Schools take serious look at budget trimming

Plymouth Canton schools are facing a $1.26 million cut in the upcoming budget as the traditional 1979-80 school year comes to a close

* That's the amount the administration is now recommending be trimmed from a near $40 million spending plan

At a study session before the school board Monday, trustees gave the administration the green light to proceed with cuts that would reduce operating expenses at each school building, maintain existing school programs, and cut some administrative expenses.

While school money jugglers fear the state's climate is filled with "uncertainties" that will effect revenues, they were satisfied with results of a recent school election that will partially ease their budget next year.

A potential loss of $1.4 million was averted last week when district voters narrowly approved the tax continuation proposal.

Despite that good news, however, trustees learned that the state's school aide package is in limbo until sometime after the Nov. 4 general election.

It's expected, said school superintendent John Hoben, that a recent governor's executive cut of $338,000 (in this district) will be followed by a possible $52 million cut state-wide. (As yet, there's no local estimate on the ef- structional supplies in each school in the central maintenance departfected amount to Plymouth Canton schools).

"TO AVOID a second executive cut, the state is delaying the passage of the state aide bill at this time," said Ray Hoedel, assistant superintendent of business.

"It's due to the large numbers of layoffs in Michigan and the uncertainty of state revenues which will be effected by a reduction in income and sales

Locally, the school's administration has recommended several areas for cutbacks. Among them are:

· A proposed cut in funds for in-building by 10 percent. So far, a $45,000 reduction has been tagged. These individual building allocations, termed "block grants," are generally used for such expenses as school supplies, text books. or any purchases related to student instruction. · In an attempt to trim some $100,000 in the new budget, it's proposed that some administrative positions be consolidated and others (now unfilled) be delayed in filling. This effort is still a work in progress, says

So far, $50,000 has been trimmed by eliminating two coordinator positions ment, effective this July. Also, it's 'ing major expenses in that school year planned to delay the replacement of the executive director of elementary instruction as well as the TAG (Talented and Gifted) coordinator. A replacement for the community relations director also has been delayed.

Under study are two other administrative positions that may be consolidated with other jobs. Among these are the director of the ISEP (Infant Special Education Program) program and an elementary curriculum intern spot.

"It's a general tightening up to warm up for the 1981-82 school year," said that will have a major impact on school finances.

At that time, the school district will be back into contract negotiations with unions; major boundary shifts will take place; grades will be realigned; Livonia's Lowell Junior High will be reconverted for use by this school district; and air conditioners will be a major expenses to accomodate the Extended School Year in additional elementary schools

Backed-up sewers still pour woe on residents

By DARLENE STINSON

David and Marleen Schiavolin are sick of the stench of sewer water. They're tired of disinfecting their basement and discarding many of their

But the Schiavolins, who live in Canton's Brookside Village subdivision near I-275 and Cherry Hill, don't know where to turn.

Their basement flooded with sewer water for the third time in 14 months last Sunday.

Schiavolin figures his family lost $7,000 worth of belongings in the infamous Good Friday flood of 1979 and another flood last Easter.

"Most of the things haven't been replaced," said Schiavolin after his basement flooded again on Sunday.

"I can't chance putting anything down there anymore. We'll have to clear everything out of the basement."

THE SCHIAVOLINS are among a handful of township residents who still are plagued by flooding problems. Canton engineer Robert Wade said a half-dozen or so flooding complaints came from homeowners in Schiavolin's neighborhood during last Sunday's downpour and at Easter.

The reported problems are minimal compared to the hundreds of complaints that flooded towwnship hall on April 13 and July 11 of last year, however. In the April flood, the basements of 350 to 400 homes were filled with up to three feet of sewer water. Widespread basement flooding reoccurred in July. With the exception of Brookside Village, most of the complaints came from northern Canton. Wade is hopeful that the flooding problem has been resolved for homeowners north of Ford Road. The township spent $126,000 last summer and fall for the repair of 144 manholes in in the northern half of

Wade believes that rain water entered the sanitary sewer system through defective manholes. The overtaxed system backed up into the basements of homes. The engineer says the localized flooding in Schiavolin's neighborhood may be caused by a similar manhole problem

But Wade believes that only one manhole south of Ford Road has been repaired to date.

EXTENSIVE REPAIRS won't be made for at least another few months. The township must wait for federal approval of a Sewer System Evaluation Survey (SSES) for the area south of Ford Road, Wade said.

He expects the Environmental Protection Agency will approve Canton's grant application next month.

The survey, financed by $160,000 in federal funds and $40,000 in local monies, will pinpoint problems in the sewer system through smoke tests and other types of inspections. A similar survey already has been conducted for the area north of Ford

Wade said generalized tests conducted by Wayne County showed a need for detailed inspection work in only the area north of Ford. Canton made its application for the original SSES because of those findings. "We did just enough work (south of Ford Road) to prove that the problems there are just as bad as in other areas,"

Wade said. The engineer plans to ask township DPW workers to check the manholes in Brookside Village.

But the township cannot make extensive repairs without endangering federal funding of the SSES. The EPA will not approve grants for projects which have already been completed.

FOR THE SCHIAVOLINS, the flooding has created a different kind of financial problem.

The couple claimed a $5,000 deduction on their 1979 federal income tax form because of losses in that year. But Schiavolin says he recouped only $300 to $400 from the claim.

He had partially finished his basement when three feet of sewer water filled the room in 1979. The washing machine and dryer broke down, and many items stored in the basement were discarded.

"We heard people in the township say that that one was a rarity, so we moved things back in," Schiavolin said. Three feet of sewer water again filled the basement last Easter. Last

Sunday's flood was less severe - with only a few inches of water. Items lost in the three floods include furniture, tools, personal mementos, electrical equipment and clothing.

The couple's two children - Danielle, 8, and David, 5 - have lost 85 percent of their toys because of the flooding problem, Mrs. Schiavolin figures. With the exception of games, all the toys were stored in the basement.

Mrs. Schiavolin saved many toys which were soaked in previous floods by washing and disinfecting every

"But after the third time, I'm going to throw the toys and the other things out," she said. "I don't trust them anymore. I'm afraid the sewer water got into the crevices."

The toys won't be totally replaced for awhile - a decision which has made the kids "very unhappy, of course," said Mrs. Schiavolin.

But the couple is upset by more than material losses.

"You have to scrub everthing by hand and sanitize it," said her husband. "It's about a three-week job cleaning the whole mess up."

Diagnosed for leukemia

Bobby, 4, warms heart of banker

On May 27, 4-year-old Bobby Bridges of Canton was diagnosed for leukemia

Despite the heart-breaking news for his family, a gesture of friendship and help has arrived from an unexpected quarter.

"He's the cutest little stinker you ever saw. I just felt I had to do something," said Trudy Anderson, manager of the Livonia Manufacturers Bank office where Bobby's mother does business.

"I just found out about the leukemia. He's such a little guy. It just hurts to think about it.'

MS. ANDERSON has opened a savings account for Bobby in the name of his parents - Katherine and Robert Bridges.

She established the trust fund to help defray the family's cost of driving to Children's Hospital in Detroit three times a week.

Bobby's mother said her son is receiving blood transfusions and chemotherapy treatments at the hospital. Although the family's insurance covers medical fees, Ms. Bridges said the cost of gasoline and parking fees is creating difficulties for the family Ms. Bridges said she has been banking at the Livonia Manufacturers office for the past two years. During that time, she has chatted with Ms. Anderson on several occa-

According to the bank manager, four employees of the Manufacturers office at 38047 Ann Arbor Road have contributed "a whole $25" to Bobby's trust fund at this point.

But Ms. Anderson hopes to raise substantially more by extending a plea to the community and workers at other branch offices of the bank." "I plan to hit (bank employees) on payday," she said. Ms. Bridges said her son has already received three chemotherapy treatments.

The leukemia diagnosis came as a complete surprise.

"He just came down with a fever for a couple of days," said Ms. Bridges. "We thought it was just a

But he attributes part of this trend to Canton's increasing population and the fact that more citizens are calling township police for assistance. More reliable data on the incidence of crime in Canton should be available by the end of the year.

TOWNSHIP POLICE are aware that crime has increased dramatically since the department was established on a part-time basis in 1976. But until now, comparing crime statistics for previous years has been just about impossible. Canton police did not begin full-time operations until May 1978. Many residents and business persons continued to call the Wayne County Sheriff's Department and the Michigan State Police, even after full-time operations began. Sheriff Department records fail to list crimes according to community.

Canton police could not use those records to assess the local crime level. Stewart said the quarter-year comparison recently compiled by Chief Jerry Cox is the first report that compares apples to apples. The vast majority of citizens now call Canton police for assistance. Quarter-year samplings of many types of crime prove too restrictive to percent increase in kidnapping and sexual assaults for the first three months of 1980. Two reported cases in February and one in March accounted for the dramatic increase.

BUT STEWART believes that some crime statistics contained in the report accurately reflect the increase of certain offenses.

The most dramatic is a 132-percent increase in forcible entries, commonly known as B&Es. Citizens and businesspersons report-

An investment

City OKs hefty rink expense

Equipment is being upgraded in the Plymouth Community Cultural Center in an attempt to put the facility on a paying basis.

Monday night the Plymouth City Commission approved the expenditure of $60,740 for a second water tower and a third air compressor and another $3,354 for a portable dance floor.

When the Cultural Center was originally built, explained City Manager Henry Graper, the ice rink was operated only during the winter months.

Now the ice season extends from early September to late May or early June, said Graper, a third compressor and a second water tower is needed to keep the air cool enough for the ice rink.

Without the second water tower the pressure on the air circulating systems would keep blowing out compressors, said Graper, and so it is more economical to invest in the water tower.

Earlier the city had carpeted the larger multi-purpose room in the Cultural Center to improve the acoustics for musical presentations. That step was taken, said Graper, with full knowledge that a portable dance floor would have to be purchased later for wedding receptions.

Right now the city is paying about $50 per night to rent a portable dance floor for the times it rents the Cultural Center for a wedding reception.

Without a portable dance floor, Graper estimated the city would lose half of its rental income from the Cultural Center.

The money for the water tower and compressor will come from the 1981-82 Community Development Act funds.

Initially, added Graper, the city will borrow the $60,000 from the municipal building authority which is selling bonds to renovate city hall.

The city won't have to pay the building authority back until later next year when the money will be needed to finance the city hall renovation. At that point the city will hve have its Community Development Act funds from the federal government.

The city originally received the CDA funds to finance an expansion to the Cultural Center for a senior citizen drop-in center.

