Building crunch hits department with money woe

The depressed state of the home construction industry has forced the transfer of $75,000 in general operating funds to Canton's money-pinched building department.

The 1980 budget for the department, which is normally self-supporting, was based on revenue predictions for 500 homes.

But only 28 housing permits were issued through May, according to chief building official Aaron Machnik. Revenues from housing permits and inspections provide the bulk of the department's income.

The crunch has forced a 60 percent reduction in the department's staff since last summer.

But even with the layoffs, Machnik is predicting a $75,000 shortage of funds in a bare-bones budget that already was trimmed once.

Finance Director Mike Gorman said other line items in Canton's 1980 operating budget will be sliced in order to make up the building department "deficit."

The township Board of Trustees unanimously approved the fund transfer last week.

MACHNIK SAID pink-slipping more employees from his "skeleton crew" of nine would force a reduction in building department services.

Gorman said that additional layoffs will be necessary if the present slump continues during the next two years.

The department performs several functions which provide no revenues.

Among the most important are investigations of new-home construction and mobile home complaints, inspections of potentially dangerous buildings and administration of the zoning ordinance.

"I've had a 60 percent staff reduction. But I haven't had a 60 percent work reduction," Machnik said.

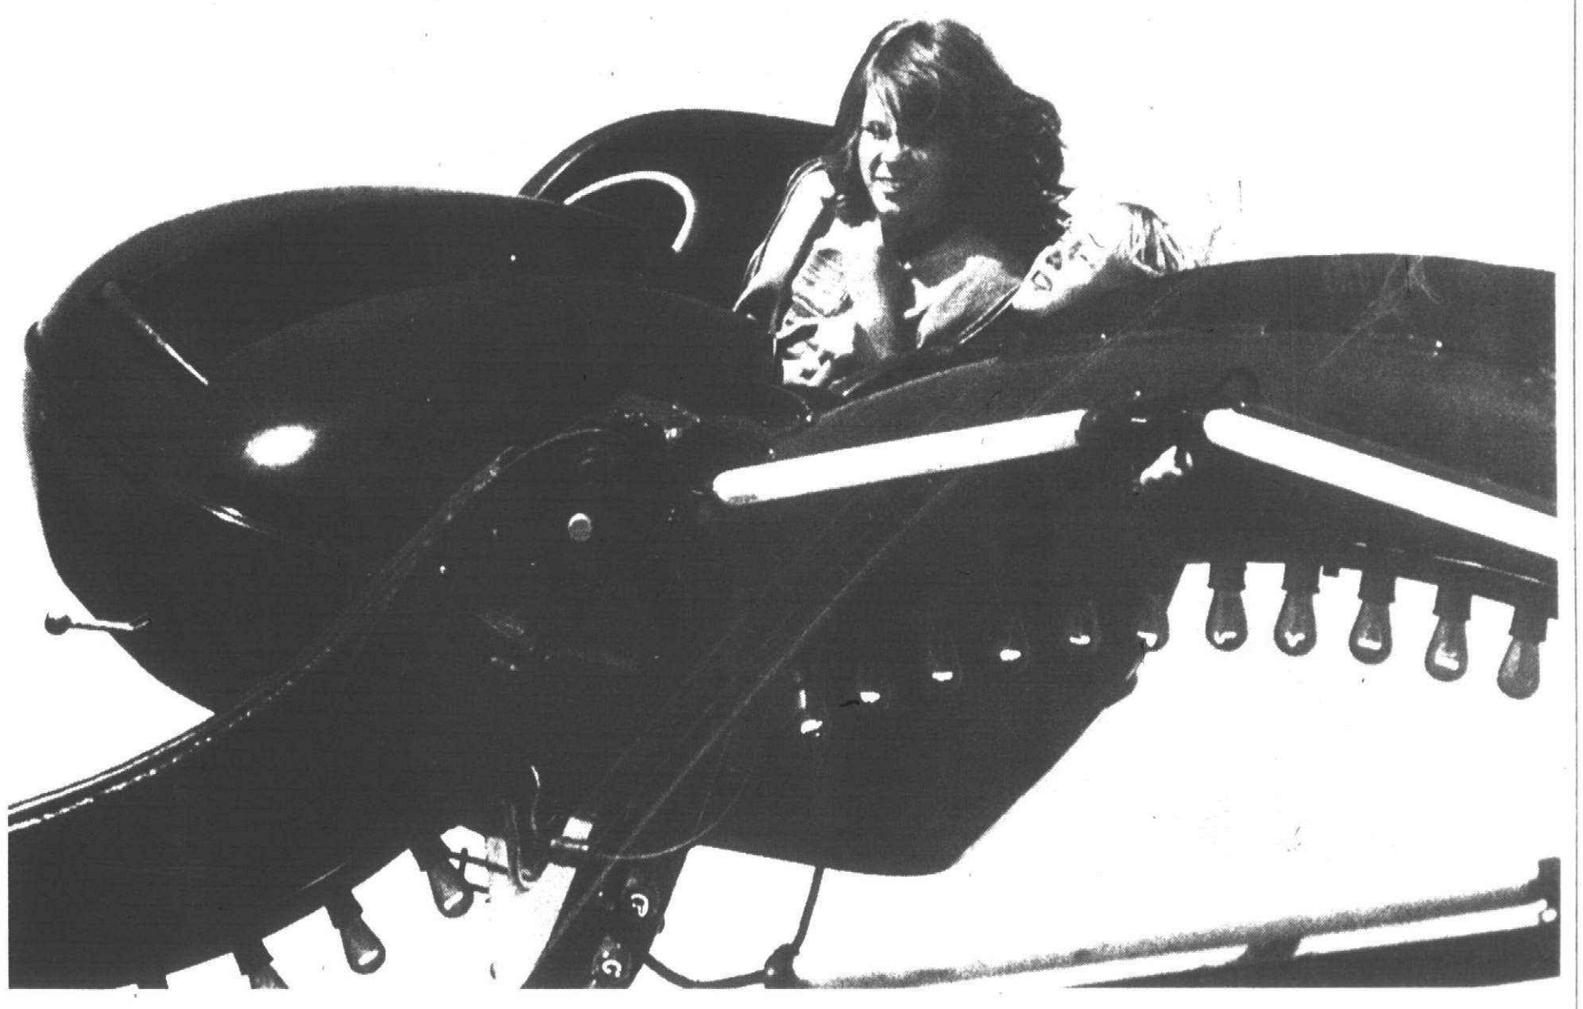

Despite the gloomy outlook, board approval of two condominium site plans could alleviate the department's financial woes.

Township planners are reviewing site plans for the projects now. According to Machnik, the building department would reap $100,000 in additional inspection revenues if construction begins this year.

Machnik originally asked the board for a 1980 budget allocation of $500,000, based on a predicted 1,000 housing starts.

Trustees approved an allocation of only $330,000 last fall, but the budget was trimmed to only $210,000 because of the sharp drop in housing activity.

Machnik predicts 1980 revenues of only $135,000 unless the condominium projects are built.

Up and away

Trustees weigh abolition of merit commission

The commission that protects township employees from the whims of elected officials is taking heat from some Canton board members, who favor abolition of the group.

Trustee Robert Greenstein, who spoke out most strongly for the change last week, said the merit commission's responsibilities should be given to personnel director Dan Durack.

The issue would be placed on an upcoming ballot under the plans of some board members.

Greenstein maintains that the three-person merit commission injects too much red tape into hiring practices.

He noted a six-month delay in the hiring of a fire department mechanic. The person selected for the job at the end of the commission's screening process was fired two weeks later for incompetence.

"I think it's about time that elected officials streamline government to respond to the taxpayer," said Greenstein. "I don't see why work should grind to a halt to wait for a commission to make a decision."

CANTON VOTERS approved the present merit ordinance in August 1978 to protect township employees from arbitrary hiring, firing and disciplinary practicies.

The merit commission screens and tests job applicants and oversees the firing and disciplinary process.

Under the system, political candidates cannot promise jobs to supporters in return for campaign favors. Present employees cannot be ousted when newly elected officials take office.

Personnel policies of most governmental units operate under a system similar to Canton's, according to Durack.

But some board members see merit in Greenstein's suggestion of abolishing the commission despite widespread use of such groups.

Under Greenstein's suggestion, Durack would assume the commission's responsibility to keep politics out of the personnel department. The trustee maintains that vacant positions could be filled more quickly under the direction of a professional personnel director.

A citizens group could serve as a watchdog over the proposed personnel practice, he said.

"Just because other communities (haven't streamlined their merit systems) shouldn't stop us," said Trustee Steve Larson.

BOARD MEMBERS directed Durack to study the proposed change and return to the board with a recommendation.

But Supervisor Noel Culbert and Trustee Eugene Daley voted against the resolution and expressed strong opposition to the idea of abolishing the committee.

"You're not going to have the neutrality with a personnel director who's with employees and management every day," objected Culbert.

Durack admitted that Greenstein's idea could place the personnel director in an uncomfortable position.

He and former merit commissioner Larry Bowerman maintain that hiring policies have not been bogged by the committee.

Borwerman and Gloria Hammonds resigned last week from the commission to seek public office. The other merit commissioner is Ed Bretzlaff.

Connie Carman, chairwoman of the township's clerical union, presented the board with a petition opposing the proposed change. The petition was signed by all 25 members of the Canton AFSCME local (American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees.)

Durack said "extenuating" circumstances and a shortage of applicants caused the delay of the fire department mechanic. The man who was selected and later fired received excellent ecommendations from his former employers, Durack said.

Durack worked with the merit commission in the testing and interviewing of applicants.

Faculty ends school year without labor agreement

School will end Friday the same way it began — with teachers working without a ratified contract.

And the likelihood is that teachers also will return to work next fall without a ratified contract.

A legal hearing has been scheduled for mid-August on the contract differences between the union and school board. But that doesn't leave much time to reduce a ruling to writing and holding a ratification meeting before Labor Day.

The hearing will be held Aug. 12-13 before an administrative law judge of the Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC).

(The relationship between MERC and public employees is the same as that between private employees and the National Labor Relations Board — NLRB).

That hearing originally was scheduled for Nov. 9, 1979, and has been rescheduled many times since.

BARGAINING AT the table broke off last fall when both sides reached a standstill and agreed to go to fact-finding.

When fact-finding failed the MERC then appointed as mediator Dr. George Gullen, former president of Wayne State University.

Both the union and school board agreed to accept Gullen's recommendations as a basis for settlement, but when it came time for ratification the union and board discovered a difference of opinion existed between them on what Gullen intended.

The school board believed the agreement provided for 9 percent the first year for teachers at the top of the schedule and 8 percent for all others; and 8.5 percent salary increases the second and third year.

The bargaining team for the Plymouth-Canton Education Association (PCEA) believed the salary would be applied according to cost-of-living allowance (COLA) language contained in the third year provisions of the previous contract.

The COLA language would provide for compounding as follows: a 4 percent improvement and COLA of 4 to 5 percent for those at the top of the schedule, and all others 3 percent improvement and COLA of 4 to 5 percent the first year; 3.5 percent improvement and COLA of 4 to 5 percent the second year; 3.5 percent improvement and COLA of 4 to 5 percent the third year.

When asked to clarify his Sept. 9 report, Gullen had suggested that the COLA compouding be agreed upon as it was in the previous contract or that both sides go to binding arbitration.

The school board rejected that opinion as being subjective and not based on fact.

The school board rejected arbitration and then the two sides agreed on petitioning an administrative law judge from MERC to hear the case and make a ruling.

The union and board both agreed to abide by whatever ruling was made by the administrative law judge.

IN PREPARING to make arguments before MERC the union decided to suponea Gullen as a witness.

Homeless dog finds family

By TERI BANAS

Two weeks ago, the gentle shepherd was living out of a self-made fox hole and scrounging suppers out of trash cans in Old Village.

She was just one of many abandoned dogs whose existence was dependent on avoiding negligent motorists, other animals on the prowl, and starvation.

Today, however, she is living like a princess, or rather like a duchess.

On June 2, Pat Longpre of Canton noticed an article about the dog's plight in the Observer and decided "I wanted to take her.

"I just couldn't believe someone would abandon a dog in that condition."

"That condition" was pregnancy.

On Monday of this week, the renamed-mutt, Duchess, gave birth to nine puppies. Only one was stillborn — a minor miracle, said Mrs. Longpre, who marveled over how well the animal had withstood abandonment of more than two weeks.

MRS. LONGPRE and her family met Duchess for the first time Thursday at the Specialty Pet Supply Shop on Mill Street in Plymouth's Old Village.

Shopkeeper Terri Bennett had taken the dog under her wing after an apartment tenant of the building left without notice. The dog had been living out of a small den she dug beneath a clump of bushes near the apartment stairway.

It was after the first article appeared that Ms. Bennett's shop phone began ringing with callers willing to open their hearts — and their pocket books — toward the dog's support.

"I wish I could have taken her in myself," said Ms. Bennett. "I've grown quite attached to her."

But with two dogs of her own, Ms. Bennett looked into the Plymouth-Canton community for a new owner for the stray.

Then came the call from Mrs. Longpre. Maybe it had something to do with the Longpre family having lost a German shepherd of their own. It was put to sleep almost a year ago after a lingering hip disease.

Or maybe Ms. Bennett just found Pat and Ronald Longpre were two nice people who could offer Duchess a warm home.

"I think she knew she was going to a good home," Ms. Bennett said about the initial meeting.

According to the shopkeeper, the response to Duchess' condition was more than heartwarmimg. Although most were not able to offer the dog a home, many wanted to help in some way, either to supply food, temporary shelter or make small financial contributions.

Short Takes

Hoist that flag

At least one "no" vote in last Monday's school election results can be attributed to the American flag at the Centennial Educational Park (CEP). A Canton resident who was scheduled to vote at the high schools became incensed when he saw the flag 18 inches below the top of the pole. The American flag should fly at the top or at half-staff, he said. Because of the flag's position, the man voted against an $11 million bond proposition and a tax continuation proposal. "One of the things I learned in school was to respect the flag," the man said. "The rope was all twisted and everything."

Water relief?

Your sewer and water bills won't be any lower this year. But money-pinched residential and commercial customers will have more time to pay them. The Canton Township board has extended the payment period from 21 to 30 days for residents and from 15 to 30 days for commercial customers. "By extending this, we're giving people a chance to pull out of one pay period and go to two," said finance director Mike Gorman. Several businesses with main offices outside Canton have complained about the 15-day payment period, he said. Many businesses have been forced to pay penalty charges because of the time involved in mailing the bills to main offices.

