Board asks for lawsuit in rare land maneuver

By DARLENE STINSON

Municipal officials usually dread lawsuits.

But in a rare move last week, Township Board members asked a developer to file a lawsuit against Canton over a rezoning issue.

The strategy would assure development of a proposed condominium complex at the northwest corner of Sheldon and Warren roads, said Trustee Robert Greenstein, an attorney.

The board asked the developer, Henry Pascouau of Bloomfield Hills, to consider filing the lawsuit after submitting plans for the condominium development in writing.

Under the unusual legal arrangement, the township then would approve the plans and submit them to a judge. Under a court-certified consent judgment, Pascouau would be legally obligated to construct the complex as presented to the Township Board last week.

Board members have called the plans "one of the best" they've ever seen.

PASCOUAU HAS asked the board to rezone the 22-acre parcel from 70-foot single-family residential lots to a new township classification, R-6. The designation allows apartment units of a minimum 1,000 square feet. A multiple-family zoning requires a minimum square footage of only 600 feet.

The board tabled the rezoning request last Tuesday to enable Pascouau to consider the "lawsuit."

"I don't think that's the way to do business," Pascouau said. He agreed, however, to discuss the matter with an attorney.

Board members would have to deny the rezoning request to give Pascouau legal grounds to take the issue to court.

PROPERTY MUST BE rezoned before officials may consider site plans for a development. It is illegal to grant a conditional rezoning.

Although builders normally submit a site plan at the same time as a rezoning request, approval of the rezoning does not guarantee construction of a specific building.

Greenstein and other board members have expressed concern about changing the zoning of any land. The Township Board adopted a new zoning ordinance about two months ago.

Greenstein said haphazard rezonings would jeopardize the sound standing of the zoning ordinance in court.

But at the same time, board members admitted that the plans submitted by Pascouau show an aesthetically-pleasing development, which could be an asset to Canton. They said the project could set a standard for future condominium development in the township.

Hypnosis coaxes clues from victims of crime

By DARLENE STINSON

A swinging watch on a long gold chain has hypnotized dozens of stars in old Hollywood movies.

But the notion that fancy contraptions are needed is pure hogwash in Lt. Larry Stewart's estimation.

"There's nothing mystical or magical about it," said Stewart, who has hypnotized subjects for Canton police, the Wayne County Sheriff's Department, the Michigan State Police and other law enforcement agencies.

"I usually don't do anything but talk to people."

Stewart has hypnotized about 30 witnesses and victims of crime since attending a course of the Law Enforcement Hypnosis Institute in Atlanta in 1978.

In all 30 cases, subjects recalled details of a crime which assisted police in their investigations.

Traditionally, forensic psychologists have undertaken that aspect of police work.

But Stewart, who serves as secretary of the Michigan Society for Investigative and Forensic Hypnosis, says police officers are entering the field more and more.

According to Stewart, about 35 police officers in Michigan are trained currently in hypnosis.

THE TECHNIQUE is used in the investigation of major crimes, such as murder, rape or armed robbery.

Suspects are never hypnotized, Stewart said.

"A person can lie under hypnosis. As a matter of fact, he can be a better liar," Stewart said. "In hypnosis, there's no body language to read."

Contrary to popular belief, people retain full control of their minds during hypnosis, according to Stewart.

They recall details of the session — unless a suggestion is made to block the memories.

"A person who's reliving an event can stop it any moment," Stewart said of cases where fear is involved.

Stewart says the courts view evidence obtained during hypnosis in the same way as other testimony.

"There is no difference in the recall you have consciously and the recall you have under hypnosis. It's simply a question for the jury to decide."

STEWART SAYS anyone can be hypnotized, although various individuals attain different levels of hypnosis.

Victims of a crime usually achieve deeper hypnosis than witnesses because of a more profound desire to solve the crime.

Older persons are normally more difficult to hypnotize, "because they seem to have more fear of the unknown," Stewart said.

"But I haven't had anyone say no (to a request for a session.) Some people have just asked for further information."

Everyone hypnotized by Stewart has provided important clues to police.

In a recent case, the neighbor of a rape victim recalled the partial license plate number of a suspect's car. Stewart expects the evidence will allow police to make an arrest.

According to Stewart, the neighbor was mowing his lawn two days before the rape and noticed a man drive sev-

It's a tiny ballot

Canton's Aug. 5 primary ballot is creating nightmarish worries for Clerk John Flodin.

The ballot may be too small for the large number of candidates seeking township, county, state and federal seats.

"I may be crazy. Maybe this won't happen. It just depends on the total number of candidates and the ballot layout," he said.

Flodin won't know the status of the ballot until early this week after receiving notice from the Wayne County Election Commission.

Flodin and municipal clerks across the county sent lists of their local candidates to the office last week.

In Canton, a record 26 citizens filed nominating petitions for seven seats on the Township Board. Six others are vying for library board positions.

In August 1978, the primary ballot in Canton contained only one blank space.

The number of candidates exceeded

How to get vote results

Complete election returns will be in Thursday's edition of the Observer.

But you can find out about today's winners and losers tonight by calling the Observer Election Hotline at 459-2700.

The news staffs of the Canton and Plymouth Observers will be on hand with the names of the winners for Plymouth-Canton Board of Education and with the results of the two ballot proposals — the bond issue, and the tax continuation measure.

Returns are expected about 9 p.m. and we will be at the phone to receive calls until about 11:30 p.m.

A number of Plymouth-Canton residents in recent years have relied upon the Observer election service to learn of the results. Because of the volume of calls received, there usually is only time to give the names of winners and whether ballot proposals are approved or defeated.

Actual vote totals, and information about votes in individual precincts, will be reported in the next edition.

In case you get a busy signal when you call 459-2700 tonight from 9 to 11:30, please call again — most of the time a line will open by the second call.

Short Takes

No contest

Six township residents who are vying for public office this year won't have a campaign worry in the world. The six are the only township residents who filed nominating petitions for six seats on the Canton library board. They are James Gillig, a Republican; Norma Jean West, a Republican; Katherine Baldrice, a Republican; Douglas Ritter, a Democrat; Mary Feltz, a Democrat; and John Schwartz, a Democrat. The six won't even need time to learn the ropes of the elected positions. All were appointed as temporary library board members last spring by the Canton Board of Trustees. The six are preparing plans to open the new library on the third floor of the township administration building.

Under the big top

Fair lovers should circle this Wednesday through Sunday on their calendars. Those are the dates of the Sixth Annual Canton Jaycee Fair. The fair grounds at Lilley and Ford will feature lots of rides for adults and kiddies, a big tent packed with food and merchandise and numerous games of chance. Canton Boy Scout troops are sponsoring a pancake breakfast on Saturday and Sunday mornings. Fair hours are 3-10 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday, 3-11 p.m. Friday, 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. Saturday and 11:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. Sunday.

Don't hold your breath

The Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) has approved the placement of a traffic light at Michigan and Sheldon. But Canton Supervisor Noel Culbert says that the light may not be erected for years. Donald Rush, an engineer for MDOT's Program Administration Section, said the intersection must be approved before the light is installed. The Wayne County Road Commission and the MDOT have developed completely different plans for the improvements, however. Rush said the differences must be resolved before placing the improvements on the state's priority list.

O&E announces ad department promotions

Three management changes in the advertising department of the 12 Observer & Eccentric Newspapers have been announced by George Hagan, director of advertising and promotion.

Garry Heath, 36, of Canton Township has been named Wayne County advertising manager.

Heath joined the twice-weekly newspaper group in 1971 as a sales representative and had been classified advertising manager since 1976.

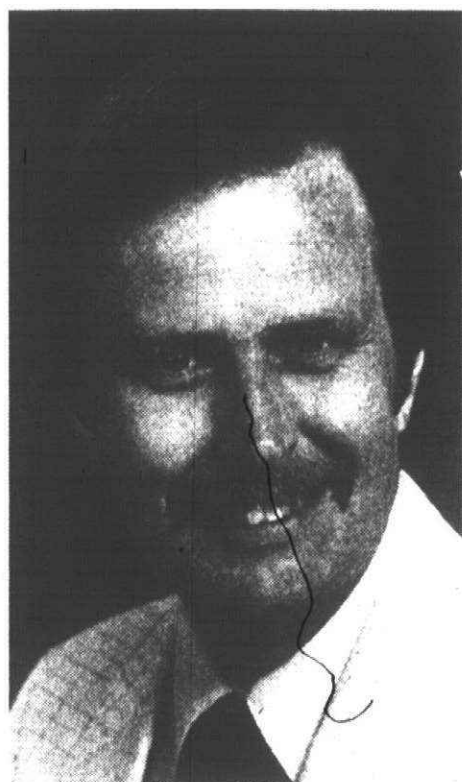

While he was classified manager, the Observer & Eccentric revamped its phone room operations, installing new visual display terminals and a computerized phone system to expedite ad-taking.

As ad manager, Heath will be responsible for retail advertising sales in Canton, Farmington, Garden City, Livonia, Plymouth, Redford and Westland.

He is a business administration graduate of Harding College in Arkansas and completed a management education program through the Employers Association of Detroit.

GARRY HEATH

RICK FICORELLI

JACK PADLEY

RICK FICORELLI, 29, of Southfield, will succeed Heath as classified manager.

Ficorelli has been assistant manager and will now be fully responsible for phone room and classified sales.

A 1973 graduate of Michigan State University with a bachelor of arts in marketing, Ficorelli came to O&E in 1975 from the Detroit News, where he earned its creative sales award for successful auto dealer group promotions.

JACK PADLEY, 30, of Howell, was promoted to a management position on the classified staff.

Padley earned a bachelor's degree in advertising at Michigan State University and has six years in suburban newspaper experience, both in display and classified.

He is a deacon and Sunday school teacher at First Presbyterian Church of Brighton.

Woman tames Farmington CC

Shirley Rutherford, a resident of West Bloomfield, recorded a hole-in-one last Friday, May 30, during a round of golf at the Farmington Country Club.

She aced Farmington CC's No. 8 hole, using a No. 5 wood to drive the 125 yards from tee to cup. Rutherford, who has been golfing for 20 years, shot another hole-in-one in 1960.

Home help is available for the aged

Help with minor home maintenance and repairs is available for Plymouth senior citizens through the Skill Bank program sponsored by the Plymouth Community Council on Aging Inc.

The program offers such services as painting, carpentry, plumbing, electrical, lawn work and odd jobs to retired senior citizens (age 60 and older) at reasonable charges.

The work is performed by retired tradesmen and handymen who desire to earn some additional income while helping their fellow man.

Any skilled handyman can register with the council office by calling the telephone communications center at 455-4907 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

Senior citizens desiring the help can call the same number from 10-2 Monday through Thursday.

When retired homemakers call, they will be put in touch with a job performer who will negotiate directly with him on charges for the job.

Finding jobs to be done is not a serious problem, says Walter Fletcher, chairman of the Skill Bank program, but more handymen and tradesmen are needed.

Interior cleaning also has been requested so any women who can do this cleaning at reasonable fees also are invited to register.

The Plymouth Community Council on Aging is an independent non-profit organization of volunteers who are advocates for needed services for the elderly, and are funded by local benefactors.

Rottell's project dusts off Civil War history

When Dennis Rottell went scouting around for a project to earn his Eagle rank, he ended up in a cemetery. But it wasn't just any old cemetery.

The Canton Township Scout spotted Westland's historic Chubbs Cemetery on a trip to the store last February.

Taking a closer look, Dennis found the cemetery in disrepair. Grave stones were decaying. A sign and fence needed sprucing up.

So Dennis, a former Redford Township resident who has spent four years with Troop 435 from that town, contacted the Westland Historical Society and got busy.

Dennis has spent more than 42 hours on the project, one of numerous achievements which must be certified by a Scout board of review before he can receive the Eagle rank, one of the highest in Scouting.

To replace the 29 grave stones, Dennis has fashioned wooden blocks with names of those buried in the cemetery stenciled on one side. The grounds have been raked, weeded and a dead tree removed. Flowers are being planted and the fence painted.

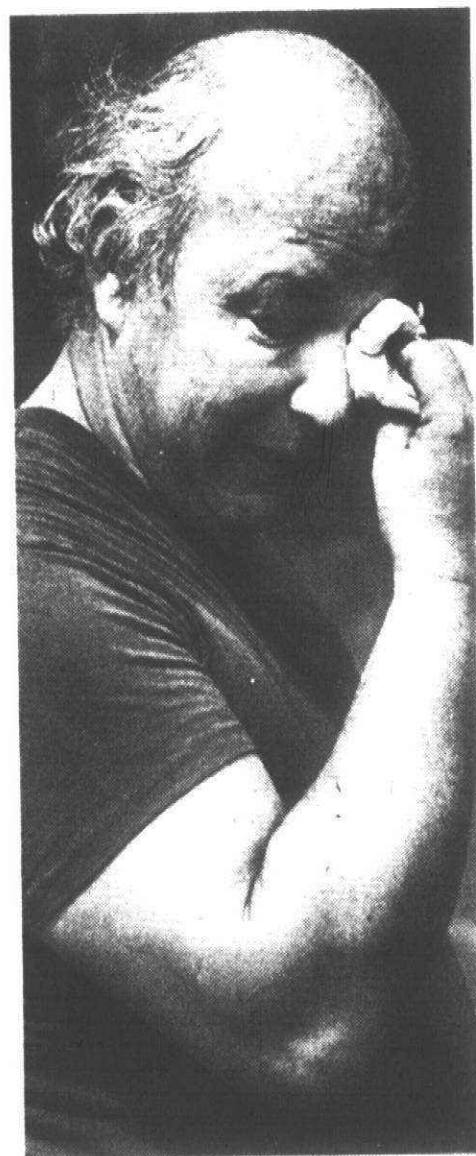

"I've learned a lot with my friends in the troop," said Dennis, a freshman at Plymouth-Salem High School. "Only one out of 1,000 Scouts earn the Eagle rank. I expect to get mine in October, and then our troop will have three or four Scouts of Eagle rank."

The cemetery is the first historical site in Westland. Glode Chubbs set aside the property as a cemetery in 1849. Chubbs, who lived from 1776 to 1888, was the first supervisor of Nankin Township.

The site was dedicated to the city of Westland more than 10 years ago.

Painting the fence that marks the Chubbs family section of the cemetery, Dennis Rottell works on the project that he hopes will help him earn his Eagle rank.

Dad Jerry Coleca takes a moment to mop up from the heat during a sweaty work out at the cemetery.

This grave marker lies in Chubbs Cemetery, the first historical site in the city that was set aside during the Civil War for members of the Chubbs family.

Schools lose money from state aid as Milliken gives order for cutback

The expected bad news finally came to administrators of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Gov. William Milliken, as expected, ordered a reduction in state aid payments to the school district in an effort to balance the state's budget.

As a result of the executive order cutback, the district will lose $338,000 in state aid. The statewide cut was $35 million.

"We had expected a loss in funds ranging from $300,000-$750,000," said Superintendent John M. Hoben Friday. "If this is all there is to the cut, then it's not as bad as it could have been. But we are afraid there might be two cutbacks by the governor this year."

FOR PLYMOUTH-CANTON, the governor's cutback will reduce local spending per pupil by $20.

The reduction is effective in August because that month falls in the last quarter of the state's fiscal year, which ends Sept. 30, said Ray Hoedel, assistant superintendent for business.

"Our fiscal year, however, begins July 1, and so the cutback will come during the first quarter of our next fiscal year. It will hit us early in our fiscal year."

"In fact," added Hoedel, "the state aid bill hasn't even been approved yet in final form, and the state already is taking money away from us."

To balance the budget, Gov. Milliken trimmed $97.5 million from the 1979-80 state budget.

In explaining the cutback to the legislature, Milliken said:

"A national recession and its devastating effect on the Michigan economy have severely hampered the state's ability to deliver services at the levels we had planned, leaving us no option but to spread the burden of budget reductions as equitably as possible."

"In our previous efforts this year to keep the state budget balanced, we reduced appropriations to state operations."

"This time, because of the continued decline in revenues, we have had to order further cuts in state operations as well as slight reductions in education appropriations, which make up such a large portion of the state budget."

The executive order also affects colleges, universities, community colleges, local governmental units, state building projects, social services, state departments, the legislature, and the judicial branch.

UNDER THE order the following cuts will be made:

- School aid: $35 million, which equals 1.1 percent of the combined total of the state aid formula and local property tax revenues.

- Colleges and universities: $6.9 million or 1.1 percent of state appropriations.

- Community colleges: $2 million.

- Local governmental units: $23 million or 4.7 percent of total state aid payments.

- Capital outlay: $3.9 million.

- Department of Social Services: $7.4 million, of which $4 million comes from a delay in a scheduled increase for Supplemental Security Income (SSI) recipients.