After Graper decided to move the drop-in center to Tonquish Creek Manor, the county gave the city permission to spend the CDA funds on other renovations of the Cultural Center. The final improvement for the center, in the current plan, is to spend $36,000 for a dehumidification system. These changes, when completed, will put the facility into proper condition so it will pay for itself from an operational standpoint, said Graper.

"We must sell ice time until the debt for the center is paid for - that decision was made the year the facility was built. After we pay off the debt, we then can look at other possible uses.

"But if we don't buy this equipment now we won't be able to operate the ice rink in the future. With these changes I think we will be able to cover the operating expenses, although payments for the debt always will come from the general fund.

Graper added that today it would cost $6 million to build the Cultural Centger. "So we have a large investment and should plan to spend so much each year to maintain it."

What's at stake in fight over county reform

By TOM LONERGAN

Two western Wayne County state senators have joined a group that will be urging a yes vote on the Aug. 5 county charter commission referendum.

Ironically, many of the surburban communities that state Sens. William Faust, D-Westland, and R. Robert Geake, R-Northville, represent are part of a lawsuit that might knock the charter commission issue off the primary election ballot.

AT ISSUE is how the charter districts will be drawn. The suburban cities are fighting a 1972 apportionment plan that would give the city of Detroit the same 16-11 charter commission majority it now has on the county Board of Commissioners.

The suburban communities, which have organized a group called Wayne County Communities for Equal Representation, want the 1980 census used to draw the charter districts. They say the '80 population figures will show a 50-50 split between Detroit and the largely suburban out-county.

That population split, say some suburban officials, could mean two more suburban representatives on the county board, a bonus they want on the charter commission should it be approved by voters Aug. 5.

The charter commission would propose county government reorganization, primarily a restructuring of Wayne's multi-layered government under an elected county executive or county board appointed manager.

SEN. FAUST, who could not be reached for comment earlier this week, is co-chairman of "Citizens to Reform Wayne County," a group endorsed by New Detroit Inc., the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce and other organizations which will be urging a yes vote on creation of the charter commission based on the '72 apportionment.

Sen. Geake, who had a hand in writing the state legislation giving the charter group its power, has also joined the group.

Geake said the effect of a population shift to the suburbs has been "greatly exaggerated."

He said suburban communities would gain "one or possibly two seats" on a charter commission if 1980 census data were used.

Geake said a population shift since 1970 "has been fairly substantial" but said its effect on the 27-district county may be minimal.

Geake said the legislature approved using "1970"

Geake said the legislature approved using "1970 census lines in order to save time because Wayne County government is in such chaos, in such poor shape fiscally that we should not wait for 1980."

The county faces a deficit estimated to be between $19 million and $22 million at the end of its current fiscal year.

The county's recurring deficit has led to Gov. William Milliken vetoes of state aid for the county court system and state refusal to allow the county to borrow money. Milliken has insisted on county government reorganization before any new state commitments are made for financial help.

A REPRESENTATIVE from New Detroit Inc., a coalition of business, government and labor formed after the 1967 Detroit riots, met with several western Wayne County local officials last week to present the same argument — that the suburbs would only gain one seat at the county level based on the 1980 census.

"That's nonsense," said city of Wayne councilman Milton Mack Jr., vice-chairman of communities for equal representation.

"We see a shift of at least two seats, which puts us right in the balance of who's in control (of the county board).

county board).
"With 1980 figures we may find . . . a lot more influence (at the county level) going to the suburbs,"

Mack sees a possible suburban-Detroit split of 13-13 on the 27-member county board, with one "swing district" as a result of the 1980 census.

But Larry Horwitz, New Detroit vice president who met with suburban officials at Livonia City Hall last week, said that prediction doesn't coincide with what a University of Michigan population expert hired by the suburbs has shown.

An apportionment plan based on 1978 population estimates, drafted by Professor David Goldberg, shows 14 seats for Detroit, including Highland Park and Hamtramck, 12 for the suburbs and one swing district.

Goldberg's population estimates are being used in the suburban group's lawsuit.

LIVONIA MAYOR Edward McNamara, who organized last week's meeting between Horwitz and suburban officials, sees the population dispute as one of "different emphasis on the same figures."

"One side (New Detroit) plays it down," said McNamara, "while to the other it makes all the difference in the world."

McNamara, who said he will support the charter commission proposal in August, sees a shift of one county seat or a change of two votes — one less for the Detroit bloc, one additional for the out-county.

Regarding the Horwitz presentation, McNamara said, "I don't know if it changed any minds. The point of no return has been passed. There's still an issue. Maybe it's not as strong as it used to be."

The Livonia City Council voted last month to contribute to the suburban group's lawsuit based on a 5 cents per capita formula. That decision won't be reconsidered, McNamara said.

ALTHOUGH THE communities suing for equal representation are not campaigning for a no vote against the charter commission Aug. 5, they have asked the courts to delay the election until 1980 census figures are available to draw charter districts.

Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Susan Borman lifted a temporary restraining order preventing ballot preparation for the charter referendum. The suburban group is now asking the Court of Appeals to halt the election.

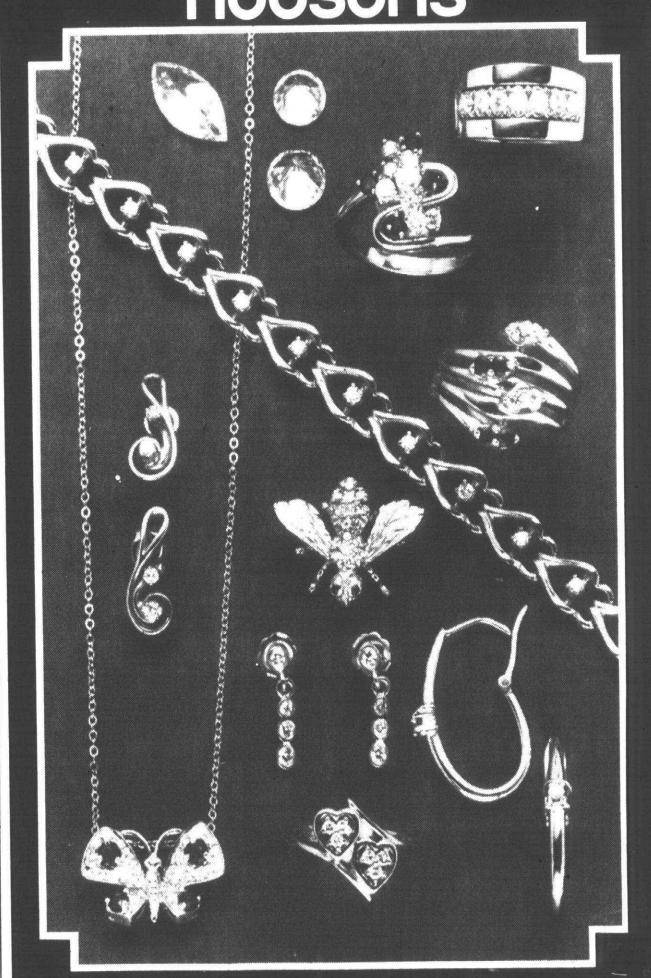

"We all want reorganization," said Mack. "We question the process."

Geake said one of the legislative compromises negotiated to pass the county reorganization act was to allow voters to chose by reen county government led by an elected executive — favored by the suburbs — and one led by a board-appointed manager — favored by Detroit.

He said the state law requires the charter commission to submit identical charters to voters except for the differences in how a top administrator would be selected.

McNamara and Horwitz both cite statistics that a "majority of potential voters" live in the suburbs. Suburban residents have shown more of a tendency to vote, said McNamara, than younger, central city residents.

Western 'reaches out' to the GOPs

By TERI BANAS

When conventioneers and national media folk begin descending on Cobo Hall and Joe Louis Arena this July, you can bet that Western Electric in Plymouth Township will be right in touch.

The company, with a local assembly plant on Sheldon Road, has a professional interest at stake in the day-to-day operations of the weeklong GOP Presidential Convention.

It was in Plymouth Township that technicians and engineers set up the ground-work communications system for the media reps and conven-

Beginning July 14, the convention site will be strung up with more than 1,500 phones at a cost

According to one Western Electric foreman, there'll be enough communications power at the convention site in Detroit to equip a community the size of Birmingham, "with a lot extra."

While all the phones have yet to be installed, the central receiving offices for those calls were built in April.

And unlike any other system, built for temporary use, these offices were built in advance and on wheels.

The mobile units, valued at $40,000 each, were built in standard size travel trailors. It's the work of these units to connect all calls within the convention sites as well as transfer those to areas outside of Detroit.

The design of a mobile unit is the first to be tried at any major happening.

AMONG THE architects of this system are Henry Grytza, a foreman at estern Electric, and Grstza hopes this design will become the prototype for other conventions and gatherings that need audio communications.

Each national network will be wired into one of the six units and it's planned that radio broadcasts will also be tied into the system. Just by picking up a phone, a radio announcer could be "on the air" for any audience around the coun-

Grystza and Bohn believe that a key feature in such a system is that it reduces the last-minute hookup on the scene that generally occurs at conventions. It also keeps the expensive technology out from under the feet of the crowds.

"This is unique because it's prepackaged," says Grystza. "Everything's complete and done in advance."

"It also saves time and money in the field," adds Bohn.

GRYSTZA SAYS Michigan Bell and Western Electric employees toured the sites of previous national conventions, in New York and Kansas City, to gets some ideas on how to rig up such a system in Detroit.

"Out of those visits, we dreamt up what you

"This was just pure guess work, based on what we saw at the other conventions," says Bohn.

Bohn adds that once the convention is underway, some 200 technicians will be on hand to insure the phone lines are working. Almost three-quarters of those technicians will be shipped in from out-of-town.

Keim expands relocation service

Earl Keim Realty South Inc. is expanding its corporate employee relocation services by becoming associated with Nationwide Relocation Service, Inc. — an international organization of real estate firms.

The affiliation took effect on June 9, according to Stewart S. Angel Jr., the president of Earl Keim who heads up the firm in the Plymouth/ Canton area.

"Real estate to the average person selling or buying a home seems very personal and very local. That's why there always will be a very solid place for well-conceived and well run local real estate companies," says Angel.

"However, in reality, more and more real estate business is corporate related and national in "The business world pretty well determines where plants and offices will be located, which in turn dictates where many people live. And in a growing number of instances, companies even help pay much of the relocation expense.

"Consequently corporations have a great influence on the real estate business and are demanding that a level of professional service be available through one contact, but with thorough local knowledge and service in every market they have facilities.

"That's why," added Angel, "you have seen real estate become much more national in character in recent years.

'Nationwide has about 900 member firms with more than 2,100 offices serving virtually every market of consequence in the U.S., Canada, and in the United Kingdom.'

