Philanthropists snub local plea for farm funding

Another setback has stymied Canton's search for non-local funding of its farmland preservation program.

Seven philanthropic groups, including the Ford and Rockefeller foundations, have denied applications for development right monies, according to Trustee Robert Greenstein.

He vows to continue his quest despite the denials.

Greenstein, who also serves as Canton's farmland preservation director, has been fighting for foundation monies since last March.

His efforts followed a Feb. 7 vote of the U.S. House of Representatives to kill a farmland preservation bill, which Greenstein strenuously endorsed. The legislation would have provided grants to communities with innovative preservation programs.

Greenstein opposes the use of local taxpayer money to finance all development rights costs, now estimated between $15-20 million. Farmland preservation should be a topic of national interest, he maintains.

Legally, the township must buy development rights on some 6,000 agriculturally-zoned acres to reimburse landowners for their lost ability to develop the land.

"THIS HAPPENS to be a failure of mine," Greenstein said of the denied applications.

"But there are thousands of foundations out there. We picked the ones we thought were most likely."

According to Greenstein, flat "no's" to the funding request came from the J.M. Kaplan Fund, the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation, the Corning Glass Works Foundation, the Rockefeller Foundation and the Ford Foundation.

Two other groups—the John Hay Whitney Foundation and the Dayton-Hudson Foundation—said their programs do not cover such projects as saving farms.

Greenstein plans to contact those organizations again and submit new applications to other groups.

"If we can't get money from them, we may have to write off private funding," Greenstein admitted.

He cited plans to renew lobbying efforts for the availability of federal farmland funds if that should happen.

Greenstein also suggests the sale of the township-owned Fellows Creek Golf Course and other properties to raise funds that could be used for farmland preservation.

That suggestion has not been discussed by the Township Board.

Some residents have urged the board to ask voters for the development rights money in an upcoming election.

Voters narrowly defeated a four-mill request ($4 per $1,000 assessed property value) for farmland preservation in November 1978.

But Greenstein and other officials maintain that western Canton cannot be developed at the present time anyway. Sewer services will not be available to that area until at least 1985. They say adequate time exists to seek other funding sources.

The purchase of development rights will wrap up the farmland preservation program. A zoning ordinance adopted last winter designates much of the land west of Canton Center for agricultural purposes.

To march on the Fourth and Heritage Fair

The Plymouth Fife and Drum Corps, comprised of young people from Canton, Plymouth and surrounding communities, will be among the units marching in the July Fourth Parade in Plymouth. The parade will begin at 1 p.m. July 4 at Theodore and Main and proceed south on Main Street on Hartsough and then east to East Middle School. Individual or groups interested in entering a band, float or marching unit may pick up applications in the First National Bank of Plymouth of Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce office. Prior to the appearance here, the corps will participate in festivities from noon to 5 p.m. on June 8 at the Livonia Historical Society's Heritage Fair at Greenmead, Eight Mile and Newburgh roads, Livonia. ## Trustees weigh cutting link with Washington

Ron Linton has been keeping an eye on the U.S. House and Senate on behalf of the township for the past four years.

He lets the township know of federal grant availability and the status of legislation which could affect township hall. He wades through yards of federal red tape to let Canton officials know what's really happening.

Despite praise of Linton's work, the Township Board is considering a cutoff of his $500-a-month contract.

The reasons are purely financial. Board members are tightening their belts in preparation for even tougher economic times.

And the news out of Linton's office has been growing dimmer in the past few months.

"WE KEEP GETTING reports on what's being cut," said federal grant coordinator Terry Carroll.

"It looks like a lot of it is going to dry up."

Carroll has submitted an application for one grant program from the federal Land and Water Conservation Fund which has already been cut. The township had hoped to use the grant for the purchase of park land.

Linton has been keeping an eye on the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) for a possible Canton grant. But Carroll believes that program will become another victim of President Carter's budget-slashing policies.

Despite the sparse availability of federal money, Carroll admits that terminating Linton's contract will make his job more difficult.

The township must comply with a bevy of federal rules and regulations after receiving grant money.

According to Carroll, Canton has been receiving about $120,000 annually in community development block grants for the development of an industrial park; about $50,000 annually in housing rehabilitation funds; and about $60,000 in Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) monies.

Linton advises Carroll on compliance with grant rules.

The Washington consultant also arranged for Trustee Robert Greenstein's testimony before the House Agricultural Committee last spring. Greenstein lobbied for passage of a bill which would have provided federal funds for innovative farmland preservation programs.

The House of Representatives voted to kill the bill last February.

CARROLL PLANS to submit a recommendation regarding Linton to the Township Board. But he declined to say what his recommendation will be.

"You can't just measure it in tangibles," he said of Linton's value to the township.

The firm of Linton, Miels, Reisler & Cottone represents several area communities in addition to Canton. Clients include Wayne County, Westland, Garden City and the 17-member Downriver Community Conference.

Supervisor Noel Culbert said Canton could renew its contract with Linton when the economic picture brightens.

But Carroll is not so sure.

He is negotiating with the Washington firm this week on the possibility of renewing the contract after dropping it.

Fending all alone

By TERI BANAS

"It's really a sad story, but one that's happening all the time," the voice chokes out.

Abandoned, alone and despondent, the figure still comes around, she says.

It waits continually and ever so patiently, returning to scratch at the doorway of her former home with anxious eyes of expectancy.

The scene is a small shop on the sidestreets of Plymouth's Old Village. Until two weeks ago, an upper flat tenant of the Specialty Pet Supplies shop on Mill Street resided there, caring for a stray she picked up four months ago.

Her nose peppered with sand from digging her hideaway, the deserted dog watched Observer photographer Gary Caskey with patient eyes as he took her picture.

Jobs dry up for students

By KIM CLARKE

The "Help Wanted" signs that normally appear in store windows this time of year are nowhere to be found.

And the outlook for high school students seeking summer employment appears to be bleak.

"It's very gloomy — I say that sincerely," said Ed Dowling, branch manager of the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC) office on Joy Road in Plymouth.

"Some jobs are available, but it doesn't look good."

The lack of employers calling the MESC office with job openings is causing the drop in employment opportunities, Dowling said.

"We will place some students, but it won't be like when things are good." According to Don Chumbley, a career counselor at Plymouth Canton High School, the job outlook is "dim." Chumbley works in the school's job placement office.

"We've had some students in obtaining work permits, which means some are finding jobs," Chumbley said. "But the job market is down and we're not getting the calls from employers."

THE MONTHS of May and June are normally large placement months, he said. However, placement is now practically non-existent, he added.

"Job orders are few and far between," Dowling said jobs paying the

Phonies pose as police, firefighters

People posing as police and fire department employees are conducting a fictitious fundraiser in Canton's business community, according to police.

The impostors are requesting a $40 donation. Patrol officer Jim Hanna said businesspersons are promised advertising space on a calendar in return for the contribution.

Police received reports of a similar scam last winter.

"It came to my attention that it's happening again," Hanna said. "I want to inform people that neither we nor the fire department are seeking donations."

According to Hanna, Canton police sold calendars as part of a fundraising campaign at one time.

"I want to get the word out as a preventative measure," Hanna said. "There may come a time when we do solicit funds."

He said police have no sound description of the impostors.

Short Takes

Flies fly in

Buzzing flies have invaded the third floor of Canton's administration building for the second year in a row. At the end of last summer, dead flies literally covered the floor of the future township library. But Canton officials now claim a $1,200 solution to the problem. A worker from Rose Exterminating Co. discovered cracks in the third-floor overhang. Energy Insulation Systems will seal the insects' doorway with urethane insulation. The $1,200 expenditure has been approved by Township Board members despite their penny-pinching fiscal policy. Supervisor Noel Culbert called the flies "one of the worst problems" of his administration.

Studying pays

Twelve years at the books has paid off for four Canton residents—at least to the tune of $750. The Canton Jaycees recently awarded one-year college scholarships to the four high school seniors, who had the best grade point average of 80 applicants. Congratulations to Laura Wyer, with a 3.916 GPA; Scott Roszenbaun, 3.939 GPA; Diane Perpich, 3.885 GPA; and Laura Hall, 3.858 GPA. Ms. Wyer, who's headed for the University of Michigan, hopes to become an engineer. Roszenbaun's plans include Wayne State University and a geologist's career; Ms. Perpich's, Bryn Mawr University and a career in international relations; and Ms. Hall's, a pharmacist degree from U-M.

Ford review, anyone?

The type of facelift that will be given to Ford Road is now up to the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT). But anyone interested in reviewing the considerations of the MDOT may do so at the department's district office, 18101 Nine Mile, Southfield, or public involvement office in the State Transportation Building, Lansing. Available for public scrutiny are engineering reports, environmental statements and the transcript of an April 24 public hearing in MDOT township hall. A spokesperson for the MDOT expects a decision on Ford Road improvements this summer or fall. Canton residents and officials have lobbied for a boulevard between Haggerty and Sheldon. Other alternatives are a five- or seven-lane highway.

SC summer enrollment highest ever

The 4,136 students who have enrolled at Schoolcraft College are the highest ever for a spring session.

According to Registrar Russ Bogarin, the total represents 3,160 in traditional credit classes, 519 in continuing education classes and 457 in community services credit-free classes.

The registrar said that traditional credit enrollment is more than 10 percent higher than a year ago and the largest since 1976.

The previous highest total enrollment was recorded last spring when 3,500 attended, over 600 fewer than this year.

Schoolcraft's spring session continues through June 24. Mail registration for the summer session, which will be held June 27 through Aug. 21, opens on June 2.

School hopefuls at forum split on grade shift

By EMORY DANIELS

Plymouth-Canton school board candidates have mixed views on the value of grade realignment.

The differences of opinion emerged when the candidates responded to a question from the audience on grade realignment during the candidates forum sponsored last week by the League of Women Voters of Northville, Plymouth, Canton, Novi.

The school board already has decided to proceed with realignment following defeat of the bond proposals in the special election last March.

The plan calls for the ninth grade to be moved from the high school to the middle school level with sixth grade being shifted to the elementary level.

The grades would then switch from K-5, 6-8, 9-12 to K-6, 7-9, 10-12.

Answering that question were incumbents Richard Arlen and Flossie Tonda and challengers Dennis Holyoak, James Steffen, Glenn Schroeder and James Sinclair.

ARLEN REACTED negatively by suggesting the grade shift won't solve the district's money problems and could hurt programs.

"I'm personally not sure realignment is the greatest answer — it has its good and bad parts. We will try to take the educational program along with ninth graders when we move them back to middle school but we can't move all the facilities. So we won't be able to duplicate the same offerings for ninth graders that they have now at the middle schools."

Holyoak said he was in favor of putting the sixth graders back to the elementary level but could not comment on the financial advantages as he was not fully informed about the cost ramifications.

Schroeder said the grades must be shifted to relieve overcrowding at the Centennial Educational Park (CEP). "There are 4,500 students now at the CEP and pulling the ninth grade out will solve that problem of overcrowding. I think moving the sixth grade back to elementary also is very desirable as they can be positive role models for the five younger grades."

SINCLAIR SAID he took an informal survey of students and claimed about three of four he talked with were in favor of moving ninth grade out of the CEP.

"We should realize that a lot of ninth graders are only 14 years old and have a real fear of mixing with 18 to 19-year-olds. Most school districts have the ninth grade in junior high. I'm in favor of realignment."

Steffen said he leaned towards having four grades at the high school level because students needed four years of study in the subject areas of math and science. "We need to act according to what are the physical and fiscal restraints. But we should look hard at what brings stability and not go only with makeshift remedies."

