Canton manager concept explored by panel

By CAROLINE PRICE

The notion doesn't exactly thrill Canton's chief elected officer, but a number of citizens find intriguing the concept of hiring a manager to oversee township administration.

Supervisor Noel Culbert was one of three panelists Tuesday night at a dinner meeting called to explore the feasibility of installing a manager or supervisor at township hall.

Impetus for the meeting was provided by Bart Berg, a former township planning commissioner who is active in many local affairs.

The other panelists - who were far more supportive of the manager concept than Culbert - were John Gilmour Jr., superintendent of Bridgeport Township near Saginaw; and William Thompson, supervisor of Kalamazoo Township.

Robert Padget, planning commission chairman, served as moderator for the panel discussion.

All three officials were in agreement on one thing. According to each, things are going fairly well for the charter township he represents, although the government set-up and problems varied.

"What is good in Bridgeport or Kalamazoo is not necessarilly good for Canton," said Culbert, who led off the panel.

"I think Canton is fairly efficient, probably the most efficient in the area. Every form of government is going to have certain inefficien-

CULBERT spent much of his alloted 20 minutes comparing Canton's economic condition to those of surrounding communities such as Plymouth.

"Canton ended the 1979 fiscal year with a cash surplus of $1.2 million, while Plymouth's was $14,000. Westland had a surplus of $27,000.

"I think we all get tired of being treated as secondary citizens. We don't have to put up with it. We're not as bad as people like to believe," the supervisor said.

Later in the discussion, however, Kalamazoo Supervisor Thomson cautioned that a community with too large a cash reserve "might be an indication that the people are being overtaxed."

Thomson, on leave from his job as a social science associate professor at Western Michigan University, was recently named chief administrative officer of his township.

He said Kalamazoo Township had a tradition of strong clerks and weak supervisors, but was forced to come up with a new system when it became a charter township this year. A charter township allocates more authority to the supervisor than does the straight township form of government.

"My recommendation was to follow the Delta Township system in which the clerk would become the manager and the supervisor would have a part-time, primarily public relations position," said Thomson, who wore a "Yes, there really is a Kalamazoo Township" button on his

"When I was supervisor, I was the only full-time elected officer. I was the only one on the board well informed on the issues," he said. "The way I operate now, I give out information to all seven board members and strive to keep them equally informed. I think they do come to meetings better informed." Gilmour said after he was hired

He added, "I used to say as supervisor that I had to get half of the people mad at me to get fired. Now I only have to get four (board members) mad.'

That a superintendent's job is so much at the whim of a township board was one of Culbert's contentions why the position would not provide continuity in government.

The second ballot proposal, in effect, asks voters for permission to reverse the Headlee rollback of 1.32 mills and allow the district to levy next year the same amount of mills it now levies.

Dr. John M. Hoben, superintendent of schools, points out that the second ballot proposal would be much like a millage renewal in that approval would not result in any tax increase but in continuation of the current levy. In an earlier discussion Monday night, Hoben pointed out that the school district loses state aid as its taxbase increases. The loss of the 1.32 mills plus the loss in state aid will result in a 1980-81 budget shortfall of $2 million. That means if the 1.32 mills is not restored, that some $2 million in programs will be cut, he said.

RAY HOEDEL told the board that if the $11 million loan is approved, the district will invest the money until it actually is needed.

Hoedel expects the district will earn about $1.2 million in interest on the $11 million borrowed that will result in a total of $12.2 million being available for projects.

The $11 million would be borrowed for a period of 17 years, instead of the 29 years the $21 million-plus proposed as the term of indebtedness for the bonds rejected in March.

Hoedel said the bond consultants recommend the 17-year payback period to make the bond issues more marketable and because some of the current debt will be paid off in between two-three third year the debt levy will be less

If voters approve the $11 million bond issue on June 9, said Hoedel, an additional 1.1 mills will be levied in the first year to cover the debt. In the second year, Hoedel added, about half-amill additional will be levied and in the

"You must realize you have something America wants - smaller government. Make sure if you have a manager, you don't let him screw it up.'

He added that a township can also get into trouble by putting too much dependance on professionals.

The decision to hire a superintendent could be made by the Canton board, possibly after putting an advisory question of the issue before the voters. A manager would have to answer to the board

Keep them flying

I read it, but I still do not believe it. On April 23, The Crier printed an article from an interview with Bruce Phillips (head of Canton's ordinance department) about our American flag. This township and ordinance department has pushed far too far where I am concerned. I am sure we have all seen Old Glory flying in front of the Pizza Hut on Ford Road. In fact, I missed her when she was gone for awhile.

If you can drive by that flag and never feel a little twinge of "God Bless America" then I think you could be in the wrong country.

It appears that our chief ordinance officer resents seeing our American flag flying because he feels it might cause a rash of American flags to be flown. Well, let me tell you, my friend, let them fly and bigger. The day Phillips and his personnel can tell anyone to cease flying the flag of our country are numbered in this township. Court fight looms on county reform

By TOM LONERGAN

A suburban Wayne County group, which insists county government reorganization only proceed on the basis of 1980 census figures, will likely have to take its argument to court.

Following a nearly four-hour appearance Wednesday by John F. Dodge, Jr., an attorney representing the Wayne County Communities for Equal Representation, members of the county apportionment commission said they may be required to follow a 1972 charter commission district reapportionment plan for a charter commission to be seated this year.

'IF APPROVED BY voters during the Aug. 5 primary election, a charter commission would be created to propose county government reorganization, including whether the county should be lead by an elected county executive or a county board appointed manager.

Before the election, however, the county apportionment commission is required to determine charter commission districts. If a charter commission is created, one representative would be elected from each charter commission district.

State Rep. William A. Ryan, D-Detroit, has asked Michigan Attorney General Frank Kelley whether charter district apportionment approved in 1972, and based on the 1970 census, precludes any further reapportioning for a 1980 charter commission.

"We must wait until we hear from the attorney general and do what he advises," said county Prosecutor William L. Cahalan, a member of the apportionment commission. Kelley's opinion, requested on April 18, is expected either this week or early next week

Voters rejected creating a charter commission in November, 1972, so charter districts were never formed. The 1972 charter district apportionment, however, is identical to the current 27 county commissioner districts.

DODGE REQUESTED the apportionment commission wait "six to 10 months" for 1980 census figures before approving any charter commission districts.

Dodge was hired in March by the equal representation group, composed of 39 suburban cities and townships, to prepare a lawsuit seeking a charter commission based on the 1980 census.

Districts based on the 1970 census would deprive western and downriver county communities an equalvote on the charter commission, Dodge told the apportionment commission. He said current county commissioner districts no longer reflect equal representation based on the "one man, one wote" principle vote" principle.

County reorganization has been proposed for 12 years, Dodge said. He added: "all of a sudden we have this tremendous hurry.

"We have a hurry because the the people in the City of Detroit want to use the 1970 census. They want to dominate the writing of a new charter. They know they don't have a right to dominate it based on population."

ALSO APPEARING before the apportionment commission Wednesday was Professor David Goldberg, an associate director of the University of Michigan Population Studies Center who said the 1970 census is, "totally inaccurate to represent the current population distribution of Wayne County."

Goldberg, who conducts an annual population study of the metropolitan area, has been retained by Dodge in preparation of the suit challenging use of the '70 census.

Goldberg said the county's 1970 population of 2,670,368 dropped to 2,405,127 by 1978. All but five of the 27 county commissioner districts lost population during that time, according to a chart he prepared.

Districts including Livonia, Garden City and part of Westland increased slightly by between 2,500 and 4,000 people, while the district including the Plymouth-Canton area increased by about 137,000.

The professor said Detroit lost 335,000 people between 1970 and 1978, while the out-county area (all county municipalities except Detroit) lost 68,000 during the same period.

Edison seeks new rate hike

Detroit Edison Co.'s request for a rate increase is "the largest amount ever requested" by the southeast Michigan electric utility, said its chief financial officer.

Ernest L. Gove Jr. said Edison is asking the Michigan Public Service commission for rate hikes that would yield $463 million more revenue in three steps over two years.

To the average electric customer, the rate hikes, if granted by MPSC, would cost per month:

• $2.66 in 1980, a 9.7 percent increase over the current average of $29.99.

• $2.66 on Jan. 1, 1981, an 8.9 percent increase over the then-current $32.65.

• $2.34 in mid-1981, a 7.2 percent increase over the then-current $34.99, bringing the monthly average to a total of $37.33.

GOVE SAID general inflation and high interest rates have had a heavy impact on Detroit Edison, a capital-intensive firm which borrows heavily for new investment funds.

In the 12 months ended in last month, Edison earned $1.67 per common share, down from the 1979 earnings of $1.90 and 1978's level of $1.76.

The average return on common equity was 8.76 percent at the end of March 1980 compared to 9.91 percent in 1979 and 9.16 percent in 1978.

But Gove said Edison is seeking to lighten the homeowner burden with two other changes.

One is a new "lifeline" rate for low-income customers. The other is to extend its senior citizens rate to persons at age 62 instead of the current age 65. Some 75,000 more customers would be eligible, Gove said.

DESPITE inflation, Gove said, electricity is still taking the same proportion of the residential customer's budget in 1979 as it did in 1959 -about 1.5 percent.

This occurred "despite the use of almost twice as much electricity," the board vice chairman added.

He said the cost of electricity rose 6.7 percent for the average residence last year while costs were increasing even faster. He did not immediately provide cost increase figures.

Schoolcraft hikes tuition

By TOM LONERGAN

A tuition increase, which for most Schoolcraft College students will average $12 a semester, will take effect in the fall semester.

The board, on a 5-2 vote last week, approved a $1.50 increase in resident tuition to $18.50 per cred-

A college spokesman said the typical Schoolcraft student who takes eight credit hours a semester will pay $157 in tuition next fall, which includes student activities and registration fees. The same student paid $145 under the current tuition rate.

TRUSTEES Harry Greenleaf, Nanci Blatt, Rosina Raymond, Richard Hayward and Leonard

Wozniak voted for the tuition hike. Trustees Mark McQuesten and Michael Burley, who favored a different increase, voted no. Non-resident student tuition was also increased

$1.50 to $29 per credit hour. Burley and McQuesten favored an increase in resident tuition to $19 per credit hour and non-resident to $28. Residents are students from the K-12 school districts of Clarenceville, Garden City, Livonia, Northville, Plymouth-Canton and a small part of Novi. McQuesten favored a smaller increase in nonresident tuition to put Schoolcraft "in a more competitive position" with neighboring community col-

HAYWARD RESPONDED that non-resident students are more attracted by a college's program than lower tuition. "If you have the program and that's what they want, they'll pay it (higher tuition)," he said.

The two community colleges with which Schoolcraft competes for students have lower non-resident tuition rates.

Wayne County Community College has a $25 percredit-hour rate, while Henry Ford Community College (HFCC) in Dearborn charges out-of-district students $23 per credit hour, for up to 10 hours, and $22 for more than 10 hours.

Schoolcraft President C. Nelson Grote said WCCC's out-of-distict tuition will likely increase. HFCC is considering a $1 per credit hour increase in non-resident tuition for next fall.

Oakland Community College will charge out-ofdistrict students $26.50 per credit hour next fall.

IN OTHER ACTION, trustees:

· Approved an estimated $15,000 bill for repair of a leaky gas main discovered on the Schoolcraft campus April 15.

 Approved a $14,794 book security system for the college library.

· Increased payment for annual physical examinations for the college's 11 top administrators $25 to a maximum of $275

Pressuring vets win stay for counselor

BY TOM LONERGAN

Under pressure from student veterans, Schoolcraft College has agreed to keep its full-time veterans counselor through June 30. However, the Schoolcraft Veterans Club, recently organized due to the impending closing of the veterans counselor office, wants a commitment that the college will apply for federal funding to keep the office open longer.