- Departments of state government: $18 million, which, when combined with $90 million in lapses or reductions already made, will cut the total departmental budget by more than $107 million or 7 percent for the year.

- Commitments from the legislature, judiciary and the department of civil service (none of which can be ordered to cut their budgets by the governor) to reduce their spending by a combined $1.3 million.

LOCAL SCHOOL DISTRICTS financial support from the state was cut by 1.093 percent while intermediate school districts' state financing was cut by 2 percent. The amount of local money affected depends upon local operating tax revenue as well as state aid.

The cutback varies from district to district depending on money raised by local taxes and on enrollment.

The cutback order, for instance, resulted in the following state aid reductions for these nearby districts: Detroit, $3.7 million; Dearborn, $451,000; Dearborn Heights, $68,400; Garden City, $137,000; Livonia, $519,000; Redford Union, $118,000; Romulus, $122,000; South Redford, $101,000; Taylor, $368,000; Wayne-Westland, $482,000; Ann Arbor, $425,000; and Ypsilanti, $123,000.

The state aid cutbacks on a per pupil basis ranged from about $15 to $31 per pupil, with Plymouth-Canton being near the middle.

eral times in front of the woman's house.

The man forgot about the incident until police canvassed the neighborhood in search of clues. According to Stewart, the neighbor made no conscious effort to examine the license plate, which was partially covered with mud.

But in hypnosis, the man was able to remember the plate number as well as a detailed description of the car.

THE HYPNOSIS sessions are usually conducted in Stewart's office or in the subject's home. They usually last two to 2½ hours.

Stewart begins the session by asking the subject to physically relax. Legs should be uncrossed, and comfortable clothing should be worn.

Next, Stewart takes the subject on a "walk" down a mountainside. They are told to increase the level of relaxation with each step they take.

The subject should be hypnotized by the time they reach the bottom of the mountain, Stewart said. They are asked to "numb" a hand or another section of their body. Stewart conducts a minor pain test to check their level of hypnosis.

Lastly, they are taken back to the scene of a crime.

"We have them go into their memory file and pull out the tape of the day," Stewart said.

The Canton lieutenant hopes to attend an advanced course of the Los Angeles-based Law Enforcement Hypnosis Institute this summer or fall. He says the course will increase his proficiency in the technique.

Stewart was first hypnotized in 1978, while attending a course of the school.

"I had only seen staged hypnosis at that point. Frankly, I was a skeptic," Stewart said. "Most cops are."

Mothers, sons get school diplomas together

It wasn't an easy decision to make. Twenty years later they now have their own teen-age children to raise, spouses to care for, and for some — full-time jobs outside of the home. Nonetheless, they all felt they had left something behind that was unfinished. And despite the extra effort it would now require, they decided to give it a go.

Sandra Price of Northville, Pamela Howard of Plymouth Township, Anna Huddleston of Canton Township, and Beverly Booth, also of Canton, have this in common.

After almost two decades they have returned to school — in the evenings — to earn a high school diploma. Coincidentally, they the mothers of graduating seniors.

All four sons were on hand May 21 to see their respective mothers march up the aisle of Plymouth Canton High's Little Theater and receive their diplomas.

This is the first year the school district's adult education department sponsored a "full cap and gown" ceremony for graduates of the program.

"It was really a thrill," says Mrs.

Huddleston. "I was on a high all day long before the ceremony."

"I WAS on cloud nine," says Mrs. Booth. "It was just as if I did it 20 years ago."

"My son thought it was kind of funny at first. He didn't want to wear a suit in the beginning but I told him he'd better."

"She's been out of school for 20 years and I guess that's why I was so proud of her during the ceremony," says Mrs. Price's son, Marty.

Those returning to school for a high school diploma range from as young as 18 to over 50, said adult education coordinator Dave Dursum.

"The diploma symbolizes a sense of fulfillment. Twenty years ago it wasn't a high priority like it is today. Without one, people today feel they've missed something."

That reasoning is what prompted Mrs. Huddleston to return to the books. Mrs. Huddleston was a sophomore at Highland Park High when she dropped out "to get married."

"I was a terrible student 18 years ago. I guess I didn't care that much. But this time I really wanted to learn."

More than that, Mrs. Huddleston says she wanted to be the first of her mother's three children to present her with a diploma, a strong motivating factor in her returning.

And after 2½ years of study, she was one of the proud recipients at the mid-May ceremonies at Canton High.

MRS. HUDDLESTON's mother now lives in Arkansas, and was unable to attend the ceremonies. However, she'll be getting a copy of her daughter's diploma soon.

"I talked about doing it for a long quite awhile. I was a bit reluctant about being with a lot of young people but Mr. Dursum assured me the program is geared for adults."

Mrs. Booth, who has attended the local education program for 2½ years, last attended high school in 1960.

"I was short four credits to graduate from Belleville High which meant I had to go the following fall. But my mother didn't push me and I didn't want to be with 11th graders."

Is ballot too small?

the ballot space in an township election eight or 10 years ago, Flodin said.

The names of candidates were split between the machine and the paper ballot in that primary election. Flodin said the process of counting votes was slowed that year.

"I put a clipboard with a paper ballot (inside the voting machine)."

According to Flodin, the ballot contains enough space for a maximum 500 names.

"But you really can't get that many on there," he said. "There has to be space between names and offices."

Some months ago, the Township Board abolished the elected position of constable in anticipation of limited ballot space.

The Wayne County Election Commission will assume responsibility for juggling names between machine and paper ballots if Flodin's worries become reality.

Board asks for lawsuit

"The site plan is the best I've seen in years," said Greenstein. "The proposed project is truly beautiful."

THE PLANS for the 160-unit condominium project were developed by Dumlao and Associates, Inc., a Troy architectural firm.

The units are clustered around "backyard" courts, which provide access to under-house garages.

Manuel Dumlao, president of the architectural firm, said the basic two-bedroom floor plan with 1,300 square feet can be enlarged or customized at a buyer's request.

Canton planner Jim Kosteva said the configuration of the parcel would make development of single-family home sites difficult.

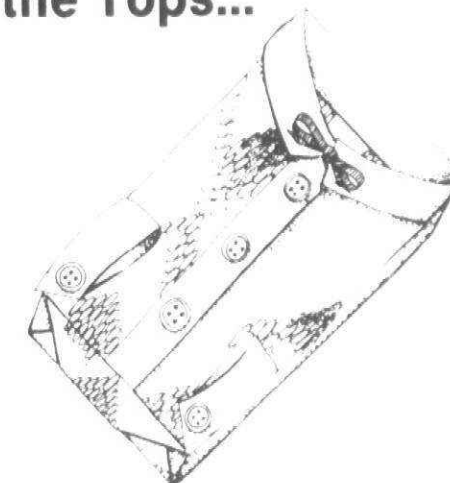

The prospect of condominiums on the site has given rise to other concerns, however.

Props for Rocks

"The Rocks Last Stand" is the theme for the senior party being planned for the Plymouth Salem High Class of 1980.

The decorations will highlight a main street of a western frontier town in the 1880s as parents working on the props are letting their minds go back into history to the days of Matt Dillon to make sure the props fit the theme.

The party will begin immediately following graduation on June 19 and run til about 4 a.m. Graduating seniors from Salem only will be allowed to attend.

Tickets are on sale through June 11 at the Rock Shop and also will be sold during graduation rehearsal and at graduation. The cost is $7 if purchased in advance and $8 per person at the door. Tickets will be sold until 11 p.m. the night of the party.

Featured will be the band Magazine, a hypnotist, handwriting analyst, an astrologist, prizes, games, western grub and sarsaparilla.

A garage sale is great to keep a man humble

In the newspaper business, we sometimes are accused of adding "hype" to a story "to sell a few more papers."

It doesn't work that way. For one thing, most Observer & Eccentric circulation is home delivery or mail subscription.

Very little of our 150,000 circulation is newsstand sales, and the humbling fact is that hot news stories don't increase circulation.

Circulation chief Fred Wright tells me that newsstand sales go up only twice during the year — in late spring and just before school starts.

People buy the paper in order to look at the classified ads for garage sales.

And that is humbling to a newperson. We struggle with governmental budgets, we fight Open Meetings Act battles with public agencies, we take pains to get information, and it turns out that what sells papers is ads for garage sales.

THERE ARE TWO reasons folks buy a paper at the rack.

One is that they are non-residents of O&E communities and can't get home delivery.

The other is that they don't want to wait for the carrier to get out of school and deliver the paper. They want it first thing in the morning.

And so they line up at 6:30 in the morning outside the main plant in Livonia to get the paper.

They spot the classified ads, pin-point the places on a map and make the rounds.

To my mind, shopping is a functional thing, but to many folks it's a form of recreation, maybe even of therapy.

MY AUNT Rita in Redford Township loves garage sales. She sums up her newspaper reading habits in one sentence: "I don't read nothin' but the ads."

If I libeled her in a page one story, I doubt she would notice. She prefers those nine columns of tiny type in the back section.

Whenever I get bloated with self-importance about my essays on public transportation, the evils of the housing market or the fishhooks of Headlee, a visit to Aunt Rita restores me to my proper role in the spectrum of things.

Classified ads are so important that people sometimes ask newspaper employees if they can get an advance look so they can be first in line the next morning.

Tim Richard

The answer is No. Nothing in the ads is to be revealed until the paper hits the street on Monday and Thursday morning. Otherwise, sellers would be bothered in the middle of the night, and retail advertisers would lose some competitive advantages.

A FRIEND takes a dim view of garage sales: "I don't want anyone else's discards."

Well, there is some junk at garage sales. But there are a lot of brand new things people have never used. My wife picked up four steak platters still in their cellophane wrappers for $2. Another time she picked up a new set of sweetcorn holders, mahogany, yet, for $1.

That was the time she took part in a cooperative garage sale and wound up buying more than we sold.

My favorite garage sale story was told by one of the ad takers in our phone room.

One fall, a man bought a new air conditioner for about 25 percent off because it was the end of the season. He stored it in the garage.

Next spring, his wife had a garage sale. The brand new, unopened air conditioner worth several hundred dollars was accidentally sold for $25.

THE GARAGE SALE is such a big business that our classified department put together a kit with signs and advice for holding a successful sale.

They have all kinds of advice we were never taught in the marketing courses of the University of Michigan Graduate School of Business Administration.

The kit advises several families to go in together, for example. The reason is that you can offer more items and attract a bigger group of customers.

Another tip is to list an alternate date in case of rain. They never taught us that in Principles of Marketing 151.

Yes, this garage sale phenomenon keeps a guy humble.

What's in a name? A lot for some alumni

In recent months, some residents and former residents have been campaigning to change the name of one high school to Plymouth High School.

Newer residents of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools may not be aware that at one time there was a Plymouth High School housed in what is now Central Middle School building in the city of Plymouth.

When the first new high school was built at the Centennial Educational Park it was named Plymouth Salem High School with full knowledge that the second high school would be called Plymouth Canton. And that's the way it happened.

THE IDEA was to name the high schools after the townships contained within the school district (Salem, Canton, Superior and Northville townships) and attach the suffix "Plymouth" to each as a broader more general type label describing the community.

At that time, the long-range plans called for four high schools at the CEP site. The third high school was to be named Plymouth Superior High School, and the fourth would be called Plymouth Northville High School.

Notice that the names have nothing to do with the residence of the in-coming students. Only a small portion of Northville Township is included in the school district, so there never will be a large number of high school students from that township represented at the CEP. Likewise, it will be a long time in the future when there are more high school students than cornfields in Salem Township.

A FEW PROBLEMS existed with this scheme from the very beginning.

One, of course, is that the old PHS building was no longer to be used as a high school, and Plymouth High itself was no longer to exist.

Another problem is that the full names became too cumbersome to use in verbal communications, and so the shorthand reference for the spoken word became "Canton High" and "Salem High."

This verbal shorthand suggested that Canton High was a school for students from Canton Township. And because Salem High was built first and the students at Plymouth High School were transferred to Salem, somehow Salem High became identified as the building where students from Plymouth are located.

A third problem is that the CEP is in Canton Township and so the city of Plymouth and Plymouth Township both lack a high school within their geographical boundaries.

The reality of the CEP is that students from Canton and Plymouth townships and the city are mixed between the two high schools. Salem does not "belong" to Plymouth anymore than Canton "belongs" to Canton Township.

In fact, random selection results in 50 percent of all students attending Salem and the other half attending Canton without regard to geographical location of residence.

THE PROBLEM FOR the former PHS grads is that they no longer have a high school of their own. They are an alumni without a school — a disinherited class.

If you graduated from Plymouth High School, are you an alumnus of Plymouth Salem High or of Plymouth Canton High?

The argument made by those wanting one of the high schools renamed may seem rather straightforward. The main problem would seem to be deciding which high school to rename Plymouth High, and most would opt for Salem.

But the issue is not really all that straight forward, as can be seen by an argument made by a 1978 graduate of Plymouth Canton High. That person wrote a letter to the editor which cannot be used because it is unsigned. But part of the letter will be quoted to further cloud muddy waters:

"I am a Plymouth resident and recent graduate of Canton High, my younger brother is currently a freshman at Salem High. As you can see, the decision of which school you will attend is not based on whether you live in Plymouth or Canton.

"If either one of the schools were renamed, the same problem would arise. Then, too, our alma mater would be lost. We, or Salem students, attended a school in the name of Plymouth High.

"I CAN see the point of these Plymouth High alumni wishing to regain their alma mater, but I also feel that steps should have been taken a long time ago before the two high schools first opened. Please keep the alumni of Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem in mind before any decision is made."

I also understand the opinion expressed above, whoever its author is.

Although the issue is important to some, it is not paramount in my mind, right now. My greater concern is whether there will be enough space for high schoolers of the future and what is happening to the learning conditions for today's high schoolers caught up in an over-crowded environment at the CEP.

When we are assured of finding space for today's and tomorrow's high school students, we might want to take a second look at what we call our high schools.

FDR's campaign stop brings lasting memories

Every time a presidential campaign rolls around The Stroller can't help turning back the pages to the 1932 presidential race when Franklin Delano Roosevelt ran against the incumbent president Herbert Hoover and how his appearance in Detroit was handled by Malcolm W. Bingfay, then the editorial director of the Detroit Free Press.

At the time The Stroller was on the sports staff, and he had the opportunity to work with "Bing," one of the finest newspaper officials he ever met.

"Bing" was a staunch Republican, and while the Free Press was advertised as an independent paper, he changed that to read in all promotional advertising that the Free Press was an independent Republican paper.

On this particular Sunday, FDR made an appearance at the Armory for his Detroit stop on the long campaign. And while most of the public prints gave a great deal of advance information on his appearance, the Free Press, on Bingfay's orders, gave little more than a mere announcement that he was to appear for a short stay.

By a strange coincidence, the Detroit Zoo was opening on the same day and at the same time. What's more, the zoo had a great drawing card in Joe Mendi, the huge gorilla.

While he seldom worked on Sundays, "Bing" was around early to take charge of the Monday editions.

Members of the staff wondered why all the excitement when "Bing" took over the news editors desk.

They got their answer when the first edition rolled off the presses at about 7 o'clock that evening. And the issue now has become a collector's item.

For the big, bold headline across the front page read:

"30,000 SEE JOE MENDI — 15,000 HEAR FDR."

the stroller

W.W. Edgar

This was Bingfay's way of letting the world know that the Free Press was Republican to the core and that Hoover was the paper's preferred candidate.

The headline caught the attention of critics across the country, and few headlines before or since ever drew the attention that one did.

And no one enjoyed the reaction more than Bingfay, even after Hoover was defeated and FDR took over the White House.

Among the old-timers, this still stands as one of the most biting bits of journalism ever to mark a presidential campaign, and Bingfay enjoyed it to his death.

Another great memory The Stroller has of him concerned the time he had the entire staff work 32 consecutive hours to prepare a paper that would be offered as a candidate for the Pulitzer Prize.

He finally dismissed us and said he hoped it would win. He had us all on edge waiting for the verdict.

It came after six months and the Free Press was named the winner. We all waited for Bingfay's reaction. We pictured him in high glee.

You can imagine our shock when he had this notice placed on the bulletin board:

"To the staff:
'You can't score any runs today on the hits you made yesterday.'"

There was only one Bingfay and The Stroller had the good fortune to work with him.

Housing starts dip 23% for region in 1979

Monday, June 9, 1980

(P.C)9A

Residential building permits issued last year in the seven-county southeast Michigan area dropped nearly 23 percent from 1978.

A recently issued Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) report shows that among the larger growing cities and townships of the late 1970's, only Farmington Hills issued more single and multiple family building permits last year (1,622) than in 1978 (1,552).

"It wasn't a great year (for new housing starts)," said SEMCOG representative James Thomas.

