Agency looks at ways to decrease auto dependence

A regional transportation authority is formulating plans that could decrease the dependence of Canton commuters on the automobile.

The plans under study include the expansion of bus service to downtown Detroit and the establishment of a commuter rail stop in or near Canton Township.

Gail Whitty, local government relations director for the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA), said the agency is considering a rail stop at either Lilley Road in southern Canton or at Belleville Road in Vail Buren Township.

The stop would comply with a SEM-TA goal to implement commuter rail service between downtown Detroit and Ann Arbor, by 1983. SEMTA plans to open additional rail stops between the two cities by the time the commuter service is implemented, Ms. Whitty SEMTA's plan calls for six commuter train runs a day in 1983, 10 in 1985 and 22 in 1987.

OTHER PLANS include the expansion of bus service from Canton to downtown Detroit, possibly by next September.

Chuck Switzer, scheduling director for SEMTA's Wayne County division. said the agency is considering establishment of two additional bus lines with stops on Joy and Cherry Hill roads in Canton.

The bus service would be offered during morning and afternoon rush

Plans for the future could also include establishment of a local bus line between Canton, Plymouth and Northville, Switzer said.

A park-and-ride program from Meijer Thrifty Acres to downtown Detroit is the only service currently offered by SEMTA in Canton Township. Ms. Whitty said SEMTA is looking at alternative routes for that line to decrease driving time from Canton to De-

The buses, which run during rush hour only, currently take more than an hour to reach their destinations. Ms. Whitty cautioned, however, that "nothing is definite yet."

She said SEMTA will begin a preliminary engineering study soon to determine which of two sites is the best for a commuter rail stop. Switzer expects a decision on bus service expansion within the next few months.

THE TWO visited Canton Township officials along with other SEMTA representatives last week to present their tentative plans for mass transit.

Canton Supervisor Noel Culbert urged SEMTA last December to consider a commuter rail stop in the township and expansion of bus services.

Ms. Whitty said chances are good that SEMTA will establish the rail stop in the vicinity of Canton.

Commuter rail service between Detroit and Ann Arbor is part of SEMTA's regional transportation plan, she said. The plan also includes doubling of bus service in the metropolitan area.

According to Ms. Whitty, SEMTA, will take over responsibility for Detroit-to-Ann Arbor rail service in 1983. The line is currently operated by Amtrak as part of the company's Detroitto-Chicago run.

Garbage collector finds man in truck

Fred Mullins had an unpleasant surprise when he woke up Tuesday

He was inside a garbage truck.

Richard Williams, the driver of the garbage truck, was about to dump his load at the Woodland Meadows landfill in southeast Canton about 8:20 a.m. Tuesday when he heard screams coming from the back of his truck.

Williams called Canton Township firefighters, who rescued the 66-yearold Detroiter. He had been inside the truck for over 5 hours, according to po-

The truck was the property of Waste Management Co. of Canton. Mullins told police that he had no idea how he got in the truck in the first place. Mullins suggested that either he fell in a dumpster or someone put him there.

Police suspect that Mullins was intoxicated and climbed into the dumpster to fall asleep.

Mullins was found in the very front of the truck. Police theorized that Mullins was picked up from a dumpster at Grand River and Clifford in Detroit. It. was one of the first stops for Williams Mullins was lucky to wake up when he did. According to Lt. Larry Stewart of the Canton Police, Mullins could have been killed if he had been dumped at the landfill area.

As it turned out though, Mullins was relatively unscathed when he emerged from the truck.

"He had a bad ride," said Stewart. "I don't think he wants to see us again." Mullins was taken to Detroit where three warrants for failure to appear at Detroit's Traffic Court await him. Incidentally, he was taken in a car.

Gas line ruptures

Employees of A&P Construction Co. accidentally broke a Michigan Consolidated gas line about 3:15 p.m. Tuesday while repairing a sewer main on Ford Road east of Sheldon. Although gas smells were detectable at the site, Fire Chief Mel Paulun ruled against an evacuation of the area because of a strong wind. Canton police rerouted Ford Road traffic down Sheldon and Lilley until the main was repaired at about 4:15 p.m. Gas service was stopped temporarily for Arby's, Standard Federal Savings & Loan and Our Motel. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey.)

Auto thieves like Canton

By MICHAEL ZADOORIAN

In 1979, 161 automobiles were reported stolen in Canton Township.

This year looks to be just as profitable for the car thieves, considering that 33 cars have been reported stolen thus far this year in the township.

Unbelievable? Even the police seem

"It's amazing that a township the size of Canton would lose a car every other day," said Lt. Larry Stewert of the Canton Police Department.

What happens to these cars after they're reported stolen? Sometimes they're returned. Often they are found completely burned and destroyed.

Thirty autos were recovered "torched" last year. Police speculate that there might be more at stake than just simple auto theft.

They have already uncovered several fraud cases where a person paid to have someone "steal" their car.

Why do people pay to have their own

"There's a lot of money to be made," said Stewart. "People try to get out of their debts."

THE PROCESS is relatively simple. The car is "stolen" and driven to some unpopulated road. There the car is parked and burned. The theft is reported to the police, and the "victim" is paid by the insurance company.

Most auto owners, however, do not pay to have their car stolen. But car thieves have become so sophisticated, there is virtually no car that they cannot steal. In Garden City, thieves simply towed away a car once, Steward recalled from his tenure there.

Auto theft is popular, because the parts of a car are generally worth more than the car itself.

says Stewart. The police cannot offer much com-

Board weighs 2nd bond try

A request for voters to approve a loan of $11 million may be on the June 9 ballot of Plymouth-Canton Communi-

An $11 million bond issue was recommended to the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education Monday night by Superintendent John Hoben. If voters approved the loan for $11 million, the debt retirement levy the first year would be 1.12 mills higher or an increase in added taxes of $45 a year for the owner of an $80,000 home.

Hoben also recommended a second ballot issue which, if approved by voters, would allow the school district to levy its present authorized rate of 35.26 mills ($35.26 per $1,000 state equalized evaluation).

The second proposal, in effect, would undo the Headlee rollback which would have forced the authorized millage to a lower level of 33.94 mills - a reduction of 1\32 mills.

The school board will discuss the two ballot proposals recommended by administration at a work study meeting this Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the board offices at 454 S. Harvey, Plymouth. A final decision must be made by the April 28 school board meeting if deadlines are to be met to place the issues on the June 9 ballot.

HOBEN STRESSED that the administration believes the district still needs the $14.7 million loan requested in Proposition I of last month's special election.

However, state law provides "substantial" change must be made in a ballot proposal before it can be brought back to voters within six months of a defeat, explained Hoben

With other elections scheduled, the school board would be unable to bring back the same proposal until the week of Sept. 28 or sometime in January 1981.

With inflation of 1 percent a month, Hoben said, the board would have to request a $16.6 million bond issue in September to buy what the $14.7 million bond issue of March 1980 would have purchased. Rather than raising the cost of Proposition I by almost $2 million, Hoben said, it would be better to cut out necessary parts and give voters a chance to approve an $11 million issue in June.

School bonding attorneys have indicated that an $11 million request would be considered substantially different and would meet the law's require-

About $500,000 to buy new buses and about one half ($3 million) of planned renovations of Central Middle School were deleted from the $14.7 million proposal defeated in March to reach the $11 million mark.

The buses may be purchased with operating funds, said Hoben, although the needed renovation of Central will have to be delayed until sometime in the future when voters are more likely to approve it.

THE SECOND BALLOT proposal requested by Hoben would read:

"Shall the authorized millage rate for operating purposes of Plymouth-

Canton Community Schools, Wayne and Washtenaw Counties, Michigan, be approved for levy in 1980 without regard to reduction required by Section 31 of Article 9 of the State Constitution of Hoben said this proposal is an attempt to recover a $1.1 million 1980-81 operating budget caused by the millage rollback required by the tax limitation provisions of the constitution.

By voting, in effect, to restore the 1.32 mills otherwise cut back, the district would keep the $1.1 million in income without any increase in millage

"The proposal is something like a millage renewal in that there is no increase in rate being levied on the taxpayer. All we would be asking for is permission to levy all authorized mills

- the mills we collected for 1979-80. Hoben said he felt it would be better to seek restoration of the 1.32 mills otherwise lost, than to ask voter approval of additional millage.

The district next year is facing a reduction in state aid payments of about $1.5 million in addition to the $1.1 million loss because of the Headlee roll-

The current budget figures indicate a budget deficit of about $2 million for the coming year which must be made up somehow. Hoben said if the 1.32 mills were restored by voters the budget would be balanced with about $500,000 from this year's fund equity and by cutting about $500,000 from current expenses.

THE ADMINISTRATION also is asking the school board to go on record affirming that:

· There will be no need for Expanded School Year (ESY) expansion in 1980-81 but likely will be at the elementary level the following year.

· There will be no need for boundary changes in '80-81 but there will be readjustments of overflow of student population at the elementary and middle school levels.

· There will be a realignment of grades after the '80-81 school year.

Trustees Sylvia Stetz and Tom Yack both indicated they supported both ballot requests from administration. The three trustees made their positions known Monday because they will be absent from this Monday's study session.

McClendon told the board that all ninth grade health education instructors have received special instruction from the state and are certified as being qualified to offer reproductive health instruction.

There also was a discussion about offering the material to adults through the community education department so that parents could take the instruction as the same time their parents do. This was cone in Flint, said McClendon, and the demand was such that the num-

Hoben gets new contract

A new contract was approved Monday by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education for the superintendent of schools.

The new contract is for the current school and is almost a year late in being signed.

The agreement provides for a pay raise of 6.6 percent, from $46,922 to $50,000, and other improvements in fringe benefits.

The fringe benefits include a maximum mileage allowance of $1,800 a year, a maximum expense allowance of $3,000 a year, a tax shelter annuity of 5 percent of base salary, and the usual improvements in life, health and disability insurance coverage given other ty.

Tom Yack, board president, said there was some discussion among trustees about not extending a contract to the superintendent until the board had signed agreements with all employee

Yack said the board decided against that approach, though, as the employees also have some control over the outcome of negotiations and it is not entirely up to the administration on whether a settlement is reached.

Hoben has been superintendent of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools for 10 years which makes him the most senior superintendent in Wayne Coun-

Friend of the Court: Does service take a back seat to collections?

Second in a series.

By LYNN ORR

"The Friend of the Court does not have the caliber of people to handle the trauma and the emotional problems that occur. You have heard it said that divorce is worse than death, because death is final. If you have children, you are never divorced."

- Testimony to the Michigan Women's Commission

"You go in, sign your name and sit around and wait. It's kind of like unemployment, except you pay them money and you get to sit down."

- A divorced father

Michigan's Friend of the Court system, which oversees all divorces involving minors, nationally is considered one of the best in the nation for its high rate of collecting child support.

"In most states, there is no agency comparable to the Friend of the Court for cases in which the custodial parent is not receiving welfare," according to David Chambers, University of Michigan law professor, in his five-year study of the system, "Making Fathers Pay.'

But despite its collections' record, critics argue that the county agencies are not equipped to handle the problems of divorcing parents and their chil-

Alan Lebow of Equal Rights for Fathers, a Southfield-based group organized by divorced fathers, sees Friend of the Court itself as a cause of problems. He argues that the agency's inefficiency causes numerous visits to the office and actually increases the workload.

'They never come to a decision," said Lebow, who estimates he's been to court 50 times in the five years since his divorce.

"They never take care of those cases to begin with and then complain about staffing. Why do you have to go to court anyway? Because the lawyers make money. Divorced people are fed up with the government, judges and lawyers."

ONE DIVORCED woman wrote a letter to the Wayne County Friend of the Court because her former husband owed her about $700 in child support. Within one week, a court date had been scheduled for her ex-husband. But the Friend of the Court's records held her ex-husband in arrears for about $1,000 more than he owed her, she said.

He met with the Friend of the Court seven times to attempt to clear up the record. Finally she appeared in court with her husband as he tried to explain that he didn't owe the $1,000.

'The judge was so rude to him. She told him, 'You just shut up. You speak when you're asked to.'

"She wouldn't settle anything. We went over to Friend of the Court but they wouldn't see us. We had to make an appointment. So we went back again and they put him on probation for one year. I had no idea how they ever came up with so much money so I had to sign an affidavit that he wasn't in arrears for the extra $1,000 they had tacked on

"I wondered if I said, 'Yeh, he owes me that money.' I wonder if they would have made them pay it. Because some women are so bitter, they'd do anything to take him to the cleaners."