PRESIDENT C. Nelson Grote has proposed the school's counseling office handle veterans counseling, a decision opposed by the veterans group. The group contends the school will be replacing the full-time veteran's counselor with a part-time

At last Wednesday's Board of Trustees meeting, Grote and a spokesman for the veterans differed over an apparent tentative agreement the two had reached earlier in the day. Grote said he would consider applying for an estimated $12,000 in federal VCIP (Veterans Cost of Instruction Program) funds, but added: "I'm not going to take an oath that we're going to apply for Veterans Club spokesman Thomas Ontko, a Schoolcraft student, claimed that Grote had made a "firm commitment" earlier in the day to apply for the VCIP funds.

But Grote told trustees he was "not willing to make a commitment that we will."

He said accepting the funds may mean the college has to keep a full-time separate veterans counselor. Since last summer Grote has wanted the office merged with the counseling department.

The veterans office was scheduled to be closed Friday and full-time counselor John Borenski, of Plymouth Township, was to be laid off.

GROTE SAID Borenski will remain on the job the next two months to train other counselors on the federal veterans programs.

Ontko said the vets club needed more than two months to investigate other funding sources for a separate counselor.

"This two month time period does not give the veterans a chance to pursue an alternative," he

But Ontko found little support among Schoolcraft trustees, who maintain the service is being transferred, not cut. "There's no way there's any intent to cut down on the services," said Trustee Richard Hayward. He said that if the name of the veterans counseling office had been kept intact with the proposed transfer, he doubted if the veterans would be opposing it. SCHOOLCRAFT HAS applied for VCIP funds since the early 1970s. College officials say the amount of federal funding has decreased each year since 1976 because the school's veterans enrollment has decreased.

They say the demand no longer justifies contini-ung a seperate full-time counselor.

Grote said it will cost the college $3,400 to keep the veterans office open through June.

Resident invents a safer tire

Here is good news for automobile

Thanks to the untiring work of John A. Main, who lives in Plymouth, and James Evans of Ypsilanti, a wheel rim has been invented that will allow you to drive for miles on a flat tire.

Both men are employed at the Kelsey-Hayes plant in Romulus, and they have been granted a U.S. patent for what has been termed a "wheel rim."

In explaining the patent, Main said a pneumatic tire of the tubeless type includes an inner circumferential bead and an outer circumferential bead which, when the tire is mounted, are located in "seats" that are formed on the wheel rim and are terminated in outwardly extending flanges.

When the tire is inflated, the beads are held in their respective seats by the internal pressure within the tire.

The Plymouth inventor, who has lived here for the past four years, smiled when his attention was called to his latest honor.

"This is only one of several patents I have received during the 20 years I have been working at Kelsey-Hayes,"

A graduate of the University of Michigan with the class of '49, he has followed a career as an advanced engineer. While his latest patent concerns an automobile wheel, he also has spent much time on brake discs and other equipment:

One of the features of the latest patent is that you can run on a flat. This is done by having the "beads" cooperate in such a way as to prevent the tire from leaving the rim in the event of a "run flat" condition.

In this way, the flat can be driven for untold miles until it can be serviced.

"I have driven a flat 164 miles on a rough road at our testing grounds,' Main said, "and there was no trouble.

"In fact, there has been a case reported when a driver went across the entire country on the flat and there was no harm done. Obviously, Main said, how long the tire will operate in an uninflated state depends upon how long the "beads" remain seated properly on the wheel rim while the vehicle is being operated during such an emergency.

Main said he and his partner have worked for the past two or three years on the "beaded" theory, and now finally it has been approved with a patent. They have turned the patent over to the Kelsey-Hayes Company.

Poised for war over Iran, Riegel says

By TIM RICHARD

There are fewer abuses of power in Congress by elderly, arbitrary committee chairmen, says a Michigan Senator Yamous for criticizing his colleagues by

But Donald W. Riegle says polls reveal that people are becoming more "alienated" from government at a time when "government is centrally involved - indeed, sometimes the controlling influence - over our country."

The 42-year-old Democrat was in Livonia last weekend to receive an honorary degree and speak at graduation ceremonies at Schoolcraft College. His tone was somber as he warned that the United States "is poised on the edge of possible military confrontation with the Soviet Union" over Iran.

RIEGLE WAS a 34-year-old Republican U.S. Representative in 1972 when he wrote "O Congress," a candid and sometimes devastating look at the institution and the people in it.

In it he complained that in the foreign operations subcommittee, he had only five minutes in the course of a year to question Secretary of State William P. Rogers, who was well protected by Chairman Otto Passman, D-Loui-

Riegle also wrote that Congress was dominated by "old men" who had to have emergency equipment and doctors available whenever the House was in session.

"Some of the committee work has been broken up into subcommittees, and that diffuses power.

"But the Senate has not moved as quickly," said Riegle, who was elected to the upper chamber in 1976 after switching parties.

"Most Senate committee chairmen get some negative votes, but none have been toppled. But they are less remote now, and they tend to share power."

Riegle was still naming names on abuses of power. He cited Sen: William Proxmire, D-Wisconsin, chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, who Riegle said had almost single-handedly killed the Chrysler Corp. aid bill through use of Senate staff and scheduling of witnesses.

WOULD IT HELP to limit the terms of senators to (say) two terms and of representatives to five or six?

I've thought a lot about that," said

"But it was the committee system which reinforced that (abuse of power by elderly chairmen). You had to stay in Congress to get seniority so you could head a committee.

A Canton superintendent? Well worth study

Should Canton have a township superintendent?
For a number of local people, the idea is certain-

Iy worth exploring.

The concept of creating a position for a township superintendent, whose duties would be similar in scope to those of a city manager, was the subject of a panel discussion held at Cyprus Gardens restaurant earlier in the week.

Like most proposals, hiring a township superintendent would come complete with drawbacks.

On the whole, however, the plan has considerable

Although the persons elected to serve on the township board and as administrators usually mean well, voters have no guarentee that any of these officials will be qualified or capable of managing the complexities of government.

There are no minimum qualifications for elected officials. Voters have to attempt to choose the best candidate from an often limited field.

The elected official system means that even persons who are good administrators may not remain long in office.

A hired superintendent, however, is trained in the administration of municipalities. He or she should have a working knowledge of government finance, employee contracts, legal constraints, budgets and public services.

A superintendent may not be able to escape politics entirely — it would be naive to think so.

Although a person in this position doesn't have to depend on the whims of the voters, he or she does have to answer to the elected officials.

City managers and township superintendents have been fired by elected boards for doing little more than expressing the wrong political attitude.

But essentially, a superintendent is more removed from the campaigning on a day-to-day basis than an elected counterpart. In a community such as Canton, which has a high turnover of elected officials, consistency should be welcomed.

Canton's board of trustees has been crying that the treasurer's department is understaffed. The township's finance director, Mike Gorman, is already overworked, yet continues to have new duties and responsibilities heaped on his shoulders. (In fact Gorman takes on many of the tasks that would normally be delegated to a superintendent.)

An efficient superintendent could help ease this burdens without removing authority from the elected board.

The board would still be in charge and continue to make the resolutions. The superintendent would help carry the directions out.

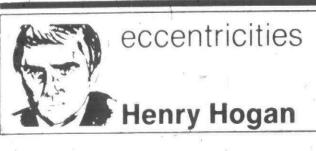

It does not seem a frightening concept, yet some township elected officials appear threatened by the proposal. Perhaps they feel threatened by the possibility their power will be usurped. Perhaps they don't want anyone — including an expert — telling them what should be done.

Perhaps they simply don't want to cough up the usually healthy salary of a superintendent.

Whatever the reason, controversy about the proposal exists. The panel discussion held last week, which was organized by former planning commissioner Bart Berg, was a good start to a potentially touchy issue.

The board should take the proposal to heart and seriously effort to consider hiring a superintendent.

The board members may find such a person will prove just as helpful to them as he or she can be in keeping the wheels of government turning smoothly.

A faster way to elect our chief exec

Every four years, the American people go through an exercise called "electing the president." It is a complicated and expensive process that is both wasteful and time-consuming.

The U.S. Constitution provides for the election of the chief executive by the Electoral College, not by the people.

The framers of the Constitution had no intention of putting this grave responsibility in the hands of an "uninformed" electorate. One delegate to the Constitutional Convention said an election by the people would be like referring a "trial of colours to a blind man."

THE ELECTORAL College was envisioned by the framers as a kind of elite gathering in which the most distinguished and talented persons in the various states would participate. These electors would deliberate and cast an informed and independent vote for the president.

Where originally the members of the Electoral College were selected by the state legislatures, to-day we have a hodge-podge system that can easily thwart the will of the people.

In Michigan, the Democrats select most of their delegates to the national convention at congressional district caucuses. A small number are also selected by the state party organization. These delegates then vote to nominate the party's presidential candidate.

The state convention delegates select the slate of electors for November under the name of the presidential candidate.

THE REPUBLICANS select their precinct delegates, who elect state convention delegates, who elect national convention delegates based on the results of the state primary election. There is some question whether such a primary will be held this year

These national convention delegates vote for a party nominee. Like the Democrats, the Republican state convention delegates pick a slate of electors to run for the Electoral College under the name of the party presidential nominee.

When people go to the polls in November, they are not voting for a presidential candidate but for the party's slate of electors.

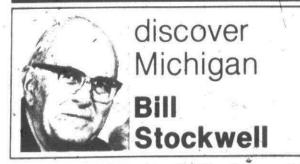

It is a winner-take-all situation. Whatever slate polls the highest number of votes gets to vote the state's entire number of votes for its presidential candidate.

Consequently, a person running for president may receive the majority of the popular vote in the nation and still fail to be elected president.

THE SIMPLER, CHEAPER system would be to have one national primary election, held on the same day throughout the country. This primary would select each party's nominee.

Then a general election would be held in November, and the people themselves would elect their president. The expense of many primaries would be eliminated, the election period would be shortened, the middlemen would be eliminated, and we would have true democracy in the country.

There have been many constitutional amendments floating around providing for this. Because it takes power away from party politicians, they never seem to get passed in Congress.

Did you know that when the Birmingham Public Library opened in December 1895, it shared quarters with not only the police and fire departments but also with a public hall, a gallery and a feed store? A strict rule, however, was that no space in this community building was ever to be rented out

Happy days are here again?

All the ingredients were there — balloons, badges, boisterous behavior and bombasity.

This past weekend, 16,000 Michigan residents gathered to call themselves Democrats for a day. Party faithful called it the party's presidential primary caucus.

In a state where voters pride themselves on being independent, it wasn't surprising that some 30,000 other registered Democrats stayed home.

After all, this is the state where voters cast half

After all, this is the state where voters cast ballots with equal ardor for a Republican governor and two Democratic U.S. senators.

But the caucus had all the earmarks of a typical

Democratic Party function. And in many respects, it was just that — a party.

Long-haired, jean-attired party members handed out a newspaper published by the Americans for Democratic Action which rated state politicians. It made for humorous reading among the less liberal, pipe-smoking, establishment members who spent endless hours waiting for something of significance to happen.

Nothing much did.

Oh, there was the usual gossip sessions. You know, celebrity X walked into the room and everyone craned their necks to see which candidate the celebrity was supporting.

THE SECRET ballot was just a memory. After registering, bleary-eyed voters were handed ballots on which they inserted their candidate's name. They than stood in either the Kennedy, Carter, LaRouche or none-of-the-above line.

Some guy inadvertently got into the wrong line. Upon turning down a campaign button for that candidate, he was unceramonibusly booed out of line.

Kennedy supporters wondered out loud how anyone could vote for a president who was unable to decide whether to negotiate with Iran or invade it.