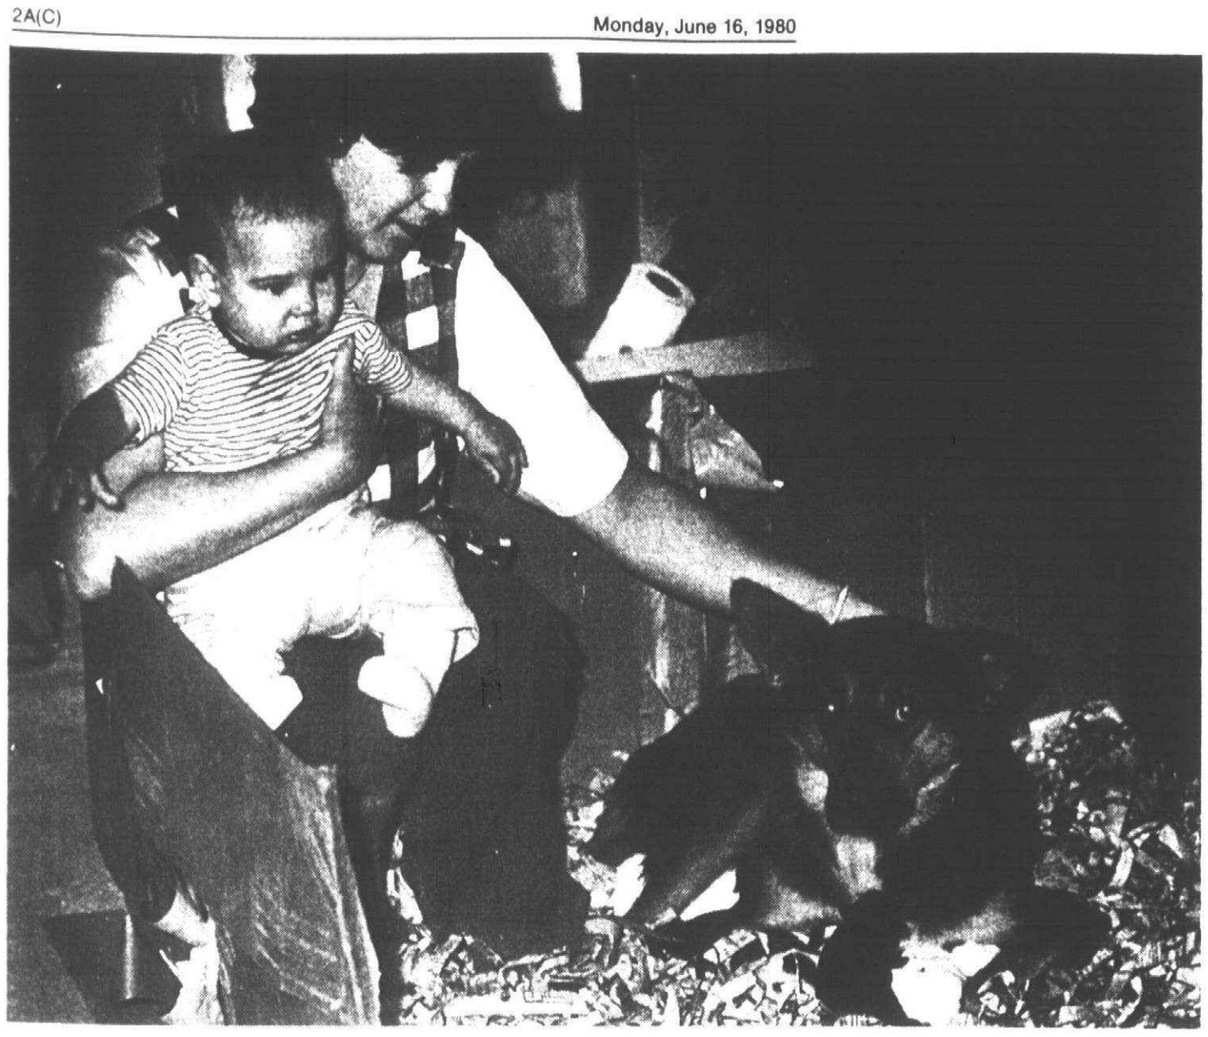

Housing rules

Homeowners who meet HUD's requirements for housing rehabilitation monies won't be eligible for second-year grants anymore. In the past, residents of designated areas have been eligible for two $5,000 grants to bring their homes up to code. But grant coordinator Terry Carroll, who administers the program for Canton, said eligible residents now will receive a first-year $5,000 grant and a second-year $5,000 loan. The loan must be repaid at the time of the home's title transfer. Carroll hopes to receive $55,000 in 1980 housing rehabilitation monies.

Pooch adopts family

ONE CALLER offered to outfit the pregnant dog with blankets, pillows or anything that would make her accommodations during the impending delivery more comfortable.

A fund was started to pay for the dog's spaying once she recovered from the pregnancy.

At home in Canton Township, the former hard-luck pooch appears "quite content with all the attention," said Mrs. Longpre.

The Longpre family has three children — between the ages of nine-months and 11 years — all of whom have been advised to give the new mother some breathing space before showering her with affection.

"She certainly took to the kids. She seems to need all our love and attention."

By late Monday, Mrs. Longpre had had "quite a day."

Up at 2:45 a.m. to nurse her youngest, suffering from an ear infection, she began hearing another whimpering sound that was not coming from her child's room.

"I had no idea she was going into labor. She had a full meal the night before.

"I was up the whole time, and even called the emergency vet clinic for instructions, but she managed to have the whole litter on her own by 8:30 a.m."

Lots of laughs punctuated the air around the dodge-em cars. (Staff photos by Stephen Cantrell.)

Kyle Carone thought this ride was a gas.

Jaycees up fair in spite of rain —and lots of mud

For awhile, it looked as if the Canton Jaycee Fair would sink into the ground.

It was pouring rain last Monday when the Jaycees began preparing the grounds at Ford and Lilley for the big event.

Several trucks which were hauling in rides and other equipment became mired in up to two feet of mud.

After three days of rain, some truck drivers refused to take their rigs on the soft ground. Jaycee Tim Orbacki said workers hauled in the fair's 13,000-square-foot tent by strapping the canvas on their shoulders.

"The conditions for a fair were zip," said Orbacki, publicity chairman for the event. "It was raining so hard on Monday that visibility was zero.

"We could have said that the fair wouldn't come off. But we didn't," said Orbacki. "Our only thought was to get as close to the scheduled opening as we could."

Orbacki and fellow Jaycee Walt Chapotoon worked through Monday and Tuesday nights supervising the work.

As it turned out, most rides and concession booths were ready by the scheduled opening time at 3 p.m. Wednesday. The rides for adults weren't up until 7 p.m.

Hundreds of fair lovers packed the grounds during the five-day event.

But the scars of the trouble-plagued preparation period were evident everywhere.

Deep ruts from trucks and other equipment criss-crossed the ground. Some vehicles were still mired in earth. Workers were erecting some rides Thursday evening.

Orbacki viewed the event as a success for the Jaycees. But he admitted that unexpected expenses cropped up as a result of the poor weather conditions on Monday.

The Jaycees were forced to rent bulldozers and other heavy equipment to pull trucks out of the mud. The club ordered 80 yards of sand to pour on the soft ground.

Orbacki said club members would level the grounds after the fair closed Sunday night.

The palm reader waits patiently for customers.

Wipe out merit board? Some trustees like idea

"I don't think abolishing the merit commission at this point would streamline the process," he said.

GREENSTEIN INSISTS that his idea for abolishing the merit commission was not based solely on the fire mechanic issue.

Several board members have complained publicly about the unfilled position, however. They discovered last month that many fire department vehicles have not been maintained properly. The mechanic's position is still vacant.

"I don't want anyone to think for a minute that we're stepping back from the merit idea," Greenstein said.

The township's clerical and police employees did not belong to a union when voters adopted the present merit ordinance in 1978.

All township employees with the exception of supervisory personnel now belong to unions. Greenstein says the labor organizations protect employees against arbitrary firing and disciplinary actions.

Durack became the township's first personnel director last September.

Canton has operated under a merit system since the early '70s. In August 1978, voters approved a more comprehensive ordinance after township officials discovered that the original law had been adopted improperly.

Garden plots grow pride

By W.W. EDGAR

From the far-off Philippines, Urdamo Donindo has found his way to Canton and is now engaged in what he smilingly calls a "noble experiment."

He has never had a vegetable garden. But now he is a member of a happy group that has taken over a section of Canton garden plots at Lilley and Warren roads in an effort to combat inflation.

With pride, he pointed to his section where he has planted such popular garden vegetables as squash, tomatoes, beans, green pepper and zucchini.

Now employed at Ford Motor Co., Donindo said that he took a long route to Canton. When he left his home in the Pacific, he headed for Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada. From there, he went to Seattle and then to Michigan.

For the past two years, he has watched others enjoy their gardens. This year he could resist no longer. He was lucky to get one of the 300 plots that were allotted in two days.

THE GARDENS have become one of the most popular areas in Canton. From early morning until twilight, men, women and children are busy planting seeds or tilling soil in hopes of a bountiful supply of fresh vegetables later in the summer.

One of the most enthusiastic families is Darrell McCabe, his wife, Karen, and a daughter, Shaun, who recently arrived in Canton from Ohio.

"I really am enjoying this," McCabe said, "because the ground is so fertile. Down in Ohio, we had a terrible time trying to have a garden." His wife nodded as she plucked a weed or two from the soil. The young corn stalks had just pushed their way through the ground.

Not far away, Elviro Catallo, a retired gent of 75 years, was busy planting marigolds in and around his tomato plants to keep away rabbits and other animals that nibble at the fresh plants during the night.

From under his big brown straw hat, he wiped away the perspiration and said his work was worth the effort. He has saved more than $100 a year in each of the last four years with his garden.

Like the others, he has planted the popular garden varieties, but stresses cucumbers and several kinds of squash.

The area at Warren and Lilley provides 300 plots, each 25 by 50 feet.

No agreement on contract as school ends

When MERC decided against ordering Gullen to appear the PCEA started legal action in Ingram County Circuit Court asking that Gullen be subpoenaed.

The MERC law judge then delayed the hearing until circuit court ruled on whether Gullen should be forced to testify. After a long delay, the circuit court finally ruled that MERC would not have to order Gullen's appearance.

The hearing was scheduled for Aug. 5-6, but then was set back a week.

All provisions of the new contract have been in force since September, including salary, except that the pay has not been compounded by COLA formulas.

Graduation: Coping with a complex decade

To the Class of 1980:

So you're the class that's supposed to be goal-oriented. In junior high, you were planning the four years of your high school career to accommodate whatever you were going to do after this summer.

Now, many of you have planned what you're going to do for the next few years as well — apprenticeships, college, vocational school, jobs.

Armed with 13 years of education, many of you have mapped out your lives to age 30, and perhaps beyond.

A few others may have slipped through the planning cracks. Other than a summer spinning through town, some of you may not have the slightest idea of what you're going to do come September.

Welcome to the club.

Don't let those commencement addresses mislead you; few adults have the slightest inkling of what we're going to do beyond next week. We may spend two hours deciding on wallpaper or when to mow the lawn, but we've given little thought to next year — let alone the maze that stretches beyond.

MOST OF US simply don't want to think about it. Age is upsetting because it limits our options. When we are 18, multitudes of career choices beckon, and education may be planned accordingly.

But at 31, or 42, or 53, we're forced to reject some of those dreams. Options become locked doors. A few of us make dramatic changes. But only a few.

That's why all the adults in your lives persist so maddeningly in attempting to put you on the "right" path now. Many of them aren't very happy in their choices. But they may be too fearful of the unknown, or can't fathom what's beyond the locked door, to attempt any rerouting of the past.

The adults in your lives want you to somehow have the knowledge they lacked to choose the right path, to live happily ever after in a career and lifestyle.

It's best, in their minds, if you follow their pattern, because it's comfortable and they know the obstacles. They can point out the ruts.

Your choice of a radically different route may force them to question their past choices as well.

YOUR EDUCATION has been directed by people who, with all good intentions, want you to know what you're doing. They want the choices to be as well planned as possible.

They're convinced all this expert planning has given you the ingenuity they lacked at the same age. In other words, they've got high hopes that somehow you are better equipped than they were.

But without spreading the news, they're aware that life isn't that simple.

If you're as goal-oriented as they think you are, you may be in for a peculiar kind of trouble — the perils of technocracy.

Ask your teacher who was just pink-slipped about that. That's when your choices have been made, the right education has been pursued and the world changes. Who would have believed in 1964 that Zero Population Growth had a chance?

THE FUTURE is far too intangible a commodity to be charted on a graph. We've learned that honing our skills too finely leaves us with a very slim blade to carve out a niche in a complex and constantly changing world.

With what, then, does that leave you? Hopefully, some appreciation of flexibility.

Without reverting to a totally unstructured philosophy, the kind that saddled us with unemployed philosophy majors in the '60s, keep in mind that being prepared for change may be the best way to be prepared for what promises to be an eventful decade.

Dr. Lawrence Berkove, a professor at the University of Michigan-Dearborn, says that freedom is the ability to surprise God, in explaining determinism.

Freedom, 1980-style, may be the ability to bounce back with whatever gets thrown at you.

Welcome to the world of verbal report cards — and break a leg.

How does one celebrate a golden wedding date?

the stroller

W.W. Edgar

Many unusual things have happened in the life of The Stroller since that day he was forced to quit school after only three months of what the Dutch called "book learning" back in the foothills of the mountains in Pennsylvania.

But the oddest of all happened over the weekend when he and his bride of 50 years were hosts at a dinner they couldn't have on the day they were joined in holy wedlock by the late Rev. "Mike" Rice in the Metropolitan Methodist Church.

Sounds rather odd doesn't it? But here is what happened.

By careful planning, we were to be married at 3 in the afternoon in the main auditorium of the church. This was to followed with the usual greeting line, and then a hurried trip to the foot of Woodward Avenue to board the boat for Buffalo at 5 p.m.

But the best-laid plans of men and mice often go astray — and they did that balmy afternoon of June 16, 1930.

EVERYTHING SEEMED to be on schedule when we arrived at the church except that the best man, the late Harry Bullion, then sports editor of the Detroit Free Press who was of the Catholic faith, was suffering from a severe attack of nerves. He had never been in a Protestant chuch and was living in fear that he would make a mistake somewhere along the line.

