Schools plan party for crossing guard

By BETTY MASSON

Students at three Plymouth schools will have their last hour of classes canceled Thursday so they can go to a party.

It's an "appreciation gathering" for Francis (Frank) Magreta, a crossing guard who retired in February.

For three years, he saw children from Bird Elementary, Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic and St. Peter Lutheran schools safely across Sheldon and North Territorial roads.

That's why students from all three will be at the party in Bird School. Magreta recalls that when he retired on Feb. 14, children brought him gifts of fruit, cakes and Valentines they had made themselves.

But according to Sandra Marulis, chairman of the safety committee of Bird School, he was so popular, everyone felt a party would be fitting. They're preparing a special plaque for him.

"That's a very busy corner, you know," said Mrs. Marulis, "but I felt very comfortable sending my kindergartener to school this year, with him there."

SHE SAID that a friend had recently heard Magreta telling two children to tie up their shoelaces. "You could trip on them and hurt yourselves," he advised them.

Magreta, a widower since 1964, has been a Plymouth crossing guard for six years. He was at the corner of Ann Arbor Trail and Sheldon until the overpass was built.

Before that, he was "an overworked crane operator at Ambassador Steel."

A Plymouth resident for eight years, he formerly lived in Westland. About a year ago, he took up residence in the McCool Apartments just to be near his work.

And although Magreta likes watching sports on television, he thinks the "boob tube" is a bad influence on children.

"Kids are getting too tough," he said. "They don't want to listen to anybody."

HIS SECRET of handling children?

"I treat them just like my own," he said, adding, "If you don't put your heart into the job, there's no use going out there."

Magreta has four children, Leona Jaskolski of Canton, Frances Harshman of Westland, Raymond Magreta of Livonia and Stanley Magreta of Taylor Township.

Now he's retired, he's thinking about making a trip to Australia, to study snakes. "They've (snakes) always fascinated me," he said, "and they have plenty of them in Australia."

"That's the only place I've ever wanted to go."

Until he decides whether to travel half way around the world to seek out snakes at the age of 71, he is content to walk down to the corner every now and then to see the guards who have taken his place and to talk to the children.

Board to consider proposal to request one-mill road tax

Canton Township voters may be asked to approve a one-mill special tax levy in order to improve their roads.

A discussion whether to request one mill ($1 per $1,000 state equalized valuation of property) over the next five years has been placed on the agenda of township board meeting tomorrow night.

One mill would generate about $438,000 per year for road improvement if given the nod by voters.

According to Canton Supervisor Noel Culbert, the millage request is being considered because other methods of getting township roads improved or paved show little hope for success.

Culbert said he met with Wayne County Road Commission officials last week who said funds to the Federal Urban Aid Highway System have been cut as part of President Jimmy Carter's budget balancing efforts.

Canton officials had been considering improving some roads with the help of the FUAHS, which would provide 75 percent of the cost with the township and county splitting the remaining 25 percent.

Culbert said the road commission, which is technically responsible for improvement and maintenance of township roads, is not likely to pave or fix roads strictly with money from its own budget.

The commission has been feeling a cash crunch resulting from a tightening of its main funding source, gas and weight taxes.

As state motorists conserve gasoline usage and buy smaller and lighter cars, however, the resulting taxes naturally decline.

If voters actually approved a special assessment, Culbert said, the first project the road commission would undertake would probably be the paving of Warren Road from Canton Center to Lilley Road. "In doing so, we would also be able to get a traffic light at Warren and Sheldon because the road would be improved," Culbert said.

"The road commission has most of the easements for that area. They could pave it tomorrow if they had the money."

Culbert said the next road in line would probably be "a stretch of Palmer Road."

The supervisor, who said he would vote to put a one-mill request on the ballot, added, "Unfortunately, if residents want roads, they'll have to pay."

"Livonia, about 10 or 15 years ago, went into the same special millage for roads. That's why the city has good roads now."

EPA approves study

By TOM LONERGAN

The western Wayne County portion of Super Sewer received a shot in the arm last week as a $4.8 million planning grant was approved by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

Known formally as the Huron Valley Wastewater Control System, Super Sewer is proposed to extend 50 miles from Brownstown Township in southwestern Wayne County to the middle of Commerce Township in western Oakland County.

The plans and specifications grant, approved by EPA last week, paves the way for Super Sewer to extend to Joy Road in western Wayne County, according to Duane Egeland, director of engineering for the Wayne County DPW.

"WE'RE FLYING the area (including Canton Township) now, getting the topography," said Egeland, of Livonia.

"It'll take 18 months to complete the design and another six months to take bids," he added. Construction of the sewer from the proposed 24 million-gallons-a-day treatment plant in Brownstown Township to the Canton-Plymouth Township Joy Road border may begin in two years, Egeland said, with operation possible by May 1985.

If the entire length is approved by EPA, the project would include Canton, Plymouth and Northville townships in Wayne County and the city of Northville.

The Wayne County Department of Public Works, which first proposed the massive new sewer line in 1959, has also received an $811,765 planning grant to determine if five communities north of Joy Road — Plymouth, Northville and Commerce townships and the cities of Northville and Novi — will be a part of the new Huron system.

The "urban sprawl" effect of a new sewer line in those communities will also be studied.

BY NOVEMBER 1981, the EPA is expected to decide if the project should include the southwestern Oakland communities of Novi and Commerce Township and Plymouth Township and the Northville area.

The Wayne DPW's study of that area is to be conducted by the consulting engineering firm Black & Veatch of Detroit. It may determine if the area should 1) tap into super sewer, 2) use existing sewers in the Detroit wastewater system, or 3) continue to rely on septic tanks.

Super Sewer is expected to cost $200 million (in January 1980 dollars), according to the county DPW, if all 16 communities are connected between southwest Wayne County and western Oakland.

The project would be reduced to an estimated $150 million if 11 communities are included up to Joy Road in western Wayne.

The federal EPA would provide 75 percent of the funding, the state 5 percent, and affected communities the remaining 20 percent.

It's not what you think

You may already have noticed this building at the corner of Joy and Main streets in Canton, but it really isn't part of a back-to-nature building. The building is there for storage; the message on the side is the work of an anonymous artist with a spray can. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Canton and Plymouth townships have agreed to their shares of the local funding, Egeland said.

THE CITY OF Plymouth withdrew from the Super Sewer plans a number of years ago. City officials said sufficient sewer capacity exists in the county's Rouge Valley district, which also includes the cities of Livonia, Westland, Wayne and Garden City.

"We don't really believe that, but they do," said Egeland.

The planning grants approved last week are expected to provide 200 jobs for technicians and planners during the next two years.

Judges' salaries raised

Both 35th District Court Judges James Garber and Dunbar Davis have been given raises.

The decision to pay the judges $6,000 more per year — bringing their salaries up to $42,000 each — was made official recently with the affirmative vote of the Canton Township Board of Trustees.

Plymouth and the city of Northville, other communities comprising the 35th district, had already approved the pay hike.

"I think it's well earned," Canton Supervisor Noel Culbert said of the move.

According to Culbert, the consideration of raising salaries for the judges began more than six months ago. Statistics on salaries of district court judges in Michigan show that the two judges in the 35th district are near the bottom of the scale.

The supervisor said about $30,000 of each judge's salary is paid by the state with the additional cost picked up by communities in the district.

Canton, which has drawn the highest individual caseload of any of the communities, pays 40 percent of 35th District Court expenses.

Culbert, however, said Canton's net from March court revenues alone was $30,000, with expenses totaling about $19,000.

Short Takes

What a racquet

If you're feeling fat and flabby as summer rolls around, you can work off some of the winter's excesses by joining a racquetball league sponsored by the Canton Township Parks and Recreation Department. The 10-week leagues for men and women will be held at Rose Shores of Canton on Ford Road. The men's league begins June 4. Women's leagues begin June 3. The times are 7:30 and 8 p.m. and leagues will be divided into flights based on the player's skill level. The cost, including all court time and trophies, is $45. Register in person or by mail at the recreation department, 1150 S. Canton Center Road, Canton 48188.

A city by any other name . . .

While visiting Canton, last week, to speak at a dinner meeting about the pros and cons of hiring a township manager, Kalamazoo Township Supervisor William Thompson said he was enjoying his stay. But problems arose when the visiting supervisor left his motel room at Knights Inn to do a little jogging. "You have lots of sidewalks, but none of them connect," he said. Thompson also said if Canton should decide to go with a superintendent or manager, he'd like to know about it. "I'll apply for the job," he quipped.

All fueled up

In addition to discussing whether to ask voters for a one-mill road improvement tax, the Canton Township Board of Trustees is expected to vote on a long-standing issue at its regular Tuesday night board meeting. The subject of self-service gas stations and whether they should be allowed will be coming before the board once again. Other items on the agenda include alternatives to solve Canton's softball field shortage (those leagues do add up) and zoning board of appeals appointments. The meeting begins at 7 p.m.

Local grades help EMU win 5th national title in forensics

Three recent graduates from the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park (CEP) were on the forensics team at Eastern Michigan University which recently won its fifth consecutive national title.

The Eastern forensics team compiled 415 sweepstakes points to second place Miami (Ohio) University's 234 points.

Junior Jon Capecci of Warren, Ohio, won two individual titles and won first in the pentathlon competition — making him the top collegiate speaker in the nation.

Some 800 students representing 130 colleges and universities competed in the nationals at the University of Montevallo in Montevallo, Ala.

Members of the EMU team, coached by Dennis Beagen, won 17 of a possible 54 finalist positions in the tourney. Eastern also had 55 quarterfinalists and 27 semi-finalists.

Gina Massaro, a freshman from Canton, placed fourth in dramatic duo competition while Lisa Lambert, a junior from Plymouth, placed second in dramatic duo.

Christine DeWalt, a graduate of Plymouth Canton High School, was a quarterfinalist in informative speaking at the national tournament.

BEAGEN SAID he was especially pleased at the results because many of the team members this year are relatively inexperienced.

"After all the people we graduated last year, none of us thought we'd do this well."

Ms. Massaro, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Massaro of Napier Road in Canton Township, is a freshman majoring in business management at EMU. She is a graduate of Plymouth

Salem High where she was active in forensics, debate and school musicals.

Ms. Lambert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Lambert, Jr., is a third-year member of the EMU forensics team. A junior at Eastern, she is majoring in computer science. She is a graduate of Canton High where she was active in drama and student government.

Ms. DeWalt, daughter of Walter and Patricia DeWalt, is a new member of the forensics team this year. She is a junior at EMU majoring in arts management. Besides being active in forensics, she also is secretary for the EMU Players and is promotion director of the EMU Theater. A graduate of Canton High, she worked last summer as a secretary at the Cherry County Playhouse in Traverse City.

The EMU team now has won the national title the last five consecutive years and in the 10 years the national tourney has been held the EMU squad has placed first six times and placed second or third the other four years.

8 excel in math

Eight middle school students from Plymouth-Canton Community Schools are among the top math students in Michigan.

The Michigan Council of Teachers of Mathematics sponsors an annual competition to determine the top math students in grades sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth.

The math teachers at each school administer the test, which qualifies the top two students from each grade level in each school to attend the regional contests.

Plymouth-Canton Schools sent representatives to the regional examination held April 26 at Eastern Michigan University. The top 25 students from each grade level are eligible to attend the state meet on May 17 at Central Michigan University.

The following are among the best math scholars in the state: Matt Moran, sixth grade, East Middle School; Muzamil Ahmed, sixth grade, East; David Hawkins, sixth grade, West Middle School, and Rick Routson, seventh grade, West; Mark Davis, eighth grade, Central Middle School, and Jeff Stillson, eighth grade; Robert Johnson, seventh grade, Pioneer Middle School, and Jin Kim, eighth grade, Pioneer.

Salvation Army seeks funds for center

The Salvation Army in Plymouth has officially launched a fund-raising campaign to raise more than half a million dollars.

The capital funds campaign is aimed at collecting $590,000 to purchase and expand the facilities now owned by the Baptist Church on the west side of Main Street, just south of Ann Arbor Road in Plymouth Township.

Some $200,000 will go towards the purchase of the property, church and a residential building on the site.

And then some $300,000 will be invested in a new structure on the site which will function as a community center for the greater Plymouth-Canton community.

Lt. William Harfoot, co-commander of the Plymouth Salvation Army, considers the site ideal, because it is only a long block away from the Canton border at Joy and Main (Morton Taylor).

Although announced earlier, the fund-raising campaign was officially started at the Salvation Army's annual civic dinner held last Monday in the Mayflower Meeting House.

THE CAMPAIGN is being led by chairman Kal Jabara of Pinetree Development Corporation in Plymouth. Jabara said he is optimistic about the chances of success, despite the harsh economic climate.

"There is no holiday for age or illness, or poverty or abuse, or fatherless children, or for any similar problems which may arise in the Plymouth-Canton area."

"And so there is no time when compassion and care are not in demand."

Jabara added that he was surprised when he learned the Salvation Army in Plymouth has shouldered much of the burden for aid to people in distress here.

"This was especially a surprise because I had earlier pictured the Salvation Army in terms of soup kitchens and red kettles for Christmas charities and very little else."

"But people in need in the Plymouth area know the Salvation Army as the place where help is always freely given — no matter what the trouble."

"Still that help, no matter how freely given, is not free."

"Facilities and related upkeep and maintenance cost dollars. And Salvation Army personnel are flesh and blood like you and me, for whom food and clothing and shelter are just as important."

Jabara stressed that the need for the services of the Salvation Army in Plymouth-Canton continues to increase even though the physical facilities of the corps is growing older and wearing out.

"While many services are already provided in our existing building, demands for expanded services require that we move to a new building."

THE SALVATION ARMY provides a number of services such as:

Camping for youth, substance abuse rehabilitation, emergency shelter, furniture for families who have suffered losses from fires, home and hospital visits to the sick and incapacitated, food and clothing for those in need, recreation and crafts programs for youth, a drop-in preschool program, summer day camp, regular worship services, and adult fellowship activities.

"Our programs and services have touched the lives of thousands of young and old alike," says Harfoot.

"We aim to strengthen family life through services to the whole person — spiritual, mental, social and physical."

"We strive to motivate youth and families to utilize opportunities for education and social advancement. We help people regardless of economic status, race, creed, or position."

Lt. Harfoot explained that the corps' present headquarters at 290 Fairground in the city of Plymouth is small and inadequate.

"We do not have sufficient parking space. Our property is not large enough to permit expansion of our existing building."

"The scope of our activities continues to increase and the space available within our present building limits our ability to satisfy the needs of people we serve."

"We see a clear need to change the emphasis of our mission in the community from simply a traditional corps approach to a broader range of services which can and should be provided by a true corps community center."

Because of this expanded mission, said Harfoot, the Salvation Army has taken steps to purchase the Main Street Baptist Church at 9451 S. Main Street.

"We plan to renovate the building and to construct a recreation area and meeting hall adjacent to the existing facility. A separate building next to the church will house the corps community center offices."

"The new complex will enable us to continue our present activities as well as adding teen and young adult recreation programs plus many other enrichment activities for families, senior citizens and handicapped persons."

Harfoot added that the new facilities also will include a reception area, drop-in center for senior citizens, summer day camp for children, some much needed storage space, a chapel and facilities for handicapped persons.

The contributions, explained Jabara, are being sought over a number of years and are tax deductible. Individuals may, if they wish, designate contributions for specific facilities or projects or for the overall renovation.

Harfoot added that: "We are basically a people-centered organization and have a need to be close to the people who rely on us for programs and services."

The new site, he stressed, will make the Salvation Army more accessible and visible to the community.

Members of the capital funds campaign steering committee, chaired by Jabara, include: Harold Head, vice chairman; Robert Barbour of NBD; Leo Calhoun of Calhoun Ford; Ken Currie of First National Bank of Plymouth; Angelo DiPonio of Greenfield Construction; Harold Fisher of Fisher Real Estate; Gary E. Hall, dentist; Roger A.

Haslick, attorney; Ken Hulsing, consultant; James Jabara; Mrs. George Johnson; Carl Lampton, owner of West Trail Nursing Home; James McKeon of McKeon Real Estate; Frank Palmer, owner of Palmer Paving Company; Richard Raison, Auto Club of Michigan; William Slinger; Mrs. Robert Taylor; and Dr. A.E. Turning back the clock with chicken dinners

Many are the times when The Stroller wishes he could turn back the pages of the calendar and enjoy again some of the wonderful evenings he spent as a youth back in the Pennsylvania Dutch country.

Oftimes, when this happens, he just leans back in his chair, closes his eyes, and recalls again the hayrides and the sleigh rides that were taken out to the old country hotel in Schoenersville for an old-time chicken and waffle dinner.