Carter supporters just frowned.

While waiting for votes to be tabulated, caucus members were treated to a debate on whether the rules should be amended to include the copyright date of Robert's Rules of Order.

It was the highlight of the day.

The auditorium was regaled

The auditorium was regaled with helium-filled balloons, imprinted with the name of the local congressman. He was asked a few nebulous questions and gave a few equally nebulous answers.

After making a plea for unity, the congressman waved and the crowd cheered. He left early with almost everyone wondering how he had voted that day.

SO THE DAY drew to a close. Votes were tallied, delegates chosen by a tabulating method that even the party regulars didn't quite understand.

All in one stroke of a day it was boring, exciting, laughable and very political. But most importantly, it worked. By summer's end, we will have two presidential candidates — maybe three.

That's enough for anybody's political system.

Who cares what SC pays faculty?

Del Sipes, president of Schoolcraft College's Faculty Forum, wrote us a thoughtful letter the other day objecting to the way we reported administration and faculty salaries of more than $30,000.

"What purpose does publication of names serve?" he asked. "Is it truly any more informative to the public than a table of pertinent figures? Doesn't it simply satisfy the reader's curiosity to publish names?

"A name is a fact, but is it generally pertinent to the intent of salary publication?"

ACTUALLY, I WAS more than a little surprised that the Michigan Legislature passed a law making individuals' actual earnings public information.

The sponsor of SB 504 last year was none other than western Wayne County's Bill Faust, D-Westland, the Senate majority leader. A former newsman with a high regard for education, Faust wrote a bill that's a one-sentence amendment to the 1976 Freedom of Information Act.

It says colleges and school districts "shall upon request make available to the public the salary records of an employee or other official of the institution of higher education, school district, intermediate school district, or community college."

It sailed through the Legislature with little controversy, Faust's staff told me.

The arguments against it were pretty much what Sipes wrote.

The arguments for it, according to the staff anal-vsis, were these:

"Michigan's taxpayers have a right to know how public tax dollars are spent in the State's public schools, colleges and universities. Public access to salary records is an important part of this information, needed to ensure fiscal accountability in this labor-intensive area, and affirmative action prog-

"Review of salary information and appropriate comparisons of individual salaries helps ensure that merit increases are granted reasonably and equitably. Salary information is now available about other public employees, and there is no reason to provide an exemption for school personnel."

FAUST'S BILL was written in the wake of controversies at the University of Michigan, an institution which historically has considered itself a law unto itself, and Lake Superior State College.

It was supported by the American Association of University Professors and the State Board of Education

Opposed was the Michigan Association of School Administrators.

Personally, I was less than happy with the bill.

And reporting salaries smacked of vacuum cleaner journalism

What tipped the scales in favor of reporting the salaries, however, was the reaction of Schoolcraft staffers to the list of Oakland Community College salaries. They were absolutely fascinated by the data and the names.

Then the Detroit Free Press published top salaries at U-M, showing that Dick Headlee's pal, Prof. Paul McCracken, was at or near the top of the list.

Many persons professed surprise that Schoolcraft instructors made so much. Personally, I am glad to see scholars and inspiring teachers earn some big bucks.

One-sixth of the OCC faculty last year took home more than $40,000 apiece. I think some of School-craft's faculty deserves the same kind of money.

Planning improves trip photos

Spring is here, and this is the time when folks begin to plan their vacations.

Part of this planning should include preparation for your travel photography.

If you've purchased a new camera, make sure you are thoroughly familiar with all its controls and operations before leaving on your trip. Practice with your equipment. Make certain you can change lenses on a crowded bus or change film on a street

Travel light, if possible, but don't leave a piece of equipment home you might later have wished you had brought. In addition to your basic camera and normal lens, take along a wide angle and moderate telephoto lens (if you have them) or a zoom.

A small flash unit and collapsible tripod may prove invaluable. Make sure all batteries are fresh you may have a hard time locating them some places away from home.

If you're traveling abroad, it is wise to register your equipment with the Customs Office upon departure to avoid any problems when you return.

TAKE ENOUGH FILM to get you through the trip, usually about one roll per day.

Decide on whether you prefer slides or prints and then select a medium speed film that will enable you to cope with a wide variety of lighting conditions. But take along a couple of rolls of high speed film for those low light situations.

A note on airport X-ray devices: Don't believe the signs! X-ray exposures may definitely harm film. Be sure to use either a film shield bag, or, better vet, request a visual inspection of your film.

Here are some hints for better travel pictures:

· PLAN before you leave. Read up on the place you'll be visiting. Study the people, places and customs. Have some ideas beforehand of what you'll want to photograph.

· Don't pass up pictures on the way. Many photographic opportunities are missed by ignoring interesting things en route because it is felt better pictures are awaiting at the final destination. Taking photos along the way helps to make your trip

· Include people in your pictures. People at work or play are an integral part of any environment especially when engaged in legendary crafts and events. While the subject's permission should be asked before he or she is photographed, most people are proud of their skills and would not mind the minor intrusion.

· Avoid staged events. Real people and real places are better subjects than staged events for the tourists' benefit. "Real" photographs will also help people to understand a country or locale better.

· Look for the unusual. While you will certainly want to photograph well known attractions, always be on the look-out for the unusual or special view. An obscure street scene or other out of the way image should be part of the traveler's vision. Look for the unusual angle or perspective to enhance a familiar subject jor show it from a different point

Above all, become involved in your travel photography. Immerse yourself in the customs, work, play, and food of the places you go. Try to bring home the essence of the places you visit.

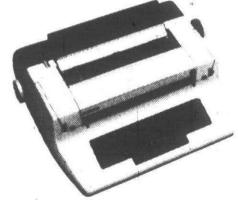

Be on the lookout for photographic opportunities and always keep your "traveler's vision" in high gear.

'You take the lumps as they come,' county's lawyer says

By TOM LONERGAN

In October 1974, an Inkster man died in Wayne County General Hospital after suffering a head injury at the Detroit Race Course in Livonia.

The County Board of Commissioners recently approved paying the man's wife and her attorney $350,000 in an out-of-court settlement of their medical malpractice suit filed against the county hospital in Westland.

A doctor there had failed to discover a subdural hematoma - a blood clot under the skull. The man died a day and a half after he had been released from the emergency room.

The case is only the forerunner of other expensive settlements the financially strapped county has yet to face. The most expensive suits involve. charges of medical malpractice at the hospital, two suicides in the Wayne County Jail, and other suits regarding conditions at the downtown jail.

"THIS $350,000 is a drop in the bucket to what you're facing," the county's chief lawyer, George Cross, told a county board committee recently.

"This is the tip of the iceberg. There's more coming.

Cross, a Livonia resident, said in a recent interview that the county faces "$100 million in outstanding liability" from unsettled cases which have been pending for several years.

He admits the unsettled suits are a potential "time bomb" for the county, which hasn't met its annual budgets since the mid-1970s

"The time bomb is there," said Cross, "except a chain reagtion will never go

Civil cases in Wayne County Circuit Court now take at least 31/2 years, if not longer, to come to trial.

LAST YEAR, which the county ended with an $18.6 million budget deficit, Cross estimates $1 million was paid to settlé claims.

The county Board of Auditors last week estimated the county could end the current fiscal year with a $19 million deficit. The auditors said the county faces a total $2.8 million in liability claims this year.

The county is self-insured and carries no medical malpractice coverage for the hospital

"You take the lumps as they come," said Cross. "No one else pays the bills except you. The county has to decide whether it's going to eat or pay the judgment when the judgment comes." Cross, who has been a lawyer fornearly 30 years, said there is a "panic situation developing" nationwide among local governments facing increasingly expensive lawsuits. "Every county wants to reduce liability or prewent it," said Cross, who is on the board of directors of the National Association of County Civil Attorneys.

"WE ARE much below the national average as far as payments are concerned," said Cross, but he added the county has yet to face what could be potentially huge settlements.

A nine-year-old police brutality suit filed against both the county and city of Detroit could cost the county $2.5 million if a mediation panel's award is up-off ... not the same day or same held in a trial or the case isn't settled, represented the immate's mother, Cockout of court.

Cross said the county initially won the case by citing the old doctrine government immunity, but the 1974 Wayne County Circuit Court decision was overturned last year by the Michigan Supreme Court. The high court ordered the case back to trial.

"(Government) immunity is a thing of the past," said Cross. The result: Lawsuits against governments today are quite common.

"There won't be an end to it until * there's an end to sue," said Cross.

He says settlement awards now determined by juries have been "excessive." When he started practicing law, Cross said $20,000 to $40,000 settlements in liability cases were considered "exorbitant."

"Now million-dollar verdicts are nickel and dime. They happen all the

A CLASS action lawsuit begun in the early 1970s on behalf of Wayne County Jail inmates is still costing the county "a lot of money," Cross said.

The Board of Commissioners recently approved paying the mother of a prisoner who died in June 1972, after being beaten and sexually assaulted by his cell inmates, $324,300 during the next eight years. The law firm that rel, Cooper, Spearman & King, of Detroit, will receive $150,000 by November of 1981.

The jail suit led to establishment of a three-judge circuit court panel to oversee conditions in the jail and maintain a set level of staffing by sheriff's depu-

Cross said there are 30 suits pending against the sheriff's department, most regarding the jail.

Suits against the hospital and jail cost the most money, but Cross said workers compensation and mental health cases provide the largest workload for his staff of 16 attorneys.

The county is required to represent the institution or person that seeks to commit a county resident to a state-run mental health hospital.

Cross says he has three attorneys handling 80 mental health cases each (petitions filed to commit a person average 150 a week) and two attorneys handling more than 900 workers compensation cases a year.

"When you have 450 cases," Cross said, "you can't try many. In effect, you're buying 'em out as cheap as you

"If we can take the $2,000, $3,000 and $4,000 cases and get rid of them a month after we get them, we would reduce the number of cases."

Stevenson eyes Observerland title

By DOUG FUNKE

Fourteen high school teams face the almost impossible task of dethroning defending champion Livonia Stevenson Saturday at the 10th annual Observerland Track and Field Relays.

The meet will get underway at 10 a.m. with the pole vault. The remaining field events will start at 11 a.m. The first of nine running events — the fourmile relay — is slated for 2 p.m.

Hilbert Junior High, which is at 26440 Puritan (west of Beech Daly between Five and Six Mile roads), is again the site.

Admission is $1 for students and $1.50 for adults. The tickets are good Stevenson last year placed first in five events while rolling up 37 points, the largest point-total by any team in the history of the relays.

Just about everyone is back this year for the Spartans. That leads John MacKenzie, the meet director, to believe that Stevenson will likely run away with the title again.

"I think for the first time, I can sit back and say my choice is going to be easy," said MacKenzie, who coached at Redford Union for many years. "I don't want to put the hex on anybody, but Stevenson has to be a heavy favorite."

The Spartans have not lost a dual meet since the 1978 season. Already this year they have won the prestigious Elks Relays.

"Just about every year the (Observerland) competition has come down to the last event or two," said MacKenzie. "But this year, I just see the teams slicing up one another and not going into Stevenson's strength too much.

In addition to Stevenson, the field

Canton, Salem vie

will consist of Livonia Bentley, Redford Bishop Borgess, Plymouth Canton, Detroit Catholic Central, Livonia Churchill, Farmington, Livonia Franklin and Farmington Harrison.

Also competing will be Southfield-Lathrup, North Farmington, Northville, Redford Union, Plymouth Salem and Redford Thurston.

MacKenzie said that he would not be surprised if the Spartans rolled up the largest margin of victory in the history of the meet with their large roster of talent spread across all events.

Tom Bills, second-year coach of the Spartans, is confident that his charges will repeat as champions. "I like our chances. If we don't win, it's because our kids laid down," said Bills.