"I'd like to keep what we have right now," answered Mrs. Tonda, "but we can't always have what we want. And so I think we must go with what the community says it can afford. Realignment offers the best program for what money the community says it is willing to spend. I don't feel the ninth graders will suffer, and I'm sure the sixth graders will be happier."

How they'd all cut the pie

Candidates for the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education were asked how they would cut the operating budget if major reductions had to be made.

The question was put to all candidates attending the public forum sponsored last week by the League of Women Voters of Northville, Plymouth, Canton, Novi.

James Sinclair said he would look at the large number of class offerings at the high school level and see if money couldn't be saved by reducing the number of classes.

Sinclair pointed out that 230 classes are offered at one high school alone, which he said was far too many since only 20 credits were needed to graduate. "There are 4 1/2 English classes at Salem, including some in science fiction. I think we need to look at this area and if they are needed and we can afford it, fine. If we can't afford it, then let's get down to what's needed for education."

Richard Arlen said a trustee has to look at the entire budget and keep a close eye on items as money is being spent. "You cut budget as you go along. That's much better than making all your budget decisions right away."

Arlen disagreed with Sinclair's suggestion, saying that even if classes were eliminated students still would have to be placed somewhere and taught something. "I think we need to take a good look at the curriculum at the high schools to improve education, but I don't see where we can save a lot of money by doing that."

Glenn Schroeder said he would place his financial priorities on budget areas used to educate children and cut elsewhere.

"Some 85 percent of the budget is for salaries. We should spend as much of that as we can for teachers salaries and cut other staff positions."

Flossie Tonda said she would cut in areas which wouldn't harm the instructional program. "Maybe cut out some maintenance, or do less cleaning of buildings or maybe cut each area by 1 percent. It depends on how much has to be cut out."

James Steffen said he would look for cuts among the "fringes" which have been added over the years. Among the fringes mentioned were bus transportation, special education, vocational education, speech therapy and sports.

Dennis Holyoak said he would reduce the budget by making sure on the front end that negotiated pay increases don't become too inflationary. He warned against 10 percent increases in pay and suggested hikes of 5-6 percent were more in line.

In cutting the budget, Holyoak stressed he would not do anything which would result in an increase in the student/teacher ratio.

'How would you cut the operating budget if major reductions had to be made?' That question was put to candidates for the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education at a public forum sponsored last week by the League of Women Voters of Northville, Plymouth, Canton, Novi.

Staff photos by Gary Caskey

Flossie Tonda

Flossie Tonda of Canton has served on the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education for 4 1/2 years, during which time she has served as board secretary. She is a member of the Wayne County Association of School Boards and a representative to the Metropolitan Association for Improved School Legislation (MAISL). She is founder of the Clothing Bank of the school district and was active on the safety committee before becoming a trustee.

James Sinclair

James Sinclair of Plymouth Township has been a section supervisor in accountability for Ford Motor Co. for some 17 years. He is a former president of the Plymouth-Canton Athletic Association, a leader in the Elks youth recreation program, and in other youth activities.

Richard Arlen

A resident of Plymouth since 1946, Arlen is a graduate of Plymouth High School and has two sons who've graduated from the CEP. He has experience in corporate management, four years in education management and 11 years as a teacher. He currently is accounting instructor at Schoolcraft College and vice president of the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

James Steffen

James Steffen, 35 of Canton, is an attorney with offices in Westland who has practiced law for 10 years — some of that time with a firm which represented Wayne-Westland Schools. Has one child in high school and two in elementary.

Glenn Schroeder

Glenn Schroeder of Plymouth Township is employed in a corporate finance position with Ford Motor Co. and has been for some 20 years. He has served Plymouth-Canton Community Schools as a member of the Citizens Bond Advisory Council.

Dennis Holyoak

Dennis Holyoak of Canton is a graduate of Arizona State University with a degree in mechanical engineering who has been employed with Ford Motor Co. since 1972. He is active in the Mormon Church for whom he handles finances. He moved from Taylor to Canton six months ago because of concerns about the teachers' strike there and its impact on education.

Of 6 hopefuls, 4 back taxes

Of the six candidates for the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education four of them support both ballot proposals in the June 9 election.

One candidate doesn't support either ballot proposal while another is split in his positions.

Supporting both ballot proposals are incumbents Flossie Tonda and Richard Arlen and challengers Dennis Holyoak and Glenn Schroeder.

Jim Sinclair said he was against both ballot proposals and Jim Steffen was split — in favor of the first proposition but against the bond issue.

The first ballot proposal is a request to levy the current authorized levy. If approved by voters, it would not result in any increase in the operational levy. What the first proposal does, if approved, is to negate the requirement of rolling back the tax rate because of the Headlee Tax Limitation.

The second proposal is the bond issue which seeks permission to borrow $11 million to provide classroom space for additional students, primarily through portable buildings and expanded use of year-round scheduling.

If voters don't approve Proposition I (to "reapprove") the same millage level for operation), then the Headlee Amendment will require the district to reduce its levy by about 1.26 mills.

Other uses of the $11 million loan is to buy equipment for Lowell Middle School (to be rented from Livonia beginning 1981-82), to remodel, refurbish and re-equip existing schools, and to add energy-saving equipment at various buildings.

The six candidates are running for two four-year positions on the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education. The name of Emil Hagopian also will appear on the ballot as a school board candidate, but he has told the Observer he does not intend to run. His decision against running election, though, came too late to have his name withdrawn.

Other members of the school board who are not up for re-election in 1980 include: Tom Yack, president, Steve Harper, treasurer, Elaine Kirchgatter, secretary, and trustees Carol Davis and Sylvia Stetz.

Abandoned pooch fends alone

But when the tenant moved, she left behind the dog to fend for itself.
A German Shepherd mix, it appears to be about 1-1½ years old says shopkeeper Terri Bennett. The dog stands about 20 inches and weighs about 40 pounds "in good health."
The clincher is — says Bennett — that the dog is pregnant and appears to be ready to deliver a litter "any day."
"The dog waited everyday for her to come home and looked so sad when she didn't come home after the first week."
"I wish someone would adopt her. She deserves to be spayed and have a good home."

"These strays are so much more devoted than the average, expensive pet. They respond with so much appreciation to any amount of attention they get."
BENNETT SAYS the dog has been seen rummaging through some of the neighborhood trash, but always returns to her former home of four months.
She's so attached to the setting, she adds, that she has a small den beneath a clump of bushes near the entrance to the second floor walk-up.
When contacted Friday, Bennett says she was feeding the animal, though said she couldn't accomodate her permanently herself. She's a dog owner of two.

"If she starts having babies, I guess I can play mid-wife for her and hope she doesn't have any problems. If someone can adopt her, I'll even provide the food until she's through weaning the puppies."
Bear of Plymouth, a local fundraiser who recently worked to raise money for the Michigan Humane Society, was touched by the dog's plight and has been trying the find a permanent owner.

Jobs dry up

minimum hourly wage of $3.10 are available, but some students often want a higher paying job. "They should be willing to take anything. It will give them a better chance of getting a work history. It will also help out next year." The MESO office has been finding students jobs in the areas of landscaping, fast-food restaurants, waitresses and busboys, he said.
Both Dowling and Chumbley advised that students not to rely on one source, such as the MESO or job placement offices, for summer employment. "They should make their own rounds and fill out applications," Dowling said.

Red-hot North Farmington wins district title

By BRAD EMONS

North Farmington coach Jerry Maxwell called it "the biggest day for me in baseball."

He was simply "ecstatic" after his team captured the Class A district crown late Saturday afternoon at Plymouth Salem with a 5-2 victory over Milford Lakeland.

The Raiders, 18-5 overall and winner of 16 of their last 17 games, now advance to the regional this weekend at Wyandotte Roosevelt.

Maxwell's squad advanced to the district finals with an 11-4 semifinal win over host Salem early Saturday. In the other semifinal, also played Saturday, Milford Lakeland knocked out Cinderella Farmington, 6-0.

"I'm so happy," said the North Farmington coach. "I can't tell you how happy I am."

Maxwell's jubilation came as a result of solid pitching from Matt Ruud and Rich Nutter.

Ruud struck out 11 and held a power-hitting Salem team to five hits in the opener. Nutter, a senior righthander, limited Lakeland (17-6) to six hits in the championship game. He also received stellar play from his defense in the field.

"This man (Ruud) can pitch," Maxwell said, "and Nutter had excellent control. They were both fantastic."

"PITCHING and defense is the key. In the second game we played beautiful. My guys were together."

The Raiders jumped on Lakeland pitcher Bill Hallman, who went into the game unbeaten, for three runs in the second inning.

Third baseman Jim Carrier led off with a walk and Nutter, surely the MVP for the day, followed with a single. Carrier scored on a Lakeland infield error. John Leitch then drove home Nutter and Pat Carney with a double up the gap in right center field.

North made it 5-0 in the third when Nutter singled home catcher Rex Baker.

Meanwhile, Nutter retired the first nine Lakeland batters and was able to weather any potential storm.

He had three of North's five hits while Hallman, who suffered the loss on the mound, had two singles for Lakeland.

In the first game, North took advantage of walks and miscues by the Salem defense.

The Rocks jumped out to a 1-0 lead in the first inning against Ruud when Mike Woodard singled home lead-off man John Hetkowski.

Salem starter Pat McNamara, who went into the semifinal with a sparkling 7-1 mark, was victimized by walks and "Texas League" type hits.

He was touched up for three runs in the second inning. Scott Williams' two-run double gave North a 2-1 edge and Chuck Kott made it 3-1 when he singled home another run.

IN THE FOURTH inning, Salem cut the margin to 3-2 as Hetkowski singled home Greg Etienne. Ruud, however, got out of trouble with two runners aboard as he got McNamara on a ground out.

In the bottom half of the inning, Scott Williams walked with two out and scored on a fielder's choice.

Salem retaliated in the fifth with one run. Etienne, who had two of Salem's five hits, doubled and scored on an error.

Nutter then broke the Rocks' back in the bottom of the fifth with a slicing two-run homer just inside the foul pole near the 300-foot sign in right field to make it 6-4.

Rich Nutter of North Farmington scorchs another Salem rally as he throws a runner out from his third base post. His two-run homer helped North Farmington to an 11-4 semifinal win over the Rocks. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Mustang netters grab league title

Northville, winner of four of seven flights, came away Wednesday with the Western Six League tennis title by capturing the league meet hosted by Plymouth Canton.

The Mustangs, who tied Farmington Harrison for first place during the regular season with a 9-1 mark, repeated for the 5th straight year. Northville totaled 17 points.

Canton, 6-4 in league duals, pulled off a mild surprise by finishing second in the meet ahead of the Hawks. The Chiefs had 12 points to Harrison's 11.

Livonia Churchill, Walled Lake Western and Waterford Mott rounded out the field with one point apiece.

"When the league comes we're usually pretty good," said Canton coach Jim Hayes. "The improvement was great this year. This is the best bunch of kids I've had."

Canton's only individual winner was junior Bob Adams at No. 4 singles. He outlasted Harrison's Rick Kovan in the finals, 6-3, 6-4. Adams rolled to straight set wins over Churchill's Tim Irons and Mott's John Durocher.

Harrison won two flights.

Senior Nancy Green showed her male counterparts how to play the game at No. 3 singles. She romped to an easy 6-1, 6-1 win over Northville's Jeff Williams in the finals. Green

DAVE HAWTHORNE and Mark Miller captured first place at No. 2 doubles. They downed Northville's Kevin Swayne and Jim Herbel in the finals, 6-3, 6-1. In a first round match, Swayne and Herbel outlasted Canton's Pete Lee and Mark Roberts, 3-6, 6-1, 6-4.

