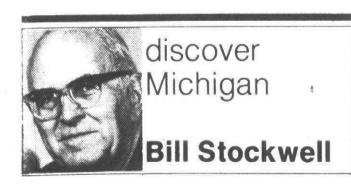

We know them. The board knows them. The public knows them.

So what's the big secret?

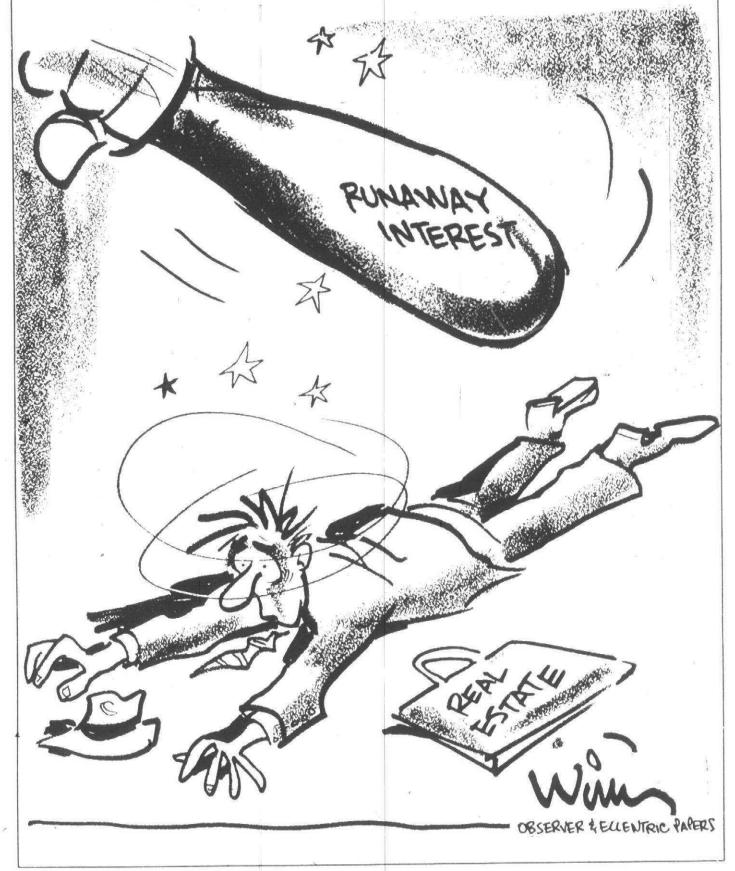

We don't expect to sit in on sessions involving specific legal strategy about existing, specific law-

We don't like to see the board taking liberties with the Open Meeting Act, especially at the advice of an attorney who is paid (handsomely) with taxpayer money.

The board, rather than cowing to Burgoyne's snit, should have kept the meeting open.

Managing our lives

(The author, John Howe, is principal of Starkweather Elementary School of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. On Feb. 26 a young student at Starkweather was badly injured when he fell while sliding down a banister. Principal's Howe's thoughts were first published in his school's newsletter but are shared here because they are important reading for all parents.)

By JOHN HOWE

A most regrettable accident occurred Feb. 26 at Starkweather School. A young student was seriously injured in a fall.

I have searched for these past days attempting to come to grips with what I might have done to have prevented such a terrible, terrible accident. I would ask all of us to consider what I have to say and all share in the responsibility.

We cannot manage another person's life. We can only help them to manage their own lives.

We choose, as adults, through a variety of methods, to control behavior of our young people. Our motives are sincere for their safety. We care and love them and we want them to be good citizens.

With these goals in mind we proceed to establish rules, methods of monitoring and methods of consequences. Still the child fails to adhere to the accept-

The adults at home, at school, and in the community set forth all of these expectations for our young people. We then proceed to be extremely disappointed in the failure of your young people to live up to our expectations. The lingering question in all of our minds: Where is the "self-discipline?"

We look at the failure as not enough rules, not enough punishment, not enough safeguards. I would share with you my feelings that these are not the reasons for our failure.

The child must have ownership through involvement in all the methods and processes determining his/her behavior. We, as adults, with our wisdom, our experiences, our understanding, must take the time to discuss the alternatives and possible consequences of the choices that our young people make in their lives.

If we, as the adult segment of the community (parent, teacher, and community citizen) take the time to assist our young people in managing their own lives, this is our greatest responsibility.

Some still may choose to do the unwise alternatives. We, then, must choose to accept their decision, being disappointed, not liking that decision, but it was their decision.

They, not us, are responsible for that choice! We take responsibility for their poor decision if we have failed to involve them in the process of understanding the alternatives over consequences of these choices.

Politics separate You expect some heckling in this business. I got some on my Feb. 11 column about why working journalists shouldn't be public officials at the same

A former Observer employee wrote:

"It was shortchanging your readers that the halfpage editorial by Tim Richard on journalists in government made no mention of the unsuccessful U.S. Senate campaign of Phil Power, chairman of the board of your newspaper's publishing corpora-

"Surely in Tim's opinion that politics and newspapering don't mix, room could have been found to include at least one paragraph on why it was different for Power — or was it different?.

"There's nothing wrong with their political involvements per se, it was just too glaring an omission that weakened the piece."

I HAVE NO qualms about discussing Phil Power. The first draft of my Feb. 11 column did discuss his career, but I cut it because the whole piece was so long.

Power bought the old Observer Newspapers, the Plymouth Mail and Farmington Enteprise in 1965-66, while still working for an outstate congressman. He took no active part in management or journalism until after the 1966 election when he left the congressman's payroll.

From 1967-77 he wrote a column called Observation Point — even won a prize or two.

He associated with a young state senator named Sander Levin and had a hand in making Levin Democratic state chairman. But he didn't cover that in Observation Point.

Power managed his wife Sarah's campaign for University of Michigan regent. But he never covered that in Observation Point.

AFTER A DOZEN years in this business, Power himself got the itch to run for public office. I share with you an internal memo I wrote just prior to his announcement late in 1977:

"Observation Point will be discontinued as long as Phil is a candidate. This decision is based on his strong belief that a candidate shouldn't be writing a column and that such a column would be construed as using his newspapers as a campaign vehicle."

While he was campaigning in 1977-8, Power cleaned out his office and took no active role in either the editorial or the management sides of this newspaper.

NO ONE ASKED, but I'll tell you an experience I had covering that primary.

One day, local Democrats held a forum for all senate candidates. Frankly the situation caused some discomfort. How do you cover your former boss and longtime associate?

There were two good audience questions which all candidates had a crack at answering. So I wrote two separate stories on their views and quoted them in the order in which they had spoken, giving them all approximately equal space. In one story Power spoke first; in the other, last.

That was the way it happened, and that is the way our readers got the story.

The ex-employee who wrote last week boasts of his own political involvement in an area where he is a journalist. Well, that's his legal right. In a bygone era, most politicians saw it that way.

BUT TIMES CHANGE. Today it's sometimes necessary to rise above mere legalism. The profesional journalists' code of ethics says:

"Secondary employment, political involvement, holding public office and service in community organizations should be avoided if it compromises the integrity of journalists and their employers.

"Their responsibilities to the public are paramount. That is the nature of their profession.' Power himself said those would be his ethics in his first column more than a dozen years ago: "These newspapers will be run as newspapers, not as a vehicle for any one group, party, organization or individual. For a newspaper must serve the public as a whole and not just one segment." And in his last column in 1977, he reiterated them: "I'm running for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate seat that opens up in 1978, and I believe it would be both improper and unfair to continue writing a newspaperman's column while at the same time acting like a politician. "Continuing to write my column while running for election would abuse the ethics of a newsman's trade as well as the integrity of this newspaper and the professionalism of its staff."

That sums it up.

An A (red) filter darkens the sky, highlighting the fleecy clouds and contrasts them with the dark, weathered angles of the abandoned house. This photo was a prize winner for Monte Nagler.

Darkened sky adds impact

We all recognize that darkened skies add impact and drama to our photographs. This is true for both color and black-and-white film.

Let's talk about black-and-white today, starting with some basics on light and color.

White light (sunlight) consists of a mixture of three primary colors.

A barn appears red to your eye because, when the barn is struck by white light, only red is reflected — blue and green are absorbed. Similarly, a red filter appears red because it transmits only red light while absorbing the blue and green. Filters always absorb (subtract) some of the light reflected from a scene before the light reaches the film in your camera.

The color which is absorbed has less density on the negative and hence appears darker in the finished print. This is the concept of how you can darken blue skies in your black-and-white photographs. FILTERS FROM YELLOW through orange and red all absorb varying amounts of blue in a blue sky. The resulting darkness in the final print will vary in proportion.

A yellow filter will produce a normal looking sky. An orange filter will produce a darker than normal sky. And a red filter absorbs all blue light and will produce an almost black sky.

Remember that clouds are white, and so filters will not affect them. What happens is that the value separation between the clouds and sky will increase, giving your photo very dramatic results.

I took the accompanying photo with an A (deep red) filter. Darkening the sky made the clouds stand out, and I wanted the fleecy white of the clouds to contrast to the weathered angles of the empty house and the tumbledown fence.

If you shoot color, you can darken the sky by using a polarizer filter. It cuts haze, eliminates reflections and darkens a blue sky.

BECAUSE A FILTER cuts the amount of light reaching the film, you must increase your exposure to obtain proper results.

The amount of increase is expresed by a number called a "filter factor." The factor varies according to the color and density of the filter.

This increase in exposure can be obtained by using either a larger lens opening or a longer shutte speed. However, while a basic understanding of filter factors is important, all cameras with through-the-lens metering systems automatically compensate for filter factors, and you will obtain the correct exposure.

So, black-and-white fans, invest a few dollars in some yellow, orange or red filters and make those skies more dramatic.

Listening to accolades got her act together

There was this woman. She had a million problems with few solutions. Whenever anyone complimented her on her accomplishments, she looked behind her to meet the fantastic person they praised.

"Me?" she'd shrug. "I just simply did it."

No bravado, No enthusiasm. Just work.
The problems depressed her, so she tried a psychiatrist. One-way conversations were a bore. She fled the couch.

It was vanity to look in a mirror; adding more faults to her escalating list wasn't what she needed. Besides, she really didn't like what she saw. She began side-stepping mirrors.

FASHIONS WEREN'T for this lady either. How idiotic to be preoccupied with what material to cover a naked body, she mused.

Anyway, her dress size kept increasing while the styles kept decreasing. A dress in a size 20, regardless of elegant material, too closely resembles a tent. Besides, trying it on was a chore, especially trapped in a dressing room with a mirror. Forget

Life was a turntable of monotony — all her husband's fault, of course. He never let her do anything and never suggested anything she might like to do. Obviously she hadn't married a seer.

