Building boom bursts; inspector ranks are cut

Canton's building department has been slashed in half since summer — a byproduct of the township's decade-old building boom that has slowed almost to a standstill.

On March 31, three building inspectors with about 2½ years' of seniority will hit the unemployment lines.

Chief building official Aaron Machnik said the latest round of layoffs will leave his department with only four inspectors — one for general construction and one each for plumbing, heating and electrical work.

The department has been reduced from 22 to 10 employees since last summer. The reductions include two building inspectors and a department helper who were laid off last fall, two mechanical inspectors on medical leave of absence, two vacant clerical positions which were never filled, and a clerical worker who was transferred to the treasurer's department.

"It's unfortunate. It's a very big reduction," Machnik said. "Canton has been dependent on single-family home construction. When the bottom drops out of that, something has got to give."

THE BUILDING DEPARTMENT, which is entirely self-supporting, derives its revenue from building permits and other construction-related fees.

In January and February of this year, the department issued only 18 permits for the construction of single-family homes compared to the 134 which were issued during the same period in 1979.

Machnik said the slowdown in Canton's construction activity reached dramatic proportions last summer. The number of single-family permits issued by the department in 1979 dipped 42 per cent below the 1978 level.

A total 1,577 permits were issued for home construction in 1978. In 1979, the figure dropped to 661.

Machnik said staffing in the building department is now "just about down to the bottom line."

Single-family home construction brings the most work to Canton's building department. But employees must also inspect other types of construction work, such as garages and commercial additions.

Machnik said he has promised township administrators to keep a close eye on his department's budget. But he has no idea where additional staffing cuts can be made if construction activity continues its downward plunge.

"THINGS ARE SO unusual, with the high interest rates and all, that it's difficult to make any predictions," Machnik said. "Six months ago, I said it couldn't get any worse. And it did. I hate to make any predictions now."

The decision to layoff three building inspectors March 31 was reached jointly by Machnik and other township administrators.

Machnik, who has been employed by Canton since 1975, said staffing in the department will dip to its lowest level in at least the past six years when the inspectors clear out their belongings at the end of this month.

"It's very difficult. A lot of these folks have families," he said. "I wouldn't want to be responsible for the personnel department at General Motors."

"But we have to do what we can in terms of budget restraints."

County Agency on Aging is split

By CAROLINE PRICE

The Michigan Office on Service to the Aging has agreed to split the Wayne County funding agency for senior citizen programs into two entities.

Detroit has been given the go-ahead to form its own agency, with control of an agency for out-county community senior citizen programs still up for grabs.

The resolution made Friday by the state OSA commission in effect dissolves the existing Wayne County Area Agency on Aging, which serves Detroit and the rest of the county.

According to Linda Kimball of the state OSA staff, the commission resolved to split the county into two "service areas." Planning and Service Area 1A will comprise Detroit, Highland Park, Hamtramck, Harper Woods and all the Grosse Pointes.

Planning Service Area 1C will include the rest of Wayne County's communities, although which government body will control that agency has yet to be decided.

The basic requirement to establish an area agency is that the governmental unit have a population of at least 100,000.

The only application filed for an out-county agency thus far has been by the City of Livonia, which filed in behalf of itself and a group of other suburban communities.

The deadline for applications to form an agency for the remainder of Wayne County is April 15, Ms. Kimball said.

ALTHOUGH THE Wayne County Board of Commissioners' out-county representatives on its Human Resources Committee had condemned the move to split the area agency, the county appears ready to bid for control of PSA 1C.

Canton Township Supervisor Noel Culbert (Canton is one of the communities that strongly supported Livonia's bid for a local agency) said he had received a letter from county Office on Aging Director Dante DiVitto urging support for a county area agency.

The Office on Aging implements programs for the elderly such as nutrition and home services, with money allotted by the existing area agency.

Ms. Kimball said she did not know how much would be allotted to each agency, since federal and state legislatures have not yet made appropriations.

The existing area agency, under the direction of Fred Ferris, last year received more than $7 million from federal and state sources. Of that amount, 70 percent was allotted to Detroit, with the remainder going to other communities.

Ms. Kimball said the current area agency would "cease to exist as of September."

'Godspell' opening Friday

The musical "Godspell" will open Friday in Central Middle School and be repeated by the Plymouth Theatre Guild April 4 and 5 in the auditorium of Central Middle School. Shown singing in a "backyard show" are Dave Higginbotham of Plymouth and Sandy Kinhead of Canton. For more details on the production, see Page 5C of today's Suburban Life Section. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Forum on retardation results in confusion

Embarrassment, anger and seemingly genuine concern for the retarded characterized a meeting which was intended as an educational forum on foster care Wednesday night.

The 31 citizens who showed up for the meeting in the Canton administration building expected to learn the "whys" behind three proposals to locate the mentally retarded in their neighborhoods.

Instead, they were addressed by parents of mentally retarded children who knew no more about the proposed homes than township residents themselves.

Concern for the quality of care in the proposed homes replaced the initial anger of citizens by the time the meeting ending.

Frank Chakrabarty, a Canton firefighter who lives on a street where one foster care home is proposed, asked Canton planner Jim Kosteva to arrange another meeting to discuss the specific concerns of residents.

KOSTEVA, who arranged last week's meeting, seemed embarrassed when he explained a mix-up in speaker arrangements which brought parent group representatives to the meeting instead of persons familiar with the proposed Canton homes.

Kosteva had wanted representatives of the Michigan Mental Health Department to speak on the rationale of Alternative Institutional Service homes (AIS). The state contracts with private agencies to run AIS homes for the mentally retarded.

Applications for three AIS homes in Canton are now pending before the Michigan Department of Social Services. Two homes for mentally retarded youth have been proposed by Pyramid Human Services for sites on Maiben and on Herby. An application for an adult foster care home on Haggerty, south of Cherry Hill, has been submitted by Alternative Services.

Kosteva contacted the Michigan Association for Retarded Citizens to ask for speaker recommendations.

He wound up with representatives from two parent groups — the Northwest Community Association for Retarded Citizens and the Plymouth Association for Retarded Citizens. A board member of a community-run home for the retarded in Plymouth also attended.

But none of the speakers — Maybelle Munn, Sylvia Kloc, Mary Brimhall or Jan Plas — knew much about the proposed homes in Canton. They thought their meeting was intended as a community awareness program on retardation.

PLAS, a MEMBER of the board of directors for the Community Opportunity Center in Plymouth, said that home is operated differently than the AIS homes proposed for Canton.

Community Opportunity Center is funded with private donations, Social Security income of clients and an $18-a-day payment for each resident from the Michigan Department of Social Services. The home's board of directors is comprised chiefly of parents and community representatives.

Private agencies receive payment of $40 to $60 a day for each client from the Michigan Department of Mental Health to run AIS homes.

The speakers heard the complaints of residents that AIS homes are being brought into their residential neighborhoods for profit. They heard residents recite unanswered questions on AIS programming and care.

Plas advised the citizens to continue asking those questions.

"We can do very little to stop these homes from coming into the community," said one resident. "Maybe we should take the direction of being concerned about the quality of care that's given."

Another woman invited Plas to bring a branch of the Plymouth home into Canton in lieu of the AIS homes.

"Yours sounds a lot better," she said.

When the meeting started, residents were visibly irritated that their questions could not be answered. They expressed concern on avoiding embarrassment for the speakers who did attend.

But Kosteva said he was more pleased with the outcome of the session than he thought he would be.

Short Takes

Snowed under

It may have been one of the first days of spring, but the stuff coming from the sky Friday morning certainly wasn't apple blossoms. The March mini-blizzard barely stuck around for the day, but managed to knock out power for some Canton residents. On the whole, however, Canton fared better than neighboring communities of Livonia and Plymouth, where many residents experienced power failures that lasted until evening and succeeded in closing schools and businesses.

If at first you don't succeed

Seems like discussions of the proposed zoning ordinance revisions have been going on for years. Actually, they have, but all may finally become resolved this Tuesday when the Canton Township Board of Trustees meets. The agenda for the regular board meeting includes an item on the zoning ordinance revisions. A vote is expected, but the outcome is yet to be known. Other items to be discussed include unification of 35th District Court, discussion of mobile home and massage parlor ordinances and the possibility of forming a CETA (Comprehensive Employment Training Act) consortium.

Car of my dreams

Anyone who visited Meijer's Thrifty Acres in Canton a few months back probably remembers the store's contest in which the winner would get a car. In fact, one of the staff members around here insisted she would be the winner of the car — that's known as thinking positively. Well, she didn't win the car, but another lucky Canton resident did. The winner of a 1980 Ford Mustang Ghia is Clyde Kintner. The contest was in honor of the corporation's opening of a new store in Sterling Heights.

Wayne County reform may be decided by voters

By TOM LONERGAN

A Wayne County Board of Commissioners committee has moved the county reorganization issue off dead center. The general government committee Tuesday recommended the county reform issue be placed on the Aug. 5 primary election ballot.

Voters would be asked whether a county charter commission should be created to propose a new home rule charter for the deficit-ridden county. A partisan primary election for charter commissioners would also be held Aug. 5. The charter commission, if approved, would eventually give voters the option to decide if a new county government should be headed by either 1) an elected county executive, or 2) a manager appointed by the county board.

THE FULL county board will vote on the ballot proposition March 27 as the Ways and Means Committee. If the committee approves, final action by the 27-member county board could be taken April 3.

County officials have stalled placing the charter commission issue on the ballot until they receive assurances that the state would pay for the elections and operation of a charter commission. Gov. William Milliken signed the county reorganization bill, which gives the charter commission its authority, Feb. 13.

Even though Board Chairman Samuel Turner, D-Detroit, says he has a verbal commitment from Milliken that the state will pay the "reasonable expenses" of county reorganization, at least one suburban commissioner remains doubtful about funding.

Alex Pilch, D-Dearborn, was the only general government committee member to vote against placing the issue on the ballot. "We are being responsible when we insist that the money be up-front before we proceed," he said.

"WE'VE BEEN chastised, criticized, humiliated and everything else for our deficits. But it must be all right to do that if that's what the state wants.

"We have every right to ask for an iron-clad commitment in the form of a legislative appropriation."

Turner responded that it's costing the county "at the rate of $4 million annually to continue to wait" on reorganization. Milliken has refused to approve state assistance to Wayne, including $4 million for court probation services this year, until the commissioners place the reform issue on the ballot. A bill pending in the Michigan Senate Appropriations Committee would provide an estimated $300,000 for a charter commission, which may have up to 35 representatives paid up to $65 per meeting. However, a county committee estimates the charter commission's cost will range from $1.2 million to $2.7 million depending on when elections are scheduled.

High school students study government from the inside

By W.W. EDGAR

Two high school students, Sondra Gillon and Kathy Kidston, are helping to plow new furrows in the field of education.

And from latest reports they are doing quite well.

The two are enrolled in a legislative intern program which was inaugurated this year with U.S. Sen. Carl Levin's office in Detroit and State Sen. Robert Geake's Lansing office serving as the training ground.

Under the supervision of Audrey Etienne, a social studies teacher at Plymouth Canton High, the students spend about 15 hours each week learning the fundamentals of government from a new angle.

TO HELP IN the program the Rotary Club of Plymouth has donated $200 to be used to cover the cost of gasoline while traveling to the legislative offices.

"We are struggling at the moment," explained Mrs. Etienne, "but we are making headway even though the time required for the girls to travel is a hardship."

Miss Gillon has been driving to the Federal Building in Detroit three days each week since January and her internship is to continue until the end of the semester in June.

"This is quite a hardship in that it requires considerable expense, given the present cost of gasoline, and because of the time required to make the round trip."

Miss Gillon presently is working in the federal grant program, becoming acquainted with the work needed to make proper application to the federal government for funds. She is helping with the areas in Michigan outside Detroit.

DRIVING TO Lansing is not a problem for Miss Kidston because she car pools with Sen. Geake who makes the trip there in the morning and returns home at night.

Most of her work thus far has been with committees and with the handling of complaints coming into the senator's office from constituents and others.

"This is a pilot program in the study of applied government," said Mrs. Etienne, "and we are hoping it will be successful enough to attract more students."

"This is especially true in working with Sen. Levin. If we could attract a few students they could pool their travel and the hardship on a single student, such as on Sondra Gillon, would be eased."

The pilot program is one of the few in the area. Last year Livonia Schools was involved in the activity but the project is new to Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

That's why Mrs. Etienne is anxious for it to succeed because it affords a chance to work right in a government office and learn the intricacies of government first-hand.

Carrier of the Month

Tom Hooks

Tom Hooks, son of Thomas and Carol Hooks, has been named Canton Observer Carrier of the Month. Tom, 13, has been an Observer carrier since 1978. He is in the eighth grade at Pioneer Middle School, where he says his favorite subject is math. His hobbies include working on model trains. His future plans include attending college. Tom has a brother, Christopher, and sister, Susie.

Officials throughout the 35th District Court area will consider the best land bid on which to build a new centralized courthouse next week.

This consolidation effort, proposed to cut rising operating costs, would serve the communities of Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Canton Township, Northville and Northville Township.

According to one estimate, the savings could be at least $100,000 annually. Last week, three bids were opened by a committee representing the five communities presently served by three separate courtrooms in Plymouth City Hall, Northville City Hall and Canton Township Hall. It's expected at least two of the courtrooms would be closed when a new courthouse is built.

One of the considered construction sites is owned by the city of Plymouth and is located at Plymouth and Haggerty roads. Another site, owned by Robinson Rental Co., is at Joy and Haggerty roads in Plymouth Township. The third, owned by Practical Builders Inc., is at Joy and Morton Taylor roads in Canton Township.