Canton junior Kreg Kinell played a strong match before in the finals at No. 2 singles. He was beaten by Doug Horst, 4-6, 7-5, 6-2. Kinell, a steady baseline player, reached the finals with a 6-2, 6-2 victory over Dave McDevitt.

Barry Ouellette was extended in the No. 1 singles final. The Northville netter, a contender for the Class A crown, managed to get by Harrison's Dave Brady, 6-1, 4-6, 6-1. It was the first time in three tries that Brady had gone three sets with Ouellette.

In a semifinal match, Ouellette downed Canton's Bob Young for the third time this year, 6-1, 6-3.

In another close final, Northville's Andy Orlando and Ian Wild held on to win the No. 1 doubles crown over Canton's Jeff Garrity and Curt Crocker, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4. The Canton duo reached the finals with a three-set triumph over Harrison's Andre Berk and Narendra Bhagat, 3-6, 6-1, 6-4.

The No. 3 doubles title went to Northville's Les Neal and Dale Fisher. They beat Canton's Grant Crago and Steve Jones in the finals, 6-3, 6-4.

Canton's Tom Pasley, coached by assistant Carol Michaels, won the 32-player junior varsity singles championship with a 6-3 triumph over Ken Laundroche of Livonia Churchill.

"We feel we have a good chance to do well next year," said Hayes. "I only hope they play in a lot of tournaments this summer. That really makes a difference."

Chief girls 4th in West 6 track

By TOM BAER

Livonia Churchill's 'girls' track team, unbeaten in all five of its Western Six League dual meets this spring, will have to settle for second place in the final league standings.

That's because the Western Six bases its girls' track championship solely on the season-ending league meet. Walled Lake Western, which lost to Churchill in dual meet, came back to outpace the Chargers, 152 points to 142, last week at Farmington High.

Waterford Mott placed third with 56 points, Plymouth Canton had 54, Farmington Harrison 34 and Northville High 24.

Coach Audrey Kather's Churchill team was led by Tina Cieszkowski, who won the 100-yard dash (11.7), the 220-yard dash (26.7) and finished second in the long jump (16-1 1/4).

In addition, Churchill won all three relays. The mile crew (Linda Brown, Kathy Hannum, Val Quaderer and Dawn Grenier) established a league standard with a time of 4:11.7.

Churchill's 440 relay (Brooks, Grenier, Darla Wells and Chris Kendrick) was clocked at 51.6, and its 880 team (Grenier, Cieszkowski, Wells and Kendrick) finished in 1:49.2.

Leigh Feenstra of Churchill posted another league record when she won the shot put with a toss of 35-5 1/2. Churchill's first place of the meet came when Brown won the 440 dash in :61.4.

HARRISON'S BETH Dilley turned in two excellent performances, winning the 220 hurdles (30.4) and the 110 hurdles (15.3). Linda Tremonti of Harrison placed second behind Brown in the 440 with a time of :61.8.

Canton scored points in the discus with Liz Gorecki finishing third at 97-feet-5, and Diane Durocher taking fourth at 84-2. Durocher landed third in the shot put (30-4 1/4), and teammate Brenda Bigelow placed fourth in the high jump (4-8). Canton's best finish of the meet came when Michele Perrot placed second in the two-mile run at 12:39.09.

Western, a girls' track power for the past several years under coach Sharon Young, won six of the 15 events.

Western's Judy Yuhn set a league record with a winning time of 5:21.9 in the mile run, and also won the 880 run in 2:20.7. Other Western firsts: Nancy Glagola (12:27.4 in the two-mile run), Sandy Dixon (5-0 in the high jump), Laura Wilcox (16-1 1/2 in the long jump) and Devany Donigan (105-9 in the discus).

'Team element' powers Rock girls' golf fortunes

By BRAD EMONS

The Detroit Pistons should donate their rhetorical theme song: "Young, strong and coming on," to the Plymouth Salem girls' golf team.

It's been a banner season for first-year coach Jim Stevens and his young team. The season ended today when the Rocks traveled to Burroughs Farms in Brighton for the state finals.

"To win the state you have to break 350," said Stevens. "I don't know much about the other teams. I'm hoping we can finish in the top 10."

Salem opened up the season at Burroughs with a victory and has been on a tear ever since.

With only one senior regular, Salem went on to post a 12-1 dual meet mark and captured the Central Six League title. Two weeks ago the Rocks placed second in the regional behind Farmington Our Lady of Mercy.

Last Tuesday Salem ended the season by winning the 16-team Pinckney Best Ball Tournament with a score of 81. Dearborn was a distant second at 87.

"I was optimistic before the season started," Stevens said, "and they proved my optimism."

"They've done it on their own. I work with them, but when the ball goes off the tee — that's it."

STEVENS HAS gone exclusively with four players all season long.

The only two seniors are Meg McGee, who has played in every match, and transfer Anna Trepanier, a long ball hitter.

Freshman Lisa Marino, however, is unquestionably the team's top player.

"Lisa is the best female in this area," said Stevens. "She's very consistent with a 47 average. She's been our medalist in every dual meet and plays in tournaments during the summer."

Marino is striving to be member of the LPGA tour.

"Lisa makes no bones about it," said the Salem coach. "She wants to be a pro."

The Salem freshman was third in the regional and plays her summer golf at Dearborn County Club. Her strengths are putting and chipping.

Stevens, though, makes it a point that all the trophies won this year couldn't have been attained without the "team element."

"It takes four to tango," reminded Stevens. "You need consistent play from everybody to win matches."

Sophomore Carol Ross, who specializes in driving and chipping, has been a vital force in the Rocks' success. Junior Nancy Stevens, the coaches' daughter, has also contributed immensely to the squad.

Lisa Marino has shined on the greens all season. The Salem freshman carries a nine-hole average of 47. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

STEVENS CAN count on sophomore Yvette Totzke to replace McGee in the lineup next season to join Marino, Ross and Stevens.

"Yvette can step right in next year," forecasted Stevens. "She's lowered her game this year by five to 10 strokes."

No matter happens today, Stevens can already start thinking about more good times next year.

"The talent is there," he said. "These girls do it."

Netters please Williams at meet

Individual honors were at stake Wednesday afternoon when six teams battled in the Suburban Eight League boys' tennis meet.

Dearborn, the regular season dual league champ, placed first in five of eight flights. Plymouth Salem had three finalists while Livonia Bentley was representative by another.

Bentley's No. 1 singles player, senior Pete Fayroian, reached the finals before losing to Class A regional champ David Sommerville of Dearborn, 6-0, 6-2. Fayroian won his semifinal match easily against Salem's Dick Cook, 6-0, 6-0.

Salem sophomore Dave Goodsir turned in a gutsy performance at the No. 4 singles position. He was defeated in the finals by Dearborn Edsel Ford's Chuck Davis, 6-0, 6-2, but battled his way into the championship match despite a painful muscle cramp.

Goodsir's semifinal match lasted almost three hours. He withstood a rally by Dearborn's Brian Prockner to gain a 6-1, 1-6, 6-2 triumph.

Salem's Blake Lundberg and Craig

Baker suffered only three losses this season — all against Trenton's Phil DeSana and Joe Gambino.

Lundberg and Baker, the Rocks' No. 1 doubles team, met DeSana and Gambino in the finals. They were beaten, 6-1, 6-3. The Salem duo won two matches before gaining the final.

SCOTT CRESPO, the Rocks' No. 2 netter, made it to the semifinals before being downed by nemesis Andy McKenna of Dearborn, 3-6, 6-4, 6-2.

The No. 3 singles title went to Dearborn's Steve Johnson, who defeated Trenton's Scott Muir in the finals, 6-1, 6-1. Muir eliminated Salem's Jeff Howell in a first-round match, 6-2, 6-0.

At No. 2 doubles, the Scharboneau brothers of Dearborn beat Salem's Bob Jarvis and Doug Baker for the championship, 6-3, 6-4. Jack Thomas and John Wimmer, Salem's No. 3 team, lost their opening-round match to Gary Molaski and Mike Severyn, the eventual winners, 6-2, 6-3.

Although no team standings were tabulated, the Suburban Eight added a No. 4 doubles flight for league meet competition.

Sub 8 League boys' track meet ends deadlocked

The Suburban Eight League boys' track meet ended in a dead heat Wednesday afternoon.

Host Dearborn and rival Edsel Ford tied for first place honors with 97 points each. Belleville, which went into the final event (mile relay) leading the meet, settled for third place with 87. Plymouth Salem finished a respectable fourth with 69. Livonia Bentley totaled 35 points to gain fifth.

Belleville had the meet all wrapped up until one of its mile relay runners pulled up lame and had to drop out of the race.

"Belleville has an outstanding mile relay team," said Salem coach Gary Balconi. "They were there. They were in first place."

Edsel Ford eventually won the race in a time of 3:26.84, forcing the tie. Dearborn grabbed second with a clocking of 3:30.05. A third place Belleville finish would have given the Tigers the title.

Salem's top performer in the meet was junior Bob Pittaway. He won the discus with a league record toss of 157-feet-10-inches. Teammate John Frozan gained sixth (123-1 1/2).

Pittaway anchored Salem's first place finish in the 440-yard relay. He was joined by Greg Lipka, Jim Spooner and Craig Stack as they posted a time of 44.4.

Pittaway also finished second in the 100-yard dash with a clocking of 10.23. He was nipped at the wire by Dearborn's Tim Stanton (10.21).

Salem's other individual champ was Leigh Langkabel in the 440-yard dash. He set a personal best of 50.7-in winning the race.

Bentley had one individual champ —

Jim Haggarty in the 880-yard run. He came across the tape in 2:00.41. Teammate Craig Allen was second in the mile run with a time of 4:26.36.

Salem's Paul Hess took fifth in the two mile with a time of 10:16.49. Bentley's Bill Beernink was sixth (10:19.41).

Dave Skone and Mike Perkowski, a pair of pole vaulters from Salem, turned in season bests. Skone vaulted 13-1 in capturing third. Perkowski gained sixth at 12-10.

Rodney Armstrong of Edsel Ford won with high jump at 6-4. Salem's Rob Neu (6-2) and Scott Fuller (6-0) took third and fifth respectively.

For 97 each, 3) Belleville, 87, 4) Plymouth Salem, 69, 5) Livonia Bentley, 35, 6) Trenton, 24, 7) Allen Park, 6.

POLE VAULT: 1) Shallow (B), 13-7, 2) Smythe (D), 13-7, Skone (PS), 13-1, 4) Washington (10), 12-0, 5) Malloy (D), 12-10, 6) Perkowski (PS), 12-10.

Lindsay stuns field in 440 league run

The Plymouth Salem girls' track team turned in one of its performances Thursday at the Suburban Eight League meet, only to finish fifth place.

Dearborn clinched the league title and Trenton was second. Edsel Ford and Livonia Bentley finished third and fourth ahead of the Rocks.

Ford and Carol Lindsay were the only meet champions for Salem. Ford won the shot put (34-feet 1 1/2) and Lindsay, only a freshman, was the 440 yard dash champion with a fine time of . Ford also placed fifth in the discus.

"Lindsay was just outstanding," said Salem coach Scott Kurtz. "She ran the 440 for only the second time in her life and is the Sub 8 champ. I don't think that she realizes it yet."

Beth Almburg was Bentley's lone champion as she captured the long jump (16 -3) while teammate Ann Stewart took second (15-9).

Jane Bowman was third in the 220 low hurdles (30.2) and fourth in the 110 yard hurdles (15.8). Sue Pozan finished in fourth place for the Bulldogs in the high jump and teammate Lisa Burnett tied with Salem's Diane Perpich at 4-10.

Ann Meixner made two strong showings for the Rocks second in both the 110 and 220 hurdles. Both were school records.