THEN SOMETHING happened. She realized that if some persons took the time to say a kind word, they must have felt something which they had wanted to express. Maybe there was truth to their accolades, and she was really accomplishing worders.

Next discovery — what she had accomplished. By taking things one at a time, she could appreciate her own efforts and polish each to a gem-like quality. Anyone knows trying to digest an entire meal at one time either leads to choking to death or at best survival with acute indigestion.

Without noticing it, she started to lose weight. Outside working hours had kept her away from the dinner table and only permitted a late evening snack of salad or fruit.

Lunch time was the piece de resistance. Hearty. Nutritious. Relaxed.

Before the lady knew, she was searching the racks for size 14 and enjoying every minute.

THE THOUGHT also occurred to our blossoming friend that her husband might anticipate her wishes if she'd communicate verbally.

What prevented her from saving and planning for the out-of-town trip of her dreams?

Only herself. The essence of the situation had been that her husband had never vetoed anything she wanted to do. So when she decided to visit their college daughter, while he chose to stay on the job, the escort to the airport was none other than her husband, kissing her with customary ardor at the gate.

Now this woman had a million solutions and few problems. The other day she looked in the mirror and said to me:

"It's about time you got your act together!"

Steady Taylor cagers scalp Chiefs, 57-51

By BRAD EMONS

A patient and slowed offense proved to be the difference Wednesday night as Taylor Center downed Plymouth Canton, 57-51, in the first round of the basketball regional at Ypsilanti.

The Cinderella Rams, now 16-7 overall, took charge in the opening quarter by shredding Canton's zone defense.

The Chiefs, who ended the year at 17-7, were within two points on numerous occasions but never really controlled the tempo of the game.

Taylor Center jumped out to a 16-10 first-quarter lead, as senior twin guards Barry and Brian Griesinger punched holes through the Chiefs' zone.

"Our game plan was to get ahead and slow them down," said Taylor coach Wayne Hamilton, who, incidentally, lives in Canton.

"I'm surprised we got the ball in," he said. "We are usually an attack team." All we do during practice is drill. We do not work at all on our man offense."

In the second quarter, Canton was forced to abandon its zone in favor of a man-to-man. It seemed to pick up the Chiefs as they cut Taylor's lead to four at half-time, 26-22.

Canton closed the gap to two points on three different occasions in the third quarter. The Griesinger twins, however, ran their spread offense smartly to perfection keeping Canton away from

"They did not let us gain the momentum," said Canton coach Craig Bell. "They had a fine pair of guards who are intelligent and handled it.

"We maybe did not react outside. We did not create a tempo."

The Griesinger twins, whose class standings are number one and sixth, combined for 17 points. Jim Schafranek, a 6-foot-5 center, paced all scorers with 16.

"They worked so hard," said Hamilton of his team. "We felt we haven't reached our peak yet."

Taylor hurt the Chiefs with its torrid outside shooting. The Rams hit 23 of 37 from the floor for 62 percent. Junior Canton forged to within four, 44-40, midway through the fourth quarter after setting up a full court press. Junior guard Dave Malek caused problems in Taylor's backcourt, but the Chiefs could never substantiate a big drive.

"I'm super proud of our season," said Bell. "We are grateful to our seniors who gave us leadership. We are looking forward to our young people to carry on a tradition they have established."

with a 386 point total at the meet held at Farmington Harrison High School. Northville placed second in the meet (277 points), Livonia Churchill third (210) and Harrison took fourth (177).

Peterson and Hurley aided the Canton tankers by claiming two individual, first-place clockings as well as teaming with Jeff Seippel and Mike Sherwood for first place in the medley relay

Peterson's two first-place honors came as results of the 100-yard butterfly (53.1), where the state champion set both a league meet record and a new record for the Harrison pool, and the 100-yard breast stroke (1:01.3).

For Hurley the first-place finishes were earned in the 100-yard freestyle (50.2) and the 200-yard individual medley (2:05.8).

Other top finishers for the Canton squad included senior Keith Greenleaf, who earned a second-place finish in the 200-yard freestyle (1:56.7) and a thirdplace time in the 500-yard free style

Along with Peterson's first place in the 100-yard butterfly, the Canton team took a clean sweep as Pete Stern placed second (1:00.0), Joe Gibbons took third (1:05.2) and Ryan Smith came in fourth (1:05.5).

Dick Scott's Plymouth High School "Players of the Week" feature continues this week. Each week one Salem and one Canton player will be saluted for their efforts the previous week with their names engraved on a trophy for display at the high schools. Players will be selected by the coaching staffs of the respective schools. Look for this ad every Thursday. For that "Winning Deal" on a new or used car, see Dick Scott Buick.

Seventy-eight members of the youth league at Cloverlanes went on a strike spree last month; and when they finished they had raised $2,855 in the Bowl-A-Thon for the American Lung Association.

This was one of the most unusual events of the season in that the young bowlers were asked to get as many persons as possible to pledge money for each pin knocked down on one day of their league play.

The overall winner was Scott Minnik, 14 years old, who collected $223. Second place went to 8-year-old Kelly Echols, of Westland with $223. Douglas Wood, also 8 and of Westland, collected $146 and was named third-place at Westland Bowl last week. Not one of the army of bowlers broke the 700 bar-

Funds raised by the bowlers will help support the American Lung Association's summer camp for asthmatic children and other community services.

The closest any one came was Bob Schmidt who posted a 680 with a 264 middle game. Dale Wilkie followed with 670 and John Vaughn landed third

In the women's portion of the classic, Brenda Evans had a 225 in 585, Aleta Rzepecki was next with 576 and Julie Zimmerman trailed the two leaders

In the Monday all-star league, Dave Wilson, had an odd series. He started with a 286 and followed with games of 165 and 184 for 635.

MARY MOHACSI moved back in to the winner's circle in the ladies classic at Garden Lanes, but she had to fight off Alesa Kastle in the final frames.

Mary posted a 607 and won the duel by eight pins. Barb Garlow landed third A RATHER peculiar thing happened with 588 while Marge Wurth had a 583 and Marion Winter a 579.

In the Wayne County League Chet Senne showed the way with a 645. Ray Lindeman was next with 631.

One of the week's features at the Garden was supplied by Bill Wrenn when he converted the 4-6-7-10.

In the other leagues, Danny Cunningham paced the St. Linus group with 622 and West La Pals was high among the Swingers with 650.

THE EAGLES national tournament will hold forth at Cloverlanes for the next 14 weekends. This is the first of several national events to be held in the Detroit area.

IN THE INVITATIONAL doubles at Merri-Bowl, Charlotte Klencon had things much her own way and paced the field with a 616. Her closest rival was Ann Bogenschutz with a 592 and Virginia Lenk was one pin behind in third place.

MARCH

In the ladies classic, Ann Troke was high with 576 and Monica Trzaskos rolled a 257 high single to win the Black Velvet competition.

MARION HEATH made the most of her 30-pin spot to take tops honors in the Livonia Ladies Classic. She won the third game with 212-30-242 and the series with 558-90-648.

In the other games, Madelyn Donehue won the first with 189-32-221 and Doris Macorkindale took the second with 183-33-216.

THE KEGLERETTES furnished one of the unusual happenings of the week when Sandi Sanders and Patty Cunningham finished in a 507 deadlock at Woodland Lanes.

In the other loops, Dan Nick ran away with top honors when he posted a 234 in 615 in the junior house league. Emil Magier was well on his way with games of 215 and 200, but lost his chance at the lead with a final game of 169 for 584.

the 50-yard freestyle (23.6) and Seippel placed fourth in the 200 yard I.M. (2:20.9) and third in the 100 yard backstroke (1:03.3). Troy Haarala made a good showing for the Chiefs with a second-place clocking in the 500-yard freestyle (5:23.6)and a third-place mark in the 200-yard freestyle (1:56.7).

In the diving competition Canton's Mark Bennett placed fifth with 253.8 points and Steve Gaggi placed seventh at 235. First place was given to Northville at 341.3 total points.

The championship Canton swimmers also claimed a first-place finish in the freestyle relay combining the talents of Sherwood, Stern, Haarala and Jeff Rice for a clocking of 3:31.9.

"I'm really pleased with the season we've had," said Canton coach Bill Hahn. "It's been super with a 10-2 record overall and an undefeated finish in the Western-6.

Peterson and Hurley along with Sherwood and Seippel will travel to Michigan State University for the state meet this weekend. The foursome will compete in the medley relay and Peterson will try to defend his state title in the butterfly and breast stroke events and Hurley will compete in the I.M. and freestyle events.

"Both are tough swimmers and will do the best they can on that day," said Hahn. "If Hurley continues to bring down his times like he has been doing, he will probably place."

"But it becomes apparent that the state will need help from local governments and private businesses to develop public parking lots at their malls and shopping centers for people who want to share rides. Or, 25." at least not discourage parking in their lots."

This home shelters un-wed mothers

Second of two articles.

Awkwardly, she took the fresh, new body in her arms. Her fingers traced the minute features, transmitting the image to her mind. This would be the only newborn picture she would ever have.

Tenderly she placed a kiss on the down-covered head and whispered "goodbye."

In the same hospital, another newborn was being readied for the trip home. Four years had passed since she dressed her last doll. The 15-year-old mother quickly discovered the gyrations of an infant make dressing a real baby far more difficult.

Then she nuzzled the warm, sweet baby neck and whispered: "You're mine — all mine."

BOTH YOUNG MOTHERS are typical of the expectant residents of Marillac Hall in Farmington, ranging in age from 12-26, unmarried and in need of a sheltered environment to spend their last three months of pregnancy.

Often they come to Marillac despite their parent's offer to pay for an abortion and, 50 percent of the time, they intend to raise the child themselves.

At Marillac, they continue their high school education with accredited courses in English, history, typing, science and child care, with classes being taught by teachers from the Walled Lake School District in classrooms brightened by posters of children and bearing philosophical thoughts.

The atmosphere at Marillac is as cheerful as sunshine, an illusion created by Sister Mary Patricia, administrator for the home, by the use of shades of yellow in the decorating scheme. Books and periodicals on infant and child care are placed in various rooms.

The day I visited, several girls were sprawled on couches in the television lounge while others wrapped around a kitchen table. A chapel is available for those who wish to use it. Although run by the Sisters of Charity, the facility is non-denomina-

Marillac girls are seen on a one-to-one basis by a social worker, a psychological consultant and an adoption agency worker (Marillac does not handle adoptions). Prenatal care is provided by Providence Hospital doctors.