HOUSING GROWTH slowed considerably last year in Canton Township, according to SEMCOG. Canton led the region in 1978 with 1,813 single and multi-family permits issued. Last year, the western Wayne County township authorized 721 residential units, a decline of 60 percent.

Avon Township and Troy also showed sharp declines in housing growth last year. Avon issued 840 single and multiple dwelling permits in 1979, down more than 540 from 1978. Troy approved nearly 700 housing units last year, down some 360 from 1978.

According to SEMCOG, new single family housing in Farmington Hills and Avon Township last year accounted for 11 percent of the total regional single family permits.

Farmington Hills, Detroit and Clinton and Shelby townships in Macomb County accounted for 37.5 percent of the total new multiple family housing in the region. Farmington Hills approved 890 multi-family housing starts; Detroit, 775.

THOMAS SAID the regional residential construction report, issued annually by SEMCOG, is a further indication that the metropolitan Detroit region can expect only moderate growth in the years ahead.

Thomas said "1980 is extremely down," due to the lingering economic recession.

All of the region's seven counties except Monroe showed building permit reductions in 1979, according to the SEMCOG report. Oakland showed the largest numeric drop, from 10,279 in 1978 to 8,374 last year.

Permits issued last year by Wayne County communities other than Detroit were down 23 percent.

Detroit issued 162 more permits last year than in 1978. Demolition permits issued by Detroit decreased nearly 28 percent last year from 6,153 in 1978 to 4,438.

FOR THE tri-county (Oakland, Wayne, Macomb) area, building permits were down 21 percent last year.

Nearly 15,400 new single, two-family and multi-family housing starts were approved in the three counties in 1978. That figure dropped to just over 12,000 last year.

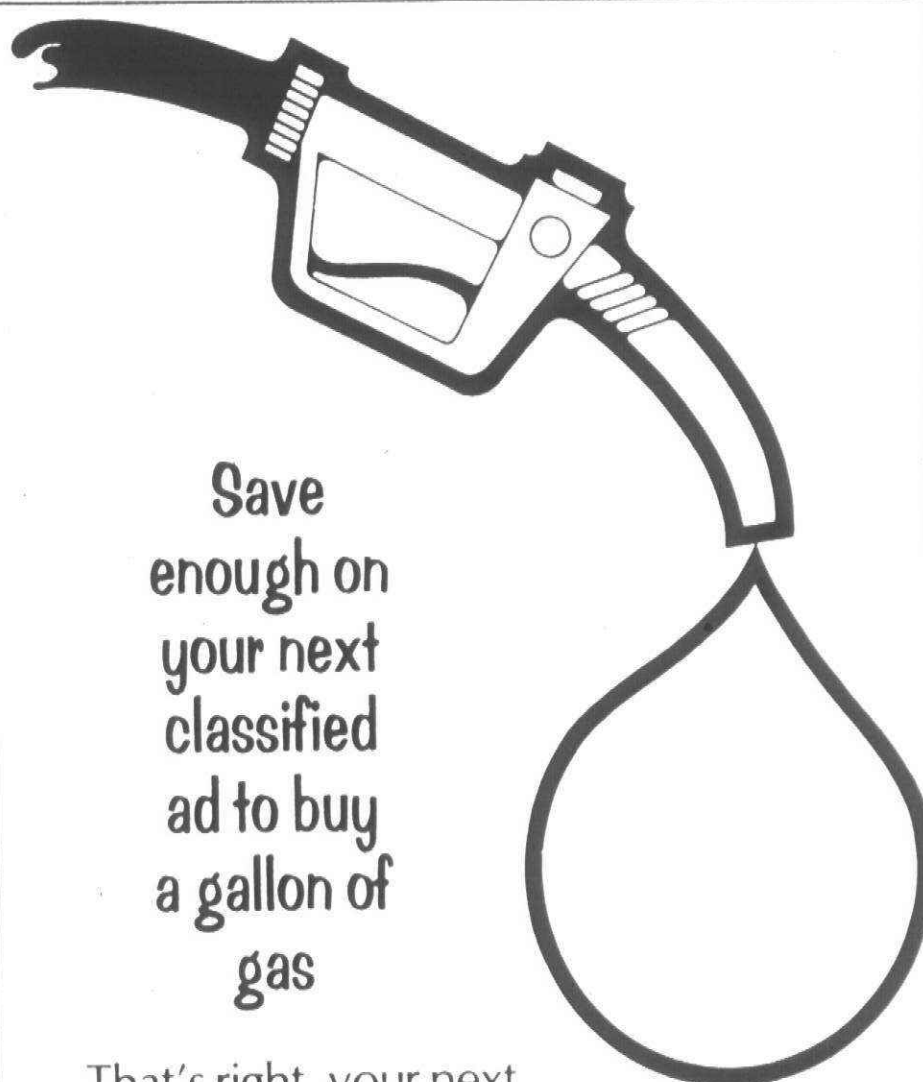

The peak housing year during the past 20 years was 1971, when more than 32,000 permits were issued in the three counties.

Three years later, with the advent of the 1974-75 economic recession, housing permits issued in the three counties plummeted to 9,649.

SEMCOG is a voluntary association of governmental units in Livingston, Macomb, Monroe, Oakland, St. Clair, Washtenaw and Wayne counties.

It proposes regionwide plans and policies in housing and community development, transportation, land use, water and air quality and other environmental areas.

Its plans are subject to approval of local elected officials from member communities.

Veterans seeking legal help on alleged chemical damage

Second of two parts
By SANDRA ARMBRUSTER

Kenneth Boling thinks he's being used as a guinea pig. And he wants something done about it.

Boling says that he and other Vietnam veterans are experiencing "common symptoms."

"There is no test for it, but these guys are getting skin rashes, stomach and liver trouble and cancer that spreads rapidly," he says.

"Research data on Agent Orange will be available soon. We veterans want an answer as to what the problem is," adds Boling, who is organizing a local chapter of Agent Orange Victims International.

Agent Orange is a chemical defoliant sprayed in Vietnam to clear out underbrush used by the Viet Cong to hide from U.S. forces.

Veterans say they're angry over what they believe is a lack of information and medical help being given to Vietnam veterans.

"The veterans administration (VA) is using us as guinea pigs. They're against us," charged Boling. "It (help) is so tied up with who's to blame in the VA is a government regulated organization, and they're limiting information they give."

While a VA spokesman denies the charges, some veterans have begun to take action on their own behalf.

A GROUP CALLED Citizen Soldier is trying to get information about Agent Orange out to veterans who may have been exposed to it. The group also is suing for damages on behalf of individual veterans.

Founder of the group, Tod Ensign, has co-authored a just released book titled "GI Guinea Pigs." Part of the book discusses veterans who have been exposed to Agent Orange.

Other veterans are joining the growing ranks of those who are suing companies that manufactured the chemical.

At least one company, DOW, denies any responsibility for health problems veterans claim they are having.

That doesn't deter veterans like Tim Rea, a former Redford resident now living in Hazel Park.

"I don't have too much faith in government anymore," said Rea. He believes he was exposed to the chemical and, consequently, wonders if he has passed genetic damage along to his two preschool children.

"I'm suing the VA, the American government and five chemical companies. I filed suit three months ago," Rea added.

Handling Rea's case, among others is Southfield attorney Arthur Woll.

"These guys need a lot of help. There's very little to go on," Woll explained. "Rea is one of 110-115 veterans — or their wives and children — in Michigan who have filed class action suits in Flint and Detroit federal courts."

WOLL ESTIMATES there are 7,000 to 8,000 such suits that have been filed nationwide. In a "multiple litigation" case such as this, Woll said that one attorney in New York is trying to prove the liability of the chemical companies and the government involved with the chemical.

The companies, according to Woll, are DOW, Hooker, Hercules, Diamond Shamrock, Monsanto, Uniroyal and Thompson-Haywood.

If the New York attorney, Victor Yanako who also is a chemist, is able to prove liability, then damage suits will be tried in federal courts across the country. Woll said he expects a ruling on the liability case sometime next spring. He estimates that damage suits could amount to $4 billion.

"I know it's a long, uphill battle, but we're committed to it. I want to do it and so do my people," said Woll. "Sure we'll make a fee, but we aren't thinking about that."

"If you'd see these people, you'd know they have to get help," he added.

Woll estimates that there may be more than 200,000 people in Michigan suffering from exposure to Agent Orange.

"Sometimes we get 25 calls a day from people who have heard what we're doing," Woll continued. "We don't look around for clients. They come by word of mouth."

BUT A SPOKESMAN for DOW Chemical disputes those estimates as well as responsibility for any veterans' health problems and research claims about the product.

Phillip Schneider, manager of corporate media relations, said that DOW was asked to produce the two component herbicides in Agent Orange according to government specifications.

"The military mixed them according to its formula, diluted it with water and determined how to use it there (in Vietnam)," Schneider explained.

"We just don't believe that Agent Orange can be the cause of these maladies," he added. "We don't dispute that veterans may have health problems, but we don't believe that Agent Orange is the cause of these health problems."

Schneider said that the chemical is made with two herbicides known as 2,4,5T and 2,4D. He said that the herbicides have been used "safely and prevalently" in the U.S. for more than 30 years along highway and railroad rights of way. He added that it is still used in range land and in rice growing fields.

"There are 40,000 papers and studies on these products and Agent Orange. There is no medical evidence or linkage that these people attribute to Agent Orange exposure," Schneider continued.

WOLL ARGUED, however, that other studies, such as one by a University of Wisconsin professor, correlate experiments "with real life."

The Observer confirmed that James Allen had conducted experiments at the University of Wisconsin. However, he is no longer with the university and was unable to be reached for comment.

Argument over the chemical centers on a substance found in the 2,4,5T herbicide called dioxin.

Schneider said dioxin is a "trace of impurity in minute amounts that occurs naturally in the manufacturing process — created through combustion."

"The Environmental Protection Agency has suspended some permanent uses until hearings are concluded on its safety," said Schneider. "The concern is that dioxin could be the cause of the maladies."

"But much of the data has been discredited by independent scientific bodies," he continued. "Incidents of gross amounts of dioxin (have shown) in all cases that other than chloracne (a skin rash), no health effect is apparent."

Smith challenged but Brown unopposed for House

Primary contests are assured Aug. 5 in two of six state representative districts in western Wayne County.

In three of five Wayne County commissioner districts in the area, the August election will determine who wins a two-year term on the county board.

STATE REP. William Keith of Garden City will be challenged in the 33rd District Democratic primary by Garden City Councilman Ronald Tyskiewicz. Keith is a four-term state legislator. The August winner will face Republican challenger Walter James of Garden City in November.

In the 35th House District, two Democrats — Ronald Lee Fisher of Plymouth and Barbara Sowers of Livonia — will square off Aug. 5. (Fisher's mailing address is Plymouth, but his home is in Northville Township.) The winner will face two-term incumbent Republican Jack Kirksey of Livonia.

In districts 34 (Redford), 36 (Livonia and part of Westland), 37 (Westland and Canton Township) and 52 (part of the Plymouth area), the Democratic and Republican candidates face no primary opposition.

STATE REP. Thomas Brown of Westland will seek re-election to the 37th District seat unopposed.

Incumbent Republican Sylvia Skrel and Democrat Robert Ficano, both of Livonia, will meet in the Nov. 4 general election for the 36th District seat. In an election earlier this year to fill the vacant seat, Skrel was a narrow winner.

In Redford Township, veteran State Rep. John Bennett has no Democratic primary opponent, but faces Republican opposition in November from Gerald McBeane of Redford.

In the 52nd district, which includes most of the Plymouth community, incumbent Republican Roy Smith of Ypsilanti will face Democratic opponent Judith F. Thiel of Northville.

THE DEMOCRATIC primaries in three county commissioner districts will determine the winner of county board races since no Republicans filed for election.

Incumbent Democrat Richard Manning faces two Democratic opponents in District 18, which includes Redford Township and part of Livonia. Challengers are William L. Roskelly of Detroit and Betty Zarrella of Redford.

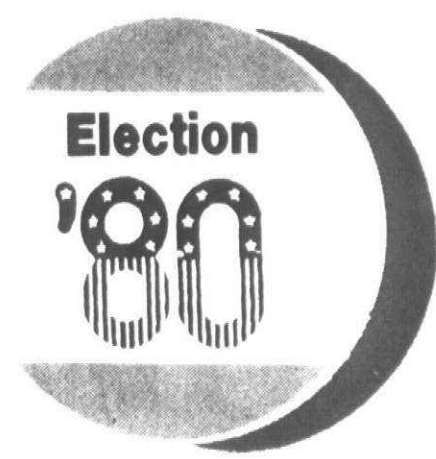

In the 20th District (Garden City and part of Westland), incumbent Thomas Presnell will face Democratic challenger Richard T. Murphy of Garden City in the Aug. 5 primary.

Incumbent Kay L. Beard of Inkster will seek re-election over two Democratic challengers — Wanda L. Daniels of Inkster and Phillip L. Eden of Dearborn Heights — in the 21st District primary. The district includes part of Westland.

IN THE Plymouth-Canton area, incumbent Commissioner R. William Joyner of Plymouth has no Democratic primary opponent. Republicans Jerry E. Boroff, of Wayne and Daniel Kress of Belleville will run off Aug. 5 to challenge Joner in November.

The only area county commissioner district with no August primary race is the 19th (most of Livonia and Northville Township). Candidates on the Nov. 4 ballot will be incumbent Republican Mary Dumas of Livonia and Democrat Karl Lukens of Livonia.

2 for GOP file in 15th

Primary races Aug. 5 are assured in all but one U.S. congressional district in western Wayne and southern Oakland counties.

The filing deadline for congressional candidates was early last week. The withdrawal deadline was Friday afternoon.

IN WAYNE COUNTY districts, incumbent Carl Pursell of Plymouth has a 2nd District Republican primary opponent, Helen T. Gotowka of Dearborn Heights.

While Mrs. Gotowka doesn't live in the district, the U.S. Constitution provides only that a congressman be "an inhabitant" of the state.

The Aug. 5 winner will face Democratic candidate Kathleen F. O'Reilly of Plymouth. The district includes Livonia, Northville and Plymouth.

In the 15th District, incumbent Rep. William D. Ford has no Democratic opponent. Two Republicans will square off Aug. 5 for the right to meet Ford in November. They are Gerald R. Carlson of Dearborn and James A. Caygill of Woodhaven. The 15th includes Westland, Garden City and Canton Township.

In the 17th District (the Farmington area, Southfield, Redford Township and northwest Detroit), incumbent Democrat William M. Brodhead of Detroit has no primary opponent. Republican challengers are Arve Bakken of Redford Township and Raymond Cochran of Detroit.

IN THE 18th District, which includes all of Troy, incumbent U.S. Rep. James Blanchard of Pleasant Ridge has no Democratic primary opponent. Challenger Betty Suida of Royal Oak is the sole Republican candidate.

In the 19th District, which includes the bulk of Oakland County, three Democrats will be on the August ballot — the Rev. Leroy J. Peterson of Birmingham, Wayne E. Daniels of Union Lake and James M. Pidgeon of Bloomfield Hills. The winner will face Rep. William Broomfield, R-Birmingham, running for a 13th term.

Treat Dad to a Beef Cookout

Father's Day is a special day to honor that extra-special dad. To pamper him, put on your chef's hat and prepare a meal featuring his favorite meat — beefsteak, broiled just the way he likes it.

And if you're wondering if your budget is up to it, there is a solution. Steaks for broiling do come at economical prices, although they may be less familiar than the popular porterhouse, T-bone, rib eye, sirloin or tenderloin. Top round steak and chuck blade steak are most eligible for broiling, especially when they are marinated, which tenderizes and at the same time supplies extra flavor.

On Father's Day or any day, use one of these recipes for a beef cookout the whole family will enjoy. It's a delicious way to show Dad just how special he is.

The Warming Oven by Emily Watson

June was the best month of all at the one-room country school. The farm families sent boxes of strawberries to school; they invited the teacher for dinner and sent her home with bouquets of roses, delphinium, and always, a couple of quarts of strawberries.

Harry and Lois Walker were the ones with the beautiful roses and delphiniums. But my favorite stop was the Frederisys. Mrs. Frederisy cooked a big dinner at noon and for supper, during the whole strawberry season, they had strawberry shortcake.

What a fantastic meal! And what a lovely lady. I'll remember Mrs. Frederisy and her strawberry shortcake as long as I live. I never did ask her for her biscuit recipe, guess I thought I'd just be eating hers forever.