Angel said that Nationwide is a wholly owned subsidiary of Coldwell Banker, the nation's largest real estate company.

Through Coldwell Banker, says Angel, Earl Keim South will have the capability to assist businesses in the Plymouth/Canton area determine the most suitable site for additional plants and offices, here or elsewhere, acquire the site, provide necessary financing, relocate employees, and even moving the company's goods and employee household effects.

Coldwell Banker also has a 50 percent interest in Executrans, a national corporate home buying company owned jointly with Sears-Allstate. Executrans works on contract with corporations to purchase transferring employees' homes and aid employees in finding homes in their new lo-

Yusef Lateef

His music is 'auto-physio-psychic'

By JIM WINDELL

Yusef Lateef describes his music as auto-physio-psychic. When you label him a jazz musician, you are likely to be reproved.

"I don't use the term 'jazz musician," he said during an interview before a recent engagement at Baker's Keyboard Lounge in Detroit. "That's an ambiguous term."

The articulate Lateef holds a Ph.D. in education from the University of Massachusetts. He would prefer to talk about the evolution of his concept of composition and improvisation and the spiritual stimulation for his music.

"Basically, what stimulates me is the love of God and his creation," said the former Detroiter, who came to embrace the religion of Islam more than 30 years ago. "The purpose of life is to do good while I live, to my family and to mankind in whatever way I can. This realization of this purpose stimulates my music.'

Lateef was one of the first "jazz" musicians to incorporate Middle Eastern and Asian influences into his work. He had a less exotic but substantial grounding in music by playing with, and being associated with, some of the best Detroit jazz players in the '30s, '40s and '50s.

ALTHOUGH HE once played in Detroit with a band called the Spirits of Swing, he also had opportunites to work with the likes of Kenny Burrell, Paul Chambers, Barry Harris, Terry Pollard, Louis Hayes, Doug Watkins, Donald Byrd, Thad Jones and "even Miles Davis who played around here for a couple of years.'

Lateef began his recording career in the '50s and has recorded many albums in which he plays not only the various woodwinds, like his original instrument, the tenor sax, but also diverse and strange musical instruments as sealhorns, oboe, African thumb piano, shannai, argol and rebat

Yusef Lateef will appear at 5 p.m. July 22 at Renaissance Live on the Ontario Level Deck of the Detroit Plaza Hotel in Renaissance Center. Tickets are $7, available in advance at the hotel's front desk. For more information, call 568-8317.

His early flute work helped to pioneer that instrument's jazz development. His willingness to widen the boundaries of jazz - including unorthodox melodies as well as exotic instruments - has set him apart from his contemporaries. Nonetheless, he has never lost his ability to play straightahead jazz with undiminished improvisational skill

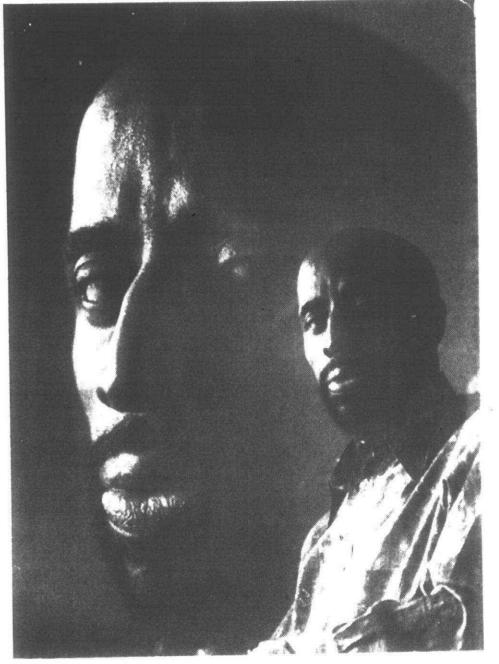

He continues to record frequent albums, and his latest is called "In a Temple Garden." The same boundless energy and search for new personal modes of expression has led him to write plays, music and short stories.

"I'm working on a thesaurus of music which I want to finish this year. After that, I want to go back to a two-act play I started, and then I want to write some large musical works like symphonies. I've done some suites and tone poems before, but not a symphony yet," he said.

LATEEF HAS published two plays and a book of short stories entitled "Spheres." He has finished several more short stories that are "laying in a file" and he has also started a novel that he wants to get back to soon.

Lateef said he has no new musical directions this year "unless you call constant evolution new." Defining what he means by auto-physio-psychic, which he has often used to describe his music, he said it means turning inward to find his music.

"I turn inward for inspiration and information. My music is a reaction to accumulated information which is coupled to inspiration at the moment."

Yusef Lateef: "I don't use the term 'jazz musician.' That's an ambiguous term."

There's a lot this week on TV

Many of the film societies have adjourned for the summer, which means that our main source of cinema for a while will be television. The Redford Theatre, Bloomfield Township Public Library and some shows at Detroit's Institute of Art and Public Library will dot this column in future weeks, but for today, we're switching on the tube.

"Destry Rides Again," 1 p.m. today on Channel 50. Made in 1939, running time 94 minutes.

Notable for a few things: A very young Jimmy Stewart, Marlene Dietrich singing "See what the boys in the back room will have" and some Western satire that finds pacifist Stewart taming a wild, wild town. Directed by George Mar-

"Murder, He Says," 1 p.m. Friday on Channel 50. Made in 1945, running time 91 minutes. Another George Marshall film, this one finding Fred Mac-Murray - minus his three sons - as a poor man's version of the insurance agent he played in "Double Indemnity" the year before, wrapped up with murderous hillbilly family led by Marjorie "Tugboat Annie" Main. Romance, slapstick and black humor easily interwoven.

"Monkey Business," 12:30 a.m. Friday night on Channel 50. Made in 1931, running time 77 minutes.

The third Marx Brothers film, featuring Thelma Todd and Tom Kennedy. Here we have the brothers as stowaways aboard a ship to America. Upon arrival, in order to pass through customs, each one poses as heartthrob Maurice Chevalier singing "If a nightingale could sing like you." Harpo tops them all by miming the real Chevalier and pulling a phonograph that is playing the record out from under his coat. Written by the incomperable S.J. Perelman.

"Tarzan's Secret Treasure," 11:30 a.m. Saturday on Channel 50. Made in 1941, running time 81 minutes.

Noteworthy because WKBD is finally getting back to the Johnny Weissmuller-Maureen O'Sullivan Tarzan films. Johnny's worth a dozen Lex Barkers, Denny Millers, Ron Elys and Mike Henrys put together, and Maureen (currently on Broadway in the Toni award-winning "Mornings at Seven") remains unsurpassed.

"Titanic," 1 p.m. Saturday on Channel 50. Made in 1953, running time 98 minutes. Who'd have thought that Clifton Webb, Barbara Stanwyck, Robert Wagner, Brian Aherne and Thelma Ritter would even begin to go down with the ship. An early "Airport" for all its Hollywood-isms, not as good as the 1958 British version, "A Night to Remember.

"The Curse of the Cat People," midnight Saturday on Channel 50. Made in 1944, running time 70 minutes

Val Lewton was in his heyday as a director of B horror films. He'd already made the acclaimed "Cat People" in '42. again with import Simone Simon who appears in this sequel. Much better than you might think because "Curse" is more psychological chiller than monster film. Lewton was the best

"Romeo and Juliet," 9 p.m. Sunday on Channel 7. Made in 1966, running time 138 minutes.

OK, so you know how it's going to end, but Franco Zeffirelli's version of the Shakespeare tale is better than most and beautifully filmed. Olivia Hussey and Leonard Whiting are fine as the star-crossed lovers; the music of Fellini protoge Nino Rote is perfect.

"Anna Karenina," 1:35 a.m. Monday night on Channel 7. Made in 1935, running time 95 mintues.

Not many, Garbo films cross the screen these days, so you'd better tune in on "Anna." Fredric March and Basil Rathbone play opposite in Tolstoi's story of tragic love. Lots of pregnant closeups, that sort of thing. Enjoy yourself.

CUBE TIME

The end of a backgammon game usually comes when the use of the doubling cube becomes most evident - when the outcome of a game will be determined in a few rolls and various consequences can be more precisely calculated.

In this position, white is on roll. Should white double? If white doubles, should black accept?

The answer to both questions is yes.

White has 23 out of 36 possible rolls that will bear off both checkers on the next roll, winning the game. There are 13 out of 36 possible rolls that will lose the game for white — all the ones, plus two-three and three-two. White has a strong advantage to win and must double in order to not allow black a free ride to see if he will hit one of those 13 unlucky rolls. This is called making black "pay to play."

Black should "pay to play" in this case and accept the double. Those 13 unlucky rolls for white work out to about a 36 percent chance of black win-

The rule of thumb on accepting a double (called a take) is that you should have at least a 25 percent chance (3-to-1 odds) of winning the game. Using this rule, you should win slightly more points in the long run than if you were to play safe and decline the cube in these cases.

The biggest problem with the 25 percent take rule is that except for welldefined end game situations like this one, it is very difficult - and sometimes impossible - to calculate a win percentage in the mid-game or early

Proper take situations are often very opinionated, just like the game of backgammon itself.

Fish derby goes on through rain

About 280 contestants turned out for Saturday's Tom Sawyer-Becky Thatcher fishing derby on Newburgh Lake.

"If we hadn't had the rain, we could have had many more," said contest chairman Hank Chrus-

More than 1,000 fish were caught by the youthful anglers, aged 6-16, including six legal-sized bass and one pike.

Grand prize winner with the largest fish was John Petz, 16, of Livonia, who took the pike - a 2pound, 20-incher. He won a plaque, tackle box with lures, rod and reel, net and a two-man raft.

Winners of a charter boat trip July 6 on Lake St. Clair are John Lykins, 16, of Dearborn Heights, who took a 71/2-inch bluegill; Darren Kisabeth, 14, of Westland, who caught a 7%-inch sunfish; and Russ Weiland, 16, of Garden City, who landed a 13%-inch

They will head out on a 29-foot cruiser piloted by Tony Jaros of Detroit, who specializes in muskie fishing.

John Solly, 14, of Livonia, was the winner in the Tom Sawyer look-alike contest. He won a rug, a dinner and a pair of onyx horsehead bookends. John also took home his catch of a 41/2-inch warmouth bass, one of two warmouths caught in the derby.

Other winners include Dave Gasior, 15, of Livonia, who caught a 75%-inch crappie and won a backpack; and Darren Lear, 14, of Canton, who got a sleeping bag for his 13-inch golden carp.

This year's derby was the 18th annual, sponsored

wine

Explaining Burgundy is not that easy

What's in a name? A great deal indeed if the name is "Burgundy." For there are, in the broad world of wines, two Burgundies, and they have little or no commonality between them.