On delivery day, the soon-to-be mother is accompanied to the ambulance by her resident friends, wearing the scapular medal Sister Patricia awards each girl as a badge of honor for having reached her ninth month.

AN IMPORTANT part of Marillac is the Louise Program. Only eight girls can be accommodated in the Louise Program which provides care for a young mother and her baby when conditions have become difficult at home.

A teenage mother who has kept her baby may find infant care and school work an impossible task with little support from parents who didn't want her to keep the child. A time such as this is fertile for growing the conditions of child abuse.

In the Louise Program, the mother returns to Marillac with her baby and shares a dorm separate from the expectant mothers. During the day, she attends high school classes at Marillac with extra courses on child care.

One hour a day must be spent in the play room, participating in day care. The play roof has every toy conceivable for toddler play. The mother eats with her child in the dining room. She also works with a social worker and psychologist to learn how to manage her life.

"We direct ourselves to the child. We say, 'You're in the world now and we're going to help you. You're the future generation, tomorrow's leaders." We've got to help," says Sister Mary Patricia, who has committed herself to preserving the program despite increasing financial strain.

The United Foundation extends itself to the prenatal program, which has been forced to expand with this week marking the addition of eight new places in an effort to diminsh the waiting list for Marillac. Financially, the Louise Program is anoth-

FOR $1.50 A DAY, YOU COULD BUY A MODEST LUNCH OR DRIVE YOUR CAR A SHORT DISTANCE.

OR HEAT THIS ENTIRE HOME.

You know the cost of natural gas has gone up in recent years because you've been paying for it. Nevertheless, the cost of heating your home with natural gas is still reasonable.

This is a fairly typical threebedroom house in Michigan: 1,200 square feet of comfortable living space. Yet the cost of heating this entire home averages out to only about $1.50 per winter day. For that same amount of money, you can hardly drive your car to and from work each day or buy a meal at a fast-food restaurant.

Yes, the cost of natural gas has increased in recent years. But, heating homes, cooking meals and warming water with natural gas uses less of the average family's spendable income now than it did 20 years ago.

Consumers Power Company is trying to keep it that way by using natural gas resources wisely. You can help, too, by being wise about the way you use natural gas in your home.

No energy is cheap today. But, when you think about how much work natural gas does for you, you'll know you're getting your money's worth.

NATURAL GAS. It's still a good buy.

Oakland still fighting light rail rapid transit

By TOM LONERGAN

As initial state funding of the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA) light rail system remains bottled up in Lansing, Oakland County officials this week repeated their opposition to the subway portion of the plan.

At a news conference Monday, County Executive Daniel T. Murphy said the county would launch a petition drive for a ballot referendum on the funding of SEMTA's expected operating deficit should the Michigan Legislature "attempt to circumvent a vote of the people affected on this most important matter."

If need be, Murphy said, a petition campaign would be started this year. SEMTA may put the funding issue before voters in Oakland, Wayne Macomb counties during or before 1982.

"Among plans being considered are funding SEMTA through the personal income tax, a combined sales and use tax, a property transfer tax or an increase in the regional vehicle registration and title transfer tax. The vehicle and title transfer taxes currently provide SEMTA's operating funds. SEMTA plans a poll to be taken of residents in Oakland, Wayne and Macomb counties on the funding issue.

MURPHY, WHO believes county residents will pay to operate the proposed subway-surface light rail system but not use it very often, said some state lawmakers have been proposing the SEMTA operating deficit be funded in a way to avoid a regional vote.

He said State Rep. William Ryan, D-Detroit, "is obviously the leader to avoid it (the deficit funding issue) coming to a vote of the people."

Ryan, chairman of the House Urban Affairs Committee and long one of the more influential Detroit representatives, called Murphy's statement "mali-

"He has to be acting in full knowledge that he's lying," Ryan said in a phone interview Tuesday. Ryan said he met last month with Patrick Nowak, a deputy county executive, on the deficit funding issue.

Ryan said his "bottom line" is should an increase in the regional SEMTA tax be proposed, "Headlee (the tax limitation amendment passed in 1978) says there has to be a referendum. I have no problem with that."

Ryan said he prefers that the "nature" of the SEMTA regional tax be switched to a tax "based on income or property." He said there should be "increased state assistance" for SEMTA.

WHILE SEMTA'S projected deficit is not the current issue in the legislature, Murphy said it is key because the regional transportation authority won't receive federal funding to construct the subway-surface light rail line along Woodward Avenue until it shows how a Detroit.

projected $70 million operating deficit in 1990 will-be paid.

SEMTA is eyeing a possible $900 million federal subsidy for the estimated $1.5 billion regional transportation plan. The federal government is expected to fund 80 percent of the plan's capital cost; the state, 20 percent.

The House is considering initial state funding - in the form of preliminary engineering funds - for the light rail system which is proposed to run underground between dowtown Detroit and McNichols (Six Mile) Road, and on surface to Ten Mile Road in Royal Oak.

Most subway opponents see the vote as their last chance to scuttle or reduce the length of the subway.

The light rail system is the main cog of SEMTA's regional plan which would also increase large andsmall bus service in western Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties and increase commuter rail servicebetween Pontiac and

ALSO AT Monday's press conference were Board of Commissioners Chairman Wallace Gabler, R-Royal Oak, Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson, Clerk Lynn Allen, Treasurer Hugh Dohany and Drain Commissioner George Kuhn. The Republican officials, elected countywide, signed a statement urging state representatives from Oakland to oppose the preliminary engineering money for the subway system. The state has been asked to provide $4 million for a proposed $20 million engineering study. Although the remainder would come from the federal government, state approval is required before SEMTA can apply for a $16 million federal grant.

The proposal now before the house would free some $2.3 million for the

Tuning the big ones takes a good ear

By W.W. EDGAR

Life can take some odd twists.

Few persons have traveled a more unusual route than Francois Paradis who has been a resident of Plymouth for the past three years.

Born in Montreal, he came to Detroit with his parents in 1926 and was an elevator boy in the Buhl Building in Detroit, a telegraph operator for the Michigan Central Railroad and has been an organ tuner for the past 35

"It's a funny thing," he said while sitting in the living room of his Lake Pointe apartment, "but being a telegraph operator of the old school and tuning organs have a lot in common.

"Both are dependent upon the ear for the right sounds, and I have not only worked on the railroad, but have helped to tune some of the biggest organs in the country, including the famous organ in the Mormon Tabernac-

"One day I had Henry Ford, Thomas Edison, Walter O. Briggs, the Fisher boys and several others of the auto industry in the elevator; and I don't know of a moment I enjoyed more than that until I worked on the Mormon organ."

He revealed that the Mormon organ that has thrilled thousands is not the largest organ in the country.

"It has 186 ranks with 68 pipes in a rank. But the largest organ is what they call a monstrosity - the famed organ in Wanamakers in Philadelphia. It has 435 ranks and is one of the most difficult instruments in the country to tune. The other large organ in this country is the Riverside in New York. It has 210 ranks and I have worked on

There was a time, he said, when organs were a part of many homes, especially among the wealthy. That fad has passed, and 75 percent of the organs are found in churches, while concert halls, colleges and millionaires' homes also boast organs.

WHEN HIS family moved to Detroit in 1926, Paradis' father, who loved music, joined the Chrysler choir and his

a musical family."

It was during his career as a telegraph operator that he met an old friend of the family, Joseph August Hebert, a representative of an organ company. He was invited to join the old friend in the repair of organs, and from there he began tuning them.

Recalling the thrill of working on the Mormon organ, Paradis said that the instrument needed an overhauling some years ago and was sent to the factory in Dorcester, Mass.

"We worked in a room that had a 90-foot ceiling. That's what it took to accomodate the organ. And it was a thrill every minute. I worked on a lot of organs in my time, but that one gave me the biggest thrill."

Now, 70 years old, Paradis keeps busy traveling the country to work on the "pipes," as he calls them.

"There's not many of us left anymore. The young generation has no desire for such a career. So I manage to

Soaring money stifles stocks

A resumption of spiraling interest rates has caused an abrupt change in investor sentiment

Suddenly, after a euphoric rise in stock prices in the early weeks of the year, the stock market has plunged into a decline that has witnessed serious erosion of prices under near-panic con-

The prime rate was holding steady around the 15 percent mark, and there was hope that the peak in interest rates had been seen.

The Federal Reserve Board, however, concerned about the unabated inflation that continues to ravage the economy, saw fit to increase the discount rate a full 1 percent, from 12 percent to 13 percent. The nation's banks quickly followed by raising the prime rate several notches to the current level of 17.75

THESE HISTORICALLY high rates of interest have had a devastating effect on the prices of bonds and incomeproducing stocks

As water seeks its own level, the prices of investment vehicles will rise or fall as necessary to adjust to any change in the current level of interest

Under present conditions, the prices of existing securities have fallen to compensate for the rise in the rate of

The bond market has suffered most. Bonds are straight-forward, cut-anddried investment tools, the prices of which are affected by only two things a company's ability to meet the terms of the obligation, and any changes in interest rates. A bond represents a definite agreement between the borrower and the lender with regard to the amount of annual interest that is to be paid and the exact date upon which the debt will mature.

Unlike common stocks - where the rate of dividend return may be changed for better or worse, depending upon the fortunes of the company - bond interest is a fixed amount and will never be changed during the life of the bond.

Logically, then, all bonds issued at lower rates of interest over past years whose maturity is still in the future are currently selling at discounts from their par value.

THE CONTINUING pressure on money rates is being caused by the relentless demand for borrowed funds.

It is a condition which, to some extent, is feeding on itself because of the fear psychology nurtured by inflationary conditions. Consumers, faced with the fact that tomorrow's prices are likely to be higher than today's, are rushing to buy now.

Realizing that the dollar is losing purchasing power, people are willing to borrow money at exorbitantly high interest rates, figuring that the greater expense will be justified by the cheaper dollars they will be paying as the debt is retired.

The White House has indicated it will announce shortly a plan to attempt to bring this serious problem under control. It has been suggested that various credit controls will be imposed that will force a reduction in the demand for borrowed funds.

However it is implemented, whether through controls or natural market forces, it obviously is a condition that must be corrected.

SOME OF THESE young women are amazing. Tuesday's Symphony League luncheon was an example.

There was a time, back in the early days of the league, when we had spring luncheons at the Methodist Church, with the food prepared by the United Methodist Women. I remember a party on Fran Bowlby's lawn when the Allegro group prepared fancy strawberry tortes for the dessert.