MacKenzie speculated that the real close race of the afternoon will be for second place.

Plymouth Salem, North Farmington, Livonia Churchill, Redford Bishop Borgess and Detroit Catholic Central were all mentioned by MacKenzie as good prospects for the runner-up position in the team standings

"I saw Salem last week and I was really impressed. They are a well-balanced, strong team," said MacKenzie. "North Farmington has good talent on the team and Churchill, with the numbers and coaching, always will be com-

"Borgess will be good in the shot and CC has good distance runners," MacKenzie said, adding that he really doesn't know that much about either's person-

As for potential records to be broken, MacKenzie said that it all depends on the weather. Hilbert Junior High has one of the last cinder tracks in the area, so rain could make for mud and slower times.

"It all depends on who goes after them (the records)," MacKenzie added. "Coaches can either spread or concentrate their strength.

The records most likely to be shattered, according to MacKenzie, are: • The time of 2:28.0 in the sprint medley set in 1975 by Stevenson. The Spartans could break their own record this weekend.

• The time of 8:17 in the four-mile relay set in 1977 by Churchill. Catholic Central could break the record if it stacks the event with its quality distance people.

• The two-mile relay time of 8:07.8 set in 1972 by Salem. Stevenson's excellent crew of 880 runners have a good shot at setting a new mark.

· The long jump relay aggregate distance of 60-71/2 set in 1973 by Stevenson. Farmington High has three jumpers who have leaped better than 20 feet this spring.

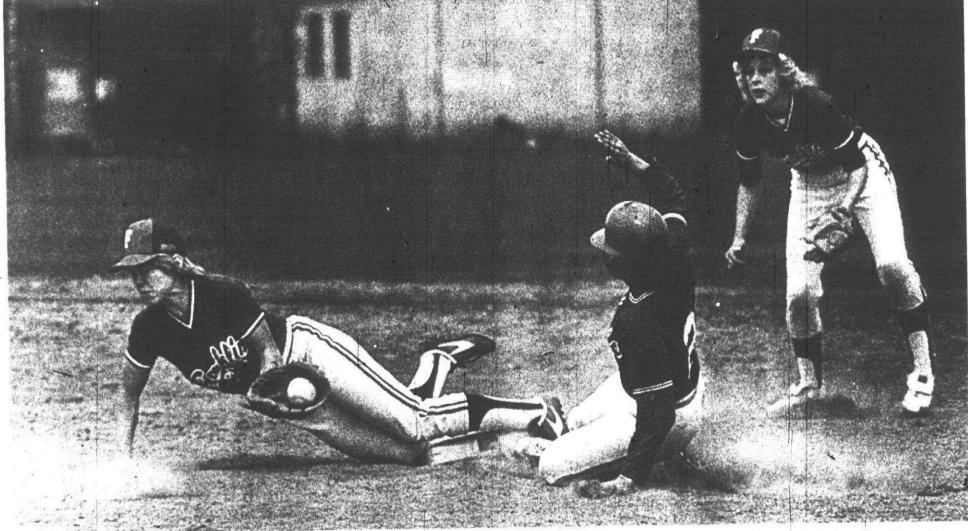

MacKenzie added that any of the distance records could be broken with good weather and a fast track.

Scoring is based on five points for first place, four for second, three for third, two for fourth and one for fifth in every event.

Three people from each team will ompete in the field events. Their best height or distance will be added together and then totalled for team scoring.

Four runners from each team will compete in the track events.

By SCOTT ADLER

It was a nightmare for coach Max Sommerville and the Plymouth Canton girls' softball team Saturday.

The Chiefs blew an eight-run final inning lead in the second game of a doubleheader against Livonia Franklin and lost their first game of the season, 13-12. The Chiefs won the opener despite another shakey seventh inning, 8-6.

"We blew it," said Sommerville. "It was a nightmare. You can't expect to win games with that many walks."

The Chiefs just couldn't get any Patriots out in the bottom half of the seventh inning. The Chiefs had built up a 12-4 advantage heading into the last half of the seventh when disaster struck. Marianne Pink came in to relieve Cindy Sovine with nobody out in the seventh. Pink was saddled with the loss after pitching to only six batters, all of whom reached base. She is now 3-1.

"We lost our concentration there at the end," Sommerville said as Franklin scored seven unearned runs in the final

The Chiefs collected only six hits in the second game with two each coming from the bats of Vicky Cavallaro and Pam Schipani. Franklin had five hits.

IN THE FIRST game, Canton almost folded in the last inning again, but held on to preserve the win. Pink was the winner and Sovine got credit for the. The Chiefs broke open a 1-1 tie in the sixth inning when they exploded for four ruhs thanks to some timely hitting and three walks. Canton also scored three more times in the top of the seventh to make it a seven run cushion, 8-

Franklin, 4-1 overall aided by six walks, came storming back to score five times to almost pick up the sweep.

"Our fielding wasn't bad, but our lack of concentration hurt us in both games," said Sommerville. "We've got a fine team. We just didn't play well." Sommerville was not very happy with the umpire and complained about his inconsistency behind the plate. "The ump was terrible," said Sommerville. "He was very inconsistant for both sides.

Cavallaro and Pink led Canton with two hits apiece in improving the Chiefs record to 4-1.

Thrill of Boston lures area runners

I've always marveled at persons who jog or run on a regular basis. And I really have to admire those brave few who participate in marathon

Recently I learned that three persons from Plymouth ran in the last Boston

David Stoller, 45, an engineer who has been a resident of Plymouth for only a year, competed in his third marathon. Dr. Fred Holappa and his wife, Karen, also finished the gruelling 26-mile, 285-yard event.

For Fred it was his fifth marathon. It was Karen's second.

Ironically, Holappa and Stoller finished just two seconds apart and do not not know each other. It was more than a mere coincidence that the two Plymouth runners finished right together in a field of 5,000.

"I've never met the man, but maybe we should start training together," said Stoller.

"I vaguely remember the name," said Holappa. "I don't believe we've ever met.

Both runners agreed that competing in the Boston Marathon is a tremen-

"It's like a 26-mile long family," said Stoller. "It's just a fantastic experience. I think the spirit and the tradition will live on forever.

The opportunity is well worth it for the participants and the spectators.

HOLAPPA echoed Stoller's senti-

"There's something magical about it," he said. "It's a tough route, and to compete, you have to pay your dues. There's something about the crowd." Stoller agreed that the thousands of spectators who line the course are just "a great group of people." "They line up three or four deep from start to finish," he said. "People give you water, ice and orange slices along the way.'

Stoller qualified for the race with a time of 3 hours 7 minutes in the Detroit Free Press Marathon last October. His time in the Boston Marathon was

"The terrain was very difficult," said Stoller, who competed in the Masters Class (40 and over). "Boston is very hilly. It's a unique course with a lot of downgrades. That puts a strain on your

"I'm still getting over the soreness. It'll take about a week.'

"I did a lot of swimming to loosen up my legs," said Holappa. "It's best to rest. The heat that day had an affect on the times. I've run outdoors all winter long. It was quite a change."

Holappa's wife did some light jogging the day after the race.

She trains at the Ann Arbor Track Club along with her husband. The Plymouth doctor averages about 70 miles a week in preparation for the race. Stoller, who trains on his own, averages about 12 miles per day.

STOLLER SAID it took him two minutes to reach the starting line. With 5,000 runners starting out, things can get pretty congested.

"The streets are very narrow," he said. "It takes several miles before you get some running room. Everyone is pretty orderly for that size of group."

The Plymouth engineer was urged on by his wife and relatives at the finish

"Those people were rooting me on," Stoller said. "They are staunch supporters. I could hear my wife when I was running down that long grade. She gave out a big war cry. It was the end of a long ordeal."

Holappa comes back to Boston every year not only to compete in the race, but also to attend a convention of the American Medical Joggers.

The Holappas and Stoller intend to return to Boston next year.

And did any of the three runners see Rosie Ruiz, the controversial winner of the women's title who was later disqualified?

"My kids climbed up a tree and saw all the winners," said Holappa. "They saw Rogers and all the great ones. The people I talked to said Ruiz just looked too fresh at the finish."

Primeau shutout earns Rock split

Plymouth Salem divided a twin bill Saturday with Royal Oak Kimball.

The Rocks were nipped in the first game, 6-5, but came back to win the nightcap, 6-0.

Senior lefty Jeff Primeau scattered seven hits in leading Salem to the shutout in the second game. He walked four and struck out six enroute to his first victory of the season.

"He seemed to always get out the jams," said Salem coach Brian Gilles, evaluating Primeau's performance. Jeff pitched pretty well. He got his curve over and walked only four."

A three-run homer by freshman catcher Dave Slavin was all Primeau c really needed to post the win. Jim Anderson led off with a walk and Mike Woodard reached base on an infield error to set up Slavin's shot.

"It was in right-center over the 355foot mark," recalled Gilles. "Dave hit the ball like a rocket." Salem added three insurance runs in Anderson led off with a single and made second on a stolen base. Woodard followed with a single and Pat McNamara walked to load the bases. Slavin got credit for an RBI with a ground out.

Outfielder Joe Garcia then hit a double to score McNamara and Woodard.

IN THE FIRST game, Salem jumped out to a 3-1 lead.

Brian Lewandowski, swinging a hot bat of late, led off with a single and Mitch Wilcox walked.

Anderson came up and knocked in both runners with a double. Woodard sent home Anderson with a single.

Scoring single runs in the first and second innings, Kimball closed the gap Kimball tallied four runs in the fifth

This is the time of year when the bowlers carry on one of the oldest traditions known to the sports world. It is the banquet season.

In the olden days, long before the coming of the tenpin palaces, bowling was part of the picnics, and the bowling balls were rolled down a single plank, while the food was served from picnic tables alongside the "lane.

One of the famous old pictures shows chickens eating the leavings on the approaches. (How the bowlers would holler if that was true of the approaches

This was the start of the feasts and bowling, and it has carried on through the years. In modern times the banquet also is awards night when the prize money is distributed - and to the bowler one of the biggest nights of the season.

THERE CAN BE little doubt it now Westland Bowl is the highest scoring house in the western suburbs.

During the past week there were four more 700 series posted, and that brought the total above 50 for the Little Caesar Classic alone.

Heading the parade in to the 700 club this time was a familiar name. It was John Hurley, who has taken time off from fishing, and he came through with a 718 on games of 247, 248 and 223 for 718. At that figure he had a one pin edge on Ken Kossick who linked games of 227, 235 and 255 for 717

Behind this pair came Pat Cochatt with 711, and Tom Wright who had a middle game of 246 for 709.

For Kossick it was a welcome 700 series for it was his fifth in as many weeks in the Classic.

On the ladies side, Kim Jones was high with a 257 in 685. Geri Beattie was right behind with 633, and Julie Zimmerman was next with a 605.1/1

THE 700 CLUB got another new member from an unexpected source during the past week.

Bowling in the Plaza men's league, Gerry Roberts, who carries a 163 average, overcame an ordinary start with games of 204 and 207 and found the range for a 289 finisher to post a 700.

rivals. His closest was Mike Schweizer with 618, while Al Jose had a 604 and Joe Bardee a 605.

JUDY WOERNER will have something to remember this season by, and she waited until almost the close to turn in her performance. Bowling in the St. Kenneth league at Plymputh Bowl, she had games of 235, 198 and 189 for 622. The 235 was high single for the season and the 622 was a new high for the league. Two records in one series made her pérformance one not to be forgotten.

mONE OF THE ODDITIES of the season was turned in this week at Woodland Lanes. Tom McDonald, bowling in the Grandale league, opened with a 278, far above his 164 average. Then he couldn't stand prosperity and closed with a 128 game and settled for 564.