Ruth Sample was a third place finisher in the two milewith her fastest time of the season (12:12). Linda Lybarger came in fourth place for Salem in the 440 yard dash.

Kurtz, although happy with his team's performance, was a bit disgruntled with disqualification call made on his mile relay team. The judge had seen contact occur and disqualified the Rocks who finished the race in first place.

"It was the race of the year," said Kurtz of the mile relay. "They can take away the medal and everything else but they can't take away the time (the teams fastest of the year, 4:13). They (Lori Grissom, Meixner, Lybarger and Lindsay) ran a great race."

"None of our girls havanything to be ashamed of. It was an exciting meet, an excellent season and I'm looking forward to next season already."

Girls' track performances

Area high-school track coaches are encouraged to contact Livonia Stevenson coach Paul Holmberg, who is compiling the best girls' performances of the season. He may be reached weekday mornings at 261-1250 ext. 239.		Greenberg (Ladywood)		5-2	440-YARD DASH

Canton pole vaulter finishes 2nd

Churchill reigns as West 6 track champs again

It's becoming so common that if Livonia Churchill didn't win the Western Six League Boys' Track championship, it would really be news.

The Chargers claimed their ninth conference championship in a row last week by totalling 169 points at the all-league meet.

Walled Lake Western, which had lost to the Chargers by only a few points in their dual confrontation, placed a distant second at league with 94 points.

The other four teams were bunched closely. Mott landed third, 66 points, Northville fourth, 57, Farmington Harrison fifth, 53, and Plymouth Canton sixth, 52.

Tom Gosselin, a Churchill senior, became the first person in Western Six League history to win four events at the conference meet.

Gosselin clocked 10.3 seconds in the 100, 23.2 in the 220 and 51.3 in the 440. He also teamed with Jim Riley, Steve Tracy and Norm Recla to win the mile relay with a time of 3:34.1.

Fred Price, who has coached Churchill to all nine championships, said he was stunned by not only the margin of victory, but the first-place finish itself.

"On paper, we figured it would take a tremendous effort on our part (to win)," said Price. "I was very much surprised."

"It was just a case of our kids being ready for the field events and the preliminaries."

Churchill scored points in every event. In fact, the Chargers scored three people in four events — discus, 120-yard hurdles, 100-yard dash and 220-yard dash.

The Chargers started the running portion of the meet with a fury. Gosselin and Recla finished one-two in the 100 and Recla and Jeff Olweean went one-two in the 120 hurdles.

The Chargers were in command the rest of the way.

Jeff Leake cleared 12-8 in pole vault to account for Churchill's sixth first-place showing of the competition.

Harrison's only win at the league festival came in the 440 relay. Steve Statfield, Greg White, Steve Sweeney and John Morton recorded a time of 45.7.

Ken Kopko placed second for the Hawks in the 440, 51.5, Steve Shanborn second in long jump, 20-3 1/4.

Canton didn't reap any conference titles. Randy Lee, though, was second in pole vault, 12-4.

Kelly Canfield and Steve Sutherland, both from Western, won two events.

Canfield hurled the discus 161-0, a new league record, and put the shot 51-11. Sutherland timed 4:31.8 in the mile and 9:56.2 in the two mile.

Canfield's record in the discus was the only one set during the meet.

Black plight has worsened

Today's Miami could be tomorrow's Detroit. Experts are playing a guessing game. They ask whether the Miami riot is an isolated incident or a precursor of the coming summer.

Optimists say not. They cite numerous examples of conditions changed from 13 years ago when Detroit burned.

Realists are more cautious.

They know that too little has changed over the last decade.

Optimists point to Detroit Mayor Coleman Young, who suddenly has become something of a messiah to the suburban mind. Blacks, they believe, wouldn't have the audacity to riot in a city that has progressed under a black mayor's tutelage.

Realists know it to be foolhardy to rely on one man as a safety valve in a pressure cooker situation.

Unemployment in Detroit is once again reaching disastrous levels, and the black community suffers most. For months to come, thousands of blacks will be sitting around, the smoldering summer heat waiting — just waiting for relief.

Certainly the overwhelming majority of blacks don't want to see another riot. But when it comes to such decisions, the majority doesn't really have a say.

They didn't 13 years ago, and they don't today.

In many ways, the plight of the black community has worsened in the last decade.

IN BETTER TIMES, 1976, only 8.5 percent of the blacks held professional jobs compared to 17 percent for white professionals. In contrast, 27 percent of the blacks held low-paid service jobs, compared to 12 percent of the whites.

The most forboding of the statistics show that the black percentage of the white wage is less than 59 percent.

Incumbent upon suburban communities and their leaders is to take action now to avoid tragedy later. For if there is another riot, the suburbs will be economically crippled for years to come.

Not only will industry flee from the area, but companies considering relocation to this area most certainly will change their destinations.

Left behind will be thousands unemployed and economically unable to escape the eye of the storm.

While rioting is definitely an unacceptable and morally defunct means to reach a goal, blacks only have to look to recent history to find an emotionally justifiable excuse.

Not until the 1967 riots did the state and federal government react to Detroit ghetto conditions. Yet, before the riots we were assured that black/white relations in the metropolitan area were too good to have a Watts-type riot.

But the years have passed, and dealing with black community problems have become unfashionable and very expensive. The black ghetto continues to grow along with blighted neighborhoods. The dream, and necessity of integration, died on the motel balcony with Martin Luther King Jr.

Let us all be realists today and take the initiative to avoid the riot of tomorrow.

Oh, the joys of motherhood: cake, candles and 4-year-olds

If you were in McDonald's on Ford Road last Saturday and happened to glance into the "Birthday Room," you no doubt saw a lady with a grim look on her face and panic in her eyes. That was me.

It was on that day I discovered I have a very low threshold when it comes to tolerating screams, shrieks of joy, and general rowdiness when confined in a room with approximately 25 celebrants under the age of 10. I was actually trembling!

My youngest, James Keith, had just turned four years of age. Jimmy wouldn't settle for anything less than a party at McDonald's since it seems to be the "in" thing among the younger set these days.

It sounded easy enough. For a very reasonable fee, the restaurant provides lunch, ice cream, cake, and games for each member of your party. The best part is they also provide a hostess who serves, entertains, and supervises the festivities from beginning to end. (I hope these young ladies are making at least $35,000 a year. Believe me, they deserve it.)

The only thing they neglected to provide were earplugs for the parents.

Our party consisted of nine young ladies and gentlemen who are close friends of Jim's. My first rise in adrenalin occurred when I realized I alone, would have to transport five of the celebrants to the party site. My mother, bless her, volunteered to drive the rest. She's a very brave lady.

Being rather high-strung, my solution to the problem was to turn to my young passengers and announce, "If anyone misbehaves while I'm driving and causes me to have an accident, I will slap them!"

I don't know if they were more in awe of an impending accident or a slap from someone other than their own parent, but they cooperated beautifully. It was fortunate that they were all too young to figure out that it was just another in my long series of idle threats.

I felt like a cowboy herding hyperactive cattle as we maneuvered them from the cars, through the parking lot and restaurant to the "Birthday Room." Upon our clamorous entrance we discovered we were sharing the room with another group of merry-makers. There seemed to be about 16 youngsters in this group, although I can't be sure since they were never still long enough for anything resembling an exact count. The noise was unreal.

I wanted out. Badly!

But it was Jimmy's birthday, and he had been waiting for this for months. My only alternative was to grin and bear it—or at least bear it. I was too overwhelmed to grin.

I must say I've had better times. That time last month when I fell on my face while attempting to perfect my bowling technique was one of them. But, of course, the Birthday Boy and all of his guests enjoyed it immensely.

The way I figure it, the kid owes me.

Ramblings

By Caroline Price
Canton Observer Editor

Saying farewell to Canton

When the time comes to write a farewell column, it is tempting indeed to become maudlin and overly emotional.

But if people were really as sorry to leave as they sounded in their columns, it is unlikely they would be leaving.

I'm resigning as editor of the Canton Observer in order to take a stab at graduate school. I'm delighted at the prospect.

But for every step forward, something of importance is usually left behind.

I've had the opportunity to meet and work with exceptional people during the years I've been with the Observer. Some of these people have become good friends.

If I tried to name everyone who has helped me in the past, I'd never get this column done. So for now, I'll stick with the people who work in the Plymouth office, where both the Canton and Plymouth Observers are written.

They are Darlene Stinson, Canton reporter; Teri Banas, Plymouth reporter; Gary Caskey, photographer; Emory Daniels, Plymouth editor; Ellie Graham, suburban life editor; Eddie Edgar, otherwise known as The Stroller; and last, but not least, Bridget Lucas, the receptionist who keeps it all together.

I thought about telling some embarrassing story about each of these people, since I won't be around to get beaten up when they read this.

But instead, I'm just going to leave it with their names and hope they all realize how much I've enjoyed working with them.

The same holds true for all the other people who work in the various branches of this company. Although some of those who work in the outer offices have been little more than voices over a phone, others have become friends despite the geographical distance.

Although I'll miss everyone, I know they'll manage just fine without me.

Canton, too, will continue to thrive and prosper under the watchful eye of a new Observer editor.

That person, whomever he or she may be, has a tough job ahead. Elections are coming up. Canton has some major decisions to make about its future. The township's residents and businesses are struggling with an uncertain economy.

But the new editor will also have a most interesting community to work in and will find the position an enjoyable one.

It's a strange feeling to look around at all the people I have worked with busily typing away for another edition, knowing that the next edition is no longer my concern.

I wish them all the best of everything. They deserve it.

Listening to Indy 500 recalls chilling memory

"In your long journey along the journalistic trail, you must have experienced many dramatic and emotional moments. Is there any one which stands out in your memory above all the others?"

This question came from a young lad who had just received his high school diploma and was looking ahead to what was in store for him as he entered the workday world.

By strange coincidence, we were listening to the finish of the Indianapolis 500 automobile race when the question was asked — because it was there on the edge of the famed oval that The Stroller experienced a moment that will live with him always.

IT WAS IN 1935 when he was assigned to cover the big race for the first time.

When he arrived at the track, he placed himself in the hands of Steve Hanagan, the public relations man who long had been considered one of the best in the business.

For two days Steve took The Stroller around the place, from one garage to another, then to lunch with officials and owners and with some of the mechanics who were getting the cars into condition for the race.

In fact, The Stroller was getting an education while viewing the behind-the-scenes activity for the big event, which draws more than 300,000 people each year.

Then came the Sunday afternoon before the race. "I am going to let you in on something different," said Steve. "It is something you may never forget."

"I am going to slip you in as a visitor at the driver's meeting, and I think you will find it a treat to listen to old 'Pop' Meyers as he gives the drivers their instructions."

At the given time, the drivers sat in a huge semicircle when old Pop, a trim, white-haired gentleman, moved to the front. He was the general manager of the event, and his word was law around the track.

THE SUN WAS shining brightly. There wasn't a sound when Pop, who long since has gone to his reward, took his position in the middle of the semicircle.

"Fellows," he began, "I want to talk with you today, because chances are that we all won't be here tomorrow."

A cold chill ran up The Stroller's back. Here was a man talking about death on the day before the drivers would be given the green flag to get started on the bid for fame and fortune.

"You know you are taking not only your life but the lives of others into your hands when you go speeding around the track tomorrow. There will be danger with almost every turn of the wheel. So I want to talk to you about the rules with the hope that we can avoid any fatal accidents."

"I want you to be careful, not only for yourself but for the other drivers along the way. One little infraction of the rules could result in a crash and possible death. So I do want you to be careful."

"Sure there's a lot of money and sweat and blood invested in your cars. But your life is at stake, too, and that is the biggest investment you have. So boys, let's not break the rules. Let's be careful, so we'll all be here tomorrow night."

