State revives Ford debate

What will it be? Five lanes, seven lanes or a boulevard?

One of those alternatives for a face-lift to Ford Road will be selected by the Michigan Department of Transportation within the next two to six months, says a state transportation official.

But before the decision is made, the state is requesting another round of opinions from Canton residents on the type of road they would prefer between Haggerty and Sheldon.

The Department of Transportation will sponsor a public hearing on Ford Road's future this Thursday, April 24 at 7:30 p.m. The hearing will be held in the Canton administration building on Canton Center near Proctor.

PHILIP CHISHOLM, public hearings coordinator for the transportation department, said Thursday's hearing will be the last opportunity for public input before the final decision is made by the state.

Improvements to Ford between Sheldon and Haggerty are scheduled for 1983.

According to Chisholm, cost estimates for the improvements are estimated at $1.2 million for five lanes, $1.3 million for seven lanes and $2.5 million for a boulevard.

Chisholm said a state committee which has been studying Ford Road improvements has indicated no preference for any of the three alternatives.

But Canton Clerk John Flodin recalls an indication from the state last year that the boulevard option could be dropped. State officials inferred that the higher cost would not warrant construction of a boulevard, Flodin said.

Canton officials and residents have indicated their preference repeatedly for a boulevard.

Last spring, the township board approved a resolution requesting a boulevard on the grounds that an island would offer better aesthetics and diminished traffic hazards.

High water bills shadow forecast

With the highest water consumption period just around the corner, relief from skyrocketing water bills is not yet in sight.

Township officials are still investigating ways to cut the bite of residential bills which averaged more than $100 for last year's summer quarter.

But the method which appeared most promising when the investigation first started last fall has been temporarily shelved, according to Finance Director Mike Gorman.

Canton officials fear that implementation of a dual meter system would encourage more outdoor water use and aggravate the township's existing problem of low pressure.

Gorman cites the additional concern that the Wayne County Department of Public Works would raise rates for Canton if the dual meter system is implemented.

He expected the township board to raise water rates for customers next summer or fall. The township has been hit with two rate increases since it last raised fees in June 1979.

GORMAN IS LOOKING at two methods to help homeowners meet the rising costs of what used to be regarded as an almost free commodity.

Under one proposal, homeowners would be billed for two months of water use instead of three. But Gorman said that two additional employees would be needed in the water department to implement the shortened billing cycle.

The other proposal would extend the time period for payment of bills beyond the current 20 days.

Gorman admits that neither proposal would decrease the total amount of annual bills. But the methods could make each bill more palatable, he said.

Several ideas suggested by township officials and residents to cut the bite of bills last fall have been abandoned.

Under one suggestion, billing ledgers would be rotated. That would relieve neighborhoods which have always received quarterly bills for the highest water consumption period of June through August.

Group sets table for manager idea

Discussion of a citizen group's push for an organizational change in Canton Township government will make up the non-edible course of a dinner meeting Tuesday, April 29.

Bart Berg, a leader of the loosely organized group sponsoring the meeting, said the merits and drawbacks of instituting a superintendent form of government will be bandied about by a panel of municipal officials.

The panel discussion will begin at 8 p.m. at the Cyprus Gardens restaurant following dinner and cocktails.

Berg and his group favor hiring a superintendent to administer the day-to-day tasks of Canton's government, similar to the city manager system in Plymouth.

Michigan's charter township act allows township boards to appoint superintendents. The professional administrator would perform many of the duties now undertaken by Canton's elected supervisor.

Berg said the township board could change the supervisor's status from a full-time to part-time position if the superintendent form of government is adopted.

BERG MAINTAINS that an appointed superintendent would take the politics out of the day-to-day operations at township hall.

But Berg admits "that it's difficult to get politicians in power to do this sort of thing."

He hopes that citizens attending the April 29 meeting will agree with his viewpoint and lobby the township board for a superintendent appointment.

Berg, a former planning commissioner, insists that he has no political ambitions for himself. But he admits hopes that "candidates running for office will pick this up as a campaign issue."

Despite his vocal support for a superintendent form of government, Berg says all viewpoints will be welcomed at next week's meeting.

Speakers include Canton Supervisor Noel Culbert, who has stated his opposition to Berg's idea; John Gilbert, appointed superintendent of Bridgeport Township; William Thompson, elected supervisor of Kalamazoo Township and a political science professor at Western Michigan University; and Patrick Cullen, city manager of Wayne.

A question-and-answer period will follow the one-hour panel discussion.

BERG INSISTS that his feelings toward present and past elected officials have nothing to do with his superintendent campaign.

He feels that a person trained in governmental affairs should be at the helm.

"I feel there are very qualified people within the township who can't afford to take time out to become a politician," he said.

"I have no vicious bones in my body. There's no one I want to get even with."

Berg is willing to put his money where his mouth is. He has spent about $450 to print 5,000 brochures and other materials on the superintendent form of government. The brochures will be distributed to homes throughout the township.

"Canton is very important to me," said Berg, who served on the township's planning commission for 20 years. "I've been here since the early '40s."

Next week's meeting is sponsored by a loosely organized group which includes Berg, Eldon Johnson, Flossie Tonda, Joyce Chumbley, Carl Schultz, Orren Hall and George Lawton. Berg said none of the members has indicated an intention to run for township office this year.

Tickets for the meeting are priced at $10 and include a four-course roast beef dinner and beverage. Dinner is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. following cocktails at 5:30 p.m.

Tickets, which must be purchased in advance, are available at Cyprus Gardens restaurant in the Harvard Square Shopping Center and several other township businesses. Tickets are also available through Berg, Planning Commissioner Robert Padgett and Royal Holiday Park resident hall.

Schools slate blood drive for boy

By TERI BANAS

Almost two months ago Mathew Klepack, a spunky 7-year-old student, took a fall at Starkweather Elementary School that instantly altered his life.

He fell almost 17 feet from a banister there and has since weathered three operations and almost a month's hospitalization.

Today, Mathew is recovering at home in Plymouth Township and anxious to return to school in the fall.

The youngster, however, has not been forgotten by his classmates or by employees of the school district.

On April 17, Plymouth-Canton school employees will extend their arms "in dedication to Mathew" and will donate their blood to the Southeast Michigan Red Cross.

Coordinators of the blood drive say

Mathew no longer needs the blood but he would like to replenish the supply from which he was helped in February.

"The drive is a moral obligation more than anything else," says district coordinator Tom Workman, principal of Allen Elementary. "It's to relieve any moral obligation the family may have and Mathew is one of our school children."

"We feel school employees are in the people business and how more can you contribute to the needs of people than through the gift of blood. I call it the height of human involvement."

STARKWEATHER Principal John Howe, who talked to Mathew and his mother, Katherine, Friday morning, says the boy is improving steadily.

"Where he is today is really a miracle," Howe says.

After the fall, Mathew had two operations to relieve water pressure in his skull. Following that was a tracheotomy.

The boy had sustained two fractures to the right side of his head.

According to Howe, Mathew has some paralysis to his face and limbs and is undergoing therapy at St. Mary Hospital. It is not known how permanent the condition is.

"He's walking, talking, and doing a lot of things you'd expect a boy his age to do but with some limitations."

Mathew is now studying at home, with visits from a homebound teacher, Bea Laible. Howe says the youngster will be back to school fulltime in the fall. He will be a third grader then and is not expected to fall behind in his coursework.

The worst road

Sheldon south of Cherry Hill has been nominated as the worst road in Canton for the second year in a row. Judith Perreca, one of several readers who voted for Sheldon in the Observer's Worst Road Contest, called the stretch between Cherry Hill and Palmer "the most disgusting excuse for a road in Canton." Coming in a close second was Warren, Lilley and Canton Center. One reader nominated Lotford Road.

Musical notes

A group of musicians will play music from the renaissance and baroque periods at 10:20 a.m. Friday, April 25 in the Plymouth Salem High School upper auditorium. The group will demonstrate authentic instruments of the period, such as recorders, baroque flutes, krumphorns, and violas de gamba. Appearing will be Dick James, Eberhard Gerlach and Gloria Pfeif, who play with the U-M Collegium Musicum and the Consort of Violas. The appearance, made possible by a grant from the Plymouth Community Arts Council, is open to the public.

Another nine holes?

Canton officials admit that economic times are not right for the expansion of the township-owned Fellows Creek Golf Course. But Dan Ross, manager of the course, has asked the township to consider the purchase of land for an additional nine holes nonetheless. Ross doesn't know how much purchase and development costs would run. But he and other township officials believe that expansion of the course to 27 holes would net more profits for the township. "It's just in the talking stage," Ross said of the expansion. Mike Gouin, superintendent of the Canton Recreation Department, said Fellows Creek netted $130,000 in profits during the last two years.

Auditors say embezzlers are 'caught' accidentally

Most auditors and accountants tend to believe embezzlers and other white collar thieves are caught by accident rather than by design or through an audit.

That was one of the results in a survey of white collar crime taken by Jack Bologna, president of George Odiorne Associates, Inc., a management consulting firm in Plymouth.

Bologna recently conducted the survey of 100 members of the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants (CPAs) on the reasons why employees steal or embezzle from their employers.

"The opinions of CPAs, even on the modest scale involved in this survey," says Bologna, "can be very insightful on the issue of white collar crime."

"While the results may not be profound, they deserve attention and should spark an interest in research of this type."

Bologna said that there hasn't been a definitive research study on white collar crime cause factors since 1965 when Wayne State University published Professor Frank Hartung's book, "Crime, Law and Society."

"The survey item which surprised me the most," said Bologna, "is ranked fourth and suggests most white collar thieves are caught by accident rather than by audit or design."

"For accountants to rank the item that high is at least a mild surprise, because they generally design and install internal control systems which are supposed to thwart thievery."

"Their response may be the result of a growing recognition among management experts that there are no fool-proof systems of internal controls — that most organizations have to operate on the basis of a reasonable amount of trust."

"Spending a fortune for controls still won't discourage the truly dedicated white collar thief. But balancing controls with a work environment where people feel trusted and challenged can go a long way in the battle of reducing theft and increasing productivity."

Bologna said he believes another reason accountants may have ranked the item so high is their inclination toward conservatism. "They may be embarrassed about tooting their own horns."

"I have a hunch that most white collar frauds, thefts and embezzlements are not just stumbled over. I believe that if we began to accumulate some reliable data on the matter, we would soon find that audits, controls and design features of systems do, in fact, pinpoint problems and provide a workable detection tool."

"The question is — how long will it take to discover the fraud, not whether the system can detect fraud."

Bee school's at Schoolcraft

A bee-raiser from Plymouth is among those who will be speaking Saturday at the 42nd annual Bee School to be held at Schoolcraft College.

Ralph Alloway of Plymouth will speak on "Making Splits and Swarm Prevention." The morning keynote address by Dr. E.C. Martin will be on the value of bees in plant pollination.

Bob Kimbell of Plymouth is the program chairman for the activity. Anyone with a desire for more information may contact Kimbell at 455-0966.

Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m. and the program will begin at 9 p.m. Following a picnic-style potluck lunch, discussions will be conducted in the afternoon.

Five new hive tools and a package of bees will be among the prizes given away during the day.

The college is at 18600 Haggerty between Six and Seven Mile roads in Livonia.

THE RESULTS of the survey, in rank order, are:

- Each theft has its own preceding conditions and each thief has his own motives, so there is no general rule as to why employees steal.

- White collar criminals feel they can get away with it and not be caught.

- White collar criminals also think "stealing a little from a big company" won't hurt it.

- Most employee thieves are caught by accident rather than by audit or design. Therefore, fear of being caught is not a deterrent to theft.

- Employees steal for any reason the human mind and imagination can conjure up.

- White collar criminals fail to consider the consequences of being caught.

- Employee thieves feel frustrated or dissatisfied about some aspect of their job.

- They think "everybody else is stealing so why not me?"

- They feel abused by their employers and want to get even.

- The company's internal controls are so lax that everyone is tempted to steal.

- Employees aren't encouraged to discuss personal or financial problems at work or seek management's advice and counsel on such matters.

- Employees tend to imitate their bosses. If their bosses steal or cheat, they are also likely to do it.

- They feel that "beating" the company is a challenge and not a matter of economic gain alone.

- They think they desperately need, want or desire the money or articles stolen.

- They feel frustrated or dissatisfied about some aspect of their personal life that is not job related.

House starts shakin', seniors roll

By MICHAEL ZADOORIAN

Question: What sings, dances and collects social security?

Answer: Canton Senior Citizens.

Every spring, Canton senior citizens put on an extravaganza known as the follies.

The show last Thursday and Saturday featured comedy, singing dancing and the music of the Canton Senior Kitchen Band.

The follies is put on with volunteers from three Canton clubs — the Zesters, the Pioneers and the Royals. There was no particular reason for putting on the show except just for the seniors to have some fun.

"We were just surrounded by such talented seniors" said Delores Edwards, coordinator of the show. "The show just evolved".

Bette Potts, assistant coordinator of the show, had a different excuse.

"The grandparents always have to go to the kids' plays, so now the kids have to go to the grandparents' show."

Both these women put a lot of work into these shows. Delores Edwards has been doing them for the past three years.

When she is not putting on the follies, Ms. Edwards works for the township as the senior citizen coordinator.

However, much work goes into these shows. The seniors start practicing in February and work steadily until showtime.

"They are the peppiest senior citizens you've ever seen," said Ms. Edwards.

One can get tired just watching the follies. There is disco dancing, waltzing and even a ballet.

This ballet however, is one with a difference. "The Corps de Ballet" is a ballet done by male seniors in drag. These men don wigs and tou-tous and dance around on stage.

The ballet is only a small part of the follies. There is a number called the "Rub-a Dub-Dubbers" where senior women play washboards with thimbles on their fingers.

Said announcer Harold Beattie: "I've never seen this much activity from a woman with a washboard".

Ballroom dancing with Bud and Bette Potts was also featured, not to mention a special "Waltz Pavanne" lit only by black light.

Seniors also boogied to "Stayin' Alive" in a disco line dance number.

All the dancing was coordinated by Mrs. Potts. She and her husband have been dancing together for more than 40 years. They still dance professionally at clubs around the area.

This year, the follies was topped off by plenty of music by the Canton Senior Kitchen Band.

The seniors design many of their own instruments, ranging from homemade drums and sandpaper to kazoo in beer cans and bedpan guitars.

The Kitchen Band offered their own renditions of "Put a Little Love in Your Life," "You're a Grand Old Flag," and "This Land is Your Land" among other favorites.

As you watch the follies, there is no doubt that the seniors are enjoying themselves immensely.

One senior, Jack Ryan, quipped: "This is the best part of retirement!"

A kitchen band isn't complete without a washboard.

Bills stay costly

Gorman called that proposal "administratively impossible."

Under another suggestion, the cost of sewer and water debt retirement would be spread evenly throughout the township through a flat fee. That would allow officials to lower the current charge for water use, which would be levied in addition to the flat fee.

But Gorman maintains that the majority of Canton customers would pay more for water under that suggestion. Only large users would profit from the flat fee arrangement.

UNDER THE CURRENT system, customers are charged $1.83 for each 1,000 gallons of water that gush from their taps. Ninety-eight cents of that amount covers sewer costs. All water which rushes down the drain must be re-treated.

Under the dual meter system, sewer charges would be levied only against water used indoors. A separate meter would compute the number of gallons used outside. Water used outdoors does not enter the sanitary sewer system.

But Canton officials fear that summer water use would increase by 30 percent if the dual meter system is implemented.

Severe water pressure problems prompted the Michigan Health Department to impose a moratorium on water line extensions in Canton last fall. Construction of additional water mains in Canton and Livonia is expected to ease the problem.

Canton officials are opposing any steps that would increase water consumption until those mains are completed.

Gorman said several residents have called his office with questions about the dual meter system or any other steps that could curb high bills.

Hundreds of residents stormed township hall with complaints last summer after receiving water bills which ranged from $100 to $250.

Ford debate continues

Willow Creek, Carriage Hills and other subdivisions signed petitions in support of a boulevard over the other two options.

Flodin said the township board first indicated its preference for a boulevard about three years ago during the administration of former Supervisor Harold Stein. The township switched its support to a seven-lane project, however, after the state indicated that acquiring right-of-way for a boulevard could delay all Ford improvements for years.

Work to upgrade Ford to a five-lane highway between Sheldon and Canton Center and at Haggerty is now almost complete, said Chisholm.

"Public input is just one of the things which must be weighed," he said of Thursday's hearing.

Moving from area

Canton resident leaves W-W race

Incumbent Brian Sullivan is dropping out of the school board race. Sullivan, a Canton Township resident, was appointed to the Wayne-Westland board last fall to fill a vacancy.

His withdrawal leaves six candidates competing for two four-year seats on the board of trustees. Sullivan submitted his withdrawal notice in time to remove his name from the June election ballot.

Currently a regional manager for a firm that supplies components for computers, Sullivan will be moving to California in July to take a promotion as an area manager for the west coast including Hawaii and Alaska. Also leaving the school system will be Sullivan's wife, Kathy, who heads the human ecology department at John Glenn High School.

Sullivan said he will remain on the board until after the June election and expressed regret at having to leave his post.

"I've turned down two promotions already because I didn't want to move, but I had to make up my mind this time," Sullivan said.

He said that he found work with the district "very gratifying and I was very pleased to be appointed to the board. I was looking forward to campaigning and being re-elected." Sullivan was the only board member and candidate from the Canton Township area of the district.

"I had really just started to learn (board operations)," Sullivan added. "It's a full-time job, not just one night a week. There are other conferences and meetings and a lot of reading. I'd say it takes a minimum of 20 hours a week."