Initial cost of construction would be financed through bond sales sold through local economic development corporations, under the proposal.

The court authority would pay the property owner a monthly rental fee. At the end of each rental term, ranging between 25-29 years, the facility would be turned over to the court authority for $1.

PRELIMINARY SKETCHES for the new court facility include a one-floor design housing two courtrooms. It includes office space for a probation department, various offices for judges, jury rooms, clerk offices and storage rooms.

The city of Plymouth's offer includes a $1,394,245 total construction cost. Annual lease payments over 25 years would amount to $130,611.

It's expected that in the next 3-5 years a third courtroom would be needed because of increasing population in the area. On this 2.05-acre site, space has been allowed for additions.

Because the site is owned by the city, no property taxes would be charged.

For the other privately owned properties, annual property taxes would be between $31,200-$35,000, it's projected.

The Robinson Rental Co. of Plymouth, owned by developer William Robinson, proposes a 4.1-acre site. Robinson says he's interested in investing in the project. The site is next to additional property he owns and is interested in developing as an office complex.

He estimates construction at $900,000 with annual payments of $152,988 over 25 years. Yearly property taxes are estimated at $31,200.

PRACTICAL HOME BUILDERS proposes a 2.5-acre site in Canton Township with construction costs estimated at $1,250,000. Annual lease payment is estimated at $148,500 in a 29-year lease. Annual property taxes are estimated at $35,000.

According to Plymouth City Manager Henry Graper, who represents that city on the court site search committee, it's expected that court revenues should decrease by 10-15 percent in the first year of this new construction.

After that time, it's expected the court cost should stabilize.

The Northville Township Board of Trustees was expected to review the three bids Friday. On Tuesday, proposals will be presented to Canton and Plymouth Township boards.

Volunteers are now canvassing area merchants for auction items. The auction will be aired on WAAM (1600 AM) April 11-13, with proceeds being used to launch a new program for elderly patients at the hospital. Ms. Gargaro is area solicitor leader and member of the Catherine McAuley Health Center Development Council. Power, founder of University Microfilms, is honorary chairman of this year's auction, and Holmes, president of Chelsea Milling Co., is development council chairman.

New UM-D chancellor selected

William A. Jenkins, vice chancellor for academic affairs at the University of Colorado at Denver, will be nominated as chancellor of the University of Michigan-Dearborn by U-M President Harold T. Shapiro.

The U-M Regents will act on the nomination at their March 20-21 meeting. If approved, Jenkins would assume the chancellorship on July 1.

He will succeed Leonard E. Goodall, who left the U-M Dearborn last summer to become president of the University of Nevada-Las Vegas. Bernard W. Klein, U-M Dearborn professor of political science, has been acting chancellor since then.

Shapiro said: "Dr. Jenkins' background is impressive. His past experience includes serving as a university vice president, college dean, a departmental chairman, editor of a national educational journal, and chairman of the board of a major metropolitan urban renewal agency."

"The Dearborn campus, which has grown from 3,000 students to 6,000 student within six years, is now entering a very significant phase of development."

Jenkins said, "My appraisal of the Dearborn situation is that it presents a great professional opportunity for me personally and for southeastern Michigan to develop a strong campus of the U-M. The possibilities there are almost unlimited."

Jenkins, 57, was named to his current post at Denver in 1978 where he also holds an appointment as professor of education. Before that he was vice president for academic affairs at Florida International University from 1974 to 1977.

He served as dean of the School of Education at Portland State University from 1970-74. He was acting dean of the School of Education, University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee in 1968-69. From 1963 to 1970, he also was editor of "Elementary English" magazine.

Jenkins received his bachelor's degree from New York University in 1948 and his master's degree in 1949 and doctoral in 1954, both from the University of Illinois.

Secretary agreement is at hand

Final ratification of a contract with school secretaries may occur at tonight's meeting of the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

A tentative agreement has been reached at the table between the school board team and the negotiator for the Plymouth-Canton Association of Educational Office Personnel.

The union expects its members will vote to ratify that tentative agreement before tonight's school board meeting.

If that does happen, the school board will be asked to vote its approval of the new agreement to make it formally effective.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the board offices at 354 S. Harvey, Plymouth.

During the same meeting the board is expected to give its answers to two grievances, one of them involving a bus union officer disciplined for using what was claimed to be inappropriate language toward an administrator.

The board also will pay tribute to the recent winners of the districtwide spelling bee and will receive a report on the status of the current operating budget.

Midgley conducts tour of Hawaii

A lighthearted look at the island state of Hawaii will be featured at this week's travelogue series being presented by the Plymouth Kiwanis Foundation.

Stan Midgley, the originator of the "Hawaiian Chucklelogue," presents a special, entertaining view of the islands.

The Travel and Adventure Series will begin at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the auditorium of Plymouth Salem High on Joy Road just west of Canton Center Road.

MIDGLEY, a graduate of Princeton University, once worked as a chemist in the pharmaceutical industry near Chicago.

STAN MIDGLEY

His hobbies were mountaineering, bicycle riding and photography.

So in 1946 he entered a movie about one of his bicycle trips in a nationwide contest and won the first prize of $1,000.

From that time on his hobby became his vocation and Midgley deserted his endeavors in chemistry.

Today, after about 3,000 professional platform appearances and more than 300 appearances with film on television, the Midgley Chucklelogues are known from coast to coast.

In the Hawaiian Chucklelogue Midgley takes his bicycle across the ocean to explore highways and byways of the various islands which make up Hawaii.

All of the excitement of Honolulu, Waikiki Beach, Waimea Canyon, Pearl Harbor, the Kona Coast and other points of interest will be covered plus some exciting footage of Mauna Ulu erupting and spewing molten lava into the sea.

Scenes of rare beauty in the film include visits to the Kanaha Pond Bird Refuge, the Akaka Falls, Paradise Bird Park, pineapple fields and the famed beaches.

The travelogue series will end Wednesday, April 23, when Walter S. Dodson presents his presentation of "Bountiful New Zealand."

The Kiwanis Foundation is a joint effort of the Plymouth Kiwanis Club and the Kiwanis Club of Colonial Plymouth. All proceeds are used to finance community projects.

Bill proposes tax breaks

Legislation was introduced recently by Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, that would allow more Michigan senior citizens to qualify for deferral of special assessments on their property.

Present law provides for the deferral of special assessments on homesteads owned by senior citizens who have been residents of Michigan for at least five years and have an annual income of less than $6,000.

Under Geake's proposed legislation that income level would be raised to $10,000 annually.

"Act 225 (present law) is a fine piece of legislation because it allows senior citizens living on fixed incomes to deal with a special assessment improvement project, such as street paving, without being forced to sell their homes," he said. "However, with the increasing costs of heat, lights and food, the $6,000 maximum income limit is now too low."

The legislation would also cover totally and permanently disabled citizens.

Geake said he introduced the bill after the problem had been brought to his attention by Livonia city officials.

"This is another example of how Michigan citizens can benefit when state and local public officials work closely together."

Monday's Commentary

Go for two out of three in school bond election

Those who vote Thursday will make an important decision affecting Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

It's important to make the right decision and not become confused by the three ballot proposals.

Proposition I is the meat and potato request and should be approved.

Proposition II is the icing on the cake and, if defeated, would not mortally injure the school district. Proposition III also is a meat and potato request which should be passed to help stabilize the financial condition of the district.

The school district could get by if only Proposition I were approved and the other two failed. The district would be in much better shape, though, if Propositions I and III were approved. If all three passed, of course, the district would be in very good shape.

The danger, however, is that voters might approve Proposition II because the pricetag is lower and defeat Proposition I. That would create a very messy situation because the school board could not really use the $7 million in Proposition II if it didn't have the $14 million in Proposition I.

So don't vote yes on the $7 million in Proposition II and vote no on the $14 million in Proposition I. If all voters did that, a second election would be required to unsnarl the mess.

THE OBSERVER urges a yes vote on Proposition I because it is a plan to absorb additional students without building permanent classrooms.

We believe the expenditures included in this proposal are worthy of voter support because they represent an approach voters in the past have asked for — accommodating student growth without getting stuck with the white elephant of a new building which will stand empty when enrollment begins to decline.

Some of the things the $14,623,000 will buy are:

- Air-conditioning to expand the use of year-round school (ESY) at the elementary level.
- Portable buildings to be used at all levels.
- Equipment needed so that Lowell Junior High, being rented from Livonia schools, can be used to house students.
- Renovations of Central Middle so it can safely be used to continue as a school building.
- Buses, $500,000 worth, to relieve the operating budget so those funds can be focused on learning activities.
- Energy conservation equipment so that utility expenses can be reduced and the gained money also can be invested in learning.
- New boilers, roofs, parking lot resurfacing and numerous repairs at existing buildings.

THE LATTER use explains why Proposition III is needed.

Proposition III is a request to levy a half mill for 10 years and earmark the revenue for building repair and maintenance. And that's important.

We are about to spend millions of dollars on renovating existing buildings because we have neglected our investment in buildings over the years. Operating demands have always been given top priority, and maintenance has taken a beating — year after year.

Once the buildings are put into good condition, we ought to keep them that way. That's why the Observer urges a yes vote on Proposition III — it's a sound way to protect our capital investments. Let's not neglect our buildings again and 10 years from now have to borrow millions to get them back into a good state of repair.

PROPOSITION II, the request to borrow $7,277,000, is an entirely different proposal than is the request to borrow $14.6 million.

The $7 million will be used to build a 40-classroom addition at the Centennial Educational Park and to convert Central Middle into a high school.

A result of this expenditure will be the expansion of ESY to more middle school buildings — which will increase the burden on the operating budget and divert money otherwise gained for learning activities by the other two proposals.

Proposal II also raises the risk of building a white elephant — a 40-classroom school building which could be emptied completely when enrollment declines.

The solution to not spending this $7 million is to realign the grade structure. Put ninth graders back into the middle schools to relieve the pressure on the high schools. Sixth graders, in turn, would be moved back to the elementary level.

There certainly are a lot of pros and cons to realigning the grades. But the Observer believes that the district still can operate a middle school program with a seven through nine grade structure and do a good job at it. We also fear that expansion of ESY at the middle schools, should Proposition II pass, might do as much damage to programs as some feel realignment will.

Therefore the Observer urges a no vote on Proposition II, the request to borrow $7 million.

IN MAKING A decision, voters are interested in the cost of each in additional taxes.

For the owner of a $70,000 home, passage of Proposition I would result in an additional $55 in taxes for the first year. Proposition II would raise taxes by $22 the first year. Because other debts the district owed are being paid off, the debt levy would be lowered after one year.

Within five years the debt levy would return to its current level if both bond proposals are approved. If only Proposition I is approved, the debt levy would return to its current level in about three years. Both bond issues propose to borrow the funds for a period of 29 years.

The half-mill earmarked for maintenance would cost the owner of a $70,000 house an additional $17.50 in taxes in the first year.

In summary, the Observer urges passage of the $14.6 million loan request of Proposition I, defeat of the $7 million loan request of Proposition II, and passage of the request to levy a half mill earmarked for maintenance.

While some may wish to vote in favor of or against all three, we especially urge voters to avoid the mistake of voting in favor of Proposition II and against the other two. That would be the worst decision of all.

Ramblings

By Caroline Price
Canton Observer Editor

The hats hit the ring

The race for president isn't the only one in progress.

We can see the first furtive stirrings of campaign fever at a local level.

It all begins with the speculations about who will run for office in the November elections. A new state law requires all township terms to end this year and makes all township elected positions four-year terms. Everyone on the township board is going to have his or her seat up for grabs.

We've already heard rumors galore about who is running for what. But actual announcements of candidacy are scarce. Gary Roberts has publicly stated that he would run for something, although he has not said which office he is interested in. An ad Roberts ran in this newspaper a while back denied he was running for the supervisor's seat.

Supervisor Noel Culbert's re-election committee is holding a fund-raising champagne breakfast next month, which seems a good indicator that Culbert plans to throw his hat into the ring once again.

Deputy Treasurer Maria Falkiewicz, who will probably fill Treasurer Jim Donahue's place when he resigns, has said she might run for election to the office in November.

It's a safe bet as well to assume Clerk John Flodin will run again. It's an equally safe bet to assume Flodin will win again, probably unopposed.

What the rest of the township board crew will do is less certain.

We do expect to see a few new faces cropping up in this next election, along with the perennial politicians who run for something every chance they get.

IT'S PROBABLY too much to hope that we will see a nice, clean campaign this time around.

As election time nears, the more frequently we will see Candidate A rush into our office with a scoop on Candidate B.

Usually the information is interesting; sometimes it is even accurate; often, it's just gossip.

Of course Candidate B will be coming into the office with the goods on Candidate A, so it all works out.

But the toughest part about our job doesn't occur until a short time before the election. That's when we sit down, look over all the information from our interviews with candidates, and decide who should be endorsed.

These are not decisions made easily or thoughtlessly, in spite of what non-endorsed candidates believe. We don't make selections based on candidates we "like" or "don't like." We have endorsed candidates for whom we had no special fondness.

We have also endorsed candidates we aren't thrilled with, simply because they were better (albeit not much) than their competition.

We think it's a cop-out to fail to endorse someone for an office because no one is up to our standards for the job.

OUR JOB and your jobs as voters would be much easier and our community much better off if the quality of candidates for public office improved. There are some bright lights in the local political arena, but they are precious few.