In all his years along the sports trail, The Stroller has had the good fortune to listen to the appeal of football coaches before the big game. And he has had the emotional experience of walking with Joe Louis on his way to the ring to meet Max Schmeling with the heavyweight title at stake in 1938.

But never has he experienced an emotional moment to equal that provided by old Pop Myers on the day before the Indianapolis 500 some 45 years ago. He'll never forget it.

Don't overlook county charter commission job

In 1850 they had a weird idea of reform. Michigan and other states in that era wrote new constitutions and abandoned the clean lines of authority they had earlier copied from the U.S. Constitution.

Weaken the governor. Weaken the legislature. Elect the attorney general, elect the superintendent of public instruction, elect the auditor. Elect the University of Michigan regents. Elect the State Supreme Court.

And in county government, elect a whole host of officials, leaving no administrator really "in charge."

In 1980 we are still stuck with that mentality, especially at the county level.

You could become depressed watching Wayne County government alone. With no one in charge, it can't cover its $19 million deficit. Power-broking for jobs, rather than service to the public, seems to be item 1 on the agenda.

HAVING PUT UP with this for 130 years, why, then, is there a rush to write a Wayne County charter right away and get it approved by voters in November of 1981?

The reason is that early next year, the 1980 census results will be official. The census is likely to show that Detroit and the out-county have roughly equal populations. Their blocs will be equally balanced on the charter commission if the election were delayed.

If, as is happening, the primary for charter commission is held Aug. 5 and the runoff Nov. 4, the Detroit bloc will have a 16-11 advantage on the charter commission.

More importantly, if the elections for charter commission are held this year, the final charter will be up for approval in November 1981, when Detroit holds its quadrennial election for mayor and council.

Canton Township, Northville Township, Plymouth Township, Redford Township and many cities won't be holding regular elections in November of 1981. Their voter turnouts are likely to be relatively low.

The Detroit position will have a double advantage — a loaded charter commission and low suburban voter turnout.

ENTER THE WAYNE County Communities for Equal Representation, a coalition of 33 suburban cities and townships.

They are in court to challenge the constitutionality of electing charter commissioners from districts based on 1970 population.

It's sad but true that portions of Detroit have lost substantial portions of their populations in the last 30 years, particularly the last 10. The phenomenon of Detroit's population loss is mind-boggling. In the Great Depression of the 1930s, cities generally suffered modest population losses, but nothing like Detroit in the 1970s.

Detroit's loss is in the neighborhood of 350,000 — equivalent of the entire population of Livonia, Redford, Garden City, Westland and the two Plymouths put together.

IT'S OVERSIMPLIFYING, but essentially accurate, to refer to "Detroit's position" on county reform.

It's essentially the position of the 1850s: Elect all sorts of functionaries like the register of deeds, sheriff, drain commissioner and treasurer, but don't elect a chief executive who has clout.

Our local governments — quite correctly — are taking their battle for equal protection under the laws and fair apportionment to court. They want charter districts based on the 1980 census.

In the meantime, however, we must assume the Aug. 5 primary and Nov. 4 general election for county charter commissioner will be held.

Filing deadline is 4 p.m. Tuesday. That's tomorrow.

Any volunteers?

Medical facility seen for area

Henry Ford Hospital and St. Mary Hospital of Livonia have entered a pact to jointly build an out-patient care facility somewhere in the Plymouth-Livonia community.

The agreement was reached last week, but information was still sketchy by press time about details of the cooperative venture.

It is not known, as yet, how this agreement ties into plans Ford had more than a year ago to build its own 50,000-square-foot satellite in Plymouth Township.

Meanwhile, St. Mary announced the plans through its public relations department.

According to Sister Mary Columbine, St. Mary president, the hospital's long-range plans include the development of out-patient care programs to relieve pressure for non-acute and follow-up care in the emergency room, and to provide a group practice setting for physicians.

At this time, the signed agreement calls for the establishment of a liaison committee to propose and review activities of mutual interest.

Some proposed ideas are to provide greater access to outpatient care, and opportunities to share clinical, educational and management resources.

Golf construction may begin June 16

Construction to turn Plymouth Township's Hilltop Golf Course into an 18-hole course will begin by June 16.

That's the most recent projection for the present nine-hole, municipally-owned facility on Ann Arbor Road. The course was tagged for expansion last year when the township purchased 33.26 acres adjacent to the existing course.

The Township Board later commissioned architect James Lipe to execute several designs for an complete 18-hole course. His design was finally accepted.

Last week the board hired Lipe to continue further work on the project. In addition to the $24,000 he has already received for his design work, he was offered $21,000 to act as general contractor on the actual construction.

It's expected that bids for the work, to be done in three separate phases, will be opened June 10. The project's

ACCORDING TO a Ford spokesperson, the sharing of such services between hospitals is a popular trend today in health care, particularly to lessen the expense of providing hospital care.

"The growth of technology has made it impractical for one institution to do it all," said Alan Case, administrator for Ford's institutional services.

"Also, the economy and regulation within the health care field are conducive for health care providers to closely assess their planning, and seek ways to work with each other to provide cost-effective patient care."

More than a year ago, Ford had eyed a site in Plymouth Township near the M-14 freeway for the construction of an ambulatory-emergency satellite unit that would model those based in Dearborn and West Bloomfield. Ford also runs a 1,000-bed hospital and clinic complex on W. Grand Blvd. in Detroit.

Those plans were shelved when the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Southeastern Michigan placed a ban on hospital expansion.

Hospital officials then said they would reconsider the project this spring.

St. Mary Hospital, a 33-bed non-profit institution operated by the Felician Sisters, is located on Five Mile and Levan.

cost has been estimated at $375,000. That sum previously had been allocated for out of the township's general fund.

"THE INDICATIONS are that there will be a lot of bidding activity on this because of the state of the economy," said Township Trustee Maurice Breen, in reference to a current slowdown in the construction industry.

"We're expecting that it should come in at a good price."

He also said the construction work should not interfere with golfing fun on the existing nine holes, and that all 18 holes should be in operation by June 1981.

It was previously discussed that the expansion cost would be paid through additional green fees in 10 years. Breen now said he's more optimistic about the course's potential business, saying "we expect to have it paid off in shorter than 10 years."

School volunteers honored

Volunteers from all over Plymouth-Canton Community Schools gathered Thursday evening in Pioneer Middle School for an appreciation dinner sponsored by the School Board.

More than 3,000 invitations were sent to men and women who helped in elementary, middle and high schools.

The theme of the party was expressing thanks to the volunteers, with music, displays, refreshments and a brief program.

Each volunteer attending received an official volunteer identification badge to wear at the party and when working in the schools.

As guests entered they were greeted by the Pioneer stage band, directed by Dale Baer, playing in the commons.

Tables of punch, cookies, coffee and tea were placed around the cafeteria and volunteers had plenty of opportunity to visit with each other at informal round tables.

Displays of student work done with the help of volunteers included puppets, a large quilt, and books from the Young Authors project.

The slide tape show from the Business and Education Forum was shown on a self-contained projector.

Dancers from Field Elementary School, directed by volunteer Barbara Rasehke, performed a short can-can for the guests.

John E. Hoben, superintendent of schools, and Richard Arlen, board vice president, expressed appreciation to the volunteers on behalf of staff and students of the school district.

About 200 persons attended the event, initiated by Trustee Carol Davis. Committee for the arrangements included Marilyn Finch, Judy Ireson, Maureen Murphy, Florence Beier, Carol Packard, and Marge Croll.

PLAN A FAMILY REUNION

Lifestyles today are far-removed from those of our grandparents. Families are scattered across the country, often across the world. Hectic schedules, limited free time, and the difficulties of assembling even nearby relatives make it difficult to set aside a time and a place for get-togethers.

The result is that many families make the most of those other special family "happenings" when clan members are going to be in the same town on the same day. Graduations, weddings, birthdays or special anniversary celebrations are just a few of the events that can bring families together — although briefly — to exchange news and revive happy memories.

Outdoor picnics are suited to larger gatherings, but for fewer guests a buffet at home can be the simplest and most satisfying form of entertaining. You can ask the family members to bring their own specialties or favorite dishes. More ambitious cooks may choose to produce the feast single-handedly, serving foods which are easily prepared in advance.

The recipes below are designed for adaptability, whether you cook for a few or a crowd.

Chattanooga Cheese Spread

- |  |   |
|--|---|
| 4 cups (16 ozs.) shredded sharp natural cheddar cheese | 6 crisply cooked bacon slices, crumbled |
| 2 8-oz. pkgs. cream cheese                             | 1/4 cup finely chopped green pepper     |
| 1 20-oz. can crushed pineapple, drained                |   |

Combine cheddar cheese and softened cream cheese, mixing until well blended. Add remaining ingredients; mix well. Chill. Serve with assorted crackers. Approximately 5 cups.

Corn Relish

- |  |                                |
|--|--------------------------------|
| 3 17-oz. cans whole kernel corn, drained | 1 8-oz. bottle French dressing |
| 1-1/2 cups chopped onion                 | 1/3 cup chopped pimiento       |
| 1 cup chopped green pepper               |                                |

Combine ingredients; toss lightly. Chill overnight. 7 cups.

Crunchy Vegetable Mold

- |  |                                     |
|--|-------------------------------------|
| 3 3-oz. pkgs. lemon or lime flavored gelatin | 1-1/2 cups real mayonnaise          |
| 1 teaspoon salt                              | 2-1/2 cups finely chopped cucumber  |
| 3 cups boiling water                         | 1 cup finely chopped celery         |
| 2 cups milk                                  | 1/3 cup finely chopped green pepper |
| 1/4 cup vinegar                              |                                     |

Dissolve gelatin and salt in boiling water; cool. Gradually add gelatin mixture, milk and vinegar to mayonnaise, mixing until blended. Chill until partially set, stirring occasionally. Fold in vegetables. Pour into lightly oiled 3-quart ring mold; chill until firm. Unmold on serving plate. Surround with lettuce, if desired. 24 servings.

Note: This recipe can easily be doubled or tripled for a crowd.

Back in the days when the first fresh produce of the year came from the family garden, that first batch of rhubarb sauce was greeted as a spring tonic. First of the vegetables to appear in the garden, it must have been a real taste treat after a long winter of dried apples and root cellar carrots, potatoes and turnips.

And the old-timers may have been right about the medicinal qualities of rhubarb, for some types are grown for the pharmaceutical industry.

The garden variety is a native of Siberia and is also called pie plant and wine plant. Whatever the name, a rhubarb pie or pudding is a fine dessert. For breakfast, rhubarb sauce with hot buttered toast is a fine way to start the day.

RHUBARB FLUFF PUDDING

- |   |
|---|
| 1 1/4 cups milk   |
| 1 1/4 cups light brown sugar                                |
| 3 eggs, separated   |
| 1 tsp. vanilla extract                                      |
| 8 slices enriched white bread diced                         |
| 1 lb. fresh rhubarb cut into 1/4-inch slices (about 4 cups) |
| Whipped topping   |

Blend together milk, brown sugar, egg yolks and vanilla in large mixing bowl. Mix in bread cubes until thoroughly moistened. Stir in rhubarb. Beat egg whites until stiff but not until dry peaks form; fold into bread mixture. Pour into greased baking dish. Bake in preheated 350-degree oven 50 to 55 minutes or until rhubarb is cooked. Serve warm with whipped topping.