The leading scorer of the week at Woodland was Hershel Begly who had a 689 in the men's trio group. Next game, Bob Sievert of the Bador's circuit, with a 688 and Tim Henry of the senior house loop with a 657.

BOB BARRON had an easy time of it in the St. Linus league at Garden Lanes. He rolled a 661 to far outdistance his rivals. Art Bazner and Stan Filipowski tied at 614 for the runner-up spot and Bob Harris had a 611 and Mike Resch a 604.1/1 PEG DIZEMBER walked off with top honors in the Livonia Ladies Classic. She won the first game with 210-29-239 and the series with 543-87-630. In the other games, Georgina Kirwan won the second with 207-38-245 and Diane Gadsby took the third with 199-19-228.

IN OTHER GOOD PERFORMANC-ES Tom Carey topped the Vinco League at Garden Lanes with 642, and Mary Gailbrith paced the Schoolcraft circuit at Merri-Bowl with a 225 in 612. Dave Hamilton was tops in the high school league at Farmington with a 614, 12 pins more than Berry Van Dike, and Jean Ludwig had a 234 game in in a 532 series in the Las Vegas loop at

"It was a real close match," said Canton Coach Jim Hayes. "We just didn't have enough.

The Chiefs got their two points from No. I singles player Bob Young, who outlasted Dave McDevitt, 3-6, 6-4, 6-2, and from Pete Lee and Mark Roberts, who downed Dave Hawthorne and Mark Miller, 6-4, 2-6, 6-1 at No. 2 dou-

At No. 2 singles, Canton's Kreg Kinnel suffered his first loss of the year against Dave Brady, 4-6, 6-2, 6-1. Bob Adams' was defeated by Harrison's Rick Kovan in a close duel at No. 4 singles, 6-3, 7-6.

At No. 3 singles, Kevin Johnston of Canton lost to Nancy Green, 6-3, 6-2.

In another three-set battle, Harrison's Mike Courey and John Iaconelli edged Steve Jones and Grant Crago at No. 3 doubles, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4. Jeff Garrity and Kurt Crocker of Canton were defeated at No. 1 doubles. They lost to Andre Berk and Narvenera Bhagah, 6-

CANTON-THURSTON

While the Canton varsity was playing at Harrison, the Chief reserves whipped Redford Thurston's varsity Monday at home, 5-2.

The win gives Canton a 4-2 overall

At No. 1 singles, Tom Pasley of Canton topped Daryl Haney, 6-4, 6-2. Teammate Mark Sawyer did likewise at No. 2 singles, edging Gary Schultz, 6-

John Hurley made it three out of four in singles with a 6-2, 6-4 victory over Joe Schneider at the No. 3 spot.

Brian Flynn and Bob Urdangara. Canton's No. 1 doubles team, won their match in three sets.

Golfers weather storm

Plymouth Salem remained hot in inclement weather this week with girls' golf wins over Dearborn Edsel Ford and Saline.

The Rocks made it 3-0 on the season Tuesday at Hilltop with a 203-214 win over Central Six League foe Saline. Freshman Lisa Marino was medalist with a 48. She was followed by teammates Nancy Stevens (50), Carol Ross (51) and Meg McGee (54).

Marino and McGee had nine-hole rounds of 47 and 49 respectively to lead Salem past Edsel Ford on Monday, 198-

Meanwhile, Plymouth Canton split a pair of matches.

The Chiefs lost to Dearborn on Monday, 218-233. Janis McGlone carded the best score for Canton with a 50.

On Tuesday at Hilltop, Canton defeated Willow Run. McGlone, a junior, fired a 49. She was backed by teammates Debbie Nurmi ($4), Cindy Sochacki (62) and Karen Mullen (62).

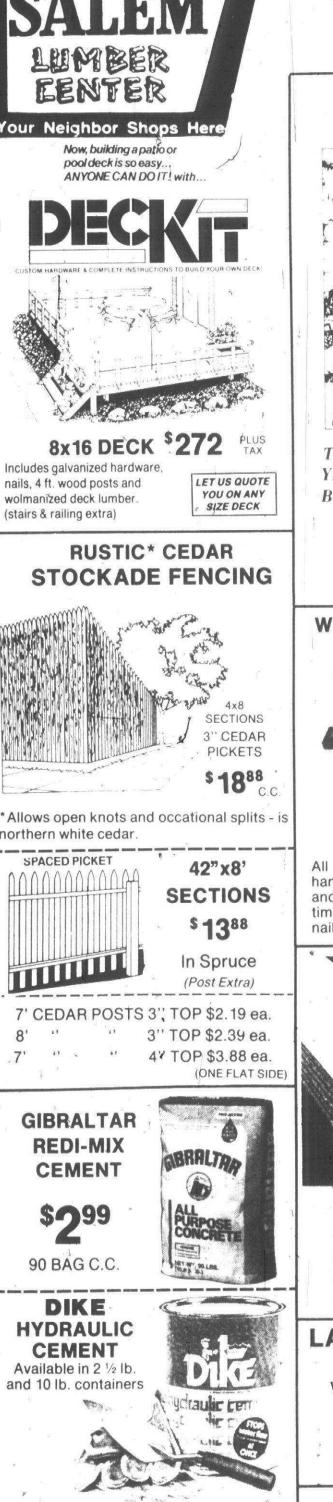

"We seemed to play better under adverse conditions," said Canton coach Ann Buie, whose team played Tuesday under a steady downpour.

BACK AT THE old stand after a week in Halifax that made southern Michigan look like the banana belt. The East Coast natives were prone to ask, "What are you doing in Halifax at this time of year?"

We did miss the tourist season, which meant everyone had time for conversation and suggestions about what to see and interesting side trips. Out at Peggy's Cove the Atlantic was crashing into the rocky shoreline with the spray slamming 50 or more feet in the air. It was beautiful.

And so were the meals: lobster, clams, shrimp, sole, scallops and oysters. A seafood lover could not ask for TONQUISH CREEK garden clubbers presented a check to Pat Thomas of the Dunning-Hough Library. Lynda Moore was in charge of the project which added five new books on gardening to the library shelves.

The Tonguish Creek branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association was formed three years ago. There are 30 members with Mary Yarlotte serving as president. Meetings are in the members' homes

A fashion show last October in Pioneer Middle School was the fund-raiser for the donation to the library. They also are planning a beautification project for later this spring.

PLYMOUTH HIGH School class of 1970 is feeling the economic pinch in planning its 10-year reunion. According to Lola King, "We haven't received enough replies from classmates to pay our bill - hall, entertainment, etc. Therefore, we are going to need help organizing a non-profit garage sale."

A Class Reunion Fund Raising Committee is being formed. The garage sale will be May 17.

"But we need help right away to set it up. The people to call for further information would be Lola King (myself), 728-7590, or Cheryl Cather, 455-4018."

The reunion will be at 7 p.m. Saturday, June 7 in the Plymouth Hilton Inn on Northville Road.

So, come on you PHS grads of 1970 and the parents of grads. Help make the garage sale a resounding success. Tom Williams, 455-8351, is chairing the reunion. Call him or Sharon Ramage, 427-2722, for reservations or information.

We've had out-of-town calls from classmates asking about the get-together and we always give them Tom's MARGE MITCHELL was in Lansing last Saturday conducting a workshop on how to handle children's exhibits in a museum. It was the first education day at the Michigan Historical Muse-

Marge was asked to explain her "Great-grandmother's Trunk" program that has been so successful at the Plymouth Historical Museum. Thousands of children have had the experience. They not only hear about the early days in their community, they see it, feel it, taste it and smell it.

Guest speaker for the session was Eliot Wigginton of the Foxfire books.

WHEN I CALLED to ask Hazel Gibson how to spell "Wigginton," Aiden Broderick answered the phone.

She and Hazel had gone to Detroit Monday to the meeting with the English architect who is designing the Globe Theater that, hopefully, will be built on Jefferson Avenue.

Plans for a Shakespearean theater in Detroit have been "in the works" for a long time. Aiden said the meeting was well-attended - a lot of community theater people were interested. THE PLYMOUTH Chamber of Commerce has a new luncheon format which should attract a large turnout of local business people

Each meeting will feature a "Local Focal," a brief description of a local business or industry.

At the April luncheon in the Jacob Room of Hillside Inn, Bill Liddicoat told about Sun Shields Inc. on Joy Road. The company manufactures one million units a year. These are sun shields which adapt to the visor on an automobile. They are distributed nationally through department stores, drug chains and mail order.

An injection molding process is used in the manufacture, which began about five years ago in the basement of a home. Jerry Farrell acquired the company about three years ago and moved Johan van der Merwe is conductor Johan van der Merwe was named conductor of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra at the annual dinner meeting of the Plymouth Symphony Society Monday night.

The announcement that a decision had been reached followed months of deliberation by the Plymouth Symphony Board of Directors and consultation with the members of the orchestra. Wayne Dunlap, conductor of the symphony for 28 years, announced his retirement last May and once the word was out applications for the position were directed to the symphony board.

The 1979-80 season was completed with a series of guest conductors and van der Merwe conducted the March concert. He is on the faculty of the School of Music at the University of Michigan and is associate professor of voice at the University of Toledo.

His background is international. THE NEW MAESTRO of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra was born in Pretoria, South Africa. He obtained his bachelor's of music degree at the University of Cape Town.

He studied at the Royal Academy of Music in London, England on an Associated Board Scholarship and was awarded the Ernest Read Conductor's prize in 1960. He continued his studies in Germany, Italy and America.

His academic teaching career started while he was still in Germany at the Hochschule fur Musik in Cologne. As associate professor and dean of applied music at the University of Pretoria, he was guest conductor of the Johannesburg Symphony Orchestra and the National Radio Symphony Orchestra and the Orchestra of the Arts Council in the Transvaal.

In 1961 he was appointed conductor and chorus master at the South African Broadcasting Corporation in Johannesburg. During this time he conducted many concerts, both public and studio recordings with the SABC Symphony Orchestra. Numerous concert tours throughout South Africa followed and he conducted several first performances of South African composers' works.

IN 1960 HE founded the 100-voice Radio Choir which appeared with great success in symphony and choral concerts, also with Stravinsky when he visited South Africa in 1962.

His activities in Europe have included contracts as coach at the Hamburg State Opera, coach and conductor at the opera in Holland, and the operas in Saarbrucken abd Wuppertal in Germa-

He was first prize winner in the 1966 International Liverpool Conductors' Competition. As a result, he appeared as guest conductor in Liverpool, Germany, Holland and South Africa.

This summer, he will be director of the U-M orchestra and the opera production at the National Music Camp at made recordings for radio. They have

Museum has bridal gowns from 1850-1960

Although weddings have been with us for centuries, styles of wedding gowns have changed from year to year, in keeping with times and fashions. This is evident from a display, "Brides of Yesteryear," now at the Plymouth Historical Museum. The museum is open every Thursday, Saturday and Sunday, from 1 to 4 p.m. There is an admission charge of $1 for adults. The exhibit spans the years from the 1850s to the 1960s.

In the 1850s, when Plymouth and Michigan, were still largely rural and frontier, practicality was the keynote. One 1856 dress is a subdued gray, decorated for the occasion with a crisp little apron, shawl and cap, all handembroidered.

TWO OTHERS are from the same pattern. Both are in plaids with little lace collars. One is green; the other, brown. Plaids were popular at this time because of the influence of the Queen Victoria and her love of vacationing in

Up until the 4890s, wedding gowns were designed to be "best dresses" after the wedding. Although the materials were rich, of satin and velvet, the colors were dark and serviceable, such as the plum-colored model on display at the museum.

Two dresses, from the turn of the century, were worn for graduation ceremonies as well as weddings, according to museum records.