On these occasions he can vision the old-time hostelry that was the most popular stopping-off place in the tri-county area. It wasn't much to look at from an architectural standpoint. But the hospitality and the meals were unsurpassed.

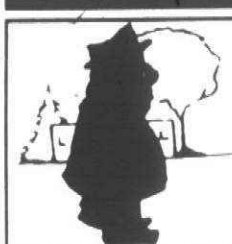

UNLESS YOU have had a chicken and waffle dinner in the Dutch country, you haven't eaten a dinner that you never will forget.

And as The Stroller visions again one of these delightful trips, he sees once more the owner's wife cautioning everyone who enters the dining room to "leave some room for the chocolate cake I baked for you this morning." She never failed.

And if the meal wasn't a treat, the square dancing afterward made the evening an outstanding success. Never can The Stroller forget the sight of "Peg Leg" Nonnemacher standing in the middle of the floor calling the figures. He had suffered the loss of a leg in an accident, but that didn't deter him when it came to calling square dances.

During one of these wistful moments recently came a call from Lenore and Bob Kellogg, two close friends, inviting the Edgars to take a ride somewhere for Sunday dinner.

The invitation was accepted and it was agreed that if the weather was suitable, he would take a ride up to Frankenmuth for a chicken dinner. It had been years and years ago that we had been to Frankenmuth and The Stroller had no idea just what to expect — except that he would be assured a good dinner.

the stroller

W.W. Edgar

AFTER A DELIGHTFUL drive, we arrived in this famous little Michigan town and what a surprise it was when we turned in to the driveway at Zehnders.

This big, white structure was a far cry from the old Schoenersville hotel back home. But once inside, it was just like the days of old when hayrides to the country inns was a popular way to spend an evening.

Once inside, The Stroller forgot that he was in Frankenmuth. He was back in the hotel at home, but instead of the owner's wife welcoming us with the plea to leave room for cake, we were greeted with the hope that we would have a nice, relaxing dinner.

Naturally, we ordered the old-style family dinner just as we used to do back home. And when it came it, was a great reminder of other times and other meals. The lone difference came in the fact that the chicken was fried instead of being stewed. But there was plenty of it and, along with the gravy, made an ideal Sunday dinner.

As he sat there scanning the room, it seemed just like old times except that "Peg-Leg" Nonnemacher wasn't standing in the middle calling figures for square dancing.

It was quite an afternoon and a great treat for a fellow who had longed for one more visit to the country hotel for a good chicken and waffle dinner.

His dream and wishful thinking had come true — even though he couldn't have square danced even if old "Peg Leg" had been there.

The misdirected letters

Competition is good for a newspaper; it makes us try harder.

But the existence of other newspapers in what we would like to consider our territory can make things a little complicated at times.

We frequently get letters to the editor that are distributed to all the newspapers in the area. Sometimes the letters mention articles or personnel from our rival publications.

Newspapers and newspaper people have a habit of picking up a few enemies along with supporters, which is just one of those things that can't be avoided.

Along with the letters calling us vile names and questioning our sanity, however, are the letters from people who are angry about something that one of the other papers wrote or did.

And of course they (you'll notice we're trying to be coy by not mentioning "them" by name) get letters complaining about a story or controversy we're involved with.

Funny thing though: We don't seem to get letters praising the other papers. If they get letters praising us, of course, we certainly aren't going to hear about it.

Admittedly, an Observer newspaper in another community once got a letter from the editor of one of its competitors with another letter enclosed. The letter, addressed to an editor from the Observer in care of that other newspaper, praised an article that appeared. The rival editor sent a note saying, "Nice letter. Too bad it's not ours."

Maybe we print letters criticizing the competitors with a little more relish than we should, but we know full well they'll get in their own little digs along the way.

In fact, it's sometimes difficult not to respond to some of the snide remarks made about us in the pages of other papers. But we figure we can afford to be magnanimous about the comments since we are obviously so much better than the competition (end of commercial, folks).

But it would take a lot of effort on the part of every paper in town to match the battle that has been developing between the News and Free Press.

If you read both, you'll notice that the battle focuses on Detroit Recorder's Court. The News started it with a series blasting the court; while the Free Press followed with stories refuting most of what the News published.

It's difficult to decide which versions on the issue are the more accurate ones.

The conflict has been reported by television, radio and magazine journalists, which adds a whole new dimension.

This is all fascinating stuff to media followers, but it's probably viewed as highly confusing by the person who just wants to open up a paper and find out — in fairly factual form — what has been happening in the world.

We're surprised we haven't gotten a letter about it all.

Earning stars

It occurs to me lately that over the years I have almost subconsciously developed a rating system for my house cleaning.

Different occasions call for different levels of cleaning. These can range from a New Year's Eve Party, for which I can spend a week and a half removing every single unsightly smudge and hidden dustball in my entire house, to a surprise visit from in-laws in which the best tactic is to steer them to the cleanest part of the house and frantically clean around them as you try to maintain a semblance of composure.

I have even gone so far as to use a star rating system when it comes to determining the amount of drudgery each occasion calls for.

A Four Star cleaning is reserved only for those very special occasions. A New Year's Eve Party is one. Thanksgiving Dinner for your husband's relatives is another. I can't think of any more.

A Four Star project is serious business. This involves purging your house completely of dirt and clutter, and any and all miscellany that may give your home that "lived-in" look.

The object here is to strive for a show case effect. This usually involves such obscure tasks as dusting picture frames, clearing off the cans of last summer's bug spray from the bookshelves and removing all the crumbs from the toaster tray (it's best to cover all bases — you never know when a rowdy New Year's Eve-er may decide he can't live without toast). If you do this more than once a year, you're a saint — or a martyr. I'm not sure which.

Now, a Three Star cleaning involves some heavy-duty work too. This is when you're expecting important people. This could be anyone from a prestigious business associate to a new couple you have recently met. If they don't know you very well, it's best to break them in to your hygienic habits slowly. This requires such tasks as removing the vacuum cleaner from its usual place along side the dishwasher and hiding it, clearing off the bottles of old medicine from the top of the refrigerator, and hiding all of the children's toys in toyboxes and closets. Things you never do unless you have to.

Personally, I prefer the Two Star cleaning. This is when you're having friends over for cards or conversation.

You scour, dust, and vacuum the entire house, just like you normally do; the only difference being: you do it all on the same day. This lets your friends know that you like them enough not to gross them out, but also that you know they like you enough not to want you to strain yourself with any unnecessary scrubbing or polishing. You don't even have to hide the vacuum cleaner.

Last, and even least, is a One Star cleaning. This is what you do when you're expecting the TV repairman or the Avon Lady. You simply pick up all of the newspapers that have been scattered over the living room floor and clear yesterday's dinner dishes off the kitchen table. Any more effort would be superfluous.

I think my overall approach to housecleaning was best reflected by a remark my next door neighbor, Mari, made while standing in my sparkling kitchen on New Year's Eve. Surveying the scene, she exclaimed, "Nancy, you have the same pattern on your counter top as I do!"

We've lived here for three years and Mari has probably been over about 3,017 times. She had never seen the counter top before.

Statistics all about caring

The Salvation Army had its annual civic dinner last Monday in the Mayflower Meeting House.

Bill Sliger, master of ceremonies, had just finished introducing the guests and the heads of each governmental unit got up to make a few remarks — Plymouth Mayor Mary Childs, Plymouth Township Supervisor Tom Nettekbaert and Canton Township Supervisor Noel Culbert.

Culbert commented that he never really knew that much about the Salvation Army and suspected the average citizen didn't really know what the Army does.

I suspect the supervisor was entirely correct. And I'm also pretty sure there are many residents in the city of Plymouth and Plymouth Township also who don't really know much about the Salvation Army and what it does.

YOU MAY NOT know, for instance, that this summer nearly 100 youth from the Plymouth-Canton community will be attending the Echo Grove Camp of the Salvation Army for swimming, boating, fishing, crafts, nature outings and all the other things campers do.

To help pay the way for those 100 campers the corps will be holding an ice cream social from 5-8 p.m. Saturday, June 7, at its headquarters on Fairground near Ann Arbor Trail. Seems like a good time to buy a sundae and learn about the corps.

Besides Echo Grove, the Salvation Army also conducts a day care and resident camp program. In 1979, for example, the corps sponsored about 88 days of day camp and about 533 days of resident camp sessions for a total of 92 children.

The Army also places an emphasis on youth with its organizations for young people ages 3-18, such as Sunbeams for girls 6-10, Girls Guard for ages 11-18, Boy's Club for boys 6-15, a teen club, and nursery school program, as well as music programs for youth. These activities in 1979 involved 5,914 youth in attendance.

The League of Mercy is a group of volunteers who visit sick persons in hospitals and at home. Last year the League volunteers called on 3,798 sick persons, involving 44 visits to institutions and 20 visits at individual homes.

The family services division of the Salvation Army visited 143 homes in Plymouth-Canton last year and offered assistance in 138 cases. During the Christmas season, over 300 individuals received help, and Army members visited 2,341 persons in nursing homes, jails and other institutions.

The Salvation Army last year operated on a total budget of $101,071. Of this amount, about $25,000 came from the Plymouth Community Fund and $54,573 from other public sources.

THOSE NUMBERS in themselves are impressive, but the story of the Salvation Army here is much greater than the numbers.

Lt. William Harfoot, commander of the corps here, notes: "Every statistic represents a service to individuals with special needs."

"The concern of the Salvation Army continues to be to serve the 'whole man,' not only meeting physical and material needs but to strengthen his faith in God."

"We are grateful to the many volunteers who give of their service with 'Heart to God and Hand to Man.'"

During the dinner, Kal Jabara unveiled plans for a $590,000 capital fund drive to finance a new permanent headquarters for the Salvation Army on Main Street south of Ann Arbor Road.

The plans for the site, strategically located to serve the Plymouth-Canton community, include a building with a multi-purpose room, recreation area, meeting rooms, nursery, craft room, a chapel, classrooms and kitchen facilities. When it's completed, the Salvation Army will be housed in a true community center.

And those involved with the Salvation Army believe it can be done and are optimistic about the chances of raising the $590,000. As Kal Jabara noted last Monday night: "If any community in America can, Plymouth can do it."

Another reason for optimism is the real firepower the Army has on its advisory board. Besides chairman Sliger are: Richard Raison, vice chairman; Ann Taylor, secretary; Don Sutherland, treasurer; Harold Fischer, Roger Haslick, Harold Fitch; Jim Jabara, Carl Lampton, Gene Overholt, Frank Palmer, Edwin Schrader Jr. and Dr. A.E. Van Ornum.

Some of the same persons also are active members of the capital funds campaign steering committee chaired by Kal Jabara. Some of the added firepower on the capital funds committee include: Bob Barbour, Leo Calhoun, Ken Currie, Angelo DiPonio, Dr. Gary Hall, Ken Hulsing, George Johnson, Jim McKeon and Mrs. Robert Taylor.

With all that help, I'm sure the Salvation Army is going to make it. One final reason (and maybe the strongest) is a point made in the fund drive brochure:

Consider this: there probably would be little or no practical alternative for most of the people the Salvation Army serves in Plymouth each year.

And that's what it comes down to — if the Army doesn't help people in need, who will? And as more people learn about what the Army really does in the community, the chances of raising that $590,000 will be much greater.

Ordinance head defends position

Editor:

Because of the total misrepresentation displayed in an editorial written by Chas and printed in the April 23 issue of the Crier concerning my position on the use of the American flag, and the follow-up letter written by Frank Chakrabarty printed in all area papers, I am forced to write this rebuttal.

Chas misquoted my comments, pulling them out of context and manipulating my answers to his questions, such that the actual and true content of my responses was not reflected.

Chas's editorial is even written in such a manner that his own personal views appear to be mine, which is not the case. As written, the comments and opinions reflected in that editorial must all belong to Chas as they are definitely not mine.

I never said or alluded that the American flag should not be flown on Ford Road or anywhere else. When Chas asked if individuals were taking advantage of using the flag and in essence, misusing the American flag, shouldn't something be done at that point.

My response was that people should not take advantage of the flag. I never even indicated what I considered taking advantage would be. However, Chas felt obligated to do so in his editorial and then made it appear I was in agreement with his comments, which I am not.

To take advantage of the American flag, in my opinion, is to misuse it. Personally, I would like to see the American flag flying at every business and residence in Canton. But I cannot believe any American citizen would want any individual misusing our flag.

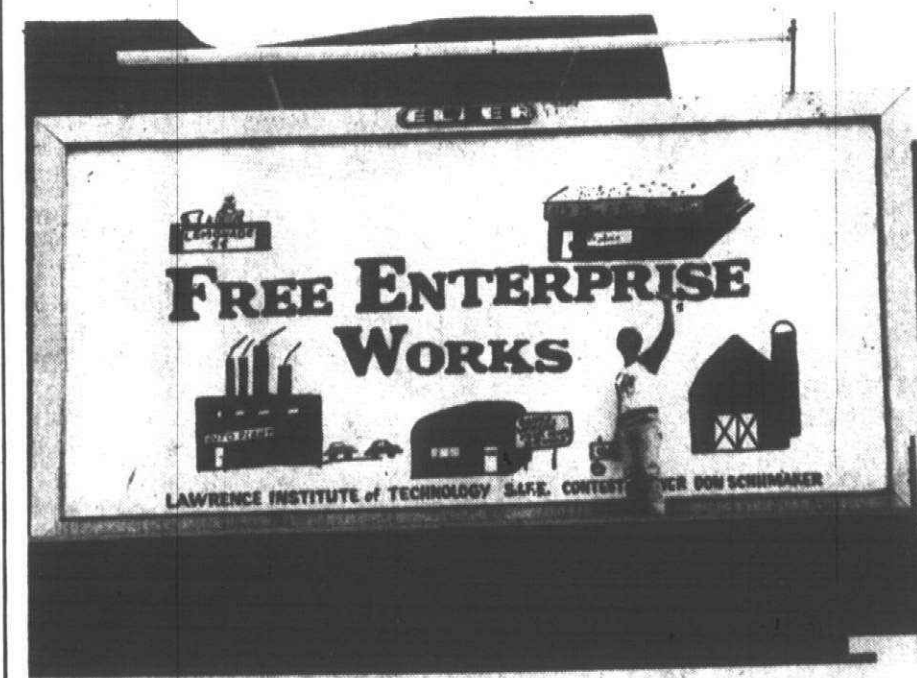

I spoke with Chas after the printing of his editorial and asked for the due retraction. Chas refused to do so, stating that as long as they "imply" what went on in the conversation, that was adequate. To imply instead of tell what was actually said and indicated is a disservice to journalism and its readership. He did say that I could write my rebuttal, however, which I am now doing.

I hope the citizens of Canton understand what has transpired and that I would never suggest restricting individuals from appropriately flying the American flag.

Since Chas Child will not apologize for his incorrect article, I must apologize to Canton residents such as Frank Chakrabarty for being manipulated by such a misleading article.

BRUCE PHILLIPS,
Canton Ordinance officer

Billboard editorial

Truth, justice and the American way. Superman isn't the only champion of these ideals. Don Schumaker, a student at Lawrence Institute of Technology, has confidence in the American system. And he's willing to champion his cause. Schumaker's special concern is the free enterprise system. He found a way to express his confidence, when Eller Outdoor offered free use of a billboard to LIT's students in Free Enterprise organization. Schumaker, a member of the group, submitted the winning entry in the club's competition to find a design for the billboard.

Student dragsters win the big one

Nineteen local high school students turned out at Milan Dragway April 26 for the third annual Motech High School Bracket Nationals.

More than 600 students from high schools all over Michigan and Ohio raced from eight in the morning to well after dark competing for a large selection of prizes and automotive accessories.

Plymouth Centennial Educational Park received a special award for winning more races than any other school. Every student from the school finished in the top three in their class.

Milan Dragway manager Clifford Ridley presented the trophy to the students with the hope that some attention would come to students who aren't interested in the typical high school sports.

"Whenever I go into the local high schools, I see trophies and awards for football, basketball, baseball and other sports," Ridley said. "But I never see any recognition for the students who are interested in working on cars."

Joe Dakoske, the auto shop instructor at Plymouth Canton High school felt the same way. Dakoske is pleased with the outcome of the meet and he hopes that the recognition the trophy gets will keep people from thinking of him and his students just as "grease monkeys."

What is even more important to Dakoske is that students get a chance to compete.

"The point of the nationals is to give the student a chance to have a sanctioned and safe racing experience", Dakoske said. "This is the right approach to drag racing, instead of on the street."