Unfortunately, many people with exceptional qualifications have jobs in the private sector that pay much better than elected positions.

Many hate the trials and tribulations of political life, which is understandable. However, if these people entered politics, they might change it for the better.

That's something we'd like to see.

Students support Proposal I

Editor:

There has been much confusion about how to vote March 27. As students, we are concerned about the bond issue and feel that we have some valid points that perhaps some adults may have missed when considering the issue.

As students, we are mainly concerned with Propositions I and II. Proposition I provides for extra growth without hurting the high school, by moving the grade structure; kindergarten through sixth grade, seventh through ninth grade and 10th through 12th.

Proposition II provides for ninth-graders to remain at the high school and adds 40 classrooms and 1,200 students to Plymouth Centennial Educational Park.

The original program at PCEP was set up for 3,600 students. The capacity of PCEP is 4,400.

PCEP now houses 4,700 students. Students often feel the isolation of being identified as numbers. Adding more students would worsen this situation.

Another reason for supporting Proposition I, as opposed to Proposition II, is the lunchroom and library facilities.

Building a new wing would give the extra classroom space needed, but what would we do about our already overcrowded libraries and lunchrooms?

In addition to our growth with a new classroom facility, how and where would we put a parking facility to accommodate the extra cars?

How can we accommodate the extra students trying out for different teams? Do we add more teams?

At this time the number of students in the high schools poses security problems requiring guards. Proposition II would expand the student body and further aggravate the problem.

Proposition II adds more students to Plymouth Centennial Education Park and would be bad for all involved.

We recommend that Proposition II be defeated and Proposition I be strongly considered.

Paying the fiddler's tax

BY W.W. EDGAR

Ever since President Carter announced his plan to add a 10-cent tax on gasoline, it has been a subject of conversation and debate at the lunch-eon tables.

Just the other day the debate got heated when one of the diners condemned the president for not taking into consideration that he was making it more difficult for those who have to drive to their places of employment, especially where there is no other means of transportation available.

It would be different if we had mass transportation and could park our cars at a bus depot and then ride to work. But lacking such facilities, the added tax becomes a real burden.

"In fact," he said, "we were better off in the old days when we had trolley cars and the old time Detroit Street Railway and the Detroit Urban line furnished transportation. When they took those off the street and buried the steel tracks, they doomed the present generation. It is that old now that a fellow can't go from Plymouth to Northville unless he drives — or walks."

EVERYONE AGREED that the added tax would be a hardship and the debate was about to end when one of the old-timers spoke up and caused an opening of the minds to another argument.

"We have only ourselves to blame," he said. "If we had paid attention to former governor George Romney a few years ago and joined him in his effort to rid the highways of what he termed 'gas guzzlers,' we would be better off today."

At the time, if you recall, the former governor had taken over as president of American Motors and announced that he was going to make the country compact-car conscious. He was projecting a small car called the Rambler, and it was thought at the time that he was opening a battle to beat down General Motors.

He didn't succeed in selling the compact car that time, but with the presence of the smaller cars imported from other countries, especially Japan, Romney was on the right track.

If we had listened to Romney and our car makers had gone to the compact vehicles, we would not be in the trouble we are today.

"Why didn't we listen to him?" asked one of the members of the confab.

THE OLD-TIMER had an answer for that, too.

"We have only ourselves to blame because we made the autos a symbol of success instead of just mere transportation, and that was where the first mistake was made."

"We wanted to show off. We wanted a big car with speed and never were satisfied unless we had a lot of the extra gadgets to make our automobile a symbol of prestige. Now look what has happened."

This argument struck home with The Stroller.

When he was sports editor of the Free Press some years ago, he was chided because he was satisfied to drive a Model A Ford. Many were the times he was chided on the theory that with a position that carried prestige, he should have an automobile to match it.

Keep self-serve stations out

Editor:

As of late there has been a considerable amount of publicity over the self-serve gasoline problem. The Canton Board of Trustees and supervisor (except for two who shall remain nameless) are beating the issue to death. If one stands back and looks objectively at the problem, there is no problem at all.

Leave the ordinance as it stands. Why pump your own gas when you can get it pumped in Canton for the same price as self-serve in Plymouth? Wayne has no self-serve ordinance either. We're not alone. We would be a little crazy to allow self-serve to pass.

When the temperature dips to the miserable teens and to sub-zero, do you want to stand out there, pump your gas and then add insult to injury by having to stand in line to pay for it, freezing all the time? Not only that, but recently some self-serve stations have instituted a new policy of pay first, and if you use less gas, stand in line again for a refund. Do you want that?

If per chance, the wife is filling the gas tank and two or three preschoolers are in the car, this could lead to disaster. She may have forgotten to pull the keys. Children love steering wheels and keys. Suddenly the motor starts and there is a possible explosion. Or, very possibly, the car might begin to lurch to goodness knows where.

Children are very curious. At times, gas pumps do malfunction, and gas has been known to fly backward, drenching the person pumping. Ladies, when you are all dressed up, would you appreciate this?

This self-serve ordinance can do nothing but pour more money into the oil companies' and large chain stores' pockets. It would mean a reduction of gas attendants. Less employees mean more profits. Our teens need these jobs for beginning employment. I will reiterate my original statement. There are no self-serve gas problems in Canton. Let the ordinance as it is. For those of you who wish (possibly) faster service on weekends, go into Plymouth and pump your own.

Resident defends stand

Editor:

I have read enough of your negative opinions about the Canton Country Acres residents. It seems you have branded us residents as hypocrites because we cannot accept a mentally retarded home in our neighborhood. I would like to know how many of you who defend this state funded "non-profit organization" would open your home and neighborhood to this type of organization.

You have criticized us by saying that this "home" will enrich our neighborhood and will be good for our children because it represents part of our "real life." If you feel so strongly that his "home" will enrich any neighborhood, why don't you petition the state so that they will put one of these homes next door to you?

As a homeowner I have tried to pick an environment which I feel is safe for my family. I do not need you to tell me what is good for my family and my neighborhood. Before you criticize me for not exposing my family to the "real life," try answering these questions.

Have you visited a mental institution with your family? When was the last time you visited a home for the old?

Have you taken your family for a walk through the ghettos of our cities recently? Have you taken your wife and children for a tour of our state prison system? If you cannot answer yes to all of these questions, then why not? These are all part of our everyday "real life."

As a taxpayer, a homeowner and a parent, I will continue to speak out against any state and local decisions which are forced upon me which jeopardize my family environment.

Canton Kitchen Band is great

Editor:

Because of my many volunteer commitments, I am not a member of the Cantons Seniors Kitchen Band. But I burst with pride every time I see them perform and most touching of all their performances was when they escorted their late friend and fellow band member, John Niemi down the aisle of St. Theodore's Catholic Church to his place in front of the altar for his last church service.

Never have I felt so overcome by the love shown on this day. You were beautiful all you members of the band.

God bless you!

Gas tax hike recalls the days of the trolley

By W.W. EDGAR

If wishing would make it so, the powers that be would lose no time in tearing up the old street car tracks which were buried in Plymouth years ago and restore a semblance of mass transit.

That is the wish of many of the long-time residents who are recalling the days when they could ride a street car from Kellogg Park to Northville, then over to Farmington and down Grand River to Detroit.

Those wishes surfaced the other day during a discussion on the energy crisis and President Carter's plan to add a tax of gasoline tax of 10-cents a gallon with the hope of saving the fuel which fast is becoming precious.

DON SUTHERLAND, an accountant in Plymouth, recalled many a ride he enjoyed to and from Detroit.

Flood alarms to be installed

An alarm system will be installed soon on the Tonquish Creek to give the city an early warning of rising waters which might signal a flood.

The Plymouth City Commission has authorized the purchase of the flood alarm system for $4,750 to be financed with federal funds.

The alarms are designed to signal a warning in the police department when the water levels in Tonquish Creek are too high. That warning will immediately be dispatched to the DPW which can have a crew on the scene within five minutes. The system operates much like a float system in the back of a toilet tank.

The two detectors will be located at the entrance of the enclosed portion of the creek near Harvey.

City engineer Ken West explains two alarms are being installed for more reliability. The equipment is pretty much maintenance free, he added.

The manufacturer, Actron Security Alarm Systems Inc., has promised to have the alarms installed by the end of this week.

THE MEMORIES were a bit faulty as neither Sutherland nor Earl West, another long-time resident, was unsure whether the turn was made at Starkweather or Mill Street to wind its way to Northville.

"If you ask me," countered Joseph West, Plymouth Township Treasurer, "I think the line ran out Starkweather. After all that is the shortest way to Northville Road."

Another who tried to recall the various routes was Ralph Lorenz, owner of the Mayflower.

He claimed the street cars did a turn around at the old Plymouth Mail building. But others, such as Sutherland and West, claimed there was a backup rail at the side of the building and that the trolley simply backed up and, when the switch was used, it went on its way down Main Street.

"We used to enjoy taking the late night car from Detroit on a Saturday night," recalled Sutherland, "and the conductor was a fellow named Charles Thumme who should be remembered by many of the old-timers. The motor-man was a fellow named George (the last name was never known)."

"When we would make the turn at Wayne and head up Newburgh Road he would open her up and what a ride we'd get until we reached Plymouth."

THE VERY THOUGHT of the trolleys recalled more memories for West.

"My fondest memories were the rides from Wayne to Ypsilanti because they were a real treat back in those days."

No mention was made of a route through the city of Livonia and when asked about this, the residents smiled and said there was no such city in those days. Livonia was just a huge section of farmland.

All-Area basketball elite plays heads up

By BRAD EMONS
and DOUG FUNKE

It's been the year of the upset for prep basketball teams in this area. Redford Catholic Central came away with the least amount of scars. The Shamrocks won the Catholic League final and reached the quarter finals of the state Class A tournament.

Livonia Stevenson, champs of the Inter-Lakes League, captured a district title and made it to the regional final before losing to the Shamrocks.

Plymouth Canton enjoyed its best season ever by capturing the Western Six League crown and taking a district trophy. Rival Plymouth Salem seized the Suburban Eight League cage title, but not after a fight from Livonia Bentley.

Livonia Franklin and Churchill made serious bids for first place in its respective leagues only to come up short on the last weekend of the year.

Redford Temple Christian earned a state Class D ranking. Temple Christian won its league and later added the Michigan State Christian title.

This year's highly intelligent Observer All-Area basketball team reflects the balance among numerous teams. Coaches assembled recently to select the top cagers.

FIRST TEAM

Barry Spencer, Catholic Central. The fluid 6-foot-7 senior enjoyed a banner senior season after sitting out his junior year with a broken ankle.

Making a remarkable "recovery," Spencer bounced back to average 24 points and 13 rebounds per game. A good ball handler, Spencer is being pursued by such schools as Notre Dame, Virginia, Ohio State, Michigan State and Penn.

"He is probably one of the best players to come out of Catholic Central," said Shamrock coach Bernie Holowicki, who also directed former CC greats Tom LaGarde, Tom Zaligaris and Mike Prince.

An honor roll student, Spencer led CC to the Catholic League district and regional crowns.

Dave Hall, Livonia Stevenson. The 6-5 senior forward is a first-teamer for the second straight year. He led the Spartans to a 20-4 mark which included Inter-Lakes League and district titles.

He averaged 23.3 points per game to go along with 13 rebounds. Blessed with good jumping ability, Hall also averaged five block shots per game.

Hall broke the school career-scoring mark at Stevenson with 1,081 points. He led the Spartans to 51 wins in three years. An All-State quarterback who led Stevenson to the Class A football semifinals, Hall will attend the University of Michigan this fall.

"It has been a thrill to work with such a fine athlete and hard working individual," said Stevenson coach George Van Wagoner. "Athletes of Dave's caliber don't come along very often."

Like Spencer, Hall is also an honor roll student.

Howard Monk, Plymouth Salem. The 6-foot-6 senior became the leader on Salem's outstanding 17-4 team which captured the Suburban Eight League crown.

Monk, born in England, played center and forward for the Rocks while averaging 23 points and 12 rebounds per game. He became the school's second all-time leading scorer behind Ohio State's Jim Ellinghausen.

"His ability to catch the ball in traffic, get his man up in the air and draw the foul was exceptional," said Salem coach Fred Thomann. "Howard has excellent quickness for a big man. College scouts are projecting him to become an excellent quick forward."

An excellent student also, Monk has special strengths in the math areas, according to Thomann.

Dave Visser, Plymouth Canton. The 6-5 senior forward-guard led Canton to league and district titles with his unselfish style of play.

During Canton's 17-7 season, Visser averaged 14 points and seven rebounds per game.

"Dave is an excellent ball handler with very good court vision," said Canton coach Craig Bell. "He always took on the opponents' best scoring forward and accepted the challenge without question."

Visser hit 80 percent of his free throws and is being groomed by college scouts as a guard. He is an honor roll student at Canton.

Craig Evans, Livonia Bentley. The Bentley senior was a catalyst all season long from the guard spot. The 6-2 standout scored at a 16 points-per-game clip along with seven assists and five rebounds.

During Bentley's 15-6 year, Evans shot well from floor (48 percent) and had the ability to penetrate stiff defenses.

"Craig excelled in basic fundamentals and coupled with his intensity, achieved recognition for his fine defensive capabilities," said coach Jim Komula. "If a coach were to place an order for the type of personality or attitude he would most like to coach, Craig would meet all qualifications with flying colors."

Evans is a 4.0 student.

SECOND TEAM

Greg Wendt, Catholic Central. Only a junior, Wendt carried a 23.5 scoring average while shooting 57 percent from the floor. He also averaged eight rebounds and five assists.