CRITICISMS of Friend of the Court voiced during hearings conducted last year by the Michigan Women's Commission included open hostility, negativism, sexist attitudes and "not caring."

Mothers said they were made to feel guilty because they're divorced. Attorneys said sexist attitudes pervade investigations, such as not requiring verification of both parents' earnings

Fathers also are concerned about the lack of uniformity among counties. Currently, there is no state agency that oversees the county agencies. Crossing the county line can mean as much as $20 more per week for child support. Each county sets its own standards, as well as its own schedule of child support.

"I wondered if I said, 'Yeh, he owes me that money.' I wonder if they would have made him pay it. Because some women are so bitter, they'd do anything to take him to the cleaners."

In Oakland County, the schedule is "loosely interpreted" by circuit court judges who decide the final settlement, often a compromise. In Wayne County, Friend of the Court only uses a child support schedule for the temporary court order before the final divorce.

- A divorced mother

In Washtenaw County, a complicated formula of child support is rarely disregarded by judges.

Critics of Friend of the Court also question the qualifications of the staff.

"People are threatened, lied to, ignored," Lebow said. "My experience with Friend of the Court has shown me that I have no reason to have faith or trust in the legal system.'

According to reports submitted last year by the Friends of the Court to the Michigan Women's Commission, the number of employees with a background in human services is scant.

In Wayne County, only one of 39 attorneys in Friend of the Court had a degree in a human service field. Statistics on investigators/caseworkers are difficult to categorize, because the agency did not list a total number. But of at least 64 staffers, only five had a master's degree, while none had a master's degree in social work. Of more than 300 employees, Wayne County did not list one psycholo-

The staff of Oakland County's Friend of the Court totaled 89, including 13 attorneys, four with teaching certificates and one who majored in social problems; two investigators/caseworkers with a master's degree; and two psychologists with master's degrees in counseling and guidance.

Both Friends of the Court in Wayne and Oakland counties, appointed by Gov. Milliken, are attorneys.

In Wayne County, referees — all attorneys — are used extensively to hear cases in hopes they can be resolved without going to Circuit Court. All four were promoted from within the department, as was Clayton Christenson, who's been acting Friend of the Court since last year and is awaiting confirmation of his appointment from the governor's office. Christenson's logged more than 40 years with the agency, including stints as a referee and assistant to the Friend of the Court.

Oakland County Friend of the Court John Houghten was appointed to his position in 1976 after spending more than 40 years with the Ferndale School District in an administrative position

BOTH CHRISTENSON and Houghten said their offices are understaffed and not equipped to deal with the increasing caseload. Oakland County's caseload is only one-sixth of Wayne's, but the rate of new cases added each year is more than half of Wayne's, according to statistics submitted to the Friend of the Court Association.

There are 44 vacancies on Wayne County's staff because of the county's hiring freeze, Christenson

Long waits are frequent. Although clients are encouraged to write letters to make a complaint, usually an appointment with an investigator is necessary if there is any kind of dispute. The exception is arrears on child support.

In Oakland County, you may wait as long as 15 minutes on the line to make an appointment.

Because the department logged 87,000 phone calls in 1977, Oakland County began using a tape system that asks the caller to submit a complaint in writing for prompt attention or wait on the line for some other matter.

The system cut the phone calls in half, said Houghten; but he admitted that he's still trying to Fathers sometimes cause their own problems by not identifying their payment with the case number, said both Houghten and Christenson.

If the name is common, the payment may not end up in the correct file. If the payment cannot be identified, the money escheats to the state. Neither Christenson nor Houghten had any statistics on how much money cannot be credited to the correct ac-

Oakland County sends coupons to submit with payments, a practice that appears to resolve most cashier problems, Houghten said.

"But the father is responsible whether he gets the coupon or not," he added.

Wayne County does not have a coupon system; Christenson isn't convinced the expense of supplying coupons is warranted by the problem.

Fathers also are warned to keep strict records of payments. And there is no statute of limitations on back child support.

The court will accept the Friend of the Court's record of payment unless the payer proves the Court is in error, such as in a ledger entry or a payment credited to the wrong account.

MONDAY: The bottom line. Why is Friend of the Court making a profit?

'They never take care of those cases to begin with and then complain about staffing. Why do you have to go to court anyway? Because the lawyers make money.'

— Alan Lebow Equal Rights for Fathers

The above schedule shows the amount weekly child support a noncustodial parent would pay under guidelines recommended by the Friend of the Court in each of four counties. In Wayne, the schedule is used for the interim order between filing for divorce and final judgment. It may be followed in the final decree. Oakland and Livingston counties use a schedule of 20 percent of net pay for one child, although the schedule is considered flexible. In Washtenaw, the schedule is a complicated formula that also allows for a 10 percent rebate if the custodial parent's income equals the non-custodial parent's income. It is usually followed by judges.

Residents want to keep the township 'quiet'

The majority of Plymouth Township residents who recently settled here did so because they liked the "quiet suburban" atmosphere.

You may be wondering why you received a survey in the mail last February that asked you to respond to queries concerning Plymouth Township's present and future level of ser-

Most certainly, you were not alone. In fact, you were among 1,699 others who were selected in a random selection of names from the township's voter registration list.

That method, surveyors say, is a typical means of reaching potential respondents.

The survey firm, Service Organization Consultants (SOC) Inc., determined even before the forms were mailed that their work would be 95 percent accurate if about 1,700 questionnaires were mailed.

And if 600 questionnaires were returned, they determined that accuracy rate would hold true.

But Plymouth Township residents surprised SOC by returning their questionnaires in record numbers. Of 969 questionnaires returned, 837 were used to tabulate the results.

The 49 percent return rate, they concluded, means that "Plymouth Township residents take more than an average interest in their community development. This also reflects the fact that they are in general better educated and have higher incomes than most communities in the Detroit metropolitan

ACCORDING TO the surveyors, the expected response in such mailed surveys is between 20-40 percent.

The random selection of potential respondents was done in four parts. It was previously decided that there are four distinct sections of Plymouth Township and the number of random selections in each was determined by population percentages.

The community was divided into its western end, the Lake Pointe region, the southeastern region and the central part. Among those four areas, greatest response was found in the township's western end. Surveyors concluded that this trend may indicate that these residents have "a higher degree of civic conscious-

About 780 surveys were sent to residents of the western end, and about 55 percent of them responded.

In Lake Pointe, 293 surveys were sent and 52 percent were returned.

The southeast section received 564 surveys and the central area received 62 surveys. In determing the returns, results from both regions were combined reaching a 40 percent response

Researcher Rosemarie Moras said Plymouth Township's response rate was higher than anticipated by re-

"It was most impressive. People are very interested in their government and that surprises me.

The survey itself included two parts. It attempted to gauge residents' reactions to their present municipal services as well as their opinions of the township's future development.

Questions were determined after testing on two separate "focus groups," informal gatherings of about 12 resi-

"It just amazed us because this is very complicated information and it seemed that poeple understood it quite well," she added.

While the surveys were sent to single-family homes as well as townhouse, condominum and apartment dwellers, she said they found the greatest response was from single-family home-

The questionnaires asked that the forms be filled-out by this group of people. No household received more than

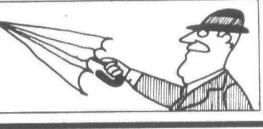

"We wanted the answers to relate to the whole household rather than one individual (viewpoint.)"

Almost 90 percent of the respondents were married and more than 50 percent of the respondents had an annual gross family income of at least $30,000.

Two out of three respondents were male and more than half fell into a 35-54 age group.

Bear auctions off a 4-foot submarine sandwich during Sunday's benefit in Plymouth for the Michigan Humane Society.

Animal benefit is a success in the benefit staged in Plymouth for the Michigan Humane Society.

Bear of Plymouth, who headed up plans for the benefit, reported that some $1.645 was received in cash donations and memberships for the Michigan Humane Society and another $120 worth of dog and cat food donations.

The event was held Sunday at Napoleon's restaurant on Main Street in the city of Plymouth. "I had set $20,000 for a goal and that would have been nice to reach," said Bear Monday, "but we were shy of that by a few dollars. But I firmly believe that even if we would have raised only 10 cents that would have been 10 cents more than what we had yesterday and I'd be thankful.

Bear added he was pleased with the results as the benefit had been staged with only a week and a half of plan-

First try at school budget is $2 million in the red

The first-draft budget proposal for the coming fiscal year shows a deficit of about $2 million for the school dis-

The first-draft document is the allocation budget submitted by Plymouth-Canton Community Schools to Wayne County to justify its share of 8.9 mills of the 15 mills the county collects and distributes to local governmental units.

The allocation budget was approved by the school board 7-0 Monday night.

Although the allocation budget shows a deficit of some $2 million, according to Superintendent John M. Hoben, the final budget will be balanced before presented to the board for approval in RAY HOEDEL, assistant superintendent for business, is projecting expenditures for school year 1980-81 at $40 million — an increase of $5.5 million or 16.3 percent over the current budget.

Revenues are expected to reach almost $38 million, which is an increase of $2.7 million or almost 8 percent over the current year, The result will be a projected deficit of $2,067,622 in expenses over revenue, or the equivalent of 2.5 mills. Hoedel said the $2 million will be made up before a final budget is presented for ap-

Local property taxes will bring in an additional $4.4 million or 17 percent more in income than the current year. State aid payments to the district, however, will drop by almost $1.5 million or by some 21 percent.

Hoedel noted that this coming year will be the first time in the school district's history that its net amount of state aid payments have actually dropped from the previous year.

Hoben said the budget is based on an assumption that student enrollment will increase by some 500 students between now and September.

Included in the loss in revenue is some $1.1 million caused by a rollback of 1.32 mills in the operating rate required by the Headlee Tax Limitation Amendment because the tax base this year increased by a greater amount than the rate of inflation.

Hoedel said the budget also provides for an expected cutback order in state aid from the governor of some $340,000 this coming August. Some of the major expense items, Hoedel said, included these expected increases: hospitalization premium hikes of about 10 percent; dental coverage cost increase of 36 percent; and increased charges for utilities ranging form 14 to 25 percent.

Another major expense item is the need to spend about $350,000 to hire some 22 new teachers to maintain class size ratios in case student enrollment does increase by 500

Of the total $40 million proposed to be spent some $22 million or 55 percent would be spent on instruction. The total spent on instruction will increase by about $3 million or by some 16 percent.

The total tax base in the school district as a whole is some $832 million compared to this year's total state equalized valuation (SEV) of almost $674 million. Thus tax base has increased by some $158 million or by 23.5 percent.

CLASSIC CAR DISPLAY

Attention will focus on the automotive capital of the world on April 26, 27 when millions of dollars worth of rare cars go on the auction block at the Collector Car Festival held at the State Fairgrounds.

The festival is being produced by Wally Donoghue of Classic Auto Restoration Inc., which has shops in Plymouth and Farmington.

The event also will feature a car show, a swap meet, and demonstrations of the restoration arts.

Unlike most other investments, says Donoghue, collector cars have never gone down in value during the past 20 years but have, on the average, appreciated in excess of 10 percent a year. As an example, Donoghue has a 1931 Lincoln Dietrich convertible sedan he purchased for $350 and restored in 1956 which today is worth more than

For some models appreciation rates have climbed to more than 25 percent a year and some cars have even doubled in value during a single year, he added. Auctions, such as this one, are what determine a car's worth because until money actually exchanges hands one can only speculate about value, he explained.

For the collector there are four types of cars: classic, milestone, antique, and special interest. Classic cars were built in limited production between 1925 and 1948; milestones are cars which mark major new ideas in styling, engineering and marketing such as the 1955-57 Thunderbird; and antiques generally are those built before 1925. The special interest is any type of car with unique appeal or one in exceptional condition. Cars in this group might include the Corvette, Mustang, Cadillac Eldorado.

Pinching the schools

When taxpayers give, the state takes away

There is a major difference in the financing of services between school districts and municipalities which most residents don't fully appreciate.

Because of the misunderstanding many residents assume that the school district receives extra revenue when the total tax base (state equalized valuation) increases.