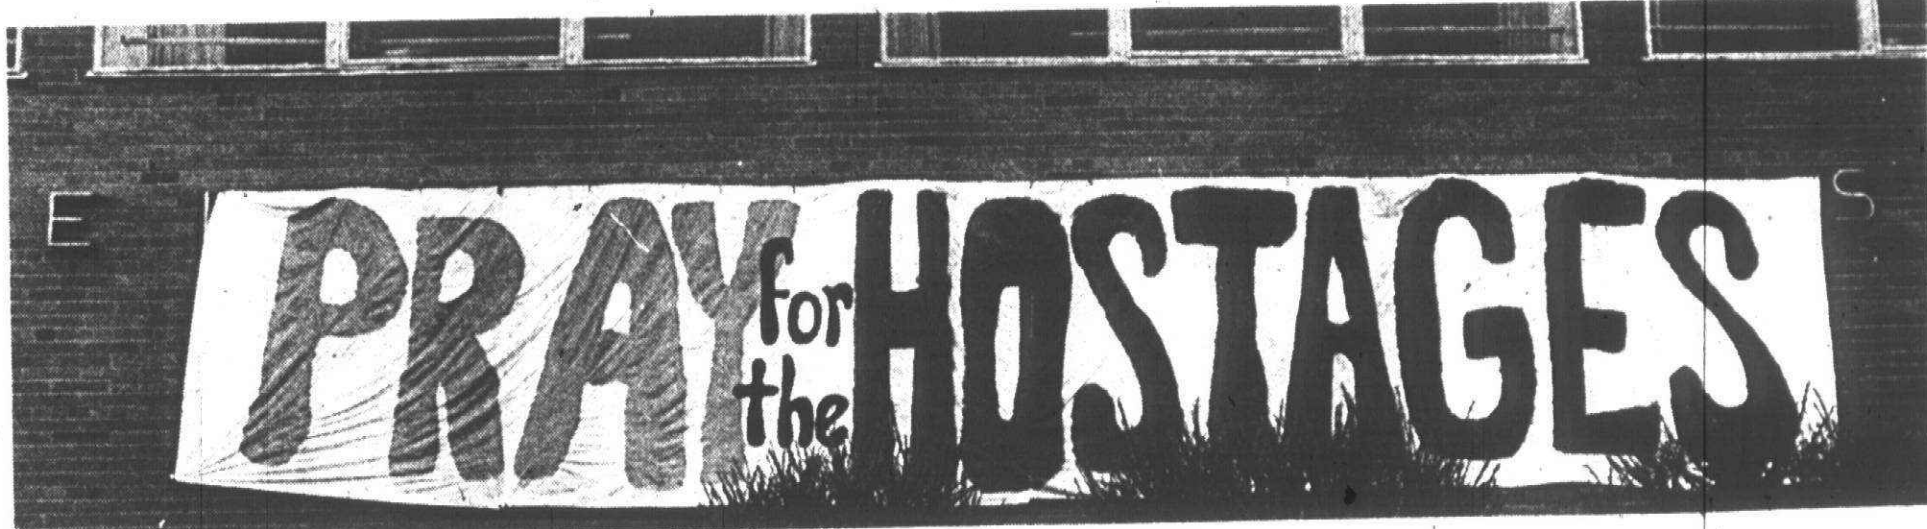

What makes this event such a safe approach to drag racing is the precautions taken Motech and Milan Dragway. All the cars that compete must be thoroughly inspected. A student's automobile must have good brakes and safety belts.

In addition to the privilege of racing, students also had an opportunity to watch several races by local drivers. They also received free T-shirts, tools and oil as they came through the gate, courtesy of the sponsors.

Dakoske is glad that his students had an opportunity to compete in the event. Besides learning to race in a safe and fair manner, he knows that the students had a great time.

"This was the first time any of these kids ever drove a car on an actual drag strip," says Dakoske. "I know was very exciting for them."

The crisis in Iran continues to be on the minds of Plymouth-Canton residents, as evidenced by this banner which hung last week from Bird Elementary School, just a few

Stevenson sets hot pace at Observerland

By DOUG FUNKE

To the surprise of few people — if anyone — Livonia Stevenson Saturday ran away with the championship of the 10th annual Observerland Track and Field Relays.

The Spartans totaled a meet record 41 points with first-place finishes in six events on the cinder oval at Hilbert Junior High. The Spartans also won the title last year.

Stevenson dominated to such a degree that it won six of the eight running events, four in a row — the sprint medley, shuttle hurdle, 440 and mile — to close the competition.

"When one kid lays down and gets hurt or doesn't feel good, all the other kids pick up," said Tom Bills, coach of the Spartans. "Everybody picks up everybody else. That's exactly what they've been doing ever since I got them."

Livonia Churchill finished second to Stevenson with 30 points. Detroit Catholic Central, making only its second appearance in the relays, tied with North Farmington for third with 21.

As expected, Stevenson did especially well in the sprint and middle distance relays.

The foursome of Ted Ford, Jim Recker, Rick Arnold and Kevin Gallagher clocked 1:33.53 to win the 880 relay.

Ford, Recker and Gallagher teamed with Kevin Spala to claim victory in the 440 relay, 45.2 seconds. Recker and Arnold combined with Pat Greis and Dave Hall to triumph in the shuttle hurdle relay, 58.8.

The Spartans also won the sprint medley relay in 2:33.0 with Ford, Gallagher, Joe Jacobites and Rich Dubois and the mile relay in 3:28.9 with Arnold, Jacobites, Dubois and Hall.

Grant, Jacobites and Dubois teamed with Dave Lukko to win the two mile relay with an effort of 8:25.7.

Stevenson also placed second in both the high jump and discus relays during the competition.

ONLY TWO RECORDS were set during the meet and both came in the field events.

Plymouth Salem shattered the mark in the discus by more than 13 feet.

Bob Pittaway, John Froozan and Mark Tanski combined for an aggregate distance of 430-9.

The other record was broken by Farmington in the long jump. Rick Curtis, Dave Erwin and Jeff Beard leaped an aggregate distance of 62-4. The old record was 60-7½ and it stood for seven years.

Churchill, which placed third in the team standings, scored points in all but three events, the 13 events. The Chargers didn't score any first-place points, but coach Fred Price said he was still pleased with the effort.

"To our kids credit, they scored in 10 of 13 events. I don't think anyone else can say that," said Price.

ANDY DILLON, one of the premier distance runners in the state, anchored both of Catholic Central's winning teams.

Dillon teamed with John Casey, Kevin Donner and Mike Nugent to win the four mile relay, 18:39.4, and worked with Matt Ronagne, Casey and Nugent to set the winning pace in the distance medley relay, 10:43.5.

Team scoring other than the first three finishers showed Farmington with 19 points, Borgess 17, Salem 14½, Southfield-Lathrup 10½, Northville 6, Franklin 4, Redford Union 3½, Plymouth Canton 3.

Salem's Leigh Langkabel (right) leans in on North Farmington's John Middleton during the mile relay. Salem was edged out for third place in the event.

Rocks dump Western 6 club

Netters win, 5-2

Plymouth Salem's tennis team ran its record to 7-1 overall with a 5-2 triumph over Western Six League leader Northville on Thursday.

The Rocks again proved to be strong in doubles.

Salem's No. 1 team of Blake Lundberg and Craig Baker remained unbeaten with a 6-2, 6-2 win over Kevin Swayne and Jeff Herbel.

Bob Jarvis and Doug Baker, Salem's No. 2 squad, posted a close 7-5, 7-6 victory while teammates Jack Thomas, a sophomore, and John Wimmer, a freshman, rolled to a 3-6, 6-4, 6-1 win at No. 3 doubles.

Scott Crespo of Salem ran his individual mark to 6-1 with a 6-4, 6-3 triumph over Doug Horst at No. 2 singles. Salem's other point came from Jeff Howell at No. 3 singles. He defeated Ian Wild, 6-1, 6-2.

"Jeff really played well," said Salem first-year coach Tom Williams. "I was really impressed with his performance."

In the feature match, Northville's Barry Ouellette remained unbeaten. He downed Salem's Dick Cook at No. 1 singles, 6-1, 6-1.

At No. 4 singles, Jeff Williams trimmed Salem's Dave Goodsir, 7-6, 6-2.

The Rocks have won five straight matches on the road. They return to action at 4 p.m. Monday in a key test against Suburban Eight League foe Trenton.

SALEM-THURSTON

Salem's reserves blasted Redford Thurston Wednesday in a non-league match, 5-2.

Howell won his match playing No. 1 singles for the first time this year. He beat Thurston's Mike Haslan, 6-3, 6-2.

At No. 2 singles, Wimmer edged Daryl Haney, 6-2, 7-6, while Salem teammate Maurice Stebila was defeated by Gary Schultz, 6-1, 6-1. At No. 4 singles, Salem's Russ Shaffer was narrowly defeated by Joe Schneider, 7-5, 3-6, 6-4.

Rob Roland and Paul Horton teamed up to win at No. 1 doubles for the Rocks. The won easily, 6-2, 6-0. At No. 2 doubles, Bob Stratton and Craig Flower of Salem also won, 6-2, 6-4.

Salem's No. 3 doubles team of Charlie Ploughman and Tad Masteller recorded a 6-4, 6-0 victory.

Gouin appointed to pro softball job

By BRAD EMONS

Canton Township Parks and Recreation Director Mike Gouin, a former player for the Detroit Caesars pro softball team, will take on the position of manager for the Detroit Auto Kings, a new entry into the North American Softball League.

The 36-year-old Gouin will also be a player.

He leaves the Caesar franchise after three years of service. He helped the Detroit team to two American Professional Slow-Pitch League (APSPL) titles.

An outfielder and first baseman,

Gouin became manager of the Auto Kings shortly after Caesar owner Mike Illitch disbanded the team.

"I've been in the game for 20 years," he said. "This is my first year of being a manager. I'm just a rookie."

The new Detroit entry into the eight-team league is owned by Cleveland's Ted Stepien, who helped form the new loop.

The Auto Kings will play their home games at East Detroit Memorial Park, the same field used by Caesars. The season starts May 17.

"This new league is trying to make things exciting," said Gouin. "We want to appeal to the television market."

We're placing a major emphasis on the spectators. We don't want any more home run derbies."

NEW RULES to be invoked by the league include the familiar use of the restricted flight ball, nine inning games and a three-ball, two strike count.

"This will speed up the game much more," Gouin said. "It forces the batters to hit the first good pitch. They're trying to put defense back into the game."

The Auto Kings have already signed former Caesar players Gary Geister, Tony Mazza and Cal Carmen.

"I'm still looking for a couple of ball players," said Gouin. "There is a lot of talent out there. I'm confident we can have a good ball club."

Jack Roubush and Burt Smith, former residents of Canton Township, left the Caesars team last fall in pursuit of other business interests.

Stepien was not able to sign Rick Trudeau, a shortstop, and Doug Gerdes, a first baseman, off the old Caesars team. They opted to play this year for the amateur Softball City team.

A graduate of Wayne Memorial and Eastern Michigan University, Gouin has been Superintendent of the Canton Township Parks and Recreation for the past two years. A former member of the Wayne Jaycees and Civitans, he is presently District Commissioner for the American Softball Association (ASA).

He has also served on the Detroit Metro Youth Fitness Committee (1972-77) and was Vice-President of the Michigan Recreation and Park Association (MRPA).

The two-time APSPL All-Star said the new league will be divided into two divisions. Detroit has been grouped with Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati. The other division consists of Ft. Wayne, Kentucky, Milwaukee and Chicago, coached this season by former New York Yankee Joe Peptide.

Stepien held interest in three or four clubs, according to Gouin. The Detroit president is also a majority stockholder of the Cleveland Cavaliers of the National Basketball Association.

Tiger runners race past injured Salem

Belleville scored an impressive boys' track victory Thursday with a 97-37 win over previously unbeaten Plymouth over Salem in a Suburban Eight League dual.

The Tigers posted several outstanding performances enroute to the romp. Senior Jeff Patterson took the high jump with a leap of 6 feet 6 inches. Mike Sampson led a Belleville sweep in the long jump with a distance of 21-4.

"They ran over us pretty well," said Salem coach Gary Balconi. "They have some outstanding people. They're a well-balanced team."

John Froozan was Salem's only individual double winner. He took the discus (140-4) and shot put (46-5) events. Mark Tanski of Salem placed third in the discus (129-4).

The Rocks swept the pole vault with junior Dave Skone winning at 11-6. He was followed by teammates Mike Perkowski (11-0) and Len Czupski (10-0).

Greg Lipka, Craig Stack, Tom Keliher and Phil Anderson combined to capture the 440-yard relay for Salem. They were clocked in 46.6. Lipka managed a second-place finish in the 100-yard dash (10.6). Teammate Leigh Langkabel gained second in the 220-yard dash (23.8), his best time of the year.

In the 440-yard run, Salem's Pat Tor-torra finished third (56.5).

Salem went without top long jumper and high jumper Rob Neu, who is out with a foot injury. Sprinter and top discus thrower Bob Pittaway also did not compete because of an arm injury.

Chief girls make giant strides

Salem squads victorious in Mangan Track Relays

By BRAD EMONS

Delayed a day by rain, the third annual Mangan Track Relays ran Wednesday night and went pretty much according to plan — with one exception.

As expected, Plymouth Salem's boys rolled to an easy 97-37 win over rival Plymouth Canton. However, the girls' meet ended much closer than anticipated. Salem came out on top, 66-56.

Two weeks ago the Rock girls blasted Canton, 83-39.

"We're showing great improvement," said Canton girls' coach Bob

Richardson. "We have nothing to show for it, but we've come a long way. We just can't quit now. We have to work harder."

Salem coach Scott Kurtz, whose team upped their record to 4-0, admitted "there were some surprises."

"It made everyone work harder," he said, noting the close final. "It was rather unsettling. Somebody is always going to improve."

Kurtz let team members choose their own events.

Sophomore Linda Lybarger selected the right events and was instrumental in the Salem win. She took the 100 (12.0), 220 (28.2) and 440-yard (1:03.7) events.

She was also a member of the winning mile relay squad which clinched the meet for Salem. Lybarger teamed up with Ann Meixner, Lori Grissom and Carol Lindsay to post a first-place winning time of 4:18.6, a season best.

MEIXNER opted for the 110-yard hurdles (15.9) and long jump. She won both events. The 220-yard low hurdles went to Canton's Mary Fidler, who overhauled Salem's Carol Lindsay in the last 20 yards, after a fall.

Canton was strong in the distance events. The Chief girls received a strong showing from senior Geri Shufeldt, who won the mile (5:47.9) and 880-yard (2:40.2) runs.

Salem's Ruth Sample captured the two mile (12:22.0), but Canton finished second and third respectively (Michelle Perrot and Colleen Crissey).

In the field events, Canton's Liz

Gorecki won the discus (101-foot-3-inches), setting a school record. She took second in the shot put behind Salem's Carin Ford (33-0).

Canton, which lost all three relays to Salem in the previous dual, came back to capture the 440-yard event. That

Rock girls still perfect

Sophomore Linda Lybarger won three individual events to pace Plymouth Salem to a 98-25 Suburban Eight League girls' track win over Belleville Thursday on the road.

Salem, now 5-0 overall in dual meets, won all 11 running events. Lybarger took the 100, 220 and 440-yard sprint events. Her time was 12.4 in the 100.

Senior Ann Meixner was a double winner. She captured the 110-yard hurdles (17.0) and 220-yard low hurdles (32.0). She was also a member of the winning 880-yard and mile relay squads.

Carin Ford was another Salem double victor. She gained first places in the shot put (29 feet) and discus (89-0).

"We ran with a lot of injuries today," said Salem coach Scott Kurtz. "I can't say enough about Lybarger. Her legs are very sore, and she's still out there running."

"Overall we did better than the night before. The girls put it all together. They're running quality races against good and bad teams."

In the distance events, Salem's Ruth Sample took the 880 (2:39.0) and the mile (6:00.0). Teammate Beth Hoerner took the two mile (12:47.0).

Lybarger, Meixner, Lindsay and Grissom took the mile relay with a clocking of 4:25.2. In the 880-yard relay, Meixner was joined by Lindsay, Cindy McSurely and Jeanine Gray (1:56.4).

McSurely came through with a first place finish in the high jump (4-8). Gray finished second (4-6).

Other Rock second place finishes came from Sherri Muneio, shot put, 26-0; McSurely, 110 hurdles, 17.2; Liz Carlson, 100, 12.7; Eichstaedt, mile, 6:16.0; Lori Grissom, 440, 1:06.6; McSurely, 220 lows, 33.8; Marcie Granger, 880, 2:45.0; Pam Hodge, two mile, 13:39.0.

In the 440-yard relay, April McCall, Judy Davis, Carlson and Gray combined to post a first-place clocking of 57.6.

Salem third place finishers included Muneio, discus, and Lindsay, 220 lows, 34.0.

"I'm real happy," said Kurtz. "I can't remember when we were ever 5-0. The girls have all set goals and they're trying to reach them."