His high game this season was 35 points adding strength up front with teammates Barry Spencer and Dan Bartels, both 6-7.

The 6-5 sharpshooter hit 70 percent of his free throws.

"Greg is a quality player who had an exceptional year," said his coach Bernie Holowicki. "He has a great competitive attitude and made some clutch baskets in key situations."

Jon McCarthy, Livonia Franklin. The 5-10 senior point guard played heads up all season as he averaged 14 points and 10 assists per game.

The Patriot honor student seemed to rise to the occasion in the big games.

"Jon played with great intensity and with the desire to be a winner," said Franklin coach Jim McIntyre. "Jon shot well from the outside and could penetrate for the layup or dump off to the bigger players."

"He fitted in with the total team concept."

Jim Anderson, Plymouth Salem. The 6-3 senior forward-guard "was our team leader in all phases of the game," according to his coach Fred Thomann.

Hustling from end to end, Anderson quickly established himself as prep basketball's version of Ron Lee. He averaged eight rebounds and five assists per game.

"Jim almost always guarded the other team's best offensive player," said Thomann. "He keyed our aggressive hustling style of play and was extremely instrumental in setting the tempo of the game. His hard work and dedication was an inspiration to our young players."

An honor student looking for a career in business, Anderson also excels in baseball and football.

Brian Kersten, Livonia Churchill. The 6-3 senior forward always seemed to have a nose for the basketball. He averaged 13.8 points and 8.6 rebounds per game. He hit 120 of 260 shots from the floor for 46 percent. He hit 75 percent of his free throws.

An All-Western Six League first team pick, Kersten scored a season-high 34 points for coach Fred Price.

"Brian worked very hard in the off season," said Price. "He is an outstanding student and a fine young man."

"He spent extra hours working on his weaknesses. His hard work was contagious to other members of the squad."

Jerry Burk, Redford Union. In 22 games the 6-2 junior forward averaged 14.7 points and 11.9 rebounds per game.

Known for his leaping ability, Burk blocked 35 shots. The co-captain became RU's most consistent player. The only junior selected to the All-Northwest Suburban League team, Burk hit 47 percent of his shots from the floor.

"Jerry is an intelligent ball player who worked hard in the off season," said RU coach Bill Foley.

THIRD TEAM

Scott Adler, Plymouth Canton. The 6-1 senior point guard was one of the main reasons for Canton's resurgence at the end of the season.

He averaged 14 points per game and was the leading assist man for the Chiefs. He was instrumental in leading Canton to a 12-game winning streak with good performances against Stevenson and Plymouth Salem.

"His consistent outside shooting was the catalyst for us," said coach Craig Bell. "Scott is a good floor leader who leads by doing. He is very knowledgeable about the game of basketball."

A 77 percent free-throw shooter, Adler is an honor student.

Kurt Thorderson, Livonia Bentley. The 6-5 senior forward was a tower of strength for the Bulldogs all season long under the basket.

He averaged in double figures for Bentley and always drew the opposition's toughest offensive player.

"Kurt has all the necessary moves to play against bigger and stronger players," said Coach Jim Komula. "He is a very good ball handler for his size and was often used to bring the ball up against the press."

"Kurt is highly motivated and demonstrates a great deal of maturity both on and off the floor."

Thorderson's brother, Eric, was a first-team All-Observer choice last year. Kurt is a 4.2 honor student.

Evan Lyall, Livonia Stevenson. The 6-2 senior guard averaged 11 points, eight rebounds and five assists per game.

An honor student, "Evan played with great intensity and usually guarded the best scorer on the other team," said Coach George Van Wagoner.

"Most people did not realize the importance he plays with the team unless they observe his play. We will miss him."

Rob White, Redford Temple Christian. White did it all as he averaged 23.3 points and 7.3 rebounds per game.

The 6-2 senior guard holds the career, season and game scoring marks at Temple Christian. In two years he led Temple to 40 victories capped by the state title for Christian schools three weeks ago.

Mark Bartkowiak, Redford Bishop Borgess. The 6-2 senior was Borgess' most consistent threat as he averaged 13.1 points per game.

The honor student "played with tremendous intensity and was always called upon for leadership," said coach Bill Croteau.

"Mark played all positions and did an outstanding job on many different defensive situations. Of all the players I couldn't have asked for more."

Big Salem track squad a solid league contender

By BRAD EMONS

Plymouth Salem track coach Gary Balconi questions whether his forces can be a "big meet team" again.

But that won't deter him from being optimistic about this year's squad.

"We may have more total team strength," he said. "In terms of numbers."

Balconi welcomed 97 candidates for early spring workouts. The Rocks last year finished a surprising second in the Suburban Eight League and fourth in the regional. Salem also did well in several invitational meets.

Four individuals who carried the team last year have all graduated. Most notably absent are pole vaulters Dennis Ogden and Jack Wellman. Ogden recorded the second best vault in the state last year at 14-feet-10-inches. Wellman's best was 13-6.

Also gone is last season's top point producer, Rich Hanschu, who won league titles in the long jump and 120-yard high hurdles. He finished seventh in the Class A long jump with a school record leap of 22-5. Hanschu also could get points in the sprints along with Greg Stevens, who also graduated.

"We're still a very young team," said Balconi, "but are seniors will give us leadership."

A lot of strength will come from the field events. Senior tri-captain John Froozan anchors the shot put and discus events.

"John has worked very hard with weights and running," Balconi said. "He's been around 50-feet in the shot during practice."

Junior Bob Pittaway, who as a sophomore won the regional Class A discus title, returns to give the Rocks speed and strength. His best toss in the discus was 149-9. He will also figure into Balconi's plans as a sprinter.

Other throwers that Balconi can count on include junior Rob Hanschu,

Salem is also solid in the high and long jump events with the return of senior Rob Neu. He is defending champ in the high jump (6-2) and was third in the league in the latter event. Sophomore Scott Fuller (5-10) returns in the high jump with a push from newcomer Scott Bublin, also a sophomore. Senior Dave Argonis, a sprinter too, and sophomore Brian Azelborne, lend support in the long jump.

State qualifier Dave Skone, a junior, is the top man returning in the pole vault. He went six times over 12-0 last year with a personal best of 12-6.

"Dave had a real fine year," said the Salem coach. "We think he's next in line to become one of the fine vaulters at Plymouth Salem."

OTHER VAULTERS hoping to get in the lineup are sophomore Mike Perkowski, who holds the freshman mark (10-6), along with Young Cho, a junior, and sophomore Len Czupski.

Senior tri-captain Greg Lipka heads a solid cast in the sprint events. His best time in the 100-yard dash was 10.5. He is joined by fellow senior Craig Stack, who placed fourth in the league (100) last year.

"Greg ran real well for us last year and Craig is our quickest man out of the blocks," reminded Balconi.

Stack and Lipka will also figure prominently in the 220-yard dash and the relays (880 and 440). Jim Spooner, a junior and Bublin will also get a shot in the sprints.

Junior Leigh Langkabel is another top returnee. As a sophomore he placed fourth in the league 220 and regional 440. His best clocking last year in the 440 was 51.3. He will be backed up by Tortorra, but after that the Rocks are thin, according to Balconi.

Four-year regular Phil Anderson, a senior, is the top hurdler for the Rocks.

"Technique-wise Phil is very good," said Balconi.

A dogfight is shaping up in the rest of the hurdles spots (120 and 330). In the picture are Hanschu, junior Steve Shafer, Spooner, Cho, Gary Tsang and Mike Sharp.

The biggest question mark facing Balconi is the distance events — 880, mile and two-mile runs.

SINCE BALCONI has no assistant coach, senior tri-captain Paul Hess has been delegated to oversee the distance runners.

"Our distance group will determine our success," Balconi.

Hess will specialize in the mile and two mile. He was Salem's top cross country performer last fall. Senior Jeff Haertel will dabble in all three events as another experienced distance runner.

Natural quality succeeds in bio of Loretta Lynn

"Coal Miner's Daughter" (PG), the rags to riches film biography of country singer Loretta Lynn, is so many cuts above the usual show biz story that it's in a class by itself.

Everyone fits smoothly into his or her part. There is a naturalness about each character that meshes with the locale and the pace of events.

The surprise among this cohesive group is Tommy Lee Jones. After his resolutely rotten performance in "The Betsy," his convincing and colorful portrayal of Mooney, Loretta's husband, is an unexpected and pleasureable development.

Considering that he has to measure up opposite the extremely talented and accomplished Sissy Spacek, who plays Loretta, that's a major feat.

Spacek is the central focus, and she is marvelous. She spans the years from 13 to 33 and is just as credible as a gangling teenager running barefoot in Butcher Hollow, Ky., as a mature, successful singer, "the first lady of country music."

Adding to the credibility is the observant camera eye catching details of life in this little coal mining community in Appalachia. It defines the ugliness of the ruts and slag heaps as well as the beauty of the mountains and forests.

It pokes into the mines and hovels, and it lingers on the food-laden tables and boisterous dancers at a social.

Careful attention to authentic re-creation of the social environment gives a background to the leading characters that makes them more interesting and makes their actions more comprehensible.

Loretta married before she turned 14. Mooney was a swaggering ex-GI, a worldly person compared with others in Butcher Hollow. By the time she was 18, Loretta had four children. Mooney complained that she couldn't cook or clean house or make love, but he recognized her vocal ability. He bought her a guitar, encouraged her singing and launched her career.

THEY PERSEVERED, plugging Loretta's first privately made record at every little transmitting station throughout the South. It's thrilling moment when they get to Nashville and Loretta makes her debut at the Grand Ole Opry.

From then on, the tenor of the film changes as their lives become more complicated. The simple decisions and clear-cut values of the earlier days are gone forever. Recognition and financial rewards are offset by strained personal relations and a punishing schedule of appearances that eventually lead to Loretta's on-stage breakdown.

The nobody-to-somebody route often ends here, on a downbeat note of disaster (as in "The Rose"). Fortunately, in the film and in real life, the gritty singer who made it from Butcher Hollow to Nashville to No. 1 country music star is made of sterner stuff.

That's one more factor that sets "Coal Miner's Daughter" apart from other film bios of entertainers and makes it a richly rewarding experience.

KRAMER VS. KRAMER (PG). Perceptive, well-acted drama about a broken marriage and a custody battle. Dustin Hoffman and Meryl Streep star.

THE LAST MARRIED COUPLE IN AMERICA (R). George Segal and Natalie Wood in sometimes abrasive comedy about problems of staying married in the midst of friends who are divorcing.

1941 (PG). John Belushi and host of others in comedy about mythical Japanese attack on Los Angeles.

THE ROSE (R). Bette Midler as '60s rock star living life of emotional extremes that suggest some parallels with career of Janis Joplin.

THE SEDUCTION OF JOE TYNAN (R). Familiar story about the pressures of a "decent" politician, Alan Alda. Hackneyed situations are redeemed by the acting of Barbara Harris, Meryl Streep and Rip Torn.

10 (R). Comedy with Dudley Moore who tosses out his tenured roommate, Julie Andrews, in his search for the perfect "10."

WINDOWS (R). Weird twist of plot in ridiculous film about rape victim.

Wayne-Westland YMCA holding open house

The Wayne-Westland YMCA is holding an open house 7-9 p.m. Tuesday-Thursday to residents of Westland, Garden City and Canton Township. The Y is at Wayne Road and Bayview.

"We're having an open house during the last week of classes so people can see just how we operate," explained Dave Heizer, executive director. "No one offers near what we have."

"People are turning to us versus places like Vic Tanny because of the tight money situation. We do offer things for the whole family," he added. "We're not all chrome and polish, but we're clean."

On Tuesday, there will be Professor Bloono, a clown who does tricks with balloons. Wednesday evening, a hiking and canoeing seminar will be offered. On Thursday, Mona of Channel 7's Hot Fudge Gang will be in.

Free beverages and snacks will be available all three evenings. Visitors also can talk with Y instructors about programs and have their blood pressure checked.

Membership discounts will be available during the open house. Memberships include free swim instructions for a year, and may be set up for automatic monthly deductions with area banks and credit unions.

Before singing one of her hit records, Loretta talks to her expectant fans.

in the pocket/W.W. Edgar

One of the strangest things in the bowling game in the past decade or two is the passing of the old belief that there was such things as "pet" alleys.

Any time a match game was arranged, there always was a squabble until the teams agreed to bowl on their "pet" alleys. Now you never hear of such a remark and it is all because of the latest methods of conditioning the lanes.

In the old days, Joe Norriq and his Stroh team always bowled on alleys No. 9 and 10 at Palace Recreation.

It was there, too, that Joe Scribner won the first match game singles title. The Palace is gone now, but the memories of those battles on 9 and 10 always remain fresh.

When Buzz Fazio took over as the Stroh captain, he choose alleys 23 and 24 at State Fair Recreation.

At the now defunct Hall's Recreation at West Grand Boulevard and Michigan, the "pets" were alleys 7 and 8. At Olympic Recreation the "pets" were 11 and 12.

And at Crest Lanes, that once stood at Fullerton and Grand River, there were several sets that stood out above the others. No reason ever was given except that the bowlers figured that they could score better.

All this is changed now. And it is significant that the old time match games always have gone out of style.

HERE'S ONE for the book of oddities.

In the Canton Classic at Super Bowl, Paul Hatton Jr. and Ed Barnett, who were crossing lanes, each a game up with a triplicate. Hatton linked three games of 166 and at the same time Barnett was registering a 160 triplicate. The odds are a million to one that could not happen again.