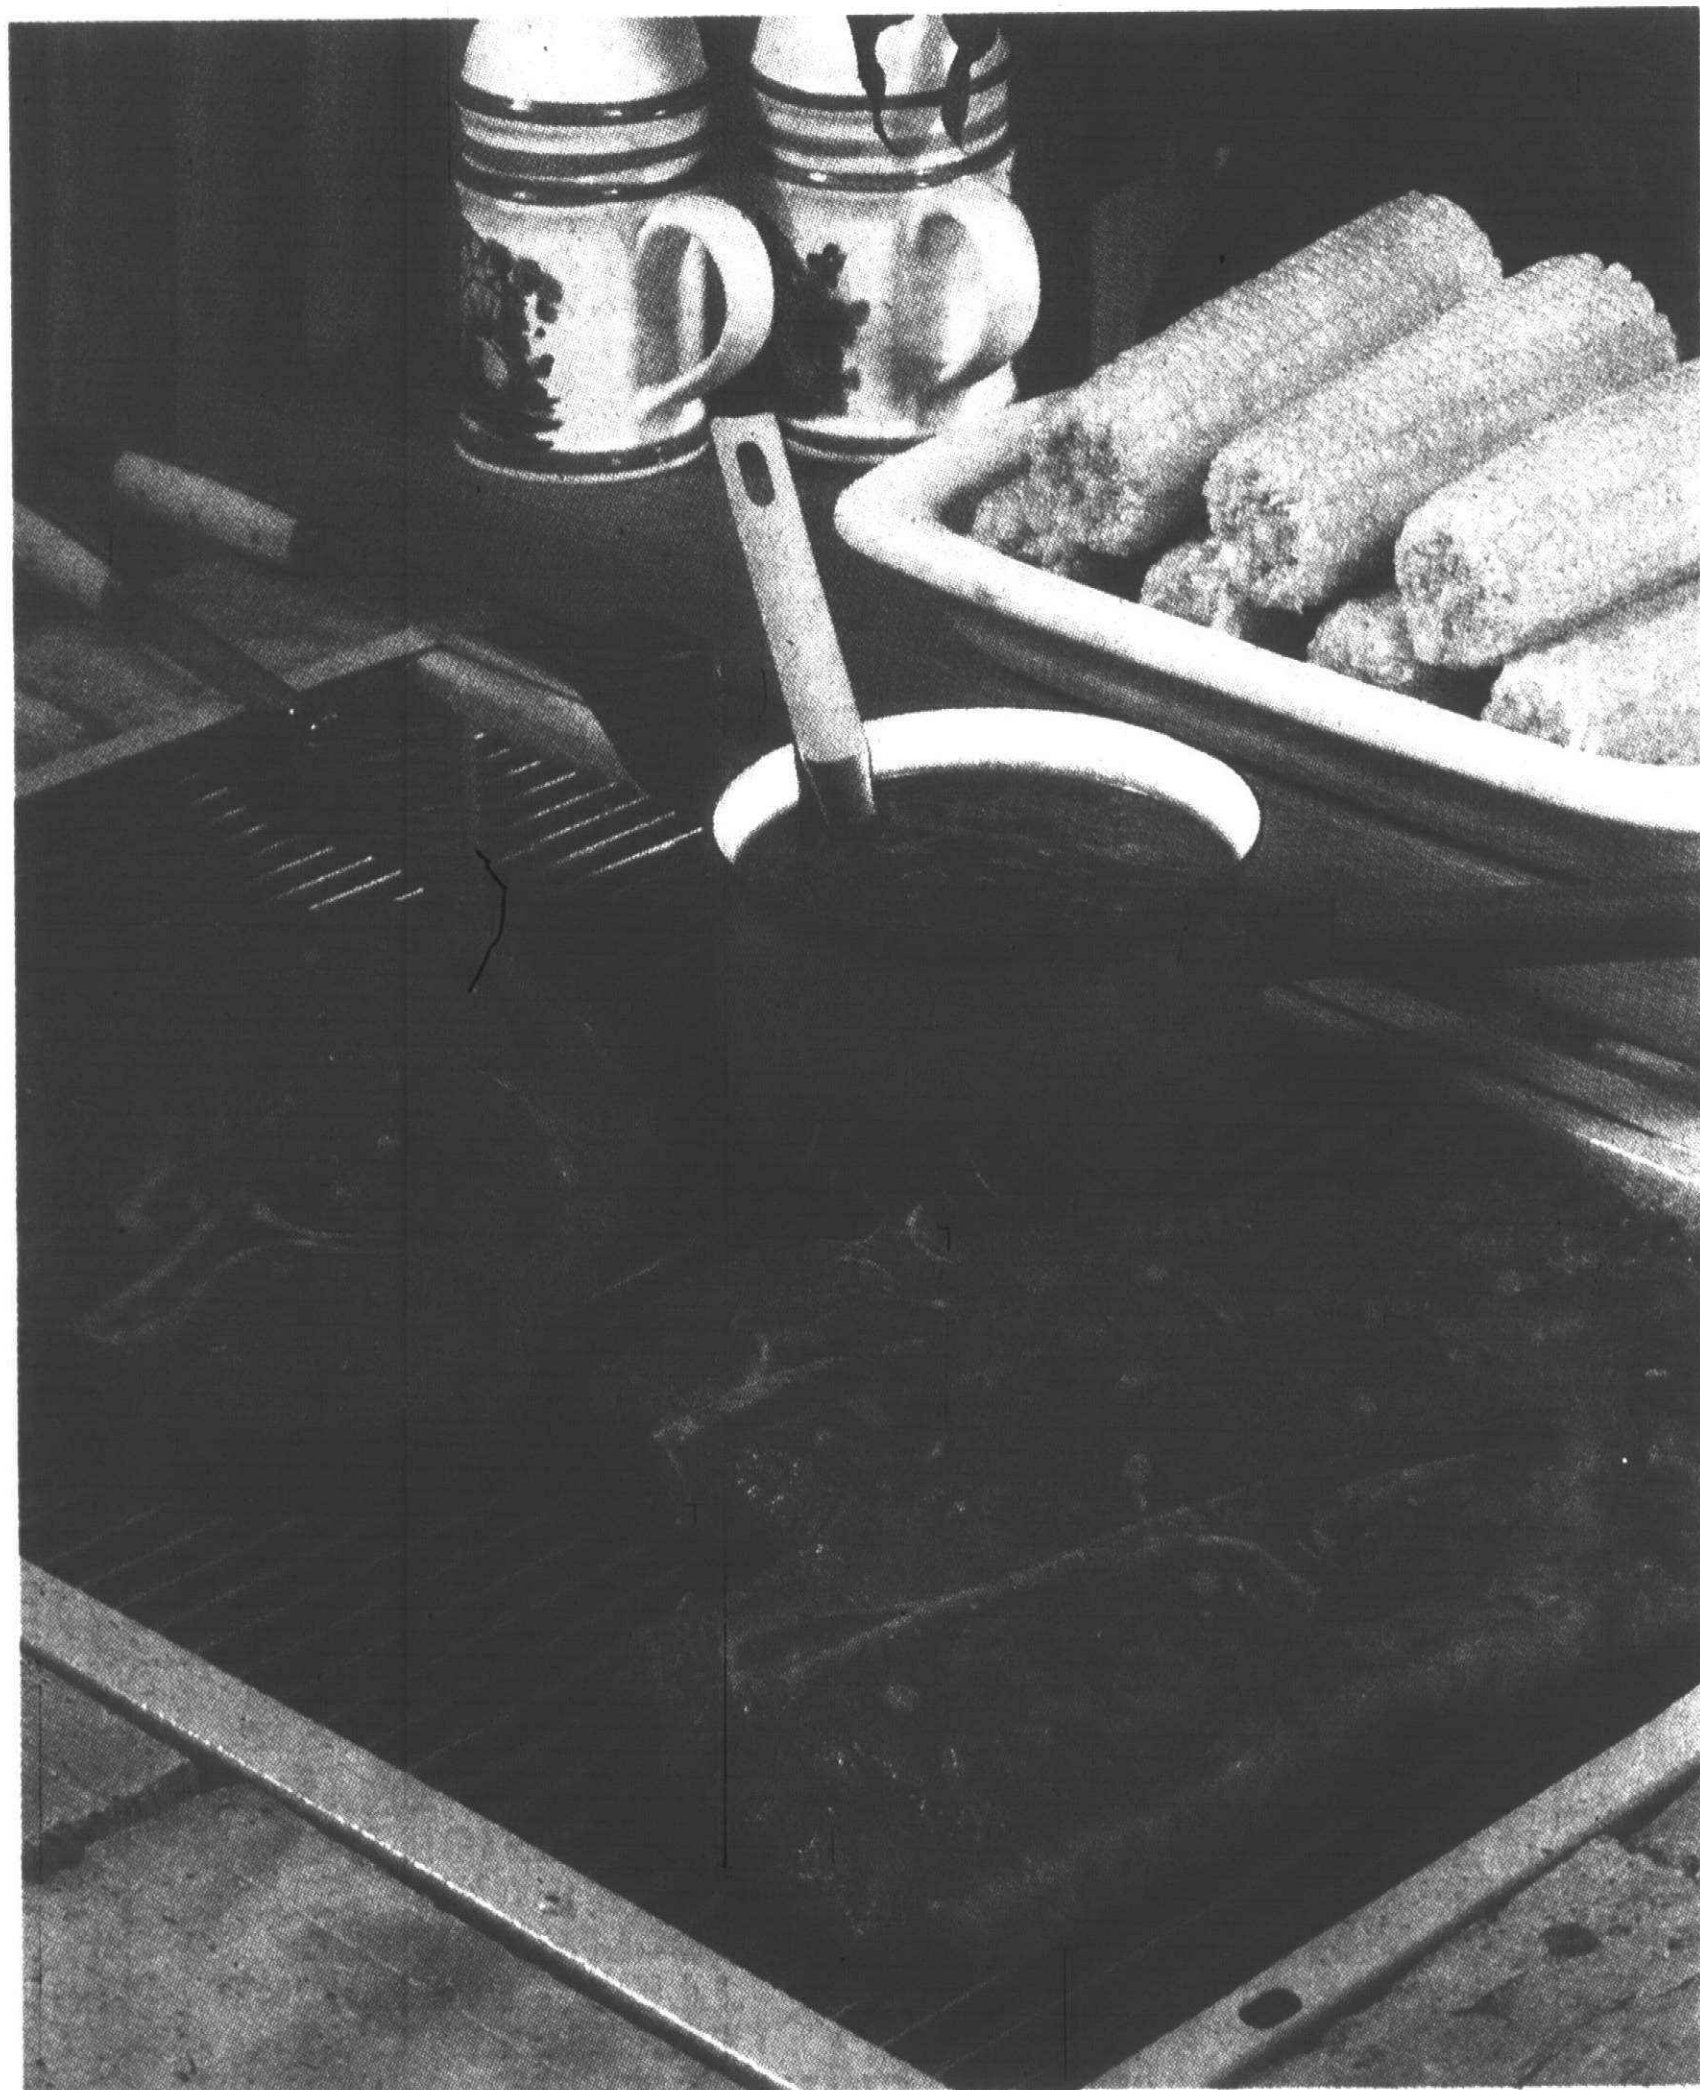

The following is Aunt May's recipe. Sometimes she made individual biscuits, and sometimes she put the whole thing in a pie tin, splitting it for one large shortcake.

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE
2 cups flour
½ tsp. salt
2 tsp. baking powder
3 rounded tbsp. of shortening
¾ cup sour milk
4 tsp. baking soda

Sift together dry ingredients. Rub in the shortening. Add the sour milk and mix until just blended. For individual biscuits, drop on greased cookie sheet. Bake in preheated 400 degree oven for 12 minutes or until golden brown. Serve hot with plenty of butter and crushed, sweetened strawberries.

One lean and waste-free beef top round steak makes many super sandwiches when carved into thin, juicy slices and tucked into pita bread pockets along with sliced crisp vegetables and a very special onion-yogurt sauce.

High in flavor, but comparatively low in cost, are these beef chuck steaks that are marinated before and brushed during broiling with a zesty sauce easily made with an envelope of beefy onion soup mix.

Steak and Sauce Pocket Pleasers

- | | |
|---------------------------------|---|
| 1 broiled beef top round steak* | 1 medium green pepper, cut in thin strips |
| 4 loaves pita bread | 1 large tomato, cut in thin wedges |
| 2 cups finely shredded cabbage | Onion-Yogurt Sauce |

Carve steak in very thin slices across the grain of the meat. Cut loaves in half crosswise and enlarge pockets when necessary. Place cabbage, green pepper and tomato wedges in each pocket using half the vegetables. Add 1 tablespoon onion-yogurt sauce to each. Place 6 to 8 slices of meat in each pocket on top of vegetables and sauce. Place an equal amount of remaining vegetables in pockets. Add additional sauce as desired. 8 servings.

*Broiled Top Round Steak

- | | |
|--|-------------------------------------|
| 1 beef top round steak, cut 1 1/4 inches thick (2 1/2 to 3 pounds) | 1/4 cup salad oil |
| 1/2 cup lemon juice | 1-1/2 teaspoons salt |
| 1/4 cup water | 1/4 teaspoon coarsely ground pepper |

Combine lemon juice, water, salad oil, salt and pepper. Place steak in utility dish or plastic bag; add marinade, turning to coat. Cover dish or tie bag securely and marinate in refrigerator 6 to 8 hours (or overnight), turning at least once.

Place steaks on grill top so surface of meat is 4 to 5 inches from heat and broil at moderate temperature to rare or medium (25 to 35 minutes), turning and brushing with marinade occasionally.

Onion-Yogurt Sauce

- | | |
|-----------------------------------|-------------------------|
| 1 envelope Onion Soup Mix | 1 cup shredded cucumber |
| 1 carton (16 ounces) plain yogurt | |

Combine onion soup mix, yogurt and cucumber, mixing thoroughly. Cover and chill. Yield: 3 cups.

Cookout Chuck Steak

- | | |
|--|-----------------------------------|
| 2 beef chuck blade steaks, cut 3/4 inch thick (approximately 4 pounds) | 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce |
| 1 envelope Beefy Onion Soup Mix | 1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce |
| 1/2 cup dry red wine | 1/4 cup brown sugar |
| 1/4 cup red wine vinegar | 1 tablespoon chili powder |
| | 1/4 teaspoon cumin, if desired |

Combine beefy onion soup mix, wine, vinegar and Worcestershire sauce. Place steaks in utility dish or plastic bag; add marinade, turning to coat. Cover dish or tie bag securely and marinate in refrigerator 6 to 8 hours (or overnight), turning at least once. Drain marinade from meat and combine with tomato sauce, brown sugar, chili powder and cumin, if desired, in small saucepan; cook slowly 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Place steaks on grill so surface of meat is 4 inches from heat. Broil at moderate temperature 7 to 10 minutes on each side, depending upon degree of doneness desired (rare or medium). Brush steaks with sauce occasionally while broiling. 6 to 8 servings.

Onion Chiliburgers

- | | |
|--|---|
| 2-1/2 pounds ground beef | 1/3 cup chili sauce |
| 1 envelope Onion or Beefy Onion Soup Mix | 2 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper |
| 1/3 cup water | 1/4 teaspoon pepper |

Combine ground beef, onion soup mix, water, chili sauce, green pepper and pepper, mixing lightly until ingredients are evenly distributed. Shape into 8 patties 3/4 inch thick. Place on grill or on rack in broiler pan 3 to 4 inches from heat. Broil 7 to 8 minutes on first side, turn and broil 6 to 8 minutes, to degree of doneness desired. Serve on split Kaiser rolls or hamburger buns. 8 servings.

Byrd's Kitchen

by Vivian Byrd

The day the oven went out

The situation felt like it had dragged on for months, though it actually lasted a few weeks.

Two days before a big dinner at my house, the oven went haywire. Setting the dial at 350 degrees sometimes resulted in a 500-degree temperature. The next time it might creep up to 200 degrees.

Obviously, the thermostat was out. No problem, right? Just call a repairman. Meanwhile, we could use that fancy toaster oven that does everything but arrange flowers for a dinner table centerpiece.

Need I tell you the repairman was not sure he could get parts for that particular model? Or about the time it took?

Maybe it happens to everyone like this, and only seems that it just happens to me.

And then the clincher. While waiting for the part to come in (elusive things, thermostats), that fancy toaster oven, still under warranty, died. Croaked. Went out without even a sigh.

No last gasp of the timer light trying to make it through one more piece of toast. No flickering coils. Nothing.

Two-and-a-half weeks, they said; it had to go back to the manufacturer. At three weeks, I called. And at four weeks. Five weeks minus one day, we brought it home again.

By then, the new thermostat was in and working perfectly.

DURING THOSE weeks we cooked on the stove-top. In the electric frypan and on the gas grill, options which allowed for a variety of meals.

The oven we missed the most was toast. As soon as the thing was repaired, we all developed overpowering cravings for crispy, golden slices of bread.

All along, breakfast had been the one meal that, without baking capability, was unsatisfying. Except for weekends when there was more time for goodies such as the from-scratch pancakes we discovered. These were unanimously pronounced "perfect."