"I hope the candidates who are elected will put in the time and effort," he continued. "There were a lot of differences on the board, but it was a good board. The different expertise of people on the board is really important."

Sullivan said that future school boards will face "tough decisions in the next couple of years."

Those decisions will concern declining enrollment effects on jobs and school closings and finding alternate methods of school financing. Sullivan rated the school district as one of the best in the state and one of the 10 best in the nation. He also cited the service center now under construction and developments in the curriculum area as being "in the right direction."

Sullivan also has resigned his position as membership chairman of the Greater Canton Hills Homeowners Association.

Woman heads for Malaysian camps

Gloria Lee of Canton has been chosen to serve as the American delegate of an International Red Cross task force working in Malaysian refugee camps.

Ms. Lee, a Red cross staff member for three years, will join the Malaysian arm of the Southeast Asia Refugee Task Force in order to assist the Vietnamese "boat people."

The task force will be working to provide food, clothing, medical attention and resettlement assistance to the thousands of people fleeing Vietnam.

Ms. Lee currently is receiving briefings from American and International Red Cross officials in Geneva, Switzerland. She is expected to begin her three-month assignment in Malaysia this week.

Ms. Lee will act as social welfare advisor to the task force. Her duties will include identification of individuals, locating of family units within Malaysia and assistance in communication with family members in other countries.

Ms. Lee, 35, is a 1976 graduate of the University of Michigan, where she majored in biology, chemistry and psychology.

Chasing fathers for child support is big business

Third in a series.

By LYNN ORR

"Again this has been a productive year for the office of the Friend of the Court, more particularly as reflected in the receipts which continue to increase substantially each year."

— 1978 Annual Report
Wayne County Friend of the Court

Collecting money is the Friend of the Court's major objective.

What the Court doesn't like to talk about is that collecting money owed to the state for mothers receiving Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) has top priority.

When Don and his wife, Dana, separated three years ago, the Wayne County Friend of the Court entered a temporary (ex parte) order requiring him to pay $55 a week in child support and $25 a week in alimony.

Without a job, Dana reluctantly applied for help from the Department of Social Services and began receiving $182 per month under ADC. She assumed she could make ends meet with the ADC and Don's support.

But she never received Don's support check. She bitterly accused him of reneging on his responsibilities.

"I was getting hostile with Don," she recalls.

Don argued that he had the check stubs to prove he'd paid his money to Friend of the Court. He and Dana decided he would pay her directly and avoid Friend of the Court.

WITHIN WEEKS, Don was sent a summons stating he owed $900. In his interview with an investigator, he found that his checks were being paid to reimburse the Department of Social Services for the ADC payments Dana was receiving. The investigator did not know why Dana wasn't receiving the difference between the ADC and Don's support.

Fortunately, Don had his check stubs to prove direct payment and the arrearage was canceled.

After three months, Dana found a job, closed the ADC account and tried to find out why she still wasn't getting her support check.

Through a friend of a friend, she finally contacted a Wayne County judge, who cut yards of red tape and arranged an interview. She received the money owed her, about $800, although no answer as to why the checks had been held up.

Don began to send his checks to Friend of the Court again.

About a year later, Don quit his job, was out of work for a few months and got behind on his support. This time, Wayne County didn't notice. He arranged for an interview, went before a judge and had his support reduced to $20 per week, based on his new salary of $8,000 annually.

Dana once again had trouble getting the checks. Finally the two decided that Don would give her a support check directly, avoiding Friend of the Court and what they consider a "hassle."

IT'S BEEN a year, and Don hasn't received a notice of arrearage from the court. That may be forthcoming, however, when the computer catches up with the lack of payments.

Why was his arrearage caught so quickly the first time?

Most likely the answer is Dana's status as an ADC recipient. Child support is more strictly enforced when ADC is involved, admitted at least one agency official.

"The whole point of the ADC collections is that the taxpayers of Michigan are assuming a responsibility that belongs to the man," said John Houghten, Friend of the Court in Oakland County.

"We ought to do what we can to get him to pay. We are always trying to do two things — enforce child support so the women can get off (ADC) or not get on."

Friend of the Court also receives a 15 percent "incentive" fee from the federal government, funneled through the State Department of Social Services, for collecting support due a custodial parent on ADC.

Last year, Wayne County Friend of the Court collected $95 million from non-custodial parents. More than $22 million was paid directly to Department of Social Services for ADC accounts.

Their "incentive" percentage? $3,742,000. But that sum went directly into the Wayne County general fund. Friend of the Court didn't see a penny of it.

In fact, Wayne County Friend of the Court actually was a profit-making organization last year. But the "profit" stays in the general fund of Wayne County. Friend of the Court is a line item in the budget. Its service fee collections ($1.50 per month on each account) and "incentive" funds have no relation to its budget, more than $4 million, appropriated by the County Commissioners.

The Michigan Women's Commission's study, "In the Best Interests of the Child," recommends that "100 percent of federal revenues generated by the Friend of the Court office be returned to the Court in addition to present funding levels." The funds would be used to comply with statutes and court rules and used for court-related child services.

More computerization, more personal service and possibly counseling services are what Friends of the Court said they would do with any increase in funds.

THE LACK of money is one reason why his staff collects less than 50 percent of court-ordered support, says Clayton Christenson, Wayne County Friend of the Court.

"If we had the equipment and the personnel, we could increase that figure dramatically," he says, referring to the collections.

He pointed out that cash registers date back to the 1940s. If an employee is on vacation or sick, there's no one to pick up the slack. Currently 44 positions are "frozen." Christenson is not allowed to fill the vacancies because of Wayne County's budget woes.

Last Christmas, the office was closed and the staff laid off from Dec. 21 through Jan. 2 because Wayne County ran out of general fund money.

Christenson believes his staff did a remarkable job in getting up to date within two weeks of going back to work. But during the temporary lay-off, fathers' support checks sat in a mailbox while mothers tried to get through the holidays without their checks.

THURSDAY: The future — Old laws, new issues, proposed legislation.

Serving time

It's pay up or the pokey for some errant dads

"Under the Constitution, we don't have a debtors' prison," argues Alan Lebow, who organized Equal Rights for Fathers.

But jailing men who do not pay child support is legal. If a father does not pay, he can be held in contempt of court and sentenced to serve time.

"You think that laws were made for everybody but you," a Genesee County judge is quoted in "Making Fathers Pay," a five-year study of child support enforcement in Michigan.

"Well, I'm going to teach you a lesson. This court finds nothing wrong with you. Hernia or no hernia, you had no business leaving the Fisher Body when you were building up seniority, fringe benefits, everything. You take a leave of absence and go to Florida with a new wife."

The defendant served 10 months of a one-year sentence in Genesee County Jail for failing to pay child support.

In that county, one of every seven divorced men with children was sentenced to jail at least once for failing to pay child support, according to David Chambers, a University of Michigan law professor who wrote "Making Fathers Pay."

"In several Michigan counties, on any given day, more men are sitting in the county jail for failing to pay support than are there under sentence for all other jailable offenses combined," Chambers wrote.

And according to his study, non-paying fathers of children whose mothers collect ADC are more likely to be sent to jail than other fathers behind in support.

"Within Michigan, there are counties in which it appears that most of the jailing befalls those whose children receive welfare benefits, despite the fact that no just claim can be made that this group is either more villainous for failing to pay or that it constitutes an especially visible group to use to scare other potential defaulters," according to Chambers.

A HIGH RATE of jailing, coupled with a "self-starting" enforcement system that automatically locates arrearage, produces a higher rate of enforcement of child support payments, according to Chambers.

Genesee County collects a much higher percentage of child support than either Wayne or Oakland County. Wayne County judges also send a much lower percentage of non-payers to jail.

Wayne County Circuit Court ordered 1,237 men in 1979 committed to the Detroit House of Corrections. Of that total, 947 paid up and were released within hours, said Clayton Christenson, Wayne County Friend of the Court.

In 1978, Wayne County judges committed 2,254 men, 772 of whom were released after they paid arrearages.

"Seventy-five percent of those committed do not serve their time in jail," Christenson said.

"If the Wayne judges had followed Barry's (another Michigan county) pattern in sentencing to jail one of every eight men who had paid less than 80 percent of everything owed during the year, they would have sentenced over 8,000 men, not 900," in 1974, according to Chambers.

Oakland County officials said they had no statistics on how many fathers are jailed.

Brown explains deal on census-related funding

Most residents don't know a great deal about the revenue-sharing program, says State Rep. Thomas H. Brown, D-West land, whose 37th District includes Canton and part of Plymouth Township.

"The average citizen knows that some of the revenues collected by the state are returned to local governments," says Brown. "But most people do not fully understand just how large and complex the program is or how much the state revenue-sharing program means to local governments."

Even the media generally avoids getting into too much detail when reporting about the program, adds Brown, because the details are very complex and can be confusing.

That may be why not much media attention was given recently when the state House of Representatives passed a bill providing for a six-month delay in the application of the 1980 Census figures to the distribution of state revenue-sharing funds to local governments in Michigan, says Brown.

"Originally, I opposed this legislation because all but one of the communities in my district have experienced relatively high growth in population and, with the proposed delay, those high-growth communities would have actually lost revenue-sharing funds."

"Other communities throughout the state which are experiencing population declines — including Detroit, Flint, Grand Rapids and several other cities — would gain funding because of the delay."

A compromise agreement, sponsored by Brown, was developed to provide a payback mechanism so that growth communities could receive any additional funding lost because of the delay over a period of time.

AS A WAY OF background, before the revenue-sharing act was approved in 1971, all state shared revenues were distributed to local governments on a straight per capita basis.

Money passed on to local units came from three sources — the sales tax, the intangibles tax and the personal income tax.

Public Act 140 of 1971 combined all of the three authorizations for revenue-sharing distributions into one act, enriched the local share, and provided for payments to be made directly to municipalities rather than through the county governments.

The revenues currently distributed under Act 140 include: 15 percent of the state sales tax collections distributed on a straight per capita basis to local governments; $9.5 million of the intangibles tax to those units which levy at least one mill in property tax, also on a straight per capita basis; 12.1 percent of the first 2.6 percent of the personal income tax collections; 5 percent of the gross collections before refunds of the single business tax.

In fiscal year 1971-72 about $107 million in sales tax money was distributed to cities, villages and townships while this year more than $230 million was distributed from the sales tax collections.

Since the enactment of the single business tax of 1975 the amount of state shared revenues has increased from about $30 million to some $60 million this year.

The biggest change in the method of distributing revenues, says Brown, came with adoption of the relative tax effort formula which provides more funding to those communities with the greatest need.

"It was felt that if a local community had to tax itself rather highly to provide local services, than such communities should get a greater return of funding from the state."

"However, it also was the goal of the program to ensure that communities which were receiving a certain level of funds would not lose funding because of the emphasis on distributing a portion of the funds to the higher-taxing communities."

"Under the program higher-taxing cities, both large and small, got more funding but lower-taxing communities which were growing and experiencing the demands of new residents for improved services would not lose any funding."

FOR EVERYONE CONCERNED, said Brown, state revenue-sharing was a good program.

Over the last decade funding has increased by more than 120 percent from $219 million in 1971 to $483 million in 1980. Almost $3 billion has been distributed to local governments since the program's inception.

WITHIN THE the 37th House District since 1971 the city of Wayne has received $5.8 million, Westland $22 million, Canton almost $4 million, and Plymouth Township $3.7 million in state shared-revenues.

In addition, the Legislature provided a new funding program in 1975 which allows growing communities (which have experienced at least 15 percent growth since 1970) to have a special census conducted so that unusual population growth could be recognized before the next decennial census (in 1980).

Although this program has not been fully funded, said Brown, Plymouth and Canton townships have received a substantial amount of special census funding.

Plymouth Township will have received more than $208,000 since 1976 which includes almost $44,000 in fiscal year 1979-80 and Canton Township will have received about $1.5 million in special census funds, including $322,000 for this fiscal year.

The 1980 census figures, when known, will result in communities like Plymouth and Canton townships getting more in shared-revenue while Detroit and other larger cities will receive less.

Governor Milliken proposed a six-month delay in the application of the 1980 census figures as a way of aiding the large cities in Michigan, noted Brown.

Brown said he was willing to consider measures to help the larger cities but not at the expense of the high-growth communities in his district.

According to figures from the Department of Management and Budget, Canton Township would experience a substantial increase in revenue-sharing between fiscal years '79-80 and '80-81 because of its tremendous growth in population since 1970.

If the six-month delay was not approved, said Brown, Canton would receive more than $570,000 in additional revenue-sharing payments.

"I felt very strongly that growth communities had waited long enough since the 1970 census to get their fair share of the revenue-sharing pie. Surely, growth communities are burdened with difficult challenges to provide necessary services when a tremendous influx of new residents move into an area."

"I wanted to talk compromise but not too many people, including the bill's sponsor or the Milliken Administration originally felt that compromise was necessary."

Because of the unwillingness to compromise, Brown said he offered an amendment to change the distribution formula to a straight per capita basis which would have meant an even greater loss of revenue-sharing funds for the larger cities than the '80 census would have provided.

After the amendment was defeated by one vote on a roll call vote, said Brown, several discussions suddenly began on a compromise.

Under the compromise the effective date of the census would be delayed from April 1 to Oct. 1 but any funds lost by growth communities would be repaid to them over a four year period.

One reason the compromise worked out was because lawmakers understood that Gov. Milliken likely would have vetoed the special census funding for '79-80 if he thought the census delay bill would not pass.

When the special census and repayment measures are combined, added Brown, the 37th District actually will receive more funding on a long-term basis than it loses because of the six-month delay.

Brown said Canton will have its revenue-sharing funds increased from slightly more than $700,000 in '79-80 (including the $322,000 in special census funds) to almost $1.3 million in '80-81.

Plymouth Township will increase from $575,000 in fiscal year '79-80 (including $44,000 in special census funds) to $681,000 in '80-81.

Such increases for the high-growth communities, concluded Brown, will help the residents of those communities avoid the pressure to increase local property taxes to continue to maintain local services.

Ready to wage war against the little animals

This is the first day of spring and The Stroller can think of no better way to celebrate its arrival than to issue a proclamation of war.

No, it won't be fought with bullets or the poisonous gases that are used in ordinary warfare. And human beings will not be in the role of the enemy.

Instead, it will be a war against the birds, rabbits, squirrels raccoons and the other animals that have been having a field day in his vegetable garden in past years.

Ever since he moved to the suburbs years ago and what were then the wide open spaces, The Stroller has yearned for a vegetable and flower garden like his family used to have and enjoy in the rich soil of the Pennsylvania Dutch country.

They were gardens to behold. Seldom did we ever have to go to market for the vegetables we needed to grace the dining table. We raised them — from scallions to pumpkins — and we had a great time doing it.

But because of the birds and animals nesting in the suburban communities, his gardens out here have been a shambles. In fact, they have been almost a laughing stock and, at times, looked like a battlefield with the debris laying all around.

For the past several years, The Stroller has taken the advice of his nursery owner's friendship and scattered some kind of loose material that was supposed to do the trick.

He even went so far as to purchase cages for his tomato plants. These cages were five feet high and were supposed to keep the animals at bay. They didn't. And here's why.

These cages were funnel shaped and the animals were smart enough to make their charge at the narrow bottoms during the night. As a result, the tomatoes never had much of a chance to soar heavenward.

It was the same with such popular vegetables as garden onions, radishes and beets. They never had a chance. It was almost as though the resident animals stood watch. As soon as the young plants stuck their green leaves above the ground, the animals swooped around and left the long rows barren.

Ever so often The Stroller tried what he was told were foolproof materials. But it seems that the animals relished these just as much as the old one. As a result, The Stroller's garden has been a battleground where he always has lost.

A fellow can take only so much so when the animals invaded the flower garden last spring, the sincere decision was made to declare an all-out war.

It came when the rabbits and raccoons took over the gladiolus bed and ruined it. This didn't seem possible, but the evidence was there. The rabbits and the raccoons waged a much different war on the "glads."

They didn't nibble at them as soon as their stems appeared above the ground. They waited until they were about a foot high. Then they must have worked as a team. The raccoons could reach high enough to pull the stems over and break them off. Then the rabbits joined in and they must have had a feast.

All The Stroller knows is he didn't have the gladiolus garden he had hoped for.

So now the war is on. It promises to be a long battle, but The Stroller is a stubborn guy and he's ready to fight all summer.

You'll get the results in the fall.

Nancy Walls Smith

Those who are familiar with my cowardly attitude when it comes to driving in heavy traffic (I have been known to go two miles out of my way to avoid making a left turn onto a busy street) may find it hard to believe, but last Tuesday I actually braved the intersection at Eight Mile and Greenfield at 4:30 in the afternoon.

There's a long story behind this uncharacteristic spurt of courage on my part—a long, sad story.

IT ALL STARTED when I received a registered letter informing me that I had won first prize in a contest that had run last November in a magazine entitled "Rona Barrett's Hollywood."

It wasn't too surprising to me that I was the winner, since I am probably the only person in the world over 13 years of age who reads such vapid periodicals.

The contest consisted of 10 pictures depicting 10 pairs of eyes belonging to that same number of anonymous "stars." The problem was to identify the owners of the eyes. Thirteen-year-olds probably don't even know who people like Martin Landau, Nancy Walker, and Nelson Rockefeller are, let alone what their eyes look like.

So simply by identifying these three, plus seven other notables, I was awarded "3 coupons valued at $300 to be applied toward the cost of a pair of Vent-Air contact lenses." This was good news, indeed!

I quickly got on the phone to make my appointment. I've grown quite tired of looking like a librarian with these old owl spectacles. Contact lenses seemed like a wonderful idea!