The bride's sister was in much the same fix when we gathered in the small room awaiting the arrival of the minister.

But that was only the beginning of a very unusual afternoon.

Sharply at 3 p.m., the organist, the late Francis McKay, began the musical strains of "I Love You Truly" and in a few moments Bryant Huff, the late secretary of The Stroller's Masonic lodge, began to fill the main auditorium with his baritone voice.

The minutes went by, and there was no call for the bride and groom. We just sat there, joining in the nerviusness of the other members of the wedding party. Close to a half hour went by, still no call.

Folks came down and asked what was wrong, was there a change of heart at the last minute? We had to explain that the minister had not arrived.

FINALLY, THE door opened and in walked the Rev. Rice, rain drops dripping from his fedora. Breathless, or at least panting, he explained that he had been speaking at what was then Ypsi Normal and was caught in a rain storm. He apologized no end.

Then we were hustled upstairs to the main auditorium and the services went off without a flaw, though the voices seemed to crack from the spell of nerves.

It was now close to 4 p.m. and the boat was to leave in an hour. So, there was no chance for a receiving or congratulatory line — or even a mere setup of coffee and cookies.

There was nothing to do but forget the formalities and race for the boat. And we made it on time.

Fifty years have gone by since that eventful afternoon, and there have been many changes. The Stroller and his bride are the lone survivors of that wedding party.

It was time for a celebration of some kind, and so there was a meeting of the minds as The Stroller and his bride contemplated on what we would do.

"LET'S HAVE the dinner we couldn't have on the day we were married," she said. "We will invite those who are left of my family, and I'd like to go back to my home town to make it a part of our vacation."

And so, last weekend, we joined with five of her cousins and enjoyed the "wedding dinner" that came 50 years after the official ceremony.

Few things could be more unusual than that.

Being a house frau means never reading the paper

Nancy Walls Smith

It's getting harder and harder these days to justify my preference for being a housewife, as opposed to working outside of my home.

Even the commercials on television have replaced the downtrodden housefrau with the chic lady lawyer stopping off at the drugstore for breath mints before defending her next case, and the lady politician whose hair spray can compaign long after the rest of her has gone limp.

Once again, I seem to be out of step with the times. I can accept the fact that the rest of the world is short-sighted in refusing to acknowledge my life's work as being a full-fledged career. What's bothering me is that lately even my own husband has been accusing me of slothing off!

Yesterday, after a particularly strenuous bout with the lawn mower, he came in the house with sweat on his brow, eyed me suspiciously and asked, "What have you done this morning?"

"I made breakfast for four people, dressed two kids and myself, made the beds, picked up around the house, read the newspaper, and made lunch for four people," was my weary reply.

"Yes, but what have you done?" he repeated.

I should have belted him, but it isn't really his fault. My dear husband, like most others, has never experienced a complete day of catering to and coping with the whims and needs of an entire household. He has no idea of the thrill of being constantly busy, yet having no visible evidence of having "done anything." Frankly, I don't think he could hack it.

To me, I have accomplished a great deal on a busy morning if I've had time to put eyeliner on both eyes. What man could relate to that?

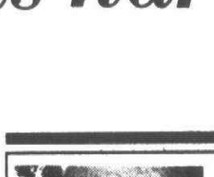

So I've come to the sad conclusion that it is virtually impossible to convince a husband that being on 24-hour call as wife, mother, nurse, janitor and referee comes anywhere near the stress of his eight hours a day behind a desk.

On this particular morning, my mistake was in admitting that I had read the newspaper. That sounds like too much fun. I should have added that while reading the paper I also answered 37½ nonsensical questions from our 4-year-old ("Why are you reading?," "Why are my toenails hard?," "Does God ever hit anybody?," "How many cookies does Spiderman eat each day?," etc., etc.), broke up seven fights between our two young sons ("He keeps calling me a 'dummy'!"), and fought a losing battle to keep the cat out of the garbage and the dog out of the cat's litter pan. And that was the most relaxing part of my day.

Nevertheless, sitting down to read while my husband was mowing the lawn is a marital no-no around here. I don't know if ours if a typical marriage, but over the last 10 years we seem to have a silent competition going between us — the one who works the most, and gets the less sleep, wins.

Yawn.

Leisure life is hard work

Mike Scanlon

Leisure didn't used to be a problem for me.

For the first 20 years or so of my life, I had plenty of it and I got pretty good at it. In college, if I didn't have anything to do some afternoon, I'd hitchhike to the Upper Peninsula and get in a week or so of trout fishing.

Tie yourself down during the day for 40 hours a week, though, and you have to exercise more care in how you spend the time when your not tied down.

Everybody has their favorites. Some guys spend half their lives pruning roses and think they're really having fun. I go bowling every Wednesday night from October to April, and I have an ironclad rule on summer sports: Regular as clockwork, whether I feel like it or, I play one round of golf every year. As a rule to live by, it's better than most.

Even those hardcore committments still leave me with a lot of time on my hands, though. I occupy this time with fishing, gardening, following the stock market, working on cars and drinking.

Of these, I would have to say drinking is my favorite. The beauty of drinking is that, depending on the preferences of the guy on the next stool, you can spend your drinking time talking about any or all of the other things you do and kill two birds with one stone. It could be an answer to American productivity problems. The government ought to give somebody a grant to study it.

NORMALLY, of course, you don't meet a lot of stock market enthusiasts on the next stool. This is basically OK. Interesting as they may be when you lay them all out on the dining room table between a couple of crumpled packs of cigarettes and a pocket calculator, I think advance-decline curves and econometric models are basically drier conversational stuff than martinis.

You run into a lot of car enthusiasts sitting at bars, though, and it seems to me that every man over the age of 55 has some kind of garden in his backyard. Most of them are worried as hell over it. You should hear the language they use about aphids.

Now the nice thing about cars is that they're easy to please. There's a 1964 Dodge Dart convertible in my garage that I've been meaning to get around to doing something with for damn near a year. Not that it hasn't already given me a world of pleasure. I've had 10 or 15 bar conversations about what kind of camshaft I should stick in it. Someday I'll get around to doing something about it, but when I go out there and look at it in the meantime, it hardly ever whines at me.

But plant some cucumber seeds and tomatoes in the yard and you're committed. It's like buying a dog, or getting married. Suppose you just don't feel like getting out and watering them some weekend. It plays on your mind for a few hours, and finally, out of pure guilt, you go out to take a look.

There's no more pitiful sight in the world than a dehydrated cucumber tendril reaching out and tugging at your pants cuff. It kind of gets to you.

City that shuns woman now beckons her back

Craig Piechura

Despite all the griping we do, it is inconceivable for any loyal U.S. citizen to stop calling himself an American.

Mrs. Erna Leopold of Southfield is an American citizen and says "gold mountains" couldn't lure her away from the United States.

She was born in Germany in 1900 and lived in Frankfurt until 1938 when it became a matter of survival to leave her homeland with her husband and two children in tow.

Jews were no longer welcome in the town their ancestors helped to build.

Like many German Jews, Mrs. Leopold and her late husband grew to hate Germans.

The same man who was awarded the Iron Cross as a World War I fighter pilot and member of the elite Richthofen Staffel squadron changed his first name from Joachim to John shortly after arriving in the States.

To this day, Mrs. Leopold must stop and convince herself that the sons of the Nazis are not guilty of the crimes of their fathers.

It was former residents like Mrs. Leopold who once were spurned by the city of Frankfurt that Walter Wallmann, current mayor of that city, invited back last month to see the new Frankfurt, the new Germany.

The Frankfurt City Council set aside $120,000 to bring 106 Jews — 70 from the United States and 36 from Israel — back to the city that once was home to such famous Jews as philosopher Martin Buber and Nobel prize winner for medicine Paul Ehrlich.

Mrs. Leopold and the tour group found Frankfurt a changed city. The great synagogue, burned during the war, is gone. The bombed-out opera house has been rebuilt. And her school, a Jewish gymnasium called Das Philanthropin, is still standing, thanks to a preservation effort.

BUT SO MANY old buildings have been replaced by shiny skyscrapers that the old-timers on the tour started calling the city on the Main river "Mainhattan."

Mrs. Leopold still recites the familiar slogan of Holocaust survivors, "Never forgive, never forget." But since the trip, she tempers that phrase with the admission "I have no hesitation to say that I was glad I went because it gave me a different view . . . not of the era of the Nazis but of the Germany that might come out now."

Later, she says of young Germans, "I tried to forgive, but I can't forget" — an important distinction.

Still, she can't help wondering if the group got the proverbial Russian tour — seeing the side of Germany officials wanted them to see. Some anti-Semitic sentiments from the '30s and '40s must remain, even if dormant, she said.

Mrs. Leopold can't help remembering the fervent Nazi devotion — "especially (from) the women, they were running through the streets, it was like hypnotic. Now nobody was a Nazi when you talk to them."

At one point during a walk, Mrs. Leopold says a young communist handed them a leaflet explaining that there was still a Nazi bookstore in Frankfurt.

"I didn't get excited," Mrs. Leopold said. "We have a Nazi bookstore here."

The group was given the grand tour by Frankfurt city officials. And at almost every stop they were greeted by notebook-bearing reporters and TV camera crews.

Stern, the German equivalent of Life magazine, did a big spread on the contingent before they left for Frankfurt, going so far as sending a camera crew to the United States to shoot pictures of persons such as Joseph and Mary Adler of Livonia, who accompanied Mrs. Leopold on the trip.

Mrs. Leopold and the Adlers were quoted by New York Times reporter John Vinocur in May 31 story about their bittersweet reunion.

A DOCUMENTARY filmed the national television station of West Germany, is scheduled to be rebroadcast in this country this summer.

"We were never alone," Mrs. Leopold said. "When we came down to breakfast, they were there, the boys from Stern, Mr. Vinocur from the New York Times and NDR (the Germany television network). There was no escape from the press, no escape from TV."

Despite the modesty, it's clear Mrs. Leopold enjoyed all the attention. Press clippings and photographs are stacked high on a table in the living room of her Knob in the Woods condominium.

Not all the trip was somber recollections and displays of reparation from her Frankfurt hosts. After all, it was a vacation, too, and the tour group was taken on a special train ride to the forest outside the city to help Frankfurters celebrate the third day of Pentecost in the annual Ebbelwei Festival.

The Jewish expatriates took a boat ride on the river Main and sang songs in German they knew as youngsters to the accompaniment of an accordian.

Ebbelwei means apple wine, and the festival is celebrated only in Frankfurt. Since it was a an apple wine festival, did Mrs. Leopold sample some?

"Sure, what do you think?" she answered incredulously.

It would be reaching for an metaphor to say that Germany is a wine that turned sour but is once again fit for all to drink. Besides, Mrs. Leopold has a better image.

The first time she returned to Frankfurt was 1958 and every man she saw on the street was wearing a black S.S. uniform.

"There was no uniform," Mrs. Leopold said. "I saw the uniform. I imagined it.

"(Before) I can see the men on the street in their uniforms, and now he wears a suit."

Public duty sometimes unpleasant

from our readers

Editor:

One of my very favorite Presidents, whom I still admire greatly, was Harry Truman. Two of his favorite sayings were, "The buck stops here" referring to his desk, and "If you can't stand the heat, get out of the kitchen."

Recently, as an elected Trustee of Canton Township, I received in my official Board packet through the township, an unsigned letter accusing the administration of the fire department of a complete failure to maintain their emergency ambulance units so that each of them had deteriorated to being in serious mechanical disorder.

Because of the unsigned letter, I was faced with both of Harry Truman's favorite sayings. I could have passed the buck onto someone else and hope that in time the difficulty would be fixed and our medical emergency ambulances would again be servicable for all Canton residents. Or I could, as I did, decide that the buck stopped at my desk.

As soon as I received the letter, I went to the fire station and examined personally all of the maintenance records available for the three medical units. I then called the chief of the Fire Department, whom I have known for many, many years and whom I consider a friend.

Evidently the chief was busy all day and was unable to get back to me prior to the Township Board meeting. I was able, however, to find the chief about 30 minutes before the board meeting was to start. He admitted that his records for mechanical maintenance of the emergency ambulance vehicles were poorly kept and again made the same admission during the public meeting later.

The choice that I was forced to make was whether or not this possible life-threatening situation concerning our medical ambulances should be dealt with in public at an open meeting, or behind closed doors. I also had to decide whether or not I was elected to represent the people of Canton Township or employees of Canton Township. I have always felt that critical township business vitally concerning any segment of our population should be dealt with in open public meetings.

I read the letter at an open meeting, encouraged discussion and requested a committee be formed to investigate the matter.

The result was the convening of a committee to investigate the situation at the fire department as to the mechanical readiness of not only the emergency ambulances, but also all of the approximately $700,000 worth of equipment belonging to the fire department. The committee, as you probably know, has decided that the equipment is in generally poor condition and needs instant and continous attention in order to be properly servicable.

It should also be remembered that the Township Board six months ago approved the hiring of a mechanic. That mechanic was unfortunately only hired one month ago and lasted only two weeks.

As a result of my actions, there has been substantial response of an upleasant nature suggesting that the fire chief is a very nice man and that this information should not have been dealt with on a public basis, even though it turned out to be true. I strongly disagree.

Now is when President Truman's second favorite saying, "If you can't stand the heat, get out of the kitchen," comes into play. When I was elected to be a public official, I assumed the sometimes unpleasant duty of speaking out publicly and strongly to protect the people I represent. I believe that I have done this in the case of the fire department emergency equipment.

Canton trustee

Pruner argues candidacy is proper

Township trustee candidate Andy Pruner last week responded to what he called "accusations" surrounding the propriety of his candidacy in the August primary.

A deputy sheriff assigned to secondary roads in western Wayne County, Pruner says there's nothing legally improper about his running for office even though the township now employs fellow deputies in neighborhood patrol and local ordinance enforcement.

Backing his stand is an opinion from an attorney general's ruling in a similar case originating in Romulas.

The opinion reads that one cannot hold public office if he/she is a member of police body responsible for local ordinance enforcement.

In Pruner's case, however, says assistant attorney general Mike Moquin, this officer is not directly employed by Plymouth Township and therefore there's no "conflict of interest" in his running for a board spot.

Moquin added, however, if Pruner were elected in Plymouth Township and then were re-assigned to the neighborhood patrol, he would have to resign from the board.