Salem will meet Suburban Eight League power Trenton at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday at home.

CANTON-CHURCHILL

Livonia Churchill turned back Plymouth Canton in a Western Six League girls' track meet Thursday afternoon, 77-46.

The Chiefs managed five firsts in the meet.

Michelle Perrot was a double winner. She won the 1600-meter run (5:56.8) and 3200-meter run (13:00.1).

"Churchill is one of the finest teams we've seen," said Canton coach Bob Richardson, whose team dropped to 1-4 on the season.

Other Canton firsts were recorded by Liz Gorecki, discus, 104-6 1/4 (school record); Brenda Bigelow, high jump, 4-10; and the 400-meter relay (58.0). That team was comprised of LeAnne Wheeler, Colleen Crissey, Jill Pedersen and Diane Durocher.

Gaining second place finishes for Canton were Gorecki, shot put, 30-1/4; Mary Fidler, 100-meter hurdles, 18.4; Geri Shufeldt, 1600 meters, 6:00.7, and 800-meters, 2:40.3; Crissey, 3200 meters, 13:14.4.

Canton third-place finishers included freshman Lisa Bundarin, shot put, 29-7, and 100-meter hurdles, 18.9; Gorecki, 100 meters, 14.1; Kathy Brophy, 400 meters, 1:08.9; Fidler, 200 hurdles, 35.8; Wheeler, 200 meters, 29.4.

Canton, which scared rival Salem the night before, losing by only 10 points in the Mangan Relays, could not come up with the same performances against Churchill.

"I think the Mangan meet took an edge off us that's usually there," said Richardson.

team consisted of Leslie McDowell, LeAnne Wheeler, Diane Durocher and Fidler.

Lindsay, Cindy McSurely, Judy Davis and Jeanine Gray teamed up to capture the 880-yard event for Salem with a time of 1:57.2.

"Our hurdlers, distance and relay people came through for us this time," said Richardson. "They (Salem) surprised us in the 100."

The 100-yard dash, won by Lybarger, was the only event swept by Salem. Gray (12.3) and Lindsay (12.8) took second and third, respectively, for the Rocks.

THE SALEM BOYS swept two field and three sprint events in beating Canton.

Salem's Bob Pittaway and Leigh Langkabel were double winners. Pittaway, despite an arm injury, won the discus with a toss of 145-8. He also captured first in the 100-yard dash (10.4).

Langkabel finished first in both the 220-yard dash (24.0) and 440-yard run (54.6).

Canton's Dan McGlinn took both the 120-yard high hurdles (15.8) and 330-yard lows (40.5).

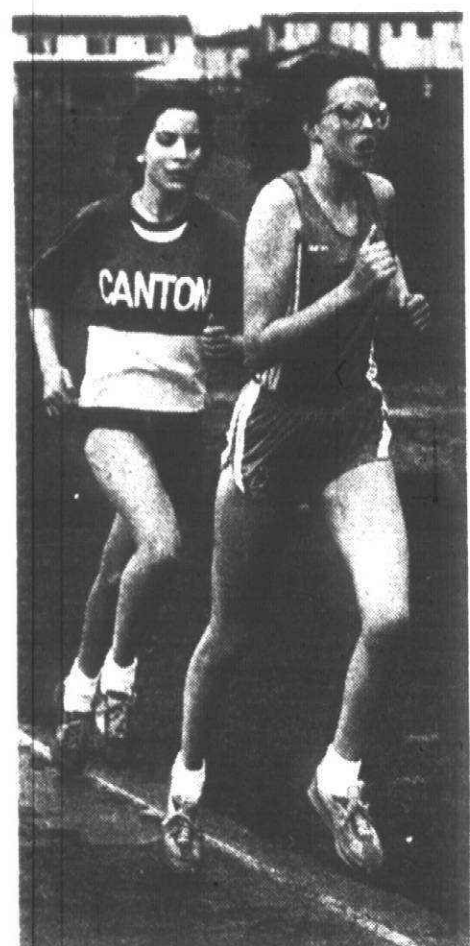

The Rocks gained first in the 440- and 880-yard relay events. Canton captured the mile relay.

Salem coach Gary Balconi was pleased with the performance of Chris Whittaker in the mile. He won with a time of 4:48.8.

"That was his best race of the year," said Balconi. "Chris was a pleasant surprise. He looked strong."

In the pole vault, Salem's Dave Skone jumped 12-6, tying his personal best. Teammate Scott Fuller leaped 6-0 to grab first in the high jump.

Canton's Dan Inloes took the 880-yard run (2:04.6) with teammate Jack Pacente romping to first in the two mile (10:26.6).

Opera prelude session this week in Southfield

A new opera program, "Prelude to Met Opera Week," will be held at 7:30 p.m. May 6 and 8 at the Southfield Civic Center, 26000 Evergreen.

The multi-media sessions will include informal lectures with recordings, a live singer and dancers. Visual displays will be coordinated by Father Walter M. Zebrowski of Orchard Lake St. Mary's College.

The two sessions will focus on the operas "Carmen" and "Eugene Onegin" and their literary origins.

Candace de Lattre of the Michigan Lyric Opera will sing the "Habanera" from Act I of "Carmen," and 12 dancers in period costume from the Wawel Folk Ensemble will perform the Polonaise from Act III of "Eugene Onegin."

Admission for each evening is $2.50. For more information, call 354-4717.

NEW RELEASES

ALL THAT JAZZ (R). Tour de force by writer-director Bob Fosse. Roy Scheider plays hard-driving, fast-living choreographer (Fosse) in "behind the scenes" story of unusual imagination and energy.

BEING THERE (PG). Peter Sellers is a TV-educated economist in satire that pokes fun at our political and social conceits.

THE BLACK MARBLE (PG). Paula Prentiss and Robert Foxworth in offbeat, romantic comedy about two ill-matched L.A. cops.

BLACK STALLION (G). Story about a boy and a horse told in rich visual images. Terrific performance by Mickey Rooney as an ex-jockey who befriends the boy.

CHANGING (R). George C. Scott in haunted house tries to unravel mystery of a child-murder that took place decades ago.

CHAPTER TWO (PG). Autobiographical Neil Simon story about a man starting over after death of his wife.

COAL MINER'S DAUGHTER (PG). Sissy Spacek is outstanding as Loretta Lynn in movie bio of country singer's grueling early years and troubled success.

DIE LAUGHING (PG). Energetic but pathetic attempt at comedy as police, Russians and a maniac cab driver-musician with valuable monkey.

ELECTRIC HORSEMAN (PG). Jane Fonda is a reporter and Robert Redford an ex-odeo champion in satirical romance.

FFOLKES (PG). Adventure flick with Roger Moore heading up team of unusual underwater sabotage experts and problem of hijacked oil platform.

THE FOG (R). Horror film from John Carpenter, who directed "Halloween." Supernatural fog, associated with legend of mariners rising from their graves and seeking vengeance, creates havoc in coastal village.

FOXES (R). Four San Fernando Valley teenage girls face problems and pressures of growing up.

GILDA LIVE (R). Funny sketches and strong language from Gilda Radner. Includes Father Sarducci's monologues and Radner's Roseanne Roseannadanna.

KRAMER VS. KRAMER (PG). Perceptive, well-acted drama about a broken marriage and a custody battle. Dustin Hoffman and Meryl Streep star.

LITTLE DARLINGS (R). Tatum O'Neal and Kristy McNichol are two teenagers who go to summer camp and wager who will lose her virginity first.

THE ROSE (R). Bette Midler as '60s rock star living life of emotional extremes that suggest some parallels with career of Janis Joplin.

THE SERIAL (R). Life among the trendy fold of Marin County.

SIMON (PG). Comedy with Alan Arkin as brainwashed professor who believes he is an alien from outer space.

'Tempest'

Michael Hordern (top) is the magician-father Prospero while it's Shake at first sight for his daughter Miranda (Pippa Guard) and Prince Ferdinand (Christopher Guard) in Shakespeare's "The Tempest," 8-10:30 p.m. Wednesday on Channel 56.

NO COOK-LITE BITES

Mother's Day 1980 — a time to make living easier by planning to serve light, simple-to-prepare fare, designed to satisfy appetites, nutrition needs and waistline watchers.

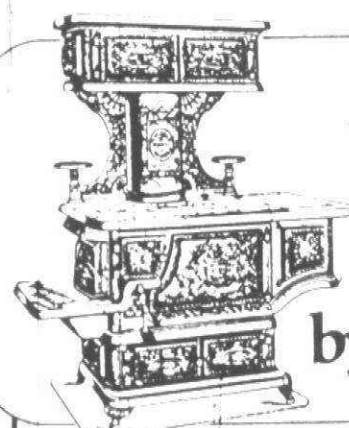

There's eye appeal in a menu of chilled soup, low-in-calorie salads and sandwiches, and an array of crisp, fresh vegetables accompanied by dilled yogurt for dipping. Set the foods on an attractively arranged buffet table. With this informal setting, family and guests can select those foods which appeal to their individual appetites.

Well in advance of mealtime, make and thoroughly chill the soups. Let it chill for several hours to let the flavors mingle. And if Sunday turns out to be a chilly day, serve the soup hot, in mugs.

Beef-flavor bouillon, tomato juice, dry roasted peanuts, yogurt and lemon juice make this 215-calorie per cup soup which is almost a meal in itself.

Salad makings should be fresh, cold and crisp. Chilled bowls preserve the freshness and salad dressings can be served on the side. Strips of or julienned cheese should be added just before serving.

If your pleasure is packing a picnic, these foods will pack and travel. In fact, some of them could easily make it to the office for a controlled calorie luncheon.

The Warming Oven by Emily Watson

May is mushroom month in Michigan and the most prized of all is the morel. Old-timers say the morel appears in the hardwood forests "when the leaves on the red oak are the size of a mouse's ear."

And each spring, the department of information services at Michigan State University sends out bulletins with suggestions and warnings to those susceptible to the annual May mushroom madness.

The morel has the texture of a sponge and the shape of a Christmas tree. They range in color from creamy-white to nearly black. The attachment of the bottom of the cap to the stalk is the acid test. You know it's a morel if it has a deeply pitted, hollow top portion attached at its base to a hollow stem.

Once you reach promising mushroom country, the most difficult task is finding the first morel. Until your eye becomes adept at spotting the mushrooms against the mottled brown tones of last year's fallen leaves, you can literally be walking on morels yet not see them.

Some old hands suggest getting as close to the ground as possible and looking into the sun so as to throw the mushrooms into silhouette.

"Doing the mushroom squat," they call it.

TO KEEP YOUR harvest fresh, stow it in shallow baskets or cardboard boxes. Do not use plastic bags — they do not protect the mushrooms against breakage and they promote hot, moist conditions that lead to rapid spoilage. Keep the mushrooms cool and well-ventilated until you get them home.

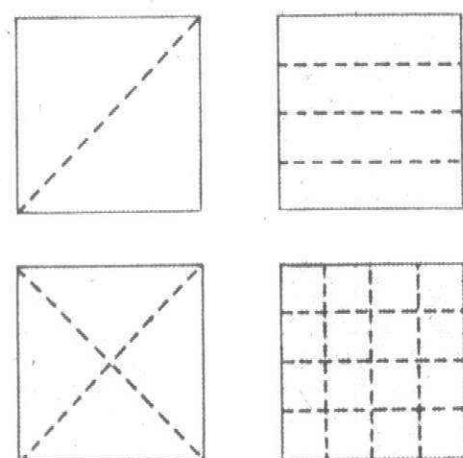

Clean and process or cook mushrooms as soon as you get them home. They are very perishable and lose quality quickly.

Wash the mushroom thoroughly in cold water before processing. Some recipes recommend using citric acid or lemon juice to prevent darkening. If you work quickly, mushrooms do not darken much in cooking.

Mushrooms can be frozen whole, but they must be blanched first. Choose firm, tender mushrooms, small to medium size. Wash and cut off the lower part of the stems. Cut large ones into pieces. Blanch in boiling water to which one-third teaspoon of lemon juice has been added for each gallon of water. Small whole mushrooms and slices require two minutes in the boiling water; whole mushrooms need four minutes. Cool before packing and freezing.

HOW TO CUT CHEESE

To garnish salads, sandwiches or snacks here's how to cut cheese product slices into simple shapes.

LITE CHEESE AND CHICKEN SANDWICHES

(Makes 4 sandwiches)

- 1/4 cup diet margarine
- 1 tablespoon prepared mustard
- 4 slices whole wheat bread
- Lettuce leaves
- 8 slices pasteurized process cheese product
- 4 (1-ounce) slices cooked chicken or turkey

In small bowl, combine margarine and mustard; mix well. On each bread slice, spread about 1 tablespoon mustard mixture. Top each with lettuce, 1 cheese product slice, 1 slice chicken and remaining cheese product slice. Garnish as desired. Refrigerate leftovers.

Approximates 220 calories per sandwich.

YOGURT-DILL DIP

(Makes 2 cups)

- 2 (8-ounce) containers plain yogurt
- 4 teaspoons Chicken-Flavor Instant Bouillon
- 1 teaspoon dill weed
- Fresh crisp vegetables*

In small bowl, combine all ingredients except vegetables; mix well. Cover; chill at least 1 hour. Stir before serving. Serve with fresh crisp vegetables. Refrigerate leftovers.

*Suggested Vegetables: carrot sticks, celery sticks, mushrooms, cherry tomatoes, cauliflower-ettes, cucumber slices or strips, zucchini slices or strips.

Approximates 160 calories per cup OR 20 calories per 2 tablespoons serving.

LUNCHEON ORIENTAL SHRIMP SALAD

(Makes 2 servings)

- 1 (16-ounce) can bean sprouts, drained and rinsed
- 1 cup (4 ounces) cooked shrimp
- 1/2 cup chopped green onion
- 1/4 cup thinly sliced radishes
- 1/4 cup bottled low calorie Italian dressing
- 4 slices pasteurized process cheese product, cut into small squares
- 2 large lettuce leaves

In medium bowl, combine bean sprouts, shrimp, onion and radishes; mix well. Pour dressing evenly over top. Cover and chill at least 2 hours; stir occasionally. Drain. Add cheese product; toss. Serve on lettuce. Refrigerate leftovers.

Approximates 215 calories per serving.

COOL ROSY PEANUT SOUP

(Makes 1-1/2 quarts or six 1-cup servings)

- 1 cup dry-roasted peanuts
- 4-1/2 cups tomato juice
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon beef-flavor instant bouillon
- OR 3 beef-flavor bouillon cubes
- 1 (8-ounce) container plain yogurt
- Fresh parsley

In blender container or food processor, grind peanuts; set aside. In medium saucepan, combine tomato juice, lemon juice and bouillon; cook over medium heat until bouillon dissolves, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat. Cool slightly. Add peanuts and yogurt; mix until smooth. Chill. Garnish with parsley or cucumber sticks. Refrigerate leftovers.

Approximates 215 calories per cup serving.

LITE MIXED SALAD

(Makes five 2-cup servings)

- 2-1/2 quarts mixed salad greens, rinsed and torn into bite-size pieces
- 6 slices Pasteurized Process Cheese Product, paired and cut into thin strips
- 1 cup sliced fresh mushrooms
- 2 small tomatoes, quartered
- 1 small cucumber, sliced
- 1 medium carrot, pared and cut into 1-inch strips
- 5 green peppers

Place greens in large salad bowl; arrange remaining ingredients over and among greens. Cover; chill until served. Serve with Chunky Tomato Salad Dressing. Refrigerate leftovers.

Approximates 90 calories per 2-cup serving without dressing.

CHUNKY TOMATO SALAD DRESSING

(Makes 2-1/2 cups)

- 2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
- 1 cup lowfat cottage cheese
- 1 cup (one 8-ounce can) stewed tomatoes
- 2 tablespoons sweet pickle relish
- 2 teaspoons chicken-flavor instant bouillon
- 1 teaspoon grated onion
- 1/2 teaspoon paprika
- 1/8 teaspoon cayenne pepper

In blender container, blend cheese until smooth. In medium bowl, combine ingredients; mix well, breaking up large tomato pieces. Cover; chill thoroughly. Stir before serving. Serve with Lite Mixed Salad. Refrigerate leftovers.

Approximates 200 calories per cup OR 25 calories per 2 tablespoons serving.

TOMATO-CUCUMBER COOLER

(NOT ILLUSTRATED)

(Makes 1 quart)

- 1 medium cucumber, pared, seeded and chopped (about 1 cup)
- 3 cups tomato juice
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 to 2 teaspoons Beef-Flavor Instant Bouillon
- 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
- 1/2 teaspoon celery salt
- Thin cucumber slices, optional

In blender container, combine all ingredients except cucumber slices. Blend until smooth. Chill. Stir before serving. If desired, garnish with cucumber slices and serve over ice. Refrigerate leftovers.