After leaving my name with the machine that answered the phone (that's always such a thrill), my call was returned and an appointment arranged. I found it somewhat distressing that the only Vent-Air Optics company in the entire state of Michigan was located on the corner of Eight Mile and Greenfield, but I figured I was willing to brave my life in the traffic for a free pair of contacts.

Two Valiums later, I found myself in the North Center Building with my two young children and a friend I had dragged along to help me read strange and foreign street signs, searching for the Vent Air Optics office. We found it. It was closed.

SINCE WE WERE 10 minutes early, I suggested that perhaps the entire staff had gone out for coffee.

My friend looked skeptical. After hanging around in the halls for over 45 minutes, I started to get sad. When I inquired of the good doctor's whereabouts to other occupants of the building, I was told, "He only comes in once or twice a week — he hasn't been in today." It wasn't looking good.

Then I did one of my really dumb things. In a moment of desperation I tried to place a "collect" call to California to the lady who had sent the letter to ask if Vent Air Optics was really a legitimate firm. Naturally, she wouldn't accept my call, so out of sheer frustration I had the call charged to my home phone.

The lady in L.A. was very loquacious. After she congratulated me for over five minutes (and I was paying for this!) she repeated several times, "Now what you should do, honey, is make an appointment for when he is there!" No kidding.

At this point I was livid. So far, this fiasco had cost me about $7 in gas (I only get 10 miles to the gallon) and whatever the cost of that fruitless call to the lady full of wisdom in California.

The next morning I called Vent-Air Optics hoping that perhaps we could all have a good laugh over our mutual misunderstanding with regards to the time of my appointment. Unfortunately, Vent-Air Optics was no more. They were gone. Vanished, it seems.

As a friend suggested, perhaps business was so bad that when they heard I was coming in for $300 worth of freebies, they decided it was time to skip town.

Oh well, I guess it's not so bad looking like a librarian. But Rona Barrett can just forget about me reading her silly little magazines anymore. That'll teach her!

Cop cant is alphabet argot; it's also undecipherable

I don't know about you, but UDAA sounds like a federal agency to me. Maybe one devoted to underwater demolition.

CSC could be a small tool and die shop. VSCSA — I wouldn't even hazard a guess. VPHC must be some kind of drug. VSNC sounds like a snide remark. BW and TW are probably carved into an oak tree somewhere with the word "loves" between them. MDOP could be a high-priced beer some St. Louis factory wants to make sound like Vienna.

DUID is a pagan priest. CCW is what they called Burt Reynolds in one of those Deep South car chase movies where everybody had initials instead of names.

In fact, though, all these initials are crimes. UDAA is unlawfully driving away an automobile. I call it car theft. CSC is criminal sexual conduct, usually rape.

VSNC is obsolete, but it used to mean violation of state narcotics laws. It usually meant marijuana. VSCSA is what replaced VSNC, and it's also obsolete. It used to mean violation of the state controlled substance act. It usually meant marijuana. VPHC is what replaced VSCSA. It stands for violation of the public health code. It also usually means marijuana.

BW in bench warrant; TW is traffic warrant. MDOP is malicious destruction of property — vandalism. CCW is carrying a concealed weapon. DUID is driving under the influence of drugs.

LIKE MOST JOBS, being in the police business means learning the jargon of the trade. You can basically split this into two parts: jargon used for radio broadcasts, and jargon used in writing reports.

Most people seem to think cops go around saying "10-4" to each other the way waitresses rattle off "BLT." But that's radio jargon, which is all numbers, and nobody talks like that except Jack Webb, the genius who brought us "Dragnet." "As you know, every occupation has its own jargon. The doctors have it, the lawyers have it. You had economics in school? I hated it. "If you don't know the vocabulary, you're screwed," said an area police detective.

"It takes probably maybe six months to a year before you even understand what's going on over the radio," said a 12-year veteran.

"After a while, you learn how to hear the radio, even in the middle of a conversation."

But even that is of limited benefit, because jargon changes. It varies from one police department to another, and it even varies within the same department.

Recently, for instance, the number code used by Livonia Police was changed to accommodate new computers. Instead of using the prefix "10" followed by a two-digit code for a specific offense, officers now use the prefix "68."

OFFICERS who transfer from one department to another often also have to learn new languages. Garden City, for instance, has a radio code based on the prefix "20." For instance, 205 is an accident, and 2055 is an accident where somebody got hurt.

In Livonia, it's 105, and so on. And even within the Livonia department there are differences.

For instance, when one man says Harness Bulls, he's talking about uniformed officers in marked squad cars. Narks say Rollers to mean the same. And Narks, if you're curious, are narcotics agents.

Ten-four. But that's CB talk, and that's for another day.

Editor:

I would like to remind your readers that, even though the official Census Day has passed, it is not too late to be counted in the 1980 census. A complete and accurate count of Canton's population will provide fair representation for Canton in Congress and the state Legislature, as well as increasing the tax dollars returned to Canton by the federal government.

The census forms may still be returned by mail. Any Canton Township resident who has not received a Census form or who would like help in completing the questionnaire should contact the Township Hall at 397-1000.

I would also like to take this opportunity to publicly thank the individuals and organizations who gave their time on the census weekend to help ensure a complete count of Canton's population. The League of Women Voters was represented by Bonnie Bowerman, Cindy Fanslow, Gloria Hammonds, Linda Lynch, Cathy Prince and Jackie Westbay. Loren Bennett, Noel Culbert and Tim Orbacki from the Canton Jaycees also helped. Individuals who volunteered their time included Terry Carroll, Jim Kosteva and Laura Kosteva.

Visit New Zealand on Wednesday

A trip to New Zealand will end this season's travelogue series Wednesday night at Plymouth Salem High School. Walter S. Dodson's "Bountiful New Zealand" will be shown beginning 8 p.m. in the auditorium of Salem High on Joy Road just west of Canton Center Road. The travel and adventure series is sponsored by the Plymouth Kiwanis Foundation, a joint fund-raising community effort of the Plymouth Kiwanis Club and the Kiwanis Club of Colonial Plymouth.

DODSON, born and educated in England, enlisted in the British Army in 1939.

With the British Army, he served in France and Belgium, escaped Dunkirk, and subsequently spent five years in the Middle East where he met his wife, Margot.

In 1949 he moved his family to the United States and began work as a chief engineer, practicing photography and cinematography part-time.

Dodson's professional cinematography experience and enjoyment in meeting people from different countries later induced him to become a full-time travelogue artist.

NEW ZEALAND often has been called a "world in microcosm" because of its variety of scenic wonders, says Dodson.

That variety includes beaches, glaciers, mountains and tropical forests.

New Zealanders have preserved, to a large extent, the customs and traditions of England, says Dodson, and they are characterized by a love of home life and hospitality.

Auckland, a city with extensive harbors, offers viewers sights such as the Parnell Rose Garden, Cornwall Park and Tamaki Drive.

The largest inland city, Hamilton, is interesting for its many examples of modern agriculture. The film includes shots of a typical day of a family on a 50-acre farm and the view of the sheep dog trails at Ohingaiti.

Dodson also takes viewers to Rotorua, famous for its thermal activity and for the conscientious preservation of the native Maori culture. Here the viewer will see Maori crafts like wood-carving, jewelry making, and a Maori concert. Close by is Lake Taupo where Rainbow trout make it a sportsman's paradise.

A wedding reception and feast are among the happenings shared with viewers when a trip is taken to the capital city of Wellington. Stops then will be made to Christchurch, Dunedin, Queenstown and to Nelson.

A trip to the South Island also will include stops at Milford Sound, Mitre Peak, Bowen Falls, and Mount Cook.

Salem rebounds in Sub 8 baseball opener

By BRAD EMONS

Third baseman Mike Woodard and pitcher Pat McNamara teamed up to give Plymouth Salem a much-needed 5-4 Suburban Eight League baseball victory Friday afternoon over Dearborn.

It was a complete turnaround for the Rocks, who were roughed up Thursday by Redford Thurston in their season opener, 9-1.

Woodard paced a seven-hit Salem attack in the win over Dearborn. The tall cornerman had three hits and two RBIs.

With the score tied at 4 all in the bottom of the seventh inning, Woodard came through with a line shot single to left field scoring teammate Mitch Wilcox with the winning run.

McNamara, a rangy left-hander, went all seven innings for Salem. He allowed two earned runs and fanned seven.

"Pat threw great early," said Salem coach Brian Gilles. "He was always getting ahead of the hitters. In the later innings, he just got tired and, then, we just quit moving the ball offensively."

McNamara gave up four hits and walked eight in his first start.

Salem jumped out to a 4-0 advantage after three innings.

The Rocks struck for two runs in the first as lead-off batter John Hetkowski, a junior shortstop, slapped a double. Wilcox then walked. First baseman Jim Anderson followed with an infield single to load the bases. Woodard then hit a sacrifice fly scoring one run. A wild Dearborn throw on the play allowed Wilcox to score.

IN THE SECOND inning, freshman catcher Dave Slavin was hit by a pitch. He stole second base and then came home on Hetkowski's RBI single.

Salem made it 4-0 with a single run in the third when Anderson, who had led off with a walk, came home on Brian Lewandowski's RBI sacrifice fly.

Catcher Dave Slavin, a freshman, had trouble picking up this low pitch as the ball scoots in between him and the umpire. Salem won its Suburban Eight League opener. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Dearborn touched up McNamara with a run in the fifth. The Patriots then struck for three runs in the sixth to knot the score.

Hetkowski had two hits to support Woodard.

Dearborn's Jay Gniewek, the third of four pitchers, suffered the loss.

Control problems on the mound hurt Salem in its opener against Thurston.

Four Rock pitchers combined to give up 16 walks.

Meanwhile, tiny Thurston lefty Rob Domenzain, a senior, limited the Rocks to just two hits in six innings.

Thurston scored once in the first inning off starter Ken McDonald. The run was unearned.

Salem tied the game in the second when Woodard, who had singled, came home on a passed ball.

Domenzain and pinch hitter John Hartlep hit back-to-back singles in the third inning to lift the Eagles to a 4-1 advantage.

Thurston then tallied two more runs in the fourth without a single hit. The Eagles broke the game wide open in the fifth when third baseman Scott Farquhar doubled home two runs.

THURSTON COACH Emil Majewski was elated with the season opening win.

"I'm very pleased," he said. "We got up and didn't let up. You can't afford to let up in a small ball park like this."

"Rob did an outstanding job for us. He's our ace. His control was good and he kept it low. That's the name of the game."

The 5-foot-3, 120-pound lefty struck out five and walked three to pick up the win.

Salem used four pitchers. All four had control problems.

Rock track girls run past arch-rival Chiefs

Meixner, Lybarger lead charge

Plymouth Salem took eight of 11 first places Wednesday afternoon to defeat rival Plymouth Canton in a non-league girls' track meet, 83-39.

The Rocks are now 2-0 overall in dual meets. Canton slipped to 0-1.

"We had a lot of outstanding performances," said Salem coach Scott Kurtz. "We're looking better than we actually are."

"The meet went about what I expected."

Senior Ann Meixner and sophomore Linda Lybarger led the Salem assault.

Meixner led Salem sweeps in the hurdles events. She also participated on two winning relay events. The Salem captain posted a time of 32.6 in the 220-yard lows.

Lybarger took the 220 and 440 yard sprint events. She was a member of the winning mile relay squad that posted a time of 4:31.0. She was joined by Meixner, Lori Grissom and Carol Lindsay.

Salem's Diane Perpich won the high jump (5-0) and long jump (14-3½). Lybarger was second in the long jump (14-2½).

Carin Ford of Salem took the shot put (32-5), but Canton's Liz Gorecki won the discus (97-0). Gorecki was also second in the shot put (29-2½).

"I KNEW they (Salem) were strong," said Canton coach Bob Richardson. "I thought the meet would be closer. We know now that we have to work on things."

"They (Salem) cleaned up on us in the hurdles and high jump."

Richardson was pleased with the performance of his distance runners. Senior Geri Shufeldt captured the 880-yard run with a time of 2:43.2. Michelle Perrot grabbed first in the two mile (13:12.0).

Diane Perpich clears 5-feet in the high jump victory over rival Plymouth Canton, 83-39. (Staff photo)

Salem's Ruth Sample cruised to a first place win in the mile (5:48.0) with Canton gaining second and third.

"We've already won more relays this year than we did all last year," said Kurtz. "I'm really happy with our mile relay. I think they can go somewhere."

"Meixner is ahead of last year."

And so is Salem. The Rocks won just one dual meet year ago and were shut out in 1978.

Williams elated with early showing

By BRAD EMONS

Plymouth Salem's tennis team gave an early indication that it will figure prominently in the Suburban Eight League race.

On Wednesday, Salem upended defending league champ Dearborn Edsel Ford, 5-2, giving rookie coach Tom Williams his first win.

Dearborn came away with a 6-1 triumph over the Rocks on the road Thursday in a match which was closer than the score revealed.

"I'm very pleased so far," said Williams. "I am elated because those guys (Edsel Ford) were defending champs."

"Our match against Dearborn was super, super close. I think we can turn that around next time. I'm looking forward to the rematch."

The most impressive players in Salem's 1-1 start have been No. 1 doubles team Blake Lundberg and Craig Baker. The Rock duo was hardly tested in their first match, whipping Dennis Paputa and Glenn Meredith of Edsel Ford, 6-1, 6-1. Lundberg and Baker scored Salem's only point against Dearborn, beating Bob Fitzgerald and Don Gary in straight sets, 6-4, 6-2.

In the win over Edsel Ford, No. 2 singles player Scott Crespo downed Rob Waldron, 6-0, 7-6, using a steady baseline game.

AT NO. 4 singles, Doug Baker trimmed Chuck Davis in a long encounter, 7-6, 4-6, 6-4. Dick Cook and sophomore Dave Goodsir, Salem's No. 1 and 3 players respectively, lost their matches against Edsel Ford.

AT NO. 2 doubles, Bob Jarvis and Jeff Howell of Salem teamed up to edge Paul Soper and Ron Sample, 7-6, 5-7, 6-3.

Paul Horton and Jack Thomas, played together at No. 3 doubles for the Rocks, took care of Steve Cornell and Martin Zdan, 6-7, 6-2, 6-3.

In the Dearborn match, Cook came up short against one of the top players in the area, Dearborn's David Sommerville, losing a tight match, 7-5, 6-3.

"I was really pleased with Dick's showing," Williams said. "I thought he played super."

Crespo incurred a rare singles loss, falling to Andy McKenna, 3-6, 6-1, 7-5. Goodsir was beaten by Steve Jackson, 6-1, 6-1. Brian Proctor took care of Baker, 6-2, 7-5.

Jarvis and Howell suffered a heart-breaking defeat against Tony Giacomini and Randy Orris, 5-7, 6-4, 8-6.

Horton and Thomas lost another tough three-set decision, 4-6, 6-4, 7-5, to Tom Butler and Kevin Matthews.

Salem will return to action at 4 p.m. Tuesday at home against Livonia Bentley.

Canton golfers tee up Dearborn squad

Janis McGlone, a junior, fired a nine-hole round of 49 Thursday at Hilltop Golf Course to lead Plymouth Canton to a 239-280 non-league win over Dearborn Edsel Ford.

McGlone was consistent all day long from the tee in cold, windy and damp conditions.

"I was pleased with the win," said Canton coach Ann Buie.

Other Canton scores included senior Jenny Desautel (60), Karen Mullen (64) and Cindy Sochacki (66).

Karen Grant led Edsel Ford with a 62.

Canton will meet Central Six League favorite Pinckney at 3 p.m. Tuesday at Hilltop. The Chiefs will then face rival Plymouth Salem at 3 p.m. Thursday at Hilltop.

"Pinckney and Salem are two tough teams," said Buie. "I'm not looking forward to those matches."

Canton is defending league and district champs.

Pinch hitters come through

Salem bats boom in late going

By BRAD EMONS

Plymouth Salem made a successful 1980 debut Friday afternoon with a come-from-behind 6-3 Suburban Eight League softball victory over Dearborn.

The Rocks, coached by Livi Way, rallied for three runs with two outs in the bottom sixth after trailing, 3-2.

Third baseman Cathy Gardner started the rally with a single. First baseman Patty Weidman then followed with another single. Pam Wojek, pinch hitting, loaded the bases with a walk.

Kelly Strauss was then sent up to bat by Way, replacing second baseman Stacy Nicolin, who had singled on her previous trip.

"I felt Kelly could get ahold of the ball," said Way. "She hits with power. I have confidence they all can hit."

And Strauss came through. She ripped a single to right field on a two-strike count to score Gardner and Weidman.

Right-fielder Laura Arnold drove home Strauss on the next pitch with another single as the Rocks mounted a three-run advantage.

"The girls were eager to play," Way said. "I felt we'd do well even if we had lost. I like using the whole team, because it helps at the end of the season."

Salem starting pitcher Jill Goodrich mowed down Dearborn in the final inning.

SHE ALLOWED five hits and struck out two enroute to the win. She received ample defensive support from her teammates in the field, especially from center-fielder Sue McDowell, who made a fine running catch in the second inning to rob Mary Pat Sarb of an extra base hit.

"My defense was sharp," said Way, "and Jill looked good. She got the ball around the plate. She's not overpowering. Her back has been bothering her and she will get a rest because we don't play again until Tuesday."

Dearborn scored an unearned run in the first inning to take a 1-0 lead. The Pioneers then tallied twice in the third inning on a Salem outfield error to take a 3-1 lead.

Salem scored a run in the third when Nicolin singled and came home on Nan Horwood's long double.

The Rocks cut the Dearborn lead to 3-2 in the fourth when McDowell slammed a triple and scored on pinch-hit single by Jeanine Papa.

"Salem is a much better team," said Dearborn coach Liz Basco. "They are a good hitting team."