Also during this time, at an outdoor fair, we discovered funnel cakes. This is a delightful Pennsylvania Dutch invention, a pancake-like batter that is spiraled into a skillet of hot oil and fried briefly. When done, it is sprinkled with confectioners sugar and eaten warm. We also tried them with syrup and while it was quite tasty, we preferred the traditional confectioners' sugar version. Making them is fun, more like play than work.

SATURDAY'S PERFECT PANCAKES

2 eggs
2 tbsp. melted margarine or butter
2 cups buttermilk

2 cups flour
2 tsp. baking powder
4 tsp. sugar
½ tsp. salt

Preheat the grill or an electric frypan to 400 degrees. Lightly grease the pan with oil, using a basting brush. Using an electric mixer, beat the eggs, shortening and milk in a large bowl until well-blended. Add the remaining ingredients and continue beating until mixed. Depending on the size pancakes you wish to make, spoon or pour the batter onto the grill. Turn the pancakes when bubbles cover the top and the edges begin to look slightly browned. Makes about 20 three-inch pancakes.

FUNNEL CAKES

Vegetable oil for deep frying
2 cups unsifted flour
1 tbsp. sugar
1 tsp. double-acting baking powder
¼ tsp. salt
2 eggs, lightly beaten
1 to 1½ cups milk

Pour oil into a heavy 12- to 14-inch skillet to a depth of about 1½ to 2 inches and heat until the oil is very hot but not smoking.

Combine the flour, sugar, baking powder and salt and sift together into a deep bowl. Make a well in the center and pour in the eggs and 1 cup of the milk. Gradually mix the dry ingredients into the liquid until the batter is smooth.

To make the cakes, pour ½ cup of batter into a funnel with a tip opening approximately ½ inch in diameter. Keep the spout closed and control the flow of batter with the forefinger of your other hand. Dribble the batter directly into the hot oil, moving the funnel in a circle to build a snail-like coil of 3 or 4 rings about 6 inches in diameter. Dribble two or three lines of batter across the spiral (somewhat like a wagon wheel) so it cooks in one piece. Deep-fry for about 2 minutes on each side, turning once with a slotted spatula. Remove to paper towels and sprinkle with confectioners' sugar or serve warm with molasses or maple syrup. Batter makes about 12 cakes.

For your copy of "10 Fabulous Desserts," send $1.50 and a stamped, self-addressed business size envelope to Vivian Byrd, P.O. Box 1024, Birmingham 48012. Allow four weeks for delivery.

He's a free-wheeling cook

"To read your column, one would think that the only things vegetarians eat are eggs and cheese." This criticism came recently not from some faceless, irate reader but from my own father.

What's more, his criticism is justified. My father is on a cholesterol-restricted diet on his doctor's orders and is, consequently, very conscious of the high cholesterol levels in both eggs and cheese.

Although a relatively small percentage of the population is restricting cholesterol on doctor's orders, medical evidence points to a potential danger for all of us in not restricting our intake.

The problem is that eggs and cheese are such easy substitutes for meat. They fit neatly into the visual picture we have of a balanced meal.

Segmented plates are shown on nutrition posters. One wedge holds a green vegetable, one wedge holds a yellow or orange vegetable, one holds a starch, and one, important wedge holds the protein for the meal, usually depicted as red meat, poultry, fish, eggs, or cheese. If we eat a meal that lacks such an easily identified protein component, we assume that we are not getting the protein we need.

A FURTHER "problem" with eggs and cheese is that they are so versatile. Simply put, they are fun to cook.

Depending on one's inclination, these two foods can be whipped up into a five-minute, homey meal or can be assembled into an exotic gourmet repast. A further incentive to the cook lies in the universal appeal of eggs and cheese.

From the scrambled eggs served the toddler to the grilled cheese and pizza enjoyed by the school child to the happy marriage of both foods in the quiche, eggs and cheese enjoy a popularity probably unequaled by any other foods.

A final temptation to over use cheese and eggs is economic. Shell fish are also rich in cholesterol, but few of us have budgets that permit over-indulgence in shrimp, lobster, or crab. Cheese and eggs, in contrast, are reasonably priced, making affordable in dollars what is not affordable in terms of health.

Despite the tempting factors, it is dangerous to allow cholesterol-rich foods to become the backbone of any diet. Although enjoyable as occasional treats, their use should be carefully limited.

In the case of a vegetarian diet, this requires re-education and a repatterning of eating habits. The protein portion of a meal should be viewed, not as being provided by a single source, but by a combination of foods. Foods we do not normally think of as protein sources often do contain incomplete

A Question of Taste

By Hilary Keating Callaghan

Proteins. Proper combinations of these foods result in the formation of complete, usable proteins.

I will discuss these combinations in a future column.

IT IS ALSO helpful to realize that we do not require huge amounts of protein and that, in fact, most Americans consume far more protein than their bodies need.

Thus, it is not necessarily harmful to eat some meals that lack protein but which are otherwise nutritious. My father, for example, will breakfast on Gazpacho during the summer — unorthodox, perhaps, but healthy.

He makes a superb Gazpacho in large batches. If you stop in at my parents' home in the summer, he is likely to offer you a bowl of this delicious, cold soup in the same way that someone else might offer you a cold drink.

The recipe he uses is from the Pontchartrain Wine Cellars and I am passing it along for anyone who might wish to try it, if not for breakfast then for a light summer lunch or a delightful first course at dinner.

At other times, my father fixes a turkey-bean-rice combination for a low-cholesterol breakfast. He is a creative, free-wheeling cook, and the ingredients in this dish vary from day to day, depending on his mood, the season of the year, and what left-overs happen to be in the refrigerator on a given morning.

This versatile dish can be served hot, as a casserole, in winter or cold, as a salad, in summer.

IF YOU PREFER your first meal of the day to be more conventional, you might want to try this for lunch or dinner.

Vegetarians might try substituting frozen tofu for the turkey. Simply freeze the desired amount of tofu for several days. Thaw the tofu, squeeze out any excess liquid and crumble the dry curd. The texture will be similar to that of ground meat.

The final recipe is one which I enjoy. It is extremely tasty, very inexpensive, simple to prepare, and low in cholesterol.

The long cooking time makes this a perfect meal for those days when you must be out of the house just before dinner, running errands or attending Little League games, and need a good, hearty meal ready to go on the table when you walk back in the door.

GAZPACHO

3¼ lb. tomatoes (about 12)
½ cup peanut oil

½ cup white vinegar
2 tsp. sugar
½ tsp. black pepper
1 tsp. paprika
1 Tbsp. salt
½ tsp. MSG (optional)
½ cucumber, peeled and chopped
½ green pepper, seeded and chopped
½ onion, chopped
1½ tsp. chopped garlic
1 hard-boiled egg, sieved (optional)
Pinch caraway seed

Chop tomatoes. Stir in oil and vinegar. Mix well. Add sugar, black pepper, paprika, salt, and MSG. Stir in cucumber, green pepper, onion, garlic, egg, and caraway. Chill. Garnish with croutons. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

BREAKFAST BEANS

¾ cup cooked rice
½ cup finely diced cooked turkey or 4 oz. tofu, diced
¼ cup canned kidney beans, drained, or baked beans
½ small tomato, diced
2 Tbsp. diced red onion
2 Tbsp. diced green pepper
2 Tbsp. diced celery
1 Tbsp. taco sauce
Salt to taste
½ tsp. chili powder (optional)
3 or 4 dashes tabasco sauce (optional)

Combine all ingredients. Serve hot or cold. Makes 1 serving.

CREOLE PINTO BEANS

1½ cups dried pinto beans
1 can (28 oz.) tomatoes, cut up
1½ cups chopped onion
1½ cups green pepper
2 small cloves garlic, crushed
1 bay leaf
2¼ tsp. salt
¾ tsp. thyme
¼ tsp. pepper
4½ cups hot cooked rice

In large saucepan, cover beans with water and soak overnight or bring to a boil, cook 2 minutes. Remove from heat, cover and let stand one hour. Add remaining ingredients, except rice. If necessary, add water to cover. Bring to a boil, cover, and simmer 1½ to 2 hours or until beans are tender, adding more water if necessary. Remove bay leaf. Serve over rice. Makes 6 servings. Serve with a mixed green salad.

Many homemakers avoid scrubbing pots very often by cooking in large quantities and storing meal-sized portions of food in the freezer in special sealable plastic bags.

You can combine home-cooked flavor and economy with boil-in-the-bag convenience.

The VIEW from CANTON CENTER

EVERY ONCE in a while there is mention of some local high school graduate who is working in radio while attending college. A call to Jeff Cardinal at WSDP, the Centennial Educational Park radio station, resulted in an update on what has become of the grads whose introduction to the field of communication was at WSDP.

Jeff is proud of them — and justly so. Here is a brief rundown:

MIKE SCHULTE, a 1978 graduate of Plymouth Canton High School, was in his sophomore year when a friend took him over to WSDP. That was the beginning. He earned his third class license in electronics and in September 1977, his first class. Mike was at the radio station from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m.

He worked with Harry Owen of WJBK TV2, who was chief engineer of WSDP. Through him, he worked two summers in the engineering department of TV2. Now a junior at Michigan State University, he is beginning his third summer at WJBK. He is chief engineer at WSDP and installed the new transmitters.

"Mike learned a lot on his own," said Jeff. "He is a very bright young man. One of his jobs as chief engineer is seeing we follow all the FCC rules and regulations."

He has been working weekends at WKAR TV in by

ELLIE GRAHAM

Lansing at the master control unit while attending EMU.

At WSDP he served as news director during his junior year and program director his senior year.

KITTY UNDERWOOD is another WSDP alumna who stepped into a professional broadcasting job in her freshman year at college. She attends EMU and is No. 2 newscaster at WKAR, Lansing's public radio station and the second largest FM station in the state.

She did just about everything at WSDP — disc jockey, news, and program director her senior year. She went off with an audition tape made at WSDP and landed a full-time professional position.

"It's unusual for a student to get a job like that," said Jeff. "But she is outstanding. It's also unusual to switch on your car radio and hear one of your former students on the air."

ANDY MELIN does play-by-play for the MSU hockey games on WKAR. He is the first student ever to travel with the team to broadcast its out-of-town games. He landed a professional job on radio his freshman year.

He was sports director for two years at WSDP and a sports stringer for the Canton and Plymouth Observers while in high school.

JOHN HEWITT was sports director at WSDP. He went off to EMU with his audition tape and, beginning in his freshman year, does a sports segment and a regular news spot on WJAM in Lansing.

"He does a superb job," said Jeff Cardinal.

JOHN VAN WAGONER works for information services at MSU. He was a sports announcer at WSDP.

"John is always in the press box at Spartan Stadium for the football games. He worked with ABC when they were there last fall to cover a game. And I believe he's on hand for all their basketball games, too," Jeff said.

PAUL SINCOCK worked all four years as a student at Central Michigan University. He did news, promotion and was station manager of WMHW in Mt. Pleasant. He was offered a job at a commercial station in Saginaw.

TIM ADLER, former news director at the high school radio station worked for WWJ and is now principal morning person on WEMU, at Eastern Michigan University.

BOB DELANO is now in charge of the Armed Forces News Network out of Seoul, Korea. This covers both radio and television.

"He's outstanding," said his former mentor.

"He's won every award you can win for performance and production."

JOHN DOBLE went to Northern Michigan University. While there, he worked for the public broadcasting station in Marquette.

He now is assistant news director at a Port Huron radio station and has won several UPI awards.

DIANE HARDER worked with Jeff to get the Community Notes Program off the ground at WSDP. She went on to work for WEMU (at Eastern Michigan University) where she was in charge of promotions.

She stayed on for the fall auction and for two years has been membership editor of "On-Cue" magazine.

TOM COOPER worked for a television station in Kalamazoo. CRAIG DOSTIE had a part-time job at WMUK at Western Michigan University and also worked at WABX. LYNN JASIN became chief engineer at the student radio station at WMU. MIKE RADZIK has been news director at WAAM, Ann Arbor for two years. Mike came back to speak at the WSDP banquet. He has survived the sale of the radio station and five general managers. MARY GUREGIAN, who did news and a music shift at WSDP is now public relations person for Big Brothers and Big Sisters. KEN ZONKA and PAUL TRIN- KA worked on the radio station at Michigan Tech. Paul was a news director at WSDP.

Fiegel students tour community

The grand finale of the tour was a trip to Cloverdale's for ice cream cones. Tammy Miller, above, and Nick Haremski, below, make their cones last as long as possible.

Third-graders in Phyllis Mitchell's class at Fiegel Elementary School went on their spring tour of the community last week. Besides visiting the Board of Education Office,

Mettetal Airport, Dearborn and by train to Ann Arbor, they stopped for lunch at the Plymouth Hilton Inn in Plymouth Township. (Staff photos by Gary Caskey)

Art, science combined in wildlife art contest

Art and science join hands each spring at Pioneer Middle School in the annual Wildlife Art Contest. The purpose of the project which is supported by the student council, is to incorporate art in science classes, calling attention to the beauty of many forms of nature.

Pioneers teachers who coordinated the contest were Taffy Farrand, art teacher, and Carol Guregian, science teacher. More than 300 sixth graders participated with works in water colors, pastels, pen and ink, pencil and mobiles.

Judges for the show were Barbara Bray and Dee Schulte, members of the Plymouth Community Arts Council. Both are professional art teachers. The show was judged last week when all the works were assembled in the school cafeteria.

WINNERS WERE:

• Water colors: Louie Stockwell, first; Cynthia Johnston, second; Richard Pauli, third; and Asta Zinbo, honorable mention.

Meet Elaine Powers.

The figure control system that has helped thousands of American women to lose pounds and inches was developed by Richard Proctor — a man with a mission.

His mission — to give women a balanced approach to trimming and slimming. He believes that any system which does not take the whole person into account will not work.

At Elaine Powers, his unique, smart eating plan is just as important as the exercise program. And the exercise is geared to what Richard Proctor believes women are willing and able to do to achieve results.

He has personally designed the exercise machines after experimentation and in-use testing with thousands of women — and they are unique in the exercise field.

But, beyond the eating and exercise program — Richard Proctor believes in the importance of a cheerful, friendly atmosphere where women can find support for their efforts and friends to help them along.

"It's not easy to change old habits," says Proctor. "At Elaine Powers we help women to change their attitudes as well as their dress size."

A native of Sacramento, California, who lives by the same rule of sensible eating and exercise he advocates — Richard Proctor has proven that his system gets results that extend beyond "body beautiful" goals. "Ultimately," he states, "it does wonderful things for your life."

Indian Princesses, Guides, Maidens in track meet

All the young folks in the tribe showed their athletic prowess in the recent track meet sponsored by the YMCA's Indian Guides. The early evening event at the Central Middle School track attracted about 150 participants and spectators.

The meet was arranged by the Hopi tribe whose chief is Gary Kroll, and the Sioux tribe, headed by Gerard L'Heureux.

Everyone who participated received a ribbon with first second and third place ribbons awarded for each event. The young athletes were divided into categories according to their age. There were separate events for the 5-6 year-olds, 7-8 year-olds, 9-10 year-olds, and 11 years of age and older. Competitions were dart throw, standing long jump, running long jump, two-man relay and 50-yard dash.

The Plymouth-Canton YMCA sponsors the organization which involves fathers and sons in the Indian Guides and Indian Trailblazers and mothers and daughters in the Indian Princesses and Indian Maidens.

Residents interested joining the group can call Rick Messerly, Indian Guides federation chief, at 459-2098, or Cathy Fillion, Indian Maidens and Trailettes federation chief, at 455-7181.

The tribes are looking forward to a spring campout in June, the Plymouth July 4 parade, the family picnic in August, and the Fall Festival booth, the Indian-a-rama and the fall campout in September.

David Holmes (left) and Jeannine Faunce fought it out at the finish line in the 50-yard dash.

Color this sundown so fine and mellow

It's sundown at the Boar's Head Inn in Charlottesville, Va., and I am sitting on the balcony watching the ducks.

Their end-of-the-evening drama is being played out on a long scenic pond that crosses my vision from left to right. A great clipped hillside of grass rises out of the opposite bank to a crest of large brick houses.

If I had more energy, I would find my camera, but we have been driving the Blue Ridge and photographing Jefferson's home at Monticello all day, and I am tired.

You know the feeling. My shoes are full of sand but I'm too tired to take them off.

It's nice to just sit here with a gin and tonic in hand, watching the theater of the birds.

In Act I, four white geese swam directly to the dock at the left end of the pool and began to bathe. They splashed, arched their wings and fluttered their tails wildly.

Satisfied, they climbed the bank to the road. One sat on one side of the road, two on the other and the fourth in the middle. He stayed there until a station wagon came to a full stop at his right wing and honked him out of the way.