It was not until the late 1890s, that the brides chose white or ecru dresses, obviously intended to be worn only at weddings, although there were still exceptions. One is the 1910 Edwardian model that would have been chic for any occasion.

IN THE 1920s, there is also a notable exception to the gown we have come to consider traditional for weddings. This is the bright pink, kneelength, dropped-waist style of the flapper bride. She looks as if she's all set to Charleston down the aisle, twirling her knee-length pearls as she goes.

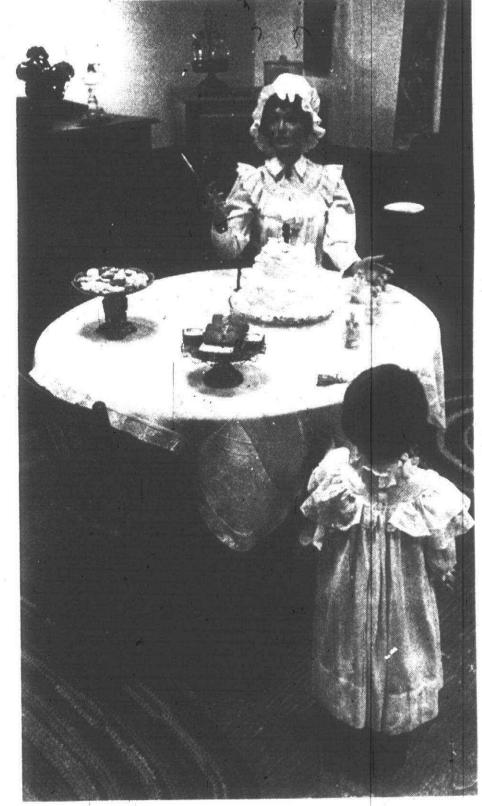

The wedding gown of the 1960s is of white satin, with a long veil and flowing train.

In addition to the gowns, exhibits chairman Rita Maly has set up a display of wedding gifts in the museum's Victorian rooms.

Such things as a pearl-handled fish set, napkin holders, a blue bride's basket, egg holders, a cruet set, and carefully-embroidered linens were things no bride could be without.

There is also a "Good Housekeeping Book of Menus, Recipes and Household Discoveries" from the 1920s, along with a flatiron.

In the kitchen, a woman, beautifully dressed in white, complete with a ruffled mob cap, is carefully putting the finishing touches on a two-tiered wedding cake.

The wedding cake is in the process of being decorated in the Victorian kitchen.

Stellars enjoy 'autumn' visit to Australia

Is our on-again off-again spring weather getting to you? I'm so ready for spring and summer I can hardly stand it. My husband says I can't claim cabin fever though, since he says I'm rarely in the "cabin."

Next, he wondered exactly where I go "all the time" to run up the gas bills I do. I think he was more than slightly disappointed to find out his "globe trotting" wife can run up these bills by never leaving the Plymouth-Canton

But while I may seldom leave Canton, other Cantonites have done some traveling, and it has been great hearing about their trips.

BETTY STELLAR and her 2-yearold son Matthew returned recently. from three weeks in Australia. Betty is originally from Melbourne, Australia and said the trip was to visit relatives.

She said she hadn't realized quite how popular Australia is to vacationers during March and April. This is a time when there are traditionally many festivals throughout the country. It is also the end of summer and the beginning of fall. Temperatures during her stay were in the 80s - high 90s.

When Mrs. Stellar began to try to book her airline reservations, Australia's popularity became very apparent to her. She needed to make her reservations eight months in advance! So if you like to do things on the spur-of-themoment, don't try to go to Australia in March!

Getting from Detroit to Melbourne normally takes 30 hours by air. However, Air New Zealand doesn't have its usual amount of planes in service now, so the Stellar's trip took 48 hours, nonstop traveling. The planes did stop - in Los Angeles, Tahiti, New Zealand, and finally Australia.

BETTY SAID Melbourne is on the ocean, but only about a 20-minute drive to the mountains. It's the busy capital city of the state of Victoria.

Being a scuba diver, and having heard tales that curled my fins about sharks around Australia, I had to ask about water sports. Betty replied that fortunately, Melbourne does not have the shark problems that Sidney has. She said the water temperature is very pleasant, and ocean swimming and scuba diving are extremely popular around Melbourne.

While visiting with seldom seen relatives was a most enjoyable pastime that occupied most of their visit, Betty also had several very pleasant surprises. Twelve years ago she had worked for Avis in Australia, and her co-workers held a surprise reunion party for her. She said it was absolutely fantastic, and since they had much catching up to do, the party began at 5 p.m. and didn't break up till 4 a.m.

Also during her stay, the elementary school she had attended, and the girls school she went to for high school both had reunions to celebrate their 50th and 75th years. It was just a stroke of luck that they were held during her visit, and she was able to enjoy both reun-

The Stellars are now settling back into life in Canton and hoping that eventually summer will arrive here

Scouts plan recognitions

Girl Scouts of the Plymouth-Northville-Canton Area Association will hold their annual Recognition Night from 7 to 9:30, Wednesday, May 7, in West Middle School, Ann Arbor Trail and Sheldon Road.

Recognition will be given to adults who have assisted the scouts as well as to out-going seniors and new First Class Scouts.

Among the out-going seniors are Katie Brink, Leanne Wheeler, Janet Roberts, Cindy Paul, Linda Skruggs and Rosemary McGettigan.

First Class Scouts are Lisa Kiel. Amy Knickerbocker, Susan Morse, Karen Mosti, Melinda Paul, Chris Ringes and Laurie Taylor.

Marilyn Berar of Wider-Op will be the guest speaker.

Refreshments will be served from 7

There will a business meeting and uniform exchange sale.

SUE AND LARRY Hoffman just returned from a week's vacation in sunny Bermuda. They had a totally enjoyable trip. They were very impressed with the tremendous food served everywhere. It was also expected that one dress up for dinner in all the restau-

Bus service on the island was excellent with the fare from one end of the island to the other only 80 cents. The speed limit was 35 kilometers per hour (roughly 20 mph). Gasoline prices are on everyone's minds these days, so cheer up, I guess. Sue said gas was $2.60 a gallon.

Mopeds were a popular means of umented. transporatation which most tourists seemed to give a try. The Hoffmans were just about to give it a whirl when they saw a man with both his right arm and right leg broken - the victim of a moped accident. It was then Sue and Larry decided to just "ped" without the "mo."

Visiting old forts and pubs in the afternoons provided a nice respite from their everyday lives. They also enjoyed the history provided by several of the cemeteries. The headstones included the cause of death so yellow fever epidemics, sea disasters, etc. could be doc-

One of the native culinary delights they enjoyed was Black Pirate Bean Soup. Sue said it was thick like a gravy, but Larry insisted it looked more like used motor oil. While their descriptions varied considerably, both agreed it was delicious

"Bedwetting is Serious and Harmful . . .

If you have a bedwetter in your home, I strongly urge you to take steps at once to end it. The correction of bedwetting is an important mental health aid. It is very harmful to the child, distressing to the parents and can lead to very serious complications later on in life. Joseph G. Molner, M.D., Master Public Health

BED WETTING IS CORRECTABLE

Many procedures such as restricting liquids, taking a child to the bathroom on a schedule, scolding, etc. do not end bedwetting. It can be stopped as early as 3 years of age. It should definitely be stopped before school age.

The most serious mistake parents make is to wait for the child to outgrow bedwetting, because there are millions of adults who never outgrow it.

SJMH honors its volunteers

Members of the Hazel Larson Guild were among the volunteer workers honored April 24 by St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Ann Arbor. The Volunteer Awards Banquet was served by hospital administrators and supervisors.

Volunteers were greeted by Poage Baxter, director of volunteers. Following the dinner, she presented the awards.

Marge Fisher, Joyce Foust, Gae McCord, Gloria Nimmo and Pam Schultz were guild members cited for up to 100 hours of service.

Phyllis Kordick, Betty Laird, Helen Merrill, Wanda Miller, Ann Taylor and Joan Wehmeyer received 100-hour

VIRGINIA BYRD, Isabel Gerlach and Joan Kindree were awarded 200hour pins. Virginia Breneman, Carolyn Jacobs, Nancy Kauffman and Elise Murphy received 200-hour guards.

The Hazel Larson Guild was formed in June 1978 when 12 Plymouth women were allowed to work in the admitting section of the hospital on a probationary basis. They went through hospital orientation and a special training ses-

After one month, they were given the go ahead. The guild became a reality on a full-time basis. It was the first and only guild in the hospital.

Now the pale blue volunteer jackets with the guild patch are familiar in many areas of the hospital. The guild was a memorial to their friend, Hazel Larson, who died of cancer after a long stay in St. Joseph's.

Plymouth and Canton residents who can devote a few hours a week to the hospital are welcome additions to the guild. Persons wishing more information can call Gae McCord, 453-1559, or Carolyn Jacobs, 453-2458

It's not a bird or a plane. It's a blimp

From time to time, this column will highlight products that in some way assist adults in their parenting role, assist youngsters in their childhood role, or help parents and children to have fun together.

Two sights follow the onset of spring as surly as B follows A in the alphabet. The first is the sight of a child running valiantly down a hillside, a ball of string in one hand, while the other hand gingerly grasps a diamond-shaped bit of cloth or paper at the end of an outstretched arm. The second sight is that same child, still clutching that bit of material, sitting forlornly on the curb - no wind.

An Italian company has come out with the answer to a kite flyers nemesis. Called UFO Solar, it is a nonkite requiring no wind at all. This airship regards wind as a rival.

Actually a non-rigid dirigible, or blimp, this airship resembles a very lightweight, large, black, garbage bag. When closed at one end, it can be inflated by holding it open and running. Once the blimp is filled with air, tie off the other end, attach the accompanying cable, stand it in the sunlight, and wait.

AFTER A FEW MOMENTS, the airship will begin to rise. Simply let out the cable as the ship goes up. Keep careful hold of the cable, for the company warns that the blimp is capable of "reaching extraordinary altitudes ly repaired with transparent tape. (30,000 feet)." However, only a 60-foot cord is enclosed. After testing this product on a less than favorable day, we discovered that it truly is intended for use on windless days. The cable grip is too flimsy to be trusted on gusty days. Also, the airship is so light, wind causes it to whip about. However, the children had such a good time trying to stay out of it's way.

Unlike kites that are usually ruined when torn, the non-kite was fun. We discovered that this airship can be easi-

Properly used, this blimp should provide a lot of fun, with the added benefit of changing the perception of what a kite is, and what the proper conditions are for it's use. BY THE WAY, the blimp works on

Dreaming of death? Change is coming

Dear Gundella: What does it mean to dream of death?

Lois W., Bloomfield Hills

Dear Lois,

This dream could have many different meanings, and to really interpret it correctly, I would have to know more of the details.

However, death is usually the symbol of the ending of one condition and the beginning of another. For instance, a mother dreamed of the death of her daughter when the daughter was graduating from high school, and about to leave home for the first time. Another person dreamed of a death at the time that he was changing

Neither of these were omens of tragedy, but only symbols of

Dear Gundella: I dream of being with my mother, who is dead. Does this mean I am about to die?

Robert R., Livonia

It is not unusual or strange for a person who once was a very important part of your life, but who is now dead, to appear in your

It would be helpful to know the events of the dream: what was taking place, or what was being said. The dead person is usually a symbol, not of death, but of what that person stood for in your life while they were living. Do these dreams take place at a time when you, in your waking hours, are living or behaving in a way that would cause your mother to strongly approve or disapprove? There is also another possibility. Sometimes we wake up knowing that we have dreamed about a loved one who is no longer with us, but we can't remember anything else about the dream. In these cases, the dreamer may actually be communicating with the spirit of that loved one while sleeping. This is not a true dream, but a real happening.

