Meijer, Total plan to market gasohol here

By DARLENE STINSON

Gasohol will join other fuels at local pumps this month following an agreement by two corporations with Canton gasoline stations.

Meijer Thrifty Acres will begin marketing gasohol at its Canton location next week, according to Brian Breslin, the firm's director of public and consumer affairs.

Norm Hyman, an attorney for Total Petroleum Co., said the firm's station at Ford and Canton Center will definitely market gasohol — possibly in the near future.

The corporate decisions were influenced by last week's township board action to lift Canton's five-year-old ban on self-serve pumps, both spokespersons said.

"When the Canton Township board lifted that ban, it certainly encouraged us to bring gasohol down there," said Breslin. "But if the ban would have remained, we would have brought gasohol down there sooner or later."

Hyman said Total sells gasohol at Detroit area stations with self-serve pumps only. The attorney has lobbied the township board to lift the self-serve ban on behalf of Total for the past year.

CANTON SUPERVISOR Noel Culbert, an outspoken advocate of gasohol use, was elated by the news that the fuel will be sold locally.

"I've always pushed the gasohol concept. You're reducing your use of petroleum by 10 percent."

Culbert, however, insisted that the township board cut no deal with the two corporations in order to spur local gasohol sales.

The new ordinance introduced by Culbert allows stations to offer self-serve islands as long as attendant service is also provided. Board members debated the self-serve issue for about a year.

Advocates of gasohol view the fuel as a patriotic way to run automobiles and decrease dependence on foreign oil.

Comprised of 10 percent alcohol and 90 percent unleaded gasoline, the fuel will be sold at Meijer for about the same price as unleaded premium, Breslin said.

MEIJER'S CANTON STORE will be one of the first in the Detroit area to market gasohol. Breslin said the firm currently sells the fuel at seven of its 19 stations in Michigan.

"It seems to go over very well with the customers," he said.

Hyman said Total's Canton station may begin selling gasohol before it converts some of its islands to self-serve. He said Total executives were waiting for township board action on the self-serve issue before committing gasohol to its Canton location.

Several board members, particularly

Canton's small businesses

They hang in as economy dips

Their problems aren't on the scale of the financially-plagued Chrysler Corp. or the plummeting construction industry.

But the proprietor of that small store or restaurant in the shopping center down the street has the same financial anxieties as the executives of the Big 3.

Frank McMurray, president of the Canton Chamber of Commerce, estimates that 300 small businesses are currently operating in Canton and providing a tax base of $1.2 million.

The shop and restaurant owners are being honored this week through a proclamation of President Carter declaring May 11-17 National Small Business Week.

The Canton Chamber has capitalized on the President's action through a written recital on the importance of small businesses nationally.

But McMurray admits that more than niceties and proclamations are needed in order to help businesses through an economic recession.

ALTHOUGH STATISTICS are unavailable on the state of the local business community's health, McMurray says that many shop owners he has talked with are worried.

"There are people who will have to make a decision soon on whether they'll stay in business or not," he says.

McMurray hopes that the soaring price of gasoline will keep Canton shoppers closer to home and ward off the recession for local business people.

But he admits that consumers worried about lay-offs spend less money for unnecessary goods and use cash instead of credit cards.

There's no easy cure for the worries of local business persons, he says.

But he and other members of the business community are toying with ideas which they believe may help.

McMurray plans to follow the lead of auto and construction industry executives who have traveled to Washington in recent months to seek federal help for their financially-plagued businesses.

McMurray plans to stay closer to home and ask the Canton Township Board to offer some form of assistance.

Help could take the form of tax breaks, a longer amount of time to pay tax bills or relaxed zoning restrictions in tight economic times.

McMurray is forming plans to solicit suggestions from the business community on the type of help that's needed. He envisions asking the Township Board to meet with store owners to discuss their needs.

GARY ROBERTS, who owns a vacuum and sewing machine shop on Ford Road, has formed a different type of proposal.

He will appear before the Township Board Tuesday night to request permission for a township-wide business promotion on the second weekend of every month from June through October.

Business owners would be allowed to post banners and other types of temporary signs to advertise sales and other types of promotions. Individual businesses normally need a special event permit in order to stage such events.

Death is ruled self-defense, local man free

The Wayne County Prosecutor's Office has declined to issue a warrant against a Canton Township man questioned in the stabbing of a Westland resident last Thursday.

Outcounty Prosecutor Robert Sage said the stabbing "probably was one of the clearest cases of self-defense that we have had in a long time."

Police Friday released Lawrence Anthony Liabenow, 30, of Canton, after he was held for questioning in the stabbing of Daniel Bernard Buechly, a crane operator who was married and the father of two children. A medical examiner's report said he died of a stab wound to the chest.

Services were to be held at 10 a.m. today in Lents Funeral Home in Wayne.

Explaining the chain of events were Westland Police Lt. Dewey Combs and Outcounty Prosecutor Robert Sage.

"The deceased was the aggressor from all indications," Combs said.

"(Liabenow) felt he was in fear of bodily harm," said Sage.

Combs said the two men got into a fight over a tailgating incident. He said both cars were traveling north on Newburgh, with Buechly tailgating the car driven by Liabenow.

In the car with Liabenow was his girlfriend and infant child, Sage said. Buechly then pulled around and stopped his car.

Buechly then walked back to the other car, and the two men began fighting. Liabenow stabbed Buechly in the chest and drove away, leaving Buechly lying on the street.

The weapon was a pocket knife measuring about 2 1/4 inches, Combs said.

"Independent witnesses verified he (Buechly) was at his (Liabenow's) throat," added Sage.

Buechly was pronounced dead on arrival at Wayne County General Hospital.

In the meantime, a team of five detectives and several uniformed officers began following leads by retracing Buechly's activities during the hours preceding the stabbing.

According to Sage, the two men both earlier had been at a Westland pub "but they weren't there together."

"Garden City and Canton Township (police departments) helped tremendously with leads," added Combs. "We talked to about 20 people in trying to follow steps and establish where people were and lived."

Resident says fire vehicles' condition poor

Anonymous charges of poor maintenance of fire department vehicles will be the subject of a meeting called for today in Canton Supervisor Noel Culbert's office.

Attending the session will be members of an investigative committee appointed following public disclosure of the charges.

The committee comprises Culbert, Clerk John Flodin, Trustee Robert Greenstein and resident Tim Orbacki.

Greenstein initially raised the issue of fire department vehicle maintenance after finding a unsigned letter in his board meeting packet.

The letter said the motor oil in a rescue unit, whose engine broke down recently, had not been changed for two years.

Maintenance records kept at the fire station, which Greenstein obtained after receiving the letter, failed to prove that oil had been changed in the unit over a two-year period. The books show that a mechanic, fired recently after only a few weeks at work, changed oil in two other rescue units, but showed no record that oil had been changed in a nearly two-year interval prior to that.

Fire Chief Mel Paulun freely admitted that he has been "lax in keeping records," but that oil had been changed in the vehicles more frequently than shown in the books.

According to Orbacki, who spent several days investigating maintenance practices in Canton as well as in other communities, said Friday he believed the vehicles had not been well-maintained.

"There's a serious, serious problem here," he said.

"The ambulances (rescue units) are

Short Takes

Cleaning up

Members of the Greater Canton Hills Association were scheduled to spend much of their Saturday cleaning up the stretch of Lilley between Michigan Avenue and Palmer Road as part of Canton Clean-up Month. The volunteers have been provided with free garbage bags through the township and, barring rain, planned to spend two or three hours collecting accumulated debris. The stretch slated for grooming is about three miles long.

Battle of the titans

Canton's Chamber of Commerce has been challenged to compete against township employees and elected officials during the chamber's annual golf outing scheduled for May 21 at Fellows Creek Golf Course. The prize, named with tongue-in-cheek by Supervisor Noel Culbert, is to be the township's sign ordinance, less than popular with area businesspeople. Others can participate in the golf outing by buying tickets for $15 (which covers 18 holes) or $12 (nine holes), which includes a catered lunch, prizes and beer. Call the chamber at 453-4040 for a reservation or more information.

Distinguished citizen

Canton resident Gerald Bodenmiller wasn't able to be present to receive his award as an official "Distinguished Citizen" last week, but it seems likely he got his plaque anyway.

Bodenmiller, who was honored for his service in the builder's task force and Canton Goodfellows, is married to township board trustee Carol Bodenmiller.

She said she didn't tell him about the award, but tried to get him to take some time from work in order to attend the board meeting for which the presentation was planned.

Mrs. Bodenmiller accepted the plaque for her husband with the admonishment that she not try to change the name on the award.

Corn to corn

"Rotate your crops."

Often that's the advice given by specialists as an answer to insect, weed and disease problems. Although most growers in the United States do practice rotation, there are times when continuous corn is the best choice.

Continuous corn is most common in the "Corn Belt." Of the 13.5 million acres of corn grown in Iowa in 1977, 1978 and 1979, for instance, nearly half was continuous. About five million acres of that corn had been continuous for more than two years.

Dr. Bob Ruppel, Michigan State University entomologist, estimates that 50 percent of Michigan's corn is grown consecutively for three years or longer.

VFW to sell Buddy Poppies

The Plymouth Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) will be selling Buddy Poppies on Thursday.

Members of VFW Post 6695 and its auxiliary will be selling these symbolic flowers of Flanders Field at street intersections on May 15.

"All of the net proceeds received from the sale of Buddy Poppies remains here in our community to meet the calls from needy veterans," explains Jim Dray, chairman of the sale for the VFW.

The post maintains a relief fund into which is placed all net profits received from the sale of Buddy Poppies, and the money that we collect in this sale will remain right here in our own community to help finance the relief and welfare work which we have undertaken in behalf of our own veterans in need and their dependents."

Officer Robert Scoggins approaches the driver's side of the van after pulling over the vehicle which police said they spotted driving erratically down Main Street.

With night stick in hand, Scoggins asks the driver to get out.

The driver steps down from the van shortly before being frisked.

Drinking and driving has a price

Drunk drivers go to jail.

That statement has been used as a public relations slogan by automobile insurance companies to discourage the mixture of drinking and driving.

Last week, in the city of Plymouth, a 24-year-old driver of a van from Canton Township was pulled over, arrested and charged with drunk driving, and an Observer photographer was on the scene.

Shortly after 6 p.m. Wednesday, police said they spotted a man in a blue van driving erratically down Main Street headed northbound near Hartsough.

As he neared Hartsough, according to police, the van was weaving back and forth hitting the curbs — a behavior which police said attracted their attention rather quickly.

According to police, Plymouth Police Officer Robert Scoggins stopped the van near Hartsough and Dewey and ordered the driver out of the van.

After frisking the driver, Scoggins said he looked inside the van and found several empty wine and vodka bottles.

The driver was taken to the Plymouth Police Department, charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, and spent the night in jail. He was released the next morning and is scheduled to appear in court on June 23.

Ordinance officer delivers man from condemned house

The old house on Michigan Avenue had been his home for 18 years.

There was no plumbing.

The deteriorated electrical system flickered out last week, according to Fred Baker of the Canton ordinance department.

Deputy building official Gary Barnette posted the house as unfit for human habitation last month.

But the 75-year-old man who lived in the house between Hannan and I-275 had no where else to go. He has no family and lives on limited income from Social Security.

Baker said the owners of the home, Helm and Jean Hunt, allowed the man to live in the house rent-free. The Hunts were unaware of the poor condition of the home, according to the ordinance officer.

LAST MONDAY, however, the man moved from the old house on Michigan Avenue into a brand new home for senior citizens in Ypsilanti.

Baker found the home — called Childer Place — after canvassing the Detroit area for available senior citizen housing.

"He had nothing worth taking," Baker said, so township employees scoured their basements for furniture, dishes and other household items to donate. Employees took $120 from their soda pop fund at township hall to buy drinking glasses and other items for the man.

Baker said the Hunts, who own the Club Canton on Michigan Avenue, have agreed to demolish the old house.

Barnette said the home's foundation is crumbling. The roof leaks water into every room except one.

Baker said he stumbled upon the man's living conditions by accident. Last month, he spotted clothes hanging from a line in front of the house and decided to stop and investigate.

"It shocked me when this man came out the door," Baker said. "I couldn't believe anyone lived in that house. It was terrible. The whole house was falling in."

Although the house was soon condemned by building department officials, Baker said no one "wanted to put the man out on the street."

It took Baker three weeks to find a new home for the man.

"There's just nothing available for senior citizens," said the ordinance officer. "It's really a terrible situation."

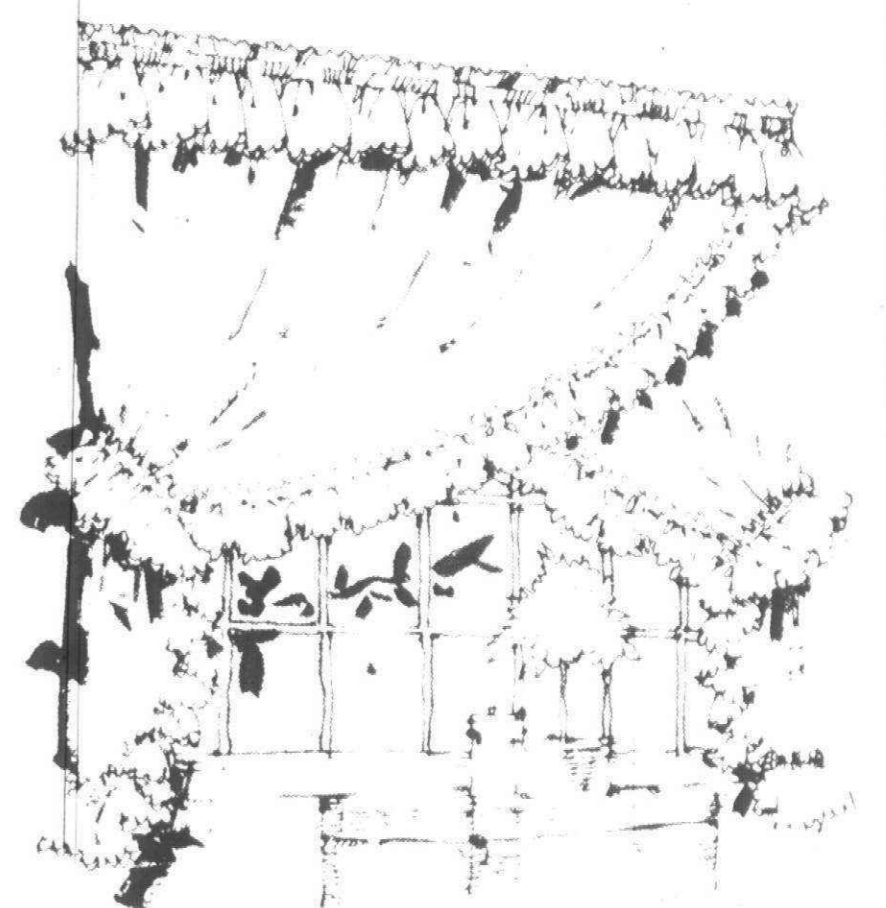

"At first, he didn't want to move," Baker said of the man. "He resented the fact that he to."