This issue surfaced last week when Pruner said several township residents contacted his supervisor to question the propriety of his candidacy.

He said that some charged he distributed campaign literature while on patrol in the township. It's a charge he denies.

He added that it is his belief they misinterpreted this action with his distribution of material containing emergency service numbers in the area.

"It's just a lot of trumped up hot air," he says.

Pruner did say that if he were elected he would abstain from possible future board actions involving a new contract with the Wayne County Sheriff's Department.

CLOUD 9 PARTY DESSERTS

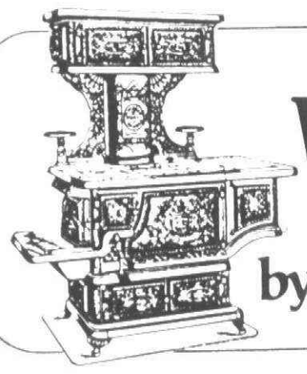

June is full of occasions that entail entertaining a dozen or more people — a graduation party, bridal or baby shower, family reunion or special get-together with good friends.

The strawberry season is here, just in time for elegant entertaining. They're a treat to look at and the simplest combinations result in spectacular desserts.

These three luscious strawberry and almond molded desserts are not only beautiful, they can be prepared ahead of time and each serves 12 or more. Doubling or tripling dessert recipes does not always work. That's why these recipes were developed especially to serve 12 or 16 persons.

Save this trio of irresistible no-bake, make-ahead dessert recipes for your next party or when you're called upon to provide a fancy dessert for a crowd.

The Warming Oven

by Emily Watson

If I were left to my own devices, years of preparing well-balanced meals for a husband and four children might just go by the board. I was looking for a recipe when this recipe for sour cream cabbage caught my eye.

There was no cabbage in the house and it was too late to go to the store. The yearning for sour cream cabbage persisted and it was several days before the opportunity to cook up a batch came along. It was just as good as it sounded. Perhaps the recipe is old hat around your house, but I had never seen it before.

SOUR CREAM CAGGABE

¼ cup butter
4-6 cups chopped cabbage
1 tsp. salt
½ tsp. pepper
1 tbsp. sugar
½ cup sour cream

Melt the butter in a large skillet. Add the cabbage and cook over low heat for 15 minutes, stirring now and then. Add salt, pepper, sugar and sour cream. Stir until the ingredients are well blended in the cabbage, but do not let boil. Serve hot as soon as ready. This is supposed to be served as a vegetable. One is not supposed to make a whole meal of it as I did.

WHEN AUNT Vera packed up to spend the summer at the cottage at Ipperwash, she always took along dozens of oatmeal date cookies. The cookies were packed in a tightly sealed can to preserve crispness. The date spread was packed in a quart Mason jar. The cookies were spread with the dates just before serving and what a treat they were! The filling was dates cooked with water and sugar. The oatmeal cookies were thin and crunchy.

OATMEAL COOKIES

½ pound butter or margarine
1 cup brown sugar
¼ tsp. baking soda
2 Tbsp. boiling water
1 dessert spoon vanilla
2 cups flour
2 heaping cups oatmeal
½ tsp. salt

Cream together butter and sugar. Mix together baking soda, boiling water and vanilla; add to creamed mixture and mix well. Add flour, salt and oatmeal and mix well. You may have to get your hands into this to make it stick together. Drop by teaspoon on greased cookie sheet then flatten with a fork dipped in water. Bake in pre-heated 350-degree oven until crispy and golden. (About 12-15 minutes.) If you prefer a soft, chewy cookie, stick together with the date filling as soon as the cookies are cool. If you like them crisp, do them Aunt Vera's way.

STRAWBERRY CREAM CHARLOTTE

3 pints fresh strawberries, washed and stemmed
1 tablespoon lime or lemon juice
2 envelopes unflavored gelatine
1/2 cup sugar
4 eggs, separated
1-1/4 cups milk°
4 ounces semisweet chocolate, melted
12 ladyfingers, split
1 cup sliced natural almonds, toasted
1 cup (1/2 pint) whipping or heavy cream, whipped
Whipped cream

Slice enough strawberries to equal 5 cups; reserve remaining strawberries for garnish. In blender or food processor, puree 3 cups sliced strawberries. Combine with lime juice; set aside.

In medium saucepan, mix unflavored gelatine with 1/4 cup sugar; blend in egg yolks beaten with milk. Let stand 1 minute. Stir over low heat until gelatine is completely dissolved, about 5 minutes; stir in pureed strawberries. Pour into large bowl and chill, stirring occasionally, until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from spoon.

Meanwhile, prepare pan: spread melted chocolate over rounded sides of ladyfingers. Sprinkle with almonds, pressing gently to coat. Stand ladyfingers, coated side out, against sides of 9-inch springform pan.

In large bowl, beat egg whites until soft peaks form; gradually add remaining sugar and beat until stiff. Fold egg whites, then whipped cream and remaining 2 cups sliced strawberries into gelatine mixture. Turn into prepared pan; chill until firm. Garnish with reserved strawberries, halved, and whipped cream. Makes about 12 servings.

°Variation: Substitute 1/4 cup almond-flavored liqueur for 1/4 cup milk.

STRAWBERRY ALMOND DELIGHT

3 envelopes unflavored gelatine
1 cup sugar
3 cups orange juice, heated to boiling
4 cups (32 ounces) sour cream
1/4 cup orange-flavored liqueur
2 pints fresh strawberries, sliced
1/2 cup chopped natural almonds, toasted
2 bananas, sliced

In large bowl, mix unflavored gelatine with sugar; add hot juice and stir until gelatine is completely dissolved. With wire whip or rotary beater, blend in sour cream and liqueur. Chill, stirring occasionally, until mixture is the consistency of unbeaten egg whites. Fold in remaining ingredients. Turn into 10-inch bundt or tube pan and chill until firm. Garnish, if desired, with sliced almonds and strawberries. Makes about 16 servings.

NO BAKE CALIFORNIA CHEESECAKE

Graham Cracker Almond Crust°
2 envelopes unflavored gelatine
3/4 cup sugar
1 cup boiling water
1 cup creamed cottage cheese
2 packages (8 ounces each) cream cheese, softened
1 cup (1/2 pint) whipping or heavy cream
1/2 teaspoon almond extract
Sliced blanched almonds, toasted
1 pint fresh strawberries, washed and stemmed

In large bowl, mix unflavored gelatine with 1/4 cup sugar; add boiling water and stir until gelatine is completely dissolved. With electric mixer, add cheeses, cream and extract, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Turn into prepared crust; chill until firm. Garnish with almonds and strawberries. Makes about 12 servings.

°Graham Cracker Almond Crust: In small bowl, combine 1 cup graham cracker crumbs, 1/2 cup toasted chopped almonds, 2 tablespoons sugar and 1/4 cup melted butter or margarine. Press onto bottom and sides of 9-inch springform pan; chill.

CHEF'S SECRET WHIPPED CREAM

Unflavored gelatine is the "secret" to fluffy whipped cream that won't wilt so quickly when used as a topping for strawberry shortcakes or other desserts:

In small saucepan, mix 1/2 teaspoon unflavored gelatine with 1 tablespoon cold water. Let stand 1 minute. Stir over medium heat until gelatine is completely dissolved, about 1 minute. Pour into small bowl. Quickly stir in 1 cup heavy or whipping cream and beat until stiff; chill.

ALMOND TIPS AND TECHNIQUES

Toasting brings out the flavor and crispness of almonds. The following methods may be used to toast almonds.

To toast in the oven, spread almonds in a shallow pan. Place in a 350 degree oven for about 10 minutes or until almonds are a light golden brown, stirring once or twice to assure even browning. Note that almonds will continue to brown slightly after being removed from the oven.

To toast in a skillet, spread almonds in a single layer in a shallow skillet. Cook over medium heat, shaking the pan occasionally or stirring once or twice to assure even browning, until almonds are a light golden brown. Remember, toasting times are approximate. Smaller quantities and smaller almond pieces will toast faster.

To toast in the microwave oven, spread a single layer of almonds on a paper plate or shallow baking dish. Cook on full power for 1-1/2 minutes. Stir the almonds; let stand 1 minute, then cook 1-1/2 minutes longer on full power. When almonds turn a toasty golden color, they're done.

A Question of Taste

By Hilary Keating Callaghan

Exposing the old 'athletes need protein' myth

When I asked my children if they would mind being mentioned in a food column, my son, Jim, answered, "No. Just tell them I'm a football player and you feed me raw meat."

His response points up a persistent myth in our culture that athletes need to consume far greater quantities of protein than the rest of the population. What the athlete actually requires is more energy, which is available more economically from carbohydrates than from protein.

In fact, the protein requirements of the athlete are outstripped by those of pregnant or lactating women, and in proportion to body weight, by the infant.

Protein intake is especially critical in these last three groups for the perfect development of the infant. Apart from this part of the population, however, most Americans consume far greater amounts of protein than their bodies require. The extra protein becomes, simply, a delayed and usually expensive source of calories.

IN ADDITION to the myth that a healthy body requires a huge intake of protein, there is a widespread mistaken belief that protein can be obtained only from animal sources in the form of fish, poultry, meat, eggs and dairy products.

These are simply the most easily identifiable sources. All provide "complete" protein, which means they supply eight amino acids which the body cannot synthesize for itself. The body requires a total of 22 amino acids in order to create a molecule of protein.

Fourteen of the amino acids can be manufactured by our bodies. The remaining eight, termed essential amino acids, must come from the foods we eat. If a particular food is deficient in one or several of these essential amino acids, it is possible to make up for the deficiency by eating another food which is rich in the missing amino acids.

THIS IS THE BASIS for the system of protein complementarity outlined by Frances Moore Lappe in "Diet for a Small Planet."

Since few of us have the background to analyze the chemical make-up of the foods we eat, the most practical approach to matching proteins is to obtain a copy of this book or the campanion book, "Recipes for a Small Planet" by Ellen Buchman Ewald. Both books provide charts which tell which foods, when eaten together, provide complete protein.

The phrase, "when eaten together" is significant. Since the body cannot store amino acids, these foods should be eaten at the same meal.

Both Small Planet books also provide recipes which combine complementary foods on optimum proportions. As well as providing a greater diversity in meals, these recipes provide a low-cost alternative to meat-centered meals. The initial small investment in the books should be recovered many times over if, even once or twice a week, you substitute these combinations for meat.

TO ILLUSTRATE how simple and uncomplicated these combinations can be, I have listed a few here.

Complete protein can be obtained by combining: corn and dried beans (a combination common in Mexican cooking), peanuts and milk (a peanut butter sandwich with a glass of milk), rice and wheat (a rice pilaf with cracked wheat) or wheat with milk (macaroni and cheese).

Below is a sampling of recipes taken from the Small Planet books. All recipes supply complete protein, although not always in the animal form with which we are the most familiar.

Cereals, muffins, crackers, salads, sandwiches and vegetable dishes can all provide delicious, varied sources of protein. The pay-off for re-educating ourselves is in the greater variety and economy made possible by the alternatives offered by protein complementarity.

TABOULI
(ZESTY LEBANESE SALAD)

¼ cup white dry or garbanzo beans, cooked and drained
1¼ cups bulgar wheat, raw
4 cups boiling water
1½ cups minced parsley
¾ cup mint, minced (if not available, substitute more parsley)
¾ cup minced scallions
3 medium tomatoes, chopped
¾ cup lemon juice
¼ cup olive oil
1-2 tsp. salt Freshly ground black pepper to taste
Raw grape, lettuce or cabbage leaves

Pour the boiling water over the bulgar and let it stand about two hours until the wheat is light and fluffy. Drain excess water and shake in a strainer and press with hands to remove as much water as possible. Mix the bulgar, cooked beans, and remaining ingredients. Chill for at laest one hour. Serve on raw leaves.

This recipe is adapted from a traditional Lebanese dish often served on festive occasions. If you want to be truly authentic, let your guests or family scoop it up with lettuce leaves instead of using spoons. A Lebanese friend once served Tabouli as a party hors d'oeuvre. It was a great hit. Makes six servings.

NUTTY NUT MUFFINS

1½ cups whole wheat flour
¼ cup soy flour
1 tbsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
¼ cup sesame seeds (toasted)
⅓ cup sunflower seeds, toasted
¼ cup peanuts, chopped and toasted
⅓ cup currants or raisins
1 egg, beaten
1 cup milk 1 to 4 tbsp. melted butter or oil
1 to 4 tbsp. honey

Stir all of the dry ingredients together. This should include the seeds, nuts and raisins. In a separate bowl, beat the egg; add the milk, oil, honey and blend. Make a well in the dry ingredients and add the liquid mixture all at once. Stir just enough to moisten the dry ingredients.

Drop the batter into well-oiled muffin tins. Bake at 375 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes. Serve them hot. Makes about 16 muffins.

CHILES RELLENOS EN CASSEROLE

2¼ cups raw brown rice, cooked
½ cup soybeans, cooked
1 7-ounce can whole green chilis or 10-12 fresh chilis
½ lb. Monterey jack cheese
1 cup drained canned tomatoes
1 tsp. oregano
1 tsp. salt
½ tsp. garlic powder or minced garlic
2 tbsp. chives or scallions
2-3 medium-sized zucchini squash, sliced (optional)
½ cup sesame meal (raw or roasted)

Oil a large deep casserole; place half the cooked rice on the bottom; set aside. If you are using fresh chilis, blanch them or hold them over an open gas flame until the skin crackles and burns all around; peel the skins off. Slit the fresh or canned chilis lengthwise and remove all of the seeds and cut off the stem ends.

Slice the jack cheese so you will have chunks that will fit into the chilis; stuff all the peppers and nestle them into the rice in the casserole. Cover with the remaining rice. (Top the rice with the zucchini slices.)

Puree the tomatoes, soy beans, oregano, salt, garlic and onions in blender; pour this mixture over the second layer of rice or the zucchini, if you are using it.

Sprinkle the sesame meal on top of the sauce; bake the casserole, uncovered, at 350 degrees for 25-30 minutes. Makes eight portions.

NOTE: Although many grocery stores are now carrying a small selection of chili peppers, I have never been able to locate the correct variety for stuffing. I have been told, however, that they are available from a Mexican market called the Honey Bee (La Colmena) located at 2443 Bagley, Detroit, near the Mexican Village.

Byrd's Kitchen

by Vivian Byrd

'When the livin' is easy'

They tell me summer is here, although the weather has not done much toward making a believer of me, except for a day here and there. Other signs have appeared. Birds start their morning chatter by 5 a.m., and lawn mowers and sprinklers spend a lot of time cutting the grass then urging it to grow again.