"We were one pitch away. Those things happen."

Arnold paced the Salem hitting attack with two singles. The Rocks totaled nine on the day.

Canton thinclads scare Churchill

Plymouth Canton's boys' track team is making giant strides already this season.

The Chiefs, beaten by Livonia Churchill last year by 60 points, made a respectable showing Thursday afternoon at home, losing to the Chargers, 74-50.

"This is the closest meet we've ever had with them," said Canton coach Mike Spitz.

Churchill has won the Western Six League title seven straight years.

Senior tri-captain Dan McGlinn was a standout all day for Canton.

He won the high jump (5-feet-6-inches), 120-yard high hurdles (16.1) and 330-yard low hurdles (41.1). The Canton sprinter also anchored the winning 880-yard relay team which posted a time of 1:38.0. McGlinn was joined by John Tarr, Mark Kowalczyk and Mike Knirim.

Kowalczyk won both the long jump (18-10) and 100-meter dash (11.0).

Canton placed high in the distance events.

Senior Dan Inloes and junior Dan Henry finished first and second respectively in the 880-yard run. Inloes' time was 2:06.0. Henry came across the tape in 2:11.0.

Jack Pacente won both the mile and two-mile runs. He posted a time of 4:48.0 in the mile and 10:32.0 in the two-mile.

BARRON SMITH took second in the two mile (10:58) while teammate Scott Hand placed third in the mile (4:53.0).

Other Canton competitors placing second in the meet included Kowalczyk, long jump, 18-10; freshman Ron Rienes, high jump, 5-4; Randy Lee, pole vault, 11-0; Ken Jayroe, 220-yard dash, 25.3.

On the official roster of the Detroit Baseball Company, owner of the Tigers, Jimmy Campbell is listed as the president and general manager.

Now he is fully entitled to a third title — that of being an eternal optimist.

The little baldheaded fellow qualified last Friday afternoon while waiting for the call to play ball and the opening of the Tigers' home season.

When asked how he felt about the Tigers losing streak that had extended to six games on the road against one victory, he looked up and with a sort of smile and said:

"Don't forget — last year at this time the Baltimore Orioles were 2-8 and they went on to win the American League pennant."

Then asked if the current team was the greatest gamble of his baseball career, he stared at his inquisitor and answered, "No." This is a damn good ball club. When the pieces are fitted together you will see that."

LITTLE DID he realize at that moment that the Tigers were about to disappoint a gathering of 50,687 fans by losing the opener to the Kansas City Royals, 9-6, in a game that they actually threw away.

Jimmy was still smiling when the fiasco ended after almost four hours of mediocre baseball and again called attention to the fact that the season was young and that anything could happen.

For the first four innings of the opener, it appeared that the Tigers had put the pieces together after the disastrous road trip.

They were mad when they took the field. They were mad at the Royals for taking three of the four games in the season's first series. And they were mad at Paul Splittorff, the Royals pitcher, who had beaten them last Sunday, and they vowed to get even.

They did. They scored four runs on five hits and chased him from the mound in the very first inning. And it appeared then that the Tigers were on their way.

But, evidently, they didn't stay mad long enough. For four innings Dave Rozema didn't allow a hit, and it seemed that he was about to get a higher notch on the pitching staff.

IT WAS EVIDENT that he wasn't ready to go all the way for he gave up six hits and four runs in the fifth inning, and it gave him a quick trip to the shower.

From then on, while it was an interesting battle, the Tigers did little to merit Jimmy Campbell's optimism. They squandered chances and even after they took the lead on Alan Trammell's hit through the middle in the eighth that brought in two runs, they couldn't hold it.

The pressure got them in the 11th when the Royals counted three times and forced the Tigers to admit defeat in the home opener for the seventh time in eight years. They haven't won an opener since 1978, when they beat Toronto. But before that, the team had the worst record for openers this winter has seen in his 57 years of peering down from the press box.

AT THE FINISH Sparky Anderson, the white-haired manager, who still insists that the team can win 90 games this season, confessed that the showing so far has been puzzling.

"But that's baseball," he said when one of the fans offered him a bit of sympathy.

What the Tigers need at the moment is pitching. They are not getting it, as five men appeared on the mound in the opener and could engineer a victory that the large gathering had hoped for.

But Jimmy Campbell was optimistic to the last.

When he was reminded that Mark Fidrych had failed to go five innings for Evansville last Thursday night and that it may have been a sign that his career was nearing an end, Jimmy answered: "Oh, no. He'll be back. I am sure of that."

That's the kind of optimism that is prevalent among the Tiger officials.

Now, if the players only felt the same way.

Sommerville, Cavallaro club RU

Chief softballers secure opener

By SCOTT ADLER

Led by the hitting of Joni Sommerville and Vicky Cavallaro, the Plymouth Canton girls' softball team won its season opener, 9-7, against Redford

Union Friday in extra innings.

The Chiefs scored three times in the ninth inning to do away with the pesky Panthers, who scored three times, themselves, in the bottom of the seventh to send the game into extra innings at 6-6.

Vicki Skeen led off the top of the ninth for the Chiefs with a triple. Cavallaro then picked up her hit of the day, an RBI double to centerfield to score Skeen from third base. Sommerville followed with her fourth hit of the day, this time an RBI triple to score Cavallaro and then scored herself on an overthrow at the plate.

Redford Union scored once in its half of the ninth inning to finish off the scoring.

"I hoped we would hit the ball this good," said second-year Canton coach Max Sommerville, whose team collected 12 hits during the game. "We've done a lot of practice on the pitching machine inside during the preseason. I'm really pleased with our hitting today."

Marianne Pink picked up the win for the Chiefs in going the distance. She gave up five hits.

CANTON TOOK the lead in the first inning when Cavallaro singled and Sommerville followed with a fine bunt single. After a strike-out and a fly-out, Cavallaro scored on an error to put the Chiefs up 1-0.

Canton led 4-3 heading into the seventh inning and with two down, Cavallaro walked and Sommerville drove her home with a double. Pam Schipani knocked home Sommerville to put the Chiefs up 6-3 with a triple.

The Panthers countered with three runs in the bottom of the seventh to set up the Canton three-run ninth.

"I'm very happy with our play," said Sommerville. "We only practiced outside once on the field. We went on the black top once also, but we did real well for the first game."

Sommerville was also pleased with his team's heads up base running. The Chiefs stole three bases. The Canton coach was also pleased with the hitting of his daughter Joni (four hits) and the all-around play of shortstop Cavallaro (three hits).

"Cavallaro made some very nice plays at short," said Sommerville. "She did a real nice job."

Canton opens Western Six League play at 4 p.m. on Monday at Northville.

Hayes waits for Western 6 test

Plymouth Canton opened up its boys' tennis season Wednesday afternoon by defeating Ypsilanti in a non-league match, 5-2.

The Chiefs were strong in doubles, winning all three matches.

At No. 1 doubles, John Garrity and Curt Crocker beat Bob McClure and Amby Wilbanks, 6-1, 6-4. The Chiefs' Mark Roberts and Bob Adams downed John Gessert and Mike Lund of Ypsi at No. 2 doubles, 6-2, 6-4.

Grant Crago and Steve Jones of Canton edged Joe Madsen and John Minzey, 7-6, 6-4, at No. 3 doubles.

"It was a good performance," said Canton coach Jim Hayes. "Everybody did a nice job. Doubles was our strong point today."

The Chiefs won two of four singles matches.

Kreg Kinnel, who trailed early in the first set, came back to score an impressive 6-4, 6-1 victory over Ypsi's Dan Roberts.

"He never threw in the towel," said Hayes. "I was real please with Kreg's play."

At No. 4 singles Pete Lee took care of Ypsi's Snehal Desai, 6-7, 6-2, 6-2.

Junior Kevin Johnston of Canton was less fortunate in his three-set match. He lost at No. 3 singles to John Baxter, 6-0, 1-6, 6-0 against John Baxter.

In the feature match, Ypsi's Scott Butler rallied to defeat Bob Young, 1-6, 7-6, 6-3. Butler's steady play won over the hard-serving Chief senior.

"Bob lost because he made a tactical error," Hayes said. "He didn't make him (Butler) use the whole court."

CANTON-FRANKLIN

Plymouth Canton breezed past Livonia Franklin Friday afternoon in a non-league tennis match, 6-1.

The victory lifts Canton's overall mark to 2-0.

"The kids played well," said Canton coach Jim Hayes, "but Monday we'll find out just what kind of team we have."

Canton will meet defending Western

Six League champ Northville at 4 p.m. Monday at home.

The Mustangs return six netters, including state Class A No. 1 singles semifinalist Barry Ouelette.

Canton's No. 1 singles performer, Bob Young, was extended three sets before beating Franklin's Andy Thomas, 6-1, 4-6, 6-2.

Kreg Kinnel, Canton's No. 2 player, had little trouble taking Haider Makki, 6-2, 6-0. Junior Kevin Johnston posted his first win of the season, romping past Jim Martell of Franklin, 6-1, 6-3 at No. 3 singles. Bob Adams, moving into the No. 4 singles spot, made it a clean sweep by downing Jason Winters, 6-1, 6-3.

At No. 1 doubles, Canton suffered its only loss when Franklin's Terry Savis and Jeff Kramer bested Curt Crocker and Mark Roberts, 6-2, 6-2.

Grant Crago and Tom Pasley of Canton won easily at No. 2 doubles over Russ Semon and Chuck Collins, 6-4, 6-1.

Drew Hosey and Mark Sawyer took care of Franklin's John Frost and Dale Nordstrom, 4-6, 6-1, 6-0.

GC East rips Crestwood

Garden City East exploded for five runs during the first inning and went on to defeat Dearborn Heights Crestwood 16-2 last week in a non-league girls' softball game.

Sherry Kiselica and Barb Niemiec led the hitting attack. Kiselica knocked in four runs with three triples and Niemiec picked up two RBIs with a pair of triples.

Everyone played for East. The Panthers scored during every time at bat.

Niemiec was the winning pitcher as she gave up two hits, walked six and struck out eight.

Earlier, West dumped Dearborn Heights Robichaud 9-3. The Tigers broke the game open with five runs in the sixth inning.

Joann Anderson knocked in three runs during the game with a single and two sacrifice flies.

Kim Kanclerz, a sophomore catcher, threw out four runners attempting to steal.

Jo Ann Likovich was the winning pitcher. She worked all seven innings and didn't give up a hit. Likovich walked eight and struck out 12.

Robichaud scored two of its runs on passed balls and the other on a steal of home.

IN OTHER ACTION, Clarenceville bombed Dearborn Heights Robichaud 35-4.

The Trojans collected 16 hits during the game. Ann Waack paced the attack with four hits. Co-captain Cheryl Ranta, Liz Prisk and Lisa Rose all chipped in with three apiece.

Co-captain Kathy McCommon pitched a strong game to get the win.

"It was just crazy," said coach Karen Oliva. "It wasn't a good game. Kind of boring, really. But it's a nice way to start the season."

Robbie Benson plays a part-time cab driver chased by an assortment of oddball characters in "Die Laughing." Newcomer Linda Grovenor is his girlfriend and Monkey-Do, atop Benson's head, is the cause of the murder and mayhem.

Laughs missing in 'Die Laughing', comedy-thriller

"Die Laughing" (PG)? Hardly. A misnamed movie when you consider that it's hard to even find a chuckle lurking anywhere between the first and last reel.

This is a movie for a totally passive audience (trained on television) or those who harbor some special affection for the male lead, Robby Benson — his mother, maybe.

Robby was not bad in "One on One." But "not bad" is asking too much of "Die Laughing," where acting is only one among several meager talents which Benson lends to the film. He also surfaces as co-producer, co-writer and composer of the movie's three almost mediocre songs.

From the disjointed look of this feature, you wouldn't think that one person had so much overall responsibility. In fact, you might not only assume different persons with different production ideas, but you might suspect that the film editor and the director were working from different scripts.

SOMEONE SEEMS to think that by repeated cross-cutting between various ludicrous scenes, the result would be a snappy, suspenseful movie. It isn't. The result is a jumble which cannot be compensated by Benson's "cuteness."

The plot centers about a chase. Russian agents and the police are after Benson. He is the innocent bystander involved in foul play (like a male Goldie Hawn).

When a passenger is shot in his taxi, he panics and runs away. First, however, he picks up the murder weapon and makes a spectacle of himself as he stands over the victim and waves the gun around. This assures that the police will be hunting him.

But why the Russians, you ask? Simple. Because Benson took a box that the murdered man, a famous scientist, was carrying. The box contains a monkey programmed to punch out on a computer a formula for converting nuclear waste to weapons-grade ore. (Have the ecologists heard about this recycling program?)

To complicate matters further, and to try and hold the interest of a teenage audience, Benson is not just a cab driver but a singer and composer who heads up his own small group which is in the throes of a music contest.

THE SONGS he writes for the group are real zingers like "Mr. Weisman's Barber Shop." For some reason, this propels them into the finals of the contest. Imagine the scrambling as the hero tries to evade his pursuers and still show up for performances on time.

Oh, yes. Forgot to mention. The police and the Russians aren't the only ones chasing him. Benson and his monkey are also the object of a demented computer expert who wants the monkey so he can blackmail world powers.

Well, that's it in a banana peel. Less of Robby Benson and more of the monkey might have helped this movie, but I doubt it.

An aspiring rock musician is another side of Benson's. life in the Orion Pictures release.

Nash just fine minus C, S and Y

By ERIC MOBEY

The mood of Graham Nash's appearance Tuesday at the Royal Oak Music Theatre reminded me of the old Crosby, Stills, Nash and Young song "Deja Vu." The haunting lyric of "We Have All Been Here Before" stuck with me.

Outside the theater, activists were as busy as they were in the '60s and early '70s. Anti-nuclear power people were distributing literature, and members of the Citizens Party were collecting signatures to get the name of Barry Commoner on the Michigan Presidential Primary Ballot.

While many of the issues have changed, the spirit of the '60s and '70s Vietnam era seems to be rekindled.

Graham Nash has done much to contribute to the rebirth of activism. Nash and other entertainers such as Bonni Raitt, Jesse Colin Young, John Hall, James Taylor, Bruce Springsteen and Jackson Browne have formed an organization called MUSE: Musicians United for a Safe Energy.

COLLECTIVELY, MUSE has raised hundreds of thousands of dollars through concerts, T-shirt sales and royalties from the MUSE album. Most of this money has been put back into the anti-nuclear movement.

Nash, who was probably the most unassuming member of Crosby, Stills, Nash and Young, now seems to enjoy review

his solo status. He was the only British member of CSNY, but his writing appears to be the most militant, yet optimistic, of his American counterparts.

Songs like "Military Madness," "Chicago," "Teach Your Children," "Our House" and "Immigration Man" became a musical backdrop of the counter-culture era.

After a creditable opening set by Leah Kunkel, Nash presented a concert that continued the feeling of deja vu. He opened with "Military Madness," substituting the word nuclear for military on one or two of the verses. The crowd seemed knowledgeable of Nash's lyrics and applauded the substitution.

Onstage, Nash was amiable and talkative between songs. He explained the story behind each song which added an interest to the performance. He even dedicated one of his new songs to Enrico Fermi, adding a stinging, "May he rot in hell."

NASH'S SONGWRITING ability seemed overshadowed by Crosby, Stills and Young when he was with the group. His "Teach Your Children" and "Our House" appeared to be community property of the group.

Solo, these classics take on a new dimension. Gone are the classic harmonies and guitar leads, but the songs hold up very well.

Nash stopped in the middle of both songs and let the crowd sing entire verses. Backed by acoustic guitarist Joel Bernstein and keyboardist David Kessler, Nash lacks some of the intensity of his former backing, but the set did not suffer from it. Nash's singing is as good as ever and an occasional riff on the harmonica filled in well.

Conversely, he did achieve great depth with "Wind on the Water" and "Cathedral." Onstage, Nash played guitar and piano, accompanying himself on several songs while Bernstein and Kessler took a break.

The standing-room-only crowd supported Nash through the entire performance. It was a model audience that brought out the best in Nash, who seemed to be enjoying the whole thing immensely.

THE SELECTION of songs was excellent, right on down to the two encores. On his first encore, he was joined by Leah Kunkel for a rousing version of "Power" from the MUSE album.

While many artists have abandoned politics, Nash continues to merge politics with music. The results continue to be entertaining and thought-provoking.

Moriarty plays B'ham in B'way hit

Michael Moriarty will open a tour of the award-winning hit play "Whose Life Is It Anyway?" May 20 to June 15 at the Birmingham Theatre.

Detroit-born Moriarty has received two Emmy Awards, one for his explosive portrayal of SS officer Dorf in the highly acclaimed "Holocaust" and the other for his role as the gentleman caller in "The Glass Menagerie."

He also holds a Tony Award for his performance in "Find Your Way Home."

Authored by Brian Clark, "Whose Life" was proclaimed Best Play of 1978 in London and, subsequently, nominated for five Tony Awards. Clark recently re-wrote his script for a female lead, Mary Tyler Moore.

"WHOSE LIFE" is currently enjoying its second successful Broadway run.

Previews of "Whose Life" will begin May 15 and conclude May 18. Evening performances will begin at 8 p.m. There also is a matinee performance at 2 p.m. May 18.

The play will open its scheduled run May 20 and close June 15.

Senior citizen discount tickets are available for matinee performances only. For additional ticket information contact the Birmingham Theatre box office at 644-3533.

Yiddish tales WSU theater fare

"The World of Sholom Aleichem" by Arnold Perl opens at 8:30 p.m. April 23 at Detroit's Wayne State University Studio Theatre (downstairs at the Hilberry). Additional performances are at 8:30 p.m. April 24-26 and April 30-May 4, with a matinee at 4:30 p.m. May 4.