The man was unavailable for comment on how he likes his new home in Ypsilanti.

Mrs. Hunt, owner of the house on Michigan, declined comment.

This house, which an elderly man once called "home," has since been condemned. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Times are tough for business

Roberts said 60 businesses have signed petitions in favor of his idea, which was prompted by the poor state of the economy.

Roberts believes his proposal will help Canton businesses "and give merchants a chance to unload slow-moving merchandise at a reduced price."

Roberts, who may run for township trustee this year, said his business has not suffered from tight economic conditions yet.

"But I'm a little scared," he said. "It's a very gloomy situation."

McMURRAY MAINTAINS that opening a successful retail outlet is a difficult task in even the best of economic times. Nationally, two out of every three new businesses go bankrupt within the first two years of operation, he said.

McMurray, who operates a local insurance agency, says those statistics hold true for Canton.

He estimates that only half the businesses which originally opened in the Harvard Square Shopping Center in the mid-70s still exist. He estimates a 30 to 50 percent turnover rate for businesses in King's Row and a 25 percent turnover rate for the New Towne Plaza at Ford and Sheldon.

McMurray attributes some of the bankruptcies to poor business sense coupled with high rents and taxes.

But he continues to raise the business community's long-standing charge that Canton's strict sign ordinance and zoning requirements create a dismal atmosphere for businesses.

"Everyone says they want commerce in Canton. But it just hasn't materialized that way," McMurray said. "Somewhere along the line, this has to be looked at."

Gasohol on its way to Canton

Trustee Robert Greenstein, vehemently opposed self-serve and tied the issue with a continued shortage of auto repair facilities in the township. Technically, the township board gave only tentative approval to the self-serve ordinance last week. The law must be published and given final approval by the board before it officially takes effect.

Culbert has talked the need for local gasohol sales since he took office in November 1978. He believes that gasohol, made partly from distilled corn, coincides with the township's campaign to preserve agricultural land.

Much of Canton's farmland is geared to field corn production. Culbert has toyed with the idea of inviting a gasohol distillery to the township for the benefit of farmers and motorists alike.

"We've got the corn, and now we have the distributors," the supervisor said.

just rusting away. I'm shocked and amazed."

Orbacki said he believes the township should immediately order (at least) one rescue unit and hire the mechanic who presently works part-time for the department on a full-time basis.

He said the mechanic, who works for the Livonia Fire Department, would take the open job left by the other mechanic's firing, but wants to make at least the same as he does on his present job.

That salary, Orbacki said, amounts to about $23,000, while the township has set a salary of $20,000 for the now-vacant position.

Greenstein said the mechanic also wants to be exclusively a fire department employee, but the township wants the option of being able to have a mechanic work on equipment for other departments once fire equipment is brought up to par.

Paulin, around whom the controversy is focusing, said his department desperately needs a full-time mechanic and has been asking for one since 1974.

Loan approval is expected

A request to borrow almost $12 million is expected to be approved at tonight's meeting of the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the board offices of the central administration building, 454 S. Harvey, Plymouth.

The board will be asked to approve the issuance of an $11.7 million tax anticipation note to meet operating needs in the school district until taxes are collected in December 1980.

Last year the school district borrowed $9.6 million in tax anticipation notes at an interest rate of 5.79 percent, for a total interest cost of $416,880 or almost half-million dollars.

"The reason for having to borrow is because we don't receive any local tax monies until the latter part of December each year," explains Ray Hoedel, assistant superintendent of business, "and local tax monies represent about 75 percent of our total funds for operation."

Bids for the loan will be received on June 23, the loan would be taken out on July 1, and paid back on April 1, 1981.

In other action the board will be asked to ratify a new contract with the secretaries union, and will be asked to award a bid to purchase school buses for the 1980-81 school year.

The board also will consider a resolution to ban smoking at board of education meetings, and will be asked to approve another resolution designating Geer School as a historical site.

And the board will be asked to approve resolutions dealing with ballot proposals for the June 9 annual election.

Summer can be a good time to get burned

A lot of young people are looking for summer jobs, but most won't find any. That's because the competition keeps getting stiffer and it will be even rougher during an economic downturn.

I can remember well those days in college when I was among those competing for summer employment. I'd have one eye on the books getting ready for exams and another on the classified ads looking for a summer job.

The first summer, I had a job lined up as a test driver at the Wixom plant. But then Ford Motor lost a government contract and laid off a group of employees, some of whom ended up working instead as test drivers.

That was only fair, of course, but at the last moment I had to scramble to find a summer job after thinking I was all set. I ended up doing kitchen work at a Boy Scout camp near Metamora, near Lapeer.

And that was the type of work I did every summer thereafter.

Unfortunately, it is no easier now for young people to obtain summer work than it was in the early 1960s. But it's not impossible.

THE JOB SEEKER who has the best chance of finding summer employment will be the one who started looking last month.

I did come across some good advice that I'll pass on to those of my readers who are looking for summer work.

Daniel's Den

By Emory Daniels

mer work. Since I'm not, it doesn't do much good sitting on my desk. The advice is from the bureau of employment and training of the Michigan Department of Labor.

The first thing to do is read the classified advertising section of this newspaper. Also check out bulletin boards at grocery stores and keep an eye on front windows of shops while walking down the street — some store owners still use their front windows to advertise for help wanted.

Check on those places which gear up for summer employment or that were closed during the winter, such as camps, playgrounds, amusement parks, farms, nurseries, ice cream and soft drink concessions, drive-in movies, golf courses, driving range, beaches, etc. Call 'em up and ask for an interview.

If you get the interview, keep the news to yourself; otherwise your closest friend may end up with the job instead. Don't bring a friend with you on the interview and dress conservatively, i.e. don't wear sunglasses.

THE STATE cautions young people to make sure they really know the "costs" of their summer job so they won't end the summer in a deficit situation.

Be especially careful about jobs that send you away from home and be wary of any job which requires a pre-employment agreement.

The state stresses that an employer cannot ask youth to place a work bond or surety — any kind of cash deposit which can be forfeited for failing to work the agreed time. This kind of practice mostly occurs in resort areas where employers want students to pledge to stay through the Labor Day weekend, but the practice is viewed as buying a job and is illegal.

Youths also are advised against agreeing to conduct their own business under an assumed name.

The department of labor also points out that pooling of tips is limited to employees who have direct contact with customers and stresses that employees cannot be charged for breakages, shortages or walkouts (people skipping without paying their bill).

The minimum wage in Michigan is $3.10 and must be paid to anyone 18 and older or to those 16 and 17 who are working in establishments that sell alcoholic beverages.

More information about summer work practices, legal and illegal, may be obtained by writing the Michigan Department of Labor, Wage Hour Division, 7150 Harris Drive, Box 30015, Lansing 48909.

So good luck in finding summer employment. And to those who do find a job, be careful of those employers who would abuse young workers with shady practices.

Hank II never will explain — we complain

A few thoughts about the auto business.

Sorry to hear that Henry Ford II has burned his personal papers. For anyone with a bit of historical sense, this is carrying the "don't complain, don't explain" philosophy a bit far.

Hank's theory is that his private life is nobody's business. He wants historians to stick with what he has done in the public domain. Nice idea, but highly unrealistic.

Actually, the last of the family auto moguls is shortchanging a lot of folks, including himself.

History is for learning how to deal with the future. Ford's reluctance to outline his experiences leaves a great gap.

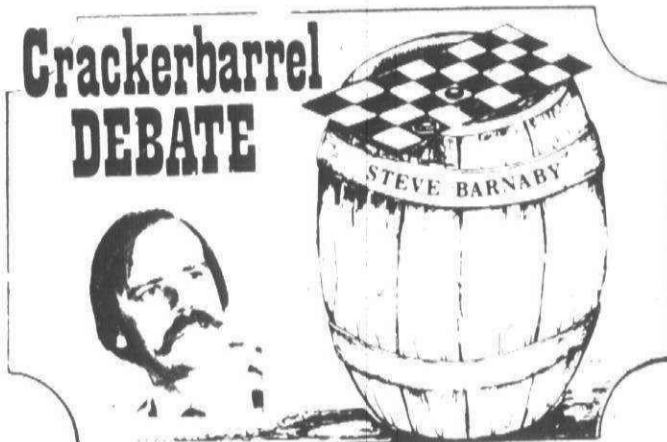

Whether or not he likes it, historians will crank out the copy. But without the aid of his papers, historians will be majoring in speculation and innuendo to fill in the holes.

He admits that a public figure is unable to separate his personal and professional life. You can't do it when you're alive and you certainly can't do it when you're dead.

Frankly, Ford II has very little for which to apologize. Sure, the guy isn't perfect. Who is?

It would be beneficial for the old fellow to sit down and tell his side of the story — warts and all. Everybody deserves the chance to tell his side.

A GUY LIKE Henry Ford has the obligation.

After all, he isn't your everyday ordinary Chamber of Commerce member. For years he has been partially responsible for the ebb and flow of this country's economy.

In all probability, Ford Motor Co. would be just a memory if Ford II hadn't taken over back in the '40s. At that time the company was about in the same financial shape as Chrysler is today.

But he turned that around after throwing out Harry Bennett.

He also can mark Detroit's Renaissance Center as one of his major accomplishments.

In between, there are many other accomplishments and failures with which to be reckoned — including his view on the Pinto controversy and why the American auto industry didn't downsize their product sooner.

We're complaining, Hank. Please explain.

HOW ABOUT old Thomas "Free Enterprise" Murphy's talk about raising the price of General Motors products?

His attitude demonstrates one of the reasons the American auto industry is having problems making it in the world market.

GM's chief honcho says his car company is going to raise prices 6 to 7 percent, despite the lagging car sales. All my reading in the free enterprise system says that when demand is down, prices are lowered.

Seems Murphy is predicting a shortage of GM autos this year. Of course, if you lay off workers, you certainly can't build as many cars. Sounds contrived to me.

Wonder what Adam Smith would have to say about this bit of silliness?

Frankly, the Japanese have beaten the American auto industry to the punch — thanks to guys like Murphy — and it will be years before we recover. Meanwhile, GM will continue to turn a profit and the unemployment lines will get longer.

from our readers

Editor: I would like to take this opportunity to thank all the members of the Plymouth Canton Boosters Club for the generous gift of the court rollers provided at the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park tennis courts.

Thanks for gift

There were many times our practices would have been cancelled this spring without the aid of rollers. They really have been a fine addition to the maintenance of the tennis courts and are greatly appreciated by the players and coaches.

Fuming about self-service

A certain element of society regards those who patronize full-service gas stations as decadent, amoral and hopelessly soft. There's a certain air about these critics. It's an aura of rising gas fumes, self-righteousness, and pioneer spirit combined with a generous dose of holier-than-thou.

But it's hard to be smug about pumping your own gas when the community you live in demands that every fill-up be performed by a licensed individual.

Canton is like that — or it used to be. But a new ordinance, that should take effect after completion of the various legal requirements such as publication, will allow self-service operations provided a licensed attendant is on hand for those who don't want to do it themselves.

There goes a great equalizing factor. How can you separate the chaff from the wheat when people don't have the option of getting out there and showing their stuff at the gas pump while saving two whole cents in the bargain?

I make it a matter of principle not to visit a self-service gas station except under great duress. I figure a fill-up is going to run about 10 bucks (these economy cars are great). If one only saves two cents a gallon, which is the average rate, then I'm only going to gain something around 15 cents by serving myself.

Fifteen cents doesn't go very far these days. I'd likely just squander the savings on liquor or something. The extra savings may add up for people who own gas guzzlers, but it would seem that driving a vehicle that consumes huge quantities of fuel rather cancels out the whole point of saving a few pennies.

Frankly, gas seems to be turning into one of those "if you have to ask the price, you can't afford it" items.

I figure if I'm already going to have to pay that much, I might as well spend a little more money in order to relax while someone comes out to the car, puts gas in it, washes the windows and checks the oil. The attendants ought to serve martinis while customers wait, but nothing is perfect.

Like everything else, full-service stations are not without their drawbacks. I had the oil checked in my car a while back at a local station. The kid said the oil was low and put some in, which is fine. I later discovered the young cretin had neglected to put the oil cap back on, which resulted in the car engine becoming coated with oil.

The thing had to be steam cleaned, which strikes me as a fine thing to do to the gas station attendant as well.

But there's only a limited amount one can expect from a gas station attendant.

Caroline Price

Supposedly, self-service gas is cheaper because only one person is needed to operate the controls for the pumps, rather than having to hire a horde of attendants.

But the horde of attendants must not run up very high wage bills if one only saves about two cents a gallon in their absence.

Either that, or someone is making a nice little profit off the deal.

Maybe one of these days I'll get smart and fill the car up exclusively at self-service stations. I'll sink all my savings into a money market certificate and use the interest to buy my own gas station.

Self-service, of course.

Madlock suspension outrageous

Pittsburgh Pirate third baseman Bill Madlock shouldn't have been suspended for 15 days for using some muscle on a home plate umpire last week.

And the $5,000 fine he incurred is outrageous, too.

Bustling Billy, count your lucky stars; if you had been a professional athlete playing sport anywhere else in the world, this season would be over — maybe seasons '81, '82, '83.