To make the Classic performances even more unusual, Bob Galliant converted the "impossible" 7-10 split. Meanwhile, John Sparkman paced the loop with a 650 series that gave him an 11-pin edge over Tom Betts.

HIGH SCORING which has been the keynote of the classic at Wonderland, slacked off a bit this past week.

As the scoring dipped a bit, only two of the sharpshooters broke the 700 barrier. Dave Karaski linked games of 214, 235 and 268 for 717. A few lanes away Dean Shiffen used a 279 middle game to post a 704.

In the ladies house league Janet Hoffman lead the parade with a 616 that included a finishing game of 221.

THERE WAS a great duel in the ladies classic at Westland Bowl before Mary Porter, with a 604, beat out Mary Lou Schneider for top place by seven pins. And Midge Pashkot broke into the top trio with a 586.

In the Coffee and Donuts loop, Sandy Rodriguez had a 244 opening game to win top place with a 510 series.

THE BOWLERS in the Vinco league at Garden Lanes, went on a scoring binge.

In a battle that went right down to the final ball, Brad Lackey, with a 678, edged out Lenny Elandt by four pins. The others who averaged better than 200 were Jim Mager with 629, Tom Tanske with 611 and Ted Bonkowski with 610.

In the West Side Proprietors traveling league that rolled at the Garden, Tim Smith was high man with 636.

In the ladies senior house league, Margaret Nash showed the way with 619 and Judy Caris was high in the Donut loop with 609.

ONLY TWO PINS separated the two leaders in the Kegleretts loop at Woodland Lanes. Ann Tacitto won out with a 569 and Lois Martin finished with 567.

Compromise hopes dim in battle of the subway

By TOM LONERGAN

Area legislators on a special House committee don't see an immediate compromise to the political battle in Lansing over the proposed subway-rapid rail line up Woodward Ave.

"There's really been no basic change to what the situation was a week ago," said State Rep. Jack Kirksey, R-Livonia, an opponent.

Kirksey and State Rep. Thomas Brown, D-Westland, are part of an 11-member panel formed by Gov. William Milliken and House Speaker Bobby Crim to propose a compromise on initial state funding of the subway-surface rail line.

"I DON'T think we've improved any," said Brown, referring to the legislative stalemate that led to the committee's formation. Brown, who supports state funding of a subway preliminary engineering study, is the committee chairman.

Subway opponents are expected to push for a House vote Wednesday on releasing $950,000 in state funds for the study.

The Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA) proposes that the Woodward light rail line run underground from downtown Detroit to McNichols (Six Mile) Road and on surface to 10 Mile Road in Royal Oak.

Subway opponents, such as Kirksey, are willing to compromise for less subway, but the Livonia legislator said last week SEMTA and Detroit representatives have made no commitment to compromise.

And Kirksey says he resents the labeling of subway opponents as anti-Detroit and anti-black.

"I'm totally disappointed that any question of the SEMTA plan is immediately interpreted by pro-subway people as being anti-Detroit or anti-black," Kirksey said.

"THE POLITICAL battleground is being drawn over the distribution of funds."

Suburban subway opponents, most vocal in Oakland County, have long contended that a disproportionate share of funds for SEMTA's regional transportation plan are being spent in Detroit.

Kirksey acknowledges that an anti-Detroit sentiment exists in the legislature but added, "If there are any negative feelings, the resentment is always this business that Detroit has to have special treatment."

While Kirksey said a compromise is possible among the advisory committee, which has more pro- than anti-subway members, he doubts Milliken, Detroit Mayor Coleman Young and Crim "can create enough influence on a difference of 20 votes."

According to Kirksey, that is how short subway proponents are from the 56 House votes needed to pass the measure.

Brown agrees that the votes "are not there now," but would make no predictions on how the House would vote.

"IT'S ALWAYS been a political issue," the Westland Democrat said.

"We've never passed any transportation bill in the State of Michigan with any votes to spare."

The committee may meet Tuesday with representatives from the federal Urban Mass Transportation Administration (UMTA), the agency which would approve federal funding of the $1.5 billion SEMTA transportation plan.

Dinner for a Crowd or for Two...

Today's recipes are designed for a crowd, or for just two persons. They are based on a trio of flavors — cheese, fruit and bread.

For company, there are the Pineapple-Herb Cheese Spread, Ham Loaf en Croute and Orange-Pineapple Cheesecake. Planning an interesting and memorable dinner for two is helped along with three additional ideas: Double Cheese Soup, Stuffed Chicken Breasts with pineapple glaze and Puffy Shrimp and Cheese Casseroles.

PINEAPPLE-HERB CHEESE SPREAD

8 ounce can Crushed Pineapple in juice
8 ounce package cream cheese, softened
8 ounces Danish Natural Cream Cheese with Herbs

Wheat and Rye Goldfish Thins
Party Rye and Pumpernickel Slices

Drain pineapple, reserving 2 tablespoons juice; set aside. Using an electric mixer, combine cheeses. Add reserved pineapple juice, beating until light and fluffy. Fold in reserved crushed pineapple. Spoon into crock or serving bowl. Chill, covered, several hours or overnight. Remove from refrigerator 30 minutes before serving. Serve with Goldfish Thins and Party Slices. Makes 3 cups.

HAM LOAF EN CROUTE

1 sheet Pre-Rolled Puff Pastry
2 cans, 8 ounces each, Sliced Pineapple in juice
1 1/2 pounds ham, finely chopped or ground
1/2 cup finely-chopped celery

1 cup Herb Seasoned Stuffing
3 eggs
1 tablespoon water
Danish Blue Cheese Sauce*

Thaw pastry at room temperature until it can be unfolded, about 20 minutes. Meanwhile, drain pineapple slices, reserving 1/2 cup juice; set aside. Combine ham, celery, stuffing, 2 eggs and reserved pineapple juice; set aside.

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Unfold pastry sheet on lightly-floured board or canvas. Roll out to form 15 1/2 inch square. Trim 1 inch from 2 adjacent sides of pastry to form 14 1/2 inch square, reserving pastry trimmings for later use. Fit pastry square into ungreased 8 inch loaf pan, pleating corners to line smoothly. Divide reserved ham mixture into thirds. Press into pastry-lined pan forming layers with reserved pineapple slices, starting and ending with ham mixture and cutting pineapple slices to fit if necessary.

Beat together water and remaining egg. Fold ends and sides of pastry up and over top of loaf, brushing edges with egg mixture to seal. Turn out onto greased cookie sheet. Brush outside of loaf with egg mixture. Using reserved pastry trimmings, create designs as desired for top of loaf, coating and attaching each with egg mixture. Clean any spilled egg mixture from cookie sheet. Bake in preheated oven 30 to 35 minutes or until crust is golden brown. Let stand 10 minutes. Remove from cookie sheet, slice and serve with Danish Blue Cheese Sauce. Makes 8 servings.

*Danish Blue Cheese Sauce:

3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/4 cup all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon white pepper

2 cups milk
1 cup (1/4 pound) grated Havarti Cheese
1 tablespoon Danish Blue Cheese, crumbled

Melt butter in large saucepan. Stir in flour, salt and pepper until blended; cook 1 to 2 minutes. Stirring constantly, gradually add milk and cook until thickened. Add cheeses; remove from heat, stirring to melt. (May be prepared in advance and reheated over low heat, thinning with a little milk if necessary.) Makes 2 cups.

ORANGE-PINEAPPLE CHEESECAKE

Butter or margarine
20 Bordeaux Cookies
1 1/2 pounds Natural Cream Cheese with Orange

4 eggs
1 cup sugar
Pineapple-Almond Glaze*

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Butter bottom and sides of 8-inch springform pan. To form crust, stand 9 1/2 cookies on their sides around edge of pan. Line bottom of pan with remaining cookies, breaking as needed to fill in holes; set aside.

Using an electric mixer, cream 1/4 of cheese and 1 egg, continuing to add cheese and eggs, beating well after each addition. Gradually add sugar. Continue beating about 2 minutes. Pour into cookie-lined pan. Bake in preheated oven 35 minutes. Turn off oven, leaving cheesecake in oven an additional 45 minutes. Remove cheesecake from oven; chill until it reaches room temperature. Spoon Pineapple-Almond Glaze over center of cheesecake; refrigerate several hours or overnight. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

*Pineapple-Almond Glaze:

2 tablespoons sugar
2 teaspoons cornstarch
1/4 teaspoon ground ginger

8 ounce can Chunk Pineapple in juice
1 drop yellow food coloring
2 tablespoons toasted slivered almonds

Combine sugar, cornstarch and ginger in small saucepan. Drain pineapple chunks, stirring 1/3 cup juice into cornstarch mixture and beating until smooth. Continue draining pineapple chunks, blotting with paper toweling if necessary to remove excess juice; set aside. Cook juice and cornstarch until clear and thickened, stirring constantly. Stir in food coloring. Chill until it reaches room temperature. Add reserved drained pineapple chunks and toasted almonds.

A fruity cheesecake, a pineapple herb cheese spread and a crispy-crust ham loaf are company fare.

Stuffed chicken breasts, (from top counter-clockwise) double cheese soup (with beer), pineapple-spinach salad and individual cheese casseroles are suggested for duet dining.

DOUBLE CHEESE SOUP

2 tablespoons finely-chopped onion
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
3/4 cup beer
3/4 cup milk

1 cup (1/4 pound) shredded Cheese
1 cup (1/4 pound) shredded Cheese
Dash of cayenne pepper
Finely-chopped parsley

Saute onion in butter until tender. Blend in flour; cook 1 to 2 minutes. Stirring constantly, gradually add beer, then milk. Heat, stirring, just to boiling; remove from heat. Using a wire whisk, blend in cheeses until melted. Soup may be returned to low heat for about 1 minute, stirring constantly, if cheeses do not melt completely. Add cayenne. Serve immediately, topping each serving with parsley. Makes 2 servings, about 1 1/2 cups each.

PINEAPPLE-SPINACH SALAD

8 ounce can Chunk Pineapple in juice
2 cups torn spinach leaves, washed with stems removed
2 slices red onion, separated into rings
1/4 cup vegetable oil

1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 1/2 teaspoons vinegar
2 teaspoons sugar
Dash of paprika
1/4 cup Onion and Garlic Croutons

Drain pineapple chunks, reserving 1 tablespoon juice. Place spinach leaves, pineapple chunks and onion rings in salad bowl. Combine vegetable oil, reserved pineapple juice, lemon juice, vinegar, sugar and paprika in jar with tight-fitting lid; shake well. (Salad may be prepared to this point and salad ingredients and dressing refrigerated separately.) To serve, pour desired amount of dressing over spinach mixture; toss. (Any remaining dressing may be refrigerated for future use.) Top with croutons. Makes 2 servings.

STUFFED CHICKEN BREASTS-PINEAPPLE GLAZE

2 teaspoons finely-chopped onion
2 teaspoons finely-chopped celery
3 small mushrooms, sliced
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
Dash of salt
Dash of pepper

1/4 cup water
2/3 cup Herb Seasoned Stuffing
2 whole chicken breasts, boned
4 thin slices Cheese
8 ounce can Sliced Pineapple in juice
Pineapple Glaze*

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Sauté onion, celery and mushrooms in butter until tender. Add salt, pepper and water; bring to a boil. Remove from heat and sprinkle stuffing over, tossing together with a fork. Set aside. Rinse chicken breasts; pat dry. Flatten each with a mallet between 2 sheets of waxed paper. Place 2 slices Danish Tybo Cheese and 1/2 of stuffing on each chicken breast. Roll up to enclose cheese and stuffing completely; fasten securely with metal or wooden picks. Drain pineapple slices, reserving 1 tablespoon juice. Place each chicken breast on top of 2 pineapple rings in shallow, foil-lined baking pan. Roast in preheated oven 30 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees and roast an additional 30 minutes, basting often with Pineapple Glaze. Makes 2 servings.

*Pineapple Glaze:

1 teaspoon cornstarch
1 tablespoon firmly-packed light brown sugar
Combine cornstarch and brown sugar in small saucepan. Add pineapple juice and corn syrup, stirring until smooth. Cook until clear and thickened, stirring constantly; remove from heat.

PUFFY SHRIMP AND CHEESE CASSEROLES

4 slices White Bread
2 teaspoons butter or margarine, softened
8 ounce can Crushed Pineapple in juice, well drained
1 tablespoon Cheese, crumbled
1/2 cup cooked small shrimp

1 egg
1/2 cup milk
Dash of salt
Dash of pepper
1/4 cup shredded Havarti Cheese

Lightly grease 2 individual 1 1/2 cup casseroles. Trim crusts from bread slices; spread 1 side of each with butter. Use 1 slice, buttered side down, to line bottom of each casserole, trimming to fit. Sprinkle pineapple and Danish Blue Cheese over bread. Use remaining 2 bread slices to form sandwich; cut into 4 triangles. Stand 2 triangles together, side by side, in center of each casserole. Sprinkle shrimp around edges. Beat together egg, milk, salt and pepper; stir in Danish Creamy Havarti Cheese. Pour mixture into casseroles, being certain to moisten triangular sandwiches with mixture. Cover and refrigerate at least 1 hour or overnight. Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Bake casseroles, uncovered, 50 to 60 minutes, until mixture is firm. Makes 2 servings.

Fillings, frostings, glazes for the spectacular

The hallmark of a true professional in any field is a grasp of basics so thorough as to be second nature. It was these basics which Yvonne Gill Davis of Tweeny's Cafe shared in her classes on pastry-making at Hudson's Oakland store.