When the word is applied to French Burgundy, it takes in some of the truly great wines of this world, both red and white. While the Burgundy region of France includes Chablis, Macon, Chalon and Beau. jolois, the non-modified use of the term usually refers to the great wines of the Cote d'Or. This is the area between Dijon and Clagny, less than 40 miles

With the Cote d'Or (Slopes of Gold) are the great Cotes de Nuits and Cotes deBeaume. Both produce their red and white wines from, respectively, single grapes, the Pinot Noir and the Chardonnay.

The latter is used down as far as the Maconnais while the Pinot Noir is useable only in the cooler north. A different clone is used down in Beaujolois, related but distinctly different.

THE WORD Burgundy, in most people's minds, however, conjures up images of red wine exclusively. Certainly, the great red wines of Burgundy have, for centuries, represented the ultimate in wine consumption and to many they continue to do so today.

So it was perhaps only natural that recently (from the time perspective of wine) when prohibition ended in this country the fledling winemakers in California would seek out a name for their red

Some initially used Claret (the British term for Bordeaux wines), some Chianti and others a variety of European place names of established quality to call their wines. But Burgundy has been the name that has survived and is most common.

The Californians could do this name-stealing with impunity. The same holds for Champagne, Chablis, Rhine and Sauterne. No law restricts that kind of practice. The French and Germans do not like it, but can't stop it, though they continue to try.

But wait, the plot thickens. Not only does the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, which governs such things, not care about the name put on a bottle of wine (if it is a generic one, as opposed to a varietal, when they get very fussy), they don't restrict in any way what goes into that bottle.

A Califoria, New York or Michigan Burgundy may contain juice from any red or white grape and frequently does. It will always be a blend of the juice of lesser grapes in some combination that is commercially feasible and, at least, to the winemaker, somewhat palatable.

Some California Burgundies are quiet decent, but they do not contain much, if any, Pinot Noir, as they must in France. The exception is Beaulieus vintage dated. I suspect Inglenook does at times. They may contain whatever it is impossible to generalize about whether one likes American-style Burgundy making.

The cost difference is telling. French red Burgundies run generally between $15 and $35 a bottle. American is anywhere from $1.50 to $5 a bottle. So what is Burgundy?

Objects to food claim

Your article on June 9 on the front page of the food section was the biggest act of lazy journalism in a long time.

In the recipes for a "Beef Cookout" was printed "Pita" bread. The correct name for this bread is Arabic bread.

People must know that Arabs have eaten and made this bread for the past 2,000 years. Arabs are the founders of this bread and nobody else.

Calling this bread "Pita" is a fallacy of the reporter as well as the media as a whole.

Journalists are supposed to print facts. It is also evident research was not done on this topic

Garage fire

Wayne County Sheriffs are investigating a fire early Tuesday at the home of Plymouth businessman Jack Bologna on Apple Tree Dr. in Plymouth Township that caused about $10,000 in damages.

The fire was contained in the three-door garage, although there was smoke damage to the home, said Township Fire Chief Larry Groth. The case has been turned over to the sheriff's department for further investigation.

Groth said the garage doors were apparently closed before the fire started at approximately

Three children who were home at the time of the fire were uninjured.

According to Groth, it appeared the fire started under a work bench in the garage, but "there was nothing there to explain how it ignited." (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Often we get disturbed over the wrong things

The fate of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools in the near future has been decided by about percent of its residents.

The school district had wanted to borrow $11 million to house incoming students. A request to borrow that $11 million was rejected by voters in last week's annual school election. Unfortunately only 6,289 residents from Plymouth-Canton went to the polls Monday to decide the fate of the $11 million bond issue and tax continuation proposal. That means almost 38,000 registered voters didn't bother investing five-10 minutes to vote on the ballot proposals and school board candidates.

It's almost a tragedy that the fate of the bond issue was was decided with 86 percent of the community not participating in the decision. A 14 percent voter turnout is sad commentary on a commu-

The millage continuation proposal meant about $1.1 million in income to the school district for the coming year. That proposal was approved — but, again, only by 7 percent of the registered voters.

With 16,000 students in the district there must be about 24,000 parents eligible to vote with a direct concern in the outcome of any election.

That seems to suggest one out of four parents care so little about their children's education that they cannot be bothered to vote in a school election.

And we are not even counting parents of young children who are not yet enrolled in school but will be affected by last Monday's election within the very near future.

This kind of apathy ought to be very disturbing to the community. And the problem is that it is not just a single occurrence from last Monday. In March 1980 and in June 1979 the voter turnout was 16 percent.

What we have is a definite pattern over time of 80 percent or more of the residents in the school district dropping out of the decision-making process. And a voter turnout of less than 20 percent means all important decisions involving education are being made by less than 10 percent of the commu-

Something is very wrong when one person decides the future of nine others.

Yet we are not disturbed.

The same kind of pattern exists in city of Plymouth, Canton and Plymouth townships' municipal elections.

A primary election has almost become a kind of social event — a who's who in local political life, but not much more.

But we are not disturbed.

Our tax assessments rise year after year, though, and we are disturbed.

Our tax bills each year ask for more and more of our funds, and we are disturbed.

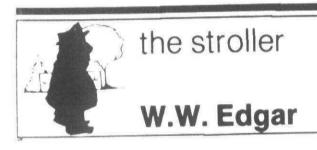

Our water bills rise, and we are disturbed.

Teachers go on strike, and we get disturbed. When the buses run late, we get disturbed. And if 40 kids were loaded into a classroom we might get disturbed. But we don't get disturbed by a 14 percent voter turnout. We allow 7 percent of the community to make decisions for the rest of us.

Yes, we do get disturbed quite often but we never do when it really counts. Once again, when it really counted on June 9, we were not in line with our neighbors.

Does that disturb you?

Lowly garage now up front

In this dizzy whirl of life, little attention has been paid to the fact that the location of the family garage has played a leading role in our lifestyles.

Once shunted to the rear of the family plot and oftimes bordering on an alley between the old-time barns and the garbage cans, it now has moved up front and has become a factor in the appearance of our modern homes.

If you chance to drive through any of our modern subdivisions, you will note that the garage is the first thing you notice when looking at the newer homes. And it has taken the play away from the front entrance to the most expensive residences.

It wasn't always that way.

AT ONE TIME - and not too long ago - the garage not only was shunted to the back of the family plot, but it became a catch-all for all the discarded things in the home, and oftimes when peering inside one would have thought it had been struck by a bolt of lightning.

This was only natural as the garage had taken the place of the barn when horses were still in style. Then, with the coming of the automobile - Henry Ford's old "Tin Lizzie" - the horses gave way to the new-fangled contraption used for transporta-

That was the start of the great switch. It soon became apparent that when the automobile was sheltered in the garage, it faced an alley and there seldom was sufficient room to make a turn when headed into the traffic lane.

So something had to be done. The alleys couldn't be widened and the garage couldn't be placed nearer to the back of the house. There still wouldn't be sufficient room to make a turn without crossing the neighbor's lot line.

There was only one move. Just reverse the order of things and place the garage up front. It sounded rather odd when first conceived. But the move was made. And it is safer for people arriving home late at night.

THE GARAGE was given a prominent place on the main street. What's more, it was given a new dress for appearance and even the interior was given a new look.

Now instead of being a horrible looking catch-all, it became an important part of the residence. It was just about this time that peg board came on the market and it became a useful item in changing the appearance of the garage's interior.

Take a look at the modern garage and you'll find a great use of peg board, with its hangers row on row. On these rows are hung the garden tools, and other things that in the old days were thrown into a

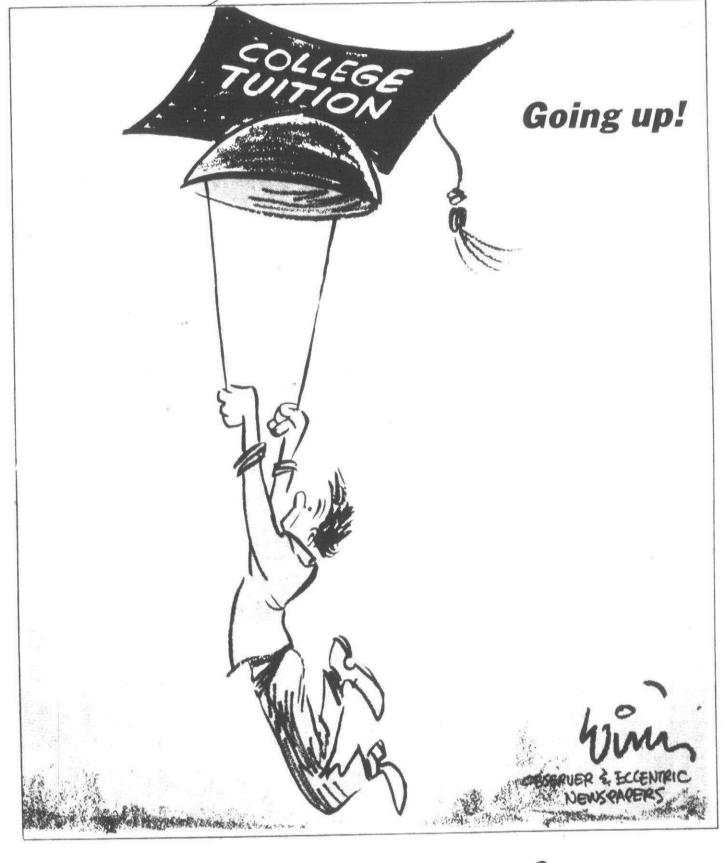

As an integral part of the home, the garage now ranks high on the list when plans are made for a new residence. Sometimes living quarters are built above them.

AND SPEAKING of the part a garage plays in our home life today, The Stroller can't help recalling an experience he had when he and his bride moved out to what was then called "the country."

Came her birthday and he surprised her with a new Oldsmobile. She was thrilled until we arrived home. Then, to our amazement, the new car was too long for the garage and it had to stand outside.

The problem was solved by building an addition on the garage and now it is almost as large as our

So the garage really has played a prominent part in our changing lifestyle. Moving from the alley to the main street was quite a jump.

In search of the perfect car

OK, so I went ahead and did it - bought a car,

Regular readers will remember that for the last two years I've been contemplating the purchase of the perfect auto — not an easy task these days.

Occasionally, I would dash off a column chronicling this minor saga which, I found more often than not, would get me in trouble with one group or

Americans have strong emotional ties to their automobiles and, these days, to everyone else's. Purchasing a car has become something of a patri-

Once I mentioned that I seriously was thinking of buying a big, American gas guzzler. Everybody but George Romney called to remind me that such a purchase was out of line with this country's policy of energy independence.