Umpires, referees, judges — they all make mistakes at crucial points of a game. Some even take delight in penalizing certain players whom they have come to dislike over the years.

Off the field, there are umpires who wouldn't rate a 3 out of 10 as individuals. But that doesn't give players the right to even the score whenever they lose their tempers.

A couple of years ago, I witnessed what may have been one of the sickest incidents ever in sport.

Rioting fans had brought a soccer match to an abrupt end midway through the second half of the game. As the fans spilled onto the field, some of them made a dash for one of the referees. Before police could get to the ref, a brawny young man cold-cocked him from behind.

The official lay convulsing on the ground — his jaw was broken — as his assailant sprinted off towards the clubhouse. The cowardly sniper was one of the players.

A league investigation followed and ultimately the guilty party was suspended for life and jailed for three months.

An extreme case, but an example of what happens when respect for umpires and referees is lost.

Last week a champion Australian football player I know personally was summoned before a league tribunal on charges of head-butting a lineman. He was found guilty and suspended for 22 games — the entire season.

I reckon he got off light.

Bill Madlock didn't break anyone's jaw. He probably didn't do much more than bruise an umpire's ego. However, he demonstrated that he thought he had the right to do more than argue verbally over a call.

Idea born at Round Table

In a far corner of the dining room in the Mayflower Hotel is a round table which is the gathering place for the members of the community's doom and gloom club, optimists, well-wishers and some of the folks who have an answer for all of the city's problems.

The table has been a sort of landmark since the hotel was built more than a half-century ago and it has played a prominent part in the history of the entire community.

Ironically, the table is located under a painting of the Pilgrims looking over their new home in America after landing at Plymouth, Mass., in 1620 and that brings us to the latest thinking of those who have a penchant for solving the problems of the land.

FOR INSTANCE, the other day, just as the regular members of the noon luncheon group got together, one of them, awed by what he had just read in the papers, asked:

"What are we going to do with all those Cubans the President is allowing to enter the country? We already have had thousands of them and now he has promised a 'home' for 250,000. How can he do that with so many thousands of Americans out of work and the unemployment lines getting longer every day?"

the stroller

With that, the portly keeper of the inn looked up at the huge painting of the Pilgrims and answered, "Let them do what these people did when they came over a long time ago to a new land, not knowing what was ahead of them."

The answer caught most everyone by surprise. But the innkeeper was quick on the verbal draw. (He usually is.)

"Why not take these Cubans out to the southwest where the weather is warm, the kind to which they have been accustomed, and give them a piece of land to cultivate and get started on their own. We have plenty of land and this would be one way of helping them and take the pressure off the state of Florida."

"But most of these incoming Cubans are convicts, or just out of prison," one of the diners explained. "Do we want them?"

The innkeeper looked astounded and countered, "Not all of the people who came over here on the Mayflower were religiously inclined. There were some shady characters in that group, too."

BY THIS TIME the conversation continued on a serious vein.

What could these Cubans raise in that hot southwest area?

"Well, they could raise corn and wheat among other things," the innkeeper explained. And then he had another thought.

"What about the activity Peter Childs, the mayor's son, is engaged in out in Arizona? I have just read that he and his firm are working on a project with the University of Arizona that could forever end our oil crisis."

This project is the raising of what is called the jojoba bean which produces oil in large quantities. In recent tests the bean, when squeezed, produced 50 per cent oil. When drained, it has been used in racing autos at Daytona Beach.

Those working on the project claim that if a sufficient number of these plants, which thrive in the southwest, are planted, the oil crisis in America would be ended within the next five years.

Yes, some great ideas often come to light at that famous round table.

BREVITIES

Mike Gouin fails in bid to improve softball fields

A request to improve and build Canton softball fields failed to gain township board approval.

The Township Board last week voted to table proposals to build two youth fields at John Flodin Park and/or light the field at Griffin Park.

The alternatives, suggested by recreation director Michael Gouin, would accommodate the growing number of softball leagues and teams in the township for the next three years.

The bid for a lighted field, estimated at a cost of $40,000, met with a lukewarm reception. Gouin's other request for youth fields, which he said would cost about $6,000, elicited more interest from trustees.

Support for the proposal appeared to be forthcoming from all but Trustee Robert Greenstein until Gouin said the cost of the youth fields was based on construction after a tentatively approved $90,000 had been spent on development of the fledgling park.

The $90,000 had been initially approved by the board from expected federal revenue sharing funds. Actual receipt of that money, however, seems less certain following projected across-the-board cuts in federal spending.

Greenstein opposed any expenditure on more softball fields, moving that Gouin limit the number of leagues to the township's existing capacity.

His resolution failed, as Clerk John Flodin, Trustees Eugene Daley and Carol Bodenmiller and Supervisor Noel Culbert dissented.

Flodin agreed with Greenstein, however, that the $6,000 for youth fields should not be approved with the uncertain fate of the $90,000.

"If you can't use it (the $6,000) without spending $90,000, there's no point spending it," Flodin said.

The decision to table drew a protest from recreation committee member Tim Orbacki, who said he believed recreation was far behind what it should be for a community of Canton's size.

Trooper retires after 23 years

State Police Sgt. James E. Belcher, 47, of the Northville post, retired this month after 23 years service with the Michigan State Police.

Belcher joined the department in May 1957, serving first at Ypsilanti before a transfer in 1962 to Wayland.

In 1969 he was promoted to detective at Detroit district headquarters, then was transferred the next year to the former East Lansing post with equal rank of corporal.

In 1971 Belcher was sent to the Ypsilanti post where his rank was changed the same year to sergeant.

A radio special on cable television

An alternative to commercial television soon will be available in Canton and Plymouth.

To keep residents informed and give them a first-hand look at cable television in the area, WSDP (88.1 FM) will offer an in-depth report beginning at 6 p.m. Wednesday.

The program, written and produced by Mike Radwick, will feature interviews with Pat Burn, director of community development for Omnicom of Michigan, Pat Kerich, manager of ON Television Subscription, and Pat Johnson, general manager of WXON Television.

Omnicom, which hopes to start operating in the city of Plymouth in August, will be offering more programming and flexibility to viewers.

Wednesday night the WSDP news special will compare the cable and subscription television alternatives to viewers, what cable will cost the viewer, and options on the 40 channels used by Omnicom.

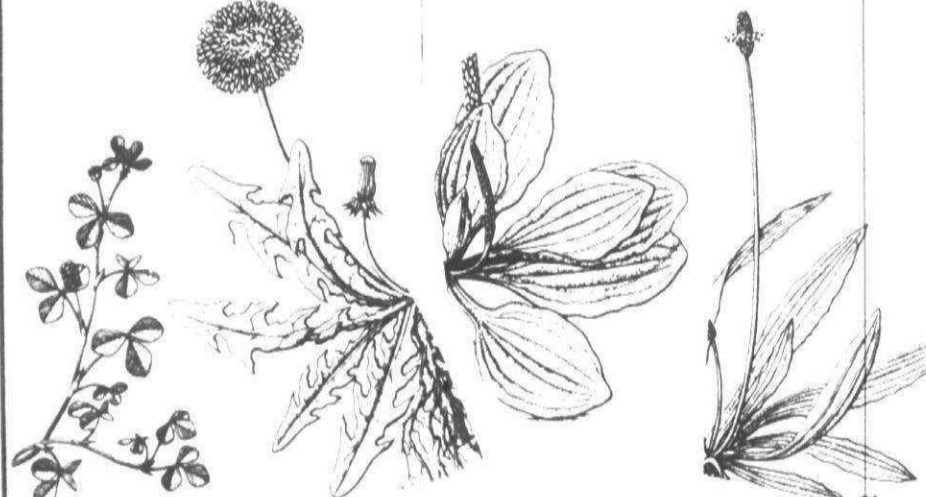

Radwick's news feature is one of a series of programs presented on "Parameters," a bi-weekly news magazine program presenting news and information on topics of interest to the Plymouth-Canton area.

Salem bats boom in doubleheader

Gardner rips Ford

Plymouth Salem put 29 hits to good use Wednesday afternoon, sweeping a softball doubleheader from Suburban Eight League foe Dearborn Edsel Ford.

Third baseman Cathy Gardner, who had eight hits in 11 trips on the day, came through with a bases-loaded single in the bottom of the seventh to give Salem a 7-6 win in the first game.

In the nightcap, Salem banged out 17 hits in a 17-9 triumph.

"We hit the ball hard today," said Salem coach Livi Way, whose team is now 6-2 overall and 5-1 in the league. "Our base running was excellent, too."

Helped by two errors, Edsel Ford took to a 3-0 first inning lead in the opener.

The Rocks came back with a run in the second when Bonnie Southerland drove home Denise Zonka with a single.

With Edsel Ford leading, 6-2, Salem exploded for four runs in the fifth inning to tie the game up.

GARDNER, PATTY WEIDMAN, Kelly Strautz and Stacy Nicolin accounted for the four runs.

Senior Jill Goodrich pitched all seven innings to pick up the victory. She allowed six hits, struck out four and walked eight.

"Jill did a real good job," said Way. "Our defense tightened up somewhat after the first inning."

In the second game, Goodrich started but couldn't get past the first inning because of control problems. Zonka came on and pitched the first two innings, allowing one run.

Goodrich, benefitting from the free substitution rule, came back and pitched the final five innings.

"Jill got stronger at the end," said Way. "She did not lose anything."

"We just weren't getting the calls at the start. Jill has been pitching a lot lately."

SALEM COASTED in the second game as Gardner came through with five hits.

In the fourth inning, Laura Arnold blasted a three-run homer as the Rocks gained an 8-7 advantage.

the fifth, upped Salem's lead to 11-8.

In the sixth, Gardner drove home two more runs as the Rocks scored six times.

Gardner had five RBIs and scored four runs. Weidman continued her torrid hitting by going three for four. She also had three hits in the opener. Nan Horwood scored three runs to help out the Rocks.

SALEM-EDSEL FORD

The Rocks edged Dearborn Edsel Ford Wednesday in a league match, 4-3.

"It was a nice win on a bad, windy day," said Salem coach Tom Williams.

Goodsir came through with a key win at No. 4 singles. He downed Chuck Davis, 4-6, 6-4, 8-6.

"David hustled to get every ball," said Williams. "He came real well to the net."

Lundberg and Baker held on at No. 1 doubles with a 1-6, 6-4, 6-3 win. Jarvis and Baker followed with a 6-3, 6-3 triumph. Crespo scored Salem's other point with a 6-4, 6-3 victory over Rob Waldron.

Cook lost an exhausting match at No. 1 singles to Alan Amici, 4-6, 6-2, 6-1.

Rock rally stuns Dearborn batters

Plymouth Salem broke up Marty Demaris' no-hitter in the fifth inning and went on to pull off a dramatic 5-2 Suburban Eight League baseball victory over Dearborn.

The first-place Rocks, now 6-1 in the league and 10-4-1 overall, fought off a 2-0 deficit by scoring two runs in the fifth and three more in the seventh.

Pitcher Pat McNamara broke up the no-hitter with a perfect drag bunt with two out in the fifth. Greg Etienne then rapped a double on a hit-and-run play. McNamara scored and Etienne came home on the play when the ball sailed past home plate.

In the seventh, Salem put the game away. Jim Anderson walked and stole second base. McNamara then walked and Etienne came through again, this time with an RBI single.

Brian Lewandowski followed with another RBI single, scoring McNamara. Joe Garcia made it 5-2 after hitting a deep fly ball to score Etienne.

McNamara went all the way for Salem. He allowed three hits, struck out eight and walked seven in raising his personal mark to 4-0.

"It was an important win," said coach Brian Gilles. "It's even better when you can come back like that."

Salem will travel to Livonia Bentley Tuesday.

SALEM-EDSEL FORD

Brian Gilles normally detests doubleheader splits.

But Wednesday the Plymouth Salem baseball coach was somewhat satisfied after his team divided a Suburban Eight League twin bill with Dearborn Edsel Ford.

"After I found out Belleville lost, I'll take it," said Gilles. "That keeps us one up on everybody."

Salem, behind senior Jeff Primeau's three-hitter, downed Edsel Ford in the opener, 6-2. The Thunderbirds, scoring a run in the bottom of the seventh, spoiled a sweep by winning the second game, 7-6.

Salem remained in first place all alone with a 5-1 mark. Belleville, which lost Wednesday to Allen Park, 3-1, is tied for second place with Edsel Ford at 4-2.

THE ROCKS took to a 3-0 first-inning lead in the opener as first baseman Jim Anderson drove home two runs with a single. He later scored on Pat McNamara's triple.

Salem made it 6-0 in the fourth as junior catcher Mark Kitz started the attack with a two-out triple. He scored on an error.

Mitch Wilcox then hit another triple to score John Hetkowski. Freshman Dave Slavin followed with a single to end the Rocks' scoring.

Primeau, now 3-1 overall, allowed two runs in the sixth. He struck out 10 and walked nine.

Salem collected 12 hits in the first game as Wilcox went four for four. Anderson added two hits and walked once.

THE ROCKS struggled in the second game, but managed to tie it up at 6-all in the seventh on Hsiao Peng's RBI hit.

John Penders, the second of three Salem pitchers, took the defeat. He was responsible for the winning run, although he was relieved by McNamara in the seventh.

Jim Johnson started for Salem and threw four innings before giving way to Penders. Johnson allowed five runs on seven hits. He struck out three.

Hetkowski led a 10-hit Rock attack with three singles. McNamara and Greg Etienne each had two hits.

Etienne came up with the play of the game in the sixth when he robbed an Edsel Ford batter of an extra-base hit.

"We tagged a lot of balls today," said Gilles. "In the second game, we hit bullets, but it was right at someone."

Chiefs drill Thurston

"We put it all together."

Nobody will argue with Plymouth Canton coach Max Sommerville's assessment of his team's performance against Redford Thurston Thursday afternoon.

The Canton softballers blasted Thurston in a non-league game, 18-1. The Chiefs are now 6-1 overall and will meet Thurston again Thursday on the road in a Class A pre-district clash.

"Everything went right for us," said Sommerville. "I just hope it's like that next Thursday."