The Department of Natural Re-

Lakes which show water quality problems might then be eligible for a limited assistance program involving the participation of lake residents and associations in determining the reasons for their lake problems, including technical advice o to them on how to correct the problems. Programs are also available to help rehabilitate lakes consumer mailbag

Asthma center asks marchers

Volunteers are needed for the seventh annual March for Breath, the door-to-door fund-raising campaign for the National Asthma Center May 1-31.

More than nine million Americans suffer from asthma and half of them are children. For many of these children, the National Asthma Center has been the last hope in a lifetime wracked with asthma.

Children 4-16 are accepted for residential treatment solely on the basis of medical need, without regard to race, religion, nationality, or ability to pay. Wherever the child lives, the doors of the center are open.

Those interested in helping with the drive or in knowing more about the center, may call the organization's area office, 382-2800.

Child care firms tour Canton High

A number of representatives from child care businesses in the Plymouth-Canton community recently attended an open house at Canton Corner, the child care vocational program of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

The open house was sponsored by the skills for living teachers at the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park (CEP), including Sue Visser, child care instructor, Lois Santer, nursery school instructor, Carey Schwartz, Judy McKay and Jan Williams.

The purpose of the open house was to generate support and enthusiasm for a cooperative training program between the child care program at the CEP and the local child care firms.

About 50 high school students are enrolled in the child care program at Canton Corner which is used by about 80 preschoolers. The program is so popular, says Ms. Visser, that it already is filled up for the fall of 1980. The center has been operated at the CEP for about 61/2 years now.

"Our primary goal is to provide inaterested students the training to gain employment in the child care occupations," explains Harold Gaertner, director of career and vocational education for the school district.

"Our laboratory centered curriculum has grown over the years and has invoked a great deal of interest on the part of the students. Our concern at this point is how to improve the work experience portion of the program for our students.'

Gaertner explained that the open house was held to acquaint local business persons who operate child care businesses with the child care and cooperative training programs at the high schools.

The child care center also is used by the child development, health, psychology, and sociology classes for observational purposes to study behavior and development sequences.

Students enrolled in child care classes receive two credits toward high school graduation.

Among those attending the open house were: Connie Flynn of Canton Crickets; Dottie Wright of Story Book Gardens We Care; Wilma Arnold of the PLUS program; Pat Patton, skills for living coordinator from the CEP; Cris Johnston, teacher of pre-vocational classes; Carole Schwall, a vocational counselor/coordinator; Dorothy Sincock, vocational technician, distributive education; Larry Masteller of Kiddie Campus and Continuing Education; Keith Baughman, cooperative coordinator, business and industry; and

"Do I have to take the pill when I'm 14 so I won't get pregnant?"

Quietly engaging her in further discussion, I discovered Evelyn had read a newspaper article dealing with the subject of teen-age pregnancy. To this 10-year-old, "getting pregnant" was something like getting the mumps or measles.

ONLY A FEW years before this scenario, Evelyn had caused me to sit immobile with fear as all eyes turned in her direction.

"Let's play having a baby!" my darling suggested

I wished the chair had a trap door and would swallow me into the floor. Just as I was about to grab my daughter, I realized they were only practicing natural childbirth exercises for breathing.

They stared at their belly buttons with fascination, as did everyone else in the waiting room.

AS A 10-YEAR-OLD, Evelyn always seemed to assume sex education was her responsibility.

Visiting the State Fair that year, I temporarily "lost" three children. Then I heard a familiar small voice leading what sounded like a lecture tour.

"Look at that big pig," Evelyn instructed her younger brothers.

The boys moved forward for a closer view of a fat sow, lying on her side, grunting away while surrounded by squealing, nursing piglets.

A fair-sized crowd of people also became interested. Evelyn threw in the clincher: "I want you to see how Mamma fed you boys when you were ba-

OUR SECOND daughter Shoshana continued Evelyn's tradition. Shoshi was 6 when she seized a supermarket expedition as the ideal time to tutor her younger brother about sexual identity

The new baby slept soundly in a cloth baby carrier strapped to my chest. Side by side, the two children helped me maneuver the shopping cart between busy shoppers.

Before I could gag Shoshi she answered, "If he sits on the side with Mamma and the ladies, he's a girl. If he sits on the side with Daddy and the men, he's a boy.

It wouldn't faze me if the school sent home a note announcing sex education classes. My kids would probably be teaching the course.

Pipe-dream Purol 'burning' for record

You're probably wondering what ever happened to Jim Purol.

Funny you should ask.

He's the guy from Livonia who has at various times set records for stuffing his mouth with cigars and cigarettes. Last fall, he crawled on hands and knees from Livonia to downtown Detroit.

Now, just when we're all primed for a bit of nonsense to escape from world news, Purol comes to the

At 9 TONIGHT, he's going to try setting a record for the most number of pipes smoked at once.

"The hardest part was finding all the pipes," he says. "Then you have to figure out how to get 'em in your mouth.

Actually, setting the record won't be too hard, primarily since there appears to be no record for such a feat. And rather than go it alone, he's going against Mike Papa, his partner in Mouth, a music group that performs in Garden City.

"We're gonna be setting the record," Purol boasts. "Nobody's ever attempted it."

PUROL FIGURES on stuffing in 34 various pipes - all standard size tobacco-style models. He'll be using a mild blend of tobaccos, which he'll light with propane torches.

The whole stunt tonight is a benefit for Reye's syndrome, an often-fatal childhood ailment which has no known cause. The show is at Harpo's Lounge at Harper and Chalmers on the east side. (To get there, take the Ford freeway to the Chalmers exit.)

Admission is $3, with all of it going to Reye's research. Entertainment, the normal kind, will be by a group called Sweet Crystal.

PUROL'S SMOKE-IN is going to be filmed by a crew from NBC-TV's "Real People" show, to immortalize it for the world.

You might think Purol is tiring of such strange antics. He admits this one's a bit odd.

"But for national television, why not?" he asks.

Baron's masters stun the mind

By ERIC PETERS

Baron Thyssen-Bornemisza, the man who possesses the world's greatest private collection of old masters, excepting the Royal Collection of the Queen of England, has sent 57 select works on their first American tour.

The show, which began at the National Gallery of Washington, D.C., is on display at the Detroit Institute of Arts. It will make a two-year, nine-city circuit, ending at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York.

A partial listing of the artists represented reads like an index for the history of art - Titian, Rubens, Rembrandt, Duccio, Goya, Watteau, El Greco, Fragonard, Eyck, Steen, and Tintoretto.

Yet these samples are from a huge accumulation of art treasures including 340 masterworks housed in a museum wing of the Baron Thyssen-Bornemisza's 17th Century Tuscany Patrician villa on Lake Lugano, Switzerland. Given the fact that these are all possessions of a single man can't but induce a feeling of sheer amazement.

OBJECTS D'ART ARE not the only property of the Baron. His international holdings in business, finance, industry and commerce run into many hundreds of millions of dollars.

Grandfather August Thyssen, who began the empire with iron and steel works, came to be known as the German Andrew Carnegie. His son, Hans Heinrich, assumed the title first when he married the lovely, but poor daughter of a Hungarian aristocrat and an American beauty.

Forced to flee his newly adopted homeland during the Hungarian revolution, the man of property settled in Holland where he began acquiring art. His son, the present Baron, was born there in 1921, a place which continues to hold such affection for him that he refuses to bid against Dutch museums at public auction.

In 1933, the family was moved to Villa Favorita,

The Thyssen masterpieces continue through May 11 at the Detroit Institute of Arts. Admission is $2.50 ($1,50 for students and senior citizens)

Public tours are given at 1 p.m. daily. They are free, beyond the fee to the exhibit. Taped tours with the voices of museum director Frederick Cummings, Baron Thyssen-Bornemisza and museum European art curator Dewey Mosby can be rented at the exhibit admission desk.

The institute is open 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday.

Castagnola, Switzerland. At his death in 1947, the items in the collection were divided among his four children, but the second Baron decided that, as a memorial to his father, he would repurchase as many of the originals as possible.

THE REUNITED WORKS now account for twothirds of the total art collection. Soon he was adding to it himself - filling gaps, starting new periods including Impressionist and modern paintings (not represented here) as well as most of the Italian, French and Spanish works in the show. The Baron has also been very active in the preservation of art and is known for his generous donations to Florence after the terrible flood.

Paintings are displayed in four rooms chronologically from early 14th to early 19th Century, and include German, Flemish, Italian, Dutch, Spanish and French master painters. The earliest is a rare 1310 Duccio and the last, an 1820 Gova.

Spanning them is an enchanted stroll through a tiny, rich museum all on its own Some of the works are so wonderfully sumptuous that one returns to them again and again, tearing away only with the greatest reluctance. Two outstanding aids to view-

Limo driver for rock stars loves his work

By NICK CHARLES

At 66, Edgar "Robbie" Robbins is one of the oldest rock and rollers in De-

Robbins doesn't sing or play an instrument, but he knows more fock stars than most people in Michigan.

Just about every rock group that plays around the Detroit area is driven by him.

Robbins works for the Michigan Limousine Service and is constantly requested by many rock groups.

"I've been driving these cars for 10 years now" says Robbins.

Before he started driving limousines Robbins sold insurance with his father and his son on the east side of Detroit.

"My favorite band is J. Geils," he says. "Especially Peter Wolf. When Peter gets into my car do you know what he listens to on the radio? Black church services with ministers raving on. He gets ideas and songs from that.

ROBBINS SAYS being around young people in the music buisness keeps his life interesting.

"I get into the senior citizens groups every once in a while and I sit and listen. All I could hear was little old women talking about their husband's problems. Who wants to listen to that stuff? "The older people don't understand it, but these guys are educated men. They're not a bunch of flakes off the street. They've gone to school and studied music, and they ended up with rock. Well, that's where the bread and butter is. They're in it to make money. That's the name of the game."

"I picked up Kiss in Lansing once. They are the friendliest guys you would ever want to meet.

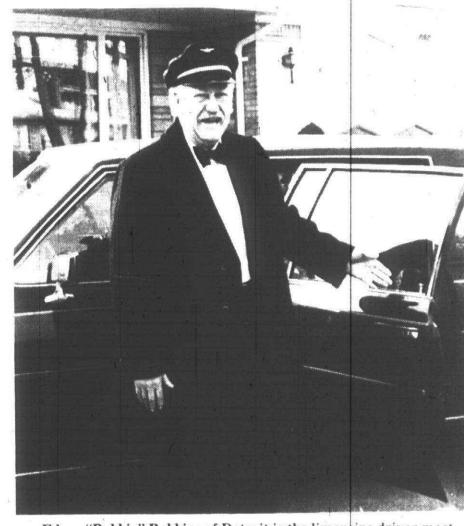

"Like Gene Simmons. You would never expect this guy to be as lovable and friendly, he's a real peach. You see them in their Kiss attire as wild men but they are really quiet, down-to-earth.\ people.'

ROBBINS DRIVES groups to theaters and arenas throughout Michigan.

'We like to drive out to Pine Knob because we get away from all those darn buildings," he says.

"Last season was just great. It ended with Bette Midler. She is really a loving and friendly person. She told me she loved Pine Knob and she is looking forward to returning.

"If I were to pass away today and there was such a thing as reincarnation, I would want to come back and do the exact same thing that I'm doing now. I love it."

Edgar "Robbie" Robbins of Detroit is the limousine driver most requested by rock groups visiting the Detroit area.

Musical

Jennifer Roberts and Marc Ciokajlo star in "Pippin," the Tony Award-winning musical about the son of the emperor Charlamagne at the Bonstelle Theater on Woodward in Detroit through Sunday. But for sheer popularity, there's no place in the metropolitan area like Kent Lake with its abundant crappies and growing supply of northern pike.