Not so today. The food served at the luncheon was preapred entirely by the league members. They cooked 200 pounds of chicken for a delicious chicken salad. They baked dozens of loaves of fruit bread banana, banana nut blueberry, cranberry - you name it.

Barbara King and Theresa Johnson chaired the food committee and Barbara, herself, baked hundreds of flaky tart shells for the dessert. They were filled and topped with whipped cream at the Plymouth Cultural Center, the site of the luncheon. The carrots were handcurled and even the pickles were homemade.

And it was so nicely served in round wicker baskets. The bowl of chicken salad was nested in a lacy paper doily, garnished with celery sticks and carrot curls, with two pieces of fruit bread.

And everyone could take their basket home. No wonder they are making more money for the symphony than we ever dreamed of. They really work at it.

Enclosed in a specially made certificate was a one-way ticket to London on a Polish freighter. Jack's reaction to the gift was everything the perpetrators could have imagined and hoped for.

He still gets a little misty-eyed when he talks about it: "And what was most important, that little Jeannie Jabara walked all the way to my table to make the presenta-

Picture driving out west on a summer vacation and approaching what would seem to be a progressive small city - population 37,000.

But this community is different. Suburban lawns sprout old-fashioned clothes lines. Paved, asphalt streets narrower are than expected. New homes are not lined up in neat rows but are situated at different angles to each

Bikes are everywhere and their riders aren't limited to teens and children. Men and women, dressed for work, are among those riding the multitude of bike paths criss-crossing the town. And the suburban homes are marked by strange panel-like configurations lying on the sloped roofs.

Fiction? Not at all.

It's Davis, Calif., where 27,000 bikes have replaced cars; where asphalt streets have narrowed to conserve on the use of the petroleum-based product and to slow cars' speeds; where solar collectors are part of the landscape and where city politicians and employees ride bikes as far as 30 miles to attend meetings.

And Davis is just one example of how one city decided to cut its energy con-

"THIS IS AN EXAMPLE of doing

Wright, an energy expert who was recently speaking to the members of the Plymouth Study Club.

Ms. Wright of Plymouth, in a talk titled, "The Other Side of our Energy Picture," presented insight into the energy use in the United States, both historically and in the future.

"We have been on a 20-year energyuse cycle here," said Ms. Wright. "First it was wood in the 1950s. Then we graduated to coal, followed by oil. Our use of oil peaked in 1976, while its actual production had peaked in 1970. We will never attain that level again," she said.

Through the use of graphs, Ms. Wright demonstrated production and use of energy. She pointed out that the United States produces only one-half the amount of oil it uses and depends on foreign sources for the rest. Alternatives, she pointed out are the only answer to the shortage.

"It doesn't have to be dramatic new concepts," she said. "It can be things as simple as buttoning up your house, caulking, weatherstripping, and additional insulation.

"TRY READING your own electric meter," she advised. "This helps people become aware of their consumption of electricty, and you can have better control over what you use.'

She told the study club members that the United States continues to look for more with what you have," said Penny new energy sources, because "our appetite continues to double." But new finds will be meaningless, she said.

She cited this example: A lucrative $1 billion fishing industry off the coast of Cape Cod is being threatened by companies wanting to lease the area from the United States government for off-shore drilling.

After studying the total production of oil from the area, it has been found that a total of 123 million barrels of oil will be found. While this is seemingly a vast quantity, it will supply the needs of this country for only one week.

"Meanwhile," said Ms. Wright, "a billion dollar industry is threatened, along with the possibility of polluted water and the loss of other resources."

There are alternatives to this "hard energy path." To continue along this path at its present pace, Ms. Wright outlined our needs by the year 2000. She said we would have to add 900 new oil wells off-shore, 170 new coal mines, 100 new uranium mines, one new enrichment plant, 40 fuel fabrication plants, three fuel reprocessing plants, 450-800 reactors, 500-800 coal-fired stations, 1,000-6,000 coal mines, and 15 million electric automobiles.

A soft energy path in technology will have to be followed, she advocated.

"THIS WILL involve using coal and oil sparingly, and a return to the renewable energy sources of water, wind, and solar power." For an example, she pointed out the building of 32 windmills on the island of Oahu, Hawaii.

De-centralizing power plants is another reasonable move, and has been conducted in some American cities such as Seattle. Lighter, more fuel efficient cars will continue to be an important measure. Turning to the industrial sector of this country, she pointed out that just by turning off a machine that is not working can save both money and energy. She cited the Dow Chemical plant in Midrand as a model.

Dow can now produce its same products using 40 percent less energy than it did at one time.

Heat generated in the production of electricity is being used to heat the building on Manhattan, she said. And companies that have to generate steam are using the "wasted" heat to heat their buildings.

"We have two different mentalities, here," said Ms. Wright. "One is the throw-away mentality of the hard energy technology path. The other is the 'do more with what you have' mentality. But the two won't co-exist. If you have billions of dollars spent for the hard technology, there won't be any left for soft technology

"Conservation doesn't have to throw us back into the Middle Ages. We can live comfortably with what we have."

Kate Courtney, interior designer, had just told them, "We are getting away from the earth tones.

More than 230 women gathered for the Plymouth Symphony League's spring luncheon, "Interior Trends '80," in the Plymouth Cultural Center. Ms. Courtney of Hudson's Design Studio, Westland, moderated the home interior spring fashion show. She used a series of slides to illustrate the importance of color in the home. The designer listed the new colors: vellow, burgundy, navy blue with white. "Red is back and purple is popular again," she said. One of her slides showed a small room treated two ways. It was furnished with low, on-the-floor contemporary furniture and again in traditional

"A SMALL ROOM does not have to be monotonous," she stressed. "There is a renewed interest in country and antiques and a big stress on comfortable ·furniture. In buying a new piece of furniture, be aware of its functions. Think in terms of where else it can go. Can it be used in a hallway, also as a nightstand? Mixing is the trend. There is no hard and fast rule that everything should match."

She said contemporary furniture is thought of as a form of sculpture.

"Don't end up in a time zone. You don't have to use what's being shown. I can always tell a 1975 room. Combine, mix woods, use every resource available and don't be afraid to talk to an interior designer. We are flexible; we want your environment to suit your personality."

QUESTIONS FOR a panel of decorators had been submitted in advance.

The query, "Is there a rule of thumb for hanging pictures?" was answered by Laura Kaminsky of Miller Kaminsky Interiors in the Forest Place Mall.

"Start at eye level," she advised.

Someone else wanted to know, "Is it true the best way to start decorating is with the carpet?" Ms. Kaminsky answered that it was a good place to start. Her response to "How would you use lighting to dramatize a room?" was suggestions about track lighting, recessed lighting and on-the-floor lighting of plants.

GARY BEGLINGER of garey b. interiors was asked, "What does a renovation specialist do?"

She said she was an expert at "desperate decorating" which she described as great need and no money.

In answer to the question, "Is buying an old house more practical than buying a new one?" she replied, "Perhaps you have to be a little kooky to renovate. If you're thinking of going into an old house, go to someone who can find out if it is structurally sound."

She described some charming rooms that had been created in older homes after stripping floors and woodwork. Someone wanted to know if vinyl tile could be painted. Ms. Beglinger said she had painted both vinyl and plastic tile floors.

"I covered the vinyl with epoxy paint first and didn't like the result, so I brushed on a semi-gloss then rolled it. It was beautiful and it lasted. I put a coat of something to make the plastic tile tacky before using the same painting method, first with a brush then rolled.'

PAULINE Varilone of Plymouth Furniture responded to questions about how to decorate with baskets and decorating for the country look. She suggested "doing the display on the floor before arranging it on the wall. And straw hats go well with the basket arrangement. She explained the difference between Country English and the more formal

Refunders play their version of 'Make a Deal'

Trash collecting is alive and well in Canton Township. I'm not referring to the truck that comes rolling up to the curb on varying days depending on your address. The trash collecters I'm talking about are those of us who diligently save labels, box tops, bottoms, sides, etc. UPC symbols, and anything else off the product's package that we feel may someday bring us a fortune.

Not a large fortune, but every little bit helps. There is now a monthly meeting of those interested in coupons and refunds. The last meeting found about 25 women gathered at the Canton Center-Cherry Hill Fire Station playing their own version of "Let's Make A Deal."

While most of the ladies in the coupon-refund exchange group are from Canton, some came from Plymouth, Wayne and Westland. The group is open to all who share this interest, and the next meeting will be 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, March 19. They will meet again at the fire station at Canton Center Road and Cherry Hill Road.

HOLLOWAY'S Old Fashion Bakery was the site of a recent Brownie outing. Co-leaders Lily Gyorke, Monica Maycock, and Phyllis Mulholland took Brownie Troop 250 of Our Lady of Good Counsel Church on the field trip.

Holloway's is a family business, operated by a husband and wife team. The day of the tour, however, a sick child required his mother's care, and "Rich the Baker" had to man the shop alone. Mrs. Gyorke said they thus expected the tour would be shortened, but were very pleasantly surprised when the tour lasted almost two hours.

The girls were shown the mixers. ovens, and ingredients, and their many questions were cheerfully answered. And who can tour a bakery without getting hungry? The girls were treated to jelly doughnuts, and Rich had made a big bag of butter cookies especially for the troop. Each girl was allowed to fill a cookie bag to take home.

Beth Chapman, one of the Brownies, had just had a birthday. Beth was 8, but it was actually a rather rare occasion since Beth's birthday is Feb. 29. In honor of the event, the bakery gave Beth a beautifully decorated Big Bird cake.

And there was one more special treat in store for the group. Each child was given a number, and a lucky

Brownie won a decorated cake. All in all, it was a very special field trip for which Brownie Troop, 250 is very grateful to "Rich the Baker."

The girls who enjoyed the trip were:

Debbie Abbot, Donna Baumgartner. Kerry Bidolli, Beth Chapman, Diane Farnell, Natalie Franks, Becki Gazigan, Ellen Gyorke, Jennifer Kinnick, Sandy Maciarz, and Julie Was.

and cookies were: Natalie Maycock, Angela Mazur, Karen Mulholland, Jennifer Mullen, Katie Padilla, Missy Page, Amy Smith, Amy Yoe, Tracy Zebley, and Raelene Ziemba.

NEWS OF YET another surprise birthday party has surfaced. This time the happy "victim" was Carol Koesel of Sylvania, Ohio. Carol moved to Ohio several months ago, but is still very active with her friends.

Thus it was planned that Sue Law-Ohio and celebrate Carol's birthday by the three of them going to lunch. But Also enjoying the tour, doughnuts, Sue and Bobbie actually had other plans. Not only had they come to Carol's, but they had also brought Mary Moore, Jan Brawn, Ginny Koon, Carol Shaw and Kathy Freece.