Downstage, three Canadian geese began Act Two with a motorized run up the waterway. They splashed furiously and then rose in unison to caw and screech their way into the eastern sky.

I had no idea there was so much going on in other creatures' lives.

Act Three showed two large, long-necked water birds walking down the great green hill to the water's edge. On cue, across the pond, four geese moved directly to their landing site, washed their wings and joined the two birds for an uphill climb across the mowed lawn of the hill.

Now you might think that this is a very small thing to write a travel column about. As I look out now, another cast of characters crosses the pond, ducking and splashing. Two mallards make a backlit wake against the setting sun. A red barn on the hilltop catches the sun's last rays.

Travel is more than touring and flying and taking pictures. It is stretching leisurely on a porch at sunset. It is watching the world go by.

It's a moment like this, when it is eventide on Planet Earth and there is no admission charge to the show.

Party on Little Traverse

Celebrate they will the summer that was during the Little Traverse Bay Historic Festival June 18-22 in Petoskey.

An around-the-turn-of-the-century remembrance in the north country will be the setting for events like a tug-o-war across 2½ miles of water, Sousa concerts in the parks, dancing under the stars, barbershop singing, antique show and sale, ice cream socials, lumberjack demonstrations, moonlight excursions on the bay, a 10-kilometer race, and, of course, "some good old-fashioned hospitality, too," according to Joe McCarthy, festival director.

A train run will connect Petoskey and Mackinaw City twice-daily. Two refurbished coach cars and a reserved lounge car will carry passengers from Petoskey at 9 a.m. for the two-hour ride to Mackinaw City. Departing time from there is 7 p.m.

From Mackinaw City, the train will leave for Petoskey at 11:30 a.m. and make the return run at 4:30 p.m.

Onboard, food, beverages and entertainment. Tickets will sell for $10 round-trip, on a first-come, first-served basis.

For information on any or all of the above, call 1-616-347-0200, or write Little Traverse Bay Festival, P.O. Box 180, Petoskey 49770.

• DUE SOUTHWEST

The Michigan Geology and Gemcraft Society will hold its sixth annual educational seminar from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday-Sunday, June 28-29, at Lake Michigan College, Benton Harbor.

Scheduled are lectures and demonstrations on jewelry design, silver casting, filigree, paleontology, archaeology, mineral identification, faceting, etcetera. Cost is $8 a day and advance registration not necessary. For information, write Kay Henderson, MGAGS Seminar, 173 Wallace Dr., Saline 48276; or call 1-429-7145.

Treasure at Shedd Aquarium

Treasure, pirates and buccaneers — a quick description of the "Treasure of the Conception," at Chicago's Shedd Aquarium this summer.

The exhibit is part of a $40 million treasure recovered from a Spanish galleon that sank over 350 years ago off the coast of the Dominican Republic.

In 1641, a Spanish treasure fleet, with the admiral's ship Conception, left the New World for Europe, filled with gold, silver and other wealth. Conception sank in a violent sea storm, treasure and all.

For the last 300 years salvagers searched for it in vain. In fact, since 1940, over a dozen expeditions — including one led by Jacques Cousteau — sought Conception, but failed. In 1978, Pennsylvania Burt Webber finally located the ship's remains, heavily encrusted in coral.

They found thousands of the legendary pieces of eight, fragments of rare Chinese Ming porcelain, elaborate gold chains worn by noblemen, royal seals and silver table settings, candlesticks and candle snuffers, even shards of pottery that once contained indigo and cochineal dyes.

The Shedd Aquarium is at 1200 S. Lake Shore Dr. on Chicago's lakefront.

upcoming things to do

The Jackson County Fair is again bringing top name entertainment — comedian Bob Hope, as well as singers Kenny Rogers and Dottie West.

Hope will be performing at 7 and 9:30 p.m. Friday, Aug. 8. Rogers and West will give concerts at 7 and 9:30 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 7. Tickets for all four shows are on sale now at the Fair

Ticket Office, 200 W. Ganson St., Jackson, MI 49201.

Ticket prices for all performances are: $12 reserved seats, $8 for track seats, and $6 for grandstand. Mail orders will be accepted when accompanied by a money order or certified check.

Little Rock, Ark.

Sometimes you meet a town that you only have time to shake hands with, even though you'd like to know it better. Little Rock, Ark., is one of those towns.

By IRIS SANDERSON JONES

I had dinner here, high above the river, at a place called Restaurant Jacques and Suzanne. It is on the 30th floor of the First National Building downtown and has won both Travel Holiday awards and the coveted four-star rating from Mobil Travel Guide.

Nobody can rate a restaurant on the basis of one meal, but I could easily die of pleasure and obesity if I spent much time in a place like that.

In the line of duty, I joined a group of other people in trying at least one bite of several things on the menu: snails served out-of-the-shell in herb butter, turtle soup floating with cream, veal liver and onions, filet of sole bonne femme, chocolate-brandy mousse, Grand Marnier soufflé.

That's one part of Little Rock I would like to shake hands with again. While I was researching that meal, several friends were down at Union Station Square, which is still used by Amtrak but is primarily an old railroad station full of new restaurants.

Busters. Pinball and beer at Slick Willy's. Dinner at Track's Inn. A little after-dinner exercise at the Sidetrack Disco.

All of this is across the street from a big yellow building called Victory Square and the old Terminal Hotel, all of which are being renovated as part of a renewal project in downtown Little Rock.

THERE ONCE WERE cable cars running from the station to the downtown area, and tourist officials hope that they will run again for tourists by the time this refurbishing is completed in 1981.

The second thing I did while passing through Little Rock was tour the Quapaw Quarter and some of the special buildings along its edges. This is the luxurious heart of old Little Rock, and like many other deteriorating inner city areas it has been rediscovered and is being restored.

There's a walking tour of some of the grand old houses. You can take guided tours of the Old State House with its colonnaded front. But the best stop is in MacArthur Park, named for Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who was born in the old arsenal building here in 1880.

The arsenal now houses the city's Museum of Science and History, next door to the Arkansas Art Center. Children love the Yellow Space Place, designed for them, and the Children's Theater.

I'm told that the Arts Center's Vineyard in the Park serves some of the best food in town on weekdays.

One of the things I like to do when I am passing through a town, on the way to other destinations, is to identify places worth coming back to. One of those is the Arkansas Territorial Restoration, one of the earliest restoration projects in the country.

I've seen pictures of what this area looked like in 1939. A dilapidated old city block full of rotten siding, rusty signs, billboards and junk. Any bulldozer would delight in knocking it down, and one almost did.

A woman called Louise Loughborough, a descendant of the last Territorial governor, saw something else: three original buildings from the early 19th century, the oldest houses in Little Rock.

The gardens throughout the Arkansas Territorial Restoration at Little Rock provide a father and son time to discuss whatever. The restoration project contains 13 original structures dating from the 1820s to the 1840s and once was a dilapidated city block of rotten siding, rusty signs and junk.

white clapboard and red brick in a fenced-in area next to a large visitor's center. A fourth house was moved from across the street, and a fifth (a rural log cabin) is under construction nearby.

It is one of the finest small examples of restored Americana that I have seen. The home of Jesse Hinderliter has an authentic 1826 kitchen building, original floors and log walls in one of the two residential rooms, and the furniture from a grog shop and retail store that were also part of the building.

One of the things I learned on my way through the grog shop is that grog is watered-down rum.

The print shop, with its flat-bed press, was the site of the Arkansas Gazette in 1824. Little Rock was a forest with a few cow tracks in those days. There were about 60 buildings in the town.

A nice modern addition to the Arkansas Territorial Restoration property is a collection of Arkansas crafts for sale in the visitor center. I saw a hand-made king-sized quilt for $100, which is considerably cheaper than what it would cost anywhere I have visited in Michigan.

Little Rock and North Little Rock are often used by travelers as launching-off places for trips west or south to Oklahoma, Texas or Louisiana, or for an Ozark Mountain vacation in the hot springs or mountain villages of the north and east of the state.

I moved on to Greer's Ferry Lake, a man-made lake now busy with water recreation facilities, and to the Ozark Folk Center at Mountain View to the north.

More on that next week.

Defense center tour possible

By DORIS SCHARFENBERG

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. — VIPs or special interest groups planning a meeting in this popular convention city can arrange a tour of NORAD, the North American Air Defense headquarters deep in the heart of nearby Cheyenne Mountain.

NORAD is the nerve center that will sound the alarm in case of aerial attack against North America. A computerized sentry station, NORAD keeps track of foreign aircraft, missiles or satellites that could threaten the U.S. or Canada.

It is staffed by American and Canadian forces, their Strategic and Tactical Air Commands, the Air National Guard, U.S. Navy and several civilian agencies and is in touch with the Pentagon, White House, Ottawa and major military checkpoints around the world.

THE HEART OF the complex is a theater-like room with balconies of computer consoles keyed into electronic conference facilities. Computer-drawn maps can be projected onto two 12-x-16-foot screens.

Instant-by-instant movements of unidentified missiles, aircraft and ships are superimposed on the maps along with all pertinent information needed to aid in a response decision.

You enter by bus through a 60-foot-high tunnel, part of a grid of enormous tunnels spreading through the mountain. Cameras and tape recorders are not allowed.

DEEP INSIDE are 15 connected steel buildings, from one to three stories high, mounted on shock-absorbing springs and standing completely away from the tunnel walls.

The first massive metal doors are only matched at Fort Knox. In an amazing pattern of stairs, hallways and small rooms, people monitor the weather conditions around the world, sunspots, space phenomenon and earthquakes.

The effect of weather on military operations is known but the influence of solar patterns on radar and communications systems is only beginning to be understood.

Unfortunately, not all comers are received, but a letter to the NORAD Public Affairs Office, Peterson Air Force Base, Colorado Springs, Colo. 80914 may bring your group an invitation. Or call 1-303-635-8911.

Steve McQueen gets ready to battle it out with a group of cattle rustlers in the outdoor adventure drama "Tom Horn."

Steve McQueen isn't quite right as Western hero

Steve McQueen has a terse, laconic style that appears ideally suited for a Western hero.

Tom Horn — Indian scout, Rough Rider, bounty hunter — led a life that was ideally suited for a movie. Put McQueen in Horn's saddle and the result should be a smooth ride.

But it isn't.

There's a burr under that saddle. How big a burr depends on your expectations for a movie form that almost became extinct — the Western.

The modern Western springs from two molds: one fashions a contemporary adventure using a Western locale or Western-type characters, such as the "Electric Cowboy."

The other uses the familiar clichés of the old West (cowboys vs. Indians, cattlemen vs. homesteaders, lawmen vs. outlaws) but reinterprets them according to contemporary thought on social structure and institutions.

"Tom Horn" is such a film.

Set in the Wyoming Territory in 1901, it spans a short period when Horn was hired by a cattlemen's association to rid the area of rustlers. He did so in the most direct way, with his rifle.

McQUEEN, WHO hasn't made a film in several years, eases his way into the role but fails to create a definitive character. Instead, we get ambiguity. Is Horn candid or just simple-minded? A shy cowboy or a vicious killer?

The fault isn't all McQueen's. The rapid direction of William Wiard and the muddled script of Thomas McGuane don't give him much help.

When the filmmakers eschewed the colorful adventures of Horn's life to recount this sorry phase, they diluted the character's appeal and importance.

With the rise of a middle class of landowners, Horn becomes a pawn in the transition of power from those who handled guns to those who wielded political clout.

Therein lies a message the heavy-handed script insists on underscoring: the landowners take over from the gunfighters and are just as ruthless.

In one scene, Horn asks the U.S. marshal: "What's the difference between an assassin and a marshal?" "The marshal gets regular checks" is the reply.

It's a sharp piece of dialogue but not enough to sustain an entire movie, particularly when there is a plodding story with very little suspense or excitement.

Every scene is predictable with the exception of some confusing flashbacks. They show Horn romancing a schoolteacher (Linda Evans). She's an avowed adventuress from Hawaii, and how she turned up in this dreary town is anyone's guess. Whether she was a real person or not, she doesn't fit into the film.

What does fit are the dark interiors, muddled streets and weathered buildings photographed in stunning contrast to the beautiful mountainous landscape.

But photography can't substitute for interesting people or events.

When you see a slow-motion sequence of a rider shot off his horse (shades of Sam Peckinpah), and you find yourself admiring the camera work, you know there is something wrong with the script — like lack of dramatic focus, straining for effects and a murky morality.

The hypocrisy of the cattlemen pales beside the ease with which Horn dispatches people.

"Tom Horn" set out to be a serious Western and ended up a serious mix-up.

Moriarty leading workshop

Actor Michael Moriarty will bring instructors from his Potter's Field Theater Company in New York to Detroit's Orchestra Hall to present a three-day workshop for professional actors.

The workshop will end with a performance of Shakespeare's "Vaudeville" at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Moriarty currently is on tour starring in the play "Whose Life Is It Anyway?" through Sunday at the Birmingham Theater.

Assisted by a grant from the Michigan Council of the Arts and Friends for Orchestra Hall, Moriarty with Potter's Field professionals Jay McCormack, M. Tullis Sessions and Evelyn Seubert will conduct workshops for 20 Michigan actors beginning at 2 p.m. Wednesday and continuing through Friday afternoon.

Morning and afternoon sessions will concentrate on Shakespeare's works. A few scholarships for the workshops remain open.

Actors interested in participating should call 833-3702 for information.

THE POTTER'S FIELD Theater Company's residency at Orchestra Hall ends with a public performance of Shakespeare's "Vaudeville" — scenes, songs and sonnets from Shakespeare's writings.

Metric distances create confusion

A meter is a unit of measurement. One meter is 39.37 inches. One yard is 36 inches.

Inches do matter in a track meet, especially when the cream of the crop gets together for a competition as big as a state final.

Boys and girls qualify for the state track final in Michigan by placing among the top three in their event at a state regional. There were 10 Class A regional sites around the state this spring. 44 regional sites in all four classes — A, B, C and D.

Here's the rub, though.

The state Class A finals were contested in Grand Rapids on a track measured in yards.

Four of the 10 Class A regionals — Livonia Churchill, East Lansing, Flint Kearsley and Port Huron Northern — were contested on metric tracks.

The other six regionals — Dearborn, Farmington, Wyandotte, Rochester, Grosse Point North and Holland West Ottawa — were contested on tracks measured in yards.

Runners who competed at a regional meet with a track measured in yards ran a shorter distance than those who ran on a metric track.

For example, those who ran 1,600 meters on a metric track at one regional would have run 1,609 meters (one mile) if they had been assigned to a regional measured in yards.

That is a difference of slightly more than 10 yards.

Correspondingly, those who sprinted 100 meters on a metric track at regional dashed the equivalent of 109.3 yards.

The problems with not running everyone the same distance is that metric times had to be converted from meters to yards for heat assignments for the finals.

Whenever you deal with time conversions, it's just not the same as if everyone were assigned to fast or slower heats based on exact times over the same distances.

Also, runners train — or at least probably should — at exact distances. Nine yards at both 100 meters and 1,600 meters is a long way — especially at a state meet.

Consider that the first three finishers in the mile run at the boys' Class A state finals this year clocked 4:16.7, 4:19.5 and 4:20.4. The first three finishers at 100 yards all timed 9.7 seconds.

It seems that if a runner goes meters one week and yards a couple of weeks later, mental and physical preparation are thrown out of sync.

Psychology and personal motivation are very important to a track participant, perhaps even more so than other athletes.

Lonnie D. Lowery, an assistant director of the Michigan High School Athletic Association, doesn't see a problem with the current set-up.

"Our track committee discussed this and its feeling is that there are two weeks between the regional and final and if he (the competitor) can't make the adjustment in two weeks, it won't make a difference."

That response walks around the question. There should be no need for an athlete to make that kind of adjustment in pursuit of a state championship.

Run all the regionals and the state final in meters or all the regionals and the final in yards.

The trend is to go with meters at the high school level in this country. Virtually all international competition is conducted in meters. Some high-school athletes now compete in both yards and meters during this transition period. However, be it meters or yards, let's stay with one all the way through a state meet.

Historically, Americans have not demanded equality of outcome. They have, however, insisted upon a framework of procedures that apply to everyone the same — in sports as well as the more important facets of life.

Rocks land 3 on All-Sub 8 team

Plymouth Salem and Livonia Bentley, baseball co-champions of the Suburban Eight League, dominate this year's all-league selections.

The Rocks and Bulldogs each landed three players on the first team.

Representing Salem are a trio of seniors — pitcher Pat McNamara, first baseman Jim Anderson, and third baseman Mike Woodard.

Bentley is represented by junior catcher Nino DeVitis, senior shortstop Dave Cabrera and senior outfielder Dave Gross.