City and township governments, after all, will receive greater revenue for their budgets when the tax base increases and the millage rate is not lowered. But this does not occur with school districts, although many assume it does.

Because of the "equal yield" formula for distributing state aid to local school districts, payments from the state will drop as local tax base goes up.

The equal yield concept assumes that local school districts with rich tax bases can better afford to support educational programs than poorer districts. Therefore, school districts with less tax base per pupil than most districts statewide will receive more in state aid, and vice versa. The object is to provide equal opportunity by giving all students in Michigan a chance at a good education inspite of the richness or poorness of the local tax base.

LAST YEAR, as most of us know by now, the tax base increased in the city of Plymouth, Canton and Plymouth townships. For Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, as a whole, the increase in tax base was roughly 20 percent.

Some of that potential increase in revenue was lost by a rollback in operating millage necessitated by the Headlee Tax Limitation Amendment. Almost $1.1 million in potential local income is being lost from the rollback.

After taking the rollback into account, the district will receive about $4.3 million more in income from local property taxes for the 1980-81 school year. This is an increase in local property tax income of almost 17.5 percent.

But because state aid is based on SEV per pupil, the district will receive about $1.4 million less from the state in '80-81 than it has for the current school year. This is a loss in state aid of about 15.3 percent.

The net result between the tax base rising and the state aid payments dropping is a two percent improvement in revenue. That 2 percent improvement certainly is not a "windfall" of income gained from rising SEV.

ACTUALLY, when all the other budget lines for the coming year are considered, the school district is looking at a proposed deficit of $2 million or the equivalvent of 2.5 mills.

Expenses projected for the coming year will increase by about 16.3 percent from this year while total revenues will increase by only 7.9 percent.

The result is that the school administration must trim its proposed budget by $2 million in order to come up with a balanced proposed budget for board

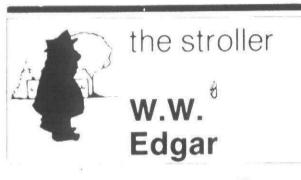

The 16.3 percent increase in expenditures isn't too far off from what it should be given an annual inflation rate of close to 20 percent and the "growth pressures" of an additional 500 students expected for the '80-81 school year.

Municipal governments do receive money from the state in the form of revenue sharing and use tax rebates. But none of these state payments decline as the local tax base rises. In fact, many of the state and federal payments actually increase in amount as the local population rises.

Thus, a population increase represents additional revenue for a municipality while a population increase represents additional expense for school districts. The difference, of course, is how the state decides it will redistribute tax funds to local units.

This difference in state funding was not recognized sufficiently when Headlee put together his tax limitation proposal. The result is that municipalities are allowed to keep pace with inflation while school districts fall behind.

While the fiscal future may not be bright for municipalities who also are struggling with rising costs, the future is downright dismal for school districts - especially for those few remaining with rising enrollments.

Openers lack old color

Unless the weatherman interferes, The Stroller will be wending his way toward Tiger Stadium on the morrow for the 57th consecutive year to watch the opening game of the major league baseball sea-

As he takes his seat in the press box high atop the grandstand, no doubt the memories of other opening games will come drifting through the years.

You see these opening games aren't what they used to be. True, there will be plenty of excitement as the players go through their preliminaries. And there'll be the usual amount of greetings among old friends as they take their seats reserved especially for opening day.

But for The Stroller, much of the color and glamour of the Tigers' opener that he has known through the years will be missing. Like what? you might ask.

WELL, HE RECALLS the days when the Tigers' opener was marked with a huge parade from the Book Cadillac Hotel to the ball park, and these parades were something to see.

Heading the procession was Bill Finzel's band that had a lifetime contract with Frank J. Navin, then the owner of the Tigers, to appear with his band on opening day.

Behind the band came the Tigers in a tally-ho. (To the younger generation a tally-ho was a highseated motor car that carried as many as 16 per-

Somehow the Tigers, in uniform, managed to crowd into the vehicle on the way to the ball park and accept the plaudits of the fans all along Michigan Avenue.

Once inside the park, there was all sorts of excitement and old Bill Finzel and his band helped to make the entertainment enjoyable.

One of the features of the opening day ceremonies was the march to the flag pole for the raising of the colors. Unlike today when the players line the base paths and just look on, they used to march to deep center field and their marching steps were something to behold.

Once the march was ended, the fun continued with the tossing of the first ball - either by the governor of Michigan or the mayor of Detroit. They alternated each year on the mound. And this was serious business, too, as it became a political activi-

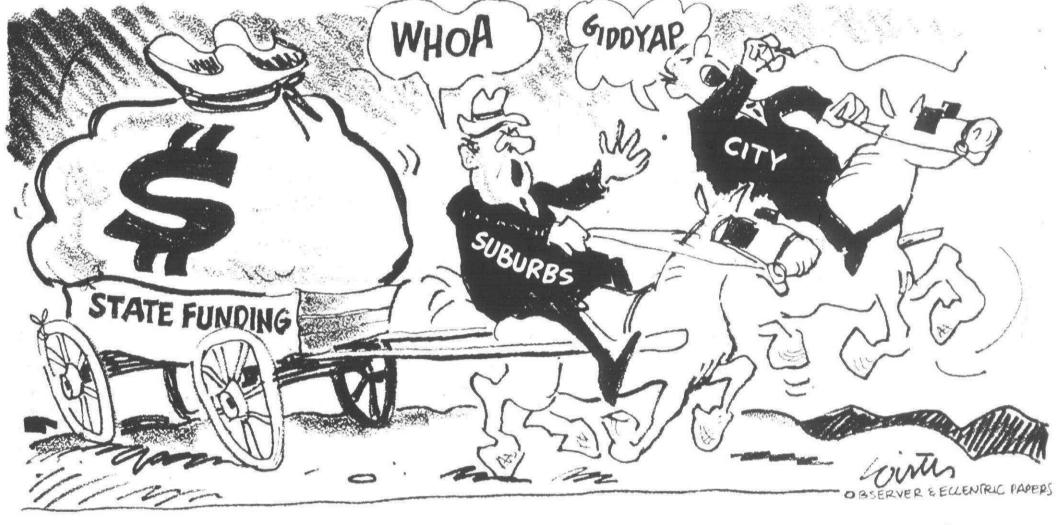

Usually, we had a Republican governor and a Democratic mayor. If there was a slip along the way, a wild pitch or a passed ball, the Democrats blamed the Republicans and vice versa. But it always was fun.

THEN CAME the presentation of the floral horseshoe by the firemen at home plate - the only carryover from the old days - and the game was

These are the sights that will live again with The Stroller as he takes his place in that lofty perch along the third base line.

Until the actual game gets under way when all eyes will be on Sparky Anderson and his players, The Stroller will be visiting with ghosts. Sure, enough, no doubt he will see the legendary Frank J. Navin take his seat in the owner's box. Looking around the press box he will envision such stalwarts of the press as H.G. Salsinger of the Detroit News, Harry Bullion, sports editor of the Detroit Free Press and E.A. Batchelor, of the oldtime glossy newspaper — the Saturday Night.

But one thing is certain. The flood of memories w will make it an enjoyable afternoon whether the Tigers win or lose.

Substance takes a back seat to tactics

This is far from the happiest time to be covering metropolitan politics.

Tensions between Detroit and the so-called "suburbs" are high. Name-calling frequently takes precedence over problem-solving.

What's happening is that the 1980 census count has been taken, preliminary results will be known later this year, and the only question will be how badly Detroit fares.

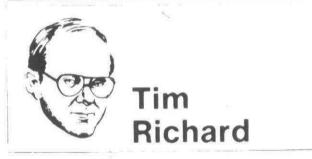

A new census means political reapportionment. The rush is on to get things done before reapportionment shifts a lot of power to the outlying area. Consider these arenas:

SEMTA'S 1990 transit plan, usually referred to by lazy writers and politicians as the "Detroit subway."

The 15-member SEMTA board has five Detroiters, three from out-Wayne County, three from Oakland, two from Macomb and two from the smaller counties. That board last December approved a rapid transit plan with an underground line for Woodward from downtown to McNichols (Six Mile).

It's entirely possible that Detroit, out-Wayne and Oakland will have nearly equal populations, or even that Detroit will be the smallest of the three.

If the SEMTA board is reapportioned, and with all the delays the transit plan is running into, will the new board scrap the plan and go to an all-bus system which some of the more backward suburban politicians prefer?

We can't forget the meddlesome Michigan Legislature, either. State funding will play an important role. All delays hurt the 1990 plan's chances.

The transit plan has already been delayed a couple of years by the federal bureaucracy's requirement that SEMTA perform an exhaustive, expensive "alternatives analysis." What we now have is not a discussion of the rail plan on its merits but a fight between "hurry" and

WAYNE COUNTY home rule and administrative reorganization.

It's more than a Wayne County issue because a lot of state funding is involved.

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners has voted to put a charter commission question on the ballot. Internally, county politicos are split - Detroiters wanting an appointive county manager and suburbanites wanting an elected executive with more political clout.

If charter commissioners are elected this year, they are likely to come from districts that will give Detroit a 15-12 majority. The charter which is drafted will go to a vote in November of 1981, which just happens to be the time of Detroit's mayoral election with considerably less activity in suburbia. Chalk up a built-in advantage for Detroit.

Out-county politicos are likely to seek a courtordered delay in order to allow for reapportionment under the 1980 census.

What I'd like to be writing about is the merits of the manager versus the executive. What I'm actually writing about is "hurry" and "wait" machinations.

URBAN PROGRAMS in the state legislature and in Congress

If a lot of domestic programs are cut now — as President Carter proposes in his balanced budget they may not be restored when a reapportioned Congress, loaded with suburbanites and Sun Belters, gathers in a more prosperous 1983.

It's not a fun time to be covering metropolitan politics. One winds up writing about tactics and not substance.

Housing prices don't measure real values

"You know, Steve, what's happening in our economy isn't all bad. Sure, it's hard to get through, but Americans have had too much, spent too much,

This epistle came from a local real estate dealer who wandered into the office the other day to drop off a press release.

The cordial greeting "how's business?" brought on the response.

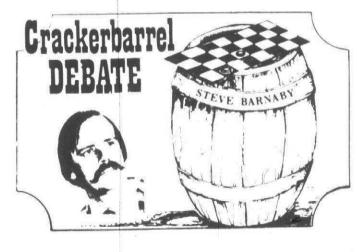

"It's a good thing we've got land contracts or we all would be out of business right now," he continued. "But at least housing prices are beginning to

"Something had to happen to stop this inflation in the housing market. People were just paying too much for their homes."

The conversation ended on a mutual note of sympathy for those who have paid top price for a home on which they probably never will get a full return because of the depressed housing industry.

THIS PENCHANT for "keeping up" property values has caused us all a lot of unneccessary grief. Frankly, we've too often let our hearts overrule our intellect when it comes to property values.

Over the years, in countless council meetings, inevitably someone gets up and questions how this or that issue will effect the property value of his home. For years suburbia has been on a speculation spree, with homeowner hopefuls lining up to pay any price for a home. Instead of years, houses were changing owners in months.

Meanwhile, developers were having a ball. Making lots of bucks, they were gobbling up land and building subdivisions farther and farther away from the metropolitan area.

Historically, it is reminiscent of the hysteria which surrounded the Oklahoma land rush during the last century. But instead of racing to a plot of land on a horse, the new Americans jumped in their cars every Saturday and Sunday to seek out new

Now a calm is quickly coming over the land. And many homeowners are going to find themselves in an untenable position.

Not only is the buyer market drying up, but increased gasoline prices have stranded tens of thousands miles away from their jobs.

ECONOMIZING on driving is a losing battle. Prices just keep on rising with no relief in sight. So many of us were wrong. It isn't the "value" of a house which is important. What is important is the value which we put on the community in which we

But instead of emphasizing community value, many of us have opted for property value - a very shaky barometer.

In Garden City, for instance, homeowners complain that a development of a group home for retarded will harm their property values.

In Birmingham, the city is entangled in a legal battle with the federal government over construction of low-income housing. Residents, once again, fear for their property values.

It's a sad commentary on the American way of life when we turn away from the human values of a community for the property values of our homes which are manipulated by forces over which we have little or no control.

A photo of windmill and tulips in Holland, Mich., is well composed because the windmill is not placed dead center and the lines of the tree branches lead the eye to the subject.