One additional important sign is the smell of burning charcoal floating over the neighborhood, signaling that dinner will be cooked outdoors tonight.

Food seems to have a special flavor and excitement when cooked outside. While it's cooking, the whole family wants to get into the act, which means corralling help with the chores is easier.

A dish I can recommend for both ease and tastiness is lemonade chicken. Sharon's vegetable kabobs can share the grill. Add a loaf of French bread spread with just enough mustard and barbecue spice to give it a hint of bite.

Then sit back and enjoy. After all, it is summertime and the living is supposed to be easy, including the cooking.

LEMONADE CHICKEN
Serves eight

2 2½- to 3-pound ready-to-cook broiler/fryer chickens
1 6-ounce can frozen lemonade concentrate, thawed
⅓ cup soy sauce
1 tsp. seasoned salt
½ tsp. celery salt
⅛ tsp. garlic powder

Cut the chickens into serving pieces. In a small bowl, combine the thawed lemonade concentrate, soy sauce, seasoned salt, celery salt and garlic powder. Stir until well mixed. Dip the chicken pieces in the lemonade mixture. Place the pieces bone side down over medium hot coals. Grill for about 25 minutes. Turn bone side up and grill until done, about 15 or 20 minutes more. Brush the chicken pieces with the mixture frequently during final 10 minutes of cooking.

SHARON'S VEGETABLE KABOBS
Serves four

Boiling water
12 fresh large mushrooms
2 small zucchini, cut in one-inch bias-sliced pieces
3 tbsp. Italian salad dressing
1 tsp. Worchestershire sauce
¼ tsp. salt
12 cherry tomatoes
2 tbsp. lemom juice

Pour boiling water to cover mushrooms in a bowl. Let stand for one minute. Drain. Alternately thread mushrooms and zucchini on four skewers. Combine Italian dressing, lemon juice, worchestershire sauce and salt. Grill vegetables over medium coals for about 12 minutes, turning and brushing often with the salad dressing mixture. Thread cherry tomatoes on ends of skewers, grill 5 to 8 minutes more, or until tomatoes are heated through, turning and brushing often with the salad dressing mixture.

GRILLED FRENCH SLICES
Serves 12

1 18-inch long loaf French bread
¼ cup butter softened
2 tbsp. snipped parsley
2 tsp. prepared mustard
½ tsp. barbecue spice

Cut bread in one-inch diagonal slices, cutting to, but not through the bottom crust. Combine butter, parsley, mustard and barbecue spice. Spread between every other slice of bread. Wrap loosely in heavy duty foil. Place on edge of grill over slow coals until heated through, about 15 minutes, turning frequently.

Newburg is budget dish

Try delicately flavored, meaty, white North Atlantic Cod with traditional Newburg Sauce for an easy meal that won't break the budget.

NORTH ATLANTIC NEWBURG

1 lb. frozen North Atlantic cod
¼ cup chopped onion
½ cup sauterne
½ cup chicken broth or bouillon (or omit wine and use 1 cup chicken broth)
¼ tsp. salt
1 package refrigerated crescent rolls or 4 toast cups
2 tbsp. butter
2 tbsp. flour
2 egg yolks
½ cup cream or half and half
¼ tsp. allspice
1 tbsp. lemon juice
1 tbsp. chopped parsley

Place frozen fillets, onions, sauterne, chicken broth and salt in 10-inch covered skillet or large saucepan. Bring liquid to boiling point, then immediately reduce heat and simmer 6 to 8 minutes. Remove cod from pan to warm platter and strain and reserve cooking liquid.

As fish fillets simmer, make toast cups or separate crescent dough into 4 rectangles; firmly press perforations to seal. Cut each rectangle in half crosswise; press into 4-inch squares. Place squares over inverted muffin cups and bake in pre-heated 400-degree oven for 10 minutes. Remove from back of pan and place on rack.

Melt butter in saucepan, stir in flour and cook over low heat about 30 seconds. Stir in reserved cooking liquid and cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Remove from heat. Beat together eggs, cream and allsppice and slowly pour into wine/broth mixture, whisking constantly. Place over low heat and cook, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Remove from heat and stir in lemon juice. Break cod into chunks and fold into Newburg Sauce.

One-pot dish is a pleasure

For a mid-week dinner with a foreign flavor, try this rosy medley of tomatoes, packaged pre-cooked rice and grated Parmesan cheese.

TOMATO CHEESE RICE

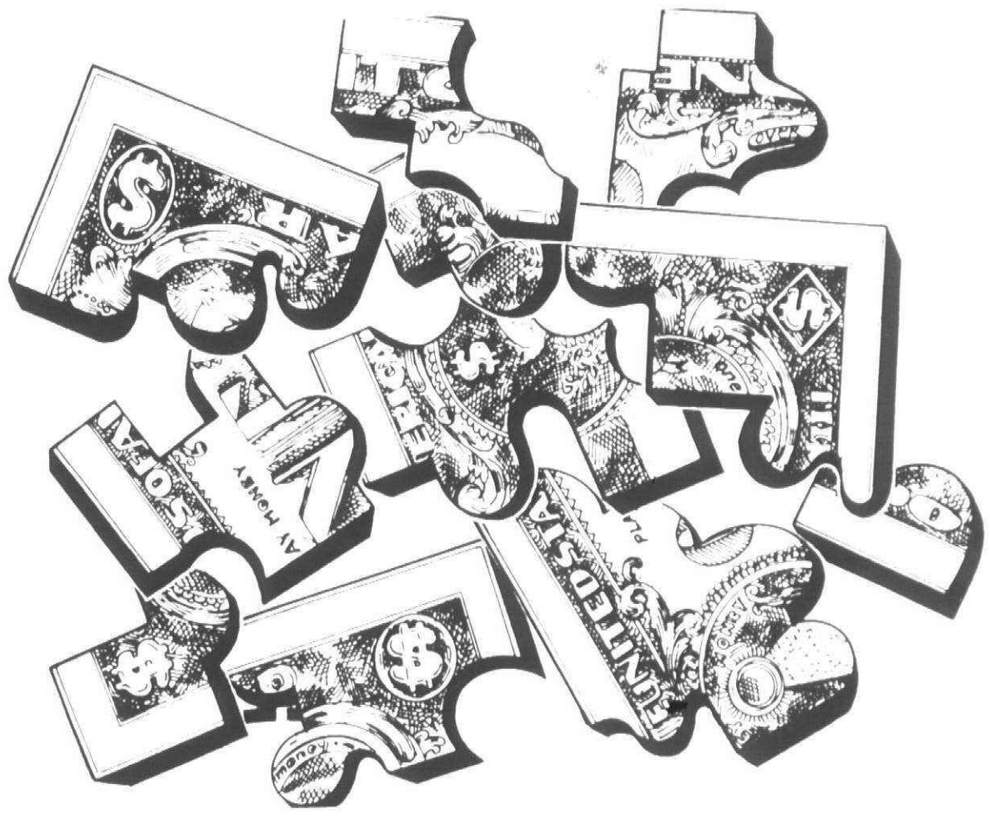

1 can (16 oz.) stewed tomatoes
⅓ cup water
2 tbsp. butter or margarine
1½ cups pre-cooked rice
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese

Combine tomatoes, water and butter in saucepan; bring to a boil. Stir in rice. Cover; remove from heat and let stand 5 minutes. Stir in cheese. Makes 3½ cups or 6 servings.

The VIEW from CANTON CENTER

by ELLIE GRAHAM

THERE ARE NO strawberries at the Tillotson Farm on Lilley Road in Canton Township. They do not have a strawberry patch. Last Thursday we added the Tillotsons to a story about where persons could pick their own strawberries in this area. It was a last-minute addition almost at press time. They had been included in a Free Press story and we didn't want to leave them out. The Free Press had received its misinformation from a publicity release.

Mrs. Tillotson said they have had people knocking on their door and telephone calls have averaged one a minute. We apologize to the Tillotsons and the pickers.

SIX PLYMOUTH Rotarians and their wives were in Chicago for Rotary International's 75th convention.

Earl and Chloe West, Bill and Theresa Covington, Warren and Vivian Bradburn, Bob and Mickey Beyer and Dick and Elaine Kirchgatter were there. Dick and Elaine stayed in McCormick Inn and the rest of them stayed right next to McCormick Place in a parking lot. It wasn't all that primitive for the five couples in the lot.

They had traveled to Chicago in motor homes and used them as headquarters throughout the convention. There were 400 motor homes from all over the U.S. assembled for the convention. For the Beyers, it was an opportunity to renew old acquaintances in the motor home set. Mickey said that although they all have their own generators, they plugged into the provided supply of electricity, which was enough to keep all their refrigerators going. She added that luckily it was cool when they were there and the weather was pleasant for motor home living.

Rotary was founded in Chicago in 1905 and now has more than 860,000 members in 154 countries.

Bill Tessen and Bill Brown of the Canton Rotary Club flew to Chicago for one day of the convention.

LAST MONDAY'S column about the WSDP grads was too long and had to be cut. (My fault, it should have been jumped.)

To continue. Rich Kelley was news director at WSDP during his junior and senior years at high school. After graduation in 1973, he attended Eastern Michigan University where he began part-time work at WEMU. During his last two years at Eastern, he worked at both WEMU in Ypsilanti and WAAM in Ann Arbor.

When he graduated in 1977 he went to Norfolk, Va., to work at WHNE, Honey Radio, which had been added to the Sinclair radio stations some six months before. (Sinclair had owned WAAM when Rich was working there.)

Rich is still in Norfolk and is now news director for WNIS, Norfolk, Honey Radio having changed its format from country to news and information. Rich will graduate from the College of William and Mary with a master's degree in government at the end of the summer.

His parents are Ralph and Betty Kelley of Plymouth.

BRUCE GERISH was a disc jockey and broadcast football play-by-play at WSDP. As a student at Alma College, he has both basketball and football over cable television. He also has worked as a disc jockey on WABM.

Jeff Cardinal, coordinator for WSDP, says he has a whole new corp of talented seniors graduating this month. He is expecting great things from them, too.

MILLIE DELY of Plymouth was one of seven women from Western Wayne County who took part in the 1980 leadership training conference at Michigan State University's Kellogg Center in East Lansing. All the women are volunteers for the Michigan Cancer Foundation.

COMPETITION IS tough at the Tuesday evening duplicate bridge games at the Plymouth Cultural Center, 525 Farmer St., with several life masters playing. Last week's winners were: north-south, first, Norb Smith and Harold Stanley; second, Robert Kinsler and Jack Paul; east-west, first, Mike Alioto and Steve Hench; second, Mr. and Mrs. Gabi Ideh.

Wednesday duplicate play begins at 10:30 a.m. at the center. Some provide their own sandwiches but there also are refreshments provided. They play right on through to 2:30 or 3 p.m.

Last week's winners were: north-south, first, Shirley Young and Emily Durham; second, Beverly Dietrich and Freda Gall; east-west, first, Ruthella Butz and Marilyn Maher; second, Ann Chizmar and Jessie Hudson.

Newcomers Club elects officers for new season

The Canton Newcomers Club ended its 1979-80 season with a dinner meeting and installation of new officers at the Ming K Gardens in Canton Township. Linda Lupo, retiring president, handed over her gavel to Penny Luddecke.

Serving with Mrs. Luddecke on the executive board will be Pat Doller, vice president; Arlene Caron, secretary; and Shirley Gruetzmacher, treasurer.

The club meets the first Wednesday of each month, September through June, in Pioneer Middle School. Although membership has decreased from 500 to 300, dining out is something of a problem. The decision was made to meet in the school. Refreshments are served — coffee and cookies — and they have had some very successful potluck dinners.

Big get-togethers are the June dinner meeting and one other during the year. There was the fashion show and dinner at the Plymouth Hilton in December, and a benefit 50-50 auction in November, which earned $700 for charities.

MEMBERS ENJOY the smaller, special interest group meetings, some of which are in the women's homes. Some of these groups include their husbands.

The wine and cheese tasting group, which meets once a month, is for couples, and there are bridge and pinochle groups for couples.

Special interests are gourmet, bowling, bridge, pinochle, dining out, book discussion, antiques, luncheon in, and Ladies' Day.

The antiques group meets in the evening. They have guest speakers, and field trips have taken them to Cranbrook and Saline. The Ladies' Day group attends events that appeal to the members. During the past season, they went to the Grosse Pointe Junior League's "Show Place."

"The women enjoy the luncheon-in because their children are included. They take along a covered dish for luncheon in a member's home," explained the new president.

The club also has a babysitting co-ops and mixer meetings.

The millionaires' party in October at the Plymouth Cultural Center was for couples. Last couples' party of the season was last weekend's road rally which was a success despite torrential rains and a tornado watch. Everyone gathered at the Sherwood Inn in Livonia for dinner after the rally.

ALL MONEY raised by the club goes right back to the community.

Donations were made to the Canton Goodfellows, the Canton Historical Society and the Talented and Gifted program in the Plymouth-Canton Schools.

At the Canton Newcomers Club annual installation dinner (from left),, past president Linda Lupo and new president Penny Luddecke greeted Pat Doller, Shirley Gruetzmacher and Arlene Caron.

The women have another fund-raiser coming up. They will have a booth at the Canton Chamber of Commerce Fair in August, where they they will be selling hot buttered corn on the cob and watermelon.

Standing committee chairwomen for the 1980-81 season have been appointed. They are Lin Pankratz, newsletter; Kathy Spencer, membership; Claudette Gonsiorowski, welcoming; Carol Bollman, interest groups; Linda Leszcz, hospitality; Debby Barnes, reservations; Molly Pemberton, publicity; Char Towne, couples; and Judi Carr, community relations.

Women who have been Canton Township residents for less than two years and wish more information about the club can call the president, 397-1458, or Kathy Spencer, 459-7753.

Juanita's 'Good morning!' called teachers to school

It was Juanita Kahrl Day Thursday at the Plymouth-Canton Schools Board of Education offices. Mrs. Kahrl's co-workers honored her with a party to mark her retirement after 15 years with the school district. Gifts were presented throughout the day and the festivities culminated with with a buffet luncheon.