"The World of Sholom Aleichem," comprised of three Yiddish folk stories, involves the world of three Eastern European writers who established Yiddish literature in the public's eye.

Two of the stories, by Sholom Aleichem, recreate the world of the Jewish shtetl, the dilapidated townlet of Eastern European Jewish life. The third is Isaac Loeb Peretz's famous story of "Bontche Schwieg."

Mendele Moykher-Sforim, or Mendele the Book-Peddler, one of the early Yiddish writers and Sholom Aleichem's mentor, is seen in the play as the narrator.

SHOLOM ALEICHEM has often been compared to Mark Twain as a folk hero because his anthologies of humor and anecdotes are rooted in the cultural history of his people. Sholom Aleichem described himself as "the watchman of Jewish provincial life."

His powers of observation and genius for the comic are perhaps best loved through his Tevye stories, known to American audiences in their musical adaptation form, "Fiddler on the Roof."

Leo Mogill will portray Mendele, the Book Peddler. Area residents in the cast include Shirley Benyas (West Bloomfield), Emily Schreiber (West Bloomfield), Joel Last (Southfield) and Maryann Ferenc (Troy.)

The production is directed by Yolanda Fleischer, with sets and lights designed by Vikte Jankus and costumes designed by David C. Paulin.

GO EASY, BREEZY FOR SPRING

Salute the spring with menus light and easy as the season. Chicken is a year-round favorite, but it's so adaptable that new and sprightly flavors make it brighten spring menus. Always compatible and available, canned cling peaches add special color and texture to Ginger Walnut Chicken and Rich and Spicy Chicken and Peaches. Fruit cocktail is a surprise ingredient in the individual Fruit-Jeweled Aspic Salads. For dessert, try a flavorful Peach Souffle. And what better way to complement a meal than with iced tea?

GINGER WALNUT CHICKEN

- | | |
|-------------------------------------|------------------------------------|
| 1 whole broiler-fryer chicken | 1 teaspoon salt |
| 1 can (16 ounce) cling peach halves | 2 teaspoons ground ginger, divided |
| 1/2 teaspoon soy sauce | 1 teaspoon paprika |
| 3 tablespoons lemon juice, divided | 1 tablespoon cornstarch |
| 1 tablespoon grated onion | 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind |
| | 1/3 cup walnut halves |

In shallow baking dish, place chicken breast side up. Drain peaches, saving syrup. Set peaches aside. In small bowl, mix together 3 tablespoons peach syrup, soy sauce, 1 tablespoon lemon juice and grated onion. Pour over chicken. Mix together salt, 1 teaspoon ginger and paprika. Sprinkle over chicken. Cover with foil and bake in 400 degree F. oven 40 minutes. Remove from oven. Combine remaining peach syrup with 2 tablespoons lemon juice, remaining ground ginger, cornstarch and grated lemon rind. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until thick and clear. Arrange peaches around chicken in baking pan. Place walnut halves in center of each peach. Pour thickened glaze over chicken and peaches. Sprinkle with remaining walnuts. Return to oven uncovered, baking 20 minutes or until leg moves freely when lifted or twisted. Makes 4 generous servings.

RICH AND SPICY CHICKEN AND PEACHES

(NOT ILLUSTRATED)

- | | |
|---------------------------------------|---|
| 1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut in parts | 1 can (16 ounce) tomatoes, including liquid |
| 2 tablespoons margarine | 1/4 cup vinegar |
| 1 cup chopped onion | 2 tablespoons prepared mustard |
| 2/3 cup chopped green pepper | 2 tablespoons steak sauce |
| 1 clove garlic, minced | 2 teaspoons salt, divided |
| 1 can (29 ounce) sliced cling peaches | 1/4 teaspoon pepper |

In shallow baking dish, place chicken parts. Broil, uncovered, 4-6 inches from heat, for about 20 minutes or until light brown. While chicken is browning, melt margarine in large fry pan over medium heat. Add onion, green pepper and garlic and saute about 5 minutes or until onion is clear. Remove 10 slices of peaches and reserve until later. Measure remaining peach slices and add syrup to make 2 cups. Pour peaches, syrup and tomatoes into blender and blend for 30 seconds. Stir into vegetables in fry pan; add vinegar, mustard, steak sauce and 1 teaspoon salt. Simmer, uncovered, for 20-30 minutes, reducing sauce to half the original amount (it will be very thick). Remove chicken from oven; sprinkle with remaining salt and pepper and cover with sauce. Bake in 325°F. oven for 20 minutes or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease. Remove from oven and arrange slices of peaches around chicken. Broil 5 minutes, watching carefully to prevent over-browning. Makes 4 generous servings.

FRUIT-JEWELLED ASPIC SALADS

- | | |
|---|------------------------------------|
| 1 can (17 ounce) fruit cocktail | 1/2 cup chopped celery |
| 1 envelope unflavored gelatin | 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper |
| 1 package (3 ounce) strawberry flavored gelatin | 3 drops Tabasco sauce |
| 1 can (16 ounce) stewed tomatoes | |

Dressing:

- | | |
|--------------------|-------------------------------|
| 1 cup sour cream | 1 tablespoon lemon juice |
| 1 tablespoon honey | 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind |

Drain fruit cocktail, saving syrup. Soften unflavored gelatin in 1/4 cup saved syrup. Heat remaining syrup to boiling, combine with strawberry gelatin in large bowl. Add softened unflavored gelatin stirring until all gelatin is completely dissolved. Add tomatoes and juice, celery, green pepper and Tabasco sauce. Fold all but 1/2 cup fruit cocktail into gelatin mixture. Pour into individual 1 cup molds or into 5-cup mold. Refrigerate until firm (at least 2 hours). Combine ingredients for dressing. Unmold salad onto bed of lettuce. Garnish molds with remaining fruit cocktail. Pass honey-sour cream dressing. Makes 4-6 servings.

PEACH SOUFFLE

(NOT ILLUSTRATED)

- | | |
|-------------------------------------|-----------------------|
| 1 can (16 ounce) cling peach slices | 3 tablespoons sugar |
| 2 tablespoons kirsch | 3 egg yolks |
| 2 tablespoons cointreau | 4 egg whites |
| 1/8 teaspoon salt | 1/8 teaspoon cinnamon |

Drain peaches. Puree peaches in blender or force through sieve. Sprinkle pureed peaches with kirsch, cointreau, salt and sugar. Place in saucepan and heat to scalding. Remove from heat and cool to lukewarm. Beat in egg yolks. Beat egg whites with cinnamon until stiff. Fold peach-egg mixture into egg white. Turn batter into buttered 1-1/2 quart souffle dish. Bake in 425-degrees F. (hot) oven for 20 minutes. Serve immediately. Makes 6 servings.

Iced Tea ... Three Ways to Make It Great

With cold water and tea bags: Fill a quart jar or pitcher with cold water. Add 8 to 10 teabags (remove tags). Cover and let stand at room temperature or in refrigerator at least 6 hours or overnight. Remove bags, squeezing against side of container. Makes 1 quart. Recipe may be doubled.

With cold water and instant powder for mix: Allow 2 rounded tablespoons of instant tea powder for each quart of cold water. Stir to dissolve. If using lemon-flavored iced tea mix, use 1/2 cup (or 2 envelopes) to a quart of cold water.

With boiling water and teabags or leaves: Bring 1 quart of cold water to a boil in a saucepan. Remove from heat and immediately add 15 teabags or 1/3 cup loose tea leaves. Stir, cover and let stand 5 minutes. Stir again and strain into a pitcher holding another quart of cold water. Makes 2 quarts.

A Question of Taste

By Hilary Keating Callaghan

Don't let prickles deter you

Most people hesitate to serve artichokes for the same reason they would hesitate to pick up a porcupine — an uncertainty about how to handle either object.

This similarity extends even to the sharp spines which tip the artichoke leaves. Eliminating these spines makes handling the artichoke much less painful and should, thus, be your first step in preparing the vegetable. This step is probably most easily accomplished with a pair of scissors. Simply snip off the end of each leaf, leaving the edible, whitish bottom attached.

Keep snipping the tips off until a central core of leaves, which are green only at the tips is exposed. The pale base of these leaves is at least 1 1/2 inches high. Using a sharp knife, cut off the top part of this core, removing all of the green portion. Be sure the knife used is stainless steel as any contact with carbon knives or with iron, steel or aluminum cooking vessels will blacken the artichoke and impart a harsh and disagreeable taste.

WITHIN THE central core are tiny, pale leaves with purple prickly tips curving inward. Use a knife with a rounded end or a spoon to remove these leaves as well as the fuzzy choco "choke" beneath them.

Pare away the green, outer portion of the stem, leaving only the edible, white core of the stem. Rub all cut surfaces immediately with lemon juice or coat with olive oil since contact with the air will discolor these surfaces.

Place the trimmed artichoke, stem upward, in a large, heavy stainless steel or enameled ironware pot with about 1 inch of water in the bottom. Bring the water to a boil, lower the heat to medium and cook about 35 to 40 minutes.

The artichoke is now ready to serve. The hollowed-out interior may be filled with any hot filling. Creamed seafood or vegetables would be good choices.

I have included a recipe for a creamed spinach filling which combines with the artichoke to make a tasty first course or side dish.

THE ARTICHOKE stem should be trimmed off before serving, leaving a flat base so that the artichoke will stand upright. The stem is edible, however, so either save it for a salad or simply eat it along with the rest of this dish. The tender underside of the artichoke leaf is also edible. Just pull the leaf between your teeth to scrape this off. The bottom of the artichoke (what is left after all the leaves are pulled off) is not only edible, but is the most succulent part of this vegetable, worth all the trimming to get there.

If you wish, the cooked artichoke may be chilled and used as a cheese for a cold salad, such as the chese-egg salad combination described below. Combined with hot corn bread, this makes an unusual luncheon or dinner entree.

The Ranch-style Dip can be used for the leaves from either of these dishes. A platter of raw vegetables could accompany either dish and share the dip. Hollandaise sauce, a good quality mayonnaise or a vinaigrette dressing could also be used for this purpose.

A final word about accompaniments to artichokes is in order. A chemical property in artichokes causes any food or beverages eaten with them to taste sweeter than they otherwise would.

Consequently, you might not want to serve a delicate, dry wine with them. If you are serving a good wine with your dinner, you might wish to serve the artichoke as a first course and not pour the wine until the second course.

ARTICHOKES FILLED WITH SPINACH

- 6 cooked artichokes
- 1 lb. fresh spinach, washed and trimmed,
- or 1 package (10 oz.) frozen spinach
- 2 tbsp. butter, divided
- 1 tbsp. flour
- 1/2 cup scalded milk
- Salt
- 1/2 tsp. nutmeg
- 1 egg yolk
- 1 tbsp. cream
- 6 tsp. freshly grated Parmesan cheese

Cook fresh spinach in 2 cups boiling salted water about 1 minute, or package frozen spinach according to package directions. Drain well, pressing to remove all moisture. Chop finely.

Melt 1 tbsp. of the butter in a small skillet. Add the spinach, nutmeg and salt and pepper to taste and cook over medium-low heat until thoroughly heated.

Melt remaining 1 tbsp. butter in a small saucepan. Add the flour and cream, stirring, over low heat for 3 to 5 minutes. Gradually stir in the scalded milk and continue to cook until thickened and smooth. Remove pan from the heat and whisk in the egg yolk and cream. Stir into the spinach mixture. Continue cooking until just simmering, stirring constantly. Do not boil.

Arrange the artichokes in a baking dish and fill the centers with the creamed spinach. Sprinkle each with 1 tsp. of the cheese. Bake for 10 minutes in a preheated 400 degree oven.

SALAD-STUFFED ARTICHOKE

- 4 small artichokes, cooked and cooled
- 4 hard-boiled eggs, diced
- 1 cup (4 oz.) shredded Cheddar cheese
- 1 medium stalk celery, chopped
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. paprika
- 1/2 cup slivered almonds
- 1/2 cup mayonnaise
- 1/4 cup chopped pimiento
- 1 tsp. lemon juice

In a medium bowl, combine all ingredients except the artichokes. Spoon this mixture into the hollowed artichokes. Cover and chill thoroughly, at least 1 hour. Garnish with additional pimiento. 4 servings.

RANCH-STYLE DIP

- 1/2 cup mayonnaise
- 1/2 cup unflavored yogurt
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. onion salt
- 1/4 tsp. garlic powder
- 1/2 tsp. parsley flakes

Stir all ingredients together in a small bowl. Chill at least 30 minutes before serving.

Ben Pearlman

Freeze Sunday—eat better Monday

The Observer & Eccentric is presenting Chef Ben Pearlman as a weekly columnist starting with this edition.

His column, titled "Ask the Chef," will appear every Monday, and is designed to answer those questions you've always had about recipes, meats, poultry, seafood, vegetables, baking, hors d'oeuvre, canapes, relishes, sauces, cooking techniques, tools, equipment and related items.

Pearlman, who studied at the Culinary Institute of America in Connecticut, has been in the food business more than 20 years. He presently teaches commercial food at the Southeast Oakland Vocational Education Center in Royal Oak. He is a member of the Michigan Restaurant Association and founder of the Food Services Teacher Group.

Chef Pearlman is a practicing consultant and a member of the Food Service Executive Association, a national professional organization.

Dear Chef:

What is the difference between a colander and a strainer?

Strainers are made out of fine wire mesh with a handle and a metal frame. The colander is solid with larger holes and is able to stand independently for foods to drain. The strainer is used for straining.

Dear Chef:

We are a working couple and find it difficult to serve a variety of good tasting dinners during week nights. What can I do? I am a good cook.

Well, here's a suggestion. On Sunday when cooking that great lasagna recipe, prepare 10 to 12 portions and freeze the balance, portioned individually. Do this with roasts, casseroles, anything that freezes well. Defrost the portions in the refrigerator a day or two before they are to be used.

Dear Chef:

What is a chowder?

It is a thick fish, meat, or vegetable soup. The old French word for cauldron (pot) was chaudiere. Food stewed in the cauldron became known as a chowder.

Dear Chef:

How do you clarify butter?

Over low heat to clear. Melt butter too low heat. Skim the foam and pour butter into a container, leaving milky residue in the bottom of the pan. This residue may be used in creamed soups or sauces.

Dear Chef:

My family loves the variety of cakes I've baked. Because of five kids, I usually use a 9x3x2-inch sheet pan. My only problem is that occasionally the frosting tears as I cut the cake. What should I do?

Try cutting the cake first and then frost.

Dear Chef:

What causes a cake to shrink and crack?

The shrinking or cracking of a cake is usually caused by a number of different problems. Let's first talk about the Test your skin type with a paper bag

What is your skin type? Dry, normal, oily or combination? Even if you think you know, it's a good idea to check periodically. Here's a simple test:

Before washing your face in the morning, tear a brown paper bag into small pieces. Rub cheeks, nose, chin and forehead with a separate piece for each area.

If skin is normal, there will be a slight oily residue on the paper. If the paper becomes almost translucent, that area is too oily. If there is nothing at all on the paper, that area is too dry.

cake shrinking. The following conditions will cause your cake to shrink: too much liquid, too much shortening, too much batter in the pan, pan greased too heavily, or the oven temperature too hot or too cool.

Cracking usually results from baking the cake in too hot an oven. Also uneven heat will cause cakes to be low in volume, crusts to be dark and thick, and the cake to have tunnels and peaks.

Do you a question for Chef Ben? If so, send it to him, c/o Birmingham/Bloomfield Eccentric, 1225 Bowers, Birmingham 48012.

Plymouth couple take caravan into past

By BETTY MASSON

Getting to Panama and back was the highlight of a trip undertaken this year by Martin and Alta Jones of Plymouth.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones made their trip the hard way — by land. Starting from McAllen, Tex., in their 20-foot Coachman camper, they traveled with 20 other recreational vehicles in a Point South Caravan Tour through Mexico and along the Pan American Highway. This is the fourth year, the company has operated this sort of tour.

Getting to Panama wasn't as easy, nor as fast, as it would have been in a jet — but it was a lot more fun, especially for those with a bit of pioneer blood. Best of all, Mr. and Mrs. Jones saw a lot more than do most travelers to that part of the world.

Though the highway was bumpy and had a lot of potholes in some areas, the roughness was eased by the presence of a wagon master, an assistant wagon master, an interpreter and an auto mechanic in the caravan.

One of the purposes of the 74-day tour was to study the ancient Indian civilizations which all but disappeared with the arrival of the Spanish Conquistadors.

In Mexico City, Mr. and Mrs. Jones were thrilled with a performance by the Ballet Folklorico, and visited the nearby Pyramids of the Sun and the Moon.

In Guatemala, the retired Plymouth Post Office employee and his wife flew to Tikal in the heart of the jungle. Tikal is the largest Mayan city ever discovered, and has ruins of buildings believed to extend over 25 square miles. Some have been there since 3,000 years before the coming of Christ.

Some of the buildings are 168 feet high, said Jones, and it took the Mayans about 50 years to build one level.

The tourists lunched at a restaurant near Lake Atitlan, a mile-high beauty of a lake surrounded by 12 Mayan villages where today, seven different dialects are spoken.

In Honduras, they visited Copan, believed to be the second largest city of the ancient Mayan Empire.

When they reached Panama, they were flown over to the San Blas Islands to visit the colorful and ancient Cuna Indians, and they visited the ruins of Old Panama, which was looted and destroyed by the pirate Henry Morgan in 1671.

BUT THEIR trip wasn't confined to the past. They had a good look at the present as well. Most Mexicans and Central Americans were friendly to the caravan members.

"They'd wave at us, and I'd almost feel like Mrs. America," said Mrs. Jones.