Canton pounded out 14 hits. Joni Sommerville, Cindy Stevens, Marianne Pink, Jean Krashovetz, Marlene McKinley and Vicky Cavallaro each had two hits for the winners.

Sommerville and catcher Pam Schipani drove home three runs each.

"The girls were real aggressive at the plate," said the second-year Canton coach. "They were just super."

The Chiefs tallied eight runs in the fourth to break the game wide open. Thurston committed five errors to help Sommerville's club.

Sophomore Cindy Sovine hurled all seven innings for Canton. She allowed just three hits, struck out two and walked five.

Joni Sommerville and Jean Krashovetz each collected three hits to pace Plymouth Canton to a convincing 14-4 Western Six League softball win Wednesday afternoon over Northville.

The Chiefs are now 6-1 overall and 4-0 in the league.

"I thought we played well," said Canton coach Max Sommerville. "We had them on the run right off the bat."

Canton, however, was on the run in the opening inning as Northville, helped by an outfield error, touched up Chief starter Marianne Pink for three runs.

In Canton's half of the inning, perfect bunts laid down by Sommerville and first baseman Cindy Stevens opened the door to five runs.

Krashovetz drove home two runs with a single as Canton took a 5-3 advantage.

THE MUSTANGS, winners of just one game this season, struck for a run in the third inning to close the gap to 5-4.

In the bottom of the fourth Canton blew the game wide open, sending 12 batters to plate in an eight-run outburst.

Netters edge Edsel Ford

Salem falls against Sub 8 foe

Plymouth Salem's tennis squad suffered a key Suburban Eight League loss Friday to Dearborn, 6-1.

The Rocks are now 4-3 in the league, while Dearborn upped its mark to 5-2. Trenton leads the loop with a 6-1 mark.

Salem, sporting an 8-3 overall record, got its only point from No. 1 doubles team, Blake Lundberg and Craig Baker.

They raised their individual mark to 9-1 on the season with a 7-5, 6-0 triumph.

David Sommerville of Dearborn bested Dick Cook at No. 1 singles, 6-2, 6-0. At No. 2 singles, Salem's Scott Crespo lost to Andy McKenna for the second straight time this season, 6-2, 2-6, 9-7.

Salem's Jeff Howell and David Goodsir lost their matches at No. 3 and 4 singles, respectively. Goodsir was beaten in three sets. Doug Baker and Bob Jarvis, the Rocks' No. 2 doubles squad, suffered a three-set defeat.

Players Lounge opens with victory

Terry Hoffman belted two homers and knocked in five runs to power Players Lounge to a 24-3 rout over C & M Truck Collision in Class A softball, sponsored by the Canton Township Parks and Recreation Department.

In other Class A games, Silver Cricket bombed Canton Sports, 17-2, while McMurray Insurance tripped Oakview Party, 15-7.

IN CLASS B action, Dean Munger homered and tripled to pace Ovidon to an 8-6 win over Trident. Craig Lansbury had three hits and three RBI's to propel Chapman Brothers Realty Work to an 18-8 triumph over Atlas Collision. Jordy Tisdale ripped a three-run homer to lift Rusty Nail to an 8-1 victory over Frito Lay.

In other games, Jakes edged Rose Shores, 2-1, while the Brewers topped Team No. 6, 16-6.

JACK FALVO hit a three-run homer to lead Roman Forum past Century 21 in Class C Division I action, 7-3. Allie Suffety had two hits for Roman Forum.

Meijers drubbed Canton Bowl, 17-4, and All Star whipped Flowers by Margie Rae, 11-5. Superbowl tripped Drapery, 12-11.

In Class C Division II play, Classy Chassis beat Marias, 11-7, while K.C. Construction collected 15 hits in downing Rusty Nail, 10-6.

Cal Signs totaled 14 hits and went on to beat Falzon Electric, 6-4, in Class C Division III play. Howell Industries, although 18-16, held on to post a 12-10 verdict over Michigan Van. Geneva Churchi romped to a 23-14 win over Car Pro.

IN WOMEN'S ACTION, Sue Hudson hit a grand slam homer in the first inning to pace Maria's Bakery to a 13-7 win over Classy Chassis.

Peoloquin Enterprise whipped Do-Rite-Duds, 22-4, and Jack Sports prevailed over Titan Steel, 9-5.

Canton girls' track club trips Harrison

Liz Gorecki and Michelle Perrot each won two events as Plymouth Canton rolled to a 72-51 girls' track win over Farmington Harrison.

Canton is now 4-4 overall and 2-2 in the Western Six League.

Gorecki anchored the field events with first-place finishes in the discus (92-feet) and shot put (30-7).

Kathy Brophy of Canton took the long jump (14-6) while teammate Brenda Bigelow captured the high jump (4-10).

Perrot came through with firsts in the mile (5:54.0) and two mile (12:44.6).

The Chiefs won the 880-yard relay with a time of 2:00.9. That consisted of Mary Fidler, Geri Shufeldt, Diane Durocher and Liz Gorecki.

Canton blazed to a first-place finish in the 440-yard relay (1:00.7). Leslie McDowell, Jill Pedersen, Judy Purpura and Durocher were members of the relay.

Canton drops into 1st place tie

Northville shatters baseball jinx

By SCOTT ADLER

It has been five long years, but the Northville Mustangs finally did it.

The Mustangs scored four times in the fifth inning to complete a come-from-behind victory over Plymouth Canton, 6-4, at home to tighten up the Western Six League race.

Canton, Northville and Waterford Mott all stand at 3-1 in league competition. Northville and Mott are scheduled to play a doubleheader sometime next week.

"We're in good shape," said the Chiefs' coach Fred Crissey. "We're not chasing anybody and after their doubleheader one or both of them will be down."

It was the Mustangs first victory over Canton in 10 games, and it couldn't have come at a more opportune time.

The Chiefs jumped out to a 2-1 lead after two innings and built it to 3-1 after four.

Northville scored once in the fourth and struck for four runs in the fifth. Canton's losing pitcher, Dan Funkhouser, struck out the first two batters of the inning and walked the next two.

Crissey brought in Al Lipinski to get the final out but it was not to be.

WINNING PITCHER

Rick Borthwick ripped a long triple to score two and then scored himself on a single to make the score 6-3.

"He hit (Borthwick) it up in the air," said Crissey. "It would normally have been caught by our outfielders, but the wind took it and it got away from them."

The Chiefs were not ready to concede the victory, however, as they scored their final run in the sixth.

Dave Meador was hit by a pitch and after two were out, Guy Kananen ripped a long double to score Meador. John Matthews flew out deep to center field to end the rally.

"They (Northville) got the hits when they had to have them," said Crissey. "It's no big deal, you're bound to stub your toe along the way, but I'm not concerned."

"I'm glad we don't have anybody determining our next move. Obviously we have to keep winning, but the worst shape we can be in after their (Mott and Northville) doubleheader is a tie for first."

The Chiefs are now 7-6 and Northville is 10-3 overall.

Rocks rule links

Freshman Lisa Marino fired a 47 Wednesday to lead Plymouth Salem past rival Plymouth Canton in a girls' golf match, 201-226, at Hilltop Golf Course.

Salem, coached by Jim Stevens, also received fine performances from Meg McGee (49), Nancy Stevens (51) and Carol Ross (54).

Canton's top finisher was Cindy Sochacki, who fired a nine-hole total of 55. She was followed by teammates Janis McGlone (56), Debbie Dickinson (57) and Debbie Nurmi (58).

On Thursday, Salem recorded its best round of the season at Hilltop by beating Brighton in a Central Six League match, 191-207.

The victory lifts Salem's overall mark to 6-1.

"The girls are playing very well," said Stevens. "Anytime you shoot in the 40's you're going to win matches."

"We averaged 46 against Brighton which is pretty good."

Marino again led the Rocks. She fired a low round of 43. Stevens, a sophomore, carded a 48. Ross and McGee shot 49 and 51, respectively.

The Chiefs carded their lowest round year against Pinckney Thursday at Lakeland, but it wasn't enough, 195-224.

Pinckney's Chris Wines was medalist with a 44.

Sochacki paced Canton with a 53. McGlone had a 55 with Nurmi and Karen Mullen each shooting a 58.

"We're bringing our scores down," said Canton coach Ann Buie. "We had trouble getting out of the sand."

"We're used to hitting out of dirt, but this is the best we've ever shot."

Unable to conquer fast greens and stiff winds, the Plymouth Canton girls' golf squad was defeated Tuesday afternoon by Brighton, 215-233, in a Central Six League golf match at Burroughs Farm.

Kathy Regan of Brighton was medalist in the meet with a nine-hole total of 49. McGlone was Canton's top shooter with a 51. She was followed by teammates Sochacki (54), Mullen (64) and Nurmi (64).

On Friday, McGlone fired a 49 in vain as Canton dropped a league match to Saline, 212-227.

McGlone, a junior, tied Saline's Kathy Corona for medalist honors.

The VIEW

from
CANTON CENTER

VISITORS TO the Three Cities Art Club show had an opportunity to vote on which painting or drawing they considered the best in the show.

When the ballots were counted, Martha Barnes' large still life of Japanese lanterns (and baby's breath) in a grey and blue stone jug was the top vote-getter. It did not even receive an honorable mention in the regular judging.

SOME OF THE local members of NOW (National Organization of Women) were in Chicago over the weekend for Saturday's National March for ERA ratification.

Betty Kelley and Mary Ann Pinkerton were planning on going. We'll have to wait until they return to discover who all went.

FLORENCE BEIER was in San Francisco for the National School Board Association Convention. Florence was a speaker at the gathering.

While there, she spent a day with Julie and Tex Thoman who live on Almada Island. Florence says they are both "absolutely great, as full of enthusiasm as ever, and love their lifestyle."

by
ELLIE GRAHAM

Florence saw their warehouse and workshop where they slice polish and work on their rocks. They have piles and stacks of them, according to Florence. They load up their wares and head for the big shows.

Julie founded Wayside and Sideways shops in Plymouth.

PAT EVANS AND Alice Egan planned a surprise for their friend and neighbor, Mary Childs. Using the ploy that she was having the gang over for bridge, Alice greeted Mary, then seated her in a rocking chair and draped a shawl over her shoulders.

It was a grandmother's shower. Peter and Andrea Childs live in Tucson, Ariz. so none of their local friends could have a shower before young Clarke Peter was born. In fact, the grandparents, Eric and Mary, have not seen their first grandchild yet.

Those who participated in the shower were Muriel Prussing, Sylvia Mullen, Ruth Paul, Jeanne Egan, Betty March, Pauline Drouillard Drouillard, Betty Lowe, Carlene Stoner, Kay Humphries, Marge Fisher, Anita Farrar and Julie Grissom.

Also Barb LeClair, whose handmade gift caused a lot of oohing and aahing. It was a crib-size quilt with Bambi on it. Down in the corner was a little pocket containing a stuffed toy, Thumper.

JANE DREWNIK and Margaret Swartz had high scores at the May 8 party bridge games at the Plymouth Cultural Center. There were seven tables in play.

It was the first time the Drewniks had been out since they returned from a six-month stay in Florida.

THE PLYMOUTH Area REACTION Team has eight new members. Six of them signed up at the April tornado safety training class conducted by REACT.

The new members are Jenny and Lloyd Crawford, Lucy Chippis, Linda Kubiel, William Merrill, Pat and Marv Pashukewich, and Charlotte Marich.

LYNN ROEHL, a sophomore at Plymouth Salem High School, received a scholarship and has been accepted into the Young Artists Piano Program at Boston University Tanglewood Institute, Lenox, Mass. for this summer.

The program is designed for advanced high school pianists. Students will receive private lessons in addition to participating intensively in master classes conducted by prominent guest artists. Students who satisfactorily complete work in the program and later qualify for admission to Boston University receive three credits toward the bachelor of music degree.

For the past 10 years, Lynn has been studying with Mischa Kottler, professor and chairman of the piano department at Wayne State University. Kottler was official pianist with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and director of music at WWJ radio station.

The 16-year-old is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Roehl of Creekwood Circle, Plymouth Township.

MEMBERS OF Lake Pointe branch of Woman's National Farm and Garden Association planted a maple tree at the Plymouth Township No. 2 Fire Station out on Wilcox Road.

DON'T FORGET the Plymouth Community Chorus spring concert at 7 p.m. Sunday in Plymouth Salem High School auditorium.

Sweet Adelines

The We Way Co Chapter of Sweet Adelines was in London, Ontario May 2-4 with 18 other barbershop choruses for the regional spring competition. Under the direction of Jeannie Lundberg, the group placed fourth. Judging was based on music, sound, expression and showmanship. Before competition weekend, the chorus had its installation dinner with Claudia Swisher of Plymouth installed as president. Serving with her are Kathy Forgacs, Westland, vice president; Sally Ettinger, Livonia, corresponding secretary; Carol Cox, Plymouth, recording secretary; and Pat Daubenmier, Canton Township, treasurer. Ann Peters of Ypsilanti received the Sweet Adeline of the Year Award. Women who would like to join the Wednesday evening rehearsals can call 455-5943.

Seniors to hear dangers of pill taking

By BETTY MASSON

Mrs. M. was feeling ill, so she went to the doctor, who found she had high blood pressure and prescribed some pills for her.

When she began to get dizzy spells, she went back to the doctor, who prescribed another batch of pills.

Shortly after this, she had trouble with nausea, and her ankles began to swell. Back to the doctor.

Mrs. M. wound up taking 13 different kinds of pills.

Most of them were making her sick.

"EIGHTY PERCENT" of them were to alleviate the side effects of other pills," said Linda Breeden, director of substance abuse services to older adults of Child and Family Services of Washtenaw County.

It isn't just the younger generation that has trouble with drugs and alcohol. Ms. Breeden knows from experience, from working with older persons.

Part of the trouble stems from doctors who are quick to dispense pills and slow to explain what they're for; and part with the patient who isn't satisfied unless he gets something from the doctor and who either forgets or isn't candid about other medications he is taking.

Ms. Breeden will discuss these and other matters when she appears as guest speaker at a meeting tomorrow, sponsored by the Plymouth Community Council on Aging, Inc.