Stop! Look at picture

A few weeks ago, we discussed the value of impact in your photographs and how impact can make the difference between ho-hum pictures and that shot that draws everyone's attention.

One of your best tools to add required impact to your photographs is good composition. Composition can be thought of as the effective placement of the main subject and supporting elements in the picture. Elimination of unnecessary and unwanted details in a photograph also are good composition.

The next time you look through your camera and are about to push the shutter, stop! Yes, stop and take a really good, long look.

Examine your subject. Is there a tree growing out of Aunt Sylvia's head? Have you placed her in a dynamically strong part of the frame? Look at all four corners of the viwfinder. Is there something there, perhaps distracting, that doesn't belong?

Good composition begins with a solid look through the camera and a determination of what you, the photographer, want to record on the film in the most effective way.

guidelines to help you plan and obtain good composition:

• Vertical vs. horizontal - Most cameras produce a rectangular negative and a resulting rectangular print. Always fit the picture to your subject. People and trees, for example, go up and down, so most often a vertical composition should be used. Horizons go sideways, so a horizontal format would be appropriate.

 Subject placement — Avoid placing the main subject smack in the middle of the picture. As you are looking through the viewfinder, imagine two horizontal lines and two vertical lines splitting the frame into nine equal parts. You'll notice that these imaginary lines, if real, would intersect at four points.

Placing your main subject near one of these intersecting points adds interest and a dynamic quality to your pic-

· Select the best camera position -Take a moment and study your subject to decide the best angle to shoot from. A low angle provides an uncluttered sky background when shooting out-

LISTED BELOW are some basic doors. Or shoot from a high angle to deemphasize the sky on an overcast day.

Consider the horizon line, too. A low horizon line in your picture accentuates spaciousness, especially with white, fluffy clouds against a blue sky. Use a high horizon line to suggest closeness. Above all, think, and plan out your photograph • Use "lead-in" lines — The lines in a picture should lead attention toward the subject, not away from it. You can find such lines in almost all pictures. They can be roads, streams, fences, shadows, even parts of a building. Select a camera viewpoint to take advantage of these natural lines to effectively direct attention into the picture.

In essence, composition is the selection and arrangement of objects in your camera's viewfinder. Taking that extra long look and thinking about good composition will give your photographs more excitement and certainly more impact.

Some yesterdays make up for lost tomorrows

"Tomorrow never was a day. All we have is yesterday.

Poetry was a secret my father kept hidden among his music sheets. Perhaps it was meant to be. When I found the poem containing the above lines, everything was yesterday.

Although Mom served quotations as a main course with every meal, I didn't digest the message until I was forced to learn from experience.

I had been married five years and busily occupied with small children when Daddy telephoned. Karen Dwyer, my dearest childhood friend, had been admitted to University Hospital in Ann Arbor with what the doctors termed acute anemia.

Despite Daddy's frequent phone calls to remind me, two weeks passed before I suggested to my husband we drive to Ann Arbor the following Sunday to visit Karen, whose condition was now described as "serious.

That Sunday morning over breakfast coffee, I scanned the morning paper. Somehow my eyes fell on the death notices.

HIS 69TH BIRTHDAY was in August and I insisted on a party, although his health didn't lend itself to the mood.

The cake was too special for a bakery to prepare, so I baked it, topping it with a picture of a little girl inscribed: "You are my happiness."

There were balloons, noisemakers and paper hats. The last picture I have of Daddy was taken at this party, surrounded by his family, garbed in his bathrobe and party hat.

Wayne County puts up blockade on effort to ban truck traffic

By TERI BANAS

Plymouth Township's ordinance to ban truck traffic on two primary roads within its boundaries has run into a blockade put up by the Wayne County Road Commission.

In response to residents' complaints with such traffic on two stretches of Haggerty and Canton Center roads, an ordinance was enacted in the past few months that would restrict traffic there.

However, opposition from the road commission caused that ordinance to be as worthless as the paper it's written on.

"The ordinance is in effect but the only problem is we can't enforce it," says Township Supervisor Thomas No-

And the road commission already has denied requests from Plymouth Township to ban truck traffic on Haggerty, between Ann Arbor and Plymouth roads, as well as on Canton Center Road between Joy and Ann Arbor

"When highways were constructed, it was determined the county would have a system of roads provided for the movement of commerce and business, Kinville said. "And we can't start restricting the use of these roads for parochial interests."

ACCORDING TO Notebaert, the township targeted a ban on these two roads because of complaints from resi-

Additionally, concern was focused on Isbister Elementary School, which is on Canton Center Road.

Nels Carlson, township attorney, recommnded last week that township officials put their ordinance in a holding pattern until similar local fights with the road commission are resolved.

"What we can do in terms of regulation is really up in the air," he said last Tuesday. "There is literally a fight going on between the Wayne County Road Commission and local communi-

"There's no doubt that Wayne County has the ultimate say.'

In the city of Trenton, a similar fight has been going on for the past four years, says that city's administrator, Roy Musselman.

There, the county refused to restrict truck traffic on Jefferson Avenue where up to 60 steel haulers travel daily, he said.

"The citizens started to complain because of the noise created by trucks so the council decided to draft an ordinance that no vehicle could exceed 20,000 pounds."

That, in effect, would restrict most of the truck traffic that daily travels between two steel mills on Jefferson,

However, when the city posted signs along the stretch proclaiming the ordinance, the county removed them.

Since then, Trenton has been facing two separate lawsuits. It lost its case to restrict traffic on Jefferson in Wayne County Circuit Court and recently decided to appeal.

It's also facing a half-million-dollar lawsuit filed by five Wayne County Road Commission workers who were arrested by Trenton police when they attempted to remove the city's ordinance signs.

Is America getting soft?

A new plan to develop a model physical education curriculum for elementary school students was unveiled last weekend in Detroit by U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth.

Pursell contends that America is getting soft. "I believe physical fitness is related to mental fitness" Pursell says. "The physical decline of our population is dangerous at this crossroads in American history.

"The coming years will demand the best we can give, and if we don't have the mental toughness and physical stamina to meet the challenge. we're going to be in serious trouble."

Pursell also fears for the poor health of the children of America.

"Many of our children have alarming low rates of physical activity, and the deterioration of their health can be documented even in the early grades.

"It's important to begin now to revitalize physical education and fitness for young students. The 'Back to Basic' movement must encompass fitness, which I consider one of the fundamentals of education."

PURSELL OUTLINED his plan at the annual convention of the National Association for Sport and Physical Education (NASPE). About 7,000 fitness educators from throughout the nation attended the convention.

Pursell received the NASPE National Recognition Award for his past legislative efforts on youth sports in the Michigan Senate and his current crusade to improve physical education.

"Our Schools are the only truly broad-based delivery system for physical fitness training." says Pursell. "Yet, in many ways, we've developed a value system which is still largely geared to the varsity athlete, and basically ignores the need for consistent daily exercise by the other 99 percent of our students.

Pursell cited a University of Michigan study on elementary students which showed that between 15-20 percent of them already had the makings of high heart disease risk factors.

MANY OF the students had tendencies toward high blood pressure, high blood fat and beginning obesity. All these factors are related to low levels of physical activity.

Pursell referred to a study by Dr. Thomas Gilliam, associate professor of physical education at UM. Gilliam has uncovered evidence that girls averaged only about seven minutes of vigorous physical activity out of a normal 12-hour day during the summer months. Boys averaged about 21 minutes.

Pursell already has conducted preliminary planning with experts at Michigan universities to develop a physical education curriculum that could be adapted all over the country.

Pursell is currently considering the President's Council of Physical Fitness as the administrative agency for this program. Pursell intends to work as a member of the Appropriations subcommittee on Health and Education programs to see that the program is included in the budget.

Pursell said he believes all the funds for health are going toward the pound of cure as opposed to the ounce of prevention.

Chief swingman becomes Tarter

By BRAD EMONS

Wayne State University capped off a successful basketball recruiting season by landing 6-foot-6 guard-forward Dave Visser of Plymouth Canton.

The Canton standout, who averaged 13.6 and 8.5 rebounds a game during Canton's 17-7 season, signed a national letter-of-intent Tuesday afternoon. He is the first Canton basketball player to gain a full-ride

"This gives us a solid, stabilized program," said Wayne State Coach Vern Payne, who signed Plymouth Salem center Howard Monk last

"Dave has the ability to step away from the basket and hit the perimeter jump shot," said the WSU coach. "Dave can fill it up. He adds a new dimension to our program and can cause matchup problems.'

A two-year starter for Coach Craig Bell, Visser paced Canton to Class A district and Western Six League crowns with his unselfish style of play. The senior swingman was named first team All-Observer, first team All-Western Six League, second team All-Metro (Detroit News) and honorable mention All-State (News and Detroit Free Press).

Payne was impressed with Visser's overall intelligence and court sense. A good ball handler, Visser could also explode offensively as evidenced by a 20-point performance in the first half against Waterford Mott.

THE CANTON MVP was also contacted by such schools as Hope, Alma, Lake Superior State and Emporia State of Kansas.

"At first I wasn't interested in Wayne at all," said the soft-spoken Visser. "I decided to take a visit and was really impressed.

"I like the atmosphere of the Wayne State campus, and I'm looking forward to joining the basketball program which is really starting to

"I liked coach Payne because he was straightforward. I know he can build a winner."

Visser is also looking forward to teaming up with Monk

"We've always played against each other and had a mutual respect," said Visser. "I know if I get him the ball he'll score. Everytime we played against each other it was always stop Howard."

A member of the National Honor Society, Visser is "thinking about a career in business.'

"I was really impressed with all of Wayne's programs," he said.

Visser, a four-year letter winner and All-Leaguer in golf, will also participate on Wayne's team in the

This year's Plymouth Canton girls' golf team has a tough act to follow.

Coach Ann Buie lost her two top players to graduation from a squad that was the most successful in the school's history. The Chiefs were unbeaten a year ago in dual meets. They also won district and Central Six League crowns. Canton finished 13th overall in Class A.

Buie knows this year's team will be hard pressed to match last season's

"It's hard to tell but I think we'll end up in the middle of our league," said the Canton coach. "All the girls on the team have played. I just don't know

Wolves to stalk in soccer hunt

By DOUG FUNKE

People who are always claiming that soccer is a growing and popular sport will have a chance to back up those claims this summer by supporting a new senior team in the area.

The Livonia Wolves will be based in Livonia and will compete in the best amateur league in the metropolitan area — the Detroit Soccer League.

The Wolves, heavily flavored with local talent, have been training at Schoolcraft College since January. They will open their 16-game schedule 2 p.m. Sunday at Henry Ford Community College against the Dearborn Ea-

The Wolves will host Malta Sport Club 2 p.m. May 4 at Schoolcraft in their home opener.

Joe Mancini, coach of the Wolves, has been involved with soccer as a player, manager, coach or referee ever since he could walk as a youngster in

He has been in this country the past 23 years and has built a successful construction company in Redford.

Mancini has also been active with teams in the Detroit Soccer League during the past two decades. He says that the Wolves, although much vounger in age than most players on other teams, should give an excellent accounting of themselves this season.

"I'm the coach and maybe I like them more than normal, but we played three (practice) games and they looked great. They looked excited," said Man-

"For physical abilities, we've probably got the best midfielders in the league," Mancini added. "Although they're only 19 or 20 years old, I think they're the best in the league."

The four midfielders - or playmakers — of whom Mancini was referring are Frank Guerin, a Livonia Churchill graduate, Mike O'Shea, from Redford Bishop Borgess, Craig Pickard, Livonia Stevenson, and Claudio Mancini, Redford Thurston.

The goalkeeper is Dave Gray, who resides in Plymouth.

Other players who area fans might remember for their exploits on the field in the high-school ranks or at Schoolcraft College are Rick Laurie, Dan Naurato, T.J. Winters, Chuck Scoggins, Walt Barret and Barry Detherage. Rounding out the squad are Ennio Petrella, Chip Stencel, Dano Prezioso, Emilio Troiani and Roberto Tedesco. The Wolves were able to enter the league this season because one of last year's teams - Club Italia - no longer has a team. Due to league procedures, sponsorship rules and bond requirements, the Several of the Wolves already had some experience competing in the Detroit Soccer League. Barret, Guerin, Laurie, Mancini, Naurato and Prezioso all played for Malta last year.

Mancini said that several of the players who eventually formed the Wolves wanted to start their own team rather than play for another club.