But the reception was not so friendly in Nicaragua, said Jones. "The kids by the side of the road would shake their fists at us, or pretend they were shooting at us with machine guns."

They were in El Salvador at the time the Swedish Embassy was blown up early in February. A tour of churches and public buildings had to be abridged to just a drive-by. "The bus driver said they (revolutionaries) might blow up our bus if we left it," said Jones.

Their friendliest reception was in Costa Rica, one of the most prosperous of the Central American countries. They also got a good reception in Panama, which has an active department of tourism. Here, they watched ships traveling through the Miraflores Locks.

In Costa Rica, the travelers visited a coffee factory, as well as a sugar cane plantation and a sugar mill. Most of their sightseeing was done in buses chartered for the trips, but it was also in Costa Rica that they made an unforgettable eight-hour, 100-mile train trip to Puerto Limon, through mountains, jungles and coffee plantations. The return trip to San Jose was made by air.

In Mexico, they watched workmen make rope and twine from the henequen cactus, and artisans making wall plaques, chess sets and decorative items from malachite.

They also visited a banana plantation, and a tile factory where tiles are made from cement by hand.

Although the travelers visited many colorful native markets, Mrs. Jones succumbed only to the "molas," reversed applique panels of cloth used to decorated clothing and made by the San Blas Cunas. She is planning to frame hers and hang them on the wall.

MR. AND MRS. Jones particularly liked the caravan style of travel because all the work and planning was done for them, yet they were not required to travel in a convoy.

They were given trip logs with detailed instructions for each day's route, with landmarks along the way ("They don't have highway signs as we know them") and each camper was free to travel at his own speed, stopping to take pictures and admire whatever views caught his fancy.

There was once exception to this. In El Salvador, they were asked to travel in groups of three for their own safety.

It was comforting to know that the mechanic traveled at the end of the caravan, ready to help any traveler who had mechanical trouble. Although gasoline was generally plentiful, at prices ranging from 45 cents in Mexico to $3 in Costa Rica, spare parts were not.

Along with extra spark plugs, sewer and water hoses, gas filters and the like, the Joneses were advised to take along an extra water pump. They may have felt this was an expensive precaution, particularly when the dealer said he wouldn't take it back if they didn't use it, but they were thankful for it when their pump did break.

In two days of briefing at McAllen, they were advised to decontaminate all water, even that used for brushing teeth and for ice cubes, by adding a little chlorine bleach to their water tanks. All fruits and vegetables had to be washed thoroughly.

The Joneses took a further precaution with water — they boiled it as well. It helped take away the chlorine taste, although it still came through in coffee.

They had no problems with "Montezuma's Revenge," which frequently attacks travelers to Mexico, but some of their friends who ate in restaurants not on the four schedule did.

MOST LARGE cities had supermarkets, and they were told that it was safe to buy foods such as fruits, vegetables and meats from these, but to stay away from the small stores. The Joneses found the meat, especially the beef, on the tough side, but the fish was good and plentiful.

Although Mr. and Mrs. Jones have done a lot of traveling in their camper since they bought it three years ago, Mrs. Jones learned a new trick. The guidebook told them that "Central America is semi-primitive in recreational vehicle facilities. You must be prepared at all times to camp fully self-contained."

This meant a long time between laundromats. But the way to do the washing under these conditions is to put the dirty clothes in a plastic bag along with water and detergent. Tie the top and set the bag in a bucket or bathtub and let the potholes in the roads

Advice to travelers

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Jones of Plymouth received these Traveler's Ten Commandments as they set out to visit Mexico and six Central American Countries.

1. Thou shalt not expect to find things as thou hast them at home, for thou hast left thy home to find things different.
2. Thou shalt not take anything too seriously, for a carefree mind is the beginning of a vacation.
3. Thou shalt not let the other tourist get on thy nerves, for thou art paying out good money to have a good time.
4. Remember thy tourist card or passport so that thou knowest where it is at all times, for a man without a tourist card or passport is a man without a country.
5. Blessed is the person who can make change in any language, for lo, he shall not be cheated.
6. Blessed is the person who can say "thank you" in any language — and it shall be worth more to him than tips.
7. Thou shalt not worry. He that worrieth hath no pleasure — and few things are ever fatal.
8. Thou shalt not judge the people of a country by one person with whom thou hast had trouble.
9. Thou shalt when in Rome do somewhat as the Romans do; if in difficulty, thou shalt use thy North American common sense and friendliness.
10. Remember thou art a guest in every land — and he that treateth his host with respect shall be treated as an honored guest.

These commandments come from Point South Caravan Tours, Tarzana, Calif.

Historical group to gather

Forebears came from Germany by way of Russia

By SHERRY KAHAN

When Albert Muth opens his grandfather's gold watch, he can see tiny lock-sized pictures of his grandfather and grandmother, Michael and Julianna Muth.

If the imagination of this Livonian is working that day, he can turn it back to 1886 and create a picture of these German ancestors during a dangerous time in their lives. They hid in a hay wagon with their two children during a successful escape from Russia.

Stories of experiences like these will have their day when the American Historical Society of Germans from Russia meets May 15 to continue plans for a national convention of the group July 6-13 at the Hyatt Regency in Dearborn.

The group was organized in Nebraska, where a lot of refugees like Michael Muth took their families to establish farms. Now it includes 4,000 descendants of 18th century Germans who went east and then west to seek new lives.

THE STORY of Michael Muth, a Baptist of German descent who fled Russia to avoid being drafted into its army, actually goes back to 1763.

That was when Germans were invited to settle in Russia to introduce efficient farming methods. Three waves of Germans migrated to Russia.

Later, toward the end of the 1800s, many of these Germans found their way to the United States and settled in the Middle West.

The metropolitan Detroit chapter of the American Historical Society of Germans from Russia meets every other month in the administration building of Lawrence Institute of Technology in Southfield, where the 8 p.m. May 15 session will be held.

The local group counts among its members Albert Muth and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Muth. Its president is Henry Felker of Plymouth. In his home, Felker has history books, magazines and pamphlets that tell the story of the German experience in Russia, and of the subsequent move of many of these Germansto America.

"MORE THAN 200 years ago, the Felkers were part of that group of Germans who in 1763 went from Germany to the Volga River basin in Russia under a program set up by Catherine the Great," said Felker.

"She invited Germans to settle in a large area that was totally unoccupied around the city of Saratov. About 12,000 people were involved.

When the empress died, the new czar usurped some of the land from the German settlers. The technically oriented Germans were "conscripted into industrial areas elsewhere in Russia."

"It changed the whole nature of the colonies, forced families to separate. A lot of them migrated to the U.S. and settled in eastern Colorado, Nebraska, Kansas, and North and South Dakota."

"Their new location reminded them of the flat terrain of the Ukraine which they had left."

The Felkers came to the United States in 1907, settling first in Idaho, then in Oshkosh, Wis., and later in southern New York.

"My grandfather, John Peter Felker, was an officer in the Russian calvary in 1898-9," said Felker. "Germans were conscripted because of their ability or special training. They were forced to serve."

At one point, the calvaryman feared he might be transferred to the steppes in Siberian Mongolia. With his wife and a group of 58 other Germans, he left the country and went to Hamburg, Germany. There they boarded a boat to this country.

His grandfather lived until 1935, his grandmother until 1953. Until 1933, she was still able to write to her mother inside Russia. But at that time the Stalin government forbid further contact.

THE MUTHS packed up and left Germany for Russia in the 1870s, accompanied by a number of other adventurous German settlers. They set up their homes near the city of Volhynia in the Ukraine. Still other Germans chose to live in a section near Odessa on the Black Sea.

But in 1886, the colonizing project did not look so rosey to Michael Muth, son of one of the original German migrants. When news came to him that he was to be drafted into the Russian army, he decided to leave.

This was not easy, because he wanted to take his wife and two children with him.

The Muths still have the passport he carried. It permitted him to travel as far as Warsaw, then as now in Russian-occupied Poland. But he wanted to go further, to the United States, in fact.

"They made their way across Poland concealed in a hay wagon," said Albert Muth, who will graduate from Alma College this spring. "They reached Hamburg safely and took a ship to New York City."

From New York, the Muths made their way to Tawas City, Mich., "possibly to see someone they knew there or a sponsor," said Muth.

"But the travelers had still not settled down. While in Tawas City, Michael Muth worked in a sawmill. But a year later when he made the move to Detroit, he was employed as a carpenter. They had four more children."

His wife Julianna died, and Muth remarried and had four more children. One of them is Albert's father Maxwell, who is a bricklayer. When Maxwell Muth was asked if he was glad his family left the old world, he answered quickly.

"You bet," he said. He knows that the area in the Ukraine in which his father grew up experienced terrible events later on. World War I, the Russian Revolution, World War II and a repressive Soviet government were just a few of the happenings that escaping families like the Muths missed.

"I'm glad we're out of there," he said, adding that his father would not have met his mother had Michael Muth not emigrated.

THE ELDER MUTH often wonders if there are any relatives involved in these moves whose descendants are living in this country. He will be searching for information about possible relatives during the July convention.

"Some of the members claim that at times like conventions, you find relatives you don't know about," said Muth.

"We hope that will happen to us."

As a member of the Alma choir, Albert Muth visited the Soviet Union in 1978. But he was unable to stray off the appointed tour to see the area where his ancestors lived, or to see if any relatives remained alive.

During World War II, some of the Germans in the Ukraine were brought back to the Reich by Hitler. Others were transported by the Russians to the part of Russia that is in central Asia, where they continue to live.

That's a treasured picture of Michael and Julianna Muth, Germans who once lived in Russia, that

Put TV to work, say panelists

By BETTY MASSON

Television, if you can't lick it, you might as well join it.

That was the opinion of three panelists discussing "Books and TV: Partners for the Family" at a meeting in the Plymouth High School Little Theater.

The meeting also featured the world premiere of a slide-tape show, produced by Charlie Jones, media specialist at Hulsing School, with the help of his students and parent James Roney.

The show, three years in the making, featured the Plymouth-Canton community. Devised to teach elementary school children about their community, it's an interesting overview of the relationship between schools, shops, industry, farming and housing.

The show is available for use anywhere in the district or the community.

ALTHOUGH IT is not on television, it did serve as an example of the way audio-visual presentations can be put to good use.

The title of the panel discussion is also the title of a new project launched by the Parent-Teacher Organization Council and the school. Under the direction of the head librarian Bee Green, it is an effort to work with television to encourage children to read.

Through the program, Mrs. Green explained, she receives advance notice of what shows will be on the networks and is able to select and inform teachers about those which will be useful and informative.

Still other ways of using television were explained by Dianne Desch of Channel 50 and Penny Glazner of the Detroit Free Press. The third panelist was Hazel Gibson from Plymouth Book World. Michael Holmes was the moderator.

"WE MIGHT as well work with TV since the kids are going to watch it anyway," said Mrs. Glazner, in discussing the CBS Reading Program.

Through the programs, special shows such as "The Ron LeFlore Story" are set up for study. At least a week before the show appears on television, teachers receive scripts and a manual suggesting areas for study, such as dramatization, characterization, and vocabulary.

Mrs. Desch showed a series of spot announcements featured by Field Communications. Called "Hooray for Reading," these feature the cliff-hanger technique of the old Saturday movie serials, in which a critical moment from a book is dramatized, and then the viewer is advised to visit his local library and find out what happens next by reading the book.

"It's in your local library with a lot of other good books," children are told.

Mrs. Gibson said that she recently heard of a novel arrangement for working with TV. A California doctor has said his children may watch TV so long as they pedal (and operate a generator) while doing so.

All three panelists advised watching what your children are watching. In discussions afterwards, find out how they react to what they have seen, they said.

IF YOU DON'T like what is on television, telephone the station, or better still, write to the network and/or the advertisers. If there are enough letters, they do get results, said Mrs. Desch and Mrs. Glazner.

Mrs. Gibson advised turning off the TV if you don't like what you see.

"I think people are becoming more selective," she said. "But it takes time. You are not automatically a connoisseur of wine, food, et cetera."

Teach your children to be critical, advised Mrs. Glazner. "I realized that we can't protect our children from these outside influences, but you can teach them to be critical about television, about newspapers, about advertising."

Discuss the media with them, she said.

Mrs. Desch also advised discussion in encouraging children to read. She shares with her child her feelings and opinions about the books she reads.

Mrs. Gibson said that parents sometimes make the mistake of picking books that are too difficult for their children.

"I wouldn't want to read Shakespeare every day. If I did, maybe I wouldn't read so much."

The panelists agreed that perhaps children would read more if more fathers took over the task of reading to them when they were little.

"Dylan Thomas's father read Shakespeare to him when he was in the cradle," observed Mrs. Gibson.

Mrs. Glazner said that in countries where most of the teachers are men, the boys are better readers. In this country, girls read more.

After Central America, Switzerland next?

agitate the clothes. At the end of a day's drive, they're clean and ready to be hung out on the line.

The weather was perfect throughout the trip. They had 64 days without any rain. Of course, they made the trip in the dry season. The rainy season is from April through Christmas.

The caravan never went more than 200 miles in one day. "But don't let that fool you," said Jones. "One day it took us seven hours to go 89 miles."

He added, "It seemed that every country didn't want you to leave it. The roads always would get worse when you were about 20 miles from a border."

BACK IN their Plymouth home, Mr. and Mrs. Jones immediately started making plans for other trips. They have a globe of the world with drawing pins inserted in all the places they've been, with a different color for each trip. The globe is well-marked and colorful.

The couple have been traveling since 1960, 10 years before his retirement. Their adventures include a trip by air to the South Sea Islands (Tahiti, Bora Bora, etc.), New Zealand and Australia; an automobile tour of Europe; a visit to Norway and Sweden; Mediterranean, Caribbean and Alaskan cruises; and a 25th anniversary trip to Hawaii.

Still unmarked on the globe are South America and Africa, but first they want to revisit Germany and Switzerland, and it's just possible they might decide to drive up the AICan Highway, since their camper performed so well at the other end of the highway.

One thing they are not planning to do is stay home, eyes glued to the television set. "We'll keep on traveling as long as our health and money let us," said Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones have one son, William, who lives in Mundelein, Ill., and a daughter, Madeleine Snyder, of Plymouth. They have four grandchildren.

One of their disappointments about their most recent trip was that there weren't more young people along. Most of the travelers were retirees, although there was one couple with two preschool children.

"But I wish more teenagers, especially those between the ages of 12 and 18, could make the trip," said Jones. "They would learn so much about poverty, about history, and about how other people live."

Elks scholarships

Riegle to address SC commencement

Degrees and certificates earned by 709 Schoolcraft College students will be recognized in annual commencement ceremonies at 2 p.m. Sunday, April 27 in the main gymnasium.

U.S. Sen. Donald W. Riegel Jr., D-Mich., will deliver the keynote address for the college's 15th commencement.

Approximately 200 students who completed courses of study since last year's ceremony are expected to participate. They include graduates from last spring and summer sessions and the fall semester, and winter semester candidates.

Dr. C. Nelson Grote will preside at the event, which usually draws a capacity crowd. Board Chairperson Harry G. Greenleaf will introduce the speaker and confer honorary degrees upon four persons whose names will not be announced before that afternoon.

Other platform participants will include Rev. Lloyd G. Brasure, pastor of Northville's First Presbyterian Church; Dr. Julie Stindt, provost and vice president for instructional affairs; and Edward V. McNally, vice president for student affairs.

Jean Christensen, president of the Schoolcraft College Association of Administrative and Professional Personnel, and Del Sipes, president of the Faculty Forum, will serve as academic marshals for the ceremony.

The 40-piece Schoolcraft Community Wind Ensemble, directed by Dr. Richard Saunders, will present a short concert prior to commencement and will perform during the ceremony.

A reception for all who attend commencement will follow in the Waterman Campus Center. Tickets are not required for either event, but persons attending should plan to arrive early for good seating.

Geake says housing a major problem for aged

Other than the ravages of inflation, housing is the most serious problem facing senior citizens in Michigan.

That was the message delivered by state Sen. Robert Geake (R-Northville) to members of the Plymouth Community Council on Aging recently in a speech at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

"The increasing number of apartment house conversions to condominiums is creating a serious hardship on senior citizens," said Geake, whose district includes the city of Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

"An impossible financial situation arises because many elderly persons living on fixed incomes are unable to afford the sizeable downpayment and considerably higher monthly condominium payments.

"Forcing senior citizens to leave their apartments, which they regard as home, can be financially, physically and psychologically devastating."

GEAKE SAID apartment conversions in Michigan have increased dramatically during the past 18 months.

About 120 apartment buildings involving more than 8,200 rental units have been converted to condominiums since July 1978 and the pace is accelerating.

He told the group that legislation is pending in both the House and Senate (HB 5577 and SB 1052) that would provide for both the continuation of conversions and reasonable protection for elderly tenants.

Geake also said legislation he introduced would permit apartment buildings or condominium complexes to be occupied only by senior citizens has been reported out of the Senate State and Veterans' Affairs Committee headed to the Senate floor for action.

"My bill (SB 766) provides needed clarification of conflicting language in the Elliott-Larsen Civil Rights Act of 1976, allowing an exemption for senior citizen-only housing in the section which prohibits age discrimination in the sale or rent of real property."

Geake also warned senior citizens to study carefully the several tax relief measures which are being proposed.

"Some are tax shifts — others are tax cuts. Some would result in a tax reduction while others would either result in no change or in an increase. It is important for you to know how each proposal would affect your particular tax situation."

He briefly outlined several of the proposals including the Joint House-Senate Republican tax relief proposal which would save Michigan citizens $250 million.

"The Republican plan is a tax cut, not just a tax shift. It's not just a trade-off, it's a significant tax cut which would do much to ease the heavy burden of property taxes."