It will be at 2 p.m., in the Plymouth Cultural Center, 525 Farmer.

All interested are invited. "Bring along the questions you've been afraid to ask," says the council.

The talk is titled "Senior Citizen Medical Records: What Your Pharmacist Can Do With Your Generic Medicine."

MS. BREEDEN believes that a pharmacist can be a senior citizen's best friend, whether it is in providing advice about prescription drugs or over-the-counter medications.

A person on medication should be aware that even the over-the-counter drug can have side effects. It may not mix well with a prescription drug.

For instance, said Ms. Breeden, taking aspirin along with a prescription drug for arthritis can increase the risk of stomach ulcers and even cause hemorrhaging.

Persons taking drugs for high blood pressure should stay away from some antacids. The sodium in them can be harmful.

Sleep-inducing pills can be dangerous when mixed with prescribed drugs, and persons with heart conditions and high blood pressure should stay away from some cold remedies.

"Ask your pharmacist," counsels Ms. Breeden.

SHE REPORTS that many pharmacists are keeping "patient profiles," in which they record all medication, drug allergies and the physical condition of their customers, on request.

If, for instance, as has been known to happen, a patient is getting one drug for high blood pressure from his regular doctor and another drug for the same thing from his specialist, the pharmacist would spot this.

Eye doctors, dentists and psychiatrists all prescribe medicines that a patient may forget or discount when he visits his regular physician, said Ms. Breeden.

If something in his records indicates that a certain drug would be harmful to a patient, "the pharmacist has a responsibility to let the physician know."

She also pointed out that pharmacists, because of their training, often have a better knowledge of drugs and their effects than most doctors. Most physicians get only a few hours of training in pharmacology in medical school.

IT'S THE pharmacist's job to let people know how to take their medicine properly, said Ms. Breeden.

"He's the biggest health resource there is, and he's under utilized."

Part of the problem, she believes, is that doctors are often too rushed to give instructions. But she also believes that it's time attitudes changed.

"It's time we got our money's worth."

Senior citizens can get drug overdoses from doctors who "prescribe the same amounts for an older person as they do for anyone else," said Ms. Breeden. Research has shown that older people need lesser amounts, and that there are more adverse drug reactions in the older population, she added. These are two to three times higher in the 60 to 70 year age group and seven times higher for those over 80.

Patients sometimes are reluctant to ask their doctor what their medications are for, and about possible side effects.

But patients need to ask, either their doctors or pharmacists, and patients should stop "pestering" doctors for pills.

Instead of trying a pill for depression, she suggests, "Join a group, or try physical activity as an alternative."

Her agency is ready to help, as it is with problems of alcohol abuse.

MRS. G. was a mean old lady. She had fought with her family; she was the kind of person nobody wanted to have around. She gradually began to stay in her room, except for trips to the store, where she gave the clerks a bad time.

Finally, when she was hospitalized, it was revealed that Mrs. G. was a secret drinker. Along with this she was taking pills, Valium, codein, phenobarbital among others. The combination would likely have killed an ordinary person, but over the years she had built up a tolerance — and wrecked her health and disposition.

Through support and counseling, the agency was able to wean her away from the bottle and pills. Today, she is a new woman, according to Ms. Breeden.

Along with a new disposition, she has a new boyfriend.

AND GETTING older doesn't necessarily mean getting senile, according to Ms. Breeden. Much of what is diagnosed as chronic organic brain syndrome, i.e. senility, she says, is actually a reversible brain syndrome. The symptoms may be caused by such things as malnutrition, depression, alcoholism or even toxic drug reactions.

Not looking for these causes just because a person is over 70 is just as bad as saying, "Why not let Grandpa have his booze? He's over 80 and it's all he has left to enjoy."

That kind of philosophy is trouble, Ms. Breeden maintained.

"The disease of alcoholism is still destroying all the healthy things in their lives." If Grandpa can't help himself, his family should seek help for him.

"Alcoholism has been an under-the-carpet thing for older adults," she said.

Women will have their day on campus

By MARGARET MILLER

Some ideas imported from Traverse City combine with some more of the homegrown variety for the "Women's Day on Campus" that will be offered by the Schoolcraft College Women's Resource Center Saturday.

Twenty-eight workshops, an art show, a keynote address by Schoolcraft provost Jewell Stindt, several films and entertainment by the Sweet Adelines of Western Wayne County will be included in the program in the auxiliary gymnasium of the college's physical education building. The campus is located on Haggerty between Six and Seven Mile Roads.

Registration fee is $3 and payment will be accepted at the door. Participants may choose workshops in four separate sessions.

Peggy Durbrow, a Plymouth resident who had attended similar events while living in the Traverse City area, has headed arrangements for the campus day, working with Jean Christensen, assistant dean of community services and director of the Women's Resource Center.

WORKSHOPS range from topics like "Focus: Fun (You and Your Preschooler)" and "Enhancing Your Role as a Homemaker" to "Drug Scene (1980 Update)" and "Is Male Liberation Possible."

Most will be offered twice, either in morning sessions 9:30-10:30 and 10:40-11:40 a.m. or in the afternoon, 12:50-1:50 and 2-3 p.m. Also coming up for morning discussion will be healthy family relationships in a single-parent home, widowhood, women and drinking and CPR (cardiovascular resuscitation).

A smoking clinic, car care advice and a workshop titled "You Don't Have to be Superwoman to Manage Your Time Effectively," are on afternoon schedules.

Craft workshops will be on batik and weaving in the morning and basketry and cake decoration in the afternoon. There will be a discussion on photography both morning and afternoon.

A pair of films designed to bridge generation gaps, "Who You Are is What You Were When," and "What You Are Isn't Necessarily What you Will Be" are scheduled morning and afternoon. Other films planned are "What Do You Do When You Meet a Blind Person," and "How We Got the Vote."

MRS. DURBROW said she had participated in campus day programs sponsored by the American Association of University Women and the Cooperative Extension at Northwestern Michigan College.

"They were really great, and I thought something like that would go well here."

On the recommendation of Plymouth neighbor Daisy Proctor, this newcomer took her suggestion to Ms. Christensen and learned that something like that already had gone well here, in a couple of day-long seminars sponsored by the resource center in earlier years.

"I went to Jean, figuring I would give her the idea and walk out," Mrs. Durbrow reported a bit ruefully.

"She suggested I head it up and promised plenty of information from the previous events and also plenty of support."

Leaving the resource center with a committee chairmanship and a sheaf of material and ideas, she then got on the telephone to Traverse City.

"Joan McGarry, the extension coordinator there, sent some old brochures to refresh my memory, and that's when the preparation began."

"REALLY GOOD cooperation was reported by this coordinator."

"I had wondered if people would want to give that kind of time on a Saturday, but they were great," she said.

"Everyone either agreed or gave me another name."

Volunteer help also was forthcoming from the Women's Resource Center. Peggy Fisher, also of Plymouth, took over publicity for the event, putting together a brochure that is available at the resource center, in the Alfred Noble Library in Livonia, in the Plymouth and Northville libraries and in Plymouth Book World.

"We really have a lot of neat people giving their time to make this go."

One of those "neat people" is an old friend from Traverse City, Patricia Anderson. A former teaching assistant in music education at the University of Michigan, she will lead a session titled "Things Go Better with Music." It will show how music and materials found in the home can create special learning and listening experiences.

Another is Joanne Stein, Schoolcraft English instructor, who will lead a poetry-listening experience and talk about how women poets view their work.

Linda Burrell, teacher of the Livonia Cooperative Nursery Inc., will lead the workshop on creative activities parents can do with preschoolers using readily available materials.

Peggy Price, former coordinator of a program for the widowed at Schoolcraft, will lead a session titled "Growth through Grief," and Nancy Zimmerman, homemaker and Women's Resource Center volunteer, will talk about the role of the woman who prefers not to work outside the home.

A Schoolcraft instructor and returning student, Suzanne Kaplan and Bertha Kelly, will lead a discussion on re-entry problems. The possibilities of liberation for men will be explored by Wayne Fisk, also a faculty member.

OTHER LOCAL workshop leaders include June Lark of Livonia, professional model who will discuss self-improvement, Judy McWhirter on basketry, Jessie Hudson on batik, Gary Zimmerman of Livonia on photography, Bud Smith on auto mechanics and Laura Callow and Mary Dumas of Livonia on political activism for women.

Coming in for the day are Diane Place, consumer affairs office with the United States Food and Drug Administration, talking on food additives and X-ray dangers, Eugene Dembicki of the Michigan Offices of Substances Abuse, discussing the drug scene, Priscilla Murdock of Recover Inc., leading a session on mental health and Donna Caswell of the Washtenaw County Council on Alcoholism discussing "Women Battle the Bottle."

Kathy Robinson of the American Lung Association will lead a smoking clinic.

The art exhibit will be displayed all day in the lobby, and coffee and tea will be available throughout the day.

Dr. Stindt will speak at 9 a.m., following a welcome from Ms. Christensen, and the Sweet Adelines will sing noon to 12:30 p.m. in the Liberal Arts Theater. Sandwiches will be available between the morning and afternoon sessions, or participants may bring their own lunches.

COORDINATOR DURBROW looks on the day as one for all ages and situations.

"I'm excited about the day and I see it as a time of celebration and an opportunity to find some new things to think about," she said.

"We hope to attract homemakers and career women, mothers and students."

Childcare rally protests budget

Robert McFarling, administrator of day care centers in Livonia and Westland, will be among those attending a rally in Lansing to oppose proposed cuts in Michigan's day care support system.

McFarlane heads the Riverside Children's Center in Livonia and New School Children's Center in Westland.

The rally will begin at 1:30 p.m. Thursday on the East Capitol lawn, and will feature a speech by State Sen. Jackie Vaughn, D-Detroit.

Sponsors of the event claim that the day care support system that helped thousands of Michigan women escape welfare rolls and become self-supporting is being threatened by a proposed $11.5 million budget cut now being considered by the Joint Appropriations Committee of the House of Representatives and Senate.

The sponsors are the Michigan Association of Child Care Administrators, the Michigan Child Care Task Force and the Michigan Association for the Education of Young Children.

THEIR STATEMENT said Michigan now pays day care costs only for women with poverty level incomes, and only as a temporary measure until they can support themselves and their children.

"The proposed budget cuts will almost destroy this vital support system, and doom many Michigan women and children to a life on welfare," noted the statement.

It explains that $3.4 million of the cut will come from funds now used to pay day care expenses for low-income women who are paying for their own education or job training. Day care for two children for a month at state rates, including transportation, costs about $420 a month. That is often more than the family has to live on for the whole month.

Without this temporary day care assistance from the state, it is impossible for most of these women to get the jobs skills necessary to become self-supporting, the statement continued.

A cut of $6.6 million would mean that 47 percent of working low-income mothers would have to pay some, and sometimes almost all of their day care costs out of their food and rent money, instead of receiving it from the state. About 33 percent would have to pay more than $50 a month from their own pockets.

Because their income is small, they would have little left to live on, and would be much further ahead if they stayed on welfare.

McFARLING NOTED that a cut in transportation funds to carry children on low incomes to day care centers would mean that certain mothers would have to cope with their children 24 hours a day. These funds are used to get a child to a day care center from a home where he might be abused, or if he is in need of day care for socialization or educational reasons, he added.

Dangers of pill taking explained

Complicating it, is the fact that "physicians are not recognizing that the real problem is alcoholism."

It is a disease that can and should be treated, whether its victim is 17 or 70.

It was only when he wound up in a hospital, dehydrated, that it was learned he had been taking double the number of diuretic pills that had been prescribed for him because he'd forgotten how many he'd taken each day.

Elizabeth and Garrett Kerstens of Irvin Street, Plymouth announce the birth of their son, Wesley Garrett, April 28 in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Ann Arbor.

Grandparents are Ed and Helen Kerstens of Plymouth and Don and Midge Jewell, formerly of Plymouth now residing in Venice, Fla.

Math expert will speak

The Plymouth, Canton, Northville chapter of the Michigan Association for Children with Learning Disabilities will close its 1979-80 season with Ruth Ambinder as special guest speaker. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, May 21 in the cafeteria of Pioneer Middle School, 46801 W. Ann Arbor Trail.

The meeting is free and open to the public. Parent advisors will be there to answer questions after the meeting.

Mrs. Ambinder serves on the State Board of Professional Advisors for MACLD along with her husband, Dr. Walter Ambinder who may participate in the program.

For the past five years Mrs. Ambinder has taught "A Social Workers Orientation to Learning Problems" for the Wayne State School of Social Work. She has presented numerous demonstrations of math methods for learning disabled children to various group in Michigan and beyond.

Her experience includes seven years as a math teacher for LD students at Children's Orthogenic Center in Detroit, two years as a social worker there, and seven years as a school social worker in the Lamphere School District. She is in private practice and is a certified marriage counselor.

Mrs. Ambinder attended the University of Chicago School of Social Work and Columbia University where she received her masters degree in social work. From there, she went to Wayne State University where she earned her teacher's certificate.

Scholarship winners to solo

Works of Haydn and Moussorgsky and highlights from the musical "Annie" will be featured in the Plymouth Youth Symphony's final concert of the season. Admission will be free to the performance in Plymouth Canton High School Little Theater at 8 p.m. Tuesday, May 13.

The orchestra will be under the direction of Linda Mapes. Three scholarship competition winners will give solo performances. They are Erica Bashor, flute, Plymouth Woman's Club scholarship; Thurston Matthews, cello, Plymouth Symphony Scholarship; and Jesse Seay, violin, Plymouth Symphony Society scholarship.

A work by Gordon Jacob for wind ensemble will be directed by Ms. Mapes. Vickie Vorreiter, associate musical director of the Youth Symphony, will conduct a work written by Joseph Morin for string ensemble.

Joan M. Seay, president of the symphony's board of directors, says, "Generous contributors have enabled the youth symphony to provide a unique orchestral experience for young musicians."

CAN DR. GRASSAM HELP? READ WHAT PATIENTS SAY!

Neck Soreness, Bursitis Gone

Several doctors wanted to operate on my friend, who had a growth on her back. Instead she went to a chiropractor and was rid of the problem within one month.