RHUBARB CUSTARD PIE

- |                           |
|---------------------------|
| 1 cup sugar               |
| 3 tbsp. flour             |
| 1 tbsp. butter            |
| Salt                      |
| 3 eggs, separated         |
| 3 cups diced rhubarb      |
| Piecrust for single shell |

Combine sugar, flour, butter, salt to taste, egg yolks and rhubarb. Put in pastry-lined pie tin and bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake 30 minutes longer. Make meringue with egg whites, slowly adding three tablespoons sugar. Put on hot pie, being careful to spread to crust, and bake until meringue is golden, 10 to 15 minutes.

FRESH RHUBARB PIE

- |                      |
|----------------------|
| 4 cups diced rhubarb |
| 1 1/4 cups sugar     |
| 5 tbsp. flour        |

- |                        |
|------------------------|
| Salt                   |
| 2 tbsp. butter         |
| Pastry for 2-crust pie |

Combine sugar, flour and salt. Spread half this mixture over pastry-lined pan. Add rhubarb and sprinkle remainder of mixture over the rhubarb. Dot with butter. Roll, fit and seal the upper crust, leaving ventilation slits. Bake on lower shelf of 425-degree oven for 30 to 40 minutes.

RHUBARB CONSERVE

- |   |
|---|
| 6 cups finely diced rhubarb                         |
| 3 lb. sugar   |
| 1 cup shredded pineapple, drained (fresh or canned) |
| 3/4 cup orange juice                                |
| 1 tbsp. grated orange rind                          |
| 1 tbsp. grated lemon rind                           |
| 1/4 cup lemon juice                                 |
| 1 cup coarsely broken nutmeats                      |

Combine all ingredients except nutmeats in a heavy kettle. Bring to boil, stirring until sugar is dissolved. Boil rapidly, stirring frequently until thickened. Add nutmeats about five minutes before removing from heat. Pour immediately into hot sterilized jars and seal at once. Makes about six to eight glasses.

A Question of Taste

By Hilary Keating Callaghan

Homemade rolls—a delicious addition to menu

I once had dinner in an elegant Detroit restaurant that enjoys a reputation for very fine cuisine. The first item served was a basket of white bread of a variety widely available in grocery stores and characterized chiefly by lack of either taste or texture. This set the tone for the remainder of the meal.

Even top-notch restaurants do not generally bake their bread or rolls on the premises. What a good restaurant will normally do, however, is find an exceptionally good bakery for a supplier. This frees the restaurant staff to concentrate on the rest of the meal, knowing that this important detail is in good hands. They recognize that no amount of care lavished on the entree can compensate for tasteless accompaniments.

If one is going to the trouble of fixing a fine meal for family or friends, it is worth the extra time and trouble involved to bake fresh bread and rolls. Even a good bakery product cannot compete with what you can fix at home. And even an otherwise mediocre meal can be salvaged in this way.

The smell alone of fresh bread sets appetites on edge. It is no accident that would-be-home-sellers are encouraged to bake bread on days when prospective buyers come to inspect their home.

ALL TOO OFTEN, however, the only home-baked rolls served in American homes come in a tube from the grocer's dairy case.

These are seductively easy and reasonably good, but they are no match for the real thing. I would strongly urge you to try your hand at making your own yeast rolls. They are even simpler to make than yeast bread; many recipes require no kneading at all.

The great variety of yeast rolls makes it possible to select the perfect accompaniment to virtually any entree.

Whole Wheat Butterhorns, for example, make a delicious addition to a dinner party menu. Tender and buttery, they would complement particularly well any delicately flavored creamed dishes.

On the other hand, heartier dishes—soups, pastas or spicy casseroles—seem to call for a different type of roll, one with a good, chewy crust. Sesame rolls are perfect with these hearty foods. Gold, crunchy sesame seeds encase a soft, steaming hot interior.

For some reason, the aroma of these toasted sesame seeds is reminiscent of popcorn. You might want to buy the seeds for this recipe in bulk from a health food store. Buying the quantity required in thimble-sized packages sold in grocery stores would probably throw your food budget out of whack for two weeks.

THE LAST RECIPE is for bagels, which are as much fun to make as they are to eat.

The compact texture and chewy crust of the bagel result from a treatment unlike that accorded other yeast rolls. Rising time is drastically reduced and the bagels are simmered in a pot of water prior to being baked.

The finished product goes well with soups and egg dishes and also is delicious spread with cream cheese.

For variety, try adding raisins to the dough or sprinkling the bagels with sesame or poppy seeds, coarse salt, or minced onion before baking.

WHOLE WHEAT BUTTERHORNS

2½ to 2¾ cups unbleached flour
2 pkg. active dry yeast (2 tsp.)
1¾ cups water
3 tbsp. butter or margarine
1 tsp. honey
2 tsp. salt
2 cups whole wheat flour
6 tbsp. butter, softened
Butter, melted

In a large bowl, combine 1½ cups flour and the yeast. In a saucepan, heat the butter or margarine, honey and salt until just warm. Add to dry mixture in bowl. Beat at low speed for one-half minute, scraping sides of bowl constantly. Beat at high speed 3 minutes.

By hand, stir in the whole wheat flour and enough of the remaining flour to make a moderately stiff dough. Turn out onto a lightly floured surface; knead about 10 minutes. Shape into a ball. Place in a lightly greased bowl, turning once to grease surface. Cover and let rise until double, about 1½ hours.

Punch down. Divide into three pieces; shape each into a ball. Cover and let rest 10 minutes. Roll each ball into a 12-inch circle. Spread each circle with 2 tbsp. of the softened butter. Cut each circle into 12 wedges. Roll into crescents. Place, point down, 2 to 3 inches apart on greased cookie sheets. Cover and let rise until double, 20 to 30 minutes. Brush with melted butter. Bake in a pre-heated 400-degree oven 10 to 12 minutes. Cool on a rack. Makes 36 rolls.

SESAME CRUSTED ROLLS

4 cups warm water
1 tsp. salt
3 cups whole wheat flour
5 to 6 cups unbleached flour
3 envelopes yeast (3 tsp.)
1 to 2 cups sesame seeds

Combine water and salt, stirring to dissolve the salt. Combine the whole wheat flour and yeast in a large mixing bowl. Add the salt water and beat until well combined, about 3 minutes. Cover with a towel and let rise until doubled. Add the unbleached flour to the risen dough and knead until smooth and elastic. The dough will be very sticky.

Place in a greased bowl. Cover with a towel and let rise until doubled. Punch down; knead briefly. Shape into balls with a spoon or oiled hands. Roll in sesame seeds. Place in greased muffin tins. Cover and let rise until doubled. Bake in 400-degree oven until golden brown, about 20 to 30 minutes. Remove from muffin tins and cool on wire racks. Makes 36 rolls.

BAGELS

2 pkg. (2 tsp.) active dry yeast
4¼ to 4½ cups sifted unbleached flour
1½ cups lukewarm water
1 tsp. sugar
1 tsp. salt

In a large mixer bowl, combine the yeast and 1¾ cups of the flour. Combine water, sugar and salt. Add to the yeast mixture. Beat at low speed of electric mixer for one-half minute, scraping sides of bowl, constantly. Beat 3 minutes at high speed. By hand, stir in enough of the remaining flour to make a moderately stiff dough. Turn out on a lightly floured surface and knead until smooth, 5 to 8 minutes. Cover; let rest 15 minutes. Cut into 12 portions; shape into smooth balls.

Punch a hole in the center of each ball with a floured finger. Pull gently to enlarge the hole, working each bagel into a uniform shape. Cover, let rise 20 minutes.

In a large kettle, combine one gallon water and one tsp. sugar; bring to a boil. Reduce to simmer, cook bagels four or five at a time for 7 minutes, turning once. Drain, place on ungreased baking sheet. Bake at 375 degrees for 30 to 35 minutes. Makes 12 bagels.

Chocolate Part II: Let the kids do it

Kids love to mix "concoctions." Some of the results, at least at my house, register well below "yucky" on a visual or an aroma appeal scale.

The changes that take place seem to delight children, particularly if it foams, bubbles, looks awful, or when they are cooking, if it tastes good.

Three treats that taste good to most kids (including me) are chocolate shakes, hot fudge sundaes and brownies. Shakes are relatively simple, requiring only ice cream, the chocolate syrup and a blender or mixer.

Hot fudge sauce and brownies are slightly more difficult. The recipes below have been broken down into easy steps for youngsters who want to try their hand in the kitchen.

SUPER SHAKES

2 cups very cold milk
6 tbsp. chocolate syrup
2 scoops chocolate or vanilla ice cream

1) Beat the milk, syrup and ice cream together in a small mixing bowl. Use an egg-beater (young children) or an electric mixer (older children).

2) Pour into two tall glasses.

3) Top with whipped cream and sprinkle lightly with ground nutmeg, cinnamon or cloves.

10) Cover it tightly and store it in the refrigerator until needed. The syrup will stay fresh for a few weeks.

HOT FUDGE SAUCE

Makes one cup

2 squares unsweetened chocolate
1 cup boiling water
1 tsp. butter or margarine
½ cup light corn syrup
¼ cup granulated sugar
½ tsp. vanilla extract

1) Melt the chocolate squares in the top of a double boiler over hot, but not boiling, water. Stove should be at lowest setting. Stir occasionally with a long spoon.

2) Pour 1 cup of water into a small saucepan. Set the saucepan on medium heat. Bring the water to a boil.

3) When the chocolate is melted, turn off the stove and carefully lift off the top of the double boiler.

4) Carefully measure ½ cup of the boiling water into a plastic measuring cup.

5) Add the boiling water and the butter or margarine to the chocolate. Mix well.

6) Place the top of the double boiler directly over low heat. Bring the mixture to a boil, slowly, stirring all the time with a long spoon.

7) When the chocolate mixture comes to a boil, add the corn syrup and boil for 4 minutes. Continue stirring.

8) Add the sugar and boil for 3 more minutes, stirring all the time.

9) Turn off the stove and set the pot aside to cool for a few minutes.

10) Add the vanilla and stir.

11) Use as is, or chill for one hour in the refrigerator for a thicker sauce. Use over ice cream, plain cake or puddings.

MARSHMALLOW NUT BROWNIES

Makes 16 brownies

2 squares unsweetened chocolate
½ cup butter or margarine
¾ cup all-purpose flour
½ tsp. baking powder
¼ tsp. salt
1 cup granulated sugar
2 eggs
1 tsp. vanilla extract
½ cup chopped walnuts
¼ cup miniature marshmallows

1) Set the oven at 350 degrees.

2) Grease an 8-inch-square cake pan.

3) Melt the chocolate and the butter or margarine in the top of a double boiler over hot, but not boiling, water. Stove should be at lowest setting. Stir with a long spoon while the chocolate melts.

4) When the chocolate is melted, turn off the stove. Carefully lift off the top of the double boiler. Set chocolate aside to cool.

5) Sift flour, salt and baking powder into a large bowl. Set aside.

6) Break the eggs into another large bowl. Beat them with a mixing spoon, egg-beater or electric mixer until frothy.

7) Beat the sugar into the eggs, a little at a time.

8) Add the chocolate mixture and the vanilla to the egg mixture. Stir well.

9) Stir the flour mixture into the egg mixture.

10) Add nuts and marshmallows. Stir well.

11) Pour into prepared pan. Spread evenly with the back of the spoon.

12) Bake for 30 minutes. Let brownies cool in the pan for 10 to 15 minutes before you cut them into 2-inch squares. Then remove them with a spatula to a cake rack.

CHEESE AND POTATO CASSEROLE

This recipe, which appeared May 5, called for two boxes of shredded potatoes. We have had a number of calls indicating that we should have been more specific as to weight. This should be two 12 ounce boxes or one 24 ounce. When I stopped by the store to double check on this, I noticed that my grocer no longer carries the 12 ounce, having replaced it with the "economy" size. Also, the "2 lbs. butter" should have been one-quarter pound, or one stick.