Having devoted an entire two-hour class to crusts and layers, she moved on in her second session to the creation of fillings, frostings and glazes and from there, to the assembly and decoration of the spectacular tortes for which she is famous.

Recipes for buttercream and pastry cream were distributed to the class, and variations of these basic recipes were used in constructing an assortment of pastries.

DOBOS TORTE

A chocolate buttercream variation was used to sandwich together five thin Genoese layers in creating a Dobos

Torte. As each cake layer was added, a waxed eight-inch cardboard cake round was centered on it. This was pressed firmly down, flattening the layers. This step, repeated for all tortes, is essential if the finished product is to hold together when sliced.

The top and sides of these sandwiched layers were then given a "rough finish," with more chocolate buttercream, and chilled until firm. This step can also be accomplished with an apricot glaze. The process traps the crumbs so that they are not dragged through the final coating of buttercream, which is spread with a palette knife over the chilled rough finish.

The torte was finally transferred to a serving plate, and "glued" there with a spot of corn syrup. This is a precaution to prevent the entire cake from sliding off the plate when the knife is withdrawn at serving time.

Two finishing touches were suggested for the Dobos Torte: a chocolate glaze or a pinwheel of caramel wedges held upright by chocolate buttercream rosettes piped around the circumference of the top layer.

FRESH FRUIT FLAN

The pastry cream recipe could be used in the same way as the chocolate buttercream, as a torte filling. Ms. Davis, however, demonstrated its versatility by employing it as the filling for a fresh fruit flan.

The base of the flan was a nut pastry (recipe below) baked in a 12-inch flan pan and sealed with an apricot glaze made by heating apricot preserves with a touch of kirsch over low heat. The cooled shell was filled with pastry cream, and rows of fresh fruit were laid over the top. The center row was orange slices.

Two rows of peeled, sliced kiwi fruit, flanked the oranges. The kiwi fruit, in turn, was flanked by two rows of banana slices, dipped in lemon juice and patted dry. Sliced strawberries filled in the remaining space. More of the warm apricot glaze was brushed over all the fruits as a finishing touch.

The flan was then refrigerated for put to four hours. (This dessert will not hold up well much longer than this).

BUTTERCREAM

¾ cup sugar
¾ cup water
6 egg yolks, from extra-large eggs
18 ounces sweet butter
Kirsch

In a 2-quart saucepan, bring sugar and water to boil over medium heat, stirring constantly. Allow mixture to boil, without stirring, until temperature on candy thermometer reaches 280 degrees or hard thread stage, but not brittle. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored. Add sugar syrup to egg yolks while beating. Continue beating until light and cool. Gradually beat in bits of softened butter. Flavor with Kirsch.

CHOCOLATE BUTTERCREAM: Blend in 4 ounces melted semi-sweet chocolate, cooled until tepid.

For ease in spreading, the buttercream should be at room temperature.

PASTRY CREAM

5 egg yolks, from extra large eggs
2 ounces sugar
1 ounce cornstarch
1 pint half-and-half

Dissolve cornstarch in ¼ cup of the half-and-half. Scald remainder (do not boil). Beat egg yolks with sugar until thick and light. Add cornstarch and blend. Pour over scalded half-and-half and mix together. Put ingredients in heavy-bottomed saucepan over high heat, beating rapidly with a whisk until it begins to thicken. Turn heat to medium and continue beating until cream is thick and smooth. Turn into clean bowl and sift powdered sugar over top to prevent a crust forming.

NUT PASTRY

2 cups flour
¼ cup sugar
4 ounces butter
2 cups ground almonds
2 egg yolks, from extra-large eggs

Mound flour and sugar on pastry board. Cut in softened butter with knives and finish with fingertips until mealy. Make a well in center and add egg yolks; cover with ground almonds, and, using a palette knife, combine ingredients together. Finish with fingers and shape into a ball. Fraiser with heel of hand to blend well. Wrap and chill.

Byrd's Kitchen—The tradition of Passover

By VIVIAN BYRD

Renee Epstein, a young West Bloomfield homemaker, takes cooking classes, collects cookbooks and invests a good deal of thought and energy into presenting interesting menus to her family.

Her husband, Bob, shares her interest in food and, like many other young couples, they encourage their children to sample a variety of tastes.

Michelle, 12, and Danny, 10, have typical palates for their age groups, which means that sometimes they enjoy the new flavor, other times they just say, "Yuck!"

With Passover coming up (the first Seder, or dinner, is Monday, March 31), Renee has been searching her files and cookbooks compiling a menu that combines traditional and new dishes.

Any new dishes must fit within the dietary restrictions of the holiday. Passover is the celebration of the escape of the Jews from slavery in Egypt. In the rush to leave, there was no time to let bread rise, so in commemoration of the last meal eaten in Egypt, no leavening agent is used in foods prepared for Passover.

Dishes are arranged so that the foods of slavery and freedom appear on the table. A plate of bitter herbs reminds of slavery; a dish of chopped apples and nuts offers the sweet taste of freedom.

A traditional menu might include gefilte fish with horseradish or chopped liver to start, chicken soup with matzo balls, a main dish of turkey or other poultry with matzo stuffing or brisket, roast potatoes, potato kugel or farfel (crunched farfel), and for dessert, sponge cake, honey cake or fruit compote.

Although Passover traditionally celebrates a specific event in Jewish history, some Jews see it more as a celebration of the renewal of life that the spring season represents. It certainly isn't necessary to be Jewish to share that feeling.

Renee Epstein likes the traditional brisket, potato kugel and less usual mousse recipe she shares below:

RENEE'S ROAST BRISKET

5 lb. brisket
Seasoning salt
Garlic salt
Worcestershire sauce
1 large onion, sliced thick

All the seasonings are to your own taste. Renee suggests a liberal sprinkling of each. Place the brisket in a roasting pan, fat side up, and season with seasoning salt, garlic salt, sprinkling liberally. Layer the sliced onion across top of the brisket. Bake ½ hour at 50-375 degrees uncovered. Add water one-third of the way up the pan. Cover and cook at 350 degrees until total cooking time including the half-hour of browning amounts to 45 minutes per pound, or until meat is fork-tender.

Let meat cool completely before slicing (that is the way to get good even slices), then reheat in the gravy before serving. Add water to the gravy if it cooks down too fast or seems less than the amount you wish to serve. Serve gravy on the side.

POTATO PUDDING

¼ cup chicken fat (or butter)
½ cup matzo meal (cracker meal)

1 tsp. salt
¼ baking powder
4 cups grated, raw potatoes
2 small onions, grated
4 eggs, beaten

Mix dry ingredients together. Put potatoes in a tea towel; squeeze to remove excess moisture. Combine all ingredients. Blend well. Drop batter into greased muffin tins and bake at 350 degrees for one hour. Makes 12 muffins; serves 6 to 8.

ONE OF THE very important parts of a fashion show is the background music. It sets the mood for the models and adds to the glamour of the staging.

With Easter and springtime styles featured at the Business and Professional Women's Club fashion show, the theme music had to include "Easter Bonnet" among the nostalgic tunes.

The music was provided by Pat Molnar, 14, an eighth grader at Pioneer Middle School. Pat's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Molnar of Arlington Street, Canton Township.

The young organist has been taking lessons for four years at Arnold Williams studio in Canton. The studio provided the Thomas organ for the BPW show. Pat's performance was of professional quality and she received many compliments from guests and members.

The club has had a good year with the addition of 41 new members, all of whom worked to make the show successful. The luminary centerpiece were made by the women in a series of workshops. Janet Richwine, club president, said, "Everybody's telephone book was full of pressed weeds."

THEY COLLECTED the weeds and colored leaves last fall and pressed them. Using rice paper and Elmer's Glue, in layers, the dried plants and leaves were arranged on the outer surface of glass jars and on the lids. The lighted candles inside brought out the colors and interesting forms of the plants.

They made more than 80 of them and these were given away as prizes during the show.

Special programs for the show had been designed last fall by Helen Mazei, Janet's mother. Seeing the careful lettering on program covers was an added touch of poignancy for the club president. Her mother died suddenly last Dec. 3.

Other board members of the Plymouth BPW are Jean Wagner, first vice president; Renee Millar, second vice president; Gertrude Drouyor, recording secretary; Barbara Lockwood, corresponding secretary; and Catherine Kostreba, treasurer.

MARY HOUGH and Jean Knowles are back at their old stands at Isbister Elementary School after their Acapulco vacation.

Mary is secretary at the school and Jean is media specialist.

SHARON PARKER, a teller at First National Bank of Plymouth, saw her first robin of the year last Thursday, the first day of spring.

She spotted it on Harvey Street while on her lunch break.

THE YOUNG VOICE on the telephone Friday morning was full of enthusiasm and fairly sparkling with good health.

"This is Lynn Tobin calling from Savannah, Georgia. Do you remember me? I went to school with your daughter, Martha."

I certainly did remember Lynn Tobin and asked what she was doing.

She said she was playing with the Savannah Symphony Orchestra and the orchestra wanted to send a picture and a news release to her hometown newspaper. Would that be all right? She added that although her parents had moved from Plymouth, she still considered it her hometown.

Her mother, Charlene, had sent along news of Lynn's wedding so they hadn't been altogether out of touch.

Lynn said her married name is Street, but she still uses Tobin, professionally. She is a cellist and her husband plays bass viol.

Until our conversation, she did not know that Wayne Dunlap had retired as conductor of the Plymouth Symphony.

"He's the one that got me started on cello — he just, very nicely, talked me into it. Oh, how I wanted to play French horn, I had my heart set on French horn!"

She was very interested in Wayne's replacement, "Who did they get?" I told her they had gone with a series of guest conductors this season and the symphony board was conferring with the members of the orchestra about a permanent conductor for next season.

Lynn said her husband would like very much to be a conductor, "but it's a hard field to break into."

It was so good to talk to her and we'll publish the picture and story when it arrives.

LISA LAMBERT, a junior at Eastern Michigan University, is a member of the EMU forensics team.

The team recently hosted the last two tournaments of the regular season, the Huron Valley Invitational and the state championships. Eastern Michigan will defend its national title April 24-28 in Montevallo, Ala.

Lisa was a finalist in the dramatic duo, and second in improvisational pairs in the pre-national tournaments. She is a graduate of Plymouth Canton High School.

Rock musical opens Friday

Audiences will play an important part in the Plymouth Theatre Guild's production of the musical "Godspell."

The audience will be invited to join in clapping hands in some of the songs, and prior to the show, actors will entertain with instrumental selections in the lobby. During intermission, the audience will be invited onto the stage for grape juice.

And, in order to bring the play still closer to home, the setting will be a Midwestern backyard, instead of the more usual New York City playground.

Opening night will be March 28, with other performances March 29, and April 4 and 5. All will be at 8 p.m. in Central Middle School, Church and Main, Plymouth.

"Godspell" is a two-act rock musical based on the Gospel according to St. Matthew, conceived by John-Michael Tebelak, with music and new lyrics by Stephen Schwartz.

Bruce Scudder, the director, is basing his production of "Godspell" on the concept of stage pictures, where each parable presents a picture that is both verbal (through script) and visual (through stage placement).

No curtains will be used. Staging will be extended into the audience with ramps and staircases, and actors will enter and exit from these.

PORTRAYING Jesus will be Michael Dixon. Jim Crawford is taking the parts of John the Baptist and Judas.

Other cast members are Sandy Kinkead, Jeff Wilson, Janai Stepp, David Higginbotham, Melody R. Harris, Dave Dixon, Michele Pilon, Nancy Sievert, Karen Groves and Mark Brzezinski.

All but Mrs. Groves, Brzezinski, Higginbotham and Dave Dixon are newcomers to the Plymouth stage.

Scudder is acting as both book and music director, with the assistance of Kelly Hannah. He has a long list of credits, including "Gigi," "The Sound of Music," "Carnival" and "Company."

A graduate of Wayne Memorial High School, he has participated in honors seminars at Oberlin and Juilliard music conservatories, and has won several scholarships for instrumental and vocal music and theater as well as the Soroptimist Youth Citizenship Award.

He toured nationally with the Ambassadors, and has appeared professionally as a pianist. He acted as pianist for the American Dance Academy while studying ballet and dance.

He presently teaches piano, organ, percussion and voice.

Scudder wrote and directed original music for the play adaptation of Ray Bradbury's "Dandelion Wine," and is currently collaborating with D.M. Fullerton on a new musical. He plans a career in this field.

Bruce Scudder, director, leads the cast of "Godspell" in a limbering-up session. (Staff photos by Gary Caskey)

MICHAEL DIXON is a member of the Norman Luboff Choir and has traveled with the choir since last fall. He is planning to audition for the Detroit Lyric Opera and plans a career as a professional singer.

He attended Eastern Michigan University, where he appeared in "Trial by Jury" and "School for Lovers."

He and his brother Dave come from Jackson, where their parents are members of the Gilbert and Sullivan Society.

Dave Dixon will be playing his second role for the guild. He appeared in the melodrama "Love Rides the Rails" as Dirk Sneath.

Before moving to Canton, he was with the Roiser Players Traveling Show. A guitar player and singer, his goal is to have his music published.

Crawford has traveled with the Down River Young Men's Chorus of Wyandotte, and hopes to continue in theater professionally. Presently he is employed by the Ford Motor Co. and lives in Ypsilanti.

He has appeared in "Promise is Broken," "Fiddler on the Roof" and "6 Rms Riv Vu."

Mrs. Kinkead has sung professionally in Maryland. She now lives in Canton, where she is a member of the choir of St. Michael's Lutheran Church.