The Republican proposal also would do the following:

- Exempt the first 26 mills levied on residential and agricultural homesteads for school operating costs, resulting in a property tax reduction of 50 percent for most homes and farms.

- Provide an $80 million tax reduction for senior citizens, the blind and disabled, and disabled veterans through an exemption on the first $25,000 in state equalized valuation (SEV) on their homesteads.

- Index, to reflect inflation, the personal exemption, deductions and credits in the state income tax.

- Regain some of the $858 million in lost revenues to the state by increasing the sales tax from 4 to 5.5 percent.

"Under this proposal the state would reimburse local units of government dollar for dollar for what they lose because property tax is a local tax," he said.

There's no deer in Dearborn, Mich., you say?

City sufficiently compensates with world-class attractions

By IRIS SANDERSON JONES

There is a stone marker on Michigan Avenue between Southfield Road and Evergreen that marks the Old Sauk Trail. It once stood on the median, in view of Ford World Headquarters, but it now stands at the end of the road that leads to the Fairlane Mansion — once the home of Henry Ford I.

Old Henry they call him in Dearborn. Old Henry and the Old Sauk Trail are essential parts of the history of Dearborn, and part of the experience of being a tourist in this western suburb of Detroit.

At least two million people a year visit Dearborn from around the world. For those of us who live in the other suburbs of Detroit, it may be unknown territory.

Follow me to the old stone marker and you may experience a part of metropolitan Detroit that is new to you. You can see it all from the corner of Southfield Road and Michigan Avenue.

THE OLD SAUK Trail (now Michigan Avenue) was an Indian trail between what is now Detroit and Chicago. Pioneers built many of their roads and railroads on Indian trails, as they did on this one.

In 1826, it was the Chicago Military Road. Later the Southern Railway was built along it. Lewis Cass followed it across the state from Detroit to Fort Dearborn (now Chicago) when he and his party crossed the land and tried to change Michigan's image; it had become known as a place of swamp and fever.

By 1835, two stagecoaches a week followed the Old Sauk Trail. By then it was almost an extension of the Erie Canal.

By the end of World War II Michigan Avenue was U.S. 12, the main road between Detroit and Chicago. Nowadays, replaced by expressways, it is just another historic highway lost in the maze of the city.

FROM THIS corner of Michigan and Southfield you can map out the modern history of Dearborn and identify the forces that make it attractive to tourists.

To the northeast is Ford headquarters, still known as the Glass House. Beyond it at Ford and Greenfield roads is the land where Old Henry Ford was born. The house in which he was born is now in Greenfield Village.

On the northwest corner, a monorail runs from the copper glass face of the Hyatt Regency Hotel to the Fairlane Shopping Center, both built on Ford Motor Co. land. The hotel is owned by the Ford Land Development Corp.

Beyond that, to the west, is the University of Michigan-Dearborn, on the site of Old Henry's home, Fairlane. Fairlane is now a conference center, but thousands of curious tourists visit it every year.

You can eat lunch daily in the restaurant built over the mansion's swimming pool.

To the southeast of Michigan and Southfield, against the sky, you can see the smokestacks of the Rouge plant. The Rouge still runs one of the most popular industrial tours in the country. Tours leave on a regular schedule, except during model changeover.

They take you through the assembly plant, and one other plant — possibly either the steel plant or the glass plant.

Ford tours leave from the copper glass visitor center on the grounds of Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum, which make their skyline against the southwestern side of the Michigan-Southfield intersection.

Always call ahead to check on Ford tours.

Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum are considered among the top 10 tourist attractions in the United States. If you are one of the many metro Detroiters who say "I haven't been there in years," you probably haven't seen it as tourists from around the world see it every summer.

A multi-million dollar renovation was completed for the 100th anniversary of the Edison Institute (as Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village are jointly called) in 1979. One of the additions was the Interpretive Center, a central exhibit area in the museum that allows visitors to take a one-hour sample tour of the various artifacts of the museum before zeroing in on one area in the Hall of Technology.

When you leave the Edison Institute grounds you can see the Ford Test track to your left, once the airfield for Ford Tri-Motor planes. Ahead, across Oakwood Boulevard, is the Design Center, where the cars of the future are being created. To your left, half a mile down Oakwood Boulevard, is the Dearborn Inn.

The Inn is owned by the same foundation that owns the village and museum; neither are owned or operated by Ford's. The profits from the inn are used to support the Edison Institute.

The Dearborn Inn was originally built as an airport hotel for the airfield across the street, and a historic sign tells that tale by the front door.

Nowadays, it is a lunchtime hangout for businessmen, and a favorite Sunday-morning brunch stop for local people.

WHERE'S CHARLEY? Try Palm Beach, Fla., where Chuck Muer recently opened a Charley's Crab seafood restaurant.

It is "somewhat upscale in menu, decor and style of service . . . still informal . . . blending a sophistication with its light and airy ambience that is definitely Palm Beach."

Hours are 4-11 p.m. Mondays-Thursdays, 4 p.m. to midnight Fridays-Saturdays, and 4-10 p.m. Sundays, if you're in the neighborhood across the beach from the Atlantic Ocean just around the corner from Worth Avenue and the Esplanade Market-place, at 456 S. Ocean Blvd. For reservations, 1-305-659-1500.

The road rises out of the bowl of Mexico City, through dry stone and cactus hills. A boy and two mules skirt the edge of the only patch of water in a landscape cut by dry river beds.

Here and there a small adobe house marks the land, along with a scattering of horses, cows and sheep eating the dry grass.

As we approach San Juan del Rio, the land takes on a tentative green and an occasional red tile roof is seen. More land is tilled here and there are mountain shapes against the horizon.

In a farm yard, cows cluster under the outstretched arms of cactus trees.

The bus system is the lifeline of Mexico. There are four huge bus stations to the north, south, east and west of Mexico City. We left from Terminal Norte, where hundreds of people and a dozen bus lines crowded a large terminal building centered around a shopping area. The first class buses leave early in the morning. Second class buses leave every hour.

This is the bus that local people use; we had to wait an extra hour because the first bus was already full when we arrived.

NOW WE ARE going through a toll booth from the expressway down into the bus station at San Juan del Rio. There is a large bus shelter with more than a dozen buses already parked. Young men meet the bus with trays of goodies held high to the window.

There are cups of frozen sherbet, wax cartons of orange juice and wrapped sandwiches on the trays. A bookseller walks through the bus selling fiction in comic book form.

At Queretero the Saturday afternoon cowboys get on. As the bus empties its passengers at another large bus station, a sea of straw hats begins to move beside the outside door.

They push down the aisle, bronzed faces decorated with moustaches. They are faces full of laughter after a Saturday afternoon visit to the local bar.

These are the faces that you would photograph if you wanted to show central Mexico. A broad flat face with a mop of straight black hair sticking out from under a straw hat. Faces grinning between the hats and the packages that topple out of their arms into the aisle as they jostle and play.

THE OLD ONES are easy to stereotype: lined bronze faces, slightly grizzled chins and Saturday afternoon grins under their straw hat. Even the young are easy to identify. Their skin is smooth, the hair thick and black, the combination of hard work and laughter beginning to show on their faces.

As soon as the bus turns left towards the mountains and begins its slow climb towards San Miguel, the scene changes. After 15 minutes up the great spread slopes, the first dozen cowboys get off, spreading to walk long pathways to distance ranches wrapped in stone fences and cactus.

Another stop and a few more campesinos start the long climb home. These are the working men of Mexico, the men who work the ranches for which this dry central country is known.

It is late afternoon now. A field grows a misty green plant that moves like green smoke across the soil. A woman with a red shawl carries two buckets on a pole. Another rides home on a horse. A hacienda faces white into the setting sun. And the bus turns downhill into San Miguel. An ordinary Saturday afternoon in Mexico.

Federal booklet points out gas use

The federal government has issued guidelines to careful (read thrifty) drivers in the pamphlet How to Save Gasoline . . . and Money.

The guidelines give a number of suggestions and the reasons a driver can save money by following them.

If you are a typical driver, your car:

- Travels more than 11,000 miles per year.
- Consumes nearly 800 gallons of gasoline annually (slightly more than two gallons of gasoline a day).
- Costs you more than $1,000 per year for gasoline alone (more than eight cents per mile).

These figures assume that you are driving a private automobile in an urban area. Yet, even if you have a long commute, use your car for business, drive a light truck or for some other reason exceed those averages, the relative impact of gasoline costs on the pocketbook remains the same.

By driving more efficiently, you could easily:

- Cut gasoline consumption by 40-80 gallons per car, probably without eliminating any necessary travel and without inconvenience or sacrifice.
 - Save $50-$100 or more per car per year.
- To drive more efficiently:
- Drive at a moderate speed. The most efficient range usually is 35-45 miles per hour. On the highway, where you may need to maintain a higher speed, stay at 55 mph. Most automobiles get 18 percent better mileage on the highway at 50 than at 65 mph, and 20 percent better mileage at 55 than at 70 mph.

- Drive at a smooth and steady pace. Press lightly but steadily on the accelerator so that you flow smoothly through traffic. Avoid tailgating, unnecessary accelerating and braking.

- Drive "defensively." Anticipate traffic flow 10-12 second ahead. Maintain two or three seconds of buffer space between your car and the others around. This is calculated by noting when the car ahead passes a fixed point and counting the seconds until you reach that point.

* Don't idle the engine for longer than 30 seconds. Idling gets zero miles to the gallon. Driving slowly for the first few minutes is a much more efficient way to warm the engine than excessive idling, even after the car has stood overnight. Also, turn off the ignition any time you expect to wait more than 30 seconds or so. Restarting will take less gasoline than idling.

- Keep windows closed when driving at highway speeds. Open windows increase wind resistance by creating drag. If the outdoor temperatures permit, use flow-through ventilation. If heating or cooling is needed, use a moderate setting.

Cougar 6

The Cougar XR-7 is now available with a 3.3-liter (200-CID) in-line six-cylinder engine. This optional engine is lightweight, offers good fuel economy, costs less to buy and maintain and easier to service than the larger V-8s. A $76 credit will be allowed when the smaller engine is ordered instead of the standard 4.2-liter V-8.

At home with fabric

This spring, you can introduce new excitement into your wardrobe and your home as well with apparel fabrics that express your individuality.

Easy-care fabrics such as those containing Kodol polyester come in a variety of inspiring patterns and colors, and offer many opportunities for home decorating as well as apparel fashions.

IF YOU ARE new to do-it-yourself decorating, you might consider home fashions without sewing. Much home decorating, such as wall covering and slipcovering, is readily achieved by gluing, stapling, tacking and tying.

For an attractive storage unit in an open space, tack or glue fabric to a bookcase and a Roman shade. Then the shade is pulled down over the shelving, a unique room divider is created. To carry out the scheme, use matching fabric on nearby walls.

Of course, if you are a more experienced sewer, you may want to undertake more elaborate decorating projects. For example, fabric helps to coordinate the look of a multipurpose room. Choose the same print to sew a chair cushion and bedjackets, and to handsomely frame a window.

AN ORIENTAL print fabric is an ideal choice if the room is to work for a den or sitting area, sewing room, guest room or bedroom.

No matter which looks you choose, you'll find today's easy-care fabrics such as those containing Kodol polyester make sewing and decorating more enjoyable. So become a "do-it-yourself-er" and give your home, wardrobe—and budget—a lift for 1980.

Fabric is the ideal way to convert open shelves into an attractive room divider. Here, it has been done by covering a bookcase and a Roman shade with a Russell plaid of Kodol polyester and cotton. When the shade is pulled over the shelving, a unique room divider is created. This decorating can be undertaken by the non-sewer with glue, staples or tacks. Matching fabric can be used to cover nearby walls.

Vogue decorating hints

Americans are expected to dip into pockets and come up with $45 billion this year to improve and modernize their homes. Inflation, aggravated by the soaring costs of new homes and high interest rates, is forcing many homeowners to realize that bigger and better doesn't require a move.

THAT'S WHAT THIS special section is all about.

Additional information about home remodeling can be obtained by sending a self-addressed envelope to the National Home Improvement Council, 11 East 44th St., New York, N.Y. 10017.

One of the stories featured inside has to do with Shaker furnishings and we find that even after 200 years, Shaker styles are still popular.

You can almost feel the serenity that Shaker furniture adds to a home (See story on pages 12 and 13). This slat-back maple rocker is a perfect example of Shaker ingenuity and simplicity. The tape seats are dyed with handmade natural dyes and come in many beautiful colors.

If you're interested in looking at real Shaker furniture, there's an exhibit in Spring Lake, Mich., near Grand Rapids. You can get more information by writing the Guild of Shaker Crafts, 401 W. Savidge St., Spring Lake, Mich., 49546.

ONE OF THE NEWER advances in indoor-outdoor carpeting is "polyloom" (see story on page 15). Its grass-like yarns are made of 100 percent olefin fibers that are tufted into carpets that are as attractive as real grass but easier to grow and maintain.

There are plenty of uses for Polyloom. The manufacturer (Chevron) suggests entrances, carpools, breezeways as well as sun decks, pool and recreation areas.

For the do-it-yourselfer, installation is simple. Carpets are cut and fitted with scissors and a utility knife.

ONE MORE THING: one of the least expensive ways to finance a home improvement is by borrowing against the cash value of your life insurance policy.

There are low, simple interest rates and no repayment period for the principal. But, warns insurance company officials, your life insurance coverage is usually reduced by the amount of the loan.

Profile onward, Upward

For as long as she can remember, MILLIE COMPS has been batty about baskets.

So batty, in fact, that her collection is a focal point in her Livonia home where 30 or more of her favorites hang from the beamed ceiling in the Comps family room. (See photo/story on pages 22-23).

The baskets are a perfect complement to Millie's collection of Early Americana.

Her interest in baskets led her to learn the art herself and so many of the ceiling creations are her own. Her favorite pastime is to create a basket and then give it away as a gift or a personal "thank-you."

The latest development in this love affair has the Comps family all torn up as they begin an extensive remodeling of the kitchen area that adjoins the family room.

And — you guessed it — the ceiling will be beamed to match the family room so that Millie can add more baskets.

This arrangement of small baskets was the start of it all, Millie confides. She bought these baskets shortly after she was married over 20 years ago and that purchase prompted her to continue onward and UPWARD.

Expertise

Have patterns, will travel

Stenciling is the process of applying a design to a surface — and these two Plymouth residents, JAN DERSEY and PAT SAEZLER, have the process down pat. (See story and pictures on pages 4, 6 and 8)

As simple as this may sound, the process is often complicated, requires patience, exactness, and originality.

To stencil a border design on the walls of a room takes as long as 10 hours, with the two artists working together.

First, after a design has been specified, the stencil must be cut. If modifications are to be made to bring a design to scale, it is done on graph paper, before it is transferred to the stencil board.

When the appropriate measurements have been taken, and placement on the walls has been determined, the two stencilers begin the arduous task of applying the paints to the stencil. Sometimes, where more than one color is involved, first one color is applied, then after this is dry, the second color is applied. "Sometimes," explained Ms. Dersey, "it may take as many as three overlays. It's a slow process."

"Never apply the paints with a roller," said Ms. Dersey. "You just don't get an authentic look. You would get a flat look and that's not stenciling."

Examples of the itinerant Stencilers' work can be seen at Plymouth Book World, Vol. II, in Emma's restaurant in the Iron Gate complex, where they did a Beatriz Potter border.

Sach's of Forest Place, also in Plymouth, contracted with the women to have a border design applied. "But we will work in any location," said Ms. Saezler.

The itinerant Stencilers may be reached by calling Pat Saezler, 459-3687, or Jan Dersey, 453-6520.

Incidentally, the two itinerants wouldn't be as mobile as they are if it wasn't for the close support and cooperation of their families — in particular their husbands. If the gals have a job and their husbands are not working, they sit with the children. Pat has two children, ages 9 and 3; Jan also has two, a girl, 7 and a boy, 2.

Both agree nothing makes them prouder than when they can take their husbands out for dinner on their stenciling money.

Update 'Marvelous Minis' sprout in new location die the multiplying MM business.

"It just outgrew the shed," said Brenton and he was lucky to find a spot to move "Marvelous Minis" right in the heart of downtown Livonia at 15227 Farmington Road, near Five Mile.

Now he has all kinds of room in which to experiment with more flowers and to expand into other species. He carries a complete line of indoor light gardening supplies and is open daily from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Questions are welcomed. The phone number is 421-0055. And he'll still continue his mail order business.

As for the rabbit hutch, it became the home of a giant artificial Christmas tree that the family previously had trouble storing.

Update

It was bound to happen.

One of the highlights of this special section last year was an article by indoor light gardener par excellence ROH BRENTON. The Livonian gave tips on how to successfully garden under lights without any big outlay of cash.

A profile of Brenton, who is a typing teacher in the Detroit school system, also revealed that he operates a mail order business known as "Marvelous Minis." For sale are hundreds of miniature house plants — particularly African violets.

His "greenhouse" — if you recall — was a former rabbit hutch wired for light hutchers are prone to do, it just got too small to han-

Stenciling

Ancient folk art enjoys a revival

BY NANCY AUSTIN

Stenciling, an ancient folk art, is enjoying a revival in home decorating schemes. And it's just one more manifestation of the oil shortage.

Jan Dersey and Pat Saelzler who call themselves the Itinerant Stencilers, explained the revival this way.

"Stenciling peaked about 1840 then died when wallpaper became less expensive. But our vinyl papers today are petroleum products. The cost is again very high, so people have returned to stenciled walls."

The art, which can be briefly described as applying a design to a surface, has its origins in China. According to Ms. Dersey, those living in the Far East used stenciling to decorate ceremonial robes, then expanded its use by decorating walls. Also ancient Romans and Greeks stenciled walls and pottery.