One caller noted that the casserole seemed to be quite liquid. However, it turned out that she had been in a hurry and unable to wait for the potatoes to completely thaw, so we believe the extra moisture came from ice crystals.

If you should have problems with any of my recipes, please feel free to write. Together we can probably figure out what went wrong. Of if you make something and discover a shortcut, please let me know. I am always pleased to learn something new.

Correspondence should be addressed to Vivian Byrd, P.O. Box 1024, Birmingham, MI 48012.

"TRIM YOUR MEAT BILLS WITH LEAN BOB EVANS SAUSAGE."

If the high cost of beef is cutting into your budget, Bob Evans Farms has a fresh idea for your lunch or dinner.

Switch from ground beef to lean Bob Evans Farms Pork Sausage.

Of course, you could switch to just about any pork sausage and save money. Because pork is less expensive than beef.

But Bob Evans Pork Sausage is meatier than most. Because it's leaner than most. In fact, we use only enough fat to bring out the fresh farm taste.

And while other pork sausage is usually made from the trimmings, we make ours from the best cuts of pork. Including choice fresh hams, shoulders and tenderloins. So it cooks up plump, tender and delicious. Not greasy.

So switch from beef to lean Bob Evans Pork Sausage, and trim your meat bills.

Without cutting down on quality or taste.

The VIEW from CANTON CENTER

BOB COLLINS, a seventh-grader at Pioneer Middle School, was discussing football with Bo Schembechler a couple of Sundays ago. The conversation took place over lunch at the Pretzel Bell in Ann Arbor.

As they munched away on their country fried chicken, Bob asked Bo how his University of Michigan football team was shaping up for fall.

"He said it was pretty good, but not the best," reported the 12-year-old.

"I asked him why Rick Leach left football for baseball and he said it was for a longer career," said Bob, adding, "Mr. Schembechler is really a nice guy. He has a good sense of humor."

The talk got around to Rich Hewlett. For new residents of the community, Rich Hewlett was star quarterback of the Plymouth Salem High School Rocks. He attends U-M and will be a sophomore in the fall. He was starting quarterback several times in his freshman year.

"Bo said Hewlett is a great football player," said Bob. "He said he just needs to work on fading back and throwing."

When asked how he felt about having lunch with the U-M coach, Bob replied, "I was pretty lucky, being chosen from 19,000 kids in the state."

All the students in Michigan who signed up for the Muscular Dystrophy Read-a-thon were eligible for a luncheon date with Bo Schembechler. When the random pick was made, Randy Hofner of South Plymouth in Chelsea and Bob Collins of Plymouth-Canton Pioneer were the winners.

Bob's father, Michael, took his son to Ann Arbor for the luncheon. "And he got to eat with us, too," Bob said.

He said, "Randy took some pictures of Bo and me. He said he'd send some to me but I haven't seen them yet."

THE WOMAN'S Club of Plymouth, which started out 87 years ago as the Plymouth Ladies Literary Society, has elected officers for the 1980-81 season.

Carolyn Loesch is the new president. Assisting her will be Linda Pawling, first vice president; Betty Childs, second vice president; Bonnie Coons, recording secretary; Ruby Rudnick, corresponding secretary; and Mary Kathryn Skinner, treasurer. The directors are Mary Derr and out-going secretary, Fran Lang.

The Woman's Club is an active and still-growing club, which serves the community in many ways. Carolyn Loesch, 453-4616, would be glad to discuss the club with women who are contemplating membership. Regular monthly meetings are the first Friday of the month.

Their early projects, as well as studying the classics and "worthwhile literature of the day," encompassed some worthy causes. In 1905, they were concerned about the appearance of Kellogg Park and sent a delegation to the village council meeting; in 1906, they were instrumental in effecting a local curfew; in 1913 they supported a "swat the fly" campaign. They took up the suffragettes' right-to-vote cause, battled the use of alcohol and cigarettes, brought the first lending library to town, and when moving pictures came along, were among the first to espouse censorship of movies.

Members have continued an active interest in the community, maintaining their reputation as the area's first service organization.

THE THREE CITIES Art Club always ends its season with a potluck picnic for members and spouses. Doreen Lawton will host the party at her Joy Road home.

The club has announced its officers for the new season. They are: Betty Manthey, president; Cuyler McCutchan, vice president; Franklin York, treasurer; Loren Vives, secretary and Jean Bologna, program chairwoman. Audrey Paul will be responsible for publicity.

IT'S ICE CREAM social time again. First United Presbyterian Church has planned its annual social for this coming Sunday.

Ice cream, cake, coffee, tea and fruit punch will be served on the church lawn after the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services.

CONGRATULATIONS to the Rev. Samuel Stout who earned his Doctorate of Ministry degree last month from Drew University in Madison, N.J. and to the Rev. Francis Byrne who celebrated his 50th anniversary of ordination.

DEADLINE for signing up for Symphony bridge is July 14. Call Mable Partain, 455-3663, or Barbara Sprague, 455-5692. If you're new to the community, it's a wonderful way to meet people.

Pops Hoedown

The musicians will wear Western garb for Wednesday's Pops Hoedown concert at 7:30 p.m. in Plymouth Salem High School auditorium. The Plymouth Centennial Educational Park Orchestra has a barn dance theme for its final performance of the season. Selections will include country and Western music, classic and current popular music such as Aaron Copland's "Hoe-Down" from "Rodeo," Richard Hayman's "Hullabaloo" and "Colour My World" by Chicago. George Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue" will feature Mike McGonagle on the piano. There will be fiddle solos with Bonnie Knaus playing the Gypsy violin solo in "Czardas" by Monte and Shannon Townsend performing the "Fiddler's Jig" by Henry Cowell. The orchestra will be under the direction of H. Michael Andres. The concert is free and open to the public, which is invited to join in the festivities by wearing Western apparel.

5 years later

Vus ready to lend a helping hand

By BETTY MASSON

The stage is all set, or rather the former parsonage is all furnished, and clothes of every size are ready.

The congregation of First United Presbyterian Church in Plymouth is eagerly awaiting arrival of its family of boat people refugees.

There's still no word, but they're expected to arrive shortly.

News of their arrival is being awaited with equal interest by a Canton Township family, Lein and Ruyen Vu and their nine children.

They're anxious to help the newcomers with the difficulties of learning a new language and a new way of life. They'll tell them about the hazards of driving here during the winter, among other things.

LESS THAN five years ago, the Vus were in the same position as the as-yet-unknown family being brought to Plymouth by the Presbyterian Church.

Arriving here with almost nothing, the Vus were helped in getting established by Our Lady of Good Counsel Church.

In the short time they've been here, the Vus have come a long way. In their first year, the parish helped them with all their bills, including rent. They later gave the family money for a down payment on a house on Ann Street.

With a lot of hard work and saving, the family was able to buy a bigger house on Hanford, and moved into it two years ago this August. With nine children, they felt they needed the extra space.

Their home looks as though the Vus have been Americans forever, with cars and bicycle ying for space in the driveway and rock and roll records by the stereo in the comfortable living room.

There's a college co-ed in the family, 19-year-old Loan, whose command of English is better than her parents' and who is often called to act as an interpreter. Loan graduated from Plymouth Salem High School last January. She took some courses at Schoolcraft and is looking forward to attending Eastern Michigan University this fall to become a lab technician.

There's a 4-year-old, born a month after the family arrived in the U.S., who goes to a babysitter while his mother goes to work. One difficulty has arisen from this. Although the child understands Vietnamese, he prefers to speak English.

VU HAS been employed ever since their arrival as an upholsterer at the Old Village Upholstery shop, and his wife works as a machine operator for National Set Screw. Vu had had no upholstering experience but had worked for a tailor when he was in his teens.

His wife loves working overtime because it gives her more money not only for the family in America, but also for those she left behind. One reason she decided to go out to work after only a year here was that she would have less time to worry.

Every two months she sends boxes of food and clothing to relatives in Vietnam. But communications are poor, and she's never sure they've received them.

Last fall her parents tried to escape but failed. "Now, they have no food and no place to live," she said.

The Vus consider themselves fortunate in getting out when they did. They left in April 1975, on a U.S. ship along with 2,000 others. For the first three days on shipboard, they said they had no food, only water.

They spent three weeks in a refugee camp in Guam, where they lived in tents and spent most of their time waiting in line for meals.

They lived in Army barracks in a camp in Lebanon, Pa., before a sponsoring group was found for them.

BESIDES PROVIDING them with financial help, members of Our Lady of Good Counsel parish checked with them almost daily, and chaperoned them to language classes in Livonia.

They introduced them to such strange (to them) foods as celery and spinach, apples and grapes. Mrs. Vu said that they had seen the fruits in stores in Vietnam, but they had been too expensive for the average family to buy. But cooking wasn't too difficult, she said. Much of the ingredients are the same; only the cooking methods are different. Rice, of course, is more popular than bread with the Vus.

And although there are other Vietnamese families in the Detroit area, the Vus will be glad to welcome new neighbors so close to home.

Jean Henshaw: involving others

Jean Henshaw of Plymouth is one of those volunteers who in her own quiet way makes many wheels turn better.

At the Plymouth Center for Human Development, she has contributed an awesome number of hours — 7,800 — to help the community affairs department run smoothly.

On the basis of a 40-hour week, this time adds up to more than 3½ years of volunteer labor.

"People have been shocked that I've worked all these years and not been paid," laughed the volunteer. "But I don't need the money. I take satisfaction in being able to help. I'm a frustrated office worker." At Christmas she works more hours than the regular employees, she said. "That's when the presents come in for our forgotten resident program," she explained. "They all come through this office."

HELPING SANTA and the Easter Bunny is only one of the ways she improves the quality of life for those at the center. She works hard to link up sponsors, either organizations or individuals, with the residents who have no one to remember them during holidays. One of the groups which she interested in the cause was the church to which she belongs, Geneva United Presbyterian Church in Canton.

"We really need sponsors," she stated. "We have 32 residents who don't have any."

Sponsors like the Plymouth Newcomers send monthly gifts to residents.

"We appreciate groups like this," she said. "We keep files on the sizes of these residents and on what they might like as a gift."

She added: "Bashful I'm not about asking things for my kids, which is what I call them. That's one of my privileges being a volunteer. If I were an employee I couldn't do that."

Another way a person could help a Plymouth resident, she pointed out, would be to collect magazine pictures and paste them in a loose-leaf notebook.

"Some residents are self-destructive if they don't keep their hands busy," she commented. "They love colorful pictures, and will spend time sitting quietly and looking at them."

What residents need, in her opinion, is a lot of attention. "The ones who misbehave are the ones who need the most attention," she said.

JEAN HENSHAW decided to become a Plymouth volunteer 10 years ago when she heard a complaint from Jean Schmidt of Plymouth, speech therapist at the institution.

"She was irate because the large amount of paper work forced her to cut down the amount of time she could spend working for the residents," she said. "She suggested I come out and do her paperwork."

After being at the center for a while, volunteers interested her in getting more involved with residents, playing games with them and joining them on trips.

Ten years and a variety of jobs later, she recently pulled out of the volunteer work to set her house in order so that it can be sold. She and her husband have a winterized home on Drummond Island to which they plan to retire, possibly in October. The island is at the eastern part of the upper peninsula.

"We plan to try it for a winter," said Mrs. Henshaw. "If we don't like it we'll just hire ourselves back to warmer weather. Our son Donald lives in Canton, and will have a room for us when we come down to visit."

Play food game

Test your taste

There is a game that travelers play when they are waiting for a bus or a plane, or killing time in a bar someplace. I call it "Ask somebody who has been there," and the prize is worth its weight in restaurant recommendations.