Approximates 180 calories per quart OR 45 calories per 1-cup serving.

A Question of Taste

By Hilary Keating Callaghan

Grated carrots in a savory quiche

The true meaning of the expression "the carrot on the stick" must be lost on a lot of people. Rather than representing two distinct alternatives, it must seem redundant; the only difference being one of degree between two instruments of torture.

High in nutrition, available year-round and low in price (12 cents a pound at a local supermarket recently), the carrot is a victim of its own best features. Generations of mothers have urged their children to eat their carrots because, "They're good for you."

Since it is a rule of human nature that resistance increases in direct proportion to urgings in matters of this type, generations of children have reached adulthood with an anti-carrot bias.

This is unfortunate because carrots are good for you. Their deep orange color is due to a rich supply of carotene, which is converted to Vitamin A by the liver. They are relatively low in calories; an average carrot has about 20 calories. A less scientific but more interesting claim was made for the carrot by the ancient Greeks, who considered it to be an aphrodisiac. Perhaps this endorsement might succeed in making converts of those who never succumbed to mothers' urgings.

IN ADDITION to being a victim of its own good reputation, carrots have suffered at the hands of food processors. Canned carrots, like most other canned vegetables, lose much of their nutritional value, texture, color and flavor. With watered-down flavor and a mushy texture, there is little to recommend them. Although many vegetables survive freezing with little loss of texture, this is, unfortunately, not true of carrots. Freezing damages the tissue of carrots; the thawed ice crystals leave gaps between the fibers, giving the cooked carrot a spongy texture again reinforcing the prejudices of those with a bias against carrots.

This is unfortunate because carrots have a deliciously sweet flavor and crisp texture when properly prepared. This preparation starts with careful selection. Carrots should be, of course, as fresh as possible and slender. Large, old carrots tend to be woody in texture. Carrots fresh from the garden are ideal. You might, in fact, want to do nothing more than wash and eat these out of hand. If, however, your yield is large enough, you might want a greater variety of presentations.

The following recipes offer this variety; carrots served raw in a refreshing salad, grated into a savory quiche that makes a substantial first course or vegetarian entree, or baked with an unusual sauce that would particularly complement fish, but would make an interesting side dish for non-sauced meat.

To preserve all that the carrot has to offer, just keep in mind a few reminders. Much of the nutrition in a carrot lies directly under the skin and is lost when peeled. Whenever possible, scrub carrots instead. If being served raw, carrots should be prepared as close to serving time as possible since exposure to the air results in discoloration and loss of nutrients. If cooked, as little water as possible should be used — perhaps one-quarter inch in the bottom of a pan (enough to create steam and prevent sticking), and the carrots should be cooked until just crisp-tender.

Shredded carrots need only be cooked 4 to 5 minutes; sliced carrots, 10 to 12 minutes; and whole carrots, 15 to 20 minutes.

FRESH CARROT-PEA SALAD
4 medium carrots, scrubbed
1 cup frozen peas
2 tbsp. sunflower seeds
1 ripe avocado, peeled and sliced
Creamy herb dressing

Coarsely grate carrots. Divide evenly among four individual salad bowls. Place peas in a colander. Run hot tap water over the peas until just thawed. Shake gently to remove excess water. Divide the peas among the salad bowls, atop the grated carrots. Sprinkle with the sunflower seeds. Top with the avocado slices. Spoon dressing onto salads. Serve immediately. Serves 4.

CREAMY HERB DRESSING

1/2 cup buttermilk
1/2 cup mayonnaise
3/4 tsp. salt
2 tsp. minced parsley
2 tsp. minced onion
1 small clove garlic, crushed
Freshly ground black pepper to taste

Stir all ingredients together in a medium bowl. Chill at least 30 minutes before serving.

CARROT QUICHE

1 unbaked 9-inch pie shell
3 egg yolks (divided)
Dijon mustard
4 to 5 carrots, shredded
4 tbsp. melted butter
Pinch of marjoram or oregano
2 tsp. chopped parsley
1 tsp. lemon juice
1/4 cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese
2 eggs
1/2 cup heavy cream
1/2 cup plain yogurt

Place a piece of foil in the pastry shell and weigh it down with raw rice or dried beans. Bake for 15 minutes in a 425-degree oven. Remove the foil and the beans or rice. Brush the shell with one of the egg yolks and return it to the oven for 2 minutes to set the yolk. Brush the bottom of the baked pastry shell with a thick coating of Dijon mustard.

Blanch the shredded carrots for 1 minute in boiling salted water. Drain thoroughly. Mix with the melted butter, salt, marjoram or oregano, parsley and lemon juice. Spread mixture over the bottom of the pastry shell. Top with the Parmesan cheese.

Beat together the two eggs, the remaining two egg yolks, heavy cream and yogurt. Pour over the carrot mixture. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes or until just set. 4 to 6 servings

COMPANY CARROTS

2 1/2 lbs. carrots
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1 tbsp. minced onion
1 tbsp. horseradish
Salt and pepper to taste
1/4 cup finely-chopped crushed saltine crackers
Chopped parsley
Paprika

Cook carrots in a small amount of boiling salted water until fork-tender. Reserve 1/4 cup cooking liquid. Cut carrots lengthwise into narrow strips. Arrange in a 9-inch square baking dish. Set aside.

Combine reserved cooking liquid with the mayonnaise, onion, horseradish, salt and pepper. Pour over the carrots. Sprinkle cracker crumbs on top. Sprinkle with parsley and paprika. Bake in a preheated 375 degree oven for 20 minutes. Makes 8 servings.

Roast goose stars on birthday party menu

Marcia Hochkammer, a Birmingham homemaker and busy volunteer, gave a special dinner party recently. Her husband, Bill, reached his 35th birthday, a milestone that demands some kind of recognition.

Bill was not interested in having a large party, but rather preferred a small group of good friends and a dinner that included his favorite foods and wines.

One guest, familiar with Bill's enjoyment of Eastern food and long-time patronage of The Sheik, a Syrian restaurant in downtown Detroit, brought a large bowl of hummus and a basket of pita bread.

If you are not familiar with hummus, it is an appetizer made from pureed chick peas, garlic and sesame oil, usually eaten spooned onto pita bread.

Bill chose the wines, all German whites, his favorites and about which he is quite knowledgeable. He has haunted wine shops, read and studied and traveled to Germany to learn more about these wines.

Marcia gets all the credit for the dinner, which featured a roast goose, spinach salad, potato and cheese casserole, marinated carrots and crescent rolls. And, of course, ice cream and birthday cake for dessert.

Practice generates ease and confidence with roasting a goose. This bird has heavy layers of fat and should be scored "severely," according to Marcia. "This is a good time to get rid of all your hostilities. Make deep cuts along the breast and thighs. If you don't, there will be fat left on the goose."

The birthday goose weighed 13 pounds, which barely fed 10 diners. Usually when cooking poultry, one-half pound per person is a good measure, so you can see there is a great deal of fat to cook away.

Marcia shares some of her birthday dinner recipes below.

ROAST GOOSE

Pre-heat oven to 450 degrees. Wash goose and score severely. Place on top of broiler pan that is at least three inches deep as there will be a lot of fat and the bird should not cook in any of the fat. Place one onion, quartered, and two stalks of celery, cut into three-inch sections, inside the cavity. These should be removed before carving and serving. A rack across a deep pan can also be used but make sure the goose does not rest in any of the accumulating cooked-off fat.

Immediately upon placing goose in the oven, reduce the temperature to 350 degrees. Roast 25 minutes per pound. It will be necessary to pour off the fat from the pan about halfway through the roasting time.

RUTH RAYMOND'S MARINATED CARROTS

Marcia says she collects recipes from everywhere. This is one from a friend in Wisconsin. 6 to 8 carrots, sliced in chunks

1 large sweet onion, sliced thin
1 can tomato soup
1/4 cup salad oil
3/4 cup sugar
1/4 cup wine vinegar
1/4 cup cider vinegar
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. paprika
1 tsp. pepper
1 tbsp. Worcestershire sauce
1 tsp. dry mustard

Cook the carrots until just tender. Drain and cool. Add onions to carrots. Combine all other ingredients and pour over carrots and onions. Cover and store in refrigerator for two days. Serves 6.

CHEESE AND POTATO CASSEROLE

2 boxes frozen shredded potatoes, thawed
1 can cream of chicken soup
2 lb. melted butter (one stick)
1 1/2 pint sour cream
1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
3 green onions, chopped
1 1/2 cup shredded cheddar cheese

Mix all ingredients together in an ovenproof casserole. Bake 40 minutes at 350 degrees. Serves 6 to 8. Correspondence should be addressed to Vivian Byrd, 1225 Bowers, Birmingham, MI 48012.

Star-shine

The sun, the star nearest the Earth, is only an average-size star, yet it is large enough to hold about 1,300,000 Earths, National Geographic World magazine says.

The VIEW from CANTON CENTER

THE AUCTION at WSDP, the high school station went well over the top of its hoped for goal of $3,000. The auction raised $3,745 which will be used for on-the-spot broadcasts of school and community events.

Some of the sponanees added to the fun. There was the caller who offered Jeff Cardinal, WSDP coordinator, $10 if he would sing the Michigan State University fight song on the air.

Jeff is very modest about his vocal talents, listing them as the least of his abilities. But, for WSDP, he sang. The response was immediate. A caller offered $10 for the University of Michigan fight song. He obliged.

An MSU stalwart retaliated with an offer of $15 for a repeat of the State song.

So it went.

Later Saturday afternoon, someone called with a pledge for the Ohio State fight song. A few seconds later, there was an offer "if you don't sing the OSU fight song."

They had been a little over their heads on that one anyway couldn't think of the words or tune. Then, Fred Hill, an Ohio State alumnus, appeared at the radio station. With some coach-

by ELLIE GRAHAM

ing from Fred, student Bruce Ruttenburg and Fred, sang the OSU song.

FRED HAD COME to collect a $40 bargain. He had out-bid everyone on the item "Breakfast served in bed by Plymouth Mayor Mary Childs and City Manager Henry Graper."

There is a rumor going around town that Fred may insist on having the breakfast served in some public spot.

There was some difficulty auctioning off four aluminum Corvette wheels.

A group of young musicians, the Former Freshmen, performed on the air then offered to play for parties, weddings or dances. They were auctioned twice.

Jeff and John Seidelman of WSDP said they were proud of the professional attitude of the students throughout the three-day auction. And they were very grateful to the parents who worked behind the scenes and did all the follow-up work.

A local dentist said he had the radio in his office tuned in to the auction all day. He had to let one patient out of the chair three times so she could call in bids on his telephone.

WELCOME BACK, Creon Smith. It's good to see you back where you belong.

PLYMOUTH-CANTON Community Schools employees recently donated 120 pints of blood in a blood drive at Central Middle School.

The blood was given in the name of Matthew Klepack, the student at Starkweather Elementary School who was injured in a fall at the school.

SUE BISHOP, a business administration freshman at Mount Union College, Alliance, Ohio, has been elected sunshine girl for the Alpha Chi Omega sorority at the college.

Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. James Bishop of Amherst Court, Plymouth Township.

CATHY FILLION is the new federation chief of the Plymouth-Canton YMCA Indian Maidens.

The national convention of the federation was last weekend at the Dearborn Hyatt Regency Hotel. Local adult members formed the transportation committee for the convention. They were responsible for meeting delegates at the airport, delivering them to the hotel, and providing transportation for side trips — to church etc. during the convention. There also were workshops at Greenfield Village.

Delegates attended from almost every state in the Union. There was even one gentleman from Hawaii, according to Cathy.

ALMA COLLEGE juniors, Nancy Abbey and Laurene Kirchhoff, both 1977 graduates of Plymouth South High School, have been selected to be career aides for 1980-81.

As career aides, they will work in Alma's Career Information Center, act as hostesses for career exchanges, help in career development projects, work with resident assistants in student dormitories, and serve as general information sources for the campus.

Nancy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William V. Abney of Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth; Laurene is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kirchhoff of Brookside Drive, Plymouth.

Watercolor judged best in 3 Cities Art Show

Betty Manthey's watercolor of a parrot, "Hello, Hello," was named best of show in the Three Cities Art Club's annual spring show. The four-day exhibit and sale in Westchester Square was juried by Lincoln Lao.

Mrs. Manthey also received a first place ribbon for "Here's Johnny and Friends" in the mixed media division. Using wooden blocks as a background the artist assembled the faces of the Tonight Show's host, Johnny Carson, and 66 friends. Mrs. Manthey can name every one of them. She will not reveal the medium used to add dimension to the work.

Doreen Lawton was awarded second, third and honorable mention in the mixed media class for "The Sea," "Blue Mountains," and "My Chickens."

Trudy Deetz, who lives on N. Evergreen in Plymouth, was first in the oil category with "Reflections." Joyce Frederick's "Contentment" was second, David Lamb's "Tucson Mission" was third, and Audrey Paul's "Lake Superior" received honorable mention.

In the acrylics, Jean Bologna's "Just Weeds" was first.

Martha Barnes received second, third and honorable mention for "Freedom," "Yaquina Lighthouse" and "Fields of Rye."

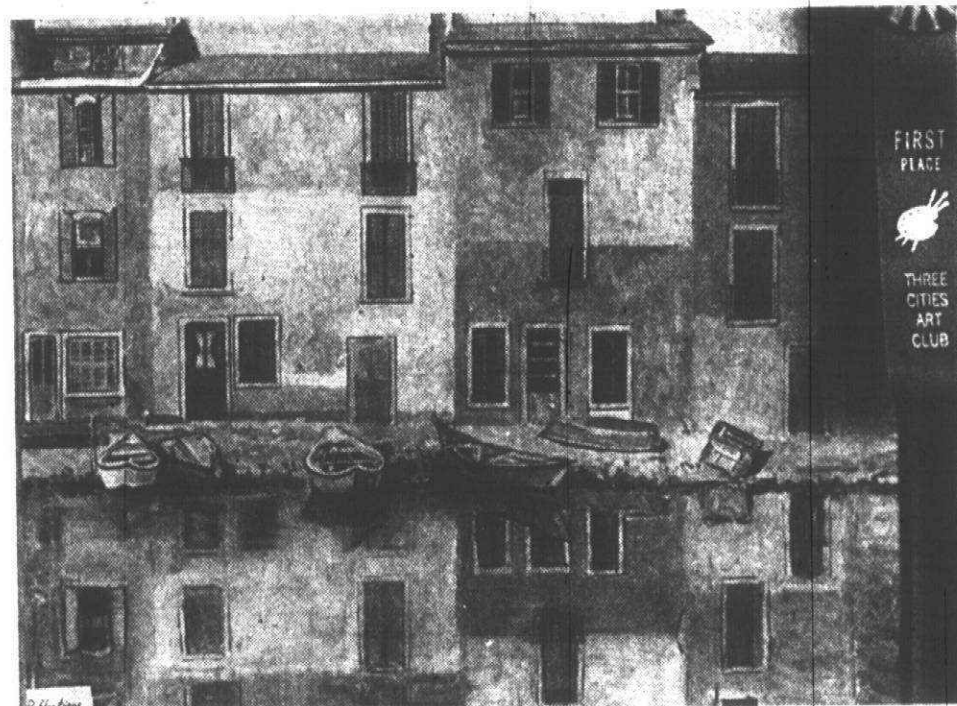

Sue Nelson's bright watercolor, "Alice's Flowers" was best in its class. "Still Life" by Doreen Lawton was second, "Winter in Mountains" by Lorene Vives was third and "Autumn Embers" by Linda Akhtar received honorable mention.

In the drawing division, the lithograph, "At the Market" by Kathleen Montgomery was first; block print, "Bounty" by Ann Gentry was second; and the ink drawing, "stormy" by David Lamb was third. Kathleen Montgomery's pencil drawing, "Untitled" received honorable mention.

Judging took place Thursday morning and the works remained on display through Saturday. Ellen Kény chaired the show for the Three Cities Art Club.