As a student at Alderson-Broadus College in West Virginia, she was a member of the orchestra and wind quartet.

She is now attending Mercy College as a pre-med student.

HIGGINBOTHAM IS no stranger to Plymouth audiences. In the past year, he has been in "Cheaper by the Dozen" and "Love Rides the Rails." He has served on the guild's board of directors, and has worked on set construction.

While attending Plymouth Salem High School, he was in "The Pigman" and "How to Succeed in Business." He is employed by Engineering Reproductions, and music, theater and painting are his hobbies.

Miss Harris is a psychology major at Madonna College. She hopes to be a counselor of elementary school children. She has appeared in high school choruses, and performed Handel's "Messiah" with the Oakway Symphony and the Rankin Choir.

Miss Pilon is an actress, singer and guitarist from Romulus. She has been active in community theaters and her credits are "Company," "Mame," "Plaza Suite" and "Ask Any Girl." She is employed by Kmart.

Mrs. Groves is Northville residents. The former has a BA degree in education from Central Michigan University. She majored in speech and drama.

Her credits include "Good News," "My Fair Lady," "The King and I" and "Music Man." She is a ballet dancer and musician, as well as a singer.

She is a member of Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church in Northville and performs there with a guitar group.

"Godspell" will mark her return to the stage after a 10-year absence.

Mrs. Groves is playing her second role for the guild. Audiences will remember her as a dance hall girl in "Love Rides the Rails."

She is a member of the Canton Singers and has appeared with the Schoolcraft Community Chorus and Suburban Choir.

Before moving to Northville, she lived in Battle Creek and was a member of that city's Civic Theatre. Her credits include leads in "The Fantasticks," "Plain and Fancy" and "Once Upon a Mattress."

BRZEZINSKI SERVES on the board of directors as chairman of the script committee. In addition to acting and singing, he is a stand-up comedian at the Comedy Castle and a semi-professional musician (guitar and electric bass). He is a woodcutter with hopes of becoming a professional musician.

His credits include "Play It Again, Sam," "The Good Doctor" and "Company."

Jeff Wilson and Janai Stepp are the youngest members of the cast, but both have had previous acting experience.

Jeff, who is 13 and a student at Central Middle School in Plymouth, has appeared in "Tom Sawyer," "Hobby Horse" and "Velveten Rabbit" at school. His hobbies include building models, boating, and playing and playing the piano.

Janai is 10 and is in the fifth grade at Gallimore Elementary School in Canton. She appeared last fall with the Saline Players in "The Sound of Music."

She has written a prize-winning play, "Count Miro's Secret," which was produced by Wayne State University's speech department for radio station WDET. Other interests include ballet and jazz dancing.

Providing music for "Godspell" will be a group called Freeway. The musicians include four electric guitarists, Tom Kasza, Bill Wrobel, Tim Augustyn and John Bargiel. Percussionist is Paul Larsen and Scudder will play the piano and organ. They will be on stage throughout the performance.

CLEMMIE CYBURT, a long-time member of the PTG, is producing the show. She has been president, served on the board and currently is vice president of the organization.

This will be her fifth time as producer, and she does a little recruiting in her Canton home. Her daughter, Fran, is on the makeup committee, and her son, Paul, is working on the props for "Godspell."

Mrs. Cyburt's acting credits include "My Three Angels," "6 Rms Riv Vu" and recently, for the Players Guild of Dearborn, "Ladies of the Corridor."

Also involved in the production are Helen Liljergren, set designer; Chuck Miller, set construction; Kirsten Moomey, make-up; Robyn Kirsten, costumes; Vi Roberts, publicity; David Ide, posters; Robin Galick, programs; Ed (Continued on page 8C)

Jim Crawford has the role of Judas.

By BETTY MASSON

"War is wrong, not the ERA."

That was Laura Callow's answer to the question "How will the ERA affect women serving in the military?" at a meeting of the Plymouth Branch of the American Association of University Women Thursday.

In replying, she said she was "biting the bullet." A recent presidential proposal to have young people register for the draft has created some controversy in pro-ERA camps, and has given ammunition to those opposed to ERA.

Mrs. Callow was one of four panelists discussing the legal and social implications of the passage of the Equal Rights Amendment for some 60 AAUW members and guests.

Last November, the AAUW made passage of the ERA its main project in terms of money, staff time and volunteer commitment. Thirty-five states have ratified the amendment; three more are needed to make it the law of the land.

THE LAW has always given Congress the power to draft women, according to Mrs. Callow.

"During war, our civil rights are suspended," she said, citing censorship, the internment of Japanese-Americans and the draft itself as examples. The draft is a violation of the 13th amendment, forbidding "involuntary servitude," she said.

"Women would have to register, but not all women who registered would be drafted, just as not all men are drafted," said Mrs. Callow, who is co-chairwoman of Michigan ERAmerica and a founding member of a local chapter of NOW.

She said that she did not know whether or not women would be called on to serve in combat zones.

She pointed out that during World War I, women telephone operators served on various fronts; and during World War II, the Women's Air Force Service Pilots were in combat zones. But these women were not awarded veterans' status and benefits until recently, she added.

In Vietnam, according to Mrs. Callow, some 200 nurses were awarded Purple Hearts, an award given to those who are wounded in combat.

"Women have served where bullets fly and bombs burst in the past; women will still serve, with or without the ERA, because they are needed."

"WOMEN NEED to be in the forefront of opposing violence on every level; they need to look into the role of the military and the effects of violence in our lives," commented fellow-panelist Debbie Benjamin. Ms. Benjamin is director of First Step, the Western Wayne County project on domestic assault.

Other panelists were Liz Giese, state director for Michigan Peer, a project on equal education rights, and Glenna Davis, a Northville homemaker and state president of Homemakers for Equal Rights (HERA).

"I believe the ERA will strengthen the family unit by raising the status of the homemaker," Mrs. Davis told the audience. "I feel I've more to gain than anyone else."

Ms. Benjamin agreed that raising the status of women through guaranteeing them equal rights would be helpful in cutting down on domestic violence.

"The role of wife beating goes down into the value of women in our society," she said. Under English Common Law, a man was allowed to beat his wife as long as he used an instrument no thicker than his thumb.

"There is still a carryover from this attitude of the 1700s," she said.

Although laws have been written to protect women from domestic violence, enforcement has often fallen short, she added.

One reason women stay with husbands who abuse them is economic necessity, she pointed out. And in spite of the passage of many laws guaranteeing equal pay for equal work, there are still many loopholes and gaps, so that today for every dollar the average man makes, a woman employee receives only 59 cents.

MRS. GIESE stated that even with the passage of Title IX in 1972, stereotyping and bias in education still exist to a "shocking degree."

For instance, a study in Northville showed that girls were not encouraged to study mathematics, thus excluding them from jobs such as engineering "where there is the least amount of discrepancy between male and female pay."

In this field, educators and parents need to be educated to be able to identify bias, she said. Individuals are often reluctant to bring suits because they are expensive. Under ERA, monitoring would be a governmental responsibility — and expense.

One of the concerns of the panelists was that without ERA, even the rights which have been granted to women during the 1970s could be taken away at the whim of legislators.

It's happened before, Mrs. Callow pointed out. In Colonial times, women in some states had the right to vote. They lost that right in 1778, and didn't regain it until almost 150 years later. During the Civil War, women in some states lost property rights.

Even today, women's rights vary greatly from state to state.

"ERA is clearly needed to protect our gains," Mrs. Callow concluded.

PEGGY FISHER, who was panel moderator, is chairwoman for the AAUW's women's committee. The panel discussion was part of a four-part program to press for passage of ERA, and March 16-22 was national AAUW "Action for Equity Week."

Plymouth members attended "Fiddler on the Roof" in Northville Saturday evening to help raise funds for ERA.

The branch is purchasing books on ERA for the Plymouth Salem and Canton high school libraries and for the Dunning-Hough Library. Mrs. Fisher and her committee are working on a program to be presented to high school students later this spring.

"Michigan has passed the ERA, but if you move to a state which hasn't passed it, get active," Mrs. Fisher advised AAUW members.

The AAUW is also seeking volunteers to go to Illinois to work for passage of the ERA in June. Their expenses will be paid.

Bathrooms take kindly to remodeling, and your family and guests alike will take kindly to a colorful new bathroom, designed for convenience. Remodeling the bath is a matter of making the best use of the newest colors, products and convenience features available, says Kohler Co., a leading manufacturer of plumbing products. An ordinary bath can easily become a serenely beautiful Oriental bath with pure textures of bamboo, quarry tile and natural woods (at left). Bradford bathrubs, made of enameled cast iron, has a sitting area and is fitted with a Raindrop personal shower so that you soap and rinse in traditional Japanese manner. Skillful use of platforms creates the illusion of a sunken bath. If your bathroom is more compact, luxury and convenience can still be yours. The one-piece Barbados fiberglass bathing module (at right) offers installation and easy-care advantages. Generous-size Lady Vanity lav is a convenient shampoo/grooming center lavatory. Low-silhouette Rochelle toilet adds sophisticated styling. For more great ideas for your bathroom, powder room or kitchen, send 50-cents to Kohler Co., Box SC, Kohler, Wis. 53044.

plumbing 'blahs'...

Many a first home is an older house or apartment that suffers from the "blahs." Probably the most discouraging room is the bathroom with its outdated plumbing and generally dreary look.

It's expensive to completely remodel this room and, if the plumbing works, other rooms come first. What to do?

Spray paint, a few inexpensive accessories and some ingenuity can do a lot to give a bathroom a new, more contemporary look. New York Designer Peter Davis restyled his old bathroom with several cans of Krylon enamel—spraying a brightly colored chevron pattern over the walls, shower curtain and towels.

Here is how you can liven up your own bathroom in the same way.

If the room has not recently been painted, give it a fresh coat of white semi-gloss or enamel. Before you start painting, check out all the places where appliances and cabinets are attached to the wall. Fill in any gaps with Elmer's all-purpose acrylic latex caulk. It is easy to apply and smooth out, and can be painted over so that patching doesn't show.

After the paint has dried, add the touches which will make your bathroom unique and will bring it into modern times, by spray painting a colorful design across the walls, the shower and window curtains—even across the towels and cabinets. Horizontal or vertical stripes, polka dots or the chevron stripes are only a few of the designs you can do, using an easy-to-make stencil.

For decorating with the chevron stripe shown, make four stencils each with two cardboard (a shirt or other cardboard approximately 8 1/2" x 14") taped together overlapping to make an L shape. Cut a 1" notch in outer corner of L.

Using a metal tape measure, measure up 50", 52", 54", 56" from the floor, and measure 10" wide units and lightly mark with soft pencil. The width of each chevron, as well as the height at which you can paint it, can be adjusted to the dimensions of your particular bathroom.

Start in one corner of the room, place the first stencil on the wall at the lowest mark and spray. Hold the Krylon can about 12" from the surface and spray evenly, moving your arm, not your hand, from the lower left mark up to notch and down to next mark. (If you haven't done this before, test out spraying a design on newspaper.)

In a room with ten chevron units, spray all even units with one color and then go back and spray odd units of the same color. Krylon dries quickly so that the first stripe will probably be dry at the starting point by the time you want to begin the second series of chevrons several inches up, using a fresh stencil and a different color.

You can spray the same pattern over inexpensive white shower, window curtains and even on towels. Lay the item on the floor, spreading newspapers around the edges where you will be spraying. Tape or weight the corners down if they won't stay flat.

Spray paint from one side to the other, allowing at least 10 minutes for each color to dry before applying the next. You'll need to apply two coats to the towels, and perhaps to the curtains, depending on the absorbency factor of the fabrics. (Do not be anxious to spray too much color at one time.)

For a final touch use the same design for the sides of plastic face tissue and other bathroom boxes.

Helpful advice for installing kitchens

It's easier to install a kitchen than you might think. Non-professionals do it every day, with professional results.

If you're wondering if you can be among them, here's a way to find out. Write for a booklet titled "How To Install Your Own Kitchen" available for 75 cents (the price includes postage) from Yorktowne Cabinets, Dept. M, Red Lion, PA 17356.

If you're handyperson enough to accept the booklet's initial words of advice—be patient!—and to follow its step-by-step instructions, you're probably capable of picking up chalkline, carpenter's level and C-clamps, and proceeding to install cabinets.

All the information is here, in 16 pages of commentary and line drawings, including an illustrated list of the tools you will or may need.

First, the booklet needs, you must plan your layout and identify cabinets—wall cabinets that are 12 inches deep and base cabinets that are 34½ inches high by 24 inches deep.

Before you can install new cabinets, of course, you have to remove old ones—and the range, refrigerator and any other major appliances that will be in the way. (It's suggested that water systems be removed and, if necessary, relocated by a plumber; also that a professional make electrical connections.)

"How To Install Your Own Kitchen" tells how to measure and mark walls to receive cabinets, how to find the high points and compensate for the low points of floor and walls, how to find the wall studs.

Then it tells you—having accomplished the preparatory steps—how to install your cabinets. It tells you to start with corner wall units and work away from them, checking that each is square and level before you attach them to one another.

It tells you how to install a blank corner or revolving corner unit as the point of departure for other base cabinets, and how to align and attach the base cabinets to each other in the same manner as the wall cabinets.

Other topics covered in this "how to" manual from one of the country's leading producers of kitchen/bath cabinetry include countertop installation, soffit treatments, how to use shims and fillers, and how to realign any door or drawer fronts that for some reason are not parallel once cabinetry is installed.