I played this game with a group of travel writers in the airport in New Orleans last week, but you don't need any special travel credentials. All you need is a group of people who love to eat.

YOU NEED A pencil and paper. Sit down in a small group and ask your nearest neighbor, in a voice loud enough to be heard throughout the group: "Where did you eat in New Orleans?"

Voices will soon be raised all around you. You'll know you've won when you hear the same restaurants over and over again, or when somebody says, "I never heard of this place before, it's kind of inexpensive, but the food is terrific and..."

According to Bob Conwell of Corpus Christi, Texas, Gallitoire's is the best French restaurant in the French Quarter. It's not the most expensive, but it's the best. Antoine's is good, but it can be expensive. Arnaud's is good, moderately priced. And, of course, there's Brennan's. At any of these places, two people can eat with wine and drinks for under $60.

That's the point where you learn what the word expensive means to other people. Conwell also recommended La Ruth's, along with a recommendation that you reserve two weeks in advance.

Tyler Hardeman of Arkansas said that breakfast at the Maison Dupuy was the best he'd had in 10 years. It's at Toulouse and Burgundy in the Quarter. "We had thick country sausages, poached eggs, perfect grits and magnificent biscuits for about $4."

At this point, Conwell jumped in again to mention a place called Dooky Chase in Baton Rouge. "It's a second-generation black creole place with the best gumbo in Louisiana. You can get a strip steak for $5 but the gumbo costs $4."

This brought a chorus of recommendations for the Gumbo Shop in the French Quarter, with particular emphasis on the Shrimp Remoulade. The average price for lunch here is about $6.

OF COURSE my own favorites were added to the shouting match. Corinne Dunbar's is an old-fashioned Victorian house where you must climb to the verandah and ring the bell for admission. A maid leads you into a Victorian parlor for your before-dinner drink.

When you take your place among the few small tables in the dining room, you are served a seven-course fixed menu meal for $15. The main course changes every week.

Exchanging favorite restaurants is a popular pastime among travelers, and you are always adding to it. This week, I met a friend who opened the conversation with: "I have a terrific New Orleans restaurant to tell you about."

"Chez Helen is five minutes drive or a half-hour walk from Jackson Square in the French Quarter. It's very down home, prices are $3 to $10 for a full meal. The chef is one of two sent by the city to South America to demonstrate New Orleans' food. The other chef was from Antoine's."

This is absolutely the best way to collect restaurant recommendations. My problem is that I always make a list of them and leave it at home.

Swamp crawls with excitement

History ripe in gator country

By IRIS SANDERSON JONES

MORGAN CITY, La. —I never thought of swamps this way, with mothers calling their children from walkways over the water and men hauling swampwater fish into their boats.

I certainly never thought of a swamp as a tourist attraction. I was brought up on movies about convicts struggling to freedom through alligator-filled swamps. But a swamp as an interesting and beautiful place to visit? Never.

Not, at least, until I visited the Swamp Garden here, in the gulf coast city where they build those big floating oil rigs.

Morgan City has been known as the shrimp capital of the world and as the oil rig city on the east bank of the Atchafalaya River; but few travelers know that the people of Morgan City preserved five acres of swamp next door to the Municipal Auditorium a museum of the past.

This was all swamp country when the first settlers arrived from Nova Scotia in the 18th century. Expelled by the English, the Acadians (the French name for Nova Scotians) survived by living and fishing in the swamp. Many became part of the swamp logging industry, where a logger was known as a swamper.

There are still swamps on either side of Highway 90 as you drive toward Morgan City on your way from New Orleans to Lafayette, passing bumper stickers that read "Please pray for me, I drive Highway 90."

THIS IS THE land of the Atchafalaya Basin and the Bayou Lafourche, where you can visit old plantations, eat Cajun food and possibly even attend a Fais-do-do, a Saturday night dance, in a setting that is seldom overrun by tourists.

Morgan City is an industrial center in this otherwise rural area, but it still values its swampland and the heritage that goes with it.

The Swamp Garden is only a small patch of swamp in the middle of what is now oil rig country; but it is a convincing journey into the past, when swamp lumberjacks cleared these 600-year-old cypress trees from the land.

A high path, like a tiny causeway, winds around the swamp water, where one of the country's oldest cypress trees shares space with younger trees.

The swamp sounds come from loudspeakers, but the crash of squirrels is real enough and the alligators that yawn against the wet bank are real, too.

The other figures in the swamp garden are mannequins, placed in what were once authentic swamp scenes. Here a fisherman spears a frog, a priest comes to visit in his flat-ended boat and an Indian leans over a fire.

Wooden swamp houses have been built and furnished, with wooden walkways out over the water. At one end of the garden, swamp animals are caged near the alligator pools.

Many of America's tourist attractions are sick, too sick. This one is very down home, sometimes downright corny, especially where Tarzan is concerned.

Tarzan? Didn't he swing from tree to tree in Africa? Yes, but the first Tarzan movie was filmed in the Louisiana swamp in 1917. So the folks of Morgan City added a Tarzan mannequin to the swamp garden and love to startle visitors with a recorded Tarzan yell.

The Swamp Garden of Morgan City is only a brief stop, but there are other attractions here. The Municipal Auditorium next door is an unusually large civic center and theater for a town of this size. Check it out for current events.

Morgan City is an industrial center in this otherwise rural area, but it still values its swampland, and the heritage that goes with it.

The Eternal Flame of Morgan City, high up on an oil rig, commemorates the first offshore oil production here in 1947. A boat named the Spirit of Morgan City commemorates the day when this was the shrimp capital of the world.

LOCAL PEOPLE like to assure visitors that the shrimp were not destroyed by the oil rigs. The fishing industry was washed out when the basin was flooded. Rigs provide natural gathering, feeding and breeding grounds for fish.

Both of these industries are celebrated in the annual Shrimp and Petroleum Festival, the oldest chartered festival in Louisiana. Folks who gather there picnic in the Lake Paloude area and around Brownell Memorial Carillon Tower.

All of these sights are marked by cypress trees weeping into the swamp water in beautiful settings that are quite surprising to northerners who undervalue swamps.

At this time of year, we are likely to think of a swamp as something that forms in our back yard and breeds mosquitoes. Louisiana swamper have another definition.

Mark Hamill returns as Luke Skywalker, a farm boy who becomes a hero of the rebellion, in "The Empire Strikes Back."

the movies

Saga continues with 'Empire,' series part 5

George Lucas must be the Richard Wagner of films, at least in terms of grandiose ambition. "Star Wars," which he wrote and directed, came to us as an epic, became a phenomenon, and now we find it is part of a saga.

Its sequel, or continuation, "The Empire Strikes Back" (PG), is part five of a projected nine-film sequence encompassed in three trilogies.

All of this makes the space adventure even longer than the Nibelungen cycle, not to mention more packed with heroes, action and special effects.

The only thing "The Empire" lacks is a Teutonic soprano, although, come to think of it, Carrie Fisher as Princess Leia does have a few braids in her hair, not unlike a Rhinemaiden.

WITH MS. FISHER are the other principals of "Star Wars" continuing the roles they've made their own: Mark Hamill as Luke Skywalker, Harrison Ford as Han Solo, Anthony Daniels as C-3PO, Kenny Baker as R2-D2, David Prowse as Darth Vader, Peter Mayhew as Chewbacca, and Alec Guinness, appearing briefly as Ben (Obi-wan) Kenobi.

Two new characters are introduced, Billy Dee Williams as Lando Calrissian, boss of a mining colony in space, and Frank Oz as Yoda, the Jedi master.

If you didn't see "Star Wars," it would be difficult to get oriented to "The Empire Strikes Back." However, box office receipts indicate everyone past the age of 3 and not institutionalized has seen "Star Wars" (some people have seen it 178 times, they say), so perhaps this isn't a problem.

"The Empire" races along from one action-packed sequence and adventure to another... from the ice-cold planet Hoth (filmed in Norway) to the swamp planet Dagobah and the streamlined Cloud City complex of Bespin with its awesome carbon-freezing chamber. Accompanying the action is a dynamic sound track, always whooshing and zapping.

Although the overall story and conception are Lucas' — he was the executive producer — this film was not directed by him but by Irvin Kershner. Kershner keeps everything going at a feverish pace that doesn't allow for any change of tempo and, therefore, very little accentuation and emphasis.

"The Empire" is full throttle all the way.

IT BEGINS with the Rebels on Hoth where they are hiding from The Empire. They are detected and attacked by what appear to be mechanized metal camels, a strange weapon in an era of starships, but a potent one.

The Empire's forces overrun the Rebel stronghold. Princess Leia, Han and Chewbacca speed off together and try various maneuvers to evade their pursuer. Luke whips off to Dagobah to find the Jedi master Yoda.

Here, he receives instruction in a Taoist-like philosophy that teaches self-actualization. Before he completes his training, he dashes off to help his friends who've been captured by Vader.

"The Empire" lacks the freshness of "Star Wars" and the humor and playfulness. This is a much more somber film. The heroes begin to look a little tarnished.

Han and Princess Leia, attracted to each other, both prove to be stubborn and short-tempered. Luke is impatient and impetuous.

ALL THIS LEADS to an ending which is decidedly downbeat, but it also points toward a confrontation of Luke and Darth Vader in part six, the final film of this middle trilogy.

By then, having built up an equity in three films, who could afford to forego the other six? And who would want to? Not anyone who wants to stay in touch with what everyone else is seeing and talking about in the '80s.

Carrie Fisher again is the strong-willed and beautiful Princess Leia Organa.

Cougar eye appeal

The 1980 Cougar XR-7 is now available with a discounted option-group package. The package includes a two-tone paint theme (including hood and decklid paint stripes), wide door-belt and bodyside moldings and special wheel covers. The suggested list price for this option is half the normal cost of these items.

85 mpg standard boggles auto minds

What will the average car be like in 1995? It won't be much if a new federal proposal ever becomes law.

The government is considering a program to require cars to average 85 miles per gallon in 1995, which would be four times today's average and triple the federal requirement for 1985.

"There is no technology available which would permit that type of mileage for something which would be considered an automobile," said one industry observer. "It's plain ridiculous."

Commuter-size motorcycles get 50-75 miles per gallon.

"So how could the government — in its infinite wisdom — conceive of an enclosed car for even two passengers getting better mileage than a motorcycle?"

Addressing the 1995 proposal, one cartoonist showed a driver lying on his stomach, he was protected only by a plastic shield.

Another cartoon showed a putt-putt engine, on a wagon, with an auxiliary bicycle chain drive.

The Automotive Information Council, based in Southfield, points out that several downsizing programs already have been completed. By 1985, when each car company's fleet mileage average must be 27.5 miles per gallon, another full new generation of cars will be in production.

The industry's cost between now and then will be about $80 billion, equal to the cost of the program that put the first American on the moon.

Even to meet the 27.5 mpg standard, many car companies will be marketing two-passenger cars, while four-cylinder engines will be the most popular. More lightweight materials will be used to further reduce weight.

Higher and higher mileage is possible, but something must be given up to improve mileage. Size and weight was the first trade-off.

The new cars with four-cylinder engines still have much of the pep of their more powerful parents, but only because the new cars are smaller. Since there is a limit to how little a car can weigh and still be a car, the next trade-off may be performance.

A high-mileage auto has been converted from an imported car by using a lawnmower-type engine running at constant speed to turn an alternator. This supplies power to a large electric motor, which drives the car. This is modeled after the power system of a diesel-electric train engine.

Unfortunately, the conditions faced by an automobile and the conditions faced by a train differ. Perhaps, if the government decreed that roads, streets and driveways must be replaced with rails, higher mileage would come easier.