For a time I was swayed. A small, fuel efficient foreign job would be nice, I mused. Forget it, I was told.

"You've got to buy an American car, Barnaby. Thousands of Americans are being put out of work because of clods like you who buy foreign cars."

I was less than enthused to inform this faction that the only two cars I ever owned were a Toyota and a Volkswagen.

AT ANOTHER POINT, I was hooked on the feelsorry-for-Chrysler kick. It seemed like the only patriotic thing to do.

How about a Challenger, I thought? It's small, fuel efficient and sold by the financially maligned car company.

No good, I curtly was informed. Challengers are really a foreign-made auto. I would have to do better than that.

While lamenting Chrysler's fate, I noted that its future was dependent on the development of its front-wheel drive car which had yet to appear on the market.

Boy, did I take it on that one. Of course, I meant the K cars, Reliant and Aries, which Chrysler Chairman Lee Iacocca has been talking about for some time.

Countless readers were quick to inform me that Chrysler already marketed a front-wheel drive auto - Omni/Horizon.

What a way to feel stupid. It just goes to show you that a journalist doesn't always say what he means. In short, I misquoted myself.

AT ANY RATE a few weeks back I cast in my lot with an ever-dwindling number of consumers and plunked down the cash for an auto.

I had little choice in the matter. My six-year-old Toyota informed me it had retired.

What kind did I buy? Forget it. I want a little peace of mind to enjoy my purchase.

An amazing mental tool

Here in suburbia, the land that Henry Ford made possible with the first practical automobile, we are acutely conscious of technological invention.

We know about internal combustion engines. air conditioning, computers, plastics and the rest.

Now think about the great intellectual inventions - just plain ideas which changed the course of civi-

The 26-letter alphabet will be one of the first nominees. It's based on picture writing, of course but is so far advanced from picture writing that the alphabet ranks as an immense intellectual tool. The inventor's name is lost in history's mists.

THE INVENTOR of the decimal system of counting is some kind of intellectual champion. Imagine what it would be like to write out the stresses on the Mackinac Straits Bridge or the Detroit Plaza in Roman numerals, where it might take three or four characters to form a single digit.

In the same league are some great intellectual

Only in the last few centuries, for example, have we known that blood is pumped by the heart, circulates throughout the body and comes back.

The law of gravity. The notion that the earth revolves around the sun and is not the center of the universe. The atomic system of chemistry. These discoveries are of such recent vintage that we know the men responsible — Isaac Newton, Nicholas Copernicus, John Dalton.

They have revolutionized the way we look at the universe and expanded our understanding of it many times.

FOR MY OWN candidate for a great intellectual invention, you need look no further than the "help wanted" section of the classified ads

But you'll never guess, so I'll tell you. It's the double-entry system of bookkeeping - the basis of modern accounting.

Accounting is so boring and such an everyday thing that you may not think of it as a stunning intellectual invention. I have checked encyclopedia entries on the subject and found no name of an inventor. Somewhere I heard that it was concocted by Italian merchants during the Renaissance, but that tale is unverified. Accounting texts never get into history, but treat the subject like Topsy — fully grown and never born.

Without double entry bookkeeping, a business would be reduced to looking at the cash drawer at the end of the day and counting to see if there is more or less than at dawn.

ACCOUNTING gives us two kinds of charts income (profit-loss) statements and position (assets-equities) statements.

Every transaction is entered twice. A sale is chalked up as "revenue" and as an addition to "cash" or whatever the merchant accepts in trade.

There is a method of adjusting income downward as equipment wears out. It's known as "depreciation." It's not just a tax deduction but a useful tool for telling a business that its equipment is wearing out and the cost must be recovered.

Modern business, modern government, modern foundations, modern unions — even many modern households - use the double-entry system of book-

A reactionary who really wanted to cripple government would ask not just for tax slashes but for abolition of double-entry accounting. Civilization would collapse without it.

A philosopher once said we are all pygmies standing on the shoulders of giants. I wonder if accountants themselves, as they prepare long grav charts on cash flows and receivables, ever stop to think about what an incredible intellectual tool they are using.

roll call report

Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on recent major roll call votes.

HOUSE

FAIR HOUSING: The House voted 205-204 to put additional enforcement teeth into the 1968 civil rights act that bans discrimination in housing sales and rentals. The vote endorsed the establishment of Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) administration law courts to speedily judge complaints of housing discrimination and, where warranted, levy fines.

Presently, persons alleging discrimination have to seek redress in the federal courts, a route that critics say is too lengthy and costly. The overall bill

(HR 5200) later was passed and sent to the Senate

Rep. Mike Synar, D-Okla., a supporter, said, "I need not remind the members of this House of how cumbersome and burdensome the federal court system is at the present time.

Rep. Clarence Miller, R-Ohio, an opponent, said the HUD courts could produce "bureaucratic zealotry," and urged the House to "stick to constitutionally prescribed avenues of redress through the federal court system.

Members voting "yea" wanted housing discrimination complaints to be handled by special HUD judges rather than by the federal courts.

Reps. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, David Bonior, D-Mt. Clemens, William Ford, D-Taylor, Willaim Brodhead, D-Detroit, and James Blanchard, D-Pleasant Ridge voted "yea."

Rep. William Broomfield, R-Birmingham voted "nay."

HOUSING APPRAISALS: The House adopted, 257-156, an amendment to keep real estate appraisers from listing information on race, sex, national origin, schools, churches and synagogues in their property reports. The amendment was attached to HR 5200 (see preceding vote).

Rep. Steven Symms, R-Idaho, an opponent, said appraisers need freedom to list all information about a neighborhood in order to "do their important work honestly, thus benefiting all members of our society.' Members voting "yea" wanted to exclude racial, ethnic, religious and cer-

CENSURE: The House refused, 97-308, to soften from censure to reprimand the penalty imposed on Rep. Charles Wilson, D-Calif., for alleged violations of House rules. Rep. Wyche Fowler, D-Ga., a member of the ethics committee and an opponent of softening the penalty, said that "after hearing the evidence" the committee "regretfully" recommends censure of Wilson.

SENATE

40-51, the Senate refused to require that women as well as men be registered for the military draft. The vote came during debate on a measure appropriating the money necessary to begin registration for the draft. President Carter asked for the money in the wake of Afghanistan.

Sen. Nancy Kassebaum, R-Kan., the sponsor, said: "Given the growing role of women in the military, I do not feel we can continue to deny the contributions of women by excluding them from registration.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., an opponent, said: "As to women serving in the services, I have no argument. I do not think they should be drafted; it should be a voluntary thing.

Senators voting "yea" wanted women to be registered for the draft. Sens. Donald Riegle and Carl Levin both Democrats voted "yea."

THE PRE-WORLD WAR II Greenfield Village guides were back at their old stand last Thursday. They came from all over the country - California, Florida, Arizona — for their reunion.

Plans for the get-together were in the making for a year as Jack Wilcox hosted a series of meetings at his home on corner of Union Street and Penniman Avenue, Plymouth. Jim Barry, Dave Black, Frank Cady, Jack Campbell, Charlie Madigan, Hank Panter, Bob Russell, Larry Sollinger and Bob Zahnow served on the planning committee. Frank Cady, president of the Edison Institute, is retiring this year after more than 40 years with the village and museum. He, too, started out as a guide, singing in the chapel choir and explaining to visitors the history and the workings of the Plymouth Carding Mill.

Most of the guides were students. They earned less than 50 cents an hour and bought their own uniforms, a Palm Beach suit. Competition for the guide positions was keen and selection was a symbol of status. They were members of an elite group. There were no women guides in those days.

A GOOD SINGING voice was an asset in being hired as a guide. Beside their regular duties, the guides formed the choir at the Martha Mary Chapel. They also worked on the Ford farms.

They were in good voice for their reunion as 24 of the old-timers returned to the choir loft for the W.A. Simonds Memorial Service. The reunion was dedicated to William Adam Simonds who died in 1962. Simonds was their "boss," the first director of visits of the public to the Ford Collections at Dearborn. He also was the author of five books, "Henry Ford and Greenfield Vil-"Henry Ford, Motor Genius," "From the Ground Up" (with F.L. Black), "A Boy with Edison," and "Edison, His Life, His Work, His Genius. Genius.

Following the service, a linden tree was planted in front of the chapel. It was dedicated to Simonds and the plaque bears the words, "Our Boss, Prewar guide staff, June 12, 1980.

THE PRE-WAR guides did a lot of reminiscing. They agreed that the taped, push-button descriptions at the village were not as good as their live dissertations

"Remember the soy bean ice cream? We'd have to say we liked it. But the school kids were uninhibited in their reactions. They'd say 'ugh' and the whole place was littered with with sticks from those soy bean ice cream sticks."

Lifetime friendships were formed among the village guides and their respect for their mentor, W.A. Simonds was reaffirmed at the reunion.

Another former Plymouth guide, Russell Kirk, made reservations for the day-long party but was unable to attend.

PHS grads celebrate 50th class reunion

They were the Class of 1930, the first graduates after the big crash of 1929. The future looked bleak for the 61 classmates who received their diplomas at Plymouth High School.

They met Saturday night for their 50th class reunion and Dick Ewer voiced the general sentiments of the group: "We've all been successful, as least moderately so." This despite the worst depression the country has ever experienced.

Seventy-nine classmates, spouses and teachers gathered in the Miles Standish Room of the Mayflower Hotel for the golden anniversary of their graduation. The cocktail party, hosted by Ralph and Mabel Lorenz, began at 4 p.m. (Ralph was a member of the class) and they sat down to a steak dinner at

The reunion had been planned by Lou Straub, Elton Knapp, Ted Baughn, Fred Shearer, Lois Caldwell Dicks and

The teachers were guests of their former students for the party. They were Carvel Bentley, who taught science: Gertrude Fiegel, history; Christine Gray Soule, geography and home economics; Kenneth "Beef" Matheson, physical training, Marion Perkins Nott, English; and Irene Waldorf, English and history.

WHEN THE awards were handed out, Francis Ingall McGlone of Tigard, Ore., had traveled the furthest distance for the reunion. She brought along a bottle of lava dust from Mt. St. Helens.

They voted to decide who had changed least and Lois Caldwell Dicks and Ken Gust (captain of their football team) were the winners

For many of the grads, it was a long trip back to their home town. Vaun Campbell Axtell came from Boulder City, Nev. Frank Clemens, Missouri; Fred Kline, Arizona; Carl Denton, Pennsylvania; Mary Haskell Downs, Maine; Marguerite Woods Fillmore, Florida; Hazel Rathburn Folks, Oklahoma: Richard Hewer, Alabama; Gale and Winona (Kenter) Kenyon, California; Marion Birch Matevia, California; Thelma Smith Parker, Florida; Charles and Doris Jewell Root, Florida; Helen Bridge Salter, Kentucky; Louis Straub, Indiana: and Allen Postiff, California came from out of state for the reunion.