The two women began their stenciling business about one-and-a-half years ago long after their friendship had been established through a common interest in antique hunting. They share an enduring friendship. "We have to be close in order to be able to work on walls for 10 hours a day," stated Ms. Dersey.

She explained that there is a certain amount of stress in the job because there is very little margin for error. "Most people don't realize that the placements of the stencils

Stenciled walls accentuate charm in this child's bedroom

The two women, who have scoured the New England countryside in search of antiques, also observed many of the New England homes where stenciling is abundant. This is also where they have collected many of their stenciling designs.

"The number of designs we have is basically unlimited," said Ms. Dersey, "because of the number of combinations there are, but they are all authentic."

Texture painting brings new pizzazz to old walls

If dull, flat walls are a decorating problem for you, the solution is right in your daily newspaper. You start by crumpling it up.

Newspaper is just one of many possible tools used for a special decorating technique called texture painting. It can be used to create dramatic designs or reflect the mood of any room.

Almost anything can be used to create those designs, including a newspaper, wire brush, putty knife or a straight edge. It's an excellent cover-up for older walls that have developed small cracks and other flaws.

needed to prepare the wall surface. The surface should then be thoroughly cleaned of all dirt, grease, wax or sealers. Wallpaper paste should also be completely removed and glossy, hard finishes should be dulled by sanding.

ONCE ALL the preparations are made, the fun begins. It is better to divide the surface to be textured in areas no larger than 4-by-4 feet. The texture paint can then be put on the wall with a brush, trowel or texture roller.

Here's where your imagination

Whether you're an expert or a beginner, texture painting is an easy way to add real life to any room.

Timely touch

Home improvement can be as simple as adding the right accessory. For example, a handsome clock can provide a focal point in a room. This one is a battery-operated ogee wall clock by Howard Miller. Its name is derived from the style of molding on its pine case. The pendulum is brass and the glass is decorated with 24K gold.

For a quick change

Unstash closet trivia

Fickleness is a fine quality in a homemaker, for by definition it means "given to change, inconstancy, whimsical choice, or unpredictable variability." It takes imagination to be easily bored with surroundings and even more imagination to do something about.

On the other hand, some folks don't bore easily and NEVER, NEVER change their environment. They would never think of moving a chair an inch from where it stands, or a picture on the wall from where it hangs. Many people resist change and only feel comfortable and secure when everything is in its place.

This article is not addressed to them.

ON THE CONTRARY, it is addressed to their opposites; people who thrive on change, who, in fact, require it and who tend to be fickle about fashion. If you are one of these, you will welcome ways to refresh your home, quick-change its appearance, to vary it unpredictably.

You must start, of course, with a good basic "home turning wardrobe," items that most households contain. The basics are the carpets, sofas, chairs, tables, beds, dressers and some accessories.

Second you must have a good Fibber McGee closet with all the variables to work your magic. For those of you who don't know what a Fibber McGee closet is, in short, it is a closet full of everything you didn't want to do with but didn't want to give away or dispose of because SOMEDAY it would come in handy. This might be the day.

THERE ARE WONDERS to be worked with window shades. For example, where you have one large window, you can use one shade in the center of one particular color, and on each side of it another shade (side by side) of another color or pattern.

Example: a solid color in the center, a multicolored stripe on each side of it. You can also hang one shade over the other so that they overlap, using two different colors and/or patterns.

You can change valances or add them to existing window treatments, cornices, for example, provide a changing effect. If you have over and under draperies, remove one set and replace the undercurtains with shades or blinds. If you eliminate the overdrapes, exchange it by the addition of a valance.

EXCHANGE THE curtains in various rooms, one for the other as an alternative for giving your windows a different look.

In the Fibber McGee closet, you should find extra curtain rods. No law requires us to use the same curtains over and over again in the same rooms, if you can make them fit other windows.

It's surprising how new the same old fabric can look simply by introducing it to a change of scenery.

Within the rooms of a home, you can achieve variety merely by moving things around, giving them new locations, setting a new stage for your props.

Slipcovers are one of the great sleight-of-hand tricks to employ. They can be used to transform a room from pale colors to bold, from plain to striped, from formal to casual. This ability to effect a whole new mood, without requiring new furniture and an outlay of cash, is the "smart" part of being fashionably fickle. It can be very refreshing, even if it only a seasonal change.

If you have or can buy some area rugs, you can interchange these among rooms, add them to rooms where they were is wall to wall carpet, under a table, in front of a sofa, in the dining room, or wherever it will change the environment of the room.

Little area rugs can be on duty all the time, ready for use — somewhere.

DEVELOP A pillow wardrobe — the more you have, the more magic you can work with them. Recover them, so that you can shift accents from silk to cotton, from stripes to polka dots, from plain to fancy. Add tassels or fringe, or remove it if it is already there, for a different look.

As for art, buy what you like and what pleases you. You will find a place for it. Other art in the house can be re-matted, re-framed and rearranged. Color is surprisingly adaptable and can be recklessly chosen and proper for a certain wall in the house — whatever the room may be.

All locales are dramatized by the addition of art. Go again to the closet. You'll be surprised what you may find hiding there that can be rejuvenated.

A wood deck located off the dining room or family room offers the ideal spot for relaxing after a busy day. Large glass area lengthens interior views making room appear less confining. The warm tones of western wood add beauty to the home's exterior.

AUTHENTICITY is important to these professionals. And they become animated when relating detail about the most exiting assignment they were commissioned to do.

Ms. Dersey said, "There is a 1740 Federal colonial west of Plymouth that is authentic in every detail. The people who own the home want so far as to have the nails imported from New England to retain authenticity. It is exact in every detail. Pat and I stenciled three rooms for them. That was the most aesthetically pleasing job we have done."

The worst experience they have ever had was with one

a ceiling full of baskets

The energy crunch will undoubtedly bring a bigger resurgence of home hobbyists. But what to do with all those "creations" once they are finished. There's just so much room in a house. Well, if you're into basketweaving, Millie Comps has a clever way to display the handicraft. She hangs hers from the ceiling. Her collection of baskets range from an antique tomato picking basket that has been in family for decades to Indian and Shaker baskets — of all shapes and sizes. Needless to say, the arrangement makes for an interesting conversation piece. The one she's holding in the picture at the left is a melon-shaped one she made as a gift. (Staff photo by Bill Bresler) fill an entire wall. The effect, they agreed, may appear to be very busy.

"A bedroom lends itself very well to an all-over stencil design because that's a room you don't live in all day," explained Ms. Saelzler.

"And," said Ms. Dersey, "I have just finished giving my bathroom an all over design. While stenciling designs are reminiscent of New England and colonial designs, it is not exclusively limited to these accents. "And a surprising thing is that the art is becoming very popular in California," observed Ms. Dersey. The women have decorated bedroom nurseries in Beatrice Potter borders, and have worked in a home whose primary decorating scheme is the Mediterranean look. Nor is the look limited to designs on just white walls.

"You can do a reverse stencil," explained Ms. Dersey. "For example, a wall could be a gold color then do a stencil in white to achieve a reverse effect. It looks quite nice," she said.

THE COST FACTOR is one important reason for today's revival. It is generally less expensive to have borders stenciled than it is to pay for the cost of wallpapering.

"We charge $2.50 to $3.00 per foot," said Ms. Saelzler. "This is usually cheaper than wallpaper, until you get into the all-over design, then this would cost more."

Since most people need a

Even a droll hallway takes on new life when stenciling is applied. But it isn't as easy as it appears. Sometimes more than three coats of paint must be applied. The paint is applied with a special stenciling brush — never, never use a roller.

little help getting started with the idea of stenciling a room, the two stencilers will take a book of designs to a customer's home to show what can be done.

"Today," explained Ms. Dersey, "people want less stenciling on a wall, and they like less color." She continued, "In the days of the 18th century artists, the colors were natural dyes, beautiful true colors, such as what were found in nature, but they weren't harsh."

In addition to stenciling walls, the two women will originate a design that can be copied from a wallpaper. This can be stenciled onto curtains, dust ruffles, or any other accessory to help coordinate a room.

OTHER OBJECTS that lend themselves well to stenciling include fireplace boards. "People will go out and spend $200 on glass door," they said. "But they don't have to. We will cut a fireplace board, back it with aluminum for fireproofing, and stencil on it for less than the cost of glass doors."

The partners agree that there is one place where a big mistake has been made. "In the Noah Webster house in Greenfield Village, and the two women agree they would like to offer their services to rectify the error. Ms. Dersey explained, "They covered up stenciling which was in an upstairs bedroom. They covered this authentic stenciling with stenciled wallpaper. It was a real crime."

"Our dream," they both said, "is to buy an old home, restore it, then stencil all the walls."

so shall ye reap

Some of the recommended varieties were developed at Michigan State University. They include Self-Blanche cauliflower, the Spartan carrots — Spartan Bonus, Spartan Delite and Spartan Fancy — Spartan Arrow snap bean, Spartan banner and Spartan sleeper onions, and Spartan early broccoli.

Zandstra suggests requesting two or three seed catalogs and reading descriptions of the various varieties carefully. He points out that seed catalogs offer a wealth of information on the desirable characteristics of each variety — disease resistance, size, yield, best uses, etc. — and how to grow it for best results.

"If a particular variety seems to offer what you want in that crop, try it," Zandstra suggests. "Grow it alongside the variety you usually plant and see how they compare. This way, you're not out your whole tomato crop, or whatever, if the new variety doesn't perform for you. And you've been growing."

A complete list of this year's MSU-recommended varieties is available from the county Cooperative Extension offices.

VEGETABLE GARDENING continues for a whole summer, but did you ever stop to think about how little time is spent the single important phase — getting the soil ready? If you're like most people, you get the garden ready to plant in one day and the spend the next 200 worrying over the growth and health of your plants.

It always seems to happen that first glorious spring day. You just can't wait to get the soil turned over and those seeds and "sets" into the ground.

But in your excitement, you maybe loosen the soil only a few inches. It looks great, all rich and crumbly. Healthy plants, however, like to send their roots down 6, 8 and even 12 inches, if they're thwarted by concrete-hard ground, their growth is likely to be stunted.

Give your gardening mobility. Set yourself free of the restrictions of sun and shade and flower bed. Join an increasing number of homeowners and apartment dwellers who are enjoying the benefits of container gardening. Container-grown plants can truly be for all occasions. Large planters are ideal for porch or patio, smaller ones can be moved to whatever location the occasion calls for — even indoors. Just take care to see that the container allows excess water to drain off so that roots of the plants do not stand in water.

Bucking the 'naturals'

When it comes to home furnishings, Americans are doing what comes naturally. For the last several years the dominant style in wall coverings, floor coverings, furniture — you name it — has been the Natural Look. The hot sellers have been wood, brick, stone, rattan and other natural materials or manmade look-alikes. The big colors have been the neutrals: beige, paper bag, almond and so on. It's not an entirely a beige world, though. There are notable exceptions to the naturals' grip on the public fantasy. For example, in flooring, brightly colored Mediterranean tiles — either the real handpainted ceramic ones or, more often, the far less expensive vinyl reproductions — have successfully bucked the naturals trend. In kitchens with vinyl flooring, it almost seems as if half the people have opted for "brick," while the other have "Mediterranean tile." No question, Mediterranean tiles are enormously popular despite the predominant appeal of the naturals. Do-it-yourself installation is about a half-day job.

Plants that build a crown in the container, then spill over the sides, make the most attractive hanging baskets. The Cascade petunias shown here were developed especially for this trailing effect.

are equipped to build a square or rectangular box.

A width of 6 feet is suggested, if the raised bed is alongside a fence or for many reasons accessible only from one side, it should not be wider than 3 or 4 feet.

THE SIDES or end of the raised bed can be wood of any thickness. It can be constructed ed with 1-inch or 2-inch material, railroad ties or even old telephone poles.

The beds can be 6 to 15 inches high. Sometimes you can just stack lumber to form the bed and drive 16d nails in on an angle to hold the pieces in place.

Once your bed is constructed, select a lightweight soil mixture, rich in organic matter.

Such is the chocolate-and-vanilla kitchen created by Catherine A. Erb of Armstrong's Interior Design Center. The New Orleans-like kitchen was featured in a recent issue of "Good Ideas for Decorating."

IT IS A super "eat-in-the-kitchen" with tele-a-tete dining

Haute cuisine

Kitchen's not just for breakfast

It used to be reserved for the help. It was always the utilitarian part of the home. Well, so much for that era.

The kitchen has finally come into its own and is as fashionable today as gourmet cooks and interior designers have made it.

But because it is still a "workshop," what can be done to develop the kitchen's environment into one where you can feel pampered?

The secret sometimes is color. Beyond color, the real magic can be texture, or contrasts in light and dark. — chiaroscuro.

If you add a coarse brick wall, an embossed floor, the look of shiny wire mesh, the gleam of shiny brass — you've introduced shadows, highlights, and changing nuances of color.

Even more varieties of texture are found in the cane-backed bamboo chairs from Thomasville with velvet upholstery for soft counterpoint.

Though extremely practical (e.g. the easy-care floor of Casatitan "Carpenter Square," undecorated window for easy cleaning also, plus the track lighting over the work area), the kitchen is elegant and sophisticated.

The fancy chandelier dripping with wooden beading and the arched cabinet doors (repeating the window's architectural frame) with inserts of painted mesh and glass — all — add the touches that lift an otherwise ordinary kitchen to new decorative heights.

It certainly makes guest want to linger . . . to feel and touch as well as smell and taste. This is a kitchen for feasting the eyes as well as satisfying the appetite. And it proves that dinner for two — in the kitchen — can be stylish. . . even romantic.

THEIR FURNITURE — the ladder-back chair, for example — was also noted for sound construction, lack of embellishment and functionalism.

The only pattern in the room, except for the "brick" floor, is the brown-and-white gingham of the curtains. Rounding out the Shaker look are the brass kettle, brass lanterns high on the wall, iron candleholders and a family of hand-painted ceramic cats.

Most people transplanted into an authentic Shaker home would find it hard to relate to the severity of the surroundings. But beautifully designed Shaker pieces in a proper mix with other furnishings can achieve a simple style that's pleasing to nearly everyone — even modernists.

This Shaker-style family room is nearly devoid of colors and the only two patterns in the room are the gingham curtains and brick design of the floor. This utter simplicity makes for a serene and soothing environment. And the no-wax floor makes for a carefree atmosphere.

Raised beds offer advantages.

Here's how to plan walkways and paths

Unfortunately, many people give little thought to the walkways, paths, ramps and steps that provide access to and from the home and surrounding garden areas.

A simple thing such as the walkway from the curb to the front door can provide an inviting entrance and set the mood for your home.

Or it can be an uninteresting, narrow stretch of concrete that can only be described as dull.

The back of the house can be given added drama by incorporating such things as brick ramps, granite steps and wrought-iron or wood railing.

the week and the requirements these activities necessitate.

Another aspect of walkways that people don't give enough attention to is the width. Most of them turn out to be narrow.

Single-file walkways can be 30 inches wide, but 36 inches is more desirable.

Also consider a walkway that varies in width to provide more visual interest. A straight strip is monotonous. Gentle curves, subtle changes in directions function as well as a direct route and make for a better looking landscape. You must take into consideration selection of materials, how suitable they will be for the area and their upkeep as well as original cost.

AND WHILE you're at it, why not try your hand at a raised flower bed.

The main reason many homeowners decide on raised beds is that they can use the type of soil they want. Often a gardener will find that his garden soil won't support the plants or vegetables he wants to grow. With a raised bed, he can select any type of soil mix he wishes.

Building a raised bed is not a difficult project. Basically, it's a wooden box made to hold soil. Given a reasonable sharp hand saw, a square, a measure and hammer and nails, you Garden walkways should be inviting.

Polyloom

What! Plant grass on cement?

Creating out-of-door rooms for warm weather living and off-season beauty adds extra living space for relaxing, entertaining, dining and fun.

Decorated with personality and versatility, patios, porches and terraces become a valuable and decorative extension of the rooms they adjoin.

Whether it's a patio leading to a lawn and garden or a terrace overlooking a city skyline, out-of-door rooms should complement and enhance their natural surroundings. Patios and porches must be designed to withstand the environment and active family living, yet be decorated to express personal style in harmony with the outdoors. A successful combination of aesthetics and durability will create a patio or terrace that is a lasting and useful addition to your home.

SINCE MOTHER NATURE provides a panorama of plants and flowers for ceilings, walls and table tops, the best place for the home decorator to begin is with the floor. Left uncovered, concrete surfaces look unfinished and, unfortunately, detracting from the overall mood of the "room."

An ideal covering to create a natural environment is colorful and tough grass-like carpeting of Chevron's "Polyloom" olefin fiber.

Green grass, foliage and flowers are the home decorators' basics for patios and terraces. Artificial turf is a good choice for a country patio to blend with natural grass lawns and trees and for urban terraces to bring a green "lawn" to the city scene.

ONCE THE GRASS CARPETS are planted, flowers and plants should be added to bring color and natural decoration to out-of-door rooms. Plant life is right at home in the grass environment and will flourish with the sunlight and water that Mother Nature provides.

Ideal for both the terrace gardener and the busy homemaker, grass carpets are a beautiful and easy-care alternative for surface areas where real grass won't grow. Manufactured to withstand inclement weather and active usage, artificial turf is impervious to mildew, rotting and moisture to which terraces are constantly exposed.

Easy to clean carpets of "Polyloom" can be washed or hosed with water, or vacuumed, freeing up more time to be outdoors and enjoying it.

Polyloom's special olefin fibers make it perfect for patio and terrace usage.