Juanita Kahrl has wakened more teachers in the past 15 years than any alarm clock in the Plymouth-Canton community. (Staff photo by Steven Cantrell)

Mutual admiration was apparent as Mrs. Kahrl spoke of her retirement. "It couldn't possibly be better than my years with the Plymouth-Canton Schools and the people I worked with. When I started, Dr. Hoben (John M. Hoben, superintendent of schools) was a math teacher and football coach at the old high school. I've seen him progess to one of the finest persons and administrators anyone could ever work with or for."

Mrs. Kahrl has opened shop at the board offices for the past 15 years. She made it a point of arriving by 5 a.m. each school day so she could begin making calls to the substitute teachers.

"It would take me a few minutes to get the messages off the tapes before I could begin calling the substitutes for the high schools. High school classes begin at 7:15 a.m. and the teachers have to be there by 7. I had to call them early to give them traveling time."

She missed only one day in her 15 years.

"Dr. Hoben called me very early and said, 'Don't go out. No one can get through. There won't be anyone out.' "

She said it was a Monday morning after Thanksgiving and there had been a big snowfall.

"I live just three blocks from the office so I could walk," she added. "I never had any difficulty getting to work."

Her retirement plans include continuing her part-time work at a cleaning shop, her long-time association with FISH organization as a volunteer, and her church work.

Rewards are stressed as motivators

New behavior code is working at Central Middle

When 300 Central Middle School students boarded the buses Saturday and headed for Tiger Stadium, it was a proud moment for them, for their parents and for their teachers.

The 300 who saw the Detroit-Chicago baseball game were being rewarded for their good citizenship, their exemplary behavior at school.

Central instituted a code of behavior last February. There wasn't one demerit among all 300 students during the five-month period since the code came into existence. The PTSO at Central was so pleased with them, it footed the bill for the outing.

Teachers, administrators, parents and students worked together in designing the code. A major concern was safety of the 800 students at Central. Another concern was proper use of the teachers' time. With 30 children in a class, it was unfair to have the teacher spending more time disciplining two students who misbehaved and interrupted the lessons than she spent teaching the other 28.

Before the new term started in February, the code had been drawn up and students, parents and teachers were aware of its contents.

Demerits would be recorded for inappropriate behavior. Students, teachers, parents and administrators had agreed on what could be termed inappropriate and these were listed in alphabetical order, from A through N.

DEMERIT BEHAVIOR would result in a verbal reprimand to a student and be recorded by an adult for violations of the following rules:

A. Repeated disobedience.

B. Unnecessary disruptive sounds or noises.

C. Littering of school property anywhere.

D. Running, sliding, or fooling around in the building halls or stairways.

E. Spitting.

F. Throwing things (including snowballs).

G. Willful damage to others' property or threats to others.

H. Bullying, harassing, swearing and/or obscene gestures to other students.

I. Fighting (minor).

J. Unauthorized selling.

K. Repeated unexcused tardiness to class.

L. Being out of assigned class without a pass.

M. Being in unauthorized areas of the building — among others it includes stairways and second and third floor halls prior to 7:35 a.m. bell and noon hour.

N. Disruptive behavior while on school bus or at areas where school has jurisdiction. (Repeat violations will result in loss of bus-riding privileges.)

DEMERITS were not handed out for major breaches of the school's ground rules.

Some behavior problems are handled directly by the administration at the school. The students are aware that some misconduct can result in an automatic suspension. The suspension can be for one to three days, depending on individual cases. Or, some appropriate alternative action can be taken.

Listed as major breaches are: leaving the classroom, building or school grounds without permission; stealing; smoking; fighting (major); swearing and/or obscene gestures to an adult; willful destruction of school property; possession or sales of drugs of any kind; extortion; illegal pulling of fire alarm box; skipping class; throwing objects which may cause serious injury to anyone or any other dangerous activity.

Three detentions in a 10-week marking period also can result in a suspension. Repeated misbehavior calls for a meeting of teachers, parents, school psychologist and an administrator. Three to five demerits in a single week resulted in a 30-minute after school detention.

Each student who received a detention was issued a form to take home. Parent or guardian had to make arrangements to pick up the student at a specified time on the designated detention day.

AT THE BEGINNING of each new marking period, the students started out with a clean slate: they were back to zero demerits.

The sixth, seventh and eighth graders who ended the marking period without a single demerit were eligible for participation in a special celebration.

One month it was a gym and swim party at the school. One month they all went ice skating at the Cultural Center arena. Another time, there was a movie, "The Ox-Bow Incident," shown in the school.

Those with perfect scores for the month of June will go on an ice cream walk.

With staff, students and parents expressing satisfaction over the code of behavior, it is expected to be continued in the fall, with a few revisions.

Gregory Lane residents also requesting relief from passing automobiles

Gregory Lane residents may feel their cries have gone unheeded for six years, but that's not going to stop them from getting "very vocal" now.

That's the message a contingency of those residents brought before the Plymouth Township Board Tuesday in protest to recent actions that have upset traffic patterns in their neighborhood once again.

"We've been told that we're politically naive," said resident Bill Carter. "But we're not going to be low-profile on this any longer. We're going to get very vocal."

Gregory Lane residents are among others within the Mayflower and Parkland Meadows Subdivision who have experienced the distress of poor road conditions on Sheldon.

Oftentimes, to avoid bottlenecks at the Sheldon and Joy intersection, travelers will meandor through these adjoining subdivisions, causing excess traffic activity, they say.

Tom Breault, also a Gregory Lane resident, says this intersection's bottlneck has worsened since the M-14 and I-275 freeways have opened. Additionally, Sheldon's traffic has increased in recent years due to the growth of Canton Township's population.

But what was of immediate concern to these residents Tuesday was the knowledge of recent actions to maintain barricades at Mayflower Drive and Joy.

This action, they believe, puts direct traffic pressure on their street as motorists will use the Albert (at Sheldon) access into their neighborhood. (Barricades on Albert have been removed).

Mayflower residents also have been vocal in recent months in alleviating excessive traffic on their street, which they feel is used as a main drag toward Joy Road.

"We recognize that the people of Mayflower have a problem but we do, too, and just don't want to have all of the problem," says Breault.

"We just want to share the burden equally."

"The solution is not the closure of streets or by restricting traffic onto those streets," said Breault.

Both men presented the board with an 81-signature petition calling for the removal of the Maylfower barricades and for a public hearing to be held on the matter.

There was no action taken on this request, but members did agree to try another route to a possible solution.

Instead, it was suggested that the coutny road commission consider changing the key streets into one-way thoroughfares to alleviate traffic congestion on any one street.

"All we're asking for is equal treatment," said Carter.

City and townships losing state funds

Canton and Plymouth townships and the city of Plymouth will be losing state revenue sharing funds this fiscal year.

The loss in state funds results from an executive order by Gov. Milliken to cut state revenue sharing funds in an attempt to balance the state operating budget.

The cuts must be made by the governor because the Michigan Constitution requires the Legislature to reduce state expenditures when those expenditures exceed incoming revenues, explains state Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, who's 14th District includes Livonia, Northville and Plymouth.

Geake, a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, says the cuts come at a difficult time for the local units of government because the various communities already have budgeted the funds and are counting on receiving the money.

"But if Michigan is to continue to provide responsible government at the state level, then a balanced budget is essential," said Geake.

As a result of the cutbacks, Wayne County will lose almost $1.5 million in state revenue sharing funds for this fiscal year, or a reduction of 7.65 percent from the previous year.

Instead of receiving $19.5 million from the state, Wayne County now will receive only $18 million.

Plymouth Township will have a 6.33 percent reduction in shared revenues as it will lose $36,345 in state funds. The city of Plymouth will lose $23,063 or 4.64 percent from last year.

Reductions in revenue sharing for nearby communities include: Northville Township, $17,490 or 5.87 percent; Redford Township, $142,201 or 5.58 percent; Livonia, $218,000 or 4.89 percent; city of Northville, $5,895 or 4.74 percent; and Westland, $168,417 or 4.26 percent.

All customary grants also are in jeopardy, said Geake. "If the present budget situation doesn't improve, Livonia and Northville could lose all or part of our $800,000 annual share of race track proceeds next year."

Happy hour set Tuesday

Where does the sky touch the ground?

What happens when an average third-grader begins collect ing polka dots and hiccups?

What is the trouble with magical rainbow mud?

The answer to these and many other intriguing questions will be presented at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. Tuesday when WSDP, 88.1 FM, presents "Happy Hour with Uncle Kevin and Uncle Mike" — a program produced specifically with the needs of elementary pupils in mind.

The program will consist of stories written by a creative writing class from Plymouth Salem High and read by members of the Salem forensics team.

Further pursual of the books can be accomplished at Plymouth Book World where they are on display.

CLARENCE AND ELSIE PANKOW

Pankows celebrate 50 years wed

With their maid of honor and best man at their sides, the Clarence Pankows celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at a dinner given in their honor by their children.

More than 100 friends and relatives — including wedding attendants Helen Sachs and William Staman — shared in the celebration at the Plymouth Hilton and enjoyed entertainment reminiscent of the 1920s and 1930s, when the couple were newlyweds.

Clarence Pankow and Elsie Staman met while attending Briggs Country Grade School, which at the time was at Six Mile and Newburg roads in Livonia. Clarence Pankow continued his education through correspondence and became a skilled tradesman. His wife, Elsie, graduated from Plymouth High School in 1929, then completed a secretarial course at Cleary College in Ypsilanti.

The couple were married June 17, 1930, in the home of Elsie's parents on Irvin Street in Plymouth next door to the home the couple built for themselves and have lived in for 50 years.

The Pankow's daughter, Joanne Goode, is an assiatnt princial at Churchill High School in Livonia. There are two grandchildren.

Mr. Pankow retired from his work as a tool and die maker for Ford Motor Co. He previously worked at Vinco, and the Townsend-Textron Co. in Plymouth.

Elsie Pankow worked as a bookkeeper for the Paul J. Weidman Ford dealership, presntly the Calhoun Ford dealership.

They have both been active in church activites and are lifelong members of St. Paul's Lutheran Church of Livonia. The Reverand Winfred Koelpin of that church spoke at the anniversary dinner giving testimony to the couple.

Their interests include travel, home projects, playing cards and gardening.

All-Observer track honorees display mettle

By DOUG FUNKE
and BRAD EMONS

It was both a good year and a not so good year this spring for area trackmen.

There weren't as many league championships won by area teams as last year. And not as many individuals scored in the state finals.

In some events — especially the long and middle distances — the performances seemed to match or better those turned in during previous seasons.

In others — some field events and the sprints — performances generally didn't seem as good.

But there were some highlights. Livonia Churchill won the Western Six League championship for the ninth year in a row.

Livonia Stevenson and Westland John Glenn finished second in the Inter-Lakes League and the Northwest Suburban League, respectively.

Andy Dillon, from Detroit Catholic Central, and Charlie Martin, from Stevenson, each placed in the Class A state meet.

Area coaches met recently to select the 1980 All-Observer teams. Individuals were limited to an honoring berth in only one event, excluding relays, so that more could be included.

FIRST TEAM

Grant Gorton, Livonia Franklin, pole vault. The senior placed first at the Northwest Suburban League Meet and finished first in all of the dual meets in which he competed.

Gorton, a senior, co-captained the Patriots and was the individual winner at the Observerland Relays.

He holds the school record at Franklin, 13-6, and anchored the Patriots' mile relay team this spring.

Gregg Probst, Livonia Bentley, high jump. A senior in his first track season, Probst cleared 6-4 on three occasions during competition.

Probst placed second at Observerland and second at the Churchill Regional in high jump.

Probst also competed in the 100-yard dash, shot put, discus and 440 relay for the Bulldogs during the season.

Paul Bialowicz, Redford Bishop Borgess, long jump.
The junior set a record at the Elks Relays with a leap of 22-2¼.

Bialowicz, another of the more versatile performer in the area, also competed in the high hurdles, 14.9, low hurdles, 39.9, 220, 24.0, and 440, 51.9.

Bialowicz also ran in the 440 and 880 relays.

John Murzin, Redford Bishop Borgess, shot put. Murzin, a senior, placed second at the Catholic League Meet, 50-9, and second in the PSL-CHSL Meet, 50-8½.

Murzin was Borgess' leadoff runner in the 440 and 880 relays. He also ran the 100 with a best time of 10.6.

Bob Pittaway, Plymouth Salem, discus. The junior enjoyed an excellent season, finishing first at Observerland, the Stevenson Invitational, the Tiger Relays, the Churchill Regional and the Suburban Eight League Meet.

Pittaway placed first in every competition he entered this season except for one dual meet and the state finals.

He also clocked a best time of 10.23 in the 100 and was a member of Salem's mile and 440 relay teams.

Dave Berger, Garden City East, 330-yard hurdles. A senior co-captain, Berger was Northwest Suburban League champion this season in the low hurdles.

He holds the school record with a time of 39.9.

Berger ran a leg on East's NSL championship mile relay team this spring and is a member of the school record-breaking 880 and mile relay teams.

Paul Coburn, Livonia Franklin, mile. The junior was Northwest Suburban League champ in the two mile and finished a close second in the mile this spring.

Coburn's best mile time was 4:29.0. He holds the school record of 9:42.2 in the two mile.

Coburn also is an excellent cross-country performer.

Joe Jacobites, Livonia Stevenson, 880-yard run. Undefeated in dual meets, Jacobites this season finished second at the Inter-Lakes League Meet and third at the Churchill Regional.

Jacobites this year also competed in the 440, 52.5, the 220, 23.8, and the mile, 4:45.

Tom Gosselin, Livonia Churchill, 440-yard dash. The senior, who was injured much of the 1979 season, rebounded and clocked eight races in the 440 this year below 51.0.

In the Western Six League Meet, Gosselin placed first in the 440, the 220 and the 100 AND he anchored the winning mile relay team in an unprecedented performance.

Gosselin co-captained the team this year.

Rich Galan, Garden City East, 220-yard dash. Galan set the winning pace in both the 220, 23.0, and the 440, 51.1, at the Northwest Suburban League Meet.

The junior is the current record-holder at East in the 440.

GREG LIPKA
Salem

JIM SPOONER
Salem

LEIGH LANGKABEL
Salem

Galan also placed in the long jump at the NSL Meet and shares in the school record-holding 880 and mile relay efforts.

Norm Recla, Livonia Churchill, 100-yard dash. A junior, Recla quite often this season did exceptionally well in back-to-back races — the 120-yard hurdles and the 100-yard dash.

He was second to Gosselin in the 100 at the Western Six League Meet, but did win the gold medal in the 120 hurdles.