Can you install your own kitchen? Yorktowne Cabinets tells you how in a 16-page brochure illustrated with line drawings covering tools, measurements and installation techniques.

Modernize with homemaker 'in mind!

A poorly designed kitchen wastes your energy, by causing you extra steps and extra work.

But don't despair. Remodeling can convert a kitchen that's draining your energy into one that will work for you, says the National Home Improvement Council.

Redesigning an inefficient layout using the 'kitchen triangle' principle in which each major appliance is conveniently located at equidistant points of a triangle can eliminate unnecessary steps between work areas.

In kitchens too small to seat the whole family, install a built-in snacking counter to make serving and clean-up easier on the homemaker.

To keep kitchen maintenance to a minimum, shop for washable wallpaper, flooring that won't show dirt easily and stain resistant cabinets. Cabinets certified by the National Kitchen Cabinet Association are tested to assure years of service under tough kitchen conditions.

A kitchen that tires you out needs work. NHIC points out that while energy-saving kitchen improvements can be do-it-yourself jobs, more difficult projects require a home improvement contractor.

Empty-nesters series planned

"Choosing the Futures You Want — After the Empty Nest" will be the theme of four evening sessions designed for couples whose youngest child is a junior or senior in high school.

The series is offered without cost to the participants. Final scheduling of evenings will be made for the convenience of the group.

The series will be conducted by Dr. Donald D. Starr in consultation with Dr. Stephen Gill and Dr. Howard McClusky, both on the faculty of the University of Michigan.

"Although parents feel the loss when children leave the nest, they also can find rewards in planning together the next chapters of their lives," said Starr. "Life and career renewal sessions are offered by many business organizations to their employees. I feel strongly that couples should have the benefit of similar renewal sessions together."

STARR, GILL and McClusky say they share the belief that "every change in our life cycle, properly perceived, is an opportunity for personal growth."

The strategies to be used during the sessions will involve a process approach to clarify persons' future options so they are able to make their best choices as individuals and as couples. The techniques learned are applicable to other life transitions career change, work re-entry, and retirement.

Starr has been a senior associate with George Odiorne Associates for the past seven years. He is doing graduate studies at U-M specializing in life-span education and educational gerontology. Part of this work involves assignments with organizations served by the university's Institute of Gerontology.

He has worked with both profit and non-profit management groups in development of such areas as time management, communication and strategic planning. Starr has conducted sessions in the U.S., Canada, New Zealand, India and Spain.

Couples who would like additional information about the series should call Starr, 455-2860, before March 25.

A south-of-the-border fiesta lending itself to rediscovery

By IRIS SANDERSON JONES

Did I dream about San Miguel de Allende or is it really there, its church spires rising pink out of a morning mist that hugs a dry Mexican mountain?

Many people have discovered San Miguel over the centuries; the Otomi Indians, the Spanish missionaries and conquistadores, the 20th century writers and artists and tourists.

Can it really be discovered again by a tourist riding in on a bus with the campesinos in their straw hats? And did that old, old man and that very small boy really carry our suitcases on their backs up the steep cobblestone streets to an elegant courtyard house that calls itself a hotel?

The secret of visiting San Miguel, a four-hour drive northwest of Mexico City, is that it can be discovered and rediscovered by everyone who goes there.

Statistically, it is a village of 35,000 people, one of the early colonial villages built by the Spanish as a market center 400 years ago. It is one of the five independence towns from which the revolutionaries overthrew the Spanish in the early 19th century.

The whole town has been designated as a national monument in order to preserve its colonial atmosphere. It is one of the Williamsburgs and Jamestowns of Mexico: two of the nations founding fathers were born here.

But it is the experience of being here, with or without your Mexican guidebook, that makes you feel like the very first person to discover San Miguel.

THE SUNDAY morning sounds begin at four, with firecrackers making gunshot sounds up the sleeping streets. They celebrate like this during a fiesta, but this is just an ordinary Sunday so it must be somebody's birthday.

At 5 a.m., when birds caw the rooftops and the sun colors pink the stucco faces of the town, church bells begin to ring from the domes and spires that sky-line San Miguel. The Oratorio of San Felipe Neri, built by missionaries and Indians in 1714. The Convent of La Concepcion, started by one of the founding Spanish families and now a great art center. The Church of San Francisco. And the Parroquia, the parish church on the main plaza, built by an Indian stone mason from picture postcards of gothic cathedrals.

Below us, where harsh sun and shade cuts the narrow street, a man leads a burro downhill and a fashionable dressed woman walks uphill in her high-heeled shoes. Here, on our rooftop terrace, we look across a riot of flower pots to stepped downhill roofs, while the maid who serves our house makes breakfast sounds from the kitchen below.

From the street, the Sierra Nevada Hotel is just a few painted words on one of the white-washed building fronts that go flush downhill towards the plaza. Inside the carved street door, it is an elegant old private home that unfolds its terraces around modernized suites of rooms. It is one of the many excellent hotels in San Miguel.

The grackle birds have quieted and will not begin again until the birds go beserk, and settle into the sculpted trees of the main plaza again, at sunset. Carlotta, wife of the Emperor Maximilian, is said to have planted these garden plazas in the heart of every colonial Mexican town, on the sites of old military parade grounds.

THE COBBLESTONE streets will hurt your feet as you wind downhill, but when you reach the plaza you will see all of San Miguel, and 450 years of Mexican history, in the square.

A Cichimec Indian woman, a rare sight even here, sits on the sidewalk with her skirts spread out. Men with high cheek-boned faces wash their cars in the street between the plaza and the church.

Women in colored shawls, teens in blue jeans, men and women in fashionable suits, rancheros in cowboy hats, tourists — they all gather around the silver-painted benches under the sculpted trees, among balloon men, serape vendors and craftsmen.

On the northwest corner of the plaza, there is a sign over the door of the Allende House that reads "Hic natus ubique notus," which roughly translates "somebody of note was born here."

Ignacio Allende and his fellow revolutionary Juan Aldama, held secret meetings in this house. In September 1810, they rode out of this square like Paul Revere to warn the parish priest in the nearby town of Dolores that the Spanish had discovered their conspiracy.

Father Miguel Hidalgo shouted "Grito," or freedom, from the steps of the parish church in Dolores, and rode off with Allende to begin the revolution that gained Mexico its freedom from Spain.

San Miguel was renamed San Miguel de Allende. The mayor still shouts grito from the balcony of the city hall across the plaza on Independence Day. The governor of each state and the President of Mexico also shout "Grito," wherever they may be on that day.

It is sunset and mist covers the San Miguel countryside. Unsystematically, a few streetlights begin to glow and residents wind their way homeward, some stopping in doorways along a cobblestone street to discuss the day or other pursuits, another to check a loose button.

San Miguel is a good base from which to visit the other Independence towns: Queretaro, Dolores Hidalgo, Celaya and Guanajuato.

The silver mines of Guanajuato were so rich that they paid Mexico's annual tribute to Spain for many years. The mountain ride from San Miguel, the marketplace of Guanajuato, the old colonial churches and other building, are well worth a visit.

THE CRAFTS OF this area are also a gold mine, especially in the art-conscious world of San Miguel. Centuries-old Indian crafts are still available in the market and shops. Individual modern craftsmen can be found working down the narrow streets.

The Centro Cultural Ignacio Ramirez and a branch of the Instituto de Bellas Artes of Mexico City are here, along with the world-famous Instituto Allende. The Institute was founded on the ancient estate of the Counts of Canal with the help of American artists and is now affiliated with the University of Guanajuato.

Today you can visit the studios, buy both the contemporary and folk art, stroll the gardens and visit the adjacent Parador San Miguel, all clustered together on the grounds.

If you drive away from San Miguel at sunset, you will hear the birds racketing away, and the church bells talking to one another cross the town.

THE ROAD CLIMBS steeply upward, giving you a last view of San Miguel, sitting like a frosted cake on the plain below. As you drive southeast through dry cactus-scattered fields, snapshot scenes of Mexico begin to steal the town away from your mind.

A woman in a red shawl carries two buckets on a pole. A boy in a cowboy hat rides a horse to an adobe hut across the field. Three burros gather under the shade of cactus trees. A man rides tall on a horse, leading three cows and two boys home into the setting sun.

And you begin to doubt that you ever really saw that pink-spined town rising unexpectedly out of the mists at the edge of the Sierra Madre.

She is La Dulcera, the sweet lady, going determinedly about her business with a trayful of treats to curb anyone's midday hunger. (Photos by Iris and Micky Jones)

Iris Sanderson Jones

Two tight musicians and, ahem, all that jazz

Pepe Perez and Luis O'Cadiz were two music-hungry Mexican kids who went to school together, played jazz together all over Mexico and are now playing their music on the stage of a new restaurant in Queretaro, Mexico.

They are also a couple of hams.

Strictly speaking, it is not Pepe's restaurant. Luis and his partner, Roberto Moreno, the nephew of Mexico's famous bullfighter Catinflas, own the Moroca Restaurant Bar at 44 Juarez St. in this ancient colonial city three hours drive from Mexico City.

But it was Pepe who met us at the door when we arrived, his bright brown and sometimes solemn eyes giving laughter and dignity to his face. And it was Pepe who threatened to cook our lunch himself, because we were too early for any respectable restaurant chef to serve lunch.

No Mexican would think of eating lunch before 2 p.m.

Most of the restaurants in this part of Mexico are restored colonial haciendas like the famous La Mansion, on the main highway between San Juan del Rio and Queretaro, or the two best known in-town colonial restaurants: Fonda de Refugia and Fonda del San Antonio.

The Moroca may be the only place in town that offers both a continental menu and a live trio of musicians on stage for both lunch and dinner.

WE DIDN'T FIND the Moroca because of either its food or its music, although we enjoyed both, but because we were traveling with friends and fellow travel writers Richard and Mary Magruder of Atlanta.

Richard lived in Mexico for years and shared many hilarious adventures with these two formally dressed musicians with the impeccable musical credentials.

Pepe's father was a percussionist for the symphony orchestra in Mexico City, and Pepe was waving drumsticks around at age 2. Luis was trying to reach a bass fiddle from a chair at age 5, and played everything from clarinet to marimba before settling on the piano.

They met as boys at the National Conservatory of Music. Pepe toured all over the United States before the two old friends settled down for 11 years as resident musicians in the Camino Real Hotel, Mexico City. They have played with all the great jazz musicians, from Bill Evans to Dave Brubeck.

When Luis decided to move his wife and seven children out of the smog and overpopulation of Mexico City, Pepe said "why not, he's my friend" and moved to Queretaro with him.

Luis manages the restaurant. Luis and Pepe play together on stage with bass player Manuel Rios Solomillo and maitre-d'-cum-singer Enrique Sedano.

We enjoyed the food (the Italian chef worked for a French restaurant in Mexico City before they lured him away). Pepe and Luis and Richard remembered some old escapades. Enrique did front-line duty as maitre d'. But it was all preamble.

IF YOU WANT to see what the Moroca is really all about, wait until Luis steps to the piano and uses his beautifully trained hands to play a little Gershwin. Until Pepe begins to caress the drums lightly with his brushes. Until Enrique starts sending that throaty voice through the microphone.

Pepe and Luis are so tuned to one another that it takes only the briefest nod to begin and end a set, to switch from jazz to bossa nova, to make the stage a single pulsing musical entity.

When we drove away, finally, down the old colonial street, we looked back at the carved door and the understated little plaque beside it. Very classy. And then we saw the three of them waving us cheerfully on our way.

They had climbed impishly behind the wrought iron grill of a large window, three dressed musicians standing full-length behind the bars, rattling the grill work as they laughed.

Electric kit

The kit for an electric two-passenger car is available for $9,500 from Bradley Automotive in Plymouth, Minn. It includes the electrical pack and body kit. The buyer must supply the Volkswagen frame and drive train. A ready-to-drive version will be available for $13,500, according to its manufacturers. The car is powered by 16 six-volt batteries, has a top speed of 75 mph and a range of 75 miles.

The war against rust is finally being won

The war against automobile rust is being won, says the Automotive Information Council.

It has been a long, uphill battle because every time a new rust-fighting process came along, it was countered by an increased use of road salt, explained the Southfield-based auto consumer organization.

Now, however, the automobile makers have made such progress that they now offer three-year warranties that protect the new-car buyer for as long as he keeps the car. One rust proof's policy can be transferred if the car is sold within three years. One manufacturer also uses a nationally recognized rustproofing process before its cars reach the showroom floor.

To make possible the longer warranties, the automobile manufacturers have increased the use of galvanized steel, zinc-iron alloy, zinc-rich primer, plastic fender liners, aluminum panels, waxes, sealants and tougher paints, according to the council.

While designing the new cars, they improve drainage from body cavities, eliminating moisture-holding pockets. These moves are most important because perforation rust usually comes from the inside chambers.

In developing new coatings and processes, the auto manufacturers first subject prototype body components to high humidity and salt sprays in special cabinets after pelting the parts with gravel to measure the effects of stone damage.

Test vehicles are run through torturous tests that produce years of corrosion exposure in a matter of weeks. Cars, typically, are run through a sequent including salt troughs, spray mists, mud, gravel roads, inside heat-humidity and freeze rooms. Finally, the test vehicles are set outside to see what weaknesses will develop.

In the all-out battle on rust, the Automotive Information Council cautions that the owner still has a responsibility.

How much the car is driven, especially during bad weather, how often the car is washed and waxed all play a role. Additionally, the owner is should periodically clean out the drain holes at the bottom of the car doors to release any build up of moisture.