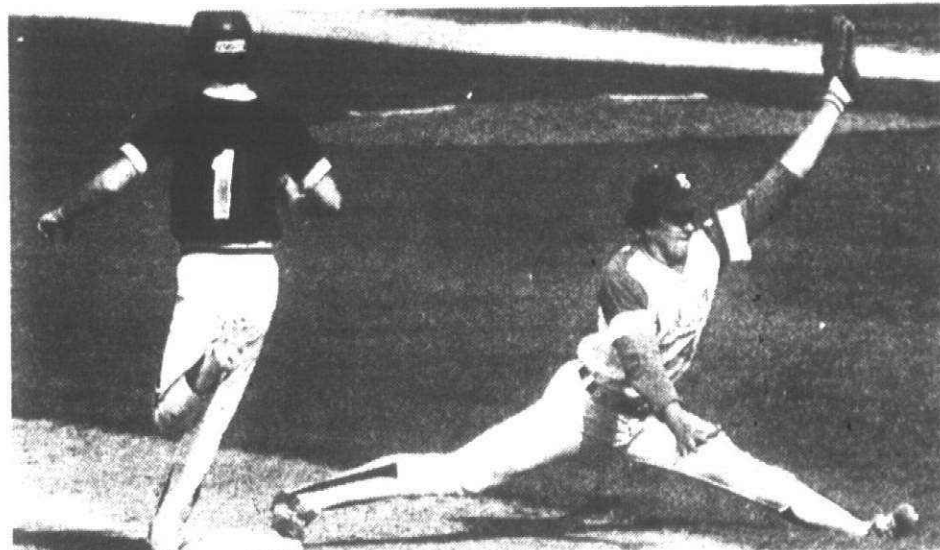

Other first-team picks included Dave Vance, pitcher, Belleville; Mike Kuca, infielder, Trenton; Gary Weshale, infielder, Allen Park; Kevin Huls, outfielder, Allen Park; Dave Malloy, outfielder, Trenton; Dave McLearen, designated hitter, Trenton.

Bentley, coached by Marty Klokiz, had three players tabbed for second-team honors — senior pitcher Greg Gorski, senior infielder Craig Evans and senior outfielder Steve Cross.

Salem junior outfielder Greg Etienne was also named to the second team.

Other second-team selections included Mark Tschirhart, pitcher, Dearborn Edsel Ford; Mike Toyeas, catcher, Dearborn; Marty DeMaris, first base-

Bentley defeated in softball

By DOUG FUNKE

ANN ARBOR—Rain fell on Livonia Bentley's softball parade both literally and figuratively here Saturday in a state Class A regional game against Ann Arbor Huron.

The Bulldogs, which seemed in command of the situation throughout the first half of the contest, were stunned by six runs during the final three innings and lost to Huron 7-6.

The game lasted eight innings.

The second game of the regional between Westland John Glenn and Temperance Bedford was never started. Thunderstorms forced a postponement until today (Monday).

The Glenn-Temperance confrontation was tentatively scheduled for 2 p.m. The winner of that game was to battle Huron at 4 p.m. for the regional championship.

BENTLEY simply stopped hitting after jumping out to a 6-1 lead through the first four innings. The River Rats made the most of their hits down the stretch.

The Bulldogs struck early against Huron, getting their first run during their first turn at bat.

Sheila DeGrazia, who had reached first base on a fielder's choice after Lori Swanson's single, crossed the plate on a triple by Kim Archer.

Archer blasted the ball over the head of Huron's leftfielder Joanne Robinson.

Bentley added a run in the third inning. Swanson walked and moved to second base on a passed ball. DeGrazia then walked and Archer smashed another triple, this time into right center field.

DeGrazia's run was erased on an appeal play after Archer's hit. The umpire ruled that DeGrazia missed third when scampering around the bases.

Seemingly undeterred, the Bulldogs exploded for four runs during the fourth inning.

Carrie Sirola smashed an triple into left center field scored when Mary Lou O'Connor grounded out to second base.

Kim Mira walked and Lisa Waldoock was safe on an error. Both scored on a single by Swanson and Swanson subsequently scored on a single by DeGrazia.

Tourney losses can't dim season

It seems so strange that the spring sports season ended so abruptly for area prep squads.

I was almost certain one of the baseball or softball squads would get into the regionals with the type talent they displayed during the regular season.

Canton's veteran softball team, coached by Max Sommerville, came the closest to gaining a regional berth.

His team was thwarted by Livonia Bentley in the district over at Claude Allison Field in Redford, 7-6.

That game seemed to be the topic of conversation among area coaches who assembled at the annual All-Area softball meeting last week.

Canton and Bentley, two of the stronger teams in the area with league titles to claim, hooked up in a very competitive duel.

The breaks went against the Chiefs, who suffered two questionable calls by umpires during Bentley's three-run rally in the bottom of the seventh.

Sommerville's team had to be disappointed with the loss despite an overall glittering mark of 16-2. The Chiefs reached the district semifinals with a pair of impressive wins in qualifying play.

And Canton had little trouble winning the Western Six League. In fact, the Chiefs romped to victories in all 10 games.

Brad Emons writes

SOMMERVILLE ADMITTED at the All-Area meeting that the league was not as tough as he expected.

I covered four Canton games during the regular season and all were lopsided affairs. Bentley and Livonia Franklin were the most formidable foes on Canton's schedule. Sommerville's team took two of three from Franklin, including a pre-district win, and never got to play Bentley during the regular season because of a rainout.

Canton was as good as any team in the area, but never really got to show it because of the state tournament one-game knockout rule.

I thought Salem's softball squad had peaked at the right time for state tournament play.

The Rocks pulled off a dandy week of play when they mercifully Stevenson (10-0) in a qualifier and drilled previously unbeaten Belleville in a league doubleheader. But Salem was derailed and surprised in a pre-district upset by Redford Union, 9-7.

Salem, co-champs of the Suburban Eight League with Bentley and Belleville, ended a fine season at 12-4.

Rock coach Livi Way, who resigned at the conclusion of the season after six years, said it was hard for her team to "get up" for their last regular season game after being eliminated from the district.

"It's always disappointing when you get knocked out of the tournament," she said. "There's a lot of prestige in it."

COACH BRIAN GILLES' Salem baseball team appeared to be a threat in tournament play, especially after wrapping up a share of the Suburban Eight League crown a week early. Salem, however, suffered through as what Gilles called "a bad week of baseball."

The Rocks settled for a share of the title when they lost their league finale to Trenton, 5-2. Salem, though, looked like the favorite to capture its own district after impressive pre-tourney wins over Northville (7-0), the Western Six League champ, and Walled Lake Western (6-2).

Gilles' squad, however, looked flat in the district semifinal against North Farmington, losing, 11-4. Salem made errors and lost the hitting which carried them to a league crown.

In contrast, Canton's baseball season could be termed as "roller coaster" in 1980.

The Chiefs, coached by Fred Crissey, suffered through key injuries and a murderous schedule, but managed to pull off a 15-10 slate.

Canton's year was highlighted by Windsor Tourney wins in the same day over Detroit Catholic Central and Birmingham Brother Rice. The Chiefs also beat league champ Northville, 18-6, and state-ranked Bay City Handy, 8-2.

Canton won its district qualifier, 4-0, over Southfield, but succumbed to upstart Farmington at home in the pre-district.

Despite the tournament setbacks, all four teams can be proud of their seasons. League titles should never be downgraded in any way.

Chiefs host cage clinic

Plymouth Canton will host a summer basketball clinic for boys in grades seven through 12, June 23-July 18.

Two sessions will be held in the Canton gym.

Boys in grades seven and eight will meet from 8:30 to 10 a.m. Players in grades nine through 12 will work out 10:15-11:45 a.m.

The cost is $20 per player. Registration will be held from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in room 130 of Canton High School.

The purpose of the clinic is to develop individual skills with emphasis on defensive and offensive positions.

Clinic participants will also be instructed in shooting, passing, rebounding, footwork, body position and game situations.

WMU outfielder goes to Cincy

By BRAD EMONS

It's been an exciting week for Westland's Ken Scarpace.

The Western Michigan center fielder and Livonia Franklin graduate learned he was named as a third-team All-American on balloting by the American College Baseball Coaches Association.

On Wednesday the Bronco junior received a call from the Cincinnati Reds. Scarpace was told he had been drafted in the fourth round in the annual summer amateur selections.

He wasted little time in becoming a professional by signing a contract with the Reds Thursday night. He will report this week to Billings, Mont. for a brief camp and then will be assigned to Cincinnati's Class A farm club in Tampa, Fla.

"I'm happy and relieved," said Scarpace, who reportedly is the top Michigan player picked in this year's draft.

"I like it," he said. "Cincinnati is a good organization."

Scarpace went to an informal tryout camp on June 1 at Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium upon request of the Reds organization.

"At first I wasn't going to go," he said. "Then I thought I'd better go and it paid off."

"I threw and ran pretty well. We had a scrimmage. I'd say there were 15 to 16 other players there."

SCARPACE, a defensive standout, who is compared by some scouts to the Reds' Caesar Geronimo, can swing a hefty bat, too.

He is WMU's career leader for hits (150), RBI's (102) and triples (15).

Scarpace, who throws and bats left-handed, set Bronco season records this spring for hits (69), RBI's (50) and triples (9). He also tied the home run standard with eight as he batted .358 in 54 games.

An All-Mid American Conference selection this spring, Scarpace was the first WMU player to gain All-American status since pitcher Jim Johnson achieved second-team acclaim in 1967.

"It makes you feel good when you're picked in the top 27 in the country," he said.

Blessed with great range and speed, Scarpace is anxious to get on with his professional career.

Chief girls dominate league softball elite

Plymouth Canton dominated this year's All-Western Six League softball teams by landing four girls on both the first and second teams.

Livonia Churchill placed two players on the first team and one on the second while Farmington Harrison had a player on each.

Cindy Stevens headed the first team for the Chiefs as she batted .543 in league play as a first baseman.

Joining Stevens on the first team were pitcher Marianne Pink, who went undefeated in league action and batted .414. Joni Sommerville, a second baseman, batted .385 and shortstop Vicky Cavallaro batted at a .369 clip, were also first-teamers.

Third baseman Janet Yerks and outfielder Patti Peele were selected to the first team from Churchill while Cindy Pink was chosen from Harrison as an outfielder.

Margaret Grub from Walled Lake Western and Judy Coxen from Waterford Mott completed the first team selections.

Cindy Sovine, Marlene McKinley, Jean Krashovetz and Pam Schipani were all chosen for second team honors from Canton.

Kathy Purcell of Harrison and Cindy Bussart of Churchill were also picked for the second team.

Cindy Stevens, a hard-hitting first baseman from Plymouth Canton, was selected to the All-Western Six League softball squad for the second straight year. (Staff photo)

Recreation slow-pitch roundup

Canton Sports gains 1st victory

Mitchell Golem and Gary Wilhelm cracked homers to give Canton Sports a 7-0 Class A softball win over C & M Truck in Canton Township Parks and Recreation League action last week.

Golem's homer came in the sixth inning. The Canton Sports pitcher also gained credit for a shutout. Wilhelm socked his homer in the first inning.

Bernard Jackson's two-run homer powered McMurray Insurance to a 13-12 Class A win over Players Lounge.

McMurray, however, bounced back to gain an 11-6 victory over Players earlier in the week as Dennis Finfrock drove home three runs.

Ron Martin and Jerry Nastally combined for four RBI's in Silver Cricket's 13-1 win over Oakview Party Store.

Nastally also shined on the mound as he limited Oakview to four hits in seven innings of work. He also produced a rare strike out, uncommon in slow-pitch softball.

JAKE'S LOUNGE roughed up Trident Realty, 21-5, as David Larson and Gary Truskowski belted three-run homers in Class B play.

John Colliam added a two-run round tripper. Jake's put the game away early with 11 runs in the first.

In other Division I games, Ovidon edged Rusty Nail, 5-4, while Rose Shores blasted Frito Lay, 8-2, putting 13 hits to good use.

DENNIS CELMER went 5-for-5 and drove in six runs to lead All Star Pro Shop to a 24-2 win over Atlas Collision in Class B Division II play last week.

Pat Dunn had a triple, two homers and five RBI's to support the victories.

In other Division II games, Ken Glowski smacked two home runs, including a grand slam, to pace Chapman Brothers to a 9-8 triumph over the Brewers.

Glowski also hit a single and double in going 4-for-4.

Margie Rae used three big innings to melt Team No. 6, 12-6, in other Division II play.

LEAGUE LEADER Superbowl won the battle of the Class C Division I powers with a 3-0 win over previously unbeaten Roman Forum.

Second place Drapery Tradition pounded Canton Bowling, 11-8, while Cherry Hill Chiropracticnipped Century 21, 7-5.

RUSTY NAIL won impressively in Class C Division II action.

David Rightzel went 5-for-5 as Rusty Nail destroyed Maria's Bakery, 31-6.

Tim Curl added a three-run homer for the winners.

In other Division II games, Lion & Sword, leading the division, edged Rusty Nail, 5-4. The Canton Cougars nipped the Classy Chassis, 7-6.

BOBBY TROUPE went 4-for-4 and had three RBI's to pace Carinci's Beer Stein and Wine to an 18-9 win over Amoco Quik-Six in Class C Division IV action.

Dick Modesitt's six RBI's were too much as the Canton Jaycees whipped Bonanza-12 Oaks, 16-9.

In other games, St. Michaels turned back MAACO, 15-11.

JIM FLETCHER singled, double and homered in Bruggalio's 12-3 Class C Division V win over Statewide Aluminum.

Venton took care of Denny's Service, 11-3.

Koufax squad splits league baseball tests

Plymouth Canton split a pair of Sandy Koufax Baseball League games last week.

Canton, coached by Gerald Ebmeyer, won its home opener last Tuesday, 6-3, over Westland.

Mike McKinney, a 13-year-old, hurled the first four innings and got credit for the win. He struck out six and allowed three earned runs.

Scott Cowan finished up, allowing no runs in the final three innings.

Captain Tim Collin had two RBI's to pace Canton. Don Marin Martin went 2-for-3 to support the attack.

Canton suffered its first league loss of the year on Thursday against North Farmington-West Bloomfield, 13-8.

"We had defensive lapses and offensive inconsistency," said Ebmeyer. "We were not mentally into the game."

Shortstop Jeff Wittner went 2-for-4 and drove home three runs to lead Canton, now 1-1 overall.

Canton will meet Brighton at 6:15 p.m. Tuesday at Central Middle School.

The final statistics for the area's top leagues have been posted, and Dick Beattie, the southpaw who had done most of his early bowling at Westland Bowl, earned the role of the most consistent kegler in the metropolitan district.

During the tournament season, he won the Masters and the All Events, along with the Michigan Major Association championship.

In the league averages, he was most consistent with 212.92 in the Tuesday classic at Thunderbowl and 213.56 in the Thursday Classic at Orchard Lanes.

While it doesn't appear in the records, Beattie also set something of a record by totting six bowling balls with him to every major tournament. In the Masters at Bowlero, he practiced with the six of them until he found the one that helped him win the title.

ONE OF THE puzzling things about bowling is how averages can vary from one establishment to another.

The latest example is furnished by the showing of Mitch Jabczynski of the Bonanza team in the all-star leagues. He topped the averages with 228.43 for 96 games in the Thursday classic that bowls at Orchard Lanes.

In the Tuesday league that bowls at Thunderbird in Allen Park, he finished in 22nd place with an average of 209.02 for 92 games. No one has an explanation for the variance except that the lanes are conditioned differently.

LYLE GIBBS, one of the real old timers among the league officials in the Greater Detroit Bowling Association, died during the past week.

For more than 25 years, he served as the secretary of the Post Office League until his retirement and move to the Holiday Mobil Home Park.

A great lover of bowling to the last, he has decreed that instead of floral tributes, memorials be made in his name to the furtherance of junior bowling in the area. He was 77 years old.

BOB JAWOR, who was one of the hottest bowlers in the area during the closing weeks of the season, has been named rookie of the year by the All-Star Classics. He finished the season with a 219.49 average.

LARRY FRANZ is setting a fast pace in the summer leagues at Bel-Aire.

Competing in the men's trio league — a four game circuit — he rolled a 268 for high game last week. He also rolled back-to-back counts of 224 for a 627 in the Kings and Queens loop.

In the Trio competition, Doug Gendron was top man with a 222 game in an 852 series. His main rival was Mike Lacy, who rolled a 264 in 844.

THERE WAS a real close finish in the men's league at Westland Bowl where Harold Johnston inserted a 258 game in a 656 series to beat Jerry Lindley by six pins.

Despite their high scores, they had to yield to Bob Charrette for scoring honors. He had a high single of 268 in 611.

In the ladies league at Westland, Bea Stocchi was high with a 233 in 545, and Kathy Placencia was next in line with an odd series of 608. It was odd because she had a 278 in one of her games.