So, while Sue L., Bobbie R. and Carol Koesel were discussing where to go for lunch, the other ladies rang the door bell, and with arms laden with the lunch they had brought from Canton, chorused: "Surprise"!

After a lunch of stuffed shells, salad, pumpernickel rolls, wine, and rum cake, Carol opened gifts which the larence and Bobbie Ryan would drive to dies had brought. An afternoon bridge was enjoyed before the return trip to

April 18 is deadline to apply for arts grant

Graduating high school seniors have until April 18 to submit applications for a Joanne Winkleman Hulce arts award. Two awards of $500 each are given annually by the Plymouth Community Arts Council honoring Joanne Hulce, arts council founder.

The graduating seniors must display exceptional ability in an artistic field and desire to continue their educations in that field. The PCAC has announced that a broad spectrum of the arts will be considered: drama, dance, painting, sculpture, ceramics, textiles, graphics, photography, design, vocal and instrumental music and the literary arts.

A committee of five persons with artistic backgrounds has been appointed by the PCAC board to act as judges for the 1980 awards.

IN FILING an application for a grant, the following information should be included:

· Applicant's name, address and telephone number. Applicants must live in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools District, but can attend private schools as well as the two local high schools.

· A letter from applicant giving background information on his or her artistic field and plans for continuing education in that field. A personal profile telling why applicant feels qualified for the award.

· Two letters of recommendation, from a teacher and another person closely associated with the student's artistic ability. Two representative pieces of work must be submitted. Applicants involved in the performing arts must be prepared to perform for the committee.

Applications can be mailed to: The Plymouth Community Arts Council, JWH Award, 332 S. Main Street, Plymouth, Michigan 48170.

FINALISTS WILL be interviewed the second week in May.

Winners will be announced and awards given at the PCAC annual meeting. The winners will be requested to be present and have their work on display or to perform.

Information about the awards have been sent to schools in the area. Interested seniors are urged to inquire at their high school or call the PCAC office, 455-5260, Monday through Thursday mornings.

'Keeping Your Balance' topic of women's session

Women are taking on many new re-

As they do, though, they rarely shed the old obligations.

Trying to help working women with families cope is the goal of "Keeping Your Balance," a program to be offered March 15 by the Continuum Center for Adult Counseling and Leadership Training.

The one-day Saturday session will be from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Holiday Inn. 26555 Telegraph. The fee is $25, including lunch and materials.

"As women add so much to their lives, they still have the old responsibilities," explained Jane Goodman, assistant director and Coordinator of the Career Project.

"We're balancing many roles," said the Detroit woman. "And it seems everyone around us does it so easily."

Leading the program will be Judy Hoppin of Beverly Hills, a private theranist and Continuum Center counselor. A panel of professionals will be on hand to talk about trying to balance career and family or school and family.

"Women with two jobs, inside and outside the home, often put unrealistic demands upon themselves because they don't establish priorities," Mrs. Hoppin first went back to school and then to

"They work at the office, then at home. Only after all that is done do they give leftover time to themselves, if they can find any such time. They end up exhausted and resentful."

Ms.Goodman said the biggest goal of the program is for participants to leave with the understanding that Keeping Your Balance is a difficult thing to do.

"It's not that they are inadequate," she explained.

This involves changing a person's attitudes and expectations of others. The workshop will help individual's identify specific goals obstacles which keep them from meeting those goals, and how to get around them.

Also on the agenda is how to communicate goals to family members.

"Pioneering women felt they had to pretend to be superwomen. Now it's more acceptable to say 'This is hard,' " said Ms. Goodman. "There are too many of us out there now to keep pre-

Mrs. Hoppin said it took her three years to get her balance.

"I've given up unrealistic expectations of myself and my family. When I work, I announced that I wouldn't be a slave to my family anymore, but that wasn't really productive," she added.

"I worked through my angry feelings, and now I approach them differently. It's not so much a question of them taking over as it is of my giving certain things up.

"I lost/my 'guilties,' or most of then anyway!

History of dance told in Rockettes' program

Variety will be the theme for the annual Rockette Show this weekend at Plymouth Salem High School auditorium. Curtaintime will be 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, March 14 and 15 with admission $2 at the door.

The 18 Rockettes have made all the costumes and choreographed the dance routines in "The History of Dance." It begins with the can-can of the 1890s and progresses through the Charleston "In the Mood" of the '40s; "At the Hop" of the '50s; the Beatles' "Can't Buy Me Love," of the '60s; with a futuristic finale based on "Close Encounters of the Third Kind."

Squad captains Dawn Kuster and Wendy Brueckner will dance a routine and Dawn will join Mary Ann Waite and Beth Szylagyi in a pantomime

AMONG THE VARIETY acts will be Bob Shinker and his magic show; Lisa Papas, singing and playing guitar; John Gravlin and Steve Horstmann, singing and playing guitars; the C&S Express by the Canton-Salem Dance Club; and Mary Bologna and Brian Morill with a weekend update based on the television show, "Saturday Night Live."

Now you can invest your Individual Retirement Account funds in Security Bank's new 21/2-year certificates of deposit that earn at a high money market rate. The rate for March, 1980 is 12.00% and is the highest annual interest any bank or savings and loan can pay on IRA account deposits.

12.00% 21/2-Year Certificate

The minimum deposit for a 21/2-year certificate is $500 and the rate at which you open your certificate remains fixed to maturity. Interest is compounded daily and paid quarterly. (The rate on future IRA deposits may vary as determined monthly by the U.S. Treasury Department.) Existing Security Bank IRA account holders may "roll" their IRA deposits into the new 21/2-year certificate, provided six months' interest is forfeited in compliance with Federal regulations regarding early withdrawal. The certificate plan described above can also be utilized for the Simplified Employee Pension (SEP) plan.

IRA Qualifications

You qualify for an IRA tax-sheltered retirement account if you are not a participant in any employer-sponsored retirement plan. And, the contributions you make can be deducted from your taxable income, with earnings tax-deterred until retirement. By acting now and establishing a new IRA account before April 15, 1980 you can deduct your contribution from your 1979 Federal Tax Return. Full details on the contributions you can make can be explained to you when you visit your nearby Security Bank

Withdrawal without penalty may be made between age 59% and 70% or in the case of death or permanent disability. Otherwise, Federal law and regulation requires a substantial loss-of-interest penalty for early withdrawal. There is also a substantial LR.S. penalty for early withdrawal.

SC adds culinary arts wing

By TIM RICHARD

To the casual eye, the Culinary Arts addition at Schoolcraft College will look much like the rest of the Waterman Campus Center.

But it will have narrower windows to keep heat in during winter and out during summer. And the windows will be of inch-thick thermal glass.

"Our firm is very energy conscious," said e project manager Harry Diamond of Hoyem-Basso Associates as the college board of trustees gave 6-0 approval of preliminary plans. Trustee Michawl Burley of Plymouth was absent.

THE CULINARY Arts addition to the north end of the Waterman Center will be a one-story, $1.35 million project.

Construction can be started "on or before Oct. 1," said college Vice President W. Kenneth Lindner.

from 1975-9 hadn't been rejected by voters, the Culinary Arts addition would have been two stories high and contained meeting facilities and room for student and public-related groups. It would have cost $2.3 million.

The current project will be confined to expanding the Culinary Arts enrollment from 58 to about 120. The state will pick up half the construction tab, said college President C. Nelson Grote. The college's share will come from an old bond issue.

subject to review of the governor's Office of Management and Budget and the Michigan Legislature's Joint Capital Outlay Committee called "JOC," Lindner said.

"The state did an unusual thing last feet of new construction and 1,400

If several property tax proposals year," Grote said. It had a larger amount allocated for Schoolcraft's project, but when the millage lost at the polls, the state used the money elsewhere "rather than leave it idle."

Schoolcraft's money must be reallocated. "We don't have an absolute guarantee," said Grote, "but we have the word of the governor's office and

He added that Schoolcraft "won a lot of brownie points" by not insisting on its allocation last year and coming back with a redesigned project in 1980.

THE CULINARY addition's first SCHOOLCRAFT'S project is still floor will be built up six feet to match the first floor of the Waterman Center, said architect Diamond. The Waterman Center is on a knoll on the north end of the campus at 18600 Haggerty, Livosquare feet of remodeling of the existing center. That remodeling space will come from the main dining hall.

That space loss will reduce the existing dining hall's capacity by 96 persons, to 654. But college officials added that attendance at Gourmet Club dinners had been held to 500, so the loss is seen as minor.

Diamond said the new addition would have a large instructional laboratory and a demonstration laboratory. It will also contain a service training facility that can double as a sit-down dining room.

There will be offices for program director Robert Breithaupt, the faculty and a secretary. At present, Breithaupt has a cramped office, and faculty desks are in a storage room.

The building will be of steel frame construction with masonry walls, Diamond said.

DAR meets March 17

The Sarah Ann Cochrane Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution will hold its regular monthly meeting at noon Monday in the home of Mrs. Betty Urquhart, 1240 Palmer, Plym-

Mrs. Barbara Saunders, manager of the Plymouth Historical Society Museum and DAR member, will present a program called "Lineage: The Warp and Woof of Our Past."

Hostesses assisting Mrs. Urquhart for the luncheon are Mrs. Iris Kampf, Mrs. Anthony Licata, and Mrs. Pat

Annual girl scout cookie caper begins

Neighborhood girl scouts will be taking orders for cookies from now until March 25. Cookies will be delivered in April.

Six varieties of cookies and sesame crackers are available at $1.50 per box. For each box sold, 25 cents is returned to the troop to be used for troop activities.

The cookies all are guaranteed fresh and freeze well so residents are urged to take advantage of the once-a-year

Basses, tenors, needed

The Plymouth Community Chorus has sent out a call for tenors and basses. No audition is required for singers 18 or older.

The chorus rehearses at East Middle School on Mill Street, behind the school bus depot. Rehearsals are at 7:30 p.m. Tuesdays in the bandroom. Just follow the sound of good music to the source. Mike Gross is conductor and Carol Chen is accompanist.

'Annie' coming to Rosedale

Annie Oakley and friends will cavort at Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian Church of Livonia the weekend of March 21-23 when the Rosedale Players put on their ninth annual musical.

The players will present Irving Berlin's "Annie Get Your Gun" at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and at 4 p.m. Sunday in the church at Hubbard and West Chicago. Tickets for all performances are $3 for adults and $1.50 for students through high school age.

the previous Rosedale musicals, will again be in charge, assisted this year by Kathy Stage. Marilyn Hirtzel will be in the title role, and Richard Lenz and William Bowers will play Frank Butler and Buffalo Bill.