With the return of three top golfers from last year's squad, first-year coach Jim Stevens is optimistic about his Plymouth Salem girls' chances of a Suburban Eight League title.

Stevens, who retired after 20 years as tennis coach at Plymouth High School and then at Plymouth Salem, said his team has "a good shot at the league.'

"Even though we haven't practiced outside on the course yet, I can see that these girls have talent," Stevens said. "We have practiced indoors and at the range, and based on the ability I've

A Test of Strength

Recent events in the silver market caused an incredible but understandable concern in the investment community. The situation affected, either directly or indirectly, a number of the finest brokerage houses on Wall Street.

But in an important way this series of unique events proved the strength of this 100-year-old company. The strength of Bache.

The events during this period have caused an enormous amount of media coverage, speculation and, inevitably, rumor. And we think now is the time to set the record straight, once and for all.

- 1. At no time was our day-to-day service to any Bache client affected in any way.
- 2. At no time did Bache fail to meet all capital requirements of the New York Stock Exchange or the Securities and Exchange Commission.
- 3. At all times Bache met all its financial obligations, both to clients and to the various exchange clearing facilities.
- 4. At no time did these events require Bache to seek additional capital by borrowing or any other means. Not one penny.
- 5. At no time did Bache give preferential treatment to any client because he was a shareholder, nor did any shareholder ask for preferential treatment.

These events presented Bache with a number of challengeschallenges that we don't expect to have to meet again. The record shows that we met those challenges and proved our strength.

The veteran bowlers always have claimed that weather has a lot to do with high scoring. For proof of their belief, they point to the fact that the highest scores are bowled during the winter months.

Whether it was the weather or not, scoring reached its highest peak of the season in the western suburbs when ll bowlers earned membership in the 700 club.

Leading the way, of course, was Westland Bowl with five of the 700 barrier breakers. Heading this group was Ken Kossick with a 740 made possible by a finishing game of 279. Behind him came Ken Lang with 706, Jerry Cole Jr with 704, and Mike Less with 703 to round out the Little Caesar Classic contingent. Then to pad the list, Jim Jesson, bowling in the Harlow Tire Trio loop, put on quite a show with a closing 290 for a 737. In his final game he spared in the first frame and then struck the rest of the way.

AT WOODLAND LANES, Herschel Begley, bowling in the senior house league, closed with games of 259 and 265 for 717, and Dave Shade had a middle game of 276 for 731 in the junior house league.

The firing was heavy at Country Lanes and when it ceased for the week John Lennon had paced the group with a 290 in 725. His companion in the onslaught on the pins was Dan Wright with 712. Then, not to be outdone the Ever-7 loop came up with a new club member when when Bob Smith used a 256 opener

Meanwhile, at the Garden they had another close finish in the St. Linus League. Finally, John Triede landed on top with 594 to beat Frank Chazanowski by three pins. In the senior house league Tom Tokolowski was top man with 637.

BUNNY SHINE had one of her best days in the Friday ladies league at Merri-Bowl. She had a middle game of 242 for 648. Her nearest rival was Lorraine Nagy with 583.

In the invitational doubles, Ruth Kinjorski was the pacer with a 603.

They are still talking about the showing of Fred Young, the 11-yearold son of a Merri-Bowl employee, who rolled a 590 series to win the recent pro-am at Sunnybrook Lanes.

THE YOUNG BOWLERS are doing well at Farmington Lanes and no one is prouder than Fred Hamlin. their mentor. This week Berry Van Dike paced the high school league with 246 in 648. Dave Hamilton was right behind with 628. In the Saturday beginners loop, nine-year-old Marc Frosch had 173 in 417 and Susanne McDaniel, a nine-year-old, had a 142 in 376.

In the ladies noon classic, Mary Lou Schneider had a 256 in 656 but had to yield top honors to Audrey Sirola who posted a 235 in 660.

He is also a frequent chapel speaker for major league baseball and football leagues.

DRC to hold handicap clinic

If you've always wondered why some people manage to lose consistently while others win at the track, Detroit Race Course may be the place to start answering those questions.

Or, if you don't have any interest in wagering. but just want to know the best ways to try and tell a winner from a loser, Detroit Race Course may be the place to learn.

Charles Sweeney, the track handicapper at DRC, is conducting informal clinics 4:30 p.m. Sundays in the grandstand area prior to the 10-race program, which begins at 5:45 p.m.

Topics include kinds of bets available, how to bet, and what to look for when considering how a particular thoroughbred is likely to perform. The sessions last approximately 45 minutes. The sessions could be informative to both the high-volume wagerer and the patron who just enjoys watching the ponies run.

The second of DRC's many Sunday racing programs will be offered April 20. A crowd of 10,410 wagered $1,251,000 last Sunday, according to George Maskin, publicity director for DRC.

Learn to identify diet 'authority'

I was handed a press release recently about a nutrition seminar and asked to run the notice in my column.

But the details of the release were nebulous. A certain nutrition "expert" would be conducting this seminar, but no credentials appeared next to his name. I wondered. So I made a few phone calls.

I was told that the expert was arriving from California. When I asked about his topic, I was told, "Nutrition, I

"How is this man qualified to speak about nutrition?" I asked. "What is his experience? Is he a graduate nutritionist? Where did he attend school? Where has he made his mark?"

THE SPOKESMAN on the other end of the conversation had no answers. "Well," he said, "the brochure I have here doesn't say anything about this, but it tells about his life.'

I asked that the brochure be read to me and he said it described the speaker as a "walking miracle."

"As a young man, he enjoyed success most men only dream about," he read. "Then he fell deathly sick with polio only three months after his wedding. He lived in misery and defeat for 10 years. Finally someone shared with him the dream of regained health through nutrition - and of building a multi-million dollar company, the rival of corporate giants."

"What's he selling?" I interrupted. "Are you familiar with X company?" I said I was. I recognised it as a firm should know how to gauge expertise by asking about qualifications. Know what you want and then trust your instincts to form judgments.

For example, do you remember Dr. Robert Linn's "Last Chance Diet"? Here was a diet devised by someone in the medical field. But it wasn't safe. Did this man have credentials? You might say so, but this was a case of using common sense and good judgment. For the 50 who lost their lives, perhaps someone's judgment was im-

What about the book written by the man or woman who lost over 100 pounds and kept it off forever? Is he or she an authority figure? I'd say the book is probably worth reading but the method may not be safe for you. However, most of those books have good psychological value.

Seminars are a dime a dozen today. Learn to scrutinize who is trying to sell you on the best method for losing weight and applying nutritional principles. And trust your instincts. If something doesn't seem quite right, chances are it probably isn't.

Special Olympics

Area residents may not be able to watch their U.S. favorites at the Moscow Olympics this summer. But if they go to Plymouth and Canton April 26 and May 2, they can cheer for participants in the Special Olympics.

Sponsored by local Civitan clubs in Westland, Livonia, Plymouth, Northville, Wayne and Dearborn and the Detroit Action Club, the events on April 26 will start at 9 a.m. in the Plymouth-Canton and Plymouth-Salem high schools, 46181 Joy, Plymouth. They will feature gymnastics.

The bowling competition will be held at 9 a.m. the same Saturday in the Super Bowl, 45100 Ford, Canton.

Field, track and swimming will start at 9 a.m. May 2 in the high schools, following opening ceremonies and a parade, which will begin at 8:30 a.m.

Looking for volunteers for these special games for mentally and physically handicapped children and adults of Wayne County is Adeline McCusker, publicity chairman. Volunteers are needed as chaperones, timers for track and swimming, scorekeepers for bowling, and huggers.

"A hugger is someone who greets and hugs participants as they come over the finish line," said Ms. McCusker, "whether they win or lose." She

"It is important for them to have personal contact, and know they did a good job, whether they come in first or

Anyone willing to volunteer can contact Ms. McCusker at 722-2069 or 721-0754, or Lou Mair at 453-8446. Volunteers will meet at 7 p.m. Wednesday, April 16 in the cafeteria of Plymouth-Canton High School Winners of the local Special Olympics will go to the state finals held June 5-7 at Central Michigan University in Mt. Pleasant.

GLENNY Merillat found a postcard the other day that somehow seems timely. It had been mailed to her father, Este Merillat of 1292 Main Street, Plymouth, on Dec. 31, 1951.

On one side, it bore the notation: "Save this card — it is historic! It is likely the last 1¢ Card you will fiever receive. TOMORROW (Jan 1, 1952) Postal cards go up 120 percent. The result of inflation by the administration!"

The sender was a Plymouth businessman, Roy Pursell. He was vitally interested in politics and was a well-read, thoughtful man. Roy Pursell also was an activist. He was not content to sit idly by and let events run their course.

Roy Pursell stated his opinions, flatly and fluently. A child growing up in the Pursell household must have been exposed to political concerns and conversations from the cradle.

So it is not surprising to hear his son, U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, calling for "more cooperation among special interest groups in an effort to balance the federal budget and boost the ailing economy."

The son's approach is calmer and probably more reasonable. His father was not a patient man.

Getting back to the postcard — the last penny postcard. On the back of the card he had printed a poem which he attributed to the Houston Dental Journal.

DON'T WORRY

- "Father, must I go to work?"
 "No, my lucky son;
 We are livin' now on easy street,
 On dough from Washington.
- "We've left it up to Uncle Sam, So don't get exercised; Nobody has to give a dam, We've all been subsidized."
- "But if Sam treats us all so well, An feeds us milk and honey; Please, Daddy, tell me what the hell He's going to use for money?"
- "Don't worry, bub, there's not a hitch In this here noble plan; He simply soaks the filthy rich And helps the common man."
- "But, Father, won't there come a
- When they run plum out of cash, And we have left them not a dime, That things will go to smash?"
- "My faith in you is shrinking, son, You nosey little squealer; You do too much thinking, son To be a good New Dealer."

Don't you love it? I wonder how many how many others took Roy Pursell's advice and saved that last penny postcard.

CONGRATULATIONS to the members of the 4-H Club Paw Prints Dog Obedience Class.

Alarmed by the announcement that the Michigan Humane Society may have to close down because of lack of money, the kids decided to do something about it. Their fund-raiser would include a door-to-door canvass and a collection of old newspapers.

Tomorrow, they will present a check for $1,100 to the Westland Humane Society.

Just 25 youngsters were involved in the project, and they had a large territory to cover. They also had a lot of help from their leader, Edna Terry, and some of their parents. They said they had an excellent response from Plymouth and Canton townships. Many persons called in to offer their newspapers. Mrs. Terry drove 250 miles and another woman drove 54 miles collecting and delivering five tons of newspapers.

Karen Wiskowski collected $189.21 in cash. Jeremy Druce collected $170.72. They were awarded gift certificates for being the top canvassers. They celebrated the completion of the drive with a pop and pizza party. The grand total from the cash donations and the sale of newspapers was slightly under the $1,100 so they added club funds to round out the amount.

Mrs. Terry said some of the papers were tied in bundles but most of them were not. "We had to go through them and remove all the slick paper, then bundle and tie them."

They all worked very hard and the results were terrific.

Symphony season ends with a 'Passion'

Sunday's concert by the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra will feature two firsts: The premiere performance of "Passion," a major choral work, and a woman as guest conductor of the orchestra.

Dr. Marilyn Jones was invited to be guest conductor for this concert because of her extensive instrumental and choral background. As an accomplished flutist, she has performed frequently with the orchestra. Dr. Jones has been on the faculty of Wayne State and Western Michigan universities. She is now choral director at Cass Tech High School.

The Schoolcraft Community Choir will join the orchestra in presenting "Passion," which is based on the Gospel according to St. Matthew. Commissioned by Schoolcraft College, the work was composed by Robert Jones, specifically for these two performing groups.

Jones is no ivory-tower composer. Having been an instructor at School-craft since 1969, he knows his performers and his audience. A prolific composer, he uses his creativity to write for diverse groups, ranging from organ and electric tape to more standard works for chorus. Many of these are currently in publication.

ALTHOUGH FILLED with surprises and 20th century expression, the work is reminiscent of its predecessors in many respects.

J.S. Bach is generally credited with the culmination of this form in his "St. Matthew Passion." In these compositions, the chorus takes either the part of the mob or that of a commentator on the passing events of the drama. These commentaries typically are inserted between the scripture passages and in Jones' work, take the form of poems written by the composer's wife, Anne.