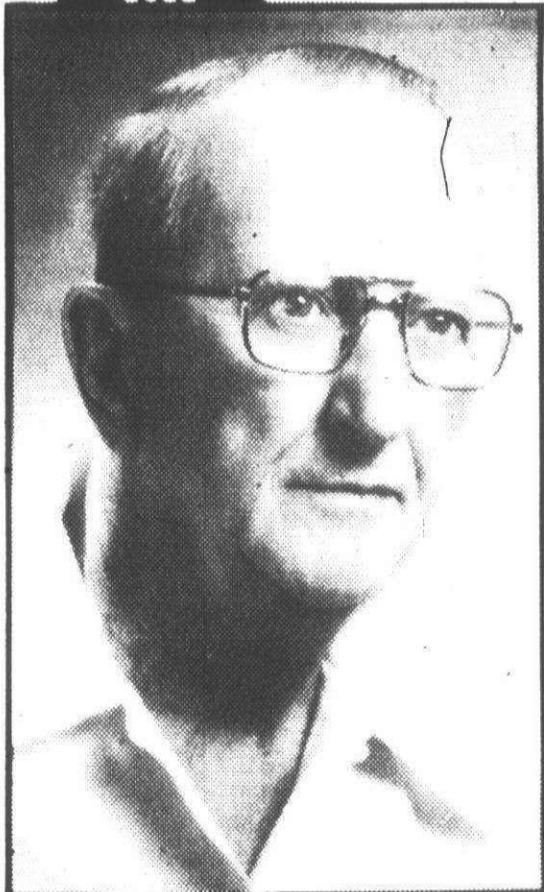

Chiropractic helped cure the bursitis in my shoulder some years ago.

So, when I began experiencing soreness in my neck recently, I decided to seek chiropractic treatments.

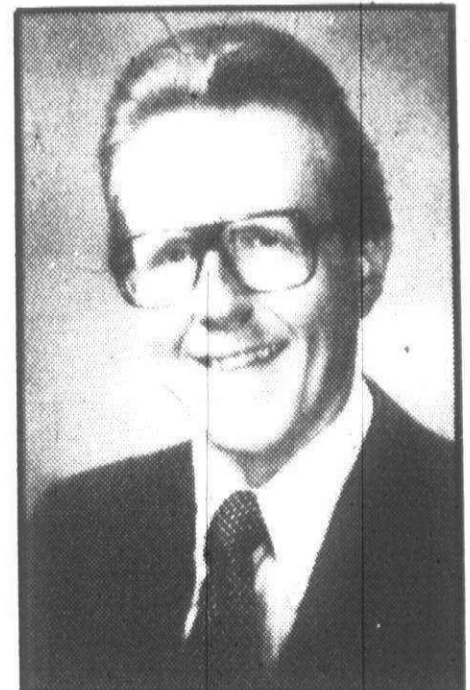

After four treatments at Dr. Grassam's clinic in Garden City the soreness disappeared.

Chiropractic has helped me and my friends. I would recommend chiropractic treatments to anyone.

Thank you.

DINING AL FRESCO

As long summer evenings approach, the urge to cook outdoors on the grill increases. The atmosphere is perfect for enjoying great, inventive al fresco meals. How about a turkey roasted to juicy perfection, delicate crab meat and a sunburst pear salad?

Turkey can be selected as a whole bird, just the right size for your family's needs, or as turkey parts, if you prefer. Economical, nutritious and simple to prepare, it can be barbecued to perfection on a spit, in a covered grill, or in the oven.

The Warming Oven by Emily Watson

Tony Palermo of Alfred's Restaurant on Big Beaver Road in Troy won the great North Central Chili Cook-off at the Farm Council Grounds in Saline. Tony's chili was judged best of the 34 batches entered in the Kidney Foundation of Michigan fund-raiser.

The chef will receive a free trip for two to California and a chance to compete in the International Chili Society World Championship Cook-Off in late fall. Palermo is a veteran of the chili wars. He placed second in last year's regional.

Contestants were not allowed to use beans in their chili. Tony used his regular recipe (minus the beans) and came in a winner. Last year he tried to jazz it up a bit and it didn't work, he said.

Here is his recipe:

TONY'S CHILI

5 lb. ground beef
3 tbsp. oil
3 large onions, chopped
3 green peppers, chopped
6 jalapeno peppers, chopped
6 cloves garlic, crushed
2 No. 10 cans whole tomatoes (13 lbs.)
1 cup tomato paste
3/4 cup chili powder
1/4 cup oregano
1/4 cup sweet basil
1/4 cup thyme
1/4 cup crushed rosemary
1 tbsp. salt
1 tbsp. white pepper
1 tsp. ground cumin
1 tsp. tabasco

Brown ground beef and drain. In oil, add garlic, two chopped onions, green peppers, jalapeno peppers. Cook at medium heat for five minutes. Add all spices, continue cooking for about three minutes. Add whole tomatoes and juice, tomato paste, tabasco, ground beef and cook for 2 1/2 hours.

Garnish with sour cream and chopped onions and additional tabasco if desired. Yield: approximately two gallons.

TONY PALERMO

For sheer drama, nothing tops a turkey spit roasted and basted with a savory barbecue sauce. This special recipe combines soy sauce and canned pear syrup to produce a turkey with golden color and rich taste.

SWEET SOY BARBECUED TURKEY

For Outdoor Spit Roasting: 6 to 12-pound turkeys are best. If turkey is frozen, thaw and remove from bag. Remove neck and giblets; rinse turkey and wipe dry. Brush inside of cavity with Sweet Soy Barbecue Sauce (below). Tie wings securely to breast and drumsticks to tail with twine. Do not stuff turkeys for rotisserie cooking.

Insert spit rod in front of tail; run diagonally through breast bone. Fasten tightly with spit forks at both ends and test for balance, readjusting as needed. If desired, insert thermometer into thickest part of thigh, parallel to the spit. Make sure thermometer bulb is not touching bone.

Cook according to timetable below, basting occasionally with Sweet Soy Barbecue Sauce.

For Covered Grill: Shape a drip pan from aluminum foil about 2 inches larger than turkey. Place foil drip pan in grill with hot coals around it. Place turkey on grill rack over drip pan. Close cover of grill. Cook turkey over medium-low coals according to timetable below, adding more coals to edge after 1 hour, and basting occasionally with Sweet Soy Barbecue Sauce.

For Oven Barbecuing: Place unstuffed turkey on roasting rack in a shallow pan, brushing inside of bird with Sweet Soy Barbecue Sauce. Insert meat thermometer into thickest part of thigh, making sure thermometer bulb is not touching bone. Roast at 325°F. according to timetable below, basting occasionally with Sweet Soy Barbecue Sauce.

Sweet Soy Barbecue Sauce

1/2 cup soy sauce
1/2 cup vegetable oil
1/2 cup pear syrup

Combine all ingredients; brush on turkey occasionally as it cooks.

APPROXIMATE TIMETABLE FOR ROASTED WHOLE TURKEY

Weight	Approximate Cooking Time
6 to 8 pounds	3 to 3 1/2 hours
8 to 10 pounds	3 1/2 to 4 hours
10 to 12 pounds	4 to 5 hours

Turkey is done when meat thermometer registers 180° to 185°F.

While you wait for the turkey, enjoy a splendid appetizer — cracked Alaska Snow crab clusters served on ice and accompanied with two made-ahead dips. One is a zippy mixture of catsup and horseradish with a good dash of lemon juice. Green mayonnaise gets its cool tint from chopped spinach, parsley and watercress.

CRACKED CRAB APPETIZER

3 pounds frozen Alaska Snow crab clusters, thawed and drained
Cracked ice

Zippy Tomato Horseradish Sauce (below)
Green Mayonnaise (below)

Break crab clusters into sections, cutting legs into 2 or 3 pieces. Crack with nutcracker, crab cracker or mallet. Arrange in bowl on cracked ice! Supply small forks or picks for removing meat from shell. Accompany with Zippy Tomato Horseradish Sauce and Green Mayonnaise. Makes 8 servings.

Zippy Tomato Horseradish Sauce: Combine 1/2 cup catsup, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 teaspoon prepared horseradish, 1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and 1/2 teaspoon onion powder. Chill at least 30 minutes to blend flavors. Makes about 1/2 cup.

Green Mayonnaise: Combine 1/2 cup mayonnaise, 1/2 cup dairy sour cream, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1/8 teaspoon dried tarragon, crushed, and 1 clove garlic, crushed. Stir in 1/4 cup each finely-chopped spinach, parsley and watercress. (If watercress is unavailable, increase chopped spinach to 1/2 cup.) Cover and chill at least 3 hours to blend flavors. Makes about 1-1/2 cups.

For a most refreshing accompaniment to the turkey, serve Sunburst Pear Salad with Pineapple-Yogurt Dressing. Sweet canned Bartlett pear halves are filled with juicy crushed pineapple, grated carrots and celery.

SUNBURST PEAR SALAD

1 can (29 oz.) Bartlett pear halves
1 can (8-1/4 oz.) crushed pineapple
1/2 cup grated carrots
1/4 cup thinly-sliced celery
1 teaspoon grated orange or lemon peel
Lettuce
Pineapple-Yogurt Dressing (below)

Drain pears, reserving 2 tablespoons syrup. Drain pineapple; set aside 2 tablespoons pineapple for dressing. Combine remaining pineapple with carrots, celery and orange or lemon peel. Arrange pears on lettuce-lined platter. Spoon pineapple mixture into pear centers. Pass Pineapple-Yogurt Dressing. Makes 8 servings.

Pineapple-Yogurt Dressing: Combine 1 cup plain yogurt with reserved pear syrup, reserved pineapple and 1/4 teaspoon grated orange or lemon peel. Chill until ready to serve. Garnish with additional grated orange or lemon peel, if desired. Makes about 1 cup.

An easy "second-day" menu is special enough for another casual outdoor gathering of friends, and is suitable for either lunch or a light supper.

Start with Snow Crab Vichyssoise, a frosty soup using either frozen or canned Alaska Snow crab meat.

For the main dish, leftover turkey stars in a hearty salad, with canned Bartlett pears adding a light touch to the savory rice mixture. Curry powder is the primary seasoning, and chopped bottled chutney adds a touch of the exotic.

SNOW CRAB VICHYSOISE

6 to 8 oz. Alaska Snow crab, frozen or canned
1/2 cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1-1/2 cups peeled, diced russet potatoes
1 cup chicken broth
1/4 cup chopped fresh parsley
1/4 teaspoon salt
Dash white pepper
1 cup half and half
Dash bottled hot pepper sauce
Lemon wedges
Minced chives

Thaw crab if frozen; drain and slice. Cook onions in butter or margarine over low heat until tender but not brown, about 5 minutes. Add potatoes, broth, parsley, salt and pepper. Bring to a boil and simmer, covered, over low heat 15 to 20 minutes, or until potatoes are tender. Puree in blender or food processor. Cool completely. Fold in crab, half and half and hot pepper sauce. Cover and chill thoroughly, 4 to 6 hours. Serve in chilled bowls; garnish with lemon wedges and chives. Makes 5 or 6 appetizer servings.

CURRIED TURKEY PEAR SALAD

1 can (29 oz.) Bartlett pear halves
1 cup uncooked rice
Curry Dressing (below)
2 cups diced cooked turkey
1/2 cup chopped celery
1/4 cup chopped green onions
1/4 cup chopped chutney

Drain pears, reserving 2 tablespoons syrup for Curry Dressing. Cook rice according to package directions. While hot, toss with Curry Dressing. Cool. Slice 2 pear halves and reserve for garnish. Chop remaining pears and add to cooled rice along with turkey, celery, green onions and chutney. Garnish with reserved pear slices. Chill. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Curry Dressing: In covered jar or shaker, combine 2 tablespoons pear syrup with 1/4 cup salad oil, 3 tablespoons white wine vinegar, 2 teaspoons curry powder, 1/4 teaspoon salt and dash pepper. Mix well.

A Question of Taste

By Hilary Keating Callaghan

Serve asparagus in a buttery shell with Bechemel

I was recently stumped by a problem on a math test. The problem was based on a bar graph depicting sales volume according to the months of the year. The solution involved a comparison of sales performance by seasons of the year.

I had no difficulty with the mathematical concept. What I couldn't remember was what months comprise spring. We always have a big snowstorm around St. Patrick's Day. March can't be spring. April also seems to bring an annual "surprise" snowstorm. That brings us to May, which is too late for spring to be starting. Maybe May is the last month of spring?

This is probably a peculiarly Michigan dilemma. Other states must enjoy a clearly defined season called spring. Where else would all the poetry and photographs celebrating spring come from?

IT WOULD have been easier to identify spring if the graph has been marked "asparagus, spring strawberries" instead of "March, April

Spring begins when these items first appear on produce aisles and ends when they disappear, yielding their space to summer's fruits and vegetables.

Using asparagus as a yardstick, spring is gasping its last for this year. Asparagus, when still available, is fast becoming both expensive and club-like. With some diligence, however, you can still find some slender stalks at a price which should only dent your food budget slightly.

If you are fortunate enough to discover some of this asparagus, you will want to feature it in a very special dish. My personal favorite is an asparagus tarte. The buttery shell holds a mound of crisp tender asparagus blanketed with a rich Bechemel Sauce and topped with a golden crust of Swiss cheese.

The short crust may be prepared ahead of time but the asparagus should be steamed at the last possible moment to retain its fresh color and texture, which are essential to the success of this dish.

In fact, the only problem with finishing the asparagus season with this delectable pastry is that it is likely to create a craving which cannot be satisfied for another year. Frozen or canned asparagus will just not work here.

ALTHOUGH I have, on occasion, made a meal of asparagus pastry, it is actually intended as a first course. It could perfectly set the stage for a spring feast.

Try following it with some fresh lake perch, which is just appearing in the markets at reasonable prices. Since the first course contains a cream sauce, you might wish to present the fish course as simply as possible. The fillets could be broiled on a sheet of aluminum foil on a cookie sheet or broiling pan two inches from the heat source. Dot with a few dabs of butter before broiling. Broil only for 3 or 4 minutes. Do not turn. Remove immediately from the baking sheet or the heat from the pan will continue to cook the fish.