Other lead roles will be taken by Helen Thomas, who will be Dolly Tate, Merrill Thomas, as Charlie Davenport, Hank Fuchs as Pawnee Bill, John Martha Kuykendall, director of all Hirtzel as Sitting Bull and Jeane Stanley as Mrs. Potter-Porter.

> Members of the church's several choirs will sing in the choruses. As in the past, choir members and others in the church are working on constructing scenery, making costumes and setting up lights.

> Proceeds from the performances will go toward the Rosedale music program. Serious consideration is being given the purchase of a grand piano for use in the sanctuary.

The Rosedale Players' first production was "The Sound of Music" in 1971. Since then, they have offered "The Music Man," "Oklahoma," "Bye-Bye Birdie," "Of Thee I Sing," "Little Mary Sunshine," "Anything Goes," and "South

Mormons opening social service office needs of members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints is now open at 30700 Telegraph in Southfield. It will hold an open house from 6:30-8:30 p.m. Thursday, April 17.

Director of the LDS agency is O. Stanley Cole, a member of the church's Bloomfield Hills ward. He has a master's degree in social work.

The staff will serve Mormons from a wide geographic area, namely all of Michigan. Before the establishment of an agency here, all social services were processed through the LDS offices in Chicago.

Coordinator of area volunteers is Mildred Jones of Bloomfield Hills. A local volunteer is Pat Ellsworth of Livonia, who is studying for her master's degree in social work. The establishment of such a center is An office to fill the social service part of the Mormon philosophical concept that says "Church members should be self-reliant in meeting their own social and emotional needs.

It adds: "When serious and persistent problems arise that are beyond the resources of the individual or family, assistance may be sought from the church.

"At this point, there is no substitute for the inspired counsel and priesthood blessing of the home teacher, quorum president or bishop. After ward and stake resources have been used, LDS social services may be contacted."

The primary areas of help are licensed services such as adoption, foster home care and clinical services which include professional therapy for individuals and families. The center also plans to aid unwed mothers in the com-

and With Women," will be from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Thursday, March 20 at the Dombrowski Fieldhouse on the campus of the Orchard Lake Schools. The fee for workshop and materials is $10. The workshop will explore the church's attitude toward women as found in current documents and the historical context from which they have evolved. It will examine the development of the call to ministry for all Christians as revealed through scripture, tradition, and experience. The leaders, Sr. Josephine Gaugier, tion, call 682-4124.

A one-day workshop, "Ministry For Sr. Anneliese Sinnott and Janice " Brown, will attempt to integrate the position of the church toward women and the call to ministry for all within the reality of the parish.

Sr. Josephine is director of field education and Sr. Anneliese is associate dean of theology at SS. Cyril and Methodius Seminary. Mrs. Brown is involved in the hospice movement and Don't ever try calling me fatso!

"FATSO!" How dare they?

How could movie producers use such a derogatory name for a title? The name was a turn-off; so was the movie.

The entire production consisted of primarily grossly exaggerated references to food, close-ups of food, and obsession with conversations about food. It was a blatant disservice to those who suffer the pain of obesity. But worse, it was a blanket permission for society to resort to name calling, something that went out of favor with the Civil Rights

An ethnic group, the Italians, was used as the glaring example of people obsessed with food. The Italians should object - loudly.

Dom DeLuise in the lead role, basically eats and cries his way through the entire movie. It made the obese person look stupid. For example, in one scene, DeLuise decides to go to a diet doctor. When he arrives he presents the nurse with a grocery bag full of food, and says it is for the entire staff. He receives an icy stare from the nurse.

Am I being naive when I say I can't believe that anyone would ever go to a diet doctor and take food with them?

IN ANOTHER scene (following his decision to join a diet group called Chubby Checkers), DeLuise calls a group of Checkers to help him through a harrowing time of temptation. The conversation with fellow dieters gradually turns to talk of food. Eventually the groups goes on a cooking and eating binge until they fall asleep in a gluttonous state of lethargy.

Am I being naive when I say an honest group of dieters would never do this to someone crying out for help? It is a disservice to diet groups who really try to help those in distress. Diet groups should protest the movie.

The script is laced with innuendos which make all fat people appear obsessed with food every second of every day. Even though subtle at times, the references are still offensive. "Fatso" refers to "apatite" as his favorite gemstone. (Yes, there is a stone by that

In referring to his cousin who died (from obesity, naturally) he said, "He was like a mother to me. He always had something on him to eat." Later in the story he blames his mother for his fatness. "Mama did what she thought was best." I see an implication that mothers are stupid and all they know how to do is fatten up their kids.

LISBETH FISHER, who is the executive secretary for the National Association to Aid Fat Americans, told me that this organization is protesting the movie and its title. "The word is a turnoff," she said, because society has used is in a derogatory way. "We want to stop the laughter," she added."No fat person should go to see the movie. It's a reminder of the miseries you have gone through. It was so sad, it was horrible."

NAAFA is dedicated to furthering the rights of obese people in our society,(Box 43, Bellerose, New York 11426) including protesting anything demoralizing - like this movie. "We've made great strides in the last two to three years," continued Ms. Fisher. "This will be a setback."

The board of directors of NAAFA have stated, "Portions of the movie, 'Fatso,' and especially its title, are offensive to fat people, in portraying them as sterotyped compulsive overeaters who respond to life's problems only by eating everything in

"It is a depressing film, which offers little help or understanding of the problems of fat men and women," Ms. Fisher stated.

I agree.

Build a bridge with toothpicks

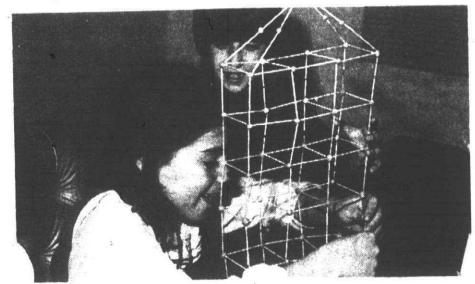

Each year the American Society of Civil Engineers sponsors a contest through the University of Detroit Department of Civil Engineering to see who can construct the sturdiest bridge made entirely of toothpicks and white glue. The bridge must meet several criteria including a maximum weight of 1¾ pounds, 6 inches width, 10-14 inches length, and be capable of supporting at least a 3 pound weight.

The winner of this contest is determined by the bridge that weighs the least but supports the most weight. Enormous amounts of toothpicks and glue go into the building of these structures. Though the contestants use frivolus materials, they are serious about their work.

Children are just as serious about their projects. Here is an idea that imitates the essence of this contest, yet is easy enough for a child to do. Instead of using glue to hold the whole gizmo together, why not use something a little more fanciful as connector - like peas!

What is needed are dried whole peas. (They can be found in the dried food section of some of the smaller independent food stores.) Place about a cup of dried peas in a quart container filled with water and leave overnight. By morning the peas will have absorbed the water and will be filled out and ready for use.

SIMPLY PLACE one toothpick at a time carefully into the pea. Increase the size of the construction one pea and one toothpick at a time. More than one toothpick can be inserted into a pea, but gentleness is the byword. Don't allow the peas to be exposed to the air for too long or they will dry out again and be difficult to work with. The peas tend to split in two if they are too

The amazing aspect of this project is that the peas will dry with the toothpicks inserted in them and the construction becames quite sturdy and fairly resilient. It could be called a 'peas of art."

By the way, the winner of the U-D contest is decided by suspending weights from the center of span of the bridge. The bridge supporting the most weight before breaking is the winner. The winner's bridge is actually destroyed to prove how much weight it can hold.

Unlike the students involved in this contest, children know that permanence is not what is important here. Creativity, ingenuity of design, and the process itself count.

The contest is open to area high school students. If you know a young person interested in such things, Mark Ahlheim, chairman of the Engineering and Science Council at U-D can supply further details about the contest which will take place this year on March 28.

Learn to give gardening advice

By SHERRY KAHAN

When late winter snows fall and spring still seems interminably down the road, a couple of local members of the Michigan Federated Garden Clubs know what to do about.

They think gardens by planning a garden study course.

Heading arrangements for the course, to be held March 26-28 in Schoolcraft College's Garden City center, 6701 Harrison, are Peggy Dunn of Canton and Sue Wion of Livonia.

Mrs. Dunn is national chairman for the garden study series that is part of the program of federated garden clubs.

Mrs. Wion is local chairman of the series new to this area.

Those who participate in the study this month will have completed the first of four courses that will lead them to certification as a National Council Garden Consultant. "Other courses will be given this fall and in the spring and fall of 1981," said Mrs. Wion. "But our aim is to make each series complete in itself.

Those interested in the first three days of study courses must register by March 15. Lucille Knight, 35548 Bennett, Livonia, 591-0259, is accepting registrations. The course includes two days of instruction, which cost $18, and a test on the third day, mandatory for those planning to qualify for certification. There is a $1 fee for those who take the

PLANNED FOR inclusion in the two days of study will be work on plant structure and function, pests and diseases, soils and propagation. There also will be a supplemental class on hanging container planting, to be taught by Mrs. Dunn, who is certified as a flower show

Judith Franklin, biology teacher at Oakland Community College, will teach the unit on plant structure and function, and Devid Levick, consulatant in botany and plant pathology, will be the lecturer on pests and disease.

The discussion on soils will be led by Angie Ratledgee of the Wayne County Extension Service, and Bill Collins, director of the Matthei Botanical Gardens at Dixboro, will be in charge of the unit on propogation.

Future series will get into matters like plant classification, different methods of propogation, tree pruning, identification of plants, hybrids, edible and poisonous plants and trees and

Jack's jazz

The Jack Brokensha Quartet, with Jack on vibes and Dan Jordan, shown here, will perform at 8 p.m. Monday, March 17 in Schoolcraft College's Waterman Center, 18600 Haggerty, Livonia. They'll play lots of Ellington and a bit of Irish for St. Pat's Day. Tickets are $2 for students, $3 general admission. It's No. 3 in the college's mini-jazz series.

At Fair Lane

The Ciompi Quartet will appear in concert at 7:30 p.m. Sunday in Fair Lane Mansion, on the University of Michigan-Dearborn campus. The Duke University group will perform quartets of Mozart and Beethoven and a quintet by Dvorak with pianist Jane Hawkins. Members (from left) are second violist George Taylor; first violinist Giorgio Ciompi, who founded the group in 1964; second violinist Claudia Erdberg; and cellist Fred Raimi, a former Detroiter. Admission is $4, $2 for students.