Anne Jones is an experienced writer and journalist. She has contributed to the uniqueness of the work in highlighting the role and feelings of the women in the drama. Several major choral selections are based on her poems.

Other references to choral tradition occur in the accompaniment of Jesus' words by the string section - almost as a kind of halo effect - and of the narrator by the keyboard.

Other effects would have shocked a 17th century audience. The shouting mob is quite realistically portrayed.

DAVE JONES, husband of Marilyn, completes the quartet of Joneses who have collaborated on the production. He, too, is a musician - both jazz and classical. His contribution in this case copyist.

Rarely does a group performing an original work enjoy working from a clear, readable manuscript. His background as music copyist for the Detroit Symphony and arranger for other groups contributed greatly to the choir's enjoyment in rehearing "Passion."

Soloists engaged for the performance are distinguished professionals.

Carolyn Grimes, soprano, has sung with the Plymouth Symphony several times. She has soloed with the Detroit Symphony and the Kenneth Jewell Cho-received his doctorate from the University of London. He will read the part of Pontius Pilate.

THE CHOIR, in its 15th year, is comprised of 60 singers representing 17 metropolitan area communities and a variety of musical backgrounds.

The choir provides experienced singers an opportunity to enhance their choral singing skills while making quality musical performances available to the community. Past concerts have featured Mozart's "Requiem" and Brahms' "Liebeslieder Walzer."

Tickets for the concert may be purchased at the door or in adavance from Beitner Jewelry, Ann Arbor Trail; Plymouth Book World, Forest Street; or Heide's Flowers, Ann Arbor Trail at Harvey. Admission will be $4 for adults and $2 for senior citizens, and for college students. Students kindergarten through 12th grade will be admitted free.

A Girl Scout troop will provide babysitting for preschoolers during the concert at 4 p.m. Sunday, April 20 in Plymouth Salem High School auditorium, Joy Road west of Canton Center Road.

Free transportation for senior citizens is provided from Tonquish Creek Manor at 3:15 p.m., and return there after the performance.

The concert is made possible with the support of the state of Michigan through a grant from the Michigan Council for the Arts and from Schoolcraft College.

Stamp club to host state's biggest show

By ELINOR GRAHAM

The philatelists are coming!

Stamp collectors and dealers from across the U.S. and from Canada will be heading for Plymouth the weekend of April 26 to attend Michigan's largest stamp show and sale. They will be pouring in from the east, west, north and south to buy, sell and trade. They also will be entering their collections in the competitions.

The 11th annual stamp show arranged by the West Suburban Stamp Club will be in Central Middle School, Main Street at Church. Hours will be from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday, and from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday. Admission and parking will be free.

Michigan Gov. William Milliken has signed a proclamation declaring April 21-28 Michigan Stamp Week in honor of the event. Two different cacheted covers will be issued with a Plymouth post THE SHOW THEME will reflect Michigan's postal history and the West Suburban Stamp Club will continue its cachet program, "Birth of a Nation."

The U.S. show pictorial cancel will feature the "Swamp Fox" on two different cacheted covers commemorating the exploits of General Francis Marion. The set of two serviced covers is $1 plus a 15-cent stamp. The covers are available with Canadian imprint (if specified) at no extra cost. They can be ordered from club member, Richard Chellevold, 40 S. Staebler Road, Ann Arbor 48103.

Paul Stanton is chairing the show with the assistance of Hal Williams, president, and all the members of the club.

The exhibition will consist of a 220 frame open competition. A separate classification will feature the Grand Award winners from Michigan area shows held during the last year. An American Philatelic Society accredited panel of outstanding philatelists will serve as the jury for the competition.

Collectors will have a heyday shopping at the diverse bourse of 40 dealers from Alabama, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, New Jersey, Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ontario.

Post office substations of the U.S., United Nations, Canada and Sweden will be present with their show cancels and stamps.

David Whitesell will discuss "Researching FDCs at the Smithsonian" at the American First Day Cover Society regional meeting hosted by Chapter 7, at 3 p.m. Saturday, April 26. Collectors are asked to take along covers about which they wish to ask questions.

The junior club will have its "pic-a-winner" barrel where everyone is a winner. In addition to prizes the club will be giving away free "pay money" to some lucky winners. The "pay money" can be spent at any bourse dealer at the show.

An old-fashioned coffee shop will open throughout the show for philatelic trading and gossip.

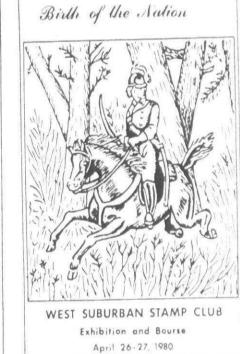

The club will continue its support of stamps for the Shriners' Crippled Children's Hospitals rehabilitation program. Donors of stamps, either in person or by mail, will receive a special souvenir card. Address donations to Shriners' Crippled Children's Hospital Project, PO Box 643, Plymouth 48170.

It's tryout time for the Canton Koufax League

"Play Ball!"

It's that time of year when these words echo throughout the land, the rallying cry for millions. Yes, it's baseball season again. Each team's sultan of swat is ready to put on his best snarl for the opposing pitcher, as he thrills the hearts of his home team fans.

Dr. Gerald Ebmeyer, a Westland oral surgeon, would like to help Canton boys experience the fun, team spirit, and thrill of playing competitive baseball this summer. Dr. Ebmeyer is coach of a team sponsored by Craiger Precision Products of Canton. His team is in the Canton Koufax League, which is part of the North West Suburban Baseball Federation.

To be eligible, a boy must be 13-14 years old and attending a Plymouth-Canton High School. Dr. Ebmeyer says the only other requirement is a genuine desire to play baseball.

His teams have a winning history. During the 1979 season, they placed third in the state. In 1978, they traveled to Alabama for the national finals, and placed third in the country.

THIS YEAR there will be 20 teams in the league, and they will play a schedule of approximately 40 games. Games will be played three times a week during June and July. Tournament play will be during August. Home games will be played at Central Middle School, or Plymouth Canton High

Dr. Ebmeyer said tryouts for the team will be April 18-20. Central Middle School will be the location for trials 6 p.m. Friday, April 18.

Tryouts will be at noon, Saturday and Sunday April 19 and 20, at Central Middle School.

He said he would like to have all area boys who are interested in baseball come to the tryouts. All positions are open. He stressed that any boy with an interest and desire to work during the summer will certainly improve his baseball skills due to coaching and the number of games on the schedule.

For more information, anyone interested may contact Dr. Ebmeyer during the day at 729-1370, and in the evening at 729-6218

With a group of boys willing to work to improve their baseball skills, and parental support, Dr. Ebmeyer has high hopes of another championship team for the Canton home fans.

In addition to all the fun, McDonald's throughout Michigan will donate 25 cents from the sale of every Big Mac to the Ronald McDonald House at Detroit's Children's Hospital. The Ronald McDonald House is the home-awayfrom-home for the families of children hospitalized.

The big day for this celebration is Sunday, April 27, so set your hearts for fun to help this very worthwhile cause. Ms. McMillin also said that any club or organization in Canton that would like to join in the fun is very welcome. The Clubs participating may pass out balloons, help in the cooking and recruit new members. For more information club presidents or activities chairpersons may contact Ms. McMillin at 326-5161 or 326-7774.

Ms. McMillin also said that McDonalds is very active in the Michigan Special Olympics program.

In the past, the Plymouth BPW has granted academic scholarships to derserving high school seniors. Last spring, the group awarded two $1,000 and two $500 scholarships.

Mrs. White added that the 1980 presidential elections will put special emphasis on the voter service arm of the LWV on a national level.

"Locally, the league will be sponsor-

"We can take a position on an issue only after we have completed a careful study and have reached a consensus of our membership," she explained. "This year we are particularly interested in studying intergovernmental relations in Michigan. We also will research whether ¿ Wayne County exectutive, which we favor in concept, should be elected or appointed."

New officers to be elected at the meeting are Michele Howard, Canton Township, second vice president, and Ruth Vogler of Canton, treasurer.

New directors are Gloria Pappas of Plymouth, Margaret Dawson of Northville, Cynthia Fanslow of Canton and Sally Posthill of Plymouth Nancy White of Plymouth will continue as president, completing a two-year term, along with Kari Miller, also of Plymouth, first vice president.

Gretchen Pugsley of Novi will chair the annual meeting.

A non-partisan organization, the LWV was founded to promote informed citizen participation in political process. Its membership throughout Michigan numbers 3,800. The Northville-Plymouth-Canton Novi League has 90 members.

Mrs. White stressed that the annual meeting is open to prospective members who should call Mary Ellen McKercher, 455-4539, for reservations.

End Sunday events, area clergy urges

A halt to the Sunday-morning scheduling of community events, including little league games, is urged by the Livonia Ministerial Association.

The association, an ecumenical group of pastors, priests and parish workers representing church families in Livonia and the surrounding area, has sent letters to community leaders and athletic groups asking that events not be scheduled during the hours families worship in church.

"Once upon a time, Sunday morning was reserved for worship," said the Rev. Robert C. Seltz, pastor of Holy Trinity Lutheran Church and president of the association.

"Now many families who desire to be involved in both church and community events find themselves faced with difficult decisions.

"Johnny wants to participate in sports, But sometimes games and practice sessions occur at the same time as church and Sunday school. Is it fair to force Johnny to choose between worshiping God and playing hockey, for ex-

Seltz said the ministers considered both religious and community activities important for healthy development of children and adults. Their contention, he added, is that church and community leaders should work together instead of in competition with each other in "providing growth opportunities for citizens.

Seltz said the group had received answers from a few of those contacted. indicating they would try to avoid Sunday morning scheduling.

Hearing-impaired dancer to perform

Kirsten Moomey, a hearing-impaired student who comes from a theatrical family, will dance to the music "You Light Up My Life," for the 9:30 and 11 a.m. serices at St. Timothy United Presbyterian church Sunday.

Miss Moomey, 19, is a student at Madonna College and daughter of actor Bob Moomey and choreographer Sally Moomey.

"She is on a crusade," said the Rev. Dickson Forsythe, minister of the church at 16700 Newburgh, Livonia.

"She firmly believes that everyone should have an opportunity to participate in the performing arts and feels that most of the hearing-impaired and other handicapped persons are denied this opportunity.

"Her ultimate goal is to establish a theater and a dance studio for these Miss Moomey will appear next week before the Illinois State Legislature in a drama written by her father and sponsored by the International Association for the Deaf.

The drama, titled "The Family," is aimed at promoting better understanding beteen the hearing and the nonhearing. In previous acting ventures, Miss Moomey has worked with Nanette Fabray, a hearing-impaired performer who has given her encouragement.

Lutheran singers plan 3 concerts

The Detroit Lutheran Singers, a 55voice group directed by Eric Freudigman and representing churches across the metropolitan area, will sing at 8 p.m. Sunday, April 27, in Nardin Park United Methodist Church, 11 Mile west of Middle Belt, Farmington Hills.

The singers also plan concerts at 3:30 p.m. in Faith Lutheran Church, 14554

E. Jefferson, Detroit, and St. Paul Lutheran, 202 E. 5th, Royal Oak.

Works by J.S. Bach, Britten, Rozsa, Rachmaninoff, Paletrina, Poulenc and Bruckner will be included. Donald Renz, who accompanies the group, also will play a brief organ prelude.

There is no admission charge. A free will offering will be collected.

Baptism brings family together

The recent baptism of Andrea Prince of Garden City in St. Dunstan Catholic Church brought together four generations of family members.

On hand for the event was Andrea's Detroit, and her grandfather, Richard Roger, and her sister, Brenda.

Prince of Livonia. Rounding out the four generations was her father, Richard Prince. Andrea who was born last December.

Also attending were her mother great-grandmother, Marie Myers of Cathy Prince; her brothers, Tim and

PCAC offers listing of private arts instructors

If you suspect your child is a budding genius of the keyboard or the easel, you may be right.

One way to find out is to contact the Plymouth Community Arts Council at 455-5260, and ask for its list of art and music teachers in the Plymouth-Canton area. You can arrange for lessons, and let the teacher be the judge.

The council, through the teachers, also can be helpful if you're over 16 and have always wanted to play the French horn; or if you're over 70 and see yourself as another Grandma and Christine Theodore, 13.