The members of the PHS Class of 1930 were united in their dismay that there is no Plymouth High School. They passed around a petition which everyone signed, requesting that the "Salem" be dropped from Plymouth Salem High School and it become simply Plymouth High School.

It was a great vacation!

Several months ago a friend made the observation that our Mustang rode very well for a small car. I was forced to point out that our Mustang is our BIG car. She rapidly corrected her statement to say it rode well for a BIG car. Well, three weeks ago we loaded our BIG car to the gills and began our long-awaited vacation to Oregon.

We managed to leave Canton about 3 p.m. May 23. We stopped at a rest area in Western Michigan and were greeted by a friendly REACT team, orange juice and cookies. Our first day of confinement (two adults and two children in a packed car) ended at Beloit, Wisc at the Holiday Inn. This was chosen for its indoor pool. We promised the boys that we would swim in the morning after a good night's rest.

I'm sure "The Nation's Innkeeper" fully intended that we get a good night's rest, but it didn't quite work out that way. At 3:05 a.m. we were snapped and people running, slamming doors that something like a hotel fire that only happens to "someone else" could just as easily happen to me. Luckily for all concerned, there was no real fire. alarm "in fun." Unfortunately it re- a 50-mile radius. quired a maintenance man to come turn it off, so it rang for 20 minutes.

You can be sure though that from then on I checked out all fire escapes when we entered a motel.

OUR SECOND day of traveling took us through the dairy country of Wisconsin and Minnesota. In the "signs of our times" department, we saw hats declaring "get high on milk . . . our cows

By day three in the open country of South Dakota, we were all beginning to awake by the sound of the fire alarm get on each others nerves a bit when we came upon a scene that made us and screaming. Suddenly I realized proud to be part of America. We hadn't passed a house in probably 25 miles when we saw one with about 75 cars parked in the field by it. And there on the lawn was a wedding in progress, Rowdy party-goers had set off the fire obviously attended by everyone with in cross that land in a covered wagon. The Badlands are absolutely beautiful though and also provided some running room for Kirk and Keith.

Next we stoppped in Wall, S.D. at Wall Drug which had been advertised as far east as Wisconsin. Apparently it is advertized all over the world. We saw a picture of a University of Michigan professor who has a sign on his desk of how many miles it is to Wall Drug from Ann Arbor. Kirk and Keith now proudly wear cowboy boots which we had to purchase at Wall Drug.

WE SAW Mount Rushmore. It is spectacular and not at all tourist trappy. One walks up a walkway flanked by flags of the 50 states and the U.S. territories. Indeed an impressive walk. And looking up at the heads of the four presidents is awesome. As with most families though, we certainly have our nonawesome moments. When we arrived at the park headquarters, 9-year-old Kirk didn't comment about the flags or the presidents, but said with enthusiasm: "Great! They have a men's and a ladies' here!"

Our next point of interest was to have been Yellowstone National Park. We left Gillette, Wy. in the morning and were the first car at the gate as they opened the Big Horn pass.

This is a mountain pass almost 10,000 feet high between Gillette and Yellowstone. We drove through about a foot of snow, and only by the grace of God and the help of a snow plow did we make it over the pass. All this only to arrive in Cody, Wy. to be informed that Yellowstone was not open due to the

Wyoming does not have a lot of roads, so we had to make a 500-mile detour to go around Yellowstone. Finally though, we arrived in Oregon for my husband's favorite part of the drive down the Columbia River Gorge. We visited my sister and her family and Rex's sister and her family in Portland.

TRUE TO character, it rained every day we were in Oregon. It is true that in Oregon people don't tan, they rust. An Oregon un-greeting card reads: "A drought in Oregon is a clear day. . . usually July 26th or so."

We also enjoyed visiting our parents in Riddle, Ore. There my children enjoyed their grandad Nichols' ranch. They excercised the sheep daily. Just ask any sheep rancher how much sheep need excercise. The steers, milk cow and horse didn't escape their attention informed me that he can protect me now. I feel much better.

I was quite recognizable for a while, too, after walking on the ranch in the early evening. I met a little black and white cat who seemed to take offense at me. Until I took a long bath, washed my clothes seven times and aired them for three days, others found me quite offensive.

Believe me, there is nothing quite like standing two feet away from a skunk after he has run over your feet, looking him in the eye and hoping he won't do his thing!

our trip, we had planned our return trip through Yakima, Spokane and Coeur d'Alene, but had no desire to have Mt. St. Helens make an ash of us, so we Yellowstone on the way back.

Old Faithful went off right on time and really impressed Kirk and Keith and Rex and me too. The Yellowstone River which seemed so lazy for miles suddenly dropped over 500 feet in two spectacular waterfalls in the space of about a half-mile.

The only disappointment in Yellowstone was not seeing a single bear. I told the boys they were on strike for Another sign of our times we enjoyed in Montana was on a billboard. The sign pictured a mother safely putting a seat belt on her child in a car. The words were: "Prevent Child abuse belt you kid today!'

Kirk also learned to shoot a 22 and

Losing a job is a severe jolt

By MAGARET MILLER

Society's cushions may keep hunger pangs from the suddenly unemployed, but they can't keep the psychological wolf away from the door.

Losing a job is a severe jolt to the person programmed for work, says Michael Bogolea of Family Human Potential Services center, and the trauma shows in increased traffic to counseling even as it shows in the lines that form for unemployment benefits.

"It's the whole issue of what do you do with yourself when your life is structured for work and suddenly you have no work," said Bogolea.

People are affected deeply by the changes in the economy, he added.

"They have fears about where they are in the economy," he went on. "It's the indecision, the anxiety, the feeling that the only thing certain is that nothing will be the same again."

Besides, he added, "people are realistic; they know the supplemental pay will run out."

BOGOLEA SAID difficult times hit the various work groups in different ways and that's particularly apparent when husband and wife both work and the husband is laid off.

"The woman, who has been a second-

M.D.

Betty A. Hibler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hibler of Plymouth, received her M.D. degree from the University of Michigan June 6. Her husband, James R. Olney, received his M.D. degree the same day. A joint family celebration followed the graduation ceremonies in Ann Arbor. Both doctors will begin their residencies in general surgery at the University of Iowa, Iowa City, Iowa. Dr. Betty is a 1972 graduate of St. Mary's of Redford and a 1976 graduate of Michigan State University.

ary breadwinner, working for fulfillment, is suddenly a primary breadwinner," he said.

"That puts a whole new stress on the marriage. There is a role reversal, with the woman feeling trapped in her job and trapped by housework.

"She begins to complain about all the things men used to complain about. But, strangely enough, he doesn't empathize. It's a basis for sharing of feelings, but often it doesn't take place."

For men, the worst of the problem seems to be that they have, up to now, felt they were in control, Bogolea said.

"Now the man is in a position in suddenly his whole life is changed," he explained.

He said he is seeing more men seeking therapy, many of them referred by physicians because of physical symptoms like inability to sleep and colitis.

"They are coming in with raw feelings on the surface," Bogolea added. "Stress is literally wiping them out, and they need more than medication.'

THIS PSYCHOLOGIST noted that people in this area now seeking counseling are mainly those in their 30s and

"They have been working a while and have achieved the American dream," he added. "Suddenly it's not working out. The familiar lifestyle is corrod-

Another factor contributing to stress is the removal of the extended family that in times past would cushion the psychological blow, said Bogolea.

"With the nuclear family, the whole life centers around those 4.2 people," he went on. "And there comes a tendancy to project problems onto others and blame them for the difficult situation. That can lead to destruction of the family."

Bogolea said people in these times become "very adept at reacting" but that is not the same as making decisions or following through.

"Neighborhoods get together and the men talk about how they are all in the same boat," he said. "That is normal but not necessarily healthy.

WHAT IS a healthy reaction to loss which he did not make the decision but of job and the resulting economic pinch?

"Probably first prevention, finding ways to get family finances in order wo the blow will be cushioned when it does come," said Bogolea.

"But if it happens, first put together a resume of skills, both for one's own use and to sent to prospective employ-

"Then, if you get fired, maybe take a vacation break, strange as that sounds," he said. "Get away from the trauma, but with the family. You may be able to come back with an action plan and know what to do."

He also recommended making contact with a support base, maybe church or counseling.

"And then set up a plan to evaluate what you are doing in your life," he concluded. "Note what has worked and what has not.'

Bogolea said there is no single way everyone is affected in times of eco-

FREE CONTOUR ANALYSIS EXAMINATION FOR VICTIMS OF CHRONIC OR ACUTE PAIN

A free Contour Analysis examination is being offered for people with acute or chronic pain by the chiropractic office listed below. People who suffer with backache, bursitis, arthritis, neuralgia, nerve pain, neck pain, muscle pain, bone pain, etc...are invited to receive this free examination.

Contour Analysis enables taking a three-dimensional picture (called Moire photography) of the topography of the surface of the spine to detect spinal stress deviations. This analysis will be correlated with leg deficiency, patient symptomatology, and levels of spinal tenderness. An analysis of this type can reveal such things as normal and abnormal stress patterns, spinal curvature, muscle spasms, muscle imbalance, spinal distortion, and scoliosis. This analysis, including consultation with the doctor is being offered to the public at no charge for the next 30 days. Anyone wishing to receive this free examination may telephone for information or an appointment.

Here's a new book of Esther

By MARGARET MILLER

Before Margaret Hess is through, she may turn liberator of women for the entire Bible.

Liberating Biblical women in the sense of bringing them to life for modern readers, this Livonia Bible studies teacher has written books on Ruth and Naomi, more recently Esther, a Jewish queen of Persia, and now is compiling notes for a work on Deborah, a judge of Israel.

"Esther, Courage in Crisis" is the title of the current work by Mrs. Hess, whose husband, Dr. Bartlett Hess, is senior minister of Ward United Presbyterian Church of Livonia.

The writer has been teaching Bible classes for more than a decade to large groups representing many denominations at Ward and in the First United Presbyterian Church of Birmingham.

Her book on Esther and its predecessor, "Love Knows No Boundaries," grew out of her class purpose to relate the people and times of the Bible to modern living and its problems.

"TELLING THE story of Esther gives us a chance to look at a microism of Jewish life in ancient times and to see persecution of a people and how they react," Mrs. Hess said.