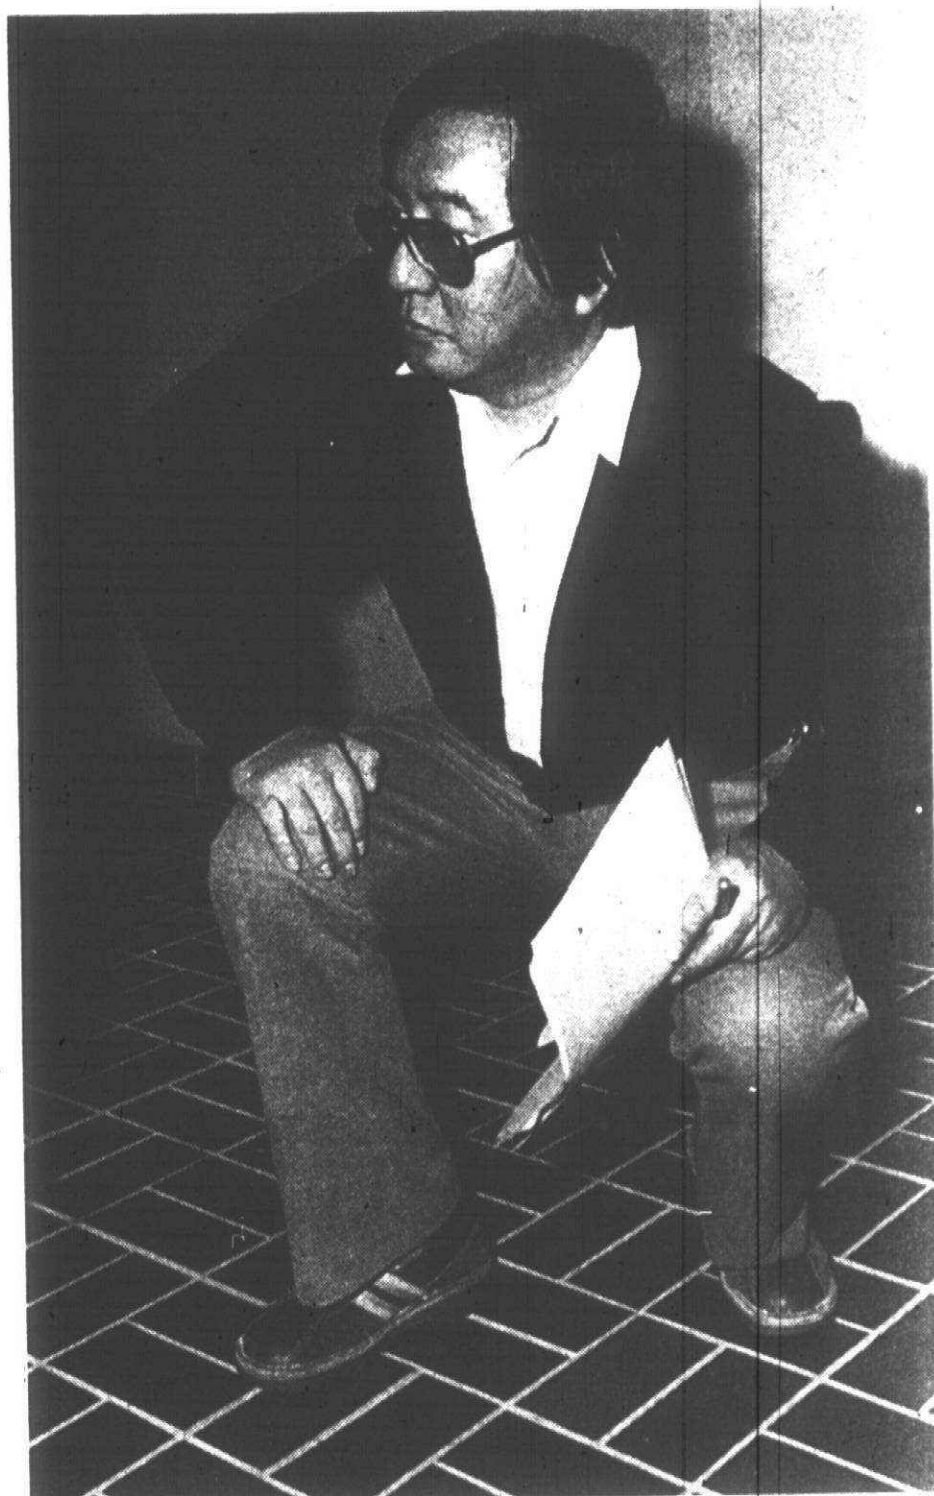

Visitors to the show voted on their favorite and the winner will be announced.

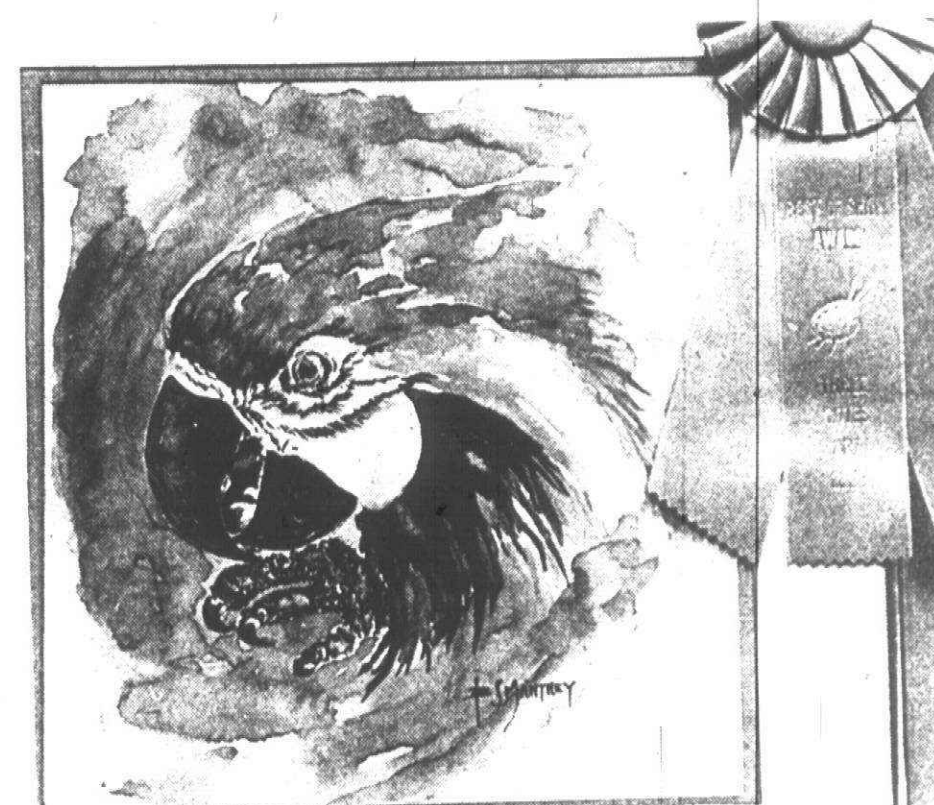

Trudy Deetz's oil painting, "Reflections," earned a first-place award.

Kathleen Montgomery's lithograph was awarded first place for drawing.

Judge Lincoln Lao got close to his work. (Staff photos by Gary Caskey)

Best of show was Betty Manthey's water color of a parrot, "Hello, Hello."

It was Dorothy T. Miller Day at Miller

The students at Miller Elementary School on Hanford Road in Canton Township have been wanting to meet Dorothy Miller, the lady after whom their school was named, for a long time.

Finally, May 1 was set aside as Dorothy T. Miller Day at the school, and the long-awaited visit took place.

The former first-grade teacher at Bird Elementary School was escorted to the school by her daughter, Carol Stirtan. She arrived at 1 p.m. and toured the school. The tour was followed by an assembly and tea in her honor.

Personal friends and school administrators were invited to the party. The children had written a book for Mrs. Miller and composed songs in her honor. They presented the book and sang the songs at the assembly.

FESTIVITIES began at 10 a.m. Thursday morning when each student launched a balloon bearing a message to Mrs. Miller.

More than 700 bright red balloons soared skyward from the Miller playground.

In preparation for the visit, the children were busy learning about Mrs. Miller as a teacher, mother and person.

Among the persons who went to the school to talk about Dorothy Miller was Nancy Tanger, first principal of Bird School and the one who hired Mrs. Miller as a teacher at Bird. She had been substitute teaching at the old Central Elementary School when Mrs. Tanger was principal there.

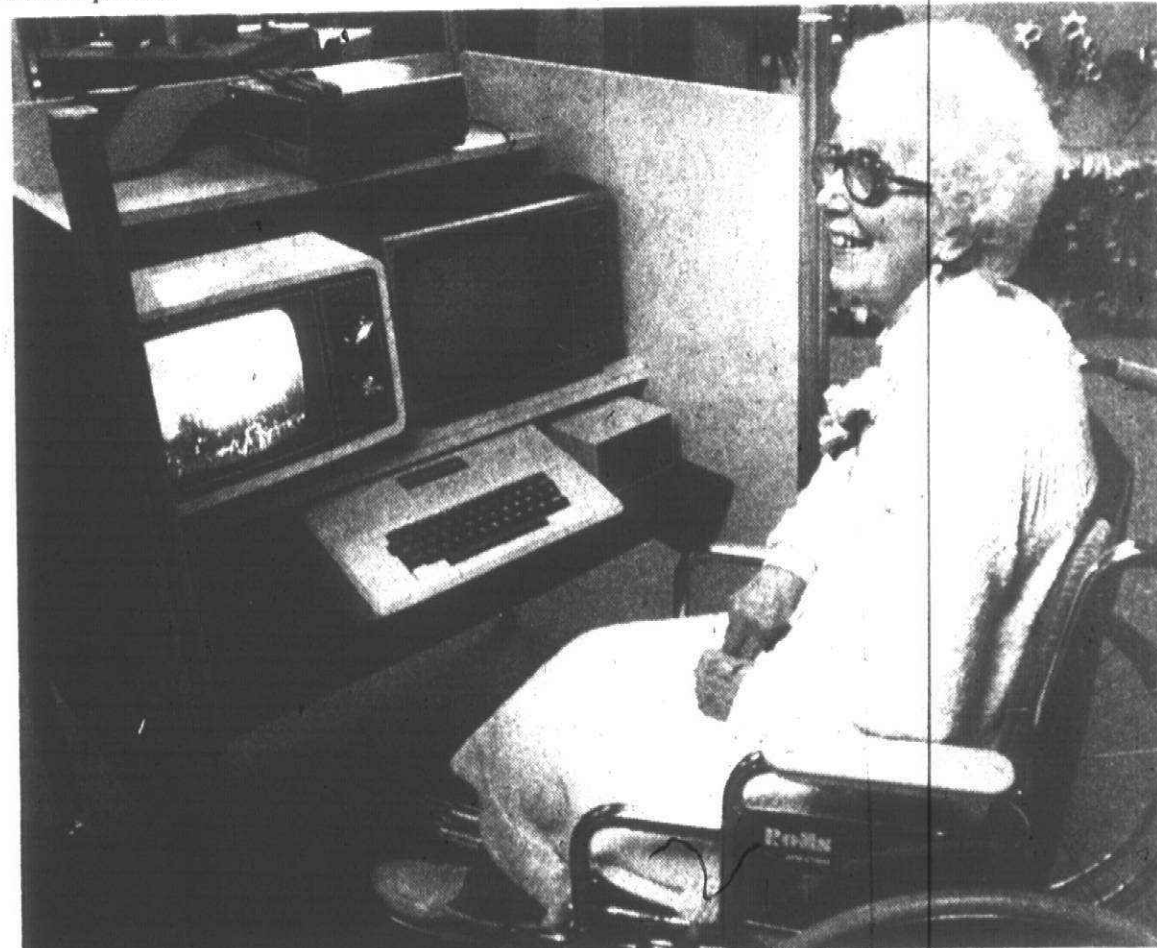

Others who shared their memories of their association with Mrs. Miller were her daughter, Earl Gibson, former principal at Bird; and Carrol Nichols, present principal at Bird. The students interviewed each of them and compiled the interesting facts and information in book form.

By the time the big day arrived, Dorothy Miller was not just a mysterious picture in the lobby of the school — she was a familiar and very real lady.

Kyle Karinen, 9, presented a bouquet of daffodils to Dorothy Miller as Bruce Cotton waited to give her a card of his own making. (Staff photos by Gary Caskey)

The morning balloon launch had been videotaped for Mrs. Miller. It was the first time she had seen computers used in a school.

Walks in the woods

It's springtime in Miller Woods and many people took advantage of the tours offered by the members of the Miller Woods Committee. The dutchman's breeches (above) were in bloom as well as the spring beauties, hepaticas, yellow trout lilies, blood root and May apples.

Naturalists identified the plant life for those who wandered down the trails in the wildlife sanctuary on Powell Road. (Staff photos by Gary Caskey)

Sisters to wed

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Malone of Willow Creek Drive, Canton, announce the engagements of their daughters, Celeste Christine and Dorene (Dori) Marie.

Celeste is to wed Stanley George Peyton of Durango, Colo., son of Mr. and Mrs. George Peyton of Maxwell Street, Plymouth. Dori will wed Ronald Bianchi, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bianchi of Canton.

The couples are planning a double wedding in October in St. John Neumann Catholic Church, Canton.

Celeste graduated from Plymouth Salem High School in 1976, and is employed at General Motors Hydramatics in Ypsilanti. Her fiancé graduated from Plymouth Canton High School in 1974, and works at PSI Hydraulics in Durango.

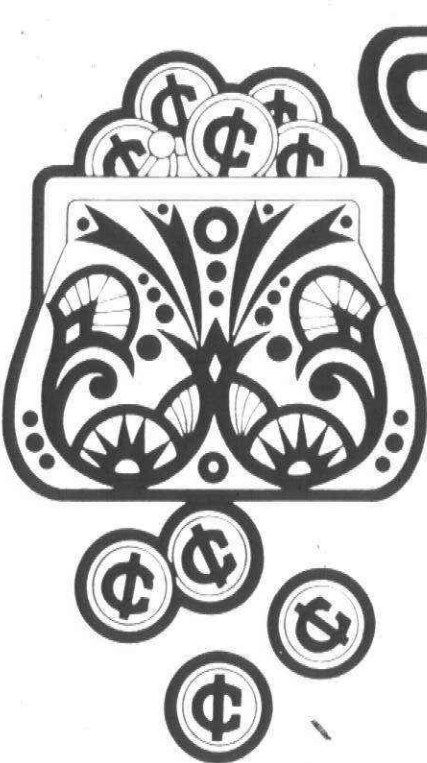

Dori is a 1977 graduate of Plymouth Salem. She is a certified dental assistant, having received an associate degree from Washtenaw Community College. She is employed at a dental office in Westland. Her fiancé graduated from Plymouth Salem High School in 1974 and received an associate degree in law enforcement from Schoolcraft College. He is a Canton Township police officer.

Canton sisters, Dori (left) and Celeste Malone are planning a double wedding in October. They are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Malone.

PAC picks sale planners

Mary Smith has been chosen chairman of the Plymouth Community Arts Council committee making plans for the group's participation in the Plymouth Fall Festival, an artists' and craftsmen's show. Janet Repp has been named co-chairman.

Joan Englehart is heading the chairman selection committee.

Susan Schrader will be in charge of the student booth; Jan Gattoni and Donna Harwood, facility; Pam Minchner and Jan Carney, hostesses; Marilyn Whittaker and Martha Ahern, hospitality; Mary Rose Houseman and Marg Moon, finance; Carol Vos and Sue McElroy, programs; Nan Cooper and Nancy Johnson, admissions; Toni King and Nancy Sharp, publicity; and Kris Hasley, display showcases.

Committee members held a business-brunch to discuss plans recently. Notebooks and folders from previous shows were reviewed and distributed, and plans for a bigger and better show were discussed.

the show is the PCAC's major fundraiser for the year, drawing as it does more than 8,000 visitors. It will be held Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 13 and 14, at Central Middle School, Main Street, Plymouth.

Susan Schrader, Carol Vos and Martha Ahern (from left) were among committee members who met recently to discuss plans for the arts council's artists' and craftsmen's show.

Children's musical set for Ann Arbor

"A Place to Be Me," a musical drama about growing up, will be staged at 4:30 and 7:30 p.m., Thursday, May 8, in Ann Arbor. It will be in the Lydia Mendelsohn Theater, University of Michigan.

The show is being sponsored by Young People's Theater, and tickets may be obtained by calling YPT at 996-3888. Student prices and group rates are available. The show is recommended for young people in third grade through adult.

"A Place to Be Me" is being presented by Albion Productions, a professional touring company from Michigan that was chosen to perform this musical at a national showcase of 16 companies from the U.S. and Canada in New York. YPT has a three-art program, classes for young people and adults, shows by YPT members and professional performances for family audiences. YPT is funded by the Michigan Council for the Arts and area corporations and businesses.

Kids get planting advice

These students at Smith Elementary School are getting advice on the care of their new Austrian pine seedlings from Nancy Swartzwelter. Mrs. Swartzwelter is a member of the Plymouth Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association. Last week, members distributed nearly 1,000 seedlings to second-graders in 10 Plymouth area schools, public and private. Adele Miller, horticulture chairwoman, was in charge of the project. This is the second year seedlings have been distributed, and members are hoping to make it an annual event. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Dionne Warwick thought Red Cross was only about hurricanes.