Work of the students of one of these teachers, Betty Manthey, is on display at the Detroit Edison office on Main Street and Ann Arbor Trail.

Not only does the PCAC keep a list of teachers, it also rewards artistically outstanding students at an awards luncheon each spring. Last year, two of Mrs. Manthey's students were among the elementary school art award winners. They are Janine Bologna, 12,

Other students whose pencil sketches and water colors are on display are Shawna Adams, 11, Theresa Church, 9, Jeff Gasvoda, 9, Andrea Smith, 8, Christopher Way, 10, and Mark Zagorski, 9, all of Plymouth; Tony Davis, 13, Len Jennings, 14, and Richard Minuth, 10. of Canton; and Amy Kasmarick, 8, Michelle Mertz, 8, and Nicole Transou, 8. of Livonia.

The service is not only helpful for those who want to learn but also for those who want to teach.

Mrs. Manthey is a former Ohio resident who was transferred to Michigan with her husband, Robert. She studied with Franklin Bates, who is a well known Ohio artist, after winning out over 2,000 competitors in a contest staged by him.

Mrs. Manthey teaches adults as well as children, but prefers the latter.

"It's wonderful what I can pull out of them with certain techniques I use," she said. Adults are more used to doing things a certain way, and are more reluctant to change, she said.

Big Brothers are in demand

Eleven boys in Canton are waiting for a Big Brother, someone to spend sometime with them, to listen to their troubles and to direct them toward new

Big Brother/Big sister, a Torch Drive agency, is recruiting men and women over the age of 18 who are interested in helping children between the ages of 8 and 17 on a one-to-one Interested persons should contact the Big Brother/Big Sister Office. The Detroit Area address is 2990 W. Grand Blvd., Suite 408, Detroit 48202; telephone 873-3300; and for Western Wayne County, the address is 26279 Michigan Ave., Inkster MI 48141, telephone 465-2146.

The Plymouth-Canton community presently has 21 volunteers in the program. The organization receives support from the Plymouth Community Fund and the Plymouth Kiwanis.

BIG BROTHERS and Big Sisters make a commitment to spend time with a Little Brother/Little Sister at least once a week for a year. What the volunteer and the child do on the weekly visits depends on their interests. They might share a hobby, play a game or run errands. Big Brothers/Sisters are encouraged to expose their young friend to new experiences, but should not feel they have to take him out for a special outing each week. Emphasis is always on the supportive friendship that develops rather than on the amount of money spent.

Children and their sponsors are matched as to geographical location

(ideally, they should be no more than 15 and that the child was getting ahong minutes apart) and interests. A social worker screens both volunteers and children, and maintains a periodic contact to make sure things are going well. She gives help if any problems arise.

The service is directed to helping children from single parent households.

TO GET a Big Brother/Sister, the parent should call the nearest office or the 24-hour inquiry hotline, 273-6445.

Studies by the organization have shown that children from one-parent families form a disproportionate number of school dropouts and delinquents. Their figures state that the chances are three to four times greater.

The 1970 U.S. Census reported that there were almost 100,000 children between the ages of 8-17 living in one parent families in Wayne, Oakhand and Macomb counties, and this number has grown in the past 10 years.

Big Brother/Big Sister officials estimate that 20 percent of these families could benefit from the service. In 1976, the organization served 3,253 children, or about 17 percent of the number who could have used the help.

Research has shown that the organizatisn has been helpful to the children

More than 90 percent of the respondents in a survey done in the Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties in 1977 reported that the help of a Big Brother or Big Sister had made the child feel better about himself, and had given him new interests and experiences.

More than 80 percent said that their child was getting along better at home; that teacher relations had improved; better with other chihdren.

More than 70 percent said that their child's grades and school attendance had improved, and that the child had been less involved with police and the

STUDIES throughout the country have shown similar results. Improvement in behavior followed a pattern, reported one study in Toledo, Ohio. First, the improvement came with the Big Brother, then in the school, followed by the community, and lastly in the home.

It also said a greater rate of change occurred in the second year.

Big Brothery/Sister officials point out that in addition to a needed and effective service to children and youth, the service provides an opportunity for individuals to participate in solving a serious problem in the community.

BACK PAIN AND YOUR HEALTH

Serious back problems affect some 20 million Americans each year, according to the National Center for Health Statistics. These result in hundreds of thousands of work days lost and cost a tidy sum of $15 billion annually. At least 200,000 persons — some place the figure at 400,000 — undergo surgery each year. For many this means a long difficult operation and at least nine days in the hospital following surgery.

A healthy back is straight, strong, flexible and pain free. Its chief functions are to support your body, protect your spinal cord and allow flexibility.

The back is composed of 24 movable vertebrae with their associated discs, nerve roots, muscles and ligaments. The vertebrae and discs in your lower back have the greatest load to bear and are the largest. A healthy back is one that is properly aligned and supported by strong back and abdominal muscles. Regular chiropractic care relieves mechanical stress which exerts pressures on the nerves of the spine.

Pain occurs when specific nerve endings are abnormally stimulated to send messages up the spinal cord to the brain, the complex computer which sorts out all nerve impulses. Frequently, the back muscles, receiving your brain's message of pain, try to protect the back and go into spasm to hold your back immobile and quiet.

Regardless of the health problem you or any member of your family may have, it is entirely possible that your family chiropractor can replace despair and sorrow with glowing health and happiness. Spinal pressure and tension on sensitive, delicate nerves may cause many diseases. (See list below.)

SUBLUXATIONS— HEALTH'S WORST ENEMY

In order to enjoy sound health, the individual must maintain an exact structural balance of the spinal column. Anything less than that leads to poor health and a constant grasping after good health.

It is the stresses and strains, knocks and bumps of living that sometimes overcome this balance. Just look at others about you: heads forward, slumped shoulders, hollow backs, protuberant bellies, knock knees and flat feet.

You can be sure these people suffer from attendant health problems: heart trouble, stomach trouble, liver trouble, headaches, sinus trouble, sciatica, ear trouble, are only a few. They may suffer from any of the nearly 400 different diseases or conditions caused by misaligned vertebras pinching on nerves.

Misaligned vertebras which pinch nerves are called spinal subluxations. A fall or injury may produce subluxations. They may result from stresses or strains, such as lifting the wrong way. Chemical, electrical or emotional shocks may overload the nerve system's protective mechanism and produce subluxations.

PINCHED NERVES DO CAUSE DISEASE

Everyone knows that pinched nerves in a broken neck can cause partial paralysis of the legs and that if nerves are severely compressed, complete paralysis results.

Why then do some of us shut our minds to the same pinched nerve probability when (for instance) the lungs, heart, stomach or other parts of the body become diseased? Such thinking is inconsistent.

Lung, heart and stomach conditions need the same consideration that more obvious forms of paralysis receive. Tissue deprived of nerve energy (impulses) cannot maintain health without nerve guidance from the

HOW NERVES BECOME PINCHED

An adult spine is composed of twenty-four movable bones called vertebras. Each vertebra has the general shape of a man's ring. The rings are stacked one on top another forming a vertical tunnel.

The delicate spinal cord — just thicker than a pencil — is suspended from the brain and extends down through the tunnel formed by the ring-like vertebras. Smaller nerves lead from the spinal cord through openings between the vertebras. These openings are called foramen. The nerves emerge in pairs, one to the right and one to the left. There are thirty-one pairs of nerves. Each nerve goes to and controls a specific area of the body. When the spinal column is in proper alignment, the nerves pass unimpeded through the foramen. But when one or more vertebra become misaligned, the nerve is impinged (pinched), and normal nerve function is cut off to the parts of the body served by that nerve.

Sometimes misaligned vertebras correct themselves. But most subluxations need outside assistance for correction. That assistance is chiropractic care.

NATURE HEALS WITH CHIROPRACTIC HELP

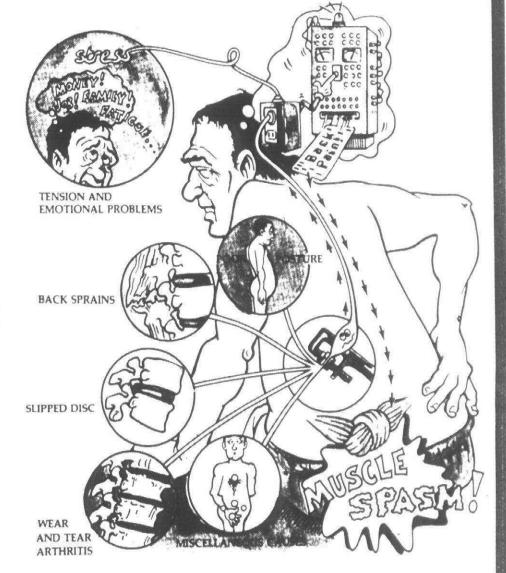

Chiropractors do not need to give medicine to cure the sick. They know that nature provides each person with a built-in druggist capable of compounding medicines, hormones, enzymes and antibiotics. Just as there is a health kit inside your body that heals cuts, mends broken bones and repairs damaged organs . . . so is there a doctor on the inside who can prescribe everything you need . . . in the exact dose needed . . . and without harmful side effects. The human body is capable of healing itself of every known disease provided nothing interferes with normal nerve function.

The Doctor of Chiropractic works with the spine and nerves. He was the first to recognize that spinal bones (vertebras), twisted even slightly out of place, impinge the major nerve trunks at the point where they pass through the small openings between the vertebras, thus causing pain and disease.

The chiropractor is the only doctor in your community with the know-how to restore normal nerve function, the natural way to lasting health.

THAT'S HOW CHIROPRACTIC HEALS WHEN MEDICINE FAILS!

Since the bones, discs, ligaments, and muscles of your back are supplied by many nerve endings, there are various, often inter-related conditions which can cause back pain. In addition to the common physical causes, the stress, fatigue and anxieties of daily life can significantly increase low back pain.

Regular chiropractic care relieves physical mechanical stress by correcting vertebral misalignments which relieves stress on the nervous system and the entire body.

BACK OWNER'S MAINTENANCE GUIDELINES

- Keep your back straight by being constantly aware of your posture and correcting it.
- · Avoid swayback at all times.
- Help relieve unnecessary back strain by keeping your weight down and exercising regularly to build strong supporting muscles.
- Lift with your legs not your back — by bending your knees. Hold the object as close to your body as possible.
- Sleep on your back or side, on a firm mattress.

- Do not bend straight over, turn or twist to pick up something, even if it is a light object — don't lift or carry anything heavier than you can manage with ease.
- Stand with one foot elevated on a box or stool.
- Don't slouch or bend forward when sitting or driving.
- See your doctor as soon as possible for any persistent back pain.
- Check with your doctor's office for any further questions you may have.

Talking gorilla makes a hit

My name is Bongo and I bring along a bunch of bananas to you with a song. I sing and I dance and I monkey around and pass out this tropical fruit by the pound.

If the whole world is a stage, somebody's got to be the gorilla, of course.

So along come Mike Donley and John Leabu, two guys who play the part of Bongo the Gorilla to the hilt.

For $20, they'll gladly provide the highlight of anyone's day. One of them plays the gorilla and the other is the trainer, complete with whip and chain.

In the month they've been flirting with evolution, the jobs have varied from throwing bananas at a bartender for his birthday to singing an apologetic song for a woman who got into a fight with her boss.

They were hired to throw a cream pie in the face of one guy. The victim ducked to miss the pie but was such a good sport that he picked it

They say their strangest assignment was to show up at a party in a large house in Birmingham.

"Bongo goes up to the door and rings the bell," Leabu says. "It's this big mansion. The door opens and thousands of flashbulbs are blinding me. People are standing around sipping cocktails. Very dignified.

"I asked where the banana nut bread is."

THIS ALL GOT started when Donley, who runs a gag store in Taylor, noticed the big interest in costumes for Halloween. For bookings, Bongo is reached at 287-4890.

"Everybody wants a laugh," Donley says. "I never expected to go this big."

The duo is planning to expand to include a couple other characters — Spiderman, for instance — and to do free charity appearances.

It brings out the ham in them. A mild-mannered, relatively normal guy puts on a gorilla suit and Bongo is born. He grunts, hops up and down, and generally acts like a go-

Directed by John Gajec, the free concert begins at 3 p.m. in the cafeteria of Thurston High School, on Schoolcraft between Inkster Road and Beech Daly.