Essentially, her book tells the story of the harem of King Ahasuerus in ancient Persia, which is now

"It is strange that in the Bible we learn more about life in an ancient harem than from any other source," Mrs. Hess said. "But it makes the setting for a story of courage at the time 70,000 Jewish people had been killed in Persia and they were threatened with extinction.

"It was the king's habit to set aside one queen when he was ready to favor another. Esther became a queen in his harem and hid the fact that she was Jewish. Thus she was in a position to save he: people."

The story of Esther and a Jew named Mordecai form the basis for the Jewish Purim holiday.

Mrs. Hess said she had her chapters checked by Rabbi Martin Gordon of the Livonia Jewish Congregation for accuracy of the Jewish details. "He had just a couple of points to make," she

IN AN INTRODUCTION to the paper-back book that is on sale for $2.50 in are Christian book stores, Mrs. Hess noted that Christian writers who have looked at the story of Esther tend to worry about the conduct of Mordacai and Esther and interpret by means of allegory.

"But it seems to me," she said in talking about the book, "is that the Jewish account should be taken at face value, and that what it should mean to the Christian is the opportunity to take a close look at God's working in history.

"The biblical book of Esther does not talk of God or mention morals or instructions for living, but it is a picture of how God works through everyday occurances, using bad people and good to accomplish his purposes.

"It challenges us to see how we can make he most of our lives and have the courage of Esther when it comes to meeting crises."

PREPARING to write her story, Mrs. Hess said she read 45 books by Biblical scholars on the subject of Esther.

Victor Books, which published this book and the earlier "Love Knows No Boundaries," had asked to to consider the subject right after she finished her work on Ruth and Naomi. "The publishers felt that not much of a popular nature had been done on Esther and wanted me to write the story," Mrs. Hess said. "I found it to be an exciting one."

The project took "all my spare time" for eight months, she said. She added that she tries to use concrete details about the ancient times, "to make the Bible come to life and show how it applies to Specific areas of morality are noted in some of the chapter headings - "Should a Wife Always Obey?," "Civic Duty and You," "Is Your Prejudice Showing?," "How to Cope with Enemies," and "How to Deal with Success.

Margaret Hess is author of a new book based on the biblical book of Esther. (Staff photo by Bill Bresler)

Her own appreciation of the Jewish culture and people increased as she compiled information for the book, Mrs. Hess said, and she expects to add to this as she works on the story of Deborah, the judge. She described Deborah as "a character who would upstage any women's libber of today." "As one of the judges of Israel, she gained authority by the kind of person she was and became a leader of Israel," Mrs. Hess said.

For most churches, vacation Bible school means breaking out the puppets, crafts, Bible stores, songs and refreshments for children.

But vacation Bible school at Clarenceville United Methodist Church means programs for adults and junior and senior high school students as well.

Programs for adults will deal with raising children. They will view a film series on the family by Dr. James Dobson, author of "Dare to Discipline" and "The Strong-Willed Child."

The film Monday evening is "Shaping the Will Without Breaking the Spirit" and will be followed on Tuesday by "Christian Fathering." Wednesday's topic is "Preparing for Adolescence: The Origins of Self-Doubt." The film on Thursday is "Preparing for Adolescence: Peer Pressure and Sexuality."

June is the month for strawberries. The fact that strawberries seem to encourage romance has certainly been widely recognized. Strawberry flavored or scented lipsticks, colognes, douches, bubblebaths and incense are all popular at this time.

But for real romantic results, I suggest that you put the strawberry on the table, and serve it with cream and sugar.

Strawberry shortcake and strawberry recipes are grand, but I thought that today I would share with you a couple of my favorite strawberry recipes to encourage romance.

If your love must limit his sugar intake because of his weight, diabetes, or some other medical reason, you can still serve him homemade strawberry jam on his half-slice of toast or warm biscuit. Even half a biscuit with this jam, will make him look at you with a new glint in his eye.

SUGARLESS STRAWBERRY JAM

1 quart cleaned strawberries

3/4 teaspoons liquid artificial sweetener 1 pckg. (3/4 ounces) powdered fruit pectin

1 tablsepoon lemon juice

Red food coloring as desired

Crush the strawberries in a one to one-and-a-half quart saucepan. Stir in artificial sweetener, food coloring, pectin, and lemon juice.

Bring to a boil, and boil one minute. Remove from heat. Continue to stir for two minute. Pour into freezer containers, cover and freeze.

Thaw before serving, and store in refrigerator

Strawberry daiquiris are nice, but hard liquor is never as conducive to romance as wine is. So, why not try this mixture:

STRAWBERRY DAIQUIRIES

16 oz. can frozen pink lemonade

11/2 cups rose wine 1/2 cup sliced, fresh strawberries

1/2 cup crushed ice Combine ingredients in an electric blender to blend until smooth and foamy. Serve immediately.

Oscar and I met when I was living in New York's virginal Barbizon Hotel for Women. Grace Kelly preserved her virtue in this sentinel of womanhood and left to marry a prince. I stayed and settled for Oscar.

The Barbizon's policy was no men, dogs, cats or birds allowed. I was desperately lonely and decided to break the rules. Oscar seemed like a quiet enough character and so with Mata Hari-like skill, I surveyed the Barbizon lobby

Our only problem was that it would have been impossible for Oscar to leave the confines of the room without being noticed. # Insect catcher aids curiosity

Curiosity killed the cat.

What a discouraging statement. What a sad message to our children. The attitude that curiosity will kill the cat says to them "Don't look for answers," "Don't in fact, ask questions," "Don't seek out the unknown," "Don't keep an active, open mind," "Don't take risks.

Yet, the road to intellectual and emotional growth must involve some chance-taking, some challenge, some risk and certainly lots of answer-

There will be times when this answer-seeking will hurt. Times when taking a chance will have a bad consequence. Times when the unknown could feel dangerous.

But, experiencing life from afar will not do. In accomplishing these very tough assignments in living and learning, one must get a close look. Encourage children's curiosity. Inspire their desire to enlarge their knowledge.

Sometimes very simple projects can symbolize these attitudes. One such project is an insect catcher. (We always release our subjects after study to symbolize individual freedom.)

An excellent holder that is portable and unbreakable can be made simply with a pint size milk carton and torn pantyhose. It is small enough for little hands and little insects.

Begin by rinsing out the milk carton thoroughly.

Cut out a two-inch square hole in the spot directly under the pouring spout. Then, open the rest of the top completely. There should now be two openings in the milk carton — the top, and the square hole that was cut out.

Now, fit the milk carton into the toe portion of the pantyhose so that the top of the carton is facing up to the opening of the pantyhose. In this way, a specimen can be dropped into the carton and the hose quickly closed so the specimen cannot get back out again.

Now the specimen can be observed through the hose where the square hole was cut, like a window.

All-Area baseball squad not short on talent

Lipinski, McNamara gain spots

By BRAD EMONS and DOUG FUNKE

The 1980 prep baseball season can be characterized as another outstanding campaign for area athletes.

Several teams enjoyed fine seasons. Livonia Franklin, co-champs of the Northwest Suburban League along with North Farmington, reached the quarterfinals before losing to eventual state titlist Grosse Pointe North. The Patriots finished the year at 17-8.

Garden City West, which suffered through a mediocre regular season, found itself and gained a quarterfinal berth before being eliminated by Wayne Memorial. The Tigers finished Redford Bishop Borgess, ranked among the top 10 teams all year in Class A, picked up first place in the tough Central Division of the Catholic League. The Spartans finished at 20-5.

Plymouth Salem (14-7-2) and Livonia Bentley (11-7-1) were co-champs in the Suburban Eight League.

Other teams with fine season records included Detroit Catholic Central (17-11), Livonia Stevenson (16-6) and Plymouth Canton (15-10). Area coaches gathered recently to select and honor individual players for their efforts. The following are the first and second All-Observer squads.

FIRST TEAM

Greg Brake, Redford Bishop Borgess, pitcher. One of the top pitchers in the state, Brake, a senior, posted an 8-1 record in 75 innings of work. He struck out 124 and walked only 33 as he posted a brilliant 0.56 ERA

A second-team All-Observer pick last season. Brake could also swing a bat as evidenced by his .356 average. He committed no errors in the field and was selected first-team All-Catholic and second-team coaches' All-State.

Brake's best game of the year was against Birmingham Brother Rice when he struck out 20 batters.

Al Lipinski, Plymouth Canton, pitcher. The senior righthander quickly became the ace of the Chiefs' pitching staff.

In 55 innings of work he carved out an outstanding 7-1 record and an 0.96 ERA. He walked less than 20 batters and played shortstop when not on the

He is a major reason why coach Fred Crissey's squad recorded a respectable 15-10 overall mark. He also was an All-Western League first-team member.

Brad George, Livonia Franklin, pitcher. The 6-foot-3-inch, 190-pound fireballing lefty recorded a 7-1 mark and had an ERA of 1.20 in 61 innings of

"Brad is an outstanding pitcher who I pitched in all the games I thought would be tough," said Franklin coach

Rob Williamson, Detroit Catholic Central, catcher. The Shamrocks' junior rapped out 30 hits in 73 at-bats for a .411 average. He had four homers to lead the area and 24 RBIs. The lefthand hitting slugger also smacked 13 doubles and four triples in 28 games. Twenty of his 30 hits went for extra bases.

An All-Region II pick, Williamson "is strong with tremendous power to all fields," said coach Frank Corej.

Tom Miner, Garden City West, first baseman. A first-team selection last year as a pitcher, Miner carried one of the heaviest bats in the area this season as he hit .459 with 28 hits in 61 at-bats.

Captain of this year's team, Miner was an All-Region II pick and was voted MVP of the year at West.

The 5-11, 165-pound lefty also threw well for West, sporting a 5-0 record after bouncing back from an early season

As a junior he helped CC to the state baseball title while batting .411. He compiled a .408 career mark.

Also a letter winner in golf, Sabo "is one of the most talented athletes to graduate from CC," said Corej.

Doug White, Livonia Franklin, infielder. Also a third baseman, the senior co-captain batted .411 going into the tough Hazel Park Class A regional.

The All-Region II pick had one homer and 25 RBIs and stole 17 bases.

The 5-11, 185-pounder is an excellent student who "is an outstanding ball player, exceptional leader and very coachable," according to coach Gerald Dave Cabrera, Livonia Bentley, infielder. A three-year regular for the Bulldogs, the senior shortstop batted .404 with 23 hits in 57 at-bats in 1980.

An All-Suburban Eight League firstteam choice, Cabrera, a righthanded hitter and thrower, scored 16 runs and stole eight bases this season.