Rocks on auction

An auction of rocks, minerals and jewelry is being sponsored by the Roamin (Rock and Mineral) Club of Livonia this weekend at Bentley High School, Hubbard at Five Mile (between Farmington and Merriman roads), Livonia.

It will run from 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday and noon to 8 p.m. Sunday. This eighth annual event will feature finished lapidary, cutting materials, mineral specimens fossils and "bio" rocks. Admission and parking on the south side of the school are all free.

"THE APPLE Tree," a musical based on Mark Twain's "The Diary of Adam and Eve," will be a dinner-theater musical produced this week and next by Schoolcraft College students. The story involves Adam and Eve first discovering each other, going through temptation, banishment from the Garden of Eden, family troubles, and later years of loneliness and Eve's death. The dinner starts at 6:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday and March and 21-22 in the Waterman Center, 18600 Haggerty, north of Six Mile. Performances without the dinner will be at 8 p.m. today and March 20. Ticket information may be obtained by calling the college bookstore, 591-6400, ext. 265. In the cast are Teresa Goralski, Heather Hoobler and Lawrence Furton of Livonia, and Hobert Roarke of Garden City THERE ARE still tickets left for the March 29 dinner-dance ponsored by the Metro West Big Band. The dinner will start at 7 p.m. in the UAW Hall, on Van Born, west of Middlebelt. The band is made up of western Wayne County musicians. Tickets are $35 per couple and include dinner, dancing, reserved seats and an open bar. The band specializes in the "big band" sound of the 1940s. Persons interested in the dinner-dance may call Dan Kalifut at 421-9893 during the day and 427-7578 at night.

THE SCHOOLCRAFT College Wind ensemble, made up of students and community members, will perform at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Madonna College activities center, Jeffries Freeway at Levan. Tickets are $2 general admission ($1 for students and senior citizens) and may be bought at the door or in advanced at the Madonna College switchboard.

WANT something for free? Garden City Girl Scouts are offering a show by "The Puppeteers" at 7 p.m. Friday in the O'Leary Performing Arts Center, on Middlebelt south of Warren. Families are encouraged. Troops in Neighborhoods 43, 44, and 45 will bring refreshments. The free program is part of the annual Girl Scout week celebration.

CAR FANS will have a good time at Livonia Mall, Seven Mile and Middlebelt, Sunday afternoon. The Detroit Area Model Car Auto Racing Society will have races open to the public from noon to 5 p.m. For youngsters who don't know a transmission from a transistor, the mall is sponsoring a Walt Disney troupe at 4 and 4:30 p.m. Wednesday. The performers will be previewing "The Lady and the Tramp" in the free shows.

ANTIQUE FANS will have a ball this weekend during the free annual Northville antique show. It will be held from noon to 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday and noon to 5 p.m. in the Northville Community Center, 303 W. Main, one block west of Sheldon Road. There will be stained glass, primitive clocks, and furniture on display

A DETROIT Red Wings Oldtimers team will face the Dearborn Police in a fund-raising hockey game at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the University of Michigan-Dearborn field house-ice arena, on Evergreen south of Ford Road. Tickets are $2.50 at the door. Proceeds will pay for housing in Washington, D.C., for student

"BUS STOP" will be presented by the Southfield Civic Theater at 8 p.m. today, Friday and Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday in the Southfield recreation building auditorium, on Evergreen at 101/2 Mile Road. Roland Aragona of Livonia will play Nachum the beggar. He has performd in the Livonia-Redford Theater Guild's production of "1776."

Faith Berg, another Wayne-Westland teacher, will be Fruma-Sarah, the late wife of Lazar Wolf, a role she performed in the first PAU production. She has sung in the Rackham Symphony Choir for 17 years.

CONDUCTING the orchestra will be Andrew Henderson, a Canton piano salesman, composer, harpist and former assistant conductor of the Oakway Symphony. Henderson will lead musicians from the Dearborn, Plymouth and Oakway orchestras. PAU's goal is to bring quality musical productions to the live stage at affordable prices.

The Marquis Theater was the P&A (for Penniman and Allen) Theater for the first 53 years of its life. It was purchased in 1978 by Jay and Inga Zayti, who restored it. While the seats are modern, the decor is Victorian. The original brass door handles and glass paneled French doors are in use.

F'ton shows award films

Both branches of the Farmington Community Library will present Blue Ribbon award winning films from the 21st annual American Film Festival March 24-29

The festival was conducted during May 1979 in New York. It showcases outstanding 16mm releases from the preceding year, recognizing the achievements of film makers who are judged through 56 subject categories. Among the categories of films presented are social documentaries, science, sports, performing arts and business and industry.

Thirty of the winners will be presented free of charge in Farmington and Farmington Hills.

THE FOLLOWING films will be shown from 7 to 9 p.m., March 24 in the Farmington branch library on Liberty.

· "Frankenthaler -- Toward a New Climate," 30 minutes, color: At 24, Helen Frankenthaler invented the stained canvas and influenced a whole generation of colorfield painters. Since that time she has matured into one of the most durable and inventive of contemporary American artists. Tracing the background and evolution of her work, the highlight of the film is a sequence in which the camera follows the actual creation of a Frankenthaler painting.

• "Sam Smith: Genuine England," 18 minutes, color: Introduces this unique artist-craftsman whose world figures evade both the categories of toy and sculpture. As Smith says in the film, "Children's toys are mainly about pretending to be grownup - the things I make are about what it's like when you get there."

· "How the Myth was Made," 59 minutes, color: A retrospective view of the making of Robert Flaherty's classic, "Man of Aran," shot in Ireland's Aran Islands in 1933 and 1934. Includes interviews with participants in the origi-

THE FOLLOWING will be shown from 11 a.m. to noon, March 25 in the Farmington branch library on Liberty and State.

· "An Easter Carol," 28 minutes, color: Depicts mission/ministry in the Synod of the Northeast of the United Presbyterian Church, U.S.A. The intent is to stimulate awareness and understanding of mission and ministry.

· "Sami Herders," 28 minutes, color: A year-long record of a reindeer herding Lapp family living the ancient nomadic lifestyle in 20th century Europe, showing environmental adaptation in a sub-artic setting.

The following will be shown from 4 to 5:30 p.m., March 25 in the Farmington Hills library on Twelve Mile.

· "La Soufriere," 30 minutes, color: In 1976, scientists predicted a volcanic eruption that would destroy Guadeloupe. The island was evacuated, the newspapers reported that one man refused to leave. Director Werner Herzog immediately arrived with a small crew in order to be on hand for the end. What resulted is an eerie, unique view of city abandoned, on the verge of annihilation and a catastrophe that didn't

. "BETWEEN Men," 57 minutes, color: A study of masculinity and the military. Interviews with veterans from World War I to Vietnam and men who have recently joined as well as those who have made the military their career. Not a film about economics and armaments but about men who become warriors and the consequences to our · "Sunchanger," 10 minutes, color: To improve understanding of the importance of the beef aminal as a producer of protein and emphasizing that most of its feed isn't useful to humans. BORROWING TIME

When your opponent is threatening to do something to you on his next roll that you can't tolerate, you should consider a "tempo play." Tempo refers to "borrowing time" or a "unit of time." In backgammon, tempo means borrowing a unit of time (half a roll).

Tempo plays are risky but often necessary, designed strictly to rob your opponent of half his next roll. The two considerations: When deciding to make a tempo play, look for all your advantages. And if you decide not to, look for strong alternative plays that will benefit you equally.

White rolls a five-two and cannot cover his blot on black's 5 point. He cannot hit black in the outer board, nor can he secure a new point in his home board.

What should white do with the fivetwo?

Obviously, black is anxious for his next roll to stop white from making the 5 point and halt him from escaping.

White, therefore, has no choice. He must consider making a tempo play. This move is certainly critical for white. The outcome of this move could determine the outcome of the game.

White could easily run from the 5 point to the 12 point for safety. Black will still try to close the 5 point on his next roll, leaving white stranded on the 1 point plus having excellent prospects for a 5 point prime. White could also bring two checkers down from the 12 point to his 8 and 11 points, reinforcing himself with extra builders.

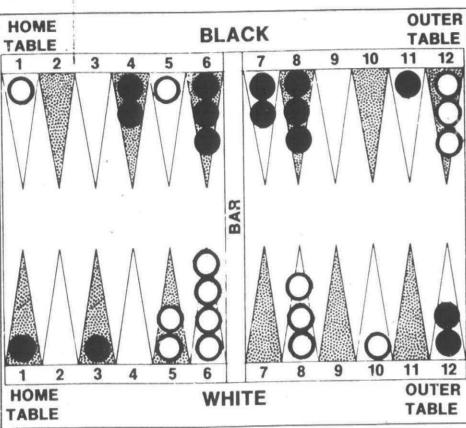

BEST OVERALL MOVE:

White has excellent prospects for the "ultimate" in a tempo play. Moving a checker off the 8 point and hitting black's blot on the 3 point is excellent for a tempo play. To complete the move, hitting the other blot on the 1 one or two checkers, a tempo play is point with the two roll is also necessary. Black now needs his full roll to doing you harm by robbing him of half re-enter.

White is not interested in making the 1 point, for how. This move will allow white the freedom to further attack black and possibly close him out. If hit, white has the opportunity of making black's 5 point for a sure escape later. Whether or not you are able to hit designed to stop your opponent from of his entire roll.

Mozart, Plymouth, Mohler: three superb old friends

By REX E. HATT

The concert presented Sunday by the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra, with guest conductor Johan van der Merwe, had some unusual programming. Covering a century and a half of musical composition, it contained just the right mix for generating interst.

Mozart's Clarinet Concerto (K.622) was the featured work. Dr. John Mohler, professor of music at the University of Michigan and principal clarinetist at Plymouth since 1958, was so-

By nature the concerto is a struggle between the orchestra and the solo instruments, and it ends with reconciliation. The danger of absorption by the band is a real one for the solo instrument, especially in concertos for strings and winds.

From the outset, it was obvious guest conductor van der Merwe and Mohler grasped this concept well. The opening melody of the second movement is sung by the solo clarinet without any orchestral introduction. This must be one of the most beautiful adagios ever written. In the rondo finale, Mozart exploits the extremes of the clarinet's range with masterly simplicity. But throughout the concerto, touches of melancholy are never far MOHLER'S RANGE of intonation was superb. He executed the difficult passages with aplomb, as if interacting with an old friend.

review

Throughout the performance, everyone sensed this was an inspired merging of forces producing a rare musical event. Everything had fallen into place.