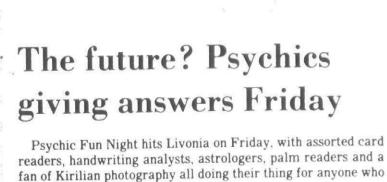

"This concert is our informal performance of the season," said Winston Churchill, orchestra manager and performing member. "The setting is informal with the audience sitting at tables which are covered with white paper and equipped with crayons. The kids can draw pictures on the covered tables to keep them amused if the music doesn't.

"Even the orchestra members leave their formal black suit concert attire in their closets and come dressed informally for this one last performance."

Selections include "Funny Girl," "Finian's Rainbow," "Belle of the Ball," "Hello Dolly," "Music Man," selections from "My Fair Lady" and "South Pacific."

Brian Moon, an orchestra member, will be the featured soloist, performing the Bull Fighter's Song by Charles Koff. Moon, a Livonian, recently returned from Florence, Italy, where he was trumpet soloist for the Florence Opera Company Orchestra.

Fishing more dangerous than hunting

Outdoors Writer

A couple weeks back, I told you the boys up in Lansing were fixing to hike rates for various hunting and fishing licenses. Acting Gov. James Brickley made it official last week, signing House Bill

The new law will boost license fees on a staged, two-year basis. By the second year - which begins April 1, 1981 - standard fishing licenses will increase from the old $5 to $7, a 40 percent increase; trout and salmon stamps will be increased by the same amounts.

The increases also apply in similar percentages to a wide variety of hunting licenses. Overall, the state estimates the new rate structure will add up to $6 million more for the state Fish and Game Fund by next year.

"SPEAKING OF DYING, and we were, weren't we?, there's a common conception that you create a dangerous situation by putting a few thousand armed men out into the woods, especially when a lot of them don't know which end of the gun works.

Surprise. The DNR has completed a study of sporting fatalities covering 1962-77. There was an annual average of 45.6 fishing-related fatalities during that period, compared to only 15.5 annual hunting accidents.

Fishing-related fatalities, by the way, is what the DNR says when it means drowning. Hunting-related fatalities is what they mean by being shot, either with a gun or an arrow.

In 1977, when fishermen accounted for some 16 percent of the state's drownings, a fishermen drowned on an average of once every 10 days.

Most fishing-related drownings - and there were 730 in the 15-year-study period — are the result of falling out of boats, or of boats capsizing.

The DNR offers some common-sense tips on making sure your name doesn't end up on their list of statistics. Things like learning to swim, wearing life jackets, not standing in the boat, not running over anything with the boat, not boating during storms, not overloading the boat, and fishing people out of the water over the stern instead of on the side of the boat. And turn off those propellers first.

THE LOCAL chapter of the Sierra Club will discuss sites in Michigan proposed as wilderness areas at its meeting on April 24. The meeting is open. It's at 7:30 p.m. in Northwest Unitarian Universalist Church, 23925 Northwestern Highway in Southfield.

IF YOU DON'T mind paying those new, higher license fees, you might want to buy a $4.75 calendar, too. It's a memo-style, 81/2-by-11 inch, calendar focusing on wetlands. There are 13 full-color photos. It's also for 1980, and if that leaves you wondering why Lem waited so long to tell you about it, you're not alone.

It leaves Lem wondering, too. But that's neither here nor there. Half the purchase price is tax-deductible. You can get the calendar by sending a check to Michigan's Living Resources Program, Box 30028, Lansing 48909.

CANOE, TOO, if you like this Sunday. There will be a spring canoe-in Sunday at 1 p.m. Bring a canoe - there are no rentals available - and meet at the Bend Picnic Area of Willow Metropark near New Boston. You'll cruise down the beautiful Huron River to Oakwoods Metropark near Flat Rock. Transportation back to your car will be provided. Try not to run down any wading fishermen en route.

SPEAKING OF BOATS, if you've got one you might be interested in the following list of stateoperated launching sites:

Sites are available at Metro Beach, near Mt. Clemens, at Stony Creek near Rochester and at Kensington near Milford.

You need a 1980 boat permit, which costs $7 annually, $4 for seniors, and $2 for a daily permit. You'll also need a park permit, which costs the same as the boat permit except the seniors' rate is Metro Beach has ramps on a creek feeding into Lake St. Clair. It can handle eight boats simultaneously, but the lot only has room for 210 trailers and cars. Ramps open at 7 a.m. and close at dusk, and there's a $2 parking charge for cars left overnight. Call 463-4581 (Mt. Clemens) or 963-3022 (Detroit) for more information.

Today, Laurence Olivier's "Henry" makes for very good Shakespeare. In 1944, when it was made, the film was also very good propaganda.

In '44, Britain was winning the war, but the British were decimated by five years of fighting. "Henry V," the story of a conquering English king, was timed for victory.

The war had forced the film industry to tighten its belt, but "Henry V" was made at some expense. This Henry would march into France in Technicolor. Henry was courageous, full of valor -Britain's crown and glory. Quite the statesman, just like Churchill.

Yet the film has stood the test of time. Olivier, who both directed and starred in the production, always brings something exciting to Shakespeare. Here he combines the media of stage and film to create a work that's the best of both worlds.

Also starring Leslie Banks, Robert Newton and Leo Genn.

Artifacts of early Detroit on display in museum

Excavations for new structures in downtown Detroit have yielded archaeological artifacts which are the subject of an exhibit currently on display at the Detroit Historical Museum.

When land was cleared and foundations laid for the Renaissance Center, the Ponchartrain Hotel, Hart Plaza and the Joe Louis Arena, archaeologists were there - following the bulldozers and ducking the steam shovels to recover artifacts reflecting life in Detroit in the early 19th century. They recovered thousands of artifacts from the Many pieces of ceramic vessels which probably were on Detroit dining tables in the 1830s and '40s along with glassware, toys and other remnants of Detroit's past are included in the display. Maps and photographs portray the sites, which range from privy holes on former residential property to a massive collection of ceramics discarded by an importer when they were broken in transit in a Great Lakes storm.

"Renaissance on the Riverfront" will be at the Detroit Historical Museum, 5401 Woodward, until September. The museum is open 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday, Friday and Saturday; 1-9 p.m. Wednesday; and 1-5 p.m. Sunday.

The Count

Count Basie and his orchestra join Billy Eckstine for a week at the Music Hall in Detroit starting Tuesday. Performances are 8:30 p.m. Tuesday-Friday, 7 and 10 p.m. Saturday, and 2 and 6:30 p.m. Sunday. Tickets are available at the Music Hall, 350 Madison in Detroit, or by calling 963-7680.

4 simple rules for storing wine

For all kinds of reasons, some rational and others not, most of us find we want to lay away certain wines for future drinking. And the idea has merit.

Early purchase usually saves money, it is more convenient and it permits the development of a delicious sense of anticipation. There is pride in the possession of a well selected cellar full of promised delights for some forthcoming special occasion.

But there are hazards. Much has been written of these, followed generally by a complex set of rules that can frighten one away from the task. It is amazing how many words are written by esteemed wine writers to convey but four simple messages regarding safe storage.

These rules are generally expressed to apply to the storage of reds. They hold for whites as well. It is just that whites aren't generally held as long as reds, so the issues are less critical.

· The first matter has to do with the temperature at which wine is stored. There are two aspects, average temperature and variability. The best storage temperature is 52-55 degrees Farenheit. More is known about the effects of storing wine at higher average temperatures than this, than about wide variablility in temperature.

Heat increases the rate of maturation of wine, and that is the sole negative influence it has, up to a mean well into the high 70s or low 80s.

THE RULE of thumb is that for each 10 degrees mean storage rate, the wine development will increase a year. Thus, a 1976 Bordeaux stored at a constant 63 degrees will develop today to be as mature as it would "normally" be if stored at the more usual 53 degree in 1984.

Variablility in temperature, wide ranges between high and low through time, is presumed to have an undesirable effect beyond that of erratic aging. No one is quite sure what that is. That wine is a sturdy stuff fortunately protects it from many of our abuses.

· Wine should be dept in as dark an area as possible. Light, especially direct sunlight, will have a most undesirable affect on color and development. Seeing wine displayed in store windows or constantly under bright lights suggests an unsympathetic feel for wine care, whether this occurs in a store, restaurant or home.

· KEEPING WINE away from unstable physical surroundings is also desirable. Wine storage areas near heavy motors, machines or earth faults are to be avoided. Frequent agitation doesn't permit sediment to stabilize. There are those who suggest this can cause "nervous" wine; I don't quite know what that would be, however.

· Wine bottles should always be kept on their sides. The simple reason for this is to keep the corks moist and not allow them to dry out, thus permitting air to come into contact with the wine. The simple principle is violated in nearly every quality wine store in the area. (With slow-moving wine, this could be the beginning of trouble for a

So, wine stored in a stable, cool, reasonably dark place and kept horizontal should hold up maximally. Violations of any of these conditions will have an effect, depending on their severity and duration.

If you find you cannot adhere to them, better just buy the stuff as you need it.

auditions

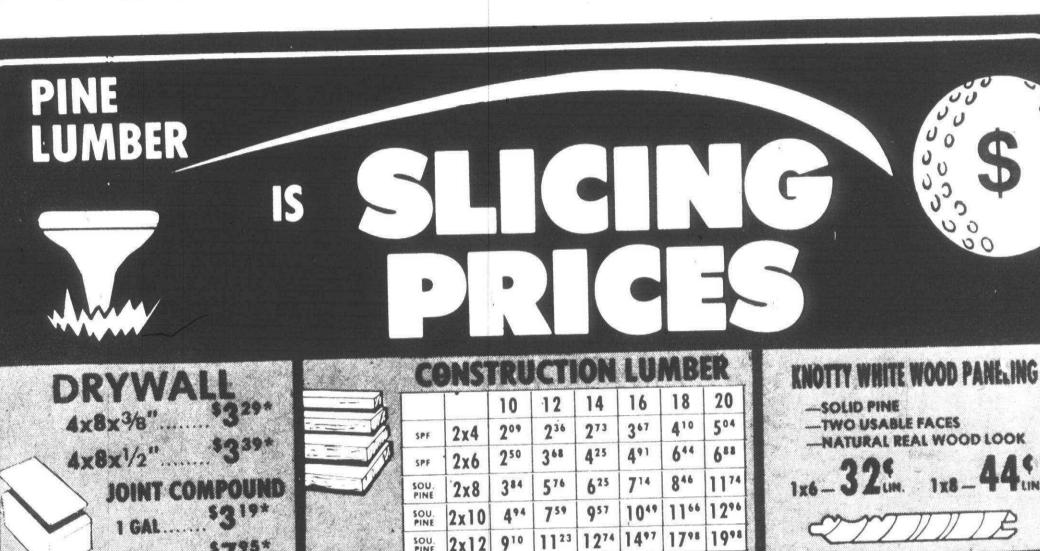

• Greenfield Village Players will present several vignettes in the village during the summer, including an old-time medicine show and strolling minstrels. Five performances will be given 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily, six days a week.

Also, a professional company will give 13 evening performances each of "State of the Union" and "Needles and Pins."

Open auditions will be held in the Henry Ford Museum Theater at 7 p.m. April 23 for the daytime village performers, 7 p.m. April 24 for "State of the Union" and 7 p.m. April 25 for "Needles and Pins."

HITTING AND SPLITTING

White has rolled three-two. What would be your suggested play?

Unfortunately, the roll does not allow white to close his bar point (7), 5

White may continue moving the same checker to the 8 point, but that does nothing except overload the 8 point with another checker. Whenever is putting pressure on the 9 point blot. possible, you should avoid "piling" too many checkers on any given point.

White could also bring a checker down from the 12 point to the 10 point, leaving himself with two extra builders in the outer board in hopes of "closing" the 5 point or 7 point. But stripping the 12 point may be a bit premature.

Since black has high hopes of forming a prime (a consistent blockade of 5776.

This move serves two purposes:

The unique green of fine emerald is sometimes referred to as "grass green." There are very few other colored stones that even approach this well-loved color. As a matter of fact, color is the top consideration in evaluating an emerald, with clarity following in second place. Emerald is known as the May birthstone which makes it a fine choice for birthdays in that month. If you have a May birthday on your calendar, you might consider a gift of o emerald jewelry. At Orin Jewelers we can probably find something that's just right for your purposes.