Man sentenced for flashing

A Plymouth Township man was sentenced to 20 days in the Detroit House of Corrections in district court Thursday on charges of exposing himself at Central Middle School last month.

Appearing before Judge Dunbar Davis of the 35th District Court, Plymouth, was Randal Batterton, 21, charged with indecent exposure and disorderly conduct in the May 15 incident.

According to Central Middle School principal Gustav Gorguze, a man had exposed himself to a student aide at a gym class in a small alcove adjacent to the girls' locker room on that date.

Shortly after the incident, Batterton had been arrested by Plymouth police but turned over to Canton Township police on a minor traffic warrant. Canton police then released him on personal bond and he was re-arrested by Plymouth police last Thursday.

A former resident of the city of Plymouth, Batterton is unemployed.

Goodsite will direct publicity for GM-Diesel

business briefs

Bruce H. Goodsite, a longtime resident of Plymouth, has been named director of public relations for Detroit Diesel Allison Division, General Motors Corp.

Goodsite replaces James V. Lecocq who has been named manager of the General Motors public relations regional office in Los Angeles.

Goodsite has been public relations manager of the division's Detroit operations since 1976.

A native of Toledo, he earned an associate degree in engineering from the University of Nebraska through the U.S. Army specialized training program in 1944. He then graduated from the University of Denver in 1950 with a bachelor's degree in psychology.

After graduation Goodsite did market research for the Toledo Blade newspaper and in 1952 joined the Kaiser-Jeep Company there. He had a variety of assignments at Kaiser-Jeep, including production foreman, service publications writer and assistant creative director in the merchandising department.

In 1956 Goodsite moved to Detroit and over the next 10 years worked as a creative writer and account executive for the Jan Handy Organization and the Kudner Agency, a New York-based advertising firm.

He operated his own marketing agency from 1966 until becoming advertising manager for Detroit Diesel Allison in 1971.

He was named public relations administrator at DDA in 1974 before being promoted to manager two years later. In his new assignment, Goodsite will be responsible for the public relations activities of the division, worldwide.

Detroit Diesel Allison manufactures medium- and heavy-duty diesel engines in Redford Township and Romulus. It also produces heavy-duty automatic transmissions and gas turbine engines in Indianapolis and has manufacturing and assembly operations in Wellingborough, England, and Rotterdam, The Netherlands.

The division is the fourth largest GM division in the U.S. in terms of employment with more than 25,000 people working at various locations.

Edison's power plants.

"In these days of economic difficulty, it is important that Detroit Edison keep availability of its power plants high to keep down the costs the company must pass on to its customers," said Pence.

"This is especially important at coal-fired plants which produce more than 85 percent of the electricity in the Edison system using America's most abundant and economical fossil fuel."

Pence earned a bachelor of science in electrical engineering degree from Lawrence Institute of Technology in 1952. He studied power systems analysis at the University of Iowa in 1957 and has completed numerous professional development courses. He received the Alumni Achievement Award from Lawrence Institute of Technology in 1975.

He is a member of many professional and industry organizations, including the Engineering Society of Detroit, the Economic Club of Detroit, and the American Management Association.

A LOAN OFFICER

National Bank of Detroit has appointed Douglas G. Jaskierny of Plymouth as assistant loan officer in its regional banking division.

As a loan representative, Jaskierny arranges commercial loans for businesses in NBD's Center City region. During his nine years with the bank he has held a number of managerial positions in NBD's branch system.

Jaskierny holds a bachelor of arts degree in business management from Michigan State University and an MBA degree from the University of Detroit.

MILLER MANAGES PLYMOUTH AAA

Ruth M. Miller has been named manager of the Plymouth branch office of the Automobile Club of Michigan.

She succeeds James Campbell who is now a field operations regional sales manager at the Auto Club's Dearborn administrative offices.

Ms. Miller, 47, has been assistant manager of the club's northeast Detroit office since last year. She joined the 1.3 million member organization in 1961 as a travel counselor and became a secretary for the field operations department one year later.

After serving as an underwriting supervisor in the club's South Grand Rapids and Muskegon offices from 1967-72, she returned to the club's headquarters as a branch project analyst.

In 1974, Ms. Miller became a membership representative at the Lincoln-Allen office and three years later was named a sales administration assistant.

Schoolcraft College President C. Nelson Grote has been appointed to the newly created local government claims review board by Gov. William Milliken.

The state senate last month unanimously approved Grote for the nine-member board, which will review compliance with a new law mandating the state to cover local government costs for new state-ordered programs.

Grote will represent the Michigan Community College Association on the board. His term expires March 26, 1982.

Local ad firm is burglarized

Plymouth police are investigating a late-night burglary at the Frank Corporation, a firm that specializes in promotional advertising, that netted some $350 of office equipment last week.

According to reports, the business office, 860 York St., was ransacked sometime between Monday night and early Tuesday morning.

Entry was gained by prying open a locked rear door. Taken were a color television set, a check protector machine, an IBM typewriter and a wallhanging.

"We have no suspects at this time," says Det. Sgt. Dan Carpenter. "But we are looking for two people based on the shoe prints at the back door."

Gregory Lane residents are upset

Editor:
This letter is being written in the interests of justice. Your paper, when reporting on the street closings, via barricades on Mayflower Drive in Plymouth Township, has been one-sided.

We, the residents of Gregory Lane, also have a traffic problem, compounded by the illegal closing of Mayflower.

When Parklane Meadows was built, there was no thru street from Joy to Ann Arbor Road. What is now Mayflower Subdivision was then woods. Four years later, when construction of Mayflower Sub was on paper, Mayflower Drive was made a thru street by the recommendation of the Plymouth Planning Commission, so we the residents of Gregory did not have to bear the burden of Mayflower Drive seeking access to Joy.

In August 1979, we heard via the grapevine that Mayflower Drive was being barricaded. We, who would be directly affected by this closing, were not notified, violating Public Act 51, which states the county may only close a road for purposes of construction and or public safety, and a hearing to determine if public safety is being served must be held.

HOWEVER, WE understood Mayflower's traffic problem and undertook to settle ours without removing Mayflower's barricade. We requested that the township and Wayne County Road Commission close Albert at Gregory with a barricade, thereby prohibiting cut throughs to Ann Arbor road via Gregory Lane.

Rescue team deserves credit

Editor:
The Canton rescue team at 128 North Canton Center Road deserve a good word for their outstanding service.

On May 13, approximately 16:30 hours, I had to be taken to St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital. There was a tornado warning in progress, and I was seven months pregnant with complications. Due to the severity of my condition, we pulled into the Canton fire station for help. With great care and enthusiasm, they took me to the hospital very quickly.

Later, around 17:30 hours, our family suffered the loss of a baby boy.

If it wasn't for the stupendous efforts of the Canton rescue team, serious complications would have resulted from this mishap.

Now I can still have children in the future, due to Canton rescue's quick thinking, St. Joseph's Hospital's excellent staff, and the good Lord watching over me.

CHRISTINE BAKER,
Canton

from our readers

Tom Notebaert, supervisor of Plymouth Township, informed us we must first consult with the spokesman for Mayflower Subdivision, John Los, which we did. Mr. Los and our spokesman attended a meeting at the township hall in September of 1979 and agreed on the closing of Albert.

Consequently, both sent substitute spokesmen to a meeting with the Board of Wayne County Road Commissioners, and recommended the previously stated action. Wayne County agreed and set up a barricade at Albert. This is all on record at Wayne County.

Five months later, we happened to see a notice in the paper stating Mr. Notebaert has recommended the removal of the barricade at Albert to Wayne County, due to a petition signed by the residents of Mayflower Subdivision.

WHILE THE petition gives many reasons for the removal of the barricade, the only one affecting all 53 residents who signed is Article 4 which states, "We on Albert Dr. and surrounding homes on Baywood and Mayflower Streets are having great difficulty getting in and out of our sub-division."

Please note that again Mr. Notebaert failed to notify us of this action, although we were instructed by Mr. Notebaert to inform Mr. Los when we took action.

Subsequently, we sent a letter to Wayne County recommending the removal of both barricades and leaving both subdivisions with their original traffic problems.

In April 1980, Mr. Notebaert informed the two spokesmen for Gregory Lane that the township would hold a closed meeting at which time Wayne County would state its solution to the problem. It was stressed to our spokesmen that this was to be a closed meeting and only they were invited. They attended the meeting, as did most of the residents of Mayflower Sub, and were informed by Wayne County that both barricades would be removed.

ON MAY 30, 1980, the barricade on Albert was removed and Mayflower's left standing. A call on June 3, to Mr. Kinnville at Wayne County, revealed that it was not coming down due to Mr. Notebaert's recommendation. When residents of Gregory Lane called Mr. Notebaert, they were told by him that the township had no say in the matter and it was Wayne County's decision, when in fact Mr. Galecki, Wayne County Road Commission Secretary, has in his possession a letter signed by Mr. Notebaert recommending the permanent closing of Mayflower Drive and the opening of Albert.

We, the residents of Gregory Lane, have been deceived and frustrated at every turn, and we are extremely unhappy with the entire handling of this matter. Our only recourse is to take legal action and steps to replace the present leadership of our township.

I most certainly recommend chiropractic for better health!

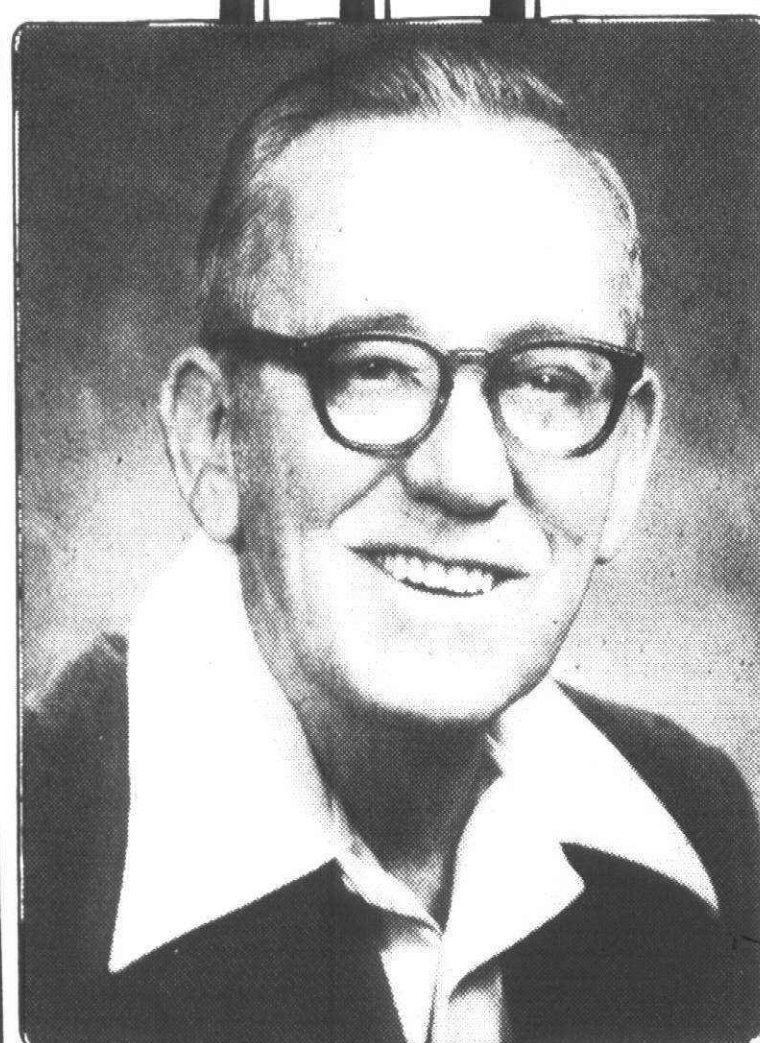

I most certainly recommend chiropractic treatments for all my friends! That's how I found out what chiropractic could do for the shooting pain down my right leg and the soreness in my lower back.

Thanks to a friend's advice, I visited Dr. Grassam and noticed improvement the day after my first adjustment. The third day following treatment I was able to return to work.

The recovery was remarkable since before I could hardly walk due to the pain. After two visits to Dr. Grassam my problem with muscle spasms also vanished. And I did not have any kind of cold last winter.

Chiropractic has improved my health.

Thank you,
Earl Cawetzka

Sorry Waldo,

You're not the only best friend man (or woman) has. Observer & Eccentric Classified Advertising has moved up to first place. Where else can an ordinary person find things they need and sell the things they don't want in an advertisement that doesn't dent the pocketbook. O & E Classifieds reach over 150,000 people in twelve affluent suburban cities. That's a b-i-i-i-g territory and a lot of people.

So Waldo, the best thing you can do to be a good friend is to get that Observer & Eccentric Newspaper into the house as fast as you can. Move!

You will benefit from pre-vacation car check

Due to national interest in fuel conservation and the high cost of gasoline, many Americans will decide to vacation closer to home, discovering the many vacation spots in Michigan and even in the Detroit area.

Whether your travels are short or long this summer, your car still needs a vacation check-up before you start driving, says the Automotive Information Council.

A vacation check-up can help correct problems that have been neglected and reduce chances of a costly breakdown and a spoiled vacation.

Look at the condition of the tires. Don't start a vacation with worn-out tires. If the tires fail on the road, you won't have a chance to shop for a sale price.

Don't forget to check the tread and air pressure of the spare tire. If it is flat, tire trouble may ruin your day. It's easy to ignore the air pressure in your spare in the city where gasoline stations are all around you. But driving down a country road is not the place to discover your spare is flat.

Check the air pressure on the four on the road, too. Improper pressure can shorten tire life and even lead to tire failure.

The pressure can be checked simply with a tire gauge that can be bought for less than $2. Severely underinflated tires can waste up to a gallon of every 20 gallons of gasoline. That can run up your vacation gasoline bill.

Inspect under the hood. Look at the hoses and belts.

Belts should give less than one-half inch under pressure from your thumb. If any hoses or belts look soft, frayed or cracked, have them replaced. Look for rusty hose clamps and any loose wiring.

Check all the fluid levels — brake fluid, engine oil, radiator coolant, windshield washer container and transmission fluid. Fill the gasoline tank, too.

The battery terminals probably need cleaning, and if your battery is not the sealed type, it probably needs water.

Don't forget to check one of the most-neglected safety items, the wiper blades. Worn blades are little help if you get caught in a heavy downpour.

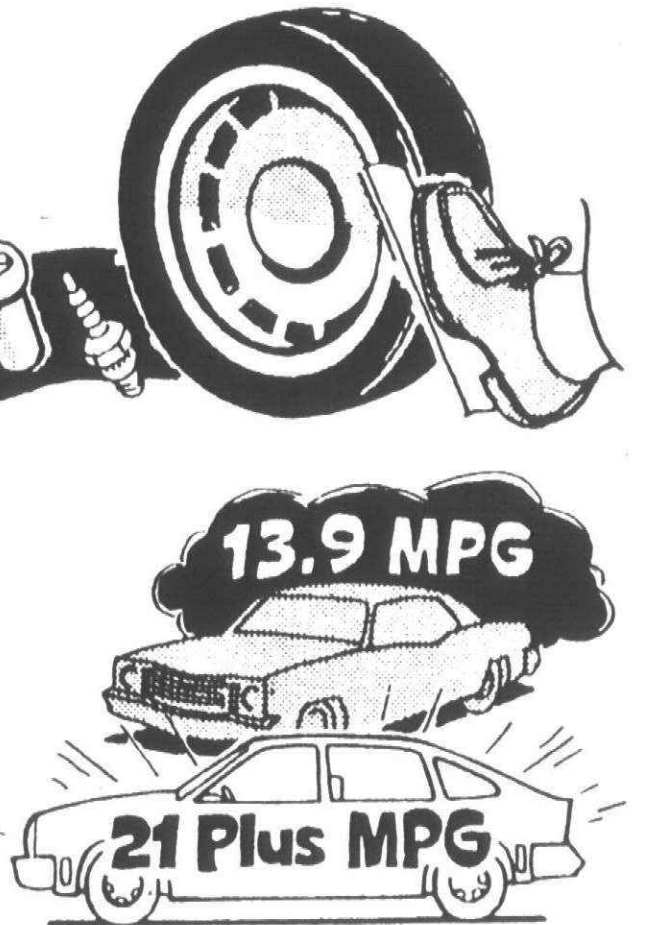

Finally, take some time to review the maintenance schedule in the owner's manual. This list will serve to remind you of items such as a tune-up, oil change and lubrication that might have been overlooked.

Proper maintenance, says the AIC, could save your vacation, as well as saving expensive gasoline.

Timely tips on saving GAS...

There are many ways to save gas: Keep your car tuned. Keep tire pressures up. Drive with a light foot.

But the biggest gas-saving step the owner of a median-age car can take is to trade it in for a 1980 model. 1980 cars get 51 percent greater gas mileage than 1974 and older models.