"True. I always thought of Red Cross as a kind of rescue force in times of disaster and little more."
"Then I learned that in towns and cities across America, Red Cross gives the kind of help to individuals that you rarely hear about, because it doesn't make headlines in the newspaper."
"Red Cross, for instance, helps elderly people get to doctors' appointments... and even to the store. They help veterans get back on the track. They teach kids to swim... and how to save lives."
"I found out that if you added up all the different humanitarian jobs Red Cross does in different towns, the number comes to over 100!"
"That's why I'm helping to keep Red Cross ready. And why I hope you do, too."

Keep Red Cross ready.

A writer and a millionaire left their marks on Asheville

By BILL SCHEMME

ASHEVILLE, N.C. — It's one of those unfortunate quirks of history that Thomas Wolfe and George Washington Vanderbilt never met.

Vanderbilt was not accustomed to inviting coarse young rubes to share his baronial table at Biltmore House, outside Asheville, N.C. By the late 1920s, when Wolfe's first novel, "Look Homeward, Angel," created a literary sensation, Vanderbilt was in his grave more than a decade.

However, both men immortalized Asheville, leaving their marks on the mountain town, one in soaring stone, the other in soaring phrases.

MOVIE-GOERS got a peak at Asheville's most famous tourist attraction, Biltmore House, in which Peter Sellers, Shirley McLaine and Melvyn Douglas filmed some of the scenes of "Being There." Douglas' supporting performance snagged an Oscar, and the scenes in and around Biltmore House may lure some vacationers this summer.

The estate was the 19th century brainchild of young George Vanderbilt, youngest son of William H. Vanderbilt, and grandson of crusty old Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt. As was the custom among wealthy young easterners of the 1880s, George Vanderbilt spent his summers in the healthy Smoky Mountains around Asheville.

He galloped through a woodland glade one afternoon and gazed at the tableau of Mt. Pisgah and the Great Smokies rising against a French-blue heaven. A gentleman of considerable taste, as well as one of wealth, Vanderbilt envisioned the most magnificent palace a democratic America had ever seen.

To implement his dream in stone, he bought up all the land his eyes surveyed — 125,000 acres, including Mt. Pisgah — built a railroad to the site, and hired more than 1,000

European and American laborers and artisans.

Architect Richard Morris Hunt borrowed heavily from three Loire Valley French chateaux and created a 16th century French Renaissance fantasy of parapets, pinnacles, Gothic chimneys, gargoyles and flying buttresses.

Landscape architect Frederick Law Olmsted laid out 250 acres of gardens, terraces, parks and lily ponds. More than 5,000 varieties of roses were planted in the English walled garden.

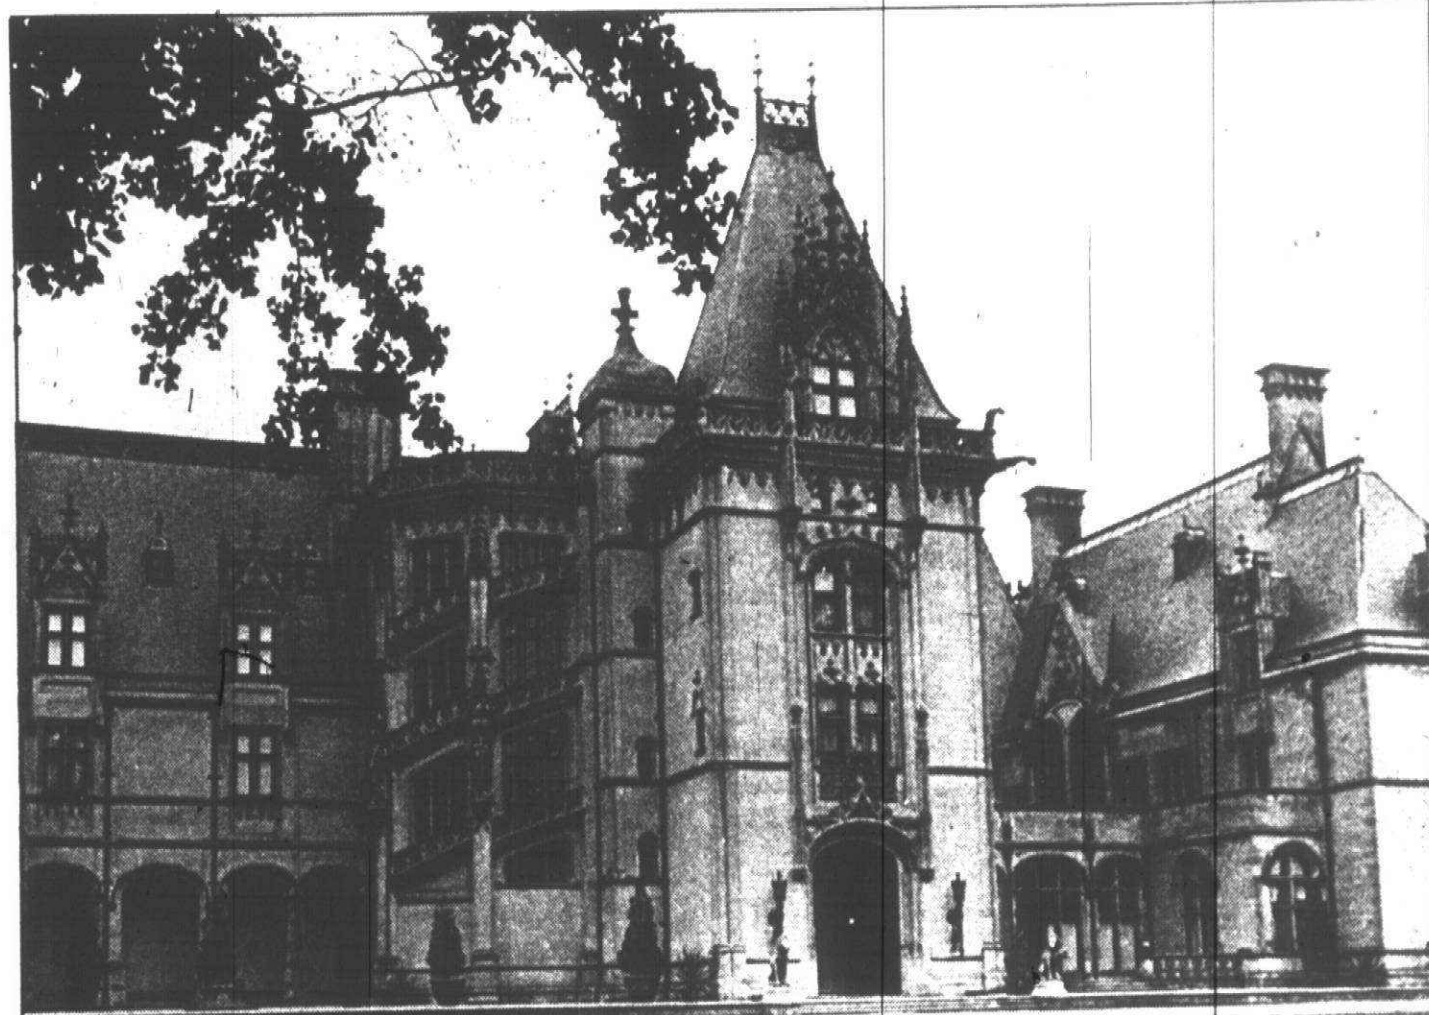

A temperature-controlled greenhouse assured a year-around abundance of cut flowers for Mrs. Vanderbilt's many tables.

Biltmore House, as it was called, was christened with a Christmas ball in 1895. Even the Vanderbilt's jaded guests who trained down from New York were dazzled by this Xanadu in the wilds.

The 250 rooms included a spectacular Norman banquet hall, 72 feet by 64 feet by 42 feet, rising to a 75-foot arched beam ceiling and adorned with rare Flemish tapestries. The Vanderbilts customarily took their meals in the more relaxed family dining room, decorated with hand-tooled Spanish leather walls.

Other rooms held such treasures as Napoleon Bonaparte's chess set, Cardinal Richelieu's velvet hangings, Meissen porcelains, Durer prints, and paintings by Renior, Whistler, Boldini and John Singer Sargent.

After Vanderbilt died in 1914 at age 52, all but 10,600 of his original 125,000 acres were sold or deeded to the federal government for the Pisgah National Forest and sections of the Blue Ridge Parkway, which today brings visitors through the great stone gates.

Biltmore House is a fantasy of parapets, pinnacles, Gothic chimneys, gargoyles and flying buttresses. Among the furnishings in the 250 rooms were Napoleon's chess set, Flemish tapestries, Meissen porcelains, Durer prints, and paintings by Renior, Whistler, Boldini and John Singer Sargent. The 125,000 acres surrounding the estate were bought to keep George Vanderbilt's view unspoiled.

A $7 admission ($5 for ages 6-15) is requested. At least two hours are needed to walk the lush gardens and view the 16 rooms now open to the public.

TOM WOLFE WAS a lad of 14 when Vanderbilt died. His own home was only a few miles, but many light years, removed from the Biltmore estate, at 48 Spruce St. in downtown Asheville. "Old Kentucky Home" was a rambling Victorian boarding house that his mother, Julia, operated as a declaration of independence from Tom's father, W.O.

As they grew up, Tom and his siblings shuttled back and forth between the boardinghouse and the family home, a few blocks away on Woodfin Street, where W.O. (a tombstone carver) stubbornly held out.

The arrangement was an unhappy one, as Tom so scathingly depicted in "Look Homeward, Angel." Old Kentucky Home was thinly disguised as "Dixieland" in that first novel, which won him acclaim in the greater world and scorn in his hometown.

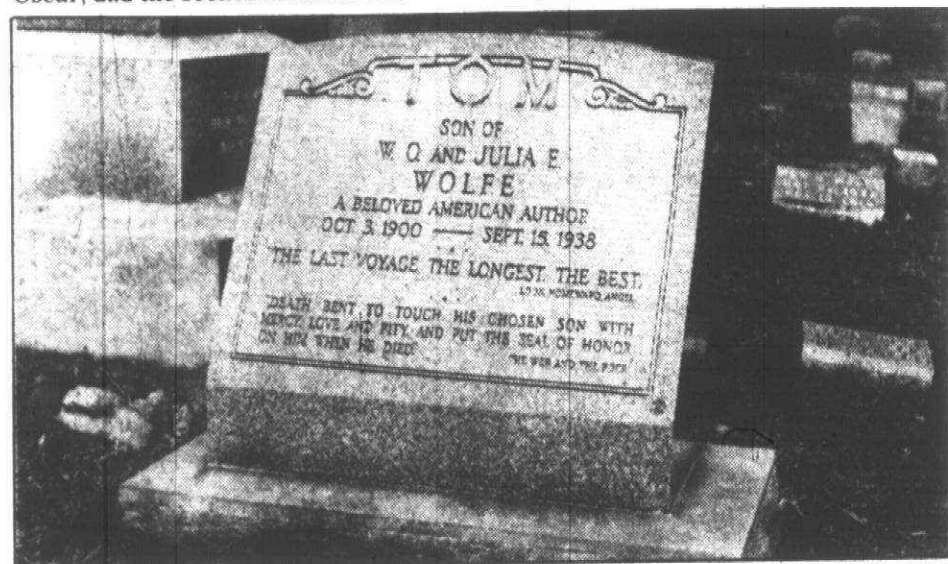

Wolfe would be amused to learn that his home has been turned into a shrine, which the curious willingly pay $1 to gawk at.

The old place is pretty much as Julia left it: the big dining table set for boarders; the family portraits staring glumly from mantle and bureaus (there's one of 6-year-old Tom in Lord Fauntleroy curls); the kitchen shelves jammed with preserves; the bedrooms with their Spartan iron beds.

After his death in 1938, many of the writer's belongings, including his battered typewriter, baggy suits, and a fading photo of his lover, Aline Bernstein, were brought to Asheville from his last New York apartment. The house is open daily.

For further information: Asheville Convention Bureau, 151 Haywood St., Asheville, N.C. 28802.

Writer Tom Wolfe's monument in stone is set in Riverside Cemetery.

travel log

contributing travel editor

Necessary indulgences keep the juices flowing

I am up to my neck in the Caribbean near Puerto Rico, eating fresh pineapple and letting the juice run down my chin into the sea.

This is the part of travel writing that I don't usually tell my editor about. I like him to focus on the times when I get up before dawn to catch a plane or stay up after midnight to meet a deadline.

We are on a chartered boat hired out of the La Concha Hotel in San Juan. Most of the hotels in this island offer them. This one, from the Caribbean School of Aquatics Inc., costs $39 per person including lunch, lessons in snorkeling and diving and the gear to go with it.

Some hotels offer a sailing vessel instead of a motor launch. The El San Juan Hotel uses a 38-foot catamaran. You can also hire boats directly out of Fajardo, the town on the northeast coast of the island where all this activity is centered.

Fajardo is jump-off point for a number of small islands traditionally used for beachcombing, picnicking and camping. The tours take you there by van, although you can get there by car or by publico. A publico is a mini-van that runs on schedule like a regular bus.

On the way to Fajardo, you pass fruit stands where you can buy giant island pineapples, tiny bananas and other local fruit. You also pass Luquillo Beach, a huge expanse of sand covered by coconut trees.

Luquillo once was a coconut plantation, but is now a well-kept public beach.

As you approach the northeast tip of the island, you go past the fishing trawlers and the huge marina at Puerto Chico, where you can eat fresh lobster off the boats or take a ferry to the Caribbean island of St. Thomas.

At Las Croabas, where most of the hotel launches are moored, a huge hotel called El Conquistador climbs up the hill from the sea, its levels connected by an inclined railway.

El Conquistador was considered an architectural feat when it was built, but it is somewhat of a white elephant now because it cannot attract enough tourists to keep its cash registers ringing.

IF YOU COME BY yourself or on a publico, you will take the public launches from Fajardo to islands like Vieques and Culbra. Vieques is the island partly owned and regularly bombed during practice runs by the U.S. Navy.

We headed across the water to a tiny strip of sand, with a headpiece of palm trees, called Palominos. That means Little Palomino, and refers to a larger island behind it.

When you put your bare face down in the water here, you see only shadows, but through a snorkeling mask the elk horn coral looms up, like thousands of giant elk horns growing out of the seabed.

A garden of shapes appears below, criss-crossed by brilliant blue fish. And when you tire of that, or of deep sea diving, you can stand in the sea, feel the pineapple juice on your chin, and plan a sunburn.

Half an hour face down on the deck will do it. I can report that from personal experience.

Where they're showing

Michigan's abundant summer art shows and fairs have been bound together in booklet form, "Art Fairs and Shows, Summer '80," published by the University of Michigan Extension Service.

It provides the titles, dates, locations, entry deadlines, restrictions, fees and contact persons of 75 Michigan shows and fairs.

For a copy, send $1 in check or money order form (payable to the University of Michigan) to: "Art List '80," U-M Extension Service, Department NR, 412 Maynard St., Ann Arbor 48109.

Going, going, gone

Northern Michigan's oldest and largest antique store is going out of business.

Nautic Antiques, a 25-year institution in Northern Michigan's resort area of Lake Leelanau, has an inventory of more than 5,000 square feet includes furniture, glassware, porcelain, lighting and primitives for sale.

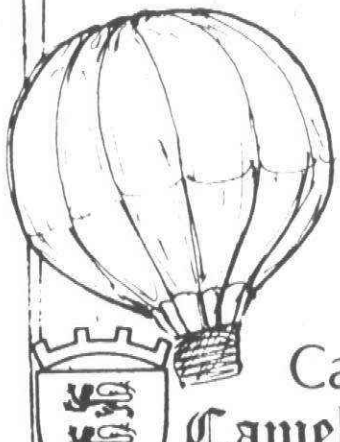

The auction will be May 9-10 with a preview on May 8, on the site in Leelanau, 20 miles north of Traverse City.

For information, call 1-616-947-0800.

Tulip time

Michigan's tulip festive favorite blossoms May 14-17 at Holland. There'll be performances by the popular Klompen (wooden shoe) Dancers, and the market, with traditional wooden shoe carvers, glass blowers, and plenty of treats to tickle your buds. Available are tours of the tulip farms, rides on an authentic Dutch carousel, and the opportunity to take home a sack of flour, stone-ground by DeZwaan, the only authentic operating Dutch windmill in the U.S.

GARAGE SALE

HOW TO DO A LITTLE BUSINESS ON YOUR OWN...

Holding a garage sale is a fun way to do a little business on your own . . . but it takes a bit of planning.

Like you'll want to decide what to sell and how much to charge for each item . . . and then you'll need price tags so other people will know what you're charging.

And you'll have to be able to make change for all your customers . . . so that means you should have lots of one dollar bills and an assortment of coins.