Recla placed third at the Western Six in the 330 hurdles and ran a leg on the conference-winning mile relay team.

Greg Lipka, Bob Pittaway, Jim Spooner and Leigh Langkabel, Plymouth Salem, 440-yard relay. This foursome won the Suburban Eight League title, 44.2.

They also landed third at the Stevenson Invitational, 44.9, and third at the Churchill Regional, 45.2.

The quartet clocked 44.2 at the state meet, but did not place.

Kevin Spala, Jim Recker, Rick Arnold and Kevin Gallagher, Livonia Stevenson, 880-yard relay. Undefeated in dual meets, this crew had a best time this season of 1:32.02.

Hall, Dillon voted best trackmen

Traditionally, only one athlete is voted Observerland Trackman of the Year.

Not so this spring.

A majority of coaches felt they could not overlook the talents of Dave Hall, from Livonia Stevenson, or Andy Dillon, from Detroit Catholic Central.

One look at each one's accomplishments will tell you why.

Hall, a senior, is one of the most versatile athletes and trackmen ever to compete in Observerland.

This track season, Hall ran the 120-yard hurdles in 14.45 seconds, the 330 hurdles in 38.5, the 440 in 51.0, and the 100 in 10.6. He threw the discus 166 feet, 3 inches and the shot 46-7.

Hall cleared 6-6 in high jump and leaped 20-9¾ in long jump. He also ran on Stevenson's 880 and mile relay teams.

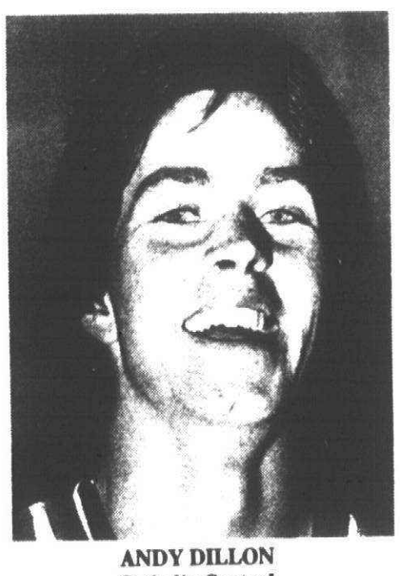

Hall has accepted an athletic scholarship to the University of Michigan.

DILLON, also a senior, was undefeated the past three years at one- and two-miles in dual competition. He was also unbeaten this spring in the 880.

Dillon this season was regional and Catholic League champion in the two-mile and a third-place finisher in the two-mile at the Class A state finals.

This year, he was Catholic League champion in the mile and the 880 in addition to the two-mile.

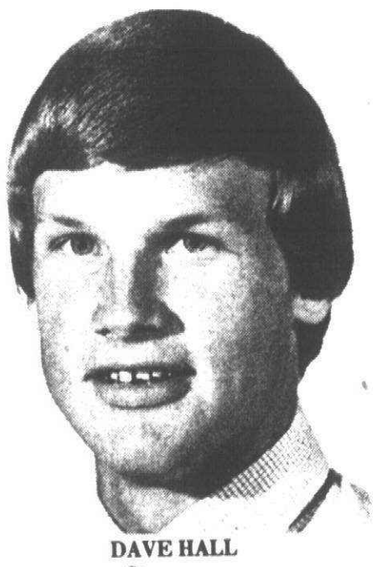

Dillon paced the field in the two-mile and finished third in the mile indoors this spring at the Spartan Relays.

ANDY DILLON
Catholic Central

He has captained both the track and cross country teams the last two years.

Dillon has accepted an athletic scholarship to Notre Dame University.

Both Hall and Dillon were designated by area coaches as 1980 Trackmen of the Year.

Elks, Canton win Mack openers

Borgess thwarted in 9th

The Plymouth Elks and Canton won Redford Adray Connie Mack League baseball openers Thursday night.

Salem's Elks won a nine-inning thriller from Bishop Borgess, 5-4, as first baseman Joe Garcia knocked home teammate John Hetkowski with the winning run.

Canton, behind the combined five-hit pitching of Dan Funkhouser and Al Lipinski, downed Southfield, 3-1.

"It was an exciting way to start the season," said Elks coach Ben Wilcox. "We played very tight defensive ball."

Salem played errorless ball and collected 13 hits.

Paul Stevenson, who relieved starter Jim Jimmerson in the sixth, allowed no runs and no hits to pick up the victory. He struck out two and walked three in 3⅔ innings of work.

Jimmerson did not allow a run until the sixth when Mark Zalewski of Borgess broke up the shutout with a three-run homer, tying the game.

Salem scored three runs in the first inning on five consecutive singles. Catcher Dave Slavin drove in the first runs as Hetkowski and Mitch Wilcox scored. Brian Lewandowski made it 3-0 by driving home Garcia with a single.

The Elks knotted the count at 4-all in the sixth when designated hitter Hslao Peng's sacrifice fly scored Lewandowski.

IN THE NINTH inning, Hetkowski led off with a walk and went to second base when Wilcox was hit by a pitch. Garcia then came through with his game-winning single.

"I thought the kids would come out a little flat after sitting out for 10 days," said Wilcox. "They came out smoking, though."

Slavin and Lewandowski each had three hits for the winners. Hetkowski and Garcia each added two.

Steve Schumacher broke a 1-1 tie in the fifth inning with a two-out, two-run double for Canton.

Outfielder Keith Stone had two of Canton's nine hits.

Malek hurls, bats team to victory

Plymouth Canton's baseball team upped its Mickey Mantle League record to 2-0 Thursday night by blitzing Windsor Mic Mac, 17-5.

Canton, coached by Dave Racer, banged out 11 hits. Bryan Capnerhurst led the assault with three hits and four RBIs. He also scored three runs.

Dave Malek, the winning pitcher, added two doubles and three RBIs. Scott Bricker, who collected two hits, and Billy Hanis, an infielder, each scored three runs.

Malek hurled the first five innings and allowed two runs on five hits. He struck out five and walked only two.

Jack Ford came on for the final two innings to gain credit for the save.

CANTON KOUFAX SPLITS

Canton Sandy Koufax League team divided a pair of league games last week.

Coach Gerald Ebmeyer's squad edged Brighton on Tuesday, 6-5, behind the clutch pitching of Scott Cowan, who did not allow a run or hit in three innings of work.

Mike McKinney's two-out double proved to be the game winner in the bottom of the seventh. The hit scored two runs to give Canton the win.

Mike Battaglia started for Canton. He allowed five runs in four innings.

South Lyon dropped Canton to 2-2 overall with a 5-2 triumph Thursday night.

Defensive lapses and offensive inconsistency led to Canton's downfall.

McKinney started and allowed three runs in four innings — two were unearned.

"He (Mike) pitched well," said Ebmeyer. "That should have been enough."

Canton will host Westland at 6:15 p.m. at Central Middle School.

Scout bureau holds tryouts

The Major League Scouting Bureau, representing 17 Major League baseball teams, will conduct a tryout camp for players 16-23 years of age, at two sites June 23-24.

Interested players can try out June 23 at Bailey Park in Battle Creek. Another camp will be held June 24 at Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti.

Players must bring their own shoes, glove and uniform. American Legion players must have written permission from their coach or post commander allowing them to participate.

Dick Colpaert, head scout for the Major League Scouting Bureau in the Michigan area, will supervise the camps. Also in attendance will be other scouts from Major League organizations. The camps will begin at 9:30 a.m. and conclude about 3 p.m.

Reported cases of malaria are on the rise

travel log

Iris Sanderson Jones
contributing travel editor

The International Association for Medical Assistance to Travelers (IAMAT) warns that malaria is increasing among travelers to certain high-risk countries.

This warning is backed up by the World Health Organization, which has noted a dramatic increase in the number of malaria cases reported in the United States and Canada.

IAMAT, a non-profit organization which offers medical information and a list of recommended doctors world-wide, makes the following statement:

"With so many of us tripping off to the more exotic tropical destinations, the chances of contracting malaria are growing. Over 5 million Americans and Canadians traveled to the high-risk malaria countries last year. The result was a rise of 46 percent in cases reported in the U.S. and a startling 60 percent rise in those reported in Canada. The United Kingdom reported a 25 percent rise in reported cases resulting in 16 deaths."

The World Malaria Risk Chart, which is available from IAMAT, shows the high risk areas to be in Central America, northern South America, central and southern Africa, the Middle East, India and southeast Asia.

A pamphlet, "How to Protect Yourself Against Malaria," describes the nature of the disease and the preventive measures that can be taken by travelers visiting these areas. They recommend that you book your trip through a travel agent with a window sign that reads Alliance of Travel Agencies for Traveler Protection Against Malaria. They also recommend that you ask your doctor for a preventive medicine called Chloroquine.

APPARENTLY malaria is different from other dangerous diseases in that it can usually be prevented by taking medication before, during and after exposure. Local inhabitants may be immune to malaria, but they still may carry the disease in their blood. A mosquite that bites such a person can carry the malaria to an unsuspecting traveler.

A resurgence of malaria in developing countries is also attributed to a growing resistance by the carrier mosquito to insecticides. Health officials also blame ignorance on the part of travelers and the tendency of national tourist bureaus to play down the incidence of malarlia.

I do not intend to alarm you with this information. I am not a doctor; I cannot evaluate the reports coming out of the medical community.

I can tell you, however, that concern has been expressed by the World Health Organization, city health departments, the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta and IAMAT. It has been reported in The New York Times and the Toronto Star among other publications. For more information, I suggest that you contact the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga., or that you call your county health department for information they may have received from the World Health Organization. You can also contact IAMAT at 350 Fifth Ave., Suite 5620, New York, N.Y. 10001. This and other information is free from IAMAT, although they would love to have you as a member and would welcome a donation.

Ozark Center working to keep folk arts alive

By IRIS SANDERSON JONES

ARKANSAS — We are heading north from Little Rock towards Greer's Ferry Lake and the Ozark Folk Center at Mountain View. The Ozark Mountains range across the north and west of Arkansas, highlighted by corp lakes and hot springs.

Corp lakes are those created by the Corp of Engineers for flood control, power and recreation. Greer's Ferry Lake, 1½-hour drive north of Little Rock, is 40,000 acres of dammed-up water in the hilly, treed country near the town of Heber Springs.

The dam, which was created to hold back the Red River, one of the prime trout rivers in Arkansas, was dedicated by President John Kennedy a few weeks before his death.

The project killed some of the fish in the area, but it still contains plenty of bass, bream, crappie and catfish, and has been stocked with trout and walleye.

Quilting and woodcarving are two crafts practiced and studied at the center. Lois Dodson works on a quilt while woodcarver Les Richardson prepares a log.

The Red River is liberally dotted with fishing resorts between the dam and Little Rock. They are cottage-style resorts that provide fishing guides and often canoe services. The Red is one of Arkansas' best float streams.

The shores of the lake are devoted to nature trails, campsites and developing tourist resorts, all run with gentle guidance from the Corp of Engineers. The corp has introduced solar energy into some of its camping buildings, and will pioneer new energy conservation techniques here next year.

Arkansans recommend a small resort called Red Apple Inn on an island just west of the town of Heber Springs. It was described to me by several people as a wonderful small inn, with a good dining room and three dozen individually furnished rooms at reasonable rates.

We are staying at a major retirement and recreational resort called Indian Rock Resort on Fairfield Bay, owned by a company that has several such resorts across the United States.

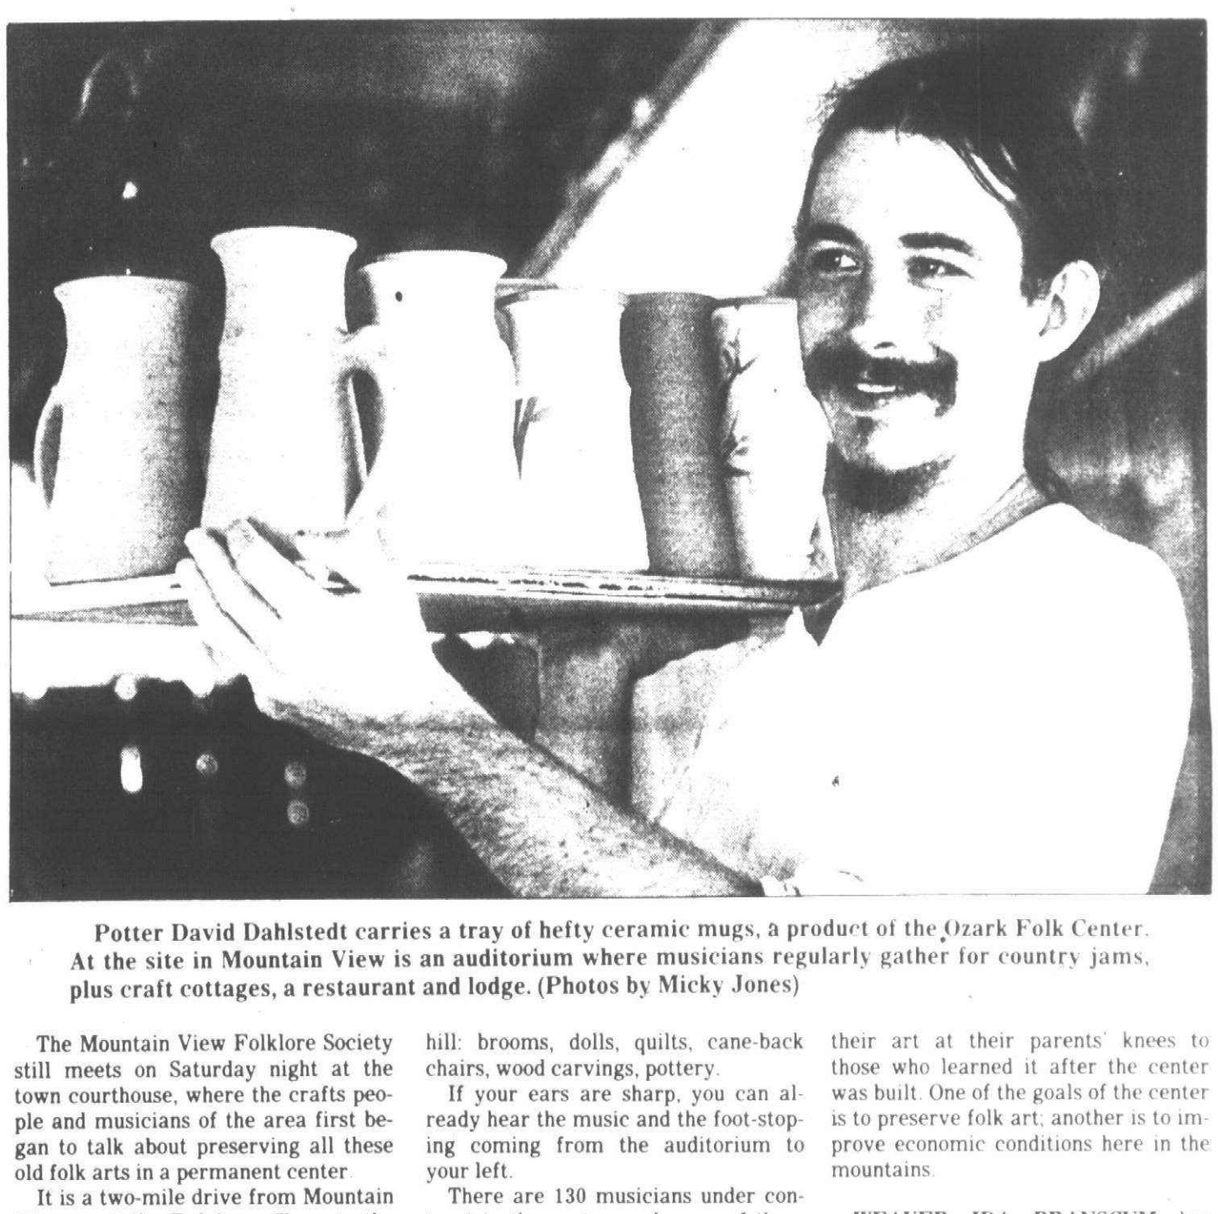

IT IS STRANGE to drive out of wilderness hills into a man-made village full of shops, condominiums, villas and a conference center, but it provides a needed full-service facility in the area. Land and water sports facilities are available.