Brahms' "Variations on a Theme by Haydn" was the first work offered after intermission. The Brahms-Haydn Variations, as they are more familiarly known, preceded the four symphonies by nearly three years. Up to this point, Brahms was too inhibited to attempt a symphony Van der Merwe was able to steer a middle course between the extremes of brittle, frenetic and depersonalized rigor, on the one hand, and turgid ponderosity or cloying affection on the other. Members of the orchestra were 'enjoying themselves as much as the audience.

In the fifth of the eight variations, vivace, van der Merwe infused the buoyancy of a Mendelssohn scherzo. The seventh variation, grazioso, was marred by a loss of oneness in the vio-

All considered, it was an excellent rendition of this well-trod score.

RAVEL'S "PAVANE pour une Infante Defunte" was written for solo piano in 1899. The balanced modulation of the French horns in the opening bars set the pace for the entire work, resulting in a beautiful and tender performance.

The concert ended with the Four Sea Interludes, excerpted from Benjamin Britten's first full-scale opera, "Peter Grimes." Written in 1945, it is recognized as one of this century's great operas.

The reading was disappointing. The first interlude, "Dawn," with its bleak sounds of the sea, the waves, the cries of the sea birds, succeeded in evoking this image.

But the remaining three interludes, "Sunday Morning," "Moonlight" and "Storm," were mismanaged by uncoordinated entrances and sloppy tonal balances.

Through the interludes, the violin section was too often out of harmony. Yet all was not lost. The cello and viola sections came through admirably during the opening of the "Moonlight" interlude.

As always, first chair cellist Dougla McNames must be a great inspiration to this section and to the orchestra as a whole. We would all be pleased if McNames were scheduled to perform a solo piece at some future concert.

Perhaps more rehearsal time would have improved on this strikingly original pieces by Britten.

The concert opened with the "Donna Diana" overture by Reznicek, which was given a spritely reading by van der Merwe and the orchestra.

Try adventure, break old rules

Probably no topic in the lore of wine receives more journalistic attention than the marriage of wine with food.

The question of which wine goes with which food is of interest to us all. Most writers attempt to deal with this subject in extremely absolute terms.

The consumer looks for the rules — but there are no rules. One simple principle, if followed, will at least avoid bad marriages and at times produce spectacularly good ones.

Of the three kinds of wine (sparkling, fortified and table) only the last presents a problem. Most sparkling wines go with any food. Parctically no fortified wine (sherry, port, madiera) goes with any

Table wine, as the name implies, is complex and subtle because of the great differences in type some are rich, some thin, some fruity, some dry, some hearty and some subtle, etc.

To determine which wine to serve with a dinner (or better, to select a food to go with a preferred wine) one thing must be kept in mind. One shouldn't dominate the other with respect to brawn or flavor. Tasted against each other, one must not be so prominent that the taste of the other is lost. Both, presumably, taste good and shouldn't be lost in the competition.

BECAUSE RED WINES TEND to be of a bigger substance than whites and roses, they are usually assigned the role of supplementing red meat meals.

But what of a delicate Beaujolais (perhaps Fleurie or Morgan) and what of a White Burgundy with its mouth-filling woodiness? Certainly the latter would better stand up to a pork roast than the delicate and subtle Beaujolais.

The trick is to know the size and character of the wine before selection. And then comes the courage to break away from the simplistic admonition of red with meat, white with fish and fowl." Experi-

Try Zinfandel, a Burgundy, or a Cote Rotie with turkey. Try Tavel or Cabernet Rose with salmon, Chardonnay with veal, and champagne with hamburgers. Some combinations will work for you faste, others will not.

· But it will be a bit more exciting and the attempts will be more on the order of an adventure. The rules are those of common sense leading to balance between, hopefully, compatible taste sen-

Steelhead may start running early

By LEM MESEE Outdoors writer

Spring steelhead season is about to begin on southern Michigan rivers.

Best results on the Huron River from Lake Erie to Flat Rock will begin any day and run through mid-April, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

Ron Spitler, state Department of Natural Resources fish biologist, said last fall's steelhead fishing was "very good. Our plant of 20,000 fish here in 1978 paid off. Increased flow rate in the river all fall from the Belleville Lake drawdown is believed to have improved the run."

But Spitler added that "problems of trespass on city of Flat Rock property near the dam by non-residents continued to plague fishermen from the metro area. These problems are being resolved in court."

The St. Clair River steelhead run should be from late April to early June, said Auto Club.

Spitler added, "The spring coho fishery on the St. Clair River has been eliminated with the decision to greatly reduce plants of these fish in Lake Huron. However, an excellent chinook fishery has replaced it.

"One local charter fisherman at Algonac reported boating about 400 chinook from mid-April through mid-May ranging in size from 1-18 pounds. Very few steelhead, brown trout or other salmonids were taken, however."

Michigan's mild winter may mean an early spring bonanza for steelhead anglers, said Auto Club.

Water temperatures in the 40s will trigger the spawning urge in more than one million 10-15 pound lake-run trout in 34 rivers. Twin reasons: Warmer water from less spring snow melt will send fish up the streams a week to 10 days earlier than usual and result in excellent wading

Good catches have started in some southwest Michigan rivers, though the peak hasn't been reached yet.

GOV. WILLIAM G. Milliken has signed a bill releasing funds for state land acquisition in Oakland County.

The state plans to pick up a 2,300-acre parcel in Orion Township now owned by Chrysler Corp. The property is just west of Bald Mountain State Recreation Area.

The property will provided expanded hunting, fishing, camping, swimming and hiking, Milliken said. Portions of the property will be administered by the

The bill he signed released $18.6 million from the Michigan land trust fund. Among other acquisitions will be 1,800 acres of the St. Johns March, the largest remaining marshland on the American side of Lake St. Clair. The state already owns ome-third of the 3,000-acre marshland. Its acquisition has been promoted by conservationiists and sportsmen.

Some 21 miles of frontage on the AuSable and Manistees rivers will be purchased from Consumers Power Co.

DENNIS SHAW of 36427 Sunnydale, Livonia, earned a citation in the Metropolitan South Florida Fishing Tournament with a 29-pound barracuda he caught while fishing out of Key West.

Master paintings exhibited

The Detroit Institute of Arts is hosting "Old Master Paintings from the Collection of Baron Thyssen-Bornemisza" on its first U.S. tour. The special loan of 57 works from the Villa Favorita near Lugano, Switzerland, will remain through Sunday, May 11.

The paintings are a spectacular segment of "the world's greatest private collection," according to John Walker, director emeritus of the National Gallery of Art, Washington, D.C., who made the selections for the tour.

Vay Eyck, Titian, El Greco, Rembrandt, Rubens, Fragonard, Boucher and Goya are some of the artists represented in the exhibition, which includes masterworks by Dutch, Flemish, French, German, Italian and Spanish artists from the late 13th to early 19th century.

The present Baron Hans Heinrich Thyssen-Bornemisza has continued and expanded the collection begun by his late father. The traveling exhibition represents about one-sixth of the paintings in the total collection - which extends to Impressionist and modern paintings, including American art, along with splendid tapestries, Renaissance jewels, furniture, Oriental rugs, porcelains, medieval ivories, French gold, vermeille and silver.

THE EXHIBITION was organized and circulated by International Exhibitions Foundation, made possible by grants from United Technologies Corporation, the National Endowment for the Arts, and the Government of the Canton of Ticino and the Tourist Office of Ticino. The Federal Council on the Arts and the Humanities has provided federal indemnity. The catalogue is underwritten in part by the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation.

The exhibition is open to the public in the Ford Wing of the Detroit Institute of Arts during regular museum hours, 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday.

General admission is $2.50; senior citizens and students with identification $1.50. Free to Founders and children under 12 accompanied by an adult. Student groups by advance appointment (832-2730), 75 cents each student.

Cranbrook hosts print symposium

More than 60 artists, curators, art dealers and authors from across the country will convene March 15-22 at Cranbrook Academy of Art for the Detroit National Print Symposium.

"The symposium will bring together more people with professional interests in prints and printmaking than has ever happened before," said Conner Everts, academy printmaking department head and symposium coordinator. "Represented are 47 states, five Canadian provinces, England, Japan and Latin America.

Through lectures, demonstrations, panel discussions and workshops, participants will deal with issues of interest to printmaking artists, dealers, curators and collectors.

Among the articipating artists are June Wayne, founder of the Tamarind Workshop; Garo Antreasian, author; Irwin Hollander, publisher; Gertrude Kasle, art dealer, Al Ratcliff, print collector, JULES HELLER, author; Kathy Clark, papermaker; Leonard Edmondson, artitst; Roberta Waddell, Toledo Art Museum curator; and Robert Broner, printmaker/professor, will also be partici-

Topics discussed will include publishing, marketing and exhibiting prints; the past and future of the competitive exhibition concept; the need for a national printmaking organization; photographic processes in printmaking; paper; etching; and screen

Afternoon and evening sessions are open to the public for fees of $2 and $3, respectively. For more information, call 645-3330 or 645-3331.

The Detroit National Print Symposium is cosponsored by Wayne State University and the Center for Creative Studies and is partially funded by the Michigan Council for the Arts.

Cranbrook Academy of Art is at 500 Lone Pine Road, Bloomfield Hills.

things," he says. "That's what I've always been doing.'

Brubeck still gets requests for the early hits - even from people who weren't around to remember them. "I'm amazed when I look out there and see a whole younger generation that knows all the old tunes," he says.

And some of his '40's compositions such as "Reminiscences of Cattle Country" from 1946 - are finally getting published.

"There's interest in everything," Brubeck says. "My stuff is getting really played now."

Has he changed his focus in music? "The principles are the same," he says. "It's like a guy who wanted to fly 40 years ago. He's still flying.

In West Bloomfield

Extraordinary 1, 2 and 3 bedroom rental residences that feature up to 2,800 square feet in a community of exceptional character and charm.

Thru-unit design of all of these terrace and towne homes provides private entry, double or triple exposures, kitchens with window views, in-unit storage and private laundry rooms, patios and balconies.

Each of the 8 different Aldingbrooke plans is distinguished by the unexpected; a one bedroom with 2 baths and a great room/den for example, a two bedroom 2 bath with a private dining room that is elegantly separated from the living room; a three bedroom with 2-1/2 or 3 baths with a great room and den or with a great room and fireplace. A great deal from which to choose!

Attached garages, monitored gate house, club house, swimming pool and tennis courts.

Aldingbrooke is on Drake Road, north of the Jewish Community Center, between Maple and Walnut Lake Roads.

Rentals from $425/mo.

Please call for more information or to arrange a private, pre-661-0770 opening showing.