Serve with a little clarified butter and wedges of fresh lemon. Accompanying the fish could be the little new potatoes, which also appear in spring, and a salad, dressed with a simple vinaigrette sauce, featuring the tender, red-tipped lettuce which is coming back into the stores right now.

TO COMPLETE the Spring Feast, you might want to feature luscious fresh strawberries as a dessert.

They could be served as part of a fruit plate or with a sour cream dip. They are so naturally sweet that they can even star in a sugarless strawberry shortcake. The "shortcake" for this dessert is actually an oatmeal-biscuit. Oats are such a naturally sweet grain that no sugar is needed for this dessert biscuit.

If cholesterol and calories are not a serious concern, you might even whip some heavy cream and mound it onto the biscuit with the berries for a truly rich strawberry shortcake.

ASPARAGUS PASTRY

Pastry Brisee (recipe follows)
About 2 lb. asparagus
1 1/2 cups Sauce Bechemel (recipe follows)
2 oz. grated Swiss or Gruyere cheese

Make pastry for one shell, line a shallow pan with it (Note: I use an 11-inch flan pan with a removable bottom), and bake it for 20 minutes or until just brown. Clean the asparagus, discard the hard end pieces, and cut into 1-inch pieces. Steam it until it is tender (10 minutes for very young asparagus; longer for older — only testing will tell). Now put the asparagus into the pie shell, pour the bechemel over it, sprinkle on the cheese, and put it into a medium oven to bake until it is browning on top. Serve very hot. Serves 6.

PASTRY BRISEE

2 cups flour
3/4 cup butter (if at all possible, use butter rather than margarine)
Salt

Sift together the flour and a good pinch of salt, and cut in the butter until the mixture resembles coarse sand. You may also rub the butter in with your fingertips. Add no water. Work it into a ball, wrap, and put away to chill for an hour or more.

This pastry is too crumbly for rolling out, so you must press it into the buttered pie dish with your fingers until you have a smooth crust of even thickness. Finish the edges as you normally do, prick the bottom with a fork, and bake for 10 minutes at 450 degrees. Fill as desired and finish baking.

SAUCE BECHEMEL

3 tbsp. butter
3 tbsp. flour
1/4 onion, minced
2 1/2 cups hot milk
Peppercorns
Thyme
1 tiny bay leaf
Salt
Grated nutmeg

In the top of a double boiler, heat the butter until bubbly. Add the finely chopped onion, and let it cook over very low heat for 3 or 5 minutes — stir in the flour and continue cooking a few minutes more, then begin adding the milk. Pour in the milk bit by bit and stir with a whisk while you do. The sauce will begin to thicken after a few minutes. Add a few peppercorns, some thyme, and a very small bay leaf or a piece of one. Sprinkle in a little salt and nutmeg, let it cook slowly for 10 to 15 minutes, then strain through a sieve.

(Note: I have had better luck using a heavy-bottomed saucepan than using a double-boiler.)

BUTTERED NEW POTATOES

24 very small whole new potatoes
3 tbsp. clarified butter
Salt

Chopped chives or parsley

Heat the clarified butter in a heavy saucepan. Scrub the potatoes and peel a thin strip from the circumference of each. Add potatoes to the butter in the saucepan, turning to coat with the butter. Cover the pan and cook the potatoes slowly until tender, shaking the pan occasionally. Season to taste with salt. Sprinkle with the chopped parsley or chives. Serves 4.

OATMEAL DROP BISCUITS

1 cup all-purpose flour
1 tbsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
3 tbsp. butter or margarine
1 cup rolled oats
1 beaten egg
1/2 cup milk
2 tbsp. honey

Combine flour, baking powder, and salt. Cut in butter or margarine until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Stir in oats. Combine egg, milk, and honey, add all at once to dry mixture. Stir just until moistened. Drop by spoonfuls onto a greased baking sheet, making six large shortcakes. Bake in a preheated 425 degree oven for 12 to 15 minutes.

Serve shortcakes split and filled with crushed fresh strawberries and whipped cream. Serves 6.

Byrd's Kitchen

by Vivian Byrd

Whoever said you could cook, anyway?

Dear Mrs. Byrd:

Enclosed is my reconstruction of a recipe I clipped a few years ago from a newspaper in Chicago. The article said it was Rosalyn Carter's chili recipe. I lost the original but had made it often enough to remember the ingredients. We love it in a bowl, over rice or wrapped in a flour tortilla and made into a burrito. Hope you like it.

Barbara Michal,

one hour, or longer according to taste. Serve hot topped with chopped onions and/or shredded cheddar cheese.

For Burritos: Buy three packages large flour tortillas. Follow directions on back of package for heating. Put 3 or 4 tbsp. chili in middle of tortilla, top with shredded cheddar cheese and roll up per directions on back of package. Makes 36 burritos. They freeze beautifully. Wrap individually in aluminum foil.

I am an asparagus freak! In season, I cook asparagus at least twice a week. As you can probably guess, I'm running out of recipes. I have used the ones you printed a few weeks ago and enjoyed them very much. Got any more ideas?

Nancy Harbor,
Livonia

We asparagus freaks have to stick together. Give this blue cheese sauce a try. The combination is a little different.

ASPARAGUS DELMONICO

1/2 cup milk
1 8-oz. package cream cheese, cubed
1/4 cup blue cheese, crumbled
Dash of onion salt
2 lbs. fresh asparagus, cooked and drained, or 2 10-oz. packages frozen asparagus spears, cooked and drained

Heat milk and cream cheese over low heat, stirring until smooth. Blend in remaining ingredients except asparagus. Serve over hot asparagus. Top with additional blue cheese, if desired. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Help! It's Little League and Soccer season again and our dinner hours are being disrupted sometimes three nights a week. I need something that will be ready to eat when we finally get back from the game, or from practices.

Linda Tanner,
Troy

Organization (when I can manage it) saves the day at my house. First, something the kids can nibble on as soon as they get home, such as celery sticks, cheese and crackers, anything short of junk food. Then, something that can go into the oven for a half hour while they clean up and settle down. The game has to be reheated during this time, so Mom has a chance to set the table. A timer on the oven sure helps out here as the dinner can be started before everyone gets home. Here is a recipe that calls for chilling overnight, which means I have to make it ahead.

CHEESY BEEF ROLLS

1 1/2 lbs. ground beef
1/4 cup dry bread crumbs
2 tbsp. barbecue sauce
1 egg
1/2 tsp. salt
1 cup (4 oz.) sharp cheddar cheese
1/4 cup dry bread crumbs
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
2 tbsp. water

Combine meat, bread crumbs, barbecue sauce, egg and salt; mix well. Pat meat mixture into 14x8-inch rectangle on foil or waxed paper. Combine cheese, bread crumbs, green pepper and water; pat cheese mixture over meat. Roll up jelly roll fashion, beginning at narrow end. Chill several hours or overnight. Slice into 6 servings. Bake in shallow pan at 350 degrees, for 25 to 30 minutes.

Who ever said you could cook anyway? I tried that pasta and tomato sauce recipe of yours. I put it on a serving platter and was walking into the dining room when our sheepdog, Oliver, jumped up on me and spilled it all over my new yellow kitchen carpeting. I quickly scooped it back onto the platter just as my husband came home from work. Oliver, with sauce still on his paws, jumped on my husband, ruining his new blue blazer. Now he (my husband) isn't talking to me. Oliver is sulking since his scolding and the dinner was awful. What kind of recipe is that to print???

BARBARA'S CHILI

3 tbsp. oil
2 lbs. round steak, cut into bite-size cubes
2 12-oz. cans tomato paste
3 4-oz. cans chopped chilies
6 to 8 large cloves garlic, crushed
1 medium onion, chopped
5 cups water
3 tbsp. flour
1 tsp. oregano
3 tbsp. hot chili powder
1/2 tsp. salt
1 tsp. pepper
2 1/2 tbsp. sugar
2 tsp. crushed red pepper

In a large stewing pan or Dutch oven, brown round steak in a small amount of oil until it is a grey color, not completely browned. Stir in all other ingredients. Bring to a boil. Turn down heat and simmer uncovered for

Wedding cakes are traditionally romantic

Everyone, young and old, seems to experience the same excitement at a wedding reception, especially when it's time to cut the cake.

Wedding cakes have a long history. The Romans broke salty mealed cakes over the bride's head at the end of the ceremony and the crumbs were gathered by guests as good luck tokens.

In medieval England, guests brought small cakes and piled them in the center of the table. The bride and groom then attempted to kiss over them without knocking the whole pile over.

A traveling baker from France conceived the idea of icing all the small cakes together into one large cake, to make this easier, and the modern tiered cake was born.

Whether your wedding is large or small, the cake is a focal point. According to Frances Hopkins, special order manager at Sanders, the white frosted, tiered cake is still the favorite, with the bride choosing from round, square or heart shapes.

While traditions reign, many new offerings include water fountain cakes, messages decorated on sheet cakes or pictures painted of the bride and groom. Toppers include tiny figurines, a bride and groom, or wedding bells.

Prices and time requirements vary from baker to baker, so it's wise to shop around.

Some will even give cutting instructions. Hand-over-hand (an old tradition to assure happiness), they cut from the bottom layer, feeding each other first, and their parents next.

At a tea or cocktail reception, cutting time comes an hour after the receiving line; at a dinner, just before dessert. The band or a friend signals, attendants gather and guests follow.

And, of course, the top layer is saved for the first anniversary. It should be wrapped carefully in heavy freezer paper and taped securely.

How to order dairy treats

We have already experienced the balmy cool breezes of spring. But we have also had the toasting 80-degree heat.

Welcome as it is, it invites all of us to enjoy patio parties complete with salty snacks and cooling sugary carbonated beverages. Another invitation that beckons is the local dairy treat, where long lines are already in evidence.

This will not be an admonition about dairy treats. I will, however, suggest alternatives that are available at some local dairy stands and in almost every restaurant, should you desire a cooling dairy treat.

You don't have to eliminate favorite foods. Instead, you can substitute one that is similar but healthier.

The suggestions to follow are aimed at cutting down on cholesterol.

People who have low blood cholesterol levels have less chance of having a heart attack than those with high levels of blood cholesterol, and coronary heart disease kills more Americans than any other disease.

FOODS LOW in saturated fats and cholesterol, such as lowfat and nonfat dairy products, contain less saturated fats and cholesterol than the usual dairy products.

Buy low-fat cottage cheese, put it through the blender until sour-cream texture, add seasoning mix, and use as dip for raw vegetables.

Try lowfat dairy desserts like ice milk, sherbet, or frozen yogurt. But be careful of portion sizes. One cup of sherbet has as many calories as one cup of ice cream. The difference is in fat content (257 calories). And frozen yogurt has added calories in its chocolate coatings, sugar and fruit preserves.

Substitute lowfat dairy products in your dessert recipes. Instead of whole milk, try lowfat skim or nonfat milk. But watch those recipes that call for non-dairy whipped topping. While they are low in calories, they are very high in saturated fats.

Dairy stands that serve soft custard ice cream may offer other possibilities.

Some sell frozen yogurt in a variety of flavors, and some offer, in addition to their regular fare, the Weight Watchers frosty treat (120 calories per 4.2 oz. or equal to one non-citrus fruit and ¾ cup skim milk).

HERE IS A frozen yogurt recipe to make at home.

STRAWBERRY-PINEAPPLE FROZEN YOGURT

- 1 envelope (1 tbsp. unflavored gelatin)
- ¼ cups cold water
- ½ cups sugar
- 1 cup mashed or pureed fresh strawberries
- 1 cup canned crushed pineapple, drained
- 2 cups plain lowfat yogurt

Sprinkle gelatin over cold water in saucepan and wait five minutes. Heat gelatin over low heat until dissolved. Add sugar, and stir until well mixed. Cool. Stir in yogurt. Refrigerate in shallow dish until somewhat thickened (about 45 minutes). Add fruit and whip until light and airy (about two minutes by electric mixer).

Gently pour into freezer tray or cupcake papers and freeze until firm, about two hours. Let stand at room temperature about 10 minutes before serving. You can use this recipe with other fresh fruits as well as fruits canned in fruit juices. It serves eight at 110 calories per serving.

Jack Bologna Writes

Muddling through a recession

(The following article, which will be printed in the July edition of Administrative Management Magazine, is written by Jack Bologna, president of George Odiome Associates Inc. — a management consulting company headquartered in Plymouth.)

The National Archives Building in Washington, D.C. has a most timely inscription at its front entrance — "The Past is Prologue."

Similarly, one of the more interesting aspects of a long career in management consulting is seeing economic and managerial history repeat itself.

We now are in the throes of the third recession of my 10 years in the consulting field. Weathering these temporary aberrations of national growth in the automotive capital heightens the pain of these recollections.

Detroit is not a fun place to live when cars are not selling.

IF MATURITY MEANS being able to learn from mistakes, we must be perpetual adolescents in Detroit. We keep repeating all the errors of the past.

When auto sales turn downward, we consistently order massive layoffs and huge budget cuts, force early retirements, put off plant construction and renovation, delay adding automated machinery, chop advertising, promotion and employee training programs, and scrap or shelve plans to develop product improvements — all as knee-jerk responses.

We call it, euphemistically, "Stopping the Bleeding."

Gone are the days when a Henry Ford I would double your pay to encourage you to buy a Model T if times were tough. That took courage and originality. It was unconventional, even unheard of, but it worked. And for many years thereafter, that move endeared a large number of working class people to Henry Ford and his Model T.

Millions of loyal Ford customers were created in that one simple gesture of faith in self and product.

THAT'S HISTORY too. But it isn't being followed as a matter of corporate strategy anymore and I'm troubled by that.

If history has taught us anything, it is that choices and opportunities exist in all times and in all quarters.

Risk takers, innovators, and truly creative people see through current crises and while accommodating these erratic conditions, refuse to be blinded by them, are not depressed by them, and are not restrained by them either, because they have learned that what the many see as a catastrophe, the few see as an opportunity for profit, for growth and for progress. They can produce uncommon results with common skills. They can accomplish uncommon goals with common effort. And they can soar to uncommon heights with common ideas, because their timing and perceptions also are uncommon.