Indian Rock has an unusual arrangement of villas for travelers who rent rooms by the night or for conferences. Each villa contains two large bedrooms divided by a lounge-kitchen-terrace. Two people can rent a room for about $45, or you can rent the room with lounge suite for $65.

The Corp of Engineers and the residents of Greer's Ferry Lake have won several awards for their annual cleanup campaign, which literally clears the shore of cans and other debris every September.

It is a one-hour drive through steep hills from Greer's Ferry Lake to the Ozark Folk Center at Mountain View, a small town in a basin of green trees and one of the traditional places for an Arkansas hootenany.

"Musicians just come out of the hills to play together at a hootenany."

Potter David Dahlstedt carries a tray of hefty ceramic mugs, a product of the Ozark Folk Center. At the site in Mountain View is an auditorium where musicians regularly gather for country jams, plus craft cottages, a restaurant and lodge. (Photos by Micky Jones)

The Mountain View Folklore Society still meets on Saturday night at the town courthouse, where the crafts people and musicians of the area first began to talk about preserving all these old folk arts in a permanent center.

It is a two-mile drive from Mountain View, past the Dulcimer Shop, to the Ozark Folk Center. The center is 80 percent federally funded and 20 percent town funded, but it is operated by the state Department of Parks and Recreation.

Mountain View actually owns the land and buildings. The state pays rent every year to help them pay off their 20 percent investment. The 80-acre hilltop site includes a 1,043-foot auditorium, several dozen craft cottages, a conference center, restaurant, and lodge. It is open through Labor Day, with limited operations in September and October.

Travelers park and ride an open tram up a steep hill that rises through heavy forest to the center. As you enter the complex through the craft shop, you can see the mountain crafts being made in small buildings all over the hill: brooms, dolls, quilts, cane-back chairs, wood carvings, pottery.

If your ears are sharp, you can already hear the music and the foot-stoping coming from the auditorium to your left.

There are 130 musicians under contract to the center, and some of them are always picking and plucking up a storm there. We were there for the annual guitar-picking contest, but you might hear anything from famous country music musicians to groups of Ozark musicians skilled at fiddle and guitar.

Simeon Magby, who learned to fiddle at age 14 in the town of Mountain Top, can be seen fiddling on stage or making music downhill in the craft cottages where Monty Avery, another musician, is retoring a violin.

Nearby, violin-maker Fairfax Abraham is working with an apprentice under the center's apprentice program, which is designed to teach a marketable skill. Short-term craft classes are also available at the center.

The crafts people at the Ozark Folk Center range from those who learned their art at their parents' knees to those who learned it after the center was built. One of the goals of the center is to preserve folk art; another is to improve economic conditions here in the mountains.

WEAVER IDA BRANSCUM has been doing this since she was 7, but Jim Nelson started carving wood seriously when he was 27. Until then he "ran a bulldozer, worked on a ranch, cut cordwood . . ."

Carl King, who is part Greek and runs the Indian craft cottage, worked on a drilling rig before he started doing beadwork here just after the center opened in 1973. He works now with several older Indian men and women, who are now teaching crafts to the young.

Vernon Roper, who grew up in these nearby hills, and spent his earlier adult years farming and running a bulldozer, is now the jack-of-all trades at the center. He stocks up the craft buildings and builds log cabins when necessary.

For information, write the Ozark Folk Center, Mountain View, Ark. 72560, or call 1-501-269-3851.

Friday's Comedy Castle moves open mike night

Comedy Castle in West Bloomfield has moved the open mike amateur night from Wednesdays to Tuesdays.

This show runs from 9 p.m. until the last comic finishes. Wednesday-Saturday is now for Detroit comics and special guests from around the country.

Friday and Saturday shows have summer hours of 9 and 11:30 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday are still one show, 9-11 p.m.

Also on the agenda for Comedy Castle is The Roast Night for raking over the coals a boss who is retiring, a friend who is being transferred or, as in the case of Comedy Castle's first roast, a surprise birthday party.

To arrange for a roast call Mark Ridley at 545-2576. Some of the comics who will be involved in the roasting process are Thom Sharp, Bruce Baum, Joe Nipote and numerous others from comedy clubs across the country.

Gene Kushim, owner of Friday's restaurant and site of the Comedy Castle, has started an open mike night for aspiring folk singers Monday evenings. Best of the folk singers will receive a paying job the following Sunday evening, Kushim said.

Aspiring performers may contact Kushim by calling 851-3252.

Touch dancing lessons given

Jack Barnes, a professional dance instructor who has taught since the Big Band era, will give free lessons in touch dancing at 8:30 and 10 p.m. Thursday and June 26 at Chuch Muer's Top of the Pontch at the Hotel Pontchartrain in downtown Detroit.

The Alex Kallao Trio plays the slow dancing music of the '30s and '40s at the Top of the Pontch. The trio plays Tuesdays-Saturdays and for the dancing lessons.

Vito and Mario (Philip Simms and Vincent Schiavelli) get gonged, though Chuck (Chuck Barris) is sympathetic in "The Gong Show Movie."

Summer brings 'dog days' films to movie houses

There are dog days in almost every business. For the movie industry, they come between Easter and summer.

That's when distributors are holding back their goods, waiting for school's end and a large, youthful audience. (The exception is "The Empire Strikes Back" which had a pre-sold audience and could open anytime.)

Meanwhile, theater owners scrounge around for product, and audiences are confronted by a truly tacky collection of films — imitations of poor imitations, dripoffs and vulgarity.

Among these are "Gorp" (R), a summer camp movie that's leftover "Meatballs;" "The Gong Show" (R), an obscene movie of an obscene TV production; "Kill or Be Killed" (R), a lamentable martial arts movie that should be martialed out; and "Friday the 13th" (R).

PERHAPS IT'S unfair to single out any of these sleazy movies for a close look; however, since "Friday the 13th" seems to have found some sort of audience, it arouses one's curiosity.

According to the show biz newspaper Variety, "Friday" is doing well in a number of cities. Either the publicity is very effective or a lot of people like bad movies. A low-budget film in every sense of the word, this is a scummy production that is supposed to be a suspenseful thriller.

Producer and director Sean S. Cunningham probably set out to grab some of the audience that flocked to "Halloween." But "Friday the 13th" doesn't come close to that heart-stopping and macabre thriller. Cunningham's idea of horror is to get a close-up of every murder and send out for more fake blood.

As for suspense, he wouldn't know suspense from suspenders. Everything is telegraphed well in advance, including the identity of the murderer, which can be determined quite early by anyone with a snip of intelligence.

That's one of the most irritating qualities about this film — its stupidity level.

CONSIDER THIS. You are one of a group of counselors at a summer camp that has been shut down for 20 years after some "accidental" deaths. You're there with the others to get it ready for its reopening.

During a nighttime thunderstorm, you visit a friend's cabin, find a blood-stained ax and stumble about finding gruesome murders.

Would you just keep hanging around mumbling, "What's going on here?" Or would you run and get the police? Well, if you were in "Friday the 13th," you would display a colossal absence of common sense and continue to hang around.

Who in the audience can empathize with or be concerned about such bozo brains and such contrived situations?

The one thing that can be said for "Friday the 13th" is that it's consistent; it violates every rule for creating suspense, terror or mystery.

Working for Bache is often our brokers' second encounter with success.

Some were in sales. Some were brokers elsewhere. Some were entrepreneurs. Most were successful. What they have in common is a trait we seek in all our people—a winning attitude.

If you have been successful selling on commission or have owned your own business, you have already exhibited to us that you want to write your own paycheck. However, you still might be selling yourself short. We offer an uncommon alternative: no territories, no quotas, no income ceilings.

Bache is one of the world's largest investment banking and brokerage firms and we could offer you the same incentives we offer all our brokers, a prestigious job with a truly unlimited income potential. If you're selected to become one of our brokers, you'll receive what we believe to be one of the best training programs in the business. Drivers should have first-aid knowledge

Knowing what to do at the scene of a motor vehicle accident is an important asset for any motorist, says the Automotive Information Council.

Proper first aid can reduce the effects of injuries or even keep the seriously injured alive. The AIC has compiled the following list of tips for aiding auto accident victims.

Avoid causing another accident by parking beyond the accident site with your car's flashers on.

Don't park across the road.

Reduce the chance of fire by turning off the ignition on any damaged vehicle.

DON'T MOVE anyone unless there is immediate danger to the person involved, such as fire. Keep in mind that people involved in auto accidents could have neck or spinal injuries. Moving them could cause paralysis or even death.

If the victim is not breathing, start mouth-to-mouth resuscitation immediately or find someone who can.

Serious brain damage can occur after only two or three minutes without oxygen, and death can occur in four to six minutes if help is not provided.

Stop any bleeding by appying direct pressure. A person can bleed to death in just a short period of time.

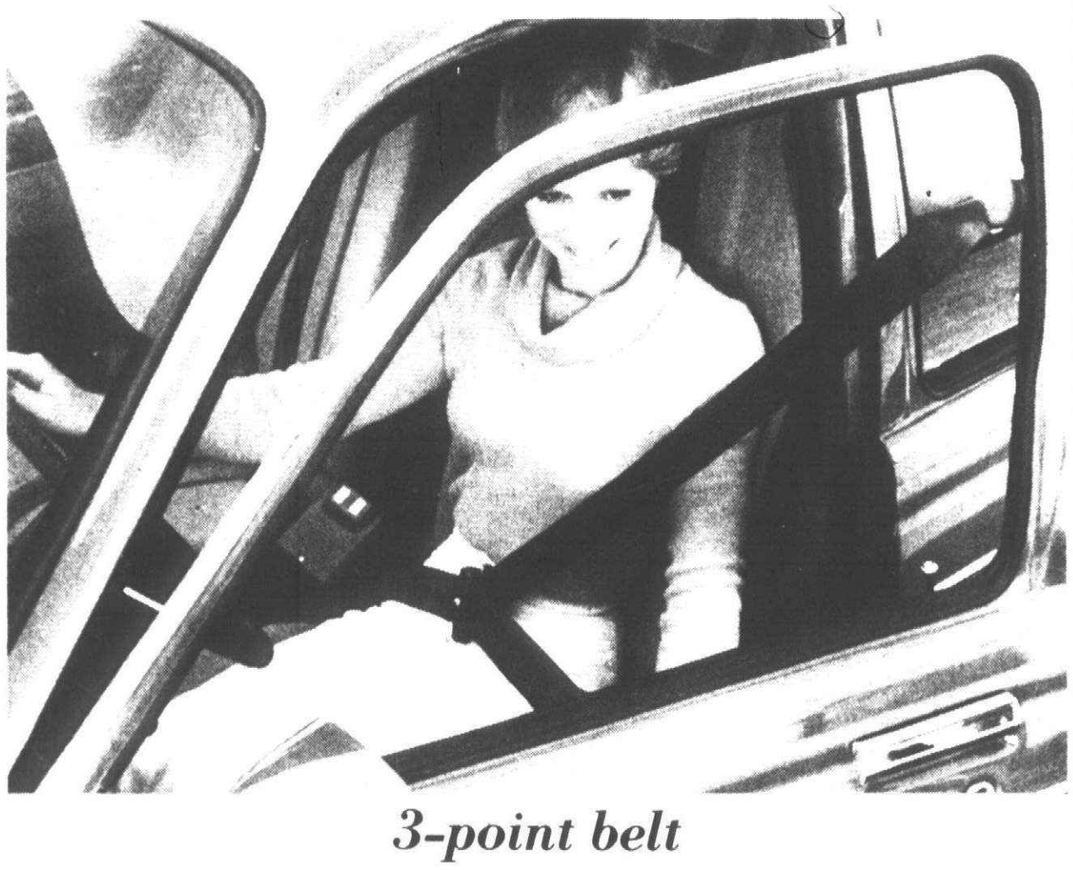

PRESS DIRECTLY against the wound with the cleanest cloth or pad available. You can use your hand if no cloth is available.

If you are busy giving first aid, send someone else to call for help. The caller should tell the location of the accident, what kind of help in needed and the number of persons involved.

Persons giving this information should always stay on the line a moment to confirm any information.

While waiting for help, protect the victim from shock by keeping the person lying down and making him or her as comfortable as possible.

An inexpensive first-aid kit carried in the glove box or truck could help save a life. To learn more about first-aid training, the AIC suggests contacting your local American Red Cross, Heart Association, emergency medical service or fire department.

3-point belt

Chevrolet's three-point automatic lap/shoulder belt system is the first such system offered in a General Motors passenger car. It is so named because the belts automatically extend across the occupants' chests and waists when they enter the car and close the door. The system is available as an option on the Chevrolet Chevette.