Then you'll want to advertise your sale to attract that crowd. You can do it with a sign or signs in your neighborhood . . . but you'll want a bigger crowd than that . . . so you'll run an ad in Classified which tells the time and place of your sale to a host of potential buyers.

One more thing . . . get up early the day of your sale! When people read about a Garage Sale in Classified, they shop early.

Have fun with your little business adventure!

LET'S TUNE-UP! AMERICA AND SAVE GAS

Do yourself a favor and the country, too, by keeping your car in tune. Has it been over a year since your last tune-up? If it has, you could be saving one to two gallons per tankful with a tune-up. And remember, when you tune up, be sure to ask for Champion spark plugs.

Maintenance avoids repairs

Skipping routine care or skimping on adjustments is directly to blame for many car repair costs and can permanently cripple your automobile. So can missing or ignoring early clues to faulty operation.

To help you avoid such mistakes, the working parts and systems of modern cars are outlined below together with the care are outlined below and are part of normal maintenance and the more common signals for preventive service. For exact procedures, consult the owner's manual for your car.

CARBURETOR: The carburetor delivers a mixture of fuel and air to the engine cylinders and requires periodic checking. Idle speed and automatic choke adjustments should be made, if necessary, at each tune-up and are particularly important in the spring and fall because of seasonal changes in gasoline formulas.

Service signals: Hard starting, hesitation when you press the accelerator, stalling at stop lights, idling too fast or too slow, a sluggish feel at road speeds, a tendency to "run on" after you turn off the ignition, or poor gasoline mileage.

CARBURETOR AIR CLEANER: If your carburetor has a dry air cleaner, the filter element should be replaced periodically. Between replacements, check occasionally for holes or other damage and tap it gently to dislodge dirt. Never wash it or try to clean it with air under pressure.

If the carburetor has a wet (oil bath) filter, it should be cleaned and the oil changed as the automobile manufacturer recommends.

Service signals: Hard starting, poor

ELECTRICAL CHARGING SYSTEM: When you start your car, the source of electric current is the battery. After the car is running, the source is the alternator or generator, and a voltage regulator protects the battery from overcharge. Check the battery water level often and add water, preferably distilled, as needed. Battery cable connections should be kept clean and tight.

Service signals: Sluggish starting, dim lights when the engine isn't running, or the battery frequently needs water.

IGNITION SYSTEM: Electricity from the battery, alternator, or generator flows to the coil where it is stepped up to higher voltage. From the coil, the current travels to the distributor, which channels it to the spark plugs in the engine cylinders. At each plug, the current ignites the fuel-air mixture. Periodically, the ignition system should be checked and the spark plugs and distributor points changed as needed.

Some recently built cars are equipped with an electronic ignition system that creates a hotter spark, reduces or eliminates point wear, lengthens spark plug life, provides more precise ignition control, and, in general, requires less frequent maintenance.

Service signals: Hard starting, uneven acceleration, loss of power at high speed, rough idle, or a partial or complete "miss" in one or more cylinders causing rough performance and a severe loss of power.

TIMING SYSTEM: For efficient engine operation, the spark plug must fire in each cylinder at precisely the right moment. This firing is regulated by the distributor, which can be adjusted to advance or retard the timing of the spark.

Service signals: Hard starting, ping-pong sounds, or a rough feel during driving if the timing is too "fast," hard starting, sluggish performance, excessive gasoline consumption, or overheating if the timing is too "slow."

GASOLINE: Gasoline with too low an octane rating for your engine will burn unevenly, or explode, inside the cylinders instead of smoothly producing power. The usual symptom is a light clattering or ping during acceleration or when the engine is pulling hard. Continued use of the wrong gasoline could result in serious damage.

Gasoline with an unnecessarily high rating, however, costs you extra money and wastes energy. If your car accelerates without ping on the gas you use now, try a tankful of the next lower octane. After the car has warmed up, accelerate hard from a full stop. If the engine pings, go back to the higher octane. If it doesn't, repeat the test with gas having a still lower rating.

ENGINE OIL, OIL FILTER, AND LUBRICATION: Check the oil at least every other time you fill up with gasoline. If the level is at or below the "add" mark on the dipstick, put in oil of the type specified for your particular model of car. Do not use additives unless they are called for by the automobile manufacturer. Have the oil changed at recommended intervals.

Generally, the filter is changed every other time the oil is changed; but if you live in a dusty climate or do a lot of stop-and-start driving, your mechanic may suggest a filter change with every oil change.

For lubrication, follow the manufacturer's recommendations.

Service signals: If the oil warning light shows red while the engine is running at or above idle speed, turn the engine off immediately. Oil is not reaching all the engine parts, and continued operation will result in major engine damage.

TRANSMISSION FLUID: Check the fluid level at intervals in either a manual or an automatic transmission, and replace the fluid at recommended mileages with the type specified for your model. Learn the correct checking procedure. For example, if you have an automatic transmission, the engine must be running and, usually, the shift should be in the "park" position.

Service signals: Whine during driving, uneven growling noises, or jerky acceleration.

CLUTCH: In a car with a manual transmission, depressing the pedal disengages the clutch, slows the transmission gear rotation, and permits you to shift gears. Clutch linkage should be checked and adjusted at regular intervals.

Service signals: A tendency for the gears to clash when you shift, clutch slippage under startup or hard acceleration, or clutch "chatter" at startup.

BRAKES: All late-model U.S.-built automobiles using conventional drum and shoe brakes have assemblies that adjust automatically for wear unless mechanical troubles develop. Disc brakes, also, need no adjustment. All brakes, however, should be inspected as recommended by the manufacturer, and the brake linings or disc pads should be replaced as needed. Occasionally, brake fluid must be replenished.

Service signals: A spongy feel when you press the brake pedal, longer pedal movement, scraping noises, or the car pulls to one side when slowing or stopping. Uneven or grabby brakes are especially dangerous on slippery surfaces.

Avoid costly automobile repairs by practicing preventive care left, uneven braking, or excessive squealing on corners.

TIRE BALANCE: Tires should be kept in balance for comfortable and safe driving and for long tread life. For the best results, have the tires spin balanced on the car whenever vibration becomes objectionable. Follow the recommended tire rotation for your automobile make and model and type of tire.

Service signals: Vibration, usually felt through the steering wheel for the front tires or through the seat for the rear tires.

FRONT SUSPENSION: Front wheel suspensions should be properly aligned at all times for safe handling and economical tire wear, but pot holes and other rough road conditions may gradually throw wheels out of alignment.

Service signals: Abnormal or uneven tire wear, or the car pulls hard to the right or left during driving even when tire pressure and balance are correct.

LIGHTS: Headlamps must be set to provide maximum road illumination and minimum glare for oncoming motorists. Check periodically to be sure all lights are in working order.

AIR ENGINE-COOLING SYSTEM: Air-cooled cars have a powerful fan driven by a belt from the engine, that forces a large volume of air over the hot engine. The fan belt should be regularly checked for correct tension and freedom from wear. If the fan belt should break while you are driving stop the engine immediately or it will overheat.

AIR CONDITIONER: Just before the operating season, have the drive belt checked for correct tension and examine the liquid in the sight glass for bubbles that could mean the system needs more refrigerant. During the winter, most conditioners will benefit from a five-minute workout every two or three weeks as Service signals: The temperature gauge often reads high, or you must frequently add liquid to the system.

LIQUID ENGINE-COOLING SYSTEM: All car engines presently manufactured in the U.S. are cooled by a liquid-circulating system assisted by a fan. The system includes a liquid coolant (water plus antifreeze), hoses, a water pump, a thermostat, and a radiator.

Check the coolant level in the system every other time you fill up with gasoline. Whenever you have the car in for routine maintenance, have the mechanic check the hoses for soundness and the belt that drives the fan for correct tension. Have the belt replaced if it is frayed.

Each spring and fall have the concentration of the antifreeze-water mixture tested; if too little of the antifreeze is present, you are inviting either a freezeup or boilover.

Don't duck car checks

How long has it been since you took a really good look around our car? If you have to pause to remember when you last checked your tires, oil, coolant, battery or other components, you may have put it off too long. Following is a list of car checks that should be made periodically by the owner, if not by the service dealer:

- Fluids: Check engine oil, transmission oil, power steering fluid and coolant; add as needed. CAUTION: Never remove the radiator pressure cap when the engine is hot.
- Battery: Check for corrosion on terminals, a common cause of starting trouble. Check electrolyte level and add water as needed in batteries using water. CAUTION: When working near a battery, be sure there is no open flame. Do not smoke. Batteries emit explosive hydrogen gas.
- Drive belts and hoses: While the hood is up, take a good look at them. Frayed or worn belts should be replaced, as should soft, brittle or bulging hoses.
- Windshield wipers: Check them out. The rubber will become brittle with weathering and age. They may be worn to a point where wipers smear or streak the glass. How's your supply of washer fluid?

• Tires: Invest in a good tire gauge and use it frequently. If you haven't checked tire pressure since summer, you're likely to find them underinflated. Even a couple pounds of underinflation can cost up to 3 percent in fuel economy.

• Service sticker: Take a look at it on your door jamb. Time for a lube job, oil and filter change? One good reason for getting the car on the service station lift is so you or your serviceman can check around underneath for leaks: leaking exhaust system parts; leaking shock absorbers; leaking engine or transmission seals. And this gives you an opportunity for another, closer look at your tires.

Finally, as a part of your periodic inspection program, make a walk-around check of all your lights, including turn signals.

If you have no one with you to help check brake lights, you can do it yourself in broad daylight when another car is behind you at an intersection. Just tap your brake pedal and look for the reflection of your brake lights in his headlights.

Car Care Quiz

"IT AIN'T NECESSARILY SO."

The term "Old Wives Tale" is becoming obsolete in these times of sexual equality. Nonetheless, there remains a vast body of myths and false sayings that merit debunking. After all, handling loads does not really cause warts and eating fish doesn't do much for brainpower.

The automotive world has its share of maintenance myths that have earned obsolescence. This quiz asks you to separate fact from fancy by answering the questions with TRUE or FALSE.

- | | | | |
|--|--------------------------|---|---|
| 1. In summertime, it's best to keep tires underinflated because warm temperatures will cause heat buildup. | <input type="checkbox"/> | T | F |
| 2. To improve gasoline mileage, it's best to buy a higher octane fuel. | <input type="checkbox"/> | | |
| 3. It is generally a good idea to replace spark plugs annually. | <input type="checkbox"/> | | |
| 4. The primary cause of most starting trouble is a weak battery. | <input type="checkbox"/> | | |
| 5. If you install permanent anti-freeze in your car, it's best to drain it in summer and replace with distilled water. | <input type="checkbox"/> | | |
| 6. Removing emission controls will automatically increase fuel efficiency. | <input type="checkbox"/> | | |
| 7. Your car will get about 20 percent better gas economy at 55 miles per hour than at 70 m.p.h. | <input type="checkbox"/> | | |
| 8. Electronic ignition systems completely eliminate the need for engine tune-up. | <input type="checkbox"/> | | |
| 9. Misfiring spark plugs are leading contributors to excessive hydrocarbon emissions. | <input type="checkbox"/> | | |
| 10. If there is no sign of smoke coming from the tail pipe, a car is not polluting. | <input type="checkbox"/> | | |

- ANSWERS: Both underinflated tires and overinflated tires wear unevenly. Also, underinflated tires cause excessive wear on the engine and transmission. 1. False. The best time to change oil is when the oil is dirty, not when it's hot. 2. False. Octane does not affect fuel mileage. For economy, use the lowest price gas that will not hamper performance. 3. True. Under current driving conditions, a car should be able to run on a single tank of gas for 200 to 300 miles. 4. False. Accurate fuel economy figures are based on a standard test procedure. 5. False. The best time to change oil is when the oil is dirty, not when it's hot. 6. True. Emission controls are designed to reduce pollution. 7. True. High speeds are wasteful of fuel. 8. False. Electronic ignition systems eliminate breaker points and converters. Most other parts of so-called "emission control" devices are in some cases even cause loss of fuel economy. 9. True. In recent tests, misfiring spark plugs alone resulted in an average 24 percent reduction of HC emissions. 10. True. In recent tests, misfiring spark plugs alone resulted in an average 24 percent reduction of HC emissions.

Women mechanics

Sabra Sherter and Dianne Rause, both of Southfield, are among the many women who now want to know how their own cars work and how to perform maintenance and repair work. (Staff photo by Bill Bresler)

Females join automobile self service

By SHERRY KAHAN

The women giggled a little when they put on the shop coats usually worn by mechanics. But when they walked into the service area to examine the cars, they were serious.

They had not gone out on a rainy night to the Goodyear Tire Center in Livonia to check on upholstery colors or car styling, the traditionally assumed prerogative of women. They wanted to learn about motors, and the root of the noises under the hoods or near the rear axles.

This new feeling on the part of women to know something about mechanics had been recognized by Goodyear, when it scheduled a series of car care classes for women.

"I want to know about my car, so I'll know what to do when something goes wrong," said Mary Moorcroft of Livonia before the session started.

Recent social changes bringing women out of the home and into the workplace, have also caused them to buy their own car. But few know much done some reading about mechanics. "If you have a car, you've got to know the basics."

"There was a time when women relied on men to know it all, but they don't always. If you don't find out yourself, you're not going to know."

From her experience as a consumer, Mrs. Thomas has decided to treat her car the same way she'd treat an illness. "Get a second opinion," she counseled.

Mrs. Thomas and her daughter, Karen, can both change oil, change the engine coolant and change a tire. "A lot of women pay to have their radiator filled with antifreeze," Mrs. Thomas said. "But it costs more when you have it done at a station rather than buying it at the store."

Would she describe herself as being a troubleshooter?

"When I go to a service station, I don't want them to think I'm a dumb broad," said Suzanne Thomas of Westland, who confessed she had complicated as some would like us to believe."

She added: "I think these women will go on and learn more, and take better care of their cars."

She also mentioned that she has sometimes thought of possibly becoming a mechanic.

JAN BEAUCHAMP of Redford is being more careful to check her car's oil supply since she took the car care class. She will also pay closer attention to any signals she gets from her dashboard lights. As for a tune-up, "I've neglected that," she admitted. Mrs. Beauchamp learned to drive late in life, having relied most of her life on public transportation and being driven by her husband. When his work schedule changed his hours, she was forced to take the plunge and buy her own car.

Now she is thinking of getting a small notebook so she can keep track of filter changes and tire rotations. With her new knowledge she is ready to roll.

Before accepting that new car, check it out

The first in budget-wise care and service is buying a car in perfect condition. To be sure your new car has no built-in defects or service headaches and that you know how to operate it, make the following checks before leaving the dealer's lot.

Read the owner's manual carefully. Sit in the driver's seat and, before you start the car, have the salesman explain the starting procedure, the dashboard gauges and warning lights, and the operation of all controls and accessories. Read the warranty carefully and note the services that are free and those for which you must pay. No warranty, however, will cover normal wear or abusive use.

Examine the exterior for dents, irregularities or paint scratches. Check the interior for wrinkled or misfit floor mats; look at the seats, door panels and headlining for scuffs, tears, or crooked seams.

Open and shut the doors to see if they fit the frames and latch properly. Roll the windows up and down. Do they work smoothly and close all the way? Look in the trunk for the spare wheel and tire, the tire jack, and the lug wrench. Ask the salesman or service manager to show you how to operate the jack.

Look in the engine compartment. Is it clean and new looking? Ask the salesman to show you how to check the oil and coolant levels.

START THE ENGINE and listen for any roughness or noise after it has warmed up.

For an automatic transmission, set the emergency brake and then shift to "drive." The engine should continue to run smoothly and not stall.

Road test the car. It should accelerate without jerks or hesitations, the brakes should work evenly and effectively, and the steering should be responsive and smooth.

Try the horn and windshield wipers and washer. Have the salesman try all the lights and the turn signals while you stand outside the car and check their operation.

If the car fails to satisfy you on any of these points, insist that the fault be corrected before you accept delivery. In addition, be sure you understand the warranty provisions. What free repairs and services does it offer? When must you bring in the car for checks and adjustments?

YOU CAN AVOID a number of service and repair problems for your new car by careful driving for the first 2,000 miles while the moving parts are "seating in." Follow the directions in your Owner's Manual and these supplementary suggestions.

During the first 1,000 miles, drive at moderate speeds. Accelerate gently, especially in the lower gears, and vary the speed frequently. Do not pull a trailer. During the next 1,000 miles, accelerate moderately, change speed occasionally during highway driving, and don't pull a trailer.

Every few days, inspect the driveway or garage floor where you park. If you find a spot, observe its color and location under the car so you can pass the information along to the service technician. Leak repair should be free during the warranty period.

Continue occasional checks for leaks as long as you own the car.