When the infatuation between the American consumer and the automobile comes to a periodic lover's quarrel, Detroit, which sponsored, encouraged and brokered the romance, must shoulder the burden of counseling the couple back to a healthy relationship.

It can best do this, not by its knee-jerk traditions but by positive, constructive and innovative action.

RECESSIONS ARE times when unconventional ideas sell best, i.e. communism, socialism, fascism, political revolutions and social upheavals.

So why be conventional about marketing and management strategies? It is not the appropriate time to be one of the many, but one of the few.

Theater of the sky is best au naturel

Travel promoters like to add a little religion to their tourist attractions for special effects. They especially like Leonardo Da Vinci's "Last Supper."

Sometimes its religion-as-art and sometimes its religion-as-nature but the two common presences are The Voice and The Lights. Oh, yes, and let's not forget The Music.

I've seen three examples lately, one in Los Angeles and two in Natural Bridge, Va. Each one outdid the last.

Forest Lawn in Los Angeles is a cemetery that has gained celebrity status. Some aspects of it are very attractive, such as the landscaping and the small stone church.

The cemetery's rendering of "The Last Supper" is in a carved stone building, in a room surrounded by small sculptures. Visitors are asked to sit down on rows of folding chairs. The Lights go out. The Voice resonates through the room.

There are drawn curtains across the wall, and at the right moment they part to show the reproduction of "The Last Supper." As a work of art, it is interesting. As religious theater, it is full of light and sound but not taste.

I saw "The Last Supper" again this week at Natural Bridge, a scenic natural wonder privately owned.

The letters G.W. are carved on the side of the huge stone arch, said to have been surveyed by George Washington. Thomas Jefferson was so impressed with this natural bridge that he asked for and received a land grant to own it.

Soldiers from the Revolutionary War dropped small bits of lead from the top. The lead, as it fell, froze into shape when it hit the water and became a bullet.

In those days you could probably wander down the hill for nothing and look at the bridge. Nowadays it costs $3. At the top of the hill, surrounding the parking lot, are several red brick buildings with traditional Virginia columns.

One is the entrance to the bridge, and a gift shop. Another is a tastefully designed hotel with a good dining room, run by the same private company. A third is the Natural Bridge Wax Museum.

The wax museum traces the history of the area from stone age men through all the Virginia presidents, in a passable array of wax figures. The piece de resistance is through a final door and has nothing to do with Natural Bridge.

GO THROUGH THE DOOR. Sit in rows of folding chairs. The Lights go out. The Music begins. The Voice recites the story of the last meal Christ and his disciples ate together. The Lights go on. There, across the stage in front of you, is a life-sized reproduction of "The Last Supper" in wax figures.

The Lights and The Voice begin again. The Crucifixion appears behind the supper scene and finally The Resurrection. The owner and maker is justly proud of what he has wrought with his hands. I cannot bring myself to tell him that the religious theater is not in keeping with the setting.

Later that night, we go downhill to watch the sound and light show, The Day of Creation, played on Natural Bridge. Here, too, we have The Voice, The Lights and The Music. Only this time they were saying "On the first day, God created."

As the last note of music is played, and The Voice fades away, I see that the woman in front of me is crying. It is apparently quite common for this kind of religious theater to evoke this response.

I, too, want to cry, but for a different reason. The best way I know to honor the creator of a natural wonder like Natural Bridge is to leave it alone with the trees, the birds and the sky.

CORRECTION: Our March 31 story about Fort Jefferson, Fla., included an airline and phone number that are no more.

Flights to Fort Jefferson are now scheduled twice daily, at 8:30 a.m. (return at noon) and 12:30 p.m. (return at 4:30 p.m.) from Sugar Loaf Lodge, Sugar Loaf, Fla., about 20 miles from Key West. Phone 1-305-745-3211. The cost is $55 per person round-trip or $30 for children 6 and younger. For overnight campers or those wishing an all-day visit, the cost is $110.

A Cessna 185 seaplane is flown by Al Weintraub, whose home number is 296-5254. Reservations are needed two to three days in advance.

Old times here are not forgotten

By IRIS SANDERSON JONES

SHENANDOAH VALLEY, VA. — This has been an important week in the Shenandoah Valley. Apple trees were busting their blossoms for the annual Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival in Winchester. Young boys in Civil War uniforms fought the Battle of New Market once again on the fields outside New Market Battlefield Park. Old inns and historic houses dusted their antiques for the coming of spring and the opening of the tourist season.

There is a sense of discovery for the traveler in the valley, even though you drive expressways through some of the oldest settled land in America.

The Blue Ridge, to the east, and the Alleghenies, to the west, look much as they did when George Washington surveyed this land in the 18th century. The valley runs from Harper's Ferry in the north to Lexington in the south, with echoes on every inch of highway: John Brown, Stonewall Jackson, Calvin Coolidge.

The pleasant surprise is that very little of this has succumbed to 20th century amusement park hype. There are few signs to clutter the wildflowers beside the road or the view past clipped grass and sleepy horses to white fenced old farms on the slopes.

Washington's survey office in Winchester is just now getting its act together as a tourist attraction, so there is little slickness to spoil that sense of discovery that we all love when we travel.

Most of the historic attractions of the Shenandoah Valley have been restored during the last 15 or 20 years. The chain hotels are here, and the old inns have combined 1980s bathrooms with their 1950s furniture, but you won't find any huge high-rise hotels on the skyline.

Highway 11, the old Valley Pike, from Winchester to Lexington, gives you a good taste of this wonderful old valley, but be prepared to fight the Civil War all the way.

In Winchester, a narrow road and two brick walls separates the Union cemetery from the Stonewall Jackson cemetery where Valley heroes are buried. There is a well-restored old stone house called Abrams Delight from Revolutionary times, but the most visited house in town is Stonewall Jackson's headquarters.

Jackson is the living hero of the Shenandoah. He rides his bronze horse through many towns along the valley floor, and his name is on everybody's lips, from the site of the Battle of Winchester to the Virginia Military Institute in Lexington. These fields were the granary of the Confederacy. The two most important historic facts in everyday conversation are about Jackson, who continually outwitted the Yankees, and Union General Philip Sheridan, the Scourge of the Valley, who burned everything in the valley to cinders in a final attempt to stop the Confederate forces.

One grand old house that escaped the torch was Belle Grove, which is open to visitors outside of Middletown. A history lover called Leo Bernstein has restored the wayside Inn for lodgers and diners in Middletown, as well as the Strasburg Hotel in nearby Strasburg.

AS YOU DRIVE south, you will find that new things are also happening in the Shenandoah Valley. The Shenandoah Vineyards, managed by Alan Kinne of Michigan, is part of a new movement to grow hybrid French grapes on fertile valley ground.

Jim and Becky Ellis have just opened a large new restaurant and bar among the scrubbed pine floors and the old grain bins of the Edinburg Mill in the village of Edinburg.

These small first steps at economic renewal are badly needed in an area that has been generally bypassed by industry; an area that would prefer to sell history and nature rather than electronics.

The natural limestone formations have provided tourist attractions here for years: huge caverns, such as the Shenandoah and Skyline caverns, natural chimneys near Harrisonburg, and the Natural Bridge south of Lexington.

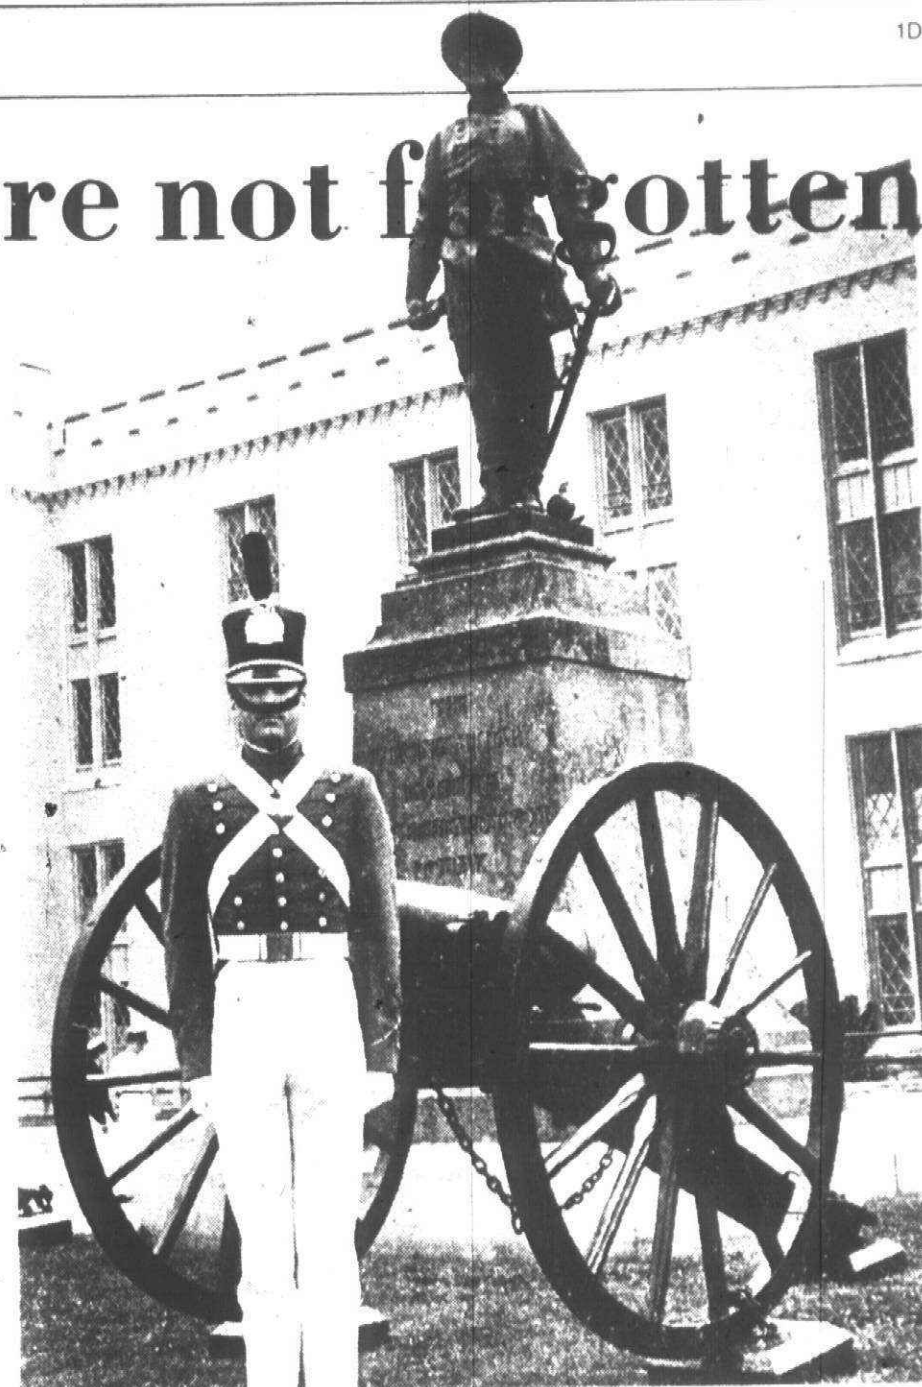

One of the best attempts to commemorate the Civil War and attract tourists is at the New Market Battlefield Park in New Market designed and run by James Geary for the Virginia Military Institute.

On Sunday the park re-enacted the battle it was designed to honor, in which cadets from VMI fought and died to stop the Union forces here at New Market.

A trip to Battlefield Park includes two films on the period, a display room that gives you an excellent capsule history of the Civil War, and the restored farmhouse and hilltop site, bristling with cannons, where the Battle of New Market was fought.

New Market is also the home of the Shenandoah Valley Tourist Information Center, where Director Meriweather German and his staff will give you detailed information about tourist attractions, lodging and restaurants up and down the valley.

Next week: The historic village of Lexington.

Soaping it up

Kings Island family entertainment center will present its second annual "Soap Opera Festival" May 10 and 11 in the International Showplace outdoor theater.

The 75-minute talk shows are scheduled for noon and 3 p.m. both days and will feature four popular soapers. They are: Deidre Hall (Dr. Marlena Craig) of "Days of Our Lives," Michael Storm, (Dr. Larry Wolek) of "One Life to Live," and Leslie Charleson (Monica Quartermain) and Ken Shriner (Scotty Baldwin), both of "General Hospital."

The four programs will be moderated by Joyce Becker, founder of the festival and columnist for Daytime TV magazine.

The festival will be free to park patrons. Kings Island is 20 miles north of Cincinnati on I-71 and open weekends only until May 24.

11 percent gas savings probable with tuneup

If you're planning to travel by car this summer, you'd be wise to pay special attention to the tune of your engine before beginning your trip.

Engine tuneup becomes even more important and a greater value as gasoline prices continue to increase.

The Consumer Automotive Advisory Council says cars in need of a tuneup show an average of 11 percent improvement in gasoline mileage after they are tuned up. That's quite a savings at today's gasoline prices.

The pocketbook considerations are, however, only part of the story. Quicker starting, smoother running and better performance are added benefits of a good tuneup.

THESE FACTORS frequently are affected by emission controls. Owners of late model cars should be aware of the presence of these components on their engines.

While they contribute to significantly reduced air pollution, they should be serviced as part of a tuneup to maintain your car's clean exhaust and efficient operation.

Something as simple as a leaking vacuum hose can cause rough idle and poor performance. Other emission control components aren't quiet as simple.

Diagnosis and adjustment often requires an experienced, well-equipped mechanic. Many of these parts are interrelated, says the council. This makes the once-routine tuneup a much more precise procedure.

IN ADDITION, parts continue to be added as carmakers strive to meet federal regulations for higher fuel economy and lower emissions.

Among these are electronically controlled carburetor feedback systems, more sophisticated fuel evaporation controls and more refined thermostatically controlled air cleaners.

Sound like advanced engineering jargon? It's everyday terminology for the professional mechanic who now deals with computerized engines and test equipment are part of a quality tuneup.