Known for his outstanding defensive ability, Cabrera helped spark Bentley to a share of the Suburban Eight League baseball title this spring. In three years, the 5-11, 168-pounder compiled a .355 batting mark. Herb McManaway, Livonia Franklin, outfielder. The senior slugger was selected to the first team for the second straight year. This season he batted .355 with 25 hits in 69 at-bats. He scored 19 runs and drew 22 walks from opposing pitchers leary of his powerful swing. An All-State and All-Northwest Suburban Leaguer last year as a junior, McManaway enjoyed an outstanding state tourney run.

McManaway was an All-Region II choice this year and is "the best hitter I've ever coached with great potential," said Cullin. The 6-0, 190-pound co-captain had a triple and a homer in Franklin's 6-4 loss to eventual state champ Grosse Parks collected 30 hits in 75 at-bats for a .400 average. He stole 23 bases and drove home 16 runs.

Named to the All-Region II and All-Inter-Lakes League teams, Parks was Stevenson's leadoff hitter and was only caught stealing once his entire career.

McNamara posted a 3.03 ERA and set a school record when he fanned 17 in a district qualifying game against Western Six League champ Northville.

I Walk-behind models, with inexpensive accessories, will mow, discharge cuttings evenly, vacuum, bag, mulch cuttings and shred leaves.

2 Riders and walk-behind models deliver a smooth, professional cut, even during tough conditions. They also cut more, faster, because of the efficient transfer of power from their engines

3 Large capacity grass catchers need emptying less frequently; especially those with the 30 bushel Bag-N-Wagon.

4 The floating cutting unit on riders minimizes scalping and damage

5 A wide selection of mowing speeds gives flexibility for varying lawn conditions, without loss of cutting power

Before you buy a mower, compare the quality and performance features of a SNAPPER You'll find SNAPPER is worth more because it does more. And, its price is competitive with other quality mowers.

Danny Smith knows how to ice an opponent

The fireballing lefthander cooled off North Farmington-West Bloomfield Monday evening with a nohitter as Canton posted a 7-2 Mickey Mantle League baseball triumph.

Smith struck out seven and walked six in seven innings. NFWB scored two runs off Smith in the top of the seventh without the benefit of a hit. Two walks, a hit batsman, an infield error and a wild pick-off throw led to the two unearned runs.

Canton is now 4-0 in the league. NFWB fell to 3-1.

Are you facing a new market with We're doing it. We're driving less, planning trips more wisely, keeping our cars in tunewe're taking the simple but an old portfolio? necessary steps to save

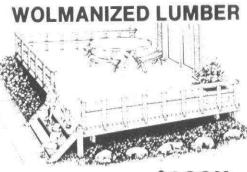

While trying to appraise the size, shape and extent of the recession, an investor can easily overlook a key phenomenon. Market leadership is changing. Some of the issues that have come to the fore are defensive stocks with good earnings potential for the next two years. And there are other stocks which, although not past favorites, demonstrate excellent value at their present price.

This is precisely why astute investors will use the present to good advantage. We may seem adrift in volatile interest rates, unpredictable foreign relations and inconclusive inflation trends. But there could scarcely be a better time for cool appraisal, upgrading stock holdings and nailing down your future investment strategy. To this end, the Kidder, Peabody Investment Strategy report discusses the economic overview, the outlook for the market in general, and some of the specific stocks that seem to be figuring in the new market leadership. # Morrell's Builders place 2nd at Pop Cocco event

Forced to play eight games in a span second inning and then held on for an of 21 hours, Morrell's Builders of Plymouth battled back through the loser's bracket to gain second place in the prestigious Pop Cocco Modified Softball Tournament in Port Huron last

A six-hour rain delay caused tournament officials to run the event non-stop from 3 p.m. Saturday to 12:30 p.m. Sun-

Morrell's, behind the three-hit pitching of Al White, won their tourney opener on Saturday afternoon, 8-0, over Beer Dock of Port Huron.

In the second round, Morrell's faced Platzer's Plumbing of Marysville, the 1979 Michigan state modified champs.

White again pitched brilliantly, allowing only four hits, but he and his teammates came up short in the final count, 2-0.

Designated batter Rob Willette collected the only two Morrell hits.

Knocked into the loser's bracket, Morrell's began to fight its way back.

In a marathon game, the Plymouth squad jumped out to a 13-1 lead in the

THE BUILDERS then met Plymouth League rival Richard's Lounge of Livonia and emerged with a hard-fought 9-7 triumph. Tom Willette's inside-thepark three-run homer sparked Plymouth to the win.

At 3 a.m. Sunday, Morrell's took on Eagen's Drywall of Marysville and breezed to a 7-0 victory as White allowed just two hits.

Mark Crawford added two hits and had three RBIs to avenge an earlier season loss to Eagen's.

In a game played at 5:30 a.m., Morrell's turned back Zebra Bar of Port Huron, 7-4, as cornermen Pete Lomonoco and Brent Boegler each had two hits for the winners.

The victory put Morrell's into the loser's bracket final against heavy-hitting Boddy Construction of Marysville.

Behind White's pitching and the infield play of keystoners Karas and Mark Falvo, Morrell's beat Boddy for the first time in six tries, 11-3.

Morrell's broke open a close game in the fifth inning by tallying 10 runs to grab an 11-2 lead. Centerfielder Steve Robb drove in three runs, and catcher Mike Nye scored three to pace the Builders.

The victory put Morrell's into the championship final for the second straight year against Platzer's. Clinica of Miami, Fla., the 1979 national champ, beat Morrell's for the Pop Cocco crown a year ago.

PLATZER'S took the title by blanking Morrell's for the second time, 4-0.

Willette had two of the three Builders' hits with Robb collecting the other. The two victories by Platzer's avenged two previous losses to Morrell's in the 1979 tournament.

"I'm very proud of our team," said Morrell's manager Rick Grimes. "Time after time we came back. We never gave up."

White was awarded the most valuable pitcher award for the second straight year. He hurled all but two innings in eight games.

Willette and Robb powered the

The two pitchers combined for the second straight game to give Canton a Redford Adray Connie Mack League baseball win, 6-3, over Bishop Borgess Saturday.

Funkhouser hurled the first four innings to gain credit for the win. Lipinski came on for the final three innings to pick up the save.

The longest standing record in the history of the American Bowling Congress tournament was broken during the recent meet in Louisville, but it passed without any fanfare.

It came when Mike Eaton, of Grand Rapids, put together games of 245, 258 and 279 for a 782 series. This shattered the mark set by the late Lee Jouglard when he posted a 775 series as a member of the Detroit Stroh team in 1951. After setting the record, Lee went on to earn a place in the ABC Hall of Fame.

Thousands of bowlers have slid down the approaches since Jouglard played the hero role in one of the most emotional dramas in ABC history. He knew he had to roll a 278 game to set the mark and did it under extreme pressure.

That it was on the books for 29 years is proof his performances that afternoon was a classic. However, it was not the highest series ever rolled in the ABC. It was until the Classic was introduced and the pros made eligible. When that happened Mickey Higbam, of Kansas City, registered an 801 in 1977.

IN A RECENT column, it was mentioned that Dick Beattie, the southpaw who dominated the Detroit bowling scene last season, had six different bowling balls with him when he won the Masters at Bowl-

This prompted a reader to inquire if that was a record. There is nothing listed officially, but it is a record for a challenge match. That honor belongs to a fellow named Jake Bomze, a portly window washer whose specialty was head to head

On a cold winter day somes years ago, he challenged Pete Carter, then an all-star bowler, to a marathon at the old Detroit Recreation. They started at noon and about every hour or two, when his thumb started to swell, Jake ordered a new ball

When he finally admitted, after 84 games, that he couldn't go on, he had six new balls drilled - and he didn't keep any of them. As far as it's known, no one has beaten that

BILL WINKEL, owner of Bel-Aire Lanes, has come up with something new in promotion of the tenpin game. He has organized what he calls the inflation fighters league. And thus far he has quite a few en-

It is a mixed league where he is charging only $1 entry fee plus the cost of bowling. But the real feature is that it is a pot luck affair and it is set up for Mondays.

"I hope to attract the bowlers who no longer can afford the high cost of the regular leagues," he explained. "And it is a chance to enjoy the game and have some fun."

He also reviving the ladies classic for next season and has 145 women already signed to battle for the $1,000 first prize. He hopes to get 160 entries and divide them in to five-women teams, so each of the winners will receive $200.

THE SWITCH to summer hasn't stopped the flow of 700 series' at Westland Bowl.

In the classic trio last week, Larry Walker found the range for games of 256, 236 and 216 for 708.

Meanwhile, Mike Lee missed breaking the 700 barrier by two pins. He opened with 240, followed with 257, then slumped to 201. And in third place Ray Kreuter slumped after a great start and had to settle for a 654.

He opened with 244, but slipped back to 206 and 205 in his last two nia Adray all but destroyed Griffin Sport Shop last weekend in a Livonia Adray League baseball game.

Livonia used an 18-hit attack to crush Griffin, 18-1. Amazingly, Livonia did all the damage in five innings, as the game was stopped at that point due to the mercy rule.

Jim Wilson, Jeff Laverty, Steve Popp and Jim Ross all rapped three hits during the rout. One of Wilson's hits was a three-run home run. He totaled four RBIs.

Jeff Sergison knocked-in four runs with a bases-loaded triple and a single. Livonia exploded for seven runs during the first inning, three in the third and eight more in the fourth. Griffin counted its only run in the first inning. Greg Alcala crossed the plate on a sacrifice fly by Keith Cross-lin. Griffin managed only two hits. Mike Migoski secured the pitching win. In five innings of work he struck out seven and walked only one.

Pat O'Dowd, the first of three Griffin pitchers, took the loss. He was relieved by Chris Mallow in the second inning and Mallow was replaced by Frank Gouture in the fifth.

The London Blitz it wasn't, but Livo- (AWI) of Waterford nipped Wendy's, 4-3, in a game that was stopped after six innings due to curfew. The loss was the fourth in a row by one run for Wendy's.

> AWI produced the winning run with a walk, a sacrifice, a wild pitch and a single. AWI scored their first three runs in the opening inning on a three-run homer by Dan Webster.

Wendy's chipped away after falling behind early. The first run was scored on a passed ball in the first inning, the second on a bases-loaded walk in the second inning and the third on a fielder's choice in the third inning.

Jerry Switalski was the losing pitch-

Jim Belisle singled twice for Wendy's, which totalled six hits. Bruce Stafford drew a pair of walks.

WESTLAND rallied for four runs during the top of the seventh inning to topple Redford Adray, 11-7.

Steve Raymond belted a three-run home run for Westland during that seventh inning. Jim Kuzara knocked in the other run with a single. §