How to fish Kent Lake will be the chief topic when the Four Seasons Family Fishing Club holds its next meeting at 7:30 p.m. May 7. Karl Schipper of Livonia will discuss ing the exhibit are the acousti guide and the fully illustrated catalog written by Allen Rosenbaum.

UPON ENTERING THE GALLERY, the eyes are at once arrested by Hans Memling's "Portrait of a Young Man," 1490. It was chosen for the catalog cover. The small, compact picture sums up the corporeal and spiritual attitude of an age of courtly manners. The handsome, meticulously groomed, worshipful young man appears both manly and gentle, intent yet calm, the worldly wise in pious supplication to a devine spirit. His hands come lightly together in prayer with barely touching fingertips. The beautifully detailed clothing, a manicured garden just beyond a marble column indicated a very stylish, comfortable life of wealth and ease. The open, pensive face, framed by a billowy dark mane of hair, is lighted by a source away from the window, probably a missing panel of the Virgin Mary.

On the reverse of the panel is one of the earliest known still life renderings. It is a vase of flowers having symbolic religious meaning, indicating that the panel was probably part of an altarpiece or a matrimonial triptych. The white lilly is to signify the purity of the Virgin Mary. The pruple iris indicated her royalty as Queen of Heaven, the blue columbine represents the Holy Ghost.

BRUGES' GREAT renaissance artist Jan van Eyck painted the marvelous diptych of the Annunciation, 1436, in the experimental grisaille of transparent grey oils. The shallow black marble nitches even appear to reflect the backs of the figures, an optical illusion of surprising realism.

"Christ and the Woman of Samaria" was one of the panels in an altarpiece complex of the Cathedral of Sienna, Italy. At the time of its creation, it was the largest of such undertakings, comprising more than 90 pictures from the studio of Duccio Bonisegna.

Because it was the first picture that the present Baron very much admired, it might be credited with launching his own collection. He considers it one of the prizes of the entire collection as well as one of the great works of art history.

The most imposing, majestic and magically intriguing work in the exhibit is Vittore Carpaccio's "YoungeKnight in a Landscape," from 1510. It is the earliest life sized, full-length portrait painted in Italy. But it is more than an historical innovation, it is laden with a profusion of interesting details and symbols which identify the subject by name and title as Francesco Maria della Rovere, Duke of Ur-

THE LATIN MOTTO, "DIE painfully rather than be sullied," refers to the order of knighthood to which the yound Duke's grandfather was a founding member. The gold and black checkered heraldry on the knight's shoes and scabbard which match the livery of his squire are the Duke of Urbino's colors.

The oak trees refer to the family name, Rovere, which means oak in Italian. His birthday on the Feast of the Annunciation and middle name Maria are indicated by the iris and lily as the flowers of the Virgin Mary, for whom he is named.

Time and motion seem to have been halted in this surrealistic landscape which surrounds the knight with a golden atmosphere of even light undisturbed by natural elements.

Groucho and Chico vs. the law

. a look at second-run films in the Detroit area

"A Night at the Opera," 8 p.m. Friday at the Michigan Theater, 603 E. Liberty at State in Ann Arbor, phone 668-8480, $3.

Groucho Marx worte in his autobiography, "The word genius was tossed around the film industry with all the careless abandon of a cooch dancer wiggling her muscles at a carnival side show. I presume there were a number of them out there . but I met only one. His name was Irving Thalberg. He also wrote of the Marx Brothers, "During our years in the movies we made 14 pictures. Two were far above average. Some of the others were pretty good. Some were deplorable. The best two were made by Thalberg. Those two were "A Night at the Opera" (1935) and "A Day at the Races" (1936). High praise, indeed, that Groucho would credit a producer for the brothers' greatest successes. "Made by Thalberg." Irving Thalberg died in 1936 at the age of 37. Largely because of him, the Marx Brothers will live on forever.

 (Incidentally, F. Scott Fitzgerald's novel "The Last Tycoon" is about Thalberg, and a recent Robert De Niro film of that book and with the same title is certainly worth seeing.)

So what did Thalberg do for the Marxes? Thalberg reunited them with two of their best writers, George S. Kaufman and Morrie Ryskind, and he gave substance to their jokes.

In previous Marx Brothers films, plots were nonexistent. Their movies were actually old vaudeville bits and newer gags loosely strung together over 90 or 100 minutes.

"A Night at the Opera" changed all that.

For the first time there was a plot. Of course, the brothers do their best to tear the plot to shreads, but that's what makes this movie so funny. Despite their shenanigans, the seams of the plot hold fast.

AG AND ENTERTAINMENT GUIDE

As Groucho and Chico in the film rip into a legal contract - and its accompanying "Sanity Clause" with relentless doubletalk and non sequiturs, the brothers rip into Thalberg's script. But the contract bit wouldn't be funny without the understanding that legalese is pretty funny in itself. And "A Night at the Opera" wouldn't be as hilarious without the realization that the Marxes' many outrageous segues all have a starting point and an end point in the script.

Thanks to Thalberg, the Marx Brothers weren't just monkeying around anymore. Also starring Margaret Dumont, Kitty ("What's My Line?") Car-

Also showing on the same bill: "Now Voyager" with Bette Davis and Paul Henreid, and live organ music during the intermission.

A late Jeanette MacDonald-Nelson Eddy film (1940), perhaps not as well known, or as good, as the earlier "Naughty Marietta" ('35), "Rose Marie" ('36) or "Maytime" ('37), but certainly worth a go. Noel Coward tunes include "I'll See You Again" and "Tokay." Also starring George Sanders. "Dr. Strangelove - Or How I Learned to Stop Worrying and Love the Bomb," 4 p.m. Sun-

"We'll meet again, don't know where, don't know when. . . . " is the theme of this ahead-of-its-time Stanley ("2001") Kubrick film. Made in '64, perhaps Jimmy Carter and the Ayatollah should tune in on.

WHO'S HOLDING WHO?

Black rolls double fours. What should

At this stage in the game, black's main choice is to either move the furthest two checkers away from white's 7 point (called the "bar point") to black's 15 point and begin the running game, or stay there to continue a 'holding game" and move other check-

A holding game consists of purposely holding an opponent's key point in order to thwart his progress into his own inner table, with the possibility of obtaining a hit later.

Let's look at a few considerations to help make the choice easier.

No matter how black moves, white will be eight "pips" (total number of points outside the home board) ahead in the race. White will also be up to roll and has better inner table distribution for the bear-off.

If black runs from the bar point now, he will give white the further advantage of having a clean run home. This will allow white the opportunity to move as quickly as possible instead of as safely as possible if black stays put.

BEST OVERALL MOVE . . .

point and move both men/from white's 12 point down to black's 5 point. Black now has active builders to cover the 2point blot and stall for time in the next few rolls white waiting for white to White now is under pressure to cover his own 9-point blot and may even have to break his inner table instead of leaving another outer table blot.

This holding situation is most often misplaced when the player who is actually ahead in the race doesn't realize it Black should stay on white's bar and thinks he should try to hold his opponent and wait for a shot. He is unknowingly thwarting his own running

> So remember: Before you move, decide who's holding who.

Production up in northwest

One of the fastest growing and most promising wine regions in the United States is the Pacific Northwest. Long known for their fruit and berry wines, the last decade has witnessed a real surge in quality grape production.

Today such names as Aimty, Elk Cove, Eyrie, Hillcrest, Humbug (honest), Knudsen Erath, Ponzi, Reuter's Hill, Siskiyou, Tualatin, Bingen, Hinzerling, Preston and Vierthalen are unknown on Michi-

It will probably be some time before we do see any of them but if chance requires you to travel in this most beautiful area there is a great variety to find on local wine merchant shelves.

However, one winery, Chateau Ste. Michelle, bonded quietly back in 1934, has attained national distribution and now has their full line of wines on our shelves. In general they are priced in the middle of the range of West Coast wines, most released in the $3.50-$7 range. I have recently sampled the whole group and am most enthusiastic about them.

The vineyards are located between the Yakima and Columbia Rivers in the Yakima Valley, east of the Cascade Mountain Range, and then are taken to the winery in Woodinville, a suburb of Seattle, just northeast of town. The vineyard latitudes correspond almost perfectly to Burgundy, as they are proud to point out in their promotional literature. To date their releases have been predominately white wines, although at least three reds have shown as well.

Following are some general tasting impressions:

JOHANNISBERG REISLING — estate bottling called "White Reisling," their most prominent and successful release, the wine is beautifully balanced with soft fruit and enough acid to produce charac-

SEMILLIOON BLANC - a lush, soft wine from a varietal greatly out of favor in California now. Excellent introduction to a most elegant grape of subtle spice.

SAUVIGNON BLANC - excells most of the white Bordeaux now coming out at half the price. This is my personal favorite of their white wine GEWURZTRANINER — light flowery bouquet with a beautiful after-taste. A marvelous accompaniment to a mildly spicy dinner.

CHABLIS — their only generic release, this is a crisp wine with a strong hint of fruit. This is vintage dated. Be sure to get a recent vintage, this you'll want to drink young.

GRENACHE ROSE - very full-bodied and rich in color, the fruit nearly jumps out of the glass. This is as close to a Tavel as the West Coast has * come. It may even be a bit too rich for some.

CABERNET SAUVIGNON - the 1973-74-75 vintages are all available and all worthwile. They tend more to the soft and elegant style and will require little more bottle age.

MERLOT'- the 1976 issue is the first we have seen locally. It is now very drinkable although a hearty amount of tannin will hold it some more

There is also a sparkling wine, available only at the winery. This I eagerly look forward to trying, whatever its price.

To be a wine critic suggests some negative comments are in order somewhere, and it is somewhat frustrating to acknowledge that, to date at least, none of the Chateau Ste. Michelle wines have disappointed me.

They are dependable and frequently exciting and, perhaps best of all, they do not yet charge those inflated prices that some of their California counterparts do. Let's hope this continues and the quality holds

auditions

 Stage I Productions, a community theater group in Novi, will hold auditions for "Diary of Anne Frank" 7:30-10 p.m. May 7 and 14 in Novi Community Hall, on Novi Road just north of Grand River.

There are openings for various parts, as well as for technical crews and backstage workers. For more information, call Nancy Keough at 624-2748.

 Wayne-Westland Civic Theater is looking for persons to act, sing or dance for a revue which will summarize productions in the group's 20-year history. Auditions will be held at 8 p.m. Monday and Tuesday in the fine arts wing of John Glenn High School on Marquette in Westland. Scripts will be available, but singers and dancers should be prepared with their own material. A " record player will be available. For more informao tion, call 425-9316.

Helping you cope with inflation...

With inflation plaguing the United States, the economic picture is gloomy. Not only are food and energy costs increasing, but prices on consumer goods are also soaring.

Your need for savings now is as great as ever. Take advantage of all that the market offers by reading the Classified ads. If you shop the ads for value, you'll find you can cut back on spending. Use Classified advertising as your inflationary savings strategy!

In West Bloomfield Extraordinary 1, 2 and 3 bedroom rental residences that feature up to 2,800 square feet in a community of exceptional character

Thru-unit design of all of these terrace and towne homes provides private entry, double or triple exposures, kitchens with window views, in-unit storage and private laundry rooms, patios and balconies.

Each of the 8 different Aldingbrooke plans is distinguished by the unexpected; a one bedroom with 2 baths and a great room/den for example, a two bedroom 2 bath with a private dining room that is elegantly separated from the living room; a three bedroom with 2-1/2 or 3 baths with a great room and den or with a great room and fireplace. A great deal from which to choose!

Attached garages, monitored gate house, club house, swimming pool and tennis courts

Aldingbrooke is on Drake Road, north of the Jewish Community Center, between Maple and Walnut Lake Roads. Rentals from $425/mo.
